Progressive Conservatives decide on joint presidents

Meeting at Finch, Friday night, members of the Progressive Conservative Association for the provincial riding of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry voted to amend their constitution to include two presidents.

Another new rule will ensure that a candidate must acknowledge and consent to his or her proposal as a candidate, either in writing or publicly at the convention, before the close of nominations.

Two presidents—Bruno Massie and Sam Ault—have been acting as joint presidents since last fall but Brian West suggested two presidents would be "inefficient."

One president, regardless of age and ethnic origin, would suffice, he said, since the constitution already has enough vice presidents.

"Why complicate matters with two presidents? And why advertise a split to the media if two people have conflicting views," said Mr. West.

Mr. Ault's reasoning was that a unilingual person running as a member would want a co-chairman to help campaign in areas where the majority spoke the other official language.

"We don't need two presidents to solve the problem," argued Mr. West. "I think help would be forthcoming regardless."

Another member of the association, Robert Kerr, Alexandria, commented that the "PC's have to do everything possible to get the loyalty of the French."

The constitution was also changed to read that of the three directors from each county, one must be under 30 and one must be bilingual.

Sam Ault and J. Douglas Grenkie, both of Morrisburg, were selected as delegates to the provincial annual in Toronto May 13 to 16. Other delegates will be named by the executive.

Election of officers will be held at the annual meeting in Finch Arena, June 2nd.

No stop here

The new schedule of CNR train service at Alexandria published in last week's issue is already in need of revision.

Train No. 37, westbound at 2:53 p.m. daily, will not stop in Alexandria, CNR officials have decided. The railway had listed three daily stops here for westbound trains but evidently has decided that would be spoiling us. As a result train No. 37 will not stop here.

Daily service to Ottawa will consist of trains at 10:35 a.m. and 6:25 p.m. daily, with another train at 10:32 p.m. Friday and Sunday.

PREP FOR TREE PLANTING—Boy scouts and cubs will be busy across Canada, Saturday, tree planting and these scouts are seen getting a lesson from Gerry Spray of the Ministry of Natural Resources. Lone Scouts Steven and Timmy Taylor of Williamstown, are the only two registered Lone Scouts in Canada. Instead of working with a scout troop, the boys follow the Scout program on their own. Cornwall and District Scouts will be planting 20,000 trees on Crown land near Finch.

Former Glengarrian is co-author of interesting book — Hallowed Walls

"Hallowed Walls" one of the more recent non-fiction publications to reach the book stores and libraries is the brain child of a former Glengarrian, Marion MacRae of Toronto.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John D. MacRae, ex-MP, Apple Hill, Marion attended the Ontario College of Art, Toronto, and since graduation has been a valued member of their staff. At present she is an instructor in Design and Museum Research and also a visiting lecturer in the Dep't of Architecture, University of Toronto.

Along with co-author, Dr. Anthony Adamson, noted restoration architect, Marion spent six years of intensive research preparing to write this book. The postlude and drawings are by Dr. Adamson, a recent recipient of the Officer of the Order of Canada, but the book itself is typically Marion to those of us who have read and enjoyed "MacNab of Dundurn" and "The Ancestral Roof".

"Hallowed Walls" as you may have guessed—if you haven't already read the book—is a story of the places of worship in Upper Canada. Unlike countries blessed with moderate climates, our ruins and/or old churches and meeting houses are not really old. Even if it were not for the heavy snows, ice, heaving frosts and disastrous fires, we still would not have really ancient buildings to enjoy. The MacRae-Adamson team have, however, provided us with the only comprehensive study of its kind to date.

The book begins with the Amerindian pre-history age—the Serpent mounds near Rice Lake at Peterborough being the earliest structure in Ontario known to have been designed for purposes of worship. The longhouses and Fort Ste. Marie in Huronia follow, as recorded history begins. Christianity takes hold then and as the Loyalists and others arrive and settle in groups, usually religiously oriented, the need for places of worship for the various religions grew.

Fairly simple buildings at the beginning reflected the tastes of the people, suiting their different forms of worship. These were soon to be followed by bigger (in most cases) and more elaborate buildings of stone and brick. European architecture was at first followed by memory—then by design as more skilled craftsmen arrived. Problems arrived too. People could not always afford what master-masons wished to build. The late church at St. Raphael's—now an Historic Site—was the result of a compromise between Archibald Fraser, a cantankerous master-mason and a high-handed, autocratic Highland Bishop who stayed on the job himself and helped cut costs by supervising his labor force of parish volunteers.

Many incidents such as this liven the book for the lay reader as the tale goes on through the different types of architectural styles. Glengarrians will find much of interest. St. Andrew's West, Williamstown (St. Andrew's), St. Elmo, Kirk Hill, St. Raphael's are here in detail, as well as others. Familiar names abound—Rev. John Bethune, Bishop Strachan, Bishop Alexander Macdonell "who knew a lot of good Protestant prayers," Rev. Daniel Gordon and others both here and throughout the province, almost all well known, adding much of human interest to what is really a learned study of both interior and exterior structural design.

The book is full of sketches as well as excellent pictures, most of them by Page Toles who was also the official photographer for "The Ancestral Roof" a non-fiction best-seller.

It will be no surprise if "Hallowed Walls" also makes the best-seller list, perhaps it already has. The book has much in it of interest to the casual reader, as well as to the serious student, and it will find a place in many homes as well as in school and community libraries. In fact, why not plan an Ontario holiday this summer, and use the book as a guide for worthwhile places to visit en route.

Majority secondary teachers vote in favor of strike action

While final mediation efforts were failing last Thursday, the 542 secondary teachers of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry county board of education voted heavily in favor of strike action.

The talks broke off in spite of efforts by mediators Judge Caroll Anderson of Belleville and Bryan Downie, a Queen's University professor of industrial relations, who have been meeting with the negotiating teams from both sides to try to reach a settlement.

While mediation was failing, 94 per cent of the teachers voted by an 88 per cent margin Thursday to reject the board's offer. Of that 88 per cent, 73 per cent voted in favor of strike action.

Under legislation passed last year regarding collective agreements between Ontario school boards and teachers, the teachers must give a board five clear (working) days notice of strike action.

John Beveridge, executive assistant to the SD&G county board's director of education, said no such notice had been received.

A statement issued by the board says the teacher negotiating committee will present the board's revised proposals to the teachers on which an informal vote will be taken. It will not be a ratification vote.

Mr. Beveridge said partial agreement was reached on some issues and that a strike is not inevitable. He added that the board's final offer cannot be made public.

Both sides have agreed that when and if a new contract is ratified, it will run eight months retroactive to Jan. 1. The teachers are currently working under the terms of the previous contract which ran from July 1, 1974 to Dec. 31, 1975.

The teachers have the option of either an eight-month or a 20-month contract as all contracts must expire on Aug. 31 as of next year.

Under the old agreement, secondary teachers were paid salaries ranging from $9,500 to $20,900, depending on experience and qualifications.

The teachers received cost-of-living allowances ranging from $1,000 to $1,400 last Sept. 1 to bring their salaries to the present range.

A fact-finder's report released last month identified the main areas of dispute as working conditions, classification of departments and of positions of leadership and supervision, salary guide including responsibility allowances, cost-of-living, fringe benefits and experience allowance, educational leave of absence and sick leave.

Stricter penalties now in force for charges of impaired driving

A lengthy court session here Monday saw Judge White sit from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. with only time out for a cup of coffee. The heavy docket had 48 cases, none of them minor traffic charges.

Among six case of impaired driving heard an Alexandria man was fined $230 when he pleaded guilty. His driving permit was automatically suspended for three months.

New penalties for impaired driving are much sterner than previously, reports Police Chief Cleroux. For a first offence, the fine is not more than $2,000; not less than $50; or a 6 months prison term, or both.

A second offence provides imprisonment for not more than one year, not less than 14 days and subsequent offences call for imprisonment for not more than two years and not less than three months.

Automatic licence suspension is for three months and on second offence, six months.

Jean Trottier died at 64

In the insurance business here for 30 years, Jean Trottier died Sunday in Glengarry Memorial Hospital. Aged 64, he had been in failing health for some time.

Restrict outdoor water use

Capacity of the water filtration plant was taxed during the recent dry spell and as a result the PUC has decided to restrict the use of outside water between May 1 and Sept. 1.

The same method used last summer will be in effect. Outside water will be in use only from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on alternate nights. Householders having an even house number will be able to use water on even days of the month; people with odd house numbers on odd days.

Train service to Toronto via Cornwall extensively changed

Area residents in the habit of taking the train at Cornwall on trips to Toronto will find a whole new ball game as the result of changes in scheduling on the Montreal-Toronto run.

The conventional trains, the Lakeshore and the Bonaventure, have been removed from service and the only conventional train to make stops at Cornwall now is the overnight train which stops at 12:58 a.m. on its way to Toronto.

A new rail liner service running between Brockville and Montreal will replace the conventional trains at Cornwall. Replacing the 10:15 a.m. train will be a rail liner at 9:33 which will connect with the Ottawa-Toronto train at Brockville. The train that used to leave at 6 p.m. is replaced by a rail liner at 5:28 p.m. making connections at Brockville.

An alternative service which started Monday links the Cornwall station by bus with the CN station at Kingston where the Turbo train can be picked up for the trip to Toronto. The bus connecting with the Turbo train will leave Cornwall at 7:40 a.m. daily except Sunday. It will pick up passengers at Brockville at 8:55 a.m. and connect with the Turbo at Kingston at 10:10 a.m. The Turbo arrives in Toronto at 12:10.

On the return trip, the Turbo will leave Toronto at 8 a.m. and get into Kingston at 10 a.m. The bus will arrive back in Cornwall at 12:25.

The rail liner service will provide two trains daily in each direction, with stops at Prescott and Cornwall.

ARENA CONDEMNED

After a thorough survey by a consulting engineer the fate of the Maxville Arena has been decided. The ice machine is in perfectly good working order . . . the building itself no longer measures up to present government standards and has been condemned. The estimated cost of the necessary alterations was prohibitively high. Village council is now studying the cost of a new arena . . . construction of which would be a major project, and an enormous challenge to the whole community. A prime factor in any decision will be the support that might be forthcoming from the surrounding communities which have always shared facilities with Maxville.

PLACED SECOND

Leslie Thornton of Maxville, won second prize in Junior A division of the Science Fair at Cornwall. Her display was on the bones of the animal kingdom, including a complete model of the human skeleton.

Area milk committees support plan for new cheese plant

The Stormont Milk Committee, the Glengarry Milk Committee and the corresponding committees from Prescott and Russell counties are going on record as being in favor of a project by the Montreal firm of Saputo Cheese Company to build a cheese plant in the eastern Ontario area.

The company has announced at least tentative plans to build a plant for the manufacture of what is called "stretch mozzarella" a special cheese for pizza making.

The plant would need 300,000 pounds of industrial milk a day for a start and the company has announced plans to increase in a season or two to about 500,000 to 600,000 pounds per day.

Richard Allinotte, secretary of the Stormont Milk Committee, an advisory body on matters connected with marketing milk, said the milk committees in the four eastern counties are unanimous in wanting to encourage Saputo Ltd. to build in the area. The company has advanced a proposal to build in the Hawkesbury area.

Mr. Allinotte mentioned two advantages for the area proposal. One is that it would provide a new market for milk, which is tending to increase in volume in this district, and the second is that it would in some measure re-establish the cheese industry locally, an industry which has recently been marked by many closures of small and medium plants until the former independent production of cheese has almost come to an end.

However, he says the local committees have encountered opposition. Ault Foods Ltd. at Winchester has opposed the proposition that a new plant should be built. The Ontario Milk Marketing Board is believed to favor having a plant near Eganville, Ont., where there is about 300,000 pounds of milk a day available, which is now being trucked to other markets.

As an associated advantage for the Saputo proposal, Mr. Allinotte notes that it would not produce milk powder, a product which is now in surplus supply. There would also be a small premium attached to milk supplied to the proposed plant because of the class of milk required which would be slightly above the ordinary industrial milk price.

At present, however, the Stormont committee says there are signs the company may abandon the Eastern Ontario proposal and build near Dorion, Que., where it might have the possibility of obtaining milk from Ontario anyway if a sufficient amount is needed.

At the meeting of the Stormont milk committee executive, Case Michels of R.R. No. 2 Finch was elected chairman, John Dore of Moose Creek, vice-chairman and Richard Allinotte, secretary-treasurer.

Stars reached semi-finals in Ottawa play

(by Carman MacMillan)

On Saturday, April 24th, the Glengarry Stars played their first game in the Royals Indoor Soccer Tournament at 10:20 a.m. The opposition was Richmond Hill from Toronto. They were a really experienced team in indoor play. The games themselves were of 20 minutes straight time. The Stars came out the winner in the first encounter by a score of one to zip. J. T. Hay was our goal-getter.

Our second game was played at 12:30 p.m. and was against Pointe Claire from Montreal. The score was two to one for the Stars with J. T. Hay getting both goals. Again we had some great goal tending at both ends. J. T. Hay missed on a penalty kick early in the game and Allan Byers saved on a penalty shot against us. The boys really came up with their best team effort of the day.

The third game was a bust as the opposition did not show up. After the two minute grace allowed a team to take the floor, the Stars were awarded the game.

By winning the three games we advanced into the semi-finals to be played at Walkely Arena starting on Sunday, April 25th.

The Stars played their first game in the semi-final against the Spartan team from Toronto. The game was well played by both sides. The Stars did not capitalize on their chances to score and came out on the short end of a 3 to 2 score. Goal scorers were J. T. Hay and Alan Lowe.

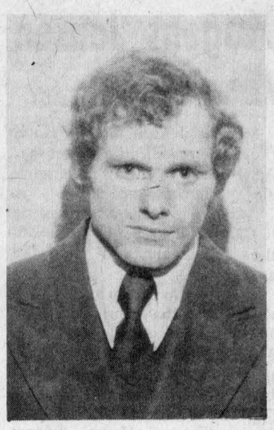
This game eliminated the Stars from further competition in the tournament.

The winner overall was a team called the Kickers from Montreal. This team plays in the professional league in the summer. They practise their ball control in the summer and winter by playing indoor soccer.

The Royals put on a very good tournament and we hope they will invite us back next year.

The Stars next game will be in the outdoor league. We will be defending our championship in the Los Latinos tournament on May 15th in Ottawa. This is a one-day affair.

Don't forget our spring dance at the Bonnie Glen Pavilion with Sylvester MacDonald and the Clansmen on June 11th, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Come one; come all!



KEEPING FIT—Peter McLeod of Glen Nevis, has recently joined the North American Fitness Institute Ltd. as an area director and fitness consultant. He has attained his B.A. at Carleton University and received honors in B.Sc. (kinonthropology) from Ottawa University. Peter lectures and demonstrates training and fitness techniques at service, schools, universities, trainers' clinics or any club or individual requiring his services. His latest project was developing a conditioning program for the Canadian Olympic Basketball team along with National Director Larry Chase.

Minor hockey slate elected

Alexandria minor hockey association held its meeting Tuesday night at the high school. The meeting was hampered by poor public attendance but a new slate of officers was chosen and the main executive re-instated.

Ron Allison remains as president, Morlin Campbell vice-president, Sylvia Crack as secretary, and Rupert Epp as treasurer.

The minor hockey board was also chosen with five members out of ten serving again. The new board consists of: Yvon Menard, Jean Yves Jeaurond, Nancy MacKenzie, Shirley Gagnon, Eric Oke, Richard Bellefeuille, Gwen Morris, Ubald Depratto, Wayne Crack and Gaetan Giroux.

A meeting is being planned for the near future for the new executive.

Williamstown teams won

At the Royal Bank Canadian Olympic Association Junior Olympic Basketball Tournament for Glengarry schools host Williamstown won both the Girls' and Boys' championships.

Bob Nicholls' boys team edged out Martintown 16-15 in an excellently played game while Williamstown's girls defeated Maxville Sr. 8-4.

Teams were to advance to the SDG Tri-County championships Tuesday, April 27th.

Adding lacrosse Char-Lan sports

Char-Lan minor hockey sports program is over and registration will be held soon for the summer recreation session. Softball will be the main attraction and will be enjoyed by both boys and girls but the boys have a new option with lacrosse being added to the roster. Registration will be held on May 1st and 8th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Martintown Fire Hall, St. Raphael's Church, Charlottenburgh Auditorium (anytime during the week) Glen Walter Fire Hall, and Tessier Confectionary in Glendale Subdivision. The fee is $3.00 per person or $5.00 a family. Proof of age must be submitted when registering and a $2.00 penalty will be imposed on registrations after the proposed dates.

Teams consisting of four non-interchangeable riders and ponies, in the Gymkana Events, will compete in three relay games. The winners will receive a trophy donated by the Glengarry Association of the Mentally Retarded.

Special classes have been added this year for Local Riders, There are 18 classes for ponies and 11 classes for horses. The show will commence at 9:30 a.m. on both days.

Prize lists have gone out and a large entry is expected. With the new events, the show promises to be exciting to both entrants and spectators alike.

Education week at local school

Education Week, April 4th to 10th, was a marked success at the Alexander School again this year. The theme for Education Week, 1976, was Knowledge is Understanding. This theme was considered in many ways as children were involved in a variety of activities: essays, poems, posters, slogans, art, bulletin boards, folk dances, choral speaking and music.

It was encouraging to pupils and staff to have so many interested parents visit the school during the week. On Wednesday afternoon parents visited classrooms and in the resource centre, saw a video tape of their children involved in many school activities. On Friday afternoon, mass was concelebrated by Father Leo MacDonell and Father Charles McDonald for pupils, staff and parents. After mass an enjoyable variety concert, involving all the pupils, was presented in the school auditorium to a large number of parents, sisters, priests and to Mr. Beaudette, Superintendent of English Language Separate Schools.

'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret

Went down to Indianapolis over Easter to watch Number Three son play hockey. Since time was limited we decided to fly. Anyone who goes anywhere by plane knows the three-step procedure—you go to the airport, walk about a quarter of the way to wherever you are going and then fly half way. When you de-plane you walk the other quarter distance to your destination.

It was the first time "de-plane" caught my attention. The prefix seems to go well with plane and I was trying it out with some other methods of transportation.—The government is forcing us to use seat-belts so we won't "de-car" in an accident. Helmets are necessary to prevent getting one's head bashed in if he "de-motorcycles" or "de-snowmobiles" in a crash. Does one "de-tractor" in a field? Maybe in time "de" will match up with other words besides plane but right now the only one that seems appropriate is "de-pot."

But to get back to Indianapolis. This has got to be just about the greatest hockey town there is. The fans there play as hard as their "Racer" team. They greet the team with a standing ovation each time the boys skate out of the dressing room. The goalie gets a standing ovation when he makes a good save and so does a player when he scores. The fans wear "positive wave" buttons all the time; you see them all over the place—on waiters and waitresses, sales clerks, people on streets everywhere. Cars have "I'm a Racer fan" on bumper stickers. Kids and adults alike sport "Racer" t-shirts. Everywhere the players go in the city they are recognized and people greet them and wish them good luck. For a city that never had big-time hockey until a few years ago it is a wonderful spirit. The boys on the team are all Canadian except a few from Europe, but Indianapolis has taken them under her wing to claim them as her own.

The "Market Square" arena where the team plays is new and situated in the centre city so the parking facilities are built inside. The sixth floor features a restaurant where you can reserve a table at the ringside and watch the big game below while you dine.

At press time the Racers team is still in competition but needs to win Thursday night's game for the division championship against New England.

Got a bird's-eye view of the Indianapolis 500 racetrack as we flew over it. It looked much smaller than I expected. I guess I had never thought much about it before but I must have unconsciously expected it to encircle the city or state or something like that.

Also got a real charge out of the folks in the stores, their courtesy and friendliness was especially noticeable, "Have a happy Easter now! Have a real nice day! Be sure and come back real soon! It was nice to meet you! We enjoyed having you shop here! All of this with a smile and expression of sincerity that was most appealing.

Missed hearing about Canada while away. The newscasts are so different from ours—where the American scene is so much a part of our daily news. No wonder so many Americans are unaware of their neighbors. We should contribute to their bi-centennial project by contacting all their news media to let them know we exist. Who knows, they might even find us interesting.

IT'S OUR OPINION

Should do away with grants

Area taxpayers got a double barrel of disenchantment last week. On the heels of a report from the county board of education that school levies would be higher, secondary school teachers voted heavily in favor of strike action.

The trustee board had reportedly cut its plans for spending to what it considered the essentials. Cost of instruction was not being pared, according to report, but teachers were in no mood to co-operate in holding down the budget. They are insistent on annual increment and still more fringe benefits and have given their union permission to strike if necessary to win their demands.

Queen's Park has put a firm limit on education grants this year and has warned school boards that all spending over those limits must be met via local taxation. The teachers appear totally unconcerned from whence the money is to come. They simply insist they must get a bigger slice of the pie.

It is an attitude that will not sit well with the taxpayer who is due to foot higher education costs no matter which level of government pays what share.

Both the federal and provincial governments are now finding it necessary to limit grant payments in several fields. The resultant demand for more taxation at the municipal level should leave us more aware of the insidious role grants play in increasing public spending. The higher levels of government launch these social programs on the eve of an election but later are eager to limit their share of involvement when costs become embarrassingly high. Ottawa is even now trying to shift the burden of the medicare scheme it initiated. Queen's Park is on the same track with education costs gone sky-high.

A complete overhaul of the taxation base is overdue. Ideally, it would do away with all grants between the various levels of government.

Should revert to 21

The Ontario Government is apparently, once again, on the verge of changing Ontario's minimum age for drinking, this time increasing it, notes an editorial in the Renfrew Mercury.

At present 18-year-olds are old enough (or so the law says) to drink in this province, but the government will apparently soon change this to 19.

It was summer in 1971 when the province decided that Ontario teenagers 18 and over were old enough to handle their booze legally, but since that time it has become increasingly obvious that most aren't and that younger teens are passing themselves off as 18 and over in almost every bar you can name.

The alcohol abuse problem among teens has reached alarming proportions in some area secondary schools as well as throughout the province and if you are to walk into many a bar you will find kids, obviously still wet behind the ears, getting wet inside.

It is commendable that the government has taken heed of public criticism of the present laws and plans to do something about it, but as usual the plan isn't going to work.

At age 18 a person legally becomes able to vote. Presumably he or she should also be able to drink. But then age is no guarantee of ability to drink sensibly.

We have the feeling that the problem will be with us regardless of what age the drinking limit is set at. The prohibiting of alcohol hasn't ever been much of a deterrent to those who want to drink. In the long run education is still the best answer.

What is the difference between an 18-year-old and a 19-year-old?

Not much, that's for sure, and the 15 and 16-year-olds aren't going to mind passing themselves off as 19 and most will be successful.

However 21 is a different story.

Most young people, by age 21, are out of secondary school (let's hope so anyway) and into either higher educational institutions or out working.

Most have matured by that age and have a little better idea of what life is all about.

If the drinking age is to be increased again, let's make it 21 and get it back to the age where it should do some good.

Our wants—and our needs

When Hon. Darcy McKeough addressed a regional meeting of municipal officials in Wingham a few weeks ago he made it clear, in very few words, that the provincial government's fiscal policy would change, notes an editorial in The Wingham Advance-Times. He said there would be ample money for what we need—but not enough for everything we want.

The difference between our legitimate needs and our luxury-minded wants is precisely the difference between ruin and progress. Through the past two or three decades a whole generation of Canadians has reached maturity, married, and become parents of new families. Most of these younger people have scoffed at the older generation, the people who lived through and somehow survived the great depression of the Thirties. What these younger folks have failed to realize is that any person who learned the lessons of those grim years can never forget them. Yes, they are the people who cannot bear to waste food, to leave unnecessary lights burning; the ones who crab about cars that fail to deliver adequate mileage on a gallon of gasoline. They are the same ones who expect a suit of clothes to last for more than one year and who believe that there is something unholy about giving less than their best efforts for a day's pay.

Out of style as these folks may be, unless their sense of values is understood by a majority of younger people there is no way our country can emerge from the suicidal corkscrew of inflation. Millions of younger Canadians will have to learn that a family can survive and even be happy without a second car; that a holiday spent painting the house or digging the flowerbeds can be nearly as much fun as two weeks in an expensive lakeside cottage. We can trim our sails without feeling unbearable pain.

Governments, too, will have to start practising what they so glibly preach. No sane country can afford the vote-buying handouts that have been thrown around in Canada for the past 20 years. Think of the millions that could be saved by paying old age pensions to those people who really need it and cutting off those who don't—and the same with baby bonus cheques.

Take a long look at the additional millions handed out in Local Improvement grants and Opportunities for Youth programs. Certainly some of this largesse is spent on worthwhile causes—but one heck of a lot is frittered away on silly projects that do nothing more than keep somebody off the list of unemployed—which is the government's chief motive in the first place.

Government interference in business has proven to be one of the most virulent forms of inflation-building in the land. For example, the government decrees that no employer can lawfully permit a worker to be on the job more than a given number of hours in any week and that the employer must pay him for so many weeks holidays every year . . . despite the fact that a man or woman who needs the money might be very glad to work the extra hours. Every time government dictates an additional cost of production to employers the price of some product has to be increased.

It's high time we returned to an attitude of common sense. The alternative is an economic collapse which will make the Dirty Thirties look like a Sunday School picnic.

WITH OUR

by Ed.

TIME WAS FLYING

The change-over to summer time was rather ill-timed last weekend what with those chill winds out of the north and even scatterings of snow across southern Ontario.

Your Rambling Reporter usually takes the time change in stride and he was right on the ball in turning the clock ahead on retiring Saturday night. There was no foul up in getting to church at the proper time either; but your R.R. let down his guard too soon.

He forgot there was a clock in his car he hadn't moved ahead. As a result he found himself paying a visit to Maxville Manor practically as supper was being served in that institution, Sunday.

Was his face red!

It's no time for snow when you're switching to summer time.

THE PYRAMIDS WENT POOF

We were pulling for Toronto in that deciding game at Philadelphia Sunday night, but it's a good thing miracles didn't happen. If the Leafs had won that one there would have been even more damn fools believing in the powers of pyramids.

The game had been ballyhooed as a contest between Kate Smith's ability to get the Flyers "up" for the big game and those pyramids Toronto Coach Red Kelly was trying to psyche his Leafs with.

Kate Smith's "God Bless America" has long been a weapon in the Flyers' armoury but Red Kelly was really reaching with this pyramid promotion. Sittler's five-goal effort in Toronto last Thursday was being attributed to the vibrations emanating from a pyramid and Kelly had brought his pyramids to the Spectrum, hoping their "mystical powers" would give the Leafs their first win on Philadelphia ice since 1971.

What a hope! The Leafs stayed in the game for a period as stern refereeing discouraged the rough stuff. But the Flyers kept on playing the player rather than the puck and the Leafs wilted. It was no contest in the second half of the game as the Phillies poured in more than enough goals to walk away with the series.

We had been hoping for some displays of real hockey in the semi-finals and maybe we'll get a serving of such with the Islanders meeting Canadiens. We can hope Boston gets by the Flyers, even without the aid of pyramids, cause yours truly doesn't like the kind of hockey that has won Philadelphia two Stanley cups. That was two too many for a bunch of goons, even though the Flyers are brimful of the will to win.

Surely we can count on a quick demise of these pyramids from the rest of Stanley Cup play.

The Leafs found that when you peak on a pyramid the come-down can be rapid.

AN ODD TWIST

Have you ever realized, asks a fellow columnist, that in our English language every word which starts with the letters "wr" means something that is twisted, bent or unsmooth?

He gives as example the words wrangle, wrap, wreathe, wreck, wrench, wrest, wrestle, wriggle, wring, wrinkle, write, writhe, wrought, wrong, wrath, wry. Each of these words carries the connotation of twisting or bending, such as wrought iron, a bending joint, a wrist; wrestlers twisted into human knots; wrong, a twisting of the rigid standards of right; wrench; a twisting tool; a wry neck—and so on.

It's a phenomenon we hadn't spotted. And we might point out that while it may be true of words it doesn't work with names.

For instance we know a W. R. MacLeod; and who's more upright and straight than that same Bill Bonnie Brier.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

ST. RAPHAEL'S PASCHAL MEAL

Williamstown

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

A tree needs roots, a river needs a source, and a religion needs a meaningful past. On Holy Thursday evening, about seventy-five members of St. Raphael's Christian community got a greater understanding of one of their great religious traditions in a very colorful and stirring manner.

By the time the orange sun was setting on the horizon, all was in readiness at Iona Academy. The tables had been set. Everyone was at their place. Steaming bowls and little children waited patiently. The older folk sat in great expectation. All was in readiness for the meal to begin.

In other gathering places, our Jewish brethren were sitting down to tables similarly prepared, ready to say the same prayers, and go through the same rituals. For them it was the feast of the Passover. For us, it was the feast of Holy Thursday. For both of us, it was a time to remember what our God had done for us.

Almost two thousand years ago, Christ sat down to a similar table, and went through the same rituals with His Apostles. He took that opportunity to use the common bread and wine at the table to institute the Christian sacrament of the Eucharist, building upon elements of the rich Jewish heritage from which He had sprung.

To appreciate our Christian present, we must understand that Jewish past, and that is why we had gathered in such an unaccustomed way. Father Don Scott had seen to it that we would realize the significance of what we were to do by having members of the local Jewish community address us during some earlier

(The Renfrew Mercury)

Violence in professional hockey made the headlines again last week. The opinions, the interviews with coaches, players and the province's attorney-general show the depths to which money has taken a sport.

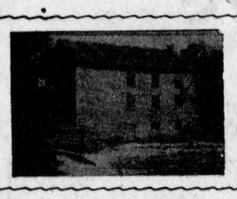
The entertainment value is there. The tough reputation, the threats and the brawling all make for great box office and the slob side of hockey is being exploited to the hilt.

But the people who keep the sport in the gutter are, as columnist Dick Beddoes points out, the fans. Us, those who pay to see the tough rather than the top.

If we are ever to see great hockey again, the good stick handling, fast skating and passing that makes this game a great sport, we will need to re-educate ourselves.

It could all start with a big organization, Minor Hockey. Parents who are, after all, the first fans and who organize and help run hockey for kids could start the movement back to hockey by quashing violence from the start. Parents can help develop the athletic value of hockey by being the right sort of fans, by making sure that from the first years we produce hockey players, not hoodlums.

They'll Do It Every Time



Martintown Rumor Mill

"Daddy, Mommy, Nippers had a foal!" We all jumped up from the table and rushed back to the pole barn. What a thrill it was for everyone. Spring—Birth—Growth—a wonderful experience. I hope city people have an equivalent for these country events. But how could Nipper have had a foal? True, the Ramsay's stallion Trigger was here, but that was all of 10 months ago. The only male around has been Sir William goat. Do you think we have seen the birth of a cross. Is it a "gorse" or perhaps a "hoat"? Did Trigger fire a silver bullet, asked Emperor Jones?

This Friday is the Ottawa Glengarry Club's Dance at Tudor Inn on Riverside Drive. The Brigadoons and fiddlers assure a good time. All of this is under the organization headed by President Walter Stewart.

Triplets were born to a Van Loon cow this week. It's the second such occasion. There will probably be an attempt to break into Corrie Van Loon's granary now just to get some of the "super feed" which is bringing on the multiple births.

Jane Emond, South Branch Road, developed a fine science project for the recent science fair at our college. The heavens, stars and constellations was her theme.

"O Santa Lucia—Magnifico!" said Pietro Rossi, one of the top accordion teachers and players in Canada. Translated literally it means, Rob Taylor, you are a wonderful accordion player. Pietro (who had just done a major re-tuning job on Rob's accordian) "was listening to some Scottish music." He asked for some of this music. Who knows? A Scottish-Italian band may start up in Montreal.

"Don't forget to mention that Lancaster won two firsts in the choir competitions," said Helen proudly. The Kinsmen music festival is a grand experience for our students. In Martintown, the Jalkanen sisters, Leila and Marja, from Martintown North, came first in duet in their class. More results next week. Mary Barkway you are doing an excellent job.

Unfortunately, with the price of buses, some youngsters had to spend all day being quiet in the Capital Theatre.

Sometimes it seems we have built our schools just to cater to buses. There are some schools where no one walks. I suppose that's equal opportunity.

One of our sons is away eight hours a day, country school time and travel, in an age even farmers don't work that much in a day. If you subtract the time they spend in their silos counting their money or tasting the corn.

Martintown Mac says to look ahead for better things. There's good news tomorrow according to a phrenologist friend of mine.

gatherings during Lent. Mr. and Mrs. Goldhammer, and Mrs. Applebaum had done their job well.

When the festival light candles were lit at the beginning of our feast, we figuratively were sharing the same light of God that was given to our Jewish brothers. After appropriate explanations, and prayers, we had our feast of wine, matzos (unleavened bread), lamb (symbolizing the one sacrificed to save the chosen people), horseradish (reminding us of the bitterness of our daily struggles), and a variety of other symbolically important foods.

Many loving hands had prepared the food and set the table. People had generously shared their time, ideas, and skills to make this wonderful gathering happen. After it was all over, after the dishes had been cleared, after the last candle had been extinguished, I felt that we were not the same. This moving memorial was a tribute to our God, and to the goodness of his community. We at St. Raphael's were now a bit closer to each other, to our Jewish brothers, and to our common God.

Thanks to Easter, and its rich traditions, we should be a changed people. Just as the long-awaited spring brings life to a barren landscape, so also should our religious practice bring a new life to our ways. That is certainly what our gathering has done to us.

RE-LIBRARY LOCATION

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

H. I. MacKinnon's letter in your issue of April 22, requires an answer. The board of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Library recognizes the concern of your correspondent with regard to the difficulties that may be encountered by senior citizens in reaching the new library location. A number of factors have been considered before the offer of the arena committee to provide space for the Alexandria library was accepted:

The present location is far from satisfactory. There have been numerous complaints about the second floor location, which poses hardships for the senior citizens. The present room is far too small for the amount of business that the Alexandria branch does. (The Alexandria branch has the second highest circulation in the three United Counties.) This lack of space means that the maximum number of books that can be accommodated is insufficient. Borrowers run out of choice much faster than they should.

The library board gave consideration to other possibilities. The old mill building would have been an ideal solution, but the library board does not have the funds to purchase this building, not to speak of the extensive renovations that would be required. No other potential locations that are acceptable to the citizenry are available.

The distance to the arena complex is not such that the majority of borrowers would have difficulty in getting there. It has the great advantage, that the new location provides nearly unlimited parking. This is of importance for a library whose purpose is not just to serve the citizens of Alexandria, but readers from the surrounding countryside as well.

The board also had to take the future into consideration. Alexandria is growing fast, in several directions. By the time the Eighties roll around, the present fringe location will probably be quite central. Intensive residential building is already going on, to link the arena area with the centre.

A modern library must be much more than a collection of books for recreational reading. Public libraries are developing as local information centres and this development will pick up speed in the immediate years ahead. Already the branches of the county library are linked closely by telephone and dictaphone. The system as a whole has telex communications with the rest of the library world.

Most reference questions can be answered within minutes, if necessary, by calling the reference centre at Simon Fraser Library in Cornwall. Books for study and recreational reading are obtained from libraries all over Canada and the United States.

This information role of public libraries is growing fast and it requires space. While the board realizes the difficulties for older users of its Alexandria branch, the board members must also give sufficient weight to the other considerations. One of these is the need for a permanent French language Canadiana section in Alexandria.

H. I. MacKinnon's question about transportation is a legitimate one. To provide bus service in a town that has no public transportation system is obviously not a practical proposition. However, there is no reason why there cannot be in Alexandria a volunteer group providing transportation to the library for senior citizens who require it.

A group of "friends of the public library" could take on a number of services that the county library cannot provide, but that would help Alexandria citizens utilize the library facilities to the fullest extent. Story-telling sessions for pre-schoolers come to mind, as do services to house-bound citizens who require reading material; or volunteers visiting hospital patients with books.

The board is certain that its Alexandria advisory committee will look into the possibilities and organize some services. For those who want to volunteer for an active role in Alexandria's "Friends of the library" association, here are the names of the members of the advisory committee:

Mrs. D. J. Baxter (Member SD&G County Library Board); Mrs. Lloyd McHugh; Mr. J. P. Touchette; Mr. Rene Gauthier.

Thank you Mr. Editor for the space provided.

H. Keith Graham,
Chairman,
SD&G County Library Board.

ROBINSON—In loving memory of a dear wife Annie Robinson, who passed away April 28th, 1973; and a dear son Robert Stuart, on January 20th, 1973.
No one knows the bitter pain
I suffered since I lost you
Life has never been the same
In my heart their memory stays
Sweet, tender, fond and true
There is not a day dear loved one
That I do not think of you.
—Deeply loved and sadly missed,
John Robinson. 17-1c

CALVANK—In loving memory of a loved mother, Mrs. Mora Calvank, who died May 2, 1972.
From hospital bed to heavenly rest,
God took her home to be his guest,
I lived in hope and prayed in vain
That she would soon be well again.
But God decided we must part;
He eased her pain, but broke my heart,
And while she rests in peaceful sleep
Her memory I will always keep.
—Forever remembered and missed by daughter, Wendy,
London, Ont. 17-1c

MacDONALD—In fond and loving memory of a departed husband and father John Ban MacDonald, who passed away April 8th, 1973.
He bade no one his last farewell,
He said goodbye to none,
The heavenly gates were opened
A loving voice said "Come"
We often sit and think of you
The things you used to say
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodbye
Though out of sight you're ever
Still, missed, loved, still ours
You will live with us in memory
Until the end of time.
—Always remembered, often spoken of, and sincerely missed by wife Sara and family. 17-1c

MacDONALD—We offer this simple but sincere token of remembrance for a dear grandfather and great grandfather John B. MacDonald who left us April 18th, 1973.
There is a sad and sweet remembrance

And many heartaches just for you.
—Well remembered by granddaughter Sandra (McIntee) Pattingale, her husband Jim and children, Sarah, Jamie and Bonnie. 17-1c

Nitrogen fertilizers for corn

(by W. E. Curnoe, KCAT)

Ninety pounds of nitrogen per acre is the current Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food recommendation for a corn crop in Eastern Ontario.

A question which arises each spring is which source of nitrogen should I use to meet the corn crops requirements. The most common nitrogen sources for corn are: anhydrous ammonia—82%N aqua ammonia—20%N, urea—46% N, and ammonium nitrate—34% N. Each of these fertilizer materials have inherent advantages and disadvantages.

Anhydrous ammonia is a gas under pressure. At atmospheric pressure it is highly volatile and must be knifed into the soil 6 to 8 inches below the surface. To prevent the loss of ammonia to the air the slit made by the applicator must be covered with soil. Losses will occur if the soil is too wet, too dry or cloddy to prevent a proper seal. Anhydrous ammonia is usually the most inexpensive source of nitrogen per pound of nitrogen because it requires no further processing after its manufacture. It can also be applied until the corn is up to 18 inches high.

Aqua ammonia is a liquid under slight pressure. It is made by dissolving anhydrous ammonia in water. This like anhydrous ammonia must be injected into the soil, however, it need not be placed as deep. This will cut down on the power requirements of application and may be an advantage in a stoney field. Aqua ammonia can also be applied until the corn is 18 inches high.

Urea and ammonium nitrate are solid free-flowing granulated materials. If either granulated material, particularly urea, lie on old vegetation some ammonia will be liberated to the atmosphere. For this reason both of these materials are usually broadcast and either plowed down or worked into the soil. Many farmers use one of these two solid materials because of their ease of handling and spreading.

Although nitrogen materials differ in their physical characteristics and in the forms of nitrogen they contain, they should give similar results if applied properly to the soil. Your choice of the source of nitrogen depends on the cost per pound of nitrogen, the availability of material and application equipment and your personal preference.

Calf Club to survey farms

This summer, when you see Glengarry 4-H'ers surveying their farms, they will be working on a farm planning project. Under the leadership of Mack Robertson, the Glengarry Senior Calf Club is undertaking this project for the first time. Our farms now and in the future will all be looked into.

At the organization meeting held at the OMAF office April 13, officers for the year were elected: President, Ian Cumming; Vice-President, Casey Vanderburg; Secretary, Cheryl Wightman; News Reporter, Janice Hartrick.

The program was planned for what should be an interesting and informative year.

30 days for dangerous driving

Leading Alexandria police on a high-speed chase into Quebec province recently, brought a 30-day jail term for Gerard Massia, 18 of RR4, Alexandria.

Massia faced a charge of drunken driving in court here Monday and pleaded not guilty. The youth was defended by Pat Rudden of Cornwall. Judge White found him guilty and imposed the 30-day sentence.

A license suspension probably will also be imposed by Toronto. Effective Monday the section dealing with license suspension has been repealed and such action is now left to the province.

UCW raised $300 for arena fund

The UCW of the Church on the Hill reports it has presented a cheque in the amount of $300 to the arena building fund as a result of the nearly-new sale held on April 23rd and 24th.

Organizers of the event are appreciative of the contributions and support of the event from so many people in the community.

Strathmore 4-H starts year

The Strathmore 4-H Calf Club started another year on April 6 at the Strathmore school house. The two leaders were present: Oran Montgomery and S. Crawford. Mr. Crawford has been a leader of this club for 12 years. This year will be his thirteenth year with us.

We also had a guest present, Brian C. Wilson, Assistant Agriculture Representative for Stormont County.

The club starts a good year with 20 members, some new and some old. We accomplished many things that evening. First of all we acquainted the new members about our club. We then chose candidates for the different positions in our club. These were the results: President and Chairman for the float committee is Edward Mesman, who is a second-year member; Vice-President—Terry Jackson, a third-year member; Secretary—Steven Mesman, a second-year member; Council Members—David Coleman and Susan MacIntosh, both second-year members; Youth Leader and News Reporter—Martin Brestovansky, a third-year member. These people, with a little help from our leaders, should make this an interesting year. One last event occurred that evening and that was the handing out of 4-H books which was done by Mr. Wilson.

Our next meeting will take place on May 3rd at the Strathmore school house.
