Holiday In Florida For Two Is Prize In Board Of Trade Shopping Promotion

A two-weeks' holiday for two in Miami, Florida, will be the big prize in this year's Christmas shopping promotion in Alexandria. There will be the option of a cash prize for the winner.

Details of the promotion were discussed at a dinner meeting of the Board of Trade Tuesday night, when all merchants present endorsed the plan and promised their co-operation.

The promotion will be along the same lines as last year's when the prize was a trip to Bermuda. Coupons will be given out with each purchase of one dollar value but there will not be the weekly cash prizes given last year.

There will be only the grand prize drawing at 5.30 p.m. Christmas eve and this is expected to do away with the bottleneck in stores where customers were at times lined up to sign their coupons. This year the coupons can be brought home for endorsing and deposited in the draw drum anytime before Christmas eve.

The Christmas shopping promotion will get underway in late November and carry through to Christmas eve.

Merchants also agreed on Christmas shopping hours during the week prior to Christmas. Minimum hours during which all Alexandria business places will be open were set at: open all day Wednesday, December 16th; open to 9 p.m. on the 17th, 10 p.m. on the 18th, and 9 p.m. Saturday, 19th. Christmas week, stores will be open until 10 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, closing at 6 p.m. Christmas eve.

Board of Trade president John Proulx, who presided, suggested that the merchants should have their own Retail Merchants organization to work with the board. Most were in favor of such a move and there was the suggestion that another shopping promotion should be held in mid-winter.

Other topics discussed were plans for Santa Claus and the board's support of town council's centennial plans.

The president also outlined plans for an Armouries dance to be held St. Andrew's night, November 30th. This time there will be but one orchestra.

In reviewing the year's activities of the Board, the president recalled the Clean-Up campaign in May, the organizing of the July 1st parade and other assistance to the Park and Recreation group and the Glengarry Night dance in the Armouries July 31st. The Glengarry Memorial Hospital fund had benefitted to the extent of $150 from this dance.

Now in process is organization of a new brochure in conjunction with town council. It will be used for tourist promotion and in the drive to attract new industry.

Santa Claus Will Spend Six Days In Alexandria

Santa Claus will spend six days in Alexandria this Christmas rather than pay his usual flying visit.

Approved at Tuesday's Board of Trade meeting was a plan whereby a snuggery will be erected on the Mill Square and Santa will be ensconsed therein afternoon and evening of December 17 - 18 - 19 - 21 - 22 and 23. The snuggery will be equipped with a loud-speaking system for background Christmas music.

Parents will be able to bring their young ones to meet Santa at any time during this six-day period. He will be fluent in both English and French.

The new approach to Santa will do away with the long lineups, pushing and crowding of other years, it is hoped.

Call Tenders For New Sewer Line

Tenders are being called for the construction of an 18-inch sewer on St. George Street West which will serve the new Square C Textile plant and that area.

Decision was made at a special meeting of Council last night. The necessary by-law is now in Toronto where approval of the Municipal Board must be obtained.

Approval was also given Ottawa Gas Company for a 4-inch gas main to be installed along the south side of St. George Street from the East boundary of the town west to service the Square C Textile plant.

Council also considered a letter from Judge Brennan advising that it should appoint managers to head both the "wet" forces and the "dries" for the February vote on cocktail lounges. Council is now seeking persons to manage the campaigns.

Local building contractors are to be asked to estimate on cost of proposed renovations to Glengarry Gardens under the centennial project. Facilities for a public library and hall would be installed above the entrance to the arena.

Additional Prizes And Scholarships

In addition to the bursaries and awards announced earlier the following GDHS students have won the awards credited below:

Helena den Otter — the Leslie Wilson Memorial Award with a value of $75. This award represents the annual revenue from a fund established last Spring in memory of Leslie W. Wilson who was killed in a motor accident while a member of the staff of the Glengarry District High School.

The Touchette Memorial Award valued at $100. This award is offered annually by Jean Paul Touchette in memory of his late father. It was won in 1963-64 by Alan R. Macdonald.

The Kirk Hill United Church Women's Award, valued at $100 to Jimmy C. MacMillan.

J. J. Morris Died Tuesday

J. J. (Jack) Morris, prominent in the affairs of this town for more than 50 years, died early Tuesday in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall. His death came only two months following the demise of a brother, Michael J. Morris. He was 79.

In retirement over the past three years, Mr. Morris could look back over half a century of varied services to this town which included several years as municipal clerk-treasurer, many years as secretary-treasurer of the Separate School board and active support of community and parish organizations at St. Finnan's. For more than a decade Mr. Morris had served as Returning Officer in this federal riding and he had been secretary-treasurer of Glengarry Telephone Company for more than 25 years.

An athlete who had excelled as a high jumper in his youth, Jack Morris had been active in the Curling and Lawn Bowling clubs. He had helped promote lacrosse, hockey and other sport in the community and always was ready to support any progressive move.

Born at Lochiel, he was a son of John Morris and his wife, Isabella Donovan. He attended Ottawa University before becoming associated here with the late J. A. MacMillan, MP, in the carriage and farm machinery business. Later he was associated with the late Angus McDonald in the general insurance and coal business. He and his brothers purchased that business some 50 years ago and he had later become sole owner. Failing health led to the sale of the business to Adrien Filion, April 1, 1961.

Two sons predeceased him and he is survived by his wife, the former Julia McDonald, and one daughter, Betty, Mrs. Edgar MacLeod, of Valois, Que. Several grandchildren also survive as do one brother, Peter J. Morris and one sister, Rev. M. Sr. Oswald of St. Margaret's Convent, Alexandria.

The largely attended funeral was held this morning to St. Finnan's Cathedral and cemetery. Rev. John D. McPhail, rector, chanted the funeral Mass.

The pallbearers were: Harold Stimson, Adrien Filion, Mayor Raymond Periard, Reeve Lloyd McHugh, J. J. McCormick and Alex J. McDonell.

Neighbor Saves Summerstown Man As Home Destroyed By Fire

A 52-year-old resident of Summerstown Station, used gasoline to kindle a fire in his kitchen stove Tuesday evening and ended by being badly burned and destroying his home.

Bernard McDonald, a mechanic by trade, is recovering in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall from third-degree burns to his face, head, arms and hand. His condition is described as "satisfactory."

The man's log house and an adjoining garage, together with their contents, were destroyed by the fire.

Fire Chief Alton Major of Glen Walter credited the quick action of Emile Lafrance, 45-year-old neighbor of Mr. McDonald, with saving the man's life.

Mr. Lafrance suffered burns to both hands when he rolled the flaming mechanic in the grass and ripped the burning clothing from his back. He was released from hospital after treatment.

Mr. McDonald was taken to hospital by two teen-age neighbors who had earlier assisted Mr. Lafrance in removing the injured man's clothing. They were Ronald Pilon, 17, and his brother Gary, 15.

The fire occurred shortly after 5 p.m. when Mr. McDonald threw gasoline in the kitchen wood stove in an effort to encourage a slow

The fire occurred shortly after and exploded a can of gasoline in Mr. McDonald's hand, setting his clothing on fire and spreading to the house.

Volunteer fire brigades from Glen Walter and Williamstown arrived promptly but could only prevent spread of the fire to adjacent buildings.

The loss, expected to exceed $5,000, was not covered by insurance.

To Live In Cornwall

Franklin MacIntosh, a native of this town, recently retired from the Sun Life Assurance Company in Montreal and this week is taking up residence in Cornwall.

Associates in the Sun Life presented him with a watch and a complete set of golf clubs, the latter presumably to be used on the Alexandria course where Mr. MacIntosh is a charter member.

Two Remanded On Assault Count

Two Alexandria men were remanded Tuesday when they appeared in Magistrate's Court here to face charges of indecent assault on a 70-year-old woman.

The two are Jean Paul Dupuis, 38, married with 11 children and Roger Ouimet, 32, a single man.

Ontario Provincial Police at Lancaster said the incident was supposed to have occurred early Sunday at a Lochiel home.

Police said they were telephoned by the woman.

The two men were arrested later in the day, charged and taken to County Jail in Cornwall. Bail has been set at $500 each.

The case is being investigated by OPP Cst. J. W. McGrath.

Has New Post

Group Captain Robert A. Ellis of the RCAF has been transferred from Downsview in the Toronto area to be Commanding Officer at Uplands Station, Ottawa.

A former resident of Maxville, he is a son of Rev. Robert Ellis and Mrs. Ellis of Manotick.

Threatening Fire Kept Under Control

A fire which threatened several business places and homes in the area was controlled Tuesday night by the quick action of Alain Ranger, 20, who threw sand and gravel on the flames, controlling them until the fire brigade reached the scene.

Ranger was working on an engine block in the frame barn in rear of the implement store operated by his father, J. E. Ranger. When fire caught in the oil-soaked floor about 10.30 p.m. he managed to control the flames until firemen arrived. The door and a section of the shed ceiling were slightly damaged.

He also expressed thanks and appreciation, on behalf of the Society, to Rev. John McPhail and St. Finnan's parish for the use of Alexander Hall for this event, and hoped that next year more contestants would be on hand to enter the competitions.

Dancing was enjoyed, with music graciously supplied by a number of those who had taken part during the evening.

Centennial Plans For Rink And Library To Have Full Support Board Of Trade

Alexandria's centennial plans for taking over Glengarry Gardens as a community centre complete with public library were fully endorsed at Tuesday's Board of Trade meeting.

The executive was authorized to give full support to town council in seeking a "yes" vote in the December referendum and all members of the Board were urged to spread the message among their fellow citizens.

Past President Jean Paul Touchette reviewed the steps already taken by town council and outlined the proposed deal with Glengarry Gardens directors. He had copies of recent financial statements of the Gardens to show that the arena had operated with a surplus almost every year and Mr. Touchette outlined government grants that would be available on a community basis.

Several members spoke enthusiastically of the plan, emphasizing the need to retain the Gardens as a recreation centre for our young people and those of the area. It was suggested that town council should fully inform the citizens on financial and other details in order to counteract the many false rumors that are prevalent.

"We must keep our arena," declared Gerard Lefebvre; "it would be a shame if we lost our rink just at a time when the town is growing and there are more children to enjoy this recreation centre." His thought was echoed by many others and a show of hands asked by the chairman indicated everyone present favored this centennial project.

To Mark Golden Date

Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Currier of Maxville, will be "at home" to friends and relatives Monday, November 9th, after 1 p.m., on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

1200 Hens Lost Martintown Fire

Loss estimated at $15,000 was suffered by Leo Bougie, RR 1 Martintown, when a henhouse and 1200 birds were destroyed by fire. The Tuesday fire broke out about 1.30 p.m. and is believed to have been started by faulty wiring.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Fire brigades from Martintown and Williamstown were quick to bring under control the flash fire which heavily damaged the two-storey frame building. The roof caved in but the walls are still standing.

Mr. Bougie stated however the whole henhouse would have to be rebuilt.

Firemen were also able to save a second henhouse containing 800 hens which stood only 50 feet from the inferno. Lack of wind was greatly in favor of the firemen who fought the blaze for more than four hours. Neighbors and firefighters tried desperately to chase the 1,200 hens from the blazing building. The hens stubbornly refused and all died of flames or smoke.

Village Status For St. Isidore

The Ontario Municipal Board gave its approval Tuesday to St. Isidore de Prescott being incorporated as a village Jan. 1, 1965. It now is a police village of 546 persons.

The municipal board was told that incorporation would permit reductions of 6.5 mills in the tax rate on commercial properties and 9.5 mills on residential. The village will maintain present tax rates, however, until it has achieved a firmer financial position.

Many Familiar Place Names Found In Tour Through Scotland's Glengarry

(By ANGUS H. McDONELL)

As it is in Glengarry, Gaelic is becoming a lost language in Scotland. During introductions we at times made a pitch with a common Gaelic phrase. It was noted most responses were in English, with apologies, while a few in Gaelic were hesitant, not quick, confidently spoken as in Cape Breton.

In fact we only heard Gaelic casually spoken once. While waiting for a ferry, Isle of Skye, two cattle truck drivers standing close by were conversing in their native tongue.

However, the teaching of Gaelic, the study of Gaelic literature, history, music and art will survive so long as Scotland has AN COMUNN GAIDHEALACH, a society that annually sponsor the Gaelic Mod.

This 61st Mod was staged in Aberdeen, Monday through Friday, October 5th to 9th. At the close a full time director was to be appointed at a salary ranging from $6,000 to $7,500 — "his job is to keep Gaelic alive".

We attended with Mrs. Ryan on Thursday as this was the solo Gold Medalist final. Strathpeffer had a strong contender in Kenneth Ross. Apart from singing, solo and choral, there were numerous other competitions such as Gaelic reading, recitation, story, conversation and verse speaking. In the art of music the piano held forth with slow Gaelic airs and marches while the violinists and pipers competed in the traditional march, strathspey and reels.

Aberdeen, an old but attractive city, was bursting at the seams with hundreds of Mod visitors and contestants from all over Scotland; a colorful gathering of tartan-skirted and kilted Gaels.

The finals were held in the music hall, a stately stone building, with ample seating and a fine stage setting complete with BBC, TV camera lighting that did not detract from the excellence of the presentations, as sometimes is the case.

Strathpeffer's Kenneth Ross after singing his way into the finals and the hearts of all including the adjudicators kept up this pace to become Gold Medalist of the Mod. There is a possibility that this fine young singer, age 22 with a ruddy profile and a magnetic smile, aspir-

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

Is There A Demand For Adult Education ?

Why don't you write an editorial on the need for night courses in our High School, we were asked over the weekend. The school board long ago promised action along these lines, we were told; but nothing is being done. Perhaps they need a rap to get them moving, it was suggested.

We have no intention of rapping the trustees for any possible sins of omission and we are left wondering if there is any considerable demand in town and area for adult education. If so we are not aware of it and perhaps members of the school board are equally ignorant of such a demand.

It is a fact that the full potential of our fine school plant is not being realized and we are aware that adult education courses are on the increase in other sections of the province. One school in a Western Ontario town even boasts a night course in physical fitness where the ladies are presumably exercising to slim down that middle-aged spread.

Our school has the facilities for night courses in typing and shorthand, farm mechanics, woodworking and a wide variety of useful skills. Language courses should be in demand in a community where both English and French are so widely used and needed in the business sphere.

If there is a sufficient demand for such courses we imagine the school board would be more than willing to take on the additional work of organization they would entail. Whether or not such a demand exists might be learned if those interested were asked to so inform the board. This could be done by means of a coupon outlining possible night courses and which could be published in this paper for return to the board.

Is He Fit To Sit On The Bench ?

Canadian respect for its judiciary has been rendered a double blow recently. In Montreal, a Superior Court Justice has been convicted of three counts of perjury and is now appealing a two-year jail sentence.

Ontario has the case of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville, a member of the Supreme Court of this province. Mr. Landreville was cleared by a magistrate early this month on charges of municipal corruption and conspiracy but pointed questions continue to be raised in the House of Commons. Federal Justice Minister Favreau, The Ottawa Citizen suggests editorially, has no alternative but to initiate an inquiry to determine whether Mr. Landreville's conduct is in keeping with his position on the bench.

Charges against Mr. Landreville were dismissed by Magistrate A. J. Marck of Hamilton at a preliminary hearing. Mr. Landreville, who was Mayor of Sudbury from 1955 until his appointment to the bench late in 1956, was accused of accepting Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company shares as a consideration for getting the NONG franchise through city council, and of agreeing to accept the company's shares for signing the agreement. The Ontario Attorney-General's Department decided after a review of the case that there was no reason to bring a bill of indictment before a grand jury.

Although the trial did not establish that Mr. Landreville committed a criminal offence, it did make clear that he had had conversations with Mr. Ralph K. Farris, NONG president, while the franchise was being processed through the Sudbury council and that he acquired a quantity of company stock after the franchise had been approved.

Magistrate Marck said in his judgment that "a properly charged jury could not find the accused guilty, and I cannot find sufficient evidence to place him on trial." Yet the evidence has given rise to a series of questions with respect to Mr. Landreville's status as a member of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Mr. Favreau has it in his power to eliminate the uncertainties surrounding this case, suggests The Citizen editorially. A judge cannot perform his role properly if he is placed in a position where his authority to judge is compromised. An inquiry, carried out by a commission formed within the justice department, could determine once and for all whether Mr. Justice Landreville should retain his seat on the bench.

Lines For The Trigger-happy

The fall hunting season is with us again and no doubt the newspapers will be reporting the usual quota of hunting accidents.

Lest this paper be called upon to record instances of careless use of guns by local nimrods we reprint this delightful bit of verse that carries its own food for thought:

A hunter popped a partridge on a hill,
It made a great to do and then was still.
It seems (when later on, his bag he spied)
It was his guide.

One shot a squirrel in a nearby wood,
A pretty shot, off-hand, from where he stood.
It wore, they said, a shooting hat of brown
And lived in town!

And one dispatched a rabbit for his haul
That later proved to measure six feet tall;
And, lest you think I'm handing you a myth
Its name was Smith!

Another Nimrod slew the champion fox.
He glimpsed him lurking in among the rocks,
One rapid shot — it never spoke or moved
The inquest proved!

A cautious man espied a gleam of brown;
Was it a deer, or Jones, a friend from town?
And while he pondered by the river's brim,
Jones potted him!

Tired Of The Bullies

The editor of The Wingham Advance-Times is getting tired of being pushed around by the so-called intellectuals in and out of the CBC who decide, without asking, what sort of "culture" we must accept from a state-owned broadcasting system. He writes:

"As soon as a voice is raised anywhere in protest over the calibre of entertainment or general programming there is a suggestion that those who protest are so underdeveloped in their tastes that they can be ignored. Many people are actually being brain-washed into a belief that they should not protest even those programs which offend the basic rules of decency.

"A recent example was a drama based on a scene in Belfast, Ireland, where a bookish and somewhat craven school teacher became enamored of a bosomy girl half his age. What the story was all about was very obscure. Certainly its high point of interest was intended to be the little episode in which the innocent teacher was badly shaken by an attempted seduction. The young lady stripped down to her slip (which was scarcely able to contain her bounteous charms) and spoke to him in such open terms about what she intended him to do that no detail remained to the imagination.

"Is nothing whatever to be left for the decent privacy of our homes and bedrooms? You do not have to be a prude to believe that life's most beautiful and tender relationships can be soiled by this kind of public demonstration. Nor are you necessarily old-fashioned if you believe that you can impart the facts of life to your own children without having them smeared all over a TV screen."

Lest We Remember

The government was caught napping one day last week when Stanley Knowles of the New Democratic Party moved to amend the labor code to make Remembrance Day a national holiday. The combined votes of the Opposition parties outnumbered Liberals in the House at the time and the amendment carried.

Mr. Knowles succeeded in embarrassing the government, but we see no merit in his move.

Remembrance Day has been rather shabbily observed in recent years and the anniversary of the November 11th armistice will be even less a day of remembrance if it becomes just another holiday. Almost inevitably the next step will be a move to observe the holiday on the nearest Monday so as to afford another long weekend. Then there will be the suggestion to move the holiday to a warmer time of year.

Exit Remembrance Day. Let's have ourselves another holiday lest we forget our soldiers died in order that we could continue to have fun! fun! fun!.

WANTS NIGHT COURSES

Box 520,
Alexandria, Ontario
October 27th, 1964

The Editor,
Glengarry News,

Last Spring a committee of interested people met the High School Board with a view to obtaining evening courses this year for adults as is being done in all other communities with High Schools in our vicinity, yes and perhaps all through the province.

After some double talk by education officials, the delegation was more or less promised that a canvass would be made in the Fall through your paper to find out if there would be sufficient numbers interested to warrant courses being set up. It is obvious we are coming into winter with no action yet.

I make a plea here to everyone interested in night school to let their representative on the High School Board know their wishes, perhaps this is what is needed to get these gentlemen to agree and act on such a beneficial matter.

Action is what we need now!

Yours truly,
L. Sicard

THAT SIREN SOUND

If excessive noise is driving modern man off his rocker surely one of the most nerve-shattering is the sound of that siren sported by ambulances and police cruisers. Our narrow Main Street is a natural for the driver who likes to blow his own horn and we sometimes think there are cops and ambulance drivers too fond of shrieking their sirens down the main drag.

Now we have two ambulances in town and soon we'll have a hospital for them to speed to. At times minutes will be important in a real emergency and the driver will be justified in clearing traffic from his path. There are other times, surely, when the sick or injured can be conveyed to hospital more comfortably without the siren's wail.

An overdose of these sirens may see more of us heading for hospital — at Brockville. When our turn comes, don't send us by ambulance. That siren sets us crazy.

When a pretty girl joins the police force she immediately arrests attention.

KEEP IT CLEAN!

All-Hallow's Eve, more familiarly known as Hallowe'en, falls on Saturday night this year. Which prompts the thought — if you're going to mask Saturday night, don't forget you're going to Mass Sunday morning.

Have fun, all you ghosts and goblins and Raggedy-Annes; but keep it good, clean fun. Pranks are expected on Hallowe'en but they should not involve the destruction or damaging of private property. Neither should the tricks be so thoughtless as to create a hazard.

Way back when we were young there was more scope for the small-fry pranksters than there is today. There were plank sidewalks that might be minus a few planks before morning; there were still a few two-seater outhouses asking to be moved to a more wholesome location. There were carriages and

NEW FUR FASHIONS

I've lately been asked to submit new ideas
For the great Fur Designers'
Convention,
But of all the ideas that have entered my head
There's only one worthy of mention.

Tho' fashions in furs change a bit with the years
And styles show the latest creation,
Yet the furs that are used are the same every year
And unchanged with each generation.

Now, my big idea is to stimulate sales
By using the skins of such creatures
That never before have been seen in a store —
New furs with unusual features.

Instead of conventional Muskrat and Mink
We'd have Margay and Oryx and Koodoo,
Or Lemur or Lory or Fennec, I think,
I like 'em. I don't say that you do.

The wide use of Rabbit is only a habit
That's hard to break off by the fur men,
If I'm not mistaken their place could be taken
By all sorts of African vermin.

There's all kinds of varmints which made into garments
Would make the dames dress up for Sunday
In coats made of Kinkajou, Serval or Potto,
Or jackets of soft Coatimundi.

A long coat — a beauty — of sleek
Ungkaputi,
And then there's a rich-looking cape
To be advertised soon made of Mandrill Baboon
With trimmings of Barbary Ape.

Just leave it to me and next season you'll see
Those lovely Rhinoceros muffs,
And a three-quarter coat made of Crocodile hide
With Porcupine collar and cuffs.

Be Seein' Ya!

St. Columba WMS Met At Kirk Hill

The Thank-Offering meeting of St. Columba Women's Missionary Society, Kirk Hill, was held at the home of Mrs. Bill MacGillivray on Thursday, October 8th, at 1.30 p.m. with the president, Mrs. J. K. MacLeod, presiding. The Thanksgiving Service of Worship taken from the Glad Tidings was followed. It was prepared by Mrs. L. B. Beath, Toronto.

Mrs. MacLeod welcomed the District Vice-President, Mrs. E. E. Preston of Vankleek Hill, guests and Home Helpers and opened the meeting with the Call To Worship.

The Scripture Reading closing with prayer was taken by the Secretary, Mrs. Archie McRae. Mrs. Archie MacGillivray then led in prayer.

The roll call was answered by thirteen members. There were seven visitors present.

The secretary gave the highlights of an executive meeting held in St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall on September 28th which she had attended. As the May Rally in 1965 is being held in St. Columba, Kirk Hill, she drew to the attention of the members that we would have to meet shortly with the other two auxiliaries to plan for the conveners of the different commitees.

The president then called on Mrs. Preston, who left a message taken from her theme. "Light, Let Individuals Give Him Thanks". She then spoke on the individual letters as follows.

L stands for Love; I for Intercession, Prayer. G for God; H for Humility; T for Trust. How we can find each of these words in the Bible.

Mrs. N. J. MacLeod thanked Mrs. Preston. Mrs. J. W. MacLeod had a reading entitled "The Giving of Thanks".

Mrs. Bill MacGillivray then led in Prayer.

The assignments for November meeting were given out and it is to be held at the home of Mrs. W. D. MacLeod.

The hostesses, Mrs. Stanley Wightman, Mrs. Scott Fraser and Mrs. Clifford Wightman, served delicious refreshments.

St. Raphael's CWL October Meeting

Following recitation of the Rosary Father O'Brien opened the October meeting of St. Raphael's CWL with the League prayer. Reports were given by various conveners. The president thanked Mrs. Colbourne MacDonell and Mrs. R. Levert, who were conveners of the Harvest Supper.

There will be a Tea and Bake Sale in connection with the Day of Recollection on October 24th. The tea and lunch served at noon hour will be available for the diocesan ladies attending.

The president appointed Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald as Spiritual convener to replace Mrs. Donald Emberg who had resigned.

Mrs. MacDonald announced that she would conduct a workshop on vocations at the November meeting. She also requested that any member who could give names of parish girls who are Sisters and a short life history should send it to Mrs. J. S. Shago who would compile them into a book.

Father O'Brien spoke on the Feast of the Rosary and declared we should say the Rosary often for people of other countries who suffer so much for their faith. He also announced that on Sunday, November 8th there would be a Memorial Service after the 10 o'clock Mass.

Today it's difficult even to find a roll of wire fencing to roll to a new location. The sidewalks are cemented down and the outhouses have given way to sanitary sewers.

Still Unbeaten Senior Footballers Play Hosts To Hawkesbury Friday

A 45-0 sweep over Vankleek Hill Collegiate at the Hill on Friday preserved the unbeaten record of Glengarry High's senior squad which plays host to Hawkesbury on Friday.

Rondo McSweyn twice raced 25 yards off tackle for touchdowns while Wayne Mitchell also went over twice. Other majors were counted by Roger Levert, Jim MacGillivray and Peter Fraser. Myron McCormick made good on three of the converts.

At Williamstown, the Char-Lan team earned a place in the play-offs against Alexandria when it won 21-12 over Hawkesbury. The visitors carried a 12-7 lead into the second half but Char-Lan got two majors in the final five minutes to ensure victory.

Ross Annand carried the ball for two home majors and quarterback Roddie McDonell got the last one in addition to kicking three converts. For the visitors Cayen and Timbers got unconverted td's.

The GDHS juniors won a 19-6 decision Saturday on the local gridiron over the Hawkesbury junior squad. They will meet Maxville in the play-offs.

The visitors scored an unconverted major in the opening minutes but the Alexandrians came back in the second half as quarterback Barry Bethune, Wayne Connell and Campbell MacGillivray crossed the enemy line. MacGillivray made one convert good.

Many Familiar . . .

ing to be like another Kenneth (MacKellar) may tour Canada and we have taken the liberty to suggest that Glengarry be included in the itinerary.

While at the Mod we learned that a "Kaylee" is somewhat different in Scotland. We always thought a Kaylee was a neighborly visit about three or four o'clock in the afternoon when current topics were discussed over a cup-of-tea. Not so at the Mod.

A Kaylee, while we were in Aberdeen, was a friendly visit at your hotel room or home all right and at three of four o'clock but not in the afternoon. You can be assured there was only one topic of discussion, the Mod, and the beverage that flowed freely was not tea.

Returning from Aberdeen we visited Culloden Moor, near Inverness. We will by-pass the battle significance to say we keenly admire the undisturbed natural setting. Unlike our Chrysler Farm or Queenston Heights the monument here is beside the moor battleground. The graves of the soldiers, on both sides of the roadway, are smooth grassy mounds neatly clipped while the rustic head stones are engraved with the clan names. There is a parking lot on the fringe thus you may slowly walk through the grounds as you would any cemetery.

On the eve of leaving North Scotland we were shown through one of the youngest and largest plants that produces one of the world's oldest beverages — Scotch Whiskey.

Before taking you over to Invergordon, about 50 miles from Inverness, we are pleased to say that heading this private enterprise founding of the Invergordon Distillers Ltd., and greatly instrumental in gaining recognition by world blenders of Scotch Whiskey was the former Ottawa young man — Hugh Ryan.

This flourishing distillery is located on an 85 acre site off the high Cromarty Firth banks at Invergordon. Almost half the acreage is occupied by the main plants, boilers, storage in Bond warehouses, administration buildings, railway sidings, roadways and parking lots.

Some 350 employees, local, keep the plant in operation around the clock, except Saturday night, producing just over 10 million gallons per year.

Canadian barley is used, due to superior quality, along with United States and South Africa maze (corn flakes) as the basic ingredients, adding yeast. Space does not permit detail, however, we must say this was a most interesting tour. In the last building housing the stills it was amusing to note that at all vital connections the tax officers had placed more polished padlocks than you will see in either Kingston or Stoney Mountain penitentiary.

We questioned as to the amount of water required in a given time. We were told that in one week six million gallons are necessary to produce 210,000 gallons of still whiskey.

Alexandria is presently enjoying a mercantile boom, however, should Reeve Lloyd McHugh and Jean-Paul Touchette ever lure a distillery to Ourtown, then, Loch Garry lake would become a peat bog overnight.

All good things must come to an end, so with luggage tucked away in our petrol coach we fondly bade good-bye to our hosts and new found friends who had called to see us away. It seems we created the impression that Glengarry is quite Scottish so we left the assurance that ere too long we would return to celebrate, as only the Highlanders can do, Hogmanay — New Year's Eve.

Soon these excellent farm lands to Dalkeith gave way to a few miles of faded heather and crisp fern-clad hills as we weaved our way to Loch Ness heading south on the Inverness, Ft. Augustus to Ft. William route, a one time fortress chain.

The scenery was different due to the road, the main traffic artery south to Glasgow, skirting, with standard width pavement, Loch Ness on your left while on your right there were jagged rock cuts the bluffs adorned with white birch and poplars and still higher young reforestation spruce and pine displaying the colorful fantasy of October and vying with Gatineau and Laurentian Hills, adding the Adirondacks for good measure.

We kept one eye on traffic, the other seeking the famed Loch Ness Monster. We didn't see this subject, one of Scotland's great legends, however, this is likely due to the fact we didn't tarry at any of the roadside inns.

At the foot of Loch Ness is Ft. Augustus and the noted Benedictine College. Leaving behind the MacKenzies, Frasers and Grants you are now nearing the MacDonells of Glengarry. There is no mistaking the greeting as you could not possibly avoid the Glengarry Castle Hotel. Here we enjoyed a delightful luncheon in a cosy lounge by a sparkling fireplace. The only grim note was to later walk some 500 yards and view the four-storey, turret top stone shell of Invergarry Castle. This was the ancient stronghold of the MacDonells where, history tells us, Prince Charlie stayed both before and after Culloden.

Glengarry at home, name wise, is a replica of this part of Scotland. After a brief rest we drove westward through Glen Garry to Loch Garry and the River Garry that is the water link to Loch Quoich. Doubling back we drove through the Glengarry forest to Laggan Locks. These canal locks make possible a water route between Loch Lochy and Loch Ness.

We veered off course again, this time eastwardly to Glen Roy and Laggan Loch where the Laggan Dam controls the waterflow to Loch Treig that whirls the turbines of the Hydro plant at Ft. William, just 15 miles further south.

By coincidence, as on Highway 34 at home (old military road) we drove from Laggan to Fassifern and Glen Finann. Following an about turn we were at Glen Nevis. Here for the first time we were disillusioned on our motor trip. A narrow ripple road leads you beside a gushing stream winding along the base of Ben Nevis for five miles. There is no village Glen Nevis, no crossroad store and smithy shop; just a dead end road, but mighty picturesque. There is ample space to turn around but at sun down the creeping shadows caused an eerie feeling. However, this locale must be a photographer's and artist's paradise. Among the numerous views is one of a climatic tinge as you scan upwards along a silver ribbon of water falling from the flimsy bridal cap of snow crowning Ben Nevis, the highest mountain in the British Isles.

Unable to compare this part of Scotland from the crest of Ben Nevis to Cape Breton from top of "Old Smokey" we meandered back to the main highway and Ft. William. The ancestors of many Glengarry families originated here the area relative to the clans Cameron, MacDonells of Keppoch, MacDonalds of Clan Ranald.

We halted our drive to visit the historic museum that proved interesting beyond a doubt especially the origins of Scottish crafts in weaving and the "Crofter's home."

Through dusk we continued to Onich at the head of Loch Linnhe and called it a day. Next morning we were greeted with still another day of brilliant sunshine as we drove inland some 20 miles around narrow Loch Leven. The return road scales the south side mountain like a toy Fraser River Canyon.

We are now in the village of Glencoe. A new road by-passes; however, we clung to the old. There again you travel along a narrow road closely bordered by dense underbrush with the mountains close on your left and the customary river (small) on your right. This six mile pass of Glencoe (Gaelic) means Valley of Weeping.

Leaving Glencoe you really hit the open road across Rannoch Moor. There are straight stretches where you can hit the 60 mark while you breeze over the moor dotted with moss shrouded boulders sitting in acres of more faded heather and crisp ferns.

The mountains closed in again as we approached still another popularly known Glengarry name—Glen Falloch. Over a gradual five-mile descent we eased down from the High Road to the Low Road along the Bonnie, Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond.

Loch Lomond is quite narrow, possibly not wider than Loch Garry at any given point. This famed Loch is all you have seen, read and heard in pictures, paintings, story and songs.

Circling the south end we were on the fringe of Alexandria as we lingered for a final hour in the Highlands at Loch Katrine and the Trossacks, still eye catching despite the encroachment of present day tourism and the providing of Glasgow with water. We will leave you here where Roderick Dhu tangled with Fitz James as poetically portrayed in Scott's poem "Lady Of The Lake".

Veteran Pins To Holstein Men

Dr. Ford Stinson, Head of the Field Husbandry Division at the Kemptville Agricultural School, was guest speaker at the Annual Banquet of the Glengarry Holstein Club held in the Glengarry-District High School, Alexandria, on Thursday, October 22, 1964. Dr. Stinson, who has had a rather distinguished career in research work in both Canada and South Africa, discussed the tremendous agricultural potential of South African countries and the rapid development that has occurred in these countries in recent years. He noted that many of these areas were producing the same agricultural crops as produced in Ontario and that they were now competing on the world markets with Ontario producers.

Two Holstein breeders from the County were presented with Veteran Breeder pins. E. L. D. MacMillan of Laggan and Donald R. Abrams of Summerstown, have been members of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada for over 40 years. The presentations were made by Grant Smith, fieldman of the Holstein-Friesian Association, and Mrs. Ronald McRae, 1963 Canadian Dairy Princess.

Lloyd and Ronald McRae were the recipients of the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards for the Glengarry Black and White Show, the presentation being made by Grant Smith. The T. Eaton Company Trophy for the largest number of points in the livestock classes at the Williamstown Fair was also won by Lloyd and Ronald McRae, the presentation being made by Clark McCuaig. Messrs. McRae captured the Naylor Trophy for the two best uddered cows of the Show, the presentation being made by Charles Naylor.

Other speakers included C. C. Fraser, Osie Villeneuve, MPP, and Wilfred Vallance, President of the Glengarry Ayrshire Club. The chairman for the event was Thomas Aitken, the president of the Glengarry Holstein Club.
