Corp.-Smith Lambert Home

Another Chesterville man has been gladly welcomed back from the war. Last week Corp-Smith T. W. Lambert, of the 4th C. M. R. who was invalided home, arrived in time to spend Christmas with his wife and family. Like all the returned heroes he is very backward in talking of his own actions, but is sure that Fritz has had all the fighting he wants. As to when the war will end he does not hazard an opinion, and the present great necessity is the pressing need of more men to back up those who have fought and won for their King.

The Cantata "Winter King."

The Sunday School of Trinity Methodist Church, Chesterville, provided the people of Chesterville on Christmas night with another of their annual treats, in which the youthful members of the Sunday School were in their usual glee. This season "King Winter, a cantata of 60 voices, was rendered before an audience that well filled the Music Hall. The cantata was under the direction of Mrs. Jean Howard who was ably assisted in all the stage details of management by Miss Helen Moad. The stage was tastefully decorated as became the Christmas season with the tree and holly. In musical rendition and pleasing costume much praise is due the participants. The Courts of King Winter and Slumberland were a fine piece of staging. King Winter in his regal chair was impersonated by Mr. Fred Bolster and the Queen of Slumberland by Miss Ethelwyn Cross. The vocal work of the courtiers was excellent. Miss Arlie Durant took the part of Joy, Miss Laura Simser and Miss Florence Hummel of Hope and Love while Miss Lena Martin as Mirth, happily presented the indispensable Santa Claus, well taken by Mr. Fred Forward. The interest was sustained to the very close of the third and last scene of the cantata. The choruses were especially well rendered, the musical work being given verbatim.

The audience was kept on the qui vive between the scenes by two fine numbers. Miss Ruth Simser sang "The Gift," in a voice of extraordinary power and sweetness; the second interval between the scenes being occupied with an excellent duette by Misses Elsie Harradine and Wyda Marcellus, who sang "The Angel's Song," which was enthusiastically encored, the ladies responding with, "When Your Boy Comes Back to You."

The chair was taken by the pastor of the church, Rev. H. E. Warren, who in the name of the Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. E. E. Ball, and his school, welcomed the audience, and anticipated the programme by a brief explanation of the cantata.

"IF"

(With apologies to Rudyard Kipling)

If you could know the milk, that your producing,
Was going to bring to you a fair return;
If you had faith that those, to whom your selling,
Made your best service their entire concern;
If you could believe that all the toil and labor
Of hand and mind from rise to set of sun,
That you expend to make your milk the better,
Would bring to you its fruits, so hardly won;
If you could feel, before the hauler left your latch string,
That every cent of value in your cans
Would be returned to you, without your watching
Or worrying because it left your hands;
If you were sure that test and weight, each time you're shipping,
Were rightly made and honestly set down;
If you could trust the Company, with whom you're dealing,
To watch your interests as they would their own;
If all of these you want, and you are willing
To meet halfway the men who meet the same,
To us, you'll send your milk before the morning,
And to your Service we will pledge our name.

NATIONAL SERVICE WEEK.

Every Man in Canada Will Have a Card to Fill Out Soon.

National Service Week is drawing very near and the fact that the first week of the New Year bears that title is something in which everyone in Canada has an interest. The men are interested because it is obligatory upon each of them, between the ages of 16 and 65 years, to fill out one of the cards which the Government is sending to them through the Postoffice authorities. The women are interested because their co-operation is being invited, in seeing that their menfolk attend to this important duty. The children are interested because their school teachers have explained to them the meaning of National Service and the way in which father and the big brothers at home have to reply to the various questions.

To write in the answers and return the card promptly is a good New Year's resolution for every man throughout the Dominion and it has the advantage of being easy of fulfilment. It only means a few minutes' careful thought. The postman in the cities gets the hard work, for he has not only to deliver the cards; he is responsible also for their proper return. Prompt mailing of the answers will make the postman's work very much easier.

National Service means that we are to get into that frame of mind which will cause us to think of the needs of the country, to realize that the interests of the State have a greater claim on us than our self-interest. This applies to everyone, from the highest in the land to the lowest. The Prince of Wales' motto "I serve" may well be the motto of every citizen of the British Empire at this time.

There are many ways of serving the nation besides going to the front. The men on the farm and the mechanic in the workshop may be serving the nation as usefully as the man in the trenches. Every man should be doing the work which represents his most efficient service to his country.

The war is teaching us, or should be teaching us, great lessons. Terrible as are its effects, those who have faith in Canadian manhood hope and believe that the nation will emerge from this experience a stronger and a better people. If the meaning of National Service is thoroughly grasped and properly understood, if the Government's call for information is responded to in the right spirit, the coming year will be the banner year in Canada's history.

Money Cabled to the Soldiers.

The following letter was received by the Sec'y-treas. of the Dundas Children's Red Cross Fund.

77 King St. East, Toronto,
Dec. 15th, 1916.

Miss K. M. Shannette,
Sec'y-treas.
Children's Red Cross Fund,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Miss Shannette,—

I am this morning in receipt of your letter of the 15th inst., enclosing a cheque for $2606.94 being the result of a campaign carried on by the teachers and pupils of Dundas County. This money I have this morning forwarded to England with instructions that Christmas gifts be purchased for soldiers in the trenches, as desired. Fearing that it might be delayed I have sent cable instructions that the money was on the way, so that they may be able to carry out your wishes in time for Christmas.

I shall be glad if you will on behalf of the committee having charge of the gifts for soldiers in the trenches, namely, the Canadian War Contingent Association, return their sincere thanks for this wonderfully generous gift. It must be a great source of satisfaction to the teachers and pupils to have succeeded so well in their efforts.

I have read your letter which contained the remittance with interest, and purpose to give it some consideration in order that some good may come of your suggestions.

Again thanking you and wishing you the compliments of the season,

Yours sincerely,
Noel Marshall,
Chairman Ex-Committee.

The following contributions were received too late to be included in the first gift but will be forwarded and receipt of the same sent to the contributors.

No. 1, Williamsburg, Miss Cleland, $20.50.

No. 6, Matilda, Miss Milligan, $2 00.

No. 10, Mountain, Miss Leslie, 80cts.

(This contribution from Miss Leslie makes for No. 10, Mountain, the handsome total of $75.10.)

K. M. Shannette,
Sec'y-treas.

Nothing in motors touches the Willys-Knight — it dominates by performance that puts everything else in the shade.

And your senses tell you nothing of its performance--

Except that you have effortless --almost supernatural--control of motion at any desired speed.

Of course such a quiet, smooth, soft performance means absence of wear.

Willys-Knights actually get better as they grow old and are virtually everlasting.

Presentation to Organist of Trinity Methodist Church

The programme of Christmas music given by Mrs. Howard and her choir of Trinity Methodist Church, Chesterville, last Sunday morning and evening was of a high class, and won praise from many, who were at the services. Notwithstanding Mrs. Howard's heavy responsibility in training the Sunday School for the fine rendition of the Cantata "King Winter", her choir were in splendid form for the above services. A pleasing surprise awaited her on Christmas Day, when she was presented with the following address, accompanied by a purse from members of her choir and the congregation.

Mrs. Jean Howard,
Organist, Trinity Methodist Church, Chesterville,
Dear Friend;—

We, members of the choir of our church, embrace this opportunity of extending to you as our leader and organist the greetings of this glad Christmas Day, and this joyous season of good-will to men. In this expression we are joined by a number of your friends who share a deep interest in your welfare and happiness.

We beg to remind you, that your splendid efforts to make the musical services of the church of a high order have been appreciated by us and by the people, whom you are aiming to serve. The responsibility, that falls upon you of selecting the best class of music, that will serve the demands of the varying occasions, the painstaking care necessary to develop the talents of your choir, and the zeal you ever show in your profession, have commanded our admiration of your services, as of one above the average.

We wish to a sure you of our continued support and co-operation and beg you to accept the accompanying token, as a pledge of our sincerity and good-will.

Wishing you again all the blessings of the Christmas time.

On behalf of the members of the choir and your friends.

H. E. Warren, Pastor,
Mrs. James Cunningham, for members of choir.

Have You A Man ?
To make glad Christmas Morn

It matters not whether it be husband, friend or son you wish to remember it will bring pleasure to you and to them if you make a choice from the many suitable articles we are showing.

LET US SUGGEST

ANOTHER TIE
Every man can appreciate another tie just as a girl can a fancy collar, We have the very newest patterns each in a gift box. Select one of these and we will put it away until the Saturday before Christmas for you, ir you wish.

A BOX OF COLLARS
Big brother would be tickled to death with them. If you should not know the correct size likely we do or he can change them.

SUSPENDERS AND GARTERS
Always most acceptable gifts for any man or boy.

SILK MUFFLERS
Every man really needs one when wearing fur coats. They keep the collars clean and are very cosy.

GLOVES
Many kinds to choose from at all prices. You are never far astray in giving a boy gloves or mitts.

SWEATER COATS
What could be nicer for the boys and for the "old man" too, than a sweater coat. We have a good many different kinds and sizes.

TRAVELLING BAGS
For short trips there is nothing just so handy as a club bag. Let all hands join in and make a joint-gift to the home. All can use it.

SCHOOL SATCHELS
Eittle suit cases for carrying the books in. The young folks are are proud to carry them.

Winchester Township

Reeve—George Earle, Ezra Countryman.
Deputy-Reeve—Frank Fraser, J. A, Bogart.
Councillors—W. Hamilton, S. Fulton, M. J. Hess, G. Quart, A. St. Pierre, J. Cumming, R. McVey.

Nomination meeting for Winchester township was held in Winchester town hall on Friday last when the following were nominated for the different offices within the hour fixed by law for receiving the same.

For Reeve—Frank Fraser, James F. Ault, George Earle, Ezra Countryman, Samuel Howes, Walter Rae and Patrick Kirby.

For Deputy-Reeve—Frank Fraser, S. Fulton, J. A. Bogart, Geo. Quart and W. Rae.

For Councillors—S. Fulton, W. Hamilton, M. J. Hess, A. W. Reveler, Walter Moffatt, Edward Gillard, John Cumming, Robert McVey, Geo. Quart, Abram St. Pierre, Arthur Christie.

At the close of the nomination proper, the Returning-Officer was voted to the chair for the annual ratepayers' meeting.

Mr. Earle, reeve for the past year, went very thoroughly over the year's business and was able to show that although the township rate had been raised somewhat the balance at the township's credit was sufficient to account for it. This amount of four thousand dollars having been received from the Dominion government after the rate for the year had been fixed. Financially the township is in the best position for a number of years. Mr. Earle was listened to attentively by the large crowd who had faced the storm to be present.

Mr. Fraser, Deputy-Reeve, for the past year, was also well received by the ratepayers, and proved that he was thoroughly acquainted with the different phases of municipal activity.

Councillors Hess, Fulton and Hamilton, each in turn addressed the assembly and received an attentive hearing.

The chairman then asked for permission to call upon Mr. Lawson, township solicitor to explain the matter in dispute between Winchester Village and the Township over the High School rates. This being granted, Mr. Lawson, in his well-known thorough manner, went carefully through all the different phases of the school situation, showing in a clear and convincing manner the unfairness to the Township of the legislation of 1916, for which certain parties in Winchester Village are blamed, and of which they are certainly trying to take advantage. He also showed how the offer of the Township of a settlement without going to law was more than fair and only made with the object of saving expensive litigation, No wonder the parties who are alleged to have misled the Minister of Education in this matter (one of whom was supposed to be present) are ashamed to own the orphan.

Mr. E. Countryman, who has served the township in the past both as Councillor and Deputy-Reeve, was the next speaker. He has lost none of his vim in tackling the knotty points in finances, acd handed out considerable criticism of certain expenditures during the year.

Jas. F. Ault contented himself with criticising the action of the council of the past year in certain appointments made by them, and objecting that the printing was not properly distributed.

Samuel Howes had only good things to say of last year's council.

Walter Rae thought a mistake had been made in entering into the Counties' Good Roads scheme.

P. Kirby praised the work of the past year.

Thos. Ellis by S. Bogart and W. Hamilton.

In the absence of Clerk Elliot, who was detained beyond the hour of opening, the nominations were received by Mr. W. J. Cass, after waiting the fifteen minutes provided for by the statute, One might be forgiven for judging that interest in municipal affairs was at fever heat when they scan the list of names placed on the nomination papers with the movers and seconders. In all the grand total is sixty-six, but it is doubtful if at any stage of the proceedings two-thirds of that number were in the hall at one time. Any who were present and not nominated need not feel hurt as their turn may come at the next nomination.

When the time limit had expired for withdrawals the big list had simmered down to a contest between W. Hamilton and G. W. Bogart for the reeveship, with F. W. Merkley, T. Ellis and Isaac Pelletier elected by acclamation to the council and a new nomination necessary for the fourth member.

The school trustees elected for a two year term are Dr. Miles Brown, T. J. McGee and Robert McEwen, with Chas. Fulton for one year to complete the term of F. W. Merkley.

Electors of Chesterville.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—I am a candidate for Reeve of the village for 1917. I solicit your support and influence and if elected will at all times endeavor to serve you in the best interests of the whole municipality. As this is a time when the strictest economy should be practised by all governments, if elected economy will be my policy for 1917. Wishing you one and all the compliments of the season,

Yours sincerely
G. W. Bogart.

NOTICE,

Having been informed that my opponent is circulating a report that I, if elected, will abolish statute labor. I take this opportunity to say that such is not my intention. I trust that the electors will not be misled by this or any other false report.

Fine Entertainment at Morewood

On of the finest programs ever rendered in the Morewood Hall was given on Christmas night by the Presbyterian Sunday School. From start to finish every item was well given and the interest of the audience well sustained. The little boys made a fine beginning by reciting "Spelling Christmas" and "Santa is coming" in their own naive and comical style and in answer to a storm of applause returned to show us how "the Morewood Limited Express" is started. But they were almost excelled by the little girls in their graceful and "cute" execution of a pretty and amusing fan drill. A timely topic for this year's program was introduced in the form of a tableau entitled "The Doom of King Alcohol" which represented that Tyrant about to be felled to the earth by a blow from "Miss Ballot", while the gravedigger stood prepared at the ready open grave. This was accompanied by an appropriate prohibition recitation and song, Another picture in lighter vein, was a shadow pantomime, depicting the ludicrous adventure of an amourous swain and an over-zealous cop. Among the pieces of an educative and patriotic nature must be mentioned the exercises entitled 'Canada our Homeland" and "The War on the Western Front." The splendid resources of our fair Dominion will never be forgotten by the boys who took part in the first of these, dressed as they were to represent the fisherman, miner, rancher, farmer etc. while a very clear and lasting impression of the part played in the present war by each of the Allies must remain with every one of the twenty girls participating in the second named patriotic piece. Distinguished by the colors and emblems of each ally and ushered in by the strains of its national music, five girls recited in a spirited and intelligent manner the beautiful and rousing verses of Miss Edith Lelean. As Belgian, French, British and Canadian knitters passed in review the audience was fairly carried away with sympathy and enthusiasm.

Rev, K. A. Gollan had at this stage, the pleasing duty to perform of reading a highly creditrble report of the attendance and contributions to missions of the Sunday School and presenting 16 prizes for perfect attendance and 6 for memorizing Scripture. Junior Membership certificates in the W. M. S. with pins were also presented to little Miss Lillian Shaver and Master Maurice Wilson from the Crusaders Mission Band.

The program concluded with a lively little sketch, "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone" which was well received. Miss Gladys Feely as "Mary the cook" kept the audience in merriment with her witty sallies and disastrous mixing of telephone numbers.

"Best ever" were the keywords of the hearty congratulations expressed by appreciative individuals in the audience to the energetic and painstaking committee.

To the Electors of Chesterville:

Being a candidate for the Reeveship for the coming year, I solicit your support and invite comparison between the administration of affairs under myself and under my opponent.

No Council came into power at a more opportune time than the Council of 1913. Standing as given by Auditors' Report, compare the roads built under the superintendence of that Reeve and Council with those built during the last two years. When the granolithic walks were constructed in 1913, the stone used in their construction was charged to the village, instead of the "sidewalk account" yet in spite of this the walks, I am told, cost 19c per square foot, and these, as well as a number of private walks constructed during the same administration were not paid for until I came into office. The walks constructed by myself and Council cost about 11½c per square foot.

Though the Reeve for 1913-14 told you from the platform that the debenture paid for the electric plant, and was supported in the statement by the gentleman of deficient memory, yet the Government Report shows his statement to be incorrect.

During the last two years, I, with the Council you elected to assist me, have reduced tne debentures of the village about $6000. If elected I will do my best to serve you and give fair play to all and favour none.

Yours respectfully
W. Hamilton.

VITAL RAILWAY LINES AT FRONT.

A writer in the Windsor Magazine a short time ago said that the British army had built nearly 1,000 miles of railway behind its lines in France and Flanders. This seemed a tremendous achievement, but when one reflects that Canada is sending 1,000 miles of railway to the front, some faint notion is received of the construction campaign that is under way. A record that staggers the world to-day is surpassed to-morrow and the day after is like a record made on a high-wheel bicycle. Railways are just as important as shells for winning this war, for without the railways the shells could not get to the front. This is one department in which we have not yet caught up to Germany. Behind her at home she has all her own wonderful system of strategic railroads, and in addition has the French and Belgian roads which she has seized as well as the many she has built in the past two years. It is because of her railway systems that she won her most notable victories early in the war. She could shuttle troops from the Western to the Eastern front, and could abolish practically one of these fronts. In effect her railroads gave her the advantage of fighting on one front, and that the front she selected,

Germany began the construction of her military railroads against France and Russia many years ago. They were as frankly military in their design as a fortress. Many of them would not earn the grease for their wheels as commercial projects. Russia, though she could not build important strategic railroads of her own, took a step that tended to counter Germany's move. She decided to break the gauge at her frontier. The German railroads were built according to the European standard of about 4 feet 8½ inches. Russia built her railroads 5 feet 9½ inches. So that a train that ran through Germany to the Russian border would not be able to go any further until the Russian rails had been torn up and laid down again. In order to facilitate the despatch of perishable commodities some trains were constructed with adjustable axles, but the quantity of this rolling stock was so small as to be negligible from a military point of view. France and Belgium had no such protection. The only way in which they could block the invaders was to destroy the tracks, and blow up the bridges as they retreated.

Tourists in Germany before the war were struck by the fact that every freight car they saw was marked with the number of men and horses it could transport another plain evidence that war was at the back of the mind of the managers of the German railroads. They also observed that on reaching a station the engine drivers and guards saluted the station master as though they were soldiers reporting to an officer. It was well known, too, that a part of Germany's preparation for war was the building and destroying of railway lines. Their construction battalions were trained on a thirty mile railway that runs out of Berlin. Regularly it would be dynamited, its bridges and culverts destroyed, its ties burned, and the military construction gangs, working under a stop watch, would get the road in shape again in as few hours, minutes and seconds as was possible. A German engineer devised a portable bridge 90 feet long which the German armies were taught to throw across a stream in an incredibly short space of time. In fact they were as well drilled and trained as firemen are in a civilized country. They were immeasurably more advanced in these matters than any of the Allies, but the latter are catching up to them.

Exact figures are not available, but it is probable that there are tens of thousands of railwaymen, laborers and others employed upon the British and French lines today. Often their work is as dangerous as that of the infantry in charge. They have to lay and repair tracks under heavy fire. They have to operate their trains in the midst of an engagement, and if the enemy can locate a line it will devote as many shells to its destruction as to a line of trenches or an advancing body of men. The railways they build are of all sizes, from the standard gauges to the mono-rails that operate down the trenches and the little toy roads, with rails already bolted together, that can be laid down almost as fast as a man can walk. The cars vary as greatly. Some are not much larger than a boy's sleigh. Others are larger than any ever constructed before the war. The latter are used for hauling the great howitzers which throw a 1,400-pound shell ten miles. These guns are never removed from the trucks, nor the trucks from the rails, whether the guns are in action or silent.

While every allowance is made for motor transport, the fact remains that the great bulk of the hauling to and from the battle lines in France is done on railroads, whether by hand cars or huge locomotives. In one week's attack north of Verdun it is estimated that the Germans threw 2,400,000 four-inch shells and 600,000 larger ones, a total weight of 47,000 tons. So that 140 large trains, each carrying 200 tons, were necessary to assemble this mountain of munition. To take Hill 304 on the Meuse thirty-seven trainloads of ammunition, each of forty cars were necessary. In the first four weeks of the Somme offensive British gunners fired 5,000,000 shells of all sizes. These shells had to be conveyed for the most part to artillery cunningly concealed in positions remote from any of the well-known roads. Going back the railways move the guns which have to be overhauled, and everything else that cannot be moved by motor trucks or horses. The men laying down the rails from Canada behind the British army will work in the sure knowledge that their picks and shovels are doing as much to win the war as the rifles in the front trenches.

Teaching Soldiers' Wives.

Aside from looking after the immediate financial wants of the dependents of Canadian soldiers, the officers of the Canadian Patriotic Fund have, where practicable, widened the scope of its energies so as to embrace the moral and social welfare of those whom the exigencies of war have thrown into their keeping. In hundreds of cases soldiers will return from the war to better wives and to better homes. The Fund workers are grappling at the very roots of the social problem when they disregard the effect and at once seek the cause. A purified home is not an atmosphere for degraduation and crime. The Canadian Patriotic organization aims to lift its charges not only above want while their husbands are battling for our freedom across the seas, but with a far-sighted vision of the future is enhancing the home environments of wives and children so that in the years that are to follow this exhausting struggle the present youth of the nation will become an asset to the State.

In thousands of home throughout Canada women are being taught domestic science, the care of children, buying and the keeping of house accounts. Charity is not bestowed on these dependents. They are simply given an opportunity to be better citizens, the effect of which while obscure for the moment, will yield rich results in generations to follow.

When the Patriotic Fund is supported by those of us who cannot fight we are helping ourselves, not only the recipients.

How She Did it

The climax came when they met on Christmas Day at a friend's house. It was at dinner-time. "You see," he explained, as he showed her the wishbone, "you take hold here. Then we must both make a wish and pull, and when it breaks the one who has the biggest part of it will have his or her wish granted." "But I don't know what to wish for," she protested. "Oh, you can think of something," he said, "No, I can't," she replied. "I can't think of anything I want very much." "Well, I'll wish for you," he exclaimed. "Will you, really?" she asked. "Yes." Well, then, there,s no use fooling with the old wishbone," she interrupted with a glad smile, "You can have me."

A Hen Secretary.

He had worked for the farmer nine years, and was apparently contented until his employer added poultry-raising to his list of activities. Then he had to write on each egg, with an indelible pencil, the date and the name of the hen that laid the egg. One day he marched up to his employer and announced: "I'm going to leave." The farmer was astonished. "Why are you going to leave," he asked, "after working for me all these years?" "Well," said the man stoutly, "I've done pretty near everything about this place now, but I'll starve before I'll go on being secretary to your old hens."

Sir Sam Hughes says Compulsory Service Best

Lindsay, Ont., December 25—On Sunday night, Christmas Eve, General Sir Sam Hughes, before a large audience here in his home town, under the auspices of the Citizens' Recruiting League for Victoria and Haliburton came out publicity and fearlessly in favor of immediate compulsory military service. In his remarks, Sir Sam branded as a failure the National Service Commission. Four months' valuable time, he said, had already been lost and four months more elapse before even the returns would be ready. In short, it would mean a year before the commission could begin to operate, and even then this basis of action would be very chaotic. However good had been done in interesting the Canadian public.

At the outbreak of war, within six weeks from the acceptance of Canada's offer, thirty-three thousand were assembled from points 40,000 miles apart, were clothed, were trained and marching to the steamers for Europe, said the speaker. These men had proven themselves second to none in the world. They were a truly democratic citizen—soldiers army, "but now prompt and decisive must be the mandate," said General Hughes.

Following more particularly the lines of his Toronto Empire Club and Metropolitan church speeches, as well as letter of October to Sir Robert Borden, all favoring compulsory service, General Hughes demanded the immediate calling out of all single men from 18 to 45 years of age, and not exempted under the law, for actice service training, under the Canadian Militia Act for the defence of Canada. This, he stated can be done under the act as it now stands—to remove doubt regarding overseas service the Militia Act, he said, should be so amended that the Canadian militia could be sent by Canada overseas to assist in the cause of human liberty. He said that under his proposal there would be at least two hundred to three hundred thousand men ready for the front within four months from inception of the plan.

A great national and private expense of the present systems of recruiting would be saved if a uniform system fair to all alike would be established.

The audience seemed surprised that General Hughes did not make a reference to the cause of his leaving the Cabinet, but no word fell from his lips on politics or concerning his colleagues.

Interviewed after his address as to how Quebec Province would accept his plans, Sir Sam replied quickly: "As I pointed out in my remarks tonight, if the British fleet should suffer disaster and Germany become dominant on the sea, there is nothing to prevent von Hindenburg from landing an army on our eastern coast next spring and practically without serious opposition, crossing to the Pacific, leaving a trail akin to that in Belgium, France and Poland behind him."

"I firmly believe, and have reason for the belief," said Sir Sam, "that Quebec Province in common with all other parts of Canada will loyally respond to the call to arms for universal training at once, and that compulsory overseas service will follow as a matter of course. In such a crisis compulsory service is the only fair plan."

She—Why are all the vessels spoken of as "she?" Because they all glide so beautifully, isn't it?

He—No; it's because their rigging costs so much.

For the Returned Soldier's Welfare.

The following letter received by Corp. T. W. Lambert since his return from overseas shows the solicitude of those in authority for the returned soldiers.

Toronto, Dec. 23rd, 1916.

Corp.-Shoeing-Smith, T. W. Lambert,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—

I am directed by the Soldiers' Aid Commission to express to you their pleasure at your return to Ontario; and likewise to congratulate you on the services you have been able to render to your King and Country in the great war so vitally affecting the interests of the Empire.

I can assure you that your services are highly appreciated, and, on behalf of the people of the Province, members of the Soldiers' Aid Commission will be pleased to be of assistance to you in getting you re-established in the community and taking up such employment as you may feel yourself capable of.

In order to assist the Commission in giving you a helping hand, I now enclose a form containing certain questions, and would request you to fill in the answers to same, and return it to me in the enclosed envelope as soon as possible

I shall acknowledge receipt and take active steps to aid you in any way we can.

Yours faithfully,
J. Warwick
Secretary.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of muscous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Capt. Baker Writes to his Mother.

The following interesting letter was recently received by Mrs. Jno. Baker, mother of Capt. W. J. Baker, who organized the Chesterville platoon of the 154th Battalion.

London, Nov. 16th.

Dear Mother,

We have been in England over three weeks now. I like the country splendid, in fact England is the prettiest place that I have seen.

We crossed over on the Mauretania, the fastest vessel afloat. The Titanic was built to beat the Mauretania. We were a little less than five days coming and landed at Liverpool. We are at Bramshott Camp.

I have been in London a week now on leave and have seen more than I could ever tell or describe. I spent nearly a day in London Tower, where all the prisoners were kept in olden days. I could write pages about the old tower.

I was over to Buckingham Palace and saw where Queen Alexandria lives, the Duke of Wellington's old home, and Lord Kitchener's home, and have been through Hyde Park several times. I also saw the Albert Memorial, costing three and one-half million dollars. It is said to be the finest monument in the world. I also visited the Parliament Buildings (which contains House of Lords and Commons), was through Westminster Abbey and was also at St. Paul's Cathedral.

I forgot to mention that I saw all the crown jewels in the Tower. Here I visited the rooms where Walter Raleigh, Anne Bolyn, Lady Jane Gray and a score of others were held prisoners, and stood on the spot where they were executed, visited the chapel where they went when prisoners, and they are now buried there. On the walls are carving, etc., that the prisoners made while in prison. Well, I could write a long while on what I have seen, so I guess I will cut it short for now.

I was also in the "Old Curiosity Shop", just as it was years ago. Have been through Picadilly and Leicester Square dozens of times.

It is warm here. We go around without overcoats,

Everything is very dear, a square meal costs about $1.00, sometimes more.

I get lost, in fact don't know where I am half the time, but when I cannot find my way back I get a car and I am soon back. You have no idea what London is like, over 8,000,000 people here. I have been on the go steady for a week, and haven't seen the one thousandth part of it. I was also over to London Bridge.

In this London Tower is a chapel which was built about 1066 to which William the Conqueror went to church. I was also to the National Art Gallery which contains thousands of painting by the world's best painters.

I am going back to camp tonight. I am tired of travelling around.

I didn't get seasick coming over, but came near it. One Sunday night the boat rocked so bad that it would throw you from one side of the bed to the other and I do not think anyone slept very much. The other two battalions started about ten days from Kingston before we did but we got in just one day behind them. They were escorted but we were without any. They say our boat was too fast for an escort to keep up, but we got here anyhow.

I met thousands of men here from Australia, New Zealand, and dear knows where the rest come from.

Well goodnight,
WALTER.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. L. M. McCreary.

The death occurred on Friday morning, Dec. 15th, of Mrs. McCreary, the beloved wife of Rev. L. M. McCreary, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Dunbar. The deceased had been in poor health for some time, having sustained a broken leg while visiting her son in Montreal.

The funeral was held in St. Luke's Church on Monday, Dec. 18th. when Rev. J. Maurer of Williamsburg, preached a most eloquent sermon, taking for his text, John, 14th Chapter, verses 1 to 6.

He was assisted in the service by Rev. Dr. Little of St. Paul's church, Morrisburg. After the service the body was removed to her old home in Pennsylvania for burial.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Rev. Mr. McCreary of Dunbar; her daughter Gertrude in college in Pennsylvania and two sons, Dr. H. McCreary and Clarence of Montreal. The congregation and residents of Dunbar extend their deepest sympathy to Rev. McCreary and family in their loss.

In Memoriam.

On the death of Fanny Pearl Orlean Merkley, aged 8 years, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Merkley, Chesterville, who died on Nov. 18th, 1916.

Farewell darling, you have left us,
No more with us here to dwell,
God has sent to thee a message,
Bade thee haste where all is well.

Pain, severe, did heave thy bosom,
Chastening darts were sent to thee,
But spake the voice of thy gentle Master,
"Suffer child, then come to Me."

The family circle now is broken,
Its frailest link has been removed;
At Heaven's gate we hope to meet thee,
If to God we faithful prove.

Our home is sad, our hearts are lonely,
The precious voice we loved is stilled,
As God's own way, we humbly bow to,
For Heavenly bliss He had thee willed.

Then, farewell, our darling daughter,
Till we meet on Heaven's shore;
That when life's day to us is ended,
We hope to meet and part no more.

THE FAMILY.

Winter Term from January 2nd, 1917.

The managers and faculty of the Cornwall Commercial College realize that the school has taken such rank among the commercial schools of the country, and has secured such a measure af public confidence that by earnest effort alone can they hope to fully meet the expectations of its large constituency. That effort shall not be wanting. The success of the past shall afford inspiration for the future. The C. C. C. has long been a leader in the march of progress in this department of education, and it is the intention of those into whose hands its interests are placed to so improve it that its position shall each year be more clearly defined.

Commercial education has never before attracted so much of public attention as it is receiving at the present time, nor was the value of work which commercial schools are accomplishing ever before so thoroughly appreciated.

A graduating course of study in the Cornwall Commercial College means something. It has no relation to those courses of study that give only a smattering of bookkeeping and writing, but it stands for preparation for the realities of life. It stands for attainments that are available in the markets of the commercial world; it stands for knowledge that makes the possessor a stronger and more successful man and a more useful citizen.

Our next term begins on Tuesday, January 2nd, 1917, and it would afford us great pleasure to enroll you on that date. 60 new typewriting machines, up-to-date equipment, expert teachers, and free employment department are only a few of our special features. Further information cheerfully furnished.—Address—Cornwall Commercial College, Cornwall, Ont.

Dundas Schools Effort Approved

That the means of raising funds for the soldiers benefit taken up by the schools of Dundas County, has met with the heartiest approval is well shown by the notice it has received in the daily press. In referring to the plan followed the Mail and Empire had the following editorial in Saturday's paper—"What the schools of Dundas County have done to make Christmas happier for many of our men at the front deserves publicity not only for the purpose of giving credit where it is due, but for commending the good example to the schools of other counties.

The movement was started by the teachers. At the convention of the County Teachers' Institute, held in Chesterville in October, it was resolved that the teachers should assist the pupils to raise a Christmas gift fund for the men in the trenches. A secretary-treasurer was appointed to receive contributions. The matter was taken up with enthusiasm. In the two months that have passed since the resolution was adopted upwards of $2,600 has been raised. Under the direction of the teachers the pupils did most of the work. It would be a grand thing if the schools of every county in Ontario could show that they labored with equal success to add to the Christmas cheer of our men at the front.

In carrying out the resolution of the Dundas County Teachers' institute the pupils took part in a campaign of education that would have an influence to unfold qualities and powers of their own it is even more desirable to cultivate than their purely intellectual endowments. Considerable as is the good done to the soldiers who receive the Christmas gifts, far greater is the educational good done to the pupils themselves. Henceforth it must be more and more a matter of policy on the part of the educational authorities to develop in pupils the qualities that were exercised in the work of this Soldiers' Christmas Fund Campaign. It is in the highest degree necessary that boys and girls attending school should have instilled there lessons in thrift, in self-control, and in patriotism. As the writer of the letter referred to well says, the schooling in self-denial ought not to be left to such occasional movements as this for the raising of a soldiers' Christmas fund. It ought to be going on all the time. It ought to be part of the systematic school course. To inculcate habits of self-control, under which the pupil becomes so well disciplined that he does not fail to deposit regularly in the school bank and give to this or that good cause according to plan, the teacher should have the authority of a department regulation, and there should be the educational apparatus for carrying on such a course. Pupils should not only undergo training in self-denial, but they should be taught that the causes for which they are asked to make small sacrifices are well worthy of their giving."

"What do you suppose has come over my husband this morning, Sophia," exclaimed a conscientious little bride to the new servant. I never saw him start down-town so happy. He's whistling like a bird!"

"I'm afraid I'm to blame, mum, I got the packages mixed this morning and give him birdceed instead of his regular breakfast food, mum."

The Record to any address in Canada for 12 months for One Dollar.

FROM BIRTH TO BURIAL.

The Hamilton Branch of the Patriotic Fund finds room for its energies everywhere.

In Hamilton the Canadian Patriotic Fund has 25 guardian accounts for children in Homes, for women who are not able to handle their own money. To these accounts are deposited the proceeds of sales of properties made on behalf of soldiers. The number of these accounts is increasing monthly, many of the dependents having recently asked that the Fund be to some extent heir bankers.

The Hamilton Fund owns a cemetery plot in which has been buried, since the formation of the Branch, 78 children, wives and other dependents of men of the C. E. F.

The fund has at the present time an employment department, where are listed those desirous of obtaining situations, and each day some of these are brought into contact with people desiring their services.

The social service work extends far afield, everything being done that is possible to protect the women, to restore to their home such as have gone astray, and to strengthen the moral fibre of the weak. A few illustrations will show how thoroughly the officials of the Fund do this work.

An enlisted man had been earning $15 a week. His wife, apparently had been always a bad manager. There were five children and with the man's enlistment she was in receipt of $70 a month. She immediately contracted debts for a baby carriage and some furniture, and the end of each month found her without any ready money. The eldest child, a girl of eleven years, did some of the buying and the consequence was extravagence The Hamilton Fund arranged with a lady helper to receive the allowance from the Fund and disbursed it on account of the children. The eldest child was sent to an Industrial Home temporarily and the family placed on a better footing generally. The man has since returned. The daughter has been brought home and the affairs of the family are in such a position that the man himself has felt free to again offer himself for enlistment.

Another man, an exceptionally desirable type of soldier, left his little family, at the time of the Second Contingent, happily situated in a nice home with a warrant officer's pay and allowance. All seemed to go well until the wife developed a mental trouble which made it necessary to remove her to an asylum for insane. The Fund took charge of the household, placed the four children in care of a competent housewife, kept the home intact, the insurance paid and made application for the return of the enlisted man. The prompt attention to the case will undoubtedly result in a permanent cure of the unfortunate woman and the man will be in his own home to welcome his wife when she is able to return.

In one case a wife had so mis-conducted herself that it finally became necessary to take proceedings through the Children's Aid Society, and her two small boys were placed in a Home. For a time it appeared that this meant the final collapse of the woman's will power, but repeated interviews, some small kindly acts, some little payments of old accounts, the adjustment of back taxes, relief from pressing creditors, brought from the soldier's wife a promise that she would work and remove herself from the companions that had caused her much trouble. This woman has now for months past been working steadily, visiting her children regularly, buying clothes for them, and depositing monthly with the Patriotic Fund her separation allowance and assigned pay. This is being used towards the payments on her home, and in addition she has made some deposits of money earned by herself by her daily work in a factory.

"Butternuts" Playful Comment

The following letter appeared in an Ottawa paper, written by a man well known to Chesterville people.

Editor Citizen;—Will you permit me publicly to thank the members of the city council for their very commendable action at Monday's council meeting re "Oleomargerine"?

If Mayor Porter succeeds in bringing us through the year with "a surplus" in the civic treasury, and a prospect of oleomargerine on our tables, he deserves to be reelected for life, I think.

I was so pleased when I read the good news that I composed a song—words and music—in commemoration of the event.

The Chorus runs;—

"O Margerine, cheap Margerine,
Delicious, oily Margerine:
I hail thee as my household queen,
O Margerine, cheap Margerine,
I long for thee, I sigh for thee,
My children even cry for thee:
My wife has got her eye on thee,
O Margerine, cheap Margerine."

It is written in the key of M. with a sub-harmony in the key of B. flat, indicating the passing of butter.

In this connection—now that the prices of cereals are reaching such an altitude—would it not be possible, I wonder, to utilize the millions of tons of sawdust lying at the bottom of the Ottawa river as a sort of "filler" in the preparation of our modern "breakfast foods?"

Like oleomargerine, I have no doubt it could be made "chemically pure," and it would surely be "cheap". With plenty of cheap substitutes for our staple articles of diet; the extension of the franchise to women: the taxation of land values, etc., Canada should soon prove an ideal place to live in, I fancy. Incidentally, Mr. Editor, do you not think the Citizen owes Canadian wage earners an apology for helping to foist this abnomination upon them?—JOHN LYONS 51 Leonard Ave., Ottawa.

Where is Boasted German Efficiency ?

Extract from a letter from an Englishman to a friend in New York :—

When people talk to you again of German efficiency, do ask where it comes in. Is it on the Marne, when a slight push from Gen. Foch drove them flying back for sixty miles, or at Ypres, where a little British army assisted by Belgians on the Yser and French at Dixmude beat off between Oct. 16 and Nov. 11, 1914, 600,000 of the real Prussian soldiers—most of whom are dead today ? Was it at Verdun where 200,000 French kept three times their number at bay for six months, and in six hours reconquered what the Germans took from Feb. 25, to Aug. 31, 1916? Or on the Somme, where the French and in four months have captured over 600 of the strongest fortresses the world has ever seen ? Or in Egypt, where thousands of wretched Turks were led to their doom ? Or in Armenia, now entirely Russian, made so after the most wonderful winter campaign in history against the great Turkish infantry led by German officers ? Or even in Russia, where, having advanced 200 miles, they were held up for months by Russians who often had not one rifle to three men, and who are now pushing them back ? Or in German South West Africa? Or the Cameroons? Or German East Africa ? Or in Northern China ? Or in the Pacific Isles, on which millions of developement money had been lavished and which were a perpetual threat to the United States occupation of the Philippines and even of Honolulu ? Or on the sea, where a navy which cost $1,500,000,000 is lying idle in the Kiel Canal and not one German ship flying a German flag is to be seen above water on the wide ocean? Believe me, all that is inefficiency, the inefficiency of the man who makes a beautiful machine, and cannot repair it when it runs down, because he lacks initiative and his training has never taught him how to deal with situations which he has not conceived himself. Little Belgium ? Yes, for the moment. Little Serbia ? Yes, with the assistance of that double-faced traitor, Ferdinand, but where else ? Greece ! Oh ! Or was it in the poison gas and lachrymatory shells, which are now returned to them ten to one ?

Do you suppose Germany could have transported a million soldiers from the Dominions across the ocean home to trainwi thout losing a man ? Or sent three to four millions of men with every ounce of their munitions and stores to France and kept them supplied without losing one ? Or improvised in two years an army which is now beating the best German troops to flitters and which is made up of clerks, barristers, solicitors, miners, carpenters, laborers, not one of whom had any conception of the business of war, the most difficult, the most complicated and the most expensive all businesses ? Guns ? Ours are bigger and better. Aeroplanes ? Ours drive the Germans out of the sky. Zeppelins? Ask Robinson and Tempest and Brandon and Freeman and Sowrey, and poor Warneford, were he alive, what they think of these wretched baby killers.

No Germany has not the gift of dealing with a situation as and when it arises. She regulates everything by ridiculous rules and regulations which are not to be broken, no matter how the circumstances change. She digs fortresses that look impregnable, that takes weeks and cost thousands of casualties to capture. But they are captured, and then you find hundreds of Germans in palatial dugouts and half a dozen bombs flung down the entrances kill the lot becanse they cannot get out, or a big high explosive shell falls on top and buries them all. Thousands and thousands of German lie buried alive in their dugouts on the Somme. Is that efficiency?

AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" — The Wonderful Fruit Medicine — will Protect You

Autointoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the Kidneys and Skin are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Poisoning of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the Kidneys and bring on Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema—and keeps the whole system unhealthy by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Autointoxication or self-poisoning—as "Fruit-a-tives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of muscous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE
FOR JANUARY

GET better acquainted with Canada and Canadian writers. Read about Canada and Canadians in MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE. Let the best known Canadian writers entertain you, and interpret to you the land, life, thought and spirit of Canada and the Canadian people

MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE for January (and every month) is truly a Canadian national magazine. Here is a condensed summary of the principal contents of the January number, now on sale everywhere—price 15 cents.

Sir Gilbert Parker The opening chapters of a new serial. "Jordan is a Hard Road"—a story of the Canadian North-West, introducing some old friends.

Stephen Leacock "In Dry Toronto"—rich humor, combined with a latent seriousness. Leacock is always good.

Agnes C. Laut "The Cost of the War"—an international business article by this brilliant Canadian writer, whose intimate friends are bankers and financiers and others with inside knowledge.

Betty Thornley Another Canadian woman writer with the mind of a business man and with a burning love for her Western homeland Her contribution—"Putting the Yardstick on Canada," is a story of a journey she made last summer to the Skagway region of British Columbia—a part of that province seldom visited and about which most of us know little.

Main Johnson Mr. N. W. Rowell's secretary, and who accompanied Mr. Rowell on his recent trip abroad, and visited THE FRONT with him. Mr. Johnson contributes a vivid story of what he saw and learned on the Western Front.

W. Arnot Craick writes of the New Shipbuilding Industry in Canada—a timely article on a matter of the first importance.

Stories by the following distinguished Canadian short story writers: Alan Sullivan, A. C. Allenson, Peter McArthur and H M. Tandy.

Departments Review of Reviews, where are condensed for busy readers the best things in current literature; The Business Outlook, a well-informed survey of Canadian business conditions, and Information for Investors, a valuable department for those with money invested or looking for investment

So you see how truly Canadian MACLEANS MAGAZINE is, and how much worth-while reading it gives. It is big value for money to every Canadian desirous of knowing his own country better, and its makers and interpreters. Get the January number from your bookseller or news agent

Canadians Fool Enemy at Arras in Unique Raid.

With the British Armies in France, December 24. via London, December 25.—From a staff correspondent of the Associated Press.—North of Arras certain Canadian troops have just accomplished what the British officers declare marks a new phase in modern trench warfare. In a raid, which, however, was much more than a raid, they succeeded in putting out of action, temporarily at least, an entire battalion of German infantry. They took 59 prisoners, including one commissioned officer, and estimated that they killed 150 Germans in dugouts which were blown to atoms after their occupants refused to surrender. The Canadian losses were extremely light.

The "raid" took place at three o'clock in the afternoon on a front of 400 yards. The German prisoners admit that they were taken completely by surprise. The officer captured said he was convinced that something was about to happen, but believed the attack was coming on Xmas Eve. He reported to the higher command, but received no support.

The Canadians, mostly stalwart men from the plains of Manitoba Saskatchewan and Alberta, had skilfully established themselves well forward, so that when the artillery had ceased the preparatory fire they were in the German front line trenches in less than two minutes. The officer in command, who was reporting the raid to British headquarters by telephone, said that he had hardly uttered the word: "They're off," before he had to say: "They're in." Consternation reigned among the Germans, who scrambled for the saps and dugouts leading to the rear trenches, while the Canadians pelted them with hand grenades. Caught absolutely unprepared many Germans in the front line offered no resistance, but threw up their hands with cries of "kamarad." Others were taken as they fled for the second and third lines, for the Canadians pushed on quickly to the second line trenches.

About twenty dugouts were destroyed by the Canadians several with bombs captured from the Germans. One of the officers engaged said: "As we entered the trenches many Germans broke for the dugouts. All who did were subsequently well cared for. Each of our men was given definite instructions for his precise task and a map of the enemy's trenches which proved absolutely correct. Each man knew every detail of the proposed operation. They were delighted at this and entered the fight with great cheer. When they came out two hours later they were singing and as happy as schoolboys on a holiday. The neatness and dispatch with which the raid was carried out were unique. The artillery co-operation of the British guns was perfection. Beautifully placed curtains of fire prepared our advance and, creeping forward, protectrd us as they proceeded to absolutely demolish the enemy trenches and dugouts. The programme had given the men an hour and a half for their work, but the clean-up was accomplished in an hour and ten minutes and the raiders signalled they were ready to return to their own trenches."

No attempt was made at a counter-attack until the following night when the Germans bombarded and raided their own first line, or what was left of it, thinking that the raiders were still there. As a matter of fact, the Canadians who carried out the operation were miles away. They were not part of the fighting line, but on rest, and had gone forward for this particular piece of work which was planned weeks ago.

Got Hungry on the Way.

George was our neighbor's boy. He lived about a block from us across a vacant lot, and was hardly out of bed before he wanted to "come over." Our buckwheat cakes and honey were one great attraction.

"Had your breakfast, George?" my father would say, cutting into the honey with one eye on the lad.

"Yes," the honest little fellow was forced to admit, "Yes, I had my breakfuss, but I jus' got hung-ry a-comin' over."

Statement of Red Cross Funds.

At the annual meeting of the Red Cross Society Mrs. Lawson asked that her accounts be audited from September, 1914 until the present November, including all patriotic funds for which she was responsible. Dr. Miles Brown and Mr. O. D. Casselman were appointed by the Society to do this work. Follows a condensed statement:

Total disbursements, cheques to headquarters, purchase of yarn and other supplies etc..	$ 4738 53
Amt. raised for Hospital ship...	250 00
" Red Cross, 1914	719 84
" hospital cots....	250 00
" British Red Cross	231 25
" French Relief, Secours National	65 30
Amt. raised for Canadian Red Cross during 1915, to Nov. 13, 1916	3291 60
Total for patriotic purposes raised by this Society and through individual effort...	4807 99
Balance	69 46

We hereby certify that we have examined and audited the accounts ot the treasurer of this Red Cross Society and find the foregoing correct.

Signed

O. D. CASSELMAN
MILES BROWN

Chesterville, Nov. 13, 1916.

It should be stated that the above does not include the following:

$337.25 to British Red Cross, grants from our Village Council; about $200.00 raised by means of Red Cross teas, by the Women's Institute during the Spring and Winter of 1915, and expended in supplies for socks, shirts, etc., and $125.00 for Belgian Relief and toward the Gazette Tobacco Fund. all previous to the above date. Roughly, then, our total patriotic givings in Cash amount to five thousand five hundred dollars, to Nov. 13th.

The Bacon Hog Industry

Few people realize the change that has taken place in trade owing to the war. An example of this is shown in the bacon industry. Prior to 1914 each year saw the exports from Denmark to Great Britain increase and those of Canada decrease, for at least a decade back. Since that time Denmark has seemingly switched her trade from her friends to the enemy for in 1915 the exports declined 73,000,000 pounds. At the same time Canada's exports have been continually on the increase, having been 23,620,861 pounds for the year ending March 31, 1914, 72,036,025 pounds for 1915 and 144,150,309 pounds for 1916 Against this has to be recorded a decrease in the last five years in the number of hogs in the county of one million. These facts are given in a pamphlet entitled "The Bacon Hog and the British Market," by John Bright, Live Stock Commissioner, and H. S. Arkell, Assistant Commissioner, that can be had free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The author points out that this state of affairs is most anfortunate in the face of the rare opportunity that is offered to futher extend our "Wiltshire side" trade with Great Britain, a trade that for the year ending Dec. 31, 1915, amounted in value to $15,657,652. While there is a certain demand also for the fat hog. Messrs. Bright and Arkell do not favour increased breeding in that direction for the export trade, as the United States are in a superior position to Canada for the raising of that particular sort. The bacon hog is our opportunity, but to take advantage of it we shall have to be more conservative in our methods. As the phamplet says, the world over there exists a confidence in the future of the live stock trade which has no parallel in history. Canada has now the opportunity of placing herself in a very powerfull position in the export bacon business. The most stable condition of affairs can be brought about by each farmer doing "his bit" to increase production without involving himself in any great financial outlay.

Prohibition and Labour.

The Governor of the State of Kansas is the authority for the statement that as a strictly business propositions. Prohibition has paid big dividends in Kansas. Its strongest advocates in the State are the large employers of labour, the managers of the big railway properties and the labour organizations. More than four thousand men are employed in the Santa Fe railway shops at Topeka, the "driest" city of its size in the world. These shops maintain the highest degree of efficiency of any Santa Fe system. The books show they turn out more work constantly and promptly the year round than any other railroad shop. Seventy-two per cent. of the married men in these shops own their own homes, a showing that cannot be equalled by any other railroad town in America.

Asking Leave.

Nobody is allowed to leave a warship without permission, even for an hour. Senior officers, "heads of departments," must obtain leave from the captain in person before going ashore, though usually a general dispensation from this obligation is given at the beginning of a commission. Young officers of branches other than the executive must first ascertain from their own immediate superiors whether they can be spared, so the process of obtaining leave sometimes becomes quite elaborate. The most junior engineer-officer, for example, may be observed to enter the wardroom, cap in hand. First he approaches the senior, and recites the appointed interrogation.

"Please" is returned in a quiet voice. But this is not enough. The youngster steps across to where the engineer-commander is sitting, and again asks, "May I go ashore, sir, please?" once more getting "Please" to encourage him. Yet once again he stands a suppliant, before the commander now, till a final "Please" sends him away rejoicing to "shift into plain clothes."

WHY I should select a Mutual Policy!

FIRST -Because in a mutual company the assets are the sole property of the Policy-holders.

2—Because in a mutual company ALL of the profits go to the policy-holders.

3—Because in a mutual company the executive is directly responsible to the policy-holders: ALL the directors are policy-holders' directors.

4—Because mutual companies hold the record for stability.

5—Because mutual companies have all the "safety-first" features of stock companies with mutuality thrown in.

6—Because the largest American companies are already mutual or seriously considering mutualization, and already more than one-half of legal reserve insurance is mutual.

7—Because mutual companies are not built up in the interest of the FEW, but of the MANY.

Therefore I will take for mine

Saved the Scene.

Once in the third climax of a play, the elder Sothern's pistol missed fire in his hand. At that critical moment, however, the great actor's presence of mind did not desert him.

"Bang!" he shouted, at the top of his lungs.

And the villain immediately fell dead.

Whose Little Darling?

"Well, well, well," said the kindly stranger, patting little Molly on the head. "I suppose you are your papa's little darling?"

"I don't know yet, thir," lisped Molly. "The court hathn't dethided yet. Jutht now I'm the pet of the Matrimonial Fidelity and Casualty Trutht company, thir."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Difference.

Grubbs—Do you regard Binks as stubborn? Stubbs—That depends on whether you approve of the position he has taken. He is stubborn when he declares for something I oppose, but when he agrees with me I consider that he betrays, even under attack, a manly firmness and integrity of conviction.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

One-armed Wonder.

It may be some consolation for soldiers who have lost an arm to know that Mr. B. Eastwood, who lately sailed for British East Africa to take up his new position as general manager of the Uganda Railway, finds that he can get along with one arm almost as well as with two.

Mr. Eastwood lost his right arm in an encounter with a rhinoceros, but he has not allowed the loss to handicap him. He still drives a motor-car, rides a horse, shoots big game, shaves with an ordinary razor—not condescending to use a safety—and can work a typewriter with ease at sixty or seventy words a minute.

He can light a cigar as quickly as ny man. He just grips the matchx between his knees, and has the ar burning before you realize t is happening. At first he kept tle vice on his desk, in which he fix things which he would have his right hand, but he rarely necessary to make use of it

Dental Hygiene and Good Health

Some startling theories have of late been brought out as to the part played by bad teeth upon the welfare of the human race. It is indeed about time that people were made to realize the importance of sound teeth and the proper care of decayed teeth. In no line of physical development is the ounce of prevention of more importance than in the mouth.

Not only is an unclean mouth a harborage for germs of any and all descriptions, but many authorities now claim that defective teeth result in moral turpitude as well as in physical diseases. This is by no means impossible, for since degenerates are usually found to have been the victims of improper nourishment as well as wrong influences which might not have harmed them had they been rightly built up mentally and physically, what can be more to blame than the teeth which, being decayed, could not properly masticate the food which passed through the mouth?

If poor teeth can cause disease's entrance to the heart, lungs, digestive tract and the like it is safe to assume that the malnutrition and infection will affect the brain as well.

Therefore look to the children's teeth from the moment they are born, and before that see that the parent's own teeth are well looked after as well. The example set by indifferent parents to their own mouths is not apt to encourage the youngsters to be careful. Do not think that the first teeth can be neglected because they are to come out. The second teeth mature so close in proximity to the roots of the first crop that the decay and infection of the first teeth can easily be transmitted to the second teeth beneath.

Before the baby has any teeth at all the little mouth should be wiped out gently but thoroughly morning and evening with a soft rag or piece of cotton wrapped around the mother's finger wet with a solution of weak boracic acid—one teaspoonful of powder to a pint of boiling water. Small pieces of rag are preferable because they do not shed small particles as cotton is apt to do, but in either case what is once used should be thrown away and fresh prepared for the next time.

When a child is old enough to use a brush and powder teach him to brush his teeth regularly every day after breakfast and at bedtime, with dental floss added, as soon as he can manipulate it.

A Gentle Jolt.

"Don't some of you," said Mr. Will Crooks at a recruiting meeting in the East-End, "want to join? What are you hanging back for? Are you waiting for a safe job till somebody doesn't come back for it? I can imagine what will happen. The employer will ask where you were in 1915-16, and if he finds that you belonged to the 'Stay-at-Home Rangers,' he will say to you, 'Good morning; mind the step.'"

Curing a Fever.

"During my first year in India," says Sir Robert Baden-Powell, in his book, "Indian Memories," it seemed to me that I was being plugged full of medicine almost every day, sometimes for the liver, sometimes for fever, and sometimes for my inside. When I had a fever I would proceed to treat it in a way that will make many smile. My way was at dinner to eat very little, drink some good champagne, and before going to bed to have for twenty minutes a boiling-hot bath with a cold stream on one's head, then a dose of castor-oil, and then to bed in flannel clothes. Next day I would lie down and take quinine, and then the fever went. But my old liver hurt sometimes, especially after jogging about on duty or in the riding-school, and I became so wretchedly thin that I had to have my pantaloons taken in, while I could put three fingers between my legs and my top-boots, which once were quite tight."

When Starching Began.

Starch was first made in Flanders, and it was introduced into England in the time of Queen Elizabeth. It was like our starch of to-day, except that it was made in colors—red, yellow, green, and blue.

Before Queen Elizabeth's time ruffles and ruffs were made of fine holland, which required no stiffening.

In 1564 a Flanders woman. Frau van der Plasse, came to London and established there a school for the teaching of starching. The school succeeded and the Flanders frau got rich. She charged £5 a lesson, and an extra 20s. for a recipe for the making of starch out of wheat-flour, bran, and roots.

Beasts of Prey.

Wild birds generally seek their pray in the daytime, while beasts of prey generally seek theirs at night.

A NEW FAD.

A "War Bride" Veil In Navy Chiffon and Net.

PICTURESQUENESS.

Over a navy velvet, close turban is draped in graceful folds a long net veil beautifully finished across the bottom with a rose pattern done in points. In addition a shorter one of chiffon is thrown back from the face, hanging about half the length of the long veil. These novelties come in all popular shades and are very piquant.

MEALS FOR MEN.

Some Masculine Peculiarities Worth Heeding For the Sake of Harmony.

"Now, that's the kind of dinner I like," said a big business man after dining at a friend's—"no frills, no pastry, and yet the whole dinner fine and dandy. Why don't more women make meals like that instead of all those dinky little dishes?"

The conversation following brought out further points of difference between men meals and women meals, the ornate, the complex, the really disguised foods which she herself relishes with delight.

Several men have these peculiarities: One has for breakfast, morning after morning, a bowl of top milk and white bread, with eggs in different forms; another lunches on rice dishes or the plainest of stews, and all men seem to like the dinner consisting of the following: A good strong cup of bouillon or plain soup, a steak or chops with peppers or mushrooms, a plain salad with French dressing and salted wafers and perhaps pie, with a strong cheese. These are not the plats preferred by madame. She it is who likes the nameless dishes of entrees, the deviled and pastrified meats or pates. She it is who likes the elaborate and creamed vegetable. She it is whose chief delight is the complex fruit salad with sweet dressing and the still sweeter cake and comfit dessert.

Now, this is but a plea for women to understand the tastes of men and not cook for them what in reality the women like most themselves. We believe that this century old fiction that man has a capricious appetite is disproved by fact and that most men prefer the plainer, less elaborate dishes. We believe also that most of man's superior strength lies in the secret of his more wholesome feeding. We feel like believing that woman, too, might attain this superior strength if she also ate more plainly and spent less time in making concoctions. "Feed the brute," yes, but what he really wants, and then eat it ourselves, so we may attain his superior strength and physique in order to be shoulder high with him when that great wave of equality comes.

Cartoonist's Story.

Mr. W. K. Haselden, the well-known English cartoonist, tells the following story: "A man coming out of prison after ten years' penal servitude asked what was going on in the world. 'Well, there's most of Europe fighting, and the pubs are closed at ten in London;' he was told. 'Go on!' exclaimed the ex-convict. 'Well, I never! Fancy the pubs closing early having such an effec'!"

Princess Mary's Hobby.

Princess Mary still keeps a diary, but her favorite amusement at the moment is to collect, with the help of some of her friends, the many stories that are told of the Prince of Wales. Some of them have, of course, been told of every celebrity since the time of Napoleon; others the Princess has had from the lips of men who have met the Prince in France.

A CHRISTMAS HINT.

Knitted Sweater For Dolly That Small Girls Can Make.

Any little girl over seven years old may be taught to knit, and the homely accomplishment may relieve her from boredom many a time later on in life. Here is a simple direction for making a knitted sweater for dolly, a task that will be quite to the fancy of the youthful knitter. Incidentally she will learn a lot about knitting.

Use one hank of Shetland wool in any pretty color and a pair of knitting needles about No. 5 size. Cast on twenty stitches for the back of the sweater and knit twenty ribs. Then cast on ten more stitches, knit across and cast on ten at the opposite side. You have on the needle now forty stitches, which gives the width from sleeve edge to sleeve edge. When you have knit ten ribs the sleeves will be finished up as far as the shoulder line. About eight stitches may be bound off for the back of the neck. Eight stitches from the forty on the needle leaves thirty-two stitches. So when you have knit half of the thirty-two or sixteen stitches bind off eight for the neck and continue to knit across the remaining sixteen stitches.

You must now abandon work on the whole sweater and finish each front separately. To do this slip off the sixteen stitches on the opposite side of the bound off portion on a big safety pin and fasten securely. Take the empty needle and commence knitting where the end of your worsted is. Knit as far as the bound off place and back twice, which will give you two ribs for the shoulder. Now cast on six stitches to make the front wide enough and knit across the twenty-two stitches for ten rows. This completes the sleeve. Bind off under the sleeve for ten stitches (the original number you cast on for the sleeve) and then knit across and across, straight down the front until the front is as long as the back. Finish the opposite front in the same way and sew up the underarm seams with a bit of worsted. Cuffs may be knitted on the sleeves, if desired, and even a little collar added.

Rice and Creamed Fish.

Cook one cupful of rice until it is tender; season it with a little salt and butter. Do not put any sugar in it. Boil the fish in some water, and when it is nearly done let the water boil away until the remaining water is very rich. Remove the fish and from the water make a creamed sauce by adding a little milk, then stirring in enough flour to make it medium thick. Cut the fish in small pieces and put it in the bottom of a baking dish with a third of the cream sauce over it. Next put in the rice, seasoning both as much as you like. Over the rice pour the remaining sauce. Put in hot oven and let bake for twenty minutes and serve while hot.

The Heintzman & Co. Pianos

The Heintsman Co. Piano is without a peer in its class.

It Is Made In Canada.

Yet, that does not constitute our appeal for its favor. Too many inferior articles are being sold to-day whose only merits are that they are made in Canada. The Heintzman & Co. has maintained its own standard of excellenee for 60 years.

There are several styles; all can be examined and tried in our show rooms. Write or call in for illustrated catalogue. Easy terms of payment can be arranged.

THE VEILED FUTURE

THE YEAR upon which we are entering is dark with mystery—we cannot forecast the events of a single day of it.

A new year naturally arouses anxious thought, but the disastrous war now raging adds to the prevalent anxicty as to what 1916 has in store for us.

Exposed to these uncertainties,is it not important that we should protect our homes and business enterprises with "the one thing sure"—life insurance ?

Protected by Mutual policies the home is kept intact though the husband dies, the business is held together though the partner passes away.

There are no bonds or treaties in the world more binding than life insurance policies—no policies more immutable than those issued by

The aim of The Mutual Life is to give the largest amount of protection at the lowest possible cost.

CLEAN COW STABELS

Last Winter and Spring the five young women who comprised the teachers' class at Manitoba Agricultural College investigated a number of stores markets, dairies etc., for the purpose of studying the efficiency of the pure food laws as they are enforced in Winnipeg. Two of the class wrote their graduating theme on the result of their investigations. Parts of those should be of special interest to farmers and their wives, as they show very clearly how important is the co-operation of the country if we are to have pure food in our markets and stores.

The handling of the milk when it reaches the dairies is perfectly sanitary, one member of the class stated, "and inspectors visit them frequently to see that all laws are strictly inforced. It is for us to go behind the dairies to the source of the milk supply and ask a few questions. Does it come from tubercular tested cows? Are the barns kept in sanitary condition? Is cleanliness exercised in the handling of it? Is it kept cool during shipping, and how much time elapses before milk is delivered to the customers?

We have been at farms where milk and cream were shipped to a large creamery in the city. The barn was not cleaned out once during the Winter, and by Spring the cows were standing knee-deep in filth. The cream was kept in the combined living and bedroom for days until enough had been accumulated to fill the can. You can readily understand the condition of the first lot of cream by the time the can was full.

We have also seen a man separating milk when his pipe fell into the tank. He simply reached his unwashed hand down into the milk and rescued the pipe without stopping the separator. How many farmers have their cows tubercular tested and how often? We know a family who killed an animal suspected of having tuberculosis and ate the meat themselves, thinking it would not be saleable. Such people would have no scruples about selling milk from unhealthy cows.

Expectoration from a consumptive workman in a carelessly managed cow barn is carried by a draught of air to an open milk pail or can: in a year or so later some child dies of intestinal tuberculosis. Cause and effect are widely separated in point of distance but still the connection is as direct and logical as the victim after the discharge of the pistol.

Dirt from an ill-conditioned animal passes into the pail with the milk. A series of Summer epidemics with many deaths among young children is attributed to the weather, while real cause is the dairy product. Some water from an infected well if left in the pail used by an ignorant milker is liable to bring the typhoid germ into the dairy and increasing sickness and possible death to customers is the natural result.

These are the evils which must first be lessened and then remedied. They are lessened upon reaching the large city dairies where milk is handled scientifically and much stress is laid on cleanliness. Much of the solid waste matter is removed in separating. The milk is then pasteurized or heated to 140 deg. F. for fifteen minutes and then immediately cooled and bottled. At present the middleman spends his time and money undoing the work of the dairyman. This is not remedy but a lesser evil.

A little thought and a trifle more care on the part of the dairyman whether he is the owner of one cow or twenty will accomplish a very great deal towards supplying purer milk to city customers.
