A 'century of memories' celebrated at fair

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

''In the 100 years of its existence, the Maxville Fair has generated a century of memories which are held by each individual who has ever participated in its festivities,'' reflected the centennial queen Cathy Arkinstall last weekend.

Miss Arkinstall of Dunvegan, just moments before being crowned Kenyon Agricultural Centennial Queen, told spectators, ''These past recollections, different as they are for every person, all have one thing in common — they are what brings us back.''

Cathy's words seemed to sum up the fair; a fair that drew about 9,000 people over the weekend, about 2,500 more than last year, a fair that mixed pomp and pageantry — with the official fair opening by Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, Jack Riddell — with a midway, cotton candy and a demolition derby.

''It's a great place to party,'' 15-year-old Carmen Rupp from Dunvegan said. '' You meet friends that you haven't seen around for a while. You spend a lot of money — that's the bad point.''

''It's terrific because there are so many fantastic things around, like those funny game things,'' said Apple Hill's Sabrina Mandell, 15. ''And the petting farm and the clowns are pretty cool, too.''

''It's fun to meet the people, and a sense of community,'' Cornwall's Audrey Morres said.

''It really touches the centennial theme, I find,'' said Maxville's Helene Reil. ''They really made an effort with antiques and old clothes.''

She referred specifically to the period costumes worn by Kenyon Agricultural Society's lady directors as they hostessed the fair, also to the clothes dating from over a hundered years ago which were displayed at a centennial fashion show, and the centennial parade that scrupulously maintained its ''The Way it Was'' theme with archaic vehicles and matching costumes.

The good-old-days theme was even carried over to the centennial quilt, made especially for the parade and depicting various fair aspects. It was raffled off and won by Maxville's Doreen Hayman.

And people did take advantage, starting by watching one of the largest Holstein shows in Ontario, the annual display of domestic exhibits in the Maxville Sports' Complex, and the Canada Packers Quilt Collection.

They also watched a Highland Dancing competition in front of the grandstand and saw Finch's Sarah MacMillan awarded the trophy for advanced intermediate, Monkland's Sherry Crawford receive the open 11 years and under trophy, Maxville's Heather MacLeod awarded the open 13 years and under trophy, Williamsburg's Sally Stevens receive the open 16 years and under trophy, Cornwall's Tracy MacDonald awarded the beginner eight years and under trophy, St. Andrew's West's Amie McCosham receive the beginner nine years trophy, Finch's Jackie Leduc awarded the beginner 16 years and under trophy, and Martintown's Katie McIntosh receive the novice intermediate trophy.

Many spectators also attended a demolition derby held at dusk. Doug Brown won the first heat and the free-for-all and Steven MacMaster and Keith Rigby tied in the second heat.

In the evenings, the crowds invaded Angus Gray Hall to hear Creedence Clearwater Revival clone Green River and singer Bruce Golden.

People had such a good time that many said they didn't even mind the half-an-hour wait for two special centennial programs, the parade and the fashion show, both of which were behind schedule.

The only complaint spectators had was the weather, which had the potential to put a damper on spirits Friday and Saturday afternoons.

But most agreed with Montreal's Robert Chenier who said: ''It sort of put a damper on it, spoiled on it, but not enough to worry about.''

While most spectators shrugged the rain off, game concessioners said they suffered losses that weren't so easy to forget.

''We lost a lot of money since last year,'' concessionaire Marc Therien of Ottawa said. For example, on Saturday night his bosses' booths made only $300, instead of the $1,100 they usually make, he said.

He blames bad weather for discouraging people from coming to the fair.

Joanne Hall, a concession owner, agreed.

''A lot of out-of-towners won't come if it's raining,'' she said, explaining why business was slow.

The disappointment was shared by some exhibitors who rented space to sell or promote products. Usually, they are given space in the exhibition hall, but because the hall was filled with more exhibits this year, they were instead housed beneath the grandstand.

Many of the exhibitors complained of either cold weather or poor foot traffic — some, such as Mary Kay Cosmetics and Ward Mallette accountants, packed up and left. Six others, KAS president Catherine Kippen said, didn't even show up.

On Saturday, the remaining exhibitors were moved to the foyer of the sports complex hall. The move mollified many, including a representative from World Book Children who said business picked up.

By Sunday, the weather had cleared, bringing with it throngs of people and better business for most game concessions. But it also brought four injuries on the soccer field.

On the whole, the KAS was pleased with the fair, KAS President Katherine Kippen said yesterday (Tuesday). The society hasn't yet calculated the financial success, but she said the fair probably made money.

Also, she said, the rain was a blessing, keeping farmers off the fields and instead bringing them to the fair. XmIt was this same rain, KAS Secretary Janis Blaney said yesterday (Tuesday), which kept people watching inside exhibits instead of standing outside playing games and riding the midway.

Fair-weather friends

Gretzky, a German shepherd and Collie puppy, rested on the small shoulders of Martintown's five-year-old Devon Murray while waiting for the Maxville Fair centennial parade to begin on Saturday (May 27). The duo was part of the Stormont Holstein Club's parade float. Devon is the grandson of the club's past-president, Marland Murray and the son of Campbell Murray, both on the float, but not shown. His mom is Alison.

Prom night crash injures area girl

Prom night came to an abrupt halt for a 16-year-old Westley's Point girl who remains in critical condition in a Cornwall hospital following a single car accident early Sunday morning.

Lancaster OPP said Manon Brousseau and a passenger in the car, Serge Decoeur, 18, of Lancaster Township, were eastbound on Cty. Rd. 18 in Lancaster Township 3 km east of Hwy. 34, returning home from the Glengarry District High School prom, when Miss Brousseau lost control of the 1985 Toyota Tercel she was driving.

The vehicle skidded across the roadway, entered the ditch and rolled several times. The accident occurred at 1:05 a.m.

Miss Brousseau was transported by ambulance to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall, suffering from severe internal injuries and several fractured ribs. A hospital spokesman said that, as of press time Tuesday, her condition had improved slightly. Brousseau remains on a ventilator.

Mr. Decoeur was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital by ambulance. He had sustained minor injuries.

Mr. Decoeur has been charged with being in possession of liquor under the age of 19.

The vehicle was demolished.

City's addition to waste plan bumps costs by over $100,000

An engineering study which has been carried out over the last two years will have to be redone now that Cornwall has formally joined the Stormont- Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan Steering Committee, said an R. Cave and Associates engineer last week.

Joe Burnham, addressing the committee in Martintown last Thursday, said it will cost another $102,750 to make the changes needed to accommodate Cornwall.

R. Cave and Associates had completed Stage 1, which outlined the need for a waste management system, and Stage 2A, which examined specific types of systems.

The report has to date cost $176,800, 50 per cent of which the committee is expecting will be covered by a grant from the Ministry of Environment (MOE). But Mr. Burnham says the inclusion of Cornwall will bump that cost up more than another $100,000.

Three members of the steering committee will meet with Cornwall to discuss how much of the additional cost the city will pay. The municipalities' shares were determined by population and if Cornwall also contributes on a per capita basis, it could cost the city $156,331, Mr. Burnham said.

The municipalities would receive excess funds provided by Cornwall if this option is accepted, Steering Committee Chairman Merlin Dewing said yesterday (Tuesday).

The committee also resolved to draft a letter to MOE, requesting a 50 per cent grant of the cost incurred by bringing Cornwall into the plan.

During the meeting, Bill Knight, the director of engineering and planning for the City of Cornwall pledged $50,000 immediately.

Public Liaison Committee Chairman Michael Cowley-Owen said Tuesday: ''I think it makes perfect sense for the whole area to get involved in waste management. Cornwall's size is a consideration but so far, they have been co-operative and friendly.''

He referred to an R. Cave and Associates' study last year which determined that Stormont and Glengarry produce about 16,000 metric tonnes of waste a year. This compares to Cornwall, which, according to last year's city records, produces about 62,000 metric tonnes.

Gary Harris, another PLC member, said Monday he is concerned about the inclusion of Cornwall, and has voiced that concern at PLC meetings.

''I personally feel that Cornwall is

SDG public board chairman looks to cutting bussing costs next

Commenting on cuts to the consultant staff and kindergaretn program cutback from full to half days, SD&G County School Board Chairman Joe Gunn said that ''bussing is the next place we will have to reduce costs.''

''We're not going to be caught flat-footed again, as we were this year when the province came through $3 million short on expected education grants,'' Mr. Gunn told The Glengarry News.

''We've got to start now, looking for ways to run a leaner operation,'' he said, ''because the Ministry of Education has already warned us that bussing grants will be cut next year.''

Pointing out that SD&G County board spends $7 million on transportation, Chairman Gunn said ''innovative ways have got to be found to cut down on the miles we drive — perhaps we'll have to stop picking up the kids in front of their homes and set up depots.''

Mr. Gunn said some thought might be given to staggering elementary and secondary school hours so the same buses could be used to transport all students.

He also said the distances for pickup would be looked at. At present, kindergarten students living one km from school are picked up outside their homes — and students in Grade 1 and up are bused if they live more than one mile from their school. The idea of express buses and central pickup points will also be explored.

''We must look at our special programs — in some areas we spend huge amounts bringing children to special programs by taxi,'' Mr. Gunn explained. ''Perhaps we should look into special buses for the handicapped instead of taxis — there are many avenues to explore.''

''We just have to face it,'' Chairman Gun reported, ''the dollars just are not going to be there for education in the next few years. It's purely a political and vote getting thing with the present Ontario government — these cuts in education come directly from Premier Peterson's office — he sees votes in spending money on highways and hospitals, not on schools.''

GTL brokered drivers back to work after settlement reached

By Lesley Cadham
News editor

GTL Group's brokered drivers who called a strike which began Victoria Day began rolling again at 12 a.m. Thursday after voting to accept their employer's offer.

The approximately 340 drivers of XTL, the broker division of GTL Group, returned to work about 1-1/2 hours after a vote last Wednesday night (May 24) determined that the majority of drivers were willing to accept GTL's offer. Votes took place in Montreal, Kingston and Toronto.

Marcel Lalonde, a Green Valley man who was among several drivers who picketed outside the GTL building last week, said the company got a good deal, and that he wasn't unhappy with the outcome.

''Yeah. I'm happy with the settlement. I would have liked to have more. But it's a beginning.

''We want the company to still be in a position to get the loads. If we ask for more, we're not going to get the work: What's the use of getting $2 a mile and sitting at home. We figure we can survive if we keep everything tight,'' he said.

He also estimates that the strike, called by brokers to protest cutbacks, cost $2,000 for each of 10 trucks belonging to local people. He personally lost about $8,000 while his four trucks sat idle.

But Richard Viau, also of Green Valley, said he isn't happy with the settlement. He believes the drivers were rushed into ending the strike because of an injunction issued by the company.

Mr. Lalonde said the strikers weren't aware of the injunction when they broke up the picket line, about 2 p.m. last Tuesday (May 23).

He explained that he'd received a call from the chief steward for the

The delegates had been attending a conference in Vancouver which focused on people who have disappeared in Peru.

Air cadets

Weather permitting, 379 Glengarry Air Cadets will glide on Sunday (June 4) in the afternoon and all day Saturday, June 10. Gliders will be flown in by Quinte Regional Centre staff. Each cadet gets a flight and for some, it's their first. Money raised from raffle ticket sales during the year helps support the gliding operation.

Capt. Reg Cooke, squadron commanding officer, has announced that the last regular Thursday evening parade will be held June 8. To mark Canada Day, cadets will march in the July 1 parade and later will operate a lost and found booth and ice cream stand at the park.

The squadron recently held a leadership exercise/camp out with Capt. Cooke as supervising officer. Tents and other equipment from CFB Trenton, fresh rations and personnel were moved to the site with the help of a truck loaned by a local automobile dealership. Tent groups took turns preparing the meals supervised by Mess Sgt. Perry Marr. The weather was hot one day and wet another, but it didn't interfere with the successful exercise.

Cornwall adds to waste cost

so big that we will have problems deciding where to go" for a landfill site, he said. "Instead of having anything that's close to Alexandria, now it will probably be two or three miles out of Cornwall and that's going to mean increased costs for transportation (of wastes)."

No objections were raised from the 13 steering committee members in attendence — municipal council representatives and PLC members — when Cornwall made its motion.

Mr. Dewing spoke for the committee, saying, "It is a concensus with the advent of Cornwall joining us, it would reduce the overall cost."

At the meeting Mr. Knight outlined Cornwall's current waste management systems. It is planning a blue box collection and considering building a blue box processing plant on a dump site it opened just two years ago. Mr. Knight estimated that the site is good for possibly another 20 years, if treated properly.

Also, Cornwall has held household hazardous waste disposal days, during which residents can dispose of hazardous materials at the city's expense. The two-day project costs $100,000, Mr. Knight said, largely because it costs $250 per sealed container to ship the waste. He added, these containers are usually 75 per cent full of air.

In an interview after the meeting, Mr. Knight said he believed discussions could lead to Stormont and Glengarry renting Cornwall's facilities. Cornwall currently charges a tipping fee of $15 a tonne but Mr. Knight said this charge will double by 1990.

The steering committee had decided on a wet-dry waste management system whereby organic waste would be regenerated and non-biodegradable waste would be processed so that any organic materials would be retrieved, and nonbiodegradable materials, buried.

However, it is not yet known how Cornwall's membership in the master plan will affect past decisions.

Generation gap bridged

Seniors who need a helping hand around the yard or house this summer may find it through Glengarry Inter-Agency.

Program co-ordinator Carol Lapensee-MacDonald said last week three or four students will comb the county starting this week, helping seniors aged 65 with odd jobs around their homes and yards.

The program, in operation for the third year, offers seniors the opportunity to hire students for a nominal hourly fee, to help with tasks such as housecleaning, window-washing, lawn-mowing, hedge-trimming, gardening and light painting. Jobs involving risk, such as tarring rooves and large-scale painting jobs, will not be accepted.

The students' pay is supplemented by the neighborhood support program of the Ministry of Community and Social Services, said Mrs. MacDonald.

Seniors can hire one worker, or all workers, to help out as long as is needed.

While the equipment and materials to carry out tasks must be provided by the senior citizen, Inter-Agency provides the transportation necessary to take the workers anywhere in the county.

Students are available from Monday to Friday, and usually from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Weekend help may be available if necessary.

For more information call Mrs. Lapensee-MacDonald at 525-4802.

The brokers accepted GTL's offer of a three cent per mile increase now and two cent increase per mile later.

Drivers' rates were also dropped by five cents a mile, and the company will now assume the cost of insuring their brokers' trucks, trailers and loads. The company does not pay the deductible.

But drivers did not get satisfaction regarding two other bones of contention which were born in February.

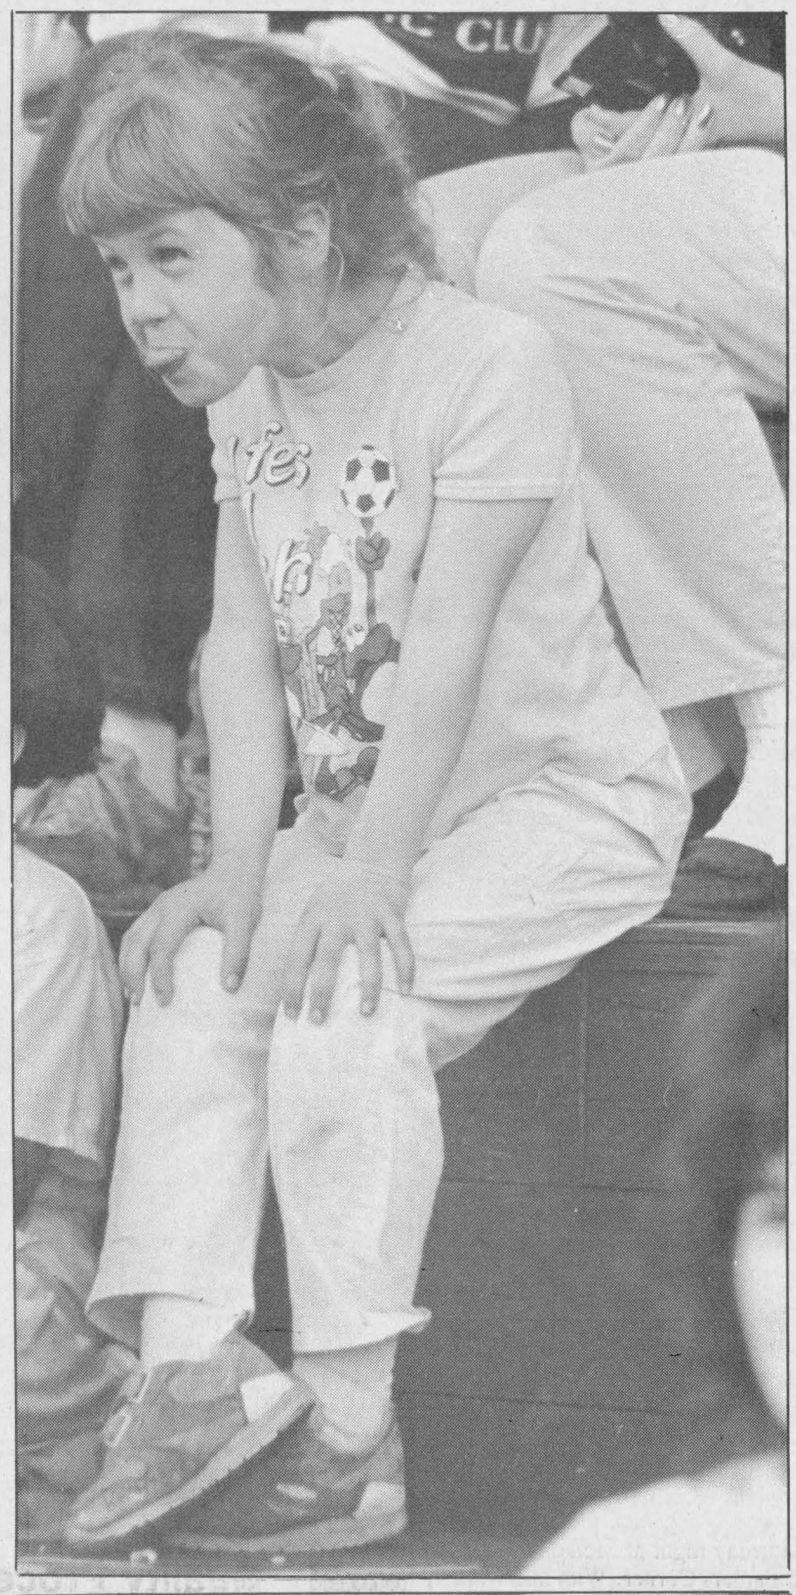
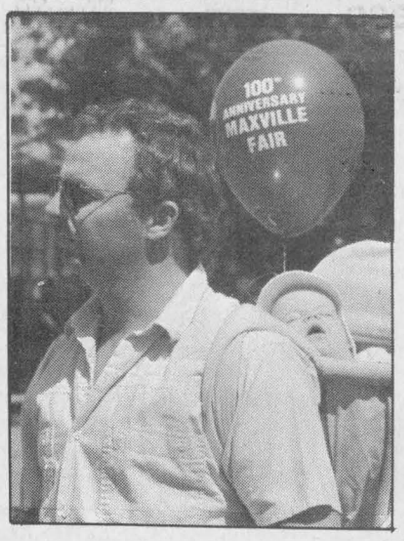
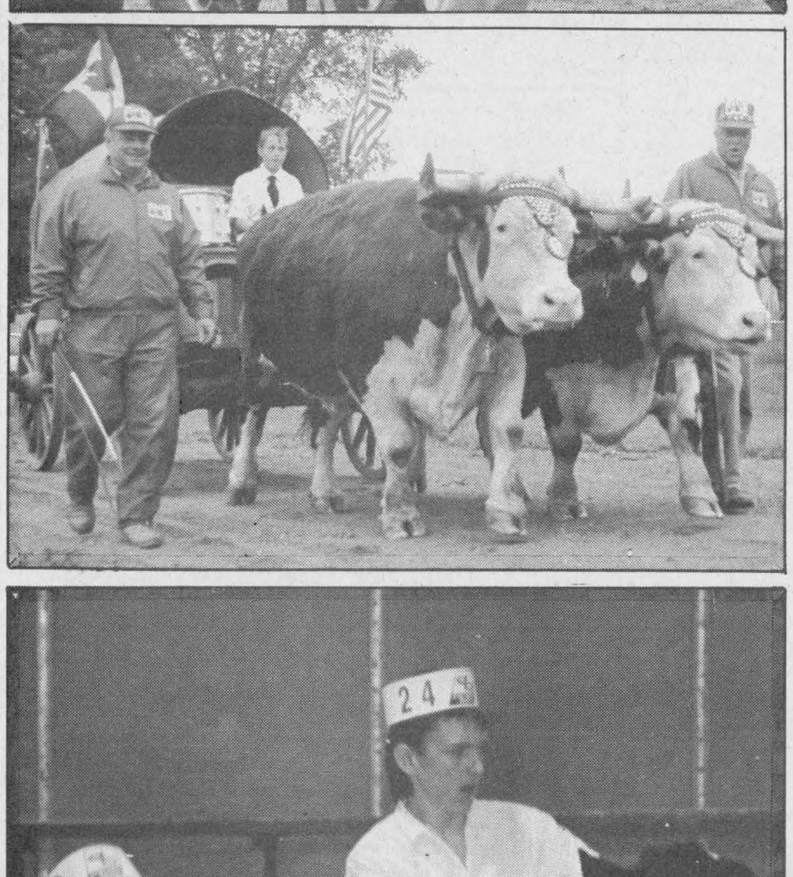
Maxville Fair celebrates 100 years in three days







Staff photos by Anne Kukhta and Bruce Myers

Fair celebrations

A medley of sights were visible at the 100th Maxville Fair this weekend. Counterclockwise from the bottom left corner, on the outside: Dalkeith's Mitzi Howes and Martin Legault of Thurso, Que., nudged their calves into the 4-H calf competition; Two oxens kept pace with the centennial parade with some guidance from their owners, Donald and Russell Loe from Manotick, Ont.; Catherine Kippen got a helping hand out of her vintage buggy during the parade from Minister of Agriculture and Foods Jack Riddell; Maxville's Amanda Moores, 7, and her mother Linda Maxwell were among the 9,000 people that tasted the fair; Maxville's Christine Jack, 5, tries to distract her brother Peter while he sings in the variety show; Cathy VanLoon and Cathy Arkinstall share a laugh while waiting for the centennial queen competition; and Cornwall's Melissa Belmore, 2, couldn't resist feeding a goat at the Wonderland Petting Zoo. In the centre: Maxville's Patricia Hambleton samples an egg roll, dressed for her part in the Bank of Nova Scotia's parade float; Monkland's Kyle Jackson, 6 months, snoozes on dad's, Lyndon, back.

The trophies may have gone out of town but Don Johnson, owner of Martintown's Cherry Crest Holsteins, didn't seem disappointed as he toasted his Holsteins' finishes in what he called a strong show.

Flanked by friends and Holstein Hawlea Lancer Mame (which ranked fifth in class 7 for three-year-olds), Mr. Johnson reflected on the show amidst high- spirited joking.

"It was a super competition," he claimed.

Mr. Johnson has had Holsteins place higher in past years, but he said he was satisfied with his top win by Sandburn Star Barb, which placed third in class 4 for intermediate yearlings. She was the highest placing bovine from a local breeder.

Dalkeith breeder Robert MacDonald agreed with Mr. Johnson's estimation of the day.

"We are really pleased with the competition today. It was a strong show, the strongest show we'll have this year," he said, attributing it to the level of competition coming from all across Canada and the United States.

Mr. MacDonald's top Holstein was Bricon Mattador Pansy, which finished fourth in the class 8 competition for four-year-olds. Three more of his cows finished in the top 10.

"Even top 10," he said, "or top one-half in this show means a lot. Top 10 in this show means as much as a first place in others."

Part owner of the Junior Champ Belcher Lucia Startrek, Gerald Todd came all the way from his farm Todds Dale in Fayetteville, Tenn. This was his third consecutive year at the fair, although his first as a competitor.

Mr. Todd said he was impressed with the local competition, as well as with what he called "the shootout" fair between Ontario and Quebec.

"It's very strong for what's supposed to be a county fair," he said. "Y'all have a great show. The participation is great," he nodded to the local breeders around him.

He classified the Maxville Holstein show as second in Ontario only to the Royal in Toronto and he promised to come back next year.

Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor was Antonio Tourigny and Fils, Reserve Premier Breeder was Laurent Lambert, and Reserve Premier Exhibitor was Ferme Jocelyn Cote Inc.

Oscar Dupasquier's Mawacres Warden Patricia was named High Composite B.C.A. and Jean-Marie Plourde's Lenmyr Majesty Princess won the best udder competition.

Young men note: Kinsmen club wants you

Two local men are fulfilling an old dream by forming the Glengarry branch of the Kinsmen Club.

Art Benton, born in Apple Hill and now living in Martintown, says he and D.A. MacMillan, a former Glengarry resident now living in Cornwall, have wanted to start a Kinsmen Club in this area for years. Both have been longtime members in the club in such towns as Cornwall and Ottawa.

And this year, "before we got too old," they realized their dream.

"I'm quite excited about it," Mr. Benton says. "It's rejuvenated my interest in the Kinsmen. I feel like I'm 25 again."

Mr. Benton says about 30 local men have joined the "young man's club" — members must be between the ages of 21 and 45. Men over 40 can still join, but cannot hold executive positions.

The club was founded in Hamilton in 1920 as a fraternity for young men just out of the First World War, who found themselves at loose ends.

It has evolved into an all-Canadian service club with branches in more than 600 Canadian communities and more than 13,000 members.

Its motto — serving the community's greatest needs — epitomizes its dedication to helping communities through fundraisers. Between 1985 and 1986 alone, $26.3 million dollars was donated by the Kinsmen to their communities.

The emphasis is on the community: Mr. Benton says fundraisers help local organizations — to carry out projects such as buying equipment for hospitals and schools — rather than "giving to a name," such as Easter Seals or UNICEF.

While the Glengarry branch, which is currently based in Alexandria at the Legion club rooms, has only just started, some fundraising ideas have already been generated. They include: A July 1 soccer game in which soccer balls are kicked into tires and a charge levied per shot, or a hamburger day on a Saturday, hosted by two prominent local businesses which have traditionally assisted in fundraisers. A coke and a hamburger might be sold for $1.

While the Kinsmen Club offers a lot to the community, it doesn't forget its own members. It teaches proper business and parliamentary procedures, extending to the running of its meetings.

The Kinsmen Club of Glengarry will be celebrating its inception at a charter night dinner and dance on June 17 at the Alexandria Curling Club. Representatives from other branches will attend.

For more information, contact Mr. Benton at 528-4609.

Music program survives cuts

Education Superintendent H. K. MacLennan and Lancaster Public School Principal Huntly MacDonell have told The Glengarry News that the music program at the school will continue — and is not endangered by the kindergarten program being cut from full, to half days.

It was erroneously reported to The Glengarry News last week, that Lancaster Public School would be losing its music program along with cuts made recently by SD&G County School board to the half-day French kindergarten program. The teacher who reported the cut taught music and kindergarten French.

Lancaster Principal MacDonell pointed out last week that the music program "is mandated across our school system and there never has been a thought of dropping music."

Superintendent MacLennan also said last week that "the music program will continue and has absolutely nothing to do with the half-day French kindergarten being dropping next year — there never was any contemplation of music being cancelled."

SD&G County School board reduced the full-day kindergarten program to half-days, beginning next September, in an economic move when the budget was brought down last month.

The kindergarten program, offered in 24 schools this year to 618 students, is only funded for half days by the provincial government.

The half-day of French kindergarten introduced by the board with its own funds several years ago — will be replaced with 40 minutes of French offered in the half-day program, next term.

Board Chairman Joe Gunn told parents at a protest meeting May 16, that "the decision may be unpopular but it won't be reversed — we must cut costs and dropping the half-day French program will save $750,000 a year."

Editorials/Opinion

Organically-grown food demands outstrips supply

Next week, June 4-10, marks Environment Week in Canada and, in the gloom of the usual rash of environmental disasters, it is refreshing to see a glimmer of hope — both across the country and here in Glengarry. A movement is afoot — a small one now but steadily growing — by farmers, retailers and other companies who are working to provide us with an environmentally and economically sustainable food supply for our common future.

Recently, a number of farmers in the county started to turn over a new leaf, so to speak, and have ventured into the growing practice of organic agriculture — that is, growing efficiently with a minimum of pesticides and chemical fertilizers. The movement toward organic agriculture here is far from a stampede, but a recent meeting in Alexandria on the topic sponsored by an Ottawa organic growing group drew close to 100 individuals. Considering the relatively little amount people know about organic growing, and a reluctance to change on the part of others, that's adequate evidence that organic agriculture is here to stay.

And well it should. Environmental damage to farm land has reached a critical threshold — soil degradation alone costs the country at least $2 billion dollars annually according to estimates from the Science Council of Canada. That's a visible impact on the economy — food prices are affected, as are the livelihoods of farming families. Not so obvious are the minute traces of pesticides and fertilizers which are contaminating the groundwater that supplies drinking water.

But environmental damage extends beyond the land and the water; people are part of the environment too. Farm families using herbicides have the highest risk of developing non-Hodgkins Lymphoma — a kind of cancer that was rare before the common use of 2,4-D. And it is farm areas with the highest pesticide residues in their well-water where other health problems seem to be higher than average.

The horror stories seem never-ending, the mounting proof of effects of chemical use, sometimes even overwhelming. But the more the public learns, the more it apparently is moving toward insisting that the food it consumes be safer. A recent Agriculture Canada survey showed 25 per cent of Canadian Consumers would prefer to buy organic food if it didn't cost 25 per cent more. It is estimated, in fact, that demand in some city centres is now outstripping supply by 10 times.

Perhaps just to emphasize that point, the last word should go to Lancaster Township vegetable farmer Siegfried Neumann, who recently told The News something that may surprise more than one conventional producer in Glengarry.

"I can't satisfy the market. And most of my 12 customers (health food stores, restaurants, etc.) are interested in the product because it's organic."

Here's to organic growing.

How much more can the taxpayers bear

For the last several weeks, Glengarrians have been reading and hearing stories about tax increases from all levels of government. EAch of those jurisdictions is providing lots of reasons for the hikes, but none appear willing to answer the most pressing question on the minds of individuals and companies — how much more can we take?

Unfortunately, the question may be self-answering. It will come in the form of less disposable income for consumers, fewer investments by major economy-building corporations and, inevitably, more pressure on the beleaguered middle class.

That's true across the province and the country. But as the poor cousins in an otherwise wealthy province, Glengarrians can be forgiven for facing these disheartening pieces of news in a shell-shocked manner. Federal and provincial tax grabs were bad enough. But with both the separate and public boards of education in SD&G handing down budgets requiring 10.9 and 17.2 per cent increases in school taxes — grossly in excess of the cost of living — how could they be expected to do otherwise?

While readily insisting that taxpayers swallow these increases, no one level of the tax grabbers appear willing to take responsibility for their adverse effects. People are now paying so many different kinds of taxes — and will be further expected to do so in the future — that those effects are hidden for the most part. And the tax conglomerate is so complex, it's unlikely we'll ever know how much in taxes we're paying for goods and services.

Unfortunately, it's just as unlikely that each taxing level of government will be aware of those totals as well. That ignorance will continue to add up to an ever-widening difference between the needs of government and the ability of taxpayers to enjoy a reasonable standard of living.

When will governments know when we've all had enough?

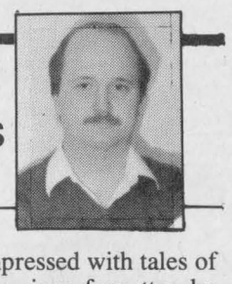
Broaching the barrier to a community's prosperity

AFTER THOUGHTS
Joe Banks



I am consistently impressed with tales of the downtrodden, long-since forgotten by their peers, who have picked themselves out of the mire to rise to great heights. Their stories run the gamut of circumstances, from the tenacity of the handicapped marathoner to the determined rags-to-riches entrepreneur.

It is just as heartening when entire communities can set a course for a goal, spurred on by the promise of prosperity, and achieve it.

Such places exist, and their example is a dramatic illustration of the power of determination. I visited one last weekend while on business for the Ontario Community Newspaper Association.

You've probably heard about it at one time or another. And if you've visited Niagara-on-the-Lake, you'll understand what I'm talking about. Quite simply, it is a remarkably beautiful town which, as a result of determined will, took maximum advantage of its geography, its history and its architecture to render a streetscape that is positively soothing to the senses.

The result is a downtown core which resembles a turn-of-the-century business section, minus the telegraph poles, muddy streets and decaying buildings. Each building even remotely approaching anything of historic relevance has been lovingly restored and used. Many have become inns and shops, drawing visitors to the town in droves and earning Niagara-on-the-Lake a justifiable reputation as a tourist haven.

Obviously, the heavy investment, time and no doubt emotional pain (by that town's people) has paid off in spades. Tourist shops were bustling while we visited, even though the local business community regarded it as an off-season weekend. The town was in bloom, again just in time for the Shaw Festival, a theatre-goers delight. There seemed no shortage of aesthetic gems. Even the homeowners took special pride in manicuring their lawns and preening their flower beds. Evidence of community pride was bursting at every turn.

Of course, prosperity has also brought what some townspeople regard as problems, as these things tend to do. Housing prices are almost as expensive as Toronto's, though that doesn't stop the young urban professionals from buying homes there and commuting to one of the cities ringing the golden horseshoe. And the locals are complaining that too many tourists have brought chaos to the once-quiet beauty spot; idling tour buses pollute the air and tourists crowd the sidewalks.

Still, I couldn't help but think of the people behind this community undertaking, and the energy and enthusiasm they devoted to it. Despite the problems (and what problems to have!), Niagara-on-the-Lake, obviously with some key money from government and private enterprise, has succeeded while few others have dared to try.

I am convinced the human resources exist in Glengarry's communities to allow them to take advantage of their natural surroundings, to open doors to prosperity where none existed before. I couldn't help, for instance, but imagine Alexandria's Main Street altered to become the pedestrian dream Niagara's has become. And, being close to a major tourist attraction (Ottawa) as Niagara Falls is to the peninsula town, it's not unreasonable to expect spin-offs.

The basics are already here. The history, the architecture (which must first be preserved to protect any further degradation), the commercial section — all are features exploited at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Only the plan — and the will — is absent.

The whole earth is God's temple: Be silent

LIFE WORTH LIVING
Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

"But the Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before him" (Habakkuk 2:20). I was surprised to learn that this familiar quotation is not from the pastoral psalms or one of the psalms having to do with the temple.

You see the words at the beginning of many church orders of service, and I had assumed that they applied primarily to worship in the temple. They come from Habakkuk who might have written around 600 B.C.

They are from a book that describes the turmoil and trouble outside and in. There is the sound of marching empires. There is the corruption of the social life of Israel. Out of all this Habakkuk, with some frustration, writes the words before us.

What the world needs, the prophet is saying, is to realize that the whole earth is God's temple and that people should stop their argument and quarreling. Silence is our requirement and silence becomes a hard thing to find.

Snowmobiles that go into the woods in wintertime make so much noise, that they are upsetting the wildlife. The counting of deer in some sections of the country shows an alarming decline in population.

We go to a baseball game or a football match and may sit near someone who is not only looking at the game, but also listening on his radio to something else far beyond the stadium. The freeways are jammed with cars. People are in a hurry and often the rush is accompanied by rudeness, impatience and racket.

The quiet times of life, where wounded spirits may be healed, are rare. Municipal legislation by no means always protects the nocturnal rest of citizens from the roar of factory machinery perhaps a mile or more away.

Habakkuk, we should note, was speaking not only of the need for silence but also for reverence. The whole earth is God's temple. J. B. S. Haldane, the great scientist, said one time that science brings a sense of wonder and awe even more clearly than the classics. Loren Eisley, the naturalist, has written of the wonders of the earth, with the touch of a poet.

Dostoevski called the book he wrote about his years in prison in Siberia "The House of the Dead." He said that, if he died and went to hell, he would expect it to be something like the bathhouse of the prison. As he was thinking about his experiences the night before he was to be released, he came to the conclusion that the main characteristics of man gathered around the fact that he could get used to anything.

We get used to noise, but what Habakkuk was saying to us is that, to be saved, we must find silence and experience the healing of God in our lives.

The band

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

I got a good laugh from The Ottawa Citizen last weekend.

Seems that the Legislature in Victoria, B.C. has gotten an earful of bagpipe music from an eager piper every summer for the last 10 years, and the thought of bearing one moment more has some members and employees threatening to vomit.

Reading between the lines, one could get the impression that a lynch-mob comprised of MLAs would jump at the chance to wrap the cords around the piper's throat.

But the NDP leader and the regional development minister both expressed a fondness for the strains of the Scottish wind instrument and while one said he'd continue to love them "even if they were played off-chord," the other claimed he could listen to them all day.

Amen.

I love the pipes. Could listen to them for hours. And amidst protests from my best friend, I sometimes do.

The cassette player in my car finally rolled over and died after forcing out the strains of Shenendoah, ad infinitum, for the last three weeks of its little life. Guess you have to have a palate for that sort of music.

But mine wasn't a taste that was nurtured over the years. It wasn't a product of hearing the music day after day in my parents' home, of growing up with it, as I did with country and western tunes.

It was instantaneous, like the pleasant feeling of tasting a hot fudge sundae for the first time. It was love at first pipe. (Sorry).

I don't have to remind readers of this newspaper just how impressive are the massed bands at the Glengarry Highland Games.

During my first visit, I hunched, pressed up against the fence, right on the field to get the best photos possible. I had the best view in the house. There was a magic about the massed bands, about hundreds of pipers and drummers putting forth, simultaneously, Amazing Grace.

And of course, several of those pipes and drums belonged to Glengarry's own pipe band.

Last week, I had the opportunity to attend the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming annual recital, which included several numbers by the Glengarry Pipe Band. I'm always sorry to see them march away and to hear the last strains of Scotland the Brave fade into oblivion.

The band, which now enjoys an obviously hard-earned and well-deserved Grade 3 status, cannot help but work its way up to Grade 2 this year.

And lest we forget, many are products of the school of piping and drumming.

A tip 'o the tam to you all.

A special place

WORD SKETCH
Sybil Carello

It's a quiet place. Only pleasant sounds intrude in on my thoughts: The wind rustling its soothing music through the two ancient maples. Birds playing out the notes of their day-to-day business. The happy rejuvenating sounds of childish laughter and chatter: young brothers at play.

It's a peaceful place. A place that draws you into its pulse beat. Insulated by a small wash of forest and fields, neighboring roofs — even though they're only around the corner — are not visible. A midday sun pelts me with harmful ultra-violet rays. But I don't care. Sitting here on the porch waiting for the phone to ring, my senses swim in pleasant somnolence. It seems the best thing to do at the moment. My thoughts, such as they are, scatter upward and dissipate into a dazzling cerulean sky. Against this brilliant foil, a solitary hawk circles in mesmerizing symmetry searching out a tasty snack.

It's a pretty place. With many places to sit and dream and let the unchoreographed world tilt by. Lilac and Apple blossoms sweeten the air. Up near the road, pink trilliums — and what appears to be Jack-in-the-pulpits — shyly peep out from beneath a cluster of sumacs and a tangle of wild grape runners heavily knotted with flower buds. Near the house, under the capable hands of a wordsmith and gardener, tulips and daffodils spill out in one last glorious show.

It's a lively place. As far as pets go. You'll have to share your new environment with a dog and several cats. Exhibiting high levels of love, curiosity and startling good manners, these varied fur-balls apparently lead busy, and as far as I could make out from stories the young lads regaled me with, very funny lives. In life, having funny pets is a decided advantage.

Oh, and there's a century barn out back where sunbeams break through the old boards and crisscross the milky dimness inside with highways of dust motes and — what else, but magic. A 'kid' adventure in the making. Some day. There's also a looong driveway whee you can hone your bike-riding skills. And I almost forgot, a busy playroom filled with kid things.

Over by the corner in the shade of a well-tended pine there's a decent sized sandbox — featuring great looking sand. I also noticed there's room still, for one more swing. And these are real swings, BIG swings, not the portable dinky-size variety that blow over at the first hint of wind.

By now, it's fairly obvious this really is a special place, the kind of place that hugs you when you least expect it, a good place to grow up in.

Hey — it's not Sunnybrook, but I think you're really going to like it Rebecca.

Letters

New law pronounces capital punishment for women

To the editor:

The open letter to the prime minister (May 10 — Glengarry News) by the bishop of Alexandria-Cornwall is in the finest tradition of his church. While with one of his tongues he celebrates "the freedom and . . . the rights of minorities," his other tongue is busy making sure that no minority disagreeing with him is going to get a chance to enjoy its freedom or exercise its rights. This combination of hypocrisy and bigotry has been the hallmark of the Roman Church since its inception.

In this case, the minority are the women who insist on retaining their freedom of choice in the matter of abortion. Mr. LaRocque puffs himself up on behalf of the unborn, claiming that it is "a scientific truth that life begins at conception." This is the characteristic demagoguery of a church that has a glorious history of suppressing scientific truth throughout the centuries and, so long as it had the power to do so, of torturing and killing scientists who proposed any kind of truth at variance with what the bishop of Rome decided was the absolute truth.

The "scientific truth" is that life began between two and three billion years ago in the primal oceans of this planet, and it has unfolded since that time in an uninterrupted chain through species and individuals by numerous procreative strategies. If Mr. LaRocque wishes to declare that process is inviolable, he will have to throw half the reactionary morality of his church out the window. But, in keeping with Catholic tradition, the bishop prefers to use "scientific truth" only when it suits his dogmatic ideology.

The issue in this case is not "scientific truth," but the right of women to have abortion on demand. I do not pretend that the issue does not involve moral questions, but these must be left for the individual woman to decide. The decision is difficult enough without the interference of an institution that is run by a bunch of celibate males who make their pronouncements in blissful ignorance of anything to do with child birth or child rearing.

No one proposes to force any woman to have an abortion. By the same token, no one should force any woman to give birth to a child she does not want. In addition to the tyranny Mr. LaRocque would like to exercise over women, his position also imposes, in effect, capital punishment on countless innocent women. For practice has shown that an anti-abortion law cannot be enforced. It simply means backroom abortions by all sorts of quacks, by all sorts of barbarian methods, which often result in permanent injuries and in painful death. Of course one cannot expect an anti-feminist institution like the Roman Church to have any regard for such niceties.

Evidently, the bishop of Alexandria-Cornwall has yet to learn the meaning of the democracy he professes to take such "pride" in. It gives him the right to sell his dogmatism to his faithful, but not to impose it on those who do not share his beliefs. This is a pluralist society, and Mr. LaRocque will have to learn to live with the humanists he decries so much, just as they have learnt to live with him. I can assure him it's not easy for either side, but that is what democracy means.

Waste co-ordinator expresses thanks

To the editor:

The Public Liaison Committee of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan sincerely thanks the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce for the opportunity given to us to meet the public during the three days of the Chamber's successful, exciting and professionally run trade show May 11, 12 and 13. Thanks to all those who visited our booth and took the time to fill out our questionnaire.

We also express our appreciation to the Town of Alexandria for its generous sponsorship of our booth. Without that help we would not have been able to be part of the show.

Special thanks must also go out to Glengarry District High School students Maryann Bauer and Martina Neumann who produced our garbage video and spent the three days of the trade show working at our booth.

Congratulations to Gerard Goulet of R.R. 2, Green Valley, who was the winner of our draw for a home composter.

Our thanks also go to The Glengarry News for its thorough coverage of our committee and our plans for the trade show.

We hope to see you all at the upcoming Maxville Fair.

Anne M. MacGillivray,
co-ordinator.

Column did not report trivia or gossip

To the editor:

A reply to the letter from John Lacombe of Dorval, Que., which appeared in the May 17/89 issue of The Glengarry News:

Dear Sir:

Concerning your letter of complaint in which you wrote and I quote "the write-up about his death was buried on another page at the end of a column that basically reports trivia, gossip and a few newsworthy items." Trivia (for those who don't know) means of little value, unimportant, insignificant. About gossip news, I would never write any such news because as Christians, our motto is to build people up — not to tear them down. I only reported the news that people phoned in and happy and nice events concerning our community, such as activities in our parish, birthdays, trips, get-well wishes, the Optimist Club and the great work they do for our youths, etc.

On the contrary, people looked forward to it, especially the shut-ins. If you think your obituary was misplaced, it was no fault of mine. The important think is that it was published. Instead of doing things in a negative way, how about trying this instead: A gentle word of compliment falls lightly, but it carries great weight.

Let's use our energy in a positive and productive way, instead of getting angry. The world would be a better place to live in peace, at least, among ourselves. No resentment whatsoever, sincerely,

Colette Sauvé,
Glen Robertson

Looking for Ferguson's

To the editor:

I would like information about the following family:

Ferguson (Furguson) Nelly (Helen) — Nelly was married to Donald Brewer Grant and they came to Glengarry from Scotland in 1802. Her family settled near Alexandria and was known as the rollicking Fergusons. She was my great great grandmother. Any descendants, please contact:

Gretchen Grant Schampel, 2191 Carter Ave., St. Paul, MN 55108, U.S.A.

Appreciated concert

To the editor:

My husband and I had the pleasure of attending the Glengarry District High School annual spring concert in the beautiful St. Finnan's Cathedral.

I would like to thank and say how fortunate we are to have such talented and dedicated teachers as Pierre Vaillancourt and Mark Girard teaching our children.

Thank you all for an enjoyable evening and hours of hard work.

Alexandria council briefs

The regular meeting of Alexandria town council was held at the town office on Tuesday, May 16 at 8:30 p.m. A public meeting to discuss opening stores on Good Friday pre-empted the usual 7:30 p.m. start time. Mayor J.P. Touchette and Councillor Fern Seguin were absent. Reeve John Cormier assumed the mayor's role for the meeting.

Budget to be approved

The budgets of council's standing committees were expected to be finalized and the mill rate set on Monday night (May 29).

Alexandrians should know by next week just how much taxes will rise.

Town shouldn't take brunt

Announcements of the 1989 school board levies to the Town of Alexandria spurred Clerk/Administrator Leo Poirier to say, "I don't think the municipal rate should be taking the brunt from this."

The levy from the SD&G County Board of Education for elementary schools is $327,709, up about 14 per cent over last year. The portion going to secondary schools is $273,819, up 33 per cent over last year's $205,258.

The levy from SD&G Roman Catholic School Board is $601,868, up 26 per cent from $445,224 and for the secondary school, $404,644, up 14 per cent.

These levies are included in the regular tax bills, collected from the ratepayers by the town.

Approved arena budget

The Glengarry Sports Palace budget received approval from council. This means that the three shareholding municipalities — Alexandria and the townships of Lochiel and Lancaster — have accepted the document.

The snag which led to postponement of the budget released about two months ago, was related to the purchase of a $17,000 truck, slated for arena use and as a family vehicle for the arena manager.

At a tri-council meeting late last month, it was determined that the use of the vehicle would be restricted to arena-related tasks and for transportation to and from the Sports Palace by the manager.

Wants sewer and water

Council told a Lochiel Township man that it will meet to discuss his request for the town's sewer and water services for his property on Boundary Road East.

Emile Viau appealed to council, explaining that he wants to build a home on the property.

But Councillor Archie McDougall, chairman of the planning committee which oversees such requests, told Mr. Viau that Alexandria had only agreed to extend services to out-of-town lots which bordered the town boundaries. He added, only single-dwelling homes are eligible.

Reeve Cormier asked whether the town could look favorably on the request when the water filtration plant has been expanded.

Councillor McDougall replied, that was possible, and told Mr. Viau the planning committee would meet and bring the matter back to the council table in two weeks (last night).

Encroachment permitted

A request from the Atlantic Hotel to permit an encroachment on town property was approved by council.

The building was recently taken over by new owners Hubert and Martha Egger and a site plan survey determined that the building spills over onto town property, in places, by less than a foot.

Severance granted

The SD&G Land Division Committee has granted a land severance for the creation of two new lots by Guy and Edna Lalonde for property on Dominion Street, north of Kincardine.

The severance was permitted with the condition that the owners provide services to the created lots before any building permits are issued.

The Lalondes are also required to pay the $400 land development fee, which is put into a recreational purposes fund for the development of parks. The fee of $200 per newly-created lot is standard.

Alexandria postcards ready

Two Alexandria entries from the Chamber of Commerce's Great Glengarry Postcard Hunt are prepped and poised for sale in the town office, as souvenirs of the town of Alexandria.

The cards depict scenes taken from above the town by Gerry Adams and the park fountain, taken by Ubald Poirier. They were among the entries from the Chamber-sponsored contest.

Vehicles sustain moderate damage

Police briefs

Three vehicles sustained moderate damage after a collision in Alexandria shortly after noon on Wednesday.

All three vehicles were southbound on Main Street when the incident occurred.

Involved were a 1978 Ford sedan, driven by Yvon Dupuis, 28, of 175 Main Street in Alexandria, a 1978 Dodge sedan, driven by Andre Chasse, 23, of Main Street Alexandria, and a Chevrolet coupe driven by Stephane Pilon, 16, of Green Valley.

Mr. Pilon was charged with following too closely. There were no injuries.

Two car accidents

A 1979 Chevrolet coupe driven by Stephane Pilon, 16, of Green Valley collided in the Kenyon Street-Macdonald Boulevard intersection Thursday at noon with a 1980 Ford pickup truck, driven by Martin Renaud, 19, of North Lancaster.

The Renaud vehicle was westbound on Kenyon Street and the Pilon vehicle was southbound on Macdonald Boulevard when the accident occurred.

Mr. Pilon suffered minor injuries in the incident. He was treated and released from Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Pilon was charged with failing to yield at a stop sign. Both vehicles were damaged extensively.

A 1980 Chevrolet coupe driven by Charles Pidgeon, 24, of Dalkeith, collided in the intersection at Main Street and Elgin Street Friday, with a 1986 Pontiac sedan driven by Marlene Plourde, 25, of St. George Street in Alexandria.

The Pidgeon vehicle was northbound on Main Street and the Plourde vehicle was eastbound on Elgin Street when they collided.

The Plourde vehicle sustained extensive damages while the Pidgeon vehicle was moderately damaged.

Ms. Plourde has been charged with failure to yield at a stop sign. There were no injuries.

Parking fines rise

Alexandria police offer a reminder that the parking fine structure in the town changes Thursday. Most of the fines will go up from $4, to $10. Fines for parking too close to a corner, a fire hydrant or in a fire route will go up to $20.

R.I.D.E. results

R.I.D.E. checks by OPP netted nine impaired drivers over the weekend.

A total of 121 vehicles were stopped by Lancaster Police over the weekend as part of the R.I.D.E (Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere) campaign. Five people were charged with Liquor Licence Act violations and three drivers were given 12-hour suspensions.

Maxville OPP checked 332 vehicles. Five 12-hour suspensions were handed out and four drivers were charged with impaired driving.

Dancers come home

The MacCulloch dancers gave a performance in Tennessee that Canada can be proud of according to Rae MacCulloch.

Sporting lapel pins of miniature wooden shoes from Holland and belled cows from Austria, 31 MacCulloch dancers just returned from Tennessee. They represented Canada at the Tennessee International Folk Festival, held in Murfreesboro just outside of Nashville, observed by dancers of six other countries: Austria, Finland, Yugoslavia, Switzerland, Holland and the United States.

Between May 12 to 20, the dancers gave 14 performances, attended a Civic reception hosted by the Tennessee Chamber of Commerce, took a tour of Nashville and the Jack Daniels's distillery, and joined the other countries' dancers in a barbecue and a huge farewell party.

"When it was time to party, they partied and they partied well," said Rae MacCulloch. "When it was time to perform, they performed and they performed well."

Mrs. MacCulloch was presented the key to the Murfreesboro from Mayor Jackson, and a certificate for Canada from Governor Ned McWherter in appreciation of outstanding service to the state of Tennessee.

Each dancer also returned home with certificates declaring them honorary members of the Tennessee General Assembly, gifts from the Chamber of Commerce and from each of the five other countries.

bonjour QUÉBEC

There was fun for all at Green Valley Days

Even a downpour couldn't dampen spirits that rose as high as the balloons that dotted the Green Valley sky on Saturday (May 27).

Instead, people just bundled into raincoats and huddled under umbrellas as they fished the Beaudet River, mounted their children on ponies, and rode Engine 82.

Green Valley Days came once again this year, offering a variety of activities to brighten the weekend. The Optimist Club ran its usual fishing derby, with the $50 first prize awarded to Green Valley's Alain Borris for catching a 7 lb. carp.

Locals also took advantage of Glengarry Aggregate & Concrete's offer of free sand, many families turning up with shovels and buckets to fill pick-ups with sand for sandboxes. One-hundred cubic yards of sand was given out.

Clockwise, from left: Dunvegan's Stephanie Quesnel, 2½, rides a pony in the parking lot of Green Valley's Ste. Marie church; children ride Engine 82, and Green Valley's Alain Borris and his son Julien, 3½, hold their 7 lb. carp that placed first in the Optimist Club's Beaudet River fishing derby. All events were in celebration of Green Valley Days, held on the weekend.

Green Valley was bustling with people over the weekend, as many came out to celebrate the best ever Green Valley Days.

The town was a beautiful sight with huge balloons adorning the skies and children filling the church yard and lining up to ride on the very popular Engine 82 miniature train and ponies and taking chances on different kinds of games. There were clowns giving out balloons and the Green Valley Glass Bear entertained the kiddies. All the while, the grownups were either taking advantage of the specials that were being offered at most of the businesses, or were over at Glengarry Aggregates shovelling in the sand that they were giving away. Others were down at the Beaudette River trying to catch the biggest fish in the fishing derby.

A dance was held at the Green Valley barbecue on Friday night and on Saturday, a special luncheon was offered to children for only $1. Saturday evening featured a buffet special followed by the draw for the Camro glide swing which was won by Camille Deguire.

Normand Menard was the lucky winner of 100 litres of gasoline from C&D garage.

Irene Bedard won the lawn chair and parasol that was drawn at the Lucky Dollar Store and Bruce Taylor won $100 of groceries. The Lucky Dollar store also furnished the Ste. Marie's school students with soft drinks and chips on Friday.

Grade 7 and 8 students at Ste. Marie's participated in the "What Green Valley Means to Me" poem contest and the winners were, in Grade 7, Sylvain Brunet and Royal Labelle and in Grade 8 the winner was France Sauvé. France and Royal both won a $15 gift certificate from Miron Electronics and a barbecue supper at Green Valley restaurant. Sylvain also won a barbecue supper.

All in all, the weekend was a great success, with praise going to the Green Valley businesses and the Green Valley Optimist Club.

Car wash

Grade 7 students at Ste. Marie's held a car wash in Alexandria on May 20. The students, along with help from Optimist members, raised $241 to help pay for activities the class will be doing. About 40 cars were washed and the students learned a valuable lesson on earning their money.

Graduation

Maurice and Marie-Anne Gauthier, and son Robin, were in Waterloo over the weekend attending the graduation of their son, Alain, from the University of Waterloo. Alain graduated with a bachelor of applied science (electrical engineering) degree and is now employed at Lander Control Systems in Guelph, Ont.

Paulette Lefebvre and France Desjardins, Ligue La Leche leaders, attended a conference for La Leche in Montreal last Friday and Saturday. The two attended sessions on nursing and learned of new research on the subject.

The next La Leche meeting will be on June 15.

Showers

A bridal shower was held for Julie Viau, daughter of Emile and Colette on May 14 at the Sacred Heart parish hall.

A baby shower was held for Suzanne (Seguin) Massie last Saturday, at the home of Linda Menard in Green Valley. The blessed event will take place in June.

Brown House Circle starts recycle project

Members of the Brown House Circle were asked to bring their old newspapers (bundled up for recycling) to the next meeting of the group on June 7. A truck will be waiting at St. Raphael's to transport the papers to Ottawa. Serge Dreimanis and Alex Chisholm are in charge of the project.

''Although we will not be getting paid for them we are still ahead of the game because it will not be costing us tax money to dispose of the waste,'' observed Bruce Sova.

The 39'ers of Alexandria were guests of the Brown House Circle for the afternoon. The combined crowd made it a worthwhile trip for Fred Bedford of Avonmore, chairman of the Senior Citizens' Games for District 8. He had come to advise about this year's events, which will be held in Cornwall and area June 12-15. Entrants must be 55 or over.

Seniors will be participating in four events. Monday, June 12 is golf day at Cedar Glen in Williamsburg where 30 foursomes can be accommodated.

Forty-eight teams of five can enter the five-pin bowling at the Olympia bowl in Cornwall on Tuesday, June 13.

The Civic Complex will be the site of the walking path for one-half km, one km and 1½ km on Wednesday. Individuals will be stop-watched for the best times.

Nativity Hall can handle 100 tables of euchre on Thursday. This will be followed by an evening dinner and dance where gold, silver and bronze medals and certificates will be The reception was on the Louis Joliet tour boat. Guests were Clare and Donat Belanger from Maxville, Marie Paule and Robert Aitken of Osnabruck Centre, Monique and Rene Quenneville from Green Valley, Lucie and Yvon Dumouchel of St. Raphael's and Laurence and Bruno Legault (godparents) from Alexandria. Guesta also came from Gatineau, Ottawa and Quebec City.

On May 19, Leo Clouthier and Angie Bourgeois were joined in marriage at St. Raphael's. Monsignor McDougald officiated. Close friends of the groom, Charles and Patricia Yates from Brantford were the witnesses. Bernice Lamarche was the organist and Leo's son Andre from Calgary was the soloist. The reception was held at the bride's home.

Prior to the business portion of the meeting, Joy and James Nichol entertained with expert tap-dancing and Ted Sonne and Rene Roy led a singsong.

Angele Bourgeois and Leo Cloutier were presented with a Ted Sonne painting as a wedding gift from the group. They have been getting special attention as our first Brown House Circle romance!

Hilda MacDonald read an enjoyable article entitled: ''Who is a senior citizen?''

It was announced, the parish centre would be available each Wednesday to the members for crafts, card games or whatever on a trial basis for the month of May.

Birthdays were celebrated by Mary McLeod, Jennie Cameron, Leo Clouthier, Russell Certes and guest Joy Nichol.

The Eazy Cruisers Car Club held its annual Mount Carmel House Car Wash last Saturday. They have held this car wash every year since 1985 and have contributed over $1,600 to Mount Carmel House. This year's wash was a big success as usual.

Honor student

Allan John R. MacDonald, son of John R. and Marie MacDonald of St. Raphael's West, recently graduated from St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S. with a bachelor of arts degree, with honors, in History. Allan received recognition for being on the Dean's List for four years consecutively and for writing and presenting the best senior Canadian history thesis. He was a recipient of the Ita MacDonald Prize for proficiency in Canadian history. Allan is a graduate of Iona Academy and Glengarry District High School and he will continue his studies at St. Peter's Seminary in London, Ont.

WMS to hold contest

The spring rally of Glengarry Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society, W.D., The Presbyterian Church in Canada, was held on May 18 in St. Matthew's Church, Ingleside.

The theme was ''Here Am I, Send Me.''

Miss Marianne MacDonald constituted the meeting with the purpose and prayer, and Hawkesbury conducted the worship service. Mrs. Jean Shaver welcomed the guests.

The offering from the special 75th anniversary service is designated for the Lahore Community Health Program in Pakistan. Reports from the synodical indicate that communication should be improved with the young people; that there should be a change in the law for refugees; that the mission study should be given to the young people and that a mission Sunday be observed. It was recommended that a workshop be held for historians and that gift certificates for the Glad Tidings and other books be given.

The presbyterial is sponsoring a contest and the details will be forwarded to the Sunday school teachers. The contest closes September 8.

The first male adult educational consultant has been appointed in Manitoba. Registration forms for the synodical weekend, Sept. 22-24 at Aylmer, Que., were distributed. Mrs. Beth Ann Yando, AEC, will be available by phone in Kemptville. Miss Annabelle MacDonald welcomed the ladies to her literature display.

The morning session closed with prayer and grace by the Rev. Ed Smith. A buffet luncheon was served with a special anniversary cake.

The noon speaker, Mrs. Lottie Sutherland, chose as her topic ''Putting enthusiasm into the WMS.'' She spelled out her message by using the word ''enthusiasm.''

The afternoon session resumed with greetings from presbytery and Mrs. Verna Pope brought greetings from synodical. Avonmore conducted the memorial service.

Miss Mary Nichol, guest speaker, spoke on her 40 years in Nepal as a missionary nurse, and showed slides. Mrs. Gordon Ross sang two selections.

The following announcements were made: the May rally will be held in Dunvegan in 1990; the synodical meeting at Vankleek Hill in April 1990, the executive will meet at the home of Mrs. Shelagh MacDougall, Finch, on Monday, June 5 at 12:30 p.m. The nominating committee is from Maxville, Lancaster and Cornwall auxiliaries.

Dunvegan Museum opens for season

DUNVEGAN
Marion Loewen
527-2284

Remember when we celebrated holidays on the day that they were supposed to be on? Now they are really just the long weekend. We just passed the long weekend in May, but at one time the holiday was May 24, or Queen Victoria's birthday. There would be firecrackers and maybe a picnic, if the weather was warm enough. Do you remember the verse we used to say as kids? The 24th of May is the Queen's birthday,. If we don't get a holiday we'll all run away!

The Dunvegan Museum

The museum has opened for the season: 1-6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, or by appointment.

The parlor display is so interesting, because it is in celebration of 150 years of photography with Duncan Donovan of Alexandria. In the barroom there is a lovely antique stove, which of course, is new to the museum, and when you go through to the kitchen you will see the drugget skirts. What are drugget skirts? Well, you just come to the museum and satisfy your curiosity. That's what I had to do!

Dunvegan Women's Institute

Mrs. Agnes Petrie, president of Glengarry District Women's Institute, was guest speaker at the May meeting of Dunvegan WI. She chose to speak on the topic of volunteers and the important role they play in the life of a community. Some of the examples that she mentioned in her address were: housing, family affairs, and help to prisoners and handicapped. One important service, especially in rural areas, is provided by the volunteer fire department.

Mrs. Petrie particularly stressed the role that WI members have always taken in helping with community activities. They have often canvassed for the Red Cross, the Cancer Society and the CNIB, as well as helping with activities in local nursing homes, hospitals, and homes for the aged.

She closed her address with the thought that the greatest reward that the volunteer receives is the good feeling that he has done something to lighten the burden of someone less fortunate than himself.

During he business part of the meeting, it was decided to start the euchre parties on June 22. Members are asked to meet on June 8 at 8 p.m. to draw up the yearly programs. Dunvegan WI is to host the August birthday party at Maxville Manor. The report of the district annual meeting was given by Catherine (Dan) MacRae. The meeting adjourned with the singing of O Canada.

Howdy, folks. Pardon my Texas drawl — it's the leftover from the Super Country Night held recently in Lancaster. As most of you know, I'm one of the biggest supporters of our area because we have the best. This week has surely proved it.

Good luck to Denise and Hugh McClements who will open "Mother's Cupboard" on Main Street on June 1.

All-night vigil

An all-night vigil for the reparation of the Sacred Heart will be held at St. Lawrence Church, Curry Hill on Friday night (June 2) beginning with mass at 8 p.m., adoration of the blessed sacrament throughout the night; and ending with mass at 8 a.m. on Saturday. All are welcome to attend.

Chamber news

Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular meeting on Monday (June 5) at 7:30 p.m. upstairs at Lancaster Legion. All members are urged to attend as there will be guest speakers. Chamber members will also be participating in Creg Quay's open house this weekend, June 3 and 4.

* * *

The Adult Singles Group will meet again at Squire William's Pub in Lancaster on Wednesday (June 7) at 8 p.m. New members are invited to attend.

Best wishes for a happy new life on the farm are sent to my daughter Wendy and her husband, Ralph Bourdon. They are moving to Bonville this week.

Lloyd McRae called to say 39 canvassers for the Canadian Cancer Society worked hard and did a great job. The results have far surpassed our expectations. We were able to give the Glengarry branch of the Cancer Society $9,015, an increase over last year of $1,246. Breaking down the different areas: South Lancaster — $681; Lancaster Village — $926.25 and Lancaster Township — $7,017.75 and flowers $300.

Branch 544 Fraternals put on a hoedown at the Lancaster Legion corral on Saturday, that would knock your socks off. The roundup organizer was none other than Rejean Julien (Zooman) with his band of happy cowboys and cowgirls manning the chuckwagon. After all the little dogies were fed, live entertainment was provided to the delight of everyone present. Sandy Ruest sent three groups of dancers, all local youngsters, including a group made up of grandmother, mother, four daughters and a little son. Such footwork — it made your toes twitch. Then came the 'lip sync' contest between "Johnny the Gigolo" and "The Supremes." It was a hard decision to make as to who was the best, so both acts got a prize. The stage was then given over to Roger Hamelin and his musicians. They provided country music that had everyone up on the floor for every dance. In between sets, there were guest appearances by local performers as well as some from out of town. Local guests included Lorette Durocher, Cathy Leroux, Mandy Bourdon and our very own "Johnny Crown Cleaners." We were entertained by accordionists Pierre Levert and Georges Jeau. The Lachute Legion 4-H Squaredance champions also paid a visit — they even brought their own caller. Jessie Crysler won the raffle prize, Justin Trepanier won the first door prize and Dorothy Lauzon won the second door prize. To the performers who gave of their time and talents — a big round of applause and a pat on the back is sent to the group for such a fun night.

Winners of a well-attended euchre, sponsored by the Lancaster Jolly 50s Senior Citizens Club, were Dorothy Croll, Margaret Cadieux, Alice Bellis, Tony Wettering, Roger Brazeau and Bill Edmonds. Doreen Leroux won the door prize. Share the wealth winners were Reta Lauzon, Estelle Brazeau, Dorina Theoret, Doreen Leroux and Henrica Wettering. Winners at the club's birthday euchre were Mary Rose Pilon, Edna Edmonds, Tony Wettering and M. Kraska, for euchre. Olive McCreary won for cribbage. Share the wealth winners were Beatrice Labelle, Agnes Bissonnette, Joyce Lalonde and Martin Van Sleevwen. During the refreshment portion, a delicious cake made by Anna Ver Kuylen was served and gifts were presented to celebrants Dorothy Seguin and Martin Van Sleevwen. The club's next euchre will be held on Monday, June 19. The final meeting of the season will be held on Tuesday, June 20 starting at noon with a hot and cold pot luck luncheon. Plans have been made to visit Granby Zoo in Quebec for the annual bus trip on Tuesday, Aug. 15. Members are urged to get their names in as soon as possible and can do so by contacting Ileen Latreille. On Tuesday, June 6, the new slate of officers will be nominated and installed at the business meeting.

Tiny St. John the Evangelist Anglican Church at Glengarry Park, South Lancaster was the scene of a joint service between the congregation of St. John's and Good Shepherd Anglican Church of Cornwall on Sunday (May 28).

The confirmation of young people from both churches was the reason for this special service.

The Right Reverend John Baycroft, suffragan bishop of Ottawa, was present to confirm the candidates into the belief of the church by the Laying on of Hands.

Bishop Baycroft addressed the approximately 120 people and celebrated the eucharist, after which a coffee hour was well attended by the parishioners present.

Big 16-team tournament to showcase ball talent

APPLE HILL
Gordie VanPutten
527-3473

A 16-team tourney is planned for this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The weekend should be showcasing some excellent playing, and the winners of the tournament head to the provincials. Hopefully the weather will agree with us. The first game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday evening.

Preparations underway

Everyone from the area is asked to show up at the ballfield this Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. to make last-minute preparations for the ballfield. We could use extra hands for putting the fence up.

Euchre results

Results from St. Anthony's parish hall on May 23 are as follows: Ladies' first—Annie Parker, second—Georgie Feeb and third—Aline Charlabois; men's first—Norman MacLeod, second—Dan MacRae and third—Armadaus St. John; 50/50 winners were Isabel MacDonald, Ken MacLeod, Jenny Cameron, Nora MacRae, Margaret Michaud, Cecil MacRae, Dorothy McCormick and Beatrice Fontaine; door prize winner was Rita Seguin and the dinner-for-two at Mr. Poppins went to Alice Richer.

Congratulations to everyone!

Winner of draw

Congratulations go out to Doreen Rozon as her name was the lucky one pulled at Lise's Hairdresser. This Mother's Day draw consisted of a wash, cut and set.

Birthday wishes

Just one birthday wish goes out to Bill Van Riel who will be celebrating on May 28.

Retreat week

Our blessings and prayers are with Father Sylvester this week as he will be on retreat from Monday to Friday this week. Father Sylvester will be back for First Friday devotions on June 2.

Charter night

The St. Anthony—St. Micheal's Council of the Knights of Columbus invite parishioners to attend their charter night on Friday, June 16 in St. Anthony's parish hall. The evening will include a dinner and a dance afterward. For more information or ticketes contact Finlay McDonell.

Rodolphe Dubeau of Alexandria died at Glengarry Memorial Hospital on May 12, 1989. He was 70 years old.

Son of the late Jean Baptiste Dubeau and the late Claira Souligny, he was born in Ottawa and made his final residence at RR4, Alexandria.

His death is mourned by his wife, the former Francoise Villeneuve, whom he married in 1945.

Mr. Dubeau moved to the area in the 40s and farmed until 1945, when he became ill. He later turned his attention to commercial enterprises and was a businessman in Alexandria until retirement in 1984.

He owned a scrapyard from the mid-60s until 1972, when he bought Dubeau Confectionary. In 1976, he operated the King Tut restaurant and in 1978, purchased Pierre's Amusement Parlor.

He is also survived by three sons and five daughters: George of Cornwall, Maurice of Alexandria, Pierre of Cornwall, Claire (Mrs. Barrett Bushan) of Hamilton, Annette (Mrs. Mike Phelan) of Cornwall, Dianne (Mrs. Daniel Theoret) of Alexandria, Lise (Mrs. Rusty Hallburg) of Oshawa and Natalie (Mrs. Denis St-Amour) of Ottawa.

Also left to survive Mr. Dubeau are brothers Jean of Ottawa, Gaston of Marmora, Ont., Arcade of Ottawa, Art of Newcastle, Ont. and sisters, Mrs. Rejeanne Lobb of Alexandria, Mrs. Therese Campeau of Ottawa and Mrs. Alice Reid of Ottawa.

Funeral services were from the Co-Operative Funeral Home in Alexandria to Sacred Heart Church on May 15. Father Roger Desrosiers officiated.

Interment was in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers were Pierre Dubeau, Robert Dubeau, Wayne Dubeau, Rejean Lobb, Marcel Campeau and Kristopher Bushan.

Weather conditions didn't hinder planting in Glengarry

GLENGARRY FARM REPORT

by Glen J. Smith
Agricultural Representative,
Glengarry County

Although weather conditions have been somewhat unfavorable, spring planting has almost been completed in Glengarry County. In some areas, where they have received more precipitation than elsewhere, such as the Martintown area, some corn is still being planted. In other areas, the planting of the soybean acreage is almost completed. The small grains and new seedings look very good and the corn is quickly emerging. The hay crops have grown significantly in the last three weeks and although winter kill is apparent in many fields, we should have an excellent hay crop.

Some spraying of spring grains and new seedings is under way. With the corn emerging, farmers should be watching for annual grass and broadleaf escapes. For annual grass control, Bladex can be applied until the corn reaches the three-leaf stage. The annual grass should be not past the two-leaf stage. Dual may also be applied early post-emerge but before the corn passes the two-leaf stage. If you have Atrazine resistant broadleaves or have not applied a broadleaf herbicide, Banvel may be included with the Bladex at one-half litre per acre. If annual grasses are not a problem, but broadleaves or Atrazine resistant broadleaves are, then there are a number of herbicides that can be applied in the early stages of corn growth which are very effective. You should be aware that most of these herbicides should be applied before the corn reaches the six-inch height, leaf extended stage. Consult the OMAF publication No. 75, Guide to Chemical Weed Control, for the different products recommended.

The broadleaves appear to be somewhat slow in emerging. Continue to watch the fields after the spraying has been completed to guard against a second flush of weeds, especially after precipitation is received. It is also very important to know what your weed problems are because if you do not, the herbicides you are applying may not work or your weed control program may be much more expensive than it has to be.

Velvetleaf, coltsfoot and prosomillet are exotic weeds showing up from time to time in this county. They are very prolific and very difficult to control. Early identification is very important. The OMAF Weed Alert Program has been set up to monitor the incidence of these weed problems. If you want help in identifying weeds or want to report an incidence of these exotic weeds, call the Alexandria OMAF office or Lise Souligny at the Plantagenet OMAF office.

The Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association is participating in the Ontario Forage Masters Competition. This program, sponsored by the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association and CIL, is organized to promote excellence in forage crop production utilization. The Forage Masters Competition is designed to recognize performance resulting from excellence in forage management, recognize performance resulting from sound forage feeding in livestock programs, and to identify producers to serve as forage spokespersons.

There are two levels of competition in the Forage Masters, the local competition sponsored by the Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association identifies winning alfalfa producers from among members and the provincial competition identifies an Ontario Forage Master from among the winners of the local competitions.

The requirements for the local competition are as follows: Will have a minimum of five and a maximum of 20 grower participants. All will be members of the Glengarry Soil and Crop Improvement Association. Previous Ontario Masters winners are not eligible.

Each will enter a field with a minimum of 10 acres of alfalfa based mixture into the competition.

Each will choose to enter either the hay or the silage competition but not both.

Each will provide, on the day of judging, a recent soil test report on the entire field.

Each will make available, on the day of judging, hay and/or silage for sampling and/or scoring.

Each will assist judges by providing requested information and other assistance.

Anyone interested in participating in the Ontario Forage Masters Competition should contact this office no later than Friday, June 9. In 1988 Burton Crooks, Dalkeith, was the Forage Master in Glengarry County.

Many producers will be starting this week to harvest their hay crop, weather permitting. They realize the value in early cutting. I remind you to set representative samples of bales aside or take samples of haylage to be analyzed at a later date.

You should also be aware that the soil testing procedures will change as of Aug. 1. Soil Test Labs throughout Ontario will be accredited and a cost will be in effect for soil sampling through provincial accredited labs. Soil test before August 1. Kits are available at the OMAF office.

Hall park to be renamed

MARTINTOWN
Lorne MacDonald
528-4378

The Martintown fire hall park will be the scene of a very special event come Canada Day July 1. The park will be renamed in the honor of the man who donated the land to our community, Kenneth Barton Sr. A supper will be held, as well as a massive fireworks display in the evening. Anyone who attended last year's fireworks will attest to the great show. Donations are needed once again for this display and can be dropped off at various Martintown businesses. Anyone interested in sitting on the committee or helping out in any way call Ruth Lafave at 528-4374 after 4 p.m. More details to follow!

Congratulations!

Congratulations go out this week to Donald and Mildred Flaro on the occasion of their 40th anniversary this past weekend. A party was held at the community centre, which was packed to the rafters. It's hard to believe Donald and Mildred have been married this long when Millie hardly looks a day over 40! Best wishes for many more to come.

Congratulations go out (a long way I might add) to my favorite niece Iris and her husband Brian Arberry who were married this past Saturday in Campbell River, B.C. Iris is the daughter of Angus and Did MacDonald of Martintown.

The annual memorial service of the North Branch Cemetery will take place on June 11 at 2:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend.

Get well

Get well wishes go out this week to Jackie (Bill) McDonell who is recuperating in Ottawa General Hospital after recent surgery. I spent this past Monday afternoon visiting Jack, and he is feeling better and in good spirits. Hope you're out and about soon!

W.I. news

Martintown Women's Institute held its May meeting in the Presbyterian church hall with Margaret Kennedy, president, presiding. A warm welcome was extended to a group of 4-H'ers and their leaders, Sue Robertson and Karen Runions. Roll call, ''Share a gardening tip'' was humourously answered, as at least two members simply replied ''stay away from the garden altogether.''

Convenor for agriculture, Beverley Runions introduced her guest speaker, Winston Keeler, a Master Gardener from Ormstown, who spoke on landscaping and gardening in general. His love for gardening was most apparent and his advice excellent. Some points to note are: Draw up a plan of the grounds and also the vegetable garden; determine what type of soil you have and perhaps have it analyzed to determine what it needs for better growth; be very careful where trees are planted — tree roots spread quickly and therefore should not be too close to the house and with respect to the home vegetable garden, keep it to the size you feel you can cope with once weeding becomes necessary.

After mentioning (a) a plan and (b) soil analysis, he remarked that members not forget (c) weather and (d) ambition.

Members thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Keeler's remarks and he was warmly thanked for his visit with us.

Interesting reports of the district annual were given by our delegates, Grace Kinloch and Joan MacKenzie.

Acting on the branch's behalf, Jan Buckland will present a bursary to the highest home economic student at Char-Lan graduation exercises, and also dictionaries to graduating students of Martintown Public School.

Barbara Gale, as director, conducted questions on gardening which were won by Elizabeth Peters, Alison Murray and Olive Bewick. Each received a plant.

Hobby haven

Robert and Sharon Simonelis recently held the grand opening of Accent Ceramics and invited Charlottenburgh Reeve Carol Ann Ross (center) to officiate the event. Accent Ceramics, located on Tyotown Road near Boundary Road, supplies greenware, paints and giftware and offers firing and classes for the ceramics hobbyist. The shop is open Tuesday to Friday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The May meeting of the Kirk Hill UCW was held May 25 in the church hall with many members and friends present. Karen MacLeod, president, opened the meeting and Nancy MacDonald acted as secretary. The worship service, with the theme "family" was conducted by Gretta MacDonald and Lillian Crooks. Guest speaker was the Rev. Katherine Cooper, minister of Vankleek Hill United Church, who gave a thought-provoking address on "children and adults working together." Lunch and a social time followed.

Eileen MacGillivray reports that the recent Cancer Society canvass was quite successful. Lochiel receipts were higher than last year and Glengarry's aim of $40,000 was surpassed by $1,600. Thanks are extended to the team captains in the township — Florrie MacLennan, Lorna Chapman, Marthe Chenier and Eileen MacGillivray. But without the canvassers and the donors it would not be so successful.

Many area people took part in Maxville Fair activities over the weekend — competitions, with exhibits, with cattle and of course some were in the parade. All should be proud to have added to the success of the centennial fair.

Mother of the Year

Mrs. Jack Reasbeck (center) of Vankleek Hill was chosen Mother of the Year for the Dalkeith Optimist Club bingo on May 6. Mrs. Reasbeck, 81, plays every week and also had the honor of being the most elderly bingo player in the Dalkeith hall. Joining Mrs. Reasbeck were her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Victor Reasbeck and bingo president, Valaire Lecuyer.

Hints for the homemaker: Cooking cabbage has less odor when a stalk of celery is added to the pot; add a raw peeled potato to the pot when cooking a ham, it absorbs the salt — it works for any salty liquid; peel a strip of skin from the top of a baking apple to keep it from bursting, and the best treatment for a rust stain is lemon juice, salt and sunshine.

Last week Mary and Andre Lacelle visited with Debby Donihee of Summerstown. On Sunday they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bergeron and Margaret and Leo Seguin at the homeplace in Williamstown.

Workshops deal with saving the world

Eastern Ontario Women's Institutes will host several workshops dealing with the ''Challenge and Fun of Waste Management'' on June 10.

The community workshops are open to the public and WI members and will include looks at issues such as: How to save the world from destruction; making anything and everything from anything and everything; growing up with waste management and having fun; shopping with waste management in mind; composting; recycling through quilting; what to put in the garbage; and creating delicious meals with leftover foods.

Everyone is encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch and a mug. Drinks and cookies will be provided and child care facilities are available.

The event will take place at North Dundas District High School, located on Hwy. 43, between Chesterville and Winchester, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

There will be prizes for the best WI waste management or environmental protection display and for the best recycling ideas sent in with the pre-registration form, among other things.

The pre-registration deadline is June 3. For further information call Marion Urquhart at 525-1641.

Glen Nevis, Laggan win Maxville Fair soccer tourney

Glen Nevis made it two-for-two in spring soccer tournament titles winning the Maxville Fair senior men's division trophy in dramatic fashion Sunday.

Deadlocked at 1-1 in the late-going of their ''A'' pool championship game against Avonmore Pacers, Glen Nevis left winger Kennedy MacDonald provided the margin of victory when he converted a crossing pass with a right-footer to the far corner from 12 yards out.

The game-winning goal came with two minutes remaining in regulation time.

Pacers had taken a 1-0 lead midway through the first half, but Stuart MacDonald got his club back on even terms late in the period when he dribbled a shot in off a goal-mouth scramble.

Glen Nevis advanced to the title game with earlier wins over Alexandria Drillers (3-2) and Hearts Oldtimers (9-0).

Pacers eliminated Pine Grove in their ''A'' semi-final game and bounced Glen Sandfield to the ''B'' pool with a 3-0 decision in their preliminary round contest.

Glen Sandfield went on to eliminate Avonmore Warriors in their consolation pool semi-final game then hooked up with Ottawa Kickers in the ''B'' final.

Kickers rallied from a first-half deficit to win the chippy affair 4-2.

Kickers had advanced to the final with a win over Hearts Oldtimers. Other first round results saw Pine Grove upend Avonmore Warriors 5-4 in overtime, and Alexandria Drillers edged Ottawa 2-1.

Awards presented in the men's division went to Joey McRae of Glen Nevis (''A'' division most valuable player), Ian Van Bussel (Ottawa, ''B'' MVP), and Howard Quail (Avonmore Pacers, top goalie).

Laggan wins ladies title

Laggan needed overtime to win the ladies ''A'' championship trophy, beating Greenfield 3-1 in a shootout.

With the score tied at one at the end of regulation, Laggan goaltender Brenda Golden scored with a drive to the top right corner on her team's first overtime kick.

Golden returned to her net to stop two Greenfield penalty shots. Bonnie MacLeod, with her second goal of the game, iced the win scoring to the left corner on her club's third shot making it 3-1.

MacLeod had put Laggan up 1-0 one minute into the second half with a low blast from just inside the striking area that caught the corner, but Greenfield — dominated from a territorial standpoint in the opening half - was finally able to muster some offence with a goal with 10 minutes remaining in regulation.

Laggan had beaten Dunvegan in their semi-final game to advance to the final. Laggan blanked Alexandria B two-nil in their early morning contest.

Greenfield were winners over Alexandria A, 1-0, and Glen Sandfield, 2-0, in their earlier games.

Glen Sandfield took the ''B'' trophy by default, when Alexandria B couldn't field a team for the title game. Glen Sandfield had advanced to the championship with a 3-0 decision over Alexandria C in their semi-final. Alexandria B beat Maxville to advance.

Other first round results saw Alexandria A blank Alexandria C 3-0 and Dunvegan slip past host Maxville 3-2 in extra time.

Bonnie MacLeod was selected ''A'' division MVP. Glen Sandfield's Wendy Hay was accorded similar honors in the ''B'' pool. Top goalie was Kathy Wensink, playing for Greenfield.

Family ball results

The Wensink family from Maxville, coached by Joe Wensink, won the ''A'' championship trophy at the Maxville Fair Family Ball Tournament Sunday, defeating the Lajoie clan from Glen Robertson in the final.

Wensinks knocked off the McCrorys (Maxville), MacMillan's (Avonmore) and Curriers (Maxville) to reach the title game.

The Lajoie team was victorious over the Quenneville's (Glen Robertson), Besners (Maxville) and Lacombes (Maxville) in their earlier games.

The Campbell family, also from Maxville, beat the Seguin's from Moose Creek in the consolation final.

Campbells were triumphant over B.J MacDonald's club (Maxville), Kathy MacDonald's team (Glen Nevis) and the McCrorys (Maxville) in their earlier games.

Seguins advanced with wins over Kyle MacMillan (Maxville), and the Quennevilles, from Glen Robertson.

Other first-round results saw the Besners (Maxville) beat Kyle MacMillan's team (Maxville), and Murray MacMillan's team (Avonmore) beat B.J. MacDonald's Maxville entry.

Maxville tournies

Laggan charged to the ladies division ''A'' trophy at the Maxville Fair soccer tournament Sunday, beating Greenfield 3-1 in the final. Bonnie MacLeod, with the ball, scored two of the Laggan goals. Jackie Bray, right, applied the chase on this particular play. Below, the action was furious as the Campbells and Seguins battled it out at the Maxville Fair family softball tournament. Campbells beat the Seguins to win the consolation trophy.

Blair MacDonald was released as coach of the Fredericton Express at the end of last season, but the 35-year-old Glengarry native quickly found work with the Muskegon Lumberjacks of the International Hockey League. MacDonald led Lumberjacks to the league playoff championship, winning the final series over Salt Lake City.

MacDonald coaches Muskegon to cup

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

With a playoff championship freshly etched on his resume, Blair MacDonald is hoping to parlay his minor league successes into a National Hockey League coaching position.

But the 35-year-old son of Mervyn and Anna Margaret MacDonald of Green Valley realizes landing a job in the big league is by no means imminent.

''Let's face it, there are only so many (NHL) coaching positions to go around,'' said MacDonald recently, in a telephone interview from Muskegon, Michigan, where, in his first year at the helm, he coached the Lumberjacks to the Turner Cup, emblematic of playoff supremacy in the International Hockey League. ''But yeah, I'm certainly looking toward that.

''I think that at the minor league level, whether your a player or a coach, you have to have the thought of making it to the NHL someday, on your mind. I guess it doesn't hurt to have a championship or two on your track record. That's nice to have.''

What MacDonald didn't have at the end of the last hockey season, was a job. Despite taking the Fredericton Express to the American Hockey League playoff final (one they lost in four games to the Hershey Bears), his coaching contract was terminated.

But intent on continuing his coaching career, he wrote and approached a number of teams, including the Lumberjacks, whose owner Larry Gordon he knew from his NHL playing days with the Edmonton Oilers.

''Larry was the general manager when I played in Edmonton,'' explained MacDonald. ''We talked and I let him know that if there was going to be a coaching change, I'd be interested and available.

''That situation came about and he called me so I flew into Pittsburgh (NHL's Penguins are Lumberjacks parent club) and I got the job.''

MacDonald took over a team that the previous year finished first overall during the regular season, but were finished off early in the playoffs, losing in the first round.

With about half of the team back, MacDonald guided the club to the East Division pennant and the Huber Trophy for finishing first overall in the league during the regular season. But unlike last year's edition the club didn't stop there, going on to win the playoff championship by running off series wins over Peoria (Illinois) Rivermen, Fort Wayne (Indiana) Comets and Salt Lake City (Utah) Golden Eagles - four games to one - in the final.

''I was very fortunate to come to a team that has a lot of good, skilled players,'' MacDonald said, adding he'll more than likely return to coach in the blue collar pulp and paper town of 60,000 on Lake Michigan's western shores. ''There's a strong possibility I'll be back here next year. We're going to sit down and talk soon.

''The Pittsburgh people have talked to both myself and Phil (Russell, a former NHL'er with the Chicago Black Hawks who was MacDonald's assistant coach) and they expressed interest in us and said they were really pleased with the work we had done, and were interested in having us back next year.''

MacDonald says he wasn't overly disappointed when Fredericton didn't express an interest in having him back last year. ''When I took the job there (in December of 1987, as a replacement for Ron Lapointe who was promoted to coach the Quebec Nordiques) it was on the condition that it was just to finish the year and I said 'fine.'

Sabourin scores five in Express win

Luc Sabourin broke loose for five goals Wednesday night, leading Roy's Garage Express to an easy 11-1 win over Mike Gibbs in an Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League regular season game at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

With the win, Express improved their record to five wins and a loss (10 points), and are hot on the heels of Dalhousie Chez Paul (six wins, no losses, 12 points) in the battle for first-place in the eight-team loop.

Frank St. Pierre scored twice for Express, with singles going to Gilles Massia, Leo Seguin, Remi Sauve and Marc Just.

Donald Wightman spoiled the Express shutout bid. Mike Gibbs has two wins and a tie for five points in six outings. They're in fifth-place.

Sabourin and St. Pierre are tied for second spot in league scoring, with 19 points each.

The leader in that department is Chez Paul's Andy Meth (seven goals, 14 assists, 21 points), who scored three times in his team's 6-1 decision over Robert Lajoie Tire Service Wednesday.

Alex Maclaren added a pair for Dalhousie. Andy McRae scored once.

John Prieur had given Robert Lajoie Tire Service an early first period 1-0 lead. Tire Service sits in sixth place with a two wins, four losses record, and four points.

In other action Wednesday, Kevin Leduc scored with just under three minutes remaining in a 1-1 tie, lifting his team — Glengarry Trophy — to a 2-1 victory over Greenfield Wings.

Brian Thatcher scored the other Glengarry Trophy goal; Rick Larocque tallied for Wings.

Trophy (three wins, two losses, one tie, seven points) is tied for third spot, while Greenfield (1-4-1, three points) is in seventh position.

Miller Hughes (0-6-0) are still looking for their first win, following a 4- 2 loss to Jake at Work. Jean Lauzon, with a pair, Richard Quesnel and Claude Cleroux handled the Jake at Work scoring; Bugs Sauve and Mike Sauve responded for lowly Miller Hughes.

Jake at Work sits in a third-place tie with seven points, on the strength of three wins and a tie in six contests.

Tuesday's results

In action Tuesday, Dalhousie Chez Paul played a ball control game to win without a goalie, doubling Glengarry Trophy 8-4.

Blake Hambleton, Alex Maclaren and Paul Lefebvre each scored a pair for the winners. Todd Hambleton and Andy Meth scored once.

Kevin Leduc, Mario Quenneville, Mike Maynard and Mike Paquette responded for Glengarry Trophy.

Glengarry Gaels lose at EOSSA

Glengarry Gaels senior girl's soccer team's drive for a third straight Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association (EOSSA) championship fell short Thursday in Pembroke.

Gaels — who captured their eighth consecutive SD&G title a week ago — were beaten 2-0 by LaSalle High School from Kingston in the tournament's championship game.

The loss ended a three-year unbeaten streak in Eastern Ontario regular season and post season play.

''We played very well, but LaSalle was an excellent team with a lot of older players,'' said Gaels coach Marc Sauve.

Glengarry advanced to the championship game by winning their pool. Gaels got goals from Marnie McRae, Bobbi-Jo McLeod and Jenny MacDonald in a 3-1 opening game win over Rideau High School from Renfrew.

Gaels — on the strength of goals from McRae and MacDonald — edged MacKenzie High School from Pembroke 2-1 in their second outing.

''We had a very successful season considering we had a fairly young team,'' said Sauve, who will have 15 players returning to next year's squad. ''We should be strong again.''

Juniors lose

Hugh Wilson's junior team suffered a similar fate at the EOSSA tournament in South Grenville, Monday.

Gaels were doubled 2-1 by Rideau High School in the championship game. Alyson Graham scored the lone Glengarry goal.

Gaels were beaten by Rideau 2-0 in their tournament opener but advanced to the final by beating Sydenham, 2-0.

Graham and Kathy VanLoon scored for Glengarry; Lisa MacDonald picked up the shutout.

Riders coming to dinner

Two members of the Ottawa Rough Riders football team will be among the head table guests at the upcoming 24th annual Lions Club Sports Awards Dinner.

Lions Club president Richard Vaillancourt said the appearances of running back Orville Lee and quarterback Damen Allen were confirmed Monday.

Lee was the Canadian Football League rookie of the year. Allen will be making his Ottawa debut this summer, after a successful career with the Edmonton Eskimos.

The awards dinner will be held Monday night (June 12) at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Track team members off to Provincials

Two Glengarry Gaels track and field team members lived up to their coaches expectations Friday.

Michel Jeaurond, competing in the midget boys 100-metre hurdles event at the regional meet in Peterborough, and senior high jumper Hilary Wilson, both qualified for the provincial championships this weekend in Etobicoke.

Jeaurond placed third in his event in a time of 14.6 seconds. Wilson's 1.55 metre leap was good for a bronze medal in her specialty.

The top four placers in each event qualified for the provincial meet.

''I was confident they would be able to qualify,'' said Gaels track and field coach Jean-Yves Jeaurond, who will be sending athletes to the provincial finals for the first time in three years. ''But it's going to be very tough there.

''The competition is extremely tough at that level. I'm hoping they'll be able to place in the top six or eight. That would be quite an achievement.''

Jeaurond, the top midget boy at the SD&G track and field meet three weeks ago, narrowly missed an EOSSA record in the 100-metre hurdles last week, with a time of 14.3 seconds.

''His run in Peterborough (14.6 seconds) certainly wasn't his best run,'' said Jeaurond. ''He didn't do as well as he should have, so if he improves on it this weekend, he could place high.''

Jeaurond says Wilson should be able to improve on her personal best score of 1.55 metres. ''I think she can probably make 1.60 metres (in Etobicoke) if things go well, which would be very competitive with the other jumpers.''

Midget discus thrower Michel Lajoie recorded a personal best for the second straight week — 37.82 metres — but failed to qualify for the provincials, finishing sixth.

''He was sixth out of 14 throwers, so that's a very good result for him,'' said Jeaurond.

Lang wins silver

Char-Lan District High School student Laura Lang was a silver medalist in Peterborough, placing second in the junior girls' shotput event.

Lang failed to qualify in her other event, the discus throw.

Senior distance runner Laurie MacDonald participated in the 800-metre event, but was unable to place in the top four.

At the meet, 125 schools were represented.

Teams needed for Cornwall tourney

The Ladies Commercial Softball League in Cornwall is looking for area teams to complete the draw at their three-pitch tournament, June 24 and 25.

More information can be obtained by calling tournament organizers Juanita Courville (933-5215) or Marlene MacNeil (938-1917).

Delage wins bodybuilding title

By Todd Hambleton
Sports Editor

Sue Delage figured she had come too far to give it up so close to the competition.

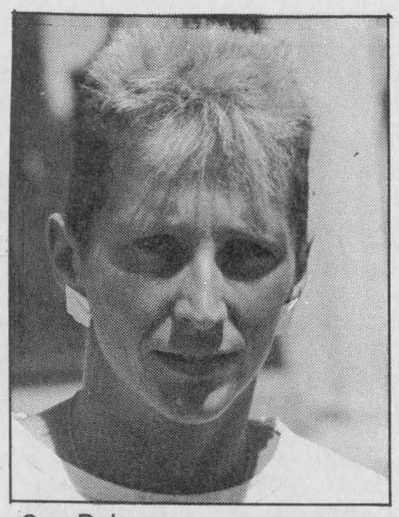
The Alexandria native saw just how far she had come Saturday, May 20, winning the women's open title and Miss Cornwall trophy at the Cornwall Bodybuilding Championships.

It was the first bodybuilding competition the Glengarry Transport Limited employee — who took up the sport less than a year ago — had entered.

"I found the training really tough as the competition got closer and when it got really serious," said Delage, 27. "I felt like quitting, but I told myself I'd come this far, I can't quit now."

Delage, competing in an open weight class, beat out three competitors for the city trophy, and three women in the open category.

"I didn't know what the out-of-town girls looked like, but I knew I could beat the girls from Cornwall that I had been training with," said Delage, who, after two years of working out at Pattyn's Gym in Alexandria, began training at the Aerobics and Iron bodybuilding gym in Cornwall, eight months ago.



Sue Delage

"That's when I decided I wanted to go into competition. It's something I've always wanted to do. When I was training in Alexandria, they had the perfect gym for powerlifting but they didn't have the right equipment for bodybuilding, so I decided to train in Cornwall.

"It's become more than just a hobby for me. I take it very seriously," said Delage, adding she's always been the fitness-conscious type.

Evidence of her commitment to the sport lies in the number of hours she spends in the gym. As the competition approached, her workouts ranged from two to three hours in duration, six days a week.

"It's a big commitment and it takes a lot of discipline but the results make it worthwhile," said Delage, who also saw substantial results in her pre-competition diet, shedding 23 lbs.

"I think that was the key for me," she said. "You have to start dieting about three months before the competition to get rid of all the fat and keep just the muscle. But it's tough to stay on it."

Her diet began three months ago with the elimination of red meat and all dairy products. Two days before the competition it had become a fast.

"All I could eat were things like fruit and baked potatoes and a couple of glasses of water. You try to limit yourself to just consuming carbohydrates so that you get filled up without actually eating that much," Delage explained.

She says her personal war of attrition took it's toll, strength-wise.

"I used to be able to bench press 200 lbs., but right before the meet all I could do was 150 lbs. I couldn't do anymore because I didn't have the strength at the end to lift another pound. You just lose so much weight and strength.

"But the strength doesn't really matter. The judges are just looking for tone and mass, about the same thing as what they'd be looking for in a guy," said Delage, who wowed the adjudicators during the morning and evening pose downs at Aultsville Hall on the St. Lawrence College campus.

"The pre-judging in the morning is the most important session," she said. "Seventy-five to 80 per cent are awarded then. The evening show is more or less just to entertain the audience."

Delage — who says her upper body is her best feature — packs 117 lbs. of lean muscle onto a 5'5' frame, and has pipes a highland band would be proud of. But it's her legs that will recieve the bulk of the attention as she prepares for her next meet, possibly in Hamilton in August.

"I could go to Hamilton in August, but I don't know if I'll be ready that soon. I'd like to work on my legs a lot. I think that was my weak point," she said.

"I'll probably wait until later on in the year and go to a level two regional competition (Cornwall was level one)."

Ladouceur second

Dave Heaslip of Smiths Falls overtook Alexandria's Laurent Ladouceur on the sixth lap and went on to win the first 20 lap feature at the Cornwall Motor Speedway's 1989 season opener Sunday night.

Ladouceur went on to a second-place finish in the 24-car field.

The opening night event was originally scheduled for the previous week but was cancelled because of inclement weather.

Marcel "The Hammer Lafrance" of Cornwall finished third in the first event, then went on to take the checkered flag in the second 20 lap Modified stock car feature.

Laurent Ladouceur was second.

Ovide Dorion of Alexandria, was sixth in the first feature.

Other opening night winners were Kevin Fetterly of Massena, New York, who won the Semi-Pro class feature.

Jim Plourde of Cornwall won the Duke (Amateurs) Stocks feature race.

All three classes will be in action at the speedway next Sunday night.

Frog run Sunday

The third Annual Frog Hollow Fun Run will be held on Sunday (June 4), beginning at 10 a.m. in Green Valley.

The event, sponsored by the Seaway Valley Runners Association, is an 8-km endurance test for runners of all ages that convenes on Cty. Rd. 25 just outside Green Valley and proceeds along the hilly thouroughfare to Glen Roy and back.

The course includes a two-mile trek for participants 14 and under.

A light lunch will be served following the run. T-shirts and medals to top finishers are among the prizes that will be handed out.

Registration forms can be picked up at Shepherd Sports or M&D Boisvenue Sport. More information can be obtained by calling race director Margie Laferriere at 525-2316.

Raisin race cancelled

A Seaway Valley Runners Association sponsored run — the Great Raisin River Footrace — has been called off.

Organizers cited a lack of organizational help as the reason for the cancellation.

The race was to have been run beginning in Williamstown on Sunday, Aug. 13.

Organizers are considering staging an alternative race requiring less organization and volunteer help.

More details on the proposed event are forthcoming.

Mike Gibbs keeps rolling along in ball hockey

By Jeff Lowe

Mike Gibbs are rolling over the opposition as they remain unbeaten in their first six games of the year. Martine Theoret has given the team goaltending that is more than adequate. An overall team concept has allowed every player to contribute to their winning ways.

Thursday, May 25

Mike Gibbs defeated Tapis Richard by a score of 2-1. Vi McRae and Debbie Fourney accounted for Mike Gibbs' scoring. Jenny MacDonald and Corkie Robinson picked up assists.

Mary Nixon replied for Tapis Richard.

The other game of the night saw Chez Paul bounce Shepherd's 6-0. Carol Rame and Dot McColl led Chez Paul with each picking up two goals and an assist. Karen Smith had a goal and two assists while Janice Munro rounded out the scoring. Ginette Leblanc and Glenda Lauzon each picked up an assist.

Tina Michaud earned the shutout.

Monday, May 22

Two defensive battles took place on this night. The first game saw a goaltenders duel between Sue Villeneuve of GTL and Sue Decoste of Tapis Richard.

Sue Villeneuve came out the victor as she blanked Tapis Richard 1-0. Donna MacGregor, from Sue Delage, accounted for GTL's lone goal. The second game saw Mike Gibbs score with just 1:03 remaining in the game to give them a 2-1 victory over Chez Paul. Cathy MacDougall, from Vi McRae, opened the scoring.

Chez Paul replied as Cheryl Wightman redirected a shot by Chris Klazinga. That goal set the stage for Cathy Smith as she scored the game winner.

Golf news

The results are in for the Glengarry Golf and Country Club's "Early Bird Tournament," held on May 20.

The junior low gross winner was Luc Sabourin, who shot a 74.

Ricky Latreille's 68 was the junior low net.

Ladies' low gross went ot Nicole Tourangeau, with an 89, while the ladies low net winner was Jean Campbell (65).

Men's first low gross was Michel Lacelle (78), second low gross was an 80 shot by Les Kimbell.

Men's first low net winner was Brent Farrel (64), while the second low net was Lawrence Gillespie.

Our first gathering of the Men's Twilight League is scheduled for Wednesday (tonight). So far there are over 80 participants signed up.

This Saturday, June 3, the grand opening for our "back nine" will take place. Ribbon-cutting ceremonies are set for 9:30 a.m.

Installed

The bridge to the 11th hole green at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club was put in place Wednesday afternoon. The 16,000 pound structure has an 80-foot span that crosses the Delisle River, and will be able to accommodate tractors or trucks, and, of course, golfers.

MacDonald coaches Muskegon to cup

"We had done so well I thought it might lead to something, but they let me know they had their eye on somebody else. Quebec had other plans."

MacDonald says his plans were always to coach once his playing days were over. When his 11-year World Hockey Association and National Hockey League career ended in 1983, he moved to Austria and was a player-coach with Vienna for two seasons, and with Innsbruck, for one.

He returned to North America and his Vancouver home, where he now lives during off-seasons, in 1986, operating a number of coaching clinics with other ex-NHL'ers across Western Canada, until getting the Fredericton job.

"That was my big break into the coaching ranks and I feel I was fortunate to get the position," said MacDonald, who not surprisingly referred to the 1979-1980 season — his first year in the NHL and one in which he broke the 50 -goal barrier, playing alongside Wayne Gretzky and made the all-star team — as the highlight of his playing career.

"I had always had thoughts of coaching. The whole time I played, especially toward the end of my career, I had always told myself that I wanted to stay in the game, and coaching always appealed to me.

"I enjoy it. It's (hockey) something I've done all my life. Coaching is a nice way to be a part of the game."

The former Cornwall Royals star, who played minor hockey in Alexandria, was at a loss when asked to describe his coaching style. You'd have to ask the players," he began, then continued. "I guess that, more or less, what we try to do is let the players play their own game.

"We just try to guide them in the right direction and try to give them confidence. We like them to think on their own on the ice, and we try to give them the freedom to be creative with the puck. The players we deal with are highly skilled."

So too, he says, is the league. The league's image, perhaps tainted by the movie "Slapshot," has improved in recent years. "That's all changed. It's good hockey, MacDonald said. "In the last three years it has really stepped up its credibility. Just about every team in the league is a major affiliate for an NHL team.

"The hockey quality is just as good as the American Hockey League. The first thing I noticed when I came here is that it's probably a better skating league than the AHL. Both finalists, ourselves or Salt Lake, would probably beat the American league winner."

MacDonald is currently enjoying a one-week Caribbean team cruise.

Seguin leads Gaels

Marc Seguin was Glengarry Gaels' lone representative at the Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools Association (EOSSA) tennis tournament Tuesday in Kingston.

Seguin — competing in the junior boys' singles division — placed second at the SD&G meet in Cornwall on Tuesday, May 23, losing 8-6 in games to Derrick Grant of St. Lawrence High School.

The top two finishers in each category qualified for the Eastern Ontario championships.

Other Gaels who placed were Julien Boisvenue (third in senior boys' singles) and Annie Crevrier (third in junior girls' singles).

Courtney Goulder and Maegan Robertson teamed up to capture third spot in junior girls' doubles competition, while Roch Levac and Paul Vincent were third in the senior boys' doubles category.

The Glengarry Gaels tennis team — coached by Stanley Fraser — was represented by a full squad of 16 participants.

Athletes from seven schools took part in the tournament.

Alexandria B beats C

Alexandria B got two goals from Nathalie Seguin and singles from Sandra Cameron and Kelly Lavigeur in a 4-0 win over Alexandria C in a Glengarry Soccer League senior ladies regular season game played Monday night at the Island Park field.

The win was Alexandria B's third over the week. On Thursday night, Donna St. Denis, Debbie Charlebois and Carolyn Cameron scored in a 3-1 decision over Greenfield.

Geraldine St. Denis scored the lone Greenfield marker.

On Wednesday Donna St. Denis scored twice leading the B's to a 3-1 victory over Alexandria A. Brenda Cameron also scored for team B. Marion Lawson was the lone Alexandria A scorer.

Sylvie Chenier picked up a pair of shutouts for Glen Sandfield, recording a goose egg in her club's 2-0 win over Dunvegan Friday and in a 0-0 matchup with Laggan Tuesday (May 23). Brenda Golden was between the pipes for Laggan.

Wendy Hay scored both goals in the win over Dunvegan.

Dunvegan had no problem scoring goals two nights earlier, blasting Maxville 9-0 Wednesday. Jenny Taggart and Tracy Nichol led the assault, each recording hat tricks. Scoring once each was Alyson Graham, Marilyn Forbes and Bridget Kippen.

Betti-Anne MacLeod picked up the shutout.

Maxville had been clobbered a week earlier, coming out on the short end of a 9-1 score against Greenfield. Shirley VanLoon and Laura VanLoon notched pairs for Greenfield. Singles went to Naomi McKenzie, Annie St. Denis, Kathy VanLoon, Geraldine St. Denis and Suzanne Lalonde.

Senior men

Hughie MacLeod, with a pair, and Bruce Mitton led Glen Sandfield to a senior men's league 3-1 win over Greenfield Friday night.

Herb Maley tallied for Greenfield.

Stuart MacDonald provided shutout goaltending in Glen Nevis' 4-0 win over struggling Glengarry Stars Thursday.

Former students renewed friendships at Tagwi reunion

MAXVILLE
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Home with Edythe and John Coleman last weekend were Jean and Ivan Coleman and their three sons from P.E.I.

* * *

The three most recent winners of the 50-50 draw sponsored by the Maxville Veterans' Club were Malvina Rolland, Sterling Stewart and Annie Wensink.

* * *

At the competition of the St. Andrews Highland Dancing Association held in Cornwall on May 13, Heather MacLeod earned four first prizes in her 12 and under category, as well as the trophy. We congratulate Heather, who is the daughter of Lois and Campbell.

First communion

During the recent first communion service in St. James Roman Catholic Church, Nicole Bourgeois was the soloist, Viviane Racine presented the children with their certificates, and Jocelyn Villeneuve presented the rosaries which were donated by the local UCFO organization.

* * *

Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve has visiting her presently, her sister, Isabel Grindley from Calgary. Other guests with Mrs. Villeneuve were her three sons, Brian and daughter Lisa from Toronto, Ronald from Dalhousie, N.B., F. B. from Ottawa and Ronald's daughter, Lori, from Toronto.

Heather McCaskill and her mother Margery enjoyed a trip with the Jolly Tours to Nashville, from May 18 to 24.

* * *

On Mother's Day, Lise and Adrien St. Louis entertained at a family gathering on the occasion of their son Mathieu's first communion.

Winona and Jim Eles, Colin and Robin from Stouffville were home with her mother, Verna MacGregor, for the Tagwi reunion, with Mrs. Eles and the children remaining over for a few extra days.

Bill Shields enjoyed a week's trip to Scotland, returning last week.

Judy and Melville MacLeod, Toronto, were home with his mother, Isabel MacLeod, for the Victoria Day weekend.

* * *

Also home from Toronto at the same time were Susan and Ian Kennedy and baby daughter with the Donald Kennedy family.

98th birthday

Ida Roulston and her daughter Gladys were in Ogdensburg, N.Y., recently for a family wedding. The event was especially notable since Mrs. Roulston will be celebrating her 98th birthday this summer.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Scott and children were also home with his parents, Murdena and Eldred, from Barrie, for the Tagwi reunion.

Margaret and Keith Jack and Ken Johns were in St. John's, Newfoundland for the Canada Wide Science Fair. The Jacks also spent a few days visiting at the home of their daughter, Eleanor Keeping and family.

* * *

Nancy Brady and son Phillip, Perth, renewed old friendships in the village on the long weekend. Phillip's host was Brad Arthurs.

* * *

Hilda and Herb Holmes were in Greenfield Park recently for a convention of the Royal Canadian Legion. Former residents of that community, the Holmes were involved with the organization of the convention.

* * *

Dorcas MacDougall was in Burlington last week and attended the graduation of her granddaughter, Karen MacDougall, from McMaster University.

* * *

Excellent reports came from the Tagwi Secondary School reunion activities, with many school-time friendships renewed. Former students particularly appreciated visiting with many of their teachers. We should acknowledge at this time that Dan Maloney, a former teacher of Maxville High School is the coach of Tagwi's team which will be competing in the Reach for the Top Canadian finals soon.

* * *

Helen Hunter has been away for a couple of weeks, visiting with Helen and Donald McEwen, Campbellford, Glenna and Ted Hunter, Peterborough and Margaret Hunter, Toronto.

Beaula Quart, Morrisburg, visited friends at the Manor and in the village, one day last week.

The supplement in The Glengarry News two weeks ago which was published to help celebrate the centennial of our fair contained much interesting information and acknowledged the contributions of many. I'd like to add that as far back as 1920 or earlier, John P. McNaughton held that office which was later taken over by his son Leonard. Then around 1940, my father E. S. Winter, was secretary/treasurer until his death in 1956.

* * *

Fifty years ago, Keith McEwen graduated from Queen's University. The late Mr. McEwen was the son of the Rev. John D. McEwen, missionary to Brazil at the turn of the century for several years.

* * *

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Albert Boisvenue and Teddy Zmijewski have been having health problems and we wish them both speedy improvements.

* * *

Jean Chisholm was in Don Mills over the Victoria Day weekend, with her daughter Helen and Tom Owen and family.

Recent visitors with Ethel MacKinnon were her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gordon Ferguson from British Columbia and her son, Don and Mrs. MacKinnon from Toronto.

Jean and John Harrison, Whitby, called on her mother, Florence (Mrs. Leonard) McNaughton, last week.

Recent visitiors with Grace and Ovila Doth were his brother and sister, Lionel Doth and Georgette Desjardins from Ottawa.

Other visitors with the Doths and with Anna May Brown were their three McDiarmid nieces, Christina Benwell, St. George, B.C., Shirley Smee, Marathon and Mildred Bilmer, Cornwall.

We are sorry to report that Cathy Clay seems to be taking longer to recover from the injuries she received in her accident, than expected. This week, Mrs. Clay should be transferred to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, where her recovery will be completed.

* * *

The paving equipment moved in last week and very quickly gave our streets a very fine surface. It is great having our sewage project drawing to a close on the streets, but next the individual householders will be assuming responsibilities of having the work done in their basements and properties up to the village line.

Cancer Society campaign

The final figures are now in and thanks to the dedication of many volunteers, donations received in Kenyon are up about $200 over those of last year. The total raised was $6,228.25.

Canvassers, area captains and the township chairwoman, Donnie Vallance, worked together to make this the best financial campaign yet. Mrs. Vallance was assisted by area captain for Maxville, Eileen Scott, for Apple Hill it was Maureen Bissonnette and Marion Loewen for Dunvegan.

Mrs. Scott wishes to express appreciation to the following Maxville canvassers: Claire Besner, Lorraine Besner, Lois Robertson, Pat Raymond, Lorna Blair, Catherine (Neil) MacRae, Charlotte Kennedy, Joan O'Hara, Charlene McDonald, Kerri Dickson, Lise St. Louis, Heather Arthurs, Heather McCaskill and Helen McRae. Canvassers at the Manor were residents Tina MacIsaac, Martha McCuaig, Flora Anne MacGillivray and Evelyn Roy.

Lorraine Villeneuve was in charge of the daffodils which brought in $50.

Young at Heart euchre

As soon as two players come up with three wins at this senior citizens-sponsored euchre, he and she will be declared king and queen for the time being. In the meantime, new names are appearing in the list of winners at this regularly held party, organized for every second Monday evening. The last one was on May 22.

Margaret Michaud had the top score for the ladies, followed closely by Violet McDiarmid, Moose Creek and Jessie Renwick, Vankleek Hill.

Bill MacMillan went home to Apple Hill with top prize money for the men with Dan MacRae and Herbie O'Byrne earning the other two prizes.

Beatrice Fontaine, Alexandria won the door prize.

Three of the prizewinners also won 50-50 draw prizes: Mr. MacRae, Mr. MacMillan and Miss McDiarmid. Other winners in the draw were Gladys Barton, Vankleek Hill, Sarah Presley, Finch, Norbert Ryan, Casselman, and local residents Bertha Lalonde, Jean Chisholm, Hormidas St. John and Rita Seguin.

The next euchre is on June 5 at 8 p.m. in the basement of the Anglican church.

CWL meeting

The last meeting until September of the Maxville-Greenfield CWL was held on May 16. Father Rejean Lebrun opened the meeting with prayer and the spiritual convenor, Ruth Stewart gave reflections on the Lord's Prayer.

On May 28, the annual CWL convention will be held in Cornwall at the Knights of Columbus hall, starting at 9:30 a.m. At 5 p.m. there will be a mass in St. Peter's Church with Bishop LaRocque as the celebrant.

Our newly-organized recreation committee announces that registration for softball will be held at the Sports Complex this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and next Wednesday, June 7 from 7-9 p.m.

For the four to six-year-olds, T-ball is being organized. This is a new game here and it is hoped the younger children and their parents will become acquainted with it and learn to enjoy it.

* * *

It couldn't be a scarecrow because a certain Maxville gas bar operator wants all the business he can get. Therefore it must have been a symbolic effigy of the Montreal Canadiens that was seen hanging above the gas pumps last Friday morning. We trust those loyal Montreal fans will not take permanent offense, but will cheer up and look forward to next year.

97 years young

Marie Anne Poirier of the Alexandria Community Nursing Home celebrated her 97th birthday at the home on May 15. Mrs. Poirier was born in St. Redempteur, Que., married Omer Poirier in 1935 and lived in St. Telesphore. She came to Alexandria in 1986.

Several attend WI annual meeting

WI annual meeting

The Glengarry District Women's Institute 74th annual meeting was recently held in the Kirk Hill United Church with 71 registrants. This year's theme was "Waste Not, Want Not," and the hostesses were the members of McCrimmon WI. The ladies of he church catered the sumptuous meal at noon.

Coffee and cookies were awaiting the guests on that rainy, windy morning, some of whom had been on the road for two hours. Registration was at 9 a.m. so they had an early start. A warm welcome at the church greeted them, and the cold was soon forgotten. District President Mrs. John Petrie chaired the meeting, opening with the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect. The flag ceremony was presented by the Martintown WI, followed by the singing of O Canada, with Mrs. Angus MacLennan at the organ. Among the special guests Mrs. Petrie introduced the Eastern Ontario WI Area President Marion Timmins. the McCrimmon President Mrs. John Fraser welcomed the crowd warmly and read several announcements. The minutes and favorable financial report were given by Mrs. Ted Sharpe. Reports given were by the auditors; Mrs. Petrie, program co-ordinator; Mrs. Henry Brewers; Resolutions by Mrs. Joyce Lalonde; curator, Mrs. Harold Fourney, and PRO, Mrs. John Loewen. All reported that every branch had good varied programs, and gave some interesting roll calls and mottos for the convenors. Miss Marion Urquhart conducted the ratification of district directors. The memorial service was led by Mrs. Calder, with three branches taking part. McCrimmon, Picnic Grove and Dunvegan. All had members who had passed on during the past year. White carnations were reverently placed in the vase and a touching tribute was read for each departed member. Those remembered were Margaret McCallum, Katie MacLean, Stella McNaughton, Mary Sangster, Irene Blair, Margaret McLean and Margaret-Ann MacLeod. In a short review of the reports, Miss Marion Urquhart, reminded the women that when a resolution is presented, the membership must keep after those in government to see that it is implemented. To let it rest will cause it to lack impact, and in the end, probably come to nothing. Follow the resolutions through and keep writing; because they are valid and needed, or they would never have been drawn up in the first place. They take a while to go through, so keep on lobbying.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Anne McRae-MacGillivray, co-ordinator for the waste management committee (a Glen Nevis girl now in Ottawa), was very interesting.

She had a world of ideas and information to share. She spoke of the master plan as being in stage 2B, selecting sites. There are 12 municipalities involved to date but Cornwall seems to want to be involved as well. This is still in the talking stage so far. There is really too much fancy wrapping on merchandise. Needless waste-making! This goes a long way in contributing to the one ton of waste per year, generated by each household. Incredible! Now if someone balks at carrying out the garbage, you know why! We are depleting the ozone layer by pollution, our ground water and rivers by toxic chemicals, and our air by poisonous gases. How long can it go on? It it too late? We certainly hope not! Much more was discussed, and a lively question period followed Mrs. MacGillivray's topical address. A 10-minute break for a sing-song during the morning was led by Mrs. Charles Chapman, ably assisted by Sheila Urquhart and Nancy Campbell with Mrs. Bessie MacLennan at the piano. During the luncheon break, there was time to examine Pat Ager's display, and Anne MacGillivray's literature was there free for the taking. The afternoon activities opened by the report given by subdivision 1 Board Director Miss Marion Urquhart, and Mrs. William Johnston spoke about the Pennies for Friendship donations. They have been used for many worthwhile projects over the years, so keep them coming. As an '89-'90 project, Mrs. Petrie encouraged each branch to have a sign placed at the entrance of the village, or at the hall. Members should place one in front of their residences, many have already done so, and it is good for WI newcomers to know where they can find a WI member in a community to help them get back into WI again.

There was talk of setting up an anniversary committee, chaired by Miss Urquhart and made up of a representative of each branch. The June 10 workshop to be held in North Dundas High School was mentioned and they are hoping for 400 participants or more, if possible. Door prizes were won by Marjorie McCaskill and Bertha Fraser. Picnic Grove extended an invitation for the annual meeting next year. The new slate of officers for the Glengarry District WI Subdivision 1 are as follows: Past-president — Mrs. Lynus MacPherson; president — Mrs. John Petrie; first vice-president — Mrs. William Calder; second vice-president — Mrs. William Johnston; secretary/treasurer — Ina Byatte; curator — Mrs. Harold Fourney; P.R.O. — Mrs. Henry Brewers; program co-ordinator — Mrs. Cameron McDonald; resolutions — Mrs. Alex Lalonde; auditors — Mrs. Ted Sharpe and Mrs. Ron Davies. First district delegate — Mrs. John Petrie; alternate — Mrs. William Calder; second district delegate — Miss Marion Urquhart, and alternate — Miss Annabel McNaughton.

Area ladies wishing to attend the Christian Women's Club meeting in Lachute on June 12 will be most interested in the upcomng program in store for them. Talented designer Lesley Roxburgh of Pleasant Corners will be demonstrating how to do painting on silk. The gifted soloist will be Sandra Fraser of St. Anne de Prescott, and the speaker will be homemaker and mother Ruth Bauman, of Waterloo. All from Ontario, let's hope a good group will get out to show their support.

39-ers enter seniors' games

The 39'ers met recently in the Church on the Hill hall, for the May meeting. After lunch, three birthday celebrants for May had a special birthday cupcake, candle and all. Russell Surtees, Jenny Cameron and Lorna Chapman were the lucky ones. A lively sing-song was led by Muriel Moore, Frank Hamilton and Lorna Chapman, and Imelda McDonald came out in "black-face" makeup, and did a piece called "And You Call Me Colored," which had everyone in stitches. A possible trip to Lanark is to be looked into by Al and Marge Brewer, and they will be reporting on it at the June meeting. June will be a salad luncheon, with each person taking either a salad or a dessert. The Seniors' Games were discussed, and the 39'ers will be taking part in Cornwall, for five-pin bowling on June 13, walking a certain distance (timed) June 14, and two teams are ready for the euchre game on June 15. A dinner will be held in the evening and awards will be presented to the winners. It really sounded like fun, and we will all be interested to see who takes the prizes (or awards). A contest, "Do You Know Your A.B.C.s?" was enjoyed, followed by cards and bingo, until it was time to leave, with John Burnett doing the calling.

Richard Fraser of Kincardine and Christine Landon and A. J. of Vancouver, were in last weekend to visit their mother, Sara MacMillan.

Recent visitors with Bud and Lorna Chapman have been Nancy and Jamie Chapman, of Ville LaSalle, Wendy and Diane Chapman of Verdun, Bonnie McAllister of Laval des Rapides, and Chickie and Richard Hillier, Stephanie and Vincent of St. Lambert.

* * *

Glen Sandfield United Church is having a hymn-sing on Sunday (June 4) at 8 p.m.

Easter Seal Society seeks camp nurses

The Easter Seal Society is looking for registered nurses to work with physically disabled children ages 7-19 at residential summer camps, from mid-June to late August.

The Easter Seal camps are located near Kirkland Lake, Perth, Collingwood, London and Port Colborne. Full board is provided for the duration of the camping season and travel costs to and from camp will be reimbursed.

The nurses are required to have a current Ontario Registration and a minimum of one year's recent clinical experience.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Sue Harrington
347-2279

The trouble is, my children just won't set a good example for me to follow! Late with this, late with that — how can they expect me to meet a deadline?

Apologies to all my contributors and readers for last week's missing column. Tell me: Is there such a thing as Procrastinators Anonymous?

Activities have been as thick as mosquitos in Williamstown this week, or, as I guess I should say, these weeks! Parties, openings, births, vernissages — all the things which indicate a village is alive and buzzing. Over at Larry Rozon's on Saturday, the mood was relaxed and friendly as dignitaries and well-wishers gathered to celebrate the opening of Larry's new store, Rozon Feed and Garden Centre. MP Don Boudria performed the magic ribbon ritual, while villagers and transient bikers alike, stopped to participate in the refreshments.

There were prizes galore. Clark McDonell, Ryan Major and Lucie Poirier won fertilizer. Dogfood went to Cathy Larocque, Isobel Larocque and Ernie Larocque. As none of these winners owns a dog, the we-know-what-you're-having-for-dinner jokes flew thick and fast from the crowd!

Ken Goudie won a bag of cat food, and fortunatley, Ken does have cats. A jacket went to Lucie Poirier, while thermometers were won by Kim Daly, Gisele Daly, Fred Klazinga and Jean Bonhower.

George Stewart has a new pen set, compliments of Rozon's, while Donald MacLennan won a bag of garden soil; Theresa VanOverBeek, sheep manure; Leo Gaucher, potting soil, and Ken Taylor, white stone.

Teat dip went to Bea Hutt and Mandy Larocque. Hats will be worn on the heads of Ken Taylor, Julia MacDonell, Pauline Chretien and Edith Abrams. Patricia Russell won Q mist and spray.

Refreshments of the very best kind, good and gratis were plentiful for both villagers and mosquitos this weekend. On Sunday afternoon, the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum held a vernissage to launch its latest exhibition — traditional hooking.

I was most impressed with the exhibit and with the how-to-do explanations given by Bertha Fraser who was on hand to demonstrate the craft. As I admitted shame-facedly, to one of the organizers, I had always dismissed hooking as being the mechanical action of pulling lengths of pre-cut bulky yarn through pre-stamped canvas. Not so with traditional hooking, which has great scope for creativity.

The material used may be new or recycled, as one scatter mat aptly illustrated. It was made from old lisle stockings and I couldn't help thinking that the stockings looked better reincarnated in the mat that they ever had in their first life, bagging around some schoolgirl's legs!

The exhibit will continue at least through June, so if you were one of the many who missed the activities on Sunday, you will have another chance. But the refreshments won't be there!

Museum committee members and his many friends throughout Glengarry were concerned to learn of the sudden illness of Dr. Wilfrid Johnston. It is hoped that Dr. Johnston's condition will improve; our thoughts are with his family at this time.

Char-Lan's prom night came and went in a flurry of froth and finery, Saturday night. But as usual, your parking lot voyeur didn't see much of anything as couples arrived well after dark.

The decorations for this year's dance were lovely, though. The theme was, "Atlantis, a lost paradise," and the cafetorium was decorated in shades of turqoise, peach and white, or, as I liked to think of them, aqua, coral and sea-spray.

A most effective use of wall space was made by decorating it, at water level, with schools of fish, seahorses, and bubbles, bubbles, bubbles.

The centre table featured two huge bowls filled with goldfish, which really set off the decorations. Unfortunately it also set off something else — the pica of some of the students. In case you're wondering, "pica" is the pathological craving for, and eating of, inappropriate substances!

The actions of Ms. Rita Buttle and members of OSAID (Ontario students against impaired driving) must have been effective as all Char-Lan students made it home safely after the big night.

On Friday evening, the many friends of Ernle and Elizabeth Chatfield gathered at the home of Lloyd and Wendy Rozon, to say farewell to the couple. The Chatfields are leaving in June to take up residence in Victoria, B.C. We wish them well in the west and hope they will return to Williamstown for visits in the future.

Elizabeth Chatfield was presented with a beautiful quilted wall-hanging, at a recent meeting of the Picnic Grove WI. The wall-hanging, which was made by Nancy Woollven, is a re-creation of Elizabeth and Ernle's home, complete with hummingbird feeder, weather vane, and lilac bushes.

Ginny Blair of Martintown was the guest speaker at the meeting, held at the home of Mary Alguire. Ginny explained to members how fats in the diet affect cholesterol levels and how consumers should check product labels for the levels of polysaturates in foods.

Donations in memory of three Picnic Grove members, Stella McNaughton, Margaret McCallum and Mary Sangster, who died during the year, were sent to the Adelaide Hoodless Foundation.

D. A. Fraser of the 2nd concession, was the guest of honor at a family party held recently at the Best Western Parkway in Cornwall. The celebration was to mark D. A.'s 75th birthday which occurred on May 19.

Among those in attendance at the event were Charlotte Sansom, Cathy and Phil Poirier, Dave and Lise Fraser, Doug and Keitha Fraser, Susan and Gerald Andre, Mary and Bob Periard, and Alan and Myrna Fraser.

When the grandsons come to visit the grandparents, no doubt they will play together, being so close in age. I'm referring of course, to the latest grandchildren of Bill and Norma Cattanach and neighbors Karla and Bruno Major.

Sure to be early, or at the very least on time for every event in his life, is young Daniel Bougie who was born May 21, 10 days before his ETA. Daniel is the son of Donna and Mike Bougie and is a new brother for Laura Bougie.

Also early, born on May 24, was Adam Kenneth, first son of Mark and Sylvie Major.

Congratulations to you all!

I hope that those of you who receive this paper on Wednesday will take the time to attend the Williamstown Fair Queen contest being held tonight at 8 p.m. at Char-Lan High School. Unfortunately, another local event, which had been scheduled for Thursday and Friday evenings, has been changed to Wednesday and Thursday evenings and will no doubt cut into the size of the crowd at the pageant.

The seven beauties in search of a crown (and an audience) tonight are Karla Laplante, Karen Runions, Kelly McDonald, Heather Ann Baker, Christina Rogers, Carrie Gordon and Tara McDonell.

Everyone is welcome to attend the Glengarry Club's pot luck dinner which will be held on June 7 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre at 12 noon.

Our wishes for a return to good health go out to Mae Smart. Mae is presently convalescing at the MacDonell Memorial in Cornwall, after a stint in hospital.

Sunday was a big day in the lives of Kimberley Stewart and Eric Kubelka. Kim and Eric were confirmed as members of St. Andrew's United Church and were responsible for the service. They were feted afterward at a reception in Irvine Hall in their honor.

Lending a shoulder

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria (left) pulled on a pair of overalls and hoisted a sack of fertilizer to really get into the spirit of Larry Rozon's grand opening of Rozon Feed and Garden Centre in Williamstown last Saturday (May 27). The feed store had been in operation since 1947. It will carry a full line of garden supplies, agricultural products and pet foods. Staff photo — Lesley Cadham

Let's keep Cleary on our side: Councillor MacDonald

Councillor Joan MacDonald paved the path for diplomacy at Charlottenburgh council's regular meeting, May 23 in Williamstown.

Councillor MacDonald, noting their $23,177 grant had been received from the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation to go toward the purchase of a new zamboni for the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, suggested that MPP John Cleary be thanked as the provincial government's representative.

Mrs. MacDonald expressed concern that the township, in an article in the Standard-Freeholder, was made to look ungrateful for the grant because it had already been included in the previous year's budget.

"Let's keep Mr. Cleary on our side. If we keep knocking this source, we are not going to get any more money," said Mrs. MacDonald, after asking how much influence MPP's had in the grant-awarding process.

"He can lobby for us," Deputy Reeve Ewen MacDonald told Mrs. MacDonald.

Councillor Don Kannon agreed that recent relations between the township and the province could be improved by acknowledging the grant.

"The money is in. Maybe we shouldn't be biting the hand that feeds us," declared Mr. Kannon, adding, "You get more flies with honey than with vinegar."

Reeve Carol-Ann Ross still expressed concern that Charlottenburgh residents were being mislead by the way the provincial grants were announced. "I refused to take it. I will not have township residents ransomed," said Mrs. Ross.

Concillor Bob Roth, who had expressed annoyance at a previous council meeting over the way grants were being announced as gifts when in fact they were actually reduced from previous years, was not present at Tuesday's meeting.

After some discussion, Clerk-Treasurer Marcel Lapierre was instructed to write a letter of acknowledgement to Mr. Cleary.

Jean-Marc is employeed by SDG Sanitary Supplies in Cornwall.

Technical science

Diane Duval, daughter of Pauline Deguire (Duval) of Alexandria and the late Fernand Duval, recently graduated from St. Lawrence College in Cornwall with a diploma in technical science. She specialized in social services.

Men's, ladies' baseball season is in full swing at the park

NORTH LANCASTER
Diane Roy
347-3553

"To err is human, to forgive divine." But how do you forgive a computer at The Glengarry News which was the culprit in the non apparition of this column last week? Though it was frustrating to several readers, to those who faithfully delivered the column very much ahead of time and to yours truly, let's forget last week's episode and carry on with a curious mixture of recent and present happenings . . .

Baseball time

The men's baseball teams are already in full swing, Monday and Tuesday evenings, at the North Lancaster ball park but the ladies' league has yet to be completed.

Women age 15 and over who have already registered, and other interested lady players, are invited to attend an information meeting tonight, May 31 at 8 p.m. at Robin's Place. Starting June 7, the ladies' regular baseball games will be held every Wednesday night at 8 p.m. To register and obtain further details, please call Linda Lancaster at 347-3925.

Our youths from six up, started the season last Thursday (May 25) and are playing every Thursday from 6:30 p.m. on. Coaches Sylvie Rozon 347-3329 and Rosaire Samson 347-2907, inform us that interested boys and girls may still register. Some of our local Optimists will be on hand to help out the younger athletes to learn the tricks of the sport. A very enjoyable season to all players and fans alike!

Optimist Club "200"

Some tickets are still available for the $10,000 draw to be held at the annual men's softball tournament, hosted by the North Lancaster Optimist Club at the Alexandria Sports Palace on June 25. Chances are very much in your favor, since the number of tickets is limited. They may be purchased from Optimist President Maurice Desautels 347-3401, Secretary Normand Vaillancourt 347-2221 or from any North Lancaster Optimist member. Good luck!

Promoted

Congratulations to Louise Diotte, daughter of Jean-Paul and Rollande Diotte, who has just been promoted to credit officer for the Corporate Banking Centre of the CIBC in Ottawa. Louise was personnel agent for the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Montreal for quite some time and is now happy to be back in her province. Wishing you the best, Louise!

Bowling champion

Six-year-old Andrée-Anne Samson of our village became the zone champion of the "peewee" bowling division last Sunday (May 28). She will be the sole player representing Alexandria at the provincial (Eastern Ontario) bowling finals in Brampton, Ont., on June 10 and 11. Andrée-Anne, her parents and sisters, all enthusiastic bowlers are in for an exciting June weekend. Good show, Andrée-Anne, and bowl 'em over.

Ste.-Thérèse activities

On Friday, May 26, the last hotdog meal of the year was served freely to the students of Ste.-Thérèse, compliments of the parent-school committee.

With the end of the school year in sight, several trips and exchanges are being organized in June. On Thursday (June 1), the grades 1 and 2 pupils of Rachelle Owens and the grades 3 and 4 classes of Nicole Gravelle, will enjoy outdoor fun and games at the Recreation Centre "Les Forestiers" in St. Lazare, Que.

On June 2, the Optimist Club and the French schools of Glengarry are sponsoring cultural and recreational meets. Our grades 1 and 2 will be at Perpetuel Secours in Alexandria; grades 3, 4 and 5 will meet at Ecole Ste.-Marie in Green Valley; Grade 6 at Ecole St.-Joseph in Lancaster, and grades 7 and 8 at the Alexandria park for a softball tournament. A great day to all the students.

More activities and outings will be related next week.

Painting lessons

No one needs to be an artist to start or continue painting classes at the Davidson-Moore Lodge in Glen Nevis. Starting Tuesday (June 6) from 1-4 p.m., Winnie Williams of Glen Nevis will be giving free lessons on oil painting techniques at the neighboring Lodge. Anyone wishing to join the painting classes and the fun is welcome every Tuesday afternoon for the summer session. Additional information is available at 347-2306.

Friendly meet

Area ladies of the Women's Friendship Meet, who gathered every second Wednesday at the Round Church in Dalhousie Mills, are closing off for the summer with a family picnic at Margo Patrick's residence on Sunday (June 4). A warm welcome to the members, their husbands and children.

Sympathy

Sincere condolences go out to neighbor Valerie (David) McCormick on the May 12 passing away of her father, Dougal Alguire, 63, of RR1, Cornwall Centre Road. To the relatives and friends of Mr. Alguire, our profound sympathy.

Good wishes

Speedy recovery to Bernard Besner, who is now recuperating nicely at his home after undergoing surgery in Cornwall last week.

Get-well wishes to two active area ladies who are presently hospitalized: Louise Lefebvre at the Hotel Dieu and Maria Morrison at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Congratulations to Findlay and Mary McLeod of R.R. 1, North Lancaster, on the birth of a darling baby girl on May 17.

Belated but friendly birthday wishes to Pierre Bourbonnais on May 25 and to nine-year-old Travis Lalonde on May 29. Heard that Travis had many friendly surprises on the past weekend.

Continued happiness to Daniel and Micheline Cholette on their second anniversary on May 28.

Happy wedding anniversary wishes to Brent and Manon Vachon and to Luc and Bev Poirier on June 4.

Pleasant birthdays to Marina Gareau and to Brent Vachon on their special day, June 3.

Last, but surely not least, loving wishes to my husband Donald on his birthday Sunday (June 4).

Gordon Church representatives attend WMS rally in Ingleside

ST. ELMO
W. MacKinnon
527-2348

Congratulations to Bill and Mary DeHaas, St. Elmo West, on the birth of their first grandson, Andrew Henry, born on May 14 to their daughter Joy and her husband, Joe Krol, of Berwick, Ont.

* * *

Donald and Ethel Kennedy of Markham, Ont., were in the area last Friday and visited with his niece (Mrs. William) Jean Metcalfe of Athol, Mrs. Mary Fraser, Dunvegan, and his cousin Harriet MacKinnon of Alexandria. Included was some time at the Maxville Fair and a drive to the "Kennedy family" farm home, east of St. Elmo.

* * *

Robert and Elizabeth MacKinnon of Oakville, Ont. visited with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. MacRae, on last Wednesday afternoon.

* * *

Helen Lavigne, Margaret Billinghurst and Martha Upton of Gordon Church WMS attended the Glengarry Presbyterial WMS Rally held in St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Ingleside, on Thursday, May 18.

Alex and Elsie MacKinnon, St. Elmo East, arrived home last Thursday, from a vacation of two weeks in Calgary with their daughter, Diane, and her husband Ewan Brocklehurst, and grandson, Trevor Ewan.
