Township ups its Consoltex pledges to over $400,000

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

In an effort to save Consoltex, North Glengarry council is stepping up to the plate to the tune of an additional $281,000, bringing the potential contribution for the municipality to over $400,000 in the coming year.

Information provided at council Monday night showed details and the seriousness of the township's bid to save the textile plant.

It ratified a Nov. 5 Special Council recommendation, which added this one-time lump sum to an earlier annual pledge of $133,000 in the form of water and and sewer cost reductions, and heaped the two together as part of a substantial "municipal" contribution towards a provincial grant application.

The joint township/Consoltex Ontario Small Town and Rural Development Infrastructure Program (OSTAR) project application sits completed in the office of the Minister of Municipal Affairs. Details as to the scope of the proposal to entice the company to remain and grow in Alexandria are just now starting to be made public.

The recommendations are contingent upon the textile company reconsidering its announced plans to leave Alexandria.

Slow but steady progress
- Page 3 -

Council's initial step to keep Consoltex came through the first reading of a Oct. 14 bylaw aimed at reducing the water and sewage rates for the Large Industrial Tax Class, and saving the company about $133,000 of its yearly bill.

The Nov. 5 actions came as the Consoltex Recovery Committee worked at firming up its proposal to the company, according to Mayor Franklin, in an interview after Monday night's council meeting.

"Every little bit counts in a situation like this," Mayor Franklin said, "and it is important to demonstrate (our efforts).... Consoltex brass said they were impressed by the demonstration by the community and the council, at how we really wanted Consoltex."

North Glengarry is prepared to contribute in three areas in its newest initiative – in helping fund a feasibility study, in the handing over use of a functioning water tower, and in creating a parking lot for company employees to use.

Part of the OSTAR package involves the designing of a water "recirculating system" within the Consoltex property. The township plans to contribute $6,000 towards the study, which could cost in the range of $40,000.

"We had people down from the National Research Council who thought it would be practical," the mayor said. "They are going to get engineers in to look at the nuts and bolts of the thing."

The mayor said water recycling and sewage upgrades could be of great benefit to

Lame ducks at counties after election

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

A lame duck council is now in charge of things in SDG. Since the municipal elections on Nov. 10, and until the new council is sworn in, Counties Council is restricted in its powers.

What constitutes a lame duck council? Under the province's new Municipal Act, 2001, a lame duck council occurs when less than 75 per cent of an old council returns to form the new.

According to the October issue of Municipal World, a council can become a lame duck in one or both of two separate time periods: the period from nomination day to election day, and then from election day until the end of the term.

The first instance occurs when more than 25 per cent of the current members of council decide not to contest the election; the second when more than 25 per cent of the current members of council are not returning to council after the election, either because they did not seek re-election, or because they were defeated.

In the case of SDG, there was a strong possibility that the council would be lame duck once the nomination period ended and candidates were given the opportunity to withdraw their names on Sept. 29. At that time, two members of the 12 member council, Claude Cousineau and Cameron Martel, decided not to seek re-election. Mr. Cousineau is the former Mayor of North Dundas, and Mr. Martel, the representative to Counties Council from South Dundas.

At the same time, Heine Bruining, the former Deputy-Mayor of South Stormont, and Johnny Whittaker, the former Mayor of South Dundas, decided that they would contest the election, but as councillors. The representatives from South Stormont on Counties Council are the mayor and deputy-mayor, but South Dundas sends its mayor and one other representative, not necessarily the deputy.

That meant that all other members of Counties Council would have to win their seats, and Mr. Whittaker would have to be named the representative from South Dundas in order for the council not to be lame duck following the election.

That didn't happen.

While Mr. Whittaker won his election bid, Archie Byers, Roger Cole and Dave MacDonald lost their seats, meaning that there will be at least six new members of Counties Council. That figure could rise to seven, if Mr. Whittaker is not selected as the Counties Council representative from North Dundas. The municipality has yet to make its decision.

New faces around the Counties Council table will be: Jim McDonell, Mayor-elect of South Glengarry; Ray Fenton, Deputy-

Smoked like a gopher, NG told

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

After listening to a Lochiel ward homeowner compare her situation to that of "a gopher being smoked out of (its) hole," North Glengarry Council Monday night appealed to its citizens to help fine-tune its outdoor fire policy.

"When the wind blows the wrong way it sends smoke and ash," said rural resident Pat Larocque. "There are days when I could not hang my wash out, open the windows for a cool night breeze or work outside because of the smoke."

Mrs. Larocque who lives on Rolland Massie Road, off McCormick Road in Lochiel, described in detail how a farmer's bush removal and burning practices have dragged on throughout the summer and fall.

Using a hi-hoe, the farmer over time created huge brush piles and set them ablaze. Green wood and soil, she said made for a continual smouldering fire.

While Mrs. Larocque understands the farmer's desire to create workable land and the usefulness of fire, she wishes he'd, "take one weekend and burn the whole damn thing, then it would be done."

Council for its part was receptive to the Lochiel woman's concerns, but said farmers under the current bylaw are entitled to burn their brush piles.

"The fire chiefs worked for almost a year to get the by-law," Mayor Franklin said, "to get the restrictions that made us as safe as we could and still allow people to

Old dispute tops agenda for Lalonde

BY STEVEN WARBURTON
News Editor

Now that his party is in power, Liberal MPP Jean-Marc Lalonde is hoping he can play a part to end the longstanding construction labour dispute between Ontario and Quebec.

The Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MPP is in the midst of organizing a committee that will make a recommendation to the Ontario government on what needs to be done in that regard. Following this committee's work, Ontario's Minister of Labour, Chris Bentley, will meet with his Quebec counterpart sometime in December.

Mr. Lalonde says the dispute has been going on for over 40 years and is costing Ontario millions of dollars a year.

"We figure that there are over 6,500 Quebec construction workers coming to work in Ontario every day," he says. "But there are only about 400 workers going from Ontario into Quebec."

He says that Ontario and Quebec construction workers are not treated the same while working in their neighbouring province.

Mr. Lalonde says that Ontario workers have to obtain a special licence in order to work in la belle province while Ontario has few restrictions for Quebec workers.

As a result, most Ontarians who work in Quebec are doing so illegally, creating in the process a "black market" with dire results for Ontario.

"They work under the table a lot and they don't pay taxes here," he says. "We're losing over $300 million a year in lost taxation."

He further said that the Quebec government is quick to slap fines on any Ontario workers who are caught working in Quebec.

"I know of a lady in Alexandria who went to Montreal to help a friend paint a stairwell," he says. "Someone saw the Ontario plates on her car, went to (the government) and she was fined $400."

Although Mr. Lalonde was able to get the fine reversed, he said that he'd like to see the Ontario government support its own workers. In 1996, he introduced a bill that would have legislated a $25,000 fine per day for any Quebec construction company caught working, unregulated, in Ontario.

Mr. Lalonde isn't the only one hoping to see the dispute come to an end. Gord Robertson, General Manager of Green Valley based Cruickshank Construction Ltd., also says there's no level playing field between the provinces.

"Ontario workers can't work in Quebec unless their head office is

Guess who's coming to Glengarry

BY STEVEN WARBURTON
News Editor

Hey Glengarry! Santa Claus is coming to your town.

The first parade is this Sunday, Nov. 23. The Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce has managed to convince Jolly Old St. Nick to leave the North Pole for the day to participate in the annual parade.

The various floats will be judged at Maxville Manor at 1 p.m., with the parade beginning at about 1:30. It will wind its way through the village and end at the Sports Complex, where the Lions' Club will serve hot chocolate and hot dogs and Santa will visit with all the youngsters.

To enter a float, call Audrey Evans at 527-3386 or Carma Williams at 527-1438.

■ ■ ■

Next, Santa will visit Lancaster. That parade, is slated for Dec. 6 at 2 p.m. It begins at the Lancaster Legion parking lot and winds its way down Main Street to St. Joseph's Parish Hall, where Santa and the elves will visit with children and pass out candy.

Parade chairperson Janice Montreuil says the parade has about 13 floats so far. She's hoping for 30.

"Anyone who wants to register a float or just be a walker, we'd be glad to have them," Mrs. Montreuil said.

If you're interested in participating in the parade, give Janice a call at 347-2420.

■ ■ ■

Jacques Leblanc, member of the Richelieu Club and organizer of this year's Santa Claus parade in Alexandria, says the popular event will kick off on Sunday Dec. 7 at 6:30 p.m.

"The parade begins at Dessureault Independent Grocer, goes up Main Street, and finishes at the arena," he says.

Mr. Leblanc adds it's still not too late to enter a float in the parade. If you're interested, give him a call at 525-1549.

■ ■ ■

Santa has promised us that he will make one more visit before Christmas. His last visit to Glengarry will be at the the Martintown Optimist Club's Santa Claus parade on Dec. 14.

The parade begins at 1 p.m. and wraps up at the Martintown Community Centre.

For more information, call the parade's

Mayor-elect of South Stormont; Bill McGimpsey, Deputy-Mayor-elect of North Stormont; Lyle Van Allen, Mayor-elect of South Dundas; Alvin Runnalls, Mayor-elect of North Dundas, and Bill Smirle, Deputy-Mayor-elect of North Dundas.

They will join returnees Jim Bancroft, Dennis Fife, Frank Prevost, Bill Franklin, and Bill Hagen.

A lame duck council is restricted under the Municipal Act in four ways. During its term of governance until the new council is sworn in, the lame duck council cannot appoint or remove any officer from office; cannot hire or dismiss an employee; cannot dispose of municipal property that had a value in excess of $50,000 when it was acquired by the municipality; and cannot make any expenditure or incur any liability that exceeds $50,000.

The latter two restrictions are waived if council had already approved the disposition or liability in its annual budget, which must have been approved before nomination day. As a result, a contract which was in excess of $50,000 could be awarded by a lame duck council as long as the amount was within the budgeted amount.

Because Counties Council knew the possibility was strong that they would be lame duck after the elections, administration and council tried to head off any possible problems.

Road Superintendent and County Engineer D.J. McDonald said that the hiring of road winter maintenance staff was approved by council "before it went lame duck."

"Nothing has been delayed, stopped or altered," he added.

The first meeting of the new Counties Council of SDG is set for Dec. 15, with the swearing in of the new warden on Dec. 12. If the time-honoured system of choosing a warden continues, it is expected that North Stormont Mayor Dennis Fife will succeed North Glengarry's Deputy-Mayor, Bill Hagen as the head of council.

Straight Talk

Do you think the provincial government made the right decision when it took the cap off of electricity rates?

– News staff

Lothar Schareina

Sharon Simonelis

Janet Pidgeon

Mark Laferriere, Alexandria
Yes. If electricity costs a certain price to produce then the consumers should have to pay for it.

Eddie Pidgeon, Glen Walter
No. My bills are going up. Wages are going up by five per cent but utilities are going up by 20 per cent. They're not keeping pace and we don't want the extra expense of higher electricity.

Jim Pratt, Martintown
No. The government has already doubled electricity costs by tacking transportation on to it. We're still paying twice of what it used to be because the government only lowered the kilowatt hour rate.

Lothar Schareina, Glen Robertson
No. It's going to hurt the farmers. Costs will go up and it will make farming more expensive.

Sharon Simonelis, Lancaster
It's not the best thing for the people but we have to face reality. There is a debt here and whether we pay a higher rate for electricity or a higher tax rate, we're still going to pay.

Janet Pidgeon, Alexandria
I'd rather see the electricity stay at one rate. That way, we'll always know what we're paying and it will make it easier to budget. You wouldn't know what you'd have to pay otherwise.

Committee makes slow but steady progress

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

While many anticipated a swift response to the Consoltex Recovery Committee's proposal to keep the Alexandria textile plant open, that is not proving to be the case.

Instead there is news of steady, continued work which now has a pivotal provincial grant application sitting in front of the minister of Municipal Affairs in Kingston.

On Nov. 7 the recovery team submitted a 25-page document, along with a partially completed joint North Glengarry Township/Consoltex application, to the company head office in Montreal.

Since that time, with help from the township and from members of the SDG Community Futures Development Corporation, Consoltex has completed the application.

The submission to the Ontario Small Town and Rural Development Infrastructure Program (OSTAR) project, "is the key to the whole thing," according to committee chairperson Pierre Aubry, who spoke to The News Monday.

"The application is in Kingston," Mr. Aubry said. "And there is enough information for the minister (minister of Municipal Affairs, John Gerretsen) to make a decision."

The committee chairperson explained that OSTAR projects are approved in two phases, with the minister being able to approve a project in principle and then requesting further details to follow.

Under the OSTAR program, Consoltex, in partnership with the municipality, would secure funding to assist it with water recycling and effluent treatment at its Alexandria plant.

Designed to help businesses grow in rural Ontario, the project could entice the textile company to stay in Alexandria by lowering water costs and by helping the company deal with sewage upgrades it faces in the future.

GMH hiring new director

Glengarry Memorial Hospital has hired Linda Ramsay as its new Director of Finances.

Kurt Pristanski, the hospital's CEO, says that Ms. Ramsay will replace the hospital's current director, Viviane Campbell, who is retiring after working at the hospital for over 25 years.

Ms. Ramsay, who lives in North Lancaster, is currently employed by the accounting firm, Deloitte and Touche. She begins her new job at the hospital on Jan. 5, 2004.

Five-year 'bee' nearing its end

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

After five years of planning, building, quilting, and sewing, Invitation: The Quilt of Belonging, is finally nearing completion. Project coordinator, Esther Bryan, says she hopes the quilt will be finished next summer.

And when it is finished, it will be a beautiful and colourful piece of art that will speak volumes about the Canadian identity.

Essentially, Invitation is a piece of art that celebrates Canada's multiculturalism. The finished quilt will be 120 feet long, 10 feet wide, and will feature 265 patches – or blocks. Each block pays homage to a different country or First Nations tribe that is a part of the Canadian tapestry.

Many of the patches have already been completed. And each patch is worthy of a complete story in and of itself.

Few people know that better than Meredith Royds, Invitation's Communications Officer. Name any country and she can probably tell you who designed that block, the materials used, and what the design is itself.

"The idea is that the designer should be a national from that country (or First Nation)," she said. "They tell us of their symbols and they provide us with the fabric. If they are not artists, then we can help them with the design."

Ms. Royds says that the fabrics range from the common to the unique.

"Some of the blocks have hand-painted silk," she says. "The Inuvialuit block is all made of sealskin."

Another First Nations block, the Tahltan block, is a pleasant myriad of indigenous imagery. The border is comprised of pearl buttons. Each button was sewn on by a different resident of the Tahltan village on Canada's west coast.

Ms. Royds adds that the quilt committee tries to steer away from stereotypes.

"On the Netherlands block, you'll see that there are no windmills or tulips," she says.

In fact, the Netherlands block depicts a very neat house with a bicycle out front.

"Dutch homes are known to be immaculate," she says.

She's also quick to note that at least one Dutch stereotype managed to sneak its way in, a tiny pair of wooden shoes.

"Every single block has a hidden treasure," she says.

The quilt is the brainchild of Esther Bryan, who dreamed up the concept after visiting her father in Slovakia.

FROM THE EAST: Meredith Royds, right, and Esther Bryan, project coordinator for the Quilt, show the Slovakia block. STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

"I came back to Canada and I did a one woman show called Return," Mrs. Bryan told The News. "It was a multi-media show about reconnecting with the past."

She says that Return really struck a chord with people.

"People were very emotional and they wanted to tell me their stories," she says. "They even brought things from their past for me to see."

Mrs. Bryan says the experience planted the seed of an idea.

"I wanted to create a piece of art, as a community," she said. "Discovering where we belong is a universal need and the point of Invitation is to show that there is a place for everyone."

Mrs. Bryan says that plans for the quilt's final display venue are still being finalized.

"I'm dying to tell where it will be," she confesses. "But I can't say right now."

Invitation makes use of over 100 volunteers and a handful of paid employees whose salaries are paid through Human Resources Development Canada.

Election mysteries no big deal at all local officials say

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

One of the mysteries people pondered during the election voting period was how candidates knew whether or not they voted.

Coming off the county's first electronic election, this is just one of a variety of questions to emerge. Others included voting patterns, vote numbers, and cost.

The Glengarry News fielded numerous calls from surprised residents, upset with candidates who appeared to be tracking their movements.

And it turned out that found these residents weren't paranoid. Their impressions were correct.

South Glengarry clerk/treasurer Mike Samson explained that after each day of voting, the municipalities provided council hopefuls with an updated list of residents who voted. He said it was fair game under the election act, and "standard procedure in the three counties."

Both Mr. Samson and North Glengarry clerk Leo Poirier said many candidates came in daily, while others picked up voter lists on an irregular basis.

With problems of not enough phone lines in the previous electronic vote held in Prescott-Russell, there were fears of a similar problem in Glengarry. But this doesn't seem to have been an issue.

There were, "no major hook-ups" with the lines, Mr. Poirier said. He credited the township's mailout, with its suggested dates to vote, as part of the reason for the success.

Voting flowed in a steady stream. In North Glengarry a total of 5357 people cast votes with 997 coming on the Wednesday, 823 on Thursday, 716 on Friday, 488 on Saturday, 933 on Sunday and 1400 on Monday.

In South Glengarry, the results were similar. Of the 5835 electors, 896 voted Wednesday 860 on Thursday, 814 on Friday, 751 on Saturday, 1347 on Sunday and 1167 on Monday.

Tallying the vote promptly wasn't an issue either for CanVote, the company responsible for administering the electronic election.

The firm had the totals to the municipalities 15 minutes after the vote closed down at 8:15p.m..

Yet on election night, North Glengarry mayoral candidate Mike Depratto complained his children saw election results on TV, before they went up at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

The delay in releasing results in North Glengarry was a result of miscommunication, according to clerk Leo Poirier. Township representatives at the Sports Palace didn't think they could release the results before the clerk appeared.

Mr. Poirier was tied up on the phone until after 8:45 p.m. before he could head up to the Sports Palace.

A reasonable level of Internet voting may have contributed to freer phone lines this time around.

Electors in South Glengarry were more receptive to the option, with 42 per cent voting on-line compared to 33 per cent in the North.

Voter turn-out numbers are harder to judge. While both municipalities are declaring higher percentage numbers, only the South had more voters this time around.

South Glengarry counted 5835 voters out of a possible 10,980 in 2003, 670 more than its 5165 out of 11,500 in 2000.

North Glengarry actually saw its total voters decline from 5670 out of a total of 9785 in 2000, to 5357 out of 8963 this time around.

Percentage numbers are harder to judge because of questions that emerged as to the accuracy of the voter list.

Many Glengarry residents complained about the list provided by the Municipal Property Assessment Corporation.

South Glengarry clerk/treasurer Mike Samson said in the past nobody challenged the validity of the list, because only eligible voters showed up at the polling stations.

Tenants who moved away and dead people were not an issue, he said, "because of the way it was done. Nobody pointed it out to us. It just didn't show up.

"This time around, the returned mail from the post office, 'moved away, moved away' (was different)...We recorded those, and deleted them from our list."

He says assistance received from residents should create a cleaner voter list, as they are advising the assessment office of the changes they've made.

There is still some uncertainty as to the cost of the electronic vote as CanVote and the municipalities try to get a handle on the number of eligible voters in each of the townships.

With an anticipated cost of $5 per eligible voter plus other expenses, both North and South expect the election to cost over $50,000. The old paper ballot format cost the North $41-$42,000 last time, while it cost South Glengarry about $36,000.

Go to jail...

If you live in Maxville, you could be on your way to jail.

That's because a volunteer posse of sheriffs will be combing the town and dragging business people and community leaders off to the slammer, conveniently located in the Glengarry Curling Club.

It's all in good fun and to benefit the Kidney Foundation of Canada.

"Maxville's top guns will be sentenced to one hour in jail," says Dawna Miller, the event's coordinator. "While serving time, they will phone friends, family, and co-workers for pledges to raise funds for the Kidney Foundation."

The answers to the Top-10 Glengarry election questions

It's all over, even the shouting, for another three years. All that remains are the answers to our Top-10 questions for the 2003 municipal election campaign.

Number 1: Will the participation rate in South and North Glengarry go up as forecasted due to the switch to electronic-voting and how much more will it cost?

The answer on participation is yes but barely. Even though it offered people a chance to vote who might otherwise not have – such as snowbirds, university and college students, plus cottage and seasonal property owners – some people refused to vote because of the new procedures. As to the cost, the final figures are not in but it's pretty much a sure thing that it will be more, but maybe not as much as had been anticipated.

Number 2 and 3: How much of a factor will the hog-barn issue play in determining the North Glengarry mayor and deputy-mayor races?

In short, it made both races closer but it was not enough to topple either incumbent. Interestingly, Deputy-Mayor William Hagen was most affected - even though much of the protest had been directed at Mayor Bill Franklin. Mr. Hagen barely squeaked by with a margin of just 16 votes and it was in Lochiel and specifically the Dalkeith poll that his support dropped most noticeably. The Deputy-Mayor eked out a tiny plurality of just 53 votes in Lochiel compared to 2000 when he beat challenger Maryanne Kampouris by a margin of 461 votes. Dalkeith was even more telling with Ms. Kampouris winning the poll by 70 votes this time after having lost it by 97 in 2000, a turnaround of 167 votes. The mayor also saw his total drop drastically in Dalkeith but he managed to win by a margin of three after having carried the poll by a plurality of 96 in 2000.

Number 4: How did high taxes and the condition of roads affect the South Glengarry mayoralty and deputy-mayor races?

OBSERVATIONS

JT GROSSMITH

This was a tricky one given that the two mayoralty candidates were members of the last council while in the deputy-mayor's contest Charles Sangster, the challenger, was just one term removed from holding office. In the end, other issues played a bigger role as suggested by margins of victory in both races. In the mayor's contest, incumbent Dave MacDonald seemed to take most of the heat from voters over higher taxes but the bigger issue, as raised at All-Candidates' Meetings, was the perceived manner in which he operated as mayor. In the deputy-mayor's case, it was strictly a matter of geography in determining the outcome. See answer to question 6 for more details.

Number 5: Did taxpayers make a distinction between county and local municipal taxes?

The answer became increasingly more apparent as the campaigns progressed, particularly in South Glengarry. People were angry about taxes and didn't really care whether it was the counties or local government that were responsible.

Number 6: To what extent would the vote split along east-west lines in South Glengarry?

The division was most notable in the deputy-mayor's race. Mr. Sangster, the challenger, more than doubled the vote of incumbent Frank Prevost, 1292-587, in the former Lancaster Township portion of the municipality, only to see the tables turned against him in the former Charlottenburgh Township where Mr. Prevost racked up a sizable majority with 2205 votes to 1254 for the former reeve. Mr. Sangster also carried the former village of Lancaster with 192 votes to Mr. Prevost's 123 but it wasn't enough as he lost by less than 200 votes overall.

At the councillor level, the division was not quite as evident although it still played a factor in determining the outcome. Interestingly, both incumbents Ian McLeod and Janette Abbey, who have strong eastern roots, were re-elected even though there are fewer voters east of County Road 34 than to the west. Of the five candidates from the west, only Summerstown-area resident John Warden managed to win election. Each of the three carried the former municipalities they are best associated with - Mr. McLeod in Lancaster Township, Mrs. Abbey in Lancaster village and Mr. Warden in Charlottenburgh. Mr. McLeod's overall first-place finish was a result of finishing second in both Lancaster village and Charlottenburgh. Mr. Warden placed second in the village and fourth in Lancaster Township. Mrs. Abbey finished third and fourth respectively in Lancaster and Charlottenburgh townships. Others who did well in specific areas include Bill Madden who finished second in his home area of Lancaster Township, sixth overall; and Joyce Gravelle who was the third choice among Charlottenburgh voters and finished fifth overall.

Number 7: Would voters warm to the idea of having candidates provide assistance with the new-fangled voting method through the implementation of voter centres?

Kenyon ward candidate Bob Linney was most prominent in offering this service but the jury's still out as to whether it had an effect even though Mr. Linney was not successful in his bid to replace incumbent Julie Akkermans. Mrs. Akkerman's affiliation with the farm community plus Mr. Linney's lower profile probably were the two biggest factors. By all accounts, however, Mr. Linney impressed most everyone he came in contact with during the campaign including one acclaimed incumbent who confessed that he would have voted for Mr. Linney even if he was running against him. Mr. Linney may well be a force to reckon with in future elections.

Number 8: How much importance would Lochiel place on whether candidates reside in the ward as opposed to just owning property?

The answer appears to be a resounding yes as incumbent Ron MacDonell placed second to political neophyte Andy MacPherson in all five Lochiel wards.

Number 9: Can Bill Franklin improve his Alexandria support?

This was the biggest question mark of the North Glengarry mayoralty and in the end the mayor managed to scrape together enough votes, almost doubling his percentage from 2000 to 35 from 18 per cent to stave off Mr. Depratto, but it was touch and go right down to the last few days of the election.

Number 10: Who out of the nine South Glengarry candidates would draw the shortest end of the voters' stick?

It turned out to be a nip-and-tuck race between political neophyte George M. Johann and former Charlottenburgh councillor John Lounsberry. Mr. Johann finished ahead of Mr. Lounsberry in both Lancaster village and township but lost ground to him in the more populous Charlottenburgh vote. Interestingly, Mr. Johann finished eighth in all three areas but that translated into the ninth-place finish overall as Mr. Lounsberry made up enough ground in Charlottenburgh finishing seventh there to overtake him. The last-place finisher in Charlottenburgh, Victoria Stewart, did much better than Messrs Lounsberry and Johann in the two former Lancasters to finish seventh overall.

Thorns & Thistles

THISTLE – Case made to keep Consoltex here.

The continuing story of Consoltex has had far more downs than ups to date. But last week's report on the 25-page document making the case to keep the textile plant in operation here is definitely one of the brighter spots in recent weeks.

Instead of relying upon emotional appeals, which are ineffective, the Consoltex Recovery Committee members have done their homework and prepared a document that gives the company some real issues to consider.

THISTLE – Legion's highest honour awarded.

Good works should not go unrewarded and for Glen Robertson resident Howard Barclay, the moment of truth came fittingly just in time for this year's Remembrance Day.

A 54-year-member of the Legion, Mr. Barclay served in Europe during the second World War.

Not only was he commended for his ongoing service at the Col. AGF Macdonald Memorial Branch 423, but it was also noted that he is active with groups like Meals-On-Wheels and his church choir.

For his part, Mr. Barclay was totally surprised by the award, acknowledging that while listening to the introduction of the qualifications of the award recipient, he thought it was being presented to someone else.

It's interesting that quite often people who do so much for others think they do little, while those who don't do much are always looking for credit for the most-modest of efforts.

THORN – Suppliers pose problems for firm.

It's been a difficult patch of time for industry in Alexandria of late.

The ongoing Consoltex story is well-documented so news that Premier Wire temporarily had to shut down a shift because of supply problems couldn't have come at a worse time.

The community is jittery enough over Consoltex's prospects without having to worry needlessly about another company.

Fortunately, the shutdown was just temporary and the firm does have a strong inventory of orders to keep it going for the present.

Still, there may be some clouds forming on the horizon, particularly if the Canadian dollar continues to increase in value in the coming months, making it more difficult for Premier Wire to compete for American contracts, which presently constitutes a large chunk of its business.

Acknowledging that the situation is a concern, company sales vice-president Kevin Larkin, nonetheless, espouses a positive attitude. "We are fighters," he declared in an interview with The News.

THISTLE – Students winning race against drugs.

Most often, the police are left to react to drugs and the social problems that accompany illegal usage, so it's heartening to hear of a pro-active campaign being waged here.

Hopefully, the young people from area schools will show as much enthusiasm in their resolve not to do drugs as was evidenced by their participation in the fun races set up by police as a means of championing the cause.

If so, parents and police alike will breathe a sigh of relief.

One big family

PEN IN HAND

STEVEN WARBURTON

Have you seen Invitation: The Quilt of Belonging yet?

If you haven't, you should definitely make a point of popping in to see it next time you're in Williamstown. The project has completely taken over the former Charlottenburgh township's municipal building and, quite frankly, it needs the space.

When the quilt is finished, it will be 120 feet long and will feature blocks from every nationality in Canada – including the First Nations people.

I visited the office for the first time while making my regular tour of South Glengarry last week. To say I was blown away by the sheer magnitude of the project is an understatement.

This is much more than a piece of art. It is a testimony to Canada's social tapestry and a reminder that humanity is, essentially, one big family.

I'm even thrilled to announce that I will play an extremely small role in the quilt's completion. Communications officer Meredith Royds told me that although many of the blocks have already been completed, the committee is having a difficult time finding designers from certain ethnic groups.

One such group was the Tsuu Tina First Nation in Alberta.

It just so happens that I have some contacts on that reserve and happily provided them to Ms. Royds. I did my good deed for the day.

I am so looking forward to the completion of the quilt. It sparked my creativity so much that I wrote a full story on the quilt, which can be found on Page 3 in this week's edition.

Kudos to Esther Bryan, the quilt's project coordinator, who dreamed the concept up in the first place. She deserves the Order of Canada for her hard work and inspiration.

Where there's smoke, there's ire

By Nick O'Teen / Smoking Editor

Eleven weeks on Tuesday. Yesterday, that is. Since I've had a smoke, that is. Yes, Gentle Reader, I've given up the weed. Dragged my last drag. Butted my last butt. Lit up zip from the Zippo. Haven't had a smoke since 9:45 p.m., Tues., Sept. 2, when I took the last quarter of a deck of Rothman Specials, folded 'em up and stuffed 'em into a garbage container in the Morrisburg shopping centre; shoved 'em down into a container that I knew I couldn't get back into, just in case I experienced a change of heart and decided to indulge in a few drags just for old times' sake. And now it's 11 weeks smoke-free.

Not that it's been any great feat of willpower. On August I was lucky enough to sign up for the Cadillac of stop-smoking programs, being run out of a certain heart institute in a certain national capital city (I signed a confidentiality agreement so I can't divulge much more than that) to investigate the effectiveness of a smoking cessation drug manufactured by a certain pharmaceutical company whose name you would instantly recognize if I were at liberty to relate it to you. But I'm not. So you'll just have to guess.

Been on the medication for 11 weeks – started a week before Wed., Sept. 3, which had been set by the doctors at that certain heart institute as my stop date, and haven't looked back. No cravings; no palpitations; no rummaging through ashtrays looking for the largest butt and then trying to light it without igniting my mustache in the process. Nosirreebob. Absolutely, completely and unequivocally smoke-free. For nigh on three months, when the flow of free drugs could well dissipate, leaving me to consider my smoke-free future sans medication.

The terms of the study are that those who are smoke-free after 12 weeks are to go into a double-blind test for another four weeks, half to continue on the medication, half to get a placebo. Only the computers that dispense the medication will know who gets what until the study is completed. If all goes according to the company's plan, those of us (just over half of our group of 15) who have managed to quit will remain off the weed and you won't be able to tell who are on the placebo by, say, watching them fastening their lips around the exhaust pipes of Transpo buses.

Although it's been a relatively painless exercise as far as the nicotine withdrawal is concerned, this is not to say that the medication is without its side effects as the long-suffering staff here at The Mudpout Wrapper will readily attest, having observed me going into rages even more towering than those while I was still smoking. There are other side effects, some of which are indelicate enough not to be described in this, a family publication. But on balance it's been a more than even trade, except for a writer's block the size of Mount Trudeau, er, I mean Mount Logan.

Yeah. So I wake up in the middle of the night and have the deuce of a time getting back to sleep. I used to wake up in the middle of the night anyway, coughing relentlessly, unable to catch my breath and coming within an ace of drowning in my own fluids as I hacked up things the size and consistency of which should be living in a ditch. So I'm on the positive side of that balance sheet.

I had set Sept. 1 as my quit date, anyway, deciding while I was in the final throes of the divorce from the former Mrs. Morris (yes, GR, it's sad but true. Me and the anchor are no longer conjoined; the trouble and strife have been rent asunder) and figured that the cigarettes would get me through the final days before I became both spouse- and smoke-free.

And I have before me the image of my ex-brother, we're also estranged, carting around his little cylinder of oxygen, like an itinerant oxy-acetylene welder, the product of decades of igniting the contents of packs of Player's Lights. (During one of the many physicals I had to undergo before being accepted into the study I was told by one of the legion of doctors who poked, prodded and measured me that I have the beginnings of emphysema, which I reasoned to be just a touch of the disease, until the doctor told me it is like being just a touch pregnant.)

I figured I had to change all the triggers that I associated with smoking so I gave up coffee for almost three weeks, nearly rupturing a head gasket in the process. Ditto for the brown sugar. I could count on one hand and have enough fingers left over to play paper-scissors-stone the number of beers I've had in the past three months.

I won't go into restaurants or bars unless they're smoke free, which means I've pretty well given up on rural SD&G, neighbouring Grenville and most of Leeds. That leaves New York State, which is entirely smoke-free, Cornwall, Ottawa and Kingston. Needless to say I stay at home a lot since on my weekly visits to the hospital, I have to blow into a breathalyzer-like device that measures the carbon monoxide in my bloodstream. The week before I quit I measured 25. Most weeks now I blow a one or a two, although the day after having watched part of a World Series game in a restaurant in Brockville I rang up a three. Maybe there is something to this second-hand smoke business I've been reading so much about.

So if one of these days you find yourself a little slow on the acceleration after the light changes to green or you're dawdling at a stop sign and the guy in the little white car behind you is laying on the horn while he froths at the mouth and bays at the moon, then take it easy, buddy. You're part of a medical experiment that could benefit all of mankind.

Stereotyping

I write this with regard to the photo which was featured on the front page of your October 29th edition.

The young ladies certainly appeared to be having a good time playing "Gypsies."

Their choice of disguise bothered me, but the fact that you chose to publish the picture really disturbed me.

You seemed to have inadvertently promulgated a racial stereotype.

If the girls had dressed up as Indians, Negroes, Heebs or Ragheads, I'm sure that their picture would not have graced the cover of your publication.

If it had, you would have been summarily accused of discrimination and hate-mongering.

It is not my intention to "rain on the Halloween parade" nor spoil the amusement of some children who don't know any better.

I only wish to shed some light on the subject of who the Roma or so called Gypsies are, since it appears that The Glengarry News as well as S.J. McLeod School have much to learn about my people.

If you ever print a photo of some kids disguised as vampires, werewolves or Republicans and have any negative feed-back, then you will be in real trouble. Baxt hai Sustimos,

Ron Bankley / Vankleek Hill

Many questions

Steven Warburton's piece on local politics was an excellent read.

It described things the way they really are.

You may have even gotten your wish as this might be an interesting council to cover.

For some reason this election left me with more questions than answers.

Maybe it was because some of the candidates choose to save their views on issues for their one-on-one meetings with the voters. This is smart politics.

However people can't get a feel for what a candidate really stand for.

Perhaps, Mr. Warburton, over the next few months you'll find some of the answers to our questions.

1) Who is responsible for implementing a voting system that is currently under review in the States for voting irregularities? Apparently we had no safeguards in place because it happened here too.

2) Can someone explain why since amalgamation in North Glengarry has the conditions of our roads in the winter fallen behind that of other municipalities?

Can something be done without raising taxes?

3) What, if anything, is N.G. council willing to do to help our #1 industry in the area, Agriculture. Many farmers and people in the agri-business are feeling the effects of a closed border and low commodity prices.

4) Does the mayor and council feel that it is proper for people in or running for local government to be making job offers to relatives? Is there or should there not be some sort of rules that anyone connected with local politics should have to follow.

5) Is council going to consider the idea of an agriculture committee? It could be used to educate non-farming residents about modern farming and the regulations in place to protect our health and the environment.

6) Can someone please explain why it is wrong for a person who has lived here most of his life to run for office? While people who don't live here and in some cases have no property are allowed to vote. Ask yourself do they care about our roads, services provided or rec facilities.

7) and 8) In one meeting with Lochiel residents a candidate brought up the issue of accountability.

7) When billing the township for expenses and 8) how our tax dollars are spent. No one should take advantage of the taxpayers' money. However, does not an organizer that takes home leftover unopened food from a municipal event not fall into this category too? Would it not be proper to drop off left over unopened food to the nearest food bank, or in some organizations, leftover food is bought by the organizer at cost.

This same candidate was against an indoor soccer facility because it might cost the township money. Yet this same person has no problems spending taxpayers' money on a Pride Day party.

9) Indoor soccer facility, yes or no? a) Soccer is the #1 game in this area, b) Cornwall had to turn people away because they were full. c) The proposed facility is a compromise; a real facility would cost too much. d) Soccer is an inexpensive sport to play. e) There would be less injuries and joint problems especially in younger players. This is because of the turf vs hardwood floor and there would be no obstructions like those in the school gym. The only people hurt by not having a facility are the kids. Older players will find the time and money to drive to Cornwall.

10) Is this council going to consider doing something about the ward system? If they do, should it not be a referendum because no one really ran on whether to keep or abolish the present system.

Lothar Schareina / Lochiel

Special people

It is with heartfelt gratitude we write this letter to publicly acknowledge some very special healthcare providers in this community.

Dr. Toop has been mother's physician for years. She was always professional and attentive.

When Mom could no longer go to her, Dr. Toop made home visits to see our mother.

Community Care Access Centre (CCAC) can be very proud of two very special people. Nancy and Rita had been an increasing part of our mother's life these past few years.

Their exceptional kindness and professionalism towards Mom and our family will always be remembered.

A hero is defined as one held in esteem for superior qualities or deeds of any kind.

During the past few years of our mother's life, we had the great fortune of meeting three special heroes.

It has been a privilege and we thank them for their kindness, loyalty and respect.

Heart-warming

Hats off to the teachers, parents, students and cadets of Laggan Public School for their excellent participation on Armistice Day.

It was the most heart-warming memorial I have ever had the pleasure of attending. A big thank you to all.

Guinea pigs

Between 1941 and 1945 the Government of Canada subjected over 2,500 young Canadian soldiers to chemical weapons experiments at CFB Suffield, Alberta.

These experiments were undertaken without the informed consent of these brave young men.

As a consequence of these horrendous experiments, many of these men have suffered lifelong physical and psychological damage.

Until recently the government has refused to acknowledge the occurrence of these chemical weapons experiments.

The Department of National Defence has declassified the tests, therefore the participants are no longer bound by the Sworn Oath of Secrecy, and can now tell their story.

We are seeking compensation from the Government of Canada through the Dept. of National Defence for these inhumane actions. In doing so, we require the names, addresses and phone numbers of all participants.

Proposals for skateboard parks win mayor over

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

Calling it the "most promising of suggestions we have had in the six years that I've been here," North Glengarry mayor Bill Franklin at Monday night council accepted a new proposal to deal with skateboard parks in the township.

Two features of the presentation, made by Municipal Recreation Association (MRA) chairperson Bob Linney, pleased the mayor.

The first is the creation of a template for the parks. The MRA created its standard after talking to people involved with existing parks in Lancaster, Martintown, and Pointe Claire, Quebec.

The MRA envisions parks with 100 feet by 100 feet paved surfaces, and equipped with CSA-approved equipment. The template includes space for a minimum of two rails, two ramps and a jump box. It estimates the cost of such parks at $30,000.

The second pleasing feature is the idea of local financial contributions. The MRA sees funding for the parks coming from three sources, and in equal portions.

The first third must come from fundraising by the local community and its rec association. The second $10,000 share is to come from the MRA capital fund, and the third they proposed comes from a one-time grant from the municipality.

BOB LINNEY

"I appreciate the idea of a template," Mayor Franklin said. "People perceive everybody is getting the same treatment.

"The kids in Apple Hill, Maxville and Glen Robertson have as much right to the taxpayer's dollars... as the kids in Alexandria."

The Mayor believes the idea of local ownership can go a long way to preventing vandalism in the parks.

"If the kids have had to raise the money to get it, they are less likely to tolerate somebody destroying it."

To illustrate his point the mayor used the example of a skateboard park built in Alexandria in the mid-90's. It lasted less than two months before it was vandalized and finally burned.

MRA chairperson Bob Linney said groups from Apple Hill, Maxville and Glen Robertson have joined a contingent from Alexandria in expressing an interest in establishing skateboard parks.

"In Apple Hill, they have already started fundraising, Mr. Linney said, "they've raised $1,000." He went on to illustrate the three other efforts under way.

While the mayor accepted the proposal, he said budget and liability issues lie ahead as obstacles to overcome in the township's path to create skateboard parks.

Consoltex

both the company and the township.

"They become the beneficiaries because it frees up the space in the sewage lagoons and the water. We would win twice by doing this, so we wanted to make sure we contributed our share."

In its second enticement, the township offered the textile company the sole use of its water tower, located near the RARE plant.

"The use of the water tower is something that won't happen this year," Mayor Franklin said, "but it will happen in the next year or two...

"We are planning to refurbish the tower across from the high school for our own use.

Refurbishing the water tower located near the high school is estimated at $200,000, but again the mayor is bullish on this idea.

He believes the idea not only benefits the company with a reliable reservoir, and "would allow Consoltex to use it without any danger of contaminating our water supply," but that the revitalized water tower would better serve Alexandria by eliminating water pressure difficulties that arise with the township's present set-up.

Finally, under the OSTAR application, the township plans to build a new parking lot on municipal property just across the road from Consoltex.

Costing about $75,000, the parking lot idea frees up the company's own parking lot for expansion purposes.

"If Consoltex stays they will be bringing the machinery from Cowansville," Mayor Franklin said. "They don't have enough space for it, so they are going to have to build an addition. We came up with the idea, instead of trying to find them more land...that they could build on their present parking lot."

Council regulars start ball rolling on election

Two North Glengarry council audience regulars prompted discussion Monday to review the electronic vote process.

Begging off of sore legs, Dalkeith resident Louis Loczy, started the discussion with a speech from absent councillor Ron MacDonell's chair.

Using his stage to advantage, Mr. Loczy first solicited applause for township employees for their "magnificent effort," but then dove into the flaws of the electronic system.

"Let me first start with my own experience," Mr. Loczy said. "My wife and I live alone, that makes two. We however got four envelopes, I guess I can keep the other two as souvenirs."

While Mr. Loczy saw faults, for his part Alexandria resident, Michael Johl, jumped to the support of the electronic vote process, saying he was particularly impressed with how effortless it was to vote on the Internet.

Giving the residents a chance to have their say, Deputy-Mayor William Hagen interjected that he'd like to have a meeting with CanVote, the company who oversaw the election.

He said the new practice is not set in stone and suggested there could be a marriage between new and old ways.

"I'd suggest three or four days of electronic voting," the deputy-mayor said, "and one day, with two or three or four polls, the old way."

"(Yet) I am prepared to ask the community to come up with suggestions to bring to the chief ways to refine what we've got."

The mayor said the township's inability to correct the situation, that occurs regularly throughout its territory, is not because of a lack of sympathy and not a lack of understanding that the problem exists, but because of a lack of a solution it can apply evenly across the township.

"We would be very happy to entertain suggestions from the residents of North Glengarry for ways to deal with it."

Deputy-Mayor William Hagen suggested the township draft up a letter to the farmer who is doing the burning, to alert him to how he is affecting Mrs. Larocque's quality of life.

The members of council accepted the deputy-mayor's suggestion.

Spaghetti dinner tickets available

DALKEITH

JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

Just a reminder that there are still tickets available for the Laggan School Council's annual Spaghetti Dinner on Saturday, Nov. 22 at Laggan Public School. Sittings will be at 4:30, 6 and 7:30. as in the past years. Take-out orders are available too. This dinner is intended as a community social event as well as being a major fund-raiser for school-related projects. All members of the community and beyond are welcome to attend.

More volunteers are required. For more information on how to help or to purchase tickets please contact Diane Edwards 874-9990 or Trish Dorn at 874-1149. Tickets may also be purchased at the school (525-3112) or at the door on Saturday.

Twice in the past five years Laggan Public School has successfully sponsored a Food and Supplies Drive for the local SPCA. Some time has gone by since the last one (about a year and one-half or more) so this week of Nov. 17-22 has been dedicated as Laggan's SPCA drive week. During this week, students are asked to bring any of the following: dry and canned dog and cat food, kitty litter, animal shampoo, javex, used towels, blankets. As well, you can donate when you attend the Laggan Spaghetti Dinner. Let's make this drive a success like the previous two.

Friday, Nov. 28 is a board-wide Professional Development/Parent Interviews day. There will be no school for students on that day. Term 1 Report Cards will soon be ready and will be sent home by Nov. 24. Parent-Teacher Interviews are scheduled for Nov. 27 from 6-8:50 p.m. and Friday, Nov. 28 (PD day) from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

A five member NAC Orchestra brass quintet will perform and enlighten our students, staff and members of the community on Tuesday, Dec. 2 beginning at 2 p.m. If you wish to attend, please contact the school at 525-3112 so we can set up a seat. This performance is part of the school's Arts and the Community program.

Dalkeith Library News

Christmas Craft Night will be held at the Library in Dalkeith, Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. We will be making Christmas centrepieces and it is open for all to join. Anyone who registers must bring their own supplies and our guest demonstrator, Micheline MacRae, will show us how to put it all together.

Christmas books for all ages have now arrived at the library. Christmas Craft books, cooking books, fiction, and children's books are now ready on display. We have a large assortment of children's Christmas storybooks to check out.

Starting in December, we will continue with our annual colouring contest for the children. There will be three age categories. The pictures will be available at the library soon.

Euchre

Here are the Euchre winners from Nov. 12. Georgina Wharry, Isobel MacLennan, Kay McCormick, Gordon Sharpe, Hector Burton, Bill McKiddie and Sonny Touchette, who tied and were arguing over the prize.

The door prize was won by Hector Burton. Floating prize – Gordon Sharpe. 50/50 winners – Estelle Brazeau, Albert Quesnel, Gordon Sharpe, Georgina Wharry, Isobel MacLennan, Bill McKiddie, Nettie Allen.

Next play is Nov. 26 at 1:30 p.m.

A Merry Dickens Christmas at Annual Jubilee Weekend

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

It's that time of year again. The days are getting shorter, the nights are getting colder, and Alexandria's merchants are getting ready for the annual Christmas rush.

To help them out, the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce is again mounting its annual Jubilee Weekend.

It's an event which, in the words of C of C vice-president Jamie MacDonald, "kicks off the shopping season."

This year, the Jubilee Weekend begins on Nov. 28 with a Christmas tree lighting in Mill Square at 7 p.m.

There will be Christmas music and hot chocolate available.

The annual Jubilee Gala takes place on Saturday, Nov. 29, at 6 p.m. at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

This year's theme will be a Dickens' Christmas, and the event will include a dinner, dance, and charity auction. All proceeds will go towards the Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

The cost of the event is $75 per couple or $40 per person.

The weekend closes with a spaghetti supper on Sunday night at the Sports Palace.

The event begins at 4:30 p.m. and tickets are $4 for adults, $2 for students.

Children 10 and under eat for free.

Signs of Christmas already appearing

WILLIAMSTOWN
SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279
sharring@

TIS THE SEASON: Marilyn Roberts affixes a red bow to Carlos, an African Hunting Dog, while daughter, Lindsay, looks on. The pair were decorating their Williamstown house for Christmas.

STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

So...signs of Christmas are already all around us. Decorations have been commonplace in city stores for quite some time now, and several locals have already "strung the lights."

Every year it seems as though the start of Christmas present is shoved back a little more. Soon, (I almost wrote "pretty soon," then stopped and wondered what was so pretty about it), we'll all be chasing our own tails (another silly one) and either putting the lights up so early that they will be up year-round, or taking them down so early that they will never be up at all.

Just a little skewed logic to play with over your stewed prunes.

Green Thumb celebration

Nov. 24 – it's this Monday – at 7:30 p.m. at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre, Green Thumb members and guests will be gathering for the final meeting of 2003.

A celebration, of course, because of the season and all, so bring a little something for the gift exchange, and share in the fun.

Please also bring along a non-perishable food item or items so that they may be passed along to the Agape Centre.

Jolly old gardening elf, Walter C., tells me that he had an encounter with the man in red this week, and is of the belief, that this special visitor, might, just might, call in at the Green Thumbs' party on Monday.

So...hope you have all been good to your pansies, your peonies and your petunias. If not, you might just find some coal in your gardens next year!

Have fun, everyone!

Dancing in Japan

In the future, when cultural historians are documenting the popularity of a strange sort of dancing which made its debut in early 21st century Japan, the name "James Nichol" will no doubt be mentioned as the man behind the moves.

James, who is in Japan teaching English, has begun to teach step-dancing there, Glengarry style! And the Japanese are loving it!

On the run

Also stepping lightly (and quickly) is Williamstown's Wendell Lafave. A review of his running history for 2003 tells the tale. On Apr. 12, Wendell ran the Cornwall M.S. Half Marathon in a time of 1:50. That's one hour and 50 minutes, for those of you who do not talk runners' lingo over your linguine.

On Apr. 27, he entered the Kingston Half Marathon, managing to shave a minute off his Cornwall run. Then it was on to the Ottawa National Capital Half Marathon on May 11, where he finished in 1:44.

He had exactly the same result at the Potsdam Half Marathon on Aug. 31 – good enough for a first place finish in his age category, which just happens to fall in the age 50-59 range. He was third (also in his category) at the Adirondack Half Marathon at Schroon Lake on Sept. 28, speeding up to a time of 1:41, and third again for the 50-59ers in the Glengarry Run Half Marathon on Oct. 4, with a time of 1:39.

All these halves, of course, were training runs for the biggie. On Oct. 26, Wendell entered the Washington Marine Corps Marathon – just the sound of it evokes the image of a solid wall of fitness and brawn – where he ran the 42 km. (26.2 miles) in a time of 4:04.

Wendell had been shooting for 4:00, and was on target until the finish line was so close he could smell it (though perhaps that was the other runners). Then excruciating pain set in, and he was forced to limp to the sidelines, his hamstring muscle tied up in a knot so complex that it would have been a challenge for even the most ancient of mariners to unravel. An exaggeration – but I'm trying to give you sympathy pains.

At the sidelines, a man asked if a massage would help. Now if you have travelled almost 26.2 miles and your goal is within sniffing distance, you are not about to turn down any offers of help. So the muscle was pampered and felt a little better, and Wendell re-joined the pack. And finished 2,956th – a very good result when you consider that there were 18,000 entrants in the race. In his category – this time it was 50-54 years – Wendell placed 157th.

What's over the next hill? Better ask Sir Ranulph. What better way to see the world!

Euchre

There will be an open euchre sponsored by the Friendly Neighbours Club tomorrow (Thursday) at St. Mary's Centre, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

All of you are welcome to come out and enjoy some cards.

On Bridge

Speaking of cards, who has been dealt the winning hands at the Williamstown Bridge Club of late? Well, according to results from the games on Wednesday, Nov. 12, 2003, that would be the following: N/S -1. Grace Leroux and Evelyn McPhail; 2. Jim Campbell and Elizabeth Marjerrison; 3. Gordon Snook and Rolly Fobert tied with Bernice Barlow and Joan Owen .

E /W – 1. Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell; 2. Audrey Pasco and Lydia Johnson, 3. Rhea Collette and Homer Grant.

Not just dealt the winning hands but played them, too!

No babies

No babies this week, I'm afraid. Had a string of them going, too. We'll have to settle for the birthday of a lady who has always had the most beautiful, baby-like skin, despite the fact that she is about to turn 99!

Sorry, Emily, but you are going to have to share those #99 honours with another Williamstown girl! Catherine Gourlay, who is now residing at the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge in Cornwall, will be 99 on Friday (Nov. 21).

Catherine, or Kit, as we know her, is the sister of D.A. Fraser of Cedar Grove Rd. and of Eileen Kirker, of South Lancaster.

Congratulations, and hope you have a wonderful day!

ATV meeting

Vroom, vroom – what exactly is the sound made by ATV's? That's all-terrain vehicles for those of you who lead sheltered lives in big cities.

There will be a public meeting tonight (Wednesday) at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre (upstairs at the arena) in Williamstown for everyone interested in helping South Glengarry Council decide what roads these four wheelers should be allowed to drive on.

In times past, ATV's were not allowed on roads, but new provincial legislation has changed all that and has given municipalities the task of deciding where these vehicles may travel within their boundaries.

Time of the meeting is 7 p.m. and it should be a lively one, with proponents and opponents of the vehicles revving off.

Foodgrains Bank

The regional meeting of the Canadian Foodgrains Bank (CFGB) is being held in Williamstown this year on Nov. 28, from 7 to 10 p.m.

Members from our local churches and other supporters of foodgrains projects will be in attendance, as will representatives from CFGB from Winnipeg. All who are interested in this worthy endeavour, which provides the wherewithal for food for developing nations, are invited to come along to the meeting.

If you would like more information on CFGB, how it works, and/or how you can help, please call Mackie Robertson at 347-2935.

Story hour

Story hour for the little ones takes place again on Wednesday, Nov. 26 at 10:30 a.m. at the Williamstown Library.

Theme of the day will be cats and dogs, and maybe a Christmas book or two will fit the bill.

All pre-schoolers are invited, and may bring along their parents as a special treat if the adults promise to be good.

Favourable election

City Hall's new composition following the Cornwall elections promises to be favourable for city mouse-country mouse relations. First of all, Mayor-elect Phil Poirier has a wife with Williamstown roots – the former Catherine Fraser – who still has many relatives in South Glengarry, including one who is married to a cousin of Mayor-elect Jim McDonell.

And Councillor-elect Leslie O'Shaughnessy, the former Reeve of Charlottenburgh, has an insight into the workings of our local political scene from his days in Glengarry.

Let's hope there will be co-operation and harmonious relationship between the two municipalities in the years to come.

Sympathy

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Laura Hill who passed away last week. Topsy had been living at the Chateau Gardens in Lancaster, after going first to Chateau Cornwall when she left Williamstown some years back.

Topsy, wife of the late Jim Hill, was a poet and I feel very happy to have amongst my personal library, a book of her poems.

I remember Topsy dancing at her 80th birthday party, hiking up her skirts to the delight of her family and friends. It was, in her words, "a swell time."

Celtic heritage playing a big part in art

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

I must admit that when I first learned about Catherine Ledevin, artist and owner of Celtic Iron Works in Alexandria, my female side said "Yes!!" For it is such a pleasure when I hear of women working in what is usually a man's field.

Being a woman has nothing to do with what she produces though – her imaginative furniture and decorative pieces just happen to be produced in iron.

Catherine originally is from Brittany, France and her Celtic heritage plays a big part in her aesthetics.

"I w[illegible] trained as a chemist in Franc[illegible] Catherine told me. "But I hated working inside so I moved to the south of France where I managed a company that built houses. Often I would be asked to suggest decorative ideas for inside the houses and found my Celtic ideas were successful. I did this for five years. When I got married, we moved back to Paris and my husband Alain, who is a machinist, decided that perhaps we should move to Canada. First we travelled to Canada – Montreal, Quebec City, Toronto, Niagara and back to Montreal all in the winter. But we liked what we saw.

"When we arrived in Montreal, my husband got a job right away," Catherine explained. "I had been accepted as a chemist but couldn't find a job in that field so ended up doing the accounts for a construction firm."

Being a machinist is not always reliable and Alain took a job in Richmond, north of Sherbrooke. Naturally Catherine followed and it was while living there that she took a welding course. Eventually it was the company that her husband worked for who called Catherine in to work.

"I had to test electrodes," Catherine laughed. "I tested steel for strength and quality. Unfortunately my husband got laid off but quickly got a job in Windsor. Windsor is a man's city and I couldn't find much work as a welder so I tried and got my truck driver's ACZ licence."

Imagining this diminutive woman driving transport trucks gives me a smile. Catherine is not daunted by much for sure. Sometimes coming to what I can only describe as one's real work is a long road. Catherine only arrived in Canada in 1988 and yet it was only after working in several areas that she decided to use her welding skills making furniture. It started just for her own home while unemployed, but friends loved her tables and decorations and started ordering. One thing lead to another and Celtic Iron Works was born.

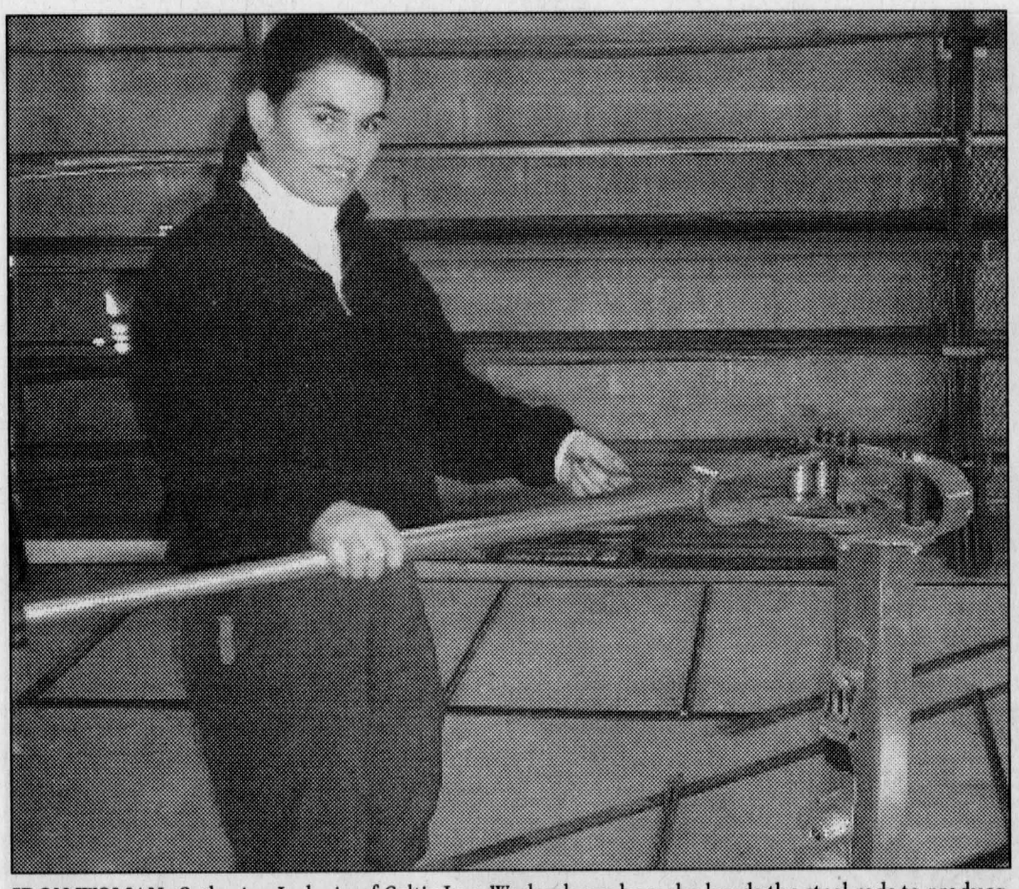
By then they were living in our area and Catherine decided to take the SEA program at St. Lawrence College and started her business officially in February 2003. This program has produced an amazing number of successful artisans.

Her work is delightful. I ordered one of her amazing steel, four foot high blue herons to grace my living room. No way will I put it outside to be abused by the elements. It gives me ideas for my own home. I have always wanted an iron table with a stained glass top....hmm.

Her work is practical but, like the original Celts who beautified their everyday tools and household items, her flair makes the items she produces unique. After all, why not make what we have around us and use daily a piece of art as well?

I was absolutely fascinated when I asked her if she would demonstrate some of her techniques. The machinery she uses is a contradiction to this petite, feminine woman – welding machinery, bending tools, all hard, strong and rigid compared to Catherine. Well, she did demonstrate how to bend steel rods. She does cold bending and to see what is a long ordinary steel rod being bent to produce curls, tree branches – whatever the design calls for, could have kept me there for hours. Just one of the many items Catherine produces is her line of exquisite candle holders. With the holiday season approaching far too quickly, they make perfect gifts.

Catherine recently opened a new workshop and showroom at 19740 County Road 43. She can be reached at 930-1141.



IRON WOMAN: Catherine Ledevin of Celtic Iron Works shows how she bends the steel rods to produce her decorative pieces. The soft curves she produces are in sharp contrast to the material.

UCW members meeting all about remembrance

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

The members of the Glen Sandfield UCW met at the church for their regular monthly meeting on Nov. 12. Chick McCaskill was in charge of the worship time. She reported, with regret, that the veteran she had invited to speak that day was unwell. The theme of the program was Remembrance. A reading, by the leader, called the Hour of Worship, opened the devotions. Faith of Our Fathers was the first hymn, and was followed by Christena MacLachlan reading the poem In Flanders Fields. Lorna Chapman read an answering poem in reply. Chick McCaskill read Why Wear a Poppy? which offers a touching explanation as to why there is a poppy campaign every year. The leader did interview one DSO veteran, who is 85 years old. He had joined the army in 1940 and moved on to the air force in 1944. He retired in 1946, married and has one daughter. He felt that the Peace Keepers must go and that we must take a stand against wrongdoings in our world. Another veteran, her brother Wyman, joined up at the age of 18 years, in Ottawa. He went with the Royal Artillary, was [illegible]red and spent months in Afri[illegible]hospital and was in one of the early invasions in France.

He finally got back in 1946 bringing home a "War Bride." He and his wife Madge had six children. He went to school to learn a trade and became a refrigeration engineer and retired in 1985 at the age of 80. Both men were somewhat reluctant to talk about their experiences overseas. Some memories are just too hurtful to recall. The last hymn was Let There Be Peace on Earth and the Lord's Prayer ended this portion. Margo MacRae gave the treasurer's report and Lorna Chapman read the minutes of the previous meeting. The Christmas luncheon meeting has been tentatively set for Dec. 2 at the home of Gail Kronwald.

Church services

Sunday morning worship services take place each week in Glen Sandfield United Church at 10 a.m. and at 11:15 a.m. in East Hawkesbury United Church. Visitors are always welcome.

OPP Interlude

On my way back home from Toastmasters last Wednesday evening, I was closely followed by a truck sporting red and white lights. Not the revolving lights of a police car, but stationary red and white light bulbs.

I was somewhat disconcerted. It was 10 p.m. on a dark road and this 'truck' was following closely behind me. Finally I pulled over to let him pass, but he stopped also. Now I was getting concerned. Here I was, all by myself, it was dark and I was very uneasy. Finally a man got out and approached my car. I had the window down about one inch to speak to him until I discovered that it was an OPP constable; then I rolled down the window and he asked to see my driver's licence, registration etc. He inquired why I was driving in Alexandria without my lights on and I explained that I never think of them with all the street lights but that I did turn them on after leaving the town. He told me that the tail lights do not go on when I turn on the ignition (which I didn't know) and that I could have been rear-ended and it would have been my fault.

"Do you never stop when you are followed by an emergency vehicle" he asked.

"I didn't know that was what was behind me, you had no siren, no revolving lights and no red and blue lights, how was I to know?" I asked him.

He said that only in Quebec do the police use red and blue lights; in Ontario the police use red and white lights. Did you know that? I didn't.

Anyway he let me off with a warning to put on my driving lights in town, it could have cost me $125. I assured him that I would. He was very nice and I learned a few things that night.

If he reads this, I would like to thank him but next time to please run the siren so as not to scare a lone woman driver on a dark road at night.

Thank You

I would like to thank everyone who supported me in the last municipal election in South Glengarry and wish the new council success in its upcoming term.

Poirier Furniture

Come Home this Christmas and Win-Win-Win

If you're looking for quality products, great service and a super selection … then look no further than Poirier Furniture. Add to this the opportunity to win big in their $12,000 'Come Home for Christmas' Giveaway and you've got a winning combination, anyway you look at it.

"Poirier Furniture's '$12,000.00 Come Home for Christmas Giveaway' has become an annual event that more and more people are aware of," says store manager Alain Lavallée. "Each year we see more and more new faces that hear about our giveaway and the super deals like no tax on all furniture and bedding, and that's on top of already great deals throughout the store."

This year Poirier Furniture has outdone themselves by offering a one week, all inclusive holiday for two to the Dominican Republic as the Grand Prize. The lucky winner will stay at a Four Star Resort, the Allegro Playa Dorada by Occidental in Puerto Plata.

"Barbara's Travel has done a fantastic job of arranging this super vacation package, valued at over $3,000.00," says Alain.

Allegro Playa Dorada is an all inclusive resort situated directly on Playa Doral Beach. The winners will enjoy buffet breakfast, lunch and dinner daily; unlimited local drinks; nightly entertainment and daily activities.

The giveaway also includes a chance to win your purchase on Serta mattresses and Deco-Rest furniture as well as a chance to win a LA-Z-BOY Recliner with any LA-Z-BOY purchase.

New administration poised to take over

LANCASTER
MARG MILLETT
347-2207
FAX 347-1297

All of the signs are down. Elections are over and a new administration for South Glengarry is poised to take over the job of managing our community. We welcome our new Mayor, Jim McDonell, Deputy Mayor, Frank Prevost, and councillors, Ian McLeod, John Warden and Janette Abbey.

One constant response that I heard during this recent municipal election was the intention of many to pay more attention to things that go on in our local government not in an antagonistic way, but just to keep abreast of events and decisions that are made on our behalf. I guess that you could say that this is a renewed sense of responsibility that we could have for our community. Now that's a good thing!

Volunteer Appreciation

Christiane Rozon Reasbeck has many responsibilities at Chateau Gardens. One of her jobs is being liaison between volunteers and staff. Thus, Christiane and the Assistant Administrator, Diane Pilon, hosted a luncheon at a nearby restaurant to say 'thank you' to the volunteers. Indeed, these volunteers ensure a good quality of life for the residents of Chateau Gardens.

During the meal a welcome was extended to new volunteers, Thelma Cholette, Mary Lou Jurchuk, Joan Patterson and Ann McGrath as they received their volunteer pins. Congratulations to Barbara Bockus, Sheila Marcoux, Lorraine Plue and Eleanor Waters for many hours of service.

Volunteers in all organizations are where they like to be, doing those things that they most enjoy as they help others. Our society would diminish significantly without these people who are always there when needed.

Some volunteers, such as Don Mitchell are less visible as they spend their hours helping at Chateau Gardens. The results of Don's many hours of work can be seen from early spring until late fall in the beautiful gardens surrounding the building. Thank you Don, from the staff, residents. families and fellow volunteers!

"Catch the Spirit"

It certainly was easy to "Catch the Spirit" at the Christmas Luncheon and Bake Sale at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday. By the time we arrived, the three baked goods tables had diminished to one and the beautifully decorated room was full of chatter as everyone enjoyed a delicious meal. The ladies were thrilled that they served over 150 people. It was a great success and everyone went home happy after a busy day. The Sunday School Candy Table also made over $300 for supplies, toys and equipment for the Christian Education centre.

News from St. Andrew's

On Sunday morning the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster, welcomed into the church family, by the Sacrament of Baptism, Kimberly April and Myles Gordon, children of Brenda Evans and Troy Wootten. A large number of family and friends also gathered to bear witness to this significant occasion in the lives of Kimberly and Myles. Following the service, celebrations continued at the Wootten family home.

St Andrew's Day Ceilidh

The Family Life Committee of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is organizing its third annual St. Andrew's Day Ceilidh and Tea. The community is invited to come to the church hall on Saturday, Nov. 29, from 2-4 p.m. Sandwiches, homemade Scottish oatcakes, and a taste of Haggis will be served. During this two-hour concert, dancing, singing, and lots of instrumental music will keep everyone's toes tapping. Admission is only $7.50 per person. All proceeds will be given to St. Andrew's Building Fund.

Suncatchers for Sale

The Fund-raising Committee of St. Andrew's is now selling Suncatchers, depicting St. Andrew's Church, for only $10. The suncatchers were made in Sydney, Nova Scotia, by mentally challenged adults. The company is called The Best of Cape Breton, and this particular project, which they created on their own, has enabled the company to remain viable and has given jobs to nearly 15 people. The suncatchers are on sale each Sunday following morning service. What a great Christmas gift idea!.

Legion Awards

SERVED UP: Richard Pilon, Grand Knight of the Lancaster Knights of Columbus and Gene Picard of the Lancaster Fire Department helped serve breakfast to visitors Teryn Leinen, Dina Alain, and Meighan Kennedy at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lancaster. Organized by Louise Trepanier, Legion members enjoyed a delicious meal at the Honour Awards and Remembrance Day Dinner at the Lancaster Legion. The Legion was beautifully decorated in gold and blue, a lovely sight as members came inside for this event.

During the evening, Louise presented the following awards:

Certificates of Appreciation went to Jean Marc Viau, May Hill, Frank Gropler, Howard MacDonald, and Robert and Audrey Austin.

Past Officers Medals were also given. With a Secretary Bar to Connie Neuman Gerdes. With Membership Bar, to William Ellis. Many thanks are sent to Louise and her many helpers for such a special evening.

Doris Beard, who sends me the latest Legion news, says that, as usual, veterans were served hot soup and sandwiches for lunch at the legion, between Remembrance Day services at Williamstown and Lancaster last Sunday. On such a cold day this was certainly appreciated.

Coming up at the Legion: Spaghetti Dinner on Friday, Nov. 21 at 5.30 p.m. For only $5 you can eat until the pots are empty!

Starting on Sunday, Nov. 23, there will be regular Community Euchre and Cribbage games. This project comes from Legion members, Doris Beard and Olive McCreary. Come at 1.30 p.m. and join in the fun. All proceeds will be used for prizes.

Pacemakers Lunch

Friday, Nov. 21 will be the next lunch at the Lancaster Legion. All homemade food, soup, sandwiches, many desserts and coffee, will be served from 11:30-12:30.

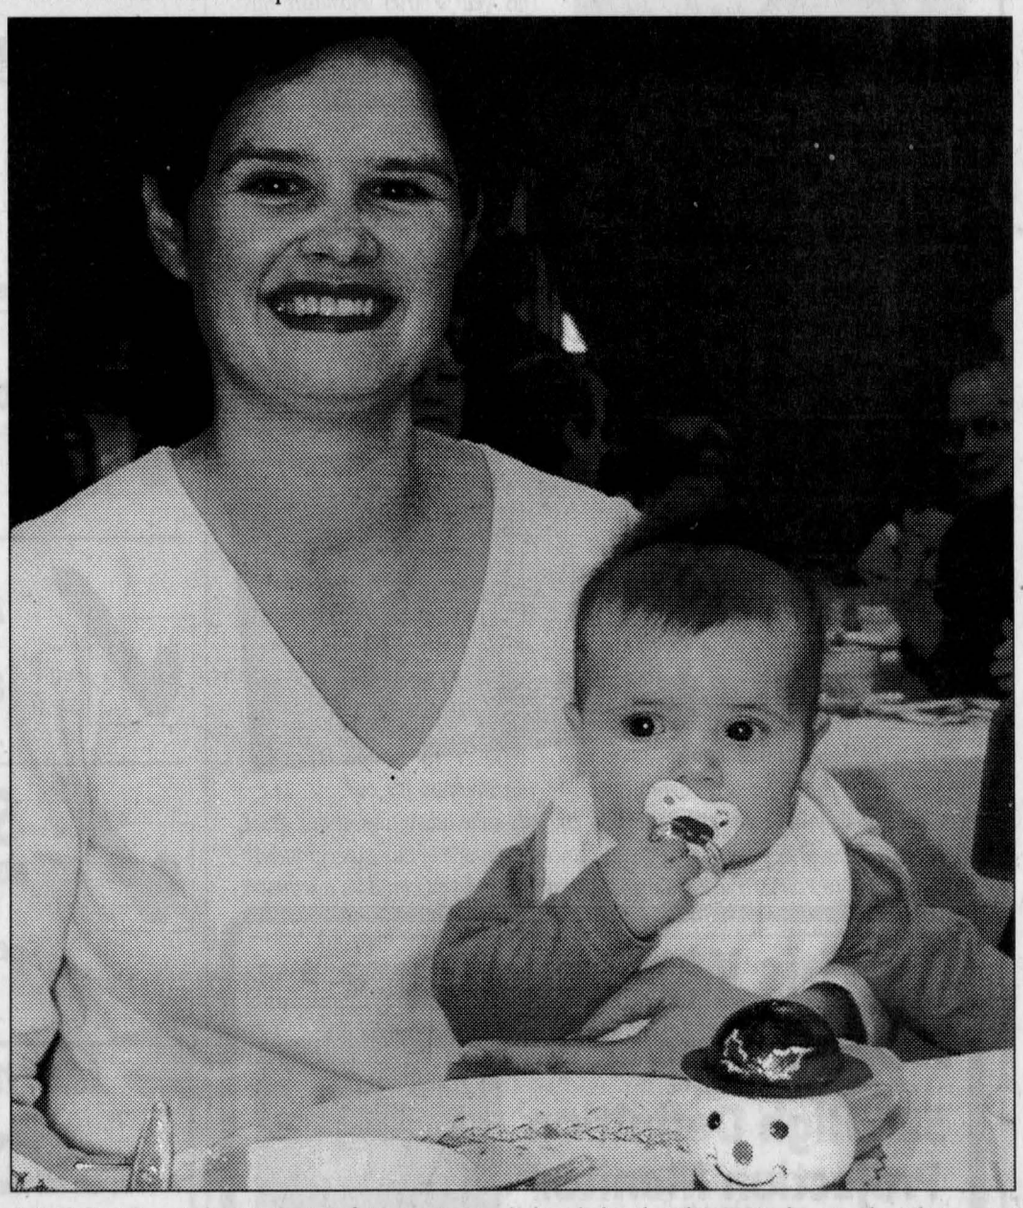
Everyone is invited. Only $5.

St. John's Anglican Church

Confirmation classes have already commenced at St. John's. Any candidates who have not yet joined please do so as soon as possible.

For Thanksgiving Sunday the church sanctuary, nave and entrance were all spectacularly decorated. Once again those who have had prayers answered or had something to be particularly thankful for, were given a flower to be placed in front of the altar.

On Nov. 2 the confirmation class hosted a breakfast with help from adult volunteers. The children did an excellent job serving breakfast to the congregation.



BAKE SALE: Lydia McCuaig of Lancaster took her baby daughter, Ainsley, to the Christmas Luncheon and Bake Sale at St. Andrew's Prebyterian Church in South Lancaster this week. STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

On Remembrance Day Sunday Kyle Hinskens. Elizabeth Wilson and Emma Chic, together with a Veteran, laid a wreath at the Altar while Andrew Woloszyn played the trumpet.

Nov. 14 saw the funeral of Laura Hill take place followed by another on the 15th for Margaret Rothwell, who passed away suddenly.

A number of "Samaritans Purse" boxes were prepared and forwarded for delivery to needy children.

Reminders: Today, at the Lancaster Library, 100 years to Celebrate, from 10 a.m. until noon. Lunch at Gail's Place.

Coming soon at the Lan-Char Senior's Centre. Saturday, Nov. 29, a Bake and Craft sale from 10-3 p.m.

Dec. 6 is the 45th Annual Santa Claus Parade. 2 p.m. in Lancaster.

Northern Traffic Snarls

It is fairly common in our area while driving, to spy (hopefully not hit) a deer crossing the road from one bushy place to another. To the folks in Labrador our problem must seem so minor.

The George River herd of caribou, probably 300,000 strong, migrates yearly from Northern Quebec to the Labrador Sea. It seems that unseasonably warm temperatures have made the final stretch of their trip very difficult for their travels. So, it was that way, or the highway and the highway it is.

Apparently, nearly 150,000 caribou, part of the world's largest herd, are using the Trans-Labrador Highway as their migration route from Churchill Falls, west, to warmer places for the winter.

Keep in mind that this is the only highway for those humans traveling from Labrador City to Goose Bay. Now, in this article from the N. Post, it mentions that waits for caribou passing can be as long as one half hour. Mmm. Tell that to a southerner who travels daily in Toronto or Montreal traffic.

Have a super week everyone!

HOPITAL GLENGARRY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
November 19, 2003
The Importance of Family Practice Physicians

Every hospital needs an organized medical staff that performs necessary duties in order for the hospital to function. This group of organized physicians is mainly made up of Family Practice Physicians who live and work in the community. One of their main duties at the hospital includes attending to the patients they admit or to their patients that the emergency physician admits. This provides for the best continuity of care for the patient by the patient's own Family Practice Physician. However, some patients admitted by the emergency physicians do not have a Family Practice physician on staff at the hospital. Subsequently, the group of Family Practice physicians rotates on a weekly basis to attend to the needs of these orphaned inpatients.

Currently there are six Family Practice physicians who perform this duty. Should you wish to have continuity of care in the future, please ensure that one of these physicians is your Family Practice physician.

The above physician with the office telephone number is still accepting new patients. These physicians also participate on various medical staff committees and have the option to work in the Emergency Department. The Board of Directors of Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital thanks these physicians for organizing themselves in an effective manner in order for the hospital to function.

Le 19 novembre 2003
L'importance des médecins de famille

Tout hôpital a besoin d'un personnel médical organisé qui s'acquitte des tâches nécessaires à son fonctionnement. Ce groupe structuré de médecins se compose essentiellement de médecins de famille qui vivent et travaillent dans la communauté. Une de leurs activités principales comprend la prestation de soins aux patients qu'ils admettent à l'hôpital ou à ceux que le médecin d'urgence admet. Cette pratique permet au patient d'obtenir une continuité optimale des soins par son propre médecin. Cependant, certains patients admis par le médecin d'urgence n'ont pas de médecin de famille parmi le personnel de l'hôpital. Conséquemment, les médecins de l'hôpital s'occupent des patients sans médecin de famille à tour de rôle sur une base hebdomadaire.

En ce moment, il y a six médecins de famille qui s'acquittent de cette tâche. Si vous désirez une continuité des soins à l'avenir, veuillez vous assurer que l'un des médecins ci-dessous est votre médecin de famille.

Les médecins de l'hôpital participent également à divers comités du conseil des médecins et peuvent travailler au Service d'urgence. Le Conseil d'administration de l'Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital remercie ces médecins de s'être organisés d'une manière efficace, contribuant ainsi au bon fonctionnement de l'hôpital.

Water requests imminent in Glen Walter

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

What started as a realignment and culvert extension along Purcell Road in Glen Walter is now giving South Glengarry council food for future thought.

Councillor Ian McLeod says that there will no doubt be requests for municipal water in the area, and that possibly a waterline should be put in place along Gray's Creek while the Purcell work was being done.

The Glen Walter area has been the site of many new homes in the last few years, and it is suspected that in the near future many residents will be demanding the extension of water and/or sewer services to their lots.

The problem is that some conjecture would be required as to the waterline and/or water and sewage line sizing, although the matter of the waterline could be addressed by the use of a 10 inch line which would ensure sizing for any long term future use, according to a staff report on the subject.

The cost savings – estimated to be about 50 per cent if the work is done as part of the current culvert and realignment construction – would be based upon not having to remove backfill material once it is in place.

But the savings that would occur by undertaking the work now would have to be weighed against the future. When will the line be required? Under normal procedures these costs would be charged back to the benefiting landowners. But should the general taxpayers be on the hook for the costs of installing the waterline now, when council does not know when (or even if) the charge-back money would be received?

"Installing a water line would totally delay this project at least until next spring," said Mayor Dave MacDonald.

The current culvert work is scheduled for completion by the middle of December.

Defeated election candidate Bill Madden spoke from the floor, encouraging that the waterline work be done in tandem with the current construction. He also took a swipe at council for not planning things better.

"This Purcell project started as a simple replacement of a culvert," retorted the mayor. "The problem is that the target keeps continuing to move."

Council decided not to proceed with the waterline at this time.

Stop signs going up at First Line Road railway crossing

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Stop signs will soon be erected at both approaches to the CN railway crossing on First Line Road.

The move follows a site meeting held in Sept. with members of Transport Canada, CN, and local residents about safety and blockage concerns at the crossing.

CN has agreed to clear brush on their right-of-way within 1,200 feet of the crossing and will work with local landowners to clear brush in the south east and west quadrants.

CN will also try not to block the crossing for more than a five minute period, by using an alternate location to stop, if necessary. Concerns had been raised about an ambulance being held up by a stopped train earlier in the year.

Election ending

The election may be over, but several defeated hopefuls were in attendance at South Glengarry's council meeting on Monday evening.

Both Victoria Stewart and Bill Madden were present and had things to say.

Also present was Councillor-elect John Warden, who was busy taking notes on the proceedings. Mr. Warden will take his council seat at the inaugural meeting of the new council, set for Dec. 2.

For Mayor Dave MacDonald, Monday night's meeting was the last hurrah. Mr. MacDonald is not contemplating a return to politics, following his defeat by Jim McDonell for the Mayor's chair.

Mr. MacDonald thanked South Glengarry staff and administration for their hard work and had a special word for the folks of the township.

"Thanks to the residents for allowing me to work here for the past three years," he said.

Councillor Janette Abbey expressed thanks on behalf of herself for "an enjoyable three years," working with Mayor MacDonald.

Ms. Stewart also thanked Mr. MacDonald for his years as mayor.

Residents offer help

Something rarely seen happened at Monday's council meeting. One member of the public, then another, intervened and tried to offer solutions to a thorny drainage problem a resident was having. While ratepayers often stand up and discuss their own concerns, it is unheard of for members of the public to enter in to debate about a third party.

After council had seemingly settled on the next step for the resident, a gentleman asked if council was in fact, recommending the right course of action. A lady then offered her suggestion to the problem, but council stood its ground.

Smoking ban

Council supported a resolution from the town of Lasalle, ON, calling on the new provincial government to begin the debate and eventual implementation of a smoking ban within all retail/business/entertainment establishments throughout Ontario.

South Glengarry has long held the belief that smoking regulation should be a matter for provincial officials.

Waste collection day

The statistics are in from the township's annual household hazardous waste collection day on Sept. 20.

The following materials were diverted from local landfill sites as a result: 5,000 litres of waste paint; 2,665 litres of waste oil; 300 litres of pesticides, 300 litres of aerosols, and 3,375 litres of waste flammable liquids.

There were 263 vehicles which drove in to the site at Smithfield Park in Lancaster, with the highest number, 60, coming from the Lancaster/South Lancaster area.

Members of the community, high school students, local firemen, South Glengarry staff and members of the township's Environment Committee all gave their time to make it a very successful day.

Ambulance bay

Lancaster's new ambulance bay is progressing well, reports Clerk-treasurer Mike Samson. The bay is located in the firehall on Main Street.

Estimated cost of the project to Nov. 5 is $105,057.

Speed limit

Sgt. Brian Eadie of the OPP has recommended that the speed limit on Loyalist Road in South Glengarry be posted at a straight 60 km/hr. At the present time, part of the road is posted at 60 and part is not posted at all. When the speed limit is not posted, it is assumed to be 80/km.

Sgt. Eadie said that there had been three accidents on the road in the period from Jan. 1 to Oct. 20 of this year. In one case, a driver was going too fast for the winter road conditions, and in the other two, vehicles (a bicycle and a lawn-tractor) pulled out of private driveways and were hit by traffic going along the road.

"It's too confusing having the two different limits," said Sgt. Eadie who has driven the road on different occasions to see if there is a problem.

Councillor Janette Abbey said she had wanted to lower the speed limit on the road when the issue came to council previously.

Administration was advised to review the criteria used by the United Counties of SDG and to bring back the recommendation as a staff report.

Town gathers at monument to remember

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

The Remembrance Day Service this year was held on Nov. 11 at 11 a.m. and at the Maxville War Veterans' monument on Mechanic St. West. It was an innovation to hold it on the date and at the time recognized universally.

The local Veterans' Club is not active now but all those members who were able attended the service, joined the parade from the Curling Club and served as flag-bearers.

Credit must be given to certain individuals who helped to organize the service in one way or another. They are Peter Campbell, Ron Clare, Lusia Jasiewicz and some Lions Club members.

Shelley MacPhee was the piper for the parade and Ivan Coleman served as chairman for the service. The two local schools had a number of student representatives, and there were Cubs, Beavers and Cadets in the parade as well.

The customary two minutes of silence were observed.

The Rev. Dr. Kent Clayton offered a prayer, Chris Munro read In Flanders Fields, and there was a young fellow who played the trumpet for the customary pieces.

There were many wreaths placed at the base of the monument. Maryanne Kampouris laid one on behalf of the Federal Government, Mrs. Kowalski for the War Veterans' Club, George Currier for the Municipality of North Glengarry, Paul Sinclair for the Maxville Firefighters, Walter Muir and Clive Rochefort for the Maxville Masonic Lodge, Marie Aubin for the C.W.L., Debbie Carroll for Scotiabank and for loved ones, Velma Franklin, Helen Zmijewski and Lusia Jasiewicz. There were others, as well.

Afterwards, the parade formed up and refreshments were served at the Curling Club.

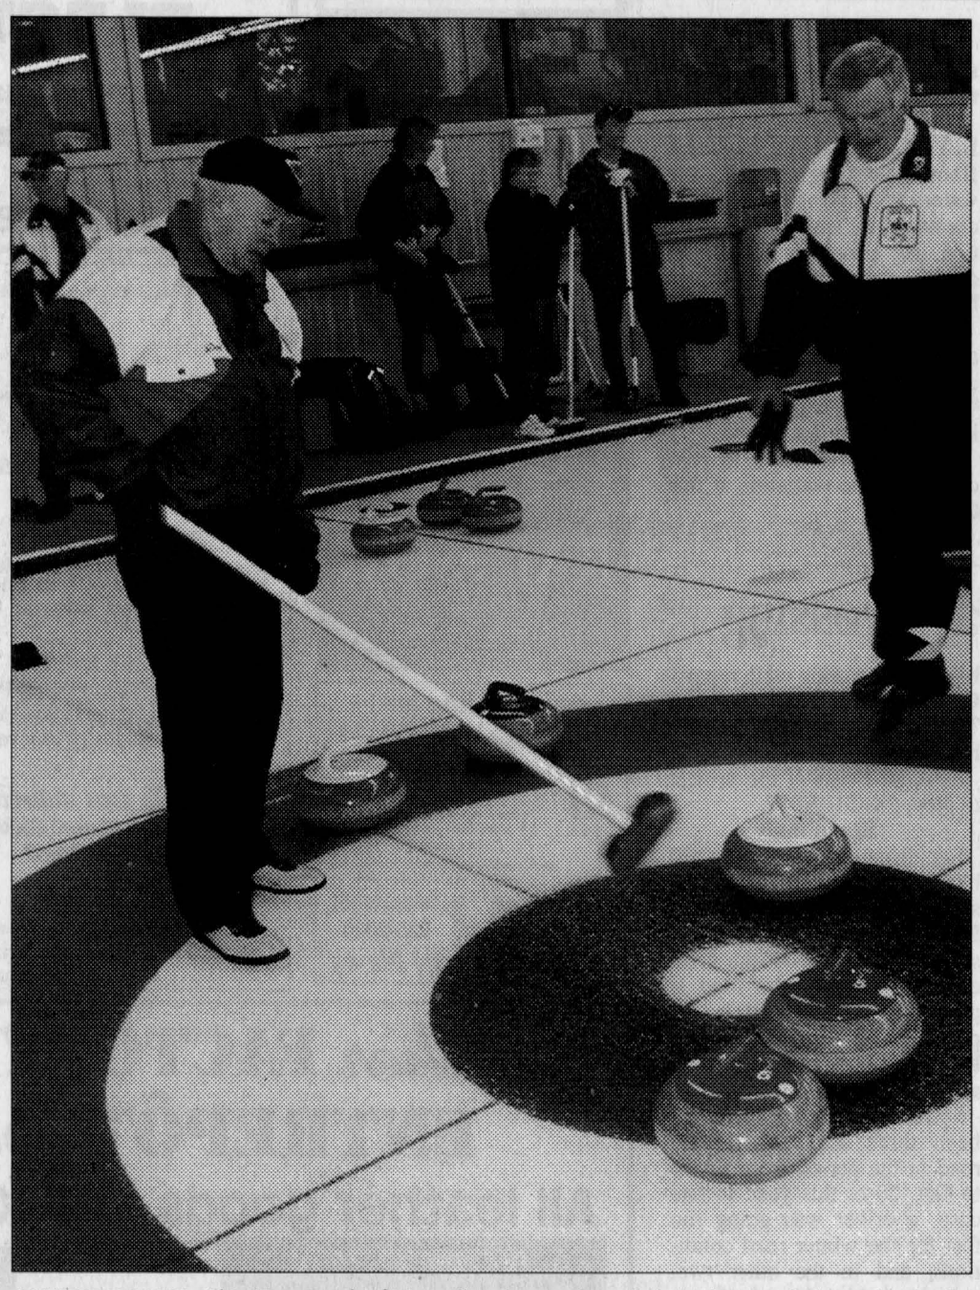
Election

The municipal election this year was different since voting was extended over several days. We voted on the Internet without a problem, as far as we knew. There did not seem to be serious problems for those voting by telephone. The Seniors Outreach Services at the Manor offered assistance to any senior who wished to vote there, accompanied by a family member or close friend. Only a few required this service.

Information on the results of the voting was dull. I had expected that the Canvote web site would display the results as they were tabulated, but there was nothing there.

The Jewel radio station from Cornwall announced Bill Franklin's election early and the CHRO TV station out of Ottawa had all the results for North Glengarry by 9.15 p.m.

Maryanne Kampouris must be commended for the campaign she ran as candidate for Deputy Mayor. She was very well prepared at the candidates' meeting, here, and impressed almost enough voters to get herself elected. It must be hard to lose such a close vote after working so hard and we wish her well in her future endeavours.



ON THE ROCKS: Skip Don Bond, of Maxville, plans a shot while Mel Watt of Alexandria looks on. The pair were participating in a fundraising bonspiel for the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame. The event was held at the Alexandria Curling Club last week. STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

Chieftain

The official opening of the Chieftain Restaurant under Linda Maxwell was a great success Saturday evening. There was a full house to appreciate the meal and the great entertainment offered by Blackwater Bob.

The support for the Chieftain on this occasion bodes well for the future and it is good for the village to have it on Main St.

Condolences

We express out sympathy to Bruce Libbos and his family on the death of his mother, Patricia, in Alexandria on Nov. 15.

Super Bowl

On Tuesday and Thursday mornings at the St. Isidore Recreation Centre, four teams of bowlers under the SOS program at the Manor enjoy some friendly bowling and fellowship. Scores are not considered important and the level of competition is very low.

However, last Thursday a team earned a very creditable score which deserves recognition. Harris Annett, Elise Forrest, Lorna Winter and Gary Newman are the members who had a total team score of 742 and the individual scores ranged from 206 to 162.

Winter Fair

Last week-end, Lorna and I, along with Keith Jack and others, enjoyed the Royal Agricultural Winter fair in Toronto, thanks to the services of Jolly Tours and escort Chris MacAleese.

At the time of arrival at the Fair about 4:30 p.m., the last dairy class was being judged. The four grand champion dairy cows were in the ring and four judges were selecting the top animal. A tie was announced between the Ayrshire and Holstein but after some more discussion, the 10-year old Ayrshire cow from Vankleek Hill and jointly owned by Bruce Mode was declared the best of the Show.

Credit must be given to the representatives of the Jersey and Brown Swiss breeds as well.

We enjoyed the two evening horse shows with several different classes including a big jumping class each evening. Friday night, Ian Millar on Promise Me came last while the next evening he was first on the same horse.

Something I noticed is being stressed in livestock feeding. For both pigs and poultry, the feed companies seem to be stressing the fact that they are not using animal by-products. To many consumers, I suppose this is good but I wonder how the animals think, if they could, about their strictly vegetarian diets. Both pigs and chickens are omnivorous, meaning they naturally eat both plant and animal materials. Why then should it be a selling point to advertise the elimination of something that is natural in the diets of these two classes of livestock?

CWL meeting

The local CWL held its monthly meeting on the tenth of this month with President Jeannie Coleman conducting the usual opening exercises for the 15 members present. Mary Robinson, secretary, read the minutes and correspondence and treasurer Nancy Fjarlie presented a favourable report.

Four members, Betty Beehler, Mrs. Coleman, Marian MacLellan and Lucy Rolland have completed a six-week leadership course for which Mary Ellen Villeneuve had served as one of the six presenters.

Mrs. MacLellan was thanked for her work of decorating for Thanksgiving and Claire Besner for carrying out a successful W.R.A.P. campaign.

Several shoe boxes were filled for Operation Christmas Child.

Coming events include the Christmas Tea and Bazaar at St. Anthony's in Apple Hill on Dec. 7, the monthly meeting on Dec. 8, an Advent Retreat at St. Peter's, Cornwall on Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. with the Bishop, the speaker, and the ladies Christmas get-together at Mary Robinson's home on Dec. 12 when a gift for Birthrite is expected.

After the closing prayer, Martine McDonald-Hill's group served refreshments.

List of birds

With the feeding of the winter birds under way now, I have a list of the ten most common species that were counted at feeding stations throughout Ontario. It comes from BirdWatch, a publication of Bird Studies Canada.

The Black-capped Chickadee tops the list followed by the Blue Jay, Dark-eyed Junco, Mourning Dove, Downy Woodpecker, American Goldfinch, Northern Cardinal, European Starling, House Finch and Hairy Woodpecker.

Right now, we have many goldfinches, some house finches, chickadees and a junco. There is an occasional mourning dove but I am not feeding on the ground yet because of the squirrels. This week, I'll be putting up a suet feeder and then the woodpeckers may come.

Last Thursday I had a report that the swans were still on the Mill Pond in Alexandria.

Students to face their fears at Char-Lan

BY STEVEN WARBURTON
News Editor

EDUCATION NOTEBOOK

Char-Lan students may soon be facing their biggest fears.

Nicole Melnyk, president of the school's student council, says that's because the school is hoping to mount its own version of Fear Factor, based on the television show of the same name.

Unlike the television show, Char-Lan students probably won't have red ants crawl over them, but Nicole says some of the challenges will definitely give some of the students the willies.

The week-long event has yet to be finalized but Nicole expects it to begin in December.

Stay tuned to this newspaper for more details.

The Catholic District School Board of Eastern Ontario's mission to transfer the old Alexander school back to St. Finnan's church may finally be drawing to an end.

"We're still looking for documents that will allow us to transfer the property back to the parish," says Ron Eamer, Chairperson of the school board. "There's just a whole lot of criteria that we need before we can do so."

He says that the school board hopes to conclude the matter within the next few weeks.

Dozens of Glengarry students are saying "checkmate" this week as they participate in the Au Diapason tournament at the Nativity Church Hall in Cornwall.

This is the qualifying tournament for the provincials, which run from March 29-Apr. 2, 2004, in Toronto.

Raymond Lacroix, the event's organizer, says that 31 schools from across Eastern Ontario are participating.

Although the event wraps up at the end of the week, Mr. Lacroix has revealed that Maxville Public School student, Anthony Pace, has won the gold medal in his age division.

Last year, at this same tournament, Julie Crevier of Elda Rouleau school in Alexandria, won the silver medal.

She is hoping to improve this year.

Students preparing for Christmas season

NORTH LANCASTER
INEZ FRANKLIN
347-7666

This will be a busy week for students as they are already commencing preparations for the Christmas season.

Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. McDonell and Mrs. Danaher are raising funds for a special workshop called "Artist in the Classroom" While the UCD School Board will pay one-third of the cost, the school must raise the balance. To that end, two bake sales will be held.

Mrs. O'Connor's first and second graders and Mrs. McDonell's Grade 2 students will host their bake sale on Friday, Nov. 21. Mrs. McDonell's Grade 3's and Mrs. Danaher's Grade 4's will run their bake sale the following week, Thursday, Nov. 27.

Please mark these dates on your calendar! Grades 1-4 look forward to booming sales and a successful workshop in the arts.

Crafting Day

A group of parents will meet at SJMPS on Thursday to conduct their second annual Craft Day. K to 3 will produce decorations and costumes for the school's participation in the Lancaster Santa Claus Parade.

Grades 4 to 8 will create an array of hand crafted items to sell at a craft sale in Lancaster Village on Friday, Nov. 28. This will be part of the Village's Tree-Lighting ceremony, taking place at the library at 7 p.m.

Remembrance Day

S.J.M. students were honoured with the presence of Mrs. Beard at their annual Nov. 11 ceremony. She is the grandmother of Meghan, Thomas and Jordan Sangster and has been "adopted" by the school as its veteran-in-chief.

At the assembly, the school's posters and artwork decorated the walls. A large commemorative wreath at the front was the focal point.

Each class recited a poem or story and Mrs. Beard addressed the assembly on the importance of the date and of the sacrifices behind it. She was very impressed with the ceremony and the children's attentiveness and efforts.

The students thank her for her time and dedication to their education on Canada's military contribution throughout history.

Meanwhile Grades 7 and 8 trekked to Ottawa by bus for the Cenotaph ceremony on Parliament Hill. They felt it an honour to be part of the 16,000 member throng.

The students dined at the closest hamburger stop before visiting the War Museum on Sussex Drive.

They came away truly impressed with this whole trip. Grade 5 students were invited to write letters to veterans which were delivered the first week of November.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. McMartin, members of the Canadian Navy Association came to S.J. McLeod School to thank the students personally for their correspondence

Great ways to reinforce the importance of Remembrance Day!

Ste. Therese Skating Day

Friday the 20th is journee de l'enfant. Kids will celebrate by skating at the Williamstown rink between 9:30 and 11 a.m. Have fun!

Pennies for CHEO

Students are once again collecting pennies for CHEO. If you can, contribute your pennies to this cause – rolled or not! Track down a student or drop them in the jar at Marche Luc et Tanya in North Lancaster.

Condolences

Community sympathy is extended to the family of the late Donald McDonell whose funeral Mass was celebrated in Glen Nevis last Wednesday morning. Mr. McDonell, lately of Hamilton, formerly lived on the 6th of Lancaster, a member of the Rod Alex McDonells.

To further identify this gentleman he would be a cousin of Anna Margaret MacDonald, Olive Seguin, Gerry Tibbals et al (the Archie Alex Family) and of Barton McDonell (Jim Alex family).

Happy Birthday

Best wishes to Lynice and Bob Currier who celebrate this month.

Safe Arrival

Their Glengarry friends will be happy to know that Margo and Jack Patrick and family, despite terrible stormy driving conditions, have arrived safely in Catalone Gut near Louisburg, Cape Breton. We wish them happy days as they take up housekeeping in their new home.

Welcome

Parishioners of St. Margaret of Scotland welcomed two new members last Sunday as Ella Grace, daughter of Glen and Sheila Campbell and her cousin, Molly Henry, daughter of Heather (Campbell) and Todd Henry were received into the church through the Sacrament of Baptism.

Barclay a deserving recipient of Legion award

GLEN ROBERTSON
COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

Congratulations to Howard Barclay for receiving the highest award by the Royal Canadian Legion on Nov. 8 he was presented with the meritorious service medal for his contributions as a 54 yr. member of the Legion. Mr. Barclay is a very active man involved in many activities in the Glen and surrounding areas to make it a better place to live. We wish him the best of luck and many more years of reaching out to others.

Exercise group

Exercises for seniors are held today, Nov. 19 at the centre from 10-11a.m. and given by instructor, Ruby McIntee. It started out at a very slow pace but now is a little bit more demanding but all the exercises are done sitting down and there is no risk of injury. Next week, it will alternate to Thursday, Nov. 27 and so on. Welcome to all.

Best wishes

Happy birthday wishes to our former parish priest, Father Denis Lefebvre who will celebrate on Nov. 22. We, the former parishioners wish him good health and good luck.

*

Annette Lyman accompanied by her daughter, Susan motored down to Guelph to celebrate Susan's daughter's birthday. Andrea turned 18 on Nov. 3 and she is presently in her first of eight years studying to become a veterinarian. They enjoyed a nice visit and toured the campus. Congratulations, Andrea.

Playground completed

The playground area at the centre is now complete with a bright, colourful yellow slide with a red and green ladder right next to the rink which will be used a little bit later depending on the weather, of course. Both of these are great assets for our hamlet. Many thanks to all those who worked very hard to accomplish this.

Condolences

Condolences to Richard and Linda Hamelin and family upon the death of Richard's mom, Suzanne Hamelin, who lived at the Maria Goretti Residence. Richard and Linda are both members of the Glen Rob. club.

Sincere sympathy to Euclide Cuerrier of this parish who lost his sister, Perle Vaillancourt, 89 yrs. old, of Cornwall. Interment took place last Thursday in the parish cemetery.

Diners

Many people enjoyed a Chinese lunch at the last diners. 50/50 winners were Mireille Dauphinais, Tina MacSweyn, Catherine Fraser, Lloyd MacLennan and Thérèse Lafrance. Door prizes went to Susan Stamm, Janice McIntosh, Jean MacLennan, Isobel MacLennan, Maurice Montpetit, Béatrice Lalonde, Inez Rodegenda, Mary Buckler, Archie MacGillivray and Lloyd MacLennan. Next diners will be on Dec. 11 and roast turkey will be served plus entertainment as a bonus. Happy birthday wishes to Everett Nixon and Inez Rodegenda who were born in November.

Clown for the kids

Petit Aujourd'hui...grand demain is inviting the parents of children from 0 to 6yrs. old to a children's spectacle "Zazou le clown" in partnership with the community organizations on Nov. 22 at 3 p.m. at Le Relais in Alexandria. No tickets needed but you can get your free tickets at le centre culturel "Les trois p'tits points...". For info, phone 525-3393.

Day of the Child

To celebrate the day of the child, the Health Bureau is organizing an afternoon of activities for youngsters from 0-14 who are from the region between 1-4 on Sat. Nov. 22 for crafts, games, spectacle, etc. A light lunch will be served and prizes to win at Le Relais. On Tuesday, Nov. 28, each class at Laurier Carriere will celebrate la Ste.Catherine in their own way. If desired, the students can wear a costume of their choice.

Laurier Carriere news

The students will get their first report card on Nov. 25.

The Scholastics books will be on display at the gym on Nov. 26. The students will have the opportunity to look at them and see which ones are of interest to them. There will also be a chance to buy from Nov. 27-28 during parent/teacher interviews. A percentage of the sales will be remitted to the school for new library books. A student who reads is a successful child. Parents who belong to the library committee are needed to help with this fair.

Magic show

Dec. 14 will be quite a busy day. A brunch will be held at the centre for all the community followed by a magician show for the youngsters.

More details later.

Choir festival

The ecumenical festival of choirs will take place also on Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Martin of Tours church.

Have a joyful week.

Emergency tourney

The North Lancaster Volunteer Fire Department is hosting their second annual emergency services (ambulance, fire, police) hockey tournament on Jan. 9 and 11 at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

The organizers are looking for teams that fall under one of those sectors be it professional or volunteer.

For more information or to register contact Geoffrey MacNaughton at 347-2255 or e-mail at geoffrey@glen-net.ca

The tournament will consist of 12 teams, with the deadline for entries being Dec. 5.

A new feature this year is a skills contest at 12 noon on Saturday for all players.

All proceeds from the tournament benefit the fire department's "small equipment fund".

Braves hold off Rebs

Eric Holgerson scored twice including the winner and goaltender Jeremy MacLaine made 50 saves as the NGS midget Braves beat the Char-Lan Rebels 4-2 on Nov. 13 in Maxville.

Andre Curotte opened the scoring for the Braves and the score jumped to 2-0 after Holgerson scored.

The Rebels came back with goals from Kyle Laframboise and Chad Carter to tie the game. Holgerson then notched the winner and Danny MacGregor added a late goal to seal the win.

Char-Lan outshot NGS 52-20.

Loss comes in B final

The Char-Lan bantam B Rebels made it to the B final in a Vankleek Hill tournament last week but lost to Massena 4-0.

Jymie Jasper was hustler of the game for Char-Lan.

In their opener the Rebels defeated the Hawkesbury Hawks 7-0.

Leslie MacLeod with two, Alex Glasgow, Mike Robertson, Joey MacDougall, Shane Laframboise and Shawn Fontaine scored in the win. Emily MacIntosh recorded the shutout while Robertson was hustler of the game.

In their second game the Rebels fell to a very strong team from Canton, New York in a shootout.

Laframboise and Grant MacDougall scored in the 2-2 regulation.

Jasper received hustler of the game.

In league play Char-Lan defeated North Dundas 14-1 at home.

Kevin MacLeod with three, Leslie MacLeod with two, Andrew MacKay with two, Mike Robertson with two, Fontaine, Grant MacDougall, Alex Glasgow and Will Lang scored in the win.

Jasper had five assists.

Back in Winchester the Rebels defeated North Dundas 4-0.

Andre Gaucher recorded the shutout. Robertson, Fontaine, Danik Poirier and Jasper scored.

A scoreless draw

The Alexandria # 2 bantam Glens played to a 0-0 tie with host Vankleek Hill on Saturday.

Jason Leroux recorded the shutout for Alexandria.

A two win weekend

The Alexandria peewee B Glens picked up a pair of wins on the weekend.

On Sunday at home the Glens defeated Akwesasne by a 5-4 score.

Yannick Rochon and André Bellefeuille each scored two goals in the victory while Andrew Munro added a single.

Thai Cappucino had two assists.

A day earlier in Kemptville the Glens won 6-3.

Joshua Collard led the attack for Alexandria with two goals and an assist. Bellefeuille, Munro, Rochon and Tyler O'Brien rounded out the scoring.

Settling for a draw

The Alexandria peewee house Glens played to a 2-2 draw on Saturday against Casselman.

Scoring for the hometown Glens were Mikael Giroux and Jacob Nadeau. With the tie the Glens improved their record to 4-3-1.

Lapierre leads in wins

The Alexandria bantam B Roy's Garage Glens picked up two wins last week as Joshua Lapierre led the way.

Lapierre scored two goals in a 3-2 win over NGS with Julien Demers adding a single.

Against Winchester Lapierre scored another two in a 4-1 win.

Justin St-Amour and Keegan Chollet rounded out the scoring.

The team now sports a record of 7-3-1.

Three is a charm for senior Gaels

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Playing in their third straight SDG championship, the senior Gaels girls' basketball team finally won last Friday.

The Gaels prevailed in one of the most exciting basketball games to be played in Alexandria in quite some time.

Rival Char-Lan was the opposition in the championship final.

The two teams played through a hard fought battle and there was never a gap of more than five points.

The final buzzer ended a flurry of Char-Lan missed attempts and the score read 45-44 in favour of Glengarry.

"You preach all year that the main thing is to not give up second chances," said Gaels' coach Guy Lamarche.

"Because of the excitement of the game (Char-Lan) had a few extra shots than they should've. The game could've gone either way. It doesn't get much closer than that."

Now the Gaels look forward to the EOSSAA tournament which starts today at Rideau High School near Elgin. The Gaels will stay overnight and continue the tournament tomorrow.

"It's hard to tell but if we have a good strong tournament and play like we can, we could get one of the two spots available for OFSAA," said Lamarche.

It was a gutsy victory for the Gaels in the SDG final as they lost leading scorer Sabrina Borsellino early in the fourth quarter because she fouled out and had point guard Kristie Hlusko playing despite a separated shoulder.

Lamarche (who replaced Catherine Adams behind the bench this season as she is on maternity leave) was elated at how the rest of the team stood up to the challenge.

"You always shorten your bench in the playoffs but those girls played so much all year that it helped their confidence for the final."

One veteran player really showed her worth in the playoffs.

Although she has the potential to be the leading scorer for the Gaels every game, Natasha Neumann instead uses her talent to make her team better, not just herself.

Friday's final was proof of how she can take over.

"She's kind of a quiet leader for us," said Lamarche.

"She does a lot of under-lying things to help the team. Other players on other teams have a lot of respect for her. She really stood up."

Neumann finished the game with a game-high 16 points. She also had six rebounds and three steals.

Before leaving the court Borsellino had recorded 12 points.

Glengarry's next leading scorer was Hlusko with seven points. Among those were two crucial free-throw attempts late in the game. She also had six assists.

"It was her decision to play," said Lamarche of his injured point guard.

"She's strong-willed and I knew she wanted to play. It was amazing to see her score seven points and two key foul shots. She was stiff after the game but no worse than before."

Christina Nussbaumer grabbed seven rebounds in the win.

On the other side of the court Kaitlyn Tierney had a strong game for Char-Lan with 15 points, including two three pointers and going seven-for-eight from the free-throw line. Alyth Kersley helped out with nine points and grade nine student Ashley Phillips had eight.

Lamarche said the excitement and score of the match could be the reason why so many fans were still around at the end of the game.

"It was really nice to see a strong crowd and many staying after the buses left. The support from the school has been amazing."

Semifinals

Glengarry played a strong defensive game in the semifinal and pulled out a 44-14 victory over Tagwi.

Borsellino led the way with 14 points while Neumann scored 10 and had eight steals and Kaela Lalonde had eight points and seven rebounds. Nussbaumer had eight rebounds.

Trisha Leduc led Tagwi with six points.

Char-Lan defeated Rothwell Osnabruck in the semifinals. Results were not available.

Thomson scores 19 in junior championship

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Although nine out of 12 Char-Lan junior basketball players scored in the girls' SDG high school A championship game Nov. 13, one player stood out.

Kelsey Thomson poured in 19 points in Char-Lan's 55-36 home court victory over the Tagwi Warriors.

Now the Crusaders look forward to the EOSSAA championships which will be held at Deep River this Friday.

The team plans to make the four hour trip on Thursday and stay overnight in preparation for Friday's games.

Thomson plays a post position with the club but is also very handy in passing and ball-carrying.

"It's only her second year playing and there's been a lot of improvement already," said Char-Lan coach Hanz Schulz.

Most of the ball-handling duties fell on the shoulders of point guard Christina Julien however.

Julien scored 14 points in the win.

Meagan Brown also made an impact in the game while Thomson took time to rest on the bench. Brown scored eight points.

Schulz said after the championship that it was important to him to get everyone on the team involved.

"I remember when I played I sat the first six games. I think that affected my coaching. I tried to play all the girls all year. Christina and Kelsey are multi-talented and hard to stop but we had contributions from the whole team. Joan MacDonald was good at rebounding today and Meagan Brown took some pressure off. Jessie Cattanach also outhustled some of their players who were much bigger than her."

Tagwi never backed down despite falling behind by big deficits a couple of times.

The half time score was 23-15.

Tagwi was led offensively by post player Jessica Harrison with six points and point guard Hilary Moran who crashed hard to the basket on several occasions.

Moran poured in six points as well.

Sharp shooting Emily Vallance was the leading scorer for Tagwi as she took advantage of several open baseline attempts.

Vallance scored 12 points in defeat.

Schulz said he admired Tagwi's effort.

"To give them full credit they never quit. They never stopped pressing right to the end."

And what does Schulz expect at EOSSAA?

"I have had experience at the Franco tournaments with La Citadelle and other AA tournaments so I have some idea what to expect. I would hope we win a game at EOSSAA."

There's always a chance to better those hopes though.

"At the beginning of the year I hoped we would have a 5-3 record. We finished 6-2 including three wins over AA schools. That's pretty good for a small school like ours."

Semifinal action

To reach the finals Char-Lan defeated Rothwell Osnabruck 39-24.

Julien and Thomson were offensive leaders for Char-Lan once again with 12 points each.

Brown had five and Kaylee Tothfaluse scored four.

Cheryl Monthorst led R-O with eight points.

No results were available.

HOCKEY WEEK CELEBRATED: In an effort to celebrate Canadian Hockey Week Glengarry elementary schools were asked to wear hockey jerseys to school. Pictured from left wearing jerseys at Elda Rouleau on Friday were: Sebastien Langlois, Joannie Lauzon and Vanessa Cholette along with vice-principal Yves Joannette and Alexandria District Minor Hockey Association executive member Carole Lajoie Langlois. Elda Rouleau also received a surprise call from former Montreal Canadiens head coach Jacques Demers on Friday. Demers spoke over the intercom to students and teachers about education and hockey. La Maison wins first game

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

It took eight games but La Maison finally captured their first victory in the Char-Lan Women's Broomball League.

La Maison picked up their first victory on Nov. 9 against Laframboise by a 2-0 score.

Johanne Latendre was a force in La Maison's first victory scoring both goals.

In the other match between the league's top two teams, Top Notch and Rayco played to a 2-2 draw.

Rebels Jarvo scores four goals against Rangers

Rebels.

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Char-Lan junior B Rebels' forward Steve Jarvo is fresh off his most impressive weekend so far this season.

It would be unfair to say Jarvo was in a slump but his stats were just slightly lower than one might expect at this point.

That changed in a hurry as Jarvo scored four goals and an assist Saturday night at home then another goal and two assists Sunday in Westport.

With the solid weekend he now has 29 points and he's moved into seventh in league scoring, just four points out of second.

Rebels' general manager John Chafee said he's come to expect good things from Jarvo but on Saturday night he had displayed something special.

"Steve has been steady. On Saturday he had some unbelievable moves and speed. The boys kept feeding him and he just kept carrying the mail. He had two other great chances and wasn't far off from a six-goal game. He was just in that groove."

Most of Jarvo's accomplishments came in the third period as the Rebels stole two points from South Grenville.

Rebels 6 Rangers 5

Two of Jarvo's four goals came in the third period (both on the powerplay). Those goals were two of four Rebels' tallies as they equalled the Rangers' four goals for a 6-5 win.

Danny Duval and Addison Pelkey, with the game-winner with 2:13 remaining, had the other Rebels' third period goals.

Jarvo had goals in the first and second periods as well.

Pat Johnson was big contributor to Jarvo's success with four assists.

Peter Veltkamp, Jacob Wiley, Alex Rees, Justin Wiley and Eric Selleck scored for South Grenville.

Anthony Fricchione (35 saves) was a winner over Ben Knapp (39 saves) in goal.

A day later the Rebels travelled to Westport in what turned out to be a pretty feisty game.

Rebels 6 Rideaus 4

The Rebels had another strong third period, scoring three unanswered goals to steal a win from Westport.

The win came despite three players from Char-Lan being kicked out with six minutes remaining in the opening frame after a brawl.

Derek Duval, Danny Duval and Addison Pelkey were given the gate with three Rideaus' players after they all dropped the gloves.

The fight occurred after Johnson became entangled with a Rideaus' player at the blueline. Johnson was assessed slashing and spearing penalties.

Down 4-3 heading into the three period the Rebels went to work as Adam Beehler, Johnson (with the winner) and Mike King (into an empty net) scored.

Danny Lafave scored in the first period and added his second goal of the game in the second period. Jarvo also scored in the middle frame.

Jarvo, Johnson and King all had two assists to go along with their goals.

Chafee was happy to see his players pick up their play after the first period ejections.

"The scoring in Westport was spread around. (Derek) Crawford was up with Johnson and Jarvo and we've been impressed with his play. Sunday was a chippy affair and at the beginning of the game you could see the start of something. We came back hard in the third period."

Scoring for Westport was Steve Biscaro with two, Ryan Bruyere and Greg Kerr.

Brian O'Shaughnessy (37 saves) was a winner over Josh Blank (41 saves) in goal.

Rebels notes

This Friday the Rebels travel to Winchester for an 8:15 p.m. start.

On Sunday the Rebels will play in their third afternoon game of the season. The game starts at 2:45 p.m. in Williamstown as the Akwesasne Wolves come to town.

The Rebels won 3-2 in their first afternoon game at home over the Wolves but dropped the return match on Oct. 12 in Akwesasne 4-1.

"We would rather play on Sunday afternoon than Sunday night," said Chafee.

"The crowd was good in our first game and the way the standings are right now, it's not hard to get the guys up for any game."

Nathan Poitras returned to the lineup this weekend but is still not 100 per cent after an ankle injury.

Cody Legue, wrist, is wearing a partial cast and is doubtful for this weekend.

Ryan Major missed last weekend's games due to a suspension and work commitments.

Stephane St. Denis missed Sunday's action because of school commitments.

The Rebels do not expect to make any moves before the Dec. 1 cut-down date to rosters. The only move they would entertain would be to place some players on midget cards. They would remain full-time junior B players though.

Glens win two more, but lose goaltender to injury

Alexandria Junior B Glens

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Alexandria junior B Glens picked up two more victories last weekend and remain tied with Char-Lan for second place with 28 points, two back of Kemptville.

The Glens are hoping to accumulate enough points in the next four games to sneak ahead of Kemptville and qualify for the Boxing Day tournament being held in Clarence Creek this year.

The defending Boxing Day tournament champions picked up four points last weekend to keep those hopes alive, even though they could've played much better on Sunday in Athens.

Glens 4 Aeros 1

In what assistant coach Simon Menard called a "boring" game, the Glens led 2-1 after 20 minutes and never looked back in a 4-1 win.

"The game was a bore," said Menard.

"There was no flow and we should've won by a bigger margin. There was no intensity. It might be a matter of the drive on a Sunday night. It's a good thing we weren't playing a better team."

Dominic Lamarche made his return to the lineup after a three-game suspension and scored the final two goals of the game.

Simon Langevin opened up the scoring and had helpers on both Lamarche goals.

J.F. Bourgeois had the other Glens' tally while Mathieu Desnoyers handed out two assists.

Mike Lawrence had the lone Aeros' goal.

Justin Martel earned the win in goal over Mike Robillard. Martel actually made both weekend starts after backup Jacob Rodrigue went down with an injury at practice last week.

The rookie, who was fresh off his first junior hockey shutout, injured his knee during the dying minutes of practice during a breakaway drill.

"He twisted his knee and we'll wait and see how bad it is," said Menard.

"It seemed painful. He could be back in a week or two or it could be a month or two. If that's the case we'll look for a replacement."

Last weekend Alexandria midget Glens' goaltender Chad Besner was called up as an affiliate and even saw a little bit of action.

He played for a couple of minutes on Sunday in the first period as Martel had some equipment adjustments made. Besner turned away both shots he faced.

On Friday night at home the Glens played a strong third period to come out on top against Gananoque.

Glens 5 Islanders 3

Heading into the third period tied at 2-2 the Glens outscored Gananoque 3-1 in the final period to win 5-3.

Gabriel Lalonde, Louis Brisson (with his second of night) and Christian Piquette scored in the period for the Glens.

Brisson's game-winner came while short-handed.

"He's always gung-ho and gives 100 per cent," said Menard.

"Things happen when he's on the ice and he worked hard for those two goals."

Desnoyers had opened the scoring for Alexandria.

Lalonde, who picked up an assist on Brisson's first goal, capped off his Gordie Howe hat trick by dropping the gloves with 2:28 remaining in the game.

KICKSTART: Alexandria Glens' forward Simon Langevin had a three point performance Sunday afternoon in Athens. The Glens defeated the Aeros 4-1. TODD ANDERSON PHOTO

"Gabby has great speed and is doing everything right except for finishing," said Menard.

"His confidence is building up."

Therefore he missed Sunday's tilt for fighting in the final 10 minutes of the game.

Gananoque received their scoring from Mike Larkins, Mark Talaiho and Chris Easton.

Martel was victorious over Colin Wade in between the pipes.

Glens notes:

This weekend the Glens travel to Morrisburg Friday night for an 8:15 p.m. start against the Lions.

On Sunday the Glens host the Winchester Hawks starting at 1:30 p.m.

"We seem to be flat at home on Sunday afternoons," said Menard.

"Some like it, some hate it. We just have to get off to a good start. We're back in our division and we have to win games. Morrisburg and Winchester are teams we should beat but we won't take them for granted."

The Glens have played in two Sunday afternoon games so far this season.

On Sept. 28 at home the Glens defeated Winchester 6-1. On Nov. 9 in Westport the Glens tied the Rideaus 2-2.

Glens' trainer Leo Legault has returned behind the Glens' bench.

Legault was back in place Sunday in Athens after a suspension.

"He's excited to be back there," said Menard.

"He's looking forward to division play again."

Patrick Dore missed Sunday's game due to school commitments. Lalonde was out with a suspension.

Nick Adam continued to sit throughout the weekend as he nurses his ankle injury.

Menard hinted Monday that the Glens may make a few roster changes soon and he expected to have some new faces out at practice this week.

Coach not impressed with play of Mustangs' vets

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

While Maxville junior C Mustangs head coach has been pleased with the play of a group of rookies on this year's team, the same could not be said about most of his veterans.

Kevin Lalonde continued to stress that he likes the make of his hockey club despite being ranked dead last in the standings.

Now that the team is 13 games into the season he's realizing that the full potential of the club isn't being realized.

Most of the problem is a lack of effort – mostly from the team's veterans.

"I've liked the effort of Shane O'Brien, Pierre Lacombe, Brody Coleman, Chris Leduc, Ryan Villeneuve and Andrew Michaud. Most of those guys (except for Lacombe and Michaud) are first year players out of midget. The guys we had last year are not playing as good. Rookies shouldn't be more noticeable than the guys who have been with us a few years."

You can excuse Lalonde for being critical of his veterans after the club dropped another one-sided game Saturday at home.

Lalonde said to expect changes after a 10-1 defeat to the Embrun Panthers.

"We had four lines and I think they were pretty even. I would like to go with three lines and don't like having guys sitting on the bench and not playing. Some guys will be moved around. We'll have to weaken one line to make the second stronger. That one line won't play as much."

Lalonde said he expects to ask a few players to take some time off this weekend so the club can dress just three lines.

He also expects to trim the roster by as many as three in the next week or so. As of right now the club has 22 players signed.

"Next week you may see a couple of roster moves with one or two players not being with us any more," said Lalonde.

All these possible changes stem from the Mustangs' dismal start to the season. That continued Saturday night.

Panthers 10 Mustangs 1

The Panthers scored three goals in the first period, four in the second and three in the third en route to a 10-1 win.

The score was actually tied 1-1 at one point in the first period but the Panthers finished a rally of four goals in the final four minutes of the opening frame by scoring the final two for a 3-1 lead.

Defenceman Ryan Villeneuve scored the lone Maxville goal bringing his season totals to four.

Hitting the back of the net for Embrun in the game were John MacLean with three, Mathieu Blanchard with two, Patrick Hamel with two, Richard Lamoureux, Nick Keymins and Eric Blanchard.

Tommy Rogerson was a winner over Josh Ingram who was pulled to start the third period in favour of Dan Desnoyers.

The Panthers outshot Maxville 50-20.

Mustangs notes

This Saturday the Mustangs host the St. Isidore Eagles starting at 7:30 p.m. On Sunday the Mustangs travel to Rockland for a 7:30 p.m. start.

The Mustangs will have their hands full with St. Isidore after the Eagles defeated Rockland and East Ottawa last weekend.

"We can't take anyone lightly. St. Isidore just picked up two wins in what I think are the two top teams in the league. Rockland is a good skating team and their defence is better than last year I think. We've got our work cut out for ourselves."

Lalonde said he will decide at practice tonight who would be asked to sit with some time off this weekend.

Scott Carswell returned from a shoulder injury last weekend while defenceman J.R. Besner remains on the sidelines also with a shoulder injury.

Although Villeneuve has played up front at times this year and done well, Lalonde said he prefers to see him on the blue line playing defence.

"With the way he's played this year I think he's more valuable as a defenceman."

Junior C hockey teams have until Dec. 1 to trim their roster to 25 including open cards.

With a couple of cuts seeming to be imminent, expect affiliate Andre Curotte and Rhys Paquette to get some significant time with the Mustangs.

Peewee Rebels win Cornwall tournament

The Munro Agromart Char-Lan peewee B Rebels had reason to celebrate two weekends ago when they captured the 12 team Cornwall tournament.

The Rebels clinched the A championship in the tournament by upsetting the Gloucester Blackhawks 5-4 in the final.

Jonathon Jasper connected twice in the win while singles came from Simon Di Tomasso, Ramsey Wheeler and Chris Sendao, who scored the winning goal.

Max Ming and Troy Lapierre handed out two assists each while Taylor Servais earned his third win of the weekend in goal.

The Rebels reached the final after defeating Canton, N.Y. in the semifinals.

Coaches called the win one of their best performances of the season.

Jasper was named played of the game after scoring a natural hat trick in the win while Colin Poirier added a single.

Richard Guillet offer a solid performance in goal for his second win of the tournament.

In their first game, the Rebels faced the Orleans Blues and prevailed 2-1 after Ming scored in the third period to give his team the lead.

Jasper opened the scoring for Char-Lan and Servais recorded the shut out in between the pipes.

In their second game Char-Lan scored three times in the last four minutes to escape Si Miller arena with a 5-3 win over Almont-Pakenham. Jasper scored two goals and added an assist in the victory.

Singles went to Poirier, Kevin Veilleux and Chris Sendao.

Jasper was named played of the game and Guillet was in goal.

In their third round robin game the Rebels defeated Capital Crusaders 7-0.

Parker Payette and Jasper had two goals each while Poirier, Ming and Veilleux added singles.

Dale Van der Burg handed out four assists. Servais was solid in goal. Ming was named player of the game for the second time in the tournament.

League results

The Rebels collected five out of six points in Upper Canada Minor Hockey League play last week.

In their first game they defeated Cornwall 5-2.

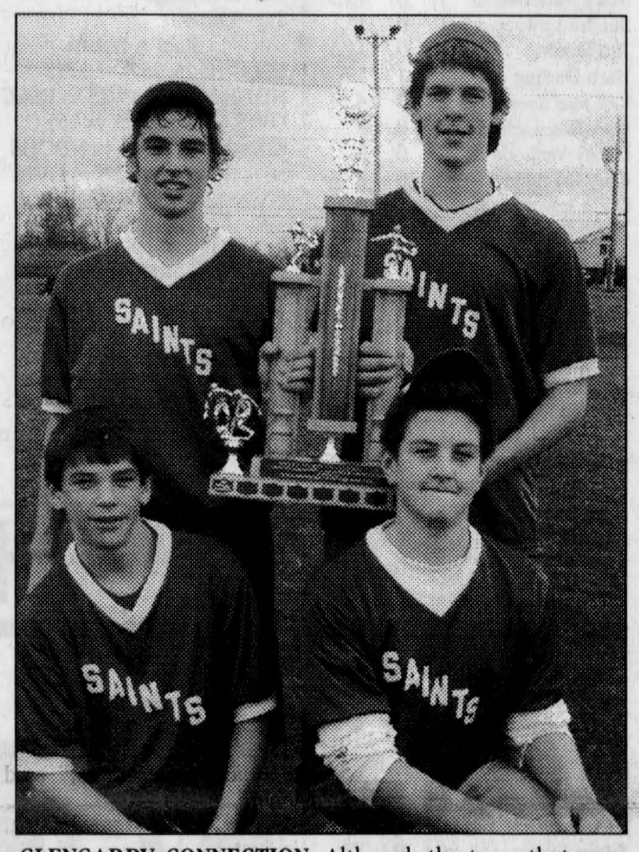
Jasper scored two goals and two assists in the win while Sendao had a goal and two assists. Di Tomasso and Josh MacDonald rounded out the scoring.

In their second game Jasper had a goal and four assist in a 6-5 victory over Kemptville.

MacDonald had the other Char-Lan goal.

In their third game the Rebels dropped their first point of the season tying NGS 1-1.

MacDonald was the Char-Lan scorer.



GLENGARRY CONNECTION: Although the team that won the junior Brian Filion Challenge Cup game (St. Lawrence) is from Cornwall, they do have a Glengarry flair. The team includes front from left: Andrew Laplante and Bailey MacDonald. Back row: Charlie Laplante and Burke MacDonald. The foursome are all from Glengarry as well as Nick St. John (absent). Northerners double Springers

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Northerners picked up their third win of the season last week in Alexandria Women's Indoor Soccer League action.

The North defeated the winless Springers 2-1 on Nov. 10 at Glengarry District High School. Lori St. Denis and Margo MacIntosh each potted their second goals of the season in the victory.

Also that night Kelly Lavigueu potted two in Atlantic's 3-2 win over Glen Sandfield. Sue Filion scored her fifth in the win.

Natasha Brodie and Tina Dewar scored for Glen Sandfield.

Char-Lan picked up their second win of the season on Nov. 12 by defeating Glen Sandfield 7-2.

Vanessa VanSleeuwen scored twice in the win.

Singles went to Christine Owen, Laine McDonell, Andree Beaupre, Christine Gray and Vicki Schaeffer.

Marlene Urquhart and Heather Huxted replied for Glen Sandfield.

Broomball

Glenda Villeneuve and Ashley Brownell scored for Rayco while Barb Benton and Mary McDonell replied for Top Notch.

Men's action

In North Glengarry Men's Broomball League action Dave's Drywall defeated last place Lacombe's Custom Work by a 6-0 score.

Greg Saunders was in goal for the shutout.

Clinton Leroux led the offence with his first two goals of the season and an assist.

Rounding out the scoring for Dave's were Justin Hueff, Chris Bilmer with two and Lance Ouderkirk.

In the second game the Matco Masters made things interesting against second place Farley Windows but ultimately lost 3-2.

Charlie McKeown, Robert Seguin and Dan Fourney scored in the win.

Jamie MacCulloch and Sandy McLeod replied for Matco.

More ILO research needed, health officer

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

The Medical Officer of Health for the Eastern Ontario Health Unit has issued a report calling for more research on the ramifications of intensive hog farms.

In a 12-page document titled Medical Evaluation and Risk Assessment: Industrial Swine Operation and Community He Effects, Dr. Robert Bou eau said that large hog farms can prove to be a health risk for many people, including asthma sufferers.

"The hazardous substances present in hog odour, such as formaldehyde, are routinely released into the environment and as a result the vulnerable persons can development (sic) asthma-like symptoms," wrote Dr. Bourdeau.

"Therefore, people living or working in communities surrounding such releases may be exposed to hazardous substances from hog facilities. Research does show that many odours, both those generally considered pleasant and offensive, can have an impact on asthmatics."

But Dr. Bourdeau didn't just limit his comments to the potential health hazards of intensive hog farming. He also wrote at length about the well-being of a community.

"A study in Quebec showed that the presence of odours was sickening and that it already affected the quality of life of the neighbourhood," he wrote. "This investigation was based on the results of social- health investigations among the residents of (areas with) swine operations.

"The frequency of the persons having a high level of psychological distress in the population was established for each of the categories of municipalities, intensity of hog production and season.

"The results demonstrated high levels of changes with large-scale hog productions for the period of spring and summer, where the production is higher than other seasons, showing that (intensive hog farms) could be associated with psychological distress."

He added that a broad-based study is needed.

"Only through solid research can we determine what limits are and how swine feeding operations may affect them," he said.

"It is particularly appropriate that such studies take place (in areas where there is a large concentration of these large hog farms) and we would prove their impacts."

Roy's Garage helps out on Halloween

GREEN VALLEY
MARGO PEPIN
525-3581

The Green Valley Optimists would like to thank Roy's Garage for the loan of two trucks that were parked at each end of the village on Halloween night. The flashing lights helped slow down traffic, helping protect children who were out going from house to house.

Each month the Optimist Club recognizes a student participating from each class for a particular subject. Winners for the month of October are Alexie Carriere, pre-kindergarten; Charlotte Sauve, kindergarten; Dakota Chisholm, grade one; Jacob Blais, grade two; Vanessa Renaud, grade three; Gilbert Laberge, grade four; Josee Theriault, grade five; Maxime Bouchard, grade six; Veronique Henri, grade seven, and Josee Menard, grade eight. Each student received a $10 gift certificate for a book of their choice at the book store Carrousel in Alexandria. Congratulations to all students.

On November 5 grade 5 and 6 students were bused to Cornwall along with students from area schools to attend a session called "racing against drugs." While there, they learned the effects and dangers of taking drugs and/or alcohol. This event was organized by different organizations including area Optimist Clubs. The first Optimist meeting of Eastern Ontario was held in Valleyfield on November 7, 8 and 9. Members attending from the Green Valley club were Ron Aubin, Nancy Lefebvre, Gilles and Julie Theriault, Don and Lise Prieur, Henri and Gisele Jeaurond.

Keep this date open - Saturday, November 29 from 7 to 11pm. The Knights of Columbus and Optimist Club "Turkey Shoot" is being held at the Green Valley Community Centre. There will be games of chance, turkey draws every 15 minutes, fun for everyone. It's a chance to win a turkey or two before the holidays. Everyone is welcome. The Optimist Club is organizing a trip to the "Casino" in Hull on Saturday, December 6. The bus leaves the Green Valley Community Centre at 5pm. If interested, or for more info, call Henri Jeaurond at 525-5070.

The new executive committee of the Knights of Columbus held at the installation of officers are: Grand Knight, Yves Joanette; Deputy Grand Knight, Andre Menard; Chancellor, Denis Lefebvre; Financial Secretary, Ronald Lajoie; Secretary Archivist, Richard Viau; Treasurer, Rejean Poirier; Avocat, Stephane Bouchard; Ceremonial, Robert Poirier; Interior Garde, Gerald Desjardins; Exterior Garde, Gerard Goulet; Syndic 1 year, Serge Menard; Syndic 2 years, Maurice Gauthier; Syndic 3 years, Henri Lebrun; Priest, Pere Larouche. After the installation ceremony, Knights and their ladies enjoyed a supper at the Green Valley Restaurant. They would like to thank Micheline and her team for everything.

Deepest sympathies going out to the family of Norman Blanchard who passed away recently at the age of 71.

God bless and have a safe week.

4-H Awards event on Sunday

4-H NEWS
TRACY MYERS
874-1046

Our Annual 4-H Awards event is quickly approaching with four days remaining until that anticipated day.

Sunday Nov. 23rd is the date to mark on your calendars. This is a great opportunity to honour all members and volunteers in the 4-H community.

E one is invited to attend so bring a friend and enjoy the festivities. The event will take place at the North Lancaster Optimist Hall from 2-4 p.m.

Everyone should have received a reminder note by now. Many apologies if someone has been forgotten.

Don't forget that, as the luncheon will be "pot luck" style, we are asking all 4-H families to bring a contribution.

As well all members who submitted projects throughout the year are asked to make sure that they collect these before leaving on Sunday as they will not be kept any later than this date.

See you on Sunday!

Yours in 4-H, Tracy Myers.

CONGRATULATIONS

TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY WINTER PARKING RESTRICTIONS

Notice is hereby given that no vehicle will be permitted to park on highways or part of a highway in the following areas of the Township, between the hours of 3 am of one day and 8 am of the same day during the period commencing November 15, 2003 and ending April 15, 2004.

TOWN OF ALEXANDRIA
VILLAGES of APPLE HILL, GLEN ROBERTSON and MAXVILLE
HAMLETS OF DALKEITH, DUNVEGAN and GREENFIELD

Every person who contravenes any provision of this bylaw is, upon conviction, guilty of an offence and liable to a fine not exceeding $1,000.00 exclusive of costs. Where a person has received a parking infraction notice alleging the parking provisions of the bylaw have been contravened, that person may, within five days, exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays and Public Holidays, present the parking infraction notice at the office of the Township of North Glengarry and make a voluntary payment of $75.00 in which case the parking infraction will be deemed paid in full.

By order of Council
Leo Poirier, Clerk-Adm.

CANTON DE GLENGARRY NORD RESTRICTIONS RELATIVES AU STATIONNEMENT D'HIVER

Avis est donné qu'il est interdit de stationner tout véhicule sur les voies publiques ou une partie de celles-ci entre les 3 heures (03:00) du matin et 8 heures (08:00) du matin de la même journée, pour la période du 15 novembre 2003 au 15 avril 2004, aux endroits suivants:

VILLE D'ALEXANDRIA
VILLAGES de APPLE HILL, GLEN ROBERTSON et MAXVILLE
HAMEAUX de DALKEITH, DUNVEGAN et GREENFIÉLD

Chaque personne qui va à l'encontre de ce règlement municipal est, après conviction, coupable de cette offense. Cette personne est passible d'une amende n'excédant pas 1 000$ sans compter les frais.

La personne qui reçoit une contravention pour stationnement illégal, d'après le règlement municipal, peut dans les cinq jours suivants (excluant samedi, dimanche et jour férié) présenter la contravention au bureau municipal du canton de Glengarry nord. Un paiement volontaire de soixante quinze dollars (75$) peut être acquitté et dans ce cas, la contravention de stationnement sera considérée payée.

Conforme au règlement municipal

TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY PUBLIC MEETING CONCERNING A PROPOSED ZONING BYLAW AMENDMENT

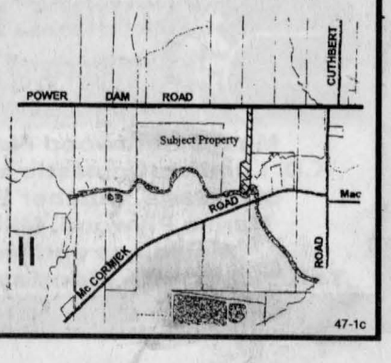
TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of North Glengarry will hold a public meting on Dec. 15 at 7 pm at the Township Municipal Building, to consider a proposed zoning bylaw amendment under Section 34 of the Planning Act.

THE PROPOSED zoning bylaw amendment is intended to rezone the lands described as being Part of Lot 33, Concession 2, 20660 Power Dam Rd., in the Township of North Glengarry, (formerly the Township of Lochiel), from General Agriculture to General Agriculture Special Exception, so no further residential development may occur on this lot.

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed amendment.

IF A PERSON or public body that files a notice of appeal of a decision of Council, in respect of the proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment, does not make oral submissions at the public meeting or make written submissions to Council before the proposed Zoning Bylaw is adopted, the Ontario Municipal Board may dismiss all or part of the appeal.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the proposed amendment is available at the Township office during regular office hours (8 am to 4 pm).



DATED at the Township Office of North Glengarry this 17th day of Nov., 2003.

Beware of crossing deer on King's Road

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

CHRISTMAS TREASURES: Christine McDonell, 12, Cora Lauzon, 12, and Bailey Lauzon, 10, found some knitted treasures at the One Stop Christmas Shop at the Martintown Community Centre last Saturday. The girls, who are with Martintown's Pathfinder and Guide Unit, were volunteering their time at the sale. STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

A King's Road neighbour has a word of caution to early morning and early evening drivers. Keep your speed down and beware of crossing deer.

His Monday took a bad turn when a deer ran in front of his van around 7 just east of the village causing extensive damage to the vehicle, though no injuries himself.

The deer did not fare as well, but a passing motorist stopped, helped the driver in distress, and then was able to make use of the misguided beast. Unfortunately at this time of year, we are often in a hurry just when the light is very low, at dawn and at dusk, and that is just when the deer are making their move.

St. Andrew's Ball

The Bonnie Glen will be the Highland happening place this coming Saturday, Nov. 22, when the St. Andrew's Ball takes place.

Dancers, pipers, drummers and kilts galore will be there, and no doubt, a wee bit of haggis and scotch. Cocktails are at 6:30, dinner at 7 and the ceilidh at 9 with the Two Paddys providing the music.

Cost for the dinner and dance is $30., and $5. for the dance only.

The dress code encourages kilts, or at the very least, a touch of plaid around the neck, in the pocket or up the sleeve!

For more information, call Janice at 347-2144.

Craft Sale Success

The One-Stop Christmas Craft Sale and Tea this past Saturday was, by all accounts, a success. We enjoyed a wonderful apple pie on Sunday courtesy of one very accomplished baker, and I purchased a few Christmas items to give as gifts. As ever, the social aspect of an event like this is the most fun, as people have a chance to visit and catch up on neighbourly news. Ah, how I miss the bank, she sighs wistfully.

Del Roulston thanks all the volunteers for their help and generosity in making the Goodtimers bake sale and tea room such an enormous success. Refreshments were served throughout the day by the Goodtimers, with the wonderful assistance of the Girl Guides, who helped with the preparation of plates of food, the serving and the washing up. Their presence and enthusiasm was just great. The bake sale, ably overseen by Jan Buckland, saw the donations of delicious cakes, cookies, pies, candies and other goodies quickly snapped up from the table. The Goodtimers hope to see everyone next year, and I am sure that most, if not all the craft sale participants would echo those sentiments.

Election Results

The results of the municipal election last week were interesting, though all the candidates from our north-west corner of South Glengarry were shut out this time around. We all owe Dave MacDonald a big thank you for his hard work on our behalf during his term as mayor. Appreciation is due the local candidates, Joyce Gravelle and Carol Ann Ross for giving their best efforts in the race and coming in fourth and fifth place respectively. Congratulations to the new Mayor, Jim McDonell, Deputy Mayor, Frank Prevost and Councillors, Ian McLeod, John Warden and Janette Abbey. I think we can be assured that Martintown's concerns will be kept on a front burner given that the new Mayor and at least one veteran Councillor have plenty of relatives in our immediate area!

Upper Canada District School Board Trustee, Art Buckland, holds a big responsibility in representing our neck of the woods, though not at the same table!

Women's Institute

This is a busy week for members of the Martintown Women's Institute. Today, Wed., Nov. 19 at 2 p.m., they are hosting the monthly birthday party at Maxville Manor. The Brigadoons will be entertaining, and family and friends of residents are most welcome to attend. Miss Donna MacInnes, sister of the late Emily MacInnes of Martintown, will celebrate her 101st birthday. She is reportedly in excellent health, except for her hearing, and is a going concern at the Manor.

On Thursday this week, Nov. 20, the regular monthly meeting of the Martintown W.I. will be held at the Martintown Community Centre at 1:30 p.m. The speaker will be Robert Bergeron, a Cornwall lawyer and the roll call is something homemade we buy today.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian

On Sunday morning, Nov. 16, the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Martintown, honoured Aina Hald and Helen MacGregor, both of whom are celebrating 90th birthdays, presenting each of them with a bouquet of beautiful flowers. Helen and Aina were asked to come to the front of the church where best wishes were offered by Rev. Ian MacMillan and Heather Buchan. Both ladies accepted their gift graciously and thanked the congregation for their kindness and thoughtfulness.

Martintown Public School

First term report cards will be sent home with students of Martintown Public School in Grades 1-8 on Monday, Nov. 24. Junior/Senior Kindergarten report cards will go home at a later date. Parent/teacher interviews will be held on Thurs., Nov. 27, starting at 2:30 p.m. A note with times of interviews will be included in the report card. The following day, Nov. 28, is a Professional Development Day and there will be no school that day for students and a day off for school bus drivers.

On Tuesday, Nov. 25, the Junior and Senior Volleyball teams will be participating in tournaments. The junior tournament will take place at Iona Academy and the senior tournament will take place at Char-Lan District High School.

Santa Claus Parade

As it is now only five weeks until Christmas Eve, members of the Martintown Volunteer Fire Department are ready to announce that the Santa Claus Parade will take place in Martintown on Sunday, Dec. 14, beginning at 1 p.m. The more the merrier is the word from organizer Mike McDonell in encouraging anyone from the area with a float, old car, tractor and wagon, horse, etc. to participate that day.

The South Glengarry Pipes and Drums will be playing and marching, and other groups on foot are most welcome.

In recognition of the effort made in producing a parade entry, floats from other area parades are encouraged to stage an encore and add to the fun. Canada Post will have an entry and there will be elves collecting last-minute letters to Santa.

The Martintown Optimist Club will once again host a party with Santa at the Martintown Community Centre following the parade. The South Glengarry Pipes and Drums will entertain an older crowd at Shenannigan's later in the day. For more information about entering the parade call Michael McDonell at 528-1065.

Stay tuned to this station to hear more about a proposed wagon ride through the village on Dec. 13.

Fire Prevention Visits

Martintown Fire Chief, Brian Hope, thanks all the people within the Martintown Fire Department district for their input and cooperation in the October door-to-door fire prevention campaign. Most homes in the area received a visit, but if you were missed you may still get a call. For more information call Brian Hope at 528-4939.

Unnatural Nature?

Last week's wild and woolly windstorm caused the sugar shack, cum skating rink cabin, cum summer storage shed at the Buckland home at Glen Falloch to tip over.

The next day when Art returned home from his Encore classes, he discovered the shack was back in its original upright position. Art rushed into the house to thank wife Jan, thinking that she had added house mover, lumberjack and major building repair to her long list of talents, but no, those winds had shifted around to the northwest and blew the shack back upright, just two feet further to the east.

That same week while cleaning up tree limbs from the majestic maples in the St. Andrew's United Church cemetery, the Buckland boys (Art, Jim, and Aden) were taken aback by a large amount of white larva and black winged insects in some of the limbs, and an abundance of Asian beetles.

Southern Lights?

An unusual light show appeared in the southern skies on Friday night, Nov. 14. Often we see the lights of Cornwall from the King's Road as a glow in the sky, but that night there were definite columns of Northern Lights, defying all logic. I dragged my husband out for a very cold walk just to ensure that I wasn't making things up, but two heads could find no other explanation! There seemed to be no Aurora Borealis to the north that night, where they often can be seen in our country skies. Were there any other witnesses, any expert opinions?

Goodtimers Euchre

The winners of the Goodtimers Euchre held on Tues., Nov. 11 were: 1. Marcel Glaude, 2. Pauline McKinnon, 3. Rita Parette, 4. Onagh Ross, 5. Solange Glaude, 6. Alice Cooper, 7. Eileen Johnston.

The door prize was won by Shirley Wylie, and the free ticket by Ann McDonald. Alice Cooper won a Christmas floral arrangement and Estelle Brazeau won another door prize, a beautiful candle.

The winners of the 50/50 draw were Pauline McKinnon, Therese Valade (twice) and Shirley Wylie. The next Goodtimers Euchre will be held on Tues, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Martintown Community Centre.

Duplicate Bridge

The results of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge held on Tues., Nov. 11, were as follows: North/South, 1. Jean and Jim Campbell, 2. Finlay McDonald and Allan McLeod, 3. Bernice Barlow and Del Roulston. East/West, 1. Audrey Pasco and Barbara Ross, 2. Gordon Snook and Pat Markell, 3. Kathy Eveleigh and Jane Troop. The bingo bridge winner was Claire Besner.

Friday Night Bridge

The winners of Audrey's Friday Night Bridge, held on Nov. 14 were, 1. Jean and Jim Campbell, (check out above scores!), 2. Jacquie Thibert and John Roulston, 3. Henryk Rzepczyk and Audrey Blair.

Party Bridge

The winners of the Party Bridge held on Monday, Nov. 17 were Evelyn Arseneau, Beulah Patterson and Bill Tadgell.

Enhancing Participation in the Labour Market for Persons with a Disability

Last October, The Eastern Ontario Training Board, along with its partners, conducted a survey among employment services agencies in the five Eastern Counties to determine the level of participation among people with disabilities in the local labour market and to assess employment outcomes for those who are seeking employment. We now have the results of this survey and would like to share them with you during our community consultations.

We are inviting you and members of your organization to join us in one of the following meetings which will be held in the following locations:

December 3, 2003 in Hawkesbury from 1:30 pm. to 4:00 pm.
Best Western l'Héritage, 1575 Tupper Street, Hawkesbury

December 4, 2003 in Cornwall from 1:30 pm. to 4:00 pm.
Ramada Inn, 805 Brookdale Avenue, Cornwall

December 5, 2003 in Casselman from 9:00 am. to 11:30 am.
Nation Municipality Council Chambers, 958 Road 500 West, Casselman

These consultations will bring together employment agencies and other support services agencies along with employers, organizations that serve people with disabilities and individuals with a disability who are employed or seeking employment. Participants will be invited to discuss the survey results and explore opportunities for greater participation of disabled individuals in our local employment market.

Please confirm your attendance by calling the Eastern Ontario Training Board at 932-0210 before November 28, 2003.

Rehausser la participation des personnes handicapées sur le marché du travail

En octobre dernier, la Commission de formation de l'Est ontarien et ses partenaires ont tenu un sondage auprès des agences offrant des services à l'emploi des cinq comtés de l'Est, afin de déterminer le niveau de participation des personnes handicapées au marché de l'emploi local et pour évaluer les résultats de leurs démarches d'emploi. Nous avons maintenant les résultats de ce sondage et nous aimerions les partager avec vous lors de nos consultations communautaires.

Vous et les membres de votre organisme êtes invités à vous joindre à nous pour participer à l'une de nos rencontres qui auront lieu aux endroits suivants:

Le 3 décembre 2003, à Hawkesbury de 13h30 à 16h au
Best Western l'Héritage, 1575 rue Tupper à Hawkesbury

Le 4 décembre 2003, à Cornwall de 13h30 à 16h au
Ramada Inn, 805 avenue Brookdale à Cornwall

Le 5 décembre 2003, à Casselman de 9h à 11h30 à la
Salle du Conseil - Municipalité de la Nation, 958 route 500 ouest à Casselman

Nous invitons les agences offrant des services de soutien à l'emploi et des services connexes ainsi que les employeurs, les agences qui desservent les personnes handicapées et les personnes ayant un handicap qui sont à la recherche d'emplois à assister aux rencontres. Les participants auront la chance de discuter des résultats du sondage et d'explorer avec nous les moyens possibles de rehausser la participation des personnes handicapées au sein du marché de l'emploi local.

Veuillez confirmer votre présence auprès de la Commission de formation de l'Est ontarien d'ici le 28 novembre en composant le 932-0210.

The Glencoe MacDonalds

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

The Glen of the River Coe or Strathcona, as it is sometimes called, is situated in the Western Highlands of Scotland, about 50 miles south of Glengarry. Most of the early arrivals in Greater Glengarry came from the Scottish Glengarry and from the areas surrounding it - Loch Arkaig, Moidart, Morar, Glen Roy, Breadalbane, Kintail, Strathglass and Skye, but it is believed that a few traced their origins to Glencoe. One MacDonald even named his pioneer home on the Ottawa "Glencoe Cottage" which points to a definite Glencoe connection.

The Scottish Glencoe is commemorated in many places in Canada and the US from Cape Breton in Nova Scotia to an avenue in the Montreal suburb of The Town of Mount Royal to Glencoe Station in southern Ontario to a town in Illinois. Since the population of the original Glencoe was never more than a few hundred at most, why is the name so well remembered? (An alternate English version of the name, The Glen of Weeping, hints at something sad, although it may simply refer to the rain and mist which often enshrouds it). The answer lies in something that happened there over 300 years ago and which is still remembered in the phrase "The Massacre of Glencoe".

It all began in 1690, when James VII of Scotland (and II of England), the grandfather of Bonnie Prince Charlie and the last Stewart king, is defeated at the Battle of the Boyne in Ireland by William of Orange. The new king decrees that all Highland clans must swear an oath of allegiance to him before January 1, 1692. MacIan, the chief of the MacDonalds of Glencoe, a small and obstreperous branch of Clan Donald, does not conform on time. Some of the chiefs of larger clans, such as the MacDonells of Glengarry and the Camerons of Lochiel also miss the deadline. But it is the Glencoe MacDonalds that are singled out for horrible punishment. A company of the Campbell Earl of Argyll's regiment are ordered to march into Glencoe, quarter themselves on the people there and, according to secret orders signed by King William, rise up in the night and slaughter everyone under the age of seventy. Many of the MacDonalds escape into the snow-covered hills but several dozen are murdered, including the chief, his wife and two of his sons.. It is one of the blackest days in British history, made particularly heinous because the soldiers had come in peace and were received with Highland hospitality.

Most of the Glencoe lands were sold by a descendant of MacIan in 1894 to Donald Smith, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the millionaire industrialist of Highland birth who took his title from the alternate form of Glencoe and from Montreal, where he had made his fortune. Now, according to The Scots Magazine of September, 2003, the Glencoe people have, with the help of loans and donations, bought back 300 acres of the Glencoe Estate for over one hundred thousand pounds.

The prime mover of this purchase is a Glencoe crofter, Alistair MacDonald. In the article in the magazine he is quoted as saying: "You cannot put a price on history... Glencoe means more to the MacDonalds than mere money. This is the land of our forefathers. Our history is written in blood on these stones. To us this is a sacred site..."

Although Alistair MacDonald's offer was less than the amounts bid by other interested parties, the executors of the Strathcona Estate (for whom he had once worked as a shepherd) preferred Mr. MacDonald's idea of preserving "the natural and cultural heritage of Glencoe for future generations."

The purchase also includes a half-share of the island known as Eilean Munde, the traditional burial-place of the MacDonalds of Glencoe, as well as of many Camerons, MacInneses, MacIntyres. MacKenzies and Rankins.

Alistair MacDonald hopes that the descendants of Glencoe people all over the world will donate to the cause. As he is quoted as saying "I want to make it clear that I do not own the land; it's owned by the Glencoe Heritage Trust and that's the people of Glencoe village. We have not been given a penny of government money nor do we intend to ask for any."

Mr. MacDonald wants to make Glencoe a place of pilgrimage for anyone interested in its history. "We hope it will include a building where people can learn about Glencoe and others researching their family histories can come and get help in tracing their ancestors... You don't have to be a MacDonald to appreciate what is at stake here.

The Glencoe Heritage Trust now takes its place with other centres which have a similar purpose in the Highlands and which are of importance to Canadians travelling there – with the Clan Donald and the Clan MacLeod centres on the Isle of Skye and the MacDonell/MacDonald centre at Invergarry at the entrance to Glengarry and with other similar information centres in Scotland.where to Glengarry and with other similar information centres in Scotland.
