Fire chief rejects offer

Mediation talks between North Glengarry Township and legal counsel representing former Alexandria Fire Chief Gerald Charlebois are ongoing.

Reeve Grant Crack and solicitor Alan MacKinnon met with Charlebois' lawyer Heather Williams of Nelligan and Power last month.

Charlebois has launched an unlawful dismissal suit against the township. He was fired last December when council described Charlebois' actions as "a total lack of respect for and caused embarrassment to the council of North Glengarry."

Crack said a settlement offer was made to Williams, but it was rejected.

Fire destroys three buildings

Arson is suspected to be the cause of one or more fires that destroyed a house, shed and barn early Tuesday morning at a North Glengarry Township property.

Alexandria Fire Station personnel arrived first at the 1170 County Road 34 residence halfway between McCrimmon Corners and Vankleek Hill. They were alerted at about 4:30 a.m. by a passing motorist.

The firefighters could do little but contain the blaze from spreading.

Ontario Provincial Police came to the scene and have begun an investigation led by Sergeant Steve Waite, assisted by Detective Constable Gaston Thibodeau and Const. Mark Zulinski.

The Ontario Fire Marshall office will also be assisting.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the property owner has not been identified.

Value of the buildings is not known at this time.

Library hosts readings

The Alexandria branch of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Library will be hosting readings for children aged three to 5. The library will have readings in English every Wednesday in November from 10:30 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. and in French on two Saturdays, Nov. 20 and Dec. 18, at the same times. Council seeks public input into local government

By Derek Gordanier
News Editor

North Glengarry Township will ask its residents for their views on the future of local municipal government.

But whether the consultation will take the form of a referendum or plebiscite remains to be seen, said councillor-at-large Gilles Paradis, whose resolution launched the process last week.

A trend at Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry council toward single-tier government is behind council's decision to draw the public into the debate, said Paradis.

"There's basically a motion at counties to have the...executive committee to look into a one-tier united counties government," Paradis said.

That motion was defeated, but Paradis said it indicates an undercurrent of support at counties council for larger, amalgamated governments.

Now council wants to know how township residents feel about the issue.

Residents will be asked to submit their views in writing on the future of municipal government by March 1, in time for a referendum or plebiscite to be held in conjunction with the November 2000 municipal elections.

The lack of consultation in the lead-up to North Glengarry Township amalgamation was a sore point with many voters and Paradis said

Pause two minutes for peace

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

The Royal Canadian Legion is asking all Canadians from coast-to-coast to pause for two minutes of silence at 11 a.m. on Remembrance Day, instead of the one-minute pause.

Alexandria Royal Canadian Legion Branch 423 public relations officer Joan MacDonald hopes the additional 60 seconds will get more people to consider the devastation of war.

"If they don't stop and think we'll have it again (world war), " she says.

The number of war veterans is decreasing every year and MacDonald fears the next generation will have no concept of the consequences of a world war.

The Legion says that this century has been the most violent period in human history. More than 1.4 million Canadians joined the military and merchant navy and over 116,000 lost their lives.

The Alexandria Legion will be holding its Remembrance Day parade on Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. The ceremony will begin at the Cenotaph, located north of the Glengarry District- Le Relais school, and make its journey to the Legion's headquarters on Elgin Street. The 2nd Alexandria Scouts will be joining the parade.

The legion will be holding a ceremony at their headquarters on Nov. 11 at 11 a.m. Local schools are invited to take part.

South ceremonies

Remembrance Day services will be held on Nov. 7 in the south end.

Williamstown's service is at 11:15 a.m. while Lancaster's runs at 2 p.m.

The Legion's headquarters in Lancaster will be hosting an open house throughout the day.

Local war veterans will be visiting Char-Lan District High School, S. J. MacLeod Public School and Williamstown Public School on Nov. 11 to take part in the ceremonies.

Soil expenses split between Lochiel, MacSweyn family

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Lochiel ward property owners will be on the hook for an additional $9,667 to pay for some of the MacSweyns' $39,000 soil work bill at the R.F. MacLennan Drain.

Drainage Referee Delbert O'Brien ruled that most of the additional soil rejuvenation costs should be the MacSweyn family responsibility.

The MacSweyns wanted all their expenses to be covered, in excess of $17,000 that was allotted last year.

Last May, the MacSweyns hired contractors for $26,456 and used their own equipment and staff at a cost of $12,604.

To date, $7,665 of the $17,000 had been spent to authorize a soil study and report. The remaining $9,335 will be used up by the MacSweyn's bill.

On Oct. 18, O'Brien ordered that "an additional allowance of $10,000 be granted to the (Rondo, Barry and the Estate of Ralph MacSweyns) and charged to the municipal drain."

North Glengarry Township Reeve Grant Crack said one-third of this allowance could be funded by the provincial government.

O'Brien also ruled "that an additional allowance of $3,000 with respect to the private tile of the drain be granted to the MacSweyns and charged to the municipality of North Glengarry."

This order was issued to deal with the MacSweyn's request that a study commence to determine the status of their private tiles and connections.

Crack said the $3,000 will be given to the MacSweyns to be used at their discretion, if and when any tile problems arise.

During the September hearing, the MacSweyns wanted an investigative study to take place to determine the status of their private tile drains and connections to the MacLennan Drain.

O'Brien also ordered "that legal counsel provide written submissions with respect to the matter of costs."

Crack thought the ruling was in favour of the township, saying the latest ruling only penalizes Lochiel ratepayers for one-third of the cost.

Lochiel Ratepayers Association president Howard Noble differed.

"(The MacSweyns) did fairly well on allowances," he said, considering much of the work performed was aimed to please the MacSweyns.

North Glengarry council has already specified that all costs associated with the MacLennan Drain would be borne by Lochiel ratepayers.

This latest ruling increases the total cost to Lochiel ratepayers to about $360,000, which includes MacSweyns' damages, lawyer fees and reconstruction of the drain.

Crack maintains the township pursued the right course as it rectified the long-standing conflict.

Township signs carry a $19,000 price tag

By Derek Gordanier
News Editor

Signs worth more than $19,000 will rise up around North Glengarry Township as council sets about building a post-amalgamation identity for the municipality.

Nancy Beaudette of Cornwall-based Sign It last week won the contract to construct laminate California redwood signage for North Glengarry Township's municipal office, Alexandria, Maxville and the hamlets of Apple Hill, Dalkeith and Glen Robertson.

The 1.2 by 2.4 metre (four-by-eight foot) signs for the municipal building and Alexandria carry the largest price tag at $3,290 and $1,995 respectively while the slightly smaller village signs (1.2 by 1.8 metres) cost $1,500 each.

Logo

The municipal building will bear a single sign while two signs will be posted in each town and village for a total cost of $19,280, not including installation.

Money for the project will be taken from the township's community development fund. Signage for other villages will be included in next year's budget.

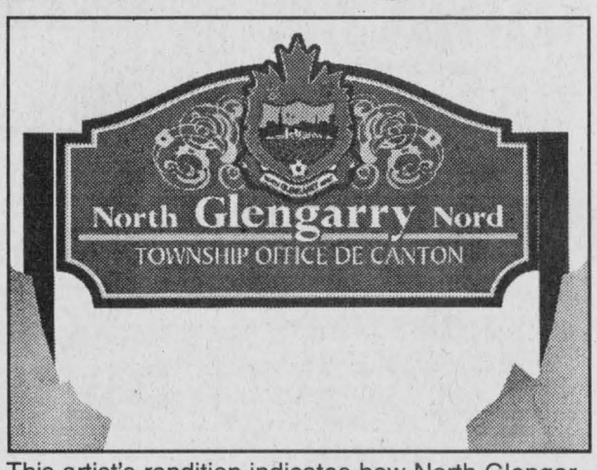
An artist's rendition of the signs shows a green platform with a black border bearing a bilingual message set in a bold type-face and topped by the municipal logo.

"The mandate was to show North Glengarry as a complete unit," Beaudette said, "one way to capture that was to use the logo and...recurring shapes."

An acrylic latex finish will seal the signs against the weather while raised areas will bear a silicone glaze. The municipal logo will be painted in enamels.

Council members like the design, but are still debating the most cost-effective way to install them.

Each sign will cost between $600 to $900 to install, multiplied by 11 signs, if the contractor performs the work.



This artist's rendition indicates how North Glengarry's new signage will look upon completion. The French on the township sign is incorrect; the finished project will read 'edifice municipal'.

But councillor Gilles Paradis said the township would save the cost of the provincial sales tax if it purchases the signs installed. If the township performs the work itself, it pays the cost of the uprights as well as PST on all materials.

"Although the cost might be $900 to install, with the savings on the PST the actual out of pocket cost will be $600 or $700, compared to our own workers doing it," Paradis said.

Roads superintendent Jean Guy Levert offered Beaudette the use of a municipal back-hoe, if required, to further reduce installation costs.

Council will decide on the route it will take to install the signs at its Nov. 8 meeting.

School tackles student loitering, violence

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Criminal charges laid last week against several youths for fighting are a microcosm of a larger problem facing Alexandria's two high schools.

Glengarry District High School principal John Danaher and Ecole Secondaire Le Relais counterpart Collin Geoffrion want to stop students from loitering in neighbouring residential areas.

On Oct. 14, five GDHS-Le Relais students were involved in a fight that led to charges by the North Glengarry Police Service. The incident took place near the Glengarry Sports Palace.

"We have two or three fights a year (off-property)," Danaher said, noting the number of fights per year has dropped over the years.

"There have been school fights for over 100 years; that's not really the big issue.What I'm concerned about are students, and I'm talking about 80 or 90, hanging out near people's homes. They smoke there, they leave their butts; there's bad language. It's not a good situation for the people who live there."

The biggest problem area is the public walkway that allows students to access the schools' northern side from Hope Street.

Danaher understands the necessity for the walkway. It cuts the distance to walk to the Sports Palace and the library, as well as to some students' homes in that area of Alexandria.

However, Danaher wonders if the problems associated with it makes it worthwhile, especially when violence is involved.

Geoffrion says the problem of students off school property is "one of the inconveniences of the law on smoking" established by the school, prohibiting both students and staff from lighting up on school property.

Danaher has met with Reeve Grant Crack to see if a solution could be found. "Personally, I'd like to see the whole area fenced in," Danaher said.

Crack said the township is working on a solution, but said closing the walkway isn't the only solution.

"It's a matter of supervision," Crack said.

As for who would provide the supervisors, he said it would be a "tough call".

Students have been gathering around the walkway since his arrival at Le Relais two years ago, Geoffrion said. It was never a concern as only "minor incidents were reported in the past."

He considers the installment of a fence a good idea but it will be hard to keep students on school property.

"(Students smoking off school property) is a problem we will never be able to eliminate."

He says Danaher will have to convince the Upper Canada District School Board of the necessity of the fence.

Geoffrion's school board (Conseil scolaire de district catholique de l'Est ontarien) can do little because they do not own property; they rent their portion from the board.

No tolerance

Meanwhile, the North Glengarry police hope local high school students get the message that settling disputes by fighting won't be tolerated.

"We're laying charges because we won't tolerate this kind of thing happening," said Const. Stan Willis.

Const. Willis said two 15-year-olds and one 17-year-old have been charged with assault and two 15-year-olds have been charged with causing a disturbance while fighting in regards to the Oct. 14 brawl.

The 15-year-olds will appear in Cornwall Young Offenders Court on Nov. 22. The older teen will appear in Alexandria court on Dec. 5. The youths can not be named under the Young Offenders Act.

The oldest youth could have been charged with assault causing bodily harm if the bruised youth had suffered a broken limb.

When the fracas was reported by a high school employee, the North Glengarry police, plus a number of Ontario Provincial Police cruisers, arrived quickly at the Sports Palace, only to find no one there. Police combed the neighbourhood but came up empty.

When Const. Willis was contacted about the police activity, he said police were upset that the report from the high school did not come sooner.

However, police discovered that one of the youths had visited the Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

After interviewing the youth and some witnesses, the North Glengarry police arrested the five youths.

Speech a garden that program can cultivate

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

Although more elaborately developed in some than others, speech is the base of human communication, a motor skill that is often overlooked when young children are growing up.

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit estimates that 10 per cent of preschoolers may be at risk of developing speech and language problems.

The health units estimates that less than half the estimated 100,000 children in Ontario with speech and language disorders have their problems identified, leaving 50,000 without needed treatment.

Since July of last year, the health units has been running its " Words in Bloom" program, an initiative of the ministries of health, community, social service and the health unit.

Kathleen Hallum, a speech-language pathologist with the health unit, says the goal of the program is to get children referred to the pathologist sooner.

"We get a lot of referrals for children around four years old who will be starting school. We need to see them sooner than that."

Muppets and play balls are some of the props speech-language pathologist Kathleen Hallum uses to teach Paige Lapierre sign language, a form of communication the two-year-old will let go of once she learns how to speak.

Staff photo – Sandra Berry

Hallum, who works at the Alexandria and Embrun clinics, says a lot of parents adopt the "They'll grow out of it" philosophy when their child is having difficulty meeting the usual speech development mile stones.

"They should give us a call," she says.

The child will be screened within three months to receive the proper treatment.

Hallum points out that not all suspected speech developmental concerns require intensive or long-term therapy.

"Often times, the child is simply too young for formal therapy, but at-home help from a parent can make a big difference in that child's progress."

Blooming

Betsy and Paige Lapierre of Alexandria visit Hallum once a week to learn and develop effective communication skills.

"There's a huge difference," says Betsy, comparing her daughter's communication skills before starting her therapy with Hallum in Alexandria.

"She can get her wants and desires across. Before it was a guessing game."

Two-year-old Paige was diagnosed with Down's Syndrome and has been subject to different therapies through Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry's early intervention program.

Paige may be taught one or two signs a week by Hallum but it's up to the child's family to make sure she learns the lesson of the week.

"The one-hour session sets us up for the week. Kathleen gives us an assignment."

Whether it's learning the sign for 'eating' or 'again', Betsy and her husband Wayne and daughter Dakotah must take part in teaching young Paige.

"It's helping us all to learn different ways of communicating."

Although Betsy was working with her daughter trying to teach her communication skills, she is grateful for the Words in Bloom program for showing her a different approach.

"We didn't have the guidance. When you're two years old, words are different than when you're an adult.

For more information about Words in Bloom, call the health line at 1-800-267-0852.

When is it time to call?

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit provides the following guidelines for parents to assess their child's speech development.

WHEN SHOULD YOU SEEK HELP?

- If your six month old does not react to your voice or does not smile or make sounds when awake.
- If your one year old does not wave back when you say good-bye or try to show you things by reaching or looking.
- If your 15 month old does not try to say words or sounds or doesn't otherwise indicate what he or she wants.
- If our 21 month old can only say about five words or does not pretend with toys.
- If your two or three year old can not put more than two words together and gets frustrated when trying to talk.
- If your three or four year old stutters and repeats words being said, but doesn't seem to understand them or isn't easily understood by others.

St. Joseph's School wants your soup labels and cereal box tops

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

St. Joseph's School in Alexandria has started a fund raising program which will not only reduce the paper volume in the recycling box, but also provide students with new soccer balls and computers.

If enough Kellogg's brand UPC symbols and Campbell's soup labels are collected, the school could earn a shopping spree.

"I'd like to get at least two or three thousand," says school council member Heather Barillaro who enrolled the school in the 'Education is Tops' program last year after seeing the advertisement in a grocery store.

She says last year's efforts were not successful as Kellogg's was handing out prizes only to the school that collected the most cereal box tops.

With 166 students, St. Joe's was competing against larger schools and could only gather 300 labels by the end of the spring term.

This year, anyone can get a prize and Barillaro hopes to cash in the labels at the end of the school year.

"We now have 389 labels for Kellogg's, which is almost $40."

When returned to the company, each label is worth 10 cents towards educational products in the company's catalogue.

Barillaro is looking for the community to take part in the project and advises people to keep their Kellogg's box tops and Campbell's' labels for the school.

"I can't imagine how many we would get (if the community took part in the project). It would be nice," she says.

Anyone interested in donating labels can call Barillaro at 525-2960 or drop them off at the school located on the corner of Main and Lochiel.

Local LACAC not alone in fight

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The currently suspended Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) was told Oct. 28 that other such groups are at odds with their municipal councils in Ontario.

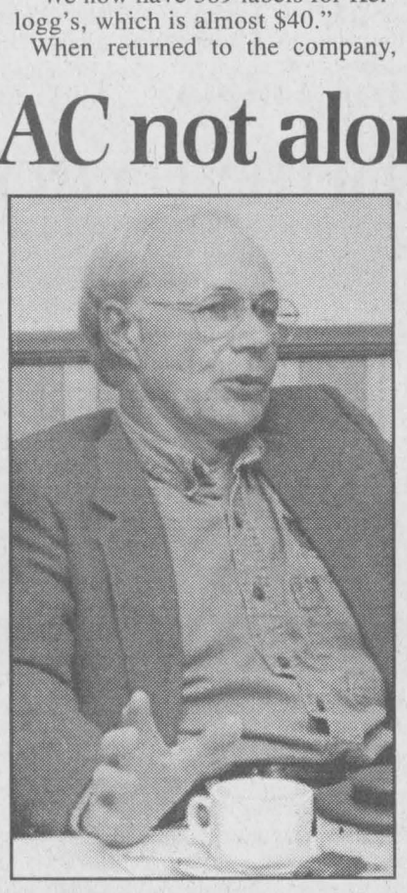
That was one of the messages it heard from North Grenville LACAC member, Fred Davidson, during an informal meeting at the Georgian House.

However, Davidson said the scenario that prompted North Glengarry council to suspend the local LACAC didn't seem warranted.

He said former LACAC provincial advisor Mary Lou Evans was shocked to hear of North Glengarry's suspension.

The North Glengarry LACAC was stripped Sept. 13 of its official duties until "such time as council can gain confidence in it," according to a resoultion of council, introduced by Reeve Grant Crack.

Council disapproved of several LACAC's actions that council claimed applied public pressure to individual property owners, intervened in other committee's planning issues and side-stepped its advisory role for registering properties under the Ontario Heritage Act.



Fred Davidson of the North Grenville LACAC says committees across Ontario have found themselves at odds with municipal councils

Council was especially critical of public comments made by LACAC concerning a proposal to demolish the Precious Blood Monastery.

At last week's meeting, LACAC member Phil Vitone said there is still much needed work for its members, regardless of its status.

He said taking an inventory of all properties in the township should be undertaken.

Still active

Fellow member Blair Williams said members will continue to be active during the township's Official Plan seminars.

He said it was crucial that the Official Plan being prepared for North Glengarry take into account historical concerns.

This action would eventually pinpoint which properties could be suitable for historical designation.

Other than his reaction to the suspension, Davidson highlighted some examples of the valuable work undertaken by other LACACs.

He said economic development and planning committees have benefitted from LACAC's endeavours.

To help North Glengarry's LACAC continue on, Community Heritage Ontario is organizing an Eastern Ontario LACAC Workshop for Nov. 20 at the NorWesters Museum in Williamstown.

Consultation a good start

Councillor Gilles Paradis' proposal to gather public input into the future of local municipal government displays a sensitivity to the concerns of constituents and portrays a member of council who has learned from the mistakes of the past.

In presenting his motion to council Oct. 25, Paradis recalled the lack of consultation in the lead-up to the North Glengarry Township amalgamation and the hard feelings that fostered in many voters. He proceeded to make a strong argument in favour of a process that would garner the opinions of township residents on a subject that may one day soon intimately involve them.

To its credit, council supported a motion that may result in a course of action that runs contrary to members' personal preferences. Residents of North Glengarry now have the option of adding their voice to the debate on the model of municipal government that best suits their lifestyles.

Questions concerning the future of municipal government require answers, but few people appear to be asking them. For example, should second-tier officials be directly elected? Should amalgamated municipalities utilize the ward system of representation, or stock its council with members elected at-large? Do the cost savings inherent in large, amalgamated communities adequately compensate for the inevitable loss of grassroots representation?

Questions of local government require debate and answers

These questions and many others will be thrown on the table in North Glengarry in either a referendum or plebiscite. It will fall to residents to make comment on them.

The political current at Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties council seems to indicate a 'bigger is better' attitude towards municipal government and service delivery. With the ink still wet on the restructuring order that formed North Glengarry Township, residents here may eventually find themselves drawn into yet another amalgamation process as the counties makes a move to larger government.

But at least the council of the day will have a public consensus to use as its guide in deciding the course of action that it will handle any proposal for future amalgamations.

Is the time ripe to push tax reform?

What are we as taxpayers to make of the provincial government's announcement of tax relief for the National Hockey League's Ottawa Senators franchise? On the one hand, we have a provincial commitment to reclassify the tax assessments of professional sports holdings in Ontario, thereby making room for the hockey club to remain in Canada, and on the other there's the potential for the taxpayer at-large to be held accountable for the revenue the province and local municipalities will lose as a result of the decision.

Whatever your opinion of tax breaks for professional sports teams, the provincial announcement is remarkable for another reason: a business owner in Ontario has single-handedly fought for and received tax reform by successfully arguing the current structure was preventing an otherwise viable enterprise from competing.

This could signal good news for taxpayers. The announcement sets a precedent that one would think obliges the province to investigate and respond to strong arguments that tax classifications are hindering other businesses' ability to compete.

The announcement also means the government has shown a willingness to reform tax on the basis of fairness to business in relation to the marketplace, and not necessarily on political optics.

Are there similar cases locally where the tax burden has robbed an enterprise of the ability to compete?

Will our government hear those arguments as well?

Why should tax fairness be applied discriminately to one and not another?

A recent study by the Toronto Dominion Bank indicates that Canadians now pay 25 per cent of their personal income to taxes.

Given that statistic, it seems appropriate to tip our hats to any individual who has wrestled the tax man and made him cry 'uncle', even if the victor is the millionaire owner of a hockey club.

'Toasted' at a wedding reception

ORIGINAL COPY

DEREK GORDANIER

Life's most embarrassing moments are stretches of time that you can't bear while they're happening to you but which you often recall gleefully once they've been relegated to history's dust bin.

Everyone has a 'most embarrassing' story. Some people share them, others don't. I don't mind sharing mine because, in retrospect, they don't seem all that humiliating. But at the time they occurred, I could have cheerfully crawled under a rock and died.

The criteria for an embarrassing moment is simple: the awkward moment must have transpired before an audience. Otherwise, you're dealing in times that you simply did something stupid, and most people don't have enough long-term memory capacity to maintain a catalogue that large.

At least when my most embarrassing moment arrived, I was well-dressed for the occasion.

I was best man at a friend's wedding and the moment I dreaded was fast-approaching: I was expected to raise a toast to the happy couple in front of a reception hall packed with people.

My friend - let's call him Lance (because that's his name) - had just married a lovely lady from Quebec City and many of her relatives were in Gananoque to mark the happy occasion. But unlike Glengarry, where everyone is bilingual or at least functionally so, many of the guests spoke French only.

I'm not a great public speaker to begin with and my upcoming public address had set butterflies to fluttering in the pit of my stomach. Compounding the problem was the fact that most of the room spoke French while I, Philistine that I am, did not.

But I had devised a gimmick that I felt would broach the language barrier and elicit some laughs to boot.

Earlier that day, you see, I had toasted a piece of plain bread, wrapped it in tinfoil and secreted it in the breast pocket of my tuxedo. My plan was simple: at the closing of my speech I would reach into my pocket, lift the bread high above the assembled throng and in a stage-voice say, "So in conclusion, I'd like to raise this toast to the happy couple!"

A sure-fire chuckle-inducer, right?

Uh...not exactly.

Silence greeted the toast. I thrust it forward a bit, thinking that might somehow help, but people simply stared expectantly at the brandished piece of bread. Someone coughed uncomfortably at the back of the hall. Crumbs from the toast dropped into my champagne and drifted there. Lance and his new wife exchanged quick, horrified glances.

I honestly felt like dying.

In a bid to end this disastrous exercise, I defiantly bit a chunk out of the toast, threw up my hands in exasperation and fell back into my chair, stunned. After a few seconds, a smattering of polite applause sounded.

To my wounded ego the applause sounded somehow patronizing.

Someone told me afterwards that the toast gag was a rip-off of the Rocky Horror Picture Show. This only served to compound my embarrassment, since I assumed I had stumbled upon an original joke.

I look back on that incident now and smile. But for months that bomb toast gag had the ability to tie my stomach in knots just by thinking about it.

When I share this woeful tale, people often say "Hell, that's nothing!" and launch into a horror story of their own.

An embarrassing moment that stands out is one related to me by a good friend of mine by the name of Troy, who also happens to be a Baptist minister.

One of the members of Troy's church lost an arm to a combine accident. As horrifying as that may seem to onlookers, the victim himself has totally adjusted to his disability and really doesn't give it a second thought.

This man, a church deacon, was driving Troy home from a meeting one winter's evening when the roads were particularly slippery. After nearly fish-tailing, Troy gazed out the window at the freezing rain and commented, innocently enough, "Boy, you really have to keep two hands on the wheel tonight."

Silence.

Troy realized his faux pas immediately. His face flushed faster than the Tidy-Bowl Man. He couldn't believe that he, a man of the cloth, had made so insensitive a blunder. He opened his mouth to apologize.

But his chauffeur only smiled philosophically.

"Then you'd better lend me one of yours!"

How can we contribute to community

PUBLIC AFFAIRS

BLAIR WILLIAMS

Why do people choose to live in Glengarry County? This is a question that is addressed every year at the community economic development forum and it is one of the questions being posed in the current round of public meetings leading to a new official plan for North Glengarry.

The response to this question is usually quite predictable. People live here because they like the open spaces, the unpolluted environment, and the rural atmosphere. People choose this area because it allows them the freedom to live as they please; they can have a garden, raise animals, hunt or trap, start a small home business, or simply live in splendid isolation.

However, one of the benefits that is often overlooked is the value of living in or near a small community. Although humans are essentially self-centered and want what is best for themselves, they are also social creatures who very much need what community living has to offer. And in Glengarry there is a good deal on offer.

There is, of course, the larger, county-wide community that is nourished by the rich heritage of Scottish clans that emigrated to this area more than 200 years ago. But in the every day lives of local residents it is the small communities - clustered on the side roads, in villages and in hamlets - that are more significant.

Small communities are gifts that need to be appreciated and nourished. They bring a dimension to life that is missing in modern cities and in sprawling middle class suburbs. In our rural neighborhoods it is possible to know virtually everyone and to feel personally connected to them. Small communities bridge the gap between the family unit and remote government agencies; they bring together the young and old, the wealthy and the not so wealthy; and they involve people with a variety of backgrounds in shared activities and common projects.

Many old-time Glengarrians take our local communities for granted and they hardly give a thought to what sustains these communities and makes them unique. New arrivals in the area sometimes fail to understand the importance of the local institutions or they can't quite figure out how to become accepted as a part of the local community. Both groups - old established families, and relative newcomers - make a mistake when they ignore the needs and the potential benefits of our small communities.

All of this comes to mind because it's that time of year when many people (including this writer) are inclined to reflect on the blessings of living in this rural county. It's harvest time, church suppers are in full swing, kids are settled back into school, and everyone from hockey players to girl guides are preparing for their winter routine.

As more of us get caught up in preparation for the new millennium we should think about how we can make community life more attractive, more inclusive, and more human. It may be the perfect time to seek out new opportunities to strengthen our local community institutions. Would it make sense to gather our neighbors together and dream dreams for the future?

Why shouldn't Apple Hill residents work together to preserve and restore the historic Hamelin blacksmith shop? Why shouldn't the people of Lancaster and Maxville plant trees along their main streets? Why don't Alexandrians get organized and commission more wall murals in the downtown area?

Modern society is steadily evolving in a direction where the local community is more at the center of our lives. So maybe one of our goals for the new millennium should be to devise common projects that increase awareness, enlarge our sense of pride, and enhance our sense of belonging in this community.

Reasons why Hub grant was turned down

To the editor,

In regards to the article in last week's paper "Council Extends Annex Deadline". Upon reading this item I was initially curious to know why the Sauer family's application to the federal Department of Human Resources for a grant to assist in their plan to convert the historic Priest's Mill into a country inn was turned down.

However, a split second of reflection on the matter revealed to me the obvious flaws in their application process and they were:

• The Sauer family, their building and business are not now nor have they ever been residents of Shawinigan, Quebec.

• The Sauer family in their daily struggle to keep their business afloat never took the time to write that five or preferably six figure cheque to the Prime Minister's campaign fund.

• The Sauer family in their daily struggle to keep their business afloat never took the time to write any cheque to the Liberal Party of Canada.

• No one in the Sauer family, at least to the best of my knowledge, has a criminal record.

• No one in the Sauer family, at least to the best of my knowledge, has ever committed fraud in Europe.

• The site plan of the "country inn" concept did not include a golf course.

• The site plan of the "country inn" did not include a road to anyone's cottage.

• The site itself (Alexandria) does not warrant the use of a Canadian government Challenger jet from Ottawa.

I could go on and on but suffice to say that the Sauer family is guilty of political naivete'.

As I am not afflicted with the same malady and given the gravity and import to the local community of this issue, I will waive my normal and customary fee of $1,000 an hour and offer the Sauer family the following free advice: Go where the money's at.

If Sheila Copp's Heritage Ministry is willing to pay a Winnipeg artist $1000 a piece to hang 15 mangy skinned rabbits (total $15,000) in the forests around the Manitoba capitol and invite the public to come and watch them putrefy, then certainly the Hub's (a.k.a. Priest's Mill) glorious and succulent steaks must easily be worth $100,000 a piece. There you go, Bob's your uncle, $1.5 million gratis.

Indeed, to further ingratiate yourselves to the powers that be, update your menu and change "The Pepper Steak" to "Pepper Spray Steak a' la APEC".

But just don't tell the diner who the real cook is.

Gleefully anticipating our own beloved Don Boudria's letter next week extolling the pristine virtue of our equally beloved Prime Minister I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Robin Poston

Column took 'cheap shot' at consultation

To the editor,

What an unfortunate column written in last week's News by Derek Gordanier. He is of course entitled to his opinion about a planning process that we both participated in on Oct. 19. Rather he observed for part of the time, did not seem to participate at all, and I believe left early. I also had my opinion about the process but put it down on an evaluation sheet provided by the consultants. Unfortunately, he put his comments on only 10 minutes of a two-hour process in a very public way with a very cheap shot opening line that I fear will discredit an important process.

Had Mr. Gordanier done a substantive comment on the entire evening he might have noted the hour and a half that we spent in three groups generating a very lengthy (at least 40 to 50) serious suggestions and opinions per group.

While the 10 minute introductory "game" that he refers to might have been better introduced it served a very valuable function of getting all of the individuals in the room except one, to start talking and focussing their thoughts on issues of importance of our community. I have been part of many other consultations and this one was important for the fact that all of us had the opportunity to contribute. What usually happens at these sessions is a very few who have specific interests to defend totally dominate a session and consultants do not have a very real view of what all the others who are present think.

In my smaller group discussion (yes, discussion) which constituted the bulk of the evening, everyone participated several times and had their opinions recorded for summary and presentation by the consultants at a later meeting. Perhaps Mr. Gordanier's frustration was related to the fact that the meeting was not designed to be easily reported on, as are so many, but designed for real participation by everyone present.

My major regret was the low turnout which looked to be about 40 individuals. I fear that Mr. Gordanier's series of cheap shots and easy hits about 5 per cent of the meeting rather than substantive response about the other 95 per cent will further inhibit attendance at these very important meetings.

I was out of town on Oct. 27 and can only hope that few of my fellow citizens read this very shallow analysis and that many more than 40 participated in Maxville.

Residents investigating their rights

To the editor,

Sue Harrington's recent article (Oct. 27th) on South Glengarry Township council's decision to proceed with the water-sewer projects for the Hamlet of South Lancaster, certainly caught everyone's attention.

Contrary to appearances, the majority of hamlet residents did not attend the cited council meeting simply because they were unaware that a discussion on the projects, followed by a vote, would take place. It certainly wasn't publicized in The Glengarry News.

In fact, three weeks previous, one resident tried to get the subject of the projects on council's agenda. This was on the heels of a formal request by residents for a meeting with council, which was never obliged.

As for council members stating that residents will be getting "the value of their dollar with the project," that sums up our thinking too. With the hamlet being hooked up to the Village of Lancaster's seriously, damaged sewage system, by the time all repairs to that system are complete, if ever, we will have gotten a dollar's worth of value.

Whilst the matter of water/sewage for the hamlet seems to be a done deal from council's perspective, we will investigate our rights as consumers. Who in their right mind would pay Rolls Royce dollars for a broken down Lada - you, Reeve Sangster?

Victoria M. Stewart

Proposal short of minimum standards

To the editor,

So, Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Police Services Board member Charlie Sangster can't figure out why the Ontario Civilian Commission on Police Services require more police officers to be assigned to the United Counties.

Let me help you out, Charlie.

More officers are required because the level of police service that the SDG Police Services Board proposed to provide for the residents did not meet minimum standards.

It's not so much that OCCOPS "extended their mandate", but rather a case of ensuring that the local board fulfilled its obligations.

I must be fair however, and point out that it is apparently easy to forget such a minor detail as adequate policing levels while undergoing a costing procedure for the provision of police services.

After all, the local press failed to identify or investigate the issue in its coverage of the process.

Oh, one last thing, Charlie. Check the math. I'm almost certain that five more officers with overtime and benefits will be closer to $350,000 than your $250,000 estimate.

Colonial residue at root of problems

To the editor,

It seems dimension is the order of the day in Canada. Various federal initiatives are pitting first nations against whites, anglophone against francophone, native-born against immigrants, youth against age, rich against poor, west against east, the list is endless.

There are undercurrents to these crosscurrents that would bear some in-depth examination.

Minority control of any country has been the ultimate aim of contending forces since feudal times. The residue of colonialism is still with us.

These remnants will eventually be done away with but at present social evolution is either stalled or regressing.

If present conditions continue, Canada will not survive the first decade of the new millennium.

Regions as diverse as those in Canada will yield easily to centralized power leading to minority control, yet the current government's approach to national unity seems to be telling Quebec "Why separate when you can dominate?

In 1959 South African Boers managed to legislate official bilingualism into existence.

By 1966 Boers had full control of all government departments and apartheid was imposed. Restrictive language laws led to oppression in real terms.

Official bilingualism is one of the items destroying this country. There are more.

For one thing the attempt to make British common law compatible with the Quebec civil code will certainly make the natives restless.

The 1799 Napoleonic code has had a rather checkered career in France. It's been rewritten 14 times or more and has triggered numerous revolts, at least five of which have resulted in dictatorship being imposed.

Will Canadians be more amenable?

Another undercurrent of note has to do with our neighbour to the south.

Naturally, Washington would never dream of interfering with another country's internal affairs, Munroe doctrine or not, but will pick up the pieces when the inevitable breakup occurs.

On second thought, perhaps only some of the pieces will be of interest.

President calls it quits after six days on job

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

Glen Robertson recreation committee president Maurice Ménard resigned on his sixth day as head of the newly installed executive.

Ménard declined to comment on his decision to resign. A letter to the editor indicating his reasons for resigning was sent to the News last week, but was later retracted.

Committee vice-president Lillianne Diotte says she is disappointed to see Ménard leave.

"It's a pity, Maurice would have been a good person to help us."

She says Ménard would have helped to boost the centre's fund raising, as he has organized several events in the past.

He was instrumental in raising $50,000 to renovate the St. Martin de Tours church in Glen Robertson, for example.

Although Diotte can not confirm why Ménard handed in his resignation, she says criticism within the community was probably a reason.

In a letter to the editor published in the Oct. 20 edition of the News, a Glen Robertson resident criticized Ménard as a non-resident who had moved from Glen Robertson to establish a business in Alexandria, and suggested the executive committee should be comprised of local residents only.

Diotte says the executive committee can't afford to lose more members due to criticism.

An election for a new president will be held Nov. 8 when the committee's 1999-2000 constitution will be announced.

Learn to express yourself on a horse

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

When Nelly Guettinger emigrated to Canada with her family close to a decade ago, she thought therapeutic riding was something she was leaving behind with her country's windmills and Gouda cheese.

But gradually therapeutic riding was incorporated in Edelweiss Riding Academy's riding programs.

It was during an equine show that Guettinger was approached by a mother and her physically disabled son to pet a horse. Her previous experience in Switzerland compelled her to offer the boy the opportunity to not only pet the horse, but to sit on it.

"It was the best mistake I ever made."

Shortly afterwards, the Switzerland native began teaching physically and mentally challenged individuals through thier love of horses.

Ingleside's Ian Dafoe was one person who Guettinger introduced to a horse for the first time.

"Ian never knew what a horse was. Even on the first day, he totally accepted it," says Ian's father Eric Dafoe.

But not every rider is as welcoming to sitting high up on a large four-legged creature as Ian.

"Most of them are afraid of heights," says Guettinger.

For some of her more timid clients it can take from eight to 10 weeks until they get on the horse.

By instinct

Her work with horses has taught Guettinger to trust not only her own instinct but her clients' as well as her horses.

"If they loose the instinct, they trust only you, not themselves. That's why we have to let them do it on their own."

Guettinger will assist riders to mount the horse but leaves them freedom to hold on the horse.

"The worst thing you can do is hold them while they're on the horse."

In the Dafoe's case, one volunteer assisted by Guettingerleads the horse while two other people follow on each side in case Ian slides sideways on the horse.

This might be expected of Ian as is a strong 34-year-old man but Guettinger uses the same approach with young children as well.

"Even 18-month-old babies, I let them do it."

For the convenience of her riders, the horse is saddled with a set of handles they can grip in moments of insecurity.

Ian's father is glad to see his son let out sounds of joy when he's riding around the ring. It brings Eric happiness to see his son independent and confident on the horse.

"(Doing something on their own) is something they don't get credit for often," says Eric.

Incorporating therapeutic riding with other social programs has helped Ian's social skills.

"I find he is more open and ready to interact with strangers."

Guettinger says Ian is more socially open when on the horse and more receptive to learning.

Not only are the riders expanding their abilities of independence but the horses demonstrate a respect for the riders as well.

Guettinger is not a 'green' rider nor a rookie trainer, having worked with horses in both Canada and Switzerland.

She says the animals have a sense for feeling their rider's motives.

"It's unbelievable how sensitive horses are. They can understand these riders more than humans can."

It takes from six months to one year to train a horse for therapeutic riding.

Once the horse passes Guettinger's requirements, therapeutic riding begins.

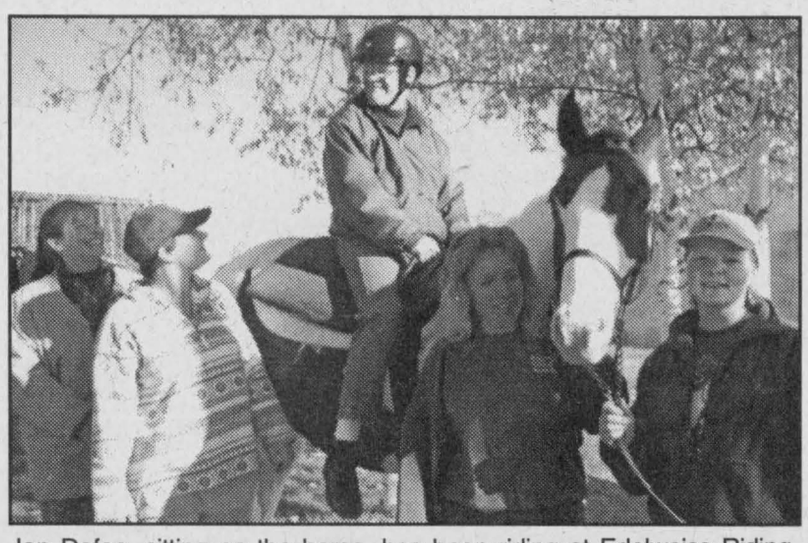
Lots of hand needed

Guettinger is surprised by the success of the therapeutic riding classes. She had been trained as a therapeutic riding trainer in her native country but never expected to be leading individuals like Ian around the ring once in Canada.

"By myself, I didn't think I could reach that level with these guys."

Although she enjoys working with the mentally and physically handicapped, she can't handle the 40-some riders by herself.

At least three people are required for each rider and because she charges a minimal riding fee, she can't afford to pay workers, relying on volunteer help.



Ian Dafoe, sitting on the horse, has been riding at Edelweiss Riding Academy's therapeutic program for the past six years. Pictured, from left to right are volunteers, Diana Stelmach, Gaby Fischer, trainer Nelly Guettinger and volunteer Sherry Heinzle.

Where do critters hide during winter months?

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

It works well (from a purely secular view) to have Hallowe'en fall on a Sunday. With two weekend nights of partying leading up to the big prowlfest, the young people don't have a whole lot of steam left by the time Sunday evening rolls around. Plum Hallowe'ened-out they are, as the absence of gooey yellow and crunchy white on the pavements of Williamstown seems to confirm. Of course it could have just been big Ian's digilence at not selling contraband to minors on Sunday afternoon, but all in all, a tame time in Billtown this year.

* * *

As for the parties....can't comment on the private ones, but it was nice to see the two church halls filled with young people on Friday and Saturday nights. For those of us upon whom age has been drawing doodles, it is reminiscent of the time when churches were the social hub of the community.

At St. Mary's on Friday night, more than 140 showed up to prance the evening away in costumes ranging from the glamorous to the gross.

Winning prizes for their attire were: Katie Munro, Laura Lavallee, Amanda Gordon, Sabrina Rodin, Shane Christie, and Eric Lapointe.

Door prizes went to Jenni Lounsberry, Cassandra Zoppas and Steven Boileau, while Carrigan Desjardins and Josh Geneau won the spot dance.

* * *

At St. Andrew's on Saturday night, about 60 of the younger witches and Beelzebubs gathered to play games, make gooey gloop and, as the gothic saying goes, "partake of refreshments."

* * *

As for the judging of costumes and decorated doors, all I can say is, "Move over, Judge Judy. Here comes Judge Sue."

Whew! Glad the 31st is over. Expected the house to take a few hits from disgruntled passed-overs.

* * *

There will be another teen dance (11-16 year-olds) this Friday, Nov. 5 at St. Mary's from 7 to 10 p.m.

* * *

The Williamstown Green Thumb Horticultural Society met on Oct. 25 to hear Kim Peeters, floral designer at Town & Country Flowers.

Kim gave many useful tips while showing our gardeners how to make Christmas floral arrangements.

Winners of the four example arrangements were Dora O'Brien, Elena Mirga, Lorna Snow and Wendy Wert.

Remembrance Day services will be celebrated this Sunday (Nov. 7) at the cenotaph in Williamstown.

Members of the Legion Branch 544 and other veterans are asked to meet in front of the former Charlottenburgh Township Hall by 11 a.m. at the latest.

If you are unable to make it to the Williamstown service in the morning, but still wish to show your respect, there will be another service in Lancaster that afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m.

Shirley and Mike Beaudin have been blessed with the birth of a granddaughter on Oct. 13 in Montreal.

Mary Clara, to be known as Clara, a 9 lb. (plus) bundle of dark-haired loveliness, was born to Monique Beaudin and her husband, Andy Riga.

Congratulations all round.

Like bugs and other critters? Want to know where they go in the winter (besides ladybugs, of course)? Want to hear some stories, play some games, do an activity?

If you are more than six and less than the age of cynicism and misbehaviour, plan to head straight over to the Williamstown Library tomorrow (Thursday) after school.

"Creepy crawlies and other critters," a program for children, will be held from 3:15 to 4 p.m. — one in a series of children's programs coming to the library this year.

A familiar face and anchor of Char-Lan High School said good-bye to the place for the second time on Friday.

Rob MacDougall, whose first farewell came as a graduate, and who has been in charge of maintaining several areas schools for the past five years, has decided on a career change.

The community thanks Rob for his many acts of kindness during his time at Char-Lan and wishes him all the best for the future.

* * *

Rob will be replaced by Ross Higginson of Vankleek Hill who will be looking after the schools on a temporary basis. A permanent replacement is expected to be hired from an internal posting.

The annual fall turkey supper, sponsored by St. Andrew's United Church here in Williamstown, takes place this Saturday, Nov. 6 in Irvine Hall.

Everyone in the community and beyond is invited to come along and join in the feasting — not just of delicious food, but of friendly fellowship as well.

First sitting takes place about 5 p.m. Last, about 7:30 p.m. — or when Jane and Robert arrive.

* * *

A reminder of the community garage sale sponsored by the Char-Lan Concert Band this Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

The books are starting to stream into the Manor House for the big sale on Nov. 13. Judging from what has appeared so far, this will be the best sale yet. There are many more children's books this year — always a sell-out — and a great number of adult books (thousands, in fact,) in excellent condition.

This year's sale will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (extended hours). Remainders will be left in place for the following week so that those who like more leisurely shopping, may do so during the hours the house is open.

The Manor House Committee would be delighted to receive baking and/or books. For more information, please call 347-2279.

The community commiserates with Ian and Allison Cumming on the recent sad loss of their baby son.

Soni Sandilands has returned from a visit to Vancouver where she was joined by daughter, Sandra, of Edmonton, and by two Sandilands' nieces.

The plane ride home was a little eventful. Instead of a non-stop flight to Ottawa as anticipated, the plane had to land in Winnipeg where police were called in to drag off a raging, belligerent drunk who had been harassing the flight attendants.

"I've always wanted to go to Winnipeg," one of the passengers said as the plane sat on the tarmac.

* * *

Tai Chi classes started up in Irvine Hall yesterday, but there is still room for anyone wanting to join.

This "gentle exercise" for body and mind will be taught by Richard Leroux of Williamstown on Tuesdays at 9 a.m. No previous experience is necessary.

Cost is $10 per month to cover costs of utilities at the hall; what is left will be donated to the church.

For more information, call Richard at 347-3410.

Florinda Johnston, who grew up here on the 4th concession, passed away recently in Alexandria at the age of 98.

Miss Johnston had spent many years teaching in Stratford, Ontario, where she was well-known to several generations of former students, before returning to Glengarry about ten years ago.

Sympathy is extended to family members in the area.

Ruth Mowat, formerly of Williamstown, was bereaved recently by the death of her mother in British Columbia. Our condolances are sent to Ruth and Bill, David and Renate.

A big thank you to the Optimist Club for taking the time to keep Halloween safe in our village. A security vehicle with lights flashing was installed at each end of our hamlet to slow down vehicles going through the village because there were a lot of little ghosts, goblins and whatever roaming our streets going from house to house.

Green Valley

MARGO PEPIN

On Friday a clown was seen walking the streets of Green Valley waving at all motorists who in turn returned a wave. He also visited the grocery store, garage, restaurant and the school to amuse the students and teachers. It must have been a bus driver because he was seen driving a school bus. Who could it be?

***

At École Ste. Marie on Friday the gym was turned into a haunted room, where students got to take turns entering where several got a very good scare. This was organized by Grades 7 and 8 along with their teachers.

***

Two Grade 7 students from École Ste. Marie, Alexandre Trottier and Julie Piette, along with Mrs. Shannon Piette attended a meeting in Casselman, organized by the Health Bureau. The two students will be able to help organize health activities at the school with other students.

Many students at École Ste. Marie were winners on Friday afternnon, a parade of costumes was held and several students were chosen. They are Sarah Robinson, Joël Jeaurond, Emilie Thériault, Patrick Séguin, Ashley Viau, Mathieu Aubin, Alexandre Ouesnel, Emilie André and Annie Renaud. A phantom screaming contest was also held. Adopt-a-grandparent program underway at the Manor

The Intergenerational Program, better known as the Adopt-a-Grandparent Program, at the Manor got under way last week with 40 pupils from both schools having an orientation on Thursday.

The students are aged 10 to 13 and each will be paired with a resident who will be visited each week at noon hour. Over the years, this has been a very successful activity and lasting friendships have been built between the young and old participants.

***

When Lillian McEwen died at the Manor, her niece, Lillian Crooks, Vankleek Hill, inherited her aunt's "treasurers". Mrs. Crooks has given me some old pictures and a pin with M.H.S. engraved on it. It is a long, narrow, gold pin with only the initials of our former high school on it. I am thinking it was probably an award but I have no idea the history behind it.

The school building was constructed in 1914 as a continuation school and did not become a high school until 1925 when Grade 13 subjects were taught and Miss Mabel R. White became the principal.

***

Maryanne Kampouris and Michael Cowley-Owen have enjoyed a one week vacation in Hawaii where they did much sight seeing and enjoyed all that the big island had to offer. On the way home, the couple spent two days in Vancouver.

The trip was special in two ways. The couple was celebrating a wedding anniversary and Ms. Kampouris won the trip in a draw at the National Arts Centre with Air Canada providing the transportation.

***

Someone else who has struck it lucky is Suzanne Baxter, 5th Conc. Roxborough. In a promotion at the Cornwall Square, Mrs. Baxter's name was one of 20 pulled. Those 20 were called in last Saturday with 16 appearing. Their names were drawn with the first one receiving a $20 credit and the last one, Mrs. Baxter, receiving a $2020 credit in the way of $10 credit coins. All must be spent at the Square.

On Sunday, the Baxters' daughter, Janet, who works in Kanata, arrived home from Wales where she had been visiting with her boyfriend and his family.

***

Carole and John Williams are back home again after a motor trip to Lethbridge, Alberta where they were the guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Julie and Danny Le Roy.

***

The Cornwall Standard-Freeholder recently sponsored a photographic contest entitled The Colours of Fall. There were about 200 entries and the third prize winner was Edith Nugent of Berwick. Mrs. Nugent is the daughter of Alma and the late Hector Runions. Her camera was one of those disposable ones but Edith's photograph "Our Bush Scene '98" was an excellent one and won out over many expensive cameras. Was it the bush or her expertise that earned her the prize?

***

Steven Schmidt, Montreal and son of Huguette and Gerry of Baltics Corners, was the lay preacher in the United Church on Sunday in the absence of the Rev. Stanley Ralph.

***

Sandy Blaney and Karen Campbell of Dunvegan were the weekend guests of Beverly and Russ Fisher and family, Grimsby, a week ago. The visit was planned so that the friends could experience a wine tour for which the Grimsby area is well known.

***

Allan and Jim MacEwen are to be complimented on the new colour design on some of the vehicles of MacEwen Petroleum Inc. and MacEwen Agriculture Inc. The distinctive green colour has been retained with a royal blue and white design added. I expect all the vehicles will soon be changed over as well as the service stations. The one in Hawkesbury has the new design.

***

After 27 years of faithful service as a member of the dietary department at the Manor, Lena Michaud has taken an early retirement. We thank her for her thoughtfulness and kindly manner to all and wish her well as she eases into retirement.

***

Halloween has come and gone. The weather was ideal for the children who were out in very large numbers. Lorna had 110 bags prepared and they were all given out by 6:30 p.m. As a result, we missed children we would have liked to have visit at our door. I know an age limit cannot be imposed but we believe that this should be a night for children and not for the older ones, some taller than ourselves. The children are well behaved, remember to say thank you and do respect those older residents who do not have their porch lights on.

***

I am sometimes asked about the headlines for these columns. They are not mine and I expect credit goes to editor Derek who uses his ingenuity to attract your attention.

Our Retired Teachers of Ontario newsletter has indicated that Lauchlin MacInnes, a native of the 6th Conc. Kenyon, has written another book. It is Random Blips and Ground Returns. Emphasis is on the human side of Air Force life while working for Canada and Great Britan with Coastal Command and Transport Command. Mr. MacInnes lives in Mississauga while his brother Harold is on the home farm.

Pearl Grant died over the weekend in Montreal at the age of 75. She was the daughter of the late Millie and George Eppstadt who operated a restaurant and convenience store in the building now housing Kelly's Sports Bar. The widow of Donald "Chubby" Grant of this place. She is survived by three daughters and a son, their families and her brother, Earl, in Ottawa. In the village, she leaves her aunt Malvina Rolland, several cousins, Grant relatives and school mates. Our sympathy goes to all.

Members of the Young at Heart Seniors' Club enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner at the Chieftain restaurant on Oct. 25. Twenty-eight were present for this special annual social activity. Afterward euchre was played in the Anglican Church hall. This was the second last party of the year with the last one scheduled for Nov. 8.

The prize winners for best scores were Cecile Currier, Elizabeth Briere and Claire Van Putten along with Ed Ukrainetz, Erwin Shields and Lawrence Thauvette.

The draw winners were Claire Flaro, Florence Harkin, Violet McDermid, Mrs. Briere, Nina Ryan (twice), Myrtle MacMillan, Mrs. Van Putten, Mr. Thauvette and Gloria Rolland. Grace Daoth was awarded the door prize.

***

At the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor, Jacqueline Emberg, William VanderByl and Rudy Mertl earned top scores.

***

The winners in the Lion's Club Calendar draw last week were Paul Villeneuve, Moose Creek, Ernest Bigelow, Vankleek Hill, Gisele Depattie, Cornwall, Marvin Massia and Gerard Piche, Cornwall.

In spite of the beautiful weather, we have had much activity at our bird feeders. At least four blue jays are busy gulping down sunflower seeds and cracked corn and carrying it to places unknown.

I just hope they remember to use it next winter. There are many gold finches with the males in their winter colours so that they all look alike. There are several house finches and the usual nut hatchers and chickadees which are very tame. A pair of shy mourning doves arrive late in the afternoon and there are lots of house (English) sparrows. One male has a white feather in its tail which allows me to identify it.

It will soon be time to fill the suet and fat mixture feeders, with the cold weather bound to come.

Views sought on future of government council did not want to go that route again.

Paradis' resolution calls for a public consultation by way of plebiscite or referendum "to provide guidance...to the new incoming council on the wishes of the electorate concerning possible future amalgamations...restructuring of lower-tier and upper tier governments and the election of municipal representatives."

A strong case would have to be made for a referendum because that form of consultation could bind an incoming council to a course of action.

A plebiscite, on the other hand, would express the public will without obligating council.

"At this point, the motion is very general," Paradis said. "It's made that way to get as much input as possible and to see if any interest is there."

Township Reeve Grant Crack said the North Glengarry amalgamation is not even two years old and already there's a push in some quarters towards larger government.

"We want to consult with our own residents and see what their views are," the reeve said.

An initial amalgamation proposal called for three municipalities in the untied counties as opposed to the current six.

Crack said the political will for such large amalgamations was not evident in 1998 but those options are being reviewed now.

More costs to ratepayers in drain settlement

He said the $200,000 payout for damages was excellent especially in light of the MacSweyns' $1.5 million lawsuit filed in 1990.

He said it would have been an expensive gamble to let a court decide the outcome.

O'Brien's rulings were based on his conclusions after examining evidence from the drainage hearing.

The design and installation of the drain by Spriet Associates, with the assistance of supervisor, Wray Ramsey, "exceeded in quality that of the average municipal drain" which "far exceeds the capacity of the R.F. MacLennan 1975 Municipal Drain."

He complimented the soil report, authored by Dr. Chang Wang and Dr. Richard Coote, which "sets a precedent in the quality of its analysis and recommendations."

In fact, the new drain "went beyond the requirements of the Spriet Drainage Report and beyond the very generous requirements of the Soil and Rehabilitation Report."

He said the soil restoration, as recommended by the experts, was needed, as it did much to rectify damage that took place during the 1987 repair and improvement.

"However, the level of infilling reflected the personal wishes of the MacSweyns to have the drain restored to pre-1975 levels at very substantial extra cost."

He went on to say the infilling was sufficient but the level of infilling set out by the soil report was "overly generous and in my opinion reflected in large measure the expressed personal desires of the owners.

He said the soil report was guided by the MacSweyns.

"This infilling level was achieved at a very great extra cost which cost was also increased substantially by the decision of the MacSweyns to truck the excess material from the north end of the farm" which they were entitled to do.

O'Brien stressed the "additional cost is another matter and I am of the opinion that the public taxpayer must not bear all or even a major portion of this additional burden."

It "is one in which it is difficult to make a judgment," O'Brien said.

He said Ramsey's evidence suggested that functioning hook-ups were made properly.

"Any problem relating in that area is minor and can be repaired (e.g. if blow-outs occur) at minimum cost."

In closing, Ramsey made it clear that the MacLennan Drain saga "must be brought to an immediate closure. This matter has festered for a number of decades disturbing the lives of not only the MacSweyns, but that of" the former Lochiel Township and the new North Glengarry Township and its officials.

O'Brien praised the recent efforts of North Glengarry officials and the MacSweyns to come to an agreement.

He added the provincial government and the former Lochiel Township also deserve much credit, a comment which Crack found surprising.

"They allowed the issue to go for 23 years," he said.

The referee also commented on last summer's damage settlement between the township and the MacSweyns

Dunvegan Museum gets grant for displays

The Glengarry Pioneer Museum has just received two welcomed boosts to its next year's programs.

A $4,500 grant through the Millenium Partnership Program will see an exhibition running throughout the 2000 season. Entitled Crossroads: A Pioneer Museum Enters the Twenty-First Century, it will feature some aspects of the collection, e.g. clothing and photography, combined with the work of local artisans.

Another grant, $12,000 from the Ontario Trillium Foundation, is primarily for collection management and will include the creation of a computerized inventory, the design of a self-guided tour booklet, the organization of volunteers, improved signage throughout the museum, and the identification and classification of recent archaeological finds. This project will take place over the next year.

On Saturday, a huge crowd of nearly 200 came out to the Kenyon Presbyterian Church Hall to celebrate Norman MacLeod's 80th birthday.

Foremost among those paying tribute were Don Boudria, accompanied by his wife, who presented certificates from Prime Minister Jean Chretien and himself. Recognizing Norman's many years of political life was Grant Crack, Reeve of North Glengarry Township, who honoured Norman with a certificate to this effect.

Norman received his many guests while sitting in a straight-backed chair beside his family's gift - a luxurious armchair which features a telephone and refreshment holders hidden under the armrests - saying that he might fall asleep if he got settled in it!

Grandchildren ran about among the crowd and while most youngsters were outside playing in the sandpile at the back of the church, a few ventured in to wash grubby hands and brush sand out of dainty frills and stockings.

And happy sixth birthday to grandson Ryan MacLeod, whose birthday is on the same day as his grandpa's, and who was sort of forgotten in the bustle to get the big party together.

Dunvegan WI held their October meeting last Thursday evening at Catherine Dan MacRae's home in Maxville.

The roll call was to name a game you played as a child and was answered by a number of long forgotten games - hop scotch, fox and goose, button - button, red rover - red rover, spin the bottle, and tree climbing. The most interesting and popular with rural students (who attended one room schools) was

DUNVEGAN

PEGGI CALDER, 527-5293

"anti over", in which teams were picked and turns were taken to throw a ball over the school house, hopefully avoiding broken windows. The thrower would then run around and try to tag the catcher (who was also running around the schoolhouse to be safe) and if caught the catcher would have to join the other team. The idea was to have everyone end up on one side.

Plans were made for the ARC Industries luncheon on Nov. 4 and the Christmas party in December.

A donation to the Homecraft Division of the Maxville Fair will be put to prizes for writing by a senior in a nursing home and to baking in the senior and junior divisions. A collection was made for the annual donation to Rideau Regional in Smith's Falls.

Catherine Dan MacRae read several very funny pieces in celebration of the Year of the Older Person and held a contest to work out the number of words that could be made using the letters of "resolutions". The winning number was 61.

Lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

Halloween night saw over 40 costumed youngsters (and a few older ones) dancing the Monster Mash around the decorated tree at the Dunvegan Recreation Association hall. The traditional devils and angels seem to be outnumbered by a growing group of extra-terrestrials.

Pumpkins were judged in each age group and were termed biggest, smallest, most mysterious, two-faced, scariest eyes, roundest and so on until all were declared winners in their own special catagory.

One spry dark lady sat mutely beside me and after gesturing at her watch, left with her large wrinkle-faced lady friend. I was sure I'd seen the friend dancing in her nightie years ago as the legs were suspiciously familiar. Boy, they sure take Hallowe'en seriously in Skye!

And did Uwe Rupp take his sister Danielle's dare and wear his niece's pink bunny hat with the floppy ears to work that night? It did set off his beard nicely.

McCrimmon WI learns of immigration process

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

The community was saddened to learn of the recent death of John Flood of Glen Robertson after a long illness.

Over the years, he was a faithful Outreach Volunteer, driving the senior's many miles each week. He was kindness itself to all but especially to those persons who had difficulty boarding and disembarking from the van.

We will always remember his ready smile and gentle teasing. John was a gracious gentleman and he will certainly be missed by his many friends in this area. Our sympathy is extended to his widow Eileen and their family. Our prayers are with you all.

The members of McCrimmon WI met at the board room in Alexandria last week for their regular monthly meeting with President Enid MacDougall presiding. The Ode and Collect were followed by the roll call - why do people want to come to Canada? Answers of freedom to worship, earn a living wage, find advancement in a career, good education available, were the expected responses. Secretary treasurer Christian Urquhart gave her reports and Marguerite MacGillis commented on the motto. She introduced the guest speaker, Ursula Jungen a farmer's wife who has become a Canadian citizen. She emigrated here 20 years ago from Switzerland with her husband and two children. She told her listeners about the reams of paper they had to complete in Switzerland before coming to find the farm they now occupy.

Then they went back to Europe to complete many more forms before being able to embark for Canada. There were many Canadian papers to fill out as well. They had to pass a test to become citizens, and when she told the women some of the questions, several of them felt that they wouldn't have been able to answer them.

Her description of her home near Berne in the mountains, sounded beautiful. She was raised on a small farm there and so she was familiar with the routine of a dairy farm.

If one does not pass through the immigration department's stringent rules and regulations, we have no idea of all the red tape involved in becoming a resident of Canada and finally a Canadian citizen.

The group learned about our country's involved procedures for newcomers to Canada.It was hard at first, she had little English, but her neighbours were kind and helpful and they are now fast friends.

She was most interesting, just sitting and conversing with the members and answering all of their questions. She shared a delightful Swiss confection with everyone at the end of her talk. Marguerite MacGillis thanked her for coming to speak to the ladies.

The group had still more questions for their speaker during the coffee hour afterward.

Add a Swiss twist to breakfast, lunch or dinner

COUNTRY COOKING CORNER

CAROL KLOOS

This next recipe was sent to me from Trudi Pauletto who owns "Chez Trudi" on Lakeshore Road, Dorval, Québec. This quaint little Swiss restaurant, beautifully decorated, (where Fred and I celebrated our wedding reception), serves up some delicious Swiss specialities. One of my favourites being her Wienerschnitzel with rösti potatoes, among many other first-rate well-presented meals.

This recipe she indicates "is good for breakfast, lunch, supper or dessert." It's quite fulfilling and healthy!

Birchermüsli

1 c. fresh fruit salad
3/4 c. milk
3/4 -1 c. oats
1 tbsp. sugar
2 tbsp. raisins
1 banana, cut up

•Mix all ingredients together, tossing lightly. It is then ready to eat.

***

Simply read the medley of healthy ingredients in this next recipe. It is a very high source of fibre, a good source of vitamin 'A', and also contains iron. It makes a great dessert or breakfast.

Good-For-You Fruit Compote

1 can (28 oz) pear halves, in juice
1 c. dried apricots
1 c. large pitted prunes
1/2 c. golden raisins
1/4 c. packed brown sugar
1 tsp. ground ginger

•In a 2 L. casserole, combine pears and 1 cup of their juice, dried apricots, prunes, raisins, sugar and ginger.

•Cover and bake in 350°F oven for 30 min. or until apricots are soft. Serve warm or cold with a heaping tablespoon-full of low-fat plain yogurt if desired. Serves 6.

Cooking With an Eye on Your Budget: –Judge amounts you prepare to satisfy your family appetites and leave no unnecessary leftovers.

–Store planned or unplanned leftovers carefully and use within a few days or wrap air tight and freeze.

–Keep an eye on the oven, saucepans and your toaster - burnt food is wasted food.

–Cook meat at low temperature to reduce shrinkage and to retain juices.

–Trim bruised and overripe fruits and cook with a little sugar and flavoring. Use as stewed fruit, sauce for puddings, or in fruit cakes.

When you purchase apricots for the fruit compote, buy a little extra and make this apricot- studded healthy banana bread which I'm sure you will love!

Banana Bread with Apricots

1/3 c. margarine, softened
2/3 c. sugar
2 eggs
1 c. mashed ripe bananas (2 to 3 medium)
1/4 c. buttermilk
1 1/4 c. all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. salt
1 c. 100% bran cereal, (not flakes)
3/4 c. dried apricots, chopped
1/2 c. walnuts, chopped

•In a mixing bowl, cream margarine and sugar. Add eggs and mix well. Combine bananas and buttermilk. Combine the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with banana mixture. Stir in bran apricots and the nuts. Pour into greased 9"x5"x3" loaf pan. Bake at 350°F for about 55 to 60 minutes or until done when knife is inserted and comes out clean. Cool 10 min. before removing from pan to a wire rack. Makes 1 loaf.

This is a healthy cake recipe for people who have diabetes or for those who should cut back on their sugar intake. I prepared, last May, a birthday party for my brother-in-law. My sister Dona was in charge of bringing the birthday cake. She promptly found this great recipe on the internet.

Sugar-Free Carrot Cake

6 egg whites or 1 c. egg substitute
1 c. apple juice concentrate
2/3 c. canola or safflower oil
1/4 c. water
3 c. unbleached white flour
1 tbsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
2 c. raisins
2 c. carrots (4-6 medium)

•Preheat oven to 350°F. Stir together egg, apple juice, oil and water. Set aside. Sift together dry ingredients, flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg.

•Put raisins in warm water to plump them up. Meanwhile, grate carrots, and spray two round 9" cake pans with non-stick spray.

•Gently stir wet ingredients with dry ingredients just 'til moistened. Drain raisins and fold in carrots and raisins.

•Pour into cake pans and bake 25 to 35 min. Then reduce heat to 325°F for eight to 12 more mintues. Serve cooled, (even refrigerated) with a cream cheese frosting, if desired.

Tips and Hints of the Week:–Sliced turkey is one of the better cold cuts. It has little fat and is low in calories. But it is high in sodium, so look for low-sodium brand.

–To minimize salt intake, avoid hams that are cured.

–To remove excess fat from soup; let it chill so that fat solidifies, then remove with a spoon.

–To extend the life of your pastry-brush, wash and dry it carefully after each use. Hang to dry where air circulates before putting it away.

–Remove food for broiling from the refrigerator long enough ahead of cooking time so it's no longer chilled through. It will broil more quickly than if cooked directly from fridge. Saves also on electricity this way.

–Scalding tomatoes, peaches or pears in boiling water before peeling makes it easier on you and the fruit.

Happy Cooking

Bainsville woman uses beeswax for everything but candlelight

ARTS SCENE

LORNA FOREMAN, 347-1338

I always thought wax melted or drooped in the heat, didn't you? Well I was in for a surprise when I set off for this interview.

Ronnie Glenn of Bainsville assured me that her unique beeswax window decorations did not disappear after a hot summer day.

Ronnie was born in Scotland. She and her husband wanted to see Expo '67 so they did the most logical thing - they immigrated here.

Starting off with the goal of becoming an artist, Ronnie attended the Chelsea School of Commercial Art in London, England. However she got a bit sidetracked and decided to switch to drama school. Here she studied singing. Music was not a stranger to her since she was also a classically trained pianist.

"I worked at Covent Garden as an extra singer in any large production they mounted." Ronnie told me. "It was most exciting and I learned all the operas while there."

At this point Ronnie fell in love and got married. Even with small children Ronnie played for a dinner theater.

"I liked that." Ronnie said. It gave me time with my small children and even though I played at night, I was home early."

But stationary was not a word Ronnie knew.

"We moved to Orlando, Florida for about four years." Ronnie explained. "It was there I started painting again and also got back into theater. I was persuaded to audition for the role of the nasty woman in Oliver but didn't get it. I would have preferred the nasty role since I prefer character roles. They are easier to perform."

"We have lived in Athens, Georgia as well as Boston." Ronnie told me. "In fact we have only just moved back to this area recently."

During these travels, Ronnie managed to find time to paint and has sold quite a lot. She has also had a solo exhibition. While in Boston, Ronnie started painting folk art on wood. But she wanted to try something unusual. Having seen some interesting ornaments made of beeswax, she decided to try.

"These ornaments fascinated me." Ronnie said. "When they are hung in the window they become luminous and lovely soft, warm light comes through. Beeswax is naturally a soft honey colour and is very beautiful."

Ronnie buys her beeswax locally and has to clean it since there are all sorts of debris in it, mostly dead bees. Apparently while the wax is melting, these particles sink to the bottom so that they are not part of the ornaments you buy.

Once melted, the wax is poured into a mold. Once turned out, you have your ornament.

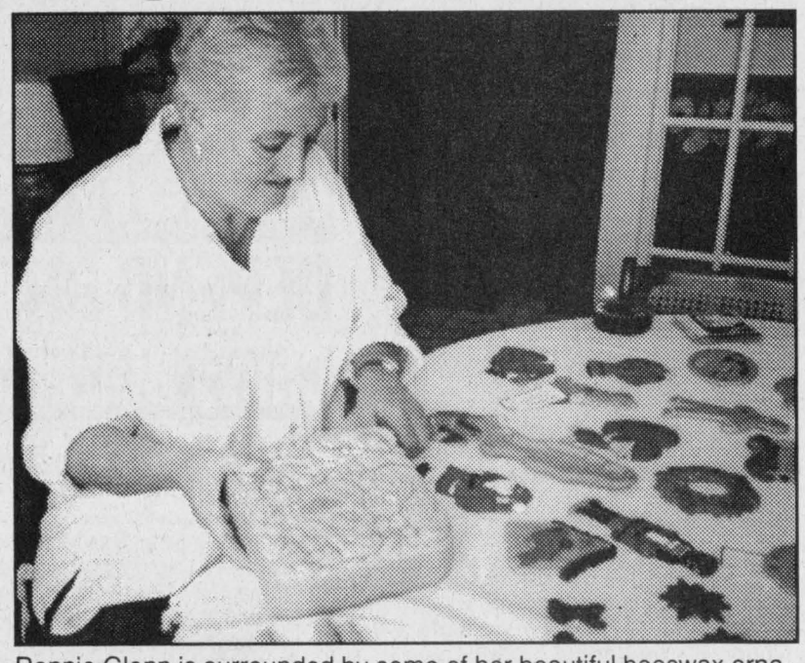
"I add a bit of colour." Ronnie explained. "Using acrylic paints, I add a few accents. I find the ones with the colours tend to sell better than the plain. On occasion, I add food colouring to the wax before pouring. Occasionally I will add something like cinnamon oil to the wax."

That's not all that beeswax is used for. Ronnie let me try a sample of her lip balm. Using beeswax, almond oil and several other ingredients, the lip balm is terrific and we are fast approaching the season where it becomes a necessity. Also she uses the wax in a special hand cream recipe. It too, works extremely well.

"For the craft shows I only produce the ornaments." Ronnie said. "Skin care products are more complicated."

When she does make her skin care products, she will often use herbs from her own garden.

"I would love to become a herbalist." Ronnie said. "I wished I had had a grandmother who could have taught me some of the old secrets."



Ronnie Glenn is surrounded by some of her beautiful beeswax ornaments that will be for sale at the Tri-County Craft Show.

When I interviewed her, Ronnie was preparing for the three-day Tri-County Craft Show, Nov. 26, 27 and 28 at the Cornwall Civic Complex.

That's a lot of beeswax.

Grandma writes recipes in hopes of helping cystic fibrosis

D'ALKEITH

JEAN MACLENNAN

Denise Legault, of Alexandria but formerly of Brodie, has published a cook book - "Collection of Favourite Recipes". During the spring and summer Denise collected about 300 favourite everyday recipes from relatives and friends. She organized them into categories and it was off to the printer. A number of sponsors advertised in the book and Denise reports that the advertising paid for the printing of the first 800 books.

She hopes that as we use the book we will support the sponsors. The receipts from the sales will be forwarded for Cystic Fibrosis Research.

Her grandson Julien Legault, aged seven, Brodie, suffers with this disorder. To obtain the cook book telephone either Denise at 525-5490 or Martine Legault at 874-2874.

Last week Phyllis Terry accompanied Anne MacNaughton and me as far as Napanee to visit Velma Nicholson while Anne and I went on to Bramalea to visit Marg McNiece. During our few days there we saw Marg, her daughter Val and husband Fred Carmichael, my grandson Lyan Weese, Helen (Grant) Beehan, Joyce (Thomas) and Howard Reynolds. We also travelled to St. Thomas to have lunch with Mildred McNiece.

Clara and Rod MacLeod, their grandson, Kenton McBean, Lagan, spent the weekend at Nevele Grande Country Club at Ellenville, N.Y. Clara and Kenton were supplying accompaniment for the MacCulloch dancers at the Irish Weekend. The fun was on Friday night, all day Saturday and ended with a church service on Sunday.

They motored through the Catskill Mountains where the trees were in full colour.

In a recent Auld Lang Syne column there was an article about the four Lochiel plowmen who won trophies at the annual country match. Donald MacGillivray, Brodie Road was telling me that he drove his team to Bainsville that morning!

The other local plowmen were Arnold Vogan, George Hay and Gerald McGillis all of Lochiel. Allan L. McDonald, Green Valley rounded out the winners. That was in 1939.

Many thanks to Jim Finlayson who read Halloween books and sang songs with the preschoolers at Story Time. Kassie MacDonald, Emma and Duncan MacDonald were the little spooks. There were small gifts for all the children. This time there were only six children but these have been up to a dozen.

Many thanks to the adults who accompany the children.

Speeking of spooks. The Optimist Club hosted the crowd. They had made up 100 bags of goodies and they were mostly all picked up. Saturday night was so nice weatherwise that the children and not so young had a great evening. We had 51 call at our house.

Recent visitors to New Brunswick were Hazel Jamieson, her sister Chick McCaskill, their brother Wyman Hay and his wife Madge. They motored through Maine and enjoyed the fall colours which were at their peak, saw a mother deer and two babies cross the road in front of their car.

They also went over "Confederation Bridge" to P.E.I.

Back in Shediac, N.B. they stayed with Chick's daughter Linda and her husband Michael Pavey who live in Grande Digue on the shore of the Altantic Ocean. They saw the sun rise and walked on the beach when the tide was out.

On the return journey they saw many signs of "Moose Crossing" but never saw one until returning home and saw one between Glen Sandfield and Brodie!

One and all said they had a great holiday.

Hazel Jamieson and her sister Chick McCaskel enjoyed a lovely lunch and visit with Allan and Muriel and Nancy McCaskill on Friday.

Harvest Supper

Father Eric Robichaud, in his friendly manner, greeted over 800 people for our annual harvest supper. For nearly 40 years, young and old work together in an extraordinary community spirit and team work effort and even have fun doing it.

Winner of the $1,000 draw was Gisèle Décoste of R.R. 2, Alexandria.

Special thank you to all those in charge, all the helpers too numerous to mention and, of course, all our visitors from near and far. We are lucky to have very talented artists in the name of Antonia Den Otter and her helpers, her two daughters, Betty Ann Den Otter and Annie Larocque.

The decorations in the church and in the hall were superb.

Here is the recipe for our parish supper: 200 volunteers, 42 turkeys, 150 lbs. minced pork, six bags of potatoes, three bags of turnips, three bags of carrots, 20 cabbages, 50 lbs. of onions, 15 lbs. macaroni, 100 bread loaves (stuffing), 15 lbs. coffee, 144 tea bags, 90 doz. buns, 10 celery stalks, three gallons of beets, more than 200 pies plus other surprises and sweets. See you all next year!

Halloween

Ghosts and gobblins were out in force last Saturday night for trick or treat due to the turkey supper held on Sunday which could have been dangerous for the youngsters due to the heavy traffic.

Most people who opened their doors, and I always enjoy this, ran out of candies and treats on account of many children coming from far and all over. This is not acceptable and the youngsters should be going door-to-door in their own hometown. At 7 p.m., I had nothing left to give to some children who live right here in the Glen and this is not right. Many don't open their doors anymore because this is getting to be quite expensive. These kids, who come from far, certainly had a driver so I guess some parents need to be educated on the do's and don'ts of Halloween.

Glens erupt to down Rebels

The Alexandria Peewee Glens pumped in four goals in a span of about one minute to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat Oct. 27 against Upper Canada League rivals, the Char-Lan Rivals.

Francis Carriere got the ball rolling by scoring two straight goals, his first coming with only six minutes left in the game; his second 27 seconds later.

Following his lead, Pierre Luc Marleau tied the game 3-3 with an unassisted effort eight seconds later.

Marleau then assisted on the game winner, scored by Matthew McDo-nald 22 seconds later.

Assisting twice on Carriere's goals were Richard Bellefeuille and Sebastien Cholette.

Alexandria didn't have enough leftover to win Oct. 29 against the South Stormont Selects, losing 4-3.

Assisting were McDonald and Cholette. They also scored Alexandria's second period markers.

Assisting were Marleau, Zacharie St. Denis and Bellefeuille.

Barton a thorn in Lions' side

The Char-Lan Atom B Rebels defeated the Morrisburg Lions as Adam Barton scored twice in a 3-1 result.

Also scoring was Kelsey Thompson. Noah Desjardins assisted on one of Barton's goals.

The Rebels opened their season by tying the Alexandria Glens 3-3.

Accumulating three points was Michael Robertson, with one goal and two assists.

Also scoring for the Rebels were Andrew McKay and Jordan Sanchez.

Replying for Alexandria was Jean-Francois, with two, and Keegan Cholett.

Atoms suffer first defeat

The Alexandria Atom Glens finally lost their first game of the season, Oct. 30, after winning three straight.

The Glens lost 6-4 to Hawkesbury, despite a three-goal performance by Brett Boisvenue.

The other goal scorer was Cody Gallant.

In previous games, Alexandria defeated Casselman 5-3 on Oct. 24, Clarence Creek 4-0 on Oct. 23, and Vankleek Hill 5-3 on Oct. 9.

Boisvenue had seven goals, followed by Gallant and Pat Titley, with two goals each, and Ian MacGillivray, with one goal.

LeBlanc fires up Mustangs' second period

All the Maxville Mustangs needed was two minutes in the second period to down Embrun/Russell in Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League action.

After spotting a 2-0 lead to Embrun/Russell, Mustang Dave LeBlanc woke up the rest of his team.

LeBlanc scored the first of Maxville's three goals in a span of two minutes and five seconds. That was all that was needed to give Maxville a 4-3 win at Osie Villeneuve Arena.

Following LeBlanc's example were Keith Brown and Eric Bourgeois, both of whom scored only 13 seconds apart.

That made the score 3-2 Maxville, which got the eventual game winner just 10 seconds into the third period, courtesy of the player who started the ruckus in the first place – LeBlanc.

One other Mustang had more than one point. Bourgeois assisted on LeBlanc's second goal.

Also with helpers were the team's top scorer, Brad McMillan, Derek Crawford, James Rolland, Bruce Libbos and Scott Coleman.

Gettting the win was goalie Pat Huffman. Maxville improves to 5-2-1.

The Mustangs may be hard-pressed to get a point this weekend.

They're on the road to meet the league's top two squads, the Vankleek Hill Cougars and the Casselman Stars, on Saturday, 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, 1:15 p.m., respectively.

Gaels' soccer reign intact

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

Kevin Libbos' netted two goals to lead the Glengarry District-Le Relais Gaels to another Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry junior boys' soccer championship.

The victim this time was the always tough Char-Lan Crusaders.

Libbos' game winner was a beauty.

After offering a corner kick, Libbos retrieved the ball after it richoted off a Crusader defender.

Libbos faked off one Crusader, jolted a couple of yards to his left to get a better angle and then cooly ripped a left-footer to the top right hand corner of the net.

However, the Gaels had to weather as strong first-half performance by Char-Lan.

"It could have been 4-1," said coach Jason Palmer.

The Gaels were lucky to escape with a 1-1 draw at half-time.

"I think the guys were a little nervous, playing in front of the home crowd," Palmer said of the home game at the GDHS-Le Relais field.

"But we got some really good goaltending," Palmer said of goalkeeper Grant MacLeod.

Libbos also scored a penalty shot in the first half.

"It's a tremendous feeling to defend the SDG championship. We have tremendous respect for them (Char-lan) because we know what they can do on the field," Palmer said.

The Gaels will now prepare for their long wait to play in the all-Ontarios to be held May 26 at St. Lawrence High School in Cornwall.

"We're going to start training in January and then go to a couple of tournaments."

Gaels' Jason Van Den Oetelaar, left, and Char-Lan Crusaders' Tyler Doyle jockey for the ball during the Gaels' 2-1 championship victory at the Alexandria high school field.

Senior girls head off for all-Ontario meet

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The Char-Lan Crusaders cross-country running senior girls' team will be vying for a provincial medal this weekend in Toronto.

Boosted by the senior girls' first place showing, the Crusaders took first place overall for single A schools Oct. 29 at the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association meet in Kingston.

The senior girls were also fifth overall, beating out some much larger Kingston and Brockville schools.

"This is the second time I will be bringing the team to (Ontario Federation of Schools Scholastic Association championships)," said long-time running coach Don Blackadder.

Char-Lan has sent individuals on a number of occasions.

Individually, Calla Humphries was third, Liz Rankin was seventh, Margaret Cumming was eight and Vera Cumming was 10th.

Kelly Rankin displayed true grit by finishing 44th despite falling and badly scrapping her hip.

Blackadder said EOSSAA is the final event for the overall team, as their is no category at OFSSA

The Char-Lan midget girls were fifth, the midget boys ninth and the junior girls were 10th. The senior boys finished out of the top 10. The juniors did not qualify as a team.

For the all-Ontario, Blackadder plans to alter his girls' running style.

"In the past they've paced them well and then surged to the lead," he said.

But that option is less appealing as the start of OFSSAA course is much more condensed.

"If you're not in top 100, it's difficult to catch up," he said.

The team will be competing against about 260 other runners.

Glens suffer first winless weekend

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Inter-league play wasn't much to the Alexandria Jr. B Glens' liking last weekend.

The Glens suffered two defeats to Metro Valley league teams, first losing 5-3 to Clarence Creek Beavers on Oct. 29 and then an Oct. 31, 5-2 setback to the Papineau Voisins.

Alexandria has lost three of its last four games, but still sits in third place, two points ahead of the Kemptville 73's, which holds down the last playoff spot.

After this weekend's games, the club will be one game short of the one-third mark.

Head coach Marc Sauve likes his team's chances despite a 2-5 record since the Glens went 5-0 to open the 1999-2000 season.

"We really don't have one superstar, but were pretty even keeled on all four lines," Sauve said.

He said it's a matter of time before he fully utilizes the newer players on the team to complement his veteran-laden club.

"I still don't know the circumstances to put them in," Sauve said.

However, whatever problems the team has isn't the sole burden of the rookies.

He expects two veterans, in particular, assistant captains Yves Ruest and Ghislaine Valade to start challenging for the top 10 scorers list, where the Glens have none.

Defence salvages Rebels

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Low scoring ruled during the Char-Lan Rebels' weekend play which spelled the end to their nine-game undefeated streak.

The Rebels only notched three goals in their Oct. 29, 4-1 loss to the Metcalfe Jets and the team's 2-0 victory over the Papineau Voisins.

Regardless of the weak offensive output, Char-Lan maintains its one-point first-place lead over the Akwesasne Wolves.

Rebels 2 Papineau 0

In the second of two inter-league games between the Eastern Ontario Jr. Hockey League team and Metro loop foes, goalie Tim McCuaig stopped all 25 shots for the shutout win.

The Rebels and the Voisins played to a stand-off, but Char-Lan's powerplay was in top form.

Char-Lan only needed one goal and that came about midway through the first frame.

Assistant captain Ian McConnell converted passes from captain Al Lapierre and Andrew Banville for the game winner.

Char-Lan's Mike King then took advantage of a cross-checking penalty and potted home an insurance goal with little over a minute remaining in the second period.

Assisting were Luc Lapierre and Stephane Mainville.

The third period was scoreless, but coach Claude Dupuis had to live through an undisciplined approach by his team.

The Rebels took seven penalties after only being fingered for six during the first 40 minutes.

But Papineau's response was uninspiring, managing only seven shots during the period, despite several powerplays.

Metcalfe 4 Rebels 1

Fans had little to cheer about Oct. 29 during Char-Lan's home game at the Williamstown arena

The Rebels' had their worst offensive display during the season so far.

Metcalfe took control early with two goals in the first period by Steve Crawford and Mike Senterre.

Char-Lan finally got on the scoreboard when McConnell scored the second period's only goal.

Assisting were Doug Ferguson and Tim Corput.

The addition of defenceman Doug Ferguson should spell bad news for their St. Lawrence Division opponents.

Ferguson decided the Junior A circuit wasn't for him and left the Pembroke Lumber Kings two weeks ago.

Ferguson was league MVP and top defenceman in 1997-98 and the team's top blue-liner and on the league all-star team last year.

Metcalfe held a tense one-goal lead for most of the final 20 minutes, and eventually put the issue to rest by scoring twice during the final five minutes.

Beating starter McCuaig were Johnathon Howard and Ryan Vekick.

The Rebels are in good position to solidify their lead on Akwesasne. Their next two opponents, from the Rideau division have a combined 4-15-3 record.

Char-Lan travels to Prescott Friday to play third-place South Grenville at 8:15 p.m., and then hosts winless Athens at 7:45 p.m.

Captain McDonell scoring up a Storm

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Williamstown's other international medallist, Kent McDonell, is finding out that with age comes more responsibility and more decisions.

After feeling the spotlight's glare while competing in last year's world junior hockey championships, McDonell faces more challenges as he nears the crossroads of his hockey career.

He had to make a choice earlier this fall, after completing the Detroit Red Wings' training camp.

"We did not agree on a minor league contract," McDonell told the News shortly before hitting the ice for a Guelph Storm practice.

McDonell was originally drafted in 1997 in the ninth round of the National Hockey League entry draft by Carolina Hurricanes.

He re-enterd the draft in 1999 and was taken in the fifth by Detroit.

The Red Wings were going to assign McDonell to Cincinnati of the American Hockey League, but that didn't mean he would get a chance to play there.

"I probably would have went to the Eastern Coast Hockey League," he said, explaining there were few spots open for Wing signees.

Cincinnati is jointly owned by Detroit and the Anaheim Mighty Ducks, which has sewn up more positions with that farm club.

Instead of letting someone else assig him to an inferior league like the East Coast, McDonell took matters in his own hands.

"I felt another year in the juniors wouldn't hurt," he said.

McDonell is now using his silver medal winning performance to help the Guelph Storm overcome a mediocre 4-7 start to their season.

McDonell is among the league leaders in goals with nine. He leads the Storm with 13 points and also 34 penalty minutes.

His return to the Storm was welcomed with more than open arms. He now wears the 'C' on his jersey.

"That really hasn't changed my playing," he said.

With this his final junior year, the overage McDonell has come razor close to winning a major championship – twice.

The Guelph Storm were one goal away from winning the Memorial Cup in 1998, losing the final in OT.

Recognizing his international and national experience, new coach Paul Gillies has used McDonell in all situations, including powerplays and short-handed special teams.

McDonell has also developed a level of adaptability. Gillies is his fourth coach while with the Storm.

"It hasn't hurt. They all had different styles that they bring to the table, which is a benefit."

It's partly his responsibility to instill the winning character needed for competitive team.

"At the (world) juniors you got to see the best players giving it their all."

McDonell is confident the Storm will be a contender, even though the team has struggled to put it all together.

"We have trouble playing the whole 60 minutes. We fall behind and then we regain our exposure and we have to get back."

As for his personal goals, McDonell hasn't set any.

"For me when I set goals, I get frustrated when if I don't meet them."

Regardless, the horizon still looks tempting.

"I'm going to convince Detroit to give me a (better) contract," he said.

First winless weekend

Sauve is counting on luring former Junior A product, forward Chancey Lajoie, to the team in the near future.

"He would be a big acquisition."

While it was good to have a fast start, Sauve believes the early success could have given his team a false sense of confidence.

"Maybe we were playing a little too cocky."

Papineau 5 Glens 2

The Glens actually held a 1-0 lead going into the third period when a bad break went against the Glens.

"The puck went off our defenceman's skate. It was a cheap goal that gave (Papineau) a boost," Sauve said.

"We were having a good game up till then. I think we got a little flustered."

The misfortune opened the gates to two more Papineau goals during the first half of that period.

Scoring were Serge Dumoulin, Eric Lanthier and Marcel Seguin.

Michael Cunning brought the Glens back into the contest, 3-2, after scoring on a pass from captain Simon Menard with 4:37 left.

Sauve then pulled goalie Trevor Cunning, but the move backfired.

Papineau pumped two pucks during the last minute into the empty net to seal the victory.

"We deserved to have the win," Sauve said. "I have to give them full marks for their effort."

Scoring earlier for Alexandria was Jeremy Lafaivre. Assisting were Dominic Decoeur and Menard.

Clarence Creek 5 Glens 3

In an extremely gentlemanly game at Billy Gebbie Arena, the Glens played catch-up until time ran out.

Clarence Creek took leads of 1-0, 2-1, 3-1 and 4-2, while Alexandria battled back to keep it close.

"They were a really good team. They had size and good puck movement," Sauve said, "They were nice to watch," adding that maybe was the reason his team fell behind throughout the whole game.

The elusive Beavers were slippery enough to make it a calm affair with the two clubs combining for nine penalties.

The Beavers' game winner came a little over a minute into the final period when J.F. Messier beat Glens' goalie Patrice Vaillancourt.

"He played a solid game for us," Sauve remarked about his back-up netminder.

Alexandria made it 1-1 with Jason Poirier scoring thanks to Steven Vanden Oetalaar's assist.

Eric Leroux got the Glens to 3-2, with the team's second period score.

Vanden Oetalaar scored with 3:48 left. Assisting were Valade and Leroux.

Also scoring for Clarence Creek were Chris Brunet, Pat Cousineau, Mathieu Desmarais and P.A. Pinard.

Alexandria will try its luck this weekend against inter-divisional opponents, the Brockville Tikis, this Friday, 8:30 p.m. at home and the Gananoque Islanders on the road, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Gananoque has a 6-6 record while Brockville is 4-6-1.

Volunteer Soccer Coordinator Needed

The Glen Sandfield Soccer Club whose teams play in the Glengarry Soccer League from June to August requires a volunteer coordinator to organize teams for the year 2000. Work involves finding coaches (the majority of the 17 coaches return each year but a few new ones are always needed), passing on information from the league to the coaches and vice versa and generally coordinating the other volunteers and day to day activities. No experience necessary, just some organizational abilities and a desire to help kids enjoy a great team sport. If interested call Karen Kingston 525-1822.

St. Raphael's And Thereabouts

ANNA-MARGARET MacDONALD, 525-1174

International Year Celebrated

The entire St. Raphael's Parish celebrated the "International Year of Older Persons" on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Msgr. D.B. McDougold celebrated mass at 10 a.m., the regular 10 a.m. service with intentions for the "older".

The "younger" members of the Catholic Women's League acted as hostesses for the luncheon which followed in the Parish Centre and opened by the singing of "O Canada". Carl Rines was emcee and kept the program lively with lots of stories to enjoy.

It was recalled that the oldest parish member now resident at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria is on the way to his 101st birthday. He was not present but sent greetings. This is James H. McDonald, better known as "Jimmie Sandy B."

Then there is Donald (little Archie) MacDonald who was present and will soon be 96. Huetta Allinotte is eldest lady on the brink of 90, also present to receive congratulations.

Couples who are married 50 years and more were also highlighted as follows: 60 years - Mae and Rudolph Levert, Theresa and Victor Belafi; 58 years - Rita and E.H. Tourangeau; 56 years - Anna and Rudy Szeplabi and Elizabeth and John Harkai; 55 years - Leo and Leila Thauvette; ;54 years - Mervyn and Anna Margaret MacDonald, Paul and Therese Valvade, Rene and Carmel Roy; 53 years - Anna and Walter Zientek, Betty and Cameron MacDonald; 51 years - Joan and Don McKenzie, Archie and Theresa McDonald; 50 years - Cuthbert and Teresa McDonald, Ann and Johnnie (Archie Allen) McDonald)

There was violin entertainment by Kelsey McDonell who also step-danced, by Lee-Anne Quennville on the flute, a sing-song led by Carmel MacDonell, and a closing song, "Danny Boy" sung in his inimitable fashion by the reverend paster himself, Father McDougald.

Still Going Strong

Speaking of older persons, our long-time neighbour in the Seventh Concession of Lancaster, "Mémère" Seguin is really enjoying life at 101. Had that birthday in September.

She just returned from a motor trip to Windsor where she accompanied her daughter Marie Anne and husband Maurice Gauthier on a visit to her grandson Hubert Gauthier and family. En route back they stopped to visit her son Jean Marie, Colette and family in Hamilton. She sang songs for them and told stories about old times and generally "wowed" them all with her vitality. What a remarkable lady!

She is a resident at Maria Goretti in Alexandria and was for many years a parishioner at St. Raphael's.

New Commissionar

We took in the annual meeting of the Clan Donald Glengarry-Stormont Branch on Sunday at the Legion Hall in Alexandria. I believe this place is also called the Rendezvous or something similar. (Hard to keep up on everything!)

The executive for the coming year is: Commissioner Marion Tobin, Past Commissioner Ambrose MacDonell, Deputy Commissioner Myles MacMillan, Treasurer Ronald Macdonell, Secretary Sharon Davies, Fill-in Secretary Anna McBean.

Directors are: John D. MacCulloch, Finlay MacDonell, Flora MacDonell, Myles and Joan MacMillian, Rhoda MacDonald, Maureen Kennedy, Archibald C. MacDonell, Donald J. MacDonald and Phyllis MacDonald. Honourary Chairmen are Jack MacDonald and Duncan G. MacDonald.

Such a gathering of course would be incomplete without music, so the usual violinists were on hand: Isobel McDonald, Duncan J. MacDonald, Donald J. and Rod MacPhee, Gerald McGillis and Allan Munroe all accompanied by Lloyd McCuaig. Fourteen year old Joseph Fraser also demonstrated his capability to draw a bow with the best of them.

Luncheon and a social afternoon rounded out the gathering.

The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger everyday

–Sadly missed Victoria and John 44-1p

CHOLETTE, Claire –In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away Nov. 3 1998.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break but all in vain;
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never–
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
– Always remembered by your children and families. 44-1p

LACOMBE, Rene –In loving memory of a dear husband and father, grandfather and father-in-law who passed away Nov. 2 1997, two years ago.
Your life was love and labour
Your love for your family was true
You have your best to all of us
What more could you do?
Your life was full of kindly deeds
A helping hand to those in need
A pleasant smile, a heart of gold
No finer husband and father this world could hold.
And if we could have one lifetime wish
One dream that could come true
We would pray to God with all our hearts
For yesterday and you.
To us who loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow old
Loving you always, forgetting you never, loved and sadly missed by loving wife Antoinette and family
–Antoinette 44-1p

In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather who passed away 2 years ago, November 9, 1997.
It has been two years since we suffered your loss.
Your presence is so deeply missed, your love and happiness is engraved in our hearts.
I know we must not tie ourselves to you in tears
And be happy that we had you for those precious years.
We still grieve for you but we know it's only for a while that we must part
And we bless the memories within our hearts.
We know you are not far away and if we need you, you are always near.
Even though we can't hear or see you, your love is felt around soft and clear.
Your loving ways still stay forever in our hearts
–Sadly missed by your wife Blanche and family. 44-1p

Plan No. U-937
BEST SELLING PLANS OF THE DECADE 1996

Our seventh installment in the Best Sellers series is a home designed specifically for a cul-de-sac lot. The irregular wedge shape calls for more specific design that is narrow at the front and steps out gradually to the rear of the property. This particular cul de sac design offers many of the most asked for features of the 90's. The exterior boasts the popular Modern California Stucco look with muntin bars, and stucco detailing.

Twelve foot ceilings in the foyer and living room create a spacious as well as stylish atmosphere. The kitchen has an efficient working layout with plenty of cupboard and counter space and an open counter space and family room. The den, set apart from the main traffic areas would make an ideal study or computer room.

Four is the magic number for bedrooms, and, in this home, all four are a good size. In keeping with popular demand, the master bedroom features a walk-in closet and four piece ensuite with a swirl tub.

Plans for U-937 may be obtained for $485.00 for a package of five complete sets of working prints and $40.00 for each additional set of the same plan. Allow $20.00 extra to cover the cost of postage and handling. All B.C. residents add 7% PST to plan total. All Canadian residents add 7% GST to plan total plus courier charge.

This is one of our new designs. Many innovative plans are now available in our NEW catalogue: Two Stories 2000-2500 sq. ft., which is available for $8.51 including postage and handling and the GST.

Keeping Health In Mind

"Keeping Health in Mind" is a monthly newspaper column made possible with the help of Rozon Insurance Brokers, The Glengarry News and the clinical staff of Tri-County Mental Health Services, a community program of the Cornwall General Hospital.

Aging: A New Perspective

The Cornwall General Hospital Mental Health Education Committee hosted a conference on October 15, 1999. The conference title was Aging: A New Perspective and this title was chosen to bring attention to a number of different aspects of the conference.

October brings us closer to the end of the celebrations for the International Year of Older Persons. However, the focus on the skills and needs of older adults in our community must move into the new millennium. Stats show that the numbers of elders will increase and to provide for the needs of this population, ongoing research, increased knowledge base and changing attitudes are essential.

Our special guests at the conference addressed these issues through their presentation. Diane Raymond, a local resident shared her personal experiences as an elder person by focusing on the fact that the majority of older persons are well. In spite of normal aging they are in good physical and mental health. She also encouraged elders and conference participants to focus on what is there vs. what is not there. She emphasized the importance of exercise, balanced nutrition and social contacts as means to maintain good physical and mental health. She reminded participants that the assumption held by Western society that after 65 it's a downhill slope is opposed by all seniors. Diane warned participants to be careful about casual remarks about elders – they may set a negative tone.

Dr. Dolly Dastoor from the Douglas Hospital in Montreal noted that since we are all living longer, it's important for all of us to be aware of normal age changes. Normal must be considered in light of the individual's history, environment and values. The older population fear losing their memory, however some mild memory difficulties are part of normal aging. On the other hand, memory problems are the best known signs and symptoms of dementia. When memory problems begin to interfere with the person's daily activities and social relationships, these are warning signs. Early detection is important, as is early treatment. Researchers are getting close to answers about heredity, treatment and prevention.

Dr. Marie-France Rivard of the Royal Ottawa Hospital assisted participants in exploring the variety of mental health problems elders may experience such as depression. She noted that a myth about mental health is that depression and other psychiatric problems which occur after age 65 are untreatable or keep reoccurring. In fact success rates will improve in the new millennium for all forms of depression. Another myth is that depression can be overcome with willpower. In fact, major depressive episodes cannot be willed away.

We as professionals need to develop more comprehensive assessments and improve systems of care for older persons.

A special surprise was in store for participants as they were entertained by the Raging Grannies at noon time. Alma Norman noted that there are several Raging Granny Groups across Ontario and one of their goals is to raise the social consciousness of conference participants through song. They were successful!

All in all the conference goals were met and participants were educated, informed and given an opportunity to celebrate the International Year of Older Persons.

More Boer War Diary
HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

Excerpts from Pvt. John Angus Macdonald's 1899 Boer War diary continue with descriptions of the voyage to South Africa. It was an exciting time for a young man from Glen Nevis who had never before travelled far from home. At first it must have seemed like an exciting adventure before reality set in.

Britain had not been involved in such a large military action since the Crimean War 45 years earlier. The Boer War was the first time that Canadians fought overseas as distinct units and marked the emergence of a Canadian identity on the world scene. But Canada's involvement in what some saw as an immoral war caused serious divisions at home. Among many Americans and Europeans it was perceived as an outdated example of British imperialism.

John Macdonald had enlisted for one year. The high command had estimated that the war would be over within a few months. It actually continued for almost two years after he returned home.

"Nov. 17th Friday ... Crossed the Equator at 10.30 a.m... Baptized by father Neptune at 7.30 p.m.

Sunday 19th Very cool breeze on bow. Church parades all day R.C.'s first at 9.30 a.m. Pres at 10.30 and Meth ... at 11.30. On special watch.

Mon Nov 20th Weather fine ... Parade at 9.30 a.m. Kit bag inspection and change of boots ... grog served out. Boxing bout. Wiley vs Sherrith.

Thursday Nov 23rd ... sea rough. Parades at 9.30 for helmets. Transports to escort us to Cape Town sighted on starboard side. kakhai (sic) uniforms issued at 2.30 p.m... dreamt of home and mother.

Friday Nov 24th Ship rolling the worse yet ... sea sick again. Hospital parade at 9. a.m....

Sunday Nov 26th ... Church parade 1st R.C. service at which band played "Nearer My God to thee" "Adeste Fideles" and "God Save the Queen" Parade in heavy marching order at 2.30 in order to be ready to land.

Monday Nov 27th ... Birds of all kinds to be seen everybody looking for land but no sight of it ... Concert on starboard aft at 8.15 p.m...

Wednesday Nov 29th Cape Town sighted at 7.30 midst cheers from our boys... Sea sick. Whales and birds of all kinds... Shark.

Nov 30th landed at 8 a.m. Marched into camp.

Dec 1st Got orders ... to move out. Great enthusiasm among inhabitants [in British area] ... Harvesting on one side and seeding on the other. Guard camps [note by N.McD. 'These were Concentration Camps. 75% of the casualties in this war were in these camps. The number included men, women and children']."

In the next 20 pages of his diary John Angus Macdonald tells of the strange new surroundings in which the Canadians found themselves, their movements by troop trains and forced marches through sandstorms, heat and rain and the signs of destruction as they got closer to the enemy. Some of the entries are a mixture of sadness and comedy:

"Saturday Dec 9th ... Building a tombstone over a Canadian's grave.

Sunday Dec 10th ... Left on train at 10 a.m. Landed at Belmont at 12. riding in open cars .... thunderstorm ... Pitched tents ... this is where the Highlanders lost heavily on Nov 23rd in their charge for the hills. Scotch [Scots] Guards lost 81 killed ... all of their horses injured with shell and ball. (General Wauchope killed) (Tracking ostrich that laid an egg)."

The general was actually killed in action and not while chasing an ostrich as the words may be misconstrued. Neil MacDonald notes "Major-General Andrew Wauchope, commander of the Highland Brigade ... Generals were seldom close enough to the front to be killed in battle. The Highland Brigade wore their claymores [broadswords] despite orders to the contrary." It was the last time that claymores were carried into battle.

The diary regularly tells of reports of enemy movements nearby but it is a guerrilla war and the Boers strike quickly and then melt away into the countryside, as in this entry:

"Wednesday Dec 13th Great excitement over Battle of Spitzfontein... every Canadian was ... ready for any attack ... [but] no enemy was visible.

Friday Dec 15th ... Hunting for Boers all night."

(A slight error was made by me in last week's column. I inadvertently added a V to the RCR - The Royal Canadian Regiment. John A. seems to have been attached, at various times, to the Royal Scots and to the Stormont & Glengarry Regiment as well). (To be continued).—

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT

What a lovely evening for Halloween! Out our way we have only a few visitors but it was great fun to see our young neighbors. Quality costumes too, not just thrown together at the last minute.

Gus and Su-Lin sat with Barry on the foyer steps, wide-eyed as the trick-or-treaters arrived. Our Siamese, Mariah Ming, had a trip in one of the candy bags in mind so we kept her close but allowed her to greet our visitors, a thing that gives her much joy. Our ghosts outside didn't seem too scary to any one but Gus. He hates things that flap in the wind.

Down in the village, at the fire hall, as they have done for many many years, a Halloween party was held. Not only a bag of treats for the little ones in costume but a hot dog and a drink as well. I hear that more than 300 kids passed through the hall and that all of the candy and supplies were totally gone by early evening. We tend to take things like this, a great Halloween tradition, for granted because it's always been there. Many thanks to the fire fighters and the Lancaster Fire department.

Lest We Forget - These three words will be heard and seen a lot since Nov. 11 is Remembrance Day. Indeed, lest we forget, there will be memorial services both in Williamstown and Lancaster, on Sunday, Nov. 7 in memory of those who served and those who died for their country.

Remembrance Day parades will be at 11.15 a.m. in Williamstown and 2 p.m. in Lancaster. Legion members and other veterans wishing to parade are asked to assemble no later than 11 a.m. at the old Charlottenburg Township hall in Williamstown and no later than 1:45 p.m. in front of the South Glengarry municipal hall in Lancaster. For information please call Eric Urquhart at 347-2262.

The curling season is on. The Lancaster and District Curling Club had 16 teams participating in it's opening bonspiel. This bonspiel continued all week, concluding with a very successful potluck supper on Saturday evening, Oct. 30, under the able leadership of Gail Lipnicki.

Competition was very keen and the team skipped by Bruce McCuaig emerged as winners. Bruce's team included third Peter Leslie, second Fred Regan, and lead Stephane Henskins.

The team skipped by Tony Wettering was a close second. Bob Cummings, Roger and Micheline Bougie made up Tony's team.

Third place team was skipped by Lori Carlisle and included Kelly Olson, Kathy Miller and Martin Gaudet.

The evening concluded with a pumpkin carving contest. There were several entries in this contest and choosing a winner was a very difficult task. Local artist, Ron Marchant, acted as judge. In his opinion the winners were the carving team of Lyn Bergeron, Wendy Wert, and Shirley Picard.

Nov. 5 and 6 are the dates for the next bonspiel, the Annual Business Bonspiel. Sixteen teams will be vying for the Business Bonspiel Trophy. Members and guests are encouraged to come out to see the competition.

Dinner on Saturday evening will feature BBQ chicken grilled by Lin Bergeron and his team. A limited number of dinner tickets are available from Wendy Wert at 347-3098 or Blanche Fobert at 931-2708. Tickets are $10.

The Sunshine Gang met every week during the past month. Thanksgiving was celebrated with a lovely turkey dinner, but the outing of the month was a trip to Williamstown to view the Quilt of Glengarry. This is the mastermind of artist Esther Bryan and is, indeed, a wonderful millennium project. Esther told the group how it all began and showed members special finished blocks. There are a lot of talented people working on this one of a kind quilt.

In craft periods the Sunshine Gang made decorated serviette rings and candle holders, and later, Halloween pumpkins and ghosts.

Members kept up to date with current event discussions and enjoyed exercises and quizzes.

The Gang welcomes new member, Frances Baines, and hopes that she will enjoy being a part of this group

Glad that you are feeling better, Edna, our voice from the Sunshine Gang!

Halloween at our library was remarkable, or unremarkable. Whichever, it means that no one showed up and that's too bad. Donna and Leni had a nice program lined up and were more than ready to go. In fact, the neat spider head gear that Leni made, just for the occasion was great. Too bad!

Never to be discouraged, the plans for storytime on Thursday morning is on! Remember, Thursday Nov. 4 is Story Hour at the Lancaster Library. Children from ages 3 to 8 are welcome to join in from 10.30 to 11.15 a.m. Please call 347-2311 to register.

Representatives from 10 organizations are making a joint effort to prepare for celebrations in Lancaster on Dec. 4. Yes, the South Glengarry Service Club Council will present Back To The Future on that day. The going back part will be the celebration of Remembering Christmas Past. Throughout the day events are planned with that theme in mind. Then into the future with the Santa Claus parade at 2 p.m. from Smithfield to St. Joseph's Hall. Parade theme is Christmas in the 21st Century. A visit with Santa comes next and to end this festive day there will be a candlelight and caroling procession from St. Joseph's Hall to the village tree by the library. Caroling will continue and, with a grand finale, the official lighting of the village tree.

So far response from everyone asked to help has been great. As you read this a choir is being formed. The S.J. McLeod Band will make a performance and Walter Hambleton will provide sleigh rides throughout the day. Much more to come next week.

In the meantime your service club council is made up of the following organizations, who send representatives to the meetings and who help carry out all that is needed to be done for this day: Lancaster Antique Car Club, Lancaster Knights of Columbus, Lancaster Joint Fire Department, Lancaster Optimist Club, Lancaster Royal Canadian Legion, South Lancaster Fish and Game Club, North Lancaster Fire Department, Bainsville Women's Institute. Lancaster Cubs and Beavers and Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce. There are also many individuals who lend a hand. All in all it's a good example of how a community can work together and just a sample of how many hands make light work.
