Mountain Red Cross Workers Report Success

Councillor Douglas E. Beggs, of Mountain Township, is doing a fine job of piloting the Red Cross Society of that district in their campaign to raise $1500., which, we understand, is the objective for Mountain Township. Much work has been accomplished by the Mountain Branch, since its organization a few weeks ago, and latest reports from canvassers indicate that the residents of Mountain are contributing liberally to the initial Red Cross campaign. This week's message, as voiced by Mr. Beggs, is quite timely:

"The Canadian Red Cross is preparing to do its share in this war. The bugle call has sounded the assembly. Throughout the country the men and women are marshalling their forces to enable the Society to add another chapter to its glorious history. As the war continues, as Canadians take their places shoulder to shoulder with the other Allies, the Canadian Red Cross will play its part. And what does this involve?

"In time of war the Red Cross is an auxiliary of the Department of Militia and Defence; it is the official channel through which voluntary gifts reach the Department of Militia and Defence.

"In the last war it collected over $35,000,000 in cash and war goods from Canadian people; it sent Overseas 341,325 cases, of which 147,270 were supplied to hospital units in England. It also gave assistance to France and other Allies. It built and equipped hospitals in co-operation with the Canadian Army Medical Corps, it provided extra and emergency supplies to all Canadian hospitals; it provided and maintained convoys of ambulances in France and England. But all these things happened in the last war. And the Dominion Government has already indicated that it will count on the Canadian Red Cross to give assistance similar to what it provided in the conflict of 1914-18. What does this entail?

"First of all, the raising of funds, because the Red Cross Society is an organization manned by volunteers. So a National fund-raising effort is in progress, and on November 13 the canvassers from one end of Canada to the other will go over the top on their mission of mercy to collect funds. They will invite subscriptions from the fisherman on the Atlantic coast, the English and French residents of Quebec, the fruit farmer and the miners of Ontario, the farmers of the West, and the citizens of the Pacific coast. They will ask them to dig in and help so that this tremendous war effort can be made by the Red Cross.

"Guns and shells are important for the fighting forces; so are airplanes—but when all these things have been supplied, there is the angle of common humanity to be remembered—the care of the wounded, the well-being of our menfolk, the hundred and one tasks which are shouldered by the Canadian Red Cross and which can only be maintained with the money which you and I must give during this National Campaign.

"So, it is to you that the Canadian Red Cross is appealing. It is your money, and that given by fellow citizens throughout Canada which will assure the continuance of this all-important work, which is just as integral a part of a national war effort as the recruiting of men."

Short Courses To Be Held At Mountain

Under the management of the Dundas and West Stormont Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, two Short Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics, beginning November 21st and ending December 15th, 1939, will be conducted in the Oddfellows' Hall, Mountain.

These Courses are free with the exception of a small enrollment fee. All lecturers and demonstration material are furnished by the Department of Agriculture. The interesting list of subjects dealing with Agriculture and Home Economics, which will be discussed, should appeal to all the young people of the District.

A local committee, composed of Rev. G. A. Beatty, Messrs. Wm. McCargar, Walter Laurence and the members of the Women's Institute Branch in co-operation with the Agricultural Representative, are making these courses possible. A good attendance would amply repay them for their efforts.

UNITED FARMERS TO CELEBRATE 25 YEARS OF FARM MOVEMENT

Twenty-five years ago last March farmers from all over Ontario journeyed to Toronto to a big meeting in the Labor Temple where they organized the United Farmers of Ontario and the United Farmers Co-Operative Company. At their convention on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, the United Farmers will celebrate their Silver Jubilee with a number of special anniversary features.

One of the most outstanding of these, no doubt, will be a monologue giving the highlights of the farm movement from its inception up to the present time with pictures thrown on a screen to illustrate the story as it unfolds. All who have been prominent in the movement for years back are being invited to attend and they will be introduced to the convention. Also there will be an anniversary banquet with its big Silver Jubilee cake.

Tuesday, the opening day, being an open farm conference will be devoted entirely to the position of agriculture. Much interest is being shown in the panel discussion which will be conducted following the address.

Films of the Nova Scotia Co-operative movement, film slides, the amateur contest, a tour for the young people through the Parliament Buildings, and the Royal Ontario Museum, and the dance with Romanelli's Orchestra are some of the other special features.

REMEMBRANCE DAY SUPPER HELD IN NATION VALLEY

On Thursday evening last nearly sixty people gathered at the home of Miss Helen Jamieson and her brother, Mr. Charles B. Jamieson, to attend a Remembrance Day supper, sponsored by the Western Group of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Chesterville.

Supper was served from 7.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. The tables were in keeping with the occasion, decorated in red, white and blue, centred with small flags, evergreens and baby 'mums. The house was artistically decorated with the three colored streamers around the ceilings, over the windows and French doors. Strings of small flags were hanging from corner to corner of the ceiling. The large flag from the Nation Valley steel tower was draped over the piano. Photos of the King and Queen and the Royal Family and pictures of Nursing Sisters and Veterans were pinned up on the walls.

Mr. Jas. Smith, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Chesterville, was chairman. A Scotsman with plenty of art added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. Following the opening remarks and the National Anthem, community singing was enjoyed, after which "O Canada" was sung and the chairman's address was given. Community singing of the 1914-18 war songs was enjoyed.

Mr. F. Erle Helmer recited "In Flanders Fields," and the reply, "In Flanders Now," was given by Miss Marion Helmer.

Mrs. Erle Munro, Winchester Springs, gave the poem, "Lest We Forget." The reply, "We'll Not Forget," was by Miss Gertrude Weegar.

Mrs. I. P. McIntosh, Nursing Sister Ella Rae), was present in full dress uniform of the Great War days, and gave a most interesting address to enthusiastic listeners of her call to the colors to report in Kingston; her trip to Halifax and across to Liverpool; her work in the different Canadian and New Zealand hospitals and her return home to Canada.

Following Mrs. McIntosh's address, a duet, "The Rose of No Man's Land," was sung by Mrs. I. Cross and Miss Gertrude Weegar.

Rudyard Kipling's Recessional Hymn, "Lord God of Hosts, Be With Us Yet," was rendered by the Chesterville Choir, assisted by the audience.

Mrs. C. T. McIntosh, president of the Ladies Aid, voiced the thanks of the Society to Miss Jamieson and the group. Mrs. Wm. Rae, Mrs. I. Cross, Mrs. Norman Rae, Mrs. Jay Bailey, Mrs. Malcolm Rae, Mrs. J. A. Munro and Miss Agnes Rae.

Miss Jamieson made a fitting reply, and the National Anthem closed a very successful and enjoyable evening.

Mistook Fire Alarm Box For Mail Box

Pulling a lever on what she thought was a mail box, in an effort to open it to post a letter, at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, on Tuesday morning, Mrs. Dick Wright, of this village, was surprised to learn a few minutes later that the box was a fire-alarm unit—by pulling the lever, Mrs. Wright summoned firemen from six Ottawa Fire Stations, who responded to the call by rushing to the hospital with their fire trucks, etc. Needless to say, Mrs. Wright was very much embarrassed when she realized her mistake.

In an account of the incident, the Ottawa Citizen reports:—"To Mrs. Richard Wright, of Winchester, a mail box and a fire alarm box look alike. Mrs. Wright, who visited a patient in the Ottawa General Hospital this morning, spied the alarm box in a corridor of the hospital and remembered she had a letter to mail. Taking it from her purse she took the handle of the alarm in hand, believing it to be the method of opening a letter box. She pulled down. Nothing opened—except the doors of six fire stations. In response to the alarm, dashed through the streets to the hosmen from stations 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8 pital—to find Mrs. Wright a very embarrassed lady."

The patient at the hospital, whom Mrs. Wright was visiting, was her young son, Gerald, who, we are sorry to learn, will be confined to the institution for several weeks. Gerald's many friends here will hope for his speedy recovery.

Winchester Defeats Morrisburg 6 to 5

A finial score of 6 to 5 gave the W. H. S. football team a close decision over the Morrisburg Collegiate team at Morrisburg last Thursday.

Anxious to reverse their previous 6-0 defeat, the Morrisburg team played forty minutes of aggressive football, giving the locals their toughest fight of the season.

In the first half Winchester scored on a "hurry-up" formation which enabled Ken. Boyd to get away for a touchdown run. Captain Gerald McIntosh carried over the convert—a buck through centre. Morrisburg failed to score in this half.

Early in the third quarter the Winchester team began to weaken, allowing the heavier Morrisburg outsides to break through to smother an attempted forward pass by Stirling Dawley. The ball was fumbled and recovered by Morrisburg on the Winchester five yard line. Three line plunges carried the ball over for a touchdown making the score, Winchester 6, Morrisburg 5. With the tying point in sight Morrisburg made a great effort to buck through centre for the convert, but met a stonewall defence which stopped the ball inches short of the goal line. For the remaining minutes of the game Morrisburg fought hard to even the score but smart defensive play effectively neutralized their efforts, though the ball was within three yards of the Winchester goal when the game ended.

First War Call To Winchester

Tho Red Cross Asks For $1000.00

Local Citizens Urged to do their Bit in the Nation-Wide Campaign to Raise Three Million Dollars for Red Cross Needs.

Money is needed for the many activities of the Red Cross—to provide funds for materials here in Winchester, to provide comfort for the Canadian soldiers in training in Canada; to look after the comfort, and give help in illness or when wounded, to the Canadians serving in the British Army, Navy and Air Force in Britain and at the front; to aid in caring for the refugees driven from their homes by war; to be prepared for the day when the Canadian Divisions will be serving overseas in the theatre of War; and also to look after the essential work of the Red Cross in its peace time activities.

THE AMOUNT ASKED IS VERY MODEST

Winchester contributed several thousands of dollars to the various branches of the Red Cross Society during the last war. Winchester is in a much better position today to contribute funds than she was in 1914, so let us rally to the cause.

LET US UPHOLD OUR REPUTATION

Winchester won a great reputation for its war effort between 1914 and 1918, and Red Cross headquarters are looking to Winchester again for a substantial contribution in this war for Liberty, Decency and International Good Faith.

The Women Are Working. The Men Must Pay

Every business, every industry, every person with a salary, every wage earner, every person with an income from any source is expected to do his or her share, in this initial campaign. Make your contribution proportionate to your means, but give till it hurts. Other men are offering their lives. All we are asked for at present is a little money. In the words of Kipling's immortal song, "So pass the hat for your credit's sake and pay, pay, pay." Canvassers will call on you within the next few days, Be ready for them—with a liberal contribution. Winchester expects every man to do his duty.

UNKNOWN CAR SNAPS HYDRO POLE

Sometime during last night or early this morning the Hydro pole in front of Keyes' Store was struck by a car or truck and almost completely snapped off about the centre It will have to be replaced. The identity of the vehicle which struck the pole is not known, but the fact that there are particles of glass from headlights and windshield at the base of the pole, would indicate that the car was damaged somewhat in the crash.

MOREWOOD RED CROSS CONCERT

On Tuesday evening the Morewood Red Cross Society held their first official entertainment in the community hall of the United Church. Mr. Thos. E. Coulthart officiated as Chairman for the occasion, with Mr. Frank Casselman, Registrar for Dundas County, acting as Chairman of the Programme Committee. A number of quartettes, duets, solos, and a violin duo was rendered in a most entertaining manner and were a musical treat to the delighted audience.

Mrs. John D. Stewart, B.Sc. M.A., of Winchester, was guest speaker and delivered a most inspiring and instructive address on the "History and Achievements of the Canadian Red Cross." Mrs. Faulkner, secretary of the Morewood Red Cross Society, reported $237.00 in the treasury with 48 pounds of wool given out in addition to sewing distributed among all the members. The ladies of the Presbyterian and United Church congregations served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by all. Approximately more than three hundred friends of the Red Cross were present. Mr. Coulthart reported that the receipts for the evening's entertainment were most satisfactory. The Oddfellows Lodge of Morewood donated the use of their hall to the ladies of the Red Cross Society in which to conduct their activities. This donation is much appreciated. An enjoyable evening was terminated by "God Save The King."

THE RED CROSS APPEAL

On Monday of this week, thousands upon thousands of recruits to the Canadian Red Cross army of volunteer workers marched out in full strength to rally their fellow Canadians to the support of the national war drive.

With the battle cry, "The need is urgent—dig in and give," they are spreading their efforts as a dragnet over the entire Dominion and are appealing for contributions, large and small, to make up the three million dollars which Red Cross officials state must be obtained if the organization is to embark upon a duplication, and enlargement, of the work it did during the last war.

In the few days that have passed since the campaign was launched, it has been possible for canvassers only to scratch the surface of the territory that is to be covered thoroughly to realize the objective. But gratification has been expressed at Red Cross headquarters already that people have sent in their contributions without waiting for voluntary workers to call. It is hoped that others will follow their example.

Canvassers report enthusiastic reception from those already approached. Particularly whole-hearted has been the response from veterans of the last war who benefitted from Red Cross work. Some of these men are not well off financially and have given all they could afford, it is reported.

Included among the thousands of other people who have gone deep into their pockets to support the war drive are parents and wives of men who lay wounded in hospitals in the last war and whose progress was reported faithfully to anxious relatives in this Dominion by Canadian Red Cross voluntary workers in England.

Men who were prisoners of war are also generous in their response, it is said, for some of them claim that they would have starved in prison had it not been for Red Cross supplies.

The campaign was launched on Monday following messages of inspiration broadcast the day before by Lord Tweedsmuir and Prime Minister Mackenzie King. A cabled message was delivered, too, from the Duke of Gloucester, who stated that headquarters of the British Red Cross, of which he is president, had been established behind the Maginot Line in France.

Red Cross officials state the belief that there will be an even greater demand for service during the present conflict than there was in the last war. They point out that hospitals must be built and equipped in England and France; ambulances must be provided and supplies must be sent to the men at the front. They emphasize the urgent necessity of surgical supplies and dressings for military hospitals. Refugees are being and must continue to be assisted, it is said.

Attention is drawn to the fact that despite the great burden of war work, the Canadian Red Cross cannot afford to neglect its peace-time work. Otherwise, thousands of people right here in Canada, many of them in isolated districts where other medical assistance cannot be obtained, would suffer.

"From the response so far to our appeal," states Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Canadian High Commissioner to London, who is chairman of the national campaign committee, "I believe that the people of Canada fully realize this fact and are ready to do all in their power to assist us in carrying on with our peace-time and war work."

The local campaign was somewhat delayed owing to the resignation of the president, but a new one, Mrs. J. W. Ault, has been appointed, and the canvassers are now at work. Winchester's objective is $1,000., and local citizens are expected to contribute freely, in order that this amount may be realized within the next few days.

EXAMINATIONS ON WAY OUT:

The time is fast approaching when students in our high schools will be advanced by term study and records, rather than by passing examinations at the end of the term. In recent years the new system has been given effect, first in one instance, then again in another. Now it is announced that there are to be no more written examinations in middle school matriculation in Ontario schools. By this stroke the Ontario education department hopes to save from $100,000 to $150,000.

Consent of the three universities had to be secured for the move, and at a conference recently, representatives of the three agreed to the proposal but insisted that as a means of insuring them against unprepared students coming up to the universities, the written examination should be the only one in upper school matriculation.

Cost of paying hundreds of examiners and other officials, of preparing and printing the papers, of distribution and collection, etc., runs close to $150,000, it is said, for the middle school examination alone.

The change means that passing the middle school matric. in 1940 means having the O. K. of the principal and teachers. Their recommendation will be final.

Next examination that is likely to be shorn off the written test is the high school entrance. Gradually through the years the number of those recommended by principals and teachers has grown greater than those writing. This year over 7,000 were recommended in Toronto and about 1,500 got their pass by writing. It is known that the heads of the education department are disposed to wipe out the written entrance exam.

TOO MUCH INTERFERENCE

Premier Hepburn's proposal to eliminate municipal elections for the next two years following January, 1940, or for the duration of the war, is not meeting with the approval of the majority of municipalities throughout the province—and rightly so. The more thought we give this matter, the more we are inclined to think that Mr. Hepburn and his government are trying to deprive us of our democratic rights as free-thinking Canadian citizens. We are told that we are engaged in a war in Europe to preserve democracy—so why not preserve it at home.

Surely, if Mr. Hepburn wants municipal elections suspended, he could at least consult the municipalities, rather than assume the role of a dictator in the matter.

During the past few years there has been altogether too much interference with municipal government, on the part of the Ontario Legislature. If that body would pay more attention to the administration of Provincial affairs, there would be little time left to dabble into the private business of municipalities, who are quite capable of running their own show.

This usurpation of power on the part of the provincial authority is said to have been inspired by a desire on its part to save municipalities the expenses of the annual elections. But these expenses in most cases do not amount to more than a few cents per head and are in the aggregate very much less than the provincial government squanders every week on things that are not essential and that a large proportion of the people do not want.

If it's a question of cutting down expenses the Hepburn Government would do well to revise its expense sheet at Queen's Park. We could cite several instances where, in our opinion, drastic savings could be made right in the Government's own quarters, but it would probably be useless.

In an editorial last week, the Almonte Gazette expressed our views when it said:

"Now that the full significance of the Hepburn Government's plan to ban municipal elections for the duration of the War has begun to sink in, there is a growing chorus of disapprobation rising from all parts of the Province.

"We are supposed to be fighting this war to preserve, among other attributes of democratic government, the right to vote and that is being taken away from us in an arbitrary manner by an administration which has no mandate to discard such a time-honored institution.

"Gradually the rights of municipalities are being taken away from them and centred in a bureaucratic cabal at Toronto. Many examples of this could be cited but the last is the most outrageous of all.

"The hollow pretence that abolition of elections will save money is an insult to the intelligence of the general public. Elections pay for themselves many times over, especially in municipalities where they are keenly contested. Under such circumstances the most popular candidates win and while, in some instances, popularity does not ensure ability, it is an exception to the rule and the people are satisfied.

"Even in municipalities where there is a dearth of candidates for municipal office and acclamations take place year after year, the fact remains that the electors have at least been given an opportunity to make their selections, air their grievances and apply whatever remedies they think suitable.

"What Mr. Hepburn hopes to attain by stirring up a hornet's nest at a time like this, is difficult to say. He is a keen politician and has proven himself an artful strategist. Does he not know that he will have nearly every country newspaper and many of the dailies on his back because of this latest move?

"The annual municipal elections form a time-honored institution in this Province which no Government has any right to take away. Who knows but this may be the thin edge of the wedge to eliminate municipal government altogether? It would not be the first time that enthusiasm for war sacrifice was seized upon by unscrupulous public men to put across some abuse that would not have been tolerated under normal conditions.

"Nearly all newspapers have followed the example of leaders in the national arena and are refraining from partisan comment of any kind during the war. But when Mr. Hepburn himself throws such a bone of contention into the provincial political arena as he has done in this instance he cannot expect that it will be received and borne without criticism.

"As a matter of fact, this move to deprive municipalities of their inalienable right to elect public representatives to transact their business, will be resented by all shades of political opinion. The idea of moribund councils dragging along, year after year, without that infusion of new life which makes them truly representative, is simply preposterous.

"This is a direct assault on the liberties enjoyed under responsible government and as such should be fought tooth and nail. Municipal Councils should pass resolutions of disapproval; members of the Legislature should be urged to oppose the idea and the press should lift up its voice in opposition to an arbitrary and suppressive measure that may well be the forerunner of action against its own freedom and liberty."

NAZISM IS DOOMED!

When things went "boom" over in that beer cellar at Munich last week, it's our guess that no person knew anymore about it than Adolf Hitler himself. These Nazis can think of some of the most terrible things to do whenever they want the sympathetic support of the German Nation. First they burn down the Reichstag and blame their opponents for incendiarism—now they blow up a beer cellar and blame it on the British Secret Service. In the opinion of many, it was just a scheme to arouse a feeling of hatred in Germany towards Great Britain.

In Germany they claim that Hitler missed death by only 11 minutes. Had the Fuehrer been blown to pieces in the explosion, it would have been a catastrophe as far as the Nazis are concerned. We're inclined to agree with those who believe that a bigger catastrophe would have been averted if Hitler had of been one of the victims of the explosion.

However, Mr. Hitler is still very much alive and, no doubt, still making plans to set the world on fire. The Allies have got him "between the devil and the deep blue sea," and he doesn't know which way to jump. The path that he has chosen has put him "on the spot," and no matter what he does now, he cannot hope to escape from his self-imposed trap.

Reading between the lines, it is not hard to see that there is much internal trouble in Hitler's own country. That a revolution will break out in Germany the minute the Nazi regime suffers some important reversal, has been predicted by men who are closely in touch with German affairs. They claim that the "elements of unrest" are steadily increasing, and that Hitler and his followers are finding it more difficult each day to maintain law and order.

CREATING A BAD IMPRESSION

A news item, under the caption of "A Mean Thief," in last week's Morrisburg Leader, says: "Talking about your mean thieves, a young man from Winchester, on Wednesday evening last, carried off a push broom from the Red Cross Dance, valued at $3.75, which had been borrowed by the Dance Committee for the night. The young man admitted to-day to Constable Clare Biccum that it was he who had taken the broom and promised to return it. It is unlikely that a charge will be laid."

It is quite possible that the young man who took the broom, did so without any intention of stealing it—but the fact remains that he attended the dance for the purpose, of deriving some enjoyment out of the affair, and not to carry away any of the furnishings. These acts, while committed in fun, are usually difficult to explain to the police.

The above incident is not the first in which local young men have been implicated at Morrisburg. We can recall other occasions when young men (and young women) from this town have acted unruly at Morrisburg functions. These incidents should be discontinued, both for the sake of those responsible and for Winchester as a whole. We might point out, for the benefit of our Morrisburg neighbours, that the few local "cut-ups" who are always creating scenes at the dances in that town, are not to be taken as examples of the character of Winchester youth in general. The majority of the young people in Winchester are as fine a group as any town could desire. It is unfortunate, however, that a few "smarties" persist in doing things that have a tendency to brand the young people of Winchester as a "bunch of rowdies."

THE CONSTANT REMINDER

(Stirling News-Argus)

Advertising is necessary in these times. The merchant must go out to get business. It is a physical impossibility for him to make personal contact with all outside customers, but he can reach practically all of them through the columns of the community newspaper. Even if every advertisement does not bring sales, it is a constant reminder of the store and its products.

BIDDY UNDERSTANDS

(Chesterville Record)

In the good old summer time after a farmer has found the stolen-away nest of one of his hens and marketed the eggs, a wail was often heard from the housewife when one of the dozen she had purchased proved to be a bit overripe. Chris McLean, however, had a different story to tell. Recently Chris bought a dozen eggs at a local grocery and found that six of them contained double yolks: Biddy evidently understands it is war time.

THE FUTURE OF GOLD

(Petrolia Advertiser-Topic)

"At the end of the war," argues Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, a Republican, frequently mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency, "the United States will have all the gold and it will be largely worthless because most other nations will be on a managed currency basis." Others also support this view which scolding financial editors bitterly oppose. But just as no man knows what the final outcome of the war will be, no man can tell at the moment what the future of gold will be. Still, without exercising undue imagination, it is not reasonable to expect a change in our financial and social order with gold playing the dominating part it plays in the present order of society.

WHAT EVERY TOWN MUST HAVE

(Leamington Post & News)

A town is very much like an individual. To be flourishing, it must have energy and enterprise. The people in a town should remember that the individual prosperity depends to a large extent upon the character of the place in which their business is located. Every public measure should be liberally supported by all, especially the business men. At the present day there is as much competition between towns as there is among persons and business enterprises. A man seeking a location will invariably select a town that is up to the times, and is eagerly in favor of every modern improvement.

A town in these modern times can't afford to be peopled with old fogies or antediluvian fossils who are constantly kicking at every enterprise. To make a flourishing town you must believe in its future and work for it, encouraging every improvement. Make a special effort to exhibit some evidence of improvement in your own work and character. Help every worthy man, every enterprise, and encourage every good man to locate in our town.

PATRONAGE NOT TO BE TOLERATED

(Canadian Printer and Publisher)

Patronage may be accepted as part of the political game by the rank and file of Canadian people in normal times, but under the stress of war conditions, it becomes detestable to everyone. So when Hon. Norman Rogers fearlessly and emphatically declared that it was totally "out" for the duration of the war, as far as his department was concerned, he made a statement which will be widely applauded. It is hoped that the new Minister of National Defense is able to keep all the doors of patronage locked and bolted against all comers. He has a splendid opportunity to strengthen his position and gain the confidence of people, in view of the flagrant squandering of public funds during the Mackenzie regime.

RESTRICTION OF RIGHTS

(Barrie Examiner)

The Ontario Government's proposed legislation to abolish civic elections in Ontario municipalities for the duration of the war, after the 1940 councils are chosen, seems unnecessary and is an unwarranted interference with the rights of the municipalities. Though the Government may consider the proposed plan wise it does not at all follow that the ratepayers regard it in the same light and there is no reason why the people should not be consulted before such a step is taken. The question should be submitted at the approaching municipal elections, the result in each municipality to decide the course to be followed therein. A measure such as proposed may save a few dollars, but the saving would not at all compensate the people for being restricted in their right to say who shall manage their municipal affairs.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

(Wall Street Journal)

William Henry Maule, one of the wittiest jurists who ever sat on common pleas bench in London, once gave a sentence that caused a lot of snickering on both sides of the Atlantic. The prisoner was beyond a doubt, innocent, but the jury was determined to do something about it, and returned him guilty. In passing sentence, Maule said:

Prisoner at the bar, your counsel thinks you innocent; the counsel for the prosecution thinks you innocent; I think you innocent. But a jury of your countrymen in the exercise of such common sense as they possess, which does not seem to be much, have found you guilty and it remains for me to pass on you the sentence of law. That sentence is that you be kept in imprisonment for one day, and as that day was yesterday, you may go about your business."

It has been decided that the 75 United Church preacher-pacifists will not be prosecuted for their disloyal utterances and opposition to the War. Perhaps it is just as well because prosecution might create sympathy for a group which now is treated with utter contempt.

Don't judge a man by his clothes, God made one and the tailor made the other. Don't judge a man by his failure in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed. Don't judge a man by the house he lives in, for the wizard and the rat often inhabit the grander structure. When a man dies they who survive him ask what property has he left behind; the angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.

Up in Toronto last week a man was sentenced to one year in jail for stealing a car. During his trial, the court was told that the accused stole the car to get to court in time to face another charge. Evidently this man attaches a great deal of importance to "punctuality!" Being punctual is a splendid habit, but in the case of the Toronto man, he carried his punctuality a bit too far—at any rate he'll have a year to figure it out.

Motorists are warned not to take chances these cold days. When starting your car, always leave the garage door open. Carbon monoxide gas is deadly—doubly so because the victim receives no warning of its presence. A few revolutions of the motor will turn a small garage into a lethal gas chamber. The gas is odorless and invisible. Chemists declare that less than three minutes is required to generate a lethal dose of the gas, even when the victim is strong, and that much less time is required to kill persons with less sound constitutions.

A good editor is one who has never made a mistake; who is always right; who can ride two horses at the same time he is straddling a fence with both ears to the ground; who always says the right things at the right time; who always picks the right horse as well as the right politician to win; who never has to apologize, who has no enemies, and who has worlds of prestige with all classes, creeds and races. That is all an editor has to do to be rated a good editor. There has never been a good editor.—North Hastings Review.

THE POET'S CORNER

IT'S BEST TO TRUST

I think I'd rather trust folk and find out I was wrong,
Than start eyeing with suspicion everyone who comes along.
Because that way there isn't any happiness or fun,
Oh, I think I'd rather trust folk, even though I may get done.
I think I'd rather trust folk, because even in the end
Someone who has let you down, may turn out quite a friend.
Because in nearly everyone, there's one chord that strikes true,
And when you go on trusting folk, they end by trusting you.

NOVEMBER NIGHTS

(By Molly Bevan)

I love those nights when the fog comes creeping
Dimly and grayly in from the sea,
When the wind keeps hushing the rain's soft weeping
And the land is veiled in mystery;
Only the thud of the dead leaves falling,
Only the sound of the gray gulls calling,
And the waves upon the shore.

I love those nights when the street lamps glimmer
Like misty moons in a cloud-swept sky,
And their feeble light grows swiftly dimmer
As the homing crowds go stumbling by;
While the fog, half-hiding, half-revealing,
Mocks at the warning bell's grim pealing,
For havenless ships at sea.

I love the quiet of these gray Novembers,
With their wind and rain and their sodden leaves;
I love the dreams that the heart remembers,
Sitting at home in the lamplit eves;
While the fire's gay crackle, never ending,
With the music of rain on the window's blending,
And the fog's enfolding all.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL

Who hears more of life than the telephone girl?
Her brain keeps so steady when all's in a whirl.
She's cool and collected, with manner polite
On news confidential she keeps her lips tight.
And when you're impatient and blaming her wrong
Her manner ne'er changes, but goes right along
And gets you your number. Then when you get cool
And inwardly cursing yourself for a fool,
She's still on the job with her calm and her poise
Although she's but human, and thinks of the boys,
Who date her when free, and think she's a pearl
Right out of an oyster—our telephone girl.
She's right on the job when the doctor we need;
At midnight, or later, our frantic calls heed;
And ask information "No trouble at all."
And sympathy shows in her voice when we call
She's just a young lady we ought to admire
And bound to have nerves like a highly-strung wire.
Her manners are equal to those of an earl,
But friendly to all, is our telephone girl.

UNITED CHURCH W. M. S.

The Monthly meeting of the United Church W. M. S. was held last Thursday in the S. S. rooms, and was made quite interesting by the convenor of the programme, Mrs. W. J. Cass, and her committee, taking up Chapter 4, the Ministry of Healing, from the Study Book, in such a way that appealed to all.

Mrs. F. F. Davidson conducted the opening devotions with Mrs. Mabel Allison at the piano, after which the minutes were read and approved and reports given by the Secretaries of Depts. and the Treasurer, who said our givings are ahead of last year at this time. Those wishing to renew for the Missionary Monthly should give their money to Mrs. Mabel Allison at once. A life membership certificate was presented by Mrs. W. J. Cass to Miss May Rose.

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. W. J. Cass, Mrs. H. L. Hughes and Mrs. F. Davidson, was appointed, also a committee to see about the building of a cupboard in which to keep missionary literature—Mrs. W. J. Stewart and Mrs. E. Merkley.

The offerings were received by Mrs. E. Steele and Mrs. E. Fennell. Mrs Cass, in following the order of service in the Monthly, announced the theme to be: "Our response to God's missionary purpose," and gave a well-prepared synopsis of the book of Jonah. Two enjoyable vocal solos were contributed: Mrs. Johnson singing "Forward be our Watchword," with Mrs. E. Steele accompanying her, and Christine Stewart, "A Sunbeam," with Mrs. Allison as accompanist. In conducting the study, Mrs. Cass used the map of the world, also one of India, and a blackboard as well. She told the story of Dr. Chone Oliver, who is returning to India this month after a short furlough.

Mrs. E. Steele told of the work of Dr. and Mrs. Scudder who were the first missionaries sent to India from Canada. The help given by the Government in medical missions was shown in a reading by Mrs. McVey, Sr.

Zenana hospitals and evangelistic work was described by Mrs. H. L. Hughes, and higher health standards, treatment of lepers and of T. B., by Mrs. Thos. Annable, One of the leading doctors is a native Christian.

Mrs. E. Fennell closed the chapter by dealing with medical pioneering in India, saying that the medical missionary of the future must be well trained and of high calibre and be willing to hand over some responsibility to the native assistants. It is our duty to go or send The singing of "Blest be the tie that binds," brought the meeting to a close.

ST. PAUL'S W. M. S.

The November meeting of St. Paul's W. M. S. was held at the home of Miss Gardner on Tuesday, Nov. 14th, with an average attendance.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, followed by a hymn. The secretary, Miss Irving, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Wm. Johnston, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Wilson volunteered to call on Home Helper members. Reports of departments were given by Mrs. Spinks and Mrs Turner for Goforth Girls' group and Mrs. Watson for Mission Band.

Plans were made to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of St. Paul's W. M. S., and final arrangements were left with the committee and executive.

The Bible Study bearing on the theme Faith was in the care of Mrs. Wm. Johnston. Current Events by Mrs. Watson and the Mission Study, a letter from Miss Lyons, Weirdale Nursing Home, Sask., read and explained by Mrs. Turner.

The meeting was brought to a close with a verse of "Faith of Our Fathers," and prayer by the President.

The Women's Missionary Society of the United Church had as their guest speaker, Mrs. Carlyle, Presbyterial President, of Reids Mills, on Sunday evening, Nov. 12th. She spoke to a splendid audience on "The Kingdom of God." Her message was a great challenge to each of us. The Kingdom of God can only be established by each individual accepting Christ as their own Father and then reaping in souls for the Kingdom. By doing so we are developing the Missionary campaign that started so many years ago when the command was given to the disciples, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." The Mission Band members contributed to the program with a fitting number, "Little Messengers." Mrs. Coons, President of Group 2, read the Scripture. Mrs J. W. Webb sang "Speak, My Lord," assisted by a few of the choir members in the chorus. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

That Home-Made Candy

By Frances Lee Barton

THERE was a time — grandma remembers it — when "home-made candy" and "beau night" were synonymous. Times change radically but people only superficially. Knowing this, the modern hostess can always please with a real dish of home-made candy. The modern swain may be publicized as a gold fish gulper but he is assuredly a home-made candy gulper de luxe. Try this particular recipe upon your most particular friend:

Chocolate Divinity

2 cups sugar; ⅔ cup water; ½ cup light corn syrup; 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten; 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1 cup broken pecan meats; dash of salt.

Bring ½ cup sugar and ⅓ cup water to a boil and boil until a small amount of syrup forms a slightly firm ball in cold water (240° F.). While this mixture is boiling, bring remaining sugar and water and the corn syrup to a boil and boil until a small amount of syrup forms a hard ball in cold water (252° F.). Remove first syrup (240° F.) from fire and cool slightly; pour slowly over egg whites, beating constantly until mixture loses its gloss (1½ minutes). Then add second syrup (252° F.) slowly, beating as before. When nearly cool, fold in chocolate; then add vanilla, nuts, and salt, and beat until candy will hold its shape. Turn into greased pan, 8x8 inches. Cool until firm. Cut in pieces, 1x1½ inches. Makes 3½ dozen pieces.

SWEET TIME COMING FOR ONTARIO CITIZENS

There will be a distinct hum in that "hive" of convention activity, The Royal York," Toronto, on Nov. 28, 29 and 30, and a sweet time is promised all delegates, friends and others interested in beekeeping at the Diamond Jubilee of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association. There are 700 members of the Association and the majority will attend this 60th annual meeting, officials expect, while "Honey Week" is being celebrated throughout all Ontario.

Owing to the cancellation of the Royal Winter Fair this year where Ontario Honey producers always exhibited their choicest products, the beekeepers decided to hold their annual show at the Royal York during the convention and it is expected that several tons of honey will be on display with a special exhibit by the Ontario Honey Producers' Co-operative of honey in all its forms. Supply houses and container manufacturers will also exhibit.

The apiarists will discuss the possibility of establishing a co-operative for the purchase of supplies and decide whether or not Ontario should adopt domestic grading on honey offered for resale. There will also be moving pictures every afternoon and evening depicting "The realm of the honey bee." Dr. C. T. Currelly, Curator of the Royal Ontario Museum will give an address Wednesday evening.

Officers of the O. B. A. are H. O. White, Glanworth, President; Allan T. Brown, Peterborough, Vice President; Dr. E. J. Dyce, Guelph, Sec. Treas.

Special displays of honey will be made in all stores from Nov. 27 to Dec. 2nd and patrons will be urged to buy honey, the sweetest of foods, good for all, but especially good for children, athletes and invalids.

MARRIAGES IN CANADA JUMP WITH WAR OUTBREAK

Cupid and his bow and arrows did a land office business during the first month of the war the Dominion Bureau of Statistics disclosed.

"The first month of war quite evidently plunged many Canadian young people into the sea of matrimony in advance of their original intentions," said the bureau. "During September the number of marriages throughout Canada was 7,966 which was 68 1-2 per cent. more than the September total a year ago."

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Cracked Eggs.

Cracked eggs can be boiled successfully if wrapped in waxed or oiled paper and tied with a string before placing in the water.

Cleaning Glass.

A quick method of cleaning small picture glasses and similar articles is to hold them over the steam arising from a tea kettle and then polish them at once.

Removing Lint.

Clothing will often leave lint on freshly varnished surfaces which have fully hardened. Rub these spots with a cloth moistened with turpentine and follow with furniture polish.

Glossy Overshoes.

The gloss on rubber overshoes is made by the use of a special rubber varnish which is applied before the shoes are vulcanized. This gloss can be restored to some extent by rubbing the shoes with glycerine.

Old Rust.

Rust which has been allowed to remain for a long time on knife blades can be removed by sticking the blades upright into an onion and leaving them for some time. The blades will then clean with an ordinary scouring.

Boiled Potatoes.

Sogginess in potatoes that have been steamed or boiled with the skins on can be prevented by removing the skin immediately. Drain the potatoes as soon as they are done, and dry them by shaking the utensil over the flames.

Dishcloths.

The best way to make dishcloths is to take four thicknesses of cheese-cloth, turn in the edges, and quilt on the machine about two inches apart. Cotton crepe is very good for dish towels, being cheap, non-linty, and easy to launder.

Bacon Rinds.

Save bacon rinds for flavoring soups and dried peas and lima beans. Spread over the top of Boston beans while baking, they take the place of the usual piece of salt pork, imparting flavor and protecting the top layer of beans from burning.

STILL SHAKEN BY THE ORDEAL, MONTREAL GIRL TELLS ABOUT THRILLING ESCAPE FROM POLAND

Still pale and weak from the ordeal, Zofia Charuk, Montreal school teacher of Polish descent, is back home after escaping from Poland, where she was holidaying at the time of the German invasion.

Miss Charuk declared she witnessed the fall of Poland from the day the first bomb dropped on the City of Lwow until she reached Latvia more than three weeks later. During her flight, Zofia said, she suffered with hundreds of other refugees from illness and privation. She told of having exchanged four dresses on one occasion for a small jar of jam.

The young school teacher said she had gone to Poland in July and had planned to start for home September 4, but three days before she was due to leave, while she was at Lwow, German bombers arrived there. She told of her flight from Lwow to Warsaw, where she served five days in a military canteen before authorities advised her to leave, and then of her departure aboard a train whose destination was not known. The train was subjected to bombings the first day of the journey and afterwards only moved at night. There was no food, and refugees searched the fields, where sometimes they found potatoes, Zofia said.

German planes overhead were piloted by youths, she asserted. A girl flier had bombed Lwow and had been shot down, and a second plane shot down by the Poles carried a girl and a youth, she said.

"They are all youngsters about 18 or 19, these Nazi pilots," Zofia insisted. "Some of them said they were given 'injections' before they started out, to give them courage."

While the judges were compiling their report, community singing was enjoyed under the leadership of Mr. F. Bolster, of Chesterville, with Miss Betty Bolster of S. S. No. 8, at the piano.

During the evening the president, Mrs. Roy McKeown, announced that Misses Mina and Clara Latimer had donated a hospital bed for use in the community, the Institute to be responsible for its storing and care.

Announcement was also made that in January a drama competition would be held under auspices of the Metcalfe Institute, open to all organizations of the district. This competition has as its prize, the Metcalfe Institute Shield, now held by the Young People's Society of Marvelville, to whom it was awarded in 1938.

Mrs. Jas. Stanley's name was drawn as the Institute member to attend the tea and musicale at Government House, with the president and secretary, Mrs Roy McKeown and Mrs. A. R. Boland.

At the close the Garland Trophy was presented to Miss Loney by Mr. Hawkins, and prizes were given to all pupils taking part, and presentations made to the teachers of the four schools.

THE UNITED CHURCH

Sunday's services were appropriate for Remembrance Day, for which the church was suitably decorated with flags, the large service flag with the war veterans' names, being hung in the front of the church, and a beautiful new wreath of poppies, maple leaves, on a green background, belonging to the Legion, sitting near the pulpit.

Rev. W. S. Atchison told the children the story of an Austrian, who after coming to this country, had hard luck, but he was able to surmount his difficulties by the help of the Church, to which he pays great tribute.

I Sam. 21:9 was the text from which a fine message on God's munitions was given. Fitting reference was made to Remembrance Day and to world conditions at present. We should garrison our hearts by remembering what God has done for us and with us in the days gone by. God's power is great and we should depend upon Him for victory in our lives.

"O Lord Most Holy," was sung most impressively by the choir, with a solo part by Mrs. F. Johnson, and with Mr. F. Johnson at the organ.

Christianity and Crisis was the evening subject, based upon John XVII 1. Jesus lifted up His eyes to Heaven and prayed for His disciples that they wouldn't fail Him in the day of crisis and so it is important that we do not fail Him. He asked that they would be given power over evil. He prayed for unity among them and that they might have His glory. A song service of familiar hymns from Redemption Songs, Songs was held at the close of the regular service.

ROOSEVELT'S SON DECLARES LINDBERGH BETRAYED TRUST

Elliott Roosevelt, second son of President Roosevelt, said in an interview at Detroit that Col. Charles Lindbergh "betrayed his trust" in a recent radio address commenting on Canada's position in the war.

"Col. Lindbergh had absolutely no right in saying the things he did about Canada's position in this war," Roosevelt said.

"All officers and officials in the United States were requested to withhold comment on the war situation in view of our position. Although he is an officer of the reserve list, Col. Lindbergh ignored instructions and criticized Canada's stand.

"His speech was not only a betrayal of his position, but a very definite threat to our status as a neutral nation."

Roosevelt said Lindbergh sought refuge in Britain but as soon as war clouds developed he hurried back to the United States "and criticized a nation which had sheltered him."

BURGOMASTER MAX

An heroic figure has just passed away in Brussels, Belgium, in the person of Burgomaster Adolphe Max.

Max's fame dates from the world war when the Germans marched into Belgium. When they arrived at the capital the arrogant German commander marched to the hotel de ville, or city hall to you, and took over in the name of Imperial Germany. His first act was to take his revolver from its holster and place it on the burgomaster's desk. Max, it is said, immediately whipped out his fountain pen and placed it beside the revolver. From that moment he became a thorn in the side of the Germans and was subsequently locked up and remained a prisoner until the war ended when he escaped and returned to Brussels to receive the greatest welcome ever given a Belgian. He refused all honors but so great was his popularity that he continued to serve his city as Burgomaster until his death. In death as in life he will remain one of Belgium's great heroes.

TO FORM GOAT CLUB IN SOUTHERN GRENVILLE

Information was passed last week that the Ontario and Federal departments of agriculture may co-operate next spring in an unique departure by the formation of a goat club in Grenville County for the purpose of encouraging and popularizing goat husbandry in that district, where many goats are now being raised.

The club, which may be inaugurated early in 1940, will function largely as existing agricultural clubs now operate, and is the outcome of the enterprise of Mr. Louis Fischl and the colony of Grenville Czechs who are raising goats in order to provide a domestic supply of kid skin for glove manufacturing purposes.

Beauty for YOU

The Secrets of Good Looks by

THE CORRECT WAY TO MAKE-UP

There is a right way to make-up, so perhaps you will find these hints timely now that party and dance nights are here again.

It is important to thoroughly cleanse the skin, so ensure this by always washing with a bland olive-oil soap. And for your make-up, do use the new "six-minute make-up" method, using Three-Purpose cream and powder, rouge and lipstick to match.

Cleanse pores and skin thoroughly of all foreign matter by massaging Three-Purpose cream in gently. Remove all the cream with a damp, warm cloth. Then smooth on a little more cream and wipe the face gently with a damp, cold cloth. This leaves on your skin a fine, thin film of cream that acts as a powder base without clogging your pores.

If you use eyeshadow, this goes on next. Use very little, and stroke it lightly over eyelid, to outward corner of eye.

Now lightly smooth rouge over your face with finger-tips to work foundation cream and rouge in evenly.

Generously pat powder all over your face, not forgetting under your chin, along jaw-line and down the neck.

Apply eyelash cosmetic next, if you use it. Finally, apply lipstick, not only on the outside but also a little inside the lips.

Write for confidential beauty advice enclosing four one-cent stamps for a fascinating new booklet on Beauty Care. Address: Barbara Lynn, Box 75, Station B, Montreal, Que.

APPLES ARE ON BARNYARD MENU

Apples are on the barnyard menu in wartime. Cows, horses and pigs are munching the juicy red apples Canada cannot sell overseas as she did in peacetime, and livestock dietetic experts of the Dominion Agriculture Department claim the apples are beneficial to the animals.

Ships are scarce, and when available are called upon to carry less bulky food than apples across the ocean to the British Isles, so the apple growers aided by the Dominion government have turned to other outlets for the abundant apple crop. Quebec and Ontario are supplying the bulk of central Canada's apple needs, but the surplus stocks of Nova Scotia and British Columbia present something of a problem

Experiments have already been conducted at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa by George W. Muir, Dominion animal husbandman. Animals, he warns, must be accustomed gradually to the apple regimen, but after they have been fed apples for some time cows, for instance, can easily eat 30 to 40 pounds of apples a day in two feedings.

A test carried out at the experimental station at Summerland, B.C., showed that apples did not interfere with the milk production of cows.

A cost of apple feeding, tests show, work out at from $4 to $5 a ton, about the same as mangels.

Revival Services In Wesleyan Methodist Church Continuing

Each Friday night is set apart as Young People's Night. Last Friday night the evangelist, Rev. Mrs. Gleason, used as her text, Heb. 12:1-2: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin....., and let us run with patience the race.....looking unto Jesus." Referring to the cloud of witnesses spoken of, Mrs. Gleason said: "They are found in Chapter 11. In verse 16 Paul, in speaking of them, said: Wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God." Here we look into God's photograph gallery and notice how many of the old worthies He portrays for us. After showing them to us, Paul says: Wherefore seeing.... let us run with patience, the race set before us." Preparation for the race: Lay aside every weight, and The Sin. Weights: Sinful habits, sinful deeds and everything that hinders. The Sin: that which makes us sin. With all the 'weights' laid aside, we win in the race —"looking unto Jesus."

The Sunday services evidenced much of God's presence and blessing. Several souls received definite experiences in grace. The text used for the morning message by our evangelist was Acts: 1:8, "But ye shall receive power." "Power without proper control is destructive. It is not a safe possession until our morals are geared up with our power. We need power in our churches; spiritual power. Something precedes the receiving of power. God wants us to have power. This power is preceded by purity of heart and is not given until we have the purity that warrants it. The coming of the Holy Ghost cleanses the heart from all impurity and puts into the heart perfect harmony and power. When we get harmonized with God, we are harmonized with each other. Purity begets power; power in pure love, in faith, in service, and with God in prayer. A purity that becomes power in our possession and when we have received this Power, it is not more power we are looking for; but for men to be saved."

The afternoon message was based on three words found in Isa., Chapter 6: "Woe, Lo, Go." Isaiah was a preacher of righteousness previous to this as we learn from reading the first chapter of his prophecy, yet we find he had a need. He saw the holiness of God and his own lack of purity was revealed to him. He was never the same after having had this vision, and neither are any of us the same after we get a vision of the Lord. Oh, that we might see Him, today! The best way to get this vision is in prayer. More than Isaiah needs to say, "Woe is me." It is not enough to get a vision and see the Lord, nor yet to see ourselves. We must pray through until, "Lo, this hath touched thy lips, thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged." Then the prophet heard God's voice (call) "Go, for us."

The text Sunday night was Luke 15:11 "A certain man had two sons." "Two prodigal sons, the younger does not want to live under what he feels is the bondage of home. The allurements of the city (for country) have attracted him and he asks for his inheritance so he might go. He got it and went and wasted it in riotous living. When it is all gone and his friends have forsaken him, and when he has to drink his cup of remorse, he remembers the good home and kind father he had deserted, and a longing for home possesses him. He knows he has sinned and in order to get back and enjoy the comforts of that home he must repent. He sits down and counts the cost, makes his decision, then says: "I will arise and go to my father." He left the old life and started for home with full purpose of heart to confess his sin and ask forgiveness. He found a welcome and there was great rejoicing. The other prodigal stayed at home, but did not enjoy its benefits as he should. He was what we might call an empty professor of religion, void of spiritual enthusiasm. A church goer, doing all his religious duties, but seeing nothing to rejoice over. Is so lacking in Christian love that he does not rejoice over his sinner brother returning home. The drudgery of religion without this love, no real peace, no glory, no joy. Do as the younger brother did. Go back and ask forgiveness, make confession, forsake sin, and find the welcome and forgiveness of your Heavenly Father, and you too will rejoice."—Contributed.

WHY THE PRINTER LOST HIS JOB

In a small Ontario town a few years ago, a farmer gave a printing office an order for some sale bills. The job was promised for June 30th. The day being set just before the long drought started, the printer decided to take on a few parting drinks. After taking several he suddenly remembered the bills that were promised for delivery on that day, and he staggered to the office to get the job out.

The next day the farmer called for the bills, paid for them and took them home. Just before he started to put them up this is what he read when he came to the list of articles for sale:

Twenty-five cows, broke to work; 11 head cultivators, coming in soon; 10 head shovelling boars, with scoops on sides; 8 mares, piano style; 12 rods canvas belting, better than new; DeLaval Cream Separator, with ice-cream attachment; McCormick binder, said to be in foal; Poland-China bob-sleigh, due to farrow soon; 14 head chickens, with seed-grass attachment in good working order; 15 billy goats, 70 bushel capacity; 2 Case riding heifers, good as new; spraying outfit, can be ridden by children; also many other articles too numerous to mention, which I intend to gather up at night between now and the time of sale.

Romance For The Jelly Glass

By BETTY BARCLAY

With all of us cooks agog to make new-fashioned jellies from old-fashioned herbs, it's fun to recall the legends connected with the favorites . . . Basil, for instance, is the sacred plant of households throughout India — and so highly is the herb regarded by rustic Italians that no lover would think of going courting without a sprig of basil hung over his ear. Then there's rosemary, once brewed into a drink to "strengthen" the memory — that's why the herb stands for remembrance today.

In addition to the romantic background of the fragrant plants, we know that gentlemen love the taste of such new and different jellies when they accompany beef, pork or fowl — and as long as the road to a man's heart is where it is, you can't go wrong on making up a batch to try!

Jellies like these are foolproof, require but a 30-second boil, and have all the summery flavor of sun-dried herbs. Please note, too, that from three cups of sugar you get four medium glasses of the finished spread.

Basil Jelly

(Makes about 4 medium glasses)

1 cup basil infusion
¼ cup vinegar
3 cups sugar
Coloring
½ bottle fruit pectin

Pour 1¼ cups boiling water over 3 tablespoons basil. Cover, let stand 15 minutes, strain to remove herbs.

Measure infusion into 3-quart saucepan, adding water if necessary, to make 1 cup. Add vinegar and sugar, and mix.

Place over hottest fire and while mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade. As soon as mixture boils, add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Rosemary Jelly

(Makes about 4 medium glasses)

1 cup rosemary infusion
¼ cup vinegar
3 cups sugar
Coloring
½ bottle fruit pectin

Pour 1¼ cups boiling water over 2 tablespoons rosemary. Cover, let stand 15 minutes, strain to remove herbs.

Measure infusion into 3-quart saucepan, adding water if necessary, to make 1 cup. Add vinegar and sugar, and mix.

Place over hottest fire and while mixture is coming to a boil, add coloring to give desired shade. Use coloring which fruit acids do not fade. As soon as mixture boils, add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Acute Indigestion

Acute indigestion is a much-abused term. Very few die of it. One reads in the newspapers that an important man of business has suddenly died of acute indigestion. It is a doubtful diagnosis. One thinks that he died of some heart affection, aggravated possibly by too heavy meals, too much tobacco or alcohol. The newspapers are, on occasion, inclined to be charitable. Perhaps it is as well.

The heart and stomach are close neighbours. They obtain their nourishment from the same source, the blood. They get their "pep" from a common origin, the nerves; if one organ is healthy, the others share in this health as well as in the ill-health of one or the other.

Both acute and chronic indigestion are abdominable. They make the victim uncomfortable and morbid. He is apt to think of heart disease, cancer or other serious ailment.

Acute indigestion is invariably due to the ingestion of too much food, improper food or food that is "spoiled."

A man (or woman) eats a hearty dinner at his favourite restaurant or club. Six or seven hours later, he is fearfully ill. He has fever, pains in the stomach, nausea, vomiting and perhaps diarrhoea. He has a feeling of impending death. Occasional cases of this food poisoning are fatal in 24 hours. Usually the attack is over in a day or two. The food poisoning is commonly derived from the use of foods such as milk, meat in the form of hamburgers, sausage and salads or other foods subject to much handling. Other acute stomach attacks are due to food toxaemia. Botulism belongs to this class. Botulism has usually a short period of incubation. Vomiting is the earliest symptom and this is succeeded by nervous signs, paralysis and constipation without fever. While the fatality rate of ordinary food poisoning is but 2 per cent, that of botulism runs to 50 and 100 per cent.

The heart affection most liable to be confused with acute indigestion is the one where the blood supply to the heart has been more or less completely cut off. This blood supply is carried by the coronary arteries. If one of these vessels is plugged up a person has coronary thrombosis. There is ghastly pain; he has nausea, vomiting and gas. The victim is prostrated. He may die in a few minutes, in an hour or two, or he may survive for a year or two until the heart's blood supply becomes completely shut off.

The so-called acute indigestion is often a serious matter. It calls for careful medical examination and attention. The symptoms may be due to heart condition for which absolute rest is the best remedy

After a huge meal, the immortal poet, Shakespeare said: "My grief lies onward and my joy behind." Perhaps the poet meant that it is not safe to overlook one's stomach—especially if one has heart trouble.—By John W. S. McCullough, M.D., D.P.H.

Some New Ideas In The Business World

For receipting and posting installment payments at the window, a new machine has been developed. Offering protection, economy and speed of operation, this device, which uses very little space, can also be used as an adding-subtracting machine. In a single operation, it posts the amount of cash received to the customer's receipt book and the ledger record, extends the new balance, and obtains a detailed audit journal.

For assembling small parts more easily there are now made small bins which can be set up in a semi-circle and stacked one above the other. A sloping floor feeds contents toward the front. They are made of heavy gauge sheet steel with welded construction.

A small light on a tension wrench of new design flashes when the nut is turned to the proper tightness. Desired tension is quickly pre-set, or the scale may be reversed to show absolute tension. Five scales are included so that mathematical conversions are not required.

A new electric refrigerator has the thermostat removed from the cold box so that food load and room temperature govern its operation rather than the temperature of the freezing unit. Economy with better food preservation are said to result.

A new door hinge—plain joint butt type—has a simple but effective non-rising pin. The pin has a split ring which snaps into place easily and holds until the pin is withdrawn. The pin is easily set and withdrawn.

For the economical shipment of many chemicals here is a carboy made of aluminum. It requires no crate and saves 50 pounds in shipping weight. For easy handling, it has folding handles. Except for the neck, it has a flat top for ease in stacking. The screw cap is made of aluminum.

Greater hardness and toughness in concrete is said to be possible by using a new mineral product to replace sand. It is crushed, washed, dried and graded for size. It is also usable with mastic floor patching material. It is composed of a lava rock containing a diabase and black quartz. The mineral is said to be hard enough to cut glass and yet quite tough.

Welding current may now be regulated by remote control. This new system operates through a compact switch mounted on the welding tongs. A low-voltage relay circuit operated by the tong switch controls a reversible motor which in turn operates the full-range "stepless" heat control. By thus giving the operator constant "fingertip" control of welding heat, costly interruptions are avoided and the quality of the welding is said to be improved through conveniently providing exactly the heat each type of rod or welding job requires.

RED CROSS MAN OF VOORMEZEELE

O, Red Cross man of Voormezeele,
In church, at cenotaph, I kneel,
And backward turn times dizzy reel.

The "whiz-bang" strikes ere heard the sound,
The dreaded "coal-box" scars the ground,
The shrapnel scatters death around.

The bullet's whining ere it's spent,
I hear, and see the darkness rent,
And mark the Very-light's descent.

I see the trench dug to thy door,
Where heroes, wounded, heroes bore,
And struggled 'neath their burden sore.

No wild destructive part was thine;
To man the gun, to lay the mine,
Or charge with naked steel in line.

Thine were indeed the nobler part;
To soothe the wound, allay the smart,
Bring solace to the stricken heart.

The cooling draught, the cigaret,
The word of comfort or regret,
Thy cheerful promise, "Blighty yet!"

As we on our grim mission crept,
Thou, faithful, weary vigil, kept
O'er war-torn victims as they slept.

On each of us, who knew thee well—
Thy heartfelt parting blessing fell:
Who could tomorrow's grief foretell?

For thou, ere fled that bitter night,
Had changed thy Red Cross for a white
Thy khaki for a role of light.

We're proud that we with thee have been,
Not dimly visualized the scene
With Neptune's rolling realm between.

Now (not the least part of our pain)
We hear that bickering refrain—
"They did!" "They did not!—die in vain!"

But thou, (and those who with thee lie)
Some honor hast: we failed—to die:
Can envy reach thee in the sky?

We lived, to know the iron heel,
Too oft the burnt-out jibe to feel:
Art thou at peace in Voormezeele?

—Wm. L. Mackenzie.

Mrs. Finnigan caught sight of her neighbor's new signboard, with the following inscription: "Washing and Ironing Done."

"Wud ye look at that?" she exclaimed indignantly. "Washing and Ironing Done," indeed; Shure she ain't one bit better than Oi am. Oi've had me washing and ironing done since yesterday, but you don't see me hanging out a signboard bragging about it!"

Twice As Many Rats As Human Beings

The population of Canada is under 12 millions of people. The rat population is estimated to reach 25 millions.

The rat is man's most intelligent and dangerous foe. He is filthy, destructive and disease-carrying; a menace to society. At a most conservative estimate the rat populaion of Canada consumes food of a value of 50 millions a year. If this were his only fault the rat's continued existence might be tolerated.

It is not as a destroyer of property or as a consumer of food but as a health menace that the rat does the greatest harm. Because his body is infested with fleas, lice and mites, the rat distributes what are known as mechanical carriers of disease. Investigation has shown that a single rat carries on an average 15 fleas, and these fleas in many instances, are known to carry disease.

Rats, as well as mice and squirrels, furnish an important chapter in preventive medicine. These rodents, as they are called, comprise more than one-third of all living species of mannals. They have strongly developed incisor teeth but no canine teeth. The front of the incisors is covered with enamel which keeps them sharp and chisel-like. These teeth continue to grow during the life of the animal.

A rat bite may cause fever (rat-bite fever) and other infections, but the real danger from rats is because of the disease-carrying insects living on them. The rat is the chief reservoir and source of human plague. The plague is the "black death" which in the years 1664-5 killed 70,000 of the half-million population of London. Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe" wrote one of the best descriptions of this devastating epidemic. Infectious jaundice, leprosy, trichinosis and epidemic typhus are spread by rats. These rodents frequently infect food supplies in butcher shops, slaughter houses and in groceries and warehouses. The rat is prolific. Their increasing numbers are limited only by the available food supply and opportunities for nesting. The families run from 7 to 14 in number.

The suppression of the rat is probably a biological impossibility. The animal is unusually intelligent, keen and cautious. Millions have been killed in the endeavour to control plague epidemics in India, Japan and in coast cities such as San Francisco, without causing an appreciable reduction of the stock.

Rat-proofing of buildings, starving, the use of traps, poisons and fumigation have all been tried with more or less success. The natural enemies of the rat are hawks, snakes, skunks, weasels, the mongoose, minks, dogs, cats and ferrets.

The rat cannot live without food and he will quickly migrate if food supplies are denied him, just as he will congregate where food is plentiful. All available forces must be arrayed against him in order to limit this source of disease-carrying parasites.

He Sings While He Sleeps.

Rev. W. S. Atchison is thoroughly convinced that his son, Wendell, is taking his vocal lessons seriously. About 3 o'clock on Wednesday morning, long after the family had retired, Mr. Atchison was awakened from his slumbers by a vocal solo which drifted from Wendell's bedroom. He went to investigate and, lo and behold, there was Wendell fast asleep, singing "Roll Out The Barrell" in clear, distinctive tones. We have often heard of people talking in their sleep, yelling and making weird noises, but this is the first report we have had of a fellow singing while he slept. When Wendell was informed, next morning, of his midnight solo, he was greatly surprised.

"HITLER AND THE SECOND WORLD WAR"

Lecture given by Mrs. John D. Stewart, B Sc., M. A., at Ventnor, Proved Most Interesting. Kemptville Quartette Also Enjoyed.

The 60th anniversary of the United Church at Ventnor was celebrated on Thursday evening of last week with a supper and lecture and both were well attended.

The ladies of the church provided the supper which was served in the church hall.

At the programme which followed, the pastor, Rev. W. Long, was the chairman, and the church was filled with an audience which greatly enjoyed the lecture given by Mrs. John D. Stewart, of Winchester, which was entitled, "Hitler and the Second World War." In a clear and intelligent manner the speaker told her audience the many things which would cause the German Dictator to lose the war; of the worthlessness of his pledge; his cruelty to the smaller nations whom he had by force subdued; of the bombastic words of Hitler and his threats to crush the British Empire. In stirring words the speaker called on all to do their part, no matter how small, to help the fight for democracy, and for Christianity the world over.

A mixed quartette from Kemptville United Church, Miss Electa Mills, Mrs. F. J. Friend Mr. H. H. Keegan and Mr. F. J. Friend, with Miss Laura E. Todd at the organ, rendered several numbers, and Mr. and Mrs. Friend were also heard in a sacred duet.

Mr. J. D. Stewart, of Winchester, gave a humorous recitation on the world war situation.

Thanks to all were given by Mr. E. E. Adams and Mr. H. McFadden, and the evening was closed with the singing of God Save The King.—Kemptville Advance.
