Boudria, Liberals prepare for election with nomination

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

MP Don Boudria will raise the heat against the governing Progressive Conservative Party as his bid for re-election as a Liberal candidate in his riding of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell is assured.

At the Glengarry-Prescott-Russell Liberal Association nomination meeting in St. Isidore Wednesday night, Nov. 18, Boudria will be acclaimed as the party's candidate for the riding.

Boudria said he's thankful over the fact that he will be running again for MP in his riding and wants to get down to business.

He said until Prime Minister Brian Mulroney acquires ''intestinal fortitude'' to call an election, he will be addressing issues the conservatives have been neglecting.

He wants to address the growing problem of poverty, how the collapsing GATT talks will affect Canada's trade, and the need for make-work programs.

He said the government has stalled too long in launching a make-work program to fix sidewalks, pave roads, repair bridges, and renovate federally- owned historical buildings such as the crumbling Johnson House in Williamstown.

There have been reports that the federal government is considering a large nation-wide make-work program, but Boudria said it's a year late.

He said Canadians have been asking for such a program for about a year.

And even if a make-work program is launched today, Canadians must wait until half-way into 1993 to benefit from job opportunities because most construction and road work is done during warmer seasons.

As a result, Boudria said, Canadians will have to suffer another economically gloomy winter.

After which, Canadians may be in no mood for any more let downs from the conservatives, and ready to seek revenge at the ballot box.

According to Boudria, Mulroney will probably call an election sometime after June, 1993.

The prime minister is waiting for the economy to improve as a way to boost his low popularity ratings, Boudria said, adding that Mulroney is gambling on a long-shot.

Until then, Boudria said he has plans to continue his normally hectic and active schedule.

''I'm going to continue to be very, very, very active,'' he said.

Every weekend, he attends several functions all over his 2,400 square-kilometer riding.

And he plans to continue communicating with his constituents in order to properly represent their views in Parliament.

Boudria's approach towards his constituents will most likely help him get re-elected in the next federal election.

His support in the riding is difficult to determine. Boudria said he doesn't have the budget to conduct his opinion polls in the constituency.

But there are signs that his support is high.

First of all, no one will be running against Boudria's nomination next week.

He was also acclaimed as the Liberal candidate at the 1988 riding nomination meeting.

Boudria, who was first elected MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell in 1984, was re-elected with the second highest plurality in Canada during the 1988 general election.

In 1988, he received about 74 per cent of the votes cast in his riding, second only to Mulroney who received 78 per cent of the votes cast in his home-town Quebec riding of Charlevoix.

Another indicator of Boudria's popularity is the high number of supporters votes he garnered for Oct. 26 national referendum on the Charlottetown constitutional deal, which Boudria endorsed.

Of all the ridings in Canada west of Quebec, Glengarry-Prescott-Russell had the highest plurality of ''Yes'' votes during the referendum, about 65 per cent of votes cast.

Also, a recent national opinion poll indicates that the Liberal Party of Canada is favored by 44 per cent of decided voters, compared to 17 per cent for the governing Progressive Conservatives, 18 per cent for the New Democratic Party, 13 for the Western-based Reform Party, and eight per cent towards other parties.

These figures will surely fuel enthusiasm among Liberals as they eagerly await the next federal general election.

At next week's meeting in St. Isidore, Liberals in the riding will most likely be getting a campaign-style pep talk from the guest speaker, Montreal- area MP Andre Ouellet, the co-chairman of the National Liberal Campaign Committee.

Former town resident wins from old ticket

Former Alexandria resident Brenda Martin became a multi-millionaire overnight after realizing that her one-year-old 6/49 ticket won her $6.2 million.

The ticket was bought in November, 1991, at the Tabagie St. Denis in Alexandria, a convenience store known for processing winning lottery tickets.

Martin had misplaced the ticket in a filing cabinet and found it on Thursday, one day before it was to expire.

She verifed that the ticket held a winning set of numbers, and sent her lawyer to Toronto to claim the prize.

A stunned Martin-Lavigne, 29, who moved to Cornwall a month ago, has been taking sedatives to control the shock of being an instant millioinaire.

She hasn't figured out where to spend it, but has a goal in mind.

She and her 35-year-old husband Ron, a heavy-machine operator in Quebec, are planning to take their five children, aged three to 14, out of Canada, probably into the United States.

''There, nobody knows me,'' she said.

She said her fortunes is attracting too much attention, and she would rather be left alone.

She hopes to buy a nice big house, and use the money to send her kids off to good colleges and universities.

Martin, now a full-time mom, plans to return to a career in nursing.

She said she won't let her money corrupt her family.

''I don't want to be greedy,'' she said.

Dispatching system criticized

Lack of local knowledge lost drivers: cancer victim's husband

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Recent controversy over the central emergency dispatch system has prompted an area resident to reveal his own horror stories about the system's faults.

George Hambleton of Dalhousie Mills, prompted by an editorial printed in last week's News which cite problems with the emergency dispatch system, said Monday that he too was a victim of the system.

His complaints relate to a number of instances since spring when ambulances got lost trying to find his home.

On several occasions, Hambleton called for an ambulance to bring his cancer-stricken wife to a Cornwall hospital for emergency treatment.

On all occasions, he provided the dispatcher with specific instructions as to where the house is located.

Part of the instructions included turning left on a concession road just south of the Delisle River on County Road 23.

Hambleton said ambulance drivers ignored the instructions, confused the Delisle River with the Beaudette River, and wandered somewhere near North Lancaster or Dalhousie Station, Que.

He said ambulance drivers refused to believe that the small, Concession 8 road was in fact a municipal road, since it looks so much like a driveway. They drove past the road and looked elsewhere.

In one case, a friend who was informed about the lost ambulance got in his car and drove all the way to Dalhousie Station to escort the ambulance right to Hambleton's door.

In both cases, it took the ambulance about an hour to arrive.

Directions were also a problem when an ambulance was driving his wife back home from the hospital.

They were completely lost, Hambleton said, and relied on instructions from his wife, who was vomiting while lying on a stretcher.

''The drivers don't know anything about the roads in this part of the country,'' he said.

Hambleton said some of the problems were addressed by Denis Lafond, a supervisor with the Ottawa Central Ambulance Communication Centre, which is an umbrella ambulance dispatch centre for all of Eastern Ontario.

Lafond managed to have township officials erect a sign indicating the road leading to Hambleton's home as a township road.

Hambleton said it didn't work. In subsequent calls, ambulance drivers continuned to drive past the road.

Lafond said his drivers are not at fault.

''I did everything for Mr. Hambleton,'' he said.

He said dispatchers and drivers know the countryside enough to get around, for the most part.

But he admitted that it was the dispatcher's fault when firefighters were delayed for about 15 minutes after given wrong directions to an accident on Oct. 21.

Firefighters were delayed trying to reach the scene of an Ontario Provincial Police cruiser-truck collision on the Dunvegan Road (County Road 24) in which a police officer trapped

Area farmer wins seat on OMMB

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Area dairy farmers will have a new representative looking after their industry concerns starting January.

Martintown farmer Lorraine Lapointe has become the new Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Prescott-Russell representative on the Ontario Milk Marketing Board which controls the production and sale of milk across the province.

Lapointe, informed of her win noon yesterday, ousted incumbent Gaston Levac, winning 322 votes over Levac's 121, and beating closest rival Roderick Grant from near Cornwall, by 122 votes.

The idealistic critic of past policies of the 12-member board, said she was not completely surprised with her win in the mail-in ballot election.

''I had a good feeling about it,'' she said in a telephone interview.

She believes her win is a sign that farmers — frustrated with board secrecy and lack of accountability — are not satisfied with the status quo.

''I think the board is going to realize the farmers do want change and they are serious about it.''

She was called by the board chairman, shortly after being notified of the win, congratulated, and told she has a lot of work ahead of her.

She replied: ''Yes, I know. I've been preparing myself for the last eight years and I'm ready for it.''

But she is not intimidated.

''I guess I'm going to expect that often. It guess it's just part of it, it's all part of it.''

She will take her seat on the board in January, and until then, will be busy readying herself for the tasks that lay ahead.

One of her first goals as board member will be organizing an information session by the Farm Products Marketing Commission explaining the role and mandate of the OMMB and of farmers.

Caroling parade, tree-lighting planned for chamber's 'community Christmas'

It might be far too early for most of us to begin thinking about Christmas, but the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce is already formulating plans for a community-oriented celebration.

The theme ''Christmas Comes to Glengarry'' will reflect this year's efforts by the chamber to make its annual seasonal promotion less commercial and more celebratory.

The goal, the chamber feels, is to bring the community closer together during the Christmas season and to stimulate community pride.

Central to the celebration will be a ''light up the tree'' evening on Thursday, Dec. 10, preceded by a ''candlelight and carol'' parade. Citizens from the county and their families including young children and senior citizens will be invited to sing English and French Christmas carols in a community procession to begin at the Alexandria IGA, up Main Street to the Mill Square, where the square tree will be officially lighted.

Afterwards, the parade will proceed to Champions Roadhouse parking lot where participants will be served free hot apple cider. Also, hot chocolate will be served to undoubtedly chilly carolers along the Main street parade route. A bus or buses will follow the procession so that tired or cold people can travel the route without worrying about completing it.

The chamber is in the process of contacting service clubs and choir groups throughout the county in hopes of helping with the various aspects of the parade and celebration.

Organizers are also hoping to tie the parade in with the Lions Club's annual food drive. Participants will be asked to bring a food item to the IGA at the beginning of the parade. These would be included in the baskets Lions will be distributing at Christmas.

Town officials including the police department, town council and the public utilities commission will also be sought for their assistance in organizing and obtaining the necessary approvals for the event.

And in an effort to increase community pride, the chamber will also be offering $100 prizes for the best decorated home and business in Alexandria and Green Valley, and, in a novel twist of the town's often-criticized Main Street telephone poles, a prize for the best decorated pole. Entrants can represent a business, and will be restricted to decorating the poles to a height of 14 feet with non-metallic decorations.

Window painting by the students of the high schools will be offered to the merchants once again this year.

Correction

An article on the front page of last week's edition of The Glengarry News gave the impression an administrative salary freeze was for the 1992-93 budget was passed at a meeting last Thursday. It was actually only cost-cutting measures for the 1993-94 budget which were passed at the meeting. The salary freeze actually passed at previous budget negotiations earlier in the year.

Central dispatch ambulance service criticized

in the car.

Cornwall Ambulance dispatch, which handles many of the ambulance calls for Glengarry, gave fire department dispatcher Paul Lalonde of the Alexandria Telephone Answering Service the wrong directions.

Dispatch told Lalonde that the accident was on County Road 24 east of Laggan, when instead the accident was one concession north and to the west of Highway 34.

Firefighters were becoming frustrated that they were unable to find the accident.

Lalonde eventually got the proper instructions and relayed them to the firefighters, who arrived at the scene after about 15 minutes delay.

Lafond admitted fault.

"I think it's a human error," Lafond said about the wrong directions.

Ignorance does appear to be a factor in another incident.

During the Aug. 25 fatal van and VIA Rail collision on Highway 138 near Dyer Road, the central dispatch office in Ottawa sent for the Long Sault firefighters, at least 30 kilometers southwest of the scene instead of closer firefighters.

Moose Creek firefighters, about five kilometers away, and equipped with proper extrication equipment, were called to the scene about an hour after the collision.

Moose Creek Fire Captain Red Lajeunesse said his fire department often gets overlooked when extrication equipment is needed for an accident in his area.

"I don't know why," he said, suggesting that perhaps dispatchers don't know that his department is equipped with the jaws-of-life extrication equipment.

Other nearby fire departments equipped with extrication equipment, such in Maxville, less than 10 kilometers away from the scene, or in Avonmore, about 15 kilometers away, were not called to the fatal crash at all.

OPP Sgt. Al Crocker of the Long Sault detachment said the dispatcher in Ottawa erred in calling the Long Sault department when in fact Moose Creek firefighters should have been called.

"She was unaware that Moose Creek had in fact the hydraulic jaws-of-life," said Crocker, the community services coordinator for the district.

He said since Oct. 19, dispatchers have been following new rules which ensure they call the proper fire department to the scene.

He said there should not be anymore confusion.

Also, training is being provided to dispatchers who are not familiar with the area, Crocker said.

Municipal councillors have discussed this issue and many councils in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have passed resolutions urging the Solicitor General of Ontario to have all emergency calls in the United Counties handled by a dispatch office in Long Sault.

Crocker said moving the dispatch system to Long Sault would be impossible.

He said the system, which involves expensive communication towers set up all over the region, will be too expensive to move from Ottawa to Long Sault.

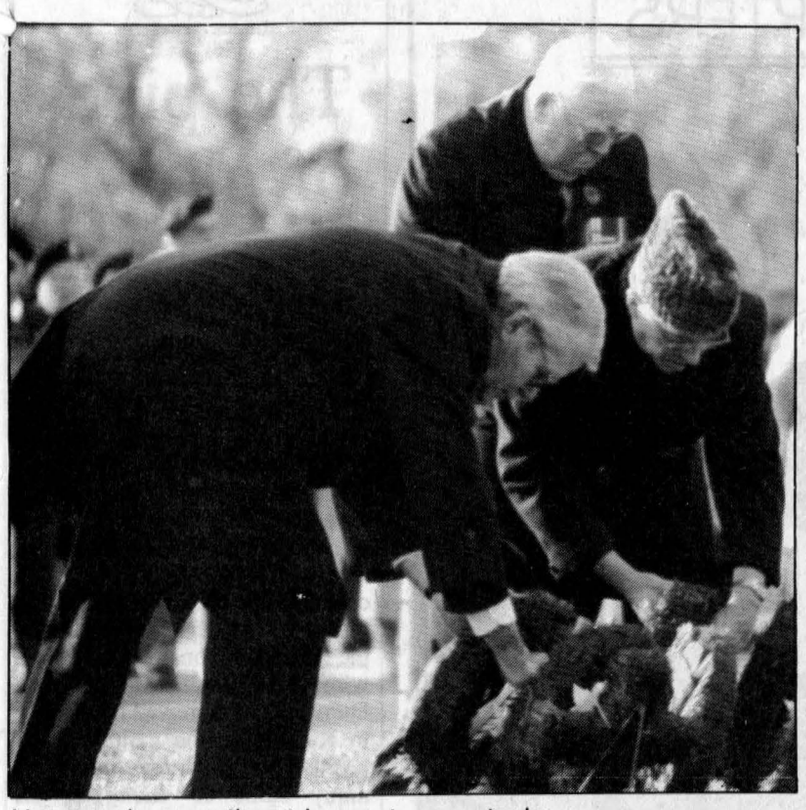
Remembrance Day honored



Veterans lay wreaths at Lancaster cenotaph.

By Andre Perrella
News reporter

Canada's war history is alive and well in Glengarry.

Veteran Duncan MacDonell said that while daily newspapers and schools all over Canada recount fewer and fewer stories about the country's heroic and often tragic experiences in past wars, Glengarry continues to keep the history alive.

Every year, Royal Canadian Legionnaires plan Remembrance Day activities all over the county and recruit participants such as school bands, pipers, air cadets, service clubs, and of course, veterans.

The News covers Remembrance Day activities every year, and often features area war veterans.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the ill-fated Dieppe Raid, The News printed a two-part series in August about Glengarrians who participated in raid in which 800 Canadian soldiers died, some from Glengarry.

Schools organized programs involving songs, prayers, lectures as to the meaning of the poppy, recitation of the World War I soldier's poem

"Flanders Field," and other projects.

Alexandria Legionnaire Raymond Charlebois and World War II veteran Frank Periard of Alexandria was scheduled to speak to Ecole Perpetuel-Secours students this morning after the school's Remembrance Day service.

School Principal Claude Brunet said the students learn not to take Canada for granted.

"What we have today is because someone had given it to us," he said.

Students have been working on projects involving the themes of remembrance and peace.

Peace is also a theme among Laggan Public School students.

Teachers Margaret Bartnikas and Wendy Shepherd coordinated the Remembrance Day activities at Laggan.

Laggan students are learning to respect the sacrifice of soldiers who died in wars, but are also learning to aim for peace.

"The children learn that the way we are searching is the way of peace," Bartnikas said.

Students have been making paper "Peace Cranes," made popular by a young Japanese girl who died of leukemia after the atomic bombing of Hiroshima in World War II.

The crane is a Japanese symbol of peace.

Before the Japanese girl died, she made and sent out paper cranes to spread the message of peace.

School children all over the world make paper cranes to commemorate the Hiroshma bombing.

Char-Lan District High School planned a simple ceremony for this morning.

Veterans have been scheduled to speak to students to give first hand accounts of life during wartime.

Principal Brian Gilmour said veterans offer students valid and important points of view of war.

"We want our students to be aware of our history and country," he said.

Naval commander Allan F. Kennedy and Alexandria Legion President Darleen Campeau. Commander Kennedy took the salute from the procession marching up Main St. following the service.

Crowd gathers for St. Andrew's concert

By Greg Kielec
News editor

About 400 people turned out to pay homage to St. Andrew, the patron saint of Scotland in a celebration of Scots Highland music in Alexandria Friday night.

"It was one of the biggest crowds we ever had," said Ken McKenna, president of the Glengarry Highland Society which organizes the annual concert.

But he added: "It was the quality of the musicians that bowled me over."

The evening featured performances by The MacCulloch Dancers, The Glengarry Strathspey and Reel Society, The Glengarry Gaelic Choir, The Children's Gaelic Choir of St. Joseph's School in Alexandria, and the Seanachies.

Also featured was piper Ken MacKenzie, a McGill University professor, Acadian fiddler Gilles Losier who accompanied famed Quebec fiddler Jean Carignan for many years, and Ralph Thompson, who accompanied The MacCulloch Dancers on their recent North American tour.

They gave rousing performances, capped off by a Ceilidh in a fictitious Glengarry kitchen, which, at its end had 40 people on stage singing and dancing to Highland music.

And there was a special appearance by famed Glengarry character Allan the Dogs, a man with a special penchant for ladies and a distasteful approach to dogs who wandered Glengarry County in years past and did odd jobs for lodging and meals.

The character, portrayed by Keith MacRae, in a bit of good-willed revisionist history, was portrayed as a dog lover for the St. Andrew's celebration and ran about on stage chasing ladies until he eventually chased a woman out the door and disappeared.

McKenna was pleased with the concert, especially the Ceilidh, led off by the impromptu appearance — neither were told they would be called to lead off the Ceilidh — of well-known Glengarry personalities Malcolm "Scotch Mac" MacRae and A. K. MacPherson.

"We worked hard on it naturally, but we left quite a bit tc chance," he said Monday.

"This was more of a celebration than a concert," he added. "Almost everything from the program was derived from the Scottish Highlands."

The concert, Friday's, was the revitalized Highland Society's fifth in recent years, and is held to promote Highland heritage and celebrate Glengarry's Highland background through music.

Money raised from the concert will fund the MOD Ontario Gaelic singing competition which, usually held in Toronto, will be held in Glengarry for the first time next year.

To commemorate Remembrance Day, the Seanachies played a song dating back to 1745 about the Jacobite Rebellion, the civil war in Scotland. The song was followed by a song about the Highland Division in World War II, The Banks of Sicily.

And to finish the evening, everyone joined together to sing in Gaelic and English, We Will Take the Good Old Way, a traditional closing song.

The song was sung in tribute to the late Angus H. McDonell, who had suggested years past that the traditional song be incorporated into Highland concerts and who played a role in the rebirth of the inactive society six years ago.

"So it was a nice way to finish the whole thing," McKenna said.

Township withdraws seniors' center plan

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Competition for leftover government funding that Alexandria hopes to claim to build a seniors support centre in town has been shortlived.

Charlottenburgh Township had entered the race in hopes of landing at least some of $450,000 announced by Alexandria Reeve Bruno Massie a few weeks ago as up for grabs.

Township Reeve Dave MacDonald's plan to cash in on the funding to build a centre in Green Valley was revealed in a newspaper article Oct. 30, following a meeting of Charlottenburgh Township council.

But MacDonald said yesterday that he has since withdrawn the plan. "At this point he (Massie) is the only proposal forward."

He said Charlottenburgh was unable to come up with a complete plan in time to qualify for the funding.

As well, problems were anticipated with the proposal to use the funds to construct a dual-use facility, a combination seniors centre and recreational centre-hall.

It was felt by counties officials that the ministry providing the funding would not approve a dual-use facility.

Massie could not be reached for comment yesterday on Charlottenburgh's pull-out.

As of Monday, he had few details about Charlottenburgh's plan, and did not even know the township had pulled out of the competition.

"I don't know if it's the same. I know he (MacDonald) is supposed to put in a proposal," he said Monday.

He added: "It's a funny thing, after the fact like that."

But he was not concerned about the possibility of competition for the funding.

"I would think (Alexandria would get it). We've been working on it long enough," he said Monday.

Massie was to meet with the counties ad hoc committee on seniors issues yesterday to discuss the town's plan, after which it would go to full Counties Council, which meets Monday and Tuesday, for approval.

The town has also overcome one potential roadblock for the proposal, a plan to build on parkland between two seniors complexes at the northeast part of town.

Concern was raised at a meeting last week about the proposal, but Massie said that calls by Clerk Leo Poirier to government departments have revealed there is no problem using the land.

According to MacDonald's plan, the centre for the township would have been located behind St. Mary's Church in Green Valley and have a price tag of $450,000.

The facility would provide services such as Meals on Wheels to residents in the north end of the township.

Twenty per cent of the project cost would be picked up by the United Counties, 70 per cent by the province and the remaining 10 per cent by the host municipality.

MacDonald said just because there is government funding available, it does not mean it should be spent frivolously.

He said it should be determined first if there is a need for a seniors centre in Alexandria.

Lancaster Township

Council Briefs

The following items were discussed by Lancaster Township council members during a public meeting Nov. 4 at the municipal hall in North Lancaster.

Soccer field funding

The provincial government has approved council's application to use part of a grant towards sewage facilities at the township's new soccer field in North Lancaster.

The Ministry of Tourism and Recreation will allow the township to use $10,000 of a $45,000 grant to build toilet facilities and a septic system near the field.

The township over-estimated the cost to build the field by about $10,000 when it applied for the grant during the spring.

Instead of returning the excess funds to the government, council had asked the government to use the excess funds for toilet facilities.

No outside nevada sales

Council members rejected an Oshawa organization's request to sell Nevada tickets in the township.

Council members said outside organizations should not be allowed to sell Nevada tickets in the township when there are already too many organizations in the township trying to raise funds.

Public meeting a no show

No one attended the township's Nov. 4 public meeting concerning a severance in Green Valley.

Andre Seguin applied to have land severed into lots of about 1,500 square feet, smaller than the required half-acre.

Exceptions are made for smaller lots if the lots are served by municipal sewage and if a public meeting is held to allow neighbors of the affected lots to express their oppostion.

Since no one attended the meeting to oppose the severance, council approved it.

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria provincial court on Nov. 5.

Glen Walter man gets four months

A Glen Walter man has been sentenced to 90 days in jail for drunk driving and an additional 30 days for driving while prohibited by the courts.

It was the third drunk driving conviction for 45-year-old Robert Seguin, who was still prohibited from driving because of his second offence when he was arrested by Lancaster OPP on Oct. 25.

Seguin's driving prohibition period was extended for another three years.

Window-breaker jailed

A 24-year-old Alexandria man was sentenced to 21 days in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of petty mischief and to having breached his probation.

Yvon Bellefeuille broke a window in an Alexandria drinking establishment on Sept. 5. Bellefeuille had been drinking at the bar even though he was prohibited from consuming alcohol or being in a licensed establishment by the terms of probation for a previous offence.

Woman fined

A 29-year-old Cornwall woman was fined $300 after pleading guilty to drunk driving.

Denise Bellefeuille was found to have twice the allowable alcohol limit in her blood when she was arrested in July.

The fine was kept at the minimum level because of Bellefeuille's limited ability to pay.

Control criminals, not the police

We can only wonder what next to expect from Ontario's NDP government.

Never mind last spring, when it announced it will be spending its way out of the recession — and then struggles to cut spending less than a year later. Never mind that it passes the strongest anti-business legislation in North America, Bill 40, in the midst of the worst recession in provincial history since the Great Depression.

Now it's unnecessarily toying with Ontario's police forces and the regulations governing use of firearms. And on the other hand is considering giving them bigger, deadlier weapons to help them fight crime.

This is a government in disarray, still taking toddler's steps when it should be ending adolescence.

Look around. Should our police forces be asked to quietly agree to any regulation these days that would give them cause to delay drawing their firearm? Do our police officers abuse these tools of their job? No to both questions!

The government wants to pass a law which would force an officer to fill out a report each and every time they draw their gun. This suggests that police have previously been acting irresponsibly and have drawn (and used?) firearms unnecessarily. The regulation assumes police are now endangering the public.

The province's police — including local OPP and Alexandria officers — have justifiably launched a protest to fight this belief and these regulations. They have been wearing blue ribbons and baseball caps in symbolic protest, visable reminders to the public that this is a law it should help stop.

At the same time, the government is reviewing a longstanding request by the province's police officers for semi-automatic weapons and hollow-point bullets. Police say increased firepower would help them catch up to criminals, many of whom have more powerful and more modern weapons than those routinely issued to police.

The Solicitor-General's office appears to be taking this seriously, but more than one observer has pointed out the government's contradiction; ''On one hand they talk about excessive force and then they talk about increasing firepower,'' said Robert Dawson, chair of the police committee of the National Capital Alliance on Race Relations.

Indeed, the increased firepower is of little value if the weapon remains holstered in a situation where instinct tells a police officer otherwise, because he or she ponders the paperwork back at the office. It is this instinct — evolved from the combination of training and experience — that the province is eroding by introducing these rules.

Chamber initiatives in the right direction

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce has come up with a unique way of turning one of the town's liabilities — the hazardous and ugly telephone poles on Main Street — into an asset; encourage the community to ''adopt'' them, and decorate the bottom 14 feet of each in time for Christmas.

It's a novel idea and one that warrants full and spirited participation by individuals and organizations. Each pole will be judged and the best decorated pole receives $100. Sounds like fun!

If the PUC can erect the lamp decorations sooner (and please, check the bulbs before those candles go up on the poles) and the community responds the way the chamber hopes, the town should be a pretty spot to stop and shop this season.

Complimenting the pole decoration is a ''Light up the Tree' evening on Dec. 10, where citizens and their families will be invited to join in a bilingual carolling parade along Main Street to Mill Square where the town's traditional tree will be lit. Prizes will also be awarded to the town's business and homeowners who have the best decorated home or business.

It's all part of an effort by the chamber to put spirit and warmth back into Christmas. In previous years, its resources went toward selling coupon or draw tickets promotions to businesses, aimed at keeping shoppers home. Those were worthy pursuits, but the return on the time and energy that went into it did not always justify the volunteer efforts of the chamber members. Some of them were in fact harshly criticized for their efforts at trying to improve business in town.

This year, the focus is on community, and the chamber has some excellent plans. It will be up to each of us to make them the success they deserve to be.

Who will protect Remembrance Day?

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

He stood, guided by the gentle hands of those who wore the poppy and beret.

The introduction was short, in typical military efficiency, but the 200 or more spectators present knew they were witnessing a moment worthy of attention, of silence, of respect.

Bill Williamson, WW 1 veteran, recited ''In Flanders Fields,'' and despite the burden of his 96 years, did so without missing a word. His voice was firm, and the Scottish brogue echoed across the hill from the loudspeakers, past the color party, past the band, past the youngsters gathered there, into the ears of the WW 2 and Korean War veterans he saw in front of him. They knew the words too, some saying it silently to themselves, others still contemplating those memories of family and friends who did not grow old as they who knew them grew old.

Bill Williamson rendered a service. Again.

He sat, as quietly as he had stood. No fanfare. No speeches. No applause. The ceremony continued.

Everyone allowed themselves the luxury of a quick shuffle to warm the feet and hands. Soon, the bugler valiantly tried to play 'The Last Post' but the cold appeared to freeze up the trumpet, the bugler's lips, or both. To the left of the cenotaph, one of the honor guards dropped to her knee, feeling faint from the requirement of standing rod-straight.

They were glitches, to be sure, but they did not mar the moment. In fact, combined with Bill Williamson's recital, the moment spoke about the hardship of doing duty, and the tiny imperfections that always seem to get in the way at the wrong moment.

Maybe, just maybe, it's a thought lost on Nov. 11, a casualty of our need to want our veterans to be perfect John Wayne war heroes. In fact, there are veterans who never saw action who were wounded before they engaged in combat. There are those who made mistakes in war and in life, and live with them still in these sunset years. Others now know the real truth — that being gut-wrenching afraid at certain moments was — is — completely natural and entirely human.

Collectively, however, they share the process of aging, and face each Remembrance Day ceremony with the knowledge that there will be fewer of them each year to ensure their comrades sacrifice will not fade into the recesses of time like an old dream.

This is where the honest fear needs to be channelled. And that has to translate into a broad concern that interest, attendance and participation in a day devoted to people who died in their youth, is marked by people living in their youth.

Remembrance Day is too meaningful to allow it to die with the last living vet. Just ask Bill Williamson.

Writing a column a mental game

News to me
by Greg Kielec

It is a funny thing when one goes to write a column, but one can think of a column not.

It is a mental game, a game of intimidation, staring down a dark black abyss called a computer screen, hopefully into submission.

It is the same routine every time. The time it takes to win the battle is the only thing to change.

It is in times like this that friend suddenly becomes foe, that normally innocuous happenings suddenly become computer schemings, to render the person at the keyboard inoperable.

For some reason, as human beings stuck in a inanimate world, it seems necessary to personnify the apparati we deal with on a daily basis, and heralding our newfound mastery of such apparati at every twist and turn.

We tally the conquests — one more for humankind — as we continue to prove the superiority of the human race over supposedly smarter and more efficient machines.

Everyone is prone to using personnification to add a human tone to what has become a very inhuman world.

They sweettalk their cars, coaxing them into operation on frosty winter mornings. They curse at golf balls that take off in a direction other than desired.

Sailors are especially open about their weakness of giving human qualities to inanimate objects, referring to their vessels as ''she'', giving them names, and treating them as if they were living entities.

So the least I can do is have a good fight with my trusty IBM clone once in a while.

And if you don't see my column in next week, you'll know what happened.

Just look on my desk, into that dark, black abyss called a computer screen. I'll be there.

You can't win them all.

Computer sales: The games people play

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham

The garden path. The cleaners. For a ride. Maybe even up the creek. Swampland in Florida. At wit's end.

I love to travel. How nice that when a friend recently asked me to help her find a good, reasonably inexpensive home computer, we were offered the opportunity to visit so many different places.

It takes me longer than that to spend $10 at the hardware store . . .

We quickly discovered that unlike the travel and real estate industries, it's not a buyer's market for people looking to purchase home computers. Moreover, it's one of the areas where the idioms such as ''buyer beware'' and ''look before you leap'' can be well applied.

My friend announced her plans to purchase a computer — one small enough that it would not crush her kitchen table, she said — in much the same manner as you or I would announce we're going out to buy some vise grips. She wanted one by 5:30 that evening.

It takes me longer than that to choose vise grips.

So I was somewhat relieved when she took an immediate liking to a complete personal computer system all set up in the window of the first store we visited.

Is there a code among computer salespeople that they canot use words defined in Webster's Dictionary?

The salesman said the store carried many PCs, including PS1s, P/S.2s and SXs. We could choose from the E11, E43, R82, 2133, 2125, 2121, but it all depended on how many K we'd be needing. And did we want a VGA or SVGA? Would we need two megs of RAM? Eighty megs on the hard disk? Then there were the VRAMs, ROMs, IMGs, DOSs and even an MS with windows, and he gave us all of three heartbeats to absorb everything before leading us over to a system and saying, ''This one comes with a mouse.'' Eeeek.

The screen was dark, the machine inactive. It could have been dead, killed by the virus we'd need a special and costly program to cure.

When the salesman leaned toward the ''on'' switch, my friend went out to buy a pack of gum. She figured my two semesters in the computer science department at university had prepared me for this moment. I felt like the lone hand in a high-stakes euchre game.

Menus, options and pages flipped past at a dizzying pace and my tutorial ended abruptly with the proud announcement that this particular model came with a fitness program. Not for the user, for the computer. So it could stay healthy. So it wouldn't catch that little virus and keel over on its sockets. This little fellow could stay home all alone, and then through program swapping or telephone communications, could get sick in much the same way humans can through unprotected sex.

Someone, somewhere, has a perverse sense of humor.

Shop and learn . . . But if we learned anything, we learned that you've got to have some idea of what you need before you lay down the cash. And shopping around is a good way to learn. While the salespeople may not be dishonest, they may not know your needs. Or they may try to push a system that's crowding the warehouse shelves. Or they may even tell you little white lies to get you to buy the bigger, more expensive model. For example, they may tell you IBM's toll-free help-line is only available to people who buy the biggest computer in the store. IBM,

The pipes of glory

Part 2

Highland Paths
by Ken McKenna

''To the making of a piper goes seven years and seven generations.'' Last week we talked of the great MacCrimmon family of pipers and their College of Piping at Boreraig on the Isle of Skye, where, for 300 years, the art of ceòl mòr, the classical music of the pipes, was taught. Around 1800, the MacCrimmons had a dispute with their Chief, MacLeod of Dunvegan, and moved to Glenelg in Kintail, on the mainland opposite Skye, and a few years later many came to Glengarry in Canada. The clan system had died in 1746 at Culloden and the chiefs no longer felt that bond of kinship which had been the strength of the Highland way of life. They had become simply landlords, and mostly cruel and avaricious ones who no longer cared for their clansmen.

''But while the grass grows green on the spot where the college stood, the memory of these master musicians is enshrined in the ancient traditions of the Island, in the MacCrimmon compositions preserved and played today — the fame of the MacCrimmons will never die as long as the memory of them remains, and the honor due to these Kings of Pipers will be enshrined in the music they left behind them.'' (The Pipes of War — Sir Bruce Seton and P/M John Grant.)

MacCrimmon Will Never Return

That most touching of all laments, Cha Till MacCrumein (ha cheel MacCroomine) MacCrimmon Will Never Return — was composed by Donald Ban MacCrimmon before he marched off with his Chief to die in one of the early battles of the '45. It is particularly appropriate that on this date, November 11, 1992, we remember with pride and respect the thousands of young men who died in the many wars that blighted history. In the First World War, 1914-1918, over 500 pipers were killed leading the troops ''over the top.''

Often the pipes could not even be heard over the roar of battle but just the sight of a lone piper striding braveley ''with his face to the foe,'' as the Gaelic saying has it, was enough to inspire his comrades to follow. But the casualties among pipers so shocked the military establishment that they were eventually forbidden to lead the men into action. The ancient heroism of another day was no match for machine guns. An entire generation of pipers was buried in the mud of France and Flanders. After the First World War there were very few pipers left in Glengarry.

This is a poem from that War, written by E. A. Macintosh:

Cha Till MacCrumein
The pipes in the street were playing bravely,
The marching lads went by,
With merry hearts and voices singing
My friends marched out to die
But I was hearing a lonely pibroch
Out of an older war
''Farewell, farewell, farewell MacCrimmon
MacCrimmon comes no more.''

And every lad in his heart was dreaming
Of honor and wealth to come
And honor and noble pride were calling
To the tune of the pipes and drum
But I was hearing a woman singing
On dark Dunvegan shore,
''In battle or peace, with wealth or honor,
MacCrimmon comes no more.''

And there in front of the men were marching
With feet that made no mark,
The old grey ghosts of the ancient fighters
Come back again in the dark
And in front of them all MacCrimmon piping
A weary tune and sore
''On the gathering day, for ever and ever,
MacCrimmon comes no more.''

Victim hurt by councillor's comments

To the editor:

I have been moved to write following a story in The Glengarry News last week covering Alexandria Council's discussion and humorous dismissal of a request for funding or assistance from a chapter of a Chronic Fatigue Syndrome support group.

I can understand council's reservations to support this charity or any other in this time of restraint, however, their trivial treatment of a serious illness is a major slight to those of us who deal with it on a daily basis.

I can forgive your ignorance on a medical subject but trivializing an illness which causes so much pain and suffering to patients of Chronic Fatigue Syndrome and their families is wrong. Speaking as someone who has been sick with this illness for close to nine years and values their community, the comments hurt. I would suggest never belittling anyone's illness or misfortune until you "have walked a mile in their shoes."

Mr. McDougall's offhand remark pertaining to the illness, "I have that all the time," is a comment patients often hear, or, "I think I have what you have" after several weeks of poor health. This is a chronic condition and for most of us not a day goes by when we don't suffer some form of neurological or flu-like symptoms which accompany this illness. A man your age, Mr. McDougall, with chronic fatigue syndrome, and I have met many for this illness has no age boundaries, would take great exception to your remarks suggesting that men your age should be considered as people with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome. Individuals that are legitimately sick are not simply experiencing the aging process when they can't walk around the block, maintain their balance, or play with their grandchildren.

I am one of the lucky ones who has recovered to the degree to lead some semblance of a "normal life," my limited energy supply is reserved for work and homelife, and I must admit I have to cut corners in both regards. It has been frustrating, but one learns to persevere with support of family and close friends. There are good days when I am convinced that I am about to overcome this mysterious ailment and there are bad days when all the emotions come forth and I recall the first three years when doctors couldn't figure out what was wrong and my body told me something was terribly wrong. Your comments brought forth one of those days.

My wife, Laurie and I, moved home from Ottawa after I was ill because of a need for a supportive family and community. Council's treatment of the group's request for funds cannot be considered supportive.

A second comment also attributed to Mr. McDougall in the News story also struck home, "If you don't put your town citizenry first, no one else will." People in your town, community-minded people, get sick with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Alzheimer's, Multiple Sclerosis, Lupis, etc. and through your donations toward research a cure may be found and these people will return to being the productive people they want to be. You only have to look around your own council table to see living proof of this.

As someone who is ill, praying for a cure, I can only hope your attitude is in the minority and that other municipalities and individuals adopt a more global perspective. I promise you I'll be the first volunteer out there on the Alexandria soccer fields and ice rinks if my health returns.

In closing I know the comments were not intended to offend anyone but would encourage council and Mr. McDougall to educate themselves on the debilitating effects of Chronic Fatigue Syndrome. It's not a laughing matter.

Sincerely,
Brian Filion,
First of Kenyon.

Syndrome no laughing matter

To the editor:

Based on your report in last week's "Council Briefs," members of Alexandria's Town Council gave the public the impression that Chronic Fatigue Syndrome was a laughing matter.

For the record, here are just a few symptoms of chronic fatigue: headaches, depression, cold sweats, disrupted sleep patterns, memory loss, a consistent feeling of tiredness and a diminished quality of life.

Are the above symptoms funny?

After hearing a request from a group supporting research into Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Archie McDougall commented sarcastically "I have that all the time." This so called "humorous comment" truly belittles this serious disease.

The second comment made by Councillor McDougall was equally as puzzling as his initial one. Mr. McDougall, who favored council's decision to turn down the group's request was also quoted as saying "If you don't put your town citizenry first, no one else will." Little did he realize that several citizens of Alexandria have been hurt by this disease. In fact, at least three families from the town have been adversely affected by this syndrome.

I can't help but wonder why, at least one member of council didn't realize that it was wrong to ridicule a disease. I sincerely hope that we would all agree, that disease of any kind is no laughing matter.

Since this story was reported several councillors have claimed that they "just didn't realize" the seriousness of Chronic Fatigue Syndrome.

Fine, but is ignorance an excuse for further ignorance?

Councillors may want to reconsider their attitude and ultimately their decision regarding this syndrome. The day may come when someone they know will be debilitated by a serious disease — will they be laughing?

David Filion,
Loch Garry

Public comments made in poor taste

To the editor:

Re: Council Briefs, Nov. 4, 1992 issue.

Not only was the poor attempt at humor displayed by some members of the Alexandria Town Council in exceptionally poor taste, but their ignorance of Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (a.k.a. Myalgic Encephalomyelitis, M.E.) was equalled only by that of the Glengarry News representative who reported the story in what was probably meant to be a light manner.

May I suggest: 1) education — consult with the Nightingale Research Foundation, 3) Danforth Ave., Ottawa, Ont. K2A 0E1; 2) Compassion; 3) prayers of gratitude to God that neither you, nor any of your loved ones suffer from this debilitating and mysterious illness; and 4) an apology to any readers who have been hurt by this very tactless public report.

Sincerely,
F. C. MacDonald,
J. I. McDonell

Naturalist club offering 'bat' news

To the editor:

Many of us are badly informed or unappreciative of BATS, so here are some points to ponder:

Helicopters have found, by radar, bats flying two miles high and at 65 mph.

Bat heart beats, during flight, rise to 1,300 per minute.

Bats are the only true flying mammal and, in the case of Australia's flying foxes — fruit bats, have a wingspan of five feet.

Bats hibernate in caves during the winter and the largest colonies reach 20 million which means when they are active they'd eat 100,000 lbs. of insects nightly.

Bats do not get into women's hair, their echo location is too efficient. Human hearing depends on air vibes up to 20,000 per second but bats use supersonic, up to 90,000 per second and catch their prey, mostly moths, by hearing their echoes (Doppler effect) and even change the pitch as they home in on a moth.

Female bats can hold the sperm viable in their oviduct for up to seven months thereby selecting the most optimum time for birth of their single baby.

Some moths have co-evolved with bats and can jam their radar since they have a series of thorax grooves that confound the bats echo location with the noise their grooves produce.

Do you want more fascinating bat news, then come and join with Catharine Traill Naturalists next Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at Macdonald College, Raymond Bldg. R2-045, Nov. 17. If you need transportation call 525-5455.

Yours sincerely,
George McKiel,

Computer games people play

when asked, will tell you that's not true.

It's helpful to know how many programs you think you'll use, how much memory you'll need, whether or not you'll need a color monitor, whether it would be worth a bit more cash to buy a machine that processes information extremely quickly, or whether you want your computer to communicate with other people's computers. You wouldn't buy a race horse to go for lazy Sunday afternoon rides, or a tractor-trailer truck to take the kids to school, right?

Consider the warranty. Many companies offer two years, which is good, as long as the company exists two years from now. You've got to wonder why one major manufacturer backs up some of its products with only a one-year warranty.

My friend and I were contemplating the PCs, P/Ss, Ks and R82s, when the salesman reappeared, carrying something in a white plastic bag. "Don't forget your complimentary 7Up," he said.

"Ah geez, what do we do with that?" my friend asked, her voice taking on the shrillness of a woman who's just seen a muddy dog slide across her freshly washed floor.

"You drink it," he said, and handed over the bottle of pop.

We called it a day.

Police charge young offender

Alexandria police arrested and charged a young offender in connection with two incidents early Monday morning.

Police arrested a 16-year-old Alexandria male and charged him with break-and-enter, theft, and being in possession of instruments used to break-into buildings.

The youth was arrested near the site of a break-in at a Main Street South business at around 2 a.m.

He was charged in connection with the break-in, and in connection with a theft from a parked truck, from which a bow-and-arrow set and binoculars were stolen.

The youth is to appear in court in Alexandria sometime in December.

Car theft

Two young offenders were arrested and charged in Cornwall after a 1991 Mazda Miata was stolen in Alexandria early Monday morning.

The sports car, with keys inside, was stolen from a Park Street residence sometime overnight Sunday.

Police arrested two young offenders in Cornwall and charged them with being in posession of the car.

The car was undamaged.

Hockey gear

About $1,400 worth of hockey equipment was stolen from a shed in Alexandria sometime in the past two weeks.

A lock to a Kenyon Street West shed was broken sometime since late October and items such as skates and pads were stolen.

Cash stolen

About $2,000 in cash was stolen when an Alexandria business was broken into overnight Tuesday.

A surveillance camera was also stolen, a photocopy machine was broken, and paper was strewn on the floor after a window latch was forced open to a Main Street South business.

Police Briefs

Phone theft

A $1,100 cellular phone was stolen at an Alexandria work-site Tuesday.

The theft occurred sometime between 3 and 11 p.m. when an electrical contractor was working at a St. George Street factory.

He placed his tool-pouch, where the phone was kept, on the ground as he worked around the factory.

He discovered the phone missing when he returned to the pouch for some tools.

Electronics stolen

More than $1,000 worth of communications equipment and electronic goods were stolen during a burglary in Charlottenburgh Township last week.

A satellite receiver, a video descrambler, an antenna controller and receiver, a VCR and a stereo equalizer were stolen when a Purcell Road home was broken into sometime during the evening on Nov. 3.

The house was entered by force, but police reports do not indicate the exact means of entry.

Guitars stolen

More than $1,000 worth of goods including two acoustic guitars were stolen during a Sunday evening burglary in the Martintown area.

A stereo, telephone and cassette deck were stolen after forced entry was gained into the residence from the basement.

Crime fighters

Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers received a financial boost from two Glengarry business leaders last week. Ronald Masson (left) of Masson Insurance, Dave MacDonald of Dave's Reliable Signs, gave a cheque totalling $1,600 to Crime Stoppers Co-ordinator and Ontario Provincial Police Const. Dave McDonald and Crime Stoppers board member Jean-Marc Boisvenue Thursday afternoon in front of the Crime Stoppers van, which was parked in front of the Masson Insurance office building in Alexandria.

Illegal hunting targeted

Hunting deer at night with the aid of powerful spotlights, commonly referred to as "jacklighting," is a common practice used by poachers to hunt.

The lights shine across fields, hypnotizing the animal, making it an easy target for a shooter.

If anyone you know is approached by persons seeking to buy or sell wildlife, you should immediately become suspicious. This activity is illegal.

Conservation officers and local police cannot be everwhere. They rely on information about suspected wildlife poaching from the public.

If you know of any illegal hunting activities, please call Crime Stoppers or the Ministry of Natural Resources in Cornwall.

You chould receive up to $1,000 reward if your information leads to an arrest.

Crime Stoppers can be reached at 534-TIPS, that's 534-8477, or toll-free at 1-800-265-TIPS.

The Cornwall office of the Ministry of Natural Resources can be reached at 933-1774.

Christmas spirit lacking

Goodwill did not exactly abound during discussion about how people will be invited to the town of Alexandria's Christmas banquet this year.

What began as curiosity over who will be invited and how, turned into a no holds-barred argument last Tuesday between Councillor Francine Richer and Reeve Bruno Massie, acting mayor for the meeting.

Richer had suggested formal invitations be sent out to avoid having uninvited people at the party this year. It also would leave people no doubt of whether or not they are invited, she said.

Massie, however, insisted that a motion made by him at a previous council meeting indicating who should be allowed attendance is sufficient.

Pestered by Richer to answer whether invitations were sent out, he heatedly replied: "Nobody was given anything."

Richer immediately quipped: "So we can expect many people then."

Not to be outdone, Massie replied: "Don't scare us or we can cancel the thing before it takes effect."

Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly suggested a memo be sent to all town department heads indicating who is able to attend the party, a suggestion not taken well by Massie.

"What is wrong with that (his resolution). Do you accept (it)?"

But Richer replied that the resolution is not enough. "We know, but do the others know?"

Massie, however, did not think that would be a problem.

"I think people should know enough that they don't go somewhere they are not invited."

He also said that those coming to the party without an invitation will have to pay their own way.

Writers tell about new area guide book

By Greg Kielec
News editor

It was supposed to be Sand, Dust and Gravel. It ended up being titled Bowering's Guide to Eastern Ontario.

It is just one of the tales behind the historical book edited by Ian Bowering of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Historical Society, and authored by area writers.

Bowering and the book's authors were at a Glengarry Historical Society meeting Thursday to explain what went into the work and to give an overview of the almost 120 pages of the work dedicated to Glengarry County.

Glengarry County is tackled in the first three chapters of the 300-page book. They include chapters called The Perch Route, The Fur Trade Route and Glengarry Highland Roads.

Emily Madsen, a former Glengarry resident who wrote the Highland Roads section, said she decided early on that she would have to capture the spirit of Glengarry — its link to the church to explain the essence of the county to readers.

Talking to a full house at the Church on the Hill in Alexandria, she said much of the past and present spirit of Glengarry can be found in its churches.

So she made the religious link her focus, visiting as many churches as possible, church cemeteries, and read various works by parishioners.

The St. Andrew's United Church, the Dulwich House, an 1845 late regency cottage across from Martintown Public School, the St. Raphaels Ruins, John Sandfield MacDonald's birthplace, Maxville and its Highland Games and the places in between are all highlighted in the trip along the Highland Roads.

The fur trade route, described by writer Pat McKenna and shown through slides to historical society members, focuses on different points of the trade, starting at the Fur Traders' Warehouse in Lachine and ending at St. Andrew's West.

McKenna also focused on churches along the route, such as the first Presbyterian church in Upper Canada, built in Williamstown for Rev. John Bethune and what is now the parish hall in St. Andrew's West, which was one of the first stone churches built in Upper Canada.

Bowering said the book attempts to be "historical as well as ancedotal", terming the style of the work — a compilation of fact and fiction — to "bite-size history."

"(It is) fact and fiction, tall tales and not so tall tales."

The book was originally to be 200 pages. But, overwhelmed with material, he said it had to be expanded to 300 pages and could have even been increased to 400.

He was offered the task of doing the book, after complaining to its publishers about inaccuracies in another historical works published recently, but turned the offer down.

He instead decided to see if members of the Tri-County Writers Guild would be interested in doing a collaborative effort, with a different writer for each area and chapter of the book.

And it was the writers guild members to whom he gave credit for the completion of the work.

"All I did was suggest the idea and they took it from there," he said.

In the guide's preface, Bowering says: "The book does not presume to be a comprehensive history or guide to the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

"Rather it is a primer to the material, culture and heritage waiting to be discovered in the course of seven day trips I hope will stimulate your (the reader's) curiosity."

Members of Tri-County Writers Guild were in Alexandria Thursday night at a Glengarry Historical Society meeting, to talk about the Glengarry portion of a new historical tourist guide on Eastern Ontario. Pictured front l-r with the books and promotional placard are writers Rosemary Rutley and Glenda Eden. Back l-r are Eileen Cunningham, Emily Madsen, Pat MacKenna and book editor Ian Bowering of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Historical Society.

Reeve refuses challenge

Reeve Bruno Massie has turned down a challenge by Councillor Jacques Lajoie to pay his way at the town's annual Christmas dinner and party to save the town money.

Massie caused waves recently when he offered to pay his ticket to the annual Lions club sports award dinner to save the town money, and urged other council members to do the same.

Lajoie, at a recent meeting, quizzed Massie on his intentions after a report by the reeve stating this year's Christmas celebration will cost the town $2,460.

"I'm just asking if you're going to pay for your supper," quipped Lajoie, not interested in hearing all the minor details of the annual do.

"Not if the others don't," retorted Massie, obviously taken aback by the challenge.

He said the finance committee felt everyone has worked hard and deserves one free dinner, work which Lajoie noted that council members are all paid quite well for.

"You set the standard last time," Lajoie continued, prodding the reeve.

Massie disagreed. There was no standard set last time, he replied.

Both Mayor Touchette and Richer sided with Massie, saying the Lion's dinner and the annual Christmas party are two different occasions and cannot be compared.

Just a plane nightmare

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

I dream a lot — daydreams, nightdreams, and, occasionally, nightmares. Some of these dreams are actually productive and some are downright silly, (Munchausen, Magritte and Bosch in collaboration), but only one of them ever recurs. And it is the most frightening one of them all. In it I am standing in my house, doing something ordinary, when I hear a loud noise. I rush to the window and see a large plane which appears to be headed straight for my house. I run to the front door and then stop. Should I instead go out the back way? I run to the back. Where will the plane hit? I run to the front, then back to the back. I can't decide! And all the while the plane is getting closer and the noise louder. I always wake before the crash, of course, inevitably to find that the noise was caused by some hero doing donuts in the arena parking lot. But the thumping heart and the clammy skin remain with me for quite a while.

Imagine, then, the way I felt last Wednesday when my nightmare was replayed in broad daylight. I was doing something ordinary, washing the dishes in fact, when I heard the noise. I ran to the window and there it was — a large plane seemingly headed straight for my house. Unlike my dream, however, I made a split second decision: out the front door! The plane flew on and I cringed, expecting to hear a crash at any moment. But what was this? The plane appeared to gain altitude and then it seemed to be circling. It was coming back!

On its second run over my house, I became convinced it was trying to land in the Char-Lan High School soccer field. After all, a glider had come down there about ten years ago, so what was to stop a jet doing the same thing? My house, that's what! Terror again! Out the front door again! But on and on the big bird flew.

Eventually, after the third or fourth ''fly-over'' I became calmer — even kamikazes don't inflict terror after one becomes convinced they haven't got the nerve — and during the sixth and final run, I finished doing the dishes.

Then began the hunt for information, and with it the speculations: The plane was burning off fuel; a pilot was being trained (eek!); a pilot was dipping over our schools to wave to his brother, nephew, cousin, son; an engine was being tested. It appears the latter was the reason for our thrills, but I will leave the details up to our hard news reporters.

In any case, many readers have expressed their concerns that such tests should: a) be done in our backyards; b) be done almost directly over two schools containing approximately 650 students and staff; c) be done without prior notification to residents.

If you are concerned that such a test flight has happened and/or might happen again, you may write to the following: Trans-Canada Aviation Safety, Mr. Ken Trethewey, Director of Compliances, 4900 Yonge St., Suite 204, Toronto, ON M2N 6A5.

For me, it was a learning experience. If I ever have my nightmare again, I'll just go out the front door!

Ladies, this one is for you, so fast forward, men. On Nov. 29, when nothing will wrench the lads away from the Grey Cup Game, we can have our own bit of entertainment. On that day, which is a Sunday, at 1:30 p.m., the Char-Lan DHS Heritage Committee is presenting a ''Healthy Holiday Cooking'' class in the high school cafetorium. Instruction will be by Wilma's Kitchen, and you will learn to make hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and other specialties for the Christmas season.

Included in the $10 ticket cost will be refreshments and door prizes. Tickets are available from committee members, by calling Soni Sandilands (347-2669), or at the door.

And men, if you are still surreptitiously reading and licking your lips, you are most welcome too!

If you take in the cooking class and if you participated in the last Green Thumbs meeting, why then you'll be all set for Christmas entertaining.

At the Green Thumbs meeting which drew a surprisingly good crowd considering it was Referendum Night in Canada, members and guests learned the art of flower arranging from Wendy McRae Rozon.

Despite the one little handicap of making arrangements at this time of the year (practically no flowers!), Wendy whipped up some most interesting table arrangements out of odds and ends of the garden, spicing them up with herbs, dried flowers and weeds. Did you know that sage, in particular, lends flavor to an arrangement? And that poison parsnip, dried, and tarted up with golden sprinkles, looks very festive?

Henry Hore presented a video showing four members' gardens, with more to be seen at a future meeting.

Hostesses Estelle Laporte, Ruth Bache, Wendy Rozon and Georgina Mitchell served refreshments, while Bridget Grice and Elsa Hore were proclaimed prize-winning brewmasters, following the judging of the members' monthly activity.

It's official! Sarah McDonald, daughter of D. J. and Penny, has won herself a scholarship, valued at $1,000, and payable when she reaches high school in a few years time. Sarah's name was drawn at the Cornwall store in September.

It just goes to show that filling out those forms for draws is worth it after all!

Talking to people offering vacation scams is not worth it, though. Last night it was my turn to be offered a wondrous holiday in the Laurentians, complete with skiing, horseback riding, swimming, etc., which I supposedly won by answering Canada's age.

''Wade,'' or so the voice identified himself, paused briefly in his spiel to ask, ''And how does it sound so far, Mrs. Harrington?'' Wrong move, Wade.

''Not very good,'' I replied, ''I'm bedridden.''

''What's that?,'' countered the scamster, no doubt running his eyes down a list of expected client responses.

''I can't walk,'' I continued, ''so you see it wouldn't be any good for me.''

''Oh, sorry!'' said Wade, just a hint of sympathy creeping into this totally unrehearsed part of his script. ''Sorry!''

The Glengarry Community Club's potluck dinner held Oct. 28, was very successful, reports Reta Heath, with lots of prizes won and everyone enjoying the movie, Father of the Bride.

Among the lucky winners were Ileen Latreille, Rita Lauzon, Jackie Taillon, Alda Major, and Clarice MacPherson and Edna Edmunds who each won twice.

Alda Major was also the winner of the blanket, donated by Mary Rose Pilon, proving the adage, ''You give some, you get some.'' Alda was the donor of delicious home-made candy won by Donald MacGregor, Ileen Latreille, Edith Abrams, and Kenny Goudie. And Mary Rose was the winner of a Halloween tea towel donated by Pat Masson.

Clarice MacPherson won a lovely flower arrangement made by Dorothy Croll, while Olive McCreary won a prize for best Halloween costume.

With the O'Connells now moved into their brand new house just outside the village on the Johnson Road, a new family has come to Williamstown.

Welcome to John and Deanna Perjul, formerly of Pincourt, Quebec, who are giving country living a try. The Perjul family also includes William, Jo-Anna (at Char-Lan) and Brian, a pupil at Williamstown Public.

Catharine MacDougall has enlisted me to help her thank the many, many friends and neighbors who were so good to her on the occasion of her recent birthday. Catharine says she's ''overwhelmed'' by it all, and that the good wishes are still pouring in. ''People are wonderful,'' says Catharine.

The arena will be a busy place next weekend, Nov. 19-22, as Char-Lan Minor Hockey hosts its peewee, bantam, and midget travelling team tournaments all at one go!

You are all welcome to come along, take in the games, and do some cheering for the home teams.

Sorry again for some things I did last week in the column. I believe you may have thought Rev. Evans was going to perform communion at our Horticulture meeting, and I had margarine not butter in my recipe for scones (and here I am in a dairy community) that deserves three slaps to the wrist.

Sylvia Thomson forgot to tell me that the ingredient that made the scones so good was the butter.

St. Andrew's United Church

I have learned since my last column that changes were made to that scone recipe too so I will do a revised edition:

Scones

2 cups flour, 1/2 tsp. baking soda, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup butter, *1 cup raisins or currants that have been plumped, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 egg yolk (reserve egg white for brushing on top), 1/2 cup sour cream, 1/2 cup milk.

Cut butter into dry ingredients. Add to your dry ingredients the plumped raisins, vanilla, milk and sour cream. Mix. Roll out one inch thick, cut out and brush with slightly beaten egg white. Sprinkle lightly with sugar. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 375°F for 15 minutes or until golden brown.

*Raisins or currants that have soaked in hot water for an hour, or if in a hurry put in a saucepan and bring to a simmer; then drain and pat dry with a paper or tea towel.

Last week's column was so rushed after the tea that I forgot to mention that multi-talented Sylvia Thomson decorated the side entrance. The beautiful table setting with the shortbread, scones, tarts and oatcakes, etc. the knickknacks on the bookcase and the kilt, bagpipes and jacket, placed on the chair all set off with the Royal Stewart Drape as a backdrop; it really set the scene.

I missed the church service which Mac Robertson so ably conducted. Art Buckland paid tribute to church members who lost their lives in the services during the two world wars. Ian Robertson played a lament on the pipes after the minute of silence. And Flanders Fields was read by Onagh Ross.

Mac Robertson spoke on the injustices of war, the importance of peace and reminded us of how proud we should be of Canada's roll as a peace-keeping nation. It was a very nice service.

Nov. 15 will be Communion Sunday with Rev. Cliff Evans.

Nov. 22 they will be having two baptisms by Rev. Cliff Evans.

Anyone else thinking of having their baby baptized soon, this might be an opportunity to do so. The contact person is Charlie Kinloch at 528-4486.

THE APPEALING ALTERNATIVE
The Mayo Clinic Health Letter recently published a thoughtful questionnaire on the subject of elders moving in with their adult children. Here are some questions they presented:
1) Do you really want to live with your son or daughter and their family members and do they wish you to move in permanently?
2) Can you adapt to your family's lifestyle and they to yours?
3) Can you continue to persue hobbies you enjoy and to keep in touch with your friends?

Sympathy

We have had three sad deaths recently to mention with sorrow.

George and Diane (Marlin) Lunan, present owners of Marlin Orchards, lost George Lunan Sr. at age 67 on Oct. 30.

Marc Boudrias and Giselle (Mrs. Guy Gratton) lost their 33-year-old brother, Maurice, Nov. 3.

Nov. 2, Colin and Valerie Martin lost Colin's 58-year-old father, Leo Martin.

Paul Tyo passed away Nov. 2 at age 71 in the Cornwall General. Sympathy is extended to Pauline and family.

Looking for old photographs

The Cornwall Township Historical Society is looking for old photographs or newspaper cuttings of old buildings in the area or events that took place in the past in the area. If you have any of these items and would like to donate them to the society you are asked to mail them to: Cornwall Township Historical Society, Box 55, St. Andrews West, K0C 2A0.

Martintown Firemen's Annual Christmas Dance

The annual dance will be held Saturday, Nov. 21 with music by AM/FM from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. A light lunch will be served, and everyone is welcome! The charge is donation, this is a fundraiser for the volunteer fire department.

Halloween

Well, that 170 lb. pumpkin taken from the Champagne household on Desjardins St. sure hit the news eh? My daughter Catherine phoned from Toronto to tell us about hearing it on the radio. My son Philip heard it on the radio and saw it in the paper in Ottawa.

So all was not lost as the pumpkin was returned home, with an apologetic note, and sat lit up and smiling on the door step on Halloween night. Also smiling were the proud Champagne children Micheline, Celine, Adele and Janelle who grew and nurtured this pumpkin with lots of love and attention all summer and fall.

Busy Busy Busy

The baking going on in Martintown this weekend will permeate the air I'm sure as there will be the cattle auction at the Johnston/Beerwort Farm (just next to Ray Howes farm) all day Friday, Nov. 13; and the 9th annual One-stop Christmas Shop of Crafts and Baking in the Martintown Community Centre, and both these bake tables are on Saturday, Nov. 14.

Speaking of bazaars, a group of UCW had a very enjoyable time Saturday, Oct. 24 at St. Andrews Church Tea and Bazaar but we all wanted to win that beautiful quilt Annie Chisholm made, but the lucky person was Carmen Bergeron from Cornwall, and the fruit basket was won by M. Lauzon of St. Andrews.

So happy to report that both Sally and Stuart Buchan are coming along really well.

Bruce McCuaig is also doing very well and had to tell me about his daughter Barbara coming in first of the Canadian women in the New York City Marathon (last week). She was 38th out of 6,000 in the overall race and her boyfriend Dave Saville came in first of the Canadian men. He was 55th out of 20,000 in the overall race.

Barbara just started running two or three years ago and lives in Ottawa, but she has been chalking up a lot of firsts this past year, and has her sights on the Olympics in Atlanta.

Donald McCuaig (Bruce and Marion's second oldest) tried his hand rather his body at the "Ironman" in Penticton, B.C. with 2½ miles of swimming, 180 kms of cycling, and 26 miles of running and he did it in 12 hours and two minutes. Great!

Wow I must run. I'll have to fill you in next week on things I didn't have time to get in this week. Boy time just flies.

Ad raises ire of chainsaw operators

The phone has been ringing off the hook at the home of a Kenyon Township man offering to teach people to safely use a chainsaw, but many people are calling not out of interest but out of anger.

Myles Gallant, a certified chainsaw operator and safety course instructor said his life has been a bit of a nightmare since he placed a newspaper advertisement offering "The Cutter Program."

Gallant said he said he received about 30 calls the first day after the ad appeared, about 15 calls on the second day, and has received about 5 to 10 calls every day thereafter — all from angry people who don't believe they need a certificate to operate a chainsaw.

"I was getting people saying, 'Now the government is telling me I have to have a licence.' Farmers are getting upset... I don't know why they're yelling at me. I just offer the service," said Gallant.

The law, he said, came as just as big a surprise to him. He already had a lot of experience with a chainsaw, but only recently found out about the law while soliciting a job that would require the use of a chainsaw. He was told that he wouldn't be able to do any work until he had obtained his certificate.

So in September, Gallant took the course from Forest Products Accident Prevention Association. It was then that he was asked to take another course that would enable him to train other people, and he agreed.

Gallant is authorized by the Ministry of Skills Development and the Ministry of Labor to provide the training course that people require if they want or need to obtain a certificate to operate a chainsaw.

"The Cutter Program" was established by the ministries, and people who successfully complete the one-day course receive certification from the province.

Legislation in the Occupational Health and Safety Act passed by the ministry in October 1989 states that anyone "logging" for a commercial purpose requires a certificate to operate wood-cutting equipment.

Perhaps surprisingly, the law applies to chainsaws when they are used by a commercial business or industry, and even to farmers who plan to cut and sell firewood.

Logging is defined as being the "felling or trimming of trees for commercial or industrial purposes... and any such activities for the clearing of land."

The legislation also states that all workers employed in logging must take "The Cutter Program," established by the Ministry of Skills Development.

The legislation was prompted by the high number of accidents involving wood-cutting and skidding equipment. Under the law, employers must ensure that employees working with such equipment become certified within one year.

People who cut firewood for their own use, who do not sell the wood, are exempt and do not require a certificate.

The cost of obtaining the certificate is $27.50, but the certificate is good for life. The cost of the course is additional.

Ministry of Skills Development Industrial Training Consultant Laurier Roy defended Gallant.

"People shouldn't be angry with Myles. The law has been in effect since October '89 and they (machinery operators) are now feeling the effect of it."

Temporary clergy will serve Glengarry charge

Temporary clergy will be serving the congregations of the Glengarry East Pastoral Charge of the United Church, at least until the new year.

Parishioners have been anxiously awaiting the hiring of ministers since the departure of Revs. Pat and Colin MacDonald last July. So far, however, the selection committee hasn't found successful candidates.

However, the four churches in the charge, which include East Hawkesbury, Alexandria's Church on the Hill, St. Andrew's in Dalhousie Mills and Glen Sandfield, have been ministered lately by a licensed lay preacher and a student minister.

Brett Anningson will be starting his third year at the McGill United Church Theological College. A Sackville, New Brunswick native, he is presently living in Ottawa. He will be serving the charge for 12 hours a week.

And Wendy MacKenzie will be covering the Church on the Hill and the Round Church in Dalhousie Mills every second Sunday until Christmas. Her home church is St. Andrew's United in Bainsville.

She graduated in June of 1992 as a licensed lay preacher, and is an intended candidate for the Ministry. She is currently a full time student at University of Ottawa in her second year of the Bachelor of Arts program.

Married to husband Alan, she is a mother of three, Jill, 15, Laura, 13 and Scott, 11. They have lived in Bainsville for 7½ years.

The two will be sharing pastoral duties throughout the charge temporarily.

Champions sold to local men

The restaurant industry in Alexandria experienced another change last week when the new owners of Champions Roadhouse officially took over the operation.

Frank St. Pierre and Daniel Giroux, both 32-year-old former GTL employees, assumed the up-front reins of the popular restaurant from former owner Mike MacDonald.

The two co-managers will be sharing ownership with four other Alexandria-area residents and businessmen: Alain Giroux, Bob Menard, Yvan Desautels and Luc Poirier.

It's a time-honored combination: all of the men are boyhood friends and are from Alexandria and area.

"I'm pleased that local people are taking over with strong ties to the community," said former owner MacDonald, who has owned the business since February of 1989.

He decided to sell as the demands of the business cut into time with his young family. He and wife Margie, along with their growing family of three youngsters with another on the way, will be moving to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to be closer to Margie's family. They expect to move early in the new year.

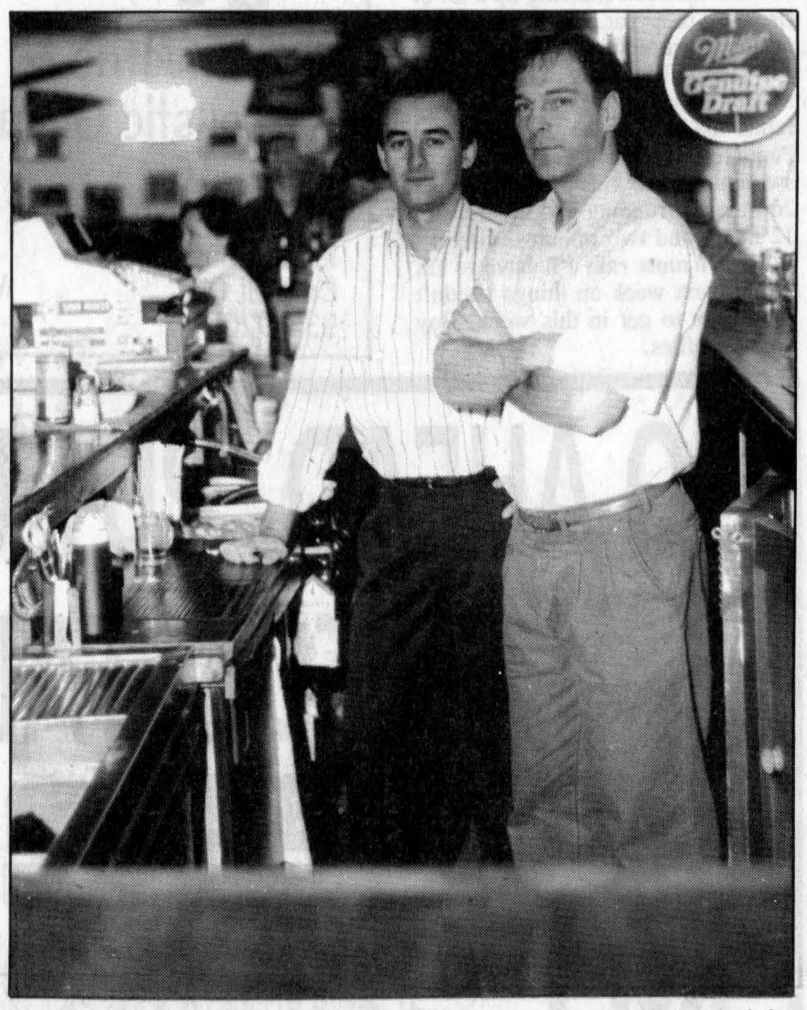
Meanwhile, the new owners will be continuing to operate the restaurant much the same way — with a few new twists.

"We bought a respectable, fun place where families can come in. That's exactly what we want to continue," said St. Pierre.

Both he and Dan Giroux were victims of the closure of GTL. The idea that they become business partners, however, germinated when the two travelled together on business trips.

Though they're planning "nothing major" other than some subtle physical changes, some new additions to the menu and the type of entertainment will be featured.

St. Pierre is particularly excited about their grand opening weekend Nov. 20 and 21 and the next four consecutive weeks after that. They will be hosting some country rock bands — "the in thing right now."



Daniel Giroux and Frank St. Pierre are the two new faces behind the bar at Champions Roadhouse.

Staff photo — Joe Banks

The change of hands comes on the heels of the purchase of the Priest's Mill on Alexandria's Main Street by two Montrealers. The new owners of that restaurant, now extensively renovating the interior, expect to be open for business in the next two to three weeks.

Caring for Life

By Dr. George McKiel

VON CANADA

Young Male Glengarrians

Risk of Testicular Cancer

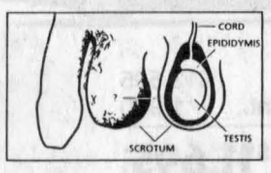
Between the ages of 15 and 34 the most common and serious cancer is a tumor in the testicle(s). If you are of Asian origin or Black, then your chances are far better for not developing this disease than if you are White. Your survival depends entirely on how soon the lump is discovered for testicular tumors are rated as:

STAGE 1: tumor confined to the testicle
STAGE 2: tumor spread to lymph nodes
STAGE 3: tumor metastisized beyond lymph nodes, usually to the lungs.

Nowadays, improved diagnosis and intervention has produced a five year survival rate of 62% or greater for men with cancer of the testes. Usually men with testicular tumors experience a painless enlargement or heaviness in the testicle. But it may also create pain in some men. So the first warning is a swelling, or lump, on one of your testicles and its really important to catch it early. So examine yourself once a month and, to remember, tie it with some other monthly event, paying bills, receiving your paycheck.

A self examination takes only one minute and is best after a warm shower when the scrotum (bag) is relaxed and testicles easy to feel (the scrotum is highly temperature sensitive and pulls the testes close to the body - the production of viable sperm is best at a temperature lower than our usual 36 - 35°C)

Hold the scrotum in the palms of your hands and gently roll each testicle between thumb and fingers. Index and middle fingers should be on the underside, thumbs on top. A normal testicle is shaped like an egg and is slightly more than 1½ inches long. It feels firm but not hard (somewhat like an earlobe), even rubbery, and quite smooth with NO lumps. Also examine the epididymis, the storage tube for sperm, found on the side, behind the testicle. Each of these should feel soft and may be spongy. Feel for the spermatic cord which ascends from the epididymis behind the testicle. They are, normally, firm, smooth, tubular.



Treatment for stge 1 and 2 is surgical removal of the testicle followed by radiation. Stages 2 and 3 may be treated with chemotherapy. Since this cancer afflicts younger men, many will have family and financial commitments, so it's essential that society be more aware that early discovery allows for the simplest treatment as well as guaranteeing a cure.

Former camp internees share their experiences

Glen Robertson
By Colette Sauvé
Tel. 874-2076

Recent visitors with John and Moira van Nooten were their daughter Miriam and three friends from McGill University in Montreal. Sarah Marsh, Martine McKenzie and Stephanie Felkai enjoyed a weekend on the farm and an exciting hike on Rigaud Mountain.

A very interesting gathering of ex-internees of the Japanese concentration camps was held in the beginning of October. It was attended by 12 people, ex-internees and their spouses, who were all young children when they were imprisoned by the Japanese from 1942 to 1945, in what were then the Dutch East Indies. It was a great relief and joy to all to be able to talk about those times and to meet other people with similar experiences.

A delicious ''rijsttafel'' was served, prepared by the entire group. There are plans to have another meeting in the near future and anyone who has been an internee in similar circumstances would be most welcome to join. They could phone John or Moira van Nooten at 874-2995.

Nostalgic trip

I received a letter recently from Bette Paterson of Oxford Mills telling me that she took a nostalgic trip to the Glen accompanied by her cousin, Lois Taylor of Calgary.

Bette lived as a kid on the ''Hambleton Farm'' which was right behind Isaac and Cecile Sauvé's home.

She mentioned that if she came through the fields to the Glen and if my mother-in-law was baking, she would always give her a cookie or a warm bun.

They walked up the lane to Bette's childhood home which now belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Hendrikus and Antonia Den Otter. They were greeted by Mrs. Den Otter who was very kind and took them all through the place.

They visited the Dalhousie Mills Cemetery and the home of her uncle, the late Gilbert Séguin which is now Pauline Roussin's house.

Since Pauline was absent, they scrambled her a note and peeked in the windows of the beautiful old home which holds so many memories for them.

Stories, games and songs

This Thursday, Nov. 12, there will be a story teller at the social centre for English speaking kids from three to six years of age from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

If the time is not suitable for you, please phone Jim Finlayson at 874-2250 on Tuesday evenings or Thursday afternoon.

On Nov. 19, it will be done in French as these programs will alternate in both languages for a few weeks.

A good stock of Christmas books for children and adults is now available at the library.

Speedy recovery wishes go out to Simone Lefebvre and Léonie Séguin who are presently in Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Congratulations to Liette Butrym of Bainsville who did a super job in planning a hymn sing last Sunday evening at the Lancaster United Church.

A large choir led the hymns and a great variety program was performed beautifully by all the guests.

It was all thoroughly enjoyed by a church full of people made up of all denominations.

What do you want? The steak? Or the sizzle?

Here's something to consider the next time you head for the U.S. for groceries.

Did you know that beef sold in Canada contains fewer calories and less fat and cholestorol than beef sold in the U.S.? That when you buy beef in Canada you get more steak. And when you buy beef in the U.S. you get more sizzle? That Canadian regulations require less internal fat (often known as marbling) than American standards and that more external fat is trimmed from your steak and roasts at a Canadian butcher counter than at its American counterpart?

And that when you buy beef in the States you're paying a premium of over 20 per cent on your Canadian dollar? (23.5% Bank of Montreal, Tues., Sept. 15) And getting less red meat for your dollar than if you had shopped in Canada?

But if you believe that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, then chew on these figures:

Fat and Cholesteral Comparison Between Canadian and U.S. Beef

CUT	CALORIES (k cal.)			FAT (g)			CHOLESTEROL
	Cdn	US	% Difference	Cdn	US	% Difference	Cdn	US	% Difference

Despite some hair-raisng defence by Michelle Owen (1), the Char-Lan juniors were 28-25 losers to R-O last Wednesday at home. The Crusaders will play in a semi-final at Seaway on Monday. Heather Smith (3) looks on in the background.

C-L ready for semis

The Char-Lan Crusaders wrapped up the 1992 SDG senior girls high school basketball season on Monday in Williamstown by crushing the winless Tagwi Warriors 51-11.

The victory, coupled with last Wednesday's 41-29 triumph against Rothwell- Osnabruck, gives the Crusaders a 4-2 divisional record and second place in the ''A'' standings.

That means they'll play R-O again in an SDG semi-final on Monday in Williamstown.

The Crusaders got a balanced attack in crushing the Warriors as Vicky Peacey and Katharine MacLachlan each netted 10 points while Cathy Pilon had nine and Angela Smith another eight.

Last Wednesday, Smith was the top scorer as the team's co-captain had 17 points to help topple the Lancers.

Peacey added 12 points and MacLachlan scored nine.

Juniors end up at .500

The Char-Lan juniors got to the .500 mark on Monday by beating Tagwi 35-25 on home court.

The Crusaders finish at 3-3 in their own division and 3-5 overall. Char-Lan will finish in third place and will travel to Seaway for a semi-final showdown on Monday.

Joanne Legault scored 10 first-quarter points for Char-Lan on the way to a game-high 20 points. Michelle Owen added six.

Last Wednesday, Char-Lan dropped a 28-23 decision to the first-place R-O Lancers as a late Crusader rally fell short.

Joanne Legault was once again the top Char-Lan scorer with 12 points. Lisa McEvoy had six.

The Char-Lan midgets dropped both of their games in the past week, 15-12 to R-O and 16-10 against Tagwi.

Gaels' Lawson stars in loss

Wendi Lawson shredded General Vanier's defence for 24 points in a SDG senior girls high school basketball game last Tuesday but her Glengarry teammates came up empty as the Gaels dropped a 32-24 decision to the Vikings.

Lawson had the Gaels (1-5) up 15-11 at halftime but General Vanier contained the Glengarry star in the second half, ''holding'' her to nine points while scoring 21 of their own.

Erynn Blackadder, with 12, and Anna Thompson (11) led the Vikings offence.

Glengarry has now lost five in a row after opening the campaign with a win against St.Joseph's.

Juniors win again

The junior Gaels continue to roll as Glengarry defeated General Vanier 39- 16 last Tuesday for the team's fifth consecutive victory.

Tania McClements paced the Glengarry attack with 13 points and Miranda Burgess added 11. Laura Urquhart (six points) and Julie Aube (five) also contributed to the Gaels' offence.

Glengarry's 5-1 record (heading into yesterday's game vs. La Citadelle) assures the Gaels of no worse than third place

The Gaels will wrap up the regular season tomorrow (Thursday) when General Vanier pays a return visit

Overage twosome leads Rebels to win over pesky Islanders squad

Ever since the disbanding of the Pony Express Line in Williamstown, the question surrounding the Char-Lan Rebels has been: ''Where is the offence going to come from?''

A couple of familiar faces provided the answer last Saturday as overage linemates John Edgerton and Greg Wylie combined for nine points in Char-Lan's 9-6 win over the Gananoque Islanders.

Both players scored their seventh goals of the season with Edgerton's tally, coming just 19 seconds after the Isles had tied the game at 6-6, standing up as the game-winner.

''They're our two overage guys and we need them for their good attitude and their leadership,'' said Char-Lan coach Philip Brown. ''They're well respected and the rest of the team looks up to them.''

Wylie is the team captain and elder statesman as he is in the midst of his fourth season with the Rebels.

His linemate since opening night has been Edgerton, who returns to the Rebels after being away at school last season.

''I've played with Greg all the way through from bantam,'' said Edgerton who, like Wylie, is a Cornwall native. ''He's a good player and he works hard to set up his linemates.''

Despite a parade of players that have seen action on the other wing on the Edgerton-Wylie line (Shane McDonell was there on Saturday), the tandem has been a steady source of two-way play for Char-Lan since the beginning of the season.

The duo's offensive production has been especially welcome because, after a torrid start, Cory Maxam and Denis St.Jean have tailed off offensively since the departure of Martin Laroche.

Rebs recover from rally

After falling behind 3-1 in the second period on Saturday, the Rebels scored four straight goals to take a 5-3 lead.

Taillefer steps down as coach of junior B Glens

After only 10 games, the Lee Taillefer era behind the bench of the Alexandria Glens has come to an end.

After meeting with team officials last Monday, Taillefer agreed to step down as Glens coach, making way for assistant Luc Sabourin and Robert Boisvenue, who will serve as co-coaches.

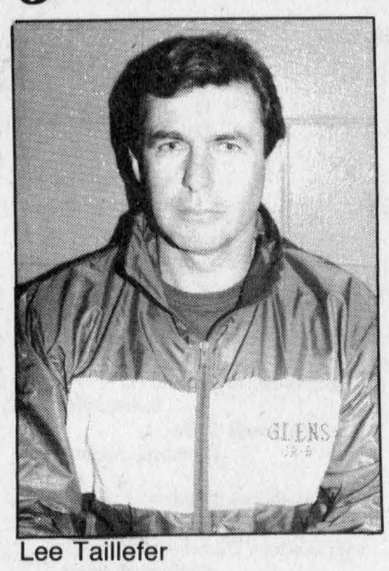
The Glens were a respectable 5-5 under Taillefer's reign but it was a lack of team discipline, both on and off the ice, that prompted the change.

''The job wasn't what I expected,'' said Taillefer on Wednesday when the move was officially announced. ''The guys were a little bit more than I could handle.

''I don't think that I was strict enough and the guys were just basically doing what they wanted.''

The discipline problem led to an unhealthy atmosphere in the dressing room which in turn created concerns about the Glens' on-ice performance.

''After meeting with (general manager) Claude (Roy) on Monday, we decided a change was in order,'' said Taillefer, who will now coach the bantams instead.



Lee Taillefer

''Plain and simple, I think the guys will perform better under somebody else.''

General manager Claude Roy weighs his words carefully when speaking about the decision to make a move behind the bench.

''There was a lot of weight on his shoulders,'' said Roy of Taillefer. ''I think that by the end Lee just wasn't enjoying it anymore.

''Coaching junior B is a big change from minor hockey (Taillefer coached the peewees last season) and I appreciate the effort he put into the job. I respect the man because he tried his best.''

Roy makes it clear that the team's problems can't be entirely the coach's fault.

''You can't put all the blame on the coach, it's the players that were lacking in discipline.''

''Plain and simple, I think the guys will perform better under somebody else.''
—former Glens coach Lee Taillefer.

Roy is looking for a team attitude adjustment under the coaching of Sabourin and Boisvenue.

''I hope there'll be more discipline on the part of the players. I'm also looking for more heart and motivation because I think those things make up 70 per cent of a team's success.

''It's nice to have talent but you need the desire too. Besides, there aren't any superstars on this team.''

The team elected to go with co-coaches because work commitments will make Sabourin unavailable for some games.

Glens lose game but...

Here is what the coaches had to say after Sunday's junior B game between the Winchester Hawks and the Alexandria Glens.

''We made some mental mistakes and they took advantage I don't think we played very well,'' said Hawks coach Peter DeRooy.

''The players were all into the game tonight. We went with three lines and they all played pretty well. I'm very happy with the team's play and I hope they can keep it going,'' said Alexandria co-coach Luc Sabourin.

After talking to DeRooy and Sabourin, you might be surprised to find out that Winchester won Sunday's game 8-6.

But anyone in attendance at the Billy Gebbie Arena with an understanding of what has gone on in Alexandria this season knows where Sabourin is coming from.

On the positive side for the Glens (and every effort is being made by the team to stay upbeat as Alexandria starts fresh with a new coach), the Alexandria defence allowed only 31 shots for the entire game and only 14 in the first two periods.

Compare that to recent games where the rubber count has reached the 50's and 60's and you can see why Alexandria goalies may be starting to believe that the light at the end of the tunnel isn't always red.

Secondly, there's the case of Alexandria's spirited third period comeback that saw the Glens climb back from deficits of 5-1, 6-4 and 7-5 to get within a goal before finally succumbing.

Were it not for a poor period by Glens goalie Jean-Francois Boyer, Alexandria could have stolen this one.

''I'm not going to blame J.F. because of a couple of soft goals. He's done his job this year and then some,'' points out Sabourin. ''Our goaltending has carried us on a lot of nights when we've given up 50 or 60 shots.''

The Glens have lost the first two games under Sabourin and co-coach Robert Boisvenue, but the new coaching staff feels that there were some positive signs on Sunday.

''We cut down on penalties tonight.

We still took a few but it wasn't as bad as earlier in the year. Generally, it just seems like the players want to play and they seem more willing to listen to the coaches,'' said Sabourin.

Glens eliminated from Boxing Day

Sunday's loss officially eliminated Alexandria from the competition for the St. Lawrence Division's two berths in the Boxing Day tournament.

Dennis Dodd scored three goals for Winchester while Steve Johnston and John Hamel had two goals each. Doug Armstrong completed the scoring.

Michel Marleau (who now has 10 for the year) and Randy Gebbie each had a pair of scores for the Glens. Norm Decoste and Rick Latreille had solo markers and Serge Bellefeuille had four assists.

On Friday in Morrisburg, Mike McAllister and Rob Casselman each scored twice in a 8-3 Lions win over the Glens.

Other scorers for Morrisburg were Yvon Besner, Martin Pancirov, Craig Villeneuve and Rob Domanko.

Michel Marleau had two of Alexandria's goals while Randy Gebbie had the other.

Marleau now has four multiple-goal games this season and five of his 10 goals have come against the Lions.

Defensive corps thinned

Alexandria's defence has been depleted in the past week by the departures of Luke Murray and Stephan Nadeau.

Murray left the team because of school and work commitments but Nadeau's exit is a little more mysterious.

A first-team all-star last year, Nadeau struggled in the early part of this season.

Nadeau has been hampered by a shoulder injury and has seen less ice time as his early-season problems continued.

The 21-year-old defenceman refused to comment on the situation but Sabourin says he's disappointed in the turn of events.

''It's too bad because we're talking about a guy who was on the first all-star team last year. He's one of overage players and it was up to him to show the example on the ice and be a leader.

''Gillis (Nadeau) was getting discouraged but he doesn't understand that this is a rebuilding year with lots of young players.''

Glenformation: Alexandria has signed Patrick Sauve, brother of longtime Alexandria standout Marc....Speaking of the man they call ''Hot Dog,'' Sauve was in attendance at Sunday's game along with former Glens goalie Patrice Lamarche...David Leblanc drilled his first shot through the hole in the plywood to collect $150 in the Glens-B and B Market second intermission shootout...Pat Carriere missed the third period on Sunday with a tender knee...Alexandria hosts Morrisburg on Friday and plays at Char-Lan on Saturday.

Maxville honors war dead at Remembrance ceremonies

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

With the weather somewhat fairer than usual, members of the Maxville War Veterans Club held their annual Remembrance Day service at their cenotaph on Mechanic St. West. Ivan Coleman served as chairman.

This was the eleventh service organized by the veterans and for the eleventh time, ninety-year-old Anne (Mrs. Phillip) Michaud represented the mothers of the service men and women.

The Rev. Frank Bailey opened the service with a short message, followed by a prayer. Reeve Jim MacEwen represented the Village Council and expressed his feelings concerning Remembrance Day.

Amy MacEwen was the piper for this occasion and played the lament. After the customary period of silence Joe Rolland read In Flanders Fields.

Wreaths were placed on the steps of the cenotaph by the following: Mary Anne Boudria, Elaine Villeneuve, Mrs. Michaud, Maxville War Veterans, Reeve MacEwen, Wilfred Vallance,, Donald Cumming representing the Township of Roxborough, Anne Vander Wielen and Elaine Villeneuve representing Maxville and Moose Creek CWL, Maxville Scouts, Cubs and Beavers, Maxville Guides and Brownies, Joan Siwik, Art Durocher, Joe Rolland, Ivan Coleman for the MacEwen enterprises, and Ray Rolland. Others were put in place on behalf of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Maxville Firemen, St. Bernard School, Velma Franklin, Edith Kiteley, Grace Doth, Edgar Currier, Mrs. Gene Thompson and in memory of Stan Jasiewicz.

All in attendance were invited to enjoy refreshments in the United Church Hall after the service.

Brian Villeneuve and his daughter Lisa, were home over the weekend with his mother, Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve.

Shirley Cutten, Dundas and Mary Millsap, Brantford were here last weekend to visit with their aunt, Anne Bruce at the Manor and with other friends and relatives.

A special service of consecration of St. Gregory Church in Vankleek Hill was held last Sunday and a special guest of the parish was Bishop Vincent Cadieux, Bishop of Moosenee, a native of the area. Relatives in attendance from here were the Bishop's aunt, Grace Doth, his cousin Claire and Bruno Besner and another cousin, Claude and Doreen Doth from Cornwall.

There were two happy gentlemen in the village recently. Charles Long found a cheque on the street belonging to Wayne McCaskill, Monkland and contacted Mr. McCaskill. The owner was happy, naturally, with the finding of the cheque and Mr. Long was happy because he had done another good deed and received a nice tip in appreciation.

Donald Gormley is also happy because his cornea transplant operation is over after a considerable time of waiting for the operation. This procedure was only done in the U.S.A. at one time, but now can be done in a Cornwall hospital. Mr. Gormley was only in the hospital two nights and is now convalescing nicely.

Unfortunately, because the transplant operation could not be scheduled, Mr. Gormley was unable to attend the 125th annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario in Stratford on Oct. 23rd. Mr. Gormley had served the Association, the first dairy association founded in Canada, and the second one in the Continent, in 1974.

This is a bit late but we wish to extend 75th birthday greetings to Blanche (Mrs. Oliver) St. Louis who was entertained by her family at a surprise lunch on Oct. 14. Mrs. St. Louis had her sister, Anne Goudie, Martintown and her two brothers, Leo Bedard and wife Therese, Apple Hill and Joseph Bedard and wife Irene from Green Valley with her for the birthday party.

Also, on Oct. 26th, Mr. and Mrs. St. Louis quietly celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary at their home on Robert St. with members of their family present. Mr. St. Louis is known as a member of the local artists' group.

Ron Batchelor has returned from a very enjoyable trip to France.

The Rev. Arnold and Mrs. Bethune were in the village last weekend and attended the 67th wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Bethune. Other relatives and friends as well attended a dinner in the auditorium of the Manor where the senior Bethunes are residents. Very best wishes and congratulations go out to them. Mr. Bethune has very good health and enjoys driving around the area to visit.

* * *

Oldtimers will remember the members of the Sprott family who lived in the log house on Mechanic St. East. A photograph of Douglas and his wife was in Monday's Ottawa Citizen, indicating that they were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

We extend sympathy to Diane Munroe and her family in the sudden death of her father, H. E. Perrier of Ottawa. The late Mr. Perrier was a member of the Ottawa Rough Riders Football team at one time.

Also, to Iris MacRae and her family, condolences are offered in the death of her father, Byron Renwick. The late Mr. Renwick was well known in the Strathmore area where he had relatives.

With the colder weather, more birds are moving in to the feeders. I have niger seed out now and have many house finches enjoying it. However, there are no goldfinches yet.

Also, the mourning doves, who prefer to feed on the ground, are scouting out our feed supplies but as yet have not landed. These birds take a long time to make up their minds, it seems, and may sit all day before coming down to feed just at dusk.

The fall foliage is almost all down now but we must give credit to the attractive golden needles on the tamarack trees these days. This tree is our only deciduous coniferous tree.

Farther west from here, the oak trees are still very colorful with colors ranging from bronze to mahogany.

Heart Smart Cooking Class

The Heart Smart Cooking course concluded on Nov. 4 at Maxville's United Church with the final meeting featuring desserts. This four week nutrition project was organized by the Communicaitons Committee at St. Bernard School and sponsored jointly by the Ministry of Health and the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario. Instructors were dietician Linda Vickers and Di Jaggassar from the Glengarry Heart and Stroke Education Committee. Twenty-eight participants learned about lowering fat, sugar, salt and calories with both new recipe ideas and modifications of old family favorites. Each evening recipes were demonstrated and tasted to show how great heart-healthy foods are. Tasting is believing! Enjoying this moderate, "liveable," long-term approach — and with tastebuds tantalized — many more hearts will now benefit from Heart Smart Cooking.

The annual canvass of the Maxville and St. Elmo Branch of the Canadian Bible Society will be held this month. Contributions to the Society are used for its work in the publication, translation and distribution of Bibles. If an interested person is not canvassed or if there are questions, President Vera MacEwen should be contacted.

Used stamps may be saved, they may be brought to church and the funds derived from their sale will go towards the Bible Society.

This is hunting season but there is a hunt on that is relatively unknown yet. There may be readers in Glengarry who were once teachers, who have credit in the Pension Plan and who are now lost as far as the Ontario Teachers' Pension Board is concerned. There are presently, approximately 8;000 inactive members across Ontario who are over the age of 65 and who are entitled to either a refund or a pension. An inactive member who has left the profession and did not notify the Pension Board or who has not taught since 1990 ar did not apply for a benefit.

If this information applies to readers in this area, they are invited to write to this correspondent.

Young-At-Heart Euchre

The weather was bad during the evening of November 2 and a low attendance at the seniors' euchre resulted. Three Maxville ladies, Gloria Rolland, Jean Chisholm and Margaret Michaud were the high winners in that order.

For the men Mac O'Byrne, John Lapierre and Fraser MacMillan who took the chance in driving from Moose Creek, were the priz winners.

Mr. O'Byrne also took home the door prize. Lucky winners in the 50-50 draw were Mrs. Michaud, Linden Kippen, Lucy Shorey, Martintown, Catherine (Dan) MacRae, twice, Bill Johnson and Ethel MacKinnon.

The community-at-large, by its attendance and support, made the bazaar sponsored by the Community Protestant Church a resounding success. If you missed it, you missed a lovely display of talent and craftsmanship.

The winners of the first and second prizes of grocery items were Janet Johnson and Walter Pilkington of Lancaster. The fact that Walter was selling the chances on the "draw" had nothing to do with his winning.

A beautifully-decorated cake of a witch made the dessert table at the home of Yvette Dubeau of Bainsville, winner of the free draw. The kitchen never let up all day, and the homemade soup, apple grunt and sandwiches were a hit as was the Christian book display, a special feature enjoyed by many.

This had been a busy time for the small congregation and Sunday evening topped it off when Rev. Paul Gordon from the Congregational church in Lansdowne was on hand to present some little-known facts of the "New Age movement and its variance to Christianity.

Pastor Paul had brought along another five of his congregation and they were joined by several from varied parts of Glengarry.

The video and pertinent discussion made for an informative evening and anyone who missed it but would like to have some information or book titles is invited to call Eric Urquhart at 347-2262.

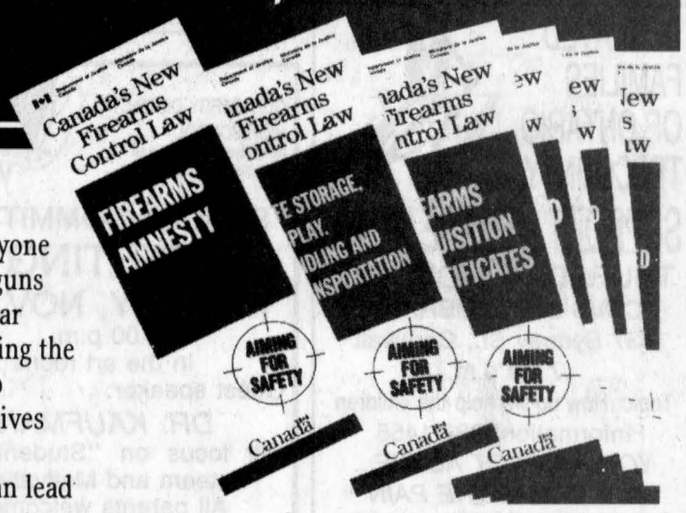
CANADA'S FIREARMS AMNESTY
November 1 to 30, 1992



Think gun safety. Make it count.

The new firearms control law gives everyone the chance to turn in unwanted or illegal guns and register restricted weapons without fear of prosecution for possession offences during the amnesty. The amnesty means you can also dispose of any prohibited weapons, explosives or ammunition.

Too often, forgotten or neglected guns can lead to a tragedy.

The amnesty is an ideal opportunity to get rid of weapons you no longer want.

Taking advantage of the amnesty is easy. Simply unload the gun and turn it over to your local police. If there is the slightest risk or if you have any questions, call your local police.

Make it happen for the safety of you and your family.

AIMING FOR SAFETY

Find out more about the Firearms Acquisition Certificate, safe storage, restricted and prohibited weapons or other parts of the firearms law that concern you. Ask your local police for brochures.

Special thanks to Dr. Ajay Varma, the nursing staff at Glengarry Memorial Hospital and to Rev. Denis Lefebvre, St. Martin of Tours Parish, Glen Robertson. Sincere appreciation to Ron Munro of Munro and Morris Funeral Home.
—Kathleen Piche, Jerome and Pearl Lalonde. 46-1p

MacMILLAN — We would like to thank everyone who attended our 40th anniversary party and helped in any way to make it such a happy occasion. Many thanks for everyone's good wishes, cards and gifts.
—Sadie and John D. MacMillan. 46-1p

MAJOR — There seems to be no words adequate enough to thank neighbors and friends for their prayers, cards, food and even physical labor during the time of Leo's illness. These great acts of kindness and caring increased our faith, eased our sorrow and lifted Leo's spirit. Thanks to Father Villeneuve for the beautiful mass in our home, the wonderful VON nurses, Deacon Kerry McDonald, George Alguire and so many more who helped in their own special ways. We wish to thank, again, all the people who supported us at the time of Leo's death. Your expressions of sympathy, masses, flowers, cards, charitable donations and food are deeply appreciated and will not be forgotten.
—Phyllis, Janice, Cathy, Lori, Terry and Ryan. 46-1p

THE Lefebvre family wish to thank relatives, friends and neighbors for their sympathy in the loss of a dear son and brother Denis Serge, who passed away on October 21, 1992 at the age of 41 years. We especially want to thank Janet Graham and Eileen Barbara for the good lunch they provided after the funeral. Special thanks to the doctors and nurses who took care of him while he was a patient at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital. He will be sadly missed by his mother, brothers and sisters. 46-1p

Cards Of Thanks

DUCHESNE — Benoît and Geneviève wish to express sincere thanks to our children and their families who organized the celebration of our 50th anniversary and to all our family, friends, relatives and neighbors who participated on Oct. 10th. Your visits, cards, gifts and floral arrangements were much appreciated. It helped make this day a day to remember forever. 46-1p

ZBINDEN — The kindness and generosity that followed the recent destruction of our dairy barn and its contents by fire was truly appreciated. To our friends, neighbors, family and all others who responded with assistance at this time of need, we want to say a sincere thank you. A special thanks to our volunteer firemen, who responded in a prompt, caring and professional manner. We shall, forever, remain grateful for your kindness and charity and, we want you to accept our heartfelt gratitude.
—The Zbinden family. 46-1p

LUNAN — The family of the late George Lunan wish to express their sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for expressions of sympathy, masses, cards, gifts of food, donations to the Heart and Stroke Foundation, floral arrangements and support at the time of the loss of a loving husband, father and grandfather. Special thanks to Monsignor D. B. McDougald, Rev. R. Villeneuve, Rev. C. MacDonald, Knights of Columbus Council 8715, St. Raphael's Choir, Milton MacDonald, Lancaster Ladies Auxiliary, also Ron and Dale Munro. 46-1p

MASSIE-DIONNE — We would like to thank everyone who attended our wedding reception. Everyone's good wishes, cards and gifts will be remembered forever.

In Memoriam

KEMP, Louis — In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather who passed away Nov. 16, 1990.
Little did we know that morning,
The sorrow that day would bring,
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear;
If tears could bring a stairway,
And memories build a lane,
We'd walk all the way to Heaven,
To bring you back again.
So many times we've needed you,
So many times we've cried,
If love could have saved you,
You never would have died.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the heartache,
Our smiles hide all the while,
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved,
How much we miss you yet.
—Loved, sadly missed and always remembered by Susan, Donnie, Scott, Joanne, Tami, Mike. 46-1p

MacLENNAN — In loving memory of Ken, who passed away November 7, 1990.
Not just today, but every day, we remember you.
—Jean, Ian, Joyce, Mary, Ruth, spouses and grandchildren. 46-1p

BLANEY — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Doris Blaney, who passed away Nov. 13, 1988.
They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet!
If we could have one lifetime wish,
One dream that could come true,
We'd pray to God with all our hearts
For yesterday and you!
—Always remembered and loved by husband Charles and family. 46-1p

BACKGROUND:

The Township of Charlottenburgh has applied for an amendment to Provisional Certificate of Approval No. A481004 for its waste disposal site located on Lots 20 and 21, Concession 7 NSR, with access via Regent Drive from Beaver Brook Road. This site was originally approved to receive municipal wastes from the north portion of the Township of Charlottenburgh only.

Recent amendments to this approval, made under Section 31 of the Environmental Protection Act, have allowed the Township of Charlottenburgh and the Village of Lancaster to dispose of their municipal waste at this site on an emergency basis. The Township of Charlottenburgh's application is for an Extension of Use and an increased service area to include the present emergency users for a five year period.

In addition, the Township of Charlottenburgh is seeking approval of Official Plan Amendment No. 36 to the Official Plan of the Corporation of the Township of Charlottenburgh. The purpose of the amendment is to set out policies regarding impacts with adjacent land uses within 500 metres of the licensed area of the North Landfill Site and to change the existing designations of the site in order to permit the existing solid waste disposal site, a waste transfer station and a communication tower.

Maps showing the location of the landfill site and the Schedule of the Official Plan Amendment are attached.

Glenelg committee has re-organization

The monthly meeting of the Glenelg Bicentennial Committee was held in Laggan school on Monday evening, Oct. 26, with the president, Morlin Campbell in the chair.

The committee has recently been re-organized and the executive members are as follows: President Morlin Campbell, Vice-President Donaldson MacLeod, Secretary Marion MacMaster, Treasurer Ernie MacMillan.

The purpose of the committee is to organize a recognition and celebration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of the Laggan-Dalkeith road in 1794.

This will take place, of course, in 1994 and as the people who arrived in 1794 sailed from Glenelg, Scotland, this road is now to be named the "Glenelg Road."

Actually, Kirk Hill was originally called Glenelg, but when the church was built on the hill the name was changed to Kirk Hill.

Present plans call for, among other things, a Sound and Light presentation at Kirk Hill on Labor Day weekend in 1994.

This project will require considerable organizing and it is hoped that, besides pleasing local citizens, it will serve as a means of inducing the descendants of the local pioneers to "Come Home" and visit their ancestral area, and their cousins.

Fire hits two barns

A fire that is believed to have started in the electrical wiring destroyed the main two-storey barn and 35 feet of a new barn at a piggery owned by Allan Barlow on Lot 3, Concession 1, Lochiel Township.

The Alexandria Fire Department was called out on Monday afternoon at 4:46 and battled the flames for seven hours.

All their breeding stock of 100 sows and seven boars was lost as well as several hundred piglets. A few pigs were rescued but the going was slow as they had to pull them by the ears to get them out.

A combine, a new corn planter, a manure spreader, a liquid manure tank, a grinder-mixer, a tractor and all the straw stored for bedding was also lost.

Mr. Barlow estimates his loss in pigs to be around $25,000, in machinery about $40,000 and with the loss of the building his total loss would be about $200,000.

Chase leads to arrest

When Constable Brad Eamer of the Lancaster Police Detachment signalled a speeding car to stop on Sunday evening on Highway 401 he had no idea his culprit was wanted otherwise.

When the officer pulled the grey Chev over to the shoulder of the road about 7 p.m., the driver jumped out of the vehicle and escaped into the bush alongside.

A search conducted with the assistance of a police dog in the vicinity of Purcell and Tyotown Roads that evening turned up no posse prey.

The following day however, the object of the search was spotted running through the woods and with the help of Cornwall and Long Sault Police, pursued into the Cornwall Industrial Park where he was apprehended behind the Levi Strauss building.

The police had ascertained from the car license number that the vehicle had been stolen in Toronto and the driver suspect was wanted for armed robbery.

The 18-year-old youth was held in Lancaster until transferred into the custody of Toronto police.

Constable Eamer and Rick Riddell were the investigating officers.

Members advised at meeting to 'take time and smell the roses'

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The Glen Sandfield UCW met on Nov. 4 at the home of Sara MacMillan with 12 members and guests. The president, Lorna Chapman, opened by welcoming the group and after the prayer turned the meeting over to Elsie MacMillan, who had devotions.

Her theme was Take Time to Smell the Roses and be thankful for ordinary things. Various readings were done by Sadie MacDougall, Marjorie McCaskill, Della MacDonald and the leader.

Three things come to mind; we live in a wonderful world, God has blessed us with much beauty, and it is all wasted if we don't appreciate any of it. We can move in beauty no matter how poor we are, but if we never notice any of this wonderful world of ours, we are poor indeed. We must be ever thankful and mindful of our many blessings.

After the Member's Purpose was repeated the shut-in list was revised. Some of those on the list have passed away, and several new names were added. The Christmas dinner date is Dec. 7 at the home of Gail Kronwald. There will be no president in future but each member will be "president for the month" at the meetings, while Lorna Chapman will continue to be the liaison person with presbytery UCW.

The rest of the officers have remained in their positions for this year. After the benediction in unison and refreshments were enjoyed.

The 39'ers enjoyed a grand concert in Ottawa on Saturday last, Nov. 7. The "You Gotta Have Heart Revue" this year, was based on the "Fifties." Everyone was togged out in crinolines and poodle skirts in hunter green felt (remember them?) ankle socks and white blouses. The men were in white slacks and matching green t-shirts.

Just to hear all the old songs sung and danced too, brought back many happy memories to everyone there. Several bona-fide jitterbugs were terrific as they danced the Lindy, Suzie Q, and to In the Mood (my personal favorite).

Events that happened during those years were recalled in story, song and comedy. Samba, Mombo, Conga, cha-cha-cha music had the audience swaying in their seats.

If you get a chance next year to see this great show (different every year) do go. You are guaranteed to have a splendid time, and the money goes to the Heart and Stroke Association of Ontario.

The members of McCrimmon WI joined the other five branches in Apple Hill on Thursday evening, Nov. 5 for a sumptuous pot luck dinner provided by everyone attending the fun night. Eileen Johnson welcomed everyone and things just went swimmingly. After the marvelous meal, each branch had to provide a short entertainment.

This was the night for quizes and contests. The one on Canada really got everyone thinking. Several others had everyone laughing! One was a musical love story, and one part of the program was McCrimmon's contribution of a funny song by "a little girl," followed by her own poem (of course she forgot the lines) to everyone's amusement.

Sheila Urquhart and Joyce MacKinnon led several hilarious songs. All in all, it was a great success. Congratulations to the organizers. They sure worked overtime!

The new community centre in Apple Hill is really lovely. This is where it all took place.
