It is believed the woman was killed instantly when struck by the car which failed to remain at the scene of the accident. Rain is believed to have been falling at the time.

Pipe Band, Dancers To Perform At National Arts Centre, Ottawa

The Glengarry Pipe Band and the Glengarry Dancers have just received the highest compliment ever accorded them. They have been invited to perform in the Opera House of the National Arts Centre, Ottawa. This will be as part of the Celtic Music Festival on Friday, June 15th, when the Glengarry players and dancers will share the program with the internationally known stars mentioned in the ad in this paper.

While the reputation of this band-dancer team has been spreading rapidly over the last few years, due to the hard and serious training they do and the high quality of their instruction, it is very doubtful if any one of them ever thought they would have the honor of performing on the almost legendary stage of the National Arts Centre.

Tickets are available at Danskin's Store, Maxville, and it is hoped that a goodly number of Glengarrians will go along and support our performers.

Maria Goretti To House Clinic

Maria Goretti Academy, the former high school property on Centre Street, has been purchased by Dr. J. H. A. Senecal for use as a dental clinic. The deal was completed late last week and the transfer from the Sisters of Holy Cross was effective yesterday.

The Sisters will remain on for the time being, we understand, and Dr. Senecal hopes to take up permanent residence there in the fall, by which time he expects to wind up his Dorval practice.

His dental clinic will be in the former annex of the high school and there is the possibility the clinic later might be expanded to serve another dentist and medical man.

Dr. Senecal opened his practice here on Nov. 20, 1972 and has since been spending half days here while continuing his practice at Dorval.

Doctor Returns To Glengarry

Their many friends will be pleased to learn that Dr. Donald Grant and Mrs. Grant, formerly of Montreal, have taken up residence in "The Glen", Williamstown, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Grant, on the farm recently purchased from Donald D. D. MacDonald.

Dr. Grant is no stranger in that community. He was born on the South Branch, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sandy (Cinq) Grant. He is a younger brother of the distinguished novelist, the late Grace Grant Campbell.

A graduate of the Williamstown High School and Queen's University, he has practised his profession for a number of years in Montreal. For the present, Dr. Grant has opened up an office in his residence in the "Glen".

A hearty welcome by friends and neighbors is extended to the Grants with the hope their move to Glengarry will be a happy one.

School Addition To Have Priority

The SD and G county board of education last week approved the transfer of capital allocation from the Berwick public school project to the Laggan public school project.

Kent MacSweyn, principal, told the board at the April meeting he was concerned about the fact his pupils were being housed in "substandard classrooms."

L. F. Lawson, area superintendent, pointed out there were three portable classrooms already in use at Laggan and that projections indicated a slight increase in the number of pupils at the school next year.

Mr. MacSweyn had complained that the school was over-crowded as it was.

The board, after reading Mr. Lawson's report, decided to transfer money and will now seek tentative approval from the ministry of education for additional classrooms at Laggan.

Not Seriously Hurt

A man was kept overnight for observation at Glengarry Memorial Hospital and discharged Friday morning.

Germain Defforges, 32, of St. Isidore was driver of a car in collision with a parked vehicle in Dunvegan. His car received $500 damage.

The parked vehicle, owned by Ronald Derouchie of RR2 Apple Hill, received $600 damage.

Driver Charged

He was driving south on Macdonald Blvd. when he struck a fire hydrant.

Committee Named To Further Project Day-Care Centre Here During Summer

A turnout of about 25 interested and enthusiastic citizens attended a meeting, held at the Cosy Inn, on Monday evening, in support of establishing a day care centre here during the months of July and August.

Funds are available from the Ontario Youth Secretariat, under the experience 73 program, which would pay the salaries of two high school students from July 2nd to August 24th, as assistants in a day care centre.

Miss Joan Antoine of the Cornwall office of the Ministry of Community and Social Services was in town early last week and advised that the funds would probably be returned to Cornwall, to be spent on surveys, if a day care program could not be arranged here.

Miss Colette Rochon, a social worker presently working in Hull, advising the group that she would take on the managing of the centre if a committee was formed to take on the responsibility of the project.

A committee made up of Mrs. Jean-Claude Nadeau, Mrs. Denis Vaillancourt, Raymond Legault and Mrs. Tom Mosher will conduct an extensive survey of the industries, businesses, social clubs, etc. this week, seeking supporters as well as financial backing.

Miss Rochon is investigating operating costs as well as the requirements, as set by law, governing such centres and a general meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 29th, in room 108 of Glengarry District High School, when the results of the survey will be presented.

Although strictly a summer community project, the basis of this study could be the brief that might be presented to the provincial government for a permanent day care centre at a later date. The support and attendance of everyone will be welcome at the Tuesday meeting.

Kindergarten Only For French Immersion Course In Face Of Heavy Opposition

The controversial French immersion program will begin at the kindergarten level in September at schools in the SD and G county board of education system. It will be optional.

However, a proposal to have the program extended to Grades 1, 2, 7 and 8 has been postponed for one year.

The board made the decisions Tuesday night of last week after hearing four delegations and a report by John Comtois, superintendent responsible for French-language instruction.

Mr. Comtois reported massive opposition to the program. He also noted that there were not enough qualified teachers or money available to inaugurate the entire program.

Opposition to the program evident during nine public meetings surfaced when four delegations made their opposition to the plan known officially.

The delegations, representing about 1,000 English-speaking parents, were supported by about 75 parents who sat outside the board offices for three hours while a decision was being made because there was not enough room in the board offices to accommodate them all.

In briefs to the board parents expressed fears their children would become too confused if put into a total immersion program with no background in the French language.

The parents also objected to the way the program was introduced by the board in March. They stated there was no discussion with the parents on the effect of the program nor were their opinions sought before the priorities were laid down.

They charged the board with being "undemocratic" in the way the program was brought before the people.

Mr. Comtois, in his report to the board, stated something had to be laid down as the basis of discussion before anything was passed. He pointed out every effort had been made to inform parents on the implementation of the plan as well as its effects.

He released figures showing the number of pupils who would attend a French immersion program at the kindergarten level within the counties.

In Stormont county schools 98 of a possible 222 kindergarten-aged children were registered for the immersion program as of Monday. A total of 49 said no while 75 made no response to the registration appeal.

In Dundas a total of 73 of a possible 111 pupils were registered for the kindergarten immersion program. In Glengarry 86 were registered out of 112 possible pupils.

Mr. Comtois said the program would be centered in certain schools and those pupils opting for the French immersion program at the kindergarten level would be bused to these schools.

He pointed out staffing of the schools could become a problem because only 26 teachers had applied who had sufficient qualifications to teach in the program. Of these, five were experienced in primary methods.

Mr. Comtois said that because of this it would be impossible to inaugurate even a 20-minute program in French immersion at the Grade 1 and 2 levels because all French-language teachers hired would be needed for the kindergarten program.

Less than three months after the death of his wife, Keith McGregor died suddenly yesterday at his home in Bainsville. He leaves four daughters, Margaret, Kathleen, Janice and Judy. Funeral arrangements were incomplete at press time.

Two Summer Programs Here

(by Rita D'Aoust)

May 28th, will mark the beginning of a bustling organization of summer activities for you, the citizens of Alexandria and surroundings. The Federal Government has sponsored two very challenging projects with their Perspectives Jeunesse grants.

The French newspaper Des Avirons, which was initiated last year, will once again be delivered to the residences of Alexandria's French population. Celine Bourbonnais, administrator, with the aid of Lyse Rochon, Michelle Lauzon, Denise Gauthier, Louise Poirier, and Gaby Blais should have an edition ready by June 1st.

The other project which will be carried out will deal with the organization of Recreation programs throughout the summer months. Michel Depratto, Paule Gauthier Betty Sabourin, Rachelle Clement, Robert Lajoie and Rita D'Aoust will be on hand to carry out such activities as hikes, camping trips, bicycle rides, arts and crafts, various sports, etc. Plans are to have a wide and varied array of organized activities in which all can participate. We hope to continue the physical fitness classes for adults. A weekly afternoon day care centre may also be set up. During the course of our summer, you will be able to take in a car rally, a jogging club, various clinics, dances and whatever else time permits.

In the leisure context, our project is used to stimulate concern about the use of leisure and to plan and develop community recreation activities that provide opportunities for people to use their increased free time for personal fulfillment and enjoyment of life. Recreunite members should act as co-ordinators of resources to serve the leisure interests of citizens. We wish to offer a good recreation program but our prime goal is to make everyone aware of the availability of resources in Alexandria. In time, the citizens themselves will hopefully take the initiative and develop means of self-expression, self-actuallization and a capacity for joy through recreation.

Working hand in hand with the municipality, or more specifically the Parks and Recreation Department, our intention is to develop a program suited to your needs and wishes. Feel free to give us ideas and suggestions concerning activities you would like to see undertaken and it will be this group's pleasure to try and carry these out. Each week, such an

This LIP project under the direction of Donald McLaughlin has been active throughout the winter repairing and recycling furniture and appliances donated by area residents to help others in the community less fortunate than themselves.

The management of the project is appealing to residents of the area to come and see what is being done as this is a new type of assistance for the community and requires local support if it is to be continued.

Rain And Cold Marred 59th Cadet Inspection At Williamstown

A cold, steady rain marred Friday's annual inspection of the cadet corps at Char-Lan High School but failed to stop the 59th parade of the cadets. Members of the corps braved the rain for the march past and other activities were transferred to the school gym.

Lt.-Col. James Murphy of Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, was enthusiastic in his commendation of the efforts of the corps.

"By appearing here today, by daring to differ from your contemporaries, you have helped to form the necessary courage we shall all need to face tomorrow," he said. "I was impressed by your steadiness and accomplishments. You have earned the right to be proud of your uniform and your corps."

There were demonstrations of driver education, the girls of B Company danced the Highland fling as a group, and Pipe-major John McKenzie led the band in several numbers. Map reading, a simulated accident requiring first aid and a display of what the cadet corps has to offer rounded out the afternoon program.

Hugh Hutchinson, area superintendent for district one of the county school board, commended the corps. Denis Ethier, MP, and Osie Villeneuve, MPP, expressed their appreciation for the efforts of the cadets.

The corps was in command of Cadet Lt.-Col. Brian MacNaughton, with Cadet Maj. Morrison Grant second in command. Cadet Capt. Pat Gagne was in charge of A company and Cadet Capt. Judy Jarvo had Company B.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

It's A Chilling Sound But . . .

Perhaps it was inevitable that complaints would reach town council in a time when the fire siren has been sounding so frequently. It is a chilling sound to awaken to in the night and the fire siren had been overly active in those nights preceding last week's council meeting.

Three times over a period of three nights it had called the brigade out in those early hours of the morning between two and four o'clock. The fact that all calls were for out-of-town fires was merely incidental. Rudely awakened citizens may have found it difficult to get back to sleep and so the approach to councillors to 'do something about it''.

Seldom has the siren sounded so frequently as has been the case in recent months. Our firemen have been called out fifty-five times already this year and that averages out to almost three times per week. Few blazes have been of a serious nature and a plethora of grass fires in early April swelled the total. With few exceptions, the summonses have been to out-of-town emergencies and most have occurred in daytime hours, though our firemen have been called from their warm beds too often for their liking.

Fire Chief Charlebois made that point at council meeting. If numbers of our citizenry are complaining about being awakened by the siren, he wondered how they would feel if they had to get up and go, as the volunteer firemen do. It must be especially frustrating when they find the call is a burning car on some country road.

The fire chief had an alternative to suggest. The fire siren might be silenced for good if town council opted for a paging system whereby each member of the brigade was alerted to a fire call by an electronic unit the size of a cigarette pack which he carried on his person. The system had been demonstrated recently here and while it would add thousands of dollars to the cost of fire protection it would have the advantage of thwarting the practice of tailgating the fire truck.

Council is to study the possibilities but we trust the costs will be found forbidding. At $22 per month per unit the paging system would run into big money and we have the feeling it would not work out. In an emergency some of the firemen would fail to respond, as we see it. At work, at play or asleep, they inevitably would become separated from that sophisticated gadget from time to time and might be no more aware of an emergency than the rest of the citizenry.

This state of ignorance all the rest of us are to remain in, we like not at all. The blare of the siren can be unnerving in the night but its total absence might become even more a source of worry over the long stretch. Ugly that sound, but so is the scream of the hurrying police car or the new cadence of the ambulance. They all warn of emergency and it must be comforting to know help is on the way, especially when one is among the victims.

A fire siren retired from service might prove easier on the nerves. Somehow we see its summons in the night preferable to total ignorance that any emergency exists. We think members of the brigade would miss it, too, even if they did not miss out on a call over that proposed new paging system.

People Movers Needed

The Ontario government recently announced that a contract has been awarded to a German firm to construct a radically new transportation system in Toronto, notes an editorial in The Wingham Advance-Times. The first and experimental stage will be built on the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition and, if successful, the system will probably be extended throughout the city.

At first sight, the plan sounds tremendously expensive at a time when the provincial government is ordering cutbacks in so many other fields—such as health and education. However, what is happening in the Toronto area must be dealt with in a realistic way, and no one who has to drive into that city doubts for a moment that the need is great.

Radio Station CFRB, Toronto, carries a daily broadcast to keep motorists informed about traffic conditions. The announcer is usually Henry Shannon, who circles the city in an aircraft for several hours each morning and afternoon—and the scenes he describes are beginning to sound like something out of a nightmare.

There are times when a two, three or four car pile-up at a busy intersection or on a heavily travelled freeway will cause a traffic build-up of vehicles for two or three miles back of the accident scene. In fact, traffic is often reduced to a stop-and-go situation without any accident at all. Amazingly enough the announcer will often be able to identify the cause—perhaps nothing more important than drivers slowing down to take a second look at a new building.

Friday afternoons are pure hell—particularly in the summer months when the outlet highways are crowded with towed boats and house trailers. It can take as long as three hours to negotiate the 15 or 20 miles from downtown to the Metro city limits.

What would happen in the event of a catastrophe necessitating the evacuation of the city? It simply could not be done. There are not enough roads available to empty that city in less than a week.

The new transportation system is designed to move people—not vehicles. It will take several years to build, so the first steps must be taken now. It will cost money, but it must be done.

As we have said before, the price we pay for big cities is staggering.

Unpaid And Uninformed

Governments become steadily more arrogant in their dealings with the people and a case in point concerns the two per cent increase in the Ontario sales tax. Announced by the Provincial Treasurer in his April budget, the increase to seven per cent was to become effective May 1st, but a full two weeks after that date the necessary legislation had not yet been passed at Queen's Park.

Nevertheless, unpaid collectors of that tax for the government were expected to be adding the higher rate of tax on sales as of May 1st. It was not legal but there was the implied threat from Queen's Park that if they did not collect at the seven per cent rate they would have to make up the difference out of their own pockets.

Revenue Minister Allan Grossman had made that clear when he announced: "Assuming (the bill) will soon become law and that the seven per cent retail sales tax will apply back to May 1st, the best interests of the vendors, the purchasers and the government are served by initiating the collection of the seven per cent tax now."

So autocratic had the Davis Government become it would compel its unpaid collectors of the provincial sales tax to charge more than the legal rate. They were being placed in the role of accessories to government larceny.

The new tax legislation has since become law, we seem to recall having read in the dailies. But as one of the treasury's unwilling, unpaid collectors of this tax we have yet to receive any official word of the increased rate and we doubt we ever will. This arrogant government sees no need to keep its minions informed.

More Restrictive Land Control

Time has almost run out for those private citizens who own or control land, notes an editorial in The Napanee Beaver. Land control is considered to be one of the most important issues facing the Ontario Government today, in the view of provincial politicians and others. They have made it pretty clear that the day is gone when a farmer, for example, can have his land zoned as agricultural and pay a correspondingly lower tax rate, yet sell it when he feels like it for residential or commercial development.

The day is fast drawing to a close, also, when a landowner can sell individual lots off his property for private dwellings, particularly if the lots happen to run in a strip along the edge of a highway, as most of them do.

In the offing is legislation which will affect property owners in this part of Ontario as nothing which has come to pass heretofore. Farmers will soon find that they can keep their land zoned rural if they wish, but to do so they will have to give up all thoughts of selling pieces of it at a handsome profit for industrial or commercial development or for a subdivision or individual residential development. Even if land is zoned residential there will be many restrictions having to do with services, especially water and sewer, which will freeze it.

In this province, the need for land control is no longer argued, only the form it will take. Resources Development Secretary for Ontario A. B. R. Lawrence and Industry and Tourism Minister Claude Bennett both say that politicians are going to get tough and many toes will be stepped on but the matter will be given the full treatment at Queen's Park. Mr. Bennett calls land use the most significant issue of the day.

The time is not far off when a landowner will have little control over his land and just beyond that is the day when all land will be owned by the government and private land will cease to exist. After that it will be but a short step to a system whereby all property will be owned by the state.

Wait 'Till Your Father Gets Home

(The Ridgetown Dominion)

According to a national study, Canadians think the dominant role of the husband in the family is declining, and two-thirds of the people questioned think this is bad. Funnily enough, women are more convinced that it is bad than are the men.

It does seem that the breakdown in the authority of the parents has led to a general break down in respect for authority, experience, and property rights.

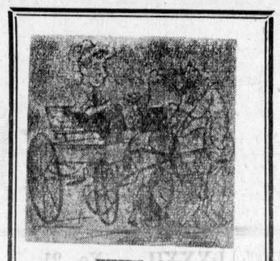
The child who was not reprimanded when he took a candy after being told not to, feels no compulsion to obey a traffic officer when told to reduce his speed.

The child who has no honest respect or even some fear of what his father will say about his rudeness to his mother, will have no respect for what the judge will say about his abuse of a policeman.

So perhaps the people are right when they say the decline of the dominant role of the husband in the family is a bad thing.

Now, women's Lib notwithstanding, the real question is how to get some authority back into the hands of the fathers and what is more important how to get the fathers to accept the responsibility.

They'll Do It Every Time ®



WITH OUR

RAMBLING REPORTER

by Ed

WHAT'S WITH THE WEATHER?

The weather has been unspeakable over the last few weeks, so unspeakable in fact, practically everybody is talking about it.

Most of what they're saying couldn't be aired in this family column and some of the observations suggest the long spell of rain and cold is getting to people. It's getting to the point some are beginning to blame the bad weather on those trips to the moon and other space travel. On one particularly bad day last week no fewer than three observations on the weather suggested just that.

Well now, that theory on the after-effects of space travel is rather far out. The space program is way over our head, almost totally incomprehensible, and it's probably ignorance of just what's involved that prompts fear of such consequences as weather changes. The moon has been known to cast spells on young men and maidens but we doubt recent invasion of its privacy could have repercussions on our weather patterns. The astronauts are weightless up there in space, so what impact could they have on even earth's air currents?

For all we know it could be true that these trips into space are worsening our weather but if anyone's to blame we're inclined to think it's the rain makers. Ever since scientists started seeding the clouds to encourage rain over a particular area we've been yelling "foul". If rain clouds are coaxed into dumping their load over forests or any other area it stands to reason the moisture those clouds were carrying will be missed where it normally might have fallen. If these rain makers can induce a downpour where they feel it's needed, they may be interfering with weather patterns over a much wider area, it's our idea.

Mind you, we have no evidence the cloud seeders have been at work over Canada or the U.S. in the last year or two, but the weather's been so out of kilter it seems something's going on behind our backs. And those rain makers like to go into their act on the quiet. They're oughtta be a law against them.

If our theory is all wet you can blame it on these incessant rains and the continuing cool weather that have made a mockery of what was to have been a record long summer. It's beginning to seem we're headed for worse weather than we were plagued by last year and our farmer friends are worrying as to what's in store. The rest of us should be worrying too, at a time when practically all foodstuffs are in short supply.

If there are no rain makers interfering with the work of the Clerk of the Weather we'd suggest he stir himself from his comfortable seat on Cloud Nine and turn off the taps. We'd dearly like to see again those once familiar faces of the sun and the moon.

When it's springtime in the Valley, seeding should be well advanced on the land—not up in the clouds.

A NOUN'S A NOUN

What we are doing to our English language is the strongest argument we know for speaking French, writes a columnist in the Ridgetown Dominion. At least in French a noun is a noun and that ends the matter.

In English we have to study the sentence to see if the word is used as a verb, or adjective, or noun, or what-have-you.

Recently this liberty seems to have got out of hand and we read of somebody who "chaired" the meeting and someone else who "hosted" the group after the meeting.

The late James Thurber groaned when people said their boat "sleeps four" and added "our house sleeps six and eats twelve".

Of course that was more a matter of transitive and intransitive verbs which is another thing.

Real estate agents are among the worst offenders. They talk of "grassed acres", 'treed gardens". One said the house was "beautifully porched". And in Ridgetown they'll soon be able to say "well sewered".

A New York composer is quoted recently as saying "I know it's my loss, but Mozart's music doesn't get to me gutwise. Now there's a word "gutwise."

Mr. Davidson in The Globe adds that the addition of the word "wise" is a device for the do-it-yourself wordsmith.

"Salarywise a job may be okay but personalfulfilmentwise may leave much to be desired.

And hopefully we ask when "hopefully" is again to be restricted to its proper use.

The Weeklies Say

THE DAY THE LAW WAS AN ASS

(Rodney Mercury)

Because everyone has grown up with the law which keeps liquor outlets closed election days, few have questioned it very much, because it really doesn't matter very much. But imagine how ridiculous the law looked three weeks ago when the provincial by-election was held in the downtown Toronto riding of St. George, because while the law prohibited drink from being sold in the riding on election day, those who wanted a drink just had to step across the street into one of the other ridings whenever they wanted.

That Thursday, while outlets on the east side of University Ave. — in the St. George riding — were closed, those on the west side were doing a land-office business. Naturally, everyone but temperance people found the situation amusing and according to newspaper reports, it was also ironical, and once again proving legislation should have been brought up to date a long time ago.

We have to think of others and look for the good in everyone, to look beyond the criticism and see how we can help them and they can help us. We have to be responsible to our fellow brothers.

Brockville Outhustled The Glens Friday To Give Home Team First Loss

Friday night the Glengarry Glens suffered their first setback of the season at the hands of the Brockville Magedomas. The Brockville victory was attributable to their superior conditioning and continual hustle, qualities they demonstrated right from the opening face-off.

The game stayed fairly close in the first and second periods with Brockville leading 7-5 after one, and 13-10 after two. The Glens were scored upon seven times in the final period however, and replied only once with the result that they came out on the losing end of a 20-11 score.

The winners demonstrated a balanced attack with four players picking up a hat-trick or better. Steve Stone led the way with 5 goals and 2 assists. For the Glens, Lyle MacMillan had 5 goals while Brian MacDonald had 2 goals and two assists.

The Magedomas were penalized 12 times during the game compared to the five penalties picked up by the Glens. The latter were usually unable to take advantage of extra-man situations however and were scored upon several times by the short-handed team.

Brockville was reputed to have a rough team, but whteher or not they do is still a matter for speculation. The Glens did not pose enough of a physical threat at most points during the game to make a serious evaluation necessary. Brockville's forwards as well as their defencemen seemed to have mastered the art of efficient cross-checking while with the exception of Keith McPherson, Rod McRae and Chris McDonald the Glens were content to play "touch" lacrosse. Time after time, Luc Desjardins, the Glens goalie, was left alone to face one or two Brockville attackers with not another Glen in sight.

It is hoped another good crowd will be on hand Friday night to see the Glens take on Valleyfield. Coach Merv McIntyre is hopeful that his team will rebound from the Brockville game and hand Valleyfield their first loss. Game time is 8.30 p.m.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

ARENA NEEDS ATTENTION

Martintown, Ont.

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

Let me begin by pointing out that the opinions voiced in this letter are my own and not necessarily those of any other individual or organization. I would like to ask an open question to the people of Alexandria and surrounding area. When you attend a sports event or some other function at the Alexandria Community Center, are you proud of what you see? The boards around the floor area are dirty and badly in need of paint. The floor is cracked so badly that it slopes noticeable around each edge. Whenever it rains, leaks in the roof make the floor surface slippery for walking, let alone running.

Last Friday night, those attending the lacrosse game may have noticed a gentleman supervising certain repairs, such as the hammering in of exposed nails and wire along the boards. He was Sonny Herrington, Convener of the Ontario Lacrosse Association for Eastern Ontario. After the game he made it known that unless certain minimum requirements for the safety of players were met, the Center would not be considered acceptable for OLA supervised box lacrosse in the future.

Lacrosse was once one of the most popular summer sports in Alexandria. It died out until about seven years ago when a junior team was formed. Last season, mainly due to the hard work and coaching of a former player, Merv McIntyre, a Junior C team won the league championship. This year the team has encountered a somewhat different situation. The league is much larger, encompassing the area from Kingston to Montreal. Under jurisdiction of the OLA standards must be met by both the team and its home arena. Some of the conditions described earlier in this letter do not comply with these regulations.

It should be noted that at no time has the team approached the Town for monetary assistance. Transportation by bus to away games, new sweaters and equipment, and league fees have all been paid for by donations from local sponsors, funds from the previous season, and money from the players themselves. Twenty-five per cent of all money collected at the home games goes directly to the Arena. An average of twenty dollars must be paid to each of two referees. Depending on whether or not the Glens can continue to operate out of the center, the team should be able to break even financially by the end of the regular season.

So far, this letter has been

Livestock Farmers Get Tax Break

Farmers continually adding to their livestock inventories have received a major income tax concession from the federal government in the form of an expansion to the old limit on the "loss carry forward" provision. The loss carry forward provision is still available, but there is now the option of deleting livestock expenses in any one year and then reapplying them in any future year that may be beneficial to the farmer's overall tax position, says Gary Hutchison, Department of Continuing Education, University of Guelph.

The new tax provision, which became effective April 18, 1973, is retroactive to the beginning of the 1972 tax year.

In the past, business losses of one year could be carried back one year or forward five years to offset an otherwise taxable income. (A loss in 1968 could offset part or all of a taxable income in 1972.) Many farmers, however, are continually increasing livestock inventories and are in a loss position for more than five years. This has meant that the loss carry forward provision could not be fully exercised, because of the time restriction, and yet the total inventory would be subject to tax when sold.

To overcome this hardship, the federal government is now allowing farmers to hold livestock purchases out of expenses in any given year; and is permitting these purchases to be brought back into expenses at any time, the next year or even 20 years hence.

An example may best explain this new concept. A farmer decides to expand in any given year by purchasing the 100-acre farm next door. His costs include tiling, fencerow clearing, barn renovations, and other necessary items. While these expenses alone may reduce his otherwise taxable income to zero, he also purchases 75 steers at an additional cost of $20,000, giving him a negative tax position.

Instead of declaring the cattle expenses and thus a loss, hoping to carry this loss forward or average it, the farmer can now set the $20,000, or any part, off to the side with a note to the tax people to that effect. If, the following year or even 10 years later, the farmer earns $15,000 worth of taxable income, $15,000 of the $20,000 livestock inventory cost can be brought into expenses to offset the taxable income.

The flexibility of this ruling is far greater than the old Basic Herd provision and is superior to the old five-year loss carry forward provision previously mentioned.

Livestock farmers wishing to revise their 1972 income tax return to take advantage of the new ruling should obtain a 1972 Individual Tax Return form from their local post office and fill it in, declaring their intention to withhold from expenses any livestock inventory purchases made in 1972.

It is important to remember that livestock is the only agricultural commodity affected by the new federal tax ruling.

Auditor's Report - - - Village of Lancaster

The Reeve, Members of Council, Ratepayers and Inhabitants,
The Village of Lancaster.

I have examined the 1972 Financial Statements of the Village of Lancaster, its Municipal Enterprises, and its Local Boards, all of which are listed on the attached index. My examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, these Financial Statements present fairly the financial position of the Village of Lancaster, its Municipal Enterprises and its Local Boards as at December 31, 1972, and the results of their operations for year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario Municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

LETTERS

merely stating facts. A couple of observations might be in order as to the peculiarities of the situation. First, doesn't it seem strange that a town has a chance to advertise itself favorably from Kingston to Montreal and yet takes no active interest in the image it presents when the teams and their fans visits its Community Center? Of course, no one expects facilities to compare with Ottawa, Kingston or Cornwall, but what about Morrisburg or St. Regis? Secondly, the people of Alexandria say they are concerned about their young people. This concern extends to putting up fairly large sums of money as a bounty on pushers (the TIP program, I believe its called) to protect their teenagers from criminal influences. Why not attack the cause instead of the effect? A frequent and sometimes justifiable complaint of kids is "there's nothing to do." Wouldn't it be better to see one's son or daughter watching a lacrosse game on a Friday night instead of hanging around a street corner? It's an exciting alternative to counting cars on Main Street. Surely funds to clean up the Arena must be available from some source.

Those involved with the Gengarry Glens, players and management, have devoted a great deal of time and effort developing a lacrosse team, not to make a fast buck, but to further a game they enjoy and to provide entertainment for those in the area who are sports enthusiasts. Whether or not these efforts will be justified and maintained must be left up to the people of Glengarry.

Yours truly,
Don Blackadder
