New doctor coming

The Alexandria area will be getting a new physician as of July 1.

Although it hasn't yet been officially confirmed, the News has learned that an unnamed doctor from Ottawa will begin a practice in the area on July 1. The doctor has already purchased a home.

Attempts to get official confirmation of the doctor's arrival were fruitless as Glengarry Memorial Hôspital chief of staff Dr. Laszlo Roman was unavailable for comment as were the hospital's director of nursing and the administrator Gerry Adams.

Alexandria backs Samis

Alexandria Town Council has backed Cornwall NDP MPP George Samis in his bid to create a Ministry of Eastern Ontario.

At the May 22 meeting councillor Archie McDougall moved the resolution which throws council's weight behind the creation of the ministry.

After the meeting Mr. McDougall said he felt the ministry was needed to counter what he called Eastern Ontario's second-class status.

"I personally believe that Eastern Ontario is in second position in relation to other areas," he said. "Eastern Ontario is in need of more recognition. It needs to be brought to the attention of the government that people in this area feel we are not always in the front. I sometimes feel they've forgotten about us."

Centennial on CJOH

Alexandria's Centennial celebrations, particularly Homecoming Week plans, will be featured on CJOH Television's Regional Contact sometime in June.

A television crew from the Ottawa CTV affiliate was in town on Tuesday interviewing Centennial Chairman Jacques Joly, Angus H. McDonell, co-chairman of Homecoming Week and Mayor J. P. Touchette.

The crew also managed to record the sight and sound of Alexandria's official town crier, Helene Faubert-Gravel, "giving a cry." And if that doesn't get the audience's attention, nothing will.

McMurtry, not Davis

While the official opening of Alexandria's new Provincial Court building is still slated for Thursday, June 14, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry will handle the ribbon cutting honors instead of Premier Davis.

As well as Mr. McMurtry, SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and local politicians are also expected to attend the opening ceremonies.

The courthouse will occupy the former IGA building on Main Street North. Renovations to the building are close to completion and the refurbished structure will provide office space for court staff, various social services and other tenants.

MacDonald nominated

Alexandria Town Council has nominated John F. MacDonald to receive the Province of Ontario's Bicentennial Medal.

Council nominated Mr. MacDonald at its May 22 meeting, citing his involvement with the GAMR and the Richelieu Club as well as many other community services.

The Bicentennial medal recognizes individuals for their community work and spirit of volunteerism.

Flower stands erected

The Town of Alexandria has already started sprucing itself up for the upcoming centennial and bicentennial celebrations.

Metal flower pot stands have sprouted up all over Alexandria thanks to the work of town employees and local high school students.

The flower pot stands, a centennial project, were made by town workers and the flowers in the pots were grown by GDHS students.

There are still roughly 15 flower pot stands available for sale to the public for $100 each. Anyone interested in purchasing one should contact the town.

No rail changes

Via Rail has announced there will be no schedule change for trains leaving Alexandria station as a result of the change from Standard Time to Daylight Saving Time.

Eastbound trains will leave at 8:03 a.m. (except Sunday), 10:52 a.m. and 7:35 p.m. (daily) and 12:29 p.m. (Sunday only).

Westbound trains will leave at 8:53 a.m. (except Sunday), 11:41 a.m., 3:57 p.m., 6:48 p.m., and 10 p.m. (daily).

Fun Night at Iona

The Catholic Parent-Teacher Association of Iona Academy, the teachers and students are preparing to host the annual Fun Night on June 15 at [illegible]m. in the school gym.

The money raised is used for school activities and equipment for the school. With last year's funds the school was able to purchase three computers.

The Fun Night has been successful only because of the generous donors from the community. Once again the school is seeking donations for bingo in the way of gift certificates, prizes or cash. Names of all donors are on display during Fun Night. Should you wish to donate it would be helpful to receive your gift on or before June 12.

Football is out at SD&G high schools

by Peter Conway

High school football is now a thing of the past in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

That decision was made just over a month ago by the three schools involved in interscholastic football, but was only made public Tuesday morning.

"At that meeting there were the coaches from the three schools, department heads and principals and it was discussed at the meeting that a three-team league was not satisfactory. That was the feeling from everyone at the meeting," said Stanley Fraser, head of the physical education department at Glengarry District High School.

However, for the three schools who still had football programs this past season, Glengarry District High School, General Vanier Secondary School and Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School, the writing was on the wall after St. Lawrence High School dropped its football program following the 1982 campaign.

While the financial aspect wasn't a main concern, it was a factor in the decision.

"We keep feeling the affects of the budgets being lowered each year, but costs keep going up. The interscholastic sports budget is reduced and because football is an expensive program, the feeling was that we should drop football. I feel sorry to see its demise," said Fraser, who coached a number of Glengarry Gaels teams over the years. "I feel it's unfortunate it has come down to that. That seems to be the trend in our area. I agree that a three-team format is far from satisfactory, and that would be the same for any sport. We still had enough kids interested in the sport here at the school," added Fraser.

Peter McLeod, an assistant football coach the past three seasons at Glengarry District High School, was disappointed after hearing the football program had been cancelled.

"I guess my feeling is like everyone else—it's too bad. Money must be one of the reasons, but I'd like to see football keep going. Maybe there's some type of alternative."

McLeod added however, as a sport which generates spirit in the schools, it will be difficult to replace.

"Football has to be the best sport in high school to generate spirit. I'd rather see a sport like soccer dropped. Kids play soccer all summer and then come to the school in the fall and play soccer again. I'm sure the cost of travelling was a big factor and we (Glengarry) had the most expensive cost for travelling. But, when you look at basketball, they do more travelling and have referees to pay more often. It's just too bad football is gone.

The cancelling of the football program marks the end of an era in SD&G when the game was played in all 10 high schools.

Another major concern in high school football the past year is that teams had to sit out for a two-week period during the schedule because of the scheduling of an uneven number of teams.

Fraser agreed with McLeod that football will be a hard sport to replace.

"We certainly will miss the game from the aspect that football generates a lot of spirit among the students," he said.

Inquest ordered into Miller death

A coroner's inquest has been called to investigate an industrial accident Thursday that claimed the life of a 21-year-old Williamstown man.

David George Miller was killed instantly when a large radial press drill he was working on fell over on top of him. The accident occurred at 9:38 a.m. at Cornwall Industrial Machining Ltd., on the Tyotown Road, just outside Cornwall city limits.

Coroner Dr. Donal Conway of Lancaster told the News Monday he was still waiting for reports from both the Ontario Provincial Police and the Ontario Ministry of Labour. He said the inquest could still be some months away.

Dr. Conway said an inquest is held "to allay any public worries or concerns about a death occurring in an industry.

"We don't want it to happen again," he said. "The inquest will determine why it (the accident) happened and if it can be prevented from happening again."

Lancaster OPP Cst. Gilles Ruest, the first officer at the scene of the accident Thursday, said it appears the nine foot high machine fell over when Mr. Miller pulled out the extension table.

"The machine has a table that sticks out," he said. "When he pulled the table out to its full five feet, it just fell over."

Cst. Pat Daley is the investigating officer.

Mr. Miller is survived by parents Dale and Bette Miller and sisters Brenda at home and Kathy of Shediac, New Brunswick.

Visitation was at the McArthur Brothers and MacNeil Funeral Home in Cornwall with funeral services in the chapel on Sunday, May 27 at 3:30 p.m. Rev. Robert Pentinga officiated and interment followed at the Hobart Cemetery in Hobart, Ontario.

Brown Shoe workers upset over pay cuts

by Mark Mitchell

Rumblings of discontent are growing at Brown Shoe in Alexandria where employees are experiencing pay cuts and can't figure out why.

Workers there are paid either a straight hourly wage or on piecework system and the latter is causing problems, said one union spokesman. According to a time-study survey the workers are paid on their output, but the rate is not always the same. Faster workers will get a lower rate even though they are producing more.

"Work is scarce, but there are a lot of people mumbling and grumbling," said the spokesman.

Shoe manufacturers in Canada have just recently had their quota of 33 per cent of the Canadian market extended for 18 months. They had hoped to get at least 50 per cent to take some away from the imports. "If we could just get even 50 per cent for a reasonable period, say five years, our plants would modernize and we could compete with the world market," said the spokesman.

"(Brown Shoe) is doing quite well right now, everything considered," said manufacturing and administrative manager Dennis Cordick, from the head office in Perth. The government had planned to remove quotas by November 1984 and the union is not pleased. "I think we could deal with (a no-quota system), but the manufacturing force would be a lot more compact than it is right now. It would be a whole new ball game," said Mr. Cordick.

Back in Alexandria, the union spokesman said, "There certainly are some problems (at Brown Shoe). We're filing grievances all the time, but (some cases) are hard to prove because of the piecework system."

"The situation has grown even worse in recent months," he said, stating that his paycheque is 25 per cent less than it was five years ago. He said that Canadian law regarding piecework wasn't good enough; that the American system prohibits a pay process that the employees can't understand.

"I don't know why they need a system to calculate what we make, but they could at least tell us how it works," said the spokesman.

The spokesman said management was using the piecework system at its own discretion and that the union's major grievance was with the time-study system. Rate cuts couldn't be explained because it has been proven that the cost of the shoes hasn't risen at the same rate as inflation in the past two years, he said.

"The best thing for anybody with questions is to go through the proper avenue and bring the question up to management. They've always been answered satisfactorily," said Mr. Cordick.

Town council raises OPP issue once again

Alexandria Town Council has made yet another request to the province of Ontario to have the Ontario Provincial Police take over policing duties in town.

At its May 22 meeting council agreed to send a letter to Solicitor General George Taylor once again requesting the OPP's services.

Mayor and Chairman of the Police Commission J. P. Touchette said the letter "is simply a way of keeping the correspondence alive."

Although the town has requested an OPP service for some time, the government has as yet made no decision. Currently the town is policed by a three man force with an OPP corporal serving as chief of police.

Mr. Touchette said Alexandria isn't alone in asking for the OPP to police their town.

"All across Ontario communities are asking for it," he said. "I think eventually all police forces of less than 15 will be taken over. (The government) says they don't have any money to do it and they aren't thinking of expanding."

Alexandria man killed in car crash

CASSELMAN—A 24-year-old Alexandria man is dead following a Saturday morning car accident near Casselman.

Jean Raymond Lavigne, 10 McDougall Avenue, was killed when the car he was riding in went off the road and flipped over, landing on its roof. The driver of the car, the victim's nephew, 21-year-old Dean Lavigne of Ottawa, received a broken arm in the incident. He was taken to the Ottawa General Hospital for treatment.

Casselman OPP report the accident occurred at 3 a.m. on Highway 417, west of the Casselman interchange. Apparently the driver of the car tried to avoid hitting an animal that had strayed on the road and in doing so lost control of the 1982 Ford. The car came to rest on its roof in a grassy section of the shoulder.

Dr. Guy Genier of Casselman declared Mr. Lavigne dead at the scene of the accident.

Mr. Lavigne was born in Cornwall on March 24, 1960, the son of John William Lavigne and Geraldine Lavigne.

He was predeceased by his father and is survived by his mother, sisters Juliette Bellefeuille of Alexandria, Mrs. Denis (Yvette) Sabourin of Pointe aux Cascades, Quebec, Mrs. Roderick (Lucille) Lavigne of Ottawa, Mrs. Andre (Dianne) Hamelin of St. Eugene, Mrs. Gilles (Rita) Decaire of Dorion, Quebec and Mrs. Pierre (Cecile) Decoste of RR5, Alexandria.

Visitation was at the Munro Funeral Home with funeral services from Sacred Heart Church on Tuesday, May 29 at 11 a.m.

Local police get some summer help

A fifth constable has been hired by the Alexandria Police Department to work full-time during the summer months.

Murray MacDonald, 25, of Lancaster begins his duties with the local force on June 24 and will remain through September 8. A McGill University law student, Mr. MacDonald has had significant exposure to police work through two summers working with the SD&G Crown Attorney's office. Previously, he was employed in an area law firm for two summers. He is bilingual.

Mr. MacDonald has been hired to relieve the department while the other four officers take their annual vacation and to help reduce the cost of overtime during the summer. Throughout his employment with the local force there will always be one officer on leave.

In previous years the three remaining officers have had to log substantial overtime to cover shifts while the fourth constable was on holidays. The constables found the overtime tiring and the Alexandria Police Commission found it expensive. The addition of a fifth constable for the summer months is intended to relieve both problems, Police Chief Norm Mailhot said

The Alexandria Police Commission expects to save substantially more in overtime expense than what it will have to pay Mr. MacDonald.

"Murray will enable us to provide 24-hour protection during the summer, to curtail overtime and to provide better working conditions for the others," said Chief Mailhot. "It's a positive step forward and the police commission should be commended for the move."

For his part, Mr. MacDonald says he is looking forward to working with the police department and expects the experience will be invaluable.

Alexandria is the place to be 1884-1984

by Phil Rutherford

In a little more than a month it will all be over. Homecoming Week, 11 days packed with activities in celebration of Alexandria's 100th anniversary, will itself become history.

Nearly 50 volunteers are busy on the home stretch, finalizing all the important details to assure a huge success and a memorable week for upwards of 20,000 people expected to be taking in the activities.

Outside of the Alexandria Centennial Committee and its various sub-committees hundreds more volunteers from nearly all community organizations are also involved, contributing their own events.

If success is solely the result of effort, the centennial committee has nothing to worry about, except the weather.

Homecoming Week gets under way on Friday, June 22 and runs through Monday, July 2, incorporating the annual St. Jean Baptiste and July 1st weekend celebrations.

The official opening banquet, hosted by town council, will be held at the Sports Palace on Friday, June 22, with most Glengarry reeves, federal MP Denis Ethier and SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve expected to be in attendance.

The Jean Baptiste Society will not be sponsoring a parade this year, but there will be other activities, including a folklore dance in St. Joseph's School and canoe races in the park, both on June 24, and a local art show, June 23 and 24, again at St. Joseph's.

The banquet will be followed by a dance, featuring the Stardusters Orchestra, the same popular group that performed for the town's Centennial Ball in January.

Monday night, June 25, there will be a night shirt parade complete with beds on wheels. It will be led by the Glengarry Pipe Band from the IGA parking lot to the Mill Square, where there will be a brief piping concert, followed by a rock dance, sponsored by The Glengarry News and the Alexandria Hotel.

On Wednesday town council will be publicly turning on the Centennial Fountain in the Mill Pond for the first time, along with appropriate opening ceremonies.

This will be followed by a torch light parade to the Mill Square, where the Richelieu Club will be sponsoring a second outdoor dance.

Before the dance gets under way, however, there will be the official cutting of the town's giant birthday cake, similar to one featured in 1967, Canada's centennial year.

On June 30 the Lions Club will be sponsoring its annual July 1st weekend parade, which promises to be bigger than ever.

The centennial committee will be sponsoring yet another open

With local support non-violent criminals may be sentenced to community work instead of jail

Non-violent crime offenders in Glengarry may soon be able to do work in the community in place of jail if local support is strong enough, said Provincial Court Judge Reginald Levesque at an awareness meeting May 24 in Alexandria.

The Alexandria Chamber of Commerce sponsored the meeting which only drew a handful of people and featured Judge Levesque, Alexandria probation officer Carole Cardinal and Cst. Gilles Ruest of the Lancaster OPP.

The aim of the meeting was to inform the public about a community services program that has been introduced in virtually every other county in the province.

"It's important to realize that the work program is an alternative to jail," said Judge Levesque. "In some cases incarceration may have a detrimental effect on rehabilitation. This program is for someone with one foot in the cell and the other on the way in."

The work program would involve putting suitable offenders to work at a non-profit organization in the community. A co-ordinator would be hired to monitor progress.

"(The offender) should feel the public pressure of serving his sentence," said Judge Levesque. "Being seen as putting something back into the community is the value of the program; that's where the deterence is felt," said Judge Levesque.

Participants in the program would not be paid and there would be "consequences to non-co-operation," said Judge Levesque.

"If they don't do the work they go to jail," said probation officer Carole Cardinal. She said in other communities potential candidates are given the option and some decline the offer.

The program was introduced in Belleville about 10 years ago as an alternative for judges who were faced with handing out jail sentences, fines or suspended sentences.

"The community has to recognize and act on its responsibility towards individuals who don't always conform to roles," said Judge Levesque.

Statistics from other programs were not available, but "other communities have recognized the benefits of the program," and success rates have been "astronomical," said Judge Levesque.

Success in this case means the offender doesn't commit a crime in the two years following the end of his sentence. Regular probation has a success rate between 70 and 80 per cent.

Organizing the program requires a committee, co-ordinator and budget. "It's frustrating to deal with the initial steps of organizing, it's a slow process, but (community members) can't get discouraged quickly," said Judge Levesque.

The committee would serve as resource persons and advisors to the co-ordinator. The co-ordinator would be charged with finding placements for the "clients."

In Prescott-Russell the committee has about 10 members operating on a budget of $24,000. Judge Levesque said Prescott-Russell "did not run into difficulties raising the money."

The budget for Glengarry would probably be less. Costs for jailing a criminal for a year would run about $29,000.

Alexandria Chamber of Commerce president Pierre Aubry said he was disappointed at the turnout for the meeting.

"I think it's pretty important that we have such a program and (the small crowd) isn't going to dampen our desire to see its implementation," he said.

The matter will come up at the next Chamber of Commerce board meeting and then "we'll seek help throughout the community," said Mr. Aubry.

Cst. Ruest of the Lancaster OPP rounded out the evening with a seminar on crime prevention.

"Given time and the opportunity a thief can break into most any house," said Cst. Ruest. "In the past people used to take care of each other and all of a sudden everyone's independent. We have to swing that trend around," he said, going on to explain Neighborhood Watch programs and preventive measures homeowners can take.

Short of stationing a policeman on your doorstep, Cst. Ruest said there are plenty of ways of securing your home. Installing lights and more and better locks is the first step. In these times of independence, "you have to take care of yourself," he said.

Starting a Neighborhood Watch program doesn't take more than two participants and can grow from there, he said. In short, security is worth the expense.

Could be more

Alexandria home ransacked

At least one Alexandria family had its home ransacked recently in a scam familiar to police everywhere.

Just before noon on Thursday, May 24, a woman knocked at the front door and told the lady answering that she was supposed to leave a package containing a table cloth at a neighbor's home but the neighbor was away. She asked if she could leave it there instead.

Through the course of the conversation, she displayed the tablecloth to the woman of the house, holding it up and effectively blocking the view of the home's interior, allowing an accomplice to enter unnoticed through the back door.

The plans were thwarted, however, by the return of another family member.

A short while later, another woman appeared at the door and asked for a drink of water. While the homeowner was distracted, a man sneaked in through the back door and ransacked bedroom drawers for valuables.

Alexandria Police Chief Norm Mailhot reported little was stolen, with a loss of less than $100. He suspected the thieves were probably looking for cash.

One of the women was tall and slim, while the second was heavy set. Both wore long dresses and spoke English with a Ukranian or Polish accent.

The lady of the house only saw the male suspect for a moment as he stood on the back porch and she was unable to provide a description.

This was the first incident of its kind Chief Mailhot had heard of in Alexandria in recent years, but he suspects there are more. Some people feel embarrassed and don't want to report the crime to police, he said.

Many people are victimized by such criminals every year, he said, and victims should not hesitate to contact police. With co-operation from the public, such thieves may be apprehended, said the chief, and similar acts may be discouraged.

"I expect we will get more calls," said the chief. "I'm surprised we've only had one so far. If they hit one house, they probably hit several.

"These people are very skilled at what they do," he added. "They're hard to apprehend. If they call on you, get a good description, a car license number, the direction of travel and call the police. Don't be embarassed. It has happened to many."

Lochiel poster winners

The Township of Lochiel won't have to worry about a shortage of decorations for its bicentennial celebrations slated for June 9.

On June 9 the festivities will centre around the township garage which will be decorated with the winners of the Lochiel bicentennial poster contest.

Students from Laggan Public and Elda Rouleau and Laurier-Carriere Separate Schools were asked to draw posters for the June 9 celebrations using one of three themes—the township of Lochiel in the past, in the present and their vision of what the bicentennial celebrations will be like.

The winners, in the order they finished, are:

Grade 1—Jessica MacLeod, Daniel Proctor and Daniel Steiche. Grade 2—Billy Tuppert, Kate Stiefelmeyer and Chad MacSweyn. Grade 3—Steven MacIntosh, Tim Walker and Stan Comidaris. Grade 4—Jennifer Terry, Sara Stiefelmeyer and Darren Lobb. Grade 5—Scott MacIntosh. Grade 6—John Mundy and Jennifer Fraser. Grade 7—Gena Lacombe and Danielle Menard, Andre Latulippe and Yves Seguin and Suzanne Cadieux and Guylaine Latulippe. Grade 8—Michelle Dewar and Josie Meloche, Larissa Douglas and Carole Massie. Honorable mentions—Jason Palmer, Mitzi Howes, Diane Lacombe and Sandra Lacombe.

air dance in the Mill Square on Thursday night.

The Lions Club celebrations in the park will continue after the June 30 parade, featuring top flight entertainment, such as Carol Baker, Barbara, a night club act, and Nicole Martin, a Quebec night club singer. There will be a giant fireworks display in the evening.

There will be a Heritage Concert on June 29 in the Sports Palace, with local talent displaying varied cultures through song and dance.

Moving back and forth through the week, we find the annual Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame Induction Dinner is leaving Maxville for one year, in favor of Alexandria in honor of the town's centennial. The popular event will be held in the Glengarry Sports Palace on Tuesday, June 26.

On Sunday, July 1, a family picnic will be held in the park, followed the next day by the town's $75,000 monster bingo in the Sports Palace.

Also on Monday Alexandria's first triathlon will be held for the area's fittest and most ambitious athletes. The event includes a three-mile canoe race, followed by 12 miles on bicycle and finishing with a two-mile run, all of which will start and finish in the park.

A men's fastball tournament will be the first event held on the town's new diamonds behind the Sports Palace on June 29, 30 and July 1, following the new facility's official opening.

Still hungry? The Alexandria Curling Club will be sponsoring a brunch in the park from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Monday, the final day of Homecoming Week.

On June 29 there will be a golf tournament at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club, with free green fees for all present and former Alexandria residents.

On the same day the Alexandria IGA will keep its parking lot full of activity, including pony rides and clowns for the kids, the Burns Meats chuckwagon and the A&W Root Bear. Breakfast, lunch and dinner will be free for the asking.

Centennial co-ordinator Cathy Roy can hardly suppress her excitement over what she says will be the most fun-filled week in the town's history.

"The committees have worked well," she said Tuesday. "The main committee is a good mixture of cultures and it shows. There has been a lot of very hard, volunteer work. People have donated their time generously. It has made my job very pleasant."

She said all indications the committee has received show a great many former Alexandria and area residents will be coming home for the week. "It will be a great time for reacquainting."

In Alexandria less than one year, window firm doubling in size

Farley Windows Inc. doesn't seem to be feeling any economic squeeze these days and for that reason the size of the premises will be more than doubled within two weeks.

The Alexandria arm of the Montreal company began construction of the addition in April and the added space will make room for 10 or 12 new employees, said manager Albert St. Pierre.

The company moved to Alexandria's industrial park in August 1983 and produces a casement-type window here. The Montreal base makes most of the doors and other types of windows, though a tilt window will now be manufactured here.

"The women really like that type of window," said Mr. St. Pierre, "because they are easier to clean."

The building will be expanded from a 75 foot by 60 foot base to include the new 120 by 60 foot addition. Mr. St. Pierre said business is booming for the company that exports products from New Brunswick to Calgary. "Construction might not be so good in some areas, but because we ship across Canada we have a better chance to sell, " he said.

Construction was to be completed by Thursday, May 31, and though there are some delays it will be ready within two weeks.

LET'S GET GOING-The new Arc Industries/Life Skills building for the GAMR officially got under way on Thursday, May 24, when all involved showed up for a sod-turning ceremony. WE'RE ALMOST THERE—SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and his wife Elaine took part in the walkathon Sunday, May 27, to raise money for the new Arc Industries/Life Skills building being constructed in Alexandria. The 20-kilometre course was tackled by 43 walkers and raised almost $9,000 for the cause. Here the Villeneuves log the last few steps up to the start and finishing point, Elda Rouleau school. They joked that they would probably sleep downstairs that night rather than have to climb the stairs.

Richelieu walkathon raises $9,000 for ARC

The walkathon organized by the Richelieu Club ran as scheduled Sunday, May 27, and though there weren't as many participants as organizers had hoped for, the event raised almost $9,000. for the ARC Industries building in Alexandria.

Organizer Alain Lamarche said they had hoped for 200 walkers to raise $10,000. and they almost reached that target with just 43. Congratulations go out to all who were involved, especially two senior citizens, as well as SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and his wife, Township of Lancaster reeve Paul Legros and his wife, the people at Masson Insurance and Mr. Lamarche himself.

Bess Clingen of Alexandria completed 15 kilometres of the course in her 74th year and John Lewald, 62, travelled all 20 kilometres.

Five people from Masson Insurance participated and came up with $2,500. for the cause. Mr. Lamarche was sponsored for $1,000. and Noble Villeneuve said he was taking his sponsor sheet to Queen's Park this week to get some belated pledges.

The ARC Industries/Life Skills building officially began to take shape Thursday, May 24, when several dignitaries took time out to attend a sod-turning ceremony.

Along with Alexandria mayor J.P. Touchette were: Minister of Community and Social Services Frank Drea; SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and GAMR president John MacDonald. Countless other guests attended including a number of the handicapped who will profit from the new facility.

Frank Drea later gave a speech explaining how pleased he was to be involved with a project that the late Osie Villeneuve had worked so hard to get going.

He said there were plenty of more affluent communities in Ontario that could take a lesson from the people of this area who combined to make this project a reality.

The 8,000 square foot building will cost an estimated $400,000. and should be open by the fall of 1984. It will replace a rented building that was destroyed by fire in November, 1982.

Children's Hospital fundraising campaign starts this weekend with CJOH telethon

by Mark Mitchell

The campaign to raise money for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario gets off to a ringing start this weekend with a fundraising telethon.

The hospital will be the first Canadian participant in the Osmond Foundation's Children's Miracle Network Telethon. Televised from Salt Lake City, Utah, the telethon will run live on CJOH television from 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 2 through to 6 p.m. Sunday, June 3.

The hospital has set a target of $6 million over the next five years in its effort to upgrade facilities. All the money from the telethon raised in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec will go toward the hospital.

The phone centre for the Alexandria area is at the Royal Bank located at 300 Pitt Street in Cornwall. Local residents can call in pledges by dialing 932-1194.

A door to door campaign for Glengarry is planned for early June. More than 140 children from the Alexandria area were treated at the hospital last year. The Glengarry campaign is headed by Lorraine Villeneuve of Maxville and she can be reached at 527-5532. In Alexandria Pierrette Laflamme has taken charge. "If it's not you it's your neighbors (who use the hospital)," she said. "It's close to the heart of everybody." Mrs. Laflamme can be reached at 525-4123.

Linda MacLennan and Max Keeping of CJOH will be co-hosting the Canadian portion of the telethon. The Family Brown and Wayne Rostad will be among the Canadian entertainment, along with Melissa Howes from Dalkeith. Melissa will join Max at the anchor desk at about 5:30 p.m., give or take 10 minutes.

The Osmond Foundation organized the telethon in 1983 with the sole aim of improving the quality of life for children.

Delayed conciliator's report angers caretaker's union

by Mark Mitchell

Caretakers at SD&G public schools are still awaiting a conciliator's report that could lead to a strike in June.

The 77 members of the Local 782 are in a dispute over job security and are expecting a no-board report from the conciliator. The report was expected early last week, but by Monday there was still no word. Union president Claude Savard said the members "are very dissatisfied with the Ministry (of Labor)." He said they have attempted to contact the conciliator and find out what is delaying the matter, but haven't been able to meet him.

There is no time limit for the report's arrival, though the workers will be in a legal strike position 14 days after it does appear. "They've put us in an awful situation," said Mr. Savard. The caretakers had hoped to take action before the school year ended and Mr. Savard said he didn't know if it was an error that was causing the delay.

The members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees will decide later whether to go for an all-out strike or rotate.

Community service needed

Glengarry is far behind most Ontario counties in establishing a community work program as an alternative to jail terms for non-violent offenders. It's time we caught up.

Ignoring the greatest benefits long enough for a brief cost comparison, we find the average cost of keeping an offender in jail for a year is $29,000. In neighboring Prescott-Russell it costs only $24,000 to maintain a community work program instead. We don't know how many people have been kept out of jail in the neighboring counties thanks to this progressive effort, but it's obvious that the costs have been returned many times over.

In addition, the community benefits directly from the efforts of the offenders who are required to work at various tasks for non-profit groups.

Probably most important of all is the fact that for many offenders, jail is not the appropriate answer. Jail time provides more of a negative education in crime skills than rehabilitation. The offender often returns to the community more angry, more confident and more daring. He's ready not only to repeat his offences, because he feels he can now escape arrest, he's also prepared to take no new criminal challenges, stepping up the ladder to types of offenses he might not have dared before.

Incarceration should only exist as an option primarily to protect society from violent criminals and from those who have shown they cannot be trusted with less. Jail has a detrimental effect on rehabilitation, in the words of Judge Reginald Levesque, and we cannot reasonably expect more of it.

Given the chance to work in the community, many offenders have been known to develop a true sense of self worth they never experienced before. They may acquire new skills. Their confidence in themselves and in a society that will treat them fairly increases. They show they can be responsible citizens if given half a chance. Many times, the experience and skills acquired on community work assignments leads to permanent, responsible jobs later.

The experience in other communities shows the program not only works, it has been "an astronomical success."

Establishing such a program and getting it over the initial hurdles can be frustrating, we're told, but the results are bound to make it worthwhile.

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce seems ready to spearhead the drive to establish a community service program in Glengarry County. We hope they do proceed and we wish them complete success.

For the sake of the community and the offender, the effort should begin immediately. It's long overdue.

Tough job ahead for Stante

With the selection of John Stante over two contenders for the federal Conservative nomination in Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, local Tories have displayed an enthusiasm that hasn't been seen here since the early Diefenbaker years.

Mr. Stante, a trilingual Glen Robertson area resident with an educational background in political science, has proven he can organize and instill enthusiasm. He beat out strong contenders in the persons of Denis Ranger and Gordon Hardy on the way to the nomination victory.

It has been a long time since taking the federal Tory nomination here represented a significant accomplishment in itself. Considered one of the safest Liberal seats, few people were prepared to offer themselves as sacrificial lambs on behalf of the Conservative Party. Those who did, and worked hard for what was always considered a hopeless cause, should be commended.

It's obvious that many local Conservatives don't feel the cause is hopeless anymore. Winning Glengarry-Prescott-Russell for the Tory blue still represents a mammoth challenge, but they do see hope.

Membership has tripled in recent months, fueled by a competitive three-way race for the nomination and by burgeoning interest in the Conservatives from coast to coast. The federal party can smell victory and the aroma has come down to the local level.

Mr. Stante has taken on an immense challenge, for which he will need the committed and untiring support of hundreds of supporters. We wish him luck. He'll need lots of it to change this riding around.

Realistically, if there is a slim hope of finally breaking the Liberal hold locally, it will likely take two close elections, like 1957-58 or 1979-80, to pull it off.

In any event, regardless of the political hue of the eventual winner, the voters are better served when the sitting member knows he or she faces strong competition for the job; when re-election is not a certainty.

Win or lose, we hope Mr. Stante can at least establish as a fact that holding Glengarry-Prescott-Russell for the Liberals will never again be taken for granted.

Municipal secrecy must end

More and more, municipal and provincial leaders are taking a critical look at the penchant for secrecy displayed by too many municipal councils.

Acting within the letter of the Ontario law, if not the spirit, councils can—almost a third of them do—hold meetings with the public barred. Committee meetings are held behind closed doors. Council as a whole can also meet in committee, holding all debate in secret, emerging briefly into the public eye only to rubberstamp decisions that have already been taken privately.

The problem is most prevalent in small towns and in rural townships.

The Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO), representing 630 member municipalities, has issued a report after some detailed study, calling for substantial legislative changes to force secretive councils into the public eye. The report, which urges the provincial government to require that municipalities hold all council and committee meetings in public, is being sent to member municipalities for their comments. The only exceptions to open meetings that AMO can tolerate are for some personnel matters, for litigation and for some discussions on future developments and municipal boundaries. The recommended exceptions may be logical, but they still leave abundant room for abuse. Possible litigation and future developments can cover a great deal of ground.

At any rate, the AMO's recommendations, if implemented, would represent a substantial improvement. Citizens would have a greater opportunity to understand both sides of an issue; could judge their representatives in action and could better decide when public action might be required to promote or oppose an issue before council. Democracy can't work without an informed electorate.

When the AMO's report is received by local councils for their comments, they should offer their endorsement. Should they choose to stand in opposition, they had better state some clear reasons.

Oh yes, discussion on the AMO report should be held in public.

We've a street named Gernish; whence came such a name?

Our rambling reporter

It's Alexandria's centennial year and the accent has been on the town and county's early history as more and more people join Angus H. in looking back to the early days.

Maybe that's what prompted us to look over the street names on a map of the town that carried the date line 1879. No little surprised were we to note that Bishop Street was called just that back before our town reached even village status.

It surprised us, because we'd always taken it for granted that Bishop Street got that name because it ran by the palace, where a bishop was in residence. But the first Bishop of Alexandria wasn't consecrated until 1890 and here was Bishop Street on a map dated 1879.

Ah, sweet mystery of life. We sought an answer from Town Clerk Don Collin, but he couldn't enlighten us. We studied that map again and found the street names were just about the same as they are today. That date 1879 could be wrong, we conjectured; or maybe the street was called Bishop by somebody named Bishop. That wasn't likely and our musings brought us to the possibility Bishop Street was so named in recognition of the town's founder, the first bishop of Upper Canada. That seems entirely feasible and so we leave Bishop Street.

But now we had another question that wanted answering. Where did that name Gernish Street emanate from? There's a street name that seems to be unique to our town. At least we've never run into it anywhere else.

The more we thought about Gernish, the less we thought of it. It doesn't seem likely the street was called after a man named Gernish. It doesn't sound like a French name; neither is it likely to have Scottish connotations. Could be a corruption of some other name; like the rear end of Antigonish.

We took the problem to Leo Meloche, but he'd never stopped to wonder; even though the family had lived on Gernish for years and years.

Gernish has us stymied, as did Linsley Street up at the station till we got the answer to that one while browsing through News files. Turns out Linsley was the name of the contractor who built the railway through here about 1882. Maybe he knew a guy by the name of Bishop.

The subject of street names reminds us that Centre Street once ran east from Catherine to Sandfield. The telephone book still uses Centre Street but it seems our Town Fathers have converted it to Catherine Street East. At least that's how the sign reads at the Sandfield Street corner.

Council should be reminded that back a few decades the council of the day passed By-law 46 changing the name of Main Street to Glengarry Street. But "Glengarry" was never accepted by we the people and so the council of a few years later passed By-law 47 re-instating the name Main that had never gone out of style.

We shan't be buggered about!

A few cold ones on ice are bound to bring him back

Second look

by Phil Rutherford

Peter Leroux, the bearded manager at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Alexandria, is leaving town for the city lights of Ottawa.

Seems Pete's going to be running the Scotia's branch at Merivale Road and Cleopatra Drive in Ottawa for a while before moving on to another city branch in the near future.

Pete and wife Debbie report mixed feelings on their departure from Glengarry. Ottawa is their hometown, filled with family and old friends, and the move probably represents a step up in Pete's career. At the same time, they have made many good friends in Glengarry over nearly four years here. They promise to return often.

All you have to do to get a visit from Pete, it seems, is casually mention you might have a couple of cold ones at home in the fridge. Of course, if you want him to stay away, all you do is announce you've gone on the wagon and he's bound to find your company boring.

Before the rumors really start to fly, Pete would like to emphasize that his departure has nothing to do with the recent closing of the Glen Robertson sub-branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. More than a few have cursed the decision. Even the News managed a comment. But Pete would have been going anyway.

That's always a good time to get the nasty, unpopular moves over—just before a manager leaves. He can take the flak and the new kid on the block can come across as a nice guy. Next week might be a good time to go after a loan. The bearded snarler will be out the door and the new man will be anxious to make friends.

In the interests of Pete's continued banking career, I'm adding the following disclaimer:

Peter Leroux did not approve or have prior knowledge of the contents of this column. In fact, he'll probably be cursing me when he reads it. Shame! Bankers aren't supposed to swear.

The disclaimer is added merely as a precaution against the possibility of Pete's superiors reading this and considering his family for a career move to Tuktiuktuk, N.W.T. He could always drop a line, if only to let me know if I spelled the name right.

What the heck! The man's got a sense of humor. "You want to borrow how much?" At any rate, he'd never sue.

On a more serious note, there are many in Glengarry who will miss the Lerouxs and will remember them long after they are gone. We wish them luck in the years ahead.

Government by smoke and mirrors

Editor's notebook

by Bruce Hayes

I've never had reason to be a supporter or booster of the Ontario Progressive Conservatives, but at the same time I've always had a sort of grudging admiration for the government's political savvy and skill.

After so many years in power in the province of Ontario the Tories have picked up a trick or two along the way. They move cautiously and, thanks in large part to an unprecedented use of polling, they always—or almost always—know what the public reaction to something will be long before it is ever announced.

Of course this drives the opposition parties into fits of red-faced rage. How can they criticize government legislation or policy when Tory public opinion polls have already indicated the vast majority of the public is in favor?

Now don't get me wrong, I'm not condemning the government. While I might not have agreed with everything they've done, I can't help but admire their confidence, their panache and their almost magician-like ability to effortlessly make us look one way when we really should be casting our eyes in the other direction.

The recent budget introduced by treasurer Larry Grossman is a good example. The Ministry of Agriculture and Food—a ministry many farmers have claimed suffers from chronic underfunding—received a much ballyhooed 16.3 per cent increase in this year's budget.

OMAF's Dennis Timbrell praised the increase, proudly saying that it shows the government's strong support for agriculture.

Even SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve was just tickled pink at the budgetary shot in the arm the government gave to agriculture. Mr. Villeneuve said the funding increase—which brings OMAF's budget up to $335 million—shows the "Government of Ontario sees agriculture as one of the basic industries."

Well, for all intents and purposes it seems the provincial government has finally done right by Ontario's farmers. But, what's this? It seems all is not what it appears.

It seems the Tories, in announcing the OMAF budget increase, also included some programs which had already been announced before. In other words, they were trying to receive applause twice for the same programs.

Part of the increase for agriculture was in the form of an additional $18 million for the Ontario Farm Tax Reduction Program—a scheme where qualifying farmers receive a break on their municipal taxes.

More money was announced for the Beginning Farmers Assistance Program. However, upon closer examination one discovers it isn't new money, rather it's merely the usual contribution in a five-year program.

The government's recently announced freedom of information legislation is another good example of the Tories seeming to do one thing, while actually accomplishing another.

The Ontario public has waited eight years for a freedom of information bill and finally, after many excuses and false promises, the Tories introduced the legislation last week.

While the government can promote itself as a defender of open administration simply by its introduction of the legislation, once again it seems the Tories are relying heavily on smoke and mirrors.

To call the legislation freedom of information is a misnomer. Simply stated, the bill does little to improve our access to the information and documents the government uses to make decisions.

The legislation as it stands now offers no appeal to a court if the government turns down a request for information. A Privacy and Information Commissioner, who will, no doubt, be appointed by the government, will be charged with investigating cases where a minister refuses to release documents. However, he cannot force a minister to release information and ministers will be free to ignore the commissioner. The best the commissioner will be able to do is "shame and chastise" ministers who regularly reject freedom of information requests. A fat lot of good that will do.

Rather than a freedom of information bill the mystical and magical Tories have, by virtue of sleight of hand, transformed the legislation into the freedom from information legislation.

A few weeks ago in this column I asked for a little bit of help from the public. The News has a small army of dedicated rural correspondents who regularly report on events and happenings from such places as Apple Hill, Maxville and Lancaster.

But, we can always use more help. Glengarry county is awfully big and we sure would appreciate some help in covering it. We would appreciate having rural correspondents from the communities of Williamstown, Bainsville, Martintown, Curry Hill, St. Andrews, Dalhousie, Glen Nevis, Summerstown, Glen Walter, North Lancaster, Moose Creek and Dalkeith. If you'd like to help put your community's comings and goings in the News, give me a call.

Siberia for me or Wayne?

Last week marked my second month's anniversary in Glengarry and I understand it's local custom for strangers to submit an evaluation after that time period here.

After receiving my calling from the News in late March I bolted down here to pursue a distinguished, profitable and lengthy newspaperman's career. The initial tour of Alexandria almost sent me home to mother, (I can't lie), but I don't feel like a stranger anymore, which is a credit to the community I suppose.

Off the Mark

by Mark Mitchell

The brochures for my journalism course said nothing about towns of 3,300, (though 3,500 was possible if I recall,) rolled-up sidewalks, or having to borrow money to pay the rent. But who can complain with his own desk, typewriter, most weekends off, a boss who buys rounds regularly and a front page story once a month. (Some murders guys please.)

Anyway, my report. Nice town, lovely county, decent bars, wonderful local girls and a centennial this summer to boot. Not quite heaven, but a hefty jump from Siberia, which was second choice for a base from which to deliver my rhetoric. Yes Siberia. My trusty Encyclopedia Americana says it's not as bad as we all think. It seems the exiles of years gone by "have branded the whole of Siberia with the undeserved, disreputable stigma that has marked it long after it ceased to be a penal colony." Say no more.

So aside from the confusion of dealing with a public that all carry the same namesake and having to insert cotton batting to tolerate the preferred local music, things are going not so bad thank you.

Having decided that Siberia wouldn't be such a bad place I still feel a little hesitant about the prospect. There is one person I'd like to send there to check it out for sure though. Wayne Gretzky cost me $50 on the last day of the hockey season and he's my vote for pioneer. I hear the climate is perfect for sore ankles and I'm sure he could endorse all kinds of products there. Reindeer sledges and husky manure would sell like caviar with Wayne's name pushing them.

Perhaps I'm just mad that hockey's over for a few months and I'll have to listen to the Expos faithful deliver another season's worth of excuses. Last year a sportswriter in Toronto said the Blue Jays would win a pennant before the Expos won another and that sounded like the best prediction I'd heard in quite a few innings.

My cohort here in the sports department champions the local pro-Expos sentiments, but he's been proven wrong so I'll wade into his territory just this once to say that the Expos will do well to stay out of the cellar this year. Cubbies in October I'm afraid.

This column may appear somewhat rudderless, but that's the way it's going to be. I've been offered this space and if it's all right with everyone I'm going to fill it with the lighter side of life. If you feel so moved give me a shout, though keep in mind complaints will be ignored. See you in St. Louis.

Tree planting time approaches in area

Dalkeith, Ont.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

It's that time of year again when we grab a spade and a bundle of trees and head for those rocky fields that we have, that never should have been cleared 150 years ago. I know that we won't harvest many of the trees we plant, if any at all, but it is a kind of stewardship thing with us. Not to crow or gloat or expect others to applaud or even to agree, we think it's just a nice thing to do and the least that we should.

Some of our older pasture fields are thick with wild apple trees, evidently planted by pasturing cattle that had eaten some of the apples from the few trees cultivated by the original settlers, I presume; each few seeds planted complete with natural organic fertilizer, no two apple trees alike. Nature's own forerunner to the modern jiffy-pack.

All the forestry books and pamphlets say that pasturing cattle can ruin the farm woodlot and I don't doubt that this is true. Yet under each of these wild apple trees that is near a source of maple tree seeds, there are tall straight young maples now started in numbers, and apparently nurtured by the leaf mold and shade now that there are no longer pasturing cattle to eat them.

Once the maples become established, the apple trees are dying out. Perhaps then we have discovered, quite by accident, an alternative to the expensive and labor intensive "modern" methods of nurseries, of starting seedlings, and of reforestation. Perhaps it is worthy of a treatise "The cow and reforestation, a form of natural treebirth."

We are now mentally preparing for an onslaught of researchers from the major forestry schools of Canada, investigating our demonstration plot. I have visions of herds of "planting cattle" each charged with a bushel of windfall apples, assaulting the barren hills, closely monitored by a diligent researcher.

No time to lose to disarm

Vankleek Hill, Ontario

The following is an open letter to Denis Ethier, MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell.

Dear Mr. Ethier:

To date, 63 of your fellow Liberals, 44 Conservatives, all 31 New Democrats and one independent support it.

Over 80 city and town councils representing five million Canadians support it.

Seventy per cent of Canadians surveyed in a recent Gallup Poll support it.

The "it" to which I refer is the World Referendum on Disarmament.

As you are no doubt aware, Costa Rica will present a motion for the World Referendum at the United Nations this fall. Given the perilous state of world politics and the awesome nuclear arsenal arrayed against humanity, can there be any issue as deserving of immediate action?

For the past few years, Operation Dismantle has been soliciting support for the referendum from all federal MPs. Your name appears on the list of those parliamentarians who have yet to support the referendum.

I urge you to join the 139 federal MPs who have already endorsed the World Referendum on Disarmament.

The hands of the Doomsday Clock now stand at two minutes to midnight. There is no time to lose.

Homecoming planned

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

The Gala Gananoque Heritage Days Festival Committee of Gananoque, Ontario, is seeking old friends of the town and former residents, to specifically invite them to return and share with us the mammoth celebrations we plan this June to observe Ontario's bicentennial and the town's heritage. This invitation applies to new friends as well.

To create a celebration of some size and scope, the festival committee has set aside three different weekends in which visitors and residents alike can kick up their heels and enjoy themselves. The first weekend, June 15 through 17, has the theme of a town and country weekend, while the second weekend, June 22 through 24, is entitled Festival of Friends. The third weekend, called Salute the St. Lawrence, will focus on the St. Lawrence River and the fun it provides to the people who live in or visit this area.

The second weekend, in particular, has been deemed as a homecoming weekend. It is a time when we would welcome former residents and new friends to the Gateway to the Thousand Islands. This weekend, June 22 through 24, will feature a giant Indian Pow-wow, historical exhibits and re-enactments, as well as other events that focus on friendship and fun.

We would welcome anyone to attend. Better yet, people can consider themselves welcome at all three weekends. The first weekend features a three-day bluegrass and country music festival starring Tommy Hunter, Sylvia Tyson, Family Brown and J. D. Crowe and New South. The third weekend will feature an estimated 1,000 boats in a giant cavalcade throughout the islands.

Further information can be obtained from the Gananoque Chamber of Commerce, 2 King Street East, K7G 1E6. Telephone is (613) 382-3250.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

1984 is centennial year in Tottenham! A cordial invitation is extended to all former residents of the area to come and participate in the various events scheduled throughout the year.

Several special weekends are planned including a Reunion Weekend July 6-8, with a host of exciting activities. July 7 could be your best chance to meet old friends and make new ones.

A welcoming committee will be hosting a "meet your friends" social in the afternoon followed by a buffet dinner and a dance.

If you lived here, shopped here, went to school or church here, we would like to see you again. Your presence will help to make our year a memorable one.

For further information, please write to: The Centennial Committee, P.O. Box 310, Tottenham, Ontario, L0G 1Wo.

Ralph Hatton,
reeve, Village of Tottenham

With all due respect to everyone else, Pete's biggest regret on being transferred is that he'll miss Ron MacDonell's annual shipboard beerfest.

We offer a hearty welcome to Glengarry to Pete's successor at the Scotia, Mike Ayott. Mike has been serving as assistant manager in Hawkesbury and was to arrive in Alexandria late this week.

BURKE REPLACED—Father Mac Burke, seated, has resigned as program director at Mount Carmel House Treatment Centre. Father Burke will assume duties next week as chaplain at Warkworth Penitentiary near Trenton. Replacing Father Burke is Cornwall resident Peter Desrosiers.

Father Burke leaves Mount Carmel Centre

by Bruce Hayes

ST. RAPHAEL'S—After serving for almost two years as program director at Mount Carmel House Treatment Centre, Father Mac Burke is going to jail.

Father Burke will leave the treatment centre in St. Raphael's Thursday to take up new duties as chaplain at Warkworth Penitentiary near Trenton.

Replacing the 40-year-old priest and certified addiction counsellor will be 33-year-old Peter Desrosiers of Cornwall. Mr. Desrosiers last worked for the Ottawa Children's Aid Society as a counsellor.

"Although he's not an addiction counsellor," Father Burke said of his replacement, "he was chosen for his ability to co-ordinate the staff. He has a lot of experience working with adolescents and is a good office manager. He will be program supervisor and will co-ordinate the teams here. I just hope the public will give him the same warmhearted support they have given me over the last two years."

Father Burke—or Father Mac as everyone calls him—is well suited to his job as an addiction counsellor, being a recovered alcoholic himself.

"I'm first a missionary priest," he said. "I spent eight years in South America, mostly Brazil and then came back, to a treatment centre in Thunder Bay for my own recovery."

Father Burke was instrumental in setting up the treatment program at Mount Carmel, a program he says is modeled on one of the world's most successful treatment centres in Minnesota.

"We try to treat the whole person," he said. "Alcoholism is a disease mentally, physically and spiritually. We have a doctor and nurse here to look after the physical aspect and it's up to us to take care of the rest."

For the past three years the centre has been successfully treating people with drug and alcohol addictions. The program involves an initial six-week, in-house session, the second phase involves a once a week visit for the next 12 weeks and the final phase is a progress update for the next two years.

The treatment centre's services are not cheap—$50 a day for six weeks. However Father Burke said the price is very reasonable when compared to comparable services offered south of the border.

"A comparable program will run you anywhere from $4,500 to $13,000 for a six-week treatment," he said. "We have it as low as we can get it and still function."

Father Burke said he is looking forward to his new job, adding that his only previous exposure to prisons was a weekend he spent at Collins Bay in 1971 talking to inmates.

"Warkworth has 500 inmates and the average age is 25," he said. "I'd say close to 80 per cent are there for alcohol or drug related crimes. So even though I'm going as a chaplain, my counselling background will be an asset. Now that I've stopped going to bars, I'm going behind bars."

The 1984 edition of the Char-Lan yearbook arrived this week. Students are rushing around getting signatures and saying farewell for the summer. Tension is building now that students realize that there are only three weeks left of school.

GRAPEFRUIT LEAGUE

The Grapefruit League is continuing at noon hours. The Grade 12's versus the teachers battled each other last Friday. The teachers are two for two. It looks like it will take an all star team to beat them, only if the stars import Gary Carter.

FASHION

Spring is here! Gone are the dull browns and blues, the heavy jackets and sweaters, and the warm boots and shoes. Dash and color is on the scene now. Bright pastel colored plastic shoes are being worn by a few. Mini skirts are being donned again, although not in such a big display as last year.

Surprising is the return of the 1960's bobby socks. Bobby socks are being worn with dresses, skirts, and jeans. The bobby socks with ruffles or bows on them are being paired with short pants and jeans. Also being worn are bright pink, turquoise, violet and yellow solid or striped pedal pushers. Mesh is being seen everywhere. Mesh is on shirts, pockets of pants, skirts, and even shoes.

Yet, guys are still sticking mainly to the same thing. However, they are now wearing blue, brown, or grey boat shoes. They are also wearing army pants and rugby pants. Long hair is rarely seen. Through all of this, however, the school uniform of jeans, sweatshirts, and running shoes is still predominant.

Council examines Hydro's annual brush control spraying program

by Joanne Stevenson

WILLIAMSTOWN—During Monday night's Charlottenburgh Township Council meeting, council investigated Ontario Hydro's planned spraying program, formulated this year's tile drainage policy and recommended the Raisin Region Conservation Authority legally pursue the delinquent account of Glengarry Marine Operators Ltd.

BRUSH CONTROL

In a letter to the township form Dave Venutti, manager of Hydro Ontario, Vankleek Hill area, it was announced the annual brush control program would be carried out between June 1 and September 1. Councillor Bob Roth, citing data read in a Globe and Mail article, expressed concern about the chemicals to be used in the spraying.

"Do they test the sprays to ensure they meet government specifications?" he wondered.

A motion was carried to request a chemical analysis breakdown and to receive assurances from Hydro that the chemicals are tested before being used.

TILE DRAINAGE

The township's policy for tile drainage loans for 1984 was outlined. An eight per cent interest rate would be levied. The maximum loan covers 60 per cent of costs to a maximum of $20,000. Applications will be treated on a first come first served basis.

GLENGARRY MARINA OPERATORS

On June 14, 1983, the Raisin Region Conservation Authority advised Glengarry Marina Operators Ltd. of a $1,187.20 invoice to cover fuel costs for Gray's Creek Marina which it operated in 1983. Registered letters and lawyers' letters went unanswered. A default judgment was awarded the Authority when representatives from Glengarry Marina Operators Ltd. failed to appear in court.

At recent meetings of the Raisin Region Conservation Authority, it was decided not to incur further legal costs and a letter was sent to Glengarry Marina Operators informing them of this decision.

Nonetheless, councillor Bob Roth, one of the township's representatives on the Authority, re-introduced the issue with council and asked that further court action be initiated. Council debated the expense.

Councillor Ernie Szpivak agreed such behavior "should not go unchallenged. It behooves government to incur costs not with the point of winning, but to send the public a message we will not be treated with a cavalier attitude."

"Too often, people think they can take public bodies for a ride. A lesson needs to be learned," Mr. Roth said.

Councillor Don Kannon, who conceded he could see both sides of the issue, explained, "The end result will probably be a cost to the taxpayer. It's doubtful we can recover the debt. It's a relatively small amount of money. If you are running your own business, you might write it off as a bad debt."

Council agreed to recommend the Raisin Region Conservation Authority initiate further court proceedings.

Fined for assault

A Green Valley man was given a $253 fine in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday, May 24, after pleading guilty to assaulting his wife.

Luc Roy, 26, has since left his wife, but pleaded guilty to hitting her in the face and stomach on February 10.

Mr. Roy, who now lives in Alexandria, was given three months to pay the fine.

NEW ONTARIO GOVERNMENT GUIDE BOOKS FOR SENIOR CITIZENS AND DISABLED PERSONS.

Senior citizens, disabled persons and concerned agencies will be interested in two new publications published by the Provincial Secretariat for Social Development. The "Guide for Senior Citizens" and the "Guide to Programs and Services for Disabled Persons" each offer a complete listing of government programs and services available to assist disabled persons and seniors.

These guides are excellent reference publications for any senior or disabled person who wants to make the most of the many opportunities which are offered in the Province of Ontario. The Secretariat will automatically send the "Guide for Senior Citizens" to every person in the province when they reach 65 years of age.

To obtain a copy of either the "Guide for Senior Citizens" or the "Guide to Programs and Services for Disabled Persons," write the Secretariat for Social Development, c/o Government Services, P.O. Box 102, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1N3.

The Glen Robertson Girl Guides held a successful yard sale last weekend. Part of the proceeds will be used to help finance a trip to Toronto's Wonderland.

The Girl Guides, accompanied by Moira van Nooten and Gail Vaillancourt are looking forward to this excursion. They will join other Guides in Cornwall for the bus trip there, will camp overnight and spend the next day with Guides and Brownies from around the province, enjoying Wonderland. Many thanks to those who supported them.

Our congratulations go out to Norman Montpetit who recently graduated from Sault College in Sault St. Marie, specializing in the field of fish and wildlife. He is presently employed with the Ministry of Natural Resources in Sault St. Marie.

Norman spent the last week visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Montpetit.

Other visitors with the Montpetit's over the Victoria Day weekend were Cecile and Louis Lefebvre, accompanied by Louis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldema Lefebvre, who are now residing in Cornwall.

We extend a belated, warm welcome to Arlene and Don Beavers, Lindsay and Keith of St. Mary's, Ontario. They have taken up residence in the house previously owned by Jo and Donald Smith.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. John van Nooten and family over the Victoria Day weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Deecker and three children of Ottawa. They have been friends since their teaching days together in Northern Canada.

Luc and Marian Roussin and baby son Joey were down from Ottawa over the weekend, spending time with their parents, Pauline Roussin and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hagen.

It was certainly with great joy and relief that the news of the finding of Debbie Robinson was received in this area. Debbie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Robinson, have a summer home near the Glen and Debbie was known to many of the young people in the area.

Donald and Jo Smith spent a day visiting friends in the area. When going-home time arrived their car decided it wanted to stay. They spent the night with Kathy and Mike McGrath, had their car repaired in the morning and motored home to Brockville.

Keep in mind the clothing sale being held each Tuesday from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the recreation centre. Proceeds go to the Senior Citizen's Club 65 to help with maintenance of the building. The club party is also coming up on Tuesday, June 12.

Get well wishes go out to Mrs. Alcide Lalonde who recently underwent surgery in Cornwall. She is happy to be home, I am sure, and we wish her a speedy recovery.

Our congratulations go out to John Stante of Glen Robertson, who recently won the federal PC nomination for Glengarry, Prescott, and Russell.

We'd like to have some Glen Robertson news every week. Please feel free to call to inform me of happenings in our area, visitors, newcomers or anything you would like to share with the readers. My number is 874-2758.

Dunvegan

Not being a gardener nor blessed with even a green fingernail, I view with admiration the efforts of those who are busy "getting the garden in." Muscles that had rested on their laurels since last harvest time, are once again making their presence felt mid groans and sighs. Cheer up, if the dandelions are any indication, you'll have an abundant crop of weeds to do battle with this summer. There are times I'm rather pleased not to possess even a tinge of a green finger (or maybe, just maybe, there's a slight touch of green that is really a touch of envy?!)

I don't suppose the situation is unique but it is interesting to note brother and sister are tops at Tagwi with head boy Andrew Arkinstall and head girl, Alison Arkinstall, son and daughter of Gwen and Stewart Arkinstall.

Dale MacDonald, son of Hank and Diane MacDonald, was one of four First Communicants at the St. Catherine of Sienna Church, Greenfield, on Sunday, May 30.

Mary Fraser returned home last Tuesday after spending some days visiting her sister Annie and Ewan McMaster in Weston, Ontario.

Carolynn, Larry and wee Sarah Deneault attended a christening in Kemptville last week and recent visitors with the Deneaults included Brenda and Rachel Bellway of Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Sander Stewart have returned after spending several days in Vancouver where they attended the wedding of her niece, Barbara Nelson to Paul Hughes in St. David's United Church, West Vancouver.

Rhoda MacRae, Flora Chisholm, Marion Loewen, Ann Stewart, Ruth Alderson, Catherine (George) MacRae and Hilda Campbell attended the Bainsville WI Bicentennial Tea last Saturday afternoon.

SPECIAL CANVASS

There's a very special door to door canvass during the month of June. It is for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario. Most of the dollars raised will be spent on new equipment to provide the best care possible for our children and grandchildren. In Glengarry alone, six children are treated each day at this hospital. This campaign will be done only once in our area so please be generous towards this great cause.

PARTY FOR FATHER BURKE

Friends, religious and clergy, board members of Mount Carmel House, members of the staff and a small representation of the auxiliary members gathered at St. Columban's Parish Centre on Friday for a farewell party in honor of Father Mac Burke.

Thanks were given in appreciation of his work at the treatment centre. A poem was read and a song, which was spontaneously written, was enjoyed by all.

Father Burke takes over the post of chaplain at the Warksworth Penetentiary in the near future. He is succeeded by Peter Desrosiers.

We are all very happy in Apple Hill to have George Benton close by and well taken care of by his devoted wife, Mae.

George underwent open heart surgery at the Ottawa Civic Hospital and from the time he was admitted to the heart institute on May 6 and returned home on May 16, his strength has been gradually increasing. He has already begun his daily walking program.

To you, George, we wish a continued, speedy recovery and we hope before long you'll be travelling our roads.

Another open euchre was held by the senior citizens at the Activity Centre on May 22—23 tables were formed.

Among the ladies, the first winner was Marie O'Brien, second was Emilie Paquette and third was Georgie Feek. Among the men, first went to Dan MacRae, second to Maurice Chenier and third to Bill Cooper.

The ladies' skunk winner was Myrtle MacPherson and for the men it was Archie MacIsaac. The door prize went to Gertrude Lapierre.

Winners of the special draw were Nancy Colbourne, Yvonne MacFarlane, Millie Paquette, Ranald MacPherson, Ruth Singleton, Romuald Giroux and Neil MacLean.

Take note that the next gathering for members only will be a pot luck supper on June 5. So come early and bring your goodies.

The recreation committee will be holding its next meeting on Wednesday, June 6 at 8 p.m. at the King Edward Hotel.

On the agenda is the planning of summer activity projects for the children of the area. The committee hopes many will want to attend this important planning session.

Glengarry Christian Council discussed Eucharist during meeting in Finch

FINCH—The monthly meeting of the Glengarry Christian Council was held at St. Bernard's Presbytery, Finch, with the President, Rev. E. N. McColl in the chair.

After the opening devotions over which the host, Rev. Michael O'Brien presided, a paper on the Eucharist by an International Commission was read and discussed.

It was announced that there will be two ecumenical services in Williamstown on Friday, June 29 and Sunday, July 1 which many members expect to attend. Several ideas for future ecumenical gatherings with greater involvement of the laity and substantial discussion among all present were proposed and will be dealt with at future meetings. Current social service issues also came before the members for action.

Youth sentenced

A Glen Robertson youth will spend the next 89 days at a halfway house in Cornwall after he was convicted of four counts of break, enter and theft dating back to late 1983.

Serge Cote, 17, will also serve a year of probation and curfews upon his release. He was convicted of stealing $2,820 worth of goods from four locations in Lochiel Township. A variety of hardware and stereo equipment were included in the heists.

The Maxville Minor Soccer League is being organized for any children between five and 10 years of age who want to play soccer this summer. A house league will be formed for boys and girls to play together and all games will be played in Maxville. Coaches will be needed. To volunteer your help, please phone the Sports Complex.

The ACW of St. Michael's Church will be serving a hot dinner in the Sports Complex from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Fair Sunday, June 3. The cost is $5 for adults. A good meal will fortify you for the day's activities much better than a snack.

The farm of Donald Besner, south of Dominionville, has been sold and the new owners are Ludwig Frei, wife Caecilia, and their six children—Christian, Daniel, Cornelia, Susanne, Denise and Simon.

The purchasers arrived from Widnau, Switzerland, via Zurich to Montreal. The flight was good but the waiting to get on the farm was long. The Frei family speak Swiss German, but have taken some English lessons. The three oldest children are enrolled in the Maxville Public School and will start to learn the new language this week.

The decision to come to Canada was made easier as the Freis have good friends in Gilbert and Martha Stadelman, who are on a dairy farm in North Lancaster. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Besner have purchased a lot in Dominionville and are presently building their new home.

Alas, it rained last Saturday morning, so the Maxville Veterans' Club yard sale had to be postponed. It will be held this Saturday morning at 10 on the Carr Street lot. Even more goodies will have arrived by this time, so be there early.

Recent winners in the Club 50-50 Draw were Evelyn Larocque of Alexandria for $72, and John Coleman of Ottawa for $74.

John Coleman has retired now. He and his wife Edythe are presently visiting their son Ivan Coleman and family in Carberry, Manitoba. They intend to move back to Maxville this summer, to the Coleman home on Mechanic Street West.

VILLAGE COUNCIL

The sixth regular meeting of the Municipal Council of the Village of Maxville was held on May 8 with Reeve George Currier presiding and all councillors present.

Grant approval was obtained for one person for cutting grass, trimming shrubs, and caring for flower beds about the village.

Fire Chief Bruce McDonald, Mike Villeneuve and Bill Metcalfe will go to Ottawa to inspect a fire truck that may be available. From the Secretary of Social Development a notice was received that June is Senior Citizens' Month.

A letter was received from Bob Span Sr. requesting lapel pins or such souvenirs from Maxville.

Water deliveries will be made by Henry Cuillerier at $5 a load.

Andre Landry came in to discuss the purchase of land situated on Main Street, east side, north of the CNR tracks. Council approved the sale of the land for $1,000, plus legal fees.

The village intends to purchase a used dump truck for not more than $8,000, which could be used for snow removal, sanding, garbage collection, etc.

The hydro clerical position recently advertised has been filled by Lucy Rolland.

Mae Benton has asked permission to purchase the land on Alexander Street West, presently owned by the village. Council is to approach the Curling Club and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McRae to see if they might have an interest in this property.

The directors of the Maxville Fair are still looking for participants in the Sunday afternoon talent show, and would like to remind everyone that applications can be made until May 27 by phoning Dona Addison at 527-5472, or Oris Beaudette at 527-5485. This will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and the categories are children (up to 12), teenagers, adults, and groups. There is good prize money, too.

There will be door to door canvassing starting in June for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

Most of the money raised will be spent on new equipment to provide the best care possible for our children and grandchildren. From Glengarry alone, six children are treated at this hospital every day. The goal for Glengarry is $20,000. A large portion of money will also be devoted to research.

This campaign will be done only once in our area, so please be generous towards this great cause —it's a one-time effort.

The congregation of Gordon Church will be holding an Auction Sale on the grounds of the old Church Hall at St. Elmo next Saturday, June 9, beginning at noon.

Everyone is searching the attic, shed, or whatever, and already some nice collectibles have come in—antiques, rugs, furniture, dishes, etc. If by remote chance somebody is not interested in this sort of thing, there will be a table of home baking in the hall, and lunch will also be available. Whether you come to buy, browse, or just visit, a warm welcome awaits one and all.

Milly Eppstadt had a fine lot of visitors for Mother's Day—Donald George Grant, Mrs. Donald Grant, Carolyn Grant and Cathy Miller of Chomedy; Frank Davison of Ottawa, who used to live in the village with the Herbert Tracy family in the tailor's shop; the Johnston family were not able to come, but sent their mother 13 red roses and a box of chocolates. In addition, Milly had about 20 neighbors and friends in on Sunday with their good wishes.

A May Pole Dance was hosted for the residents of the Maxville Manor by Connie Blaney's Grades 3 and 4 of Maxville Public School, assisted by some members of the staff, volunteers, and auxiliary. They provided beautiful spring decorations in co-operation with Diane Cuillerier and the residents of special care, and presented their version of the May Pole Dance and celebration. Sylvester MacDonald and the Clansmen provided Scottish music for the evening, and the volunteers and staff arranged a delicious luncheon.

Ann Guindon with her daughters Eva Schmekel and Marilyn motored to Fredericton, N.B. early last Wednesday to attend graduation exercises the next day of her son Donald, a corporal in the RCMP, from the University of New Brunswick with his Bachelor of Business Administration, "with distinction." The family were joined in Fredericton by two more sons Gerry and Dale, and another daughter and her husband—Yvette and Donald Jenack of Massena, N.Y. Dale Guindon recently graduated from Dalhousie University in Halifax with his Bachelor of Education degree, following up his BA obtained from Carleton University in 1982. In August he will be sent out to France by the Quebec government to teach English and to pursue his studies in French.

There was a Highland Games Committee meeting last Wednesday evening, with all chairmen reporting everything on schedule in their various departments. With years of experience a professional expertise characterizes the efforts of this hard-working group. The distinguished guest opening the games this year will be the American ambassador, Paul Robinson.

The new barn certainly went up in a hurry, and is presently ready for use, and the gates have been widened into the infield for the convenience of the bands. No other changes to the grounds are being carried out this season. The official games program will be going to the printers the end of June. An astounding number of requests for concessions has been received, even from as far away as Georgia. Their number has been limited to those of long-time attendance and whose offerings are in a Scottish theme.

The re-introduction of the hammer throw in the heavyweight sports division will provide an exciting highlight. The preliminary try-out for this will be held on Friday evening just before the Games.

OPENING THE TERRACE—Alexandria town crier Helene Faubert-Gravel was on the job Thursday as she officially opened the terrace at Alexandria's Priest Mill Restaurant. The terrace will also feature a sundown piping ceremony on the weekends throughout the summer.

Changes coming for Day Care

Day care services in the Alexandria area will be undergoing some changes over the next few months.

1-2-3 Go, operated by Glengarry Action Day Care, is in its second year of providing day care services at the old St. Joseph Separate School building on Lochiel Street. From its inception the day care operated under a grant from the federal Ministry of Employment and Immigration.

However, that money will stop flowing next month and "at that time we will have to become self-sufficient," says project manager Julie Leroux.

Starting in July the cost will increase from the current $11 per day per child to $15, an amount which Mrs. Leroux says reflects "the real cost."

The grants received by the day care were used to pay the salaries of one supervisor and two teachers. Once that money is stopped the parents who use the service will have to make up the difference.

The day care has room for 16 children and enrolment is currently around nine, although the figure can change.

The centre offers a morning program from 9 to 11:30 a.m. as well as the full day service from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

As teacher Marlene Pilon explains, the two programs are aimed at different needs.

"The morning is more like nursery school," Miss Pilon said. "They do arts and crafts, large muscle activity, play outside and play with things like playdough. The only thing that's different with the full day program is that the kids sleep in the afternoon."

To let the public know what goes on at the centre and to tell them what is going on with day care in the province, an open house will be held at the centre on June 4 and 5.

The hours on June 4 will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and from 5 to 9 p.m. on June 5.

Mrs. Leroux said that while there are subsidies available to qualifying parents to pay for day care, the service is still not as accessible to the public as it should be.

"Parents have to apply for the subsidy," she said. "The United Counties pays a maximum of 20 per cent of the cost with the province of Ontario paying a maximum of 80 per cent of the cost.

However, there is a means test used to determine who qualifies for a subsidy, the end result being that only the people who qualify for a subsidy or the people who can afford to pay full cost use day care.

"In 1986 the province wants to cut its 80 per cent contribution," she said, "and people won't be able to afford the full price. Day care will only be available to people who can pay the full price."

The Ontario Coalition for Better Day Care is pushing to have day care fully funded by the province and have it universally accessible to everyone.

"Right now, it's only open to people eligible for the subsidy or who can pay the full cost," Mrs. Leroux said. "A lot of average income people can't afford it. If the government cuts its funding, we might as well close our doors."

"The government cuts will affect rural communities much more," she said. "We don't have the large population that cities do and we don't have waiting lists. In rural communities day care will be non-existent if this goes through."

Mrs. Leroux hopes the group's open house attracts a lot of people since "it will give people a chance to visit day care and meet the staff. It will give us a chance to explain to them what day care is all about. Many know that we're here but some don't know that day care is."

Glen Walter school up for sale

The public school in Glen Walter is up for grabs, with the separate school board having first dibs on it, SD&G County Board of Education spokesman John Beveridge said May 25.

Mr. Beveridge said low enrolment and problems in program offerings have prompted the closing. At a board meeting May 22 it was recommended by the School Facilities Committee that the school be sold. All those eligible to buy the school will be notified in writing and given 90 days to respond.

Under Ministry of Education policy the separate school board has the first option, with St. Lawrence College next in line. From there it goes to the municipality and then provincial and federal government ministries.

If the public school board doesn't receive an acceptable offer within 90 days they may sell the land through public tender.

No parties have expressed interest as of yet.

Ontario budget ensures growth

Ontario Treasurer Larry Grossman has tabled the 1984 budget in an economic climate which must be considered the most promising in the last three years. As Mr. Grossman points out, the task confronting us is fostering this momentum so that we can turn recovery into sustained economic growth. The thrust of this year's budget centres on preparing our people and our industries to master economic change.

To this end, the 1984 budget contains a comprehensive strategy of investment in our key economic sectors and in our human resources.

Our agrifood industry receives special attention: expenditures by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food will grow by 16.3 per cent this year. With this budget increase, more funds will go to new initiatives and to priority programs, like the Beginning Farmers Programs and the Ontario Farm Tax Reduction Program. We have a firm commitment in the budget to establish a national agribond program to help reduce the cost of credit to farmers.

Our important tourist industry has not been neglected: Ontario will be participating in a $60 million tourism development program with the federal government. The Accommodation Tax Rebate Program, which allows out-of-province visitors a rebate on the retail sales tax on accommodation, is effective immediately. With so many bicentennial events and other attractions going on this year, the rebate is sure to be a boost for tourism.

There are many innovative measures in the budget that address the challenge of ensuring lasting employment growth. A $40 million program will help women, older workers and others affected by technological change get the training they need to improve their opportunities in the workforce. Through the Ontario Skills Fund, employers will receive a $2,000 incentive to hire and train laid-off workers over the age of 45. The province will also provide support for Unemployed Help Centres run by trade unions.

In earlier columns, I have discussed the continuing concern of youth unemployment. The new budget tackles this problem head-on with a 10-point youth strategy which emphasizes training and experience.

The $80 million Ontario Work Youth Opportunities subsidy program is weighted to give support to young people whose employment problems are most severe. Ontario Youth Corps will put young people to work in the community with the elderly and the disabled. Ontario Youth Tourism will create 2,500 jobs in designated tourist areas and provide young workers with a training allowance of $100 a week.

Under a part-time employment program that will subsidize wages, students in serious financial need will be able to complete their education. Those who are out of school will be able to start new businesses with interest-free loans under a year-round capital venture incentive program.

The co-ordination and design of all provincial youth training and experience programs will be carried out by a Youth Commissioner reporting to the chairman of BILD.

While Ontario's 1984 economic agenda is far-reaching, the budget strategy is sensitive to local concerns as well. Communities, small businesses, the elderly and the disadvantaged will find that their problems too, are addressed. Through long-term planning which stresses permanent employment, business innovation and our quality of life, the budget sets the stage for the people of Ontario to take full advantage of the progress we have made.

Commission pays $13,000 to Legroulx

by Bruce Hayes

The Alexandria Police Commission has paid a former police officer more than $13,000 in accumulated sick leave, service pay and statutory holidays.

In a recent letter to town council the commission confirmed it had paid $13,583.82 to Raymond Legroulx. Mr. Legroulx, a 17-year veteran of the Alexandria Police Department, has been embroiled in a battle with the commission ever since he was let go in April of 1983.

At that time he was dismissed under a section of the Police Act which allows for discharge if two doctors certify that a police officer is incapable for duty.

While on duty in July of 1979 Mr. Legroulx was injured in a scuffle with a man outside a local hotel. As a result he received a fractured knee and other injuries and later underwent two operations to repair damage to his left shoulder.

In July of 1982 he was awarded $416 a month from Worker's Compensation and, until his dismissal, this amount was deducted from the salary the town was paying him. As well, a lump sum payment of $3,786 from WC to compensate him for damages, was deducted from his dismissal settlement.

However, the contentious issue at stake is a clause in the collective agreement with the Alexandria Police Association which states that officers will be paid their usual salary to age 60 if they are injured on the job.

Commission chairman and mayor J. P. Touchette said he was satisfied with the outcome adding, "the town always maintained he was hurt on the job and Worker's Compensation should pay."

One issue that still has not been resolved is almost $7,000 Mr. Legroulx received from WC as a pension payment. The town deducted that figure from his pay, over Mr. Legroulx's objections. The matter went before an arbitration hearing on May 2 and Mr. Touchette said a verdict has not yet been announced.

For his part, Mr. Legroulx said he isn't "too pleased" with recent events but said "there's not too much I can do."

He said he feels the main issue at stake is the clause in the contract that states an officer injured on the job will continue to receive full salary. However, he said until the arbitration board rules, he would prefer not to discuss his case.

Alexandria police chief calls for co-operation from public in fighting crime locally

by Phil Rutherford

Many crimes, particularly break-ins and vandalism, would be solved faster and still more could be prevented if citizens simply contacted police whenever they heard or saw anything suspicious, Alexandria Police Chief Norm Mailhot said Monday.

Apparently frustrated over the apathetic attitude of some local people, the chief is calling upon Alexandria residents to assist the police in reducing crime and thereby reducing the threat to their own property.

In investigating break-ins, police officers often find neighbors can almost pinpoint the exact time of the crimes because they recall hearing the sound of breaking glass or witnessed suspicious activity, but they made no effort to contact the police at the time.

Had police been notified immediately, argues the chief, criminals may have been caught in the act. Losses and damages would naturally be reduced and some future crimes might have been averted.

"If a criminal succeeds; if he feels he has got away with a crime, he is likely to try again," said Chief Mailhot.

Neighborhood Watch, a self-help program operating in many communities, has been successful in encouraging citizens to watch each other's homes and businesses, with a direct reduction in crime reported.

Chief Mailhot would like to see a similar effort in Alexandria, though he argues an organized program may not be needed.

"It would be a big help if people simply made a point of being good neighbors and took an interest in the wellbeing of their fellow citizens," he said. "They could watch their neighbor's home when they know the neighbor is away. It doesn't work where apathy reigns, however. It's only effective where people care.

"It doesn't have to be a formal arrangement. People just need to be concerned. When they see something suspicious, all they have to do is call us. We certainly don't mind getting the calls."

There have been cases of break-ins and thefts from both homes and businesses when people failed to call police. The chief used the example of the Pigeon Jewellers robbery early last month. The thief or thieves used a garbage can to smash the store's window. A burglar alarm rang loundly for an extended period of time before the police were notified.

Later, some people complained about the alarm being allowed to ring for so long, but not one of them thought of reporting it.

"With more co-operation and more concern, every police department would be more effective in solving and preventing crime," said the chief.

Colleen Murray wins

Colleen Murray of Apple Hill has completed her pre-open categories in highland dancing. She was the overall winner for the advanced intermediate 10 years and under for her highland dancing. She also won the trophy for her nationals in the same age group. Both trophies were from the St. Andrew's Highland Dancing Association. She now will be competing in open age categories.

Colleen is the eight-year-old daughter of William and Melba Murray. She started dancing competitively in May 1981 under the teaching of Ellen Cameron Maloney. Since then, she has competed in 62 competitions placing in the top four positions in 59 of them, thus taking home many medals and trophies.

Her wins did not only include local fairs, Maxville and Cornwall. She has travelled a great deal including Ottawa, Montreal, Brockville, Kingston, Toronto, Georgetown, Fort Ticonderoga, Glens Falls, New Hampshire, Albany, New York and Halifax, Nova Scotia.

This summer, Colleen will be competing in three competitions in Scotland. We wish her the best of luck.

Vankleek Hill man fined $403 for impaired driving

A Vankleek Hill man whose car ran into the rear of another vehicle May 19 was handed a $403 fine and three-month licence suspension for impaired driving in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday, May 24.

Gordon Bates, 23, had been northbound on Hwy. 34 in Lochiel Township when he struck the other vehicle.

In handing down the sentence Judge Reginald Levesque said: "The fact that your readings were high (230 and 240 mg. alcohol in 100 ml. of blood) and that there was a rear end accident means the sentence should be severe enough that (your realize) drinking and driving don't mix."

Eighty mg. alcohol per 100 ml. of blood is the legal limit.

Mr. Bates was given 90 days to pay the fine.

Glen Walter man given discharge after disturbance

A man who pleaded guilty to causing a public disturbance in Glen Walter was given an absolute discharge in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday, May 24.

Jean Guy Brunet, 21, of RR 1 Glen Walter was standing on the sidewalk in front of the St. Lawrence Estates April 29 and other pedestrians were forced to leave the sidewalk to get around him.

Judge Reginald Levesque said it was "a minor type of offence" and it wouldn't be against the public's interest to give him an absolute discharge. "You're free to go, but don't get drunk in public again," he said.

Maxville man fined $44 for breaking police door

A Maxville man who left the Maxville OPP station in a huff April 28 will have to pay $44 in fines for his troubles.

John A. Wensink, 26, was given a $28 fine for willful damage to the door and window at the police station. He had come to the office to complain about a previous liquor licence offence and left upset, breaking the window pane for which he will pay an extra $16.

CENTENNIAL BOOK—Alexandria Centennial Committee's homecoming week program is quickly taking shape and should be on the street the week before Homecoming Week. Designer Yon van Berkham, foreground and editor Carole Baxter, have been working on the book, which will contain all the events surrounding Homecoming Week as well as highlights from the past. The book will be on sale for $1 a copy.

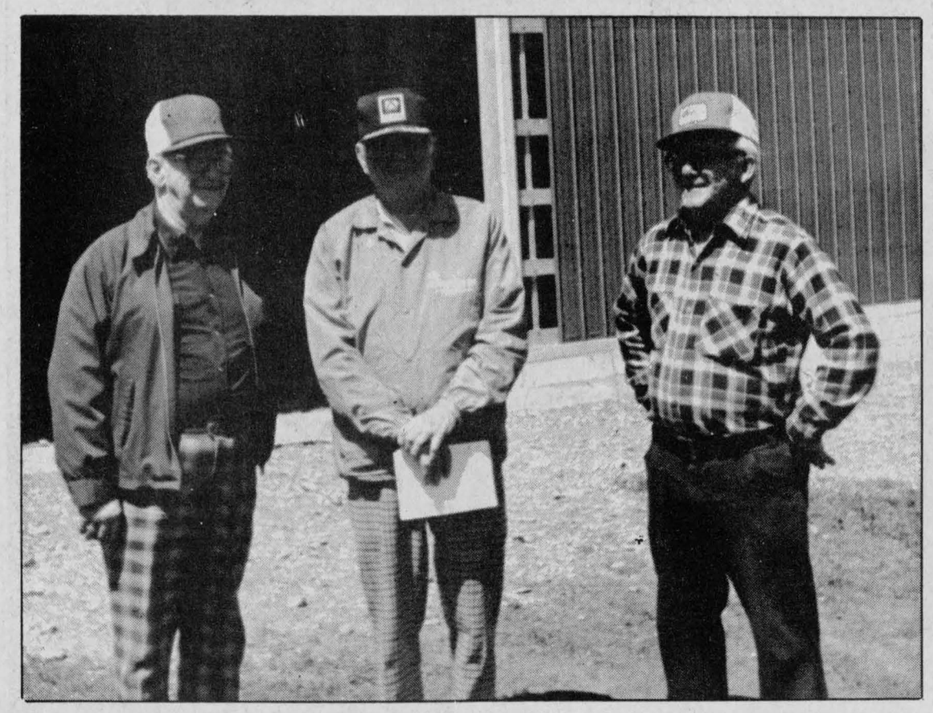
Maxville Fair is drawing near to its centennial-year show



NEW FACILITY—The new barn built by the Kenyon Agricultural Society is nearing completion. The new barn was built to provide more accommodations for the upcoming Maxville Fair and other events at the Maxville Fair Grounds. Standing in front of the new building are left, Dr. Don Gamble, retired secretary-manager, News sports columnist Angus H. McDonell and Bill Metcalfe, president of the Kenyon Agricultural Society.

by Angus H. McDonell

There is an ancient "cliche" relative to continuity in the realm of sport, business and associations. It has been said, "There isn't anything that succeeds like success." That, folks, in a nutshell, is the record story of the Kenyon Agricultural Society, commonly known as the Maxville Fair.

Next week, May 31, June 1, 2, 3, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, are the annual fair days. Early Thursday morning the gates will swing open and trucks loaded with livestock will be assigned to their respective stabling quarters. The same routine applies to finer exhibits slated to be shown in the Angus Gray Hall. That activity will launch the 96th anniversary exhibition of the Kenyon Agricultural Society.

Seeking news copy to draft an advance report of the approaching opening of the spring fair circuit, I drove to Maxville, the capital of the Indian Lands. My source of information would be the retired secretary-manager, Dr. Don Gamble. "Doc," as he has been popularly known since his hockey days, is better described as the Generalissimo of the Kenyon Agricultural Society for many years; one of the building pillars that includes the Glengarry Highland Games.

First we reminisced going back some 40 years when "Doc" was a young director of the Maxville Fair. He engaged an Ottawa neighbor of mine, Al Jackson, to judge the roadster class. I was anxious to attend the Fair so I drove the judge to Maxville.

We recalled that the highlight of that roadster class was provided by two prominent Glengarry horsemen, Roy Calder and Gordie MacNeil. Roy Calder's horse was awarded the red ribbon, slightly ahead of the Williamstown horse.

From the 1940's we turned back Fair records to 1888. In September of that year the newly organized Kenyon Agricultural Society launched the first Maxville Fair. From that day on they never looked back.

The exhibition grounds were a couple of acres, east side Main Street, south of Peter Street to near the now Highland Motor Sales garage. This was the location for the next 24 years.

Despite the approaching 1912 war clouds, the KAS directors realized they had to have more acreage. The Maxville annual fall Fair became so popular the grounds were now taxed to capacity by the overflow of exhibitors.

The present location was visualized to be a favorable site. Five acres were purchased. The street leading to the new location was named Fair Street. This was sound judgment in light of the developments that followed.

On this expansion note I asked Dr. Gamble how many acres does the Fair Board own now? Flashing a smile of obvious pride he quipped, "65 acres."

During that time, since 1912, many changes have taken place. The original show hall, 100x25, west side of old grandstand was replaced in 1962 by the present Angus Gray Hall. In the estate of the late Angus Gray, a pioneer great supporter of the KAS, a sizeable sum of money was bequeathed to the association. The new hall was built and fittingly named after the donor, Angus Gray of Dunvegan.

The next major improvement was the building of a new grandstand in 1957. The timber and lumber of the old one were used to build the horse barn at the north end of the infield. This was accomplished by an old-fashioned Glengarry custom, a "Raising Bee."

Misfortune was a visitor in 1960 when a wind storm ripped the roof off the grandstand. It was replaced and reinforced to withstand the rigors of the weather in the ensuing years.

As thousands of Highland Games patrons have observed each year for more than three decades, there are always attractive improvements if only a fresh coat of paint.

Approaching the gates on the left is the new Maxville and District Sports Complex, a separate organization, and on the right a recently built barn with modern facilities throughout, comparable to any exhibition cattle quarters anywhere. The Angus Gray Hall a few years ago was enlarged to meet the demand for space. Here the Highland Lounge is located where the distinguished guests officiating at the opening of the Games are entertained. At this year's luncheon the guest will be the U.S. Ambassador to Canada, His Excellency Paul Robinson.

But that is not all the improvements. After mentioning a few, Dr. Gamble and President Bill Metcalfe escorted the writer to the new livestock barn, 12x56, north side of grandstand area, frame, metal siding and roof, complete with fluorescent lighting.

Exhibitors will appreciate the addition that provides extra stabling, an important step towards maintaining the prestigious rating of staging the best Holstein show in Canada. In the past there have been entries from as far away as New Brunswick, across Quebec to Western Ontario. History could repeat itself this year.

There are 10 classes from calves to mature cows. But the black and white herds are not alone in popularity. Twenty additional pens had to be built this year to provide sheep accommodation. There are no exhibits of swine and poultry.

More entries than usual are expected in the varied horse classes. For the simple reason that prize money has been increased.

One of Canada's, and in fact North America's, best known exhibitors of heavy horses will be Glen Robertson's George Hope. In discussing the Maxville Fair prospects with George he intends to show 10 horses. Leading the entries will be the pride of his stable, Hope Jacob's Paddy, last fall's Royal Winter Fair reserve two-year-old champion stud. Besides the other Percherons, George will drive in the ring his recently purchased team of Commercial Horses. This class of horses is usually cross-bred Hackney and Clyde bloodlines.

Also showing in the heavy class will be horses from the stables of Stewart Crabb, Manotick; Junior Heatly, Brownsburg, and Keith Drynan, Almonte.

In the roadster class, Stewart Ferguson, Carleton Place will attend with four horses. All classes are filled from the Heavies to the Ponies.

Vying with all those horses will be the famous RCMP horses in the Musical Ride, highlighting the Friday night infield show program.

In the Angus Gray hall among the varied exhibits there will be crafts, flowers, baking, 4-H Club exhibits, grain and seed.

The Kenyon Agricultural Society some years ago joined their pioneer neighbors, Lachute and Ormstown, in the Spring Fair circuit. And the resulting success is not entirely due to male leadership. The ladies have played an important role. The current vice-president is Mrs. Jim (Jean) Campbell. The commanding role of secretary is filled by Karen Collier.

Finally there is the unheralded and unsung trouble shooter for 16 years, Kenny Urquhart. Kenny has athletic heritage to carry. He is a nephew of Maxville's founding Millionaires' goalkeeper, Willis Carter. Any time I have been at the Fair Grounds preceding the Fair or Highland Games, there is Kenny riding a mower, or with a hammer, saw or paint brush thus assisting in the general upkeep of the buildings and grounds that yearly compare to any in Canada on a pro rata basis.

The foregoing is a preamble of the agriculture heritage being nobly upheld by a handful of descendants from the Indian Lands and north Glengarry pioneers. The 1984 success of a banner year depends on the patronage of Eastern Ontario, Western Quebec in general and Glengarry in particular.

See you at the fair.

Change format for Pearson Cup

Amateur baseball continues to be the only winner from the Pearson Cup exhibition contest between Canada's two professional baseball teams.

While Expo fans have been discouraged so far with the club's inconsistent play on the field (sound familiar?), organizers should take a long look at the game and consider whether it's worth continuing the Pearson Cup.

As much as I enjoy baseball, even if it means sitting through 13 innings or more, there was no bigger joke or farce in Thursday's Pearson Cup than when Expo bullpen coach Joe Kerrigan entered the game in the 13th inning and handed the Blue Jays a 6-5 come-from-behind win.

Joe who? you say.

Even though the game is for a worthy cause, how many people want to continue to come to the ball park and see minor league pitchers and players play most of the game, while guys like Gary Carter, Andre Dawson, Alfredo Griffin or Willie Upshaw make token appearances?

Here we have the ideal situation for baseball fans across the country. It's a natural rivalry—Montreal against Toronto—the American League against the National League.

But if organizers aren't going to take the annual game seriously, how do we expect the fans to come to the ball park?

And then there's having the game played on an off-day. There's no way the players enjoy travelling to Toronto or to Montreal on an off-day during a long season for what turns out to be a meaningless game.

Perhaps the game should be played just before the start of the season as the clubs head north from spring training. Hold the game at Vancouver's B.C. Place and there would be a full house in attendance. The city of Vancouver could support major league baseball and they'd have one of the more magnificent facilities in all of sport to play in.

So, the proceeds from the Pearson Cup go towards amateur baseball in Canada, which is fine and dandy. But unless the annual affair isn't taken more seriously in the future, you can expect sparse crowds.

Perhaps next year at the Olympic Stadium, we'll see Bill Stoneman leave the front office to pitch for the Expos in the 13th inning. Or maybe Bill Virdon will roam around in centrefield for a couple of innings.

And they say baseball men are a strange breed.

THEY'LL BE HERE

With all the hype surrounding the Olympics and the boycott by the Soviet Union and other communist countries, it's a refreshing thought that politics won't steal the spotlight with the Canada Cup hockey series this September.

Only World War III would stop the Russians from coming to North America to take part in the six-country tournament.

At least that's the word from Canada Cup chairman Alan Eagleson.

And why wouldn't the Russians want to come over here anyway? Just for showing up they get a minimum fee of $135,000 and another $100,000 if they win the whole shot.

Team Canada, or perhaps Team Edmonton (there should be a few Edmonton skaters on the roster) will be out to avenge an 8-1 humiliation against the Soviets in the finale of the 1981 Canada Cup.

No, there's no doubt the Russians will be here in September, especially when the green stuff is waved in their faces.

Politics may keep the Russians away from Los Angeles this summer, but when the topic of money arises, the Soviets are the same as the other countries which are involved in an international tournament. "They'll just take the money and run," as rock singer Steve Miller would say.

Racing a tradition for Theoret

by Peter Conway

CORNWALL — Jacques Theoret will never compete in the Daytona 500, but stock car racing has been his main love throughout his life.

So much so, you might say it's been a family tradition that has kept the Alexandria native racing around dirt tracks.

"We had a lot of cars at home and my father used to buy and re-sell cars. When I was eight years old I used to drive the cars around the field beside the house," says Theoret, who has been involved in stock car racing for 25 years.

Theoret, 39, owned his first racing car when he was 14 and had three cars a year later.

"I started racing competitively in 1959 at the old Alexandria Speedway. At that time we used to run Alexandria, Maxville and Fort Covington in the United States," says Theoret.

Nowadays, he can be found racing his late model 1983 Firebird around the dirt tracks at Cornwall Speedway, Brockville Speedway and Ottawa.

Since he first climbed behind the wheel of a car 25 years ago, Theoret's love for stock car racing has grown—to the point where he's been obsessed with racing.

"Five years ago I thought I'd never quit racing. It's sort of a sickness. I used to enjoy it more and thought it was a big kick. But I guess when I drive now I'm just out there to win—it's not just the fun of it anymore," he says.

A twist in Theoret's racing career occurred a year ago when he switched from dirt track racing to a paved track. He drove in the Quebec ACAS circuit, and while it was a new experience, it was a fulfilling decision.

"I just wanted to try racing on a paved track before I got too old. I finished fourth in points and there were 48 cars registered. I was pretty happy with a fourth-place finish. Some of the other drivers who had raced a long time on a paved track praised my driving."

Stock car racing isn't the glamor sport that Formula I auto racing is—at least not in Canada. Stock car racing in the United States, however, is big business.

Races such as the Daytona 500, or Michigan 500 attract drivers because of the huge amounts of prize money handed out to the winners.

For Theoret, there is no financial reward from stock car racing.

"It's almost become a millionaire's sport. Stock car racing used to be a hobby for some drivers. Years ago you bought a car for $300 and had it paid off within a couple of weeks. Now, you almost have to have a sponsor or be very secure financially. There is no financial reward from stock car racing—I pretty well do it for the love of the sport," says Theoret.

Theoret's pay cheque on a night may range from $300 to $2,250, the biggest haul in his career.

Most of his money from stock car racing goes towards the maintenance of the car. Maintaining a sound vehicle for the races is time consuming and his biggest headache.

"Stock car racing is a seven-day-a-week venture. There always maintenance to be done on the car. You wouldn't believe the time I spend getting the car ready for the races," he says.

Theoret travels to speedways with his brother Raymond, and Laurent Ladouceur, also of Alexandria.

Sunday night at Cornwall Speedway, Raymond Theoret placed first while brother Jacques came second and Ladouceur finished third in the feature race.

So, while Theoret and his fellow drivers travel around the area each weekend to race in various speedways from mid April to Labor Day weekend, there is not pot of gold for the winners at the finish line.

For Theoret, stock car racing has been a part of his life since an early age and it doesn't appear as if he's ready to retire just yet.

"My mother used to race, my brother Raymond races and my sister Betty even used to race at one time. And, I think my father could have even raced, but I think he was afraid of being beat by his sons and daughter and that's why he never got involved in racing," chuckled Theoret.

Glengarry captures boys EOSSA soccer title

PRESCOTT—Despite inclement weather, nothing could stop the Glengarry Gaels march towards the senior boys EOSSA soccer championship last Wednesday at South Grenville High School in Prescott.

The Gaels went through the six-team round-robin tournament undefeated. In the championship contest, Glengarry had little difficulty, blanking Perth Collegiate 5-0.

The championship marked the end of frustration for Gaels' coach Stanley Fraser, whose clubs had come close the last couple of years, but never were rewarded with a championship.

"We came so close the last couple of years and we finally won it this year. I'm not quite sure, but I would guess it's been about 10 years since a senior boys team last won EOSSA," said Fraser.

The Gaels' coach praised his team's effort, considering the horrible playing conditions.

"It was a terrible day, we had to play with a wet ball most of the time on a heavy field. A key factor is that we had a lot of depth and I played everyone," he said.

In the championship game, Lucien Koggel, who was outstanding throughout the tournament, scored a pair of goals while Benedict Phillips also chipped in with a pair. Brendon MacDonald completed the scoring.

The Gaels' biggest test came in their second game when they overcame a 1-0 deficit during a 3-1 win over Kingston's Bayridge.

"Our second game against Bayridge was the toughest. They took a 1-0 lead and we scored all of our goals in the last 20 minutes. Perth wasn't nearly as strong as Bayridge," said Fraser.

Koggel scored all the goals in the win over Bayridge.

In the opening game against Brockville's Grenville Christian College, Benedict Phillips, Lyndon Lewis and Brian McCormick scored for the Gaels in a 3-0 win. David Willard earned the shutout.

The Gaels travel to Toronto today (Wednesday) to compete in the OFSAA soccer championship which will be staged at Eglinton Flats Park on Thursday. The all-Ontario tourney will consist of 18 teams from across the province. Glengarry is guaranteed two games Thursday and will try to qualify for the second round Friday, which will see eight teams remaining. The consolation and championship games will be played Saturday.

Also making the trek will be the Glengarry senior girls soccer team who will be competing at OFSAA at Burlington. The senior girls won the EOSSA title on their home turf last fall.

Jacqueline Fraser's team is assured of three games in the 16-team tournament.

Mixed feelings for Pattyn after world championship

by Peter Conway

Johanne Pattyn has mixed feelings after competing in the Women's World Powerlifting Championships, held recently at Santa Monica, California.

Firs the good news: The Alexandria native finished fifth among 10 competitors in her weight category (97 pounds) and set two Canadian records.

The bad news: Pattyn felt she had an excellent chance of returning home with a third-place finish and a bronze medal if she hadn't been hampered by a back injury.

"I was happy to come fifth overall, but I was a little disappointed. I did less than what I usually lift in the dead lift event. My back was sore and it bothered me a lot," said Pattyn.

Pattyn's two Canadian records came in the squat (97.5 kilos) and in the bench press (55 kilos), sharing the record with Hamilton's Jennifer Bowler.

In the dead lift event, her total was 110 kilos.

Pattyn felt she may have knocked herself out of medal contention during the squat event after having to give up her third attempt because of a technical error.

"In the squat event there are certain rules you have to follow. Between the first and second attempts I jumped ahead 2½ kilos and should have moved up five kilos but I didn't know. I then lost my third attempt. That was a big disappointment for me, I would have had a better total in the squat event and a better total overall," says Pattyn.

The United States took the overall championship and gold medal in the 15-country meet. Walking off with the silver was Australia while the bronze went to Canada.

Pattyn plans to take a couple of weeks off from training before she starts preparing herself for upcoming meets.

The 1985 Women's World Powerlifting Championships will probably be held in Vienna, Austria, which is currently bidding to become the host country.

While Pattyn enjoyed the experience of competing in the World's, she was disappointed with the organization of the event.

In fact, she said, for an event which attracted competitors from all over the world, it was a disgrace to the powerlifters who were involved.

JOHANNE PATTYN

"It was very poorly organized. There was no publicity for the event and we're talking about a world championship here. The TV people were supposed to cover it and they changed their mind because it was so poorly organized," she said.

Giroux Sports not ready to give up title

Giroux Sports won the Alexandria Men's Fastball League pennant last season.

And, it appears they aren't ready to give up the title this season.

Giroux Sports ran their record to 4-0 in the young season Monday night at Island Park as they doubled Menard Farm Supply 6-3.

Giroux Sports did most of the damage in the third inning as they scored four runs. Menard Farm Supply trimmed the lead to 4-2 with single runs in the fifth and sixth innings, but Giroux Sports added two more runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Guy Quesnel earned his first victory of the season while Bob Latreille absorbed the loss.

In the first game of the evening, Alexandria Builder's Supply rallied from a 5-2 setback with three runs in the sixth inning to earn a 5-5 tie against defending champion Highland Motors.

Highland Motors scored all of their runs in the fifth inning.

Highland Motors' Jean-Luc Desautels and Alexandria Builders Supply's Claude Poulin pitched the seven innings for their respective clubs.

Last Sunday night, Alain Giroux scored the winning run in the sixth inning as Giroux Sports struggled to a 2-1 win over winless Sealtest.

Sealtest led 1-0 until the fourth inning after scoring their only run in the first inning.

Denis Guindon won the pitching duel over Sealtest's Donald Carriere.

Alexandria Builders Supply won their first game of the season last Thursday night with a 3-1 decision over Sealtest.

The winners scored their final two runs in the fourth inning while Sealtest's Alain Lajoie crossed the plate in the fifth inning.

Gerald Cholette was the winning pitcher while Donald Carriere was tagged with the loss.

In the second game of the evening, Highland Motors edged Menard Farm Supply 4-3.

Highland Motors scored two runs in the top of the first inning, one in the second and their final run which proved to the margin of victory came in the sixth inning when Luc Poirier belted a solo homer.

Trailing 4-0, Menard Farm Supply made the game close with two runs in the fifth inning and one in the sixth inning.

Jean-Luc Desautels was the winning pitcher while Richard Faubert took the loss, with relief help from Bob Latreille.

Squirts set for opener

Alexandria Giroux Sport Squirt Softball team kicks off its season in the Osnabruck Minor Softball League next Monday night when it travels to Kemptville.

The team is entering its first season in the seven-team league and will play a 12-game schedule.

Any spectators wishing to attend the game by bus with the team and need more information are asked to call Daniel Brunet at 525-1815 or 525-3899.

Triathlon to be held

On Monday, July 2, at 11 a.m. will be staged the first ever Alexandria Triathlon. This will be an extra special challenge to the area athletes at a time when triathlons are becoming popular all over North America.

Our local triathlong will include three miles of solo canoeing, 15 miles of bicycling and two miles of running. You do not have to be an expert to compete but a little training starting immediately would hlep you enjoy it more.

All entrants must register before June 24 at a fee of $5. Contact the organizer Maurice Deguire 525-4319 or Maurice Sauve, 525-2940.

Sooners' coach to attend dinner

Jim Daly, head coach of the Ottawa Sooners, who were last year's finalist in the Canadian National Football Championship, will be a head table guest at the 11th annual Alexandria Lion's Club Sportsman Awards Dinner, June 11 at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Joining Daly will be Glengarry's Allan Willard, field goal kicker for the Sooners.

Other confirmed head table guests include Brian Gilmour of the Huron Hockey School, Bob Murray of the Chicago Black Hawks, Cornwall's Micheline DesGrossiers, a member of Canada's Olympic Judo Team, former Ottawa Rough Rider defensive back Larry Gates, Alexandria's Johanne Pattyn, who finished fifth recently at the Women's World Powerlifting Championships, who will be joined by husband-coach Ron and the Eastern Ontario Junior champion Alexandria Glens will be honored with a tribute to coach and manager Chris and Yvonne MacDonell.

Tickets for the evening may be purchased through Lion's Club members or may be obtained at Marcel TV Furniture, Barbara's Store and at the Atlantic Hotel.

MacLeod's pair lifts Laggan in soccer

LOCHIEL—Laggan scored three goals in the first half en route to their first win of the season in a Glengarry Soccer League Senior Ladies' game last Thursday night at Lochiel.

Bonnie MacLeod led the winners with a pair of goals while Ann McPherson completed the scoring in a 3-1 win over defending champion Glen Sandfield.

Scoring for Glen Sandfield was Gisele Sauve.

Last Tuesday night, Betti Anne MacLeod registered the shutout as Dunvegan blanked Maxville 2-0. Dunvegan goals were scored by Bridget Kippen in the first half, and Tamara Lasalle in the second half.

In another Senior Ladies' game Saturday night, Alexandria doubled Dalkeith 4-2.

Alexandria's goals came from Cheryl McDougall, Lorraine Grant, Natalie Lapierre and Shannon Wightman. Replying for Dalkeith were Heather Baker and Leslie Howes.

Four Senior Men's games were played last week.

Tuesday night, Scott McDougall and Ed DeWitt tallied for Alexandria in a 2-0 win over Glen Nevis.

Steven MacPherson scored the game's only goal as Glen Nevis blanked the Glengarry Stars last Thursday night.

Last Friday night, Dunvegan and Lochiel played to a scoreless tie.

The following night, Lochiel scored twice in the second half to come away with a 3-2 squeaker over Pine Grove.

Scoring for Lochiel were Darrell Hay, Brian McCormick and Michael Baker. Kenny and Allen Barton were the marksmen for Pine Grove.

Last Wednesday's Senior Men's game between Glen Sandfield and Dunvegan was rained out.

Glen shows no pity

Defending champion Bonnie Glen needed only one inning to decide the outcome in their Alexandria Ladies' Softball League game last Tuesday night against RVA Steel—the first inning.

Bonnie Glen scored 28 runs in the first inning en route to a lopsided 36-2 win over RVA Steel.

Pam MacCulloch went the distance on the mound for the victory while Valerie Larocque was tagged with the loss.

RVA Steel's two runs were scored in the second inning.

In the nightcap, Jeannine Duperron earned the win as Glengarry Glass defeated GTL 13-3.

Rita Levac suffered the setback on the mound for GTL.

Last Wednesday's two games were postponed because of inclement weather and wet field conditions.

A.K. MacIsaac MacDonald inducted into Hall of Fame

by Angus H. McDonell

Glengarry's sport history relative to the Highland Games feature of caber tossing, throwing the hammer and weights as I have written many times, began when "Big Rory" MacLennan won the world's hammer throw crown in Toronto, May 24, 1865.

While researching Glengarry records to draft this week's Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame inductee biography, I browsed through University of Alberta's professor Gerald Redmond's book entitled, "The Sporting Scots." I learned that 25 years before "Big Rory" was acclaimed champion, Highland Games that included caber and weights tossing were held in Lancaster.

The Montreal Gazette sports page reported that Highland Games were held in Lancaster, June 30, 1840. The promoter was Colonel Carmichael. Among the prizewinners were: Captain James McDonell (The Glen); a Mr. Urquhart, River Raisin; James Williams and Duncan McLennan, Lancaster. Another report told of the Second Annual Caledonia Games, Montreal, 1857, when, "The Glengarry men took all before them in throwing the Weights and Quoits." Among the large crowd was John Sandfield Macdonald, then member of parliament, who "looked well and seemed to enjoy himself exceedingly." He became Ontario's first premier.

And there was another reference to the greatness of our pioneer athletes in the Canadian Illustrated News, July 8, 1871. "At the 16th annual Gathering of the Montreal Caledonia Society, Robert Fraser from Glengarry, famous as the man who took 14 prizes in New York one day, was invincible and carried off the first prize for everything he entered," it stated.

Sixty years later from the Highland Games and heavy events competitions in Lancaster, takes us to the turn of the century. And our sport history has again recorded that great athletes were upholding our heritage in 1900 as their ancestors did on and before 1840.

Among the Glengarry athletic leaders of skill and brawn in the era leading up to the turn of the century there was a unique budding champion by the name of Alexander MacDonald. He was a son of James Edward MacDonald and his wife the former Katherine O'Brien. He was born May 24, 1874, at Loch Garry.

Alexander, as you would expect, became just plain Alex. However, to this abbreviation there had to be a further "tag" to differentiate Alex "MacIsaac" MacDonald from other like-name clansmen. After all there was next-of-kin "Big Alex MacIsaac" MacDonald. The problem was solved, for the time being, by calling this young lad in contrast, "Little Alex Jimmy." (His father was James.)

All was well until "Little Alex Jimmy" MacIsaac was nearing maturity, a six-foot, 200-pound athlete competing against, among others, "Big Alex MacIsaac." "Little Alex Jimmy" came up with the solution. "Little and Jimmy" were eliminated. Alex changed to the initial "A." Added to the "A" in rhythm and sound was "K" instead of Jimmy. Now no confusion. This athlete was known throughout the rest of his illustrious life as "A.K. MacIsaac."

A. K., when just a growing boy, attended school in Loch Garry. His mother did not enjoy normal health. To lighten her household duties, son Alex lived with his father's two sisters, Nancy and Katie and brother Dan MacDonald. Their home was near the Chapel, second farm east of Greenfield Road. A.K. gained a bit more than the average farm boy's "schooling": he passed the entrance but never attended high school.

It was only natural that A.K.'s first love would be athletics, especially track and field. Loch Garry, Apple Hill and Greenfield were known beyond the boundaries of the Glens for the prowess of their athletes. There was "Big Sandy Archie," a brother of "Baldy Archie" MacDonald, who set caber, hammer and weights distance records at Highland Games in Vancouver after blazing a similar trail in Glengarry. And there was "Big Alex MacIsaac," a protege of "Big Rory" MacLennan.

At an Alexandria field day, May 24, 1892, and only 18 years old, A.K. competed with noted older athletes. He was impressive and as we say in sport jargon, "he never looked back."

Field days were a holiday tradition sport feature. Again in Alexandria, May 24, 1900, now fully matured, A.K. competed in every event and won the all-round championship. A gold medal with that inscription was presented by Col. R. R. (Big Rory) MacLennan. This was a unique feat. Very few athletes could toss a caber and then pick up a pole and be a winner in pole vaulting. Very few athletes after throwing the hammer or the "56" could compete in a 100 yards dash, broad or high jump. A.K. was the complete athletic competitor at any field day. And adding to his prestige was his affable personality.

While amassing silver cups, gold and silver medals and merchandise awards, A.K. enjoyed a social life as well. On January 26, 1904, Alexander MacDonald married Agnes Ann (Alex Roy) MacDonald in their Greenfield parish church. They became the parents of four girls and four boys. A granddaughter is the widely and popularly known hostess of Priest's Mill, Mrs. Ewen (Agnes) McDonald. Her given name obviously that of her grandmother Agnes.

Also in 1904, A.K. joined the 59th summer trainees. He became Sergeant-Major of the local company. At Petawawa and Barriefield Camp field days he was among the leaders including captain of the tug-of-war champions.

During World War One there were no sport events. Activity resumed in 1919 and at a meet in Williamstown, June 3, 1919, A.K. won three silver medals. Then on July 1, at Glengarry's monster field day at the Alexandria Fair Grounds, history repeated itself. A.K. MacIsaac again was the winner of five medals and the gold emblematic of the all-round championship. He was 45 years of age and that has to be a record of athletic longevity.

A.K. was interesting and entertaining in conversation. Quick with a quip, he enjoyed recalling unusual sport experiences. There was the Cornwall field day. Instead of driving a horse he would ride his bicycle. A blacksmith welded flanges on the bicycle fork. Descending a long grade, no coaster brake, he put his feet on the flanges, rolled down the hill thus saving energy. He won a bag of flour. No way he could ride home shouldering a bag of flour so he gave the flour to St. Paul's Home for the Aged.

In a Williamstown meet he broke his vaulting pole. Not to miss his turn, A.K. ran over to a gate, took off the small top pole, hustled back and won the pole vaulting prize.

At the Caledonia Games, Montreal, he was only a spectator. Friends urged him to compete. He was lacking athletic attire, so a Montreal Glengarrian wearing white duck pants, now slacks, took A.K. to the dressing room and exchanged trousers. With a pocket knife they cut the duck pants at the knees, adding a sweater and he won more medals.

Nearing athletic retirement A.K. didn't stand by idly in his home admiring in retrospect a dozen silver cups and some 50 medals won at Glengarry, Cornwall, Ottawa, Upper Ottawa Valley (Golden Lake), Montreal Caledonia and M.A.A.A. track and field competitions. He turned his athletic leadership talents to community endeavors—the concession school board, election Returning Officer, road commissioner, Kenyon and Counties council. All neighborly deeds.

Then, as has happened so often to great athletes throughout the world, tragedy struck. On Sunday afternoon, June 11, 1944, sunshine was turned to a pall of gloom. Via telephone and radio a sad message was flashed across the Glens. Our beloved great athlete A.K. and his devoted wife were killed instantly in a car-train crash, C.P.-Chapel Road crossing. They were on their way to visit their daughter Theresa, Mrs. Alex Kennedy and family.

The following Wednesday a sympathizing multitude of relatives, friends and sportsmen attended the funeral mass in Greenfield. I will conclude this biography, a part of A.K.'s Sports Hall of Fame induction, with the same words I wrote, following the funeral, almost 40 years ago in a News tribute headed, "It was good to have known A.K."

Getting ready

The Alexandria Centennial is offering two prime population competitions during their week-long celebrations.

Starting on Sunday, June 24 at 11 a.m. is the annual canoe races held on the local lake. A special challenge is sent to all high school students and the even younger set. To accommodate these teens, several categories are set up for them. These are: 16 to 18 yrs. old; 13 to 15 yrs. old; 10 to 12 yrs. old; and 9 years or less.

The other categories are men's, ladies, mix, solo, and parent-child. People of all ages are invited and completing the course is already a victory. The men's race is six miles or four rounds of the lake.

An athlete or citizen fun competitor should never feel embarrassed about entering a race. It takes much training and racing before a competitor can even think of breaking into the top positions in the men's and women's divisions. Just being in the same race as top Ontario competitors is already an experience in itself for a participant. This is where you learn techniques.

OFFICIAL OPENING—The South Lancaster area welcomed a new business on Thursday with the grand opening of the Auld Kirktown Cheese Shoppe. Owners Ranald, right, and Madeleine MacDonald, left, had SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and Glengarry Dairy Princess Karen Kennedy on hand to handle the ribbon cutting duties. The four employees in the back row are, from the left, Susan MacLachlan, 1982-1983 Glengarry Dairy Princess Shannon Kennedy, Alexandria Centennial Queen Ann McPherson and Lisa Moffatt.

RIDING IN STYLE—When Oakley and Dorothy Bush of Alexandria go for a ride, people sit up and take notice. Thursday morning the couple took a leisurely ride down Highway 34 to South Lancaster for the opening of the Auld Kirktown Cheese Shoppe. Their carriage is a Glentleman's Wicker Basket Phaeton, circa 1920.

District Annual attended by 87 members

Eighty-seven members attended the 69th District Annual, held in St. Andrew's Church, South Lancaster, May 26. Mrs. Arthur Smith, alternate Board Director gave the address of welcome, from Picnic Grove, the host branch. Greetings and introduction of guests, coming from Stormont and Prescott was given by Mrs. Harvey MacMillan, District President, who also spoke on the theme—1784—A Proud Heritage—1984. What road did our ancestors travel? The road was not easy but they carried on, so that we might have it easier. By looking back we can go on with courage. Each of the 23 Junior WI Branches have planted a maple tree around the Women's Institute Hall at the Agriculture Museum at Milton, Ontario.

A very impressive Memorial Service was lead by Mrs. Henry Breuers in memory of two Martintown members who passed away this year.

Mrs. Lynus MacPherson, Board Director, had a pictorial display of Women's Institute projects. Each daisy petal was filled with an achievement. P.R.O. display by Mrs. H. Fourney featured the Clean Water for All by 1990 project. The 4-H Club display, District Tweedsmuir history book, Glengarry History books, quilts and small antique articles were of interest to the members.

Mrs. Muriel MacLachlan was the luncheon speaker, delivering an excellent report of the ACWW Conference held in Vancouver. As ACWW members come from all over the world, the business sessions were long and complicated but there was time off for fun and entertainment which is provided by the different countries attending the conference.

Kathleen Ryan, Glengarry's new ROS was in attendance. Kathy Simpson RO specialist, Home Economics, gave her report on Glengarry 4-H Clubs and adult programs. The Rural Organization and service branch is now two years old. Branch Thrusts are 1st 4-H program, 2, Leadership Development, 3, Food and Nutrition Programs, 4, Farm Labor Communication (workshop coming up), 5, Education in and out of the classroom. One hopes by 1985 Grade 9 Science Classes will study Agriculture and Food.

Reports of Standing Committees were given by the conveners, each one reporting a successful year. A local resolution was passed, requesting the Alexandria Council to make a bylaw concerning the displaying of pornographic literature. The members feel that without a bylaw, once the pressure is off, the displaying of this literature, it will again be placed in full view of the public.

A Pennies for Friendship Ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Fourney, assisted by Mrs. L. MacPherson. Money also was given for the Clean Water for All project. Two-thirds of FWIC members belong to Ontario. Seven new branches have been started in the last three years. Members are being asked for one dollar each to by Trillium Pins for those attending the next FWIC Triennial Conference which will be held in London, Ont., June 1985. Ontario delegates will be wearing a pale blue scarf with a trillium motif. A gavel was presented to be used by the District President. This was a bicentennial input by our board director. Prizes were donated by Rozon Insurance, won by Mrs. Peggy Collier of Dunvegan, V&H Equipment won by Mrs. O. Legroulx, Bainsville and Munro Feed, won by Mrs. L. MacPherson, McCrimmon. Mrs. Albert Seguin was organist for the day. Mrs. Alex Lalonde, Sec.-Treas., reported $500 has come from the Area Sec. Treas. which is Glengarry's share of the profits from the Area Cookbook.

Calf club meeting

by Kimberly Aube

The third meeting of the Sandringham 4-H Calf Club was held at the farm of Andre Villeneuve. The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge, followed by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

The club then judged a class of cattle.

Jackie Jans spoke to us about cow selection, production and type. A social hour followed.

The next meeting will be held at the farm of Gerald Jans on June 12.

Baxter, Whitford excel at games

NAPANEE-Two Glengarry athletes and three from Cornwall turned in outstanding performances over the weekend at the Eastern Ontario Games for the Physically Disabled at Napanee District High School.

Maxville's John Baxter placed first in the discus event and was the best performer in the weightlifting competition, placing first in the bench press, squat and deadlift portions. He also came first in the shotput and javelin events. Baxter will travel to St. Louis, Missouri, June 4, to compete in the American National Games for the Blind at St. Louis University.

Meanwhile, Martintown's Glen Whitford was named the outstanding senior cerebral palsy athlete and was awarded a trophy for his effort.

He came first in the javelin, club throw, shotput and wheelchair race and placed second in the discus.

Whitford will travel to Long Island, New York, June 16, to compete in the Olympic Games for Cerebral Palsy, which will be held at Hoffstra University.

The Martintown native also took part recently in the Michigan Regional Games for Cerebral Palsy. He came first in the shotput, second in the javelin, relay and club throws events and third in the discus.

Cornwall athletes who distinguished themselves over the weekend were Jacques Burell, Rene Tessier and Robert Asselin. Burell qualified in the air pistol, discus and javelin. Tessier placed first in shotput and discus and second in the javelin and archery events. Competing in class eight in the cerebral palsy category, Robert Asselin qualified in the club throw, discus, shotput and weightlifting.

The Eastern Ontario Games for the Physically Disabled will be held June 1 and 2 next year in Ottawa.

Seguin scores five

Leo Seguin scored five times as Dalbec Express romped to an easy 17-2 win over Glen Nevis in an Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League contest last Tuesday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Also scoring for the winners were Frank St. Pierre with four, Maurice Bellefeuille with three, Leonard Seguin with two, and singles by Grant Crack, Luc Menard and John Shago.

Scoring for Glen Nevis were Carter MacDonald and Bob Sonnel.

Gilles Massia's three goals lifted Miller Hughes to a 6-2 win over Cathy's BBQ.

Also scoring for Miller Hughes were Kevin Massia with a pair, and Michael Taillon.

Richard Chabot and Claude Deschamps replied for Cathy's BBQ.

Chez Paul humiliated Glengarry Service Centre 12-0. Roland Schroeder paced Chez Paul with seven goals while Todd Hambleton chipped in with a pair. Singles went to Brian Rattray, John Prieur and David McKay.

Mark Titley scored all of his team's goals as Dunvegan nipped Lortie Gas Bar 3-2.

Scoring for Lortie Gas Bar were Rejean Duperron and Denis Lauzon.

Dalbec Express and Dunvegan are tied for first place in the A Division with four points each, while Glen Nevis and Lortie Gas Bar are winless.

In the B Division, Miller Hughes and Dalhousie share top spot with four points each while Glengarry Service Centre and Cathy's BBQ have yet to win a game.

Char-Lan rallies

MORRISBURG—What a difference 24 hours makes.

Char-Lan United won their second consecutive Cornwall and District Women's Soccer League pre-season tournament last Saturday, blanking host Seaway Spartans 2-0 in the championship final.

However, on the same field the following day, the two teams squared off in the league opener with the contest ending in a 2-2 deadlock.

Char-Lan United, which trailed 2-0, received goals from Carol Gordon and Brenda Golden.

In the tournament final, Karen Fairweather, and Sandy Gibson on a penalty kick, were the goal scorers for Char-Lan United.

Char-Lan United men's squad in the First Division, struggled to a 1-1 tie against Cornwall Rangers.

The Rangers jumped ahead 1-0 mid way in the first half on a goal from Claude Halle.

Char-Lan United drew even 15 minutes into the second half as Rodney Parkinson tallied.

Char-Lan United opened their season last Wednesday at Morrisburg, squeaking past Seaway Spartans 2-1.

Chris Smith and Alan Brown were the marksmen for Char-Lan United. Rodney Parkinson drew assists on both goals.

Last Thursday night at Char-Lan High School, Cornwall City tallied with three minutes left in the second half, snapping a 1-1 tie and came away with a 2-1 victory over Char-Lan U 2's. Scoring for the U 2's was Guy Dubeau.

Two games will be played this weekend at Williamstown. Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m., Char-Lan United women play against Johnny Mac's followed by a men's contest at noon with Char-Lan U 2's playing Avonmore Pacers.

Char-Lan United play at First Division game Sunday night at Cornwall at 6 p.m. against Cornwall City.

In Memoriam

BLANCHETTE—In loving memory of a dear father, Felix, who passed away on May 26, 1979.
Dear Dad, we never shall forget you,
Sweet memories cling round your name,
True hearts that in life always loved you
Will love you in death just the same.
—Sadly missed by Esther and family. 22-1p

MACCUAIG—In loving memory of my dear father Dan MacCuaig who passed away June 2nd, 1951.
Some may forget you now that your gone, but I will remember no matter how long.
—Forever remembered by daughter Mary Belle, Lancaster, Ont.
22-1p

RICHER—In memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather Albert who passed away May 30, 1983.
Dear Dad, one year has passed but we never shall forget you,
Gone are the days we all used to share.
But in our hearts we shall always have fond memories everyday of all the good years you gave to us.
How often we shed silent tears that no one hears.
We now realize that God knows best and came to take you to his time of rest.
—Sadly missed and always loved by your daughters: Mr. & Mrs. Hector Doré and family and Mr. & Mrs. Jean Claude Séguin and family.

Tom Nightingale

Tom Nightingale, 86, died at the Maxville Manor on Wed., May 23, 1984.

Mr. Nightingale, who had lived at the Manor for 10 years, was born in Withnell, Lancashire, England on July 21, 1898. He emigrated to this country in February, 1923 and lived at Cooper's Falls and Milton before he and his wife moved to Windsor where they lived until 1974.

Mr. Nightingale retired from the Windsor Utilities Commission in 1963 after working for the body for 34 years. He was a member of the United Church of Canada and had been a member of the Congregational Church in England. He served as elder and honorary elder of Westminster Church in Windsor, until he moved to Maxville. For many years he served as a volunteer with the St. John's Ambulance Corps in Windsor. He was a veteran of the First World War, serving for four and half years.

Although he wasn't a native of the Glengarry area, Mr. Nightingale became well known in the region and attended Maxville United Church regularly until he suffered a stroke in 1977.

He was predeceased by his parents, Samuel Bright Nightingale and Mary (nee Brownlow), wife Gertrude (nee Denham) and sister Rose of England. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. William (Violet) Heap of Tasmania, Australia, a daughter, Mrs. James (Jane) A. Wightman of Alexandria, a son, Thomas Irwin of Kanata, grandchildren Janice Anne Tobin of Montreal, Lynn Allison King of Pointe Claire, Margo Lee and Thomas William Nightingale of Kanata, and great-grandsons Christopher Morgan King of Pointe Claire and Ryan Patrick Tobin of Montreal.

Funeral services were held in the Church on the Hill on Friday, May 25 at 2 p.m. Rev. Janice Stephenson officiated, assisted by Rev. Frank Bailey and interment followed at Alexandria United Church Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Tom Nightingale, Michael Tobin, Archie Stewart, Glen Smith, Oakley Bush and Alex McNaughton.

Funeral services were held from Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday, May 23 at 2 p.m. Father Roger Desrosiers officiated and interment followed at the church cemetery. Father Desrosiers was assisted by Msgr. Donald B. McDougald, Rev. Raymond Dumoulin and Rev. Gerald Poirier.

The pallbearers, four grandsons and two nephews, were Andre Marcoux, Pierre Lefebvre, Michael and Richard Williams, Richard and Yvon Dumouchel.

Rose Fournier

Rose Fournier, 87, died at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital on Tuesday, May 15, 1984.

Mrs. Fournier, of the Community Nursing Home and formerly of Lochiel, was born in Greenfield on April 11, 1897, the daughter of Christopher Picher and Marie Louise (nee Lobb).

She was predeceased by husband Fred Fournier, sons Wilmer and Lawrence and is survived by sons Rheal of Alexandria and Fred Jr. of Cornwall and sister Melvina Massia of Cornwall.

Visitation was at the Morris Funeral Home with funeral services to St. Alexander's Church in Lochiel on Thursday, May 17 at 11 a.m. Interment followed at the parish cemetery and pallbearers were Joe (Laurier) Massia, Leo Brunet, Reg Fournier, Roger Phare, Bobby Young and David Hughes.

Josephus Lefebvre

Josephus Lefebvre, 71, died at the Hotel Dieu Hospital on Sunday, May 27, 1984.

Mr. Lefebvre, of 130 Dominion Street South, was born in Glen Robertson on September 25, 1912, the son of Ovide Lefebvre and Emily (nee Lajeunesse).

He was predeceased by three brothers and three sisters and is survived by several nieces and nephews and by a brother Rudolphe of Alexandria.

Visitation was at the Munro Funeral Home with funeral service to Sacred Heart Church on Wednesday, May 30 at 2 p.m. Interment followed at the parish cemetery.

Flora Clyne

At age 102, Mrs. Flora A. Clyne died May 21 at the Eden Park Nursing Home, Utica, N.Y.

Mrs. Clyne was born November 15, 1881 in Alexandria, the daughter of John Shaw and his wife, Anne McRae. In 1905, in Montreal, she married Edward Clyne and they had resided in Utica since. He died in 1961.

Mrs. Clyne was a member of the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary, New Hartford.

Surviving Mrs. Clyne are two daughters, Mrs. David (Anne) Pyne of New Hartford and Miss Marietta F. Clyne of Utica; one son, Thomas S. Clyne of Utica; and several grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews. She was predeceased by one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Gladys) Smith and one son, John E. Clyne.

The funeral was held May 23rd to Our Lady of the Rosary Church, with interment in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Whitesboro.

Grant for Williamsburg

TORONTO — Noble Villeneuve, MPP for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, recently announced a $22,700 provincial interest-free loan for the Township of Williamsburg under Ontario's municipal non-profit housing program.

Speaking on behalf of Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Claude Bennett, Mr. Villeneuve said incentive grants and interest-free loans are being made to municipalities developing non-profit rental housing for the first time.

In an effort to encourage more municipalities to become involved in municipal non-profit housing, municipalities are being allocated funds to cover costs incurred at the preliminary and development stages.

The Township of Williamsburg has already received a $3,000 provincial grant and a $23,600 loan. Most of the $22,700 loan announced today will be used for technical consultants' contracts. The ministry loans are scheduled for repayment at the time of the first mortgage advance.

A 34-unit senior citizen rental building is being developed by the Williamsburg Non-Profit Housing Corporation on Park Drive. The development will contain 26 one-bedroom and eight two-bedroom apartments in a walk-up building.

Under the ministry's municipal non-profit housing program, a federal rent reduction grant from Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation reduces the effective interest rate on loans from private lending institutions to two per cent. When required, the province offers an additional rent reduction grant of up to 100 per cent of the federal assistance.

These rent reduction grants are used to maintain overall rents at market levels, and to subsidize rent-geared-to-income units. If additional funds were required, they would be shared on a 50:50 ratio between the federal and provincial governments.

Up to 50 per cent of the occupants in senior citizens buildings pay rent based generally on incomes. The remainder of the tenants pay market rents.

Lancaster has new slogan

by Sheila Urquhart

LANCASTER — Celebrate With Us! We now have a slogan, thanks to Stephanie Page of Lancaster Township Area Public School who unwittingly supplied it when she entered the poster contest.

The three members of the Glengarry Historical Society who served as judges certainly had their work cut out for them as the youngsters who entered posters had shown creativity, knowledge of history and much effort. "Best of the Show" was given to Marylaine Leger of Ecole Ste. Therese, North Lancaster. First prizes were won by Sonia Robitaille, Jennifer Astle, Marjolaine Besner and Julie Hallberg. Honorable mention was given to Luc Elie, Bobby Hamelin, Jose Bourdeau and John Maville. The three schools participating were Ecole St. Joseph, Ecole Ste. Therese and Lancaster Township Area Public School. All of the entries will be on display throughout the month—please make a point to see them.

We're starting to look like we're having a party. Flags are flying on the streets, commemorative buttons depicting our logo, The Cairn, have been given out to the staffs and children of our schools, as well as merchants in the area. Children living in Lancaster Township but attending schools elsewhere are asked to contact this writer for a button. Arrangements are being made to make these bicentennial buttons available to others.

The Red Geranium has been chosen as our bicentennial flower and it is hoped that all residents will take advantage of this rather inexpensive way to decorate windows, yards, planters, etc. Lancaster Flower Shop and Gauthier's Greenhouse are offering a discount on Red Geraniums to all who can prove residence in Lancaster Township. Canadian, Ontario and Scottish flags are available for purchase at the Glens Hardware and Leroux's Supply.

Knox Bargain Centre already has a beautiful display of artifacts in their windows including our reasons to be thankful for indoor plumbing. Their display is worth a trip down Main Street so don't miss it. Mr. Russell and his staff at Lancaster Pharmacy have their costumes ready and special plans are being formulated for their weekend of celebrations. Ditto for Helen and Lynn at the Village Pantry who will be serving coffee and muffins on that big morning at some long-forgotten prices. Vince and Pat Leroux are hard at work building and stocking a rather unique bar which will be serving such thirst-quenchers as strawberry vinegar—wonder how much competition that will be for their neighbors at the corner.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is planning an historic display of their church life and their ladies will be serving luncheon after the open-air ecumenical service. A rather unique and meaningful contribution to the day's celebration is a marriage renewal ceremony to be held in the afternoon at Knox United Church. Rev. Dave Shepherd and their organist, Ann Kans are planning a brief but beautiful ecumenical service and anyone wishing to participate should contact Dave.

There has been good response by Women's Institute Branches and others to set up displays in St. Joseph's Parish Hall. Alex Fraser says there is room for four more displays and please contact him to reserve space. More next week.

Town Council hires students

Alexandria Town Council has agreed to hire 10 students to help out in the Parks and Recreation Department this summer.

At its meeting on May 22 council agreed to hire six lifeguards for local beaches, one swimming instructor, two playground supervisors and an arts and crafts supervisor. The student's employment will run from the end of June to sometime around Labor Day.

Town Council accepts bid

Alexandria Town Council has accepted the bid of Auto Curb Construction Ltd., for the construction of curbs and sidewalks on Harrison and Gernish Streets.

At its May 22 meeting council accepted the Ottawa firm's bid of slightly more than $29,000 for the job. Work is expected to begin shortly.

Flowers stolen

Vandals wasted no time in assaulting the new flower pot trees erected throughout Alexandria recently as part of the town's effort to celebrate its 100th anniversary.

Alexandria police report flowers were stolen from the steel trees in three locations over the weekend; near Sacred Heart Church, near the water tower, and along Hwy. 34 at the south entrance to town.

"It's a shame people can't leave them alone," Police Chief Norm Mailhot said Monday. "The town is trying to pretty up for its centennial and a few people are spoiling the effort."

The crime makes no sense, he said, arguing there should be enough civic pride in everyone in this centennial year that such vandalism can be avoided.

The Senate is in session at McDonald's barbershop

by Bruce Hayes

It seems that most small towns and villages have at least one place where the locals gather on a regular basis to discuss world events, review the latest hockey game, lambaste politicians and catch up on all the local gossip.

For many long time residents of the Alexandria area that special meeting place has been McDonald's Barbershop on Main Street South.

The shop hasn't changed much since owner Gerald McDonald first opened his doors for business on Jan. 30, 1945. A Coke machine sits in the corner as it has since Mr. McDonald bought it in 1955—although it no longer dispenses drinks for a dime as it says on the outside.

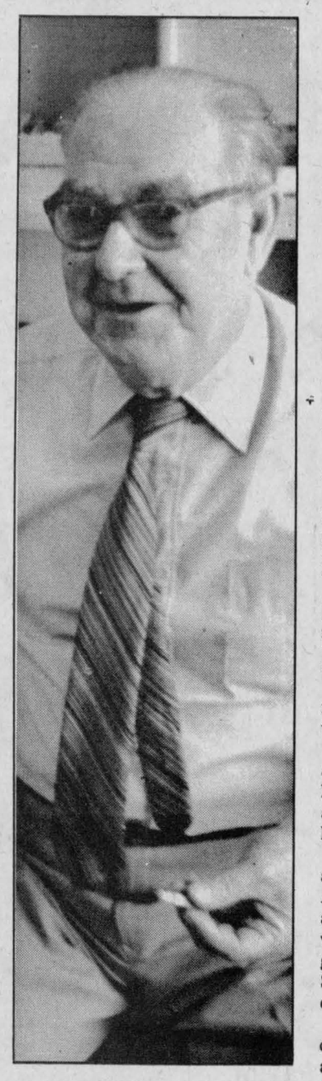
Now 68, Mr. McDonald says he doesn't do too much haircutting anymore, although many regulars still drop by to catch up on all the latest news and swap some stories.

"I'm not here enough to do much cutting," he said. "Just some of my old customers and the pensioners I'll do. Whenever I'm well I'll put in a few hours in the morning and afternoon. I took a few months off in the winter (due to illness). That's the way it's been all down through the years, people don't know if I'm here or in the hospital."

Mr. McDonald bought the barbershop in 1945 from the previous barber Joe Lalonde. Mr. Lalonde had owned the shop since 1904, "and I don't know who owned it before that."

Mr. McDonald says at one time the barbershop belonged to the Alexandria Hotel next door and the buildings were joined by a common second storey.

"At one time there was a law office and a doctor's office upstairs," he said. "In 1922 there was a fire that cut the top stories off and they just kept it off here."



GERALD McDONALD

. . . an opinion on everything, and then some.

Mr. McDonald received his training in 1935 in Ottawa at a barber school he thinks was located on Dalhousie Street. From 1935 to 1940 he had a barbershop in Martintown and in 1940 he joined the RCAF, "that was when it was still the RCAF before that rat of a (then Minister of Defense) Paul Hellyer changed it."

The war years saw him serving in places such as Saskatoon, Aylmer and St. Thomas as a parts officer. As soon as he received his leave at the end of the war he bought the shop and set up business—although being a businessman wasn't as easy as he had thought.

"At that time I charged 35 cents for a haircut," he said. "The Wartime Prices and Trade Board was still around then and you had to apply to them for a raise in pay or you didn't get it. They were effective at what they did, but when the war was over you figured you could get into business on your own, but they still kept at it."

Mr. McDonald said he first got into barbering because "you had to do something."

"I had a wife and four children at home and they had to be fed," he said. "In the 1930s if you had any trade at all you were damn lucky to be working in it."

In its heyday a regular group of about 15 or 20 people from Alexandria and the surrounding area would drop in the shop for a visit or a haircut. Eventually the group became known as the Senate—a place where important decisions were made.

"All the old regulars have died off," he said. "We'd talk about anything that's going on during the day, who's dead, who's getting married. A lot have come and gone since I started in '45. There's only a few of us left in the Senate."

One of the surviving Senate members is Gabe Aubry, who dropped into the shop for a smoke and a chat.

"Everybody who came in here was the Senate," he said. "They all gave their two cents worth and we took it and that was all."

Mr. Aubry said the Senate soon became famous—or infamous—for pulling jokes and starting rumors, but "we got blamed for a lot of things we didn't do."

One thing the Senators did indulge in was gambling on the sports pools.

"We had pools way back about 30 years ago," Mr. McDonald said. "Now they have lotteries which are no fun at all. We'd have a 25 cent limit and you could bet on baseball, hockey, boxing, football, the Kentucky Derby and just about anything else."

"Anything we could bet on, we would bet," Mr. Aubry said. "It wasn't Las Vegas style, it was our style. We had more fun bickering over it than winning it."

Mr. Aubry said he still comes around "just to see if I can convert him (to the Liberal Party) before he dies."

Mr. McDonald says there isn't much chance that he will change his political loyalties, adding "I have to go Conservative because he (Mr. Aubry) is Liberal and I don't agree with him and he doesn't agree with me."

Mr. McDonald has seen a lot of changes from his shop window. He says Alexandria's Main Street still looks the same as it always has but the areas surrounding it have been built up. In spite of the changes, he still thinks Alexandria is a good place to live.

"It's still a good place to be," he said. "This is the best town in Ontario, but you'd better not tell (Ontario Premier William) Davis or he won't give us any more grants."

A PLACE TO CHAT—Alexandria resident John Myles Kennedy is one of the regulars who can be found at Gerald McDonald's Barbershop on Main Street South. While Mr. McDonald says he doesn't cut too much hair anymore, the place is still a popular destination for long time local residents.

Both Mr. Aubry and Mr. McDonald agree that places where people can stop in just for a visit and not have to buy anything are disappearing.

"Places like these are gone," Mr. McDonald said. "There's no place where you can congregate anymore, unless it's a coffee shop where you can stop in and find out who's dead, who's living and who's getting married. People have changed, things are moving too fast. People are in too much of a hurry. A lot of people used to come in looking for a haircut and think there were too many ahead of them. But many of them would just be people who dropped in."

Mr. McDonald isn't sure how much longer he'll keep his shop open saying, "I'd have retired this winter if I knew what to do with myself. I come here to pass the time."

In spite of the lean times and the long hours—he'd sometimes be cutting hair from 7:30 a.m. to 7 or 8 p.m.—Mr. McDonald admits he's enjoyed himself and if he had to do it all over again he'd probably end up in the same place.

"I've always been happy," he said. "I've met a lot of people, all nice people and everything has kept me happy. I've always enjoyed it. It's someplace to go to meet old customers and old friends. I stay until 3 or 3:30 p.m., then I just stroll on and go home and read the paper."
