HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Horticulturists' Annual

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society was held in the Town Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 6th.

Mr. John Clark, of Toronto, gave a very instructive address illustrated with lantern slides. Both the address and the pictures were voted by the audience to be the best that have been given in connection with this work.

In the absence of the president, Mr. E. C Barwick, the chair was ably filled by second vice president, Mr. G. J. Hunt.

In presenting the report of the year's work, the secretary spoke particularly of the flower bed at the corner of Queen and Main streets which is the work of the Society and has added so much to the appearance of the village.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Mr. G. J .Hunt.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. G. C. Lacey.
Second Vice-Pres. — Mrs. Mary Hughes.
Directors—Miss E. McGee, Mrs. M. Durant, Miss E. Harrison, Mr. W. N. Fulton, Mrs. G. C. Lacey, Mrs. W. M. Saucier, Mr. O. L. King, Mrs. O. D. Casselman, Mr. Geo. Reaburn, Mr. A. W. Kimpton.
Auditors—Mr. C. W. Casselman & Mr. W. N. Fulton.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss Helen Moad.

C. O. V. Junior League Has Only Three Clubs

At a meeting of the Central Ottawa Valley Junior Hockey League held in Morewood, Chesterville and Morewood of last season's clubs were the only ones to have representatives at the meeting, Finch and Winchester failing to make an appearance. An endeavour was made to get in touch with the latter two but nothing definite could be learned of their intentions.

After winding up the business of last season, an application from Russell for a franchise in the Junior loop was favourably considered, and the league will therefore operate as a three-team circuit.

To eliminate a lot of trouble which has cropped up at the close of former seasons, it was decreed that all players taking part in scheduled games would only be eigible on producing the standard birth certificate as issued from Queen's Park, Toronto.

Magistrate Defers Decision

Claiming that she received painful cuts on her hands when she sought to protect herself against a man armed with a circular saw, Mrs. William McDonald ,of Winchester Springs, appeared as the complainant in a case of assault against John Barkley of Williamsburg, when the matter came to trial before Magistrate John McCormick, at Morrisburg on Friday. Magistrate McCormick reserved decision, pointing out that the evidence was of a contradictory nature.

According to the story related in court by Mrs. McDonald, Barkley, her husband and her husband's brother are joint owners of a saw mill at Winchester Springs. On October 24, Mrs. McDonald claimed, Barkley came to her home in the absence of her husband, William McDonald, and demanded the keys to the sawmill. When she told him that she knew nothing of the keys, Barkley used strong language and threatened to enter the house to look for the keys. Mrs. McDonald alleged. She refused him entrance and he went to the saw mill and smashed a lock from the door.

Mrs. McDonald said that she followed Barkley to the mill and went inside. He told her to get out but she refused. Barkley then told her he would make her get out and picked up a circular saw blade which was standing nearby. He started toward her and she threw up her hands to protect herself. As she did so, her fingers came into contact with the teeth of the blade.

A doctor testified that while Mrs. McDonald had suffered two cuts, each of which had required one stitch to close the wounds were not serious.

Mr. Barkley, on the stand in his own defence, denied the evidence given by Mrs. McDonald in every detail.

Produce Warehouse Burned At Morrisburg Saturday

The large frame warehouse of the Morrisburg Feed and Produce Company near the C. N. R. tracks at Morrisburg was entirely destroyed by fire about midnight Saturday last with a loss estimated in the neighbourhood of $20,000, part of which is covered by inisurance. Although the origin of the fire is not known, it is believed to have started in the basement and had gained considerable headway before being noticed by the gateman at the level crossing, who gave the alarm.

Bill Tate Clips Record For Third Win of Road Race

For the third succesive year Bill Tate on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, in Ottawa, won the New Edinburgh Community Club road race, completing the trifle less than nine miles in 42½ minutes, three minutes under the record for the course. The handsome cup now becomes the property of Bill Tate.

Mrs. Eliza Rose, Winchester

After a short illness another one of Winchester's old residents passed to her reward on Thursday, November 6, in her 83rd year.

Forty-four years ago her husband, the late Charles Rose, of Van Camps, passed away, leaving her with seven children, the oldest of whom was fifteen years of age. These she brought up and educated, one of the sons being Dr. Bruce Rose, a professor of Queen's University.

Besides being a great woman in her home, the late Mrs. Rose was a true friend and, in her quiet, unassuming way, served God and her neighbours. As long as she was able she attended the services of the Church.

On Saturday, at two p.m., the funeral cortege proceeded from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mill, where she had lived for some time, to the United churh, wnere her pastor, Rev. J. A. Waddell, paid fitting tribute to her from the text:"I have finished the work Thou gavest me to do." He was assisted in the service by Rev.'s W. D. Turner and J. Ostrom. Miss Annie Walker also brought a message of comfort in her solo. Interment was made at Van Camps cemetery.

Toronto Man Killed Near Morrisburg

Robert Kent Campbell, of Toronto, was instantly killed at 11.30 Saturday morning when the car in which he was a passenger turned over on the King's highway just west of Morrisburg. The accident occurred as the result of a blowout. With Mr. Campbell in the car were Mrs. Campbell and Mr. and S. H. Dickinson, also of Toronto. The party was enroute to Montreal.

When the tire blew out, Mrs. Dickinson, who was driving, applied the brakes but this only assisted the car in its plunge toward the ditch. Mr. Campbell was thrown through the top, alighting on his head on the pavement.

The remaining occupants of the car suffered minor bruises and cuts. They were taken to the home of Amon McConnell, where they remained until Sunday morning.

An inquest was not considered necessary by Coroner Dr. P. G. Mulloy and Mr. Campbell's body was shipped to Toronto on Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Dickinson. Mr. Dickinson drove the car, which was only slightly damaged, back to Toronto.

Chesterville United W.M.S.

The W. M. S. of Chesterville United church, met in the Sunday School Hall with a goodly number present.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn after the Lord's Prayer being repeated in unison.

Arrangements were completed for the Thankoffering service and other business attended to.

Mrs. I. Cross gave a splendid paper on Christian Stewardship.

Mrs. Max Smith was in charge of the study book and was assisted by several of the members.

The meeting closed by the members answering the roll call on the meaning of prayer.

Hockey Along the Front Banned as Outlaw League

With a view to giving clubs and leagues affiliated with the Ottawa and District Hockey Association, which in turn is affiliated with the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, players taking part in games of the St. Lawrence League this season will be reported to the parent body and their cards held up in the same manner as of those who have jumped to the professional ranks and failed to make good, then sought to reënter amateur ranks.

The St. Lawrence league is a good circuit and so situated that a schedule can be carried out at the minimum of travelling expense when the highways are kept clear of snow, and the trips made by motor all winter, but whether they can buck the powers that be in amateurism is another question. Unless they bow to the authorities, all players taking part in the coming season's play will lose their amateur standing, and if the clubs find the road rocky and become affiliated next season, all of this season's players will find themselves replaced by boys who can qualify as amateurs and come under the residence rule.

D'Esterre---Bogart

One of the most interesting Autumn weddings was quietly solemnized at seven o'clock Monday evening at McLeod United church, of Edna Margaret, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bogart, to Reginald Havelock, son of Mrs. d'Esterre, of Toronto, and the late Robert J. d'Esterre. Rev. Clark F. Logan officiated.

Mr. Cyril J. Rickwood presided at the organ, and Mr. T G. Stratton sang "O Promise Me" very effectively.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Harold B. Bogart, and was attended by her sister, Miss Eileen Bogart, as maid-of-honour. Mr. Leonard Thomas was an usher.

The bride was daintily gowned in miniature pink French chiffon made on long graceful lines and wore a brown felt hat to match. She carried Butterfly roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaid was pretty in Lucerne blue chiffon with a black velvet hat, and carried Pernet roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. d'Esterre left later for a motor trip.

The bride travelled in a green Rodier tweed suit with hat to match, and an imported broadtail coat with beaver trimmings.

They will take up residence in Toronto on their return.

Out-of-town guests were—Mrs. A. d'Esterre, Dr. and Mrs. F .Elgerton, all of Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Brown, Miss Edith and William Brown, Miss Eileen Bogart, all of Kingston.

Flynn Hotel Stables Burned In Tuesday Noonday Blaze

Tuesday at 12.15 p.m., fire was discovered making headway in the stables of the Flynn hotel in this town and before getting under control had burned the building and contents, and caused several hundred dollars damage to the residence of Mrs. J. G. Tate, about twelve feet distant to the north. Flying embers started a blaze on the roof of the sheds at the rear of the Anglican church on Queen street, which was extinguished without damage.

The blaze is believed to have been the result of a carelessly-thrown cigarette butt alighting on a wheelbarrow under the feed chute from the hay mow. The flames quickly mounted to the hay above and spreading rapidly had soon burst through the roof at the end of the building facing Main street, and endangering Mrs. Tate's residence. Two lines of hose were quickly laid and came into play just as the flames were making considerable headway under the eaves of the dwelling. It was only by hard and persistent work that the Tate home was saved from destruction, after the contents had been removed to safety and later stored in the Fraternities building opposite.

With two streams playing from Main street, a third line of hose was laid from Queen street near LaSalle's garage which, with the good water pressure maintained throughout, kept the flames from reaching nearby buildings and after about an hour and a half of stiff work had them subdued, although the hay and feed continued to burn for some time.

An Excellent Concert

The Ladies' Aid of Chesterville United church was responsible Monday night for introducing to a local audience the Masonic quartette of Ottawa, in a programme of song that has not been equalled here at any time. With selections appealing to all moods and tastes, the two hours of quartettes, trios, duets, and solos raised the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm, which the artists quickly sensed and maintained throughout, reaching a climax in the vocal debate between the tenor, Mr. White, and the baritone, Mr. McKenna; "Lucky Jim," by the quartette; "Captain Mack," by Dr. Williams; "The Roses of Picardy," by Mr. Merryweather. Mr. Percy Rutledge contributed two highly appreciated instrumental selections.

Father Finds Premonition Of Son's Death True

Warner Barrie 34, was killed on his farm 10 miles from Arnprior Saturday when a rifle bullet, discharged in an undetermined manner, penetrated his right lung and came out under his left ear.

Joseph Barrie, his father, with a hunting party on White Lake, dreamed Friday night that his son was in trouble and immediately started for home, arriving shortly after the body was found.

News and Information For the Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Increased Potato Crop.

Notwithstanding dry weather conditions throughout most of the potato producing districts of Canada, and the development of late blight in certain sections, the final estimate indicates a total yield of over 47 million cwt., or an increase of ten per cent over last year's crop. Ontario's share will be 11,250,000 cwt.

Housewife is Interested.

That an enthusiastic repsonse is being given by the city buyer to the Ontario Government's "Use Ontario Products" campaign is shown by the flood of letters reecived from listeners-in to the daily broadcast of the Department of Agriculture from station CFRB, Toronto. These short daily talks which are addressed to the city and town housewife, discuss market conditions and prices, ways of utilizing Ontario farm produce, and, in general, aim at arousing interest in farm produce from Ontario farms.

Three Years Show Progress.

Can good potatoes be grown in Ontario? The Central Ontario Potato Growers are showing that this province can produce potatoes which need not take second place to those from any other province. The association is demanding a premium for their "Tee-Pee" brand over New Brunswicks, and is securing a ready market that seems extremely pleased with the quality offered. The situation today stands out in decided contrast with the conditions of three years ago when eastern carload shipments invariably sold above locally grown stocks.

Royal Party For Girls.

As in the case of the Royal 500 Party for farm boys in previous years, the chief object of the Royal Fair trip sponsored by the Department for representative girls from each county is to provide opportunities and privileges which would otherwise be unavailable. They will visit all sections of the fair and witness interesting portions of ring programmes. In addition, visits will be made to educational institutions, manufacturing plants, and retail centres which will be of particular interest and value to rural girls. The Department hopes that the trip will establish ideals on the part of the girls concerned and enable them to return home and introduce improvements and methods which will add to the efficiency and comfort of the farm home. The Department is providing railway fare, lodging accommodation, and meals.

Raised 2,000 Turkeys.

In its effort to promote the profitable raising of turkeys, the Ontario Government established a turkey farm in the County of Norfolk. The object was to show that birds of this variety can be raised with profit. The experiment has proven quite successful. This year more than 2,000 turkeys were hatched and raised on the farm. A short time ago one thousand of them were sold at 30 cents per pound. What is possible on the Norfolk farm is equally so on other farms in the province. Turkeys can be raised and sold profitably at a much lower price than that demanded about Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Window Display of Ontario Farm Products.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has a large programme mapped out, planned to extend the demand for Ontario farm products in the cities and towns of Ontario. A new feature of this programme will be a window-dressing display for the retail merchants of Ontario cities. This display will consist of Ontario farm produce alone and is planned to interest the Ontario housewife as well as the retail merchant. Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded. Local city organizations will assist the Government by looking after the details of the contest in each city, it is expected that judging of the window displays will take place on or about November 15. The Royal Winter Fair is co-operating with the Department in conducting this contest.

A Timely Address.

Addressing the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club, W. R. Reek, superintendent of the Ridgetown Experimental Farm, predicted that when the present period of depression and reduced prices for farm products had passed, about ten per cent of those in the agricultural industry whom he described as "fair weather farmers" would be out of business, while the farmers who weather the storm would be thinking more seriously than they have in the past. He declared that it takes periods of depression to make farmers realize the importance of culling their unprofitable cows from their herds and the boarder hens from their flocks. He criticized the doctrine of reduced farm production, at the same time advising that the farmer should endeavour to produce just as much grain on a smaller acreage and devote the other land to production of roughage and pasture.

Preparing Turkeys.

Turkey growers are now beginning to finish or fatten their birds for the Christmas holidays. It is customary to begin the process of preparinig the luscious turkeys for the nation's festive dinner tables by feeding them small amounts of grain which gradually are increased until the birds are on full feed. Due to the large supply of wheat available, this grain should be used to advantage in the fattening ration. Wheat has nearly the same fattening qualities as corn, but does not produce the rich yellow colour of flesh that yellow corn does. It is important, however, that all grains be free from moldiness and they should be fed in hoppers to counteract certain diseases that cause heavy loss. Do not confine turkeys for fattening, especially if they have run on a range, for range birds cannot stand confinement.

Plans to Aid Farmers.

Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, announced in a recent address that the Ferguson Government through the Department proposes in the next few years to spend more money for the benefit of Ontario farmers than ever before in the province's history. He stated further that within five years it was hoped to dot the province with high schools teaching scientific agriculture and domestic science, similar to the one at Ridgetown. A survey would also be made of the province to determine what was grown for export and what was purchased, in order to increase farmers' revenues. Another proposal to which effect had already been given, was the spending of more of the Department's appropriation on marketing, in discovering and holding direct markets for the produce of Ontario farmers.

Weekly Crop Report.

According to the weekly reports of the agricultural representatives, fall work is well advenced in many parts of the province. In a few counties from 75 to 80 per cent of the fall ploughing is completed, while in others not over 50 per cent has been done. In Eastern Ontario there seems to be an increased interest in drainage. In several counties it is reported, that many farmers are taking advantage of the ideal weather conditions to clean out and open up satisfactory ditches.

The report deals for the greater part with the difficulty experienced by farmers in ploughing. Bruce County a snow a short time ago which left the ground in good condition but the dryness has been a serious handicap. In Dundas the milk supply took a thirty per cent drop in one week. A yield of 8½ tons per acre of sugar beets is reported from Essex, while Lambton states that the crop is above the average of the past three years.

Bride-to-be Honoured

A most enjoyable and delightfully arranged shower was held Saturday evening by Miss Alice Campbell at her residence, the Hotel, Finch, in honour of Miss Leila McConnell, B.A., whose marriage takes place the early part of December.

The guests were graciously received by Mrs. J. T. Campbell and daughter, Miss Eileen Campbell. The living room was tastefully decorated in white and yellow, with a large white bell hanging over a carefully decorated table.

The bride was ushered into the room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march by Miss Merle Flynn assisted by Miss Campbell amidst showers of confetti. The gifts were then presented by little Miss Shirley and Master Reggie MacLean dressed as bride and groom.

After thanks were graciously rendered by Miss McConnell, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. T. Campbell, Mrs. H. Ouderkirk, and Mrs. K. McLean.

Finch Starts Gold Rush

Discovery of outcroppings of quartz, closely resembling gold-bearing ore, along the banks of the Payne river at Finch has led to a miniature gold rush. 80 acres of farm land lying in and near Finch have been staked out by residents of Finch who have caught the gold fever and a considerable quantity of the ore has been taken out for assay purposes.

Several old time prospectors in the district have examined the quartz and have given varying opinions. One or two believe that it contains a small percentage of gold and strong indications of copper. Others declare that the yellow flakes which gleam from the rock fragments are merely iron pyrites or fool's gold.

Made in Spring.

The actual discovery of the rich-looking quartz was made last Spring when two Finch men were trapping along the Payne river, after a flood. In their ramblings they found a huge rock across the face of which was a wide vein of yellow metal. They thought little of the discovery at the time but later chanced to mention the find to acquaintances.

A casual examination led these men to conduct a more thorough investigation, much of which was carried on in strict secrecy and under cover of darkness. Finally convinced that the rock actually contained gold, the men applied for miners' rights and have secured permission to stake claims. One of the main veins uncovered so far is 13 inches in width and has been uncovered for a distances of almost 20 feet.

The outcroppings run from the Payne river westward toward the village of Finch.

Two claims have been staked and recorded to date in the name of A. D. McIntosh, of Finch. Both are of 40 acres, one is northeast of the village while number two takes in almost one-half of the area covered by Finch village. While the claims are in the name of Mr. McIntosh he is associated in the mining enterprise with Earl N. Bicks and James Humes, original discoverers of the outcroppings, and W. McIntosh, residents of Finch.

Find other Signs.

It is reported that well diggers on the farm of Lloyd McMillan, three miles from Finch, discovered signs of quartz similar to that on the McIntosh claims.

"We do not know definitely whether the claim is worth anything or not," Mr. McIntosh says. "We sent a few samples to an independent assayer at Ottawa and he reports faint indications of gold and copper. Further samples are being sent out this week and we expect a definite report by the end of the week."

Earl N. Bicks, when interviewed, said that he had known of the presence of the yellow ore at Finch for 17 years but had never made a close examination of the outcroppings.

Distant Exhibits at Ottawa Winter Fair

Exhibits of livestock, poultry, seeds and potatoes from no less than seven Provinces of the Dominion are assured for the Ottawa Winter Fair, which is being held in the huge Coliseum at the Exhibition Grounds, Ottawa, December 1 to 5, inclusive, with the receipt of many entries from both near and distant points by secretary Jno. W. Brant.

Word has just been received that a group of farmers in Prince Edward Island will have exhibits of seed grain and potatoes while, from the West, Clydesdale and Percheron entries have been sent by Saskatchewan breeders. Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia will be well represented as usual. This will be the first occasion, however, on which Prince Edward Island seed and potatoes will compete at the Ottawa Winter Fair. It is also noteworthy that various new exhibitors are coming forward from Eastern Ontario and Quebec, one of the new-comers being C. A. Beach, well-known Shorthorn breeders of Cornwall.

Arrangements for the special ring attractions have been completed and these will round out a splendid programme. His Excellency, the Governor- General, has extended his official patronage to the Fair and the crack Household Band of the Governor General's Foot Guards will be in attendance. More than $25,000 is offered in prizes. It should be remembered that entries close November 22, with secretary, J. W. Brant, Ottawa Winter Fair, 66 Queen street, Ottawa.

Then He Slept.

He had never struck such a stuffy hotel in his life. In vain did he try to sleep. It was useless. He had endeavoured to open the windows before going to bed, but found them all sealed. He tossed and turned. At last, in desperation, he got out of bed, wrapped a blanket around his hand, and smashed a window. Then he breathed deeply, got back to bed, and fell into a deep and refreshing sleep. Next morning he had to pay $3.00 for smashing the front of the wardrobe.

—o—

An old Scottish woman, who had never been known to say an ill word about anybody, was one day taken to task by her husband.

"Janet," he said impatiently, "I do believe ye'd say a guid word for the de'il himself."

"Ah, well," was the reply, "he may no be sae guid as he might be, but he's a very industrious body."

The Tuberculin Test

To the Eidtor, Chesterville Record.

Sir:—

Replying to "Chesterville Dairyman" re the Tuberclin test, in your issue of the 4th inst. we appreciate the letter as it is the only publicity our newspapers have given our very large meeting which was supported by 1597 signatures against the Tuberculin test.

We thank "Chesterville Dairyman" for the information that the TEST in this district has already cost the Taxpayer $172,659 in compensation and, if completed in this District, would cost approximately $622,000 and this is ONLY compensation. Then have to add the price of the "Tuberculin," the testers' pay, and the many incidental costs, to say nothing about the danger to human life, abortion, sterility, then "No Market" the old cry, overproduction, after a loss of over a cold million dollars.

Will "Chesterville Dairyman" supply us with further facts—How many deaths have been caused by Tuberculin test? (Vital statistics give them.)

Has a single life been saved? (There is no proof of a single one.)

Was Koch ever on a farm?

Why has the human death rate from Tuberculosis increased so terribly during the last forty years in Massachusetts as the same State has been the pioneer and for nearly forty years a Tuberculin Test State?

Where is there a restricted area in any better financial condition than our District?

Now, Sir: Some forty years ago, England removed forced vaccination and millions took advantage of it, the exemption, and the Minister of Health announced the decrease of deaths from Tuberculosis during that period as approximately 75 per cent.

We find no benefit from the Tuberculin test, except that of the pay roll for Officialdom and the Manufacturer of tuberculin.

The reference to Judge Kipler shows that he could not be bought or scared by the A. M. A., Officialdom or the Manufacturers, but gave a just verdict for the people who elected him. Then the Officials, viz.—those already mentioned and including Mr. M G. Thornbury, go directly opposite to the wishes of the people. Anyway, what does the U. S. do with murderers and bandits? Not hang them.

What is behind all this bally-ho in favour of the Tuberculin test? We have no desire to restrain "Chesterville Dairyman" from shipping his milk or cream to the only two Anti-Farmer cities in Canada, we are not, as yet, forced to buy from either city.

Thanking you for your generous space, yours truly.

"Member of Chesterville Live Stock Association."

Chesterville, November 10th, 1930.

TREATMENT

The treatment of disease, in many cases, represents an attempt to deal with a condition which should never have occurred, because it could have been prevented.

When illness does occur, treatment should be secured. That is not the time to discuss prevention. Early treatment very often will prevent the development of more serious conditions.

In practically every case of advanced disease, the case will have passed through a period when the disease was not severe or serious. If such cases had been properly treated during this early mild stage, much would have been accomplished in the prevention of the severe later stages.

One of the conditions which exists today and which results in a tremendous amount of suffering is the attempt made by people to treat themselves.

Proper treatment cannot be described without knowing what the condition it is desired to treat. A diagnosis must always precede treatment. Diagnosis of disease is the most important service the physician gives his patient. The individual thinks that the symptom is nothing important, merely a little indigestion, biliousness or some such condition, and then he prescribes for himself, thinking that he knows what is wrong with him. This is merely guess work, however. What he should do is to consult his doctor, who, after having made a diagnosis, will prescribe whatever means are available to deal with that particular condition.

It is comparatively easy to diagnose an acute or advanced case of illness, but diagnosis is difficult in the early stages. In other words, the untrained person is attempting to do the more difficult thing, and it is only when he is very ill that he calls in his doctor. People still say that they are "sick enough to have a doctor."

Every minor illness does not lead to an acute serious condition, but there are tremendous numbers of adults coming to their physicians for the first time, seeking relief for well-advanced heart, kidney, or other similar disease. They come to the physician at a time when medical science can do little for them. In the early stages of the condition, they dosed themselves with this or that because someone had told them that it was good, and the result is that they missed the help of medical science when it might have done a great deal for them.

The more that people make use of their physicians for bringing to their aid the benefits of medical science early in disease, the less often will they call upon them to treat the long, drawn-out serious conditions that grow out of the improperly treated or neglected illnesses which are thought to be of little or no importance, and about which it is not necessary to secure advice.

In order to secure the most from medical science, have a health examination once a year as an aid to keeping well.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

The Very Difference.

The young couple had been married just one year. Eventually the time came when the wife noticed that her husband no longer helped her in the little things about the house.

"You don't seem to love me as much as you did when we were first married," she said one morning, just as breakfast had been cleared away.

The young husband looked up wonderingy at his wife.

"Whatever makes you think that, dear?" he asked.

"Well, at one time you used to get up and light the fire," she explained. "Now you let me do it."

Her husband burst into a roar of laughter.

"But, my dear Betty," he said, "the fact that you get up and light the fire makes me love you all the more."

Our Ottawa Letter

OTTAWA, Nov. 12th, 1930.—The establishment of stable markets for the products of Canadian farms—agriculture and livestock—presents the most important and, in many respects, the most difficult problem confronting Canada today.

At the present time the marketing end of the problem is being attacked by the Departments of Finance and Trade and Commerce. The Finance Department is endeavouring, through tariff adjustments, to build up the home market and at the same time to conserve it for the benefit of the Canadian farmer. The first move in that direction was made in September. Steps are now being taken in gathering information upon which more widespread plans will be built for submission to Parliament this winter.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has its entire staff abroad searching for new or greater outlets for grain, dairy products and livestock and at home it is prosecuting a national campaign in favour of the use of made-in-Canada goods.

* * * *

Those activities however successful they may be, do not meet all the requirements of the situation. It is necessary that farm producers fit their production in kind, quality, and quantity to the consumptive capacity of the available markets and that they conduct their operations along methods which will yield them a profit as well as a market for their labour.

It is to thus complete the programme of the government for the stimulating of agriculture that a new and highly important programme will be launched within a few weeks under direction of Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Weir's plan will bring the federal department into a more direct contact with the farmer than has hitherto been the case. To launch the campaign the Minister will shortly make a tour of Canada, meeting provincial agricultural officers and leading practical farmers. He will discuss with them the methods he proposes to use, methods used by himself as a successful farmer, and others suggested by the information which has come to him as a minister of the crown.

* * * *

An exhaustive study with all the facilities of Government, covering three months, plus many years practical experience, has shown conclusively that the future of farm life depends upons energetic development of markets and the lowest possible production costs of products for which there is a market. The Government plan is to locate the markets, to advise the farmer what can be sold in them and to assist him in producing the quality of goods demanded at a cost which will allow him a profit.

No system of bonus offers any solution. This year, for example, to give the farmer $1.10 a bushel for his wheat—not much profit at that price, either—would cost the country approximately $120,000,000, or more than is spent annually on all services apart from fixed interest on war debt and the money going into pensions and soldiers reëstablishment.

* * * *

At least Nova Scotia and Alberta are deeply interested in studies now being made of methods by which the distribution and sale of Canadian coal can be extended in the Canadian market. A plank in the Bennett platform was the active encouragement of the use of Canadian fuel and an investigation is proceeding to determine along what lines that policy can be made most effective. Those who have the work in hand expect tnat it will be concluded before Parliament meets and that 1931 will see the inaurguration of a more expansive machinery to promote the economical use of Canadian fuel in Central Canada.

Changing Seed Grain

Experimental Farms Note.

Persons who have new varieties to introduce and seeds to sell have always been strong advocates of seed exchange, saying in effect, that it is a good principle of farm management often to vary the strain of seed grain to be sown. It is also a common belief of grain growers that there is a necessity for frequent change of seed, because of actual deterioration due to continuous culture upon the same soil or under the same climatic conditions.

Farmers are continually changing seed grain. He on the black land must have seed from the sand region, and a man upon the hill must have his brought from the heavy soil regions. So, also with the question of latitudes, seed grain is often shipped long distances north and south very much at random as to reason but usually with the hope that some good will come in increased yield because of the change.

Undoubtedly, seed may become of but little value because of injury arising from disease, improper cultivation, and a great number of causes which militate against the production of a normal type of kernel. Various types of plants will undoubtedly be produced from a given type of seed, depending upon the character of the soil upon which each is grown. The Dominion experimental farms system composed as it is of numerous widely-separated branch farms, has given a particularly good opportunity to study this problem. However, it has not been demonstrated that such variations will in any way have an effect upon the next season's crop upon using this seed.

In considering the supply of good seed, the farmer should take into account the suitability of his own stock. Is it the best variety available for his conditions? Is it relatively free from other varieties, other kinds of grain, and weed seeds? Has it strong vitality? Can it be cleaned into first-class seed? If these questions cannot all be answered in the affirmative it is advisable to secure seed of suitable quality and purity elsewhere. Registered seed is the farmers' protection and should be considered if possible for at least a portion of the crop. Seed requirements should be filled as early as possible, before the supply of suitable grain is exhausted.

In the Days of Laurier

In a chatty editorial, the Brockville Recorder and Times thus recalls Sir Wilfrid Laurier's method of dealing with deputations:

"He usually selected his collegues who were to join him in listening to a deputation with considerable care and sometimes real mischief. On one occasion two of his colleagues, including the late Sir Richard Scott, were asked to assist him in hearing a deputation of ladies who wished to place before the Government certain requests concerning the use of cigarettes and intoxicating liquors.

"The ladies arrived in full force and Sir Wilfrid asked Sir Richard Scott to sit at his left and his other colleague at his right. The ladies selected to present the case did so quite ably and, somewhat unlike man under similar circumstances, with reasonable brevity.

"Here is Sir Wilfrid's reply, as memory serves: 'Ladies, I wish to compliment you on the ability with which your case has been presented. I would infer that nothing has been left unsaid that should have been said. I will be brief. Regarding the use of cigarettes by boys and girls I hold a view that probably does not coincide with yours. Unfortunately, I never had either a boy or a girl, but have always thought that if I had been so blessed and my children showed a tendency to smoke cigarettes, I would have undertaken the task myself of curing them of this habit and would not have applied to the State for legislation to perform the work which I believe to be the duty of parents.

"'As for the tendency to drink alcoholic liquor, more might be said, but the Provinces seem to be going as rapidly in the direction of curbing the liquor traffic as the people desire or will permit. Your great effort should be toward convincing the electorate of the need of more stringent measures, and the chief duty of the parent, outside of this, to my mind, lies in refraining himself and urging his offspring to do likewise.

"'I present you an object lesson—in fact three of them. On my left is the venerable Sir Richard Scott, full of years and blessed with excellent health. He never smokes, he never drinks. In fact, for years he has not tasted meat, but lives on vegetables. To my right is George, whose chief fault, physically, is that he smokes too much, in my opinion. As for myself, I do eat meat, I do not smoke, but occasionally I take a glass of wine. Now ladies, here are the three samples. Will you name your choice?'

"The ladies enjoyed a hearty laugh, but went home with the conviction that the Government perhaps was not the first place, nor even the chief place, in which the liquor question and cigarette-smoking ought to be tackled."

Crystal-Gazer: "I see—I see buried treasure——"

Client:"Yes—never min that. It's probably my husband's first wife. I know all about her."

Not A Sugar Daddy!

According to a recent bulletin sent out fro the Government publicity department at Ottawa, twenty-five million pounds of honey were produced in Canada last year. Equitably divided, there would be over two and one-half pounds for every man, woman and child of the Dominion.

There was a time when information of this kind would have been intensely interesting, for that quantity would not have been sufficient for my personal consumption for one week. But alas, never again, Pearline. An edict more adamant than the laws of the Medes or the Persians has decreed that henceforth, now and forever, world without end, all kinds, breeds and varieties of honey, sugar, candy, syrup and other-saccharine allurements are tabooed, barred, and forbidden and excommunicated from my dietary curriculum. I have been divorced without alimony from the dangerous delights of the wicked French pastry and the sugary society of wild elderberry and tame apple pies; while the cloying and deceitful aniline-glucose jams of commerce are to be shunned as lepers outside the city walls.

Behind all this is the story of a commercial nomad's variable and uncertain habits of eating "what, when, and where"—and of years of dalliance with the treacherous lunch-counter sandwich and the perfidious pie of commerce. This irregular living resulted in the breaking down of some of my interior digestive machinery, followed by distention and discomfort after eating of gas attacks and trench raids, of periods of lassitude and apathy, and no desire for work of any kind.

Determined to discover, if possible the cause of this interior disturbance—and as our family "doc" was dallying down by the Equator at the time—I interviewed one of those expensive, high-powered specialists and arranged for a physical stock-taking. He was a solemn, spectacled gentleman of the college professor type who had been enthusiastically—and I thought somewhat shamelessly—recommended by a family friend (I found out afterwards that he was a distant relative of the Doctor, which may have accounted for the excessive advertising.) Before going into drydock, I had a consultation with our bank manager and arranged for an overdraft and extention of credit. I also made a deal with a cartage company for the removal of my remains. Then came the day of the ordeal when I sat in a general waiting room with a half dozen or so other victims while a spring freshet of perspiration slowly trickled down my back and soaked into a new set of "Hatchways."

At the appointed time I was ushered into the presence of the arbiter of my physical well-being to whom I confided as much of private life as I deemed advisable. (Not that there was any likelihood of my hearing about this—but I wasn't taking any chances.) The trial was thorough and comprehensive. I got the "whole works." I have been explored from hoof to roof.

I have been checked and double-checked. I have been homesteaded, ploughed, and summer-fallowed. I have been X-rayed, X-amined, X-tended, X-tracted, X-plored, X-ploited and X-posed. Workmen have searched my superstructure for defective planking or strained bulkheads. Tests have been made for hoof and mouth disease, hog cholera, psittacosis, Asiatic leprosy, and milk leg. I have been tapped for laudable pus; for sugar, albumen, kerosene, alcohol turpentine, linseed oil and other marketable commodities. I was taken into a darkened cell-like death-chamber and placed in an electric chair. Brine-soaked steel gyves were fastened to my bare wrists and akles. The Hydro was turned on and the secrets and throbbings of a wildly beating heart were exposed to vulgar gaze and recorded on a sensitive plate by a large healthy gentleman with a well-developed Scotch burr. I also understand that they were considering calling for estimates on interior decoration and some plain and fancy plumbing (lowest tender not necessarily accepted).

After passing through the hands of several skilled union mechanics, electricians, and efficiency experts, it was decided to make reservations for incarceration in a hospital where arrangements were completed for the removal of a large section of my yearly income. There I acquired a taste for clinical thermometers, Nujol salad dressing and tan-bark biscuits: also a kindly liking for several bright-eyed nurses who deftly massaged my spinal vertebrae with something that smelled suspiciously like the stuff that Tommy or Chris used to serve us the old days in the Dutch Rooms.

I am back in the harness again after an enforced months' holiday. When I visited the works last month I was a physical wreck and slowly dragged my reluctant feet up the office steps like a gorged snake crawling into a cave. To-day I tripped sprightly and youthfully up the same stairs to the bewildering astonishment of the entire office staff.

The shadow has been lifted and I am back from the mouth of the tomb. My wife has cancelled an order for a black crepe veil and widow's weeds, and we are trying to dispose of a lot in the cemetery. (From my present state of health it will not likely be needed for years.) I am now prepared to make a contract with a wholesale produce company for daily deliveries of fruits and vegetables in barrel lots. I am also willing to trade my crutches for a good set of golf clubs. Oh, Boy! the old pep is coming back!

The afternoon was nearly over when he suddenly remembered — their wedding anniversary to-morrow and he had neglected to find out about that stone marten neckpiece. If only Betty were home to help him, instead of a hundred miles away at school.

His eye fell on the telephone — a happy inspiration. Two minutes later — while he held the line — Betty's voice came over the wire. Yes, certainly, she knew the fur her mother wanted. Moreover, she could tell him exactly where to go to get it.

The telephone is always a convenience and often a life-saver. Out-of-town calls are quick, dependable and inexpensive. And they are now as simple to make as calling your next-door neighbour.

Wild Life's Preparations For the Winter

Is the fine open weather to continue for some time longer? For an answer, in the north look to the preparataions of wild life for the winter. If the fur-bearing animals are not as thickly coated as usual at this time of year, it is inferred that severe cold will not put in an early appearance. If the migrating birds delay their departure for the south, is it not because they are somehow assured of fair weather ahead? Hibernating animals that put off their retirement are supposed to be easy in their minds about the winter coming in.

This year there is said to be no haste on the part of birds and animals to change their summer habits or habitats. This is what people versed in the lore of the wilds, much of which they learn from the Indians have reported. The signs sometimes fail, but in such cases believers in the theory contend that the opinion as to the behaviour of the animals was inaccurate, and that when conditions were represented to be indicative of a mild or severe winter they were misread.

That wild animals have intimations of coming atmospheric changes before human beings there is no reason to doubt. People often recall after a great storm that some time before it broke a great flight of birds took place. Similarly, in advance of a seismic disturbance, a movement of alarmed animal life has been noted. Rats leave a sinking ship. These instances are but evidences of the well-known fact that wild things have much keener senses than human beings, and hence have earlier intelligence of the approach of danger. But it is scarcely through any of the senses that wild animals realize the character of an approaching winter.

If it is a fact that these creatures linger longer in the north at the beginning of a winter which, despite some preliminary brightness, turns out to be severe, can it be said that they possess anything deserving of the name of knowledge? No knowledge on the part of the rabbit would enable it to put off the change in the colour of its winter garb. But, though there may be no more knowledge than the magnet has power to attract steel, there is some law of being for the deizens of the wilds to which some degree of variation in their migration, hibernation, etc., is subject.

"Well, how do you like your new house?"

"Oh, all right, but next door there's a young couple who quarrel all day."

"How unpleasant to have to listen to that!"

"Yes, and the worst is, they're French, and we can't understand a word they say."

—o—

Clarice: "Why does your new boy friend wear such loud socks?"

Helen: "So his feet won't go to sleep.

The hope of the family looked up from his book and said, "Father, there's a word here I don't quite understand, 'diplomacy.' What does it mean?" "Diplomacy, my son, means either saying or doing the right thing at the right time precisely, and doing it quietly." "Ah, then, I think I did some diplomacy last night, but I didn't know what it should be called when I did it." "Indeed?" "Yes father. I rolled Willie over to my side just before mother came up with the castor oil, and then rolled him back again before she came round to the other side."

When Wives Were Sold At Public Auction

In olden days it was a popular and prevalent belief among the ignorant in England that a husband might legally dispose of his wife by exposing her for sale in a public market with a rope or halter about her neck.

We have on record many cases of this vile custom.

The Ipswich Journal, dated January 28th, 1787, says:—

"A farmer of the parish of Stowupland sold his wife to a neighbour for five guineas and, being happy to think he had made a good bargain, presented her with a guinea to buy a new gown. He then went to Stowmarket and gave orders for the bells to be rung on the occasion."

The Times gives us many interesting and amusing items. Dated July 18th, 1797, we read that on Friday "a butcher exposed his wife for sale in Smithfield Market near the Ram Inn, with a halter about her neck, and one about her waist which tied her to a railing, when a hog-driver was the happy purchaser who gave the husband three guineas and a crown for his departed rib."

In the same journal two months later it is recorded that an ostler's wife fetched twenty-five guineas, and again on December 2nd, 1797, we read "at the last sale of wives there was but a poor show, though there were plenty of bidders. One alone went off well, being bought by a Taylor who outbid eight of his competitors."

Bought By Lodger.

On the 4th of February, 1806, a man named George Gowthorpe, of Patrington, sold his wife in the market place at Hull for twenty guineas, and delivered her in a halter to a person named Houseman, who had lodged with him four or five years. An old newspaper referring to this fact observes: "From the frequency of late years, the common people have imbibed the opinion that the proceedings are strictly legal, and binding by law."

In 1815, a man held a regular auction in the market place at Pontefract, offering his wife at a minimum bidding of a shilling, and "knocking her down" for eleven shillings.

Five years later, Brouchet, who lived at the village of Broughton, led his wife into the cattle market at Canterbury, and asked a cattle salesman to sell her for him. The salesman refused, saying that his dealings were with cattle and not with women. Brouchet then hired a pen for which he paid the usual tollage of sixpence, and led his wife into it by a halter. He soon disposed of her to a young man of the city for five shillings.

On the 7th of April, 1832, a wife-salae took place at Carlisle, the husband and wife being unable to find happiness after three years of married life.

The event was announced by the bellman, and at noon the sale commenced, there being a great number of people present.

The husband, Joseph Thomson, a farmer, placed his wife in a large oak chair with a halter of straw round her neck. He then delivered the following humorous address:

Gentlemen, I have to offer to your notice my wife, Mary Anne Thomson, otherwise Williams, whom I mean to sell to the highest and fairest bidder. Gentlemen, it is her wish as well as mine to part for ever. She has been to me only a born serpent. I took her for my comfort, for the good of my home, but she became a tormentor, a domestic curse, a night invasion and a daily devil. Gentlemen, I speak the truth from my heart, when I say—may God deliver us from troublesome and frolicsome women! Avoid them as you would a mad dog, a roaring lion, a loaded pistol, cholera morbus, Mount Etna, or any other pestiential thing in nature. Now, I have shown you the dark side of my wife, and told you her faults and failings, I will now introduce the bright and sunny side of her, and explain her qualifications and goodness. She can read novels, and milk cows, she can laugh and weep with the same ease that you would take a glass of ale when thirsty. Indeed, Gentlemen, she reminds me of what the poet says of women in general:

'Heaven gave to women the peculiar grace,
To laugh, to weep, to cheat the human race.'

"She can make butter, and scold the maid, she can sing Moore's melodies, and plait her frills and caps, she cannot make rum, gin or whisky, but she is a good judge of the quality from long experience in tasting them. I therefore offer her, with all her imperfections for the sum of fifty shillings."

After waiting about an hour for a customer, Thomson sold her to a man named Henry Means for twenty shillings and a Newfoundland dog.

We are told that "they then parted in perfect good temper—Means and the woman going one way, Thomson and the dog the other."

In 1835 we read of a case in which a woman was sold by her husband for fifteen pounds; she at once went home the buyer ;she survived both buyer and seller, and then married again. Some property came to her in the course of years from her first husband, for, nothwithstanding claims put forth by other relatives, she was able to maintain in a court of law that the sale did not and could not vitiate her rights as his widow.

That this custom and shameless ceremony was punishable by law was unbelievable by the ignorant lower classes, and they were greatly surprised when at the West Riding Yorkshire Sessions on June 28th, 1837, Joshua Jackson, convicted of selling his wife, was sentenced to a month's imprisonment with hard labour.

Here is an account of another wife sale at Nottingham, on the 28th of April, 1852:

"The female, about 38 years of age, was the wife of Edward Stevenson. A new rope, valued at sixpence, was around her neck, and her husband, holding the rope exclaimed: 'Here is my wife for sale: I shall put her up at two shillings and six pence.'

A man named John Burrows offered a shilling for the lot and we are told that after some haggling, she was "knocked down" at this price.

In 1858, in a beer shop at Little Horton, near Bradford, a man named Hartley Thompson exposed his wife for sale, bringing her in with a ribbon round her neck.

It is difficult to credit such brutaity, and yet, instances of wife-sales are recorded as recently as 1887.

Happily, this distasteful and vile custom is now a thing of the past.

A New Shower Suggestion

Every hostess who plans a shower for a bride-to-be wonders if she can't give something original, and in the end usually falls back on the time-honoured, tea cups, linen, kitchen, or miscellaneous.

A brand new idea, and one that sounds very attractive to a lover of reading, is a book shower. What home is complete without books, and how many young people, after furnising their home with necessities, have money enough left for the purchase of books? The idea behind the showers, in the first place, was to provide some of the things that might not have been provided in the trosseau, and that would be amongst the "extras' 'when furnishing time came.

A book shower could also include subscriptions to magazines which the bride or groom were not already taking.

What a difference the change of a letter makes. Here is a humorous misprint which occurred some time ago: "The doctor felt the patient's purse, and decided there was no hope."

Rosy Cheeks
for indoor days

Crisp cold air brings a touch of color to every one, but it soon passes unless good health keeps it there. Shredded Wheat is an ideal indoor-weather food. It contains the mineral salts that make healthy red blood and the bran that promotes regular habit even though exercise is restricted. Plenty of nourishment—and easily digested too. Eat Shredded Wheat every morning—a biscuit or two with hot milk for a delicious, vitalizing breakfast.

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

DRIVE in SAFETY

with an Automobile Insurance Policy to protect you against the hazards of Fire, Theft, Collision, Property Damage and Public Liability.

Every Automobile Owner in Ontario should know about the new Financial Responsibility Law effective since September 1st. The new law makes necessary the abi lity to pay for damage.

In its general application, it requires that the motorist responsible for damage to person or property of others MUST PAY either personally or through insurance OR BE BARRED FROM THE ROAD.

The sensible thing to do is to carry Automobile Liability and Property Damage Insurance. It is better to have this insurance and not need it, than to need it and not have it.

HAIL

People who depend upon their crops should not be without some kind of the above insurance.

The loss of crops and barns, sometimes dwellings, is a serious matter to all farmers.

The claims paid through this office, just recently, have been large.

We aim to satisfy our policyholders, and do our utmost on their behalf.

Possibly you believe that you are carrying enough insurance. Think for a moment what a total loss would mean to you. This, as you will admit, is quite possible.

Information regarding various forms of insurance glady given, you are under no obligation whatsoever, just call or write.

IN MEMORIAM

Merkley—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. C. W. Merkley, who departed this life November 13, 1928.
We are thinking of you, dear Velva,
Thinking of the past;
Picturing you in memory
Just as we saw you last.
You suffered much, with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain,
Till God is His great love
Relieved you of your pain.
Ever remembered by husband and family.

DIED

Fleming—At Morewod, on Nov. 3, 1930, Mary, the beloved wife of John Fleming. "To live in the hearts of those you leave behind is not to die."
