Voters opt for change throughout county

By News staff

Alexandria residents overwhelmingly voted for change in yesterday's municipal election. And it will show around the town council table.

Only two incumbents were voted back to council. Incumbent Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly beat Councillor Fern Seguin by almost 200 votes to hold down his position.

And Bruno Massie, a frequent challenger of acclaimed Mayor Jean Paul Touchette, made it onto council this time in the reeve's position, defeating incumbent John Cormier almost 250 votes.

Massie said after his speech at the Glengarry Sports Palace that his campaign for harmony on council, combined with his past experience, helped him clinch the position.

He said he was "satisfied" with his victory.

Cormier said lack of voter turnout may have harmed his chances for re-election, adding "Bruno's machine" worked hard, maybe giving him the extra edge in the race.

"I expected to win but it didn't turn out that way."

The fact that only two incumbent council members were voted to another term shows people are looking for change, he said.

"It tells me people want to see change. There's no question about it."

For councillor, only one incumbent was returned by voters. Archie McDougall, who netted 602 votes, squeaked in ahead of newcomer Roger Lemieux, who captured the final council position with 593 votes.

"It's time for change," Massie said. "I'm ready to give myself to all the township," Montpetit said. "I know just about all the problems that have to be solved — roads, ditches, normal problems."

Two incumbents, Peter MacSweyn and William Hagen were returned to council and one newcomer, Armand Paquette was voted in.

Paquette led the voting for councillor seats with 624 ballots. Peter MacSweyn was close behind with 614 votes, and William Hagen with 606 votes, about 75 votes ahead of his closest competitor.

Hagen said he was "surprised" he won, adding, "they were all close — anyone could have won this one."

Maxville

Maxville residents have voted in a completely new council. The two incumbents running for council positions both lost their positions.

Incumbent Reeve George Currier was defeated by newcomer Jim MacEwen, who more than doubled Currier's vote total with 334 ballots cast in his favor. Currier finished with 148 votes. The third challenger, Michael Cowley-Owen, finished a distant third with 56 votes.

MacEwen's victory makes it the third generation of the family that has been elected to Maxville council.

For the council seats, Bruce McDonald took the top spot with 319 votes. William Shields finished behind him with 275 votes. Ruth MacQueen, whose late father Ken MacLennan,

BIA decision to go to OMB after written objections filed

By Greg Kielec
News editor

A proposal to form a Business Improvement Area (BIA) in Alexandria will be going before the Ontario Municipal Board.

With the formation of BIAs, if an objection is filed within a 30-day limit from the date the municipality notifies owners the proposal, the issue must be decided by the OMB.

Although only four Alexandria businesses had filed objections as of last Tuesday, one was filed within the 30-day limit by Elgin T.V., forcing a hearing.

In order for the proposal to be defeated altogether, one-third of Alexandria's businesses, comprising one-third of the total business assessment must object to the plan within 60 days of receiving notice from the town.

Businesses had until today to file their objections.

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce has been working for about a year on forming a BIA in Alexandria, in which businesses would be levied a charge proportional to their size to raise money for business promotions and improvements.

Businesses whose objections were noted at Alexandria council are: Meunerie Alexandria Milling, Barbara's and Glengarry Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Bruno Massie of Alexandria Milling, in a letter to the town, stated the company was against the proposal but did not detail why it is opposed.

For the other two businesses, fear of huge levies once the BIA is formed seems to top their concerns.

"We do not feel we should be asked to support a bylaw of this nature without receiving some estimate of the financial consequences such a bylaw would bring to our company," said Brian Fisher, manager of Glengarry Farmers' Mutual in a letter stating the company's objection.

He added: "We fail to see what benefits this bylaw could bring to our business community that could not be achieved by a properly financed chamber of commerce."

He also said Alexandria businesses will not be able to afford the extra cost of a BIA and that individual companies should decide how to spend on advertising and promotion.

"In these extremely difficult times, we firmly believe that the last thing the members of our business community need are increased expense ratios due to legislation that is not fully justified prior to its implementation.

"While we certainly want to see all local businesses grow and prosper, we also feel that the method in which we spend our advertising and promotional dollars should be selected by the individual company alone," Fisher said.

Fisher's concerns were echoed by Mike Barbara of Barbara's.

"My main objection is the fact that no fixed levy has been arrived at and at this point in our economy, I cannot afford to take the chance of being assessed hundreds of dollars," Barbara said in an Oct. 28 letter.

Sheila Olson, a director with the chamber of commerce and business owner, said that the BIA levies for town businesses will not be large. But she added, the larger a business' assessment, the more it will have to pay.

With a BIA budget of $10,000, an average small business in Alexandria, will pay $3.64. With a budget of $20,000, the same business will pay $7.80 annually with its taxes.

The size of the BIA budget will be decided by the association's board of directors once formed. The chamber has discussed having a board of around 12 members but has not made a final decision.

The fact the issue must go before the OMB was not a surprise to Olson. "We knew it was a possibility and a distinct possibility," she said.

She added, it is mostly small town businesses that have objected, and most business owners that are objecting have not even attended any of the chamber's information meetings.

The chamber of commerce is pushing for BIA because it would provide a secure funding source and provide access for government grants for improvements.

There are already so many BIAs functioning well in the province that the Alexandria BIA proposal should be easily approved by the OMB, she said.

'Justifiable self defence' argued for Robinson

Defence lawyer Patrick McCann yesterday urged jurors to find Guy Robinson, accused of first-degree murder, "not guilty of anything" because he had acted in "justifiable self-defence."

Robinson used the only means at his disposal--a butcher knife close at hand--to ward off victim Sheldon Larocque, who was "in a sexual lather" by the time Robinson awoke.

He asked the jury to think about how they would react in such a situation, saying, "Even if we were cold sober we would do anything in our power to repell such a repulsive act."

In a 1-12-hour submission, McCann told jurors to view evidence from police officers "with some degree of suspicion." He said he believed two Alexan-

Province drops plans to close registry office

By Greg Kielec
News editor

The province has abolished plans to close Alexandria's land registry office.

Ab Campion, of Ontario Ministry of Commercial Relations, said yesterday afternoon (Tuesday) that the province will not appeal an Oct. 29 court ruling which forced the province to keep open registry offices where there is only one office per county.

"There's not going to be an appeal and the registry offices will remain open in accordance with the decision of the courts," said Campion, director of communications with the ministry.

The ruling that the offices must remain open was made by Ottawa District Court Judge Hector Soubliere, at the request of Morrisburg lawyer Doug Grenkie, who had argued that according to the Land Registry Act, the province must maintain one registry office per county.

The province's decision not to appeal means the registry offices in Alexandria, Morrisburg, Prescott and Russell will remain open.

The province announced in May plans to close 14 land registry offices across the province as part of a consolidation plan aimed at saving $1 million annually in operating costs and $8 million in renovations to older offices.

Town youths steal car, head to U.S. on joyride

By Andre Perrella
News reporter

Three Alexandria youths on a joy ride to California were nabbed in the United States driving a second stolen car after the first car they stole broke down.

The youths stole a car on Kenyon Street in Alexandria Friday, and headed south of the border.

"They took turns driving," said Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau. "They were headed for California."

But their trip was sidetracked when they experienced car trouble in Hammond, N.Y. and had to steal another car.

After they drove the broken-down car into a ditch, they stole a nearby 1985 Buick.

They travelled another 40 km south when their trip abruptly came to an end near Watertown. They were caught by Troopers Raymond Marshall and Colleen Burton of the New York State Police, who were tipped off by a waitress.

"A waitress at the Longways Truck Stop saw them and thought they were too young to be driving," Marshall said.

The waitress immediately called the police, conveniently located across the street from the diner.

The three youths, aged 14, 15 and 16, were stopped and charged for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and petty larceny.

But after a few phone calls, police officers learned that the youths were also wanted by the Alexandria Police Department and the Ontario Provincial Police.

They were sent back home and were charged by the Alexandria police for their first theft.

The youths names cannot be released under the Young Offenders Act.

Deveau said the three stole a 1982 Pontiac J-2000, owned by Shirley Dashney, while it was parked at 77 Kenyon St. W. after school Friday, Nov. 8.

Court appearances are set for late November for all three, but the

Beware of telephone solicitors: OPP

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Area residents may be getting ripped off by telephone solicitors asking for credit card numbers, according to the Ontario Provincial Police in Maxville.

OPP Sgt. Gerry Brunet of the Maxville detachment said his station has received several calls from Kenyon residents complaining about persistent telephone solicitors who claim to be fundraising for the Cornwall Police Department.

''I checked with the Cornwall Police Department,'' Brunet said, ''They say they know nothing about it.''

He said other solicitors have offered callers a chance to win a television set or a Chevy Truck as long as they buy 200 personalized pens for $600.

In both cases, solicitors have asked for credit card numbers to arrange for payments.

Police have no suspects and there may not even be a thorough investigation.

''There's not a heck of a lot we can do,'' Brunet said adding that it is difficult to identify the solicitors. ''We just can't put a tap on every phone line.''

Nonetheless, he advises against giving out credit card numbers over the phone.

Marshall said courts in both jurisdictions are making arrangements for a trial, and will make arrangements for any sentences.

If convicted, they could face up to three years in a youth detention centre under Canadian law and the 16-year-old might face another year under New York law.

He also said was pleased with the high voter turnout which seemed to indicate a high interest in municipal politics in Maxville.

Kenyon

In Kenyon Township, former reeve Wilfred Vallance was returned to the head council position, after a three year absence. Vallance netted 639 votes, finishing ahead of challengers Michel Lacelle by 70 votes, and Gary Brennan by 440 votes.

"The people have spoken, in my favor this time," Vallance said. "It was a good race. I just hope I can carry out their wishes."

For the deputy reeve position, incumbent Norman MacLeod was defeated by Donald Besner, who netted 751 votes, compared to MacLeod's 649.

Gwen Morris, the only incumbent to run for councillor, was returned for another term on council, taking 681 ballots. Newcomer Owen Walker took the third councillor position with 653 votes.

Blair Williams, who with Walker, headed a citizen's group earlier this year examining council practices, took the most votes, having 768 ballots cast in his favor.

Charlottenburgh

In Charlottenburgh, there will only be one familiar face council. Councillor Don Kannon was the only person returned to another term.

Incumbent Reeve Carol-Ann Ross was ousted by newcomer Dave MacDonald. Ross, who fell behind right from the beginning polls, conceded defeat at 10:30, well before the final results were in.

"The people have spoken as a clear indication there is a need for change," MacDonald said.

He intends to run a lean administration, saying government can make cuts just like business.

Ross did not take her defeat well.

"It's fine. I accept it if that's the people's choice. But I have grave concern's about the new council's inexperience," she said.

She added: "I've devoted six years of my life and my family's to council. But in my personal opinion, it has been the dirtiest campaign in the history of this municipality."

Child's injury prompts suit

SD&G public board cited for accident in Maxville school

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The mother of a Maxville youth who was seriously hurt when a piano fell on him has filed a $200,000 suit against the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry public school board.

Janet Sabourin filed a suit against the school board and Maxville Public School teacher Edwina Mills, on behalf of her eight-year-old son Christopher and other family members, at court in Ottawa, Sept. 25.

Other family members represented in the suit are Sabourin's husband Donald and Jonathan and Christopher Sabourin.

Janet Sabourin is suing for $100,000 damages on behalf of her son for loss of future income or income earning capacity, costs of the action, unnamed special damages and any other relief the court deems just.

John Beveridge, assistant to the director at the school board, said he is aware of the suit. He did not want to comment on the action.

Mills could not be reached for comment.

Theresa Hepburn, of the Ontario School Board Insurance Exchange which handles insurance claims for the public board, said the company has been served with a statement of claim from Sabourin.

She said the company has investigated the incident, but would not comment on it or the suit.

Janet Sabourin, reached by The News Friday, also declined comment.

The suit claims Christopher Sabourin "sustained serious personal injuries, including fracture of the right upper femur and cuts, abrasions and contusions to the right leg" when a piano fell on him at Maxville Public School March 28.

Immediately following the accident, the youth underwent emergency surgery at a Cornwall hospital where the fracture was set with a pin inserted through his leg below the knee and had to undergo six weeks of traction.

While in hospital, he developed kidney problems as a result of the accident which prolonged his stay in hospital, according to the suit.

He was discharged from hospital on May 5, 1991 in a body cast and continues to receive treatment for his injuries.

"As a result of the injuries, the plaintiff, Christopher Sabourin, has suffered substantial pain and suffering and has suffered from a permanent loss of enjoyment of life," the suit claims.

"The plaintiff has been required to restrict his activities and will be required to do so in the future."

"As a result of the injuries and complications arising therefrom, the choice of careers open to the plaintiff, Christopher Sabourin has been reduced as his income earning potential."

The suit claims that Mills failed to provide any or adequate supervision, and permitted Sabourin access to the piano she knew or should have known was a hazard to him and other children in the classroom and permitted the piano in her class when she knew or should have know it was a hazard.

The suit also claims the board was negligent because it permitted the piano to be present in the classroom and knew or ought to have known the piano presented a hazard.

The suit also claims the board was negligent because "it permitted to be in its employ a teacher who was unable to properly supervise the children and unable to adequately discharge the duties of her employment."

Deal to allow ice use for students

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

A co-operative effort between Charlottenburgh Township and the Lancaster Optimist Club means students will finally use the Williamstown arena for physical education.

Lancaster Optimist Club President Marg Millet, Charlottenburgh school principals, township Reeve Carol-Ann Ross and other municipal officials announced an ice-use program during a press conference Nov. 6 at the Williamstown arena.

For about 10 years, the township's schools have been trying to get an ice-program, but user-rates at the arena were too expensive.

Township officials agreed at the Sept. 23 town meeting to lower user rates from $55 an hour to $20, which the Optimist Club of Lancaster has volunteered to pay as one of their youth programs.

Students at Char-Lan District High School and four elementary schools in the township will have courses on skating, broomball, ringette, and other ice activities.

School principals and physical education teachers decided not to include hockey in the program because of the sport's competitiveness, expensive equipment, and the fact that students already have hockey programs outside of school.

Millett, a retired teacher, said the program is structured towards using the arena for teaching students skills they will never forget.

"It's an education program."

"It's good to see the arena being used in a time when it's empty. And it's good the school arranged to use that time for physical education."

Char-Lan booked 40 hours of ice time at the arena. Martintown Public School and Iona Academy have booked 10 hours each. Williamstown public school and St. Joseph's public school in Lancaster have booked 15 hours each.

The schedules were arranged by the principals of the five schools at a meeting held on Oct. 30, the first time all of the township's school principals met.

Courses at the arena began Tuesday, Nov. 12, and will continue until the end of the school year.

The ice program might resume next year if the Optimist Club agrees to continue financing it.

Council briefs

The following are among the items dealt with at Alexandria council at a meeting Nov. 5.

Hole issue

No action has yet been taken concerning a complaint by a town resident about a pit across the street from him which he says is an eyesore and a danger to children.

Bert Martin complained about the pit, which has beem a source of contention for about 20 years, on land owned by Arthur Duggan at a council meeting Oct. 22.

Councillor Archie McDougall said he was waiting to see what role the Ontario Ministry of Environment will play in the issue.

The town certainly has a role to play," he said, adding: "Hopefully we'll have something for the next council meeting."

Terry Hart, chief building official with the town, said he did not have time to look into the matter.

And Alexandria Clerk Leo Poirier answered the question of what has been done with a question of his own. "What exactly are we supposed to be doing?" he asked council members.

Costly bureaucracy

At the urging of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, council will be telling the province it is not in favor of the creation of a new government agency to look after senior services.

In a letter to council, Dr. Robert Bourdeau of the health unit, said the creation of a such a new agency will result in the "needless expenditure of funds."

By creating the agency, Bourdeau said seniors services would be removed from existing agencies such as the health unit.

"The net result is increased costs to the taxpayer or less money for services."

He added: "It is vital, therefore, that anyone concerned with needless duplication, unnecessary expenditures and further fragmentation of existing community-based services make their positions known to the ministry."

Conditional money

Council gave the environment committee the go-ahead to order new equipment for the town recycling plant, conditional on the province's authorization of an expected $1 million grant.

Councillor Fern Seguin told council he would like to order a new $136,000 press needed for the recycling plant, but needs to give a 30 per cent downpayment when making the order.

Not wanting to hold up the recycling upgrade any longer, council passed a resolution authorizing Seguin to order needed equipment as soon as the grant is confirmed by the province.

Seguin said the committee will ask local contractors to build the conveyors for the recycling plant, the upper story mezzanine and the 12 storage bins for recyclables.

Graphic graffiti

Obscenities scrawled on a building on Leroux Street has raised the ire of Councillor Claude Poirier.

Poirier said he drives a bus by the building every day and said the graffiti is not something his young passengers should be viewing.

Councillor Fern Seguin said it would be nice to invite whoever painted the obscene graffiti to paint over it as well.

Driving issue

A newspaper ad advertising seniors van service to Cornwall, caught Councillor Claude Poirier's curiosity.

Poirier, indicating his displeasure seniors were being taken to Cornwall, asked council members if the United Counties were involved in the service.

"It could be worse. It could be taking them to Massena," Councillor John Larocque humorously told Poirier.

Smoking issue

Council's proposed mandatory smoke alarm bylaw has been put on the back burner until after the election.

Councillor Archie McDougall said he was planning to have a meeting to discuss the bylaw, which could see people who fail to install smoke detectors hit with up to a $2,000 fine, to discuss the issue.

But he said he thought it would be better for the new council to pick up with the bylaw unveiled at council Oct. 30, wherever the present council left off.

Parking planning

Alexandria's disabled parking bylaw is slowly inching its way forward to full implementation. Terry Hart, Alexandria chief building official, said he will be meeting with business owners soon to discuss the provision of spaces for disabled parking.

Hart said he and Clerk Leo Poirier recently met with Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau to discuss parking for disabled at private businesses. He is now working out a schedule to meet business owners to discuss the issue.

Auditing change

A change in provincial legislation means Alexandria will have to re-appoint its auditor or appoint a new one by Jan. 1.

Changes to the Municipal Statute Law Amendment Act means the province will no longer licence municipal auditors and new auditors used by municipalities must hold a valid public accountant's licence.

As well, changes to the act mean a municipality can appoint an auditor for a term no longer than five years.

Councillor Fern Seguin seized the opportunity to lobby council to go to tender for a new auditor. "We might end up saving quite a bit of money," he said.

He added, council should not appoint an auditor for a period exceeding their three year term.

Reeve John Cormier also advocated going to the tendering system.

Seguin said the town paid its auditors $19,000 last year. "It seems a little high possibly (compared) to other municipalities," he said.

Court report

The following are among the cases heard by Judge Reginald Levesque in Alexandria Provincial Court on Thursday, Nov. 7, 1991.

Man jailed for prohibited driving

A Cornwall man convicted almost exactly a year ago for driving with his licence suspended has been jailed for four months for a second occurrence of the offence.

John Cameron, 44, was convicted on Nov. 8, 1990 for operating a motor vehicle while his licence was suspended for impaired driving.

In June of this year, with his licence still suspended, Cameron was arrested near Glen Walter after a police officer determined that he was a disqualified driver.

In handing down the jail sentence, Judge Reginald Levesque said it was obvious that Cameron had little regard for court orders, and thus sided with the lower end of Crown Attorney Marc Marcotte's four to six months submission rather than defense counsel's request for a 60-day term.

Cornwall man fined for drunk driving

A 26-year-old Cornwall man has been fined $600 for driving with a blood alcohol content in excess of the legal limit of 80 milligrams per 100 millitres of blood.

Breath samples taken from Daniel Bourgeois registered readings of 200 milligrams of alcohol, two-and-a-half times the legal limit.

Judge Reginald Levesque said that the high readings, along with a police report that stated that Bourgeois was very unsteady and in poor control of body motions, warranted a higher fine.

Man loses licence

An Apple Hill man was fined $450 and has lost his driver's licence for one year after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

Larry Sloan, 34, was arrested by Lancaster OPP on County Road 17 just west of Williamstown on June 23.

Judge Reginald Levesque also imposed a $50 surcharge.

Levesque agreed with both counsel that the low to mid-range alcohol readings (130 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood) warranted a fine in the similar range.

Minimum fine for drunk driving

A 36-year-old Dalkeith man has been fined $300, the minimum fine allowed by statute, for drunk driving.

Neil MacPherson was arrested on June 22, and breathalyser tests showed readings of 110 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres, which are at the lower end of the scale.

While the province will likely suspend MacPherson's driving privileges for one year, Judge Reginald Levesque ordered that he be prohibited from operating any motor vehicle for a period of three months.

The provision was made so that MacPherson, who lives on his parent's farm, could operate farm machinery on private property.

Street assault leads to fine

A 34-year-old Alexandria man has been fined $100 for assaulting his estranged wife.

Robert Ouimet pleaded guilty to the assault charge which stemmed from an Oct. 1 incident.

On that day, Ouimet confronted his wife, who was with the separated couple's two children, and demanded that they discuss the matter of custody of the children.

When the woman first refused, Ouimet grabbed her by the neck of her coat in order to restrain her.

Soon afterwards, Ouimet left with no other physical acts having taken place.

Defense counsel H. H. Sherwood suggested that the assault was of a minor nature and argued that the matter belonged in family court, which the separated couple are currently engaged in.

As a result, Sherwood requested an absolute or conditional discharge for his client.

Crown attorney Marc Marcotte submitted that a suspended sentence and probation would be the appropriate disposition.

Judge Reginald Levesque rejected both submissions and instead imposed the fine.

Editorials/Opinion

A conference: why not?

The apparent disarray of the parliamentary committee on the Constitution is one more sign that the process chosen by our elected leaders to forge a new deal is fundamentally flawed. First it was Meech Lake, then the Spicer Commission, and now this committee. After all the millions of taxpayers' dollars have been spent, the country is still far from solving the crisis.

We've said it before, but it bears repeating: responsibility for coming up with Canada's new deal cannot be trusted to politicians and the bureaucrats who work for them, alone. Despite the lessons of the past two years, the government won't admit that. Even attempts like the Spicer commission to bring ordinary Canadians to the table failed, because the government has chosen to ignore the recommendations of the commission and its chairman.

And Dorothy Dobbie, the embattled co-chairman of the parliamentary committee on the Constitution, has said she has no intention of stepping down from the position, despite the fact that she has lost a great deal of her credibility. Since September the committee suffered organizational problems and fought internally about scheduling, budgets and staff.

As Canadians watch these repeated negative experiences, it has become obvious a new way has to be found, that is, if anyone who still has a job can find relief from fretting about the economy and their personal plight long enough to give it thought. And then, there are others who are simply fatigued, who have been barraged daily with reports of Constitutional bickering and the failure to find common ground.

It seems to us that ordinary people must now seize the initiative.

We're not talking about anarchy, though there are others who at this point wouldn't think that a bad idea. We're talking about staging a constitutional convention open to anyone who wishes to contribute to the cause, though politicians, bureaucrats and anyone else with direct interests in feathering their own nests or feeding egos, be invited only as observers.

Such a conference would be held for a week, a month or a year, whatever it takes for people to bridge the gaps that took generations to widen. The necessary ingredients: a willingness by everybody involved, especially Quebec and Western delegates, to solve a common problem of how to live together, and the conditions under which they will do so into the future.

The idea would be to capture the imaginations of previously disinterested citizens in laying out, with others, a Canada plan, incorporating perhaps some of the federal proposals Joe Clark is now flogging with the best of what these people could propose.

Alexandria and Glengarry County would be an ideal location for such a conference. As an area with a reputation of possessing a bilingual, mixed culture that works, and its proximity to the Quebec border, and native reserves, there are more than surface advantages for such a conference here. Historically, it became the first home of hundreds of English and French-speaking pioneers who, together, forged a community out of a hostile wilderness. From here, their offspring went on to seed other parts of the country.

Here, in Canada's oldest county, cultures mixed out of necessity, because it made sense for them to do so, because the rigors of economic survival dictated it. The same argument for the entire country can be made today, as massive changes in the world trading picture dictates that economies in like-minded democracies and hemispheres join efforts.

A Canada without Quebec, it has been documented, will weaken the standards of living of the people in both. Canadians live relatively prosperous lives equipped with social nets because of this federation, as tenuous and as weak as it now is.

Community leaders throughout Glengarry have an opportunity to take the process away from those who are doing so much to fail in bringing the country together. Can a constitutional conference be organized here with success?

There could hardly be any harm in trying.

GST effects demonstrated

As the area's retailers put the finishing touches on their Christmas campaigns, an important survey has emerged from the Canadian Federation of Independent Business that seems to bear out what so many business people have suspected all along — the GST is devastating small and medium sized firms throughout Canada.

A total of 25,362 small and medium-sized businesses responded to the survey, and it showed that 71 per cent of respondents say the tax has had a negative effect on their business. Only eight per cent of small business owners feel the GST has benefitted their operation.

Reversing the GST at this point may not realistically be an option, but lowering it, is. Since the federal government won't recognize the fact that small business is drowning in the GST deluge, then at least it could throw a life preserver.

Election venom is finally over

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

As much as local elections are a source of excitement, I'm sure I'm not the only person in the community who's relieved the thing is finally over.

Democracy is a priceless commodity, but there is an undesireable fee that goes along with it, the sheer cost of campaigns and staging elections notwithstanding. I refer to the campaigns of dirty politics, the kind that puts friendships between neighbors on hold, or in permanent cold storage.

I have been a first-hand witness to some slanderous statements and accusations in the final days of the '91 municipal election campaign. Some of them were aimed at me, but most came from people I though I'd respected as fair-minded, intelligent and tolerant who never contemplated running or sponsoring a campaign other than on a high moral ground.

It's not that I naively expected there wouldn't be whisper campaigns, loaded arguments and just plain gossip. I've worked enough elections to understand these are the elements of human nature that emerge when egos are threatened, when interests are in jeopardy. Often, the tensions that arise make elections more interesting, spurring interest in the key issues, and the electorate's attendance at the polls.

But when accusations are levelled at people that go beyond simple fallout of disagreement of the issues, when statements made in public places cross the line between aggressive politics and malicious slander and outright lies, the opposite happens. It confirms the view in people's minds, especially these days, that all politics are dirty and the people who place their name up for election, crooked.

Part of this has to do with the emotion of the day, the quiet panic candidates at one time or another in their campaign feel. Others have a slightly paranoid notion of how others view them, and are tempted to lash out at those they feel are knocking who they are — usually their opponents, the press or both.

For instance, we became targets last week after it had been discovered, too late unfortunately, that a candidate's ad had been missed from the final issue before the election. Combine that with the fact that his opponent was mentioned in a story and editorial, and there developed a theory of conspiracy that raced through the streets like wildfire.

The offended candidate himself was justifiably angry, but with some talk and an offer by us to produce flyers at our expense, he calmed considerably and understood the error was totally inadvertent. But the conspiracy theory made the rounds, embellished a little more for dramatic effect with each telling, and eventually made it back to us. One candidate actually phoned to ask if we wanted him to quell some of the venom he'd heard spouted about us about the incident.

There were other moments, including the infamous photocopied article about a candidate's relative who had been charged with drug trafficking. The person who showed it to me said it was an indication of the kind of family the candidate had come from, but it was obvious he had a direct personal interest in the defeat of the candidate, having dealt with them in a past business transaction that went sour.

These are only a couple of examples of what went on "behind the scenes" during Glengarry's 1991 municipal election. Repeating others would tend to add credibility to the outrageous claims their originators made.

Suffice it to say that small minds were at work, and that with any luck, the mudslinging will be discarded and people will again start having coffee with each other, just as they did before the nonsense began.

And, for the voters sake, the best — and cleanest — candidate will have won.

Cars—who needs them anyway?

News to me

Greg Kielec

It was a beautiful early November evening. Large, round flakes of snow were softly falling from the sky. A certain warmth and vibrance permeated the air.

There is nothing like the first winter snow to rejuvenate a person, bring them back to a time when they looked forward to every snowfall with eager, youthful anticipation.

But how things change. As we grow older, our needs and yearnings change. A very necessary part of our adult lives, we learn, is the automobile.

Which brings me back to the beginning of my story, the beautiful, early-November evening. The snow softly falling.

I was ahead of my work schedule, and surmising the roads may be a bit treacherous, I presumed that maybe I should leave work a little early — by at least six o'clock, early by Monday night weekly-newspaper business standards.

I walked out of the office, pulling the door tightly shut behind me and walked around the corner — being careful not to slip with my hard-soled shoes — to survey my ever-faithful voyager, now carpetted with a soft blanket of snow, but not enough to hide her sleek, compelling lines.

I inserted the key into the door and gave it a turn, being careful not to let the white powder coating the window, fall inside, and hopped in, quickly closing the door.

Inside, it was like I was in another world, the snow covering the windows sheltered me from view from the outside. And it was just as well too.

I inserted the key into the ignition, orange and red lights igniting the dashboard, I put the clutch to the floor and turned. The starter religiously turned the motor over, but not a cough or sputter is offered.

I try again. The starter whirs the gears inside the car turn around again. But still nothing.

I jump out and pop open the hood, play with a few wires, bang the coil (that small cylinder shaped thing that makes your sparkplugs sparkle) and hop back in the car again.

"That should do it," I muse, pleased my tinkering was about to hand me almost certain victory over the up-until-now defiant package of machinery and electronics.

I turn the key again. The starter whirs, the motor turns. Nothing. The spark plugs — well, they just weren't sparking.

I get out of the car, slam the door, go back into the office and tell my few remaining co-workers the news. We exchange car tales for a while and then they slowly ease back to work.

I get another ingenious idea and try my luck with it. With much anticipation, I try my soon-to-be-hated white set of wheels again. Nothing.

I go back into the office — no sense wasting any more time. I might as well write my column.

Cars, who needs them?

The city girl who cried "wolf"

That's Life

Lesley Cadham

I was living in a Montreal suburb, several years ago, when a rural friend came to spend the weekend with my family.

In the city she was out of her element — her home was a small, white, clapboard house nestled in the midst of ancient pines that seemed to stretch for miles in every direction — and her discomfort became abundantly clear when she repeatedly woke me from a sound sleep to share her misery.

At first she wanted to make sure the voices she heard outside at 2 a.m. weren't coming from the knife-weilding psychotics she'd been told wander Montreal's streets at night. I looked outside.

It was the next-door neighbors — a retired couple — taking their dog for a walk. The worst they could do, I told my friend, is "hit you with their canes."

At 3 a.m., she alerted me that she'd heard a car outside.

"This house is 500 ft. from the highway," I said. "It would be a miracle if you didn't hear a car out there."

Daylight was spreading over Montreal when she shook my shoulders again. She'd heard a burglar rattling around at the front door. Half asleep, we crept down the stairs like siamese twins, moved stealthily across the carpeted living room and slowly peeked around the corner into the front porch. The porch was empty, except for two quarts of milk. It was the milk man she'd heard.

She finally returned to the country to calm her nerves. At last I was able to sleep.

Recently, the tables turned. It was I who was spending the weekend with friends, in the country.

Somehwere between sunset and dawn I awoke in my darkened bedroom. Something had jarred me into wakefulness; a sound had penetrted my dreams. But the room was silent. Then I heard it, a screeching, wailing sound that seemed so near I was sure it was coming from just outside my window.

The hair on my neck prickled and I instinctively pulled the blankets closer.

There was no mistaking the next sound. It was a wolf, howling the way wolves do in movies when stranded motorists stumble upon an old deserted farm house illuminated on-

St. Finnan and Glengarry

(Angus is away this week. His column is replaced by Scottish scholar Ken McKenna relative to St. Finnan's century anniversary.)

St. Finnan of Scotland

Little is known of St. Finnan, legendary Holy Man of the MacDonalds of Clanranald, other than that he was a follower of the sixth-century Apostle to the Scots, St. Columba, or as he is known in the Gaelic, Columcille.

Columba fled Ireland as a penance and landed on the Island of Iona. From there he sent out missionaries far and wide and many of them have come down to us as legendary, or traditional, Scottish Saints.

St. Finnan's territory seems to have taken in that area which later became one of the strongholds of Clan Donald. It borders on the north the land of the MacDonells of Glengarry, who seem to have had a special reverence and devotion to him.

He built his cille, or hermit's cell, on an island now known as St. Finnan's Isle, on Loch Shiel, which extends about 20 miles west to the sea from Glenfinnan. On this island, still used as a burial place by the local people, there is the remains of a stone chapel. On the altar, exposed to the sky, is a brass bell, chained to the stone. Although the ruined chapel was built long after St. Finnan's time, it marks the place where he traditionally had his cell.

At Glenfinnan, there is now an impressive monument to the Highlanders who fought for Scotland and Prince Charles Edward Stuart, because it was on this spot that the Royal Standard was raised on August 19, 1745, which marked the beginning of the ill-fated Jacobite Rebellion which ended at Culloden.

During the more than two centuries after the Reformation, this part of the Scottish Highlands remained staunchly loyal to the Old Religion, in spite of the hardships visited on the people by the Penal Code, which forbade Catholic worship and forced the clergy to minister to their flocks in secret. After the failure of the "45" Rebellion even harsher treatment was meted out by the Government on most Highland people, regardless of religion or politics.

The areas of Moidart, Morar and Knoydart were particularly hard-pressed and many Highland people were forced to leave, either for the factories of the Lowlands or across the sea to Canada. The first group that left as a Clan was the MacDonalds of Glenaladale and Glenfinnan, with their Chief, Captain John MacDonald. They settled in Prince Edward Island and named one of their villages there Glenfinnan. Captain John's grandson became Sir William MacDonald, the founder of the MacDonald Tobacco Company.

Some of the settlers moved on to Glengarry to join their Clansmen here, as recorded on the Memorial Tablet at St. Raphael's. But wherever they went, they never forgot St. Finnan and even today, his name is praised by many descendants of those pious Highlanders.

After Catholic emancipation in the last century, a beautiful church was finally erected at Glenfinnan in Scotland. Although there are few people now left in the Glen, the church has been kept alive there by donations from the descendants of the proud Highlanders who once fought for Scotland and the House of Stuart, but who now live in distant lands.

A visit to St. Finnan's in Glenfinnan should be a "must" for every Glengarrian who visits Scotland.

Study reveals little not already known

To the editor:

Michael Porter's recent $1.25 million study of Canada's economic concerns told Canadians little they didn't already know. Funded by the federal government (US) and big business, Mr. Porter carefully portrayed the problems as being market oriented and having little to do with present government and business management. We have to increase productivity and probably sacrifice some of our social programs.

Michael Wilson stated that growing exports in August to the U.S. showed the free trade deal with the U.S. was working as we dig our way out of the current recession. There are 1.5 million Canadians unemployed. Mr. Wilson's Canada, like Brian Mulroney's and Jean Chretien's seems to only consist of Olympia and York Power Corporation, the five major banks and other Bay Street tycoons. Private input to government policy exists predominantly from the Conservative 500 and Empire Clubs.

Our present government has allowed the national debt to climb to $400 billion. Research and development spending has decreased from 1.5 per cent of the Gross National Product in 1984 to 1.28 per cent in 1990. Federal funding for apprenticeship programs was abolished four years ago. High interest rates allowed by the current government last year caused a 50 per cent increase in business bankruptcies this year.

For years, Grit and Tory governments have dumped billions of dollars into money losing ventures like De Havilland, Sydney Steel Co. and Davey Shipbuilding. John Bulloch, head of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business, proudly proclaims thousands of jobs have been created in the private service sector for tourism and service industries. It is not noted that many are part-time and pay $4 per hour less than the manufacturing jobs that are moving to the U.S. and Mexico.

If oil from Hibernia was to be refined in Newfoundland, perhaps 5,000 jobs could have been created in the petro-chemical industry. Between 30 and 50,000 jobs in Saskatchewan and Alberta have been lost as raw crude is shipped to the U.S.

A councillor in St. Lawrence County (American side) makes less than $2,000 per year. In Charlottenburgh, councillors make $6,000 per year. Politicians at all levels of government are very well paid in Canada.

Two years ago, the provincial Liberal government placed the full cost of OHIP on business payroll taxes. The cost of UIC costs employers about $26 per week per employee. Taxes are highter than they are in the U.S. causing many Canadian businesses to move to the U.S. where labor rates are also lower.

Michael Wilson wants labor, government and business to get together to draw up a Canadian Prosperity Plan. Prosperity is not for the 50-year-old worker laid off when the plant he worked in for 30 years closes to relocate in Mexico. Prosperity IS the lucrative pension that defeated politicians receive at any age after six years service.

I wonder why labor refuses to participate in a prosperity initiative that could possibly help reinstate the most incompetent government we've ever had.

Thank you for books

To the editor:

Books, like other positive cultural experiences, are for sharing and to the many individuals, the ladies of the Glengarry Golf Club, and the Glengarry Historical Society, who contributed books for the proposed Grand Manan Island community library, we give a very warm thank you.

Slightly more than a ton of books, texts, references, dictionaries, encyclopedia, fiction and classics were trailored to the Black's Harbor ferry this week. As we moiled and toiled throught the 1,750 km of mountains only a single tire puncture marred the splendor of the fall's foliage and, even that happened conveniently, close by a service station.

So our sincere thanks are added to the appreciative voices of the Grand Manan islanders for your generosity. Your donated books are testimony to your altruism. Oh, by the way, another trip is possible in the spring for late and further donations.

Sincerely,
Jean and George McKiel,
R.R. 3, Alexandria.

Soup minus MSG

To Whom it may Concern:

Tonight I opened my last can of Campbell's chicken and rice soup that does not contain MSG and at the grocery stores they tell me there will be no more. I guess it was really too good to be true. It was too highly priced for anyone who did not have to buy it, especially, when other Campbell's soups sold, at times, two for 99 cents, the ten ounce ones.

I would like to make another criticism, if I may. Why did you put out so many different soups minus the MSG on the start, why not start with one kind to see how well it took? There are so few people unfortunate enough to share my malady, however, we do exist and ther are times when it means so much to be able to just open a can of soup and have rice cakes to go with it. I hope they are not being discontinued.

The first time I was in touch with Campbell's company, I had a deaf ear turned. Then, over a year ago, Habitant put me in touch with a Mr. John Noelting who showed compassion enough to give us — the gluten allergic people — a chance to enjoy the same privileges as ordinary citizens who are not afflicted in this way.

I belong to Allergy Information Association but have been rather disappointed since they printed an article and I quote "Scientists in the Health Protection Branch generally agree that no hazard to public health results from moderate use of MSG," end of quote. When people are not afflicted, how little they do know. Is it possible the scientists are catering to large companies instead of helping the ones who need help?

Again, I am appealing to you, especially for the chicken and rice soup minus MSG. It is called Chunky Light. There still could be some fat added as that is not the culprit.

Something else I would like to know: Is hydrolized plant protein really the same as MSG?

Sincerely,
Mrs. Carol Pattingale

Distinct society a double standard

To the editor:

Headlines in the Oct. 26 edition of a local newspaper read: "Mulroney Warns Unity Lost Without Distinct Society."

How familiar! Just turn the clock back about 16 months — he was making the same headlines — same threats.

The Prime Minister went on to say, and I quote, "There were no losers when Newfoundlanders were guaranteed protection of their denominational schools as a condition of their entry (into Canada) in 1949." "No province lost when British Columbia won a railway in exchange for joining Confederation in 1871."

Pray tell, Mr. Mulroney, where is the comparison between a railway line extension (to join provinces) — a rather unifying project in itself, and the granting of special status NOW, to a province which has already been a part of Canada for over 125 years. Each province joined Canada under its own particular conditions, including Quebec!

Quebec was granted the right to their own language, culture and civil code under the Quebec Act of 1774. These rights were re-affirmed at the time of Confederation in 1867. To quote from the recent Federal Government Constitutional Proposals booklet 'Shaping Canada's Future together' — "the federal structure of 1867 recongized Quebec's right to be different within the economic and political union. The new federal structure, therefore, incorporated specific provisions to recognize the different language, culture and civil law tradition of Quebec."

Why the perpetuation of this propaganda that Quebec doesn't already have these rights?

It seems to me the difference now is that Quebec wants these rights EXTENDED to include the right to PROMOTE their language and culture — all across our country. They are presently engaged in a relentless endeavor of PROMOTING their language, without the particular designation (distinct society) enshrined in law, and they are using Canadian taxpayers' money (over TEN MILLION DOLLARS PER DAY) to do it!

And how can we designate a special status to Quebec when that province denies even basic human rights to its English-speaking residents?

It appears to me that the D.S. (of Distinct Society) really stands for 'DOUBLE STANDARD!'

Cried wolf

ly by the full moon.

I was thankful to be indoors, and comforted by the knowledge that the barn doors were closed to protect the cows. Maybe the dog would chase the intruders away.

But the dog, who usually barked simply because he felt like it, wasn't barking. Maybe they'd already gotten him. Maybe they were finishing him off and about to start on a sweet little calf who had only a hutch between her and the ferocious world.

I awoke the man of the house, scaring him half to death in the process. Okay, so I don't look so great at 3 a.m.

I told him I was worried about the calf. He humored me, the way I'd humored by country friend so many years ago. For several minutes, we shivered in front of an open window and listened to the beasts. The howling that had seemed so near, was in fact probably a mile away. I felt silly, not unlike my country friend must have felt.

As he closed the window he reminded me that the house was made of stone.

"So?" I asked.

"Well, you have nothing to worry about. They won't be able to huff and puff and blow the house down."

I grinned and headed toward the light in my room. I was about to climb into bed when I heard, "Oh-oh. The calf's hutch outside isn't made of stone. It's made of wood. They'll be able to..."

I didn't wait to hear the rest. I'd gotten the message.

'I didn't want to kill him': Robinson

Self defence stand for Robinson argued

An Alexandria man on trial for the murder of Sheldon Larocque testified Friday that he knifed the man to stop him from having sex with him.

Guy Robinson told the court that in the early hours of May 31, 1990, he'd awakened from an alcohol-induced sleep to find victim Sheldon Larocque performing fellatio on him.

It was during attempts to push Larocque away that he stabbed him with a butcher knife he'd taken from the coffee table next to the couch where he'd fallen asleep, said Robinson. He'd been using the knife to cut a block of chicken loaf, he said.

"When I woke up, I was lying flat on my back, stretched out on the couch and my pants were down. Shelley (Larocque) was in between my legs . . .

"I tried to push his head away and I was yelling, 'What are you doing?' and I tried to push his head away and was yelling at him.

"Then he stopped that and got on top of me and put all his weight on top of me. I was yelling at him and crying.

"He was kissing me in the face and holding my arms. He was saying, 'Come on Guy, come on Guy,' and he was going up and down on top of me. I was terrified."

Robinson told defence lawyer Patrick McCann that Larocque was too heavy to push away. Larocque, 5'4" tall was of average weight, it was reported. Robinson reported himself to be 5'7" or 5'9" and weighing 124 lbs. at the time of the incident.

"I couldn't breathe. I didn't know what to do. I couldn't get him off me. I was yelling at him to stop . . .

"I was very scared and drunk and terrified. I grabbed the knife on the coffee table and hit him with it."

Robinson swallowed hard before continuing.

"I'm not sure where I hit him or how many times I hit him . . .

"I think he was hearing me, but he didn't want to get off me. The look on his face; he wanted something. He was after something. He wouldn't stop.

"Everything happened so fast. There was nothing I could have done. He was too heavy . . . There was nothing I could do. I was crying and I was terrified . . .

"I didn't want to kill him. I just wanted him to stop what he was doing to me . . . It was some kind of accident . . ."

Robinson reported that he did not see blood on the knife after stabbing Larocque, but rinsed it under water in the kitchen sink before putting it into a drawer. He told attorneys he did not know why he rinsed it.

It wasn't until Robinson went back into the living room and yelled at Larocque to get out of the house that he realized Larocque was hurt.

Robinson said he had picked Larocque up to throw him out, but he was too heavy.

"I sat him on the couch and noticed he had a cut on his stomach. His shirt was up . . . I thought he was hurt so I phoned the hospital. I remember phoning the hospital and that was it."

Robinson repeatedly told attorneys that he remembers very little of what happened after he returned from the kitchen. He testified he couldn't remember how he'd obtained the telephone number for Cornwall Ambulance Control, which he'd called to summon an ambulance.

He also said he couldn't remember whether he'd provided police with a statement, but that he recalled being cold, "really drunk" and not feeling good while at the police station.

Admitting that he is an alcoholic, Robinson said he'd had at least 13 beers between 7 a.m. May 30 and the time of the stabbing and said his capacity is 24 beers a day.

He and Larocque had been at Robinson's that night to do "some more drinking" after leaving an Alexandria bar.

During cross examination by Crown Attorney Guy Simard, Robinson denied witnesses' allegations that he had threatened to kill Larocque during an argument in a bar about three weeks prior to Larocque's death.

Larocque had made a sexual advance toward him in the washroom on May 11, but had backed off when Robinson told him to. Larocque apologized a few days later and the matter was forgotten, said Robinson. The experience had disgusted rather than angered him, he said.

Simard asked if he would have gotten angry had Larocque continued to make sexual advances. Robinson replied that he probably would have.

"So on May 31 when he did it again, you were mad."

"I was afraid. I wanted him to stop what he was doing," said Robinson.

"You saw him (making another sexual advance) and you were mad because he repeated what you told him 20 days before not to.

"Be honest with yourself sir. You must have been angry," said Simard.

Robinson insisted that he was not.

Simard later asked Robinson how he managed to stab Larocque in the stomach when Larocque was lying down on top of him.

Robinson responded that perhaps Larocque was lying on his side at the time.

Simard persisted.

Robinson replied, "I'm not sure how it happened. I know he was on top of me and I stabbed him."

"I suggest he made a pass at you, the same as he did at the bar on the 11th of May and you were so angry at him you went to the kitchen and (brought back) the knife and stabbed him," continued Simard.

"That's not at all what I did," insisted Robinson.

"When you saw the wound you got terrified," said Simard.

"That's not at all what happened sir," said Robinson.

Robinson also admitted trying to put the blame for Larocque's death on another Alexandria man, Donald Brabant, who had spent some time with Larocque and Robinson on the evening of May 30.

"I tried to blame him. I'm sorry about it. I was so confused and in shock. I'm not sure what I was saying," he explained.

On Friday, the last day of the case for the defence, three witnesses testified that they had been victims of sexual advances by Larocque.

Nineteen-year-old Jeff Williams testified that he was 13 years old when Larocque ran his hand up the youth's leg and asked him if he could "touch" him.

The incident occurred while Williams was sitting in an Alexandria restaurant-bar where his mother was employed. Williams reported the incident to his mother, who also testified Friday.

Mary Williams, visibly angry, told the court that Larocque was a "sexual deviant, a pervert" and the "next thing to a pedophile."

She also referred to Larocque's gesture to her son as "sexual violence," and said she had asked the police about the possibility of laying charges but said the police felt there was not enough to make a charge stick.

Alexandria Const. Robert Latreille testified that at the time, the Williams said they felt it was a minor incident and that they didn't want to subject their son to an investigation.

Two other men testified of incidents in which they said Larocque halted the sexual advance when they told him they weren't interested.

The trial is scheduled to continue today (Wednesday) at the Ontario Court of Justice — General Division. The jury is expected to be able to begin deliberations today.

dria police officers who had testified during the preliminary inquiry last year, had changed their stories to make Robinson seem less intoxicated than he was.

McCann has argued that Robinson was "grossly intoxicated" when he stabbed Larocque, and that he was provoked and acted in self defence.

But Crown Attorney Guy Simard, arguing that much of Robinson's testimony didn't make sense, attacked Robinson's claim that he was intoxicated. He included in his argument that Robinson would not have been able to climb to the top of a roof antenna to disassemble it and take it down, would not have remembered that he left his bike downtown and would not have been able to give his correct phone number and address to the ambulance dispatcher.

He also reminded jurors that a forensic toxicology expert had testified that people still walk, talk and drive with blood-alcohol levels as high as Robinson's was that night, and that it is important to consider the fact that Robinson is accustomed to consuming alcohol.

Because he was intoxicated, Robinson did not have the ability to formulate an intent to kill, McCann told jurors. He also said it would seem "totally preposterous" to think that Robinson "harbored animosity" toward Larocque because Larocque had made a sexual advance toward him about 20 days earlier.

Robinson called the ambulance, said McCann: "He hoped he was not dead and wanted him to be saved. Is that consistent with intent to kill?"

Simard said he believed Robinson intended to kill Larocque.

He also said Robinson's claim that he was terrified of Larocque doesn't make sense: After stabbing his attacker, Robinson left the room, rinsed the knife and put it back in the drawer, all the while believing that his attacker was not hurt.

He disputed the claim that Robinson also had trouble remembering what happened because he was in shock. He charged that Robinson was choosing what to admit remembering.

McCann told the jury to be cautious of testimony by Crown witnesses who claimed there had been discord between Robinson and Larocque about 20 days prior to Larocque's death. Robinson's testimony was different from that of those witnesses, however, as none of the Crown witnesses put forth of the same version of what had apparently transpired, said McCann.

Simard's response included a reminder that two witnesses said they overheard Robinson threaten to kill Larocque.

He also reminded jurors that Larocque had been rejected by Robinson; why would he go back and try again? The only evidence not heard, finished Simard, is that of the victim.

Snowfall wreaks havoc with drivers

Areas around Lancaster village got the worse of Monday flurries as drivers bumped into each other and slid into ditches.

Ontario Provincial Police officers of the Lancaster detachment were dispatched to about 10 evening rush-hour accidents, mostly in Lancaster village, on Highway 401, Highway 2, and the Williamstown Road.

Five cars skidded into ditches and seven cars were in minor accidents.

No one was injured and damages were minimal.

While Lancaster and Cornwall received about five centimetres of snow, areas to the north received much less snow making streets less dangerous.

Alexandria Police Department reported only one accident where a car skidded on an icy road and hit a utility pole. Maxville OPP reported no accidents at all.

Van flipped on 401

A van was severely damage when it rolled over last week after striking loose gravel.

Lise Lanthier, 42, of St. Bruno, Que., was driving her 1986 Dodge Caravan east on Highway 401 near the Curry Hill overpass at around 3 p.m. Monday, Nov. 4 when the accident occurred.

Lanthier and the three others on board were not hurt.

Cigarettes stolen

An unknown number of packs of cigarettes were stolen from the Fresh Mart store in Lancaster village when it was broken into at around 5 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 7.

Owner Bruce Menard won't be sure how many cigarette packs were stolen until an inventory is complete.

Man charged

A man was charged in connection with a two-car accident last week.

Marc Lebrun, 19, of North Lancaster was driving a 1978 Pontiac at around 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 6, north on Industrial Boulevard in Alexandria.

He tried to turn right on Leroux Street where Wilfred Brunet, 76, of 166 St. Paul St. was westbound with his 1986 Pontiac.

Lebrun failed to negotiate the curve and struck Brunet's car.

There were no injuries and damages were light to moderate.

Lebrun was charged with careless driving.

Deer run-over

A deer was killed by a tractor-trailor last week.

Tadesz Slobodecki, 43, of Prescott was driving a 1988 Peter Built tractor-trailor west on Highway 401 near the Curry Hill off-ramp just before 4 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 5.

A deer crossed the highway, was struck by the tractor-trailor and carried underneath the vehicle.

The tractor's left front corner and parts of the tractor's undercarriage were damaged. The driver was not injured.

The Ministry of Natural Resources was contacted to collect the remains of the deer.

Phone stolen

A cellular phone was stolen from a car Sunday night.

William Griese of Bayview Estates reported to the Ontario Provincial Police's Lancaster detachment Monday morning, Nov. 11, that a Cantel cellular phone was stolen from an unlocked 1992 Honda Accord which was parked in his driveway the night before.

Battery stolen

A battery was stolen from a tractor during the weekend.

The incident occured sometime between Nov. 9 and Nov. 10 while the tractor was parked at 51 Bishop St. N. in Alexandria.

Vandals break light

Vandals broke a window and lightbulb Friday night in an outdoor stairwell which leads to an apartment.

The incident occurred sometime between 8 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. at 64 Main St. in Alexandria.

Police have no suspects.

Hot wheels, meals

A Lancaster woman's car was stolen and her refrigerator was raided during a break-in Thursday.

Christine Laroche, 35, of Lancaster Township reported to the Ontario Provincial Police's Lancaster detachment that her home was broken into while she was at work between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on Nov. 7.

When Laroche returned, she discovered her 1980 Chevette missing and noticed some yogurt, cheese, bread and lunch meat missing from her refrigerator.

Losses total about $835.

There are no suspects.

Police are looking for the car with the licence plate number 397 KCS.

Manure at GDHS

Manure was spread all over the front door of the Glengarry District High School sometime during the weekend.

"I don't know if it was horse manure, cow manure, or what type," Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau said.

He added that a parking sign was removed from the school's driveway, supposedly by the same vandals.

"Probably students dissatisfied with their grades did it," Deveau said. But he said there are no suspects.

November is CPR awareness month

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

November is the first annual CPR Awareness Month, but there are no activities planned for Glengarry.

CPR, a process used to artificially revive heart attack victims, is credited for helping reduce in-hospital heart attack deaths by 50 per cent since CPR techniques and coronary care units were developed in the 1960's.

The Heart and Stroke Foundation, the Red Cross, St. John's Ambulance and other organizations have joined to declare November as CPR awareness month.

The Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario planned activities and workshops for the province. But nothing is planned for Glengarry, except a luncheon which was held yesterday at the Georgian House.

CPR instructor Linda Vickers, a dietician at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, said most activities are geared for urban areas in order to reach as many people at once.

"They only have one month to go all over the province," she said.

Actar Air Force Inc, which produce manikins used for CPR training, is travelling from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria, BC, stopping at a different location each day to promote and display CPR techniques.

The company was in Ottawa yesterday and are in Kingston today.

Other than that, local Heart and Stroke Foundation members hope the public service announcements aired on radio and television will urge people to take a CPR course.

Vickers teaches CPR to about 200 people a year. CPR courses can run from four to eight hours and cost from $25 to $45.

About 45,000 Canadians die from cardiac arrests every year.

"A graver statistic is that half of them die before getting medical help," said Cindy Andrews, the project coordinator at the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

Heart disease, which often leads to heart attacks, is the number one killer in Canada.

Take a good look at these three doors
The first one was made by FENEXPERT,
the second one was installed by FENEXPERT,
the third one was guaranteed by FENEXPERT.

When it comes to windows and doors, it often takes as many as three different companies to get the job done right: the manufacturer, the retailer and the installer.
The manufacturer doesn't sell it. The retailer doesn't install it. The installer doesn't make it.
Does any of it make any sense to you?
At Fenexpert we do windows and doors a whole lot differently.
We sell what we make and we install what we sell.
Because we install them, we know how to make them. And because we make them, we know how to install them. And we guarantee them too... for life.

Bull moose spotted wandering in Maxville

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

News of the wild animal life in and around the village continues to come in. Ubald Cardinal phoned to tell about the big bull moose he saw on Mechanic Street West, last Thursday morning. Mr. Cardinal was on his way to work around 5 a.m. when the animal came out between two houses and crossed the road. It was not only a startling sight but also a bit frightening and since it was so early, no one was up yet along the street to witness this second sighting of a moose this fall.

Last week saw the beginning of deer-hunting season locally. Ron McDonald shot a nice big buck, Bev McNaughton has been reported too, getting a deer but Roger Rolland wasn't so lucky and his got away.

We extend 25th wedding anniversary best wishes to Beverly and Malcolm Dewar of Ottawa. A party to honor this well-known couple was held at the Glengarry Curling Club here recently. To add to the enjoyment of the evening, many of the couple's musician friends were present to entertain during the evening's proceedings. Mr. Dewar is a fiddler and esteemed teacher.

The death occurred last Thursday at the Manor, of Arthur Campbell. We extend sympathy to Mrs. Campbell and to his six children and their families.

The late Mr. Campbell was well known in the area and his death removes the last member of his generation of Campbells. He loved to talk about Athol and St. Elmo in the olden days and was very proud of his last achievement in having a sign installed on the Athol road. However, he will be remembered for his many contributions to the community during his long life of almost 90 years.

The craft sale at the Sports Complex on Nov. 2 and 3 was a new venture which proved very successful. It enabled several crafters to display and sell their work and brought many people together for a social time, if nothing else. those who had baking and other food for sale, reported very brisk sales.

Colin MacLellan was home for a recent weekend from his studies in education at Brock University in St. Catharines. Previously, Mr. MacLellan had been in Scotland to compete in the Grant's Piping Championship competition there. He was one of ten invited to compete from around the world and this in itself was a real honor and privilege.

If you have what you think is a Christmas cactus blooming now, give it the name, Thanksgiving cactus, and then you will realize it is in season. The small cactus plants that are sold in stores and are in bloom now do grow large. They can be cared for as are the Christmas cacti but produce blossoms earlier, let's say, half way between Canadian and American Thanksgivings.

Hasn't it been a great fall? In fact, I considered the summer excellent as well. The fact that there was no real hard frost until last week enabled outdoor plants to continue blooming much later. There were even some dandelions bloming on a lawn on Main Street last weekend.

I wish I knew how to keep the blue jays from carrying away so much of the sunflower seeds. I know they are storing it in places, probably soon to be forgotten, for later on but they won't need it then.

I have counted six of these birds at our feeder at one time but there may be more. However, I consider a litre of the seeds a bit much for them to use up. I am pleased to hear them cracking open a seed and swallowing it at the feeder but it gripes me when they gulp down several seeds and quickly fly away to a storage spot. Until other birds come to the striped sunflower feeder, I am putting out a half litre of the seeds.

Another Centennial event is taking place this Saturday at the complex. The tickets may be all sold by now if you are interested, try one or more of the usual village outlets or phone Eileen Colbourne at 527-2033.

The event is labelled a wine festival and will feature an Edelweiss Band, other entertainment, and a Bavarian Meal. It is being organized by ladies who have settled here from some of the European countries and an excellent evening is assured.

Historic Maxville

In 1908 Dr. Ruglus T. "Doc" O'Hara graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College, then in Toronto, and went to Michigan to apprentice. Then, when the practice of Dr. D. A. Irvine was available, Dr. O'Hara moved to Maxville. He soon met Olive Munro and married her on Nov. 28, 1911. They built their home on Main Street across from the present Anglican Church. This home has remained in the family ever since.

Dr. O'Hara had an office in the home, with access from the veranda. Dr. O'Hara had a wide practice and travelled extensively by horse and rig. However, his practice was relatively short-lived when he died on February 16, 1936.

Mrs. O'Hara was the former Olive Munro, the only daughter of Dr. James T. Munro and his wife, Christena Robertson. She graduated from the Ontario Conservatory of Music with the degree of ATCM and studied in the music field extensively afterwards. After Dr. O'Hara's death Mrs. O'Hara gave piano lessons at home for many years and many, many young people in the area owe their training and love of music to this lovely lady who died at the age of 97.

The only son of Dr. and Mrs. O'Hara, Howard, named after his uncle, Dr. J. Howard Munro, married Joan Gormley, the youngest member of the highly respected Gormley family in Alexandria. They lived in Cornwall for many years and then in the family home in Maxville to be with Mrs. O'Hara in her declining years.

Now Howard and Joan live in retirement here and are well-known to villagers. The O'Hara home stands as a memorial to a pioneer village veterinarian and his much loved wife and music teacher. Howard and Joan represent the ties between Alexandria and Maxville and Howard has to admit that he will soon be one of the old-timers among the village natives.

Young Bill MacEwen phoned to report seeing a female ring-necked pheasant in his family's yard. These pheasants, as are all pheasants, are beautiful birds and it is encouraging to hear that some are around.

The Lions Club 50-50 draw is operating again this year and the first three winners were all ladies: Annie Wensink, Linda McCourt from Moose Creek and Lorna Howes from Kirk Hill. The prizes all hovered around $50.

I would like to draw to the attention of motorists parking on Main Street that there are new parking lines on the pavement and that no parking is permitted within so many feet of the Main Street and Catherine Street intersection. If these lines are observed, this intersection will be much safer for traffic coming from Catherine Street until the new one-way traffic bylaw comes into effect.

Down at the new laundromat and convenience store, parking lines have been painted on the pavement there, too, and if they are observed, parking will be much more orderly.

Carole Munroe, the Brownie leader, wishes to thank all those who contributed in any way to the success of the Brownie Rummage Sale. The sum of $850 was raised to support Brownie activities.

Two village ladies have worked at this rummage sale for many years and to show how much they are appreciated, they were presented with service pins. The two ladies so honored are Grace Doth and Sally Andre.

Thee also will be a bake table, sale of attic treasures and a Sunday School candy table. The luncheon menu will feature homemade soup, French bread, cheese and pie. Everyone is invited to attend and encouraged to support the ladies' enterprise.

Our Tagwi high school committee is holding a Town and Country Fair at the school tomorrow (Thursday) evening with proceeds going to student bursaries. There will be craft displays, demonstrations and sales, a bake sale and a fashion show with parents and other locals modelling. Desserts will be served. The event opens at 7 p.m., the fashion show starts at 8 o'clock and all are invited to attend and will be thanked for their support.

Young-at-Heart euchre

The weather is getting colder with winter storms approaching. Therefore there are not many of these popular euchre parties left in the schedule for this fall.

At the one last week, Bill MacMillan was a triple winner — top score for the men, the winner of the door prize and a winner in the 50-50 draw. Claude Barkley from Finch and John McMaster, Laggan, were the other gentlemen winners.

Elizabeth Alguire from Moose Creek was also a triple winner who was favored by Lady Luck when she won three draw prizes. Other draw winners were Dorothy Pozsonyi from the Manor, Mr. Barkley, Wilfred Sauve, Avonmore, Eldon Cutts, Riceville, Onagh Ross, Martintown and Catherine (Dan) MacRae, Gloria Rolland and Ethel MacKinnon from the village.

The lady winners at this party were Georgina Feek, Avonmore, Edith Waldroff, Finch and Jessie Renwick, Vankleek Hill.

The next euchre is planned for November 18 at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Church Hall.

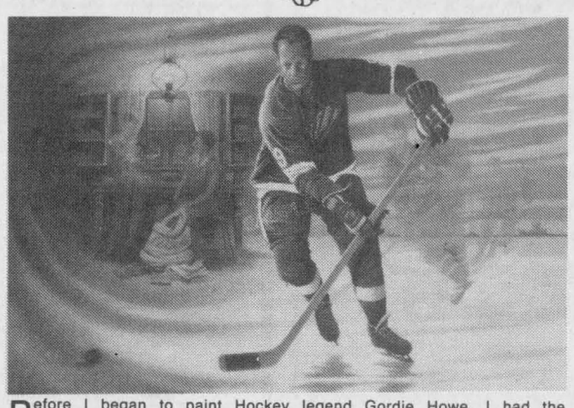
"MR. HOCKEY"
by James Lumbers

Professional Picture Framers Association



Before I began to paint Hockey legend Gordie Howe, I had the chance to really get to know him. Here, echoes of the past come to life for "Mr. Hockey"—all starting with the well-known tale of how Gordie acquired that first skate. Although one of his older sisters laid claim on the other skate, Gordie just knew to be patient and he would soon have them both.

Brownies get taste of wildlife at Cooper Marsh sanctuary

Green Valley
Helene Quesnel
525-3303

On Saturday, Oct. 26 our Green Valley Brownies, under the direction of Mary Lambert and Jeanine Legault, travelled to Cooper's Marsh in South Lancaster where they walked along the trails to catch a view of the wildlife in their natural habitat. Afterwards the Brownies visited the Vogel farm where they saw cows, pigs, horses, deer and rabbits. The children had a great time.

On Oct. 31 the Brownies had their Halloween party at the school.

The enrolment day for the Brownies is being held this Thursday evening at 6:30 p.m.

UCFO News

Les ''Folies d'automne'' held on Oct. 26 by UCFO of Green Valley was a day full of fun and activities. Many returned home with beautiful prizes. Here are the lucky winners: first door prize, donated by Aubin Home Comfort, was won by Colombe Lauzon of Alexandria. Second door prize, donated by Roger Constant, was won by Colette Poirier, Green Valley. The grocery basket went to Pauline Leroux, RR#2 Alexandria. The cheese and jam basket donated by Lucie Dumouchel and Rollande Laurendeau went to Laura Hawksby, Williamstown. A gift certificate, donated by Viau Ladies Wear, was won by Pauline Quesnel, Alexandria. A gift certificate for a dinner for two, donated by Green Valley Restaurant, went to Agnes Goulet, Green Valley. R. Sullivan, Blainville, Que., won the 50/50. The gifts on the pumpkin tree (a game) were sponsored by Green Valley Aggregate and Concrete and Guindon Orchard.

A warm thank you to our generous sponsors.

Our UCFO monthly meeting on Nov. 8 was held at Ecole Ste. Marie, Green Valley. We were honored by the visit of about 20 members of UCFO of Cornwall. Mrs. Claire Hains of l'Equipe psycho-sociale, was the guest speaker for the evening. Her topic was violence at home, its consequences and what to do. She then explained the necessity of la Montée D'Elle, (a home for battered women) serving the Glengarry area.

The meeting ended with games and a craft display.

The installation of new officers for Green Valley Knights of Columbus 9435 took place Sept. 27. PITCH-IN RECYCLE!

The Glass Menagerie play worth seeing

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

On Nov. 9 the Prescott Players presented The Glass Menagerie at Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute to a nearly full theatre. This Tennessee Williams play must have been a real challenge for the troupe as they have in the past worked mostly in comedies and lighter material. They rose to the occasion with ease, as they offered their varied stories within the play. Many area people attended.

Glen Hall was the narrator and took the part of Tom the unhappy, frustrated son of a dominant, smothering mother, who lived in the past, and in hope of an unreal future of ''gentleman callers'' and a brilliant marriage for her shy plain daughter, touchingly portrayed by Jessica Sarrazin.

Poor Laura only wanted to be left alone with her gramophone, and her collection of little glass animals she called the Glass Menagerie. Mother, Amanda, abandoned by her husband, seeks popularity for Laura and a fine upstanding position for her poet son, instead of his despised necessary and ordinary job in the warehouse.

When Tom's friend from work, played by Darcy Burgess, comes to dinner, Amanda's pathetic attempt to cajole him into a relationship with Laura fails when he says he is engaged to be married. However, he and Laura do become friends, and he seriously tries to draw Laura out of her shell, in a moving scene where they are alone.

Tom, Laura and Amanda are all caught up in a life of quiet desperation, each in their own way, and the unfolding of their needs, hopes and probable future draws the audience into their little world most intimately.

When one feels sorrow, empathy or distain for, and with, the characters of a drama, then the actors have succeeded in their quest, to ably entertain.

''Moteurs'' to roll

On Nov. 16, the comedy ''Ho les moteurs'' will be presented at 8 p.m. at the Glengarry District High School, (212 Main Street North in Alexandria).

The play is a presentation of the Centre culturel ''Les trois p'tits points . . .''

Ho, les moteurs is a comedy by Guy Crépeau and is played by three comedians: Chantal Peterson, Daniel Defay and the author of this play Guy Crépeau. The critics are unanimous on this play.

The people who assisted at this play have appreciated it at the highest level; this is a play where the quick rhythm of the jokes blends with the music as a very good ''mise en scene'' that leaves spectators on the breath.

''Ho, les moteurs'' a comedy where 23 very funny characters come and go in a garage where each situation is funnier than the other one.

Lancaster Township

Council briefs

The following are among the items dealth with by the Lancaster Township council at its regular meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

Don't duplicate health agencies

Council voted to agree with the Eastern Ontario Health Unit's position that the Ontario government should not create new agencies to administer health services.

This position was expressed in a letter written to the Association of Municipalities of Ontario.

''The establishment of new agencies means the creation of new boards and the payment of new administrative overheads all of which are needless expenditures of funds,'' wrote Dr. Robert Bourdeau, the district medical officer of health at EOHU in Cornwall.

''The net result is increased costs to the taxpayer or less money for services.''

Council supports Optimists lottery

Council members will support the North Lancaster Optimist Club's application to the Ontario Ministry of Consumer and Corporate Relations to have a lottery for prizes totalling $10,000.

Mike Samson, township clerk-treasurer, said a lottery with prizes exceeding a total of about $3,000 requires a provincial permit.

When examining the application, provincial officials have asked town officials for a recommendation, which council members have agreed to provide.

Tile drainage dollars

The township will borrow about $5,200 from the provincial government to help farmers finance tile drainage.

The money will be lent to farmers at eight per cent interest as long as the farmers build their own tile drains.

Wetlands bylaw delayed

Council decided not to pass a bylaw restricting development in Lancaster's wetlands after Deputy Reeve Steve Preston urged council to wait.

The bylaw would have restricted all construction between Sutherland Creek, Red Path Estate and south of Highway 401, a portion of the wetlands which are located between Creq Quay and Woods Creek.

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, the Raisin Region Conservation Authority and the Lancaster Township are conducting an extensvie study of the wetlands, including its future use.

Preston said in an interview that passing the bylaw might jeapordize existing building rights on the wetlands.

He said the bylaw should exempt those who already have rights to the lands and those who are applying for building permits.

Crowd paid tribute

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

A larger crowd than in some years past gathered Sunday at the cenotaph in Williamstown, as Remembrance Day tributes were paid. Perhaps it was the rare November sunshine which drew the people; perhaps it was the thankfulness that this year's war ended as quickly as it did.

The service was led by Pastor Eric Urquhart of Lancaster, with Huntly McDonell announcing the laying of the wreaths. Young people from Char-Lan High School Band who provided music were treated to a lunch at the Legion, prior to playing again in the afternoon in Lancaster.

The many wreaths around our cenotaph and the involvement of our young people in the service are signs that we have not, and will not, forget.

A remembrance service of a unique kind will be held at St. Mary's Church at the 10:30 a.m. parish mass on Nov. 17. At that time three special plaques will be unveiled: one will honor the young men from St. Mary's who died in World Wars I and II, one will remember Rev. Isaac McCarthy, and one will be in memory of Rev. Walter Barrett.

Father McCarthy and Father Barrett are buried under the sanctuary of St. Mary's Church. Because of this, there are no stones marking their burial places in the church cemetery.

Excerpts from the church bulletin give us a little background information on these priests. Of particular interest is Father Barrett, who not only was a native of Williamstown, but was the only priest ever ordained, to this date, to the priesthood in St. Mary's.

Unfortunately, Father Barrett's life was a short one. He was born on Dec. 26, 1835, was ordained on July 10, 1867, and passed away the following year, on Dec. 14, 1868. Information taken from the church death register notes that the solemn High Mass and service were celebrated by His Lordship Bishop Horan, Kingston with The Vicar General Hay acting as assistant priest.

"The funeral was very long — the church was draped in deepest mourning. Everything possible was done to show respect to the memory of the honored dead, whose loss is most sincerely deplored by all who had the happiness to be acquainted with him."

Father Isaac McCarthy served at St. Mary's between 1858-75 and again between 1886-1892. The first collection made by Father McCarthy went to the purchase of the beautiful statue of the Immaculate Conception that now stands over the main altar.

In the spring of 1859, Father McCarthy, accompanied by John Hay, visited every home in the parish. Not quite as easy a task then as it would be now!

The historian in me is curious. What caused Father Barrett's untimely death? And what connection was he to modern day Barretts of William Street?

* * *

I don't think they saw the Pope in Rome, but globe-trotters Andrea McDonell and Susan McGrath did have an audience with the famous last week. Apparently the girls saw Mila Mulroney and Barbara Bush out shopping while their husbands were . . . working.

The Glengarry girls also met up with Tammy Rozon who is touring the continent as well.

Like fine wines and certain cheeses, does old news read tastier than new? The following item has been through the wars, and I apologize to all whose eyes have worn themselves out scanning for it.

John MacDonald of Garth and John Duncan Campbell of Inverarden, but not their wives, welcomed a good number of Beaver Clubbers to their autumn levee held back a bit at Inverarden in Cornwall. And although Cornwall was the locale, Glengarry was the "natale" for most of those present.

With the exception of a few latter-day cowards, those attending got into the spirit of things by coming in their plaids or other suitable costumes. Refreshments included Portugese cornbread, warmed in Inverarden ovens, peppercorn pate, Stilton cheese, and Thelma Rose's marmalade, which, by the by, food critics have decreed to be the best (and not just in the nor'west!)

The Inverarden setting was ideal for such an afternoon gathering and the Gaelic songs provided by five sons of Scotland, stirred many a memory among those present.

Altogether it was a good historical event — hopefully to repeat itself.

The big C is just a calendar page away and many minds have already turned to thoughts of the season. Viola Pilon and daughter Ann McDonell will be having their annual craft sale Nov. 15 and 16 at Ann's place near Nestles.

Lots of good ideas for everyone!

This Saturday, Nov. 16, there will be a white elephant sale and a bake sale in St. Mary's Hall, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Proceeds will go to Canadian Missions.

Happy birthday this week to Susan Henssen who celebrates on Friday. Good timing — the day before the white elephant sale!

St. Andrew's church supper, recently enjoyed by more than four hundred diners, received a five star rating, I'm told. The mystery rater said the turkey was moist and tender and the pies were "wonderful." Seconds, too!

The introductory snowfall on Monday turned thoughts to driving conditions once again, especially for those whose children are first-time winter drivers.

Plan to attend the Char-Lan School committee's meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the school library. Speaking about "Teenagers and driving," will be Constable Gilles Ruest of the OPP, Bill Griese of Rozon Insurance, Roger Menard of Roger's Garage, and a Driver's Education representative.

A question and answer period following the talks should give way to some good discussion on the subject.

Turn-outs at the Williamstown Green Thumb meetings have been setting records lately. At the one held Oct. 28, for instance, a great crowd of members and visitors attended to hear Lil Haworth from the Royal Botanical Gardens in Hamilton.

Mrs. Haworth gave a most interesting demonstration on how to decorate with greenery, and do so without harming trees and shrubs. By cutting only small pieces of greenery, no more than five inches, one can create beautiful wreath and door decorations.

Mrs. Haworth, who was introduced by Wendy Rozon, was thanked for her speech by Marian Thompson.

Congratulations to Nancy Hallberg and Doug Hargrave, winners of the month's member activity — pumpkin decorating.

Hostesses for the evening, Sandy Wood, Betty Dreimanis, Viv Trudel and Tibi McRae, served a lovely lunch amidst a forest of decorations.

Cleaning the earth topic at recent 4-H meeting

Many thanks to the art class (from where, I haven't been able to find out) for designing the invitations to the luncheon for our volunteers for Meals on Wheels. The chosen design I'm sure has reached our volunteers and hope you appreciated the humor of the cats Meals on Wheels. This luncheon will be held in the Martintown Community Centre from 12 to 1:30 Nov. 21. Hope to see you there!

Report from 4-H tells me that on Oct. 23, twenty-five members attended their meeting. With roll call, each person had to say a little limerick to do with cleaning up the earth. Here are some examples: Clean the earth for what it's worth, Don't be bitter, clean up litter, Don't fly, clean our sky, and help us with our notions, clean the oceans.

When everyone was split into groups, they were handed a bag of clean garbage. After studying the contents, they had to divide them into different classifications, compost, re-use, recycle or garbage. Another learning experience was to see how the different toilet papers broke down after a good shaking in jars of water.

Cookies and juice closed the meeting.

My travels this week took me to St. John's Presbyterian Bazaar and Luncheon in Cornwall in the company of Grace Kinloch, Mina Carter, Eva MacMillan, Onagh Ross, Charlotte Sansom and Marjorie McMartin. Afterwards we were treated to a tour of Marjorie's lovely apartment in Cornwall, where we celebrated Grace's 79th and Eva's 81st birthdays.

Martintown Public School reports that the Ontario Milk Marketing Board has brought its milk program to their school. Milk is now sold for 50 cents, and every month there will be a draw for prizes such as lunch bags, socks, pencils, sharpeners, erasers, etc., all appropriately decorated with dairy cows. This is proving to be very popular with the kids.

The Students Council, with Mr. Atchison's approval, have voted to hold a "Food Drive" in the coming weeks leading up to Christmas. Each classroom will have a cardboard box where students can deposit their donations of canned goods and other non-perishable grocery items. These will be on display at the Christmas Concert, so the visitors can see the results of their efforts. These items will be donated to a charitable organization in time for Christmas. Rehearsals will begin soon for the Christmas concert. Once again Martintown families will be delighted with the program presented by the students.

This year the school will be putting a float in the Martintown Christmas parade to be held Sunday, Dec. 1. The theme will be "An Old Fashioned Christmas." The float will be depicting a kitchen/parlor scene. Items that students will be needing are: table and chairs, Christmas tree, fiddle, rocking chair, tree decorations (cranberries and popcorn) etc., period costumes, sofa/chair, skirt for around the wagon, fireplace pots, etc. If you can help with any of these items, please call the school at 528-4423.

The school has received several calls regarding packaging of cheese that the School Committee is selling. All cheeses are packaged in a box with a cellophane top. More order forms can be obtained from the office.

This past week brought visits of some of their old friends now attending Char-Lan, when they had a free day, because of a breakdown in the heating system at the high school.

Nov. 8's serving of macaroni and cheese went well, and was much appreciated, from what I hear. The school committee will be supplying bowls and spoons until Christmas but from January on, students will be asked to bring their own.

Clarification

The column 'News to Me', published on the editorial page of last week's News referred to the possibility of Alexandria council taking over a street being built by developer Denis Ethier.

Although council believed at the time there was a lien against it, it was later revealed the lien had been removed without council's knowledge prior to its discussion on whether to take over the street.

Cleaning the earth topic at 4-H meeting

past most enjoyable year, she enjoyed it so much that she is staying on as president for another year, in fact it was decided that from now on all positions would be for at least a two-year term. This was a suggestion put forward by our nominating committee John Peters and Marland Murray, and was unanimously agreed upon and voted in.

We only have four or five meetings a year and we try to share and spread gardening seeds, bulbs, cuttings, and ideas around. We are always looking for new members and meet the first Wednesday of the month, starting in March, at a membership fee of $3. It's sure a fun night out.

We had Jim Marks of Upper Canada Village come to speak with us this year, in March. We had flower show judge, Dorothy Campbell give us dos and don'ts in competition and hints on producing the best from what we choose to grow, in April. We had Pearl and Alison Murray show us how to make beautiful flower arrangements, in June. We had Ginny Blair show us how she creates her exquisite dried flower baskets, in September. And at year end we have election of officers at a pot luck supper, in November. We had a bake sale, two plant sales, spring and fall, and a flower show. We had two trips this year. One to the Upper Canada greenhouses and another to the Esmond-White Farm and greenhouses and grounds at Kemptville College.

Also this year we hosted the district annual meeting. So all in all we rounded up a good yyear, with a membership of 76, of which I am glad to be part of. Oh yes, two delegates, Jo Van Loon and Jean Butler, attended the 85th anniversary convention in Sault Ste. Marie along with Thelma Woosey from Vankleek Hill.

The new slate of officers are Past President — Jo Van Loon, President — Elizabeth Peters, first Vice President — Onagh Ross, second Vice President — Eugenie Rossel, Secretary — Evette Taillefer, Treasurer — Ken Carter.

Directors are as follows: Membership — Mina Carter and Eileen Johnston; Juniors — Karen Kinloch, Civic Improvement — Helen Robertson; Program Convenor — Nancy Colbran; Assistant to Show — Leara Smith; Publicity — Jean Butler; Yearbook — Margaret Kennedy; Prizes — Ann McDonald, Jo Van Loon and John Peters; Premiums — Monique Quenneville; Program Convenor — Marland Murray; Refreshments — Annie Chisholm; Phone Committee — Ann Hull, Mary McDonell, Marjorie McMartin, Marie Seguin, Charlotte Sansom, Mary Murray and Elizabeth Peters; Caller — Sadie O'Keefe, and Auditors — Helen McMillan and Irene West.

We also had our auction of plants and seeds, knick-knacks and baking, which was very capably handled by our own in-house auctioneer John Peters.

We will be having a Christmas decoration competition again this winter, so put on your thinking caps. There will be the overall site and most attractive door decoration. There will be first, second and third prizes in both.

Oh boy! There are great opportunities to get out of baking this weekend with two sales on Saturday, Nov. 16, and a lot of Christmas present buying. That is the craft and bake sale at the Martintown Community Centre from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Also Jo Van Loon and Noreen Richer are collecting baked goods and preserves for the bake sale at the Brookdale Mall for the Cornwall Cystic Fibrosis Chapter and the Draw for the 250 lbs. of Beef raffle. The bake sale is from 9 a.m. until all is gone.

If you didn't mark your calendars after last week's column, you had better not forget this week. Sunday evening of Dec. 1, you are in for a good night of piping, fiddling, dancing and song in a concert at the St. Andrew's United Church in remembrance of St. Andrew.

I was privileged to be able to attend the most-excellent Remembrance Day assembly program at the Martintown Public School. It was all handled by the students themselves. They even had their own piper, Rory Buchan, and what a great job he did. Rory piped in all the students, class by class, with "Amazing Grace." Kim Bold did a fine job as emcee, Jason Knight and Matt Groleau handled the sound system very capably and Mellissa Flaro and Barry Clark did a matchless reading of the War Memorial Names. The choral reading "In Flanders Fields" was done so well by Grade 5/6 and Young Fellow My Lad by Grade 7/8.

Each student then placed their own artwork of poppies on the table set up around a cross of made-up poppies. Rory piped the classes out with "When the Battle is O'er."

Then we were treated to a warm coffee, sandwiches and sweets while we visited with neighbors. It was a superb day.

Aren't little critters funny sometimes. Cameron McDonald found out the hard way. Some little ones decided to put food away for the coming winter and used Cameron's air filter of his car. To say the least the car did not work to well and had him stumped until son Greg, home from Calgary, suggested checking the filter. The car is working fine now. Welcome home Greg.

Team Clinic loses two of three in painful weekend action

On Saturday night, Alexandria Glens forward Pat Lariviere was lying on the Charlottenburgh Recreational Centre ice surface after being submarined by Char-Lan defenseman Pat Carriere.

The scene pretty much typified the latter part of the Glens' weekend; lots of pain, little gain.

After beating the Gananoque Islanders at home on Friday night, Alexandria suffered back-to-back losses and a string of injuries on Saturday and Sunday.

By the end of the weekend the Glens had enough wounded personnel to film an episode of MASH.

The trouble actually started in the last minute of Friday's game when Pascal Joanette, who had scored four goals earlier in the game, collided back- first into the post after being knocked from his feet.

Joanette missed the rest of the weekend and his status remains uncertain.

On Saturday, already without the services of speedy forward Travis Duhaime, Lariviere suffered his injury to further deplete the forward ranks. Lariviere was taken to hospital and the injury to his knee is considered serious.

Then, just to prove that the injury bug is an equal opportunity force of destruction, Glens goalie Pat Lamarche missed the third period after a crease collision late in the second.

Lamarche dressed as a backup goalie for Sunday's game.

Centreman Allen Fitzgerald wasted little time getting into the spirit of things. After playing his first game of the year for Alexandria on Saturday, Fitzgerald missed Sunday's game with a sore elbow.

The Glens have been looking to bolster their lineup in recent weeks, but perhaps they should consider putting a team doctor at the top of the want list.

Glens 9 Gananoque 3

The Islanders, in last place in the Rideau Division, haven't exactly scared too many opponents this year, but they've had a particularly tough time with the Glens.

Alexandria outscored the Isles 24-5 in recording a pair of victories.

On Friday in Alexandria got four goals from Pascal Joanette in a 9-3 win.

Joanette, playing on a line with Andrew Sauve and Steve Poirier, said he is feeling very comfortable in his linemates' company.

"They're both very good players," said Joanette. "They let me play my game and they let me be the leader when we're on the ice.

"I played ball hockey with Steve so we know each other fairly well. He's a good scorer," said Joanette who also played briefly with Sauve two years ago on the Glens.

After spending training camp with the Cornwall Royals, Joanette admitted he found the pace a little different at the Junior B level. By expending his energy more efficiently, things have started to pick up, his recent back injury notwithstanding.

"So far I've been averaging two or three points a game. Now I'd like to make it three or four points per game."

Coach Kirk Anderson, meanwhile, spoke optimistically about his club after Friday's game.

"We've played four good games in a row," said Anderson. It remains to be seen what the Glens bench boss thought about Saturday and Sunday's efforts.

"I think that game against Winchester (a 7-6 loss) was a real turning point in terms of solidifying the comraderie on the team.

"Besides, I've always said it's not where you start, it's where you finish."

Other scorers for Alexandria on Friday were Serge Bellefeuille with two, Marc Sauve, Travis Duhaime and Patrick Ravary.

Ian Tierney, Randy Payne and Andy Sutton responded for Gananoque.

Westport 5 Glens 2

The Rideaus used three second-period goals to propel themselves to a 5-2 win over Alexandria on Sunday.

The Glens had taken a 1-0 on a Dan Levert first period marker, but Todd Mallette, Jeff Snow and Geoff Whent scored in the middle frame to give the Rideaus a 3-1 lead.

Stephane Nadeau scored eight-and-a-half minutes into the third to halve the gap, but Westport scored twice in the final two minutes to ice the win.

Darryl Ah Now and Mike Seed, into an empty net, scored the other Rideau goals.

Pascal Joanette (with puck) was dangerous all game long around the Gananoque net, causing damage in more ways than one. Joanette scored four goals but later injured his back after crashing into the goal post.

The Rideaus outshot Alexandria 36-34.

Glenformation: Allen Fitzgerald, who played briefly with Alexandria last year, signed with the team last week and had an excellent game playing between Marc Sauve and Serge Bellefeuille on Saturday...Luc Francoeur has indicated he wants to return to the Glens sometime in the New Year...On the minus side, defenseman Robert Larocque has quit the team because of schooling and work considerations. Larocque is a Hawkesbury native...Marc Deschamps played some defense on the weekend and wore Larocque's number 17...Other number notes, Rick Latreille is wearing Deschamps' *20, Fitzgerald has number 22 and Jamie Nelson is wearing 16...The Glens play in Winchester on Friday and will host the Morrisburg Lions on Sunday.

Char-Lan advances to SD&G hoop final

The Char-Lan junior girls basketball team advanced to the SD&G "A" final with a 35-23 victory yesterday over Seaway.

Cathy Pilon, with 10 points, Angela Smith (nine) and Kelly Lariviere (eight) were the Crusaders' top scorers.

Char-Lan will host the winner of the General Vanier-R.O. semi-final on Thursday.

Rebs sweep pair as Wylie keys offensive attack

The Char-Lan Rebels had the most successful weekend to date this season when they posted wins over South Grenville and Alexandria on Friday and Saturday respectively.

Saturday's home-ice victory, like any other over arch-rival Alexandria, was especially sweet.

Defenseman Bob Bowles scored with 2:59 remaining to give the Rebels a 7-6 win and stifle an attempted Alexandria comeback.

The Glens scored three goals earlier in the third to tie the game at 6-6 after the Rebs had built a 6-3 lead after two periods.

Rebels coach Randy Larocque had visions of opening night creeping into his head, when the Glens rallied for an overtime victory, as Alexandria started to climb back into the game.

"I thought about it after the fifth goal," admitted Larocque.

"We stopped going hard in the third period and we let them come at us," said Larocque by way of explanation for the tighter-than-expected finish.

"Maybe it's my fault. I told them 'Don't get caught up ice' and we wound up playing in our own end for the first 12 or 13 minutes of the period."

The tension continued as Mike McDonell, who entered the game in relief of injured starter Pat Lamarche, kept his team in the game by making a series of big stops.

Before the end of the period McDonell would make 15 saves, but the only one that eluded him was Bowles' game-winner.

It was lack of discipline (or shoddy refereeing, depending on your viewpoint) that sunk Alexandria.

The Glens got into penalty trouble in the third, giving Char-Lan five separate man advantage opportunities before Bowles finally cashed in.

Char-Lan's Ray Jock (11) goes out to challenge Alexandria's Marc Sauve as the Glens player unleashes a shot. Sauve scored twice during Saturday's game but the Rebels won 7-6.

Staff photo — J.L. Lefebvre

Other scorers for Char-Lan were Greg Wylie with a pair, Pete St.Jean, Denis St.Jean and Colin Cameron. For Alexandria, it was Serge Bellefeuille and Marc Sauve with a pair each, Allen Fitzgerald and Benoit Frappier.

Although Sauve did score two goals, Larocque said afterwards that John Gallinger's shadowing job on the big Alexandria sniper was a success.

"John did a pretty good job on Sauve. (Gallinger) is a big strong boy and he likes to be given a job like this."

Rebels defenseman Derek Duchesne said there was never any danger that there would be a lack of motivation for a game against Alexandria.

"This is a big rivalry, you have to be up for a game like this," he said. "We heard that they were shooting for a six-point weekend, well we were going for a four-point weekend and we got it."

And Duchesne promises bigger things in the future for Char-Lan, sending out a warning to the St.Lawrence Division leaders.

"Winchester and Morrisburg are going to be in for it the next time we play them."

Wylie rips Rangers

Rebels captain Greg Wylie is generally known for solid two-way play, but the veteran turned in a solid offensive performance in a 9-6 victory over South Grenville on Friday in Spencerville.

Wylie added three assists to give him nine points for the weekend.

Danik Roy scored twice for Char-Lan with other goals going to Pat Carriere, Denis St.Jean, Pete St.Jean and Dan Desjardins.

Mark Bruce scored three times for the Rangers with the other South Grenville tallies being shared by Scott Young, Matt Gorman and Jeff Hare.

Char-Lan capitalized on their power play opportunities, converting three of six man advantage situations.

Rebel Yells: Chris Petry was the St.Hubert defensive player of the game on Saturday, while Greg Wylie was named top offensive player...Randy Gebbie missed both weekend contests as he served the first two games of a three-game suspension...Blueliner Kevin Duchesne is expected to resume skating today and says he hopes to be back in the Rebels lineup in time for this weekend's game...Jordan Hart, son of Char-Lan assistant Terry Hart, was dressed for Saturday's game against Alexandria. Dominic Charlebois was in the Rebel lineup on Friday...It's a single game weekend for the Rebels as their only action will come when they host the Gananoque Islanders on Saturday.

Border League is the loop that's big on "O"

Goals continue to come fast and furious in the Kinsmen Border League as the winning team won by an average score of 10-6 in games played last week.

Sunday games

Dave Thibeault and Andy McRae had four goals each as Dalhousie pounded the Rebels 15-8.

Stewart McDonald and Jean Desormeau added hat trick performances for the winning side. Charlie McRae was the other Dalhousie scorer.

For the Rebels it was Rodney Craig with five goals, Lawrence Davis, Wally McDonald and Francois Ouellette.

Also on Sunday the Kinsmen defeated Tri-County Windows 9-6.

Brendan McDonald, with three goals, and Ron McDonald with two led the Kinsmen attack. Rolland Hall, Carter MacDonald, Randy McDonell and David McDonell rounded out the scoring.

Mike Lapensee netted three for Tri-County and Gerry Blanchette added two. Marc Ouimet had the other Tri-County goal.

Thursday games

Leo Seguin was at it again, scoring six times and assisting on the other five goals in an 11-7 Champions win over Dalhousie.

Dean Slaney had four goals in a supporting cause and Garth Franklin had one.

Stewart McDonald and Charlie McRae had two goals each for Dalhousie with singles going to Dave Thibeault, Joey McRae and Andy McRae.

In (surprise!) a defensive battle, the Rebels beat Tri-County 4-2.

Francois Ouimet scored two goals, including the winner with 1:20 remaining in the game, for the Rebels. Devon MacDonald and Lawrence Davis also scored.

Mike Lapensee had both Tri-County markers.

Tapis closes in on Art Benton in Sponge Puck

Defending league champions Tapis Richard handed first place Art Benton its first defeat of the year in a Ladies Sponge Puck League showdown last Wednesday at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Tapis won 1-0 to move to within one point of Art Benton in the league standings.

Carol-Ann Baxter's third period goal with 8:10 remaining broke up what had been strictly a goaltending and defensive battle up to that point. Ann-Marie VanSleeuwen recorded the shutout for Tapis Richard.

In other league action on Wednesday, M¿D Sports did a good job keeping SunLife's Julie Bissonette, the league's number two scorer, in check but couldn't do the same against Lise Durocher who netted a hat trick in a 3-0 SunLife win, as Sue Villeneuve chalked up a shutout.

A week ago it was Bissonette who scored three goals in a SunLife victory.

Despite the back-to-back wins, SunLife remains in fourth place, three points behind league-leading Art Benton.

Titley remained in third spot, one point ahead of SunLife, with a 9-0 romp over 0-7 Maxville.

Shirley Hay, Wendy Hay and Annie St-Denis each had a hat trick for the winning team. Lori Oma and Lisa Poirier each contributed a pair of assists.

Cathy Wensink gets the shutout.

Sr. Warriors are on a roll

The word "momentum" is one commonly used in sports, but no one is really sure if it means anything or not.

If momentum (known as "Big Mo" by its closest friends) is a legitimate factor, then the Tagwi senior girls basketball team have things going their way.

Heading into yesterday's semi-final match-up against Seaway, the Warriors were on a three game-winning streak which allowed them to finish the regular season with a .500 record.

The most recent win came last Monday against Rothwell-Osnabruck by a score of 51-43.

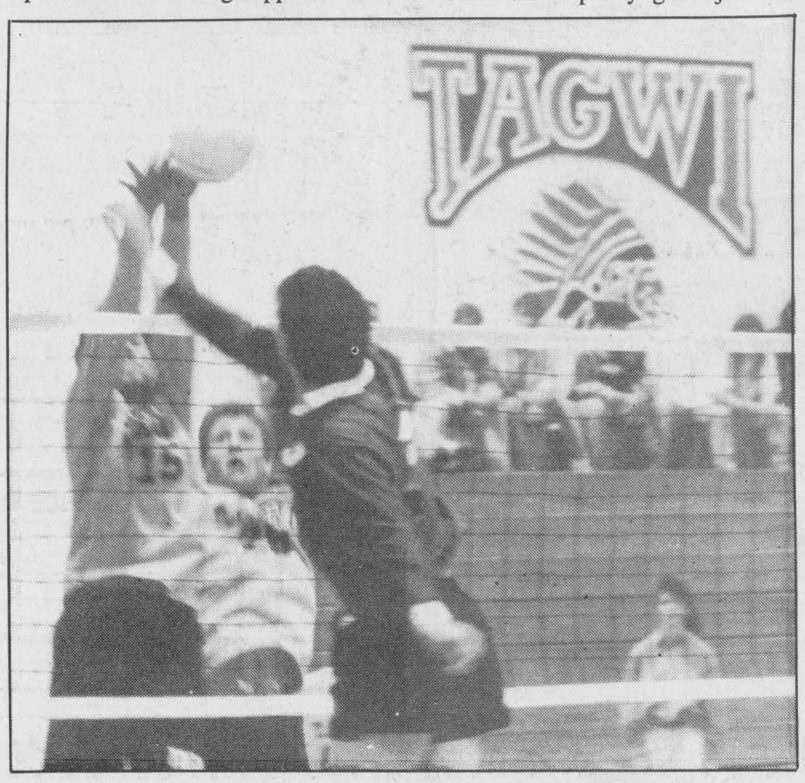
Kristi Poirier led the way for the Warriors with 25 points, followed closely by Julie Crites with 22.

Ingrid Wells led the Lancers with 15 points.

The junior Warriors close the books on the 1991 season with a 3-7 record, including a 60-39 loss to Rothwell-Osnabruck last Monday.

Andrea Villeneuve scored 21 points, and was Tagwi's top scorer.

Stacey Paquette's 23 points topped the scorers' list for R-O.



Warrior "D"

Jeremy Nixon (15) of the Tagwi Warriors junior boys voleyball team goes up to block a spike attempt by a General Vanier player. Nixon's Warriors won a gruelling five-set match against the Vikings last Thursday to win the Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry "A" title. (See page 15 for story.)

Kings, Bar Cottage win first place showdowns

A first place showdown in the West Division between Maxville Farm Machinery and the Monkland Kings highlighted week seven of SD¿G No-contact Broomball League play in Maxville on Sunday.

Monkland 1 Maxville F.M. 0

Steve Norman's first period goal held up as the winner as Monkland edged Maxville 1-0. Keith Presley recorded the goose egg in nets for the Kings.

The two clubs entered the game with identical 4-1-1 records in the West, well ahead of third-place Besner Construction.

Bar Cottage 3 Glengarry Ins. 2

In another battle for first, this one in the East Division, first-place Bar Cottage held off challengers Glengarry Insulation with a tight 3-2 win.

Alain Caouette's second period tally turned out to be the game-winner for Bar Cottage. Stephane Ranger and Kevin Leduc scored the other goals for B.C.

For Glengarry it was Gilles Decoeur and Mario Elie.

King's 5 Crites 2

King's Whitewashing picked up their third win in their last four games with a 5-2 win over Crites Excavation.

Finlay McDonald led the King's attack with a hat trick while Jeff MacLean rounded out the scoring with a double.

Daryl Dumouchel and Alain Gauthier scored for Crites.

Besner 2 BMR 2

Jacques Hamelin scored with just over a minute remaining in the game to give BMR a 2-2 tie with Besner Construction in a battle of struggling clubs.

The two clubs have combined for only one win in 14 games this season.

Mario Quenneville had the other goal for BMR while Mario Dumont and David Chaddock replied for Besner.

Fontaine 5 Ingleside 5

Tim Legue of Ingleside Lanes and Roger Marsolais of Fontaine Construction had two goals each as the teams tied 5-5.

John Hopmans and Bill Pynenburg Sr. also scored for Ingleside while Besner's other goals were provided by Barry Benton, Ray Fontaine and Jean Lauzon.

Wildcats fall short in EOFL final

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

The Cornwall Optimist Wildcats came up about a foot short in the Eastern Ontario Football League final against the South Grenville Giants at General Vanier on Saturday.

While driving for the potential tying score in the very late stages of the game, the 'Cats were in a third-and-short situation in South Grenville territory. Cornwall elected to go with a running play to the outside but the South Grenville defense held the 'Cats short of a first down by about the length of the football, allowing the Giants to preserve a 20-13 victory.

For the Wildcats, it was a very disappointing end to a successful season.

After going winless last year, and almost not fielding a team this season, the 'Cats took first place in the EOFL with a 5-1 regular season and then advanced to the final with a 15-0 win over the TISS Pirates in the semi-final.

If a couple of bounces had gone the other way on Saturday, Cornwall would have had a worst-to-first story to rival that of the World Series Champion Minnesota Twins.

''I was just happy to be here,'' said kicker Dave MacDonald, one of a large contingent of Glengarry players on the Wildcats squad.

''Last year we were 0-7 and this year we made it to the finals. That's something to be proud of.

''We weren't even supposed to have a team this year because (the Optimist Club) wasn't going to sponsor us but (coaches) Barry (Smith) and Todd (Ivany) pushed for it.''

MacDonald took the loss, in his last ever high school game, philisophically.

''It's kind of disappointing that we didn't win but there can only be one winner for every game.''

Head coach Smith took a similar ''we're-just-glad-to-be-here'' attitude after the game.

''I'm very proud of them (the Wildcats). The players have absoultely nothing to be ashamed of.''

Smith again made a point of highlighting the play of Glengarry players in the game. In particular he praised receiver Shyldon Safruk and lineman Mike Madden who according to Smith ''had the game of his life.''

As for the team as a whole, Smith said that the accomplishments of the '91 Wildcats are remarkable considering how long it usually takes to build a winning football team.

''Last year they were 0-7 and this year they were 6-2 and made the final. With only seven veterans on the team I'd say we're ahead of schedule (in building the football program).''

Does that mean that the Wildcats will be back next year?

''The coaches talked it over and the program will be continued next year,'' said Smith, who hinted he'll likely return as head coach.

Glengarry Gaels close out basketball season

The season has come to an end for both the senior and junior Glengarry girls basketball teams.

Both Gaels clubs lost their final regular season games last Tuesday at Cornwall Collegiate. Neither team qualified for SDG post-season play.

Juniors lose heart-breaker

In a battle of 1-8 clubs to decide the final ''AA'' playoff team, the junior Gaels held a one-point with only a handful of seconds left before CCVS' Maria Tsiaousidis hit for a game-winning basket to give the Raiders a 27-26 victory.

The junior team ends the campaign with nine straight losses after a season- opening win over North Dundas.

Ann McCuaig provided half of Glengarry's offense by scoring 13 points.

Seniors run afoul of Raiders

The good news for the senior Gaels was that they outscored the CCVS Raiders 24-22 when the clock was moving.

The bad news is the Raiders converted 15 of 26 free throw attempts compared to 0 for 4 by the Gaels as CCVS won 37-24.

Glengarry was whistled for 20 fouls compared to seven infractions called against the Raiders.

The Gaels' Annie Cuerrier was the game's top scorer with eight points.

Janice Marshall and Debbie Girling each had seven to tie for the CCVS scoring lead.

The Gaels wind up with a 3-7 record on the season.

Warriors, Vikings split "A" titles

The Tagwi Warriors and the General Vanier Vikings did battle on the senior and junior volleyball fronts on Thursday, and each school came away with an SD¿G "A" title.

In Avonmore, the host junior Warriors won a five-set marathon thriller over GVSS, a match which took over two hours to play.

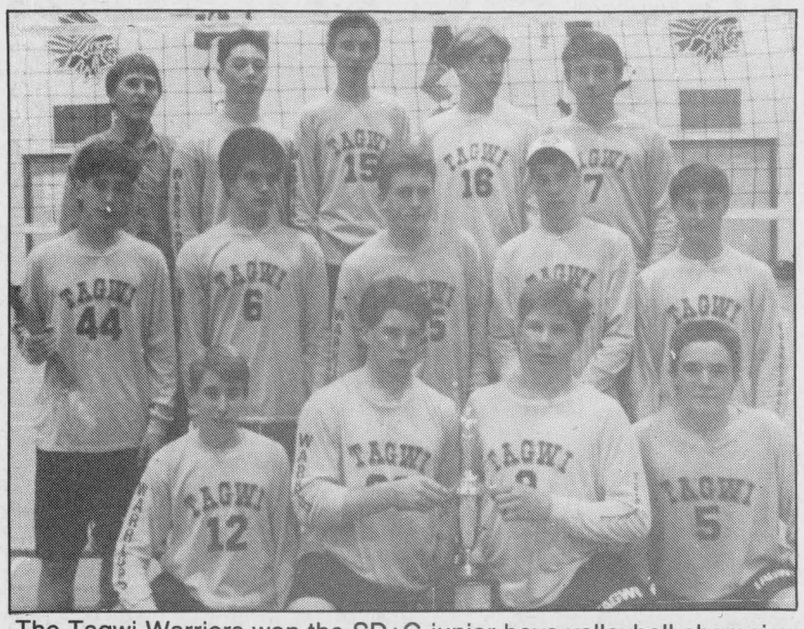
Tagwi won two straight nailbiter sets to open the match, winning by scores of 16-14 and 15-13. The Warriors saved off two set points in the opening act.

The Vikes then bounced back to take set three 15-11. The fourth set was completely out of character with the rest of the match as General Vanier breezed to a 15-3 win to even the match at two games apiece.

In the fifth and deciding set, Tagwi shook off the cobwebs accumulated in the previous two sets and played its best volleyball of the day to win 15-7.

It was a case of a little revenge for Tagwi who fell to General Vanier in the SD¿G final a year ago. Ironically, the Vikes took the championship in 1990 by winning the last three sets after losing the first two.

In 1991 though, Tagwi coach Joe Stelmach took advantage of a deep bench (the Warriors have a 13-player roster) and used frequent substitutions to collect key points off of service or to bolster front-court blocking.



The Tagwi Warriors won the SD¿G junior boys volleyball championship last Thursday with a win over General Vanier. Team members are (front) Scott Shaner, Jamie Norman, Jason Norman, Craig Cameron (middle) Todd Stelmach, Jeff Kennedy, John Poapst, Chris Lefebvre, Cyril Dixon (back) Coach Joe Stelmach, Jeremy Nixon, Brian Johns, Darryl Sobering, Dan Larsen.

The Warriors earned the right to host the "A" final on Tuesday when they knocked off GVSS and Seaway in straight sets.

Tagwi beat Seaway 15-9 and 15-12 and topped GV 15-13 and 15-6.

The Warriors play at the Eastern Ontario (EOSSAA) championships today at North Grenville.

Sr. Vikings breeze past Tagwi

Meanwhile at General Vanier, the Vikings needed little time or effort in winning the senior title in straight sets over Tagwi.

In a match that took less than an hour to play General Vanier won 15-4, 15- 1 and 15-6.

"They were deserving champions," said Tagwi coach Larry Poirier, whose Warriors were SD¿G champions last year. "I think they're the best "A" team to come out of SD¿G that I've ever seen.

"Usually it's (Ryan) Kilger that does all the damage for them but today it was everybody.

"I'm not ashamed at all of my team. They had their best record ever this year. GV was just too strong," he concluded.

On Tuesday, Tagwi qualified for the final by knocking off North Dundas 15- 4 and 15-9 and Seaway 15-1 and 15-4 during the semi-finals on Tuesday.

GVSS beat the Warriors 15-8 and 15-9.

Alexandria peewees drub Massena visitors

The Alexandria Lalonde General Store Peewee Glens posted a 11-0 victory over Massena in a minor hockey exhibition game Sunday in Alexandria.

Chancey Lajoie led the Alexandria offensive charge with four goals. Scott Nielsen added a pair of goals while singles were scored by Andrew Taillefer, Marc Gauthier, Eric Lavigne, Sylvain Campeau and Stephane Boisvenue.

On Saturday Alexandria bombed the hometown St.Isidore team 12-0.

Scott Nielsen bagged a hat trick for Alexandria, while Eric Lavigne and Sylvain Campeau contributed two goals apiece.

Single tallies were registered by Stephane Boisvenue, Pascal Decoeur, Frank Lortie, Jason Poirier and Chancey Lajoie.

On Friday South Stormont defeated Alexandria 5-2.

Novices win, lose, tie

On Sunday the Knights of Colombus Novice Glens tied Rockland 3-3 as Alexandria couldn't hold a 3-2 third period lead.

Goal scorers for Alexandria were Jason Vickers, Jeffrey Lobb and Beth Depratto.

On Saturday the novices lost 5-3 in St.Isidore.

Jason Vickers, Jocelyn Lamarche and Patrick Picard scored the Glens' goals in the loss.

On Friday in Long Sault, Alexandria blanked South Stormont 7-0 as Lee Leblanc recorded the shutout.

Joel Quesnel had three goals for the Glens and Eric Nielsen had two.

Atoms lose first two games

The Caisse Populaire Atom Glens lost their first two games of the year, one an exhibition, the other a regular season contest, this past weekend.

On Sunday the Glens lost 5-2 to the Cornwall atom A club in an exhibition game, as Kurt MacSweyn and Timothy Van Overbeek notched goals for Alexandria.

On Friday the atoms were doubled by South Stormont 6-3 in Long Sault.

Guillaume Ouimet, Kurt MacSweyn and Gyslain Valade scored for the Glens.

On Saturday the Glens blanked Cornwall 11-0 as Guillaume Ouimet had three goals.

Jamie Ladouceur added a double with singles going to Nicolas Prieur, Eric Leroux, Michel Quesnel, Tim Van Overbeek, Kurt MacSweyn and Gyslain Valade.

On Thursday Alexandria shut out North Glen-Stormont 4-0

Kurt MacSweyn scored twice while Gregory Lalonde and Nicolas Prieur had one goal each.

Bantams top Rockland

Martin Boisvenue scored Alexandria's last three goals to lift the bantams to a 7-5 win over Rockland.

Darcy McDonell added a goal and two assists for the victorious Glens.

Other goals were scored by Roch Jeaurond, Jean-Pierre Lefebvre and Eric Hagen.

Lafave torches Decoste Welding

Wendell Lafave scored six times to pace the attack for Dick's Paving as the Alexandria and District Industrial Hockey League's second place club defeated Decoste Welding 9-6 in Maxville on Saturday.

Bugs Sauve, Dick Sauve and Claude Bourck also scored for Dick's. Robert McDougald had three assists.

Newcomer Leo Seguin had two goals and an assist in his first game for Decoste. Michel Lefebvre, Danny MacKay, Sylvain Levert and Steve Stewart also scored in a losing cause.

Dick's remains one point behind Brown House in the race for first in the ADIHL as the latter were 7-5 winners over Ernie's Cement Works.

Andre Seguin and Jim Wightman each had hat tricks in Brown House's victory. Andre Decoeur had the other goal while Gerry Blanchette had three assists.

For Ernie's it was J.P. Claude and Brian Reasbeck with two goals apiece and Ralph Humphries with a single.

In the other game of week seven, Glengarry Windows and Doors defeated Alexandria Legion 7-3.

Maurice Leduc had two goals for W&D while Andy McRae had a goal and three assists. Other W&D tallies went to J.C. Ranger, Mario Chevrier, Steve Greer and Mario Dumont.

Mike Campeau, Chris Kirady and Lynden Cameron provided the offense for the Legionnaires.

Char-Lan Crusader girls are a perfect "10"

The Char-Lan junior and senior Crusaders capped perfect 10-0 regular seasons with victories over North Dundas last Friday.

In the senior contest, a semi-final preview, Sharon Huizinga took advantage of the absence of centre Karen Arnott (who sat out the game because of a cracked knuckle) to put on an Arnott-like offensive display by scoring a whopping 37 points.

Huizinga's offensive output was good enough to tie the entire North Dundas team's production. The rest of the Crusader team chipped in another 19 points in a 56-37 Char-Lan win.

Arnott was expected back in the lineup for yesterday's semi-final rematch against the Devils.

In Memoriam

HURTUBISE — In loving memory of Aunt Margaret Richardson, who passed away on November 11, 1983.
—Always remembered by sister Janet and niece Rita (Romeo) Hurtubise. 46-1p

JETTE — In loving memory of my dear mother, Antoinette, who passed away Nov. 12, 1987 and a dear father, Laurier, who passed away Nov. 27, 1988.
My heart is still broken since you're gone
I miss you so much, you don't know how;
I will think of you every day and love you.
—Remembered by Blanche, Lucien and family. 46-1p

BLANEY — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Doris Blaney, who passed away Nov. 13, 1988.
They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
If we could have one lifetime wish,
One dream that could come true
We'd pray to God with all our hearts
For yesterday and you.
—Sadly missed and in loving memory from husband Charles and family. 46-1p

OUIMET — In loving memory of a dear son Paul who passed away three years ago Nov. 6, 1988.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day
Remembrance keeps you near.
—Always remembered and loved, your mother. 46-1p

KEMP, Louis — In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather who passed away Nov. 16, 1990.
Quickly and quietly came the call
His sudden death surprised us all;
His golden heart stopped beating
Two working hands at rest;
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He always takes the best.
No one knows the grief we share
When we all meet and Dad's not there;
What we would give if we could say
"Hello Dad" in the same old way.
To hear your voice to see your smile
To sit with you and chat a while;
So you who have a Dad, cherish him with care
For you'll never know the heartache
Until you see his vacant chair.
—Loved, sadly missed and always remembered by Susan, Donnie, Scott and Tami. 46-1p

KEMP — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, father-in-law and grandfather, Louis, who passed away November 16, 1990.
Your gentle face and pleasant smile
With sadness we recall;
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all;
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last,
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by we miss you more;
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
—Always remembered by Isobel, Ronnie, Robert, Donna, Cindy, spouses and grandchildren. 46-1p

Over 140 students gather at ESRG for FESFO forum

ESRG News
Nicole Jeaurond

A very special activity was held last Friday, Saturday and Sunday, here at ESRG. Over 140 students met over the weekend at the FESFO (Fédération des élèves du secondaire Franco-ontarien) ''Organnizaction'' Regional Forum. Ten lucky students from grades 9 to 12 have been selected to represent our school's many clubs. Thanks to the decoration and welcoming committees as well as to FESFO for all the time and effort put into the preparation of this memorable activity.

Six of our improvisation team members have been selected to represent ESRG at the ''Grand Tournoi d'improvisation,'' organized in collaboration with the FESFO and TV Ontario. This tournament is to take place in Charlebois High School in Ottawa on Nov. 22, 23 and 24. These lucky scholars are going to be on TV Ontario's ''Le match d'impro'' that airs on Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock on channel 39. Be sure to watch them in January.

There was a blood donor clinic at the school on Thursday, Nov. 7. Some 288 units of blood were collected. Thank you very much on behalf of the Red cross for giving the gift of life.

You can buy your class ring until the end of November. There are many nice models to choose from. Remember to mention them to your parents. Maybe Santa Claus will bring you one for Christmas!

* * *

On Nov. 1, EOCIV (élèves ontariens contre l'ivresse au volant) held a ''Buy a friend'' auction in the cafeteria. ''Star'' students were sold to their classmates. Some students even bought their teachers! (Apparently, a certain teacher bakes a great cheesecake!) The money raised will be used during the course of the year for fun activities with EOCIV.

On Nov. 1, once again ESRG held a fun-filled activity day; half hour classes in the morning and activities in the afternoon.

There was a super Café-Chantant in the school — cafeteria and a miniature improvisation tournament — in gym 3. Teams competing were the school's team, the drama class team, the ''Centre culturel, Les trois p'tits points'' team, and last but not least, our own teachers. All students participated and seemed to enjoy themselves.

Students of ESRG received a free hot dog lunch from the Students' Council. Hot dogs, soda and doughnuts were served by ''gourmet cooks.''

* * *

The gymnastics try-outs are to take place on Nov. 13, 20 and 27, so girls, join the fun and bring a friend. Remember, you have to be present at all three try-outs to make the team.

* * *

Next Thursday afternoon, the parent-teacher meetings take place at the high school. That means no school (Yah!) and report cards (Yuk!). On Friday, there is no school, so students can sleep in. Enjoy!

That's all the news for this week. So until next time, keep smiling . . . it makes people wonder what you are up to!

Kids given school bus tips during safety week

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

School bus-company owner Emile Viau worries about the safety of the children who ride his buses.

Statistics from the Ontario transport ministry show that about seven children were killed and another 1,125 injured in 4,500 school bus accidents between 1983 and 1988.

Children get hit by oncoming vehicles, and sometimes by the school bus itself.

Although transport Canada statistics show that children riding school buses are 16 times less likely to get hurt than on any other vehicle, there is still concern among parents, teachers and school bus drivers.

Viau, who owns the Glengarry Bus Lines Inc., went around Alexandria schools during National Safety Week between Oct. 21 to Oct. 25 to give the 600 children who ride his buses some safety tips.

Parents are urged to discuss with their children these safety guidelines, published by the School Bus Operators' Association of Ontario.

1) Get to the bus stop in plenty of time. Parents or another adult should take the children to the bus stop and supervise the other children there.

2) Behave at the bus stop. Stay away from the curb, don't push or wrestle with other children. Line up to get in the bus.

3) Make sure the bus is completely still before getting in. After the bus stops and the door opens, take hold of the handrail to climb those big steps.

4) Go right to your seat and sit quietly. A safe ride depends on the bus driver's concentration.

5) Obey the bus driver.

6) After climbing off the bus, take 10 steps forward from the front of the bus before crossing the road. The bus is so big that the driver can't see you properly at the very front of the bus. Remember, if you can see the driver, he can see you.

7) Wait for the bus driver's signal to cross the road. The bus driver has a good view of the road and will wave when it's safe to cross. If there is a safety patroller at your bus stop, follow his or her directions.

8) Never, ever, run behind or in front of the bus to pick up something you dropped or forgot. No one will punish you if your lunch box or homework gets run-over, as long as you're safe.

9) Go right home. Parents or another adult should meet children at the bus stop.

10) If someone is breaking these guidelines, it's OK to tell the bus driver. Don't be afraid to ask questions.

And if anyone has any questions, feel free to call Viau at 525-1443.

Learning safety

Grade two children at the Perpetuel-Secours school in Alexandria are learning safety from their principal Claude Brunet (right) as they line up to enter the school bus owned by Emile Viau, standing next to Brunet. The exercise took place Wednesday, Oct. 23, during National Safety Week.

News from Ecole St. Joseph in Lancaster

The setting was Halloween for the end of the month general assembly. Masters of ceremonies Joanne Menard and Eric Viau led a parade of talent through an hour of entertainment. Pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten students were a hit with the song The Squeleton dances the Twist. Grades 1 and 2 sang The Magic of Halloween while Brigitte Lafave and Sarah Bonneville tapped away to a popular jig. Grades 5 and 6 thrilled the students with their rendition of the 'Monster Mash II' and grades 7 and 8 haunted their audience with an eerie play composed by student Sharon Ferlotte. Many parents were on hand to encourage their youngsters.

Recipients of the monthly award were: Brett Doering for art, Melanie Brown — most improved, Natalie Trottier — consistent hard work, Natalie Grenon and Jennifer Prieur for their sense of responsibility, Anne Viau and John Peter Dupuis for their generosity, Sylvain Pilon and Claude Menard for creativity and Sharon Ferlotte for planning and organizing.

Last year the school hosted an evening of song, dance, games and entertainment in an attempt to celebrate their heritage. The evening — 'Pioneer Night' — proved to be a very happy event and this year the school hopes to involve the community once again. Principal Rose Desnoyer has already reserved a violin trio and 'old time' dancers.

The comite Foyer-Ecole (Parents Committee) is working very closely to recreate the atmosphere of an early pioneer holiday with games, pie contest, song and dance. Students are rehearsing their rendition of songs and square dances. The evening is scheduled for Nov. 28 at the parish hall in Lancaster.

Mass media could be considered the theme for the Nov. 6 meeting of the Bainsville Women's Institute held at the residence of Tibi McRae. Over 25 members answered the roll call, A TV commercial that should not be shown. Responses reflected on opposition to the advertising of beer, personal hygiene products and ads directed at children. Public relations officer Joanne Stevenson later delivered a short speech based on reminiscences of her five years working with The Glengarry News.

A cake maker's quiz conducted by Wendy Rozon preceded the business meeting. Sue Robertson took top honors at guessing which type of cake best matched the clues Wendy offered. In her absence, Sheila Urquhart presented voting delegate Allison Main's report about the area convention held in Kemptville.

Parks committee Chairman Pat Ager noted plans are under way to erect shelters next year at the Bainsville WI Memorial Park. Volunteers have been recruited to sew member-donated wool squares to form lap quilts for residents of Chateau Gardens and the palliative care unit of the Cornwall General Hospital.

Motions were passed to provide money to pay for birdseed for the bird feeders at Chateau Gardens and for the purchase of a trophy for the seniors club competition at the Williamstown Fair. Sheila Urquhart recited a poem as her reply to the motto 'if we cannot do all we would, let us do the best we can'.

Following the meeting, hostesses Tibi McRae, Emma Derrig, Helen McKenzie and Reina Troost served a splendid varietyy of tasty treats.

The Christmas meeting will be held on Dec. 4 at 6 p.m. at Sue Robertson's home. Members are reminded of the gift exchange and the cookies for Baldwin House.
