Not moving Cairn, Parks Canada rep tells SG council

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

The fate of the Glengarry Cairn is far from decided, South Glengarry council was told last Tuesday night at its regular meeting.

Pam Buell, area supervisor for Parks Canada, said she was present at the invitation of council and would try to bring people up to date about the cairn, located on Monument Island in Lake St. Francis.

The historic cairn has been the topic of hot debate in recent months since representatives of the Akwesasne Mohawks appeared before council to ask for local participation in deciding where to re-locate the stone structure. Because its deteriorating condition represents a safety threat to properties on the island they deem to be cultural and sacred, the Mohawks told council they wanted to dismantle the cairn.

Although South Glengarry council has no jurisdiction over the cairn, its significance to residents of the municipality had left council members fielding questions to which they had no answers.

Ms. Buell gave a brief history of the cairn and a background of the events beginning in 1997 and leading up to the present situation.

"It has not been an easy five years," she told council. "And in five years from now, I can't tell you where we'll be on this issue."

Ms. Buell said that the land upon which the cairn sits was expropriated from the Mohawks following its commemoration by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board in 1921, and that Parks Canada was ready to return the land to the Mohawks, but only with the understanding that the cairn would remain on the island.

A long-term maintenance program would be put in place for the cairn and a visitors' interpretation centre would be established at a suitable site on the mainland. The public would be prohibited from setting foot on the island out of respect for the Mohawks.

"This is the message that has been transmitted to the Mohawks," said Ms. Buell. "There will be pressures; we won't hear the end of this."

"I know it isn't a very popular decision with them," she said, calling it a "compromise situation."

In answer to a question from Mayor Dave MacDonald, Ms. Buell said the cairn was in no danger of falling down at the moment, and that dialogue was still "open." She said a number of consultants, historians, and engineers had been trying to come up with a "win-win" situation.

"We'll keep on trying to get a consensus," she said.

Victoria Stewart, a member of the committee formed by the Mohawks to choose a suitable site for the cairn to be re-located, reminded those present at the council meeting that there would be the opportunity for more information at a public get-together in the near future.

"I ask that all this wait for a proper meeting," she said of the comments and questions from the floor.

One of the speakers was Peter LeBrun who urged Parks Canada to "go in there quickly and fix it (the cairn) up. "The cairn is Lancaster," he continued. "We expect Parks Canada to do the right thing, not tomorrow, but yesterday."

Mayor MacDonald told Ms. Buell she was "very brave" to address council on the issue and asked that they be kept informed of any developments. "The local residents are interested," he said.

The Games gets its grant

By Todd Anderson

The wait is finally over for the Glengarry Highland Games.

Games building and fund-raising chairperson Bill Campbell received a call from local MP Don Boudria around 2 p.m. Monday to the effect that Mr. Boudria and MPP Brian Coburn will announce the awarding of a SuperBuild grant to the Glengarry Highland Games committee.

The announcement will be 2 p.m. this Friday at the Glengarry Highland Games Lounge, above the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville.

Exact details of how much the Highland Games will receive from the two senior levels of government are not available.

Members of the public are welcome to attend.

Witnesses help collar thieves

SDG OPP are thankful for information from witnesses in a break and enter which took place in the early hours of Tuesday morning.

Police received a call just before 4 a.m. because an alarm had gone off at Williamstown Public School.

Upon arriving at the scene, officers noticed phone lines at the school and the Char-Lan Recreation Centre next door had been cut.

A door at the arena had been pried open, allowing the culprits to gain access to the building.

SDG OPP community services officer Constable Joël Doiron said a suspicious van was spotted in the area.

"We were able to trace the vehicle to a Cornwall residence and at 5:30 a.m., three males were arrested and taken into custody," he said.

The investigation was still ongo-

Log-home business draws objections

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Residents living near the site of a proposed log-home-building business in South Glengarry expressed their concerns at a public meeting held Oct. 15.

The meeting was held to consider a proposed amendment to the municipality's zoning bylaw. The amendment change would rezone a 3.2 acre property on the west side of Johnson Road from agricultural to agricultural special exception.

The change, if permitted, would allow contractor, Luke Bryan, to pre-assemble the houses on the site, before moving them to their destinations.

The applicant also wishes to build a residential dwelling on the property as a secondary use, and to use part of the property as a tree plantation.

Building inspector, Dwane Crawford, said that he had received one comment back from SDG Counties roads department regarding the location of the entranceway, and one enquiry from a neighbour worried about the possibility of permanent cranes and derricks on the property.

But it wasn't until the meeting that residents in the area spoke up in considerable mass against the proposal.

All residents living within 120 metres of the property were sent letters informing them of the application, according to Mr. Crawford.

Donald Allen, whose property is located a few metres north of the one in question, said he had concerns about truck traffic and about the noise of chainsaws.

Garry Atchison had similar worries.

"With this type of construction, chainsaws are part of the daily activities."

Mr. Atchison said there were five houses in close proximity, and that the property was on a municipal drain.

Another neighbour, Lynn McPhail, said she was not only concerned about the noise, but also the view from her "dream deck" in the future.

"I will be seeing trucks backing up; coming and going," she said.

Farmer Angela Dorie had other concerns, particularly with the loss of agricultural land.

"Why not go to commercial now?" she asked.

She also said she had concerns about scrap, and said that three acres was far too small a property for an operation such as the applicant was planning.

"This is a true danger. I really hope you think twice about this one," she told council.

Mr. Bryan declined to speak at the meeting, and Mr. Crawford said the comments heard from the neighbours would be taken under advisement before a decision is made.

Parade, group a 'family' affair

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

It takes many volunteers – one big family – to pull together the annual Lancaster Santa Claus Parade.

Maybe it shouldn't be surprising the theme for this year's parade on Dec. 7 is "A Family Christmas".

"We needed a theme that would appeal to everybody and one that doesn't make it difficult to put a float together," said parade chairperson Janice Montreuil.

"I hope we get some good ones. I would love to see a family reunion on a float. That would be great."

The parade is one of the largest events organized and run by the South Glengarry Service Club.

Mrs. Montreuil made a point of listing all the organizations: the Lancaster Legion Branch 544, the Township of South Glengarry, the Lancaster Fire Department, the Knights of Columbus, Br. 8715 of Lancaster, the Lancaster Antique Car Club, the Bainsville WI, the Lancaster Optimist Club, the South Lancaster Fish and Game Club, the Bank of Montreal and several private citizens.

The parade begins at 2 p.m., so entries should start arriving at least 30 minutes ahead of time at Smithfield Park, longer depending on the complexity of the float.

North Glengarry takes 'dead aim' at Canada geese

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Alexandria's mill pond will become the scene of a controlled goose hunt.

North Glengarry Township council voted unanimously for the measure in the hope of alleviating the geese problem.

Nearly 2,000 geese defecating into Alexandria's water source could lead to "a situation worse than Walkerton," North Glengarry Mayor Bill Franklin fears.

"The only way to get rid of them is to kill them," Mayor Franklin said at the Oct. 15 council meeting.

Over the past few weeks, the mayor has been talking to representatives from the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) and the Canadian Wildlife Service, but neither organization has offered an acceptable solution to the geese problem.

"Canadian Wildlife Service said net them and take them to Morrisburg (to the Upper Canada Bird Sanctuary), but they will fly back," he told council last Tuesday.

During migration, thousands of geese flying over Alexandria see the already problematic local geese resting on Mill Pond and join them, adding to the numbers and the mess at the bottom of the lake and its shores.

"We need to pass a resolution for an organized hunt which will last for two weeks," the mayor explained.

"Council will select no more than six hunters and they will be exempt from the noise bylaw. The MNR will be on hand to supervise."

The mayor hopes that after hearing a number of gun blasts and a seeing few geese die, the others will get the message that Mill Pond is not a safe place to land.

Details of the hunt will be released later after they are worked out, but at least one shoreline area resident is in favour of the hunt.

NG supports motion for one SDG riding

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

When it comes to electing members for the House of Commons or to Queen's Park, SDG wants to stand united.

The Township of North Glengarry passed a resolution siding with the United Counties of SDG against the Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission of Ontario.

Both are opposed to the commission's proposal to keep SDG split into two electorial districts. The new proposal has Stormont and Dundas being combined with Grenville County to the west.

The former township of Charlottenburgh would be separated from the current Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh riding and be including in the district of Glengarry- Prescott-Russell.

The United Counties councibelieves that SDG as a whole is "the logical district," said SDG administrator Mike Waddell in a memo.

SDG will be making a presentation at a public hearing in early November.

North Glengarry council is supporting the proposal with a resolution because SDG, as a "practical and historical unit" it should be an electoral district.

Copies of the resolution and an accompanying letter of support were to be sent to SDG, as well as to Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MPP Jean-Marc Lalonde and MP Don Boudria because provincial and federal electoral boundaries will be the same.

Break lease on green road snowmobilers urge council

News Reporter

An attempt to link a snowmobile trail from Alexandria to Maxville is still being held up by a landowner's control of a green road.

The Glengarry Snowmobile Club wants North Glengarry council to break a lease with Claude Bourcier. This would enable the club to develop the green road into a trail.

president Jacques Théorêt told council at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Théorêt has been in a dispute with property owner Claude Bourcier, who has a 20 year lease with the township for the green road on his property. Mr. Bourcier has denied the snowmobile club access to that road.

The road was officially closed by bylaw a number of years ago.

Over the past year, Mr. Théorêt has repeatedly asked council to break the lease and open the road, but Mr. Bourcier has stated if the township breaks the lease, he will sue.

The township can only legally break the lease by giving Mr. Bourcier six months' notice and that is only if the green road will be made into a public roadway.

Township clerk Leo Poirier said that is where the issue could become contentious before the courts.

"The issue is the definition of a public roadway," he said.

"We could open the road and restrict use (to snowmobiles, etc). But was that the intent of the lease, of the agreement at the time? It all has to do with the interpretation of the lease, which would be up to the judge."

If the court was to decide a "public roadway" includes cars, then the township would have to bring the road up to standard and snowmobiles would not be allowed on it.

Mr. Théorêt said he is willing to pay all legal expenses for the township if it decides to break the lease.

Kenyon Ward councillor Julie Akkermans pointed out to Mr. Théorêt that he may not be getting any further ahead by taking this route.

"If the township opens the (green) road," she said, "the risk is the same (as if the court said a road has to be built). What if the township wants to build a road there? Snowmobiles wouldn't be allowed anyway."

When Mr. Bourcier purchased his property more than 20 years ago, it was landlocked and could only be accessed by the road allowance.

Mayor Bill Franklin pointed out to Mr. Théorêt that if Mr. Bourcier were to decide to apply for a severance and sell portions of his land, those lots would be landlocked. The green road would have to be brought up to standard and again, snowmobiles wouldn't be allowed on it.

The former township of Kenyon entered into a lease agreement with Mr. Bourcier for 20 years at a time.

The current lease expires in 2005. If the township has no plans to open that road to public use at that time, the lease is automatically renewed for another 20 years.

"The township is being drawn into an issue which is between two parties, not the township," Mayor Bill Franklin said.

"I don't want to put the township in a liability situation."

Mr. Bourcier has been paying taxes on the land and has made improvements on his own. A few months ago, he made a proposal to the snowmobile club whereby the club would build a fence – at its own expense – the length of Mr. Bourcier's property. In exchange, he would allow access to the green road for five years.

Mr. Théorêt's response to the proposal was that five years was not long enough to make such an investment.

During the council meeting last Tuesday, Mr. Théorêt and Mr. Bourcier seemed to have made progress on the length of the agreement.

Council therefore tabled the motion to break the lease until its next meeting, to give Mr. Théorêt and Mr. Bourcier an additional two weeks to resolve the issue between them.

something was going to be done.

"If it's controlled and there are a lot of warnings (to residents), I wish them luck. It sounds good," he said of the idea. "(The geese) are not good for the lake. I don't mind seeing a few, but there are more than a thousand in the fall."

Mr. Lawson shares council's fears that goose excrement is polluting Mill Pond. He feels the problem will only get worse unless there is an intervention.

"There are 33 young ones out there who think of this as their home lake and they will come back. (Council) won't get too much opposition (to the hunt), at least not from me."

Mayor Franklin had previously attempted to frighten the geese from settling on the lake by firing a flare gun.

System needs upgrading

At the district fire chiefs' meeting of Oct. 10, Alexandria Chief Maurice Brunet requested that the communication system at Alexandria Telephone Answering Service be upgraded.

The system is 30 years old and is causing some communication problems. The Township of North Glengarry owns the communication system and is responsible for its maintenance.

Mr. Brunet was asked to request prices. Two tenders requested, one quote of $1,200 was received.

Mayor's breakfast

North Glengarry Township's economic development committee organized the first-ever Mayor's Breakfast for businesses on Oct. 15.

Mayor Franklin told council that evening he felt the breakfast was a success.

"It was relatively small, but it was positive. We had a good response," he said.

"We should plan more of these events to open dialogue between businesses and the township."

chocolate at the start.

Once again, the Ontario Provincial Police will be ensuring a safe parade by cordoning off traffic.

The route goes south along Main Street to Oak Street and then west to St. Joseph's Parish Hall.

"Santa Claus will be there to greet children, and elves will be passing out candy," Mrs. Montreuil said.

As children wait in line, Bank of Montreal staff will have hot chocolate available.

There will be trophies awarded for best overall float, best theme representation, most original, best walking costume, best horse and rider, best youth group award and best business float.

The parade committee will have its last meeting on Nov. 5.

GLENGARRY SCENE

Victim recovering slowly from attack

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

The attack has left her practically immobile, but it has strengthened her resolve against her attacker, a fisher.

"The pain has increased again," said Inge Mittman, whose left leg was mauled by a fisher while in her barn on Sept. 22.

"The nurses are still coming every day to change the packing on wound," Mrs. Mittman said.

"There appears to more inflammation on the outside of wound."

The senior citizen's recovery from the attack has not gone well.

Two weeks ago, she suffered a set-back.

"I went to the hospital for an infusion of antibiotics.

"At the emergency I collapsed. I felt very ill, nausated. I had severe chest pains. They had to stop the infusion. I was out for three hours."

The attending physician found the infection from the bite had spread and surgery was performed.

"The incision was three and half inches, but very deep in," Mrs. Mittman said.

"There was a lot of diseased tissue to come out.

"The nurse, when she came by, said, 'Oh my God, that's a deep one'."

Now after an entire month since the attack, she isn't sure when she'll be fully healed.

"The infection was supposed to clear up after a week of antibiotics. She has been on it for two weeks with little results.

Inge Mittman

She wants to make her suffering worthwhile by accomplishing two tasks: warn fellow rural residents of the danger that fishers pose; pressure the Ministry of Natural Resources to curb the fisher population.

"People have been calling me with their experiences with fishers."

After she was attacked, the MNR was not convinced the animal was a fisher, but perhaps a weasel or mink. The MNR also claimed Mrs. Mittman was the first person to be bitten.

"A nurse said last year in Martintown a woman was attacked. I don't know who it is, but she could find it through internal records.

"So much for the ministry saying no one has ever been attacked."

While obviously potentially dangerous to adults, Mrs. Mittman shudders at the prospect of a fisher lunging at a young child.

In spite of Mrs. Mittman's case, MNR biologists say there is no evidence to suggest that fishers pose a significant threat.

"There's a folklore like the Tasmanian Devil around it – people get frightened," said Scott Smithers, a biologist who works in the Glengarry area.

"But it doesn't go out of its way to attack a bigger animal.

"But if it feels threatened, it will fight or flee. And it will bite if provoked or cornered.

"The same could be said for any animal – a ground hog will do the same."

Mr. Smithers has an explanation for the increased number of encounters over the last few years.

He said marginal agriculture land is being left unused, so it is reverting to a natural, wild state.

"The habitat is changing, creating ideal habitat for fisher prey and fishers."

Combine this with increased rural settlement and there is bound to be more fisher-human contact.

"They're curious animals," he said.

He said rural residents, especially newcomers, should be pro-active when it comes to wildlife.

"Maybe it's a matter of education. Certainly if people are concerned, they should have a chat with their children that it's not a good idea to approach any wild animals."

The MNR itself has held information meetings on fishers for the public.

In fact, Mrs. Mittman appears to following this route already.

"I have a stuffed fisher in my house. I borrowed it from a friend to show it to my grandchildren; so they will lose their fear of the animal, but be fully aware of it."

Although the fisher's traditional food source, the porcupine, is uncommon in this area, other sources of sustenance exist.

"We did a stomach analysis two years, ago," Mr. Smithers said. "The No. 1 food was vegetative: apples, seeds, nuts, corn.

"The No. 2 was small mammals: mice, voles, moles."

The biggest prey a fisher would hunt in eastern Ontario would be cotton-tail and snowshoe hares.

And cats.

"If it's something smaller that it can kill, it will be prey," Mr. Smithers said.

"That's where most of the concern stems from."

Foxes also play a part. They are perhaps the fishers' prime competitor for food. And with a recent fox decline, more prey has been available for fishers.

As for Mrs. Mittman's case, Mr. Smithers provides a logical summation.

"They're not overly aggressive, unless it is surprised and cornered.

"A goal for a wild animal is to continue to live and reproduce. It's wired into the brains for them not to seek out a much larger animal, like a human.

"If it was, an animal like that would have been eliminated (by natural selection) a long time ago.

Mrs. Mittman was simply in the wrong place at the wrong time.

"Its obvious motive was of escape," Mr. Smithers said. "It went into a defence mechanism."

One way of controlling the population is through traditional trapping.

"We have opened up the quota to the point its among the most liberal in the province."

As for Mrs. Mittman's frequent fisher visitor, its still out there.

"The MNR said they will send a trapper in November.

"I can shoot it and kill it, but right now I can't even walk."

STAYING FIT: Local residents, such as Irene Lalonde, left, and Norma Greer, can participate in a fitness program at Alexandria's Rende-vous Centre.

You're never too old to exercise

By Todd Anderson
Staff Reporter

The Glengarry Outreach Seniors' Services Rendez-vous centre is receiving rave reviews of a fitness course they are offering to local residents.

Local fitness instructor Roxanne Hurtubise is currently hosting a 10-week course promoting health, flexibility and cardiovascular health.

Her message is clear.

"Every time we finish a class I tell them that you don't start aging until you stop all physical activity. We try to get the point across that you don't have to have high impact to stay fit. You can do low impact exercises to elevate your heart rate, burn fat and improve flexibility."

Each class is safe and is flexible to the needs of participants regardless of fitness level and other needs.

All exercises are explained clearly and participants are supervised to ensure proper form and intensity.

Participant Norma Greer appreciates knowing why they're doing certain exercises.

"She's an excellent teacher. She explains what and why we're doing things. What muscles are being used."

Another participant, Elizabeth Morris, said the course has been well-received.

"It's the type of thing the majority of people look forward to. Some have mentioned they would like to have it twice a week."

According to Hurtubise it's important for people to realize how many activities are out there.

"There's so many things to get out and stay healthy. Simple things make a huge difference."

Susan Stann, the co-ordinator of Glengarry Outreach, said registration has gone up from last year.

"We had about nine or 10 people last year and 16 to 18 at this year's courses. It's less impact and it's nice to see our clientele are older individuals. We want to promote wellness for them. We want to get them out of their homes and away from isolation. They're very special to us."

Meeting the ice Queen

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

Local fans of the monarchy could have seen Queen Elizabeth in Ottawa, but a 6th Conc. of Kenyon couple decided to fly. . . all the way to Iqaluit, capital of the Nunavut Territory.

Rosalind Nugent says it wasn't a decision based on convenience.

Last spring, the couple visited Iqaluit. One of the attractions was a festival, which also had a draw for a free return trip.

"They drew my husband, Tom," Mrs. Nugent said.

"They said we must come back when the Queen visits this fall."

So the Nugents were among those who lined up along the street waiting for Her Majesty.

"It was very exciting," Mrs. Nugent said.

"It's a very small town, so we walked to the airport, saw the (Queen's) plane coming in.

"The royal couple then walked to the legislative assembly building. There were some elders who sang a welcome song – it's actually a whale welcoming song."

The Nugents stayed outside near one of the side doors and were rewarded for their patience.

"She came out and looked at some carvings marking the legislative assembly.

"They then started a walkabout down the street (where the Nugents were).

"She just looked me straight in the eye. I congratulated her on her Golden Jubilee, and she said, 'Thank you very much'.

"I had bought a rose, and I had it in my hand; she didn't have any other flowers in her hand.

"But just two seconds later, her lady-in-waiting asked me if I would like her to give Her Majesty the flowers."

Just after her brush with royalty, Prime Minister Jean Chrétien shook hands with Mr. Nugent. Meanwhile, his wife caught the attention of the Minister of Heritage.

"I had a shouting match with Sheila Copps." Mrs. Nugent said with a chuckle.

After the walk-about, the entourage visited the local high school where Prince Phillip presented Duke of Edinburgh Awards to several students.

Many activities at Alexandria Youth Centre

October will be a busy and spooky month at the North Glengarry Youth Centre at Alexandria Island Park.

- Its first annual fundraising bowling tournament will be Oct. 25-27, to enter a team or more info, call 525-2801.
- On Oct. 31, the centre invites all little trick or treaters to visit their Haunted House, 4-8 p.m.
- Homework support offered on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons from 3:30 to 4:30. It is strictly for homework and tutoring.

Skillbuilders come back to lead student pack

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

It takes a lot to be a leader.

That's what students from both Char-Lan District High School and Glengarry District High School have learned as each school recently held a leadership camp.

Student co-ordinators Jenny Larkin and Sean Batty at Char-Lan said their school's first ever leadership camp was a resounding success.

"We were expecting around 60 people," Ms. Larkin said.

"We got 89. It was fun because there were more different personalities."

Dubbed "Crusader Quest," the leadership camp was held earlier this month at La Petite Rouge near Montebello. The students spent three days and two nights at the facility.

Participants took part in skill-building activities, led by a group of 24 Skillbuilders, or group leaders.

"The Skillbuilders were selected for their strong leadership abilities and their ability to lead a group independently," Ms. Larkin noted.

Skillbuilders were grouped in teams of two, one male and one female.

Leaders conducted workshops based on a booklet Ms. Larkin and Mr. Batty put together on different aspects of leadership, such as communication, spirit, risk, trust and self-esteem.

Of course, the three days of workshops were not all work. There was some fun had, including a polar bear dip at 6:30 one morning, a talent show, a fashion show and, in true Glengarry style, waking up to the sound of bagpipes.

"It was a positive atmosphere," Mr. Batty noted.

Four brave Char-Lan teachers stayed with the students throughout the camp, while others drove up during the day to take part.

"Quite a few teachers got to visit," Ms. Larkin said.

"Each one had different strengths, so it was different each day."

Mr. Batty said the goals of the leadership camp have been achieved.

"We wanted to boost school spirit, which had been lacking in the last few years."

The result? The first Char-Lan pep rally in a number of years was held last week prior to a soccer match-up with cross-county rival GDHS.

Ms. Larkin said that for her, getting to know new people made the whole experience – including little to no sleep – worthwhile.

"People you see in the halls all the time, you got the chance to know them personally, to develop a friendship and now we have the opportunity to keep those friendships going."

That sentiment was echoed at GDHS, by leadership camp organizers Tara Couchman and Angela McGregor.

"We made a lot of new friendships," Ms. Couchman said.

"We got to know a lot of people we never would have talked to otherwise."

The GDHS leadership camp was held at Rideau Hill Camp near Osgoode for two days and one night.

It was the second such camp for GDHS and both organizers hope it will continue after they graduate.

"This one was more successful than last year, so hopefully it will be an ongoing event," Ms. McGregor said.

Revolving around the theme "overcoming barriers," the 33 GDHS students who attended the camp had workshops on peer pressure, leadership, teamwork, diversity and multi-culturalism.

As at Char-Lan, students from all grades were involved.

"It made the Grade 9s more comfortable," Ms. Couchman said.

"There was a good mix of the student body."

In addition to learning, GDHS students also took part in fun activities, such as a campfire, a night hike and a 40-person group hug.

The GDHS crowd also had to rough it a little more than their Char-Lan counterparts: their cabins at Rideau Hills camp had no electricity.

"We had to do our own cooking," said Skillbuilder Scott Robinson.

"We were roughing it."

It did help, though, that Ms. Couchman's and Ms. McGregor's mothers tagged along to help with the culinary duties.

"It was a real family affair," said Ms. Couchman, whose brother Chris was also along as a Skillbuilder.

The nine Skillbuilders also learned a thing or two.

"I think (the camp) taught our Skillbuilders to be better leaders while they taught others what leaders are," Ms. Couchman said.

Char-Lan Skillbuilder and OAC student Bobbi-Lee Chatelaine felt the same.

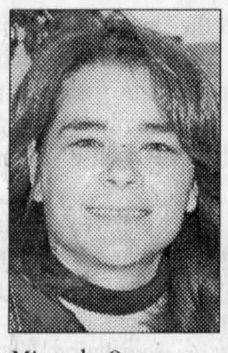
"Even though we were there as leaders, we learned a lot about being better leaders," she said.

Getting the flu shot is a good idea, Glengarrians agree

STRAIGHT TALK

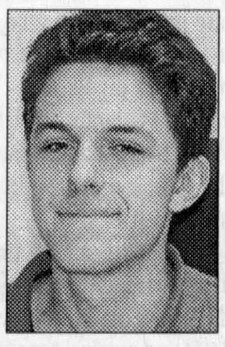
Do you think everyone should get the flu shot? Why or why not? What about yourself?

– Amanda Portinari



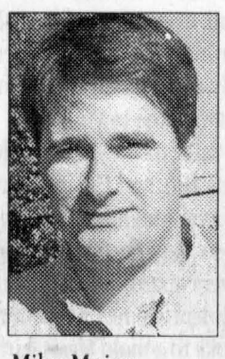
Miranda Orr

Pamela Fenwick



Bill Redmond

Diane Denobriga McMillan



Mike Major

Suzanne Jolicoeur

Miranda Orr, Alexandria: I think people who are prone to getting sick should get it, like the elderly and young children with weak immune systems.

I've heard of people who got it and were sick for the whole winter. I think too much emphasis is put on the flu shot.

Pamela Fenwick, North Lancaster: It depends on what kind of environment you spend most of your time in; like if you go to school or work at home, because the more people you are around the more risk there is of you infecting somebody else.

Only people who meet the medical and safety requirements should get it. Basically, though, it's a personal decision. I get one every year.

Bill Redmond, Alexandria: I think everyone should get the flu shot. The more people that get it, the less people that will get sick. If people are not concerned with themselves, they should at least be concerned about passing it on to others.

Diane Denobriga McMillan, Alexandria: In some cases it's better to get it because the colds don't come on as strong. I got one last year and I didn't get sick at all.

Mike Major, North Lancaster: Yes, I think everyone should try to get the flu shot. If it can prevent people from getting sick then that is reason enough for everyone to get the shot. I will definitely be getting one myself.

Suzanne Jolicoeur, Green Valley: I think certain people should get it. I have heard that some people have gotten sick from the shot, so I am not sure. I don't think I will get one myself.

Controlled hunt a tough solution for a difficult problem

EDITORIAL

The problem of Canada geese defecating in the water of Alexandria's Mill Pond and the grounds of the Island Park has landed on the agenda of North Glengarry council seemingly as often as geese flying overhead during their migratory seasons.

Still, council seemed incapable of acting on the problem until the possibility "that a situation worse than Walkerton" might occur, as North Glengarry Mayor Bill Franklin put it, finally forced the township's hand.

Council unanimously passed a resolution at its last meeting on Oct. 15, enabling the township to commence with a "controlled hunt".

In effect, a half-dozen local hunters will aim their shotguns and kill geese, plain and simple, for up to two weeks consecutively.

By that time, it is hoped the geese will begin avoiding the park and pond the same way the other major park users – humans – avoided their droppings.

Council's only previous remedy was to allow Mayor Franklin periodically to fire off a flare gun. The results of that course of action were mixed at best.

Although the wider issue of ensuring safe drinking water for the town needs to be addressed, the geese pose a problem on a micro-level almost daily.

A case in point is a recent scare suffered by the parents of 20-month-old girl.

The toddler had been playing innocently along the shore when she fell into the water and swallowed some of it.

The next morning, the mother discovered her child had vomited up blood.

Although the danger of E.coli was avoided, such a prospect under the current conditions is only waiting to happen.

In the meantime, an awareness of the pond's reputation for high E.coli readings must surely have taken its toll on the public's recreational uses of the beach.

After being contacted by The News on this incident, Alexandria ward Councillor Gary Shepherd said the geese issue must be, once again, revisited.

And so Mayor Franklin reported to council of methods being used by other municipalities.

The most humane method appears to be a netting and relocation program.

But it is also the least effective as the resident geese will likely to fly back to their nesting grounds next spring.

Cost is also a factor – just how long and how many people would be needed to net a high percentage of the birds?

One interesting way of reducing the population is searching out the eggs, and administering a fateful shake, which ends the embryo's life.

But this does nothing to address the current predicament, and won't be effective until well into next spring, weeks after people once again begin using the park.

So council was left with just one sure-'fire' option, which is being borrowed from our southern neighbours in the U.S. – shoot them. As has been pointed out in this space, up to 11,000 geese licences are issued each year in New Jersey to deal with the problem there.

Council is still working out the details, but it would be safe to assume the "controlled hunt" will be conducted in as conservative a fashion as possible.

The emphasis should be on "scaring" rather than "reducing" the population.

Naturally, the hunters, still to be determined, will have plenty of targets and some quota should be allowed for their time and expense.

The Mill Pond population has skyrocketed in recent weeks with the arrival of other geese from further north, augmenting the already considerable flock which makes the pond its home, spring through fall.

The question, therefore, is not whether council's decision to authorize a hunt is appropriate, but rather did it wait too long to take effective action for this year.

Hopefully all the necessary details can be worked out in time to take action that will make both the pond and park safer and more useful facilities next year.

Thorns & Thistles

THORN – Fight looms over quarry plan.

There's a battle brewing in the Dunvegan area over a proposed quarry operation and the arguments, pro and con, figure to get pretty hot and heavy before the dust settles on the issue.

On one side is a local citizen's group, Quarries are the Pits (QP), and on the other, the Cornwall-based firm of Grant Ready Mix. Naturally, both are convinced that their position should prevail.

Caught in the middle, it would seem, is North Glengarry Township Council, which will have to decide on the firm's application for a zoning amendment to the township's official plan.

Given the potential for disruption to area residents and wear and tear on local infrastructure, it's easy to understand why QP has been ready and waiting to oppose the plan.

As well, QP spokesperson James Joyce raises two other significant issues.

The first is how much of an impact the development will have on local water supply, which is at a premium in recent years due to drought-like conditions. Any effect on the local aquifer is a very legitimate concern.

The second noteworthy issue has to do with the location of the proposed development.

Quarry operations are not a pretty sight at the best of times and the location of this one suggests that it could be even more of a significant eyesore during its years of operation, as it will be far more visible than many other such operations which, according to Mr. Joyce, typically are located on back roads, adjacent to remote farmland.

One thing that can't be expected is that the company will withdraw its proposal at the first indication of opposition. It has been waiting to proceed on its proposal for at least seven years, since first acquiring the property and, during that period, has paid for a number of studies – ranging from hydrology to surface drainage and site access – in support of its proposal. In that regard, it's reasonable to assume, in part, that the reason it is now proceeding with its application is that it finally has all its ducks in a row.

Also a factor, admitted to by company co-owner Peter Grant, is the potential lure of a lucrative contract for the impending refurbishment of the west lane of Highway 417. Reconstruction of the almost completed east lane put up to $27-million in the pockets of contractors and suppliers and it's likely to produce even more revenue for those who win contracts on the west lane.

Given the high stakes involved for all parties, it will be interesting to see how this one plays out.

THISTLE – Lions Club focuses on 'Sight Night.'

It's well documented that festivities surrounding Halloween have been on the rise of late, particularly amongst adults, many of whom dress up for work or attend a growing list of parties in homes or at bars.

Also noticeable is the increased emphasis on Halloween decorations that one can spot throughout the area.

Then, there are the treats for kids. Local retailers are full of merchandise to give away to the variously sized ghosts and goblins that make the local rounds.

In the past, organizations such as UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund) have tried to harness the spirit of the occasion by encouraging trick or treaters to collect pennies on its behalf. Now one of our local service clubs, the Lions, has joined in.

The club has arranged for three local schools to collect unused eye glasses, which will eventually make their way to Third World countries to aid those in need.

As well, adults and youngsters outside the three schools can participate by turning in eyeglasses at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Tuck Shop.

At a time when Hollywood has used violence in films such as Fright Night to fatten its purses, it's nice to see a little play on words, Sight Night, take advantage of such exploitation in a positive sense.

Phantoms in long-johns

MY GLENGARRY

ROD McDONALD

The other day, over a creamy pint of Guinness, my friend Johnny reminded me of the Halloweens back at a time when Police Chief Eddie Dupuis, and a small army of helpers – one being my father – would try in vain to keep the devilment in town to a minimum.

Alexandria was lined with wooden sidewalks that creaked in the winter, and warped into a roller coaster during the dog days of summer. These same sidewalks provided our local pranksters with all the ammunition they needed on a hair-raising October night that might look like something out of the Legend of Sleepy Hollow.

They used them as barricades on the side streets, piling them into giant funeral pyres which they never ignited, and hanging sections from the giant maples that lined the main street.

In those days, Halloween was a feast for tired eyes and bored souls; however, it was not recommended for the faint of heart.

Most of the shenanigans were reserved for what we called the big goons, the ones who sported those pink long-johns stuffed with rags so that some were rotund, some were emaciated, and some were just plain lumpy. But all of them were downright spooky.

While the little Caspers dashed about, clutching heavy bags of goodies, these ghouls never availed themselves of any treats, although they stared hauntingly as the candies were doled out by kindly old ladies chewing peppermints.

These large spectres seemed to be in some kind of secret brotherhood which forbade trick or treating, fraternizing with kids, and above all, ever muttering anything more complicated than a guttural grunt. They were also sentinels, assuring that no horseplay or candy piracy occurred among the clusters of goblins of all ages who roamed the town.

Much later, as the little people cranked up their insulin levels by a roaring fire, and the moon crossed the sky over the Mill Pond, there was a soundless curfew which signalled an evacuation of the streets so that the heavier types could frolic. And even though there were guards posted throughout the town, the same amount of devilment seemed to occur annually.

We woke to a main street garnished with rickety hay wagons, all sorts of buggies, and the odd manure spreader, replete with leftovers from the fall spreadings. These were hung precariously from the hydro poles at odd angles, often stuffed with straw politicians, some decapitated. I do believe I saw a Sir John A. MacDonald one night.

Side streets were littered with magical assortments of old hay rakes and mowers, the likes of which one finds in Duncan Donovan's City Work at Country Prices, and on one occasion, the town woke up to a full-sized threshing machine, looking like something that had dropped in from War of the Worlds, with its long tin arms pointing every which way, and the straps and belts stuffed with straw heads that looked like guillotined aristocrats from the French Revolution.

Since most of the paraphernalia of trickery seemed to originate on local 'back forties,' most had it in their heads that the vandals were country bumpkins out for a guffaw on the townspeople. However, after all these years, that speculation remains unproven. Whether the ghosts were farmers or city slickers has not been settled, even though the odd ghost was spotted wearing manure-encrusted rubber boots.

Beyond a doubt, the most memorable ruse of those bygone days was the glut of outhouses placed at strategic positions, such as the town hall lawn and the entrance to the jailhouse or 'coop,' which was at times a bed and breakfast for drunks.

Halloween night often resulted in an embarrassing and blustery morning visit to the throne for many an area farmer. Gossip has it one poor hayseed actually went for an unexpected early morning dip when he did not see the gaping hole which was once covered by his outhouse, as he hustled through the hay in search of his throne, the trap-door of his long-johns flapping in the breeze.

Today's Halloween consists of polluting line-ups of open-doored vans belching out hordes of anxious Draculas, Frankensteins and extra-terrestrials, many of whom have travelled from other towns and beyond. Most munchkins are scrumptiously cute; however, few say, "Thank you, " and I have heard the dreaded, "Is that all we get?" and "Cheap!" once too often for my liking.

Parent groups that look more like vigilantes with flashlights shadow their offspring, and who can blame them? However, they provide a less romantic surveillance in comparison to the unsolicited help we got from our long-john spooks.

All in all, Halloween remains one of my favourite times of the year. In some ways, it is an infallible barometer that tells us how far we've come as a society, and at the same time, how far we've slipped. If the evolution of this great and magical time is any indicator, I'll take those spooky guardian angels, those phantoms in pink long-johns over cruising squad cars and lines of vans anytime. I miss the enchantment of it all.

But then again, I'm a late boomer, and I'm certain contemporary kids don't know what they missed, and love Halloween just as much as we did, even though it's become a bit too racy for this old fellow.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Halloween

Never have I heard such drivel as in last week's Letter to the Editor attack on a custom which actually in its present form reflects considerable Christian influence.

The original festival – known in the Celtic world as Samhain and the Nordic worlds as the Night of the slain Warriors – is not any Satanic plot as implied by your correspondent, but a time to reflect on the memories and lives of those who have gone before us.

For those of us who keep the old traditions, it is a time to thank our ancestors for the wisdom they have offered us, the love and caring we have received.

When we sit in silent meditation, we open ourselves to the echoes of the past, and listen for advice, encouragement and blessings.

In other countries, the graves of the deceased family-members are decorated, fragrant candles are lit, and a general feeling of companionship between dead and the living prevails.

This, incidentally, does not occur in some "benighted" corners of the world, but in predominantly Catholic areas such as Mexico, or Eastern Europe.

I remember from my childhood in Moravia (part of the Czech Republic) the elegant decorations of the gravesites, the thick fragrant candles in special lanterns, the hawkers of sweets and roasted chestnuts that circulated between the rows of graves – it was a respectful sharing of the gifts of the year that was coming to a close.

When today's children come to your door dressed in fanciful costumes, they in a way represent the shades of our ancestors, and it behooves us to share with them the riches of the past season.

And by having changed the name of the day to Halloween (hallowed evening) and the following day to All Saints Day, the Christian influence has been established, even if it is built on the ruins of the former belief systems.

So, where does this leave your correspondent, who whimpers on his knees about Satan?

If he bemoans his sinful life, there is still time to atone for it by some random acts of kindness – as long as they are not self-seeking!

The monarchy

I just read the "man on the street" answers to your question regarding Canada's need or lack thereof of the monarchy. Personally, I like the monarchy but not when it costs me money!

It seems that we haven't enough money to look after our compatriots and when you realize how rich the queen is, it's ridiculous to spend all that money to give her a jubilee "party".

But there is one major factor to having the monarchy as our head of state: the monarchy is the perfect umbrella to protect us. Just think back a bit and you'll realize that when India gained

Pomp and memories crowd 40th anniversary

By Inez Franklin
News Correspondent

The 40th Anniversary Harvest Ball and School Reunion was an anniversary to remember.

The theme was beautifully executed by the decorating team using the abundance of nature and the fall harvest. The hall was transformed into a bower glowing with the colours of autumn in the flickering candlelight.

The celebration began with Mike and B.J. Coleman and Christian McCarthy piping in the evenings' dignitaries.

Master of ceremonies was Jim McDonell, a native of Bridge End, who transferred from that school to the township school when the latter opened in 1962. He welcomed the guests recognizing in a special way Sam (S.J.) McLeod who was present with his family.

Ian McLeod extended greetings from the South Glengarry Township council and Art Buckland represented the current Upper Canada District School Board.

Historical background

The historical background of the school's creation was recounted in a presentation by Charles Osborne whose late father, George, was chairman of the local board. Vice chairman was John Fourney, trustees were Archie Robertson, Ray McDonell, and John McBain, while Isobel Sangster served as secretary.

Charles' sketches of life in a one room school brought back memories for many. Five such schools, Bridge End, Bainsville, Brazeau, Picnic Grove and Condie were amalgamated into the new Lancaster Township Area Public School which was officially opened on Nov. 16, 1962.

The concept of amalgamation, so commonly known today, was very forward thinking 40 years ago. However, in the interest of quality education for their children, board members met endlessly and worked diligently to bring the vision to life.

Original board members

John Fourney and Archie Robertson, members of the original board spoke on the challenges and rewards of their work. Clearly their accomplishments were the result of a combined effort for the greater good of the community rather than personal gain and it was a pleasure to listen to their remarks.

Recognition was given to deceased members of the original board, all of whom had family members present.

The next presentation was made to the family of Edgar and Maude McNaughton who agreed to part with five acres of their farmland so that the new school might be situated in the centre of the former Lancaster township.

A framed copy of Helen Sloan's poem, written for the occasion, was presented to Margaret and Alex McNaughton.

A commemorative plaque, presented by Leighton McDonell, will be hung in the school.

Gary McArthur, a former principal and teacher, read a poem as he was wont to do in the early years followed by an audio-visual presentation of some photo highlights in the school's history.

Thus concluded the formal portion of the evening.

While the Pierre Vaillancourt quintet provided music for dancing the many teachers and students enjoyed the historical information displayed and the opportunity to see old friends.

Parents and friends who could not attend missed a fabulous evening which was so much a celebration of the school's community spirit and rural nature.

Congratulations to the organizers for a great job!

IN HIS NAME: Among the list of distinguished guests at the SJ MacLeod 40th anniversary reunion Saturday night at Char-Lan Recreation Centre hall was Sam J. MacLeod himself, sitting in wheelchair, being greeted by John Fourney and being escorted by Upper Canada District School Board trustee Art Buckland.

it's independence, it was fair game for any country that wanted to invade it – and no Britain to protect it – and it`s been at war since then. And what about the rock, The Falklands, when Argentina wanted to nab it England soon put fini to that scheme.

Now just think what would happen if we were given our independence from Britain, with our resources, who do you think would suddenly decide to "liberate" us?

I prefer the British ethereal umbrella than the American canny friendship.

Some motorists still not wearing seat belts

Police Briefs

Members of the OPP Eastern Region checked a total of 54,069 vehicles during this year's Fall Seat Belt Campaign. That's an increase of 12,000 vehicles over last year's campaign.

A total of 1,227 charges were laid against those failing to buckle-up and 860 warnings were issued for the improper use of seatbelts. That reflects an increase from 2001, when 1,043 charges were laid.

"It is disturbing to see that so many people still don't understand how simple it is to make travelling on the highway safer for yourself and your family," says Inspector Bryan Pollard, the regional manager of the OPP's Traffic and Marine programs.

"We've seen several motor vehicle collisions this year in which seatbelts could have saved lives."

The campaign also included inspections of Child Safety Seats. Eastern Region OPP officers checked 649 child seats, resulting in 18 charges and 39 warnings for improper use of child restraints.

In SDG, officers checked a total of 1,662 vehicles for seat belt compliance during the campaign, resulting in 23 charges. Thirty child seat restraints were also checked, resulting in only one charge.

Although compliance in the area was at 98 per cent, the emphasis on the importance of wearing a seat belt must continue, stated SDG OPP community services officer Joel Doiron.

"One hundred per cent is attainable with everyone's cooperation," he said.

The Fall Seatbelt Campaign ran from Sept. 28 to Oct. 11.

Boat and trailer taken

Overnight between Oct. 18 and 19, a boat and trailer were taken from a residence on the Little Third road in North Glengarry. The unit had been winterized and parked in the driveway.

The boat is a 1986 Concorde, maroon and grey in colour, 29.5 feet long, Cuddy Vagabond II, registration number 32E7554 valued at $35,000, including the motor, which is a 1986 470 Mercruiser inboard motor. The trailer is a grey 1989 Homemade with Ontario plates X98339, valued at $2,500.

Const. S. Turcotte is investigating.

Break and enters

A total of three break and enters were reported to SDG OPP this week.

On Oct. 18, police received a report of a break and enter at a residence on County Road 17 in South Glengarry. The incident had occurred sometime during the last three weeks. The owner of the residence has recently passed away and family members discovered the theft.

Stamp and coin collections were taken, as well as a television. Also taken was a revolver and six long guns, all engraved with M12721730201022.

The same day, sometime between 11:25 a.m. and 3 p.m., a residence on Concession 4 in South Glengarry was entered when a window was forced open.

A quantity of cash was removed. A suspicious vehicle observed in the area is described as being a dark coloured Grand-Am or Cavalier.

Const. D. Roy is investigating both incidents.

In North Glengarry, a business on Massie Crescent in Alexandria was entered overnight between Oct. 19 and 20.

A quantity of cash was removed.

Const. C. Labelle is investigating.

Break-ins are an ongoing concern of SDG OPP. Making your homes and businesses safe is of utmost importance. Please report any suspicious activity in your area. Help us deter criminal activity.

Assault charges laid

Just after 2 a.m. on Oct. 19, SDG OPP officers responded to a report of an assault on Main Street in Alexandria.

A 22-year-old male from Alexandria forced himself into a business and assaulted an 18-year-old female who was working there. The two knew each other. Before leaving, the man then broke a mirror on the victim's vehicle.

The male was arrested a short time later and faces charges of assault, forcible entry, mischief and failing to comply with conditions stemming from a previous charge. He was held for a bail hearing.

Const. B. Richardson is investigating.

Theft from business

Sometime between Oct. 5 and 7, a thief or thieves broke into a business on Duncan Street in Lancaster. Cash and a laptop computer were taken.

Constable S. McDougald is investigating.

Pop machines damaged

Overnight between Oct. 15 and 16, three soft drink machines located outside businesses on Main Street in Alexandria were damaged. Culprit(s) pried the doors open and stole the change inside.

Anyone with information is asked to call SDG OPP at 1-888-310-1122.

Help solve break and enters

Each week, Crime Stoppers spotlights a crime that has been committed in the area.

Crime Stoppers would like to remind you that we need information on all crimes, not just the crime of the week.

Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers is requesting the public's assistance in solving break and enters, both commercial and residential.

Residential break-ins can be traumatic for the victims with the loss of family heirlooms and the invasion of privacy. Commercial break-ins can be financially devastating for a business.

Persons who buy stolen property should remember that possession of stolen property carries the same penalty as theft.

We need your information, not your name. You will remain anonymous. You will not have to appear in court and you may be eligible for a cash reward. Crime Stoppers: it's your program and it works.

Preventing violence against pregnant women

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU) has launched a campaign to reduce violence against pregnant women.

Statistics indicate young pregnant women are at a high risk of suffering violence from their partner.

Facts such as this have prompted the health unit to launch a new public education campaign called "It Takes Courage to Change."

This month, the EOHU is circulating information in doctors' offices, pharmacies, grocery and corner stores. The EOHU will also visit area high schools to talk to students.

The campaign's focus is to educate the male abuser and to provide support and advice to pregnant women at risk of abuse as well as those currently in an abusive relationship.

"Young pregnant women are particularly at risk of violence due to a number of factors," said Patti Gauley, EOHU co-ordinator and supervisor.

"These include the age of the mother, the fact the pregnancy was unintended, the increased stress a woman's partner may feel about the impending birth and the use of alcohol or drugs in the relationship."

Forty per cent of women who report being abused by their partners while pregnant say the abuse began during their pregnancy, Ms. Gauley stated.

"The pregnancy itself increases the possibility of violence, because a pregnant women is most often assaulted on the breasts, abdomen or genitals, as opposed to the head, which is the area of the body domestic abusers normally attack," she said.

Violence against a pregnant woman can result in physical and psychological damage to both mother and child.

Physical effects can include trauma to the abdomen, fetal bruising or fractures, hemorrhaging, uterine infection or rupture, miscarriage or stillbirth, preterm labour and ruptured membranes.

Psychological consequences for the mother include stress, depression and addiction to tobacco, alcohol and drugs – creating more potential health problems for mother and child.

"Understanding what partner violence really means and learning to avoid or get out of a situation before it becomes explosive is a critical component of our campaign," Ms. Gauley said.

"Violence is not necessarily physical. Often, victims are subjected to repeated abuse and this may be physical or psychological abuse," stated Ms. Gauley.

The promotion of healthy relationships among young people is a strong component of the EOHU campaign. Young women cannot always distinguish between a healthy relationship and an abusive one.

Male and female high school students in SDG and Prescott-Russell will be encouraged during EOHU information sessions to take a quiz in order to learn how to identify and avoid potentially violent relationships, as well as steps to take if abused.

"Healthy relationships are nurturing, loving and positive experiences for both parties," Ms. Gauley said .

"Part of growing up is learning to distinguish a healthy relationship versus an unhealthy one."

Opening their hearts

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

About six years ago, Martintown area residents Diane and Hans von Bornhoft were looking for a way to contribute to their community.

That's when they decided to give foster parenting a try and they haven't looked back.

Six years and 10 foster kids later, the von Bornhofts say they are happy with their decision.

"It's difficult to imagine these children have gone through so much," Mr. von Bornhoft said.

"We hope we can provide love and stability – not replace their family, but show them another kind of life."

The von Bornhofts have two sons of their own. The oldest, Jason, is married and lives in Toronto, while Christopher, 16, is in Grade 11 at Char-Lan.

"We only take boys," Mrs von Bornhoft said, "because that's what we know. We always take children younger than Chris. He's been a big brother to a lot of different children. It takes a lot of patience."

The family currently has two foster children, ages 13 and 10, who have been with them four and three and a half years respectively. Another boy, aged 12, is expected to arrive any day.

"It can be frustrating, but you do see rewards," Mr. von Bornhoft said.

"The objective is to reunite the kids with their families."

Foster parents undergo extensive and ongoing training by the Children's Aid Society of SDG (CAS).

Potential foster families must fill out an application, pass a police check, undergo interviews, individually and as a family.

The von Bornhofts encourage people who are contemplating becoming foster parents not to let financial issues get in the way.

"You are compensated by CAS. That covers room, board and clothing," Mrs. von Bornhoft said.

"Kids' activities and any holidays or vacations are out of pocket, so you can live within financial constraints."

The von Bornhofts choose to take their foster children on vacation to New Hampshire every summer.

"We have done lots of travelling and it has been an added benefit to our lives," Mr. von Bornhoft said.

"So we want to take the kids a little further from home – a lot of these kids have never been outside SDG."

Children from SDG are placed in homes within the United Counties and many maintain contact with their natural families while they are in foster care. Foster parents set the parameters, such as the age and sex of children they are willing to foster.

"We can choose the children that best fit into the family," Mr. von Bornhoft said.

The von Bornhofts encourage their son's and foster sons' interests and activities.

"They are all into sports," Mr von Bornhoft said.

"(The 13-year-old) just built a cross-country running trail through the property. The three boys played on a total of five different soccer teams this summer, now there's school soccer. They enjoy a lot of different activities."

Foster parents do not replace a child's natural parents. Rather, they give that child a glimpse at a different life.

"We try to show them there is an alternative to the turmoil they camE from," Mrs von Bornhoft said.

"We try to break the cycle, because it has a tendency of repeating itself."

Not all foster children come from violent or broken homes. Some are put under CAS care due to a parent's inability to care for the child during an illness, for example.

"Their stays with us can be as short as 10 days, while some are here for a specific amount of time," Mr. von Bornhoft said.

"Ultimately, we want the children back in their natural homes."

The CAS marked Foster Family Week from Oct. 13 to 19 this year. During Foster Family Week, the CAS honours families who give of their time and themselves to serve the community by being foster parents.

Celtic arts project is one of many steps for fledgling Glengarry Place

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

A summer's work devoted to Glengarry's Celtic arts has resulted in a 200-plus page notebook.

That's what Elizabeth Fraser presented to supporters of Glengarry Place for the Arts committee at the group's wine and cheese reception last week.

Ms. Fraser was hired by Glengarry Place to begin the task of recording the history.

"It was a lot of work," Ms. Fraser told the News.

"I did the best I could, but it's going to take a long time (to complete)."

Most of Ms. Fraser's work consisted of interviewing local musicians. She also uncovered old photographs and one or two records which will be added to Glengarry Place's archives.

"It's a beginning towards a place for the arts," Ms. Fraser commented.

"They need a place to put (artifacts)."

Glengarry Place chairperson Julia Danskin said everyone involved was very pleased with the work Ms. Fraser did over the summer.

"All the comments I heard were favourable," she said.

"A lot of things were collected; she got a lot of information."

Mrs. Danskin hopes the information will become part of the Glengarry Place music hall of fame and that another student will be hired next summer to continue the extensive work.

Glengarry Place for the Arts will be holding its first annual general meeting on Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Maxville and District Sports Complex.

The public is welcome to attend the meeting and anyone interested in running for a position on the board of directors is welcome to put their name forward.

"That meeting will cement everything," Mrs. Danskin said.

"The new executive will then have the mandate to start looking seriously at funding for this Glengarry Place."

Now that Glengarry Place is incorporated and has charitable status, Mrs. Danskin hopes more people will support the project.

"It's been a slow procedure, so it was hard to get people interested," she said.

"But you have to crawl before you can walk."

As part of the ongoing effort, a Celtic concert to benefit the Music Hall of Fame will be held at Laggan Public School Friday, beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Fair board dinner all-round success

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

Those of you who missed Friday night's Fair Board Dinner at St. Mary's missed a good evening.

The grub was great, the tempo was timely and the speaker was succinct. We were home full-bellied, good spirited and in time for the evening news.

Congratulations go out to organizers and participants for doing their parts so well!

A particular back-pat goes to Joan P. MacDonald for agreeing to be the guest speaker at the meeting. Apparently it was very difficult to snare a talker this year – rampant laryngitis seemed to be making the rounds, you know.

Dignitaries and minor kings of minor fiefdoms surrounding ours regretfully declined; what was an entertainment committee chief to do? Call on the tried and true, that's what!

Joan stepped into the role with a pleasant, "Sure I'll do it," (or words to that effect), and delivered an amusing and interesting talk on the fair's gemstone neighbour, the museum.

Congrats to Clare Gougeon and the St. Mary's Parish Centre for putting on such a tasty meal. After the meal, I was talking to one whose palate is unusually delicate and she was full of raves.

And to a certain someone for helping, what can I say? Deft, silent as a cat, smiling through her whiskers – well done!

Magazine editors, take note: if you are looking for a photograph of harvest banquet décor, come hither next year.

The team of Lise and Rick Marvell, Austin and Lorraine Alguire and Betty MacDonald sure know how to fancy up a place with a little help from local supporters Marlin Orchards and Keith Wells.

High-fives for this lot, too.

Ditto for winners, both earned and chance.

Winners of the photo contest were Linda Howes, who took first place, Patricia (it sounded like Bratley - apologies if not) who was second, and Sharon Prevost, third.

The contest was for photos to decorate the cover of the 2003 fairbook. Bruce Kennedy, who attended the big all-Ontario fairs' meeting in Toronto in February, pronounced our fairbook the best by far and said it (and thus the photos of the above) would be seen right across the province.

Lucky winners were Gary Sloan who triumphed over our professional bean-counters as he best guessed the 3,652 beans in the bean jar.

For his arithmetic estimation, Gary earned himself (or maybe Helen) a lovely floral arrangement.

Door prize winners included Helen Kennedy, Cyndy Vogel, Margaret Chisholm, Elizabeth Cleary, Joan P. MacDonald, Jerome MacDonell and Sommer Robertson.

Above all, congratulations to the winners of special awards – Gillian Wall for being the premiere exhibitor, Alex and Betty MacDonald for winning the fair board's own merit prize, Diane Berry for her all-Ontario prize-winning quilt and Martin Lang for winning the Agricultural Society Service Award for all those many, many things he does for agriculture.

Usually the politicians at such events give "a few words" of the carbon copy kind. Not so MPP John Cleary this year.

John gave us the real reason for his weak spell at the fair last summer. Turns out he had a floating bone in his foot and thought he would have a hard time climbing on to Centrestage to take his place among the dignitaries. His doctor told him to take some pretty powerful painkillers – Tylenol 3 – before mounting the stage.

"Take two," said the doctor.

John did as the doctor said. It was at least one pill too many, as it knocked him out, quite literally.

But John had nothing but praise for the way fair board directors and medical staff helped him at the grounds and we have nothing but praise for the way he stood among us again on Friday night to set the record straight!

I, for one, know how these health rumours can so easily get distorted. Learned last night that rumour has it I am going in for hip replacement surgery. Don't think it will do me a whole lot of good, since I have arthritis of the spine, but what the heck? I'm sure the mongers will let me know if the operation was a success!

Too full for other dinners?

The one negative comment to make about the fair board dinner is its potentially negative effect on other local dinners. Too much fatcalf dining in one weekend is against doctors' orders!

St. Mary's Roast Beef Supper held at the centre on Sunday went over very well, with lots of positive compliments being received by the hard-working kitchen staff. Numbers were down a little, however, and this may to due to the reason mentioned above, or to the fact that attendance at church suppers everywhere seems to be declining.

Perhaps we'll learn the answer when St. Andrew's United holds its annual Turkey Supper on Saturday, Nov. 2.

Big Sister honoured

Congratulations to Dianne Grannary on being named Big Sister of the Year in recent ceremonies held in Cornwall.

Dianne and her little sister, Meagan Malone, have been friends for six years and Meagan often visits Williamstown, helping out at functions such as the turkey supper mentioned above.

Dianne is a teaching assistant at Williamstown Public School and supplies me with news for this column – not, however, her personal news such as the item above!

Big Brother of the Year is also a South Glengarry resident – Cameron MacLean of Glen Walter, son of Mabel and the late Walter MacLean of Summerstown.

Happy birthday Jill

Someone told me today was Jill Munro's birthday, so just thought I'd throw some birthday wishes in here for good measure. I don't usually mention birthdays, unless specially asked to do so, but today I just felt like it.

Isn't it wonderful to be able to do so?

Citizenship Week

The ability to be able to speak freely is one of the perks of being Canadian, as students at Williamstown Public School found out during Citizenship Week, which they celebrated at the school.

Teacher Nathalie Corneaux gave the intermediate classes a pretty good explanation of local government and then produced South Glengarry Councillor Janette Abbey as a real-live politician. Councillor Abbey then read the proclamation of Canadian Citizenship Week as the students went through a citizenship reaffirmation ceremony.

Congratulations to the staff for letting our young people know how lucky they are to be living here and for trying to ensure they grow up to be good citizens.

Emily MacInnes tribute

It is to be hoped there will be a good showing from among the Williamstown community at the tribute evening for the late Emily MacInnes, being held Friday night (October 25) at CCVS in Cornwall, at 7:30 p.m.

Miss MacInnes did much for the area and touched the lives of many with her kindness. Just learned from Joan P. at the fair board dinner that Emily had always been a very staunch supporter of the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum, for instance.

Organizers of the evening would like you to know that parking is available in a lot located on the north side of Fifth St. East, across the street from the Fifth St. entrance to the school. Please note that you may only travel in a westerly direction on Fifth, as it is a one-way street

Members of the committee will be at both the Sydney St. and the Fifth St. doors to help guide your way to your seats in the cafetorium.

Classes at Rec. Centre

Tole and decorative painting classes for adults are being offered on Sunday afternoons from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre. The kids can take advantage of the public skating during that time and you can be painting away close by in the meeting room.

Final registration deadline for the class is this Friday, so hurry!

Library news

A special Halloween story hour for little ones aged two to five years takes place on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at 10:30 a.m. at the Williamstown Library. Stories, spooky fun, and a little craft for Mum are on the bill, so bring the kids and come along.

Euchre results

Results from last week's Friendly Neighbours Euchre are as follows: Ladies winners – High – Rita Lauzon; 2nd – Germaine Kennedy; Low – Germaine White.

Gents winners – High – John Krol; 2nd – Tony Wetering; Low – Leo Lauzon.

Tony Wetering also won the door prize.

Moose on the loose

True story heard at South Glengarry Council: a moose was recently spotted walking down the main street of Lancaster, just yards from the township offices. Only one problem – administrator Marcel Lapierre, who happens to be a hunter, missed his opportunity. He wasn't in the office that day. He was up north, hunting!

Bridge scores

Bridge scores from Audrey's Friday night club – 1. Garry O'Connell and Homer Grant; 2. Jim and Jean Campbell; 3. Ellin O'Connell and Lorna Grant.

Please note there will be no Friday night bridge for the next two weeks, according to Audrey.

Winners at the Williamstown Bridge Club on Oct. 16, were: N/S – 1. Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell; 2. Grace Leroux and Evelyn McPhail; 3. Jim Campbell and Elizabeth Marjerrison.

E/W – 1. Jacquie Thibert and Homer Grant; 2. Gerri Tibbals and Ron Allison; 3. Joan Owen and Margaret Kennedy.

Williamstown weddings

Wedding bells have rung so often in Williamstown of late, they are getting hoarse. How wonderful it is to see so many of our young people getting established in life!

This autumn's wedding scene actually began back in August, when Cathy Pilon, daughter of Shirley and Robert Pilon married Kyle MacDonell, son of Toni and Richard MacDonell of Summerstown.

The wedding was held on August 30 at St. Mary's Church, with Father Bob MacDonald officiating.

Patsy Cameron was Matron of Honour for her sister and Katherine Perry (nee MacLachlan) was the bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaid was Alley Frisen. The ladies were wearing two piece long dresses of rust satin.

The bride chose an ivory dress, also of satin, with spaghetti straps, and sequins around the bottom.

Best man was Stephen MacDonell, while ushers were the groom's brother, Kacey MacDonell, and the bride's nephew, Justin Cameron.

The bridal couple rode to the wedding and to the reception afterwards at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre, in a horse and buggy.

They are residing in Summerstown, where they have built a house across from the groom's parents.

Cathy and Kyle both work in Cornwall. Cathy is a recrealogist at the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge and Kyle is employed by Laplante Welding.

When writing the above, I was instantly struck by something both Cathy and Kyle have in common – both of their fathers have well-known nicknames, Cathy being the daughter of "Poon" and Kyle the son of "Bimbo." I'm sure there is a story behind each of those names!

Kirk McDonell and his bride, Eliane Bourbonnais, also have something in common besides matching wedding bands. Both are from families with six children – a rare size in today's world, it seems.

Kirk, the son of Bruce and Linda of Williamstown, married Eliane, who is the daughter of Gerald and Rose Bourbonnais of Cornwall, on Sept. 14 at St. Croix Church .

Locals involved in the wedding party were Marty McDonell, brother of the groom, who was Best Man, and ushers, Steve Gareau and Scott Giroux. Both Steve and Scott are long-time friends of Kirk's and Marty's.

Eliane was beautiful in a dress made by her mother. Her bridesmaids wore sleeveless dresses in a lovely shade of autumn maroon.

Ann Margaret McCuaig of Lancaster was the piper at the ceremony.

The groom's sister, Carrie McDonell acted as emcee at the reception which followed at the Ramada Inn in Cornwall.

The couple is residing in the Vars/Limoges area where they have built a new house. Both Kirk and Eliane work in Ottawa, Kirk for Regional Crane and Eliane as a day-care worker at the University of Ottawa.

October 5 was the date for the marriage of Kevin Chafee and Trudi Farrell. Trudi is the daughter of Debbie and Rick Winn, and Kevin is the son of John and Julie Chafee, all of Williamstown.

The marriage was held at St. Mary's Church and was performed by Father Bob MacDonald and assisted by Deacon Kerry McDonald.

Matron of honour for her sister was Kerri Saunders, with three of the bride's cousins, Stephanie Cranston, Joanne Beaudry and Courtney Winn as bridesmaids. There were three flower girls – the bride's two nieces, Emma and Hannah Saunders, and the groom's niece, Alicia Eamon.

The bridesmaids were wearing rusty orange coloured dresses featuring gold embroidery and carried bouquets of flowers in fall colours.

The bride's dress was ivory toile, with a strapless effect. On her head she wore a little tiara which caught up her veil.

Kevin's long time friend, Jeff Kirkey, was Best Man, with Jamie McIntosh, Allan Rankin, and Jamie Farrell, brother of the bride, acting as the ushers. Jacob Saunders was the ring-bearer.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre. Kevin and Debbie are living on Fallowfield Road, close to the groom's parents and very close to the bride's!

The couple both work in Cornwall. Debbie teaches Grade 3 at Bishop MacDonell and Kevin works at Domtar.

It is interesting to note that all the various nieces and nephews were given roles at the wedding. In addition to the ones mentioned above, Madison and Mackenzie Benton acted as junior assistants, and Taylor Eamon and Tanner Benton were junior ushers.

Congratulations to you all!

Jeepers, Creepers!
We're Collecting Old Peepers!

Get ready! Volunteers will be in your area trick-or-treating for used eyeglasses and sunglasses this Halloween.

Trick-or-Treat night is "Sight Night" for volunteers across North America. The program is a frightfully fun service project sponsored by LensCrafters and Lions Clubs International. Their volunteers will clean, repair, classify your old eyeglasses by prescription and hand-deliver them to people in developing countries who need eyeglasses, but cannot afford them.

Big daily paper features rising local entrepreneurs

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

A page in the business section of the Ottawa Citizen a couple of weeks ago had a full page article on two young entrepreneurs who are showing great promise in the technology field.

Reid Ivens and his partner, Brent Mondoux, are owners of a business, N-VisionIT Interactive, which provides corporate clients with a range of e-business services to improve their ability to interact with customers over the internet.

The business in listed in the top 25 up and coming Canadian businesses to watch for. It is located at Lady Ellen Place in Ottawa.

Reid is the son of Jean and Gary Ivens who live on a century farm on Highway 43 in the area known as Pigeon Hill. He is a graduate of Tagwi High School and has been interested in computers since a very early age.

We extend our very best wishes to him and his partner.

Commissioner's Citation

Another graduate of Tagwi High School had his name in the paper last week and some of the details were inaccurate. Dean Brown, younger son of Peggy and Jim, was awarded the OPP Commissioner's Citation for life saving and bravery at a recent ceremony.

Dean, along with three others, saved a man who was drowning in a flooded creek near Tolmies' Corners. The road was icy and the man was found in his car, upside down in the water. Dean was on his way to school.

This man was from Merrickville and the original newspaper report had the accident happening in Merrickville.

We congratulate Dean for this recognition.

New chamber executive

President of the Maxville and Chamber of Commerce, Carma Williams, has provided me with the members of the executive for 2002-03.

Linda Fraser is the vice-president, Doreen Crites, the treasurer, Audrey Evans is secretary and the committee chairs are Tanya Rozon, tourism, and Tara Chapman, retail. The directors-at-large are: Julia Danskin, Keith Jack, Bob Linney, Mike Baxendale, Terry Besner and Danny MacDonell..

Now it is up to the members of the community to lend their support to these people in enabling them to make the CofC an effective organization in our community.

Progress

It must be considered a sign of progress. Last week the installation of a large fence began along the railroad tracks on both sides and extending considerable distances towards the east and west.

Apparently this fence is necessary because of the high speed that the passenger trains will be travelling in the near future.

It will certainly mean that no one will be walking on the tracks or taking short cuts across them. Perhaps with time, the metal will weather and the fence will not be so shiny and obvious.

Marriages

On the Saturday before Thanksgiving, two weddings were solemnized to unite two well known couples.

Susan Campbell, youngest daughter of the late Stanley and Annie Campbell and Paul Besner, son of the late Ernest and Lorraine Besner were married with the reception held in the Angus Gray Hall.

As well, Chris Munro, older son of David and Cheryl was married to Jennifer Terry, daughter of William and Gail of Laggan. Their reception was held at the Sports Complex.

Susan and Paul are living in Edmonton while Chris and Jennifer are living in the village. We extend our very best wishes to both couples.

Robinsons home

Brian and Shirley Robinson from Surrey B.C. have been home for an extended visit with relatives. Shirley's mother is Catherine (Tootsie) MacRae of Dunvegan and Brian's mother is Christina Cumming and there are also relatives of his in Winchester. The Robinson daughters were also here, Shannon from Calgary and Heather from Vancouver.

Brian, an engineer, is the very successful owner of a business that takes care of the window washing of high rise office buildings. He has five offices with his son, Jason, in charge of the Seattle office and his nephew, Adam Stewart, son of Chuck and Phyllis, in charge of the Toronto office.

Ex resident dies

There are few who will remember Jim Benton. His parents were Ranald and Flora and they farmed at McDonald's Grove many years ago before moving to Vankleek Hill. Jim's former wife, the late Norma Benton is better remembered as a resident of Moose Creek and a teacher at Maxville High School.

Jim died recently in London, Ont. and the burial of the cremated remains will take place in the family plot in the Maxville Cemetery this week.

Wine and cheese

Last Tuesday evening, a very pleasant time was enjoyed by those who attended the Wine and Cheese event, sponsored by the committee which is planning for Glengarry Place. This will be a place for the performing arts of our county.

There was plenty of entertainment. Anne McKenna, who chaired the program took great pleasure in introducing a quartette of four young teenage girls known as Aidan. They sang beautifully, with great harmony, and were a special hit when they sang Gaelic songs. There is no question in them not becoming much better known.

The committee had conducted a raffle and the winners are as follows: John Lamont of Montreal received the top prize of a fiddle or the equivalent sum of money, Elwyn Bender received the $200 prize and Peter Ellis, $100.

Pipe Major in Goderich

One familiar person was not in attendance at the above event. Pipe Major John T. MacKenzie and Helen have taken up residence in Goderich. They will be missed here and are wished much happiness in their new home.

Grimsby Thanksgiving

We were away for a long Thanksgiving week-end, to Grimsby first and then to London. Betty and Stewart hosted a delicious Thanksgiving dinner, much appreciated by Lorna and me, the Blairs, Bill, Colleen, Ian, Eric and Kerry, from Tecumseh and the Fishers, Russ, Beverly, Keitha and William from Grimsby.

Turkey supper

The annual turkey supper in the United Church last Saturday evening attracted a good crowd and there seemed to be plenty of compliments as the diners left. They came from far and wide and many mentioned the dressing for which the ladies have become well known. The patronage of all was appreciated.

Now the ladies are planning the annual bazaar which will be held in the church hall on Nov. 2 with the luncheon served from 11:30 a.m. and onwards.

Horticultural Society

Those who attended the meeting of the Horticultural Society last week enjoyed a real treat in listening to the guest speaker, Felice Thayer. She is the manager of the store known as Bird on a Wire which is located in part of the Dunvegan Post Office building about a mile east of the village.

Mrs. Thayer had plenty of merchandise to show and explain and much to her credit, she readily pointed out the good points as well as the faults, if any. The trend now in feeders is to have wire bottoms for drainage and to make them as squirrel- proof as possible.

Everyone was able to take home a small bag of bird feed and attached to it was a coupon for a 15 per cent discount at the store. There were some pages of information that were distributed as well as three lucky prizes.

Youth UNLTD yard sale

There will be a yard sale at 28 Peter St. on Oct. 26 to raise funds for the work of Youth UNLTD. The members of the committee will appreciate contributions which may be dropped off at this home or Marjorie Munroe will pick them up at your home if you contact her at 527-2500. The sale starts at 8 a.m.

Over 100 at movie

The recreation committee would like to report another successful dinner and movie night. Over 100 young people enjoyed Scooby-Doo and about 65 stayed for the dance which followed. The movie winners were Matthew Bourdon and Amanda Bissonnette.

Thanks go to all those who helped in putting on these events. Their help is graciously appreciated by the members of the committee and is very important for the success of future events.

Great Pumpkin Hunt

Youth UNLTD will be holding its 5th annual Great Pumpkin Hunt car rally on Saturday. This activity is open to all youth in Grades 6-12. There will be prizes to be won. All you need is three or four friends, a car and a driver who must be 21 years or older.

The cost is $5 for each participant but the driver is free. The Hunt starts at 28 Peter St. at 6:30 p.m. It will be over by 10 p.m. and there will be a bonfire afterwards.

To register or for more information, you may call Phil Benjamin at 527-5251 and the deadline to enter is this Thursday.

Halloween Party

The Maxville Recreation Committee is once again staging its annual Halloween Party, at the Complex, on Oct. 27 from 1-4 p.m.

The Cubs and Scouts are again creating a haunted house and there will apple bobbing, colouring contests and lots of music for everyone to enjoy.

Admission to the party is free and the admission to the haunted house will be $1 for unlimited access. Everyone is welcome so wear your Halloween costume and come out for a fun afternoon.

Bridge Party

The winners at the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor were Margaret and Charles Anderson, before Thanksgiving, and Aida Anderson and Barbara Surtees last week.

Cardinals feeding

A reader at Loch Garry is very pleased to report four cardinals at her feeder this year. Last year there were two and it appears that those two have produced two young. The birds are being fed on the ground under cedar and spruce trees with striped sunflower seeds and a mixture.

I rescued a male hoary woodpecker after it hit one of our windows. It eventually flew away but if I had not found it, it would probably have died, tangled in some shrub branches. This is a familiar problem and the Bird on a Wire has some devices to try to assist in it.

I have several juncos feeding now as well as well as gold finches and house finches. The blue jays are busy storing seeds and I am trying to hold back on the supply of the black sunflower seeds for a while.

I wish that the black squirrels would do a better job at storing butternuts. We have an excellent crop and miss the red squirrel who would store all of them.

It's a well-known fact that our local church groups support each other in many ways. The following story is a perfect example.

Sister Elaine MacInnes was soon arriving at St. Andrew's United Church in Bainsville for a special morning service. You may remember that Sister Elaine has received the Order of Canada and a Jubilee Medal and is, presently, the only Zen Master in Canada. So, naturally, the members of St. Andrew's were looking forward to this service. But, now the story takes a twist.

Fifteen minutes before this service, the church all beautifully decorated in a harvest theme, all ready and awaiting, the power went OUT! What to do? Evidently a breaker down the road caused the power outage.

Happily, fast-witted Nancy Hallberg drove down to St. John's Anglican, on the South Service Road, to check if anyone was still around after their earlier service. Sure enough, there were some ladies in the kitchen.

The women were only too happy to oblige. While the lights and heat were turned on and things tidied up, 25 cars and over 100 people paraded down from St. Andrew's United to St. John's Anglican, the Little Church in the Wildwood. Thus, in one visit, Sister MacInnes got to see two very unique churches in our locality and got a sense of the co-operation that exists here as well.

Mackie Robertson, who was my source for this interesting tale, says that Sister Elaine spoke assuredly, confidently, and thoughtfully about her experiences. She told how her Christian Faith was so much stronger through meditation that she learned from Buddhist Monks.

After the service Sister Elaine and a group of people enjoyed lunch at Mackie and Sue Robertson's home in Bainsville.

Another twist to this story. . . Sister Elaine is a Roman Catholic nun who is working in Canada with Our Lady's Missionaries in Toronto. This group was actually started by late Father Dan Macdonald of Glen Nevis 50 years ago.

Sister Elaine also works for the Phoenix Foundation in London, Eng. with prisoners, mostly IRA, to rehabilitate through meditation. She learned Zen while working in the Orient and later used meditation to work with prisoners in the Philippines during the Marcos regime.

Another interesting twist, Sister Elaine MacInnes is 80 years young!

Free concert

You are invited to a free concert. Ray and Doris Scott of Scott's Oquaga Lake Resort Inc. will be at the St. Lawrence Roman Catholic Church in Curry Hill to provide a night's entertainment by the talented Scott family.

The Scotts visit Canada each fall to acquaint Canadians with the service offered at their resort. Local residents, Gary and Shirley Stokes, have been visiting Scott's for 20 years and have offered four-day bus tours at an affordable, all-inclusive price. (No tipping policy in effect).

The Scott's Resort, Oquaga Inn, is located one-half hour east of Binghampton, N.Y. just off Hwy. 17. It holds a 1,000-acre, family facility, (including two nine-hole golf courses).

Rev. Gary and Shirley Stokes invite you to come and enjoy the entertainment of the Scott family on Nov. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Come to the St. Lawrence R.C. parish hall, for a delightful evening. Refreshment following.

Chateau Gardens

At a recent meeting of Chateau Gardens Volunteers Association, the following slate of officers was elected for the ensuing year: past-president, Lorraine Plue; president, Dorothy Dewar; 1st vice-president, Linda McCune; 2nd vice-president, Dorothy Draper; secretary, Pauline Ashton; treasurer, Regina Sommers; auditor, Michael Ashton; card convenor, Sheila Marcoux; Tuck Shop convenor, Millie Vialètte; publicity, Sheila Urquhart; telephone committee: Liette Butrym and Dorothy Draper.

Volunteers, Margie Reasbeck and Sheila Marcoux, presented a beautifully designed "Hearts and Flowers" single bed quilt for another major fund-raiser.

You can see this nice quilt at Mitchell's Flower Shop. Buy tickets on this latest draw there, at Chateau Gardens and elsewhere. You may win, and no matter what, the residents of Chateau Gardens win big time!

Legion news

It's busy times for the Lancaster Legion. Octoberfest was a great success and everyone enjoyed the Montreal Continental Quintet. Many thanks to all those who helped make this evening such a great one.

The Turkey Shoot, Sandbag Throw was also well attended and a great time was enjoyed. Again, many thanks go to those who worked on this project.

Members of Branch 544 will be attending the Rededication of the Williamstown War memorial on Sunday. This special service starts at 11:15 a.m.

Good luck to card players, Gwen Wade, Olive McCreary, Doris Beard and Betsy Robinson. Having won in the zone level of euchre competitions they will go to Kingston on Saturday to compete at the District level. Congratulations and Good Luck, ladies!

Parade

Just a reminder our Santa Claus Parade is on Dec. 7. The theme is "A Family Christmas". The South Glengarry Club Council continues plans and chairperson Janice Montreuil invites anyone to join in and help. Also, you can pre-register your float by calling her at 347-2420.

Scarecrow festival ends

It's all over but the counting and wasn't the Scarecrow festival a fun event? The scarecrows will remain at Rob McIntosh stores until the end of October.

A spokesperson from the China and Gift store told me that they were very pleased with the results and were happy to be a part of this adventure that made money for Kids Can Free the Children. Hopefully I'll have the winners for you next week.

Outdoors club

The Cornwall Outdoors Club includes many members from our outlying area. If you like this sort of activity you might just want to join in the club's upcoming events.

This Saturday is the day for cycling and shopping in Ottawa. The next day, on Sunday, it's off to Mount Wright in New York to climb a high peak.

If you would like information on this club or wish to join, call Rose-Marie at 347-3677.

Pets Inc.

For those of you who have pets, or would like to, you can relate to my experiences with our pets. Su-Lin, the chow is rather aloof, quite beautiful, and so very loyal and protective to those that she loves. That includes me, because I walk with her, feed her, and generally look after her. She knows where her bread is buttered! I think, also, in the deep recesses of her ancient wisdom, she knows that she, and her sister, Shadow, are rescued dogs and their life with us was a conscious decision to save them from a darker fate.

Now, Gus, our shih'zu, with a proper Chinese name, Ghenghis Khan, is a very sociable young dog. Gus is the first dog in ages that I actually bought. I fell in love with his father and when puppies were available I agreed to buy the one who most resembled him.

He was just a wriggly puppy when we picked him up in Ottawa, and it was not long before he took over our household. At puppy kindergarten training, at Stoneridge Kennels, he got to meet his brother, who owns the family of Grant Edwards in Cornwall.

Our Lady Missionaries' Clarkson at St. Raphael's

ST. RAPHAEL'S

ANNA MARGARET MACDONALD
525-1174

St. Raphael's Parish was privileged on Sunday to have Sister Marie Clarkson of our Lady's Missionaries.

She gave a very interesting talk about their work in foreign countries. The modern church tries to bring a new mandate which is not to ignore cultural practices but to superimpose the Christian vision on what is good and profound in the diverse cultures of the world.

Sister Mae Janet MacDonell, a native of St. Raphael's Parish, spoke to the people of Williamstown on Sunday.

These good missionaries which were established in this diocese more than 50 years ago depend highly on support from our area.

The area churches are always delighted to hear of the work these good missionaries do so bravely and charitably year after year.

Parishioner honoured

Following Sunday mass in St. Raphael's on Sunday the parishioners gathered in the parish community centre to honour Leo and Angela Cloutier who have sold their property on the Johnson Road and are moving to Alexandria.

Father Bernard McDougald and Inez O'Connor spoke on behalf of the gathering expressing thanks for their good contribution while in the parish.

Leo was a dependable volunteer and could be called on as minister of the Eucharist, altar server, leader of the Rosary, choir member, reader or whatever was necessary. He was also known as a liberal financial supporter.

He was reminded that Alexandria, where he and Angela are taking up residence, is not far away and all would be happy to see him visit at any time.

We welcome Gerald and Lorraine Johnson who have purchased the Cloutier property and will be joining St. Raphael's Parish.

Euchre

Winners at the euchre party in St. Raphael's on Oct. 13 were: Therese Theoret, Lorraine Lather, Rita McCarthy and Hellene Paulette for the ladies. Jack McDonell, Winston Van Putten, Jacques Laurendeau and Mac O'Byrne for the men.

Meriza Valade won the door prize and the 50/50 winners were Estelle, Brazeau, Claire Van Putten, Lorraine de Repentigny, Hellene Paquette, Ores St. Onge and Jack McDonell.

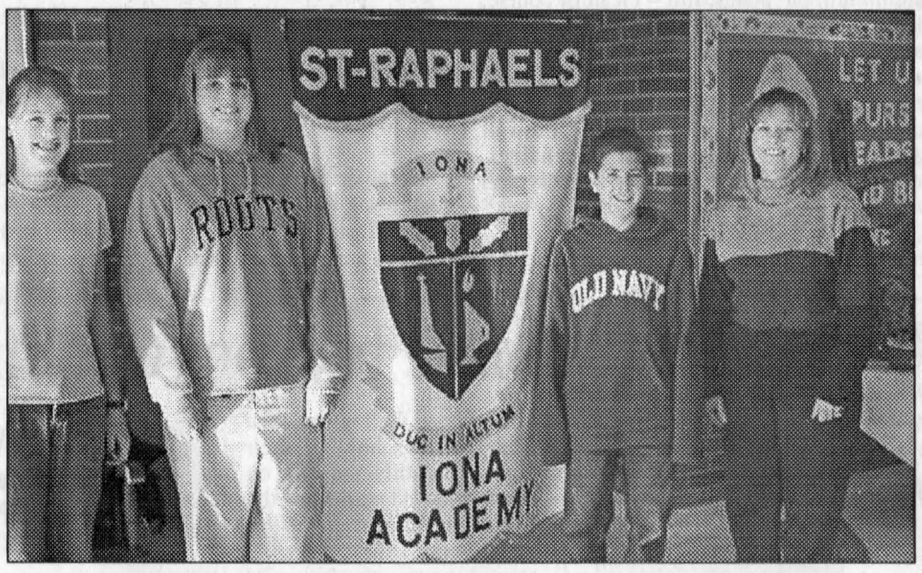
Sudden death

Jack McDonell of North Lancaster received word that his sister, Marie Lalonde had died suddenly in Flint, Michigan on Sunday. Marie was the daughter of the late Alex Allan Peter McDonald and his wife Caroline Sayant and was predeceased by her husband Richard Lalonde. They had resided in Flint, Michigan.

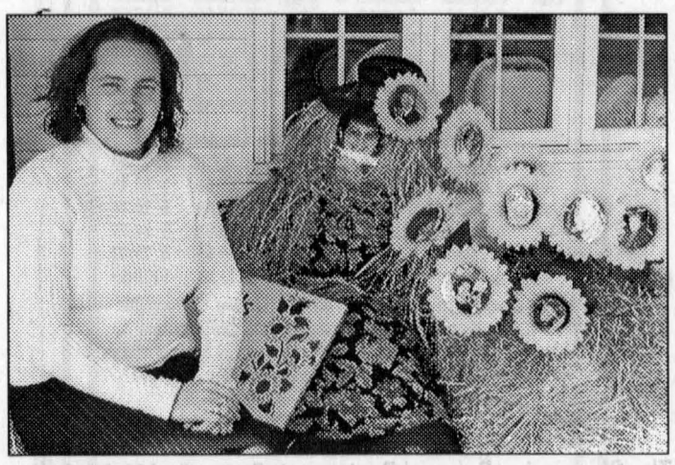
Sons home

Our sons Blair MacDonald, and his wife Lisa, of West Vancouver and Tony MacDonald of Guelph were both home to visit Mervyn and myself this past week. We waited until Tuesday to have our Thanksgiving dinner where all the family in the area came together.

FIREMEN VISIT IONA: Iona Academy Catholic School had the opportunity to visit with firefighters recently at their school. Some of the firefighters are here with Debbie Cormier's Grade 4 class, explaining the steps to follow in case of an emergency. All students and staff participated in the fire drill. SUBMITTED PHOTO



IONA STUDENT COUNCIL: The students in Grades 4 to 8 at Iona Academy participated in an election to choose their student council for this year. Twelve students from the Grade 8 class prepared speeches in both English and French explaining their ideas for the school year. Elected are from left: Kristin MacDonald, secretary; Vanessa MacDonald, Prime Minister; Bernie MacDonell, Premier and Grade 8 teacher advisor, Donna Poirier. SUBMITTED PHOTO



SCARECROW COMPETITION: Elysa Keyes, a member of the Rob McIntosh Scarecrow Festival Committee, shows a display made by the staff of the China Shop, whose faces adorn the centers of the flowers. Voting for the best scarecrow display began on Oct. 11 and will continued until Oct. 20. The winner will be announced by Oct.23. The public voted for their favourite scarecrow when they make a purchase or by making a $10 donation to receive a ballot. Proceeds will be donated to Kids Can Free the Children. Rob MacIntosh is also donating the proceeds from everything sold outside the store on Thanksgiving Monday to this charity. Visitors are encouraged to view the scarecrows for the rest of the month, as they are on display until Halloween. AMANDA PORTINARI PHOTO

Iona Academy announces staff for 2002-03

The 2002-03 staff at Iona Academy Catholic School includes: principal Charlotte Rouleau; secretary Rolande Laurendeau; custodians Denis Poulin and Carl Cotnam; english teachers Laurie MacKinnon, Tina Craig, Mary-Lynne Sauve, Donna Poirier and Debbie Cormier; French teachers Patrick Camacho, Jocelyn Seguin, France Blair, Brenda MacDonald and Shane Papps; religious education animator Sine McKenna and physical education teacher Kennedy MacDonald.

Iona info

Iona Academy Catholic School houses 245 students from Junior Kindergarten to Grade 8.

Our chairperson for our Catholic School Council is Lise McDonell who has two children at our school.

Moira van Nooten, a retired teacher from Iona Academy, along with teacher, Jocelyn Seguin, offer students the Faith and Mission Club during Mondays at lunch recess. Thirty students recently went to Mont Rigaud to the Shrine to pray the rosary and learn more about their faith.

Kennedy MacDonald, our physical education teacher is preparing students for our annual cross-country run which will be held on Oct. 25. We are expecting 500 students from across the counties to join us that day.

While preparing for the run, Kennedy MacDonald selected the top 10 runners from each class to participate in a track meet in Brockville on Oct. 11. Forty other schools participated.

Our top runner was Michael Robertson, who placed sixth our of four hundred. Out of the senior boys Danny Ravary placed 45th, Kevin McLeod was 50th and Alex Glasgow was 70th. Out of our senior girls, Emily Miller placed 72nd, Natasha Novy placed 118th and Rebecca Luck and Katie McLeod tied for 123rd.

Glasgow Bible added to church's Thanksgiving service

GLEN SANDFIELD
LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

Last Sunday morning during the Thanksgiving service in Glen Sandfield, the congregation was favoured with a delightful scripture reading.

Genesis chapter 1 in the Glasgow vernacular, which was taken from The Glasgow Bible, was read by Neil Kennedy of Blairgowry Scotland. He was visiting with Marilyn Lawler and his other relatives in the area. During the offering he sang "O Worship the King" in a fine strong baritone.

Glengarry Toastmasters

The Toastmasters Club met in the banquet hall of the Priest's Mill on Oct. 9 for their regular monthly dinner meeting.

President Helena MacCuaig opened the meeting and welcomed several guests. The toastmaster for the evening was Louise Khole. Sandra MacCuaig was the toast proposer and Barry MacDonald told the joke of the day and had everyone in stitches.

Judy Thompson's table topics tested the mettle of every participant. She gave each one a news release and they had to expand on it for from one to two minutes. It isn't easy to think up two minutes of information on something you have just seen which makes it an excellent challenge for the speaker.

There were three speakers that evening: David Anderson spoke on A Visit to Iona, Lorna Chapman spoke on The Driving Lesson and John Hay invited everyone to come to his TV Commercial Acting School. David's speech led everyone to wish they had been with him on beautiful Iona. John Hay's acting school was great fun as he described the commercials and how they would be produced. Each speaker is very different in their approach to their chosen topic and this makes for an interesting mix of speeches each evening.

This is a gathering of friends who try to encourage and support the speakers in their efforts. There is a very warm and inviting atmosphere within the club and every guest has mentioned how they feel completely at ease.

The next meeting will be held on Oct. 23, at 5:30 p.m. upstairs at the Priest's Mill. Guests and new members are most welcome.

Seniors enjoy presentation

The Church on the Hill Alexandria was the scene of their regular Pot Luck dinner meeting.

After the meal René Jeaurond from RARE spoke on why and how to recycle. He was most informative and gave the group a wealth of knowledge on what they are now accepting in the blue boxes, such as plastic shopping bags and milk and juice cartons, cans – which need to be flattened, pop bottles et al – with caps off, aluminium pie plates, foil – clean of course, glass bottles and jars.

He explained how reused pop bottles are made into tee-shirts or any clothing made of polyester. Imagine! He was very interesting.

The second part of the program was the Cornwall City Cloggers, who danced for about 45 minutes. They were roundly applauded for their friendly and lively performance. Allison, one of the dancers, is 85 and she is one of the livewires in the group.

The club members invited them back anytime. So we booked them for next Sept. They are fully booked until then. This was one entertainment everyone really enjoyed.

Lucky cups were found by Sidney Cooper, Shirley Cuggy and Sadie MacMillan. President Doris Spencer was the only birthday celebrant and she won Howard Barclay's 50/50.

O Canada opened the brief business meeting. Jock McCabe called the roll and gave the financial report. There were no minutes read as the minute book was unavailable.

The Dec. 3 trip to Bayshore still has seats on the bus available for members and/or non-members. Folks are reminded that the bus will leave the Jean Coutu parking lot at 8:30 a.m. that morning. To reserve a seat please call Doris Spencer at 874-2408 or Elisabeth Groot at 525-4203.

The group learned that Betty Malpass is at present a patient in the Glengarry Memorial Hospital. The members are asked to please notify the McCabes when anyone is sick or in hospital so that a card can be sent to them from the club at once instead of having to wait for the meeting date.

The meeting was adjourned and due to the full program there was no time for bingo that day. The next meeting will be on Nov. 20 and that will probably be the in-house craft sale fundraiser date as well; a good time to do a little Christmas shopping.

Maze beckons Optimists

GREEN VALLEY
MARGO PEPIN
525-3581

The Green Valley Optimist Club will be holding their regular monthly meeting on Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Community Hall.

Following the meeting, around noon, members and their families will be driving to Cedar Fox Farm in St. Andrew's for an afternoon of pleasure in a cornfield maze. This is open to anyone in the community who wishes to go.

If interested, be in front of Ecole Ste. Marie at noon to follow. For questions on this activity you can contact Gisele Jeaurond at 525-5070.

Sympathies

Deepest sympathies goes out to the family of Alice Maheu who passed away peacefully in her sleep at the age of 67.

She resided in Alexandria but is formerly of Green Valley.

Her funeral was held in Eglise Ste. Marie on Monday. She was a member of the Daughters of Isabella.

Ste. Adele trip

Rejeanne and her group enjoyed a beautiful trip to the Manoir Alpine in Ste. Adele for Noel ien Automne. She says they had fun, ate too much and enjoyed a show by Michel Louvain who they found was very sympathetic. Rejeanne says she has a couple of places left for her trip on Dec. 5 to see Elvis Story at the Casino de Hull. Call her at 525-3700.

Came for wedding

Gilles and Nicole Lortie were in London over the Thanksgiving weekend attending the wedding of Gilles' daughter Rachel who married Eric Morin. They will be living in London where Rachel teaches while Eric teaches in Woodstock.

Knights of Columbus

The Green Valley Knights of Columbus held their installation of officers Saturday evening following 5 p.m. Mass. I don't have a list of the committee members this week. When I do, I will list them.

God bless and have a safe week.

Conc. 4 native passes away

GREENFIELD
MARY COUTURE
527-2421

Condolences to the Leonard and Smith families on the recent passing of Theresa (Smith) Leonard from Alexandria, formerly from Conc. 4 E.

The funeral took place in St. Catherine of Sienna on Thursday. Bill Smith from Manitoulin Island attended his sister Theresa's funeral.

Former village resident Eddy Clement passed away last week in Hawkesbury. Condolences to all.

Visitors at the Shotts' (Baltic Corners) last week were Geraldine and Jack Gaughen from Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and Eileen Hansen from Nanaimo, B.C.

Missionary's sermon

Sister Mary Gauthier from the Phillipines, formerly Conc. 4 E., was at St. Catherine of Sienna on Sunday and gave a sermon on her life and work with the missionaries in the Phillipines.

Perfect cribbage hand

While having a card game at Joe and Colleen McDonells, Ken Deruchie of Cornwall got a perfect 29 hand in cribbage on Thanksgiving Sunday.

He had three 5s and the Jack of Clubs in his hand and turned up the 5 of clubs while he was playing with Joe and Mark.

Remember on Saturday night or Sunday morning to turn back the clocks as we fall back for the winter months.

Wandering autumn moose, deer come onto roads

The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) advises motorists to be extra cautious on the road because wildlife is more active at this time of year.

"With the arrival of autumn, moose and deer are particularly active as they cover more ground in search of food and suitable mates," said Christie Curley of MNR's Kemptville District Office.

"People should be especially careful driving at dawn or dusk when wildlife is most active."

Deer rarely travel alone, so motorists who see one deer should be ready for the sudden appearance of more.

As well, the normal caution deer and moose take before crossing a busy road is not present during the rut. Motorists should be particularly careful where roads cross creeks and rivers, divide wooded corridors, bisect fence rows, or where field edges run perpendicular to the road and, of course, anywhere that deer crossing signs are posted.

The most serious deer-vehicle accidents occur when a deer jumps out onto the road and the driver swerves to avoid the deer and loses control of the vehicle.

Motorists are at less risk of serious injury if they hit the deer, than if they lose control and hit another vehicle, hydro pole, tree or other immobile object.

Drivers seeing deer along a road should slow down and sound their horns in a series of short bursts. If deer are seen on the road at night, motorists should blink their headlights. This will warn the deer and give them an opportunity to move out of the way.

Extreme Sunday!!

This extreme Sunday, The Fountain will host the exciting young 8-person worship band « Altered ». Known for dynamic praise, these teenagers, from the south of Montreal, will bring you into a new dimension of worship.

Pascal Bergeron, the youth pastor of Greenfield Park Pentecostal Church will give an energetic message "Transforming an ordinary life into an extraordinary gift through worship". Pascal represents the new "extreme" generation seeking to fulfill the great commission of bringing the gospel to the world. His vibrant and lively approach to the understanding of scripture is going to make this meeting something not to be missed.

Parish Supper – what more could you ask for?

GLEN ROBERTSON

COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

A cordial welcome to attend our community's biggest social event of the year which is this coming Sunday at the parish hall from 4 to 7:30 p.m.

Our parish supper is a time when we gather with neighbours, family, friends near and far to celebrate God's goodness to us all by working together to make a feast to share every year. The menu includes turkey, potatoes, meat balls, gravy, vegetable, stuffing, salads, pies, desserts, tea, coffee and juice. Doesn't this sound delicious? You bet!

Come and enjoy and socialize with friends. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for students 6-16 and $2 for those less than six years. Take-outs will also be available. Welcome to all!

Get well

Speedy recovery wishes to my sister, Réjeanne Maheu, who underwent major surgery at the General Hospital in Cornwall last Thursday.

Laurier-Carrière news

New members of the student council for 2002-03 are president, Stéphanie Ménard; vice-president, Megan Tessier; treasurer, Valérie Charest; representative of Grade 8, Sophie Diotte; Grade 7, Samuel Rozon; Grade 6, Miguel Simoneau; Grade 5, Julien Roy; Grade 4, Alexandre Gagnon-Derby; Grade 3, Gabrielle Lavigne.

The school council new executive members are president, Chantal Vachon; vice-president, Gisèle Sauvé; treasurer, Sylvie Latulippe; parents, François Beauclair, Nathalie Goulet-Latulippe, Diane Lanthier, Christian Roy, Lisa Séguin, Richard Séguin; teaching staff, Chantale Martel; non-teaching staff, Carmelle Hagen; community, Gilles Joanette; spiritual guidance, Father Eric Robichaud, under the direction of Gisèle Décoeur-Lafrance. Congratulations and good luck to all of you!

On Oct. 4, all the school students and staff visited Ste. Thérèse school in North Lancaster to be entertained by poetry, imagery and humour of Paul Vachon for a spectacle called Fabulations.

This activity was prepared by Le Centre Culturel. On this same day, the Eastern Ontario Health Unit organized a guided march in the Glen under the watchful eyes of Constable Doiron of the OPP.

This year, there is no chocolate as a fund-raiser. Instead, you will be able to buy from a catalogue with different articles for sale as well as subscriptions for magazines. On Oct. 11, Fr. Eric and parents and teachers accompanied the students to the sanctuary in Rigaud where a mass was celebrated.

Grade 1 and 2 participated in a mini-rally to the chapel while Grade 3 to 8 visited the cross at the top of the mountain. An official opening "Le puits de l'espoir" was also launched where the children will collect pennies to be given to CHEO in June.

Pennies have to be rolled at the home or at the school. For every dollar in pennies, the student will be given a ticket which will enable him or her to a grand draw where 12 children will have the possibility for a trip to the Corel Centre to assist at a hockey game in a private lodge with transport included.

The youths have until April 2003 to bring their pennies.

From Oct. 7-11 it was Fire Prevention Week. Firefighters visited the school to verify and simulate a fire exercise.

The school council has started a humanitarian project in Haïti. This consists in collecting articles for the children of Haïti. More details will be given later.

Sister Suzanne Marleau (great aunt of Ghislain Décoeur) was a missionary over there for years and she will talk to the children about this country and of the children over there.

On Nov. 1, Fr. Eric will visit all the classes to talk about All Saints Day and how those deceased people help us every day of our lives.

Euchre

Winners of the euchre of Oct. 15 were Emile Théoret, Lucie Massie, Aline Levac, Claire Paquette, Maurice Montpetit, Helena Campeau, Elianne Benoit, Rita Chartrand and Perle Poirier.

50/50 winners were Isobel MacLennan, Hélène Paquette, Maurice Lefebvre, Jean Noel Campeau and Georges Massie who also won the door prize. Next euchre will be on Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Transfer of powers

The transfer of powers was held on Oct. 11 at the centre and the new executive for 2002-03 is as follows: president, Johanne McCarthy; secretary, Rose-Anne Théoret; treasurer, Linda Hamelin; vice-president internal, Daniel Lefebvre; vice-president external, Pierre Larocque; director for two years, François Beauclair, Sue Poirier, Richard Hamelin; director for one year, Michel Séguin, Aurèle Décoeur and Colette Sauvé.

Special guests for the evening were ex-lieutenant-governor of zone 6, Gisèle Jeaurond and Henri; ex-lieutenant-governor of district East Ontario, Jean-Louis D'Amour and Claire, lieutenant-governor of zone 6, Richard Théoret and Rose-Anne and governor of east Ontario, Michel Laporte and his son, François.

Many thanks to last year's president, Paul Lalonde, who did a great job and to his wife, Brenda. A roast for Paul proved to be very mild. Daniel Lalonde of Alexandria was voted the most valuable member by his peers for last year. Congratulations!

Good luck to the new team and to Johanne and to lieutenant-governor of zone 6, Richard. Meetings will be held every second week in the main hall. Everyone is welcome to attend.

The second Optimist draw of $1,000 will be held on Nov. 3, which is also the day of the bingo.

The first $1,000 draw was held on Oct. 12 and Denise Lacombe was the winner as well as the vendor. Congratulations!

Even though a one-day bus trip was refused by two volunteer associations, money was given for wiser and longer term projects. A new sound system has been installed at the centre as well as air conditoning and two new additions to the playground equipment which is the envy of many small towns. Painting of all the centre is nearly finished also.

The Optimist Club recently gave a sum of $1,000 towards the playground equipment as well as $325 for sweaters for the Glens minor hockey league.

Three other Optimist clubs from zone 6 have also remitted the same amount for hockey sweaters.

Have a nice and pleasant week and stay positive!

See you at the parish supper.

St. Margaret of Scotland Parish was delighted to recognize the contribution of the community's volunteer firefighters at the Sunday mass at the conclusion of Fire Prevention Week.

Members of the North Lancaster volunteer department were piped into the church by Justin McDonell and applauded by the congregation.

Lyn McDonald's violin selection was a lovely addition to the choir's contribution to the occasion.

Councillor Ian McLeod and Dave McDonald represented South Glengarry Council.

Thank you firefighters!

Sympathy

Sincere sympathy is extended to Betty Lee Glaude and family in the death of her father Colborne McDonald.

New baby

Congratulations to Tanya and Luc Decoeur on the arrival of their new daughter who arrived in the early hours of last Sunday morning. Welcome to the village, Tyla!

Birthdays

Best birthday wishes to Pat Murree, Elizabeth MacLeod and Ewen Thompson and belated happy anniversary to Natalie and Andy Lamothe who celebrated on the 16th.

The Bible tells us, "Those who trust in the Lord for help will find their strength renewed. They will rise on wings like eagles; they will run and not get weary; they will walk and not grow weak," (Isaiah 40:31).

October weddings feature Terry, Fraser families

DALKEITH

JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

With the early deadline date before Thanksgiving, some of the items seem old, but on Oct. 12, Jennifer Terry, daughter of Gail and Willie Terry, Laggan, was married to Chris Munro, son of Cheryl and David Munro, Maxville.

The ceremony took place at St. Finnan's, Alexandria, with Father Maloney officiating. A large crowd attended the reception held that evening at Maxville and District Sports Complex. Among the guests was Jennifer's grandmother, Phyllis Terry, who was also celebrating a birthday that day.

The same day, Oct. 12, Cathy Fraser, Calgary, daughter of Ruth and David Fraser, Lochinvar, was married to Stephen Quinn, also of Calgary, but a native of Miramichi, N.B., son of Sylvia Quinn.

The Rev. R. Martin officiated at the wedding at Knox Presbyterian Church, Vankleek Hill. Among the guests were Cathy's grandmother, Olive Fraser, and other family members from New Brunswick, British Columbia and Alberta as well as local.

Congratulations and best wishes to both young couples.

50th anniversary

Then along the line there is the couple who marked their 50th wedding anniversary on Oct. 18. Anne (Cousineau) and Roger Leroux of Breadalbane had visits from their family of nine children, 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Baby boy

Congratulations to Nathalie and Luc Jeaurond on the birth of a third son, Alexis, on Oct. 12.

Sympathy

Sympathy is extended to Raymond Seguin and family on the death of his wife Mireille on Oct. 11 at age 76.

Mireille and Raymond lived in the area until a few years ago and were great community and church workers. Lately they moved to Orleans to be closer to their family.

The funeral was held at St. Joseph Church, Orleans on Oct. 15 with interment of the ashes at the Dalkeith cemetery on Oct. 19. Many relatives and friends from this area attended the services.

Sympathy is also extended to Carol Nixon, Kevin and Bryanna on the death of her father, Stanley Rowland, on Oct. 13 at age 85. His wife Edna predeceased him. Funeral service was held on Oct. 15 when friends, neighbours and co-workers attended.

Visiting

Bob McKinnon, Caledonia, and his mother Nan McKinnon made several calls in the area on Thursday including our house and Nan's granddaughter Diane, Rodney, Jonathan and Tyler MacLeod at Kirkhill.

Visiting Everett and Billie Nixon, Laggan, were Gertie and Hughie MacDonald, Plevna, William and Jane Nixon, Calgary, Garry Nixon, Toronto and Ewen MacDonald, Lancaster.

Post-secondary students

Two more girls attending higher learning facilities: Lydia Lenne is at Ottawa University and Christie Campbell is at Algonquin College.

Author looks over Glenelg

Clan MacLeod had a special guest in the area last week. James Hunter, author of the book "A Dance called America" stayed with Helen and Dougal MacLeod.

Madeleine McCrimmon toured the countryside with Mr. Hunter and visited some of the farms where original settlers' descendants still live. Doreen and Carmin Howes invited a few of us for luncheon on Tuesday and that evening Helen and Dougal hosted a dinner with some of these families and other interested friends.

Library news

Last Tuesday evening the Friends of the Library sponsored a Halloween Craft Night. We had eight children registered. They made a Halloween tree. Kleenex ghosts and Black bats were made to hang from a spooky tree branch. Halloween candies were stuck on the tree branch for the kids to take home. Hot chocolate was served. The children sorted through the Halloween books to take home.

The new exchange of videos and books on tape are now available at the Dalkeith Library. Videos can be taken out for one week and books on tape for three weeks. A collection of brand new books was purchased this summer and are now available to borrow.

This is Library Week. Come and see what is on at your local library.

Sandbag League

There are two weeks of Sandbag results: Sept. 27 and Oct. 4. Highest double - Pauline Piche, 8,090 and 7,600; Lina Arcand, 7,900; Anita St. Louis, 7.160; Alain Piche, 12,380 and 10,280; Rheal Cyr, 8,990; Sylvain Lemay, 7,890. Highest Single - Juliette Quesnel, 4,720; Pauline Piche, 4,600; Lina Arcand, 4,340; Marthe Chenier, 4,110; Alain Piche, 7,350; Rheal Cyr, 5,050; Alain Piche, 5,380; Yvon Paquette, 4,360. Highest Square - Juliette Quesnel, 1,300; Helene Leduc, 1,260; Lisa Beaudry, 1,210; Lina Arcand and Johanne Leblanc, 1,190; Alain Piche, 2,050; Fernand St. Louis, 1,340; Alain Piche, 1,570; and Yvon Paquette, 1,510.

Laggan School

This week of Oct. 20-26 is Bus Safety Week. All students viewed a video on bus safety and were involved in a bus evacuation simulation exercise on Tuesday morning. This is all part of the board's and Laggan School's student safety planning.

Just a reminder that Laggan School Council will meet tonight (Oct. 23), at 7 p.m. in the school library.

Everyone is welcome to attend. As well, Laggan School Council will again sponsor its annual Spaghetti Dinner on Nov. 16. Mark this date on your calendar and plan to join us at the school for a wonderful social event as well as a fund raiser.

Everyone is invited. More information will follow soon.

The QSP fundraiser was another success and the school and school council wish to thank everyone for the tremendous support.

The successes just keep happening with the Scholastic Book Fair held recently being the most successful ever. It generated $2,700 in total sales from which we were able to purchase almost $1,600 worth of new books for the library.

A special thank you to Frances Murphy, the many, many volunteers who helped out; and to all those who purchased books.

Arts programs

On Friday, beginning at 7 p.m. a Celtic Concert will be held in the Laggan Public School Gym. Everyone is welcome to attend with donations going to the Glengarry Place for The Arts.

On Nov. 1, Majinx, a local magic group, will perform at Laggan Public School from 2:15-3:15 p.m. as part of the Arts in Community Program supported by School Council and the activity fees.

This enriching presentation is one of a number provided to Laggan students and the community through the school. If community and family members wish to attend you need to call the school (525-3112) so we can reserve the limited spaces.

Writer researches Glenelg

By Madeleine McCrimmon

Tuesday, October 15 was a busy day for James Hunter, a researcher, author and historian from Scotland.

Mr. Hunter is researching the MacLeod migrations in America for the Associated Clan MacLeod Societies. This trip was to give some needed information and we all look forward to his book for our small contribution.

His interest for this trip, was in meeting with descendants of Captain Alexander MacLeod, the Captain's home property, Pioneer Cairn, his burial location and other points of interest.

Mr. Hunter's overall intention was to gain some impressions of the MacLeods and other descendants of the 1794 migration and their activities in modern Glengarry.

Upon his arrival in Ottawa Monday evening, he was taken by MacLeod descendants to a small ceilidh at the home of Ian (direct descendant) and Karen MacLeod. He enjoyed violin music, dancing and socializing with 14 family members and guests before arriving at the home of Helen and Dougal MacLeod, hosts for his visit.

On touring MacLeod settlements, he was taken on a trip through Skye (early MacLeod farms) to Dunvegan (home of many early MacLeods, some of the 1794 migration). He visited the cemetery, then the Glengarry Pioneer Museum where he viewed MacLeod artifacts including Capt. Alexander's army jacket.

He was impressed with the buildings, artifacts and early machinery, including a stoning machine. The trip included visits to the homes of R.D. MacLeod, Morlin Campbell and Archie and Eileen (direct descendants) MacGillivray and visiting Allister MacGillivray. The MacGillivrays were with the 1794 migration.

A lunch stop at Doreen (MacLeod) and Carmin Howes' home gave Mr. Hunter an opportunity to interview neighbours and other 1794 descendants.

This was followed by visits to the Kirk Hill churches and graveyards to view the gravestones of Capt. Alexander and other immigrants as well as a visit with Emerson MacGillivray.

Toured original land

The tour continued to the original land of Capt. Alexander – Lot 18-6L, now the home of George MacLeod, 6th direct descendant, on the property. Here he met other MacLeod descendants, viewed artifacts including the large iron cooking pot that fed the migration people as well as the Cairn erected on the property commemorating the founding of the "MacLeod Settlement", earlier known as Glenelg.

Upon his return to his host home, Dougal MacLeod's , (direct descendant), he was entertained to a dinner party with another 14 guests. Much information and stories were passed on for his constant note taking.

He noticed that life had changed over the years from forest and small log homes with many large families to large crop farms, a few large dairy and beef farms, modern homes and a smaller population.

Sports Briefs

Emergency hockey

The North Lancaster Volunteer Fire Department will host their first annual Emergency Services (ambulance, fire and police) Hockey Tournament on January 3 and 4 at the Glengarry Sports Palace Arena in Alexandria.

If you have a team that falls under one of these sectors be it professional or volunteer then please call Geoffrey McNaughton at 613-347-2255 or e-mail at: geoffrey@glen-net.ca

The tournament will consist of 12 teams, with the deadline for entries being Dec. 4.

All proceeds from the tournament benefit the fire department's "Jaws of Life" purchase fund.

Exhibition success

On Oct. 5 the Alexandria Green Valley Glass peewee B Glens played to a 3-1 win over Casselman in an exhibition game.

Clay Chadsey, Simon-Pierre Lajoie and Hugh O'Shea scored in the win.

A week earlier the Glens tied Vankleek Hill 3-3.

Pat Menard with two and Lajoie scored for the Glens.

Rebs lose A final

On Thanksgiving Monday the Char-Lan Computer Sense atom B Rebels hosted their annual tournament.

The were gracious hosts losing 4-1 to the Clarence Creek Senators in the A final.

Ramsey Wheeler scored the lone goal in the loss.

In their opener, Char-Lan beat Vankleek Hill 3-0.

Robbie Chapman recorded his first shutout of the year and goals were supplied by Wheeler with two and Kevin Veilleux.

In the second game, the Rebels came from behind to beat the Capital Crusaders 3-2.

Wheeler scored another two and added an assist and Jordan Brunet had a single.

Senior Gaels hoop it up

The senior Glengarry District High School girls' basketball team had an easy match last week defeating Tagwi by a 51-23 score.

Leading the scoring barrage was Christie Bauck (16 points), Sabrina Borsellino (nine points) and Emmally McCorkell (eight points).

Courtney Henderson was the leading scorer for the Warriors.

In the midget contest the Warriors had the last laugh winning by a 24-14 score.

Trina Limoges, Paige Shaver and Hilary Morin all had four points in the win.

Sarah Chisholm and Emily Gareau had the same total in the GDHS loss.

Gaels finish first

The senior Glengarry District High School girls' cross country team finished first in the SDG championships held Oct. 16 at Grey's Creek near Cornwall.

Overall GDHS finished in a tie for third with St. Joseph's and North Dundas.

The overall winner was L'Heritage.

Individually Char-Lan had a strong result from Shane Christie who finished second in the senior boys' event in 32:24 on the five-kilometre course.

Rec. volleyball

Recreational level volleyball is being offered every Friday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Char-Lan District High School in the gymnasium.

The games are for both women and men 15 years of age or older.

Registration is on-going at the Township of South Glengarry Recreation Department.

Call 347-2411 for more information. Cost is $10 per player.

Broomballers needed

A ladies' broomball team competing in Vankleek Hill is looking for players to finalize their roster.

Games are played every Thursday.

For more information contact Sylvie Peerenboom at 874-2325 at night or 678-2211 during the day.

Glens tie Rebels

In the last preseason game for the Computer Sense Char-Lan atom B Rebels they tied county rival Alexandria Glens 2-2.

The Rebels came back from an early deficit on goals from Kevin Veilleux and Kyle MacDougall.

The Rebels were in action Monday night in Winchester and will play their home opener tonight at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre starting at 7 p.m. against the Cornwall Royals.

Glens vs Glens

The Alexandria # 2 Optimist and # 1 Shepherd Motors Glens teams played to a 1-1 draw Saturday at Billy Gebbie Arena in bantam house league play.

Scoring for the Optimist club was Jeff Munro while Chris MacMillan responded for Shepherd Motors.

GREAT SKATERS: The Alexandria Skating Club and Alexandria Hockey School have teamed up to form the Alexandria Power Skating School for the second straight year. A group of close to 50 youths have enrolled and the class is looking for more. Among the instructors are back row from left: Joel Doiron, Brigitte Sauve and Yves Joannette. See story on page 18.

Police called in to game

ALEXANDRIA JUNIOR B GLENS

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

A confrontation between fans, players and referees resulted in the police being called into the Alexandria Glens' game in Winchester Saturday night.

The Winchester Hawks' and Glens' players aggressions got the better of them during the final seconds of the game and the intensity spilled over into the crowd as fans got involved with one of the ejected Glens' players.

Glens assistant coach Simon Menard recalls what he experienced Saturday night.

"Louis Brisson got speared at centre then hit someone in the corner and hurt him. He was then cross-checked and a bunch of fights started."

Menard said that Brisson, Simon Langevin and Mathieu Desnoyers were all involved while the two defenceman paired up with another two Hawks but didn't fight.

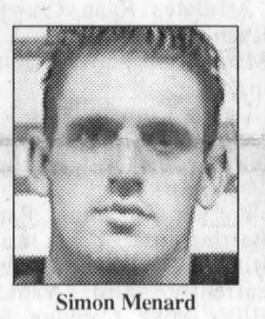
The action carried over into the lobby as Menard said "Louis was kicked out and some young fans were upset and wanted to take it out on Louis."

Menard, who accompanied Brisson to the Glens' locker room, had to defend his player.

"One man tried to grab him and I had to step in to take the man off of him."

Menard said a Hawks' executive then stepped in.

"It could have been a lot worse if it wasn't for him. The crowd could have been more involved. A Hawks' executive got involved and told the crowd to calm down."



Simon Menard

Louis Brisson

After a 20 minute delay and continuing heckles from the crowd directed to the Glens and the referees, police were called in to keep the peace.

When they arrived everything had calmed down and the game finished without incident.

The Glens are expecting a pair of suspensions to result from the game as Langevin and Brisson won't be expected to be eligible for this Friday's home game against the Char-Lan Rebels.

On the ice the Glens prevailed with a victory Saturday night but allowed the Hawks to creep back after an early deficit.

Five goals, four on the powerplay, in the first period gave the Glens a 5-1 lead after 20 minutes.

Perhaps the home town crowd's anger was triggered by the bunch of powerplay chances awarded to Alexandria in the first period.

"We spent most of the first period with the man advantage," said Menard.

"We took advantage of lots of penalties against them. In the second period there was no flow because of quite a bit more penalties."

Still the Glens led 6-3 after 40 minutes.

In the third period the Hawks came back with three goals to Alexandria's one.

With 1:04 the melee occurred.

Once play resumed again, Jeff Lobb scored into an empty net with 20 seconds left to seal the win.

Rebels-73s light it up

CHECK MATES: While they were teammates Adam Beehler, front, and Stephane St. Denis provided the Rebels with a talented one-two punch in solid defensive centremen. Now St. Denis skates with the 73s and the two were busy watching each other Saturday night during Char-Lan's 9-7 win in Williamstown.

Rebels.

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Char-Lan Rebels and visiting Kemptville 73s gave fans plenty to cheer about Saturday night in Williamstown.

The offence of both clubs was on display as a total of 16 goals were scored in the game.

The game also marked the return of Sean Roseman and Stephane St. Denis to Williamstown who are both playing with Kemptville this year.

Both are attending school in Ottawa and the 73s are based much closer than the Rebels.

In Saturday's game the Rebels blew two three goals leads before sealing the win with a late empty net goal.

Rebels 9 73s 7

Mike King's third goal of the night into an empty net sealed the win as Char-Lan escaped after blowing two big leads.

Captain Derek Duval showed some unselfishness as he flicked the puck onto King's stick on a two on one to give him the hat trick opportunity.

The Rebels held an early second period 4-1 lead and then led 5-2 midway through the second period but let the 73s come back to knot the score at 5-5.

"We don't seem to be able to hold three goal leads," said Rebels general manager John Chafee.

"We seem to let teams back in. We have to learn how to play with the lead, that will come with experience. We do have a young defence and goaltenders."

Soccer finals this Friday at GDHS

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

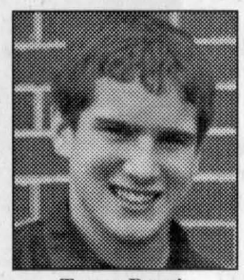
The A division boys' high school soccer championships will be held at Glengarry District High School this Friday.

Both divisions consist of just four teams including GDHS, Char-Lan, Tagwi and Seaway.

In the senior loop only Seaway isn't a threat to win the title.

GDHS tied both of their matches against Tagwi and Char-Lan in the past two weeks.

Although Char-Lan blew away Tagwi in their meeting two weeks ago, judging by their regular season records it's easy to see that the championship could go to either of the three schools.



Trevor Bougie

The junior GDHS went undefeated this season but will have their hands full with their rivals from Char-Lan.

Tagwi had a decent regular season but the two Glengarry schools stood atop the league all year.

The junior semi-finals are tentatively set for 10 a.m. Friday while the seniors play at 11:30 a.m.

GDHS will play Seaway in both divisions while Tagwi and Char-Lan will play in the other semi-finals at the Glengarry Sports Palace field.

Both finals will take place at GDHS with the juniors playing at 1 p.m. and the seniors at 2:30 p.m.

Challenge Cup

Senior Gaels coach Glen Campbell has planned a new event which will paint a better picture as to which team is the best in SDG each year.

A pair of Challenge Cup games has been scheduled for Oct. 29 and will pit the winners from both the AA and A divisions against each other.

The games will be held at GDHS and Campbell has purchased a trophy for the event.

The senior contest will begin at 2 p.m. with the seniors playing at 3:30 p.m.

The games will be held whether GDHS are A division champions or not.

The event will be held in memory of long time GDHS soccer coach Brian Filion in honour of his commitment to high school soccer in SDG.

Crusaders vs Gaels

Last week's soccer action included another set of games between Glengarry rivals Char-Lan and GDHS in Williamstown.

In the senior match the two squads didn't give any momentum away as the score remained 1-1 after regulation.

Trevor Bougie scored for Char-Lan and Blair MacMillan replied for GDHS.

In the junior contest GDHS blanked the Crusaders 3-0.

Brad MacLeod picked up the shutout and goals were scored by Jason MacDonald, Matt Hlusko and Brendan Ryan.

Bantam B Glens win B championship

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Alexandria Roy's Pontiac Buick bantam B Glens won the B championship in their first tournament of the new hockey season at home.

The Glens defeated Vankleek Hill in the B final at the tournament held at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

The Glens held on after scoring two first period goals and Vankleek Hill scored their lone tally in the third.

Corey Willard

Julien Menard and Corey Willard scored for Alexandria.

Menard was the hustler of the game.

Captain Alec Mcdougall, Brendham MacCormick, Menard and Jason Doucet scored in the win.

Hustler of the game was Mcdougall.

To open the tournament Alexandria lost to St. Isidore 3-2 in double overtime.

Dominic Hamelin and Brett Boisvenue scored in the loss.

Hustler of the game was Corey Willard.

Regular season play

In regular season play the Glens defeated Cornwall 3-1.

Doucet, J.F. Menard and Kurtis Lapierre scored.

Rebs A finalists

In the A final the Char-Lan Paradise Fitness Rebels lost to North Dundas 3-0.

All three goals were scored late in the game.

In their first game Char-Lan defeated Casselman 2-1 on a late Dave Belanger goal. Adam Barton scored earlier for the Rebels.

In the second game the Rebels faced the St. Isidore squad and skated to a 2-2 draw after regulation.

Danik Poirier and Brennan Poirier scored in the during regulation play.

In the three on three overtime, Barton put the game away giving his team a spot in the finals.

The Rebels next play Saturday morning in Maxville against the NGS Braves.

Leroux returns to Ottawa 67s lineup

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Ottawa 67s announced last week that Williamstown native Jonah Leroux has returned to the team.

The overage left winger rejoined his Ontario Hockey League team from Acadia University in Nove Scotia and was in the lineup Friday night in Kitchener against the Rangers.

Jonah Leroux

Ottawa 67s head coach and general manager Brian Kilrea is happy to have Leroux back.

"We are very fortunate to have been given the chance to re-acquire Jonah Leroux. He was a tremendous influence on the team last year and his speed and talent will certainly help the team again this season."

The overage spot was made available following the trade that saw former captain and scoring star Miguel Delisle, also a former Alexandria Junior B Glens forward, sent to Owen Sound for draft picks in the OHL Priority Selection.

Leroux was a first round draft choice of the Oshawa Generals in 1998 and spent two seasons there.

He was traded to Brampton in his third year where he joined fellow Glengarrian Kurt MacSweyn on the Battalion lineup.

Then he was traded to the 67s the following season where he set career highs in points and games played.

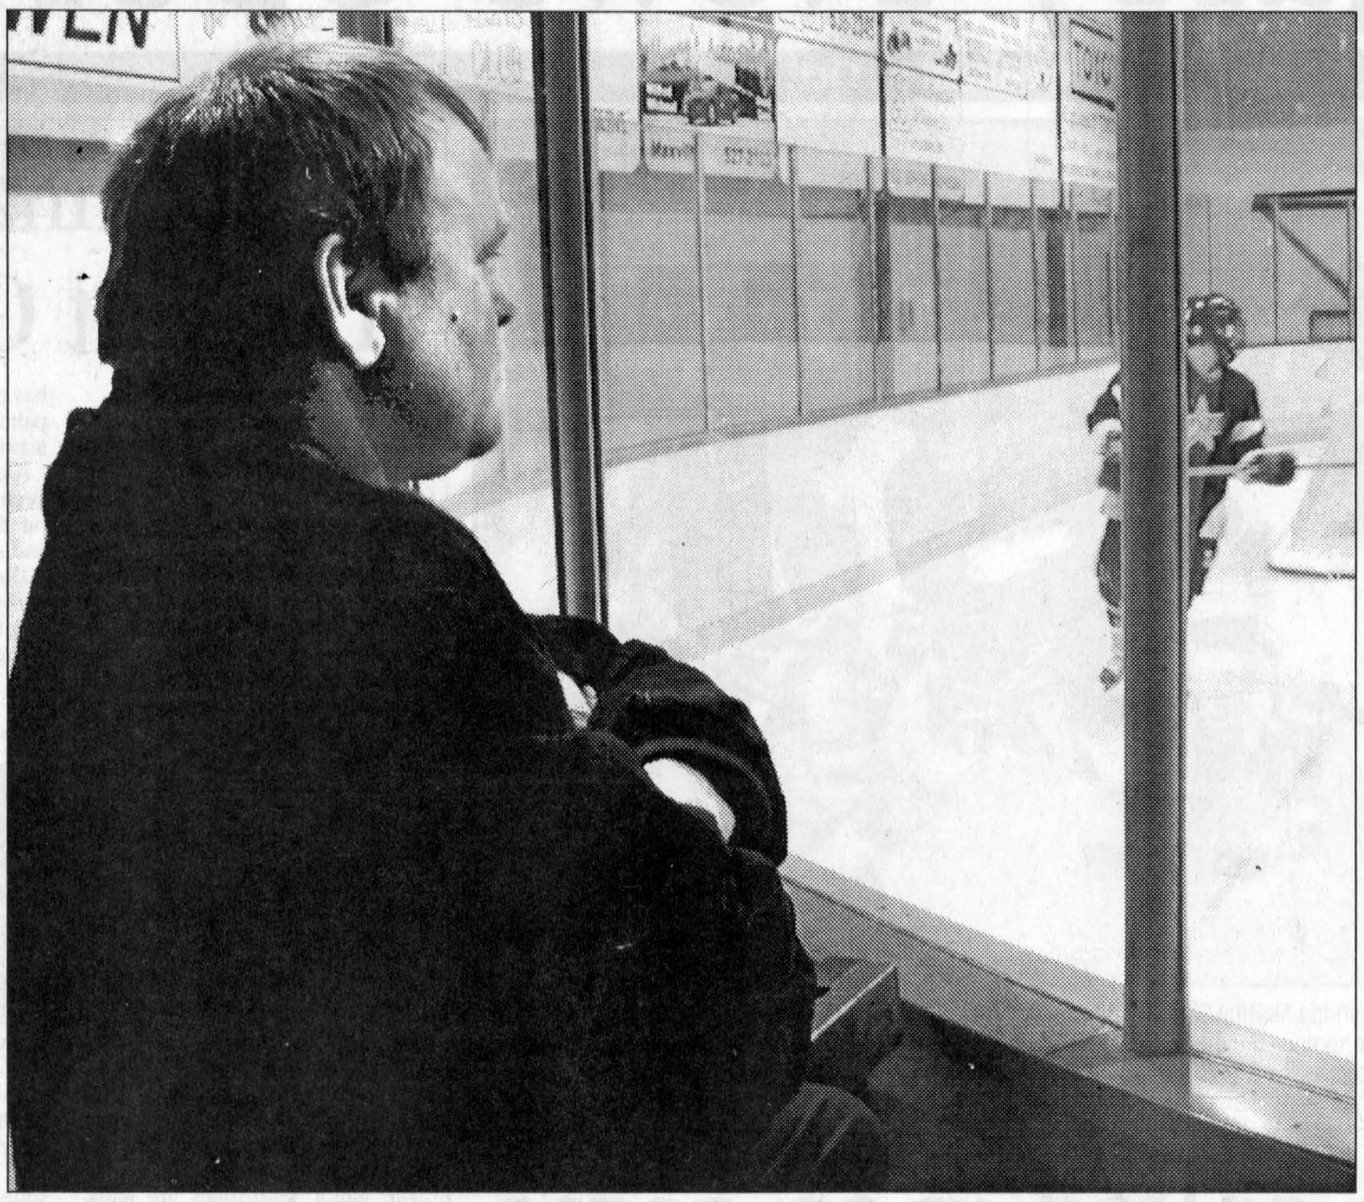
Last year Leroux scored 12 goals and 41 points in 69 games played.

In his previous three seasons in Brampton and Oshawa he scored 14 goals and 42 points in 185 games.

Leroux played his minor and junior B hockey in Char-Lan.

Leroux was invited earlier this hockey season to compete in the Ottawa Senators Rookie Camp.

Mustangs coach/GM trying new approach



A DIFFERENT LOOK: Maxville Mustangs head coach and general manager Andre Paquette thought he would take a different view of his team as he watched from the sidelines Saturday night against the Casselman Stars in Maxville. He didn't like what he saw as his team lost 7-1. He plans to remain off the team's bench for the rest of the season after assuming the general manager role on top of head coaching duties last week.

MAXVILLE

BY TODD ANDERSON
Sports Editor

The Maxville Mustangs will have a few new looks as they take to the ice this weekend.

Head coach and general manager Andre Paquette guarantees it.

Paquette came up with the idea last weekend to take himself off the Mustangs' bench and watch the games from the sidelines.

He'll do that for the rest of the Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League season.

He feels this move will give him a better sense of what changes he must bring to the team.

Assistant coaches Steve Archer and Kevin Lalonde have full rein behind the bench now.

Paquette has embraced his new role as general manager, to which he was officially appointed last week, so expect some changes to occur to the team as early as this week.

"There will be definitely some changes by Saturday," said Paquette.

"We have to do something to put this team back on track."

Paquette obvious concern is with early discipline problems and he said he'll weed out the players who continually commit the fouls.

"It's the same people getting all the penalties over and over. It's because of a lack of effort and discipline. They don't seem to care. That's really frustrating to the other players who are trying hard."

Paquette said he will have some changes Wednesday night at practice.

That could mean one of two things or both.

There may be cuts coming up or trades with other EOJCHL teams.

The Mustangs have stumbled out of the gates with inconsistent play.

In their first five games they have a 2-2-1 record for fifth in the division.

Although it's early and the team is only five points out of first place with one game in hand, Paquette didn't see any light at the end of the tunnel.

"I talked to the other two coaches and told them I would not get behind the bench unless I had too. They were happy with the decision and I have all the confidence in them as they said they do in me."

In last weekend's play the inconsistency continued as the Mustangs split a pair of games.

On Friday night they travelled to Vanier to try and avenge a loss in their home opener against the Thunder.

Mustangs 4 Thunder 3

Captain Derek Crawford's third goal of the season with 39 seconds left in the middle frame turned out to be the winner.

The Mustangs led 4-2 at the time and held off the Thunder despite allowing them to score their third goal of the game 35 seconds into the third period.

The Mustangs had a 3-1 lead after 20 minutes as Andrew Michaud scored twice and rookie Blair MacMillan notched his team leading fifth goal of the season.

Michaud's name was all over the scoresheet as the feisty forward also was part of a bout late in the third period resulting in a one-game suspension.

It was his second misconduct penalty of the night.

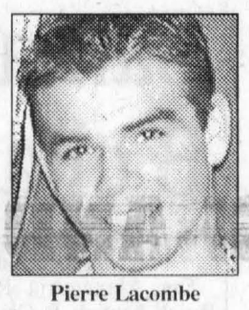
Forward Jonathon Bray ran his season assist total to six as he handed out three Friday night.

Goaltender Dan Desnoyers turned in his second win of the season.

He played well in both games according to Paquette.

"He's so strong in goal for us. He plays at 120 per cent."

Vanier received their three goals from captain Marc Bellefeuille, Daniel Renaud and Denis Stocker.



Pierre Lacombe

The Mustangs put together a much worse effort according to Paquette in their next match.

Stars 7
Mustangs 1

What a difference a day makes.

The Mustangs stunk it up in front of their home crowd Saturday night setting some frustration into their head coach.

"Saturday night was a totally different story than Friday. It wasn't the same team. They played with no heart and we were very, very disappointed."

The Mustangs did start the game off relatively well trailing just 1-0 after 20 minutes.

The one goal came off Desnoyers rebound which was tapped in by a wide open Stars forward.

In the second period the two teams exchanged goals as Casselman then led 3-1 after 40 minutes.

The Mustangs fell apart in the third period allowing four goals including three in a stretch of three minutes midway through the period.

The one bright spot for the home team was seeing rookie forward Pierre Lacombe score his first goal of the year.

He was returning from an injury as was fellow forward Ghislain Laferriere.

"Those two played really well all weekend and it was good to see them back," said Paquette pointing out one of the few positives from the weekend.

Casselman's scoring came from Patrick Rouire with three and Roch Leduc and Gino St. Louis with two each.

Mustangs notes:

This weekend the Mustangs will play host to the Rockland Nats Saturday night starting at 7:30 p.m.

On Sunday the Mustangs travel to St. Isidore for a 7:30 p.m. start against the Eagles.

After the Stars' fifth goal Saturday night both Bray and Pat Lafleche were simultaneously ejected for checks to the head.

Affiliates Ryan Crawford, Ryan Villeneuve and Pat Marjerrison played Saturday night.

Derek Crawford leads the team with 10 points ranking him among the league's top 10 in scoring.

Former Mustang Patrice Berlinguette, now skating with the St. Isidore Eagles, is currently third. Vankleek Hill's Mike Cunning leads the way with 17 points.

With the hat trick King now has seven goals this season.

"He's such a good team guy," said Chafee.

"He's a great fore-checker and made a great play to score his second goal short-handed."

Also scoring Saturday night was Steve Jarvo with his St. Lawrence Division leading 10th and 11th goals and, Adam Beehler, Derek Duval, Danny Lafave and Nathan Poitras.

Poitras' goal came with seven minutes remaining in the game and broke open a 7-7 deadlock.

Johnson finished with four assists in the game and is tied with Jarvo for the league lead in points with 22. Duval, who added three assists, is one back with 21 points.

"Duval is having a tremendous season as our captain, Jarvo has always been a strong skater and is using his speed this year and we knew Johnson was a playmaker," said Chafee.

"It's the first time in a long time that we've had a line take in the top three in scoring."

Anthony Fricchione stayed in between the pipes for all seven goals. He made 33 saves.

Scoring for Kemptville was Sylvain Routhier and McLean Koekoek with two each, St. Denis, Andrew Miller and Adam Spirk.

In the Rebels' other game one of the veterans broke out with a strong offensive night.

Rebels 9 Lions 3

In the first of two nine-goal weekend games Friday night, veteran Adam Beehler proved he can still score.

The former offensive star and captain of the Winchester Hawks scored his first three goals of the year in a win over the Morrisburg Lions.

A constant agitator and checker Beehler may have gained some confidence from the game and Chafee said he hopes the scoring continues.

"He used to put up lots of points. The last few years he's played more defensive and it's nice to see him put up four goals on the weekend."

Also scoring Friday night for the Rebels was Jordan Reasbeck (who moved up to forward in the absence of injured Troy Sinfield) with two, Derek Duval, King, Johnson and Joshua Legue.

Steve Lacelle was in goal for the win.

Justin Elliott, Jeff Lafleche and Matt Bailey scored for the Lions.

Rebels notes:

This weekend the Rebels will battle for first place as they meet the Glens in Alexandria Friday night for an 8:30 p.m. start.

On Saturday they're back at home for a 7:45 rematch with the Morrisburg Lions.

The Rebels have added junior A Cornwall Colts cut Scott Braganza to the team. The 6'2" left winger from Montreal will look to land a role somewhere on the team's second or third line.

Sinfield injured his ankle last week while playing a football game for the Cornwall Collegiate Vocational School football team.

Also scoring for the Glens were Mathieu Desnoyers and Brisson with two each, J.F Menard, Dominic Decoeur and Francis Longtin.

Simon-Pierre Lamoureux was in goal for the win.

Robyn Sadler, Colin Bowie, Brad Casselman, Darren Trenholm, Stefan Gravelle and Chris Thompson scored for the Hawks.

The Glens outshot Winchester 57-41.

A night earlier the Glens rebounded from a set back in their previous game against the Akwesasne Wolves.

Glens 7 Wolves 4

A little over a week after handing the Wolves their first win of the year, Alexandria responded with a 7-4 win at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

According to Menard the game could have been much more lopsided.

"We're trying to stress the importance of playing 60 minutes. It's getting better but we still have lapses where we're not skating. We missed a lot of chances Friday night."

Still the Glens did manage to win during the home-coming of sorts for Michael Lauzon.

The three-year veteran of the Glens played in his first game in Alexandria for the Wolves.

Lauzon asked for his release from the Glens last week after limited playing time. Menard feels his playing time wasn't any better the other night.

"It was a weird feeling to see him out there. He went there to get more ice time and I didn't see him too much. Maybe that's because it was his first game. He's a friend of mine so it was tough to let him go. Unfortunately that's hockey."

The Glens got a pair of two goal games from Chris Van Overbeek and Jeff Lobb. Langevin and Lanthier rounded out the scoring.

As head coach Raymond Lavergne said last week, Menard likes what he sees from the Lanthier, Decoeur, Lobb combination.

"Maybe they're not dominating the score sheet but they're dominating other teams. You just have to give them their role. If you tell them to be a checking line one night they say 'no problem'. If you ask for a couple of goals from them another night, they do it."

Glens notes:

This weekend the Glens host their first place pals from South Glengarry as the Rebels will travel to the Billy Gebbie Arena Friday night for an 8:30 p.m. start.

On Saturday the Glens travel to Akwesasne for a 7:30 p.m. start against the Wolves.

It will be the third game in 16 days between the two teams.

Ben Desnoyers (work commitments) and Yannick Lalande (foot injury) were both out of the lineup Saturday.

Lalande injured his foot at school last week but played Friday night. It was swollen when he woke up Saturday.

With suspensions likely coming up the Glens will probably call up affiliates from junior C Casselman Stars Friday night.

Sports Briefs

Midget Rapids tie

The minor midget Seaway Valley AA Rapids earned one point in back to back games against the Ottawa Valley Titans last week.

Jordan Scheffer scored both goals in an opening 4-2 loss.

In the next game Scheffer, Brent McNab and Cody Jacobs scored in a 3-3 draw.

Great goaltending from Eric Monnin held the Rapids in the game.

Atom Glens split

The Alexandria Auto Glass atom B Glens split a pair of games last week.

On Thursday the Glens lost to South Stormont 4-2.

Patrick Poirier and Nathaniel MacMillan scored in the defeat.

In the next game the Glens responded with a perfect result against Cornwall.

Jeremie Poirier and Jacob Cameron each scored twice with MacMillan potting a single.

Joe O'Shea had two assists.

Bantam Glens 3-0

The Alexandria bantam B Glens have started off the season with three straight wins.

In action Saturday night in Massena the Glens won 5-3.

Julien Menard and Keegan Cholette each scored twice with Marc Bourbonnais adding a single.

Brett Boisvenue handed out two assists.

A day earlier the Glens defeated Akwesasne 8-1.

Jacob Doucet led the way with three goals, J.F. Menard added two and Kurtis Lapierre and Bourbonnais added singles.

Julien Menard had four assists.

Andrew Lapoint earned the win in goal.

The Glens next home game is Saturday at 6 p.m. against Akwesasne.

Benson tourney

The Benson Business to Business Hockey Challenge will take place this Friday at Si Miller Arena in Cornwall.

Admission to the arena will be a no-perishable food item that will be donated to the Agape Center.

The tournament will support the Cornwall Minor girls and boys hockey associations.

The Tapis Richard Ranger team captured the championship of the Ladies' Twilite Division this year.

On Sept. 10 the league held their annual awards dinner at GGCC.

The Tuesday night league, which plays at Glengarry Golf and Country Club, consisted of 40 members this year and league organizer Germaine Lalonde said more are welcome for next season.

"We change the teams up every year by drawing names based on handicaps. We're looking for more players of all ages for next year."

The league started play in 1970 and Lalonde, 77, has been in charge for all but two years.

Amongst the other teams competing in the league this year were Glengarry Tire, Caisse Populaire and Roy's Garage.

Glengarry Tire finished in second place. Team members are: Cathie Macdonald, Eliane Benoit, Shirley Folkard, Carol Baker, Gisele Boisvenue, Milley Harney, Helen Jewer, Margaret McCuaig and Joan Burton.

Power skating class looking to add more skaters to the mix

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Parents looking to give their children an opportunity to hone their figure skating, speed skating or hockey skills may want to check out what's going on at the Billy Gebbie Arena Monday nights.

The Alexandria Power Skating School has begun and area youths are learning how to improve in the most critical area of hockey and figure skating competitions.

The Alexandria Power Skating School has attracted close to 50 youths in their second year of operation and there's still room for more.

With experienced instructors ready to help kids learn the most essential skills and techniques to skating, the course offers a great opportunity for hockey players, figure skaters and speed skaters to learn the basics.

The instructors include: Alexandria Skating Club member Brigitte Sauve, Glengarry Hockey School instructor and long-time hockey enthusiast Yves Joannette and former power skating class instructor Joel Doiron.

"We want to stress the basics that come out of the Glengarry Hockey School and Alexandria Skating Club," said Doiron.

"We stress good skating skills including the basics and fundamentals like stops, turns, takeoffs and balance on skates."

The school is overseen by Skate Canada.

All participants wear full hockey equipment but no pucks are used during the on-ice sessions.

The classes are open for children aged four to 12 and is divided into two groups.

Classes are held Monday nights at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

The four to eight year olds participate on the ice from 4:30 p.m. to 5:20 p.m. and the nine to 12 year olds take over from 5:20 p.m. to 6:20 p.m.

The course is open to both boys and girls and already there is a diverse mix of both.

The 10-week course just completed their second week but if there's interest the instructors say they would like to start another course in the new year.

Cost is $75 for the 10-week session and there's still room to join.

Contact convenor Luanne Nadeau at 525-2842 (after 4 p.m.) for more information.

Pair of broomball games down to wire

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

There were no clear cut winners in last week's action of the North Glengarry Broomball League in Maxville Sunday.

Both games resulted in differences of one goal.

In the first game Dave's Drywall and Farley Windows renewed their rivalry with Dave's winning 3-2.

Lee Casselman with two and Lance Ouderkirk scored in the victory.

Alain Seguin responded with two goals for Farley's.

In game two the Masters came close to winning their first game of the year but fell to Lacombe's Custom Work 2-1.

Pierre Lacombe's goal with 6:23 remaining turned out to be the winner.

Roch Lacombe also scored in the win.

Ivan Conway had the Masters' tally.

Ladouceur supporter unhappy with letter

I could not let Mr. Don Routhier's letter of September 17 go without coming to the defence of Laurent Ladouceur, Mr. Radiator #23.

Here are some important facts that Mr. Routhier chose to omit from his letter. After crashing Laurent Ladouceur drove to the officials' stand on his son's car to ask if he drove his son's car, would he qualify (if he won) for the points he needed to win the championship.

The officials said yes. As the race was getting ready to start again Mr. Laurent Ladouceur pit crew came running saying his car was ready to race, the official said "no need, everything is OK with Laurent Ladouceur driving his son's (Lee Ladouceur) car for points", so Mr. Ladouceur raced in his son's car. After the race was over the officials said "sorry Laurent Ladouceur, we cannot give you your needed points for the championship!"

For a few days nobody knew who officially won, official had to check this out.

These very important facts Mr. Don Routhier you chose not to put in your letter to the editor.

As for the boos and jeers sir, I was in the grandstand and never heard any of it.

I'm sure you being in the pits could not hear much with the roar of the engines. I was in the pits myself before.

Another point, the delay of the race was to clear the track.

Kennedy new agricultural society president

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

Bruce Kennedy took over the reins as president of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, Friday night, at the group's annual general meeting held at St. Mary's Centre.

Mr. Kennedy said he is approaching his duties as head of the society, which organizes the Williamstown Fair, with some trepidation and anxiety.

"It's a $150,000 business," he told members. "It's big business."

He also said that the pace of expansion of the fair must be measured.

"We can't grow too fast. We have to maintain what we have and we can't tax our volunteers too much."

Last year the fair managed to get the proof it needed to add "Canada's oldest annual fair," to its name. Having conquered the country, so to speak, Mr. Kennedy is looking further afield.

"Are we North America's oldest fair? I have been doing some research on the (inter)net."

To date, however, he has been struck the most by the number of fairs which have "gone under" in recent years, highlighting the need for accountability in running the annual event.

For Mr. Kennedy, who took over the presidency from Clarence Robertson, the new role is a family tradition.

"Fifty years ago my father (the late Cameron Kennedy), assumed this role in 1953."

Gary Robertson was elected first vice-president. Beverly Runions remains as secretary/treasurer, while Rob Goodbun takes over from Janis Dupuis, Betty MacDonald, Alpin MacGregor, Iris Swerdfeger and Stanley Swerdfeger. They replace retiring directors: Bill MacNaughton, Sue Harrington, George Runions, Betty McIntosh, and the late Amy Ward.

Special presentations were made to two exhibitors who received honours for their work in the showhall.

Gillian Wall was presented with the Premiere Exhibitors Plaque for having the most number of points in 2002, and Diane Berry received special recognition for having won the quilt competition at the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies in Toronto in February.

Mrs. Berry first exhibited her quilt at the Williamstown Fair in 2001, where it not only won a red ribbon, but was named best-of-show, as well.

The quilt was then taken to the district meeting of fairs in the fall of that year, where it again placed first and earned the right to compete at the next level. When it was named Ontario Championship quilt, Mrs. Berry became the first winner from the district in 42 years.

The St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society Merit Award was won this year by husband and wife duo, Betty and Alex MacDonald, who are "there when you need them," according to presenter, Clarence Robertson.

Martin Lang was the recipient of the Ontario Agriculture Society Service Award for his volunteer involvement in so many agricultural groups.

"It is quite an honour to receive this from a roomful of volunteers," said Mr. Lang.

Guest speaker for the evening was Joan P. MacDonald, who used the opportunity to talk about "a community success story" – the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum.

"People come from all over the world to our historic little village," she said, outlining the birth of the museum in 1967 as a centennial project.

Outgoing president Clarence Robertson said the fair was "in good shape" financially, with money in the bank, despite increased expenditures of more than $5,000 over last year. Gate receipts were up in 2002, with Friday night and Saturday crowds breaking records.

Dates of the fair for 2003 will be August 8-9-10.

SERVICE AWARD: Martin Lang, left, was the recipient of the Ontario Agriculture Service Award at the annual banquet meeting of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society held in Williamstown on Friday. Presenting the award is new fairboard president, Bruce Kennedy.

Pasco as the president of the home and garden division.

The home and garden division (formerly known as the ladies' division) looks after the entries in the showhall. Ms. Pasco said, that while Mr. Goodbun was the first male in many years to assume this responsibility, up until 1933 men were in charge.

"In 1935, women were finally given the right to look after fancy work and baking," she said.

Others elected to the board of directors for 2003 include: Bill Chambre, Ron Eamer, Ron Graham, Heather Irwin, Carolyn Laing, Jerome MacDonell, Iggie Peters, Sommer Robertson, Neil Dixon, Mac Edwards, Glenn Jurchuk, Rick Marvell, Garnet MacDougall, Jim McDonell, Cheryl Wightman, Ralph Dixon, Ralph Gordon, John Hodgson, Alex MacDonald, Kevin MacLeod, Robin Thomson, and Jay Woollven.

New directors include: Eugene

More sheep lost

Dunvegan area resident Kenneth MacLeod has lost two more sheep to coyote(s), according to the provincial valuer's report.

The township will reimburse Mr. MacLeod $250 for the loss of one ewe and one yearling.

The township will recover the money from the province through the Livestock, Poultry and Honey Bee Protection Act.

SALONS FUNÉRAIRES Munro & Morris FUNERAL HOMES LTD.
ALEXANDRIA BRANCH

FLEMING, HAROLD JAMES - Peacefully at Maxville Manor on Tuesday, Oct. 15, 2002. Beloved husband of the former Mary McCormick (nee: St. John). Dear son of the late Lawrence Fleming and the late Daisy Robinson. Dear brother of Mrs. Laura Dalton (wife of the late Cliff Dalton), Arthur Fleming (Marg) and Gordon Fleming (Eileen) all of Perth. Predeceased by one sister, Mrs. Dorothy Dowdall (wife of the late Creswell Dowdall). Step-father of Neil McCormick (Betty) of Loch Garry, Ivan McCormick of Spruce Grove, Alberta, Emmett McCormick (Barbara) of Lochiel, Mrs. Fern Hannan (wife of the late Robert Hannan)) and Sharon McCormick both of Ottawa. Also survived by many nieces, nephews, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. A family service was held in the Chapel of the Munro and Morris Funeral Homes Ltd. 114 Main Street South, Alexandria (525-2772) on Friday, Oct. 18, officiated by Rev. Jim Collins. Interment followed in St. Finnan's Parish Cemetery. As expressions of sympathy, memorial donations to Maxville Manor or to the charity of your choice would be appreciated by the family.

SALON FUNERAIRE HILLCREST FUNERAL HOME Est. 1967

STANLEY ROWLAND
Bravely, on Sunday, Oct. 13, 2002 at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, Alexandria, Stanley Rowland at the age of 85. Beloved husband and best friend of the late Edna Rowland (nee Lund). Dearly loved father of Carol Nixon and her husband Kevin. Cherished Grandpa of Bryanna. Friends paid their respects at Hillcrest Funeral Home, 151 Bond Street (corner of Stanley Street), Vankleek Hill on Tuesday, October 15 followed by a Funeral Service in the funeral home. Reverend Neil Stephens officiated. A heartfelt thanks to our family, friends, neighbours and coworkers at GMH as well as my previous co-workers of CCAC for their on going support, open hearts and special words; also to Dr. Govan, the nurses, dietary and housekeeping staff at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital for their professional and compassionate care. A special thanks to Sheila Boyle and the volunteers of the Physio Department at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital for their encouragement and expertise. They are truly angels in disguise. Also, Elaine Boyer for always believing in my father. For those wishing a memorial donation to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Chronic Care Unit, Hwy #43, Alexandria, Ontario, K0C 1A0 would be appreciated. For expressions of sympathy to the family, by fax: 613-678-2045 or by email: hillcrest.fh@sympatico.ca. 43-1c

Card of Thanks

ATKINSON–Thanks to all of you for your support, friendship and thoughtfulness following the sudden passing of my wife Joan on August 29 this year. Your individual and collective kind words and support have been of great help and comfort to myself and family. A very special thank you to my great friend Eric Bentley who accompanied me home from the hospital, helped me make the preliminary arrangements and hardly let me out of his sight until my son and my two brothers and their wives arrived the next day. A special thank you also to Rev. Jennie Leslie for the way she described the essence of Joan to celebrate Joan's life and her love of life at the Memorial Service held at Munro & Morris Funeral Home at 2pm on Sunday, September 1, 2002. And the same special thank you to Shelley O'Connor and Connie Ruscica (nee O'Connor) for their very special words of remembrance. A second memorial service was held for Joan at W.C.Hiltz Funeral Home, Kentville, N.S. on Saturday, September 7, 2002 (our home province and close to where we grew up.) Interment was a private family ceremony at the Habitant, N.S. Cemetery, nearby both our parents and other friends of early days. Again, my heartfelt thanks to all on behalf of myself and family. Joan was a most remarkable person and I feel very privileged to have spent over 51 1/2 years of quality married life with her. She would share my sentiments toward the support you have provided.
–Les Atkinson 43-1p

LACROIX–The family of the late Martin Lacroix extend heartfelt thanks to relatives, friends and neighbours for their expressions of kindness and sympathy. Thank you for your prayers, mass offerings, floral arrangements, cards, visits and food. We are grateful for the generous donations to the Parkinson Foundation of Canada and the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario. Our deepest gratitude is extended to Fr. Daniel Gauthier who officiated at the funeral mass and to Ron Munro and staff of the Munro & Morris Funeral Home for their sympathy and excellent service. Special thanks to Pierre Vaillancourt and Lorraine Beriault for the music during the funeral mass and to the pallbearers: Normand M. Lacroix, Marc Leblanc, Yves Leblanc, Mario Lauzon, Kyle Shea and Iain Armour.
– Genevieve, Mark, Carol Ann and Drew, Ronald, Sasha and grandchildren. 43-1p

MacGILLIVRAY–A sincere thank you to relatives, friends and North Glengarry Council for gifts and flowers. Also to Joan and Jim at La Casa di Manse for the great surprise party held to celebrate my 90th birthday. A special thank you to Anne, Evelyn and Garry. This event will long be remembered. Thanks to you all
–Ruth. 43-1p

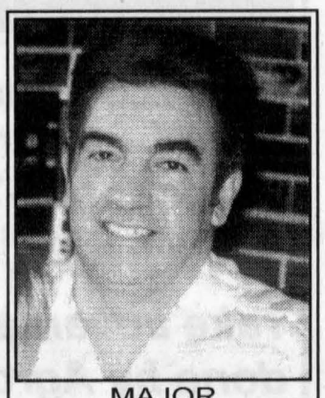
In Memoriam

LOBB–In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather Aurele who passed away October 26, 1984.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest
He'll always be remembered
As a man both strong and good.
Do not stand at my grave and weep,
I am not there, I do not sleep.
I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glint on snow,
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumn's rain.
When you awaken in the morning hush,
Of quiet birds circled flight,
I am the soft stars
That shine at night.
Do not stand at my grave and cry.
I am not there, I did not die.
–Quietly remembered every day, still loved and missed in every way by your loving children and family. 43-1p



MAJOR
In loving memory of my husband, Leo, who passed away Oct. 24, 1992.
Those we love remain with us,
for love itself lives on,
And cherished memories never fade
because a loved one's gone.
Those we love can never be more than a thought apart,
For as long as there is memory,
Leo will live on in my heart.
Missing you!
Phyllis 43-1p

In Memoriam

CRAWFORD–In loving memory of Steward who passed away October 18, 2000.
May the winds of life blow softly and whisper so you'll hear,
We will always love and miss you and wish that you were here.
–Dorothy and family. 42-2p

FLETCHER–In loving memory of our dear mother Beatrice, who passed away October 23, 2001.
Gently we gather and treasure them all,
A golden heart has stopped beating,
Two hands laid to rest.
Today recalls sad memories
When we lost our mother,
The very best.
–Sadly missed by Jim, Marilyn, Faye and Ron. 43-1p

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING CONCERNING A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE ZONING BYLAW #39-2000 TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of North Glengarry will hold a public meeting on the 18th day of November 2002 in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Building in Alexandria to consider a proposed amendment to the Township's Comprehensive Zoning Bylaw under Section 34 (Section 39 Temporary use provisions) of the Planning Act as amended.

The purpose of the amendment is to rezone part of Lots 1,2, 3, 4 and 5 Conc. 21 I.L. in the Township of North Glengarry, (Kenyon Ward) from General Agriculture (AG) to General Agriculture Special Exception (AG-12). The zoning change would allow for all General Agriculture uses, excluding the use of the property for residential purposes. See key map attached.

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of or in opposition to the proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment. If a person or public body who files an appeal of a decision of the Council of the Township of North Glengarry in respect of the proposed zoning bylaw does not make oral submissions at a public meeting or make written submissions to the Municipality of the Township of North Glengarry before the proposed zoning bylaw is adopted, the Ontario Municipal Board may dismiss all or part of the appeal.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the proposed Zoning Bylaw amendment is available between 8:00 am and 4:00 pm, Monday to Friday at the Township offices.

Dated at the Township of North Glengarry
this 15th day of October, 2002.

Lovely fall wedding between MacLellan and Mines

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

On Saturday, October 12, St. Andrew's United Church, Martintown was the location of a lovely fall wedding. Dayna McLellan and Jason Mines were joined in holy matrimony by Rev. Andrea Harrison with Alison Murray at the organ for the service. Julie Villeneuve was the soloist and she sang Ave Maria and Go Now in Peace. Dayna is the daughter of Gwen Wade of Lancaster and Douglas McLellan and his wife, Andrea Langlais, of Vaudreuil Dorion. Jason is the son of Ann and Maurice Lafromboise of Bainsville.

The bride wore a traditional white satin short-sleeved gown with embroidery on the bodice, skirt panels and train. A tiara held in place a veil with satin edging. Her bouquet included carnations in burgundy, orange and yellow and button chrysanthemums. The matron of honour was Sheri Villeneuve of Cornwall and the bridesmaid was Krista McLellan, sister of the bride, from Lancaster.

Both attendants wore gold satin dresses with spaghetti straps with a shawl which doubled as a train. Their flowers were similar to those of the bride, but with more yellows.

The best man was the groom's brother, Matthew Mines of Ottawa, and the usher was Jason Flaro of Cornwall (not Martintown!). The men in the wedding party wore black tuxedos, the groom with a black vest and the groomsmen in gold vests with ties to match. Jimmy Pratt was the photographer for the wedding and he took pictures with the Raisin River as a backdrop from Dayna and Jason's home before the wedding.

Thanks to the beautiful weather that day, Dayna was able to walk to the church. Following the service, and while pictures were being taken on the steps of the church, Rhys Paquette rang the church bells.

A reception was held in Cornwall. Out of town guests in attendance were from the Eastern Townships of Quebec, Toronto and Ottawa. Dayna and Jason both work in Cornwall and have lived in Martintown for five years in the house once owned by Mr. Wells, and before that, Linda Ross. All best wishes from the Martintown area community go with this happy couple for the years to come.

Great granddaughter

An excited Beaverbrook Road resident called me within hours of the birth of her newest great granddaughter, breaking all my previous records for getting a late-breaking news item into the paper! On Monday afternoon, October 21, Brynn Aislynn, a second daughter for Jennifer and Scott McDougald was born at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall weighing 9 lbs 13 oz.

Jennifer and Scott have an older daughter, Amberlyn who will be three in January. The girls' grandparents are Donna and Brian Schofield of Nine Mile Road, and Claire and Gerry Cadieux and Frank McDougald. Martintown great grandparents are Marion and Bob Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reed.

Congratulations to all on the safe arrival of the newest family member.

Birthday

Congratulations and best wishes go out to Peter Bradacs of the King's Road east on passing the milestone 70th birthday also on October 21.

How nice to have a baby born on your birthday! Peter and Judy also celebrated 40 years of marriage on October 13, and they celebrated quietly at home with their daughter who was visiting from Toronto for Thanksgiving weekend. It must be all the walking that keeps these two on track! Well done and best wishes for many more years of health and happiness.

Horticultural meeting

There will be a meeting of the Martintown Horticultural Society tonight, Wednesday October 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Martintown Community Centre.

Everyone is invited and the guest speaker, Ann Chudleigh, will give a talk entitled The Attraction of Butterflies. $5 will be charged at the door and donations will be accepted for the World Wildlife Fund. The season finisher, a pot luck dinner, will be held in the same location on Wednesday, November 6 beginning at 6 p.m.

Tribute evening

This Friday evening is the tribute to the late Emily MacInnes at Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School in Cornwall. Many people from the area who knew Miss MacInnes as a teacher, friend, fellow club member, church member or neighbour have contributed their memories of her and these will be presented beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

For more information, please call Jane Foster at 931-1847 or you can reach her by e-mail at g.j.foster@sympatico.ca

Antique and appraisal fair

This is a last reminder of the St. Andrew's United Church Womens' Appraisal Fair and Silent Auction which is taking place this Saturday, October 26 at the Martintown Community Centre from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. There will be lots of crafts made from oak and pine, pumpkins, snowmen and Christmas crafts including wooden angels for those who are aware of the fact that Christmas is only two months away! Great baking is guaranteed and a lunch of sandwiches, sweets, pies and a beverage will be available and will be served by the UCG (United Church Girls).

Linda Howes honoured

At the Williamstown Fair Board dinner which was held last Friday evening at St. Mary's Centre in our fair neighbouring community, an event which will, no doubt, be well covered by that village's skilled scribe, one of our own was honoured. Linda Howes was given recognition for years of volunteering her nursing skills at the Fair and was thanked by President Clarence Robertson.

Butlers back

Jean and Rene Butler finally arrived back in Martintown on Thanksgiving Monday from a trip west which was extended due to a mishap while on a gold panning excursion and which resulted in a broken leg for Jean.

But back to the beginning. The Butlers headed west from Martintown on August 28, and stopped in North Bay to have lunch with Nancy McInnes Davis, niece of the late Miss Emily MacInnes. They then traveled west, through Sault Ste. Marie, north of Lake Superior, and out the other side of Ontario. Once in Manitoba, the next stop was with Rene's brother Des and his family at their cottage on Moose Lake, Manitoba. In early September they drove through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to British Columbia and arrived at their destination, the home of their daughter Catherine Butler in time for her birthday on September 7. Catherine lives in Osoyoos B.C. which is in the central interior, right on the U.S. border. Little did they know that a planned two-week stay in this desert area of the south Okanagan Valley would stretch into five weeks.

On September 14, Jean and Rene were taken by friends up into the mountains where they were to strike gold, but unfortunately Jean broke a bone in her leg, just above the ankle when she slipped and fell on some gravel. She was rushed to a hospital in Penticton where a plaster cast was installed and that put an end to her Gold Rush. Not wanting to risk further health complications which could result from long hours of sitting in the car, Rene and Jean decided to stay put in Osoyoos for a few extra weeks.

On their way back they went up through Summerland, B.C., Banff and Lake Louise to Edmonton. There they stayed with a nephew and his family and went to the West Edmonton Mall, Jean riding in a wheel chair. They visited with a first cousin of Jean's in North Battleford, Sask. and then on to Winnipeg and where they stayed with Rene's brother Des, joined in on a fiftieth birthday celebration for a niece, and then continued on home. Jean's cast will come off soon, she hopes, but in the meantime she is staying off her feet as much as possible. Her neighbours and friends are certainly glad to have her back, gold or no gold!

Martintown Public School

On Wednesday, October 30 there will be a meeting of the school council for Martintown Public School beginning at 7 p.m. and all parents are encouraged to attend.

On Halloween, children will be parading in their costumes from 8:15 a.m. to 8:45 a.m.

Goodtimers drop-in

On Wednesday, October 30 there will be a Martintown Goodtimers drop-in at the Martintown Community Centre beginning at 10 a.m. for any interested seniors from the area. The instructions are to bring a sandwich bag lunch and to enjoy the activities, show and tell and card games.

Goodtimers euchre

The winners at the Martintown Goodtimers Euchre which was held at the Martintown Community Centre on Tuesday, October 15, were as follows: 1st, Marcel Glaude, 2nd, Ruth Atchison, 3rd, Claire Van Putten, 4th, Mac O'Byrne, 5th, Solange Glaude, 6th, Estelle Brazeau, 7th, Armand Bissonnette.

In the 50/50 draw, the winners were Wilma MacMillan, Ruth Atchison, Roger Brazeau, Bill Johnston, Solange Glaude and Ann MacDonald. The door prize was won by Roger Brazeau and the free ticket by Ed Ukrainetz. Lucky chair prize winners of candy made by Onagh Ross were Bertha Lalonde and Armand Bissonnette. The next Euchre will be held on Tuesday, October 29 at the Martintown Community Centre.

Duplicate bridge

The winners of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge held on Tuesday, October 15 were as follows: North/South, 1. Jacquie Thibert and Del Roulston, 2. Marg and Sam Wolynec, 3. Jean and Jim Campbell. East/West, 1. Audrey Blair and John Roulston, 2. Gracia Seguin and Madeline Laporte, 3. Joan Turner and Penny McLeod.

Costumes, pumpkins and apple pie are all going to be features of the Duplicate Bridge on October 29. Isobel Quail is the chief coordinator of the goblin and witch food for that day and members are requested to call her at 347-3654 to donate pumpkins or apple pie for the occasion. My source left it a bit ambiguous as to whether only whole pumpkins and not pumpkin pie are being sought, so call Isobel to clarify. Rumour has it that the Bridge Club speciality of Witches' Fingers will be served. Scary costumes are encouraged and I presume the witches will be up to their usual tricks. Players in costume will get in free and there will be a prize for the best costume.

Hey! why should the kids have all the fun?

The Jacobites? An important question to Glengarry

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

When discussing the reasons why Highland settlers first came to Canada and to Glengarry in particular, depressed conditions in Scotland in the second half of the 18th century are, of course, listed as the major cause. We also know that the defeat of the clans at Culloden in 1746 was the deciding element in that depression, but what caused Culloden and why did the government act so harshly to stifle dissent? Those two questions have one main answer - Jacobitism, and the century-old fear in Britain of a return of the Catholic House of Stuart to the throne of Great Britain.

Latin for James, Jacobus

In this column, from time to time over the past 12 years, I've mentioned the Jacobites. The name comes from the Latin for James, Jacobus, and refers to the last Stuart king to sit on the throne of Great Britain, James II (his daughter Anne sat as queen from 1702 to 1714 but the male line was excluded by law). At the time of the so-called "Glorious Revolution" he was defeated with his army at the Battle of the Boyne in 1689.

James went into exile in France and the German princeling William of Orange was called by parliament to become king of Great Britain. But not everyone was happy with the idea of a foreign king. Those dedicated to bringing back the Stuarts (and they were not all Catholics) formed a loose movement throughout Britain and kept the dream alive for generations. Because the Stuarts were originally from Scotland, support for the Stuart cause was particularly strong there and resulted in armed uprisings in 1708, 1715, 1719 and 1745, the last named ending with the decisive defeat of the Jacobite cause and the indirect reason for the subsequent exodus of Highland people to the New World.

The Jacobites, by the way, should not be confused with the Jacobins, the fanatical republican party of the French revolution who were named after the monastery in Paris where they first met a century after the Jacobites first appeared on the scene. The Jacobins were responsible for the Reign of Terror in 1793 and were anti-royalist. The Jacobites were the complete opposite. They believed firmly in the "divine rights of kings" and detested any republican sentiments. From the time of James II's defeat until his grandson Bonnie Prince Charlie landed in Scotland and the 1745 Rising began, the Jacobites never gave up hope of restoring the Stuart dynasty to the throne of Britain.

A movement or a belief in the legitimacy of royalty

The Jacobites did not form a political party as such - Jacobitism was more a movement or a belief in the legitimacy of royalty as opposed to the "democracy" of the day, which was exhibited in republicanism, a word loathed by 18th century royalists. Accordingly, the Jacobites represented the more conservative landowners and traditionalists in Britain, the Tories, as opposed to the mercantile class emerging at the onset of the Industrial Age and known as Whigs.

There were numbers of Jacobites in England, Wales and Ireland as well as in Scotland but they were not involved in any great numbers in open revolt. After 1746, most Jacobites realized that the Stuart cause was lost forever and because of their belief in royalty, changed their allegiance from the Stuarts to the Georges of the House of Hanover.

By the time Highland settlers began arriving in Glengarry towards the end of the 18th century, Jacobitism had lost any power to excite emotions but remained as simply a romantic idea. Certainly there must have been those among the early arrivals in Canada, particularly those who had fought at Culloden, who harboured Jacobite sentiments but the realities of life in the North American wilderness presented more immediate problems than idle longing for a lost cause. When the man who was to become Glengarry's "Big Bishop," Alexander Macdonell, arrived in 1805, the loyalty of the people to the British crown was solidified and he left a legacy of devotion to that crown that seems to have been untainted by any Jacobite feelings. Although members of his family and clan had been "out" in the Rising of 1745, Alexander Macdonell kept whatever private opinions he may have had about the Stuart cause to himself and devoted his life to making sure his flock adapted to the new order.

Existence of political parties was immaterial

Of course, in the years after the British Conquest of the colony of New France, Canada was a colony of Britain and voting did not exist. The existence of political parties was immaterial as government offices were filled with appointees until 1848.

In a strange way, the traces of Jacobitism lived on until well into the 20th century and not only in romantic novels. At the time of the Second World War, Winston Churchill actually voiced the opinion to his War Cabinet that, if Germany won the war, the then representative of the Stuart line in Germany, descended from Rupert of the Rhine, might be imposed on Britain by the conquerors as monarch.

AULD LANG SYNE

Gleaned from the fyles of The Glengarry News

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Friday, October 17, 1902

•Arch. McMillan, liveryman, has purchased the block opposite the post office, belonging to the Duncan Beaton estate. The price was $1,800.

•The Public School here has purchased a complete tennis outfit with the money won by drilling at the Coronation demonstration on June 26. A tennis club has been organized with Miss Florence McDougall, assistant teacher, as president; Arthur Martin, secretary; W.J. O'Brien, principal, as treasurer and a committee from the pupils.

•After spending a month in Manitoba and the Northwest, J.A. Cameron, of the Grand Union Hotel, returned to town Monday. While there, J.A. purchased 2,000 acres of land in the Qu'Appelle Valley, and he reports many Americans are going into the country and land values are soaring.

•Gus McIntosh of Dalkeith, Glengarry's all-round athletic champion, who is attending McGill University, was chosen as a member of the McGill team that went to Toronto yesterday for the inter-collegiate sports.

NINETY YEARS AGO
Friday, October 18, 1912

•Miss Sarah A. McDougall of Green Valley, has gone to Cornwall to attend the Cornwall Business College.

•Duncan McNaughton, Dominionville, left on Tuesday for Alberta, with two cars of milch cows which should net him a tidy profit. Master Howard Anderson accompanied him.

•Saturday evening last, a farewell party was tendered T.J. O'Shea, Apple Hill, who recently disposed of his business and is going to the West. A well filled purse was presented by A. L. McDermid.

•While operating a hay fork, Dan McLean, Dunvegan, had his hand badly lacerated on Tuesday last.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO
Friday, October 22, 1922

•Glengarrians are to have the first chance to see on the screen Ralph Connor's famous story, "The Man From Glengarry." The picture will be shown in Alexander Hall here on November 3 and 4, and in several other points of the county.

•Dr. D.J. Dolan and Mrs. Dolan arrived in town on Monday and for the present are occupying Dr. McCallum's apartment. The young couple were married in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, on October 11.

•The annual field day of Alexandria High School was held Friday afternoon. Angus O'Brien won the senior boys' championship and Marion Chisholm, the senior girls' cup. Dougald Chisholm won in the junior boys' class.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO

•At the call of Arch. J. Macdonald, director for Glengarry of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, farmers of Glengarry met in the Highland Society rooms, Tuesday night and organized a Cheese Factory Patrons' Association. Horace Marjerison, Apple Hill, was elected president and Mr. Macdonald, secretary-treasurer.

•Fire early Tuesday morning destroyed the Wood Specialities plant, formerly Schell's foundry, with heavy loss to the owner, A. Lothian, as well as to the Edgar Irvine Co. and the Corporation of Alexandria, who had valuable goods stored there.

•A free trip to the Toronto Winter Fair has been won by Alexander McRae, Wilfred McDougald and Donald Munroe, Maxville and Wilfred George Sangster, Lancaster.

•When the truck in which he was riding rolled over and pinned him to the ground, John D. McGillivray, formerly of the 18th Lochiel, was killed October 3 near Kiniemuir, Alta.

SIXTY YEARS AGO
Friday, October 16, 1942

•Nursing Sister Frances (Fannie) McDonald of RCAMC, a daughter of Neil McDonald, Alexandria, sailed recently for England. Word of their arrival overseas has been received by the families of LAC Alexander D. McLachlan of Alexandria, and Cpl. D. Bernard McDonald of Montreal.

•Pte. Real Lavigne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Lavigne, Apple Hill, has been invalided home. Pte. Lavigne had his left hand blown off in a mishap during August.

•Among those who entertained for Miss Marie McLeister, whose marriage takes place tomorrow were: Mrs. D.D. McIntosh, Miss Ettie Kerr, Mrs. R.H. Cowan, Mrs. Leo St. John, Mrs. A.G. Maclaren and Mrs. Donald A. Macdonald and Mrs. E.B. Ostrom.

Students single out Larocque-Rozon, Jodoin

ÉCOLE ELDA ROULEAU NEWS

MRS. ROXANNE HURTUBISE

Students have decided to acknowledge the hard work of their teachers.

This week, Grade 7 teacher Paulette Larocque-Rozon and music teacher Daniel Jodoin were showered with compliments. Mrs. Paulette is known for her kindness, patience and her talent for making everything she teaches fun!

Mr. Daniel is known for his intelligence, his encouraging words and most of all for his passion for music. Music has become one of the students' favourite classes!

Congratulations to you both, your hard work is greatly appreciated by students and parents!

Members of the school council are invited to attend a regional meeting in Hawkesbury today (Oct. 23) at 7 p.m. We sincerely thank all members for their continued support and hope to see you all there. Please confirm your attendance with president Denyse Deschamps or principal Lise Prieur.

We encourage everyone to contribute to our Wishing Well. The money collected will be donated to CHEO at their annual telethon. In order to promote this, we ask that all students that have been treated at CHEO bring a picture of themselves so we can display them on a wall filled with hopes and dreams.

On Friday, the CSDCEO will be acknowledging all teachers who have dedicated 25 years to teaching and have now gone to enjoy their well deserved retirement.

Congratulations to Mrs. Therese Bourdon, Mrs. Nicole Gravelle, Mrs. Cecile Lalonde, Mrs. Monique Lefebvre, Mrs. Louise Menard, Mr Albert O'Connell and Mr. Marcel Seguin. We sincerely thank you for your dedication and wish you the very best.

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit will hold a flu vaccination clinic here at Elda Rouleau. Parents wishing to get their children vaccinated are asked to return the consent form to school as soon as possible.

Every Friday is "Vendredi Pop". Popcorn is being sold for a minimal charge of 50 cents. Proceeds will be used for educational trips. Let's encourage the students.

We wish everyone a great week and remember. . . Reading is the key to knowledge!
