U.S. Tourist Has Praise For Canadians When His Money Recovered

Mr. Frank Arcidy, of 86 Summer St., Lawrence, Mass., is one United States tourist who has fond memories of Canada in general, and of Morrisburg in particular.

One day last week Mr. Arcidy stopped overnight at the Loyalist Hotel in Morrisburg.

Continuing on his way on Monday to the State of Michigan, he was dismayed to find that he had lost a money belt containing a sum in excess of $800 cash. Calling back to the local hostelry, he contacted one of the owners, Mrs. Klaudia Gardner, who was able to assure him that the money had indeed been found, and was already being returned to him.

So delighted was Mr. Arcidy at this good news, that he immediately telephoned to The Leader, to publicly commend Mrs. Gardner, the hotel staff, and Canadians in general.

LOCAL MAN INVOLVED IN RESCUE OF DIVERS

The rescue of two British divers last weekend received world wide publicity but it was of special interest to some local folks since the acting engineer of the rescuing vessel is a Morrisburg resident, Rudy Boulerice.

The divers, Roger Mallinson, 35, and Roger Chapman, 28, were stranded in a minisub, the Pisces III, at a depth of 1,375 feet on the ocean floor off Cork, Ireland. They had been laying a transatlantic cable when their tow line snapped. For three days two similar midget subs, the Pisces II flown from Scotland and the Pisces V flown to Cork from Shearwater, N.S. searched the area, hampered by adverse weather conditions. The Pisces II discovered the stranded Pisces III and attached a rescue cable early Saturday morning after a similar effort failed Friday night.

The Canadian coast guard vessel "John Cabot" which is used for search and rescue as well as cable laying is spending three months in British waters helping to lay a transatlantic cable from Swansea, Wales to Nova Scotia. Upon receiving the SOS, the Cabot raced to the scene and winched the Pisces III to the surface in a 3½ hour ordeal that left the trapped divers with only a 90 minute supply of oxygen between them and death Despite their harrowing experience the two men never showed signs of tension. Chapman sang sea chanties and "We All Live in a Yellow Submarine" to give their rescuers a voice fix on their sonar listening device.

During his rescue Saturday Mallinson received a birthday greeting by radio from his wife. They have three children. Chapman has been married for a year. The British defence ministry in London said the men were in "good condition, fit enough to play football.

INTERIM FARM CLASSIFICATION REPORT

The Farm Classification Advisory Committee, appointed by the Minister of Agriculture and Food on April 30, 1973, has submitted an Interim Report offering recommendations on the application of the 1973 Farm Tax Rebate Programme.

The Interim Report, presented by the Chairman of the Committee Edward J. Koal, to Hon. Wm. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture and Food, on August 24, 1973, results from presentations made to the Committee at 14 of the 19 scheduled public meetings across the province.

The Farm Tax Rebate Program jointly administered by the Ministires of Agriculture and Food, and Treasury, Economics and Intergovernmental affairs, was initiated in the fall of 1970 and provided for Provincial Government rebate of 25% of the municipal taxes levied on farmland. This policy has continued each year since that time. In his 1973 Ontario budget, Hon. John White, the Provincial Treasurer, announced the farm tax rebate would be increased from 25 % to 50% of the municipal tax levy on farmland in Ontario. The recommendations contained in the Interim Report of the Farm Classification Advisory Committee, are therefore, very timely.

In commenting on the Committee's Report, Hon. Wm. A. Stewart said: "We are pleased that Mr Kowal and his Committee have seen fit to provide us with this Interim Report. The Committee's recommendations will be given consideration by the Government of Ontario as we proceed to implement the 1973 Farm Tax Rebate Programme".

The Committee's Interim Report suggests a continuation of the previous provision which requires a minimum gross sale figure for properties of less than 11 acres. It suggests, however, that the minimum gross sale figure of $2,000, which has applied since the Programme was introduced in 1970, be "adjusted upwards in accordance with the parm price index statistic". The farm price index in 1970 was 128.6 (1961 equalling 100). The index has risen steadily since that time and at the latest calculation (June 1973) it had reached 181.3. On this basis the $2,000 designated as the minimum gross sale in 1970 would, in June of 1973, be approximately $2,850.

Vicious Storm Causes Heavy Damage in Winchester Area

A vicious storm lashed the Winchester area on Monday evening and hail temporarily cooled the tropic air that had hung over the district during the last half of August.

Drenching rains and high winds accompanie da fierce electrical storm, and lightning completely destroyed the trailer home of Mr. and Mrs. Beverly MacQueen on Ottawa Street.

The MacQueen family was absent at the time and nearby residents reported the home appeared to literally explode when struck.

"Fortunately", said one neighbour, "the family was away. Had they been at home they might have had difficulty escaping the blazing inferno".

The traffic along the highway was detoured onto a side street and power was knocked out for about 10 hours.

This year, according to reports from the weather office, Eastern Canada has experienced the longest and hottest heat wave in the past century with the mercury climbing into the high 80s and low 90s daily for the past two weeks.

Unlike last summer's continued cool, wet weather when most of the crops were washed away, farmers this year report an excellent harvest of hay and corn, although the late spring played havoc with some grain and corn crops on low lying land.

A few blocks away, another bolt of lightning struck a large tree near the corner of Main and Mill Streets, but since no buildings were nearby, only the tree was damaged.

Further down the highway at the village of Finch, the storm struck again, and several trees were toppled during the blow. The major area was just in front of the Brownlee Funeral Home, at Finch, where a large tree fell across Highway 43, severing the hydro lines and blocking traffic.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

I read a story this week about one Colonel Harland Sanders, which filled me with read admiration. What a man!

I met him in the early 1960's when I was visiting Ottawa for the first time — that is, I met his well-known picture outside a restaurant in what is now known as the Mall. I also took the advice on his picture and enjoyed his particular type of fried chicken, at that time.

Well, it seems he was sitting on his porch in Kentucky, and it was on his birthday. He was just 65 years old, and the mail-man arrived and handed him his first pension cheque (social security).

Now, Colonel Sanders, although appreciative of his government's thought for its senior citizens,— he had no desire to settle down free from the work-a-day and business world for the rest of his life. The story does not say what he did before his retirement, and I have no idea myself. You, who are reading this, may know what he did, perhaps knowing him better.

However, in spite of only possessing very limited cash at the age of 65, he certainly had unlimited confidence in himself. As he sat in his porch that day, he really started thinking, and lots of ideas came to his mind. He remembreed the lovely fried chicken his mother used to make, he could almost smell it, and it was a very nostalgic memory indeed. Then he thought . . . why not sell the recipe, on a royalty basis, to the restaurants in and around where he lived?

So he climbed into his old car and called on all the restaurant owners, described this great method of frying chicken to them, but no one cared for the idea. He travelled across from Kentucky to Utah, but they felt their own recipes for fried chicken were serving them well enough. But there wasone in Salt Lake City, and although a bit doubtful that his customers so far north would care for a southern recipe, he decided to try it out.

The result was startling, to say the least, for people crowded in, night after night, for those delicious golden pieces of chicken, and agreed wholeheartedly about them being "finger lickin' good" which was the Colonel's own personal phrase for them.

The story goes on to say that Colonel Sanders in his eye-catching, well-tailored white suit, finally sold his recipe for 2 million dollars, and then was asked by the new owners to be their "goodwill ambassador" at $40,000 a year While he lived, his cherry and silver bearded face was full of humour and intelligence, and at over eighty years of age, he was still very enthusiastic over his new career. I think he died only this last year, but his memory lives on as a man who was not afraid of facing the years that were left to him once he had reached 65.

I sincerely feel that he MUST have had another factor to his thinking and it must have been a spiritual one, a faith in what God could do to help him re-organise his later years, especially now, with this new and fuller interest in continued living. Have you this kind of thing in your living, especially if you are a senior citizen like me? I know that I have, although I have no leaning for making more money out of my pension cheque . . . I rarely see it, as a matter of fact, it is swallowed up in the incidential expenses incurred while I am living in this expensive age. Even so, I have discovered in my own living, at present, that this particular factor added to one's thinking in preparing for one's later years, this matter of sure faith in God, well-age never dulls it, and problems, pain, even sorrows are never able to take the edge off it, either. Having a real faith in the Almighty does the trick, as we say, and the secret of seemingly never - ending renewal of the mind and spirit is with you and me for the taking.

Yes, the colonel really had 'something' and I, for one, look at myself once again, and ask myself "Am I using mine, (for I know I have it,) to the best of my ability?" and only time will show. That, I think, goes for us all.— Would you agree?

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Friendly, spontaneous, talkative and witty are some of the qualities that make 13-year-old Jimmy a good companion. But he might recognize himself better if he were described as tall and slender with brown eyes, blonde hair, fair skin and a pleasant smile.

Jimmy is sports-minded. He likes swimming and plays soccer, baseball and hockey. He is a Scout and has many friends made through Scouts, school and Sunday School. He is fond of music.

An unsettled period in Jimmy's life held him back in school and left him feeling distrustful of adults. He is now learning to be more relaxed with adults and it is felt he will be an average student when he feels settled in a home where he belongs. He will be in Grade Seven next term.

Since Jimmy is accustomed to children of all ages, he could fit almost anywhere in a family. But he very much needs a lot of parental interest and affection, and therefore, it is hoped he will be adopted into a home with not many other children. The mother and father should be warm, understanding people who enjoy being involved in their children's activities.

To inquire about adopting Jimmy, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.

THE BARBECUE HAZARD

The recent death by asphyxiation of a young Kitchener couple and their 2-year-old son is a sad reminder of a little-understood summer hazard. The family was overcome by fumes from the charcoal barbecue they were using in a house trailer.

Carbon monoxide, which is tasteless, odorless, invisible and deadly can build up in lethal concentrations if you use a barbecue or hibachi in an enclosed or poorly ventilated area. The fumes you can smell are no way to judge the danger.

Tests conducted in small areas have shown the carbon monoxide level produced by a small charcoal fire, in, for example, a kitchen measuring 8 feet by 10 feet x 8 feet, surpasses the safe breathig concentration in a few minutes. So keep those barbecues out of doors, and resist the temptation to move them inside in the event of rain or cool weather.

SCHOOL BUS LAWS

Now that school is underway again, motorists will have to be wary of school buses on the highway, and the special requirements they demand of other drivers, under the law.

The Highway Traffic Act states on the subject of overtaking or meeting school buses,

"Where a school bus is stopped on a highway or part of a highway on which the maximum speed limit is greater than 35 miles per hour for the purpose of receiving or discharging children, the driver of a vehicle

(a) when overtaking a school bus on which the words "do not pass when signals flashing" are marked and two red signal-lights are illuminated with intermittent flashes; and

(b) when meeting on suc a higway, other than a highway with a median strip, a school bus on the front of which two red signal lights are illuminated with intermittent flashes, — shall stop the vehicle before reaching the school bus and shall not proceed until the school bus resumes motion, or the signal lights are no longer operating".

BACK TO SCHOOL SAFETY

If you've got young children of elementary school age, you'll want to have them brush up on their traffic safety knowledge before they begin the trip to and from school once again.

Start by walking the route to school with the youngest, going over things to do at each crossing point. Then review Elmer the Safety Elephant's six traffic rules:

1. Look both ways before you cross the street.
2. Ride your bike safely. Obey all signs and signals.
3. Play games in a safe place, away from traffic.
4. Keep out from between parked cars.
5. Walk, don't run, when you cross the road.
6. Where ther no sidewalks, walk facing traffic.

Elmer has been around a long time now — over 25 years in Toronto, where he began teaching his rules to school children. In town after town across Ontario where he has been adopted in the schools, the traffic accident rate among school children has dropped impressively right away; sure proof that his wisdom really works.

FASHION SAFETY

Some of the high-fashion platform shoes being worn by both men and women can be a real driving hazard, if you stop to think about it. It's difficult enough to shift from the accelerator to the brake in an emergency, but if you're wearing a 3- or 4-inch platform shoe it's bound to be even more difficult.

You need all the sensitivity you can muster in order to react swiftly in an emergency. Don't impair your driving ability by wearing footwear that reduces your sense of touch, and may cause you to over-accelerate or fumble the pedals.

Hospital Costs Keep Rising

Continued constraints in the hospital sector will be in effect throughout fiscal 1974/75, Ontario Health Ministry officials revealed today.

However, the tough 5 per cent increase allowed for the current year has been modified. Hospitals may start preparing 1974 operating budgets on the basis of an increase not exceeding 7.9 per cent of the 1973 approved maximum allowable net operating costs.

In a letter to all chairmen of boards and administrators of hospitals, Deputy Minister S.W. Martin commended hospitals for their co-operation in assisting the Ministry in its attempts to reverse the sharp escalation in the cost of providing health services.

Mr. Martin pointed out that the percentage increase allowable in net operating costs is announced at this time so that the mechanism of budget planning may be started.

that there are many forces at work in the economy at the present time which have a direct effect could serve to reduce the hospital's 1973 operating base — the basis on which 1974 budgets are calculated.

Mr. Martin said he is "aware Such adjustments, reflected in the individual hospital budget, fect upon hospital operations. Resources available to us continue to be limited."

The Deputy Minister indicated that the definitive budget position of the Ministry as it affects hospital budgets would be evident "within the next four or five weeks and said boards would be notified at that time "of the extent of such adjustments" as they might affect individual hospitals".

However, he also made it clear to hospital officials that Ministry discussions are continuing insofar as final adjustments

You Can't Please Them All

(Wingham Advance-Times)

The Canadian government's legislation to restrict export of the more costly cuts of beef and pork has aroused plenty of opposition and confusion. The resentment among meat producers was predictable; the confusion over the regulations was unnecessary.

No one will ever settle the dispute over the price of meat in a way that pleases all. Quite Naturally Canadian farmers were angered when the restricting legislation brought the domestic price of beef down $5 to $8 per hundredweight. Equally undestandable was the sigh of limited relief from wage earners and housewives who have been wondering for the past few weeks how they could stretch the pay cheque any thinner.

Living, as we do, in a rural community, there is plenty of sympathy on the side of the producers. Far too long they have been under paid for their products. However, there is no way to make the bread winners of even reasonably small families enjoy paying up to $2.50 a pound for good beef. Despite federal agriculture minister Whelan's contention that Canadians can well afford to pay higher food prices, we have a feeling it's a long time since he has been forced to get along on an ordinary workman's wages.

Canadians may be thankful that the government's restrictions did not take the form of those imposed across the border. In the U.S. a freeze on the price of meat produced within that country has resulted in the total removal of a large percentage of the supply from the domestic market.

Fix-It Tip

Place a piece of heavy aluminum foil between the seat cushion and the spring on each patio chair to prevent unsightly metal rust stain on the seat cushions. The foil works perfectly on the chaise lounge springs, too. Protect the outdoor pillows from rain and dew by removing the decorative cover, wrapping the inner pillows in heavy foil, sealing the edges tightly with a double fold, then putting the decorative cover back on.

BRONZE COINS MARK 300th ANNIVERSARY

An antique bronze coin has been struck by the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission to commemorate the 300th anniversary of Moose Factory Island.

Moose Factory is the oldest permanent white settlement in Ontario. Located in the Moose River on the southern tip of James Bay, 600 miles north of Toronto, it was founded as a Hudson's Bay Company Post in 1673.

Moose Factory is still very much a part of the fur-trade in Canada. It is also one of the major tourist attractions in Ontario's northland.

Until 1931, when the Temiskaming and Northern Railway (now the ONR) reached Moosonee, a sister community across the river, Moose Factory was only accessible by water.

The ONR makes nine trips a week to Moosonee during the summer. Last month, it carried 10,683 passengers north to Moosonee and 10,673 southbound. This was an increase of 446 over the same period last year.

Ten thousand of the two-inch coins have been minted. They are available from the Public Relations Department, Ontario Northland Transportation Commission, for $5.00 each plus tax. Cheques should be made out payable to the Commission.

CP Ships' container vessel, "CP Voyageur", docked at Quebec City last week with three young giraffes on board alive and well, in a 20-foot container. The animals which were zoo-born in England, were on their way to "African Lion Safari", a large 500-acre drive-through zoo, near Hamilton, Ont. The three young giraffes, Tina, Teresa and Tom, take a moment to say hello to their new owner, Tom Dailley, assistant manager of the zoo, who was at the dock to greet them. CP Ships has always said they could ship almost anything in a container — even live giraffes.

C.N.I.B. Appeal in September

Setpember will be CNIB Appeal month, Mr. Howard Biccum, chair man of the Dundas County Advisory Board for the CNIB, announced today.

Beginning September 10, the CNIB will conduct its campaign for funds in the Three United Counties. The money raised will provide services to more than 130 blind people and close to 300 people as well who will require prevention of blindness care.

"Because of the fast changing nature of our way of life, blind people have to be trained for new occupations and required, to have a better education just as is the case with people who have their sight," Mr. Biccum said. The CNI has to keep pace with this need since it is the only national organization for the blind with the know ledge and trained staff to give the necessary guidance and help.

The CNIB provides friendly caun selling for the parents of pre - school aged children; visiting and talking book services for blind peo ple in their homes, in homes for the aged or CNIB residences for blind people who need a home. There is vocational guidance and training as well as assistance to obtain higher education for blind youth and training to adjust to blindness for people of all ages.

The CNIB seeks to minimize the catastrophic effect of blindness on those who have the misfortune — 6 of them every day — to lost their sight.

"How to prevent blindness," Mr. Biccum continued," is equally the concern of CNIB, whether it is helping to correct crossed eyes in young children so as to prevent the loss of sight in one eye or to help restore sight by providing cataract glasses for elderly people, the end is the same — to enable people to retain the gift of sight." Many of thousands of Canadians have good vision now, thanks to the CNIB.

Mr. Gordon Thom, Campaign Convener for Morrisburg and district, expressed the hope that people would respond generously when the CNIB canvasser calls.

CARE Rushes Aid to Paistan Flood Victims

In response to urgent requests from CARE's staff in Pakistan, the international aid agency is air lifting initial shipments of $179,-491 worth of emergency relief supplies for victims of the disastrous floods that have engulfed two entire provinces, rendering, by latest estimate, 10 to 15 million people homeless and destitute.

The cargo, flown free by Pakistan International Airlines, includes 100,150 pounds of survival foods, medical supplies and 5,150 cotton blankets.

In drought-stricken Niger (Africa), for example, CARE airdrops of survival foods are now reaching isolated villages via the Belgian Air Force. Honduras, India, the Philippines and Nigeria are among other nations receiving emergency drought or flood assistance ranging from food and medicines to seeds and water-drilling equipment. Those who wish to help can send contributions to: CARE Worldwide Drought/Flood Emergency Fund, 63 Sparks St., Department 4, Ottawa, Ontario K1P 5A6

WILDLIFE RUSTLERS
by: Wayne Mutton,
Information Officer

"There's no such thing as a free lunch", some bar-room sage once said. But according to natural resources wildlife conservation officers, that's exactly what increasing numbers of people are after, after-dark these days in eastern Ontario.

A free wildlife lunch is okay, except for one thing: the open seasons for big and small game; and migratory birds are still weeks away.

Last week near Ottawa district Conservation Officers answered reports from citizens in Gloucester Township who were hearing what sounded like shotgun blasts from nearby forest-field areas.

Sure enough, two hunters, one with an unplugged pump action gun, were turned up. A search of their homes with two police constables uncovered the remains of five migratory birds. Charges have been laid in that case.

Jack-lighting of deer seems also to be on the increase. In the Tweed, Brockville, Ottawa-Carleton, Lanark and Cornwall areas, CO's are finding evidence that the poachers are out and about. The back roads and fields are being driven regularly at night.

With jack-lighting the idea is to suddenly catch a deer in the beam from one or more powerful handheld lights and while it is transfixed and partially blinded . . . . shoot.

With hte price of food the way it is these days, the increase in poaching was expected and all natural resources districts in eastern Ontario have put on extra patrols after dusk and early in the morning to stop what is really a case of rustling everyone's property - Ontario's wildlife.

THE WOODLANDS IMPROVEMENT ACT: TRY IT — YOU'LL LIKE IT!

In the Middle Ages, some Slav peasants believed ill-luck could be avoided by walking around a tree slowly and eating bits of its bark. In part of Africa where tribal taboos said a bachelor couldn't marry a widow, the young man could get around the rules by going through a ceremony in which he was wedded to a tree. When the tree was cut down his bachelor status was changed to widower and he was free to marry his otherwise inaccessible widow.

It's doubtful if property-owners in Eastern Ontario today will need trees for similar purposes. However what they might consider is planting trees for wind protection, prevention of soil erosion, and to add to the value and appearance of their property. Tree planting is also one of the best ways of using otherwise unproductive agricultural land that's lying waste.

The province of Ontario will provide not only the trees, but knowledgeable foresters to look over your property, recommend species, number, and help you plan a reforestation project.

The trees cost approximately a cent apiece and will be planted by the ministry of natural resources. The program is called the Woodlands Improvement Act.

If you're interested, contact the local natural resources district office. Here are the telephone numbers:

Cornwall district (five eastern counties) 487-2100.
Brockville (Leeds and Grenville) 258-3151.
Ottawa-Carleton district 822-2525
Lanark district 259-2611.
Tweed district 478-2330.
Napanee district 354-3389.

BIRTHS

"Cindy" a three-foot eastern garter snake at Outlet Beach, in Sandbanks Provincial Park in Prince Edward County is pleased to announce the birth of 52 children, August 22.

Marilyn Armstrong, the seasonal naturalist at Outlet, and midwife to the proud mother, said "Cindy" was discovered July 15, by campers who thought she was rather thick for a garter snake.

Miss Armstrong, 20, a third year student at the University of Toronto, kept Cindy under observation in one of the glass cages in her park office.

A few days before the blessed event, Cindy started forming a small nest of cedar branches. Within this she started her day-long job of giving birth. Garter snakes bear live young, the egg being retained inside until they are hatched. Each snakelet was born coiled in a tight circle inside a clear elastic sack. The snakelets burst these fluid-filled sacks immediately to prevent their own drowning. Following this the maternity operation was completed. Young garter snakes are given no parental care.

The eastern garter snake usually has from 20 to 30 young in August or September, but as many as 78 have been recorded in one litter. Cindy may just break that record in a few years.

In the meantime, mother and children are reported as doing well.

HEALTH FOR ALL

THANK YOU FOR NOT SMOKING

The majority of Americans are nonsmokers. Many nonsmokers are now organizing to protect their rights to a clean indoor environment. But nonsmoking hospital patients — of all people — too often get little protection.

Efforts have been made to eleminate smoking in some hospitals. But in others, even patients with severe respiratory problems are sometimes confined in rooms where other patients and their visitors are allowed to smoke.

Second-hand cigarette smoke affects nonsmokers in much the same way as it affects smokers. It increases the heart beat and blood pressure and raises the level of carbon monoxide in the blood. All people, but especially those who are ill, should be protected from these hazards to their health.

People troubled by this situation — including agencies such as the American Lung Association and its affiliates — are encouraging measures to protect patients. For example, the New York Lung Association, working with other organizations concerned about the hazards of smoking and its effects on others in enclosed spaces, recently issued guidelines to hospitals in New York City to: allow patients to smoke only in private rooms or in rooms shared with other smoking patients; give patients the choice of sharing a room with smokers or nonsmokers; and restrict smoking by visitors and staff to specific areas. Further, the guidelines prohibit the sale of all cigarettes in hospitals and designate smoking and non-smoking areas in hospital dining rooms and cafeterias.

To find out what's happening in hospitals in your community, contact young lung association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Too Many Guests

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

We are a childless, middle-aged couple who recently purchased a new home on the waterfront. We were in the house a week (and I was still busy decorating) when friends and acquaintances (and their children) started to drop in, uninvited. They came by car and by boat. I resented the intrusion but said nothing. Now they're still calling, particularly on weekends, when the weather is good. I am exhausted on Monday, after entertaining all the uninvited company, and I find that my food bills are soaring. We would like a few quiet weekends. How can I discourage these people? R.M.

Dear R.M.:

The next time unexpected company arrives, tell them at the start of their visit that you're glad to see them, but you and your husband have other plans for the day. As they leave, suggest they telephone first next time so you can have a good visit. It may take time before they get the message, but keep at it. Before the year is up, you'll find you've lost some acquaintances, but no friends, and you'll have a few quiet weekends.

Friendless Widow

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

When my husband died about a year ago, many friends who came to the funeral promised to get in touch with me but they haven't. I tried calling a few of them. But while they talked about getting together with me soon, I haven't heard from them since. Should I keep trying or forget them? J.P.

Dear J.P.:

You seem to doubt the sincerity of the promises made by your friends to get together with you. Don't. They may just be caught up in the problems and daily events of their own lives. Give them another call — and another chance

Older Man.

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I have a sister who is 55 and was never married. She is now dating a widower who is 75 and she tells me they may marry. I have cautioned her about the age difference but she refuses to listen to my arguments. Don't you think he's too old for her? K. G.

Dear K.G.:

Neither you nor I can say that a 75-year-old man is too old for a 55-year old woman. It's a decision only that man and that woman can make. The eventual success of the marriage depends on them. The age difference need not be a crucial factor.

EARLY DETECTION OF DECAY

Dental research may have come up with another method of early detection of tooth decay.

Until recently, the tooth was believed to be inactive. But by applying a technique developed for studying fluid movement in major organs such as the kidneys, dental scientists observed that dentinal fluid did move from the pulp to tiny channels in the dentine to the enamel.

They foud that a slowdown in this fluid movement, caused by a high sugar diet, may be an early indication of tooth decay developing. The high sugar diet is said to disturb the hormone balance, and with the slowdown of this internal fluid, the teeth are more vulnerable.

The dental researchers found that healthy teeth with a normal flow are invulnerable to decay-causing bacteria that are always found in the mouth.

The scientists have found chemical ways of stimulating the flow of this dental fluid, which may some day be one method of preventing decay.

ANNOUNCING DO-IT-YOURSELF L.I.P.

Your Local Initiatives Program is even more local.

This year, $83 million is going to be invested in helping people help themselves in their community.

If yours is a typical community, we're putting the "local" into the Local Initiatives Program by setting up a Constituency Advisory Group, or by having L.I.P. staff consult with already established groups. So now you help decide which projects will contribute most to everybody.

On the Constituency Advisory Group will sit a good representation from the community, including people active in community affairs, people from local government and social agencies, and L.I.P. sponsors from last year, all suggested by your M.P.

Your project could have up to $75,000 to work with, if your idea is a highly creative and innovative one.

To qualify for L.I.P. funds, your project must create not less than 15 man-months of employment. Workers with the skills required for your project must be available within your community. Project sponsors must hire all employees through Canada Manpower Centres. Deadline for applications is October 15th, 1973, though early submissions could result in projects starting as early as December 1st. In northern or isolated areas, projects could start as early as November 1st. Projects may be funded for up to six months.

There's Do-it-Yourself Business L.I.P., too, for companies which want to provide facilities or services for their communities. Projects are not to be related to business operations, and must create additional jobs.

All it takes is one good idea.

IN MEMORIAMS

WEEGAR — In wonderful memories of our loving brother, Lyn, who was accidentally killed on September 10th, 1972.
We wonder if we'll ever know if Lyn is really home;
This trip he took to heaven, he took it on his own.
But he was always confident, and mostly found his way -
Yet today we sit and wonder - will Lyn be home today.
All we've got is memories of the times we were all together,
But God will mend the broken chain, and one by one, we'll meet again.
We never part from the ones we love, no distance can divide,
For every day in memory, we still walk side by side.
In perfect peace, you wait us all.
—Ever remembered, never forgotten:

SHAROLLE, DENIS,
KEVIN, TIM.

WEEGAR — In loving memory of our dear son, Lyn, who was accidentally killed Sept. 10th, 1972.
We often sit and weep for him, the one that's gone before,
But then we hear him say, please do not weep no more.
Sometimes it's hard to understand why some things have to be
But in His wisdom, God has planned beyond our power to see.
We hear his voice, we see his smile, we hear him say, just for a while;
We'll meet again, for that is true, God giveth and He taketh too.
God wanted him and him alone, to stay with him upon his throne.
His pride and joy with us he left to stay, until there comes that waiting day
And then we all shall meet again, where there is no sorrow or no pain.
Father in thee we put our trust, you have our son in the form of dust;
Gather soul from its clammy mold forever to keep in thy gracious hold.
Ever remembered, ever loved, and in the care of God above.

MOM AND DAD.

HOWITH—In loving memory of Martha Cornelius Howith, who passed away Aug. 28, 1965.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by her husband, George and sons, Harry and Renny.

THE RED CROSS SERVES FOR YOU

YOU CAN DO IT

BY TOM TREMFIX

Question: We'd like to do something to "dress up" the basement in our new house without too much expense. The basement isn't painted, tiled, or finished in any way. Any suggestions?

Answer: A good high-gloss paint made especially for concrete floors will do wonders for the appearance of basements at minimal cost. I recommend Tremco Colortread concrete paint. It's a rubber-base paint that seals out dampness and provides a durable, high-gloss finish that looks great. And, if you decide to tile later on, you can put down the tile right over Colortread with no special preparation.

To apply Colortread concrete paint, just make the floor as dry and dust-free as possible. No primer is needed, and one coat will cover unless your floor is very porous. In that case, a second coat is recommended.

You can make the job go faster by applying Colortread with a long-handled roller. And it dries in just two hours to a durable gloss finish that's easy to keep clean with a damp mop. Colortread also prevents musty basement odours by sealing out moisture and dampness. And it stops concrete-floor "dusting" problems.

Tremco Colortread paint comes in five decorative colours in Imperial gallons and quarts. One gallon covers about 400 square feet.

For more information on concrete paints, write to Tom Tremfix, The Tremco Manufacturing Company (Canada), Ltd., Toronto, Ontario M4H 1G7.
