"Meanest" Thieves Given Jail Terms for Crimes

Bruce Markell, 21, and James Sipes, Both of Williamsburg Township, Stole Dishes After Home Burned. —Poaching Case Held Over.

Bruce Markell, 21-year-old resident of Brinston, appeared before Magistrate John McCormick in Winchester on Tuesday on two charges of theft and was sentenced to six months on each charge, sentences to run concurrently.

Markell was charged with breaking and entering and stealing a bicycle, the property of Harry Johnston, Williamsburg township, and with stealing a set of dishes, the property of D'Arcy Patrick. The theft of dishes took place after fire had burned the Patrick home, from an outbuilding, where the dishes were stored.

James Sipes, of Williamsburg township, pleaded guilty to stealing dishes from the Patrick property and was given three months in Cornwall jail.

Charles Steinbrunner, Williamsburg township, was fined one dollar and costs for being in possession of a coon skin, illegally, information being laid by Royal Baker, of Cornwall, game warden of the district.

Magistrate McCormick reserved decision on the case of Abraham St. Pierre, Winchester township, who was charged by the game warden with having, illegally, pelts of fur-bearing animals in his possession, and also the hide of a deer.

In defence, St. Pierre claimed to have killed a fox which was molesting his fowl; a dog had killed a mink, skunks had been killed on his own property to protect fowl, and he claimed to have notified the Department of Game and Fisheries within 10 days of the killing of the animals.

HOCKEY MEETING

A meeting of those interested in community league hockey will be held next Tuesday evening, Dec. 4th, at the home of Eric Casselman at eight o'clock, for the purpose of re-organizing the league and electing officers.

Expressions of Sympathy Received by Reeve Casselman

News of Burning of Chesterville's Fine Community Hall a Shock to Former Citizens.

Letters of regret and sorrow at the burning of our Community Hall are still pouring in to Reeve W. H. Casselman from those who had seen the handsome building and knew of the great pride practically all of the citizens had in it. Pat. Grady, from Cleveland was one of the first to be heard from, which probably was very natural as he had watched its building from the turning of the first sod Morrisburg's Canadian Club, through its secretary, J. D. McDonald, expressed its regret at the loss and disappointment sustained by our folks Miss Nora Fitzgerald, Chicago, one of the heirs from whom the site was purchased, expressed her regret at the unfortunate happening, and extended to Mr. Casselman her appreciation of the pleasant relations between them during the negotiations for purchase. Several others expressed the same sentiments and took it for granted that another structure would soon be built to replace the one which was to have been opened with an elaborate banquet on Tuesday past.

Barns and Stock Burned At Ormond on Sunday

Foster Hanes Loses Large Barn and Stables Valued at $2,500.—Family Absent From Home When Blaze Noticed by Neighbours.

Seven head of cattle, one horse, 100 hens and several pigs were burned to death and damage estimated at $2,500 caused when fire of unknown origin broke out in a large barn and stables on the farm of Foster Hanes, one-half mile south of Ormond, at eight o'clock Sunday evening.

Adjoining the barn was a large silo which was also destroyed, together with about 25 tons of hay and 500 bushels of grain.

Mr. Hanes and his family were absent at the time of the outbreak, and when it was noticed by neighbours, it had secured a firm grip. The damage is partially covered by insurance.

DEAD THREE WEEKS BODY AGNES MOORE FOUND YESTERDAY

Thought to Have Gone to Hospital For Treatment of Stomach Ailment, Her Absence Did Not Cause Friends Alarm.

DISCOVERED BY BROTHER

No Inquest To Be Held.—Indications She Died During Night From Chronic Gastritis.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at nine o'clock to St. Mary's church of the late Agnes Moore, found dead in her bed late yesterday afternoon.

Believed to have been lying dead in her bed since November 10th, Miss Agnes Moore,, 43, was discovered by her brother, Edward Moore, yesterday afternoon about 4 45 in her apartment on the second floor of the Standard church block, Queen street. Miss Moore, who lived alone, had been suffering from a stomach trouble for some time and had told her friends she was going to hospital for X-ray and treatment, and her absence did not cause alarm as it was believed she had gone to hospital. Her last appearance in public is believed to have been at a euchre party in St. Mary's parish hall on the evening of November 9th.

The brother, who resides about three miles south of town on the home farm, noticed her absence a week ago Sunday when she had not attended either of the masses at St. Mary's church that day and when told Miss Moore was supposed to be in an Ottawa hospital, communicated a week ago with another sister, Mrs. John Young, Old Chelsea, Que., asking her to inquire at the Ottawa institutions. He received word yesterday that their sister could not be located in that city and, becoming suspicious something was amiss, went up to the apartment with Rev. Bert McRoberts, pastor of the Standard church who resides in the same building. They found Miss Moore's door locked with the key on the inside. A ladder was put up to the balcony at the front of the apartment and from there Mr. Moore looked through a window and saw the unfortunate lady dead in her bed. The balcony door was not locked and they went in to find the body in a badly decomposed condition. They notified Dr. H. H. Casselman, who ascertained death to have been due to acute gastritis, apparently brought on by the stomach condition she suffered from for some time.

Indications of Last Sickness.

A wash basin had been placed by the bed and there were indications the deceased had vomited and, from the position of the body, suffered severely. The body was garbed in night clothes and her clothing and shoes were just as they had been when she retired. Dr. Casselman released the body which was taken to Dixon's undertaking parlours.

Will Not Hold Inquest.

Dr. Peter McLaughlin, Winchester, coroner, and Provincial Constable Frank Rose, Morrisburg, and Constable Garnet McLean, Chesterville, investigated the circumstances last night. The coroner notified Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness, K.C, Cornwall, who decided this morning that an inquest was unnecessary.

Mrs. McRoberts told The Record last night they had not observed Miss Moore about since November 10th, and that on Sunday, November 11th, she had knocked on the door to tell Miss Moore Chesterville's new Community Hall was on fire but, receiving no reply after two or three attempts, concluded Miss Moore was not at home. The deceased had told the McRoberts family also of her plans to go to hospital. Every morning ,said Mrs. McRoberts, they heard Miss Moore's kitchen pump as soon as she was up, but this they had not noticed since Saturday, November 10

Mrs. John McCloskey said Miss Moore visited her last on Saturday, November 10th, and was in the habit of calling on her each day. She also was not alarmed at her absence as she expected Miss Moore had gone for treatment.

Several citizens report having seen the late Miss Moore on the streets between November 13th and 15th, but judging from the condition of the body, November 10th is thought to have been the time of death. Mail had not been taken from her post office box since November 15th, her copies of The Record for November 15th and 22nd had not been taken from the office.

Miss Moore lived a quiet life and, although she visited among her friends quite frequently, is said to have been wont to leave town for a week or so without letting anyone know of her plans, which explains why her apartment was not investigated sooner.

The members of the family surviving are Edward G., at the home farm, and Mrs. John Young (Helena), Old Chelsea, Que. Other members of her family have died after brief illnesses, Patrick Moore, her father; a brother, Johnny, and a sister Lucy, and an uncle.

Miss Moore took up residence in the Standard church apartment, over the Marcellus Meat Market, a couple of months ago and had not yet become completely settled, as she had quite extensive repair work done to the place and was awaiting the arrival of new furniture.

Former District Teacher Is Bereft of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Robinson, Comox-Manitoba, Have Sympathy of Many Friends.

Mrs. A. K. Stratton, of Carman, Manitoba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Robinson, of Comox, passed away recently after a short illness. Mr. Robinson is a brother of Mrs. Geo. Cunningham, and will be remembered by many as a school teacher in this district. The following obituary notice is taken from The Stonewall Argus, published Wednesday, Nov. 7:

Friends here were shocked when it became known that Mrs. A. K. Stratton had passed away on Saturday morning November 3rd, at Carman, at the age of 37 years.

Mrs. Stratton had been ill for only a few days, death being due to blood poisoning following a boil infection in the neck.

Deceased was beloved by a large circle of friends. While at Carman she had taken an active part in the life of the town, especially in singing and music, and was greatly interested in the work of Wesley United church, being leader of the Young People's choir, and a member of the Hospital Aid.

"She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Robinson and spent her early youth in Stonewall; Mr. Robinson being principal and teacher here for a great many years. Her kindly disposition won for her a host of friends.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves to mourn her loss, three sons, Grant, Keith and John; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Robinson, Comox, B.C.; and one sister, Miss Dorothy Robinson to whom our deepest sympathy is extended in this their sad hour.

The funeral service was held at Wesley United church, Carman, at 10 o'clock this morning, the cortege proceeding to Stonewall for interment, where it was met by a large number of friends, who gathered to pay a final tribute to the departed.

The many beautiful floral tributes which adorned the bier, from the citizens of Carman and Stonewall, showed the high esteem in which Mrs. Stratton was held.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture

Turkey growers are now beginning to finish or fatten their birds for the Christmas holidays. It is customary to begin the process of preparing the luscious turkeys for the nation's festive dinner tables by feeding them small amounts of grain which gradually are increased until the birds are on full feed. Due to the large supply of wheat available, this grain should be used to advantage in the fattening ration. Wheat has nearly the same fattening qualities as corn, but does not produce the rich yellow colour of flesh that yellow corn does. It is important, however, that all grains be free from moldiness and they should be fed in hoppers to counteract certain diseases that cause heavy loss. Do not confine turkeys for fattening, especially if they have been run on a range, for range birds cannot stand confinement.

The second estimated of wheat production in the Prairie Provinces for 1934 is 2,000,000 bushels lower than the preliminary estimated of 265 million bushels made on September 11th last.

In the Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs competition at the Royal Winter Fair, Ontario carried off the trophy in the Dairy Cattle project through the Markham Dairy Calf Club, and also the trophy in the Seed project through the Durham County Boys' Grain Club.

Why Burn Straw Stacks?

When, with the use of suitable chemicals they can be converted into manure, the question, "Why burn straw stacks?" is really pertinent. Straw is worth something more than as a bedding material, and not the least valuable is its use for the making of artificial manure. The use of 100 pounds of ammonium sulphate and 100 pounds of lime to each ton of straw, and this thoroughly soaked with water produces a manure of distinct fertilizer value. From three to six months are required for the organic changes to become effective and the resultant substance has much of the appearance and practically the same value as barnyard manure.

Grain Class Winners.

The Grain Class open to Agricultural Societies at the recent Ottawa Winter Fair resulted in very keen competition among societies in Eastern Ontario, where the production of high class grain has developed so rapidly in recent years.

The purpose of the competition was to encourage the society to foster the production of different kinds of high class seed grain by its members.

The Renfrew Agricultural Society was awarded first position, with a total of 450 points of a possible 500. The lots of peas, barley, alfalfa and oats each scored over 90 per cent, wheat alone fell slightly below this high standard.

The leading societies were placed as follows:

1st, Renfrew Society, 450 points.
2nd, Pakenham Society, 439 points.
3rd, Carp Society, 434 points.
4th, Vankleek Hill Society, 422 points.
5th, Drummond Society, 420 points.

Burning Stubble.

When stubble has been burned off and the land again seeded, after a minimum of cultivation, the yields of grain have proven this method to be superior to any other treatment. Objections to the burning of stubble are loss of nitrogen, loss of moisture, and some loss of soil fertility; while supporting the practice are weed control, clean crop and convenience.

Potatoes For Poultry.

Farming increases in value as an occupation just in proportion to the extent to which incidental by-products can be marketed at a profit. Not only must the farmer sell all his good quality products at a fair price, but he must also find a market for as much as he can of the unsaleable product. It has been found that greater net profits per bird can be made and a finished bird of finer quality and flavour produced through crate-feeding on a ration of equal parts of middlings, rolled oats, boiled potatoes and skim-milk than is the case where corn meal is used. Potatoes, finely ground or boiled, are proving exceptionally good for finishing poultry, particularly when fed in conjunction with the "white" grains and milk. Crate-fed poultry offers a really attractive market outlet for cull potatoes.

Cod Liver Oil and Cattle.

Cod liver oil has never attained very great prominence in supplementing the rations of the larger farm animals because the nutrients which it can supply or help to make available can be procured almost equally as well, and much more cheaply, from the ordinary farm live stock feeds, plus a minimum of purchased supplements such as protein feeds and minerals.

There are some occasions, however, when cod liver oil constitutes a valuable feed for the larger farm animals. Pigs being grown during the winter months sometimes develop an unthrifty rachitic condition, resulting from an evident deficiency of some of the vital feed elements. Such animals can often be brought into better condition by feeding cod liver oil. If trouble is anticipated, small doses of the oil will probably correct any tendency to a rachitic condition.

32 Boys' and Girls' Farm Teams Competed at the Royal Fair

In the annual National Club Contests in connection with the Boys' and Girls' Farm Club movement, 32 club teams of two members each, representing all of the Provinces of the Dominion, competed in several live stock and field crop projects at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, last week The actual contests were conducted on November 20 and the 64 contestants remained in Toronto until Friday evening, November 30th, visiting the Royal Winter Fair and other points of interest under the direction of the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club work. These club teams earned the right to compete in Toronto by winning their respective provincial elimination contests.

An unusual feature of these contests was the inclusion of an oral examination with a judging competition to form the complete contest in each of the projects included in the national contest programme. After several years' experience, it is felt that this form of contest provides an opportunity to measure the general ability and knowledge of the contestants, and, in turn, has the effect of encouraging, on the part of all club members more thorough study of the projects in hand.

Reports for 1934 show a total of 1544 fully organized boys' and girls' farm clubs in Canada with a total enrolment of 26,700 members. The projects undertaken include a variety of farm activities under the general headings of live stock, poultry, field crops and home economics. The results that are being obtained are significant and it is widely recognized that this junior club work has far-reaching economic and educational importance.

Average Man Dresses Better Than Woman, Execuiive Says

Department Store Head Says That Women's Fashion Do Not Last Because They Are "Ridiculou."

New York.—Kenneth Collins, New York department store executive, in a sweeping statement says, "All women's fashions are ridiculous."

"Curiously enough," he told the Art-in-Trade Club, "I am of the belief that the average man dresses in better taste than the average woman."

Collins said with conviction, "I don't think that I have ever seen more than one fashion in the past 10 years that was not fundamentally ludricous and unbeautiful."

He said women taught him the uncomingness of women's clothes because they themselves are the first to laugh when styles of three to five years ago are displayed. Such laughter, he said, would not be provoked by a thing of real beauty only a short time after it was created.

That which is beautiful in women's clothes, Collins said, is "the lines that most closely harmonize with those of women's figures."

Saves Companion's Life Pinned in Car Wreckage

Wreck Near Winchester Springs Nearly Claimed Life of Man But For Presence of Mind of Lady Who Held His Head Above Water.

Saving the life of Ray Hallor, of Hollywood, California, Mrs. Caroline D. Jackson, of Fort Smith, Arkansas, held Hallor's head out of water for more than half an hour while he was pinned down in an overturned car in a ditch, near Winchester Springs, early Sunday morning.

Driving towards Morrisburg on the Ottawa-Morrisburg highway, about three a.m., Hallor and Mrs Jackson were caught in their car when it left the highway and turned over in a ditch near the Springs. After being held in the car with Hallor unable to move and Mrs. Jackson holding his head above the 10 inches of water that entered the machine, they were rescued by Harvey Grieve, teller of the Bank of Montreal, Morrisburg, who was driving past.

Hallor and Mrs. Jackson were hurried to the office of Dr. M. W. Locke, Williamsburg, where they were treated for shock and exposure. The car was the property of S. W. Jackson, of Fort Smith, and was damaged to the extent of $500.

Traffic Officer Eugene Rose, Morrisburg, investigated the accident.

No Position in View, So Teacher Opens Own School

Qualified Teacher Opens Night School at Spearhill, Man., and Now Has Roster of 22 Pupils of All Ages.

A school that operates without the services of a school board, official trustees or a government grant, has been discovered by the Manitoba Department of Education.

Irvine Somerville, a qualified teacher, arrived in Spearhill last July in search of employment. None was to be had, so he started his own school. Now, when there is a vacancy at Mulvihill school, nearby, he cannot accept it because his pupils refuse to release him.

Somerville started a night school at Spearhill charging a moderate tuition fee. He now has 22 pupils, including a time-keeper in the Spearhill quarries, engineers, quarry workers, farmers and their sons, carpenters, domestic servants and high school students.

The attendants range in age from 17 to 60 years of age and are of seven nationalities. The scholars provided the school and each supplied his own chair and desk.

Murphy---Racine

On November 19th, at 8.30 a.m., the marriage of Helen Racine, daughter of Mrs. Alphonse Racine, Finch, to Frank Murphy, son of Mrs. John Murphy, was solemnized at St. Mary's church, Crysler, by Rev. Father Bougie. Many relatives and friends were present.

The bride wore a dress of navy blue crepe with coat and hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink 'mums and maiden hair fern.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Mae McElheran, who also was dressed in navy blue and wore a corsage bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Hugh Murphy.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left for a motor trip to Rochester, Niagara Falls and other western points. Returning Monday evening, a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Omer Prevost. The young couple received many beautiful gifts and cheques conveying the good wishes of friends and relatives for their future happiness and prosperity.

Grateful Westerners Acknowledge Gifts

Tilston, Man., Nov. 20th, 1934.

Dear Mr. Tait,—

The car loaded at Chesterville and other points was sent to Fertile, Sask., one of my appointments. Permit me through you to convey to the good people of Chesterville whose givings helped to make up a splendid car, the grateful appreciation of the many who are now enjoying a share of its good things. A number of tags were dropped while unloading the car and assorting in the school basement its contents but in many cases these will be individually acknowledged.

With the Reeve, I had oversight of the distribution. We had a list of the families and the number in each. None were served without a ticket with name and number and I am told there has been no criticism of the distribution.

The section where honey, canned fruit and vegetables and pickles were placed was a centre of attraction and many a word was heard expressive of both gratitude and surprise, but the more substantial potatoes, turnips, etc, were not less satisfying. The clothing, and there was a fine lot of it, was distributed later by a committee of women.

Could your people visit this desert land, where drought and 'hoppers left neither grain, nor vegetables, nor fodder, they might realize how grateful the people were to the good friends in the far east. Again and again one heard: "What a Godsend this car is!" "What good hearts these people must have to help us year after year," and there were those who said: "The Gospel of our Master Christ is not being preached in vain."

It is tragic to see the people forced to sacrifice their cattle at $1.00 to $5.00 per head; it will be hard, very hard to replace them. Feed, such as it is, is being shipped in for the two or three they are allowed to retain.

Again thanking you most sincerely on behalf of our people,

Yours sincerely,

A. D. MENZIES.

Fertile, Sask., Nov. 20, 1934.

Edward Carroll, Esq.
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Sir,—

I am in receipt of a letter received by my neighbour, Mrs. M. Belisle, who wishes me to thank you for your kindness, as she found this letter of yours in a splendid bag of potatoes and I might just state here that Mrs. Belisle has a large family who have had the misfortune of losing their crop by drought and 'hoppers, and they, like many others, were looking forward to this car coming both for the vegetables as well as the clothing, all of which came in splendid condition on November 9th and was unloaded on Nov. 12th and was handled by the Council. As the freight was prepaid by the Government, the Councillors and four ministers took charge of it: Rev. Mr. Menzies of Tilston, Rev. Mr. Malcolm of Fern, and two priests, one from Belgarge and one from Storstroaks. Willing hands assisted in unloading the car and its contents. Some 18 wagonloads were put into the basement of our school at Fertile which was distributed the following day among some five hundred persons. They allowed a half bag of potatoes to each member of a family and vegetables and fruit accordingly. While the clothing they moved into the skating rink waiting room and on Wednesday it was divided into four equal parts and given to the four ministers to distribute among their people and, judging by the actions of these men, they each had some people who would be very grateful for these clothes. Both Mrs. Belisle and myself and family join in thanking you and all your co-workers for this splendid donation to our drought-stricken area. But I might state here the people here as a whole are very cheerful and our schools are going on just the same. We have a consolidated school with two teachers. These teachers are boarding around that is, they board a month at each place and their board goes to pay the farmer's taxes, relief, etc., and the school vans are run the same.

Most of the men have been away baling straw this last two months for feed this winter. Again thanking you for your kind message, I am,

Yours truly,

MRS. W. W. HUTTON.

Fertile, Sask., Nov. 20, 1934.

Mr. A. J. Forward,
Chesterville' Ont.

Dear Friend,—

Just a line to thank you for your gifts which were received in car of vegetables, clothing, etc.

This car arrived at Fertile in very good order and was so orderly packed there was no loss no damage and I am glad to tell you was distributed to 134 families in this district.

Everything was unloaded in one day into the school basement and distributed the next day with a complete clean-up.

Needless to say, this car was much appreciated as it was the only car unloaded at this point.

Many thanks, I am,

Yours faithfully,

JOHN BALDWIN,

General Merchant and Postmaster.

Wife: "Darling, I'm sorry I've been so mean to you lately."

Husband: "Well, this is a fine time to be sorry. I'm dead broke."

HEALTH SELDOM COMES BY CHANCE TO PERSONS OVER THIRTY

Good health cannot be taken for granted any more than a good income can. So for persons over thirty it is just as smart and business-like to plan to enjoy good health as it is to plan to enjoy a good income. And it's just as much a matter of plain common sense to check up on yourself.

In health, your shortcomings are, at first, likely to be those annoying, not-exactly-well feelings. At such times, if your blood were tested, it would most likely be found "low in count". This means a shortage of red corpuscles and the corpuscles themselves short of haemoglobin. Make up this double shortage, and you'll come up to normal health again. Neglect it and serious results may follow.

Observing, in his practice, the importance of keeping the vitality of the blood up to normal, a Canadian authority originated a blood-building preparation which has been helping run-down people back to health for nearly half a century. This preparation, now known the world over as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, definitely increases the blood "count" in the majority of cases, thereby restoring vitality, steadying nerves, imparting strength and toning up the whole system. So the person over thirty who finds good health slipping, is well advised to take at least a 30-day treatment of this excellent remedy. The element of chance has been practically eliminated in such a treatment, because tests recently made by an authority in a clinic of 40 people, proved conclusively by individual blood "count" that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills certainly improve the health by enriching the blood. Scant Rations for Stock Where Relief Car Sent

Fertile, Sask., Nov. 11, 1934.

Oren J. Dunbar,
Newington, Ont.

Dear Sir and Friend,—

The car of vegetables that you loaded, your potatoes, citrons, etc., etc. arrived at its destination at Fertile, Sask, late Friday night, Nov. 8, which is 84 miles southwest of Brandon on the Lander-Elida C.P.R. All these relief cars this year are billed to the municipal councils for distribution. Owing to the lateness of the season we decided to leave everything in the car until to-day (Monday) then unload it all in the basement of our consolidated school and tomorrow it will be distributed in all directions to 130 families (over 500 individuals) except the clothing which will be distributed later to worthy parties I trust.

We started to unload the car about ten o'clock this forenoon and finished before twelve. The clothing was put in a separate building. This is the first time we have had any relief shipped direct to this point during these five lean years, so you can imagine the changed expressions on the faces of us all. We deeply appreciate and thank all you good people from the bottom of our hearts for the sacrifice you have made for us. The packing, cleanliness, thoughtful care in loading was fully exemplified by the condition of everything on arrival. Not one sealer of fruit broken, nothing crushed, all in perfect condition.

Great credit for this car is due to the efforts of our minister, Rev. A. D. Menzies, who has been making direct appeals to the Board of Committee, as, due to our location I presume we have been overlooked. About one week ago Storthoaks, which includes the west half of our municipality, received a similar carload. By the way, Mr. Menzies' home town was Perth, which is not so very far from Ottawa, and I see by the C.P.R. timetable Chesterville, Winchester and Inkerman are not far from Ottawa. I was born at Verona, Ont., in 1876, which is not very far from you either. Later we lived for 10 years at Plevna, about 18 miles from Levant St on the old K. and P., now C.P. In 1892 we came to Brisswam, Manitoba, and in 1920 to this place.

Of all our 42 years in this country, I have never seen a complete failure until this year, and this is due to high winds, drought and grasshoppers. Had it not been for the 'hoppers we would have at least had enough feed for the stock.

Our granaries are empty, also our pockets and bank accounts. Our cattle have been sold for next to nothing —thousands not bringing more than 10 cents per cwt net. Taxes are unpaid, and so it goes on, but this is, and has always been, known as a wonderful "next year" country. It will come back.

We have a son, Harry S. Holden. living at 376 Cooper st., Ottawa. If you go to Ottawa some time he would appreciate it if you would call on him, I'm sure. He was married a year ago and had spent nearly three years on the census staff. At the present time is finding it tough going to make a living there too.

The reason I am writing you is I took the fourth load from the car this morning and the first address I saw on a bag of potatoes was yours I also kept another one of yours with "citron" marked on it and I saw several others with your name. If you talk with others who do not have direct communication with the receiver of their donations, tell them to not judge us too harshly, as many times these tags lose their identity, and some are thoughtless. Personally I should like to write to everyone.

You all have your own struggles these times, but when the call comes for "Help," your response from the east is wonderful. We have a famine in our land, pure and simple, but no one will starve in Canada, thanks to our present state of civilization. and should the tables ever be turned we trust we will be there with the goods.

It's a long way to ship potatoes, but our hearts are right there.

Yours very sincerely.
C. S. HOLDEN,
(Sec.-Treas. Fertile United Church).

P.S.—We are having beautiful weather, with no snow yet, which is helping the feed situation.

Our live stock are supposed to survive the winter on baled straw and two pounds per day, per head, of grain. Will they get fat?

Royalty and Canadians On New Bank Notes

Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier Appear on New Bank of Canada Notes.—Bills Will Be Printed in Delicate Colouring.

Ottawa—Members of the Royal Family and two famous Canadian Prime Ministers are portrayed on the new paper currency to be issued by the Bank of Canada. Details of the new money were made public this week through Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes. The denominations so far contracted for are 1's, 2,s, 5's, 10's, 20's, 50's, 100's, 500's and 1,000's.

Sir John A. Macdonald, Confederation Prime Minister, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the great Liberal who was Prime Minister from 1896 to 1911, are the two Canadians whose likenesses will be perpetuated in the new money. Sir John A Macdonald's likeness will be engraved on the $500 bills and that of Sir Wilfrid on the $1,000 notes, the reverse sides bearing allegorical engravings representative of agriculture and "protection" respectively.

The new bills will be six inches long by 2⅞ inches wide, fractionally shorter and wider than the United States bills and much smaller than the existing Canadian notes. They are countersigned by the Governor and deputy governor of the Bank of Canada and a certain proportion of each series is printed in the French language.

Exceptionally fine specimens of the engraver's art, the new bills are to be printed in a selection of delicate predominating colourings. The 1's will be green, 2's blue, 5's orange and 10's purple. Colours for the other denominations have not been definitely decided.

The one dollar bills carry the likeness of King George on the face and an allegorical figure symbolizing agriculture on the reverse. Queen Mary's likeness appears on the 2's with an allegorical figure symbolic of transportation on the revesse.

On the 5's there is the likeness of the Prince of Wales with an allegorical representation of "power" on the reverse, while the 10's bear the likeness of Princess Mary with an agricultural scene on the reverse.

On the 20's, 50's and 100's there will appear respectively the likenesses of the Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of York and Duke of Gloucester.

Governor of the Bank, G. F. Towers, will take delivery of the new currency as fast as it is printed and have it put through the signature machines in readiness for circulation immediately the bank commences operatons, probably late in January.

All the engravings and printing are being carried out in Ottawa.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

Conducted By
MISS HELEN LACEY, B. H. Sc.

HOW ABOUT A DIET OF DATES?

IT MIGHT NOT BE ADVISABLE to make dates the chief of our diet but we certainly can use them often. Dates are one of the most valuable of dried foods. They are soft and juicy enough to be palatable without preparation in the home and as they contain large quantities of sugar can be used as a confection; they have the advantage over candy in that they supply the valuable minerals found in fresh fruit. Dates give palatability and attractiveness to otherwise uninteresting foods which form a large part of the diet of children as, breakfast cereals, whole-wheat breads and milk desserts.

OATMEAL DATE SANDWICH.

¾ cup shortening, butter and lard
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups oatmeal

Cream the shortening, add sugar, then flour and soda sifted together and lastly oatmeal. When too difficult to mix with a spoon use the finger tips. Divide the mixture in two,, pack half in a well greased pan, add filling of date mixture, spread other half of oatmeal mixture on top. Bake in a moderate oven 20 minutes.

Date Filling.

¾ lb dates
¾ cup water
½ cup sugar

Stone dates and cut in pieces, add water and sugar and cook slowly until mixture is a paste-like consis ency. Allow to cool slightly before spreading.

TRILBYS.

1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups rolled oats
½ cup milk
1¾ cup flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Cream the butter; add sugar. Add milk and rolled oats, add flour, sifted with baking powder and salt. The dough is quite soft and should be chilled to stiffen it before rolling. Roll thin, cut with a cookie cutter and place two cookies together with the following filling between; or place filling on one half of each cookie and fold over; press edges down. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes.

Date Filling.

½ lb. dates
1 cup water
½ cup sugar

Wash and stone dates; add water and sugar. Cook until mixture is thick; cool before spreading.

DATE LOAF.

1 cup walnuts
1 package dates
1 cup sour cream
1 egg
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt

Beat egg until light, add sugar slowly, blend well. Dredge nuts and dates, which have been cut in pieces, with part of the flour. Sift remaining flour with soda and salt and add to egg and sugar mixture alternately with the sour cream Stir well and lastly add nuts and dates. Bake in a moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes.

1 cup of sour milk and 1 teaspoon of butter may be substituted for 1 cup of sour cream.

DATES ADD ZEST TO SIMPLE DESSERTS.

Dates, chopped or sliced, may be added in varying quantities to such desserts as cornstarch puddings, tapioca and rice puddings, caramel and plain custards, bread puddings and gelatine desserts. Dates may be used with success in fruit cups and fruit jellies. Dates added to apples before baking give a delicious flavour.

WINTER FRUIT CUP.

12 dates, chopped or sliced
1 banana, cubed and soaked in orange juice
3 oranges, sectioned
½ cup shredded cocoanut
3 maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons cherry juice

Additions and changes are easily made by using canned pineapple, peaches or apricots, grapes cut in halves, and sectioned grapefruit.

DATES ADD FOOD VALUE TO SALADS.

As dates provide practically 100 calories per ounce, they add materially to the food value of a salad whenever used. Fruit salads are usually low in calories, so by adding a few dates, this is easily remedied, and at the same time the salad will be made more attractive in appearance.

DATE, CELERY AND GRAPE-FRUIT SALAD.

12 dates, quartered
2 medium grapefruit
1 cup diced celery
Salad dressing
Lettuce

Section the grapefruit, leaving sections whole or cut in halves as preferred. Mix with dates and celery, add salad dressing and allow to stand until flavours are well blended. Pile lightly in lettuce cups, garnish with a sprig of mint or parsley or a piece of green or red maraschino cherry; place a teaspoon of salad dressing beside the fruit on the lettuce leaf and serve.

Dates in combination with cheese, oranges or pineapple make delicious salads.

* * * *

Dried fruits such as dates and figs are a most desirable source of sugar, as they are sweet enough to be an acceptable substitute for candy and at the same time contribute iron and calcium.

* * * *

The chewiness of dates is a dietetic advantage, in that dates are so often used with soft foods that require little or no chewing. They thus provide exercise for the jaws which promotes circulation of blood through the gums thereby aiding in the maintenance of sound teeth.

* * * *

As dates are very rich in carbohydrates they should never be eaten by those suffering from diabetes.

Questions should be addressed to Miss Helen Lacey, Chesterville Record.

Biggest Hollywood Fanmail For "The Country Church"

Reproduction of Kentucky "Hillbilly" Is Outcome of Popularity Quaint Radio Programme Has Wone.

IN the middle of Hollywood, within a block of the intersection of Hollywood and Vine, will rise an exact replica of a Kentucky hillbilly hamlet. A white picket fence will run along the Hollywood boulevard side of the six-acre tract, there will be 500 feet of creek, a mill pond, the little red school house, the spring, and all the rest of the Goose Creek neighbourhood so well known because of radio. There is a church on the site now and another church to seat 3,000 will be erected. The project will cost around $250,000 and is living proof that people will go for practical religion. Two years ago the Rev. William B. Hogg, known on the air as Josiah Hopkins, started the country church and decided that it needed publicity to put it across. He made a deal with a local radio station and started putting over a quaint line of homespun philosophy from the hills. It clicked from the beginning and the fan mail began to mount. A network took up the feature and when his popularity transcended that of Seth Parker the Columbia network took it over for a 91-station-coast-to-coast hook-up every Thursday morning.

The Country Church idea has boomed so that a congregation of 10,000 gathers every Sabbath. Ardent supporters are such Hollywood notables as Carrie Jacobs Bond, Sid Grauman, George McManus, Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford and others. The Rev. Hogg states that his city project (which is to reproduce the original country church) has been financed largely by my Jewish friends." His services are strictly non-sectarian. Al Jolson became so interested that he was going to sing at the Armistice services and when a cold prevented his personal appearance, he sent his brother Harry to sub for him. When the new project was announced, gifts came pouring in. One woman donated a carload of redwood logs, another has promised 2,000 trout for the creek. A friend in Holland is sending 2,000 daffodils to be planted in the grounds. Fan mail for the church is the heaviest in Hollywood, averaging 10,000 letters a week, and weekly leaflets are sent to more than 100,000 persons.

To keep clear of any "racket" angle the Rev. Hogg has nothing to do with the "gifts" which pour in to his little church. A downtown bank handles all the money and pays the bills. The bank pays his living expenses and a "salary" of $10 a week. Asked to account for the great success of his little church, he said: "I steer clear of religious or economic controversies. I try to make folks happy the same way it was done back in the hills."

FERGUSON IN PROMINENT SEAT

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner, and and Mrs. Ferguson, heading a small group of Canadians invited to attend the Royal wedding in Westminster Abbey on Thursday, will have prominent seats under what is known as the "lantern," the central space where the sanctuary, choir and transepts meet.

The remainder of the Canadians will have a full view of all the processions to and from the altar but will probably see little of the actual marriage ceremony. They include Lt.-General Sir Henry and Lady Burstall, Sir George and Lady Badgerow, Sir Campbell Stuart and other prominent Canadians long resident in London.

Most Famous Apple Tree In North America . . .

ALTHOUGH no longer in Canada, the most historic apple tree in North America is intimately connected with the Dominion. This 108-year-old tree which still bears fruit annually is located at Fort Vancouver in the State of Washington where it was planted in 1826 by officers of the Hudson's Bay Company who were the rulers of Old Oregon and thereabout. Prior to the treaty of 1846 which fixed the boundary between Great Britain and the United States at the 49th parallel, Fort Vancouver was the principal Pacific depot in Canada and distributing centre of this Canadian company. The Fort was built in 1824. Later on, anticipating the result of the 1846 treaty, the Hudson's Bay Company decided to move to unequivocally British territory and selected Camosan, the Indian name for the territory, on the southermost end of Vancouver Island. It is the site of the city of Victoria, but Camosan was chosen not with a view to becoming a city, but as a favourable spot on which to erect a fort. This was done in 1843. Shortly afterwards the name of Fort Camosan was changed to Victoria in honour of the late Queen Victoria.

The story of the planting of the tree is as follows.

In 1826, at London, England, a farewell dinner was given to Captain Simpson and a number of other officers of the Hudson's Bay Company, who were ready to set sail for the Hudson's Bay post at Fort Vancouver. Apples were being served for dessert. One of the ladies seated next to Captain Simpson, on cutting an apple, dropped the seeds into Captain Simpson's pocket, telling him to plant them when he reached his destination and perhaps they would grow. Upon arrival of the party at the fort, the factor, Dr. McLoughlin, insisted that the seeds should be planted immediately, detailing his own gardener to look after them. The seeds were planted in small boxes and kept where they could not be touched by anyone. After several years, the tree bore its first crop—one apple. This apple when ripe was picked by Dr. McLoughlin, who carefully cut it into 17 slices, one for each person seated at the table. Next year the tree bore 20 apples, and has been bearing fruit ever since.

EDITOR SOLVES PROBLEM.

Timmins Press.

ONE of the problems an editor has to contend with is that of persons arraigned in police court wanting their names kept out of the paper. It is a daily problem, and one that adds many a gray hair to the editorial cranium.

The Reporter, a newspaper published at Independence, Kansas, has a way of its own in dealing with requests for consideration by auto drivers whose weakness gets them into police court. In that city, when an offender asks the editor to suppress the news of his arrest for driving while intoxicated, a temperance pledge is "pulled on him" and if he signs it the Reporter will suppress the news.

According to Charles Spence, the editor, more than 100 have signed, and only three have broken the pledge—at least have repeated the offense and been caught. Here is the pledge form:

"The undersigned, having been arrested for drunkenness and fined in the police court of Independence, wishes to have no mention made of the incident in the Daily Reporter.

"In case no mention is made of this incident we promise to do our best to leave liquor alone, and in the event that we do not and we get into police court again for reason of 'breaking over,' then the Reporter has our consent in advance to publish a news story concerning the same, as well as to mention the particulars of the case which caused us to sign the pledge, and likewise the fact that we signed it"

In the three cases of pledge violation, the Reporter published all the facts, as per the agreement. One of the pledge signers was a prominent local advertiser.

"Don't stand there loafing," said the professor, to three of his students who were talking in a corner.

"We're not loafing,' replied one of them. "There's only three of us, and it takes leaven to make a loaf."

BELLA'S COMING AND GOING

MELLY ran the automobile straight down the driveway to the carriage house; as he shot past the rear porch he hurled out a package of meat, and the instant he could alight after entering the building he trundled the door shut behind him

"Where are the other things?" Miss Derby shouted. She had retrieved the roast and was examining it suspiciously as she spoke.

"I'll bring 'em right in!" came Melly's shrill reply from behind the door.

In spite of the promise, several minutes elapsed before the boy finally appeared with his arms full of bundles.

"What were you in such a hurry for?" his aunt inquired, eying him narrowly.

"Why," said he, "it's—it's awfully warm out in the sun; I wanted to get in a cool place as soon as I could."

"Humph! It looked that way! Have you got everything that I sent for?"

"Yes'm; I compared your list with what was put up before I started from the store."

"How much meat did you get?"

"Just what you sent for! How much did you send for?"

"Five pounds; but there isn't five pounds here, or anything like it! Who cut it?"

"Young John—he mostly cuts the meat, don't he?" t

"He doesn't usually haggle a roast like this one—it looks as if it had been chopped out with a hoe; and there isn't more than three pounds and a half of it, I'm certain!"

"Well, Aunt Kate," said Melly, wriggling under her fixed gaze, "I looked at the back of the scale an' it registered five pounds. Maybe th scale ain't been inspected lately."

"I'll look into it at once. I'll take this roast right back and demand an explanation."

"Aw" said Melly, wriggling even more than before, "I wouldn't make a fuss, Aunt Kate! I—I think they mean well!"

"Perhaps," said Miss Derby grimly; "but something needs an explanation." Suddenly she cocked her head. "What's that noise?"

"I don't think I hear anything, Aunt Kate," Melly murmured faintly.

"Melancthon Derby, what is there out in the carriage house?"

"Why—why," he stammered, "there is the chariotee, and what's left of the old milk wagon, and the car of course and some boxes and—"

"O pshaw!" Miss Kate interrupted, stamping her foot. "Stop talking such nonsense! You know very well what I mean. Melanchthon Derby, what animal have you out there?"

"Oh!" exclaimed Melly, as if suddenly enlightened, and then continued with great animation, "Why, Aunt Kate, I've got an awful big surprise for you!"

"O dear!" Miss Derby exclaimed "What is it?"

"You remember what a lot of tramps there were round here last fall, don't you? And only Wednesday one begged at eight places down near the lower corners. I can't be here all of the time, and I don't feel safe—"

"Melancthon, after all I've said to you, have you gone and got a dog?"

"You said I couldn't have a big dog!"

"I meant it, too! And you can't have a little one, either!"

"Don't I know it?" said Melly. "I didn't get either kind. This is a medium-sized dog."

"And you fed about a pound and a half of beef to it, didn't you?" Miss Kate asked, swiftly shifting to a new angle of attack.

"Well," said her nephew, "I didn't weigh it, but I fed her some. She was awful hungry!"

"Where did you get that dog?"

"Why, she's been out in Mr. Maynard's back yard. Alice let me have her. I didn't pay a cent for her, Aunt Kate!"

"Humph! They were probably glad to be rid of her, if the truth were known!"

"No; Alice wasn't so glad, but Mrs. Maynard kind of insisted on it; so I gave her a ride part way to Manchester—and I'm going to give her four more rides."

"Give whom four rides—the dog or Jane Maynard?"

"No; Alice! You knew I wasn't talking about either of the others!"

"I could only guess at it, from what you said. Jane Maynard might be in better business, it seems to me, than peddling worthless dogs. What kind of dog is this?"

Melly cleared his throat and stared rather blankly at her. "I don't just know," he finally admitted. "Maybe she's part setter and part collie, and I wouldn't wonder if she was an Irish bird dog, or spaniel, or something. She's awfully kind, though, and she watches like everything."

"Humph! Why did you rush into the carriage house the way you did without letting me see her?"

"Why, I wanted to talk with you first. You know how you are, Aunt Kate!"

"I wish I was ten times what you think I am; then you wouldn't venture to take the liberties you do now. What on earth makes her whine so?"

"I guess she doesn't like to be shut up in a strange place. Shall I bring her in?"

"No; not until after dinner. Go and wash your hands and face—thoroughly now!"

Melly was busily performing his ablutions when, a few minutes later, Miss Derby stepped out upon the rear porch on some household errand and halted there, transfixed. The bottom of the carriage-house door cleared the ground by about four inches. From behind the middle of it a nose was thrust, with two paws working frantically on either side, to an accompaniment of piercing whines and yelps; but that was not what filled the good lady with consternation. In front of the building, gamboling or basking in the sunshine, and paying no heed to their mother's anxiety, were seven very small dogs that had emerged from beneath the door.

"Melancthon Derby!" Miss Kate shrieked, "have you had the audacity to bring a whole family of dogs here?"

"Ain't they cut, Aunt Kate?" said Melly ingratiatingly, peering round the towel with which he was scrubbing his face. "Look at those two little fellows rolling over and over!"

"Why—why—" his aunt began, after which words failed her.

She returned to the diningroom in stony silence, and not a word was uttered during the meal; but when Melly started to leave the table, she stopped him with a gesture.

"No," she said, "I want to know exactly where that family of dogs came from! Where did Alice get them?"

"Why, Bella, that's the old dog—came there. They guessed she ran away from a family over on the Spalding place, when they moved."

"The Maynards wanted to get rid of them, didn't they?"

"Alice didn't; and I guess Mr. Maynard didn't care much; but Mrs. Maynard was real kind of crotchety. You see, they've got such near neighbours that they don't need a watchdog like we do; and ,anyhow, a tramp would be worse scared of Mrs. Maynard than she would be of him."

Miss Derby pondered. Melly's last remark had been founded upon the strictest truth: Mrs. Maynard was a redoubtable character. If anyone else in the neighbourhood, taking advantage of Melly's pliable nature, had foisted eight dogs upon her, she herself would have returned the animals forthwith, together with some very pertinent remarks; but Jane Maynard was not to be encountered lightly, perhaps not to be encountered at all.

"Melancthon," she finally said, with a long-drawn sigh, "go and feed them—I don't want them to suffer from hunger while they're here,—and try and find some way to stop that dog's whining. I shall consider the matter."

Miss Derby retired at the usual hour that night, but not to sleep. One thing impressed her as an absolute necessity—the puppies, like Carthage must be destroyed. Getting Melly to drown them, however, was a task so stupendous that she shrank from it; besides it might be injurious to his character. It might teach him to be cruel which was something she had always striven to avoid. But seven puppies simply could not be endured; and every day they would be getting bigger and more troublesome. At last Miss Kate made up her mind.

Rising at the peep of dawn, she dressed hastily, filled a large wooden bucket with water and hurried to the carriage house. In a box beneath the stairs she saw a brownish tangle, from the midst of which, not without trepidation, for the old dog might bite, she fished two roly-poly puppies and carried them outside. With averted face, she was in the act of thrusting them into the bucket of water, when it uttered a plaintive little whine and twisted about in her hand.

She paused and glanced at it. The puppy looked at her with confiding eyes and licked her wrist.

"O dear!" said Miss Derby. "It does seem to me sometimes I have more trials than I can endure!"

The other puppy snuggled against she mused "Goodness knows I wish I was—right now!"

At this moment the old dog appeared, yawned, and rubbed affectionately against her knee. "Oh, you cunning little—wretches!" she cried explosively. Then, replacing the puppies in the box and emptying the bucket upon the ground, Miss Derby fled to the house.

Melly did not know of his aunt's failure to drown the puppies. Since he was not called upon to perform any similarly distasteful task, he should have been happy; but he was not. Truth to tell, he soon found Bella's large and active family both a responsibility and a care One puppy might have been a delight, at odd moments; but seven, not to speak of the old dog, were altogether too much of a good thing.

Miss Kate left them severely alone for she was afraid she might grow fond of them if she permitted any approach to familiarity; but Melly did not know that although he sometimes wondered at her strict neutrality. When they tore his rubbers into strips, after he had thoughtlessly left them at the bottom of the back steps she merely smiled. She even said little when they attacked the clean clothes dangling from the line in the back yard, but grimly rinsed the wash and shifted the line to the garret.

Then they dug in the garden and buried bones in her pansy bed.

The neighbours began to wonder how long she would endure the nuisance; but Aunt Kate saw certain convincing signs that Melly himself was likely to act in the near future.

"It seems to me," he remarked one day, "that there are plenty of boys about here who need dogs and would be glad to have them."

"Humph!" was her noncommittal rejoinder.

"One dog apiece is about right," he continued, "but eight are too many. I believe that I shall have to sell those puppies."

Again Aunt Kate said "Humph! You could not give them away! Everyone isn't as simple-minded as you are."

"I know I can't," he said, "for I've tried; but I believe they can be sold. Folks," he added with one of his unexpected flashes of philosophy, "will sometimes pay a good price for things they wouldn't take as a gift."

"I've noticed that myself," said Miss Derby.

The next day Melly set up a large dry-goods box not far from the road in the orchard and installed the dog family inside it. Later in the week, impelled by curiosity, Miss Kate followed the orchard fence until she came to the box, for she had noticed many passers-by halting there and had begun to doubt that the dogs alone were attracting so much attention. Boldly lettered with black paint across the front of the box she read:

FOR SALE!
CHOISE IMPERIAL SPANELS
ONLY TEN DOLLARS APEACE
INQUIRE OF P. M. DERBY

Miss Kate was scandalized, primarily by what she deemed the dishonesty of the sign, and secondarily by Melly's spelling.

"What right have you to call those dogs 'Imperial spaniels'?" she asked, as soon as she had succeeded in finding her nephew. "You don't even know that they're spaniels at all! And such spelling!"

"Well," said Melly defensively, "I couldn't look in the dictionary, for you'd have noticed—and you know how you are, Aunt Kate. And I'm pretty sure they're spaniels; Mr. Jenkins thinks so from their looks. It's no harm to call 'em 'Imperial.' It sounds well, and anybody can originate and name a new breed."

"It isn't honest," his aunt remonstrated. "I want you to paint out that sign right off."

"I'll do it in the morning, if I've got to," said Melly disconcertedly; "but I don't see how I'm ever going to get rid of those dogs if I can't advertise."

Miss Derby, judging from the lack of results, did not see how advertising was going to be very effective; but she reasoned hastily, without allowing sufficient time for results Late that night she was awakened by an undefined sound from somewhere outdoors. Rising to a sitting posture in bed, she heard a muffled yelp from the orchard, and at once hurried to a window.

In the faint moonlight she saw two men running back and forth between it and the improvised kennel. Bella, the last to be removed, growled as she was being lifted over the fence, but offered no serious resistance when the men placed her in the wagon beside her offspring.

Miss Kate gasped, a prey to contending emotions. Never before had she connived at a theft—actually rejoiced in it, in fact. Conscience told her that she must protest; cold reason whispered that protesting would be both foolish and unavailing.

One man had climbed into the wagon and the other had planted a foot on the hub, when conscience won. Thrusting up the sash, Miss Kate called shrilly:

"Stop thief! Stop thief!"

With a leap, the second man entered the vehicle, which went rumbling noisily down the hill.

"What's the matter?" Melly called from his room.

"Some men have stolen Bella and her puppies!"

A moment of silence ensued.

"Well," said Melly, "I did hope I could sell one of 'em; but never mind. I'll take away that box in the morning; and I won't have to paint out that sign now, will I, Aunt Kate?"

WHAT HAPPENS?

ESULTS are what counts. We grudgingly give attention to those which we hope will bring about the desired results, but our real interest is not in the training for the race, but what happens at the race—the result.

To have strength and vigour, you must eat the right kinds of foods. It is not the foods in which you are interested, but rather what happens to these foods. Will they give you the health and strength you need to make life more pleasant for you?

The mouth is more than a receptacle for food. It is a mill where the teeth grind our foods so that the digestive juices may get at the little pieces more easily. While the teeth are grinding, saliva is mixed in with the food, not only to lubricate the way and so make swallowing easy, but to start the digestion of starchy foods.

The only acid secretion of the body is found in the stomach. Those who complain of an acid or sour stomach would have some real cause for complaint if their stomachs were not acid. It is the acid gastric juice which begins the digestion of meats and other protein foods. Those who have feared to eat cream on their acid fruits, for fear of curdling, will be relieved to know that there is a substance—rennin—in the gastric juice which curdles milk in preparation for its digestion later on.

The stomach contracts and mixes the foods with its digestive juices, but it is the protein foods which are chiefly changed. Sugars, starches and fats are not digested in the stomach. Those who believe that bread and potatoes should not be eaten at the same meal as meat, fish or fowl, argue that the presence of these two kinds of foods—proteins and carbohydrates—interfere with each other's digestion. There is no scientific evidence to support this argument, while there is such evidence to show that gastric digestion is improved when the two are mixed.

The foods leave the stomach well-mixed and ready for the major part of digestion which occurs in the small intestine. There the surroundings are alkaline, and there are present a number of digestive juices from the pancreas, liver and the intestine itself. It is the small intestine which completes the work by converting the food into those simple elements which can be absorbed into the blood stream; they are then carried to the tissues of the body, which tissues build up from these same simple elements their own complex structure.

What is not absorbed is passed on to the large intestine, and some further absorption there takes place The waste collects low down in the large bowel or colon, whence it is expelled at intervals, thus ridding the body of useless waste material.

A LOT OF WORDS

DO YOU KNOW how many words in the English language mean "crowd"? Well, here are a few of them: A crowd of ships is termed a fleet, a fleet of sheep is called a flock, a flock of girls is called a bevy, a bevy of wolves is called a pack, a pack of thieves is called a gang, a gang of angels is called a host, a host of porpoises is called a shoal, a shoal of buffalo is called a herd, a herd of children is called a troop, a troop of partridge is called a covey, a covey of stars is called a galaxy, a galaxy of ruffians is called a horde,, a horde of rubbish is called a heap, a heap of oxen is called a drove, a drove of hoodlums is called a mob, a mob of whales is called a school, a school of worshippers is called a congregation, a congregation of engineers is called a corps, a corps of robbers is called a band, a band of bees is called a swarm, a swarm of people is called a crowd.

At Night.

It was Billie's first trip to the country. Outside the farmhouse he saw the farmer's wife plucking a fowl for next day's dinner.

"I say, ma'am," he said, "do you undress them every night?"

Mainly About People

Miss Clara Carroll of the O. N. S. spent the week end at her home.

Mr. Bernard Coyne is at present visiting his son Raymond, at Enosberg Falls, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McElheran, Mrs. George Crump and Mrs. I. Garrow spent yesterday in Cornwall.

Rev. C. D. McRea of Glen Robertson, on his return home from an extended trip abroad, was warmly welcomed by his parishioners on Sunday morning last.

A delightful bridge was held in the Library Hall Monday evening by a committee of members of the Women's Institute with fourteen tables participating, Mrs. J. Howard Fuloon and Mr. Dick Wildroff being the winners of the prizes for ladies and gentlemen respectively.

At a meeting of the Guild of Holy Trinity church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. H. Casselman, discussion was entered into about the formation of the W.A., the missionary society of the Anglican church. Rev. G. O. Davies spoke on the subject, explaining details of organization and programme, and it is expected a branch will be taken up. Other business of the meeting was the completion of plans for the tea and sale

The despised dandelion is certainly meeting with favour in this latitude as our citizens pluck the bloom from their lawns to show the salubriousness of our climate, the mid-winter month but one day away and our lawns looking better than they did in August.

Chesterville's schools, in common with others throughout Canada, are holidaying to-day in honour of the marriage of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece, which took place with royal pomp and splendour at historic Westminster Abbey in London this morning. Millions of radios throughout the Empire and the rest of the world were tuned in on the broadcast which commenced locally about 5.30 this morning.

The November meeting of the Chesterville branch of the Women's Institute was held yesterday afternoon with a splendid attendance. Mrs. L. Marcellus and Mrs. W. O. Dixon gave reports of the convention held recently in Ottawa Mrs. Geo. Merkley gave a very lovely solo. The social hour was in charge of Mrs. J. H. Fulton, Mrs. L. H. Doering, Mrs. G. J. Hunt, Mrs. S. H. Hutt, Mrs. A. Jarvis and Mrs. G. Senn. Afternoon tea was served and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem

Finch

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Warner, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Brownell and family, Mrs. Corrie Eligh were recent callers on Mr. and Mrs. John Brownell on Friday.

Mr. Alyva Runions spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Runions.

Mr. John Brownell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Brownell at Wales.

Miss Mildred Brownell spent a few days with Miss Jean Brownell.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. Roy Grandaw is very ill, and hope to see her around again soon.

TOO BAD IT CAN'T BE DONE

A MINNESOTA EDITOR moralizes thusly:

"If we could all switch businesses all the way round for just one week we'd be a lot more sympathetic of the other fellow's problems and know a lot more than we do at the present about the cause of his shortcomings and of his apparent failures. Let the banker sell prunes, the grocer pull teeth, the dentist run a garage and the garageman edit the paper, the editor run the bank—that's the biggest jump of any of them—for just six little work days and we'd have our eyes wide open to what the others are up against that we would never have the courage to criticize, nor would we be unsympathetic again. Then if the whole caboodle of us were to move on various farms and operate them for another six days apiece we'd all be so wise and understanding that the peace and harmony prevailing would make this little old community just about the best place in the world to live. It can't be done, of course, but we could take the thought to ourselves that we don't know anything about the other man's job, and concede that for all we know he is handling it in good shape."

Berwick

Mrs. J. C. Gormley of Crysler visited Mrs. John Ruddy on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. John Rutley and family spent Saturday with friends in Ottawa.

Mr. Carl Dutt of Massena, N.Y., visited a few days last week at his parental home.

Mrs. Wm. Elliott and Master Carson spent Tuesday at Ottawa.

Mrs. George Thompson of Finch visited over Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Henry Humes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Delaney, Avonmore were guests on Sunday of Mr. J. Legge and Miss Mae Legge, Mrs. Monk and sister Miss Bella Legge.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eagles and family of Massena spent over Sunday with Mr. George Nicholas and family.

Rev. Mr. McCorriston preached on Sunday his farewell sermon as he left on Wednesday for his home at Quyon, Quebec.

Miss Flossie Nicholas returned at the week end, after spending the past month in the States with relatives.

Mr. L. J. Hutt returned home last week with two fine deer.

Mr. Geo Merkley of Massena spent over Sunday with his grandmother, Mrs. Barriger.

TALK ON CHINA MISSIONS HEARD BY TRINITY Y. P. S.

The Young People's Society of Trinity United, met on Monday evening, November 26th. The Morewood Y.P. invited the society to put on a programme for them on Friday evening of this week and Mr. Eric Casselman consented to take charge.

The meeting was transferred to the church after the business was discussed, where an interesting lecture, illustrated with lantern slides, was heard on missionary work in China The male quartette, under he direction of Mr. Hewitt, sang a number.
