Faulty furnace cited cause of Green Valley fire

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

A Green Valley family of five lost their home in an early morning fire Sunday.

A one-storey home was gutted in a fire that fire officials suspect was started by a faulty oil furnace.

Claude Poulin was awakened by the crying of his child.

"I woke up and saw there was smoke in the house," he said.

He reacted quickly to free his family from the burning home.

"I grabbed the kids and ran outside," he said.

He placed blankets around his children, and put them in the car. His wife then drove them to their neighbors.

Poulin then re-entered the home to call firefighters, but the line was dead.

He then ran to the neighbors who called the firefighters.

Eleven members from the Alexandria Fire Department were dispatched to the scene and remained there for about three hours.

Smoke was coming out of the attic when the firefighters arrived, said Deputy Fire Chief Maurice Brunet.

The fire is still under investigation.

The house is not habitable.

"It's a complete loss," Poulin said, adding that the house was insured.

"The roof was all caved in and can fall at any moment."

He plans to rebuild a home on the same lot.

Contractors are preparing estimates as to the cost of rebuilding a new house.

Meanwhile, the community is chipping in.

Poulin, his wife Johanne and their three children are currently staying at his sister-in-law's place in Glen Robertson.

And Poulin's sister is fundraising at her workplace.

"Everybody is really good," Poulin, who works at Roy's Pontiac-Buick, said about those that are helping him.

Stolen car burns near Laggan

Firefighters and an OPP officer examine a stolen 1991 Honda Civic which was destroyed by fire on Highway 34 near Laggan Thursday afternoon. Alexandria firefighters were dispatched to the scene. No one was injured. Police believe the car, which had been stolen in Montreal the same day, was deliberately set on fire.

Inquest to probe fatal car/train collision

An inquest into last week's fatal train-van collision west of Maxville is not expected to begin until late this year or early next year.

Coroner Dr. Gabriel Slowey said before an inquest can begin, an inquest into another train-vehicle accident that occurred earlier this summer near Finch has to be completed first.

The inquest into the Finch area accident is expected to be completed sometime in November.

After that, Slowey will meet with the crown attorney office to begin the inquest into last week's crash which killed two people and six others injured when the van they were in collided with a VIA Rail passenger train at the level crossing on Hwy. 138, near Dyer Road.

"It's a long process," Slowey said, adding that Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry has an understaffed crown attorney office.

An investigation will begin with an examination of police reports to get all the information needed to determine the exact cause of the accident.

Still no word on Priest's Mill

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

There's still no official word on an apparent offer made to purchase the closed Priest's Mill restaurant, despite earlier reports its doors would be open by the end of this month.

"I was told there has been an offer accepted," said Alexandria Mayor J.P. Touchette, who would not confirm his source.

The Priest's Mill Restaurant has been eyed by prospective buyers ever since it closed in May after its owners went bankrupt.

A Montreal consortium has expressed interest in purchasing the restaurant and although no one involved would reveal any details, a purchasing process seems to be heading in a positive direction.

"Things are progressing satisfactorily," said Lawrence Blancher of Deloitte & Touche Inc., the restaurant's trustee.

Deloitte & Touche is acting on behalf of the Federal Business and Development Bank, which loaned money to the restaurant when it was managed by previous owner Harry Wilson.

The consortium's account is being handled by Sauve Real Estate in Alexandria.

Negotiations for the purchase are continuing.

The real estate firm's owner, Maurice Sauve, said information about the purchase might become available within the next two to four weeks.

Blancher said in order to prevent a deal from being jeopardized, information about the purchase must be kept under wraps until the deal has been signed, sealed and certified.

Also, if the consortium's purchase offer is too low, the FBDB might refuse to sell.

The Priest's Mill's building value was appraised in June by Alexandria real estate firm Royal LePage, which did not release their results.

However, the fact that the restaurant is an historic site might add considerably to its value.

The restaurant is situated on what was once a grist mill, built by Bishop Alexander Macdonell in 1819.

The mill generated a local economy and helped develop a village which became the town of Alexandria, named after the Bishop.

The mill was renovated into a restaurant in 1942 and has since become an attraction for visitors from all over Canada and the United States.

Slide show to showcase life of Glengarrian

The sights and sounds of the lives and times of the late Angus H. McDonell will be featured when he is posthumously inducted into the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame next Wednesday, Sept. 9 in Williamstown.

A slide and audio show which will highlight the life of this well-known Glengarrian, who died in May of this year, will be shown at the induction banquet. The slides will show photos taken throughout most of the 86 years of Angus' life, including him with many of the dignitaries who have opened the Glengarry Highland Games, several Glengarry acquaintances, him with the old Alexandria Maroons and the Maxville Millionaires hockey teams and other aspects of his life.

The slides will be accompanied by the voice of Angus himself, a tape recorded conversation he had while in hospital last January. Throughout it, he reminisces about his days leading the Games and the trials and tribulations he had attracting dignitaries to open them.

The show will be the punctuation mark on the induction and ceremony

KEEPING THE PEACE

Glen Norman reservist off to strife-torn Yugoslavia

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Lindsay Cameron is going to Yugoslavia.

The eighteen-year-old Glen Norman resident will become the first Glengarry reservist to enter peacekeeping duty in the war-torn country.

He is one of three Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders — the other two are privates Dave de Bruijn and Ian MacLeod of Chesterville — to join the regular military in its peacekeeping mission.

The son of Lindsay senior and Dora, in an interview at his parents home Thursday, modestly said he does not know why he was offered the chance at the peacekeeping duty.

"It could be that I haven't done anything stupid," he joked, but added: "I guess mostly it's probably luck of the draw."

The Glengarry native is back from Victoria, B.C. for a couple of weeks to take care of items of business before heading back for four more weeks of intense training in preparation for duty.

He has already undergone two weeks of training with the reservists heading over for peacekeeping and four weeks of training with the Victoria Battalion 3PPCL1, which they are reinforcing for the Yugoslavia tour.

"We're training with the exact people we'll go with to get us working together as a team," Cameron said.

The reservists are learning a wide range of duties, including how to set up roadblocks, riot control during food handouts, internal security, city patrol, VIP protection for escorting government officials, and convoy protection.

And the training has come from a variety of sources.

For example, the British military has assisted in the city patrol training, using its experience patrolling the streets in Northern Ireland.

There is also plenty of hard physical training, like the "400 Test," in which participants do a two-mile run, then as many pushups, situps and chinups as they can afterwards.

On maneuvers last winter (above) and relaxing at home with pal Calaidh: Lindsay will join regular military forces in Yugoslavia in October.
Staff photos — Greg Kielec

The reservists are rated in percentages on how quickly they complete the run, as well as the number of pushups, situps and chinups.

The aim is for a less-than-12-minute run, 50 pushups, 15 chinups and 50 situps. The longer the run, the lower the percentage. Fewer repetitions in other exercises also means a lower percentage.

A score of over 300 per cent gets the participants off the hook. Less than 300 means the lucky participant gets to try again.

If a person cannot make the grade, they don't get to go. "The standard has to be met," Cameron said.

Then there is the Battle Fitness test, which involves a 13 km. march wearing a rucksack which can weigh up to 40 kg. or more. At the end of the march, participants must carry a soldier on their back for 400 metres.

"No Rambos, no heroes"

In the day following comes a 16 km. march without rucksacks, but with all the military equipment — it includes rifles, binoculars, canteens, ammunition, gas mask — soldiers carry into battle.

At the end of the march, soldiers must jump or scale a six-foot-high wall and then jump a four-foot-wide trench.

How do you know if you have passed the test?

"If you make it, you pass, basically," Cameron explained.

They are obvious reasons for the intense physical and mental training, but there is also a less obvious benefit — confidence.

"It's confidence. You get a lot of confidence in being able to do this."

"You can never be (fully) prepared for war," Cameron said. But with the training, they will be prepared the best they can be, and will need to be.

It is both a physical and mental game. "You have to be able to deal with anything," he said.

Dealing with anything means using restraint in situations where other military, less known for peacekeeping duty, may crack.

He likens the situation to the Oka standoff in Quebec which had the Canadian military facing down natives in tense, lengthy confrontation.

"It's a discipline thing now — no Rambos, no heroes, no firefights."

"Ideally you should be able to go through your six months without firing a shot."

It's something that many infantries are not accustomed to — the use of measured force.

"You are trained: 'There is the enemy. Go get them'."

But in peacekeeping, cooler heads must prevail. And that is why in peacekeeping, the Canadian military has gained the reputation of being the world's best.

Cameron said Canada's excellence in peacekeeping is attributable partly to the Canadian military's training. It is also a reflection of the type of people Canadians are.

He will arrive south of Bosnia, near Daruvar. And he is looking forward to his first tour of peacekeeping.

"It doesn't bother me. I want to go to it."

As for his parents Dora and Lindsay, "I'm sure they're nervous," he said.

After he arrives, he could end up basically anywhere in Yugoslavia, doing almost anything pertaining to peacekeeping duty.

"It can change by the day. It can change by the hour even. That's why we have to train for everything."

And what they will be doing "will not be completely

300 attend party

More than 300 people helped celebrate Cooper Marsh's first birtday Saturday.

The nature park held guided tours and displayed works from local wood carvers Leo Bissonette and Clarence Cooney, basket weaver Elmer Meek and nature painter Diana Wakely.

The event started at 11 a.m. and lasted until 4 p.m.

Cooper Marsh staff member Rose-Marie Chretien said crowds started to roll in at 11 a.m.

"The people seem to be impressed," she said.

One of the visitors, Mary Murray of Martintown, won a 16-foot fibreglass canoe in a raffle held Saturday.

The canoe was donated by a Cornwall business.

Cooper Marsh plans to hold other events for the public in the near future.

Guided tours will be held every Sunday at 2 p.m.

And there will be a nature-photography workshop on Sept. 12.

Also, school programs will continue to fulfill one of Cooper Marsh's objectives of education.

About 5,600 students participated in the 225 school programs in the past year.

Cooper Marsh also attracted about 12,000 public visitors in the first year.

Organizers say this is much more than anticipated and hope the community's high interest in Cooper Marsh will continue.

Cooper Marsh attracts people interested in seeing how waterfowl and other wetland wildlife is preserved.

The marsh, built last year, had been planned for several years.

As wetland property disappeared in Ontario, and as the demand for riverside cottages grew, there was a push by local environmentalists to carve out a section of land to build a nature preserve.

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority began acquiring land in 1980 which was later to become Cooper Marsh.

The 850 acre marsh was built so that it would flood periodically to allow wetland wildlife to survive.

About 120 bird species make their home at Cooper Marsh.

Fish and other animals also life in the marsh.

About 1,200 meters of boardwalks and woodchip covered trails were installed in the marsh for visitors.

The two-storey visitor center was built last year.

The centre not only provides information to visitors, it has been used for several workshops and lectures.

Caribbean fashion

The folks at Creg Quay marina invited designer John Warden to come and show off his Caribbean-inspired line of clothing at a fahsion show on Saturday. The fashions, along with island music entertainment, were enough to put anyone in a southern state of mind, especially considering the recently blustery weather.

Court Report

The following is among the cases dealt with by Judge Rommel Masse in provincial court at Alexandria on Aug. 27.

Man jailed for drunk driving

An Alexandria man has been sentenced to 21 days in jail after pleading guilty to drunk driving last Thursday.

Marvin Ladouceur, 42, was arrested on April 14 and breathalyser tests taken on that date revealed that his blood-alcohol content was twice the legal limit.

Jail was mandatory in this instance because it was Ladouceur's third drinking and driving conviction dating back to 1973.

In addition to the period of jail, Ladouceur was also prohibited from driving for 18 months.

A competitor attempts to keep on the straight and narrow while making a pass at the Glengarry Plowing Match at McCuaig's Corners on Saturday. Twenty-six competitors from across the region competed.

Two Glengarrians sweep at plowing match

The damp and gloomy weather did not hinder Saturday's Glengarry plowing match.

"We had a really good turnout, considering the kind of weather it was," said Doug Sova, the secretary-treasurer of the event.

About 150 spectators and 26 competitors attended the match on Saturday at George and Mary Lang's family farm, RR2 Williamstown.

Competitors came from all over Eastern Ontario.

Glengarrian, Rob McDonald of North Lancaster, was the big winner by receiving five awards, while another Glengarrian, Ross MacGillivray of Dalkeith won big as well by coming first in the advanced class as well as receiving two special trophies.

The plowing match, which was held in Kirk Hill last year, will be held somewhere in Kenyon next year. The match is held in a different township every year.

The match was divided into eleven classes, but there were only enough entrants for six classes, listed as follows:

Class 2, tractor plows, three furrows and more, open: Rodney Fraser of Ste. Anne de Prescott, first place; Jeff Waldroff of Newington, second place; Ian MacMillan of Finch, third place.

Class 3, horse plowing: Robert Pilon of Clarence Creek, first place; Pierre Racine of Casselman, second place.

Class 5, tractor plows, two or more furrows: Barry MacLennan of Alexandria, first place; Scott Kinloch of Martintown, second place; Ronnie Stadelmann of Green Valley, third place.

Class 6, tractor plows, two or more furrows: Rob McDonald of North Lancaster, first place; Geoff Vande Nieuwe Giessen of Williamstown, second place; Mattias Mader of Lancaster, third place.

Class 8, antique tractors with trailer plows only: Garry Bradley of Casselman, first place; Claude Gagnier of Casselman, second place; John MacLeod of North Lancaster, third place.

Class 10, advanced class for past or future IPM contestants, three or more furrows mounted: Ross MacGillivray of Dalkeith, first place; Ian Vallance of Maxville, second place.

Cash prizes are $50 for first prize, $35 for second and $25 for every other worthy entry.

The special trophy prizes are:

Glengarry Plowmen's Association Trophy for best plowed ridge by a county resident: Rob McDonald of North Lancaster.

Runner-up best plowed ridge by county resident: Ross MacGillivray of Dalkeith. Best plowed ridge by a new competitor from Glengarry County: Scott Kinloch. Best plowed ridge in junior class: Rob McDonald. Best crown: Rodney Fraser of Ste. Anne de Prescott. Most points for plowman in Class 5: Barry MacLennan of Alexandria. Best plowed ridge in advanced class: Ross MacGillivray. Kenyon Township Trophy for best plowed ridge in junior classes (five and six): Rob McDonald. Best "ins and outs" $10 prize, donated in memory of George Kinloch: Rob McDonald.

Wall of Fame profiles

The following are profiles of seven of the first 15 inductees into the Glengarry Agricultural Wall of Fame. Next week The News will profile the remaining eight.

R. Stanley Wightman (1896 -)

R. Stanley Wightman of Lancaster was a pioneering farmer in Glengarry.

In the early days of the Glengarry Soils ¿ Crops Improvement Association, Mr. Wightman presided as the first president and then continued on as a director to both the Glengarry and Ontario soils and crops associations.

Mr. Wightman was always willing to try new ideas and innovations. He was one of the first farmers in Glengarry to install tile drainage and erect a cement silo.

As well as being active in soils and crops, Mr. Wightman was a director of Eastern Breeders, the Glengarry Holstien Club and the Montreal Milk Producers Association.

On top of all this, Mr. Wightman had time to become a trustee on the public school board and an elder of his church.

In 1957, Mr. Wightman received the W.H. McNish Award and in 1961 was the co-winner of the Ontario Pasture Competition. The St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society recognized Mr. Wightman's contribution to agriculture with the presentation of the Ontario Agricultural Service Award in 1976.

Finlay C. McLennan (1894 - 1991)

Finlay C. McLennan of Lancaster was successful in several aspects of agriculture in Glengarry.

Mr. McLennan graduated from Guelph with a B.Sc. Agri. in 1923 and became the farm manager of Walker Farms in Walkerville, near Windsor, owned by Walker Distillers. Following this position, he returned to Lancaster to operate the home farm.

As well as farming, Mr. McLennan was a school secretary-treasurer, township tax collector and insurance agent. Later he started a weekly livestock auction which in turn opened several new markets for Glengarry livestock. Mr. McLennan was a dedicated member of the Montreal Milk Producers Association.

For his contribution to agriculture, Mr. McLennan was recognized by the St. Lawrence Agricultural Society and the Glengarry Soils and Crops Improvement Association. He was also awarded for 50 years in the Holstein-Friesian Association.

J. Carlyle Watt (1900 - 1983)

J. Carlyle Watt was a quality herdsman and breeder of Ayrshire cattle. Before succeeding his father on Maple Crest Farm, he was a herdsman for two years at Alta Crest Farm in Spencer, Mass., which was one of the largest and most famous Ayrshire establishments in North America.

Mr. Watt was a successful breeder of the Maple Crest Ayrshire herd, winning numerous awards at the local fairs, the Ottawa Winter Fair and the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. Maple Crest stock has sold internationally and Mr. Watt's expertise of Ayrshires enabled him to judge from coast to coast.

The Watt family hosted the first Glengarry Ayrshire Club field day in 1931 and had the honour to host it again for it's 50th anniversary. Mr. Watt helped many families in the community in times of trouble and encouraged young people to become involved in 4-H clubs to lay the ground-work for future farmers.

Mr. Watt served as director and president of the Glengarry Ayrshire Association, the Canadian Ayrshire Association and the Williamstown Fair board.

David M. McPherson (1847 - 1915)

David M. McPherson of Lancaster operated and managed many profitable cheese factories. He developed the "Allan Grove Combination" of cheese factories which at one time numbered 34 in Glengarry and Huntington counties.

For at least a decade, Mr. McPherson was known as the "Cheese King of Canada", being one of the largest cheese manufacturers in North America. A great deal of expansion of the dairy industry in Glengarry can be attributed to the large market provided by Mr. McPherson's cheese.

He was also known for his farming methods, practiced on his own farm. He was a thorough believer in intensive farming, understanding the soil conditions and increasing it's fertility every year.

Mr. McPherson was the MPP for Glengarry from 1894 to 1898.

John M. Arkinstall (1902 - 1981)

John Arkinstall of Dunvegan was a successful grower of high quality pedigreed seed for 35 years. Specializing in forage crops, he produced his first field of certified Timothy in 1932 and by 1956 his entire 135 crop acres were devoted to the production of pure seeds of several varieties.

Mr. Arkinstall co-operated with Plant Products Division of Agriculture Canada in establishing the first block system for Timothy seed to reduce the danger of cross-pollination. An ardent supporter of better seeds, he won championships in major shows including the Ottawa Winter Fair, Royal Winter Fair and the international in Chicago.

He served as president of the Ottawa Valley Seed Growers Association and was active in the local agricultural society, soil and crop improvement association, plowman's association and the public school board.

A long-time member of the Canadian Seed Growers Association, Mr. Arkinstall was awarded the Robertson Award and received the Ottawa Farm Journal trophy for outstanding achievement as a seed grower.

William Jamieson (1829 - 1908)

William Jamieson of Brodie was a very innovative and successful inventor of agricultural machinery. His service and support given to the farming community of Glengarry enabled farmers to increase productivity and expand.

In the early years, farm machinery was very scarce and primitive. Mr. Jamieson, who was a skilled carpenter and had a very strong mechanical background, set up a manufacturing plant where he built wagons, wheels and stoning machines.

He was granted a patent for his stoning machine on Dec. 11, 1866, which reads, "William Jamieson of the township of Lochiel in the county of Glengarry for a new and useful machine for lifting and removing stones." An example of the Jamieson stoning machine can be seen at the Glengarry Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan.

For quite a number of years, the Jamieson plant flourished, gave employment to local lads and helped make Brodie better known.

Malcolm Cumming (1880 - 1967)

Malcolm (Mac) Cumming developed superior genetics in the Ayrshire breed which had positive ramifications not only locally but nationally and internationally.

His herd was competitive with the very best at the Royal Winter Fair and his bloodlines were sought after by breeders throughout North America. Mr. Cumming's milk production achievements included: Canada's first 200,000 lb. Ayrshire cow, Canada's highest producer for all breeds in 1928 and bred Glengarry Betty Ann, the world record two-year-old producer. He also bred Glengarry Fancy Boy which until 1990 was the sire of the world's highest lifetime producing Ayrshire.

Mr. Cumming's superior knowledge of cattle genetics helped Glengarry's dairymen milk more profitable cows or attract different markets.

He served as president of the local Ayrshire club from it's inception in 1931 until 1948. He also served as the head of the Williamstown Fair Board for many years.

Driver hurt in inter-provincial car crash

A Cornwall man was seriously injured Sunday after he crashed his car in an accident that began in Quebec and ended up in Ontario.

Jeffrey David, 37, was sent to Centre Hopitalier de Valleyfield in Quebec and was released after being treated.

He was driving a 1980 Mercury, at around 5 a.m. Sunday, west on Highway 338 in Quebec that leads onto County Road 17 (Old Highway 2) when he failed to negotiate a curve.

The car hit a mail box on the Quebec side, drove across a lawn and crashed against trees 125 meters away on an Ontario property.

The car was torn to pieces.

The Quebec Police Force and a Quebec ambulance were called to the scene.

The QPF began the investigation and then turned it over to the Ontario Provincial Police because most of the damage and injuries occurred in Ontario.

The OPP charged David with careless driving.

Staff Sgt. Jim McWade of the Lancster OPP detachment said there were signs of alcohol consumption. While he was driving over the 80km/h speed limit, the exact speed was not determined.

Quebecers arrested for having counterfeit bills

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Ontario Provincial Police in Lancaster has arrested two Quebec men with posession of counterfeit money on Monday.

Andre Buchanan, 30, of St. Laurent, Que., and Abraham Masas, 31, of St. Luc, Que., have been sent to County Jail in Cornwall.

They were to appear in a Cornwall court yesterday morning.

The arrest follows a complaint from a Long Sault gas station whereby a customer was trying to pass what appeared to be a bogus $100 U.S. bill.

A description of the vehicle and its licence plate had been given to the OPP which issued an area alert.

Lancaster OPP stopped a car on Highway 401 that fit the description and arrested its two occupants.

Nine fake bills were found in their posession.

They were sent to the Lancaster OPP detachment to be processed.

"And at the same time we received a complaint from a business establishment in South Lancaster that they had received a bogus $100 U.S. bill on Saturday," Staff Sgt. Jim McWade said.

He said the person who complained gave a description which fit the suspects.

Police say the counterfeit money was of poor quality.

"It wasn't too hard to recognize they're not real," said Sgt. Gord Luloff of the Long Sault OPP detachment.

He added that it is possible that more bills were passed in the region.

Man convicted in murder case

Criminal court in Cornwall sentenced a Summerstown area man to two years less a day in prison after he pleaded guilty to manslaughter to a Jan. 9 murder.

Chief Justice Robert Desmarais placed Travis Todd Varley, 20, on probation for three years, prohibited him from using a firearm for 10 years, ordered him to abstain from drinking or being in possession of alcohol, undergo rehabilitation and to see a psychologist.

The Ontario Provincial Police had originally charged Varley with second degree murder in the shooting death of Andrew Duncan MacDonald, 22.

Varley had pleaded not guilty to the charge, which was later lowered to manslaughter.

The shooting did not appear to have been a result of a conflict. Varley and MacDonald were best of friends.

Alcohol was blamed for the incident.

Man killed in truck crash

An Apple Hill man was killed when he lost control of his pickup truck near MacGillivray's Bridge early Friday morning.

William Cameron, 49, was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. Laszlo Roman of Alexandria.

Cameron was driving a 1989 Chevrolet pickup truck north on Summerstown Road at around 2:30 a.m. when the right-front wheel went onto the shoulder.

Cameron overcorrected and the truck began to skid out of control and roll.

He was thrown out of the truck as it rolled three times and crashed into a ditch.

The truck was demolished.

Police say the road was slippery. It was raining at the time.

Glengarrian to go to Yugoslavia governed by the fighting" in the war-torn country.

Politics will also play a part in the military's role, at least at the global level.

"There's a lot of politics in there right now. They have to be diplomatic."

He hopes the situation will improve in the country, but he is not optimistic.

He compares the civil war in Yugoslavia to the situation in Cyprus three decades ago.

"I hope it changes. I don't expect (it to)," Cameron said of Yugoslavia's war.

"I expect it will be another Cyprus. A long one."

Canadian peacekeepers were sent to Cyprus to keep apart factions in a bloody war there. And after 25 years, Canadian peacekeepers still are sent there to keep the warring sides apart.

Yugoslavia, Cameron envisions, will be the same.

"It'll take a long time to put the hatred aside."

But the Muslims, Serbs and Croats are not his, nor the Canadian military's only concern. There is also concern about what will happen if other countries, such as the United States, get involved in the conflict.

"We don't want people there who are going to start all kinds of trouble," Cameron said.

When he thinks of the American military, he pictures members of the army shooting their own, a battle hazard which has become known as friendly fire.

If UN troops turn Yugoslavia into a shooting match, peacekeeping will be much more difficult for the Canadian troops.

"It means life will be harder for us. They (the warring factions) won't trust us."

"If other people start screwing up, they won't trust anyone."

For now, however, he is enjoying his last few days at home, before his final round of grueling training to prepare for what he will be dealing with on a daily basis in Yugoslavia.

"I can live with it. I got home. I'm happy."

Victoria is a fun place, but it certainly is good to be home, he said.

Rail safety: Still a worry

The tragic death of two people and the injuring of six others after a van collided with a VIA Rail passenger train near Maxville has once again focused attention on the subject of level crossing safety. Unfortunately, it happens only after someone has died, and then, attention recedes, disappears, only to be revived the next time a fatal accident happens at a level crossing.

An inquest has been called, but it is not the first one. Public record shows these hearings, although essential, result in little more than additional gate protection at the crossings in question, or general calls to the public for greater awareness of the hazards of level crossings. As well, in what can only be described as an appropriate comment on the state of the public inquiry business relating to crossing accidents, this inquest isn't likely to begin until sometime very late this year or early next year; the crown attorney's office won't be completed with another inquest into a Finch area car-train collision until November. That's because the Glengarry crown attorney office is understaffed.

It's possible then that the level crossing on Hwy. 138 will not begin to see official public scrutiny for a half year or more. And even then, cantilever arms not likely to be constructed until the spring. That's an unacceptable time frame for the public to wait before action is taken at that well-travelled crossing.

Even if there was virtually no waiting, however, the conditions which invite disasters at other level crossings here and across the country will continue to exist. Trains are not about to slow down — there are strict laws governing their speeds and operating procedure and it's the nature of rail transportation. And to cover all of the unprotected crossings in Canada with protection arms would cost the Canadian public billions of dollars. So only the most chronically dangerous crossings receive the maximum safety devices.

There are questions that still need answering, though. A key one is why the motoring public continues to treat these crossings as little more than four-way crossings. Is it simple distraction, poor driver attention or inadequate driver education at taken-for-granted level crossings? There's no question that drivers have the absolute responsibility to be extra careful at unprotected level crossings. How do public institutions reconcile this?

Another question lies in the seemingly higher than normal rate of collisions involving VIA trains, as opposed to freight or utility trains. Is it the speed, causing horn blasts to be heard too late, the yellow paint on the front of the engines or the relative quiet of the new LRC trains that are a factor? Or is it their frequency?

If these theories play a factor at all, then they need to be addressed thoroughly in a broader sense. Limiting inquiries to the narrow confines of one individual accident will, and has, not solved this ongoing problem. The results of inquiries and the facts behind level crossing accidents all across the country need to be drawn together to form a national solution, once and for all, to these terrible accidents.

Opinions favor deal

If reactions are a reasonable barometer, the new Constitutional proposals — the national recipe for national unity yet to be ratified by national referendum — could well be the solution the country has been seeking.

Consider who is saying what. PQ leader Jacques Parizeau considers it a totally unacceptable package, one more affront to Quebec's aspirations. So does Jean Allaire, the author of the pro-sovereignty report released and adopted by the province's Liberals, and championed by the Young Liberals who grabbed more headlines than the premier himself over their strident support for a sovereign Quebec.

All of the country's premiers, obviously, and the federal government say it's the best solution — not perfect by any stretch — but it's a deal they can live with. The aboriginal people — guaranteed their much prized right to self government — are ecstatic.

Business leaders throughout the rest of Canada are slowly emerging with positive opinions, though there is a characteristic caution. A few academics in the west think the deal stinks, but some high profile western columnists say Don Getty came back with his triple-E — and dignity — intact. Preston Manning says the deal is a sellout.

The pollsters, thankfully, have been temporarily rendered opinionless. The politicians caught them off guard.

The traditional enemies of this country — the separatists, the sovereignists and the opportunists of national division — are spouting rhetoric again, rather than forging unholy alliances with people in power.

Of course, the entire matter has yet to be settled by us — the people, as it always should have been. That will bring its own problems of cost and the risk of further national stress.

But we have a workable compromise that is the first sign of good news Canadians have had on the constitutional front in almost three years.

Welcome to Canada.

Heroics in the farm fields count too

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

Can a farmer be a hero?

Well of course he can, you may be saying; no more or no less than any other person who performs heroic things like leaping into a raging river to save an infant or dragging someone out of a flaming car wreck.

It's true, a farmer can be a hero within that stereotypical definition.

But does he or she qualify if they've done none of these sensational things, nothing more in fact than work hard for the good of farming in general?

I say yes.

Others are not sure. Farmers as heroes? The image doesn't fit. At least, those traditional images promoted by advertising agencies on the tube don't allow them to fit.

Yet, they do.

Glengarry pork producer Marion Myers, wondered about that openly during a friendly chat about a headline we'd printed above an August 19 story, detailing the Glengarry Agricultural Wall of Fame: "Agriculture's heroes to be honored," it said.

Marion didn't necessarily think we used the wrong word, just one that was, well, maybe a little too flashy to describe a modest project aimed at honoring some local contributors to farming.

I expected someone might question that word, heroes, linking it to farmers and the work they do. It is, after all, un-Canadian to acknowledge or even single out people other societies might pigeonhole as legitimate heroes. Add to that the visually unheroic work farmers do, and we've got a paradigm that just doesn't fit, the round peg and the square hole, the "something's wrong with this picture" thing.

Yet, we threw it out there, at the risk of angering wordsmiths throughout our readership or appearing to belittle the contributions of traditional heroes like Billy Bishop, Nancy Greene, Terry Fox or indeed the Canadian soldiers who risk their lives peacekeeping in countries where citizens disdain them.

The dictionary definition provides some support for our use. It describes a hero/heroine as an individual of "distinguished valor, intrepidity, or fortitude; a central or prominent personage in any remarkable action or course of events; a person admired and venerated for his noble deeds or qualities; one invested with heroic qualities in the opinion of others . . ." and it goes on to include the good guy in plays, a type of sandwich, etc.

But we felt the word was justified for better reasons, mostly because farmers are the last people on earth to give themselves credit for anything, least of all for feeding us all, an overwhelmingly underrated activity if ever there was one. Add to that the selfless attitudes of those who work with little or no compensation for the betterment of food production in general, putting hours in for their associations, or hosting and organizing crop field trips, plowing matches, 4-H clubs, Junior Farmers, all the while finding time to innovate, and share their ideas, and, well, I hope you're starting to get the picture.

You may shrug. There's lots of other people in the workforce engaged in all sorts of activities on behalf of their careers. Are they ever given hero status? No, they're not, and maybe they should. But they do not grow food, the fuel we all need to exist. The only other entity doing that is Mother Nature herself, but I don't see a line-up of folks committed to shooting deer, picking roots and berries or catching fish. (Although there's a few fishermen in Lancaster who might debate that last one.)

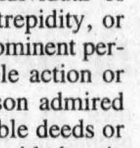
Besides, some of our present-day heroes are too gold-plated to be legit. A professional baseball player throws a no-hitter and is branded as a hero — all the while compensated to the tune of about $500 a pitch, depending on which ace you pick.

Find a farmer, and ask him these days about compensation, and then try to stop him from swallowing his tongue from laughter.

No, as Canadians, we're not so insecure as to label every pursuit's champion as a hero. But surely, when we do trundle them out the odd decade, we can forgive ourselves for spotlighting the people who made a difference in the field, where the future of this country was laid many moons ago.

Examine demolition issue in perspective

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham



There's a little nattering going on in Kenyon Township council, but let's not blow it out of proportion.

This is not, and hopefully will not become, an issue that could become a plank in election platforms. This isn't, at the moment, a scandal, despite the front-page lead placement of the story in the paper two weeks ago.

The story was about the old Apple Hill recreation building, which the township initially planned to renovate with a provincial grant. It was a vintage building and I suppose there were artifacts of sorts that merited saving. In the end, however, it was decided that it would be more prudent to construct an entirely new building, leaving a question about what to do with the old one.

A new councillor, who seems to be very serious about carrying out promises and obligations to the electorate, doesn't like to see old buildings wiped away to make room for new ones.

In fact, he commented that people seem overly willing to bring out the wrecking ball when no one's looking, effectively erasing years of history. He prefers to see ardent efforts to find new uses for old structures.

Many Glengarrians would agree with him — conscientious groups have lately taken to moving school houses all over the county to serve as museums. Truly, this is one of the highest forms of recycling, which, incidentally, Kenyon Township is currently advocating.

When striking the 1992 budget, council allocated $4,000 to tear down the recreation building. But Walker asked that it be advertised for sale to anyone who would move it off the recreation field. Council wrote up a resolution to advertise the building for removal and failing that, to demolish it.

Walker registered a negative vote, because he did not approve of the alternative of demolition.

No one responded to the advertisement but surprisingly, the matter did not come back to council until August, when it was time to pay the contractor who tore the building down in June. The three councillors voted to withhold the payment until it could be determined who exactly ordered the building demolished.

For what it's worth, I feel that someone should have reported to council the fact that no one had responded to the ad, and the next step should have been discussed before being carried out.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance, who is taking most of the heat over this, says the Apple Hill recreation committee approved the demolition. Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig says she told Vallance that since the money had specifically been set aside in the budget for demolition, she was of the opinion that there would be no problem going ahead with it.

This is one of those cases — of course this is only my opinion — where no one is entirely right.

The matter should have been brought back to council, if only as a courtesy. On the other hand, the resolution to demolish the building if no one else wanted it whole, received a majority vote. And the contrac-

Not all value peace, tolerance as in Canada

News to me
by Greg Kielec

Canada has always had a reputation of being a peaceful nation. And it is something many Canadians are very proud of.

That is why, when one of Glengarry's own goes into Yugoslavia with the Canadian military next month, it will be with mixed feelings.

There is a feeling of pride knowing that someone will be bringing, along with valuable military training, his background and upbringing from Glengarry and into another area of cultural diversity.

Glengarry sports a mix of cultures that have functioned together for years. And it is something that makes this county the unique area that it is.

The fact that people of different diverse cultures can get along is something — if not consciously, at least sub-consciously — Lindsay Cameron can bring with his peacekeeping tour.

It is kind of an extra, something on top of the already known and expected Canadian outlook of tolerance and quiet, unassuming modesty.

But there also will be a feeling of apprehension knowing that unlike Canadians, not everyone in the "global community" values peace, tolerance and understanding like we do.

And in Yugoslavia, if such values ever existed, they have been washed away by racial hatred and lusting for power.

It is in situations like this, that one wonders if rational, calm reasoning can prevail. What can be said, what can be done to stop the killing?

With the Canadian military, the strategy has not been one of meeting force with more force. Instead it has been almost by example, encouraging peace through peaceful restraint.

So when one of Glengarry's own goes overseas in October to help hold together a country falling apart in civil war, we can be proud of the fact that he, along with the other 2,400 troops that are going over there, are there in the name of peace, not to make war.

Tabacco white man's nemesis

Letters

To the editor:

Stuart Miller's letter to you suggesting a 50 per cent tax reduction on cigarettes demonstrates Don Quixote is alive and well and Glengarry still has some windmills to tilt at. The governments reduce taxes? Indeed! Where in Europe "years ago" did "they cut taxes and increased revenue?"

No, Stuart Miller, the reality is that you cannot forego the nicotine habit, you haven't the resolution because you, like the governments, are caught up in the Great Nemesis — the ironic revenge of Hiawatha and Dekanawida, the founding statesmen of the League of the Iroquois, later to be known as the Six Nations. Our governments, federal and provincial, cannot reduce taxes for they are busy robbing Peter to pay Paul, taking yours and my money to pay for the terminal cancer you are obligating society and OHIP to finance.

You cannot convince our honorable minister of finance to cut taxes because you are being duped also, and the die is cast. When your ancestors handed out those smallpox-infected blankets to the Indians, when you massacred the Beothuk to extinction, when you slaughtered the millions of Plains bison to deprive the Sarcee of livelihood, that was the moment when the Great Spirits decreed tobacco will be the Indian revenge on the white usurpers. So Stuart Miller, keep smoking, try to offset the ridiculous costs by smuggling, try persuading others to join you in shortening their life by 25 years (that's the figure insurance companies now prorate smokers' premiums) for its all part of the Great Nemesis. Listen carefully as you puff the smoke rings, you'll hear the final laugh of the Indians but you won't even have the choice of lung, bladder or testicular cancer, c whether its to be via an early heart attack.

Yours sincerely,

Don't take volunteers for granted

To the editor:

I am proud of my daughter. She just spent three weeks of her time working to be an Air Cadet in Trenton. As a volunteer to the military system with two years under her belt, she really worked hard to learn the fundamentals of flying.

We took the time (three hours) to drive down to watch her and 3,300 other cadets at the graduation parade to give our support. Our kids could easily be walking the streets; you know what I mean!

When she saw us all there to wave her on, all the time and efforts, whether good or bad, didn't matter: she was proud of herself!

While at the air base during the ceremony I didn't have the heart to tell her that back home at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, she was no longer needed. Have I got your attention? Good!

My daughter was also a volunteer there for 1½ years and put in 200 free hours to the hospital (with no recognition I might add) but could have been with her friends instead. Yes they tried hard to get her out of the Air Cadets and the hospital but she held firmly to work hard at it. Does this sound bad so far? She's only 14.

You see, Glengarry Memorial Hospital rules state that, as far as a Voluntary Candy Striper are concerned, miss three weeks in a row and you're out — period. Before my daughter went to Trenton she informed (and I know that as a fact) members of the system of her mandatory three weeks at the air base. Obviously management didn't register this and the "co-ordinator" (two months service) didn't like this and informed us of her dismissal due to three weeks missing. I even talked to this person and found that she has a bad influence on morale and dampened her spirits to be a volunteer.

Since when do you care (co-ordinator) if a young girl of 14, who gave the hospital 1½ years and air cadets two years of free volunteer time, did all this for a good upbringing and experience? All this co-ordinator could think about was of her own needs — "bodies."

But the story doesn't end here. I met the hospital director three days after my daughter came home from the air base and spoke of this matter. He was good enough to spare some time to go over the situation and assured me he would look into it and even felt there may be something wrong.

Guess what? Two and a half weeks have gone by and there has been no recognition to any of the events from either co-ordinator or director. Is this what a volunteer can expect?

For parents reading this letter, you realize how important it is to direct your young teens into helping others and to obtain reasonable goals. My daughter worked for 1½ years with 200 hours as a volunteer at the hospital, and goes on her yearly duty at the air force base in Trenton then gets kicked out of the hospital because she missed time.

My daughter doesn't know now if giving of herself to a good cause was worth it. The co-ordinator's lack of respect and consideration made that possible and the director not backing the volunteer confirms it. Not even a call!

I say this to all the people receiving free volunteer time, whether from a 14-year-old or an 80-year-old person: "Don't take them for granted." They are there to help serve you and to better themselves.

I am astounded at the management of the Glengarry Memorial Hospital to have treated a 14-year-old volunteer as a nothing. You should be ashamed of yourself.

Sincerely,
Mike Fradette,
Glen Robertson.

Can Canadians afford to re-elect Brian Mulroney?

To the editor:

According to the media, there are 2.3 million Canadians living on welfare, below the poverty line. No doubt many of these people are very capable of making their own living as small business people, but cannot or will not accept the excessive discrimination and political abuse from the federal government. These abuses are fathered by Brian Mulroney and assisted by Otto Jelinek for all small business people in Canada.

Discrimination is illegal, as is political slavery, or more appropriately, political prostitution. The federal government uses its law to force small business people to pay taxes as well as to collect the tax known as GST (Government Squandering Tax) without being able to charge government for doing the collection for them.

One then wonders: why pay Revenue Canada people and politicians? Why aren't they forced to work for government without pay? How about judges and other civil servants?

What the Mulroney government has done is inflict legal discrimination and political prostitution on all small business people in Canada. Why would anyone on welfare want to be demoted to the level of political prostitute? Small business people create the most jobs in this country and would create many more if treated humanely.

There is another reason that 2.3 million Canadians are on welfare. All business people, but particularly small business people, are inconvenienced, abused and legally defrauded on a daily basis by the highly paid Revenue Canada employees.

These abuses are legal under the Income Tax Act, which supersede the Canadian Constitution. Dishonest politicians have kept this secret as well as keeping the abuses of Revenue Canada on small business people secret.

No wonder there are 2.3 million on welfare.

Can Canadians really afford to re-elect this government, especially with it's policy to force small business people to pay money for the privilege of being abused?

tor was willing to do it for $1,500 under what council had budgeted.

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner feels that once something is included in the budget, it's okay to spend the money, particularly if the job is being done for less than the budgeted figure. You can't bring requests for every pencil and eraser back to council; that would lead to a lot of unnecessary bureaucracy, to paraphrase his statement, and he's right.

The clincher is that Walker voted against demolition.

Councillor Gwen Morris wants to see council adopt a policy that council must approve expenditures over a certain amount of money before it's spent, even though it's been written into the budget.

I think it should go further than that. Expenditures should also require council's approval if there has been some question about its worthiness, as was the case here.

Walker is stressing that no one on council has the right to act alone, that it is a decision-making team; team being the key word.

Councillor Blair Williams, one of the three councillors who voted to investigate the matter before the contractor is paid, agreed with Walker but added, the matter has to be put behind council with the focus on constructive ideas on how not to repeat such an incident.

Truly, this matter cannot be allowed to fester and grow to the proportions of the township hall matter.

Caring for Life

VON CANADA

By Dr. George McKiel

Elder Abuse

In a 1990 study conducted by Ryerson School of Nursing in Toronto it was found that almost 100,000 Canadians over 65 have suffered abuse. Glengarry, Cornwall and Dundas follow this statistic and are possibly higher according to Ilise Beigleman of EOHU in Cornwall. It is often difficult to diagnose and, sometimes, the social worker needs several interviews to get a clue for mistreatment is often concealed by the family and the victim. The abused persons are reluctant to report their mistreatment for they may feel humiliated, are afraid of the abuser or even fear jeopardizing the only relationship they have.

The abuse may be verbal and the psychological impact can be soul destroying for both victim and abuser once the pattern is established. And the abuse will continue and worsen. If the abuse is physical, doctors and hospitals can sometimes pick it up by the oddness of injury or bruises unrelated to the injury or other evidence. Abuse is so common that all doctors, nurses and social workers in Glengarry and elsewhere are preceptively aware of its symptoms. Neglect is another form of elderly abuse and this can often be noted by Home Care nurses. In fact the VON nurses are particularly counseled by Patti Gauley, VON supervisor of Alexandria, to be watchful and, if there is suspicion that abuse is occurring, the social worker or police can be notified. However, even care givers or relatives are potentially capable of elderly abuse partly because Glengarry society has attitudes toward the elderly that leave the seniors vulnerable to abuse. Ilise Beigleman says each abuse case is very different and so her team of social workers have to be attuned to recognizing the abuse and then, be adaptive in how to proceed. Often this abuse is financially motivated, the family wants control of the elder's resources. In this event the abused need to be made aware of their rights and can be put in touch with legal aid. Elderly abuse occurs much more often with women simply because they are so much more numerous by virtue of living longer. For older women, caught in the syndrome of elderly abuse, there are alternatives, contact:

Senior women will be admitted, can stay for as long as six weeks, receive counseling, be made aware of services available including legal aid, and most important, be fully protected.

Kenyon ponders capping discretionary spending

Kenyon Township councillors have suggested adopting a policy that will limit the amount of township funds that can be spent without a resolution from council.

The suggestion was spurred by a discussion at the Aug. 25 council meeting, about paying a contractor hired to demolish the old Apple Hill recreation building, a move that became a controversy when councillors voiced opposition to the fact that it had not been approved by a resolution from council.

During the Aug. 11 meeting, some councillors said they believed that even though $4,000 had been set aside in the budget to dispose of the township-owned building, the whole of council should have approved the actual work before it was done.

Councillor Gwen Morris told council she wants a resolution to set a policy, that decisions by anyone to spend more than a yet-to-be-determined amount of money must be approved by council.

Councillor Blair Williams agreed. "Maybe we should look into it and come forward with a policy. If people think we can set a budget and then go on holiday and the money can be spent by person "X" . . ."

But Deputy Reeve Donald Besner disagreed, saying that he believed that council's approval is not necessary as long as the expenditures do not exceed what has been allocated in the budget. He added, it would take more time and money if every time township employees wanted to spend money they had to get council's permission.

Councillor Owen Walker replied, "Are you saying that if there is an allocation of $50,000 for fuel oil, someone on council can go anywhere and issue a contract with them?"

Besner responded that in such a case, tenders would be called for.

In the end, council agreed to release the $2,500 payment to the contractor. But the resolution was not passed until after councillors, who Aug. 11 voted to withhold the payment until after an investigation as to who authorized demolition could be carried out, had their say.

Councillor Owen Walker, who has always opposed the demolition of the building, reiterated that he believed council had not followed the proper procedure before the recreation building was torn down. He said he believed the contractor should have been hired with the approval of the entire council, which should have determined the contractor's fee and the destination of materials taken from the building.

"I would urge everyone involved in this matter to ensure that in the future we do adhere to proper procedure in the discharge of our duties," said Walker.

Williams said he doesn't want to lose touch with township money just because it's allocated in the budget.

"The inconvenience of democracy is that you set the budget and come back. I wouldn't want to let that argument pass. We should follow certain procedures and processes," said Williams, adding, "Sometimes it's a matter of judgment. I can easily see how this decision (to hire a contractor) was made. But we should put it behind us."

Council still standing ground on engineering fee

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria council is still refusing to back down in an engineering fee dispute with the developer of Ottawanne subdivision.

And paperwork is piling up in the dispute which has seen close to a dozen letters exchanged between Alexandria and Ottawanne lawyer Thomas Swabey since April last year.

The two sides have been embroiled in a dispute since late 1990 over who should pay about $16,000 fees charged by an engineer hired by the town to inspect work at Jean Clement's Ottawanne subdivision.

Reeve Bruno Massie urged council last Tuesday to stick with its original decision that the Ottawanne developer pay the $16,000, which comprises half of the first engineering bill in question and whatever other bills that are outstanding.

"I think he should pay," he said while the remainder of council members remained awkardly silent.

The town has received legal advice backing up its claim that Clement is obligated to pay the engineering fees. But the wrangling by letter between Clement's lawyer and the town has continued.

Clerk Leo Poirier said if the bills are not paid by the time Clement's $50,000 bond for his work is due to be released, whatever is owed will be held back from the bond.

He said he does not think the town will take the matter to court, but if Swabey follows through his threat, that may be where it will end up.

Council threatened in a July 23 letter to use the $50,000 bond to pay the disputed fees, which resulted in a threat of legal action from Swabey.

"Any attempt by the Town of Alexandria to exercise, as you (Clerk Leo Poirier) put it, your option of using the security bond to clear these accounts will result in immediate legal proceedings being taken," Swabey said in a July 24 letter.

Since that exchange, Clement has paid half of the disputed first invoice and two other invoices in full, for a total of $4,126. Clement made the payment at the town office Aug. 4.

In paying the bills, Swabey said Clement is not admitting he is responsible for the fees charged by the town's developer.

He said in a July 30 letter the move was a "goodwill gesture in accordance with Mr. Clement's undertaking given to the mayor at his meeting with the mayor on May 25, 1992 towards a settlement of this matter."

But council is waiting for two other invoices totalling about $6,000 to be paid.

The disputed fees are for services by engineering firm Greer Galloway Group, hired to review development plans by Clement's engineering firm Desjardins-Lascelle.

The town hired Galloway to get an independent assessment of the Ottawanne development after learning Desjardin-Lascelle, a firm which the town had been using as a consultant, was working for Clement on the subdivision.

The town made the decision to hire Greer Galloway after it became aware of problems in the subdivision plans regarding elevations and street widths.

At one point in the beginning of the fee dispute the town's planning committee recommended the town simply write off the $16,000 in fees. But council decided against the recommendation.

The town and developer have been at a virtual stalemate since both sides retained lawyers, with each claiming their interpretation of the dispute is the correct one.

Two people were injured in a car accident on Highway 417 Sunday morning when the car they were in rolled in a ditch.

Fai Li, 22, of Toronto, was sent to a Hawkesbury hospital for minor injuries.

The car's driver, Sam Yeung, 20, of San Fransisco, Calif., received lighter injuries which did not require hospitalization.

Yeung was driving a 1992 Jetta, owned by Li, east on the highway near Highway 34 when the car swerved onto the median and smashed into a ditch.

The car was demolished.

Yeung was charged with careless driving.

Youth injured

A 15-year-old male was injured in a vehicle accident in Charlottenburgh Township Saturday morning.

The truck, being driven by Donald Bartsch, 46, of Martintown, drove off the road and Bartsch overcorrected, losing control of the vehicle.

He was charged with failing to drive in a marked lane.

The truck was moderately damaged.

Impaired driving

Police slapped three charges against a Cornwall woman in connection with an accident near Lancaster Village.

Penny Brazeau, 29, was charged with impaired driving, driving in excess of 80mg of alcohol in her blood and driving while prohibited.

She was driving a 1988 Mercury west on the south service road of Highway 401 at around 10:30 p.m. when she failed to negotiate a curve and hit a fence.

The car was moderately damaged.

Massage therapists come to Alexandria

Local women arrange appointments at clients' workplace

By Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

Goodbye company picnic. So long Christmas bonus. Adios complimentary bottle of bubbly.

Hello, massage.

There's a new girl in town and she's giving a whole new meaning to the words "company perks."

Her name is Sibylle Aalders-Smith and she's one of two registered massage therapists about to hang out a shingle in Alexandria. The other, but not the least, is well-known Alexandrian Chloe-Ann Baker.

And if you let them, they'll rub you the right way.

I guess it's either feast or famine.

I mean, I would have given almost anything for a shoulder and back massage in recent months. It's been a tough year.

But Baker and Aalders-Smith knew that. They could feel it in the tension in my neck Friday morning, when they came by The Glengarry News office to tell me a little about their new businesses and, of course, to give me a sample of the ambrosia they'll be offering to clients.

I didn't have to remove any clothing or lie down, or even get up from my desk. They barely messed my coiffure.

For Aalders-Smith, this is the way some of her massage therapy will be done.

It's called "on-site" and it simply means that she'll come right into the workplace and give you a 15-minute to half-hour massage at your desk or in the coffee room, if that's convenient.

It sounds peculiar, but it's a trend that's catching on, and it's often the company that foots the bill for employees' on-site massages.

While employees feel it in their backs and necks, employers feel it in their ledgers. Some companies claim a drastic decrease in the time employees have taken off for work-related injuries.

Baker plans to focus more on 'therapeutic' massage for treatment of various conditions including mild headaches, migraines, whiplash, tendonitis and flat feet, only to name a few.

She plans to work out of Alexandria, Hawkesbury and Cornwall.

Both women plan to offer hydrotherapy — therapy using ice or water at varying temperatures.

And both women agree there is a negative stigma connected with massage; it's thought of as being something illicit that's done in the dark back rooms of 'spas', or perhaps as a luxury, something that only rich people can afford.

Not so.

Today, many non-goverment extended health care plans offered by insurance companies offer coverage for $100 to $1,000 of massage therapy.

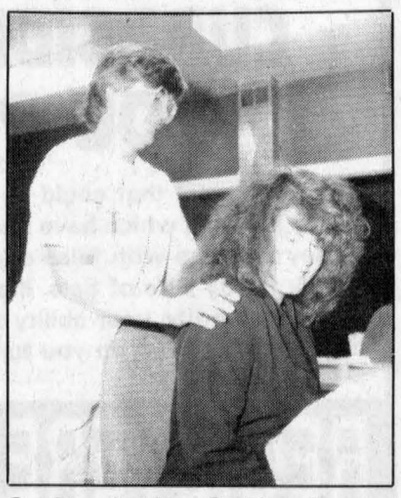
They're finding out that in the long-run, paying a little now will help them save a lot later.

Massage therapists fall into the category of alternative medicine, as do chiropractors. Both are regulated by the Drugless Practitioners Act.

People tend to underestimate the importance of the health of their bodies.

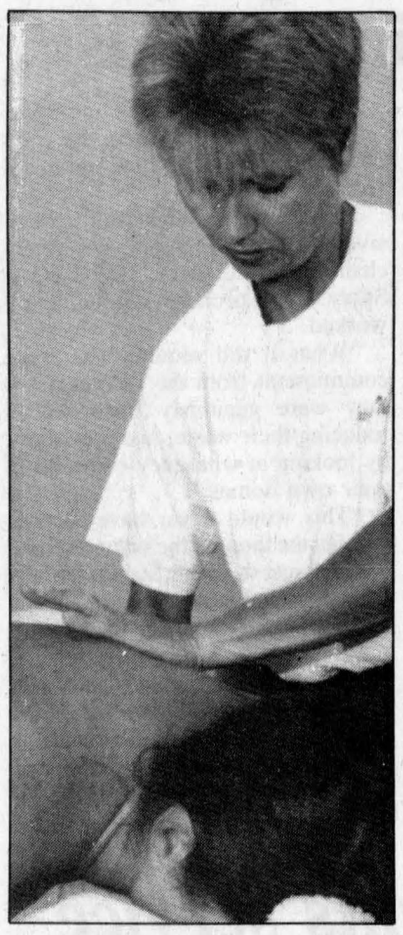
"What is life if you don't have your health?"

"People go out and spend money on dinner, drinking and smoking, and they should take a more serious look at their health, because if they don't have anything," says Baker.



Sybille Aalders-Smith gives a demonstration to News reporter Lesley Cadham of on-site massage therapy she will be providing to Alexandria and area residents.

The therapists say massage — the manupulation of soft tissue — improves health by relieving stress, aches and pains and headaches caused by muscle tension and even "cleanses our systems" by kneading away accumulations of waste and toxins in our bodies.



Chloe-Ann Baker gives a demonstration of massage therapy at her office at McMillan and Howes Real Estate in Alexandria.

It can improve blood circulation by 20 per cent, they claim.

Massage therapy, can have far-reaching effects in making us feel better, both physically and mentally, particularly in these times, when we are fraught by economical problems and living in a society that does not encourage humans to touch each other to show friendship.

"People aren't used to be touched," says Baker. "You hug someone and it's like 'Oh my gosh, don't touch me.'

"People should be hugged 10 times a day. Touch is very therapeutic and people don't realize just how therapeutic.

"Massage therapy cures sometimes, relieves often and comforts always."

Aalders-Smith agrees.

"The whole essence of life is to touch each other. Touching and hugging children makes them more responsive.

"If you tell someone you're sympathetic, they may not feel it. Touch their arm, and it really brings the point across."

This isn't a case of 'have shingle, will travel.'

Baker and Aalders-Smith are both recent graduates from recognized schools that teach massage therapy, and both are registered massage therapists with the Board of Directors of Masseurs, appointed by the Ministry of Health.

Both are required to wear a photo identification card and to hang their certificates, not unlike that received by doctors, in their workplaces.

For Baker, who studied at the D'Arcy Lane Institute of Massage Therapy in London, Ont., getting her licence meant two years of studying and training.

Aalders-Smith completed the program at the Canadian Institute of Massage and Hydrotherapy at Sutton West in 18 months.

The programs included the same courses necessary for pre-medical students such as neurology, pathology, and osteology, as well as many courses in massage therapy itself.

Both therapists are quick to remind people that they will not take the place of family doctors, but rather, hope to work with them.

"We don't diagnose. We make our own analysis and we take the doctor's diagnosis. We are not doctors," says Baker.

As of Sept. 1, Baker can be reached at 525-5312. Aalders-Smith can be contacted at 525-4240.

Residents can learn about waste system

Kenyon Township residents who want to know more about the municipality's new waste disposal system can get their fill at a public meeting later this month.

Township council has set Sept. 28 — the second day of Ontario Waste Reduction Week — to talk to residents about what they can expect when the township begins house-to-house pickup of garbage and recyclable goods.

Last week, council adopted a waste management policy designed with flexibility in mind.

Councillor Blair Williams presented the policy, stressing that "people adversely affected by the new policy will not be ignored," and that there will be an appeals process for people who feel they cannot use the system. Williams said it was possible that large families may find it difficult to stay within the waste disposal limit of two bags of garbage per week.

"We have to think about all the concerns ordinary people will have. We have to look at the concern that we're adding to their taxes and taking away their right to go to the dump."

Generally, the policy states pickup will take place once a week, the cost of which will be recovered through taxes. And though a charge will not be applied to vacant lots, it will be applied to each dwelling. If there are two dwellings on one property, owners will pay for both dwellings.

Special garbage bags issued only by the township will replace the passbooks residents have been using for the last couple of years. The bags, which will probably be blue, cannot be purchased by the general public in stores, said Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig.

Traditional green garbage bags will not be collected during house-to-house pickup.

The policy also states that the waste disposal sites will be open one day a week, and on alternating Saturdays. Tipping fees for large items will be collected by the custodian at the waste disposal site. Composting will be encouraged.

The township plans to retain only one of two custodians currently employed at the waste disposal sites; there won't be a need for two custodians since the sites would not be open on the same days, and only open for a total of three days each week.

Private contractors who pick up garbage house-to-house in the township will probably lose their Kenyon customers, council said; only one contractor hired by the township will collect waste.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Apple Hill Recreation Centre.

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The regular meeting of Kenyon Township council was held at the township hall in Greenfield on Tuesday, Aug. 25 at 7:30 p.m. The following are among items dealt with by council.

Property standards coming

Kenyon Township residents may see the adoption of the new property standards bylaw as early as October.

Councillor Blair Williams, council's representative for the committee elected to formulate the bylaw, said the committee had been "terrific," was moving ahead quickly and would probably have a proposed bylaw in council's hands at the beginning of September.

A six-member committee, elected at a public meeting in April has been working on a bylaw that will set standards for the exteriors of homes and properties in the township.

Conc. 6 not forgotten

Kenyon Township Conc. 6 residents who anticipate a rough road ahead this winter may be able to look forward to a smoother ride.

Soil testing on the west portion of the concession road has been completed, reported Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig; the township can now seek quotations for the upgrading and resurfacing of the west four kilometers.

Some council members said they had receive telephone calls from ratepayers anxious to see the work done. Councillor Gwen Morris voiced concern that time is running out to carry out the job this year, however other council members were confident that the job can be accomplished.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance raised the point that the township couldn't do any work until the soil testing had been completed.

Council will call a special meeting to approve a contractor for the $130,000 job.

Accepts Legion assets

Kenyon Township agreed to accept the assets of the disbanded Apple Hill Legion after legionnaires addressed council with the offer.

Apple Hill Legion president Lorne Hall and Zone Commander George O'Dair attended the meeting to offer the building, an old school house moved from Frog Hollow in the 1950s, the land on which it now sits in Apple Hill, and "some" cash to the township. In return, the township would be responsible for caring for the cenotaph.

Township may employ unemployed

People collecing unemployment insurance benefits may be able to clean up in Kenyon Township.

The township gave Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig the green light to apply for funding for Section 25, an Employment and Immigration program that pays recipients of unemployment insurance, to work.

Section 25 employees may be hired to plant trees and buffer zones, trim vegetation and clean up roadways.

May move schoolhouse

The Dunvegan Pioneer Museum may have a new addition to its collection of vintage buildings, Councillor Blair Williams reported to council.

Williams, council's representative on the museum board, said the board of directors wants to acquire the old Spring Creek School at Kirk Hill, and has been collecting funds to pay for the building's transport.

The board is also looking to acquire more land to enlarge the museum grounds, he said.

Maxville waste project interests Minneapolis

Garbage is garbage, whether it's from Kenyon Township's Village of Maxville or Minneapolis, Minnesota.

So says SD&G Waste Study Co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray, who recently received an inquiry from Minneapolis about the Kenyon/Maxville Waste Reduction Pilot Project run two years ago by Public Liaison Committee volunteers from the former Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan.

The project, involving 25 volunteer families from Maxville and Kenyon, involved measuring garbage produced for a week before and after waste reduction was practised.

The participants succeeded in reducing their garbage by about half, using composting and smart shopping.

Minneapolis became interested, says MacGillivray, after reading about the project in a major American waste management magazine.

"It's the little project that grew, I guess," laughs MacGillivray.

"It's amazing to still be getting inquiries about it. Pat Ager, the chair of the pilot project, ran a smart, effective event."

"This wasn't a high tech, expensive thing," says Ager, now vice-chair of the PLC for the SD&G Waste Study. "It was cheap, simple, and it worked."

"What it did require was some commitment from the volunteers — they were genuinely interested in reducing their waste, and they did it by looking at what they could do in their own homes."

"This would never have worked without the thought the volunteers put into it. I just wish our Ministry of the Environment would get as interested in it."

Minneapolis is interested in actually being able to measure waste reduction, says MacGillivray, and the Maxville/Kenyon project did that.

"We look forward to seeing how they get along with our "made-in-Kenyon" project!"

She will be going home Monday. They also visited Rosemary Jardin who is presently in the Hotel Dieu in Cornwall. Both patients are recovering nicely.

Lorna Chapman and Muriel Moore sang a duet at the Lancaster Knox United Church on Sunday, Aug. 30. They were accompanied at the piano by Liette Butrym. Ken Roach of Alexandria was guest soloist. He sang three beautiful selections while playing the guitar.

The choir was piped in and out of the church by a young and talented piper Ian Robertson of Bainsville. A hymn sing after the service was followed by a delightful meal at the Bourdeau's Barbecue for the choir.

Bridal shower surprises

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

Congratulations and best wishes to Lori and Mark Prendergast, Newington, on the birth of their son Dylan MacGregor August 26, 8 lbs. 10 ozs. Proud grandparents are David and Shirley MacGregor, Maxville, Rick and Audrey Prendergast, a great grandson for Florence McNaughton and Marion Fox.

A gathering of friends and neighbors met in the Gordon Church hall, St. Elmo, Tuesday evening August 25 for a miscellaneous bridal shower in honor of Allison Pearl Arkinstall of Athol.

The guests were greeted at the door by Susan Arkinstall, sister of the bride-to-be. Agnes Campbell welcomed all the guests to the gathering which included Muriel Shannon, mother of the groom-to-be. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink, white and pale blue bells, streamers and lacy pink bows.

With music on the bagpipes by Lynn MacGillivray the bride-to-be was escorted to the seat of honor by Agnes Campbell. Laurie (Phillips) Arkinstall pinned a corsage on the honored guest. Susan Arkinstall read the address to the bride and presented her with a beautiful bride's book done by her sister Cathy Brooks.

Many lovely gifts were presented to Allison, which the guests who were present viewed with interest and pleasure. Melissa McIntosh sang a love song, entitled "The time we had together" and Lindsay McIntosh also entertained the guests with Scottish dances.

Following words of appreciation by the bride-to-be, refreshments were served from a lovely buffet table and a social time was enjoyed by all.

School sights return

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

The banana buses are back; the pumpkin car, too. Yes, school has started for yet another season. This year, however, there is a difference. For the first time (ever?), schools in the public system have opened before Labor Day, and to some people, it just doesn't feel right.

Labor Day has traditionally been the last day of summer, the day for final fun at the cottage before the wharf comes in, the last gathering of family before fall. Somehow, this year, it was hard to muster up those same feelings of regret (at summer's passing) mingled with excitement (at the thought of new shoes, new teachers, new classmates) on an ordinary Monday.

But some of the separate schools have had early starts for several years now, and considering the non-existence of our summer this year, perhaps it's not altogether a bad thing.

It certainly wasn't difficult to wake up in time for school this morning. The cavalcade of assorted heavy vehicles making their way to the Lancaster Road re-construction job, measured 6.9 on the house-shaking scale, for those of us lucky enough to live on their direct route. And all this before 7 a.m.!

The cavalcade of assorted students on their way to school presented a much nicer picture. New clothes (can it be that corduroy is making a come-back?), new hairdo's, and shiny morning faces — the unmistakable back-to-school look. And was anyone late for the first day of school? There appeared to be no pedestrian stragglers, but it was nip and tuck for a blue van, and definitely tuck for one lagging bus.

Names of new teachers and enrolment statistics should be available by next week. In the meantime, best wishes to all students and staff at our three Williamstown schools for a very good year.

In contrast to last week's report of festivities, this column is a difficult one to write. For in the space of one short week, three local families were bereaved of loved ones.

Garry Hill, son of Jim and Laura Hill died suddenly in Churchill, Manitoba, just days before he was to have come home for a visit. Our sincere sympathy goes out to the Hills and their remaining children.

One of Williamstown's most well-known and respected citizens, Clark McDonell, passed away Aug. 26. Clark was a long time area farmer, and was an honorary member of the session at St. Andrew's Church. He contributed much to the community during his lifetime.

Funeral services at St. Andrew's on Saturday were conducted by Rev. Arty Van Bruchem, with Deacon Kerry McDonald giving the eulogy.

Condolences are offered to Eileen, and to Robert, Doug, Bruce, Pam, Penny, and families.

The accidental death of Billy Cameron last Friday, shocked us all. Though not from Williamstown, Billy was well-known in the community. Our sympathy goes out to Cheryle, Lori and Jackie, Dean and Todd, at this most difficult time.

Registration for minor hockey, broomball, and figure skating, takes place anytime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Mon. to Fri. at Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, or on Sat., Sept. 12 from 9 until 2 p.m., also at the arena.

You would think the thrill of becoming grandparents might diminish with each successive grandchild, but it is not so. Marg and Don Laplante's tenth grandchild was born recently, and they are very pleased, indeed.

Mary Margaret Courtney is the daughter of Brenda and Don Courtney, now living in Orangeville, and is a little sister for Adam and Cameron.

Congratulations to you all!

The South Branch of the Glengarry Cancer Society invites you to a Tea and Bake Sale to be held on Saturday, Sept. 12, from 2-4 p.m. at Irvine Hall in Williamstown.

Back to the books applies to more than just our students, these days. Librarians Barbara Stones and Sue Harrington have also returned to the books after a two week holiday from duties at the Williamstown Branch of the SD&G County Library.

Wednesday evening hours (6:30-8:30 p.m.) will continue as long as there is a demand, and parents who are tired of children cutting up their favorite magazines in search of fodder for projects, will be delighted to learn that the library has a large supply of magazines for just such purposes.

A flashback from fair time, although it isn't exactly old news. You may have noticed two winners among the many prize-takers at the fair, and you may have wondered just how to get hold of their wares.

Potter Peter Hamilton's creations are now available for sale at Mother's Cupboard in Lancaster. And so are Thelma Dupuis' pies! Thelma was the winner of the Five Roses' Pie Bake-Off, while Peter tied with Pat Lindsay for the most points in the pottery class.

And now an apology - a very embarrassing apology - regarding last week's column. Let me try to exhonerate myself by saying that last Tuesday was "one of those days." Believe it or not, I began my writing early in the morning, but by 5 p.m. I still had not finished. Interruptions poured down on me like rain on the Williamstown Fairgrounds, smashing thoughts and ideas, and carrying off fragments of news items, replacing them with errors. All this is to say, that had I had my mind on what I was doing, I would never, ever had said that MacNaughton and Joyce Cumming lived on the 4th Concession, or that they were celebrating their 50th anniversary. They do, in fact, live on the 2nd Concession, and were celebrating their 40th anniversary.

My apologies to the Cummings and all involved in the celebration of their big event.

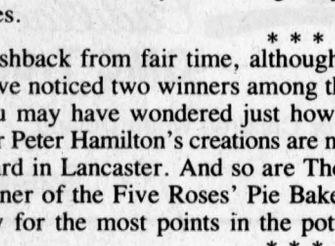
Also, the reason this column is not written in Gaelic is not because I didn't learn how at the big day at the Bethune-Thompson House on Saturday. It's because I couldn't attend! I'm certain the day was successful, and no doubt I'll be able to pass along some stories to you next week.



Onagh Ross honored

Martintown

Martintown and District Horticultural Society

Onagh Ross finally received a just reward for devoting much of her life to the promotion of gardening. Ross Conners OHA District Director presented Onagh with the Ontario Horticulture Association's highest award, the "Silver Trillium."

The silver brooch, in the shape of two trilliums is presented annually to the woman who has given "outstanding service" in the area of horticulture.

Onagh became involved with the horticultural society 26 years ago, becoming its first secretary. In order to keep the Martintown and District Branch together over those 26 years Onagh at one time held six executive positions in the same year.

Onagh was flabbergasted and speechless with her presentation but thanked Ross Conners and the members saying "without this group behind me, I wouldn't have received this award, many thanks."

This Glengarry native grew up on a farm in Martintown, and as part of doing chores was expected to work in the vegetable garden. Onagh remembers receiving a package of aster seeds to grow for the school fair. "That was my first attempt at growing flowers."

Onagh holds a special love for the junior members and has guided and taught so many over the years. She is guest speaker at numerous groups and organizations promoting horticulture and also judges many a flower show around the area.

The annual Flower and Vegetable Show was held Thursday, Aug. 20 in the community centre. Some 80 to 100 persons passed through to view and admire the entries from the members' gardens.

The highest number of points in all classes was won by Linda Brunet and second highest number of points, Sylvia Thomson; and new exhibitor with the highest points went to Kathy Ann MacLennan.

The lawns were judged on Tuesday, Aug. 18 and First Prize for a Village Lawn went out to Elizabeth Peters and second to Charlotte Sansom. Country Lawn was won by Joann Van Loon and second by Kathy Ann MacLennan. Farm Lawn was won by Sylvia Thomson and second by Alison Murray. Garden around a Country Mailbox went out to Sylvia Thomson, while Flower Bed or Border went out to first — Lynden Urquhart and second to Sylvia Thomson. Impatiens Bed was won by Eugenie Rossel. The Veranda Box was won by Kathy Ann MacLennan and second Lynden Urquhart. The Spring Flower Beds were judged in June and the first prize went out to Helva Sandner, second to Peggi Birch and third to Jean Butler.

Elizabeth Peters the Society president, invited anyone wishing to go on a little viewing tour of the winning gardens, meet at her house at 12:30 on Sat., Aug. 22 and then back to her place for some lemonade, after the tour. From all reports this was so thoroughly enjoyed it will be an annual event.

The society wishes to thank the following contributors towards the prizes for the annual Flower Show: The Bank of Nova Scotia, MacDonell's Landscaping, Barker Fuels, Dr. Ian MacNaughton, Beautyrock Inc., Marlin's Orchards, Brownies' Steak House, Pearl and Marland Murray, Clarence McDonald Exc. Ltd., Joe and Sadie O'Keefe, Cornwall Co-Op, Quinn's Inn, Dominion Seed, Rockwood Gardens, Don Ross Services, Rozon Insurance, Home Hardware, St. Hubert's BBQ, Johnny Mac's Tavern, Ruth and Donald Smith, Margaret Kennedy, Toronto Dominion Bank, Len's Farm Machinery, and Whittaker Bros.

Next meeting is Wednesday, Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Centre, with guest speaker Master

OIL CHANGE SPECIAL

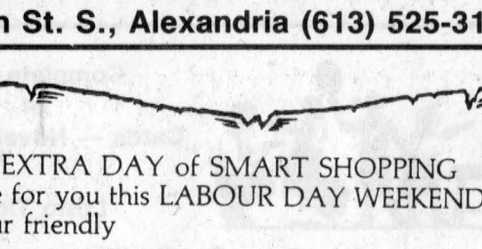
For most cars and light trucks
21.95
With FREE 10-Point Mechanical Inspection



Compare a Genuine Toyota Oil Filter to other oil filters.

When it comes to taking on a dirty job, nothing outperforms a Genuine Toyota Oil Filter. Just compare these quality features to those of the competition:

- Unique, crystal element constructed with a thick, double layer of high heat-resistant paper to increase the filter area and prevent premature clogging and the passage of unfiltered oil.
- High heat-resistant rubber silicone check valve reduces drainback into the oil pan and ensures that adequate oil is delivered on start-up.
- Rubber silicone base gasket ensures a positive seal by maintaining a fixed level of compression that is unaffected by heat or cold.

When you put all these superior features together they add up to greater performance and an oil filter that lasts up to 50% longer. So don't be mislead by claims that one oil filter is as good as the next. Come to your Toyota dealer and ask for the genuine thing.

Onagh Ross honored for garden contributions

Gardener "Barbara Rochfort" telling us all we want to know about growing herbs. Prizewinners that weren't special categories given out at the flower show will receive their prize monies at this meeting.

I'm running out of time, so I will report our Junior Awards next week, as I would like to do it the justice it deserves. They had a great participation and really worthwhile results under the leadership of Karen Kinloch. (Along with anything else I missed).

The Glengarry South Branch, Charlottenburgh and Lancaster Townships of the Canadian Cancer Society find their contributions have been down this year (as like other branches). Because of lack of funds, some projects currently under way may need to be cancelled. So the Glengarry South Branch has decided to help their cause and will hold a tea and bake sale, and a quilt display, Sept. 12 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Andrew's United Church Hall in Williamstown.

Donations and customers are needed for this worthwhile project. The church hall is the separate building at the rear of the church. There will be a wedding at the church that day and it would be appreciated if we would park near the hall instead of on the street.

Please say a prayer for Stuart Buchan and his family. Stuart suffered a stroke Aug. 19. Stuart was first taken to Alexandria, when a friend passing on the road realized he was in trouble (as Stuart was on his way to work). He was transferred to Cornwall, then flown to Ottawa and was brought back to Cornwall General late last week. He is coming along slowly and visitors are limited to family only at this time.

We have enjoyed Jill Foster, a student Minister for the Presbyterian Church, and Mac Robertson a lay preacher from Bainsville over the last two weeks at St. Andrew's United. Our church is open to visitors with service at 11 a.m. each week.

Jean MacIntosh was honored to have Lynda Heinsma visit with her Sunday as Lynda had gone to high school with Mac Robertson and wanted to hear him conduct our service. I'm sure she was not disappointed. After church they had a lovely lunch at Quinn's Inn.

May I extend my many thanks to the United Church Ladies for all their donations and hard work in the helping of the very successful banquet Saturday, Aug. 29 at the church hall. The plowing match group were more than pleased with our efforts.

Jennifer MacLachlan would like to thank Karen and Henry Kinloch and Helen and Don Thomson for all their help and support with allowing their pools to be part of the Red Cross Swimming Program.

Jennifer had 140 students with 40 from Martintown in her program.

A big thank you goes out to you Jennifer for all your devoted work with the children. Adn our wishes go out to you for a successful year in your studies at Trent University.

39'ers hold birthday party

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

We have certainly been lucky here in Glengarry recently! Imagine having to shovel out your walkways in August! Over a foot of snow out west certainly makes one think that winter is closer than we realized. Then there's Andrew!

Friday, we got the tail-end of that "storm," and can't we be really thankful that we didn't have to face that terrible damage that those poor folks in Florida had to cope with from a hurricane? We hear about earthquakes of .5 on the Richter scale in places, and we get a few tremors at times. Famines, deaths from starvation and grave illnesses, wars and upheavals are going on all over the world; but here in Glengarry, we seem to have the best of all things. No floods, no war, no snow and none of the other dire happenings that have overtaken so many other spots on our globe. We have so much to be thankful for, and much to share with the victims of disasters elsewhere; I know kind hearts will be opened to those who need help, here or wherever it is needed.

We are told to be thankful in all things but it must surely be difficult under those stressful circumstances. Please join the many who are praying for the victims worldwide.

The Labor Day hymn-sing at Glen Sandfield United Church will be held on Sept. 6 at 8 p.m. There will be violin music before the service, so come 10 or 15 minutes early. This year the Glengarry Gaelic Choir will be singing and there will be other special music. Frank Hamilton has accepted our invitation to join us. Bring your voices, your smiles and your expectations for a most pleasant musical evening service and we think that you won't be disappointed. There will be a free-will offering. Do stay for refreshments afterward

At the McCrimmon WI family evening concert recently, the beautiful Maple Leaf quilt was won by Maureen MacDonald of Alexandria; second prize of a Kirstad painting went to Eileen MacGillivray and the two lovely handmade Maple Leaf cushions went to Christine Urquhart and Margaret McDonald. There were many other door prizes given out that evening, too numerous to mention, but our congratulations certainly are extended to all the lucky winners.

The 39'ers are reminded that there will be a special presentation on Sept. 2, at the St. Raphael's Parish Hall, of a video from the Ontario Heart and Stroke Association. Dr. Poole will speak afterwards on "Stroke." The time is 7:30 p.m., and it would be to seniors advantage to try to go and attend this enlightening talk. Your very health could depend on it! That's Sept. 2 — 8 p.m., at St. Raphael's Parish Hall.

Happy birthday wishes go out to Bessie MacLennan and many happy returns of the day from all of your many, many friends.

The 39'ers presented a birthday party at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria on Tuesday evening, Aug. 25. There were eight celebrants at that time, and Mrs. Ida Legault attended, celebrating her 103rd birthday. The Tuesday night violin class, accompanied by Lloyd MacCuaig, entertained with several lively tunes to start the program. Then the 39'ers Singers made their debut, singing several lively old favorites. Lorna Chapman sang Just a Spoonful of Sugar and Glengarry My Home. Jane Wightman, accompanied by Pat Hauser, sang Road to the Isles. The "Singers" returned to sing again, accompanied once more by Bessie MacLennan and the violinists came back for their last set and stayed for the two birthday songs. They kindly entertained while the cake and juice were being served. On leaving the room, celebrants were given their birthday card and "cup of fudge."

Sincere thanks must be extended to all those who participated and especially to the Singers who will we hope, be the basis for a small choir. It was nice to hear the two men's voices blending in with those of the women. Thanks, too, to the Nursing Home staff who always gather the residents, furnish fruit punch and assist in any way possible.

Parapalegic concentrates on success

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Parapalegic Roderick Tyo spent five years in a wheel chair feeling useless.

Then he joined the Glengarry support and lobby group Freedom After Disability a year and a half ago and decided to change his own life for the better.

And it has worked. Tyo now has a job.

For the past four weeks, Tyo has been working at the MacEwen gas station on Kenyon Street in Alexandria where he pumps gas, does regular maintenance chores, and sometimes works on cars.

This job is part of a program he is enrolled in at the T.R. Leger Alternative School, where he is taking courses towards his Grade 12 diploma.

He got the job on his own.

"I came here one day to get my car fixed and I saw (the mechanic) go from under my car to outside to pump gas," Tyo said.

"I said 'I could do it for you.'"

The mechanic, Yves Lamoureux, who is also Tyo's friend, hired him on the spot.

"I didn't hesitate 'cause I know he's quite competent," Lamoureux said.

"He does more than just pump gas."

Tyo has already had experience with mechanics.

The 20-year-old father of two young children did body work on two vans.

Tyo said he is learning a lot at the garage, but his real passion lies in carpentry.

He said he is already qualified to start work as a full-time carpenter now, but wants to continue with school and his part-time job at the garage as a back-up.

Three is lucky number for county soccer royalty as "D" word creeps into GSL vocabulary

Andy Meth leads the charge as Glen Nevis shoots down Stars

After seeing Glen Nevis run roughshod over the Stars' defence in the last two games of the Glengarry Soccer League men's final, it's hard to believe that Carman MacMillan's troops had the defending champs down on the mat in the second half of Game Two.

Already up 1-0 in the series, the Stars were up 4-2 and minutes away from being two-thirds of the way to dethroning Glen Nevis as the top dogs in the Glengarry soccer world.

Glen Nevis then proceeded to shake off rigor mortis by scoring four consecutive goals to win 6-4 and overall outscored Glengarry 16-5 the rest of the way to become the first men's senior club since the mid-80's Greenfield Marauders to win three titles in a row.

Andy Meth was the primary figure in Glen Nevis' offensive explosion, scoring three goals in Game Two, two in the third game and then three more in the series finale.

The former league MVP scored goals in every way imaginable - beating defenders on the wing and up the middle, chipping in rebounds or just simply outrunning everyone to the ball.

But Meth outdid himself in the first half of Game Three, taking control of the ball on the right side of the Stars goal area, dribbling the ball past three defenders while cutting across the crease and then kicking the ball past beleaguered Stars goalie Pierre Roman.

On the other end of the field, the Stars were unable to put sustained pressure on the Glen Nevis goal as Sheldon MacDougall continually snuffed Stars' attacks and cleared the zone with booming kicks.

Joey McRae was no slouch defensively either.

Series recap

Besides Meth's three goals, Findlay MacLeod, Glen Campbell and Dean Poirier also scored for Glen Nevis in Game Two.

For the Stars, Robert Meth netted a pair while Lyndon McNaughton and Brian Cameron had one goal each.

On Friday, Glen Nevis cruised to a 6-2 win as Dean Poirier, Phil Poitras, Findlay MacLeod and Glen Campbell added single goals to Andy Meth's two-goal effort.

Brian Cameron and Pierre Roman, on a penalty shot, replied for the Stars.

In Game Four on Monday, Glen Campbell and Brian Cameron exchanged goals in the opening minutes of the game but then Glen Nevis opened up a 3-1 lead on another goal by Campbell and the first of three by Meth.

The Stars tried to get back into the game in the second half as Darrell Hay drilled a pair of penalty shots, but Phil Poitras slammed the door shut by putting Glen Nevis up 6-3 with five minutes left in the game.

While Glen Nevis clearly established itself as the better team in the series (they beat the Stars six out of the seven times the two clubs met this season), there's little doubt that Glengarry will be back for another kick at the can before too long.

Even the Glen Nevis supporters at Father Gauthier Field on Monday night acknowledged that the Stars are a real up-and-coming club.

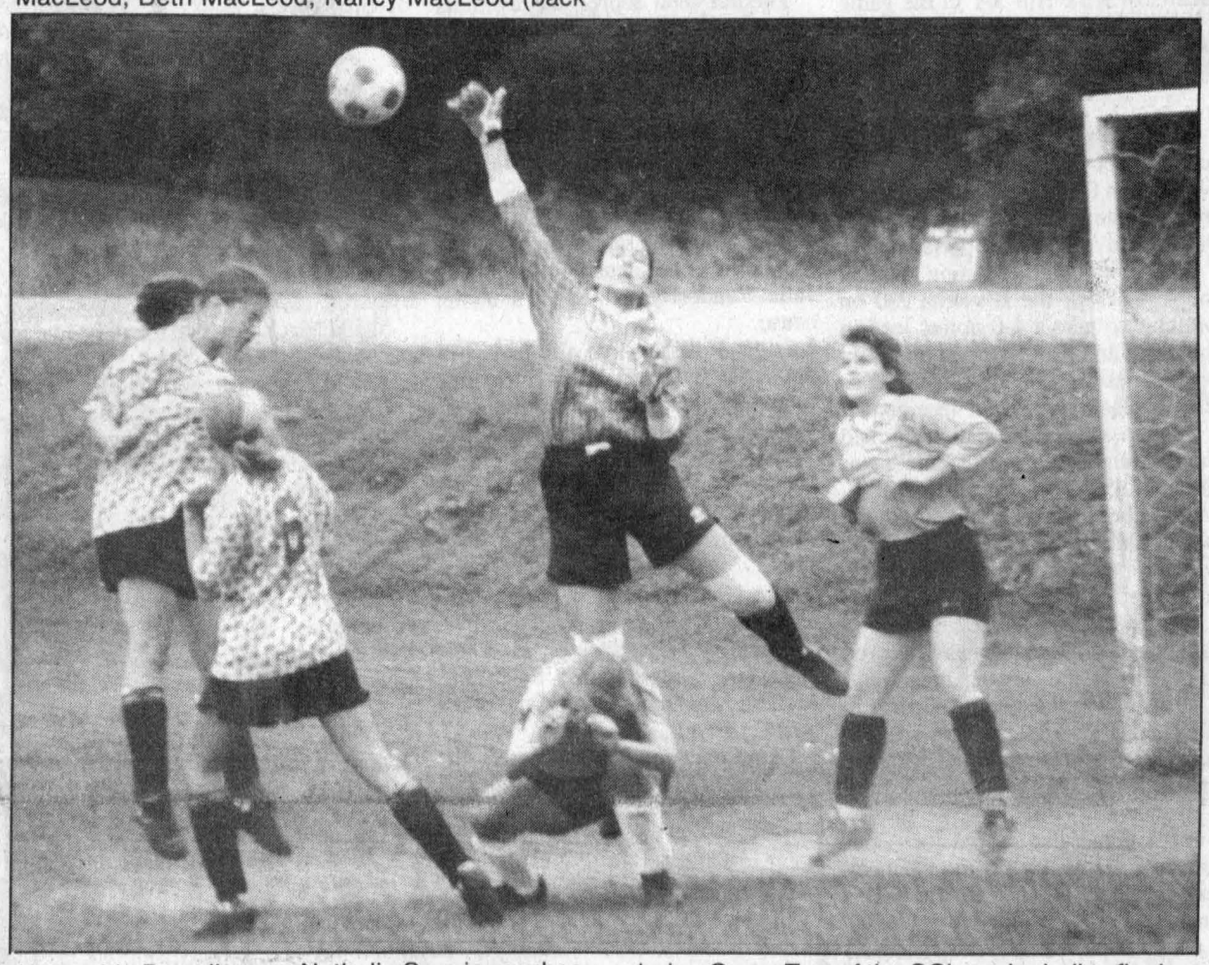
Many of the Stars' players (Robert Meth, Wade McNaughton, Marc Seguin and Julien Boisvenue for example) have their best soccer years ahead of them while established players like Robbie Starkauskas, Darrell Hay, Steven Cameron and Brian Cameron have plenty of experience but are still relatively young.

In the meantime, Glen Nevis will hang onto the championship trophy and, as is always the case when a team wins multiple consecutive league titles, will initiate discussion about dynasties in the GSL.

You have to go back to the Pine Grove-McCrimmon team of the 1960's, who dominated the league with six championships in a row, and the 1950's Lochiel club that reeled off eight straight to find a club that has won more than three consecutive league titles.

Even Greenfield, who won the cup nine times in an 11-year period from 1977-1987, never won more than three in a row.

So establishing itself as one of the all-time great GSL clubs by winning a fourth straight is the next goal for a Glen Nevis team that has achieved just about everything else.



Alexandria B goalkeeper Nathalie Seguin reaches for ball amidst a crowd of B's and Laggan players during Game Two of the GSL senior ladies final on Thursday in Lochiel, won by Alexandria B 2-1.

Laggan sinks hard-luck B's

By J. L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

It's late in the second half of Game Four of the Glengarry Soccer League senior ladies final between Alexandria B and Laggan.

Laggan leads both the game and the series 2-1, and the B's are pressing hard for the equalizer on a cold winter-like night in Lochiel.

Suddenly, Alexandria B superrookie Lisa Poirier squirts loose to the left of the Laggan goal and has a point-blank shot at goalie Melissa MacPhee, who calmly stands her ground.

Poirier fires a hard shot which MacPhee unflinchingly blocks with her body. The ball bounces right back to Poirier who fires another shot, which MacPhee blocks again.

This time, the ball bounces a little further out and Julie MacDonald has a golden opportunity to tie the game. Instead, the ball sails wide.

That sequence, more than any other, is a microcosm of the 1992 GSL senior ladies final, won by Laggan three games to one for the team's third straight league championship.

Even hard-core Laggan fans would have to admit that Alexandria B had an overall edge in play in the series, especially in Games Two and Four when the B's continually buzzed the Laggan net.

But the cool experience of the Laggan team allowed Bruce Kennedy's club to weather Alexandria B's offensive storms and become the first women's team since the 1974-77 edition of the Laggan club to win three league championship trophies in a row.

Series review

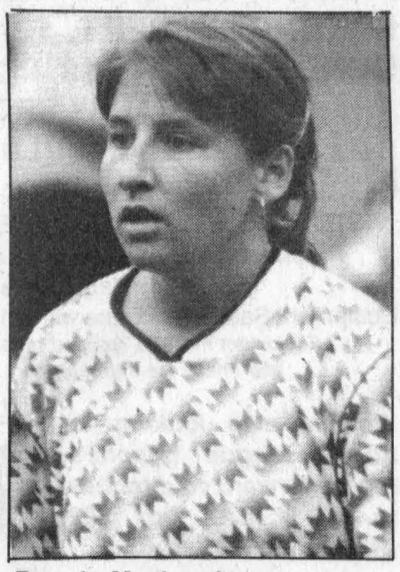
In Game Four, Bonnie MacLeod's late first half goal gave Laggan a 2-1 lead and stood up as the winning goal as Laggan won 3-1.

Kelly Lavigueur had given Alexandria B a 1-0 lead early, but Carol MacLeod tied it for Laggan with her ninth goal of the playoffs midway through the half.

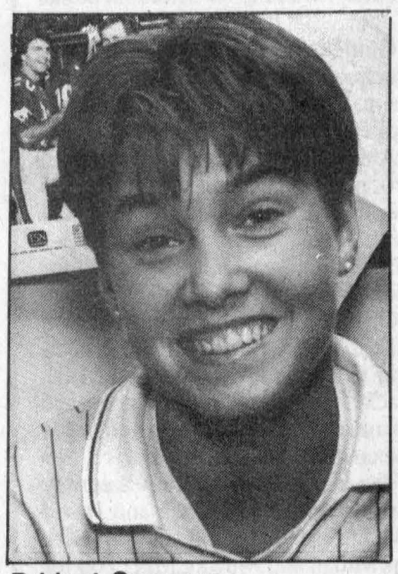
As mentioned, Alexandria B dominated the second half, but a combination of inaccurate shooting, a couple of posts and good goaltending preserved Laggan's 2-1 lead.

Sue Stewart put the game out of reach by scoring late in the half.

In Game Three on a cold and miserable Saturday night in Alexandria, Carol MacLeod's overtime goal gave Laggan a 3-2 win and a 2-1 series lead.



Bonnie MacLeod
Nets series-winning goal



Bridget Cameron
Scored OT winner for B's

All the other scoring - Jennifer Terry and Sue Stewart for Laggan, Kelly Lavigueur and Lisa Poirier for Alexandria B - came in the first half.

Alexandria B's best moment in the series came in Game Two on Thursday when Bridget Cameron scored early in overtime to give the Bee's a 2-1 triumph.

Kelly Laviguer had opened the scoring for Alexandria B, who should have added to their lead on several occasions throughout the game but failed to bury their chances.

Laggan then forced overtime when Sue Stewart scored with less than a minute left.

Laggan won Game One 4-1 on goals by Bonnie MacLeod, Sue Stewart, Tracey MacMillan and Sharon MacMillan.

MacPhee does the job in goal

What is it with Laggan and goaltenders in the playoffs?

Last year, there was the well-documented controversy which saw a Laggan win wiped out because the team had used an ineligible player to fill in for regular goalie Colleen Poirier.

This year, Lorna Howes was playing in goal for new mom Poirier, but Plan B went down the tubes when Howes went down with an injury in Game One.

Enter Melissa MacPhee, who donned the goalie gloves after Howes went down and played every minute of the final thereafter.

Unflappable is the best way to describe MacPhee's goaltending style as the erstwhile midfielder coolly blocked, caught and deflected a sometimes seemingly endless stream of Alexandria B shots.

The only noticeable weakness in MacPhee's goaltending game was short goal kicks, which helped contribute to Alexandria's territorial advantage, but even that improved as the series went along.

Among regular players, there were several players that distinguished themselves.

Bonnie MacLeod played well despite being hampered by a leg injury and wound up scoring the series-winning goal. Sue Stewart scored a goal in each of the four games of the series and Carol MacLeod also played well offensively.

But if you're looking for the single biggest reason why Laggan has held on to the trophy and why Alexandria B is still looking for the final answer, look no further than fullback Ann McMillan.

Another member of Laggan's walking wounded, McMillan proved she's a better back playing on one good leg than most others are on two.

McMillan somehow managed to keep up with Alexandria B speedster

Bombs away! Dalhousie beats Spits to capture soccer crown

Karen Arnott's goal with five minutes remaining in regulation time lifted the Dalhousie Bombers to a 2-1 win over the Cornwall Spitfires in the women's final of the Cornwall and District Soccer League on Sunday at Optimist Park.

Kelly Lavigueur had opened the scoring for Dalhousie after the clubs had played a scoreless first half. The Spitfires tied it up later in the second half on a penalty shot, setting up Arnott's winner.

The Bombers had reached the final by beating Cornwall City in the best-of- three semi-final. Dalhousie wrapped up the series with a 3-1 victory in Game Three at Lochiel last Friday.

The Spitfires advanced to the final by eliminating Char-Lan.

The Spits shut out Char-Lan 3-0 in the first game, but Char-Lan rebounded for a 3-2 victory in Game Two on goals by Carol Gordon, Laurie Legault and Katharine MacLachlan.

Char-Lan then lost the decisive third game 3-2 in a shootout. Lisa Chafee and Colleen MacDonald, with her first goal in 15 years, connected for goals in a losing cause.

Ironically, after Char-Lan had won home-field advantage by finishing in second place during the regular season, all three series games were won by the visiting team.

* * *

The Glengarry Stars were beaten 4-3 in shootout by the Winchester Sonics, who claim the CDSL Division II championship.

Norm Jeaurond scored twice while Scott McIntosh added a single goal for the Stars, who had leads of 2-1 and 3-2 in the game only to have the Sonics tie the game on each occasion.

The Stars defeated Cornwall City 2-1 in games to reach the final.

After opening the series with a 5-0 win (Matthew Steiche with two goals, singles to Harry Wilson, Liam Kemp and Norm Jeaurond) an understaffed Stars team was pasted 6-0 in Game Two.

Glengarry rebounded to win Game Three 3-0 as Liam Kemp scored twice and Matthew Steiche once.

Rudi's was eliminated from the playoffs after losing to the Winchester Sonics in the semis.

The Sonics opened with a 3-2 win as Gareth Pye, in his final game of eligibility for the second division, scored both Rudi's goals.

RPS won Game Two in a sudden-death shootout 3-2.

Paul Dawson scored both regulation time goals, Taffy Pye and Rodney Parkinson scored in the first shootout round and goalie Dan O'Flaherty scored the sudden-death shootout winner.

Only eight Rudi's players turned up for the final game of the series and Winchester capitalized, taking a 2-1 lead at half and exploding for a 10-1 victory.

Paul Dawson had the only Payer goal.

Char-Lan United was eliminated in two straight in the semi-finals by eventual champions St.Andrew's in Division I play.

Pat Burke and Chris Smith scored for United in Game One, won by the Saints 4-2.

Char-Lan then lost Game Two 2-1 in a sudden-death shootout.

Nick Karitsiotis scored for Char-Lan late in the game to force overtime.

Glengarry players were in prominence at the league's awards banquet following Sunday's finals.

Bomber MVP Lisa Poirier

The scoring champions in each of the three divisions came from Glengarry clubs - Kelly Lavigueur of the Bombers for the women, Rudi's Gareth Pye in Division II and Andy McCuaig and Pat Burke (both of Char-Lan United) in the first division.

In addition, Char-Lan goalie Cathy Grant was named as the top netminder in the women's division.

Team MVPs were - Lisa Poirier (Dalhousie Bombers), Carol Gordon (Char-Lan), Harry Wilson (Stars), Gareth Pye (Rudi's), Phil Poitras (Char-Lan U2's) and Jeffrey Robertson (Char-Lan United).

The Hearts of Dunvegan claimed the inaugural Glengarry Soccer League Hearts old-timers division championship with a 3-1 win over the Hearts of Kirk Hill last Thursday. Team members are (front row, left to right) Garry Howes, Bruce MacGillivray, Wally Martin, Bruce Libbos, Bert Massia, Glen Campbell, Mike Andre (back row) Bill Shields, Roger Jeaurond, Dave Hanson, Mark Barlow, Pierre Theoret, Earl MacLennan, D.C. MacCuaig and Ewen MacDonald. Absent is Finlay McDonell.

Dunvegan wins old-timers crown

Pierre Theoret's second goal of the game with about 15 minutes left in the second half broke a 1-1 tie and sent the Hearts of Dunvegan to a league championship-clinching victory in the GSL Hearts old-timers' division last Thursday in Alexandria.

Dunvegan ended up defeating the Hearts of Kirk Hill 3-1 in the game and the club swept the series in two straight (Monday's game was won by Dunvegan by an identical 3-1 score).

Pierre Theoret gave Dunvegan a 1-0 lead in Game Two but Kirk Hill evened the score at 1-1 with a goal midway through the second half.

Theoret then scored the eventual game-winner with a boot from the edge of the crease and Wally Martin sealed the victory a few minutes later with a picturesque goal after a nice run.

In the consolation final meanwhile, the Hearts of Glengarry won the series in two straight over the Hearts of Glen Nevis.

GSL minor champions crowned

Alexandria B convincingly captured the boys sprite division championship in Glengarry Soccer League by recording three straight shutout victories over Glen Robertson.

After winning the opening game of the series 3-0, the B's won 2-0 on Monday to take a 4-0 points lead in the series and then wrapped things up on Wednesday with a 5-0 triumph as Eric Nielsen bagged all five goals.

Nielsen and Robbie Ladouceur had the Alexandria goals in Game Two.

Alexandria wins bantam crown

The other boys division to have the curtain fall on their season last week was the bantam boys as Alexandria completed a sweep over Char-Lan.

Alain Decoste was the big story in the series for Alexandria as he scored five goals in the three games.

Decoste was the lone goalscorer in Alexandria's series-opening 1-0 win and scored two goals in each of the final two games, both won 3-1 by Alexandria.

Jeff Gebbie also scored for Alexandria in Game Two while Chancey Lajoie found the net in the series finale.

Garry Benson and Spencer Roberts had the only goals of the series for Char- Lan.

Glen Sandfield peewees prevail

Glen Sandfield clinched their series against Alexandria with a 2-2 tie on Monday, winning the series six points to four.

Guillaume Ouimet and Murray MacLeod scored for the champions; Jason Poirier and Cameron Lajoie replied for Alexandria.

Alexandria had tied the series at two points apiece last Tuesday as Cameron Lajoie, Jason Poirier and Ryan Nielsen scored goals in a 3-1 win. Guillaume Ouimet scored for Glen Sandfield.

On Thursday, Glen Sandfield took back the series lead with a 2-1 decision as Guillaume Ouimet and Kirk MacMillan scored for the winners and Cameron Lajoie replied for Alexandria.

The teams tied at 2-2 on Saturday with Jeremy MacCulloch and David Leblanc for Alexandria and Kirk MacMillan and Murray MacLeod for Glen Sandfield exchanging goals.

It took a while but Laggan finally managed to clinch the bantam girls championship trophy with a 2-1 win over Glen Sandfield last Thursday.

Wendi Lawson scored both goals in Laggan's championship win while Julie VanderByl tallied in a losing cause.

Laggan did not lose any games in the series but three consecutive ties forced the matchup to go five games.

In Game Four, which ended in a 2-2 tie, Margaret Fraser and Deanah Shelley scored for Laggan and Amanda Nicholson and Julie VanderByl scored for Glen Sandfield.

G.R. sweeps

The Glen Robertson junior girls team completed a sweep of their division with a 3-0 victory on Monday.

Raylene Sauve scored twice and Melissa MacDonald added the other goal.

Glen Robertson jumped out to a 4-0 series with wins of 5-0 and 7-1 over Laggan last week.

Melissa MacDonald scored eight goals for Glen Robertson over the two wins while Raylene Sauve, with three scores, also contributed to the offence.

Sheila MacIntosh had the only goal in the series for Laggan.

Bond takes Laggan to title

Laggan has captured the intermediate division trophy after defeating Alexandria 1-0 on Monday on a Tina Bond goal.

Laggan wins the series 7-1 in points.

With Laggan leading the series 2-0, the teams played to a scoreless tie on Wednesday as Laggan's Kamy Calvank and Alexandria's Lily Lanken recorded shutouts.

Then, Tammy MacSweyn and Kara MacLeod scored the goals for Laggan in last Friday's 2-0 victory.

M&D Sports outslugs Champions Roadhouse in home run bonanza

Twelve balls leave the confines of Island Park in Game Two

Horsehide was sent sailing all over Alexandria Island Park on Monday night as the combatants in the Men's Softball League final, M and D Sports and Champions Roadhouse, combined to hit 12 homers in a 22-9 M and D win.

M and D now leads the series 2-0 and needs one more win to dethrone Champions as league, uh, champions.

Daniel Menard brought a little Sunshine to a dreary, cold night by slugging four homers and driving in eight runs for M and D.

George Carriere had two dingers and also drove in eight runs while Stephan Nadeau hit the other M and D longball.

Sheldon MacDougall had two homers for Champions, Stephane Levac had a solo shot and Brendon MacDonald and Craig McDonell had a homer and three RBIs each.

M and D got the jump in the series with a 12-7 victory last Thursday.

Champs led 7-2 after two-and-a-half innings, but M and D replied with 10 unanswered runs, including five in the sixth frame to break a 7-7 tie, to claim the win.

Robert Quesnel had a homer and three RBIs for M and D while Alain Borris also knocked in three M and D runners.

Craig McDonell hit a longball and had three RBIs for Champions.

Consolation playoffs

Meanwhile, the search for "B" division finalists continues as Alexandria Auto Glass awaits the results of a round-robin between Caisse Populaire, Alexandria Moulding and B and B Market.

Caisse Pop is in the best position to advance as they can move to the consolation final with a win over B and B on Thursday. Otherwise, all teams will be 1-1 and it'll be back to the drawing board.

Caisse Pop defeated Alexandria Moulding 12-5 on Monday as the winners used a nine-run second inning to sink their opponents.

Robert Decoste had a grand slam for Caisse Pop while Dan Menard chipped in with two RBIs.

Richard Hamelin homered for Moulding.

Moulding had defeated B and B 17-14 the previous Thursday as Luc Decoeur, Richard Scott and Michel Paquette (who homered) each drove in three runs.

Robert Lobb had four RBIs for B and B while Mike Lefebvre had three.

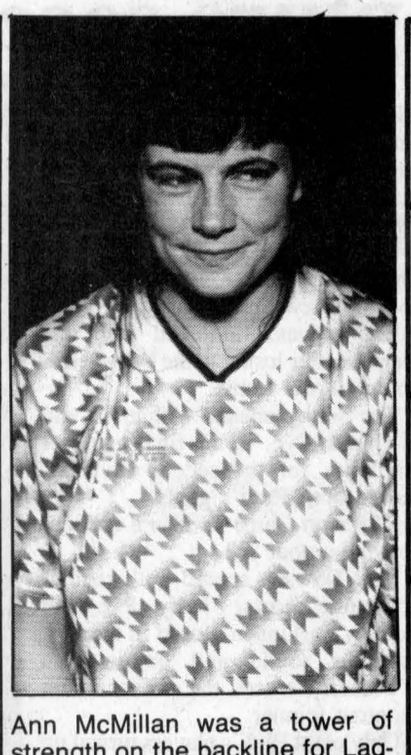
SPORTS PERSONALITY OF THE WEEK



Ann McMillan was a tower of strength on the backline for Laggan as she helped her team win its third consecutive Glengarry Soccer League senior ladies' championship. Despite being bothered by a leg injury, the 1991 winner of the league's best back award played her usual solid game as Laggan allowed only six goals in four games.

Dean Poirier and Phil Poitras are part of new generation trying to uphold Glen Nevis tradition

Inside page profile

By J. L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

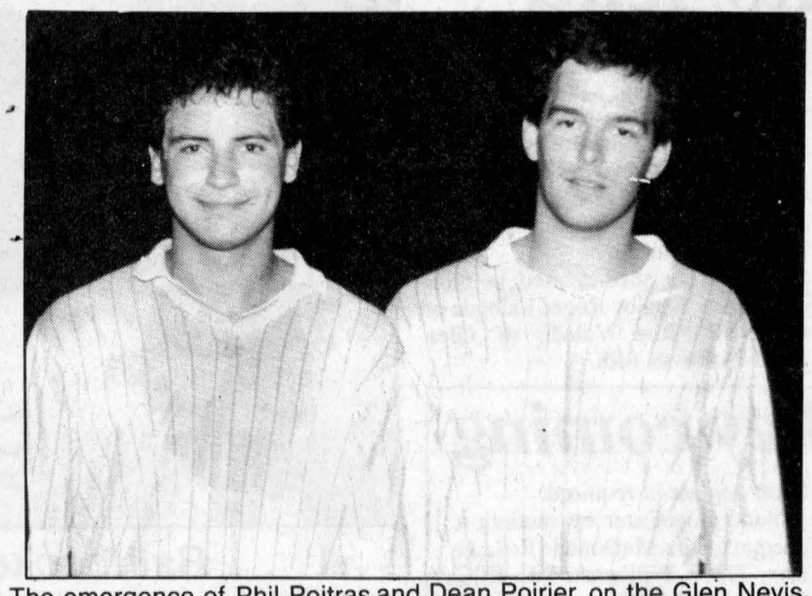
With a winning soccer club on his hands, you'd think that Glen Nevis senior men's soccer coach Dale MacDonald would take the "If it ain't broke, don't fix it approach."

But the realities of having an aging, albeit talented, roster and a desire to stay one step ahead of the Glengarry Soccer League competition dictates the need for changes on an annual basis.

"We always try to take in one or two young guys every year because you're always losing players," said the Glen Nevis coach, pointing out that the two-time defending league champions lost John Wood, Brendon MacDonald and Leighton McDonell from the 1991 team.

With that in mind, consider Phil Poitras and Dean Poirier, a pair of 20-year-olds looking to help Glen Nevis continue their tradition of excellence for years to come.

The pair are former high school teammates at Char-Lan and a major reason why Glen Nevis hasn't loosened its grip on the GSL championship trophy.



The emergence of Phil Poitras and Dean Poirier on the Glen Nevis soccer scene will help the club remain a contender for the GSL championship for years to come.

"Phil played for us last year but he's really into his own this season," said MacDonald. "Dean came in halfway through this season and has become an excellent left winger for us.

"They've come in and really fit into the club."

One of the most important things the duo have added to the team is versatility in the lineup.

With Andy Meth unavailable to the club for the first part of the season, Poitras' presence at the half position allowed MacDonald to move Glen Campbell up front to provide some offence.

Campbell delivered, winning the league scoring championship.

The adition of Poirier, the midseason arrival of Meth and Poitras' recent offensive emergence make Glen Nevis offensively dangerous from just about eveywhere in the field.

In addition to his customary stellar play, Campbell scored a coup for Glen Nevis by getting Poitras interested in playing for Glen Nevis. Poitras, in turn, helped bring exfellow Crusader Poirier aboard this year.

Poitras attributes at least some of his and Poirier's success to the ominous presence of proven scoring entities Campbell and Meth.

"The other teams pay a lot of attention to Andy and Glen, and they should too, but that means there's a little more room for us," said the Summerstown resident.

That has been especially true in the playoffs as Poirier and Poitras (with four goals each) were among the team's top scorers in the playoffs. Both players surpassed their regular season goal totals in the post-season.

Poirier said fitting into a winning, veteran club was easier than he expected.

"I thought it would be hard at first because you're coming into a club that expects to win," said the Williamstown native. "But really it makes it easier because you have such good players around you."

It is the presence of the aforementioned veterans (along with Sheldon MacDougall, Findlay McLeod, Andy McRae and Stuart MacDonald) and the new blood that allowed Glen Nevis to become the first team since the Greenfield Marauders of 1985-87 to win the league championship three years in a row.

If Glen Nevis continues to adeptly rebuild on the run, who knows how long it will be until someone can dethrone Dale MacDonald's crew?

M&D, BMR surprise favorites in semi-finals

The top two clubs in the regular season in the Alexandria Women's Softball League both dropped the opening games of their semi-final series and will now need two wins in a row to avoid being upset.

Caisse Populaire, who lost only one game all season and finished in first place, were upset 12-8 in Game One of their series with BMR.

Christine Leclair's bases-clearing double in the fifth inning was the key hit as BMR scored five runs to take a 12-5 lead and blow open what had been a close game.

Leclair had a total of four RBIs on the night while Rose Latulippe and Rachelle Lortie each contributed two-run triples.

Brigitte Legault and Sylvie Menard each had two RBIs for Caisse Pop.

Meanwhile, second-place Art Benton is also on the ropes after losing 10-5 to M and D in extra innings in the first game of the other "A" division semi-final.

M and D trailed Benton 5-3 going into the top of the fifth and final inning but bases-loaded walks to Jeannine D. Lalonde and Nicole Lauzon forced in a pair of runs to tie the game at five.

Benton then issued three more walks with the bases loaded in the sixth inning as M and D scored five runs to take the game.

In total, eight of the 10 M and D runs came via free passes issued with the bags full.

Pam McCulloch batted in a pair of runs for Art Benton.

Game Two of both semi-finals was played last night.

Consolation round

ABS overcame a 6-0 deficit with eight runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to defeat Sultan Drugs 8-6 and take a 1-0 lead in a consolation playoff semi-final.

Nathalie Dupelle hit a two-run homer for ABS while Sylvie Boisvenue also knocked in a pair of runs in the decisive inning.

Julie Montpetit had two RBIs for Sultan.

Meanwhile, Roy's has drawn first blood in the other consolation semi-final with a 7-3 victory over Champions Roadhouse.

Jackie Prieur and Jeannine Bourdeau batted in two runs each for Roy's while Francine Poulin, Francine Valade and Diane Campeau batted in runs for Champions.

Both "B" division semi-finals resume tonight.

GSL soccer

Kelly Lavigueur throughout the series, continuously foiling breakaway opportunities.

A perfect example of McMillan's stellar play was catching up with a B's forward to prevent a breakaway, pushing the ball towards the backline and then making a sliding kick to knock the ball out the side to avoid giving up a corner kick.

Maybe it's no coincidence that it was when McMillan went down with an injury that the first whispers of "Laggan won't be able to repeat this year" were heard.

As it turned out, Laggan had both McMillan and the championship trophy when the curtain came down on the 1992 season.

Poultney, Vt. native Dave Camara is in third and is also in striking range for the track championship, 20 points back of Ladouceur.

Camara finished second in Sunday's race, won by Roger Lalonde of Cornwall. Ron Valade of Glen Robertson was fifth.

Tapis takes twilight lead

Tapis Richard Ranger collected four points in the first round of the Heritage Golf Club twilight league final and was in first place heading into last night's final round of play.

Roy's Garage sits in second with three points after turning in a score of -24, followed by Glen Services (-15) and Rozon Insurance (-8).

In the consolation playoffs, Morgan Paper Sanitation leads with 12 points after piling up a score of -42.

Roy's Garage turned in a score of 176 to win last week's play in the Glengarry Ladies Twilight Golf League and close to within a point of Tapis Richard for first place overall.

The five points Roy's earned with the win gives the team a total of 39, one behind Tapis' total of 40.

Ballbusters three-pitch tournament a success

Grant's Ready Mix and Lefebvre Construction were the winners at the first annual J.Gordon Refrigeration Ballbusters tournament in Lancaster last weekend.

Grant's defeated Backstages to win the women's crown while Lefebvre won the men's championship by downing a Ray-Co team which included some M and D Sports players.

Tournament organizers were originally hoping for eight women's teams and 16 men's teams but instead a total of 30 clubs (12 women's and 18 men's) registered and others had to be turned away.

The tournament was an overwhelming success in every sense of the word as $4,000 was raised to send the Ballbusters to Niagara Falls for the slo-pitch championships on Sept. 18-20.

The organizers gave credit to the number and enthusiasm of competing teams and to the sponsors who donated prizes for the success of the event.

Residents have brush with Hurricane Andrew

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Hurricane Andrew is no more, fortunately, but the devastation it caused in Florida is still very real. Two phone calls related experiences with residents down there.

Nancy and Dave Baird were phoned by Evelyn McColl and told her they were safe. A tree on their property was blown down but a shopping mall nearby was flattened. The Bairds live at Boynton Beach.

Later, Buddy Guindon, son of the late Phil, phoned his friends Joan and Howard O'Hara. He lives at Hallandale north of Miami Beach. After the storm, a 19th floor apartment became home and the Guindons could easily view the devastation all around. The move was made in order to have water service.

Last week one day, traffic on Main St. had to detour in order for a CNR crew to reconstruct the crossing. The new one is better and perhaps just rough enough to slow traffic down still. We certainly need some special deterrent for our village streets.

* * *

Kelly's Sports Bar was officially opened on Aug. 23 as a photograph in last week's Glengarry News will confirm. We wish Kelly and his father, George, much success in their business venture. It was good that Earl Eppstadt was able to be present for the ribbon cutting ceremony. The building was his home for his boyhood years and he will be pleased to see it a centre of activity as it once was.

* * *

Katie McKay Wilkes, a Manor resident will be reaching the age of 94 on Sept. 7. Mrs. Wilkes was an area school teacher for many years and is sent best wishes by her former students and other friends.

* * *

Margaret and Keith Jack, Lynda and Peter Jack and Dorothea and Ross Conners have returned from a 10-day motor trip to Newfoundland and the other eastern provinces.

Ann Guindon, widow of Aurele, died last Saturday and with her passing, the village loses a highly respected resident. She came after the war as a Dutch bride and raised a large family, the members of which have established themselves well in various occupations.

When Dr. Jaggassar came to establish his medical practice here, Mrs. Guindon became his receptionist and made many friends over the years. The fact that she was multilingual as well as charming and efficient made her well suited for the position until her retirement.

We extend sympathy to the family which includes many members in Holland, some of whom came to Canada for the funeral on Wednesday.

Stan Jasiewicz died last week and to his wife, Lucia, his two daughters, son and all other relatives we offer our sympathy.

Martha MacLean is remembered too. She lost her brother, Ernest Paquette.

Lily MacKillican, age 94, had been a Manor resident for several years prior to her death last week. We extend sympathy to her sister Kay MacKercher, Moose Creek, and the other relatives.

After attending summer school and spending some time in Europe, Erin Blair has now left to resume his duties in the educational field at Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island. Erin will be assuming new responsibilities for the library system this year.

Best wishes are extended to the Rev. Jan Staniforth and to her husband, John Chapman, on the recent birth of their second son.

This comes late becaue Herb Holmes forgot to ask me to print birthday wishes for his wife Hilda last week. We trust the 24th of August saw suitable celebrations for the event.

* * *

Jack McLean, Toronto, called on friends in the village on August 23 and was the overnight guest of Lorna and Gordon Winter while on a business trip to Montreal.

* * *

Helen and Malcolm Grant, Glen Garden Village Apartments, were happy to have the following as recent visitors: Ron and Sharon Bishop and four children from Belle River, Christie Grant, Boston and Bob and Barbara Armstrong, Sudbury.

Catherine McEwen spent a few days at the cottage of her nephew, Douglas MacEwen and family, near Westport.

* * *

Gwen McEwen Hamilton, Amherstview, spent a few days with Eileen and Gordon Scott while on vacation from her nursing duties in Kingston.

Marilyn Floody, Whitby, was here to visit her mother, Evelyn Willis, at the Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. Winton Marshall, St. Catharines, spent last weekend in the village.

We add our congratulations and best wishes to those of their relatives and friends who met last Friday evening for 25th wedding anniversary celebrations for Margaret (nee Blaney) and Brian Arkinstall.

Lorna and Gordon Winter have also celebrated the same anniversaryd. Last weekend they were in Toronto for two Blue Jay games and stayed at the SkyDome Hotel, thanks to the members of their immediate family. The family gathering was great and even if the outcome of the games was unfavorable, it can be said that one was record setting.

Earlier in the month, Sheila Munro hosted a family dinner at the Georgian House for the Winters.

Fifteen members of the local Horticultural Society enjoyed the annual tour of gardens last week. It started with a visit to Mabel and Bud Guindon's home, then east to Krystyna Lewandowski's country home, back to Terry Leduc's beautiful garden along Main St. south, east the 6th Concession to see what Lyn Snikeris had accomplished and then south of Dominionville to view Lise Delhey's lovely grounds and to give the llama and ponies pats.

Lunch was at the home of Marie and Tom Boyle. Afterwards, the grounds at the Apple Hill Recreation Centre were checked as were those at Glengarry Memorial Hospital. The Society had assisted at both places with recent plantings.

On the way back the homes of Steve Pefanis, John and Eileen Van Blankern, Ellen Bissonnette, Annie St. Denis and Joanne St. Denis were visited and the work of all appreciated.

In Memoriam

MONTGOMERY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Maimie who passed away August 31, 1971.
In a quiet country graveyard
Where the gentle breezes blow
Lies the one we loved so dearly
Whom we lost twenty one years ago.
—Ever remembered by Mabel, Roger and family 36-1p

BENDER — In loving memory of a dear son and brother Richard Bender who passed away September 6, 1991.
I recall one day in June when in my flowerbed I found in-bloom
A delicate white rose, whose beauty I thought was only mine to behold
'Cause if it were not for me and my tender care
It would never have grown so tall and fair in beauty there.
When alas I came in from the chores to find
You very carefully cutting a box to house this tender and most cherished bloom of mine
And slightly miffed, I said to you
"What gave you the right to snip this tender bloom."
And I'll never forget your impish look
When with a grin you turned to me and said
"But mom who was to see it there in that secluded bed
Just think of the joy and pleasure that it will bring my friend."
And on this day again I feel that slight anger I felt in June.
But then shamefacedly, I have total recall
For I am not the creator or the caretaker of the garden at all
For 'tis our heavenly Father who reigns over all.
Safe within the arms of Jesus you rest
And your impish grin is what we'll remember the best.
—Your memory will always be cherished by mom, dad, Judy, Jamie, and brother-in-law Rod. 36-1p

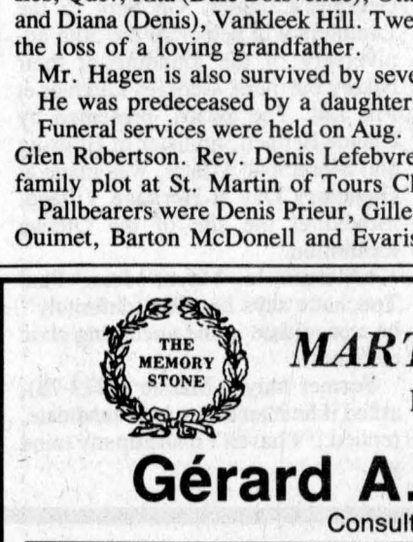
CNIB THANKS GLENGARRY



The Canadian National Institute for the Blind would like to thank all the captains and canvassers who assisted with the 1991 CNIB door-to-door campaign, and to the residents of Glengarry for their generous donations.

As a result of your tremendous support, over $11,000 was raised. This money ensures that rehabilitation and support services continues to be provided to blind and visually impaired individuals within our community.

During the months of September and October, this dedicated group of volunteers will again be conducting a door-to-door campaign. With the number of people receiving CNIB services continuing to grow, we are hopeful that we will reach our goal of $12,000.

Again, our thanks to all of you.

137 Years Ago It Was The Beech Church

The history of Maxville Presbyterian Church goes back 137 years to the Beech Church.

The highlanders who came out from Scotland in pioneer days felt the need of a place of worship and built a temporary chapel of beech logs — a very primitive place of worship known as the Beech Church.

More settlers came out, this Beech Church proved far too small, and so a new church was needed. Thus the White Church came into being. It was built on the east side of the road, on the farm of John MacEwen, and in the centre of the present cemetery.

The White Church was a frame building of fine workmanship and served all Protestant denominations. It was affiliated with the Montreal Presbytery until 1839 when Rev. Daniel Clark was inducted as its first minister. His congregation included Roxborough on the west and Kenyon to the northeast. In 1853 Rev. Daniel Gordon became minister but left and played an important part in erecting the Gordon Church at St. Elmo.

In 1881 the railroad was built, Maxville station came into being, the village began to take shape, the congregation grew in strength and Rev. James Cormac became minister in 1889.

The White Church was now inadequate; the present church was built and officially opened on January 14, 1900. It is a fine brick building on Main Street.
