AN ASSIST FOR SHOVELLERS—Some nine inches of snow swirled onto Alexandria streets in the early hours of Monday morning to create a traffic problem and close schools due to the inability of buses to cover their routes. A jeep-powered plow was called into service to clear Main Street sidewalks but the narrower walks on sidestreets are being opened by town workmen with snow shovels. The heavy snowfall that hit this area was much easier to contend with than the freezing rain which struck Toronto and sections of Western Ontario, causing numerous power interruptions. Monday's storm was followed by a return of sub-zero weather Tuesday and it seems we are to know a bit more winter in the weeks ahead.

Clergy Of Various Denominations Here This Morning For Ecumenical Service

Some 20 to 25 clergymen of various faiths joined their Roman Catholic colleagues of the diocese of Alexandria in an ecumenical service at the Villa Fatima Christian Renewal Centre, here, this morning.

It was the monthly day of renewal for the diocesan clergy and this is the first time the clergy of other faiths have been invited to join them. The gathering commemorated the week of prayer for christian unity.

Following the inter-faith service in the chapel of the Retreat House, luncheon was served to all in the Villa's dining hall. Later this afternoon His Excellency Bishop Proulx was to address the diocesan clergy.

The morning service was based on a brochure suggested by the National Secratariat of Ecumenism and approved by the Canadian Council of Churches. The text had been adopted from documentation prepared jointly by the World Council of Churches in Geneva and the Secratariat for Unity in Rome.

Rev. George E. Clifford of St. Paul's United Church, Cornwall, read the first lesson and gave a meditation on the text. His Excellency Bishop Proulx gave the homily and other clergymen also addressed the gathering.

The Man From Glengarry Shows That Nice Guys Can Finish First

(By Jim Garner in Farm and Country)

Some people plod through their working lives and at 65 sink thankfully into senility, glad to have done with life's hustle and bustle. Others are different.

One of those who are different is Hamish MacLeod, ex-farmer, ex-ag. rep. and ex-Co-op businessman.

Mr. McLeod, who retired at the end of 1967 as marketing manager of United Co-operatives of Ontario, promptly started a new career as an agri-business consultant. Though he has arrived at the official retiring age of 65, he could easily be mistaken for a 10-years-younger man. Most of the time he wears a youthful grin that has become known to the thousands of Ontario farmers he has served since becoming an ag. rep. in 1937.

"I feel I still have some years of usefulness," is the modest way he puts it — this man who was one of a small, select band of pioneers who guided the great resurgence of Ontario farm-owned business 20 years ago.

But although he isn't ready to sit back yet, it isn't because he lacks confidence in the New Generation.

"I meet young men in my (consulting) work now that are conscientious and hard-working. There are a lot of good people — I have all faith in them. The future's in good hands."

With a name like MacLeod he was, of course, born in that most Scottish of Ontario counties — Glengarry. The MacLeods settled the county in 1795, which makes Hamish a fifth-generation Canadian. Yet folk often assume he was born in Scotland. Perhaps it's his eastern Ontario accent, or because he's rarely seen without some piece of plaid—a hat or tie, even on special occasions a kilt. It could even be his occasional use of Gaelic — the ancient language of the Scottish isles.

He was the eldest of seven children — two boys and five girls — and the family has remained closely knit over the last half-century. Hamish MacLeod left high school and farmed with his father for 15 years before going back to school.

"I don't think of those 15 years as wasted," he told Farm and Country. "I have never regretted them. I received experience as a

D. R. MacMillan Died At 70

A widely known resident of Lochiel, Donald Ranald MacMillan died Thursday, Jan. 10th at St. Lawrence Sanatorium, Cornwall. He had been a patient there for the last year and had been ailing since injuring his spine some 15 years ago while employed in mining in Northern Ontario.

Aged 70, Mr. MacMillan was born on lot 36-4th Lochiel, a son of the late Alex J. Millan and hs wife, Catherine MacDonell. He had been employed in the North for many years, in mining and later in steel tower erection. He had resided on the farm home the past 15 years and though not in good health Mr. MacMillan had retained his warm friendliness and other fine personal traits.

Three Branches Of Education At High School Outlined By Principal

Guest speaker at a meeting of Alexandria CWL here last Thursday night, Lorne Lawson, principal of Glengarry District High School outlined the three main branches of the education program offered here. Members of the UCW, Church on the Hill, who were guests of CWL, also heard Mr. Lawson's talk.

The three branches are arts and science, business and commerce and the science, technology and trades course. Within each of the three branches there are three programs, a five-year course, four-year and two year or terminal course in the province-wide setup. GDHS offers a five-year course in arts and science, four year course in the technical branch, two-year course in occupations and a one-year course in special commercial.

The five-year course is designed for students planning advance studies at university, institutes of technology, in nursing or teaching professions or for those going directly into business such as banking or to a special one-year course.

The four-year course primarily leads to vocational schools or an institute of technology. A student may attend a vocational school to specialize in a chosen field, for example as a legal secretary.

"These courses take considerable ability," said Mr. Lawson. Twelve percent of the students who leave Grade 8 are not capable of these. The occupations course has been designed, therefore, for these people. Anyone, 15 years of age, who has been promoted or transferred from Grade 8 can join the occupations course. Next year a course called services will be in-

Copies Of News In Centennial Clocks

A native of Glengarry whose specialty is the making of grandfather and grandmother clocks, A. W. Campbell of Peterborough, informs us that a copy of the Glengarry News was inserted in the base of each clock he constructed during centennial year for various households across Ontario.

Mr. Campbell, who operates his business under the name of "Campbellcraft", writes:

"A sealed compartment in the bottom of each clock case contained some 10 pounds of marble chips to give the clock balance. Also in the compartment is a copy of the Glengarry News and a farm paper.

"In the year 2068" he observes, "if someone should open the sealed compartment the papers will give the people who read it some idea of how we celebrated our 100th birthday in 1967."

South Lancaster Home Hit By Fire

The home of John Dunlop on the lake front at South Lancaster was gutted by fire Friday night. It was one of the oldest homes in the area and the loss included antique furnishings.

Members of the Lancaster fire brigade under Norman Matheson fought the blaze for six hours in 20 degrees below zero weather. They were able to save part of the structure though the interior was gutted.

Believed to have originated from overheated stove pipes the fire was reported about 5.30 p.m. and firemen were on the scene until 11 p.m.

The loss on house and contents was reported covered partly by insurance.

He is married to the former June Collins of Osnabruck Centre, and they have four children, a daughter Debra, and three sons, Daniel, Bradley and Barry.

He has been a member of Osnabruck Township Council since 1958. He has served as reeve for the past four years and was deputy reeve for the two years previous.

Power Sled Went Through Garry Ice

Guy Lecompte, 26, of Montreal, got a wetting Saturday when his power toboggan went through the Garry River ice and plunged him into eight feet of water. He was able to support himself on the ice surface until reaching shallower water and his companions rescued the toboggan from the river water.

A group of eight local toboggan owners had taken advantage of the mild weather to travel up the river to Loch Garry. At a point below the new control dam there is considerable current and one of the toboggans had broken the ice but escaped immersion. On the return trip Lecompte forgot about the danger spot and drove into the hole.

Osnabruck Township Reeve, J. A. Zeran New Warden Of United Counties Council

James A. Zeran, reeve of Osnabruck Township, was elected warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, and installed in office according to traditional custom, Monday, at the inaugural meeting of the 1968 county council in the courtroom at Cornwall.

The opening meeting was presided over by Clerk-treasurer L. C. Kennedy.

Mr. Zeran's name was placed before council on a motion by Harold Brown, reeve of Cornwall Township and seconded by Donald Thomson, reeve of Charlottenburgh. By time honored custom, there was no opposition and Mr. Zeran was declared elected to office as warden.

The two sponsors of the warden-elect conducted him to the front of the council chamber, and he was installed by the dean of council, Mahlon Zeron, reeve of Matilda Township. Mr. Zeran was invested with the chain of office of the counties.

After being ceremoniously seated in the warden's chair, Mr. Zeran called upon David Smith, student minister of Newington Baptist Church, to carry out the invocation ceremony. Mr. Smith cited scripture to show that legitimate authority is derived from God, and said that three possible considerations could control the acts of a public man. The first is personal ambition. The second is gratitude and loyalty to his friends and supporters, the third and noblest, a sense of duty to the people of the municipality and the country, coupled with a wish to serve them to the utmost of one's ability.

Mr. Smith conducted prayers for the guidance of council.

In his remarks, Mr. Zeran thanked those who had nominated and installed him, and mentioned that his grandfather, Peter Zeran, had served his township as deputy reeve and reeve.

Mr. Zeran noted that the counties are now part of a larger area public health organization. He expressed the wish that library service should be extended and improved throughout the area.

He also expressed the hope that the official history of the United Counties, written by John Graham Harkness in 1945, should be brought up to date and possibly republished.

The new warden mentioned that an Ontario Land Surveyor is now a member of the road department staff and expressed the opinion that in future the road department should be in a position to do more work with county employees and equipment and contract for less.

Mr. Zeran welcomed new members and staff, and said he looked forward "to the same dedication past councils have come to take for granted."

In his congratulations, Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, Speaker of the House of Commons and MP for Stormont, said that "the time is past when any problem can be considered as applying to only one level of government." The increasing demands for services, the needs of the people, the problems faced by the country all demand that the three levels of government, municipal, provincial and federal, must work closely together.

Hon. Fern Guindon, MPP and minister without Portfolio in the Ontario government, said that 1967 had been a happy and successful year. In spite of the many problems, he said the council and people should benefit from the

Loss At $10,000 As Avonmore Barn Razed

The three units of Roxborough Fire Department, from Avonmore, Moose Creek and Monkland, all responded to a call to a barn fire at the Oarn Flanagan farm near Avonmore in the bitter cold of last Thursday morning. But the fire was too far advanced to save the building and loss was estimated at $10,000.

A transport driver noticed the fire about 2.10 a.m. The Flanagan farm is near Highway 43 half a mile east of the village. The unidentified driver notified the Flanagans, who telephoned the alarm, but the fire had made considerable progress before it was noticed.

There were 35 hogs and a considerable number of hens lost in the blaze. About 15 heifers were saved. A major part of the damage was destruction of a nearly new hay baler and other items of farm machinery. The loss was covered only partly by insurance.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

The Promise Of New Payrolls

Alexandria's Board of Trade should be given a shot of new life, we suggested at year's end and the need becomes more urgent with word from Toronto that our town now qualifies under the government's incentive plan for attracting new industry to areas of slow economic growth.

Under the plan for equalized industrial opportunity the Department of Economics and Development makes loans and incentive grants of up to half a million dollars to industries moving into such designated areas as ours. There is help available, too, for industries already here and which have plans for expansion.

Charlottenburgh Township was one of the first to benefit under the plan and the Summerstown area has two new industries in prospect as a result. Both moved there from Quebec province and if the threat of economic and political unrest continues there it is quite likely other companies will be seeking a more stable location in Ontario. The prospects for Alexandria are most favorable but if we are to gain the type of industry that will be most beneficial we must be ready with a reception committee that is not only prepared to receive inquiries but willing to ferret out prospective industries as well.

There is an industrial committee of town council but its members have only so much time to devote to civic matters and they have many other problems of administration to deal with. They could use the assistance of a committee of the Board of Trade and we can think of several citizens not now serving on council who in the past have played key parts in bringing industries here. Their presence on an industrial committee of the Board might mean the difference between success and yet another failure to attract new industry.

Our town needs a revitalized Board of Trade if only to impress potential new industries with the fact we are progress-minded. But it could serve many other purposes, none more worthwhile than the bringing together of our businessmen periodically to discuss common problems and provide a guideline for council and other elected bodies.

Our country faces a year of uncertainty so far as economic progress is concerned. If the war against inflation is to be won, money is going to be tighter and there will be other related problems to be met by businessmen both individually and at the municipal level.

This could be a year of limited progress. It could be a year of regression for a lot of us if we don't decide to work together for the common good.

February should provide time for a drive to bring new life to Alexandria's Board of Trade.

Memo To Business People

During these first weeks of the year merchants have been busy taking inventory and sizing up the prospects for increased sales in the year ahead. We might offer some helpful suggestions, but instead we reprint some advice which appeared in a Bankers Magazine published in the U.S., and which applies particularly to town merchants.

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean that you should have a whole, half or even quarter-page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned if you do not use more than a two-inch space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but who refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising man."

This advice is applicable not only to merchants but to service shops, especially in these years when the town and area are absorbing so many new families. The stranger in our midst may be at a loss as to the types of service available here, or where to locate a reliable, competent tradesman. Scarcely a week goes by without some newcomer to the area dropping into this office or phoning for information. In some instances we may not be able to furnish the advice and so the business may go elsewhere.

Among our new subscribers are many still resident in the city but who have bought or are planning to buy property in this area. They may have plans for extensive remodelling and they look to the local paper for advice on whom to contact. The man who advertises his merchandise or services is usually considered the most reliable and is most likely to get the business.

If you want to sell 'em, you've got to tell 'em, and your message in this paper is reaching some 15,000 readers.

Lame Duck Session Looms

It seems Parliament is in for a Lame Duck session extending right through early April when the Liberal Party meets to choose a new leader. A Lame Duck session is of U.S. parentage and it denotes a period in Congress when little constructive is even attempted because the politicians are completely immersed in plans to get themselves re-elected.

In Ottawa it is a case of a half-dozen or more members of the cabinet contesting the Liberal leadership. They are members of a minority government and this Lame Duck session will last until the April leadership convention only with the connivance of the opposition parties.

This will probably be forthcoming for the members of the other parties face the gleeful prospect of witnessing the Liberal Government come apart at the seams over the next three months. Retiring Prime Minister Pearson has promised he will show no favoritism in the selection of his successor. He will continue to govern but he will be minus the cabinet solidarity that has been a traditional must.

Those of his ministers who are aspiring for the mantle of leadership will be wooing the delegates and the nation. To do so they must each take a stand on many issues that have long been controversial not only in the Commons but at cabinet caucus too. Monetary policies have been a big issue, as has Medicare.

Already cabinet solidarity has been shattered on both these questions and Prime Minister Pearson will have to walk a tight rope if he is to preserve any semblance of a unified government program through the next session. What we will probably see is solid pages of Hansard filled with the sound and fury of debate signifying nothing, but promising much.

This is the way politics is played and the manner of Prime Minister Pearson's demise creates a situation unparalleled in Parliament. Never before has the field been left wide open for cabinet ministers to fight for the topmost post in the nation while being asked to retain a semblance of team spirit. MacKenzie King had Louis St. Laurent waiting in the wings when he moved out. A decade ago it was Mr. Pearson who was front-staged to take over from Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Political parties have a way of organizing these successions but Mr. Pearson has never been a politician and as a result the traditional modus operandi gives way this time to something which may prove very messy. It seems certain the country will be without a semblance of government for the next three months and the Liberal party will be lucky to survive the leadership race.

Glengarry-Prescott Liberals sent only three delegates to the last federal convention and they will have no more say in the selection this time. Surely our delegates can be counted upon, though, to vote against any candidate so irresponsible as to promise another billion dollars of federal spending at a time when inflation is such a threat.

We rule out Health Minister MacEachen who is insisting on a Medicare scheme which the country cannot afford.

Welcome New Readers

Now that the hustle and bustle of the holiday period is past we can find time to warmly welcome to our readership the many who are newly on our subscription list. They number nearly one hundred and most are among the more than three hundred gift subscriptions that we handled this Christmas.

Our Christmas gift list continues to grow each year as does the number of our subscribers, now well on the way toward the 4,500 mark. We couple with our welcome to these new readers of the News, a word of appreciation to those friends who valued the paper highly enough that they used it as a means of extending good wishes at Christmas.

Our New Year's wish to readers old and new is that the Post Office people in the big city terminals will devise some more efficient means of handling the paper so that it reaches them within a reasonable period. Many are not getting that kind of service now.

Young Opinions . . .

The Shame Of Teenage Drunks

Bernard Larocque, XIII

A drunk is disgraceful at any age but when that age is fifteen, sixteen or seventeen, disgrace becomes shame. At first, drinking is a new experience to which the youth commits himself in search of that carefree state of intoxication. However, the behavior of that youth while under the influence of alcohol usually leaves much to be desired.

Often, drinking causes disastrous consequences for the teenager. Firstly, it hinders his health which he should especially care for since he is still growing. Secondly, it renders him almost useless for the day following that wild night. There is no cure for "hangovers." Then there is always that moment of explanation which parents seek, to account for the "wretched state" of the victim. A firing squad might be an easier way out.

When drunk, the teenager not only makes a fool of himself in public, but becomes a potential killer as he drives his car back home. In addition to risking his own life and the lives of those with him, he turns into a menace to all motorists travelling his way. Ironically, that same youth, when sober would probably curse at a drunken driver who crosses his path.

Who is to blame for all this? Is it the hotel owner, the waiter, the senior drinking member of society who sets the example, or is it the parents? You can probably find reasons to select any one of these but, let us not forget him who of his own free will chose to get drunk in the first place. Yes, the teenager himself is to blame for this odd shame that marks our society—certainly not his parents.

The Weeklies Say

NOW'S YOUR CHANCE

We all know some New Canadians who can speak three, four or even five languages and are very proud of the fact. Canadians, however, seem to be the only people in the world who make it a point to know only one language.

Some French and English speaking Canadians somehow believe that learning the other's tongue is a form of capitulation. For others, it is too much of an effort or they don't have the time or the money.

Berlitz has just opened a school in Rouyn and it is offering a sure way of learning English or French or some other languages.

It will cost something for sure but think of what you can get in return for a few dollars.

Canada, in the mind of some, is stuck with two languages, but it is very lucky to be stuck with great languages like French and English. Just think of our predicament if it was suggested that we learn Sudanese as a second language.

No one should object to learning such great languages as English, French, Spanish, German, Italian and some others, when there is a very good reason for doing so and since it could very well be profitable in the end. Think it over well. Pensez-y bien.

TIME TO MATURE

Let's take our time in maturing. Let's ensure that the native peoples of the (Northwest) Territories share as partners in territorial development . . . When we get representative government, then let us look at our gross territorial product, our territorial debt and our "foreign trade" balance before kicking the provincial status gong around.

—Inuvik (NWT) Drum

HAVE ALWAYS HAD

Young people have less respect for material things than their parents because they have never had to do without. Teen-agers are more at home in this modern age than their parents. Perhaps it is the parents who have the greatest adjustment to make.

—Rimbey (Alta.) Record

DISARMING POLICE

Many people . . . have been worrying about "Halt", a concoction for cooling curious canines . . . Let's not get excited about some chemical the formerly defenceless mailman uses to protect himself. There are, no doubt, a few irresponsible policemen capable of handing over their guns to the first child they see, too, but it is questionable if this is sufficient reason for disarming cops.

WITH OUR

by Ed.

The middle class is that group of people who live in public like the rich do—and in private like the poor do.

WE CAN TAKE IT

Both the editor and our sports columnist took a verbal rapping in a letter to the editor in last issue. The writer would like to see more sports coverage both on the sports page and in the Sports in the Glens column and we can't fault him for that.

We'd like to have more sports coverage, too, but this is a slow season for news of any kind, including athletics. Minor hockey activities have been reported each week since the season opened, but our correspondent appears far from happy with the coverage. He suggests goal scorers and other data on each game might be reported each week. With some 20 teams playing each Saturday that would make for a very lengthy story with limited readership.

It would call for a lot of reporting by someone in the Minor Hockey organization and we might not always have room for such a detailed story.

The writer suggests bowling news could be carried and yet this is a commercial sport. This paper would be left in the position of providing free publicity for one man's business while insisting on paid advertising from another. At the curling rink play for one trophy may extend over several weeks and we try to report the final game results.

Our Sports in the Glens columnist is quite capable of defending himself when necessary, but we can assure the writer, a newcomer to the Glengarry scene, that our columnist's flashbacks to an earlier era in sport are most popular with older readers of the News. He apparently has a total power of recall and the editorial desk receives many accolades on his writings, which are an unpaid labor of love.

As it happened in last week's column Mr. McDonell reminded sports promoters the phone is handy and he could use more current reports. As with most writers of columns, including this one, there are many times when ideas are scarce and one has nothing to fill a column with.

This is one of those weeks for your Rambling Reporter and he is happy to seize on that letter as an excuse to help fill this column. Constructive criticism is welcome anytime and we can assure the writer of that letter that we're always open to suggestions for making this newspaper more readable.

Husband hunting is the only sport where the animal that gets caught has to pay for the licence.

DEEP THOUGHTS ON THE DEEP FREEZE

That was the week that was much too cold for comfort and we have the uncomfortable suspicion there will be more of the same deep freeze flowing our way before spring is sprung. We're left wondering if that aged St. Regis Island Indian who forecast this foul type of winter was smart enough to fly south with the birds.

Quite a few took wing for Florida last week and if the weather doesn't soon improve there will be others migrating. And who's to blame them for abandoning this intemperate clime for a fling in the sunny south? Some of us may be sturdy enough to tough out winter's worst, but its possible we'd be taking flight, too, if we weren't tied down.

Actually it isn't natural for people to do anything but hibernate through a Canadian winter. Ask any respectable bear and he'll tell you the thing to do is dig a deep hole and crawl in for the duration. Birds are more mobile and they can't go underground, so they make a habit of taking off in the fall to follow the sun. Maybe we'd be smart to do likewise.

Ottawa and Washington should be working out a new reciprocity treaty that would encourage Canadians to mass migrate south in the winter. In return we could welcome hordes of Yankees in the summer, fleeing from the heat of their burning cities perhaps, to the cool tranquility of the few fishing grounds we have not yet polluted. The tourist trade would really flourish.

Sounds like a brilliant idea, doesn't it; but it won't work if this fellow Stanfield gets in to head the next government. He wouldn't sell many sets of Long Johns if we were all spending the winter in Florida.

Poverty is no disgrace—but it is difficult to think of anything else in its favor.

INTER-FAITH SERVICE TO BE HELD SUNDAY

An invitation is extended to the members of the four Christian congregations of Maxville to attend the Inter-Faith Service in St. James Roman Catholic Church, next Sunday evening at 8.30 p.m.

The observation by all Christian Denominations of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity (January 18-25) is becoming more and more widespread; and it is a faithful response to Christ's prayer for unity: "That they all may be one, as Thou, Father in Me, and I in Thee, that they also may be one in Us, that the world may believe that Thou hast sent me."

The Service will be conducted by the four clergymen of Maxville, namely, Rev. I. D. MacIver of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. W. E. Henderson of Maxville United Church, Rev. H. M. Preece, of St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, and Rev. L. A. Bourque of St. James Roman Catholic Church.

The sermon will be delivered by Rev. I. D. MacIver.

Derry Tenger, organist of Christ Anglican Church, Long Sault, will be the organist at this Service.

Rev. Sister Mary MacAlear, organist and choir directress of St. James Church, will lead the congregation in the singing of the hymns.

DW MacDiarmid Avonmore, Died

A community, shocked by the sudden passing of one of its most highly respected citizens, Daniel Wesley MacDiarmid, paid its last respects to his memory at the largely attended funeral held from the Brownlee Funeral Home, Finch, to St. James United Church, Avonmore, last Friday afternoon.

Mr. MacDiarmid, who was in his 67th year, suffered a fatal heart seizure as he was walking home on Main Street South, Avonmore, from work early last Tuesday evening, Jan. 9th. The announcement of his death was the occasion for many expressions of regret and tributes from all who knew him.

Mr. MacDiarmid was born on April 5, 1901, in the Ninth Concession of Charlottenburgh, a son of the late Malcolm Angus MacDiarmid and his wife Harriet Cooper. Educated locally, he farmed for a number of years on his father's farm.

On Sept. 8th, 1934, he married Dorothy Shaw of the Avonmore district. Mr. and Mrs. MacDiarmid settled on a farm at the North Branch, near Martintown. In 1943 they moved to Avonmore and for the next 17 years he worked for E. M. Miller at the local feed mill. For the past four years Mr. MacDiarmid worked in Barkley's Store in Avonmore.

A devoted husband and father, Mr. MacDiarmid took great pleasure from music and from working in his garden.

He was a faithful member of St. James United Church, its Board of Stewards, choir and A.O.T.S. Men's Club.

Mourning his passing in addition to his widow, are two sons, Selwyn MacDiarmid, Ottawa, and Donald MacDiarmid, Cornwall, and one daughter, Miss Marion MacDiarmid, at home; one brother, Hugh MacDiarmid, Apple Hill; and two sisters, Mrs. W. H. Hartley (Edith) New York City; and Mrs. Cecil Goodfellow (Janet), Greenwich, Conn., and a number of nieces and nephews.

Rev. Donald W. Pipe, minister of St. James United Church, conducted a brief service at the funeral home and the service in St. James' Church.

Honorary pallbearers were Fred Barkley and John E. Miller.

Active bearers were L. C. MacArthur, Dr. D. G. Bennett, Clifford MacRae, Rupert Pollock, Charles Rielly and Maldwyn Watkins.

Attending from a distance were Mrs. W. H. Hartley, New York City; Mrs. Cecil Goodfellow, Greenwich, Conn., Bert MacDiarmid, New Providence, NJ; Kenneth MacDiarmid, Toronto; Mrs. Kenneth Larkin, Allan MacDiarmid and Mrs. Lucy Laver, Orillia and Malcolm MacDiarmid, Pointe Claire, Que.

Other relatives and friends attended from Martintown, Apple Hill, Strathmore, Monkland, Cornwall and Ottawa.

The body was placed in the vault to await burial in the family plot in the North Branch Cemetery in the spring.

Property Transfers Reviewed At Annual Meeting Kenyon Church

Encouraging reports presented at the annual meeting of Kenyon Presbyterian Church, Dunvegan indicated the continued success of the various organizations and societies. Rev. H. R. Ferguson and Fraser Campbell were chairman and secretary respectively.

The auditor's statement read by D. R. Campbell showed that the sum of $13,566 was raised for all purposes in 1967. Some of the givings included General Fund, $7,476; Missionary Budget $1,529; Women's Missionary Societies $969; Cemetery Fund $1,071; Women's Association $918; Repair Fund $381. The meeting approved the appointment of Mrs. Beverley MacQueen as church treasurer.

The report of the Kirk Session, given by Dan N. MacLeod, recorded the highlights in the work and worship of the church during the past year. On April 12th a congregational gathering marked the redecoration of the interior of the church; in August the annual Old Time Service and on November 12th a largely attended Remembrance Day Service. The Deacon's Court sustained the loss through death of John W. Fraser. Eighty seven families, 181 communicant members and approximately 30 adherents constitute the charge.

It was noted that the Dunvegan cheese factory, a lot and a laneway was donated to the congregation by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Morrison, Outremont, Que. The building has been sold and will be demolished and the parcel of land will be integrated with the cemetery. The meeting also approved the sale of the site of the former Greenfield Presbyterian Church to Earl Taylor of Montreal.

Malcolm Grant proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. H. Russell Ferguson and to the other members of his household for their leadership and co-operation.

The following boards will serve in 1968:

Kirk Session—Rev. H. Russell Ferguson, Moderator; Neil D. MacRae, Representative Elder; Dan N. MacLeod, Clerk; D. J. Stewart, Neil B. MacLeod, Malcolm Grant, D. R. Campbell, Duncan N. MacRae, J. G. SEVENTY YEARS AGO—

Friday, January 14th, 1898

Business in the lumber line is on the eve of a great boom in Maxville, where advertisements are out asking for 35,000 saw logs, although as yet no sawmill is in sight. D. McKinnon & Co., it is said, will build a mill on the Finlay McEwen property north from the station, while Munro and McEwen of Moose Creek have a gang of men at work building a mill south of Smillie and Robertson's factory. — Dr. Randy McLennan of Williamstown, we learn, expects to leave in the Spring for Klondyke along with several other young men from the county. —

The many friends of Paul Leger, formerly in the harness business here, will be pleased to learn of his marriage on Saturday in Notre Dame Church, Montreal, to Miss Alexandrina Reeves, daughter of N. Reeves of this place.

BELL LINES

by L. M. Holtby
your telephone manager

Recently someone asked me: "Do you sell telephones?" Of course I said "No." That's right, Bell Canada doesn't sell telephones. We sell service. That telephone in your home or office or store is just a small part of a very large, complex communications network. When you lift the handset, a nation-wide service organization of skilled, responsible people is placed at your disposal. Connected to your phone are more wires, poles and microwave channels than you'd need to string a circuit to the moon and back. Enough switches, tubes, relays, amplifiers and transistors to wire the world for sound. All these elements, big and small — plus some that we haven't even mentioned — work in close harmony to build a voice path for you to almost anywhere in the world. No, we don't sell telephones. And we don't sell people, wires, poles or switches either. But we're happy to put the whole works at your service for a small monthly charge. Day or night your telephone is ready to serve you.

Repairing telephones isn't a dull job, at least for one repairman in British Columbia. One day he went to the forest ranger's cabin to find out what was wrong with the telephone. He analyzed the trouble as a short circuit and traced it to a nearby vacant lodge which was on the same line as the ranger's telephone. Hearing movements inside, he rattled the door — and a huge, frightened bear bounded through the side window and disappeared into the forest. The repairman entered the cabin and found that the bear had knocked the receiver off the hook, causing all the trouble. After replacing the receiver, getting in touch with the owner to have the window repaired he calmly reported the trouble "all cleared".

Do you have a party line? It's a thrifty and convenient service. And, it can be very pleasant for everyone especially when simple party line etiquette is observed. It's really just following the Golden Rule. You appreciate having the use of the line when you need it — and so do your party line "partners." Being sure that the receiver is hung in place, keeping calls spaced out and brief, teaching your children good telephone manners, respecting privacy — these are things that help give all party line users full value from their telephones. In those areas where there are several "partners" on a line and different rings are used to identify the number wanted, it's courteous and thoughtful to answer your ring as quickly as possible. Especially in the late evening hours when youngsters or neighbors who are ill may be asleep, it's a real kindness to all the "partners" on the line to speedily answer your ring. That way, you get your call but others are not unduly disturbed.

Minor Hockey Notes

(by Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald)

The death of Bill Masterton of the Minnesota North Stars is a grim reminder that hockey helmets serve a purpose. In Minor Hockey, helmets are mandatory but most boys prefer to play without them and coaches could do with some support from parents in enforcing this rule.

We had a few grim reminders on our own ice this week too. Bantam Roddie McRae of Glen Nevis collided with another player, had his wind knocked out and swallowed his tongue. Luckily coach Emile Hurtubise knew how to revive him because a case like this has to be treated on the spot. Fortunate we were to have a coach on hand who was experienced enough to handle this type of emergency.

Then, on Sunday night, Midget David Roy of Green Valley suffered a broken right arm in the first All-Star game of the season when he clashed into the boards. A husky left winger who has been averaging a goal a game, David will be definitely missed for the remainder of the season.

This game with the Cornwall All-Star Midgets was tough, hard-hitting hockey. Boys in this age group don't mind getting their feathers ruffled and need to be pinned down if they are going to learn good clean hockey. While our boys finished on the sick end of an 11-6 score they measured up well in the fray but were without the services of regular goalie Kevin McCormick who was out with the flu.

Lineups for the game are as follows with goals listed after the players name:

Cornwall—Gerry Campeau (6), Mike Desnoyers (2), Marcel Viau 1, Bernie Beaudry 1, Bill Rodney 1, Luc Sauve, Gilles Campeau, Murray McRae, Gerry Leroux, Mario Venutti, Mike Fitzpatrick, Don Brownell, Steve McCosham, Doug Raymond.

Alexandria—Lee Taillefer 2, Andre Poirier 1, Bruce Libbos 1, Blair MacDonald 1, Raymond Poirier 1, Rene Lefebvre, Jimmy MacDonald, Michel Boisvenue, John Louis Menard, Michael Kelly, David Roy, Peter Keyes, Geoffrey Mosher, Jerome Poirier, Guy Roussin.

Constable Terry Kelly is the keen coach of the All Star Midgets. It is gratifying to see our local constabulary doing something constructive to combat delinquency and give our boys a healthy respect for policemen. In the same vein Provincials Chris McDonell and Ron Graham are promoting the Lancaster Juniors.

While ice time is no problem we still have our financial worries. Our instructors for example cost $30 per Saturday and there are other incidentals. To replenish our coffers a tag day will be held on Saturday, January 27th and a card game has been planned for February.

The Association decided to try vests in lieu of sweaters for the regular Saturday games. These are inexpensive, can be slipped on easily and require a minimum of care. After Mrs. Duncan Morris and Mrs. Jim Humphries had painstakingly constructed a couple of dozen out of colored nylon they decided to ask the Adult Training Centre to lend a hand. And so they did—by sewing another few dozen for us. The instructors say they prefer them to sweaters.

Coach Glen Slater has a team of young eager Juveniles who lack opposition. If there are any Juvenile teams in the area who would be interested in competition please contact President Gerry Dextras or Mr. Slater.

Alexandria Midgets play in the big Hull, Que., tournament, Jan. 25th, at 9 p.m. If anyone wishing to go along for moral support will call Constable Kelly at 525-3716 transport will be arranged.

Results of last Saturday's games are reported by the instructors as follows: The leading scorers are from the top listing for the whole season, the defencemen and goalies were Saturday's best players.

Settle Boundary Charlottenburgh

The revised boundary line between Cornwall city limits and the Township of Charlottenburgh needs only the signature of the minister of lands and forests to become official.

Surveyor-general Robert Code, of the department of lands and forests, told a special meeting at Cornwall City Hall late last week, that he would recommend the survery line set by L. P. Stidwill.

The line is the same one as set by a survey made in 1840 and runs about six feet east of Boundary Road, putting the roadway within city limits.

The only question over the line came from Deputy-Reeve George Shoniker of Charlottenburgh, who wondered how this would affect his township if they wanted to commercially zone the area on this side of the boundary line and the city wanted its side to be residential.

Mayor Nick Kaneb told him that at present plans were underway to make the city land an industrial zone.

Representing Charlottenburgh was the deputy-reeve and representing the city was the mayor, Ald. Angelo Leblano and Ald. Norman Baril, as well as city legal adviser Barry Wilson, and city engineer C. F. Adams.

Accompanying Mr. Code was Chester McKergow, senior examiner of surveys for the province. Also present was an independent surveyor, Hazen Meldrum.

experience and integrity of men like Mr. Zeran.

O. F. Villeneuve, MPP for Glengarry, told the warden-elect, "I am sure you will fill your responsibilities as your predecessors have done. I am sure the members of the other governments will cooperate with you to the fullest in whatever demands are made. I wish you good health in the discharge of your duties."

Wallace Gallinger of Gallingertown and Lloyd McHugh of Alexandria, both former wardens, offered their congratulations. The immediate past warden Archibald MacDonell of Charlottenburgh, upon offering his congratulations, was called to the front of the room and presented with a picture of his own installation last year and a walnut gavel, made from the wood of a tree which formerly grew on the grounds of the county buildings.

The latter was a special gift to the past warden by Clerk-Treasurer L. C. Kennedy, who had arranged for the wood of the tree to be used for this purpose.

False Alarm Sent Area Police Cruisers Out

A chain reaction was set off Monday when something or someone triggered an alarm at the Canadienne Nationale Bank branch in Bourget.

The 10.05 p.m. red alert radioed out of Rockland throughout Number 11 district, sent provincial police in Ottawa, Long Sault, Morrisburg, Rockland, Lancaster, Hawkesbury, Maxville and Winchester, scurrying for their road blocks.

The top-secret policing activities were revealed within about 20 minutes and an estimated 30 police cruisers, which had sealed off a large area of the Ottawa Valley were summoned back to base.

Police from Rockland who swooped on the bank in the small village of Bourget found the premises locked and secure.

"We haven't figured out yet what triggered off the false alarm," a spokesman at Rockland OPP detachment said Tuesday, "but now you can see why we have achieved such a good crime-busting record."

troduced into this branch for students 14 years of age.

Mr. Lawson continued to discuss the problems confronting these students — personality and psychological problems, inability to concentrate, problems at home or with playmates. "These young people leave the regular stream of students and gravitate to the bottom."

Then there are the students who are smart enough but have no love of learning from books but show ability when they can do a job with their hands.

"The occupations course is designed, therefore, to give some academic training suitable to the individual ability of students, together with social training and development and some saleable skills," stated Mr. Lawson.

"Sometimes this has been referred to as a rescue course, a year or two provides a student with time to travel at his own speed, consolidate himself morally and physically and gives him a chance to accomplish something." "If the building program advances sufficiently, we will have two divisions in occupations — one for occupations and a second for services."

From the occupations course, some students will go into the trades requiring Grade 10 and take full apprenticeship. The services course will not lead to apprenticeship, unless they show increased ability and are transferred to occupations. Some students deliberately choose occupations.

Senior School Hoopsters Won While Juniors Dropped First At Hawkesbury

Senior basketballers at GDHS kept their win record clean last Thursday at Hawkesbury with a 34-27 victory but our junior boys dropped their first one, losing 36-32 to the home team.

In the senior game Charlie O'Brien scored 15, Paul Rochon 8, Arch McPherson 7 and Neil Macdonald 4. Hawkesbury scorers were: Timbers 7. Lalonde 5, Charlebois and L'Ecuyer 4 each, Menard 3, Lemay 2, Paquette and Seguin 1 each.

Paul Masson had 15 for the local juniors, Brian Libbos, 6, Paul Hurtubise 5, Ken Parsons 3, Geoff. Mosher 2 and Rolland Lalonde 1. For the home team Courville had 11, Duplantie 7, Durocher 6, Bougie and Joly 4 each, L'Ecuyer and Sabourin 2 each.

The GDHS teams journeyed to Cornwall Friday night for exhibition games against CCVS. The juniors lost 49-36 and the seniors 44-36. In the senior game Archie McPherson scored 26 points.

Senior Men Won

Alexandria men's senior basketball team defeated the Hawkesbury I.C.R. team 32 to 16 in last night's game at Hawkesbury. The date and place of next week's game is uncertain due to some of the High School gymnasium being used for examination purposes.

UCW Members From Church On Hill Guests Of Local Council CWL

Members of the United Church Women of the Church on the Hill, Alexandria, were guests of Alexandria, Council, Catholic Women's League at that group's first meeting of the new year. The meeting was held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Lloyd McHugh.

Mrs. Alex McDonald, president, welcomed the visiting group and the CWL membership. The gathering was held as a means of continuing the spirit of ecumenicity.

"The true ecumenical spirit begins with belief and prayer," said Msgr. Donald A. Kerr, who brought greetings from St. Finnan's parish. "The spirit of understanding and forbearance should help us to see the good in others and weed out the bad in ourselves — as we seek the glory of God."

Mrs. J. Y. Humphries, UCW president, read the scripture from Matthew 2 telling of the wise men being directed by a star to Christ.

Mrs. Lloyd McHugh, CWL social action convener, told of their study in the neighborhood and the decision to open Alexander Hall, Sunday afternoons, to young people in their teens for dancing and recreation. Two CWL members supervise the fellowship hours, and in this way hope to create a centre of interest at a time when young people need something to keep them busy. Mrs. McHugh completed her report by reading a "Prayer For Youth."

Guest speaker Lorne Lawson, principal of Glengarry District High School outlined the three main branches in the secondary school program with special emphasis on occupational training.

Mrs. O. H. Billes, secretary, thanked Mr. Lawson and presented him with a record. The guest speaker was also the winner of a door prize. Mrs. Duncan A. McDonald had contributed the prize, made by the housekeeper of Father Alex, SFM, when he was serving in Japan. Father Alex, a son of Mrs. McDonald, is now studying in Antigonish, NS.

Mrs. Alex McDonald, during a business period, reminded members of the baked goods sale, February 24, at the Glengarry Motor Sales, as a part of the Alexandria Winter Carnival sponsored by the Richelieu Club. Members will participate in the March of Dimes, January 31. A day of recollection at the Villa Fatima Retreat Centre will take place February 6 from 10.30 a.m. to 8.30 p.m. with Rev. Paul Lapierre in charge.

Two members were appointed to meet with the UCW to plan the Ecumenical service for World Day of Prayer at the Church-on-the Hill, March 1.

Conveners for Thursday's meeting were Mrs. Billes and Mrs. Ranald McDonald. Assisting Mrs. Lloyd McHugh with serving refreshments were Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. Gerald McDonald, Mrs. Billes and Mrs. Ranald McDonald.

TB Association To Broaden Scope

A proposal which would define a new role for the St. Lawrence Tuberculosis Association, is being studied by board members and will be discussed in detail at the February meeting of the association.

Because the Ontario government is gradually taking over case finding, the association, along with others in Canada, has decided to expand activities to include other respiratory diseases.

In an effort to secure professional assistance in drafting its new program, the association had Dr. Floris E. King and L. Foster, both experts in the field in attendance at a recent meeting. Dr. King is a consultant with the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and Mr. Foster is program consultant in the Eastern Counties of Ontario.

Although the principal function will still be eradication of tuberculosis, the prevention and control of other respiratory diseases is now being undertaken, it was pointed out.

The association decided to consider the following other duties:

Encourage general practitioners to give tuberculin tests with physical examinations.

To assist public health nurses by helping them attend university alcoholism courses.

To contribute to research and international aid.

To study the feasibility of arranging a panel on smoking and youth as a theme for 1968.

To provide scholarships for professionals to attend specific respiratory disease institutes, meetings and conferences.

To explore and work with intersocial service agencies.

To participate in programs assisting senior citizens, where the incidence of TB is high.

The Weeklies Say

CANADIANS HAVE LITTLE HOPE

The CBC is a bureaucratic, inefficient Establishment which claims it can do a better job than private enterprise. Its original ideal was commendable . . briefly, to develop and hold Canadian talent in Canada and "protect" the listening and viewing public against exploitation. We feel, however, that the premium is getting too much for the non-insurance we are getting. Canadian talent has little or no hope with the CBC. The amount of worthwhile programs—and there are some on the CBC—is so small they raise the $3,000,000-a-week price tag to astronomical heights.

A THOUGHT ON FARM SAFETY
A near miss this time could mean a bad accident next time
Glengarry Farm Safety Council

Federal Dairy Subsidy Eligibility Outlined By Dairy Commissioners

Farmers shipping manufacturing milk and cream who deliver less than the equivalent of 12,000 pounds of milk testing 3.5 per cent, or 420 pounds of butterfat, between April 1, 1967 and March 31, 1968, will not be eligible for federal dairy subsidy quotas in the year starting April 1, 1968, the Canadian Dairy Commission announced today.

Those who deliver between 12,000 and 50,000 pounds of milk, or the equivalent in cream, in the present dairy year will be eligible for subsidy quotas next year if they are full-time farmers and milk and cream represents an appreciable part of their farming operations. Those in this group will receive application forms from the Commission to re-apply for registration and a subsidy quota. If granted, the quota will be the amount of their reported deliveries in 1967-68.

The decision to modify an earlier proposal to exclude those shipping less than 50,000 pounds followed talks with farm organizations who underscored the difficulties that would have confronted many engaged in full-time mixed farming for whom dairying plays an important role.

Those with quotas this year for more than 50,000 pounds of milk will retain the same in the upcoming dairy year. Where the original for this year was adjusted by a supplementary quota or a quota reallocation, the adjusted figure will prevail. These shippers do not need to re-apply.

The Commission stressed that the rate of subsidy is conditional on funds provided by Government —a matter of subsequent announcement.

When the dairy year ends March 31, the Commission will determine the amount of remaining quota available for distribution. This will be used primarily to provide quota adjustments for those in the intermediate level of production, including consideration for those who have increased their deliveries above the 50,000 pound figure.

Some of the remainder will also go to those who entered dairying during the current dairy year. But the Commission warns that "this is the last year newcomers may ceive subsidy quotas except by reallocation." Such reallocation quotas must be for not less than 100,000 pounds of milk, or 3,500 pounds of butterfat.

A man can apply for a quota reallocation if he buys a farm and herd, or a herd, from a quota holder who surrenders it to the Commission. As it now applies, the reallocation must not bring the maximum total quota for the buyer above 300,000 pounds of milk or 10.500 pounds of butterfat. However, the Commission is considering additional provision in the case of partnerships or father and son operations.

Referring to the new program, the Commission stressed that quotas were related only to subsidy and were not a restriction on the amount which anyone could produce and sell at the market place.

The Man From . . .

The farm last year received a plaque to show it had been in the family more than 100 years — "considerably more." It's now operated by Hamish's younger brother.

Hamish MacLeod went to Ontario Agricultural College in the thirties. "There wasn't much else to do," he says. "Those were the Hungry Thirties. Although we weren't as bad off as the folk in the cities. At least we could still produce."

He graduated in 1937 and got a job with the Ontario government as ag. rep. in Grenville county. By this time Canada was beginning to come out of the Depression, things were picking up a little and the ag. rep. service was better accepted.

Earlier, when the service was still new, experienced farmers had a fine scorn for the "young pipsqueaks" out of college who tried to tell them how to farm. One county had even held a public debate on the motion "that the agricultural representative is not earning his salary." The motion was defeated because half the farmers didn't know what the ag. rep. did and the other half didn't know what he earned.

But when Mr. MacLeod came into the service he found farmers willing to learn. Within two years the demand for food was hugely increased by the Hitler war, and farmers wanted to know what they could do to produce more. The traditional gap between the science and the practice of agriculture wasn't much in evidence.

He stayed in Grenville for seven years before going to the work for which he has become so well known. In 1944 he became assistant manager at the premix feed plant in Guelph of United Farmers Co-operative Company. The company reorganized in 1948 as United Co-operatives of Ontario.

After 18 months he became manager of the feed department and in 1951 he was appointed manager of the distribution division, which meant he was in charge of United Co-operatives' wholesaling, manufacturing and buying. He was dealing with feed, petroleum, seed, fertilizer and farm supplies.

These were the great days for Ontario farm-owned business. Mr. MacLeod recalls how Leonard Harman (now general manager of United Co-operatives) was travelling the province, stirring up co-operative action. Farm forum was in its heyday as a supporter of anything farmers could do collectively to better themselves. New co-ops were being organized fast—and most of them have remained strong assets to their farmer-members.

At the same time, a revolution in livestock feeding was taking place, and one of the chief revolutionaries was Hamish MacLeod. Farmers were turning away from stuffing all kinds of home-grown feed into their animals. They were beginning to realize that feeds carefully formulated by experts could produce more meat per dollar. Research into feeding methods was being applied more than ever before.

The way this has paid off in lowering costs to the farmer is illustrated by the Canadian Feed Manufacturers National Association (a body of which Mr. MacLeod was elected president in 1954). Twenty-five years ago, the association says, it took half as much feed again to produce a dozen eggs as it does today. It took six pounds of feed to produce one of turkey; today's farmer expects to get his pound of turkey for only 3.5 of feed. It takes 1,050 pounds of good western grain without supplements to grow a hog to 200 pounds; today's modern feeds will produce that hog with only 609 pounds, and do it faster.

The great growth of co-ops and the simultaneous growth of the feed industry meant that Hamish MacLeod was atop of a virtual waterspout of business. The Guelph plant was expanded. United Co-operatives brought another at Peterborough and built a third at Kemptville.

Besides all this, feed mixing became one of the chief items of business at local co-ops, with Mr. MacLeod and his department always handy for advice.

In 1965 he became manager of United Co-operatives marketing division, a post he held to his retirement. This included selling, on the Ontario stockyards around $40 million worth of cattle each year, marketing grain (mostly corn and soybeans) and being agent for the Ontario Wheat producers Marketing Board. It also included the Tend-R-Flesh operation of United Co-operatives — a farmer-owned poultry processing business.

Mr. MacLeod has done his share for international amity. Through his years with United Co-operatives he maintained friendly relations with American co-ops, particularly the giant Agway of New England. There was a constant to-and-fro of useful information between the Ontario and American co-operatives. He attended the 1959 meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, travelled to the Cologne Food Fair for the Ontario Food Council in 1965, and has been to Jamaica and Bermuda on a co-op aid project.

Now he has retired from United Co-operatives he isn't taking on just one new job. He also took on the secretaryship of the Canadian Hampshire Swine Club. It's a new breed to most Canadian farmers but Mr. MacLeod, pointing to its lean meat and production qualities, sees a big future for Hamps for cross breeding.

It could be that the veteran revolutionary is stepping on to another waterspout. Or maybe he even causes them.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

Green Bay Packers, the Hamilton Tigers of U.S. football, headed from the brilliant sunshine of Florida into the wintry blasts of Winconsin late last Sunday with another World Football Championship tucked away. The results were really not unexpected although we thought, as did many more, that the Oakland Raiders, like Riders (Rough or Prairie variety) would have kept the score closer.

The NFL still rule handily especially by virtue of Green Bay who may be compared to the explosive Yankees that made the American baseball league so superior not so long ago. However, as is the general rule in sport, these facets sooner or later find common ground and we venture to say that ere too long an American Football League club will hand Green Bay or some NFL team their comeuppance and take over for a while. The AFL has improved greatly and their day is bound to be not too far away.

Watching Sunday's game was a fine relaxing afternoon after a week of such extreme cold, however, don't you agree we have had enough football for a while.

THE FLYING FRENCHMEN

The late Leo Dandurand, sport history will record, rated among the leaders in Canada during his lifetime. When this noted French Canadian, with his partners, bought the Canadien Hockey Club from the estate of the late George (Kendall) Kennedy this was more than a financial transaction.

Previous to this franchise transfer Canadiens were known as Les Habitants. They were a rugged crew vis Newsy Lalonde, Didier Pitre, Joe Hall, Billy Couture and George Vezina to mention a few in passing.

They waged many an ice battle against Montreal Wanderers, Ottawa Senators, Toronto (varied tags) and Quebec Bulldogs (at times).

Then came Leo Dandurand. He revitalized an aging roster by signing a CNR machinist apprentice, Howie Morenz of Stratford. Leo traded Newsy Lalonde to Saskatoon for Aurel Joliat and added out of Ottawa one of the younger Bouchers—Billy. Sylvia Mantha may have been a gangling awkward junior, too, but this Montreal boy was added to the defence.

Almost overnight this old club now under new management became the chief attraction due to their speed, of any NHL game. A Montreal sports writer aptly named them "The Flying Frenchmen".

Like every other club in the NHL, Canadiens have had their slumps as well as winning streaks. Their eras at the top and also at the bottom while rebuilding. However, due to newspaper headline space reasons, the club is now generally called Les Habs but to those of us who have followed their play down through the years they are still — "The Flying Frenchmen".

Last weekend climaxed a drive that carried "Toe" Blake and his Les Habs from the cellar to within range of first place in the NHL standing. The wolves are silent at least for the time being and although the disposing of Boston last Saturday night 5-1 in the Forum wasn't a dime novel thriller by any means it did prove that Canadiens are back where they belong in the thick of the scramble for first place.

Count us among those who are pleased that "Toe" Blake didn't retire a year or two ago. The old "Lamp Lighter" stayed around to convince most fans that as a coach he rates with Dick Irvin, Art Ross, Lester Patrick, Tommy Gorman, Pete Green, Jack Adams, Frank Boucher and a few more.

OLD SPORTSMAN CALLS

Just after lunch hour, last Sunday, we answered the door bell. We greeted a nattily dressed veteran in blue blazer, carrying a walking stick. Our visitor simply said, "Just an old sportsman calling to say hello". Thus Tommy Stapley introduced himself and when you are nudging the four score mark you don't travel alone. Our guest was accompanied by his daughter Kay, husband Bill Bradey and little daughter Rosemary. They were returning to St. Andrews from Dunc Morris Funeral Home. The late Donald Ranald McMillan was a brother-in-law of Tommy Stapley.

Chatting with this adopted son of Glengarry was more than interesting and we were amazed at his keen memory and the manner in which he recalled the by-gone days and the personalities that he grew up with from here in the Glens.

Tommy Stapley was born in Waterford, Ireland, and as an orphan boy arrived in Canada in 1900. He first lived in the Buckingham then Almonte area. About 1910 Tommy was old and able enough "to go to the shanty". He was hired at a camp of the Bishop Lumber Company near Cobalt.

This turned out to be Tommy Stapley's introduction to Glengarry, that later became his adopted home. In camp he became a close friend of Angus (Angie) Walker, John Alec and Kenny O'Connor, John Angus (Grocer) McDonald and John Angus (9th Lancaster) Kennedy. When camp broke up in 1911, Tommy accompanied his shanty friends to Glengarry. With no relatives Tommy checked in to the Queen's Hotel, now Alexandria town parking lot, and managed by Archie (Malcolm) McDougall. Tommy's room mate was "Satan" Dan (Greenfield) MacKinnon.

Stapley and MacKinnon joined the MacIntosh construction firm and among their carpenter achievements was the erecting of the steeple on the present Church on the Hill, in Ourtown.

The next construction job was with Angus Kelly working for Sandy Cameron building an extension to the Ontario Hospital in Brockville. By this time World War One had broken out in full fury and the 38th was recruiting in the Ottawa Valley.

Tommy Stapley had fine companions in peace time and the same rule applied in war training as among his local soldier buddies were none other than George (Zic MacIsaac) MacDonald, Willie Lebeau and Steve Quenneville. Before the draft left for overseas Tommy was transferred to the old 59th canal guard and later honorably discharged due to a leg injury received when a boy around Buckingham.

Tommy Stapley then settled down to family life with Kate (Little Alec) MacMillan, Lochiel, as his bride.

We spent a most enjoyable hour as our guest recalled important sport events mixing up same with a recount of some of the hotel fights when Donald John (Saddler) Macdonell was quite a capable policeman. As our guests were about to leave we asked Tommy if he would tell us the true story of the legend when he was mistaken for Royalty.

Tommy chuckled and said, yes I will and I remember the occasion quite vividly. I got off the train in Alexandria. It was stormy. Nobody to meet me. "Now", Tommy continued, "Leo Marcoux as you remember was always the gentleman hack driver and knowing I frequently stayed at the Queen's intended to ask me if there was where I was going. But for the moment Leo couldn't think of the name Queen's so stepping up closer Leo with a semi-bow asked, "King George" — "Hell no", I replied with a grin, "Tommy Stapley from the 14th of Lochiel".

Laff Of The Week

"I'm sorry, but we don't stock the particular size elastic bands for this make of car."

New Officers . . .

the members went to Knox Church Hall, where they were catered to by the Church's Ladies' Aid at the County's Annual Banquet. The guests were introduced by Rev. J. A. McGowan. He then called on Rev. Ernest Barratt, Minister of Trinity United Church, Vankleek Hill, who spoke on the fine characteristics of the Prince of Orange, King William of England, and gave a copy of King William's last Prayer to each present. Bro. McGowan called on Rev. Leslie Carson, Pastor of 1st Baptist Church, Vankleek Hill, who spoke on the principles of Protestantism.

Wor. Bro. J. K. MacLeod extended the thanks of the guests and brethren for the warm welcome received, and delicious turkey dinner served by the ladies. Mrs. George Carkner, President of the Ladies' Aid, expressed the appreciation of the group for the kind words by Bro. MacLeod, and said, "it was a pleasure to serve you, and hoped it would be our privilege again".

The next Prescott-Glengarry County Orange Lodge annual meeting will be held in Pine Grove LOL Hall on December 3rd, 1968.

MOUNTIES ARE FRIENDS

Too often, thoughtless people vituperate against the police, RCMP or otherwise, for some alleged grievance and give their children a subconscious animosity against the forces of law and order. It is high time that we recognized that our Mounties are our friends, as well as the official guardians of the law.

—Hudson Bay (Sask.) Post-Review

DON'T EXPECT IT

At the moment, we are told, it would be unreasonable to expect the federal government to do much for us in a financial way. This is because the government is reaping where it has sowed and finds the harvest meagre. It is short of spending money and the North is always a safe place to make the shortage felt.

It was decided to hold a workshop at the May Rally for secretaries under the guidance of Miss Boyd. Announcement was made of a meeting to be held in St. John's Church Hall, Cornwall, on January 21st in the afternoon when Miss Margaret Kennedy of Jobat, India, would speak and show slides.

The president expressed appreciation to the Session of Knox United Church for placing their facilities at our disposal, the same to be conveyed by letter. She thanked the members of the executive for their help and co-operation during the year.
