Liberal Leader Advocates Program Of Product Subsidies For Ontario Agriculture

A better deal for Ontario farmers, including a program of agricultural product subsidies to be underwritten by the provincial government, was advocated by Robert Nixon, Ontario Liberal leader, in a get-acquainted visit to Glengarry last night.

The young provincial party leader met party stalwarts at a reception at the home of riding candidate Gerard Brunet, St. Raphael's, before addressing a dinner meeting held in Green Valley Pavilion.

"Provincial cabinet ministers can rationalize all they want," suggested Mr. Nixon, "but there's no reason why Ontario should not undertake a program of agricultural product subsidies."

Mr. Nixon said the provincial government is shirking its responsibility to the Ontario farming community when it passes the responsibility for the farm income dilemma to Ottawa. "If Ontario is to live up to its label as a 'Province of Opportunity', its own Department of Agriculture should provide the opportunity for farmers to become prosperous," he said.

The Liberal Leader himself is a dairy farmer. He has some 30 head of Holsteins on his 260-acre farm north of Brantford in Brant County, and is very familiar with the problems of quality production and the cost-price squeeze.

He said the recent farm conference in Kemptville was useful in airing some of the major problems facing the province's farmers. "but action is needed now to put the farmer in a position to share in the economic growth of the province."

Mr. Nixon said the Progressive Conservative Party has been running a series of very expensive advertisements in newspapers across the province trying to convince people that 'they've never had it so good'. The ads say 'you've got a good deal going for you if you live in Ontario." I know there are hundreds of thousands of people who wouldn't agree. I know because I've talked to many of them.

ARDA has defined rural poverty as a family farm with total capital of less than $25,000. gross sales of agricultural products of less than $2,500 and off-the-farm work by the operator of less than 25 days a year. Sixteen per cent of Ontario's farms are in this category. In one area of the province, near Parry Sound, more than 40 per cent of all farm families have been hit this hard by poverty.

Thirty-seven per cent of rural dwellings in this province do not have hot and cold water; 35 per cent do not have flush toilets; 48 per cent are without furnaces; nine per cent are without refrigeration and 18 per cent without cars.

Mr. Nixon said these figures are a disgrace in a province which boasts the greatest prosperity in its history. "They reflect the failure of the provincial govern-

Dominionville Home Gutted, Cattle Lost, During Friday's Heavy Storm

Friday afternoon's heavy rains flattened grain crops to a degree across Glengarry and the accompanying electrical storm and wind also caused loss.

A house at Dominionville was destroyed by lightning, six head of prize Holsteins were electrocuted in the Vankleek Hill area and high winds brought down trees and damaged farm buildings. Some cellars were flooded in Alexandria when sewers backed up under pressure of the heavy downpour.

The six cows killed by lightning were part of a herd of 16 belonging to Rodolphe Lariviere, RR3 Vankleek Hill. They were killed about 4.40 p.m. when lightning struck a tree under which they had sought protection.

Pieces of the tree were found on another farm some distance east of the Lariviere home. The dead cows were discovered when Mr. Lariviere herded his cattle home at 5 p.m.

Bell Telephone officials reported minor line breakages at Alexandria, Lochiel and Cornwall.

Lightning Caused Loss Of Home

Lightning is believed responsible for loss of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wirtanen, Dominionville. destroyed by fire during Friday afternoon's heavy storm. Only four charred walls remain and the loss is estimated at $20,000.

At the time of the fire, the occupants, including a pre-school age grandchild, were in Brockville attending a Jehovah's Witness convention.

The building, a two storey frame house recently had been renovated and contained a large amount of antique furniture, very little of which was saved.

All 11 men of the Maxville Volunteer Fire Brigade were on duty at the scene from shortly after the outbreak at 5.55 p.m., until 11 p.m. and two of the fire fighters remained overnight.

The Apple Hill force aided the Maxville men by drawing water.

During the fire, two volunteers received slight cuts.

Chief Merton Casey said he believed lightning striking a TV aerial travelled down it and got into the insulation of the building where the fire started.

Anniversary Mass Sung In Home As Couple Marked Golden Date

An anniversary mass was sung by Monsignor D. A. Kerr, Monday morning, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacKinnon, Elgin Street, who were marking their golden wedding anniversary. It is believed the first time in the history of the diocese that such a mass was sung in the home.

Long residents of Alexandria where Mr. MacKinnon conducted a blacksmith shop for 45 years until his retirement some five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon were married Aug. 20, 1917, in St. Catherine's Church, Greenfield. He is a native of Greenfield while Mrs. MacKinnon is the former Laura Helps of Maxville. She taught school in the Sixth Kenyon for years and in more recent years served as a supply teacher in various area schools.

A family dinner was held in their home, Sunday, to mark the occasion. Later many relatives and friends called and there were many congratulatory messages and gifts.

With them were their two sons: Cameron MacKinnon of Balmertown, Ont., and Douglas of Alexandria. There are nine grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Among those present for the golden date were Cameron MacKinnon and sons Donald and Garry. Mr. and Mrs. George Thorpe of Balmertown; Mr. and Mrs. James Masterson, Deep River; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olsen, Ridgetown, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Kent McDermid and son Christopher, Iroquois.

Council Updating Licensing ByLaw

Licensing by-laws of the town are to be reviewed and amalgamated into one new by-law, council decided at Tuesday's meeting. This will cover transient traders, pedlars, bicycles and all other licenses issued by the town. Some of these have not been reviewed for years, it was pointed out.

The decision followed discussion on an application by Ernest Desormeaux of Cornwall, to set up a car drivers' instruction school here on a one day a week basis. He felt the $200 deposit called for in the present by-law should not apply. After discussion council instructed the clerk that the usual deposit should be paid.

Approval of the borrowing by-law for purchase of Glengarry Gardens has not yet been received from Toronto and Clerk Collin is to ask for a progress report from Town Solicitor G. W. Gorrell.

J. P. Touchette approached council on the need for a storm sewer on Main St. North, urgently needed to prevent flooding of basements. The matter was referred to the town engineer.

A by-law was passed covering the clearing of dry grass, hay, etc., from yards and vacant lots. A notice in this issue warns that yards and lots not so cleared by Sept. 1st will be done by the Corporation and charged to the owner.

Chief Cleroux had been asked to enforce the by-laws covering unnecessary noise and unsightly lots covered with debris, car skeletons, etc. He suggested to Council that a by-law enforcement officer be appointed for this purpose. Council felt he should be able to approach transgressors in a diplomatic way and get results.

Charles Emile Massia was appointed school crossing guard at the corner of Main and Lochiel Streets, replacing Antoine Massia.

IT'S OUR OPINION

No More Ontario Scholars ?

The last province-wide Grade 13 examinations were written in June and apparently the tension and pressure was not as unbearable as the "reformers" make it out to be. Some 90 per cent of the Grade 13 papers written at Glengarry District High School were passed and five students rated first class honors.

Jim Nyman won the prized Ontario Scholar rating and across the province there were more Grade 13 students than ever before with an average of 80 per cent or more on seven papers. They well merit this title of distinction and the provincial scholarship that goes with it.

It seems to us a retrograde step that these examinations are being done away with and that our scholars will be without this incentive to serious study in years to come.

Next year each individual school will begin marking its own Grade 13 papers and some of the psychological pressure may be off the students writing these exams. No doubt as many or more will get a passing mark but will they be as ready for university? And if the student is obliged to write both a high school leaving and a college entrance examination will anything have been gained? Rather it seems the tensions will be twofold.

In Ontario the pressure of the unprepared and the unqualified on the academic courses in our high schools began with the cancellation of the high school entrance examinations at Grade 8. Then came the loss of a province-wide junior matriculation to create more pressure for Grade 13 students.

The "reformers" in education have won another round in making it easier for students to breeze through senior high school. There will be no province-wide Grade 13 examinations next year and, presumably no Ontario Scholar distinction for students to aim at.

We doubt, though, that it will be any easier for students to survive that first year at university. And the drop-outs at that level will be more costly and disheartening.

Only One Criticism Of Expo

Expo might be described as an unqualified success were it not for the foul-up in tourist accommodations. Logexpo, the branch of World Fair organization entrusted with the task of locating suitable accommodation for visitors, must share at least some of the blame for the mess.

The government of Quebec and the City of Montreal probably were even more at fault in permitting the erection of some 75 temporary motels, many of them so lacking in today's standards of accommodation the tourists refused to use them.

An Expo-commissioned survey in July revealed that 16.1 per cent of visitors were unhappy with their lodgings and that is estimated to add up to more than a quarter-million going home in disgust. Most hurt must have been those who refused to accept shoddy quarters but who were unable to get a refund on their prepaid reservations. "No refunds" was a sign prominently displayed in these motel offices and that was frustrating for disgusted tourists who had made reservations on the strength of attractive brochures detailing conveniences that were non-existent.

One of these was Stanley Cohen, a Washington journalist who left $84.24 behind when he moved on in disgust from one of these jerry-built motels, the Canadiana 67. Cohen didn't relish being taken in and his protests reached the U.S. Post-Office which has blacklisted the motel because of fraudulent advertising.

How many thousands of other Expo visitors have lost how many thousands of dollars because of this "no refund" policy will never be known. Impossible to gauge, either, is the effect on future tourist trade to Montreal and the province of Quebec which could stem from so many Expo visitors returning home with the feeling they had been defrauded. Their complaints will get widespread coverage and no doubt will grow in the telling.

More than a year ago there were warnings of the snafu in Expo accommodation that could develop. Even after the Quebec Government brought in legislation to regulate room prices and rentals there was criticism of loopholes in the law that would lead to trouble. The critics evidently were right and the mess that developed probably could have been prevented by better legislation.

Logexpo may not have been responsible for inspecting premises and seeing to their suitability. Surely it could have established a priority list, giving top ranking to good accommodation.

Expo is heading into its last two months with a forecast of 45 million visitors by October's end. We have yet to hear anything but praise of the lavish spectacle and it is to be regretted the mess in tourist accommodation was allowed to develop.

Freedom And The Management Of News

One of the first things Hitler did when he gained control of Germany was to give Goebbels the power to suppress the news. Hitler was a smart man. He knew that freedom is impossible without a free press, notes an editorial in the Lachute Watchman.

There are signs that the suppression of the facts, or "news management", as it is more politely called, is becoming an accepted part of North American society.

There is little doubt that news management is being practised in regards to the war in Viet Nam. A few American university and church leaders, and a few brave legislators, have warned that the American government has persuaded itself of a totally false interpretation of a people and country it does not understand. Having set themselves to support this theory, the government then manufactures news favorable to its view, and tightens the noose around the throats of those who publicly disagree.

An example of this ruthless news management took place recently. An American unit was nearly wiped out by an ambush and the news was withheld from news media for three days. When they saw how bad it looked in print, the military claimed they had searched the jungles and "found" an additional 105 enemy bodies they had "overlooked" before.

On the basis of past performance, we must assume this really was accomplished by some Major in his Saigon office adding those casualties by pencilling them in. It was long ago admitted that figures on Viet Cong killed are arrived at by rough count from the air, and then multiplying by three on the theory that the Viet Cong drag away two dead bodies for every one that is found. Some explanation must soon be found why the enemy casualty figures claimed are in danger of outrunning the total number of Viet Cong soldiers.

Freedom has become a fiction when you are asked to make decisions on the basis of managed news. The news out of Vietnam is now controlled — we can almost say censored — by the assignment of an "Information Officer" to every newsman in the field. He receives friendly suggestions about what to write. If he does not co-operate, you must remember that all transport is U.S. military vehicles, and permission must be secured to visit any area beyond the air-conditioned Saigon bars and the offices where mimeographed releases are handed out daily.

In order to measure this control of the news, note that until a year ago, American newspapers were still printing pictures of Viet Cong prisoners being tortured, and children burned by American napalm. Today the pictures are close-ups of Americans who are fighting heroically. We assume these pictures are genuine, although a few brave writers reported, before the censorship descended, seeing U.S. Army units stage mock battles for the television cameras, complete with close-ups of "wounded" and "dying" men.

Perhaps even more dangerous is the recent report in a leading American magazine that some American cities are attempting to establish police control of the news during race riots. The idea is that all news stories would have to be cleared through police headquarters during riots, so that no "unacceptable" stories would get out. Even worse is that some American newspapers have abdicated their responsibility to the public by supporting this idea of police control of the news.

No matter what opinions you hold on the war in Viet Nam, or race riots, it has to be admitted that no one can make sound judgments on the basis of censored news, and that there cannot be freedom when the police and military decide what the newspapers will print. Communist countries control all their news; the idea of democracy is to avoid that type of tyranny.

Management of the news is an evil that must cease if Western society is to retain its democratic way of life. Hitler burned books and censored newspapers to suppress the truth. We fought against that tyranny then; we must not allow it to infiltrate our own society now.

During a recent tour of the Eastern Provinces we visited several museums, including the Glengarry Museum at Dunvegan.

My wife and I were greatly impressed with the setting and contents. The curator is to be congratulated as are all who contributed items of early history.

In our opinion it is much more authentic than many, making pioneer life really come alive.

To add to our enjoyment Mrs. MacKinnon, who was on duty in the absence of the curator, gave generously of her time and pointed out items of special interest, relating the personal history when possible.

Our feeling is that too few descendants and tourists are aware that this interesting exhibit exists.

We found this museum more or less by chance and having several Glengarry friends in Manitoba decided to include Dunvegan in our itineray.

May we suggest that the Tourist Information Bureau be requested to point out this attraction to tourists and signs be strategically located as we found that even folks in the surrounding neighborhood were not too well informed.

We hope this is not taken as criticism but more to point out the fact that the Glengarry folk have something very lovely and rare; something that Glengarrians can be very proud to show to everyone.

Our thanks for inviting us.

Sincerely
Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Foord

Laura Secord On Her Way To Warn The British, 1813

By the spring of 1813 the Americans had finally won a campaign in the War of 1812-14. They took over the town of York in April and a month later went on to take Fort George at the junction of Lake Ontario and the Niagara River. Severing Upper Canada from the east now seemed within easy reach.

But a 700-man force of Canadian and British regulars followed the Americans to Stoney Creek near Hamilton. There they routed the American camp and pressed on to Beaver Dam near Queenston. The Americans decided to finish the Canadian force at Beaver Dam and 600 men were assigned to do the job.

However. before the planned American attack, two American officers commandeered a meal at the home of Loyalist James Secord. While the uninvited guests ate, they talked of the Beaver Dam plan. At sunrise the next morning 38-year-old Laura Secord slipped out of the house and casually drove a cow past an American outpost. Then she hurried 12 miles through the backwoods to Beaver Dam where she was taken, tattered and exhausted, to Colonel James Fitzgibbon. Laura blurted out the story of the planned attack, but as it happened Fitzgibbon already knew of it. The Americans were ambushed by Canadian Indians before they reached Beaver Dam.

Nonetheless, the story of Laura Secord's brave journey to warn of the attack has become a Canadian legend.

WITH OUR

by Ed.

Elephants, they say, never forget. But how often do you lend anything to an elephant?

THOSE TREES HAVE HAD IT

Seems to be a fact that only God can make a tree. The editor has been hearing so much beefing from womenfolk about those centennial trees along Main Street he's asked us to suggest their removal from the scene pronto.

We've heard it from several sources too, and we've got to agree those evergreens have turned an unsightly shade and are ready for removal. Besides being hideous in complexion some of them are a menace to traffic, we've been told, and the sidewalks could do without them very nicely.

What's to do about it? Each pot and tree is the property of the businessman who paid for its presence, as we understand it. The pot is the expensive portion and it might serve a useful purpose next summer and the summer after that, if the owner would store it away for the winter and fill it with flowers come next May.

No doubt the Board of Trade could spearhead a flower-pot revival next spring and meanwhile it might induce our town fathers to remove the dead trees to the dump and the good earth to the playground area.

So much criticism has come our way we're jumping the gun by removing our tree this week.

If some people get lost in thought, probably it's because it's unfamiliar territory to them.

ONE HOUR FROM EXPO?

Way back in February we invited more than one friend in the weeklies to make Alexandria his base while visiting the World Fair.

"We're only an hour from Expo", we assured them.

One of them took us up on it last week and did a good job of almost proving us a fabricator of the worst type.

He shall be nameless here, but the tale of his snail's pace to and from Montreal is worth retelling.

That first morning he got to Lancaster in no time at all, but somehow he missed the turn onto 401 and either travelled old No. 2 or the service road. He's rather vague on where he went. but it took him some three hours to get onto St. Helen's Island. We'd been so busy telling him where to go once he hit Montreal we hadn't reckoned on a lapse at Lancaster.

The trip back that night was also fraught with "get lost" signs and took more than a couple hours but Wednesday's trek eastward was done in fairly good time. He had learned to navigate, he thought; but that was before he started home.

A traffic cop directed him thataway and some time later Bill got the uneasy feeling he was heading south toward the border. How right he was! After three hours of studying road maps and asking directions he made it to Valleyfield and back to Alexandria just before the rooster was due to crow.

Next day he brought along a navigator and the elapsed time was closer to one hour than three. Expo was exhausting but well worth seeing, as he tells it. But he doesn't think much of that Cunard Lines' slogan that reads "Getting there is half the fun".

Then there was the moron who was taking a correspondence course. One day he decided to play hooky, so he simply sent in an empty envelope.

PIGS ACTING LIKE PEOPLE

Pigs will be pigs, we've always heard it said. And it's always been a commentary on the human animal, although not exactly a compliment to the porcine population either.

But pigs can act like people, too, according to this clipping from the Saint John Telegraph-Journal:

In an age of rampant research, it is perhaps only natural that even a nonscientist can come up now and then with an intriguing scientific discovery.

Such as, for example, what pigs do when they get good and drunk.

Milt Peel knows.

Heavy rains soaked the shelled corn Peel keeps in his pigpens in Chipley, Fla. The hot sun then cooked the soggy corn, and it fermented.

Result: 500 plastered pigs. Wheeee!

Peel reports "some of them squealed so shrilly it almost drove you nuts." Others got mean and surly. Others just went to sleep.

What a switch—pigs acting like people.

THERE ARE FIVE:

CO-OP Formula 5 Gasoline gives you better performance for five different reasons. That's why we call it Formula 5. It can be stored longer without deterioration due to oxidation. Volatility is controlled from month to month to give you peak power whenever you need it. It contains a carburetor detergent to clean out harmful deposits. A built-in corrosion inhibitor helps keep gasoline free of impurities and an anti-icing additive fights cold weather stalling.

CIAG handles 30,000 automobile claims a year under a claim fee plan which encourages policyholders to report their small claims as well as the big ones. CIAG's plan minimizes concern and doubt for the drivers the Association insures—good drivers who may have the misfortune to need claims help.

Two Families Had Centennial Re-Union

The families of the late Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Urquhart of Williamstown, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robertson, Martintown, held a re-union, as a centennial celebration, at Rideau River Provincial Park in July.

Members of the two familes were present from Vancouver, BC; Hamilton, Ottawa, Newington, Cornwall, Alexandria, Williamstown, Lancaster, Montreal and Chambly, Que.

The weather was perfect and all enjoyed a wonderful visit.

Four 4-H Members From U.S. Here

"We were greatly impressed with Expo, and now on this second part of our tour, we think of it as a 'getting to know you' phase."

These were the comments of a nineteen-year-old 4-H club member and an aspirant of the legal and political arena who visited the Ontario Department of Agriculture office, Tuesday of last week, with J. Y. Humphries, agricultural representative.

Sam Swan of Pocohantas, Missouri was one of four from the United States visiting Glengarry County for three days. Mr. Humphries met them in Ottawa and introduced them to their hosts.

Margaret Rolando, Miami, Florida, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Gregor McEwen and Carol of Maxville; Molly Wheeler from Massachusetts, was with Mr. and Mrs. George Croll and Nancy at Summerstown; Patrick Gates, Tonawanda, NY, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McLeod and Marlene, Martintown. Sam Swan a temporary member of the household of Mr. and Mrs. Archie MacGillivray and Campbell, Dalkeith.

Eighty-five 4-H members from 35 states had been assigned to different Ontario counties with Glengarry receiving four. They are sponsored by state extension services, local businesses and organization in their own communities.

Sam is a sophomore, a speech and political science major at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He is completing his tenth year with the 4-H program.

When asked what benefits he received from his membership in club work, which varies from Canada slightly, and even from state to state, he gave credit to the 4-H movement for some of his ability to speak before a group.

"After making some 700 speeches, I feel quite capable," he said. Parental guidance and persuasion to continue with effective projects was high on his list of factors pertinent in developing his talents. He won the state public speaking contest and admission to the National 4-H club Congress in Chicago.

In his community, 100 miles south of St. Louis, Missouri, he spent many hours as a radio announcer and farm assistant to provide funds for the trip and an assured return to college.

"I was surprised that Canada is not cooler than it is," he said. "It is very much like our own climate, we are about two miles from the Mississippi River."

The Teen Caravan group returned to Ottawa Saturday morning for an evaluation session before flying home.

McCrimmon Ousts Greenfield In Semi-Final Of Soccer Playdowns

(by Maurice Sauve)

McCrimmon pressured Greenfield into hanging up their boots Tuesday, as the North Glengarry boys took the semi-final series with a 3-1 win.

McCrimmon now awaits a decision in the other bracket where Glen Sandfield and Lochiel battled to a 2-2 tie Monday night. They were scheduled to meet again last night and Saturday.

In Tuesday's winning effort, Gordie Fraser scored twice and Ralph McSweyn booted a single for McCrimmon. Jackie Smith got Greenfield's lone goal.

Scorers in Monday night's tie game at Lochiel were Jimmie MacMillan and brother Brian for Lochiel; Billy MacLeod and Jackie Denovan for Glen Sandfield.

If you haven't seen any games yet, experience senior soccer under the lights at Lochiel this Saturday night.

The Weeklies Say

LAY DABBLERS HIT

The so-called high cost of drugs has been the stock and trade of politicians for some time. What they forget, or do not know is what the "astronomical" cost of drugs actually amounts to — in short we again have a bunch of lay people dabbling around in something they know nothing about, and are as usual, offering the voter another something for nothing deal.

Liberal Leader

ment to come to grips with the problem of dwindling farm incomes and the depressing cost-price squeeze."

"Almost all other provinces in Canada have programs to supplement the federal government's agricultural schemes in order to balance varying regional needs. But in this province, the government sneers at the farmer when he comes forward asking for provincial help with a particular problem."

"The farmer is not looking for handouts. He simply wants a decent living wage."

At the same time, Mr. Nixon proposed a province-wide program of catastrophe assistance covering all crops, in order to plug the gaps in protection provided by the Ontario crop insurance plan. A farmer with coverage would get help when something like thirty per cent or more of his crop was destroyed by unusual weather conditions. Financing would be worked out after full consultation with farmers.

"Heavy rain damage in western and central Ontario this year put the present crop insurance scheme to its first test and major inadequacies have shown up," he said.

The Liberal Leader said the Conservative government at Queen's Park is becoming deaf to the demands of the province's farmers and there is a "desperate need for a continuing forum for consultation between farmers and government." He proposed the establishment of a committee of the Legislature which would meet year-round with farmers and farm groups.

He said "too often farmers have been turned away at the steps of their own Parliament buildings in Toronto."

Pleged Vows At St. Elmo

WILSON—MacGREGOR

On August 12th, 1967, in historic Gordon Church, St. Elmo, a very pretty wedding took place at 3 p.m. when Katherine Joan MacGregor, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cameron MacGregor and Robert Boyd Wilson, RCAF, Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wilson, Orillia, Ont., exchanged marriage vows in a double-ring ceremony. Rev. I. D. MacIver officiated at the marriage and Mrs. MacIver presided at the console. The joint choirs of Maxville and St. Elmo sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" as an anthem during signing of the register.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over taffeta featuring a scooped neckline, long sleeves, a modified sheath skirt with lace appliques on front panel and bodice. Her floor-length veil formed a train and was held in place by a dainty crown of crystals and pearls and she wore a string of cultured pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses, white mums and ivy.

The maid of honor was Miss Betty MacGregor, the bride's sister. The bridesmaids were Doreen Wilson, the groom's sister, and Mildred McDonell, Ottawa.

They wore identical empire style gowns.

The best man was Ken Wilson, Orillia, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Douglas MacGregor, the bride's brother and Ken Thomson, Severn Bridges, Ont.

The bride and groom were piped from the church by Mr. David MacKillican, Maxville. The wedding reception was held in the New Parkway Hotel, Cornwall.

For travelling the bride wore a yellow sheath dress with lace coat, white hat and a corsage of yellow and bronze mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside at 195 Cooper St., Ottawa. Out-of-town guests were from Vancouver, Orillia, Severn Bridges, Montreal, Ottawa, Cornwall and Smiths Falls.

The bride was presented with flatware from the Bank of Canada, Ottawa, and two showers, one in St. Elmo Church Hall by friends, and neighbors, and another in Ottawa by girls in the Audit Department, Bank of Canada.

MARTINTOWN

GRANDMOTHERS ENTERTAINED

Five grandmothers attended the August meeting of Martintown Women's Institute held in their honor at the home of Mrs. George Kinloch. Mrs. William Johnston presided, extending a warm welcome to all members and friends, and especially to the one great-grandmother present, Mrs. Angus Macdonald of Martintown. Mrs. Harvey MacMillan pinned corsages on the guests of honor.

Roll call was "bring a family wedding picture"; it was noted that as styles change through the years, so do the figures!

Mrs. Archie Macdonald and Mrs. Cecil Lalonde have once again volunteered to act as leaders for our 4-H group; project this year to be "working with wool". Leaders' Training course is to be held Wednesday and Thursday, September 20th and 21st, in Alexandria.

Members agreed to make a donation toward the Farmstead Improvement Competition. Mrs. Archie Macdonald, historical convener, prepared a most interesting article on Hugh McGillis, Laird of Williamstown. The outline of this man's career included several references to the most unfair trading practices with Indians in days long gone by.

Mrs. Harvey MacMillan. Mrs. Ian Kennedy and Miss Gretta Robertson are to be in charge of the Institute Display at the forthcoming Williamstown Fair. Mrs. Leslie West gave a brief account of the district annual meeting held at Dunvegan early in June.

Luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Hartley Dupuis, Mrs. George Kinloch and Mrs. Harvey MacMillan, all of whom were thanked by Mrs. Ian Kennedy.

Attendance Up At The Village

Attendance at Upper Canada Village continues to reach record highs, with the accumulated total thus far in 1967 far exceeding the previous best year, 1962.

At the end of the first 14 weeks, some 255,518 adults and children have passed through the village gates. Figures show that during last week a total of 15,227 adults and 9,217 children paid admission to see the tourist attraction. This was a one week total of 24,444.

During the same period last year there were 10,804 adults and 5,921 children for an accumulated total of 172,915 visitors or a one week total of 16,725.

Officials reported that the numbers of adults last week were up over the previous 1966 period by 4,427 with a 3,296 increase in respect to children during the week. The accumulated increase is 82,603.

The accumulated total thus far in 1967 is greater by 4,943 people over the previous best year in 1962.

It Was Sad Days For Scots

LOCHAILLORT—It was a sad day for the Scots at the Glenfinnan Gathering on the shore of Loch Shiel Sunday.

For who should turn up as the winner of the pibroch competition but a bagpiper with the unfamiliar name of Francois Allain, whose home is in Brittany, France.

The Frenchman beat out seven of Scotland's finest with a rendition of the Lament for Donald of Laggan, a composition commemorating one of the heroes of the Battle of Inverlochy in 1645. He was also a close second in the march competition.

The Scots got their only consolation from the fact that the bagpiping Breton studied at the Scottish College of Piping.

Delegates From Presbyterial UCW To Montreal-Ottawa Conference

United Church Women of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference are asked to take note that the 1967 Summer School being held at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Monday, August 28th, to Thursday, August 31st, will prove a wonderful opportunity to be inspired, informed and find fellowship, quite unlike that within the local areas. The theme this year is "His Purpose For Us" and speakers, program and planning have been well thought out. Try to send at least one delegate from your UCW. Registrar is Mrs. H. Meadows. 5180 St. Joseph Blvd., Lachine, Que.

Glengarry Presbyterial UCW will be sending the following delegates: Mrs. Errol Boa of Chute a Blondeau, convener for citizenship and social action. Mrs. John Merpaw of Cornwall, convener for literature, communications and periodicals, Miss Ethel Whitteker, of Cornwall, convener for program and leadership development.

Also attending will be Mrs. Wilfred MacNaughton of Williamstown, president, and Mrs. Fred Shaw of Hawkesbury, 1st vice-president of Glengarry Presbyterial UCW

Guide to Bible study will be under the direction of Rev. Frank Meadows, at present ministering in Quebec. Rev. Meadows is a graduate of Divinity College and also studied on a scholarship in France.

In charge of world mission and total mission studies will be Rev. Norman MacKenzie. a vital man and most dynamic speaker. He and his wife are both second generation missionaries to China. The MacKenzies headed for China a year apart; Norman went in 1945 (after a study of the Chinese language) while his wife followed in 1946. Their time there was quite upset and finally in 1950 they were back in Toronto and did pastoral work for two years. In 1952, reappointed as missionaries, the MacKenzies went to India. They have now completed two terms — during this time they have given important leadership in village improvement projects — irrigation — improved seeds and public health. At present Rev. MacKenzie is serving temporarily as personnel secretary of the board of world missions until he returns to India.

A one-act play is also to be presented, directed by Mrs. Bruce Copland. Another speaker will be Miss Ann Ward, secretary of the Board of Women, who has been active in the UCW since its beginning.

Summer school 1967 promises to be in excellent one — try to be on hand and take home something for your own local UCW's interest.

GLENGARRY HISTORICAL NOTES

by HUGH MacMILLAN

Donald McIntosh, Nor'Wester

John McIntosh was the son of one of the chiefs of Clan McIntosh of Inverness, Scotland. He had six brothers killed at the battle of Culloden. The chief himself was not at this battle but his followers were there. Some time after the 1745 rebellion John McIntosh left Scotland by himself and came to the United States where he settled near Albany in the State of New York and lived there until the American Revolution. When the War of Independence broke out in 1776 he joined the Loyalist forces and came to Canada, settling on a farm at St. Andrews on the border of Glengarry County. His family consisted of nine children, two boys and seven girls. Donald McIntosh, born in 1773. was one of the two boys. He entered the service of the North West Company about 1790 and was with the organization until it amalgamated with the Hudson Bay Co. in 1821. He stayed with the firm until he retired in 1838 to live in Lower Canada, at St. Polycarpe.

His career, like many of the other Highland Scots who entered the North West Co. was filled with adventure. Much of this history has been lost but recently a number of his letters addressed to his sister were turned up and they reveal something of this man's character.

He served at various posts throughout what is now the Canadian West and in 1816 was in charge of Fort Michipicoten. He married an Indian woman and raised a large family, several of whom were sent to Eastern Canada to receive an education. In a letter written to his sister Christie from Michipicoten on August 17th, 1816, he has the following to say:

"I am glad to learn that John, my son, applies himself more diligently to his books. It is 'most time that he should be a scholar. For there are several that went down two years after him that are now apprentice clerks to the company and if I thought he was qualified to be a clerk I would have him at this place next summer and keep him a couple of years under my own eye. I therefore recommend to you to send him to a good school this ensuing winter, and to get him to learn the rules and principles of bookkeeping. Mr. Kenneth McKenzie, one of the North West Company's agents will examine him to determine whether he is qualified to be a clerk. Should he find him qualified he will tell him the time he must be at Montreal in the spring to take his passage on the canoes. If on the contrary he finds him deficient in education he must remain another year.

This is one more piece of evidence that confirms the concern felt by many of the Nor'Westers for their half-Indian children. No evidence has survived to tell how young John McIntosh made out in the fur trade, but it is safe to assume that he finished his education and established a career for himself.

Later on he speaks of one of his daughters who is under his sister's care and states that he approves of her being sent to the nunnery if it is only to "learn how to sew and embroider. as well as receiving other education". It was at this point after some twenty years service that he was admitted a partner of the NWCo. He gives some idea in this letter of the speed with which news travelled from one part of the country to another, despite the immense distances involved.

The famous battle of Five Oaks was fought at Red River between a group of Metis (half-breeds) by Cuthbert Grant, and Governor Semple with some of the Hudson Bay Co. men. Semple and all his followers but one were killed. This battle was fought less than two weeks before Donald McIntosh wrote this letter to his sister. (The news came by canoe 500 miles, in this short time. Top speed for a canoe was about 7 miles per hour).

He says in the letter "there was a battle fought between the native half-breeds of the country and the colonists at Red River, and out of six and twenty that went into the battle only one escaped with his life; and of the half-breeds there was only one killed." He states that he has some of the Hudson Bay Co. people for neighbors this year at Michipocten and adds "if they behave peaceable, I will. I shall refrain from doing them any injustice as long as they abstain from doing me any". This most commendable attitude he might at times have found difficult to adhere to.

He mentions in this letter having seen Miles MacDonell pass his post by canoe. Myles was a fellow Glengarrian, and also agent for Lord Selkirk at Red River. He states that Miles told him the North West Company was "most severe upon him whilst he was their prisoner", but in McIntosh's opinion "not more so than he richly deserved . . . For had it been in his power, he would have got our throats cut with all his heart". He must have been anxious that his sister purchase some goods for his Indian wife as he states near the end of his letter "You requested me to let you know the stature of my woman, she is about as tall as you are but very slender." I send you and my children a few pair of moccasins. I'm sorry I cannot send you my buffalo robes this year for they are very scarce at Ft. William. But you may depend on them for next year."

The impression one gets from this letter is that McIntosh was most concerned for the welfare of his family, having part of them with him at Michipicoten while the balance were receiving their education under his sister's guidance in Canada. Many of Donald McIntosh's descendants survive today and are quite proud of their Indian heritage. It was through two of these descendants, the late Mrs. Irons who died at 101 this year and Miss L. McKeracher of Montreal, that the only surviving picture of Donald McIntosh was obtained. It would be most interesting if people reading this short narrative concerning Donald McIntosh, were to come forward with further documentary material relating to the adventurous career of this Nor'Wester.

Sell Milk But Only For Pets

PITTSBURGH — Farmers seeking higher profits opened a store Monday to sell milk — Just plain. ordinary milk — but they called it "pet food".

The farmers, selling milk at below state-regulated prices, are laughing. Customers, who are saving 29 cents a gallon, are smiling. But the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission is frowning. The commission has set prices at $1.08 a gallon for the consumer.

The store, in its first day, did a brisk business. A couple of dozen customers were lined up before the doors opened.

Ernest Hayes, head of the United Dairy Farmers which is behind the operation, said with a grin:

"We would like the commission to investigate to see that we're doing the right thing for the pets."

A sign on the wall says: "This milk is sold for pets, and the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission does not allow it to be sold for human consumption."

The farmers say they get 50 to 55 cents a gallon for milk sold under the "pet food" plan while milk sold elsewhere, some of which goes into cheese and butter, returns only 40 cents a gallon.

TIME TO CHANGE

Surely now that we have reached the maturity of being a century-old self-governing nation, it is high time that we did something to increase the status of citizenship, equality and respect for the original natives of this land, many of whom have not had any rights for far longer than the 100 years we are currently celebrating. —Campbell River (BC) Upper Islander.

About One In 40 Works For Ottawa Government

About one Canadian in 40 now works for the federal government compared with the ratio of about 1 in 350 in the early 1900s.

Using figures mainly compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, an observer can chart the slow but steady increase in federal employment as a percentage of the population.

Unfortunately exact government-employment statistics are not available for any but the most recent years. The royal commission on government organization ran into this difficulty a few years ago.

It expressed the difficulty this way: "Lack of historical data based upon uniform and constant statistical concepts makes it impractical to measure precisely the growth of the public service.

But using the best data available a picture of the growth of the Canadian government appears.

The most recent federal employment figure puts the number in all departments, Crown corporations, on ships and in prevailing-rate employment and casual labor, as of December 1966, at 363,700.

BOOSTED BY MILITARY

Not part of the statistical tables — but a large part of what chews up the taxpayer's dollar — is the military establishment, currently running about 105,000. That brings the over-all total to about 30,000 below the half-million mark.

Latest population data shows 20,014,880 persons living in Canada. as of 1966. The two figures produce the 1-in-40 ratio of federal employees to the population.

In 1912 there were about 20,000 federal employees, out of a population of some 7,000,000. That's the 1-in-350 ratio.

It didn't hold for long. By 1930 federal employment had reached almost 50,000 — the First World War gave the federal public service its first big boost — out of a population of some 8,500,000.

From 1912 to this decade federal employment figures reveal only salaried, departmental employees. Thus the figures are low. None of the statistics include the military and the ones being used here also omit Crown corporations, casuals and hourly-rated workers.

However, with the exception of the military, the great bulk of federal employees were salaried, departmental workers. The Crown corporation buildup came more recently.
