Cautious optimism on the rise for ethanol plant

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

Another episode in the ongoing saga of this area's proposed ethanol plant is expected to be aired on Oct. 8.

That's when the annual general meeting of the Seaway Valley Energy Co-Operative shareholders is being held in Kemptville.

Hundreds of farmers and other residents have sunk about $13 million into the project since 1995 with little to show for it to date.

Every year, co-operative president Bud Atkins must ask for patience. This year will be no different.

The proposed site remains a field after the co-operative was hit with more setbacks, including the loss of a construction contractor due to the fall-out caused by the Enron collapse.

But Mr. Atkins and the co-op might finally have a card to play – Prime Minister Jean Chretien's endorsement of the Kyoto Protocol.

"With Kyoto, ethanol is a way for the government to help meet some of its goals."
Co-Op President Bud Atkins

"With Kyoto, ethanol is a way for the government to help meet some of its goals," Mr. Atkins told The News last week.

Mr. Atkins has reason to be optimistic if recent statements by federal Environment Minister David Anderson carry any weight. The minister said huge potential awaits clean-air companies, which will benefit from the federal plan.

Little has been discussed so far, said an environment ministry source. Something more substantive could be revealed when Minister Anderson meets his provincial and territorial counterparts in Halifax on Oct. 21.

Widespread utilization of ethanol-gasoline blends will lower pollution emission from motor vehicles.

Mr. Atkins speculated this development should lead to more ethanol demand and could increase federal financial assistance.

The federal contribution will be $1.5 million. Ontario is ready to kick in $3 million.

The bottom line is that shareholders could see their investment grow. Ethanol demand

Public's views to be heard on the Cairn

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

A public information meeting will be held in November at the township hall in South Glengarry concerning the Glengarry Cairn, according to Victoria Stewart.

Ms Stewart is a member of the local committee formed to work with the Mohawks in determining a suitable new location for the cairn, which the Mohawk Elders have decreed must be removed from its present site on Monument Island.

"We hope by Nov. 15 to hold a public meeting for anyone interested in the background of the island and the cairn," she told South Glengarry Council after the issue surfaced again in a Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) report.

LACAC members had passed a resolution to support the council's recommendation that a meeting be set up with Parks Canada officials to discuss the moving of the cairn.

Administrator/co-ordinator Marcel Lapierre, assured Councillor Ian McLeod that he had written to Pam Buell of Parks Canada, and to MP Bob Kilger's office, confirming the desire of council to attend meetings pertaining to the cairn issue.

"My concern would be that there wouldn't be any more meetings," said Mr. McLeod, who said he would like a meeting with Parks to bring council up to date.

He also said the only information he had received to date had been through the press.

Ms. Stewart suggested that council ask to be "a bystander" at meetings.

"The township has no owner-

Glengarry man wins an international title

BY HEATHER HUXTED
News Correspondent

A Maxville-area resident is the toast of the Glengarry agricultural community after winning a first at the International Plowing Match in Glencoe, Ont. last week.

Ian Vallance beat out 11 competitors in the tractor competition to take the victory in the Three Furrow Class.

"The competition is always stiff," said Mr. Vallance. "It's the same competitors every year, from various parts of Ontario."

The victory is a rare one for Glengarry, said Glengarry Plowmen's Association executive Ross MacGillivray.

"No one's done that well in a long time," he said.

The competition is spread out over four days. The points received throughout the four days are accumulated to determine the winner of each class.

Mr. Vallance received two firsts and two seconds to muster the most overall points for a win.

Prize money was awarded to the four top competitors on a daily basis. The prize for first place was $100 with $90 awarded for second place. Upon winning the overall class, Mr. Vallance received a $300 bonus bringing his winnings for the two firsts and two seconds to a total of $680.

"I got really lucky this year," he said.

Some of the criteria required for a good score is that the ground has to be turned over with no grass showing and the furrows be as straight as possible.

Mr. MacGillivray also had a hand in the win. It was his tractor and plow that Mr. Vallance used.

Mr. Vallance says several adjustments had to be made to adjust to poor soil conditions.

"It was worse than here as far as drought conditions go," he said. "The soil was really hard. We got a little bit of rain throughout the summer, but they didn't get any at all."

He said adjustments that had to be made were sharpening the plow and adding extra weight. He then adjusted the entire plow to accommodate for the new adjustments.

Now in his 19th year of competing, the experience paid off.

He said he got into plowing as a hobby and for him it still is a hobby.

"It's like a reunion to see everybody again every year."

Rob McDonald of North Lancaster also had his best result, placing fourth in the same class as Vallance.

Mr. McDonald has been plowing for 10 years, nine at International.

Governor General presents medal to honour Lancaster's Marc Léger

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

It was a ceremony befitting her beloved grandson, the late Marc Léger.

"It was beautiful, really lovely," Alice Léger said without hesitation.

The Lancaster resident was an appreciative guest for the awarding of the South-West Asia Service Medals in the ornate Rideau Hall last Friday.

Accepting the medal tearfully but gratefully from Governor General Adrienne Clarkson was Sgt. Léger's widow, Marley.

The months following Sgt. Léger's death on April 17 in Afghanistan haVE done little to heal the loss, Mrs. Léger said.

"They were so much in love, it's a pity.

"It's awful to be separated that way. She was crying so much when she came in Saturday. It's so hard to go through something like that."

Oct. 3 would have been the couple's third wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Léger was appreciative that Canada has the Governor General post as an institution and for all preparation to make the honourees and guests comfortable.

"Everyone who did receive a medal was on the left side of the big hall," Mrs. Léger said. "People who were invited were on the right side."

Sgt. Léger's parents, Richard and Claire, were also present.

"Claire said it was too bad that Marc and the other (killed) soldiers couldn't be there to receive the medal themselves," Mrs. Léger said.

"The Governor General came in. Everybody stood up. She spoke in English, then French, then English again and gave the medals to the soldier."

"...With these medals awarded posthumously, we are making a vow that we will always remember them."
Governor General Adrienne Clarkson

"Our fallen soldiers in Afghanistan helped you earn it," Gov. Gen Clarkson said.

"We promised them that we will not forget what they have done. With these medals awarded posthumously, we are making a vow that we will always remember them."

The ceremony took place against the backdrop of a possible military operation against Iraq.

The prospect of Canada sending more soldiers in the name of fighting terrorism was not something Mrs. Léger wanted to discuss.

"No comment. . . it's hard for me to say anything."

After the dignified proceedings, the guests relaxed socially.

"Afterwards we went to a big room, and they passed around hors d'oeuvres.

"Mrs. Clarkson was very kind. She did talk to everybody, she was very diplomatic."

The guests then went on a tour.

"We visited all around the different rooms, everyone had flowers. The chandeliers were really something.

"Rideau Hall, what a beauty."

Meanwhile, she said Marley had been whisked away for an interview with a Toronto TV crew.

The family then went out for lunch and headed home.

During her stay in Cornwall with her family, Mrs. Léger said Marley visited the cemetery.

So far, there is no military marker for Sgt. Léger.

"I've talked to Colonel Pat Stogran (Sgt. Léger's commander) and he said he would try to get it in place.

"And the cenotaph, we have to get Marc's name on it too.

"We should have it on for the (Remembrance Day) parade in Lancaster."

Mrs. Léger invited Marley to return for Christmas.

Council rejects proposal to move Maxville library

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Leave the Maxville library right where it is.

That is the recommendation SDG County Library board chair John Hope and CEO Rudi Denham came away with at Monday evening's North Glengarry council meeting.

Mr. Hope and Ms. Denham had previously approached council July 8 seeking input after receiving an offer from Ceres Corp.

The company, which owns the former Maxville High School, offered the use of the high school's library space to the public library. Council had asked Mr. Hope and Ms. Denham to seek public input from those who would be affected.

The people of Maxville want their library to remain at École St. Bernard, according to the nearly 10 people who were at council to voice their opinion.

Maxville Ward councillor George Currier said that is also the message he has heard from his constituents.

Mayor Bill Franklin said council had not heard anything further from Ceres Corp. since the meeting in July.

"It would be foolish to (support moving the library) until we have something more concrete," he said.

Council agreed, recommending that the library remain where it is. Mr. Hope and Ms. Denham said they would deliver that recommendation to the library board at its meeting Tuesday.

ship here," she said. "That is crystal clear."

According to her, the public meeting in November will explain the history of the island and the results of archeological digs on it.

"We are seeking to have an individual from McGill who will speak on the archeological findings," she said.

Neither the Mohawks nor Parks Canada has officially confirmed that human remains were found on the island during soil testing at the cairn site prior to proposed rehabilitation work in 1997.

Parks will say only that Monument Island is of "great spiritual and cultural significance to the Mohawks of Akwesasne," while the Mohawks say the island has "cultural properties" to which the deteriorating cairn presents a potential danger.

Ms. Stewart didn't release any further information regarding the cairn at Monday's council meeting.

"I haven't the authority to discuss anything," she said.

North Glengarry Notebook

Drainsuperintendent hired

North Glengarry now has a full-time drainage superintendent and surveyor.

Council passed a bylaw Monday evening granting a one-year contract to Manson Barton at a cost of $35,000 plus mileage. Mr. Barton will begin his duties shortly.

Councillor Chris MacDonell, who was absent from the Sept. 19 hiring meeting, questioned whether there was enough work for a full-time drain superintendent.

Mayor Bill Franklin assured Councillor MacDonell the contract was made for one year precisely so council could review the decision at a later date.

Road school grads

Two members of roads superintendent Jean-Guy Levert's road crew recently returned from "road school" in Guelph.

The Ontario Good Roads Association has been offering road school for more than 50 years now. Classes and workshops are led by engineers, lawyers and the like. An exam is given at the end.

North Glengarry road workers Michel Cuerrier and Robbie Smeal earned high honours on the exam, achieving 90 and 91 per cent respectively. The two were presented with their road school certificates at Monday evening's council meeting.

Winter salt tender

The Township of North Glengarry has placed its order for winter highway coarse salt.

Mr. Levert informed council that the six municipalities of SDG and the City of Cornwall put their required tonnage into one tender in order to save approximately $10 per tonne.

The tender was awarded to the Canadian Salt Company Limited at a price of $53.59 per tonne, plus GST, delivered.

North Glengarry put in an order for 1,300 tonnes. Due to last winter's bizarre weather, the township used that much road salt, plus approximately 200 tonnes more.

No changes to train service

Mayor Franklin has the assurance of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria that train service in Alexandria will remain unchanged.

While service has changed at many smaller stops in a Via Rail effort to cut down on travel times, there will be no impact on people going to Ottawa and Montreal from Alexandria, Mr. Franklin reported.

Mr. Levert concurred, stating trains will now travel at 100 miles per hour between Montreal and Glen Robertson, slow to 80 miles per hour between Glen Robertson and Moose Creek and resume 100 miles per hour between Moose Creek and Ottawa.

Businesses to be recognized

Lochiel Ward councillor Ron MacDonell wants businesses which achieve significant milestones to receive the township's recognition.

When he attended the Alexandria Milling 40th anniversary celebration on Sept. 15, Mr. MacDonell said he was disappointed that the township did not make some kind of presentation to the Massie family.

He said the United Counties did not have a policy on business anniversaries either, but staff were able to make up a certificate which he presented to the Massies. The Glengarry Cattlemen's Association did the same.

Mayor Franklin agreed that something could be done for businesses, but it should resemble the birthday and anniversary policy.

The township presents plaques, by request, to couples married 50 years and more and individuals celebrating their 80th birthday and upwards.

It was decided that the township would present a certificate to businesses celebrating 25 years or more by request.

Next meeting

The next council meeting will take place on Tuesday, Oct. 15, because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Caregivers combat dementia

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Staff and volunteers at Chateau Gardens are being better equipped to care for Alzheimer patients.

With such a difficult task, the Alzheimer Society of Cornwall and District is offering a provincial government sponsored workshop series on the topic.

Workers and volunteers of the long-term care facility in Lancaster attended the first in a series of meetings Monday led by Shelley Vaillancourt, executive director of the Alzheimer Society of Cornwall and District.

"This is for staff from all disciplines in the facility," said Shivon Konink, assistant director of care for Chateau Gardens

Nursing, housekeeping, laundry, volunteers and families were all represented at the workshop.

"We need to know how we can make our facility better for residents with dementia."

The different departments within the facility are involved in self-analysis, assessing Chateau Gardens' strengths and weaknesses when it comes to Alzheimer patient care.

"In order to provide the best care possible for people with Alzheimer, after the assessment, we make a wish list for the changes to the facility," said Craig Smith, education co-ordinator for the Alzheimer Society.

"To further enhance care of residents, we will strike committees to address issues and effect positive changes."

Changes won't come overnight.

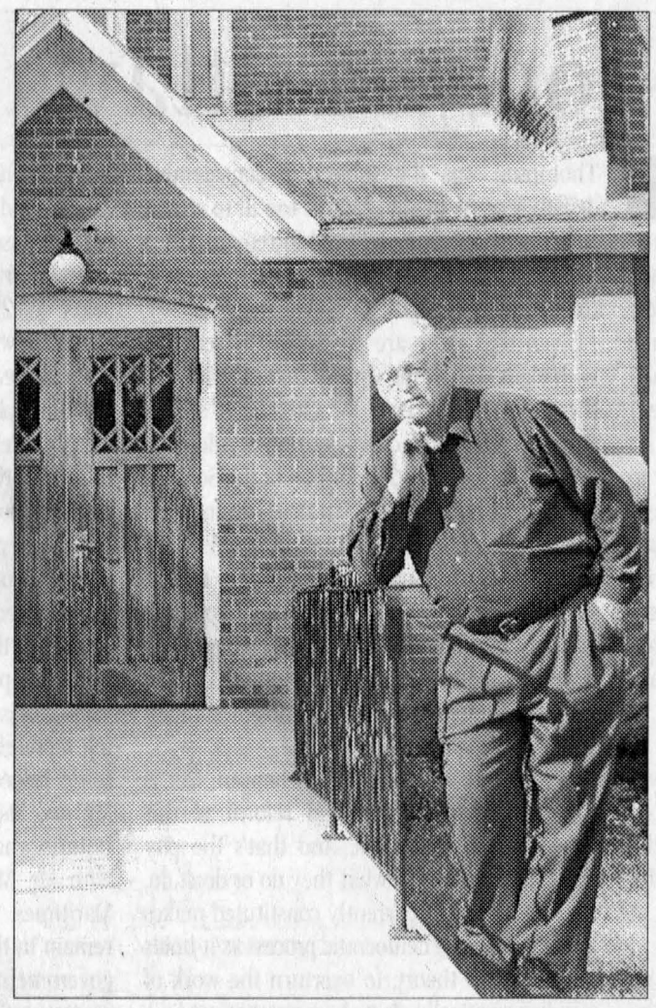
"It's an ongoing process and this is the first meeting," Ms. Konink said.

"There is a need for this (assessment): the majority of residents in long-term care facilities have some form of dementia. Chateau Gardens is a 60-bed facility and 70 per cent of our residents have dementia. It's up to us as a staff to educate ourselves."

Mr. Smith applauds the effort the staff at Chateau Gardens is making.

"They have a great staff, but facilities like Chateau Gardens are understaffed due to lack of provincial money," he said.

"They work hard, but potential for staff burn-out is high; (the Alzheimer Society) must support the staff as well as the residents. We need to give them the tools to do the best job and stay healthy."



CITIZEN OF THE YEAR: Maxville resident Erwin Shields stands in front of St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church, which he help to found. TODD ANDERSON

Chamber's Community Award winner an example of unsung volunteerism

By Gordon Winter
News Correspondent

Everyone's heard of the race between the hare and the turtle, who won because his steadfastedness compensated for his slow gait.

Quiet but steady Erwin Shields of Maxville was recognized as the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce fifth Community Award recipient last Wednesday evening at the Chieftain Restaurant.

The dining room was well filled with members of Mr. Shields' family and Chamber members.

Mr. Shields has been a member of the community since 1954 and of Maxville since 1977. He hasn't made much noise in all those years but has quietly been hard at the work that has benefitted many organizations.

Brought up in the Anglican Church at Fenaghvale, he was on the committee which saw the Baptist Church here, become St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church in 1960. He was on the building committee then and has played his part on the various committees up to the present.

At Maxville Manor, there is a 1968 photograph of the original board of directors. Erwin is in it, and with the exception of Nick Haramis who now lives in Cornwall, he is the sole survivor in Maxville of the members of the board. He served on the board until last year.

The Maxville and District Lions Club welcomed Erwin as a member in 1970 and last year made him a life member. He has filled various offices and at the monthly breakfasts he is always at the door welcoming people and taking payments.

For the last five years, the honoured gentleman has been the secretary of the local Masonic Lodge #418 and a member for 27 years. He is also a Shriner with the Karnak Temple and has received his 25-year pin.

Erwin was an active member of the Kenyon Agricultural Society for several years and served as president for two years back in the late 60s.

In June of this year, he and his wife, Olive, were members of a team in the Walk for Life that raised $3,300 for cancer research work. Both of them raised $200.

Where did it all start? Erwin was born on the farm north of the Ridge Road which runs from Fournier to Vankleek Hill. His father had cleared this farm.

It was on the southern edge of what is known now as the Alfred Bog and it was no small feat to clear away the trees and undergrowth and get the land drained.

There was a one room school on the Ridge Road that Erwin attended and later, in 1941, he attended the Ottawa Technical High School for special training which enabled him to secure a position in a wartime plant in Prescott.

This was a fateful move because it was there that he met Olive Hall and they were married on June 12, 1943.

The couple moved to the Shields' farm and were there for 11 years.

In 1954, the family moved to the former Charles Chisholm farm at the corner of the Baltic's Corners road and the Munro road. Besides farming, Erwin drove a school bus and continued doing so for 25 years.

Four children completed the family. Jack married Elaine Christie from Maxville and they now live in North Bay. They have two children and now have a grandchild.

Bill married Wendy Crawford from Strathmore and they have three grown children. Helen lives at Three Bridges, has three children and one grandchild. Sherri married Ed Osmar, they have two children and live in Ottawa.

In the village, Erwin worked in various positions. He was in the hardware store for a number of years and for five of those years, owned the store with his son, Bill. He was also the ice man at the Curling Club for five years.

Maxville Ward councillor George Currier made the presentation of the framed certificate to Mr. Shields, who expressed his thanks for the honour and his willingness to continue serving his community.

Pioneers just want to have fun

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

More than just a little of yesteryear await visitors to Dunvegan's Pioneer Museum this Sunday.

Organizers are describing the third annual Harvest Fall Festival as the biggest and most personal yet.

'Olden-days' artisans

Visitors to the Glengarry Pioneer Museum can see first-hand how they did it in the 'olden-days.' Demonstrations include boot and violin making, quilting and new attractions such as threshing, plowing and cross-cut sawing.

Festival co-organizer Blair Williams said one of the only antique threshers in the area will be brought by Lewis Fraser of Glen Robertson.

Another new addition is the miniature cheese factory.

"You can watch milk being turned into cream and then made into butter," Mr. Williams said.

Rain or shine, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. over 20 artisans will display their crafts. Learn the fine art of drying herbs and flowers. Bring your lawn chair and hear master storytellers, for children and adults, tell tales of pioneer life in Glengarry.

Various musicians

In-between hear the toe-tapping tunes of various musicians, featuring fiddler Ashley MacLeod, who will perform throughout the day.

Children can participate in pioneer games, enjoy horse rides and observe life as a blacksmith and a 1907 Scout camp.

Paul Hauck, leader of the 1st Maxville troop, said the campsite will show how Scouts founder Sir Baden Powell ran his first youth brigade.

Scouts' lean-to

A centre piece of the site will be the lean-to the Scouts will construct.

The Scouts will also demonstrate a cooking method – Dutch-oven cooking.

"We'll have a cast-iron pot with the food inside and charcoal surrounding it on the outside," Mr. Hauck said.

With the smell of food in the air, hunger can be easily satisfied. Preserves, fresh produce, baked goods and plants will be available for sale at the harvest table.

There's also the third annual Zucchini contest. Judges are looking for the largest, the heaviest, the longest, and the most exotic looking, plus the best-dressed pioneer. the tastiest zucchini recipe – bring a sample and the recipe. Judging takes place at 1:30 p.m.

Oldest bar

At 2 p.m. take a break and head over to the oldest bar in Ontario – the Star Inn, a coach stop during the 1800s.

A town crier will call out the events of the day as they unfold and a re-enactor will present militia life in 1860.

Tug-of-war

Organizers encourage visitors to join in a tug-of-war - or bring a local team to take on another community.

Pioneer dress will be the order of the day and a ribbon will be awarded to the best dressed pioneer family.

Suggested donation for the day is $3, with children under 12 gaining free admittance. Catering on site. For more details visit the website at starinn@glen-net.ca

Tartan banners will soon grace Maxville's Main Street

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

A project by the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce to create a visible Scottish theme in the village will soon get a big boost.

Tartan banners will soon be on display along Main Street. Chamber president Carma Williams said the chamber got a sneak preview at its annual general meeting last week of the banners.

"There are still a few details to iron out," Ms. Williams said, "but we hope to have an official launch this fall or winter."

In keeping with the chamber's efforts to highlight Scottish heritage, the banners will bear clan names and tartans of Maxville families.

"The banners will be on the poles on Main Street where the flags currently are," Ms. Williams said.

"They will be up during the tourist season only, to extend the life of the banners."

The banners will be made of vinyl and the tartans will be scanned onto a decal with the family name down the side.

The community can become involved by purchasing one or both sides of a banner.

"People will have a vested interest (in the project)," Ms. Williams said.

"They will show pride in their community, their family name and their tartan. They can feel they are contributing to the beauty of the village."

While the cost of sponsoring a banner hasn't yet been nailed down, Ms. Williams said families are welcome to pool together or sponsor a banner individually.

Seeks protection

By News Staff

North Glengarry Counicl supported a resolution passed by the City of Cowansville to protect jobs at Consoltex plants.

At the G8 summit at Kananaskis, Prime Minister Jean Chrétien announced a plan to eliminate the Canadian customs' duties and quotas on textiles and apparel imports coming from poor countries.

Consoltex states this change would threaten Canadian jobs in the textile industry.

Alexandria recycling more

By News Staff

Recycling box collection in Alexandria is costing the township more than planned.

RARE general manager Réné Jeaurond told the environment committee that recycling collection is taking between 12 and 13 hours.

Needed private contractor

He has hired a contractor at an hourly rate to help his RARE staff for the time being while he seeks a more permanent solution.

Previously, the collection time took 9-10 hours. But the extra 2-3 hours for RARE staff is paid at time and half, Mr. Jeaurond told The News.

Contractor's hourly fee is about $50 an hour.

However, most of this money is recouped because more recycables are collected, processed and sold by RARE.

The committee advised Mr. Jeaurond to consider other options and report to the committee on Nov. 5.

Residents virtually dead-set against U.S.-led invasion of Iraq

Straight Talk

Do you think the U.S. should invade Iraq and get rid of Saddam Hussein?

– Amanda Portinari and Greg Peerenboom

George Lague

Ron Cavener

Manon Ménard

Nick Lemieux

Lynda Garneau

Sylvie Tremblay

George Lague, Lancaster:
No, I don't think we should invade because the U.S. is trying to dominate. I don't think it's right. They should wait for the UN to decide.

Ron Cavener, Martintown:
No, I don't think so. We already have people in (Afghanistan). Why start up more stuff? Why start up another war? With Marc Léger we've already lost one from the community.

Manon Ménard, Alexandria:
Yes and no. Yes, because of what happened on Sept. 11. And no because why start another third (world) war – it could start another one. Invading wouldn't really be simple.

Nick Lemieux, Bainsville:
No. Nations should be able to control their own countries. The United States doesn't have the right to decide how Iraq runs their country.

Lynda Garneau, McCrimmons Corners:
No, because we need time for inspectors to go in. It could be military teams going in doing the inspections because they would know what to look for. Overthrowing a government is a very sensitive issue.

Sylvie Tremblay, Cornwall:
Only after the UN sanctions it and after all other steps are taken to make Iraq comply.

LaPierre, Marjory LaBreton, Frank W. Mahovlich, Michael A. Meighen, Lorna Milne, Lowell Murray, Landon Pearson, Michael P. Pitfield, Charette Poulin, Vivienne Poy, David P. Smith and Peter A. Stollery.

Some of the readers of The Glengarry News will recognize a few of the names in the preceding paragraph for a variety of reasons. One is a former National Hockey League star, another is highly regarded doctor, a third a captain of industry, the fourth a well-known television and media commentator and the fifth was the chief of staff of former Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau. Those individuals in order are: Frank Mahovlich, Wilbert Joseph Keon, John Trevor Eyton, Laurier L. LaPierre and Michael P. Pitfield.

Other recognizable names in the group include David P. Smith, Peter A. Stollery, Jean-Robert Gauthier, all former Liberal MPs; Jerahmiel S. Grafstein, Liberal fundraiser; Norman K. Atkins, who headed the Big Blue Machine during years when Bill Davis was premier and later in federal politics during the Mulroney era; and Lowell Murray, who also was associated with Mr. Mulroney as well as former opposition leader Robert Stanfield. Anne C. Cools and Vivienne Poy are known for their careers in the Toronto area as a social worker and fashion designer respectively; while Landon Pearson has distinguished herself working on behalf of children here in Canada and abroad.

In fact all of the above 22 individuals have distinguished themselves in one way or another during their respective careers. But that shouldn't be of any particular interest to Glengarry residents.

What might be significant, however, is that they represent Glengarrians at the federal level even though citizens of this area have never asked them to do so or even cast a vote on their behalf. In fact, probably none of us have ever contacted any of the above in their current capacity, nor would we contemplate doing so.

They are 22 of Ontario's complement of 24 representatives in the Senate. Two of the current seats remain vacant, but that's of no real concern since there is little or nothing of any significance that Senators do or accomplish on a day-to-day basis. That is borne out by the number of days they are asked to represent us in the Red Chamber (the Senate). Last year it was officially 87, this year it will be just 69.

The reason, in part, that the number of official days on their work schedule is being reduced is because there is, in reality, little for them to do.

Last June, the Senate decided to adjourn two weeks prior to the House of Commons because in the words of the Senate government leader, Liberal appointee Sharon Carstairs, they had "no business" left to work on, which she further expanded on in a most instructive manner: "I cannot, quite frankly, ask the taxpayers of Canada to have the Senate sit when we have no business to do. The reality is we sit as much as we need to sit in order to accomplish the legislation."

You might think that people with so little to do that they've cut back on their work schedule would also be cutting back on their remuneration but that's not the case. Our senatorial representatives have decided they should get a bit of pay hike – 20 per cent to be precise – not because of the workload but because they hadn't got an increase in some time.

The increase will raise their salaries to $106,400 annually. At the same time, ever mindful of their responsibilities to their constituents including the people of Glengarry, the Senators have decided to increase the penalty they are charged for missing a day's sitting to $250 from $190.

Theoretically, a Senator need never show up for a single day's sitting, have his remuneration reduced by the full penalty of $17,250 and still pocket $89,150 plus all the other benefits commonly associated with federal public service.

In fact Senators are notorious for poor attendance. The current leader in that regard is Trevor Eyton who missed 41 of 85 sittings in 2001. Before he retired in 1998, Andrew Thompson was the subject of considerable debate because he said he was too ill to attend Senate sessions and preferred to remain at his Mexico winter home, all the while continuing to draw his stipend.

Given that there are presently 105 senators with eight seats being vacant, that's the least of the financial concerns for Canadians as the Senators' collective compensation would only amount to just over $12 million of the Senate's anticipated budget of $63,901,000 – an increase over last year's expenditures of $56,516,000. The rest of the money is spent on offices, staffing, pensions, travel costs, etc. It could be argued that Canadians would be better served if we just abolished the Senate and all its trappings and agreed to pay our current complement to just stay home.

Of course that's not going to happen. Nor is there likely to be any real reform of this anachronistic institution. And that's the pity because regardless of what they do or don't do, the Senate as it is currently constituted makes a mockery of the democratic process as it holds the power, in theory, to overturn the work of our democratically elected representatives.

One need only look at the level of provincial and territorial representation to understand how little the Red Chamber reflects modern-day Canada. Ontario and Quebec both have a lion's share of representation with 48 of the 113 seats (425%). Two of the original Maritime provinces, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, are next with 10 seats each, while provinces such as Alberta and B.C., with considerably larger population bases have only six Senators each. In effect, four provinces command 68 of the 113 seats (60.2%). In addition to the above, Saskatchewan and Manitoba each have six seats while PEI has four and the three territories one apiece. The reason for this imbalance clearly demonstrates the problems with reforming the Senate as four of the five original signing provinces in Confederation hold the balance of power even though the demographics of the country have changed considerably in the intervening 135 years.

As well, the Prime Minister of the day, who holds the power of appointing Senators to fill vacancies is given some latitude when appointing representatives for each province. That, in some respects, explains why Messrs. Pitfield, Murray, Meighen, and LaPierre all represent Ontario when in fact three are native to Quebec with Mr. Murray originally hailing from the Maritimes. That three of the four chose to remain in the Ottawa area after moving out of government makes them even less desirable as representatives for the province as a whole.

Overall, six of Ontario's current 22 Senators call the Ottawa-area home, further increasing the imbalance. In reality, the only people our present 105 Senators represent are themselves and the prime ministers, who appointed them. It doesn't say much for the state of democracy in this country.

Thorns & Thistles

THISTLE –Dye-hard supporters of good causes.

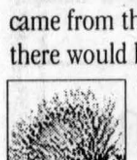
There seems to be no shortage of people prepared to help good causes in Glengarry. To name a few, recent weeks have seen the Brandi MacDonald tournament reach a new high in fundraising, topping the $65,000 mark while the Mother-Daughter walk continues to grow by leaps and bounds. However, the contribution made by staff at local schools certainly ranks among the more colourful. Two teachers and a principal agreed to dye their hair according to how much money each of their schools raised.

The more money, the more vibrant the hue: running from yellow to red, blue and purple. In the end, Elda-Rouleau teacher Marc Séguin sported a purple coiffure while St. Joseph's principal Michael Crossan and St. Jude teacher Marc Lajoie were blue and red respectively, giving new meaning to the old adage about seeing the colour of one's money.

THORN – Counties seek help to maintain roads.

There's nothing wrong with the idea of asking Glengarry residents to help maintain SDG roads. In fact, the U.S. has probably developed the concept to an art form.

Still, we suspect it will be a bit of a hard sell getting local groups to commit to such a project in part because they don't identify with the Counties as being local government. Maybe if the request came from the townships of South Glengarry or North Glengarry, there would be more interest than has been shown to date.



THISTLE – New bishop settling in nicely.

By most all accounts, the first three months of Bishop Paul-André Durocher have been an unqualified success. In no small part that's due to the new bishop's willingness to get out and meet and mix with his parishioners.

Here in Glengarry, he's travelled to Glen Nevis, Lochiel, Alexandria, Lancaster and Glen Walter as well as being actively involved with World Youth Day, an event for which he wrote the English lyrics for its theme song, as well as composing much of the Mass celebrated by the Pope on the last day.

In all, he presents himself as being open and progressive despite the natural constraints of his position. His relatively quick action in forming a temporary committee on child sexual abuse is a step in the right direction. Ultimately, however, his tenure here may well be defined by the recommendations the group presents in the new year and how he chooses to deal with them.

THISTLE – Mayor suggests cooling-off period.

Call it good fortune but North Glengarry's top elected official, Mayor Bill Franklin, wasn't present at the last meeting when the brouhaha over the noise issue played out at township council.

Nonetheless, his suggestion that the issue be put in abeyance until things calm down a bit is more than just good politics, it's good sense. At the same time, there may be legal ramifications to the township not having a consistent position throughout the entire municipality on noise as is the case on many other issues.

Stay tuned.

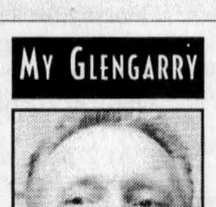
Mining for untold literary treasures

MY GLENGARRY



ROD McDONALD

In quaint, traditional settlements like Alexandria, there are ornate churches where people gather to worship, and then there is the more worldly shrine where locals nurse their cups of coffee, and gather in clusters, surrounded by invisible borders for protection, and above all, seclusion from aliens. Where else is a person to go these days for a good dose of old-fashioned gossip, and on occasion, a tale to make your sides ache?

In the old days, people used to congregate around the post office steps on Main Street to swap yarns and check out the latest news, but at that time, people used to mosey on down the street, and cars didn't seem to be such an integral and necessary part of one's personality. The result was that people gathered on the sidewalk. I recall cosying up to characters like my Uncle Satchel McDonald and his friends, and listening to stories about their hilarious adventures or eavesdropping on important people like Mayor Simon, a portly little man who looked like a prime minister, and trying to get the scoop on stories Police Chief Eddy Dupuis might be telling to Osie Villeneuve, our trusted MLA.

Today, automobiles come and go in front of the post office, but few people stick around in groups to 'chew the fat,' for extended periods of time, the way they used to do. If you want to partake in that activity, you have to wend your way down to Tim Hortons at the south end of town, where the real 'stretchers' are being told over a hot brew.

It's one thing to line up to buy a coffee, and wave at the old salts on the way out to your car (they may wave feebly back, or they might just possibly look right through you as if you were unseen or worse still, an outsider), but it's an entirely different proposition to break through the veiled barrier that keeps newcomers at bay.

Nnevertheless, even after 40 years away from this quaint little hamlet, I still feel that I have earned the right to try. And so, I stumble from table to table, trying to earn an invite to an anecdote I've never heard, or a joke I've never split a gut over before.

Entering Tim Horton's in Alexandria, is like opening a musty old book on the past, without always having the capacity to decipher many of the yarns that you know darn well are staring you right in the face. Some stories slip out of the geriatrics' memories with the greatest of ease, and come to fruition for all the world to see, like a flower that one almost steps on. Others have to be picked at and prodded as if one were trying to get the dried-up meat out of a withered nut.

It's like being in a rogue's gallery of nostalgia, along with the yearning that comes to any writer worth his salt, to garner those old gems that abound in such patriarchal company.

One fellow told me about a mortician, who, way back when, used to drive around in his beat-up hearse to pick up bodies throughout the meandering back roads and concessions of Glengarry.

It's easy enough to understand the stress the old fellow must have endured when he wasn't busy writing up obituaries by the light of a coal-oil lamp. Part of his job was to try to find corpses, and when you realize he had to travel through places with names like 'the Crooked Road' and 'the Seven Hills Road', is it any wonder the poor old boy suffered from some type of post-undertaking stress disorder?

On one occasion, I was told, the hearse konked out, and the undertaker had to use his own car, so he motored out on some forlorn concession road on a howling, rainy night which wasn't fit for man or beast.

When the undertaker reached the farm, he simply shoved the body in the back seat of the car, and rumbled off towards town, where he spotted a hitch hiker and picked him up. As the conversation turned to more morbid matters, the passenger realized that he was riding with unexpected company, and after turning around to check the contents of the back seat, screamed, "Lemme outa here!" and hightailed it for town on foot.

It boggles the imagination to think about the untold literary treasures buried in the recesses of Alexandria's Tim Hortons coffee shop. And as the years fly by, we lose more and more pieces of a disappearing jigsaw puzzle, which depicts a unique time in our history.

In fact, I don't doubt that there might even be a juicy best seller in there somewhere, if one could only get by the clandestine nature of many of the storytellers, and the sometimes well-founded suspicion they harbour for nosey writers, like me, who return to town.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Littering roads

I am wondering if anybody has noticed how the garbage is piling up along the roads in our lovely part of this world?

What kind of ignorant morons must be out in droves at night eating, drinking and throwing the remains out the window. A friend brought this to mind by telling me that she routinely carries garbage bags in her pocket when she walks a quiet side road – no marathoner, this just a nice stroll – and routinely fills at least two. Half the debris seems to be those totally recyclable 250 ml water bottles.

On a 10-mile stretch of a main road I decided to pick up just the water bottles. Nine of them – never mind the tin and paper. Neanderthal mutts – do you not realize that your filthy habits are the reason that everybody has to buy water? May showers of e.coli descend upon your little pointed heads.

Country life

Up with the lark or rather the hawk.

Out walking the dog early this morning - the mists were hanging heavy over the cornfields, the sun was trying to break through and a hawk was circling, looking for breakfast.

Hoof prints in the gravel road, the only signs my friends were out earlier with the pony and trap. Yes, folks, these are some of the pleasures of a quiet life in the country.

Ah, but! Then again, those who live just off Main Street Alexandria or Glen Robertson (with paved roads, sidewalks and the hum of traffic) might find it far too quiet! Trying to keep a positive attitude.

Missing pet

Today, I find myself writing this letter because I need help. On Sept. 1, my small dog disappeared from my north-end Alexandria home.

On that day, my dog who is an off-white shitzu with a black collar decided to go for a little morning walk. After noticing him gone, I searched for him for hours until I came to a sad realization he disappeared.

If you have seen him or if you have picked him up please give me a call at 525347.0.

I could understand why someone would like to keep him as he is a wonderful dog. He is very cute and likes to cuddle with me. That is probably why my heart aches to have him back.

Missing him very much,

Christine Sauve / Alexandria

One hundred years, that's how long the Lefebvre farm has been in the family.

It all started in 1901 when Alexandre Lefebvre bought the farm from Mr. Donald MacKay. In 1902 he married Anna Poirier of St. Eugene.

Over the years they raised 16 children: Victor, Oscar, Alcide, Wilfrid, Donat, Edmour, Alexandrine, Alphonsine, Therese, Leopold, Lionel, Lucien, Eddie, Joseph, Aline, Lorenzo. Of the boys, three died at a young age while the eight remaining boys were all members of the Knights of Columbus. The only remaining child still living is Aline, who is 79 years old and lives in Plattsburg, U.S.

In 1945, son Lionel and his wife Fernande (Levert) bought the farm from his parents and they raised three children: Colette, Nicole, now deceased, and Denis.

Well, as tradition would have it, Denis and his wife Carole (Sarault) bought the farm from his dad and they raised three children: Andre, Roxane and Alain.

Guess what? Andre and his wife Patricia Leveille will buy the farm shortly and still live there. They are raising their two children, Rebecca and Joel. I wonder, will young Joel follow the family tradition later on?

LEFEBVRE FAMILY REUNION: Descendents of Alexandre Lefebvre and Anna Poirier gather on the steps and veranda of the family farm house last summer.

FAMILY BEGINNINGS: The Lefebvre house as it was in 1901 and present day.

On Aug. 3 and 4, over 200 family, friends and neighbours got together on the family farm to celebrate the occasion.

A big tent was raised in front of the house. They had a corn roast, music was provided by the Lefebvre family members including Aunt Aline who sang a few songs. M.C. for the two day festivities was Emile Lefebvre.

You brought your own refreshments, snacks or food. Denis gave wagon rides through the sugar bush and to see their beef cattle for those who wanted to.

Before leaving, many family members took home stones from the farm as souvenirs.

People came from Green Valley, Alexandria, Ottawa, Hull, Orleans, Plattsburg, Detroit, Moose Creek, Chatauguay, Que. and Maine. I think a big thank you is in order to Denis and Carole and their children for organizing this weekend.

Happy birthday

Happy birthday to Daniel Larocque on Sept. 18 from his family, mom, dad, Nathalie and Christian.

Daughters of Isabella

The Daughters of Isabella held its regular monthly meeting on Sept. 18. Planning for the year's activities were discussed during the meeting.

Monique Keeler gave an account of the day held in Hawkesbury; she said she learned a lot of new things that will help everyone.

An account of hours donated to the aged, schools, church and hospital came to a total of 848 hours.

Right now, the Daughters are preparing an initiation for the month of May. This Sunday a mass at Curry Hill will be attended by the Daughters of isabella. Everyone is welcome.

Optimist Brunch

Not to forget the Optimist Club Brunch on Sunday after 10am mass. They will be holding their change of power and everyone is invited. If interested, they would like you to reserve before today (Sept. 25) by calling Fernande Menard at 525-4836.

God bless and have a safe week.

Fiddling is for more than just hearing

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

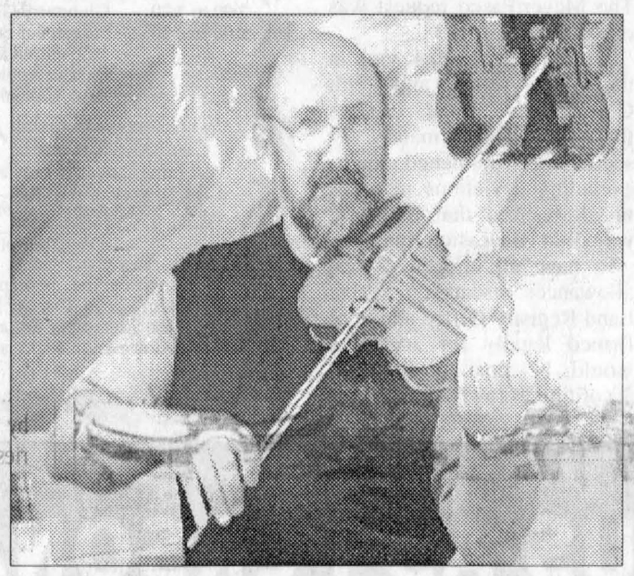
It is true what Patrick Huston of Glen Sandfield says, "Glengarry and fiddles are as one."

And what better person to say that than Patrick himself. He is what is known as a luthier. He makes violins.

Not knowing much about violins myself, I was first drawn to his because some of them are wonderful, bright, joyful colours – in fact a brilliant green one is being raffled off to support the Glengarry Place for the Arts – a place to encourage Celtic arts whether it be dance, visual arts, music and Celtic history.

While Patrick has Scottish and Irish heritage, he and his wife, Valerie MacKenzie, only moved here some three years ago. But it did not take long before they both were immersed in all the activities to be found in our area.

"The actual day we moved here to our new house we hardly unpacked any of the boxes before we went out for supper and then jumped into our first violin lesson," Patrick told me.



THE GREEN VIOLIN: It is sad you cannot see the brilliant green of the violin Patrick Huston is playing. It is going to be raffled so any fiddlers out there hurry and buy that winning ticket.

"Now Valerie teaches violin and I, after being a part of this fiddling culture, decided I wanted to actually build one.

"I had built model trains and planes over the years but I cleared them out, started buying and reading books on violin making and then went to the internet for more information. "Now I also repair and restore and have customers all over the world – even as far away as Japan."

Sounds simple doesn't it but there is an incredible amount of skill and knowledge needed.

Starting with the wood, only the top line spruce from British Columbia is used for the top. Growing high in the mountains, they are much straighter therefore the grain is straighter.

Maple is used for the neck and back and you can see the beautiful 'flaming' this wood creates.

"The shape is carved," Patrick said. "I use a variety of jigs and calipers to chisel out to the various thicknesses required."

Patrick is going to be part of the upcoming Fall Harvest Festival at the Glengarry Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan. He will be demonstrating and playing of course and it is well worth the trip. That green violin I mentioned before? The raffle tickets will be available on site.

Some of the other artisans are Alain Lauzon, flute maker; Andre Arcand, stained glass; Lynn Macnab, boot maker; Jeanette Crooks, wool blankets; Normand Brisbois, wood turner, Valerie MacKenzie, Victorian lampshades; Leonard Thevenot, drum maker and Ronna Mogelon, dried herbs and flowers. There will be quilters and spinners and no doubt by the time the event takes place, more names will be added.

Even on an ordinary day, the Pioneer Museum is worth a visit for anyone living in the area especially.

We really do live in a unique part of Ontario so try to make it to the Festival. It will take place on Sept. 29 between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. For more information you may call Susan Joiner 525-5177.

Crime spree ends in arrest of SG man

Police Briefs

The perpetrator of several crimes on the evening of Sept. 15 and the early hours of Sept. 16 has been apprehended.

A 20-year-old man from South Glengarry was arrested on Sept. 16 after a woman was sexually assaulted at a County Road 25 residence.

He then stole a 1984 Pontiac 6000 from a nearby residence. He drove it until it ran out of gas in the Glen Walter area. A second vehicle, a 1986 Plymouth van, was then taken from a Glen Walter residence. Police have recovered both vehicles.

The man faces charges of sexual assault, uttering threats, two counts of motor vehicle theft and failing to comply with conditions stemming from a previous incident.

Constable R. MacDonald and the SDG OPP Crime Unit are investigating.

Domestic dispute

A male has been arrested following a domestic incident in Alexandria last week.

On Sept. 20 at approximately 4:40 p.m., SDG OPP officers went to a residence on Main Street, where an altercation had taken place between a 36-year-old man and a 41-year-old woman.

The man was arrested and faces a charge of assault. His name is being withheld to protect the identity of the victim.

Const. J. Brodie is investigating.

Lawn equipment taken

A shed at a residence on Tannery Road in North Glengarry was entered sometime between Sept. 13 and 21.

Taken were a red 1998 15 horsepower Yardman riding mower with 48" cut, a 1999 green gas Weed-eater and a 1997 green electric Weed-eater. Total value is estimated at $3,030.

Const. J. Brown is investigating.

Break-in at CGCC

Overnight between Sept. 19 and 20, the Cornwall Golf and Country Club canteen was entered. Beer and food items, valued at $150 were taken.

Const. R. MacDonald is investigating.

Contraband cigarettes

During regular patrols on Sept. 20, RCMP members stopped a vehicle on Highway 401 east of Summerstown.

The occupants of the vehicle were in possession of 2,050 ziplock bags of no-name cigarettes.

The value of the cigarettes seized is $45,000. The value of the vehicle seized is $35,000.

Charged with possession of cigarettes not in accordance with the provisions of the Excise Act are Lyle Pierce, 26, of Cornwall Island and a female from Cornwall.

The female was released on a promise to appear and is scheduled to appear in Alexandria court on Oct. 9. Mr. Pierce was scheduled for a bail hearing in Cornwall on Sept. 24.

SG to deal with unopened roads

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

South Glengarry will discuss the tricky question of unopened road allowances during its strategic planning session being held this year in November.

The move comes after council deferred decisions on three related matters during Monday evening's regular meeting.

One of the issues involved the request for closure of an unopened road allowance on Fallowfield Road, which would allow Wiebe Meyer to erect a permanent fence down the middle of the allowance. Neighbouring farmer, Tom Pasco, agreed with the request.

The two were willing to pay $500 per acre, plus related costs for the road allowance, which is vacant land, overgrown and containing the remnants of a stone fence.

But council hedged on making a decision.

"I think this is premature," said Councillor Ian McLeod. "More and more we're getting requests to close roads - once they're gone they're gone."

Mr. McLeod suggested taking a look at all the township's unopened road allowances.

"Defer this until we have a chance to take a look at the overall map," he said.

Councillor Jim McDonell said he believed the province was going to be coming out with "something urging townships not to sell off the road allowances," and also supported the deferral.

Shortly after deferring the first request, council was asked by another farmer to fix an unopened portion of the 1st Line Road between Concessions 4 and 5.

Scott Fourney, who was in attendance at the meeting, said that at the moment council was wasting its money in attempting to do a little work on the road. Under the "Courtesy By-law" the municipality performs incidental works from time-to-time on unopened road allowances.

But township staff said it would cost at least $30,000 in granulars, base preparation, and ditching in order to bring the road to the standard requested by Mr. Fourney.

"Because of where it is situated, it would take a lot of agricultural traffic off Hwy 34," he told council in requesting that the work be done.

But Mayor Dave MacDonald said there was no money in the budget for the road this year.

Mr. Fourney said that he and his neighbour had put their own money into the road to try to keep it up, but that it was in a state now where it would take more money than he was willing to put into a township road. "If the township has no interest in the road, we'll buy it," he said.

"We have many of these roads," said Councillor Jim McDonell. "We'll have to look at them and make a policy."

Later in the evening, a staff report recommending that South Glengarry accept a policy that anyone initiating a request to use or acquire unopened road allowances, would be responsible for all related costs, was also deferred.

The staff report indicated that a previous wish of council to "catalogue all allowances," was proving a challenge. Many of the original unopened road allowances do not show up on day to day working documents. The Meyer/Pasco request was one of these.

Furthermore, a quick look at the 7th, 8th, and 9th Concessions alone, shows there are approximately 37 sections of unopened roads, excluding deviations in roads or allowances that end part way or at concession lines.

To have all unopened road allowances researched in the Land Registry Office and confirmed legally for accuracy, would be cost prohibitive, according to township staff.

Bainsville WI wants to add gazebo to Memorial Park

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

The Bainsville "Belvedere" could be a familiar site in the future, if the local branch of the Women's Institute has its way.

Representatives of the Bainsville WI appeared before South Glengarry Council Monday night to ask for its support. The WI wants to build the "Belvedere" – a large, southern-style gazebo-like structure – in the Bainsville Women's Institute Memorial Park.

Gillian Williams told council the Belvedere would provide a focal point for the community – it could be seen from Hwy 401 – and would instill a sense of civic pride and a sense of belonging for Bainsville and area residents.

The Memorial Park presently has 27 trees and shrubs planted in memory of former WI members and the Belvedere would contain a wall of remembrance with their names, as well as a map.

Mrs. Williams said the new structure could be used for outdoor concerts, meetings, school events, family gatherings and community celebrations such as Canada Day.

The Institute has been fortunate in acquiring the services of Marc Gauthier who will help with the plan and the structure.

Mayor Dave MacDonald commended the organization for its plans for the community and for Mrs. Williams' excellent presentation.

Council agreed to support the WI's application for funding under the Trillium Foundation.

"We're not a fund-raising group," said Mrs. Williams, in asking council to become a partner to take over such things as the anticipated $400 annual insurance cost, grass cutting, and hydro expenses.

She outlined a plan whereby Institute members would manage the park for a period of five years, renewable every five years. No decision was taken by council on that aspect of the proposal at this time.

The Bainsville Women's Institute is celebrating its 75th anniversary in 2004 and would like to see the Belvedere established by then.

Gratitude exuded during chamber meeting

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

The annual general meeting of the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce attracted a capacity attendance at the Chieftain Dining Room last Wednesday evening.

Hosted by president, Carma Williams, a social hour preceded special presentations.

For their attentive duties of watering the 30 hanging baskets in the village, John Allistair and Alexander Sinclair, sons of Jackie and Paul, were rewarded with a monetary gift by the president and with another from Betty Wright, proprietor of the Chieftain.

Megan Munroe tended the tourist booth this summer and she gave her report.

This year, Erwin Shields was the chosen recipient of the Community Award and after Gordon Winter had read the citation, Maxville ward Councillor George Currier presented him with the award and commended him for all his much appreciated volunteer support.

A roast beef dinner buffet table was then enjoyed.

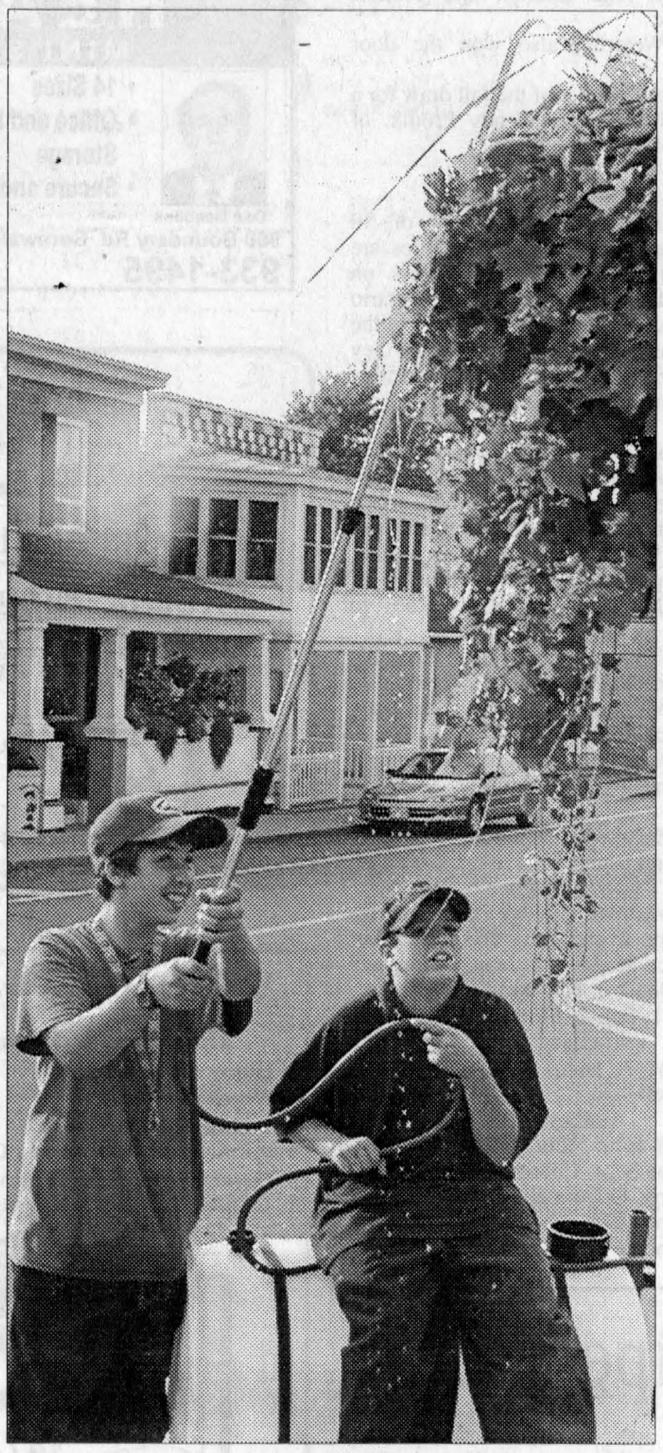
In her president's report, Carma indicated the success of the 10th anniversary dinner and dance last November and briefly reviewed the work of the CofC over the ten years and how it has made a difference in the community and for the businesses.

She feels that there is a true sense of commitment in the CofC and this has been reflected in a more vibrant community which is committed to support its businesses.

There was a sneak preview of a tartan banner and this fall the banner project will be introduced. The banners will be installed on the poles along Main Street, the name of the tartan will be at the top of the banner and it is hoped that there will be sufficient support to have many different tartans beautifying the street and displaying the community's Scottish heritage.

In a separate hand-out, the accomplishments of the Chamber for the 2001-2002 year were listed. Some of those were the annual Santa Claus parade, the redesigning of the Maxville brochure, the May sidewalk sale, the attractive garbage cans along Main Street, 45 volunteered with the Chamber to help with the Relay for Life Cancer Walk, piping and drumming on Main St. during July and August, awards and bursaries to students at local schools, and organized a blood donor clinic.

To complete her three-year term, Carma was re-elected president for the 2002- 2003 year.



HARD AT WORK: Brothers John-Allister, left and Alexander Sinclair volunteered their services this summer as they watered the towns 29 plants along the streets every second day. To recognize their generosity the Maxville Chamber of Commerce presented the brothers with a cheque for $100 at their annual general meeting last week. TODD ANDERSON PHOTO

Scottish golfing experience

There have been three golfers from the Glasgow area in Scotland here experiencing the sport on seven different courses in eight days.

Don Bond along with Denny Charlebois and John Doty from Ottawa have been taking great care of Grant MacGregor, Archie MacFarlane and Tommy Lavery as they visit the local courses as well as others a bit farther away.

This is a return visit since the three Canadian golfers were in Scotland last year to have a similar experience.

Speeders

For those living on Main Street W., there has always been the problem with motorists driving much faster than they should. Last week, for a few days, there was a large speed indicator installed in front of the old high school and it showed, on its screen, the speed of the oncoming drivers. From my observations, there is excess speed as well with those driving westward, out of the village.

However the use of this device from the OPP was appreciated and it will also be appreciated if the speed limit in the village could be followed on all streets.

Turkey dinner

All those who attended the annual turkey dinner provided by the congregation of St. James Church found it very delicious. There was a large crowd but when we were there, diners could be seated as fast as they could be served in the line-up

Father Jacques Labelle was his usual congenial self and greeted all as he handed out the plates at the beginning of the serving table.

It was also good to have Monsignor Rejean Lebrun back greeting old friends as he moved from table to table.

80th birthday

Muriel Vernon of Loch Garry and Cornwall celebrated her 80th birthday recently when her children surprised her with a family get-together in Montreal. She enjoyed very much being taken to places in that city that she once knew.

Family members home for this special occasion were Lennine and Ken from Puslinch, Ont., their daughter, Allison from Tennessee, Brian from Australia, and Sandra and Illya and son Aaron from Unionville.

Mrs. Vernon's brother, Leonard Hicks, also joined the party in Montreal.

Sympathy

We extend sincere sympathy to the Evans family in the death of their brother and son last week. At this time we are thinking of Audrey of the village, parents Rita and Howard of the 6th Con. Kenyon, and all other family members.

Horticultural Society auction

The attendance at the fall auction meeting of the Horticultural Society last Wednesday evening was down and therefore auctioneer Barbara Graham had to work very hard to get reasonable prices for all the plants, seeds, and garden produce that had been brought in. In some cases, the prices were not reasonable and the bidders had real bargains.

There were some items that were not sold and they were donated to the Glengarry Pioneer Museum for its Fall Harvest Festival next Saturday.

Autumn outing

You are encouraged to attend this celebration of the harvest at the Museum next Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Over 20 artisans are expected to display their crafts, there will be pioneer demonstrations, storytellers, musicians, pioneer games, and there will be preserves, produce, baked goods and plants for sale.

Two local Maxville men will be there. Paul Hauck who has been a much appreciated leader of the Scout Movement here will recreate a 1907 Scout camp and talk about the activities back then.

Gary Howes will have horses there and demonstrate the methods used in pioneer days for the harvest, including threshing.

The third annual zucchini contest will be repeated and that includes recipes and samples.

Everyone is encouraged to come in pioneer dress and the admission is $3 for those 12 years and over.

Special thanks

The Maxville Recreation Committee has a special thanks to Terry Besner and the Ceres Corporation for donating some audio visual equipment that converted the Sports Complex Hall into a mini-theatre last Friday evening.

The 42-inch television was replaced with a projected 10 foot by six foot movie screen that was clearly visible from any point in the hall and went a long way to make the first movie night of the season a huge success.

More than 100 young people attended this event and a great number of those stayed afterwards for the youth dance that followed.

Big thanks go to Jennifer Wensink, Holly Michaud and Aaron Maynard for their assistance with the dinner and later, with the dance.

Future movie nights are planned as the movies become available so all the young people of the community are advised to keep an eye out for the ads and for the announcements in this column.

First game

Our Mustangs hockey team played its first game last Saturday evening and defeated Casselman 4-1. It was an exhibition game and the first regular game will be on Oct. 5 here with the team from Vanier. Games start at 7:30 p.m.

There is a campaign on now for the sale of season tickets for $55. Our Scotiabank is once again helping out this cause for the support of the team by offering to match the sale of the season tickets up to $5,000.

So do your best to support the team. It is reported that there are more local boys playing on it this year. Naturally, too, you will make Coach Andre Paquette's smile even broader when he sees a large crowd.

We wish Andre and the members of the team an excellent year.

Bridge

The winners at the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor last week were Russ Surtees, Mary Nutter and Charles Anderson.

Birding

There hasn't been anything written about the birds recently simply because I had nothing to write. I have three feeders up now with three choices but there is very little activity at them.

I bought a 20 kg. bag of black sunflower seed last week and received quite a shock at the high price.

There are still a few Monarch butterflies around. The warm weather has been responsible for that but I just hope they start their trek to Mexico before they encounter cold weather on the way.

Jubilee Celebrations at St. Joseph Regional House in Amherstview, ON

Back Row L to R: Sisters Elinor McDonald, Mary Hurley, Mary McGill and Ella McGillis. Front row: Sister Aileen Byrnes

On Saturday, September 14, 2002 in Holy Family Chapel at St. Joseph Regional House in Amherstview, Ontario, the Religious Hospitallers of St. Joseph joyfully celebrated the anniversaries of Religious Profession of five of its members: Sister Aileen Byrnes and Sister Elinor McDonald (65 years each); Sister Ella McGillis (60 years); and Sister Mary Alice Hurley and Sister Mary McGill (50 years each).

The Eucharistic Celebration, with Archbishop Anthony G. Meagher being the chief celebrant was attended by many clergy, family members, friends, and R.H.S.J.

Sisters Aileen, Elinor, Ella, Mary Alice and Mary have given a total 290 years serving the sick and poor in Canada, the United States and the Dominican Republic. Their ministries included Pastoral Care, Nursing, Hospital and School of Nursing administration, Parish Ministry, and administration at the provincial and local levels for their congregation. These sisters continue to serve in the ministries of prayer, administration, music/liturgy, and as pastoral visitors.

Following the simple, but beautiful service a reception was held in the dining room at St. Joseph Regional House where sisters, family, and friends could visit with the Jubilarians and celebrate their years of service.

The Religious Hospitallers of St. Joseph are proud of these women and as Archbishop Meager said in his homily, "their compassionate presence in our world will not be forgotten."

Village residents free up unwanted possessions

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

South Glengarry's Household Hazardous Waste Collection Day was a gloopy success and guess what? Williamstowners beat out a combined effort of Lancastrians and South Lancastrians by a score of 65 vehicles to 62, which dropped off nasty things at Smithfield Park last Saturday.

Seems petty to resort to figures and competition, but hey - if it helps to clean up the environment, why not?

I think the township should reward the hamlet/area which brings in the biggest haul of old paint, oil, pesticides, aerosols and waste flammable liquids, on an annual basis. How about - say -- a marshmallow roast over a giant bonfire? Just kidding, of course, but we could all get to wear biodegradeable crowns for the day, or better still: we could get a reduction in our property taxes for being the most environmentally conscious!

For those of you who like stats: Westley's Point, Bainsville and Curry Hill accounted for 37 vehicles, as did Glen Walter. North Lancaster had 35; Martintown sent forth 29, Summerstown, 28, and Green Valley, 26.

For those of you who let machines and correspondents do the arithmetic for you - that's a total of 319 vehicles hauling in 19,520 litres of unmentionables which were given to Drain-All for disposal.

Cost of the event was $15,700.

Protests new electoral boundaries

South Glengarry Councillor Jim McDonell, who dwells in Williamstown, proposed a couple of weeks ago that a protest be made against the newly proposed Federal Electoral Boundaries.

The new lines would see Glengarry meshed with Prescott-Russell when it comes time to vote. Not that the current situation is much better, with those of us on the Williamstown Road (to Lancaster) split off from those in Lancaster village, but South Glengarry has decided to ask that the United Counties of SDG (including the City of Cornwall) be considered as one political riding.

Poor Bob Kilger, present MP, has just moved to South Glengarry. If the new proposal goes through, he would find himself living on foreign soil, as it were!

Rest assured: South Glengarry is going to bring its voice to the commission looking in to the changes, and Jim wants you to know that members of the public can also speak on the issue. Information is available at the township hall at 347-1166, or by calling him at 347-1800.

Williamstown Public School

News from Williamstown Public School has come my way this week. Many thanks to Dianne Granary for providing the following.

School Council elections took place on Friday, Sept. 20. Elected students include: Jonathan Pidgeon (Grade Five), Maggie Lang (Grade Six), Amanda Lavallee and Allister Whitford (Grade Seven), and Becky Kirkby and Katie Pelley (Grade Eight).

Congratulations to you all!

The first meeting of the School Council took place on Sept. 17. Two more parent representatives are required to complete the council. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. If your child attends Williamstown Public School, it is hoped that you will plan to attend.

Spirit Week is taking place Sept. 23 to 27. The week begins with crazy hat day on Monday and team T-shirt day on Tuesday. Wednesday is retro day and includes a retro dance. On Thursday, students are encouraged to wear blue and gold, the school colours, and on Friday, the week concludes with a Spirit Assembly.

Exercising your opportunity

Feeling fat, flat or sluggish? Perhaps you need some exercise! If the thought of getting in to the car and driving into a nearby urban centre in order to stretch and bend, is too much for you, read on.

Cheryl Sandilands, who now lives on Fallowfield Road with her husband Neil and their family, is starting up Aerobics at Williamstown Public School. The sessions would be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and would be $3 per session ($24 per month.)

Cheryl encourages people of all ages and states of physical flexibility to come out and have some fun. Just wear a smile and work at your own pace!

Sessions will start on Oct. 16 (the week after Thanksgiving!) and Cheryl invites you to call her at 347-3251 for more information.

Sound Weavers

Something new for the ladies! Pat Hamilton tells me that the Sound Weavers, a women's barbershop chorus that meets in Cornwall is looking for new members.

The group gathers at Caldwell Hall (St. John's Presbyterian Church) on Second St. East, on Wednesday nights at 7 p.m.

If you are interested and would like more information, please call Pat at 347-2856.

Friendly Neighbours

The Friendly Neighbours meet every Thursday afternoon at St. Mary's Centre at 1:30 p.m. and everyone is welcome to come out at that time and play cards and socialize. No point sitting around feeling sorry for yourself - come on out and join the party!

At the club's recent open euchre, winners were: Men's high - Tony Wetering, and John Krol. Low was Roger Pilon. For the ladies, it was Germaine Kennedy, Rita Lauzon and Florida Legroulx.

Tony Wetering also won the door prize.

The lucky winner of the fall draw for a beautiful quilt was Wendy Proulx, of Cornwall.

Darn!

Annual canvasses

The Knights of Columbus of St. Mary's and St. William's Parishes are conducting their annual canvass on behalf of The Arthritis Society, Ontario Division. They hope the members of the community will be as generous as they were for the last two years when they knock on your doors.

Easy-going baptism

He took it all in his stride, looking round with curiosity and allowing members of the congregation to coo, touch and pat him. And when it was all over, he went to sleep in his mother's arms.

So shall the baptism on Sunday of Kieran Michael Edwards McRae, go down in history.

Kieran is the son of Susan Edwards and Bruce McRae, recently returned to live in Williamstown, and is the baby brother of Angus McRae.

Following the baptism by Rev. Andrea Harrison in St. Andrew's United Church, a little celebration was held at the McRae home on Cty. Rd. 17, for family and friends.

Bridge

Williamstown Bridge Club scores from Sept. 18 are: N/S - 1. Audrey Blair and Joyce Madden; 2. Jean Murray and Isobel Quail; 3. Kay and Mel Colbran.

E/W - 1. Bob and Francoise Govan; 2. Isobel Larocque and Margaret Kennedy; 3. Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell.

Audrey's Bridge

Results from Audrey's Friday Night Bridge on Sept. 13 are: 1. Homer Grant and Garry O'Connell; 2. Ida Cadieux and Gerry Johnston, 3. John Roulston and Francine Lang.

Fire noticed before major damage done to Kuipers' farm

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

A fire which began in some hay bales and quickly spread to a machine shed was spotted by Jason and Dennis Kuipers as they were playing outside at their farm just north of Martintown on Sept. 12, and they quickly alerted their parents, Antoinette and Louis.

The two older Kuipers boys, Thomas and Edwin, were at school at the time. Louis was able to save a tractor, and some machinery may be salvaged, but they lost a lot of hay and the shed may have to be entirely rebuilt.

The wind was coming from the northwest that day, which was the most favourable direction and prevented further loss at the farm.

The Martintown Fire Department responded very quickly to the call, and they received back-up from the Williamstown and Apple Hill Fire Departments.

Louis is grateful to them and to all who helped out that day. I hope to have the names of the new Martintown volunteer fire fighters for next week.

Harvest supper

Coming up soon is one of the most anticipated fall events in Martintown, namely the Harvest Supper at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Due to the fact that Thanksgiving is as late as it can be this year, the date for the church supper falls on Oct. 9.

The menu is ham, scalloped potatoes, vegetables, salads, rolls, pickles and all the other trimmings, topped off by the best pies to be found anywhere.

The price for adults is $10, children from six to 12 years are $5, and under six years eat for free. Dinner is served between 4:30 and 7 p.m.

Thompson-Kelson wedding

A lovely evening wedding took place on Friday at St. Andrew's United Church in Martintown between Sherry Thompson and Lanny Kelson officiated by Rev. Andrea Harrison.

The church was decorated with large floral arrangements in fall colours. Wedding photos were taken before the service at The Cottage, across from Martintown Public School.

Sherry is the daughter of Melvin, and granddaughter of May Thompson. The bride wore a white sleeveless gown with a scoop neck and a shoulder-length veil held by a tiara and carried a bouquet of dark red mums. Her sister, Lisa Thompson, was her bridesmaid wearing a navy blue long strapless dress with a shawl, and carrying a similar bouquet.

Will, son of Sherry and Lanny, and his cousin, Devon, wore navy blue suits and white shirts and carried bride and groom teddy bears.

Alison Murray played the organ Lois and Martin Gaudet sang during the service. A reception was held in Cornwall.

Sherry and Lanny and Will live in Ottawa where Sherry is a nurse at CHEO and Lanny works for the federal government as a computer whiz.

Congratulations to the family and best wishes for a lifetime of happiness from all your Glengarry friends.

Surprise birthday party

The surprise party for Ray Howes 60th birthday on Saturday night was a whopping success. Somehow everyone was able to keep the surprise from Ray, and all the intrigue and half-truths paid off.

A large crowd of friends and family filled the Martintown Community Centre and the entertainment didn't disappoint. Bob and Ducky kept the tunes coming and the toes tapping while our local troupe of performers got into costumes and character for their latest version of the birthday party skit/roast.

The residents of Howes Happy Hovel Seniors Residence, formerly the Martintown Nunnery, were Art Buckland as Mike from Martintown, and George Runions as George of Kinloch, the orderly was Nod (Don) Johnston, and they welcomed Ray When, Why, Who, What, Howes as the latest inmate.

Bev Runions, Dale Lafave, Jackie Benton, Nancy Beerwort, Jan Buckland and Alison Murray all helped out, as Ray was led out to the hot seat and was made the butt of lots of 'old' jokes.

Councillor Ian McLeod presented Ray with an extra tax bill and fines for inadequate fencing over the years. Rounding it all out and capping the skit off was a rare appearance of Rita McMurray, Campbell Murray in drag, and suffice it to say, you had to be there.

The balloons kept slipping, but Rita didn't miss a beat (well maybe just a few), sang her heart out, and even got better once her shoes came off! Mike Ross, son-in-law of Art and Jan, captured the whole evening on video.

A lunch was served and a great time was had by all. Congratulations Ray whenever the big day is here, and everyone wishes you many more years of health and happiness!

Memorial service

The annual memorial service was held last Sunday at St. Andrew's United Church in Martintown.

The service was conducted by Rev. Andrea Harrison partly out of doors and Don Blackadder was the piper. The flowers in the church were placed by Norma Peachey in memory of her husband and Louane Doyle was the guest soloist.

Donations were made towards the upkeep of the cemetery. Special guest that day was a lady of 94, Muriel Clarke whose roots run deep in this area. She is descended from the Smart and Carlisle families, members of whom are buried in the church cemetery. Her aunt, Miss Smart taught at the Martintown school long ago.

New electrician

Belated congratulations are in order for Rory Buchan, son of Heather and Grant, who has recently qualified as a licenced electrician. He is living and working in Cornwall, employed by Laurier Electric.

Britannica donation

Onagh Ross of Book Nook fame was delighted last week to be able to deliver on a request made by a local family for a set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

She received six replies to her plea through this column from readers in Cornwall, Monkland, Dunvegan, Apple Hill and Martintown and is grateful to them all.

In the end, a couple from Cornwall was happy to simply give their Britannica, much to the delight of a young student. With only slow-speed internet access, being able to look things up the old-fashioned way still has merit, and I certainly like being able to just browse quietly in a book without the whir and chunk-chunk of a tower beside me.

Horticultural Society meeting

The next meeting of the Martintown and District Horticultural Society will be held on Oct. 2, and the speaker will be local landscape gardener, Carol Dancause.

She will be talking about pruning beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Martintown Community Centre. Everyone is welcome and the meetings are always followed by refreshments as an extra enticement.

Goats at Beautyrock

The Three Gruff Goats of the King's Road have moved onto the lawn of Beautyrock farm, solving the mystery appearance of the wonderful play structure and, more recently, the barn.

They will be providing added entertainment for kids and adults next summer while berry picking, and in the meantime, they set off the field of pumpkins behind them nicely. Nick and his employees have had a busy, but very productive summer. The corn has been wonderful, and we are sad to see the end of it!

Duplicate Bridge

The results of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge held on Sept. 17 were as follows: North/South, 1. Peggy Seymour and Evelyn McPhail, 2/3. Jean Murray and Jane Troop, 2/3. Bill Todgell and Bob Evans. East/West, 1. Audrey Pasco and Barbara Ross, 2. Allan McLeod and Henryk Rzepczyk, 3. Audrey Blair and John Roulston.

Bingo Bridge, won by Sheila Pickett, was foreshortened to provide time for the wine and cheese farewell party for Jean Murray who is leaving Glengarry for Edmonton, Alberta.

Consumption at the party may have affected the bidding and scoring a little. Allan McLeod and his partner Henryk Rzepczyk emerged as the new masterpoint leaders. Was that because Allan abstained from strong drink and settled for the very strong coffee?

Goodtimers Euchre

The winners of the Martintown Goodtimers Euchre which was held on Sept. 17 were: 1st, Marcel Glaude, 2nd Claire VanPutten, 3rd Grace Doth, 4th Rita Dicaire, 5th Estelle Brazeau, 6th Bertha Lalonde, and 7th Roger Brazeau. The door prize was won by Mac O'Byrne, and the free ticket by Grace Doth. The 50/50 draw winners were Mary DeWit, Florence Harkin, Harry DeWit, Bertha Lalonde, Rita Seguin, and the three-time-lucky Grace Doth.

Party Bridge

The line-up of top players at the Party Bridge held at the Martintown Community Centre on Monday was led by Marjorie Mertl, and followed by Rudi Mertl and Bernice Barlow.

He was the son of Nelson Gauthier and Catherine Rodrigue who were long-time members of St. Raphael's Parish. He was involved in education in various schools in Ottawa, Oka, Montreal and Varennes from 1923 to 1951. After that he worked in the brothers' library until retirement in 1969.

Seguin-Doucette wedding

We had the privilege of attending several of our nephews' weddings late this summer, the latest of which was the wedding of our nephew Dean Seguin of Green Valley, the son of Rene Seguin and his wife Olive MacDonell, who is also my sister.

The bride was Shelley Doucette of Arnprior, daughter of Mrs. Alana Shultz.

The ceremony took place in the beautiful church of St. John Chrysostom, Arnprior, where Rev. Patrick M. Dobee officiated with readings by Jack McCuaig and Andy Seguin.

Floral bouquets in the sanctuary were in memory of the bride's father, Michael Doucette; her step-father Owen Schultz, Dean's grandmother, Josephine Seguin and Dean's friend Steve Brunet.

The maid of honour was Kathy Penny, a friend of Shelley's and bridesmaids were her step-sister Deanna Schultz, friends Christyl Munro and Tricia Reitsma and a cousin Dawn Baron.

Dean's best man was Randy Lavigueur. Groomsmen were friends Brad MacDonald and Karl Hehn, his cousin Robin Gauthier and his nephew Kevin Quesnel.

The flower girl was Brooke Seguin, a niece and god-child of the groom and the ringbearer was Brian Lewis, a cousin of the bride.

Friends from Green Valley and area as well as many from Arnprior almost filled the huge church in Arnprior and parish hall where the supper was served. The couple will be residing in Casselman.

Scarecrows will take over Rob McIntosh's

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207
FAX 347-1297

Mmmmm. . . this looks like fun and you could win a prize too! It's a Scarecrow Festival.

The idea for this contest and its venue comes from our very own Rob McIntosh China & Gift Shops in South Lancaster. If you read the flyer, it is an unstated fact that Rob and Barbara McIntosh sponsor this community event. The best part is that all of the proceeds go to "Kids Can Free the Children."

In their travels to many places in this world Rob and Barbara have encountered and enjoyed similar festivals and thus the seed was planted and the idea grew. A charity, "Kids Can Free the Children", dear to their hearts, will benefit from this festival.

For an entry fee of $10 the nice people at Rob McIntosh China will register you, and rules and instructions will be given to you. Then, all you have to do is make a very interesting scarecrow with a little pumpkin friend as well.

Hurry now because your entry must be on display by Oct. 1. When you register you will be given a number and a nice little area about 12 feet by 12 feet to display your scarecrow. This gives you lots of room to be creative Spectators and customers will choose the prize winners. One vote will be allocated to each customer purchase. A customer donation made to "Kids Can Free the Children" will also get you a vote. Voting will go from Oct. 11 to 20. Votes will be counted on Oct. 21 and, of course, you will be notified.

Now, I have a very specific idea for an entry and I might just do this..so I'm not going to share my idea.

In the meantime, join in the fun and donate to a very worthy caused.

There will be other things going on with the Scarecrow Festival. I'll keep you updated.

Harvest dinner a success

Well, it was hot, hot, hot. But the weather certainly did not deter hordes of people from enjoying the annual Harvest Dinner at St. Joseph in Lancaster. My neighbour tells me that at least 1,050 meals were served and Father Rudy confirmed that approximatel $8,000 was realized in profits. Well done!

On a sad note many people are praying for a recovery of Annie Legris who fell ill while performing at the dinner. She is at the Neurological Institute in Montreal and all of her friends and church members are thinking of her and wish for a good recovery.

Parish Mission

Father Rudy, of St. Joseph's Church in Lancaster, invites everyone to a Parish Mission that starts on Sunday, and continues on Monday through Wednesday, all in the evenings. Come to the church for 7:30 p.m. each evening. A special guest preacher will be Father Eugene O'Reilly who is a Redemptorist Priest from Toronto.

Turkey Bingo

Coming up soon on Oct. 6, is the Lancaster Knights of Columbus Turkey Bingo. Come at 7:30 p.m. to St. Joseph's Parish Hall and enjoy 15 regular games. Admission is $1 and you get 7 cards for $1. All proceeds go to the Knight's charities.

Anyone over 18 who would like to join the Knight's for a Casino Night at the Akwasasne Mohawk Casino on Oct. 19, call Michel at 347-3281 or Richard at 347-3745.

For young readers

This one is for the very young lover of books in our area. All preschool children of ages 3 to 5 years are invited to a new six-week session of Preschool Story Time at the Lancaster Library.

On Thursdays, the first one on Oct. 3, Story Hour will continue until Nov. 7.

Young readers can come each Thursday at 10:30 a.m. and enjoy stories, songs and rhymes. Please pre-register by calling the Lancaster Library at 347-2311.

Encore at Cooper Marsh

Anyone who wants to join the Encore Seniors group and visit Cooper Marsh on Monday may do so by calling 937-1525. In this session Bruce Doran, naturalist from the St. Lawrence River Institute of Environmental Sciences, will discuss the recent draw down of water at Cooper Marsh.

On Oct. 7, Dr. Brian Hickey from the same institute, will speak to Encore seniors about birds and migration. Sessions at the marsh run from 10 a.m. until noon.

Food Drink magazine

It's a beautiful magazine. It's all about food and drink and the art of entertaining. It's free, compliments of the LCBO. For sure they hope that you will choose a good wine or some spirits when you pick up their Food Drink magazine.

The Autumn issue is especially beautiful and Melanie Carrier pointed out to me an interesting section that refers to very nice places in our area such as the Muir Bakery in Maxville, the Georgian House in Alexandria, The Edgewater Inn Restaurant in Summerstown and the Caron House B&B in Williamstown.

These are places we all know, but will be known to many more because of this magazine. Actually there are many other nice places that go unmentioned but one can expect that newcomers and tourists will discover those too as they explore our county.

I like what they wrote about Lancaster and the Edgewater Inn restaurant. It's all about sitting on a patio (deck?) by the St. Lawrence, drinking a "cold glass of the best draft around, and eating an enormous Lancaster perch sandwich."

It tells readers that the Edgewater was an old river roundhouse dating from 1928. Present owner, Mary MacDonell, bought the restaurant on a whim, says the article.

The photo of the Mushroom Caps Neptune of Georgian House is worth the book alone! Very nice of them to share the recipe and very nice to see our area complimented.

"We celebrate the men and women who put their heart and souls into the food and wines they create. They are Ontario treasures, whether renowned or hitherto unsung." Very nicely said, the truth of this industry.

Whoever covered this story REALLY likes Lancaster Perch!

Skateboard park fund-raising

I had a chance to have a chat with Sylvie Julien and Lise Lapierre on Sunday. They are very dedicated and committed to providing a skateboard park for our area and after a brief rest are ready to start fund-raising again. Look for news soon.

Summer goes on

It's like summer is in a "suspended animation" mode and goes on and on. This morning was more like a September morn as we walked Su-Lin and Gus in the marsh.

Things seemed a little fresher, the goldenrod more golden, the grasses green and the sky clearer with the promise of a lovely day. It must be the rain that fell in the night that cleared the humidity and coloured the world in a nicer hue.

The Kingfisher skims the river, his iridescent white neckband flashing in the sunlight. Hummingbirds still hover at the Rose of Sharon bushes. Isn't it past time to head south for the tiniest of the bird species? Maybe it's true. They hitch a ride on the Canada Goose. So what's to worry?

Have a super week everybody!

Roll up the sleeves and roll out the dough

NORTH LANCASTER

INEZ FRANKLIN
347-7666

The good ladies of the Round Church (St. Andrew's United) in Old Dalhousie have rolled up their sleeves for their annual pie making extravaganza.

There will be two sessions this week devoted to preparing home-made apple pies for all who wish to order them. You can reserve yours by calling Ethel McKay (269-2639) or Barbara Preston (525-4441) The finished product can be picked up at the church, uncooked, so the customers have the choice of freezing them or cooking immediately for instant gratification.

If demand warrants there will be another session before Christmas. This has been a popular venture for the congregation and for good reason: the pies are great! Good luck in this fundraiser!

Still at the Round Church: the Sunday School recommenced for the fall session as of last week. there are two age groups of children, four to eight years of age and nine to 12 with activities geared to each.

Services are Sunday at 11:15 a.m. and newcomers (young and old) are welcome.

25th anniversary

Best wishes are extended this week to Pierre and Therese Bourbonnais of the 4th Concession who celebrated their 25th anniversary of marriage on Sept. 24. The busy couple has been an asset to their community for the whole of their married lives, as well as being very thoughtful neighbours of my family, so on both these accounts, it is a pleasure to congratulate them on their silver anniversary and to wish them well for the future!

Birthdays

A belated happy birthday to Father Dan Gauthier who celebrated on Sept. 10 and to Norma Petkovsek for Sept. 19. Be sure to wish Linda Lancaster a happy birthday on Sept. 30.

Students collecting CHEO pennies

By Kristina Wilson
News reporter

Students of the Conseil scolaire de district catholique de l'Est ontarien are once again being challenged to bring in pennies for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario (CHEO).

The board is challenging the students to surpass last year's total of $12,874.12 by one penny. The money was presented to CHEO during the hospital's telethon in June.

Catholic character

"Our students' involvement in such pastoral projects demonstrates the distinguishing Catholic character of our schools," said board president Jacques Blouin.

The project, dubbed "Le Puits de l'espoir" (The Well of Hope), has a new twist this year: 12 students from the board will have the opportunity to attend an Ottawa Senators game.

Every roll of pennies a student brings to school will earn him or her a ticket for the draw. The 12 lucky students will watch the Senators and their opponents from a private box, transportation included. The prizes are being provided by sponsors.

Draw in May, 2003

The draw will be held during the board's pastoral assembly in May, 2003.

The "Puits de l'espoir" project was initiated by École Saint-Joseph in Russell in 2000.

For the past two years, that school has represented the entire board by making the presentation at the telethon. Last year, the board raised $12,874.12, surpassing the 2001 total of $12,220.08.

In 2000, when Saint-Joseph launched the project, it raised $429 on its own.

U12 Hearts win

The U12 Glengarry Hearts eliminated Kanata in the Ottawa Carleton Soccer League semi-finals with a 2-0 victory in Ottawa Monday.

Sarah Sonnel and Lindsay Boisvenue scored in the victory with Krystal Delage picking up another shutout. The Hearts have kept their opponents scoreless since the play-offs began.

The Hearts now move on to the finals Sept. 28 at 11 a.m. in Ottawa against the winner of Monday evening's game between Nepean and Carleton Place.

Hearts plan tourney

The second annual Hearts reunion tournament will take place Oct. 12 at Alexandria's Island Park.

This year's tournament is being held in memory of Brian Filion and Brent McDougall.

Last year's team captains were Diane McDougall, David Filion, Jamie MacDonald, Darrel Hay, Gordon MacPherson, Glen Campbell, Peter McLeod, Colleen Kennedy, Sue Lalonde and D.A. MacMillan.

Organizers are asking captains to confirm with them for this year's tournament. Also, anyone else interested in entering a team is asked to call David Filion at 525-2670, Diane MacDougall at 525-2321, Jamie MacDonald at 525-2084 or D.A. MacMillan at 525-4323.

The format will be the same as last year's and organizers promise that the weather will cooperate.

Girls take golf title

The Glengarry District High School girls' golf team won the SDG tournament held at the Cornwall Golf and Country Club Tuesday morning.

Team members Amanda Portinari, Emmaly McCorkell and Jodie Poirier shot a combined total of 189, one point ahead of second place finishers Seaway District High School. The girls are coached by Luc Poirier.

The boys' teams were still on the course at press time.

Depratto makes Women's National Hockey League

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Glen Nevis resident Beth Depratto has earned a position on the Ottawa Raiders of the Women's National Hockey League.

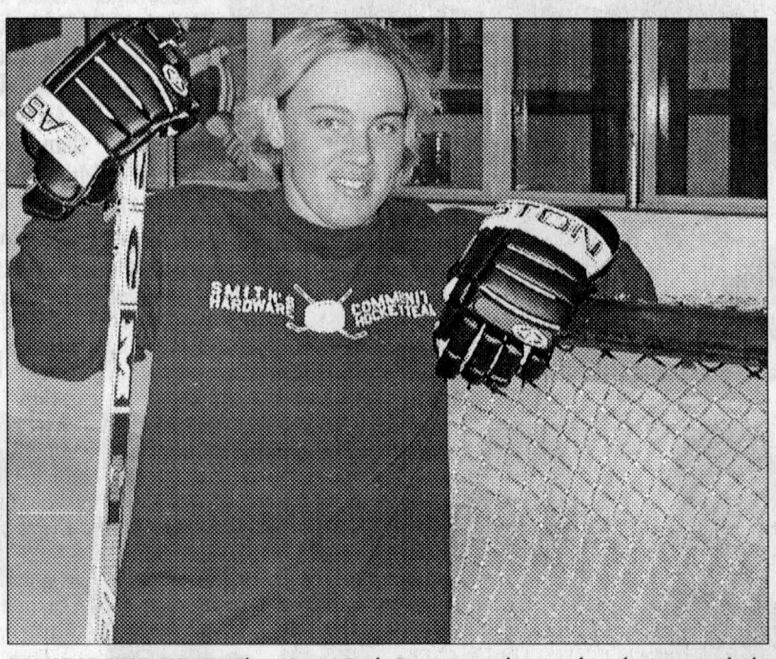
Depratto, 20, who played with the Ottawa University Gee Gees last season as a forward, will play this season as the Raiders' fifth defenceman.

The Women's National Hockey League is the top female hockey organization in Canada other than the national program.

After being scouted by the Raiders a year ago Depratto made the tough decision of taking a break from her school commitments to pursue her life-long dreams of one day reaching the Olympics.

"This is going to be exciting. I'm playing with national team member Fiona Smith and I'll play against most of the girls who were in the Olympics. I'm excited to play against elite players like that. We'll see where it goes from here but next year I'm hoping to try out for the national under 22 team and the Olympics are four years away."

Depratto's hockey career began in the Alexandria Minor Hockey system where she played with the boys' leagues up to peewee when the teams started to play contact.



MAKING THE JUMP: Glen Nevis' Beth Depratto is hoping her decision to halt her post secondary education at Ottawa University and join a Women's National Hockey League team will one day land her a spot on Canada's Olympic team. TODD ANDERSON PHOTO

She took her game on the road to Cornwall where she played in a girls' travelling league. In her second year of peewee eligibility she was asked to come back to Alexandria and played both there and in Cornwall.

She played in Cornwall until grade 11 then headed to Boston to play varsity hockey at Governor Dummer Academy where she played three seasons.

In her final year at Governor Dummer she also played with the Kingston Intermediate A team when she could fit it into her schedule.

The next year she played with the Cornwall Intermediate AA team and enrolled at Ottawa University where she landed a spot on the Gee Gees' roster.

After scouts from the Raiders watched a couple of games they approached Depratto and informed her on the things the team does and what commitments have to be followed. They offered her a try out.

"After the school year I spoke with the team owner a few times and we had a meeting with all the players trying out," said Depratto.

"We had tryouts at the end of August."

Depratto made the decision to forgo her second school year and tryout with the team. She was successful despite fighting for a spot against 30 to 35 other rookies.

Only eight were signed by the team.

It may have been Depratto's willingness to switch positions which landed her a spot.

"I usually play forward but the coach asked me to play defence in drills during the tryouts. After a couple of practices he said 'I realize this isn't your position but if you were to make the team would you be willing to play defence?'. I said yes."

The new schedule for Depratto is different than other hockey seasons.

The team demands that players train every day on their own and that they practice twice a week.

And there's a simple guideline to follow. Players who practice most - play most.

There will also be two to three games played every weekend.

Travel will see the team play most of their games in the Toronto area where an abundance of the teams in the league are located.

The team will play in 50 games, not including tournaments.

The team plays out of the Barbara Ann Scott Arena in Nepean.

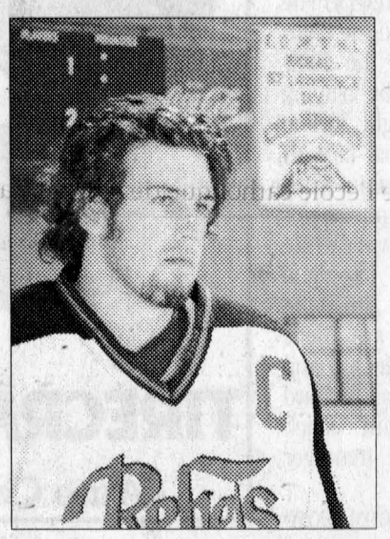
Rebels split opening weekend

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

The Char-Lan Rebels kicked off the 2002-2003 hockey season with notches in both the win and loss columns this past weekend.

Friday night's season opener against the Alexandria Glens at the Billy Gebbie Arena proved to be a physical affair as the two teams combined for more than 200 minutes in penalties.

Rebels head coach Eric Fontaine attributes the numerous trips to the penalty box to a combination of factors.



BANNER HONOURS CHAMPS: The Char-Lan Rebels got their home opener off to a positive start when they revealed last season's championship banner, shown here behind captain Derek Duval. GREG PEERENBOOM PHOTO

"There were new officials and new rules," Fontaine said.

"The guys have to adjust to it."

The first game of the regular season was also frought with nerves, Fontaine said.

"The guys played well. They played hard, but they were undisciplined."

Add to that "referees trying to call everything" to set the tone for the early part of the season.

"There were some questionable calls," Fontaine said.

"It was a good game," he added, "but it's hard to get the flow going when you're in the box all night. All the lines were messed up because there were so many penalties."

The Glens took advantage of the high number of penalties to score two power-play goals in first period.

The Rebels cut that lead in half 5:33 into the second period on a goal by Nathan Poitras. Danny Duval and Jamie Legue notched assists. The Glens scored again less than a minute later.

The Rebels answered with a goal in the third by Chris Corput, set up by Pat Johnson, but the late effort just wasn't enough.

"It was our first game and there were a lot of nerves, but the guys fought back which is good to see," Fontaine said.

Fontaine also noted that rookie goaltender Steve Lacelle played well, keeping his team in the game.

The Rebels did not have much time to ponder the defeat as they hosted the Morrisburg Lions Saturday night.

It was a chance for returning players and fans alike to relive last spring's glory as a banner was raised commemorating the team's 2001-2002 Rideau-St. Lawrence championship.

"The guys were ready for it," Fontaine said of the game.

A more disciplined game on the part of the Rebels, which ended in a 3-1 victory.

After a scoreless first frame, Matt Bailey gave the Lions a 1-0 lead early in the second period. Half-way through the period, Steve Jarvo tied the game.

Johnson's goal with the man-advantage in the third proved to be the game-winner and Jarvo added his second goal of the game with only 55 seconds remaining in regulation time.

"We're expecting a lot from (Jarvo)," Fontaine said.

"We have a lot of confidence in him and we're expecting a lot of goals. He has a lot of speed."

Rebels brass handed out the leadership roles to various players before the weekend's games. All are returning players from last year's team.

Captain Derek Duval is being recognized for his leadership on and off the ice.

"He is very vocal and everybody respects him," said Fontaine.

An obvious choice for the captaincy, Duval commutes from Ottawa where he attends school to practice and play with the Rebels.

"Everybody looks up to him. He has a lot of heart," Fontaine said.

'A's were handed out to Jarvo, Adam Beehler and Danny Lafave.

"Steve is in his third year with the Rebels. This should give him a chance to show some leadership. It's a different role for him. He leads by example."

The oldest player on the team at 20, Beehler has been in the league for four years.

"He has a lot of experience," Fontaine said.

"He will be able to help with the kids. Everybody respects him."

Lafave is the only defenceman back from last season's team.

"He gives it his all every night," Fontaine said.

Fontaine said he is glad his first games as bench boss are over.

"It was good experience," he said of the weekend.

"It's good to get the first win under my belt, because the first win is the hardest to get. A split is not bad, especially playing in Alexandria for the first game of the year."

Rebels notes:

The Rebels will face off against the Winchester Hawks Friday night in Winchester. Game time is 8:15 p.m. They are back at home Sunday when they host Akwesasne at 2:15 p.m.

"Every night is going to be a battle because the teams in our division are very balanced," Fontaine said of the upcoming weekend.

"Whoever works the hardest will win."

Glens win first battle of Glengarry

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

The Alexandria Glens are off to a strong start after a 3-2 win over their cross-county rivals, the Char-Lan Rebels.

Assistant coach and former player Simon Menard said his team started off well in the first period with a comfortable 2-0 lead heading into the locker room.

Luc Lanthier and Dominic Decoeur both scored on the power-play to give their team the lead.

"There were a lot of penalties, which really slowed the flow of the game," Menard said.

"That doesn't help us because we're a fast team. I think it gave an advantage to Char-Lan and opened up the game for them."

Char-Lan cut the lead in half just over five minutes into the middle frame, but the Glens were able to regain their two-goal cushion only moments later on a goal by Jeff Lobb.

"We didn't come out well in second," Menard said.

"We thought the game was won."

The Glens ended up winning by only a goal after the Rebels scored late in the third.

"We got a good game from returning players Dominic Decoeur, Luc Lanthier and Jeff Lobb. They really stepped up their level of play," Menard said.

"Chris Van Overbeek played a good game too."

Veteran goaltender Felix Limoges also put in a solid performance.

"He played a very good game, as usual," said Menard.

Menard came back to the Glens on the other side of the bench this year because his junior eligibility was up.

"I knew that I would miss (hockey) if I didn't play, but I couldn't come back," he said.

"I wanted to be involved somehow. I would still love to play, but this way I am involved with the game."

Like Rebels coach Eric Fontaine (see related story), Menard feels the referees were too strict in calling Friday's game.

"(The new call) is checking to the head. They get a penalty for hitting above (the shoulders)," Menard said.

"It's two minutes plus 10, but I think the referees were abusing it a little too much."

In fact, each team was called for checking to the head twice during Friday's match-up.

"It slows the game down," Menard said.

"Maybe the referees are hoping the guys will learn their lesson after five or six games and then let them play."

Glens notes:

The Glens are back in action on Friday when they travel to Morrisburg to meet the Lions at 8:15 p.m. Sunday, they are back at home hosting the Winchester Hawks at 1:30 p.m.

"There are still some cuts to make," Menard said.

"There's a snowball effect, with guys coming back from Jr. A tryouts."

The Glens won't select their captain and alternates before the final cuts are made. The organization hopes to have those decisions made by the weekend.

Ethanol plant construction firm awaits bank OK

would also spark a bigger market for corn.

The provincial Liberals, if they win an anticipated election next year, have promised ethanol legislation.

MP Jean-Marc Lalonde said ethanol-gasoline blends will contain five per cent clean-burning ethanol by 2007, rising to 10 per cent by 2010.

While all these are positive moves, Mr. Atkins' immediate concern is finalizing the $27 million loan with the co-op's latest lender, DZ Bank of New York.

DZ Bank's legal team is working out the details for the co-op to hire a construction firm, he said – a second go-around.

"This year we lost our (original) contractor, E.S. Fox of Niagara Falls, which couldn't provide the necessary guarantees for the plant," Mr. Atkins said.

The co-op was forced to find another builder, U.S.-based The Industrial Company (TIC) and get a second contract approval.

E.S. Fox will still be on the scene as the construction contractor. TIC would do the engineering and manage the project.

Mr. Atkins expects an answer from the bank by the time of the meeting.

"Best-case scenario, we'll get started in November," he said. "I don't think (the waiting) will go for another year."

Worst-case scenario is that shareholders will pull out, but not all will get some money back.

"There have been expenses: engineering was over $1 million, the design process was over $1 million.

"There's a helluva amount of money to be lost."

There have been pull-outs along the way, but he said it's mostly due to what he termed "deaths and divorces."

The co-op's latest travail began with the post 9/11 financial fall-out and continued last winter when Enron declared bankruptcy.

DZ Bank had invested in energy marketers which had contracts with Enron.

That meant another delay.

"They're trying to sort it all out," Mr. Atkins said.

The co-op did sign a 10-year energy marketing contract with ED&F Man this year.

"Without a guarantee, the plant is not worth anything," Mr. Atkins explained.

The co-op's heavy reliance on private investment is a necessity for the ethanol industry in Canada, he lamented.

"Everybody we deal with would much rather work within the U.S.

"They have 65 to 70 plants, with 16 to 18 on the drawing board.

"We have a hard time getting a couple in Canada."

He said farming and environmental lobbyists at the U.S. Capitol have created a climate which supports ethanol.

"Ethanol funding supports the farmers so the farmers are happy. It cleans up the environment so the environmentalists are happy."

Local farmers have probably already felt some negative effects due to the delay.

"With the (low) prices of corn and the prices of ethanol we could have almost paid for (the plant)," said William Hagen, president of the Glengarry Federation of Agriculture.

"Many farmers are anxious to get it off the ground."

Mr. Hagen, however, doesn't believe alternative investments would have been better.

"Some bought mutual funds and that didn't pay off."

The shareholders' meeting will also elect four new directors on the board of 12. Jim Sangster of South Glengarry is the sole Glengarry director.

You've operated a successful farm and you deserve to enjoy retirement. Perhaps you're unsure how to remove yourself from the operation and ensure that it remains viable. If another family member takes over, it's important to know what your options are, and what the potential tax implications may be. Equally important is the manner in which the rest of your estate will be divided among your children. There are ways to make succession fair for all concerned. I can help you find them.

HIS HONOUR
FRANCIS COSTELLO
1916-2002
Frank died peacefully, at St. Mary's Hospital, Kitchener, surrounded by his family, on Thursday the 19th of September, 2002. Frank was born in the family home at 146 Main Street South, Alexandria, Ontario to Francis Thomas Costello and Annie MacDonald. He was raised in a loving happy home with three half sisters and a half brother, all of whom remained close until they predeceased him. They were Barbara, Martin, Helen and Kathleen Costello. Frank's legendary conviviality makes it appropriate that his birthplace is now one of Ontario great country dining rooms - The Georgian House. Frank graduated from the University of Ottawa and enlisted in the RCAF in 1940, retiring from the service in 1945 at the rank of Flight Lieutenant. After practicing law in Kitchener for many years, Frank was appointed to the bench in 1961 and retired from the Ontario Superior Court, General Division in 1991. Predeceased by Adele, his loving wife of 54 years. Frank is missed by his five children; Carole Anne, Paul, Kathy, Brian and his wife Jan and Donald and his wife Rhonda. Fondly remembered by eight grandchildren, Michael Wenzel, Jamie and Daniel Reid, Dillon, Michael and Polyana Costello, Paige Costello, Ryan and Shannon Costello and two great-grandchildren, Raeden and Brody Wenzel. Frank's family received friends at the Edward R. Good Funeral Home, 171 King Street South, Waterloo on Sunday, Sept. 22. A Mass of Christian Burial was held at St. Francis RC Church, Monday, September 23 with Rev. Paul Voisin CR as celebrant. Cremation followed. The parish prayer service was held at the funeral home Sunday evening. Donations to St. Mary's General Hospital or St. Francis RC Church would be appreciated as expressions of sympathy and can be arranged through the funeral home - 745-8445 or www.edwardrgood.com. The family would like to express their sincere thanks to the Doctors, nursing and pastoral staff at St. Mary's Hospital for the excellent care Frank received.

MacGILLIS–The family of the late Allan Joseph (Joe) MacGillis would like to thank relatives, friends and neighbours for their strong support following his untimely death. Thank you for your lovely floral arrangements, cards, food, mass offerings and generous donations to the Cancer Society. We extend our sincere thanks to the very kind and professional staff of the Glengarry Memorial Hospital and also to Ron Munro and staff of the Munro & Morris Funeral Home. Heartfelt appreciation to Fr. Daniel Gauthier who officiated at the funeral mass and to Fr. Kelvin Maloney for his spiritual support. Our deepest gratitude is extended to the very talented Morris family, to Ann Margaret McCuaig and Elizabeth Caddell. For heartwarming violin music we thank Allan McPhail and Donald MacPhee. We will always cherish the memory of a dearly loved husband, dad, father-in-law, grandpa, brother, uncle, loyal and honest friend to so many. Dad's memory lives on in our hearts and in the lush green fields of Mountainview Farm.

School's walk-a-thon befitting of a great Canadian

ÉCOLE ELDA ROULEAU NEWS

Students at Ecole Elda Rouleau participated in a walk-a-thon for Terry Fox day. An amount of $3,000 was collected for cancer research.

Organizers, Mr. Marc Seguin and Mr. Yves Joannette, promoted the event by showing a video to the students in order for them to truly appreciate and understand our Canadian hero's journey across Canada as he battled cancer. Congratulations to you, the students, for a very impressive campaign, and to you, the teachers for promoting this event and teaching our children the true meaning of determination. It was truly a team effort!

Due to the successfulness of this event, Mr. Marc had to dye his hair purple. Maybe Mr. Marc will think twice next time before challenging the students!

Music is one of the most creative ways for students to express themselves. With that in mind, Mr. Daniel Jodoin, our music teacher, has purchased guitars, an electric keyboard and will introduce the drums to the students this year. That will certainly have them stomping their feet.

Mr. Daniel is encouraging the parents to join in if they wish, in order to share the joy of playing an instrument and singing with the students.

Today, (Sept. 25), we are celebrating Franco-Ontario flag day. It is important to acknowledge our francophone roots.

Students and teachers are encouraged to wear green and white for these two are the colours of the Franco-Ontario flag. You are invited to join us for a celebration at 9 a.m.

Mr. Crevier from Alexandria Prophoto Lab will be at school Thursday and Friday for class pictures.

The Grade 1 and Grade 2 students will visit the Avonmore orchard. They will get to pick and enjoy delicious apples.

They will also receive a pumpkin which they will decorate and take home. The students will have a picnic at the orchard followed by an afternoon filled with fun and games! They will be accompanied by their teachers, Mr. Rachel Owens, Miss Roxanne Lafrance and Mrs. Helene Seguin.

On Thursday, our Grade 7 and 8 students will be hosting a soccer tournament organized by our tireless duo Mr. Yves and Mr. Marc.

A total of 180 students will get to demonstrate their athletic skills as they interact with each other. We welcome Ecole Ste. Marie, Ecole Ste. Therese, Ecole Laurier Carriere and Ecole St. Joseph.

Eight girl teams will be playing at the park for the championship title while the boys will be playing at Elda Rouleau. Good luck to all participants and most of all HAVE FUN!

On behalf of all the students and parents, we extend a belated birthday wish to our principal Mrs. Lise Prieur. We sincerely wish you the very best.

We encourage everyone to play an important part in their children's education. Let's take the time to read with our children and give them a thirst for knowledge.

Have a great week!

'A Wing and a Prayer' staged at Alexandria United

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

On Oct. 1, at 7 p.m., a concert called 'A Wing and a Prayer' will be presented in the Alexandria United Church featuring our former minister, Paul Rumbolt. GEPC members will remember him and his wonderful music during his regular church services. It promises to be an exciting evening!

Birthday greetings

Many happy returns to Clifford MacDonald, Lloyd MacLennan, Mollie Brodie and Isobel MacLennan for their special days.

Happy anniversary

Our good wishes go out to Arnold and Margo MacRae, who are celebrating their 39th wedding anniversary this month.

Water water everywhere etc.

It made me rather nervous to learn about Carolyn and Bill Pottie's well going dry a while ago.

Another neighbour had to have a new well drilled because theirs went totally dry. I am sure that they are not alone.

We are taking "submarine showers" to conserve water. This type of shower, as the crews on a submarine use, consists of one quick splash to get all wet and then we turn off the water. Once we are washed, we turn on the water again to quickly rinse away the soap and shampoo.

It all takes less than five minutes and when I put the plug in to see how much water was being used and I had less than three inches of water in the tub.

We do have a water saver shower-head and I suppose that makes some difference.

We have always taken our never-ending water supply for granted, haven't we? Perhaps we have been too complacent because the water supply is not unlimited as we are finding out to our dismay.

Those who are on city systems need to watch their water consumption as well as their rural neighbours. Conservation is necessary for all; we in North America use the majority of the world's water.

We have been really spoiled while so many of the Third World peoples live with severe water shortages or rationing or with brackish water and polluted water the only water available to them for drinking. Our well is contaminated with bacteria and we are advised not to drink it but there is no E coli.

It has reached us, the world wide drought and the bad water.

True, floods are showing up where they have seldom happened before and again these are badly polluted waters. They give no relief to people suffering a water shortage.

We have all of the water that we will ever have, right here, right now. We certainly do need to rethink our wasteful, thoughtless approach to water usage while we still have the chance to do something constructive. Once it's gone folks it's gone! Think about it!

39'ers really sang out

The 39'ers Seniors Club met on Sept. 17 for its regular monthly luncheon meeting.

Although lunch is always plentiful and tasty, this time the meal was simply fabulous and the desserts excellent. Everyone made an extra effort this month I guess. The meal is never planned, but somehow there are seldom two dishes alike.

Jean Lajoie's tape accompanied the singing of the blessing before the meal. Sydney Cooper was the only birthday celebrant this month.

Lucky cups were found by Dot Bush, Howard Barclay and Cathie Persike. the 50/50 draw was won by Kit McCabe.

Mr. Lajoie sat for two hours making a new book for the group's sing song. There are 60 songs on his tape, and the book follows it; after 20 minutes everyone had sung themselves out. It was great fun! Thanks to Howard for kindly having the books typed up at his own expense.

Jock McCabe called the roll and gave the financial report. Dot Burnett read the minutes and invited the membership to get working on craft items for the fall sale fund raiser.

Sincere sympathy was expresed by the membership for Margaret MacMillan (Pebbie) on the recent death of her brother.

The report about member Frank Hamlin was very positive. He is out of the coma, after several months, and may soon be released from hospital; really good news!

The Ottawa Bayshore Seniors' Day Trip will be on Dec. 3. Members will pay $10 and non members $15. For information or to reserve a seat call Doris Spencer at 874-2373 or Elisabeth Groot at 525-4303.

The president adjourned the formal meeting and bingo filled the rest of the afternoon. Howard Barclay acted as caller. The winners were Eizabeth Groot, Johana Cooper, Sadie MacMillan, Marguerite Mc illis, Dot Burnett, Audrey Elliot and Doris Spencer won the bingo 50/50 game.

Next month the Cornwall City Cloggers will entertain the 39ers and a representative from RARE will speak on how and what to recycle. That promises to be an interesting meeting. Same place, Oct. 16 at noon; don't miss the fun!

UCW Fall Rally

St Andrew's United Church (The Round Church) in Dalhousie Mills was the scene of the Area 1 United Church Womens' Fall Rally.

This being the 40th anniversary of the UCW the theme was Life Begins at 40. On this beautiful, warm, summer day 35 ladies signed in and everyone enjoyed tea coffee or juice and muffins, which were provided by the hosts St Andrews's United and Glen Sandfield UCW's before the meeting.

The Area One vice-president Joan Burwash welcomed everyone and introduced Ethel MacKay who gave a brief history of their unique church which was built in 1862. There were 600 in the congregation at that time and it served a number of area communities.

This church congregation became part of GEPC, the East Hawkesbury United Church - Glen Sandfield United Church charge in 1963, making it a three point charge. The Pendleton UCW led the meaningful worship portion. Ethel MacKay and Lorna Chapman shared the organist's duties.

President Barbara Baron brought greetings from Presbytery and spoke briefly about her new position in the executive; Phyllis Noble was the last one to fill that position from this area some years ago. The guest speaker was the Rev. Kathryn Peate from the Vankleek Hill United Church. She opened by saying that she was not a public speaker and went on to captivate her audience.

Her sense of humour caught everyone's attention when she remarked that she didn't know a lot about "after 40" because she wasn't quite old enough yet. But she went on to challenge the group to think positively " If you think you can't then you won't, but if you think you can than you probably will" Good advice!

The next Presbyterial meeting will be in Maynard on Nov. 12.

Sunday worship

Sunday morning worship is held at 10 a.m. in Glen Sandfield United Church. Visitors are always welcome.

Excellent participation at the Feis

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

Last week I didn't have enough space to list all the goings-on at this year's Celtic festival on Sept. 14, on the grounds of the Dunvegan Folk Museum, and so will continue with today's column.

As mentioned previously, activities began at 10 a.m. with piper Justin McDonell leading the children up the road to the Presbyterian church hall for Sine McKenna's Gaelic song and language workshop and thereby hangs a tale.

B.J. Coleman, the son of Gaelfolk member Bernice Coleman had planned to be the duty piper for the day but he and his sister Lindsay had to compete in the Loon Mountain Highland Games in New Hampshire with the Grade 4 Glengarry Pipes and Drums. B. J. and Bernice arranged for Justin to take his place, but before he left, B. J. taped the old lament Lochaber No More to be played at the introduction to the readings of the play at the Feis. He is turning out to be an excellent piper as is his older sister Lindsay (also a member of the Glengarry Gaelfolk Singers). Their brother, B.J.'s twin Michael, has chosen to become a pipe band drummer with the South Glengarry Pipe Band and is fast making a name for himself. The three youngsters could make up the Coleman Pipe Band, with father Michael as drum major and mother Bernice as manager!

On the day of the Feis, Bernice took Lindsay and B.J to Loon Mountain and Michael Sr. drove Michael Jr. to Plattsburg, N.Y. where he was playing with the South Glengarry Pipe Band. This is a family that, ever since they came to Glengarry some 13 years ago, has really taken an interest in the local Celtic scene.

The Scots-Gaelic tradition here at the Feis has been broadened over the years to include representatives of the Celtic traditions of the related Gaelic of Ireland and the Cymric of the Welsh and Bretons. This year, Kevin Dooley, a native of County Cork in Ireland came with his Ceili (yes, that's how the Irish spell it) Band. Kevin first came to the Feis three years ago after seeing one of our posters in Ottawa, where he now lives. He plays the penny whistle and flute and was joined by his daughter, Deirdre and son, Ciaran and another fine Irish musician, Jim Sheils. One of the most interesting sidelights of Kevin Dooley's visit this year was hearing him converse in Irish Gaelic with Sine McKenna, who answered him in Scottish Gaelic. They seemed to have little difficulty understanding one another.

At the last minute, Professor Paul Birt of the Celtic Department at the University of Ottawa, who had planned to speak to us in Welsh and English, had to cancel and, again due to the Loon Mountain Games, the Breton pipers and dancers couldn't make it. Ashley MacLeod, "the Natalie MacMaster of Glengarry", who was to be the star attraction at the Feis was invited to play at Loon Mountain as a special guest. We thought that it was more important for her to play before thousands there than for only a few hundred at the Feis and her father Ian arranged for replacements – two of his nieces, his violin pupils Kelsey, age 13, and Cassie McDonell, 10. They were spectacular and particularly inspiring to the large number of young people who saw and heard them.

Valerie McKenzie and Patrick Huston came to Glengarry a few years ago from the West Island. As with the Coleman family, they have jumped right into the local scene, Valerie joining the Gaelfolk Choir, taking Gaelic lessons from Sine, learning the violin and Scottish Country Dancing. Patrick, an engineer who commutes daily to Montreal, has found time not only to attend violin classes but to actually make and repair the instruments at their home in Glen Sandfield and, as a member of Clan Donald, to collect a great deal of information on his clan. He sells his violins all over the world on the Internet and recently sent one off to Japan! He was at the Feis with his booth, displaying his violins while Valerie sang with the Gaelfolk. She also played the violin with the Greenwood Kitchen Fiddlers, a group from the Hudson area. I couldn't believe that Valerie could play so well until I heard her at the Feis. The entire group was most professional, playing both French Canadian, Irish and Scottish sets. Another couple from away who have wholeheartedly joined Glengarry activities since they arrived here a few years ago are Clare and Mike Camacho, of Alexandria. They both sing in the Gaelfolk Choir as well as that of the United Church-on-the-Hill and sang a Gaelic duet at the Feis.

Former Gaelic Choir members and professional musicians Darrel MacLeod (husband of Gaelfolk singer Judy and father of violinist Rory and dancer Anna) and Dave McCormick once again showed their devotion to the Feis by setting up the sound system and entertaining the audience.

The names of all those individuals and organizations which contributed to the success of Feis-Glengarry '02 were listed in the program and the organizational committee expressed sincere thanks to them all.
