AIB gets its forms

After considerable controversy and a two-year delay, the Town of Alexandria has finally delivered the forms requested by the Anti-Inflation Board. Delivery was made May 18 by special courier.

Since 1976 the AIB has requested that the town file a report on the salary increases of municipal employees. However, Clerk-treasurer Don Collin took exception to the forms and questioned their application to Alexandria.

A break-down in communication subsequently resulted between Mayor Bruno Massie, Collin and AIB officials.

What remains is for the AIB to determine if the increases awarded town employees in 1976, 77 and 78 were within the AIB guidelines.

Should the AIB rule against the salary increases, the town could be forced to pay as much as $10,000 in fines for having exceeded the guidelines and employees could be forced to return the overpayment.

Alexandria court needs second exit

The non-existence of a second exit from the Alexandria Provincial Court has been brought to the attention of Alexandria Council. Town officials were asked to give consideration to providing an acceptable second exit and fire escape in compliance with the regulations as set out in the Ontario Building Code.

The request was made by The Ministry of Government Services, Property Management Branch who stated in a letter to the town that "Senior officials of the Judiciary and the Regional Safety Inspector have noted that only one exit is provided from the court facilities we lease from you."

The building is owned by the Public Utilities Commission and leased to the Town of Alexandria who sublease it for use as a provincial court facility.

The letter, signed by Albert Cote, regional manager, stated "On court days, upwards of one hundred people are in attendance. If a fire were to break out on a court day, a major disaster would inevitably result."

The letter was forwarded to the PUC for consideration. The commission has already decided to construct a second exit and fire escape, but it has yet to decide where it will be located.

PUC Manager Laurent Poirier, said that in all probability the fire escape would be built on the south side of the building.

Park supervisors starting June 23

Alexandria's Island Park will open June 23 for swimming instruction, arts and crafts and playground supervision.

Fourteen students have been employed by the town for park activities. Of the 14, eight have returned from last summer.

Pat Lawson is back as head lifeguard along with four others: Roxanne Valade, Suzanne Massie, Bonnie Maclaren and Carole Depratto. New swimming instructors and life guards are Mona Lawson, Judith Dupuis and James Villeneuve.

Cathy Humphries has returned as head playground supervisor and Bob Brunet is back for another summer. New employees in that department are Helene Paradis and Frank St. Pierre.

Jocelyne Taillefer will once again supervise the arts and crafts department with the help of a newcomer, Jocelyne Trudel.

Metivier to head school

Director of Education T. R. Leger has announced the appointment of Gilles Metivier as principal of the new Alternative Secondary School, scheduled to open in September.

Metivier is presently the principal of Tagwi Secondary School, a position he has held since that school opened in 1974.

The new school he will take over in September is a pilot project to "provide an opportunity to students and former students to complete the requirements for a graduation diploma through a variety of learning situations, both basic and enriched."

The programs will be tailored to "meet individual needs."

Initially the program will be available to students in the Grades 11 and 12 and will include two general classifications, a Co-operative Work Study Program, and the Alternative Program.

The co-operative Work Study Program will enable students to accumulate three credits yearly in an on-the-job situation. The student may accumulate six such credits out of the 27 necessary for the secondary school diploma.

Part of the Work Study Program will be aimed at helping students in their future jobs or careers. The courses will "help the student understand the relationship between formal education and job success" and "make the student aware of and develop attitudes necessary for satisfactory job performance."

All applications to the courses will be considered individually. Evaluation will be the responsibility of the principal, in consultation with the employers, and staff members.

The Alternative Program focuses attention not only on the work-study needs, but also the academic needs of the students. These courses will be adjustable within the Ministry of Education's broad framework, but Metivier stresses that the standards must be kept up. "We are certainly not going to water down the courses" he said.

Under this program, the Alternative school may be offering courses that are not offered at present in any of the board's schools.

There is no central location for the school. It will be effectively "A school without walls" as Metivier has named it. The central headquarters will be at General Vanier, but students in any of the ten SD&G board schools will be eligible for the Alternative Secondary School.

Said Metivier "I'm quite anxious to get into the program, it's quite exciting. It's something completely new in this area, and the possibilities are unlimited."

Request firm Easter date

Easter should have a fixed date on the calendar, the priests in the English deanery of Glengarry have decided.

To this end, they formulated a resolution which was forwarded to Bishop Eugene LaRocque and which was in turn approved by the Senate of Priests in the Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall.

Thence the suggestion goes to the higher levels of the hierarchy for consideration.

Father Charles MacDonald of Apple Hill, head of the English deanery, explains the reasoning behind the resolution: Family life must be preserved as one of the mainstays of society, and all contributing factors must be taken into consideration.

The date for Easter now, can vary for as much as five weeks; it is set at the first Sunday after the first full moon after the 21st of March.

One of the reasons for setting the date for Easter as it was back in the old days, people made pilgrimages to the Holy Land and travelled by night; therefore, moonlight was essential.

It would appear the date could be set more in keeping with modern needs, similar to Christmas at a fixed time, so family life and school events could be planned accordingly, the priests say.

One of the events that triggered the action on the part of the priests was the school holiday falling in Holy Week this past season, with the accompanying clash of social events and religious ceremonies.

Other priests in the English deanery who formulated the resolution were: Fathers M.J. O'Brien, Williamstown; Sylvester Theoret, Lancaster; Leo MacDonell, Alexandria; Laurier Rivet, Martintown and Garry Ostler, St. Raphael's.

Crackdown urged on dogs at large

Kenyon Township Reeve Albert Faubert has issued a warning to residents to keep their dogs under control following a canine attack on a seven-year-old girl.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yves Levasseur was riding her bicycle on the First of Kenyon when a dog rushed out and bit her thigh. It took four stitches to close the wound.

In another incident, two dogs running at large in the Apple Hill area killed 48 roosters and six hens at the farm of Herman Wirewick, on Highway 43.

The township will have to pay for this livestock, Faubert noted.

As in other municipalities in the county, Kenyon has a bylaw requiring residents to keep dogs under control. A person may be fined if his animal is found wandering on someone else's property.

Faubert said many people use the dodge that the dog is not really owned by them but was a stray they took in.

Under the law, any person harboring a dog—whether they own it or not—must assume responsibility for its actions, Faubert explained.

The dog problem is bad throughout Glengarry, a News survey has determined.

Alexandria Deputy Clerk Leo Poirier said the problem in town is worse than usual.

Dogs are running at large "more so than in the past," he said, "especially in the school yards. You get four or five of them gathering there."

The town sent a letter to people who purchased dog licences last year urging them to renew. About two-thirds of those on the list have replied, he said. If the rest do not comply soon, their names will be turned over to the police.

Lochiel Township reports similar problems.

"We found that people are not keeping their dogs under control, especially in the built-up areas," Clerk Elmer MacNaughton said.

Some sheep were killed this year, MacNaughton noted, but livestock killing has not been as great in recent years ever since the township charged one dog owner "which made people realize what was happening."

Charlottenburgh and Lancaster Townships and Lancaster Village are expected to pass tighter rules for animal control in their area in the near future.

Committee probed for Anglophones

SD&G County Separate School Board will consider establishing an English language advisory committee to advise it on the needs of Anglophone ratepayers.

At a closed meeting last week, the board agreed to have the education committee study the request, made by a delegation headed by Archie MacDougall of Alexandria.

Anglophones are a minority in the separate board system and the public school board has a similar French language advisory board for its Francophone minority.

During the recent controversy over the presence of English-speaking students in French language schools, English-speaking ratepayers indicated the board was not adequately considering their needs.

The ratepayers were particularly concerned about the board passing a motion of support—at a closed meeting—for the creation of French language school boards in Ontario.

Concern was expressed that this area might not be able to support two separate school boards—one English and one French.

Eleven of the 12 trustees on the board are French-speaking.

World premiere featured

Ruins concert June 16

"Music for a Midsummer's Day" comes to life again for its fourth year in the Ruins of St. Raphael's June 16.

This weekend celebration of the summer solstice occurs as closely as possible to the first official day of summer (June 21) and consists of open air concerts in the 1804 stone church, which was gutted by fire in 1970.

Highlights will be the world premiere of a flute concerto by Canadian composer Milton Barnes specially commissioned by the festival for the internationally-known jazz flutist Paul Horn. It will be his debut playing with a classical chamber orchestra, the New Chamber Orchestra from Toronto, conducted by William Phillips.

Another innovation will be participation by local choral and drama groups in a "United Counties Day." Massed choirs from the Cornwall area will sing under Vancouver Chamber Choir's director Jon Washburn.

Dialogue Theatre, directed by Janet Irwin, will revive "Cariboo Cameron" in the round, a play about a local folk hero who prospected for gold in the Cariboo in the eighteen-nineties and, among other things, shipped his wife's corpse home preserved in alcohol.

A full day's schedule on June 17 features the first public performance of the Kantabile Piano Trio, also from the area, who have studied at the Juillard School of Music in New York. The orchestra and the Classical Duo from Montreal who will give a late night flute and guitar serenade.

Sunday, June 18, is "Family Day" with special reduced passes for parents and children. Coelacanth, a baroque ensemble of young Canadians who have studied in Holland will open the festivities, followed by a solo concert by Paul Horn, The Canadian Brass and the Canadian Forces Vimy Band from Kingston, Ontario.

Members of the National Arts Centre Orchestra who played in the Ruins last year declared the accoustics better than Ottawa's $46 million culture showcase and as good as Carnegie Hall. Musicians who have played in the ruins of Baalbeck in Lebanon

Lancaster taxes up about $29

A ratepayer in Lancaster Township with an average home assessed at $3,000 can expect an increase of about $29 in municipal taxes this year.

Taxes for both public and separate school supporters are up about eight per cent over 1977.

Council approved a $1.3 million budget last week, much of which will be heavily subsidized by the province.

School board spending will account for most of the local levy on ratepayers.

The major project being undertaken is the development road between North Lancaster and Glen Norman. The road is as narrow as 40 feet in some areas which makes snow removal difficult, Clerk Mike Samson noted. The township is striving towards an 86-foot allowance.

Total cost of the project, to be phased over two years, is $400,000. The local share, after provincial grants, is $90,000.

Samson said provincial funding restraints mean only a quarter of the project is likely to be completed this year.

Below are the residential and commercial mill rates for 1978, followed by the corresponding 1977 figures in brackets.

Township, 45.61, 53.66 (40.80), (48.09); county, 13.10, 15.41, (11.64), (13.69); separate school, 33.26, 36.95, (30.78), (34.20); public elementary school, 33.26, 36.95, (30.10), (33.44); secondary school, 31.21, 34.68, (30.97), (34.41).

BEAVER BUNKER—Beavers are causing considerable damage to fields and forests throughout Ontario because of their natural desire to dam up any water course. As a result, the ditches needed for agriculture drainage are being blocked. This dam, located north of Alexandria on the east side of Highway 34, has caused the flooding of approximately 10 to 12 acres. (Staff photo—Sherratt)

Beavers make ditches home

Beavers are causing many area farmers considerable trouble both in the destruction of trees and the blocking and backing up of drainage ditches.

Ironically part of the blame for the beavers increasing numbers is caused through agriculture and its need for drainage ditches.

Ministry of Natural Resources Conservation Officer Bert Van Wout said that "once a watercourse is constructed, such as drainage ditches, it gives the beavers a place to establish."

Once they have found a place they can call home, the beavers rapidly increase in number. For example, should two adult beavers establish in an area, by the end of the first year they would probably have had four kits (offspring) for a total of six.

Following the second year, their population would increase to 10, then to 14 by the third year. By the fourth year the first year kits would be old enough to multiply and by the end of that year the population would have reached 24. Year five would see 46 beavers. Year six would increase the numbers to 74, year seven to 126, year eight to 218, year nine to 356 and by the tenth year there would be 604 beavers from the original two adults.

This hypothetical situation applies when the beavers are in a preditor and disease free area. But natural mortality is considered in the calculations.

Some trappers are taking advantage of the increasing beaver populations. But during the 1977 trapping season only 176 beavers were trapped in Glengarry compared to 232 in Prescott and 208 in Russell. Of the 176 beavers taken in Glengarry 60 were trapped by Angus MacRae of Maxville.

The number of beavers taken in Glengarry is almost insignificant when compared to the 6,000 muskrat taken in this county alone last season.

Charlottenburgh and Kenyon Townships are the greatest producers of furs in Glengarry and almost all of them come from muskrat.

Beavers make . . .

On an average, a beaver pelt sells for $18 compared to $6 for muskrat. However, a trapper can skin a muskrat in approximately one-fifth the time it would take him to skin a beaver.

Another deterrent to beaver trapping is the fact that considerable time and effort must be put into studying beavers, their habits and locations.

"It's a kind of art," Van Wout said.

"With a limited number of good beaver trappers it makes beaver control difficult."

Most of the beaver problems occur in Spring and Summer when the pelt is of little or no value to a trapper. But some trappers will contract in summer months to assist landowners with beaver problems.

Under the Game and Fish Act, a landowner is allowed to destroy any animal (with a few exceptions), in defence or preservation of his property.

Dams blocking either natural or artificial watercourses are the responsibility of the landowner. But the Ministry of Natural Resources will assist by either recommending a trapper or alternative methods of beaver control.

At one time the ministry took it upon itself to destroy beaver dams, but they have discontinued this practice as it is too time-consuming simply because, in most cases, the beaver colony would rebuild the dam within a few days of its being destroyed.

The Alexandria office of the Ministry answers approximately 50 calls each year for complaints of damage by beavers.

"Anyone can guess how many calls from this area are made directly with our Cornwall office," Van Wout said.

The largest beaver populations in this area are in Prescott and Russell Counties simply because they have more watercourses.

One method of flood control recommended by the ministry, in lieu of killing the beavers, is to place a pipe through the beaver dam. The artificial water exit will lower the water level without the beaver being stimulated to repair the outlet. What causes a beaver to plug a leak in his dam is when he hears running water. If the pipe can be placed in such a way that its outlet is underwater, the noise of running water will be eliminated and the level of water behind the dam will be reduced.

Complete descriptive literature is available from the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Incidently, the word "beaver comes from the old Anglo-Saxon word "beofor" which refers to the European beaver.

Restraint exercised at Glengarry Memorial

Despite provincial hospital funding cut-backs, Glengarry Memorial should be able to get through 1978 without any major changes, hospital administrator Jerry Adams says.

Adams made the comment following the hospital's annual meeting last Wednesday.

In the 1977 annual report, Adams noted that "1978 will prove to be a very difficult year since Glengarry Memorial Hospital was only approved a 3.2 per cent increase in operating funds.

"Normally, the operating costs for the hospital would increase 11 per cent. It is obvious, then, that we must continue to look for means of saving money and cutting back expenditures".

In an interview Friday, Adams said the monthly expenditure statements for 1978 show that the hospital is cutting down on expenses.

"It's just a matter of co-operation with all the staff involved."

Adams said the cost of supplies is down because staff are being very careful not to waste material. Where a person may have opened a package of six bandages before, used three and discarded three, the person would now return the extra three to the storeroom, Adams said.

Adams has noted in the past that major cost-saving could only result through a cut-back in staff hours since the bulk of the hospital's costs are in salaries.

The annual report shows that almost 77 per cent of expenditures went to salaries, wages and fringes benefits in 1977.

The next highest category was administrative and general expenses which accounted for just over three per cent.

Food and Dietary supplies cost about three percent as did the combination of heat, light, power and water.

According to Dr. Laszlo Roman, chief of the medical staff, Glengarry Memorial "treated 1,470 in-patients during the year 1977. We delivered 130 babies which is only 20 less than the year before.

"Our continuing care unit had 100 per cent occupancy during the year; it consists of 15 chronic beds

'We treated 21,184 patients in the emergency department which averages out to 58 patients per day.

"There were 221 major surgical episodes performed in the main operating room in 1977."

In 1976, the hospital treated 1,539 in-patients and the emergency department handled 15,632 patients.

Ruins . . .

have made equally favorable comparisons.

With no roof to the Ruins, rain poses more of a threat to musicians with valuable instruments than to the audience, who are happy to shelter under umbrellas. To avoid transferring the events into Iona Academy across the road, the festival is renting a "Baldacchino" (canopy) from a local communications firm in an attempt to meet the elements half-way.

Last year three out of nine events were rained indoors but this year the organizers predict hot dry weather, which is when the Ruins are at their romantic best.

Artistic Director Christopher Wilson noted that last year's spectators came from as far afield as Toronto and Halifax, N.S. and expects the attendance to increase from 1,300 to over 2,000.

Tenders are called

Tenders for the Lochinvar bridge and the Ninth Concession drain were approved by Lochiel Township Council yesterday.

Sinclair Supplies of Vankleek Hill received the bridge contract with a bid of $115,232 while the drain contract went to Louis Bray and Lajoie Construction of Green Valley with a bid of $83,560.54.

The bridge is needed to facilitate construction of the development road north of Kirk Hill.

The drain will run through Lochiel and East Hawkesbury.

HAD SUPPER

The Kenyon WA reports a successful ham supper on Saturday and thanks to all those who helped to make it so.

Visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Forbes MacKinnon over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Franklin, Donnie Urquhart, John A. MacLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McRae and Miss Margaret McRae, Alex, Jean and Ralph Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William G. MacLeod, Duncan and Mary MacDonald, Neil MacLeod, Mrs. George Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Don Kelly.

Visiting with William and Donald Clark on the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Murdie Clark of Kemptville.

Visiting with John Loewen on the weekend were Charlie Collin, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. John Loewen Jr. and Stephen of Aylmer, Que.

Mrs. John Loewen Sr. returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Collin and grandson David of Greeley.

PRESENTATIONS

Saturday proved to be an interesting day at the Glengarry Scottish Museum when Douglas Fales presented an oil painting of Lloyd Kennedy holding the caber and a touching charcoal sketch of Alex Cameron and his wife Cassie, to the curator, Janice Seline. Though I was unable to be present, I understand some young men did take advantage of the demonstration of caber tossing given by the caber tossing club Lloyd Kennedy, Dr. Senecal, Ron MacDonell and Douglas Fales. Mr. Fales has long been a benefactor of the Museum having donated a number of paintings. In the June edition of Early Canadian Life there is an interesting submission on Glengarry's Pioneer Museum at Dunvegan written by Mr. Fales. We wish to thank him for his contributions to the Museum and also to the lasting record in picture of the people and history of Glengarry.

MEMORIES

I have not been home to walk in the woods yet this spring but I always remember a poem my mother learned in school when a young girl.

I wonder if anyone else remembers John G. Whittier's "Jack In The Pulpit"?

"Jack in the Pulpit teaches today
Under the green trees just over the way.
Squirrel and song sparrow high on their perch,
Hear the sweet lily bells ringing to church."

This is just the first verse but these beautiful old poems extolling the beauties of nature are not heard any more. I count myself lucky to have a mother who introduced them to me when I was very young because she learned them by heart when a young girl in school.

MEETING COMING

There will be a meeting of the Museum Committee on June 5 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Loewen.

WON QUILT AT TEA

There was a best-ever turnout for the Mothers' Day Tea at the Maxville Manor recently. Everyone appreciated the newly-decorated lobby, and the auditorium was filled with tables gaily decorated with posies of fresh daffodils from the garden of Mrs. Dorcas MacDougall.

All the women residents were presented with pink carnations, and six members of the auxiliary poured tea.

Mrs. Herbert MacKillican of Pointe Claire sang several lovely songs. She was accompanied by Mrs. Beverley Campbell at the piano.

The auxliary had bought a beautiful Lone Star quilt from Mrs. Thelma Bender for a fund-raising raffle. The winning ticket was drawn by Mrs. Armstrong of the Glengarry Hospital Auxiliary, and Mrs. Mulligan of Carleton Lodge...and the name on this ticket...Mrs. Charlotte Kennedy.

Members raised $150 at plant sale

The Maxville Horticultural Society had a very successful evening last Wednesday...nearly ninety people turned out with a variety of gourmet dishes for the potluck supper. They had brought along a great number of plants, bulbs, and seeds and madly outbid each other at the plant sale which followed the dinner, raising over $150 for the organization. The premiums were distributed a choice of mixed annuals, and the annuals arrived for the three public plantings...at the clinic, the cemetery, and one at Riceville. Begonias and snapdragons this year. If any members of the society are interested, there is a Horticultural convention being held in Kingston, June 14 to 16, that they might attend.

Attending graduation ceremnies May 27 Queen's University, Kingston, were Miss Debra MacInnes who received her Bachelor of Commerce degree, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacInnes of Maxville, Mr. and Mrs. Robbie Robertson and Miss Rhonda MacInnes of Ottawa.

Biker speaks to Lions Club

by Allan Burn

Bert Irwin gave a talk on motorcycles at the last meeting of the Cornwall Township Lions Club.

Irwin explained that the world of motorcycling is divided into three classes: Touring bikes, making up about 75 per cent of the number of motorcycles; sporting bikes, which account for 10 per cent, and utility models making up the balance.

The sporting class of bikes is divided even further into road racing, dirt track, endurance and trail, hill climbing and moto-cross.

Irwin spoke at length about his experiences in the area of moto-cross. He said the race, itself, lasts about 20 minutes and covers three-quarters to one mile of ground, but is a great spectator sport as many heats can be run in a day with thrills a minute as riders and bikes navigate the many obstacles on the course.

All drivers must be physically and mentally fit to participate in the sport and all events are governed by the Canadian Motorcycle Association. This 5,000 member organization regulates the participants through their own racing licences and inspects all bikes to make sure they are mechanically fit. Drivers must also wear prescribed protective clothing and equipment at all moto-cross meets.

"CHARGE-IT!" ALEXANDRIA

Glensportorama

by Anna Margaret

When our sports columnist, Angus H., was lured out of retirement a year ago to become director of public relations and publicity for the building committee of the Maxville and District Complex, among his initial efforts was the task of trying to solve the "missing Citizen Shield problem."

Angus H. conferred with the promotion manager of the Ottawa Citizen, Ben Babelowsky. Recalling the importance of the trophy to Maxville Millionaires' sport history, Ben Babelowsky promptly authorized that a new Citizen Shield replace the original. This gesture was greatly appreciated and last Friday night at the official opening ceremonies of the Maxville building, official presentation of a shiny new plaque, an exact replica of the old one, was made by Citizen Sports Columnist Ed MacCabe. And wasn't it nice that two of the old Millionaires' stars Doc Gamble and Clark Hoople, were on hand to receive it! Tradition is a big part of Glengarry living and may the future Millionaires fare as proudly as did the generation of their fathers!

Following the presentation, Angus H. revealed that the first trophy donated to the Complex was in memory of a member of the same Millionaires who won the original shield. Bernard Villeneuve, known in those days as "Baba", will be remembered by an award donated by his wife, Florence, and family. The trophy is emblematic of the Old Timers who each year are winners of their tournament. It was a pleasing coincidence that the first winners were the Maxville Flames, the Maxville Fire Department.

Was pleased to have time to chat with Citizen Columnist Ed MacCabe and get a first hand report on our "Man from Glengarry" in the NHL, John Wensink. MacCabe reports that Boston Coach Harry Sinden thinks John has a fine future. A fella could read a lot of things into a statement like that and the big curly-headed bouncer has a lot of friends back home who will be happy to wish him all the best. MacCabe reports John picked up Gilles Lupien, a six-foot-sixer, and tossed him around like the milk cans back on the farm. It really gave the play-offs a high spot of local interest to be able to point out one of our boys. By the way, is John the only Glengarrian who ever made it into the NHL finals?

Heard some really worthwhile supper speeches from the guests at the Maxville Complex opening, with the emphasis of course on the ability of the community to achieve such an accomplishment only through enthusiasm and co-operation. Of course there is something to be said for Wintario and some government grants. While the "east end" of Ontario may be a long way from Queen's Park, it hasn't been far from the Wintario coffers in the past few years.

* * * * * *

Fresh on the heels of the announcement that Bill Gebbie has taken over the management of the Glens Junior B team, we have confirmation that the new coach is going to be none other than Kenneth MacDonald. "Junior" as the well known sportsman is so appropriately named (having come down the Kenneth MacDonald line, not to mention having promoted it another generation) is the type who will have a hard time restraining himself from jumping down on the ice to help out, he is so used to being in action himself. However, he did do a very commendable job while coaching the Glens a few years back so can be relied on to bring them through another fine season, surely.

Gerry Simpson has been manager of the team since it came into being and possibly no one but himself will ever know of the headaches involved over the years. Not only a pay-less job but a thankless one.

* * * * * *

Attended the Junior B banquet and awards night in Rockland on Saturday night where some of our local boys were on the happy end of the presentations. Paul Seguin received the trophy for the top scorer in the division and Yvan Desautels, Leo Seguin, Luc Poirier, Paul, and Gilles Hurtubise were awarded medallions as members of the division all-star team. Paul also received the MVP trophy for his own team.

Head table guests included: Navan Manager, Arnold Dagenais and wife, ODHA President Jean Marc Lalonde and wife, St. Isidore Manager Marcel Legault, Jr. B Commissioner Peter McCooye and wife, Chairman Barry Lee and wife Pat who is the league statistician, Metcalfe Manager Bev Skillen and wife, Alexandria Junior B President Wallace Hope and wife Helen, Vanier owner Ken Rafter and wife.

Regret I was not able at the time to get the "wives" names, I know they warrant better mention since I have a fair idea what they endure over the winter. The problem is, they are usually introduced as the "Mrs." and the lights go off right after the official ceremonies and it is very difficult to run around at a dance trying to find out who people are.

Team earns right to compete in Toronto on weekend

The GDHS senior soccer team will be on their way to Toronto tomorrow to take part in the two-day Ontario Federation of Schools Athletic Association (OFSAA) soccer championship.

The Alexandria team will represent Eastern Ontario. The boys earned the right when they won the EOSSA championship last fall.

Competition will be held on both Friday and Saturday at various soccer fields in Toronto.

GDHS will be going to the competition in the right frame of mind as only last weekend they defeated three teams and won the championship at an Ontario French speaking high school invitational soccer tournament.

The competition was on both Friday and Saturday at Garneau High School in Orleans and at Belcourt High School in Ottawa.

GDHS won the first game 3-1 by defeating Charlebois High. Then on Saturday morning the team beat Garneau High School 2-1 and continued winning that same afternoon to defeat Belcourt High School 2-1 and win the tournament. All victories were in overtime.

The competition was an invitational meet for French speaking high schools.

Scoring in the first win were Doug Howes, John McLeod and Frankie Morris. Game 2-point-getters were Howes and Andre Chenier and Game 3 points came from Herb Maley and Hugh Grant.

Senior soccer season is here

Pine Grove and Greenfield battled to a 2-2 draw Monday night in Glengarry senior soccer competition.

Campbell MacGillivray kicked in both Pine Grove goals and Don Morris and John Charlebois combined for the two Greenfield points.

On Saturday the Stars shut out Lochiel 6-0. Norman Laliberte and Ewen McCormick each kicked in doubles and Danny Villeneuve and Wally Martin earned single goals.

Pine Grove shut out Glen Sandfield on Friday, 3-0. Hugh and Campbell MacGillivray and Donald MacNaughton did the goal-getting.

Last Wednesday, Glen Nevis defeated Glen Sandfield, 2-1. Winning points came from Randy McDonell and John McLeod with the lone Glen Sandfield goal being kicked by Gary Johnston.

Chess champ coming to Laggan

The Laggan Recreation Association has arranged for the current Eastern Ontario Chess champion, Gabtiel Chobanov from Hawkesbury to come to Laggan School. On Saturday evening June 10, Mr. Chobanov will be on hand for a simultaneous chess exhibition. This entails the champion playing against as high as twenty-five players at one time.

The Recreation Association is extending an invitation to all players in the area to participate. There are no requirements other than enthusiasm for the game or an interest in finding out something about it for those not familiar with the moves. There is an entry fee of $1.00 to cover the awarding of prizes.

ADMHA has new slate

It was a relatively uneventful evening, commented Morlin Campbell following the ADMHA annual meeting at the Sports Palace Monday night. Only 20 of an expected 100 people attended.

Morlin Campbell was re-elected ADMHA president, Ubald Depratto was elected vice-president, Sylvia Crack was re-elected secretary, Yvon Menard is treasurer and Ronnie Allison is past-president.

Directors for the 1978-79 season are Kent MacSweyn, Jean-Luc Caron, Ray Trottier, Guy Lanctot, Eugene Bergeron, Gordon Rice, Raymond MacDonald, Barry MacDonald, Eric Oke and Arthur Maclaren.

THE SHIELD TO CIRCULATE AGAIN—The quest for the traditional old Citizen Shield being fruitless, the Ottawa newspaper decided to replace the trophy earned permanently by the Maxville Millionaires in days gone by. Citizen sports columnist Ed MacCabe, centre, was on hand to present the trophy at the official opening of the new complex. Accepting it are members of the old Millionaires team, Don Gamble, left and Clark Hoople. (Staff photo—Sherratt)

Epp to represent GDHS in all-Ontario finals

Terry Epp of GDHS beat out all other competition in the senior boys long jump to win the regional high school championship at Mooney's Bay on Saturday.

The first-place jump of 6.23 meters qualifies Epp to compete in the Ontario high school track and field championships in Kingston next Saturday.

Five other GDHS track and field stars represented their school last Saturday at the regional finals after having first qualified in an EOSSA track and field meet in Kingston May 19.

A prerequisite to that meet was a minimum third place finish in the United Counties' track and field meet held at GDHS May 11.

Jean Poirier placed sixth in the midget boys 800 metre run last Saturday. He was eliminated from fifth place by only a fraction of a second. Fifth place would have qualified him for competition in the Kingston finals.

Andre Chenier finished seventh in the senior boys' triple jump. Slyvie Charlebois placed eighth in senior girls' discus, David Schroeder won eighth place in midget boys' pole vault and Heather MacRae finished eighth in senior girls shot-put.

Early bird tourney was held Saturday

The Glengarry Golf and Country Club held its "Early Bird" season opening tournament Saturday.

There were 30 players registered for the competition. John Vincent won the men's low net with 63 and Don MacLean won the low gross with a 78.

Nicole Scott won the ladies low net with a 59 and Nicole Vincent captured the low gross with a 98.

Marc Bellefeuille was the winner of low gross in the junior competition with an 83.

The club will be holding its opening dance Saturday.

The Ken Parsons Memorial Tournament will be played June 18 and the "Twilight League" will get underway June 7.

Ladies open softball play

The Alexandria Ladies Fastball League played their first games of the season May 17. In exhibition competition Jette's Hillbillies downed the B&B Market team 20-1. The game was called at the end of the third inning under the mercy rule.

Game two saw Caisse Populaire win out over GTL, 17-12.

The first regular season game was played May 24 when the Hillbillies won by the narrow margin of 13-12 over B&B, followed by a 15-6 Caisse Populaire win over GTL.

Men's fastball starts

The Alexandria Men's Fastball League is still without a statistician and their season opener was to have been played last night.

Anyone interested in the job is asked to phone Recreation Director Mike Depratto.

The season opener was played between Apple Hill and Dalhousie in the first game and Chippers and Bonnie Glen in Game 2.

Dies in Ottawa

Mrs. Clement P. Whyte, for many years a resident of Lancaster, passed away at Riverside Hospital in Ottawa on May 22, 1978, after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Whyte, the former Mary Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Angus R. MacDonald, was born at "Hillsdale," St. Raphael's, Ont., in 1883. In 1906 she married Clement P. Whyte of Lancaster, who was station agent there for many years.

She is survived by her daughters Evelyn Macdonald, Ottawa, Catherine Milligan, Cornwall, Margaret Young, Sydney, N.S., Frances Pye, Victoria, B.C., Andrea McCormick, Toronto, and sons Clement M. Whyte and John H. Whyte of California. She was predeceased by daughters Eleanor and Genevieve and a son, Flight Lt. Stuart P. Whyte, who was killed in action overseas in 1945.

The funeral was held Wednesday, May 24, from McArthur Bros. and MacNeil Funeral Home, Cornwall, to St. Joseph's Church, Lancaster, where the mass was celebrated by the Rev. Donald Tuori of the Resurrection of Our Lord Church in Ottawa, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Sylvester Theoret.

The pallbearers were Angus R. MacDonald, Rory MacDonald, Ian McCormick and grandsons Paul and David McCormick and John Milligan-Whyte.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's Cemetery in Lancaster.

Federal grants

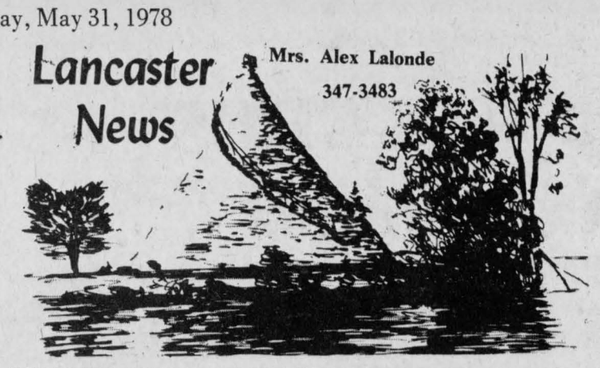
Two Cornwall area groups are among 48 organizations across the province which have received grants from the federal government's Health Activities Summer Employment Program for Students.

The Ontario projects are part of a total of 210 across Canada. The grants will create jobs for 433 post-secondary students with health-related organizations and other voluntary groups.

Cost of the program is $913,000.

A total of 563 applications were received from across the country and 37 per cent were accepted.

Emergency Planning Canada in Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and the City of Cornwall received $1,626.23 for emergency planning while the psychology department at Cornwall General received $9,539.90 for Child Care '78.



Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor Roulston of Toronto spent a few days at their summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Andre Maheu of Ottawa and Miss Tammy Poirier of Newington spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Fern Theoret and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Michel Cholette (the former Diane Legroulx) spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Wildy Cholette on their return from their wedding trip to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Clifford Wightman was hostess to a bridal shower in honor of Miss Suzanne Brunet prior to her marriage to Richard Pilon on May 26 at St. Joseph's Church.

Mrs. Rena Upton spent the weekend in Manotick visiting her son Robin, Mrs. Upton, Kyle and Bayne.

A welcome is extended to Mrs. Donald Hallrook and two small daughters from Newfoundland who are residing at the United Church Manse on Oak Street. Mr. Hallrook will be joining them shortly.

Mrs. Milton MacDonald, Margaret, Moira and Marlene, were hostesses at their home to a miscellaneous bridal shower in honor of Miss Donna-Marie MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd MacDonald who will be married June 17 to John Kealy.

(Intended for last issue)

Mr. and Mrs. Emile Saucier recently spent a day in Brockville visiting their brother-in-law who is a patient there.

Mrs. Mary Smith of Cornwall spent last Sunday visiting Mrs. Rena Upton.

Mrs. Russell Craig of Toronto spent a few days with her father, Ross Fraser.

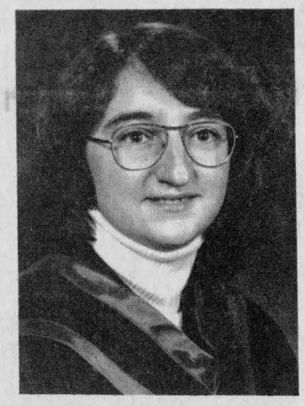
Members of the Frizzel family of Montreal, spent the holiday weekend at their summer home.

George Alenik of Toronto spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. Maria Alenik and family.

Holiday visitors of Mrs. Mary Pidgeon and Gordon were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pidgeon and Paul Jr. of Cardinal, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pidgeon, Jamie and Angela of Lachine, Mr. and Mrs. James Hutt and Richie, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Sauve, Michael, Barbara and Roger, Chuck Warren and Rodney Kyer, all of Cornwall.

Jean-Marie Gauthier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levis Gauthier, Third Concession, has returned to his employment in Edmonton after spending some time in Texas.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pattingale were: Miss Valerie Titus of London, Mr. and Mrs. James Pattingale and family of Park Hill and Grant Pattingale of Toronto.



GRADUATED — Debra Anne MacInnes received her Bachelor of Commerce degree (honors) at the graduation ceremonies at Queen's University, Kingston, on May 27, 1978. A graduate of Maxville High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacInnes of Maxville.

SATURDAY WAS THEIR DAY—They all hail from Glengarry County and they all graduated from St. Lawrence College Saturday. From left, Lois Fraser who graduated in early childhood education, Shirley MacPherson, medical secretary, Pauline Gareau, medical typist, Henri Wetering, instrumentation engineering technician, Cathy MacDonald, behavioral science technician, Lorelei Lafave, dicta typist, Hugh Campbell, mechanical engineering technician and Brenda Morris, visual and creative arts. Parents request denied

The SD&G Separate School Board has denied a request by parents from Ecole St. Gabriel to have both the regular French and adapted French programs taught at the school next year.

The decision was made last week when the board met behind closed doors to study the proposals submitted by the school committee of Ecole St. Jean-Bosco, Cornwall, and a group of parents from Ecole St. Gabriel, Cornwall.

The board also remains firm on a decision to have the English and French sections share Ecole St. Jean-Bosco. The top floor of the three-story St. Jean-Bosco school will be made available to the English section for the new 50-50 bilingual program.

Board Chairman Jules Renaud agreed that the St. Jean-Bosco situation was not the best. "But," he added, "we have to try to do the best we can."

Francophone parents who asked the board last week to alter their proposed programs will continue to fight the decision.

Jeanette Ouimet, a member of the St. John-Bosco School Committee, said "The English parents are as much opposed to sharing a school with the French as the French are opposed to sharing a school with the English."

Ouimet added that about 75 per cent of Francophone parents would send their children to other nearby French schools if the St. Jean-Bosco 50-50 bilingual program is not abandoned.

The board will also be facing a legal battle from a group of parents regarding the decision for Ecole St. Gabriel.

"As Francophone parents, we feel they don't have the right to refuse our children in French schools," said Andre Rivette, spokesman for the group.

Rivette said the parents have contacted a lawyer who is prepared to challenge the board's decision. He also reported that the parents will have no difficulty obtaining financial support for their backing.

The spokesman's four-year-old daughter is among those who have been denied entrance into the regular French program because of lack of fluency. Rivette last week asked the board to offer the adapted program up to Grade Two to give children a chance to learn enough French for enrolment purposes in the regular program.

Miss Alice Bellis has returned home after spending several weeks in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Lalonde and family of Athens spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lalonde and family and Mr. and Mrs. James Lalonde and family.

Professor is guest speaker

Professor Varick Chittenden of Canton, N.Y. presented a slide presentation entitled "They who loved the cause that lost" at the fourth annual meeting of the Glengarry Genealogical Society that was held in St. Mary's Centre, Williamstown, on Sunday evening May 7.

Mr. Chittenden received a year's leave of absence from the State College where he is a staff member and travelled extensively throughout this area as well as in the United States, to interview descendants of the loyalists, those who remainded in the states and those who came to Canada. He also took pictures of the areas involved in the conflict of the American Revolution. He gave the views of both sides in both picture and word.

Of the more than 1500 slides he took, he was able to condense the presentation to some 300 which took about 30 minutes to show. This presentation was quite interesting, informative as well as entertaining, and the scenery was well worth while and reason enough to see the presentation. A question period followed bringing out more light on the reason for making such a presentation.

Dies in Brockville hospital

Mrs. Christena (Stewart) Thomlison passed away on Tuesday, September 13, 1977, in the Brockville General Hospital in her 97th year. She had been a patient there for a month and resided in The Fulford Home for Women, King St. Mrs. Thomlison had formerly resided at 53 Chislett Street prior to entering the Fulford Home.

She was born in Roxborough Township (Warina), on December 7, 1880, a daughter of the late Alexander Stewart and his late wife, the former Miss Catherine MacDonald. She went to Brockville about 50 years ago with her husband, Thomas John Thomlison, who predeceased her on September 22, 1945.

She was a member of First Presbyterian Church, Brockville and lived a quiet life, enjoying needlework, quilting and baking.

The last of her family, she is survived by nieces and nephews, Mrs. Gordon Thom and Mrs. Gilbert Eamer both of Smith Falls, John Griffin and Mrs. Desmond Wale of Ottawa and Harold Griffin of Montreal.

The funeral was held on Friday, September 16th, 1977 with Rev. David Mawhinney officiating. Interment took place in Rideau Ferry Cemetery, Brockville.

The pallbearers were Harold Griffin, John Griffin, Alfred Fox, Harold Nute, George Hall and Wallace Guild.

Mrs. Thomlison had many relatives and friends in the Glengarry and Stormont areas, who will regret to learn of her death.

GO SLOW — PROTECT OUR CHILDREN!

Mrs. Lorna Chapmar
874-2408

A hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacMillan, who have moved into their home in the village. Nice to see lights there again. They have recently purchased Campbell Fraser's lovely little cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald MacLachlan drove up to Manotick Friday evening, to see their granddaughter take part in the ballet recital. Haley was delightful as a snowflake and later on as a flower, in "Exerpts from the Nutcracker Suite." Haley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murray MacLachlan of Ottawa.

Spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman is Peggy Weinberg and her friend, Barbara Pagani, both of Montreal.

Louise and Laurette Ouimet were in Ottawa last Thursday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

All the family got together and took their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Poirier out for a lovely dinner to L'Anse a Maufette in Isle Perrot for Mothers' Day. The party finished up the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lefebvre in Pincourt. Sunday visitors with Eva and Joe Poirier were Nicole and Francine Poirier, Michel Bedard and Michel Barrette all of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gravel and Daniel of Chomedy.

HONORS GRAD — Katherine Shirley MacPherson received her secretarial science certificate when she graduated with honors from St. Lawrence College of Applied Arts and Technology, Cornwall, on May 27. Shirley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynus MacPherson, RR3, Dalkeith, and a graduate of Glengarry District High School. She is currently employed as a medical secretary for a doctor in Ottawa who specializes in ear, nose and throat diseases.

Pay women to stay home?

by Gwen Morris

Ronald Jackson who is heading the Jackson Commission on declining enrolment startled the public out of its apathy towards education by recently announcing two solutions: Number One Solution—Populate the future classrooms with children created from test tubes.

Number Two Solution—Pay women to stay home and have babies.

Public reaction to both of these statements has taken on all the earmarks of a witchhunt with Ronald Jackson as the central figure. He has since then retracted his statements and apologized to Tom Wells. "He did not mean this to be the way it sounded." So . . . Ronald will be allowed to complete the study at a cost of $500,000 and will arrive at other more sane but creative solutions around the end of August . . . we hope.

Mr. Jackson has a colossal job ahead of him for the enrolment problem does not only affect Ontario but the entire nation. Enrolment in elementary and secondary schools in Canada has been declining at a rate of more than 100,000 students a year dropping to 5.3 million in 1977-78 from 5.6 million in 1975-76. The result: 10,000 teaching jobs have vanished during this period and the outlook is for more of the same, at least until the mid-1980s.

The Ontario Department of Education might consider eliminating such commissions altogether as one solution. The money saved could be divided equally amongst Ontario school boards to help them finance for a reduction in classroom size which would allow for the establishment of more special services so drastically needed at the present time. This would at least slow the rate of teacher lay-offs and create employment for more of our young teachers.

Jackson's number one solution to the problem does not warrant comment. However, after our initial reaction of repulsion has passed and we delve a little deeper into solution number two we can perhaps create other divergent solutions ourselves, based on several very good reasons.

There are women in our society who sincerely believe that "Homemaking" is their career. They are happy in their vocation —raising children and creating a home. When such women, due to economic circumstances, are forced to leave that home and enter the world of work they feel resentful and are most unhappy. This adversely affects the children, the home and finally the marriage, itself. Often the strain is a major contribution to a marital breakdown. The children of such situations become problems to society and gradually develop learning problems to school as well. If these women had the chance to seeking financial help in the beginning such conditions would not likely develop.

Maternity leave is a present form of financial reward and many women who have spent some time at home for this purpose wish to remain there. They have experienced and enjoyed that precious time spent with the children when they are young—a fleeting time—but so important to the child. Is there something wrong, then, to suggest that such mothers be further rewarded so they may stay at home and carry on one of the most important tasks facing a nation—the task of molding and guiding a young child's mind and will towards the time when this child becomes a citizen of our country?

To enable these women to improve upon the quality of their work, courses in homemaking and child care could be established for the ones who decide on this as a chosen career. The course or courses could not only offer practical work but also philosophy, psychology, biology, anatomy, business, etc. Diplomas, certificates and even degrees could be granted to successful graduates. As time passes these people could expect some form of financial reward commensurate with their qualifications. This education might help more parents learn how to adjust willingly to sacrifices that are necessary in order to avoid marriage breakdowns.

Graduates of such courses would feel more on a level with teachers when the children start to school. They will have learned to deal with their child's problems early in life and will be willing and able to work with the teacher in remedying the same. Thus a much improved and much needed communication channel will be set into operation for the benefit of the child.

Granted there are women who are very unhappy being "just a housewife." These women are much better off following a career but they should not be made to feel guilty about their choice. Our country needs and benefits from having these women contributing to business, law, medicine, education, politics, etc. They are paid for the work done and well they should be. Their sisters who have chosen to follow a career in homemaking contribute in a different but no less important way to the good of the country when they give birth to and guide the destiny of our future generations. Ronald Jackson possibly meant this when he bluntly suggested the second solution to the problem of declining enrolment. We will be waiting to hear what he has to say at the end of August.

MOOSE CREEK

Mr. and Mrs. Phillipe Dore of Moose Creek, were honored by the members of their family and several friends at a social gathering held in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Pitre of St. Isidore, on Sunday, April 23, 1978, to celebrate the 40th anniversary of their marriage.

A delicious dinner was prepared and served by the hostesses and was much enjoyed by all. Mr. and Mrs. Dore were the recipients of many gifts and good wishes on this happy occasion, and were wished many years to enjoy their many friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dore have two daughters and three sons: Mrs. Lionel Pitre (Madeleine) of St. Isidore, and Mrs. Rene Aubin (Louise) of Maxville, Lionel Dore, Henri Dore, and Gerald Dore, all of Moose Creek.

Mr. Dore is the son of the late Henri Dore and his wife, Mathilda Provost of Moose Creek and Mrs. Dore is the former Miss Irene Duhaime, daughter of the late Ezarie Duhaime and his wife, the former Virginia Lapierre, who is at present a resident in Maxville Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. Dore were married in Montreal on April 23, 1938, after which they came to reside on the groom's farm just north of Moose Creek Village. In 1973 they disposed of their farm and came to reside in Moose Creek.

As the guests departed the couple were wished years of health and happiness.

Hostess at meeting

The May meeting of the members of the United Church Women of Knox United Church, Moose Creek, was held in the home of Mrs. Gordon McKercher recently.

The president, Mrs. Chester Valley, opened the meeting with the call to worship and a poem "Here's To You." Mrs. McRae was in charge of the devotional period. The theme was "To be spent brings gladness." She read the thought-provoking poem "The Self Lover."

The meditations reminded the members that it takes so little effort to believe in people and it returns such great dividends. She closed the worship service with the poem "There is a Man who Cares."

The members enjoyed a sing-along with one of Tennessee Ernie's sacred albums.

The Missionary Study was given by Mrs. E. A. McKillican assisted by Miss Florence Gentles on the good news of Newfoundland churches as told by A. C. Forrest.

The June meeting will be held in the Senior Citizens' Club Room on June 13, when the members of the local societies will be invited to spend an evening in fellowship and enjoy a message by Mrs. H. Funge of Avonmore.

Martintown Rumor Mill

Art Buckland—528-4261

Mrs. Mary Barkway that talented vivacious and enthusiastic individual living on the King's Road across from the MacLeod piggery, held a successful recital for her piano students.

The Serendipity Piano Class includes the following fine pianists: Dale and Trea Tuck, children of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Tuck from Martintown North-west (the old St. Pierre farm), Christina Ramsay, daughter of sheep herders Ray and Lorraine (little 7th), Susan and Jennifer Edwards daughters of Carol and Mac Edwards (corn growers from Main Street, Williamstown), Andrea and Trudy Buckland, daughters of Jan and Art (Glen Falloch west), Jane Emond, daughter of Margaret and Kenneth (Kinloch road), Donna Lee, daughter of Sylvia and Donald Thomson (Glen Falloch East), Andy McCuaig son of Marion and Bruce (Martintown East), Carol Edwards and Tamsin Clark (Martintown Northwest).

I opened the recital with two mystery melodies, even a mystery to me. Officially, the program stated that I was to play the "Fairies' Harp" for the "Swans on the Lake" and most present wished that I had, but, on Lake of the Woods.

Mary and Peter Barkway hosted the performers and their hungry families with a sumptuous repast after our recital.

Did you hear about the problem they had last week at Toronto's Metro Zoo? Stuart Buchan can tell you.

SINGER HAS PROBLEMS

Rob Taylor of Brigadoons reports that singer Bob Burnie's bout of laryngitis is continuing. Bob sang ten minutes at Paul's recently when his voice gave out. Everyone hopes that the lyrical Irishman's larynx returns to normal excellence soon.

ENTERTAINED IN OTTAWA

Sunday, Brigadoons and MacCulloch dancers were part of a show in Ottawa at Skyline Hotel. Moving up.

ATTENDED GRADUATIONS

Last week I attended two graduations: Kemptville and St. Lawrence College. In Kemptville the ceremonies took place in a brand new double gymnasium-auditorium, which I am certain is beneficial for the students. In Cornwall the graduation took place in our relatively new Aultsville Hall, a building which the community can get a lot of use out of.

LOCAL GRADS

The St. Lawrence College graduates from the area are pictured on other pages of this week's paper, including Martintown's Brenda Morris and Diane Lalonde. At KCAT, area graduates were Catherine Humphries, daughter of Ag. Rep. Jim and Mrs. Humphries, Cheryl Beaupre, our niece and a granddaughter of the late Roy Beaupre formerly a farmer on the front, Alain Leduc Apple Hill, Steven McDonell and Findlay McLeod North Lancaster, Elizabeth McDonell, St. Andrews, David Hart, Newington, and John Maloney, Cornwall. Congratulations to all.

The valedictorians at the Cornwall graduation were Monique Charlebois, and from St. Raphael's, Yvon Brunet. They gave excellent addresses, using as a device, the extended metaphor of life as water: First as a small stream in youth, a river in adolescence and upon college graduation, life as the junction of river and ocean. The theme of life as water for the graduate suggests that he has shown a level of achievement, but yet he is about to embark on a new and bigger adventure on the unknown ocean. Well done.

SUMMER FESTIVAL

St. Raphael's is the scene for another Midsummer Music Festival on June 16, 17 and 18. Included in the program are: Area choirs (Cornwall Centennial, Ecumenical) Riverdale piano trio, Canadian Brass, Armed Forces Band and the play, Cariboo Cameron.

PRINCIPALS TRANSFERRED

Director of the Glengarry, Dundas and Stormont Board of Education, Rosaire Leger has announced a massive switching of public school principals. No reasons given, but it leads to all sorts of interesting conjecture when one applies this principle, so to speak, in other areas such as, for example, the family. However that is for another day.

June 15 Tom Sawyer, the musical, will be presented at Martintown Public School. Mary Barkway and Yvonne Evans have been working hard to get the students ready for this big show.

Happy birthday, Rae MacCulloch.

HAD CAR WASH

Thanks to the Bentons for hosting the grade eight car wash.

MAC'S PHILOSOPHY

Martintown Mac says to follow the advice of the speaker who said that we must be receptive to new ideas, but we must stick with the old ones until the acceptance of the new is reasonable. Emphasis always on the old.

Former teacher traced history of Loyalist Rose

A former teacher and genealogist, Mrs. Anna Ethel MacLeod died suddenly at Branson Hospital in Willowdale, May 11, after a brief illness.

Born at McCrimmon on May 26, 1914, she was the eldest daughter of the Late Dan Campbell and his wife, the former Margaret MacLeod.

She attended public school locally and went to Vankleek Hill High School before attending Ottawa Normal School.

She is survived by her husband Alex, and four children, Florence, Margaret, Alexander and Elizabeth.

Surviving sisters and brothers are Mrs. R.B. (Florence) Cameron of Halifax; Mrs. G.R. Boyd (Betty) of Gore Bay, Ontario; Mrs. Archie MacGillivray (Eileen) of Dalkeith; Donald, Murray and Robert, all of Dalkeith; and William of St. Catherines.

The funeral was held May 13 from Willowdale Presbyterian Church with Rev. Merille Rayside officiating.

Pallbearers were Dory Reudar, Dalton street and nephews Michael Boyd, Hugh Scott, Robert Burns Cameron and Jamie Cameron.

A dedicated teacher, she taught in several Glengarry Schools including the one in Cotton Beaver. She travelled north to Porcupine where she was acting principal. She also taught at Lillian Street Public School in Yorkview.

She contributed much to "The MacLeods of Glengarry—Genealogy of a Clan" and was very interested in the Scottish heritage of Canada.

She married her husband from Dunvegan on August 21, 1943, and moved to Toronto in 1954.

She was a member of the Clan Campbell Society and the Clan MacLeod Society of Central Ontario.

She was a very active member of the United Empire Loyalist Association and governor of the Simcoe branch.

She was a member of the Ontario Genealogical Society, the Canadian Bible Society, the British and Foreign Bible Society and Willowdale Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. MacLeod donated the Loyalist Rose to the UEL Society for fundraising after tracing the "family tree" of the rose and getting the rose registered as the "Loyalist Rose."

The pink rose, Mrs. MacLeod learned, was taken to England from Damascus by the Crusaders. In 1773 it was brought by the Camerons from Scotland to the Mohawk Valley in Western New York.

Three years later when the American Revolution broke out, the Cameron women carried the rose with them on their 230-mile trek through the Appalachians to Canada, where it blooms today in the gardens of their descendants.

In pioneer days the flowers, stalks, leaves and hips of the rose bushes were used to make many delicacies, beverages and medicines.

HONOR STUDENT—James C. McRae, son of Chris and Martha McRae, Glen Nevis, with an average of 92 per cent, was named to the Dean's Honor List for Academic Excellence in Computer Programming and Analysis at Seneca College in Toronto. He is working at Crown Data Centre in Toronto for the summer.

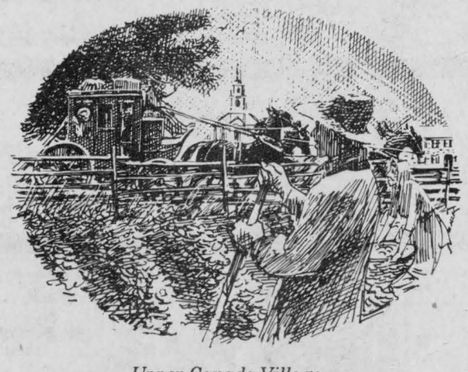
The St. Lawrence Parks

Old Fort Henry



Upper Canada Village

Holiday 'way back when...

The rhythmic clopping of horses' hooves, the clatter of the stagecoach, the clang of the blacksmith's hammer, the sweet smell of hearth-baked bread–just as it was, so it remains, the daily round of life along the river long ago: Upper Canada Village, near Morrisburg.

And not far off, in a great limestone citadel, the flash, the drums, the thunder of a crack military unit in a stirring nineteenth-century 'Ceremonial Retreat' most Wednesday and Saturday evenings through July and August: Old Fort Henry, at Kingston.

Between, and beyond, from the Bay of Quinte to the Quebec border, fifteen riverside parklands, nature's lush green spaces, 2,500 camp and trailer sites, beaches, golf, riding, boating, and shady woodland trails–The St. Lawrence Parks.

Bring the family back to the best of pastimes, mid-May to mid-October. Write for your free colour brochure: The St. Lawrence Parks Commission, Box 740, Morrisburg, Ontario, Canada. K0C 1X0

Our children on trail of nature.

New jobs. And a better place to live. Canada Works, a Federal Government job creation program, has done it before and Canada Works can do it again.

Get your group to agree on a project you can all support. Most importantly, it must make use of and improve the skills of unemployed people in your area, create at least 3 new jobs, and make for community benefits that last.

Complete your application carefully and on time.

If your idea is good enough, Canada Works may be able to contribute to the necessary funding.

To apply, just go to your closest Canada Manpower Centre/Canada Employment Centre or Job Creation Branch Office. Pick up the application form and the "Guide to Applicants."

Police dog shows training

Gunner is an honest-to-goodness "police dog" and he and his owner-trainer, Constable Bob Drouin of Long Sault OPP, visited Alexandria Thursday night to give a demonstration to area Cubs, Scouts, Brownies and Guides at Alexander School.

Gunner is a five-and-a-half year-old purebred male German Shepherd and when it comes to police work he is a real professional.

He and Constable Drouin have worked as a team for the past four years answering 300 to 400 calls for help a year. Gunner has been trained to sniff out narcotics, track criminals, locate lost people, assist in crowd control and has made approximately 150 appearances at public relations events.

Constable Drouin said Gunner, now that he is trained as well as he is, is valued at $7,500. He weights 102 pounds and has a jaw pressure of 1,000 pounds. However his ability to bite is used as a last resort.

The fact that people know of his biting ability is usually enough to gain their respect, commented Drouin.

Gunner is one of 12 dogs used by the OPP. Drouin and Gunner cover an area from Petawawa to Kingston and east to Quebec.

"We can receive a call at any time of the day or night to help out in any area where a dog like Gunner is needed," said Constable Drouin. The team answers to 67 police departments within its area plus the armed forces.

The OPP constable put his dog through a series of obstacle courses, but one of the highlights of the evening was Gunner's reaction to a handgun.

Drouin had prearranged with a scout leader for a revolver to be hidden. At one point during the demonstration, when Gunner was facing away from the individual with the gun, the hammer of the revolver was drawn back. To the human ear it was nothing more than a quiet click. But to Gunner it was a definite sound of danger.

He spun around immediately locating the individual with the gun. Once the revolver became visible it was all Constable Drouin could do to keep Gunner from attacking the scout leader.

After Gunner was convinced that his trainer had the situation under control he allowed the supposed attacker, with hands in the air, to be ushered out of the building. However, at no time did Gunner take his eyes off the individual.

Constable Drouin explained to the children present that the demonstration may look like only fun and games, but, in fact, it was a serious training session for Gunner.

If the scout leader had been a real attacker, Gunner would not have been held back and his training would probably result in the saving of his trainer's life.

Any group or organization who would like to have Gunner and Constable Drouin visit them need only contact the OPP.

However, be prepared for a working police dog and not some sort of trick animal like those seen on TV or at fairs.

NEW COMMITTEE FORMED

A meeting of the Kenyon Municipal Recreation Committee was held on Wednesday, May 24 at the Kenyon Township Hall with seven members in attendance.

The new executive for the year was chosen: Chairman Dave Hiltz, Apple Hill; Secretary Mary Couture, Greenfield; Area members—Laggan, Stanley MacLeod; Alexandria, Gwen Morris; Dunvegan, Bill Calder; Apple Hill, Sue Symington; Maxville, William Van Loon; representing council, Albert Faubert, Norman MacLeod and Hazel McKinnon.

CELEBRATED MASS

Rev. Allistair Joseph McDonald of Toronto, formerly of the Fourth of Kenyon, was a weekend visitor to Greenfield to attend the burial of his mother, Mrs. Margaret McDonald, on Saturday, after which he celebrated a mass in St. Catherine's Church for the members of the family. On Sunday, Rev. McDonald also said mass in St. Catherine's at 9 a.m. for the parishioners.

Also attending from a distance were: Miss Audrey McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Mullen, Gerlyn, Heather and Karen and Mr. and Mrs. L. Barta, all of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. M. McCulloch of Montreal.

Mrs. Mary Smith spent the past week in Kingston visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Smith and Leslie. Connie Smith spent a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patenaude in Cornwall.

A speedy recovery is wished for Miss Ann H. McDonald who is a patient in the Hotel Dieu.

The Greenfield soccer field got a new look on the weekend with the boys building a new bleacher, and also erecting a new fence above the goal net. Thanks to all who helped in any way.

IT'S OUR OPINION

The Glengarry News

ALEXANDRIA, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1978

Renewal program is worthwhile

Alexandria's auditors have suggested that council examine the feasibility of introducing the Ontario Home Renewal Program to the town. We wish to express our support of that recommendation.

Neighboring municipalities have already made use of the provincial scheme and found it beneficial.

Under the scheme, the province allocates money to the municipality which the municipality can then lend to people for structural improvements to their homes.

The funds are given in the form of loans or grants depending on the person's financial need. The money cannot be used to decorate a person's home, only to make major renovations that would improve wiring, plumbing, insulation, etc.

The program is of assistance not only to the individual homeowner, but to the community at large. As older buildings are upgraded, the beauty of the town is enhanced. Everyone wins.

Change in the legal drinking age

It is curious to see what values and rights we hold highest.

In the fall, the government of Ontario is expected to increase the legal drinking age to 19. The motives are noble enough. Essentially, the government wants to get booze out of the high schools.

The rise in alcohol abuse by young people has become the number one drug problem in the country. Many blame the lower drinking age for this trend. When the drinking age was 21, it was not unusual to see 17 and 18-year-olds furtively imbibing in some dark corner or other. Now that the legal age is 18, the 13 and 14-year-olds are getting into the act.

How much of this increase in usage is the result of the lower drinking age and how much is the result of slick television advertising? Perhaps it's a little of both. Or perhaps the root cause goes even deeper. Could rising alcohol abuse simply be a product of a society which values quick-thrills above all else?

At any rate, by raising the drinking age to 19 but leaving the voting age at 18, the government would be doing society a great disservice. It would be saying, in effect, that it takes more brains to drink than to vote. "We'll trust you to run the province, but not to quaff a few pints of ale," seems to be the message.

Surely in a democracy, the highest honor one can hold—the ultimate indicator of maturity—is the right to vote and seek elected office. The province would give this hard-won right secondary status. Under the proposed legislation, a person could theoretically become premier of the province and still be unable to legally consume alcoholic beverages.

If the government wishes to raise the drinking age, it should also raise the voting age. That is the only principled route. If reducing the influence of alcohol among the young is the goal, it makes little sense to elevate drinking as the highest symbol of adulthood.

Jackson is way off base

We must join with the many other critics of Ronald Jackson, the one-man provincial commission on declining school enrolments.

The recent controversy shows us that provincial commissions should be set up in such a way as to ensure that one man's personal viewpoints don't override the task at hand.

Among other things, Jackson has suggested that Canada should be preserved for people of white, European extraction and the government should consider paying women to stay home and have babies.

Jackson's ethnic comments have been labelled racist by many, and his baby-machine approach to women has been similarly denounced.

Jackson seems to be taking the approach that the only way to cope with declining enrolments is to stop the decline. Otherwise the school system will suffer. This is bureaucratic thinking at its best. The school system, like all our government organizations, is supposedly set up to serve social needs, not vice-versa. We create schools to serve children. We do not produce children to serve schools. We have a monstrous education bureaucracy that has obviously outlived its purpose. Let it pass away in peace and dignity.

'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret

Everybody is getting back into gardening. It is even happening at our house after an absence of a great many years.

It was all the family's idea. No sense making little gardens here and there when one big one would be enough for everyone. The spoils could be pooled. If there are any.

Paw and I had been doing without benefit of garden, and the accompanying headaches, mostly on his philosophy: If the season is good, vegetables are cheap and if the season is poor we wouldn't have any produce anyhow. (Neither of us is very fond of gardening.)

However, the kids had decided most of them would be home for the holiday weekend and for once they could work together instead of play. Also motivated, like everyone else, by the market basket and how little it contains for so much money.

The location for "the garden" was staked out south of the garage so that part of the field would be reserved for the great project.

The holiday weekend came and all the jobs were rationed out. Since I am considered the weakling around the farm I was given due consideration. I could tend the six grandchildren present, the oldest of which is seven. I was also to come up with meals for a dozen ravenous muscle-folk toiling in the fresh air. (A mere snap of a weekend for mother, she could take all the little naps she wanted in her spare time, part of the privilege of being her own boss.)

The kids really weren't any trouble. Grandma encouraged them to offer their services to the gardeners and the gardeners kept sending them back and a lot of time was spent walking back and forth. Keeping up with the peanut butter sandwiches for little picnics was a bit time consuming.

The busiest character was the "white-head", two years old, going on three, and discovering all kinds of Mother Nature's gifts for the first time—apple blossoms, dandelions and various weeds with which I was presented in hot-handed little squeezed-up bouquets. I ran out of vases, cracked cups and pop bottle containers.

Do you know how long it takes a flower-bearing two-year-old to come through a door? And the number of wee beasties that can accompany him? Grandmas are not supposed to notice these things, they must just be grateful for the posies. After all, it is quite a privilege to behold the world through two-year-old eyes.

Travis was outnumbered by the girls so he displayed his male superiority by talking down to them in French, an area in which he discovered he had some prowess. Although his proficiency has several grades to go he was not about to let them know this and played his role to great advantage by concocting several new impressive expressions. Another Tom Sawyer.

By noon, the garden was coming along well. A very sizable patch had been planted by the time Grandpa appeared on the scene.

"Thought you were going to put the garden south of the garage," he said, eyeing the work-gang, busily working north and east of the building.

"They changed their minds at the last minute, thought it would be closer to the well on this side."

Grandpa is not one to jump up and down and start yelling. His thumbs tucked in the bib of his overalls he drawled calmly: "Well, we should have a good crop of something. I seeded down that section with oats on Saturday."

By mid-afternoon some of the gardeners began looking for a spare. It was time to cut the seed potatoes and they didn't know how, they said. It so happened Aunt Mary was visiting for the day and she took hold. This is how you do it, she demonstrated, tearing into the bag of potatoes, and with the skill of one who has done it for seven decades, she chopped about three to everyone else's one. Participaction sure was making the job easier.

Grandpa took over on the planting. After all, at 79, a fellow of this ilk just doesn't stand around and commentate. Not after seeding down all the rest of the farm. He hopped on the tractor with the walking plow attached and Ed was commissioned into getting between the handles. Ed can tell you about the fun that was.

The garden wound up about four times the size originally planned. But when three generations get into a job, something unusual is bound to happen. Who knows, something might even come up, here and there among the oats.

Perspective

by Bob Roth

Consumer Aid needs aid

There is not an honest citizen in the area who would not benefit from the continuation of the Cornwall and District Consumer Aid Bureau. Since the bureau was formed well over a year ago, it has handled consumer complaints, not only from Cornwall, but from the adjacent townships. Residents of Glen Walter know just how much help the agency has been in their just struggle for full participation in decisions affecting the redevelopment of their Purcell subdivision.

Citizens involved in disputes over car repairs, faulty merchandise and a host of other problems have likewise found the bureau helpful in bringing about a solution.

Honest merchants also have reason to welcome the activities of the bureau. By keeping the dishonest businessmen in check, the bureau assists in improving the image of the business community in general. Those who are open with their customers and attempt to settle complaints fairly, have this good service mark on their record.

As the bureau's files grow, citizens can confer with the agency before doing business with a particular enterprise to see if the business in question has a good reputation for servicing customers. In large centres, businessmen, themselves, have set up Better Business Bureaus which provide a similar service.

The Consumer Aid Bureau tries to act as a mediator in disputes, bringing the opposing factions together with a soft-key approach. The goal is not to antagonize businessmen, but to help them obtain a better relationship with their customers. If the necessity arises, however, and a merchant is totally unreasonable, the bureau will go to bat for the consumer, even to the point of assisting in court action.

In addition, the Consumer Aid Bureau has contacts with officials at both the federal and provincial levels of government and can refer flagrant violations of consumer protection laws to the appropriate department.

Even those who have not had personal dealings with the bureau have undoubtedly benefitted from its operation. If the unethical businessman knows there is such an agency in operation, he will think twice about giving a customer the run-around. In this way, the bureau's very presence can promote an atmosphere of mutual respect and trust between businessman and consumer within the community.

The bureau can also perform a valuable role in consumer education, a role which former provincial Consumer and Commercial Relations Minister Sid Handelman says is not being properly filled in Ontario at this time.

Handelman argues that a better educated public would reduce the necessity of excessive government regulation.

"We see universal legislation passed to deal with a very small percentage of bad apples, but saddling the entire business community with regulatory legislation which is unnecessary to control all but one or two per cent of consumer transactions," Handelman noted in a recent speech.

In other words, by banding together to promote such an education program, both the businessman and consumer will benefit. The businessman will escape another onslaught of encumbering legislation and the consumer will be more aware of his rights and responsibilities.

Cornwall and area could become a model for this type of co-operation, if the Consumer Aid Bureau can not only be maintained, but enlarged in scope.

At present, the bureau's sponsor, The Cornwall and District Labor Council, is soliciting funds to keep the service in operation. Federal funding has almost expired and the council wants to make the bureau self-supporting.

Here is a chance for area businessmen and consumers alike to set a new trend in commercial relations. Let's hope the opportunity does not slip by.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by Angus H. McDonell

To those of us still able to bask in the sunshine of athletics, last Friday's official opening of the Maxville and District Sports Complex, among several features, was reminiscent of two score years ago when the Millionaires ruled supreme in Ottawa and District intermediate hockey.

The Millionaires were in the finals five successive years. They were four time winners and three in a row. The 1939-40 championship included winning in the Maritimes over Glace Bay.

In those days there were Millionaire reception banquets that brought forth political representatives, sport leaders and in particular noted writers. Tommy Shields, from across the fields in the Harrisons Corners-Farran's Point area, would lead the delegation in his role as sports editor of the Ottawa Citizen. D'Arcy Finn, an expert on curling activities throughout Ottawa and the Valleys, also from the Citizen, was a humorous and witty (Irish of course) speaker. Jack Koffman, a younger scribe, would be in the group, too. He succeeded Tommy Shields as Citizen sports editor. Walter Gilhooley, Journal sports editor, and his successor Billy Westwick, were great supporters in and out of the press box.

Their presence with other distinguished sportsmen and parliamentarians made a Millionaires' night a prestigious occasion. And that, folks, was exactly the atmosphere that prevailed last Friday night.

Ottawa West MLA Reuben Baetz, Ontario Minister of Energy in the Bill Davis cabinet, was more than a distinguished guest. He was an entertaining speaker. Terry Kielty, vice-president of Ottawa Rough Riders and GM of CFRA coupled with Eddie MacCabe, Ottawa Citizen sports columnist, meant a combined broadcasting and writing team of at least 60 years in the realm of sport. Kielty, MC of the annual CFL Schenley awards at Grey Cup time is known throughout Canada by especially football fans. Eddie MacCabe is one of the deans among Canadian sport writers. Add our own MLA, Osie Villeneuve, one of the founders of Millionaires and their first coach in the run from rags to riches years. But the speaker that received a deserved standing ovation for an excellent discourse was our own News editor, Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald, better known to readers as "Anna Margaret."

A prestigious head table like that not only gave the official opening distinctive class, it returned Maxville and District sport endeavors to the lofty heights of not so long ago.

The arena area was judged the latest in NHL standards. The only factor that honored guests couldn't believe was the fact it was debt-free. This accomplishment has made Maxville and District "Big League" all the way.

ANGUS H. McDONELL

Friday night Glengarry's social highlight of the year in the spacious arena area, the Guy Lombardo Royal Canadians spring ball hosted by the Lions and their ladies. Then, shortly, the Spring Fair by the Kenyon Agriculture Society, one of the best, on a pro rata basis, in Canada. A brief break and 30,000 visitors will converge on Maxville to attend the Highland Games. The Friday night opening will be something new in entertainment with a pipe and military band tattoo. Come Labor Day weekend and we understand minor hockey officials are planning a traditional harvest ball for young and older. Add a government accredited recreation director to guide the complex athletic programs throughout the year and that is truly being "Big League."

DUNVEGAN MUSEUM

Last Saturday we visited the historic Dunvegan museum as artist Doug Fales presented his action painting of Glengarry's caber-tossing champion Lloyd Kennedy, to the museum.

The museum is a very interesting and informative locale. The quaint log building was once a hotel. It has an identical preservation. We were curious as to the results of the small bar space. Hotel fights were the highlights of that long ago era and in this compact space of the Dunvegan museum hotel even Mohammed Ali wouldn't have room to "flit like a butterfly and sting like a bee." Seriously the museum exhibits are truly worth visiting.

We were especially interested in the presentation of the painting depicting an action caber toss by Lloyd Kennedy at the Highland Games. We have known Lloyd since his infancy. In the role of a Good Samaritan neighbor, successful farmer before retiring, a fine lacrosse goal keeper before entering caber tossing competition and above all a personality embodying a philosophy of life that is difficult to equal, let alone surpass. He is a worthy successor to his one-time instructor and champion "Big Alex" McIsaac MacDonald.

Besides his glory days in the early years of the Highland Games, Lloyd coached his first pupil, Williamstown's Harold McDonald, to follow in his footsteps and that of "Big Alex." Harold McDonald won the championship in Maxville four times in five years. Three successive years, then missed the fourth as he was in Vancouver, returned in the fifth while on holidays, and without a single practise throw, won the championship again.

But Lloyd Kennedy did not contribute all the essentials of Doug Fales' masterpiece. There had to be a photographer and who should that be but Lloyd's Ottawa nephew Billy Kennedy. Billy is a son of Austin Kennedy, veteran of veterans with the House of Commons Protective staff, and Mrs. Kennedy, nee "Peggy" Hamilton of North Lancaster.

During the Games' caber toss competition about 1970, Billy Kennedy, by the way, our godchild, was a young photographer. Noticing that his uncle Lloyd was about to give a technique demonstration toss, Billy grabbed his camera and "shot" uncle Lloyd—a perfect action photo, from which the painting was made.

The museum, a worthy place to hang the painting of a worthy subject.

TIMBER-R-R-R

A scout tells us the old high school grounds last Sunday afternoon was the mecca of quite a caber toss gathering . . . among the novices were Dr. Senecal, Grant Cameron and Brian Sherratt . . . our weather observer down Dalhousie way, George Hambleton, hasn't as yet reported any U.F.O. (unidentified flying objects) . . . another scout tells us that should you note in a News photo an excited expression, the cause will be Brian, instead of saying c-h-e-e-s-e, has bellowed, t-i-m-b-e-r-r-r!

The Syracuse champ John MacDonald, was here with Mrs. MacDonald and children . . . John informs us in the U.S. the kilt must be worn by competitors . . . Howard Cameron from down Bainsville way and Dunvegan's young Douglas Clarke were among the juniors picking up some advice and know-how from Ronnie MacDonell and Roddy MacLeod.

While here, Mr. Davis was well patronized, his selections being the latest and best.

Char-Lan Crusades

by Greg Kalil

Each year at this time there is an event which concerns all the students at Char-Lan. It makes them seriously consider what they want their future to be at this school. This event took place last week as the students elected a new student council for the 1978-79 school year.

After a long and well planned campaign by each of the candidates, which ended in an assembly last Thursday, the voting took place. The results were: 1978-79 president: Donald Lapierre; vice-president: Anne Vogel; treasurer and secretary: Greer MacDonald and Harriet Feilotter respectively.

With leadership such as this, Char-Lan's future looks bright. Donald has some fantastic ideas for spirit and fund raising and will work hard to give the students all the benefits of a great student council. Anne is an extremely motivated person with some great ideas, many of which run parallel to Donald's. Combined with the hard work of Greer and Harriet, Donald and Anne will form a really strong leadership committee. Good luck to them next year!

Scouts announce program

Material for the Wolfcub and Scout summer camp is ready and being distributed to all concerned. (June 25 to 30, July 30 to Aug. 4 and Aug. 25 to 30.)

Unfortunately some people who replied to our initial survey indicating a positive reply in sending their boys to summer camp neglected to put their name and return address on the envelope.

If any parent has not yet received the material would you please call the Scout office at 938-9577 giving the above information to the secretary.

UCW to meet

United Church Women in the Seaway Valley plan to meet for the June executive meeting at Camp Kagama on June 6. The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock and consist of business.

After a pot-luck lunch, an afternoon of fun and fellowship will be enjoyed. There will also be time for the retiring officers to meet with the new members of the executive. Every United Church woman is cordially invited to attend.

Pastured cows need vitamins

Nutrient requirements must not be forgotten when cattle are on summer pasture, the Ministry of Agriculture and Food warns.

If a herd's diet is deficient in minerals, average gains are lower, reproductive performance is hampered and milk production fails.

The most commonly ignored minerals are calcium, phosphorus, cobalt, salt and iodine, says D. R. McKnight, lecturer at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

Many Ontario soils lack phosphorus. Forage crops and pasture grown on such soil will be deficient in this valuable mineral. In areas where tests show that soil is low in magnesium, iron, copper, manganese, zinc or sulfur, trace mineral supplements should be added to cattle diet.

Many farmers supply minerals in a grain supplement to cattle on pasture. The herd is brought together at regular feeding times and the farmer has a chance to inspect for condition and possible injury.

If minerals are supplied on a free choice basis, with or without the grain supplement, they should be protected from wind and rain.

Deficiency symptoms differ for each trace mineral, says McKnight. To prevent grass tetany in cattle on lush summer pasture, magnesium is particularly important. For necessary body functions, iodized-cobaltized salt or trace-mineralized salt can be offered.

Bone defects occur when calcium and phosphorus are deficient during growth and pregnancy. Serious phosphorus shortages, evident when cattle chew on dirt or wood, can lead to lowered milk yield and reproduction problems, including irregular or reduced number of heat periods and restless cattle.

The farmer should be wary of choosing a mineral supplement by price alone for the lower priced mixture may lack the proper phosphorus level, as phosphorus is the most expensive element.

McKnight recommends a free choice 1:1 mixture of calcium phosphate and trace-mineralized salt. Mineral supplements can be the key to productive stock this summer.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

Drainage seminar to be held soon

Farmers and other individuals interested in knowing more about the complexities of farm drainage schemes are being urged to attend a one-day seminar in Manotick, Thursday, June 8.

The seminar, sponsored by the Canadian Water Resources Association, will feature a talk on drainage law, water management, and a panel discussion outlining the viewpoints of farmers, municipal politicians, engineers and conservation authorities in the drainage question.

Registration is $20 per person which includes lunch. The day begins at 8:15 a.m. and ends at 4:30 p.m.

People interested in attending may contact: Rural Drainage Seminar, c/o A. J. Robinson & Associates Inc., Consulting Engineers, P.O. Box 13130, Kanata Postal Station, Ottawa, Ontario K2K 1X3.

Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Water Resources Association.

Manotick is located south of Ottawa.

Families build farm industry

Agriculture in Ontario is different from other industries, says Deputy-Minister of Agriculture and Food R. Gordon Bennett.

He told 108 members of the graduating class at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology recently that "agriculture was built on family associations." Graduates, he said, owed much of their success to the work of dedicated parents.

Jean-Marc Leclerc of Ottawa became the first student to graduate from the Agricultural Engineering Technician's course. Among other things, Leclerc delivered the valedictory address for agricultural students and collected three awards for outstanding achievement.

Leclerc urged his classmates to actively seek information.

"A cry for more leadership is a poor substitute for self-imposed ignorance," he said.

Eight students graduated from the recently instituted Food Service Supervision course. The course was designed to prepare students to be food supervisors in health care institutions.

Food and Fashion Valedictorian, Karen Machan of Pakenham, reminisced about her two years at the college. She warned students not to "ask for what they were not prepared to give."

On a similar note, Deputy-Minister Bennett said he was "disturbed by the cynical attitude" in today's society. He exhorted students to search "for knowledge and real causes, not just symptoms."

About 50 per cent of the agricultural students have gone to farms. Most other agricultural and food and fashion students have already been placed in jobs.

CLUB NEWS

Cornwall Centre Calf Club

The second regular meeting of Cornwall Centre 4-H Calf Club was held May 8, at the home of Campbell Murray, RR2, Martintown at 7:30.

The meeting was started off with the 4-H pledge, followed by new business and a quiz. Then the club members went in the barn to judge cattle.

Nora Clancy conducted a leadership project on the Milk Marketing Board.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of the Maloneys on June 5, 1978, at 7:30.

The meeting was closed by Brian Seguin and Margaret MacDonald. Then a lunch was given by Mrs. Murray.

Glengarry Veterinary Club

by Henry Krol

The Glengarry 4-H Veterinary Club held its third meeting in the OMAF Boardroom in Alexandria, on Monday, May 15.

The members sat in wonderment, enriching their young minds with all the useful and exciting information gathered from three extremely interesting films. Later, the leader, Dr. Jim Algire, discussed the films with he curious members and expertly answered a multitude of questions.

The club decided to devote the next meeting entirely to their project: The construction of an exhibit to be displayed at the Williamstown Fair.

The members then travelled their merry ways homeward, counting the days until they would meet again and once more explore the fascinating world of 4-H.

Calf Club

by John Bray

The members of Sandringham 4-H Calf Club held their third meeting at the farm of James Campbell, RR1, Moose Creek, on May 17. Club Leaders Gaetan Paquette and Rene Daoust were present. Diane Vander Weilen gave the lesson.

Frank Vander Weilen was appointed chairman. The members studied the following: (1) judging four of James Campbell's cows (2) major function of protein for an animal (3) high quality protein feed (4) calculated cattle rations.

Lunch was served by Patti and Sandra Campbell. The next meeting will be held at the farm of Gerald Jans, RR1, Moose Creek, on June 21.

Bridge results

Results of Alexandria Bridge Club the week of May 15 are as follows:

1st, Jean Forbes and Jack Raymond; 2nd, Alex Cardinal and Ray Lemieux; 3rd, Leo and Robert Lemieux; 4th, Real Vaillancourt and Roger Lemieux.

Take care mounting machinery

When you have to climb on and off your tractor frequently, it may be tempting to jump in an effort to speed things up. Don't do it! A simple fall could put you out of commission for a long time, is the warning issued in a "Farmsafe" bulletin.

Most tractors are now designed in such a manner that you can have three support points resting on the machine at all times—either two feet and one hand, or one foot and two hands. Discipline yourself mentally to always use the 3-point mounting technique.

Mud and grease can build up on steps, platforms and other walking surfaces. Such conditions set the stage for a mishap. You could even fall into a moving part on a machine such as a combine. Make it a point to always keep foot surfaces as clean and dry as possible. As an added precaution, select footwear with slip-resistant soles.

A clutter of tools or other objects on platforms, steps and walkways presents an additional, unnecessary hazard. You should be able to move about without constantly having to watch where you place your feet!

Remember, 3-point mounting and clean, uncluttered surfaces are your keys to preventing slips and falls from machinery.

In Memoriam

MICHAUD—In loving memory of a dear brother Laurier, who was accidentally killed May 31st, 1964.
Although we smile and seem carefree
Nobody misses him more than we.
By some, he may be forgotten
To others, he's part of the past
But to us, who loved and lost him
His memory will always last.
—Ever remembered by Archie Michaud and family. 22-1p

HAY—In loving memory of my beloved husband, Lloyd, who passed away June 8, 1975.
Memory is the golden bridge
That keeps my heart in touch
With all the long past yesterdays
And those I loved so much.
—Joan. 22-1p

MacDONALD—In loving memory of a dear mother and wife, Mrs. Arnold MacDonald, who passed away one year ago today, May 31, 1977.
God's golden gates stood open,
One year ago today,
With farewells left unspoken,
You quietly slipped away.
You suffered much in silence,
Your spirit did not bend,
You faced your pain with courage,
Until the very end.
You fought so hard to stay with us,
But your fighting was in vain,
God took you to His lovely home,
And freed you from all pain.
If you could have spoken before you died,
These are the words you would have replied
This life for me has truly passed,
I loved you all till the very last,
Weep not for me but courage take,
Love one another for my sake.
—Arnold MacDonald and family. 22-1p

Area sports complex opens

"We were angry when the old arena was condemned, but in hindsight it was a good thing," said Roxborough Reeve George Crites at the official opening of the Maxville and District Sports Complex Friday night.

The remark was made in passing and referred to the annoyance the people of Maxville held for government officials when their old Jubilee Rink was condemned a year-and-a-half ago. However, Friday marked the opening of a new complex incorporating both a hockey arena and a community hall.

Judging by the speeches made by the many guests at the head table all were very impressed with the community's accomplishment in completing and paying for the project.

The new complex is a far cry from the old Jubilee Rink that has already been torn down to accommodate a larger curling club parking lot.

But as old, dark, and at times, antiquated as the old arena was, virtually all of Friday's guests had a warm memory of the barn-shaped building.

Dr. Reuben Bates, provincial energy minister, recalled fond memories of just such an old rink in his home town of Chesley, Ontario. He said that modern arenas like the new Maxville complex are popping up all over Ontario and they are helping the province not only to provide youth with an athletic outlet but they are also helping produce some fine hockey stars.

"It's a fine building," he said, "and the people of Maxville and its surrounding area have something they can be very proud of."

Maxville Reeve Hubert Quart related a story of two Maxville pensioners, who in his opinion were an example of the community spirit that helped finance the project.

"These two old people," he said, "had already donated very generously towards the building fund. But the other day, just before this official opening, the two came to see me again. They asked what we had planned in the way of flowers for the front of the building and promptly presented me with a $100 bill. Now that's what I call generosity."

MPP Osie Villeneuve made the point that no matter what some of our differences may be, when a project such as this complex comes along "we can work together to get things done."

Villeneuve pointed out that the Maxville Complex was another fine example of how Wintario can be used to help community projects. The arena cost $932,000 including fixtures and furniture. Of this, $454,500 came from Wintario and $157,500 came from the Canadian Recreation Centres Act (CRCA). The CRCA is a provincial grant that is available for projects like this on a one-time basis.

Terry Kielty, general manager of radio station CFRA and president of the Ottawa Rough Riders, said that a complex such as this is vital to any town. "To many it's a home away from home."

Kielty, who opened the last Maxville Highland Games, commented that such a project "proves again that there is great heart in Glengarry and in years to come the complex may become the heart of Glengarry."

Roxborough Reeve George Crites passed another comment that proved just how much the community was behind the project. "They put the new arena up faster than they could take the old one down."

Ed MacCabe, sports writer for the Ottawa Citizen, recalled younger days as a hockey player and boxer and with his own special brand of humor said that when he finally realized he couldn't box or skate he decided to become a journalist.

MacCabe had returned to Ottawa that same afternoon after having witnessed the Montreal Canadiens beat out the Boston Bruins for the Stanley Cup. As a result some of his stories were of the Boston Gardens and how its filth, dirt and dark compared to a new and brightly lit arena such as the Maxville complex.

" 'The Basten Gadens' is what the locals call their arena," said MacCabe, but a person would have to see the place to believe it. He described it as being in an old part of the city where an individual would do well not to walk alone in the evening. Inside in the press box cobwebs hang down in front of reporters, the whole place smells of marijuana, people are passing out all over the place and a person has to step over the "winos" in the hallways.

The Maxville arena is a far cry from that kind of arena atmosphere, concluded MacCabe.

Anna Margaret MacDonald, Glengarry News editor, was the media representative at the head table.

Approximately 300 people gathered for the evening of speeches and dance with Angus H. McDonell serving as master of ceremonies for the evening.

FUNCTION OF CHIROPRACTIC

Your body is wonderful in its structure. It was designed so that you may live in it comfortably and its injuries are repaired from within. The nervous system directs and controls your body to welcome you to a more abundant living.

Anatomically the spine supports the body and encases the spinal cord from whence all nerve trunks branch out making exit through openings between the vertebra. But sometimes, due to falls and accidents, a vertebra is displaced to a degree so that nerves are pinched. This lowers resistance and disturbs function, resulting eventually in disease.

Chiropractors locate and correct this basic spinal cause, thus restoring health and welcoming a more abundant life.
