Commission Moves to Raise Hydro Rates

Rehabilitation Program to Cost $10,000 Hydro Green Light Now Sought for Work

February Council Meet Held Monday Evening Year's Work Well Underway and Planned

Members of Chesterville council met in the clerk's office Monday evening of this week for the regular February meeting. Present were the reeve, Mr. McMillan, councillors Campbell, Marcellus, Arnold and Sharkey.

Prior to the opening of the session a short and lively discussion was generated by councillor Marcellus. For a few moments the opinions expressed threatened to overwhelm the members and the writer of this in violent discord. In the end, common sense prevailed and the meeting began with the air cleared considerably.

Consideration was given to the regional engineer's report on raising the hydro rates of the village. Concensus of opinion was that the revisions were needed if the system was to be operated efficiently. It was moved by Mrs. Campbell, seconded by Mr. Arnold and carried that the village hydro system rates be adjusted in accordance with recommendations. The resolution is to be forwarded toOntario Hydro for their approval.

Rehabilitation of the lines was considered then. The commissioners listened with attention to suggestions of the clerk-treasurer regarding the continued financial health of the commission. After his report, it was decided to authorize rehabilitation to the extent of not more than $10,000. It was pointed out that while certain economies may be effected by having the system maintenance man oversee the tree trimming and instal needed services, costs have a habit of growing and a maximum figure needed to be set for the year's expenditure.

Fire Engine Repairs

Fire Chief John Hehir waited on council to report a need for some motor work on the pumper truck. The work was authorized and Mr. Hehir was directed to see it properly completed. The unit is still under guarantee.

Chesterville council looked with favour on the presentation of the Eastern Ontario Development Council this year and voted the $75 necessary to join the ranks of the neighbouring communities in the organization.

The town's solicitor had prepared the necessary legal papers to mark the handing over of the old rink property to the Legion. The reeve and clerk were authorized to sign same and notify the Legion group they would be liable for the legal costs.

Correspondence was read concerning the accident in which Mrs. George Cunningham suffered a fractured hip. The village carries accident insurance and the company had been notified of the details of the accident which is said to have occurred on the village streets.

General discussion, sparkplugged by Mrs. Campbell, followed on matters of village planning. Sewers, water and a disposal system survey were touched on as were problems of traffic, accomodation of roomers and boarders, parking for trailer homes, etc. It was finally decided to arrange to meet members of the Chamber of Commerce, for planning committees and attack some of the problems on a joint basis. Further discussion was left over for next month.

Sump Pump Purchased

Mr. Sharkey called council's attention to a crying need for an efficient pump, capable of handling sludge and other solids, to be used to clean catch basins and use for emergency pumping when sewer lines plug and back up into ratepayers' cellars. It was stipulated the pump is for town use only and members of the street commission will have the authority to regulate its use and see to any servicing necessary.

It was decided to cut down a tree on George Street as it was a driving hazard, the accounts were passed and paid and the meeting closed at 10 : 30 p.m.

DIED

Firemen's Banquet Addressed by L. Carrier

Chesterville Volunteer Fire Brigade Tuesday night staged their annual banquet in a local hotel and had as guest speaker Mr. L. Carrier, of Cornwall, who is an instructor with the Ontario Fire Marshal's office.

Each year, of late, members of the village brigade stage a banquet and listen to a speaker on some of the angles of their volunteer work. This year the same pattern was followed. Chairmanned by Fire Chief Hehir, the table groaned under generous and delicious turkey and trimmings. The speaker was brief and carried the question and answer period along with dispatch.

Visiting firemen included all members of council with the exception of Mr. Sharkey, Fire Chiefs Raistrick, Winchester, Phair, of Russell, and Captain Lloyd Steele, of the Cornwall Fire Department.

Mr. Carrier discussed the mutual aid programme that is to be organized in the counties in the near future. He pointed out the need for an overall control system, centred in one spot, so that when disaster strikes, services can be mobilized with the least possible delay. Clerks of the affected municipalities are to be notified of a general meeting to be held in Cornwall in the near future to discuss the matter.

Short messages of commendation were addressed to Mr. Hehir and his volunteers by several of the guests. At the close of the banquet hour a social hour was spent talking shop with the visitors.

CARD OF THANKS

My wife and I wish to take this oportunity to extend to our very good neighbours and friends our sincere thanks for their many kindnesses to us during my recent illness.

P. J. Gilroy.

Cecil Carr Injured In Accident at Plant

Cecil Carr, a long-time employee of Nestlé (Canada) Limited plant here suffered a painful accident yesterday, Wednesday morning. He is in Winchester and District Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Carr was working from a braced ladder at the side of a storage tank. He reached sideways and as he did so the ladder slipped out from under him, throwing him heavily down about six feet onto the tiled floor. The falling man thrust out his left hand to attempt to break the fall and took the force of the concussion in a rolling twist that left him with a broken left wrist and a broken vertebrae in his back.

By-law to Provide For Roads, Bridges Passed By Township Council

The regular meeting of Winchester Township council was held in the Town Hall, Winchester, on Monday, February 7th, with the members all present. The minutes of the last regular meeting were adopted as read and signed by the reeve.

By-law No. 846 a by-law appointing township officers for 1955 was amended by adding the name of Mr. Mike Lynch as pound keeper.

The engineer's report on the maintenance of the Summers-Baker drain was read by the clerk and after considerable discussion by parties interested in the drain, the report was adopted and the clerk instructed to have the necessary by-law prepared. The reeve was instructed to consult Mr. R. F. Mucklestone in regard to some changes in the drain.

By-law No. 848, a by-law to provide for $50,000 expenditures on township roads and bridges in 1955, was finally passed, subject to the approval of the Department of Highways.

The tax collector was instructed to prepare a list of all those in arrears of taxes for two years or more and to have said list ready for next council meeting.

The following accounts were passed and paid: Roads and bridges, $2,033.06; drainage, $540.32; relief and hospitalization, $348.03; schools, $8,000; miscellaneous, $462.40; for a total of $11,383.81. Total for roads to date, $4,139.30; total on roads, same date, 1954, $2,866.38.

Council adjourned to meet in Chesterville on Monday, March 7, at 10 : 30 a.m.

Chamber of Commerce To Promote Opportunity Day

Chesterville Chamber of Commerce discussed and decided to promote an Opportunity Day in the community in the near future. To further the plans canvassers were appointed to call on the business men of the town and invite them to gather in the Library on February 28th for further planning.

The regular February meeting of the Chamber was held in the clerk's office on Wednesday evening. The president, George Gillard, presided. Chamber members discussed at length plans to organize a survey of the community to have an overall picture of community services available in the event of an influx of seaway workers. A motion was passed asking council to appoint a committee and meet with a Chamber committee to discuss the project.

A report was given by the president and Mr. Hough on their visit to the council chambers on Monday night and the good reception received to their petition that Chesterville join the Eastern Ontario Development Council.

CHS Defeats Winchester Here, 6-3

Chesterville High School squad girded on their shining armour Friday and renewed old rivalries with Winchester High School team. The hockey was played here on fast, hard ice on Community Rink.

Chesterville team was sparked by John Durant's nimble feet and sharpshooting eye. He centred the target four times and rang the bell on each occasion. His main support proved to be Neil Moore who was more than generous in passing.

Winchester's Sherwood led the WHS pack with goals, counting twice with Clark getting one goal for the visitors also. Fast clean hockey with practice finally paying off in good sharp passing and rifle shots on goal was the sum of the game. Chesterville's Dwayne Hall and Brian Gilbert scored one apiece to make the final figure 6-3 for CHS.

Credit Union Holds First Annual Meeting Progress Reports Heard, Officers Elected

The first annual meeting of the Chesterville and District Credit union was held in the Co-Op building. The large number in attendance heard glowing reports of the first nine months of operation. The Credit Union was organized under Provincial charter last March.

The meeting was convened by the president, Mr. Harry Allison, The secretary, Mr. Leonard O'Donohue, was also present. Mr. Allison reviewed the year's work, and also the recommendations which the directors have passed. These included the decision that interest on all loans outstanding shall be paid monthly, on or near the date when the loan was made.

The report of the treasurer was given by Mr. Maurice Beckstead, treasurer and manager. Mr. Beckstead reported that there were 55 members holding shares to the value of $1,253.03, as of December 31st when the books were closed. He went on to thank the Board for sending him as their delegate to the annual convention of the Credit Union League last March, and also to thank those who have assisted him in the year's work. Further excerpts from the treasurer's report show that the amount of money on loan during the year amounted to $2,442.50, that 24 loans were made and the interest realized on these amounted to $31.13.

The report of the credit committee was given by Mr. Eric Casselman. Mr. Casselman reported that, at the end of the year, $980 was still on loan to members, and that about 30% of the members had enjoyed the loan privileges during the months of operation.

The report of the supervisory committee was given by Mr. Chas. Collingridge. This committee, the report disclosed, meets monthly to examine the books of the Credit Union and to audit all accounts. The committee pointed out that an increase in the amount of money on deposit and in the number of members in the Credit Union, would greatly strengthen its operations. Members were again reminded that, while no dividend could be paid on this year's operations, in any year when a dividend would be possible it would only be payable on the full share, or shares, held by a member. Each share costs $5.00.

Following the reading of the reports, a motion was passed empowering the Board of Directors to approach the government and seek an extension of the membership limitations of the Credit Union so that anyone within a 15 mile radius of Chesterville might join.

Election of Officers

The election of officers was held and the following will hold office for the year 1955: Directors, H. D. Allison, Don MacIntyre; Ellis Thompson, Grant Servage, Leonard O'Donohue; credit committee, Don Cross, John Coyne, Eric Casselman.

Supervisory committee, C. Collingridge, W. Masterson, Rev. R. A. Mitchell; treasurer and business manager, Mr Maurice Beckstead.

Mr. Breen Melvin, national secretary, Co-Op Union of Canada, was present and addressed the gathering on the Credit Union movement. He showed how the institution has grown in the past fifty years, from its humble beginning in Levis, Que. Mr. Ken Tench, of the Co-Operators Insurance Association was also present and was tendered a vote of thanks for his kind help in getting the local Credit Union in operation.

The meeting then enjoyed the remarkable film "King's X."

An unanimous call has been extended to Rev. John W. Bell, of Duntroon, Ont., by the congregations of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch, and Knox Church, Crysler. This action was taken at a special meeting held at Finch. The churches have been vacant since November when Rev. John Honeyman accepted a call to Oakwood Church, Toronto.

Rev. Donald C. MacDonald, B.A., of Avonmore, interim moderator of the charge, presided at the meeting.

Rev. Mr. Bell conducted services at Finch and Crysler recently. He is a 1952 graduate of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, and has since ministered at Duntroon, in the Presbytery of Barrie.

The call will be considered at a special meeting of the Presbytery of Glengarry which will be held Friday, February 11th, at 2 p.m. in St. Andrew's Church, Avonmore.

Rev. Norman Sharkey, of Lancaster, will preside.

United W.A. Members Model Wedding Gowns Of Bygone Days

Mrs. Harry C. Hummel and Mrs. Arthur Bailey welcomed the members and guests who attended the February meeting of the Woman's Association of Trinity United Church held in the church dining hall on the afternoon of Thursday last.

The sum of $80 was received by Mrs. D. R. Docksteader and Mrs. W. O. Dixon who were in charge of the money shower.

Mrs. Alf Jarvis was in the chair, assisted by Mrs. D. M. McElheran. The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison, the scripture was read by Mrs. Asel Merkley and the meditation and prayer was offered by Mrs. Angus Smith.

Mrs. R. A. Mitchell thanked all the ladies of the congregation who helped make the Parsonage "At Home" such a delightful event. Mrs. H. J. Kittle reported the sending of 7 cards and Mrs. H. E. Merkley said her committee had made 27 calls. The flower collection was received by Mrs. Graham Smith and the treasurers report was given by Mrs. Don 'Cross. The pianist was Mrs. Harry Allison.

Mrs. Wm. Fetterly acted as commentator during a fashion show when wedding gowns and bridesmaids gowns of a bygone day were modelled. As the models slowly walked around the stage, soft piano music was played by Mrs. Don Cross. Mrs. Stanley Shay sang "I love You Truly" and many of the audience became misty-eyed as they envisioned the bride of forty-five years ago and saw one of their own members still wearing her own gown. The short dress of the "gay twenties" formed a contrast to the graceful gowns of previous and more recent years.

Portraying the fashions of other days were Mrs. Stanley Shay, Mrs. B. W. Lapp, Mrs. Jack Doering, Mrs. R. A. Mitchell, Mrs. Belsher, Mrs. H. F. Shaver, Mrs. Carl Merkley, Mrs. Angus Smith, Mrs. Butcher, Mrs. Gerald Gilbert, Mrs. Doug Durant, Mrs. Emerson Johnston, Mrs. Graham Smith.

A weekly newspaper is a part of its community. It is made by members of the community, lives by the community's support, and with the presentation of the community news each week, does its part in keeping the community together, in information and spirit. As such the question "What is news?" is news and we renew our craftsman's standards each time we have to explain our position.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

What is News?

The question is frequently asked of us: "What is news, and how do we get it?" Each time we hear the question we have to stop and think and put our mind on the problem. It usually is not thought of as needing explanation because our day to day existence depends upon the gathering and dissemination of that commodity. It is only when we are asked, that we realize the process might possibly be a misunderstood trade and art.

A weekly newspaper depends on many sources for the material that fill its news columns each week. The heart of any successful weekly is the service rendered by the faithful weekly correspondents who send in their budgets of district news. To city dwellers, away from the small and local affairs of the farming communities, the country correspondents and their weekly stints are so much Greek. They cannot understand what is said in the columns, they are too many generations away from the farm that raised their forebears. Yet in survey after survey made by reputable newspapers and responsible groups, the columns of weekly "country correspondence" are read with greater attention than any other part of the average weekly newspaper.

The Record is especially fortunate in the matter of correspondents. Week after week our columns carry a volume of that important district news that is unmatched in Eastern Ontario by a newspaper of equal circulation. That is one of our sources of news and we are mighty proud of it.

The average weekly the size of the Record is considerably limited in its staff of reporters, working out of the newspaper office. Usually, the bulk of the reporting is done, and very well done, by press secretaries of the many organizations that make up the active community. These secretaries write their reports and hand or send them in to the newspaper office where they are set up in type and printed, subject always to an occasional revision by the editor if space or time is at a premium and he has to use his shears.

The office mail always puts the editor into the difficult position of choosing and picking what is best. Each sorting by Her Majesty's employees seems to make the task harder. News, as such, falls into certain classes to be suitable fare for the pages of a weekly paper. We receive bales of priceless compositions every week that, if printed, would be the answer to our immediate success. It usually ends up in the w.b. for the simple reason that the person or persons writing the drivel have not been any closer to the farm and farm community in 20 years than the latest "Ma Kettle" opus. We thrive on the stories of weddings, events of the community, oddities and human interest stories that come in from our own district. Celebrations of anniversaries, births, deaths and marriages are our meat. As room permits, these items get the space, and the canned goods are left on the shelf.

Certain affairs of the community must be covered personally by a reporter from the office if the personality of the paper is to be maintained. Council meetings, service club events, special dinners, Chamber of Commerce, these and many other events take the reporter out at night. Usually the reporter is also editor, photographer, ad salesman, bill collector, public relations man and general facto factorum if necessary. Sometimes, too, he is a ratepayer in his community and finds it difficult to report impartially when his toes are pinched by officialdom in any one of his many positions on his weekly newspaper.

"What is news?" takes on a new view when we think of all that is unsaid because of the editor's decision. He must leave the imprint of his personality on the publication he ushers into the world each week but he must also exercise restraint and delicate decision on occasion on what is news and what is plain inflammable partisanship. Regardless of the extent of provocation, petty quarrels and short-sighted publicity-seeking stunts should be relegated to the storeroom of impressions, used only as reference material by the conscientious editor. His position should not be used for old fashioned invective even though perhaps we would sometimes feel the better for it.

CAA Takes the Bugs Out of Flying

A smashed insect on the windshield of an aircraft is dangerously diverting to a pilot in today's high-speed aircraft.

He knows its only a dead bug, but his eye automatically keeps fixing on it and he moves his head to make sure it's not an approaching aircraft. In the back of his mind is the knowledge that the interval between seeing a plane as small in the distance and the moment of collision is a matter of seconds in some cases.

Actually, keeping aircraft windshields clean is a minor problem. But the bug distraction is typical of a whole range of serious problems in the newer planes which threaten to place the modern pilot's job beyond the scope of human capabilities .

It includes providing pilots more visibility from cockpits and improving and reducing the fantastic array of instruments a pilot now uses.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration discovered the danger of windshield spots on American aircraft by the use of motion picture cameras which took pictures of a pilot's eyes on a routine flight.

In this series of tests CAA experts also learned that a tiny corner brace on the windshield of a plane ,obstructing only two and a half degrees of vision, could be dangerous. It meant that another plane approaching toward this blind spot at a high rate of speed could not be seen by the pilot unless he had less than five seconds to make a turn to avoid it.

The joint American government group studying these matters is called the "Air Crew Station Standardizaton Committee." Hottest issue currently before it is where in the cockpit to put warning lights.

There has been a recent trend toward providing lights to warn pilots of every possible trouble, from icing to loose cargo doors.

"If you followed all the suggestions on warning lights you'd have the inside of the cockpit looking like a pin-ball game," a CAA expert says.

The committee first had to decide what new warning lights are needed. Then it must agree on a general location for them.

The committee has a dual motive. The standards serve as an important guide to aircraft designers. Standardized cockpits and instrument panels also make it easier for pilots to be checked out in different planes.

Light Along The Way

Christian faith begins with conversion. Conversion may come slowly, as part of the home and community in which we grow up; or it may come suddenly as a thief in the night, stealing in upon us we know not how or why. In either case it leaves us no alternative but to turn away from what we have been and seek a better self. Conversion is the desire to continually struggle with one's self and change it into what God desires. How can we know what He wants? By taking to ourselves the example of the Master.

The first thing we notice about Jesus is His friendliness. In the associations which He entered there was a measure of trust and understanding that brought forth an immediate response. People who met Him had the feeling that they had known Him for a long time. They were made to see, as it were in an instant, that nothing but their best was really good enough, and nothing but good had really any worth. Jesus understood, of course, so that men didn't have to be on their guard lest He discover their guile or evil, for they knew that He would not condemn them for what they were. Rather, that He would look upon them with expectation knowing the hidden talents and abilities which needed to come forth if they were to find favour in God's sight. Friendship is the ability to see in this way, and God expects His followers to look upon their fellow human beings with that understanding and compassion that makes a difference in the lives into which it is introduced. It was Augustine who wrote: "One loving spirit sets another on fire." An instinctive care of other people's small necessities is a great mark of friendship, and Jesus had it. So must we, if we are to convey the conviction that we are converted to His life and faith.

Because Jesus had a clear understanding of what He was about, He was able to deal patiently with men. They are all important to Him in the fulfilling of His mission, so He is always at their disposal.

Men and women were never "pawns" to Him; He has complete respect for their personalities. He sees how God can use each one, once he has a sense of God's need of him, and so He goes out of His way to persuade them to enter the King's service. There is no greater factor in the growth of God's Way in the life of men than men who are convinced of it and who, by their patient understanding and help, bring others to see the vision they themselves have glimpsed. No one knows more than Jesus did how tremendous the task is that yet has to be done, yet no one entered the life of man with more understanding and assurance. His example has set the world on fire.

In spite of all we can say of His greatness we are awed by Jesus' humility. His dependence upon God, His patient bearing with those who did not understand Him, His firm resolve to go on in spite of all opposition, His complete trust in His Father. Can we be converted to that? The convert is one who turns about and goes another way, the way of the Lord.

KEEP FEET DRY AND PREVENT COLDS

A miracle drug for the common cold is in the offing, a medical research team reports, but in the meantime family doctors continue to use a verbal vaccine that was probably first prescribed by Hippocrates himself:

"Keep your feet warm and dry, and don't sit around in drafts."

Chilled, wet feet are one of the most common causes of colds, the medical men say, and can touch off a lot of foot troubles, too. But this doesn't mean you should suffocate your feet in extra-heavy socks and shoes made of impermeable materials. They'll make your feet perspire, leaving them prey to blisters, skin irritations, and even frostbite when the weather is cold enough to freeze the unevaporated moisture .

To keep your feet at a comfortabe temperature, doctors recommend the wearing of medium-weight hose and all-leather shoes.

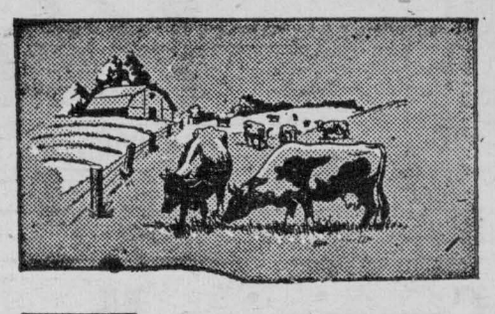
Leather's finely interwoven fibres are a natural insulating material, permitting the feet to "breathe" and thus quickly evaporate foot moisture, while allowing cool, dry air to enter the shoes.

Your feet will weather the winter months better—and give your repiratory system greater resistance to cold germs—if you treat them to a nightly soak in warm water, followed by a short exercising session that will loosen up the numerous tiny muscles and ligaments and whip up blood circulation. Before you go to bed, try walking on tiptoe two or three times around the room, then rub the soles of your feet vigourously with a dry towel.

To sum up, here's a simple three-point winter plan for healthier feet and fewer colds: (1) Don't let your feet get wet; (2) Wear all-leather shoes; (3) Wash your feet once a day and limber up your foot muscles at night.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison



Last week I didn't quite finish telling you about my visit to the Bell Telephone repeater station on Main St. North. In fact, I was mentioning some of the ways they have of meeting emergencies and preventing interruptions of service along the lines when I ran out of space. I had just told you about the batteries and the generator that can be used in case of a power failure.

There is a complicated system of signals too. Signals reach Ottawa if anything goes wrong in the building here and someone immediately contacts Don Hutton to go and set it right. Signals also announce that a tube is burned out in one of the unattended repeater stations too. It can be temporarily repaired at one of the big stations until someone finds time to drive out and replace it.

In fact, let me warn you to never attempt an unscheduled visit at any of these Bell buildings. For these unique signals would warn Ottawa of your call immediately and before you had much of a look around your stay would be interrupted by the local police.

Signals notify Ottawa if there is a break in the cable line too. You see, all the wires in the cable pipe are under pressure so that water cannot enter the pipes. One drop of moisture would louse up the whole system. But every so often something goes wrong that requires immediate attention.

They can tell at Chesterville whether the trouble is east or west. Then the trouble man, Mr. Bob Jamieson, sets out with all kinds of equipment to find the exact location of the leak. And apparently this isn't too difficult when you know how.

It wasn't hard to find what was wrong last fall. Someone was digging a ditch near Alexandria and the entire cable was cut in two. One pipe and 48 pairs of wires were cut off completely. To repair that sounds impossible for it involves splicing 96 wires to 96 other wires and joining the right ones each time.

But someone had thought of all that and had carefully coated each tiny wire in the cable with coloured paper. So it is a matter of matching the colours. Yet it isn't as simple as it sounds. I saw a sample of the 48 pairs of wires spliced together the way they have to be and believe me I have no desire to attempt it.

Our modern telephone is a wonderful thing. What a far-cry it is from the old box on the wall that ran with three dry cell batteries and a crank! What a difference there is in long distance telephoning today! Once we had trouble — lots of it — in hearing Morewood. Now, thanks to the repeater stations, we can hear Vancouver as clearly as our next door neighbour. And even greater things are in store.

Already there is what is known as operator dialing between Brockville and Ottawa. That is if Bill in Ottawa wants to call Joe in Brockville he dials Long Distance, gives the operator Joe's number and she immediately dials Joe's house just as you would dial the house across the road.

But that's not all. We're practically on the doorstep of being able to pick up our phones and dial anyone in Canada or the United States. Toronto subscribers are supposed to have this sysetm by the end of 1955 and Cornwall will be able to dial anywhere by 1957. I don't know when our turn will come—but it will.

Machnes will record the number phoning, the number phoned and the length of the conversation. And these figures will find their way onto your bill at the end of the month. It sounds fantastic but the plans are all made now.

I don't suppose Alexander Graham Bell ever dreamed his brainchild would grow into a thing of such proportions as our modern telephone system has become. He never pictured trans-oceanic calls, telephones in cars or lines that would link Montreal and Los Angeles in an instant. He might not even recognize his brainchild if he could see it now.

In fact, he'd probably not know any more about the equipment in our local repeater station than I did. But he'd enjoy having Don Hutton show him around, I'm sure. I certainly did, anyhow.

Calling All Sportsmen

* O.W.A.A.

Saturday is Different

Comes Saturday morning and the two hounds we have in the run behind the house are up on the roof of their kennel, from which they can see into the house, tails thumping and whimpering and trembling with excitement and anticipation. No doubt because they are hunted regularly once or twice each weekend from the beginning of fall right on through the winter, they have come to know that the sixth and seventh days of the week are theirs. On the odd occasion, like when I haven't written next week's column and have to dissapoint them temporarily, it doesn't help my powers of concentration when my every awkward poke at the typewriter is being watched by two pairs of pleading wistful eyes.

This canine recognition of Saturday's coming was all the more noticeable during the recent cold snap. On the very cold days we scarcely see them at all, except at feeding times. On work-day mornings with the temperature below zero they don't bother to come out of their kennel, even when I go out to clean up the run before breakfast—but Saturday is different.

Heated Kennels Injurious

Some people undoubtedly feel it is nothing short of cruelty to keep a dog outside through the winter months. I am convinced that artificial heat for a hunting dog is unnecessary, except in cases of severe injury or unusual exposure. Especially with hounds that are hunted in winter weather, artificial heat in their quarters will practically ruin them for any save milder days. Even if you can get them out from underfoot, there will be a marked inferiority of nose much below the quality of outdoor-housed hounds.

Conditioning Fox Hounds

The other day I had quite a discussion with Ernie Shephard, editor and publisher of Hunting and Fishing in Canada. Ernie and his dad before him have, over many years, maintained a pack of fox hounds down in the eastern townships of Quebec. Ernie made one point in favour of outdoor, unheated kenneling which will be appreciated by fox hunters in particular. Very often a fox hound will keep on running long after the hunter's hunting day is over and it is not unusual for a keen hound to run for two or three days. This hardship, and it must be remembered that a good hound's instinct to hunt is stronger than any other, will do him no harm if he is used to wintering in an unheated kennel. On the other hand, a hound that snoozes by the fireside or at the foot of his master's bed is a likely candidate for distemper or pneumonia if left out overnight to sleep off the weariness of the chase in some snow bank. Years ago when they first raised and ran fox hounds, Ernie and his dad lost several good dogs in this way, before they started keeping them outside.

Make Your Dog Comfortable

If you decide on kenneling your hunting dog outdoors there are just a few fundamentals to keep in mind. The kennel itself should be only just big enough to contain the dog, in this way all of the body heat is trapped in the kennel and ensures the dog's comfort. A kennel with a low flat roof affords the sleeping dog greater warmth than one with a peaked roof. In the event of rain, slush or heavy

Hugh Pearson Allison, widely known and one of Smiths Falls' most resepected citizens, passed away at his home on Friday, January 28th. He had been in failing health for the past three years.

The deceased was born in Winchester, a son of the late William R. Allison, and his wife, Eleanor Sproule, and was in his 80th year. He received his education in Winchester and in 1902 was married to Ella Keyes, of Chesterville. BRAIN RESPONDS TO LILAC PERFUME

There is hope for the raw onion, whose use in many parts of the world has fallen into disrepute, largely because its smell is considered an obstacle to romance.

However, scientists reported to the Third International Congress of Electro-Encephalography (the science of recording brain waves), stimulated by various odours showed that onions provoked a relatively mild reaction in the smelling portion of the brain, whereas the aroma of coffee had a much greater effect. Lilac perfume and lavender stimulated much stronger brain responses than did onions. Suprising, too, was the discovery that alcohol set off almost no brain reactions at all.

Unfortunately for onion-eaters, the strength of brain reactions usually has little to do with romantic preferences, which are seldom based on science.

ORDERED TO GROW BEARD

The sergeant told Cpl. Joseph Sasavant to grow a beard. "That's an order," the sergeant said.

Casavant and his brother, Aime, are twins. Both are members of the Royal 22nd Canadia n Infantry Regiment station at Werl, Germany.

They look so much alike that the sergeant can't tell them apart.

When Joe had duty and wanted to go out on a pass he got Aime to substitute for him, and vice versa. Nobody was wiser until the other day when the twins got caught.

That's when the sergeant told Joseph to grow a beard.

The Casavants are from Ville St. Michel, near Montreal.

FROZEN DRAINS

Be careful about using chemical pipe thawing compounds on frozen drain lines connected into septic tanks as an excessive amount of these chemicals can stop the action of the tank. And never use these chemicals to thaw out a fresh water pipe.

HOLES IN LINOLEUM

Small holes in linoleum can be filled by crushing a piece if linoleum of the same colour and mixing with spar varnish to form a paste. Put this into the hole and when it is dry, smooth out the surface with fine steel wool.

HITCHIKING CAR

Jack Bastow picked up an unwelcome hitchhiker the other day in St. Catharines.

He got into his car, parked in front of a department store, backed up, pulled out and drove off.

Six blocks later Bastow was flagged down by a police cruiser. A small English-type car was hooked to his back bumper.

Bill: "She ought to be. Everything she has on is charged."

The Bourkes all work at the Bell!

Away back in 1922, a young man by the name of Arthur Bourke joined our company. Little did he realize that his children—all six of them—would follow in his footsteps to careers at the Bell. Today Mr. Bourke would be more than proud of his handsome family. We know we are!

The Bourkes, like all telephone people, know from their own experience that the Bell is "a good place to work". They have found pleasant associates and interesting work at good wages. They have also found satisfaction and opportunity in serving the public in an essential business.

And this is as it should be, for good telephone service depends upon people who like their jobs, and convey this feeling to our customers. This is the feeling that is largely responsible for "the spirit of service" you find in Bell employees wherever you meet them.

The university has set up its bee cages on the campus and is slowly scraping out the royal jelly —a sticky chemical that nurse bees make and quen bees eat.

Cornell's biologists want to learn if royal jelly cures diseases and spruces up the skin—claims that have been made up for it. So far, say the scientists, there is no reliable and conclusive research that backs up these claims, and there won't be any for months. The experiments will take time.

Mrs. M. O. Robinson Is Hostess For Grantley W.A.

Mrs. M. O. Robinson was hostess to the Grantley W.A. on Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Gordon presiding and Mrs. Wm. Fulton at the piano.

The meeting opened with the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and prayer by Rev. H. M. Beach. Mrs. Claude Carr and Mrs. Darling conducted the worship service.

When the secretary, Mrs. Hesson, called the roll fifteen members answered by giving verses on "Friendship;" many beautiful thoughts were expressed. The president welcomed the visitors, Mrs. Clarence Countryman, Mrs. Albert Winters, Mrs. Arthur Merkley, Mrs. Milton Countryman and Mrs. Fulton

Mrs Claude Carr was asked to purchase some new hymn books; a donation was received from Mrs. Clarence Countryman in memory of her mother.

As this happened to be a birthday anniversary for Mrs. Frank Darling, she was presented with a beautiful birthday cake and a card signed by all present.

The president paid fitting tribute to the late Mrs. Walter Carr who, for many years, was a devoted members of the W.A. A moment's silence was observed, followed by prayer by Mr. Beach. A hymn and Mizpah benediction followed.

Mrs. Hesson gave a reading on "Petunias" and Mrs. S. B. Casselman told of a housewife removing wallpaper from her kitchen, each layer telling a story in the family life. Mrs. Fulton entertained by two piano solos.

Mrs. W. A. Robinson conducted a contest, the prize going to Mrs. Van t'Foort.

The March meeting will be at the Parsonage and the roll call will be a quotation on "Cross."

Elma W.I. Members Entertain Husbands At Crokinole Party

Despite the very cold weather, a large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMillan Tuesday evening when the members of the W.I. entertained their husbands at a crokinole party.

The meeting opened in the usual manner and members answered the roll call by sing, say or pay, with most of the members paying.

The minutes, treasurer's report and correspondence were dealt with.

A large selection of books were on hand from the travelling library and it is hoped members will make use of them.

The following were prize winners at crokinole: Ladies 1st, Mrs. Wray McPherson; gents' 1st, Wray McPherson; ladies' low, Mrs. Lloyd Smirle; gents' low, Hubert Shaw.

A dainty lunch was served by the ladies and a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. McMillan for the use of their home was made by Mrs. Bernice Froats.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bernice Froats.

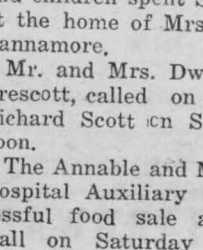
CALF STARTENA



Want to raise better calves, with less time and work? Of course! Well, here is how: Teach them to eat Calf Statena, beginning the 4th day. (Just slip your hand, with a little Calf Calf Startena on your fingers, into the calf's mouth—it will like the taste an d pick up the idea.) Then keep Calf Startena, fresh each day, in front of the calf all the time, to 4 months. Limited Milk the first month, none after that. Does away with a lot of fooling around, and starts a mighty good calf!

Even with the present milk situation, a lot of dairymen around here tell me they'd rather start calves on the Calf Startena plan . . . it saves them so much time and work. (You still feed milk the first month—none after that. Sure cuts down the pail washing, etc.

Weaning a calf is something like weaning pigs—the problem is to prevent a setback; and the solution is to get that calf eating plenty of good solid feed before it's weaned. That's what the Purina Plan does. The calf takes readily to Calf Startena, and by the time you cut off the milk it's eating enough to keep right on coming. This plan really raises good calves—no doubt about it.

Pots and Pans Rate Individual Care If They're to Last

A cheerful kitchen with a good cook and rows of pots and pans that are bright and shining—that's the best part of home for any family. That's a good place to gather for snacks and chats and family conferences that run smoothly.

But how to keep them bright and shining when the good cook makes such constant use of them? To avoid needless scouring, which is hard on them, it helps to remember a few simple rules.

Continued high heat, for instance, is rough treatment for any kind of utensil. Lower heat as soon as food reaches boiling point. Lower heat will keep food cooking just as fast.

Don't allow griddles and skillets to smoke.

Avoid sudden changes of temperature. Soak utensils as soon as they are cool, but don't suddenly dash them into cold water.

Wash in mild soapsuds after each use. Constant heating of grease-covered utensils causes the grease to harden and turn black. If necessary, scour lightly with damp cloth dipped in mild abrasive or No. 00 finest steel wool, soap and water. Rinse with hot water. Dry and polish with dish cloth while still warm. Avoid extremes of heat when cleaning. Aluminum sometimes buckles if cold water is added when utensil is hot. Never permit aluminum to soak long in water. This causes it to pit—those little black marks, you know.

Cast aluminum may need scouring before being used. Thoroughly wash, rinse and dry before storing. Leave uncovered to prevent pitting. To "cure": Wash well in soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly. With a pastry brush, cover entire surface inside and out with melted unsalted vegetable shortening or vegetable oil and put in warm oven for several hours. Occasionally grease with more fat. Wash again in soapy water. Dry thoroughly.

After each use wash copper in very mild soapsuds. It really doesn't have to gleam except for display, for copper heats better when left dull. But if you really want it to glisten, clean with special copper cleansing powder after pot has first been washed with soap and water. An old fashioned trick is to rub pot with salt and lemon or salt and vinegar until it is clean and shiny. Wire brushes and steel wool scratch copper pots, so apply with soft cloth.

Iron pots and skillets have a mean habit of rusting when left soaking in water. They need to be washed, rinsed and dried thoroughly. One-quarter cup of baking soda added to water will loosen food and grease without rusting. For a quick way to dry ironware without rust, place over low heat on top of stove. It will dry in a few minutes.

There's seldom need to polish stainless steel. Always heat slowly and over low heat. Wash in mild soapsuds, wash and dry after each use. Scour if necessary with fine scouring powder, but metal scourers can, in time, dull the brightness of stainless steel. When food has been removed use vegetable brush. Avoid very high heat. This causes brownish stains, "heat tints," difficult to banish.

With copper bottom care is the same. With chromium covered copper bottom, don't scour too much. It may remove chromium finish.

When using enamelware for foods that need constant stirring, stick to wooden spoon or fork. They will not mark light enamel surfaces. Start cooking with low heat and do not change heat suddenly. Do not let boil dry. A weak solution of laundry bleach removes stains. Avoid abrasive cleaners. Enamel is a close relative of glass, so don't bang against sink or taps. When food sticks, soak or loosen by boiling water of a weak soda solution in utensils. Three tablespoons of soda to one quart of water will do it. If pan does boil dry, let cool before you fill it or put it into water.

"Cure" tinware before using. Wash in soap suds. Clean with scouring powder, steel wool or other metal cleaner. But use sparingly. Scouring removes tin coating and causes tin to rust. Always dry thoroughly to prevent rusting. Remove burned-on food by boiling soda and water in pan (three tablespoons soda to one quart of water for three to five minutes). Tarnish resulting from long use cannot be removed.

Glass should be washed with soap and water. When food has been burned into dish, soak in warm water with baking soda—again, three tablespoons to the quart. Use only fine scouring powders.

Always put food, water or fat into glass dish before heating. Use wire grid on electric range under utensils designed for top of the range, to protect them from high heat. Protect from hard knocks while washing. Cushion sink with a perforated rubber pad. Minerals in water will cause cloudiness on bottom of glass double boiler. This can be removed by adding two tablespoons of vinegar to water, then boiling for a few minutes.

snow this will keep it dry. The entrance should be just big enough for the dog to get through. Set it well over to one side and at least five inches above floor level. This arrangement minimizes drafts and prevents the bedding from spilling out.

Straw Best Bedding

Except in winter we use soft pine shavings, these make a good insulator, settle back into shape no matter how much they are scratched about and keep the dogs spotlessly clean. Their disadvantages for winter use is that they have a way of collecting frost and condensation from dampness. For winter bedding we change over to stable straw and stuff the kennels with it right up to the roof, changing it as often as it gets packed down. Then there is the matter of feeding. A dog that is being hunted regularly, whether hound or bird dog, should get a stepped-up ration and two meals a day, with one first thing in the morning and the other last thing at night. On the days when we are hunting our dogs, we don't feed them in the morning, but feed a double ration when the hunt is over. I have never known a well fed dog with a dry bed to come to any harm from cold temperatures.

HOUSE WITHIN A HOUSE

Joe Sheik has a wife and three children and his three-room house was bulging at the seams.

Sheik, of Newkirk, Okla., decided to build a new house but couldn't build in front or back, or even at the sides of his house because there wasn't room.

He couldn't tear down and rebuild the house because there wouldn't be any place to keep Mrs. Sheik and the kids.

He carefully studied all the angles and thenhe hit upon a solution.

With the help of his father and neighbours, Sheik is building his new house around the old one. It was designed so the old parts of the house would fit into the new one. There would be no displacement of the family.

Already completed are the sides and roof of a new eight-room house.

DROVE TWENTY YEARS WITHOUT LICENCE

City grand jury prosecutor Kenneth Akey, Burlington, Vt., told Judge Joseph C. McNeil in court that R. E. Harrington, 43, a chef, told him he had been driving an automobile for 20 years without a licence.

During that period Harrington even drove an ambulance in Boston—without a licence.

Harrington was in court charged with driving through a red light. After stopping him, police discovered he lacked a licence.

Akey recommended that a fine be imposed equivalent to the cost of renewing a Vermont operator's licence for 20 years—$2.50 times 20 equals $50—plus assessment of $8.20 cost. Judge McNeil so ordered.

VALENTINE SUGGESTIONS

DON'T LEAVE ALL THE VALENTINE FUN to the young folks. Plan something in the spirit of hearts-and-flowers, whether you are having a party or not. Just think of all the foods that will help you with their Valentine colour: You can have cherries, raspberries, strawberries, beets, pimento, tomatoes, cranberries and paprika, to name a few.

Individual Cherry Tarts

2 cups drained canned or frozen cherries
¾ cup cherry juice
½ cup sugar
¾ tbsp. cornstarch

Mix the cornstarch with a little cold cherry juice. Add to remainder of cherry juice which has been brought to a boil with the sugar. Stir and cook till there is no taste of raw starch Fill pastry-lined tart shells with cherries; pour thickened juice over and bake in hot oven till pastry is done. To add an extra Valentine touch, top each tart with a pastry heart.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream

2 tbsps. gelatine
¼ cup cold water
½ cup fruit juice
1½ cups canned drained berries
1½ cups cream

Soak the gelatine in cold water and dissolve in boiling fruit juice. Add fruit. Chill, stirring occasionally. When the mixture begins to thicken, beat until foamy and fold in cream whipped stiff. Turn into a mold moistened with cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on a serving plate and garnish with whipped cream For. St. Valentine's Day if you have a heart-shaped mold be sure to use it.

Tomatoes en Casserole On Toast

2 Spanish onions
3 tbsps. butter
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. paprika
⅛ tsp. pepper

Cut onions in slices and fry a delicate brown in the butter. Add tomatoes, salt, paprika and pepper. Mix well. Put in a baking dish and cook in a quick oven for an hour, stirring occasionally. Serve on slices of toast This is a good winter time supper dish.

Cherry Cake

½ cup butter
1 cup finely granulated sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
1½ tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup maraschino cherries cut in halves
2 tbsps maraschino cherry juice

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, then yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add cherries and juice. Bake in a moderate oven one hour. Remove from oven and sprinkle with finely granulated sugar while hot No icing is necessary.

Fried Apple Rings

Wipe three red apples and cut in thick slices without peeling or coring. Fry in butter or pork fat until tender. Serve with pork chops, baked ham or rib roast of pork.

When planning a Valentine salad garnish with slices of pickled beets, cut in heart shapes.

For a children's Valentine party cut sugar cookies in heart shapes and garnish with a small piece of cherry in the centre. Shortbread may be cut in heart shapes too.

A little chopped pimento added to salad dressing will give a pink colour. Use with vegetable, meat or fish salads.

Serve salads frequently as they contain considerable amounts of vitamins. Most salads require chewing, which helps to keep the teeth in good condition.

When using leftovers, plan to disguise them. Souffles and croquettes and fritters are excellent emthods of disguising leftover meats and vegetables. A cheese or tomato sauce often helps to complete the disguise.

Canada has 115,000 troops on aactive service but it takes 30,000 civil servants to administer them.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Next to your home, your automobile probbably represents the largest single investment of your family —and, like any important investment, it should be protected.

1. If you have a garage, never leave the car out overnight. Over a period of years a sheltered car will show far less wear and tear than one constantly exposed to the weather.
2. Treat your engine with respect. Always let the engine warm up a minute or two before driving off; always start in low gear, not in second; when the engine is labouring on steep grades, shift to second; keep an eye on the dashboard instruments to avoid trouble.
3. Be sensible about speed. Excessive speed is hard on your car, especially if it is old. And at 60 miles per hour you get far less gasoline mileage than at a more reasonable 40 miles per hour.
4. The majority of accidents, from dented fenders to total wrecks, could have been avoided. Obey every traffic regulation and make it a standing rule to give the other fellow the right of way.
5. Some service stations offer thorough check-up jobs, free, when your car is lubricated every 1,000 miles. Take advantage of this service because a minor repair or adjustment now may prevent an accident or heavy repair bills later.

These simple rules will more than double the dividents on your car investment.

Power Company Finds Hull Prankster Live Wire

A "joker" with a twisted sense of humour verbally blasted Gatineau Power Company subscribers in Hull during a recent breakdown when all calls placed to the company's trouble line cut in on the jokester's telephone and he pretended to be a company spokesman.

It was not for some two hours that the situation was noticed. And when it was found out it was too late for Bell Telephone investigators to attempt to find out to whose line the calls went.

During a storm, the Gatineau Power Company reported, their trouble line became tangled with another. No calls came through to the trouble department, all of them were going to another line.

On that line, where calls were pouring through almost every minute, the practical joker told subscribers anxious to make inquiries about the power disruption:

1. Pay your bills and you'll get the service.
2. Your power won't likely be on for two weeks.
3. We're not a bunch of lumber jacks; we're not going to cut down every tree in Hull.

First indication that the calls were not going through to Gatineau Power came when a company employe called the trouble department and instead reached the prankster.

He immediately notified company officials who informed the Bell Telephone Company and the Hull Police Department.

In the first quarter of 1954, 451 Canadians met death and another 10,508 were injured on the nation's highways.

Canada imported 30,151 gallons of sparkling and 1,080,116 gallons of non-sparkling wines in the 12 months ended March 31st, 1954.

Finch W.I. Members Plan Cooking Sale

Sub-zero weather failed to damped to dampen the spirits of Finch Women's Institute members where nearly 30 met at the home of Mrs. Gladstone MacLean.

The president, Mrs. Donald Casselman, conducted the meeting and, in the absence of the secretary whose sister is very ill in Montreal, the assistant secretary, Mrs. Earl Droppo, acted in that capacity.

Correspondence consisted of a letter from the Central Canada Exhibition requesting the Women's Institutes to enter exhibits for their 1955 exhibition.

The government grant was received at this meeting. A letter was read from the Canadian Mental Health Association requesting assistance by accepting the usual penny bags. It was decided to send for penny bags for same. There was also a letter from Miss MacPhail, Home Economist for Stormont, stating a Girls' Garden Club would be available again this year and Mrs. Blake Nephew consented to be the leader.

The treasurer's report was given by Miss M. Baillieul.

The president announced a crokinole party would be held in the Legion Hall on February 18th, in aid of the library and asked for the support of all members.

It was decided to hold a home cooking sale on Saturday, February 19th, with Mrs. Roy Rupert and Mrs. H. Ouderkirk in charge.

The roll call was answered by "My First Photo," and took the form of a contest which was won by Mrs. Jim McMillan. This was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. R. S. Abraham and Mrs. Earl Droppo and an educational film on "The Crafters" provided by one of the local teachers, and was much enjoyed.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served by Mrs. MacLean, assisted by Mrs. Peter Shaver, Mrs. Jim McMillan and Mrs. Donald Casselman.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jim McMillan, instead of Mrs. W. G. Brownlee's as scheduled.

Local Hockey Team Downs Avonmore 3-2 In Hard-fought Game

At the Finch Arena last Tuesday Avonmore High School and Chesterville played the return half of a home and home series with the Chesterville team emerging victorious by the close score of 3 to 2.

The game was the best the Chesterville team has played to date. Their passing and, especially, their back checking kept the Avonmore team away from Tom Moore who played his best game to date between the pipes.

The first period was wide open with each team trying to get that all important first goal, but neither team managed to score although they each had many fine chances.

The second period again produced wide open hockey with the first goal coming on a long drive by John Durant making it 1 to 0 for Chesterville. Then minutes later Neil Moore slammed a loose puck over the fallen Avonmore goaler to give Chesterville a commanding lead of 2 to 0. During the late minutes of the period two penalties to Brian Gilbert and Mel Abel left the Chesterville team dangerously short-handed. The period ended with these two men in the penalty box.

The beginning of the third iod saw the Chesterville team two men short for close to a minute and a half but Avonmore was unable to capitlize due to the fine back checking of Durant, Beckstead and Smith. Then the roof fell in for the Chesterville team as Avonmore scored twice on goals by Armstrong and Davis to tie the score. The Chesterville team then applied the pressure and Brian Gilbert scored the winning goal with only a minute remaining in the game.

The game was an exceptionally clean one with each handing out hard but legal checks. The good sportsmanship displayed by both sides makes hockey a sport and not a case of legal mayhem as has been viewed in all too many rinks recently.

Lineups:

Chesterville: T. Moore, M. Abel, K. Smith, R. Sutherland, N. Moore, F. Beckstead J. Durant, M. Beckstead, B. Gilbert, B. Whittaker, G. Olsen, D. Hall.

Avonmore: H. Williamson, D. Sutherland, B. McEwan, G. McEwan, C. Garlough, H. Grant, I. Benthum, K. Harris, W. Armstrong, H. MacDonald.
