Threatening Fire At Maxville Controlled As MacEwen Hardware, Police Office Razed

Loss is estimated at more than $75,000 to building and contents as the result of Monday evening's fire at Maxville that destroyed MacEwen's Hardware store and the adjoining offices of Maxville's detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Nearby homes and businesses on Maxville's Main Street were threatened by the spectacular fire which broke out about 6 p.m. in a wooden storage shed at the rear of the store. The flames quickly spread to the two-storey brick store building and the volatile merchandise therein fed the menacing blaze.

Maxville Fire Department responded quickly and the brigades from Moose Creek and St. Isidore were called on for assistance. They concentrated efforts in preventing spread of the raging flames to other buildings and were successful in that endeavor. One Moose Creek fireman was overcome by smoke but recovered.

The Maxville brigade was still on the scene at noon Tuesday to guard the smouldering ruins. It was an all-night battle for the outside firemen, too.

Store owner Bill MacEwen has not yet decided on rebuilding the store which he purchased in 1965. It had been built in 1935 after a fire destroyed the former Smillie's store.

"There's not a thing left except the brick walls", reported Mr. MacEwen. "All the hardware, furniture, and appliances burned and the three people who staffed it are out of a job for the moment. I've been gradually renovating it since I bought the place and it was in A-1 shape."

Mr. MacEwen said he had no idea what caused the fire. An investigation is expected to be carried out by both the fire marshall and the OPP.

The OPP detachment office, manned by two provincial constables, was leased from Mr. MacEwen.

Sergt. H. T. Buttle of Lancaster, in charge of detachments in Glengarry County, reported the roof of the Maxville office was caved in and the interior gutted. Police files were damaged but not destroyed.

Teaching Post At Carleton U

Ian MacDonald, formerly of Greenfield, has accepted a teaching position at Carleton University, Ottawa, and is presently preparing his Doctoral thesis in the field of Canadian politics. With this development the son of the late Hugh MacDonald and Mrs. Donalda MacDonald, now living in Edmonton, moves one step higher on a long road to success.

Early in his life he faced adversity in having to quit his education during his third year in high school due to the illness and subsequent death of his father. After travelling thousands of miles as a truck driver for Smith Transport, Mr. MacDonald moved West, spending a number of years in Yellowknife. In the early '50s, he became involved with the huge hydro-electric and aluminum development of Kitimat, in the interior of British Columbia. Here he proved a valuable worker, handling various pieces of heavy equipment and, at times, maintaining and repairing his machines.

In 1962, however, he turned his attention again to an education and enrolled at the University of British Columbia. His work there merited various grants and honors, leading to a degree and an S. Samuel MacLaughlin Fellowship at Queen's University. Mr. MacDonald was subsequently awarded a Master's Degree in Political Science and spent some time doing research through a Canada Council grant. At this time he faces a new challenge in joining one of the finer Political Science faculties in Canada.

Long Service Pins For Mail Couriers

Two veteran mail couriers working out of the Alexandria Post Office were feted on July 19th when their long service was recognized with testimonials and long service pins.

Harvey Phillips is now serving RR5 Alexandria which includes Greenfield and the two routes stretching from Highway 43 to Laggan.

Ewen MacMillan has had more than 25 years' service on RR2 Alexandria which covers the 9th Lancaster and the Glen Robertson road.

They were dined at the Alexandria Pizzeria when members of the local post office staff and other rural mail couriers were present.

Richelieus Had Big Weekend

Also here were the General Governor, Gabriel Blouin. the Regional Administrator, Alex Seguin and delegates from the Rockland and Cornwall Clubs.

Mr. Gatien and his entourage were received at the town hall where he was given the keys of the town.

The day's activities included a golf tournament, dinner served at the curling club hall and a corn roast and dance at the golf club in the evening. At the request of the General President, all the activities were held in an informal atmosphere.

Mr. Gatien stressed the need of promoting youth projects and felt financial assistance should be given to back these undertakings. He stressed the need for expansion of the Richelieu movement through new clubs.

Suitable New Dump Sites Scarce Area Planning Board Finding

Kenyon Township has a new dump site in view that its council thinks will be approved by Toronto, but other area municipalities are finding it impossible to come up with locations that would be economically feasible to operate under the new landfill plan. They are being permitted to use present dumps until October by the Wastes Management Branch but are in a quandary as to future dump operations.

Their situations were reviewed Tuesday night at a meeting of the Area Planning Board here. The board had named a committee to look into feasibility of garbage dumps operated jointly by several municipalities but it had little to report.

Norman Wray who operates a Pol-Abates incinerator east of Dalkeith, will be asked to attend the next Planning Board meeting. His plant burns rubber in a pollution-free process and the company is reported now working on a mobile incinerator which it hopes might be adaptable to use by smaller municipalities.

Members of the board felt there are few if any dump sites available in the area which would lend themselves to landfill operations. They see the new regulations too stringent for rural areas and these views will be passed on to the Wastes Management Branch which will be asked to be represented at the board's next meeting.

Transport Firm Building Depot

Gerard Lefebvre, president of Glengarry Transport Limited turned the first sod at Ottawa, last week, to signal start on construction of a new office, warehouse terminal and garage. It is being built in the new Hawthorne Industrial Park and will be occupied early in the new year.

A company spokesman informs the new terminal will consolidate Ottawa operations under one roof. At present they are run from both the Hansen and Duncan offices of companies bought out by Glengarry over the past two years. The new Ottawa office will serve the Ottawa-Montreal and Ottawa-Toronto, Hamilton runs.

Company headquarters will remain in Alexandria and the local payroll will not be affected.

Glengarry Transport now employs 350 personnel, 285 in the parent firm and 65 in the two subsidiaries, Glengarry-Quebec and Shawinigan.

Rejects Plan By Local Industry

Plans for the addition to Square C Textiles plant here are still indefinite reports plant superintendent Laurent Gaumont.

Company officials met with town council Monday to discuss a higher water pressure system. The firm is having problems with fire insurance coverage and must install a sprinkler system in the local plant. Pressure of the water supplied is not sufficiently high for the purpose and officials suggested two options.

They might install their own pumps to raise pressure in the plant or to draw directly from the lake. They favored a plan whereby the town would share equally in the building of a storage tank on the industrial park which would serve their plant and any others moving in later.

Their cost estimate, at $200,000, proved forbidding to councillors who declared the town's financial position was not that healthy. It was also pointed out that the Carnation plant had installed its own pressure system last year.

Federation Asking Forgivable Loans On Two-Thirds Of Farmer's Loss

Meeting at the Bonnie Glen, Tuesday night, more than one hundred area farmers endorsed a request that the provincial government declare this a "disaster area".

They would have the actual crop loss on each farm assessed by the adjusters of the Crop Insurance Commission. The two senior governments would then provide forgivable loans to farmers based on two-thirds of their assessed crop loss this year.

The meeting was sponsored by the Glengarry Federation of Agriculture.

The resolution follows:

"Due to severe wet weather conditions in the Eastern three townships of Grenville, South Eastern three Townships of Ottawa, Carleton and the Counties of Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell, which has caused a 70% to 80% loss of all hay pasture, spring grain and corn crops.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture requests the Provincial Government to:

1. Declare the area a "Disaster Area".
2. The actual crop loss to be assessed by the Crop Insurance Commission Adjuster.
3. The Provincial and Federal Governments to be requested to provide forgivable loans to farmers on the following basis:

A. Equal to ⅔ of the farmer's assessed loss.
B. Losses to be on 1972 crops from the land.
C. Loans to be registered against the farm and forgiven on a pro-rated basis over the next five years.
D. If the farm is sold before the five year term, the unforgiven balance of the loan to be collected.
E. The forgiven portion of the loans to be considered as income for taxation purposes."

Decisions On Future Farm Operations Should Not Be Based On Rumors - Ag-Rep

A ten-day period interrupted by only one rainy day has permitted a long-delayed harvesting of hay and the return of many Glengarry herds to pasture that has been sodden right through the summer.

Some farmers hard hit by the record rains now have new hope for the feed situation during the winter ahead, though there are others whose forage crops have been almost completely rained out.

Decisions should be made with caution and should not be based on rumors, suggests J. Y. Humphries, ag. rep. Glengarry, in this report:

by J. Y. Humphries, Ag. Rep.

This has been a very exasperating year, weatherwise, for rural people associated with the production of food products. Fruit and tobacco producers in some sections of the province encountered frost problems. Potato growers were affected by drought. Eastern dairy farmers have been affected by an overabundance of rain. Weather conditions across the province have been most variable.

We are concerned about some of the sensational stories, often more fiction than fact or grossly distorted, being circulated about the adversities we find ourselves in. This is a time for farmers to base management decisions on sound, factual information. The press, other news media, and gossip are tending to create panic situations due to lack of fact or contorting facts in order to develop sensationalism. Some of the stories published have even been attributed to this writer. You have read or heard the stories "Feed grain prices are skyrocketing", "Cattle prices are dropping", "You can't give a milk quota away let alone sell it".

We hope that farm people will base their decisions to buy and sell on reliable market information. Check the business column of your newspaper for livestock and feed grain quotations or the CBC noon broadcast from Ottawa or Montreal. The Information Branch of OMAF is presently establishing a codophone system for farmers in Eastern Ontario whereby you can phone in and get up to date information on Eastern livestock and feed prices 24 hours a day. The English presentation will originate from Kemptville 258-3544. The French presentation will originate from Plantagenet 673-5127. This system will begin next week.

Concerning milk quotas, Grant Cameron, your local OMMB Fieldman has this to say,

"There seems to be some misunderstanding among milk producers going out of business, with regard to selling their market

Each Post Office In Glengarry Has Different Code

The new postal code is now in effect and everyone is advised to use it to speed up delivery.

The chief bug seems to be in discerning the letter I and numeral one which almost everyone prints the same, as well as the figure 0 and letter O.

The six digit code has three letters and three numerals used alternately. The numeral follows the letter from beginning to end.

All of Glengarry County post offices are in the K0C division except Glen Robertson and Dalkeith.

Following is a list of the local post offices for your convenience.

Announce Plans For Expansion St. Lawrence College At Cornwall

Cornwall's St. Lawrence College plant will expand in the next year to the tune of $3.3 million.

The expansion, announced Tuesday by Louis Tremblay, principal, is called "phase one" and will provide an 89,000 square foot building and renovations to existing structures.

The existing main building of the Cornwall campus was formerly Cornwall Classical College, operated by the Clerics of St. Viator.

The building was constructed in the late 1950s and was purchased by the Ontario government in 1968. The retraining centre facilities were added in 1970.

The phase one building, a four-storey structure, will be erected on what was once known as St. Lawrence Park.

Mr. Tremblay said the additional space is required to meet the expanding student enrolment and community services provided by the campus. Other SLC campuses are at Brockville and Kingston.

Projected figures for the 1973 fall semester indicate a 25 per cent increase in student enrolment, full-time and part-time combined. This year the campus expects 2,500 students.

The new steel structure building will form the hub for future construction in accordance with a development master plan prepared by the architectural firm of Allward and Gouinlock of Toronto.

The four-storey building will contain a cafeteria and kitchen, a 720-seat auditorium, offices for student services and student government, lounges, a computer and audio-visual centre, a library, physical plant facilities and general classroom space which will be adaptable to office space in the future.

The phase one construction — there are six phases to the master plan — will provide an enclosed link between the new building and existing campus facilities.

There will also be more parking space, a bridge and road link to the remaining centre on the north-

OVER A CENTURY OF USE—This belt driven antique wood splitter is still being used on the farm of Archie M. MacDonald, Alexandria, although it was first used over 100 years ago. A young Filipino farm hand, Eddie Butin is seen inserting the block beneath the blade which moves up and down to split the wood. Supplying the workman is Gordon MacDonald, right, while Terry Norman, left, picks up the pieces.

IT'S OUR OPINION

Our Town Is Growing

"My, but your town is growing", remarked a recent visitor who had not been here in several years. Our civic spirit warms to such words and we were quick to agree while mentally assessing the changes he was seeing over perhaps a five-year period. That quick assessment did not encompass too many improvements but later reflection brought the realization our town actually has been growing—slowly, but steadily.

Just the way we prefer to have it happen.

Those visiting eyes were seeing a brand new Main Street, too narrow, if you will, but well surfaced and boasting wide new walks. Those ugly asphalt-patched sidewalks had been replaced by concrete; and certainly that is an eye-catching improvement. He was seeing quite a few modern store fronts that may not have been there on his last visit and he might have spotted well over a hundred new homes that have sprung up in recent years. A discerning eye might even have noted the absence of parking meters, those unarmed bandits that are the bane of every motorist.

Many improvements over the years would be noticeable to the returning visitor — and not a few blemishes. Among the eyesores he couldn't miss is that ugly landfill area on the southern exposure of our town. Almost anything but garbage apparently can be dumped in that unsightly wasteland and as a result the first impression of our town for the visitor from the south is a welter of weeds, sawdust, wood trimmings and mud. Some day, undoubtedly, it will be graced by a housing development but in the meantime it remains a disgrace that might better be hidden from the view of highway travellers and patrons of our new liquor store.

Something should be done about it, our citizens complain; and they tell us the ruins of the Welfare Office building should also have been cleaned up long ago and that our town would be better looking if a few empty business places were replaced by something better.

Slowly, but surely, these and other improvements will come to pass, but in the meantime it is nice to hear that our town is growing and making a good impression on friends who have not seen it over a period of time.

Two Points Of View

The general council of the United Church of Canada has joined the crusade for abolition of the death penalty in Canada. On Dec. 29, Canada's five-year experiment of imposing prison terms instead of death ends, notes an editorial in The Gananoque Reporter.

The general council says "The Church must see every man as capable of reformation and redemption". A beautiful philosophy, but to many living in this area, so near to several major prisons, rather naive.

With recidivism running over 70 or 80 per cent, we wonder what makes the general council so sure that "every man" is capable of reformation and redemption?

The general council says retention of capital punishment "can be interpreted to mean that our society says human life is worthless when it crosses the boundary of our behavior expectations and by its use we are indeed perhaps encouraging a lack of respect for human life."

Granted, capital punishment does not reflect the more positive, philosophical side of our society. And we'll grant that it detracts from the sanctity of human life to a degree. But can this society continue to tolerate the demands made upon it by criminal elements?

During the 1970s a new kind of criminal emerged, the political criminal. The murderers of Pierre Laporte exemplify this mentality. Suppose this sort of criminal were handed a life sentence for murder. Does this mean he will be less fanatical after he is released eight or nine years later?

Perhaps the abolition of capital punishment is the ultimate goal this society should strive for. But it makes more sense to abolish it at such time that our penal system is capable of reform and redemption of most of its customers.

Not before.

To Save A Tree

Where in this broad land are those rugged high stands of trees the Group of Seven once found? Here the towering elm is falling, falling, and there this hard land is stripped for new development; we are pushing back the frontier. It is harder and harder again to hold a virgin tract of land and our worried foresters know this best. If trees are a renewable resource, their renewal is slow, and with this dawning realization the concept of paper recycling enjoys new life.

The technology for recycling paper has been with us a long time, since the 17th century, but the impetus for such economy was not always present. People will tend to forget, for instance that more than one-third of America's paper consumption during World War II was recycled stock. And even today, in the highly-developed Netherlands, 41 per cent of all paper is reclaimed. Some situations reveal the limits to the earth's bounty more than others, though, and the privations and hope chest economies of hard times past seem strangely out of place in days of affluence. They tell us and they tell us the economy is big and booming, though many are unemployed, and the inclination today is to seek out comfort and convenience more than hard economics. Our endless cycle of consumption requires methods of disposal however and the tidiness of recycling is attracting public attention.

The desire of people to get involved in improving the quality of life probably explains the conversion of Domtar's Cornwall plant towards reusing paper. Also, once equipment changes have been made in such plants, the price of newsprint can drop as much as $7 - $10 per ton below conventional rates. Some markets for the reclaimed grades of paper are guaranteed since certain large businesses and government agencies, such as Bell and Air Canada, have effected new policies favoring recycled materials. Lower quality grades of paper can also be used in construction materials and even livestock forage, so that demand for the collected bundles often exceeds supply. If an organization can work out a reliable system for providing separated grades to the reprocessing companies, good prices can be had. Communities such as Westmount in Montreal who have organized such projects find, as their relationship with the company becomes firmer, that they can make a small dollar profit on the collections. Still collection, sorting and transportation amount to 90 per cent of the costs of a ton of pulp made from recycled waste, according to the American Paper Institute.

The pulp and paper industry is still far from mass conversions to the process. Technical problems remain in handling the wide variety of paper treatments and the machinery can literally become gummed up. As well the isolated nature of most of the paper plants leaves them far from their big city markets. Worse yet, the Canadian market has generally been depressed since the dollar revaluation and paper companies are unlikely to move too fast in making the large capital outlays involved in a conversion.

Still, for every ton of paper reused it has been estimated that 17 trees are saved. This fact should be incentive enough and it might be possible for town council to look into the possibilities for paper collections in Alexandria. Perhaps through an LIP grant, here, trees might be saved rather than cut down.

Facts Cannot Be Hidden

Some airline pilots and American politicians are demanding a total news blackout when aircraft highjackings occur. The reason for their demand is self-evident, but there is no sensible way in which it can be carried out, states an editorial in the Wingham Advance-Times.

Certainly the detailed accounts of skyjackings have led to further crimes of a similar nature. One highjacker originated the escape-by-parachute technique and immediately his method was copied by other criminals.

The co-operation of the news media should be sought in order to suppress details of the methods used in these high altitude crimes, but there is no way in which an event which affects so many people and costs so much money can be kept from the public. Other and better ways must be employed to put an end to the highjackings.

An act of federal legislation would be required to make such a news blackout effective, because freedom of the news media is basic not only to the American constitution but also to the guarantees of personal freedom in most other democracies. Once the precedent has been set and the press has been muzzled for even one type of news, it would be comparatively easy to repeat the move at any future time.

Misbehavior by public officials or members of the judiciary might be the next reason for a news blackout. Police brutality might be banned as a news subject on the excuse that such a misdemeanor could be copied in other sectors of the public domain.

Hitler's first move when he gained political control in Germany was management of the news. We cannot afford such controls in a free country.

Fully 3,000 strangers were in our midst last Friday when the Pan-American Circus came to town. The fine was paid under protest. — Norman Dewar and Donald McGillivray were royally entertained by the Orangemen of Pine Grove on August 8th, on their return from active service in South Africa. — Munro & McIntosh are to show six cutters and 22 carriages including surreys, mikados, stick seats, roadsters, traps, expresses and concords at Ottawa Fair. The Weeklies Say

PUNISHMENT FITS THE CRIME

Many countries frown on drivers who drink; some countries frowm so hard it hurts.

For example, the Saskatchewan Safety Council says that in Australia the names of drinking drivers are published in local newspapers under the headline, "He's drunk and in jail."

In Malaya, a drunk driver is jailed, and if he's married his wife goes with him.

In South Africa the driver is given a 10 year prison sentence, a fine of $2,800 or both.

In Turkey drunk drivers are taken 20 miles into the country by police and forced to walk back under escort.

There are no repeaters in friendly San Salvador,where convicted drunk drivers are executed by firing squad.—News-Optimist, North Battleford, Sask.

Sports editor,
The Glengarry News,

Thanks to the Char-Lan Optimist Club two Lancaster boys were able to attend the Russ Jackson Football School in Ottawa from August 14th to August 18th.

Stephen Emberg and Kerry McKay were coached in the fundamentals of football by such Rough Rider personalities as Russ Jackson, Whit Tucker and Cornwall's Moe Racine.

Both Stephen and Kerry will be playing football this fall for the Char-Lan Alouettes. All boys in the Lancaster-Williamstown area who are between the ages of 12 and 15 and who weigh less than 145 lbs. are welcome to try out for the Als who will hold practices at Char-Lan High School in Williamstown. Where We Stand

(The Napanee Beaver)

Ontario Place in Toronto isn't doing so well this year, its second year of operation. The investment there is $28 million, made by the taxpayers of Ontario, including those living in Lennox and Addington. Attendance is little more than half what it was at this time last year.

Many suggestions are being made as to what has gone wrong. There is definitely something wrong, either in the conception of the project in the first place or the way it is being run, or both. A small indication of the attitude by the powers-that-be right from the beginning may be gleaned from the following incident:

When Ontario Place opened last year, it was advertised in daily newspapers throughout Ontario but not in the weeklies which serve the smaller communities of the area, including The Napanee Beaver, the only newspaper published in Lennox and Addington County. The Beaver, after enquiring about this, was given to understand by officials concerned and the advertising agency which handles the account, that no advertising was being done here because "Napanee is out of the area."

Such is the regard for people of this area, only two hours drive from Ontario Place, that they are not being considered and their presence is not really of much importance. Where do they think Napanee is located? Somewhere in Quebec? In New York State maybe? Unless something's gone wrong with our geography, Napanee is still in Ontario, and if it is, then its citizens deserve to be considered among the potential visitors to Ontario Place.

If this attitude is multiplied by all the smaller rural communities across the province, then it is little wonder that Ontario Place is running out of visitors.

WITH OUR

by Ed.

THE HORSES CAN HAVE IT

Your Rambling Reporter has more than his share of weaknesses but one of them isn't playing the horses and he doubts he'll ever become an addict of the parimutuel betting window. He had a night at Blue Bonnets last week and came away bored.

In fairness to some fellows we know (who wouldn't think twice before driving all the way to Montreal to watch the bangtails runs) we'll admit right here we did a poor job of picking the winners. If even one of our nags had finished show or place and returned a few of our hard-earned dollars it's possible we'd have come away with a better impression of the racing game.

The way it turned out, when we wagered on a nag to win he might be leading coming into the home stretch, but invariably he was nosed out at the tape. If we got cautious and bet to show or place that oat-burner showed his proper place was out in back, eating the pack's dust.

All of which suggests we're a poor picker and a dismal judge of horseflesh on the hoof. But with our poor eyes and total ignorance of the track it was more a case of short-sightedness. Way up there on the top tier of the stands we couldn't even be sure of the horses' numbers and they all looked good in the post parade except those that were limping.

Invariably at race's end we found out that the horse that appeared lame had romped in first. Maybe that's how they build up the odds on the also-rans.

We should have had an experienced railbird with us to provide the tips, rather than a bunch of conventioning weekly newspaper people who were as out of place at the track as was your Rambling Reporter. The race program was as incomprehensible to them as to us so we contented ourself with betting on horses with a name that caught our fancy or on other crowbaits that were owned in the area. There were nags from Vankleek Hill, Hawkesbury and Cornwall running but if we showed our loyalty by plunking two bucks on them they responded by finishing out of the money.

We weren't wagering our shirt, mind you. We didn't drop all that much money, but as the old song goes "we had little satisfaction a-spending our dough". That multi-million dollar establishment Blue Bonnets has built up over the years suggests an awesome lot of suckers have paid through the nose bag in following the horses.

If the house creamed off enough to line their own pockets and provide so rich a track lay-out besides giving the government its due, we figure the odds on any horse or race are loaded against even the knowledgeable bettor. We'd be a sucker to go back.

The only tips noticeable about Blue Bonnets are those the waiters rake in.

MISLEADING SIGNS

Don't know whether or not some of the local yokels have been playing a practical joke with street signs, but right outside our window Main St. has become Ottawa St. and the Mill Square seems to be Main St. S.

Perhaps if council's traffic committee or our understaffed police went checking they might find other street signs have been changed by youngsters with time on their hands. It's been known to happen.

Another sign that might be made more noticeable for motorists is the One-Way warning at Bishop and St. Paul. Returning from the golf course Sunday we noticed the car ahead barge right up St. Paul through Bishop, against the intended flow of traffic. Couldn't hardly blame those golfing visitors cause when we got to the corner we looked for the One-Way sign and found it so slanted the driver could scarcely read it. There may be other such.

That Ottawa St. sign at Main appears to us to be more than a little out of place since we grew up to believe Ottawa St. started at the head of the Mill Square. Or should that section rightly be referred to as Catherine St. West? Putting that sign down here at Main seems to ignore the Mill Square; and who'd want to do that to the hub of Glengarry?

Some time when you have no other traffic problems, fellas, you might look into the state of your signs.

It's one thing to be born on Ottawa Street and another to have been born in Ottawa, where you'd automatically become eligible for the role of mandarin.

Stars Two Up Over McCrimmon As Finals On In All Divisions

(by Angus H. McDonell)

There are two entertainment attractions at this time of year that tell us of the autumn approach. They are the Ottawa Exhibition and the Glengarry Soccer finals. Both are in full swing this week.

McCrimmon and Glen Stars are battling for the senior crown, while Dunvegan and Glen Sandfield are the intermediate finalists. Alexandria has three teams in the minor finals with Glen Sandfield, Laggan and Char-Lan their opposition. Also in the wind-up are the Laggan girls and the fair sex of Ourtown.

In the senior semi-final, McCrimmon ousted Lochiel two straight and ditto Stars over Glen Sandfield.

The opening of the finals, best three in five each game a winner, got under way last Friday night in Lochiel before a sparse crowd. This was a fine display of soccer. Play ranged both ways capped by fine goal keeping behind sturdy fullbacks.

Although McCrimmon had the edge in the first half, Stars had the first real chance to score on a penalty shot. McCrimmon's goalie, John Angus Kennedy, had the ball eyed correctly all the way, coming up with a fine save.

In the second half, Stars gained a bit offensively and Peewee Poirier almost scored from the Star's left side but Neil Fraser forced Poirier deep in the McCrimmon corner and Poirier had to boot in full flight. The ball soared high over the top bar. Stars kept up the presure and finally John Hanson caught the right side of the McCrimmon net open with a grass cutter. Hanson was assisted by Luc Lacombe and Jackie McLean in a hockey style scramble with McCrimmon defence that actually screened the play on Kennedy.

Just before the final minutes Luc Lacombe scored Stars second goal on a penalty shot and that was game one for Stars by a 2-0 score.

On Monday night McCrimmon did everything but score despite losing center half Hugh MacGillivray early in the game with what turned out to be a hair line leg fracture. There was no score at half time and with play well into the last period John "Cat" Cadieux hit the bemp for Stars scoring the only goal of the game and win two for the Stars.

The third game of the finals will be played this Thursday night when an even larger crowd than the fine turnout of Monday is expected. Game four on Monday, if necessary.

In the intermediate bracket Dunvegan won the opener 3-1 over Glen Sandfield and then in the second meeting all was in reverse as Glen Sandfield won by the same score. The third game is scheduled for Maxville this Thursday evening, then back to Lochiel on Saturday with a fifth game if necessary likely next Tuesday night in Maxville where Dunvegan play their home games.

In the minors, all games are best three in five, however, to avoid overtime the first team earning six points in the series declared winner. Glen Sandfield sprites edged Alexandria "B" in their first game 3-2. Alexandria "A" had a better margin over Laggan "A" in the peewee first of finals, winning 5-2. The first of the bantams ended in a tie between Alexandria and Char-Lan.

In the first playoff game for the girls' championship, Laggan outscored Alexandria, 3-1.

AMONG GLENGARRY CHAMPIONS—The golf championships of Glengarry, open to residents and former residents of the county, drew several out-of-county golfers as well as many members of the local club. Among the top winners were these four: Cliff Rae, men's champion, Mrs. Cecile Sabourin, ladies' handicap champion; Suzanne Amelotte, ladies' champion; David Amelotte, junior handicap champion. —Photo by Robert

HA Eliminated In Girls' Softball

The semi-finals in girls' softball finished Sunday evening with Johnstown Gals winning the best out of 3 games with Handy Andy.

Tuesday, Johnstown Gals edged out Handy Andy 13-12 and Sunday they won 14-8.

Johstown Gals begin the finals Tuesday evening with Green Valley in a best of 5 games series.

Green Valley Softball Tourney

Instead of play-offs, the four teams in the Glengarry Softball League will go into a round robin tournament in Green Valley on Saturday, August 26th. All games will be five innings in length and will be played as follows:

9.00 a.m.—Green Valley vs. Glen Robertson
10.30 a.m.—North Lancaster vs. St. Raphael's
12.00 —St. Raphael's vs. Green Valley
3.00 p.m.—St. Raphael's vs. Glen Robertson
4.30 p.m.—North Lancaster vs. Green Valley

On Sunday, August 27th, the two teams with the best record during the round robin series will meet at 1.30 p.m. in a nine inning game to decide the championship.

League and tournament convener Yvon Menard is hoping that people from the local communities will turn out to support their team. Everybody is welcome.

The final standings in the Glengarry Softball League were as follows:

	W	L	Pts.
St. Raphael's	14	4	28
Green Valley	11	7	22
North Lancaster	8	10	16
Glen Robertson	3	15	6

Ball Hockey Semi-Finals

Ball hockey play-offs got off to an exciting start Tuesday evening.

In the girls division, Lynn Gallant's 1st place team faced off against Tish Filiatrault's team in a sudden death semi-final while Sheila Conway's squad met the girls from Lancaster.

In the first game it took two five-minute overtime periods and penalty shots to decide the winner. Anne McDonald's goal on a penalty shot enabled Tish's team to win a berth in the finals. They will be meeting Lancaster who were able to defeat Sheila Conway's team by a score of 3 to 1. The finals which start next week will consist of two games.

Semi-finals also got underway for the boys on Tuesday night. In the 2 game total-point series, 1st place Dalhousie is up against Alexandria while Hot Dog Lalonde's team is battling for a position in the finals with the Lancaster boys. Each of these games ended in a tie. They will go at it again next week.

Good luck to all.

Two Play-Offs Needed In Glengarry Golf

Extra holes were required Sunday to establish Glengarry Open champions in the annual tournament played at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club. Suzanne Amelotte and then Cliff Rae were low gross winners on the first playoff hole to cap off a popular event.

Playing conditions were almost ideal on this past weekend and a large field teed up in search of Glengarry honors. Emile Hurtubise of Alexandria and Cliff Rae of Dalkeith ended their eighteens tied at 82. In a head-to-head elimination on the first hole a spectacular recovery shot saved par for Mr. Rae, giving him top spot in the men's division.

Louise Clark, formerly of Glen Walter and Suzanne Amelotte tied after regulation holes, also. Miss Amelotte came up ahead on the playoff hole and took low gross award in the ladies' division.

Best net score in the ladies section was turned in by Cecile Sabourin and Real Boisvenue had the low net card among the men.

Ken Parsons with 80 had best score of the day and took the Junior Division trophy. Low net prize went to David Amelotte.

Also settled last week was the season's Junior Championship. Peter Shennett won the A Class trophy; Cameron Ward the B Class and Bobbie Brunet C Class.

Winners At Social

Yvon Charlebois of Vankleek Hill, was winner of the $500 prize at Glen Robertson Social held on July 29th. The second prize, $100 was won by Jacques Titley, Alexandria, and $50 was won by Mrs. K. M. Duffy, 436 Berwick Avenue, Town of Mount Royal. Mrs. Clifford Beauclair received $25 for selling the first winning ticket.

Lalonde Again Remanded In Court

Robert Lalonde of Lancaster, appeared in court here on Monday and was remanded in custody until August 28th.

On September 11th the accused will appear again to have a date set for his trial. At that time he will elect to be tried by judge and jury or by judge only.

Lalonde has been charged with the non capital murder of Mrs. Ruth Fox last June 11th and has been in custody since that time.

LION TALES

(by Lyall Costello)

As I sat at the golf club this morning (Sunday) and watched some of the entrants tee-off on No. 1 in the Glengarry Open, I could not help but think that starter Herman Parsons should have been handing them compasses rather than score cards.

Mrs. Rollande Theoret reminded me that advice was like castor oil. It was hard to take.

And Guy Bougie was telling me about being held up by a robber in Montreal. The robber said to Guy "do you know what this gun sticking in your ribs means?" "Yes" replied Guy, "It means I have lost weight".

The good old days, the good old days,
We all so fondly speak of,
Which, if they ever should come back,
No one could stand a week of.

This little poem brings to my memory my younger days when we used to go across the Ottawa River by rowboat to Quyon from my home at Fitzroy Harbour. It was an arduous task when you had two or three passengers and only one set of oars. We attended the Saturday night dances and always prayed for bright moonlight to guide us home. The public ferry service provided at that time consisted of an old side-paddle wheel scow powered by a large one cylinder stationary engine and manned by a drinking captain, but modern ingenuity and demand has replaced it with two modern diesel powered, more easily manoeuvred craft.

I could not help but remember as I crossed last week on the more modern conveyance of my first brush with royalty, my father when he farmed bought cattle on the Quebec side of Ottawa River and transported them to our farm on the other side. I was only about the tender age of six or seven and I was taken along to help chase the cattle and block entrances as cattle truck transport was almost unknown then. We had just chased and corraled about ten or twelve head on one end of the old scow when up to the ferry dock drove a shiny black and chrome Rolls Royce. It was chauffer driven, had a passenger in front and two in the spacious rear seat. The ferry captain beckoned the car to come on board. The four occupants of the car got out and started to mingle with us passengers on the boat. It was Lord and Lady Willingdon, then Governor-General of Canada.

And to prove to my critical friends my ability to enchant the ladies, even at that age Lady Willingdon immediately took a shine to me. She noticed I was wearing running boots which had almost surpassed their usefulness and my little toes were protruding through either boot. She stuck her little finger in the hole and tickled my small feet. Then she approached her secretary and instructed him to give me money for a new pair. I suppose when Lion Mike Barbara reads this column he will say that I should have gone for a whole suit of clothes.

This was my first touch with royalty. Since, then I have sat on council with the "King of low prices" and Lion Sam Brunet whom we all affectionately called "King of Roads".

Guess Who?

There are people tall,, there are people lean,
But this "guess who" is in between.
He is medium height and a teacher by trade,
He says himself that he has got it made.
He is called a vice but that ain't true,
He is just as honorable as me or you.
He golfs a little and a lot he curls,
His family comprises one hundred per cent girls.
Now if this "guess who" still eludes your mind,
Try the first Bishop of Ottawa or some such kind.

To quote Lion John Clingen who says:

"The reason the cookie crumbles is because its mother has been a wafer too long".

Junior Glens In Lacrosse Semi-Finals

The Junior Glens lacrosse team played the first of their semi-final series here Monday night and lost a 12-9 decision to the Cornwall Celtics.

A second game was set for last night in Cornwall and the fourth one will also be played there next Monday. The third and fifth games will be played here tonight and next Tuesday.

Glengarrians Still Out In Front

Harvey's Glengarrians are currently leading the Ottawa Valley Soccer League by five points, following Tuesday night's 3-1 victory over the Hurricanes.

Lucien Lacombe and George Swerdfeger scored in the first half to give the locals a 2-0 lead at half time. A goal by each of the teams in the latter portion of the game still left Harveys in the lead. Tommy Lowe booted the final marker.

Two scheduled games against Helles and Lusitania have had to be postponed and will be rescheduled.

The next home game is in Lochiel on Sunday afternoon against the Javelins.

The Glengarrians are also entered in the Smiths Falls Soccer tournament where 14 clubs will participate.

Park Activities

Activities at the park will be coming to an end next week. The season will close with two special events for the children.

On Tuesday, August 29th, there will be a penny arcade in the arena. The entrance fee for this mini-fair which will be from 1 o'clock until 4 o'clock, will be 5 cents. Some of the events at the arcade will be candle blowing, a penny throw, and a clothespin drop. There will also be a fortune teller on hand to look into the future. It will only cost one cent to try any event.

This little fair should be lots of fun. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy themselves.

On August 30th there will be a fun field day at the park. The events will be races such as potato pack race, wheelbarrow race, the potato and spoon race and the three-legged race. Children of all ages are invited to come to the park and take part in the fun. The field day will begin at one o'clock. If it happens to rain, this activity will be held in the arena.

For further information, call Susan Conway at the Park, 525-2963.

Lancaster WI Had Meeting

The St. Lawrence Women's Institute met recently at the home of the president, Mrs. Alex Lalonde. The 12 members and two visitors answered the roll call with a water safety hint.

Mrs. Lalonde commented on the motto "Take your time and save a life" and read an item showing how the Women's Institute was connected with the CNE at Toronto.

Mrs. J. B. White read an item "Mistress of Manse, can you quilt", after which Mrs. Harry McLeod read an item dealing with pollution—one of the favorite topics of the current day.

Upon completion of these two talks, Mrs. Dorothy Haight read Mr. Gordon's views on racoon upbringing while Mrs. J. P. Sangster read "how to become miserable".

Members were reminded of the invitation to attend the Maxville WI Grandmothers' meeting, Aug. 25th. Mention also was made of the Ottawa area convention which is to be held at Hawkesbury, October 19th and 20th.

The next regular meeting will be the grandmothers' meeting to be held at Knox United Church Hall, September 6th, with the Maxville WI as guests. Members will also be holding a bake sale, August 26th.

A report from your Glengarry Agricultural Office

by J. Y. Humphries

You probably noticed in last week's isue that the Select Committee of the Ontario Legislature appointed to study problems associated with land drainage and the legislation respecting same will visit most areas of the Province. This group will be in Cornwall on Aug. 29th and will meet in the Courtroom, United Counties Building to receive delegations or individuals wishing to make representation to it. The Committee is inviting local municipal officials to meet at 2 p.m. and an open meeting for farmers or organizations is scheduled for 8 p.m. Anyone wishing to express their views or opinions on drainage legislation will have an opportunity to do so during this session.

All drainage legislation became the responsibility of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food on April 1, 1972. Prior to this, the responsibility for several pieces of legislation respecting drainage was divided between several departments. This is an opportunity for local councils and individuals to make their views on drainage problems known in order that more effective legislation may be devised.

GLENGARRY HISTORICAL NOTES

by HUGH MacMILLAN

Glengarry History A Literary Goldmine

In searching Canada for historical manuscripts I frequently come across material relating to our country's history. Recently I came across a published manuscript by the late George Sandfield Macdonald, BA of Cornwall. He would be a son of John Sandfield Macdonald first premier of Ontario, and related to the publisher of this paper.

This interesting paper was a companion piece to one recently published in this newspaper, entitled "The Early settlement of Glengarry" by John McLennan, MP. Both were published in the 1887 proceedings of the Montreal Celtic Society. The title "Literary Aspects of the Keltic settlement in Stormont and Glengarry", is something of a misnomer, as it reviews the possibilities for story material in the area without telling of what was written. One reason for this approach may well have been the fact that in 1887 very little had been written. "Lunenburg or the old Eastern District" by Judge Pringle was written in 1890. In 1893 Jack "Greenfield" Macdonell wrote "Sketches of Glengarry". Since then we have seen excellent books written by Harkness and more recently by Dorothy Dumbrille. The latter is the only writer who really captured the excitement and romance of our local history.

The county has in recent years produced some excellent historians of professional calbre. So far none of them have published any local history. The area is indeed a gold mine of history, loaded with stories of heroic adventure. These range in subject matter from the first settlement to fur trade days, U.E. Loyalists, leaders in lumbering, banking, railroad buildings, mining and a host of other areas where there were new fields to conquer. This trend has continued to this day and we still find Glengarrians, sons or grandsons of such, predominating in many areas of endeavor. If they are at the top of their field they are well on their way.

What the county needs and doesn't have is a definitive or/and social history of the area. The former will soon be more than adequately covered when Dr. G. F. G. Stanley brings out under a Champlain Society imprint, his documentary history of Glengarry and Stormont.

The latter is more difficult to accomplish, as it will require an enormous amount of research. Currently Stuart MacDonald is attempting to put together a social history. Without training as a social historian the most he can hope to accomplish is a series of stories, anecdotes relating to Glengarrians. However, if he plows a new furrow from the one taken by Dorothy Dumbrille, his work will fill a need, and hopefully be readable.

Through the medium of this column I have sketched out the basic stories surrounding some historical figures or situations with Glengarry connections.

In many cases these stories have the potential of a full scale book. In certain cases I have been able to locate the necessary documentation to make this possible.

Much of this source material in manuscript form has come from the late "Father Ewen". Other stories that have book potential are: John MacDonald of Garth, NWCo. partner and founder of Rocky Mountain House—R. R. McLennan, MP, railroad builder, champion hammer thrower—Angus Roy "The Mast" McDonell, lumberman, canal and railroad builder. The list is endless, and much more detailed research than what I have time for is required.

Any such social history should bring out the warts and defects of our character. After all, our ancestors were not always completely virtuous, despite what some writers would have us believe. Let's hear something of the villains.

George Sandfield Macdonald has some interesting theories regarding the first settlers, not all of which I agree with. He refers to the first highlanders to come out here from Scotland as "peanuts". This is not entirely true as under the clan system in Scotland each clansman considered himself of as good a blood as his chief because of their kinship, and therefore to a certain extent his equal. This system produced proud men of spirit who were completely different to the known definition of a peasant.

It would be most helpful if readers would make suggestions regarding story material of a historical nature. Hopefully they could supply some documentary proof as to the authenticity of such stories.

Macdonald scores some good points in his essay on what constitutes good history. For example he complains that historians in the late 19th century observe only the wide historical scene from on high and tend to leave people out. This is still somewhat true today. He makes a good case for how history in Canada should be written, but is on rather shaky ground when he gets into explaining the development of the "Celt" or as he refers to them "kelt" in this country.

This essay is well worth reprinting in its entirety through the medium of this paper. In fact the opinions it states could well be debated by the classes in local history I understand are active in our Glengarry high schools. It is several years since I began to agitate along with others, for the teaching of more local history in our schools. I am glad to learn it has caught on in Glengarry and this 1887 essay could keep Glengarry students discussing Macdonald's theories for some time. Watch for this essay in a future issue.

With the editor's permission I would like to see other Glengarry writers with historical interests use this column from time to time. It is impossible for me to get a weekly column much as I would like to.

Writers such as Mrs. Velma Franklin, Prof. Royce MacGillivray could contribute to such a column. Mrs. Marion MacMaster has already expressed interest in assisting Stuart Macdonald to collect information. With her professional training in history she could certainly be of help.

As for Velma she has been writing professionally for several years while organizing many other projects. It tires the mind to think of her long list of activities. Royce, with his doctorate in history from Harvard could give this group of writers the proper academic touch. The column could be broadened out to include more contemporary history relating to arts and crafts in the county.

In any case let us hear more from you readers and in the meantime I will consult with our editor.

Okay, so let's examine it. First the white baked-on finish of the glass coated, steel plates. Attractive, yes! They also reflect heat so efficiently the interior remains cool — better for the feed and less loss through heating. Consider the permanent steel breather system, built right into the foundation. It never requires maintenance, is out of the way, and is extremely efficient.

Check out the high discharge top unloader for forage. It quickly converts to an efficient distributor for filling. Material is fed out the bottom through the centre shaft, formed during filling. Stored forage with a moisture content of up to 60% is now possible. Should a bottom unloader be preferred, we have the reliable Hoy Cross Cut.

A wide range of sizes are available for both forage and high moisture corn and at prices that will be a pleasant surprise. Let us send you details. When you learn the facts on Feedstor, you probably think we are crazy after all.

sharing quotas with subsidy. Word has spread that due to unfavorable weather conditions there is little chance of selling quota. To date this has not been the case.

The first thing we must remember is, that the weather conditions are favorable for milk production in most regions in the Province, with the exception of our own area. Many of these producers are looking for additional quota. There are producers in the Glengarry, Stormont, Russell and Prescott adjusting or intending to add to their quotas in the near future. The August 14th list of producers "wishing to purchase quota" shows five looking for Group 1 Pool and fifteen wanting market sharing with subsidy.

In conclusion, if you are intending to dispose of your quotas, you have, under normal circumstances, sixty days to dispose of your market sharing quota with subsidy, after the last day milk is shipped. Contact your OMMB fieldman to ensure your name appears on the "seller's list" and obtain a "buyers list" at the same time. Quotas are valuable and are selling.

We are certain that fairly sizeable quantities of feed grain will be required in Eastern Ontario this year. Feed grains are not in short supply but must be moved from the Lakehead into elevator positions. If you know your requirements book them with your broker or local dealer early. Our staff is presently preparing information that might allow feeders to better understand the activities and role of the feed trade in order that both you and your dealer might benefit from early bookings and other savings that might be generated in an orderly trade. A publication "Comparative Prices for Eastern Ontario Feedstuffs" is available from Agricultural Offices. This is based on the nutritive value of different feeds and may assist you in selecting your best buy.
