Nation Dam

Looby Tender Lowest

BERWICK—A low tender from Looby Builders of Dublin, Ontario was one of seven received Monday by the South Nation River Conservation Authority for construction of a dam at Chesterville.

The construction company's tender of $1,438,890.50 was more than $130,000 lower than the next closest bid submitted by Foundation International Limited for the reinforced concrete structure. Because of the highly itemized nature of the tender, it will be reviewed by the authority's consulting firm, M.M. Dillon, before final approval is given by the SNRCA.

Foundation's tender of $1,571,768.00 was followed by Armbro Materials and Construction of Brampton at $1,580,094.50, Ron Engineering of Ottawa at $1,587,800, W.D. Laflamme Limited of Ottawa at $1,622,497, Thomas Fuller Construction of Ottawa at $1,721,145, with Pitts Limited of Toronto coming in high at $2,009,205.00.

An authority spokesman said Tuesday work on the dam is expected to begin in mid-November and would probably continue into February. Cost on the first $30,000 of the project would be split between the SNRCA and the Ministry of Natural Resources, with government funding providing the remainder of the cost on a 100 per cent basis.

The dam construction is part of a larger project which includes some channelization to improve water flow. The work is expected to at least partly alleviate flooding conditions which have received widespread attention in the Brinston area.

The dam, which will be located immediately downstream from the existing structure, will feature five stop log bays and an electrically controlled gate. A control house will be located at the south end of the dam with a top deck to remove stop locks providing pedestrian access across the river.

Musclow said the dam will provide better watersupply to the village, with a higher water table expected from the one-foot elevation of the present pond. The mechanical gate will allow any sudden influx of water from summer storms to be dissipated more quickly, he said.

Because of the mechanical log lifter incorporated into the design, Musclow said the dam should be "a one man operation."

Treats In Abundance

Winchester Public School kindergarten was invaded last Monday by a group of strangely attired and thoroughly frightening small creatures. At first thought to be an invasion from outer space, it was quickly realized the group was simply a representative delegation of the usual Hallowe'en spooks. In order to forestall any possible tricks, the tiny visitors were welcomed with a tableful of goodies, served in a congenial atmosphere of pumpkins and paper bats.

Police Report Vandalism Decreasing Every Year

By Anne Patenaude
Press Staff Reporter

Hallowe'en pranksters Monday night failed to inflict any major damage in the area, with both Winchester and Morrisburg Ontario Provincial Police detachments reporting relatively minor disturbances.

Winchester Constable Norm Serault said wilful damage in the village was kept to a minimum, with only eight complaint calls received by the detachment office here. Constable Serault said this is the usual number of calls for any evening patrol, and considerably fewer than might be expected for Hallowe'en night.

"Hallowe'en damage appears to be decreasing every year," the constable said. "The reason seems to be a combination of effective policing and a good bunch of kids - there were a few tricks, the kids had some fun, but there was little real damage."

The Winchester detachment's nine-man force patrolled the usual trouble spots assisted by six auxiliary officers and eight additional police officers from Hawkesbury, Lancaster, Long Sault and Morrisburg. A power blackout and two fires were the only serious incidents reported here, with the majority of complaints centred on egg throwing, street fires and sign damage.

An Ontario Hydro spokesman told the Press an hour-long power failure, which occurred at approximately 6:45 p.m., could have caused serious injury to the prankster who perpetrated the trick. The Hydro spokesman said a switch was opened on a 44,000 volt line feeding in from a distributing station. The blackout affected parts of Mountain, Winchester, Matilda and South Gower townships. A broken lock on the switch, located just south of the village off Highway 31, indicated the blackout was part of the Hallowe'en vandalism.

"The prankster is probably suffering from bad burns to the eyes," the Hydro representative said. "He was lucky he wasn't electrocuted - we usually shut the voltage down before throwing that switch.

A stack of two year old baled hay owned by Earl Garlough smoldered at the west end of Main Street during the night before erupting into flames early Tuesday morning. Although Winchester fire department was notified of the fire, their efforts were limited to confining the blaze after the owner indicated the hay was almost valueless. The firefighters were recalled to the scene Tuesday noon, however, when the flames spread throughout the field. The blaze was quickly quelled.

Fire Chief Dalton Kenney said the department was called early Tuesday morning to extinguish a fire which totally destroyed a vacant building east of Berry's corn drying plant near the railroad tracks.

A road blocked with debris east of Porteous' Store at Vernon was quickly cleared after Winchester police notified the Bells Corners detachment of the incident.

Mountain township fire department reported a 4 a.m. fire which destroyed a vacant building east of Hallville. Several smaller fires were also reported in the Mountain-South Mountain area.

Corporal Conn Woods of the Morrisburg OPP detachment said two fires were reported in the south-west section of District 11. A barn owned by Stewart Ewing of R.R. 1 Iroquois was destroyed during the night, while another fire levelled a vacant house east of Upper Canada Road. Corporal Woods said Hallowe'en activity was limited primarily to egg throwing and road sign damage, with all available police officers keeping pranksters under control.

Police said clear weather and careful driving prevented any unfortunate accidents to a wide assortment of witches, ghosts and goblins which filled the streets during the early part of the evening. Reports to the Press Tuesday morning indicated treats far outnumbered tricks, with small Hallowe'en spooks apparently well satisfied at the generosity of area residents.

Halloween went over with a big bang this season for the young spooks and goblins and the usual vandalism was on the decline. Police report a quiet night in the area with no major damage.

Parents Question School Board

By Anne Patenaude
Press Staff Reporter

A parents' committee at Osgoode township High School says authorities should be reprimanded for accepting 120 Russell-area students to the already overcrowded Metcalfe school.

Members of the recently formed committes questioned last week the Carleton Board of Education's reasons for agreeing to take the English-speaking students. The committee was formed to protest conditions of overcrowding, obsolete textbooks, lack of library books and a limited choice of options. Eight portables are presently being used at OTHS to accommodate the school's 766 pupils.

Although the Carleton board recently approved plans for a $2,680,000 addition to the school, final approval from the Ministry of Education is not expected for several months. Carleton Director of Education S.J. Berry said last week unexpected circumstances had led to the overcrowding after the agreement with the Prescott-Russell board in 1976 to accept the students.

Under the agreement between the two boards, English speaking students from the Russell area attend OTHS with the Prescott-Russell board paying a stipulated amount for each enrolment. According to Prescott-Russell's Director of Education, R. Lortie, the arrangement was necessary because the Metcalfe school is closer than either of the board's two bilingual high schools.

"The nearest high school where these students could obtain their education in English is at Plantagenet," Lortie said. "This would mean a 40-mile bus trip from the Russell area."

The director said the maximum distance for any of the students to the Metcalfe school is approximately 15 miles.

Students from the Russell area have been receiving their education from other boards since about 1966, the director explained. A previous agreement with North Dundas District High School was dissolved in 1976, when the arrangement with the Carleton board was made, he said.

"We still have about 20 students at North Dundas," Lortie said. "These are students enrolled in technical and occupational courses that are not available at OTHS."

Although members of the parents' committee questioned the removal of the students from NDDHS, where, they claim, facilities are more than adequate to accommodate them, Mr. Lortie said he didn't know why they had been moved to the Metcalfe school.

The director said he had received no complaints from parents of students being bussed outside their own area. Although the Prescott-Russell board hopes eventually to be able to provide facilities within its own system for the English students, this probably will not be feasible "for several years", Lortie admitted.

"The problem is numbers--it depends on the growth in that area," he said. "It's simply not viable to build a school for 150 students."

The Prescott-Russell board has 3,665 French students attending high schools in its area. Another 656 English students are accommodated at the board's bilingual secondary schools at Vankleek Hill, Hawkesbury and Plantagenet.

Remembrance Service Sunday

Men and women who paid the supreme sacrifice in two world wars will be remembered this Sunday when, under the direction of Winchester Legion members, an impressive service will be conducted at the Cenotaph.

The Cameron Highlanders Pipe Band will lead the parade from the Legion Hall, leaving that point at 11:40 a.m. and reaching the hospital grounds at noon.

The North Dundas High School Band will also participate and everyone is invited to join in the short march from Legion headquarters to the Cenotaph.

Greely and District

Greely and District Legion members will stage an impressive parade on Sunday followed by an ecumenical church service. The parade will form up at St. Mary's School at 2:00 p.m. and proceed via Highway 31 to Our Lady of the Visitation Church at South Gloucester where service will be conducted at 2:30. Everyone is welcome to join and it is anticipated many area veterans and ex-servicemen will be present.

Russell

Russell Legion members will honor their fallen comrades on two separate occasions. On Sunday, November 6th, a parade will form up at the Anglican Church and proceed to the Cenotaph. Under the direction of the Legion, marchers will leave the church at 10:30 and everyone is invited to join the procession.

November 11

An impressive Memorial Service will also be conducted at the Cenotaph on Armistice Day (November 11th). Here again Legion president George Nielsen invites everyone to participate.

This Saturday

Legion members have also planned a special evening for this Saturday (November 5th) when again friends are invited to join members at an armistice supper and dance at the Legion Hall.

Announce Conversion Deadline Extension

The Ontario government last week announced an extension to the deadline for conversion from canned to bulk milk shipping.

The deadline, originally set for October 31st, has been extended to December 1st after an appeal from the Old Order Amish religious sect. The Amish have opposed the change because religious beliefs would not permit them to use electrically cooled bulk tanks.

Despite government claims that the conversion date, announced last year, would not be extended, the Amish appeal has reportedly forced a change of heart. Sources say the cabinet will discuss the issue Wednesday.

The government's decision to discontinue canned milk shipments was made as part of the move toward one level of high quality in milk production. Processors have backed the move because, they say, canned shipments are too small in number to be economically feasible. Keith Henry, vice-president and general manager of Ault Foods Limited, said Monday his company would continue to accept canned milk until cabinet makes a final decision.

Mr. Henry pointed out that some producers had rushed to make the conversion before they heard of the deadline extension. Canned milk shipments should be discontinued for the sake of quality, he said.

Renovations At Hospital Near Completion - Stel

The $230,000 renovation program at Winchester District Memorial Hospital should be finished, with the final installation of X-Ray equipment, within the next week, says administrator Bert Stel.

Mr. Stel told the Press Monday that the construction aspect of the renovation program was completed about two months ago. The second phase, involving installation of X-Ray equipment, is nearly completed. He said the installation of a special camera unit will complete work at the hospital.

The administrator said an open house may be held later in the year so the public will have an opportunity to view the new wing and equipment.

Mr. Stel said it is a "long and tedious" job to install the new X-Ray equipment which costs about $170,000.

Although the hospital board began discussing the renovations in March, 1976, it wasn't until Feb. of 1977 that the contract was actually signed and construction started. Completion date was set at May 15.

Mr. Stel explained that construction delays were due mostly to building modifications that were not counted on when the project was started.

Renovations included providing additional space for the pharmacy, the X-Ray department and improvement in the utilization of beds in the obstetrical unit.

Allen Murphy Wins Draw

Dixon's Corners resident Allen Murphy was the lucky holder of ticket number 1714 in the Matilda Hall Fund 50-50 draw. Mr. Murphy took home $450.00 for his efforts. The next draw will be November 12.

Lois Hanes Fills Bill

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital Board announced at its last meeting that the hospital's adult protective service worker position has been filled by Mrs. Lois Hanes of Chesterville. Mrs. Hanes will be working with the adult retarded and their families in Dundas County to ensure optimum of services and facilities available in the area.

Long Term Service

Winchester District Memorial Hospital staff awards for long-term service were awarded to Mr. John Gray Chief X-ray Technician for 15 years service on October 1, 1977 and to Mrs. Susan McMillan, R.N., for ten years service on October 2, 1977.

"One Of Most Peaceful"

Youngsters were out in full force making their annual calls on Hallowe'en night in Osgoode township but officials reported very few acts of vandalism. Ontario Provincial Police patrolled the area very efficiently and, although firefighters were on duty throughout the night, there were only a very limited number of fires - most of the harmless variety. "One of the most peaceful Hallowe'en nights on record" was the way one township official described the spooky eve.

Tuckshop For Hospital

The Winchester Hospital Auxiliary will soon start working on its plans for the construction and operation of a tuckshop in the main lounge of the hospital. As well, a fashion show is to be held at the Community Centre here on November 14.

Preventative Medicine

Early in the morning of the first day of November a workman could be seen removing the plywood coverings from the windows of a store in Chesterville. Although Hallowe'en vandalism was kept to a minimum this season, the shop owner was taking no chances of collecting a stray rock through his plate glass windows.

Former Reeve Illustrates Municipal Affairs Logistics

Mrs. Clare Nugent was hostess for the October meeting of Riverside Heights Women's Institute. Roll Call was to name a vegetable or fruit beginning with the letters in the convenor's name. 'Greta'. The evening was ended by a tasty lunch served by the committee in charge. A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Clare Nugent for the use of her home.

Exchange Wedding Vows

Faye Emily Anne Brunton and Richard Arthur George Bourgeois exchanged wedding vows in a United ceremony on August 20 in Vernon, Ontario. Faye is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brunton, Vernon and Rick the son of Dr. and Mrs. Adelard Bourgeois, Winnipeg.

The "Wedding Prayer", sung by Calvin Ferguson, preceded the processional. As the organist, Mrs. Harold Ferguson, began playing "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven", the bridesmaid, Roselle Bourgeois and the maid of honor, Nancy Begg, proceeded down the aisle. They wore identical gowns of mint green quiana and white picture hats with trim matching the dresses. Their bouquets consisted of white daisies and baby's breath.

With the organ music changing to the "Bridal Chorus", the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her gown was of white silk organza trimmed with guipure lace. It had a sweetheart neckline, empire waist and long bouffant sleeves. The A-line skirt ended in a chapel train. She wore a veil of illusion tulle, trimmed with guipure lace. Her necklace, a white cameo pendant encircled by pearls, was a gift from the groom's mother. Orange roses, white miniature carnations, baby's breath and ivy adorned her bouquet.

The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. F.L. Stone, minister of the Baptist Church, Vernon, where the wedding took place. Just before the vows were exchanged, the soloist sang the "Wedding Song", and as the newly married couple signed the marriage register, he sang "We've Only Just Begun".

The best man was Robert Hammond, who ably assisted the groom. Douglas Brunton acted as usher. The three, along with the bride's father, wore grey Westwood Stroller tuxedos with black velvet trim, grey vests, black and white striped ties and pinstriped trousers.

The bridal party left the church to Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as the recessional.

The guests were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brunton after the ceremony for refreshments while the wedding party were being photographed there. The dinner reception was held in the basement of the Baptist Church. The parents of the bride and groom assisted the bridal party in receiving the guests. The bride's mother wore a soft pink floor length organza dress. Her corsage was a white cymbrid. The groom's mother chose a beige floor length organza gown. She wore a soft yellow cymbrid corsage.

Mrs. Phyllis Brunton de Ortiz was in charge of the guest book. Henry and Margaret Brunton also assisted in distributing the orders of service.

The master of ceremonies at the reception was Mr. Robert Hammond. He introduced in turn Rev. A. Keeler, Rick Bourgeois, Lawrence Brunton, Douglas Brunton and Dr. Adelard Bourgeois, who were asked to speak. Rev. Mr. Keeler gave the toast to the bride.

An evening reception which was held in Winchester followed. From there the happy couple left for their honeymoon in England.

Guests attending the wedding were from Vernon, Kemptville, Ottawa, and Toronto Ontario; Winnipeg, Manitoba; Washington, D.C.; and Cochabamba Bolivia. Photo—D. Getz

WDMH Board To Review Recent Disaster Exercise

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital board decided Tuesday to formally discuss the recent disaster exercise held at Harmony Corners at a later meeting when all reports are completed.

It was decided that a further detailed discussion of the various aspects of the exercise be had by the management and finance committees once a complete analysis of all the reports becomes available.

A two-vehicle accident, involving more than 20 volunteer casualties, was staged at the Harmony Corners just off Highway 31 near Vernon last month.

The disaster exercise, which was watched by a group of observers, is held by the hospital every few years and is a necessary part of the hospital's criteria for accreditation. All hospital staff as well as volunteer citizens, police and other community support groups are involved in the exercise.

In other business it was learned that the hospital's $230,000 renovation program is completed and it was decided to ask the public relations committee to further review the matter of arrangements for an official opening and open house.

The public relations committee is to make recommendations to the board concerning the open house ceremonies.

All arrangements for the president, vice-president and chief of staff to attend the annual convention of the Ontario Hospital Association in Toronto from November 6 to 9 have been finalized.

Several members of the hospital staff will also attend including the administrator, the director of nursing and the business manager.

In his report, Chief of staff Dr. G.N. Houze, mentioned the decision to allow the nursing staff to wear uniforms to and from work, which had been discouraged before on the basis of infection control.

He also reported that Dr. E. Duke of Ottawa will be lecturing to the medical and nursing staffs on November 15.

The report from the admission and discharge committee showed average lengths of stay of 8.1 days and 46.1 days for active and chronic care and a decrease in patient days of approximately 1300 days as compared with the budget for the period ending September 30, 1977.

Mrs. Irene Wallace, president of the hospital auxiliary, provided details of the recently held annual meeting and she informed the board that all offices had been filled and that committee membership would be dealt with at a meeting of the executive and unit directors, which will be held today, November 3.

Presbyterial Plans Meeting

The Seaway Valley Presbyterial of the U.C.W., and other interested ladies will hold their regular meeting at Maxville United church on Tuesday, November 8th.

The meeting will be called to order at 10:00 a.m. and following lunch a program on "Outreach", prepared by Mrs. Elizabeth Funge, will be presented. During the meeting there will be a supervised nursery for preschoolers.

Bazaar Sees "Golden" Returns

Senior Citizens of Winchester's Golden Years group netted more than $1,000 last Saturday from sales at their bazaar, craft show and tea. Early Christmas shoppers took advantage of the wide selection of crafts, knitting, crocheting, woodwork and plants, while the tea tables and bake sale did a booming business. Mrs. Kay Beedie's mitten tree was quickly denuded of its practical decorations by mothers thinking ahead to the cold winter months.

Present 1976-77 Hawks' Team Awards

Winchester Hawks opened their largest ODHL Junior "B" campaign with a 9-2 victory over the visiting Long Sault Pats and the on ice presentations of their 1976-77 team awards.

Before the opening face-off, performed by the team captains and Winchester Reeve Larry Gray last year's team treasures were bestowed on their most recent recipents in an on-ice presentation.

M.C. Frank Morgan introduced each winner and the respective presentors.

Last Year's top scorer - Greg Martin - was the leading trophy winner capturing two pieces of silver. For his 48 points - 31 goals and 17 assists Greg Martin received the Top Scorers Award - presented by team official George Davidson.

The heady forward was also named the team's Most Valuable Player and for his outstanding contribution to the team received the Jack Dawson Memorial Trophy from Byron Dawson.

Bob Porteous handed the Best Defenceman Award over to Karl McRoberts who appeared in all but two of the Hawks games last season scoring 18 points and serving just 36 minutes in penalties.

Coaches trophy for team involvement both on and off the ice was shared by Len McLean and captain Jeff O'Neill - both players are too old for further play as juniors. Len finished second and Jeff third in team scoring last season.

Hawks Most Improved Player Award went to defenceman Phil Meek - who after being called up from the juveniles for the last 22 games of the schedule earned himself a starting role on this year's team. Team director Bob Guy made the presentation to Phil.

Rookie of the Year honours went to Tim Beach who accepted his award from director Bob Carkner. As a first year man Tim's steady two way skating earned him 20 points on seven goals and 13 assists. Tim was assessed just 10 minutes in penalties over 34 games.

As the player best combining sportsmanship and ability Keith McRoberts received the Pete Brackenberry Memorial Trophy. Mr. Brackenberry made the presentation to Keith in memory of his late son - an ex-Hawk forward - who passed away last year.

Another first time award - The President's Trophy - for the player displaying leadership both on and off the ice was awarded to captain Mike Armstrong by President Joel Steele.

Following introductions of both teams this year's edition of the Winchester Hawks embarked on 34 game trail with an impressive 9-2 win over Long Sault.

Dramatic 9-2 Win Opens Hawks' Season

A five goal second period pushed Winchester past a short-staff Long Sault Pats squad and on to a one-sided 9-2 victory in their season opener here Friday night.

480 fans were on hand for the presentations of last year's Hawk's team awards and pre-game ceremonies.

Hawks lead 3-0 after one frame, 8-1 after 40 minutes and 9-2 at the final buzzer. Four players each had two goals for the victors including captain Mike Armstrong, Doug Duncan, Barry Casselman and Bill 'Moon' Mullin. Big Bob Videto clicked on a beautiful power-play effort for the Hawks other marker.

Rookie Pete McLeod performed well between the pipes making some good stops on close scrambles.

As well as Winchester played Friday they just couldn't put it together on Sunday in a much publicized match up against Morrisburg Lions losing 10-4.

Friday night Winchester got a solid effort from all three offensive units especially new comers Barry Casselman and Bill Mullin. Captain Mike Armstrong and Bob Videto anchored a steady defensive corps composed of Phil Meek, Steve McIntosh, Gary Forsyth and Kevin Keyes. Videto and Armstrong were especially noticeable in offensive roles playing the blueline on powerplays. Each one clicked for an extra man talley and drew assists on the third effort by Barry Casselman.

Casselman - in his first regular junior action - was effective at centre-ice seeing action with the Sullivan brothers - Ken and Brad and also between Bill Mullin and Karl McRoberts. Karl has been moved from his familiar defensive spot up to the wing position by coaches Beckstead and Hogaboam in an effort to utilize his very respectible speed.

It took until the 13:46 mark to break the scoring ice but once they got started, Winchester unleashed 44 shots on both Rick Marleau and Todd Robertson - who shared the goaltending duties on a regular rotation basis.

Bill Mullin hit first at the 13:46 mark after being set up by linemates Karl McRoberts and Bill Gutknecht.

Bob Videto showed his scoring ability, taking a pass from Brad Sullivan, cutting in on the left side and firing into the short side while fending off a Pats defender.

Hawks rookie "Midget Connection" showed well again chipping in their team's third goal when Doug Duncan snapped one by Marleau at 19:42. Al McLean engineered Duncan's first goal.

Winchester was up 6-0 before Dave Ingram finally fooled Pete McLeod at the 15:31 mark of the middle frame. Mike Armstrong - unassisted, Barry Casselman - unassisted and Doug Duncan from Al McLean and Terry Cross were the Hawks scoring plays in the first 15 minutes.

At 17:20 Mike Armstrong connected on a powerplay from Bill Gutknecht with Long Sault's Jim Bennett off for tripping. While Bennett was still serving his unsportsman-like conduct, minor Barry Casselman hit for his second of the night from pointmen Videto and Armstrong giving Hawks three powerplay goals in eleven opportunities.

Bill Mullin completed his pair with one minute remaining in the game on a play started by Barry Casselman and Gary Forsyth.

Bill deWitt notched Long Sault's second goal at 13:28 of the second period on an unassisted effort.

Hawks were assessed 10 minors while Long Sault were caught on 11 occasions.

Next Friday night, November 4th, Winchester hosts Cardinal Broncos and on Sunday they travel to Prescott to take on the Saints.

Reeve Drops Opening Puck

Winchester Junior "B" Hawks opened their 1977-78 campaign with a convincing 9-2 win over the visiting Long Sault Pats Friday night.

Almost 500 were on hand to watch pre-game ceremonies including presentation of the 1976-77 team awards and the official face-off.

Winchester Reeve Dr. Larry Gray (C) was on hand to drop the first puck between Hawks captain Mike Armstrong (L) and Pats' Randy Robertson (R).

Lions Humble Hawks In Sunday Opener

As impressive as Winchester was in their season premiere Friday night Morrisburg was more so Sunday in their debut as they mauled the visiting Hawks 10-4.

After Friday's one-sided win local bookies installed the Hawks as instant favourites to make it two straight and spoil Morrisburg's first home game on Sunday.

Perhaps the air of pre-game confidence was a determining factor in the lack-luster performance which Winchester came up with as the fast skating Lions immobilized their opposition's fore-checking, defence and goal tending.

15 year old Jimmy Whelan spearheaded Morrisburg's attack rambling at will through the defensive line popping four goals by Hawks' rookie net-minder, Bruce Jones.

Jones had difficulty handling the Lion's shooters but didn't receive the protection a goal tender deserves. On most occasions the Lions had all kinds of room to shoot as Hawk defencemen seemed to back in deep on their goal giving the opposition excellent time for a shot.

Winchester's most effective forward unit was the Brad Sullivan-Chris Erler-Ken Sullivan combo. Defencemen Mike Armstrong, Bob Vedito and Gary Forsyth all logged alot of ice time in that position.

Nothing developed in the game until the 8:05 mark of the first period when the Lions pounced on Winchester for three goals in 53 seconds. Bob McNairn, Jeff Cassell and Jim Whelan--which is first--put Lions into an abrupt lead.

36 seconds into the middle twenty Brad Sullivan broke Mark Duvall's shut-out bid with a sharp angle shot. Sullivan's marker came after Armstrong and brother Ken had worked the puck into position.

Winchester's comeback was short lived, however, as the hometowners cranked three more into their opposition's cage to lead 6-1 by the 5:46 mark. Mark Payment, Mark Beaupre and Whelan blinked the red light for the Lions before Winchester mounted one of their best offensives of the game.

Hawks made it look decent with a pair of quick goals to close the period at 6-3.

Brad Sullivan hit for his second in a row from battery mates Erler and Sullivan then 30 seconds later Bill Mullin--who was double teamed the whole game--finally broke his coverage to score from Bill Gutknecht and Kevin Keyes.

Once again Morrisburg applied the pressure pumping three more into the net sealing the fate of their opposition once and for all. Mark Payment--with his second--and Whelan with numbers three and four drove the count skyward.

With just 5:50 remaining Doug Duncan took a pass from Al McLean and fired a long low shot between Duvall's leg from well--out.

Captain Bob McNairn with his second made it 10-4 with 1:06 left on the clock.

Jeff Cassell assisted on three goals while Ralph Luimes, Kevin Mackler, and Brian Moran set up two apiece for the winners.

Hawks picked up nine minors and a fighting major to Gary Forsyth.

Morrisburg converted two Winchester penalties to goals while Hawks scored once on the extra man situation.

Lions were assessed 10 minors and a fighting major to Ralph Luimes.

Pioneers Banquet Ends Championship Season

Williamsburg Pioneers' senior fastball team wrapped-up a very successful season last Saturday evening with their annual Awards Banquet.

The past year was dotted with many successes for the Pioneers. They captured $1,200 and a trophy as first place finishers in the Kemptville Tournament, won the Labour Day weekend play-off in Cardinal receiving both "Madden's" Mug and the Legion Trophy.

Coming on strong in the play-offs, Williamsburg eliminated Cardinal and first place Brockville to become league champions and take the coveted F.M. Cass Trophy.

Individual awards were also handed out on Saturday with (from the left) Roger Morrell as top hitter with a .329 average, Jim Shaw as The Most Improved Player, Doug Casselman was voted Most Valuable for a second straight year, short-stop Larry Cooper was once again the Most Gentlemanly and Gerry Belanger was honoured by his teammates for having pitched two perfect games over the last three seasons. By Lynn O'Brien

Williamsburg Pioneers Fastball Club held their Annual Banquet and Awards night Saturday evening in Williamsburg with a capacity crowd. Gerry Morrell and Jim Shaw acted as co-masters of ceremonies and coach Gord McMillan introduced the players, presenting each with a plaque - Bill Hogaboam, Doug Casselman, Russ Casselman, Duke Roles, Gerry Perry and Roger Morrell, Larry Cooper, Jim Shaw, Paul Beckstead, Gerry Belanger. The Coach also thanked Jim Morrell and Mike Armstrong for their contributions in tournament play.

Coach McMillan related how the team started the season slowly winning a few and losing a few, with the Kemptville tournament starting the Pioneers rolling. The team won that tourney, a trophy and $1200 and then Labour Day Weekend they won the League Tourney capturing "Madden's Mug" and the Cardinal Legion Trophy, and capped the season off by winning the League Championship, receiving the F.M. Cass Trophy. A letter of congratulations from Mr. Ed Lumley was also read.

Coach McMillan also thanked team sponsors - Pioneer Hotel and Fred Pinkus; the reporters Al Levere, Lynne O'Brien, and Al Van Bridger; Barry Casselman for his team statistics; and several people who helped the team - Clarence Barkley, Hubert and Barbara Wells, Betty and Rae Casselman, Aden Casselman, Edgar and Allan Bell for looking after the scoresheets, the players wives for their support, their super fans; Brian Duvall and Ken Barber.

Rae K. Casselman presented the Mr. and Mrs. George Strader Memorial Trophy to the best batter of the team in league play, Roger Morrell with a 329 average. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barber donated a trophy for the Most Improved Player. Jim Shaw was presented the trophy by Mr. Ken Barber. Mrs. Cliff Casselman presented the Phil Casselman Memorial Trophy for the Most Gentlemanly Player, for the second year in a row, to Larry Cooper. Big Doug Casselman received the Most Valuable Player Trophy, the Arden Trickey Memorial Trophy, presented by Ann Trickey Garlough. Big Doug also presented a trophy to Gerry Belanger, for having two perfect games in 3 years. A perfect game is when the opposition fails to get a man on base by a hit, a walk or error. In 1975 he hurled a perfect game against the Brockville Commercial Stars and this summer he shut-out Cardinal Pats 4-0.

After the awards were all presented, the pictures taken, the team relaxed knowing the 51 game season was over, and they could dance and enjoy the music of Jamie Shadbolt of Winchester. The Pioneers won 31 games, lost 16, and tied 4 in league play, tournaments and playoffs in 1977.

Ottawa District Junior "B" League Commissioner Peter McCooeye of Morrisburg dropped the puck to officially open the new season at Morrisburg last Sunday afternoon. In the ensuing contest the home team skated to a convincing 10 to 4 win over Winchester Hawks.

Raiders Take Town League Opener 4-3

Harry's Raiders opened their 1977-78 season on a winning note for a second straight season. Last year Raiders tucked six straight victories under their belts before finally being brought down on the 14th of December by a fired-up Fina team.

In their opener for the current campaign the black and gold Raiders were in possession of a comfortable 4-1 lead after two frames when Angus Pontiac finally got untracked with a pair of third period goals, making it close at 4-3, with just over two minutes remaining on the clock.

Two-time and reigning scoring champion Dick Christie - lead the winners with a pair while Reg Hyndman added a pair of helpers.

Christie is seeing duty with his third team in three seasons. Due to the recent player drafts the high-scoring centre has suited up for Vice Furniture, Armstrong's Fina and now Harry's Raiders.

A former Raider - Bill Sherwood - lead Angus' pointer-getters with a goal and an assist.

Raider's were impressive in the first period surging to an 3-1 lead. They netted their last goal in the middle session and had to fight off a strong period rally as Angus ripped two by Bob Carkner to make a game of it.

Harry Castle - returning to the Raiders after a year with Jo-Anne Shoppe - put Raiders on the board after 1:30 of play. He beat Bear Johnston on a play engineered by defenceman Bob Crummy.

Raiders had another one before their opposition finally got untracked. Dick Christie corralled a pass from Reg Hyndman well out in the slot and unleashed a low drive which made it into the net through a maze of players.

Bill Sherwood finally beat Bob Carkner at 14:45 in that opening Stanza with a high blast to the gloveside. Bill Hutton was responsible for the play with a pinpoint pass in the centre-ice area.

With a mere 21 seconds showing on the clock, Graham Link made it 3-1 - drilling a rebound passed Johnston. Reg Hyndman's original shot made the play possible.

Dick Christie's end-to-end dash accounted for the second stanza's only scoring play as his team went ahead 4-1.

Angus began to find the range in the final frame penetrating Raider's defences on numerous occasions. Their first pay-off came when Sheldon "The Shot" McLeod fired a low screamer past Bob Carkner from deep in the right face-off circle. Ken McClatchie set up the play.

Dale Hutt - who lead Vice Furniture to a pair of overtime victories in the Melvin Cup play-off last season - got his new team within one with just two minutes on the clock when he took a relay from Bill Sherwood and lifted a high backhander over Carkner's shoulder and into the top of the net.

Angus pulled their goalie in a last minute effort to tie the game but the score remained 4-3 in Raider's favour.

Shortt, Berry Pace Jo-Anne Squad

New-comer Owen Shortt and winger Larry Berry paced Jo-Anne Shoppe to a convincing 6-2 decision over the defending champions Vice Squad in the first game of the 1977 Winchester Town League season last Tuesday.

Shortt fired a pair of third period goals while Berry set-up three of his team's first four as Jo-Anne lead from start to finish.

The winners held a slim 2-1 edge after the opening stanza but upped it to 4-1 after 40 minutes and coasted to the 6-2 win.

Harry's Raiders snuck by Angus Pontiac 4-3 in game two tying themselves atop the standings with Jo-Anne Shoppe. Vice and Angus will fight it out this week for their first win and the Raiders will attempt to send Jo-Anne down to their first defeat in the other contests.

Ex-Vice Squad member - Brian Swerdfeger - opened the 1977 season in a hurry against his old mates beating Greg Kirkwood just nine seconds into the game. Larry Berry drew the assist on the season's first goal.

Jo-Anne put their opposition down 2-0 at the 4:29 mark when Captain Bill Hogaboam whipped a shot past Kirkwood after taking a pass from Larry Berry and Don McIntosh.

Captain Glen Taylor got his club on the scoreboard at the 10:15 mark when he scooped up Doug Vasey's pass at centre ice and steamed in on Dan Hogaboam all alone. His high shot beat the goalie on his right side.

Jo-Anne stretched their lead with a pair of second period goals - one on a power play.

Don "Doc" Argue was the opportunist on Jo-Anne's third goal smashing Richard Gilmour's rebound under Kirkwood at 3:24.

With Bruce St. John off for high-sticking defenceman Carl Robinson upped his team's lead to 4-1 on a play set up by Larry Berry.

At 7:34 of the third period with Vice playing two men short - Owen Shortt rambled through the entire Vice defence - scoring a perfect unassisted goal.

Don Swerdfeger grabbed a Mel Vice pass in the centre-ice area two minutes later and beat Dan Hogaboam low on the right side for Vice's second goal.

With time running out Owen Shortt connected on another flashy major to put it well out of reach at 6-2. Don Argue drew an assist on the final goal.

Final Jo-Anne 6, Vice 2.

30 Skydivers Compete For Championship

Craig Winning and Gunther Stefan performed to perfection at the 1977 Ontario Provincial Skydiving Championships held at Winchester Air Park Saturday and Sunday.

The two senior competitors hit their target in each of their six attempts, tying for top spot in the Senior Accuracy Event.

Only 30 chutists showed up for the long rain-delayed competition, most traveling from Toronto and Ottawa to take part.

The two-day meet was divided into three sections: Individual Accuracy, Individual Style, and Team Accuracy.

The Individual Accuracy event was composed of junior freefall students with up to 75 jumps in three rounds. Intermediate--76 to 350 jumps in four rounds, and senior--over 350 jumps in six rounds.

Each competitor in this event jumps from 2500 feet attempting to land on or as close to a target disc, measuring about four inches in diameter, as possible.

Individual winners were: Junior Gary Conelly, Intermediate Bill Whaley with Craig Winning and Gunther Stefan tying in the senior category.

The individual style event was also run off in three sections: Junior--one half style set in two rounds. Intermediate--full set over 12 seconds in two rounds, and Senior--full set under 12 seconds over three rounds. All jumps were made at 7,200 feet with Barry Mason taking junior, Bill Whaley the intermediate and Craig Winning, senior honours.

Five teams took part in the team accuracy jump. Each of the four member squads went three rounds from 3,500 feet.

Bill Whaley, Barry Mason, Al Howell and Steve Laporte composed the winning team.

In the accompanying photos the judges measure one of the senior target hits and two of the junior jumpers work at untangling their chutes after landing in close quarters in the target zone.

Braves Suffer Losses

(Terry Holmes)

A shortage of players, specifically defencemen, plagued Osgoode Braves in their weekend games resulting in 9-2 and 11-5 losses to Richmond Dukes and CFB Falcons respectively.

With only ten players dressed for each game, Braves were unable to keep pace with opposing clubs for the entire match. In both encounters Osgoode played well in the first period staying even with the opposition, both in the margin of play and on the scoreboard. However, as early as the beginning of the second period the heavy workload began to take its toll on the Osgoode players.

Their Friday evening encounter against Richmond was scoreless after the first period but as the Osgoode players began to tire, Richmond gradually took greater control of play. Before the period was over, Dukes had notched four goals, two by Tommy Hill and one each by Wayne Green and Don Duncan to lead 4-0 after two periods.

It appeared the Braves might mount a comeback when they scored at the 2:16 mark of the third period to narrow the margin to 4-1 but successive goals by the Richmond club at 3:12 and 3:29 mark of the period dispelled any thoughts of an Osgoode comeback. The Dukes scored three more times in the period to win the game 9-2. Marksmen for the Dukes in the third period were Tommy Hill, with two to give him four goals for the evening, Wayne Greer with two goals, to give him three for the night, and Don Duncan scored his second of the game. Bob Kearns and Mike Rochon were the Osgoode marksmen.

Sunday afternoon's game against CFB Falcons was almost a replay of Friday's match, with Braves performing well in the opening period before tiring and collapsing with the second and third periods.

Braves scored first in the game when Dave Dewan made an end-to-end rush, splitting the defence and beating the Falcon's goaltender, giving the Braves an early 1-0 lead at the 10:24 mark. At 18:26 Gerry Loubert scored for the Falcons tying the score 1-1.

In the second period Braves once again suffered a serious letdown as the Falcons scored three unanswered goals. Livingstone, Smith and Gerry Loubert with his second of the night supplied the Falcon firepower as they dominated play continuously throughout the period.

In the third period Braves displayed more offensive punch but defensively they were inept. The Osgoode club scored four goals but the Falcons replied seven times giving them a convincing 11-5 win.

For Falcons in the third, Serge Tremblay scored twice, with singles by Livingstone, Loubert, Boudreau, Carriere and Cole. The Brave's marksmen were Ken Kelly with two, Bob Kearns and Craig Fisher notching one each.

Braves have now lost two of their three starts with the games clearly displaying the team's strengths and weaknesses. Despite the losses, their goaltending has been very good with Jerry Armstrong and Tom Dempsey performing solidly between the pipes.

Up front the club has some strong offensive punches with the likes of the Kelly brothers, John, Terry and Ken, Greg Holmes, Mike Rochon, Bob Kearns and Dave Dewan. To date, however, injuries and player absenteeism have prevented coach Hannah from establishing any set lines and this fact has obviously hindered the team's performance on the ice. The club is woefully weak on defence with only experienced defencemen, Lorne Daly and Pete Prichard. Coach Hannah has been playing forward Dave Dewan there steadily and also spotting forward Ken Kelly and Bob Kearns, but their inexperience at that position is obvious. Their absence from forward units is not only disrupting but limiting their scoring potential. Coach Hannah is presently seeking additional players, especially defencemen, and any interested player should phone Don Hannah at 826-2362.

Possible Football Rematch

(By 'Toot' Ris)

Mr. Kerruish and the boys' football team played their first exhibition game of the season last Thursday. Even though they lost the game they fought right through to the end. The team from North Dundas District High School scored 24 points before Osgoode replied with a touchdown. Osgoode's touchdown was scored on a four yard run midway in the final quarter. Gary Manwell was the one who put OTHS on the board. The convert was good. OTHS also scored another touchdown on a 25 yard punt return by Alex Marsden but it was called back because of an offside penalty against Fred Young. Young and the Osgoode defence recovered two fumbles in the early minutes of the first and they also got an interception on the last play of the half. This week the football team plays Ashbury and a possibility of a rematch against NDDHS at North Dundas.

There were a few surprising scores as the Carleton Board Soccer season winds down to a close with Thursday night the juniors playing and the seniors on Friday night. In junior soccer, Neil Chadwick scored two goals to pace Bell to a 5-2 victory over Earl of March. Other scorers for Bell were Dave Rathwell, Steve Gibson and Rob Forest. Craig Scott and Dave Gibson tallied for the losers. The surprising score in junior was when A.Y. Jackson defeated second place Garneau by a score of 2-0. Shayne Salter and Cann Monsour scored for A.Y.J. Other action saw Gloucester double J.S. Woodsworth 4-2 and the amazing thing is that Gloucester didn't even beat J.S.W. in regular season action. Mark Fowler, the big gun for the Gayters was held to one goal, while team-mates Derek Johnston, Hans Visser, and Steve McCaughey scored singles. Sir Robert Borden blanked Merivale 1-0 to eliminate Merivale from further playoff action for 1977. Doug Dawson scored for the winners and Doug Simonipe recorded the shutout. In semi-final action, it is A.Y. Jackson at Bell and Gloucester hosts Sir Robert Borden. These games begin at 3:15 because of the time change and will be played on Monday. In senior quarterfinal action, Earl of March dumped Sir Robert Borden 2-1; Gloucester blanked J.S. Woodsworth 6-0; Confederation edged St. Pius 2-1; and Bell took second place Merivale 2-1. Bell goes to Gloucester and Confederation travels to Earl of March in semi-final action to be played on Tuesday, November 1 at 3:15.

The junior girls' basketball lost a heartbreaker to Gloucester 56-53 in overtime. The girls were tied at 53 when they ran out of time. There was a dispute whether they were to play overtime and when all was settled, they played three minutes extra and Gloucester scored three points. The seniors also lost their game this week to Sir Robert Borden by a score of 64-34.

The OTHS magazine drive has been changed from October 25 to November 8-23. Please get out and support the OTHS Athletic Association.

N.D.D.H.S. Flogs Osgoode 24-7

(By Kathy Workman and Marg Wouters)

The big event item this week is the victory won by our school football team over Osgoode High. The winning score was 24-7. Scoring for North Dundas were Roger Patterson, Tim Billings and Dale Reid. Our school recently gave birth to a blue and white squad of enthusiastic cheerleaders who accompanied the team to Osgoode.

Congratulations to the cross-country team who placed first at the S.D. &G. Championships on Tuesday at Tagwi High. Our midget girls and senior boys placed first. Our junior boys placed third. The team also competed at the Eastern Ontario Championships in Brockville but results were not yet available.

Midget Girls' Interschool Basketball tryouts were held this week. The teams will be chosen soon. Coaches, so far, are Kathy Workman, Cathy Walker, Wilma Klein Swormick and Arlene Ennis.

A Nursing Presentation was given by St. Lawrence College last Thursday. All interested level four and five students were invited to attend.

This year's chocolate bar campaign is sponsoring a new contest for North Dundas students. All students are invited to design house symbols for measuring bars sold. The design, if chosen, will be put in the cafeteria. The prize is a seven pound chocolate bar. All entries must be handed in by Thursday, November 3.

The green light is on again this year for a tour of Paris, London and Brussels. Fifteen students will be accompanying Mr. Harper during the March break. The last school trip of this nature was in 1974.

Jets Reschedule Opener At Home

Metcalfe Jets first home game of the season had to be cancelled last Sunday due to problems with the ice plant. However, the problem has been solved and the new-look junior squad will not play two consecutive games on their home ice.

Rockland, a new entry in the league, will provide the opposition on Friday night (November 4), and the following Tuesday (November 8), St. Isidore will be in town. Friday night's opener gets under way at 8:15 and club president Bill Wammes reports special guests will be present to officially open the new 'Home' season.

The Tuesday night game against St. Isidore was to have been played October 30 but, as already stated, ice problems forced rescheduling. Hockey fans have a special treat in store, not only with the speedy young team coached by Jim Duhart, but also arena renovations. Puck boards have all been covered with sparkling white plastic and the dangerous wire protection screen has been replaced by glass.

Members of clubs from Cardinal, Winchester, Brockville, Cornwall, Cornwall Township, Athens Morrisburg and Kemptville received both on and off ice instruction as well as written tests for their amateur coaches' certificates.

Region four—Eastern Ontario Amateur Figure Skating Association in conjunction with the Canadian Amateur Association sponsored the day long session at Winchester Curling Club. The two-hour professional on ice instruction was carried out in the Winchester and District Community Centre.

Douglas Lamb, National Skating Test Director for Eastern Ontario, discussed the various divisions, skate championships along with techniques on leadership and coaching.

Members of the Winchester Figure Skating Club who attended and received their coaching certificates, in either the junior or senior category, were: Lori Larmour, Susanne Rose, Susan Helmer, Anne Marriner, Kelly Johnston, Dawn Williams, Marg Simzer, Angela Hutt, Karen Rae, and Stephane Holmes. Holders of these certificates are qualified to assist club professionals with on-ice training.

Mrs. Tom Allison, Mrs. Rita Guy and Larry Berry obtained supervisory certificates at the day long session.

OPP Detachment Open November 1st

LONG SAULT—Two new Ontario Provincial Police detachments will begin operations November 1 in the Ottawa-Carleton region.

The detachments, one at Manotick and one at Woodland, will both operate a 24-hour basis, with the Manotick detachment encompassing the townships of Rideau and Osgoode. The West Carleton detachment will provide police services to the townships of Fitzroy, Torbolton, Huntley and the northern portion of March township.

Both offices will be staffed with twelve Constables, two Corporals and commanded by a Sergeant. The Manotick detachment will operate temporarily from a mobile office-trailer located at the Recreation Centre, while the West Carleton detachment will be located in the Torbolton Township Municipal Building near Woodlawn.

In announcing the openings, OPP Commissioner H.H. Graham noted that the measure of police efficiency available to an area depends primarily on response time.

"It has been long realized the Ottawa detachment at Bells Corners was responsible for too large an area," the Commissioner said. "The increase in population and demand for police services has made the addition of two new detachments necessary."

The new OPP detachments in West Carleton in the North and Manotick in the South will substantially improve the level of service and provide a community policing service to the residents of the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton, Commissioner Graham said.

Olympic Calibre Dressage Show

RICHMOND—Members of the Canadian Olympic team will participate this weekend in the Canadian National Dressage Championships at Dwyer Hill Farms near here.

Competitors, who will include some of the world's finest riders, will be judged during the equestrian event by an international panel of judges from Holland, Germany, Mexico, the United States and Canada. Two of the judges have judged both Olympic and World Championships.

Included in the competition lineup are prominent U.S. horses and riders and young riders who have been specially selected as potential Olympic material. All competitors are required to ride individual tests of varying degrees of difficulty, depending on their own level of training.

The competition is sponsored by the Ottawa Area Dressage Group, a small non-profit organization which is a member of the Canadian Dressage Owners and Riders Association. The term "Dressage" means in effect, to train the horse.

Dwyer Hill facilities include a licensed restaurant, a heated spectator area, nightly disco, lounge and ample parking. Advance tickets are available from Mrs. Renee Smith, Burrit Farm, Burrits Rapids or Thrifties, Bells Corners.

PLEASE PICK UP MONEY AND EQUIPMENT

We still have a bit of money and a few skates left from the skate exchange that was held a few weeks ago at the Community Centre and we would ask the people who have not yet been contacted to please drop in and ask for their money or skates. If you do not have a chance to drop in through the week, there will be someone available on Saturday morning to get things straightened up for you. Thanks for your co-operation.

WINTER ICE SCHEDULE TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK

There are still a few wrinkles to be ironed out so that everyone will be served to the best of our ability with satisfactory ice time, but at this time we do not have the league game information available; there will probably be a few adjustments to make before things are set for the winter's operations. We are hopeful that things will fall into place by this weekend and if they do, we will publish a full schedule in next week's Press. We have had some requests to re-establish the season ticket arrangement for singles and families for admission to public skating. This arrangement has been given the OK by the board so hopefully information will also be published on how to obtain your season's tickets. With the many groups using the ice surface during the week, it is very difficult to arrange times and we understand that regardless of what we endeavour, things will not work out well for everyone. We are appreciative of the co-operation extended by the many people involved and we regret that there are only two hours that are between 7 and 9 each night, but we will do our best to please as many groups as possible and we hope everyone has a good season of fun.

4-H AWARDS NIGHT THIS FRIDAY

With the hockey game going on and the 4-H boys and girls gathering in the hall for their big banquet and awards presentations this should strain the parking spots this Friday night. We are indeed pleased to see the arena going full tilt and being used by the many local groups for their activities. We trust that the 4-H'ers will not be too annoyed if occasionally they are interrupted by a loud cheer. Just remember that it will mean the Hawks have scored and we know that the many fans among the young farmers will hope for many interruptions.

MOUNTAIN TRAIL BLAZERS DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT

The boys and gals of the Trail Blazers Snowmobile Club will be out to try and raise some bucks this week and invite you to join them for a night of fun this week at the hall. Music will be by the popular Duke of Earl, who have been providing great dance music with generous portions of the old Rock and Roll hits of the fifties. Admission is $3.00 a person which includes your Buffet at midnight. Should be a great night and you will be helping a group that did a great job in keeping you supplied with good trails for your winter hikes on the snowmobile. Plan to get your group together and by helping them insure yourself the best in snowmobiling.

A GOOD CAUSE AND GREAT PRIZES

If you have not yet purchased a ticket in aid of the Mentally Retarded Draw that will be drawn at their big fund raising dance in the hall, November 12, better get one today while purchasing your dance ticket. They have a real lineup of great prizes for lucky people and they do need the money. There has been a great deal of work done to make things a bit brighter for this group, but there is much left to do, so please, help a devoted group of hard working people and do your part by remembering to buy a ticket and attend the dance, November 12.

RE: PARENT TEACHER INTERVIEWS
Tuesday, November 8
7:00 p.m.—9:00 p.m.

Dear Parent:

All North Dundas students will receive their November Progress Reports on Monday, November 7.

The purpose of these reports is to provide both the student and the parent with an indication of how well the student is doing in his various courses.

In order to give parents the opportunity of discussing the progress of their son or daughter with individual teachers, Parent-Teacher Interviews have been scheduled for Thursday, November 10 from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

I sincerely hope that all parents will be able to attend as these interviews not only provide both parent and teacher with many insights which will enable them to help the student who is having difficulty but they also provide a great deal of positive reinforcement for the student who is doing well.

Yours truly,
D.W. McGahan,
Principal.

From memory pass away.

TUPPER—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Howard Tupper, who passed away November 4, 1962.
There's only a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with millions of tears
Wishing you had been spared
Even only for a few more years
So many things have happened
Since you were called away
Things you would have enjoyed
Had you been left to stay
So many things to share with you
So many things to say
Things would be so nice
If you were here today.
—Sadly missed by Bill, Pat and Family 28c

WARREN—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Pearl Warren who passed away November 2, 1964.

Commandments For Outdoor Survival

Among the many seasons people live through, the most hazardous one is probably the one known as the "HUNTING SEASON".

During that time, various types of weapons are used and quite often the handlers of these weapons are not qualified to handle them, sometimes because of lack of knowledge and sometimes because of inadequate physical and-or mental condition.

In order to minimize the seasonal hazards, hunters would be well advised to know and heed the following 10 Safety Rules:

1. Treat every gun as if it were a loaded gun.
2. Be sure of your target before you squeeze the trigger.
3. Never point a gun at anything you do not want to kill.
4. Always carry your gun so that the muzzle is under control at all times.
5. Guns must always be unloaded when carried into camp or when not in use.
6. Make sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
7. Unattended guns should be unloaded.
8. Never climb a fence or jump a ditch with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at flat or hard objects or the surface of water.
10. Avoid alcohol while hunting.

The next rules are known as the 10 Commandments of Bush Survival:

1. Tell someone where you are going and when you expect to return.
2. Carry and know how to use a map and a compass.
3. Carry emergency food, matches and a good knife.
4. Check your position frequently.
5. If lost, don't panic.
6. Stay put, prepare shelter and fire.
7. Prepare three signal fires in a 60-foot triangle ready for lighting at the first sound of an aircraft.
8. Conserve your food supply and strength.
9. If you leave your shelter, blaze your trail.

$700,000 In OHRP Grants Allocated To Municipalities

Grants of more than $700,000 under the Ontario Home Renewal program (OHRP) have been allocated to 17 Ontario municipalities including several from Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, reports Housing Minister John Rhodes.

Winchester village council received $30,110 while Williamsburg township was granted $65,482, Kennebec township obtained $15,000 and Matilda township received $66,308.

OHRP provides per capita grants to Ontario municipalities to administer directly as loans to homeowner occupants to repair their houses to an acceptable municipal minimum standard.

The grants announced last week represent various portions of the total 1977-78 funding designated under OHRP for each municipality.

Prime objective of the program is the correction of faulty structural and sanitary conditions and the upgrading of plumbing, heating, insulation and electrical systems of the owner occupant's home.

"OHRP is directly oriented to low and moderate income homeowners with a maximum annual income of $12,500," Mr. Rhodes said.

Loans of up to $7,500 can be given to eligible owner occupants to bring their homes up to the standards adopted by their municipality.

A portion of the loan can be "forgiven" depending upon the income of the recipent. Interest rates vary from zero to eight per cent, again depending on income.

OHRP extends home renewal possibilities to owner-occupants in any municipality in Ontario, urban or rural, which has adopted either a minimum housing standards bylaw or a resolution setting such standards.

Special arrangements have been made to extend the benefits of the program to the residents of unorganized municipalities in Northern Ontario.

Hulbert United Church Celebrates Anniversary

The fine sunny weather of the weekend of October 23rd, when Hulbert United Church celebrated its 103rd anniversary, was quite different from the weather of that long ago Sunday in January, 1874, when the founders of Wesley Methodist Church met for the dedication of the first little frame church to stand on the present site. A contemporary account of that Dedication Service in 1874 could have been describing the 103rd Anniversary observance, however, for it mentions the "crowded audience" which was present for two services that cold January day.

Both services on Sunday, October 23rd had similar "crowded" audiences". At the morning service, a most inspiring message was delivered by the guest minister, Reverend Donald Isner of South Mountain. Special music by the Hulbert Youth Choir directed by the organist, Mrs. Lois Keyes was most suited to the occasion, and special musical numbers were also given by Mr. Claire Wallace and his daughter of Prescott.

At the evening service an even more "crowded audience" was present to hear the Singing Edwards Family of Wooler, Ontario. This family of seven, the youngest eight or nine years of age is a most dedicated group; each member uses his or her talents to the utmost to present the gospel message in music and song in a most convincing way.

The Annual Anniversary Dinner on Tuesday, October 25th, was most successful. As usual, it drew visitors from a wide area, with about 450 persons being served in the space of a few hours.

The Hulbert Congregation was most gratified by the successful observance of its 103rd Anniversary. Its members wish to thank all who helped make it such a fine occasion, an occasion worthy of the fine people whose devotion and effort established the church and kept it open and active through many difficulties in the years since 1874.

Cemeteries Undergo Face-Lift

SOUTH MOUNTAIN—From the road a semi-circle of tombstones can be seen against the soft tones of the horizon.

And last week passing motorists may have seen an unusual amount of activity at the St. Peter's Anglican cemetery near here and at the United Church cemetery on the outskirts of Inkerman.

Both grave sites, now unused and dating back to the mid-1800's, are undergoing a major renovation program designed to preserve the stones and facilitate upkeep of the grounds, said Mountain township clerk Joan Maxwell.

She said the project, being funded by the municipality and the rural incentive works program and designed to employ persons on unemployment insurance and welfare, involves embedding the grave stones in a semi-circle foundation of cement and cleaning up the grounds.

Mrs. Maxwell said both cemeteries were in poor condition before and many of the markers were knocked down and damaged.

Although labour costs are being picked up by the government grant, the municipality pays for all materials. The clerk said the old cemeteries will be re-seeded and landscaped.

Sterling Urges Development Of Major Tourist Attraction

On Monday, October 31st, the Ministry of Industry and Tourism held a workshop seminar in Cornwall to discuss the potential for Tourist Development along the St. Lawrence River and in the Rideau Lakes area. It was pointed out that there is a significant potential for different sizes and types of tourist investments in these areas. The consultant's report was quite definite in indicating that there was potential for a major commercial tourist attraction in the Cornwall Area. Prescott definitely appears to have potential to utilize its waterfront. I just hope that some individuals will take advantage of this valuable document to develop attractions and increase the number of tourists to our area.

REPORT FROM
NORMAN STERLING, MPP
CARLETON GRENVILLE

During the past two months I have received many briefs on the Mayo Report. The Report reviews Regional Government in Ottawa-Carleton with many suggestions as to how the structure of our municipalities, school boards and tax base might be altered. Dr. Mayo carried his mandate further than was ever anticipated. Recommendations to realign School Board boundaries has evoked strong and loud responses.

It is to be remembered that this is Dr. Mayo's report and does not represent the policy of the Ontario Government. The Government is now reviewing the submissions made by various groups and then will formulate a position. One fact is certain--that is the report stimulated a tremendous amount of interest. In general there is an indication of acceptance of the existing structures of Government in Ottawa-Carleton. I feel that this report is superior to the Archer report on a Regional Government in Central Ontario because Dr. Mayo has made specific rather than general recommendations. People know exactly what is intended and therefore can take a position.

There is, however, one main weakness in the study. It is not clear as to the economic repercussions from the specific recommendations. Residents of Glen Cairn do not know whether their property taxes are likely to increase or decrease if they join with Kanata and Bridlewood. The parents of children in the Carleton Separate School Board are concerned about a potential liability if they are forced to join with the Ottawa Separate School Board. I hope that prior to any final decision being made on these matters, the Treasurer and the Minister of Education will provide some guidance so the communities involved can understand how it will affect their pocketbooks.

Two ministries will be involved. The Treasurer, the Honourable D'Arcy McKeough will be dealing with the Municipal and Regional Governments and will probably take a position in January, 1978 for legislation in the spring. The Honourable Thomas Wells will be dealing with School Boards and I expect that process to be somewhat slower. I hope to have a better estimate of the timing in one month's time.

I have heard from many of you through my constituency office which is located in Manotick. If you should like to get in touch with me, please call me at 692-2403 or 1-800-267-1020 (toll free).

Drug Safety Encouraged

TORONTO—More than 2,000 pharmacists in Ontario will encourage their customers to take an "extra step for drug safety" in a program sponsored by the Ontario Pharmacists Association.

To comply with new government regulations concerning the sale of schedule "c" drugs the program will concern self-medication drugs which include products familiar to consumers through advertising, consumer magazines and life-style articles.

The program, which was introduced last month, promotes drug safety and identifies the products which must be referred to the pharmacist by a purple tag on the package.

Although many Ontario drug stores are already using the purple tag identification system, the program will now extend to all pharmacies in the Province.

In every case where self-medication containing schedule "c" drugs is sold the druggist must be involved directly with the purchase.

The pharmacist must make the decision regarding the sale of the drug. The reason is the need for the consumer to be protected from adverse drug interaction in cases where another drug is being taken; or to make sure the product chosen by the shopper is adequate for the customer's particular needs.

Under the present legislation, the pharmacist must be told by his customer what medication is wanted, then assess the needs of the customer in relation to the properties of the medication.

The onus for the program's success rests with the pharmacist, but the consumer who has been picking up a package of cough drops or anti-smoking chewing gum or candy reducing aids may find the pharmacists' participation in the sale awkward or time consuming.

The slogan "Take An Extra Step For Drug Safety" is well chosen. Although he need not complete the details of the sale, the pharmacist does have to authorize it.

Expecting a measure of concern from the consumers, as well as some reluctant pharmacists, the Ontario Pharmacists' Association has provided in-store sign kits and purple tags for the pharmacists' use.

The Association is also initiating a consumer information program to explain the reasons for the necessary extra steps by consumers and pharmacists.

St. Andrew's Holds Thankoffering

The joint meeting of the W.M.S. and the Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Mountain, was held at the home of Lou Hunter on Tuesday, October 18th.

The meeting was opened with the Call to Worship by the President, Mrs. Beatrice Shaner who read a short poem on "Thanksgiving". The Hymn "Now Thank We All Our God" was sang followed by prayer and scripture reading Psalm 147.

Mrs. Muriel Cumming then read the minutes and a Special Thankoffering was taken. Lou Hunter read a short article entitled "The best gifts cannot be purchased", and also read an interesting history of the building of St. Andrew's Church and the continued ministry from 1881 up to the present day, also the many ministers who filled the pulpit during all that time.

The meeting closed with the Hymn "Come ye thankful people come," and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Mariners Meet At Goldfield

Thirty-two members and friends of Mariners with Christ met for their monthly "Sailing" Tuesday evening at the Duart McLean home on Route 43 at Goldfield. First Mate Garnet Johnston piloted the "Good Ship Faith" thru calm and friendly waters. Jim Bray supplied accordion accompaniment for a Gospel hymn sing. Guest speaker was Mrs. Luella Robinson of Avonmore, public school teacher and representative of Cornwall branch of Child Evangelism.

Miss Debbie Langstaff of Winchester rendered several Gospel vocal solos, to the accordion accompaniment. George Crawford, steward, thanked the speaker, musicians and hosts, and received an offering for the work of the Mariners. The Mariners' report from the Admiral of the Fleet was read. Closing prayer was offered by the captain, the Reverend E. Earle Eaton of Cornwall and Chesterville. Delicious and bountiful refreshments were served by a hospitality committee comprising Mrs. Piebe De Jong, Earla Campbell, Mrs. Nina Woods, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. MacLean.

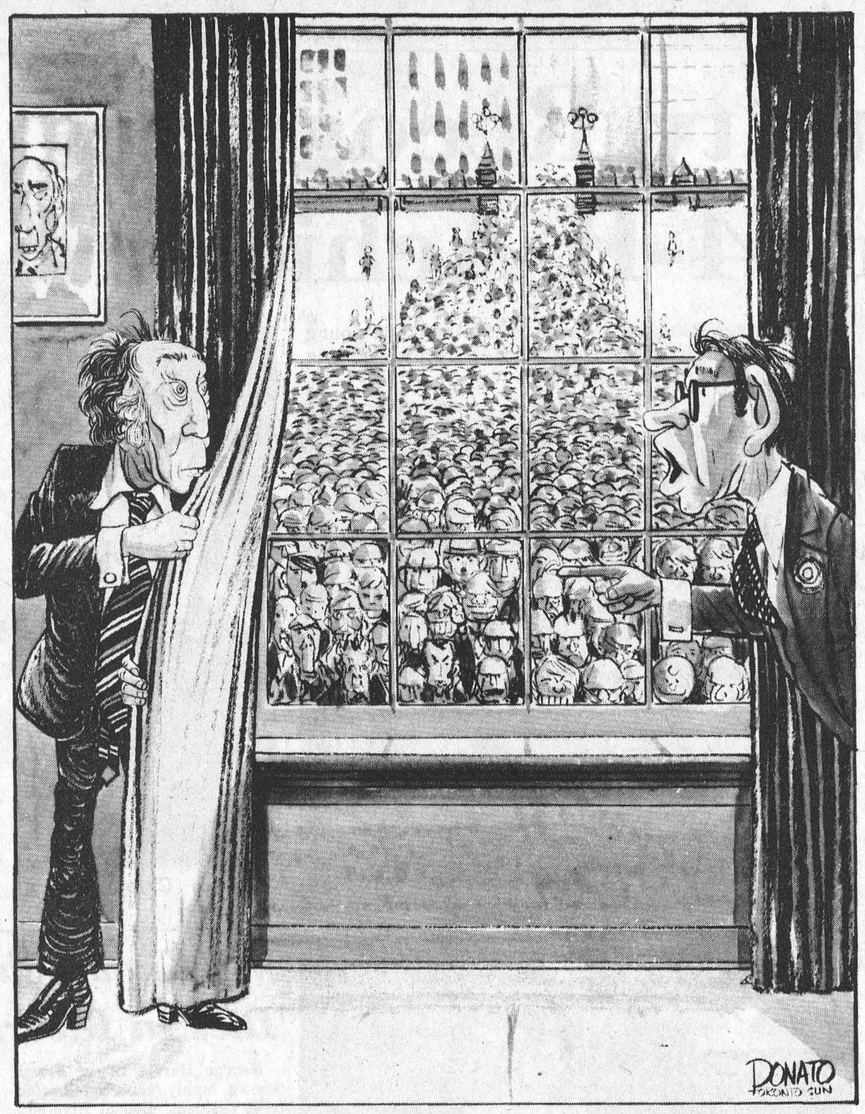
Education Costs Escalate

Canada's $16.4-billion education system is going through a dramatic upheaval as school enrollment plummets. The long-term outlook is bleak and experts in the education community expect the crunch to get worse, at least until the mid-1980's. One authority suggests the problem arises because of Canada's rapidly declining birth rate, mainly related to increased use of the pill and other contraceptive devices, and in addition the sharp reduction in immigration. As a result there aren't enough students to fill available seats, reducing the need for teachers, and an OISE official notes that at least 65 percent of Ontario teaching graduates have failed to find jobs in the profession. But there's more! Public complaints about rapidly rising education costs are reaching a crescendo, and there are also criticisms about the quality of teaching.

The question uppermost in the minds of Canadians is why costs continue to spiral while enrollment drops. In 1975, for example, it cost taxpayers approximately $13 billion to support 6.2 million students in the country's 15,000 elementary, secondary and post-secondary institutions. This year, enrollment declined to six million students, yet spending jumped to 16.4 billion.

Now, you hard-hit taxpayers, consider this --- according to Statistics Canada, spending next year will reach $17.6 billion as enrollment plummets to 5.9 million students. How much longer can we continue to grin and bear it?



"IT SEEMS YOU MADE A STATEMENT RECENTLY . . . 'IF THERE'S SOMEBODY AROUND WHO CAN DO THE JOB BETTER, I'LL GIVE UP MY SEAT TOMORROW' . . . WELL . . ."

I'm For Conscription

By Bill Smiley

A while ago, Defense Minister Danson sent up a trial balloon suggesting he would not be averse to conscripting young Canadians into the armed forces.

I thought it wasn't a bad idea. Guys my age always think it isn't a bad idea to conscript the young. "Give 'em a bit of discipline. Put some backbone in them," we huff.

Many other nations have conscription schemes under which young men must serve from one year to two in the armed forces, then are listed in the reserve, and go back once very couple of years for a few weeks for a refresher course.

Switzerland is the classic example. It has a cracking good army and a large, well-trained reserve, although it has never been in a war, as a nation. It doesn't have much use for a navy, for some reason.

In Britain, used for many years to a small regular army of professionals, and swarms of volunteers in time of war, the National Service, as it was called, was introduced after World War II and was very unpopular. It has since been cancelled, as the need for bodies in the services shrank with the shrinking of the Empire.

It was pretty well the same in the States. That infamous thing called The Draft was suffered in war time, but when it was used to train young men to go and kill people in a senseless war thousands of miles from home, for no logical reason, it met with calumny, chicanery, and plain draft-dodging, along with a desertion rate that was a national scandal.

That's not quite what Barney Danson and I had in mind. I wouldn't mind seeing a modest form of conscription in which everyone was called up, except of course, your sons and daughters, and mine.

What I'd like to see would be more like the Dutch conscription system, in which the troops can have long hair and beards, belong to a union, elect their own NCOs and wear civvies when not on duty.

Conscripts would be well paid--about $100 a week--would get one week off for every three weeks in service, and armed forces kitchens would have the best food in the world, outside of four-star restaurants.

The usual perks, of course, would remain: free dental and medical service, duty-free smokes and booze, free travel on leave.

One more thing I would introduce. I would get rid of the arrant sexism that exists in our present armed forces. Women would share the same jobs, the same pay, the same privileges, and the same barracks, as the men.

Women would have the same number of senior officers, based on the proportion of females in the service, just as the French Canadians have now.

Women would be given maternity leave, with no blight on the old escutcheon, just as lady school teachers are now. With one difference. They would have a built-in baby sitter when they went from the swaddling clothes phase back into uniform.

Just to make it fair, men would be given paternity leave, although possibly not the six months granted women. Free day-care services would be provided for the children of parents who were both in the forces.

Medicals would be a little more lenient. I'd admit anybody who: could see his or her hand before his or her face; did not have veneral disease; was missing no more than two limbs. This would absorb about 94 per cent of our young unemployed.

But this would cost millions, you will exclaim.

Of course it would. Billions in fact. But what's a billion these days? How many billions are we now throwing off the end of the dock to these same people, in the form of unemployment insurance, welfare cheques, reform schools, jails, psychiatric treatment, and education?

I guarantee you we'd break even. And look what we'd gain. We could close up two-thirds of our institutions of higher learning, which would be no great loss. We could cut unemployment payments to the bone. We could trim the fat off the obese, and bolster the health of the badly nourished, with good service grub. We could absorb all those dentists and doctors who now have to make $100,000 a year to survive.

In five years, we could have an armed force that would make Guatemala quiver in its boots. At the present, the only nation we could lick is Iceland. Without Greenland.

But I am never one to try to foist my opinions, however brilliant, without some solid backing. That's why I did an informal survey with some of my senior classes. They thought it was right on, after I'd outlined my ideas.

"Wow!" was the reaction of Elvira, back in Grade 12 after an unsuccessful attempt to establish a career in waitressing. "You mean we'd all live together in them there--whadda ya call them, sir--barracks?"

"Ya mean I'd get a hundred bucks a week just for drivin' around in a tank or goin' for a cruise on one of them big ships?" queried Joe Muffraw, who is 20 years old and has never been away from home or held in his hand more than a 10-dollar bill in his life.

"Who gets to be officers, and how much do they make, and are they fed better?" asked Christopher, the class whiz. "Sure sounds easier than four years of college and no job."

That's just a sampling. I asked for a show of hands from those who were unalterably opposed. Not a hand was raised. But of course, they were not sure what unalterably meant.

7th column

By Joe Rowan

Since early summer this column has been taking pot-shots at weatherman Peter Emerson whose regular daily predictions always included this footnote --- "possibility of occasional showers." And showers they were, some lasting as long as three days. Now, in all fairness, we take it all back. Good old Peter has been doing a fine job this past few days handing us beautiful, warm Indian Summer days. Maybe you won't believe it, but roses are blooming at Springhill, and right here in Winchester many floral borders are prettier than they've been all summer. And wouldn't you know it --- sports fans are inside watching hockey games. Not us ! No sir! We're sitting right here in front of the television watching football. Keep up the good work Peter --- and if it isn't dark after the game we'll be right out there breathing that exhilarating autumn air.

It's hockey time again, and shaping up like a season we're really going to enjoy, with no less than three "HOME TEAMS" to support. Previously we experienced some perplexing problems when those "Vicious Hawks" and "Whispering Jets" were in the same Division. This season all that has changed. We can root with gusto for Winchester in the South-West Division and Metcalfe in the North-East Division. And then, if we still have a few hoarse cheers left, there's that other HOME TEAM, the Russell Raiders playing intermediate class hockey. As the season progresses we'll be doing some in-depth statistical research and later come through with more of our usual, almost mystical, predications --- so do refrain from betting till such time as we lift the veil allowing faithful readers a fleeting glimpse of the future.

Attended an interesting meeting at Manotick last week and came away convinced ratepayers in the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Municipality have had their fill of 'bigness'. Purpose of the meeting was to learn the reaction of Carleton Separate School taxpayers to a proposal that the Ottawa and Carleton Boards amalgamate. It was obvious from the very beginning overburdened taxpayers had had their fill of amalgamation, and supporters of the plan were soon made aware rural and urban people prefer to handle their own affairs. M.P.P. Norman Sterling was present and offered assurance his government wasn't likely to approve a move so vehemently opposed by the people concerned. The rookie Member further smoothed the troubled waters when he noted the controversial issue hadn't yet reached even the 'White Paper' stage. From where we're sitting, hope the subject will now be dropped.

Our long association with clergymen of all denominations has shown on many occasions how these learned gentlemen consider diplomacy their key to success --- and frankly we've never known one who allowed that diplomatic 'halo' to tilt. Never, that is, till last Saturday afternoon, and on that occasion, much to our dismay, we actually witnessed the rare phenomenon. Rev. Len Woolfrey was participating in opening of Russell's swank senior citizens' hall, and possibly the fact his good wife was not present proved his downfall. He noted that his "helper" had another very important assignment that afternoon, and addressing the capacity crowd, he dutifully said he was speaking on her behalf. Very good to this point [and the 'halo' was still in place]. Continuing, he grinned mischieviously at his rapt audience saying, "And I consider it a rather unique situation when I can speak for my wife, since usually she speaks for both of us". It was at this point the 'diplomatic halo' quivered and slid from sight. It is believed his understanding "better half" forgave him for this 'one' slip and had the 'halo' shining again in time for Sunday's service.

A well known area Member of Parliament told a rather humorous tale at Russell last Saturday afternoon. The story had to do with brain transplants and described prices ranging from $1,000 to $50,000. He explained that the occupation of original owners of the brains determined prices, and gave examples. "Labourers, $1,000; white-collar workers, $3,000; professional people (Doctors, Lawyers, etc.), $5,000; clergymen, $10,000; and politicians $50,000." Why should the brain of a dead politician command such a high price? "Simple", he smiled, "because they're just like new, seldom been used." HEAR! HEAR!

Readers have no doubt noted the many interesting reports written by our newest staffer, 'Bearded Steve'. We offered him some valuable tips last week and feel his work will greatly improve as a result. What we were trying to get across to him roughly was that we have pretty near made up our mind that it would be a kind of preferable situation if he said what he meant what he said, and at least this seems to be a vaguely gathered consensus of his present thinking at the present time, and we also presently believe that his writing would be more presentable if he would present it essentially as free of repetitions as it is presently possible to present it, at present. And we urged him not to express more than one thought at a time. Glad to be of help son!

Russell County Recognizes Outstanding 4-H Achievers

Embrun's huge community centre was a hive of activity last Friday night when Russell County's 4-H winners were honoured at the annual Banquet and Awards Night.

The various clubs in the County were ably represented and the program was under the direction of Agricultural Representative R.N. Pommainville. The many winners were on stage following a delicious meal and the young people, along with parents and friends enjoyed an evening of dancing following the program.

Low Sulphur Fertilizers Could Cause Deficiencies

The sulphur content of many commercial fertilizers has been decreased in the last few years which could have important consequences for farmers in Quebec and some other parts of Canada.

The cultivation of plants with high sulphur requirements, such as alfalfa and barley, has been increasing in Quebec at the same time that the proportion of sulphur in fertilizers has been falling.

Two researchers at Agriculture Canada's Ste-Foy, Que., Research Station have been cultivating alfalfa and barley in greenhouses in two soil types typical of the farming areas in Quebec. Dr. Yvon Martel and Jean Zizka have been studying the response of the plants to sulphur-enriched fertilizers added to sandy-gravelly loam soil and silty-clay soil.

Generally speaking, sulphur helped to increase yields. In both types of soil, alfalfa responded better to the addition of sulphur than to phosphorous or potassium alone. The addition of the sulphur to the silty clay from the Kamouraska region of Quebec increased the ability of the alfalfa to use the nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium provided by commercial fertilizers.

Barley responded better to the addition of nitrogen than to phosphorous, potassium and sulphur. However, in the sandy-gravelly loam from the St. Andre Quebec region, the sulphur increased the barley's response to the nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium added to the soil.

The sulphur had no effect on the barley when added to the clay soil, probably because of the compact structure of the soil.

The researchers say the increased use of fertilizers low in sulphur may eventually cause sulphur deficiency and decreased yields in areas of the country where the soils are naturally low in sulphur content.

Provide Livestock Market Information

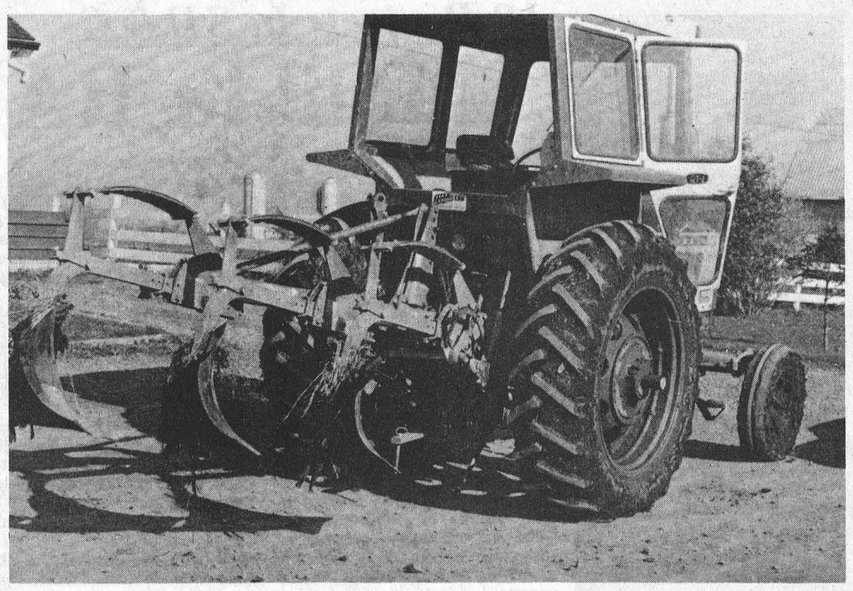
OTTAWA—Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan announced last week that free daily livestock markets information will be provided to anyone in Canada on Zenith telephone lines, beginning November 1, 1977.

The service will be provided by Agriculture Canada's National Livestock Markets Information Service. It will be available in English by dialing 1-800-267-8360 and in French by dialing 1-800-267-8370.

"Livestock markets information has been available to all sectors of livestock industry through a user-pay telephone line to Ottawa," Mr. Whelan said. The new free service is one of Agriculture Canada's ongoing improvements in agricultural markets information. Its purpose is to make basic market information readily available to all sectors of the industry at no charge."

The new service includes livestock receipts, prices and trends at public stockyards across Canada and will be available 24 hours a day. The information is collected and prepared by Agriculture Canada personnel. Initially the market information will be updated by 1:30 p.m. daily.

"This free service will give everyone involved in the Canadian livestock industry, including consumers, a complete up-to-date picture of the North American livestock markets at any time of the day or night," Mr. Whelan said.



After The Rains...

The past week of Indian Summer weather has been a boon to area farmers whose heavy equipment has been kept idle by the torrential rains that have swept the country since late August. The warm, sunny weather will give most area farmers a long-waited-for opportunity to harvest their corn crops. Press Photo—VanBridger

Mushroom Production Mushrooms

Mushroom production in Ontario has tripled in the past decade and is expected to take another leap forward in 1978.

Dr. T.J. Blom, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food mushroom specialist, is predicting a 10 per cent increase in mushroom production next year.

Ontario mushroom growers produced about 26 million pounds in 1976, valued at $18.5 million, making Ontario the largest single mushroom producer in Canada.

Ontario now produces about 60 per cent of the total national production followed by British Columbia with 18.5 per cent, Quebec and the Maritimes with 14 per cent, and the Prairie Provinces with 7.5 per cent of the total.

The projected Ontario production for 1977 is 27.5 million pounds, up about five per cent from the previous year. A spurt of growth can be expected next year as many large companies which expanded facilities this year come into full production.

Mushroom farms in Ontario vary considerably in size, ranging from small family operations to large corporations. Five growers with operations of more than 150,000 square feet represent about 45 per cent of the total growing area.

According to Dr. Blom, there are approximately 50 full time mushroom growers in the province with a total growing area of 3.2 million square feet.

Ontario's mushroom industry is primarily located in the Golden Horseshoe area because of its proximity to the large fresh markets. The heaviest concentrations of farms are found in the regions of Peel, York, Halton and Hamilton-Wentworth.

MUSHROOM PRODUCTION INCREASING

Mushroom farms are also located near Leamington, Simcoe, Ottawa and east of Toronto.

Dr. Blom says the historical concentration of mushroom farms near metropolitan areas is due to the product's perishability.

"Fresh market requirements for mushrooms increased 10 per cent between 1975 and 1976, with more than 60 per cent of present production geared to the fresh market."

"Smaller operators cater mainly to the fresh market, which offers the highest returns, while larger operators produce most of their crops for the processing market. Some of the larger farms in Ontario have expanded their operations to include processing facilities."

Commercial production of mushrooms requires substantial capital investments and, according to a 1977 report by the Economics Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, the average cost of production ranges from 60 cents to $1.55 per square foot of area harvested.

The report identifies labour as the most expensive item of input, averaging 40 per cent of the cost per pound of mushrooms produced.

Dr. Blom says approximately 900 people work as full time employees on Ontario mushroom farms. During peak periods this number increases to more than 1100.

Marketing surveys by the Canadian Mushroom Growers' Association report Canadians consume about four pounds of mushrooms per capita each year.

Sour Colostrum

Inexpensive Alternative To Milk Replacer

By Dennis McKnight, Lecturer, K.C.A.T.

If overquota milk is not a common problem, producers will be looking at alternatives for feeding calves. Milk replacers are variable in price and quality and probably add at least $20 to the cost of feeding.

The colostrum produced by the cow in the four days after calving can't be marketed and is usually fed to livestock. If properly preserved it can feed a calf until it can be weaned. Souring or fermenting the colostrum is one method of preservation.

Research at Kemptville College by Drevjany and Irvine has found that the addition of commercially available buttermilk (Streptococcus lactis) ensures correct fermentation under most climatic conditions.

Like any other system, a sour colostrum program requires good management to be successful. The following approach has proven itself at K.C.A.T.:

1(Obtain a 70 litre (1 litre equals .22 gallons) plastic pail, with a lid. Make sure it is disinfected prior to each usage.

2(Feed the calf 1.4 to 1.8 kg per feeding (1 kg equals 2.2 lb.(of fresh colostrum for the first 4 days. Add the excess colostrum to the plastic pail. Add one-quarter litre (1 cup) of buttermilk to the first surplus colostrum. About 50 to 55 kg sour colostrum will be needed to successfully wean a calf.

3(At each feeding mix the contents of the plastic container thoroughly.

4(After day 5, feed the calf 1.2 kg in the a.m. and 1.2 kg in the p.m. of fermented colostrum daily. Add an equivalent amount of hot water to warm it to near body temperature.

5(High quality, palatable calf starter, good hay, and water should be offered to calves after day 5 as well. Starter should contain at least 18 percent protein.

6(When the calf reaches 30 days of age, it should be consuming sufficient calf starter (over .5 kg. daily to allow successful weaning.

There are some other important factors that we believe will contribute to a successful sour colostrum program.

- store the product around 20 degrees C.
- it is best to have containers for the colostrum for each cow and calf.
- switch abruptly from fresh to sour colostrum - don't mix.
- to encourage the intake of starter, offer it by hand for the first few days.
- if it is necessary to switch to another cow's colostrum, or to milk replacer, do it gradually and be careful not to overfeed.

Formalin Tested

Adding a common preservative to a cow's first milk after calving results in a more nutritious stored product for the offspring.

Roy Bush, a calf nutritionist at the Agriculture Canada research station at Fredericton, N.B., is working to provide the most nutritious first feed to calves.

Normally, the cow's first milk -- called colostrum -- is wasted. Because it often contains blood, it is unfit for human consumption. Rather than go to the expense of storing it for the calf, the farmer often discards it. The calf immediately begins eating expensive milk replacers or marketable milk.

Work has already been carried out on the possibility of souring the colostrum with products such as buttermilk or yogurt. This triggers a bacterial action that preserves by souring the colostrum. It can then be kept at room temperature for several weeks and be fed gradually to the calf.

Recent studies now have indicated formalin -- a liquid commonly used for preserving insects and biological specimens -- can be safely added at the rate of 0.1 per cent to the colostrum.

"There is no souring effect visible," Dr. Bush says. "It continues to look and smell like fresh milk. The curds and whey are not separated, as happens during the souring process.

"Our tests showed us that it is a much more nutritious product for the calf than the soured colostrum. Colostrum soured by bacteria undergoes extensive chemical alteration of many constituents. There is much less change in colostrum preserved with formalin."

Tests which started earlier this year are to continue into the fall. Feeding trials will then begin to assess calf performance on the formalin-preserved milk.

Elmer Turns Thirty

Elmer the Safety Elephant celebrates his 30th birthday this fall and Premier Bill Davis presented him with a card and cake at Queen's Park recently. Since 1947, the lovable character has been teaching his traffic safety rules to children. Through his work with the Ontario Safety League and the Canada Safety Council, millions of children have grown up with Elmer and his rules. And yes, the cake had peanut butter filling!

Are You Wasting Fertilizer Money?

By Roger N. Pommainville, Associate Ag. Rep., Russell County

The answer to this question might well be "Yes" if you fertilize without having tested your soil beforehand. Much chemical fertilizer is applied on fields which might require very little due to a build-up of plant nutrient elements by constant applications. Many fields show up as very high in phosphorus and potassium levels and they could stand no or very little fertilizer for several years without adverse effects on the crops grown. But how can you know if your fields are in that category if you do not soil test?

Now is the time to take soil samples in order to plan next year's fertilizer program. A few minutes of your time taking samples in a field might put money in your pocket next year.

The soil sample sent to the Soil Testing Laboratory of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food at the University of Guelph will be your guideline. A soil sample, well representative of your field, when taken according to the right procedures, could indicate quite accurately what is needed by the crop you want to grow in that field. The requirements in nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium as well as limestone if necessary will be indicated on your soil test report. All this is free of charge to Ontario farmers. In today's world, such a bargain is hard to find.

The soil sampling boxes and detailed procedures to take your samples are available from any office of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. After testing, the reports from the University of Guelph are sent back to the corresponding county office where a skilled agrologist from the local staff can interpret the results and recommend the proper application of fertilizer and limestone if deemed necessary. His recommendations will be unbiassed and straight forward since he is not a salesman trying to sell you fertilizer, but rather attempting to maximize your profits through proper management practices.

It is not necessary to sample a field every year, but it should be routinely done every two or three years, or when you change crop in a field since each crop has a different fertilizer requirement and management need. If you are turning a sod crop under or if you apply manure, your fertilizer requirements will correspondingly be decreased due to the organic matter added to the soil. The soil test computer report also takes this in consideration. If for example you add 10 tons of cattle manure per acre (an average application) to a field where corn will be grown, the fertilizer requirements of this crop will be reduced by 50 pounds of nitrogen, 20 pounds of phosphorus and 90 pounds of potassium per acre. The land resource science specialists of the University of Guelph have made numerous experiments with fertilizer rates on different crops to substantiate with facts the recommendations put forward in the soil reports. This is no bull! They are also constantly studying and experimenting their dates to keep up the pace. Revisions are made to the recommendations when research shows that it should be done.

One further important aspect of the report, is the pH reading on the samples. Every modern farmer knows that plants do not thrive well on acid soils, and fertilizer is not utilized fully in acidic conditions. The remedy is an application of limestone when needed. The soil report will tell you how many tonnes per hectare of limestone is required for the particular crop. The agronomist making the recommendation can even tell you if calcitic limestone (containing mainly calcium carbonate) is needed or dolomitic limestone (containing both calcium and magnesium carbonates). If the soil is acid, the addition of more fertilizer without adding limestone will likely worsen the situation. When a crop like alfalfa is to be grown, the pH has to be over 6.0 to attain persistence of the stand - a soil test will indicate how your field fares on the pH scale.

If any or all of the above material has struck you as worth reading, then you should now be convinced that you should soil test. And do not wait after the ground is frozen - it will be too late then.

Embrun Complex Nears Completion

The huge structure that, when completed, will house the busy Embrun Co-Op enterprise will soon be ready for occupancy. Located in the industrial park immediately west of the town, the modern complex is set well back from the highway affording ample parking space.

It is understood the ultra-modern structure will also provide facilities for a beer store. Such a move will most likely result in modernization of the present liquor and beer outlet in town, which it is believed will be transformed into a self-service liquor only store.

Market Price Plummets

Farmers Knee-Deep In $75. Ton Corn

First, the farmers prayed for the rain to stop.

Now the combination of sunny days and frosty mornings is drying silage corn too quickly and producing an excess of grain corn.

And, because of the abundance of grain corn on the market the price is plummeting, says Dundas assistant agriculture representative Howard Giles.

"There's been quite a drop and they (farmers) still have the same costs involved in harvesting the crops," he noted.

Mr. Giles said one farmer told him it cost more to take his crop of corn off the fields than he got for it on the market.

Two years ago dried grain was being bought by local dealers at up to $115 a ton but it's now being bought from the farmer at about $70 to $75 a ton.

Corn silage is harvested when the plant is at full maturity and at its highest moisture content. The whole plant is harvested and cut up into small pieces and then dumped into the silos to be used later for livestock feed.

Grain corn has to be as dry as possible when harvested. Only the kernel is used. Grain corn is used as a concentrated food to fatten livestock and is mixed with the silage.

"It seems to be coming off quite well now," says Mr. Giles. "But there's still quite a few fields too wet to get into." He said most of those fields still under water are not tile drained.

"Another week-and-a-half like today and most of the corn will be off before the snow flies," he added.

The agriculture representative said some farmers in the area won't be able to harvest their corn crops until the ground freezes because of the excessive moisture in the fields.

However, a frozen ground crust has its hazards too. If the machinery breaks through there is still the mud underneath to contend with. And a heavy snowfall would make conditions almost impossible.

Mr. Giles said about 95 per cent of the farmers in Dundas County harvesting corn silage crops have their work completed while only about half the farmers counting on grain and crib corn crops have their harvesting finished.

This year farmers in Eastern Ontario were unable to harvest their silage corn at its peak because of the excessive rainfall. Now the unharvested portion of the corn silage crop is drying out, meaning that corn earmarked for the silos will probably end up as grain corn.

While most of the corn in Eastern Ontario, grain and silage, is grown for use as feed on the farm, farmers who grow grain corn as a cash crop will be losing money when they take their crops to the markets.

Because of the weather conditions, there is just too much of it on the market this year to summons a good price.

Nationview Pilot Project

Language Report Could Lead To French System

CORNWALL—According to a Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education trustee, a report from the French Language program in S.D.&G. schools could lead to a French public school system in the United Counties.

The report, presented at the board's regular meeting here Tuesday night, suggests three types of programs which could be presented to parents and students for their choice. Some of the recommendations would apply only in future years.

The most controversial program, recommending the establishment of a bilingual elementary school in Cornwall where French would be used as the major language of instruction from Grades 1 to 6, would be limited to one urban school. However, if a strong interest in the bilingual program is expressed by parents, the report states that equal opportunity should be made available to rural or small community schools.

Trustee Lloyd Markell told board members they could lose control of the French program if such options were implemented.

"I'm all for French but only as a subject like any other," he said. "We must keep control of this thing or we could wind up losing our system. I've been around too long to be fooled on that one." Although Markell charged the program would be too expensive to maintain, chairman of the Advisory committee Wes Libbey replied funds for the program would be obtained through the Ministry of Education from the federal government. He said French programs offered by the board would put them in a better financial position.

All three programs suggested by the committee would be optional. The main changes in the basic core program were recommendations that the present 20—minute periods be increased to 40—minute duration and that the core program be made available from Grades 1 to 8.

The second program recommends the teaching of an additional subject other than French in the French language. This would be implemented only at the Grades 7 and 8 level and is considered a priority within the French program, the report states.

A pilot project at Nationview Public School is using the second "extended" program at the request of and in consultation with the parents there. The report suggests that if the second program is successful at Nationview, a Geography course in French be offered next year at North Dundas District High School.

The report also offers guidelines on curriculum development and instruction, recommending the appointment of a primary consultant and the extension for the position of co—ordinator from half—time to full time.

M.P. Lumley Urges Liberal Involvement

CORNWALL—Stormont-Dundas Federal Liberal Association members were told they could improve the economic situation of their community by presenting resolutions during the annual national convention of the Liberal party next February.

Liberal MP Ed Lumley, speaking at the association's annual meeting at the Parkway Hotel here Wednesday reminded the association of the three important industries located in the riding. Although pulp and paper, textiles and agriculture are important to the area, he noted that none of the three had prompted resolutions from the S.-D RIDING AT THE LAST CONVENTION.

Mr. Lumley said it is a known fact that 60 per cent of pulp used in Canada is imported from the United States. Perhaps a resolution urging a reforestation policy could be brought before the national convention, he suggested.

Another equally important issue, placing quotas on textiles, could also be presented, he said, adding that such measures by the association could be instrumental in improving economic conditions.

Mr. Lumley, who said he has not decided whether he will contest the next federal election, urged Liberal supporters at the meeting to get involved in their association. He said a successful organization depends on involvement at all times, and not just during elections.

Recently appointed parliamentary secretary to finance minister Jean Chretien, Mr. Lumley said his experiences during the past few weeks have been more valuable than the past three years he has been involved in politics at the federal level.

Russell Senior Citizens Officially Open Centre

Russell senior citizens officially opened their bright new hall last Saturday afternoon with many dignitaries present to offer congratulations and bring greetings from their respective governments, municipalities and churches.

But the story of the busy, thriving organization began many months ago, and was actually the direct result of a timely television presentation featuring senior citizens and the valuable role they play in society. Mrs. Cuthbert Smith was watching the program on a chill February night in 1975, and almost immediately went into action. Why not, she wondered, such a group functioning right in her own home town, and in the weeks to come she contacted various government offices seeking information.

"Much credit for getting us off on the right foot in those formative stages", she said, "must go to our dedicated M.P.P. Albert Belanger.

"Thanks to his efforts," relates the lady who now serves as club president, "we received an 'Action Grant' amounting to $400.00 and the organization became a reality."

With this encouragement it was only a matter of time till the organization began to grow, and soon found one of the main obstacles was finding a suitable place to meet. "A place", smiles Mrs. Smith, "that we could call home."

HOLE IN THE GROUND

The search began, but it was soon evident the only place available was what the Rev. Mr. Lamble called "the hole in the ground under the church". Mr. Lamble, who serves Anglican charges not only at Russell but also Metcalfe, Vernon, and Edwards, willingly co-operated with the ambitious seniors, and the next step was finding a means to finance a monumental construction project.

It was at this stage another elected representative was approached. M.P. Denis Ethier responded with his usual promptness and soon forms were being completed on applications for a New Horizons Grant. From that point the busy men and women never looked back. Chantel Developments, a local construction firm, following months of work transformed the 'hole in the ground' into a bright, modern hall which Russell senior citizens now are proud to call 'Home'.

OFFICIALLY OPEN

Last Saturday afternoon, with the centre filled to capacity, club treasurer, Mrs. Orten Harrison, reported that, thanks to Mr. Ethier's efforts, grants amounting to $21,094.00 had been received from the Federal Government and it was fitting that the popular M.P. was called on to cut the traditional ribbon.

Mrs. Smith chaired the delightful program and drew attention to the many hours of volunteer labour so willingly offered by club members. David Turley of Metcalfe, son of a former Russell Anglican clergyman, was present for the occasion and, with Mrs. Leila Twiname at the piano, sang "Bless This House".

GREETINGS FROM BISHOP

Most Rev. Archbishop W.W. Davies of Ottawa told those present he was pleased his church, which is so diligently served by Rev. Lamble, was able to offer help to such a worthy group. He recalled having visited Russell many years ago, and congratulated senior citizens for making such a valuable contribution to the community.

Rev. Leonard Woolfrey brought greetings from the United Church, and Father Minvielle emphasized the ecumeninity that exists among such organizations.

Russell township reeve Gaston Patenaude also congratulated the enthusiastic organization telling members his council was always eager to offer assistance wherever possible.

Club director Elwood Cochrane responded on behalf of all senior citizens and issued an invitation to everyone in the community to enjoy the new facilities.

"You're always welcome", he concluded.

Following official opening of their new centre Russell senior citizens' executive members and dignitaries are pictured on the church steps.

New Bridge In 30 Days

A bridge spanning the Castor River at Kenmore collapsed under a truck, loaded with gravel, on September 26th. One month later, thanks to the efficiency of Osgoode Township Council, traffic was flowing smoothly over a new span capable of carrying a load of 90 tons.

"We sliced relentlessly at the red tape in this instance", says Reeve Al Bouwers, "and not only replaced the bridge in record time but drastically reduced costs at the same time."

It had been originally estimated replacing the span would cost the township approximately $100,000. The actual cost, according to Mr. Bouwers, will only be one quarter of that amount.

While village councillors have no intention of starting an office rental business in the town's proposed civic building, the possibility that extra office space would pay for itself in six to seven years through rental fees persuaded the townfathers to explore the matter further.

A report from architect Harold Clow, who was hired recently by council to design the new complex, gave council a choice of a building with either two or four offices which would be available for rental. While the two-office design would be less costly, the architect pointed out that rental fees from the extra two offices incorporated into an alternate design would probably pay for any additional construction cost within six or seven years.

The first design presented by the architect would allow space for council chambers and two extra offices on the second floor of the two-storey building. An alternate design would see the location of council chambers on the ground floor of the building with the entire second floor devoted to office rental space.

Although councillors felt the two-office design would be adequate to provide for any future expansion by the municipality itself, they agreed the possibility of extra income from the larger design should be investigated. Councillor Jim Helmer noted that public reaction to the proposed complex had been "very positive."

"I don't think the public would mind the extra cost," he said. Reeve Larry Gray suggested several potential tenants for the extra space, including government and private agencies. He said he would anticipate no difficulty in keeping the offices occupied.

Dump Truck Drivers Get A Head Start

TORONTO—Dump vehicle operators will be able to obtain their vehicle inspection stickers for the next inspection period as early as November 1, two months before the January 1 deadline, Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow said today.

Snow explained that under the Highway Traffic Act, commercial motor vehicles used for the transportation and dumping or spreading of sand, gravel, earth, crushed or uncut rock, slag, rubble, salt, calcium chloride, snow, ice or any mixture thereof, asphalt mixes or scrap metal, are required to undergo twice-annual inspections and to display a windshield sticker as evidence of compliance.

Inspection of dump vehicles is carried out by any of the more than 4,000 Motor Vehicle Inspection Stations licensed to inspect heavy vehicles in Ontario. These stations, which include service stations, dealerships and service garages, display a green and white official sign.

Snow urged dump vehicle operators to arrange for an early inspection of their trucks to avoid the inconvenience of last-minute lineups and delays.

"The November 1 date gives operators a two-month head start to get their inspection stickers," he said, "and, perhaps, this could be done when the trucks are taken in for repair or routine servicing."

Electronic Hansard In Parliament

WALTER BAKER, M.P.
GRENVILLE—CARLETON
OPPOSITION HOUSE LEADER
REPORTS TO GRENVILLE-CARLETON

As this column is being prepared, we are in the middle of the second week in the new session of Parliament when all of the proceedings are being covered by television and radio - the new electronic Hansard.

This achievement is the culmination of eight long years of work and study by successive committees. Apart from the level of lighting and the heat in the Chamber as a result of extra lighting, this new method of recording has been judged a success by Members of Parliament and by those who regularly contribute to the reporting of our proceedings by more conventional methods. The level of lighting and the heat level are controllable and these conditions will change as time goes on.

Cable television subscribers with converters can watch the whole proceeding in the House of Commons on Channel 16. In addition, on ordinary Channel 12 at approximately 11:30 each night (T.V. Ontario), the whole of the Question Period is broadcast on Television and other cable television subscribers in other metropolitan areas across the Country are able to view it as well. In fact, distribution is becoming a major problem.

It is difficult to say how long the public interest will be held but for the sake of the understanding of the Institution, all of us hope that it will continue and indeed grow. The eventual plan calls for cable distribution for the whole of the proceedings across Canada and the experiment in the National Capital Region by our own cable companies, Ottawa Cablevision and Skyline Cablevision, are being studied with great interest.

A poll by a Toronto Cable Company indicated that 94 per cent of those responding (some 800) wanted to be able to view the entire Parliamentary proceedings! The Parliament of Canada is the first national legislative body in the world to take all of the steps that have been taken in Ottawa.

The effect of this on columnists, news writers, television commentators and others still remains to be seen and evaluated.

Before television and radio, the public looked in great measure to interpretive journalists for what is happening in Parliament and how people are performing. They can now see for themselves and I have received complaints of a commentator's views being substituted for Members' words. There is a general desire that the Member of Parliament be heard to say it for himself or herself.

I believe that the presence of the camera has raised the tone of conduct in the House and, if the Throne Speech Debate is any indication, debate has improved. Committees will be televised as well and that opens a whole new dimension. It is not intended that Parliament control the use by media of the electronic recording of its proceedings. The media can pick and choose what it wants to use. That general principle which applies to Hansard is sound. To do otherwise would be to distort the House and be an attempt at controlling the press.

The intention of the Members of the Special Committee on Broadcasting of the House, which I have the honour to be one, is that Parliament be reported as it is and not as theatre pure and simple.

There are many hurdles to master but I am pleased to report that the approach of Parliamentarians has been non-partisan thus far and as the list of radio and cable television subscribers increases, people will be in a better position across the Country to make judgments on who is a good parliamentarian and who is not; who can speak and who cannot and all of this is important in a democracy.

In closing, I would like to commend the CBC team who are our technical advisers under the leadership of Mr. J.E. Landsburg and the Department of Public Works' team under the direction of Mr. Robert C. Calvert for doing the impossible in such a short period of time and under such difficult conditions. The fact that television and radio broadcasting facilities were available and the House itself restored on the opening day will be remembered as a tribute to them and to those who worked with them.

Legion Marks Jubilee

Dominion Command of The Royal Canadian Legion announced today that a special silver plaque has been presented to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II on the occasion of her Silver Jubilee.

The plaque, uniquely Canadian in design and materials, was fashioned in different parts of Canada by skilled artisans. It is in the shape of a maple leaf, the emblem of Canada. It incorporates the official badge of The Royal Canadian Legion which symbolizes its continuing link with the Crown. The message of renewed loyalty to Her Majesty is set in "Cartier" type-face which is a Canadian design.

The maple leaf is mounted on a base of solid bird's-eye maple, a distinctive Canadian wood.

The Royal Canadian Legion has over a half-million members in its 1,800 branches across Canada.

Synod Executive Discusses TV's Effect On Children

The Fall Executive Meeting of the Synodical Society of Quebec and Eastern Ontario (Presbyterian Church) was held in Erskine Church, Ottawa, where the morning theme was "Continuing in His Power" and the afternoon one "Be Thankful Unto Him and Bless His Name".

Miss Dorothy Dodds, President, constituted the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. A. Pattison of Ottawa led the morning devotion of thanksgiving, exhorting us to be thankful not only for the blessings of this life, but also for the hardships which help us to grow in faith.

Miss Sanddra Eastabrooks spoke of the Ottawa Community Centre outlining the effort being made to help newcomers to Ottawa who have nowhere to live, welcoming transients and reaching out to neighbourhood rooming houses and apartments. Their aim is to find Christ's plan for these people as they try to live together in love.

Two reviews of resource books for the 1978 Mission Study were given. The first "Making Mission Happen", was presented by Mrs. L.J. Cowper of Spencerville, Ontario, and the second "Picture the People of the Caribbean", by Mrs. H.J. Runge of Ottawa.

Current topics such as Television and its effect on children; sports which take place on Sunday; Native Peoples and their rights as human beings which should be our concern; Canadian Unity, which must commence with Unity in Christ, in the Home and in the Church, were discussed and submitted to us for study in our groups.

The closing worship was led by Miss A. Morrison, Quebec Presbyterial.

Farmland Squeezed Out

OTTAWA—New data demonstrating the critical importance of farmland near major cities is contained in a study released today by Len Marchand, Minister of State for the Environment.

The study, entitled "Agricultural Land and urban Centres," published for the Department's Lands Directorate, is part of a continuing series aimed at encouraging sound use of the land resource.

Although the urban influence on Canada's best farmland has been apparent for some time, the study provides hard data to support the concerns. It shows that more than half of Canada's best (class 1) agricultural land and more than one third of class 2 land are within a 50-mile radius of the country's 22 largest cities. This area also accounted for 46 per cent of the total value of Canada's agricultural production in 1971.

Because it is within direct commuting distance of major population centres, this high quality land is under considerable pressure from the demand for rural residences, hobby farms, cottages, recreational resorts, businesses, and investment and speculative holdings.

An earlier report in the Canada Land Inventory series, released in July 1976, focused on the scarcity of prime agricultural land in all regions. It revealed that only 10 per cent of settled Canada is suitable for farming, and that only one-half of one per cent of this can be classified as prime land. The implications of its location are examined in the newest report.

Copies of "Agricultural Land and Urban Centres" are available free of charge, from the Lands Directorate, Fisheries and Environment Canada, Ottawa. K1A 0E7.
