Three sites in running for school

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

The French Catholic school board has short-listed three properties for the new site of Ecole secondaire Le Relais.

The news came from François Bertrand of the Conseil scolaire de district catholique de l'Est ontarien during a recent North Glengarry Township planning and property standards committee.

The board has three sites in mind: in Alexandria's Industrial Park; at the end of St. George St., East; or part of Lot 35, Concession 2, McCormick Road.

The committee advised Mr. Bertrand to put the board's proposal in writing and the committee will review the proposal and advise the board of the municipal requirements.

Mr. Bertrand said the proposed new school would replace the current school, which shares space with Glengarry District High School.

He stated that parents on the site selection committee want the school to be built in the Alexandria area.

Census reveals changing face of Glengarry

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Glegarry's three largest communities – Alexandria, Lancaster and Maxville – increasingly are home to more single-parent families, according to 2001 Canada Census statistics.

The three communities combine for 250 single-parent families out of a total of 695 for the entire county, 25 per cent more than in 1996. Compared to the total number of families, the percentage of lone-parent families in these three communities is roughly double the rate of the rest of Glengarry.

In Alexandria, 16.3 per cent of families are headed by one parent, while in Maxville, that figure is 15.8 per cent. In Lancaster, however, single-parent families make up an astounding 29 per cent of all families.

In 2001, the village of about 850 people had 65 lone parents, an increase of 35 from 1996.

The number of single parents in Glengarry as a whole, however, has fallen slightly from 705 in 1996 to 695 in 2001, representing roughly 10 per cent of 6,885 families in the county. The average in SDG is 13.4 per cent, while province-wide, 15.2 of families are single-parent.

In the face of these figures, Glengarrians with children, whether they are single-parents or not, can take comfort in knowing there are a number of resources in place to support them.

Lynne Collard of the Family Resource Centre, sponsored by Glengarry Inter-Agency, in Alexandria said her organization caters to all families.

"Every family should get support," she told The News.

"Last year, we served over 300 families in the area and some people still don't know about us."

The centre offers play groups, school readiness programs and various support groups for parents, such as special needs, multiple births and parenting classes.

"The Family Resource Centre is a hub: SDG Developmental Services are here, the occupational therapist comes every other week; if parents have concerns with development, we can help with that," Ms. Collard said.

Many parents know about the Family Resource Centre through the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU), which sends them there for such programs as Watch Me Grow and Baby's Best Start.

"We see all kinds of families: blended, single-parent, separated," Ms. Collard said.

"Actually, there has been an increase in separations from what I've seen. But we don't ask questions like that. If someone wants to share, we listen. There is no labelling."

SG showcases local business

By Greg Peerenboom

South Glengarry Township's economic development committee hopes business owners participate in the first annual Business-to-Business Showcase.

"Our main accomplishment would be to let people (and businesses) to know what businesses are here," said committee secretary Marilyn Lebrun.

"We hope this allow businesses to do more networking."

The showcase will be Nov. 13 at the Glen Walter Knights of Columbus Hall, 6723 Purcell Rd.

The committee hopes that 76 to 100 business representatives attend, Mrs. Lebrun said.

"It's going to be low-key. Each business will get a table with a white cloth spread over it, a sign and anything else that they can bring along (that will fit)."

There is a registration fee of $10 to help finance the $2,500 budget, which includes refreshments for the exhibitors.

The public can visit the showcase between 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Exhibitors, if they wish, can network after 7:30 p.m. Exhibits can be set up between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The showcase is the first step in building the business community's profile.

Earlier, an economic development committee survey revealed there are about 300 businesses in

Léger, Rochon honoured at area ceremonies

By News Staff

Remembrance Day ceremonies will have extra meaning this year.

It will be the first time in many years that a Glengarry native has been added to the honour roll – Sergeant Marc Leger of Lancaster.

In Alexandria, Hector Rochon will receive a Queen's Golden Jubilee Medal for his Second World War sacrifice in a Prisoner of War internment camp.

It will be the first Remembrance Day for the newly spruced up Williamstown cenotaph.

The A.G.F. Macdonald Branch 423 Royal Canadian Legion will have its cenotaph ceremony on Sunday.

Parade participants should arrive behind GDHS-Le Relais around 10:30 a.m.

The parade will begin about 10:45 a.m., go up Main Street to the cenotaph for the laying of the wreaths and moment of silence.

Legion president Howard Barclay said the veterans will then march back to the legion hall, where most of the veterans will be feted.

He said a colour guard will proceed to the Community Nursing Home around 12:30 p.m. with Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria.

Mr. Boudria will present the Jubilee Medal to Mr. Rochon, who lives at the home.

On Monday, Remembrance Day, the Legion will host Alexandria school children at the legion memorial at 11 a.m. for the time of silence.

Another service, also at 11 a.m., for the high schools will be inside the cafetorium.

Lancaster cenotaph

In South Glengarry, the Claude Nunney, V.C. Branch 544 of the Royal Canadian Legion will have two ceremonies on Sunday: 11:15 a.m. at the Williamstown cenotaph and 2 p.m. at the Lancaster cenotaph.

Parade participants should form at least 15 minutes before the march commences. In Williamstown, it will be at the township garage and in Lancaster, in front of the township hall.

At Lancaster, the Silver Cross mother will be Sgt. Leger's grandmother, Clare Leger.

Ecole St. Joseph in Lancaster will never forget the ultimate sacrifice of former student Marc Léger.

A commemorative plaque to be installed at the school will be blessed during a special ceremony for students at St. Joseph's Church in Lancaster on Nov. 15.

"It is a historic moment for the school and for Glengarry," principal Jean-Roland Tremblay stated.

Sgt. Léger and three other Canadian soldiers were killed in Afghanistan on April 17 when an American plane accidently bombed a Canadian training exercise.

Three from SG to receive Queen's medal

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Three South Glengarry residents will be among those receiving the Queen's Golden Jubilee medals from Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh.

Joan P. MacDonald of Williamstown, Clarence Robertson of Glen Walter, and Rae MacCulloch of Martintown, were named as recipients by MP Bob Kilger last week. They will be presented with the special awards for community service at a ceremony, Nov. 14, at the Best Western Parkway Inn, Cornwall.

Mrs. MacDonald said she was very honoured and very humbled by the news that she was one of 20 recipients of the special award.

She said she had always tried to follow her mother's philosophy of life.

"Deal with your home; deal with your church, and deal with your community. I always thought that was good advice."

Mrs. MacDonald said that with the help of her family – in particular her husband, Coleman – she had been able to contribute to her church and to the community.

For the past 45 years she has been the organist at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Williamstown.

She has been the chairperson of the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum Board for the last 10 years and has also served for the same length of time on the Friends of the St. Raphael's Ruins Committee, where she is the secretary-treasurer.

She represents the Counties of SDG on the Cornwall and Area Housing Board and has spent 15 years on the SDG Community Development Corporation, promoting economic development in the area.

Mrs. MacDonald, a retired Char-Lan English teacher, and former Charlottenburgh councillor, served five years as secretary of the Glen Cairn Lodge in Lancaster; helped on the committee to preserve the Martintown Mill, and organized the annual Dairy Princess contests.

She was also the first woman to serve as the president of the Lancaster Curling Club.

For Mrs. MacDonald the award is particularly sweet.

"I'm a Royalist,"she said.

Mr. Robertson, past-president of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, which sponsors the Williamstown Fair, said news of the award came as a complete surprise to him.

"It caught me off guard – I thought it was some sort of prank," he said when first notified by a member of Mr. Kilger's office.

Thanks to Mr. Robertson's efforts last year, the Williamstown Fair was proven to be the oldest, continuously running fair in Canada. He will be accepting the award on behalf of the society.

"It's a great honour," said the former Kraft Foods employee. "It certainly made my day."

Rae MacCulloch, of Martintown, whose dancers have travelled the world promoting Glengarry traditions, was previously

North Glengarry Notebook

From the Oct. 28 North Glengarry Township council meeting.

Next council meeting

The next meeting of North Glengarry Township council will be held Nov. 11 at Laggan Public School at 7 p.m.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with a presentation by Cornwall Gravel regarding the proposed quarry beside Dunvegan.

Certificates presented

Mayor Bill Franklin presented certificates to Bruno and Jacques Massie of Alexandria Milling and Aline Menard of Alexandria Lanes to congratulate both businesses on celebrating their 40th anniversaries earlier this year.

Roads report

Roads superintendent Jean-Guy Levert informed council that upgrades at the McPhee Side Road railroad crossing are nearly complete. The approaches have been finished and VIA Rail was to install panels and signals on Monday.

Mr. Levert also told council the township's last construction job of the season, on Skye Road, would be completed shortly.

Retroactive gas fees

Council voted to support a resolution by the Town of St. Mary's, asking the provincial government to disallow a retroactive fee hike granted to Union Gas. The Ontario Energy Board consented to allow Union Gas to charge a retroactive fee to recover additional system operation costs that occurred during the winter of 2000-2001.

The hike would cost the average residential Union Gas customer $120.

Adding Rigaud to RRCA

Council would like to see the Rigaud River watershed within North Glengarry to be protected by the Raisin Region Conservation Authority. A resolution was passed at council requesting a special meeting of the RRCA to consider the proposal.

Most of the Rigaud watershed lies in what Mayor Franklin referred to as a "black hole," where no conservation authority exists.

The watershed covers most of of Lochiel ward and an eastern portion of Kenyon ward.

announced as a Jubilee medal winner in MP Don Boudria's riding.

Mrs. MacCulloch actually resides in South Glengarry, in Mr. Kilger's riding, and was also announced on his list.

"These recipients represent a cross-section of interests and involvement in our community, but it is important to note that their efforts have benefited our area in a special way," said Mr. Kilger.

The winners were chosen from among 100 nominations received across the riding.

Other honourees include Leonard Moran and Margaret Casselman from Chesterville; Johnny Whiteker, Williamsburg; Margaret Reynolds, Morrisburg; Sandra Lee Johnston, Iroquois; Irene Armstrong, Crysler; Hubert Delaney, Avonmore; Jim Brownell, Long Sault, and Cornwall residents Mona Lebano, Huguette Burroughs, Marcelle Leduc-Paquette, Angelo Towndale, Walter McDonald, Vincent Redmond, Larry Keen, and Andrew Trasuk.

Order of Canada members automatically receive the awards. They are Jake Lamoureux of Cornwall; Senator Jack Marshall of Morrisburg, and Maynard Gertler of Williamstown, who was nominated in the riding of Westmount-Ville-Marie.

South Glengarry.

"As a new committee, one of our priorities was to find out how many businesses there are in the township," Mrs. Lebrun said.

The next step could be the establishment of a full-fledged trade show.

"We will do an assessment of our businesses to see how we can improve on it.

"A trade show will depend on how successful this was."

The committee publicized the showcase through advertising and by sending invitations to local businesses recorded in the survey.

If an invitation was not received, owners can call Mrs. Lebrun at 347-1166 or Joyce Gravelle, 528-4029.

another. Ms. Collard said she has noticed that often a new mother will latch onto a more experienced mom and learn from her.

The centre has a library of books, videos and toys which can be borrowed for two-week periods for a $15 yearly membership.

Among those books, Ms. Collard said, there is a wealth of information for single-parent families, including information on family law and raising children alone.

"Parents in that situation tend to find each other (at the centre) to get the support they need. Parenting is not easy," said the mother of three. "I always feel for the single moms. Hats off to them."

The EOHU offers a variety of programs geared to all types of families, particularly those where the children are at risk of not achieving age-appropriate milestones.

Patti Gauley, program coordinator supervisor for the EOHU in Cornwall, noted the Healthy Babies, Healthy Children program aims for prevention and early intervention of any problems.

Part of that program is the Family Home Visitors, which helps people develop their parenting skills and discover networks of support in the community.

"We link them with the appropriate resources in the community," Ms. Gauley said.

With the Family Home Visitors program, parents benefit from the visits of a public health nurse as well as a lay home visitor.

"It's blended home visiting. We get better outcomes and achieve better results than if it were only a professional home visitor."

The family home visitor and the public health nurse help the family establish and achieve objectives.

For every visit by the nurse, the lay visitor will come three or four times.

This program is particularly aimed at high risk children, in particular those in single-parent families, families experiencing socio-economic difficulties and parents in unstable relationships.

Children in these situations are at a high risk of achieving age-appropriate milestones due to violence, housing issues or poverty.

"We help link the family to other agencies, then we have case conference to coordinate services for that family and develop a service plan so that each agency involved knows what the others are doing," Ms. Gauley said.

The Family Home Visitor program has been in place with the EOHU since 1998. Ms. Gauley is pleased that the provincial government has just invested a significant amount of money in the program, ensuring it will be available to all who need it.

Even before the children are born, the EOHU offers a program to ensure they get a healthy start in life.

Called Baby's Best Start, the program focuses on prenatal nutrition.

Expectant mothers experiencing financial difficulties can receive food vouchers for milk, orange juice, eggs and prenatal vitamins to help with their unborn child's development.

Focusing on nutrition in pregnancy helps reduce the number of low birth-weight babies which later gives children an advantage for achieving age-appropriate milestones.

The Watch Me Grow program, such as the one offered at the Family Resource Centre, allows parents to drop in with their babies and visit with a public health nurse.

The babies are weighed and immunizations can be given.

The nurse can also answer any questions about a variety of issues, such as when to introduce solid foods, sibling rivalry, toilet-training and discipline.

"Our resources are for all parents, not just single parents," Ms. Gauley emphasized.

To ensure that families of any configuration have adequate shelter, the City of Cornwall operates the Social Housing Division, which is responsible for SDG and Cornwall.

Program coordinator Carmen Cousineau explained Social Housing oversees the 12 social housing operators in SDG and Cornwall, including two in Alexandria and one in Lancaster.

"It is rent geared to income and some offer family units" she said.

"We don't differentiate between single- and two-parents families. If there are two people or more, it's a family."

Potential tenants must fill out an application and include proof of income, as the selection process is based greatly on financial need.

There is one common application for all 12 housing providers, while each one has its own waiting list.

The Alexandria Non Profit Corporation, for example, operates 15 units, and there are only two families on waiting list. Family units range from two to five bedrooms.

The higher percentage of single parents in the three largest urban areas of Glengarry corroborates the ratio of owned and rented dwellings.

In Alexandria, 40.5 per cent of dwellings are rented. In Maxville and Lancaster, the percentages are 43.5 and 30.6 respectively.

Overall, Glengarry is following the national decline of the so-called nuclear family – two parents and two children. Couples with children accounted for 27 per cent of households in the county, mirroring the average of one in four across Canada.

Brothers-in-arms – veterans look back at war times

BY KRISTINA WILSON
News Reporter

"I hope none of the young boys ever have to go into a big war again."

Lancaster resident Lloyd MacDonald knows what a "big war" is. Sixty years ago in July, the Second World War veteran sailed from Debert, N.S. and headed overseas.

Now 81, Mr. MacDonald – who would eventually reach the rank of lieutenant – enlisted in 1939. He was 18 and had recently graduated from Grade 13 at Williamstown High School.

A member of the SDG Highlanders, he was was called out for guard duty on the canal in Cornwall that August, just before the war broke out on Sept. 3.

"We were there until it got too cold, then the First World War veterans took over," he said.

Mr. MacDonald spent the early part of the war on guard duty on the south coast of England.

"The British units were cut up pretty badly at Dunkirk," he recalled.

Those heavy losses meant a shortage of men and artillery and the fear of German invasion.

"There was nothing much to stop (the Germans) but the Navy and the Air Force."

Mr. MacDonald went through a lot of training in England until February of 1943, when he returned to Canada to take an officer's course at Brockville and Camp Borden, near Barrie.

He sailed for England again in March, 1944 and arrived right around D-Day, June 6, 1944. Mr. MacDonald was among the first reinforcements sent to France only days after D-Day.

"I was just in time to join the invasion," he said.

It was also around that time that Mr. MacDonald was transferred to the North Nova Scotia Highlanders.

"They were part of the same brigade (as the SDG Highlanders). They were short on officers, so I got switched over to them."

Only one month after the Normandy Invasion, as troops moved towards the French towns of Caen and later Falaise, Mr. MacDonald's brother, Major Archie MacDonald, was wounded on July 8. He died July 10.

Major MacDonald had married before going overseas and left his pregnant wife behind.

"His little girl was born just after he went overseas," Mr. MacDonald recalled.

"She had the same birthday as he did, but he never got to see her. He used to show me snapshots of her, he was so proud of her."

Mr. MacDonald himself was wounded on Aug. 25 and was sent back to England.

By a fortunate twist of fate, Corporal, later Father, Cleary Villeneuve – brother of Lancaster priest Father Rudy Villeneuve – encountered Mr. MacDonald when he was wounded.

"I was hit in my right arm and hand, so I couldn't write. Cleary sent word to my mother. I wanted her to know I was going to be okay."

Because his brother had died only a month before, Mr. MacDonald said he did not want his mother to receive the official telegram informing her he was wounded and have her worry that she would lose another son.

She received Corporal Villeneuve's letter the day before the telegram arrived.

After recuperating in England, Mr. MacDonald was ready to return to his unit in April 1945, but the war had already ended.

"I didn't get back into action," he recalled.

In September, 1945, Mr. MacDonald returned to Canada. He served as a baggage officer at Pier 21 in Halifax, as part of the Embarkation Transit Unit.

"It was an enjoyable job," he said, "meeting the troops and the brides and every so often, people you knew."

Mr. MacDonald's unit disbanded in March of 1947 and he returned to civilian life. He worked for Bell Canada for 35 years until his retirement.

In 1949, he married the former Shirley MacDonell of Williamstown. She had four brothers who served overseas. Her brother Gordon was killed in Holland in February, 1945, at the age of 21.

"We were so young when we joined," Mr. MacDonald reflected, "if you were in your mid-20s, you were one of the old guys."

Like him, many young men enlisted in the Army, Navy or Air Force right out of high school.

"There were a dozen or so boys from Char-Lan who were killed, boys I knew well," he said.

Mr. MacDonald said he enjoyed army life, "apart from the action.

"We were thrown into bad situations."

Then what could have motivated a young man of 18 to put himself in such a situation?

"Hitler was an awful evil," Mr. MacDonald said.

"He was going to take over the world. It was automatic, you wanted to defend the world against that kind of thing. The papers, the radio, got you into that mood."

The economy also played a role.

"The big recession was just winding down, there not that many jobs and not much else to do but join the fight."

Mr. MacDonald said young soldiers did not think of the dangers they might face when they enlisted.

"You just join the gang and enjoy what's going on. You don't think of what's going to come later. You get a rude awakening when you wind up in France."

Mr. MacDonald said he is proud of the role Canadian forces continue to play on the world scene.

"Canada has always played an important part in a peace-keeping role."

He has spoken of his war experiences to students at Williamstown Public School and Char-Lan.

"The children are polite, respectful," he said.

"They listen so attentively and respectfully, it's so nice to see. The teachers do a good job of putting on (Remembrance Day) programs."

Mr. MacDonald said he feels it is important to speak to students because the number of World War II veterans is decreasing more and more.

"It was 60 years ago," he said. "Most of the people who served then are in their 80s now.

"There are generations now who don't know what war is. People who are in their 60s are too young to remember the war. We have to keep these ceremonies going."

Parade ended long internment

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

Among the joyous returns of hundreds of Glengarry Second World War veterans, one event stands out in particular.

It was 57 years ago, but 87-year-old Edmond Rochon can still recall the celebration surrounding the arrival of his younger brother, Hector, 84.

Edmond was speaking on behalf of his brother, who suffers from dementia. Both live at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria.

Administration assistant Carol Ouimet relayed the story from Edmond, whose speech is impaired, the result of a stroke.

"They put Hector on a fire truck and paraded him through the streets," Edmond said.

"He was put in a POW camp in Germany after being at Dieppe," Edmond said of the disastrous amphibious landing in 1942.

Dieppe was a low point for the Rochon family. Edmond's twin brother, Raymond, was with Hector, but did not survive the battle.

Hector managed to avoid capture for two weeks before the German soldiers found him.

He then spent more than three years in the camp. The Germans forced him and other inmates to work, himself on a dairy farm.

Legion member Frank Periard was also at the Alexandria station at Hector's arrival.

"I was 15. I lived with the Rochons, who were next door," Mr. Periard said.

"As far as I know, he was the only one from Alexandria who was a POW.

"He was also very well known. He was a good lacrosse player.

"They had a chair placed on the fire truck. The whole town came out to watch it."

Hector, who volunteered with a francophone artillery regiment, the Fusiliers de Mont Royal, was one of 12 children born to Adelard and Corine (nee Miron).

The family lived in one of the houses next to the Mill Pond which were demolished by North Glengarry Township to make green space.

But the internment left lasting scars on Hector's psyche.

Before the war he worked for Marcoux and Gagnier Transport as a labourer.

After the war he moved to Kingston to work as a mechanic. There he met his wife, Marie, whom he married in the early 1960s.

Hector could not overcome his war experience and received a pension from the Department of Veteran Affairs.

He moved to Glen Robertson. His house was located at the present site of Glengarry Tire, where he became an avid gardener.

Edmond Rochon is looking forward to this Sunday when his brother receives a once-in-a-lifetime honour.

An Alexandria Legion colour guard, including bag pipers, will accompany MP Don Boudria to the nursing home.

"They're going to be loud," Hector said, throwing his head back with a quiet laugh.

Mr. Boudria will present Hector with the Queen's Golden Jubilee Medal.

Mr. Periard said Hector was nominated by the legion for his lengthy sacrifice as a POW.

Oct. 31 marked the end of 90 years in the same family for Barbara's Men's Wear when Mike Barbara turned over the keys to Diane Pollard and daughter Tiffany Groulx of Diane's Shoe World.

"This has been my whole life," Mr. Barbara said.

"I worked for my dad from the age of 18. I graduated high school on a Sunday and I started working on Monday.

"It's a little hard. But it was time to leave. It's good to get some young blood in there."

The store was first opened in 1912 by Mike's grandfather, also named Michael Barbara. It is believed to be the second continuously owned business in Alexandria.

Michael Barbare came to Canada from Lebanon around 1908. He originally arrived in Montreal with two of his children, Theo, Mike's father, and Julia.

The business first opened its doors in August, 1912, as a general store, in partnership with A.T. David.

When Mike's grandfather returned to Lebanon in 1921 for the rest of the family, Mike's father began to run the business.

Theo eliminated many of the general store items and began to specialize in clothing and shoes for the whole family. Mike remembers, however, that his father also sold butter and French tobacco.

"The farmers came in and traded butter for clothing, then my dad would sell the butter," he said.

Mike took over the family business in 1964 when his father retired due to illness.

"I've been there for 38 years on my own," he said, "but I've worked there for 50 years."

In 1977, Mr. Barbara sold his women's clothing to Colette Viau in Green Valley and opened the Bootique to sell shoes. That's when Mike Barbara's, as it was known then, began to sell men's clothing exclusively.

The name Barbara's Men's Wear did not become official until the 1990 reopening, after the 1989 fire which destroyed the old building.

Through the 90 years and three generations, the store has always operated on the same site.

Mr. Barbara has no immediate plans yet, but said he intends to enjoy at least a couple of weeks off before considering some offers he has received.

The Pollard family have owned and operated Diane's Shoe World in Vankleek Hill since 1995.

"We want our customers to know they can expect the same quality service at the Alexandria store," Mrs. Pollard said.

Ms. Groulx and Mrs. Pollard will continue to carry men's clothing and accessories as well as formal wear rentals.

"We plan on bringing in more brand name men's clothing and outerwear," Ms. Groulx said.

In addition to the men's wear, Diane's Shoe World carries shoes for the whole family with brands such as Naturalizer, Hush Puppies and Portia, to name but a few.

PASSING THE TORCH: Mike Barbara has officially handed over the ownership of Barbara Men's Wear to Diane Pollard, owner of Diane's Show World last week. The transfer ends the Barbara's 90-year association with the Main Street business.

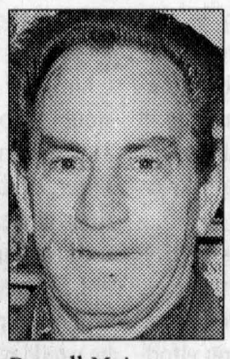
Russians' use of lethal gas not universally endorsed

Tara Couchman



Russell Major

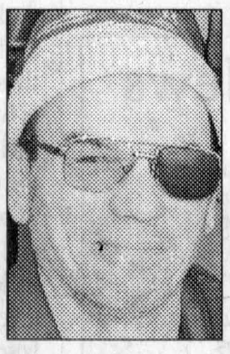
STRAIGHT TALK

Do you think the Russian government should have used lethal gas, which killed over 100 people, to resolve the hostage situation in a Moscow theatre?

– Amanda Portinari

Romeo Jodouin

Bonnie Davis



Gerald Leduc

Tara Couchman, Curry Hill:
The people in the building were not given the choice to live or die. By using lethal gas, it was almost inevitable that people would die. Had the Russian government chosen to wait it out or taken different action, maybe nobody would have died.

Russell Major, Williamstown:
Yes, I think they should have used the gas, but I also think they used too strong a dose. Plus, they wouldn't tell the doctors what gas they used so the doctors were unable to help people in hospitals. If they had revealed what gas it was, they could have saved a lot more lives.

Romeo Jodouin, Lancaster:
Yes, I think they should have used the gas. They had to, they had no choice. Maybe they were too excessive, but they had to do something.

Bonnie Davis, Lancaster Heights:
No, they shouldn't have used lethal gas. I don't think the 100 lives lost are any less important than the 800 lives that were at stake. There could have been another solution that could have ended the situation without any loss of life.

Gerard Leduc, Alexandria:
No, I do not think they should have used the gas because it killed a lot of innocent people. There must have been another way to end it, rather using lethal gas.

Lest we forget why we remember on November 11

EDITORIAL

Outside of the conflict in Korea, Canada has been at peace for virtually all of the past 57 years since the end of the Second World War, and it's hard to imagine any Canadians who would wish it to be anyway else.

Still, as we approach our annual day of Remembrance (November 11) of those who have fallen in the past in defence of this country and the freedom to enjoy our way of life, it's difficult not to think of what might develop in the weeks and days ahead as circumstances seem to point increasingly to the possibility that there will be war or some type of police action against Iraq.

No one wants war but, it should be noted, it wasn't always that way.

At the start of The Great War, as World War I is often referred to, many thronged to recruiting stations here and in Great Britain, eager to serve in what was then considered to be a glorious cause.

In reality, it was a futile war in which millions lost their lives for concerns that were nebulous to begin with and were never truly resolved after hostilities ceased.

In contrast, the Second World War, whose origins stem in part from the preceding conflict, might have been averted or at worst minimized if Nazi aggression had been taken seriously and met with stiff resistance in its early stages.

Instead, with the memories of the terrible toll that had been extracted in World War I still vibrant in the minds of most of the leaders and the people that opposed the Axis powers – Germany , Italy and Japan – every conceivable effort was utilized in an attempt to avoid plunging the civilized world into yet another catastrophic conflict.

We now know the consequences that resulted from the failure to meet Nazi aggression with the approriate force and resolve.

Here in Glengarry, thousands volunteered for both wars and, sadly, more than 300 never returned.

Those fortunate to survive were instilled with a determination to never forget. Still, that last world war ended more than a half century ago and many of those veterans who witnessed that terrible carnage first-hand are no longer with us.

For those generations born and raised after the last world war, the passage of time plus the lack of first-hand knowledge has combined to diminish our appreciation for what happened during those years when the world was at war and, of equal importance, how we ended up at war.

One factor that is little understood today is the unwillingness, ironically, of the United States to confront the enemies of freedom and liberty at that time.

At the start of World War I, the U.S. was an emerging power but not in the position it holds today.

Many of its key elected leaders, aside from President Woodrow Wilson, were isolationists who were opposed to any involvement in WWI.

As a result the U.S. did not enter the conflict immediately and was spared many of those early horrendous casualties as a result.

By the start of the WW II, the U.S's position as the foremost world power had beomc significantly more apparent. Still, many Americans were opposed to fighting 'Europe's battles' and it wasn't until Japan attacked at Pearl Harbor that Americans joined the Allied effort.

By the end of the war, there could be no question as to its economic might although it would take almost five decades before the collapse of the Soviet Union would leave the United States standing alone, unchallenged.

It is within that context we should understand the importance of the current American position vis-à-vis Iraq.

Although there can be no doubt that Iraq does not have the capability to invade countries as did the Nazis some 65 years ago when the Nazis first began to flex their military might.

At the same time, Adolph Hitler and his evil henchmen did not have access to the same type of weaponry now available to Saddam Hussein and with it the ability to cause mass destruction by virtue of a single attack.

Nonetheless, many people hold the opinion – just as was the case back in the 30s – that any solution short of military action to diffuse the situation was preferable.

Who would not wish that they were right. Unfortunately, history tells us that unreasonable people such as Adolph Hitler and Saddam Hussein cannot be dealt with using reasonalble methods.

During the next few days as November 11 approaches, we should take time to contemplate the past and reflect on what it means to the future.

Many people, soldiers and civilians alike, perished during those previous conflicts.

We owe it to those who died, so that we can enjoy our present way of life, that we are prepared to make certain that their past sacrifices in the defence of freedom and pursuit of liberty were not in vain.

Thorns & Thistles

THISTLE – Rescue work turns home into zoo.

Glengarry's tradition of lending a hand to those in need extends beyond just people.

Nicole Joncas and Doug Crevier are justa pair of several good samaritans in the area over the past year who have given up a good part of their lives to help animals in distress.

Last year The News chronicled a Williamstown couple, Pat and Roger Cloutier, who rescue greyhounds whose racing days are over, and just this past summer Barbara Matscheg started a refuge at her Lochinvar Road home for unclaimed dogs that would also have been put down.

Ms. Joncas and Mr. Crevier have taken the process one step further. The Glen Robertson couple literally have turned their home into a zoo to house some 49 domestic animals, many of whom live with them inside the house. The couple started the shelter in Quebec eight years ago and when the pair moved so did their menagerie.

Eventually, the couple hopes to obtain a charitable designation so they can give receipts for donations. By their own estimate, they are spending upwards of $25,000 of their own money to look after the animals so donations are gratefully accepted; particularly hay, straw, dog and cat food as well as feed for older horses.

It's efforts like this, rather than just relying on the government, that speak to the true ideal of community service.

THORN – Community police axed by SDG board.

Volunteers are the lifeblood of any community and fortunately Glengarry has its share of them.

That number, however, dropped this past week when the SDG Police Services Board summarily axed community policing committees in South and North Glengarry.

At this point were not sure of the full reasoning behind the move but we do know that it was not handled particularly well. In effect, the committees learned that they would be disbanded in a second-hand manner as both North and South Glengarry Township councils received the information in the mail, after the fact, rather than getting some advance warning.

At the very least it would have been appropriate for the Police Services Board to communicate with the committees in a more appropriate way, considering that the members have been volunteering their time and effort on behalf of their community, whereas members of the police board receive remuneration.

THORN – Green roads pose problems for South and North Glengarry councils.

Issues revolving around green roads which, in effect, are unopened roads, have been a staple at township councils of late with both North and South Glengarry councils attempting to deal with problems associated with them at their last meetings.

In North Glengarry, council had been asked to arbitrate a dispute between a landowner with a lease and the Glengarry Snowmobile Club.

Given the nature of the situation, council had very little option but to uphold the lease even though some members were of the opinion that it could be broken.

In South Glengarry, the situation is somewhat reversed with a landowner wanting council to grant him a lease for an area being used by snowmobile clubs.

For the moment, South Glengarry is offering some form of compromise in the hopes of defusing the situation, but as both instances demonstrate, each council needs to come up with some form of long-term policy as such situations likely will increase in the future.

In Flanders Fields

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved, and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields

Chemicals in shots

We worry about chemicals in the environment, genetically modified foods, the safety of our water supply, the effects of smoking and of second-hand smoke, mercury in canned tuna and so on and so on.

Do we ever worry about formaldehyde or mercury being injected directly into our bodies? Do we ever ask what is in a flu shot (or childhood vaccines)??

The Compendium of Pharmaceuticals and Specialties at the library or pharmacy and the vaccine's package insert offer interesting information.

A one-dose flu shot (05 ml) contains up to 30 micrograms of formaldehyde and two micrograms of mercury!

How much formaldehyde and mercury do we accumulate with repeated flu shots? Do the "benefits outweigh the risks" ? What did we do before the availability of the vaccine?

Do we make an informed decision about the flu shot or do we just believe what the pharmaceutical companies want us to believe?

No toxins for me, thank you! I'll stick to my Vitamin C!

Resounding success

The evening of "Memories of Emily MacInnes" was a resounding success.

The Organizing Committee wants to express their gratitude to the paper and to your columnists for the major part it played in encouraging people to send us their memories and to attend.

Close to two hundred people attended to speak and listen to tributes to a remarkable person who influenced so many.

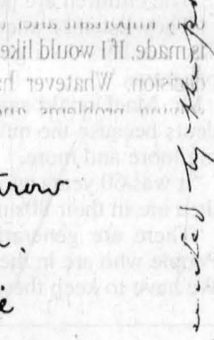
MY GLENGARRY



ROD McDONALD

Remembrance Day in Alexandria in the 1950s meant, among other things, a day off from sitting in those hardwood desks listening to nerdy students rhyme off the multiplication tables, or reciting obscure poetry that seemed too distant to mean anything to us at that juncture of our lives.

It also signalled our annual chance to march in step, up to the cenotaph, alongside the old men we had come to know and admire as 'the vets.'

We would arrive early at the Mill Square which was the parade square for the day, find a cosy place high atop the dusty provender bags on the Co-op's loading dock, and watch the soldiers filter in from all four corners of Glengarry. They wore those deep-blue navy blazers, mostly all of which were slightly off kilter because of their heavy loads of medals that jingled in the crisp November air.

Some old soldiers looked dishevelled and slightly confused, with that distant look in their eyes of a furious battle in the green fields of France remembered, and a bosom buddy lost; however, they all made certain that their medals were buffed to a brilliant sparkle, and they wore them with the humble pride that only war veterans have won the right to do.

I recall one dignified First World War survivor by the name of Levi Belair. His eyebrows were so thick that we wondered how the old soldier could ever see through the bushy, curly strands of hair sprouting like steel wool from his forehead.

One of Mr. Belair's eyes had been blown out by mud and shrapnel, which had struck him as he crouched in the louse-infested confines of a trench in France. But instead of using the glass eyeball the army had issued him, he simply squinted most of the time, as if he were looking into bright sunshine.

He also wore a thick handlebar moustache that was dyed a permanent amber by his chewing tobacco.

When Levi Belair limped past the crowd, even old ladies and kids stood at attention.

My friend Clifford's father, a Popeye-armed bricklayer called Hughie Dan MacCuaig, changed magically every November 11 from a mild mannered, jocular comedian to a purple-faced, bellowing sergeant who could scare the pants off any kid in town.

We could hear his booming voice roaring from one end of the square to the other, unsettling the pigeons at the mill tower, as he attempted to muster his motley crew into a presentable formation for the roll call:

"Tennn-sshunn! Eyes right! Quiiick maaarch!"

Year after year, it seemed that the sky was always a slate grey and the whipping, chilling rain stung the veterans' eyes, mingling with the tears that welled up as soon as the pipers sent the moaning sound of the drones out into the heavens. Soon after, the snare drums began the ominous roll, and the small, unassuming parade departed for the hill at the north end of town, to the strains of Bonnie Dundee.

It was a long, exhausting climb for some of the older veterans, especially as the north wind whistled down the road into their ruby faces and the wet snow whipped at their cheeks. It seemed as if the whole town was listening to the veterans' feet as they tramped on the wet pavement.

We tried to mimic the old men as they marched in step with eyes straight ahead, always keeping a tight formation, but we could not maintain the constant effort and discipline required to march in a straight line among a large group of people. We ended up bumping into each other like characters in a slapstick movie, and attracting cold stares from the crowd.

I think that it was at that point that we began to gain a true respect for those old soldiers.

After the ceremonies at the cenotaph, the veterans would march another quarter mile to the Legion Hall, where they and the public were treated to hot soup and sandwiches, served by the ladies called WACs and WRENs. Then the drinking, singing and story telling began in earnest, with songs like "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," and "Danny Boy" as a back drop.

I remember hearing a heart-rending story about Jim McDonald, who was wounded terribly when he smothered a grenade with his body to protect his comrades, as they entered the city of Caen, just after the D-Day invasion in 1945.

Jim later settled in Cornwall, where I would go to visit his son Charlie, and I still recall sitting beside him as he told me unforgettable war stories from his wheel chair, gingerly working the hooks that he used for hands, to bring a cigarette to his lips, between sentences.

"It was a rough time for all of us, Roddy," he would whisper.

The stories would go on all day and most of the night at the steamy, smoky Legion Hall, but sadly, year after year, as the veterans' numbers get fewer, the stories get thinner, and some day, there'll be no more stories at all.

Log-home proposal ill-suited for the property and the area

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Read your "thorn" and feel that you are a little off course in your opinions.

Yes, log homes are lovely, we lived in one for many years,but a permanent construction site for them involves heavy trucks, chainsaws, lifting equipment, etc... not at all conducive to a rural residential area!

The request for re-zoning per the bylaw was to allow for a "contractor's yard", not the construction of one log home, but many, year after year after year. While we all find certain furniture, cars, clothes and houses, beautiful, do any of us want to live right beside the factory that makes them? I'll bet not!

Firstly, to clarify, my primary concern regarding the Log-Home Business was the truck movement on the Johnston Road, now a high-speed expressway since being rebuilt a few years ago.

Log trucks backing in and out have no place on this road, especially with its high number of school buses, etc.

My concern with the re-zoning to Agricultural Special Exception had nothing to do with the land's loss to the farming community (just have a look at it!) and everything to do with South Glengarry's determination to lump all sorts of inappropriate uses under this designation instead of putting them where they really belong, such as Commercial or Institutional.

I wonder if this is being done so that, at the end of the year, when land use is totalled up, the acres removed from Agriculture are kept to a minimum and the Township looks good?

Or is it because setbacks and minimum distances would never be met under the correct zoning?

Regarding your statement that the "owner.... wants to build his home on the 3.2 acre lot" is purely an assumption. A residence was requested as a 'secondary use' not primary, therefore a house/office/storage building could be built at any time in the future.... or not.

What has to be remembered is that this triangular lot is only 3.2 acres and a municipal drain runs along one side.

How can a log home under construction, a log pile, a log sorting area, a refuse pile (which the applicant never addressed), an unloading area, a driveway/parking area, a "residence," a septic system, which must be 50 feet from the drain and a tree plantation all be squeezed into this piece? We suspect not.

If you don't believe us, just drive out, have a see, then have a look at the closeness of the abutting neighbours, think of the noises and dust (not to mention looks) this commercial enterprise will generate in the seasons that they intend to enjoy their yards and gardens (and, yes, dream decks too) and ask yourself if you would want this business as your neighbour, to look at, listen to and wipe off the dust from forever more.

This sort of industry would be better suited to an area without any immediate residences alongside and not on a 100km plus section of road.

This alone should have been common sense to the owner before buying.

While it would definitely be a hardship for Luke Bryan if his request is refused, having already bought the property with his business in mind, maybe he and others can take it as a learning experience.

A little PR by the way of visiting and talking to his business' potential neighbours would have gone a long way and done unimaginable good... both for them and himself before he purchased.

Others should take heed of this act of common decency.

Due process

I am writing to you concerning the article, log-home business draws objections, in the October 23, 2002 edition of The Glengarry News.

I have learned some very valuable lessons since receiving the letter of notification from the Township office, pertaining to the rezoning of the lot on Johnson Road.

Namely, due process – simply a formality. My dealings with the township office of South Glengarry has opened my eyes to a no-win situation.

First, I received the letter of notification. I did take the advice printed and visited the office the very next day. Few explanations were given to me about what may happen on the property and why the need for rezoning.

I was informed to attend the town meeting and each citizen has the right to inform herself or himself. (Due process).

I take the advice, my husband and I set up an appointment with Luke and Rachel Bryan to discuss what their business involves and view an on-location work site.

We came away from this meeting knowing three things.

Firstly, Luke and Rachel are very nice people. Secondly, timber frame construction is a beautiful craft and, thirdly, there will be a construction business on the adjacent property to ours.

Next, my husband and I attend the October 15 town meeting. No further explanation was given. Only the same wording that was found in the notification letter.

Concerned citizens and I expressed our opinions and objections to the proposed rezoning. Of course, this will be taken into consideration. HA!

On October 23, 2002, I call the township to find out if a decision has been taken. I was told each person would receive a letter of notification of approval or disapproval. Also, I could write a letter to them about my opinion. (Due process). I did just that. I handed in the letter.

I did have the opportunity to further discuss my concerns and receive more information on the construction business.

I suggested that the township set up a presentation with the concerned citizens and the business owner to clarify any discrepancies and problems before any decision is taken.

Surprise, surprise, a shrug of the shoulders and due process reared its ugly head again.

"You have the right to inform yourself." On top of that, I was told my letter would be read but is only important after the decision is made. If I would like to fight the decision. Whatever happened to solving problems and concerns before making any major decisions. Oh yeah, that's due process.

Let's remember the citizens, oh wait, the five households that are 120 meters from the proposed property or in my case, 10 feet on the other side of the creek. Whether it be the noise; the 18 wheelers, the yard work or the lowering of property values, due to selling a home with a business in the backyard. The bottom line is this: a construction business does not belong in an agricultural/residential area and yes, it will be approved.

My word of advice to my country neighbours is cherish the little piece of country you have purchased. As we are made to believe that we actually have a say in our town. But before you know our pastures, cows, peaceful country hillsides will give way to buildings, trucks and the familiar sounds of the city.

Mrs. Lynn Montroy-McPhail / Williamstown

Industrial park?

While Cornwall Gravel is calling their proposed Dunvegan development a "quarry" and making soothing noises about it being a small, 50-day-a-year operation, I believe that their real intention is to build "Cornwall Gravel North" on the site. A full-service operation, it would produce aggregate — and manufacture asphalt and concrete — all year round! In other words, I suspect Cornwall Gravel has decided to turn their part of Dunvegan Road into an Industrial Park.

At present, Cornwall Gravel has little or no presence in this area. This new site will allow them to extend their business reach well into Prescott-Russell and West Quebec. It has also been suggested that the Dunvegan plant will also allow them to transfer a part of their Cornwall operation here to avoid higher city taxes and free-up urban land for more-profitable residential or commercial development.

The impact on this area of such an industrial complex will be disastrous. The major concern is water. Everyone knows that the region has suffered a number of years of drought. And if you think that blasting a hole three acres wide by 150 feet deep isn't going to have an effect on local wells, you're dreaming. 'De-watering' the proposed below-water quarry will further lower the area's water table, not to mention the thousands of litres required to manufacture asphalt and concrete.

Then there's the issue of safety. More school buses use Dunvegan Road than all other roads in North Glengarry, with the exception of Highway 34. And Dunvegan Road is a key route from the eastern half of North Glengarry for those commuting to Ottawa. While Cornwall Gravel claims that "the impact of quarry traffic will be minor", they also estimate that non-peak operations will involve only 27 trips-per-hour. However, when a truck goes out full, it also comes back empty. So Cornwall Gravel's 27 trips-per-hour estimate actually translates into 54 trucks-per-hour. That's almost one truck every 60 seconds... 10 hours a day!

All over Ontario, the agricultural fabric of our province is being shredded by development. To help guard against this, North Glengarry Township took the courageous and proactive step of protecting our agricultural heritage, and our aggregate resources, with an Official Plan.

Under this plan, the Cruickshank (G-Q1) and Blair (G-Q2) quarries in the north-west corner of the township are protected from encroachment with 500 metre buffer zones. Based on the MNR's own figures, these two quarries are estimated to have sufficient aggregate reserves to serve North Glengarry's needs for over 200 years! Why then, do we need to licence a third quarry just a few kilometres away — on land that is zoned agricultural?

Furthermore, why would we condone the building of this quarry, asphalt and concrete plant right in the middle of a populated area? (If neighbouring farms and residences aren't too close, why is Cornwall Gravel requesting reduced buffer zones?)

Police Briefs

The Racing Against Drugs committee invites everyone to attend a bilingual community-based drug and alcohol awareness program aimed at Grade 6 students. The program is being held from Nov. 4 to 8 at the SDG Highlanders Armoury, 505 4th Street East in Cornwall, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Racing Against Drugs uses the sport of racing to teach the necessary skills for students to say "no" to drugs and demonstrate the benefits of living a drug-free life.

The organizing committee is comprised of representatives from the RCMP, Cornwall Community Police Service, SDG OPP, Addiction Services of Eastern Ontario, Club Optimiste de la région de Cornwall, Canada Customs, CN Police, Cornwall Fire Department and the Community for Sober Highways and Waterways.

Assault charges laid

An investigation by police into a domestic incident on Nov. 1 in Alexandria has resulted in criminal charges being lajd against two people.

Charges of impaired driving, driving over .08 and assault are pending against a 39-year-old Alexandria man, while a 32-year-old Gloucester woman is facing a charge of assault as a result of the events of the evening.

Drugs seized in SG

On Nov. 4, Project "Centrum" officers, with assistance from SDG OPP, attended a residence on Beaverbrook Road in South Glengarry and served a controlled drugs and substances act search warrant.

Officers seized 486 marijuana plants with an approximate street value of $486,000. Officers also seized $60,000 of offence-related property. At the residence, the officers dismantled and seized various equipment used in the production of marijuana.

A 30-year-old Mississauga man has been charged with production and possession for the purpose of trafficking a controlled substance and has been held for a show cause hearing.

Project "Centrum" is a drug enforcement team comprised of officers from the Ontario Provincial Police Drug Enforcement Section and Eastern Region OPP detachments.

Break and enter

On Nov. 4, SDG OPP began an investigation into a break and enter which had occurred overnight in the village of Maxville.

An entry was made into a building located along Hughie Munro Street, which resulted in the theft of tools and windows from the property.

Constable D. Morin is investigating.

Halloween quiet

SDG OPP are pleased to report this past Halloween was a quiet one.

Police responded to a few minor calls, but for the most part, the ghosts an goblins of Glengarry were well-behaved.

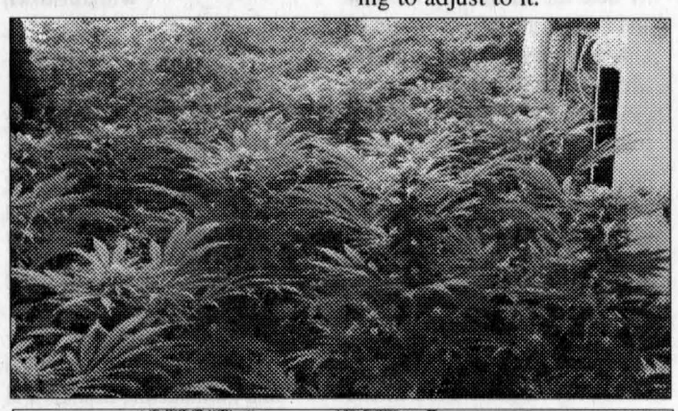
Adjust to the weather

Drivers are reminded that they must adjust their driving to the conditions presented to them.

They must slow down and leave more space between vehicles and be prepared for ice, snow or slush on the roadways.

Failing to adjust to the conditions increases the chance of being involved in a crash.

Crashes are not caused by the weather, but by drivers failing to adjust to it.



GROWING OPERATION: A marijuana growing operation was busted in a house on BeaverBrook Road in South Glengarry on Monday. SDG OPP and Project "Centrum" team members executed a search warrant in the house. They seized nearly 500 marijuana plants in various stages of growth, from seedlings to full-grown plants, as shown in these two photos. CONTRIBUTED PHOTOS

Report crime, earn cash

Each week, Crime Stoppers spotlights a crime that has been committed in the area.

Crime Stoppers would like to remind you that we need information on all crimes, not just the crime of the week.

If you have information on crimes already committed, those about to occur, or the whereabouts of a wanted person, call Crime Stoppers and you could be eligible for a cash reward.

When you call us, you are assigned a code number. Your call will not be traced or recorded and the identity of the informant is never known.

Help Crime Stoppers stop crime. It's your program and it works.

NEWS RELEASE
November 2002
HÔPITAL GLENGARRY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
What is Changing at Your Community Hospital?

Last summer Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital eliminated the 'hospital white plastic card'. All patients now present their Ontario Health Card each time service is needed. If your Ontario Health Care is lost or expired, then please call 1-888-314-4442 for an appointment. The next photo health card clinic conducted at Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital is scheduled on Thursday, November 14, 2002. The winner of the second draw (for those who handed in their hospital white plastic cards) for a $50.00 gift certificate from the Hospital Auxiliary was Mr. Serge Andre.

Starting this week, registration of out patients only requiring laboratory tests will be changing. This registration process will be phased-in. Before 10:30 a.m. all out patients will register at the emergency desk. After 10:30 a.m. all out patients will register at the Laboratory.

Starting Monday, November 18, 2002 all out patients only requiring laboratory tests (no matter the time of day) will be registered at the Laboratory. A numbering system will be used to ensure nobody jumps the queue.

Thank you for your cooperation.

COMMUNIQUÉ DE PRESSE
Novembre 2002
HÔPITAL GLENGARRY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL
Quoi de neuf à votre hôpital

L'été dernier l'hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital a cessé d'accepter la "Carte d'hôpital blanche de plastique." Tous les patients présentent maintenant leur "Carte Santé" à chaque fois qu'ils ont besoin de nos services. Si votre carte Santé est perdue ou expirée, SVP téléphonez au 1-888-314-4442 pour un rendez-vous. La prochaine clinique pour photos pour les cartes Santé aura lieu le jeudi, 14 novembre 2002 ici même à l'hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital. Le gagnant du 2ième tirage (pour ceux qui rapportaient à l'hôpital leur carte blanche de plastique). un certificat-cadeau d'une valeur de $50 gracieuseté des Auxiliaires de l'hôpital, est Mr. Serge Andre.

Commençant cette semaine, l'inscription des patients de clinique externe requérant seulement des tests de laboratoire changera. Ce processus d'inscription se fera progressivement. Avant 10:30 heures tous les patients externes s'inscriront au bureau de l'urgence. Après 10:30 heures, ils devrent s'inscrire au laboratoire.

Et à parti du lundi, 18 novembre, 2002 tous les patients de clinique externe ne requérant que des tests de laboratoire s'inscriront directement au laboratoire à n'importe quelle heure de la journée. Nous utiliserons un système de numéro pour respecter l'ordre d'arrivée des patients.

Merci de votre coopération

PEGGI CALDER
527-5293

Donnie and Jean MacLeod, Eric MacSweyn, and Catherine Anne and Gerry Gauthier attended the University of Ottawa fall convocation ceremonies at the National Arts Centre on Oct. 27, when Wendy MacLeod received her Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree.

Wendy is presently employed at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Aunt passes away

Donnie MacLeod and Catherine Anne Gauthier received word this week that their aunt Carol McInnes of Stratford, Ontario had passed away at the age of 95 on Oct. 28. Mrs. McInnes was the sister of their mother, the late Grace MacLeod.

Congratulations

Congratulations to Allister and Eileen Campbell, who will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary on Nov. 8.

Halloween party

The Dunvegan Recreation Association Halloween party brought out about 40 area youngsters, and more than a few adults to watch the fun. There was a constant lineup into the Kreepy Kitchen for the "stick your hand into something really awful" contest. Harry Potter was playing on the big screen, and "smoke" drifted about the room before the costume parade began around the Halloween tree and the apple bobbing tub.

Brynn Carson had the intimidating task of judging costumes, but in the long run, everyone was a winner.

Eight pumpkins were entered in the pumpkin carving contest, from the tiny handful to the large armful. When all the prizes had been awarded, the costumed participants disappeared into the night at nine o'clock, each with a bag of goodies.

Martintown soccer players helped St. Lawrence too

Al Merizzi, Teacher and Junior Boys' Soccer Coach at St. Lawrence Intermediate School in Cornwall, sent me an e-mail after reading last week's News about the Martintown connection in the recent high school soccer championships.

Here is what he wrote: There are two Martintown area students who have played an instrumental part in delivering St. Lawrence their second consecutive Junior AA SDG soccer championship. They are Rhys Paquette and Ryan Seale, centre mid-fielders, who played an important role in a successful season. They were also one of the reasons why the St. Lawrence team defeated the Glengarry Junior Gaels by a score of 3 to 1 in the first annual Brian Filion Challenge Cup last week in Alexandria.

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

In the Challenge Cup game, Ryan Seale scored the first goal, while Rhys Paquette set up the next two goals. Rhys set up the second goal with a corner kick, and for the third, he propelled a beautiful free kick to the forward, who then converted it for St. Lawrence's third goal.

St. Lawrence's final record, including post-season games and Challenge Cup, was an incredible nine consecutive wins and one loss (first game of the season). Rhys and Ryan (The Martintown connection) were a big reason why St. Lawrence had such a successful season.

So there you have it! The soccer talent in our area runneth over. Read on.

Tri-Star soccer

The next generation honing their skills for high school participated in the Tri-Star soccer skills competition sponsored by the Martintown Optimist Club on October 25.

The winner for grades 3/4, and an upcoming talent to watch, is James Miller, with Samantha Leishman in second place. For grades 5/6, Keleigh Goodfellow placed first, followed by Hailey Besner and in Grade 7/8 Meaghan MacDougall and Leslie MacLeod tied for first place, followed by Ben Boyd.

Congratulations to the winners of this event and to all participants, and thanks to Luane Doyle and the other members of the Optimist Club for providing this opportunity for the students.

Cross-country runners

And in case you thought that soccer was the only sport in which Martintown kids excel, we have some pretty fast runners in our midst, as well.

At the Glengarry Elementary School Cross Country run which was held at Iona Academy on October 25, Kevin and Callie McLeod, Danny Ravary and Stephanie Hinks, all of the Martintown area, placed very well.

Kevin was first for Iona in Junior boys, Callie first overall for Junior girls, Danny Ravary second in senior boys and Stephanie Hinks was first for senior girls. Congratulations, and well done!

Wedding reception

A wedding reception will take place this Friday night, November 8, at the Martintown Community Centre, in honour of Erin McDonald, daughter of Donna and Bill McDonald of Martintown North East, and Don Richard, son of Marg and Harry Richard of Ottawa. The music will be provided by Bob and Ducky.

Birthday wishes

This coming weekend will mark a milestone birthday for one of Martintown's young seniors. Seems like the ones from the Netherlands never show their age, so I was surprised when Elizabeth asked me to wish John a very happy 80th birthday on November 10! Keep those parties under control, now!

Martintown Public School

A chess club is starting up at Martintown Public School this Thursday and will be a weekly lunchtime activity. Volunteers Donna Orr and Chantal Ceasor are asking members of the community to donate gently used chess sets to the school for the club. Kevin Ceasor of KCee's has already got the ball rolling with a donation of new chess sets.

A Remembrance Day service will be held in the school gym on November 11, beginning just before 11 a.m. The public is welcome to attend.

The school is holding its annual St. Albert's cheese sale which began with a kick-off assembly on Monday and the distribution of cheese forms. The deadline for orders is November 25, cheese will be delivered to the school on December 3 and money must be in by December 10. The focus this year for funds raised is new swings, an enlarged sandbox and sports equipment.

School council nomination forms have been sent home for parents or guardians to complete if they are interested in filling the vacancy of a voting parent member on Council. Forms should by completed and returned to the school before November 12, and that evening there will be a Council meeting at the school beginning at 7 p.m. All parents and guardians are welcome to attend.

Santa Claus parade

The Martintown Fire Department, and Michael McDonell in particular, is already planning the Santa Claus parade which is to take place on December 15.

More details will follow, but it is hoped that there will be plenty of floats this year (twenty), and to that end, local businesses, clubs, farms, families, and general Christmas groupies are encouraged to begin thinking of putting a float together.

The Martintown parade is purely for fun and there is no competition or judging to take away from the joy of participation. For more information, call Michael at 528-1065.

Women's Institute

The October meeting of the Martintown Women's Institute was held at the Martintown Fire Hall on October 17.

In compliance with the roll call, members brought in their own fire extinguishers to be checked, which proved to be interesting because many extinguishers were no longer functional.

The members practiced using extinguishers to put out a real fire which had been lit in an outdoor pit. Many had never had the opportunity to use a fire extinguisher and the members learned a great deal.

The guest speaker and instructor was Gilles Crepeau, a Cornwall firefighter, and some of the Martintown firefighters were on hand to help with the demonstration. Six WI members donned fireman's uniforms including hats, coats and big gloves and found the equipment very heavy.

Coffee, tea and desserts were served at the fire hall by hostesses Gerdie Huizinga, Muriel Elms and Pat Yellenik. President Rita O'Reilly was honoured with a cake, candles and song on her birthday which happened to be that day.

The next WI meeting will be held on November 21 at 1:30 p.m. at the Martintown Community Centre and the roll call will be "A fine old custom." All are welcome.

Horticultural Society

The Martintown and District Horticultural Society met on October 23 at the Martintown Community Centre for a talk and slide presentation given by Ann Chudleigh from Ottawa.

The presentation was entitled "The Attraction of Butterflies, Meadows, Gardens and Monarchs" and Ann illustrated her talk with slides of the growing butterfly and beautiful pictures of those plants which encourage butterflies into gardens.

Members present learned how to create a meadow butterfly garden and were instructed not to weed out milkweed as butterflies love it! The talk was very much enjoyed by all who attended, as was the food served afterwards by Horticultural Society members.

Tonight, November 6, the final Horticultural Society meeting for 2002, will be a pot luck supper at the Community Centre beginning at 6 p.m.

Duplicate bridge

A collection of costumed characters assembled in Martintown last week for the Halloween Bridge party. There were two dark ladies from Alexandria, a coven of Cornwall witches, a company of clowns, a double of Draculas, a policeman, a miner, the Williamstown Angel, an alien and some other unidentified creatures, but the first prize for best character went to the Scary Scot, Margaret Kennedy, in a red wig topped with a Scottish tam.

After consuming quantities of apple pie and pumpkin pie a la mode, and Martintown's special 'witches fingers', the celebrants eventually settled down to some serious Bridge. The winners for the Goodtimers Bridge on October 29 were as follows: North/South, 1. Jim and Jean Campbell, 2. Shiela Pickett and Estelle Brazeau, 3. Finlay McDonell and Bob Evans. East/West, 1. John Roulston and Audrey Blair, 2. Chantal Larocque and Albert Leonard, 3. Madeleine Laporte and Gracia Seguin.

The Martintown Dracula would like to clear up some housekeeping details and asks that the witch who left her broom behind the corn stalks recover it from himself. Also the set of false teeth found in the ladies' washroom is as yet unclaimed. Now, that's scary!

Party bridge

The winners of the Party Bridge held at the Martintown Community Centre on Monday were all men: Emile Trepanier, Bob Evans, and Vince Semenovicus.

Anonymous callers

I very much appreciate all the calls I get, especially the ones which have to do with the athletic achievements of our local students, weddings, moves and the like. I can't possibly know the names of all the Martintowners who excel in various endeavours, and am dependent on your tips.

Occasionally I get cryptic messages left on my answering machine by anonymous callers, but unless a name and number are given, I am at a loss to know exactly what the caller would like me to write. I have a low-tech phone which doesn't tell me who you are either, so if it is important, and your calls are all important, please leave your name and number. I need your input!

New jackets spruce up Auxiliary

GLENGARRY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL AUXILIARY NEWS

The volunteers working in the Gift Shop and the Long Term Care Activity Program of Glengarry Memorial Hospital have a new look. The 35-year-old standard turquoise lab coat has been retired and is being replaced with a lighter weight custom design in pastel blue.

In winter months the Auxiliary faces the challenge of meeting planned objectives as many of the summer volunteers leave for warmer climates.

We need people to work in the Gift Shop, feed patients and help in other various projects. If you have a few hours to spare and would like to help out, please call Carol Bellware – volunteer co-ordinator.

Auxiliary members are busy making crafts, baking and cleaning out cupboards in preparation for their Jingle Bell Sale which will be held Nov. 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the hospital lobby. The Gift Shop Christmas sale will also offer a 20 per cent discount on all merchandise in the shop on that day.

Proceeds from the Jingle Bell Sale have been designated to the hospital's Emergency Expansion Project. Anyone wishing to donate items for the craft, bake or white elephant tables may leave them in the Gift Shop.

A reminder to all that the Gift Shop will also receive used eye-glasses and hearing aids, Farm Boy cash register receipts and pocket books in good condition.

Thanks For the Memories!
Since 1912, Barbara's has had a presence in Alexandria. In 1964, I took over the business from my father, who in turn took it over from his father in 1921.
We overcame the fire of 1989, rebuilt in 1990 and have enjoyed serving Glengarrians and friends ever since. Retiring was tempting, and I have now sold the business to Diane and Richard Pollard of Diane's Shoe World.
Thank you to all for your patronage and loyal support throughout my years at Barbara's Men's Wear. Your friendship through the years will always be cherished.
I wish Diane, Tiffany, and Cynthia all the best and hope you will support them as you supported me over the past 38 years.

10-year career mushrooms into new dealership

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

After working abroad, a young Alexandria man has come home to fill a void for fans of Polaris products.

"There's not another Polaris dealer around here," said Luke Murray on his reasons for opening a Polaris sales and service dealership in Alexandria.

Murray Motor Sports is located on the corner of Main Street and McDougald Avenue.

The grand opening was last Saturday. Customers were able to test-drive ATVs on a small off-road course beside the store and then have a hot dog.

Dealers too far

"The other dealers are in Cornwall, St. Zotique, Que., Greely, and Rockland – we're right in the middle – there's a hole here."

NOT JUST FOR RECREATION: Murray Motor Sports held its grand opening on Saturday in Alexandria at the corner of Main Street and McDougald Avenue. Here, owner Luke Murray shows a Polaris Ranger, a heavy duty utility vehicle, ideal for farmers and hunters. GREG PEERENBOOM PHOTO

Mr. Murray believes Polaris is popular locally even though customers have to travel some distance to the closest dealers.

"A lot of people have Polaris vehicles but don't want to have to go to St. Zotique or Cornwall."

10 years experience of fixing engines

Mr. Murray will bring about 10 years of small engine repair skills to the business.

"I've been repairing all-terrain vehicles, boats, snowmobiles, outboards, since high school," he said, and all over: Lancaster, Florida and Georgian Bay.

Mr. Murray moved back to Alexandria last February and did repairs in the garage.

"I looked into a Polaris dealership, and they were willing to set me up."

Help from government

He also got assistance through Human Resources Development Corp.'s Self-Employment Assistance program. It provides a salary while the entrepreneur receives training, starts and builds up the new business.

"I bought the building at the end of June – we've been getting ready ever since."

Mr. Murray has hired two employees: sister Jill Murray will help out with administrative work and Fassifern native Darcy McCormick will work as a small engine technician apprentice. Mr. Murray will be in charge of sales, parts and service.

Murray Motor Sports offers ATVs, snowmobiles, watercraft and "Rangers" – a six-all-wheel drive utility vehicle which seats three and contains a dump box.

Polaris products are made in Minnesota with a Canadian distribution centre in Winnipeg.

Support Laggan Public School with spaghetti dinner

DALKEITH
JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

Laggan School Council is sponsoring its fifth annual spaghetti dinner on Nov. 16 at Laggan Public School. Sittings will be at 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Take-out orders are available too.

This dinner is intended as a community social event as well as being a major fund-raiser for school-related projects.

For more information or to volunteer to help in some way please contact Shirley MacDonald at 874-1053 or Deborah Adams at 525-4032. Everyone is welcome to attend and you are encouraged to return your request for tickets to the school, with payment, by Nov. 13 so that final planning can be done.

Other members of the community and beyond are welcome too. You may also pick up the information flyers/ticket request forms from the school.

A very special welcome to Educational assistant Linda Lafontaine who has recently joined the Laggan Public School staff.

Thirty five Grade 5-8 students are now very actively involved in enriching their chess skills at lunch time with Hugh Allan MacMillan. Future tournaments are not far off.

Laggan Public School will hold its annual Remembrance Day Service on Monday, beginning at 10:45 a.m. Members of the community and family members are welcome to attend. Student Council will be selling poppies in all classes each morning beginning last Monday, until early next Monday before the Remembrance Day service. All donations are welcomed.

Congratulations to the Laggan School 2002-2003 Student Council which consists of: president Cody Gallant, vice-President Clay Chadsey, secretary Caitlyn Gallant and treasurer Adrian Carrier.

This ambitious group has a wide variety of activities planned starting off with Orange and Black Day last week on Halloween day. These young people also get the opportunity to represent the student body on Laggan School Council.

As part of the Arts and The Community program students and staff were thoroughly entertained last Friday afternoon by the magical performance of Majinx, a group of local magicians.

Next will be the Travelling College Troupe from Akwesasne presenting to the Grades 5-8 on Friday, Nov. 15 in the afternoon. The troupe will perform traditional First Nation songs, dances and story telling.

Went to Alberta

Linda Lothian, Lochinvar, and her daughter Heather Huxted went to Strathmore, Alta., to Marie and Bob Carlson's for a few days.

While they were there, Rose Huxted, a student at Olds University visited also. They had gone to attend the funeral of the girls' grandmother, Harriet Huxted on Oct. 25.

Mary and John Weese, Trenton, and Liz Bassinger, Cobourg, visited at our house and in Maxville with the MacQueen's over the weekend.

Halloween weather was good so there was a large number of spooks throughout the village. We had 42 at our house!

Library news

Christmas books are now available at the library for children and adults. If you need new ideas for crafts or decorations come and take a book out. Registration for Adult Craft night is now on until the end of November. We will be making decorative boxes or trays with modge podge glue. Our guest demonstrator is Micheline MacRae.

Please call 874-2337 to register and to find out about supplies needed. Two items are on display now at the Dalkeith Library.

This Halloween night the library had a greater number of spooks than other years. It was a lot of fun checking out the costumes.

2002 Apple Festival

News from the "APPLE FESTIVAL", of the "Cercle des Fermières d'Alexandria", which took place at the Sacred Heart Hall on Saturday, Oct. 19, 2002. More than 200 people came to this event. CERES appoints chairman, goes to Europe

BY TODD ANDERSON
News Staff

Maxville based CERES Incorporated officially announced last week the appointment of Gary McCone as chairman of the board.

Mr. McCone will provide his expertise in ensuring that CERES' long-term strategic goals are achieved.

CERES president and CEO Susan Jamieson said the addition of Mr. McCone to the team makes the future even brighter.

"Part of my mandate was to restructure and secure a solid management team. To date, this team includes Michael Onwood as executive vice-president finance and CFO, David Bekhor, vice-president secretary and legal counsel, and now Gary McCone as chairman of the board. Each of these gentlemen brings over 20 years of solid business acumen to the table with various Fortune 500 companies."

Mr. McCone has over 25 years of experience in the telecommunications industry and has worked with large corporations like Bell Canada.

He founded, operated and sold three successful companies with the most prominent being Posicom Inc. which was purchased by Metronet Communications in June 1998.

Mr. McCone likes the way the company thinks and hopes to help them become globally known.

"I want to help build on the company's vision. This company has a lot of good ideas. We need to bring the product to different markets and educate consumers."

Along with his new relationship with CERES, Mr McCone also sits on the board of Invidex, a Montreal-based private company which specializes in seamless world-wide point-to-point broadcast video delivery.

He's also sat on boards with Canadian Telecommunications Consulting Association and Biophage Pharma Inc.

Until 2000 he was president - marketing, wholesale, international and consumer services of AT&T Canada.

With the addition of several key figures since moving to Maxville, Ms. Jamieson (who now lives in Maxville herself) feels the North Glengarry village and the surrounding area will begin to benefit.

"The ability to restructure a company has proven to be an enormous challenge; however, many positive strides have been taken. I believe now, more than ever, in CERES' commitment to Maxville. We also believe the economic impact on the United Counties of SDG will continue to grow and prove to be a major one in coming years."

CERES' fertilizer products are made from original food or feed grade quality ingredients, using no animal or animal byproducts whatsoever.

CERES goes to Europe

In other news, CERES has announced their first introduction into Europe.

A invitation from StrawberryFrog was extended to CERES to attend meetings held in Amsterdam.

StrawberryFrog, has global clients including Sprint, Ford, Motorola, Europcar and Credit Suisse.

The United Kingdom, France and Germany are really examining the effects of conscious environmental practices in regards to their sports, recreation and retirement facilities. The preservation of the precious commodity and management of land is taken quite seriously in this space.

CERES OSTAR communications project officer Terry Besner made the trip to Amsterdam and spoke about what she experienced.

"Amsterdam is such an international hub of talent, including professionals from around the world who speak English.

"My eyes have been opened through my first trip overseas, the environment is an issue that is on people's mind here in North America and equally so in Europe.

"I believe CERES' attraction is in the fact that we are not introducing new technology but rather products that have enjoyed loyal customer support over 30 years."

Big Loeb expansion

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

Vankleek Hill – population 2,000 – now has a grocery store worthy of a much bigger community.

"It's a big-town store in a little town," said Jack Griffith, a new employee of Loeb Vankleek Hill who has 23 years of grocery experience.

Mr. Griffith was hired by Loeb owner Charles Lamoureux to help organize the store for its grand re-opening last Friday.

While the expansion is evident from outside, inside is where it really counts.

"They've doubled the amount of fresh produce. The new deli is one-quarter of the store on its own," Mr. Griffith said.

The original store had a small expansion a few years ago to enlarge the bakery and refrigerated foods. The latest increase is about triple the size.

"There's now a full bakery," he said.

The transfer of the meats and refrigerated foods to the new section also opened up more space to erect two more aisles of non-perishable items, giving considerably more choice to customers.

As an added touch, there are several murals portrayng pictorials of Vankleek Hill, including a 1940s scene of the Vankleek Hill Fair.

Susan Jaring, who runs a dairy farm household, said Vankleek Hill and area residents should have little need to go abroad for their food.

"It's breathtaking. You look around and there's a lot more of everything," Mrs. Jaring said.

Mr. Lamoureux, with his wife, Lillian, had bought the store – then with the Metro chain – in 2000 with the intention of expanding.

Clare Flowers' new owner

One of the area's longest continously operating businesses, Clare Flowers and Gifts, has had a change of ownership.

Late last summer, Sylvie Peerenboom-Willems bought the business and building on Main Street, Vankleek Hill, from Vince Leroux of Lancaster. She will also continue to operate Tastee Treets, a speciality chocolate and candy store attached to the flower store.

Mrs. Peerenboom-Willems is a native of nearby St. Eugene. She did a renovation to include a costume rental shop in the basement of the building – Sylvie's Spooks.

Bank celebrates 100 years with classy event

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

On Monday morning, a very classy event was held in Scotiabank, here.

It was the 100th anniversary celebration of the bank and at 9.30 a.m., invited guests and staff joined in honouring the success of this bank and the one before it, the Bank of Ottawa.

The members of the staff are to be complimented in their very attractive dress and in the gracious hospitality extended to all.

The bank was beautifully decorated with floral arrangements and plants of ivy, which came from St. Isidore Florists. The bowls of punch and the very attractive table of snacks were provided by Julie Graham and her staff.

Manager Debbie Carroll welcomed all when she opened the short program and briefly explained how, at Scotiabank, they believe in being part of the community as well as giving back to the community. She went on to explain that the celebration was as much about the community being served as it was about the branch's anniversary.

Mr. Robert Garneau, senior vice-president for Quebec and the Eastern Ontario Region was introduced and spoke briefly while extending congratulations to Mrs. Carroll and her staff. He also proposed a toast to mark the Bank's 100th anniversary.

Jean-Marc Lalonde, MPP and Bill Franklin, Mayor of North Glengarry, brought greetings and best wishes. Mr. Lalonde spoke glowingly of Maxville and feels that the success of the Bank is an indication that Maxville is showing great progress.

The bank has supported financially, three fund-raising programs in the last two years. Mike Villeneuve, president of the Glengarry Highland Games, Joan Siwik, chair of the Maxville Manor Foundation and Eugene Cardinal, co-ordinator of the Canadian Cancer Society's Relay for Life held at the fairgrounds, all indicated their appreciation of the financial support that had been received from the bank when certain amounts were matched.

Maxville Councillor George Currier concluded the formal program with words of praise and thanks to the Bank.

Refreshments were served throughout the day to the many customers who made a special visit or happened to be present on business.

Condolences

A well known individual in the broad community, Grant MacGillivray, died at the Manor on Sunday at the age of 96. He had been an active volunteer at the Manor for many years, and had been a resident in Glen Garden Village until poor health necessitated his move to the Manor.

Our condolences are extended to his two daughters and all other relatives and close friends.

Manor's financial picture

There have always been good reports coming out of Maxville Manor concerning the happiness of the 125 residents there. However, now there is a very good report of a technical and financial nature.

Since the Manor was built in 1968, there has been a problem with the water supply most years. Recent new provincial regulations has made it even more difficult to maintain an adequate supply.

This summer, water had to be purchased and daily, at least, one tank truck of water had to be brought in.

Now, that is all history. A new well has been dug on the Manor's property west of the creek and executive director, Craig Munro, has indicated that the well promises to supply three times the requirements of the Manor and the apartments in Glen Garden Village.

The well is 40 feet deep but the water comes up to within 18 feet of the surface. Connections will be made soon and then the water from this great well will be flowing for free in the extensive plumbing systems of the Manor and the apartments next door.

CERES news

Terry Besner, vice-president of CERES Inc., here has been in Holland recently to promote the company's organic lawn and garden fertilizer, Perfectly Natural, on the international market.

This was Terry's first overseas trip and besides enjoying that experience, she returned home to her husband, Ron, and sons, Mitchell and Cameron, feeling very encouraged with the interest shown in CERES' products. They are made from original food or feed grade quality ingredients, using no animal products.

We wish continued success to CERES as progress is made here and in the market-place far and wide.

Here at Thanksgiving

For Thanksgiving, Helen Hunter had with her, nephew Douglas MacLean with his wife, Cindy, and children Emma and Ethan from Ottawa as well as her daughter, Margaret, from Toronto.

Fifth generation family

It is a pleasure to report a five-generation family here in the village, with one living in the 5th Con. Roxborough. At age 86, Annie (Mrs Edmond) Michaud, nee Dore, heads the family and she continues to enjoy good health.

Next is her daughter, Mae (Mrs. Bill) MacLean, followed by Kathleen (Mrs. Barrie) Rolfe, her daughter, Erica, and finally, the little baby, Hannah Mae Rolfe.

By coincidence, the baby has the first name of her great-great-great-grandmother, Hannah Kinnear of Fournier.

Married

We extend best wishes to Denise Frei, third daughter and fifth child of Cecile and Ludwig, who was married at Thanksgiving time.

McIntoshs home

Bruce and Ellen McIntosh, Winnipeg, were home to visit with his parents, Ruth and Gordon, and other family members. Bruce is now retired from the RCMP and is enjoying keeping busy at activities and jobs he readily finds available.

MacKillicans visit

Bob and Audrey MacKillican, Regina, have been here visiting with his sister, Margaret Munroe, and other relatives and friends.

Halloween busy

The weather for Halloween was good and the numbers of children on the streets and calling at the homes were very large.

Just at dark, our door bell started to ring, and after 125 visitors had claimed all the candy Lorna had for them, our lights had to go off at 6:50 p.m.

The children were very polite and do respect the homes, by not ringing the door bells, after the verandah lights are turned off.

The question remains concerning the costs of all the treats handed out and the eventual use of all that received. Can the children, and possibly their parents, eat all the candy before some is thrown away?

Sympathies

A Maxville native, Fred Boisvenue, son of the late Fred and his wife Pearl Lagroix, has died in Ottawa at the age of 69. Our sympathy goes to his wife, the former Theresa Villeneuve of Moose Creek, his sisters, Leah and Carol and to all other family members.

Flu shots needed

Phyllis Burtenshaw, coordinator of volunteers at the Manor wishes to inform all volunteers that they are expected to have their flu vaccinations and afterwards, to indicate to her that this has been done.

This regulation comes from the Eastern Ontario Health Unit.

Euchre

The Young-at-Heart Seniors Euchre Club formally ended their season on Oct. 21 with a delicious roast beef dinner at the Chieftain Dining Room. Twenty-three members enjoyed this meal and the fellowship, as has been the custom for years, before adjourning to their hall in the Anglican Church for their second last euchre party of the year.

Familiar names came up for the winners' circle. Elizabeth Briere, Cecile Currier and Gloria Rolland held the highest scores for the ladies, while the top scoring gentlemen were Howard Eamon and Erwin Shields, tied for first place, Bill Johnston and Oliver Gates.

The lucky ones in the 50-50 draw were Peggy Gates, Grace Doth, Mac O'Byrne, Florence Harkin, twice, Mr. Gates, Hormidas St. John, and Nina Ryan.

Claire Flaro had her ticket drawn for the door prize.

The last party until next spring was held Monday evening.

Christmas program

On Dec. 7 at 10.30 a.m. at the Maxville Branch of the SDG Library, there will be a Christmas program for children ages three to five.

Stories, rhymes and songs to celebrate Christmas will be featured.

There is no charge but registration before that date is requested. Age is the only restriction for those attending.

Bridge

The Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor was well attended and especially enjoyed because the members were invited to Donna MacInnes' 100th birthday party for refreshments.

Charles Anderson, Barbara Lariviere and Mary Nutter earned the top scores.

Mrs. Nutter, a Manor resident, is a remarkable lady. Her memory in general isn't what it used to be, but when it comes to bridge, she is an excellent player and keeps others in line when they tend to talk too much or not follow the rules of the game.

Bird news

The best bird news I received last week was the sighting of a flock of Hungarian partridges. Let us hope they survive the winter and reproduce abundantly next spring.

Apparently, the Arctic or snowy owl is the enemy of these small partridges and they have no trouble in swooping down and catching one.

Last week, a few robins were around. It was cold with a bit of snow and I wondered why the one I watched high up on the very tip of a spruce tree wasn't flying south rather than sitting around. Maybe he was just waiting for his friends to catch up with him before they flew southward together.

"Quarries are the Pits" rallying for support from residents

By Kristina Wilson
News Reporter

Dunvegan area residents don't want an aggregate quarry in their backyards and they now know they can do something about it.

At a meeting held on Oct. 30 at the Dunvegan Recreation Centre, approximately 40 people, including "Quarries are the Pits" campaign organizer James Joyce, came out to hear David Willis of the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR).

Mr. Willis is an aggregate resources officer for the MNR. While he could not talk about the specifics of the proposed Cornwall Gravel quarry, he was able to give attendees information on pits and quarries, the licencing process and the objection process.

Mr. Willis first explained the difference between a pit and a quarry: in a pit, one removes aggregate materials above the bedrock, while a quarry means materials are excavated out of the bedrock, which entails blasting.

Residents were reassured that neither a pit nor a quarry can operate without a licence, meaning Cornwall Gravel is not about to begin blasting in the near future.

"(The licence) is strictly enforced by the MNR," Mr. Willis explained.

"There is a fine ranging from $500 to $30,000 per day. The dollar benefit of the operation can be added to the fine."

Mr. Willis also explained the three phases of the licencing process. First, a change must be made to the municipal official plan, then the quarry area is rezoned and finally the licence to operate the pit or quarry must be obtained.

The three hearings are heard together before the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB), under the Joint-Hearing Act.

Mr. Willis estimated that one in 50 decisions made by a municipality to turn down a licence application is overturned by the OMB; conversely, he has never heard of a situation where a municipality agreed to the licence only to have it turned down by OMB.

The protection of mineral aggregates is the responsibility of the municipality, Mr. Willis explained.

For those wishing to object to the application for a licence, Mr. Willis described the process in detail.

Individuals should write their objections to the applicant – Cornwall Gravel – with a copy to the MNR. The applicant's history of compliance can be checked by the OMB in reviewing the application.

All letters have to be sent both to the applicant and to the MNR, otherwise they are not considered. The deadline is Nov. 25, after which Mr. Willis will then meet with Cornwall Gravel to compare letters.

Anyone of voting age who feels they might be affected by the quarry can write.

Cornwall Gravel made its intention to apply for a licence known in a notice which appeared in The News on Oct. 9. The public has 45 days from that date to make objections.

Following the 45 day period, the applicant addresses all concerns. Mr. Willis explained that during this time, the MNR has copies of the application circulating in the office to their planner, biologist and natural heritage, lands and forestry experts for comments on the property and the application.

The applicant is then given the opportunity to resolve complaints. A 20-day period is set in which the applicant must contact all objectors and must satisfy Mr. Willis that it has done so.

Objectors may write in again if their objections haven't been resolved and another 20-day period is set.

"The onus is on the company to resolve objections," Mr. Willis said.

Mr. Willis told The News that he will not be present at the Nov. 11 North Glengarry Council meeting, during which Cornwall Gravel will make a presentation.

"That's the applicant's show," he explained.

"They will answer site plan questions, hydrogeology questions and so on.

"The MNR doesn't take sides," he added.

"We just make sure all papers are filed properly."

There is a local precedent for turning down a quarry application. Bonville, in the former Cornwall Township, defeated a proposed quarry back in the 1980s.

The next "Quarries are the Pits" meeting will be held tonight (Wednesday), 7:30 p.m., at the Dunvegan Recreation Centre.

Mr. Joyce has "No Quarry" signs that people can request for a $5 fee, to offset copying costs.

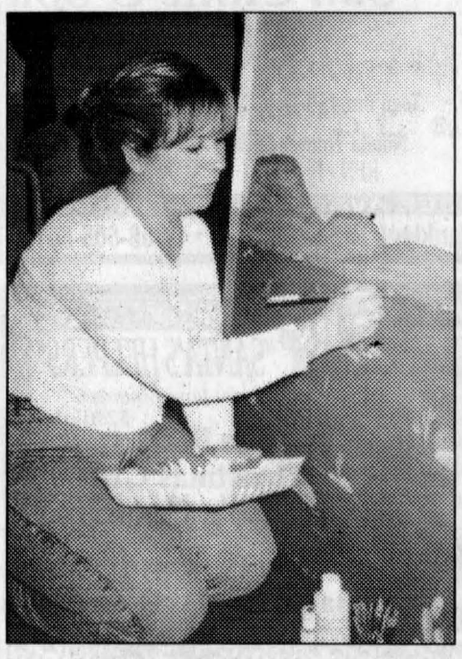
Day Sicotte expands interests



FULFILLING A REQUEST: Lyne Day Sicotte is finishing up two large panels with a Southwestern theme.

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

The 130-year-old house in South Lancaster is a perfect backdrop for Lyne Day Sicotte's folk and whimsical art work.

Like so many residents of our wonderful area, Lyne and her husband are originally from Montreal and have lived in this area for 10 years.

"We used to visit this area a lot and liked it a lot so when we found this house we jumped at the chance to move," Lyne told me.

Lyne used to work in the high tech field but it is amazing how sometimes paths get changed and for the better.

"I took a painting course locally about four years ago," Lyne said. "It was tole painting but now I use a combination of tole techniques, painterly techniques and cartoon for my work.

"Everything is done freehand and I do my own designs. I try never to do the same thing twice.

"I have always done something creative." Lyne said. "I guess it runs in the family, my dad works with wood and my brother draws."

Lyne's home is a reflection of that creative urge. Whether it is her whimsical birdhouse drapery holders, the painted bird feeders out in the front yard or just a different approach to decorating. One of the unique aspects of her work is that she will add three dimensional things to embellish her paintings. They add an interesting touch.

"I love painting on antiques," Lyne said. "I go to a lot of auctions and flea markets to find what I want. Sometimes I just find a bargain."

Ah a woman after my own heart. There is something very rewarding about finding a beat up 'thing' that someone doesn't want and giving it new life.

Back to Lyne's techniques. I hadn't realized that tole painting used such specific techniques. Some of Lyne's work does reflect her tole painting training but she mostly uses the same methods that a canvas artist uses – blending and shading. On occasion she will use a marker to outline the figures which adds character. No matter what, the end result is her own style.

"I love it," Lyne assured me. "It is a hobby still but I have started selling my work at the Lancaster Flea Market. I'm getting ready for the Christmas market and will be putting my work there for the Holiday Season."

Because Lyne paints on different surfaces, she is very careful about the preparation work. At the moment she is working on a commission; two huge metal panels for behind a fireplace. To make sure the paint stays on she carefully scrubs it with vinegar and water, paints it with a proper metal primer and then comes the fun. These panels have a Southwestern theme.

"It's fun doing something different." Lyne said. "I use my imagination for the cactus plants and other desert sights."

Besides painting, Lyne crochets, knits and is an avid gardener.

"I had thought I would go into interior decorating. But now I just decorate my own place.

Lancaster Scouts connect to the world

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT

1st Lancaster Scouts recently hosted a JOTA or Jamboree On The Air at Apple Hill Scout Reserve on the weekend of Oct. 19-20. This is an event here Scouting members can talk to other members worldwide by means of amateur radio.

Members of the West Island Amateur Radio Club and the Montreal Amateur Radio Club provided the operators and equipment.

As Leader Janet Sturrock says, "They came in with towers and all of the stuff needed for the transmission of ham radio signals."

Eight Scouting groups and two Guiding groups from Stormont/Glengarry, Odawa, Pincourt and Ile Perrot in Que., took part. From these groups over 75 participants attended this event and really enjoyed being a part of the activities in spite of the weather.

Scout Kevin Lepa, of Lancaster, had the opportunity to chat with Bob, who was actually in a boat in the Carribean. Now, I am sure that "What's the weather like there?" was part of the conversation.

Luncheon and Bake Sale

You are invited to the 2002 Christmas Luncheon and Bake Sale at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster.

"The Miracle of Christmas" is the theme for this year's Luncheon to be held on Nov. 16. From 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. you can purchase delicious home baked goods, enjoy a tasty lunch and visit with friends.

From experience I can assure you that the decorations will be lovely, the service great and the friendship warm. The menu? Quiche, various salads, rolls, dessert, tea and coffee, all for only $5!

The Children of St. Andrew's Sunday School will have their own sale of home made candy and fudge. The profits for the candy sale will go to their Mission Project.

Come and enjoy this festive and fun Christmas event.

Volunteer appreciation dinner

Some people, including Susan Stamm of Glengarry Outreach Services, have been very busy thanking volunteers. To Susan and the people at VON (Victorian Order of Nurses) it is a small way to show appreciation to those who take time to help in many ways at our local Outreach Centres.

On Oct. 30, many volunteers gathered at Lan-Char Senior's Centre in Lancaster only to enjoy the music of Gerard Cote and a delicious roast beef dinner.

This time it was the staff, including Susan Stamm, Outreach co-ordinator and assistant co-ordinators Joanne Wylie and Melissa MacDonald.

These nice ladies were serving, along with local OPP officers, Brendan MacDonald, George Johann and Bob Latreille. Margaret Bradburry, past-president of the VON Board of Directors, and Pauline Ashton, a director of that board, were also on hand to help serve a delicious meal cooked by Susan Casselmann with volunteer, Regina Terriah.

Also present as volunteers were advisory board members of Outreach Services: Lorraine Plue, Jean McLennan, Rae Spooner, and Gilles Lapointe.

Volunteers were treated to the same Appreciation Dinner in Alexandria on Oct. 25 and another dinner for the Williamstown/Martintown group will take place this Wednesday. A lot of thanking going on.

Coming up in the Lan-Char list of activities is the annual Christmas Craft Sale on Nov. 30. More news of that later.

Abigail Virginia

Among the little children baptized at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster on Oct. 27, becoming a part of the church family, was Abigail Virginia Sinden. Congratulations to Abigail's parents, Chris and Susan(Wert) Sinden and to grandparents, Les and Wendy Wert.

As well, many family members came from the Ottawa/Casselman area to help celebrate this special occasion.

The gifts that keep on giving

It characterizes our community. The generosity and spirit of cooperation of the farmers, businesses, churches, and people from all walks of life is so apparent in the Foodgrains Bank project that is starting its eighth year and is still going strong.

In seven years of this wonderful project $795,295.20 has been translated into food relief and sent to all corners of the world.

Thanks to Mackie Robertson of Bainsville and probably more people, the Foodgrain Bank is being operated in Cornwall. For their first year 17 tonnes of corn was harvested.

This year 68 acres of corn and soybeans has been planted and will soon be harvested. It starts with generous donations of seeds and fertilizers from corporate sponsors along with prudent investments in crop insurance.

Then come cash donations from 16 churches in our area as well as individual donations. On donated land, the use of farm machinery, precious time and labour, brings to fruition the final product. It could be called gold since it really buys a lot and makes a remarkable difference in this world of ours.

If you would like to view the harvesting of the crops of the Char-Lan Foodgrains Bank or to see the crops carried to Munro Agromart for storage, check local news or call chairperson, Richard Hoekstra at 347-3001 or treasurer, Elizabeth Ferguson at 347-2704. Hurry, as soon as this snow melts the harvest is on!

Christmas Competition

The Christmas Competition is still on at Rob McIntosh China. It's the same deal as the Scarecrow Festival only now the theme is Christmas. All groups and individuals are invited to register and decorate a designated spot. If at least 20 people have registered by Nov. 20 the game is on. So put on your thinking caps and join in the fun!

Business-to-Business Showcase

A bonus for our area and for local businesses it is. As I mentioned last week, the first ever South Glengarry Business-to-Business Showcase will be on Nov. 13 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Glen Walter.

Throughout the day, from 8.30 a.m. until 4 p.m. business can set up displays and promotional information. From 4.30 on it's the time to interact with the public and other businesses. All for only $10 and it's not too late to register. I hear that the response has been great so far.

The Showcase ends at 7:30 p.m. and exhibitors will be encouraged to network amongst themselves and enjoy refreshments. For info, or to register, call Marilyn at the township office at 347-1166 or Joyce Gravelle at 528-4029.

Outdoors club is very active

Outdoors activities are fun for many of us. The Cornwall Outdoor Club has many members from our area and invite you to join in the fun.

Coming up is a self-defense seminar on Nov. 6, Hiking Mount Azure in N.Y. on the 10th, and rock climbing in Ottawa on the 17th. To finish November there is a moonlight hike on Cooper Marsh on the 20th, Village walk and shopping at Westport on the 23rd and a Christmas party on the 30th, open to all. For info call Rosemarie 347-3677.

Reminders: Today (Nov. 6) is the South Glengarry Challenge at the Lancaster & District Curling Club. Open to everyone, no talent needed. Put a team together and call Les Wert at 347-3098.

Scott's free concert. Friday, at 7.30 at the St. Lawrence R.C. Parish Hall in Curry Hill. For info call Garry Stokes at 347-3929.

It was only yesterday afternoon, under a clear blue sky, in the warmth of a November sun, that I finished some garden chores for the winter. The last roses of summer were still blooming and I couldn't bring myself to cut them down. They had one last day. Unlike store bought roses they have a delicate perfume and the petals are in a jar for us to enjoy as winter approaches on a snowy Monday.

Have a super week everyone!

$600 Million in New Risk Management Funding Available for Farmers

To help farmers deal with challenges like drought and to make the move to a new generation of risk management programs, the Government of Canada has made $600 million available in new funding.

This funding will be deposited directly into your Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA).

Producers who are not currently enrolled in NISA are encouraged to file a NISA application before the deadline of December 31, 2002 in order to be eligible for this funding.

For more information, visit the NISA website at www.agr.gc.ca/nisa
or call (toll-free) 1-800-665-6472 (NISA)

NISA is a voluntary program developed jointly between producers, the Government of Canada and participating provinces. NISA is designed to help producers achieve long-term farm income stability on an individual basis.

Never too early for Christmas talk

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

There's nothing like an icing of snow to jump-start us into the Christmas season. Calendars may parade their dates in a threatening manner, and radio stations may try to point out the shrinkage of time, but it isn't until we see the flighty whities that we really get at it.

In homage to the snow, then, this week's column will give precedence to a couple of Christmas items - one past and one future.

80 members guests at Horitcultural meeting

At the last Green Thumb Horticultural Society meeting held upstairs at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre, more than 80 members and guests set about on the evening's activity - wreath making with natural greens.

Now I can't say that I was witness to the spectacle that followed, but several others were and I am told the whole process was a blast! Picture it with me, if you can: 80 wreath makers gathered around the tables, bending coat hangers, wrestling with stubborn evergreen boughs and probably "copying-off" each other.

As Walter Cartwright described it, "some people were, it can only be described as 'in combat' with a piece of cedar; others were quite expert by the end of the evening."

It must be noted that this evening was called, "making a wreath," rather than "HOW to make a wreath," and the less than professional attempts by some led to much mirth and merriment.

But ribbons and bows - if strategically placed - can hide a multitude of sins, and so it was that lopsided wreaths became Tim Horton's templates - all with a little help from a bow.

It was a most enjoyable evening by all accounts. Can't wait to see the results hanging on Williamstown (closet?) doors!

Christmas Craft Workshop

So that was Christmas past. Christmas future takes place on Nov. 16, when Janice Montreuil will conduct a Christmas Craft Workshop for children seven years and older. The workshop is being held at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre, from 12 to 2 p.m. and participants will be making Christmas angels.

Children under seven years may participate, as long as they are accompanied by an adult or older sibling who will be able to help them.

For more information, please call Anne Ward at 347-2411.

Youth Program coming soon

The Youth Program that was offered last winter is set to start again next Friday, Nov 15th at the Recreation Centre from 3 to 5 p.m and will offer skating, ping pong, foosball, and air hockey, while promoting physical fitness and friendship.

Also, in the evenings, if these youngsters would like to improve their volleyball skills, they can join the group at the high school gym at 7 pm.

Anne Ward is seeking a couple of adults who would like to sit on a committee that will help guide this Youth Program.

This committee will include several young people, and at least two other adults, besides Anne.

Anyone interested in getting involved is asked to call Anne at 347-2411.

The first meeting is scheduled for Nov. 15 at 5 p.m.

Halloween decorations, amazing

Putting back the calendar to another recent occasion warranting the decorating of buildings and bodies, I can only say that this year's Hallowe'en in Williamstown was a good one.

There were wonderful decorations - my neighbours, the Edwards and the Roberts, lured 100s of little ones up John Street with their imaginative and creative displays. There was even a glowing red-eyed bat flying around and enough tombstones to start making me a little nervous.

You just never know when those ghouls might want a real-lifer to give more authenticity to the stone!

The costumes were great this year, too, and the children the most polite encountered to date.

Only one funny note (besides the hail) and that is the little fellow who decided a house tour was more exciting than getting another bag full of candy. And got lost in the process!

Baptism takes place

More B and B's this week.That's Babies and Baptisms, for all who might have been thinking of rustic houses and gourmet breakfasts.

Quinn Kathleen Woollven, daughter of Jennifer (Walker) and David Woollven, was baptized in St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday, by Rev. Andrea Harrison.

This lucky young lady not only has four grandmothers, but four great-grandmothers as well, two of whom were in attendance at the christening on Sunday.

Quinn's aunt, Wendy Woollven, travelled from the Victoria area for the event, as did the baby and her parents. Wendy presented Quinn to the congregation following the ceremony.

Emma Kathleen Leduc was also baptized on Sunday -- another beautiful baby. She is the daughter of Heather (Baker) and Steve Leduc, and the grand-daughter of Helen and Guy Leduc, Patricia Baker, and Paul and Cathy Baker.

The baptism took place on Sunday at St. John the Evangelist Church in Lancaster, with Father Dan Howard performing the service.

Emma Kathleen is named after her great-grandmother, Kathleen Baker, of Chateau Cornwall, who was in attendance at the baptism. The baby was looking adorable in a white satin christening dress, cape and bonnet, made by her mother.

98 years and counting

I'm a day late in telling you this, but don't blame the little birdie. She got it here on time!

NORTH LANCASTER

INEZ FRANKLIN

It is always nice to see a member of the community win a prize in a local fundraiser.

Such was the case last Friday night when the winner of the North Lancaster Volunteer Fire Department's draw for a 4-wheeler was none other than a local boy, Guy Besner.

Councillors Ian McLeod and Janette Abbey were on hand to pull the winning ticket.

Guy, however, was not the evening's only winner. The good firefighters will donate $1,000 of the draw's proceeds to CHEO, the rest will be used to buy a jaws of life.

Congratulations, Guy! And many thanks on behalf of the fire department to all who supported this initiative.

The NLVFD community service rendered on Halloween night was much appreciated. In conjunction with the NL Optimist Club, department members provided street security in the metropolis while also doling out supper and candy to the young trick-or-treaters. Thanks to both these service clubs for their time and effort!

Ecole Ste Therese

The students of Ste Therese will attend a Remembrance Day Ceremony at 9 a.m. in the gym. Parents and members of the community are cordially invited to join the school members for this occasion.

Birthdays for the month at the school are: Chloe Belanger (3rd), Leah McDonell (five on the 5th: your lucky year), Irene Dubeau 9), Charles Major and Jessica Roman (28), Amanda Vachon (29). Enjoy your day!

S.J. McLeod School

Mrs. Roxane McDonell's class earned their drama credit to the delight of the Kindergarten to Grade 4 classes last Friday. The production was a modern adaptation of Cinderella, who in this case was a successful manufacturer of running shoes with no time to be a princess. Good job to all performers, and particularly to Annie Franklin, who made a fab Cinderella! (forgive my bias!).

Halloween assembly

The Halloween Assembly was a spooktacular success, with a very high rate of participation by students and staff alike. Following the costume parade each class enjoyed treats and ghastly diversions of one sort or another.

The dance for the Grade 6 to 8 pupils was reportedly very successful and congratulations go to the organizers.

The school staff issues a note of thanks to the Harvest Ball Committee for a great evening of entertainment.

The Literacy committee wishes to mention the sponsors who so generously supported the Family Literacy night. Many thanks!

The school community – parents, family, and friends – are cordially invited to join the S.J. McLeod staff and students for the Remembrance Day ceremony to be held on Monday at 10:30 a.m. Poppies are available this week in advance of the day.

Warriors hoping for volleyball title

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The SDG championships for the A high school boys volleyball divisions will be decided tomorrow.

The location of the finals depends on yesterday's semi-final action which was held in Avonmore.

Results were not available from yesterday's semi-final at press time.

Both the senior and junior division semi-finals were held at Tagwi, who finished first in the senior division with 17 points.

The Warriors were trailed by L'Heritage (15 points), Seaway (14 points) and Glengarry (12 points). Tagwi was to face Glengarry while L'Heritage played Seaway.

Char-Lan didn't finish with a playoff position this year but it's obvious that they're thrilled with the progress made after not flooring a team in six years.

"We held on for a lot of games this season and I hope the guys aren't discouraged and come back," said coach Craig Carlisle. "We have something to work with for next year."

The Lancers were trailed by La Citadelle (22 points), Seaway (21 points) and Tagwi (20 points).

North Dundas will represent SDG at the AA EOSSAA while St. Joseph's will compete in the AAA division and CCVS may choose to compete in the AAAA division.

The finals for both divisions begin today at 2 p.m. at the home of the higher ranked team from the regular season.

Glengarry's seniors sneaked into the post season after a hard fought win over Rothwell Osnabruck Oct. 30 at home.

The Gaels won two of three matches 25-21, 14-25, 25-17.

In junior action the GDHS squad lost all three to R-O 25-23, 25-18 and 25-17 and two of three to General Vanier 21-25, 25-22 and 27-25.

On Nov. 1 in Williamstown the Char-Lan seniors capped off their first season in six years losing two of three against CCVS 23-25, 25-12 and 25-7.

In their other match against Seaway they lost two of three 19-25, 25-19 and 25-22.

On Oct. 29 at St. Joseph's the Warriors senior team won two of three against St. Joe's 25-17, 25-19 and 25-27 and all three from Char-Lan 25-11, 25-11 and 25-18.

St. Joe's defeated Char-Lan in two of three games 25-12, 23-25 and 25-7.

In junior action Tagwi won two of three against St. Joe's 25-22, 25-21 and 17-25 and all three against Char-Lan 25-21, 25-17 and 25-19.

The junior St. Joe's team won all three from Char-Lan 25-10, 25-20 and 25-17.

Strikers and Stars blast the opposition

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The IT Store Strikers took total control of their game against Char-Lan United last week in South Glengarry Indoor Soccer League women's action.

The Strikers scored early and often en route to a 8-0 win.

Theresa Davis and Andree Beaupre with two each, Julie Lessard, Kyleen Mulligan, Dominique Morin and Lynn Montroy scored in the win.

In the other contest the Stars had their way with the Char-Lan Dazzle.

The Stars were led by Vanessa VanSleeuwen and Michelle Owen who both scored hat tricks in a 7-0 victory.

Christine Sandilands had the other Stars goal.

VanSleeuwen was named player of the game.

Glengarry Soccer League

In the north the Atlantic turned in a 3-1 win over Glen Sandfield in Glengarry Soccer League action.

Majella Turcotte responded in the loss.

In the other match the Northerners defeated the Springers 6-1.

Lori St. Denis and Lori MacMaster each scored twice and Andrea Blaine and Christine Villeneuve added singles.

Kate MacLeod scored for the Springers.

The mens' leagues in the south and north will begin this week with results posted in next weeks News.

Glens fall apart in third period

In the second period the two teams played to a 1-1 draw as Ben Desnoyers scored his second of the game for Alexandria and Matt Bailey replied for the Lions.

Morrisburg's Jason Denio had three first period assists before being ejected from the game in the second period.

Simon Pierre Lamoureux started the game in between the pipes for Alexandria but was pulled after the fourth Lions' goal just 4:18 into the first period.

"It wasn't because of his play," said Menard.

Although the Glens would have liked to see two wins rather than one Menard said he was happy with seeing the scoring spread out in the two games.

Glens notes:

This weekend the Glens host the Kemptville 73s Friday night at 8:30 p.m. at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

On Saturday they travel to Char-Lan for a 7:45 p.m. start against the Rebels.

"Right now every game is important," said Menard.

"First to last is only six points"

Glens forward Louis Brisson sat out his last of a four game suspension Sunday afternoon. Menard expects Brisson to make an impact in his return this weekend.

"I think his mind is back in the game. He stayed away for the first weekend and was at both games this weekend. Maybe he'll get his edge back and play a smart game. Maybe he's realized that there's still competition for spots."

Morrisburg's Garlough is tied for the league lead in scoring with Char-Lan's Steve Jarvo and Kemptville's Adam Spirk.

The Glens are hoping to shore up their roster to have four lines by the end of the season.

The team plays mostly with three units right now and would like a fourth line to both provide stiff competition between the lines concerning ice time and to help alleviate the clubs problem with inconsistency.

Andre Neveu continues to skate with the Smiths Falls Bears of the Central Junior A Hockey League but Menard said he may return to the Glens soon.

Leo Legault has been helping the Glens behind the bench over the past couple of weeks acting as the team's trainer at home games.

Rebels need work in front of net

Last Thursday (Nov. 1) only 12 players reported to the Rebels' practice. Fontaine used the extra ice time to have his players work on shooting on net.

The team has scored just seven goals in the past three games but Fontaine is willing to take the good with the bad.

"We had a very good defensive game Sunday. We're having a hard time in front of the net. I'm not sure if they're rushing or panicking. The best thing is to just keep shooting. We had one of the highest scoring teams before our three losses so I'm not worried."

The Wolves' roster includes a group of former Rebels' affiliates including: Glenn Belmore, Devin Bancroft, Brent Lariviere, Patrice Brunet and Steve Viezel.

According to league stats, Steve Jarvo remains in a tie for first place in the scoring race at 25 points with Morrisburg's Adam Spirk and Morrisburg's Wayne Garlough.

Challenge Cup goes to Crusaders-Saints

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The first annual Brian Filion Memorial Challenge Cup games were both played under very sportsmanlike conditions, just as the former soccer coach would have expected his teams to play.

Filion, a long-time influence on and off the field to many young adults, would have been proud to see four strong teams competing last week at Glengarry District High School according to his assistant coach and friend Glen Campbell.

"I think all who were involved approached the games in a friendly manner," said Campbell.

"It was good to see the Filion family out and the Char-Lan presentation was very sportsmanlike."

The Crusaders, who knocked off Campbell's senior squad in the SDG A schools championships at Glengarry two weeks ago, gave flowers to the Filion family prior to their 3-0 win over the AA schools champion St. Joseph's.

Crusaders' coach Paul Carriere told The News last week that he was just hoping for a good showing in the Challenge Cup game.

"We're going to play everyone and it would be nice if we could tie."

Char-Lan now has bragging rights as the best senior boys' soccer team in SDG for the next year.

Junior Cup

According to Saints' coach and league convenor Al Merrizzi, the win by the AA school was greatly because of the efforts of a couple of Glengarrians.

Martintown's Rhys Paquette and Ryan Seale each had a hand in the victory.

Both midfielders, Seale scored the first goal of the game and Paquette setup the other two scored by Justin Lowery and Chris Champagne.

Merrizzi was happy the Challenge Cup games could be arranged.

"It's nice to see who the overall champion is. That's the way it used to be two years ago. This is our first SDG championship since 1986."

Merrizzi likened his team to that of a traditional Filion coached group.

"We didn't have a yellow card all season. It's fitting that we finish that way in the Brian Filion Memorial Cup. That's the type of team he coached. He enforced gentlemanly play. It was always a pleasure to play against his teams, even though we usually lost."

The Eastern Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association championships for all four schools will be held next spring.

Farley's win in battle of goalies

BY TODD ANDERSON
Sports Editor

Not much was written on the scoresheet covering the game between Farley Windows and Lacombe Custom Work of the North Glengarry Broomball League.

That's because the game played Sunday at the Osie Villeneuve Arena in Maxville was played to a 1-0 victory for Farley's.

Each team was handed out three penalties.

It's too bad saves aren't recorded in the league because goaltenders Eric Hurtubise (Lacombe's) and Randy Cousineau (Farley's) were obviously the stars of the game.

The lone goal came off the broom of Victor Sarrault just under three minutes into the game.

Robert Seguin had the assist.

In the other match last week Dave's Drywall ran their record to 4-0 after clobbering the Matco Masters 7-0.

It was a balanced attack for Dave's as Gary St. Pierre was the only multi-goal scorer with two.

Ouderkirk had three assists in the game and Dave Coir, Steve Norman and Jamie Norman each handed out two.

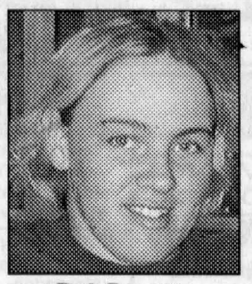
Depratto making best of opportunity

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Glen Nevis resident Beth Depratto is making strides with the Ottawa Raiders of the Women's National Hockey League.

Depratto started the season playing defence but has played on the left wing for the past four games and is helping out with timely goals.



Beth Depratto

On Sunday the two teams met again and Depratto scored a goal and an assist in a 4-1 victory.

With the two wins the Raiders have moved past Quebec for first place in the east division at 5-6-0.

On Oct. 27 the Raiders defeated the Montreal Wingstars 4-0.

Depratto scored her first goal of the season in that game.

The team is back on the ice Thursday night in Montreal but it's unlikely that Depratto will be in the lineup.

She collided with a Avalanche player Sunday and fell heavily to the ice and banged her head.

She also hurt her back on the play and will need some rest before suiting up again.

The 20-year-old played with the Ottawa University Gee Gees last season where she was scouted by the Raiders.

She began her hockey career in the Alexandria Minor Hockey League system.

Nielsen an all-star

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Alexandria's Eric Nielsen received a great honour last week when he was named an all-star in the Atlantic University Football Conference (AUFC).

The 20 year old Kinesiology student, had a standout year as a cornerback with the Acadia Axemen this year.

Nielsen was ranked second in the AUFC and seventh in the entire Canadian Interuniversity Sport (CIS) in interception with four.

He also had two recovered fumbles (which was the most in the AUFC) and 12 tackles.

The Axemen season came to an end Saturday when they lost in the division semi-finals to St. Francis Xavier.

The Axemen finished with a record of 4-4-0 in the regular season.

GLEN ROBERTSON
COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

Anyone who has a close-up of a baby photo (up to two years old) of themselves, their children or grandchildren who preferably still live in the Glen, please bring your photos in to Father Eric. Deadline is on Nov. 17.

Don't worry about your photo as it will be returned to you. Only one will be chosen and it will be published in January in a pro-life paper "The Interim" which is based in Toronto. So, start looking for baby pictures and have fun doing it as it will certainly revive fond memories.

Sympathies

Sincere sympathy to the family of Marcelle Ethier who died last week after a lengthy illness. Funeral mass will be celebrated this Saturday at St. Martin-Of-Tours at 11 a.m. with interment in Ste. Justine de Newton.

Bingo winners

Bingo winners of last Sunday were Colette Dumont who won the mystery game, Dianne Larocque, the bonanza and Alice Desjardins, Mariette Ménard and Lise Rozon who shared the jackpot.

Next bingo will be on Dec. 1 and anyone who will bring non-perishable food for the Christmas baskets will receive a free bonanza. One minute of silence was observed at the bingo for Alice Maheu who passed away last month.

The second $1,000 Optimist draw was held cand the lucky winner was Mélanie Sonnel with Marcel Deschamps as seller.

Euchre

Euchre winners of Oct. 29 were Mance Ménard, Huguette Séguin, Rolland Paquette, Rita Chartrand and Betty McDonell. Annette Lyman, Isobel MacLennan and Aline Ménard were also winners as well as 50/50 recipients.

Carmen Girard was also a 50/50 winner while the skunk went to Lilly Rozon and the door prize to Aimé Théoret. Birthday of the month prize went to Perle Poirier.

Next euchre will be on Nov. 12 at the centre at 8 p.m. Welcome to all!

Operation Christmas Child

Looking to help others around the holidays? Still time to drop in at St. Joseph's School and just take a box and fill it with small gifts, school supplies and hygiene items. You choose your gifts for a boy or a girl and you select an age category 2-4,5-9,10-14.

Return your box at the school before Nov. 14. This very small gesture will help underprivileged children in Central and South America, West Africa and Southeast Asia where they are victims of war, famine, natural disaster or extreme poverty who wouldn't otherwise get Christmas gifts.

Other projects that can help others is called the gift of sight which is a joint effort by LensCrafters, doctors and associates who work with the Lions Club International to collect and recycle old glasses and provide new glasses to pre-selected needy people in their stores and two mobile vans which visit countries with many poor people who would not otherwise have glasses.

In Aug. 2001, a milestone was reached when, during a mission to Bolivia, the two millionth pair was given away and the goal of LensCrafters is to give the gift of sight to three million people around the world by 2003.

Bring your old glasses to the Glengarry Memorial Gift Shop and help someone receive the gift of sight. You can also donate pop tabs from soft drink cans and to date they have collected 40-25 pound bags. They also collect Farm Boy receipts which gives the hospital one per cent of the total value. You can give your pop tabs and receipts at the gift shop.

Christmas bazaar

Circle this date on your calendar – Nov. 30 – when the annual Christmas bazaar with a lot of nice things and goodies will be held for sale at the parish hall plus a draw of one $100. and two $50. More details later!

Halloween

Halloween was pretty quiet around the Glen. A few Optimist members provided security in town making sure that all the children were safe and they distributed a chip, soft drink and chocolate bar to every child that went by the dépanneur Basic Needs.

Laurier-Carrière news

Grade 5 and 6 students will participate in "The race against drugs" organized by the optimist clubs, the OPP and the health bureau on Nov. 6 at the military base in Cornwall. The young people have to be sensitized to say no to all forms of drugs. The cost of the bus will be paid by the Optimist Clubs.

On Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, a celebration will take place at the school in memory of all those who contributed to peace in the world and in our beautiful country.

On Nov. 12, three college students will be at the school to give a first aid course adapted to Grade 5 to 8. Every Tuesday, CHOD FM 92.1 will give news of the different Catholic schools of the region.

Director Mme. Gisèle is preparing her chronicle which will air on Nov. 25. Every morning at 7:50 a.m., CHOD annouces the birthdays and your children would surely be glad to hear their names mentioned on the radio. This station is the radio of the Franco-Ontariens!

CHOLETTE, Claire– In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away November 3, 1998.
Four years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away.
Loved in life, honoured in death,
Treasured in memory, one of the best.
–Sadly missed and always remembered by the Cholette family. 45-1p

ST.LOUIS, Blanche–In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother and great-grandmother who passed away one year ago November 8, 2001.
Life seems so empty without you,
I deeply miss your caring, loving ways,
Your beautiful smile, calming voice,
And your many years of wisdom.
You are always in our hearts.
I miss and love you so much.
–Love forever, Rose, Frederick and family. 45-1p

PERIARD – A tribute to a very special father, Roger Periard, by his son Luc, on this, the 5th Anniversary of his death on November 9, 1997.
He was a good, kind-hearted man
Who always loved lending a helping hand
He had a deep love for God and family life
Also for his children and his beautiful wife.
The years we shared, I fondly remember
And the good times we had, I still treasure.
All those memories are in my heart forever
Till we are all reunited in heaven together.
I still miss his warmth, his smiling face
With his love of life, the world was a better place
He surpassed himself to help those in need
Yes, he was a very good friend indeed.
I will remember my father as a man with a great big heart
Who was gentle and humble right from the start.
I still recall how he loved to laugh and took life in stride
I will keep his memory alive with great pride. 45-1p

TOWNSHIP OF NORTH GLENGARRY CLASS ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT PHASE 2 NOTICE WATER SUPPLY FOR THE TOWN OF ALEXANDRIA PUBLIC COMMENT INVITED

The Township of North Glengarry with the assistance of the Waterworks Committee and the Raisin Region Conservation Authority is conducting an Environmental Assessment for the Town of Alexandria Water Supply.

The Town of Alexandria in the Township of North Glengarry has a history of water supply problems associated with periodic shortages. The primary objective of the Environmental Assessment process is to identify and examine alternative solutions that would provide the Town with a safe sustainable potable water supply. The Township is now evaluating alternatives available for the residents of Alexandria to address the water supply problem. Raising the water level in Middle Lake and constructing reservoir storage are some of the alternatives being considered.

In accordance with the requirements for projects under the Municipal Class Environmental Assessment process, the Township is making preliminary study material available for public review.

On the 14th day of November 2002, between the hours of 2:00 and 4:00 pm and 7:00 and 9:00 pm, the public is invited to attend a PUBLIC OPEN HOUSE AND PRESENTATION at the municipal office in Alexandria. Presentations will be conducted at 2:00 pm and at 7:00 pm. The Township's consultants for the project will be available to discuss issues and concerns with members of the public.

Further information is available by contacting the Township Office, or the consultant's office: The Thompson Rosemount Group Inc., 1345 Rosemount Avenue, Cornwall, Ontario K6J 3E5, telephone number 613-933-5602; attention Mr. Bill Knight, P.Eng., Vice-President.

This notice issued on the 5th day of November, 2002.

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of North Stormont

We have audited the consolidated statement of financial position of the Corporation of the Township of North Stormont as at December 31, 2001, and the consolidated statements of financial activities and changes in financial position for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Township's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation of the Township of North Stormont as at December 31, 2001 and the results of operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles disclosed in note 1 to the financial statements.

Origin of The Highland Society of Glengarry

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

The Highland Society of Canada (the original name of The Highland Society of Glengarry) came into being, as the records show, at "a meeting of some Highland Gentlemen. . . holden at the house of Angus Macdonell near the church of St. Raphael's in the County of Glengarry on Tuesday the 10th day of November 1818 for the purpose of establishing in Canada a branch of the Highland Society of London. . ." Later meetings were held at Gray's Inn at McMartin's Mills (Martintown), Wood's Inn, Mrs. Bruce's at Cornwall and Ranald MacDonell's Glencoe House at Williamstown. The eight founding life members paid a subscription of 20 pounds sterling each (a substantial sum in those days). They were Simon MacGillivray (North West Company, of London), Hon. William McGillivray of Montreal, Hugh McGillis ("The Laird") of Williamstown, Archibald McLellan of the NWC, Duncan McDonell (Greenfield), Col. Alexander McMillan, Simon Fraser (the explorer) of St. Andrew's and John McDonell of Ft. Dauphin. In a narrative by Archibald McLean, still preserved at the National Archives of Canada along with the papers of the Society, we read:

"The objects of the Highland Society ... were first for preserving the Language, Martial Spirit, Dress, Music and Antiquities of the ancient Caledonians and thus maintaining a band of union and association of Highlanders wherever they should meet... The Language on which the deeds of his forefathers were celebrated and the music which animated him in the day of battle..."

The officers of 1818 were: President (honorary), His Excellency Sir Peregrine Maitland (Lt. Governor of Upper Canada). Vice-presidents: The Rev. Alexander MacDonell (the future "Big Bishop"); the Hon. Col. Neil MacLean, Lt. Col. Donald Mcdonell: Treasurer, Alexander Fraser, Esq.; secretary, Archibald MacLean, Esq: Directors, Dr. Roderick McLeod, Alexander McLean, Esq; Alexander Wilkinson, Esq.

The Society was revived in 1843 under the presidency of John MacDonald of Garth expressly to erect a tablet at St. Raphael's "to the memory of Bishop Alexander MacDonell, a founding member and the first Roman Catholic bishop of Upper Canada".

The terms "gentleman" or "esquire" as applied to the founding members of the Highland Society were not simply meaningless forms of speech as are used today but meaningful and important definitions 200 years ago. Esquire, from which comes the minor title "squire" was honoured more in England and Ireland than in Scotland. In the Gaelic Highlands, the term for "gentleman" was duin'uasal, pronounced something like "dunyuh-wasal" and it had real meaning. A duin'uasal was, next to a chief, the most important man in the clan, usually a "tacksman", the middle man between chief and ordinary clansman, who leased large tracts of land from the chief and rented it out in smaller lots called "tacks" to the other clanspeople. In the case of the larger clans such as the MacDonells of Glengarry, the Campbells or the MacLeods, the clan chief was usually a remote figure but the tacksmen were their neighbours, the officers in the clan regiments and the leaders who often went with their tenants when they emigrated. The prominence and social position of the tacksmen did not depend on wealth but on ancestry, on which the Gaels based all their support.

Today the word "clannishness" is often used as an offensive term but to a Highlander it was completely natural. The MacGillivrays of the North West Company were close relatives of the old Nor'Wester Simon MacTavish and many of the leaders of the NWC were related. In 1818, the Highland Society had not yet been swallowed up by the Hudson's Bay Co. and many of the partners of the NWC moved between the Montreal headquarters and Greater Glengarry, where they hoped to acquire the estates they had been denied in Scotland. An example of this was the estate of John MacDonald of Garth, "Inverarden" near Cornwall. From him through his son-in-law Duncan Campbell are descended Grant Campbell and his late brother Atholl Breadalbane Campbell of Glengarry.

Probably the most illustrious and certainly the most influential founding member of the Highland Society was the remarkable Alexander Macdonell, priest of St. Raphael's and, eventually, the first Catholic bishop of Upper Canada.

The present-day Highland Society of Glengarry is an unofficial grouping of various groups in Glengarry and has resulted, over the past 10 years, in the founding of the award-winning Glengarry Gaelic Choir, the Glengarry Gaelfolk and the Daughters of Glengarry and the teaching of Gaelic song and language to adults and children. The aims of the original Highland Society are still being maintained in today's Glengarry as the slogan of the Society proclaims Dileas Gu Bràth, Faithful Forever.

Two murals now grace the walls of the daycare classroom, thanks to artist Angie Demers and Le Centre culturel "Les trois p'tits points...," which operates the facility within the school.

Ms. Demers was approached by her sister, Brigitte Demers, an educational assistant with the day care centre. The work was completely voluntary, with supplies provided by Le Centre culturel.

A variety of well-known Disney figures, including classic characters such as Mickey Mouse, Tigger and Pinocchio are joined by new favorites like Tarzan, The Little Mermaid and Buzz Lightyear in scenes depicting the four seasons.

New president calls for more atrractions

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

Maxville area dairy man and cash cropper Jack Fraser was voted in as president of the Kenyon Agricultural Society.

Mr. Fraser took over from Eric Metcalfe – now past-president – at the society's annual general meeting last Friday at the Glengarry Curling Club in Maxville.

Mr. Fraser thanked the efforts of directors and rank and file volunteers, but also made a call for more volunteers.

He said society needs to review the Maxville Fair to ensure it remains an attractive event.

He suggested the fair could improve by trying some different approaches.

These include: showcasing more kinds of livestock and animals and welcoming heritage exhibits such as antique farm equipment.

He said the fair could also use more handicraft displays and demonstrations.

Before the election, past-president, Mr. Metcalfe reviewed the financial picture.

He noted that both expenses and revenues jumped significantly.

The biggest expenses out of their control were electricity and insurance, which went up more than $5,500 combined.

The society spent almost double the amount for building and land repairs, $21,338 from $11,157.

Miscellaneous expenses also doubled to $8,388.

Covering these costs was the revenue generated from hosting the RCMP Musical Ride, which pulled in $5,610.

Sponsorship was also lucrative, tripling to $11,155.

Overall, the good news was the financial statement read a surplus of over $3,700. In 2001, there was a shortfall of almost $12,000.

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority (RRCA) got a shot in the arm last week when the Ontario Great Lakes Renewal Foundation (OGLRF) presented two cheques totalling $195,000.

Sally Barnes, board member for the OGLRF made the presentation to Perry Lalonde, chair of the RRCA during a speech to the Rotary Club of Cornwall.

To improve the quality of water flowing into the St. Lawrence Area of Concern, $125,000 will assist with the reconstruction of the Fly Creek Stormwater Pond. The remaining $70,000 will help promote area agricultural best practices under the Lake St. Francis/St. Lawrence River Tributary Restoration Program.

In addition, Ducks Unlimited Canada has contributed $25,000 in cash and in kind expertise toward the Fly Creek project.

"We are extremely pleased that the Ontario Great Lakes Renewal Foundation is supporting these two crucial rehabilitation programs," Mr. Lalonde said.

"The Fly Creek project provides a unique opportunity to redesign and retrofit a flood control pond for demonstration purposes, while the Lake St. Francis/St. Lawrence program is a tremendous incentive for local landowners to control nutrient flow into local water courses."

The Lake St. Francis/St. Lawrence River Tributary Restoration Program primarily serves as an incentive to promote agricultural best practices at controlling bacteria pollution that can flow into area watercourses.

Included among the facilities that have been constructed and maintained are seven manure storage facilities, one milk house wash water facility, four alternative water supply projects, various habitat planting sites and eight tile drain project sites.

This incentive program consists of ongoing voluntary activities in the community to promote agricultural best practices. A number of promotional efforts in the community, including an annual landowner appreciation luncheon, have served to significantly raise the profile of these activities.

In her remarks to the Cornwall Rotary Club, Ms. Barnes noted that the foundation's funding program is making a difference.

"The Collingwood Area of Concern was delisted in 1998. Now, a second area, Severn Sound, is ready to be delisted," she said.

The foundation focuses on restoring the remaining 15 Areas of Concern that were identified in the 1987 Water Quality Agreement, which was jointly agreed to by Canada and the US as the most severely degraded areas on the Canadian side of the Great Lakes.

Bridge financing cheques sent out

The Ernie Eves government has delivered the first of approximately 50,000 cheques, totaling more than $72 million in bridge funding directly to hard-pressed farmers, Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food Helen Johns announced recently.

This financial assistance is Ontario's 40 per cent share of the first year of a two-year federal-provincial bridge funding initiative. This short-term aid will assist the agriculture industry's move to the longer-term approach to business risk management and industry renewal set out in the Agricultural Policy Framework.

"The Eves government is strongly committed to the long-term success of Ontario's agriculture industry," said Ms. Johns. "We have an excellent relationship with the farm and commodity leaders of this province. By continuing to work together, I am confident that we will be successful in our pursuit of greater stability and sustainability."

Payments to grain and oilseed producers, based on Market Revenue Insurance information, are being delivered by AGRICORP this week. The second installment of the Ontario Bridge Funding Payment program will be mailed to eligible Net Income Stabilization Account program participants next week.

"By early November, eligible producers in Ontario will have received their share of the Ontario Bridge Funding Payment program," said Ms. Johns. "Ontario's farm leaders recommended a direct payment such as this as the most effective and efficient way to deliver the assistance to those farmers who need it most. I'm pleased that the government was able to act on that recommendation."

Lalonde gets PC nod

A Cornwall City employee with a family background in municipal politics will be the Progressive Conservative standard bearer for the riding of Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh in the next provincial election.

Although this is his first run at public office, Mr. Lalonde has been very active in the local Tory association.

His father and brother have served on Cornwall council.

Mr. Lalonde is now forming a campaign team to snatch back part of the riding once represented by former PC cabinet minister Noble Villeneuve.

When the Cornwall-Charlottenburgh and Stormont-Dundas-East Grenville ridings were amalgamated, incumbent Liberal John Cleary narrowly defeated Mr. Villeneuve.

Mr. Cleary will retire after a 30-year career in municipal and provincial politics once an election is called.

A Liberal candidate will be chosen from four nominees, Denis Sabourin, Jim Brownell, Debra Proulx and Brian Lynch, at a yet to be announced riding convention.

World Guinness Record Plowing
MASSEY FERGUSON 8280

August 2002 – The MF 8280 plowed through the world plowing record by plowing under 620.899 acres (251.376 ha) of French fields in only 24 hours. At 23.056 acres per hour, the 387 hp MF 8280 outdid the previous record holder, a 425hp Case IH Quadrac by nearly 4 acres per hour. The 8280 with its 17 bottoms plowed at 27.35 cm depth (about 10.5 inches) compared to 27 cm depth of the previous winner.

"Our MF 8280 plowed faster and even a little deeper than the previous record holder and did so with fewer horsepower. Much of the credit for the record-breaking run goes to an outstanding engine and transmission. The key to success was the integrated control system that made it possible for the operator to utilize every available horsepower to its maximum potential. That is as true in a corn field in Iowa or a wheat field in Alberta as it is in a world plowing contest in France."

The record-breaking effort was made on a 1760-acre (800 ha) vegetable farm near the village of Sanguinet, Bordeaux in southwest France and monitored by official judges from the Guinness Book of Records.

Electronic linkage control (ELC) provided precise yet flexible control of front and rear plows to match operating conditions perfectly. The standard rear linkage control was coupled to the Front Dual Control System to provide exact depth control of the front and rear units. The ELC integrated with the onboard Datatronic II monitored for and adjusted wheel slip throughout the event to ensure maximum traction, efficient fuel use and greatest overall performance. "This was more than just a plowing contest," explains Eric Raby, Vice President, Sales/North America. "The success of the MF 8280 demonstrated Massey Ferguson power, performance and reliability. More importantly, it tested every aspect of tractor, plow, ties, oil and fuel under extreme conditions."

•Peter and Dona Addison, St. Elmo Road, lost their barn and a shed to fire on Sunday morning. Twenty-five head of beef bulls perished as did 200 chickens just ready for market.

•Approximately 350 people turned up to hear Alexandria municipal candidates debate at the Glengarry Sports Palace last Wednesday.

•Lochiel farmer Maurice Jeaurond lost 11 grade cows on Monday when they were struck by an eastbound CNR passenger train.

TEN YEARS AGO
Wednesday, November 4, 1992

•A claim to pay $100 for a sheep killed by wolves on the farm of Vernon Phillips was okayed by Kenyon council, the third animal felled in a month.

•Grant Cameron, Lancaster, was presented the Ontario Agricultural Society Service Award. Merit awards were presented to Coleman MacDonald and his brother, Milton MacDonald, while Margo Patrick was acknowledged as this year's recipient of the Premier Exhibitor's Award.

•Glengarry Memorial Hospital's administrative staff has become the first victim of cost-cutting measures. The hospital board has adopted a blanket salary freeze of administrative salaries for 1992-93 as part of a long-term cost-cutting package aimed at saving up to $100,000 this budget year.

•Ralph Williamson, Maxville, was honoured recently for having the highest marks in his graduating class of Architectural Engineering Technology for Working Drawings, 1992 at Algonquin College. His wife Julie, parents Beth and Don and grandparents Chris and George Chase attended the event.
