SPRING SCENE AT KENYON DAM—Snow was still clinging to the banks, but most of it had headed down the Garry toward town, Tuesday, when the camera caught this scene just below Kenyon Dam. The river will run deeper and wider than usual for several more weeks before slowing for the swampland that will have to be bypassed some day if Alexandria is to know cool, clear, drinkable water.

Cumming Home Hit By Fire

A landmark along Highway 34 some three miles north of Lancaster, the home of Donald Cumming and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cumming was badly damaged by fire Tuesday afternoon before brigades from Lancaster and Williamstown controlled the blaze.

The west side of the white frame house, where Donald Cumming resided, was hit hard by the flames while the east side, occupied by his son's family, suffered extensive smoke and water damage.

The fire was discovered while the family was having its noon meal. Mrs. Norman Cumming heard a crackling sound and found flames around the porch. Propane gas tanks were disconnected and rolled free of the house before they might have exploded.

There was no estimate of the damage and it was reported no insurance was carried.

Mr. Cumming and his son have one of the top Ayrshire herds in the county.

To Be Engineer At Carnation Plant

Doug Teall of Wetaskiwin, Alberta, arrived here this week to take over the post of chief engineer at the local Carnation plant. He will be succeeding Ray Gammon who retires in May.

Mr. Teal has rented a home in Laporte Gardens and will be joined here by his family.

Firecrackers Banned But Limited Use Fireworks Allowed

Sale or use of firecrackers will continue to be prohibited in Alexandria but a limited use of fireworks is permitted under regulations of a new by-law governing sale and use of firecrackers and fireworks.

Passed at the last meeting of town council the by-law approves the sale and use of family fireworks displays only if purchased by responsible adults for use on their own properties. Community-organized and sponsored displays of exhibition fireworks are also allowed but sale of firecrackers or their use within town limits remains strictly prohibited.

Firecrackers have been banned here for many years and the new by-law is intended to provide better control of fireworks.

The finance and fire and light committees are jointly considering possibilities of building a new fire hall and will report their findings to council. Councillor Marcel Ranger suggested council might store one of the fire trucks in another location as a guarantee that both would not be lost if the present fire hall was destroyed by fire.

An application for water and sewer services under a local improvement by-law was received from landowners on Kincardine, west of Harrison Street.

Saved From Flames

Only minor damage was suffered by Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Creek, before members of the local brigade controlled fire in one wall early Tuesday evening.

The fire apparently originated in a window casement and was working into the wall when a fast and effective response by the firemen was able to control the blaze.

The observant eye of 11-year-old Suzanne Razeau is credited with saving the brick church from serious damage or destruction. She noticed smoke curling around a window and promptly reported the matter.

Golfers Elect Three New Directors Plan For Early Opening Of Season

A most successful year was reviewed and plans made for an early start of the new season when members of the Glengarry Golf & Country Club held their annual meeting Saturday night in the Legion Hall.

President C. W. Mutchler was in the chair and at a subsequent meeting of the directors he was re-elected president. Adrien Filion was returned as vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Clingen as secretary and Jean-Luc Caron as treasurer. Committee chairmen will be named at a directors meeting being held Saturday night and plans were made to start work on the course this week.

Three new directors were elected: Emile Hurtubise, Doug. Baxter and Clif Rae of Montreal. They replace Ronald Macdonald, Alex DaPrato and Gerald Derry who retired from the board. Other directors returning with Messrs. Mutchler and Filion are Jean Luc Caron and Vincent Barker.

In a brief welcoming address the president reviewed some of the highlights of last year's very successful season and touched on some proposed improvements to the course including a third bridge over the river. Enlargement and resodding of some of the tees is also planned.

It is also proposed to change the annual meeting date from late March to the October close of play.

Club income topped the $25,000 mark last year the report of treasurer Jean Luc Caron showed. More than $6,000 was paid on the club debt and another $5,000 was set aside for planned improvements to the course. Brief reports were also given by Greens Chairman Ronald Macdonald, House Chairman Adrien Filion and Club Captain Vincent Barker.

Mrs. Herman Parsons, president of the ladies' club, reported an active and successful year both in play and improvements made to the clubrooms in 1968. She introduced her successor as ladies' president, Mrs. Hugh A. McDonald and reported on the new ladies' directorate.

Vice-President: Mrs. Rene Amelotte; secretary, Mrs. Lloyd McHugh; treasurer, Miss Germaine Lalonde; co-chairmen of match committee, Mrs. Vincent Barker and Mrs. Louis Shepherd.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

Half Million Dollars Municipal Spending On Capital Projects Probable This Year

More than a half million dollars in capital spending is probable here this year by town council and this does not include any of the $228,400 still to be spent to complete the townwide streets repaving program.

The Public Works Committee of town council met Tuesday night to review this year's spending program and it may recommend to council as a whole that no new work on streets be started this year in view of the other projects. They include:

Installation of an aeration system in the basins at the sewage lagoons. Estimated cost is $185,000.

Enlargement of the water filtration capacity through addition of another filter basin. Estimated cost $230,000.

Completion of the storm sewer program started last year. Estimated cost $45,000.

Local improvement programs to supply water and sewage for new housing on Kincardine Street, west of Harrison and on Main Street, between William and Front. Estimated cost, $51,000.

The filtration plant expenditure would be recoverable through water rates and the local improvement work would be chargeable to properties served. Both the additional water capacity and the program at the lagoons must be done this year.

Town council will consider the committee's recommendations at its next meeting.

Bread Blitz Being Held Sunday

Sunday visitors to Alexandria homes will include members of the Richelieu Club taking part in their annual bread blitz. They will also visit churches in neighboring centres to exchange one type of dough for another following mass.

Objective of the drive is $1500 and proceeds are used for the club's work with underprivileged children.

Stanley H. McCuaig, QC, LLD, of Edmonton, was honored by family and friends on March 25th, the 50th anniversary of his call to the bar. A reception was held at the Mayfair Golf & Country Club attended by all the members of his family and some 150 friends and associates. An evening dinner followed the reception.

Congratulatory messages were received from the Prime Minister, the Minister of Justice, the Right Hon. Louis S. St. Laurent, members of the Supreme Court of Canada, Dr. Charlotte Whitton as well as from his sisters, brothers and friends across Canada.

A Past President of The Canadian Bar Association and of The Law Society of Alberta, Mr. McCuaig is also an Honorary Member of the American Bar Association.

Separate School Mill Rate Not To Be Set Before July

It will probably be the end of July before the United Counties Separate School Board's mill rate is struck. This was revealed at a special board meeting.

One reason for the delay in preparing the mill rate is the unavailability of year - end financial statements from local school boards that have been taken over by the regional separate school board.

Patrick Beavers told members of the board that the arbitrators are ready to start work. Mr. Beavers said, "They will confer with the city on assessment rates, and will have dialogue with the Board of Education arbitrators."

Cornwall citizens will pay their taxes in four instalments this year. The first two will be the general municipal taxes, the second two for school purposes.

Alexandria's municipal taxes will probably be billed earlier than the school rates reports D. O. Collin, clerk-treasurer, but council has not yet struck its budget.

Mr. Beavers indicated that there will likely be a difference in the rural assessment rates as Cornwall will be used to establish the base rate. The provincial equalization factor will play an important role in establishing the rural mill rate.

The board adopted a resolution establishing a guidance figure of 30 pupils per teacher. The guideline will only apply for purposes of hiring staff.

The board adopted a resolution establishing the ratio of one teacher-librarian per 500 pupils, and one music teacher per 1,000 pupils.

Mr. Beavers objected, saying there were more pressing items such as the establishment of kindergarten facilities. while admitting there is a need for libraries and music classes.

It was decided to maintain the present library and music policy in Cornwall, and to implement it in rural areas as required.

The board members unanimously named Patrick Beavers to act as chairman of the policy committee.

The board moved approval for the purchase of an electric copy machine at a cost of $977.50 plus tax. The purchase was approved with the provision that the supplier re-condition a machine presently in use at no cost to the board.

The use of a cheque signing machine was approved.

Board Of Education Asked Introduce French Subjects At Char-Lan and Maxville

A petition signed by 1,980 people backed up the French language advisory committee's quest for French language instruction in Cornwall's St. Lawrence High School, at Tuesday night's meeting of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education.

Chairman of the committee Dr. Claude Corbeil recommended that Francais, geographie, historie and Latin be taught in French at SLHS as well as other subjects as deemed practical, except English, mathematics, science and technical subjects.

He said he received the petition in the mail Tuesday with a letter stating the petition was incomplete and more names would follow at a later date. The letter was signed, The Organization.

The board received and tabled Dr. Corbeil's report at 11:30 p.m. and the meeting adjourned at midnight with still half an agenda to be dealt with.

Dr. Corbeil also recommended:

That the board advise the committee when recommendations made by the committee are not accepted giving reasons for non-acceptance in writing;

That the board appoint an executive assistant at Charlottenburgh - Lancaster District High School, who would be responsible for French - speaking students and would teach Francais and that historie and geographie be introduced in Grade 9 and if feasible, continued into Grade 10.

That in addition to Francais being offered to French - speaking pupils at Maxville and District High School, historie and geographie be offered to all Grade 9 French - speaking pupils in all programs;

And, that a survey be taken of all Grade 9 French - speaking pupils with the view that histoire and geographie be offered in Grade 10 in all programs.

Maxville Lions Sponsored Enjoyable Carnival Night In Arena

Maxville Lions' Club staged a succesful winter carnival in the community skating rink, Friday, March 28th. The first event of the evening was costume judging and dozens of children showed up for this in an amazing variety of outfits.

After considerable deliberation the judges decided the best couple was Sherilyn Campbell and Doreen Jans. The youngest in costume was little Tracey Warwick, and the best comic outfit was worn by Donald Derouchie, Linda O'Flaherty won the most original prize while the most authentic outfit was worn by Karen McBain. Lois Nixon had the prettiest girls' costume, and John Bray was the most distinguished boy.

The names of all the children were placed in a drum and the celebrities of the evening were drawn from this. Carnival Queen was Carol Fisher, and Carnival King Stephen MacMaster. Princess was Reina Richer and the Prince David Bourbonnais.

An amusing hockey game followed, between the small boys' team and their mothers. This lasted for fifteen confusing minutes and wound up in a tie score.

A period of serious skating followed with races for boys and girls of every age group. After this came more entertainment with the donut eating contest. About 50 donuts were hung on strings suspended from a rope stretching across the rink. The winner was the contestant who completely devoured his donut first — in this case Neil MacIntosh who was given a box of donuts as his prize.

The next event was a bob-sled race — the contestants had to take turns pushing each other the length of the rink and back. Then came a huge tug-of-war with the boys against the girls. The boys won this quite easily even though the girls had the assistance of some of the weightier Lions.

The evening wound up with a broomball game between the Lions and the Maxville girls' team. In spite of some enthusiastic cheating the score remained a tie, 1-1.

Would Opt In With Ontario

Over in neighbouring Vaudreuil - Soulanges they're talking separatism of a different sort, reports Fitz in his On & Off the Record column in the Montreal Gazette.

They want to opt out of the Province of Quebec and become part of Ontario, he writes.

"The sentiment stems from rejection of that area as a site for Montreal's jumbo-jetport by provincial authorities in favor of an all-out campaign to place it in the Drummondville area. Rene Emard. Liberal MP for the riding, holds the St. Scholastique choice was a political one, not one taken on technical grounds. It is argued in the area that any time a development of potential value is considered for it, proximity to Ontario weighs the scales against it. Such being the case, Vaudreuil-Soulanges might as well become part of Ontario. While talk is voluble, there's no visible sign of any move beyond it," concludes Fitz.

Slippery Roads Triggered Accidents But No Serious Injuries On Weekend

There were no serious injuries but some heavy property damage resulted from a series of traffic accidents on area roads early Sunday following Saturday's all-day drizzle.

Three cars skidded off Highway 401 in separate incidents, all with icy patches listed as the contributing factor.

A car driven by Jackie Lego, 26, of Chomedy, Que., had damages of $1,000 when it slid off the highway near Lancaster.

John Fred Abraham, 26, of Cornwall, was shaken up but otherwise unharmed when he lost control of his auto a half-mile east of Lancaster ending up in the ditch. Damage amounted to $1,000.

Near the Curry Hill interchange, a car driven by a Hamilton motorist, Garry H. Raphael, went into a skid and caused $600 damage.

A two-car collision occurred on County Rd. 18, two miles east of Highway 34 early Sunday, resulting in $600 damage.

Involved in the accident was a car driven by George Summers, 28, Cornwall, and a second auto driven by Denis Major, 21, of Green Valley.

Damages amounted to $400 to the Major vehicle and $200 to the Summer's car.

A Green Valley man, Aime Bedard, 20, was unhurt when his car left County Rd. 18, between North Lancaster and Highway 34, and struck a tree. Damage amounted to $350.

Two cars, both westbound on Highway 401 near the Ontario-Quebec border, were in an accident which caused $500 damage early Monday morning.

A car driven by Jean Irene Bough, 30, of 411 Pitt St., had damages amounting to $300 and the second auto driven by Frederick J. Allen, 32, of 225 First St. E., had $200 damage.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

We Need An Active Board Of Trade

While that big jumbo jet airport was in prospect for this area we could afford to sit back and wait for the almost inevitable growth of Alexandria. That promise of progress has been proven an empty dream and it behooves us to get on with our own promotion if our town is to know growth.

A wide-awake industrial committee of town council is at work but if we are to evidence the type of progressive climate that attracts new industry every citizen should get into the act. Certainly an active Board of Trade is essential if prospective industries are to be given the right impression.

Our Board of Trade has long been dormant, if not dead. And that seems to suit our citizenry. Alexandria's business people, from whom Board of Trade leadership should be expected to come, have never been more than lukewarm to the idea of pooling their efforts in the name of progress. They find it impossible, in fact, to get together on such mutually advantageous questions as store hours or holiday closings. Even the yuletide invitation to Santa Claus might be allowed to lapse if a few conscientious storekeepers did not take on the task of organizing for his visit.

A town of this size should have enough boosters to support an active Board of Trade and everyone who comes in contact with the travelling public should be selling Alexandria as a good place to live.

Need Higher Attitude On Dishonesty

Even if you are never held up, never have your bag snatched, never have your house broken into, your car stolen, nevertheless thieves cost each and every one of you fantastic sums each year, states the Bowmanville Statesman. It is reckoned that each time you make a purchase in a store, that buying costs you 15 percent more that it would were more people honest. How is this? Thievery is reported to have reached such gigantic proportions that today many merchants are forced to add 15 percent to every bill in order to make up for theft losses.

Does that give you a new idea about shoplifting? It should. Does that give you a fresh outlook on your neighbor who boasts of cheating on automobile repairs? It should. Does that make you think harder about the thousand and one different ways in which citizens are dishonest, thereby robbing others, and costing everyone more money? It certainly should.

For none of this will stop—ever—unless people as a whole adopt a new and much higher attitude on dishonesty. When millions upon millions of citizens of any land engage in theft, big or little, direct or indirect, they do so because the mental and moral climate of that land is low enough to encourage such action.

Are we growing better or worse in this respect? It is perhaps not possible to give a categoric answer. But there are bad signs about. Each year the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States reports a further rise in the crime rate. And even subtracting a small percentage for better reporting, this is an alarming fact and is applicable to Canada percentage wise. Then take shoplifting. This may or may not be, as it was in Oliver Twist's day, the foremost school for thievery. But the very widespreadness of this dirty, sneaky little act is an indication of the degree to which even well-to-do citizens fail to resist the theft miasma floating through the country's atmosphere.

We pride ourselves upon our patriotism. But the bitter truth is that any nation which puts up with widespread dishonesty, public or private, is not actually very patriotic at all. Indeed, it has a rather low view of itself. What is needed, and most desperately, is an overwhelming national return to the conviction that honesty pays, that it pays by making everyone's life better, safer and more satisfying.

Where Bombs Are Only One Of The Problems

Big city living must have its amenities and attractions else why would so many millions choose to live out their lives in those polluted concrete canyons. That's where the action is, dad, you'll say and for the young and venturesome there's probably a thrill in jockeying for position on crowded sidewalks, threading a way through five-o'clock traffic.

For the not so young that congestion must pall. At this time of year when spring is in the meadow and the sugar bush there must be a yearning for the open spaces, for a return to the less cluttered, relatively unpolluted countryside.

There must be a sense of insecurity in the cities, too, in a day when indiscriminate bombing has become the symbol of protest. The Montrealer may have become hardened after successive waves of explosive incidents . He has probably learned to restrain the urge to kick at a discarded shopping bag lest it contain a lethal charge. He stays away from the stock exchange, doesn't fool around mail boxes and keeps an ear tuned for the tick, tock that might be timing another blast. Those mad bombers won't be setting their clock mechanism for him, he's sure.

But how safe can one feel in a big city after reading of the death and devastation that was meant to desecrate Holy Thursday in the department stores of New York City. If the police had not foiled the plot, we read, the Black Panthers meant to explode bombs in five of the city's most crowded stores and strafe the scene with rifle fire to compound the horror.

How mad and murderous can racial or other forms of protest get? How many innocent Easter shoppers might have died or been maimed if that New York plot had not been uncovered?

Life in the small town or on the back concessions may be less exciting but who needs the kind of excitement generated by a bomb scare? If an enlightened government seriously attempted to decentralize industry and provide job opportunities on the home front there might be a general exodus from overgrown cities to the fresher air and more relaxed living we know.

Instead government policy seems bent on depopulating the countryside and gathering almost everyone in city states where mad bombers are only one of the problems of survival.

Deterrent To Shoplifting

Two judges of lower courts at London, Ontario, who meted out jail sentences to people accused of shoplifting should not be prohibited from hearing such cases a Supreme Court Justice has ruled. It was the judgment of the higher court that the two magistrates were not biased against shoplifters but were merely trying by means of the jail sentences to stop the increase of that form of crime.

If no one is ever going to go to jail and if people have no particular conscience about stealing, suggests The Printed Word, there will be no deterrent to keep people from stealing. Few people, especially women, like to go to jail, which would seem to explain why there were more arrests in October and November when jail sentences were not generally imposed than there were in January after the London judges had let it be known from the bench that first offenders would go to jail. There were fewer first offenders.

Shoplifting is a serious crime. If there is not a deterrent, prices will have to go higher to offset the losses by merchants or the merchants will have to go out of business.

It could be that if all the goods displayed in retail stores were kept behind wire cages, as bank tellers were kept in bygone days, there would be less thievery. But there also would be a drop in the total sales in the retail stores with great damage to the economy and the general welfare of Canadians.

Petty thievery or shoplifting is an offence that quite properly can be tried in the lowest courts and there can be appeals from sentences in the lower courts. But if the effort to prevent two qualified judges from trying these cases had succeeded, there would soon have been other efforts to get other judges to be prohibited from trying other cases. It is not too fantastic to suggest that a narrowing of the activities of the judges in the lower courts would soon make it necessary to have the higher courts deal with a great many small offences.

The higher court pointed out that there had been no appeals from the jail sentences imposed in the lower court. This suggests strongly that lawyers for the shoplifters or thieves had not felt that there had been injustice.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

RALLY ROUND!

Dalhousie Mills

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

This letter is addressed to a certain breed of farmers which seems to flourish in Eastern Ontario, particularly in Glengarry. These farmers complain about the farming situation but that's as far as it goes. When there is a meeting to bring around improvements these fellows don't show up. There are approximately 1,000 farmers in Glengarry yet if 50 of these show up at a county meeting, it is considered as "a good turnout of area farmers." Where are the other 950? Are they working themselves to death to produce all the milk possible for minimum returns; are they sitting in the bar complaining over a beer which they can't actually afford; or are they sitting at home saying, "Let some other sucker do the work. I'll reap the benefits?"

As long as we have farmers who will not let their face be seen or let their voice be heard we will have a government that comes in and tells us what to do. We will continue to receive less and less returns for more and more work. As long as farmers don't make an effort to learn what is going on and to support the organizations that are trying to improve their income, we will continue to be a depressed area. The exorbitant prices for machinery, fertilizer, etc. will continue to rise as long as farmers won't come together to bargain with the companies or boycott if necessary.

We need every farmer to be heard as a roar by government and companies rather than as a tiny squeak which makes no impression on anyone. Who is going to take notice of a meagre 20% of the farming community?

The next time there is a meeting for farmers let's have a turnout of a least 600 farmers so we can truly say," There was a good turnout of area farmers."

Ontario Farmers' Union,
Mrs. Helena McCuaig.

SEEKS INFORMATION

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

To date I have not been successful in dating the old E. L. D. MacMillan log house I bought (west Laggan). It may well be before 1830 but an insert in your paper is bound to be read by some 'old-timer' who has made it a point to know the histories of the old houses of Glengarry.

In this case some one in Laggan may read it and respond. It is a fine old house with church and cross type door and a late Georgian upper series of windows. Nice features such as carved panelling and deep casement windows with small panes—are making it a fine and very outstanding house of its type. (Bass or pine log walls).

I wish to know date when the log house of the late E. L. D. MacMillan was erected in West Laggan for historic reasons. Write purchaser of same, D. A. Fales, Box 1942 Station B. Montreal, Que.

Education -- Federal Or Provincial

Rose Gaigg, Grade 13

There is no Canadian education. This is, depending on one's view, the prime fault or the prime advantage of education in Canada.

Since education is a provincial matter, there is a Quebec education, an Ontario education, and so on, in the remaining provinces. But why is education a provincial matter? While the colonies originally entered Confederation for mutual defence, they were reluctant to submit their powers to the federal government. Each colony desired to protect and perpetuate its district culture. Quebec, particularly, desired to protect its language and religion by controlling the education of its citizens.

The disadvantage of this system is the unequable education attained by students in the different provinces. This makes it difficult to transfer from one province to another. But perhaps the greatest disadvantage is that this system stresses the dissimilarity of the provinces and thus of the people. A uniform education system throughout Canada would help unify Canadians.

Yet some maintain that Canada's strength lies in the diversity of her people, and thus the provincial system of education contributes to this diversity.

HATS OFF TO EASTER

We haven't had any reports from local merchants yet, but sales of Easter finery must have been at a new low Saturday. Who'd think of buying an Easter bonnet in that foggy drizzle that persisted through the whole day and well into the evening?

At least it was a warmish rain and it served a useful purpose in washing away much of the snow that is still with us. The weekend wasn't a complete washout as Easter Sunday dawned cloudless and sunny, practically a perfect day for Easter parading which seems to be a thing of the past.

Maybe Easter bonnets have had their day too. Look back just a decade or so and you can recall a sea of varie-colored foliage adorning the female worshippers in church, on an Easter Sunday morn. Today hats are no longer mandatory and most members of the weaker sex go bareheaded, even to church at Easter. Pedestrian traffic down Main on Sunday was at a minimum and the few young things who were ambulatory were definitely not out to show off their new hats. They wore none.

The millinery trade seems to be on its way to extinction and we're wondering if the automobile is to blame. People don't walk in the Easter parade anymore; they ride. Even if the low ceiling of a car left room for a hat it wouldn't be seen on milady; so why bother wearing one? Men aren't wearing hats, either and perhaps this age of the auto is to blame for his topless look, too.

Easter was early this year and maybe that's why there was almost a total absence of Easter bonnets. It seems, though, that the girls of today are so practical they don't even allow spring fever to go to their heads.

Or is it that they've trained the male eye on lower attractions?

The village blacksmith is disappearing from the scene and it's a wonder U.S. racists aren't blaming it on the color bar.

DIGESTED A LOT

The Readers Digest has had a history of success since it was founded in 1922 by DeWitt and Lila Wallace. Published in more than a dozen languages around the world it must have many millions of readers and undoubtedly prints more copies than any other periodical circulating on this globe.

We've been among its readers practically since the first edition was published some 47 years ago and over that period of years we've seen a lot of changes, not only in the Digest but in the world of magazine publishing. The very success of the Digest no doubt was a factor in the demise of many of the magazines which it originally fed on. Collier's and the Saturday Evening Post are only two of the once popular publications which have gone out of business in the face of competition for the advertising dollar from radio, television and such giants as Time and the Digest.

In its original concept the Digest sought to condense the most readable articles from other magazines and it quickly caught public favor. It carried no advertising in those early days but over the past two decades that ban was progressively lifted until today's issues are crammed with page after page of advertising. Much of that revenue has been diverted from magazines that have since gone out of business and it seems the Digest of today is having a problem finding enough interesting articles to condense from the few magazines still publishing.

Recent issues, we've been noting, have at least half of their articles specially written by staff members or well-known authors. Among those articles ascribed to other magazines it is just possible the Digest has arranged the prior publication.

It's still a very readable publication. mind you, but the Digest no longer can claim to be a collection of condensed articles from other magazines. In truth it might better be called Magazines Digest for it has eaten up much of the readership other magazines once relied on to stay healthy.

Some people's finances are in such a mess you'd think they were getting advice from the government.

A NEWER MATH?

If Britain has no ombudsman yet appointed to defend the citizenry against government bureaucracy we would say the case of Donald Kershaw points up the need for a public defender.

Rambling . . .

turer, Mr. Kershaw is reported to have purchased a plot of land for 6,000 pounds in 1967 and two months later sold it again for the same price. By some abstruse process of logic the British government has computed that Mr. Kershaw realized a 3600-pound profit by the two transactions.

Dismissing Mr. Kershaw's 6000 minus 6000 equals zero calculation as hallucinatory, the Land Commission has produced the records of its District Valuer which lists the two and a half acres in question as agricultural land worth only 2400 pounds. In the face of this apparently not-to-be-disputed evidence, the Crown is claiming 1400 pounds from Mr. Kershaw as its "share" of his "profit".

Comforting Mr. Kershaw with a narration of the various technicalities which produced the situation, Land Commission Chairman Sir Henry Wells has been unable to help. Like all government officials he "can only administer the law as it stands"; he "has no power to change it".

Enmeshed in the coils of officialdom for nine months now, Mr. Kershaw battles on. His statement: "I have no intention of paying".

Maxville Dropped First Two Games In Finals Against Renfrew

(by Angus H. McDonell)

Maxville dropped the second game to Renfrew last night, 6-4. The third game will be played in Renfrew, Sunday afternoon.

Displaying an abundance of grit and courage against crushing odds, commonly called guts in sports slang, Maxville Highlanders, depleted by injuries, held the Ottawa Valley "senior" Junior "B" champions from Renfrew for 50 minutes to a 5-4 score. Then tired legs, plus a penalty, gave way in the final minutes permitting the home Lions to rap in four unanswered goals and win the ODHA final first game 9-4 in Renfrew on Monday.

Glengarry County has been represented in Ottawa Valley playdowns by some great teams especially Alexandria's 1913-14 club led by Tommy Lowrey, the Williamstown crews headed by the Sullivans and Maxville Millionaires more recently however, with all due respect, no club gave so much with so little as the youthful Highlanders did in the Renfrew opener before a crowd exceeding 1200.

A tough seven game St. Lawrence league playoff with Metcalfe and a three-game final against Cornwall All Stars took its toll through injuries cutting the Maxville roster to 10 including a spare goalie. The Highlanders executive appealed to the ODHA top brass for aid. A vote was taken and the count was 6-5 against permitting Maxville to play Wayne Reid and Don Honey of Metcalfe. Ironically Renfrew and four other 'Valley' representatives gave Maxville the green light but not Ottawa. At least we were so informed.

Maxville earned the right to represent the St. Lawrence and Lower Ottawa Valley in the ODHA finals by eliminating a hand picked All-Star team representing Cornwall. The Highlanders won the first of three in the Seaway City 6-4, dropped the second at home in overtime 5-4 and then not only won the toss for home ice in the third but also the game 5-3.

Maxville scoring in this series, apart from Don Blaney's five goal effort, was spread among the Highlander snipers quite evenly. Paul Adam, Nick and Mike Haramis each rolled a deuce with singles going to Ron Beausoleil, Dave Clarke and Gilbert Leduc.

Cornwall's Phil Kyte was a worry to Maxville as he fired a brace of tallies along with Bill Rodney and Terry Nazar. Aces were counted by Mike Lebrun, Terry Hart, Don Plamondon, Ron Lalonde, Marcel Viau and Fitzpatrick's all important overtime winner in the second game that tied the series 1-1 in Maxville.

In Monday's Renfrew game Mike Quart came up with two early key saves that gave Maxville a tremendous lift and at 8.35 Paul Adam plugged his way to the Renfrew blue line and John Wensink was there to drive home the first score. Renfrew were obviously stunned and bounced back about four minutes later to tie the count at 1-1, when Wayne Rahn and Tom Freemark set up Mark Slater. At the 16 mark, Garry Imeson sank Neil McLaughlin's shot to give Renfrew a 2-1 lead when the buzzer buzzed.

At the half way mark of the second period Mike Villamere, Paul Papousek and Garry Imeson swept in on a three and two break with Villamere beating Quart. For the balance of the 20 Maxville took over and John Wensink passed to Paul Adam who made no mistake and the score board was 3-2. Maxville were stymied from tieing the game or possibly going ahead at this time by Renfrew's superb goal tending and not even a grin from lady luck let alone a smile.

Early in the third Mike Villamere scored his second for the Lions and Maxville came right back with a Mike Haramis tally from brother Nick. Just two minutes later it was again Mike assisted by Nick and the game was knotted 4-4.

With less than 10 minutes to play Renfrew's Doug Lynch triggered a hot shot from the Highlander blue line as a Renfrew forward cut across in front of Mike Quart who didn't have a chance. The rubber whistled over his shoulder and the Lions went ahead 5-4. Jim Pultz came bounding back to assist Doug Lynch and then add three in a row as he became a one man team to double the score at 8-4.

Ron Beausoleil caught a Renfrew forward with best belt of the night that was judged cross checking and with a man advantage Renfrew added one more closing the score at 9-4.

Officials Mel McCoy, Harold Hume and Lorne Anderson kept the game under control especially after the first period when Mike Haramis squared off with Pat St. Michael. Mike, like King Clancy in his numerous scraps, only had courage to offer as St. Michael had a wide margin in age and weight. This advantage applied to the general setup as the Lions were bigger and more rugged. Mike Quart was outstanding in the Highlander net and the only let down, we thought, was by Don Blaney, who didn't get rolling until late in the game. Blaney is the take charge guy that sparks the fire like Gordie Howe or Tim Horton, but Don didn't seem up for this one.

for the players and fans . . . Bill (trainer) and his dad Dunc MacLean just another father and son Highlander combination like the two Nicks and Mike Haramis.

Assistant trainer Aurel Guindon handling the aged Millionaire medicine chest as tenderly as a Brinks messenger taking a bale of $$$ from Bill MacEwen's to the Bank of Nova Scotia.

It was like old home week to this writer to be back in Renfrew . . . The Mercury sports scribe and editor Don McCuaig (The Bainsville clan) of the Advance very helpful and extended best wishes to the Rambling Reporter.

Renfrew Lions manager, Don Fraser, another sending along best regards. Don is a nephew of Cam and John Fraser . . . that is Glen Sandfield, of course.

Mrs. Edmund Villeneuve and her bevy of young gals charming hostesses during our break in the trip Up The Creek. Memo to Ed . . . we trust you didn't have to do the dishes alone . . . we were beyond Carlsbad Springs when Bill MacLean reminded Nick Haramis, Don Fosberg and yours truly that that was to be our chore on the way home.

Renfrew's popular Mayor Howard Haramis is the Jean Drapeau type glad hander and assisted by uncle Bert Butson were fine hosts at Butson's Motel and oasis following the game. During the entertainment we asked the gal strumming the strings to give us a couple of bars of Bonnie Dundee for Arnold Munro and John Jamieson . . . she smiled and said: "I never bet on the horses".

Alastair MacGillivray and Stanley MacGregor among the faithful making the trip.

Coach George Currier was as doleful looking, from the press box, as Punch Imlach . . . on George's right three players, on his left trainer Bill McLean with four sticks.

Game Warden Jack Stewart, asking for Bob Ramsbottom and while on this topic a large family of moose are reported in the Alfred-Moose Creek bog . . . not only muskrats but beaver are being trapped in the nearby Scotch River . . . Nick Haramis swears the beaver are slightly smaller than a Calabogie bear.
