Local man loses both legs from frostbite

A 68-year-old resident of the Glen Gordon area had both legs amputated in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall on Monday following an ill-fated bout with the bitter cold.

Clayton MacDonald who lives alone was found at his home with both legs frozen when a neighbor, Neil Sangster called to see how he was. Mr. Sangster became concerned when the mailman, Stuart Hall reported there was no smoke coming from the chimney as he passed on his morning route.

The World War II veteran said he had been without fire since Saturday, January 3 around 1 p.m. when the carburetor quit working on his oil stove. He had been without heat in his house until Monday afternoon when he was visited by Mr. Sangster. The temperature had been hovering from -30 to -40 degrees F. all weekend. Although able to walk, MacDonald had a circulatory problem in his legs and there are no nearby neighbors. He had no phone.

Several dogs had been living with the bachelor and Sangster suggests that it might have been their body warmth that kept the victim from perishing outright.

OPP report auto mishaps

Lancaster OPP report five automobile accidents with significant damage but no serious injury in their jurisdiction throughout the past week.

On Sunday evening around 9:30 a two-car collision on Highway 401 in the westbound lane near the CNR overpass resulted in $1,400 worth of damage.

Police report that a 1979 Pontiac, driven by Chris Quenneville, 27, of 41 Fourth St. East in Cornwall lost control on the slippery road surface and came into collision with a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Donald C. MacLachlan, 21, of Pine Street in Lancaster.

Damage in the neighborhood of $1,000 was reported to the Quenneville vehicle and $400 to the MacLachlan car.

A one-car mishap occurred on Sunday afternoon when a half-ton 1980 Chevrolet truck driven by Larry Gordon Hay, 17, of RR3, Dalkeith, lost control on County Road 23, seven and a half kilometres north of Dalkeith, while travelling south and struck the guard rail. Damage to the truck was estimated at $2,000.

On Saturday evening a deer was struck by an eastbound car on Highway 401 at 10:20, just west of the Summerstown Road. The driver, Audeen Beckstead, 62, of 1351 Notre Dame Street in Cornwall, was driving at a reported speed of 90 km per hour when a deer ran into the path of her 1975 Chevrolet, collided with the vehicle and then ran into the bush on the north side of the road. There was $600 damage to the front of the car and the deer could not be found.

An automobile stuck in the owner's driveway was struck in the rear by a westbound car on a township road in the area of Grant's Corners on Saturday morning.

Antje Fiske, 45, of RR2 Williamstown, was backing her 1977 Chevrolet out of her driveway when it got stuck with the back end on the roadway of the Fourth Concession. A second vehicle, driven by James Fourney of RR2 Williamstown was westbound on the road at a stated speed of 60 km per hour when he attempted to stop and lost control. The car then came into collision with the rear of Mrs. Fiske's automobile and the impact pushed the car into Chista Fiske, 13, who was standing nearby. The victim incurred only minimal injuries.

On Friday morning a two-car collision at the CNR crossing in the Village of Glen Robertson resulted in a $1,000 damage to both vehicles involved.

Police report that a 1979 Chevrolet van was northbound on County Road 23 at a stated speed of 10 km/hour when a southbound 1977 Pontiac driving at the same speed came into collision in the centre of the road. The view of both drivers was reportedly obstructed by exhaust fumes from a northbound bus and when the vehicles went to cross the railway crossing, which was reduced to one lane because of maintenance work, they collided.

Cow kicks youth

Dean MacDonald of RR2 Alexandria, was taken to Ottawa Civic Hospital on Friday evening when he was kicked in the mouth by a cow. He suffered a fractured chin and injuries to eight teeth when two were knocked out and six pushed into the gums.

The 12-year-old son of Raymond and Doreen MacDonald had been doing chores at the barn with his father around 5 p.m. and was helping scrape down the stalls when the cow kicked him.

Mr. MacDonald said the cow had been de-horned that day and might have been nervous from the experience.

Dean underwent surgery at midnight on Friday and is wearing a splint on his bottom teeth. He returned home on Sunday.

The boy's father who had his hand severely injured in a farm machinery accident at his home last Fall is still undergoing therapy for his hand although back at home after several weeks in hospital.

Rheal Bellefeuille finds home at last

by Bob Roth

Rheal Bellefeuille came home from hospital Thursday.

It wasn't the kind of happy family re-union one normally expects on such an occasion. In fact, the crippled, 62-year-old man didn't want to come home at all. Unable to walk under his own power, he was physically removed from Glengarry Memorial, loaded into an ambulance, sent home under a police escort and carried into an apartment which contains no hot water, no bathtub and a host of other shortcomings which make the facility substandard for habitation according to Alexandria's property maintenance by-law.

The incident has drawn the ire of not only Mr. Bellefeuille's son, Raymond, but of town clerk Don Collin.

Mr. Collin, who intervened on the elderly man's behalf, states frankly that he is outraged by the whole, sorry affair which he says points to the dire need for better communication and co-ordination among the various health and social services agencies serving the area.

The Bellefeuilles are practically a stereotype of the typical family on social assistance.

The elder Bellefeuille, unable to manoeuvre without the assistance of a walker, has been on disability pension for years.

With a Grade 5 education, his opportunity for employment is virtually nil. His drawn face and hollow, ancient eyes show every one of his 62 years.

His wife of 38 years, Yvette, is a frail 57. She too is in poor health and on disability pension. Her Grade 3 education also offers little hope of a better life.

Combined, they bring in $471 in social assistance from Ontario's Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Their son Raymond is 36 and hasn't had steady work since 1977. He is currently drawing $54 every two weeks in social assistance through the United Counties Social Services Department.

Raymond suffers from a nervous condition for which two types of pills have been prescribed. One is for the migraine headaches he says he suffers frequently and the others are used to calm his nerves.

Both his mother and father are on medication for their nerves as well.

Raymond says he has suffered from emotional problems from youth. He stutters when excited. He admits that he drinks sometimes and he loses his temper sometimes. On one occasion his temper cost him a conviction for swearing at a town constable.

Raymond has an emotional problem and he willingly admits it. In November, he sought the help of a psychologist in Cornwall.

The family's apartment is a building inspector's nightmare.

The absence of hot water and a bathtub in the two-storey Main Street dwelling would be enough in themselves to make the structure unfit for residential purposes under the town's property standards by-law.

At the entranceway, one cannot help but notice the daylight and cool winter air stealing their way through the failing weatherstripping.

Inside, the structure is unfaithfully served by an oil spaceheater located in the kitchen on the main floor. All attempts by the heater to reach the second floor are in vain, Raymond says. Even with pillows stuffed against the upstairs windows, an adequate temperature cannot be established.

"We all sleep with our clothes on," he explained.

Throughout the building, holes in the wounded walls are "bandaged" with thin, paper patches.

Thousands of footsteps over the years have beaten the once shining linoleum flooring into decayed submission; cracked in many places, worn right through to the wooden floorboards in others, no amount of polishing can bring back their gleam.

As if attacked by some virulent disease, door and window frames are badly pock-marked where thumbtacks and nails have been used to pin up blankets in an effort to keep out the relentless cold.

The downstairs kitchen is served by a small stove with only two top elements.

Upstairs there are two rooms and a large hallway. One room serves as the living room; the other as a bedroom. A make-shift toilet area has been crudely sectioned off in the hall by nailing a couple of plywood boards together. Another niche in the hall serves as a second bedroom.

A wash basin protrudes openly from yet another part of hall.

Above the second bedroom, scraps of wallpaper cling tenaciously to the ceiling after an obvious bout with a leaking roof; the brown water stains remain as a lasting testimonial to the roof's ultimate victory.

Making a pretense at privacy, the bedroom has been cordoned off by two curtains hung on a haphazardly strung wire.

A picture of the Virgin Mary beams down from the wall, offering small consolation.

The narrow living room has also managed to elude the onslaught of affluence. The furniture is aging and the tired upholstery surrrendered long ago to the strain of the stuffing.

Breaking the melancholy silence upstairs is the eerie, pressurized hum of the cold water faucet which has been left on to keep the pipes from freezing.

Downstairs, the tap has also been left to trickle.

A television and a stereo purchased in happier days are the only two luxuries the family enjoys.

At one point the landlord did offer to make improvement such as installing hot water but said he would have to raise the $95 per month rent to cover the cost of the renovations. The Bellefeuilles said they had to turn the offer down because they did not feel they could handle the increase.

The Bellefeuilles have lived here for 22 years. A daughter moved out and married about 10 years ago.

The insulation of youth once made it easier for the elder Bellefeuille to cope with his living conditions, particularly the cold weather, but the aging process has taken its toll in recent years.

The Christmas cold snap was too much for him. He became ill and was taken to Glengarry Memorial and treated by Dr. Laszlo Roman.

A week ago Sunday, Raymond was called and told his father's illness was cleared up and the man would be discharged.

Raymond protested, saying neither he nor his mother were in a position to care for an invalid in a two-storey dwelling with inadequate heat and no hot water.

Raymond said he was bluntly told that this was not the hospital's problem. He was also told that the doctor had ordered the discharge and there was nothing the hospital could do.

"They told me if he can't walk, that's not our (the hospital's) problem. It's a home problem," Raymond said in an interview.

"Right now he needs bed care and right now that's something we can't give him."

Town Clerk Don Collin came to the aid of the Bellefeuilles and contacted various homes for the aged. He phoned the hospital and asked that Rheal be kept until such accommodation could be found.

A few days later, however, (last Thursday), Raymond was contacted again and told that his father was being discharged and would be sent home in a taxi if the son did not pick him up.

Raymond then contacted the taxi companies and warned them not to bring the father home. As a result, the elderly Mr. Bellefeuille was placed in an ambulance, and sent home.

"Right behind the ambulance there was a cop," Raymond said.

The police say they were only present to prevent a breach of the peace and were not, in fact, taking sides in the dispute.

Immediately prior to the discharge, Mr. Collin made one last-ditch attempt to have the man placed in a home, but a communication breakdown foiled the attempt.

Knowing that several beds were vacant at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, owned by the United Counties, Mr. Collin contacted the institution only to be told that it would take anywhere from one to two months to do the paper work before Mr. Bellefeuille could be admitted.

Two other privately-owned homes were full. Mr. Collin then contacted the Pro-For Home for the Aged in Crysler. They responded immediately and arrived at the hospital only minutes before Mr. Bellefeuille was sent home.

Hospital Administrator Gerry Adams says the elder Bellefeuille was not co-operative at this point and gave the impression he could not walk at all or otherwise take care of himself. Therefore, the Crysler officials left under the impression Mr. Bellefeuille required full nursing home care which the Crysler home does not provide.

Raymond says he cannot understand why the hospital did not contact him when the Crysler people arrived so that he could have assisted in the communication.

He says he was only phoned by the hospital after the people from Crysler left.

Raymond acknowledges that his father did not want to leave the warmth of the hospital but says he could have explained the situation to his father and straightened the matter out.

When The News interviewed the Bellefeuilles the day following the discharge (Friday), both were in accord that the Crysler home was the solution to the immediate problem.

The next day, the elderly Mr. Bellefeuille was picked up by the Crysler home and, according to a spokesman there, is settled and "happy" in his new residence.

Mr. Collin makes no effort to mask his disdain for the whole way the matter was handled.

He can't understand why the combined efforts of the medical and social service professions were not able to deal more creatively with this problem.

While he admits that the Bellefeuilles may not have known the various options open to them, he says the hospital appeared less than enthusiastic about providing some assistance.

"If they could have waited a few more days (before discharge), we could have made arrangements," Mr. Collin said.

"I just couldn't get over the hospital not co-operating. Everybody shouldn't be passing the buck."

Although it is not his job to provide such services to people, Mr. Collin spent hours making phone calls to assist the Bellefeuilles. He can't appreciate why, despite the millions of dollars spent on social services, the Bellefeuilles were not helped before now.

"There are social services and they were not available to this family—and why not?"

Mr. Collin did, however, express his appreciation for assistance provided by Ed Thompson, director of the United Counties Social Services Department.

It was Mr. Thompson who tipped Mr. Collin off to the availability of space in Crysler.

Dr. Roman said the doctor-patient relationship of confidentiality prevented him from commenting directly about Mr. Bellefeuille but agreed to discuss the issue in general terms.

He said provincially-imposed health care funding cut-backs have put a tremendous strain on hospital facilities. Although Glengarry Memorial's maximum number of bedrooms is supposed to be 43, doctors have had to fit 53 people into the building.

"A hospital is not a motel. Our job is to cure him (the patient) as fast as possible, then discharge him when he is well and make the bed available to someone else who is very ill."

Dr. Roman pointed to a Ministry of Health policy that states hospitals should only be used by those in need of urgent medical attention and not by those who really belong in some other institution such as a nursing home.

He said he is not without compassion for those on social assistance but when beds are in short supply "I can't let other people die."

He said there have been incidents of people dying because no bed in the hospital was available for them.

He said his hands are full dealing with medical problems and "I don't want to be a social worker."

Although the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services administers the Bellefeuille's disability pension, spokesman Andre Chaput said the ministry's role is primarily financial and does not involve seeking out accommodation for people.

Mr. Chaput is the ministry's general services supervisor for Cornwall and the United Counties.

"Our role is basically one of providing the financial assistance for such things," he said and it is "usually the client's responsibility" to find adequate accommodation.

If a family is already receiving the full pension and still cannot provide adequate accommodation for themselves, the ministry can refer the clients to the Social Services Department of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The counties welfare department can provide special shelter funding, Mr. Chaput said.

Raymond says he was never made aware of this counties funding.

"I was not aware of this at all, at all, at all," he said. "If that's the case, we would move out of here right away."

Ed Thompson, director of the United Counties Social Services Department, said his agency was frankly being run ragged.

With an 11-member staff, including five fieldworkers, he has difficulty serving the needs of the approximately 1,000 to 1,200 people now on assistance from his department.

The winter brings added emergency problems—such as people running out of oil—and his staff is kept hopping.

He said the office receives 20 to 25 assistance calls a day.

It's difficult to take on new cases right now, he said, particularly because one of his fieldworkers recently suffered a heart attack.

The generally poor economic situation combined with the cancellation of government winter works programs has placed an added strain on social service agencies he said.

"When nobody else has work, we're flooded with work," he said wryly.

Nevertheless, he said his agency still makes an effort when confronted with new cases.

"We'll try to do everything we can."

He said he was pleased that his tip-off did lead to Mr. Bellefeuille's eventual placement in the Crysler home.

Pinning the blame on any individual and one agency for the plight of the Bellefeuilles is a futile exercise.

There were communications breakdowns, to be sure.

Hospital officials, already overburdened, understandably do not feel like venturing into the field of social work.

Glengarry Memorial used to have the services of a social worker, but he was let go due to provincial funding cut-backs.

The social services agencies, in turn, faced with rising unemployment and a cut-back in their funding as well, are also reluctant, if not unable, to add to their caseload.

Although the government says the elderly do not belong in hospitals, it has also placed restraints on funding for nursing homes, Dr. Roman points out.

Despite rising unemployment, the federal government has cancelled its winter works program.

It is one of the profound ironies of our society that during times of economic distress—when people need social services most—we cut them back.

Who is responsible for the plight of Rheal Bellefeuille and those like him?

Nobody. And everybody.

The hymn "In Christ There Is No East or West" was sung, with Catherine McEwen at the piano and Mrs. McDermid read a poem "New Beginnings." Psalm 91 was read by Mrs. Evelyn Willis where upon Mrs. McDermid presented a reading from the manual "Is Your Head On Straight?" entitled "What's Your Excuse?" She led in prayer and Mrs. Hilda MacPhail received and dedicated the offering to God's Work. Ladies sang "Zion's King Shall Reign Victorious". This hymn concluded the worship portion of the meeting.

Mrs. Verna MacGregor presided for the business and called upon Rev. E. Eaton to install the 1981 slate of UCW officers. The following reports followed the minutes by Mrs. Hazel McIntosh: General Treasurer's report, Mrs. Evelyn Willis; Unit Treasurer's report, Mrs. Hilda MacPhail; Secretary's report, Mrs. Hazel McIntosh and Stewardship report, Mrs. Evelyn Willis. Ladies are reminded that a copy of these reports is to be sent to Presbytery parallel secretary by January 15.

The highlight of the evening featured Mrs. Margaret Jack and her beautiful presentation of slides of her recent visit to the West Coast and back via both southern and northern routes. Her indepth description of sights, cloud formations, animal behaviour and landscape left the group with a keen desire to travel westward at the first opportunity. Additional photos were mounted on bristleboard for persual at the close of the presentation. Mrs. Carolee MacIntosh thanked Mrs. Jack for her keen interest in the group and presented her with a small token in gratitude.

Ladies joined in the Mizpah benediction and enjoyed post-Christmas treats with group 1 and other adherents.

ACCEPTS CHEQUE ON BEHALF OF SPORTS COMPLEX—Maxville Lions President George Currier is presenting arena Board Chairman Bill Campbell with a $5,000 cheque, another hefty instalment on their second pledge towards the Sports Complex seating and heating.

Jr C Glens finish strong

A late season winning surge by the Jr. C Glens has vaulted the club into fourth position of the Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League and infected the roster with optimism as they await the play-offs.

At the halfway point of the season, the club was struggling in seventh spot, but now with only one game remaining against Crysler on Thursday evening, the Glens hold down fourth spot. A win on Thursday could sew up that playoff position. A loss could mean a drop in the standings by the end of the season because Maxville hold games in hand on the Glens.

On Saturday night the Glens took their first point from the Crysler team in a 2-2 deadlock.

Kevin Mason put Crysler ahead with a first period tally but the Glens replied with back-to-back second-period goals to put them on top, 2-1.

Mike Tessier netted the first goal, unassisted, and with 8:36 remaining Mark Cooper scored with assists awarded to Lyle Ross and Mike Tessier.

The lead proved to be short-lived when one minute and a half later Benoit Lafleche dented the twine for Crysler to tie the match. Shutout goalkeeping by Glens' goaltender Richard Malette and Crysler's Robert Raymond held the 2-2 score intact for the remainder of the contest.

UPCOMING GAMES

Thursday, January 15, Glens vs Crysler, 9 p.m.

PLAYOFF PICTURE

Should the team standings remain the same at the conclusion of the season the Alexandria Jr. C Glens will meet the Maxville Highlanders in a best-of-three quarter final series. The tentative dates for the start of the playoffs will be either Saturday, January 31 or Sunday, February 1.

In other quarter final series Crysler will meet Chesterville and Osnabruck will play Finch. Embrun has wrapped up first place and will receive a bye.

HEAVY ACTION—Cornwall Silverwood goaltender Gilles Jaudet got lots of action on Monday night during Alexandria Broomball League action. Vankleek Hill Sun Life completely dominated the game, winning 6-0 while bombarding the Cornwall goaltender. On this occasion Jaudet makes the save on Sun Life's Allan Fox and gets help clearing the ball from teammate Denis Prieur. Lochiel won the second game of the evening 3-0 over Glen Robertson. Sun Life holds down first place in the league.

Atom Glens defeated in tournament final

by Claudette Francoeur

Alexandria Atom Travelling team reached the "A" final in the Chesterville Invitational Hockey Tournament on Sunday night by virtue of two impressive victories throughout the day but they were denied the championship trophy when Cardinal-Iroquois outscored them, 5-1.

In the preliminary morning game, the Atom Glens managed to down south Stormont 4-2 in overtime. Following a five-minute period of scoreless sudden death overtime with the regular line-ups, the tournament rules called for overtime to be played with only three players on each squad. Mike Sauve and Marc Sauve responded with key goals to give the local team the win.

Pierre Cuerrier had opened the scoring for the Glens and Mike Sauve netted the Glens second goal at the 5:40 mark of the third period. Assists were recorded by Marc Sauve and Michel Lefebvre.

In their semi-final match, Alexandria stole a 5-1 decision from Char-Lan to earn the berth in the "A" final. Jason Palmer led the way with a pair of markers and singles were notched by Alex Maclaren, Luc Francoeur and Stephane Berniquer. Assists on these goals were awarded to: Mike Sauve, Pierre Cuerrier, Paul Vincent, Eric Cholette, Stephane Berniquer, Jason Palmer and Alain Larocque.

In the final game Marc Sauve scored Alexandria's lone goal in the contest.

Stephane Landriault, Alexandria's rookie goaltender, won a souvenir medal as the most valuable player on his team.

South Stormont (Long Sault) won the "B" championship, winning 4-3 in overtime over Spencerville.

Point Blank

by Brian Filion

Glengarry Transport Limited is a progressive company. An example of their foresight was the construction of a small gymnasium at the rear of the Alexandria office to encourage employee fitness programs, the like of which other Canadian companies are only beginning to recognize. Through time and the process of diffusion, however, local people other than employees have gained access to the facility. I have to commend the company for permitting public usage but now they are in a dilemma. Where can they draw the line and how do you supervise such a place? The responsibility does definitely not lie with the company which has admitted fitness buffs and has never forgotten its Alexandria roots by being supportive in minor sports. I believe though the gym's popularity indicated that there is a demand in the Alexandria area for some type of gymnasium or other indoor facility for recreation.

I realize that it would be impossible to build a facility as nice or comparable to GTL and the building of any new gymnasium would be outrageous with all the taxpayers' dollars already invested in school facilities throughout the county. But how about access to these buildings and a share of the surrounding municipalities' recreation budget for supervision and janitorial service? That cost would certainly not be outrageous.

When asked about this idea, Mayor Touchette responded that Council would certainly be willing to look into it, "If the interest was there", and that is the bottom line. About 10 years ago the town spent a good deal of money for a youth center but the project was a flop, only a handful of people used the place and it was closed down.

"We can do everything but play for you, we told the youths at that time", said Mayor Touchette.

If I recall the activities offered at the facility were rather passive, things like darts and cards and I think the youths of today are more exercise-conscious. How can they not be with all the participaction hype in the media? Perhaps something of the above nature would work. I mean you often hear youths grumble about nothing to do on the weekend "Oh, you can watch a hockey game and then head east". Many kids say they head east because there is nothing else to do.

Having some sort of organized activity on Friday and Saturday night may not have a drastic influence on the express to the Quebec border or the vandalism in town, which with reference to our front page throughout 1980 is exceedingly high, but it may temper things. Oh, kids are still going to go down east, but they may arrive an hour later with a real thirst for a brew, not peer pressure consumption.

The proposed construction of a new gymnasium which will be detached from the central body of GDHS may be the answer to our problem, reports Recreational Director Michel Depratto. A portion of the grant for expansion at GDHS is to be used for the construction of a new gymnasium. At the present time the school's gyms are located in the heart of the school and those responsible limit public usage because the people using the gyms have access to the entire school. But there are other facilities in the area and once again "if the demand is there" our recreation director said he would be willing to set something up.

Councillor Jean Larocque, head of the town's Recreation Committee, agrees that the interest shown at the GTL gym is an indication of the demand for some type of facility and once again "if enough people show interest something could be done".

So now we have to see if an interest exists and I'm talking to the high school age student all the way up to adults, the folks who have out-grown organized sport programs.

If there is, our elected and hired officials have pledged to listen. Sheets of signatures complete with addresses indicating what type of activities they would like to see (recreational basketball, volleyball, floor hockey, indoor soccer, perhaps a weight training regimen, etc.) and when they would like access to facilities can be handed into myself at the News office.

So in closing, if you are sincere about something to do during winter evenings, collect nice clean legible sheets of friend's signatures and hand them in. There is no promise of action but it will serve as a forum to make the area's elected officials aware that a demand exists.

For those who don't sign up, never let the lament, "There's nothing to do around here," be heard from their lips.

Jr. B Glens treat hometown crowd

One of the largest crowds of the season at the Glengarry Sports Palace, 472 paid attendance, were treated to the Alexandria Jr. "B" Glens finest home performance to date which resulted in a 7-4 victory over the St. Isidore Eagles on Friday evening.

The win gives the home club a stronghold on second spot in the North East Division of the Ottawa Valley Junior "B" League.

The Glens stuck to a fast-paced skating game, staying away from retaliation penalties which have marred several past performances on home ice and were full worth for the two points. Referee Carman MacMillan handed out only nine minor penalties in the evening, five to the Glens and four to the Eagles.

Friday evening's victory combined with a 15-0 rout over Clarence Creek Beavers on Sunday afternoon launched Alexandria two points ahead of both Navan Grads and St. Isidore. St. Isidore have played two more games than both Navan and Alexandria.

"They knocked the chip off their shoulder, they went out and played hockey" said Coach Gaetan Giroux in reference to Friday's game. Coach Giroux also praised the efforts of two Jr. "C" players, John MacSweyn and Lyle Ross, who were brought up for that contest. The two players took regular shifts and each contributed in the scoring column. MacSweyn netted two goals and Ross assisted on two more counters.

As opposed to previous games with the Eagles, the Glens managed to beat goaltender Robert Hartley early in the game with three goals to take a lead. Hartley's goaltending has been the single most important factor in previous games between these clubs.

St. Isidore opened the scoring when Mario Seguin took advantage of a defensive miscue to score at the 17:42 mark. Glens came back with three unanswered goals. Andre Cholette netted the first two on set-ups from Frank St. Pierre and then recently converted forward, Kieran McCormick accepted a perfect pass from Lyle Ross as they broke in on a two-on-one and fired the puck low past Hartley for a 3-1 first-period lead.

John MacSweyn accounted for the only scoring in the middle frame when he took a pass from Brian Wensink and let go a screened shot which found its way into the back of the net.

Eagles' Bob Kelly put his club back into contention early in the third period with a goal and the score stood at 4-2 until the 8:31 mark of the final period when Brian Wensink, standing on the Eagles' doorstep, managed to knock a loose puck past the goal line. MacSweyn then netted his second goal, Glens' final tally, a hard slapshot from 30 feet out which powered its way through Hartley's legs.

Daniel St. Jean took advantage of the Glens' lackadaisical defensive play in the dying minutes of the game by scoring two goals, rounding out the game's scoring.

Leo Seguin completed serving a three-game suspension on Sunday and marked his return to the lineup by collecting 10 points in the 15-0 rout over the Clarence Creek Beavers.

While the Glens' forwards were padding their scoring totals, Daniel Lauzon recorded his first shutout of the season. Lauzon now has the second best goals-against average in the league, with a 4.35 average. Mark Hoople of the South Ottawa Canadians leads the league with a 3.10 average.

Glens held leads of 5-0 and 8-0 in the first and second period before running away with seven more goals in the final frame.

Scoring for the Glens were Seguin with four goals, Brian Wensink with three, Andre Cholette, Rob MacDonald and Frank Morris all had a pair while John MacSweyn and Frank St. Pierre knocked in singles.

Broncos crowding Rebels

Cardinal Broncos are not yet out of the playoff picture in the South East Division of the Ottawa Valley Jr. "B" League. A 5-3 Saturday night victory over the Char-Lan Rebels at home has put them three points behind the Williamstown club who presently hold down fourth place—the last playoff spot.

The clubs were tied 3-3 midway through the third period when the Broncos came up with the winning goal and the clincher came with less than a minute on the clock.

Rebels headed into that final period down 3-2, but two quick goals by Royal Taylor and Dave Fontaine tied the match. Ray Bourdon scored Char-Lan's first goal at the 6:30 mark of the second period.

Rebels outshot their opponents, 58-32 on the night, but beat goaltender Kent Smith on only three occasions.

"We really ran into a hot goaltender," said Manager Stewart Fourney, adding that their own goalkeeper, Doug Spink, also came up with several key saves in the game.

Rebels head into the weekend hard pressed to at least come away with a split of their two scheduled games. The Rebels meet a new-look Prescott Saints team on Saturday night in Williamstown, game time 8:15, and then travel to Metcalfe on Sunday to play the league-leading Metcalfe Jets. Although Prescott holds down last place in the league standings, they came up with two victories on the weekend, upsetting Morrisburg and Brockville.

Golf appointments made

Executive appointments and the 1981 fee schedule were discussed at a meeting of the Glengarry Golf Club's board of directors held Sunday. Richard Bellefeuille presided at the meeting, held at his home.

The administrative line-up for the year will see President Bellefeuille serving as director of golf; Wayne Crack, vice-president and director of administration; Sandra MacDonald, director of entertainment; Pierre Aubry, junior golf director; Bob Lemieux, director of finances; Emile Hurtubise, groundskeeper and Bruce Marr, in charge of special projects.

Fees were set up about eight per cent with consideration of the fact there had been no raise last year. Shareholders' prices will be: Senior men, $140; Senior ladies, $100; family, $240. Green fees will be $6 during the week, and $9 on weekends.

An additional classification this year will be Student at $130, for persons over 18 but still at school. Junior rates are under 14 years, $25; and 14-18 years, $35.

Members will receive a five per cent reduction if fees are paid by April 30. A full schedule of rates will be sent to all members with the president's letter, later in the spring.

Social memberships, at $15 for shareholders and $25 for non-shareholders, will again include four rounds of golf. The executive stressed that anyone using the facilities must be a member according to provincial liquor laws.

Glen Nevis wins big game

Glen Nevis won a crucial contest on Sunday afternoon, edging league-leading Lancaster, 6-5, to move within two points of a share of first place.

Mike Tessier and Cameron McLeod each netted two goals for the winners, Ian Sandilands and Bert Macdonald chipped in with singles. Lancaster got markers from Gerald Bardon, Brian Reasbeck, Claude Bourck, Mort Belmore and Kerry MacKay.

In Sunday's second game St. Raphael's dressed a powerful squad and downed Bainsville, 7-3. Paul Seguin led the way with a pair of goals and singles were recorded by Andy MacDonell, Lindsay McCullough, Mike MacDougall, Rob MacDougall and Allan Macdonell. Mike Tessier potted two goals for the Bainsville team and Garrett McGillis chipped in with one.

Thursday night action saw Bainsville come back to tie Glen Nevis with two late goals and Lancaster shutout St. Raphael's 6-0.

Lancaster's scoring output was spearheaded by Brian Reasbeck, who collected a pair of goals and singles were netted by Claude Bourck, Kerry MacKay and Allan Laframboise.

Skiers brave frigid weather

Seventy-five members or more of the Glengarry Ski School braved the frigid weather condition on Sunday morning and headed for Val Morin, Que.—the hills of Belles Neiges.

Cold weather, a temperature hovering around the -20°F mark, combined with a wind-chill factor may have kept other skiers off the slopes but not the Glengarrians. Skiers, bundled in all types of protective clothing, took advantage of the open hills to take numerous runs with timely chalet stops for warmth and refreshment. Snow conditions were good.

First-time skiers were the benefactors of group lessons from the six school instructors and before the day was out the majority were attacking the intermediate hills with success.

The two-bus convoy made a pit stop on the way home for the apres ski party and eventually arrived in Alexandria at 8:30 p.m.

Judging from the noise level and enthusiasm on the buses, a good time was had by all. The second trip of the year will be to Chanteclair in Ste Adele. The buses leave from the I.G.A. parking lot at 7 a.m., Sunday.

FOCUS

Remembering the year of the child

The United Nations has declared 1981 the Year of the Disabled. We've seen International Women's Year and the Year of the Child come and go and although the intentions of the aforementioned august body are laudable, I fear that we may be witnessing another flash in the pan as far as the Year of the Disabled goes.

That may sound cruel, but infinitely more cruel are the results of a survey of the lives of black children recently released by the Children's Defense Fund, a Washington-based lobbying and advocacy group for children.

Somehow the Year of the Child passed these kids by.

A black child in the United States has nearly one chance in two of being born into poverty and is twice as likely as a white baby to die during the first year of life.

If a black child survives that first year, the odds are against his growing up healthy, wealthy or wise. American black children are more likely to be sick and without a regular source of health care than white children. They are three times as likely to be labelled mentally retarded, twice as likely to drop out of school before twelfth grade and three times as likely to be unemployed.

Says the Defence Fund's president, Marian Wright Edelman, "...millions of black children lack self-confidence, feel discouragement, despair numbness or rage as they try to grow up on islands of poverty, ill health, inadequate education, squalid streets with dilapidated housing, crime and rampant unemployment in a nation of boastful affluence."

The economic ravages of the past decade have had a particularly devasting effect on the black poor of the United States. Income for black households, adjusted for inflation, declined. In the '60's the unemployment rate for black youth was twice as high as for white teenagers. Today, it is three times as high.

The family structure of blacks seems to have taken an even more severe beating. Four of five white children live in two-parent families; fewer than half of all black children do. Only one white child in 38 lives away from both parents; one in eight black children does.

Was this the legacy International Children's Year was supposed to leave?

Or was it just a show of picturesque children and drawing contests and talk about 'kids' rights'?

Did it make any difference at all?

Will our Year of the Disabled turn out to be yet another show of sound and fury, signifying nothing?

Showcasing a particular group for a year does nothing to effect the change that is so desperately needed.

The directors of these internatonal pageants should put their money where their mouths are and try to bring underprivileged groups into the mainstream of life for good, not for just one splashy year.

MacLEOD—MacLENNAN

Living in London

A lovely fall wedding took place at Kirk Hill United Church on November 1, 1980, when Heather Ruth MacLennan was united in marriage to Bruce Roderick MacLeod.

Heather is the daughter of Donald and Florence MacLennan of Dalkeith and Bruce is the son of Ranald and Shirley MacLeod of Alexandria.

Rev. J. H. Slade officiated at the double-ring ceremony where the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Mrs. Janice Nelson was the soloist in the rendition of "Love Divine," accompanied by Mrs. Edna MacMillan, who also played the wedding music. A church choir added to the service.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown of Silesta chiffon with empire body, full skirt and bishop sleeves. Her veil was mid-length attached to a lace band. She carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Friend of the bride, Elaine Vachon, acted as matron of honor, in a rose polyester floor-length gown with matching cape. Bridesmaids were Claudette O'Connor and Heather MacLeod. They were gowned identically in burgundy polyester with matching capes. The junior bridesmaid was Carol MacLennan, sister of the bride. She wore a gown of white and burgundy. All the attendants carried matched bouquets of rose and burgundy carnations, mixed with baby's breath.

The flower girl was the bride's niece, Cheryl MacKinnon, who wore a white gown similar to the bride, with a matching basket of flowers.

The best man was Ken MacLeod, brother of the groom and ushers were Alex MacDonell and Randy MacLeod.

After the service, a reception was held at the Green Valley Pavilion, where J. K. MacLeod acted as MC. For travelling, Heather wore a plum colored suit, black accessories and matching orchid. They honeymooned in Florida and are now residing in London, Ont.

Out of town guests were from London, Montreal, Ottawa, Peterborough, Red Lake, North Bay, Georgetown, Oshawa, Kemptville, Richmond and surrounding area.

Prior to the wedding, Heather was given showers in Dalkeith and London.

The OPP remind us that on hearing an ambulance, fire truck, police cruiser or public utility vehicle siren, or on seeing their red-roof lights flashing, all drivers must pull over to the curb, bring their vehicles to a stop, allowing emergency vehicles to pass.

In case of a one-way street, drivers must pull over to the right or left curb, whichever is nearest.

It's also illegal to follow closer than 150 metres (150-175 yards) behind any fire department vehicle responding to an alarm.

The Ontario Traffic Safety bulletin reports that the newest gadget which is supposed to improve car mileage is a magnet, originally designed to keep metal out of cows' stomachs. Farm supply stores are selling thousands of the four-inch magnets to motorists who attach them to both sides of their fuel lines and claim they're getting better mileage. The theory is the magnets create an electrical current which heats the fuel slightly, so less gasoline is needed for combustion.

Pick-ups made easy

VIA Rail has announced that passengers making club car reservations between Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec City (Sainte-Foy) will no longer be required to pick-up for one-month trial period.

According to Mr. J.L. Moisan, vice-president, VIA Quebec: "We understand that it is sometimes unpractical and unpleasant to come down to the station to pick-up tickets a few days to an hour before train departure time, especially in Ottawa and Quebec City (Sainte Foy) where stations are located a few miles from downtown".

Mr. Moisan added: "The reason for the trial period is that we may have too many "no-shows". In the interest of the travelling public we would have to return to the "option time" formula.

"Since it is not our policy to overbook club car seats reservations, we are well aware of the risks taken by allowing passengers to pick-up their tickets at the last minute".

In short, passengers having made reservations in advance by telephone will now have the opportunity to pick-up their tickets at any time before train departure.

Ontario minimum wage lowest

A sign of Ontario's decline as the economic leader of Canada is that it now has the lowest minimum wage in the country.

If Ontario is a paradise, it is not a workers' paradise, says Cornwall MPP George Samis.

The NDP member blasted the Ontario government recently for letting the province's minimum wage drop to an all-time low in comparison with other governments.

"The government likes to boast that this is the province of opportunity, but their record on the minimum wage makes a mockery of that claim," the New Democratic Party member said.

Ontario's minimum wage stands at $3 per hour and there has been no increase in that rate since January 1, 1979 despite the fact that inflation has eroded away much of the purchasing power.

Those who want to work, rather than collect welfare, cannot help but be discouraged by such a wage structure.

Samis also correctly chastized the government for actually "bragging" about our low minimum wage.

In a brochure prepared for American investors, the government points out (with apparent pride) that Ontario's minimum wage is only $2.55 U.S. and that the province's average manufacturing wage is lower than both the U.S. average and that of the Great Lakes states.

As Samis noted, the government has reached an all-time low in cynicism when "we get to the stage that we try to lure investors by emphasizing how low wages are in Ontario."

The minimum wages in other provinces are as follows: British Columbia, $3.65; Saskatchewan, $3.50; Alberta, $3.50; Manitoba, $3.15; Quebec, $3.84; New Brunswick, $3.05; Nova Scotia, $3; Newfoundland, $3.15; Prince Edward Island, $3; Northwest Territories, $3.50; Yukon, $3.25.

None of the minimums are anything to brag about, but Ontario's is particularly scandalous in view of the government's claim that the province is such a pinnacle of prosperity.

Indeed, the province may be prosperous for some people, but not for the working poor.

Foiling car thieves big problem

With car thefts in Alexandria and area on the upswing, we thought it would be beneficial to provide our readers with a few hints on how to reduce the prospect of having their vehicles stolen.

General Motors has compiled four worthwhile suggestions:

1. The "Just for a Minute" Syndrome. When you leave your car, even if it's "just for a minute", lock all of the doors and take your keys. In fact, about one of every five cars stolen was left unattended with keys in the ignition. Keep driver's license and vehicle registration cards in your wallet or purse. If a car thief finds these documents in the vehicle's glove box, he can impersonate you if stopped by the police.

2. The Isolated Location. It's safest to park in a locked garage, but if you can't, don't leave your car in a dark, out-of-the-way spot. Instead, try to park on a busy, well-lighted street. Thieves shy away from tampering with a car if there's a high risk of being spotted.

3. The Display Case. There's nothing more inviting to a thief than expensive items lying in your car, in plain sight. If you lock these items in the trunk or glove box, there's less incentive for a thief to break in. Also, when you park in a commercial lot or garage, be cautious. Lock your valuables in the trunk, and leave only the ignition key with the attendant.

4. The Space at the End of the Block. In recent years, professional car-theft operations have become an increasing problem. Unlike amateurs, the professionals are not easily deterred. Cars parked at the end of a block are easy targets for the professional thief with a tow truck. Therefore, it's best to park in the middle of the block. Be sure to turn your steering wheel sharply to one side or the other. That will lock the steering column and prevent the car from being towed from the rear.

Of course, regardless of what precautions are taken, no vehicle is "theft-proof". Only by finding some way to prevent crime or at least slow down our spiralling crime rate can we make our environment safe for the majority of honest, hard-working citizens. The police, the courts and the social service agencies all have a role to play in halting this stepped-up march of crime.

The onus is on every individual, however, to assist these agencies and the best way of doing so is to take whatever measures are reasonable to protect his or her property.

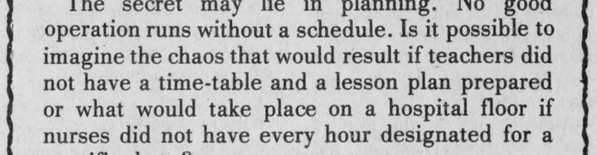
'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret



"If I only had Time" is one of my favorite songs. It was made famous by the Australian folk-singer, John Rawles:

Time like a dream
Goes a-hurrying by
And the hours just fly
Dreams to pursue
There are mountains I'd climb
If I only had time.

Of all the things given to us for free, time must rank highest among the luxuries we abuse.

If we look back in 1980—the span of one whole year, what could we say we accomplished? What have we done to ourselves to become better people? What do we do with all the time given us?

"I haven't time" has got to be one of the phrases we unconsciously use most often:

No, I can't serve on the committee, I haven't time.

No I can't visit the neighbors, I haven't time. I can't call on Uncle Joe at the Nursing Home, I haven't time.

I can't go to the kids' concert, I haven't time.

I should write to Nancy but I haven't time.

We look at some friends of ours and wonder how some seem to be able to accomplish so much more than others. Do they set up priorities and weed out the time-consuming tasks that have no goal?

The secret may lie in planning. No good operation runs without a schedule. Is it possible to imagine the chaos that would result if teachers did not have a time-table and a lesson plan prepared or what would take place on a hospital floor if nurses did not have every hour designated for a specific chore?

While we are accustomed to accepting a time-table in our work with others, it is time with ourselves we squander because of lack of purpose.

Take Saturday for instance, an off-day for work and school. A family—we'll say two parents and two teenagers instead of planning on Friday evening what could be done on Saturday will all sleep in until noon. We owe that to ourselves we say, after all we worked hard and studied all week.

But do we really need to sleep those precious prime hours away?

From 8 a.m. until noon is four hours multiplied by four people. With 16 hours we could paint or paper a room, prepare meals to freeze for the coming week, chop up firewood, or do volunteer work if we have nothing at home requiring our effort. (Farms not included here). Its the planning that makes the difference in accomplishment.

It would help too if we were specific with our intentions. "We must have you people over some evening", we say to friends and nothing ever happens.

We could change this to "Come over Tuesday evening for a two-hour card game" or "Drop in after work on Wednesday for a pot-luck supper", and people would be more assured of our sincerity.

Our resolutions usually take on a broader field than we can manage to achieve although we pride ourselves on our high-sounding ideals. "I'm going to spend more time praying from now on", we expound, usually where we have a fair-sized audience who don't give a hoot if we pray or not.

Such a generalization of course is easier to neglect than a specific "I'm going to spend ten minutes in prayer every day after my supper meal", vowed in front of family who would be happy to remind us of our neglect, as they throw in a few suggestions to include in the prayer-time.

Back in our grade-school readers we had the reminder—"So here has been dawning another blue day. Think. Wilt thou let it slip useless away?"

We have been given a definite challenge by whoever it is who designates the purpose of certain years—this is the Year of the Handicapped.

We will be looking for some definite progress made by all the organizations, church groups and schools as they discuss this topic.

If the handicapped had our faculties what would they do with our time? We could use some suggestions from them I'm sure.

Church probes economy

Last week I offered some views on Christmas and Christianity, making particular reference to our economy and whether it was consistent with the Christian society we claim to be.

A few days later, I noticed a report on a task force the United Church has established to probe just that issue.

The church has decided to conduct a major study on the Canadian economic system "and its impact on persons."

The task force was sparked by a resolution of the Saskatchewan Conference of the church which opposed "The present proliferation of advertising and its major role in the support of the media".

The resolution was referred to a special committee which concluded that the economic system, itself, not just one part of the system should be probed.

The committee noted there was "an uneasiness regarding the basic nature of the Canadian economic system".

The General Council of the church also stated a belief that "persons, as the children of God, should never be used or manipulated for commercial gain."

The church has also criticized the Canadian Advertising Advisory Board which "ignores sexual stereotyping, over-consumption, abuse of consumer credit or portrayals of excessive affluence".

This delving into economics represents a major turning point for the church. For years, a sharp distinction was drawn between religion and socio-economic action.

Elements in both the Protestant and Catholic Churches have begun pointing to the necessity of applying religious teachings to every day behavior.

In his book "His Way", Father David Knight warns about those who profess to be "good Christians" and abide by the 10 commandments only to deny these principles in their business practices.

Referring to examples in the United States, he notes, "Who would treat the president of Eastern Airlines like a Philistine? And what has a nicer image in our society than the dairy industry? But both the president of Eastern Airlines and the president of the National Dairy Association have confessed that their associations paid thousands of dollars in illegal contributions to Richard Nixon's presidential campaign fund."

Father Knight points to the 10 commandments "as they should be applied to the modern world:

"Thou shalt not murder through industry, steal through unjust profits, lie through fraudulent advertising, or ignore the effect of your business practices on your neighbor."

He notes that "The real temptation of the secular Christian is not just to 'sin' in the ways that society understands—to murder, steal, commit adultery as the culture itself defines these words. It is rather to go along with what the culture approves of without asking too many questions.

"To kill when society says it is legitimate or even one's civic duty; to steal by implementing company policies that are perfectly legal and terribly immoral; to hide one's light under a basket and not be a sign of the midst of 'an evil, faithless age' (Mt 16:4)—these are the sins that destroy us."

Traditionally, the church and "the establishment" have worked hand-in-hand. If the church dares to venture into such areas as the morality of business and the economic system, this traditional alliance could be split asunder.

But perhaps, as Father Knight suggests, it is this comfortable alliance that has reduced the church to an irrelevant institution in the day-to-day affairs of man.

Operation Dismantle proposes disarmament

Jan. 11, 1981
RR#1, Alexandria, Ont.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Your editorial and feature articles with regards to John Lennon's death and his struggle for peace have spurred me to inform you and your readers of "Operation Dismantle."

Operation Dismantle is a program aimed at a global referendum on disarmament. Jim Stark, a Canadian, founded the movement three years ago.

His plan is simple. Some nation, preferably Canada, but not necessarily so, would propose in the United Nations that there should be a world referendum on a controlled and properly phased multilateral disarmament program.

The people of the world and not the politicians would be asked to vote under U.N. supervision.

Some nations might object at first but they would look foolish if they opposed a democratic approach to an agreed-upon goal that showed no sign of being achieved by any other means.

In remembrance of John Lennon, Operation Dismantle is going to demonstrate on Parliament Hill, the 8th day of every month at noon. These demonstrations will continue until Operation Dismantle succeeds in forcing the Canadian government to propose the referendum in the United Nations.

The address of the movement's headquarters is: Operation Dismantle, Box 3887, Station C, Ottawa, Ont., K1Y 4M5.

Hoping to have your support for world peace.

"Imagine" Peace and Love.

Bruce Griffins

World War II veteran laid to rest in Alexandria

The death occurred at Glengarry Memorial Hospital on Saturday, January 10 of Maxime Lalonde at the age of 69 years.

He was born at Mattawa, a son of the late Xavier Lalonde and his late wife the former Amanda Leroux. The family later moved to Alexandria area.

He was a bachelor. He served overseas in World War II, having enlisted at Kingston with the Royal Canadian Artillery Regiment. After being wounded by shrapnel he returned to Canada in 1945. Following his honorable discharge from active service, he went to St. Catharines, where he was employed until three years ago. Upon his retirement, he came to reside with his brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Leduc, at 85 Kenyon Street, Alexandria, where he has since resided.

Although not in the best of health, he gave of his time and services at the Legion Hall.

He was an active member of the Royal Canadian Legion, in both the St. Catharine and Alexandria branches. He was admitted to the hospital on Friday afternoon and passed away early Saturday morning, just a few hours after the sudden death of his brother, Telesphore, who died earlier that day in St. Catharines.

Left to mourn his passing are seven sisters and one brother, namely: Mrs. Tom Miller (Claire) of St. Catharines; Mrs. Harvey Leduc (Melvina), Mrs. Marcel Gareau (Noella), Mrs. Lawrence Hutt (Theresa) and Mrs. Jean Paul Lacombe (Loretta) all of Alexandria; Mrs. John Bermingham (Elizabeth) and Mrs. Tom Flannagan (Gloria) both of St. Catharines, and one brother Ovila of Apple Hill. Many nieces and nephews also survive.

He was predeceased by his parents and two brothers Leo and Telesphore. The very largely attended funeral was held Monday, January 12 to Sacred Heart Church where Rev. Roger Desrosiers officiated. The Sacred Heart Choir sang the mass.

The funeral was under the direction of the Alexandria Branch 423 of the Royal Canadian Legion. The members attended in a body Sunday night for the special memorial service at the funeral home, where the flag draped casket lay between the standards. The Ladies Auxiliary members also attended at both the wake and funeral mass. Active pallbearers were legionnaires Harry Main, Fred Lajoie, Vic Dudar, Henry Goulet, Donald MacMaster and Donald MacDougall. Honorary pallbearers were Gavin McDonald, Don Hay and Gordon Leonard. Piper Arnold Munro played the Farewell Lament as the body left the church.

The body was placed in St. Finnan's vault to await burial in the spring in the family plot at Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Had party for Christmas meeting

The December meeting of Dunvegan Women's Institute took the form of a Christmas party.

Seventeen members and 18 invited guests met at 7 p.m. for a delicious turkey dinner in the Institute Hall. The tables were beautifully decorated in the Christmas theme, and a lovely Christmas tree completed the festive scene.

Mrs. Mack MacRae presided for the regular meeting.

The motto, "Christmas is a state of mind, not just a calendar day," was commented on by Mrs. J. S. Loewen. The main thought brought out in the comment was that the reason we celebrate Christmas is that the Christ Child was born at Bethlehem, and that the reason God gave this great gift was to save the people from their sins.

The members answered the roll call by telling about Christmas customs in other lands. This was followed by an exchange of Christmas gifts found under the tree.

One of the highlights of the meeting was receiving a Christmas card and gift from Beatrice Fletcher, who was a former member of Dunvegan WI. Although Beatrice moved to Oakville quite a few years ago, she always remembers Dunvegan WI at Christmas time.

The collection was taken and this month's generous donations were being given to the "Pennies for Friendship" fund.

A variety program followed, consisting of Christmas carols, led by Mrs. Isabel MacLeod; readings by Mrs. Dorothy Fresque, Mrs. Flora Chisholm, and Mrs. Joyce MacKinnon. A contest conducted by Mrs. Dan MacRae, on Jumbled Christmas Gifts, was won by Mrs. Catherine Anne Gauthier.

The president announced that the next meeting would be held on January 29.

Dies in Edmonton

On December 27, Rannie Dannie Jim MacDonald, a former Glengarrian, passed away at Edmonton General Hospital, Edmonton, Alberta at the age of 93.

He was born in the 2nd of Kenyon, a son of the late Dannie Jim MacDonald and his wife Mary Anne MacMillan. At the age of 17, he left for mining country in Northern Ontario.

He was one of the old-time prospectors of the Porcupine Area, who travelled by canoe and snowshoe, waded through muskeg and fought black flies and bush fires to open up our mining country. He was known to his prospecting friends as Black Rannie.

He is survived by a half-sister, Mary Margaret MacPherson of Cornwall. Mrs. John Shago of Green Valley is a niece.

Burial was in Edmonton.

Martintown Rumor Mill

By Art Buckland

To continue our process of saving money on oil so that we would have enough loot to get oiled more often, we felt that we would, for wood heat, need wood, wouldn't we? I soon discovered another hitch. The chainsaw needed a tune-up, since it would not cut much on manual, even though 'twas quieter. Add $70 or subtract, depending whether you are saving or spending. An additional problem: should the oil for chainsaw operation be added to the cost of your oil heat or your wood heat? Danny Williamson has solved this sticky problem, apparently.

Did you know that all the experts have grossly underestimated the BTU heat potential? (All those who have not been forced to change, that is.) Wood heats as you walk to the bush clad in inner garments, outer garments and in betweens; wood heat preparation paraphenalia heats also: the saw, gas, oil, other liquids, file, axe, sled and The News. Wood heats as you saw, saw, saw, wood heats even as you watch the family load, load, load and unload, and pile and carry into the woodbox. It might be that flame heat is insignificant to the total of the perheat. The above is the one argument for not buying stove ready-dry hardwood from our neighbor, Wilfred Taillon, delivered to our stove door.

A local furnace repairman tells me that the physical heat of a house varies inversely as the emotional heat of the occupants seeking his solution to their faulty furnace problem. When house temperature drops to 50 degrees, the occupants' temperature is "pretty hot".

So cold was it last week that I left a conversation frozen in the bush until next spring's thaw. Some frozen blue air, in fact, when the tree's actual fall path did not quite match the theoretical notched fall path. (It is still resting on my empty boot and other leavings.

The Glen Falloch Police Department has been busy with two mysterious road mishaps. Three, if you count our complaints about someone sprinkling wood ashes on our Main Street tobaggan hill. One involved visitors of the Glen, who upon departure, did not realize that Main Street does continue straight into Thompson's ploughed field. The Mary Murray & Associates Towing Company was able to 'help out'. The question concerning the investigators is: Was it the misdirections of the host (who daily directs air traffic controllers on airplane direction, and thus was out of his element), or was it the festive season hospitality of the host?

The second mystery on the constabulary books is the accidental widening of the Douglas Murray gate. One hunch has it that there are now so many vehicles in the family that the new extra wide gate will allow everyone to leave at once, each in his own vehicle; Douglas to Masonry, Mary to shop, Dougie to ski, Warren to hockey and Buck with any one of the four. Another lead being followed up is unknown "young fella". Another guess is the poor braking power of 1976 Ford pickups with a hungry driver after morning chores in 40 below. Watch for the company's recall bulletin. Yet another postulation is the natural high speed performance of Fords with frozen rubber-booted drivers.

The other day I thought that I saw an electric car on the South Branch. Turned out to be a woman driver trailing a 50 foot extension cord with a piece of the back porch attached.

Alpha St. Onge and wife and daughter Susan Lynch have just returned from sunny Florida shores. They got back to the VII in time to experience our 40 below weather in North Martintown.

Bainsville WI meet

Braving a stormy January evening, several ladies held the first meeting of the year of the Bainsville WI at the home of Mrs. Archie Robertson.

Many of the answers to the Roll Call "My New Year's Resolution," were similar in that we need to try harder to keep those resolutions we do make. The ladies resolved to learn a new craft, get regular exercises and keep healthy.

During the business, another resolution evolved, and that was to make an effort to visit our shut-in neighbours and friends more often. A euchre party was also planned for the near future—the date will be announced later.

Mrs. D. Ross's comment to the Motto was to read Jean Baker Dawson's poem "Old Bainsville Hall."

Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Petrie showed slides of Quebec, the Maritimes and many local Curry Hill and Bainsville scenes. They've become excellent photographers.

OLD BAINSVILLE HALL

Come with me down memory lane, back into the past
There you'll find Old Bainsville Hall, with its memories vast.
The good Bainsville Farmers built it all
It was usually called, just Bainsville Hall.

They raised a large building, with feed room downstairs.
Railway tracks to the door, brought cattle feed there.
Up above was the hall, with nice hardwood floor
You ascended the stairs, from a first floor door.

With the railway so handy, to deliver the stuff
The farmers were happy, and had stock feed enough.
Cattle feed, bran and gluten, delivered by rail
The cattle stayed fat, and got food without fail.
That hall had a platform for special folk
For orchestra, and for people who spoke.
Hugh O'Reilly would call the sets
Down through the years I hear him yet.

You all remember Dusty Morrison well
A local boy, "Who rang the bell"
As an M.C. he did very good
A square dance caller we understood.
For every occasion we had such good talent.
Our local musicians were willing and valiant.
Gretta Gardiner, Jack Thompson and Donald Hugh
Played those happy tunes, we all loved to dance to.
When Don McVichie climbed those stairs, he really got a hand.
That old violin would really talk, then you'd know t'was McVichie's Band.
We clapped our hands, and tapped our feet, as he drew bow, over strings.
Rae Bowen and is saxaphone would make those rafters ring.

Many of the guys would go down EAST,
Before the dance began.
Around eleven, they'd all come back
And dance to beat the band.
We waltzed, fox-trotted, do-si-doed,
From ten o'clock, till two
At twelve we had a break for lunch
The coffee was strong, it packed a punch.
That old hall was used so often.
There was always so much to do.
Meetings, card parties, receptions,
Church suppers, and Women's Institute too.
So many folks joined in the fun
To remember them all, would make my brain numb.
I will name just a few, that draw my attention
I ask your pardon if your name isn't mentioned.
Rosses, Arrys, Bakers, Gunns,
Reillys, Petries, Thompsons and Robertsons.
McRaes, McCuaigs, Osbornes, and McKies,
Fishers, and Mitchells, were a few of these.
John Fourney and sister Marguerite
Arrived, looking handsome and neat.
They were good dancers, and light as a breeze,
I remember, Marg. dancing the Highland Schottische.
Many a romance was started there
Those people were bonnie, and free from care
You fine people must remember it all.
Did you do your courting, in Bainsville Hall?
When home sweet home was played at two
It drew a chorus of groans and boos.
No one was ever ready to leave
To say good-night was sure to grieve.
Those days are over, the old hall's torn down
Moved to a location, away from our town.
It's west of Alexandria on route 43.
Go see it, and remember what used to be.
Our memory still lingers on good times in the past.
Of Old Bainsville Hall, where we all had a "Blast".
Though now we're older and wiser we be,
Those wonderful memories, are priceless to me.

Home for a Glengarry Christmas

by Ewan Ross

A few hours before, and hundreds of miles distant, I had been part of Canada's workforce —a production unit. My skills, my knowledge, my years of acquired competence were helping to build machinery that would be used to build roads in distant parts of the earth. Roads that hopefully would bring man closer to man and thereby make for better neighbors among the peoples on our overcrowded planet. But these same roads had led Russian tanks into Pakistan and facilitated the "cut-throat" politics of the Africa of today.

In close proximity to the plant that gives me a better than average living is my modern house. In it is every gadget and gismal the human heart can desire, and it is presided over by my much-appreciated wife of some 35 years. Around me live my neighbors and acquaintances, the people whom I have lived among, and worked with, for some 40 years. There I feel that I am very much part of a happy, prosperous, and well-established community.

Tonight I am sitting in a pew in old St. Andrew's Church in Williamstown, and it is Christmas Eve. To most of the congregation my wife and I are strangers. As the people come into the church I can feel them looking us over, and hear them asking each other, "Who are they?"

Outside the church the thermometer has dropped to zero and is still falling. A bitter wind, straight from Hudson Bay is driving some inches of new fallen snow before it. To all appearances it is not a nice night to be a stranger in a strange community, several hundred miles distant from my own house, my own community and my job. To be, in outward appearance at least, a stranger in a strange land.

Yet, as I sat in that pew in St. Andrew's, Williamstown, on Christmas Eve 1980, from deep inside me, thoughts rose unbidden. I watched the coal oil lamps being lit in the church, and as the electric lights were dimmed, shadows spread out from the walls and galleries of the 165-year-old building—friendly shadows which folded themselves around me. In the course of the service it seemed that voices from these shadows spoke to me. Certainly my mind heard them.

My fifth and sixth great grandparents, four pairs of them, I knew lay buried in the churchyard a few feet from where I sat. It seemed to me that their spirits came and sat with me a while and said, "Welcome home lad, we've missed you." Old Donald, with Christena, his wife had a special word to say, "Remember, young fellow, we helped to build this church. Yes, we know that the few shillings we gave, along with the sand and gravel, scantlings and work, could be paid for with a lot less money than you spent on liquor this Christmas, yet it took about a year out of our lives to build this church; but it was a good investment wasn't it? There have been a lot of services here since we were tucked under the sod, and the building is as good today as it was when we first hung the front door. Eight or nine generations of our descendants have been welcomed back here since we built this church with our blood and sweat, yes, and our curses too, as the minister and the elders urged us on. It was a good investment, boy. We built better than we knew, and you are here tonight to prove it."

Donald and Christena's whispers in my mind made me to think. Yes, it was true that they had built well, and, as I looked about me it was obvious that the church had aged gracefully and well. But, I thought to myself, Christena and Donald, Hugh and Catherine, Thomas and Margaret. Tom and Isabella can't take all the credit. Love and care have been expended lavishly here, since they were all laid in their graves more than a 100 years ago. Love, care and hard work prepared the service tonight; something more than a fine old building brought me hundreds of miles to be here tonight. But exactly what?

As we sang the old familiar carols perhaps something of the answer came to me. The minister of the church, presiding over the service from the pulpit, was the Rev. Edwin McDonald. No name could better symbolize the nine-generation continuity of Glengarry than McDonald. At the console of the organ for the carol service was Shelley MacNaughton—young, beautiful and competent. She seemed to me to symbolize the women of Glengarry down through the ages, who as dutiful, hard working daughters to begin with, and later, as exemplar wives and mothers, made the homes, and produced and reared the children. Children who by the thousands, for a hundred and fifty years now, have gone out into the world of men, and taken their places confidently and competently among their peers. Glengarry owes much to the Shelley MacNaughtons and the generations of women before her, who, along with their genes, transmitted the traditional values of their families to their children and to their children's children. They made their houses into homes and their churches into something more than places in which to have a ritual service of worship at regular intervals.

As I joined in the service at St. Andrew's, Williamstown, this Christmas Eve, my thoughts went to roaming not only down the passages of time, but along the roads of Glengarry. I thought of all the church communities in the county—Catholic and Protestant, Anglophone and Francophone. I thought of the scores of persons like myself, wanderers in "foreign parts" for many years, who had returned to Glengarry this Christmas season.

Like small children who had been away too long we had come home. By accident of birth and blood I was at St. Andrew's, Williamstown. Others were in every church community in the county.

From all over we had heard a common call, "Come home for Christmas, we have missed you."

Those of us who were fortunate were able to heed the call.

To be warden

Kenyon Township Reeve Hugh McIntyre will likely be warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry next year.

Last week, The News incorrectly indicated that Morrisburg Reeve Dillabough would be in line for the post due to the counties council tradition of having prospective wardens follow an apprenticeship system through the committee structure.

In fact, as chairman of the Social Services committee, Reeve Dillabough will likely be warden in three years.

As Finance Committee chairman, Reeve McIntyre will likely hold the top post in 1982.

Cornwall Township Reeve John Cleary, chairman of the Roads and Bridges committee, would traditionally be next in 1983, with Reeve Dillabough attaining the wardenship in 1984.

Matilda Township Reeve George Cooper is 1981 warden.

Recovered alcoholic tells of treatment

At a meeting of Mount Carmel House Auxiliary held last Tuesday evening at Shalom House, St. Raphael's, Janet W, a recovered alcoholic was guest speaker. She told of the treatment facilities available for alcoholics.

There are four segments of treatment for the alcoholic, soon-to-be-recovered. There is the detoxification stage, the assessment orientation stage, the rehabilitation part and the after care.

During the assessment orientation period, a team of people work closely with the client to determine his living problems and just how motivated he is to quit drinking.

The rehabilitation part is where Janet W. works. In this part of the program they deal with things like educating the alcoholic on the actual truths about alcohol: that it's a drug, and it's addictive and acts like an anesthetic. They deal with alternatives to drinking as well as personality problems.

In this part of the program they have group sessions five times a week, with a total of eight hours program is open-ended. Whereas they used to require six months in this segment of the program, alcoholics can now stay for longer because they realized six weeks may not be long enough.

Then there is the after care. "People still need support after", said Janet. They are usually matched up with a volunteer who knows the ins and outs of Alcoholics Anonymous who will help them in their continued abstinence from alcohol.

There are two family therapists and they have a beginners group of Al-Anon. The entire program is AA oriented. The patients are introduced to AA while in treatment. They have a volunteer program like big brothers or big sisters to help the recovered alcoholic.

A voluntary program of ex-residents was set up so that they could take the recovered alcoholic to their first AA meeting. The after care program lasts about one year.

"More people are coming to treatment because the law enforcers realize alcoholism is really a problem. They end up saving the taxpayer more money", said Janet.

Eleven years ago last September, Janet herself went through the program. At the time it was only mandatory to stay one four weeks but she stayed seven because she felt she need more treatment. Mandatory now is six weeks. She had four children and a practicing alcoholic husband at the time.

"I went because there didn't seem to be any place else for me to go", she said and added how the program fulfilled her mental, physical and spiritual needs. There was lots of loving care from volunteers. "Without our volunteers our program would lack a lot in spirituality", said Janet.

AA taught Janet to face reality and take one day at a time without a drink and she did it with the help of many but what helped her the most was the kindness shown by the volunteers. She has not taken a drink since then.

Recent visitors with Bill and Peggi Calder were Murray and Didi Calder, Andrea and Pierre of Pointe Claire.

Many friends attended the wake for the late Mr. Flanagan of Avonmore. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. John Keith MacLeod and family.

There were two foxes shot in the Skye area and they are suspected of having rabies.

Sorry to hear that Bill Randall is in the Glengarry Memorial Hospital. We hope he will soon be feeling better.

Rene Taillon came out of hospital on Friday and is staying with Claude and Lucy Taillon for a while. Welcome home Rene!

We hear that the flu-bug has been hanging around the Nixon household at Skye. We wish them a speedy and complete recovery.

This cold weather has been playing havoc with water-pipes, furnaces and also people's cars. This is a time to take care for there seems to be so many fires in the country. We hope there won't be any more in the Dunvegan area. The McGillis family is slowly getting back to normal after their furnace trouble, and also the Hank MacDonald family, after their fire in the late 1980s.

Former policeman and fireman dies at 85

The death occurred at his late residence, 7 Ottawa Street, Alexandria, early Monday morning January 12, of Zotique (Zed) Courville. He was born on January 15, 1896 at Maxville, and would have reached his 85th birthday on Thursday.

He was a son of the late D. M. Courville and his late wife the former Mary Mallette.

He was educated at St. Margaret's Convent School, the Alexander Separate School and the Alexandria High School. He later worked with his father, and when Mr. Courville moved to Cornwall, he was employed at Harry Cowan Hardware and later at Antoine Chenier Hardware.

He was married on August 29, 1918, at Sacred Heart Church, to the former Beriza Lebeouf, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas Lebeouf. When the children were young the family moved to Alexandria, where Mr. Courville owned and operated a hardware business on Main St., North, for many years. For a brief period he managed the first Brewery Warehouse here. For a number of years he was employed with the A. W. MacMillan Undertaking Ltd. He was a member of the Alexandria Volunteer Fire Brigade and the Alexandria Police Department under the direction of the late Chief Max Seger, and was later named Chief of Police. He was endowed with a gifted voice and was quite an actor and took part in many Irish and Scottish concerts put on by St. Finnan's Parish and the K of C.

When World War II broke out he enlisted in the Reserve of the Royal Canadian Air Force Fire Fighters' Division, 1939-1945, at Rockcliffe, Ottawa, and served at various depots. In 1950 he joined the Canadian Corps of Commissionaire with the N.A. Timmins Corp. in Montreal, where he remained until he retired in 1970, and has since made his home here with his wife and family. He was well liked by his associates and he possessed many fine qualities and was held in high esteem by his fellow townsmen.

Left to mourn the passing of a beloved husband, a kind and loving father and grandfather, are his wife, Beriza; five sons, Laurier of Cornwall; Raymond of Ottawa; Claude of Cobourg; Bruno and Laurent, both of Montreal; and five daughters, Mrs. George Dumouchel (Claire) and Mrs. Robert Vincent (Estelle) both of Alexandria; Mrs. Allan McDonell (Lorraine) of Waddington, NY; Mrs. James Talarico (Jeanne) of Vancouver, Washington; and Mrs. Reg. Minty (Merilda) of Leduc, Alberta. Twenty-two grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive.

He was predeceased by his parents, one sister Mrs. J. Albert Laurin (Delphine) and by five brothers: David Jr., Dr. Edmond, Dr. Albert and Dr. Clifford, and Leo Courville.

Zed, as he was better known to his friends, had been in failing health for the past year, but his death came as a shock to his family and a host of old friends.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, January 14, to Sacred Heart Church where Rev. Roger Despsiers was celebrant. The Sacred Heart Choir sang the mass. The pallbearers were six grandchildren, Ronald, Daniel and Gerald Courville; Joseph Collins, Robert Lajoie and Marc McDonell.

The body will rest in St. Finnan's vault to await burial in the family plot in St. Finnan's Cemetery in the spring.

NOW EMPLOYED IN OTTAWA—Joanne O'Connor, daughter of Archie and Mary O'Connor of RR3 Alexandria was a fall graduate of Marvel Hairdressing School, Ottawa. She is presently employed by Joy's Beauty Salon, Ottawa.
