Surge in break-ins puts police costs over estimates

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A surge in break-and-enters this year will likely put Alexandria way over budget for its policing salaries this year.

Paul Poirier of Alexandria's police service board, estimated last week the force could go over budget for its salaries by as much as $25,000 this year because of the crime rise.

But he added, if that is what is needed to put an end to break-and-enters, ''I guess that's the price we'll pay.''

The overrun however may be offset by underspending in other areas of the budget, such as the gasoline budget for police vehicles which could end up at about $6,700, about $5,000 less than what was budgeted.

The amount of money spent on gas is under budget because police have been so tied up with paperwork from their investigations they have not been able to do as many patrols.

The force is also well under budget for vehicle cost maintenance. It has only spent $2,560 of $16,700 budgeted for this year.

Police Chief Paul Deveau told police commission members last week there have been almost three times as many break-and-entries this year.

At the end of November, there were 65 break-and-entries reported to police. At the same time last year there were 26 break-ins.

The increase has meant more time spent investigating, which means more overtime paid to officers, according to Deveau, who was asked by Poirier to account for the huge increase.

Police officers ''put in very good, tiring work'' to crack the break-and-enter problem, Deveau said.

During one stretch in October when police cracked a major theft ring in the area, officers were working non-stop; one working for 26 hours straight to help bring the investigation to a close.

Thirty-eight charges were laid and five town residents were arrested in the sweep.

According to Deveau, police thought that would be the end of the break-and- enter problem for awhile.

But there was another break-in the night after the busts and police then realized they were dealing with not one, but two separate groups.

A subsequent investigation resulted in even more overtime.

Aggravating the situation more was the fact there was no justice of the peace nearby to sign documents such as search warrants for the police.

Police officers had to drive all the way to Rockland to get warrants signed and also had to make numerous trips to Cornwall to file documents.

There are no longer any justices of the peace in Glengarry county, Deveau said. At one time, there were three in Alexandria, one in Lancaster and one in Dunvegan.

There are now 59 vacant justice of the peace positions in Ontario, Deveau said. The closest justices of the peace to Alexandria are in Cornwall, Rockland and Russell.

But that may change. Deveau has been asked to submit names of possible justice of the peace candidates to MPP Noble Villeneuve.

The person would need some knowledge of law and would be required to attend training sessions three or four times a year, Deveau said.

In an interview Thursday, Deveau said he has received a letter from the province stating that finding a justice of the peace for Alexandria has been given high priority.

The letter said the issue should be addressed within the next few months, he said.

Town, MOE meeting to discuss sewer plan

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Members of Alexandria council and Ontario Ministry of Environment officials will meet Thursday to see how close they are to reaching a consensus on remediation measures for the town's sewage system.

The meeting — although the full council will be involved it is not certain if it will be public — will be held to try to nail down a long-term plan to address the lack of capacity in the sewage system.

Attempts Friday and Monday to reach Jacques Joly, environment committee chairman, to obtain details on the meeting were unsuccessful.

Development has been frozen in the town because of a lack of capacity in the system which has resulted in overflows of sewage into the Garry and Delisle rivers.

And with the problem not getting any better, the MOE has put council's environment committee to the task of developing a plan to set remediation goals and chart progress.

Katrina Columbus, environmental engineer with the MOE in Cornwall, said Friday, some work still needs to be done to the plan.

''It's heading in the right direction,'' she said. But she added: ''We do have some areas that we do want to strengthen in terms of their planning.''

She said work to the system will benefit the town, because it will allow for new development to proceed in Alexandria.

''One of the reasons Alexandria . . . would want to be interested in doing the upgrading is because of the drive to expand in terms of the municipality's size.''

But the environmental problems must be addressed first.

''If development is to proceed, then there will be actions that need to be undertaken to remediate the current difficulties and allow for future ex-

Demand for baskets is expected to reach 220 families

Almost 200 families have contacted the Lions Club of Alexandria to request Christmas food baskets this year.

Calls are still coming in every day, said co-ordinator Pierre Aubry, and the club projects that some 220 families will ultimately request the aid, an increase of 35 over last year.

''Traditionally some people phone in just a few days before Christmas,'' said Aubry.

The community has been quick to respond to the need, however. A cash drive by high school students last week raised $2,400, bringing the cash raised as of Monday to $3,400 including cash from private and other sources.

Beer consumers donated over $650 towards the campaign on Saturday. The money came from Saturday's ''Donate Your M.T.s'' fundraiser where people bringing empty bottles and cases could donate refunds or cash to the Lions project.

About a dozen Lions were involved in various shifts throughout the day, receiving the bottles from donors and loading them onto the truck.

Some people gave cash as well. Store officials estimate about $500 in empties were donated, with the balance in cash.

The lions total goal is $12,000.

It is seeking cash donations so food baskets can be nutritionally balanced.

Donations can be mailed to Box 1000, Alexandria, Ont. K0C 1A0, or dropped off at the Macdonald and Aubry legal offices at the corner of Main and Kenyon Streets.

Local retailers reporting strong sales

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Glengarry merchants are smiling over their cash registers as sales peak for Christmas.

But for many, the smile came a few weeks later this year.

Clothing stores, craft and gift shops all over the county are seeing a jump in sales compared to the rest of 1992.

But compared to the 1991 Christmas season, the season kicked off about two weeks later.

Kathy Howes of Kathy's Custom Framing and Gallery in Lancaster village said her Christmas shoppers began buying items at her shop two weeks ago.

Christmas sales at Stedmans in Alexandria also began late, about a week late compared to last year.

Despite the late start, a good flow of customers is keeping merchants busy.

''We're keeping nice and busy,'' said Julia Danskin of the Danskin Scottish Gift Shop in Maxville.

People from as far away as Belleville, Montreal, New York State and Pembroke have been calling her shop to order kilts, skirts, books, tartan wall plaques, and other items such as tapes and CDs of Scotish music.

She said sales normally remain healthy through January, when people spend some of their Christmas money.

Howes said her gift shop also keeps busy through January.

''We have a good January because people usually get prints for Christmas and they want to get them framed,'' she said.

Ron Poissant, the owner and manager of Giant Tiger in Alexandria said his discount department store also keeps busy throughout most of the year.

He advertises a great deal and the publicity seems to draw in crowds.

And during the Christmas rush, the average sales per customer is higher.

Sheila Olson, owner of Town And Country Gift Shop and Flowers said her shops in Alexandria and Lancaster have also been seeing crowds lately.

She says although so far business is fair, it would be much more brisk if there was snow on the ground.

''It triggers an impulse that says — spend! spend! spend!'' Olson said.

Cornwall hydro customers in township to pay more

Wholesale cost of power increasing 14%

Cornwall Electric's customers in Charlottenburgh will pay more for electricity beginning July 1, 1993, but their costs will still be less than residents in the township who are supplied by Ontario Hydro.

At its regular meeting held Dec. 8, Charlottenburgh council agreed to a 4.5 per cent increase for rural residential, rural general service, and cottages. Because of the July 1 implementation date, this equates to a 2.25 per cent increase for 1993.

For a home in Charlottenburgh which uses 1000 kWh of electricity a month, the average 1993 monthly cost will be $81.13, compared to $91.33 if the home is supplied by Ontario Hydro (GST excluded).

Ernie Jackson, Cornwall Electric's vice-president and general manager, told council that the increase to customers was necessary because the wholesale cost of power to the utility would be increasing by nearly 14 per cent in 1993.

This includes a 20 per cent leap in the cost of purchasing from the Cedar Rapids Transmission Company, with which Cornwall Electric has a long term contract, negotiated at least 30 years ago.

Although Cornwall Electric's customers have, according to Jackson, benefited from this contract over the years, by the year 2000, their rates will be on a par with Ontario Hydro's.

''Between now and the year 2000, we are trying to find cheaper

Chesterville reeve is 142nd warden of counties

Chesterville Reeve Jim Cook, 57, was elected 142nd warden of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry United Counties Monday.

With his wife Vicky and daughters Jacqueline, Janice, and Beth looking on, Cook received the silver chain of office symbolizing the 20 municipalities in the United Counties.

In his acceptance speech, Cook, recently retired from Nestle Enterprises Ltd., warned huge changes of structure will be made in both county and municipal governments.

''We got to start strategic planning now or else someone else will do it for us,'' Cook said.

Cook takes over the position from Cornwall Township Reeve John Moss. Glengarry's latest warden was Lochiel Reeve Ron MacDonell, who held the position in 1991.

Kenyon reeve gets to top at environment ministry

Environment minister Ruth Greer has shed a ray of hope on the ongoing waste disposal dilemma being experienced by Kenyon Township and the Village of Maxville.

Greer gave a whole new meaning to the phrase ''environmentally friendly'' earlier this month, when she agreed to a spur-of-the-moment, unscheduled meeting with Kenyon Township Reeve Wilfred Vallance and local MPP Noble Villeneuve Dec. 1.

Vallance was in Toronto Dec. 1 to meet with Ministry of the Environment (MOE) senior officials in an attempt to resolve the municipalities' difficulties in obtaining an Emergency Certificate of Approval to operate the Dunvegan landfill site. He had been told that he and Maxville Reeve Jim MacEwen, also in Toronto for the meeting, would be unable to see the minister.

But according to Vallance, after the meeting had ended and MacEwen had departed for another meeting elsewhere, Villeneuve and Vallance returned to Queen's Park where Villeneuve sought out Greer in the Legislature and asked her to hear Vallance's concerns. She agreed.

Vallance last week said he believes it was a beneficial meeting: Greer has asked to obtain a package of information regarding the matter. MacEwen Thursday said he plans to submit a report to the minister within the next month.

Kenyon requires the certificate so that it can continue to accept waste from Maxville's 800 residents, which it has been doing since Maxville's site closed in 1986.

According to Vallance, the reeves went to Toronto in hopes of convincing the ministry that a long, drawn-out process which could include an environmental assessment and could cost as much as $300,000, isn't necessary in this case.

And indeed, Greer commented that the municipalities were taking a ''common sense approach'' to the problem, said Vallance.

The fact that both municipalities are recycling and that Kenyon has already cut its landfill site waste by one-fourth was also a feather in the township's cap, said Vallance.

''We did feel very secure when we left, that we were going to be able to deal with these people based on common sense,'' he said.

MacEwen then said he was pleased that Vallance had spoken to the minister and conceded that senior officials ''can only follow rules and laws. The only one who can do what we need is the minister. The only one who can circumvent laws is the minister.''

MacEwen said he now feels more optimistic about a feasible settlement than he did prior to Dec. 1.

''We were at the end of our rope. The alternative is to go to (have waste disposed of in) Nepean . . . which could be a really expensive venture when it's been shown to us by the consultants that Kenyon can accommodate us (our waste). Once there (Nepean), we can't go back to Kenyon.

''It's natural that we go to Kenyon, when we share fire department and sports complex. We're good neighbors,'' said MacEwen.

George Hambleton's weather report for the month of November

November was 2 degrees Celsius (3.6 degrees Fahrenheit) cooler than normal, with a high of 16 C (61 F) and a low of -12.5 C (10 F).

Rain and snow fell 20 times for a total accumulation of 126mm (5''), almost double the normal.

There was almost no sunshine during November.

November 1991 had many sunny days and above normal temperatures, with a high of 18.5 C (65 F) and a low of -13 C (8.6 F).

sources,'' explained Jackson.

''It is our hope that in the long run we can remain cheaper than Ontario Hydro.''

Jackson also said that Cornwall Electric was doing its best to keep its other costs down. Costs of operating and maintenance and administration will rise by approximately two per cent.

''Closure of the Courtaulds plant means that less power has to be purchased on peak, which in turns means a lower average cost of power,'' said Chief Engineer Kazi Marouf in a letter to council.

''It is expected that Cornwall Electric will remain one of the least expensive suppliers of electricity in Ontario for some time.''

Charlottenburgh's Administrator-Clerk Marcel Lapierre asked Jackson about the feasibility of more township residents becoming customers of the cheaper Cornwall Electric.

Lapierre said he had been receiving enquiries from customers of Ontario Hydro, living near the end of Cornwall Electric's lines.

According to Jackson, residents must first have Ontario Hydro's permission to go off Ontario Hydro. He also said that Cornwall Electric would have some technical difficulties going any further.

''The end was the end for a reason,'' Jackson said, although he conceded that ''any technical problem can be solved with a lot of money involved.'' pansion,'' she said.

She said the town ''is heading in the right direction'', however she is not certain what Thursday's meeting, involving her and two other MOE officials, will entail.

But she added: ''I hope (after the meeting) it's clear to everyone on council what the ministry will be expecting.''

She said a long-term plan is necessary to clearly define how evironmental problems will be addressed over the next five years.

''There are things that need to be done and it's important that a blueprint is developed that is detailed enough that you know roughly how much money might have to be spent in one particular area and try to arrange budgeting so that eventually can be accomplished,'' she said.

But the ministry also understands that the work can only be done if the money needed is available

''It's all going to have to be spread out over a number of years. It can't all be done at once.

She said there is ''quite a bit'' that needs to be done, but to do it all at once would be ''a big constraint.''

LONGEVITY — Glengarry you've got it!
Consider Alexandria's Community Nursing Home with its 70 residents whose average age is 88 years young and includes
Marie Anne Poirier — 100
Ann May Gourley — 102, career in Royal Bank, later with Dept. of Finance, Ottawa
Ovila Bourgon — 102, former B.C. lumberjack, then farmer in St. Isidore
Eliz. Helleur — born 1892 in the Channel Island, came to Canada for a teaching career and,
Mrs. Ida Legault with 103 years who says her secret is, as she pauses and puts down her knitting, KEEPING BUSY! Ida takes an active interest in her family of 5 brothers and 5 sisters, 5 sons and 2 daughters, 18 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren. Yet, somehow, has enough colorful mittens and slippers left over to sell them to appreciative nurses and Dr's. As a farmer's wife in Lochiel, Ida was a baker of good breads and an excellent cook who practiced eating good things, putting vegetables first. Ida, nor her immediate family, ever smoked which is probably a major factor in their good health and long, active lives. Ida enjoys her bingo, goes to Mass every Tuesday, plays cards but is also a hockey fan especially supportive of the Canadiens. ''Sleep - it's a waste of time,'' says Ida, and so goes to bed at 10 pm, unless hockey gets in the way, then up by 6 am Ida washes and dresses herself, picks up her knitting and sets to on another day before visitors get in the way.

Now if you're convinced you want to join these mostly youthful seniors at the Community Nursing Home, there are two pathways. You can join the waiting list, there are nine ahead of you and its all based on Placement Coordination Service referral so it doesn't help to know the manager, Norman Quenneville. Or you can contact Nicole Vaillancourt, activity coordinator, and swell her ranks of volunteers for drivers, friendly visitors, card or game playing, creative circles because Nicole is always in need of more volunteer helpers. With the Garry River flowing by, extensive lawns shaded by mature trees, its an ideal location, but it is the sense of spaciousness, the warmth of feeling found inside which makes the Home such a special place. Norman Quenneville, a graduate of Ottawa and Waterloo Universities with a speciality in recreatology, proudly displays the Accreditation Status, granted in Feb. '92 for 3 yrs. (that's unusual). Fees, set by the Min. of Health, range upward from $794 monthly depending on ward, semi, or private accommodation. Ward residents are given a monthly comfort allowance of $112. To provide such good service requires a staff of 70, full and part time, of nurses, nursing assistants, housekeeping, dietary, laundry and activity people. Even so, Glengarry in its longevity aspirations, must look to Granny Bone, Sask. Indian, who is 117 yrs., memory still clear but wants, when she dies, to have a new pair of moccasins on her feet because ''after you die, you have a long journey ahead of you, and when you get to Heaven, it doesn't seem to matter about the rest of your clothes, but you have to have moccasins on your feet.''

Caroling, parade mark Alexandria festivities

It was quite a week for Christmas revellers in Alexandria. Over 300 people came together last Thursday night in a Chamber-sponsored carol sing up Main Street to Mill Square. They then gathered at the square to light up the town tree (lower right). Free hot chocolate and cider were served and kids got a 'float' ride through town. And the Richelieu Club sponsored its annual Santa Claus parade Sunday. Among the entries were, upper right, Trottier Farm Equipment, Little Rikki's Pizza and Subs, middle, and, of course, the jolly old man himself, lower left. Santa later retired to the arena to listen to the wishes of area boys and girls, and to hand out treats.

Police auxiliary cut put on hold for now

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria's police commission has put on hold a plan to reduce the size of the town's police auxiliary.

The proposal was first brought up at a police commission meeting Sept. 21 after it was learned some auxiliary members were losing interest because of a lack of training sessions.

It was proposed if members were losing interest, it may be a way to cut the size and cost of the auxiliary.

But after discussion at the police board meeting Wednesday, Chief Paul Deveau and commission members Mayor Jean Paul Touchette, Lorraine Lanthier and Paul Poirier were still unable to reach a consensus.

The eight-member police auxiliary was launched in June, 1991 as a means of beefing up Alexandria's small police force, particularily for events where there are large crowds and for Halloween enforcement.

But in recent weeks it has fallen out of favor with town council, which refused to allow members to attend the Town of Alexandria Christmas party, and now with the police commission over training problems.

Deveau said Thursday he is not certain why the board wants to cut the size of the extra force. ''There's not much of a cost involved in the auxiliary,'' he said.

Deveau said at Wednesday's meeting that the auxiliary is a large asset to the police, especially during Halloween, and its service is costless.

But police commission members felt that some of the auxiliary officers weren't committed to theoretical training and acquiring hands-on experience by accompanying the full-time constables on one shift per month.

''They have to show commitment,'' Lanthier said. ''That's why we wanted you to go down to the best four. At least they'll be active.''

''When you're not participating, you're losing interest.''

Paul Poirier also felt the auxiliary should be halved to ensure those who remain are solidly committed to the program.

He said a course can be scheduled and it will be deemed that those who don't show are not interested.

He added, he wants a record kept of the next few training courses and who attends.

Deveau has suggested simply not replacing the next two auxiliary members whenever they leave.

Part of the reason for the training problem is the board and police have been unable to reach an agreement on how the training will be provided.

The board wants Const. Jamie MacMaster to provide the training while on duty or else do it voluntarily after hours. MacMaster wants to do it after hours with paid overtime.

Deveau is against giving the course during work hours because if MacMaster gets a call, the auxiliary members could be left sitting at the station for an hour or more.

Touchette said however that MacMaster may never receive a call at the time he gives the course.

He added that a couple of hours overtime a month for MacMaster to give the training outside of work hours is not a large expense.

Court Report

The following are among the cases heard by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria's provincial court on Dec. 10.

Faulty lights blamed for accident

An 18-year-old county man was fined $450 after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

Ian Racicot was involved in a single-vehicle accident on Sept. 7 in Lochiel Township.

Blood samples showed that Racicot's blood-alcohol level was 134 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. The legal limit is 80.

The court did not impose a more severe penalty because of the accident, as is normally the case in a drunk driving case, because the mishap was attributed to malfunctioning headlights.

Racicot was also prohibited from driving for one year.

Cornwall man fined

A Cornwall man was fined $500 and was prohibited from driving for one year after pleading to drunk driving.

Patrick Leroux was stopped as part of a police RIDE program in Charlottenburgh Township on Dec. 5.

Breathalyser tests showed Leroux's blood-alcohol level to be twice the legal limit.

Changes in store for Canadian agriculture

World conditions making future uncertain, farmers told at soil and crop gathering

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Change is definitely in the air for the future of local farming, but what kind of change is uncertain, according to Ontario's agriculture ministry officials.

Ontario's assistant deputy minister of agriculture Ken Knox, and the ministry's Executive Director of Policy Paul Seguin told the more then 50 farmers who attended the Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association annual meeting in Alexandria Dec. 3 that the world, Canada and Ontario is going through dramatic changes.

But how the changes will affect farmers is unknown.

Knox said farmers can determine their future more effectively becoming actively involved in influencing government policy.

''Farmers should be in more control of the agricultural agenda,'' he said.

Knox said the degree of change farmers will experience in the next 10 years will be similar to the degree of change that occurred over the past 40 years.

He said the GATT talks and the North American Free Trade Agreement, new technology such as genetic engineering, and current government policy of cutting costs will all change the way farmers operate.

Both ministry officials touched upon trade, which farmers are very concerned about.

They said its unknown how a GATT agreement, which world leaders have been negotiating since 1986, or how a North American Free Trade Agreement between Canada, the United States and Mexico, will affect farmers, or whether the cherished supply management farming system will be eliminated.

Seguin said it's also unknown how international trade agreement will be affected by changes in the world.

For instance, he said the results of an upcoming general election in France, with its very militant farming community, will have an affect as to how France negotiates at GATT.

Elections, even in Canada, might result in last minute changes to trade agreements.

''At the last minute, I cannot give any advice as to how the government will go.''

He also said that it's difficult to determine how the trade treaties will be interpreted in each country.

He said each country, such as the United States, may interpret trade deals different from other countries.

The difference in interpretation of the trade treaties will have an unknown effect on world trade.

The effect of NAFTA agreement is also an unkown.

Seguin said he is not sure how Canadian businesses will change their investment plans according to NAFTA.

What is known, however, is that farmers are on the cutting edge of progress, Knox said.

He said innovations such as artificial insemination and genetic engineering all had its start in farming.

He said farmers must remain on the cutting edge and active to make sure goverment policy does not hinder progress in agriculture.

Knox said, however, that current policy in cutting costs may have negative effects for farmers.

A farmer asked him whether or not the Alexandria OMAF office will close as a result of amalgamation.

Knox was unable to give an optimistic response.

He couldn't guarantee whether or not the OMAF office in Alexandria will close, but did say that the government is looking to cut costs everywhere it could.

''We've got to look for ways to keep costs low,'' he said.

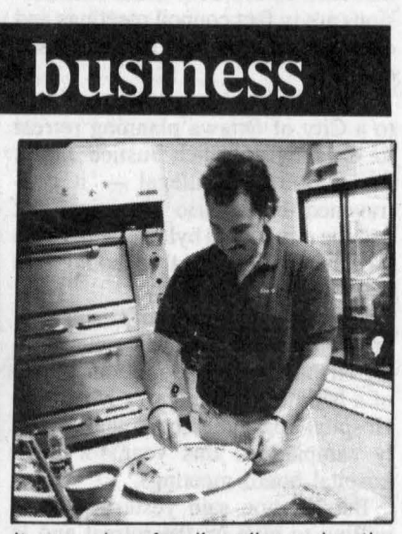
New Alexandria plaza is open for business



It was a day of smiles all round as the brand new Anik Street mall opened in Alexandria on Anik Street Friday. The 5,400 square foot commercial building was opened by the tenants, and town officials including, from left to right, Little Rikki's mascot 'Guy Gus' (Curtis Rigby), Little Rikki co-owners Rosanne Cholette and Rick Weber, Renald Theoret, plaza owner, Reeve Bruno Massie, Mayor J.P. Touchette, Anik Theoret (Renald's daughter), Jean-Marc Viau, Monique Theoret and town councillors John Hope, Francine Richer and Gary Shepherd. Above, Rikki's Pizza and Subs co-owner Rick Weber, who has been inundated with business since opening, prepares for another day's business.

Lancaster farmer recipient of top soil and crop award

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Gordon Ferguson was surprised when he was awarded the prestigious Glengarry County Award of Merit by the Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association last week.

''I was quite surprised,'' said Ferguson, who owns the more than 600-acre cash-crop Glen Gorden Farms north of Lancaster village on Highway 34.

The award is given every year to a farmer who made a solid contribution to local farming.

Last year's recipient, Glen Roy dairy farmer Bruce Sova, presented the award to Ferguson during the association's annual meeting Dec. 9 at the Curling Club in Alexandria.

Sova said Ferguson's pioneering spirit in trying new innovations had much to do with selecting him for the award.

''He's been ready to innovate in a variety of things,'' Sova said.

Ferguson bought a machine to install tile drainage in 1954, which was used to help drain many of Eastern Ontario's fertile farm lands.

He ventured innovations, such as using plastics tubing instead of clay tile.

If his tile drainage business was having a bad season, instead of laying off his workers, Ferguson kept himself and his workers employed on his farm, which he bought in 1959.

Since then, he made several improvements to the farm, such as installing a leg elevator, in-bin drying system, adequate storage facilities, and modern harvesting equipment which is also used by neighboring farmers.

He gave up his tile drainage business in the mid-1980s to concentrate on his farm, which employs several of his children.

Ferguson said today's hard economic climate is discouraging him from venturing into any more innovations.

''I hate to be pessimistic, you don't really know what to branch out into or what to change, market wise.''

He said he'll wait for the economy to improve before trying anything new once again.

RPOs—a fact of life, but they need watching

The postal customers of Martintown are getting some coal in their stocking this Christmas, courtesy of Canada Post Corporation. The giant Crown agency is expecting to have a retail postal outlet established in the village by February, to replace the existing post office there. Once again, Glengarrians are experiencing the privatization of one of the basic services countries around the world agree governments should provide.

Unfortunately, the view changed long ago inside the Conservative government and in the echelons of Canada Post. Protests have fallen on deaf ears, and indeed urbanites and even some rural municipalities have come to accept and embrace retail postal outlets. The rural voice has been ignored, and it appears as if RPOs are a fact of life that's here to stay.

That having been said, and the politicians vollies soundly heard, the people of Martintown need to direct their energies at ensuring they are entirely satisfied with the new arrangement.

That goes, too, for the store in the village that is awarded the new RPO. RPOs are a proven traffic generator for small businesses. They get people into the store. But that's about the only benefit of substance. RPO franchise operators make little profit and they have all the headaches. The politicians should now be fighting to ensure those store owners get more of the revenue they generate from stamp and parcel sales from Canada Post.

Apart from this, of course, there is the question of service. RPOs have not been any more efficient at processing mail than corporate employees, but their hours are more flexible (they're open when the store itself is open). But Martintowners should not accept any erosion in the level of service, and their political representatives should be ready to pounce and point to such declines as proof RPOs don't work.

Finally, postal customers need to know they can affect Canada Post policy as it relates to RPOs. A store owner or employee will be the only up-front face they'll have with Canada Post. Under the "old" Post Office system, irate customers could deal with the postmaster and expect action to be taken. This option is now gone, and because RPO operators are not Canada Post employees, customers need to know this will not affect the line of communication between point of sale and corporate headquarters.

These are the only conditions that will make an RPO in Martintown tolerable. Canada Post has created the system, and after ignoring the outcries from other communities where post offices have been closed, they have an obligation to deliver.

Do endorsements ever do any good ?

Endorsements — professional athletes love them, politicians seek them and businesses strive for them. In the field of municipal politics, however, they've become practically a cottage industry, but it's anybody's guess whether a single one of them ever do any good.

At each of their regular meetings, municipal councillors throughout Glengarry can expect to deal with at least one resolution from another municipality seeking their official "endorsation" of a stand taken by that municipality. The issues vary, from snowplowing subsidies to the Canadian constitution. Some municipalities spend a great deal of time discussing these topics, others pigeonhole them under File 13. Still others do something in between.

Take the Kenyon Township council meeting on Nov. 24. Councillors had to deal with two resolutions sent to them, one from North Plantagenet to prevent the province from shifting water and sewer maintenance onto the backs of municipalities and another from Osnabruck, petitioning the school boards freeze school taxes at 1992 levels.

Now obviously, these are two very imortant topics worthy of council's consideration. But do the endorsements - and the energy, time and money spent sending them out, ever do any good? Resolution endorsations have become so common between municipalities, and there are so many of them, and they have been circulating for such a long time, one can't help but feel the recipients have become jaded over time and treat them with the proverbial grain of salt. And some of the resolutions, such as the above, are so general and spiced with "motherhood" statements, they take on the profile of political speeches.

Yes, it's a free country that endorses freedom of speech. But municipalities who routinely engage themselves on the stage of larger issues by seeking the endorsements of others need to reflect on where they are, what their duties include and how to refrain from being diverted from the problems they were elected to solve.

"BIG CIGARETTE BUST"

Do we dare discuss the 'R' word?

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

I know. You're not interested in hearing anything about the "Recession" or any of the grief it's caused you or your family and friends, especially this close to Christmas. I'm on your side.

But, as we prepare to close out this fatiguing year, I am quick to mention the other "R" word economists and social commentators dare not bring up lest they be accused of naivete.

I refer to "Recovery."

That's right, the same word that has made us laugh cynically since Michael Wilson used it, and the same one many of us were convinced had long ago left our vocabulary. And when it was brought up in conversation or in news columns, it was used in hushed tones to describe, for instance, a "long and slow recovery" from the misery our jobless have found themselves trying to fight.

Yet, it was a word we couldn't help but ponder while hovering over a tray of donuts and a pot of coffee at the opening of the Anik Street plaza in Alexandria on Friday. There, and elsewhere throughout Glengarry county, some positive pulses are being detected, some signs of, gulp, recovery. Reynald (Ron) Theoret's much-needed development in the growing housing subdivision behind the LCBO is the most outward sign the spirit of entrepreneurship, investment, and smart work will be the lantern that will lead us out of this darkness.

You may have heard of the phenomenal first week for the new pizza and sub store in Ron's building. Staff couldn't keep up with the demand, and so owners Rick Weber and Rosanne Cholette hired more people to help them cope. Remember that word — hiring?

And then there's the Priest's Mill. It's re-opening has breathed life back into the downtown core of Alexandria, amidst rave reviews about its new menu. Staff's been hired there as well. Up the street, the new owners of Champions have made some interesting changes to their roadhouse that will add more flavour to the town's outstanding dining community.

I know what you're thinking. Spending during the Christmas season on food out of the house and other items always goes up, and this is more a seasonal phenomena than a sign of recovery. Perhaps, but it's still called discretionary spending any way you cut it. Christmas spending appears to be at 1990 levels, before the recession set in, one major retailer said Saturday. And a big reason for that, he feels, is that local consumers have backed off from cross border shopping thanks to a lower dollar and better awareness of its effects on the local economy.

The real estate agents and the lawyers off late are juggling more business than they can handle. Have you noticed the number of new faces in your village post office or video store?

The industrial picture is less upbeat, but Carnation's new incredibly popular "Cappuccino" coffee has not only ensured the small plant's security for the forseeable future, but it has led to some fresh hirings. Farley Windows continues to bring in weekend shifts, and Consoltex, despite the pessimism of textile analysts, is still humming along. Add to this the seemingly endless numbers of business sales in the county in the last six months — places like the Freshmart in Lancaster, the D'Antan Bakery in Alexandria, the Home Hardware in Maxville, and other, entrepreneurial-driven enterprises — and it is clear there is a spirit of optimism that hasn't been flattened by the crush of bad news we get everyday.

There is still a long way to go before any of us can say good times are here again, and to stay. But that's no reason to ignore some obvious success stories happening right here in our own backyards.

Laying plans behind closed doors

News to me
by Greg Kielec

It seems like the rule of law has still not caught up to Charlottenburgh Township.

The township council is once again planning on going on a closed-door retreat — at the taxpayers expense — where they will decide what policies to form and how to spend taxpayer dollars over the next year.

This is despite a May, 1991 court ruling about two years ago which said that such closed door think-tank sessions are in fact council meetings and cannot legally be held behind closed doors.

The ruling in May, 1991 pertained to a City of Ottawa planning retreat to Calabogie, which Justice James Farley said was illegal — it contravened the Ontario Municipal Act and the city's own bylaws — because it dealt with business that should have been discussed publicly.

What is even more surprising that one of the councillors who will be going on the session is Don Kannon, one of a handful of Glengarry Memorial Hospital board members who fiercely campaigned this year for open hospital board meetings.

But Kannon said yesterday he is willing to give up the retreat and is sure the rest of the council members would as well if township ratepayers are against the practice or if it is confirmed such meetings are illegal.

He also said he would be willing to release the usual post-retreat report by the administrator — a compilation of ideas discussed by staff and council members — to the public after the event.

In defence of the retreats, he said they are valuable because they allow staff and council members to interact in a more relaxed atmosphere without the normal pressures of the job.

"They are excellent," he said, adding the idea to have a "zero per cent" municipal tax increase — which the township did manage to accomplish — came from the last retreat.

The January retreat cost taxpayers $2,500, but Kannon argues that there also was a cost to the staff and council members — they gave of their free time, leaving behind families and businesses to attend the retreat.

But even taking that into account, along with Kannon's offer to release a report of the retreat's events — it is certainly a very large step in the right direction — there still are valid questions that need to be asked.

How much of what goes on at such a retreat is work and how much is simply play? How much weight is given to ideas and decisions from the retreat?

There certainly is nothing wrong with good planning. And Charlottenburgh is to be commended taking such an approach to the township's affairs.

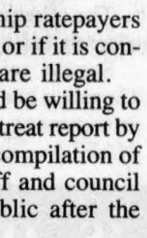
But if planning retreats are going to mean less discussion at the council table and less input from the public before decisions are made, then democracy is not being carried out.

In the end, it is up to Charlottenburgh residents to decide whether they are getting their money's worth out of these retreats and that the need for public accountability in the township's decision is not being circumvented.

If the feeling that such retreats are beneficial and indeed necessary, then all the more power to Charlottenburgh township. May its best-laid plans be bound not to go astray.

Riding a not-so-merry-go- round

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham



There are some things you just can't forget.

Sometimes, they're the blessed moments that life occasionally offers. Other times, they're the events that leave us speechless, gurgling in disbelief, blinking wildly in hopes that the scene will disappear. Whatever.

My unforgettable memory is what has come to be known as the "parking ticket story," a saga which started out with a $47 fine for parking on a street during snow removal when there was no snow, and which over a period of a year evolved into a warrant for my arrest.

I'd paid the ticket five times, but the payments consistently fell into that black hole ,which can be found in every public servant's office. Each time the city claimed I hadn't remitted payment, the fine increased, eventually reaching more than $100. Once, the city came to arrest me they discovered I'd put a stop-payment on a $75 cheque they swore they'd never received.

I survived, but I had to pull a public servant across the business desk and

Women poets in Gaelic

Highland Paths
by Ken McKenna

Recently, on TV, there was a dramatization of a talk given by the English writer Virginia Woolf at Oxford University some 60 years ago. She stated that there were very few English women writers or poets to speak of before the last century. This started me thinking of our Gaelic poets and, although the great majority were men, in keeping with the male-dominated society that existed in all areas in those days, there were a number of women poets in Gaelic Scotland for hundreds of years before 1800. Apart from anonymous love songs to men which we can assume were written by women, the modern Gaelic poet and writer, Derick Thomson, in "The Companion to Gaelic Scotland," published in 1983, lists ten women poets from as early as the 16th century. As Gaelic names can be difficult to those unfamiliar with the language I will not burden the editorial staff with them, but will supply the list to anyone who asks.

It is easy to understand the Gael's love of poetry. From pre-Christian times to the 18th century, each family or clan had its own bard, whose duty it was to extol the virtues and perpetuate the accomplishments of the chief and his followers. Edward Dwelly in his Gaelic Dictionary, says "The Celts, being passionately fond of poetry, would listen to no instruction — unless it were conveyed in rhymes. We often find a bard entrusted with the education of a prince, and (until) about 300 years ago, a Highland chief had seldom any other instructor."

Gaelic poetry was always sung or chanted. It was an oral tradition, and combining words and music made it easier to remember. Memory was the pride (and sometimes the curse) of the Gael.

Anna Gillis or MacGillis, 1759-1847, from Morar in the Clanranald country married a MacDonald of Knoydart. Before she left her native land forever to settle in the Glengarry area, she wrote "O, Siud an Taobh a Ghabhainn — That is the Road I Would Take." The English translation of her songs is from The Emigrant Experience by Sister Margaret MacDonell of Antigonish, Nova Scotia.

We'll take leave of Morar,
Arisaig, and mountainous Moidart,
Eigg, and fair, surf-swept Canna,
and beautiful, lovely Uist
That is the road I would take
that is the road I would take and wherever the road lay
I would take it for I know it well.

That is the first verse. There are several more, ending with:

We shall leave the land of the lairds;
we'll go to the land of contentment,
where there will be cattle in the folds
and around the fine pools.
We shall leave and not delay;
we'll bid you all farewell.
We'll sail over the billows.
God speed us.

After coming here she wrote "Canada Ard — Upper Canada," from which these lines are taken:

Young Father Alexander,
son of Scotus of the banners,
the holy priest, was full of kindness.

Like a saint he brought us out
so that we would be free
as were those who followed Moses out of Egypt.

We got farms of our own with proprietory rights from the King, and landlords will no more oppress us.

For the Highland Gaels, who had a mystical love of the land of their birth and the burial-places of their ancestors, leaving it all for an unknown future was hard indeed. But in Canada they found what they wanted — contentment, and their own land.

Letters to the editor

Former member keeps tabs on town council

To the editor:

After a much needed rest, which of course included some serious fishing and hunting, I'm back at my favorite pastime. Keeping informed on the activities and issues at council could become a very captivating hobby.

I have missed many meetings in the last few months, but I would like to comment on some issues that were brought to my attention. To start on a positive note, I would like to say that the new members on council are doing very well after a year's experience now, some of them are just getting warmed up.

Now a brief word on environment, which issues were always a prior to me. The town is in a real mess with the ministry, over the upgrading of our sewage and lagoon systems. For some older politicians on council this is a ghost from the past coming back to haunt them.

Wouldn't it be awful nice for the town to have a couple of million dollars in reserve to pay for that work. The irony of the matter is some of us who in the past strongly promoted savings, reserves and long term planning, are on the outside looking in.

Quit dragging your feet, or the ministry will have the work done, and charge the town with no grants available.

Now let's have just a glimpse at finances! The chairman, Reeve Massie's program of austerity turned out to be a big puff in the wind. The only saving in the first year of operation appears to be the $20 that he offered to pay himself for the sportsmen supper.

A big deal was made of $20 but without blinking an eye the committee authorized a $2,500 councillors Christmas party. When he decides to get serious about savings, I would like to give him a few hints.

How about, without any layoffs, a $300,000 saving on the operation of different committees starting with a $30,000 cut in remuneration to a person on council who has over the years built himself up a full-time salary.

Mind you this is just cutting some of the fat, we have not reached the meat yet. The reeve's dedication to harmony is certainly not contributing any relief to the burden of our high municipal taxes.

At a recent meeting, council spent a great portion of it, trying to decide how much of the taxpayers' money should be spent for a Christmas party, and also who should be invited.

By the sound of this, what used to be a well-deserved Christmas party for the employees, has turned into a political social gathering for some politicians to polish their image and gain votes at the taxpayers' expense.

I am certain that council could better spend their time at resolving important issues related to our present economic crisis.

What I cannot understand is the reasoning and thinking behind council's decision not to invite people of certain boards or organizations, who without pay, devote their time and effort to the welfare and wellbeing of our citizens.

Permit me to name a few; The Police Auxiliary, Alexandria Housing, Association for the Community Living and many more. These people who are in the business of giving and not taking, deserve much more to be invited to our employees Christmas party than the politicians from Alexandria and surrounding townships. Quit feeding the fat cats.

You will be hearing a lot in the near future, of an organization being put together to serve the interest of all residents and taxpayers of Alexandria.

In the meantime, keep on recycling.

Fern Seguin,
Alexandria

Kenyon Township congratulated for road work

To the editor:

When Tom Nugent and his group of eight took the initiative to petition Kenyon Township Council to make a serious start in upgrading the 6th of Kenyon I wished him luck. I have lived on this road for well over 20 years, and together with many ratepayers, having suffered a situation that, depending on the time of year, resembled a mudslide, desert storm or rock festival, I never believed I would see the day that plans and promises would actually materialize into splendid blacktop.

Although the work will be carried out in three stages a large part of the plan is now complete. The council, under the leadership of Reeve Wilfred Vallance, has put many doubters to shame. They deserve sincere thanks and admiration not only for the improvement of township roads but for other initiatives.

Waste collection and recycling will bring a much-needed solution to an untenable situation which is rapidly becoming global in nature.

Kenyon office staff and Mary McCuaig in particular, will sigh with relief that the never-ending complaints from the 6th will fade into history.

Kenyon is finally on the move into the 21st century!

Sincerely,
Jan Funnekotter,

Lancaster Village not supportive of martial arts centre in community

To the editor:

Rumor has it the Lancaster Kenkokan Martial Arts and Fitness Centre will probably close down.

The community bigwigs certainly have not done their part in supporting this non-profit community-oriented organization.

Where were the village councillors, reeve, Chamber of Commerce and Member of Parliament when the centre opened more than one year ago? A little encouragement verbally and financially would have helped a great deal. Whatever happened to "participaction?"

I understand that a $500 tax bill has been slapped on the club by the village office, not the type of acknowledgement expected.

Anyway Tom, your members appreciate your efforts and financial help. Thanks for trying.

Maureen Ballazzi, member.

press a cheque cashed by the city up against his nose to make him understand that I'd paid the fine.

You gotta do what you gotta do.

Kenyon Township is going through their own sort of parking ticket story, only in this case it has nothing to do with parking fines or public servants. They're dealing with consultants in the private sector in trying to obtain an Emergency Certificate of Approval from the Ministry of the Environment to continue operating one of two waste disposal sites.

And in place of my cries of disbelief, Councillor Blair Williams can be counted on in this ongoing saga for exclamations such as "outrageous" and "don't pay the bill."

To someone like me, who likes to pay things that can be pinned down, purchasing "consultation" is a frightening prospect. Consultation is so intangible.

Virtually everything that transpires after a client has hired a consultant can be construed as "consulting." Everything is eligible for billing.

Kenyon has been trying to stop the consultants from doing any more work or sending bills since August, when it was discovered that provincial grants were not forthcoming and that future grants would not be applicable to money already spent.

Council passed a resolution stating that the clerk "contact consultants . . . and request no further funds be expended pending confirmation of (financial assistance) from the ministry."

I'm not quite sure which part of "no further funds be expended" the consultants didn't understand, but work and billings seem to continue.

A resolution of council should be considered as etched in granite until rescinded, and in my opinion should override almost anything, and consultants working for municipalities should realize this.

After the resolution was passed, the township received a letter from the Ministry of the Environment that was of some concern, so apparently the clerk was instructed to send it to the consultants to find out whether something had happened that the township wasn't aware of.

Instead of straightforward answer, the consultants followed instructions in the ministry's letter and came to council with a proposal that if accepted, would have cost the township $8,000. Council balked. Consultants billed the township $3,000 — so far — for preparing the proposal the township never asked the consultants to prepare. Rumor has it another bill for presenting the proposal is imminent.

"Misunderstanding" and "crossed wires" may be too soft to describe what has happened here.

I guess the lesson is, you've got to be real careful what you say to a consultant over the telephone. Must be kind of like being careful not to scratch your nose during an auction because you'll find you've inadvertently purchased a set of Lawrence Welk tapes.

Councillor Owen Walker says the process is like an addictive drug: You just can't get off it. I say it's like a merry-go-round gone mad: You can get off but not without getting hurt.

Home damaged when van hits balcony

A balcony was damaged Friday night after being struck by a van in Alexandria.

Denis Joanette, 39, of Alexandria, was driving a 1991 Chevrolet at around 8:20 p.m. when he collided into a balcony of a Chisholm Street house after he veered to avoid a 1988 Plymouth which was backing out of a driveway.

The car's driver, Gerald Carriere, 34, of Alexandria, was charged with not yielding to traffic while exiting a private driveway.

The van sustained minor damages.

RIDE checks

The Ontario Provincial Police are asking for the public's help to prevent needless accidents and injuries over the holiday season.

The OPP, which will be conducting RIDE checks in Glengarry over the holiday season, is urging people to take the necessary steps in preventing impaired driving.

OPP Const. Gilles Ruest of the Lancaster detachment said in a Dec. 14 press release that people should help stop their friends from drinking and driving.

He said high school students, who used to be notorious for impaired driving, now account for the largest decrease in drinking and driving accidents.

The 25 to 34 age group account for the largest proportion of all impaired driving charges.

Indecent exposure

Alexandria police are investigating an alleged incident of indecent exposure.

A woman complained to police last week that a man exposed himself to her at around 2:45 p.m. Dec. 8 near the corner of Bishop and Kenyon Streets.

The woman told police that the man, in his 40s, exposed himself while he was in a parked car. A car door was open.

Residents near McCuaig's Corners told police that gunshots were heard in the area.

Police investigated the area and found nothing suspicious.

The Ministry of Natural Resources was notified.

Information needed in ATV theft

Crime Stoppers is asking for the public's help in solving a theft of a vehicle which occurred in the Greenfield area in late November.

A 1987 Honda ATV four-wheeler, 250 cc, red in color, was stolen on Nov. 24 from a residence on Lot 24, Concession 5, Kenyon Township.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Signs too classy for Lochiel Township council

Lochiel Township councillors learned Dec. 8 that "classy" house number signs would cost $18,000 more than plain signs.

United Counties council, hoping all 19 member municipalities will go for a uniform sign system, recommended the classy sign.

It features a white vinyl post with a cross bar holding the house number, and room on top of the bar, to mount a mail box or the resident's name.

Classy signs cost $32.77 each, taxes included.

Lochiel Township had been considering a more modest proposal, a tin horizontal number plate, bolted to a galvanized steel anchor post.

Plain signs cost $19 each, taxes included.

Building Administrator Dorothy Irvine pointed out the $18,000 cost spread in a letter to council Dec. 8.

Plain signs cost $24,700 for the 1,300 needed for area residents. Classy signs totalled $42,601.

"I don't know if our people want to go classy or not," Reeve Ron MacDonell told council.

"But I understand the United Counties wanted uniformity in signs and that was why we at first decided to go with the verticle tin signs like Charlottenburgh is installing."

MacDonell said United Counties council took a second look last week at a variety of signs and many members "liked the really classy ones with the white post and crossbar."

MacDonell pointed out, "it is really up to each municipal council to decide what it can afford."

Irvine said the sign project, which was assigned to her department, has taken four years to complete.

"I'd really like to get posts into the ground this spring, our residents are pushing for their signs."

Irvine urged, "the people of Lochiel have been very supportive of the new numbering system, and have been asking not what the signs will look like, but when they will be available.

"Surely our goal is to establish this badly-needed Emergency Numbering System with the least possible cost to our taxpayers."

Computers coming

Portable computers which could revoluntionize the way Ontario drivers negotiate city streets may soon become a reality under a unique Ministry of Transportation partnership initiative.

The government is seeking private sector partners to jointly develop and demonstrate the TravelGuide system in Toronto over the next year. TravelGuide, conceived by Ministry of Transportation (MTO) engineers, provides up-to-the-minute traffic and transit information for travellers via a hand-held computer.

The computer will contain a built-in modern and digital voice synthesizer that notifies a driver about road and traffic conditions.

The computer can then chart the best route to a destination avoiding traffic jams and congestion — much like a personal navigator.

Transit users will also be able to use TravelGuide to obtain the arrival time of buses at their stop.

Police Commission

Board Briefs

The following are among the items discussed at an Alexandria Police Services Board meeting held on Wednesday, Dec. 9, 1992. Police board meetings are open to the public and the next meeting is scheduled for the morning of Jan. 20.

No civilians please

Police board members learned that only people with police clearance are permitted to work the Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers hotline.

Board members were told about the restriction by Police Chief Paul Deveau after he was asked by board member Lorraine Lanthier what success he is having getting volunteers to man the line.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette recently manned the line as Alexandria's representative, and was able to do so because he is chairman of the police board.

But ordinary members of the public who do not have any connection to the police would not be able to do so, Deveau said.

Deveau has manned the line twice, the first time because he wanted to find out firsthand what it is like and the second time because the auxiliary member who had volunteered was unable to make it.

"The phone rang twice. One was a wrong number," he said.

Although the program is starting off slowly, it has paid a slight dividend so far. Deveau said a call on the hotline contributed to the solving of one break-in in Alexandria.

"It proved to be a valid tip."

Lanthier said she would be willing to do one shift. "I'll see what it looks like," she told board members.

Re-cycling

The police department will have a representative of the Fraternite service club recycle unclaimed bicycles recovered by police, to be donated to needy children.

Police Chief Paul Deveau told board members Gerard Roy of Fraternite has offered to fix up the bicycles — some of them which are in disrepair — for children.

Board member Lorraine Lanthier, who asked how the project was progressing, suggested maybe the police board could look after the operation to save work for Deveau.

Deveau said he will have to do the same amount of paperwork detailing what has been done with the bicycles whether he turns them over to Roy or over to the police commission.

"I thought of doing something positive," Lanthier replied, explaining why she made the offer.

CPIC audit

An audit recently done on the force's police information system CPIC has given passing grades to Alexandria police.

The audit, conducted Nov. 18 and 19, was done to evaluate the status of Alexandria police's entries, which range from information on vehicles to information on persons wanted for offences.

Police Chief Paul Deveau said there are some things that the force should change on the system, but overall, everything is okay.

Mission accomplished

Police have followed through on another of the recommendations made in a police inspectors report highlighting unfavorable conditions in the police building found during an inspection in May.

Police Chief Paul Deveau reported that another of the report's recommendations, that bars be placed in one cell window, has recently been carried out.

The bars were found downstairs in the police building and seem to have been designed for the window targeted in the inspectors' report, he told police board members.

One other recommendation, that toilets be placed in police cells, has not yet been carried out.

Deveau has recommended instead, that the wall between them be removed to make one large holding cell and just one toilet installed.

Interviewing 101

The police force will soon be getting its own special interviewing room to interrogate suspects.

The police board has okayed a proposal to construct an interview room in an unused area near the holding cells in the police station.

The police board will pay for the materials and Deveau said he and his men will even construct the room, which police "desperately need," voluntarily and during a weekend if necessary.

"Maybe for four or five hundred dollars we can have the whole thing done," said board member Paul Poirier.

Board Chairman Jean Paul Touchette suggested if there continues to be little snowfall, the town's work staff may have time to construct the room.

The police station does not have an interview room, meaning suspects must be interviewed in Deveau's office, which inconveniences the police chief and also is not the best place to do interviews.

Deveau said there are too many distractions for interviewees in his office to conduct an interview properly. Interview rooms generally should be sparse, with just a table, chairs and phone, he said.

Invisible patrols

Board member Lorraine Lanthier said she still is not seeing police officers out on foot patrol, despite the fact the police force has been told to increase foot patrols.

Lanthier said she drives through town often but never sees foot patrols being carried out. But she added, she is not checking up on the police either.

Deveau said foot patrols have accounted for 15 to 16 per cent of officers' shifts over the past two months, and the patrols are carried out by all officers on active duty.

Replying to Lanthier's comment that she doesn't see the officers on patrol, he said officers spent 138 hours in criminal investigations in October and asked her how often she has seen officers on criminal investigations.

Equal opportunity

The police board will be forming a committee to look at possible police force barriers to the hiring of minorities.

The board and police will be seeking out different representatives over the next while. The seven-member committee must have at least one woman, one visible minority and one disabled peron, plus police and board representatives.

The committee will be disbanded after it make its report and formulates policy for equal opportunity hiring, Police Chief Paul Deveau said.

Board member Paul Poirier had hoped that a smaller, more efficient committee could be used, but Deveau said the make-up requiring at least seven members and minority representation is required by law.

Chairman Jean Paul Touchette said more members usually mean longer meetings.

Deveau, asked by Poirier, anticipated at least a half dozen meetings will be needed by the committee to complete its work.

"I think the answer to the question how many (is) as many as necessary," said Touchette.

Kenyon forms committee

The success of the property standards bylaw committee has led Kenyon Township to once again seek out residents to form an advisory committee.

The township is looking for four or five residents to form a new committee to hear appeals and concerns about the new waste reduction and recycling program.

Council hopes to draw out applicants with advertisements scheduled to begin this week, and it is hoped the advisory committee will be in operation by Jan. 1.

The decision to advertise was made at the Nov. 10 council meeting, but Councillor Blair Williams said the idea is not a new one.

The suggestion was raised during the emotional public meeting intended to introduce the program to ratepayers in September.

Williams said it's important to establish the committee as soon as possible because the program, launched Nov. 3, is in the formative stage; serious problems should be cleared up immediately.

The advisory committee would hear concerns, answer questions, and help to solve special problems.

Consultation may be sought by large families who find it impossible to stay within the limit of 104 bags of garbage per year, or by elderly people who cannot get their garbage to the end of the driveway on garbage collection days.

Local businessman wins against big guns

"You don't have to be big to provide quality," says James Joyce, of Tamarack Creek Corporate Communications Inc. No kidding. Joyce works out of a renovated barn on his 100 acre farm near the tiny hamlet of Dunvegan.

Joyce, president of the Maxville Chamber of Commerce, was honored at the Canadian Direct Marketing Association's annual RSVP Awards held in Toronto Nov. 20. Competing against a record number of industry heavyweights from Toronto, Vancouver, Ottawa and Montreal, Tamarack Creek Communications of Dunvegan garnered a pair of business-to-business awards for two Maritime Tel & Tel, Nova Scotia campaigns.

The Silver award was presented for Tamarack Creek's 'natural selection' theme campaign highlighting MT&T's Business Long Distance service enhancements.

The 'pencil' campaign underlined MT&T's goal of "Helping Business Compete."

Glad the storm missed

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

I can't believe that this column is turning into nothing much more than a weekly comment on the weather! Really, readers, you ought to complain about it (the weather, that is!)

But how can it be helped? The fact is that the weather has been acting so silly this year that everyone is talking about it, and what everyone is talking about must find its way into this column, mustn't it?

So the fact that Glengarry remained an oasis of green when all around was buried in a gigantic snowstorm is rather important news. I'm not sure of the boundary lines between the gots and the gots/not, but it seems as though communities on three sides of Glengarry were snowed upon. And though the wind huffed and puffed and more, the walls of our strong county could not be blown down.

Although grateful that the storm did not interfere with our holiday events, there is the slightest wish among our residents that we could have received just a "dusting" of snow to whiten us up before Christmas.

Of course, in the words of that immoral stone which gathers no moss, "You can't always get what you want."

You are forewarned. Copies of The Glengarry News will be appearing in your mailboxes at unusual times during the next few weeks. In order that a Williamstown column appears in each, you are asked to give me your news for next week's paper by this Thursday (Dec. 17) and by next Monday (Dec. 21) for the edition coming out Dec. 29.

Also, in order to ensure enough news for each column, reports of your holiday events may be spread out over the three papers. So if you are not mentioned in this issue, don't cancel your subscription!

The Glengarry Community Club's Christmas dinner and birthday party was held Dec. 9 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

Following a delicious meal, the group was entertained, as has become the custom, by students from Williamstown Public School who sang Christmas music and performed selections from "A Christmas Carol," which the school presents tonight (Tuesday) at 7 p.m.

After performing, the students were treated to a spread of homemade goodies almost better than they could imagine.

Ethel Clark brought the birthday cake in honor of four club members who celebrated in December — Dorothy Croll, Joyce Lalonde, Florida Legroulx and Edna Edmunds.

Dorothy Croll, Leopold Lauzon and Rena Major were winners of the draw for candy donated by Alda Major, and a bonbon dish, donated by Reta Heath.

Reta, who is president of the club, thanked all for attending and wished everyone the best for the new year.

Best wishes go out to Ethel and Ivan Clark who celebrated their 48th wedding anniversary on Dec. 9.

'Tis the season to be jolly, but not all animals in the Williamstown area would agree.

Peter Panther, a glossy black male cat of Herculean proportions, who appears to be homeless, has been camping out in our garage for the last few weeks, driving our housecats mad. If he belongs to you, please call. His mint green eyes have been looking mighty sad these days!

Also among the homeless is a young, white-faced, white-pawed, grey furred miss, last seen sheltering near the Cattanachs.

The Friendly Neighbors birthday party took place Dec. 10 at St. Mary's Centre, honoring Florida Legroulx and Germaine White. Beatrice Labelle made the birthday cake for the occasion.

Card winners included Beatrice MacDonald, Gilberte Marsh, Austin Abrams and Roger Pilon.

Door prizes went to Gilberte Marsh and Germaine White, while 50/50 winners were Cecile Leblanc, Alda Major and Alice Portant (twice each), Isobel Larocque, Ann MacDonald, Beatrice Labelle, and Catherine Welcher.

The club's Christmas Dinner will be held this Thursday at noon at the centre.

Our young people off in the big cities have started to trickle home for the holidays and how nice it is to see them! Carrie McDonell is home from Thunder Bay, Dominic Stones from Sackville, N.B., and Johanna Harrington from London.

Next week will see many more arrivals and listen: I'll make you a deal. If you tell me who is visiting at your house, I'll tell you who's visiting at everyone else's!

The Picnic Grove WI had a relaxing Christmas meeting at the home of Wendy Rozon last week. Rather than having to prepare refreshments, the ladies were treated by the girls in 4-H, under the leadership of Ursula Flipsen.

Picnic Grove 4-H is currently doing a project on holiday entertaining and the girls produced baking, vegetables and dip, etc. as well as gifts of pot-pourri balls or fabric wreaths which they gave to each lady present.

There were 27 members of the institute who answered the roll call with donations to the Snowsuit fund.

Winners at Williamstown Public School in the recent Royal Canadian Legion Remembrance Day contest include Lancaster Branch winners: Jennifer MacNaughton, Willie Larkin, Courtney Jones and Kirstie McLean, who all received $20 prizes for their efforts.

Class winners of $5 each were Jessica Hedley, Barry Warden, Allison McLean, Laura MacKenzie, Emily Hawksby, Kim Maclachlan, Grace Rawnsley and Scott Kinloch.

Congratulations to you all!

Caeleigh Anne, daughter of Shelley and David Gilliland of Victoria, B.C., was baptized on Dec. 3 in St. Mary's Church by Rev. Thomas Villeneuve.

Alana Bissonnette is the baby's godmother, with her husband Marc Bissonnette, standing as proxy godfather for John Bolack of Victoria.

Following the christening, a photo was taken of the four generations of females: baby Caeligh, her mother Shelley Gilliland, grandmother Marjorie Quenneville and great-grandmother, Bessie Joubert. Even the prop in the photo spanned several generations - a rocking chair which had belonged to the baby's great-great-great grandmother Joubert.

It was a great day for the family and I'm told everyone cried, except the baby!

For those of you with time on your hands these days (ha!), a non-Christmas event is occurring which you might want to attend. Beginning today (Tuesday) the preliminary hearing for the township's application for a certificate to operate the North Landfill site for a further five years takes place at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre (upstairs). Might be worth a listen.

Have a Fire Safe Holiday

Your local fire department wants to make sure that every festive occasion is fire safe. The following are some of the main steps you can take to reduce the chance of tragedy.

1. Have your chimney professionally cleaned and inspected at least once a year and always use a proper fitting fireplace screen. Never burn Christmas wrappings. Always put ashes in a metal container.

2. Looking for a novel and useful gift? How about fire extinguishers or smoke detectors? What better way to show you care than to give a gift that may save a life. For suggestions or advice, call your local fire department.

3. How about a New Year's resolution that will benefit you and your family. Your fire department suggest learning fire prevention and safety. Plan ahead to avoid fires, install and maintain smoke alarms in your home. Develop and practice an escape plan. Arrange a meeting place outside the home. Never re-enter a burning building. Call the fire department from a neighbor's phone. Hold a practice drill today.

4. Keep a lid on cooking fires. If grease catches fire, first place a lid over the pan then turn off the burner. Do not throw water or anything else on a grease fire. Never try to carry a burning pan — you may burn yourself or spread the fire. Always keep pot handles turned in so they cannot be accidently knocked off the stove. Keep young children out of the way and never leave the cooking area unattended.

5. Buy a fresh cut tree and keep it away from all sources of heat. Don't place your tree in an exit way. Discard any frayed or damaged lights or cords. Once a large amount of needles begin to fall off, it's time to get rid of the tree.

These are tips from the local Township of Charlottenburgh Fire Department and the Martintown Station Fire Chief is Van Rankin at 528-4352. They wish you a safe and happy holiday season.

St. Andrew's United Church

A general meeting of the UCW (when afternoon and evening units get together) was held at the community centre on Monday, Dec. 6 as a pot luck supper with 26 in attendance. The gorgeous dishes were almost too beautiful to eat, but we did anyway.

Everyone brought along a toy for Sparky's Toy Drive and/or food for Agape and placed them under the Chrstmas Tree (instead of exchanging gifts with each other).

Jean Butler, president, welcomed everyone and Onagh Ross led in a worship with readings that related to us, the reasons we celebrate this season, commemorating the birth of Jesus.

After the hymn, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Onagh read some humorous writings by Bernadette Snyder of which one was "Santa's mixed bag." Onagh also brought to our attention, from presbytery, the plight of "The House of Lazarus" in Dundela.

Lynne Edwards who took over from Rev. Allen Tysick when he married and moved to Victoria, ended up losing everything when the church they were housed in burnt to the ground a week after she took over, Sept. 1/92.

She has continued to operate first out of her stationwagon and now temporarily out of the community centre across the street. She needs everything from clothes, shoes, boots, books, and toys, and always

Community Futures to raise awareness

Community Futures, a federally-funded job creation program, does much good, but many people still don't know a great deal about the program, according to its executive director.

Susan Carter, executive director for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Community Futures Committee, said in a recent presentation to Alexandria council she is trying to raise people's awareness of the program.

As people become more aware of the program, the number of people receiving help from it will increase.

She said the program has resulted in the investment of $2 million in the three counties by the SDG Business Development Centre, a non-profit community- based organization, and over its first five years resulted in the creation of 600 jobs. Funding for Futures and the centre comes from the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission.

There have been more than 60 grants under the self employment initiative and two community initiative grants, one for the Cooper Marsh visitor centre near South Lancaster and one for a project in Cornwall.

Alexandria Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said Futures has helped businesses start up in Alexandria and provided funding for some GTL employees when the Alexandria-based company went bankrupt.

Carter is addressing councils, labor and business representatives across the counties over the next three months to help Community Futures draw up a strategic plan for the program for the next five years.

The plan will be based on community consultation and will complement the existing economic development strategic plans adopted by Cornwall city council and Counties Council.

Anyone who would like to make a written submission to the committee can write to Susan Carter.

looking for fruit, vegetables and milk.

She is also appealing for monies (with the backing of the United Church) to build a new facility to accommodate literacy courses, cooking classes and programs for seniors, youth and new mothers, once permanent quarters are established.

She also plans to plant a garden to teach people to grow their own food. She quotes "You can feed a man a fish a day or you can teach him how to fish."

A short meeting that allowed members to set up who would take care of whom of the sick and shut-ins, or just loved ones, they would like to remember, by taking them a little something, that each would enjoy most; whether it be a flower, home baking or sweets.

The meeting closed and the guest craft person Ginny Blair graciously and capably taught us how to create a Christmas centrepiece.

Before the evening came to a close, Jean thanked Ginny and members for helping to make such a fun and creative evening. They were then ready to run home to show their families what they made.

Pearl Murray has extended an invitation to have the annual general meeting at her home in January and it will probably be on the second Monday.

The Sunday School students capably presented their Christmas pageant (they were so precious) this past Sunday under the keen help of Angie Bold, Marie Higginson, Helen Thomson and Janice Paquette. Penny Stokes led everyone in singing of Christmas Carols, throughout the service, with her acocmpaniment on the piano.

After fellowship and refreshments, a jolly fellow in a red suit arrived with a Ho Ho Ho and was greeted excitedly by his many fans. Santa also had presents for the Sunday School teachers.

I will be bringing in our overflowing boxes this week but more boxes will still be left at the back of the church for anyone wanting to bring in more thinks for Agape, Sparky's Toy Fund or the House of Lazarus. (As a few were heard to say they had forgotten.)

Next week Sunday, Dec. 20 Mac Robertson will be with members for the 11 a.m. service, and that evening will be the joint candlelight service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. followed by a social hour.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Members had been told to bring two things to the Dec. 13 service: a friend and an open mind. The reward was a full house and a refreshingly different program. Using mostly mime, three animated young women, part of the Clown Ministry Troupe, led by Elizabeth Graham of Montreal, had no difficulty in getting across the Bible message: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me."

Up and down the aisles they flew, engaging the participation of the congregation. For example: two members were stood up as poles of a clothesline, another as a cash register.

In the end, a sparkling wash was hung up to dry — the stains of hatred, perfectionism, lying, gossiping, stealing, greed, fear, etc., all washed away by the Savior Suds and Prayer Rinse, and the crowning part of the message was found on the reverse of the Cash Register sign: No charge.

The Advent Candle was lit by the Johnston family but the rest of the service was led by the Troupe. From time to time they burst into song. For one particularly lively number, the Butterfly Son, they asked the choir to participate.

Their appeal was for all ages, their joy infectious, and the congregation showed their wholehearted appreciation. Happy smiles were on the faces of all, as they left the sanctuary.

Martintown and District Horticulture Society

The Christmas judging (overall view) of Christmas decorations and lights for first, second and third prizes and also the best decorated door for first, second and third prizes will be done Christmas week. If the weather is good on Monday, Dec. 21 then that is when it will be done, if the weather is bad then it will be done on the Tuesday, etc. If you are a horticulture member and would like to be in the contest, please let Nancy Colbran know by calling 528-4503.

Martintown Good-Timers

That community centre sure was a hustling place this week. Wednesday, Dec. 9 at noon the seniors room was filled with the good smells of the pot luck dinner with at least 45 in attendance. With soft Christmas music in the background the room was filled with conversation on all sides.

It's such a good chance to get to know the members and neighbors over a nice meal. Five tables were able to stay and play some bridge. Exercise class after all these extra good meals. (After trying a little of this and a little of that, they all add up to a lot.)

Reminder, euchre this month is Thursday, Dec. 17 only.

Students raise $1,600 for basket drive

ESRG News
by José Trottier

Finally the Christmas holidays have arrived. These two weeks off will be very much appreciated as the last two have been filled with homework, tests and activities.

The Alexandria Lions Club would like to thank us, the students and teachers of ESRG/GDHS, for our generous contribution of $1,637 to their Christmas baskets.

Also, last week Franco-Soleil began a clothes and toy drive for the less fortunate in our region. Snowsuits and children's toys are what they are after but any item is accepted as long as it is clean and in good condition. All of the items collected will be donated to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Thanks to all who have given so generously to the needy.

Last Friday's annual Christmas dance, with Sound Limited, was a great success. EOCIV (Etudiants Ontariens contre l'ivresse au volant) members made this evening more fun by having a "dry bar" to promote designated drivers and to discourage drinking and driving during this holiday season.

More than 80 students from Grade 9 and 10 took part in the annual Jump Rope for Heart/Sautons en coeur on Monday afternoon in the school gym. The purpose of this activity is to raise money for the Ontario Heart Foundation. Congratulations to all those students who had the initiative (and the heart) to take part.

For the last two weeks the members of FOCUS, the yearbook committee, have been running a candy cane sale. For 50 cents students could buy a candy cane attached to a card and send a personal message to someone special in the school through the home form. The money raised from this venture will be used to improve that wonderful book of mémories, the school yearbook.

Last Tuesday the Senior Band received its shipment of citrus fruit from Florida. Over 1,200 cases were sold throughout the region. Whew! The band members would like to thank all their supporters.

And speaking of the band, tonight they will be performing their annual Christmas concert in the school cafetorium. The public will have a chance to hear the Grade 9 Band, some small ensembles, the Jazz Band, and, of course, the Senior Band. The concert starts at 8 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Tomorrow afternoon, more than 20 OAC students, including me, will be travelling from class to class throughout the school singing Christmas carols and collecting money for the poor.

In closing, a couple of reminders: As we enter the Yuletide season it would be very christian-like to visit the sick and shut-ins who I am sure get lonely more often than we think. Also for those of us who will have the return of college and university students, let's make these special days happy and loving.

Have a nice holiday season.

On Tuesday, Dec. 8 the ladies of UCFO had their monthly meeting at the school with Luce Cholette presiding.

The evening started with a prayer followed by a pot luck supper which proved to be very delicious. The business part of the meeting was relatively short as everyone was anxious to get into the games and songs part of the evening. All the ladies received a surprise gift (candles) from Florence Legros who makes candles out of beeswax. The craft prize was won by Bernadette Campeau and given by Lucille Glaude. In closing the ladies gathered around the piano for Christmas carols accompanied by Suzanne Loupret, Gloria Poirier and Aline Charlebois who took turns playing.

On Saturday, Dec. 12 the North Lancaster judo team led by Gilles Glaude were at a competition in Ingleside. They did very well as four medals were taken home by five competitors.

Danielle Campeau earned a gold medal, Sébastien Lambert got silver, Luc Schulz also got silver, Steven Glaude got the bronze. Axel Schulz came in fourth place. Congratulations to you all and good luck in your future competitions.

Santa Claus will be visiting Iona students (JK-3) on Thursday, Dec. 17 in the morning. Thanks to the Lancaster Optimist Club.

Recently, four students travelled to Renfrew to participate in the Atom Division Silver Stick Tournament. These students along with the rest of their team became the first team from Glengarry to win this tournament. Congratulations to Patrick Smith, Derek Wagar, Eric Bishop and Jean-Normand Giroux and the rest of the team from Char-Lan.

This past month we saw many students participating in many volleyball tournaments. The boys team was the most successful winning the Iona tournament. The girls won the consolation title.

The Brown House Circle held its Christmas party in the Parish Hall of St. Raphael's on Dec. 2. A tasty pot luck supper prepared by members was served. The party was a gay and happy occasion attended by 70 members and guests.

Music was provided by Ted Sonne and Rene Roy and light entertainment by Rodolphe Levert (mouth organ) and Mae Levert (light stories). Elizabeth Peters presented a game of Anagrame which everyone enjoyed.

Some members of the Circle gave a brief demonstration of line dancing under the leadership of their teacher Giselle Lemay. A raffle of a painting, generously donated by Ted Sonne, was won by Inez O'Connor. Everyone had a good time.

The evening came to a close with a gift exchange, singing of Christmas carols and a message from new president Ambrose (Bud) MacDonell.

St. Raphael's Christmas draw was very successful. Winners of the beef prizes were: John Miller of Lancaster, Joanne and Chris Fraser of Perth, and Ron and Sue Lajoie of Green Valley. The draw was held Friday night during the turkey bingo which was also a success. The weatherman co-operated and the bingo was the best ever.

Holstein heifer nominated for award

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Our show tour by bus to Niagara Falls, N.Y. last Friday wasn't expected to be newsworthy but since Lorna and I travelled through the snowstorm that was labelled the storm of the century up there, the trip must be reported.

The ground in Cornwall was bare when we left about 8 a.m. but after we got underway, it started to snow around Ingleside. The intensity increased and when we stopped at a service centre near Napanee conditions were chaotic. I was talking to one motorist who had been there since the night before. He couldn't take the stress of the storm.

Truck drivers reported to our bus driver that 401 was closed up ahead and the first decision was to turn around and cross over to the states, our originally planned route. A bit later, the report was that we should be able to get through the mess up ahead.

The driver kept in touch with truck drivers travelling east and finally near Trenton the decision had to be made to use Highway 2. It was quite a sight to see Toronto digging out from the storm. Along this highway, trees were heavily laden with snow with many, many branches broken off. Traffic was very slow but not heavy.

At Port Hope, it was getting late for lunch so we headed to 401, to a restaurant there — Swiss Chalet and Harvey's. The former was in darkness and the latter dimly lit because the power was off. Harvey's had gas stoves and a single flashlight illumined each washroom. We ate chicken soup and sandwiches moved over from the chicken side of the complex.

The parking lot was packed and the motel next door was full with truck drivers waiting out the storm. There was one sitting near us from Alexandria having lunch.

We continued westward on #2 until near Bowmanville where we met clear driving from there to our destination. Pearson airport reported 50 cm of snow but 401 was bare and traffic was moving well.

We reached Niagara Falls two and a half hours late but after our hasty meal we made the Perry Como Show on time. Fans of this singer will be pleased to know he is well and staged an excellent performance at age 80.

For an hour he sang his medleys in his same, old way and took time out to answer some questions. There were about 6,000 in the audience.

Another reason for the trip was to enjoy the Festival of Lights in the city. The soft snow certainly added to the spectacle and in the evening the streets were packed with pedestrians enjoying the spectacle.

The biggest surprise on the return trip was to see no snow in Cornwall or Maxville. I had expected that I would be digging the car out of snow in the parking lot.

Hats off go to the many residents of Cornwall who have decorated their homes so well for this season. If possible, residents here should take time to drive to Cornwall to enjoy the lights on the way in and throughout the city. The Manor residents are doing it this week.

Many village residents have done their bit to brighten up their properties but questions are being asked about our own Main St. and Christmas tree. Possibly by the time this comes to print, our business section will be more attractive.

Amy MacEwen, daughter of Maureen and Robert, has many reasons to be proud of her 15-month-old Holstein heifer. The animal has been nominated for an All-American award, received first prize at the New York show in Harrisburg, was fifth at the Royal Dairy Exposition at Madison, Wisconsin, and took the top prize at the Eastern Ontario Championship show at Kemptville. The heifer was shown at the Royal in Toronto but was placed down because of a temporary sickness.

We congratulate Amy for achieving these honors after developing her calf to its near state of perfection and wish her the very best in the months and years ahead. We know we will have more complimentary reports.

The good weather the last few days has been very good for a new building project on Main St. Jean and Luc Laviolette are having a second storey added to their newly acquired hardware store. The addition will contain a show room at the front and an apartment at the back for Luc and his family.

Another home has changed hands. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Phillips have purchased the Anne Guindon home on Mechanic Street West and have already moved in from their community hall apartment. We wish them well in their acquisition and decision to have permanent roots here.

Terry and Gerry Leduc have joined a newly organized Rock Garden Club in Ottawa and will be pleased to tell others who might be interested in this specialized type of gardening.

The colder weather has brought more birds in to the feeders. There are several juncos feeding under ours now and a tree sparrow appeared on Monday. It is identified by its rusty cap and "stick pin" on its breast. It also scratches on the ground to uncover food.

Sometimes the starlings number up to 20 and the mourning doves around 10. It is good to have all the activity and to have so many readers interested in hearing about it.

Two weeks ago, I mentioned in this column an article in the Buckingham Post. Bob Campbell from Ottawa has written to me as follows: "In your last write-up (Dec. 2) you made reference to a copy of the Buckingham Post which contains an article about the early settlers in Locaber. I believe a relative of ours (Alex Campbell, born circa 1800) settled there and married a French lady whose great great granddaughter I met at the August '92 World Scottish Festival.

If you would be kind enough to send me a clipping of the article, I will make a photocopy and return it to you."

The clipping has gone to Bob and he can keep it for his records as no other reader has indicated an interest in it and Barbara Lariviere did not ask to have her paper returned.

The Girl Guides, Brownies and Scouts are planning on going carolling on Dec. 17 from 7 to 8 p.m. It would be appreciated if residents of the village would acknowledge the young people outside by going to their doors or windows when they hear them outside.

As many streets as possible will be covered. Transportation will be by a tractor and wagon supplied by John Morrow and Steve Hoar will be the operator of the tractor.

Here are some reasons why we shop locally:

It's not worth it to shop across the border. By the time you get your dollar changed to 70¢, pay $4.50 bridge toll, gas, taxes and duty, you've spent more for each article than it would have cost you here.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

Alexandria's Randy Gebbie (18) moves in to check former teammate Dan Desjardins during last Saturday's Junior B game between the Glens and the Rebels. Char-Lan won the game 8-5.

Maxam-um Overdrive

Rookie pots four in drowsy entry to Battle of Glengarry

There have been better games played between Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League rivals Alexandria and Char-Lan in the past, but it's doubtful whether any of the previous encounters between the Glens and the Rebels were any longer than last Saturday's installment in the Battle of Glengarry.

Part of the problems was penalties — 48 calls for 153 minutes to both teams.

The other problem was the fact that there was more talk than a week's worth of Geraldo, Oprah and Donohue combined.

Referee David Leger tossed out misconducts like they were candy canes and both teams were climbing the walls of the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre by the end of night.

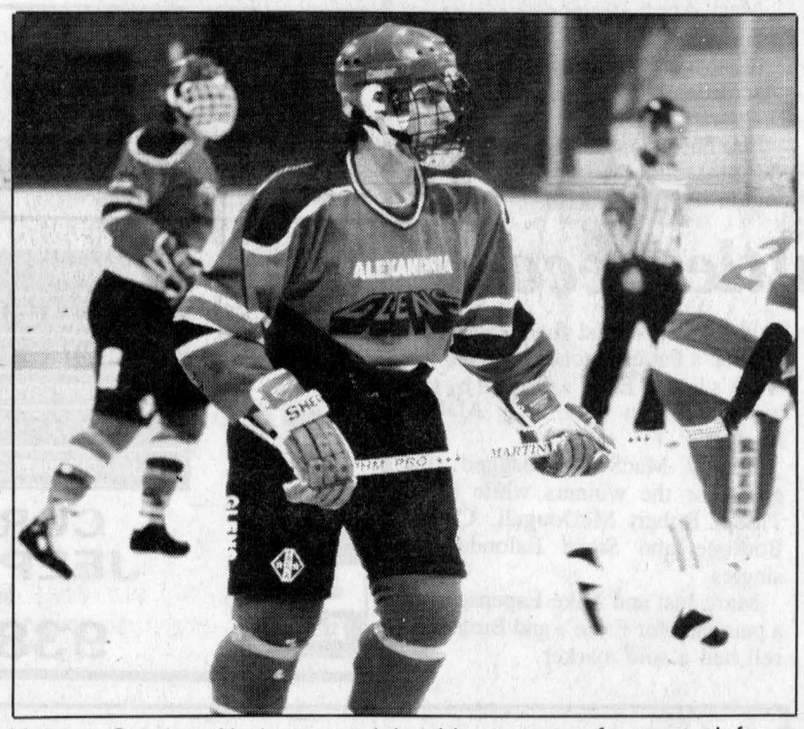
When all was said and done, what should have been a nice, two-hour hockey game turned into a three-hour yawner.

Those fans who stuck things out until the end saw Char-Lan defeat Alexandria 8-5, the Rebels' fourth straight win over the Glens this season.

Serge Bellefeuille had given Alexandria a 1-0 lead in the first period, but four straight goals by Char-Lan right-winger Cory Maxam — two late in the first and two more earlier in the second — gave the Rebels the lead for good.

Alexandria scored three times late in the middle frame to cut Char-Lan's lead to 6-4 but the Glens never got any closer — partly because Alexandria got into penalty problems in the third.

John Edgerton scored twice for the Rebels while Ian Laplante and Greg Wylie rounded out the scoring. Denis St.Jean had five assists.



Veteran Stephan Nadeau was joined by two new faces on defence this weekend.

Norm Decoste, Patrick Sauve, Patrick Campeau and Ray Jock, in his first game with Alexandria, also scored for the Glens.

''At least we're cutting down the goals against against them,'' said Glens coach Robert Boisvenue after Saturday's loss. Alexandria has been victimized by several football-type scores against the Rebels this season.

Boisvenue says he's still more preoccupied with Alexandria's off-ice problems than with the club's on-ice results.

''There's still too much arguing going on between the players. There just isn't any respect for one another,'' he said. ''They're going to have to learn that if anyone is going to say anything it's going to be the coach.''

Player shuffle continues

Has anyone looked into that revolving door for the Glens' dressing room?

The comings and goings from the Alexandria roster continued on the weekend as three players — Jock and defencemen John Crailler and Rolla Parker — played their first games with Alexandria and it was announced that two others — Jeff MacLean and Stephane Pilon — had played their last.

Jock, a native of Cornwall Island, started the year in Char-Lan last season and played on the Rebels' top line until leaving the team to play high school hockey in the U.S.

Jock was immediately inserted onto a line with Serge Bellefeuille and Norm Decoste and picked up a goal and an assist in his debut.

Crailler and Parker are 19-year-old Americans attending school in Plattsburgh and both should help a beleaguered Alexandria defensive corps, which was also bolstered by the healthy return of Pat Carriere on Saturday.

On the minus side, the Glens lose MacLean, one of the Glens' assistant captains and better forwards when Alexandria got off to a 5-5 start.

MacLean seemed to lose interest in recent weeks and asked for his release two weeks ago. He is now free to rejoin the Jr. C North Stormont Express, where he played last year.

Pilon, meanwhile, made very little impact before going down with an elbow injury and never did return to the Alexandria lineup.

Glenformation: Friday's game against the 73's was postponed because heavy snow in the Kemptville area prevented Lindsay Selleck's club from making the trip to Alexandria...Captain Serge Bellefeuille has had a slew of players serving as his assistants because of the constant roster shuffling. Randy Gebbie, who takes over for Jeff MacLean, is the latest to wear an ''A''...Alexandria is in Winchester on Friday and plays host to Morrisburg on Sunday.

Lowly Pats tie Apple Hill

The Mr.Subs Patriotes, who were 0-9 prior to Sunday's game with the Apple Hill Flyers, picked up their first point of the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League season by holding the Flyers to a scoreless tie.

Mr.Subs, who had allowed more than seven goals per game on average so far this season, may have caught the Flyers napping in the contest, which had a 10 a.m. start.

George Theoret was in goal for the Flyers' shutout.

The Dalhousie Bombers moved into first place by edging Courtaulds by a score of 2-1.

Brian Cameron and Pasquale Mongillo scored for the Bombers, who are now two points ahead of Rudi Payer Sport, who defaulted their game to Filion Jewellers.

Brian Mosher scored his team's only goal as Frenchie's lost 6-1 to Filion Trophies in the other men's division game involving a team from Glengarry on Sunday.

Other games had the Roadrunners steamrolling La Maison 12-1 and Moviola Cafe dumping the Town Hall Rovers 9-4.

Hearts shortcircuit Chargers

Bonnie MacLeod scored her 10th goal of the season to account for the game's only offence as the MiniMax Hearts blanked the Bergeron Electric Chargers in women's division action.

The Hearts are still three points behind Kirk Hill in the standings as their county rivals notched their seventh win in a row on Sunday by beating Jovana's 3-0.

Nancy MacLachlan had two goals for Kirk Hill and Lisa Poirier had a single, her 14th of the campaign.

The Chumps Spitfires and the Raiderettes tied 3-3 in the other women's division contest.

Glengarry finds form in weekend hoops tournament

Glengarry senior boys basketball coach John Danaher says in hindsight, he wishes he would have scheduled the Glengarry Invitational Basketball Tournament a week earlier.

After a capital-U ugly season-opening loss to Char-Lan the day before, the Gaels shook off the rust to sweep three games on Saturday and keep the tournament trophy in Alexandria.

Despite a scary habit of letting large early leads evaporate into tight- collar finishes, the Gaels were impressive in defeating Rothwell-Osnabruck 56- 44, Tagwi 46-44 and Char-Lan 39-34.

Skyscraping centre Matt Williams best personified the Gaels' improvement from the previous day, improving to the point where he simply dominated the final game of the day against Char-Lan.

Williams hit double figures in scoring in all three games, including 19 against the Crusaders.

His 43 tournament points was tops on the team and third best overall.

Scott McPherson had a pair of 10-point games and scored 24 for the tourney.

Crusaders struggle without T.O.

Char-Lan showed up in Alexandria without Terry O'Farrell, who had scored a game-high 11 points in the Crusaders' win over Glengarry the day before, and ended up losing two of three games.

The Crusaders only win came by a score of 52-45 over R-O while Char-Lan fell to Glengarry and 61-55 (in overtime) to Tagwi.

Trevor Agnew (39 points) and Innes Fraser (27) were the top guns offensively for Tom Santowski's team.

The Tagwi Warriors, meanwhile, won two of three thanks in large part to the play of Rod MacKillican and Jamie Norman.

MacKillican was officially credited with 56 points and Norman with 40, but probably got much more than that in reality.

Because the Warriors were wearing jerseys with no numbers in the back, many points went unattributed.

For example, three-point bomber Norman probably had closer to 20 points against Char-Lan than the 12 he was actually credited with.

MacKillican turned in the best one-game point total of the tournament, pouring in 25 points in Tagwi's 77-55 triumph over the R-O Lancers.

Lions KO Rebels from Boxing Day race

The Char-Lan Rebels could have earned a berth in the annual Junior B Boxing Day tournament with a win over the Morrisburg Lions on Sunday, but the Rebs fell behind 5-0 and never fully recovered in an 8-5 loss at the Morrisburg Arena.

Four of Morrisburg's first six goals came on the power play, including two by giant Rob Casselman.

Captain Yvon Besner scored three times for the Lions; Mark Donnelly, Steve Serviss and Rob Domanko had singles.

John Edgerton had two more goals for Char-Lan with singles being added by Marc Bellemare, Denis St.Jean and Craig Gabri.

The game was very similar to Char-Lan win's over Alexandria the night before - not only because the final score was the same but because every time the team trying to come back would close the gap, the frontrunners would score to increase their lead.

The game also showed the danger of getting in a battle of power plays with Morrisburg, who not only scored four goals with the man advantage but also found the net once while shorthanded.

CHAR-LAN Rebels

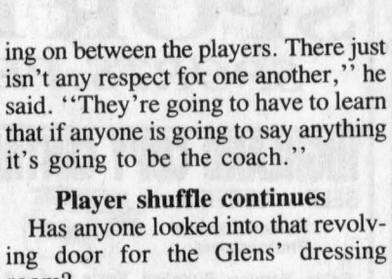
JR "B" HOCKEY CLUB

Char-Lan had three power play markers.

A last gasp chance for Char-Lan to come back disappeared when the linesmen missed an icing call agaisnt the Lions and Morrisburg iced the game with an empty-net goal.

Char-Lan assistant coach Jeff Carter wound up getting tossed from the game in the resulting tumult of protest that came from the frustrated Char-Lan bench.

''I thought getting those power play goals at the end of the first period was the turning point,'' said Morrisburg coach Doug Casselman. ''They had the same opportunity at the end of the second but they only got one goal out of it.



Phil Brown

''I tell you it wasn't easy though. They (the Rebels) forecheck very well and they keep coming at you.''

Casselman said he was pleased with the way his club responded to what he called the Lions' biggest weekend thus far in 1992-93.

''It was obvious (the Lions) wanted to go to the Boxing Day tournament the way they came out today.''

Char-Lan coach Philip Brown isn't so sure about his own team.

''We took a few steps backwards in the discipline department today,'' he said. ''I thought we played well in the last two periods but we dug ourselves into too big of a hole at the beginning of the game.''

Brown says avoiding penalties and keeping the players focused will continue to be a priority.

''Maybe it starts on the bench - the coaches are yelling so the players start doing it too.''

Rebel Yells: Terry O'Farrell missed Sunday's key game against Morrisburg after picking up a match penalty for butt-ending against Alexandria on Saturday. General manger Lynd McDonald said he examined the tape and could find no evidence of such an infraction. Chris Petry returned to the lineup on Sunday after missing three games for a match penalty of his own...Even though Char-Lan lost to the Lions on Sunday, defenceman Bobby Bowles put on the best hit of the season so far when he caught the normally elusive Yvon Besner with a textbook hip check and sent the Lions' captain somersaulting head over heels...Winchester comes to Williamstown on Saturday and the Rebels trek out to Gananoque on Sunday.

County spikers begin season

Senior Gaels down Char-Lan

The Glengarry senior girls volleyball team swept three games from their Char-Lan counterparts on Friday in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry high school league opener for both clubs.

The Gaels won by scores of 16-14, 15-7 and 15-11 in the first volleyball meeting between the schools in two years. Last year's schedule did not include any extradivisonal play between "AA" and "A" schools.

Tina Cairncross' club swept to victory despite having two of their top players from last season — captain Kelly Lavigueur and attacker Jody MacDonald — out with injuries.

Margaret Fraser and Karine Marcellin, co-captains of last year's SDG junior championship squad, will be counted on for immediate contributions.

Marcellin joins Caroline Matt, Isabel Seguin, Julie Rogers, Anona Siwik and Ginette Poirier on Glengarry's starting six.

Char-Lan, runners-up for the "A" championship last year, is also counting on some reinforcement from their junior championship squad in 1992-93.

Cindy Rose and Glenda Lauzon are two of the few veteran senior players.

Junior grads include Jillaine Jurchuk, Katharine MacLachlan, Vicky Peacey, Kelly Lariviere, Angela Smith and Cathy Pilon.

Midget, junior results

Glengarry took two of three games in the junior matchup, with the scores being 15-9, 15-6 and 15-17.

The Char-Lan midgets saved the day from being a total washout for the Crusaders by winning two of three in the afternoon's opening match.

The scores were 17-15, 11-15 and 15-12.

The Char-Lan seniors (bottom right) will be counting on the efforts of graduating juniors like Cathy Pilon (above).

Ginette Poirier and Anona Siwik should bring net gains for Glengarry

Art Benton win streak ended at seven straight

Art Benton's seven-game Ladies Sponge Puck League winning streak came to an end last Wednesday at the Billy Gebbie Arena as the defending league champions were defeated 3-1 by Tapis Richard Ranger.

The result creates a tie at the top of the league standings between Benton and Tapis, both of whom now sport 7-2 records.

Tapis had different players record goals in each of the three periods on the way to victory - Carol Ann Baxter, Cathy Depratto and Louise St.Pierre.

Marie Bellemare's second-period goal represented Benton's only offence.

SunLife moved to within a point of the co-leaders by blasting L.C. Electric 9-0.

Gillian Chaddock had four goals and two assists to lead SunLife to their sixth win of the season while Wendi Lawson and Chantal Legault each had a pair of goals.

Sharon Jasper rounded out SunLife's offence with a solo tally.

Mary Ann Laframboise registered the shutout.

In the other game played last week, MacMillan Insurance shut out M and D Sports 2-0.

Lisa Poirier and Wendy Hay scored the MacMillan goals while Sylvie Seguin had the shutout.

John K. shows the way for Glengarry juniors

John McDonald scored 10 points on Friday to lead the Glengarry juniors to a 35-31 win over Char-Lan in SDG boys basketball action in Alexandria.

Three Gaels - Ewen Kennedy, Rick McCorkell and Derek Menard - added six points apiece to hold Jack Paavila's squad pick up a win in their season debut.

The Crusaders, now 0-2, got 12 points from Chris Lumley.

Char-Lan was a 52-47 loser to Tagwi in their first game of the year on Tuesday in Williamstown.

Darryl Sobering (11 points) and John Poapst (10) led the Warriors attack while Matt Gray (12) and Chris Lumley (11) hit double figures for Char-Lan.

Blue prevails in senior game

It was hardly a textbook game of hoops, but Char-Lan won the senior matchup with the Gaels on Friday by a score of 28-23.

Terry O'Farrell pumped in 11 points for Char-Lan while Steve Proctor added six.

Matt Williams, with nine, and Scott McPherson, with eight, led the Glengarry shooters.

The senior Crusaders are now 2-0 in league play after beating Tagwi 47-26 on Tuesday.

Terry O'Farrell (15), Neil Emberg (10) and Steve Proctor (eight) were the top Char-Lan scorers while Jamie Norman (14) and Rod MacKillican (eight) led Tagwi.

The Char-Lan midgets lost both of their games last week, 18-15 against Tagwi and 19-10 to Glengarry.

Windows rattle Decoste

Rene Robichaud scored four times on Saturday afternoon to lead Glengarry Windows and Doors to a 14-3 win over Decoste Welding in Alexandria and District Industrial Hockey League action in Maxville.

Andrew McRae and Maurice Leduc each added hat tricks to W and D's offence efforts while J.C. Ranger chipped in with a pair of tallies.

Mario Chevrier and Paul Sauve had single goals.

Charlie Lalonde, Joel Doiron and Guy Poirier scored for Decoste.

Dick's Paving Stones avenged last week's loss to Ernie's Cement by taking a 9-5 win over their ADIHL rivals.

Johnny MacSweyn bagged five goals for the winners while Mark Titley, Robert McDougall, Claude Bourque and Steve Lalonde had singles.

Marc Just and Mike Lapensee had a pair each for Ernie's and Brent Farrell had a solo marker.

Matt is the Gaels' key

Last year, the Glengarry Gaels senior hoopsters were supposed to send shockwaves (or at least mild tremors) across the United Counties with their Twin Towers - Dave MacDonald and Matt Williams.

The presence of the duo - either together or separately - didn't translate into a lot of wins for the Gaels and coach John Danaher thinks he knows why.

"We didn't have much of an outside game last year and poor Dave was basically all by himself. This year, we have some juniors coming up who can shoot and that should make a difference."

Danaher names Scott McPherson and Harry Wilson as two of those players with outside potential.

"Another big addition for us is Nick Boisvenue at guard. He's very good at bringing the ball up and he gives us two sets of guards which is always nice to have."

Energetic Robert Meth is the other guard while Kalidas Cappuccino will also see lots of action at the position.

But any Glengarry success hinges on the play of Williams, whose potential to be a devastating force will grow in a rate equal to his confidence level.

"Obviously, Matt's going to be a big part of our team," says Danaher. "He has to work on going to the basket but I think he'll be helped by our outside shooting game."

Danaher has a team that plays on the edge at times, both physically and emotionally, but the coach sees that as a positive.

While he probably would like to avoid some of the technicals that were called against his team on the weekend, Danaher doesn't want to put out the fires that rage inside his players.

"We have a lot of competitors on this team and that's good. I think it will help make us a very competitive team this year."

Char-Lan making up for shortcomings

The one thing that stood in the way of Char-Lan being a very good senior team last season instead of a fair one was the absence of a genuine big man to put in the middle of the offensive and defensive schemes.

The same is likely to hold true this year as Char-Lan looks to cope without Chris Petry, a graduate who was one of the few players with any height last year.

"When you don't have height, you try and make up for it in other ways," said Char-Lan coach Tom Santowski, who takes over for Malcolm Fraser.

"Your inside game suffers (without a big man) so that means you have to make sure your outside game is working."

In addition to Petry, the Crusaders have also lost starting guard Kurtis Latreille and sometimes starter Mike Laframboise to graduation.

Santowski has two returning starters to work with - forward Terry O'Farrell and guard Innes Fraser. Tom Schuler, Jeff MacDonell and Steve Proctor also played senior ball last year.

The outside game that Santowski would like to establish should come from Proctor, who is developing a good shooting touch from the small forward position, and newcomer Trevor Agnew, who hit double figures in scoring in all three of Char-Lan's tournament games on Saturday.

Tom Santowski

"It all comes down to execution - running plays to set up the outside shot. We have players who can shoot from the outside...it's just a question of setting them up."

Junior grad Neil Emberg and O'Farrell will give Char-Lan its inside game while Fraser, with his penetrating abilities, also figuring prominently in the offence.

In fact, if Fraser is able to drive effectively, that may loosen up the inside sufficiently to overcome the team's lack of height.

Besides, none of the other 'A" schools appear to have a true centre either, meaning that the division is up for grabs to anyone who can put a good streak together at the right time.

Calypso choral arrangements well received

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Well, have you been involved in all the exciting things that have been going on recently in our area? Many people came to the Dec. 6 concert given by Ken Roach at St. Finnan's Cathedral. Father Cameron calculated that there were around 200 people in attendance. Mr. Roach sang carols for about three-quarters of an hour alone. At one point his son Jason Roach accompanied him on the steel drum. For the second half, Mr. Roach was joined by a choir consisting of singers from the area. It was all very well received by the audience, who sat entranced by the lovely carols, accompanied softly on his guitar. The choral arrangements and one of the songs composed by Mr. Roach were very different than those traditionally heard here at this time of the year. Calypso isn't usually associated with Deck the Halls. It was all great fun, and the choir members had more fun than their listeners, doing what they like to do best, singing.

The evening of carols held in Glen Nevis at St. Margaret of Scotland church was also very well attended. Several of the churches could not participate, but the two choirs from St. Martin of Tours in Glen Robertson were there, the one from Glen Sandfield United Church, Kirk Hill United and St. Colomba Presbyterian churches came, as did the choir from the Church on the Hill in Alexandria. St. Andrew's United in Dalhousie Mills had a good strong choir and St. Margaret's choir made up the program. A special treat was the children of the St. Margaret's junior choir — they were charming. The varied selections of the choirs are always a pleasure. Glen Robertson had one selection in English and Dutch, the other French choir sang in French. Glen Sandfield sang a bilingual carol. The feeling of warmth and friendliness that one experiences at one of these joint programs is the best possible way to start off the Christmas season. Next year the carol-sing will be in the Church on the Hill in Alexandria. It really is well worth the trip in enjoyment and fellowship.

Jack Jamieson took a very bad fall recently putting up Christmas lights. The ladder tipped over, he fell, breaking his arm, injuring his back severely and the ladder fell on his foot. He is in hospital at present. Please remember him in your prayers, and I know you all send him get well wishes along with us.

39'ers News

Last month at the 39'ers November meeting, the guest speaker was Sybelle Aalders and she was a very interesting lady. None of the group was familiar with "massage" and she is a licenced masseuse. She told the group that if you don't take the course and graduate, you do not really have the proper method of massage. She never uses her fingers and there should never be any discomfort. If there is, it isn't being done correctly. It enhances relaxation of the muscles, helps the immune system, and has significant psychological effect and also on the circulatory system. She did shoulder massage for those lucky ones at the outside of the tables and they loved it. Touching should never invade people's privacy and should never be painful.

In December the 39'ers held their Christmas dinner on the 9th at the Legion and had a very good turnout. Afterwards two little skits were presented, The Family Feud and The Meeting (done as a rehearsal). It was great fun, and the impromptu performances were hilarious. Carols followed, and the 39'ers choir sang several selections, led by Jane Wightman. Bedding for Lazarus Home and food had been donated, instead of a gift exchange, and there was a fine lot to be given out to the needy. We Wish you a Merry Christmas concluded the afternoon of food and fun.

St. Colomba Presbyterian Ladies Aid catered to the McCrimmon WI Christmas dinner meeting on the 10th of December at their church hall. Carols and a gift exchange were part of the program and the "highlight of your year" portion was most interesting. Events have been coming thick and fast all fall for the members and guests, it seemed; trips here and abroad, weddings, anniversaries and graduations and many new babies births, as the happy grandmothers were delighted to report. One lady cited joining the Gaelic Choir as one of her highlights. It is a time of joy and friendliness, and these women share a fellowship that is to be envied by many other groups. Auld Lang Syne ended the afternoon's festivities, with the women in a circle holding hands, in the traditional way.

The folks of Glen Sandfield all send happy holiday wishes to everybody. Let's pray that those in dire need will find their way and that they will have a happy holiday too. Remember those who are alone and invite them in for dinner. No one should be alone at Christmas.

The Dallochan 4-H members led by Joyce MacLennan and Beverly Vander Byl presented an Achievement Day luncheon at Laggan School on Dec. 5 at 11 a.m. The Home for the Holidays Club provided the 20 members with cooking and craft skills.

Cattlemen to meet here Jan. 13

County and district cattlemen's associations across the province have recently set the dates for their annual meetings.

Glengarry's will be Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Candlestick Restaurant.

These meetings represent an important opportunity for Ontario cattle producers to participate in the policy-setting procedure for the Ontario Cattlemen's Association (OCA) and the beef industry in general.

Doug Gear, OCA president, is encouraging all producers to attend their local meeting saying, ''County meetings are the most effective way for all producers to have a direct impact on the beef industry and the activities of the OCA.

''I would urge every cow-calf backgrounder, feedlot and purebred operator to attend.''

At each meeting, resolutions can be presented from the floor regarding any issue that area cattlemen would like to see addressed at the OCA annual meeting. Those resolutions which are passed will then be forwarded to the OCA meeting on February 24 and 25 at the Delta Meadowvale in Mississauga.

Annual meetings also provide cattlemen with an opportunity to become more involved with their association by being elected as a county executive member or director, or as a delegate to the OCA annual meeting.

Any person selling cattle subject to OCA license fees in the period Sept. 1/91 to Aug. 31/92 is eligible to vote and/or run for election of OCA Director, alternate directors, and voting delegates to the OCA annual meeting.

Spectrum of ages graduate from school

On Friday, Nov. 27, Aultsville Hall was the glittering scene of Ecole Communautaire's second graduation ceremony.

The occasion had a unique character as the 27 graduates from the Cornwall and Alexandria campus were 20, 30, 40 even 50 years old.

The working scene is changing and the requirements to find a decent job in this quick-paced world are becoming more and more demanding.

Friday night's graduates understand today's world and many were inspired to return to school because of these changing times.

Two graduating students, Linda Roy from the Cornwall campus and John Soucy from the Alexandria campus were the evening's valedictorians.

Several scholarships, bursaries and prizes were awarded to deserving students.

The Alexandria graduates were Claire Bellefuille, Gisèle Bourgon, Guylaine Campeau, Sylvie Chabot, Diane Deguire, Norbert Gauthier, Joanne Joanette, Jacques Lapierre, Celine Lefebvre, Stéphane Pepin, Natalie Quesnel, Yvonne Seguin and John Soucy.

OFA will not support funding act regulations

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) will not support the recently tabled Farm Organizations Funding Act as it is presently written because of provisions that include fines of up to $2,000 for farmers who fail to comply.

OFA President Roger George stated that, "it is totally unacceptable to have stable funding legislation that makes criminals of farmers who do not financially support a general farm organization in Ontario."

Agriculture and food minister Elmer Buchanan presented the bill for first reading in the Legislative Assembly late Thursday, Nov. 26.

It was to have been the culmination of 20 years work by general farm groups to provide funding for the general farm voice in Ontario.

The provisions calling for fines ranging from $500 to $2,000 were never agreed to by the farm leaders in negotiations with the government.

"This legislation does not serve the best long-term interests of the farmers of Ontario," said Mr. George. "this bill is badly flawed and unacceptable in its present form. It does not offer an acceptable approach to stable funding and needs radical surgery."

Ski team member has local roots

Dalkeith
by Jean MacLennan
874-2385

Wasn't it thrilling to see John Mealy, of Sault Ste. Marie, hurtling down the ski slopes on the Sport show on television on Dec. 6? John is on the Canadian Ski team and is competing in Europe. He is the son of Lois (Howes) Mealy of Sault Ste. Marie and grandson of Lloyd Howes of Kirk Hill.

* * *

Ann and John Strudwick are sending back Christmas greetings from Daytona, Fla. They relate of the beauty on their trip south along the waterways parallel to the eastern seaboard. We are hoping that they enjoy Christmas too.

* * *

Two of the businesses in Dalkeith have closed. Recently Pinetique closed its door and now Dalkeith Collision just across the corner has closed the business here. Sorry to see you all leave.

* * *

As I write this on Saturday, Dec. 12 I am hearing on the radio of all the snow that fell in other parts of the province on Friday. We had none! Maybe we had our share of precipitation as rainfall during the summer and fall.

"Santa Claus is Coming to Town." He will be at the Optimist Hall on Dec. 19 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. So be good and come to tell him your wishes.

The village and surrounding countryside is all lit up for the holidays. There are many nice displays which brighten the cold nights.

We, who were included in the Christmas party sponsored by The Glengarry News, got a nice early start on the festivities. It was a great evening.

The ladies of both the Kirk Hill churches had a busy week. On Tuesday, Dec. 8 the members of the Holstein Association held their annual meeting at the United Church Hall and had their dinner there. John MacLeod of McCrimmon is the new president and Barbara Howes retains the secretary position.

On Thursday, Dec. 10, the St. Columba ladies catered to a dinner for the McCrimmon Women's Institute.

The Dalkeith Library staff was pleased to receive a copy of "The Schools of Glengarry" which was presented by the Dalkeith Optimist Club.

JOHN ENTWISTLE CONSTRUCTION LTD.

ALWAYS A GOOD CHOICE

25 Cumberland St. 932-1293

Right now is the time of year to have an estimate done on your roof. That way you'll know how much it may cost you and you can start to save up your money so JOHN ENTWISTLE CONSTRUCTION LTD. can start the job next spring.

If your roof is fifteen years old or older, it is probably time to think of replacement. Statistics state that more than 85% of North American homes have asphalt shingles. After 15 years is the critical time for a standard weight shingle with showing signs of missing, damaged or broken shingles and shingles that are dried up or curled on the edges. The worst is a roof with bare shingles, no longer covered by their protective granules.

The products installed by JOHN ENTWISTLE CONSTRUCTION LTD. will provide protection against the rain, snow, wind and similar natural or unnatural occurences. Asphalt shingles today have the largest choice of color blends. Roofing selection is important when dealing with a contractor.

This is a locally-owned and operated business established in 1925 and capably guided by JACK ENTWISTLE and FORD MARKELL, who are well experienced in the roofing business. They serve Residential, Commercial and Industrial.

This firm is a recognized expert on roofs of all types including asphalt, shingle, gravel or single ply rubber membrane roofs, ice removal with no job too small or too large.

Left in disrepair a roof is unsightly, devalues a home and worse it can cause structural problems. Water can seep in causing all sorts of potential damage.

Call JOHN ENTWISTLE CONSTRUCTION LTD. today for an estimate.

Ziebart Tidy Car

THE LEADER IN PROTECTION

513 - 1st St. E. 938-3306

A new car starts off looking beautiful, but things can turn ugly fast. The weather fades the paint. Careless people put dings in the doors. Gravel roads chip the finish. Sloppy kids stain the carpet and upholstery. Salt and sea air rust the metal.

And long before all the payments are made, all the beauty is gone.

The economical situation of today has provoked longer periods of financing for new automobiles, resulting in the consumer's need for a rust resistant vehicle that will endure, at least until that last payment is made. Since this is often not possible due to our harsh winter conditions, you should take necessary precautions such as regular maintenance and rust control by ZIEBART TIDY CAR.

Founded by Kurt Ziebart over 39 years ago, the first international ZIEBART dealer opened in 1965 in Windsor, Ontario and was the foundation for development of the ZIEBART franchise network in Canada.

Although first known for their rust protection, ZIEBART now has many products and services designed to increase both the appearance and longevity of your vehicle.

The detailing services include their top of the line Gold Care; it encompasses complete interior refurbishing such as cleaning and their exclusive Fabric Protector right through to exterior wash, high speed polish and application.

Their Sound Barrier reduces noise and vibration to vehicle occupant and is also highly abrasion-resistant to ensure lasting performance.

Besides the above listed services, you can also obtain a complete line of accessories for cars, trucks and vans encompassing body side mouldings, running boards, splash guards, sunroofs, door and wheelwell edge guards, pick-up box liners, bug & stone deflectors for trucks, auto alarms and interior deep cleaning and shampoo.

The ZIEBART location in Cornwall has served residents of this area since opening in June 1990 and is owned and operated by GERALD LABELLE.

As you should be able to tell, ZIEBART offers a comprehensive line of products and services that can honestly benefit your vehicle.

CAMERON'S POOLS FIREPLACES KITCHENS

WHERE A WARM WELCOME AWAITS YOU

331 PITT ST. (across from Police Stn.)938-9442

A recent survey of the top ten home renovations by return on investment shows that the addition of a fireplace ranks third, with an 80 per cent recovery rate. An exceptionally good investment is a natural gas fireplace, or woodburning stove.

Old man winter is just around the corner. Plan now to beat the high cost of home heating and beat those winter blues. Nothing warms quite like the glow from the flickering flames of a fireplace. This warmth can translate into dollars saved when you heat up your family area and turn down the thermostat.

Today's heating products sold in Canada must meet the Canadian Safety Association standards in design. This business carries such products with additional features such as proper warranties on Vermont Castings and Pacific Energy products, superior fibre and metal airtight seals, plus safety features which offer you unattended overnight burning.

CAMERON'S features woodburning stoves, inserts, chimneys and fireplaces. They have built-in fireplaces on display, natural gas and propane, plus pools, chemicals and accessories and computerized water analysis.

CAMERON's also offer HANOVER KITCHENS.

For those remodelling their homes and also for the new home builder, the kitchen has become one of the most important focal points requiring special attention. Due to the tremendous traffic flow that a kitchen engages, it requires that an efficient design be integrated into the setting that allows more than just pleasant social atmosphere; it should also promote a quicker method of food preparation cooking and clean-up. The showroom gives a sample of such offerings, but much more than that is offered when you consider the combination of varied styles, colors, finishes and wood grains available.

If an enhanced home re-sale potential and other aforementioned benefits that a new fireplace or kitchen can allow interests you, consult the staff at CAMERON's for free consultation.

Pizza Hut and nothin' but!

712 14 St. W. (Corner Brookdale Ave.)937-3377

More and more people are dining out regularly these days and one of the main reasons is dining establishments like PIZZA HUT in Cornwall.

Upon every visit to PIZZA HUT, we found a friendly atmosphere created by the management and staff, which makes it a popular spot for dining at its best. The seating arrangements are comfortable with a bright decor to provide a cheery atmosphere. We found the food excellent.

As pizza lovers ourselves, we feel that you will make no mistake visiting this fine restaurant with excellent service at your table or booth, or you can enjoy their products at home as they deliver and provide a carryout service. Instead of experimenting with a hit and miss method of finding a great tasting pizza, we can save you time and money by recommending this PIZZA HUT.

PIZZA HUT was founded in Wichita, Kansas in 1958.

Today, there are over 5,200 PIZZA HUT restaurants internationally, making this the largest operator and franchiser of family-style pizza restaurants in the world. The Canadian operation has grown to over 140 locations in Canada.

PIZZA HUT opened in Cornwall on March 12, 1990 and is franchise-owned by DON and KATHRYN YOUNG.

At PIZZA HUT they start with a crust made from fresh daily made dough, then add sauce that is tasty and tangy and two layers of 100% natural mozzarella cheese to enhance the flavour. You can top it with your choice of pepperoni, Italian sausage, mushrooms, pineapple, onions, ham, beef topping, bacon, green peppers, green olives and anchovies.

PIZZA HUT also features piping hot pastas with garlic bread including two varieties of lasagna, fettuccine and spaghetti. A salad bar is available as part of your meal or as a meal. They are licensed by L.L.B.O.

We highly recommend PIZZA HUT, whose consistent quality in food and service will certainly please those who appreciate affordable dining at its best.

The ability to maintain a high thermal efficiency is characteristic for all diesel engines, but depends to a great extent on a rather strict adherance to a reasonable maintenance schedule.

GRANT READY MIX LTD. — CORNWALL GRAVEL CO LTD

A TRUSTED NAME SINCE 1949

390 ELEVENTH ST. W. 932-6571

Whether your needs be excavation, road building, asphalt, paving, sand, gravel stone, equipment rentals, plus concrete building materials like Ready Mix, you'll assure yourself of quality controlled products and great service by doing business with this firm.

Established since 1949, it is successfully guided by LIONEL NORVAN and DAVID GRANT. GORD McINTYRE is the General Manager.

Excavation and haulage is much more than merely shuffling aggregates about. It takes years of experience for equipment operators and site foremen to manipulate the landscape in order to cater to the customer's requirements, while also knowing how that landscape must be shaped; if rainfall drainage is not taken into consideration, it could result in many disgruntled property owners and neighbours.

The people at GRANT READY MIX LTD. or CORNWALL GRAVEL CO. LTD. can properly estimate the cost of excavation and earth moving on your property after evaluating how much of each type of material is involved, what it will cost to handle, what equipment need be used, and what disposition can be made of the excavated material.

They opened a quarry 2 miles south of Chesterville to serve the area with crushed stone and opened a quarry in Greely, serving Osgoode and Winchester Townships. They also have a quarry in Casselman and Iroquois.

As driveways and parking lots play an important part in the appearance of the landscape of your property, it is important that the material you choose to surface it with is attractive, but more importantly is durable.

Asphalt is flexible, and in this respect can withstand almost any type of weather conditions.

A true test of a good paving job is how well rainfall drains away and also the durability of the surface after enduring a rough winter and spring thaw. This firm can provide complete paving services for your residential, industrial or commercial lot and price it very competitively.

For an accurate estimate of any concrete, paving or affiliated services, see the dedicated people at GRANT READY MIX LTD. or CORNWALL GRAVEL CO. LTD.

In Memoriam

PROULX — In loving memory of our dear children, Gerald, Denise and Monique who passed away December 14, 1952.
No stain was on their little hearts,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
They were too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angel bore
Our darling ones away.
—Sadly missed by Ernest and Georgette Proulx.

Remembering HENRI LALONDE
Jan. 18, 1925 - June 26, 1957
I consider myself quite fortunate to have had a father who has doubled as my "Guardian Angel". Knowing that he has followed my steps through all of life's ups and downs, helps me each and every day. I trust he loves his grandson and son-in-law as much as I do and that he has approved of the choices we've made.
When I lost my father as a young girl, a part of me went with him - but in some extraordinary way, I feel totally whole, safe and loved whenever I think about him.
MERRY CHRISTMAS DADDY!!

Lochiel Township

Council Briefs

The following are among the items discussed by Lochiel Township council at its regular monthly meeting Dec. 8.

New assessment base

Lochiel council learned that the property assessment base will be bumped up to reflect 1988 property values, for tax bills covering 1993.

Clerk Ray Charbonneau said recent tax bills have been calculated on base 1984, reflecting property values for that year.

Assessment Commission representative Denis Gagnon explained to the News, "using base '88 property values for tax calculations means fairer and more equal tax payments for residents across the 20 municipalities of the United Counties.

"The rates residents pay for their educational and county services varied widely in the past, depending on the municipality where they lived," Gagnon reported, "even on houses of similar value."

Equalized assessment with base '88 property values will be introduced to United Counties council in January, Gagnon explained.

The plan must be discussed and ratified by the Counties, before it is sent to the 20 member municipalities of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry for their approval.

Environment award

Several Lochiel councillors, including Deputy Reeve Maurice Montpetit, volunteered to pick up the soil conservation award presented Dec. 9, at the annual meeting of Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

"It's nice to be appreciated," Montpetit commented.

The award was presented for rehabilitation work done in the summer on a depleted gravel pit owned by the township at lot 10, Con 8. The old pit was bulldozed flat back into pasture land and the Ministry of Natural Resources spread a mulch for quick growth of grass.

"Cattle are pastured there now," Clerk Ray Charbonneau reported.

Free water tests nixed

There's no more free ride, Lochiel council learned, for 54 Glen Robertson residents supplied with water from a communal well which is tested three times weekly.

Water samples, sent for analysis to provincial Ministry of Environment labs in Kingston, won't be processed free any longer. Lab fees will cost $16 a pop.

Clerk Ray Charbonneau estimated the yearly test bill at $2,000.

"That $2,000 will have to be tacked onto Glen residents' water bill," Reeve Ron MacDonell said.

"We should find out if the well can be tested less often and still be safe."

Where the money goes

Lochiel council approved payment of $138,672, for 20,000 tons of gravel to Glengarry Aggregate of Green Valley, lowest of three tenders for the contract.

Council approved $123,793 payment on the November roads account, and $1,728 for grass cutting at Father Gauthier soccer field and Glen Robertson Municipal Recreation Centre.

Council passed a bylaw authorizing borrowing of money from the bank at prime plus one per cent interest rate — if needed next year.

"We haven't needed to use our borrowing power for the last couple of years," Clerk Ray Charbonneau commented. "Our township is in pretty good shape."

Salt storage

Preliminary site plans for a $90,000 salt storage shed to be built next summer at Lochiel Township garage property were discussed by council.

The storage shed will replace an old barn near Lochiel where the township formerly stored road salt, some outdoors covered with tarps.

The old site had to be abandoned this fall when it was discovered salt had polluted a nearby well.

Reeve Ron MacDonell assured Isidore Davidson that Lochiel Township would pay for drinking water used by his family until the well, polluted by salt on his property, is cleaned up.

The Davidson well and property on Cty. Rd. 21, west of Lochiel, is currently being tested by the Ministry of Environment.

Davidson told council, "we were so used to our water we didn't notice anything wrong until guests urged us this fall to test the water and find out why it tasted so bad."

May the quiet beauty of this lovely season . . . bring you deep joy and warm memories to cherish throughout the coming year . . .

Seasons Greetings to all . . .

Chers contribuables,

Il y a un an, vous m'avez confié le soin de vous représenter à la section française du Conseil scolaire catholique de S.D.&G. Je sens qu'il est opportun à ce moment-ci de vous faire un compte-rendu de cette première année.

Mon travail, parsemé de lectures et de rencontres, a consisté principalement à étudier et modifier les dépenses du conseil. Ce travail d'équipe s'est avéré très ardu, car dès notre arrivée en fonction, on nous informait d'un déficit. Nous avons donc dû effectuer obligatoirement des coupures avec lesquelles, en général, je me sens à l'aise. Croyez bien que je suis consciente du fait que certaines situations en salle de classe sont difficiles, mais nous devons y faire face.

J'ai aussi pris le temps de faire la tournée, presque deux fois et parfois plus, de toutes les écoles sous ma juridiction. Il est important pour moi de bien connaître les besoins particuliers de chaque école afin d'aider un peu et d'encourager les parents, les professeurs et les élèves. J'aime beaucoup rencontrer les jeunes et les vois cheminer dans notre système. J'essaie d'établir le plus de contacts possible pour obtenir du matériel pour nos enfants.

Exemples:

i) J'ai contacté le Commissaire aux langues officielles et j'ai reçu du matériel gratuitement.

ii) J'ai fait venir une exposition Dieu et mon droit du Barreau du Haut-Canada qui est allée dans nos écoles rurales. Cela fait partie de notre histoire.

En ce qui a trait aux taxes, je suis aussi consciente du fait que nous avons été incapable d'éviter une augmentation, même après les coupures. Les régions rurales ont été plus cruellement touchées en raison du programme de cinq ans qui visait à rééquilibrer le niveau des taxes urbaines et rurales. Ce plan quinquennal se termine cette année et nous devrons donc anticiper une diminution tout au moins de vos taxes sur votre prochaine facture.

Ces points majeurs, ainsi que bien d'autres, ont accaparé cette première année. Plusieurs conventions collectives devront être signées l'an prochain. Il serait sage que parents et contribuables me fassent savoir leurs préoccupations afin de répondre le plus possible aux besoins de nos élèves.

J'espère que ce bref énoncé vous a intéressé et je vous prie de ne pas hésiter de communiquer avec moi pour quelque raison que ce soit au 527-3486. Merci pour votre appui et votre confiance. Je vous souhaite mes meilleurs voeux pour un joyeux Noël et une bonne, heureuse et sainte année.

Conseillère scolaire,
Nicole Bourgeois
