Meeting channel schedule

(Staff) - The South Nation River Conservation Authority (SNRCA) latest channelization project, Contract V, is right on schedule and the project's site supervisor Marvin Waldroff said about 45 per cent of the river material has already been removed.

SNRCA's current channelization project involves work on a section of the river stretching from a point three kilometres west of the Cass Bridge to Salters Bridge.

Alnor Earthmoving Ltd., of Oshawa was awarded the contract in late May, on the basis of its $1.4 million bid, and work on the river itself began shortly after.

Mr. Waldroff, an employee of Kostuch Engineering Ltd., the consulting engineers for the project, said apart from hitting some marine clay, everything was right on schedule.

"We expected to hit it (marine clay)," he said. "It's harder to excavate than normal clay because it's more liquidy and it falls apart more easily."

The recent rainy weather hasn't helped either. When it rains, the heavy machinery used sinks into the mud and work must be halted.

"When it rained we had to make them stop," he said. "When it rains working becomes dangerous. Trucks spin their wheels and we have to have a bulldozer there at all times to pull them out."

The work so far has involved digging a new channel for the river, bypassing the old channel and a number of oxbows. Mr. Waldroff said that new channel would probably be opened up sometime this week.

"We're holding the water back now and there is only a foot or two of water in the new channel where we are working," he said. "When we open the channel all the water from the old channel will come rushing through."

New princess

Suzanne Rose, left, was crowned 1983-84 Dundas County Dairy Princess Saturday afternoon during Winchester's Jamaica Day festivities. Suzanne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rose, RR2 Mountain, receives her crown from last year's princess Rachel Thurler. Suzanne is in her third year of Sociology at the University of Western Ontario.

Crysler residents could see dike built by 1984

BERWICK (Staff) - Residents of the Village of Crysler will only have to make it through one more spring before the construction of a dike which should put an end to the annual spring floods in the community.

South Nation River Conservation Authority (SNRCA) general manager Jim Windsor attended Monday evening's meeting of Finch Township Council in Berwick to bring councillors up to date on SNRCA plan to erect a dike in Crysler.

"I'm optimistic the construction (of the dike) could begin in the summer of 1984," Mr. Windsor said, "depending on provincial funding. This means that Crysler will have to get through one more spring without it, but it is a priority with SNRCA."

The dike is designed to prevent damage from the annual spring flooding in Crysler and the project got an extra boost after the disastrous flood that occurred in April of 1982.

According to an assessment done for the authority by the Toronto based engineering firm of Proctor and Redfern, that flood caused an estimated $30,000 in damages. The suggested solution is to construct a series of dikes to protect the floodplain, which covers 1st, 2nd and 3rd Streets as well as a portion of Queen St.

The system would run along the river bank behind 1st from 4th St. to Queen St. and be tied into the bridge embankment.

East of the bridge the dike could enclose only those properties along the east side of Queen St. and tie into the higher ground behind Desormeaux's Meat Market.

Mr. Windsor said he thought the authority might have to purchase some private property to build the dike, but said he didn't think they would encounter much of a problem with that.

"We'll probably have to purchase some land west of the bridge," he said. "However, I don't think we'll have too much resistance to putting the dike on people's property. If somebody decides they don't want the dike built we would have to wait a minimum of 90 days for expropriation. If that happens what we might do is come to council and ask you to expropriate by by-law. You can do that and you don't have to go through all the hoops the authority does. I'm not saying this because we want you to be the heavies, but if we are under a time constraint to get this project finished, I would come back and ask you to expropriate by by-law."

In addition to the construction of a dike Mr. Windsor suggested to council that a flood response plan be developed. He pointed out that merely because there would be a dike in Crysler was not guarantee that one day a flood would not happen.

"We would build a dike to contain a flood but obviously there could be a greater flood one day," he said. "The flood response plan would be set up by the authority, the village and the township and it would involve sandbagging the dike if the situation got out of hand. I don't want to be lulled into the sense that we have a dike and there's never going to be a flood again. If we built a dike 600 feet high, one day there would be a flood 601 feet high. One man told me he had it on very good authority that 2,000 years ago it rained for 40 days and 40 nights."

Mr. Windsor said the funding approval for all authority projects will be handed down by the government by Jan. 15, 1984 and the authority will know then what the funding situation will be.

He also said that Proctor and Redfern are now working on the final design for the dike system and he expected to have that document in his hands within the next six to eight weeks.

Liberals keep plugging away

NEWINGTON (Staff) - Though the Ontario Liberal Party has spent the past 10 years serving as Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition at Queen's Park, provincial Liberals still believe that Premier William Davis and his Big Blue Machine can be defeated - one day.

About 50 party loyalists gathered at the Newington Fairground Friday evening for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Provincial Liberal Riding Association's annual barbecue and dance. They came to renew old acquaintances and talk vaguely of the day the Tories will be thrown out of office.

Association president Dr. Gerry Rosenquist of Morrisburg is confident that the Liberals will do well in this riding in the upcoming election, mainly because the incumbent Osie Villeneuve is retiring after serving in the legislature for close to 30 years.

"I think we'll have a chance," Mr. Rosenquist said. "I think people voted mainly for the party and I don't think (Mr. Villeneuve) would have been in for so long if he were a Liberal or a New Democrat."

Although he remains optimistic about the party's chances in future, he realizes it will be a tough fight in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

"There is no question about the fact that Dundas has never voted anything other than Tory," he said. "Glengarry and Stormont have had Liberal members. Stormont had a Liberal member of the legislature, Peter Manley from Berwick. Years ago the counties were divided and now they are all together. The riding has changed a lot in that time. I think it will be difficult to find a candidate who will be able to appeal to the vast range of people in the three counties.

Special guests for the evening were two eastern Ontario Liberal MPP's - Renfrew North's Sean Conway and Don Boudria from Prescott-Russell.

In brief speeches before the dance, both men condemned the provincial government for not serving the needs of eastern Ontario residents and threatened the Tories would be turfed out of office come the next election.

Mr. Boudria, the only Liberal candidate to defeat an incumbent Conservative in the last election, said while the city of Toronto is some 300 miles away from Newington, it felt as if it were much more.

"We're only 300 miles away from Queen's Park but sometimes it feels like 6,000," he said. "There are no farmers in the provincial cabinet and there are no rural representatives from Toronto east. Farmers in eastern Ontario are unrepresented and ignored and it's up to the Liberals to voice your concerns. We must speak on behalf of our rural constituents because the government isn't doing that at this time."

Mr. Conway said, while he had never been to this area of the province before, he was impressed with the field crops he had seen that day.

"The corn is tall and the land looks fertile," he said. 'Perhaps with a bit more rain this year's harvest will be bountiful."

He went on to say that both he and Mr. Boudria were here as members of the eastern part of the province to tour the area and "listen to what's on your mind."

"We'll listen to you and make representations for you when the house opens in the fall," he said.

In spite of the party's record at the polls over the past 40 years Mr. Rosenquist, - who will celebrate his first year as association president next month - still believes there is a chance for victory.

"We've just got to keep plugging away and we'll have a chance," he said.

Mr. Rosenquist said he keeps reminding himself of the 1958 election when Conservative leader John Diefenbaker swept the Liberal party out of office. If it can happen once, he reasons,

Blood donors needed

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Organizers of today's Red Cross blood donor clinic at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital would like to remind everyone to drop by between 2 and 8pm and give a pint. Sponsored by the hospital's auxiliary, the clinic's goal is to collect between 250 and 300 pints of blood. Organizers say this much is needed to counter the chronic seasonal shortage of available blood and also because an above average amount of surgery in Ottawa has depleted supplies there.

Dingwall named rep.

BERWICK (Staff) - Councillor Floyd Dingwall has been appointed to the position of Bicentennial representative for the Township of Finch. Mr. Dingwall agreed to accept the job, which will involve working with local groups and the government on Bicentennial celebrations in 1984, at council's meeting in Berwick Monday evening.

Air force reunion

DUNNVILLE (Special) - For the past 37 years Royal Canadian Air Force personnel who were stationed at No. 6 S.F.T.S. during the war have gathered in Dunnville (west of Welland) to celebrate their station reunion. This year marks their 38th get-together and it will take place Sept. 16 to 18. The event begins with a reception Friday evening, hosted by mayor Frank Marshall. A golf tournament will be held Saturday morning and in the afternoon a demonstration of ultra-light aircraft, a parachute drop, a parade, memorial service and a fly-past of wartime Harvard aircraft is scheduled, followed by the annual banquet in the evening. All wartime personnel are invited to attend and you may obtain further information by writing Frank Scholfield, Adjutant-general, P.O. Box 187, Dunnville, Ontario, N1A 2X5.

Storm causes minor damage

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - While some farmers in the Ottawa Valley are still cleaning up after a severe July 8 thunderstorm, Stormont and Dundas counties appear to have suffered little damage.

Agriculture representatives report little storm related damage and it seems Ontario Hydro suffered most of the region's damage.

Ontario Hydro's Winchester area manager Vince Lynch said he doesn't have a dollar figure on the damage caused by the storm but admitted the clean-up was costly.

"We worked all our crews through the better part of the night," Mr. Lynch said. "Around 15 transformers were hit by lightning and burned out. A lot of lines snapped because of trees falling on them and some just snapped in the wind."

The storm brought with it torrential rain, high winds, lightning and, in some areas, hail. In this region the areas hardest hit were Alfred, Hawkesbury, Renfrew and Leeds county.

At one point some 8,000 Hydro customers in the Winchester area were without power as repair crews tried to keep pace. Mr. Lynch said the storm was the worst he has seen in a long time.

"It's the worst storm in five years," he said. "We've been lucky in the past but this one caught us."

Howard Giles, a farm management specialist with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF) office in Winchester, said farmers in Dundas county had reported no damage to crops.

"No farmers have reported any damage," he said. "I saw some corn that was leaning but it's steadying up now. I also saw some damage to family gardens, some cabbage took a beating, but that's not field crops."

Farmers in Stormont county were also spared the storm's wrath with OMAF's farm management specialist for Stormont county Bill Van Loo reporting only minor damage.

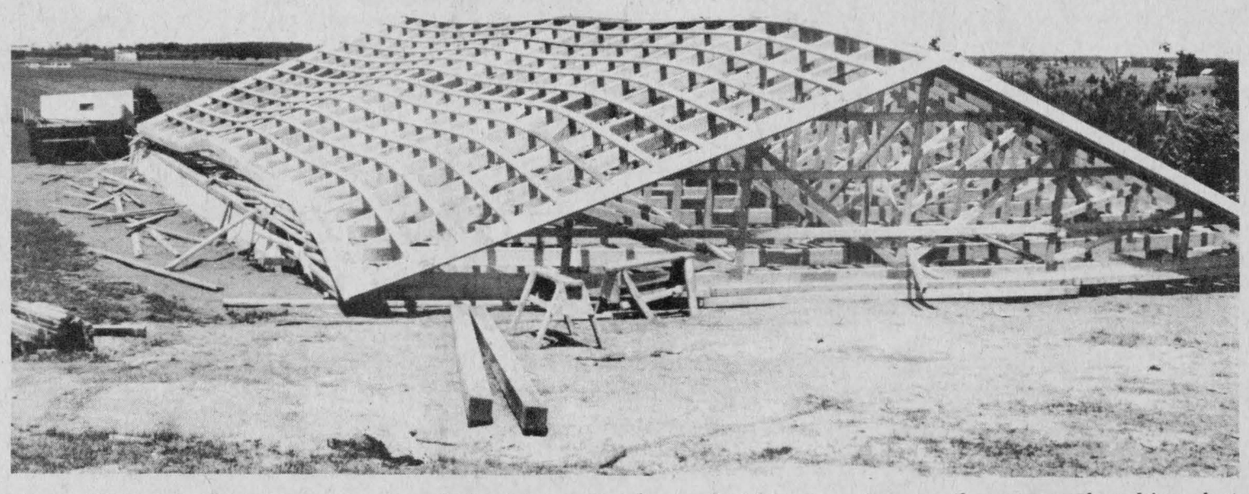
"We had a little damage but not as much as they received in Glengarry," Mr. Van Loo said. "The damage was pretty spotty around the county. There was a little bit of hail around the Bonville and Williamstown area but not enough to do a great deal of damage."

"The spring grain was short because of the dry summer and if we'd had a normal growing year without a doubt it would have gone down," he said.

Damage to crops from wind is to be expected in such a storm and apparently the poor growing conditions experienced earlier this year was a major factor in limiting the wind damage.

The Winchester OPP also reported fairly minor damage in the area. Cpl. Bob Lyon said most of the headaches for police were caused by downed trees.

"There was very little damage," he said. "We were lucky."



Harry Heymans, RR2 Winchester, was left with a heap of wood where his partially completed machine shed once stood after an August 8 summer storm ripped through the area. The shed, measuring 36 by 81 feet, had been tied down prior to the storm breaking but obviously it wasn't enough to withstand the high winds. Mr. Heymans said he had spent three weeks working on the structure and would just have to start all over again.

Township picks water system

BERWICK (Staff) - The Township of Finch will recommend to the ministry of the environment that the water problem in the Village of Crysler be handled by drilling walls to supply a communal water system.

Township council, meeting in Berwick Monday evening, made the decision based on the results of a questionnaire mailed out to 214 village home owners last month.

The questionnaires asked each home owner to select one of three options for providing the village with potable drinking water: installing individual treatment units at each well; drilling wells to supply a communal water system; drawing water from the South Nation River and treating it at a water treatment plant.

Of the 214 replies that were sent out by Kostuch Engineering Ltd., the consulting engineers for the project, 119 were received as of Monday, or 55.6 per cent of the total.

Of those 119 replies, 21 or 17.6 per cent, favored installing individual treatment units at each well; 72 or 60.5 per cent, favored the drilling of wells to supply a communal water system; 3 or 2.5 per cent, wanted to draw drinking water from the South Nation River and 23 or 19.3 per cent, either wrote in with alternative suggestions or stated that they wanted no part in the project and the water was satisfactory the way it was.

Council will draft a letter to the ministry, advising it of the results of the survey and recommending that it proceed on the second option.

Joyce McMahon, owner of Al-Mor Ladies Wear, and Marlene Droppo check through this falls styles for fashion show outfits. Al-Mor and Lots for Tots will again be presenting a Fashion Show to highlight Saturday afternoon activities at the Chesterville Fair. The show involves a lot of preparation, and this year there will be about 20 models showing off the latest styles.

Plenty of planning goes in annual fair fashion show

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Lights...Camera...Action...This year's Fashion Show is ready to roll.

For the ninth year in a row, Al-Mor Ladies Wear and Lots For Tots will be presenting the show during the Chesterville Fair.

More preparation goes into the event than one might think. Joyce McMahon, owner of Al-Mor Ladies Wear and co-owner of Lots For Tots said that the show involves at least a full weeks worth of work.

The first job, she said, is to choose a variety of models in different sizes and age groups. "We choose a good variety to let people know that the store is for everyone. Then, the models have to come in for fittings and an individual commentary must be written for each outfit," she said. The commentary describes some of the fashion features, fabric, size range and price of the outfit. "We find that it is important to give the price of a garment so people will know what's affordable to them. Pieces of jewelery must also be chosen to compliment each outfit, she added.

Then, we must decide what order the show will be in, Mrs. McMahon said. We usually show three adult models, and then three children show outfits, she said. This year, there will be about 20 models participating in the show.

Once the order of the show has been decided, charts must be made up for the models to let them know what they will be wearing and in what order. The price-tags must be taken off all the items, and notes must be made for re-pricing. All the clothes must be pressed and arranged in the right order. A musical background, which may include records or live music also must be planned. "Hopefully everything will get on the right body in the right order," Mrs. McMahon said.

This is a hard time of the year for a fashion show, she noted. In a small town people don't look for fall fashion until a little later on. "I try to hold off on ordering as long as I can, but it does make it hard". Sometimes after the show I receive clothes that I wish I had in time for the show, she said.

This year the mini skirt is in for teens, Mrs. McMahon said, and the fashion length is just below the knee. "Whatever everyone is comfortable in is what they are going to be wearing," she added. Black, grey, white and a bit of burgundy are this fall's colors, as well a royal blue and jade green. "We'll be seeing lots of wool blends as opposed to polyesters," Mrs. McMahon said. "Tweeds, harringbones and 'English looking' styles are in for fall," she noted. For children the rugby pant is popular. "We try to stick with basic needs for school at Lots For Tots." The rugby pant is also popular with adults, Mrs. McMahon added, because it is so comfortable.

Though a fashion show involves a lot of preparation, Mrs. McMahon said she always enjoys working on one. "It's rewarding when you see lots of people in the audience, too, she said. This year's Fashion Show, which will last a little more than an hour, scheduled for 2pm on Sat., Aug. 27.

COURT - Aug. 10

Yvon J. Martel, age 19, of Clarence St., Winchester, appeared on a charge of careless driving. This charge was laid as a result of an accident on Main St., Winchester, on July 15, in which Martel was slightly injured and his passenger Robbie Morrison, age 16, Winchester, suffered a broken leg. A 1983 Pontiac operated by Beverly Armstrong of Winchester suffered approximately $1,000 damage and the motorcycle operated by Martel $2,000. After a lengthy trial, Martel was found guilty and fined $128.

Carl Collins, age 53, Ingleside, appeared on charges of impaired driving and drive over .08 on May 12, 1983. These charges were laid as a result of a vehicle being driven erratically on Highway 43 and being stopped by the police. Collins was fined $200 and his licence suspended for impaired driving and the drive over .08 was withdrawn by the Crown.

Craig Edward Williamson, age 19, of Winchester, appeared on a charge of wilful damage. This charge was laid as a result of a vehicle owned by Linda Robinson of Chesterville being damaged on July 16, 1983. The vehicle suffered approximately $150 damage. Williamson received a two year suspended sentence with probation and was ordered to pay $150 restitution.

Douglas Brice Stewart, age 46, of Queen St., Chesterville, was to appear on a charge of theft over $200. This charge was laid as a result of a purse being stolen from a Chesterville residence on June 23, 1983. The purse contained over $1,000. Stewart failed to appear and a bench warrant has been issued for his arrest. A further charge of fail to appear has been laid.

Bret Welsh, age 22, of Morrisburg, appeared on a charge of operating a vehicle with no insurance on July 18, 1983 on County Road 7, Winchester Township. He was fined $500.

Richard Faulkner, age 18, Main St., Winchester, appeared on a charge of fail to remain at the scene of an accident on July 16, 1983. This charge was laid as a result of an accident in South Mountain that caused approximately $1,000 damage. One car left the scene. Faulkner was fined $28.00.

Ronald Coulter, age 20, of York St., Winchester, was to appear for trail on a charge of having liquor at the corner of Main and St. Lawrence Streets, Winchester, on June 11, 1983. He failed to appear and was found guilty in absentia and fined $63.00.

LIQUOR VIOLATIONS

On Friday, August 12, 1983, at 7:30pm Const. Howard Smith checked a vehicle on Highway 31 and seized a quantity of liquor. As a result Sven Jorgensen, age 44, of RR1 Winchester, has been charged with having liquor.

On Sat., Aug. 13, 1983, at 1:15am Const. Howard Smith checked a vehicle in Chesterville and seized a quantity of beer. As a result Robert Hewitt, age 17 of Riverside Drive, Chesterville, has been charged with having liquor.

Renew two-year cafeteria contracts

CORNWALL (Staff) - The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education has renewed cafeteria contracts for three area high schools and has put one food services company on notice that its contract could be reviewed in one year.

At an Aug. 9 meeting in Cornwall at the board office it was decided to renew contracts, for a period of two years, at Seaway District High School in Iroquois, North Dundas District High School in Maple Ridge and Rothwell-Osnabruck K-13 School in Ingleside. Those having their contracts renewed are Judith Cory, Kathleen LaPrade and Glen Services respectively.

However Camco Food Services Ltd. of Cornwall, which has had the cafeteria contract at E.S. Tagwi S.S. in Avonmore since that school opened, only had its contract renewed for one year.

Director of Education and Secretary to the Board Roger Leblanc said Camco's contract had only been renewed for one year and the contract could be let at the end of the year if the board and the school weren't satisfied with the services Camco provided.

"We get regular reports (on cafeteria food and service) from the principals and the school committees," Mr. Leblanc said. "Providing we get a good report we then compare the individual contract price with the others we received and we decide on that basis."

Mr. Leblanc said in the case of Camco the board "did not receive as good a report as we expected."

He said the board had an option to review the contract at the end of one year and "it is our intention to monitor closely what is going on there."

Henry Monteith, general manager for Camco, said yesterday morning that he had not yet received formal notification of the board's decision.

"I haven't seen any official notice," Mr. Monteith said. "I'm not aware of any problems (at Tagwi). We'll probably receive a contract by registered mail and that will be the notification."

Four at OPSTF meeting

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Four area teachers are expected to be in Toronto this week for the annual meeting of the Ontario Public School Teachaers' Federation.

Robert Wilkes, Tom Dreen, Brian McEwan and Charles Andrews will be among the 200 delegates at the Skyline Hotel attending the five-day meeting.

The delegates, representing approximately 15,000 elementary public school teachers in Ontario, will be debating and voting on more than 200 resolutions dealing with all areas of teachers' concerns.

The Federation, established in 1921, is in favour of amalgamation of all teachers' organizations across the province, and a resolution to establish an Ad Hoc Committee on Unification for next year is one of several items to be voted on, according to a Federation press release.

Annual picnic this Sun. for St. Lawrence UEL

(Special) - The St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalists Association of Canada will hold its Annual indoor pot luck picnic in Williamstown, Sun., Aug. 21. The members and friends will meet at the Nor Wester Museum by noon, and proceed to the United Church Hall for the 12:30 meal. For those interested, they can attend the local church services before the picnic beginning at 9am. There will be no meeting, just a day of fellowship and visiting. A walking tour of Williamstown has been arranged for those who are interested.

Geneology Day has been set for Sun., Sept. 18, 11am to 4pm at the Board Room at Upper Canada Village. This day is for anyone doing genealogy and needs help in researching their family trees. Two or three local geneologists will be there with all their books to help people. There is no charge for this event, and is open to all.

The Annual Charter Dinner is set for Sat., Sept. 24 at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Morrisburg. Tickets are available from the following people: Mrs. Don Hare, Iroquois; Miss Nina Casselman, Williamsburg; Mr. Keith Casselman and Miss Lynne O'Brien, Morrisburg; Mrs. Beryl Morrison, Ingleside; Mr. Mel Scott and Mr. Doug Warner, Cornwall; and Mrs. Mabel MacLean of Charlottenburgh township. Mr. Stan McBride of Peterborough is the guest speaker for the occasion. This is the evening where new members of the St. Lawrence Branch receive their certificates.

Anyone wishing information on any of these events, just contact anyone of the above named people and they will try to help you.

Plowing match fashion show

(Special) - You are invited to attend Creations Unique presented by the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology Alumni Association at the 1983 International Plowing Match on the Garnet Ralph farm near Richmond, Ontario. The Fashion Shows will be held in the Fashion Tent, as part of the women's program. The shows are scheduled for September 27, 28, 29 and 30 at 1:30pm each day.

The Fashion Shows will feature a selection of hand made and designer garments for all members of the family - created by graduates of the College.

Kiss an old flame goodbye.

We'd like you to take a minute now to think about something you'd really rather not think about. Home heating. Because right now is the perfect time to do something about next winter's oil bills.

If your oil furnace is in good condition, but you'd like it to run more economically, electricity is the answer. A dual-energy system combining oil and electricity will heat your home efficiently and economically.

For example, adding an electric plenum heater to your oil furnace will reduce the amount of oil you use by up to 75 per cent. While adding a heat pump will not only cut heating bills by 20 to 30 per cent, but also provide air conditioning in the summer, for efficient year-round comfort.

If your furnace does need replacing, an electric furnace or one of the other electric systems can heat your home cleanly, efficiently and economically.

Like to know more? Take a minute now and write to Ontario Hydro, Room U7 E1, 700 University Avenue, Toronto M5G 1X6 and ask for our free booklet "Electric Heating Options for Your Home."

Because the minute you take now could add up to big savings come December.

Before actually going up in a plane and doing it for real, students of the Ottawa Skydiving Center practice in a much more solid medium -- the ground. Those attending the Air Fair and Craft Show at the Winchester Air Park on Saturday got to watch members of the centre tumble out of planes and float gently to the ground. Here, a student practices his free fall position with the help of an instructor behind him.

These two future flyers seem to be working on their Christmas list as they get a closeup look at an ultra-light plane at Saturday's Air Fair and Craft Show at the Winchester Air Park. In addition to the ultra-lights, there were craft tables, corn on the cob and a parachute demonstration throughout the day long event.

Agree road needs straightening but...

BERWICK (Staff) - Finch Township council has endorsed a Winchester Township council motion asking the United Counties to make a Chesterville area road safer.

At its Aug. 2 meeting Winchester Township council passed a resolution asking the Counties to take a look at redesigning County Road 7. That road, especially a sharp S-curve north of the Nestle plant, has claimed five lives in traffic accidents over the past few years. The latest was 18-year-old John Kelly who was killed on July 24 when his car went out of control on the curve.

In addition to the resolution going to the Counties the municipality also requested that all area councils endorse its move.

Councillor Archie Byers said he couldn't see how the Counties would be able to improve that section of road.

"There are houses on both sides so they can't move the road," he said. "Most people that were killed there were doing more than 60 (kilometres an hour, the posted speed limit). People that live there say that all through the night they hear tires screaming. Is he going to make it? Well, if I don't hear a crash I guess he made it."

In spite of some misgivings about what could be done, council agreed to endorse the resolution.

"Let them (the Counties) look into it and maybe they can come up with something," reeve Ralph MacKenzie said.

Ottawa firm $3,200 under estimate on new culvert

BERWICK (Staff) - Westeel-Rosco of Ottawa has been given the contract to supply Finch Township with a pipe arch culvert for a bridge to be installed on Concession 4, Lots 6 and 7 of the township.

Township council met Monday evening in Berwick and Westeel-Rosco's bid of $14,795.41, plus seven per cent provincial sales tax, was the lowest of the three quotations received.

The contract is only for the purchase of the material and its delivery to the site. Council will meet at the end of this month to award a contract for the removal of the current bridge and the construction of the new one.

The estimate that was given the Township by its engineer for the purchase of the material and its delivery was $18,000.

40 entries in plowing match quilt contest

(Special) - Everyone is getting excited about Richmond's 1983 International Plowing Match, September 27th to October 1st. But the excitement will begin on the evening of September 9th at the Richmond Curling Rink where the "Quilts Competition" Awards Night will be held.

The 40 quilts entered in the competition will be hanging along the walls of the Curling Rink for the public to view. Heritage quilts, such as the Rideau Canal Quilt, Billing's Estate Quilt and the South March Heritage Quilt will be displayed in a special area. The Quilt Competition is a part of the ladies' program for the Plowing Match. It was open to any groups or individuals in eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. The quilts have come from areas as far as Shawville and Kingston and have been entered in one of the three categories: pieced, applique or of original design depicting some aspect of Ottawa-Carleton's Plowing Match.

The public is invited to the awards presentation evening on September 9th from 7 until 10pm with Donna Marten of CBO Radio as Master of Ceremonies. Prizes will be presented at 8pm by three judges: Lyn Lepper and Kay Phillips from Toronto and Irene Richardson from Stittsville. Each quilt category will have three prizes: First - $75.00; Second - $50.00 and Third - $35.00. Four Honourable Mentions will be presented.

Guests to the evening will help themselves to coffee, tea and squares as well as a cash wine bar served with cheese and crackers. The Dairy Princesses from Renfrew, Lanark and Carleton Counties will hand out "cheese kisses".

The enthusiasm for the Plowing Match is building up. No other agricultural event in Canada matches its excitement and educational value. Everyone can look forward to the many attractions of the special ladies' program. The Quilt Competition Awards Night will just be the beginning of the excitement. Don't miss it!

WI bus tour

(Special) - Two busloads of Dundas District WI ladies travelled to Cambridge by Dundas Tours where they spent four days touring the area. They visited the Kitchener-Waterloo farmer's market, Dundurn Castle and the Hoodless Homestead at Stoney Creek where the Women's Institute got its start.

W.B. Bellanger, 84, dies in Winchester Hospital

Willard Bruce Bellinger, 84, died at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital on Wed., Aug. 10, 1983.

Mr. Bellinger was born in Mountain Township on Dec. 23, 1898. He spent most of his life farming and had lived on Lot 6 Concession 6 of Mountain Township.

He was predeceased by wife Lucy Evelyn Bush, parents Mr. and Mrs. William Bellinger and son Clarence. Mr. Bellinger is survived by daughters Mrs. Arthur (Pearl) Beckstead of Crysler, Violet Carr of Prescott, Mrs. Charles (Nelda) Kerr of Mountain, 15 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held from the Vice and Craig Funeral Home in Winchester on Sat., Aug. 13 at 1:30pm. Rev. Mervyn Peters officiated and interment followed at South Gower Cemetery. Pallbearers were Walter Ruddy, Lawrence Shay, Clinton Coleman, Wilfred McLaren, John Blom and Harold Boyce.

Chesterville council deals with lengthy docket on Monday

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Tenders for Village Hall cleaning were received at Monday night's Chesterville Village Council meeting. A contract, to clean the Hall after dances and other functions was awarded to Candice Burns. She will clean the Hall for $60 per cleaning. Previously, Barry Casselman had the cleaning contract for $80. Councillors proposed that the new contract be written up for Mrs. Burns to sign.

Also at Monday night's meeting the boat ramp issue was officially closed. The ramp, proposed to be located near the pumphouse, was opposed by some Thompson sub-division residents. They said that the ramp would disrupt their privacy and the increase in traffic would be dangerous to children. " Cass Bridge has one and that's close enough," said Councillor Jim Sullivan.

Also at Monday night's meeting Mr. Sullivan proposed that the name Forward Headline be dedicated for the fourth concession road. "That's what it's always been known as," Mr. Sullivan said," and ambulances now are having quite a time figuring out where to go." The Ministry will be contacted to put up the new sign at the intersection of Hwy. 43.

Village lawyer, Steve Workman, proposed that the road on the north side of Queen Street, adjacent to the firehall, be dedicated as a public roadway and be named. "This will give us a full street back to the Hydro transformer," said Reeve Carl Ward. "There are many plans for this property," he added. The properties were purchased from the Ministry of Transportation in 1982, Mr. Workman said. "I believe it prudent to dedicate this a public roadway at this time," Mr. Workman added. The councillors dedicated the roadway as public, and upon approval by their solicitor it will be named Industrial Drive. The roadway will extend into the industrial park as it is developed.

Also at Monday's meeting Pete Mullen was named the new Roads Superintendent. He will commence duties on Oct. 1.

Councillors proposed that a maintenance policy be set up to check playground equipment. A six-year-old Chesterville girl was taken to Winchester District Memorial hospital and received three stitches after the horse on the merry-go-round came loose and she fell. Maintenance crews said that the horse had been tampered with and the plate was loose and bolts had to be replaced. Currently, maintenance workers do not regularly check the playground equipment.

Council also received a petition with 536 names on it that called for improvements of a curve on Hwy. 7 where many accidents have occurred. Winchester Township Council had passed the proposal to Village Council for their approval. Councillors unanimously approved the proposal, and a copy of the resolution is to be sent to County Council for consideration.

Council also declared a half day holiday for all Chesterville merchants on Sat., July 27 in honor of the Chesterville Fair.

FCC loan budget used up already

SIMCOE (Special) - The federal government is hampering the efforts of the Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) to meet the credit needs of Canadian farmers, the president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) charged last week.

"Last year five out of six farmers who wanted FCC loans walked away without any money," Ralph Barrie said. "This year, things could be even worse."

In the first three months of its fiscal year, the FCC allocated its entire budget for the year. But when it sought approval to lend an additional $600 million to meet the approved loans on file, the government said it could only loan $250 million. The credit situation is so severe that FCC has refused to process loan applications since June 10.

To make matters worse, FCC sources say the chartered banks are pulling out of long-term mortgage lending to the farm community.

"Where are farmers to turn for long-term financing?" Barrie asked. "The FCC doesn't have the money and the banks aren't interested in the long-term mortgage market."

Mr. Barrie called on the federal government to make the FCC a primary source of credit to the farm community, as it was in the 1970s. He pointed out that in 1977 the FCC accounted for 43 per cent of long-term farm credit extended in the country. But in 1981 the agency accounted for only 21 per cent of long-term farm credit extended.

"It's quite obvious the government isn't letting the FCC live up to its mandate as a major source of farm credit," Barrie said. "These days the agency is little more than a lender of last resort."

Mr. Barrie said a first step towards revitalizing the FCC would be to let it increase its budget to meet the loan requests on file. To provide for adequate long-term capital in the future, the government should introduce Agri-bonds.

Agri-bonds would offer farmers a source of long-term funding at interest rates below the going market rates. Agri-bonds would do this by granting investors tax concessions, so a lower interest rate could be paid on the bonds, but the after-tax return would be comparable to conventional bonds.

"All we want is for the government to give farmers the credit they deserve," Mr. Barrie said.

Have your blood pressure checked.

Chesterville escapes August 8 storm with wind and tree damage

These two trees just about sum up the damage a severe summer storm did to Chesterville on Monday. Black clouds arrived in the area shortly after noon, bringing with them driving rain and high winds. The village was luckier than some other Ontario communities. Pembroke, Petawawa and Chalk River reported massive power blackouts and some areas were hit with hail. record photos - hayes

MANY INSIDE FEATURES

Tourism minister denies gov't participation in proposed heritage inn

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Ontario tourism minister Reuben Baetz has assured members of the Rideau Lakes and 1000 Islands Travel Council that the proposed $7-million luxury resort at Upper Canada Village will not be a government undertaking and if built will be in fair competition with similar resorts in Northern New York State and Western Quebec.

Mr. Baetz's comments are contained in a letter to Rideau Lakes travel council president Al Hitchcock who listed his organization's complaints about the proposal in a letter to the minister in June.

Mr. Hitchcock's letter states that the travel council wished to "go on record as strongly opposing any plans to allow the construction and operation of a resort facility on lands owned by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission at Upper Canada Village".

Any such development "could not proceed without involving favors, concessions and financial investments by the provincial government," his letter states.

Construction of the four-season resort complex on St. Lawrence Parks Commission-owned land adjacent to Upper Canada Village was recommended in a feasibility study unveiled by a Toronto consulting firm in early May.

The $30,000 report was underwritten equally by the commission, provincial and federal governments and has unleashed a storm of protest from area motel and hotel operators, who claim that the resort would grab too large a share of a rapidly diminishing travel market.

A group of motel operators between Iroquois and Long Sault have formed an association to fight the proposal and recently released a market study which disputes the Toronto consultants' claim that a resort would skim off only about five per cent of the existing market due to the fact it would be charging considerably higher rates for rooms than are now being charged in the area.

The Rideau Lakes-1000 Islands group also disputes the consultants' findings, stating that the projected year-round 70-percent occupancy rate at $66 per night is "entirely unrealistic in view of the rate structure that prevails in this area".

The travel council states occupancy in the non-peak season, from Thanksgiving to Victoria Day, is closer to 50 per cent than 70 per cent.

Mr. Hitchcock's letter goes on to state that the greatest competition the area's hospitality industry faces is from the federal and provincial government, which rent government-owned facilities at far below market rates.

"The Federal Transport Ministry has more than 700 rooms (at the Transport Canada Training Institute) in Cornwall that rent at $20-day-person and this rate includes three meals a day and the use of meeting rooms. We do not need another such facility at Upper Canada Village".

The consultants' claims that a destination resort would attract substantial business in both summer and winter from bus tours and corporate meetings would also hurt the existing hospitality industry, which has already promoted and developed these attractions, Mr. Hitchcock stated.

The Rideau Lakes-1000 Islands group also criticized the parks commission for the operation of the gift shop at Old Fort Henry, stating that it is unfair competition for gift shop operators in the area, and for the commission's policy of collecting only "66 per cent of the cost of operation" at its campgrounds.

The council stated that it appreciates the commission's role of providing major attractions in Eastern Ontario but it deplores "...the creeping escalation in governmental competition to business areas that should be left to the private sector. We oppose the development of a resort on government-owned land at Upper Canada Village but would welcome such a facility if developed on private lands and developed with the same government support and regulations as applies to all of our members," Mr. Hitchcock's letter concludes.

In his response to these changes, the minister stated that there are no large full-service resorts in Eastern Ontario and the proposal for a 100-room hotel at Upper Canada Village is of "such different scale in terms of size and scope of facilities and operations that it will not be directly competitive with any of the existing properties in the area".

He rejected the claim that the consultants' figures are not valid, again because of the difference between the proposed hotel and any existing facilities.

"By the very nature of this difference, occupancy statistics relating to the area properties do not relate to the proposed heritage inn."

The minister denied that there would be any special favors dispensed to developers or any government financial involvement other than the assistance his ministry normally provides to private sector tourism operators.

"The development of a destination resort by the private sector on land leased from the commission is part of the commission's effort to "look to the future markets in tourism", the minister concluded.

Village Councillors reject July budget

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Village Councillors have rejected the July municipal budget because it doesn't contain enough information.

"The budget doesn't show what is making money and what is losing money," said Councillor Mike Brannen, at Monday's Village Council meeting.

"The budget should be restructured," said Reeve Carl Ward. "We should be able to look at it and obtain information quickly," he said.

The July budget showed that the arena is down approximately $500, expenses over income, for the year to date. Councillor Rudy Derstroff requested a profit-loss statement on the arena to be constructed for next meeting. "We can't see where the losses are," Mr. Derstroff said.

Councillor Jim Sullivan said that the Village was recently informed that the arena was profitable. "I thought the arena was making money and the parks were costing us," he said.

Currently there is about $186,000 in the reserve fund of Village Council. Mr. Sullivan asked why some of this money couldn't be used to pay off some bills. Mr. Ward said that traditionally $200,000 to $300,000 is kept in the Reserve Fund. Deputy Reeve, Jim Cook said that the reserve fund shouldn't be diminished because there are lots of streets, Victoria being one of them, that have to be worked on.

Council resolved to table July budget discussions until a more detailed budget could be constructed for presentation at a future meeting.

Calf Club meets

by Penny Armstrong

BERWICK (Special) - On Aug. 9 the 6th Berwick 4-H Calf Club meeting was held at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Leduc.

The meeting opened with the 4-H pledge and secretary Lise Ouelette read the minutes of the last meeting and went through the role call. Rotating president was Anne Van Delst and rotating vice president was Scott McRae.

The special guest was Dr. Pierre Lapensee, a veterinarian, who gave us some valuable information on mastitis.

After the meeting was adjourned members gathered at the house for refreshments.

The Berwick 4-H Calf Club will hold a fun day on Aug. 21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Luykx.

Parachuting popular at Winchester Air Fair

WINCHESTER (Staff) - By far the most popular attraction at Saturday's Air Fair and Craft Show at the Winchester Air Park was the parachute demonstration put on by the Ottawa Skydiving Center.

Center president Joe Chow said the club has about 30 experienced jumpers and trains anywhere from 400 to 600 per year.

"We jump at Winchester every weekend," Mr. Chow said. "We go until November and we start up again in February."

Mr. Chow, 34, has been skydiving since 1969 and said the sport is unique in that "it's the closest thing to being an astronaut."

"It's really difficult to describe the feeling when you're skydiving," he said. "There are a lot of challenges and it's unique because, for most people, this is the closest they'll get to being an astronaut. You're just flying in space. Anyone who has seen (the movie) Star Wars has an urge to be a spaceman."

Although most people would probably think of the risk factor involved in parachuting, Mr. Chow said it isn't as dangerous as most people think.

"I've never yet had an accident," he said. "I've had a few things go wrong, like landing off target, but I've never had an accident. A certain risk is there but people are killed white water rafting and gliding. Look at what happened a while ago with those gliders in Hawkesbury. When there is an accident with white water rafting or gliding that doesn't deter people from doing it.

We apologize

In the August 10 edition of The Chesterville Record it was stated that Richard Merkley took second place in the two-year-old class at the Russell Fair's Ayrshire Show. In fact the winner of second prize in that category was David Merkley. The same story also incorrectly stated Richard Merkley as winning first prize in the four-year-old class. The winner of first prize in that class was Barbara Merkley and son.

4-H Vet Club meets

(Special) - The 4-H Vet Club held its 5th meeting at the Kemptville College Veterinarian Laboratory, one of the few veterinary laboratories in Ontario.

The meeting was called to order, the roll call was taken and the minutes of the last meeting were read. It was decided that the date of our August meeting would be changed from Aug. 11 to Aug. 22.

Gert Barkley acted as our tour guide of the laboratory and we saw where bacteria was grown, where milk was tested and where blood samples were tested. We saw the room and the huge table where they perform autopsies on large animals and we all found it very interesting. We thanked Gert for taking time to show us the laboratory and the meeting was adjourned.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dr. Kennedy on Aug. 22.

Christmas Card Competition

(Special) - The Hon. Dennis Timbrell, Ministry of Agriculture and Food has invited 4-H members in Ontario to design his 1983 Christmas Card.

Anyone who has been a 4-H member during the 1983 club year may submit a design. The card design should be 5" x 7" and may be black and white or color. The design must not be folded. The 4-H'ers name, address, county and club name should appear on the back of the entry.

Designs must be submitted to Rural Organization Specialists at OMAF offices, before September 20, 1983. All entries will be forwarded to the Provincial Office in Guelph for final selection. A panel of judges will select the top three designs with the top design being used on Mr. Timbrell's 1983 card.

Last year's 3rd prize winner was Patty Beehler, of Berwick. Let's try to have eastern Ontario winners again this year!

Surprise anniversary

(Special) - Harvey and June Bovin of RR2 Crysler were given a surprise 45th anniversary party put on by their children at the Moose Creek Community Hall on July 23. Family, relatives, neighbors and friends gathered at the hall to greet the couple and they were later presented with a corsage and a beautiful six-tier anniversary cake. Mr. and Mrs. Bovin were presented with gifts, a plaque from their sons and daughters and gifts of money. Music was provided by Sid and his boys from Alexandria and a lunch was enjoyed by everyone.

Before being taken to the hall their children took the couple to Mr. Poppin's Restaurant in Monkland where they had supper.

Garden Club meeting

WINCHESTER (Special) - The 6th meeting of the Dundas Garden Club was held on Aug. 8 at 8pm in the OMAF boardroom.

The topic of the meeting was flower and vegetable arranging and our guest speaker showed us how to choose our vegetables and arrange them for the fair.

She then showed us some different ways of making a flower arrangement. After showing us the different pots and a proper arrangement she let us make our own arrangement.

For a youth project, Heather Rose brought in cucumber sandwiches and mongo for us to try.

Singling out minorities

Once again the beast of government stupidity has reared its ugly head.

The federal Liberals have once again fallen back on the oldest dodge in the books by announcing yet another commission, this time to study visible minorities.

It's bad enough that the government uses these farcical commissions to cover up its own inaction on problems. The MacDonald Commission on RCMP wrongdoings is one example that instantly springs to mind. While the commission was conducting hearings all a cabinet minister had to do when asked a difficult or embarassing question, was throw up his hands in utter helplessness and intone, "I'm sorry but I can't comment on that while the commission is conducting its investigation."

No, the sheer absurdity of calling a Commission to deal with any subject is not the problem in this case. This time it's what the commission will look at and how its mandate, handed down by the House of Commons, is worked.

Headed by Essex-Kent Liberal MP Bob Daudlin the Special Committee on the Participation of Visible Minorities in Canadian Society had a mandate straight from Star Trek: to seek out and explore visible minorities.

The idea for such a committee originated from a government sponsored think tank and money-waster held last year in Vancouver on racism. Headed by the Secretary of State (one level of government making work for another) the symposium concluded that more study on minorities was needed.

What it got was a commission that will "seek positive and constructive ideas and models pertaining explicitly to ameliorating relations within Canada between visible minority (sic) and other Canadians."

Already the commission that is supposed to find ways for us all to live in harmony, regardless of our skin color or ethnic background, has committed an unforgiveable gaffe by separating "visible minorities" from "other" Canadians (read White Anglo-Saxon Protestants).

The committee will also "recommend the development of positive programs that the committee finds necessary to promote racial understanding, tolerance and harmony in Canadian society."

If these are really the goals of the government it is going about it all wrong. Few people will dispute the fact that, although we feel superior to Americans, racism in Canada is alive and well.

However by appointing a special committee to, most likely, come up with programs that will favor "visible" minorities, the government is practicing discrimination as surely as if it passed a law that no minorities will be permitted to take advantage of government services.

In reading over the committee's mandate one gets a sick feeling that the government is straying dangerously close to tokenism in its dealings with minorities. Minorities don't want special programs set up just for them or special hiring quotas for government departments.

There is just as little self respect in getting a job because you are black and the government has to fill its minority quota as there is in being refused the job because you are black.

No, the government would be far better in dumping this shallow attempt at racial harmony and merely attempting to become a little color blind and treat all Canadians the same.

Press control on hold

Prime Minister Trudeau's placing of former multi-culturalism minister James Fleming on the back burner and his ouster from the cabinet last week means Trudeau couldn't stand the heat of the proposed "newspaper act" which Fleming has been promoting throughout Canada for the past 18 months or so. One of the things Trudeau has desperately tried to do so since coming to power 15 years ago has been to gain control of the press in Canada. His burgeoning bureaucracy has been able to over-regulate every man, woman, child, business and industry in Canada, but he has never been able to figure out just how to get Canada's newspapers to succumb to his whims and biddings.

Trudeau's fear of the press in Canada has been kindled by the fact that during his years in power the press has been the only real opposition he has experienced. Under the guise of making Canada's press more of a fair press (it's really only been criticizing Trudeau justly) he hauled ultra lightweight James Fleming out of the back benches and sent him out on the hustings to test the tolerance of Canadians to a government-regulated "free" press.

The soon-to-be-former prime minister really doesn't give a fiddle-faddle about Canadian newspapers in general, he has (had) his sights set on the Globe and Mail because it has the potential of becoming a truly national newspaper, read daily, coast to coast. Ken Thompson, owner of the Globe, has the necessary millions needed to succeed in this venture, but newspapers, dailies and weeklies alike, have fallen on hard times the last two years, and the Globe's anticipated advertising revenue for a national edition has not been forthcoming. In a nutshell, if Canada is without a national newspaper or magazine (McLean's will forever be in the Liberal bag thanks to 1973 Liberal legislation which forced Time magazine out of the country with prohibitive postal rates) the Liberals will be able to continue its century-old tactic of divide and conquer across Canada.

If there is one sacred cow left in Canada it is a press free of government controls and regulations. Canadians have been bribed in ever so many ways over the past 15 years into surrendering almost every other right or freedom their ancestors earned for them in this nation, but to have the government regulate ownership, content and comment is one thing Canadians will not allow.

We think Trudeau has this message now, and we think he covered himself for this eventuality by hiring one of his weakest cabinet members to sell this sham. We should be warned, however, that even though the salesman has disappeared, the product has a long shelf life. - john morris -

Two traffic accidents were reported in Winchester over the week-end by Constable G. Raistrick.

A runaway team of horses owned by Lawrence Annable, Ottawa Street, collided with a car driven by Willis Casselman, RR2, Winchester. The team, driven by Clifford Walker, was left standing in a field while Walker went to a nearby house. The team suddenly bolted for the highway and collided with the front end of the Casselman car, damaging the front fenders and headlights. The horses were stopped by a passing motorist.

In a collision between two cars at the corner of Main and St. Lawrence Streets, six passengers escaped injury when a car driven by Douglas Snowden, 30 Norice St. City View, collided with one driven by J. Moore, of Toronto. After the collision, the Snowden car veered towards the sidewalk, jumped a 10-inch curb and sheared off a parking sign. Damage to the Moore's car was slight, but the Snowden family who were starting on a vacation, were forced to postpone their journey pending repairs to their car.

The Winchester Springs United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon of Miss Orian Elaine McIntosh, of Winchester Springs, and E. Eric Steele, of Winchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McIntosh and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steele, Rev. F.E. Rice officiated.

Baskets of pink and white gladioli were used in decoration. The pews were marked with white satin ribbon and sweet peas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Eric H. Steele, as matron of honour, and Miss Irene Steele as bridesmaid.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

The pleasantly lettered sign hanging from chains in front of the village general store advertised "Cider Vinegar, Preserving Jars, Pickling Spice, Natural Sugar, Coarse Salt, Worms for Bait." We were driving along a country road having tired of the throughway.

It's great to get out of your immediate area on occasion and see what's happening in other parts of the country. Concession roads and scenic routes offer some sweet surprises, like that very informative sign swinging in the breeze, that tell you a lot about the territory and the people who inhabit it.

"It appears that a good deal of pickling and preserving goes on in this part of La Belle Province," I informed the Farmer," and that folks need worms for fishing."

After a long drive it is a pleasure to turn off the busily travelled superhighways and away from the steady zing of traffic and slow to the speed required on a concession road. Shortly we found a rustic Austrian-style pension and stayed the night with windows open to let in the fragrance of the hills.

Next to the pension, a country-style restaurant offered a taste-tempting brunch: eggs to suit, served with ham or large link sausage. If that didn't tempt your palate, there were stacks of buckwheat pancakes and real maple syrup. And besides that, there was plain toast, bran muffins, pitchers of juice and carafes of steaming hot coffee. The price for this hearty, homey board was $2.75 per person.

Sampling the local fare is a must for us when travelling. What could be more pleasant than having lunch on a deck overlooking a picturesque lake with hills all around, waiting to be served a garden green salad and iced tea? Ducks land on the emerald green lake basking in the warm sun while the boats rock gently at their moorings.

There is so much to refresh the spirit when work or play takes us to other areas. Even the throughways have something to offer besides very swift and efficient travel. For example, along about Kingston, there are those wonderful outcropping of rocks, a little further on is a patch of purple-spiked wildflowers, while a little further on there is a field of Queen Anne's lace and Black-Eyed Susans. To me, there is no more charming a bouquet than these two wildflowers arranged in a crockery bean pot. They will bring a touch of brightness to the darkest day.

This year I have promised myself that I will pick and prepare a couple of dried wildflower bouquets for myself, for nothing is so pleasureful to have grace one's house come fall. I have been promising myself that I will do this for three years now, for that is when I last did one.

The problem is I get sidetracked. I sit rocking on the gallery, admiring my pots of geraniums and such. Sometimes I take a stroll back the lane but get so engrossed with simply enjoying the sights and sounds of a country evening that I come home empty handed. But I have savoured the waning days of summer.

The combines are busy harvesting the grain crops now. I was reminded by a house guest that August 1 used to be celebrated as Loaf-Mass Day and hailed the beginning of the wheat harvest. Loaves made from the wheat were handed out at Mass. It is usually a time of great heat, which is attributed to the Dog Star, Sirius, which rises concurrently with the sun from July 26 through August 11, our traditional Dog Days. This was all news to me except as a child I had heard the villagers refer to Dog Days.

Our neighbours have their traditional corn roast this weekend for family and friends and neighbours. It is the highlight of August in this part of the country and what is so good as corn rolled in sweet butter and seasoned just right with salt and pepper.

We went for a drive tonight after the chores were done, along a road starred with chickory. It is the most beautiful blue - a colour rare in flowers. Most of nature's blue is in the sky.

I do not know any flower that is chickory blue except chickory. I always insist on picking a bouquet of chickory although the Farmer always cautions me to make sure I wrap it well in the garbage containers for he doesn't want it spread through the farm fields.

The seasons in eastern Ontario flow almost gently one to another, except August which is unpredictable. I have kept a sort of weather diary and note that August exhibits a bit of everything. It can turn so cold, as witnessed this past week, that the furnace can click on in the early morning hours. It can be dark with fog. It can rain like the lashing November rains. And it can be sweet and gentle as June. It seems that bits of leftover weather from all the year are stitched into the fabric of August.

By and large, August is a mellow month with these few diversions. I unpack the blankets and hang them in the sun. We will soon need them. I think of retiring the lawn mower for the grass won't grow so ferociously now. Praise be, except for enjoying the fruits of one's labour, the garden will pretty well look after itself.

Driving home from work the other night I saw a sign that read "Three beautiful kittens looking for a good Mother." Giving kittens away is such a problem, for kittens are a universal product, especially in the country. The local paper carries wistful ads each week.

Unfortunately I cannot take another pet, but it is a serious temptation. Sometimes I think cats come to me by the dozens and it is an expensive business to have them inoculated and operated on and fed the proper daily rations. Besides, the Farmer issued an ultimatum.

"It's a grand day for livin'," Sam said as I drove in my own yard." Tis the kind of day to make a live beggar feel sorry for a dead king."

"Sure enough," I told him. "It's a grand day."

"Sure is," said he. "Gonna have a cup of tea?"

"Sure 'em," I replied. "Come in."

We picked up our cups and sat in the lawn chairs by the back door where the Farmer joined us. We didn't argue, Sam or I, which is unusual, but how could we, with a warm breeze that was like the kiss of a fairy queen touching our cheeks, and with the sweet smell of a hundred thousand clover blossoms quivering in our nostrils.

A grand day we agreed, as we arose to take up our daily tasks.

Joanna Kerr and Chantel Leboeuf enjoy the last few weeks of summer together learning each other's language. Miss Kerr (left) from Winchester, recently spent a week at the home of Miss Leboeuf in St. Leonard, Quebec. Miss Leboeuf is scheduled to leave today after her one week exchange at the Kerr home.

Exchange students share languages

WINCHESTER (Staff) - The best way to learn another language is to live in it. And that's what Joanna Kerr and Chantal Leboeuf are doing.

The two 15-year-old high school students are on an exchange, which are run in co-operation with their schools. Miss Kerr is going into grade 10 at North Dundas District High School, and her exchange counter-part, Miss Leboeuf, also going into grade 10, attends Mont St. Louis High School in St. Leonard, Quebec.

Miss Kerr spent one week at the Leboeuf home in St. Leonard and Miss Leboeuf arrived here Aug. 10 for a one-week visit.

While at their exchange home, they speak the language and participate in everyday things that the family does. Miss Kerr said that the trip "helped a lot" in teaching her more about the French language. While in St. Leonard Miss Kerr visited La Ronde at Man and his World and went shopping in downtown Montreal. This isn't the first exchange for Miss Kerr though. She has been on a French exchange before, and said that if she had the chance, she would do it again. "It's a really good way to learn the language," she said.

This is the first time that Miss Leboeuf has been with a person who speaks English. "I have just spoke English at school before," she said. "It's a really good experience and I'm learning lots of English," she added. Miss Leboeuf plans to go to Upper Canada Village during her visit here. Both students also plan to go to Ottawa for some sightseeing, and go shopping at the Rideau Centre.

They both said that it was important to be bilingual today and that the exchange so far has been a lot of fun. Transportation for the trip was arranged by the schools. "I went down to Montreal by bus and Chantal and I came back by train," Miss Kerr said. Miss Leboeuf plans to leave Winchester today after her week-long visit.

Wheezin', sneezin' season upon us

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - If your eyes are itching and your nose is running and you've been sneezing lately, you may be one of the more than two million Canadians who suffer from hayfever.

According to Statistics Canada information published in 1982, 2,157,000 Canadians, 9.37 per cent, reported to suffer from hayfever.

"During the seasons when plants are pollinating people with a hayfever tendency, usually an inherited family trait, may develop sensitivity to some pollens," said Les MacDonald, Health Education Co-ordinator with the Canadian Lung Association.

Pollens that are light enough to be windborne are the major offenders for the hayfever victim, though heavier pollens can cause trouble when a person comes in contact with the plant. Trees, grasses and weeds have windborne pollens, and according to sensitivity, the "hayfever season" for someone occurs when the plants that effect him pollinate.

People sensitive to tree pollens, such as elm, maple, birch and poplar, suffer in the early spring, according to a Lung Association brochure. Late spring and early summer is the time for the grasses which effect nearly half of all hay fever sufferers. Weeds, such as ragweed, pollinate from mid-Aug. to mid-Sept. Of all the people who suffer with hayfever, 75 per cent are sensitive to ragweed, according to the Lung Association. Mold and fungus seeds, also airborne during the summer, cause allergic reactions in people. Hay, straw and dead leaves encourage the growth of fungus, especially in humid weather. Someone may react to one or more pollens in one of these groups, so his hayfever season may last from early spring to late fall.

Of all Canadians under the age of 15, 7.05 per cent suffer from hayfever, according to Statistics Canada. About 10.66 per cent of Canadians between 15 and 64 suffer with hayfever, and 5.79 per cent of those over 65 are hayfever suffers.

"When coupled with asthma, we can see why an allergy condition is the leading cause of absenteeism from school or work," Mr. MacDonald said.

The Lung Association funds research into the causes and cures of allergies but "our chief thing is health education and awareness," according to Mr. MacDonald.

The proper name for hayfever is pollenosis, which means a sensitivity to pollen. Body tissues are estimated to make special allergic antibodies which affix themselves throughout the body, according to the Lung Association. When someone is exposed to pollen, defense systems are activated and this causes the swelling, itching, sneezing and other symptoms which may add up to hayfever.

Dale McNaughton, pharmacist from the Seaway Valley Pharmacy in Chesterville, reports that this year hasn't been any worse for hayfever. "It's been an average year, but every year is a bad one for the hayfever sufferer." Mr. McNaughton said that two or three preparations are usually advised by physicians for the hayfever sufferer, and that there hasn't been any new breakthroughs in allergy treatment lately. "It's beat if you can eliminate the cause," he said. Seaway Valley Pharmacy carries a full line of allergy and hayfever products, but advise that you check first with your doctor.

Council to decide dog fine procedure

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Village Council almost 'went to the dogs' Monday night in discussing what to do about fines and impounding of the animals.

Council received a complaint from a resident who wanted to pick up their impounded dog after hours. Currently payment of dog fines and issuing of licences takes place at the Village Hall during regular working hours.

The Village has sent in a municipal offences act application, but as yet have not received word on how much fines should be.

"Is the individual that is responsible for payment of lodging or are we going to decide to recover the costs," said Councillor Rudi Derstroff. Deputy Reeve Jim Cook said that the costs should be part of the fine structure.

The legal aspects of holding the animal were also discussed. "We can't legally hold the dog," Councillor Derstroff said.

The problem of stray cats on Queen St. was also brought to Councils attention. "People open their car doors and drop cats off at the Co-op hoping that they will be fed," said Reeve Carl Ward.

Carmen Langabeer has recently taken on the job of animal control in the area.

French paper started Mon.

ALEXANDRIA (Staff) - A new French-language agricultural newspaper was published here on Monday.

Agri-Com, will provide the French population of Glengarry, Stormont, Prescott and Russell with French information on agriculture, said publishers Chantal Periard and Suzanne Massie.

This month's issue includes reports on the Russell and Williamstown Fairs, technical farm information, chronicles and interview, according to Miss Massie. "The paper has a community flavor and contains features on the life experience of farming," she added.

"We've been running a weekly called Le Point which has been serving the Alexandria area for the last three years," Miss Massie said. "We discovered that there was a market for the new paper, especially in Prescott and Russell Townships where the population is about 80 per cent French speaking, she added.

Glen Smith, Agricultural Representative for Glengarry County also said that there is a large French-speaking population in the area and thought there was a need for a French paper service. "If there is a market for it, and it's free to the public, I don't see any problems", he said.

Ms. Periard, one of the papers publishers said that the information in the newspaper will be of interest to the whole family. The Agri-Com office is based in Alexandria.

Care needed for canning

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Extra care should be taken when canning or preserving vegetables for the winter.

The only safe way to process vegetables, except tomatoes, is in a pressure canner at a controlled pressure for a required length of time, according to Monica Beaumont, foods and nutrition specialist with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food's, rural organizations and services branch.

To preserve food in jars organisms must be destroyed. Molds, yeasts and the ensymes are easily taken care of by heating the food at a boiling temperature for a period time. Bacteria, is not so easily controlled. It can only be destroyed using a pressure canner.

Clostridium botulinum, bacteria sometimes present in vegetables, resists boiling water temperatures. Unless all the spores are destroyed in canned vegetables those remaining can grow. Clostridium Botulinum toxin and can lead to death. The bacterium itself is harmless, and only develops into a poison when it is placed in a vacuum, in this case, a well-sealed jar.

Fruits are acidic enough to be safely jarred and processed in a boiling water-bath. Tomatoes can also be preserved this way. All other vegetables are low in acid. To home can them safely, a higher temperature than boiling is needed. A pressure canner is a must.

Natural resourses alarmed by increase of outbreaks of rabies across Canada

(Special) - Rabies is a very serious virus disease which is contagious and fatal to patients not receiving adequate treatment.

Rabies is a world problem which is spreading alarmingly across Europe and North America. It is carried by wildlife species, such as foxes and skunks. The wild animals infect pets and livestock, which in turn become dangerous sources of infection to man. There were more than 2,500 confirmed cases of animal rabies in Canada during the past 12 months, and the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources is now studying possible means of vaccinating wildlife carriers of the disease.

Rabies can be prevented quite simply in pets and livestock by a regular vaccination programme.

Research involved in the prevention of this often fatal disease has been very active and a company world-renowned for their efforts in this field is Institut Merieux. They have now produced a safe vaccine which can be used for dogs, cats, cattle, sheep and horses. This product, IMRAB, has just been released in Canada by May and Baker Canada Inc., one of Institut Merieux's associated companies, and is available from M.T.C. Pharmaceuticals, 5100 Timberlea Blvd., Mississauga, Ontario L4W 2S5.

Canadian pet and livestock owners are urged to ask their veterinarians about IMRAB since it offers an ideal means of breaking the chain of rabies transfer from wildlife to domestic animals and pets to humans.

Calf Club report

by Patricia van Wylick

(Special) - The sixth meeting of the Dundas East Calf Club was held August 10 at the South Mountain Fair Grounds in connection with the Farm Safety Day.

The day got under way with everyone watching a film about fire extinguishers. The film explained the different types of extinguishers and their uses.

After lunch our guest, Harold Morphy taught the 4-H members the proper ways to fall a tree and protection to take.

A second film was viewed entitled "It's Nice To Hear". It explained the procedures to be taken in order to protect your hearing.

Slides were also shown explaining farm safety within grain bins and silos. Then everyone completed a farm safety quiz.

We hope to see you at our Achievement Day on August 27 at the Chesterville Fair Grounds.

Chesterville Rotary

Dist. Gov. coming Monday

by John Macaulay

Monday's meeting saw George Countryman give his classification talk. Windpower was high lighted and as emergency power is so essential to most dairymen and farmers the topic was one of great interest. As all are aware How the Farmer Goes so goes our economy. A question period followed and George was thanked on behalf of the club by Jack Dubois.

Next Monday the District Governor will pay his visit to Chesterville. Governor Webster will meet the president and directors at the home of Rotarian Jack Cross. They will meet at 4:30pm following which they will adjourn to the Drop-In-Center for the regular Monday meeting at which, Governor Webster will be the speaker.

The Winchester District Memeorial Hospital will hold a blood donor clinic today from 2pm to 8pm - Wont you donate the gift of life - blood - today.

Our congratulations to those who don't show up but produce make-ups. If you are away, visit a Rotary club and bring back your make-up card.

Following Monday's regular meeting President Dale McNaughton chaired a director's meeting to prepare for the visit of Governor Webster.

Have a good Rotary week!

Crysler girl heads nurses

CORNWALL (Special) - The daughter of a Crysler area couple has recently been elected to the Council of the College of Nurses of Ontario.

Carol-Ann Godard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Medi Godard of RR4 Crysler, is the first registered nurse to be elected from the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry area to represent the region in the past 20 years.

In the June 16 issue of Impact, a newsletter from St. Lawrence College in Cornwall, it was also announced that Miss Godard had been selected for the new position of College Project Leader-Operation Review.

Miss Godard will, in addition to her duties as a teacher in the Health and Human Studies Department, review the goals and objectives of the multi-year plan for the college and determine the extent to which the college is achieving its mission and goals.

Blast victim critical

MOUNTAIN (Staff) - A 22-year-old Ottawa man is in the Ottawa General Hospital with burns to 50 per cent of his body after an explosion and fire at a trailer Saturday evening.

Winchester OPP say Pierre Gaudet was the lone occupant of a Terry House Trailer at the Sandy Mountains Campgrounds on Highway 43, when the trailer exploded and burst into flames.

Mr. Gaudet was blown out of the trailer and landed in the front yard. He is in critical but stable condition in the Ottawa General Hospital burn unit.

Const. Howard Smith and investigators from the Ontario Fire Marshals Office are investigating.

U.S. Marine Corps invades Kingston fort

KINGSTON (Special) - It will be a most unusual "invasion", one characterized by tradition and friendship.

The rattle of rifle fire and the thunder of the cannonade will signal the mid-August occupation of Old Fort Henry, Kingston, Ontario. But no blood will be shed as the pride of America, the United States Marine Corps, takes possession of the keys to the Fort, only to surrender them to the proud Fort Henry Guard 24 hours later.

Two joint ceremonial retreats, August 20 and 21 at 7pm, mark the 10th visit of the Corps to the Fort. Since 1969, the location of the annual visits has alternated between Kingston and Washington, D.C.

The affiliation of these units goes back nearly three decades when in August, 1954, the Marines first visited the Fort to mark the anniversary of the Ogdensburg Agreement, an agreement in which the United States promised support to Canada in the event of a Second World War.

The Marines will enter the Fort August 20. At 7:30pm the assembled Corps and Guard will be reviewed by Major General B.J. Legge, Col. Commandant, The Logistics, Canadian Armed Forces.

The guard then will be changed as the nineteenth century Fort Henry Guard, resplendent in scarlet tunics, surrenders guard duty and the keys to the 151-year-old limestone fortification to the twentieth century Marines.

Tradition is marked as the two units perform a ceremonial retreat featuring the drill and music of their respective centuries.

The Marines will present a concert-in-motion by the Drum and Bugle Corps, known across the United States for its intricate marching and outstanding music.

The Marines' Silent Drill Platoon also will perform its precision drill routine, 10 minutes in length, without commands.

Sunday night will be "America's Night" as General P.X.Kelley, Commandant of the Marine Corps and one of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be the reviewing officer.

The changing of the guard will see the keys to the Fort and guard duty returned to the Fort Henry Guard. A ceremonial retreat also will close the Sunday evening's events.

A highlight of each Marine visit is the competition for the "Gunner's Gun". This exercise, first held in 1977, consists of drilling for points in the movement and firing of two six-pounder breech-loading Armstrong field guns cast in 1862. Both units have won the trophy three times. Monday, August 22 at 3pm will see the tie breaker.

Although garrisoned until 1890, Old Fort Henry never saw military action. It will more than make up for this in August, as the renowned Fort Henry Guard, about 125 students, precision trained interpreters of nineteenth century British military life, host the world-famous United States Marine Corps.

Use your recipes

(Special) - Making pickles is not difficult. It's a matter of following a tested recipe, using fresh fruits and vegetables, a fresh supply of pungent spices and commercial vinegars, says Monica Beaumont, foods and nutrition specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, rural organizations and services branch.

Whatever you do, never alter a pickle recipe. The preserving agents used in the pickling process - vinegar, salt and sugar - are there, in a specific quantity, to prolong the keeping time of the product. They prevent the growth of spoilage organisms.

Perfect pickles need prime ingredients, which must be transferred quickly from the garden to the pickling solution. The fruits may be slightly underripe, but the vegetables should be fully ripe. Never use fruits or vegetables that show evidence mold. To prepare the fruits and vegetables, wash them carefully with a soft brush under cold running water. Soaking the produce results in a loss of flavor and nutrients.

Ontario youth going places

(Special) - Up to 45 Ontario rural youths are "really going places" this year. The youths, aged 18 to 30, are participating in the International Agricultural Exchange Program operated by the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF).

Involved in farm and horticultural work, they will be stationed for up to one year in either Finalnd, Denmark, France, Switzerland, Japan, Holland or the United Kingdom.

"The program gives young people the opportunity to get experience and training in their chosen field of agriculture," says Cay Johnson, international exchange co-ordinator for OMAF's rural organizations and services branch.

Exchange workers help on the farm and usually live with the farm family. Jobs and accommodation are co-ordinated through the program.

Canadian citizens with a valid driver's licence and at least two years practical experience in agriculture or horticulture can apply for the program.

Through personal interviews, applicants are selected for their skills, interests and attitude. Some countries have language requirements.

Up to 60 foreign youths will also be working on Ontario farms. Johnson says she inspects the farms and chats with the owners. "I look for an efficient farm operation that offers lots of learning opportunities. I also choose farm families who will adjust well to a live-in worker and will benefit from the cultural aspect of the program. Generally, I decide if it's the kind of place I'd like to send one of our Ontario youths."

"Exchange participants - from Canada and abroad - really benefit from this program. They learn to be independent and responsible and broaden their outlook on farm practices and other cultures."

Johnson says the program is also a great opportunity to make new friends. "Most exchange workers keep in touch with their host families after the program. Quite often they'll return to visit and bring along their wives, husbands and children."

She says one farmer she knows has hired international exchange workers for years and he says his "family" keeps growing bigger every year.

Sweet corn sales soar at local stands

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Local growers report a good year so far for sweet corn.

For Albert and Rosemary Sanders, who own a farm on Hwy. 43, east of Chesterville, business has been going good. "Business is twice as good as last year," Mrs. Sanders said. The dry weather at the beginning of the season doesn't seem to have done any damage to the crop, Mrs. Sanders said. Sweet corn season began at the Sanders Farm the last week in July, just in time for Maxville Highland Games.

The Ministry of Agriculture and Food suggests looking for fresh sweet corn with green outer husks and dry silk. It isn't necessary to peel back the husk to check the maturity of the corn. Just hold the ear of corn tightly at the silk end, and determine if the kernels are large enough.

Sweet corn is best eaten as soon as possible after harvest. In fact, the corn may lose up to half its sweetness just 24 hours after picking. If the corn must be stored, the ministry recommends to keep it in the refrigerator with the husks on.

To best preserve the fresh, sweet flavor of the corn, be careful not to overcook it. Remove the husks and silks just before dropping the cobs into rapidly boiling water. To enhance the flavor add a pinch of sugar, not salt, the Ministry advises. Also cook only for the required time: three minutes to four minutes for small cobs, and five minutes to seven minutes for medium to large cobs.

Once cooked the cobs should be well drained and served immediately. For a change of pace from the traditional melted butter and salt and pepper, the Ministry suggests flavoring butter with grated Parmesan or cheddar cheese, or a selection of herbs.

Tips on picking vegetables

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - The Ministry of Agriculture and Food recommends that vegetables should be picked at the proper time for the freshest flavor.

Zucchini and summer squash should be picked while they are still young and tender. A good indicator is when the rind is easily penetrated by a thumbnail. Glossy green or yellow skins are also a good indicator of ripeness. Winter squash are usually not ready until September, and shells are hard enough to resist thumbnail pressure.

All varieties of cucumber are at their best when they are dark green and firm. Cucumbers should not be grown too large because they will become tough and seedy.

Eggplants are ready for picking when they turn shining purple. When they are dull and dark brown they are over-ripe.

Sweet corn should be harvested when the silk begins to turn brown. Another sign of ripeness is the fullness of the tip kernels and the firmness of the unhusked ears.

Tomatoes yield a harvest until there is a killing frost, and peppers are ready for picking when they are firm, regardless of size.

Brussel sprouts are picked in the fall, starting with the largest sprouts at the bottom of each stem.

Nuclear test vets sought

(Special) - Veterans Affairs Minister W. Bennett Campbell is asking any active or former Canadian military or civilian personnel who were exposed to varying levels of radiation during operations with the Department of National Defence to communicate with the University of Ottawa.

A study, commissioned by the minister, is being carried out by the university's Department of Epidemiology and Community Medicine to investigate the mortality rate among those exposed during clean-up operations at the Chalk River Atomic Energy plant in Ontario in 1953 and 1958, and the observation of nuclear test blasts at Nevada in 1955 and 1957, and in Australia in 1956 and 1957.

The results of the study may prove most useful to the Canadian Pension Commission to determine the eligibility for disability pensions and allowances under the Pension Act for former members of the Armed Forces and their dependants.

In order for the study to yield valid results, it is important that all persons who were exposed, whether or not adverse effects resulted, are identified.

Anyone directly involved, or who is aware of a friend or relative who was involved, in any of the operations is asked to write in confidence to: Dr. S. Raman, Department of Epidemiology and Community Medicine. University of Ottawa, 451 Smyth Road, Ottawa, Ontario, K1H 8M5.

The following information is required: Full name; current address and telephone number; date of birth; service number(s); date, place and details of exposure(s).

Glengarry WMS centennial

MAXVILLE (Special) - St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Maxville, was the setting for the continuing 100th Anniversary Celebrations of Glengarry Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Iva Bush, Presbyterial President, gave the Call to Worship, and began the meeting with prayer. Mrs Maizie Shaver, Cornwall, and Mrs. Catherine Blair, Moose Creek, had charge of the worship service. Words of welcome were given by Mrs. Catherine Munro, Maxville.

Rev. Wallace MacKinnon gave a brief history of how the first Presbyterial meeting was held in Gordon Church, St. Elmo, one hundred years ago - August 9, 1883. He paid tribute to the dedicated ladies who attended that first meeting and laid the foundation for the Women's Missionary Society, which has had a great influence all across Canada.

An interesting part of the meeting was the presentations to the Presbyterial by the different levels of government. Letters of congratulation were received from The Governor-General of Canada, The Prime Minister of Canada; and Osie Villeneuve, local M.P.P. Special Plaques were presented from the Ontario Government, and the Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry Counties' Council. The latter was presented by the Warden, John Cleary

Mrs. Mora MacGregor introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Eileen Parish, President of Presbyterian Council W.M.S. (W.D.).

In her address, Mrs. Parish spoke on the anniversary theme, Remembering, Renewing, and Rejoicing. She painted a vivid picture of that first executive meeting held at St. Elmo one hundred years ago, and said we should give thanks for those dedicated women who overcame their struggles and trials. Passing on to the sub-title, Renewing she urged the members to break through tradition to help the youth and children of our church. She said that we have to increase our awareness to the needs of people around us, and be ready to listen to the problems of others. "As we press on to the future, we have to use the talents God has given us, and be willing to spend time on prayer, study and service," she said.

Mrs. Barbara Ewing thanked Mrs. Parish for her address and presented her with a small gift.

A very impressive memorial service was conducted by the Maxville Evening Auxiliary. The ladies taking part in this service were: Mrs. Helen MacLeod, Mrs. Katalin Kennedy, and Mrs. Joyce Ferguson.

Mrs. Vera MacEwen, Past President, conducted a candle lighting ceremony. She was assisted by some of the ladies on the sub-executive.

It was delightful to have Mrs. Helen MacIver, Kingston, as guest organist for the meeting.

Rev. Duncan Kennedy pronounced the benediction and a reception and lunch followed in the Church Hall. A special anniversary cake was served.

After the lunch, Rev. Kennedy presided for, A Time for Remembering, when several letters were read from former Presbyterial members who were unable to attend. Special greetings were presented by Mrs. Mary MacKenzie and Miss Margaret Boyd, Ottawa. Mrs. Helen MacIver, Kingston, recalled some of the humorous incidents that occurred at Presbyterial meetings in the past, and brought warm greetings from her husband, Dr. Iver MacIver, a former minister of St. Andrew's Church, Maxville.

Weeds immune to triazine

(Special) - Triazine resistant weeds are becoming a fact of life in many eastern Ontario corn fields and their spread is becoming more alarming with every cropping season. This year the acres of corn and soybeans supporting triazine resistant weeds has increased to the point where farmers have accepted the fact that these weeds are here to stay.

The most common triazine resistant weed found in eastern Ontario is lambsquarters, while red rooted pigweed and common ragweed are also found in smaller numbers. If resistant to a triazine herbicide, these forementioned weeds will escape any triazine-based treatment which includes Atrazine, Bladex, Simazine, Sencor or Lexone.

A farmer should suspect triazine resistant weeds when a particular species of weeds has escaped his herbicide treatment. An example with a corn field that was treated with Primextra (Dual plus atrazine) and has developed into a lambsquarters nursery may lead you to believe that you have a problem.

The cash crop farmers were first to suspect triazine resistant weed escapes however, it is common to find these weeds today on the farms of many dairy producers also.

Numerous post-emergent herbicides are recommmended to control these triazine weeds, however following the label instructions is vital to ensuring satisfactory weed control and minimal crop damage. Physiologically the human eye cannot distinguish between resistant and susceptible weeds of the same species. A laboratory diagnosis in the only way to determine your situation. If you suspect a triazine resistant weed problem, contact your local agricultural extension agent.

Two SLPC commissioners to be honored on retirement

MORRISBURG (Special) - The St. Lawrence Parks Commission (SLPC) will honor two of its commissioners in August to mark their retirements after a combined total of 44 years of service to this provincial government agency.

Helen Lane, of Ingleside, and Helen Kennedy, of Williamstown, attended their final commission meeting in July. They will be the guests of honor at a commission luncheon to be held in Kingston August 20 at which time they will be presented with scrolls and gifts.

Mrs. Lane was the only remaining original member of the Ontario St. Lawrence Development Commission, the predecessor of The St. Lawrence Parks Commission. She was appointed to the Commission in 1956.

A former school teacher and principal of East Front School for seven years, Mrs. Lane still is an active member of the IODE and founding member of the St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalists. She and her husband Thorold will continue to enjoy winter trips to Florida.

A past president of the Glengarry Historical Society, Mrs. Kennedy was appointed in 1966.

She continues as a member of this society which operates the Nor' westers and Loyalist Museum in Williamstown and the Glengarry Museum in Dunvegan. As well, she served on the St. Raphael's Ruins Committee.

Mrs. Kennedy worked in the field of social work in Cornwall and remains active in the work done at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, a residence in that city for elderly people.

She has two sons, Bruce, of Ottawa, and William, of Toronto, and two grandchildren.

The Commission was formed in the mid-1950s at the time of the construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway to ensure the preservation of the St. Lawrence Valley's historic past and the recreational enjoyment of residents of and visitors to the area.

It operates Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg, Old Fort Henry, Kingston, 15 provincial parks, Crysler Park Marina, Upper Canada Golf Course, a maple sugar bush, wildfowl sanctuary, and airstrip.

Karen Ouderkirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Ouderkirk, Finch, Ontario, graduated from George Brown College of Applied Arts and Technology (Casa Loma Campus) at the spring convocation June 28, 1983 held at the University of Toronto. Karen received her diploma as a Fitness Instructor and is presently employed at Nelda's Fitness Studio, Ottawa.

Rev. H. Keith Markell dies on Vermont vacation

Rev. H. Keith Markell, 68, died suddenly on Wed., Aug. 10, 1983 while vacationing at Stowe, Vermont.

A resident of Wales in Osnabruck Township, he was the son of the late Clarence G. Markell and the former Mabel Canham. He went to school at the local elementary school and the Cornwall Collegiate Institute. In 1938 he graduated from Montreal's McGill University with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Three years later he graduated with a diploma from the Presbyterian College in Montreal and was awarded the Calvin Gold Medal for excellency in the church history course of studies.

He was licenced to preach by the Presbytery of Montreal and ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Westminster in May 1941. He went on to serve in the pastorate of Vancouver Heights Presbyterian Church and later as interim pastor of St. Giles Church in Ottawa.

In October 1950 he was inducted as Professor of Church History and the History of Religions at Presbyterian College and more recently as Professor in the Church History Department of the Faculty of Divinity at McGill University.

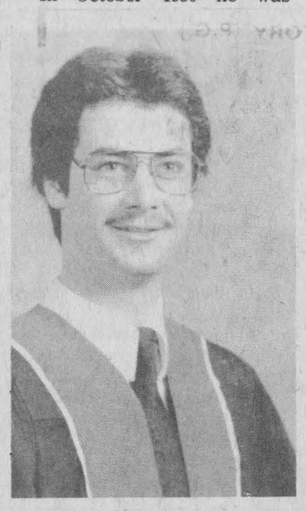
He received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Chicago in 1972 and in 1973 the Senate of Knox College in Toronto conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa.

Rev. Markell retired in 1980 and moved from Montreal to Ottawa last year where he and his sister shared an apartment.

Rev. Markell was predeceased by his wife the former Eileene Munroe and is survived by sister Mrs. Edith Knox of Ottawa, brother Glenn Markell of Ingleside, a niece, three nephews and several cousins.

Visitation was a the McArthur Brothers and MacNeil Ltd., Funeral Home in Cornwall and funeral services were held from the chapel on Sat., Aug. 13. Rev. Wallace MacKinnon of Morrisburg, a college classmate of Rev. Markell, officiated and he was assisted by Rev. Donald MacMillan of Finch and Rev. J.C. McLelland.

Pallbearers were three nephews Bill and Blaine Markell, Gordon Knox and three cousins Clarence Adams, Earl Canham and George Markell. Interment was at the family plot in St. Lawrence Union Valley Cemetery in Ingleside. Assisting Rev. MacKinnon in the graveside service were Rev. M.A. McCuaig, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church in Ottawa and Rev. Gordon Fresque of Dunvegan, moderator of the Presbytery of Glengarry.



David P. Manley, son of Caroline and Murray Manley of RR1 Berwick, graduated June 18, 1983 from St. Lawrence College of Arts and Technology with a diploma in Electronic Engineering. He recently returned from an International student exchange in St. Lucia in the West Indies.

WW1 Vet dies in Cornwall

Ellis Wilfred Bomhower, 86, died at the Cornwall General Hospital on Sun., Aug. 7, 1983.

Mr. Bomhower, a resident of RR2 Newington, was born in Williamstown on April 29, 1897. He had also lived in Williamstown and Avonmore and was both a carpenter and a farmer during his lifetime. Mr. Bomhower farmed near Williamstown in Charlottenburgh Township until 1938 when he purchased a farm on Concession 1 of Roxborough Township. He saw service in the First World War overseas and attained the rank of corporal.

He was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Heather Branch 357 and was a member of the United Church in Avonmore.

Mr. Bomhower was predeceased by six brothers and two sisters and is survived by wife Helen Bomhower (nee Urquhart) of RR2 Newington, sons Everett of RR2 Newington, Wesley of Nepean, daughters Mrs. Evelyn Joyce Casselman of RR2 Newington, Mrs. James (Winnifred) McNaule of Ottawa, Mrs. Robert (Wilma) Evans of Port Elgin and Mrs. Charles (Bernice) Benson of Pendleton, 25 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held from Brownlee Funeral Home in Finch on Tues., Aug. 9. A Royal Canadian Legion service was held for Mr. Bomhower and it was lead by Heather Branch President Douglas Ouderkirk. Rev. MacAvoy of Ingleside officiated and Mr. Bomhower's nephew Gordon McNaule of Ottawa played Amazing Grace on the bagpipes, honoring his grandfather's wish. Interment followed at Pauls Hill in Avonmore. The pallbearers, five grandsons and a son-in-law, were Allan Bomhower, Wilfred McNaule, George McNaule, Mac Casselman, Pat Benson and Robert Evans.

Suspect caught in local store by quick action by OPP

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - A 56-year-old man is being held in custody in the County Jail in Cornwall after he was arrested by Winchester OPP Saturday night in connection with a break, enter and theft at the Fulton Home Centre and Supermarket.

Winchester OPP Cpl. Bob Lyon said his detachment received a call from the Long Sault OPP about the incident late Saturday night. Const. John Ralko arrived on the scene at 11:45pm and alledgedly found Jacques Adrein Gougeon, of no fixed address, in the store arranging merchandise to be removed.

Police say entry was gained to the store by sawing an iron bar on a rear basement window and breaking the glass. Cpl. Lyon said he didn't know what the man had intended to take since police arrived on the scene shortly after he had gained access.

THE RECORD SPORTS

Get that ball!

The Glengarry Hearts took control of the play for most of the match as North Dundas United battled to defeat the first place team in the Cornwall and District Soccer Association Division I game. North Dundas scored the first goal, but lost the advantage in a penalty shot. They were narrowly defeated 2-1 when the Hearts managed to score a second goal on goalie Roland Lalonde. record photo - hayes

NDU defeated by penalty

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - North Dundas United were leading throughout most of the first half after a high-powered goal by Gary Embury in the Cornwall & District Soccer Association match against the Glengarry Hearts played at North Dundas last Sunday afternoon.

The Hearts kept the pressure on North Dundas, and close to the end of the first half they were able to tie the match on a penalty shot after Oliver Bartsch was called on a hand-ball while trying to stop a ball that goalie Roland Lalonde missed. Bartsch threw himself between the ball and the net in attempts to use his chest for the save. Instead the ball caught his shoulder which was called as a hand-ball infraction.

According to player Gerry McBain it was a well-played game on both sides with good refereeing.

The Hearts scored the winning goal half-way through the second half which North Dundas was unable to answer.

North Dundas is now jockeying fifth spot in the overall league standings with nine points made up of four wins, six losses and one tie.

The team's next match is tonight (Wednesday) when they meet Osanbruck at La Citadelle.

Midget boys fall in semi-final tie-breaker

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Chesterville's Midget Boy's Softball team didn't fare as well in their semi-final action against Winchester, losing the first match 8-4, coming back to win 4-2 last Thursday, then falling on Monday in a tie-breaker round at Winchester's Community Park.

Winchester scored half of their runs in the first inning of the match on Aug. 8 after starting pitcher, Mark Smith, allowed four hits to put the opposition on base.

The final four runs came in the fifth inning when errors put Winchester players around the bases to bring their score up to eight.

Chesterville couldn't get on the scoreboard until the third inning when they managed two runs on five hits. Mark Smith and Jerold Boulanger each earned runs from their singles, while Stuart Chambers, Dave Watson and Kirk Barkley scored the other singles.

Pete Van Kessel and Roy Hoople scored Chestervilles final two runs in the sixth on singles by Boulanger and Chambers. Barkley powered a double but was caught out at third.

The second game of the semi-finals was hosted in Chesterville.

Stewart Chambers was starting pitcher. He earned a 4-2 win for his team tying up the three-game series.

Winchester started off the first inning with two singles and a run, but that was quickly tied with a triple and sacrifice fly by Jerold Boulanger and Stuart Chambers respectively.

It wasn't until the fourth inning that the tie was broken with a run by Roland Lalonde.

Mike Harper earned a run from a double in the fifth, and Lalonde hit a big home run in the bottom of the sixth to bring Chesterville's total up to four.

Last Monday's game determined the winner of the semi-finals.

Mark Smith started for Chesterville, but was replaced by Stuart Chambers in the top of the fourth after allowing six runs.

Chesterville earned their only two runs in the fourth inning when Vince Cousineau and Stuart Chambers ran the bases on singles.

The final score of the tie-breaker was 9-2. Winchester goes on to meet either Newington or Williamsburg in the finals.

Droppo hits big homer

Bantam girls move into finals

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Winchester was ahead 8-7 at the bottom of the seventh, and Chesterville's bantam girls had one final chance to redeem themselves by remaining undefeated in their games against Winchester. This was the second match of the best of three semi-finals, played Monday evening at the fairground diamond, and Chesterville was already ahead 1-0 in games.

Tension was high on the Chesterville bench as Carol Droppo took her place at the plate. Winchester's pitcher was throwing a mixture of strikes and balls, but Droppo was able to pick the right one and slug through a hole in Winchester's defense for a well-earned home-run which tied her team 8-8 with no outs.

But a tie wasn't enough for Chesterville who wanted to get on to the finals, so Laurie Buske managed to hit a single which put her on base, set for the run. B. Henderson hit a single and was sacrificed as Buske continued around to third base where she earned her way across home plate on an error by Winchester's third-baseman.

That run was all Chesterville needed to win the semi-finals in straight games.

The play-offs started off well for pitcher Angela McLaughlin who was still hot after her victories of Winchester's Minor Softball Tournament Aug. 6 and 7.

The first match was Tues., Aug. 9 in Winchester. McLaughlin pitched a three-hitter which turned out only two runs for Winchester who struck-out 16 times in seven innings.

Winchester's pitcher wasn't quite as consistent as McLaughlin throwing 10 hits, seven bases-on-balls for a total of 12 runs of which Sherry Jordan earned three.

Carol Droppo hit a magnificent triple in the fourth inning to add to her two singles for one run. Van Delst, and McLaughlin each powered singles, with Countryman and Van Gessel hitting two apiece.

Hoople and McLaughlin each scored two runs, while Van Gessel, Countryman, Buske, Droppo and Van Delst ran in one apiece.

The second match of semi-final action in the Osnabruck and District Minor Softball League was hosted last Monday evening by Chesterville at the Fairground diamond.

McLaughlin hadn't thrown since the previous game, and it showed in her pitching form after she gave Winchester six runs on two hits and six bases-on-balls in the first inning. She settled down after that, throwing a two-hitter for two runs in the final six innings to bring Winchester's total to eight.

Chesterville trailed throughout the game until the final inning when Droppo hit her big home run to start the action rolling that won the match.

Droppo hit a triple and single along with her home-run to send her around the bases twice. Countryman, Buske and Henderson each scored two runs with Kuno earning the ninth.

Chesterville will go on to meet either Newington or Finch for a best of three games play-off finals.

Sixteen teams are invited to register by calling 345-0123, or writing: Appliance World, 25 Perth St., Brockville, Ontario, K6V 5C3. Registration is $100.

Russell, St. Isidore enter Jr. C hockey league

CHESTERVILLE - The League Executive of the Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League met last Thursday evening and voted to allow two new teams into the league. The St. Isidore Minor Hockey Association now has an approved Jr. C. hockey team as does Russell. The St. Isidore team will use the Minnesota white sweaters at home games and the Minnesota green sweaters visiting. The League Annual Meeting will take place Sept. 12.

Rick Barkley - Cedar Glen's new champion

BOUCKS HILL - Displaying the consistency which has been his trademark all year, Rick Barkley climbed to the top of the Cedar Glen golfing world Sunday, winning the club championship with an unwavering round of 72.

Barkley bogeyed four holes and birdied two on his way to the title, breaking away from the pack after sharing the first round lead with a former champion, Gary McMillan.

McMillan couldn't get his game together in the early going which proved to be suicide against the methodical play of Barkley. McMillan went five over par on the first four holes while Barkley ran off a string of pars, virtually deciding the issue before it had started.

McMillan finished in third place (70-79) with Larry Harper taking up the runner-up spot six strokes in back of Barkley's winning 142 total.

Gary Munro started the day only four strokes behind the leaders but he ballooned to a 92 to bow out of contention.

The race for the 'B' flight crown was the most interesting of them all.

Brent McIntosh carried a one stroke lead over Lloyd Guy after an opening round 75 but Guy rebounded to win a see-saw battle by a single shot.

Even so, Guy needed a minor miracle to salvage the victory.

McIntosh carried a seemingly secure two-stroke bulge into the final hole only to see it disappear because of a four over par eight on the 36th hole. All Guy needed as a bogey to claim the top prize.

Bev Barkley finished in third place with rounds of 78 and 88.

The new 'C' class champion is Bob Vanasse.

Vanasse overcame a two-stroke deficit with nine holes left to play as leader Brad Mayhew faded with a final nine 51 to finish second, seven strokes back. Curt Dillabough was third with a two round total of 180, 13 shots off Vanasse's winning pace.

Jim Beattie extended a three stroke bulge after 18 holes into a nine-shot rout to win the 'D' crown. Beattie slugged rounds of 102 and 100 to carry him to the victory over Earl Johnston (106-105).

Men's Night

Thursday night Bob Harper showed a return to early season form, firing a 37 to win 'A' flight at Men's Night in a playback against Larry Harper. Barry Whitteker took the second gross prize while Dale Casselman won second net.

Curtis McMillan claimed low gross in 'B' with a 41, one stroke ahead of Brent McIntosh, who took second gross. Jim McMillan and Lloyd Guy were the net prize winners.

Carl Robinson got the nod in 'C' flight with a 43, taking a playback decision from Dale Simms while Wayne Edgerton and Woody Laprade mopped up on the net awards.

Erik Thompson was the 'D' flight winner with a 52 while Ray Lamoureux picked up low net.

Ladies Two-Ball

Wednesday evening Iroquois ladies visited Cedar Glen for a well-attended two-ball. No results from the competition were available at press time.

...The date for the junior club championship round has been charged to Monday, Aug. 22, in place of the regular Junior Night play. Tee-off times will be announced.

...Entries are now being accepted for the 11th annual Cedar Glen Open to be held Sept. 5. The entry fee, which covers a chance at more than $1,500 in prizes plus a buffet meal, will be $15. Tee-off times begin at 7am.

Elliott earns shut-out

Odd Squad regains first place in league

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - With only one more week in Chesterville Men's Ball Hockey League regular season play, the final selection for the semi-finals is in, although the order in which they'll play is still up for grabs.

A.J.'s is out of the running, having won only three of 14 regular season games so far, and is sticking to the bottom of the league standings like glue with six points. The next to last team has double that number, but the Raiders lost their chance at the semi-finals by losing their match against the Bruisers, thus giving themselves a three point gap between fifth and fourth. So even if the Raiders win their final game against the Odd Squad tonight, they will still be one point short of the semi-finals.

Which leaves the Bruisers and the Comets, sharing third with 15 points apiece, and the Chargers once again in second place with 17 after losing to the Odd Squad who has regained top spot with 19 points.

Unless A.J.'s plays like they did in the tournament, the Chargers stand a good chance of winning tonight's match which will either tie them for first if the Odd Squad loses, or hold them in second. Either way, the Chargers and the Odd Squad will play the Bruisers and the Comets in the semi-finals. That much is certain.

Odd Squad 3, Chargers 0

The Chargers have had a bad week, losing both games in the tournament, Aug. 6, then continuing the streak in last Wednesday's league action against their opponents, the Odd Squad, with whom they were tied for first place.

John Elliott earned the 3-0 shut-out for the Squad after Derek VanDelst, Don Imrie and Blake Henderson scored with Dave Arnold, Lloyd Fawcett and Ron Richards notching the assists.

Comets 3, A.J.'s 1

After the tournament on the week-end when A.J.'s won their first match by a hefty margin, then lost their second to the Odd Squad only after sudden-death overtime, they were expected to come back this week doing great things. It was not to be. The Comets were determined to maintain their status in the top four to make the playoff semi-finals, and they succeeded.

Ron Belmore put the Comets on the scoreboard halfway through the first period with a break-away down the rink and dumping the ball unassisted past goalie Steve Droppo.

The second period went by scoreless with the Comets maintaining their 1-0 lead.

It wasn't until 7:48 in the third frame that the next goal was scored, this time by Barry Fulton, assisted by Pat Imrie to bring the score up to 2-0.

With eight seconds remaining in the period, Belmore scored again, this time from Vince Cousineau to make the Comets total three.

Brian Como missed his shut-out with 5:16 remaining in the game after Mike Hoogeveen was set up by Tony Forbes for the goal that gave A.J.'s their only point of the match.

Bruiser's 4, Raiders 2

The final match of the evening was the one to make or break the Raiders chances at the semi-finals. They didn't make it.

Although the Raiders jumped right in with a goal by Kelvin Rainey from Rudy Grisel and Pat Kelly early in the first period, the Bruisers were able to retaliate with one of their own three minutes later. Pat Lynch scored for the Bruisers from Terry Barkley and Glendon Shay.

In the second frame, once again the Raiders got on top of the match with the same line-up as before - Rainey received the ball from Rudy Grisel and dumped it past Garry Beckstead.

But the Big Bad Bruisers were too big and bad for the Raiders and they answered once again with a goal by Barkley from Dan Roy.

The score was 2-2 going into the third frame, with both teams playing tight defensive games. With 4:20 showing on the clock, Greg Beckstead and Pat Lynch teamed up for the goal that finally put the Bruisers ahead. The Raiders were unable to retaliate, and early in the fourth frame, the Bruisers ensured their win with a final goal by Rick Grisel from Peter Elliott.

John Elliott took the loss for the Raiders.

Riders excel at motocross championship

LUNENBURG - The National Schoolboy and Junior Motocross Championships held at Riverglade, New Brunswick, saw Eastern Ontario riders force their way into high ranking positions.

Outstanding was Chris Shipclark, of Stittsville, who is currently lying second in the Gartree Park CMA High Points standing. Despite an accident in the first moto, which saw him left in the difficult, narrow starting funnel with all the riders screaming round the track away from him, Shipclark, showing great determination and tremendous skills, flashed past 31 of the 38 qualifiers to finish part one in seventh place.

Part two, the second moto, provided Shipclark with the opportunity to completely demonstrate his finely tuned skills when, almost casually, he outrode his nearest competitor, Darren Poulsen from Penticton, British Columbia. On aggregate, over the two motos, Shipclark finally placed second to the National Schoolboy Champion.

The Burge brothers, from Hawkesbury also placed second in their respective classes of the Junior Championships. Gary, riding a 125cc machine, struggled to nurse his sick machine home in the first moto. On Dan Dixon's Suzuki, Gary scorched the opposition with his exhaust fumes as he finished the second moto in first place.

Brother Wayne, on his 250cc machine, made it a hat trick of second place finishes for local racers. Both Gary and Wayne are currently fifth in their Gartree Park Club High Points Classes.

August 20th should see all three of these National stars at Gartree Park when the CMA High Points Series continues. The Gartree track is just north of Long Sault at Exit 122 on the 401, ten miles east of Cornwall, and racing starts at 1pm.

Rose competes in Pan-Am games

OTTAWA - The Canadian Olympic Association announced last Wednesday the members of the Canadian team to compete in the 15-day IX Pan-American Games which opened Friday in Caracas, Venezuela, and Chesterville's Rose Marie Hauch was on the list. Miss Hauch was named one of the 123 women competing for Canada in 23 different sports. The men's team is comprised of 278 athletes. Canada will participate in 23 of 25 sports - baseball, basketball, boxing, cycling, equestrian, fencing, gymnastics, field hockey, judo, weightlifting, wrestling, swimming, diving, synnchronized swimming, water polo, rowing, softball, table tennis, shooting, archery, yachting, volleyball and track and field - but will not enter soccer and tennis.

Play for prizes at fastball tourney

BERWICK - It's time to register for the Berwick Fastball Tournament coming up August 25, 26, 27 and 28. A total of 32 teams will be playing for over $3,000 in prize money. There is capacity for eight teams in the Men's Intermediate Division, eight Town League teams and 16 Ladies Division teams. In the Intermediate Division, the A winner will receive $800, with $300 going to both the A runner-up and the B champ. Town League A winner will receive $375, while the runner-up and B champ will each get $175. In the Ladies Division, the A champ will win $400, the A runner-up and B champs will take home $200 each while the B runner-up will receive $100. Semi-finalists in the ladies A ladder will also receive $100. According to organizer Don Foster, the ladies prizes are dependant upon the number of entries in that division. Registration is $150 for the Men's Intermediate Division, and $75 for the Town League and Ladies Division. To register, call Lyall Ouderkirk at 984-2657, or Don Foster at 984-2069.
