Many area schools record a drop in enrolment

Nine out of 18 Glengarry schools that have enrolment figures available have dropped in enrolment. Eight schools show an increase in students and one school had no change.

Two Alexandria area separate schools, Ste. Marie and Laurier-Carriere, had no figures available. The Sacred Heart School in Martintown was the only institution closed this year.

Tagwi High School was not included in the overall figures for the county since The News has no way of telling how many Glengarry students attend. This high school shows the largest decrease in the United Counties, dropping from 911 to 790. The low numbers forced the dismissal of 10 teaching positions, lowering the staff from 61 to 51.

With the exception of these three schools, Glengarry's primary and secondary school enrolment is down 26 students from last year. According to calculations made at The News, the student population for the schools with figures listed, adds up to 4,385 for this year. Last year's total was 4,411.

The teaching staff for the same schools has dropped from 255.9 in 1978-79 to 246.4 in 1979-80.

Both of Glengarry's High Schools showed a jump in enrolment. Glengarry District in Alexandria has reached its largest ever student body with 1,115 pupils, compared to 1,084 in 1978-79. GDHS was also one of the few schools to increase its teaching staff, from 68.5 to 69.

Char-Lan District in Williamstown went from 485 students last year to 515 this year. The teaching staff dropped from 33 to 32.

Of the eight primary public schools in Glengarry, five dropped in enrolment. The Martintown Public School was hardest hit, with the student body dropping from 148 to 130. The teaching staff barely changed, from 7.5 to 7.4.

Maxville's Senior School dropped almost as much, from 92 last year to 75 this year. The teaching staff went from five to four.

Laggan Public School went from 258 to 249 students, eliminating only one-half of a teaching position.

Glen Walter lost eight students, but they will be taught by four teachers, no change from last year's staff that handled 91 pupils.

Lancaster Township Public School lost only one student, making a total of 82 this year. The teaching staff remained at 3.7.

The Williamstown Public School showed an increase of 13 students, from 238 to 251. The teaching positions rose from 12.2 to 12.4.

Maxville's Public School also increased its student body, from 175 to 181. The teachers dropped, however, from 10.5 to 9.4.

Lancaster Public School's 3.9 teachers will be instructing 86 pupils this year, a jump over last year's enrolment of 74.

Five out of eight separate schools in Glengarry dropped in enrolment this year. Rouleau School in Alexandria was affected most, with a drop from 305 to 249. The teaching staff went from 19 to 17.5.

Also losing ground in the student figures is Alexandria's St. Joseph's School. Enrolment there went from 218 last year to 207 this year, with the teachers remaining at 12.5.

Lancaster's St. Joseph also decreased, from 91 to 82. The staff stayed at 4.5.

Perpetual Help School in Alexandria dropped from 324 to 314 students. One teaching position was eliminated, bringing the number to 14.

The fifth separate school to show a decrease is St. Therese in North Lancaster. The student body went from 109 to 105, with the teaching staff dropping to five from 6.5 last year.

Iona Academy in St. Raphael's showed the largest increase in students among the separate schools while experiencing the highest decrease in teachers. The students jumped from 309 to 324, but 2.3 teaching positions were eliminated, putting the staff at 13.7.

Alexandria's Alexander School will be educating 243 students this year, an increase over last year's 239. The teachers will stay at 13.

The other separate school to show an increase in students was St. Bernard's in Maxville. The enrolment there went from 76 to 82, with no change in the teacher complement of five.

Harmony Glen School in Alexandria remains constant, with 12 students and 2.6 teachers.

School board wants input

A series of public meetings will be held by SD&G Roman Catholic School Board this fall to obtain public input on how the board can improve communications.

In this area, meetings will be held at Elda-Rouleau, Sandfield Street, Alexandria, Monday, October 22; Saint-Joseph, Lancaster, Thursday, October 25; St. Andrews, St. Andrews West, Wednesday, November 7; and La Source, Moose Creek, Monday, October 15.

All meetings run from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Briefs must be sent "no later than September 27," a board release states. Interested parties are being asked to forward their written submissions to Jean-Guy Gauthier, Superintendent of Education, SD&G RCSS Board, 1104 First Street East, Cornwall, Ontario K6H 5S8.

The board's "Commission of Inquiry on Communications" has been established "to inquire into and examine the assumptions about, the expectations for and the state of communications in our educational system, and to develop an approach and/or process designed to improve two-way communications between the system, the schools and the community."

The release states that the commission is particularly interested in the public's views on the following:

—The nature of communications: Definition, types, qualities of.

—Aims and objectives of communications.

—The role of the school board (trustees, officials) the schools (teachers, principals) parents, ratepayers in the process of communication.

—Ways and means of establishing good channels of communications.

—The how, what, where, when, why and by whom of communications.

—Relevant (type of) information requested and/or necessary to present to ratepayers concerning the educational system.

Local committee may be abolished

It's doubtful that Charlottenburgh Township's Committee of Adjustment will retain its land severance powers much beyond this summer.

United Counties Planner Larry Cotton said the province is expected to pass legislation this Spring placing all land severances under the jurisdiction of SD&G's Land Severance Committee.

Charlottenburgh is the only municipality in SD&G with its own severance committee. The township was allowed to maintain this function because the municipality was the first to have an official plan and zoning by-law.

United Counties councillors, however, recently endorsed proposed provincial changes in the Planning Act which would turn Charlottenburgh's powers over severance to the United Counties committee.

Charlottenburgh Reeve Adrian Gadbois says he is opposed to such a transfer of power because it would hamper Charlottenburgh's rural, residential growth.

He said many counties councillors are "jealous" of Charlottenburgh's growth.

The counties councillors also supported a transfer of subdivision approval power from the province to the counties level.

Last week, it was incorrectly reported that subdivision approval powers would shift from the local to the counties level.

Club is on the move

The Alexandria Richelieu Club resumed activities on Monday evening when members and their wives attended supper together.

The president's gavel was turned over to the incoming president, Jean Marc Lefebvre, by Past President Denis Vaillancourt.

Vice President is Jean Yves Jeaurond. The secretary is Paul Poirier and Fernand Cloutier is treasurer.

Board members are Richard Sabourin, Maurice Desautels, Jacques Paquin and Marcel Francoeur.

Initiation of new members, Andre Bergevin and Denis Hebert completed the evening.

Charlottenburgh committee questions new brick facing

A two-by-four placed under the brick facing at the new Williamstown auditorium raised a few eyebrows last week.

As a result, Charlottenburgh Township's Recreation Committee has written to the Cornwall architectural firm of Thompson and Associates Consulting Engineers Ltd. indicating the committee is not happy with the wall.

At issue is the degree to which the brick overhangs the foundation.

The original design for the foundation called for the brick to overhang by a "nominal inch," which usually means about three-quarters of an inch, Committee Chairman Lloyd Rozon said.

In some places, the brick was overhanging the foundation wall by an inch and three-quarters, Mr. Rozon said.

The lumber, which was used as a temporary form for the bricklaying, has since been removed and replaced by an angle iron which both the architect and general contractor say meets building code requirements.

Cement has also been applied to the foundation wall so that the brick now only overhangs the building by about one inch.

The finished wall, therefore, is both structurally sound and aesthetically pleasing, the architect and contractor say.

Architect Russell Price of Thompson and Associates acknowledged Monday that the angle iron was not included in his original design.

He said it is not unusual, however, to have minor variances when constructing a building of such magnitude and as long as remedial work is undertaken consistent with the building code, there is no cause for concern.

He said he was aware of the Recreation Committee's anxiety.

"I don't think it's a serious problem," Mr. Price said. "We are in the process of working something out."

Wally Hope, spokesman for Remi Poirier Construction Co. Ltd., the general contractor, said his company has taken great

Banquet held

by Velma Franklin

The Warden's Banquet held at the Maxville Sports Complex on Saturday evening was the glittering culmination of a series of gala entertainments this season. Warden and Mrs. Hubert A. Quart welcomed a gathering of over three hundred guests—distinguished visitors, a full roster of municipal officials, council staff and administration members, business and banking associates, and friends and neighbors of the village. At the social hour preceding dinner a senior past Warden recalled the days before 1939 when the allowance for the Warden's banquet was precisely $200, and the ladies were definitely not invited . . . a humble beginning to a splendid tradition.

With a Highland flourish Pipe-Major John T. MacKenzie piped in the guests and the head table. Master of Ceremonies for the program was George Crites, Reeve of Roxborough and Chairman of the Finance Committee. He called on Rev. Harold Alston of the Maxville United Church for the blessing, then the gathering rose again for the Toast to the Queen. Warden Quart, a connois-

At Laggan

Heavy rain causes fire

The extremely high waters generated by Friday's downpour have been listed as the partial cause of an explosion and fire at Keith MacLeod's store on Highway 34 at Laggan.

According to Alexandria Fire Chief Gerald Charlebois the early afternoon explosion was caused when the rising water brought gas into the basement of the store as it seeped through a crack in the floor.

Chief Charlebois and Fire Marshall Marcel Lalonde are still investigating the incident to try and determine the source of the gas. No one was injured in the explosion and Alexandria Firefighters reported the situation under control upon arrival at the scene.

In a second mishap blamed on the storm, a Glen Robertson man's car and a truck from Ottawa each suffered $1,000 damage when they collided Friday afternoon.

According to the Alexandria Police Department report, the car was stopped on Main Street, waiting to turn left onto McDougall Street, when the truck collided with the back end.

The report, made by investigating officer Paul Deveau, says the driver of the truck claims his visibility was impaired by the downpour. Constable Deveau is still investigating.

Early Friday morning another accident related to the rain occurred, this time on the Glen Robertson Road about three miles east of Alexandria.

A car driven by a Ste. Anne de Prescott woman went out of control after hitting a puddle. An estimated $1,000 damage was caused to her car when it went off the road.

Rainfall intense

Last week's rainfall was so intense that it reached the one-in-100-year level, reports the Raisin Region Conservation Authority.

The Authority uses the one-in-100-year figure as one factor when it does floodplain mapping for the area.

This means that, on average, such a heavy rainfall as occurred Friday would only take place once every 100 years.

The Authority monitored the storm throughout the day with General Manager Jay Currier phoning in regular flood-warning updates to area radio stations.

The rain started in the morning hours and by 9 a.m. "we had received 2.35 inches," stated Authority spokesman Andy Code. "By 1 p.m. we had 4.25 inches, by 2:45 we had 4.6 inches and by 4:30 we had 4.91 inches."

The Martintown dam, normally dry at this time of year, was still flowing heavily Monday, Mr. Code said. At the rainstorm's height, the water level was as high as it is during the Raisin River Canoe Race in the Spring, he said.

The storm created severe flooding throughout the area.

Logo winner from town

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority has a new logo thanks to the efforts of Lochiel Township resident Denis Massie.

The McCormick Road resident was assisted in his design by Cheryle Watson, a fellow student at Fanshawe College in London where the two are studying landscape design.

Denis, who graduates in October, also did the landscaping plan proposed for Island Park in Alexandria.

The Authority received 11 entries in its logo competition.

Information and Education Committee Chairman Dorothy Fawthrop said "all the entries were excellent and it was very difficult to choose a winner." Her committee narrowed the entries to three, and the full board selected the winner.

The Massie-Watson entry consists of a large "C" with symbols inside touching on the various roles of the Conservation Authority.

The prize for winning is $100.

Arts and crafts show coming soon

by Gerry Elliott

"There is an historic museum in Williamstown
Which in October attracts the populace around
For Glengarry Arts and Crafts are there
With original creative work to share
And this year the finest ever Fall Sales Fair.

While the limerick once again comes into vogue, the Glengarry Arts and Crafts Association continues to maintain and improve its fine standard of craftsmanship. The historic Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum at Williamstown has given the association permission to use more area space for arts and crafts including the upstairs for this year's two-day event.

At a recent meeting held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Lancaster, plans were finalized for the ninth annual fall sales fair. George Elliott of Glentassie Farm and president of the association presided. The dates of the fair are Saturday and Sunday, October 13 and 14, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Mrs. Janice Montreuil of South Lancaster as sales director, presented plans for the sales fair which include continuous demonstrations. This part of the program will feature jewellery, pyrography (woodburning), wood carving, leather work, weaving, basket weaving, smocking, etc. The artisans welcome questions from the public concerning the nature of their craft. There will be other arts and crafts on display including paintings, photography, woodworking, tole painting, candles, needlepoint, hooking, light catchers, wallhangings, dolls, (many types and styles), doll furniture, pottery, eggery, miniature ceramics, homecrafts, etc. There will be a draw for a door prize each day.

A new applicant, Mrs. Bertha Fraser of Green Valley whose work was juried by the membership and voted upon was accepted by the association. Mrs. Fraser's craft "Hooking" showed a quality that compared well with the standard of craftsmanship set by the members.

A regular feature of the meetings is the presentation by a member of his craft with background information and descriptive narration of the development of his work. An informative program given the secretary, Mrs. Janice Montreuil on tole painting was well received. Her descriptive journey of the steps involved in this art form included the "joy" in first finding the antique to be tole-painted. One such article shown was a rusted liquid measuring container with spout, (perhaps a farm utensil, circa 1929).

FROM RUST TO RICHNESS—Mrs. Janice Montreuil of Lancaster will be exhibiting such beautiful art as this at the upcoming Arts and Crafts Show. Many other artists will also be exhibiting their handiwork.

The procedure in this case would first call for "detergent and elbow grease" as Mrs. Montreuil put it, followed by a vinegar bath. After drying thoroughly in the oven or in the case of a large milk can by the use of a hair dryer, the can or object would be rust-proof painted and made ready for oils.

The speaker described "antiquing" and another type of art called "rosemahling." The latter, a folk art, was introduced by Scandinavians centuries ago. Due to their economic circumstances, homes were usually equipped with fireplaces but no windows since the cost of glass was prohibitive. Consequently, indoors were usually dusty smokey rooms. Hence, pictures on a wall took on a brownish tinge around the edges. The roses of that country were renowned for their beauty and many paintings of that era were of roses. The derivation of the word "rosemahling" comes from the flower and "mahling" means painting. The speaker showed a beautiful example of rosemahling from amongst her crafts on display.

An interesting story was told of another subject used for tole painting. A pail was once used to bail water from a stove reservoir tank. Eventually leaks appeared and when repairs proved futile the pail was transferred to the barn to be used in the grain feeding of farm animals. In concluding her remarks the speaker stated that after a period of time, the pail, which by then was in a rusted condition, served as a flower pot with a design painted on it.

It should be noted that not only did the German and Dutch settlers in Pennsylvania use tole painting as a means to reflect their everyday life, nor the Scandinavians their "rosemahling," but other early American settlers, the French in New York developed the most sophisticated patterns of this art (flower arrangements, birds, intricate scrolling, etc.). The word tole is a French word meaning tin, as related by the experts.

George Elliott expressed the appreciation of those present for an entertaining insight into this art form by an accomplished artist.

Harper's book hits stands

by Harriet MacKinnon

This seems to be the year for Glengarrians to have books published. Our latest author to hit the press is Dr. J. Russell Harper, O.C. with his long awaited book "Kreighoff."

Over five years of research went into the book, backed by Russell's superior knowledge in the field of Canadian art. Previous works include—Painting in Canada: a History, A People's Art, Paul Kane's Frontier, etc.

Dr. Harper was a professor at Concordia University in Montreal and he has also worked in museums and art galleries across Canada. Well known to many Glengarrians, he and wife Elizabeth have been residents of the township of Kenyon for quite a number of years, and they are also noted for their attendance at local auction sales because of their keen interest in primitive Canadiana.

A few of us were lucky enough to see a copy of "Krieghoff" which Mrs. Harper had with her at the Glengarry Historical Society Antiques Show at Williamstown last weekend. It was a joy to behold. With 53 full color pictures and over 100 black and white illustrations it will be coveted and bought by Krieghoff fans all over the world.

Cornelius Krieghoff (1815-72) is one of the best known and loved of early Canadian artists who was lucky enough to be appreciated in his own lifetime, and his paintings bring fantastic prices today when they reach the open market.

Krieghoff paintings can be found in many countries and most of the best loved are shown in the book. The story of the man himself makes fascinating reading, and Dr. Harper is to be sincerely congratulated on his latest achievement.

pains to ensure the wall is solid.

He said the contractor inserted an angle iron that even exceeds the architect's requirements for strength.

Both the architect and contractor emphasized that the brick facing is solidly linked to the cement blocks, so there is no danger of the facing falling apart.

Mr. Price said the tie-ins connecting the bricks to the blocks were "fully imbedded in the mortar as the blocks went up."

Mr. Rozon said his committee met last Thursday and gave the architect two weeks to formally respond to the committee's concerns.

He said the committee might seek a third professional opinion.

The two-storey auditorium, which is being added to the front of the arena building, is expected to be completed by November.

The construction contract is about $472,000, Mr. Rozon said.

The architectural fee is "between $30,000 and $34,000," he said, and the fee includes an allowance for the consultant to regularly inspect the site.

Mediator gives up

Provincial mediator Grant Gillespie has given up after only one session of contract talks between SD&G County Board of Education and its secondary school teachers.

Mr. Gillespie, a former director of education with the Metropolitan Toronto Board of Education, was appointed by the Education Relations Commission August 30 to mediate the stalled contract negotiations between the 500 teachers and the board.

After one session last week, Mr. Gillespie said the two parties were too far apart and he could not assist the situation.

The province has also appointed a fact finder, Queen's University professor Bryan Downie.

His report will be due the first week of October.

Woman dies

A 49-year-old Montreal woman drowned in Lake St. Francis on Sunday afternoon.

She had been riding in a craft rented from Lancaster Marina when she and her daughter reportedly stood up to change positions in the boat and lost their balance. The woman who was a non-swimmer was not wearing her life-jacket and although rescued by her daughter following the accident, did not respond to resuscitation.

FAREWELL PARTY

Mrs. Pearl (Alex) McEwen was recently entertained at a farewell party by her friends and neighbors of the Fifth of Roxborough, west of Maxville, prior to her departure to her new home in Ottawa. They presented her with a lamp in memory of the happy occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Jackson have purchased her old home on the Fifth.

HAVE VOLUNTEERS TO HELP

The Guides and Brownies registration went off very successfully, with 20 Guides coming in, and 24 Brownies. This is the first year for the Guides aged nine to 12 and the Pathfinders 12-15, under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Thornton. Mrs. Joan Fergusson has the Brownies, and both leaders were delighted by a substantial amount of volunteer help from the parents. Both groups are going to be meeting at the Maxville Public School, starting on Tuesday, September 25, at 6:30 p.m. and are looking forward to an interesting and enjoyable year. That important fund-raising event—the Fall Rummage Sale—is scheduled for late October, and please save everything you can to help the girls in this project.

ANNIVERSARY

And Sunday afternoon, 2-5 p.m., is the Open House in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Villeneuve's 50th wedding anniversary, also at the Sports Complex.

CHANGING HOMES

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Reider and family of Thompson, Man., have taken up residence on Mechanic St. West, and Mr. and Mrs. Garry Smith and family have moved into the new home they've just had built northeast of the village.

COOK WITH METRIC

The Maxville and District 4-H Homemakers' Club starts its new project on Tuesday, September 25 in the Home Ec. Room at the Maxville Senior School at 7:30 p.m. The course this term is "Essential Edibles" and it involves cooking with metric—no imperial measures will be used at all. This is the modern way. Leaders are Mrs. Anton Vanderwielen, and Mrs. Maureen MacEwen.

PROJECT PROGRESSING

The "Maxville Area for Boat People" group which comprises the Maxville, Moose Creek, Dunvegan and Greenfield areas has raised about $6,000 to date for their project. Marcel Aube from the Department of Immigration will be in Roxborough Community Centre, Moose Creek, at the Senior Citizen's Room to answer questions anyone might have. All are welcome to attend the meeting on Tuesday, September 25 at 8 p.m.

COME MAKE YOUR TOYS

Fall classes will soon be starting at the Maxville Senior School—one is all organized already. Peter Physk will be teaching a course in woodworking, with toymaking as the feature this term. Registration will be held on Monday, October 1, in the evening at 7 p.m. and this will also be the first class—participants please come prepared to register and get right to work.

Banquet held . . .

seur of fine food himself, had arranged for his guests a feast that was nothing short of sumptuous.

Reeve George Crites, always an effective and audible speaker, rose to give the introduction to the host for the evening. He outlined the warden's career from his early days in Winchester, his banking experience, and transfer to the grocery business, and his continual involvement in all aspects of community life—with his church, the Maxville Manor, the local school board, the Highland Games, service clubs, and always the village council. He was elected to the Maxville council in 1962, became reeve in 1971, a position that he had held ever since and that has led to the warden's chair in 1978. A standing ovation followed this address.

The warden then introduced the members of his own family present at the banquet—Mrs. Beulah Quart, Rev. and Mrs. Garry Quart of Hamilton, Brian of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson (Lorna) of Oakville, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Quart of Toronto, and Mrs. Kincaid of Morrisburg. He then called on the many distinguished visitors in the gathering to stand and be welcomed—Mayor and Mrs. Jerry Parisien of Cornwall, Fire Chief and Mrs. Lou Carriere, Ed Leblanc, Cornwall Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Symons of the Maxville Branch, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. MacMillan and Mr. and Mrs. R. Robinson of the Ottawa offices of the Bank of Nova Scotia. The members of his own village council—Ron Clare, George Cuerrier, Allan MacEwen, Garry Smith, and clerk Rheal Charbonneau. From Counties Council—Clerk Raymond Lapointe, Road Engineer Donald MacDonald, Social Services' Ed Thompson, Planner Larry Cotton and Emergency Measures' George Tyo. There were also the many fellow reeves and past wardens in the gathering, and he paid a special tribute to the late Florence Villeneuve of Alexandria.

There followed in the warden's address some brief reflections on his years in Counties' service. A budget that has risen to $8,000,000 this year, more than half of which is spent on road work, the 435 stretches that link all parts of the counties.

There was the welcome news that tenders are being called for the new road from Maxville north to 417; some work might even be done this fall. He felt that County Planning was a great step forward, and expressed pride in the County Forestry Program, with 7,300 acres now under management.

The library expansion under the direction of Herman Nyland was another highlight. Collective bargaining had become a problem in the past year, and the equalization of assessment would bring undue hardship to those predominantly rural areas where there were no commercial properties to share the taxation burden. His own districts of Kenyon and Maxville would be hardest hit, and requests for some alleviation were being made to Toronto.

Following his address Warden Quart was presented with a fine framed photograph of his installation as warden, and Matilda Reeve George Cooper, Chairman of Roads and Bridges, rose to introduce the guest speaker. James L. Erskine, deputy commissioner of Operations for the Ontario Provincial Police has had a long and very distinguished career in police work, in investigation, special services, countering organized crime, and is continually involved with the 181 detachments in the Province of Ontario.

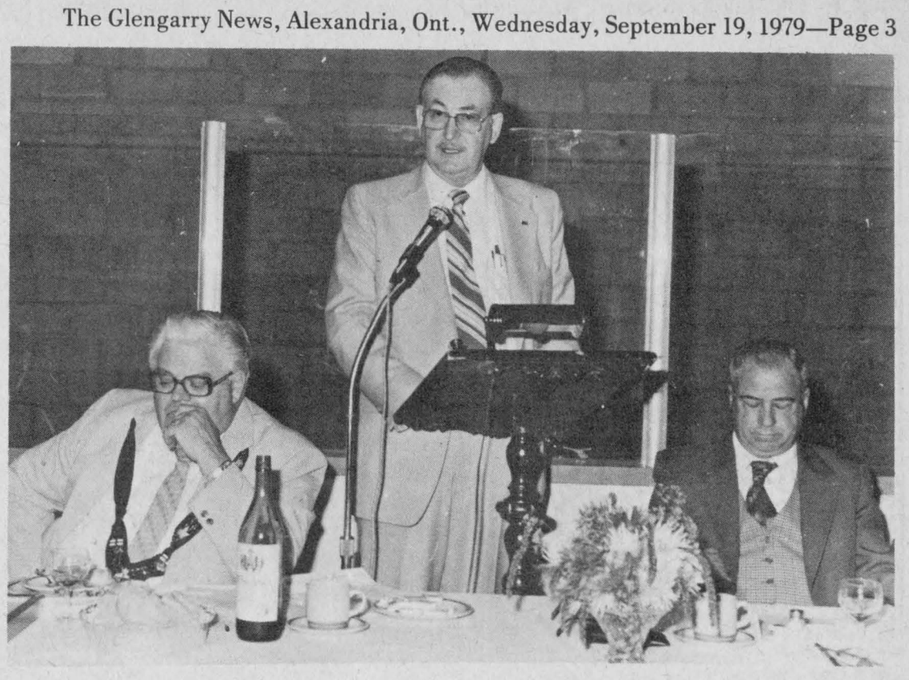
Mr. Erskine dispensed with the usual platitudes and spoke bluntly and earnestly on a subject dear to his heart. He praised the high standard of service in the 181 detachments that rather thinly cover the province, dwelling particularly on the problems caused by the appalling rate of slaughter on the highways. Ninety per cent of this is caused simply by stupid human error, ordinary lack of common sense.

He pointed out quite logically that the deliberate criminal rarely causes an accident, aware of his wrongdoing, he is unusually alert.

A welcome thought was that the balance of public opinion has swung away from complete permissiveness over to the increased support of law and order. Mr. Erskine was thanked for his address, and presented with a copy of Harkness' History of SD&G by Osnabruck Reeve Stewart Hart.

Mountain Reeve Stewart Simms gave a graceful and complimentary Toast to the Ladies, expressing appreciation for the hours of solitude they must accept while their men are involved in municipal politics. Mrs. Marion Hough responded, elaborating briefly on the pleasures of the banquet, and her memories of social associations with the Quart family. She paid special tribute to Mrs. Beuhah Quart for her great publicity work on behalf of the United Counties, and concluded with a short poem on the theme of unity. Then past-warden Edwin Waldroff led the gathering in "O Canada."

The dining tables were cleared away, and the remainder of the evening given over to music and dancing. Pipe-Major MacKenzie played for the MacCulloch Dancers, who went through many of their highland and step-dancing routines, and Sylvester MacDonald and his Clansmen provided lively music for everyone's taste.



INTENT LISTENERS—Warden Hubert Quart, left, and Roxborough Reeve George Crites were deep in serious thought as they listened to Deputy Commissioner J.L. Erskine of the Ontario Provincial Police deliver a "from the heart" explanation of the work of the police department, while at the Warden's Banquet held Saturday night in Maxville.

by Rudi Payer

Char-Lan United Soccer Club of Williamstown ended its 10th season on a dream note last Wednesday at Joe St. Denis field in Cornwall, upsetting regular season Cornwall and District Soccer League champions, Cornwall City, in the 1979 First Division CDSL final. The Williamstown underdogs dominated play for most of the entertaining game and scored an unexpected 2-1 victory.

Char-Lan, hampered by atrocious scheduling throughout the season and playing many regular season games short-handed (the Reserves, whose alternates the first team had been relying upon were playing somewhere else at the same time), finally got its act together and defeated the pre-game favorites in a game worthy of a final by a score which should have been higher.

Both teams missed some good scoring chances throughout the game—a higher score and more goals would have kept the crowd of about 150 cheering fans on their feet even longer.

CHAR-LAN DOMINATE

The game started at a furious pace. Both teams were determined to establish early supremacy, with Char-Lan being the more aggressive side. United displayed some beautiful passing soccer and clearly dominated its favored opponents. However, with all its domination, the Williamstown club had nothing to show for it on the scoreboard and the City team gradually came more into the game. Enough chances for at least four goals were missed by both teams and the teams changed ends with the scoreline reading "zip"—zero to zero.

CITY COME BACK

The early part of the second half was played with reverse roles. Char-Lan, which had dominated the first half of the game, went into a defensive shell. The Glengarry team seemed contented with keeping the game scoreless and let the Cornwall squad take over the reins.

Enthusiasm was the name of the game, with very little passing and with Cornwall City being the more enthusiastic, more aggressive side. At this point of the game, the Williamstown club seemed to consist of two teams: "Char-Lan," comprising a brilliant defensive squad headed by standout goalie Mitchell "MVP" MacDonald and solid defenders Bruce Dubeau, Dive Brown and Christian "MIP" Glaude, aided by midfielders Denis Carr and Pete Ferrie, plus nominal inside-forward Paul Owen, and a "United" frontline consisting of (give and take substitutions) Pat Clarke, Eric Brown, Rudi Payer, Darcy Gordon, Don "Boom-Boom" Kannon, Mark Gareau and Guy Dubeau. In short, two separate teams without a midfield.

Thanks to the poor finishing of the City squad, the Cornwall domination went by without damage being done to the Char-Lan side on the score-sheet, and when inside-right Eric Brown—a 17-year-old sophomore—hit a beautiful 25-yard-shot with his wrong left foot beyond the vainly groping arms of brilliant City goalie Terry O'Brien, the underdogs suddenly remembered what the game of soccer is all about.

After this initial goal, City was done for. Char-Lan started to push the ball around, letting the Cornwall team do the chasing, and right-winger Pat Clarke, another 17-year-old, put the icing on the cake when he picked up his own rebound and drove it home for a comfortable 2-0 Char-Lan lead with three minutes left

Regular season champs Cornwall City could do no better than narrow the gap with a well-executed, short corner which City captain "Taffy" Pye headed past MacDonald with only ten seconds remaining in the game.

Thus, Char-Lan United had won the playoff final of a rather troubled CDSL season, and hearty congratulations are due to a Williamstown squad which has been playing for ten seasons—never struck it rich and lost more than they won—but who, as a current pop song implies, never quit and "kept on trying" until they did it all. Way to go, you guys!

CDSL AWARDS NIGHT

Following its championship win Char-Lan United was represented in full force (45) at the CDSL's "Annual Soccer Ball Banquet and Awards Night." Char-Lan's trophy winners for 1979 were: Char-Lan United First Team—MVP Mitchell MacDonald (Alba Speed and Custom Auto Supply, Cornwall); MIP Christian Glaude (D. W. Austin, Brisbane, Australia); Char-Lan United Reserve Team—MVP Bruce Dubeau (Mr. Austin, Australia); MIP Andre Major (Delard Dubeau, Williamstown).

AGM OF CDSL

The Annual General Meeting of the CDSL will be held on Sunday, September 23, at 9 a.m. at the Parkway Inn in Cornwall. Let's all be there and make it work!

P.S.—Lake Placid First Annual Can-Am Soccer Tournament (no Oktoberfest this year—defending champs Glengarry Stars) tentatively scheduled for second or third week in October. More next week.

The Sporting Life

All of the canoeists in the area should be looking at the bright side of the rain downpour we received last Friday; the rivers are all swollen to almost spring dimensions and should remain that way for a couple of days yet. Veteran canoeist Maurice Sauve notes it is an excellent time to practice for the Raisin River race, as the rapids on some area rivers are quite treacherous.

Unless someone is willing to take over the financial burden of the Junior C Glens, it looks as though Alexandria will be without a team in that hockey division this year. Norman Wray, who sponsored the Glens last year, says that he will turn over the franchise to any person or group that wants it.

"It's no game when a policeman has to call on a woman in the middle of the night and tell her that her husband has just been killed. It's no game to stand helplessly by and watch a man burn in his flaming truck. It's no game to try consoling little orphans beside their parents' wrecked car. So when people condemn policemen for riding in unmarked cars and hiding behind billboards, remember it is lives they are trying to save." So admonished J.L. Erskine, deputy commissioner of the Ontario Provincial Police as he addressed the audience at the Warden's Banquet in Maxville Saturday night.

Ladies elect golf executive for '80

Dorothy Derry was elected president of the ladies of the Glengarry Golf Club at a meeting held last weekend at the club. The election was held following reports of the year's activities.

Club Captain Marie Paule Durocher reported that Break 90 pins were now available.

Twilight Captain Daisy Pelley deplored the poor attendance at many evenings of golf, and suggestions for improving the situation were discussed.

A clarification of rules concerning balls in the river was requested and it was decided to review rules in the spring.

Money-making events for the ladies were discussed following Rita Menard's treasurer's report. The questions of a first aid box and repairs to the outside carpeting were raised by Edna Peterson.

Serving with Dorothy on the executive will be Janet Marr, vice-president and secretary; Rita Menard, treasurer; Daisy Pelley, twilight captain, with assistants Alex McHugh, Dorothy Derry and Edna Peterson. The Club Captain position was unfilled although Blanche Gallant and Marie Paule Durocher were chosen as assistants. Germaine Lalonde, retiring president, received a vote of thanks for her work during the past years.

A Sadie Hawkins two-ball foursome was played on Sunday afternoon by 24 members. First prize was won by Daisy and Ernie Pelley, second by Marie Paule Durocher, the winner of the costume prize, and Roma Amelotte.

Sports Show will display many items

Over 10,000 square feet of sports goods and leisure displays will be on view when the First Annual Seaway Valley Sports Show opens its doors at noon this Friday.

Show spokesman Owen Manley said the three-day event has even blossomed into a bigger and better venture than the organizers, themselves, originally anticipated.

"You're always taking a chance with something new," Manley said, "but we had confidence in the sporting attitude of the area and we have not been disappointed. The show has exceeded our expectations."

Manley, a well-known area ski instructor, said both the arena wing of the civic complex and the adjacent salon wing will be brimming with exhibits when the show starts Friday.

"We've got everything from snowmobiles to hot tubs to swimming pools to a billard table coming to the show," Manley said.

"There will also be some interesting public service displays, such as the Ontario Fitness Van and the Ontario Provincial Police's new paddywagon."

Clubs, such as the Cornwall Ski Club and Seaway Valley Snowmobile Association, will also have booths.

The Michael Abson Aerial Acrobatic Ski Show is the featured attraction at the show.

"These daredevil skiers, all members of Canada's National Freestyle Ski Team, will perform dangerous mid-air flips and other risky acrobatic stunts from a giant, indoor ski ramp," Manley said.

"Disco Wheels will also be there to put on a dazzling disco roller skating performance.

"Both the skiers and skaters will be putting on several shows a day, so entertainment will be almost continuous. People can drop in anytime and be assured of seeing all the action."

Manley confirmed that Ottawa Rough Riders' quarterbacks Condredge Holloway and Jimmy Jones will assist with the official opening ceremonies at 7:30 Friday night.

"Anyone interested in meeting with and getting autographs from these athletes should drop in Friday night," Manley pointed out.

Show hours are Friday, noon to 10:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; Sunday 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Admission is $2 with children under 12 free if accompanied by an adult.

Jr B Glens to play first game

The Alexandria Junior B Glens will play their first game of the season this Friday, September 21, at the Sports Palace. The Navan Grads will be in town for this exhibition game.

Returning to the Glens from last year's team are: Ewen McCormick, Luc Poirier, Robert Hartley, Frank St. Pierre and Sandy Maclaren. With the addition of some very promising rookies, the Glens should give a good showing this year, according to President Gerry Simpson.

Friday night's game begins at 8:30.

Men receive ball awards

At the Glengarry Softball League Awards Night last Friday the Menard Farm Supplies team took the championship and pennant awards in the men's division.

Jean-Paul Claude was one of the two league players to receive two awards. He got the trophy as Most Valuable Player and earned himself the batting title

Paul Seguin was voted Most Valuable Player in the playoffs and tied with Danny Seguin for the Most Improved Player.

Jean Luc Desautels was chosen Best Rookie and Gerald Cholette was voted Most Gentlemanly Player.

Meeting scheduled

The annual meeting of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame will be held next Wednesday, September 26 at 8:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Maxville and District Sports Complex.

Former Warden of the United Counties and former Reeve of Charlottenburgh, Archibald MacDonell is chairman of the nominating committee assisted by W. James Hill. Mr. MacDonell will present the committee's slate of officers for the 1979-80 term.

Dr. Don Gamble will present the financial report.

Past heritage is recalled

Rev. Gary Stokes, MA BD, Cornwall, addressed the large congregation in Kirk Hill for the annual memorial service.

People had gathered from neighboring churches and as far away as British Columbia on the west and Nova Scotia on the east. He chose as his theme: Rediscovering your Heritage; and said, "Let me take you back into history, for a short time, to the days of ancient Israel."

"Today we are looking back into the past and re-discovering our heritage as surely as Josiah had unearthed his own, and if the vision of the past cannot unearth the imperfections of the newer, more hopeful vision of the future, as indeed it did for Josiah, then I maintain that the past might well remain buried and the achievements of those we have come to praise, might better remain forgotten.

"We bring to mind the virtues of those who have served this community and this House of God in their earlier days, the vision of the future they conceived, the courage to face it despite its uncertainties, the will and the determination they exerted to overcome the many obstacles that lay before them, the faith they placed in each other and in the power that was leading them forward in the development of their community, their country and especially their humanity.

"These are but a few of the virtues demonstrated by those who have gone before to give you this community and this church and their own special character. They are well known to you, as your presence attests. But surely in the midst of our pride, our re-discovery also forces us to consider our present life and in the reflections of the virtues of the past see the imperfections to which our intense involvement has blinded us. We may well say in our state of moral nakedness, that things were different, our ancestors did not have to contend with the obstacles that are placed before us today. That's nonsense! Life as it affected them was just as complex and just as difficult as the life set before us today, and in our day-to-day activities.

"Moral decadence was as obvious to our ancestors 50, 100, 200 years ago as it is to you and me today. Surely, we cannot help but feel some shame that we are not the creatures that God intended us to be and that in retrospect we find we are perhaps farther from that state of humanity than were our forefathers.

"But just as Josiah said as he read the stirring pages of the first scriptures, the treasures he unearthed, we may feel a new hope surging within us, that despite all the phoney values this world embraces, there are still eternal principles that every generation will unearth as they read the "book of life" that our ancestors wrote of noble words and deeds."

The call to worship was read responsively and the prayer of invocation in unison. A statement of faith was led by Rev. Stokes with all joining in.

The choir sang "The beautiful Garden of Prayer." Mrs. A. K. MacPherson as organist with Mrs. Clarence MacMillan at the piano. A prayer of thanksgiving for our past and a time of silence honoring the departed was observed. The service included memorial hymns and closed with words taken from the Wisdom of Solomon.

After a long illness, Lea Paquette died on September 3 while a patient at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital. She was 47.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. MacPhee, Dunvegan, announce the approaching marriage of their youngest daughter, Shelley Mavis, to Colin Roy MacLellan of Brockville, son of Capt. and Mrs. John A. MacLellan, Edinburgh, Scotland. The marriage will take place at their home in Dunvegan, on October 13, 1979.

CARDINAL—JEAUROND

Wed in Green Valley

A pretty summer wedding took place at St. Mary's Church, Green Valley, on Saturday, August 4, when Joanne Jeaurond became the bride of Rejean Cardinal. Rev. Gerald Poirier officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony and Noella Crevier was organist while Diana Poirier was soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Claudette Jeaurond of Green Valley and the late Aurele Jeaurond. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Cardinal of Ste. Anne de Prescott.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Alphonse Jeaurond. She wore a gown of white nylon chiffon over taffeta. It was designed with a sweatheart neckline, empire style waist, gathered full sleeves with cuff and full skirt with built-in train. Her white hat featured a net bow with floor-length streamers. Her bouquet was of red roses, pink carnations and ivy.

She was attended by her own sister, Diane Bourdon as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Celine Mainville, a friend, Chantal Quesnel and flower girl, Rachel Cholette.

Best man was Germain Bourdon of Hawkesbury. Ushers were Andre Mainville and Yves Latulippe of Ste. Anne de Prescott and ring bearer was Wayne Kreische of Green Valley.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Bonnie Glen.

For their wedding trip to Paradise Stream in the Poconos the bride wore a dress of yellow and green chiffon with matching corsage.

The couple will reside at Ste. Anne de Prescott.

Out-of-town guests were present from St. Catharines, Iberville, Pincourt, Laval, LaSalle and the surrounding area.

Parks close in October

The official closing dates have been set for Provincial Parks in Eastern Ontario. Most parks will shut down October 8.

Persons who like to venture into the outdoors in fall when nature is preparing for winter and parks are less crowded will want to know that between Labor Day and official closing dates parks will have drinking water, toilets (may only be vault privies), and trailer sanitary stations in operation. Regular camping fees may or may not be charged.

After official closing, part or all of parks are gated off to prevent damage to roads and landscapes by vehicles. However, anyone can park their car and walk into a park during daytime hours to hike, cross-country ski, or snowmobile (where permitted).

Persons wishing to camp during the off-season should contact the Park Superintendent for arrangements.

During the parks off-season it is especially important to remember outdoor etiquette—take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints.

She leaves to mourn, one brother, Artel Poirier of Green Valley and four sisters: Irene, Mrs. Wilfred Menard of Green Valley; Dora, Mrs. Lomer Trottier of Cornwall; Gracia, Mrs. Maurice Pilon of Glen Walter and Laurette, Mrs. Stuart Scharfe of Ottawa.

New homemaking project arrives

A new 4-H Homemaking project has just made its arrival in the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. The project is called "Essential Edibles" and is the first project that is done completely in metric.

Through this project, the members will discover how easy it is to make tasty food with their new metric measures.

There are recipe ideas for breakfast and brunch and suggestions for adding life to a carried lunch. They will enjoy the recipes for easy-to-prepare hot lunches and suppers.

The members will, also, receive tips on planning dinners. Putting party planning into practice is a fun time and a chance to show off their new cooking skills.

Boys or girls who have reached their 12th birthday by September 1, 1979, and are interested in cooking, may take this project.

The workshops for the leaders have been held in the past two weeks. The following areas in Glengarry have clubs: Alexandria, Apple Hill, Bainsville, Kirk Hill, Dunvegan, Lochiel, Martintown, Maxville and Williamstown-Lancaster. In Dundas we have clubs in the following areas: Chesterville, Hallville-Mountain, Morewood, Matilda Township, Ormond, Winchester, Winchester Springs, Williamsburg and South Mountain. In Stormont County, there are also several clubs: Avonmore, Long Sault, Ingleside, Cornwall Centre (Eamer's Corners area), Dixon, Osnabruck Centre, Finch and Newington. If you know of someone who is interested in this project, contact your local Agricultural Office for the names of the leaders in your respective area.

This is an excellent project, and should be enjoyed by all who want to learn how to cook.

PETROCAN-CAN

My Ottawa termites came out of the woodwork last week to report on the private meeting between the prime minister and the premier of Ontario.

Billy began by stating that he did not want to mention that he represented seven million, million that is, sober, hard working, intelligent, deserving citizens. In addition, he stated that he did not want to mention his jealousy of Peter who had threatened to squeeze his pipeline west of Sarnia, and he did not want to talk about his contributions to Joey's campaign which led to a government in Ottawa with the same spelling as his own. Needless to say, he maintained, that under the previous government, everything had pretty well gone to Hull.

Furthermore, Billy continued, he did not want to discuss the rumor that a nuclear power plant might be constructed on the Ottawa below Sussex Drive, nor did he feel it worth mentioning that his limousine had run out of gas just below the hill.

Joey broke in to state that he felt no compunction to declare that he had made many campaign promises to Esso, rather to the Canadian people, a few of whom were Ontarians. Joey also pointed out that it was insignificant to proclaim his Alberta background and his loyalty thereto; nor did he need mention the invention of his new dance, the Petrocancan. Joey also felt comment on his new plan to make money for the government by selling government property, to be unnecessary.

Billy enjoined that he agreed that Joey was right in not mentioning these items and Billy himself would not mention that since Ottawa was on Ontario land, all of Joey's property sales income should go to Ontario.

Joey stated that he was happy that Billy agreed on the unmentionables and that it was not worth talking about the fact that since Kingston had once been capital of old Canada, Ontario should contribute twice as much as the other provinces.

When they had talked about all the things which they agreed were not worth talking about, my termite informer had to leave because he was being pelted with petals. Joey and Billy were dancing around the room alternately pulling petals from a wild daisy with Joey shouting, "I can can Petrocan" and Billy shouting "can't" after each pull.

WATER, WATER, WATER—By the early afternoon on Friday so much rain had fallen in Alexandria that at this low spot the run-off was spurting out of the drain. Before the water finally disappeared a lot of area residents were soaked by splashes like this one. (Staff Photo—Rothgeb)

Agricrew a success

In their first year of operation, the provincially funded Agricrews have been a huge success. The five person crews, which are available to farmers at $90 per day for almost any kind of work, were booked tight for much of the summer, according to coordinator Denis Legault.

Denis reports that his crews, assigned to cover Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell, worked for 43 different farm employers for a total of 115 days.

Glengarry took most advantage of the labor pool, with 17 farmers and one agricultural society hiring crews for 51 days. In Stormont, 10 farmers used crews for 26 days, in Russell seven farmers and one agricultural society hired crews for 23 days and in Prescott seven farmers used crews for 15 days.

The farms worked on by the crews included dairy, beef, cash crop, fruit and sheep operations.

Denis reports that he had to turn down requests for crews by four farmers during haying season.

The 27 young men and women on the crews did jobs including haying, painting, picking up stones and roots, fencing, wood cleaning, general clean-up and cement pouring.

"The crews will be back next year," says Denis. Farmers who are interested in hiring a crew should get in touch with their local agricultural representative.

Fawcett is best breeder

Robert Flett, Oshawa, the judge of the Grenville County Holstein Show, was impressed with the overall quality of the 81 Holsteins shown by 25 exhibitors, September 8, 1979. The Premier Breeder Award was won by Locus Lane Farm, Brockville. Ralph J. Fawcett, Winchester, was the recipient of the Premier Exhibitor honors.

The 11 entries of the Novice class were very much appreciated by the ringside and received great applause for their efforts.

Judge Flett chose as Grand Champion Female the first prize three-year-old, Norvaina Freida, shown by new exhibitor Eric Henry of Spencerville. This daughter of Admiral Citation was large, clean cut and very dairy with a well attached, shapely, capacious udder. Freida was declared Champion over the first prize four-year-old, Barwood Camelot Jean, the large Oak Ridges Camelot daughter shown by Ralph J. Fawcett.

Topping the two-year-old class was Terrdale Elaine for Terrdale Holsteins, Brinston. The winner of the Aged Cow class was the entry of Rivermead Holsteins, Cardinal, Scottshaven Rockman Grace A. Locus Lane Sylvia Fury topped the Dry Cow class for Locus Lane Farm.

Ralph J. Fawcett exhibited the tall, sharp, stylish first place Heifer calf and Junior Champion, Willola Crystal Reflection. Levy refunded

Agriculture Minister John Wise recently announced the entire contingency levy collected during the 16-month quota period ending July 31, 1979, will be returned with interest to dairy farmers.

The levy was collected on all industrial milk production within Market Sharing Quota (MSQ) to pay for any export losses resulting from milk produced within the national MSQ but not needed for Canadian requirements. However, this levy money was not needed, and is being refunded.

The $26 million, collected at a rate of 20 cents per hundredweight on all within-quota milk shipments, will have been returned with interest to farmers by mid-October.

Since all milk produced in the "sleeve" (production tolerance zone) was needed to fill Canadian requirements for industrial milk products, the $2.66 per hundredweight federal subsidy will also be paid to producers for that milk.

"There was excellent milk production control in the 1978-79 quota this year," Mr. Wise said.

"Industrial milk production for the dairy year was about 14.08 billion pounds. When you compare that figure with the amount of dairy products needed by consumers, you see that the Canadian supply management system delivered milk to within 0.3 per cent of Canadian requirements. This is a tribute to the co-operative effort of producers, provinces and the federal government."

Holstein Show highly rated

James Campbell, Moose Creek was named Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor at the Stormont County Holstein Show held on Saturday, September 1, 1979. Earl Snedden, Almonte, judged this show that was contested by 76 Holsteins shown by 12 exhibitors. It was considered by many visitors as the best show in several years.

Judge Snedden chose as Grand Champion Female, the first prize Aged Cow (14), Campbelldale Miss Jenny. This daughter of Shorelea Reflection Marquis was described as being tall, upstanding and large. Reserve Champion and Best Udder honors went to the second prize Agro Acres Unique Aged Cow, Campbelldale Pabst Patti. Both champions were exhibited by Campbell. Campbell also owned the first-prize two-year-old (9), Campbelldale Kemp Alice and won the red ribbon for Breeder's Herd.

The first prize Heifer Calf (2), Glenstor Rosetta Admiral, was declared Junior Champion for Gerald Jans, Moose Creek. This stylish, smooth topped calf with correct legs was sired by A Northcroft Admiral Citation. She was declared Champion over the first prize Junior Yearling (8), Murrayholm Leader Lindsay, shown by Murrayholm Farms, Martintown. Eight Senior Yearlings were shown. The entry of Oran Montgomery, Avonmore, was first.

Delhu Holsteins, Crysler, exhibited the first prize Bull Calf (5) and Champion Male, Delhu Dale Standout Best. This well-grown, upstanding bull is sired by A Lime Hollow Standout Best. Reserve Champion went to the second-prize calf, Montmaple Marquis Ned, owned by Oran Montgomery.

Heading the three-year-old class (14), was an Agro Acres Marquis Ned daughter, Glenstor Jennifer Ned for Gerald Jans. The red ribbon for the four-year-old class (13) went to Cheeseboro Andrea, shown by Murrayholm Farms.

No atrazine found

What happens to pesticides that are applied to crops commonly used as livestock feed?

Is there a chance that some residues remain in the crops and are accumulating in the bodies of animals and poultry?

As part of a continuing program aimed at keeping unwanted chemicals out of our food, scientists at Agriculture Canada's Animal Research Institute at Ottawa are finding answers to these questions.

Tom Foster, a pesticide residue specialist, has recently completed a study of one of the most common herbicides used in corn production. Corn, either as silage or grain, is a widely used livestock feed.

"Atrazine is a broad-spectrum herbicide regularly used on much of the corn growth in Canada," Dr. Foster says. "In some cases, it has been used for years on the same land to control weeds."

But no one really knew whether any residues were left in the corn plant at the time of harvest.

Dr. Foster and his colleague Dr. M. H. Akhtar began by taking large samples of both corn silage and grain corn grown on atrazine-treated land at Agriculture Canada's Greenbelt Farm in Ottawa.

Using such sophisticated equipment as a gas chromatograph and spectrometer, Dr. Foster in co-operation with Dr. S. V. Khan, of Agriculture Canada's Chemistry and Biology Research Institute, set about searching for atrazine itself, or any of the possible chemical compounds into which it might have broken down in the soil or the plant.

After exhaustive studies, no trace of either atrazine or any related chemicals were found in either the mature grain or the silage.

"Frankly, we were somewhat surprised," says the scientist. "We are still trying to find the reason for the absence of residues. A plant isn't capable of excreting these compounds, but there seems to be something in the metabolism of a mature corn plant that destroys this herbicide. Studies by other investigators have discovered residues of metabolites in young plants.

"We can say that when atrazine is used at recommended rates, it does not leave residues in the mature corn crop or in the livestock that consume the corn," Dr. Foster says.

He has also studied the effects of feeding atrazine directly to laying hens.

"It's foolish to assume that accidents can't happen, so we worked on the assumption that there is a chance that atrazine could be accidentally mixed with livestock feed," he says.

Using high levels of atrazine in the feed, the scientist did discover objectionable residues of atrazine and some of its breakdown products in the abdominal fat as well as liver and kidneys of the test animals.

"Precautions must be taken when pesticides are used," Dr. Foster says. "Never store them in the same area as feeds. In other words, never give an accident a chance to happen."

Animal Research Institute scientists are continuing to study the metabolism of several economically-important pesticides in farm animals and poultry.

Import talks start

Agriculture Minister John Wise recently announced that formal negotiations with the United States regarding the appropriate size for a Canadian import quota for chicken will begin next week.

"The negotiations will take place against the background of Canada's international obligations, in particular Article XI of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT)," Mr. Wise said.

Under Article XI, Canada has the right to apply an import quota in support of a national supply management program. The quota will be based on import levels in a recent representative period.

Mr. Wise noted that the recently created Canadian Chicken Marketing Agency now expects to have a fully effective national supply management system in place by Oct. 1, 1979.

"In light of the agency's recent progress, the Canadian government is now prepared to begin negotiations with the United States," Mr. Wise said.

Canfarm offers new services

"We now have farm management and financial services to suit the needs of all farmers." This was the bold claim of Canfarm recently, when it unveiled its new series of farm accounting and production management packages.

"We've taken the Canfarm accounting systems apart and reworked them into tidy packages," explained Lindsay Barfoot, Canfarm's General Manager. "Whether a farmer wants a very simple basic system for tax filing or a very detailed specialized system for budgeting and planning, we can meet his exact needs and that's all he'll pay for."

The repackaging of Canfarm services is one of the sweeping changes that has taken place since it changed from a government program to a private company this spring. Some farmers had expressed concern over the system in the past, saying they found it too complicated and that they had some reports which they either did not understand, or did not want.

"Easy access to Canfarm representatives or agents is another very important part of our strategy," Barfoot added. "No farmer should be expected to just pick up a book of instructions and start with a new system. We are developing an extensive network of contacts across the country to give farmers help on a one-to-one basis wherever they need it."

The four main accounting services offered by Canfarm are Taxpac, Profitpac, Corp.pac and Farmite. Each of these packages contains a set combination of reports designed for a specific group of farmers. Taxpac is for the large group of farmers that like a system which gives them the information they need to file their taxes and which allows them to do some tax planning. Taxpac will do this in the simplest, most easy to follow way.

Profitpac is for the growing numbers of farmers who recognize a good set of accounts as a valuable aid to farm management and decision making. Besides the basic package, farmers may choose to add other reports such as enterprise analysis or labour reports. The decision on the exact needs for each farm is worked out by the farmer with the help of Canfarm representative.

For farms that have become incorporated, Canfarm is introducing Corp.pac. Similar to Profitpac, this package developed by Canfarm chartered accountants has many additional features to meet the requirements of a corporate farm.

The Farmrite system is an innovation in farm accounting that will interest many farmers. This service has been developed as a joint venture between Canfarm and Safeguard Business Systems. It has the unique feature of automatically recording all expenses on a journal every time a farmer writes a cheque. Canfarm then transforms the journal into an easy-to-understand set of farm financial records that the farmer can use for tax preparations as well as financial management.

These Canfarm services, together with production management services, such as the Swine Management, Beef Finishing and Dairy Feed Services, are now actively being marketed and serviced across Canada by Canfarm representatives and agents.

Recent visitors with Muriel Stewart and Isabel Goodfellow were Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Kilmartin, Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Turpin, Ottawa.

We welcome to the village, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell, who have recently moved into the home of the late Sarah MacPhee.

HAD RE-UNION

Some 45 descendants of the late Lachlan Stewart and Annie MacRae (Isle of Skye, Scotland) gathered in early September at the home of Muriel Stewart and Isabel Goodfellow. Harold Stewart of Ottawa presided over a short program and smorgasbord dinner followed. The afternoon was spent in fellowship and reminiscence. Judy MacRae of Vankleek Hill entertained the guests by dancing the Highland Fling, etc. Family members were present from Montreal, Toronto, Oshawa, Ottawa, Vankleek Hill, Harrowsmith and Glen Sandfield.

DIED IN TORONTO

Sympathy is extended to Arthur Phillips of Monkland and Joseph Phillips of Cornwall and Western Canada on the death of their brother Alfred in Toronto on Sept. 6, 1979. Alfred, for many years, lived in Stewart's Glen on the farm of Alex L. Stewart.

BUS DRIVER DIED

Sympathy is extended to Kate MacLean and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil MacRae, on the death of their brother-in-law, Forbes Crawford, of Maxville. He drove the school bus for a number of years, and picked up the young people in Dunvegan to transport them to the Maxville school. Although many of them are scattered far from home, they will want their sympathy extended to the Crawford family.

NEW CLUB

The 4-H Homemaking Club "Essential Edibles" will begin on Monday, September 24, 1979 at 7:15 p.m. at the WI Hall, Dunvegan. It is open to all girls and boys over 12 years of age by Sept. 1, 1979.

ANNUAL SERVICE

The annual Rally Day Service will be held in Kenyon Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Sept. 23 at 11 a.m. The service will be conducted by the student pastor, Mr. Gordon Fresque, assisted by teachers and members of the Church School. Both the Junior and Senior Choirs will lead in the service of praise with the Juniors singing two special numbers under the direction and accompaniment of Jim Graham. Please use the 'special offering envelopes' provided in boxes for this service. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

SEND IN THE NEWS

After such a busy summer for everyone, what with travelling themselves and having many visitors, we are settling into the fall routine once again, and as pleasant as all the visiting was, it is nice to relax and leave the more hectic times behind. By next summer we will all be ready for the excitement of summer once more, but in the meantime, please don't forget to send your news items to me. We missed last week because there wasn't any news sent to me. This is your column, and many people from far and wide, look forward to reading each week about the activities of what was once home. Please send the news items to me by Monday afternoon at the latest. Thank you.

HAD BRIDAL SHOWER

On Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15, Shelley MacPhee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Borden MacPhee, was showered with best wishes and many lovely gifts, on the occasion of her forthcoming wedding. Mrs. Mary Anne McRae read the address, which was written in rhyme and recalled many memories of Shelley from birth until now. A "Bride's Book" was made for her and all the guests signed it. Guests brought favorite recipes which were made into a book as well. Marily Kippen and Cathi Calder presented the gifts and Shelley was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Sybil MacPhee, her grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Campbell and her sister Maureen MacPhee.

In a few well chosen words Shelley thanked everyone and extended an invitation to visit her any time anyone was in Brockville. Everyone sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

While the last minute preparations for lunch were made, the guests were entertained by Sharon MacKinnon dancing the Highland Fling. A delicious lunch was enjoyed by all.

ROAD CLOSED!—Friday's torrents of rain were too much for a construction bypass on County Road 26 to handle. The road, which goes from North Lancaster south to Highway 401, was partially closed from Friday until today due to the high waters.

Local firm suspended

A Williamstown firm is among several companies suspended recently under the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan.

A press release from the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada says that Robert Leger Investments Canada Ltd. of Williamstown has been suspended under the program.

A Chesterville company, 358-205 Ontario Ltd. (CL Homes), has also been suspended.

Suspensions are levied "either because of a breach of the warranty agreement, or for financial reasons," the HUDAC release says.

Since December 31, 1976, all builders in the province must be registered with the HUDAC New Home Warranty Program, which administers the Ontario New Home Warranties Plan.

Under the warranty program, the home buyer's deposits or payments are protected before the sale is completed. Then, during the first year after the buyer takes possession of the new home, the registered builder agrees to repair any defects of workmanship or materials at his expense.

Any major structural defects which appear in the following four years will be corrected by the warranty plan.

"Every builder constructing new homes and every vendor selling new homes must be registered under the warranties plan," HUDAC notes.

"The only exceptions are rehabilitated homes, homes built for temporary or seasonal purposes, mobile or prefabricated homes not placed on permanent foundations and rental properties."

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

Cattails come into their own

Observe the brawny cattail as it sways in the wind along Glengarry roads and in the marshes. You may be looking at one of the most important water pollution control problems in our country.

Luckily for us in this county, cattails have been left for the most part just where they stand.

Scientists have gradually become aware of the Creator's purpose for this hardy plant, and instead of draining the wetlands and thus destroying it, they are now going to create artificial lakes or marshes and seed them with cattails.

A lagoon seeded with cattails and bulrushes, the first of its kind in Canada, has just been opened in Humboldt, Sask., and one is in the planning stages for Listowel, Ont.

Doug McTavish, the regional director for Environmental Ontario explains that: "Cattails will use the nutrients found in sewage effluent fertilizers. With the removal of nutrients from the effluent, water courses could be kept free from a build-up of aquatic vegetation, algae and other water plants which eventually use up valuable dissolved oxygen. The latter is essential to any watercourse for the life of fish and other aquatic life."

To remove the various pollutants from untreated sewage, microorganisms and the cattails break down the sewage and absorb the pollutants as they grow. The root system of this aquatic plant produces an antibiotic substance that kills human and animal fecal matter bacteria.

Thus, the plants can even be harvested later to be used for cattle feed or processed into insulating fibre.

The Federation of Ontario Naturalists claims that since the time of first settlement, we have been draining, filling and dredging wetlands, with the result that 60-75 per cent of Southern Ontario's original wetland acreage has been lost.

In wetlands the peaty soils act like a giant sponge which can store flood waters and gradually release them later, reducing the damaging effects of floods and maintaining summer flows in streams. Some marshes allow stored waters to percolate downwards into the ground water assuring a steady supply to neighboring wells.

All of Ontario's waterfowl rely on wetlands for their habitat, argue the naturalists, as do dozens of other species of birds. Frogs, toads, all insect-eaters and mammals from muskrat to white-tail deer use the marshes at least part of the year. No marshes, no wildlife inhabitants.

Cattails and the marshes where they grow provide more than one natural service. These are finally being recognized.

Board on wrong track already

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Roman Catholic Separate School board is embarking on a probe to determine how it can improve its communication with the public.

Good idea.

We would like to make a suggestion, however, that the commission on communications take one pace backwards before it goes any further with this probe.

In a press release mailed out September 12, the board announces the dates for meetings which will be held at various schools throughout the area.

The release also notes that "briefs should be sent no later than September 27, 1979."

First of all, it is apparently necessary to remind the board that weekly newspapers publish once a week. The press release arrived here last Thursday, well after the Tuesday night press deadline adhered to by most weeklies. This means the news concerning the meetings and brief deadline could not possibly be conveyed to the public until the September 19 issue.

Since most weeklies have a very large rural circulation, the newspapers are distributed by mail, which means it could easily take two days before subscribers see their papers. This brings the date to September 21.

This, in turn, means members of the public have six days in which to call a meeting of their various organizations, debate the issue, arrive at a consensus, have someone type up the brief, get the document duplicated and then mail it to the board offices.

This is the first step towards better communication?

Once again, the bureaucracy appears to have set up a structure designed more to fit the timetable of officials than the public.

If the board is genuinely interested in opening the doors of communication, it would be well advised to extend the deadline by at least two weeks.

Granted, there was discussion last term about the commission of enquiry, but all of the momentum was lost during the summer holidays. We suspect that many ratepayers are not fully aware of the board's intentions.

Giving them six days in which to collect their thoughts and prepare written presentations is not an example of techniques in communication.

It's back to the grind for the young folk who must endure another session of "book-learning."

For some this is a joyous experience. The world is full of beautiful books crammed with material that may be exciting or not, depending on the child. And the teacher. And the parents.

The books will be different for many. But in between the studies, for just about all of the students who can read, there will be the interlude with "Mad" magazine, the one that runs all the features making light of current woes and suggesting that laughing at ourselves in exasperating situations is one of the best ways to cope.

The October issue for instance has a special on "new-improved" products that are really new and improved. A few of the examples follow.

To deal with the last remaining amounts of peanut butter and other such gooey substances, a jar would have double lids, top and bottom. "When the user gets down to the bottom, he merely turns the jar over, unscrews the other lid and easily removes the contents."

To get the most out of a tube containing toothpaste and other creams, the new-improved tube dispenser would have "a built-in key at its base for neat, easy, perfect rolling-up to the every last drop."

Since the standard telephone is difficult to manage when both hands are occupied the "new-improved" telephone has a concealed "head-hook" that can be clamped into the top of the head.

And then there are the items that can be bought only in multi-packs, when only one of the articles is needed. The new improved multi-pack would dispense only one item at a time: one can of beer, one cigarette, one tennis ball, one nut and bolt, one watermelon.

Another section offers a table of little-known and very useless weights, measures and distances: 198 square miles is the amount of "Saran Wrap" the average person overpulls in a lifetime. . . . Precisely the amount the average person overwaters his plants each week is 4.2 gallons. . . . The average distance between the wall socket and how far the plug of your new appliance cord reaches is 2.3 inches. . . . The average amount of wax that drips all over the icing on a birthday cake before the candles are blown out is 3.2 ounces. . . . The average distance remaining between your hand and the toll booth's automatic ticket-dispensing machine is 3.7 inches. The list goes on.

Yet another feature is entitled: Why do we assume it? This is for all of us "soft in the head."

We have become that way because: "We've come to view our lives and the world around us with the same amazing lack of logic that we've learned from our peerless leaders.

Some of the reasoning included is: Why do we assume it makes sense . . . to believe those bank commercials that tell us we can outsmart a nine per cent inflation rate by opening an account that pays five per cent interest? . . . To slave and sacrifice to get into an exclusive college with a world-renowned faculty and then cut every class where the prof doesn't take attendance? . . . To blow our life savings on a trip to Europe when it's possible to find places right here at home where we can be overcharged, short-changed and treated with utter contempt? . . . To plan for the future when the evening TV news keeps telling us that everything we eat, wear or breathe could kill us tomorrow?

I might add: Why do we assume it makes sense to pay $35 each for college books when the teachers use every other book on the market but the ones the students have had to buy?

All life's problems will never be solved but some are a little more bearable if we can make light of them. Which is the reason most of us parents snitch the kids' Mad magazines. We like to chuckle too.

Perspective

by Bob Roth

Nonsense and more nonsense

Many people in this area travel to Ottawa from time to time, so I thought it would be of interest to warn people (if you haven't heard the bad news already) about that city's new approach to crime prevention.

It is illegal in that city to leave any unattended car unlocked. That means if you stop at a shopping centre and pop inside to pick up a few things, you are a lawbreaker if you do not lock your car.

The maximum fine for breaking the by-law has just been increased from $10 to $1,000.

What could better demonstrate how twisted our legal concepts have become? The by-law is a classic example of society's growing preoccupation with protecting the criminal at the expense of the victim.

The curious argument used to justify this by-law is that an unlocked car—particularly with the keys inside—is a temptation to thieves.

Therefore, if someone steals your unlocked car, it's your fault. You're the crook.

Taking the by-law's approach (of not "tempting" criminals) to its logical conclusion, we can look forward to other gigantic strides in law enforcement such as:

It will soon be an offence to carry a wallet, because this is a conspicuous temptation to pickpockets.

It will be illegal to walk past a dark alley because this is an invitation for a mugger to jump out at you.

It will be illegal to have windows in your house because these are tempting targets for stone-throwing vandals.

For years, law enforcement agencies have been warning us about the leniency of the courts and our legal system's failure to provide adequate deterrents to crime.

Civic leaders, meanwhile, completely missing the point, have responded by making criminals out of the victims.

In Ottawa, it is now illegal to allow someone to steal your car.

Some days you can't do anything right, as Ontario Premier Bill Davis found out last week.

The Federation of Francophones outside Quebec recently denounced Davis' refusal to endorse the concept of a physically separate French-language school in Penetanguishene.

The federation said Davis' position was "a manifestation of the Davis government's deep-rooted contempt for Franco Ontarians."

Davis had agreed to establishing the French school as an annex to an already existing school building, but the Francophone group said this would not be adequate.

To avoid assimilation, young people had to be free of English-speaking influence, the federation argued. What was needed was a "totally French milieu." Having English and French side-by-side was unacceptable.

At the same time, the provincial government was denounced by another Francophone group for not keeping English and French side by side on assessment notices.

The province is sending around a questionnaire in Eastern Ontario asking people whether they would like assessment notices in English or French.

Jean Poirier of the Association of French Canadians of Ontario blasted the move as "totally unacceptable."

Why?

"It is difficult for an Anglophone in any part of the province to deny the existence of Franco-Ontarians when the notices and bills are bilingual," Poirier explained.

Poor Mr. Davis. When he suggests placing English and French schools side-by-side, he is told this does not contribute to the creation of a French "milieu."

When he tries to recognize a French milieu by removing unnecessary English from that milieu, he is accused of trying to deny the existence of Franco-Ontarians.

Some mornings, it pays to stay in bed.

Concerned about boat people

September 12, 1979

Ottawa, K1S 2J6

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

"Boat People"—Canada's Responsibility in Collaborating with the U.S. in the Vietnam War and the Consequent Responsibility to Aid Reconstruction of the Devastated Country.

Your editorial captioned "Is there Room in the Inn?" Glengarry News Aug. 22, quite rightly applauds humanitarian aid for the Southeast Asian "Boat People."

The recently-formed Ottawa Committee to Aid Vietnam, of which I am a member, is concerned that little or no background material on the causes of the economic dislocation, even to the point of famine, is being provided by the media.

The primary cause of the tragedy is obviously the United States invasion, saturation bombing, chemical defoliation and napalming which devastated the whole area. As in George Orwell's "1984" the Vietnam war and its aftermath is rapidly being made "non-history."

While the United States bears the principal responsibility for the Southeast Asian tragedy Canada bears its share too as we supported the war by supplying arms and components to the U.S. for use in Vietnam, as well as providing diplomatic support at critical times during the war.

The co-operation of the media and churches is needed to support the call for massive humanitarian reconstruction aid needed to help the people of Vietnam in their back-breaking work of reconstructing the ruined country.

The aims and objectives of the Ottawa Committee to Aid Vietnam include the following:

(1) To sort out and evaluate the many conflicting reports of events in Southeast Asia. (One of our committee members made a trip to Vietnam (Saigon) to visit relatives early in 1979).

(2) To encourage individuals and organizations to give aid to the 50 million or so people still in Vietnam by donations to such humanitarian organizations as Canadian Aid to Vietnam Civilians (CAVC) or Canadian Friends Service Committee, who provide humanitarian aid. Addresses are listed at the end of letter.

(3) To urge the Canadian government to provide reconstruction aid to Vietnam and for our Canadian government to urge the United States government to live up to its commitments to provide reconstruction aid to Vietnam where it spent some $150 billion in sowing devastation during the war period.

The need for brevity precludes more detailed evaluation of the problems. However, I am enclosing copies of an "Open letter" "Re-establishing the Facts about Vietnam" which is issued by the Quebec Committee to Aid Vietnam.

Persons wishing to support our committee in these efforts can contact me at my Ottawa address —18 Third Avenue.

Yours truly,
Gavin J. McEwen

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Concerning the Glengarry Pipe Band:

Having been a great admirer of the band for years it was a great pleasure to read the report of your participation in the great Clan Gathering in Nova Scotia.

Having seen most of your performances and concerts I have gotten to know mostly all the members of the band and a lot of their parents, some of them relatives of mine.

On reading the report of the Nova Scotia trip given to the News I noticed that the writer of it left out the names of several young pipers and drummers not printed in the list of members.

I hoped to see it corrected in last week's issue of The News. Think how those young members and their parents feel after several years of participation in all the band's performances.

It's not nice to be asked: "I thought you were in the pipe band. How come?"

Hope you correct this mistake.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I want to thank you for helping me to make Agricrew a success.

Robbie Rothgeb's article with the photo in your newspaper helped me a lot to get farmers interested in the program.

I want to thank the Agricultural Representative Jim Humphries, and his assistants, Gaetan Paquette and Glen Smith for helping a lot in my work. They helped a great deal to reach the success I had in Glengarry County.

For now, let's say that Agricrew should be back next year. I do not know if I will work in Agricrew again next year but I really liked my job. The experience I had working in an agricultural office, hiring students and providing them with work will certainly help me in achieving other jobs.

I have some other statistics which might interest you. From the 18 farm employers of Glengarry County, seven were from Dalkeith, three from Alexandria, three from Williamstown, two from Apple Hill, one from Bainsville, one from Maxville and one from Green Valley.

Yours very truly,
Denys Legault,

Opposes marina expansion

Charlottenburgh Township says it is not prepared to support further expansion of Gray's Creek Marina until all alternatives have been explored.

Council took the stand Monday following the Raisin Region Conservation Authority's decision Thursday to add 50 slips to the marina basin. The existing 48 slips are fully rented.

The Authority also decided to offer winter boat storage inside the building for a fee, and outside the building for free.

Charlottenburgh has expressed concern that expansion of the marina places the publicly-owned facility in competition with private marina operators.

Ian Macintosh, owner of Lancaster Inn and Marina, said the local marina association would meet soon to discuss the latest developments.

The marina association originally presented a brief to the Conservation Authority opposing any expansion of the facility.

The association noted that the major function of Gray's Creek Marina was to assist in removal of boathouses illegally occupying crown and city-owned land at the mouth of the creek.

The Ottawa Citizen, which covered Thursday's Authority meeting, reported that Cornwall Alderman George Williamson said expansion was needed to bring the marina operation to a break-even point.

The Citizen report is as follows:

"There was a definite need for a marina and the proof is that all its docking spaces were rented quickly," said Alderman Williamson.

"Without adding the proposed 52 boat slips to the current 48, it won't be a viable concern," he said.

According to preliminary figures, the marina operation will end up with a deficit of about $10,000.

"We can't permit it to run at a loss every year because it would be a waste of taxpayers' money," said Mr. Williamson, who noted that Cornwall, the largest member municipality, will have to pick up more than 80 per cent of this tab.

"If we lost that money someone would have to be out of his tree to submit a tender to operate the marina," he said.

However, Authority Chairman Robert Roth vacated the chair to vigorously oppose the expansion program, terming it a waste of public funds.

"I don't think the government should be involved in competing with private enterprise," said Mr. Roth, who represents Charlottenburgh Township.

"What we have done is take the tax money of private marina operators and used it against them—a principle I can't support," he said.

Roth noted that the marina was developed to provide an alternative to the illegal boathouses scattered along the creek's mouth.

He also lashed out at Cornwall for failing to reply to numerous requests as to what the city intends to do with the illegal boathouses.

Cornwall Alderman Angelo Lebano, who has crossed swords with Roth before, said nothing was wrong with developing the marina.

"I am sure that if we were wrong, the government authorities would have never let us do it."

Cornwall Township Reeve John Cleary, authority vice-chairman, then got the authority members to vote on the issue and the result was 7-6 in favor of expanding the marina.

Roth also lost by a vote of 8-5 a bid to restrict winter storage of boats at the marina to boat owners now using the facility.

Another controversial motion proposing the installation of a third flagpole to fly the American flag was approved 7-6.

Dorothy Fawthrop of Lancaster called the additional $600 expenditure "a waste of money."

Citizen Fri., Sept. 14/79
(End of Citizen report.)

In a statement Tuesday, Macintosh said "it was thought that the new marina site was a viable alternative for the boathouse owners. This does not seem to be the situation as it exists now. We have the Raisin Region Conservation Authority, a government body, actively engaged in the commercial marina business."

Speaking as a private marina operator, Macintosh said there were several alternatives to offsetting the annual operating deficit at Gray's Creek without adding slips.

The Conservation Authority could offer space, for a fee, to private enterprise to operate concessions on the site, he suggested.

He cited a food concession, paddleboats and a tour boat as three concessions which could be rented out. In all cases, the operations would be run by private enterprise, he said.

The tour boat operation would be an excellent means for people "to see Cornwall's beautified shoreline after the shoreline clean-up is completed," Macintosh noted.

At Monday's council meeting, Charlottenburgh Reeve Adrian Gadbois also questioned the wisdom of attempting to offset the marina's deficit by expanding facilities.

He said expanding the marina would also increase costs of maintenance, thereby eroding the offsetting revenue.

Noting that several Authority members have already spoken about the "need" and demand for more facilities, Gadbois predicted the proposed expansion would only be the first step in further expansion.

Once the new slips were filled, there would be pressure for increased boat storage space, he suggested.

Taxpayers, therefore, would be continually pumping more money into the marina.

In Memoriam

MAJOR—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother Denise Major who died Sept. 21, 1978.
Gone from earth so swiftly
Just like a flower in bloom.
So young, so fair, so loving,
Yet called away so soon.
She was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here for a while,
God marked her when He gave her birth,
And took her with a smile.
—Missed deeply by her husband
Winston and daughters. 38-1p

LEGAULT—In loving memory of a dear father Bruno who passed away four years ago today, September 22, 1975.
God's golden gates stood open,
Four years ago today,
With farewells left unspoken,
You quietly slipped away.
You suffered much in silence,
Your spirit did not bend,
You faced your pain with courage,
Until the very end.
You fought so hard to stay with us,
But your fighting was in vain,
God took you to His lovely home,
And freed you from all pain.
If you could have spoken before you died,
These are the words you would have replied,
"This life for me has truly passed,
I loved you all till the very last.
Weep not for me, but courage take,
Love one another for my sake."
—Sadly missed by daughter Lorraine, son-in-law Lucien, and grandsons Daniel and Sylvain. 38-1p

LEGAULT—In loving memory of Bruno, a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away four years ago today, Sept. 22, 1975.
I often sit and think of you,
When I am all alone.
For memories are the only thing,
That grief can call its own.
To your place of rest I travel,
And place the flowers with care,
But no one knows the heartaches
As I turn and leave you there.
My heart still aches with sorrow
And secret tears still flow,
For what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
—Sadly missed by your wife, Grace and son Marc. 38-1p

Sports in the Glens

ANGUS H. McDONELL

One of the all-time NHL greats, Bobbie Hull, will be playing his twentieth year in pro hockey, providing Winnipeg's General Manager John Ferguson and his Black Hawks' counterpart Bob Pulford, can agree on terms. However, by adding Hull's Midget and Junior hockey years to his pro career, you will come up with a quarter century on the blades. Very few pros in any sport better that record.

However, Bobby Hull's record is not the theme of our stint this week. We have used that introduction to illustrate that right here in the Glens we have a well-known sportsman and soccer-playing offical who has played 25 consecutive years in our Glengarry Soccer League. Thus parallel to Bobby Hull. Very few amateurs in any sport equal, let alone exceed, that record. That player, folks, is none other than goal-keeper and referee Gerald (Rannie Hughie Ranald) MacDonald of Greenfield.

Gerald guarded the net in his Glengarry Soccer Senior League game away back in 1954. And as you would expect, with his birthplace team, Greenfield. He was a young teenager and standing in that yawning goal space if you were a scout you might wonder if he would survive through his first game, let alone to peer into the future for a quarter of a century. Our reasoning is based on his unorthodox goal keeper stature, short and chubby instead of being tall with lanky arms to reach up for a cross-bar rifle shot or punch away a ball directed to either side and almost out of reach.

Gerald's dad, "Rannie Hughie Ranald" was of standard goal keeping measurements, a six-footer or more, and he had matching strength that prevailed with him during his lifetime of C.N. track maintenance work. But Gerald inherited the stature of his mother, who was a member of the Lochiel "Little Alex" MacMillans.

Lanky height is a goalkeeper's asset and best exhibited by Canadiens' now retired Ken Dryden. However, there have been great goalies who barely headed over the cross bar. In the Golden Twenties there was "Jumping Jake" Forbes of NHL Toronto and Hamilton. And how about Gump Worsley? That is the soccer class Gerald MacDonald has been in for 25 years and before he retires, at his present rate of stamina, he could go well beyond Bobby Hull and be in the shadows of Gordie Howe.

What Gerald MacDonald lacked in height and reach he overcame by developing his own style, and his anticipation judgment in handling shots and agility in clearing earned a deserved reputation that rates him among the all-time-great Glengarry soccer goalies of the past 55 years.

Gerald played in the Greenfield net for 16 years. Then about 1970 dissension crept into the Greenfield camp resulting in a player transfer to Dunvegan. Ron McCormick, Wilbert McDonald and Gerald Flaro were among the players shifting to Dunvegan with Gerald for a couple of seasons.

Then Gerald played briefly with Glen Sandfield, the Glengarry Stars, Alexandria, Pine Grove and back to Stars this term to complete a successive skein of 25 years. Among other players we would speculate close to that record would be Allan Ambrose McCormick and Hubert Hay. Morlin Campbell and Keith MacMillan in the executive role plus playing are in the top bracket, too.

Gerald MacDonald from the outset became a student of soccer, specializing in the art of goal keeping. The evidence of his success can be certified by taking a look at the "Best Goalie" award. You will note his name has been inscribed seven times. Studying the rule book was another of his ambitions. This injected Gerald into the role of referee at a tender age and in an era when officiating was often done gratis. But times have changed, relates Gerald, the stipend became $5 and has been upped to $12. Once a ref picked linesmen out of the crowd but now they, too, are paid seven bucks each and have the authority to call off-sides and bring to the referee's attention any minor infraction that he may have missed.

Local prospective referees each spring have the opportunity of attending a four-night instruction course by an Ottawa official. They must pass a final exam before handling any of the scheduled games. Another feature that has become a major asset is players moving around from their own area if they so desire. The case of Greenfield this year is a prime example. The Morris brothers plus Brian Filion and Johnny Charlebois reside in the Alexandria area. Without those players it is doubtful if Greenfield could muster a team. Certainly not champions. To pick an All-Star team from the players of the past 25 years Gerald claims is impossible. In his judgment a player is a star for four or five years, then a younger player takes over and this history keeps repeating itself. The net result being Glengarry soccer fans now enjoy a vastly improved game both in speed and play making. That analysis also applies to, say, NHL hockey. The game today, sometimes using four forward lines to maintain jet speed backed by at least two goalies, is in contrast to 25 years ago.

On that hockey note we will close out by recalling that the subject of this column enjoyed a brief but successful hockey coaching experience in 1960-61-62.

Greenfield, with Gerald as coach and Father Cameron close by, had a Junior "C" team built around Wayne Villeneuve in goal, Ralph MacSweyn and Willie Terry on defence and Wilbert McDonald as the Guy Lafleur up front. While defending the championship in 1961-62 Greenfield won 21 straight games.

Sport fans in the Glens join us in extending Gerald MacDonald best wishes for continued service as a player and referee in Glengarry soccer.

FELICITATIONS

What a coincidence! Two of Glengarry's veteran athletes and sportsmen are celebrating this weekend and next the 50th anniversary of their centre-aisle two-step.

Fifty years ago Elsie Jacques was the bride of Dr. Don MacRae, while Madeline Houlihan became Mrs. Ben Villeneuve.

Don MacRae in his Dunvegan youth was quite a soccer player. Then he graduated in dentistry and in his favorite sport became one of Canada's great marksmen. His successful achievements with Canadian Bisley teams are legendary.

The name Ben Villeneuve is synonymous with success in hockey, soccer, lacrosse, curling, you name it, in Glengarry in general and Maxville in particular.

There is an old adage, Don and Ben are authentic examples, that a man's success in this world is assured by the home cornerstone —his "missus." Congratulations!

HITHER AND YON

Ourtown's most avid baseball fan has to be Kay McLeister . . . as we go to press Kay is in the "Big O" watching, we hope, Expos take over the top rung from Pittsburgh.

Enjoyed quite a chuckle with Walter Blaney at the Warden's Banquet last Saturday night in Maxville . . . we were close to the oasis (that's par for the course), and a guest asked Walter which tap was ginger ale . . . "The one on your right," was the reply . . . I asked who might the guest be . . . Walter's answer . . . "Anyone looking for ginger ale sure as hell isn't from Glengarry."

Well done Hubert, and your neighborly aides, George Crites and Hugh McIntyre.
