BOARD TAKES OVER HOSPITAL—The Glengarry Memorial Hospital Board was authorized by the architects, Leblanc & Martin, to take over the hospital as of yesterday from the general contractor, M. Sullivan & Son of Arnprior. The board has 37 days in which to uncover any possible defects and have them corrected. Eric Gale, hospital administrator, moved his office yesterday to the new hospital, a rear view of which is seen above. The emergency entrance is at right and the public entrance at left centre. The 40-patient bedrooms stretch along the front of the building overlooking lake and town. Bedroom furniture costing $15,000 is now on order from Eaton's contract division which won the order after suites from five manufacturers had been installed on a trial basis. Another $150,000 worth of equipment will be ordered within the next few weeks and some 80 staff members will soon be hired. Some 160 members of the K of C and their wives toured the hospital Monday night and saw a movie "Stand By For Life". The hospital is expected to be operating about mid-April.

Charter Presented Men's Club Glengarry Pastoral Charge

On Monday night members of Knox United Church Men's Club of Cornwall charted the new AOTS Men's Club of Glengarry East Pastorial Charge. Some 70 men from Cornwall, Avonmore and the local area attended the dinner meeting at which 32 men from the Glengarry Charge became charter members in the new club.

George Upfield, president of the Knox Club, initiated the Glengarry East Club members, emphasizing to them the AOTS club theme "As One That Serves". The new club executive was installed by Rev. Clare Kellog, minister of Knox United.

New president Campbell Fraser was then presented with the following: the charter by Hugh Johnson of the Cornwall club, the visitors' book and evening's "loot" in fines by Jim Whittaker, and the president's gavel by George Upfield.

In his reply the new president thanked the sponsoring club and Avonmore club and expressed the hope that the new club, among other things, would provide a common bond of fellowship for members from the four points of the charge.

Glen MacMillan, president of the Avonmore Club, brought greetings from his club. Rev. Mr. Kellog, in his capacity as secretary of Glengarry Presbytery, extended congratulations. Good wishes were brought by Jamieson Campbell, president of Presbytery Men's Council and Victor Godbeer brought greetings from the Montreal and Ottawa conference.

High School Board Must Seek Successor For Retiring Principal C. C. Fraser

The board of trustees of Glengarry District High School, here, is faced with the task of seeking a new principal for the September school year following the resignation of Principal C. Campbell Fraser.

The resignation of Mr. Fraser was accepted with regret at a meeting of the trustees last week and Board President J. W. B. Villeneuve indicated no time would be lost in advertising for a qualified principal for the school.

Effective June 30th, the resignation of Mr. Fraser came as no surprise to board members for he had indicated more than a year ago his desire to retire. "I would like to have time to do a lot of things I have not had the opportunity to do during my years of teaching," is the way Principal C. C. Fraser justified his decision to take life easier.

"I plan to continue to make my Glen Sandfield home my base of operations," he added, "and my interest in this community will remain. I would say this is an ideal teaching situation," Mr. Fraser declared; "I have enjoyed my associations with the staff, the board and the pupils."

His June retirement will end 18 years' of teaching in Alexandria High School and its modern area successor. He has been prinicipal since the retirement of J. T. Smith five years ago.

Prior to that Mr. Fraser's career had included seven years on the staff of Brockville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, eight years as secretary to George Fulford, MP, Leeds County and four years of Army service during World War II. Following his release from the Army he was a teacher and student councillor for two years at the Sir George Williams' Rehabilitation School for Veterans before returning to Glengarry to teach at AHS in 1947.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

An Effective Instrument For Decentralizing

At the press conference held in connection with the opening of Square C Textiles last week much interest was shown by the writers of business columns in the method of financing the new plant. They were particularly interested in the financial benefits accruing to the parent Consolidated Textile Mills from having located in a designated area and their questioning brought out the fact that this was one of the basic reasons why Square C came to Alexandria.

Company officials were quite frank in pointing out the benefits to be derived from building in the Cornwall area which is one of those across the country designated as areas of low employment. Under this tax incentive plan of the federal Department of Industry's Area Development Plan new industries locating in such designated areas obtain exemption from income tax for three years as well as accelerated tax write-off on buildings and equipment. Such benefits will also apply on new buildings and extensions added before March 31st, 1967.

These tax incentives we see as an effective and imaginative instrument for decentralizing industry. Economists have for many years been deploring the trend of industry to the big cities and this is the first government move we have seen that could be calculated to lure new industry away from the already booming areas to those that need it most.

That it is proving effective is indicated by a speech in the Ontario Legislature in which Paul Yakabuski, MPP for South Renfrew, took the federal Department of Industry to task. "The town of Renfrew has had an industrial dagger driven into its heart by Industry Minister Drury", claimed Mr. Yakabuski. He told of plans almost finalized with a large new industry by Renfrew's industrial commission. When the federal Department of Industry refused to declare the selected site contiguous to a "designated area", and thus eligible for the tax incentives, the industry decided to locate near Pembroke.

We appreciate the fact that Glengarry is in the Cornwall designated area and that it may gain other new industry as a direct result. But we can sympathize with the citizens of Renfrew who apparently have lost a potential new industry to neighboring Pembroke because they lack the lure of these tax incentives.

This Area Development Plan puts a powerful weapon in the hands of the Department of Industry and we can understand the cry of "foul" from centres which are not in designated areas and as a consequence fail to attract new industry. Public funds are being used, indirectly if you will, to decentralize industry and those powers will have to be used circumspectly lest the cry of political favoritism be raised.

With the aims of this Area Development Plan few can find fault. The big cities are already too big.

Should Allow For The Weather

Icy sideroads that were too hazardous for school buses forced the closing of area high schools three days out of five last week. This represents a considerable loss of revenue to the school boards for provincial grants are paid on a per pupil per day basis.

These icing conditions were interrupting classes right across Southern Ontario as witness this editorial in The Wingham Advance-Times:

"The regulation of the Department of Education which calls for the payment of grants to public and secondary schools on a per diem basis is basically a sound one and no doubt has eliminated a lot of time-wasting. Nevertheless, after a week of excessively stormy weather and dangerous road conditions, we believe that some allowance should be made when such conditions prevent a school from holding classes through lack of attendance.

"Since the grant income of the school is dependent upon the number of days and half days in a month that the school is in operation, naturally principals make every effort to carry on with normal classes despite the weather. This urgency calls for some borderline decisions where the operation of school buses is concerned. Several days during the past week the big yellow machines were rolling into town in spite of weather conditions which were so bad that the Provincial Police had warned motorists off the roads.

"We do not quarrel with the justice of the pay-as-you-teach plan for grants under normal conditions, but we do believe that with all the information which is available through the department of highways, the education people might allow grants on those days when the weather makes travelling too hazardous."

First Fruits Of The Glassco Report

Plans for the transformation of the Canadian Government's Department of Defence Production into a new Department of Supply were unveiled last week by Industry Minister Drury in an address to the Purchasing Agents Association of Toronto. Mr. Drury outlined plans for the new supply service set up and stated that it follows closely upon the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Government Organization headed by J. Grant Glassco.

This is the first reference we have seen indicating that the federal government intends to carry out at least some of the housecleaning recommendations of the Glassco Commission report. It pointed out many wasteful and inefficient practices in government administration but the report appeared to have been pigeon-holed by every department of government except possibly the Defence Department.

One of the chief architects of that Glassco report was Watson Sellar, former Auditor-General of Canada, who brought a lifetime of intimate knowledge of the Civil Service to that study of waste and inefficiency. We knew Mr. Sellar as the brother of a fellow weekly editor, the late Adam Sellar of The Huntingdon Gleaner.

Watson Sellar died some months ago, before he could see any fruits of his labors on the Glassco Commission. Appropriately enough his funeral at Ottawa was given the full treatment by the big brass of government with whom he had been associated for so many years.

We had begun to believe that they had been intent on burying the good of that report with his bones. Now that the new flag is flying and a new session of the House is convened perhaps we will hear of other plans to carry out recommendations of the Glassco report.

We're All God's Chilluns

National Brotherhood Week is being observed next week across Canada and we see its ideal and purpose as worthy of wide support not for one week but all-year through. The Brotherhood of Man is something all of us should be striving for. Would not any community or country be the better if its citizens were intent on practising the golden rule "Do Unto Others As You Would Have Them Do Unto You"?

Brotherhood Week is sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and one of its activities we see as most promising is the student exchange project. These exchange visits between French-speaking students of Quebec and English-speaking students of other parts of Canada were established in 1956 when 350 high school students were involved. By last year 1060 students were taking part and the goal for Canada's centennial summer of 1967 is set at 5000.

The visits provide a combination of vacationing and learning and are designed to encourage bilingualism and a better understanding and goodwill between English and French-speaking students. Any program that results in such mutual appreciation among our young people should be of incalculable benefit to all Canadians.

Prejudice and misunderstanding breed on ignorance and fear. Our bigotries and pettiness cannot be erased in one week but this yearly reminder that despite our many differences we are all of the family of God may help to bring us to a more charitable understanding one of the other. That is a goal much to be desired.

During Brotherhood Week let's all try to be a bit more broadminded.

The Editor,
The Glengarry News,

May I be allowed to comment on a number of items in the February 11 issue of The Glengarry News?

First of all it is amusing, but also rather saddening, to see the reaction of Mr. Villeneuve and other MPPs to the recent redistribution of seats in the Ontario Legislature. There is no doubt that representation and redistribution poses special problems for Glengarry, hemmed in as it is by the St. Lawrence on the South and by Quebec on the East. This leaves the two choices of joining Northward with Prescott or Westward with Stormont. Mr. Villeneuve's argument is that Glengarry should be joined with Stormont, rather than Prescott, in order to conform to the S.D.G. pattern of county government, but this would exclude Dundas, thus where lies the conformity? In an age of rapid social change and shifting populations, who can say what the political and population distribution will be ten, or even five years from now? The Ottawa Valley is in a period of great growth and expansion in which Glengarry is sharing, as I note by the opening of Square C Textiles and the Brown Shoe Company in Alexandria. I believe the re-distribution commission has sincerely tried to take these factors into account in forecasting the future population of constituencies. Surely Mr. Villeneuve and his colleagues would not wish to return to re-distribution methods of the past where constituencies were outrageously gerrymandered to try to ensure the re-election of the party in power. One suspects that perhaps Mr. Villeneuve considers Stormont much more fertile territory for his party than Prescott. I believe he should cheerfully accept the inevitable and go out to meet his new prospective constitu-

NO SNOW, MOE

Musta been a bad winter for the guys who sell snow-blowers we were thinking as we rambled up to Toronto last weekend. Lolling in an air-conditioned lounge car on a speeding train you'd think it was summer.

The sun seemed as strong as we know it in July; and as far as the eye could see there was grass. Maybe it wasn't as green as we know it in June, and the trees were without their summer wear, but there was almost a total absence of snow. If you took a good gander at the road shoulders you might see a few inches of the white stuff turned black but the scene was definitely not winterish.

Seems it's been the same right across Southern Ontario so far this winter. Rain and icing conditions have been a bother and some sections are being hit by floods already. But the snow plows are unusually idle.

We bring this up with a purpose. The mere mention of the snowless scene by us should bring on at least a bit of a blizzard. And we'd rather have our snow now and get rid of it for good along about mid-March.

THEY'LL BE IN BETTER SPIRITS NOW

Quebec liquor stores were to reopen for business this week after more than two months of padlocking during the strike of store staffs. That spells a well-earned rest for the vendors in Ontario stores bordering Quebec who have been kept busy slinging spirits by the case since well before Christmas.

With the approach of Lent they can look forward to a period of somnolence until summer quickens the thirst.

Area liquor stores won't be doing nearly the business they knew through the last two months and the end of the strike in Quebec closes off a nice source of income for quite a few of our more adventurous types. If one can believe all the scuttlebutt, the closing of the Quebec stores provided a good-paying winter works program for fellows with enough spirit to make daily trips to and from arid Montreal.

The Quebec police were for the most part understanding, we hear, and well they might be. Ontario suppliers were but doing a service for suffering souls who had been badly let down by their provincial government.

It's our contention that there should be no right to strike by any group whose action disrupts a public service. That includes the railways, Hydro, telephone or any service the curtailment of which ill affects the innocent public.

The ill effects of that strike in Quebec may be more apparent once the liquor begins to flow again.

NIP IT IN THE BUD!

I have a housefly in my home who likes my bald, defenceless dome and evidently likes to think it's some new kind of skating rink.

Just where he came from, I don't know. I'd like to tell him where to go — a place where warmth would be assured if he would leave my bed and board. Whenever I sit down to eat he waits until I take my seat and then I hear him whizzing by to rest upon my apple pie. And when to knock him out I strive, he goes into a power-dive, so when I think I have him felled, he's off as if he's jet-propelled.

He wasn't with me in November nor any time throughout December. No sign of him in January, yet here he is in February!

I cannot figure why the pest did not die off like all the rest when that cold weather came last fall. And why did he show up at all?

I must do, every now and then, my duty as a citizen. With the Glengarry paper swat him — yelling triumphantly: "I got him!"

Such is the power of the press. My walls may be a fearful mess, but he who swats a single fly prevents a million bye and bye.

And he who fails a fly to swat, next summer will bemoan his lot.

ents in Prescott to convince them that he and his party have the best policies for Ontario.

The squabble over constituency boundaries seems to be only one example of the failure of politicians of all parties to face up to some realities of changes that are taking place in our fast-moving world. Perhaps they are all following in the tradition of MacKenzie King in "leading from behind". But I think it is true to say that it is the clergy (some of them) and the journalists (some of them) who are the leaders in the struggle to bring some sort of order out of all the social chaos that seems to be engulfing the Western world today. I see that St. Finnan's and Sacred Heart parishes will celebrate mass in the vernacular beginning this month. This is surely one concrete example of the supreme effort being made by the Roman Catholic Church to come to terms with modern conditions, to make the mass a meaningful experience for its adherents, and to bring the clergy and the laity closer together in their human relationships. We can again look with wonder at the leaders of the Anglican Church who caused such a book as "The Comfortable Pew", by Pierre Berton, to be published. They have courageously invited an outsider to examine and criticize the structure of their Church so that they may chart new courses in our present world of disintegrating values. In these examples, especially in the ecumenical movement, there is hope that men of different faiths, races, and even political philosophies may find ways of living together harmoniously. I look forward to the day when I may read in The Glengarry News that somewhere in the county, the clergy of the major denominations have shared the same pulpit, speaking to joint gatherings of their congregations.

I have already mentioned one journalist, Pierre Berton, who, in my mind, has opened new paths before us in our attempt to understand the social crisis affecting all of our lives today. Another to whom we should pay more attention is Sidney Katz, whose articles in MacLean's Magazine on our most crucial social problems is giving new leads in meeting the challenges of mediocre education, disintegrating families, automation and mental illness, to mention only a few. But it is not only the writers of the big-city newspapers and national magazines who can play a part in this important self-examination of ourselves and our relations with others. Our small city dailies and our many weekly newspapers should not cringe from facing contemporary and sometimes excruciatingly painful subjects.

One issue that has unavoidable implications for Glengarrians is the French-English confrontation, as so aptly portrayed by your cartoon in the Feb. 11 News. We cannot pretend that we are not affected by the tremendous social revolution now taking place in Quebec. And one of the most painful issues that English-speaking Glengarrians must face is that the emphasis in population is gradually changing from Scottish to French. Until this fact is accepted and adjusted to, then no real, lasting harmony and friendship can be established. My own ancestors from Scotland and Northern Ireland first broke and tilled land in Kenyon and Roxborough townships, and although I was born in California and grew up in Ottawa, I still think of my origins as being in these two townships where these hardy families faced a lonely hard existence after being expelled from the U.S. as United Empire Loyalists or from the Scottish Highlands under the Clearances. They had to struggle for their freedom and existence.

However, the meaning of freedom has changed through the years, and we are now struggling for new kinds of freedom. If anyone doubts this, we need only look at the many symptoms of it. There have never been such deep divisions between the generations.

Young people, labelled with the epithet of "irresponsible teen-ager" no longer accept the values of their parents, and question openly the value of what they are being taught in school. They realize that these values, sound and strong in their time, will not sustain them in the new kind of world that is just over the horizon. They are desperately searching for new meanings to their lives, and there are very few of the older generation who can guide them. They certainly cannot turn to the politicians who squabble amongst themselves over trivialities and are producing enough scandal to keep war news off the front pages of our more irresponsible daily newspapers. Have we already forgotten the NONG deals at Queen's Park, the resignations in Quebec and Victoria, and, closer to home, the shenanigans in Eastview and Arnprior? Can we really expect any kind of moral leadership from our current crop of politicians whose parties are disintegrating right and left?

This letter is rather rambling, perhaps thus reflecting the confusion of the times. But I would like to make one suggestion before closing. May I suggest that The News include a section of local news in the French language? This would certainly be a recognition of the trend mentioned earlier in this letter. It would also assist those of us who are attempting to get some grasp of the other language in our nation. And who knows, it might even increase circulation by including new readers who are not English-speaking! You may possibly have heard of L'Avenir, the completely bilingual bi-weekly newspaper in Sept-Isles (Seven Islands) a most progressive community on the Cote-Nord of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

I hope you will forgive this intrusion of a rather garrulous Torontonian into what you may consider local affairs, but since you do not appear to be unduly swamped by letters-to-the-editor (are Glengarrians really that apathetic?) I thought your readers might like to know that there is, anyway, one person down here on the shores of Lake Ontario who cares about them.

Yours sincerely,
Elgin Blair

WHAMMO

Alexandria residents may be interested in hearing about a practical demonstration that raised some scientific eyebrows recently — though I hope it never happens here!

A group of professors at a major technical institute were holding a conference on "component reliability", a matter of considerable importance in these space--age days.

One engineering professor fidgeted while the discussion rambled on at length in profound scientific terms. Finally he jumped up, grabbed a nearby telephone, and slammed it against the wall.

As the dust settled, he asked one of his startled colleagues to pick up the phone and dial Operator. The operator answered immediately.

"Now that, gentlemen," he said triumphantly, "is reliability."

AIM TO BE HEARD

If folks sometimes have difficulty hearing you over the telephone, it may require only a slight twist of the wrist to make your voice come in loud and clear. Seeing television performers talk or sing over microphones that may be located 18 inches from the mouth or suspended overhead out of sight may give us the impression that we can do the same with the telephone. We may carelessly talk with the telephone transmitter held anywhere from beaneath the chin to above the nose.

But the telephone is not a broadcasting device. It is an instrument designed for personal — and private — conversation. It has been engineered to operate most efficiently when you speak directly into the mouthpiece — with your lips about an inch away.

You need speak only in normal tones to be heard clearly . . . if you hold the telephone directly in front of your mouth and speak into the transmitter.

Minor Hockeyists Played At Thurso

Alexandria's minor hockey standard that was so successfully unfurled in Lake Placid last March again was held in lofty prominence on Sunday in Thurso when Ourtown's pee wees played an invited exhibition game with the Thurso youngsters who were preparing to move on to Quebec City and the noted annual tournament held in conjunction with the Winter Carnival.

The game was an added feature of the weekend Bantam Tournament, and Alexandria's spunky youngsters gave a fine display in losing 4-2.

To bolster the defence, Coach Howard Morris had the more experienced Alan Lowe in goal replacing Michael McLeister who is showing promise in his first year as a pee wee.

Lec Taillefer and Blair (Mervyn) MacDonald handled most of the defence chores, with Donny Morris centering the first line, flanked by Ricky Lavigne and Geoffrey Mosher. Michael Kelly, Jerome Poirier and Alastair McKinnon carried the share of the second line, and the following alternates spotted here and there came through with further help: Andre Boisvenue, Tommy Lowe, Brian Proulx and Andrew McNulty.

Thurso's stellar young Potvin, a fine two-way defenceman, was the stumbling block that our youngsters had a tough time handling. Early in the third period Thurso were leading 3-0, due mostly to Potvin's rink-length rushes and stout defence when Alexandria's forwards got within firing range.

At the five minute mark in the final canto Donny Morris trapped the puck at the Thurso blue line and with some neat shifting and stick handling, outguessed the defence to register Alexandria's first goal.

Thurso came right back to add their final, however, Alexandria youngsters kept plugging and with time running out Blair MacDonald broke up a Thurso clearing play, weaved his way around two opponents, then neatly passed the puck across to Michael Kelly, who in turn deked the last Thurso defenceman and caught the corner of the net to complete a nice scoring play which was the last goal of the game that ended 4-2.

In the bantam series, both Alexandria and Maxville entries lost, however, neighboring Cornwall won it all as they defeated Ottawa in the final by a score of 4-2.

AHS And Char-Lan Split Hoop Games

Alexandria High's senior hoop team retained its winning ways with a 47-40 victory over Char-Lan, Monday, but the Williamstown school teams came back with wins in junior play and in girls' competition.

The local juniors dropped a 54-35 decision and the girls lost their first one in league play, a 15-14 squeaker. Absence of their high-scoring forward, Helen McCuaig, may have been a factor.

Don McEwen had 13 and Burns McPherson 12 points to lead the local seniors' attack. Richard Sabourin had 8, Kevin Macdonald 6, Allan O'Brien 4, Bruce Poleet and Ken Mosher, 2 each. Grant scored 9 points for Char-Lan, R. McDonell 8, Thompson and Leroux 6 each, H. McDonell 5, Mowat, Geneau and Jarvo, 2 apiece.

In junior play D. Jarvo led the Char-Lan scorers with 13; Clark had 12, Liddle 10, Blackadder 5, R. McLeod, McGregor and Leger, 4 each, Menard 2. J. Trottier scored 13 for AHS, Kevin Weir, 12, M. Lalonde 5, J. Hay 3 and B. Bethune 2.

Judy Coleman scored 8 for the visiting Char-Lan girls, Penny MacDonald 5 and Anita Lapierre 2. Sharon Mitchell got 6 for Alexandria High, Jeannine Saucier 5 and Gracie Morris 3.

In a recent game with Hawkesbury High, won by the local girls 26-18, Helen McCuaig counted 14, Sharon Mitchell 10 and Jeannine Saucier 2. For Hawkesbury it was Dianne Charbonneau 10, Francine Proulx, 6 and Dianne Lalonde 2.

Maxville Holds Loop Top Spot

Maxville Millionaires booted a three-goal first period lead and had to settle for a 5-5 tie with St. Isidore on Tuesday night in a Little Nation hockey league game played in Maxville.

"Mink" Dewar scored twice and Doug Britton tallied a single in the opening period.

Lionel Gosslin, Len Landriault and Andre Giroux tied the score in the second. Jack Brown gave Maxville the lead again shortly before the buzzer sounded. Doug Britton increased the Maxville lead to 5-3 on his second goal of the game early in the third period. Lionel Gosslin also scored his second counter for St. Isidore, and with two minutes remaining, Claude Laurin tied the count at 5-5. The play was fast throughout with a few minor penalties.

Maxville holds a comfortable league lead. Wendover plays the Millionaires in Maxville on Friday night and regardless of the result the home team is certain to finish on top.

Summary Day Of Meat Course Held At High School Thursday

"Know the cuts of beef; learn to identify each one and above all, buy quality meat". Those were the words of advice from Edgar St. Jacques, Area Meat Supervisor of IGA stores to the ladies who attended a meeting in Alexandria last Thursday. The meeting was the final one for six individual groups who had previously met separately and taken a course "143 Pounds of Meat."

The Summary Day, held in Alexandria United Church Hall, was well attended by approximately fifty interested women. Mrs. Douglas Baxter of Alexandria was the chairman for the program. One member from each individual group gave a resume of their course. The groups also brought exhibits to add interest to the program.

The exhibit of the Alexandria United Church Women featured accompaniments that can be served with different meats. Some of the accompaniments were shown with pictures and others were shown with actual food. Mrs. James Wightman described this exhibit.

The Bainsville Women's Institute showed a lovely collection of antique tea pots, one of which was over 200 years old. Also included in the exhibit was a wine loving cup. Mrs. Graham Thompson commentated on the display.

Mrs. J. D. A. Macdonald of Glen Nevis Catholic Women's League explained the exhibit from her group. They showed various items that had been collected by the members, including three antique cook books. One of these "The Glengarry Cook Book", was compiled by local women in 1912.

The Dunvegan Women's Institute displayed several attractive dishes that were made from left-overs. Mrs. Lloyd Nixon commentated on this exhibit "Living High on Left-overs."

Mrs. Dorothy Haight of Lancaster Women's Institute explained their exhibit which featured spices and meat accompaniments. A plate of crackers with a tasty spread was set out for sampling.

The Picnic Grove Women's Institute brought recipe leaflets that included the favorite meat recipes of the ladies who took the course. One dish, a ham loaf, was displayed and cut into samples for tasting. Mrs. R. Arthur Smith commentated on this exhibit.

The highlight of the afternoon was the demonstration on meat by Mr. St. Jacques. Grades of beef, quality and inspection were discussed first. Mr. St. Jacques used a large chart illustrating the retail cuts of beef and supplemented this with actual meat from the IGA store in Alexandria. A thorough discussion of each cut, including points to look for in quality, tips on buying and cooking was appreciated by the ladies. Mr. St. Jacques concluded by congratulating the groups that had taken this course. He was impressed by the diversity of groups and said "We need more of this co-operation and good will today. Our world would be better if people worked together like you have".

A crown roast of lamb, donated by the IGA store in Alexandria, was presented to Mrs. Baxter in return for her work as chairman of the meeting. Miss Mary McGrath, Home Economist for the Department of Agriculture, Toronto and Mrs. Alison Murray, County Home Economist spoke briefly. The afternoon concluded with refreshments, served by the members of Alexandria UCW.

A similar course on another topic will be held next fall. Interested groups are asked to contact Mrs. Murray, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Alexandria.

NA MacLeod Was Yukon Pioneer

Another link with the Yukon gold rush was severed on Saturday morning, January 23rd, with the passing in St. Paul's Hospital, Vancouver, of Norman A. MacLeod.

Born in Dunvegan in 1883, he was the eldest son of the late Duncan N. MacLeod and Anna Belle Cameron. At an early age he went to the Canadian West, and after the turn of the Century, spent a number of years in the Yukon, where he became familiar with the hardships endured at that time by so many who joined the gold rush.

From 1903 to 1910 he drove the Whitehorse Alaska Express mail, stage and transport, using dog sleds, canoe and horses. For several years he drove the BC Express from Ashcroft to Fort George (now Prince George) and was in charge of the last stage out of Prince George in 1915.

From 1915 to 1917 he was transport driver for the Alaska Engineering Company. He joined the C.E.F. and upon receiving his discharge he again went north and was employed by the Standard Oil Company at Fort Norman.

In 1922 he went to California where he was employed by the General Petroleum Company in the Los Angeles area, and remained there until his retirement in 1949. For the past 15 years he had resided in the residential town of Paradise, California.

Last October he returned to Canada to live, and was planning to visit again in Alaska, Dawson City and the Caribou country.

His wife, the former Belle Ward, predeceased him in 1956, as did one sister, Mrs. Picken, Mary Jessie. Surviving are one brother, Rod MacLeod of Winnipeg; one sister, Mrs. K. C. MacLeod, Dunvegan, two nieces and one nephew, as well as a number of grandnieces and nephews.

Funeral service on Monday, January 25th, was held in the Chapel of the Richmond Funeral Home, Vancouver, Rev. J. Murdoch officiating. The remains were cremated and burial will take place at a later date.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

That was a bonne soiree sur la rue sportif de notre ville, last Friday, when members of the Rod and Gun Club and friends met in the Legion Hall to sit at the festive board. Then light a fag and over more coffee learn the identity of the past year's top anglers and marksmen.

President Sam Brunet handled the program smartly, as he did in having his award winning 10½ lb. pike through the ice. Dr. Villeneuve added a ripple of humor by asking the prexy as to the weighing—in witnesses.

When Mayor Ray Periard presented Renald Lauzon with his black duck (3 lbs. 5 oz.) prize, we became quite wrapped up in a momory flashback. This is the Jack Cowan trophy, donated by his son Leroy Cowan in memory of his late father, Jack, a Second World War casualty. It is fitting that the Cowan family name should be recalled at least annually during such a sport gathering.

Leroy's grandfather, the late Harry Cowan, a respected businessman, sportsman and citizen, owned and operated a hardware store located between the present Paul Roy's florist shop (John Boyle Store) and the Post Office. This noted mercantile business was destroyed by fire, along with the old Post Office about 1921. Many of our age group bought their first skates or hockey stick at Cowan's.

Then came Harry's son, Leroy Cowan, to join his father in business. Roy, as we called him, was a fair high school hockey player and owned one of the first heavy .22 calibre rifles. He was a keen sports follower, either actively or as a fan. Roy, still a young man, lost his life in a tragic car accident. Roy's brother, Jack Cowan, we only knew as a youngster when we moved on to Ottawa; however, he too, we know, carried the Cowan tradition that obviously was inherited by Jack's son, Leroy, the donor of this fine trophy.

This worthy example we would like to see copied as such memorial trophies perpetuate family names and traditions that mean so much.

THURSO TREK

Alexandria, in general, and the parents of the pee wee hockey players, in particular, are justified in being proud of these youngsters.

Thurso, like Buckingham, acknowledged Ourtown's pee wees' ability by requesting exhibition games before entering the Quebec City annual tournament.

Before Sunday's game 14 players in gentlemanly order sat down to a light lunch an hour before game time in one of Thurso's leading restaurants. They were all neatly dressed, wearing from a Black Watch jacket to a Glengarry Minor Football League blazer. Manager Omer Poirier took the individual orders such as milk shakes or a bowl of soup.

Then, like old pros, the boys moved on to their allotted dressing room in the new school beside the arena. Their money was kept in security and returned after the game. Permission was asked, and granted, to see the Cornwall-Ottawa bantam final, a reward this young group of boys earned by their fine behavior while travelling, on and off the ice.

Coach Brother Turner of Thurso was amazed that Alexandria made no effort to enter this able pee wee team in the Quebec City tournament. We told Brother Turner the uncertainty that prevailed concerning our Garden's future last Fall was one of the reasons. We were then asked about Alexandria's population. Our reply was that Alexandria was in two brackets, first about 2,500 people, and secondly rated one of the more progressive towns in Ontario.

Brother Turner just shook his head — and so did this writer. Our players, by this time, were leaving the rink and again this popular Brother spoke. Eying three or four in particular, he remarked, "I wish I had permission to take a few of those boys, but I couldn't". A fine tribute from a noted authority.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE

We wrote of the late "Plouffe" Taillefer who, given the opportunity as a boy could have become a top-bracket defenceman in at least Allan Cup play.

His grandnephew, Lee Taillefer, is a chip off the old block. He played almost the entire game on Sunday. We would rate him next to Thurso's star Potvin. Here is a boy with a future. Next year he must step up — but where?

Blair MacDonald, we presume, has another pee wee year. Here is another lad, a fine skater and play maker, at a tender age. There are several more nuggets, but they all need help to acquire polish and lots of ice time to develop their young legs.

BEWARE OF THE GLEN

BEWARE OF THE GLEN is the heading of one of Glengarry's famed tin-pan alley ballads with an OTA theme. In a sport sense there is a possibility that opposing defencemen in the near future will be saying, "Beware of a grandson from the Glen". (Glen Robertson).

Last weekend Cornwall Bantams played in the Thurso tournament and were champs. On Saturday they eliminated Montreal St. Laurent Jets 3-2, and on Sunday sidetracked Ottawa 4-2.

Bantam Gerald Campeau, a fine young centerman set up all three goals on Saturday, and on Sunday he first assisted Allan MacDonald on a Cornwall goal.

Then with the score 3-2 in the last minute of play, the Cornwall coach signalled Edgar Campeau to center a face off inside the Seaway City blue line as Ottawa had withdrawn their goal keeper and had six attackers.

Like a Stan Mikita or the veteran Gordie Howe, Edgar Campeau won the draw. Swinging to his right, he outfooted two Ottawa checkers, then pulled the trigger from center ice with the insurance goal that made the final score 4-2.

You will ask, "What does this mean to Glen Robertson?" This much. Gerald Campeau's grandmother is the former Marie Lacombe, and Gerald's father is Edgar Campeau, who still leans in the direction of Glengarry.

Rumor has it that Gerald Campeau's team mate, Jeffrey Bates, has been tabbed by Canadiens. If this is the case, then right now Toe Blake could use a guy with the fire of Gerald Campeau to help get Les Habs out of their slump. We repeat, the day is not too distant when one defenceman, amid the clamor of the fans, will shout to his partner — "Beware of the Glen".

Martintown United Had Annual Meeting

The adoption of the New Curriculum for use in the Sunday School and other study groups, the formation of a Messenger group and organization of a Junior Choir which leads the service of praise on the first Sunday of each month, were new features in the activity of the congregation in 1964. These received favorable comment by minister and people at the annual meeting of Martintown United Church held in the church hall.

Rev. Douglas McKay opened the meeting with scripture reading and prayer, and later presented the report of session in which he stressed "the basic purpose and reason for the church is that we receive from it something of the strengthening power of God, and receiving, give what we can and in the best way we can, so that knowledge may come to others."

There were four baptisms and one marriage during the year. Six were added to the membership, while two were transferred to other churches. Three members were removed by death, Mrs. Susan Scott, Ray Cunningham and John MacLennan. The congregation stood in a moment of silent tribute to their memory.

Rev. Mr. McKay acted as chairman and Gordon MacGregor as secretary for the business period.

The secretary-treasurer, Donald D. Ross read the financial statement which indicated that the congregation had met all local expenses and made a slight increase in givings to the Missionary and Maintenance fund. All departments closed the year with a balance on hand.

Other reports were given as follows: Christian Education Committee—Mrs. Leonard MacArthur; Sunday School, Mrs. Marland Murray; Messengers, Mrs. Douglas McKay; United Church Women, Mrs. C. R. McIntyre and Mrs. Ewan Christie; Senior Choir, Lynden Urquhart; Junior Choir, Gerald Avis; Trustee and Cemetery Funds, Kenneth McDermid; Auditors, Douglas Murray.

Gordon MacGregor was appointed congregational secretary to succeed Kenneth McDermid who had faithfully acted in this capacity for many years.

Re-appointed to the Board of Managers for a three year term were: Percy Keir, Gordon MacGregor, Elmer Meek and Clinton Murray.

Clifford McIntyre was appointed to the Board of Trustees.

Members of the Manse Committee: Mrs. D. S. MacIntosh, Mrs. K. Barton Sr., Mrs. Edwin Sansom, Mrs. McKay, Finley MacIntosh and H. W. Nicholson, were re-appointed.

Appreciation for faithful work done was expressed to the organist Mrs. C. R. McIntyre, to the Senior Choir, to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Avis who organized and direct the Junior Choir, to the United Church Women, to the caretaker, Lynden Urquhart and all officers of the church.

D. S. MacIntosh on behalf of the congregation thanked Rev. and Mrs. McKay for their leadership and guidance.

A cemetery board was set up to consider ways and means to improve the condition of the cemetery surrounding the church. Lynden Urquhart, Finley MacIntosh and Marland Murray were appointed to this board; and it was agreed that an invitation be extended to interested members of the Presbyterian Congregation to join in the project by appointing two members to the board.

The United Church women served lunch following the meeting and a social time was enjoyed.

Dunvegan WI Met

The January meeting of the Dunvegan Women's Intitute was held at the home of Mrs. George McRae. The president, Mrs. Lloyd Nixon, was in the chair. Fourteen members responded to the Roll Call with quotations from Robert Burns.

Mrs. Dan McRae read a paper on historical research which was prepared by Mrs. Cameron MacLeod. Mrs. Lloyd Nixon conducted a contest on the provinces of Canada. A current event was given by each member.

Pennies for Friendship were collected at this meeting. Mrs. Mack McRae read an article entitled, A Black Day for the Scotch. The members joined in a sing song, and the meeting closed with the singing of God Save the Queen.

The hostesses, Mrs. N. M. MacLeod and Mrs. Neil McRae served a delicious lunch.

SPORTSMANSHIP VITAL

Our objective, as we start a new season of hockey, should be that we will train our kids to enhance ability, to be top sportsmen and to instill a degree of good cheer so essential when the cards are stacked against them.

Avonmore Church Had Good Year

Reports, presented at the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church recently revealed that the church had enjoyed a very successful year in 1964.

Rev. Hugh Wilson presided at the meeting which featured reviews of the programs and projects in 1964, as carried out by the various boards and organizations.

E. M. Miller, congregational treasurer for the past 33 years, in a report given by his son, John E. Miller, indicated that total receipts in the church's treasury amounted to $8,817.63. Of this amount the sum of $2,294.11 was earmarked for the missionary budget of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. This sum was exclusive of the amounts raised for missionary purposes by the Women's Missionary Society and other groups. At year's end there remained a balance of $709.02.

Special contributions during the year included $350 to the Building Fund of Presbyterian College, Montreal, and $100 to the Gracefield Lay Centre.

George D. McElheran gave the report of the Kirk Session. The church membership stood at 182. During the year two new members, Duncan Bethune and Glenn McIntyre, were ordained to the eldership. Mr. McElheran, on behalf of the Session, thanked the many officers and officials and leaders who had contributed to the leadership and to the members and adherents for their loyal support.

In the report of the Board of Managers, given by Glenn McIntyre, several improvements about the church were noted. During the year the old sheds at the rear of the church were removed.

Much planning was done by the trustees of the congregation who have charge of a section at Paul's Hill Cemetery. A new map of the cemetery was prepared.

Other reports were given as follows: Women's Missionary Society —Mrs. Hugh Morrison; Children of the Church and Explorers—Mrs. James Tinkess; Church School—Jack Bush; Cradle Roll — Mrs. Douglas Robertson; Youth Fellowship Bible Class—Arnold MacMillan; Youth Fellowship — Misses Nancy MacRae and Alice Bush; Ladies' Aid Society—Mrs. Clifford MacRae and Mrs. George McElheran; and Auditor—Jack Bush.

New appointments for the year, as announced by Glenn McIntyre, chairman of the Nominating Committee, included: Board of Managers (for three years) — Emery Dingwall, John Blair, Orland Kyle; Envelope secretary—Douglas Robertson; Auditors—James Tinkess and John Miller; Nominating committee—Glenn McIntyre, Jack Bush and Arnold MacMillan; Ushers—C. F. Warner, chairman, Norman Morrison, John McIntyre, Gordon Robertson, Douglas Bush, Laurie Pletzer, Earl Canham, Larry Feek, and Keith MacMillan.

The congregation approved a missionary budget allocation for 1965 of $2000. The congregation is also meeting its allocations on behalf of the Presbyterian College Building Fund and the Gracefield Lay Centre.

Matters referred to the Board of Managers for further study included the possibilities of heating the church entrance and the erection of a new fence bordering the tennis court.

The congregation voted in favor of a substantial increase in Rev. Mr. Wilson's stipend, in recognition of the outstanding leadership and consecrated ministry of both the minister and his wife.

Prior to the business meeting Rev. Mr. Wilson conducted a worship service. During the worship period the members of the congregation listened with pleasure to a tape recording, made available through the courtesy of Howard MacMillan, of the last sermon preached in St. Andrew's Church by Rev. M. N. McDonald, a minister of St. Andrew's Church from 1938 to 1947. Rev. Mr. McDonald spoke on the theme "Put on the Lord Jesus Christ".

Rev. Mr. Wilson brought the meeting to a close by pronouncing the Benediction.

The ladies of the congregation served lunch and a fellowship hour followed.

Lochiel Board Names Committees

Committees were formed at last week's meeting of the new Lochiel Township Area School Board.

Asked by a ratepayer when a central school for the entire area would be built, the board decided to wait until "they had their feet on the ground before going further with the idea of a central graded school." The board also plans to invite the school inspector to the next meeting for further discussion on the proposal.

Until Jan. 1, 1965, the board had jurisdiction over only a few of the schools in the township. On January 1st it took over control of all public schools in the township and Alexandria Public School.

The Finance, Management, Transport and Property Committees were chosen at the meeting.

Appointed to the Finance Committee were: Kenneth MacDonald, chairman D. J. Baxter and Mrs. J. D. Grant.

Management: Mrs. J. D. Grant, chairman, Kenneth MacDonald, and Clifford MacDonald.

Transport: Donald MacGillivray, chairman, Clifford MacDonald and Lorne Hall.

Property: D. J. Baxter, chairman, Donald MacGillivray and Clifford MacDonald.

The board approved accounts for payment totalling $6,583.

Chairman of the board for the year is Kenneth MacLennan, of Dalkeith, D. J. Baxter of Alexandria, is vice-chairman, and J. K. Munroe of Dalkeith, is secretary-treasurer.

8—In Memoriam

HAY—In loving memory of a dear Dad, Angus Hay, who passed away February 18th, 1963.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter, Dorothy and son-in-law, Tom McBride.
