Seniors worry over electronic vote in South Glen

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

South Glengarry electors are clearly divided along age lines over the decision to switch to electronic voting in the upcoming municipal election, an informal poll by The Glengarry News shows.

Instead of trooping to the polls on election day, South Glengarry voters, along with those in the five other SDG municipalities, including North Glengarry, will cast their votes via the Internet or telephone over a six-day period beginning Nov. 5 and ending on Nov. 10.

The informal poll, conducted last week by The News, involved interviews with 30 residents: 10 in each of three age categories – 18 to 30 years; 31 to 59 years; and 60 years and over.

The latter age group was the most concerned. To a person, the residents, all of whom described themselves as "regularly" voting in elections, said they disliked the new election process.

The most common complaint was that they didn't know how to use a computer. Six of those polled had never used a computer, and two of the four who had said they were unable to control the mouse, and thought it would be hard to "put the X in the right box."

The telephone voting alternative was not much better for them, they said. One man, who has never used a computer, is also hard of hearing.

"How am I supposed to vote?" he asked.

Several of the seniors were worried about their votes being secret. One believed that "hackers" could get into the system and see how she had voted, while another thought that all the telephone votes were going into the township's administration office, and couldn't see how they could be secret.

Most of the older group said they would miss the socializing that they did when they voted at a "real" poll. One man, who said he had first voted in 1938, described the elections as "a wonderful time."

"We would all meet at the poll, and speculate on how people would vote. It was a lot of fun."

Four of the seniors said they would be counting on family members to help them vote. Four said they would try the telephone method by themselves, and two said they wouldn't be voting at all. One of those said she would not vote as a form of protest against the new method.

Those in the 31 to 59 year old group were, by and large, ambivalent about the new process. Several were reflective and said they didn't like the idea of electronic voting because it was difficult for older people.

"It's taking away from the rights of seniors," said one, while another went so far as to say seniors and non-computer literate

Voting abuse feared

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

The new electronic voting process being used in North Glengarry's municipal election may have opened the door to breaches of voter privacy, some council members claimed at Monday night's council meeting.

Council members appealed to the township clerk for solutions to deal with plans by some candidates to operate voter-help centres.

In such centers, candidates can potentially show electors how to negotiate the new telephone/Internet voting system.

Councillor Julie Akkermans for one fears such situations put the integrity of the system at risk.

"I'm very uncomfortable knowing there are other candidates out there 'saying I can come to your home or you can come to me,' " Mrs. Akkermans said. She later added, "If they were picking them up and bringing them here (the municipal office) I wouldn't have a beef.

"But they are (talking about) picking them up and bringing them to their place, which is not a designated polling station."

Township clerk Leo Poirier couldn't offer a solution to the predicament, saying there is nothing in the election act to prevent such schemes. He also added that he didn't find it much different than the tricks unscrupulous candidates used to play with the old proxy system.

"If you go to a place where you figure your privacy is threatened, "Mr. Poirier advised, "you don't have to vote there."

Mayor Bill Franklin understood the clerk's feeling of powerlessness, but holds similar views to Mrs. Akkermans.

"In the past nobody saw how you voted...you had privacy guaranteed by the returning officer," Mayor Franklin said. He added, under the present set-up, "If I take you to my house, nobody knows what happens.

"It calls the integrity of the system into question especially, if I bring 25 people to my house."

Win or lose, the mayor said the candidate-based help centre is something he'll take up with municipal affairs. He feels it is an issue that was overlooked.

Township wants SDG to petition CRTC to eliminate area long-distance calls

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

South Glengarry is taking steps to eliminate long distance telephone charges between any two points in SDG.

At its meeting on Monday night, council supported a resolution to ask the United Counties of SDG to petition the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) to include all of SDG in a local calling area.

The issue surfaced at council "because of an article in The Glengarry News," Mayor Dave MacDonald said. According to the mayor, a woman brought forward a petition which asked the township to ask the CRTC to drop long distance charges between the Martintown (528) and Alexandria (525) exchanges.

CRTC regulations previously determined that two calling centres could not be within the same local calling area; however, in the past year this stipulation has been removed.

The support of "the governing body," is now required to initiate a request to change a calling area.

Originally council was thinking of just placing the 525 and 528 exchanges within the local calling area and a resolution had been prepared to petition the CRTC to that effect.

Councillor Jim McDonell, who also happens to be a network engineer with Bell Canada, recommended against it.

"If we pass this resolution we will be limited to (a small calling area) for ever and a day," he said. "I recommend we go across SDG and have them do it."

Mayor Dave MacDonald said that the people of Martintown were looking for action on the issue and wondered why council "couldn't do both." The mayor wanted South Glengarry to petition the CRTC for the Martintown/Alexandria problem, and then ask the Counties to petition for the whole of SDG.

"The better way would be to bring it to Counties and have them apply," replied Mr. McDonell.

Administrator/coordinator Marcel Lapierre warned that everyone's base rate for local calls would be increased if the petition were successful.

"This may result in greater cost for services than the benefits that may accrue," he said.

Mr. McDonell agreed that might be possible, but that the increase "would be very small."

Hope fueling efforts to save Consoltex plant

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

The odds of keeping the North Glengarry Consoltex plant open may seem slim, but that's not stopping a group of area businesspeople and political figures from putting together a committee to keep the business in Alexandria.

MPP Jean-Marc Lalonde told The Glengarry News last week that a Consoltex Recovery Committee is in place and is scheduled to meet today (Oct. 29) in Alexandria.

"I wouldn't do the whole process unless I was confident," said Mr. Lalonde, reiterating his earlier comment, "I don't want to stop anything, because until the bolts are taken out of the machinery, we still have hope."

Headed by Alexandria lawyer Pierre Aubry, the committee is comprised of two local businesspeople, Consoltex employees, municipal representatives, as well as regional government economic leaders.

Mr. Lalonde was not ready to give details on today's discussion or the objectives of the two or three meetings to follow, but said he plans to be at the meetings as an observer.

The MPP and the municipality were already scrambling to keep the textile company in the area even before the Oct. 17 announcement that the plant would be closed next June.

North Glengarry mayor Bill Franklin called an emergency council meeting, attended by the MPP and company officials, two days after Consoltex announced its plans to close one of its four plants.

Oct. 14, three days prior to the closure announcement, council approved the first reading of a resolution to lower the textile company's water and sewer bill from $321,000 to $187,250. The mayor delivered this news to the local plant manager the next day.

This past Monday, council tabled the matter and the mayor plans to bring the information to the recovery meeting today.

In an effort to reduce the plant's water and sewage costs, Mr. Lalonde orchestrated two post-closure visits to the plant by experts from Environment Canada and the National Research Council.

Both visits went well and by coming up with ways to recycle the water used by the plant on its premises, officials are confident they can provide, "great savings for the company, and for the town as far as sewage capacity is concerned," Mr. Lalonde said.

Findings of the environmental experts may be part of the information discussed at today's meetings.

Sitting on the Consoltex Recovery Team are Alexandria businesspeople Luc Cholette and Richard Ranger; municipal representatives councillor Gary Shepherd and treasurer Annie Levac; four Consoltex employees, staff members Denise Campeau and Paul MacDonald, along with union reps Vince Poirier and Thomas Giroux; as well as James dePater, executive director of the SDG Community Futures Development Corporation; Guy Desjardins, Eastern Ontario regional manager for the Ministry of Economic Development and Trade; and Guy Tondreau, Eastern Ontario director of Human Resources Development Canada.

Consoltex union representatives plan to bring wage concessions to the table at Wednesday's meeting, according to its president Vince Poirier.

A vote held at the plant Friday, and approved by 70 of the 109 union employees, "made concessions" relating to wages and other issues, Poirier said. The proposal is conditional on the company staying open, and Mr. Poirier wouldn't reveal its details before attending the meeting.

Consoltex head office hasn't seen details of the offer, according to company director of government public relations Lucie Brassard.

"They haven't said anything to the company," Ms. Brassard said.

While Consoltex made its decision with plant closure, she said the company heard news of the committee Mr. Lalonde formed and would look at any proposal it forwards.

NG gives staff 'power' on ambulance tender

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

The green light to start construction of a new municipality owned land ambulance shelter in Alexandria could come as early as Friday.

To speed the process along, North Glengarry council Monday granted its township clerk and his assistants power to approve the final tender on the project.

In planning since the spring, council hopes to see the land ambulance shelter, which would be an addition to the Fire Hall, completed by the end of December.

Mayor Bill Franklin estimated the cost of the project at $100,000 - $140,000, and said it was important to take steps to keep the process going.

■ ■ ■

Thieves made off with a white 16' fibreglass canoe, along with a life vest and several rods, from a residence on Lakeview Street, South Lancaster. The theft took place sometime over the last week.

■ ■ ■

A commercial generator worth $12,500 was stolen from a construction site on Diversion Road in South Glengarry during the night of Oct. 26/27.

R.I.D.E. Charges

Police handed out a slew of charges as a result of stopping a car driven by a Green Valley woman, early Sunday morning.

The 19 year-old female driver was stopped at a R.I.D.E. check stop at the off ramp of a service station on Highway 401, in South Glengarry. She was arrested for Impaired Driving. While at the police office, the female assaulted a police officer and damaged camera equipment. She faces charges of Impaired Driving, Assault Police and Mischief to Property.

Meanwhile, back at the scene, police seized a quantity of marijuana from three other occupants of the vehicle.

Two 18 year-old males, both from Cornwall, were arrested and face charges of Possession of a Controlled Substance and Possession of a Controlled Substance for the Purpose of Trafficking.

Uttering Threats

Mischief

Hooligans damaged mailboxes, civic number signs and posts on McCormick Road in North Glengarry Saturday night.

Police are asking that any suspicious vehicles or people be reported.

Theft of Tools

Thieves broke into the cap of a pick-up truck located at a residence on McCormick Road and stole construction tools, during the overnight of Oct. 24.

A Dewalt cordless kit (drill, saw,etc), Passlode planning and finishing guns and assorted hand tools were taken.

Canoe Recovered

Police are looking for the owner of a floating canoe found on the St. Lawrence River near Westley's Point in South Glengarry.

It is descibesd as a white 14' Laverandrie canoe, with a brown padded seat.

Anyone missing the above canoe can call the Lancaster OPP office at 347-2449, during business hours, Monday-Friday 8:15 a.m.- 4:30 p.m.

Fatal Collision

A woman from Toronto died Friday night as a result of injuries sustained in a single-vehicle rollover collision on Highway 401, a kilometer west of the Curry Hill exit in South Glengarry.

A 1992 BMW, carrying two Toronto women, was eastbound at about 7:15 p.m. when, for reasons under investigation, the vehicle left the roadway and rolled over several times, coming to rest in the centre median.

Passenger Sylvia Morley, 50, was pronounced dead at the scene. Driver Louise Gauvreau, 46, was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall via ambulance with non-life threatening injuries.

"What's the point of not having polling booths if people without computers or touch-tone phones still have to go out [to the libraries or the township hall] to vote?' asked one woman.

Five of the respondents in the middle group said they would feel better about the new process once they received their letters of instruction and personal identification numbers in the mail.

"It's just the fear of the unknown, I suppose," said one man who plans to vote by Internet.

Seven of the 10 people in this group said they planned to vote. One is not voting because she is opposed to the new method, and two said they found municipal politics, "too confusing."

"Too many names," said one woman.

One of those polled said she welcomed the new method because she is disabled and it will be much easier for her to vote at home.

Among the younger people polled, the idea of electronic voting had universal appeal.

One young mother said she was glad she wouldn't have to "bundle up the kids," and take them out while she voted, especially if the weather was bad.

Another man said he would be away on a trip during the voting period of Nov. 5-10, and thought it would be fun to vote from the southern USA, by Internet.

But although none of the 10 people in the18-30 age group had objections to the new method of voting, only five said they would actually be voting.

"Just not interested in politics," said one, while another, newly moved to the area, said she didn't know enough about the issues "to make an informed decision."

Surprisingly, the cost of the new voting procedure was not mentioned by any of the people polled, regardless of age. At an estimated cost of $50,000 the new method of voting is more expensive than the election of 2000, which cost the municipality $36,000.

Fears

Acclaimed Maxville candidate George Currier, who agreed the matter needed to be presented to municipal affairs, tried to bring some humour to the situation.

"It is not a good set-up for a candidate to invite people in for coffee and donuts and then to use their phone to vote," Mr. Currier said. "I can tell you, you do a lot better if you owned a bar."

Before council's discussion on candidate-sponsored help centres, the mayor addressed a rumour, circulating through the county, that people would be charged a fee to vote by the telephone. He put the matter to rest, saying the vote is a cost the township absorbs, not individual voters.

sit down with the clerk and deputy-clerk, make sure the tender is complete," Mayor Franklin suggested to fellow members. "And if it is anywhere in that range (they can approve it)."

The council turned over its financial powers to the clerk to avoid having idle contractors as the matter sat in front of a lame-duck council.

A lame-duck council is one which doesn't have 75 per cent of its sitting members as elected officials, Mr. Poirier explained to the The News.

"With council not meeting again before the election Nov. 10, this situation could face the present council if two or more candidates are defeated," Mr. Poirier said. From Nov. 11 until a new council is sworn in on Dec. 1, no spending projects over $50,000 can be approved. While granting extraordinary powers to the clerk, council decided to meet as a group on Friday at 2 p.m. to watch him make the tender decision.

Cornwall and SDG EMS, who provides the ambulance service for the counties, has encouraged all SDG municipalities to consider constructing the buildings that house the Ambulance Service in their area when their current leases come up for renewal.

The service is using a privately owned facility in Alexandria right now. The counties inherit costs of constructing the facility, the mayor said

Confusion a concern in North Glen as election nears

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

Public information sessions helped Champlain Township avoid the state of confusion that's rumbling through North Glengarry in the run-up to this year's telephone/Internet municipal election.

"We did a lot of promotion ahead of time," said Champlain township clerk/treasurer Robert Lefebvre, from his office in Vankleek Hill. Prior to the last municipal election, "We put ads in the paper, inserts in the tax bills, and held open houses."

North Glengarry hasn't been as pro-active in getting information out to the public. It put its first ad in The Glengarry News last week explaining the process. Information sheets, with voter's ID numbers and their passwords, which were supposed to go out Oct. 20, went out Oct. 27 because of delays. The township doesn't plan to hold information open houses, according to township clerk, Leo Poirier.

Voters are surprised and frustrated. Kenyon ward candidate Bob Linney said recently, "It is the biggest issue I am hearing when I go door to door."

Ward incumbent Julie Akkersmans raised the issue at an Oct. 14 meeting of council. Her biggest concern is people who don't have access to touch-tone phones.

The township "missed out on this one," according to mayoral candidate, Mike Depratto, who said "voters can't believe it when we tell them there are no polls this year." Mr. Depratto ran an ad in the Oct. 15 edition of The News advising voters of the change.

All the municipalities of SDG decided forego the traditional election system after voter turnout successes in Prescott Russell during the last municipal election.

"Our overall turnout was between the 75 and 80 per cent range," said Clerk/Treasurer Lefebvre, "compared to the high 60's (in the previous election)."

Still, Champlain Township's first telephone vote didn't go off without incident.

"Three years ago, at certain peak periods during the day people got busy signals, because I guess they hadn't provide enough lines," Mr. Lefebvre said. "We told people to come to come to the municipal office (where) we'd be able to provide them a line so they could vote."

The busy signal problem was a large enough disturbance that the telephone vote system provider, a subsidiary of Bell Canada, agreed to repay part of its earnings to Champlain Township.

Canvote, the first year telephone/Internet vote system provider out of L'Orignal, aims to erase the busy signal problem of its predecessor.

They have almost quadrupled the number of telephone lines available to voters, according to company president Joe Church.

"As I understand, the last time they did it, they had 96 lines for 17 municipalities," Mr. Church said. "This time we have 240 lines for 11 municipalities. In addition we have added Internet as an option, so that again should reduce the demand on telephone."

Closer to being like a conventional ballot, Mr. Church sees the Internet option to be an easier, faster and simpler method than the phone. But he concluded the two options allow for the voter to make his choice.

Canvote allows voters to practice, prior to election timeat their toll free number 1-888-401-vote(8683)and on their website at: www.canvote.ca.

Residents can begin voting for real at 9 a.m., Wednesday Nov. 5 through to 8 p.m., Monday Nov. 10.

Roads, taxes stir SG's election pot

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

High taxes and bad roads proved to be the major bones of contention at last Thursday night's all candidates meeting in Martintown.

Some 150 people packed the Martintown Community Centre to hear the 13 candidates for South Glengarry council discuss their views on these and other subjects.

Over the course of the evening, candidates and non-candidates alike repeatedly mentioned that taxes in South Glengarry have risen significantly this year. Michael McDonell, a Martintown resident who attended the meeting, was one of the first to mention that council collected $3.8 million in taxes this year while last year's total was a scant $2.5 million.

Incumbent mayoralty candidate Dave MacDonald said one of the reasons for the increase is that the municipality has many more responsibilities.

"We're responsible for the police, ambulances, our homes for the aged and this year we're responsible for the hospital restructuring too."

Incumbent Deputy Mayor Frank Prevost also noted that insurance rates have increased "dramatically."

"So if we want to continue on with the level of services we're providing, the taxpayers will have to foot the bill," he said.

Mr. Prevost's challenger, Charles Sangster, noted that a significant portion of South Glengarry's tax dollars go to the counties.

"We reduced taxes in 1999 but the taxes have increased each year," he said. "If elected, I will scrutinize all departments to keep a low tax base."

While most of the councillor candidates agree that taxes are too high, they differ on the methods in which taxes could be reduced. Councillor candidate Carol Ann Ross maintained that increases in assessments and mill rates were responsible for higher taxes. She also told ratepayers that they should appeal their tax bills if they felt their assessment was too high.

Incumbent Janette Abbey said that the Ontario government holds a "monopoly" on municipal assessments and that it needs to be lobbied to bring about change. She also pushed for more economic development along the 401.

Councillor candidate John Warden made no bones about his position declaring: he's "tired of reckless spending.

"I want to put money back in your pocket, not (council's.)" he said.

Councillor candidate Bill Madden said that any surplus council has should be spent on roads.

Speaking of roads, Sharon Simonelis, of Lancaster, asked the candidates if they believed contracting road services out to private companies would save the municipality any money.

Mr. Lounsberry and fellow councillor candidate, Ian McLeod, said it was an idea worth exploring. Mr. McLeod said that when Ontario's Ministry of Transportation outsourced its contract work, it saved between 7 to 15 per cent. However, he was quick to note that this practice may not work in a smaller municipality.

Councillor candidate George Johann was not a fan of this idea at all.

"When the Ministry of Transportation outsourced that work, it took two years to teach the contractors on the 401 how to do the job right," he said. "What will the 15 per cent savings cost us?"

Councillor candidate Joyce Gravelle noted that many of the realized savings would be eaten up through issuing severance packages to South Glengarry's road service employees.

But the evening wasn't entirely about taxes and roads. At one point, mayoral candidate and present councillor, Jim McDonell, was challenged on South Glengarry's partnership with the Glengarry Sports Palace in Alexandria. Mr. McDonell, who sits on South Glengarry's recreation committee, was asked why the municipality didn't sell its 25 per cent interest in the Palace and use the money on the Williamstown arena or even to fix up the Martintown Community Centre.

Mr. McDonell noted that while the Sports Palace might be in North Glengarry, it still serves a significant number of people in South Glengarry's north end.

"Some of the kids in South Glengarry prefer to play in Alexandria," he said. "Some kids play until 10:30 in the evening. If (we brought all those kids down to Williamstown) we might have too many kids and we'd have to throw them off the ice."

Mr. MacDonald was less accommodating.

"Every year we pay $29,000-$32,000 to the Glengarry Sports Palace and our numbers are decreasing," he said. "We have a deficit and an asset is only an asset when you can sell it for something."

The recently nixed SuperBuild project in Smithfield Park also proved to be somewhat of a controversial point.

Earlier this fall, ratepayers voted against building a new community centre in the interest of saving money. Councillor candidate Victoria Stewart noted that some councillors chose to oppose the will of the ratepayers, even going so far as to call this "anti-democracy."

Ms. Stewart added that Martintown's next project should be a new fire station.

Challenger, incumbent square off in Lochiel

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

Over the past two weeks, residents of Lochiel ward in North Glengarry were treated to two meet-the-candidates evenings that wound up being showdowns between a veteran politician and an optimstic newcomer to the political game.

Incumbent Lochiel ward Councillor Ron McDonell exchanged views with Wendy MacPherson at the Glen Robertson Community Centre on Oct. 17 and at Laggan Public School on Oct. 24.

Each of the debates drew about 80 people, who asked a myriad of questions on subjects as diverse as intensive hog farms, economic development, and caring for the community's seniors.

At both events, Mrs. MacPherson told the audience that she had two major planks in her platform.

"I want to record all council meetings," she said. "It doesn't matter if it's video or audio. I just want to ensure that every word can be heard again so we can clear up any misconceptions."

She also pushed for greater accountability for councillors, especially when it comes to examining their individual expense reports.

For his part, Mr. MacDonell reminded voters that before amalgamation took place, Lochiel ward had the lowest taxes, the best roads, and the most reserves. His platform consists of improving the roads, installing new bridges, and upgrading the lagoon system by 2005. He also said that seniors in the community need a new van and that procuring one should be a priority.

But Mr. MacDonell ran into some controversy at both debates when Frances Fraser, of Dalkeith, questioned him on his place of residence.

"You're not neighbours to the people you serve," she told Mr. MacDonell, who now lives near Bainsville. "It's important to me that my councillor lives in my area. So I want to know if you're moving back."

Mr. MacDonell said that while he's not moving back, his place of residence shouldn't neutralize his effectiveness as an elected official. He said that he owns a lot of land in North Glengarry and that he spends a lot of time here.

"(Living outside of North Glengarry) is not a hindrance to me at all," he said.

Mrs. MacPherson disagreed.

"I strongly believe that you should live in the place where you are running for election," she said. "It bothers me that our councillor doesn't live here."

Agriculture was also a strong bone of contention at the meetings. At the Glen Robertson meeting, Dalkeith's Deborah Henderson, speaking on behalf of Concerned Citizens of North Glengarry, challenged both candidates to explain how intensive hog farms will stimulate economic growth.

She also asked if the candidates would be willing to undertake a water study of all the wells within a three km radius of an intensive hog farm in North Glengarry.

Mr. MacDonell said that intensive hog farms are a reality because the face of agriculture is changing.

"The small family farm is not viable these days," he says. "But I say that these large factory farms will be well run. Farmers are spending $500,000 on their farms and if they don't do things right, they will be shut down."

He added that these farms will be monitored carefully and that council would certainly look at the possibility of conducting a detailed water study.

Mrs. MacPherson said that after visiting a modern hog farm, she became confident that it wouldn't harm her family. She said that all farms will contribute to the economic development of the area but she hopes that the smell of these farms will not turn property values down.

Later on, the candidates were challenged on a more historical angle. Sparked by the recent levelling of an old house on the corner of Main and Lochiel in Alexandria, a resident asked what North Glengarry council would do to "stop people from knocking down the good-looking buildings."

Mr. MacDonell confessed that the recent levelling happened pretty fast and was done through the school board. He suggested that if someone wanted to keep that building so badly then someone should have bought it.

Mrs. MacPherson suggested a committee could give the town planner a list of good homes that need to be protected.

At the Laggan meeting, the candidates were asked if they would support a plebiscite vote that would restrict smoking in North Glengarry's restaurants.

Mr. MacDonell said that such an issue should be handled on a provincial basis.

"Council discussed it before but we felt it was a provincial recommendation," he said. "(Such a move) could drive people out of businesses so if it's going to be done, it has to be done provincially."

Mrs. MacPherson said that as a mother of three small children, she very much appreciates going to a non-smoking model. She also took a shot at North Glengarry's present council for refusing to take the issue seriously.

"Council really dropped the ball last February when they could have put that issue on a ballot," she said. "But they said no. They said they didn't care. That's appalling."

She added that while she favoured smoke-free restaurants, she realized that bars should remain as smoking establishments.

Election Notebook

Still undecided as to who you want to support in the upcoming municipal election?

If the answer is yes, then you may want to attend an all candidates meeting (ACM).

In North Glengarry, an ACM is planned for the Kenyon ward voters at the Apple Hill Community Hall on Oct. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

On Nov. 3, another ACM for the Alexandria ward will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace at 7:30 p.m.

If you live in South Glengarry, there's only one opportunity left to hear what all the candidates have to say.

Election road show a hit with South Glengarry voters

If it was a broadway production, the municipal election road show in South Glengarry would be considered a runaway hit, playing to full and overflowing houses during the first two performances on its four-stop tour, and promising to attract full houses in its last two stops in Williamstown last night (Oct. 28) and on Nov. 5 in Glen Walter.

While it's certainly a strong indication of community interest in SG, it also demonstrates a degree of respect for the effort and commitment shown by the 13 candidates who allowed their names to stand for municipal office.

One of the more interesting permutations of this particular election campaign is the different dynamic developing between the race for the three councillor seats and that of mayor and deputy-mayor.

At the first two meetings, the candidates for the two higher-profile posts, mayor and deputy-mayor, were mostly reserved and, on occasion, somewhat nervous – a surprising development considering that all four are veteran campaigners. The exact opposite is the case at the councillor level with the non-incumbents, in particular, with almost all of them particularly eager to get their message out.

Of course, at this point with nine candidates vying for just three positions, the non incumbents recognize that they have little to lose and much to gain by being able to make an impression on the voters.

For the most part, it should be noted that all the candidates are getting a courteous reception from the voters in general, accompanied by generous applause at the conclusion of each of their remarks.

Although the schedule for all-candidates meetings in North Glengarry did not start until last night (Tuesday Oct. 28), two meetings for Lochiel Ward council candidates have already been held with good turnouts and some spirited discussion between the candidates, incumbent Ron MacDonell and challenger Wendy MacPherson, and interested residents who attended the meeting. Not surprisingly, there has been considerable interest at the meetings over mega hog barns but this is one issue where the candidates, for the most part, are on the same page.

The forest fires in British Columbia this past summer captured the attention of many people, including this observer whose father and youngest brother reside in Kelowna. Although the residences of both family members are located in the city's south end, neither of their homes were among the 30,000 designated for evacuation at the height of the fire even though that area was most at risk. Still, there were a few anxious moments, both here and there, as the flames began to work their way through Kelowna's outskirts, particularly as reports through the national media heightened one's anxiety. Once the fires began to subside, however, and the danger passed, one's concern turned to the long-term impact of the fires. As anyone who has visited Kelowna and the Okanagan in general can attest, it is one of the most beautiful areas in this country, featuring a rare combination of towering mountains, verdant forests, sparkling lakes, and miles and miles of both vineyards and desert, often inhabiting the same space. The last two elements are a curious juxtaposition that alone would make the area rare, but when added to the mountains, forests and lakes raises it to a higher level of splendour.

OBSERVATIONS

JT GROSSMITH

So, it was with some degree of trepidation that I arrived in Kelowna for my annual visit on the Thanksgiving weekend. Given the thousands of acres consumed by the fires' onslaught, the natural concern remained as to how much damage would be visible to the naked eye? Thankfully, such is not the case. In fact, a casual observer would not even be aware of the potential catastrophe that seemed so imminent just a month earlier. From a distance, on the ground, one has to strain one's eyes to register even the least detectable signs of damage.

With a little prompting from those familiar with the exact location of the fires, you can discern the variances in colour, along the most southeastern portion of the mountains that ring the city, thereby distinguishing between the living and damaged portions of forest. It's important to make the distinction between damaged and destroyed because even many of the areas hardest hit by the fire still show signs of greenery and life.

One thing that can't be overstated, however, is the capricious nature of fires. There are an equal number of instances where only one or two homes were destroyed in a block or, correspondingly, only one or two survived. In some cases, it appears that the fires even skipped over houses while demolishing others on each side. In the forested areas, the fires sometimes cut hundred-yard swaths along the side of the hill while leaving undamaged larger areas both above and below the fire zones.

Finally, because most of the foliage consists of coniferous trees such as pines, the fires seemed to move through the upper reaches of the trees leaving the lower portions either undamaged or less damaged. At its worst, the fires even leaped hundreds of feet over cleared areas from one treetop to another – much to the despair of firemen and volunteers who had worked feverishly to establish fire blocks in the hopes of stopping or limiting the devastation. Nonetheless, the effects of the fires on the people of the Okanagan and the landscape will be felt for years

Thorns & Thistles

THORN – New ambulances needed.

Anybody who has owned a vehicle would be surprised to learn that ambulances aren't holding up under wear and tear for even 4 1/2 years of usage. After all, many new vehicles today carry five-year warranties.

But, in effect, that's what Counties' Council members were told by local ambulance manager Heather Arthur at their October meeting.

As a result, SDG may have to put up the cash in 2004 for three new ambulances even though these vehicles are normally funded by the provincial government – all because the replacements would be required earlier than the 54-month replacement program that's currently in effect.

Among the reasons cited for the need for replacements is the fact that the ambulances are often required to make trips to Ottawa and, as a result, are subject to more wear and tear.

Still, it makes you wonder what the experience is for ambulances in larger urban centres which face the wear and tear of heavier traffic on a regular basis.

Given the circumstances, we would encourage the Counties to put this issue near the top of the agenda when the new council is sworn in later this year.

THORN – Consoltex plant to close.

For weeks now we've been worrying in this space about the fate of the Alexandria Consoltex plant. For the moment, it seems that the worst-case scenario has come true with the announcement of plans to close the plant next June.

Needless to say, the impact would be considerable for North Glengarry, but the impact would also be felt in South Glengarry, albeit to a much-lesser extent.

Dealing with this issue will test the capabilities of all concerned.

THISTLE – Building freeze may end soon.

It's funny how when one door closes, as in the case of Consoltex, another opens.

In this instance, North Glengarry has been working for some time towards getting its building freeze lifted and the recent announcement is a major step in that direction.

How much growth and development the community has lost during the 15-year freeze is difficult to estimate. One thing that's certain is that it can never be recouped.

Still, there's no point crying over spilt milk. After all, this new approach to treating sewage is much less costly and, in a sense, more environmentally friendly than the options that would have been available back in the late 80s.

THORN – Severance request denied.

Given the concern over environmental issues these days, it's easy to see why SG's Planning Advisory Committee (PAC) took the cautious route and recommended against allowing a Summerstown company's application to sever its land.

The issue, however, shouldn't be whether the company is trying to avoid having to do an environmental study but, rather, whether one is really needed.

If, as pointed out, all the new buildings are using one septic system, then it would be a no-brainer. But given the fact that there are two septic systems in place, council and the PAC and council might be well-advised to take a second look at the issue.

Most municipalities today welcome clean, light manufacturing of the kind now in place at Summerstown with open arms.

When it comes to voting, I'm selfish

PEN IN HAND

STEVEN WARBURTON

I have a confession to make: I don't vote like ordinary people.

Most Glengarrians are preparing to vote by weighing their priorities. Some want lower taxes, some want better roads, some want intensive hog farms to go away and some want assurance that their drinking water will be as unpolluted as the Garden of Eden.

Not me. I'm not voting for any of these reasons.

For a single man like myself, who does not own property, I'm not so concerned about tax rates. What I am concerned about, as a journalist, is my ability to write interesting news stories that will continue to make The Glengarry News the best newspaper in the whole wide world.

So when I vote, the only thing I'm concerned about is making council as interesting as possible. This is because the more interesting the council is, the more things I'll have to write about.

I've been covering municipal councils for about three years now and, quite frankly, sometimes it's as dull as dishwater.

I covered one council meeting in Alberta where the most interesting thing decided was that the local theatre troupe should be allowed to hang a banner over Main Street. That's about as exciting as blowing your nose.

I always get nervous when I see politicians getting acclaimed to their positions because it indicates that absolutely everyone in their riding is 100 per cent satisfied with the status quo. A long time ago, I discovered that the number of councillors acclaimed is in direct proportion to the level of boredom at any council meeting.

One of the best times I had covering an election was in Brighton, Ontario. The election coincided with an amalgamation, so the entire area had its 12 seats dwindle down to seven. Add to that a bunch of incumbents and hopefuls and we had ourselves an extremely exciting campaign.

There was one guy, a retired civil engineer, who scared the living daylights out of everyone with stories about how a nearby landfill was going to poison the drinking water and the municipality had better spend millions of dollars making sure that didn't happen. The engineer did not get elected.

I voted for him. Why? Because I knew he would have made council meetings interesting. He would have given me something to write about.

I also voted for two candidates who hated each other's guts. (This was painfully obvious to everyone in town. I am not editorializing.) That way, when they came to fisticuffs over the mill rate, I automatically had myself a front page story (and maybe a front page picture too.)

In North Glengarry, I am still undecided as to who will win my vote, Bill Franklin or Mike Depratto. (And if I knew who I was voting for, I would hardly share it here.)

One thing's for sure though, if one of the mayoral candidates was a raving lunatic who dressed in grass skirts and silk pajamas and whose main platform was that council should build a UFO landing base in the middle of town, I would definitely consider voting for him.

Why? Because he or she (or it) would make council meetings interesting. Happy voting.

For over 40 years, the good people of Glen Robertson have been putting on a delicious harvest supper in the basement of Paroisse St-Martin-de-Tours Parish. I had the pleasure of attending this heavenly feast last Sunday and not even the heavy rainfall that dogged Glengarry all weekend could dampen the spirits.

Over 200 volunteers prepared and served a meal that consisted of 38 turkeys, 150 pounds of minced pork, and 80 dozen buns. I also had the privilege of meeting a 101-year old Glen Robertson resident, Hugh McDonell, whose appetite was just as healthy as mine.

Student vote

On October 1st, the grades 5 to 8 students at Williamstown Public School took part in "Kids Voting Canada."

Mme. Emond and the student council ran the elections where 138 students were eligible to vote.

Polling stations were set up in every classroom. In their History or Social Studies classes the students learned about the candidates, researched the party platforms, read newspapers and made a decision on which candidate was best.

Students were surprised but pleased to see how the school results and the official results were very similar: Liberal Party-55; Progressive Conservatives-36; New Democratic Party-21; Green Party-11; Independent-4.

Three students abstained from voting, three ballots were spoiled, one protest vote was cast and four students were absent from school. The students look forward to doing this again because it was a great learning experience. Many of them felt they should be allowed to vote in the regular elections since they were so knowledgeable of the issues. Thank you.

Appalling situation

I would like to inform our community of an appalling situation of a most upset mother of two young children treated in a most insensitive and unconscionable manner by one of our corporate citizens whose main duty is to provide an essential service.

Upon arrival at her new residence, she decided to contact the gas company Enbridge Gas Distribution Inc. to activate the gas service which provides heat to her new home.

She was told that the gas connection could not be activated until the former occupant had settled his unpaid bill. She tried to reason with the gas company that she should not be the brunt of Enbridge Gas Distribution Inc. punitive measures because of another occupant's default of payment.

Not only was Enbridge adamant about not providing heat to her home and family during a cold week of autumn but the insensitive, arrogant and demeaning manner in which she was treated shows that this company has no respect for people, their potential customers.

When she phoned she was made to wait on the line from one half hour to an hour and a half.

It was only after she paid the full payment of the last occupant's bill that the gas service was restored. She had to do something. One of her children had already caught a cold. It was a cold week.

There has to be some government regulation that prevents these mega corporations, to whom our society has entrusted such a vital service as heating, from withdrawing their service because of another person's unpaid bill.

What I am asking Enbridge Gas Distribution Inc. is to state publicly its policy regarding this matter wherein a former occupant's unpaid bill is imposed on a newly arrived tenant.

A little transparency is needed here. Let the consumers know through the media what your policy is regarding this situation.

Wrong message

Not only are these children under age, they belong to the Ontario 4-H Association, which has a "No Drinking" policy.

We should all continue to support the 4-H motto, "Learn to do, by doing." Giving Beer Steins is not what we want the kids to learn.

A concerned parent.

Letters To The Editor

In response

Dave MacDonald
/ Mayor, South Glengarry

Re: Evaluate Options, Jim McDonell (Oct. 8).

In response to this letter, it is my duty to state all the facts in regards to the two projects in question.

The Martintown Community Centre was discussed at length during the November 2002 strategic planning session. It was added to our "spring roads tour" on May 14/03 when council had a first-hand look at both the interior and exterior of the facility. A motion was tabled at the May 26 council meeting, seconded by Councillor McDonell and passed to proceed for design and consultation regarding necessary renovations.

As a result of a delegation to council this motion was deferred. On August 6/03, a public meeting was held with all 33 user-groups present. Their position was quite clear: if a new building meant higher taxes, this was not an option. Correcting the deficiencies of the present building and implementing a preventative maintenance program was the resounding will of the majority of the people attending the meeting.

We can ill-afford knocking down buildings at the expense of the new ones when all areas of our municipality have not been served. It is our fiscal responsibility to use tax dollars wisely and to not incur long term liabilities and debt.

In regards to the Smithfield Hall Project, the actual costs for engineering design and drawings were $19,823 not $50,000 as stated by Councillor McDonell. In the end, a committee of three brought forward a plan that they thought would be in the best interest of the community. It would see the library and seniors moved from their existing locations, whether they wanted to or not. The estimate of $800,000 would be covered by the local community and taxation.

At the final meeting, not one community group identified themselves as having the ability to pledge financially towards this 6,000 square feet facility. A project like this would be setting a standard that we cannot live up to in all other areas that we serve. Ironically, refurbishing the park and enhancing the playground equipment, that we will now proceed with, is exactly what was being requested almost five years ago when the idea of the project began.

New facilities will only become an option if and when the taxpayers agree to pay for them.

All the facts

I would like to thank Mr. Charles Thompson of Martintown for the opportunity to support my record as Reeve of South Glengarry, 1998 through 2000. In 1999 total spending was reduced for South Glengarry by $278,850. In 2000 there was a spending increase of $17,900 for which I was ultimately responsible. However, the tax rate for all taxpayers dropped.

a) The rules regarding farmland came into effect in 1998, so there is no change here. b) Capping commercial, industrial and multi-residential tax rates have no effect on the total dollars spent. c) Assessments on Churches, schools and government properties have been tax exempt for generations. d) There has not been any provincial downloading to South Glengarry. All the downloading was to S.D.&G. e) Provincial grants covered 41.35% of the operating costs for the Municipality of South Glengarry in 2002.

I do not have the provincial contribution for 2003. These facts are for South Glengarry and can be obtained from the township office.

Charles Sangster / Bainsville

Dropped the ball

The North Glengarry Township Mayor and his council have taken upon themselves to introduce a new voting system which is voting by telephone or the Internet. The system is creating mass confusion among citizens, especially our honourable seniors.

South Glengarry Township had the forethought and courtesy of sending flyers to their citizens with the necessary information well in advance. North Glengarry should learn from South Glengarry and follow their example and not keep us in the dark. As of this date, the only available information is through an advert placed in The Glengarry News by the candidate for Mayor, Mike Depratto, at no cost to the township. Personally, I think that it is a real shame for the Mayor and Council in keeping the citizens of North Glengarry without proper information on such an important subject. After all, this way of voting is strange to us and hopefully it will be the first time and the last time this unorthodox system will be used here.

I certainly hope that our new Mayor eliminates this system during his mandate because all the people I've spoken with are vehemently and totally opposed to this system. In a true democracy, the right to vote is one of the most cherished and personal rights we have, but as it is now, the right to choose the preferred method of voting is non-existent in North Glengarry. I hear through the grapevine that candidate meetings are being organized and apparently the Lochiel ward is being left out...What is wrong with Lochiel?A frustrated, disgusted North Glengarry citizen and taxpayer.

Noel Lajoie / Alexandria

Ill informed

Like Hugh A. MacMillan (Oct. 8), I also am most reluctant to write yet again about the mega hog farm issue. It is a "done deal" and, like most people, I'm tired of even thinking about it. But, Mr. MacMillan's many assertions, assumptions and jumbled facts cannot be left unchallenged. Given the virtual overkill of correspondence, comments etc., produced on this issue, it is surprising that he still seems to be so ill informed.

Let me address sequentially the various points he raises. First, the Supreme Court ruling with respect to a Quebec challenge concerning the spraying of insecticides does have relevance. The legal case was specifically based on toxic poisoning and endangerment to health. How can Mr. MacMillan possibly believe that waste from intensive hog farming is not dangerous? For his edification, many of the dangers are well documented in the July 2003 newsletter of the Citizens for the Environment and Future of Eastern Ontario. He can also access numerous scientific papers on the subject, either through the Internet or from a library. There will be direct contamination of the water table, a reduction of volumes in the aquifers and, contrary to Mr. MacMillan's assertion, there will be far-reaching emissions of toxic gases, some with and others without accompanying nauseous odours. He should take a look at the horrifying list of serious health hazards that can result from these airborne pollutants. Quite apart from water pollution originating from high concentrations of animal fecal matter accompanied by a variety of chemical reactions, surely Mr. MacMillan is aware that current farming practices include the administration of growth hormones and antibiotics. These substances are excreted, subsequently flushed out and also drained into the water systems.

Mr. MacMillan states that odours are well-dissipated beyond distances in excess of a kilometre. Nothing could be further from the truth. However, as a Dalkeith resident he will eventually find this out for himself. He gravely distorts the issue by trivializing the involvement of Deborah Henderson and Richard Kerr. His dismissal of Mr. Kerr as "another anti-hog organizer" is insulting. Furthermore, he asserts that the Mayor has been harassed, yet chooses to ignore the fact that the Mayor has been less than exemplary. Although I have never met any of the players on either side of this issue, I believe that Ms. Henderson and Mr. Kerr are to be congratulated for their commitment to their community and their willingness to act as spokespersons for those who are opposed to intensive hog farming. It is never easy when one is unexpectedly thrust into the forefront of activism. Mr. MacMillan reduces his arguments to finger pointing, but the specifics of the process, of exactly who met whom, when and where, who was gracious and who was not, only serve to distract from the fundamentals of the case. This is not a frivolous issue and it is an error to try to reduce it to a mere disagreement of opposing opinions. Even if there had been no opposition of any kind, the Mayor and Council should have at least taken the matter under serious professional advisement. However, they chose to ignore the experiences of other jurisdictions as well as the recommendations of the Canadian Medical Association and the Medical Officer of Eastern Ontario. Thus, members of the administration have only themselves to blame for the ensuing criticism.

Mr. MacMillan naively believes the Crookses' operation will bear little resemblance to other Canadian and international mega hog operations. All of them started in a modest way. But, once the underlying corporate promoters recognized the potential, coupled with an absence of controls, the operations grew exponentially as did the destruction of communities.

It was amusing to read Mr. MacMillan's contention that there has been underhanded criticism of the Mayor. Actually, criticism has been overt, frequent and well grounded in fact. The only underhanded action that I can detect lies with the Mayor and Council. To the best of my knowledge, they have never publicly explained why scientific evidence and the recommendations of top level medical experts were completely ignored.

I believe that Mr. MacMillan does not have a real understanding of the scope of the Crookses' 3,000 animal operation. Let me try to put it into context. When entering Alexandria from the south on route 34, there is a sign announcing the name of the town and giving a population the size of 3,300. Thus, for almost every man, woman and child in Alexandria, there will be a hog on the Crookses' farm. Just imagine that number of humans crammed together on a farm, without water treatment and sewage systems! I don't even know if the permit specifies who will verify the hog count and what sanctions there are, if any, should the operations exceed the stated number.

Apart from the eventual negative changes in rural North Glengarry, there are several other tragedies linked to this matter. Those who are actively opposing the project have had their personal lives disrupted and have lost much of their precious free time in raising public awareness. The members of Council have lost much of their credibility. Perhaps the greatest tragedy of all has to do with the Mayor. He has actively demonstrated his commitment to the environment through his involvement with the Raisin Region Conservation Authority. As a Councillor, his active and energetic commitment to the community during the ice storm crisis is still remembered with admiration and much gratitude. He has applied himself diligently to the duties of his office. It is indeed sad to see his credibility and reputation so badly sullied over the issue of a mess of hogs!

TDJ expansion necessary for growing student body

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

Alexandria's École Terre des Jeunes may very well be one of the fastest growing schools in the province. Its principal, Paul Hurtubise, says his school needs more space because more and more students are enrolling in his school.

"When I came here in the 1999-2000 school year, we had 80 students," says Mr. Hurtubise. "Today we're up to 250."

The student explosion has made for some fairly trying circumstances at the school. Mr. Hurtubise says that all of his classrooms, including four portables, are full. He adds that he's had to cap several of his classrooms and that he already has several prospective students on a waiting list.

"I could have hired another teacher to accommodate the students but I just didn't have the space," he said. "Whenever special ed people come into the school and ask for some one-on-one time with a student, all I can offer them is my office or the bathroom."

With circumstances like that, it's no wonder that Mr. Hurtubise says his school needs to expand.

"We had to get two portable classrooms in 2001 and another two in 2002," he says. "We don't have room for more portables. We're operating at a capacity of 175 per cent."

Mr. Hurtubise says that many of the school's students come from other school boards such as the French Catholic and the English Public. In fact, Mr. Hurtubise estimates that 80 per cent of his students are Catholic.

Unlike the French Catholic school board, the French public board only has one elementary school in Alexandria – Terre des Jeunes. The Catholics have schools dotted around Glengarry, although three of its schools in Green Valley, Lancaster, and North Lancaster will soon amalgamate into one bigger school.

So Terre des Jeunes' exclusivity in Glengarry is one reason why its numbers are so high. But Mr. Hurtubise, who has a background in special education, says another reason could be that his school pays a lot of attention to students with special needs.

"We have a kid with Cystic Fibrosis, two kids with Cerebral Palsy, and one kid in a wheelchair," he says. "All of them are fully integrated into the curriculum."

He added that his school also has a strong track record of working with students with learning disabilities.

For her part, Monique St. Denis says she's glad she switched her daughter, Michelle, from École Ste. Marie in Green Valley to Terre des Jeunes in 2001.

"My daughter was having difficulty in school and her previous school did not provide her with help," she says. "Now that she's (at Terre des Jeunes), her grades have gone up by 75 per cent."

Another parent, Richard Robinson, says his daughter had failed Grade one at her previous school, Ste. Marie. Now that she's at Terre des Jeunes, he says she's doing very well.

Christine De Repentigny is one of the most recent parents to "make the switch." She transferred all three of her kids from St. Bernard in Maxville and brought them to Terre des Jeunes.

"(The old school) had a small population and I was scared that my kids were going to be in a triple class," she says.

"If they're in single classes, they will get a better education. There will be more one on one time."

She added that Terre des Jeunes also had several programs, such as music, that children can take advantage of.

"My oldest daughter just returned from Ottawa, where she was taking part in an ultimate frisbee competition," she says. "I don't think she'd get that in Maxville."

Although they transferred their children from Catholic schools, neither Mrs. St. Denis, Mr. Robinson, or Mrs. De Repentigny say they regret the loss of the Catholic component.

"I don't miss it because our family goes to church every Sunday," she says. "I don't think it's the school's responsibility to teach the students values and morals. I think it's mine."

Another parent, Natalie St. Denis, disagrees. She transferred her daughter, Miah Giroux from the French Catholic École Elda Rouleau in Alexandria and enrolled her at Terre des Jeunes. Later, she put her daughter back at Elda Rouleau.

"I sent my daughter to Terre des Jeunes because of a particular teacher," she says. "I sent her back to Elda Rouleau because I missed the religious component of the education."

Lise Prieur, principal of Elda Rouleau, says that instilling Catholic morality in students is certainly beneficial.

"When I meet students outside and they're having an argument, I can say 'I wonder what Jesus would say if he saw this.'"

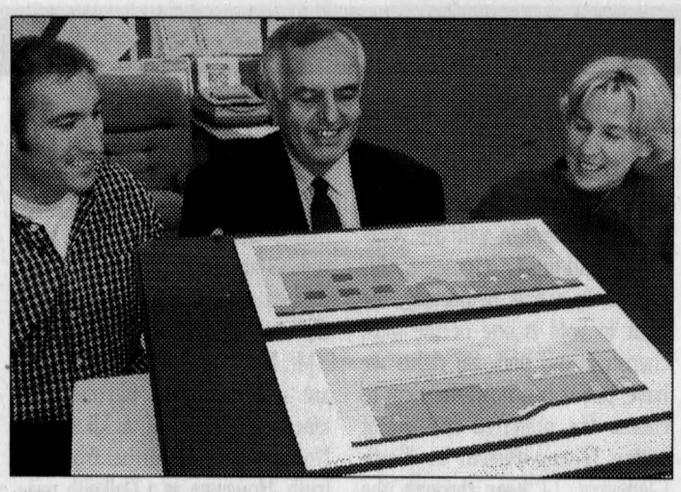
She added that the French Catholic board is no slouch when it comes to special education either.

"We have special education classes with their own teachers," she says. "We give those students special attention."

According to Ontario Ministry of Education statistics, Conseil scolaire de district catholique de l'Est ontarien has experienced a decline in the number of students in recent years. In the 2000-2001 school year, there were 10,208 elementary students in the region. In the 2001-2002 year, that total fell to 9,946.

But school board sources say that's certainly not because parents are growing disenfranchised with French Catholic education. Rather, it's because families are getting smaller.

"Instead of having 100 students in pre-kindergarten, today we'll have five," said a board source who asked not to be identified. "Farms are getting bigger and that means there are less students."



THE PLANS: St. Finnan's principal Michael Crossan, Catholic District School Board of Eastern Ontario Chairperson Ron Eamer, and Heather Barillaro, Chair of the Catholic School Council, look over an artistic rendering of what St. Finnan's will look like once its new 4,300 square foot gymnasium is completed.
The board hopes construction will begin in spring so that the gym will be ready by next September.
This is one of two major building projects in Glengarry by the Catholic District School Board of Eastern Ontario this year. The board is also building a new school in South Glengarry.

Demolishing old house 'favour to community,' French board claims

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

French public school board officials are defending the board's decision to knock down an old Alexandria house to make way for an expansion of a nearby school.

On Oct. 10, the Conseil des écoles publiques de l'Est de l'Ontario arranged for a house it owned at 195 Main St. to be levelled so that the nearby École Terre des Jeunes could expand in the near future.

The decision has raised the ire of groups such as the North Glengarry Local Architectural Advisory Committee (LACAC), which says that the house was a historical treasure for the community and that the board should have explored other venues if it needs a larger space.

"Rather than knock down that house, I'd recommend that (Terre des Jeunes) move into the (vacant) Alexander school," says Dane Lanken, a LACAC member. "It's a bigger school and it has many expansion opportunities."

But Lucie Boileau, spokesperson with the Conseil des écoles publiques de l'Est de l'Ontario, says that the board looked at the Alexander school and found it lacking.

"The Alexander school did not fit our needs," she said.

"It was too small. Besides, why should we buy another school when we already have the one at Terre des Jeunes?"

Terre des Jeunes' principal, Paul Hurtubise, added that the Alexander school would require some intense renovations.

He also mentioned that the school board had already invested over $1 million in Terre des Jeunes renovations when it gained possession of the school in 1998.

In fact, Ms. Boileau contends that the board did the community a favour by knocking the house down.

"The house may have looked nice from the outside, but from the inside, it was not liveable," she said.

"We probably did the community a service by levelling it."

The board acquired the land where the house was located last summer at a cost of about $160,000.

New stop signs installed in NG

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

The North Glengarry roads department has installed two new stop signs on Bishop Street at Elgin, to slow down traffic at the crosswalk near the Florence Villa and Le Foyer senior residence.

Crews also took on another trouble stop at the intersection of Bishop and Peel. Customers of the B&B Market park on both sides of the streets, says roads' department supervisor Jean-Guy Levert. He said there was a recent accident at this site. Two signs were added to the intersection.

Finally the department installed two sets of signs on West Boundary Road, behind the Dessureault Independent Grocer.

"The problem is speed here," Mr. Levert said. "People are using it as a raceway."

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

It was at an Arts Festival in Glen Walter in 1999, that I first met Jean-Pierre Bourdeau. His portraits of his family and some well known local people impressed me...his ability to catch the essence of a person. To do that in a painting is one of the most difficult challenges for an artist. It's the eyes – anything else can be slightly off but if you can feel the person looking at you, you've succeeded.

Well, when I met J.P. again, it was a surprise to find that he has turned his talent to painting furniture. Not at all what I expected to find when he invited me over to his Lancaster home. I should add that his work in general is classical in style. His home reflects this with its dark, warm wood paneling, richly upholstered furniture and candles that lend a romantic feel to his home which he shares with his wife, Sharon. Even his delightful studio in his garden is far from the usual – it is a perfect background for the exquisite pine furniture that J.P. makes and then paints.

"I finally did it." J.P. told me.

"When I first met you I was talking about building my studio and here it is."

A teacher for 35 years, 20 of which he served as a principal, J.P. had studied for a degree in visual arts and wrote the curriculum programs for the Separate School Board.

He retired in 1998 but, as all of us who are supposedly retired know, life usually gets busier.

"I retired in 1998 but certainly not from painting." J.P. said with a smile. "I have always drawn but when I was 11 years old my dad gave me a box of oil paints. I asked him what I was supposed to do with them and he explained that they were to add colour to my drawings. So I did and I have been painting ever since."

His portrait ability has lead him to paint Bishop Larocque for the Cornwall Diocese Archives.

While also doing landscapes, he primarily did portraits.

How did he make the switch from incredibly difficult, time consuming and exacting portraiture to furniture.

"After my father died, he left me some of his tools," J.P. explained. "I got some chisels from my brother and got myself a router. The only tools I use are a jig saw, the old plane of my father's, a router and chisels. Occasionally I use a drill but that is all. I use pine and for some of the embellishments, I buy already made ornamentation."

What I like about J.P.'s furniture is the richness. Whatever the scene is that he paints on the pieces of furniture, they are only a small part of the overall item. One particular cupboard I fell in love with shows a Krieghoff influence.

It is a team of horses coming from a maple syrup camp.

Where it is unusual is that one of the knots in the pine is placed so that it looks like a moon shining through the trees.

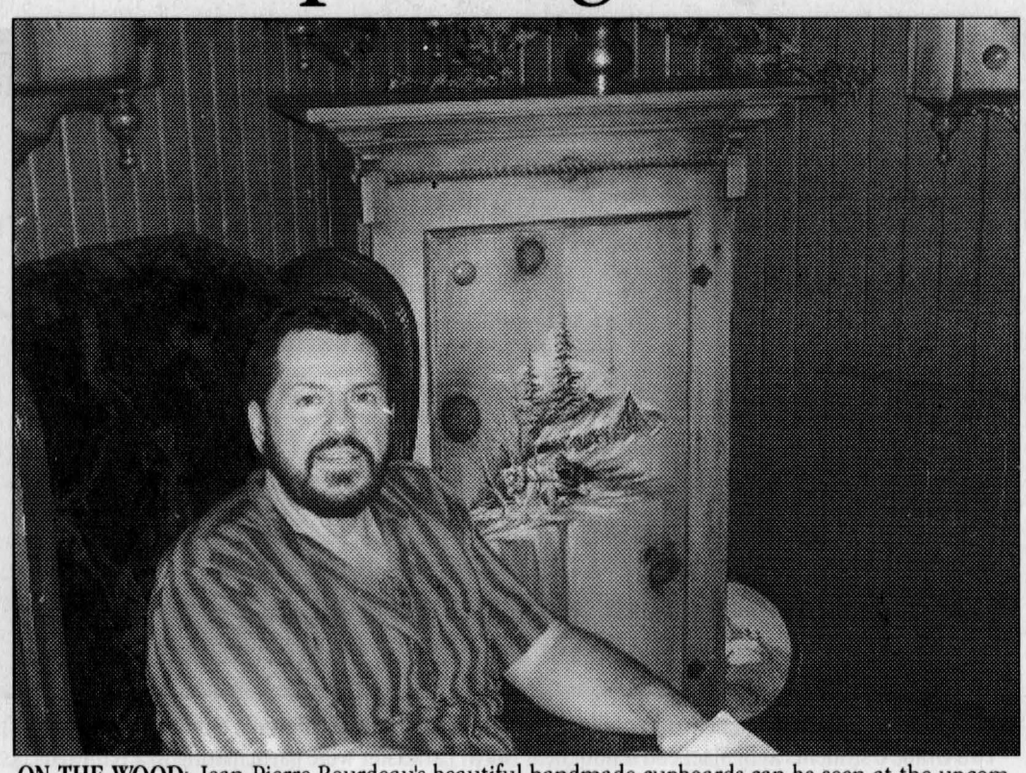
Oil based stains further enrich the look and J.P. uses layers of varnish.

"I didn't start with cupboards." J.P. told me. "My first attempt was a jewellery box, then a cutlery box, then a small cupboard and now I produce full size standing cupboards. I don't produce a lot because there are 30-40 hours of work in each one. Probably I produce six to seven a year. I try to emulate the Masters in all my work and while I tried acrylics, I prefer oils. I received a compliment when someone asked me where I got the antiques to paint on. I explained that I made them."

"I have so much to learn." J.P. told me as we sat drinking coffee and eating some delicious cookies Sharon had made for the occasion. "I search for self accomplishment – I'm in competition with myself."

Jean-Pierre Bourdeau's work can be seen at the upcoming Heritage Craft Show Nov. 7-9 at the Civic Complex in Cornwall.

He will have an assortment of perfect Christmas gift choices as well as one for yourself.



ON THE WOOD: Jean-Pierre Bourdeau's beautiful handmade cupboards can be seen at the upcoming Heritage Craft Show at the Civic Complex. His Old Masters technique creates family heirlooms.

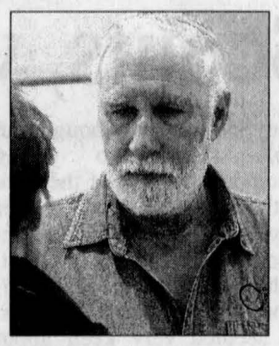
"Decisions must always serve the public good!"

Bill Franklin, Mayor



When it comes to good government, I believe decisions should be based on sound, clear policies — ones that reflect the needs and wishes of the constituents. And for six years, I have worked to make this a reality.

The key is a rigorous public procedure that includes extensive consultation with all the parties concerned. Recently, pig farms and quarries have made the local headlines. In each case, proponents and opponents were heard at length before any decision was reached.

These clear policies then allow township staff to do their jobs impartially, without political interference. While this is not always popular, it is necessary to build a system that everyone can have faith in.

Good government must also be accessible. Under my leadership, council has kept "in camera" deliberations to the bare minimum. Every council meeting has welcomed delegations. My door has always been open. And in addition to the council chambers in Alexandria, we've held meetings in Glen Robertson, Dalkeith, Laggan, Dunvegan, Maxville, and Apple Hill.

If re-elected, it is my intention to continue to encourage these and other practices which will best assure the public good.

Bill Franklin

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207
FAX 347-1297

On Saturday we bought an apple from two young 'Scouters' in front of the Talk of the Town. I asked them if they took part in the project described below. The oldest, with a gleam in his eyes, mentioned that he was a Venturer. He seemed very keen about this event.

The 1st Lancaster Scouts and Venturers hosted the 2003 JOTA (Jamboree On The Air) on Oct. 18-19 at Apple Hill Scout Reserve. Every year on the third weekend in October, Scouting and Guiding members around the world contact each other by amateur radio and the Internet.

The radio operations were set up and run by both the West Island Amateur Radio Club and the Montreal Amateur Radio club. The 1st Lancaster Venturers set up and ran an orienteering course, Morse code games, and a giant soccer game with all of the youth attending.

Actually, 50 area youth attended JOTA. They came from 1st Maxville Cubs, 2nd Alexandria Cubs, 1st Green Valley Guides, 1st Hawkesbury Cubs, and 1st Lancaster Scouts and Venturers.

We wish to thank all of our volunteers, and youth who attended, and warmly invite everyone back again next year for even more fun!

Craft and Bake Sale

For many years, Chateau Gardens has held a bake sale on Main Street, at the end of October. Since the inclusion of Ivy's Tuck Shoppe and the addition of an Activity Room, the bake sale has evolved into a Bake and Craft Sale, held inside Chateau Gardens, nearer to the Christmas Season.

So, you are reminded that the next Bake and Craft Sale will be on Saturday, Nov. 8 from 9-1 p.m. There is ample parking at the rear of the building. This parking area also provides an easy access to the Activity Room where the sale will be held.

During the sale, light refreshments will be available for a donation and a draw will take place hourly. Many of the best bakers in Glengarry willingly donate wonderful goods for the sale, all in aid of this fundraiser for the Residents' Council. As well, there will be a great variety of crafts on sale. For more information, or to make a donation, you may call Sheila Marcoux at 347-3718.

Ivy's Tuck Shoppe

Ivy's Tuck Shoppe opened at Chateau Gardens eight years ago. Residents, staff, and visitors find it a convenient place to shop. It also provides a continuous source of revenue that allows the volunteers to carry on interesting projects and do work with the residents.

More than that, Ivy's is an ideal outlet for women and men from our area who have the talent to make attractive items to sell. There is a great "on-consignment" program at Ivy's and anyone wishing to sell interesting crafts or items should call the Tuck Shoppe convener, Millie Vialette at 347-1023 or Sheila Urquhart at 347-2262. You may also choose to visit Ivy's Tuck Shoppe. Drop by any weekday from 1:30-3:30 p.m.

News from St. Andrew's

On Sunday the Men's Fellowship Group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster hosted a Soup and Sandwich Luncheon for over 75 people following the morning service. The weather outside was cold, wet and miserable but the hot soup and abundance of sandwiches made for an enjoyable fellowship hour. All of the proceeds were given to the St. Andrew's Building Fund.

The children of St. Andrew's Sunday School are reminded of the upcoming 'Christmas craft event' this Sunday, Nov. 2. There will be three different crafts in which the children may participate, as well as snacks and treats. This promises to be a great time for the children. Many thanks are extended to Jane MacMillan for organizing the program.

Website Award

Theresa Taylor says "It's very nice to be up there with the big guys!" The big guys in question are some Auctioneer Firms that have sales offices in major cities in Canada. Along with the "Big Guy" winners, (first and second), Theresa Taylor and Associates Auctioneering placed third in a competition for business websites.

At this recent Canadian Auctioneers Association of Canada conference in Barrie, Ont, Theresa tells me one interesting seminar was hosted by a lawyer with a great sense of humour. He spoke about 'Lawyers Defence of Auctioneers'. Mmm, I never thought of that aspect of this profession.

In the meantime, Congratulations, Theresa!

Back to the Gallery

It was a good, rainy, Saturday afternoon to visit our local Gallery on Main Street in Lancaster. I did sit on the couch. But,... not for long. There was too much to see and too many people to engage in a conversation. One big surprise I found in the lower part of the gallery. There, on display, were some fine paintings by John Hillenbrand himself. Very nice!

If you are a little intimidated by galleries, don't be shy. Christa, Joyce and John will make you feel very welcome at Exclusive Artforms.

An added note and another surprise: As you pass through the foyer to go to the downstairs part of the gallery, a very nice picture is on display. It is by local artist, Sharon McDonell. It's called "Sharon's Stones". Drop by and see it!

Parade Plans

Janice Montreuil of Lancaster says that the last meeting for our 45th Santa Claus Parade was great and included even more members for the SG Club Council. Think of floats with this theme: A Postcard Christmas. It's not too early since the Parade is on the 6th, the first Saturday in December.

There will be another meeting in November and new volunteers are most welcome. Call Janice at 347-2420.

Story Time for Toddlers

Don't forget Story Time on Thursdays at the Lancaster Library. Only two left in this series, Oct. 30 and Nov. 6. To register, call 347-2311 during library hours.

Monday Blues

Some Mondays are better than others. Along with the fact that there are many animals coming down Treehaven... in pairs. Elephants, giraffes, donkeys.. (looking for the big boat!) the world outside is mighty wet and dreary.

Now, a gremlin (I blame Mariah Ming) zapped my whole, SAVED, document into the inner depths of my hard drive..never to be found again.

Oh well, It's a good day to be inside, never mind that our heat pump isn't working and there are a few mice taking up residence in our house.

The heat pump should be fixed this afternoon. I have redone my column. Mariah and Su-Lin are taking care of those pesky little mice. Mariah doesn't know that I blamed her so, like all Siamese would, she won't get revenge and tomorrow we should see some sunshine!

Have a super week everyone!

BOO: Rebecca Dixon watches as her fellow vampiress, Deborah Lechleitner, snarls at passers-by. The two Grade 6 students at SJ MacLeod school near North Lancaster were participating in a haunted classroom, an event that raised money for an upcoming trip to Thousand Islands.

New AG and Food minister wants quicker results

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

Before becoming the Minister of Agriculture and Food, Liberal MPP Steve Peters (Elgin-Middlesex-London) argued for faster, more efficient recovery plans for Ontario cattle farmers affected by Mad Cow Disease.

In a June speech in the provincial legislature, Mr. Peters attacked then Minister Helen John's work on the issue, as slow moving.

"Since the US has closed the border to Canadian ruminants and products, you've been aware that compensation would be in the works," Mr. Peters said.

"Alberta farmers have their application packages. Their government has been on top of this since day one. Why don't our farmers have their applications yet? Where are they, and what have you been doing?"

Only time will tell if the newly appointed liberal does a better job serving the agricultural community, than his conservative predecessor.

Elected as a member of provincial parliament in 1999, Mr. Peters became the disabilities critic in June of that year. He moved to the agriculture portfolio in September 2000.

Toastmasters offer night of entertainment

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

Everyone is invited to come out and join the Glengarry Toastmasters for an entertaining evening of stories, impromptu one minute talks and jokes, on Wednesday evening at 6 p.m. on Oct. 29 at the Priest's Mill in Alexandria. Supper is optional. Three speakers will each be telling a tale to engage your interest or joggle your funny bone. The theme will be Road Signs which mark some special event in our lives. Everyone will be encouraged to share their own favourite, brief story but on a volunteer basis only. The guests will be quite welcome to just sit and listen if they so desire. Think of this as a great option to an evening of boring, violent, X-rated TV programs.

Toastmasters Meet

The Glengarry Toastmasters Club met at the Priest's Mill on Wednesday evening last with Betty Healey filling the Toastmaster's position. She warmly welcomed two new members Denise Neilsen and Romuald Piche. There were two speakers that evening, Tess Senecal spoke on What If.... and she used a drum to accentuate and stress the well thought out points of her talk.

Lorna Chapman, the other speaker, chose to speak on The Dedication. This was about the night the Glen Sandfield congregation dedicated the new electronic organ. While the first talk was serious the second one was humorous and they did make an excellent contrast. Betty Healey and Sandra McCuaig were the two evaluators for the speakers. Noella Picard Claude challenged the members' memory with her questions as Quiz Master about "who said what" during the meeting. Abel Ferreira was the AH Counter and Grammarian and his Word of the Day was fallacy. Sandra McCuaig won the Table Topics contest at the Toastmasters' Humorous Speaking Contest which recently took place in Brockville.

Congratulations Sandra. The next regular supper meeting will be held at the Priest's Mill on Nov. 12 at 6 p.m. Visitors always receive a warm welcome, they are under no obligation, and the meal is optional.

Worship service

Sunday morning worship services are held at 10 a.m. in Glen Sandfield United Church and at 11:15 a.m. in East Hawkesbury United Church. Visitors are always welcome.

The flu shot. It's free. Now, it's easier.

This year, many employers are offering workplace clinics to make it easier for you to get your free flu shot. As well, many local pharmacies are holding clinics so you can get the shot when you shop. We have all seen how serious infectious diseases can be. Getting your free flu shot is a good way to protect yourself, protect your family and protect the people you work with. You can also see your doctor or call for a clinic near you.

STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

Not sure why it is, but every year at the annual Williamstown Fair Board Dinner, there are always lots of little bits of column fodder floating around. I managed to catch a few, which I serve up, with relish, to you now.

This year there was a tie between George Runions and Joan P. MacDonald, for quote of the night.

George's came when he was accepting the St. Lawrence Valley Merit Award, and he paid tribute to his wife, Bev, who is the secretary-treasurer of the fair board.

When George said the words, "I have a wife that's not behind me, but beside me," he was greeted with a chorus of female voices all saying, "Ahhhh," in an "isn't-that-sweet?" sort of way.

When Bruce Kennedy was talking about the old ways of the fair, he said that there used to be a class for best implements. There were prizes for things like spinning wheels, for instance. And for best "stone extractor."

Later in the evening, before Joan P. started to introduce guest speaker, Esther Bryan, she said she had a first class "stone extractor" at the farm. Ears perked up, becoming elfin; everyone wanting to know what one of these end-to-back-breaking implements looked like.

"It's called Coleman!" she said.

I predict a new career for Mr. MacDonald, come spring.

Good lines

Bruce had a pretty good line himself, according to my little criblet notes. After Pamela Cumming had wowed the audience with her hauntingly beautiful classical violin piece, and her versatility in switching to a lively jig, Bruce said, when thanking her, "When you're famous and playing in grand halls all over the world, remember you once played for us at the Williamstown Fair Board dinner."

Wise words – I predict the Royal Albert, at the very least for this multi-talented young lady.

A new career?

Also proving her versatility – this time as a guest speaker – is another multi-talented lady, Esther Bryan.

I have heard Esther give many speeches in connection with Invitation: the quilt of belonging, and no two have been remotely alike.

New career for Esther once the quilt is finished next year: writing campaign speeches for candidates who can't seem to think of more than one way to say something!

Kerry's award

The McDonald family was out in (nearly) full force to see Kerry receive the Ontario Agriculture Society Service Award. Wife Francine, sons Tom, Bill, Dan, Rory and Ian were all present at the dinner. Only daughter, Jenny, who is living in Toronto, was unable to attend.

Kerry joked that when he first received the letter informing him of his award, he thought he would just stay home and would let Francine accept it for him.

Great decor

The décor at the fair board dinner is always something worth raving about, and this year is no different. Thanks to Lise and Rick Marvell, Lorraine and Austin Alguire, and Betty and Alex MacDonald on a fine autumnal display.

Beaned

Who's the best bean-counter in Williamstown? Look no further than Elaine Robertson! Not only did she have the closest guess to the number of white beans enclosed in a glass jar, she had an exact guess – 1,850 beans in all.

Can't remember what she won for a prize, but I hope it was more than the contents of the jar. If not, she can always give them out for Trick or Treat.

Door prizes

New members

Congratulations to new fair board members, Lorraine Lea, Lise Marvell, Tara McRae and Margo Poirier. They will be replacing retirees Ralph Dixon, Iris and Stan Swerdferger, and Cheryl Wightman.

And finally congrats to everyone responsible for helping in any way to make our Williamstown Fair the very best, and to the board of directors in particular for shouldering such a load so very well.

Hockey schedule

Now that the hockey season has started in earnest, so have the moans and groans of "travelling" parents. But should you think that your lot in life is spent scurrying around from rink to rink as you cheer on your children, read on for the "pro" version.

Kent McDonell, Williamstown's hockey great, spent a weekend with so much travelling that even sportswriters have picked up on it.

McDonell's Weekend Itinerary (according to the Blue Jackets website) Friday morning: Practice with Syracuse Crunch.

Friday afternoon: Fly from Syracuse to Nashville via Detroit; spend night in Nashville with Columbus Blue Jackets.

Saturday morning: Morning skate with the Blue Jackets.

Saturday evening: Make season NHL debut in Jackets/Predators game; score first career goal.

Saturday night: Fly back to Columbus with team; spend night in Columbus.

Sunday morning: Fly from Columbus to Philadelphia via Detroit.

Sunday evening: Arrive in Philadelphia at 3 p.m. for a 5 p.m. game; Play in Crunch/Phantoms game; score two goals, including game-winner in overtime; spend night in Philadelphia.

Monday morning: 5 a.m. wake-up call for flight from Philadelphia to Columbus; arrive at Nationwide Arena for 10:30 a.m. practice.

McDonell's weekend by the numbers: 1 game-winning goal; 2 games played; 3 goals scored; 5 cities "visited"; 6 plane trips; 7 shots on goal; 2,540 miles traveled.

Did all that country criss-crossing affect Kent's performance? Doesn't look like it!

Must have been in good shape from his early travelling training covering Glengarry, the Seaway Valley, the Ottawa Valley and points beyond, thanks to parents Bruce and Linda. Bravo Kent!

New baby

Congratulations to Bryan and Anne Ward on the birth of their daughter on Oct. 10 at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall.

Baby Lea weighed 6 lbs. 11 oz. and is a little sister for Steve and Tyler.

Baby named

Last column's baby-of-the-week has now been named. She is Clara Roan Shaw-Stones. Sounds very poetic, indeed, especially when said with a Texan accent!

Turkey supper

This Saturday, (Nov.1), plan to attend St. Andrew's United Church annual turkey supper in Irvine Hall. Everyone is welcome to come in out of the cold, do some socializing, perhaps buy some baking for home fare, and enjoy some fine food.

Time of the supper is the same as always, I'm guessing, as I didn't hear otherwise. And that would be? At supper time, of course!

Well fed

Many good things have been said about the food at the recent Harvest Dinner held last week at St. Mary's Centre.

Though the number of diners was down, those who attended were well fed and waiting lines were few.

The winner of the raffle for the birdhouse was Glenda McDonell of Williamstown. We won't mention who drew the winning ticket!

Christmas tea

St. Mary's Ladies Guild's annual Christmas Tea, Bake and Craft sale is being held a little earlier than usual this year so as not to have to compete with the elements.

Mark Saturday, Nov. 8 on your calendars. The tea will run from 2-4 p.m. in the little hall at St. Mary's.

ATV pull

Williamstown streets were thick with ATVs on Saturday, as men and machines headed to the fairgrounds for the ATV "pull," which, despite the weather attracted a good crowd.

With some recent changes in provincial legislation, these four wheelers may soon be allowed on roads in our area. If you are interested in learning more about this, plan to attend the ATV meeting, scheduled for Nov. 19 at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre, at 7 p.m.

Scholarship winner

Kylie received the WI Eastern Area Scholarship on Oct. 20.

Her grandparents, Joyce and MacNaughton Cumming, travelled to the Area WI Convention held at Stanley's Olde Maple Lane Farm in Edwards, ON to accept the award on her behalf.

Kylie, daughter of Bonnie and Malcolm Cumming, is in her second year at Queen's University in Kingston.

Apple pruning

Members of the Picnic Grove WI spent a most interesting morning on Oct. 15 at Marlin Orchards near Summerstown. Co-owner Diane Lunan, and experienced staff member, Murielle Ferguson, walked and talked their visitors through the many steps of apple production.

Mid-winter pruning begins the cycle of production that ends with crisp, juicy fruit appearing on the store shelves.

The orchard produces 32 varieties of apples, as well as plums and pears. The sale of apples begins in late July and continues into December. Each apple is graded and carefully placed, stem down, in a plastic lined container which is kept in a climate controlled environment until the apple reaches the shop shelf.

Moving to the large greenhouse, WI members enjoyed hot apple cider, while quizzing Diane on the apple business.

Peace

Picnic Grove WI's next meeting takes place on Nov. 11 at Glen Cairn Lodge, 14 Victoria St., Lancaster at 1:30 p.m. in the common room.

Apropos on such a date, Mary Lynn Alguire will present her Peacemaker program about bullying, titled, "Giving Peace a Chance."

Visitors are welcome to join the WI members on this occasion. For rides or further information, please call Ina at 347-2571, or Wendy at 347-3098.

Bridge club

The results from the Williamstown Bridge Club for Wednesday, Oct. 22, are:

1. Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell; 2. Jim Campbell and Audrey Pasco; 3. Bob and Francoise Govan.

German call

Had a call from daughter Johanna the other day. She is now in Tuebingen, Germany, where she is an exchange student for the next year at the university there.

She reports that she is moving in to a room in a house where Hermann Hesse lived. Hesse apparently spent the years from 1894-98 in Tuebingen where he worked as an apprentice bookseller. His first poems were written there – perhaps in her very room – she likes to think.

Who rang?

The bells of St. Mary's have just rung again and still I have not identified the bell-puller. Is it, could it possibly be, a graveyard ghost?

Just a thought to get you into the Halloween mood for Friday night.

Have a safe one and don't forget to visit the short end of William Street, where again this year the Paradis family is busy preparing an elaborate display to scare the socks off you!

MINIVAN? SAYS WHO?

Boxy, slow, boring. If that's a "minivan" to you, the all-new Sienna comes with a new set of adjectives. Like streamlined, quick and exciting. It has stylish sweeping curves, a 230 hp V6 that goes from 0-60 in 8.3 seconds, available All-Wheel Drive, available rear seat DVD player and seating for eight. Yes, it's a minivan. It just doesn't look like one. (Or act like it.)

DINNER TIME: 101-year-old Hugh McDonell gets a scoopful of cranberry sauce from Guylaine Ouimet at the St.-Martin-de-Tours Parish Harvest supper in Glen Robertson on Sunday.

GLEN ROBERTSON
COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

The parish supper was a great success again this year with over 1,025 suppers served. There are so many people to thank as nearly all the community worked together, young and old, the organizers, the kitchen team who worked really hard, all those who served, all those responsible for the food, sale of the tickets, and let's not forget the parking and cleaning crew which Father Eric was part of.

Special thank you to Mrs. Antonia Den Otter for her lifelike and lovely decorations in the church and also to Moira VanNooten and the students of Laurier-Carrière who added a special touch with their special decorations. Music was provided by Frank Adams and Travis Hagen. Many thanks!

We are grateful to Monique Vander Byle for the lovely carved pumpkins parked on the steps of the church. Thank you.

Special thanks to all our visitors from far and near who came down and enjoyed a great supper, and socialized with a lot of people they hadn't seen for a long time. I didn't serve at a table this year so I made sure to visit with a lot of people in the church and in the hall which was the best part of it all and the most fun.

Of course, I had to work at the counter at 5:30 to serve but I got there a few minutes late and I enjoyed every minute of it.

The $1,000 was won by Christian Poirier of Green Valley. There was no vendor, so the $100. went to the parish. The barbecue went to Bob Paquette of the Glen. Special thanks to the sponsors of the barbecue who were Club 65 and Glen Robertson Lefebvre Welding. Next year, because of Halloween which falls on Oct. 31 which should be the date of the supper, it will be held on Sunday, Nov. 7. Many people don't want to go out on Halloween night, so, everyone will be happy with the date change.

Memorial service

Glengarry Memorial Hospital will hold a special ecumenical memorial service for the patients who passed away during the year, from Aug 2002-Aug.2003. The family of these patients are cordially invited to attend this service on Nov. 6 at 7 p.m. in the new conference room.

Parish supper

Father René Dubé and the parishioners of Ste. Croix Church, 108 Anthony St. in Cornwall are inviting everyone to their parish supper on Nov. 9 from 4-7:30 p.m. at their parish hall. Admission is $10., $5 for those between 6-13, and under six, it's free.

Sympathies

Sincere sympathy to Hélène and André Vander Haeghe and family upon the death of Hélène's sister, Yvonne Dionne, 64 yrs. old. The funeral was held in Longueuil on Monday.

Birthday wishes

Belated and happy birthday wishes to Shaylee-Julia Lacombe Théoret – From Samantha-Jade, Joshua-James, Aunt Joyce and Uncle Richard – We love you BUMBLE BEE.

Free conference

Sponsored by le centre culturel "Les trois p'tits points...". a free conference will be held on Nov. 4 from 7-9 p.m. by Suzanne Bonneville of the francophone association for the parents of children who suffer from dyslexia – how to recognize the signs right from the start. For more info, call co-ordinator, Diane at 525-3935 after 4 p.m.

Euchre

Euchre winners of last week were: Jean-Lucien Larocque, Aline Ménard, Benoit Lafrance, Lily Rozon, Hélène Paquette, Claude Massie, Helena Campeau and Hélène Paquette. Door prize went to André Lefebvre and the 50/50 winners were Marie Thérèse Théoret, Béatrice Lalonde and Annette Lyman who won twice. Next euchre will be on Nov. 4. Welcome to all.

Play time

On Oct. 28, all the school will visit Ste.Thérèse School of North Lancaster to view a theatre play titled "Grim-Grim". With the help of fairy tales, this spectacle will give the students the joy of inventing and relating. Imagination is the essence of being young and a great source of amusement which enables them to learn with no computers and in French. This activity was prepared by Le Centre Culturel. On Oct. 31, a costume parade will be held at the gym at L.Carrière. At night, the Optimists will be out giving away chips, drinks and chocolate bars and will also be patrolling around to make sure that all the youngsters are safe. On Nov. 3, Father Eric Robichaud will tour the classes to talk about All Saints Day and how these deceased people do help us in our everyday life if we ask for their help.

Bingo

Welcome all to a bingo this coming Sunday, Nov. 2 at the social centre at 7 p.m. with a jackpot of $700. Another $1,000 Optimist draw will be drawn.

Good news

Good news for a change for Fern Rozon who underwent many major operations since last August. He is back in the Glengarry Memorial Hospital and started his therapy last week. We wish him all the luck in the world and I'm sure it won't always be easy but Fern has lots of courage. We are thinking about you. Your friends in the Glen.

Exercise for seniors

Ruby McIntee is starting her weekly exercises for seniors on Nov. 5 at the centre at 10 a.m. These exercises will alternate every week from Wed. to Thursday; so, the next one will be on Nov. 13, Nov. 19, Nov. 27 and so on. This is a great way to relax sometimes with exercises, massages or reflexology. Welcome to all.

Have a very nice week!!!

Discovering the right St. Finnan

HIGHLAND PATHS
KEN MCKENNA

Last week's column on St Finnan by Hugh Cheape ended with his statement that some of the holy people of the early church are remembered today in Gaelic family names. Among them are MacLean, MacGhill'Leathain, The Son of the Follower of (St) John: MacNab, Mac an aba, The Son of the abbott (in the early Celtic church, priests could marry): MacTaggart, Mac an t-sagairt, The Son of the priest: Mac Millan, MacMhaolain, The Son of the tonsured one (a monk): MacMaster, MacMhaigstir, The Son of the preacher or teacher.

Hugh Cheape's article continues with the family name which comes from St Finnan: "MacLennan ... is the anglicized Mac Gill' Fhinnein or 'devotee of Finnan'... There are dedications of church or former church sites to St Finnan in the islands, specifically in Islay, Mull, Muck, Coll and Tiree (suggestive perhaps of the saint's journey from Ireland towards Ardnamurchan) and there is a series of dedications in the Central and Eastern Highlands and beyond – Kilfinnan in Glengarry, Cill Fhionain at Abriachan, Daviot, Foynesfield by Nairn (originally Seipeil Fhionain), Migvie in Mar, Monymusk, Lumphanan and Lumphanan by Ballingry. There are dedications in the south west where folk belief regarded St Finnan as the evangelist of that part of Scotland - Kirkgunzean in Kirkcudbrighshire, Kilwinning in Ayrshire, Inchinnan in Renfrewshire (earlier Kilinan), Kilellan at Toward in Argyll (originally Killenan), Kilinan in Cowal and a dedication in Kintyre. There are in fact more than two dozen dedications to St Finnan in Scotland.

Inevitably, in trying to discover the identity of a Scottish saint of the early church, we must look to Ireland as the original source of what we call Celtic Christianity. It has been said by Irish scholars, however, that there were many St Finnans. Opinion in Moidart in the past seemed to favour St Finnan of Sword (near Dublin) and Clonmore (in Leinster) who died between AD 675 and 695 and who is commemorated on 16 March as their missionary evangelist. In Scotland his Saint's Day was remembered as 16 March and he was commemorated at his different dedications, typically, with a market and fair. This Finnan carried the surname Lobur or 'Leper', he having deliberately contracted a skin disease as a form of penance or martyrdom from a child who had come to him to be cured. Leprosy could be considered as a mark of God according to Biblical references and the term 'leper' was associated with all skin diseases in Gaelic society". [Robert the Bruce, King of Scots in the 14th century, was reputed to have suffered from leprosy or a similar disease].

"Another Finnan, more famous in Irish tradition, is St Finan the founder of Clonard, the 'Master of the Saints of Ireland', the teacher of St Columba and of the 'Apostles of Ireland', who died in AD 549 according to the Annals of Ulster... such was his prestige that a manuscript 'Life of St Finnian' claimed that: 'Together with Patrick and Jesus Christ, he will judge the men of Ireland at Doomsday.'

St Finnan of Moidart seems to have left a more modest but nevertheless tangible mark on posterity and, in past centuries, the intensity of the Christian religion in the area has been proverbial and traceable to this leading missionary of the Celtic church. Tradition may be scant but it is clear and credible and as fresh as it could be after much more than a thousand years and will live on as long as we continue to inhabit these parts."

Thus ends Hugh Cheape's article on St Finnan of Moidart. The "parts" he refers to in his final sentence are of course the Western Highlands of Scotland but the sentiment he expresses could equally be said to apply to Glengarry in Ontario, where a school in Alexandria, as well as the cathedral a few streets away, bears the saint's name.

It may seem awkward that St Finnan's Day is the day before St Patrick's Day but as they were both Irish it is appropriate. Perhaps the two days could be run together here in Glengarry, with a bake sale at the church to commemorate the medieval market fair of St Finnan's and a Celtic concert to mark both saints anniversaries. If there is any controversy over the type of music to be played at the concert there should be no worry. As my friend Ewen McDonald said to me many years ago about the music at a Glengarry Irish party "no matter what you call it, here in Glengarry it's all Scotch music anyway!"

If anyone wishes to visit those sites in the Scottish Highlands associated with St Finnan, Fort William at the foot of Ben Nevis is a central location from which to make day-trips to the surrounding Western Highlands. Glenfinnan is only a half hours drive to the west, passing Loch Eil and Fassfern on the way.

Johnson couple returns from Maritime trip

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

Elaine and Ron Johnson, Peter St., have returned from a great visit to northern Nova Scotia and Cape Breton where they visited friends and relatives and enjoyed many tourist attractions including the Celtic Colours Festival in Cape Breton.

It was the best the couple had ever attended.

Also, there was great entertainment at theatres and other places, the seafood was especially appreciated and at one place, John Allan Cameron was introduced to them for a short conversation.

The Cabot Trail was as beautiful as ever and on that day, Angus and Margaret MacIssac were met and they asked that greetings be brought home to Gerry O'Neil of Greenfield.

The next time you meet the Johnsons, ask about the Celtic Colours Festival.

Vacations

Alison Wilson was away for two weeks touring parts of Portugal with her daughter, Jennifer, who is on an extensive tour of several countries. Alison, too, enjoyed the scenery, meeting the people and sampling the typical Portugese dishes offered in the restaurants. Grilled sardines were one of the favourites.

Gaspe tour

Grace and Gregor McEwen were away for two weeks, as well. They first toured a part of the Gaspe Peninsula and then were in Dalhousie, N.B., visiting their daughter, Carole and Bob Brown and family.

Wedding bells

A wedding of interest was held in Cornwall last Saturday. Dean MacIntosh of Cornwall, younger son on Carolee and Robert, Pigeon Hill, was married to Kim Moran, also of Cornwall. She is the daughter of Ken and Janice Moran.

A family dinner was served later in the afternoon.

The best wishes of this community go to the young couple for much happiness in the years ahead.

Sympathies

On Saturday, a Main St. resident in the person of Beverly Gormley died after a short illness.

She was the wife of Donald Gormley to whom our sincere sympathy is extended. We are also remembering Mrs. Gormley's children as well as Mr. Gormley's daughter and her family.

*

Many will remember Mabel and John Patton when they lived in the area. They were involved in several organizations, including the Horticultural Society of which they were honoured with life memberships.

Dr. John died at the Manor in 1998 and then his wife moved eventually to a retirement centre in Windsor, N.S. where she enjoyed her Maritime friends and activities there.

Mrs. Patton suffered a stroke a short time ago, recovered somewhat and then died suddenly Sunday morning. She was 86.

TODD ANDERSON PHOTO

Remembrance Day

There is going to be a Remembrance Day parade and service at the Maxville War Veterans' Monument on Mechanic St. West on Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Organizers got busy and received offers of help from members of the Maxville and District Lions Club and a small donation from the Fresh Air Association.

The plans are that the parade will assemble at the Glengarry Curling Club at 10:45 a.m. and proceed to the Monument for the service which will commence shortly before 11.

After the service, there will be a parade back to the Curling Club.

Sold out cookbook

The members of this committee are Sally Munroe, Carole Massia, Audra Nixon, Heather Maynard and Tanya Ingram.

Thanks are sent to the staff at Scotiabank, to Debbie at Debbie's Country Corner and to the staff of the Provost Store in Moose Creek for assisting with the sales.

Fall bazaar

The members of the Anglican Church Women of St. Michael's and All Angels Church are holding their fall bazaar and luncheon on Nov. 8 from 11.30-1.30 p.m. in the church hall.

Your support of this event will be appreciated.

Final euchre

On Oct 20, the Young-at-Heart Seniors' Club held its last euchre until the spring. After the euchre, 19 members walked down to the Chieftain Restaurant for a delicious roast beef buffet served by Linda and her staff. It was a very satisfying way to close this euchre season.

Cecile Currier, Claire Van Putten and Elizabeth Briere earned the prizes for the ladies' side while the top scores among the men were held by Mac O'Byrne, Bill Johnston and Hormidas St. John tied with Winston Van Putten.

In the 50-50 draw, the lucky winners were Wilma MacMillan, Dianne McMullen, Olive Shields, Rita Seguin, Shirley Wylie, twice, Mrs. Van Putten, Eileen Laperriere, Mr. St. John and Vina Brown. Erwin Shields received the door prize.

Bridge party

At the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor under the Seniors Outreach Services Program, the high scores were earned by Ed Ukrainetz, Mary Nutter and Bernice Burwash.

Feed the birds

Although the weather has not been cold, it has been wet the last few days and I am now feeding the wild birds. Earlier I mentioned the squirrel population which has not shown any signs of depletion.

So, rather than hanging the feeders from tree branches, I anchored a pole in the ground and hung feeders from the hooks on it.

I had three suitable ones for niger seeds, black sunflower seeds and for the striped sunflower seeds. They worked very well and we had the blue jays, chickadees, and gold finches in their winter colours, along with a dove cleaning up underneath.

Then, along came the gray squirrel who had no trouble climbing the pole and feasting on the striped sunflower seeds.

I had heard that red pepper might serve as a determent for the squirrels. I went out and sprinkled the pepper liberally on some seeds but the squirrel came back and ate them all up.

Does anyone have experience in using red pepper to discourage the squirrels?

Maryanne Kampouris

Candidate for Deputy Mayor of North Glengarry

Experience, Knowledge, Teamwork, Integrity and Commitment

I believe it is time for a change in the perspective that is brought to the job of Deputy Mayor in North Glengarry. The task of amalgamation is now complete and North Glengarry's municipal council is responsible for much more complex issues than those of any of the old municipalities. These challenges require new skills, energy and commitment in order to carry out the business of municipal government and build a more united community.

While I have the knowledge and ability to deal with the difficult tasks facing local government today (e.g. downloading, farming issues, waste management, roads, emergency preparedness, environment, and rural development), I believe it is most important to bring a fresh approach and positive attitude to the process of decision-making.

My 8 Promises

I believe I have the capability and energy to serve the Township of North Glengarry. If elected, as Deputy Mayor I promise you, the voters:

- ✓ to bring all my experience, knowledge, teamwork, integrity and commitment to the job;
- ✓ to respect the expertise of staff members and the decisions of council;
- ✓ to faithfully represent the direction I receive from council when working at counties;
- ✓ never to commit the township to projects or expenses of any kind without prior direction from council;
- ✓ to invest my time in continuing to acquire and maintain the knowledge necessary to make informed decisions at the council table;
- ✓ to the best of my ability, use my leadership skills to help build consensus and to resolve issues as they arise, using solid research and constructive discussion;
- ✓ to not unduly benefit from this office nor give any unfair advantage to anybody else;
- ✓ to represent the interests of all North Glengarry residents and taxpayers at the council table and at United Counties.

Voting Information

- The vote will be by telephone or on the Internet between November 5th (9 am) and 10th (8 pm)
- Every voter will receive information in the mail with a number to call, and a personal identification number and password
- Any touch-tone telephone can be used but the PIN and password can only be used once
- The township clerks can provide additional information (525-1110) and there is a special number, 1-888-401-VOTE (8683), that can be called to try out the system without actually voting. The website is http://www.canvote.ca
- During the voting period, voters can use telephones and Internet connections at public libraries or the municipal office, if they wish

The Candidate

Maryanne Kampouris has lived in North Glengarry for 18 years with her husband, Michael Cowley-Owen, and their four children. She manages her own successful business from her home in Maxville, and has maintained close ties to her family's farm in St. Isidore for 30 years. As an active member of her community, Maryanne has presided over several broad-based community organizations and has served on many church, school, professional, and community committees.

Having recently completed a business management degree at the University of Ottawa, Maryanne has all the attributes necessary for an innovative and positive role in municipal government.

Background

Experience

- 30 years working with municipal, provincial and federal governments
- creation and funding of community based projects benefiting the region
- active in many local organizations and committees
- over 12 years managing own independent business

Knowledge

- stayed current on municipal issues by attending council meetings and reviewing minutes of meetings
- member of the environment committee
- attended annual Ontario East Municipal Conferences (at own expense)
- reviewed proposed provincial legislation to assess its potential impact on the township

Teamwork

- works well with team members
- listens to other's point of view
- contributes to reasoned decisions that are in the best interest of the whole community

Integrity

- not aligned with any other candidates
- will work with any and all other council members
- will represent the interests of all North Glengarrians

Commitment

- regularly attended meetings of the environment committee and many community events
- continued to attend important council meetings (when full-time course-load permitted)
- has time and energy to serve the community

MARTINTOWN
VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

A very good crowd attended the all candidates meeting held on Thursday, Oct. 23 at the Martintown Community Centre to hear what the prospective municipal representatives will be offering the electorate if elected to office in South Glengarry in November. Del Roulston, President of the Martintown Goodtimers, welcomed everyone and handed the proceedings over to Mark Marshall, who, once again, assumed the role of mediator. Each candidate had the opportunity to speak, with the mayoral and deputy hopefuls going first, followed by the nine candidates for council. A question period followed, and at the end of the evening, refreshments were served and voters had the opportunity to talk to each other and the candidates. The community owes a thank you to the members of the Goodtimers for organizing this event and providing eats, and also a thank you to Mark Marshall for keeping everyone on track, on time, and stick-handling around some challenging interrogators!

Local Volunteer Honoured

Martintown's George Runions was given special recognition at last week's Williamstown Fair Board Annual Meeting and dinner for his outstanding contribution year after year to the Fair. The St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society Merit Award was presented to George by Board member Ron Eamer who praised our local electrician for his many years of dedication to making things run smoothly at the Williamstown Fair. The Runions' three-year-old granddaughter, Melanie Dixon, was in attendance much to the delight of all, and she was able to join in when Nanny, Fair Board Secretary and Treasurer, Beverly Runions, was applauded for all her work. George graciously acknowledged the support of his wife by saying that she is beside him all the way. We are all fortunate to have such a devoted and hard-working couple in our community, and all the accolades are justly deserved.

Martintown Public School

This Friday is Halloween and the students of Martintown Public School will take part in a parade in the gym from 8:15 a.m. until 8:45 to show off their costumes. Parents, and even grandparents, aunts and uncles, are encouraged to attend with cameras. Here's wishing all a fun and safe Halloween!

New Pipe Major

Congratulations to Don Blackadder who was officially appointed to the position of Pipe Major with the S.D. and G. Highlanders during the Regimental kilt parade at the Armoury in Cornwall on Thurs., Oct. 23. Seventeen members of the band took part in showing what four weeks of practice under the supervision of a drill sergeant can do to improve marching skills. The band has been together for only about ten weeks and already has about twenty tunes in their repertoire which they play well due to regular weekly practice sessions. Martintown area resident band members present for last week's parade were Don and Adam Blackadder, Mike Fraser and Ian McIntosh. Rory Buchan was unable to attend due to illness. Don looks forward to the addition of Kyle Fraser as lead drummer when he becomes available, Rory Blackadder who will be joining the band when he returns from New Zealand in December, and the return of Devon Murray. Near the conclusion of the ceremonies, Colonel Rochette presented Don with his stripes to make his Pipe Major appointment official. Don is hoping for a warm sunny day on November 11 (fat chance, says he!) as they lead the Regiment from the Armoury west on Second Street all the way to the cenotaph and then back into the almost inevitable brisk east wind. If all goes well band members will be wearing new plaids and shells on Remembrance Day. November will be a busy time for these pipers with St. Andrew's day events as well. Most of the above-mentioned pipers play with the Glengarry Pipe Band and news about the St. Andrew's Ball should be forthcoming soon.

Cystic Fibrosis Fundraiser

Noreen Richer of Martintown has good reason to be involved in the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and she is asking area friends to support a craft and bake sale to be held on Sat. Nov. 15 from 9:00-2:30 p.m. in aid of this worthy cause. The craft sale will be held on the second floor of Cornwall Square and the bake sale will be at the East Court Mall where the Zellers store is located. Donations of crafts or baked goods would be greatly appreciated and for more information or to arrange a pick-up of donations call Noreen at 528-4419.

St. Andrew's United Church

Members of St. Andrew's United Church in Martintown are taking orders for made-in-Ontario Teddy bears and bunny rabbits which promise to be perfect Christmas gifts. The bears and bunnies measure approximately 10 to 12 inches and come in boy or girl variations, dressed in Victorian style clothes, and can be personalized with a name on a beaded necklace. There is a girl teddy in a maroon velvet dress with a lace headpiece which has special appeal. Orders at $10. per animal can be placed until Fri., Nov. 14 by calling Dayna at 528-1022 or Campbell at 528-4347.

Women's Institute

Eighteen members and two guests of the Martintown Women's Institute met on Thurs., Oct. 16, at the Martintown Community Centre. The roll call was to tell a joke or funny story, and director, Hazel Driscoll led in the hilarity with her presentation. After a short business meeting Del Roulston, convenor for this meeting, introduced guest speakers, Erin Peckhold, an Occupational Therapist and Dina Picklyk, a Social worker with the Tri-County Mental Health Unit. Both women work from an office in the Cornwall General Hospital.

Erin and Dina gave very interesting and informative talks about depression, bipolar disorder, dementia and other concerns. The hostesses for the month, Marjorie Mertl, Allison Barclay and Regina Osten, provided a wonderful variety of refreshments with tea and coffee. The next meeting of the W.I. will be held on November 20th at the Martintown Community Centre at 1:30 p.m. and the speaker will be Robert Bergeron, a Cornwall lawyer. The roll call is Something home-made we buy today. Now that sounds a bit contradictory to me!

Condolences

Sympathy is extended to the family of former Martintown resident, Mrs. Marguerite Lapierre who passed away in Cornwall on Wed., Oct. 22. Mrs. Lapierre was predeceased by her husband, William O. Lapierre, and one daughter and is survived by five children. A funeral was held in Cornwall on Sat., Oct. 25 with interment in St. William's cemetery in Martintown.

Duplicate Bridge

The winners of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge held on Tues., Oct. 14, were as follows: North/South, 1. Pat Markell and Gordon Snook, 2. Jean and Jim Campbell. East/West, 1. Joan Turner and Isobel Quail, 2/3. Homer and Lorna Grant, 2/3 Audrey Blair and Del Roulston.

Party Bridge

Party bridge on Monday, Oct. 27 began with a Halloween pot luck lunch and was attended by quite an assortment of characters. There was a Ninja Turtle (borrowed from a grown-up grandchild, perhaps), a Santa Claus doing a dress rehearsal, someone sent in a clown, a traffic light helped keep order along with a policeman, and Dumbo the elephant, a pink poodle, a ladybug, and Miss Piggy added balance from the animal kingdom. There were also spider hats and pumpkin hats, but everyone agreed that Miss Piggy, Laura MacGregor in disguise, was really something and she won a ghost candle holder for having the best costume. Margaret Kennedy won a door prize in the form of a pumpkin candle holder and Jean Tadgell won the hidden score prize, a skull candle light. The three top bridge scorers this week were Pat Weldon, Bernice Barlow and Bill Tadgell.

JULIE AKKERMANS
KENYON COUNCILLOR

I am running on a platform of fair and responsible government. I think the quality of life in North Glengarry is of the highest standard. We have many amenities that are only afforded in larger communities. I think tax-payers like you, want it to stay that way. The style of management that I have shown over the last three years has protected and reinforced the very ideals I think you look for in your community leaders. I have shown residents fairness and respect. If re-elected, I will continue to treat the residents of North Glengarry in this fashion. I constantly question procedures and policies to ensure they are the best practices to enhance and benefit the lives of our residents. I will continue to get informed on the issues and apply that knowledge in all decision making. I think you are looking for a councillor that will continue to protect the quality of life you are presently enjoying as a resident of Kenyon. I will maintain my dedicated stand on responsible spending. I will continue exploring and promoting new ideas that improve our community and add to the quality of life. I will continue to represent you with a strong voice at the Council table. Remember this November 10th, re-elect

GSL new executive

The Glengarry Soccer League voted in their new executive at their Annual General Meeting on Oct. 21.

Vivian Franklin has been voted as the new chairperson of the league. Chris Derepentigny remains as vice-chair. The new referee-in-chief will be Mickey Oetelaar. Discipline will be shared between Jamie MacCulloch and Andrew McCormick. D.A. MacMillan remains the treasurer and Kelly Lavigueur assumes her post as secretary.

During the meeting the executive also went through a house-cleaning of the current constitution to make better interpretation of the rules that are in place.

A new rule which was accepted will ensure players play at least 40 per cent of their team's games to be eligible to play in the playoffs.

Bantam B Glens win

The Alexandria Roy's Garage bantam B Glens picked up a 3-1 win in Winchester on Oct. 24.

Josh Lapierre, Justin Gareau and Pat Hurtubise scored in the victory.

On Oct. 26 at home the Glens had a huge night scoring a 10-0 win over Massena.

Keegan Chollet and Patrick Pilon-Titley each scored three goals, Curtis Lapierre had two and singles went to Justin Gareau and Josh Lapierre. Matt Collard registered the shutout.

Filion Memorial

The Brian Filion Memorial Challenge Cup will be played at Glengarry District High School on Friday.

The junior soccer game featuring Char-Lan and a Cornwall opponent will start at 1 p.m.

Fit to be tied

The Alexandria # 3 bantam house Glens picked up a point after tying Embrun # 2 on Oct. 26 in Embrun.

Captain Matt Stones scored twice in the victory while singles went to Andrew Collard and Zack Wellman.

Two wins in a row

The Alexandria # 1 peewee Glens travelled to Rockland on Oct. 25 and picked up a 5-1 win. Jeremie Poirier and Mikael Giroux led the way with two goals each while Jacob Nadeau potted a single.

Patrick Seguin and Cullen Boisvenue each had two assists.

A day later the Glens hosted Embrun and despite a close score picked up another win. Nadeau, Patrick Poirier and Dylan Wellman scored.

Wellman's goal with 30 seconds remaining stood up as the game-winner because Embrun scored their second goal of the game with nine seconds remaining. Keegan Filion was solid in goal in both games.

Three point weekend

The Alexandria peewee B Green Valley Glass Glens picked up three of four points in weekend play.

On Sunday the Glens defeated South Stormont by a 7-1 score.

Yannick Rochon led the way with three goals while Joshua Collard scored two and Brandon Picken added a single. Steven Cayouette was solid in goal.

Shutout for Lacombe

The Alexandria # 2 peewee Glens picked up a 2-0 victory over Clarence Creek on Sunday in Clarence Creek.

Matthew Lacombe picked up the shutout in between the pipes.

Simon-Pierre Lajoie and Nathaniel MacMillan scored in the victory.

Glens on short end

The Alexandria Optmist Club bantam Glens lost to Rockland on Sunday by an 8-3 score.

Patrick Menard had a strong game offensively in the loss as he scored all three Alexandria goals.

Glengarry teams split soccer crowns

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Glengarry and Char-Lan split the single A high school boys' soccer championships Friday in Alexandria despite a scare from Tagwi in both divisions.

The Tagwi junior squad defeated the junior Gaels at home Wednesday in one semifinal while the Char-Lan senior squad was stunned by the Warriors in a penalty shootout in the semifinal Friday at the Arena field in Alexandria.

"It was a good game and the guys played really well," said GDHS head coach Glen Campbell.

Tagwi's lone goal came off a free-kick by William Elshoff.

"He just cracked it," remarked Campbell, on what he thought was a great shot.

Brent MacNab and Adam Bellefeuille scored.

Elshoff, Jared Johnson and Emile Booyink scored for Tagwi while Steph Zoppas replied for the Crusaders.

"Ryan was super in goal and all the guys went beyond what I expected them to do. We normally practice once or twice a week. With the seniors this year (the players) wanted to practice three times a week. Char-Lan and Glengarry have a big soccer tradition and a lot of participation in their leagues. We have some guys who don't even play soccer. Our team came so far from the beginning of the season."

"It's pretty disappointing. We had our opportunities in the second half to take the lead but their goalie and defence played really well."

Junior action

In the junior final, Char-Lan had no problem getting past the Warriors who may have still been excited about knocking off Glengarry in the semifinals earlier in the week.

Glens' Ryan and Lamarche lead in win over Rebs

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

This season the Alexandria Glens have received three game-winning goals each from Derek Ryan and Dominic Lamarche.

Derek Ryan scored the first three goals for Alexandria despite being moved back to play defence for about half the match. His third goal with 8:30 remaining gave his team a 3-2 lead but Char-Lan was able to tie the game as Danny Lafave scored with 4:24 remaining in the contest.

In overtime it took Dominic Lamarche only just over a minute to give the Glens a win. The goal must have been quite sweet for Lamarche who was hounded by Rebels' shadowers throughout the game.

"I'm never worried going into overtime because you can't give (Lamarche and Ryan) room on four on four," said Glens' assistant coach Simon Menard.

"They checked Lamarche pretty tight all night but he had a two on one in overtime and made no mistake."

"It was our best period of the year," said Fontaine.

"We were laying the body on them and we scored two goals. In the game we had a couple of bad breaks and one good break for us. We just couldn't capitalize on the powerplay which killed us."

Each game has been won by the home team so far in the series with Alexandria winning two and Char-Lan one.

Wolves 5 Glens 3

"It was penalty after penalty and (Akwesasne Wolves' head coach) Ryan Winters agreed there was no flow," said Menard.

"Our third and fourth line were never on the ice. The penalty killers always were. Louis (Brisson), Simon (Langevin) and Mathieu (Desnoyers) were on a lot."

The two teams were tied at 1-1 after 20 minutes and 3-3 after two periods but the Wolves scored the only two goals in the third period for a 5-3 win.

Glens notes:

On Friday the Glens host the Brockville Tikis for an 8:30 p.m. start at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

On Sunday the Glens travel to Gananoque for a 7:45 p.m. start against the Islanders.

"Brockville always had a good team and they went all the way last year," said Menard.

"Both teams are up in the standings so I'm sure it will be a challenge."

The two games are the first inter-league matches of the season for Alexandria. The inter-league season pits teams from the St. Lawrence division against the Rideau division.

Depratto makes the switch from Raiders to Axion

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Alexandria resident Beth Depratto has traded hockey teams this season in hopes of one day being a Canadian Women's Olympic team hopeful.

As a rookie last year Depratto skated with the Ottawa Raiders of the National Women's Hockey League.

This summer she got in contact with the head coach of the Montreal Axion (formerly Wingstar) Yannick Evola.

"I talked to the coach and they had finished most of their training camp already," said Depratto.

"He told me to come out to the final two tryouts and before the second one, he told me he was happy with what he saw and asked to me to sign a contract."

In this league the women don't play for cash but by signing the contract Depratto will receive free equipment and other benefits.

And what does she think about the adjustment of trading hockey teams?

"It's going really well. It's higher tempo and the girls show up to play and get better. It makes a big difference because I found this team a step up from last year."

Unlike last year, Depratto has found herself playing up front and even sometimes at centre where she prefers to play. Last year Depratto was started on defence in Ottawa. The spotlight may be a bit brighter in Montreal too.

The coaching technique of Evola is likely the biggest benefit over last year though according to Depratto.

"He's very personable and he's easy to talk to. He works well with girls because we don't like being told what to do. I got a speech that I had to shoot more. The constant encouragement helps. Hopefully if I'll shoot more I'll get more points."

Depratto added the practices are very intense but enjoyable. Before the club gets on the ice though they spend about an hour off ice doing workouts.

Time management is a big issue for Depratto. Along with playing hockey she's also enrolled in Police Foundations at St. Lawrence College in Cornwall.

Depratto hopes her days in the NWHL lead to the Olympics.

"I would like to stay in the league for four or five years and my goal is to be invited to the Team Canada tryouts before the next Olympics."

Recent results

On Thursday the Axion defeated the Quebec Avalanche by a 4-2 score. Depratto had an assist in the win.

On Sunday the Axion defeated the Oakville Ice 4-2 as Depratto scored once and added an assist.

Sports editor's note: a story including the whereabouts and stats of other athletes with Glengarry ties will be printed in next week's The Glengarry News sports pages.

A NEW LOOK: Beth Depratto has traded teams in the National Women's Hockey League. She's now skating with the Montreal Axion after playing as a rookie with the Ottawa Raiders last season.

Rebels rebound with win over Lions

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The junior B Char-Lan Rebels rebounded after losing to the Alexandria Glens Friday night by picking up a one-sided victory over Morrisburg at home Saturday night.

The 9-3 victory over the Lions continued a streak in which Rebels' head coach Eric Fontaine said he's been pleased with the effort from his club.

"The last three games we've played really well. We have to work on little things and if the guys take bad penalties they'll start sitting. The little things can be worked out. We just have to work hard."

"It's good to see Jarvo back," said Fontaine.

"He was just getting frustrated and you didn't see that jump in him. When Jarvo clicks that whole line (with Derek Duval and Pat Johnson) clicks."

"Reezer shows up every game to play. He's one guy who's ready every night and he supplies physical play for us. It's nice to see him pick up four assists."

Fontaine added that Pat Lemay is another player who may not be getting on the scoresheet regularly but has played "very well lately."

Jason Denio with two, Cody Gove and Justin Elliott scored for Morrisburg in the loss.

"We came out strong Saturday and they tied it up after we got a couple of bad penalties," said Fontaine.

Fontaine said he was impressed with the flow of Friday's game in Alexandria and the lack of penalties as well.

"I was surprised Friday night. It was a good up-and-down game and not too many penalties. Emotions were high of course but the game was played the way it should be."

Rebels notes:

This weekend the Rebels travel to Morrisburg on Friday for an 8:15 p.m. start. On Saturday the Rebels are back on home ice against the Athens Aeroes for a 7:45 p.m. start. That games marks Char-Lan's beginning of the inter-league season in which teams from the St. Lawrence division face off against Rideau division teams.

The Rebels played without a back-up goaltender Friday in Alexandria as Bryan O'Shaughnessy was out with work commitments. Mike King may be out of the lineup this weekend with prior commitments. Forward Adam Beehler didn't play last weekend because of a hip injury but he may be back this weekend.

Glens

He's played on the point during powerplays for the junior A Hawkesbury Hawks in the past and the Glens' coaching staff like his mobility both forward and backwards.

"We need him up front but we now know he can play there and play well," said Menard.

With 6:42 gone in the third period and the Glens on the powerplay Langevin was given a two minute roughing penalty along with an Akwesasne penalty killer.

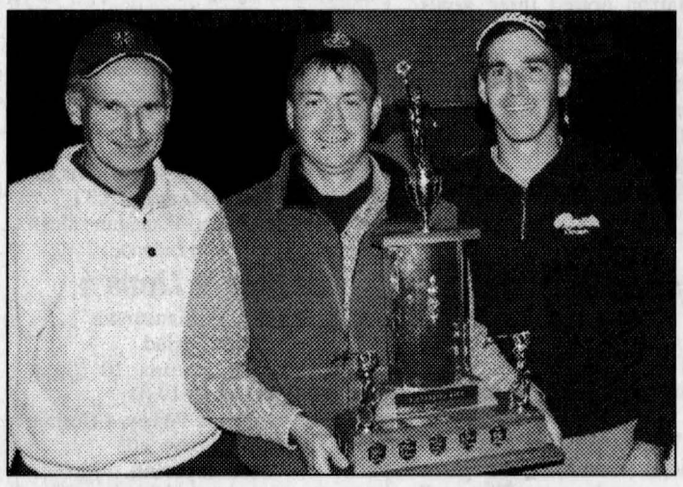
Langevin didn't agree with the call and let it be known to the referee. Langevin was given an additional 10-minute game misconduct then a match penalty for his rant.

Menard doesn't feel the original penalty was warranted either.

"In my point of view I don't blame him at all. The guy grabbed him in a headlock and they both got a penalty. Simon did nothing. He talked to the referee a little louder than he should. You ask any referee in the league who # 21 on Alexandria is and they'll say Simon Langevin. You ask then who other numbers are and they have no clue. There's no leeway with him at all. It'll definitely be tough to play without him for three games but the young guys will now have an opportunity to step up."

Defenceman Christian Piquette was out of the lineup Friday with prior commitments. He left the Akwesasne game after the first period after being heavily hit from Derek Lyons and complaining about a headache. According to Menard the Glens' staff took him off the ice for precautionary reasons.

Forward Nick Adam is still out with an ankle injury but Menard said he may be in the lineup this weekend. The same goes for defenceman Jarni Jean Louis who missed last weekend's action due to a sore hip.



MENS' CHAMPS: Several male golfers shared top honours this past year at Glengarry Golf and Country Club. Larry Henderson, centre, captured the Alexandria Open, Dan Watson, left, captured the match play title, and Kevin MacGillivray, right, won recognition as the most improved male golfer. Other winners in men's competitions this year include Jean Theoret, men's club champion; Denis Levert, B Flight champ; Maurice Deguire, C Flight champ; George Cousineau, senior champ; Ricky Duchesneau, Glengarry Open; and Gaston Gagne and Andre Bellemare, Doubles Match Play.

LADIES' CHAMPS: The past season proved a busy one for women golfers at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club. In addition to the club championship, a women's team participated for the first time in the Ladies Intersectional competitions and a Match Play Ladder competition was held. Shown are four of this year's individual winners. From left is Georgette Vanderwee, B Flight Champion, Daney Gallagher, C Flight Champion, Nicole Tourangeau, Club Champion, and Jeane Sigurdson, A Flight Match Play Champion. Missing is Sandra Banister, B Flight Match Play Champion, and Fran Holt, most improved women player.

Lacombe's almost draw even with Dave's Drywall

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Lacombe's Custom Work fell to one of the league-leaders in Dave's Drywall by a 1-0 score.

Ladies broomball

Rayco has made a run for the lead in the standings of the Char-Lan Women's Broomball League.

Rayco has won their last three games including a 6-0 decision this past Sunday against La Maison.

Sharon Jasper with two, Josee Pomerleau, Jen Casterson and Alex Lunan scored in the victory.

In the other game Collette Lemaire and Laurie Sauve scored in the 2-0 win for Top Notch over Laframboise.

On Oct. 19 Rayco defeated Top Notch, who still leads the division by two points, by a 2-0 score.

In the other game Joanne Brault had both goals in La Maison's first win of the season, a 2-0 decision over Laframboise.

Atlantic Hotel has started the season 2-0 in Alexandria Women's Indoor Soccer action.

Atlantic defeated the Northerners 5-1 last on Oct. 22. Josee Legault and Sue Filion with two each and Kelly Lavigueur scored. Mel Chartrand scored in the loss.

On Oct. 20 Glen Sandfield defeated Char-Lan 3-2.

Janie Westgate, Natasha Brodie and Kaitlyn MacPherson scored in the victory. Laine McDonell and Vanessa VanSleeuwen replied for Char-Lan.

In the other game that night the Northerners opened their season with a 4-1 win over the Springers.

Sherrill Norman, Chartrand, Margo MacIntosh and Margaret McLeister scored for the Northerners.

The Springers' goal came from Katie MacLeod.

Losing streak will lead to changes for Mustangs

MAXVILLE

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The head coach of the Maxville Mustangs junior C hockey team considered Saturday night's 7-2 home-ice loss to Ottawa East, the worst game he has ever witnessed.

"We didn't play one minute out of sixty," said Kevin Lalonde on Monday.

"I thought about that game all night Saturday, Sunday and still today. I just want to forget that game. Every one of our players were spectators."

With the loss coupled with a win by Vankleek Hill on the weekend, the Mustangs now find themselves in last place. Lalonde is ready to start making changes to try and break out of the Mustangs' six-game losing streak.

"I said it before and I still feel we have a good team. We just can't afford to take nights off. Absolutely there's going to be a tougher practice this week and ice time will be affected. So far I've been rolling the lines pretty evenly. I think that will change now. If the guys have a night like they did Saturday, they'll find themselves on the bench."

In the pre-season Lalonde said he wanted to go with three lines this year, injuries and other commitments has made him rethink that idea.

The club has signed Alexandria resident Matt Lalonde to the club and he'll likely skate on a line with friend Shane O'Brien.

"He was one of our last cuts at training camp and at that time it was about numbers."

"If they do that I don't think they'll have trouble beating any team. I think we're better this year than last because we have guys who can put the puck in the net. We just have to play smarter and work harder."

Thunder 7 Mustangs 2

The Mustangs didn't exactly make huge strides in improving their start to the game after consecutive weeks of falling behind early. Still the Mustangs sneaked out of the first period tied with the Thunder at 1-1.

"I told the guys after the first period that we played terrible but we still had a chance to put it away, said Lalonde"

"I felt bad for him and he was in for enough punishment. He's played well all year and that was a game we could've won."

The Mustangs got goals from Dale Ferguson, his second of the season, and Jonathon Bray, his fourth, in the loss.

The Thunder had goals from Guillaume Aubut and Matt Blois with two each and singles from Daniel Gagnon, Samuel Mailhot and Daniel Renaud, who also handed out three assists.

Mustangs notes:

The Mustangs host the Casselman Stars on Saturday at the Maxville and District Sportsplex starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Mustangs played Saturday without captain Pierre Lacombe (prior commitments), Jordan Johnson (prior commitments), J.R. Besner (shoulder injury, day-to-day) and Stephane Denault (suspension).

Besner is expected to be at practice this week and it will be decided then if he plays Saturday.

Forward Andrew Michaud has had problems with a separated shoulder for some time and has started to receive therapy.

"It kept coming out on him so we told him he's not playing until he gets the okay from a doctor."

It also seems that rookie forward Brody Coleman re-broke his hand on Saturday night so he may also be out of the lineup for some time.

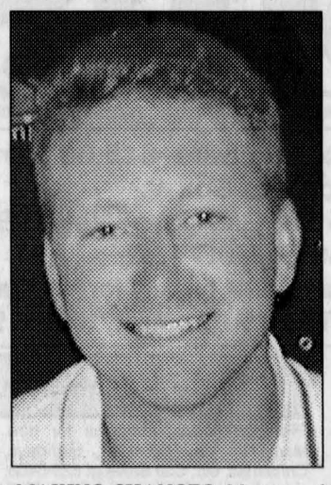
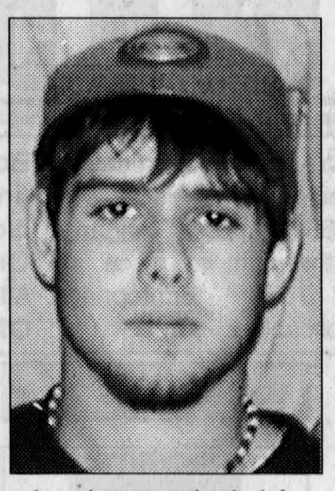
The Martintown resident, who plays regularly with the Char-Lan midget B team, impressed the coach in his first game.

"He was one of the only kids who appeared to me to be trying out there. He looked good."





MAKING CHANGES: Mustangs' head coach Kevin Lalonde, left, is ready to make changes if his club can't bust out of their current six-game losing streak. One change has already taken place as the team has announced the signing of late-training camp cut Matt Lalonde, right, of Alexandria.

SOCCER FUN: Tammy MacSweyn and Jeff St. Denis were two of several local soccer players who gathered at Alexandria Island Park recently to participate in the Brian and Brent Memorial Soccer Tournament. The senior boys' soccer team from Glengarry District High School thank everyone who participated, especially the 11 team captains. The event raised $2,500 for the team's trip to Germany in April 2004.

Memorial Services

YOU are invited to an "In Memoriam Service," November 6, 2003, 7pm. at Hopital Glengarry Memorial Hospital for all families of deceased members who passed away at the hospital from August 31, 2002 - August 31, 2003. 43-2c

In Memoriam

LACOMBE–In loving memory of a dear husband, father and father-in-law Rene, who passed away November 2, 1997.
Our love for you will always keep
As long as I live, I'll cherish your name,
In memory I see you ever the same.
For I loved you too deeply to ever forget,
Silent thoughts of years together
Hold memories that will last forever.
No longer in our lives to share
But in our hearts, you're always there.
–Love forever, your loving wife Antoinette and family. 44-1p

THIVERGE–In loving memory of a dear mother Donalda who passed away October 24, 2002.
You who have a mother
You'll never know her value
Till she's laid beneath the clay.
–Sadly missed and always remembered by her two daughters Pauline, son-in-law Angus, and Margaret. 44-1p

LEFEBVRE–In loving memory of a dear sister Louise who passed away October 6, 1973.
–Sadly missed and always remembered by Evelyne, Ghislaine, Jacques and Marcel. 44-1p

LEFEBVRE–In loving memory of a dear son Pierre who passed away October 25, 1983.
–Sadly missed and always remembered by Jacques Jr., Dianne, Mom and Dad. 44-1p

QUESNEL–In loving memory of a dear father, Lawrence, who passed away October 21, 1981.
–Sadly missed by son Denis, Helen and kids. 44-1p

Card of Thanks

McINTOSH

The family of the late Donald J. McIntosh wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends, neighbours and associates for their mass offerings, memorial donations, floral tributes, gifts of food and messages of comfort and condolences during the loss of a dear husband and father. A special thank you to the Royal Canadian Legion Branch #297 for conducting the special service of remembrance for a departed comrade. Special thanks to Rev. Fr. Bernard Cameron for the beautiful church service, also to Rev. Fr. George Maloney, Rev. Fr. Gary Ostler, Rev. Rory McDonald and Rev. Mr. Chris Chisholm for their presence in the sanctuary. Thanks to altar servers Shayne and Brody Wheeler and Nick and Jake Mesman, readers Alanna MacDougall and Jennifer vander Zweep, organist and soloist Ken Roach, violinists Donald McPhee, David McPhee, Allan McPhail, Lorne Lawson, pianist Catherine De Freitas and piper Robert Kitts. Thanks to the pallbearers Colin MacDougall, Davis Owen, Greg McIntosh, Alexander (Sandy) McIntosh, John James (J.J.) MacPhee and Sydney vander Zweep. Thanks to neighbours, parish ladies and relatives for preparing and serving an excellent lunch in St. Andrew's Parish Hall. These acts of kindness will always be remembered. Caring and dignified professional service was provided by the Wilson Funeral Home. 44-1c

Country Peace and Quiet

With rustic charm and flair emanating from its dormered log exterior, this 2,400 square foot home on 1.4-acre site off paved road will just steal your heart with its dramatic, contemporary and stylish interior.

- DINING ROOM... "With French door access from the kitchen or the front hardwood floored foyer 9'5"x6'7", this birch hardwood floored room ensures privacy while entertaining or could double as a den and offers easy access to a powder room.
- MASTER RETREAT... Truly an oasis for Mom and Dad with plenty of room to roam, 19'x11'9", serviced by an ensuite 10'2"x8'3", with corner whirlpool bath, 48" shower with seat, ceramic flooring and thermoplastic vanity plus a walk-in closet sized 11'9"x5'2", to accommodate both partners (maybe? ah!). Added bonus is French door access to deck and pool.
- SECOND STOREY... Super bedroom sizes, 14'2"x11'4", 14'1"x11.8", 11'8"x9'7" + jog, for the kids with all serviced by double closets and one brightened by twin skylights. At 10'1"x11'9" the main bath allows for all to do their thing in the morning and a walk-in linen closet makes bed changing a cinch. An oak-railed loft 13'x10'6" affords a great view of the interior and exterior and is ideal for a computer and/or play station area.
- RELAX... "Catch a little R&R as you watch the sunset off your roofed front verandah, 46'x5', or catch an early sunrise on your 32'x12' rear deck overlooking an above ground pool and a recently dug pond with a "Lucky" sighting of a duck or two.
- KITCHEN... Spacious at 22'6"x11'6", the ceramic-floored eat-in kitchen is serviced by recessed and valence-lighted maple cabinetry, (secretary desk appliance garage, pantry pull trays) with island 8'5"x3' fully open to the living room and affords you a panoramic view of the countryside from the bay windowed dining noon. Convenient French door access to a ceramic floored mud room 15'x16' off of the double garage 22'x23' housing washer/dryer hook-ups and double closet heightens your efficiency.
- LIVING ROOM... Flooded with natural light from nearly a fully windowed wall this room 24'6"x16'1", with birch hardwood flooring is warmed by oak mantel ceramic hearthed gas fireplace offer French door access to deck and pool, and a dramatic flair with its vaulted ceiling. Truly a "Great" room.
- WONDERLAND... How else to describe the fully carpeted, dry walled 860 sq. ft. of recreation room highlighted by a wainscotted, recessed, ceramic hearthed gas stove, built-in station for your in-home theatre, and chair-railed pool room area.

NOTICE OF PASSING OF A ZONING BYLAW AMENDMENT BY THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of North Glengarry passed bylaw No. Z-06-2003 on the 27th day of October, 2003 under Section 34 of the Planning Act.

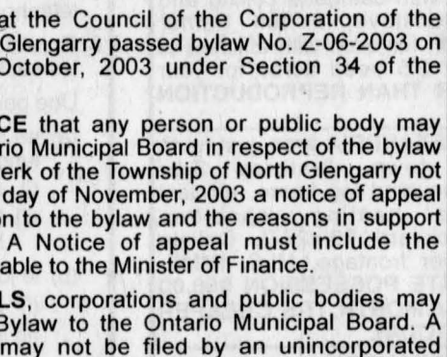
AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or public body may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect of the bylaw by filing with the Clerk of the Township of North Glengarry not later than the 18th day of November, 2003 a notice of appeal setting out objection to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objection. A Notice of appeal must include the prescribed fee, payable to the Minister of Finance.

ONLY INDIVIDUALS, corporations and public bodies may appeal a Zoning Bylaw to the Ontario Municipal Board. A notice of appeal may not be filed by an unincorporated association or group. However, a notice of appeal may be filed in the name of an individual who is a member of the association or group on its behalf.

THE PURPOSE of this zoning amendment is to rezone lands located as part of the west half of Lot 8, and part of the east half of Lot 9, Concession 3, Kenyon Ward, Township of North Glengarry, County of Glengarry. The zoning amendment will change the current designations of General Agriculture (AG), and Rural to General Agriculture Special Exemption, AG-13 and from Rural (RU) to Rural Special Exception, RU-6. The amendment would permit the permit the property to be used for Agricultural uses, excluding the use of the property for residential purposes.

THE COMPLETE bylaw is available for inspection at the Township of North Glengarry office during regular office hours.

AN EXPLANATION of the purpose and effect of the bylaw and a key map showing the location of the lands to which the bylaw applies are included.



DATED AT the Township of North Glengarry this 28th day of October, 2003.

Visitation was held at St. Mathew's Presbyterian Church in Ingleside on Thursday and Friday followed by a service in celebration of William Fleming's life on Friday, August 8, 2003 at 11am. Pastor David Skinner officiated. Interment followed at St. Lawrence Valley Cemetery.

A Masonic Memorial Service was held on Thursday, August 7, 2003 at 7pm. In attendance were the brethren of Farran-Ault Masonic Lodge no.256 and many visiting brethren from other lodges in eastern district.

The pallbearers were Reid MacIntyre, Don Eaman, Rosemary Rutley, Wendy Froats, Tom Tulloch and Ian MacLeod. Funeral arrangements entrusted to the Brownlee Funeral Home, Maple Street, Ingleside.

Margaret Annabel "Greta" Kennedy

Passed away peacefully on Tuesday, September 23, 2003 at the Cornwall General Hospital at the age of 92 years. Gretta Kennedy of Maxville, beloved wife of the late Carmen Kennedy.

Loving mother of Jack (Fairley) of Cornwall, Sheila Dore (the late John) of Moose Creek and Grace Kennedy of Cornwall. Caring grandmother of Katherine Collis (Brian). Karen Stone (Daniel), and William Dore, and great-grandmother of Evin, Brianna, and Blake Collis, Adam, and Rachel Stone.

Cherished aunt of Marilyn Bradley (Gerald). Gretta is predeceased by one infant child Williams. Relatives and friends called at Munro & Morris Funeral Homes Ltd. 20 Main Street, Maxville on Thursday.

A Funeral Service was celebrated in the chapel of the Funeral Home by Gerald Bradley on Friday, September 26, 2003 at 2pm. Interment followed in the Maxville Cemetery.

The pallbearers who assisted were William Dore, Bruce Kennedy, Walter Blaney, Bruce MacDonald, Donald Ferguson and Ken MacNeil.

Honorary pallbearer was Donald Kennedy. Donations to the Heart & Stroke Foundation of Ontario or the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church would be greatly appreciated by the family. As a Memorial to Gretta, a tree will be planted in Memory Woods.

Williamstown fair may face several changes soon

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Williamstown Fair organizers could be up against some unique challenges in the near future, says the president of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society.

"We need to be aware of what might come at us from other sources," said Bruce Kennedy. "We must comply with more rules and regulations...and more issues than ever before."

Mr. Kennedy was speaking at the Williamstown Fair Society's annual general dinner meeting, held Friday night at St. Mary's Centre in Williamstown.

One such issue is the threat to livestock health that could see a reduction in the number of cattle entered in the fair. At the same time, Mr. Kennedy said that a poll of fair board directors had been taken and the board would like to see "more agriculture."

The directors also said they didn't want to see the fair grow too big, and they wanted to preserve the look of the grounds. Mr. Kennedy assured members that the fair would continue to go in the same direction that has led to its successes in recent years.

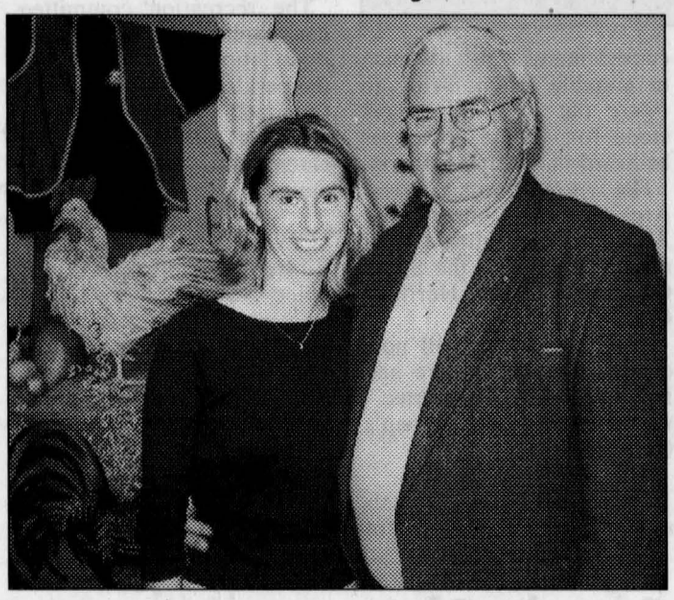
"We fell just short of another record year," he said.

Mr. Kennedy said he had been doing some research into the annual fair – which is Canada's oldest – and entertained the crowd with some details he had found in the archives. To enter things in the fair in 1861, members had to pay $3 (the same as today). The prize money was $5 for first prize, $3 for second, and $2 for third – more than is given in today's home and garden division. There were no women prize winners.



FRIENDS OF AG: Retiring MPP John Cleary was the recipient of a special presentation at the Annual Meeting of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, Friday in Williamstown. Fair Board Director Sommer Robertson made the presentation to the politician she called her "mentor and friend."

SUE HARRINGTON PHOTO

But whereas admission to the fair today is $5 (or $10 for a weekend pass), the entrance fee, in 1862, was 12 and a half cents.

Several presentations were made at the dinner to honour those who had contributed to the fair and to agriculture in the area.

A special award was presented to retiring MPP John Cleary by fair board director, Sommer Robertson, to celebrate his support and commitment to the Williamstown Fair.

"He is a politician who has never forgotten his agricultural roots," said Ms. Robertson. "Anytime the fair has needed anything, he has been there."

Mr. Cleary acknowledged that he had "a soft spot" in his heart for the people of the agricultural community.

This year's winner of The Ontario Agriculture Society Service Award for contributions to agriculture in the community, was Kerry McDonald. The award was presented by Jerome MacDonell, who praised Mr. McDonald's work on his bicentennial dairy farm, as well as his work with his church, and with the Char-Lan Food Grains Bank.

Mr. McDonald, who earlier this year received a heart transplant, took the opportunity in his acceptance speech to thank the community for its support.

"Without you and your faith, I would not be here tonight," he said.

Ron Eamer presented the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society Merit Award to George Runions, while the Past President's certificate went to Clarence Robertson.

New president of the Home and Garden division, Margo Poirier, presented the Premier Exhibitor's plaque (awarded to the person with the most points in the showhall), to Ans Fiske. Accepting on Mrs. Fiske's behalf, was her daughter Jane.

Guest speaker for the evening, local artist, Esther Bryan, spoke about the meaning behind Invitation: the quilt of belonging, which has drawn more than 1,000 visitors to Williamstown in the past six months alone.

Mrs. Bryan stunned the audience by asking at the offset for the "real" Canadian to please stand up.

"How about the real Glengarrian?"

"Who are we as Canadians? Most of all, who do we want to be?"

Rather than give a description of the quilt, which is comprised of blocks representing every country in the world, and all of the aboriginal groups in Canada, Mrs. Bryan told of the friendships that have been formed since its inception.

The executive of the fair board for 2004 is President – Bruce Kennedy; 1st Vice–President – Gary Robertson; 2nd Vice–President – Ron Graham; Home and Garden Division President – Margo Poirier, and Secretary/Treasurer – Beverley Runions.

Others on the board of directors include: Bill Chambre, Neil Dixon, Eugene Dupuis, Ron Eamer, Mac Edwards, Ralph Gordon, John Hodgson, Heather Irwin, Glenn Jurchuk, Carolyn Laing, Lorraine Lea, Lise Marvell, Rick Marvell, Alex MacDonald, Betty MacDonald, Jerome MacDonell, Garnet MacDougall, Alpin MacGregor, Kevin MacLeod, Jim McDonell, Tara McRae, Sommer Robertson, Robin Thomson, and Jay Woollven.

South Glengarry Council Notebook

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Despite the weather, the project to straighten Purcell Road is under way and on target, Public Works Director Ewen MacDonald told council.

Mayor Dave MacDonald reported that the residents of Bayview Estates were happy that the work is currently being done.

Tree planting at landfill site

Administrator-coordinator Marcel Lapierre urged progress on the initiative, recommended by the township's environment committee.

"The longer we wait for trees to be planted, the longer it will be before they will make a screen," he said.

Mr. Lapierre will look into the type of trees to be planted, the cost, and the timing of the project and will bring the information back to council.

Imperial Oil site

The clean-up work will include removal of the septic system, grubbing, and brush removal, at a cost of $200,000 to Imperial Oil.

Mayor MacDonald said that despite concern by the MTO about the South Service Road, Imperial Oil were "putting in the investment" to clear the site.

"They're not 100 per cent sure yet, but are working with food partners for a 2004 start," he told council.

Mr. MacDonald said that the company had been notified of the township's request that buildings on the site be in keeping with the historic architecture of the area.

Fire and Rescue Services

Council received the Fire Study Report and recommended that the next council take action to begin to develop the proposals contained in it.

Deputy Mayor Frank Prevost, who serves as chair of the fire committee, and Mayor MacDonald were part of the review.

"I know the chiefs are looking forward to seeing this report," said Mr. Prevost.

The document is to be reviewed by council and then returned to the fire departments for their recommendations.

Name change

That guttural sounding acronym, "LACAC," which caused many a mighty man to stumble when trying to figure out what the letters stood for, should no longer be heard in South Glengarry.

The township's Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee will now be known as the South Glengarry Heritage Committee.

"This new name will now clearly state the nature and mandate of this committee," says the report of the group's Oct. 15 meeting.

Bainsville Park

Council has agreed to enter a five year lease agreement with the Bainsville Recreation Committee for the management of Bainsville Park.

The recreation committee has applied for a Trillium Foundation grant to develop the parklands and part of the foundation's requirements are that such a lease be entered into with the municipality.

Anyone want fill?

Council tried to give away fill from the Imperial Oil site twice during Monday's meeting – once to the Bainsville Recreation Committee and earlier to a gentleman who was having drainage problems on his property.

"I know you were looking for fill," Mayor MacDonald said to Jim Danaher who was present at the meeting.

Mr. Danaher said that although the ice surface area had already been paved, there were other parts of the park where it could be used as well.

"We'll take whatever we can get," he said.

Guiderail to be replaced

Three sides of the guiderail at the Kraft Road Bridge near Williamstown will be replaced at a cost of $20,895. The work will be done by Peninsula Construction Inc., a Toronto based company which has been doing work in SDG.

South Glengarry council approves new Catholic school's site plan

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

The proposed Catholic High School, to be constructed at the corner of Tyotown and Boundary Roads in South Glengarry, has moved another step ahead in its march to fruition.

On Monday night, South Glengarry Council approved a site plan control agreement which was required before a special holding zone designation could be removed from the zoning of the property.

The holding zone was a requirement of the Ministry when it gave approval to the project.

Although the site plan agreement addresses such issues as the location of the school on the property, drainage, and the request for various studies on noise, traffic, the railway, and incompatible land use in the area of the school site, Development Officer, Dwane Crawford said the agreement was subject to revision.

"It's a living document," Mr. Crawford said in answer to Mayor MacDonald who wanted to know if the site plan could "still be open on many counts."

"It just allows them [the school board] to get started," said Mr. Crawford.

The mayor told council that the resolution was to approve the site plan only.

"We will address things as we go along."

Site services in the agreement have been designed on the assumption that water and sanitary services will be available from the City of Cornwall. If services are not available, the agreement will have to be amended.

"You want to go into this with your eyes open, that's all," he warned, after learning that the school board had deposited a letter of credit for $75,000 with the municipality for off-site construction such as road widening, entrance and exit lanes, and sidewalks.

"It could be $100,000 for sidewalks," Mr. McDonell said.

The school board is hoping to have enough of the construction completed to allow the school to open in September, 2004.

AULD LANG SYNE

Gleaned from the fyles of The Glengarry News

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO Friday, November 6, 1903

•McPherson and Schell are erecting a medium-sized foundry on their premises and will be able to supply their own needs in iron castings.

W.C. McKillican of Breadalbane, has been elected vice-president of the Athletic Association of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. He won the hurdle race in the fine time of 19 seconds.

•John R. Chisholm has been appointed to superintend the erection of our new Post Office. Workmen started the building Monday.

•Tupper McDonald returned to Williamstown from Queen's University this week, where he has been playing fullback on the senior football team.

NINETY YEARS AGO Friday, November 7, 1913

•Rural Mail Route No. 2 Alexandria, was inaugurated on Monday, when D.K. McDonald made his first trip.

•A business deal of importance was put through this week when Angus McDonald, insurance agent and coal dealer, disposed of his interests to Michael, John J. and Peter Morris, formerly of Lochiel.

•S. Dupuis has sold his farm at Athol to J. Villeneuve and Mr. Dupuis has purchased a very fine property on Lake Champlain in Vermont.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO Friday, November 9, 1923

•Arrangements have been made by Fred Leslie of Ottawa to purchase from the Alexandria Woollen Mills the east mill adjoining the plant. Mr. Leslie has been manufacturing tin plate in Ottawa and proposes moving his plant and machinery here.

•On Wednesday morning His Lordship the Bishop of Alexandria invested the Rev. D.R. Macdonald with the robes of office of monsignor in St. Margaret's Church, Glen Nevis.

•Miss Katie McRae of Brockville, visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Dan McRae, Skye, before leaving for Kenora, where she intends to do hospital work.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO Friday, November 10, 1933

•One of Alexandria's most eminent sons died Saturday morning, November 4 at Duluth, Minn., in the person of Archibald Mark Chisholm. Born here in 1862, Mr. Chisholm went to Chicago as a youth and in mining and banking in Minnesota, earned a fortune.

•A Canadian championship came to Glengarry with the performance of a pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks, owned by Angus Urquhart, Laggan. They made the highest score, 2,825.7 points, in the egg-laying contests held at Experimental Farms across Canada during the year.

SIXTY YEARS AGO Friday, November 5, 1943

•Two of the Gormley boys are hospitalized overseas. Sergeant Gilbert Gormley, with the Central Mediterranean forces, suffered petrol burns to the face, arms and chest. A brother, Lieutenant Angus Gormley, suffered a fractured ankle while riding a motorcycle on manoeuvres in England.

•Captain H.L. Cheney of Alexandria, now with the Dental Corps, pinned the "wing" of an air bomber on his son, Reg, at graduating ceremonies of the RCAF at London, Ont., Friday. At Brantford, on Thursday, Pilot Officer Ross Hamilton graduated and won his commission. He is a son of Rev. J.H. and Mrs. Hamilton, Maxville.

•Previously reported missing after air operations overseas, Pilot Officer William Ruxton of Williamstown is now reported killed in air operations.

FIFTY YEARS AGO Thursday, November 5, 1953

•The harvest of hay and grain was lost when the barn of Napoleon Charbonneau, Lot 36, Eighth Concession, Lancaster, was destroyed by fire.

•Rev. Bernard Pion of Cornwall has been appointed pastor at Dalkeith. He replaces Rev. J.H. Ouimet who is in ill health.

FORTY YEARS AGO Thursday, November 7, 1963

•Donald C. McIntosh, 42, of Maxville, is recovering in hospital following a hunting accident. One of a group of deer hunters, McIntosh was hit by shotgun pellets when a gun in the car discharged.

THIRTY YEARS AGO Thursday, November 8, 1973

•Catherine Street running from Main Street east by the post office has been designated as a one way street running east to Bishop instead of west as formerly.

•A $13,000 expansion has been added to the Glengarry Meat Packing Abattoir at North Lancaster.

•The Association of Counties and Regions of Ontario will hold their convention in the United Counties in 1975, Warden Gerard Massie informed The News this week.

TWENTY YEARS AGO Wednesday, November 2, 1983

•A byelection in Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry has been called by Premier William Davis for December 15 to elect a successor to Tory MPP Osie Villeneuve who died five weeks ago after nearly 35 years in office.

•Reduced snowfall last winter, coupled with a hot dry summer, has left the water level in Loch Garry 18 inches lower than normal and this could jeopardize Alexandria's water supply this winter if there is not sufficient rainfall before freeze-up.

TEN YEARS AGO Wednesday, November 3, 1993

•Maxville's John Baxter became a world champion for the fourth time this past weekend when he won the international powerlifting championships for the blind in Ottawa. He lifted a total of 640 kg. beating out a field of 29 competitors from seven countries.

•Alexandria Creations, the shirt manufacturing plant in operation for nearly a year, has closed. Employees are owed tens of thousands of dollars in back wages, vacation pay and termination pay.

•Alexandria council has approved a rezoning to allow the creation of an animal hospital on Dominion Street, despite the protests of residents near the site.

90th birthday celebrations for Legroix

Residents and staff of the Palace who are members of Community Lifecare Inc., and family were invited to a 90th birthday of Mrs. Stennetta Lagroix on the long weekend of Thanksgiving. Guests came from as far as Australia, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Windsor, Bradford, Kitchener, Niagara Falls and locally. It was celebrated at the Fraternite Hall by the daughter and son. The weather was fantastic for those who travelled from afar.

On Wednesday, October 22 the Day Away Program from Outreach were invited by Nicole Bourbonnais (Retirement Counsellor) for the birthday party of the month. Everyone enjoyed the entertainment of Leo and Noella Paquette. A delicious strawberry shortcake was served. The celebrations were Mrs. Stennetta Lagroix, Mr. Duncan MacDonald, Mrs. Aurore Emond and Mrs. Marjorie MacGillis. Best wishes to all.
