School celebrates 40 years

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

A celebration marking S.J. McLeod Public School's 40th anniversary will benefit the school's current students.

Carol MacDonald, one of the organizers of the Harvest Dance, said the money raised will be used to support the school's curriculum.

"There are so many things we want to do with the school, but there is no money," she said.

"We have such a rich history in SDG, particularly Glengarry. We want to take the kids to see it."

Ms. MacDonald said any money the dance makes will be put towards field trips to such sites of historic interest as Williamstown's Nor'Westers and Loyalists Museum, the Glengarry Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan, St. Raphael's Ruins and Upper Canada Village to name but a few.

The Harvest Dance serves a dual purpose, as it also celebrates the anniversary of the school.

"We are recognizing community members over the past 40 years for their involvement, to say thank you," Ms. MacDonald said.

"It is also a reunion for parents, students and teachers."

Forty years ago, the Lancaster Township School Board operated five public schools spread out throughout the township. These five schools were amalgamated into one building, built on five acres of land previously owned by Alex McNaughton.

"They were the schools at Bainsville, Picnic Grove, Bridge End, Brazeau's on the 9th Concession and the Condie School," said Charles Osborne, son of George Osborne, former chairman of the school board.

"Why did they build it on the 4th Concession? Two board members wanted it in North Lancaster and two wanted it in Bainsville. My dad was the chairman, so he decided to put it right in the centre of the township."

The new school was known as Lancaster Township Area School. It was later renamed Lancaster Public School and in 1996, was given its current name in honour of long-time school trustee Sam McLeod.

Other founders of the school were trustees John Fourney, Raymond MacDonell, Archie Robertson and John J. McBain and secretary Mrs. M.I. Sangster.

The Harvest Dance to raise funds for educational field trips will be held on Oct. 19 at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre in Williamstown.

The event gets under way at 8 p.m. with a special ceremony. Dancing starts at 9 p.m., with

Groups combining Christmas events

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

Alexandria's pre-Christmas celebrations will be a show of unity this year.

Organizers of separate events, the Richelieu Club and the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce, have decided to combine their holiday festivities on one weekend.

It's about time, according to a member of both organizations, restaurateur Dan Giroux.

"It's a very good decision to put them together as a kick-off to the holiday season," he said.

"It's a small town – everyone should work together."

The chamber's annual Christmas Jubilee will kick off the three-night and two day affair on Friday, Nov. 29.

Grade 10s here exceed Ontario literacy targets

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Grade 10 students in Glengarry read and write just as well or better than their counterparts across Ontario, according to recently released results from the Ontario Secondary School Literacy Test (OSSLT) held last February.

Across the province, 75 per cent of English language students passed both the reading and writing components of the test, while 67 per cent of French language students passed both.

Several Upper Canada District School Board schools reached or exceeded that board's self-imposed improvement target of 75 per cent success, including both Glengarry schools.

A total of 87 Grade 10 students at Char-Lan took the test. Of those, 89 per cent passed the reading component, 91 per cent passed the writing component and 85 per cent passed both.

Of the board's 23 high schools, only Brockville Collegiate Institute had a higher percentage pass for both tests, at 89.

Glengarry District High School had 93 students take the test, with 79 per cent passing the reading component, 87 passing the writing component and 77 per cent passing both tests.

Across the county border at Tagwi, 140 students took the literacy test. A total of 77 per cent passed the reading component while 82 passed the written component and 73 passed both, which was the UCDSB average.

The Conseil scolaire de district catholique de l'Est ontarien (CSDCEO), which operates École secondaire Le Relais in Alexandria also fared better than the provincial average of 67 for French schools.

A total of 59 students at Le Relais wrote both tests and 68 per cent passed them, with 19 per cent failing both exams.

The CDSCEO board average had 69 per cent passing both tests. Results for those who failed reading only or writing only at Le Relais are not being released because of the possibility of identifying those students.

Students must pass both the reading and writing parts of the test to be successful. Passing the literacy test is mandatory for graduation for any student who started Grade 9 in 2000.

Students who were not successful in February will have an opportunity to write the test again on Oct. 23 and 24.

A total of 129,032 English language students and 4,904 French language students across the province took the OSSLT.

(All the above results are based on Method 2 for calculation, which includes only the results of students who actually wrote the test. Method 1 includes all students who were eligible to write.)

The test is administered by the Education Quality and Accountability Office (EQAO).

Changing schedules worry VIA users

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Glengarry residents who rely on VIA Rail services are going to have to be vigilant in the future if they want to see service maintained at its present level, say two frequent users.

The warning from Alexandria residents Jackie and Emile Trepanier comes in the wake of recent rumours that passenger train service might be curtailed.

North Glengarry Mayor Bill Franklin subsequently announced that he had received assurances from MP Don Boudria that current services would be maintained.

A total of five westbound and four eastbound trains stop in Alexandria every day at various times.

The two trains which were to be eliminated were commuter trains, one leaving Alexandria just past 7:30 a.m., the other pulling into town at 5:30 p.m.

Alexandria residents Jackie and Emile Trepanier did not take the news lightly.

"They have already cut (service to) Maxville, Casselman and so on," Mrs. Trepanier said.

"They thought they could get away with it. Commuters travel from Alexandria to Ottawa and Montreal every day. Those trains are the ones they take most often."

Mrs. Trepanier travels to Montreal on a regular basis and also finds those trains to be the most convenient.

"They advertise all kinds of new services and rates, but they don't advertise these things," she said of the possible cutbacks.

"We have to make people realize the importance of the train between the two big centres."

In addition to commuters being affected, Mrs. Trepanier pointed out that many university students rely on the trains from Ottawa and Montreal to come home for weekends.

"People go to Ottawa for cancer treatments and radiation. If you don't drive, how do you get there to visit them?" she added.

Mr. Trepanier said he and his wife will be keeping a close eye on the train schedules over the

New chamber strategy to promote Alexandria

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce is proposing a one-for-all and all-for-one Christmas advertising strategy.

Merchants in Alexandria and area are being asked to contribute financially to a combined radio/newspaper campaign, said project co-ordinator Garry Smith.

"We want to get feedback first and then get into the serious planning," said Mr. Smith, who is contacting 85 businesses.

Among the businesses being asked to participate are non-merchants such as local plants.

"A healthy economy is good for them as well," he said.

Another aim is to involve non-chamber members.

"Hopefully they'll see the benefit of joining the chamber."

The chamber hopes business operators will also provide ideas for enticing shoppers to the area.

In the past, strategies have included offering special credit vouchers, good at specific businesses.

"We may have several sorts of sweeteners as we go through (the campaign)," Mr. Smith said.

The main thrust of the proposal is to combine chamber "seed money" of $2,000 with allocations from participating businesses.

"The intent with combining resources is to get a lot more advertising time for the dollar," Mr. Smith said, explaining 15-second spots cost more per second than 30 seconds.

Newspaper ads will also be grouped together to better promote Alexandria and area.

The advertising will promote Christmas Jubilee events that are being organized for the weekend of Nov. 29 to 31 by the chamber and the Richelieu Club.

"We'll start sometime about Nov. 14 as a lead up to Jubilee weekend. It will be a nice full weekend of activities. And then keep going until about Dec. 15."

Free bagging of leaves thing of the past in N.G.

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

Bringing giant garbage bags of leaves to the curb to be picked up for free is no longer an option for North Glengarry residents.

Although they're bio-degradable, bagged leaves still require tags, said Rene Jeaurond, the township manager in charge of waste collection. Branches also won't be accepted.

"So instead of leaving 10 to 15 bags at the road, bring them to a landfill," Mr. Jeaurond said.

He said the leaves and branches are easily processed at a landfill as long as they are not in plastic bags.

In Alexandria, a heavy bag of leaves – or even heftier grass clippings – incurs a cost to the municipality and, ultimately, the taxpayer.

"There is a saving (to the municipality), because when they are picked up in (Alexandria), we pay a tipping fee of $45 per tonne," Mr. Jeaurond said, of the charge levied by Lafléche waste disposal near Moose Creek.

Residents who decide to deposit their bags at the curb, may end up paying for more tags as each household was given two tags per week. A single tag cost $3.

Mr. Jeaurond also suggested residents consider using a mulching system for the leaves.

Three municipal landfills are still operating. They are: Glen Robertson (first Saturday of the month), Dunvegan (second Saturday), and Alexandria (third Saturday plus Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., not including Wednesday, which is open 8 a.m. to 12 p.m.).

As well, the township holds a free dump and household hazardous waste collection day on Oct. 19.

Depositing leaves and branches at the Glen Robertson and Dunvegan landfills is a short-term option. Both will be closed over the next few years.

There are other possibilities for rural residents.

"If you don't want the hassle of taking it to the landfill, a lot of people put them in a composting pile; if you're out in the country, spread them in a field," Mr. Jeaurond said.

He warned, however, not to dump them in a road-side ditch or even a secluded woodlot, as this would contravene the township's anti-littering bylaw.

"Try to use a friend's or relative's field (with their permission)."

Christmas tree will be lit amidst a festive atmosphere.

Santa Claus will make an early arrival and will hand out candies. Music will be provided by DJ Bob.

Saturday, Nov. 30 promises to be the highlight of the area's social life, with the Christmas Jubilee Gala dinner, dance and auction at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

There will be plenty of entertainment, featuring the Richard Vaillancourt Quintet and Mystic.

Proceeds will once again benefit the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Organizer Jamie MacDonald said there will be fewer trees auctioned this year, being replaced by other items.

Cocktails are from 6-7 p.m. followed by dinner, dancing and the auction. Cost is $40 per person or $75 per couple.

"We'd like to encourage businesses to have their staff party during the gala," Mr. MacDonald said.

The first day of December features the vastly rejuvenated Richelieu Club Santa Claus Parade, held after sunset, starting about 5 p.m.

Before it begins, the chamber is hosting a spaghetti supper at the Sports Palace in the afternoon.

The parade begins, as usual, at the YIG parking lot area.

"Since we shifted to the evening, participation has increased phenomenally," said Richelieu Club member Jean Marc Boisvenue. "We expect record participation this year."

The theme this year will be "A traditional Christmas."

Mr. Boisvenue said plans are under way to expand the number of awards. "People are putting more into their floats."

To enter a float, call Raymond Legault at 525-4639 or contact any Richelieu Club member.

Local women garner awards

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

North Glengarry residents, Eileen MacGillivray and Kay McCrimmon appear to be the only county residents to receive Ontario Volunteer Service Awards last week.

The two women were given 20-year pins and plaques at a ceremony in Ottawa for their involvement with the Vankleek Hill Horticultural Society.

The awards are based on volunteer time given on an ongoing and active basis to the same group for which no payment has been received

"We were just shocked we were the only Glengarrians, and the reason is we belong to Vankleek Hill Horticultural Society," said Mrs. McCrimmon, who returned to McCrimmon Corners 25 years ago after a lengthy teaching career.

She was honoured for very excellent participation at the society's flower shows as well as creating the flower beds at the north, south, east, west points of entry into Vankleek Hill.

"I won the silver cup for first six times," she said.

The plaque bears the signature of Premier Ernie Eves and Minister of Citizenship Carl DeFayra. The pin is shaped in a V with the number of years emblazoned on it.

A representative of Mr. DeFayra handed out the 400 awards. Also present was Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MPP Jean-Marc Lalonde.

"He congratulated us, gave us a hug," Mrs. McCrimmon said with a laugh.

Mrs. MacGillivray also helps out planting and tending the floral welcome sites

To her, receiving the award is just icing on the cake for something she takes considerable enjoyment in.

"I like growing things, and have an appreciation for shrubs and lawns," the former dairy farmer's wife said.

She also served as a society director and held the post of treasurer, and also entered a number of competitions.

In past years, there have been many more Glengarrians honoured.

A spokesperson with the awards branch of the citizenship ministry said all organizations which previously submitted nominations are given forms.

Otherwise, forms can also be obtained at regional ministry offices or from the Internet.

Dry conditions great for arachnids say Spider Men

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

Spider Man came out this year. . . and, seemingly, so did many of his friends.

Outside, inside, in the corners of your plush living room, charming dining room to the dark, cool unfinished basement – spiders thrive just about anywhere.

In fact, there are many species who prefer your house exclusively.

Let's see, there's your common variety "house or cobweb" spider. (No doubt the archbane of the "house" fly).

About the next common, but reclusive, is the twiggy "cellar" spider, which differs greatly from its upstairs relative, the "house" spider.

Older homes with crawl space basements offer them ideal darkness and solitude. Brush against their web, this spider is more likely to cause a frenetic vibration than flee. It's used to confuse an attacker.

More infrequent arachnid visitors are just that – spiders who mistakenly wander in.

Among the most likely are the champion sprinter and leaper of the crowd: wolf and jumping spiders.

These spiders again offer a glimpse at arachnid versatility. Neither spins a silky web to hunt prey.

Outside on our property, and especially the garden, we encounter, in temporary shock, those luridly colourful, obese spiders.

Regardless, spiders rank among the most unwanted – eight-legged or four – critter in our abode.

And there may well be more of them dangling in your way this year.

There has been no scientific arachnid accounting, but one local lad has his share of them every week.

Chris Leblanc is owner and operator of Canadian Pest Control Services in Alexandria.

Spiders are high on his eradication list, somewhat reluctantly.

"They're beneficial creatures; if you're not infested, they are not a problem because they feed on insects," Mr. Leblanc said.

He makes no excuse to go looking for them and makes a house call only when absolutely necessary.

"Really infested would be when your house is covered, inside and out."

But Mr. Leblanc is not convinced 2002 is indeed the Year of the Spider. Actually, according to the Chinese, it is the Year of the Horse.

An informal survey of residents last week was inconclusive. Out of eight, three believed there was a population increase.

Mr. Leblanc and Ministry of Natural Resources biologist Scott Smithers agree conditions are probably ideal.

"It depends on the weather," Mr. Leblanc said.

"Last year, there were lots of ladybugs; this year, earwigs."

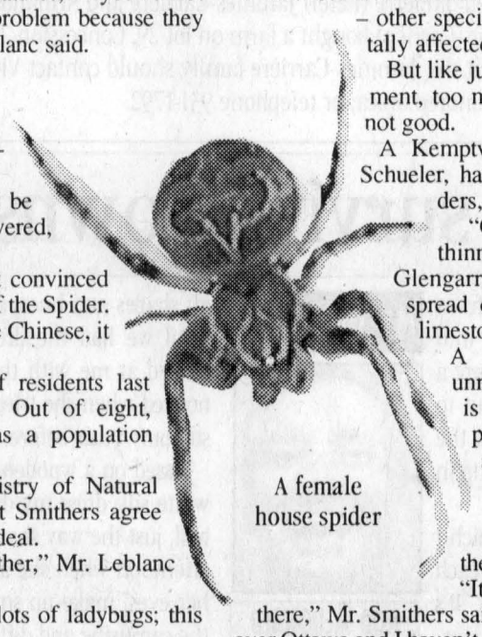
The August drought might have come at an ideal time, as the second batch of spiderlings are born then.

"The dryness is conducive to arachnid numbers," Mr. Smithers said. "It's also conducive to other species, so there would be lots of food for spiders."

A children's rhyme about the spider going up the water spout only to be pushed out by the rain also rings true.

"When it rains, it drowns out burrows and rips down webs," Mr. Smithers said.

"This results in lost homes and the feed itself – other species are also detrimentally affected by wet weather."



A female house spider

But like just about any predicament, too much of something is not good.

A Kemptville naturalist, Fred Schueler, has noticed fewer spiders, rather than more.

"Our soil here is much thinner than out (in Glengarry). The ground is spread out like dust on the limestone."

A factor completely unrelated to conditions is the normal predator-prey cycle. When a species on the lower step becomes fewer, species on the upper rung decline shortly thereafter.

"It could be a boom out there," Mr. Smithers said. "But I've been all over Ottawa and I haven't noticed anything personally."

And with ladybugs prevalent outside and in last year, it quite possibly fueled a spider increase.

In cases where they become a little too noticeable, like being woken up by a spider crawling up the side of your face, eradication is within your reach – the trusty vacuum cleaner.

"It's not just for getting rid of the webs;" Mr. Leblanc said, "the vacuum will get the eggs too, in corners and window sills, garages, doors and outside light fixtures.

"Or, you can spray twice a year, when they reproduce, by using a light pesticide on the exterior of the building."

Still, standing on a step ladder to go after a spider is really a drastic action against what really is a relatively harmless creature.

The most dangerous poisonous spider in this continent's northeastern region, the black widow, is only found rarely in Eastern Ontario.

The sac spider is also known to cause a nasty bite, as well. Then there's someone's idea of a pet, the non-native tarantula.

Although relatively harmless, the house spider isn't so nice to its own kind. After hatching, the spiderlings are cannibalistic, feeding on each other before leaving the sac.

True, many spiders will defend themselves by biting, but their fangs are not strong or long enough to penetrate a human's skin, Mr. Schueler said.

Most experts agree wholesale destruction of spiders should be avoided, if possible. In the southern U.S. not only are spiders tolerated but residents encourage them to inhabit the house as an aid in nuisance insect control.

General identification

While all spiders share a few characteristics, such as four pairs of legs and two body sections, there are many differences.

Most spiders have eight eyes, some only six and several have fewer or none.

As mentioned, some rely on hunting skills common to mammals rather than webs.

Life cycle and habits

Spiders lay eggs within a silken egg sac that is often ball-shaped and either hidden in the web or carried by the female. Spiders may produce several egg sacs, each containing several hundred eggs. One female may produce as any as 3,000 eggs in a series of several sacs over a period of time. Eggs may hatch a few weeks later (three weeks or the following spring) and reach adulthood in one year. A spider molts four to 12 times as it grows to maturity. Most spiders live either one to two seasons.

All spiders produce venom that is poisonous to their normal prey of insects, mites and other small arthropods. Venom is injected through the hollow fangs to immobilize the prey. Since spiders can only ingest liquids, digestive fluids are either injected or regurgitated into the prey.

Silk production

Spider silk has different types and textures to construct snares or webs, egg sacs, draglines and ballooning threads. Some spiders use web snares to trap prey and all construct a silk sac to deposit eggs. Some spiderlings sail through the air (ballooning) on wind currents. Young spiders climb to a high point and release silk strands until the drag from the wind is sufficient to support their weight. Then, they release their hold and sail away, often for considerable distances.

Other types

In addition to those already mentioned, other general types of arachnids are the crab, the funnel weaver and fishing spiders.

Most spiders are about one-half of an inch long. The largest is the fishing spider with a leg span of three inches.

George Villeneuve

Cheryl Tessier, North Lancaster:
Yes, I love hockey because of the fast pace and aggressive and competitive nature of the sport. I don't follow NHL hockey as much as I did years ago because there are too many new teams and players to keep track of.

Marcel Filiatrault, 1st of Kenyon:
Yes, I am definitely a hockey fan. I love sports and hockey is a fast and exciting game. I follow more hockey now than years ago because there is more on television – there's more choice.

Jon Murray, Dalkeith:
I am a hockey fan because I played hockey when I was young and also because my dad is a hockey fan. I watch more hockey than I used to because we have a satellite dish so there are more games on to choose from.

Bradley Trepanier, Dunvegan:
Yes, I am a hockey fan. It's good for exercise and learning skating. I started to like hockey three years ago when I watched the NHL. I thought maybe I can be one of them when I grow up.

Brian Danaher, Bainsville:
I'm a big time hockey fan. I've played all my life and I love the game. I can't get enough of it. Over the years it's developed even more. The money and politics aren't a turn-off because there's so many other players who do it for the love of the game.

George Villeneuve, Maxville:
I'm a big time fan. I played all my life and cheered for Montreal until Ottawa came in and now I'm a Sens fan. Right now it seems that they're taking away from the young people because they can't afford to go to the games. You don't see as many fathers and sons out. They should try and make it more affordable for anyone to go.

A giant undertaking for an inexperienced official

EDITORIAL

Although it may be long overdue, Canadians should be more than cautiously concerned that Federal Justice Minister Martin Cauchon plans to initiate a full-scale overhaul of the 1,500-page Criminal Code, the complex set of federal laws that governs Canada's judicial system.

The reason has more to do with questions surrounding what Mr. Cauchon brings to the process, rather than whether it's a worthy objective. For starters, it's not clear that he is approaching this momentous task with a totally open mind and the sole objective of making this unwieldy document more coherent and reflective of Canadians' needs. According to at least one report, his stated goal is to send fewer people to jail by means of softening, eliminating or streamlining various provisions, some of which have been in place for decades.

Then there is the matter of his credentials. Although the 40-year-old Mr. Cauchon is a lawyer by profession, he has no practical experience or training in criminal law, as his few years in private practice involved civil and commercial litigation. In addition to a licence in civil law obtained in 1984, he completed a Master of Laws in International Law at the University of Exeter in England in 1990.

More importantly, he has spent virtually all of his working life either pursuing a political career or maintaining one, having first stood for election at the age of 26 and then winning the office of MP at the age of 31 and maintaining his seat in the two subsequent elections.

As well, he is an avowed supporter of the Prime Minister which, given the current state of the Liberal party with its deep divisions between Jean Chrétien and Paul Martin, suggests that Mr. Cauchon's greatest asset may be his political loyalty.

Even his cabinet experience is suspect. Although a member since 1996, he only became a full-fledged minister in 1999, handling the junior portfolio of National Revenue until January of this year when he was promoted to Justice Minister as well as becoming the Minister with political responsibility for Quebec.

In effect, he has only been on the job for some eight months, all during a time when much of the attention of observers has been focused on political scandals and the internecine struggle to topple Mr. Chrétien.

Nonetheless, Mr. Cauchon is not without his supporters. In the most recent survey of MPs by the Hill Times, an Ottawa publication focusing on federal politics, he placed third behind Alliance MP James Moore and Tory MP Peter MacKay as the best up and comer. But being an up and comer and presiding over this momentous task after only being in the portfolio for eight months are two decidedly different matters.

According to representatives in Mr. Cauchon's office, some of the numerous changes to be considered include: Loosening mandatory minimum sentences that require judges to impose set jail terms. Targeting self-defence provisions, which have become so complicated that accused criminals are routinely winning new trials because judges are giving confused instructions to juries. Streamlining police powers, which are thought to be too complicated. Adding more concessions for aboriginals because there are already too many of them in jail. And, altering outdated parts of the code that no longer reflect society, notably anti-prostitution laws and the defence of provocation.

The list, in itself, is a curious melange. On the one hand, freeing up judges from imposing set jail terms runs contrary to one of the many public concerns that routinely surface because of inconsistent sentencing practices. Similarly, the notion of relaxing the law for aboriginals – although well-meaning – only adds fuel to the perception that the courts do not equally apply the law to all who appear before it.

As well, it's not clear whether streamlining police powers would make an already difficult job even tougher, but given that Mr. Cauchon is already on record as preferring a more liberal approach to criminal law, that would seem to be the intent.

Overall, his predisposition is said to be towards the current Quebec model, which favours an interventionist approach focusing on rehabilitation rather than incarceration. It's a significant factor because it focuses typically on the needs of the offender rather than those of the victim. There has been much talk in recent years of addressing the needs of victims, but no real sense of how to accomplish that short of allowing people to vent their frustrations prior to sentencing.

And there are other significant issues in that regard. For example, any change to the Criminal Code might want to take as its underlying theme the need to ensure that crimes against individuals, particularly those where violence is a factor, be subject to much stiffer penalties. The need to give more consideration to this element comes in the wake of recent news that there may have been a critical error in determining trends in violent crimes, resulting in a number of false conclusions.

For instance, it's been common wisdom that violent crimes are on the decline based on the drop in murders in both the U.S. and Canada. However, a recent U.S. study sheds new light on the issue. It notes that the decline in the homicide rate may have more to do with advances in modern medicine and expanded emergency services such as 911 phone lines and paramedics services which increase the likelihood that victims will survive previously fatal attacks, thereby lowering the actual death rate.

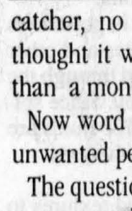
Those views notwithstanding, it has been suggested that this current review will take considerable time and hence will be open to input from a wide spectrum of views.

Still, if the agenda is pre-conceived, as indicated by opinions expressed by members of the minister's staff and those legal observers who support such an approach, then the process will have been severely compromised from the start.

The Criminal Code is one of the most important foundations of our society. Any changes to it have significant ramifications for both the present and the future.

It's vitally important than any such overhaul be subjected to a most rigorous review and not one that is dictated by a new minister with little experience in the portfolio, much less the actual application of criminal law.

Thorns & Thistles

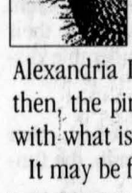


THISTLE – Queen honours eight Glengarrians.

Glengarry will be represented by a diverse group of individuals when it comes time next month to hand out medals to commemorate the Queen's Golden Jubilee.

On the list are a piper, John T. MacKenzie; a professor, George Mager; a former MP, Denis Ethier; the founder of a dance school, Rae MacCulloch; a couple who started an international foster home, Fred and Bonnie Cappuccino; a community and sports volunteer, Mike Depratto; and a war veteran, Hector Rochon.

Congratulations to all.

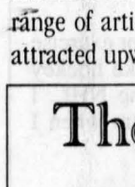


THORN – Vicious attack by fisher.

For some time now, locals have been talking about the increase in the number of unusual animal sightings ranging from cougars to wolves.

Among those mentioned, although not considered rare, are fishers. For the most part, concern over the growing numbers of fishers has centred on the the number of deaths of local pets that seems to coincide with the increased fisher population.

Now, according to the MNR, we have had our first human casualty, albeit not a fatal one, with the recent attack in the Green Valley area of Inge Mittman. This incident raises some concern because if the animals will attack an adult, children might also be at risk. Hopefully, the animal can be trapped and more learned about what caused the attack.

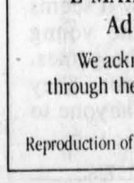


THISTLE – Shelter latest step to save dogs

Barbara Matscheg has proven to be a women of her word. When she said she wanted to save local dogs from being put down if a new home were not available for them 72 hours after being found by the dog catcher, no one doubtred her resolve, but who would have thought it would lead to the creation of a shelter in little more than a month.

Now word of her work is spreading and people are bringing her unwanted pets from other jurisdictions, notably Quebec.

The question is how long she will be able to continue at her current pace, which has her busy caring for these unwanted pets for some 14 hours a day, seven days a week.



THISTLE – Pin boys reunite

They came from as far away as Moncton, New Brunswick to mark the anniversary of an old practice that has been overtaken by automation.

More than 50 pin boys and girls were on hand at Alexandria Lanes recently for that firm's 40th anniversary. Back then, the pin boys used to scurry from lane to lane to keep up with what is now accomplished by the push of a button.

It may be faster now, but far less entertaining.

THISTLE – Festival features old-fashioned fun.

In a community with a strong agricultural history, what could be more apropos than the Glengarry Pioneer Museum's Fall Harvest Festival.

And this year's festival, more than those in the recent past, had an even stronger than usual harvest theme featuring demonstrations of threshing and plowing with a distinctive historical flavour. Add to that the various music groups and wide range of artisans, good weather and it's little wonder the event attracted upwards of 600 visitors.

Memories survive downsizing

MY GLENGARRY

ROD McDONALD

Just before we moved back to Alexandria from Hawkesbury, I had to make a much-dreaded trip into the dark recesses of our basement in order to attempt a cleanup. What I didn't realize was that I was about to come face to face with my past, as I poked through the bundles of junk, most of which eventually ended up in a garage sale.

On top of a rusty tin trunk lay my old fiddle, which I had bought from Sid Plamandon when he used to teach me fiddling in his little music hut in Johnstown. It's cracked down the centre from the time I dropped it during a rollicking house party in Dunvegan, and a drunk put his foot through it, and which now, as they say in the novel, Angela's Ashes, isn't worth a fiddler's fart.

Beside it is my box of broken violin strings. They had been sawed upon and plucked, abused and stretched, and at one time or another snapped and coiled like metal snakes, up towards my face when I turned the pegs too tight. Glued to the fiddle case is the ratty black and white newspaper photograph of my 80 year-old twin fiddling cousins from the Third of Kenyon, which won a big newspaper photo contest, showing them sitting on pressed-back chairs, sawing away at some Scottish jig or other, trying to keep their bows out of their long, white beards, looking very distinguished in their vested black suits.

Slumped in the corner like discarded road kill is my ratty set of highland bagpipes, sheepskin petrified with time to a brittle, black tar-like substance, and the drones loose and untidy as an old bag lady, pointing every which way as if to tell their story of how their owner spent interminable hours huffing and puffing into them in a futile effort to get some semblance of a tune out of their mooing drones and honking chanter. The tartan covering is mouldy and faded and I noticed that one of the drones is cracked.

Hanging on the clothes line scrunched between hangars is my daughter's wedding dress looking just as it did on that wet, spitting day in November when she asked me to help her put it on, just minutes before the Bentley arrived at the front door, packed with bridesmaids. The dress wouldn't fit over her bulbous crinoline from the bottom, so I helped her put it over her hair which had been formed into a work of art, festooned with tiny flowers of all shapes and hues, and then I tugged, oh so gently, until we had the dress in place, and my daughter looked at me with those same wondrous eyes I had noticed when she tried on her First Communion dress so many years before.

Tossed on a wooden chair is the dusty magenta and white silk dress my daughter wore to her graduation ball, just the way she probably threw it there the next afternoon when she arrived home, dark circles under her eyes, make-up smudged, and a bit edgy after all the carousing and difficult goodbyes that are so much a part of that scene. Just as the dress touches the floor is a cigarette burn that looks like a dark brown caterpillar inching its way, slowly up the front, and under the breast is a red wine stain. All this brings back memories of that next week when my daughter stepped on the gas of her sputtering Toyota and headed off to Toronto to begin a career as a flight attendant.

Folded neatly in a cardboard box is my wife's wedding dress, as striking today as the day she walked towards me like a mirage, and a friend of mine sang an Ave Maria that I can still hear as I hold the dress to my ears. We've decided to bring it down to the Salvation Army Store, along with the other wedding dress and the party dress, because we're downsizing in preparation for an eventual move to the city, after a two-year stop in Alexandria.

Perhaps the less fortunate can enjoy some of their richness, if not the recollections, which at times can be so agreeable, and at others are so distressing. The lady behind the counter can't believe we can give the dresses away, saying: "Doesn't it hurt to let them go?"

"We'd like someone else to enjoy them," I reply.

"You know, this purple one would be perfect for a wedding my daughter has to attend."

And so, as she shows me a photo of her daughter, I see the world turning as it should, and the circle closes, even after coming face to face with my past, in a musty old basement, full of discarded memories.

Now we live in a condo in Alexandria that has no basement at all, and all our memories are stored in our heads. That's what they call downsizing, I guess.

Another side

Further to your editorial on a proposed ethanol plant, I refer your readers to a column from the September 25/02 editorial page of the Financial Post which I have not seen rebutted. You pose a question as to why a 10-year old proposal remains just that. Might this column be a reason? I don't know the answer but would need a lot more factual information before supporting future development – public or private.

Glaring omission

The October 2 edition of The News had very interesting coverage of the Harvest Fall Festival held on September 29 at the Glengarry Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan.

A glaring omission was the absence of any mention of the Lochiel Strings whose fiddle music was greatly enjoyed by those attending the festival this year as well as the two previous years.

This oversight was noted by many of the people who have delighted in the traditional Celtic music provided by the Lochiel Strings over the past 25 years.

A new twist

On Sunday, October 6, South Glengarry kicked off Fire Prevention Week with a new twist.

"Rigors of the Work," a modified combat challenge, brought together 21 firefighters from the five South Glengarry fire departments.

Lancaster hosted the challenge, putting to good use its new training tower.

Although this event did not use the same weights that we see in similar events on a national basis, the friendly competition tested the participants' strength and stamina.

The evolution included climbing six flights of stairs with a hose bundle, pulling up a 40-pound weight on a rope, restacking a pile of six tires, dragging a charged hose line 40 feet to knock down a target and finally ending with dragging a weighted dummy 50 feet.

Awards were given for the top individual and team time. This year's individual winner was Darrell McDonnell of Lancaster with a time of 1:40.30 minutes. Lancaster also won the team award with an aggregate time of 5:44.15 min.

The challenge was not the only event that day.

Williamstown Fire Department was on hand to demonstrate their recently acquired extrication tools.

It did not take long to remove the

Glengarry woman reaches out to Mozambique children

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

A calling can come at any time in one's life. Dunvegan area resident Hannah Papp, 22, seems to have felt hers at a young age.

Ms. Papp, daughter of Franz and June Papp, left Monday for the African country of Mozambique for a two-week missionary trip. It is the third such trip on which she has embarked.

At only 12 years of age, Ms. Papp travelled to New Brunswick for two weeks to participate in a youth street mission.

Then three years ago, she and her mother went to Mexico with the group Youth with a Mission where they helped build houses for indigenous people.

"This is my third mission, but it is the biggest one," she said.

Ms. Papp and 10 other people from her church, Life Centre Christian Fellowship Church in Orleans, will spend 10 days at an orphanage in Mozambique, one of the poorest countries in the world.

The orphanage was founded in 1995 by missionaries Heidi and Rolland Baker. The Bakers have been missionaries for 21 years and head Iris Ministries, Inc.

Hannah Papp

The orphanage housed 80 children when it first opened its doors. There are now more than 1,000 youths from infancy to age 18 living there.

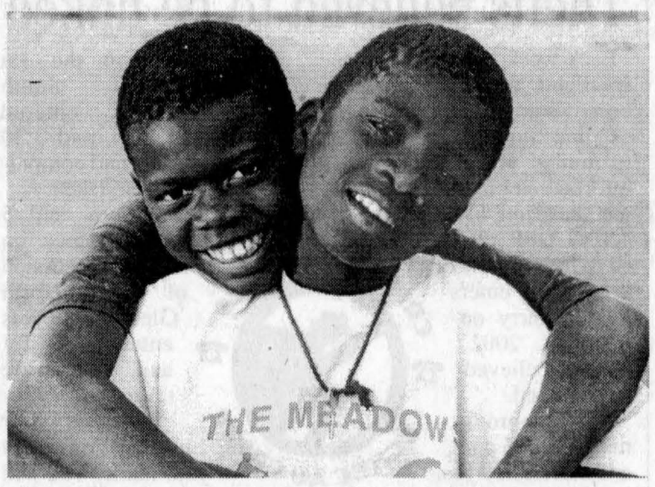
Ms. Papp said while there is no rigid schedule, they have been given some suggestions on how they can help out.

"There is a baby house," she said.

"We can help with baths and feedings and read stories with the older children."

Boys and girls sleep in separate dormitories and Ms. Papp said she hopes to do "girl stuff" with the girls.

The missionaries are bringing along suitcases full of school supplies and clothing to donate to the orphanage.



ORPHANS: These are two of the children Ms. Papps will be looking after in Mozambique.

They will also have opportunities to help with such tasks as building, painting and cleaning.

"Whatever needs to be done," Ms. Papp said.

For the last year and a half, she has worked as a nanny. Her contract just expired last month, so she is hoping this trip will give her direction.

"I know I want to work with kids," she said.

"I'm thinking of going to school in January to pursue something in that line."

While in Mozambique, Ms. Papp will have the opportunity to visit the sick at a hospital in the capital city of Maputo. The missionaries will also travel to the city's dump where a number of families actually live.

"We will minister to them, pray for them, give them a smile," she said.

Missionaries had to raise their own money to make the trip to Mozambique and the Papps were stumped as to how they would cover the $1,600 cost.

"God works in mysterious ways," Mrs. Papp said.

Her daughter's dog, Montana, delivered a litter of six puppies just before the final payment had to be made. The dogs were all sold within three days.

The trip to Mexico three years earlier was paid for the same way.

"Africa is a very special place," Mrs. Papp said.

"God said He is the Father to the fatherless, the oppressed, the hungry. Hannah is going in His name. He needs workers there."

The mission only allows a maximum of two weeks for missionaries' first visits.

"Most people are changed, they find it overwhelming," Mrs. Papp said.

For that reason, Ms. Papp said she will wait until she returns before deciding if she wants to go on a longer mission.

All the Papp children – including Melodie, 16, Justin, 12 and Robin, 7 – volunteer at the Maxville Manor.

"I want my children to learn to give their time for the benefit of others," Mrs. Papp said.

More information on Iris Ministries, Inc. and the Mozambique orphanage can be found on the internet at www.irismin.org.

Russian "Tomatosphere" scientist hired by Ceres Corp.

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Russian scientist Dr. Vladimir Vasilenko has joined the Ceres Corporation head office team in Maxville.

Dr. Vasilenko obtained his PhD in plant physiology at the Moscow State University in 1992.

He then worked at the Russian Academy of Science with Nobel Prize winner Alexander Prokhorov before immigrating to Canada in 1998.

Dr. Vasilenko recently left the University of Guelph as Research Associate in the Department of Plant Agriculture.

Through his extensive work, Dr. Vasilenko has developed a new method for the treatment of seeds with red/infrared light and natural humates. This treatment has resulted in improved germination of seeds, faster growth of plants and higher yields of crops.

Dr. Vasilenko was a working team member of the "Tomatosphere" – a National Education Event: Food for Sustaining Life in Space. He was at Ceres in the spring to give a public presentation on his work with the project.

Dr. Vasilenko and his wife and children have recently relocated to Maxville. He welcomes calls from the field:

"I think communications might bring us some new ideas how to improve our business for Ceres Corporation. Some of my projects, for example, can directly or indirectly influence on your personal activity," he said.

"I would be interested to share with you some of my ideas and find customers for new technologies – growers, gardeners, golf clubs, etc."

Festival issue about property rights for all residents

LETTERS TO EDITOR

It is interesting that "a molehill" in Alexandria over Township bylaws, or rather the lack thereof, has grown into a regional news mountain in both the Ottawa Citizen and the Montreal Gazette; where not just one, but two significant articles appeared this past Sunday in the Montreal Gazette, with one previous article (Oct 2) in the Ottawa Citizen.

The reason for this attention paid to a seemingly trivial dispute is as follows: Both newspapers have covered my activist activities for years. Some articles have been favourable – some not-so. But either way, a great many people have over the years had their opportunity to express their opinions on what I have done, said, or not done or said; very much like the opinions published in our Glengarry News. Some positive in terms of a resident and taxpayer's right to enjoy the peace and tranquility of one's own property. And some who defended the right of a festival promoter to blare music until 1:30 in the morning.

The other reason why this "molehill" has attracted the attention of these two newspapers, plus our Glengarry News, is due to the basic principle of rights. The defence of a concept, for which I have earned, with some justification, a valid reputation.

But first; contrary to some opinion, it should be made abundantly clear, that I and my wife are not "outsiders" who lack the same moral and legal right to be treated as equitably as any other resident of North Glengarry Township.

We are very much insiders. Just like everyone else who lives here.

By the sheer fact that Anne and I chose to move to Alexandria to make our home, and pay our taxes, is the only affirmation we need.

To state otherwise, as some of the letter writers to The Glengarry News had suggested, is downright repugnant.

There are no second class citizens.

That is the "primary" reason we chose to leave Quebec.

Back to the original problem. What seems to have absolutely escaped the minds of my critics, especially the township council, vis a vis the noise abatement bylaws which sort of exist, but not really, is by far, the more important principle of rights. Specifically the right not to be bothered, especially at one's own home.

The big newspapers are interested in the North Glengarry story, partly because it involves me, and partly because it involves a dispute over rights.

The interesting part of how this story will eventually play out, will be, if in the future, these two newspapers write about whether the rights of individuals win the battle to enjoy the peace and tranquility of their property. Or whether the township wins in the principle, that rights of individual residents are only secondary to the rights of a promoter to make money, and for some within and from without the community to have a party. It really is as basic as all that.

I wonder how the majority of residents of North Glengarry want to be viewed from the "outsiders" who read the Ottawa Citizen and the Montreal Gazette: As people who stand up for the rights of individuals. Or as people who couldn't give a damn about their individual neighbour's rights?

Wrong spelling totally unacceptable

Last week when returning home from a shopping expedition to Alexandria I quickly glanced at the destination signs at the corner of the Laggan Road and Highway 34. Did my eyes deceive me? Dalkeith (where I have lived for the past 22 years) spelled D-A-L-K-I-E-T-H!

I decided to check out the spelling on the signs approaching that corner from the north later in the week when returning from a little jaunt from Ottawa. Same thing.

This is totally unacceptable to a proud resident of Dalkeith and I suggest that these signs be replaced as soon as possible.

Charges laid against 12-year-old who pointed gun, made threats

Police Briefs

During the course of an unrelated investigation, SDG OPP received information from a third party about an incident of threatening involving a firearm.

On Oct. 2, police began an investigation into the incident which took place in early summer in the Pilon's Point area in South Glengarry.

Following an altercation in a wooded area, a 12-year-old male pointed a shotgun at a 14-year-old male and threatened his life. Both males are from the Pilon's Point area.

After interviewing witnesses, charges were laid against the 12-year-old on Oct. 5. He faces charges of uttering threats, pointing a firearm and using a firearm in the commission of an offence.

The youth, whose identity cannot be released under the Young Offenders Act, will appear in Youth Court in Cornwall on Nov. 28.

An investigation of the owner of the firearm regarding its storage is ongoing.

Const. M. Gadbois is investigating.

Alcohol suspected

A single vehicle collision has sent a youth to hospital and may lead to charges.

Shortly after 1 a.m. on Oct. 6, SDG OPP officers responded to a report of a single motor vehicle collision on Purcell Road in South Glengarry.

A Mazda Protégé, driven by a 17-year-old male from Cornwall, left the roadway and rolled over. The driver was taken to Ottawa hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

Alcohol is suspected and the investigation by Constable S. Turcotte is continuing.

Car seat clinic

During a car seat clinic at the fire hall in Alexandria Saturday, SDG OPP and workers from the Eastern Ontario Health Unit checked 20 seats. A total of 17 needed some kind of adjustment.

At the same time, OPP auxiliary members held a child identification clinic, during which 48 children were fingerprinted.

Both events were held in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week activities.

SDG OPP responded to four reports of break and enters in Glengarry on Sept. 27, 2002. All are believed to be linked.

At approximately 12:15 p.m., a Concession 9 residence was entered, but nothing was taken as culprits were scared off by an alarm. The suspects may have been driving a turquoise/green Lumina type van.

Between 12:15 and 2:30 p.m., a residence on the 2nd Line Road in South Glengarry was entered. Cash and jewelry were taken.

A residence on the 1st Concession of South Glengarry was entered between 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. A TV, VCR and computer equipment were taken.

Student presents summer's work

By News Staff

The abstract will take on an element of reality when The Glengarry Place for the Arts committee holds its second annual wine and cheese next Tuesday.

Elizabeth Fraser, herself a world-calibre Highland dancer, will give a presentation on a project she worked on as a summer student.

Ms. Fraser researched the history of dance, song and violin in the county and interviewed local performing artists.

The Glengarry Place committee hired her with assistance from Human Resources Development Canada.

The committee is raising money to establish a permanent home for the instruction and promotion of traditional Scottish arts.

The wine and cheese is at the Sports Complex at 7 p.m. There will be entertainment and the cost is $6.

Schools to get Pentium computers

By News Staff

All students in the Catholic District School Board of Eastern Ontario (CDSBEO) should have access to Pentium-class computers.

This is why the board is trying to ensure all schools have the same quality of computers. All schools will be moved to Pentium-class technology by December of 2003.

At the same time, the board also hopes to achieve a ratio of one Pentium computer for every five elementary school students and one Pentium computer for every four students at the secondary level.

To help hit that target, a donation from the federal "Computers for Schools" program has been secured. The board will receive 600 Pentium computers, 500 monitors and 40 laser printers.

School superintendent of education Paul Lattanzio said the board's IT department has lost approximately one-third of its total budget this year in order to aid the board's debt reduction plan.

THINGS ARE HEATING UP: Father and son, Ross, left, and Glenn Turner deliver great service as well as heating oil. KRISTINA WILSON PHOTO

New name, same service

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Turner Heating co-proprietors Ross and Glenn Turner want to assure residents of Glengarry that their home heating and air conditioning needs are in good hands.

The father and son team recently acquired Aubin's Home Comfort, which has a proud 30-year tradition of service. Add to that Ross's 51 years in the home heating game.

"Francis Aubin is still an employee," insisted son Glenn.

A grand opening was held on Sept. 14 to introduce Turner Heating to the community.

"We had a huge turnout," Glenn said.

Turner Heating specializes in heating oil, oil burners and furnaces, maintenance, air conditioning, equipment rentals, farm diesel and lubricants. The company provides automatic delivery, a seniors' discount, emergency service and there are budget plans available.

Turner Heating is open five days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., but emergency service is available 24 hours a day. Turner Heating is located at 3925 County Road 34, between Alexandria and Green Valley and can be reached at 525-4896.

Spotlight on diamonds

By Amanda Portinari
News Correspondent

The public is invited to visit an area jeweller to view a diamond cutting demonstation.

On Oct. 23-26, Harden's Jewellers in Hawkesbury will be hosting master cutter, Gisèle Peron, on her first visit to Ontario.

Ms. Peron will be demonstrating her state-of-the-art cutting techniques which make Canada's Polar Bear Diamond the most brilliant diamonds in the world, according to Mr. Harden.

Until recently, there has never been a producing diamond mine on the North American continent. In June 1999, near Yellowknife, N.W.T., North America's first diamond mine was born.

Those interested can visit Harden's Jewellers to see how these Canadian gems are cut. Visitors should ask to see the polar bear that is laser engraved on every Canadian diamond.

Visitors are also encouraged to register to win their very own Polar Bear Diamond that is being cut on site at Harden's.

HGMH attains French Language Health Services Designation

John Baird, the Minister Responsible for Francophone Affairs has recently approved the French Language Health Services Plan at Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital. The hospital has always served a bilingual community. There are very few changes to services provided but the Plan did incorporate bylaw amendments and policy changes that guarantee continued bilingual services to patients.

The Hospital's Plan, as per Ministry criteria, ensures effective representation from the French speaking community on the Board of Directors and its Committees. This has occurred naturally ever since the inception of the Board in the early 1960's. Some of the founding members were: Gabe Aubry, Lloyd McHugh, Dr. Dolan, Bruno Massie, Gerard Brunet, Andre Comeau, Alex McNaughton and Laurent Major. However, the hospital Bylaws were amended in 2000 to ensure continuance of appropriate representation.

The hospital's Plan, as per another Ministry criteria, ensures the availability of French speaking personnel at all stages of the care provided to the patient. However, as per the French Language Act, no employee can lose their job because he/she does not have appropriate linguistic skills. Subsequently, should an English speaking employee in a designated bilingual position voluntarily leave the employ of the hospital, then the position will be filled with a person with appropriate linguistic skills. If the hospital is unable to recruit such a person, then a unilingual person may be hired conditional that he/she learns the other official language within two years. This is done in order not to jeopardize the service to the other portion of the community.

When it comes to hiring staff in the larger departments such as nursing, two are hired at a time. One of the successful applicants must possess both language skills while it is an asset for the other candidate. This policy provides fair opportunity for all candidates to achieve employment at Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

The Board of Directors would like to thank staff, physicians and volunteers for their cooperation in providing services in both official languages to the best of their abilities and to those who persevered in the development of the French Language Health Services Plan.

L'HGMH, désigné pour offrir des services de santé en français

John Baird, ministre délégué aux Affaires francophones, a récemment approuvé le plan des services de santé en français présenté par l'Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital, établissement qui dessert une communauté bilingue depuis toujours. Bien que le plan change très peu les services déjà offerts, il a permis de modifier quelques règlements et politiques qui assurent désormais la continuité des services bilingues aux patients.

Selon l'un des critères du Ministère, le plan de l'hôpital garantit une représentation efficace de la communauté d'expression française auprès du Conseil d'administration et de ses comités. Dès sa création au début des années 1960, le Conseil d'administration a su attirer tout naturellement une représentation francophone. Parmi les membres fondateurs du Conseil, notons Gabe Aubry, Lloyd McHugh, Dr Dolan, Bruno Massie, Gérard Brunet, André Comeau, Alex McNaughton et Laurent Major. Même si la représentation était déjà appropriée, on l'a ancrée dans les règlements de l'hôpital en l'an 2000.

Conformément à un autre critère du Ministère, le plan de l'hôpital assure la dotation en personnel francophone à toutes les étapes des soins aux patients. Il faut toutefois signaler qu'aucun employé ne peut perdre son emploi s'il ne possède pas les compétences linguistiques appropriées, tel que le stipule la Loi sur les services en français. En revanche, si un employé anglophone occupant un poste désigné bilingue décide de quitter l'hôpital de son propre gré, son poste sera rempli par une personne ayant les compétences linguistiques appropriées. Si l'hôpital est incapable de recruter une personne ayant de telles compétences, une personne unilingue pourra être embauchée à condition qu'elle apprenne l'autre langue officielle dans l'espace de deux ans. Cette mesure a pour but d'éviter de compromettre le service à l'autre portion de la communauté.

Par rapport à la dotation en personnel dans les plus gros services de l'hôpital, comme les soins infirmiers, deux professionnels sont embauchés à la fois. Pour l'un des postes, la maîtrise des deux langues est une exigence tandis qu'elle est un atout pour l'autre poste. Cette politique assure une égalité de chances à toutes les personnes qui postulent un emploi à l'Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Le Conseil d'administration aimerait remercier le personnel, les médecins et les bénévoles d'avoir contribué de leur mieux à la prestation de services dans les deux langues officielles, de même que les personnes qui ont persévéré dans l'élaboration du plan des services de santé en français.

Take time to make sure homes are safe from fire

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

We are now mid-way into Fire Prevention Week, and the students of Martintown Public School have been visited by some of our local firefighters. We are reminded by the Martintown Fire Department to take the time this week to check your smoke detectors, and replace batteries if necessary. Families need to have an escape route and a central meeting place in case of a fire. Heating season has had a slow start, but before lighting up wood stoves, make sure that chimneys and stove pipes are clean. The Martintown Fire Department has been too busy of late, and the firefighters would be much happier to see a reduction in fires.

Women's Institute news

While on the fire prevention theme, there is a reminder to members and would-be members of the Martintown Women's Institute that the October meeting will be held this Thursday, October 17 at the Fire Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m. The roll call is to bring one fire extinguisher which will be checked and filled. Note that the time for this meeting is in the evening, not the usual afternoon slot.

Bridge in Williamstown

The winners of the Party Bridge held on Monday, October 7 at the Martintown Community Centre were Ed Ukrainetz, Bernice Barlow, and Rudi Mertl. Bridge will be held on Thanksgiving Monday as usual, but the following week, October 21, Martintown players are invited to attend a special event in Williamstown. The annual Dessert and Bridge fund raiser for the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum in Williamstown will be held on Monday, October 21 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre (the arena), and Monday afternoon Party Bridge at the Martintown Community Centre will be cancelled on that day so that the Martintown group can support the museum. The time remains 1:00 p.m. and the entry fee is a $5.00 donation to the museum. Regulars are asked to make up their own tables of four and to bring cards and tally sheets. Monday afternoon bridge will be back in Martintown on October 28 at the Martintown Community Centre, again at 1:00.

Library donation

The volunteer librarians of the Optimist Club Library in the Martintown Community Centre were delighted recently when an anonymous donor dropped off a large box of good books. The books were recent and in great shape and about half of them were immediately added to the shelves. Sally Buchan, one of the dedicated library volunteers, thanks the person or people responsible for their generosity. Donations of recent, soft cover novels are always welcome at the library, but due to space constraints, other donations outside of very specific guidelines may have to be turned down. The hours of the library are Saturday afternoons from 2 to 4, and also on an ad hoc basis when various activities such as the fitness classes, and Monday and Tuesday afternoon Bridge are running. Books can be borrowed on an honour system at those times when no staff is present.

Surprise birthday

The Yellenik residence on the King's Road east of Martintown was bursting at the seams this past weekend as family and friends kept appearing to surprise Herb for his 70th birthday on Saturday. Pat, having told her husband that she was off to a meeting, picked up their daughter and her husband from Vancouver, Andrea and Mike Romanisson, as well as Herb's sister, Sue Harte, also from Vancouver, at the airport on Thursday night and when they all walked in, Herb was speechless. Their son, Greg and his girlfriend, Laurie arrived for the weekend and so did son Steven from North Bay with his wife, Barbara, and their son, Daniel who is nearly 10. Son Mike and his wife, Sharleen, along with Kyle, 11, Darren, nearly 10 and Sabrina, 6, came from Ile Perrot just a bit to the east. Herb's sister Mary from Brantford and her husband, Ross de St. Croix, came down too. Fortunately, the weather continued to be mild and family members made use of the camper and the three grandsons slept out in a tent. On Saturday they were joined by neighbours and friends and even more relatives making it to between 40 and 50 people for the birthday dinner. All in all it was a joyous occasion. Pat is in recovery from all her scheming and will now need a holiday! Many happy and healthy returns to Herb.

Wedding

I know, I promised, but I still haven't got the full details about Kim and Todd's wedding on September 28. Next week!

Thanksgiving services

The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church celebrated Holy Communion This past Sunday morning , October 6, with 60 members participating. During the service William and Jackie Benton were received into the church by Resolution of Session. Following the service a bountiful luncheon was served in the church hall by Margaret Kennedy and Vera Kerr.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School is in full swing for another year. This year the following teachers are dedicating their time and talents to the children of the church: Sheryl Fontaine, Joyce Fortier, Anita Goudie, Heather Johnston, Kathy MacEwen, Valerie Ming and Marion Smith. Special craft events will be held throughout the year and Leslie Coleman, Brenda Evrall and Dawn Kuhn are the special events co-ordinators. Children from the area who would like to be a part of this ministry are welcome to join in on Sunday mornings at 9:30 a.m. A warm welcome will await you!

Emily MacInnes tribute

If you have been delaying in jotting down your memories of Emily MacInnes (like me), delay no longer! On Friday, October 25 there will be an evening of tributes honouring the late Emily MacInnes at Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School beginning at 7:30 p.m. Martintown area residents who knew Emily are encouraged to contribute photos, anecdotes and stories about her to be incorporated into the evening. Call Jane Foster at 931-1847 and leave a message if you don't get her directly, or send her an e-mail at g.j.foster@sympatico.ca. Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend the evening on October 25.

Halloween candy bags

The members of the Martintown Octagon Club will be selling candy bags for you to shell out on Halloween this year. Bags of mixed candy will be sold for 25 or 50 cents, depending on the size and orders can be made by calling Ashley Kenny at 528-4283 or Louane Doyle at 528-4312.

Delivery is included and will be timed right before October 31.

Goodtimers euchre

The winners of the Martintown Euchre scores for October 1 were: 1st, Alice Cooper (on her birthday!), 2nd Marcel Glaude, 3rd Mary DeWit, 4th Claire VanPutten, 5th Rita Seguin, 6th Ed Eukrainetz, and 7th Solange Glaude.

The door prize was won by Violet MacDermaid, and the free ticket was won by Billy Johnston. The 50/50 draw winners were Eileen Johnston, Jack McDonell (twice), Bertha Lalonde, Claire VanPutten, and Margaret Kennedy. The DeWits brought a cake and once the euchre was over, the birthday party began.

The next Goodtimers Euchre is being held on Tuesday, October 15 at the Martintown Community Centre beginning at 8:00 p.m. and following that, on October 29. Alternate Tuesdays is the rule of thumb.

Duplicate bridge

The results of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge for Tuesday, October 1 are as follows: 1. Allan McLeod & Henryk Rzepczyk, 2/3. Norah Ruth & Dorothy Fawthrop, 2/3. Claudette Hodgins & Bernice Barlow, 4. Joan Turner & Penny McLeod.

Compass points were not required this week The Bingo Bridge winner was Dorothy Fawthrop.

Henryk and Allan are on a winning streak this year. They now have more than double the Masterpoints of their nearest competitor.

And the cherry tomatoes are still coming!

Workshop will help historians preserve rural roots

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

Are you interested in preserving the rural landscape? If so, you may wish to attend a one day workshop on Oct. 19, at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum.

Entitled "Rural Roots: Defining, Evaluating and Preserving Rural Landscapes," the workshop will feature speakers who will look at various aspects of rural landscapes.

Among them will be Dennis Carter-Edwards (Introduction to Landscape Evaluation); Marianne McLean (Scottish Settlement Patterns in Glengarry); John Carter (Barn Raising); Fern Graham (Rural Cemeteries); Bruce Henbest (Managing an Historic Landscape) and John Zvonar (Site Tour of Sir John Johnson Manor House and Case Study of Landscape Planning at the Manor House).

The day starts at 9:15 a.m. and wraps up at 4:15 p.m. and will include a morning break, lunch, and a visit to the Manor House.

This workshop will be of special importance to politicians, planners, LACAC people and to those who simply want to ensure that rural green spaces are preserved.

To register, please send your cheques ($20 for CHO or LACAC members; $25 for non-members) payable to Community Heritage Ontario, 24 Conlins Road, Scarborough, ON, M1C 1C3. Include your name, address, phone number, amount enclosed and your fax or e-mail address for confirmation.

Late registrations will be accepted at the door, but will not include lunch.

For more information, please contact Dennis at 938-5899.

Visit to Mohawk Valley

I've waited a week to tell you about the recent tour by members and friends of the Sir John Johnson Manor House Committee to the Mohawk Valley, largely because they returned last Monday evening and after four days on a bus, being plied with history, I thought they would probably rather talk about anything but their trip.

I was wrong!

Doris Ferguson called it "a fantastic success." The trip ran so smoothly (no one was left behind in a gas station washroom, or forgotten on a battlefield); the weather was perfect, and the interpreters were excellent.

In fact, it seems as though their spiels have changed a little over the years. From an all-American standpoint, they are now "coming at it from both sides," said Doris, who has made the trip before.

Personal tour guides on the trip were George Anderson and Ed Kipp and their organizational skills were greatly appreciated by those on board.

A beautiful book, outlining the highlights of the tour, will be available shortly in the Local History Collection at the Williamstown Library.

Museum season wraps up

After a very busy and successful season, the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum wraps up for the winter with its annual card party on Oct. 21.

Everyone is invited to this dessert bridge, which starts at 1 p.m. Admission is just $5 per person, so get a table of four together now and enjoy an autumn afternoon in Williamstown.

Fair board meeting

Enjoy an evening in Williamstown on Oct. 18 at the Fair Board's annual meeting and banquet. This dinner is not restricted to fair board members, but is open to all who have an interest in, or enjoyed the Williamstown Fair. It is also open to any newcomers in the area who would like a rather elegant (by Williamstown standards) dinner out.

The dinner begins at 7:30 p.m with a cocktail hour preceding, and tickets (at $20 per person) are available from any director, or at MacDonald's Groceries in Williamstown.

Scarecrows crowned

There was mirth and merriment on the front lawn of Char-Lan District High School on Friday morning as students gathered to assemble scarecrows for the contest being held by Rob McIntosh China.

Proceeds from the contest will go to Kids Can Free the Children, a charity dear to the hearts of Char-Lan students.

Judges of the Char-Lan 'crows were Rob McIntosh employees Natalie Romanko and Katie Lariviere.

"The totem crow" was deemed the winner of the school contest. It was made by Bobbi-Lee Chatelaine, Jenny Larkin, Connor Larkin and Amy Larkin.

The second place went to the display I call "The little people," made by Vicky Schaefer, Kaylah Wheeler and April Warden.

"Oz" took third place. Its creators were: Jessica Dupuis, Jimmy VanderBurg, Ashley Brownell, Jenn Charbonneau, William Conway, Stephanie Cleary, Kim Tessier, Ryan Zurkosky and Meghan Wheeler.

Katrina VanRiel and Megan McIntosh, who helped organize the event and also participated in it, agreed it would be good if it could become an annual thing.

"It's cool the way people shared things," said Katrina, giving the impression that while competition was nice, having fun while helping others was better.

School winners will receive coupons from the Pizza Hut Express in Alexandria, Wendy's on Brookdale Ave. in Cornwall and the Dairy Queen in South Lancaster.

Change of location

Later in the day, with residual winds of Lili lapping at their heels, most of the scarecrows were moved to the Rob McIntosh site in South Lancaster for judging at a later date. No word is available on their survival rate!

Free the Children news

The Char-Lan chapter of the Kids Can Free the Children is pleased that Char-Lan English teacher, Kelly-Anne Rogers, has joined the group in an advisory capacity. Other advisors include Rev. Andrea Harrison and Lynn Larkin.

The recent announcement that the founder of the group, Craig Kielburger, is one of the nominees for this year's Nobel Peace Prize, should raise the profile of Kids Can Free the Children.

Thanksgiving at St. Andrew's United

Everyone is invited to join the congregation of St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday at 9:30 a.m. for a festive service of thanks.

The nursery will be available for infants and young children throughout the worship service. School age children will share the first part of the service with the adults and then will have their own special Sunday School activities in Irvine Hall.

Halloween party plans

There's something about a Halloween party!

Come and have a haunting good time at the Halloween party at Irvine Hall on Oct. 25, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

This party is geared for kids from five to 10 years of age, although younger children may attend if accompanied by an adult.

Older brothers and sisters are also welcome – if they are prepared to lend a hand with the supervision!

Time to think about Christmas parade

It seems a long way off, but organizers of the Lancaster Santa Claus Parade are already on the mark preparing for the beloved annual event.

Williamstowners are thick on the parade route watching Santa and the floats year after year. How about a little participation this time?

Theme of the parade, being held Dec. 7 at 2 p.m., is "A family Christmas." Give your family a memory by entering the parade in some capacity. Give your favourite group a little cohesive spirit by entering a float. Ditto for schools!

To register for the parade, or for more information about it, please contact Janice Montreuil at 347-2420.

Step-dance champ has Williamstown connections

A girl with local connections kicked up her heels to place well in a prestigious step-dancing competition.

Michelle Farley, who is eight years old, placed first this past weekend at the Metcalfe Fair's step dancing competition in the eight-and-under category. Michelle won a cash prize and a first place ribbon.

Previously, Michelle competed against 33 other competitors at the Pembroke Fiddling and Step Dancing competition, and placed fifth in the nine-and-under category, winning cash and a trophy.

Competitors come from across Eastern Ontario to test their dancing skills at this event.

Michelle is the granddaughter of Simonne and Alex King of Williamstown, and the daughter of Paul and Joanne Farley of Avonmore. Her other grandmother, Pomilia Farley, lives in Crysler.

Michelle's instructor is Lori MacMaster of Laggan, to whom the Farleys send their thanks.

Lucky number 13!

Marg and Don Laplante are smiling! On Sunday, their 13th grandchild was born, and according to Marg, it is quite a feeling.

Grace Justina Laplante is the daughter of Ian and Shannon (nee Wheeler) Laplante, of Bayview Estates. She was born at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital, weighing six pounds, 11 ounces.

The Laplantes' 13 grandchildren span quite a few years: their oldest is in her final year at St. Francis Xavier University!

Grace Justina is also a new grandchild for Millie and Willie Wheeler of St. Andrew's – their third.

Congratulations to all. It is wonderful when a new baby enters the world so truly loved.

Badminton resumes

Wanted (preferably alive): badminton players to play weekly at Char-Lan High School on Wednesday evenings.

Cost is $10 for the season – all you have to bring is your racquet and a pair of suitable shoes. Birds will be provided.

Note to newcomers in the community: this is a good way to meet people. If you are over 14 years and under, let's say 113 (should be safe with that one), you are invited to come out between 7 and 10 p.m. on Wednesday evenings.

The nice thing about badminton in Williamstown is that there is no commitment to attend every week, so should a meeting or some other obstacle get in your way, you needn't worry about the consequences.

Veterinary graduate

Congratulations to Allison Patricia McLean who graduated on Sept. 20 from Ridgetown College in the Veterinary Technologist program.

Allison is the daughter of Barb and Bill McLean and is employed at the St. Lawrence Valley Animal Hospital in Cornwall.

Pottery sale

Looking for an interesting Christmas gift? The Country Harvest Pottery Sale is being held this weekend at Marlin Orchards on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There will be 14 or 15 potters present from the area and from Ottawa and Montreal as well. It promises to be a very "high quality" sale, according to local potter, Janet Keefe.

Admission is free and there will be live demonstrations and a silent auction for charity.

Plan to make it a stop on your Thanksgiving tour.

Good-bye to Jean

Apologies to the Williamstown bridge players for the disappearance of your news last week. It was actually chopped by assassins unknown. Or maybe known!

Anyway, in a nutshell (acorn for sure), the bridge groups, both Williamstown and Audrey's, held good-bye parties last week for one of their players, Jean Murray, who has left Williamstown for Edmonton, Alberta.

We wish her all the best in her move.

Warm welcome

We welcome to the Williamstown neighbourhood, Nancy Chaloux, who has moved into Jean's house, which has been purchased by Wendy and Les Wert.

Nancy comes from Sault Ste. Marie and is the vice-principal of the T.R. Leger School.

Bridge results

Bridge scores this week from the Williamstown Bridge Club are: N/S – 1. Jim Campbell and Elizabeth Marjerrison; 2. Jean Campbell and Isobel Quail; 3. Jacquie Thibert and Homer Grant.

E/W – 1. Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell; 2. John Roulston and Naylor Sargent; 3. Marjorie and Rudi Mertl.

Wanted: wedding info

Had a wedding in the family recently? Dumb question, considering I know at least four which have taken place right here in Williamstown.

Next week is going to be the Williamstown Wedding Supplement in this column and to this end, I have prepared a form which I will distribute to anyone who wishes it.

This will help me (provided you return it!) with all the little details such as spelling of names, number of sequins on dress, etc., that take up so much of a correspondent's time.

Please give me a call soon!

APPLE PIE AND QUILTS: Kathryn Cumming of Williamstown, holding up her "Daffodils" wall hanging, and Ruby Warden of South Branch Road, in front of an Embroidery Quilt made for her granddaughter, were just two of the many exhibitors of hand-made new and antique quilts at the Apple Pie and Quilts festival at the Nor'Westers and Loyalists Museum on Sept. 28 and 29. The quilt on the left in the background is "Tulips" by Tibi McRae of Bainsville. KRISTINA WILSON PHOTO

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT: Maxville volunteer firefighters displayed the uses of the Jaws of Life during Saturday's fire prevention week events. The unit was purchased last summer for $13,000 after more money was raised than expected in the department's fund-raising efforts for a foam injector unit.

Residents appreciate Firefighters' demo

MAXVILLE
GORDON WINTER
527-2888

The Maxville firefighters did themselves proud at their Open House last Saturday. They are a very friendly bunch and were attractively dressed in their dress clothes.

They had a table set up with pamphlets, other sources of information and red plastic fire helmets that were a hit with the children.

While I was there, Julie Gaspar came in with a fire extinguisher for testing. She had not used it for a long while and was interested in knowing if it was still in working order. It didn't take long for her to have it checked and to know that it was still useful.

Sparky made his appearance, thanks to Marvin Massia, and quickly, the children crowded around him for a hug and a few words.

The noon hour approached and we started to smell the hot dogs warming up. The coffee pot had been available all morning so these refreshments were available along with pop.

Out on the west side of the spick and span fire hall were two wrecks of cars that had been donated. The Jaws for Life equipment was hauled out there and while Alexander Sinclair was made up by his father, Paul, to look like an injured occupant of the car, four firefighters prepared to give a demonstration on the effectiveness of this equipment.

It was a very good Open House and on behalf of the community, a thank-you goes to all our volunteer firefighters.

Athol tour

I met Hugh Fisher in the post office one day last week and he was very interested in telling me about a tour group that he showed around St. Elmo the day before. Hugh has lived at Athol all his life and if there is anyone that can tell people about the Gordon Presbyterian Church and the church hall, it is him.

There were 57 passengers in the bus that was sponsored by the Ottawa Historical Society. Hugh showed them through the Church, opened in 1864, that is used only once a year now for a memorial service.

Then he took them over to the log hall that was once a Congregational Church, built around 1833, and now used as a gathering place for social activities connected to the Church or community.

Hugh understood that the group was on a tight schedule and that the bus was headed for the Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan and then to Alexandria and Williamstown.

This news came at an opportune time because I intended to bring up the tourism issue, anyway.

The St. Elmo church was named after the Rev. Daniel Gordon, father of the Rev. Charles Gordon, better known as Ralph Connor. The son's first church is now the Ralph Connor Memorial United Church in Canmore, Alta. The church has a collection of the works of Ralph Connor and I have been in contact for years with the lady, Mary Smith, who is in charge of the collection.

In a letter from Mrs. Smith that I received last week she told me that the church was opened in 1891 and that it was the first church built in Canmore. The sanctuary is the only remaining part of the original building and is now a Provincial Historic Site.

This past July and August a new project was undertaken. The church sanctuary was open to visitors for three afternoons a week. On hand were volunteer hosts to relate the church history and to answer questions.

There were 419 visitors recorded and there were more who were not recorded.

I believe that Canmore is in a tourist area. Also, it has grown tremendously from 3,000 people in 1978 to 13,000 at this time.

However, this community has a potential for tourists. If only those 57 at St. Elmo could have been induced to visit the village.

Holmes abroad

Hilda and Herb Holmes were away for over two weeks. Although they have railroad passes, the couple chose to motor in order to have the car to get them to places off the train route as they travelled to the cities of Edmonton, Calgary and Toronto.

Out west

Mabel Guindon had been to the West as well with visits to her daughter Darlene Tymchak and family in Calgary and with another daughter, Debbie and Larry Nivin in Winnipeg. While in Calgary, Mrs. Guindon's sister, Joan Montgomery, came from Fernie, B.C., for an overnight visit.

Condolences

We extend our condolences to John Williams and his family in the sudden death of his father, Carol (Buzz) Williams, Saturday night. Mr. Williams was in his 96th year and had been a Manor resident since July 2000. The funeral was held here on Tuesday with burial in the family plot in Carleton Place. Mr. Williams had lived in Carleton Place most of his life before moving to the Manor.

Hockey player still around

I was mistaken with one fact in the list of names of the members of the High School hockey team. I am pleased to report that teacher Howard McDonald is still living although he is in a nursing home in Trenton. My apologies go to his relatives and friends in Williamstown.

Casino spaces

There are still spaces on the buses going to the Casinos in Hull on Oct. 17 and to the one in Hull the next day. Phone calls may be made to Jean MacCuaig at 527-2064 on behalf of the retired teachers or to Marilyn Blair at 538-2837. She is a member of the bursary committee at Tagwi High School where extra bursaries will be needed for the double class of graduates next spring.

Glengarry Place function

The committee that is planning The Glengarry Place for the Arts is holding a wine and cheese social evening on Tuesday at the Sports Complex at 7 p.m. There will be entertainment and the cost is $6. Your attendance will be a mark of support for this noteworthy project to establish a centre in Glengarry for teaching and instruction as well as for the performance of these same arts which are a part of the Scottish heritage.

Horticultural Society

The October meeting of the Horticultural Society will be held in the United Church hall on Wednesday starting at 6:30 p.m. with a pot luck supper. The guest speaker will be from the attractive store east of Dunvegan known as the Bird on the Wire. There they sell all the requirements for the successful feeder of the wild birds.

Volunteer bakers

Phyllis Burtenshaw-Lalonde would like to hear from those who would like to volunteer to help a few residents bake goodies on two Wednesday mornings a month from 9:30-11 a.m. The volunteer would be expected to help the resident follow a recipe, stir the ingredients and bake the cookies, biscuits, squares or cake.

The finished products are used for the afternoon coffee shop that many residents rightly enjoy.

Outreach programs

There are spaces for more clients in two of the outreach programs at the Manor. The meals-on-wheels program delivers three course hot meals to clients in the area five days a week and right now, more could be accommodated. Volunteers have routes and the dinners are delivered starting at 11:15 a.m. at the nearest client's home and there after until the various routes are concluded.

Also, there is a day program at the Manor for seniors. They are driven in by a family member or picked up at home by Donald Sabourin with the Manor van and have the opportunities to enjoy a meal at the Manor as well as the activities planned for their day.

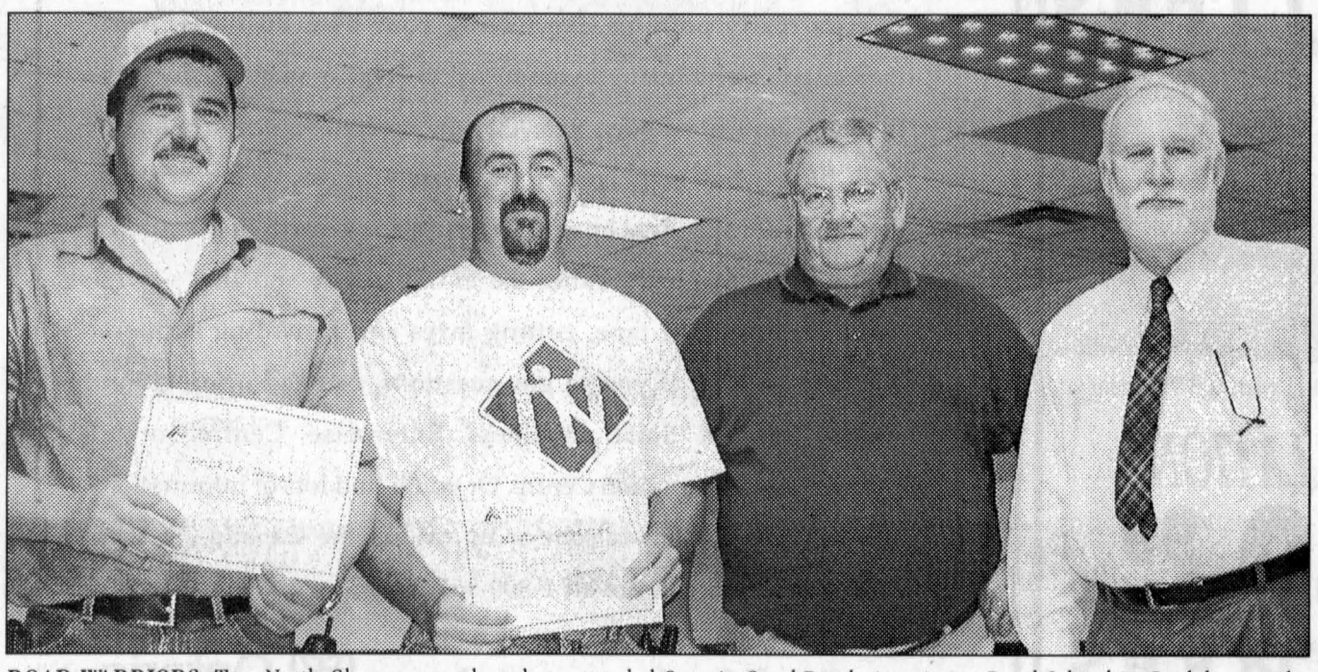
Mrs. Burtenshaw-Lalonde is the one to phone at 527-2170, ext. 228 to enquire about the complete details of these two outreach programs.

Bowling

Kendra Macintosh is the staff member at the Manor who looks after the bowling that community seniors have been enjoying for several years now. The teams on Thursday are filled but if you would like to bowl regularly on Tuesday morning at the Sports Complex in St. Isidore starting at 9:30 a.m. you are cordially invited to call Kendra at 527-2170, ext. 237 and sign up with her. If you do not wish to commit yourself to a regular schedule, you could get your name on the list of spares.

Bridge

The top scores at the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor were earned by Russ Surtees, Margaret Anderson and Barbara Surtees, in that order, starting with the highest.



ROAD WARRIORS: Two North Glengarry road workers attended Ontario Good Roads Association Road School in Guelph recently. Here, roads superintendent Jean-Guy Levert, second from right, and North Glengarry mayor Bill Franklin, far right, present Robbie Smeal and Michel Cuerrier with their Road School certificates. Mr. Smeal and Mr. Cuerrier scored 91 and 90 per cent on their exams, respectively.

You've operated a successful farm and you deserve to enjoy retirement. Perhaps you're unsure how to remove yourself from the operation and ensure that it remains viable. If another family member takes over, it's important to know what your options are, and what the potential tax implications may be. Equally important is the manner in which the rest of your estate will be divided among your children. There are ways to make succession fair for all concerned. I can help you find them.

YOUR COMPLETE SOURCE
FOR ALL YOUR HEATING FUEL NEEDS

People who heat their home with oil made a wise choice because heating oil is still the most economical way to heat your home when you compare it to electricity or gas. J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. is striving to be the most reliable fuel oil supplier and the most customer responsive to provide its customers with leading-edge products and services that generate added value. As experts in home comfort, they offer professional technical advice as well as a wide range of products and services to meet all your energy needs.

J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. has a number of suggestions to reduce your heating bill. For instance, simply replacing your old furnace with state-of-the-art clean burn technology will provide substantial savings. Modern heating furnaces are highly efficient and consume up to 25% less oil than other models. Efficient, compact oil-fired hot water heaters have the fastest recovery available. They heat water twice as fast as typical natural gas, and five times faster than electricity.

If you heat your home with oil, ideally you should have your oil furnace or boiler serviced once a year. After running all winter some parts of the furnace may not be functioning as well as they originally did. This can lead to lower efficiency and safety problems. From maintenance to repairs, J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. Protection Plan has got you covered. It's your best assurance of maximum comfort without having to worry about the repair costs.

When it comes to heating oil delivery, nothing could be simpler. Just contact J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. and they'll take your order over the phone. They deliver the highest quality petroleum products available. They offer home heating fuels, gasoline and diesel fuel, motor oils and a complete line of Irving & Texaco bulk lubricants & greases. With Automatic Delivery and Equal Billing Plan, you'll never have to check your oil level again.

J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. competitive prices, top notch service staff and high quality products make J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. the obvious choice for all of your energy and home comfort needs.

WI speaker warns of fresh water concerns

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207
FAX 347-1297

Fresh water will be the oil of the 21st century. Wars will be waged over it, predicted environmental columnist, Elaine Kennedy, speaking to the Bainsville Women's Institute last week at the Cooper Marsh Visitors' Centre.

Sporting her signature hat, the well-known environmental columnist, said the Canadian government must move fast to "enact legislation against exporting fresh water and exempt water from the North American Free trade Agreement.

"Once water is exported," Elaine explained, "it becomes a commodity product, like wheat or lumber, and will be governed by NAFTA regulations. Under NAFTA rules a commercial product must be available to all. Canada could lose sovereignty and control over how much water could be pumped out of our lakes and rivers."

Elaine Kennedy, who has been on various Great Lakes basin and St. Lawrence River water quality committees for at least 20 years, said, "We have a finite quantity of fresh water in our water table. In some areas our water table has already been depleted by aggressive industrial and agricultural uses. We must rein in our own individual lavish overuse and see that all levels of government curtail industrial water consumption."

During a lively question period Elaine said that the federal government doesn't seem to be interested in the water issue. But she also admitted that Ottawa did shoot down a recent scheme to export water from Newfoundland.

Elizabeth McIntosh-Legge, chair of the Cooper Marsh Conservators, and hostess for this WI meeting along with Pat Ager, explained the formation of the marsh from wetlands, donated by Bill Cooper, and outlined programs for children and environmentalists.

The meeting was under the gavel of WI president, Shirley Walsh. Laurie MacDonald, Ruth Fourney and Audrey Mitchell served lunch.

Special service open to all

On Oct. 20, at St. Andrew's United Church in Bainsville, Sister McInness will be a guest speaker for the regular morning service at 11 a.m.

Sister McInness, who was born in New Brunswick, studied music at Mount Allison Conservatory of Music and then studied violin at New York's Juilliard School of Music. Following this, she then took holy orders with Our Lady's Missionaries of Alexandria and was posted, in 1961, to missionary work in Japan.

Traveling to England, Sister McInness reached out to 2,000 of England's prison inmates to provide hope and inspiration to many hardened criminals through meditation. Although she still spends two to three months in England, she is currently trying to establish this same program in our Canadian prison system.

On Dec. 4, 2001, Sister McInness received the Order of Canada from Governor General Adrienne Clarkson, for "demonstrating excellence, courage, and exceptional dedication to the service of others." She will soon be awarded the Jubilee Medal for her humanitarian work.

Sister McInness is Canada's only qualified Zen Master, and last year launched her book, "Zen Contemplation, Bridge of Living Water,"

Local singer, Katy Munro, will be guest soloist for this service. Rev. Gary Stokes, and the combined congregation of St. Andrew's and Knox United Churches invite everyone to attend this remarkable morning service.

From St. Andrew's

On Sunday, the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Lancaster, celebrated the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper with 120 members and visitors participating. During the service Rev. MacMillan was pleased to welcome into the church family, by Act of Session, Mrs. Marion Bridgman and Mrs. Edith Robertson. Aggie Petrie and Betty MacLennan hosted following worship, a Coffee Fellowship Hour in the church hall.

SG Club Council

Well, the weather denies it, but all too soon winter WILL arrive. But, not to fear, many nice winter events are on course. Take, for example, the recent meeting of the South Glengarry Club Council at the Lancaster Fire Hall. At that meeting the initial details of our annual Santa Claus Parade were made. New chair of the council is Janice Montreuil and Richard Pilon will be treasurer.

This year the Santa Claus Parade will be on Dec. 7, as always, the first Saturday in December. You can be sure that Janice and the members of this year's council will organize another very nice parade for South Glengarry.

In the meantime, any group, or individuals who would like to share some time and effort to this very popular community event is welcome. Please call Janice at 347-2420.

The theme for the 2002 parade is "A Family Christmas." More news as plans continue.

S.J. McLeod's 40th

Too many years ago, more than I wish to count, I drove through fields of corn, or so it seemed, to find the school that would be the temporary place of learning for our children. I followed the yellow bus along the route with my daughter, who was not too thrilled with the prospect of her unknown future educational experience.

It seems like eons ago, this trip to the Lancaster Township Public School. Happily it was the beginning of a great educational experience for all of our family.

We decide to live in this area instead of following our plans to move elsewhere and the rest is history.

TYING IT ALL OVER AGAIN: Not only did Daniel and Fleurette Bourgon of South Lancaster celebrate 50 years of marriage, they made their future years even more blessed by renewing their vows.
CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

Barry and I both feel that our children have done well in their life because of their schooling at what we used to fondly call "Huntly High." I am sure that there are many generations of families who feel the same way.

With this in mind, you should know that this same school, now called S.J. McLeod Public School, is holding it's 40th Anniversary Celebrations this year.

The Parents' Committee of S.J. McLeod is holding a Harvest Ball on Oct. 19 at the Char-Lan Arena. Come at 8 p.m.

The proceeds of this event will go to a History Fund that will enhance the children's history program that deals with the rich culture and history within our own area.

Research is presently ongoing about the history of S.J. McLeod Public School and the results will be displayed the evening of the Anniversary Harvest Ball.

Everyone will be happy to know that the Pierre Vaillancourt Quintet will entertain on this evening.

The parents' committee would like to invite past and present teachers, parents, neighbours and friends to join in this celebratory fun evening of reminiscing and harvest time, most applicable to our rural school in the former township of Lancaster.

The committee is looking for pictures, and memorabilia and stories of the past 40 years. Of course, these would be returned after the celebrations. If you have something to contribute you can drop it off at the school, or, for information please call Beth at 347-2284.

Tickets, $8 per person or $15 for a couple, are available at Mitchell's Flower Shop in Lancaster, from anyone on the Parents' Committee or from the school.

Annual Harvest Fall Fair

This is always a fun event but there is an added attraction.

Salem United Church in Summerstown will be holding their annual Fall Fair on Oct. 19 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. As usual, there will be crafts, plants, and home baked goods, along with many choices of articles from vendors. Lunch of chili, perch rolls, or sandwiches, and dessert, will also be available.

An added attraction to this event will be live demonstrations by Ann Marlin, with her pottery skills and Wendy Wert, with floral arrangement techniques.

This is always fun and you are invited!

Scarecrow Festival

It's not too late to enter. Entry deadline for the Scarecrow Festival at Rob McIntosh China has been extended until Oct. 13.

If you happen to drive by it's hard to miss the amazing entries that already inhabit the grounds around Rob McIntosh shops. If you already have an entry form just fill it in and drop it off at Rob McIntosh China, or call in and fill one out right there.

Voting is up to the customers, with each purchase or with a donation to "Kids Can Free the Children." First prize is $500, second and third prize, $250!

Shortly, probably as you read this, the banner will be flying to mark the spot of the Scarecrow Festival for all to see. The best part of this fun fundraiser is that the proceeds go to a most worthy cause.

Renewed vows

What does one do to celebrate 50 years of married life? Renew their vows, of course.

Daniel and Fleurette Bourdon of South Lancaster took part in a lovely ceremony at St. Joseph's Church in Lancaster on Friday evening, with family members and friends in attendance and with Father Rudy officiating.

The couple received a plaque from the Pope and a lovely bouquet of yellow roses from Father Rudy and the parishioners of St. Joseph's Church. As well, they were presented with two plaques from the Lancaster Knights of Columbus. The couple received beautiful certificates from MPP Jean Marc Lalonde and Premier Ernie Eves.

The Bourdon children and their spouses organized a wonderful party at the Glen Walter Knight's of Columbus Hall. There were lots of visiting, dancing, good food and, I am sure, many memories of good times through 50 years of marriage.

Danny tells me that he has been a Knight for some 20 years. For the same amount of time he has been a close friend of Santa Claus and helps with our Santa Claus Parade each year, if you get the picture.

Some people say that he is related to the jolly old man himself, and why not? Fleurette and Daniel have a large family of 10 children and 21 grandchildren. Danny proudly informed me that the 22nd is on the way. A good visit for Santa on any given Christmas!

When I told Fleurette that my daughter had two girls just over a year apart she mentioned that their first two were only 12 months apart and as she talked about how nice that was it was obvious that her good attitude was what made her such a great parent and grandparent. She told me that her mother always said, "What makes you laugh makes you cry".

Congratulations to the Bourdons, their children, Anne, Emile, Donald, Lise, Ralph, Diane, Lucille, Denise, Jean, Chantal, and all of their families including 21 of the younger generation.

Fish Fry

It's interesting to find out that Danny, with friends Jack and Richard recently, (Sept. 28) made up a nice Lancaster Perch meal in the Bourdon's backyard and delivered it, hot, to Chateau Gardens. Puts a whole new meaning to Meals on Wheels!

There are many things that the Lancaster Fish and Game Club does, quietly, in our community.

Reminders:

Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., Preschool Story Hour at the Lancaster Library.

Saturday is Oktoberfest at the Legion.

"If you have passion, you can move an idea towards a vision and make owning your own business truly gratifying."
Jennifer Drakes
The Acumen Academy

There's really nothing like having your own business. And the Ontario government is committed to helping small businesses thrive. There have been 955,000 jobs created in Ontario since 1995. Nearly half were created by small business. We've worked hard to build the ideal business climate for growth, innovation, and success. Anyone may attend the meeting starting at 7:30 p.m.

GGCC draw winners

The Glengarry Golf and Country recently drew the winners from the 2002 fund-raiser draw.

First prize (five-year membership) was won by Luc Poirier. Second prize (three-year membership) was won by Jacques Quenneville. Third prize (one-year membership) was won by Doug Jewer.

$100 prizes went to Bob Doonan and Paul Besner; Lynn Wallace; Michel and Ghislaine Ouellet and Mel Watt.

118 tickets were sold at $100 each.

Bantam Glens split

The Roy's Pontiac Buick bantam B Alexandria Glens split a pair of Upper Canada Minor Hockey League exhibition games last week.

On Oct. 3 the Glens fell to the South Stormont Selects by a 4-0 score.

The Glens rebounded in their following contest defeating North Dundas 5-3.

Brett Boisvenue and J.F. Menard led the way with two goals each.

Julien Menard also scored in the win and had two assists.

The Glens will play their first league game tonight in North Dundas.

Bantam Rebs tie

The Paradise Fitness bantam B Char-Lan Rebels hosted the South Stormont Selects Sept. 30 and came away with a 5-5 draw.

Adam Tessier and Adam Barton scored two goals apiece and Shawn Fontaine had a single.

Joey MacDougall contributed with three assists.

South Stormont scored three powerplay goals to tie the game after Char-Lan led 5-2.

Rapids win and lose

The Upper Canada Mortgage AA peewee Rapids split their two games last week both resulting in 3-0 scores.

In their win against Rideau-St. Lawrence Josh Lapierre, Shane Kitchen and Brett Michaud scored.

Josh Loney had the shutout for the Rapids who are now 3-3-0.

The team includes goaltenders: Loney and Travis Coughlin, defencemen: Brock Bissonnette, Brett Conway, Matt Jacobs, Josh Lapierre and Kale Perry and forwards: Michaud, Kitchen, Zach MacInnis, Sean Rudy, Brendan Trasuk, Trent Thomas, Mac Mitchell, Ally Bero and Justin Ingram.

Rapids beat Kanata

The Seaway Valley Innovative Converting Inc. minor midget Rapids opened the 2002-03 season with a 4-3 victory over Kanata last week.

Corey Bough set the pace with a hat trick while Matt Walsh added a single.

Josh Ingram earned the win in goal.

Glens beat Cougars

The Alexandria Auto Glass rep B Glens earned a 3-1 win over the Vankleek Hill squad Sunday afternoon in Alexandria.

Erik Just, Mikael Giroux and Joe O'Shea scored in the victory.

Keegan Filion was solid in goal.

Glengarry run-walk clears $20,000

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The third annual Glengarry Run-Walk brought in its largest total ever as over $20,000 was raised Sunday.

Race organizer Glen Campbell said there was a drop off in participation but he's thrilled with the end result.

"We've been really fortunate. The race continues to grow and the most shocking is the amount of pledges raised by participants."

Campbell said that $12,000 of the proceeds were raised by participants in the race.

Another big part of the money raised came from the newest corporate sponsor, Scotiabank.

They matched the first $5,000 raised.

Because of an overcast day Campbell feels many people decided to forego the event.

"There were several stories of families planning to come but staying home because they didn't want to chance the weather," he said.

250 participated in this year's race as opposed to the 340 last year.

"It's still a nice amount," said Campbell.

60 volunteers were also on hand Sunday to help out.

Despite the poor conditions, finishing times were quite impressive.

The winner of the half-marathon event, Ottawa's Stephane Gamache, highlighted the event as he finished in a time of 1:15:01.7.

Gamache is the 2002 champion of the Toronto marathon and led a strong cast of eight contenders in this year's half marathon.

Because there weren't as many people to be timed this year (runners had the option of being timed or not this year) Gamache signed up on the morning of the race.

"We had eight people under 125 minutes," said Campbell.

"That's really, really good. In our first year Yves Poirier won in a time of 126 minutes."

In the 10 kilometre event, Ottawa's David Barclay completed the course in 35:40.7.

Campbell said the first winner in that event three years ago finished in 42 minutes.

Although there were some impressive results in the race Campbell said the main objective of the race is participation.

"Many of the people weren't even timed. I was impressed with the local support. It was a tremendous effort."

Leading the way among individual pledge raisers was Laurent Rivard who collected $660.

For a list of top 10 and full Glengarry results see page 16

NECESSITY OF LIFE: North Lancaster resident and Glengarry run-walk volunteer Kyle Hartwick hands out a cup of water to one of the participants during the race held Sunday on Curry Hill Road. Over 250 people participated in the event despite overcast and windy skies.

A GREAT START: Glens forward Ben Desnoyers has been the Glens most consistent scorer so far this season. He had both goals in a 2-2 draw with the Kemptville 73s Friday night in Alexandria.

Glens pick up point from weekend pair

ALEXANDRIA JUNIOR B GLENS

The Alexandria Glens must find consistency in their game.

In their two contests last week, Alexandria resembled two different squads as they played terrifically against the unbeaten Kemptville 73s after a poor effort in Char-Lan earlier in the week.

Glens general manager and assistant coach Dominic Menard said it's a matter of being ready to play starting with the first shift.

"Against Kemptville Matt (Desnoyers) had a big hit on the first shift and we played a solid offensive and defensive game. In Char-Lan they came out ready to play and we didn't. We had no jump in our step and were down 4-0 after the first period."

As several new players have joined the squad this year the coaching staff admits that line combinations may not be working and they'll continue to make changes to the lineup.

Another aspect of the game that greatly improved from the Tuesday game in Williamstown to Friday at home was discipline.

"We addressed that before Friday night and we're well aware of the problem," said Menard.

"We're trying to let the guys realize that 5 on 5 and if we're skating we are just as good as anyone in the league."

Penalties played a key role in the Tuesday match in Williamstown as Char-Lan rolled to a convincing win.

Rebels 6 Glens 2

Char-Lan scored just 58 seconds into the game and another three in the first period as they rolled to a big win.

Broomball league kicks off

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Dave's Drywall and Farley Windows continued where they left off a year ago winning their first games of the North Glengarry Men's Broomball League.

Absent from the league is Kelly's Sports Bar which was renamed The Master's.

In the opening game of the day on Sunday Dave's Drywall shut out the league's other team, Lacombe's Custom Work.

Jamie Norman had a pair of goals in the win and singles were potted by Gary St. Pierre and Lee Casselman.

Keith Presley earned the shutout in goal.

In game two, Farley's won by a convincing 9-2 score.

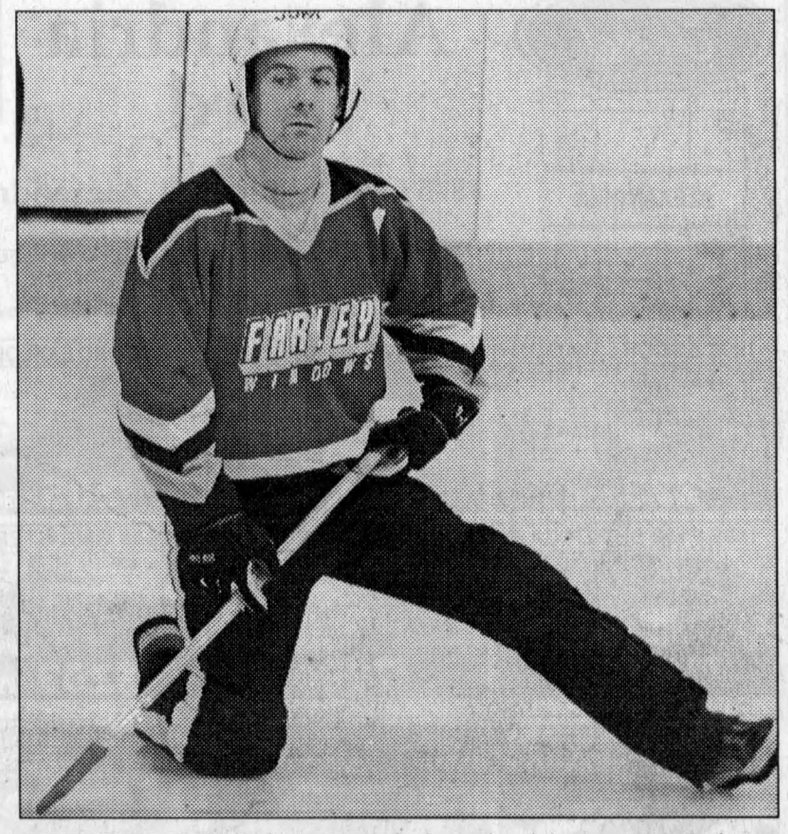
Alain Seguin led the way with three goals and an assist in the win.

Victor Sarault potted two goals and an assist. Paul Seguin had two goals.

Singles were netted by Charles McKeown, who also had three assists and by captain Gerald Seguin.

The Master's got their scoring from Ivan Conway and Sandy McLeod.

The league games will be played every Sunday morning starting at 10 a.m. at the Maxville and District Sports Complex.



STRETCHING OUT: Charlie McKeown had a goal and three assists in Farley's 9-2 victory over The Master's during the opening day games of the North Glengarry Broomball League in Maxville.

Crusaders lose two b-ball games

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Char-Lan District High School basketball teams took a pair of losses during girls' basketball games held in Williamstown Friday afternoon.

The junior Crusaders were handed a 45-34 loss to General Vanier after trailing by just one point at half time.

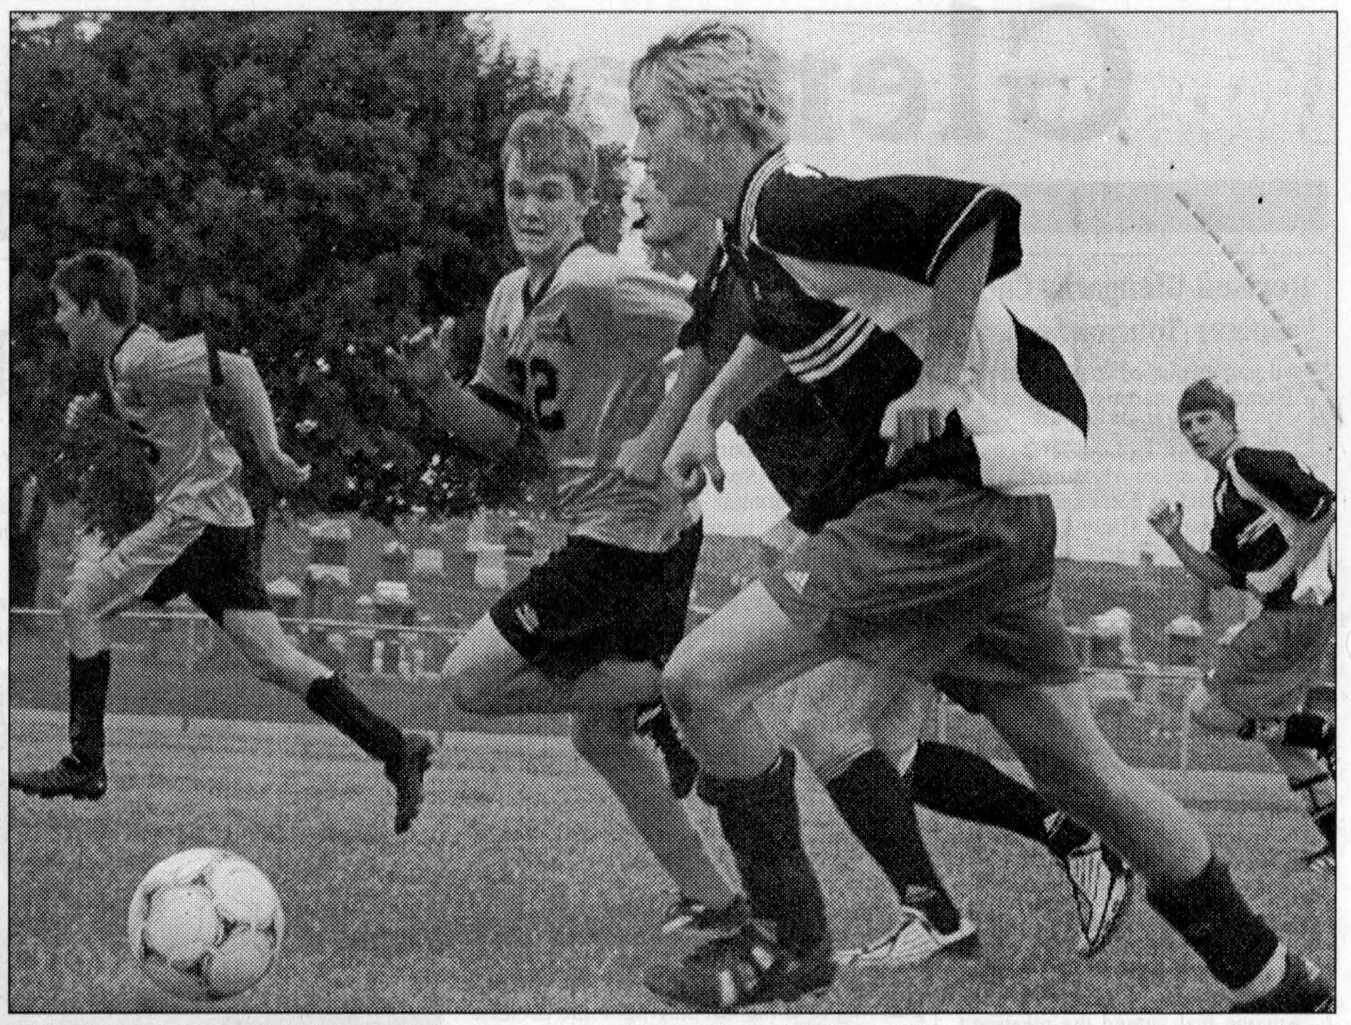
Kelsey Thomson scored 12 points in the loss.

In midget play, the Crusaders fell to the Vikings 27-10.

Kaylee Tothoulkelsie scored four points in the loss.

In Alexandria GDHS split a pair of games.

The junior Gaels won by a 21-18 score while the midget team lost 53-12.



FULL OF SPEED: Glengarry District High School senior boy's soccer team forward Blair MacMillan chases the ball against a Seaway District High School defender during action at North Dundas high school in Winchester last week. GDHS defeated Seaway 3-0 and then rolled past North Dundas by a 2-0 score.

GDHS soccer teams still unbeaten

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Both Glengarry District High School senior boys' soccer teams remained unbeaten as they took all four contests in Winchester last week.

The senior boys' started off with a 3-0 win over Seaway.

German exchange student Jochim Jagu, a nationally ranked junior goaltender in his home country, made a name for himself out of goal scoring twice.

Travis Hagen had the other goal.

Shane O'Brien picked up the shutout.

In the Gaels second game Jago returned to his natural position and posted a shutout in a 2-0 win over North Dundas.

Blair MacMillan, on a penalty shot, and Nick Quenneville scored in the victory.

Char-Lan's senior team lost their first match of the year 2-1 to North Dundas.

Stefano Zoppas replied for Char-Lan.

The team responded with a 5-0 win in their next game against Seaway.

Gary Lee with two, Addison MacDonald, Garrett Hurrell and Jimmy VanderBurg scored while Mike Cella posted the shutout.

Meanwhile Tagwi Secondary School's senior team were upset by La Citadelle 2-1 in their game played in Cornwall.

Kevin Glaude continued a tremendous season scoring in the win.

In their next contest Tagwi bounced back with a 1-0 win over CCVS as William Elshoff scored and John Blair recorded the shutout.

Junior action

GDHS remained perfect after beating both North Dundas and Seaway.

In their first game the Gaels defeated Seaway 5-0.

Brent MacNab with two, Jason MacDonald, Brendan Ryan and Alex Wenger scored in the win and Alex MacDougall had the shutout.

In game two GDHS beat North Dundas 1-0. The goaltender and goal scorer was not available.

Char-Lan earned two wins as they came back against North Dundas in the opener.

Adam Barton scored all three goals in the win as the Crusaders escaped after trailing 2-1 late in the game.

In their other contest Curran Schoenmaker and Josh Gibeau scored in a 2-0 win over Seaway.

Jeremy MacDonald was in goal.

Tagwi's junior squad lost to St. Lawrence 4-0 but came back with a 3-2 win over General Vanier. Frank Briere, Michael Buhr and Brendan Kelly scored in the win.

Char-Lan, Glengarry and Tagwi were all in action yesterday in Alexandria.

Mustangs 0-2, no worries just yet

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Although the Maxville Mustangs are now 0-2 to start the season head coach Andre Paquette isn't worrying.

Because of a slow start to training camp the team has only had two games and two practices with their full roster.

Paquette knows it's early in the year and he's expecting to make a vast improvement in team play after tonight's practice.

"Overall we're coming around. We haven't had enough time to show them what we want them to do. We had a slow start last year too."

Maxville's latest setback came Saturday night during their home opener against the sophomore Vanier Thunder.

The Mustangs did pull out a point after losing in overtime but Paquette blames a slow start on what should have been a two-point night.

Thunder 8 Mustangs 7 OT

Steve Choinow's second goal of the game with 2:12 gone in overtime sealed Vanier's first win of the season.

It spoiled a comeback by Maxville that saw them score four goals in the final 8:43 to erase a 7-3 Vanier lead.

"We didn't come out hungry enough in the first period," said Paquette.

"Our best period was the third and it was nice to see us come from behind after being down by four goals."

A reason for the slow start may have been a lack of discipline.

Maxville received six penalties in the first period, although so did Vanier.

In the second period Maxville was assessed seven penalties and in the third they were given 10 penalties including two misconducts and a game misconduct for fighting after rookie Dale Ferguson surprised Vanier's Roch Chevet in a good tilt.

Keying the comeback for Maxville late in the third period was the top two lines.

Captain Derek Crawford scored the first two of four goals and Richard Henderson scored the next two off assists from linemate Jonathon Bray.

Blair MacMillan put the Mustangs up early in the first period before Richard Redmond made it 2-0 Maxville.

Vanier scored two goals in the final five minutes of the first period to knot the score.

Michel Parent had the lone second period tally for Maxville as Vanier potted three goals.

Scoring for Vanier was Choinow, Dan Renaud and Dennis Stochton with two each, former Mustang Charles Hoffman and Dan Gagnon.

Although it was nice to see so many goals under the home team on the scoreboard, Paquette must have some concern about his team defence.

"We have lots of talent up front so scoring won't be a problem. We have a young defence and we will work with them to get the puck out better."

Rookie Chris Decoste made his first junior C start in the game and played the entire game.

Mustangs notes:

This weekend the Mustangs will play two away games.

They're in Embrun Friday night for a 8:15 p.m. start against the Panthers.

On Saturday they travel to Vankleek Hill for a 7:30 p.m. start against the Cougars.

The Mustangs will receive a boost Saturday night when bruising veteran defenceman Pat Lafleche and gritty winger Ghislain Laferriere return to the lineup after starting the season with suspensions.

Lafleche will be looked upon to try and help guide a young Mustangs defence.

Midget affiliate was the back up goaltender for Saturday night.

Dan Desnoyers missed the game because he had prior commitments on that night.

Rebels first line clicking on offence

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

After scoring 12 goals in two games last week, it's clear the Char-Lan Rebels offense should be among the league's best this year.

The offense received a big boost on their Tuesday night game (Oct. 1) against the rival Alexandria Glens at home.

As fans began to sit down in preparation of the latest battle of Glengarry a familiar face donning #9 came speeding onto the ice.

His customary pre-game tap to both top corners of his net with his stick and then again on the red dot at centre ice was a clear indication that Brett Liscomb was back in Williamstown.

Liscomb, who was protected by the Cornwall Jr. A Colts after leading Char-Lan in scoring last year and winning the league's rookie of the year, was traded to Pembroke a few weeks back and refused to report.

He earned his release from Pembroke just prior to the Rebels-Glens game.

Liscomb quickly made his presence felt as he scored midway through the first period to put his team up 2-0 at that point. The goal came with two minutes left in the period as Liscomb carried the puck from behind his own net all the way in to the Alexandria zone and beat Felix Limoges with a deke.

Up 4-0 after two periods, Liscomb scored the only goal in the second .

In the third period Alexandria fought back with two quick goals 5:45 (by Chris VanOverbeek) and 6:24 (by Simon Langevin) into the period.

Rebels head coach Eric Fontaine called a time out to settle his team down.

Just over a minute after the time out Liscomb scored his third goal of the game unassisted to kill the Glens comeback hopes.

"It's was good to have him," said Fontaine in the understatement of the year.

"It gave a good 1-2 punch and he proved he should be in the junior A."

Liscomb was signed by former Rebels head coach Jeff Carter and the Brockville Braves a day after the Glens game.

Captain Derek Duval scored twice in the win against Alexandria and Patrick Lemay added a single.

Steve Lacelle was solid in goal.

Steve Jarvo, Addison Pelkey and Pat Johnson each had two assists.

The rivalry heated up during the game as several players were ejected with misconduct penalties.

Liscomb was sent off with 2:25 remaining after receiving a check to the head penalty. Char-Lan's Jordan Reasbeck was sent off earlier for the same reason.

One area that Fontaine doesn't want to see get out of hand is discipline.

In a Sunday night visit to Kemptville, the 73s had the opportunity to blow up the game with five powerplays in the first period in including two stretches of five-on-three.

Rebels goaltender Anthony Fricchione stood on his head to keep his team in the game however but Fontaine knows that won't happen every time.

"We got into a little bit of penalty trouble and it's hard to get rolling when you're shorthanded."

Because of the slow start Char-Lan saw themselves down 2-1 and 5-3 after the first two periods.

A late goal in that middle frame by Steve Jarvo seemed to give the team a boost however as they scored two more, from Johnson and Mike King, in the first three minutes of the third period to knot the score.

Kemptville did take over the lead again with 15 minutes remaining but Char-Lan equalled the score for good two minutes later as Duval scored for the second time in the game.

He opened the scoring for Char-Lan in the first period.

Jarvo had both second period goals.

Duval and Johnson both added two assists in the game.

The Duval, Johnson, Jarvo line contributed five of the six goals scored.

"It's nice to see them clicking but we need other lines to start scoring," said Fontaine.

"Maybe it just takes one goal to get these guys going. Maybe it would build their confidence."

Scoring for Kemptville were league leading scorer Adam Spirk with two, Sylvain Routhier, Drew Thomson, Chris Crock and McLean Koekoek.

Fricchione made 40 saves in the win.

Rebels notes:

This weekend Char-Lan will play on home ice Saturday night against the Winchester Hawks starting at 7:45 p.m.

On Sunday the Rebels travel to Akwesasne for a 2 p.m. start against the Wolves.

Fontaine wants four points this weekend.

"We can't take any team for granted but if we work hard we should get four points. I want to make the Boxing Day tournament."

Before the game in Kemptville Sunday Fontaine said he met with a few of his old teammates.

Former Rebels Stephane St. Denis, Sean Roseman and Andrew Banville are all playing in Kemptville this year.

All three are attending school in Ottawa so Kemptville is much closer than Williamstown.

"I would like to have them here but it's closer for them there," said Fontaine.

"There's no hard feelings."

Veteran Chris Corput didn't play on Sunday and will not be eligible to play until his season with Canton University is over.

Fontaine said he's happy with the play of both of his goaltenders this season.

"So far the plan is to rotate them every game. Whoever is hot at the end of the year will start the playoffs."

Edelweiss eventing show rescheduled

The Edelweiss Riding Academy has set a rescheduled date of this Sunday for their eventing show which was originally set for Sept. 29.

The Edelweiss event was rescheduled because of scheduling conflict with another show.

The event will be held at the Edelweiss Riding Academy at 21255 Concession 4 in South Glengarry, one kilometre east of S.J. McLeod Public School.

The public is welcome to attend the event which gets under way at 8:30 a.m. and runs all day.

The three events which make up the event are dressage, stadium and cross-country.

Riders will come from Ottawa, Montreal, Cornwall and all over Glengarry.

Last year over 30 riders took part in the event.

Riders range in ages from 10 to 50 years old and in ability from beginner to advanced.

Riders are invited to practice the course before the show. Simply phone ahead to set up a time.

For more information on the eventing show contact the Guettingers at 347-3813.

Glens played better in final two periods

At the end of the game the Glens finished with just one more penalty (17) then Char-Lan but it was obvious frustration had distracted them from playing their top game.

The Glens did play better in the second and third periods, tying Char-Lan 2-2 in those 40 minutes, but it was too late after the slow start.

Alexandria got their pair of goals in a 40 seconds span midway through the final frame as Chris VanOverbeek and Simon Langevin found the back of the net.

Yannick Lalande, who's playing basically on a tryout card in Alexandria, handed out two assists in the victory.

Brett Liscomb with three, Derek Duval with two and Patrick Lemay scored for Char-Lan.

Felix Limoges started the game in goal but Simon Pierre Lamoureux took over in the third period.

Despite the six goal barrage Menard said the team is still "very pleased with our goaltending".

Langevin, last year's penalty leader for Alexandria with over 200 minutes, must be commended for his actions on Tuesday.

The usually hot-tempered centreman kept his cool despite obviously receiving not so friendly treatment from the Rebels.

Where Langevin kept his cool though others made up the difference.

Brothers Mathieu and Ben Desnoyers were ejected in the third period as was Andrew Michaud, who continually tried to draw Rebels forward Mike King into a fight, then the rest of the team bench.

Where Tuesday was a night filled with frustration, would Friday night's home game comfort the team?

Glens 2 73s 2

With a better effort in discipline the Glens turned in an impressive outing against a stacked Kemptville squad.

Ben Desnoyer's goal with 2:27 remaining drew the Glens into a 2-2 tie with the first place 73s.

It was Desnoyer's second goal of the night. He has become the Glens hottest trigger man early in the season.

Clearly the coaching staff is happy with his play.

"He's a spark plug for us," said Menard. "He's doing the job that we brought him over here to do. He's an overager and he's showing his leadership."

The equalizing goal was scored unassisted, short-handed while his first tally was on the powerplay assisted by Steven Owens and Louis Brisson.

Andrew Miller and ex-Glen Sylvain Routhier scored for Kemptville.

Limoges was back in goal for the tie.

Glens notes:

The Glens will have their hands full this week as they will play in three games.

It all starts Thursday night when they travel to Akwesasne for an 8 p.m. start against the Wolves.

On Friday night they will be on home ice to face the Morrisburg Lions starting at 8:30 p.m.

Sunday the Glens travel to Kemptville for a 7:45 p.m. start against the 73s.

"It's a big weekend," said Menard.

"Definitely we want to continue to play sound two-way hockey.Our goal is to tune up for Sunday because it's always tough to play in Kemptville."

Captain J.F. Menard, Phil Menard and forward Dominic Decoeur were not available for the Char-Lan game last week because of school commitments.

Forward Michael Lauzon has asked for his release from the team.

Expect goaltender Lamoureux to play in one of the games this weekend but Limoges to be guaranteed a shot against the 73s again.

AGRICULTURE

Ag. ministry unveils nutrient management plan

BY HEATHER HUXTED
News Correspondent

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food is currently developing a new plan of new province-wide standards for farmers who deal with nutrient rich materials.

Luc Brunet, agricultural engineer of OMAF, outlined the Nutrient Management Plan to local farmers at the Glengarry Federation of Agriculture annual meeting held last Thursday evening.

The Nutrient Management Act, which passed on June 27, outlines how farmers will use nutrients in manure, commercial fertilizers and other nutrient-rich materials in order to maximize economic benefits while minimizing environmental effects.

This got started with the Walkerton affair, said Mr. Brunet.

The Ministry of Environment is also taking part in the Act to set regulations for environment.

MOE will be the lead agency beginning April 2003, he said.

The NMPs include:

- farm identification and location,
- sketch of the operation and site plan,
- details of the nutrient types used on farm,
- field-by-field information such as soil tests, nutrient allocations and crop rotations,
- manure and biosolids applications,
- contingency plans to address such factors as weathers and spills.

Agricultural operations including non-livestock will be required to develop nutrient management plans by 2008

There are three stages of the NMA: the first began Aug. 20, 2002, stage two begins next month.

Stage two regulations include:

- construction and location of barns and manure storages,
- biosecurity,
- feedlot operations,
- setback distances for applying nutrients around waterways,
- restrictions for spreading nutrients on snow-covered or saturated land.

These regulations will be in force next March.

Stage three will include regulations such as:

- dealing with livestock access to waterways,
- manure haulage and transfer
- dead animal disposal.

Agricultural operations including non-livestock will be required to develop nutrient management plans by 2008.

Categories of livestock operations are based on the size of the farm in terms of nutrient units.

A nutrient unit is the number of animals housed or pastured at one time on a farm unit, which generate enough manure annually to give the fertilizer replacement value of either 95 pounds of nitrogen or 121 pounds of phosphate, whichever comes first, said Brunet during his presentation.

One nutrient equals one beef or dairy cow and horse, or six finishing pigs, eight ewes, 150 laying hens.

An operation of 300 cows would equal 300 nutrient units. An operation with 1,800 finishing pigs would also equal 300 nutrient units.

Mr. Brunet said each plan will have to be renewed every three years or when there is a significant change in operation.

Hopefully most of this will be funded, said Mr. Brunet.

The new regulations will also require licencing and certification for those who do custom manure hauling and spreading.

"It's something that we have to pay closer attention to with respect to current times," said Jim Vallance, a dairy farmer near Maxville.

"Farmers have to be more responsible with waste and nutrient management."

Ferguson new Glengarry provincial delegate

The Glengarry Federation of Agriculture announced its new board of directors during an annual meeting held Sept. 26 in Alexandria.

The board of directors for North Glengarry remains the same with Marc Bourdon, Jim Vallance, Jack Fraser and Robert Massie on board. South Glengarry also remains the same with Todd McIntyre, Stewart Robertson, Darren Laplante and Martin Lang on board. The new OFA delegate, who travels to Toronto every month and then reports back to the GFA, is Alex Ferguson.

The three delegates to attend the OFA's annual convention are Linda Vogel, Martin Lang and Todd McIntyre.

A new president and vice-president will be elected at the association's first meeting held in the fourth week of October.

Ontario land values rise higher than national rate

Farm Credit Canada (FCC) reported a 2.57 per cent increase in farmland values for the six-month period ending on July 1, 2002. This is the fifth increase in a row and well above the 0.8 per cent gain noted in January 2002.

"Over the last six months, demand for land has increased, due to the strong Canadian economy and stable prices for most commodities," said Jay Henryk, Assistant Vice-President, Valuation and Credit Policy at FCC. "However, any potential effects of the dry summer in some areas of the country are not yet reflected in the values reported."

Quebec led all provinces with a gain of 6.2 per cent in values, compared to a 4.8 per cent increase for the last half of 2001.

Farmland values in Newfoundland and Labrador, as well as on Prince Edward Island, have remained unchanged for a full calendar year. Nova Scotia's values also remained steady, holding at the 2.4 per cent increase achieved in the last evaluation period.

Ontario continued its steady climb, growing by four per cent, up from the 3.1 per cent increase reported in the previous six-month period.

For the first time since 1999, land values in Saskatchewan appreciated, increasing by one per cent, compared to the last half of 2001 when values declined by a slight 0.4 per cent. Values in Manitoba increased by 2.1 per cent, compared to the 0.2 per cent variation reported in January 2002. In Alberta, land values climbed by 4.5 per cent for the current reporting period, considerably higher than the 1.6 per cent reported in the last six-month period.

British Columbia showed stable growth with an increase in farmland values of 2.1 per cent, up from the 0.1 per cent gain reported in early 2002.

Book drop at museum

The Glengarry Pioneer Museum is holding a Book and LP Drop as the last event of the 2002 season.

Stop in for a visit before the Museum closes for the winter, and drop off all your used books and old LP's for next summer's fundraising Book Sale.

On Saturday, volunteers will be at the museum between 1 and 5 p.m., ready to accept all donations of books and LP's. The books and records will be sorted and stored over the winter, ready for the Annual Book Sale next July.

The Book Sale has been a popular Glengarry event for over 20 years, and it is the major local fundraising source for the Museum.

"Gardening, history and children's books are in great demand," says museum volunteer and local antiquarian book dealer, Tim Julien.

"We'll gladly accept any and all books, but we're hoping to build up our stock of these favourites for next year's sale. We're also looking for collector's books, as these account for most of the profit we make."

All proceeds from the Book Sale, traditionally held on the second weekend in July, go to support the activities of the Pioneer Museum.

The Glengarry Pioneer Museum is located in Dunvegan, at the intersection of Dunvegan Road (County Road 24) and the Greenfield Road (County Road 30). Books can be dropped off during Museum hours of 1-5 p.m. on Saturday, Sunday or Monday.

For further information, please contact. Karen Williams, curator, at 527-5230.

In Memoriam

JEAN-LOUIS–In memory of my dear husband, father and grandfather, Josephat, who passed away October 5, 2000.
It has been two years since you left us
But you did not go alone
As a part of us went with you
It brings back a day we'll never forget.
You fell asleep without saying goodbye,
But you left us memories that can never die.
Never a moment out of our thoughts.
–Love always, wife Alma, Marcel, Lise, Germaine, Andre, Angelle and Marc. 41-1p

Deaths

CLIM–Christina Mary (nee MacNeil). After a courageous battle with cancer, Christina went to be with the Lord on Sunday, September 29, 2002. She died at home in Peterborough. She will be dearly missed by her children Ralph and wife Lyndsay of Brazil and Barbara and partner John of Peterborough and four grandchildren. Predeceased by her husband George, her parents Duncan and Rachel (MacSweyn) MacNeil, and her sister Donalda Largan. Dear sister to Anna Mary Arkinstall (Dunvegan) and Dorothy MacDonald (Montreal). Funeral services were held October 3, 2002 in Montreal. Christina cherished her family and friends and will be sadly missed but never forgotten. 41-1p

GOUTHRO (nee MacPhee) ELIZABETH C. – of Silver Spring, Maryland, passed away on Saturday, Sept. 28, 2002 at the age of 88. Beloved wife of the late Gregory Gouthro, cherished mother of Ann (Donald) MacPhee of Alexandria, Monica (Bill) Brewbaker of Kill Devil Hills, North Carolina and Leanna Gouthro of Silver Spring, Maryland. Loving grandmother of Mary Beth (David) Barrans of Kanata. A funeral mass was celebrated at St. Bernadette's Roman Catholic Church in Silver Spring, Maryland on Tuesday, Oct. 1, 2002. She will be greatly missed by her family and friends. 41-1p

MUNRO & MORRIS

ALEXANDRIA BRANCH
LACROIX, MARTIN ALEXANDER – At the Ottawa General Hospital on Saturday, Oct. 5, 2002. Martin Alexander Lacroix of RR1 Alexandria; age 91 years. Loving husband of Genevieve Lacroix (nee Leblanc). Dear father of Mark, Carol Ann Armour (Drew) and Ronald (Sasha). Predeceased by 2 brothers, Norman Joseph and Alex John Fraser and by one sister Mary Elizabeth Stilwell. Loving grandfather of Iain and Kevin Armour and of Krystal and Cassandra Lacroix. Relatives and friends called at the Munro & Morris Funeral Homes Ltd., 114 Main Street South, Alexandria (613)525-2772. A Mass of Christian Burial was held in St. Alexander's Catholic Church, Lochiel on Tuesday, Oct. 8. Interment followed in the parish cemetery. As expressions of sympathy, memorial donations to the Parkinson Foundation of Canada or to the Heart & Stroke Foundation of Ontario would be appreciated by the family. 41-1c

Card of Thanks

BATCHELOR–Lillian and family would like to thank their friends, neighbours for their help and concern during Ronnie's illness.
–Batchelor Family. 41-1p

McDONALD–The family of the late Joan McDonald (nee Gauthier), August 1931-September 6, 2002, daughter of the late John C. Gauthier and Ethel McMahon of the 4th of Kenyon, would like to extend a heartfelt thanks to our family, friends and neighbours for their expressions of kindness and sympathy through their prayers, masses and flowers. We are grateful for the generous donations to Our Lady's Missionaries and the Ottawa Civic Dialysis Unit made in her memory. Special thanks to Fr. Kelvin Maloney, Fr. Donald Bernard and the Holy Cross Sisters celebrating Joan's burial with the family. Joan's faith and determination will guide us! 41-1p

LOBB–We wish to thank everyone who came and helped us celebrate our 30th anniversary. Special thanks to our families, Barney and Sheila. Thank you for the cards and gifts. It was an evening we will long remember.
–Bruno and Heather. 41-1p

HARKER–A thank you message from Mary for that great surprise party Thursday evening, October 3 at the Golf Club. I am amazed at all those exacting details that occurred without my suspicions. Thanks to you all, friends of Glengarry.
–Mary. 41-1p

LEVAC–A sincere thank you to relatives, friends and neighbours for mass offerings, cards, flowers, phone calls, and visits at the time of Sister Jeanne Levac's death and at the time of our sister-in-law, Merle Levac's death. Your kindness and thoughtfulness is deeply appreciated. Thank you.
–Rolland and Helen Levac, Dalkeith.

Notices

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING
CONCERNING A PROPOSED OFFICIAL PLAN AMENDMENT AND A PROPOSED ZONING BYLAW AMENDMENT
TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of North Glengarry will hold a public meeting on the 11th day of November, 2002 at 7:30 pm at the Laggan Public School, 20345 Laggan - Glenelg Road, to consider a proposed Official Plan Amendment under Section 17 of the Planning Act and a proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment under Section 34 of the Planning Act.

An application has been received to change the Official Plan designation and Zoning Bylaw designation on a parcel of land located on the north side of County Road 24 known municipally as 19429 County Road 24. The parcel has an area of 43.7 hectares and is described as Part of the South Half of Lot 18, Concession IX, former Township of Kenyon, now in the Township of North Glengarry.

The purpose of the Application for Amendment to the Official Plan is to redesignate the property from Agriculture to Mineral Aggregate to permit a licenced mineral aggregate quarry operation. The Zoning Bylaw Amendment Application requests that the property be rezoned from General Agricultural (AG) to a Mineral Aggregate - Quarry (MAQ) Special Exceptional Zone that would permit a quarry, an asphalt plant and a concrete plant. The attached Location Map highlights the lands affected by the proposed amendment application.

Additional information relating to the proposed Official Plan and Zoning Bylaw Amendments are available for inspection at the Township Offices during regular office hours.

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of or in opposition to the proposed amendments. Written submissions must be sent to the Clerk of the Municipality at the address below. If a person or a public body who files a notice of appeal of a decision of the Township of North Glengarry in respect of the proposed Amendment does not make oral submissions at a public meeting or does not make written submissions to the Township of North Glengarry before the proposed Amendments are adopted, then the Ontario Municipal Board may dismiss all or part of the appeal.

If you wish to be notified of the adoption of the proposed Official Plan Amendment or Zoning Bylaw Amendment, you must make a written request to the Township of North Glengarry at the address below.

DATED at the Township of North Glengarry this 9th day of October 2002.

Project tracks evolution of teens through the decades

By Kristina Wilson
News reporter

It's time to dust off your blue suede shoes, your bell-bottom jeans or your single sequined glove.

Alexandria's Le Centre culturel Les trois p'tits points... is putting on an exhibit about adolescence through the ages.

Entitled "L'évolution de la jeunesse francophone de 1950 à 2000" (The evolution of francophone youth from 1950 to 2000), the exhibit is being put together by Andrée-Anne Samson of North Lancaster.

The exhibit is funded by an organization called Regroupement des organizations de patrimoine franco-ontarien as part of a project called Expomédiatour.

"It's intended to preserve the franco-ontarian heritage," Ms. Samson said.

A total of 16 Centres culturels across Ontario are taking part in the project, each with a different theme.

Ms. Samson's exhibit will be on display at three locations in Alexandria. It opens at the Caisse Populaire on Oct. 17 and runs until Oct. 23. Next, it can be viewed at École secondaire Le Relais between Nov. 4 and 8.

"I hope the (Glengarry District High School) students will come to see it too," Ms. Samson said.

Finally, the exhibit will be at the Centre culturel building on Industrial Boulevard from Dec. 2 to 31.

Once the exhibit has finished touring, images from it and all the other projects will be available on the internet at www.expomediatour.com.

Ms. Samson has divided her project into three distinct themes related to adolescence: activities, fashion and music.

"I haven't done this alone," she said. "I've had help from some great volunteers such as Madeleine Théoret, Colombe Régimbald and Fleurette Théoret."

She is still searching for a few items representative of the 1970s and 1980s. Anyone who has such items and is willing to lend them to Le Centre culturel is asked to call Ms. Samson at 525-3393 or 347-2907. She can also be reached by email at andysamson2@yahoo.ca. All items will be returned.

Sheep replaced residents on Highlands

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

Last week I talked of the kelp industry in the Highlands and how, after the depression of the post-Culloden days, the extraction of alkali from seaweed became an important source of income for those landlords whose lands included large stretches on the ocean. But those who could not benefit from kelping (it was the main income of landlords such as MacDonald of Clanranald) were forced to seek other ways to raise money. In any case, when alkali could be produced in cheaper ways, the kelp industry eventually died.

Anyone travelling to the Scottish Highlands for the first time is always amazed by the huge flocks of sheep on the hills. As most of the land is unfenced, sheep sometimes spill onto the road and block traffic. But it was not always thus.

Before the last years of the 18th century few herds of sheep could be seen in the Highlands. There were sheep, right enough, but they were small, domesticated animals not much improved from prehistoric times when they roamed freely on the hills. And they did not exist in flocks – they were individuals which did not take to being herded. Each Highland family would have had a few of these native animals wandering about with the goats which were more important to the economy because they produced milk and cheese as well as coarse wool and meat. It was believed that the large Cheviot sheep of the Lowlands could not survive in the stormy Highlands but that view was proved wrong when the raising of sheep in flocks of hundreds and even thousands began throughout the Highlands at the end of the 18th century. Peaking in 1792, that year has been known ever since as Bliadhna nan Caoraich, the Year of the Sheep. That date marked the arrival of huge flocks of Cheviot sheep and, because Highlanders did not yet know how to herd them, the flocks came with built-in shepherds from the Lowlands. The landlords had found a way to make money, but the hovels and potato fields of the tenants got in the way. As their tenants were "tenants-at-will", that is, at the will of the landlord, the simple solution was to get rid of the people and tear down their houses. There was a short break in this procedure when hands were needed for the kelping or for the Napoleonic Wars, but once peace was restored after Waterloo and the kelp industry failed, men were no longer in demand as labourers, soldiers and sailors, the Clearances took off with a vengeance.

The first steps in the clearing of the people entailed moving them from fertile inland valleys to designated miserable lots called "crofts" on the low-lying coastal plains where they were expected by the landlords to exist on shellfish, take up the trade of fishing and still pay exorbitant rents to grasping landlords. But even these measures were deemed unsatisfactory and the croft houses were often destroyed and the people dispersed to beg on the roads. Those lucky enough to escape went to the Lowland slums, to Canada or to Australia.

The method of tearing down homes was perfected, as it was later in Ireland, by the invention of a "machine" consisting of huge hooks which were inserted into the thatched roofs of the houses and, with the help of ropes and a team of horses, the home was destroyed. The landlords boasted that a cottage could be levelled in a matter of minutes. Sometimes burning was the cheapest and most efficient way to destroy homes. At one time in the County of Sutherland, so many homes were set ablaze in the strath of Kildonan that ships at sea ten miles out could not be navigated through the thick smoke.

The stories of human misery caused by the Highland Clearances are legend. The inhabitants of whole districts were rendered homeless and scenes of horror occurred when the unwilling were driven aboard emigrant ships. Sometimes, amid the screams, tears and shouting, Highland people would throw themselves on the ground and tear out and eat mouthfuls of grass until they were forcibly forced on board. Sometimes those unwilling to go were bound hand and foot and carried on board, accompanied by curses from both sailors and potential passengers.

It must be pointed out that most of these atrocities took place long after the County of Glengarry was settled. Those Highland settlers who came here at the end of the 18th and beginning of the 19th century generally came with their leaders in fairly well organized groups such as those who came from the Mohawk Valley, the Glenelg emigration under Capt. Alexander MacLeod in 1792 and the Lochaber immigrants of 1802.

Anyone learning about the later Highland Clearances which took place after Waterloo and right up to the last quarter of the 19th century might well pose the question "Why did Highlanders give in so meekly to the exiling by force of their people from lands they had occupied from time immemorial?" I'll give some reasons for that in a future column.

Elda Rouleau school celebrates 30 years this year

ÉCOLE ELDA ROULEAU NEWS

BIANCA BOURBONNAIS

Our school will be celebrating its 30th Anniversary!

A committee is being formed to plan a celebration for the students! At that time we will also acknowledge an amazing person, Mrs. Elda Rouleau, our school's namesake.

Who was Elda Rouleau? She was a person who devoted her time generously to families and children of the less fortunate.

She also promoted French culture through socials, concerts, plays and St-Jean Baptiste celebrations. Thanks to her efforts and the steps taken by the Federation des Femmes Canadiennes-Francaises, French was offered at Alexander School. She also found time to teach French to some members of the School Board at night.

In 1972 a new French language school built on Sandfield Street was named Ecole Elda Rouleau in her honour!

This is truly something worth celebrating!

On Oct. 1, the members of the school council gathered to plan another exciting year for the students. Elected for president for four consecutive years, Mrs. Denyse Deschamps, Mrs. Roxanne Hurtubise was elected vice-president while Mrs. Nathalie Sabourin was elected secretary.

The 16 members of the council form an exceptional team!

We invite the parents to feel free to address members of the council at any time.

We are working together for the students! Teacher Diane Belanger spoke to the council about the school's mandate to challenge the students to read more.

She explained the many impressive and creative methods teachers are going to use to make this a fun event. Principal Mrs. Lise Prieur presented the new school logo. It truly represents what we really are, a dynamic school!

This week, being Fire Prevention Week, we encourage families to go over their escape plan at home to ensure the children's safety.

We are doing the same at school by reviewing the measures to take in case of an emergency. A safe environment is a healthy environment.

Friday, is "Jour J". A day for students to interact by participating in many fun activities organized by the teachers. Students also get to demonstrate their talents. Our co-presidents, Josee and Patrick, have decided to have the students dress up. (Disco style!) It will certainly be a blast!

Students are encouraged to bring to school non perishable food items for Thankgiving. These items will be donated to the less fortunate.

We take this time to wish you and your family a Happy Thanksgiving!

Marlin's offering pottery exhibit

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

Thanksgiving would never be the same without the pottery exhibition and sale at Marlin Orchards.

This annual happening is a must; not only do you have the opportunity to meet and watch potters demonstrating their skill but Marlins has lots of crisp, delicious apples and apple products to offer their customers. We are noted for our apples around here so here's your chance.

The Seaway Potters Guild doesn't exist as a guild anymore but that does not mean the potters themselves have given up. Ann Marlin is the organizer this year and I certainly hope she continues this daunting but nonetheless worthwhile event.

"A group of potters wanted to keep this sale going," Ann explained. "Some of the potters are beginners which is not to say their work is not excellent."

There are some 15 potters to tempt you. Some of them I am familiar with because I have interviewed them but there are others that will entice me to the sale just to see what they are producing.

I will list them by name and, if possible, make a few comments.

Lawrence Spreng is a psychologist in Cornwall and is a new potter but I have been told that he produces items with clean lines and is particularly known for his incense burners. Nice present idea.

Andre Desnoyers I have interviewed and was delighted with his adventurous approach to pottery. I have one of his neat, sort of polka dotted bowls which delights me.

Anne Chambers produces functional work such as goblets which make drinking wine extra tasty. How about some Marlin Orchards apple cider served in a handmade goblet.

I am the proud owner of two of Ann Marlin's work. One is a bowl with a raised leaf motif and her wonderful bluish glaze that she is noted for.

Shannon Kelly produces clay benches for the garden. Yes, clay benches and you can really sit on them.

Janet Keefe is another local potter I have two pieces from. Janet's work is organic and her raku pieces are exquisite.

Wayne Fijal's clean almost pristine shapes make them both art pieces and functional as well.

Ray Target never fears experimenting and his whimsical pieces reflect his personality.

I also interviewed Raymond Poulin a couple of years ago and at that time he was making clay buildings that he nestled into his garden. Of course he produces utilitarian items as well.

At one of the Thanksgiving Sales I was quite taken with a teapot by Carolyn Gibbs. A whimsical piece that calls out for that daily afternoon tea ritual.

Don Godard uses unusual glazes on his elegant, artistic pieces. Another potter who has a whimsical approach to clay is Rose Szasz. Hanne Lawrence does a lot of animals and uses porcelain instead of earthenware. Debra Ducharme is another new potter and I look forward to seeing her work.

Last but not least is Ellen Burge. Another potter I am looking forward to seeing.

Besides using this sale as the starting point of all your Christmas shopping, there will be a silent auction for the local Alzheimer Society.

Silent auctions are fun. Most of the potters will offer one of their pieces and to bid, you just need to add your name and phone number to the list in front of the item you want along with the price you are willing to pay.

The deadline for the auction is 3 p.m. on Monday, at which time Craig Smith of the Alzheimer Society will announce the winners. Of course if you really, really want an item that means you would have to come back on Monday right?

The sale takes place Saturday, through Monday, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Marlin Orchards is approximately sevem kms east of Cornwall on County Road 2.
