Boudria protesting planned closure of Martintown P.O.

By Greg Kielec
News editor

MP Don Boudria is calling on Canada Post to reverse its decision to close the Martintown post office.

Boudria has written a letter to the minister responsible for Canada Post Harvie Andre and is writing to residents urging their support for the post office, which serves 530 households, including several businesses and the Raisin Region Conservation Authority.

Canada Post recently announced that because of the retirement of Martintown's postmaster, it would close the post office and replace it with a retail postal outlet.

The news did not go over well with Martintown residents at a public meeting hosted by Canada Post last Tuesday night. And it is not going over well with Boudria, MP for the riding of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell.

"It's pretty lousy for a government service once it gets to be that way," Boudria said Monday.

"But see, it all goes from the mind-set that a post office is a business. The post office is a service in my books."

Boudria says in his letter to Andre that no consideration was given as to whether the community preferred the existing system, no profitability evaluation was undertaken and Charlottenburgh council was not consulted.

"For all the above reasons, I am now calling on you to reverse the decision of your officials and keep the Martintown Post office open," he says in the letter.

Charlottenburgh council has sent a letter to the government, also asking that the post office be reinstated, said Reeve Dave MacDonald yesterday.

"It's incredible how it works. It seems to be costing us more and more to mail letters and the service is getting less. You wonder why."

MacDonald, who fought six months ago to get post office boxes put back at Summerstown Station, said the Martintown closure is part of an increasing trend.

"It's happening more and more all the time, we're locally losing part of our heritage," he said yesterday.

"They're taking it away from us

Caroling party goes tomorrow

Chamber encouraging entire community to enjoy season's events

The holiday spirit comes alive in Alexandria this week with a candlelight community caroling party up Main Street tomorrow night (Thursday, Dec. 10) and the annual Richelieu Santa Claus parade on Saturday, Dec. 13.

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce is inviting all Glengarry citizens young and old to join the mass bilingual caroling procession up the town's Main Street to Mill Square where the town Christmas tree will be lighted. The event begins at Alexandria IGA at 7 p.m., but participants are asked to arrive 15 minutes early if they wish to pick up free carol sheets, courtesy of The News and area businesses. Candles and "glow sticks" will be available for a small charge to offset costs and to help with the Lions Club Christmas baskets fund.

Carolers also may bring their own candles or a small portable light if they wish.

Hot chocolate sponsored by Carnation and served by the Optimist Club will be served along the way, and a hay wagon and a bus will accompany the procession to pick up weary or cold carolers.

Glengarry Choirs will also be walking the route, led by Glengarry choir leader Ken Roach. The area's schools have also been encouraged to participate and many school children are expected to come along.

"This is an opportunity for the entire community, French and English, young and old, to come together and celebrate the spirit of the season," the chamber said in a release Monday.

After the Mill Square tree is lit and after a short carol sing, the procession departs for Champions Roadhouse at Main Street north where free cider will be served in the restaurant parking lot, courtesy of the business's owners.

But the chamber will also be offering the community cash prizes to encourage Christmas decorating.

Judging will be done on Dec. 18 for the best decorated businesses and residences in Alexandria and Green

Arson believed to be cause of fire at Glen Walter home

Investigators believe arson was the cause of a Nov. 30 fire which damaged a house in the Glen Walter area.

Fire Marshall Jim McBride of Belleville and Ontario Provincial Police Const. Chris McDonell of the Lancaster detachment reached the conclusion after an investigation into the cause of the fire.

McBride would not provide any more details, except to say that evidence has been sent to forensic laboratories in Toronto to determine exactly how the fire was started and by whom.

Results are expected in the next two weeks, McBride said.

The fire, which occurred in the evening, caused an undetermined amount in damages.

Fire officials at the scene suspected that the fire was not accidental, and called for the OPP and the fire marshall's office to investigate.

Fire investigators are also investigating a fire which occurred earlier in the day in Apple Hill area.

Kenyon Fire Department Chief Don MacCulloch said the cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but electrical malfunction has not yet been ruled out.

He said the fire, which caused about $25,000 in damages, started in the ceiling of the basement, and burned through the first floor of the house.

No one was injured in either fire.

Family of five left homeless after early evening blaze

Fire still under investigation

A Dakeith family of five is homeless after a fire destroyed its home last week.

Fire gutted Manon and Hermann Buhler's home, located on their dairy farm northeast of Breadalbane, Wednesday night, Dec. 2.

"The house is finished," said a visibly upset Manon Buhler, who was being comforted by neighbors at the scene of the fire.

The fire, which caused an undetermined amount in damages, is still being investigated.

No one was injured in the fire, which started in the evening.

Manon Buhler said she saw smoke coming out of the walls and kitchen when she walked into the vacant house at around 7:30 p.m.

She tried to phone for help, but her telephone lines were down.

She ran to a neighbor to call the Alexandria firefighters, who arrived at the scene at around 7:50 p.m..

The 12 firefighters battled the blaze until until around 10:50 p.m. Although the house is destroyed, the Buhler and their three children will have shelter.

Neighbors have agreed to house the Buhler until they get back on their feet.

McKenzie reaps another award — from the U.S. Legion

'Friendship' award recognizes piper's contributions

By Greg Kielec

The sweet pipes of Maxville's John. T. MacKenzie have helped earn him yet another award.

MacKenzie is this year's recipient of The American Legion Canadian Friendship Award, an award given to one Canadian a year for his contribution to veteran affairs in the United States.

The award was presented to MacKenzie by the American Legion National Commander Dominic D. Di Francesco at a Legion conference in Orlando, Fla. recently.

"I was surprised really," MacKenzie said in a telephone interview from his winter residence in Florida, adding "this is way up in the top, too" of the awards he has received over the years.

MacKenzie does a lot of piping at American legion activities, for funerals of American veterans, teaches the Shriner pipe band at Sarasota, Fla., judges Highland games and even plays at weddings of friends.

"I don't mind doing it," he said. "If it's for a good cause, I don't mind."

It was his piping, combined with his illustrious war record, which netted him the prestigious award.

"So I am on the road quite often," MacKenzie said.

It is, Francesco said in a letter announcing the award, a selection "in keeping with the highest tradition of recognizing the individual whose life best reflects the importance of continuous friendship between the veterans of Canada and America."

It is not the first time MacKenzie has been recognized by the United States.

At the first presidential visit to Canada of President John F. Kennedy, he received a medal named after the president, probably MacKenzie's most memorable award.

He said it gives a special feeling to be recognized for your work by another country. And it is a worthwhile pastime as well.

"It's just like a passport," he said of the pipes, adding: "You meet some good people."

MacKenzie started his military career at the age of 15, joining the Scots Guard, became part of the Desert Rats in Cairo in World War II, and piped for King Haakon in Oslo.

After the war, he was honored with the title of Piper to the Royal Household and took part in various Royal functions and historic occasions, such as the funeral of King George VI, Winston Churchhill's funeral and many Royal weddings.

Another honor was his receipt of the prestigious Lamp of Learning award from Ontario teachers for his efforts in making bagpipe music he taught a credit course.

Township redrawing fire station boundaries

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Charlottenburgh Township's three fire stations have new boundaries for 1993.

As of Jan. 1, the coverage areas of Williamstown, Martintown, and Glen Walter fire stations will change according to a fire marshall's report submitted to the municipality last year.

The changes will be made such that firefighters won't have to cross railroad tracks to get to a fire.

Fire marshall Ed Hiscoe of Ottawa concluded in his 1991 report that railroads delay fire trucks from getting to a scene as quickly as possible.

Fire trucks have to slow down to cross the tracks, and often have to wait a few minutes while a train is going by.

This is especially true on roads crossing over the busy Montreal-Toronto CN Rail line along Highway 401.

Township Clerk Marcel Lapierre said that although the township never had a case where fire trucks were unable to respond quickly enough to a fire because of a delay at a level-crossing, the risk exists.

He said the changes eliminate some of the risk and allow a quicker response to more fires.

"The early minutes of a response to a fire is a crucial time," said Lapierre, who is also the township's chief fire official.

The changes also reduce the risk of a fatal accident, such as in 1981 when five Iroquois village firefighters were killed when their fire truck collided with a train.

To avoid having fire trucks cross railroads, one of the changes Charlottenburgh will implement is to give the Glendale Subdivision, which is currently looked after by the Glen Walter fire station, to the Williamstown fire station.

Glen Walter firefighters have to cross over the busy CN line on Boundary Road to get to Glendale, whereas Williamstown firefighters do not.

As of Jan. 1, Glen Walter's coverage area will be, predominantly, the heavily populated southwest portion of the township, south of the CN tracks.

Glen Walter fire trucks will still have to cross over the CN line to get to some fires, however.

Lapierre said there are several instances all over the township where railroads are unavoidable.

For instance, Glen Walter fire trucks had to cross over the CN line and it's getting further and further away."

Rob McCullagh of Canada Post, said a decision will be made in a few weeks as to which of the several businesses that have applied will be awarded the right to operate a retail postal outlet (RPO) in the village.

The transition from the full-service post office to the RPO will likely take place in February, he said.

Residents have been given choices as to what type of postal service they want in the village. But leaving the present post office open is not one of those options.

He said there were some concerns voiced at last Tuesday's public meeting, such as whether the new RPO will be accessible to physically challenged individuals, and whether people can pick up their mail indoors.

McCullagh said there will be sufficient access at the new RPO, and requests for mail pickup indoors will be heeded.

"I think we can meet their concerns," he said.

The decision to close the post office was made after a "review" by Canada Post which determined the feasibility of establishing an RPO in Martintown, he said.

The decision was not based on the volume of mail that goes through the Martintown post office, nor is there a cut-off level based on volume that Canada Post uses to decide whether to close a post office, he said.

Montreal singer fills auditorium

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Montreal guitarist and singer Patrick Norman captured young hearts during his concert at the Bonnie Glen Saturday night.

At the end of his second encore performance, Norman sang his 1986 hit "Quand on est en amour" and inspired a group of teenage girls to dance on stage and sing back-up in front of the more than 250 people who packed the hall.

While Norman continued with his song, the girls, all ESRG students, performed a choreographed dance number they learned at a weekend retreat which used Norman's hit ballad as the retreat's theme song.

The girls' spontaneous stage performance was a thrill not only for them, who were given a chance to dance to one of their favorite artists, but also to Norman, who never expected so much support from youths.

"Oh my! That was great," Norman, said backstage about the girls' dance number.

Norman said he didn't expect that teenagers would love his music so much.

"I'm not a teenage artist," said the 46-year-old francophone artist who released 12 albums since 1967.

"I label myself as a family artist--from grandfather to grandchild."

He said he's beginning to realize that his music may be striking a cord with a young audience.

"He really knows how to touch our heart," said Donna Flaro, one of the ESRG students who went up on stage to dance.

But teenagers were not the only fans at the show.

Most of the people present were adults who also clapped, stomped and sang to Norman's acoustic style.

Norman, accompanied by fellow acoustic guitarist Michael Pucci of Montreal, played music he has recorded since beginning his musical career in 1967.

Norman performed blues, country, Cajun, and popular Christmas carols, and songs from his recently-released benefit album "Noel Sans Faim", which has so far raised $25,000 for poverty groups in Montreal.

His often humorous and witty stage presence lent some comic relief to his often mellow ballads.

After his show, he spent about 45 minutes signing autographs for people of all ages.

He signed people's programs, and the covers of Norman's CDs and tapes which were on sale at the show.

Norman's concert at the Bonnie Glen capped a cross-Ontario tour which began in October.

It was the first time he performed in Glengarry.

He said the audience Saturday night was very warm and receptive towards him.

His two-and-a-half-hour show was organized by Le Centre Culturel d'Alexandria, who sold tickets at $15 for members and $18 for non members. All proceeds went to the cultural centre.

Organizers have not yet tallied up the receipts, but said the show was very successful.

"I think everything was great," said Aline Gareau-Hebert of the Alexandria-based Franco-Ontarian organization.

The cultural centre is planning more shows for 1993.

Plays are scheduled for February, March and April.

On Saturday, the county's beer consumers can give the Lions Christmas baskets fund a big boost by donating their empties to the cause at the Brewer's Retail parking lot, anytime during the day during the store's regular business hours.

But the big day will be this Sunday, Dec. 13, when Santa comes to town for the annual Richelieu Santa Claus parade.

Organizer Claude Ouellette said there were only 10 entries as of Monday, Dec. 7 and encourages the community clubs and businesses to call him at 525-2132 to register an entry. Best float will win a $100 Richelieu draw ticket, one of only 300 in circulation, to be eligible for a prize of $10,000.

The parade begins at the Alexandria IGA parking lot at 1:30 p.m. It will proceed from there north on Main Street to Kincardine, where it will turn left and head to the arena. Santa will be on hand there after the parade ends to listen to children's wishes and to hand out treats.

The high schools are also contributing to the spirit of the season. GDHS students have been busy for the past two weeks painting the windows of town businesses and ESRG and GDHS both will be canvassing the area for cash donations to the Lions Christmas basket fund.

The club's goal is $12,000.

The Kinsmen Club of Glengarry is also getting into the spirit of the season. The group has set up a drop off box at the Alexandria IGA for new or "previously-loved toys" which would be donated to the Lions for distribution in the baskets.

The club has also established "Santa Sale" locations in licensed establishments throughout the county where donors can drop contributions to the Cystic Fibrosis campaign.

Jump for Heart Monday

High school students will be asking friends and family for sponsorship this week for the annual Jump Rope for Heart.

The event, to be held at Glengarry District High School-Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry on Monday from 1 to 3 p.m., has been a big fundraiser for the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

In the past five events GDHS-ESRG has raised $16,800, and because of the school's longtime association with the event it will be presented with a five- year participation banner.

Jump Rope for Heart is a unique progam which through skipping, combines physical education and cardiovascular health education while raising funds for the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

The fundraising part of Jump Rope for Heart consists of a two-hour jump event with students skipping in teams of up to six members for two hours.

GACL officials hope protest helps ARC

People concerned about the fate of ARC Industries in Alexandria, are hoping a protest march in Ottawa Thursday, has given officials the message to leave their system intact.

It is feared that a new plan by the provincial government could spell the end of ARC Industries which provides employment for mentally challenged clients cared for by The Glengarry Association for Community Living.

The plan would see funding for workshops such as ARC Industries reduced and eventally integrate all clients into the regular workforce, a move people in the industry say would be virtually impossible.

The march and demonstration at the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services office in Ottawa, which drew 26 people from Glengarry County, was held to show the ministry people connected to the present work programs will not let them go without a fight.

It drew people involved in the field of care for the mentally challenged from across Eastern Ontario, including associations from Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry and even representatives from as far as Pembroke.

"We're going to have to keep plugging at it," said Lorraine Austin, president of CUPE Local 3390 which has joined forces with GACL in protesting the government plans.

About 700 workers, clients, parents turned up for the placard and banner-waving demonstration which ended up at MCSS headquarters on Rideau Street in Ottawa.

About 4,000 people turned out for a similar protest in Toronto Nov. 26 which resulted in a meeting between industry officials and Marion Body, minister of community and social services two days later.

Bob Grantier, executive director of GACL, feels Thursday's march did have an impact.

"It must have had some effect, at least in having our views heard," he said yesterday.

He added: "It's a serious situation. We're experiencing cutbacks now that we haven't experienced in 20 years."

GACL will have a general membership meeting Dec. 14 to discuss the issue with its membership and clients' families.

Charlottenburgh redrawing fire station boundaries on Nov. 30 to get to a fire on Purcell Road, which leads to a dead end near Highway 401.

"That's one of the areas we have precious little we can do," Lapierre said.

All vehicles had no choice but to cross the tracks to get to the residential area where the fire was.

Another case where firefighters must cross over tracks to get to a fire is in the north end of the township in the Glen Roy area.

Martintown firefighters have to cross over the CP Rail line in order to get to a fire in the residential area on MacDonald Road, which borders with Kenyon Township.

Lapierre said that it is impossible to have a perfect system where no fire trucks have to cross railroads, but the new changes are an improvement.

The changes were approved by township councillors on Nov. 23.

The new map was designed by the three station chiefs during a meeting in August.

Martintown fire chief Van Rankin, who chaired the committee looking after the changes, said all three chiefs reached a consensus.

The new changes are part of an overhaul of the township's emergency communications system.

Part of that overhaul was implementing the numbering system, and purchasing pagers for township firefighters, who used to respond to fires through a telephone buddy-system.

Business development centre, an area asset

These days, it is precious news indeed to hear positive news coming from the local business world. That's why it's refreshing to learn of the success of the SD&G Business Development Centre.

The centre marked its annual meeting last Wednesday, Dec. 2 in St. Andrews and the financial reports represented clear evidence of what can be done when community business people and a well-planned public sector concept comes together.

The centre is essentially a non-profit business resource which not only provides funding to get fledgling enterprises off the ground, but provides the necessary training and support to educate the entrepreneur in developing a business plan, market research and effective business practise. And with assets of $1.6 million and growing, it can provide funding to these new businesses when banks have turned them down.

In fact, in 1992 alone, the centre dispersed over $300,000 to 43 loan clients across the three counties. And thanks to obvious good management and continuing commitment from government, its investment fund rose from $1.13 million in 1991 to $1.5 million in 1992.

In the world of high finance and big business, these figures may not generate much excitement. However in a local context, they can make a big difference between someone turning a good idea into reality, or it never seeing the light of day.

But perhaps the most interesting aspect of the business development centre is that the people who make the decisions of "who gets what" are businesspeople themselves, not some faceless, nameless government bureaucrat who doesn't understand the needs of the private sector. And because they are volunteers from the local community, they also understand the local pressures and demographics. Indeed, this area's director on the board is Gilles Paradis, local accountant, a knowledgeable businessman who has been directly involved in the community. He is also a native of the area, giving him a more credible profile than a government representative.

Even a representative from Employment and Immigration Canada had to agree that the business creation funds his government has invested in the centre "can't be administered by government as well as you do." As a result, he said government support of such centres will likely expand — perhaps up to 10 times the current funding. And he suggested the board begin reaching out and seeking funding from other sources, including other stakeholders in the job and business creation game.

Improving on a great idea: It's the kind of thinking that needs support, both financial and moral, from business, from government and from the public at large.

Another NDP disaster

Destreaming — it's a new word that's making the rounds these days in the staff rooms of Ontario's high schools. But the words teachers are associating with it aren't pretty.

The province's NDP government in its infinite wisdom has not stopped merely at attempting to ruin what's left of the province's economy. It now wishes to move onto the educational system and make it impossible for teachers to effectively do their jobs, and for students to prepare themselves for the aggressive post-secondary world of university and eventually, work.

Destreaming, as its names implies, will integrate students of all capabilities. No longer will there be special classes for mentally challenged. In tandem with this, a new grading system will ensure that students will no longer "fail" but will be assessed according to a series of non-threatening analyses. The intent of the government is that challenged students must be integrated into society from the school level up, and that traditional grading should no longer discourage learning.

The government is throwing this out before providing school boards with guidelines or training of how to teach such integrated classes. Parents and boards are in the dark over the practical implications of destreaming, for instance, how students will be able to cope in the ruthless and competitive academic and work world once they graduate from the coddled shell of a non-failure classroom. The hard truth is, in work, you either complete the job or you fail. Does the NDP understand that?

Once again, we see a government rolling ahead with such sweeping change before doing what it promised it would do when it was elected; to consult the public at all levels. Destreaming at face value will do nothing to make Ontario's graduates more literate and better equipped to face a competitive world. It threatens to erode the morale of teachers, already reeling trying to cope with the fallout of society's problems: the emotional baggage kids are forced to carry around in these troubling times.

Come on, Bob Rae. Get your head out of the clouds.

All the things that really do matter

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

When the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce began planning its 1992 Christmas promotion several weeks ago, there was a marked lack of enthusiasm for running "the same old thing" — a coupon promotion or draw that would entice more people into more stores to spend more money.

And it wasn't because anyone sitting around the table that evening didn't want the business. Times being as they are, everybody had a solid grasp of the importance of the Christmas shopping season as far as the retailer was concerned.

But it seemed that no matter what the board tried to do during past promotions, problems arose and it was often criticized by some of the participants for missing this detail or encountering that problem. For volunteers, this was a disheartening and frustrating thing to face because, try as they might, the promotion that everyone agreed was a good idea didn't seem attainable.

This year, with the prospect of more of the same and merchants feeling the bite of the prolonged recession, the chamber directors threw commercialism to the wind and opted for a community celebration. The central event would be the lighting of the town Christmas tree, but a candlelight caroling parade would be the vehicle to get the community out.

We envisioned it as a true community event, one to draw families and friends onto the streets of Alexandria. It would be a chance for French and English-speaking Glengarrians to pause a while in their busy lives and enjoy some fellowship and some Christmas music.

It's a novel idea, I know, in these days of "cocooning" and home entertainment centres and movie rentals and fast food home delivery. But we decided the chance was worth taking, sensing that this Christmas in these hard times, people would want more than just another chance to win some money from another draw. We all felt a big pick-me-up was in order.

And so, here you have it, our community celebration, our "Christmas Comes to Glengarry." In case you haven't seen the story printed up front, or the ad on the back of your Christmas Cookbook and carol sheet inserted in this week's News, it's tomorrow night, 7 p.m. beginning at the IGA. Bring your "woollies" and carol sheet pull-out or pick one up there. There'll be candles and glow sticks and hot chocolate and cider and a hay wagon. What more could you ask for other than the jolly old elf himself? Well, I've even heard a rumor that he's likely to be there, or at least one of his helpers.

We've tried to put something together that the community would want to continue in future years, and perhaps build other events around. The idea is simple — get neighbors together, create a family event and put the capital "C" back into Christmas. In our haste to make a living, which many of us are struggling to do right now, it's not difficult to see that we've forgotten that our "sense" of community is a gift we should use. This isn't maudlin tripe, either; it's a sentiment I've heard time and again from enlightened, intelligent and non-religious people: Let's get back to the things that are really important.

Now, help us — and yourself — out. See you tomorrow night.

Nightmarish views of Utopia

News to me
by Greg Kielec

It is a noble vision. Smiling, happy individuals previously shut out from the outside world becoming a meaningful part of the community at large.

They would have the pleasure of working like most every average Canadian has, they would have more freedom, they would have a New Democratic Party- spawned form of utopia.

But what is one person's utopia can often be someone else's nightmare. Just ask people involved in the care of mentally challenged clients at ARC Industries in Alexandria.

Their nightmare is a utopic plan by the New Democrat government to integrate clients presently working at ARC Industries into the regular workforce.

As the plan goes, as more and more clients were placed with jobs, funding for ARC Industries will decline. The end result: Extinction.

And it will be caused by a party which has unabashedly touted itself since its beginning to be the champion of the poor and disadvantaged.

According to Lorne Lawson, GACL board head, and Lorraine Austin, head of the union local which represents counselling staff of GACL, the plan will spell disaster.

Not only will it mean the end of ARC Industries, they say, but it will also mean less care and supervision for clients as the number of counsellors decreases with declining provincial funding.

Add to it the need to travel possibly all across the county to check up on clients previously working together in one building in Alexandria, and the proposal becomes a logistical nightmare.

Lawson believes the province's idea with the plan is designed to improve social conditions for clients and at the same time save money for the province.

It is uncertain whether it will do either.

One thing is certain, the government's view of utopia and how achievable it is, is worlds apart from the reality people involved in the care of mentally challenged deal with on a day-to-day basis.

Hopefully the government will realize that and change its course before it creates a reality that people involved in the industry can at best call a nightmare.

It certainly will not be the dream envisioned by the NDP.

Adding peace to Christmas revelry

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham

Mid-December, 1988. A Kenyon Township couple loses an old log home in a fire. Lancaster Village firefighters save Christmas presents by throwing them out the window of a Lancaster Township home threatened by fire.

New Year's Eve, 1988. A Lancaster Village family visiting with relatives returns home to find only the burned-out shell of their bungalow.

January, 1988. A Glen Walter home sustains $60,000 damage when the kitchen and basement are gutted by fire.

December, 1991. A Lancaster Village family looks toward a bleak Christmas after a fire damages their home.

Christmas Eve, 1991. While most of us are snuggled up in front of the Christmas tree with a glass of mulled wine, a Kenyon Township family of five watches their home go up in flames.

New Year's Eve, 1992. A Williamstown family of eight is left with little more than the clothes on their backs when fire forces them out of warm beds and into the snow.

January, 1992. An Apple Hill family home is reduced to smouldering ruins.

No one figures it will happen to them.

Fires happen to other people. People who are careless. Maybe those who put off fixing frayed electrical wires or who leave their Christmas tree lights burning when no one's home or who store oily rags near a heater. We don't fit into any of those categories. It will never happen to us.

Right? Sure.

I was about five years old when I experienced the trauma of unbridled fire. In the end, it had only been a small fire as house fires go, but only by a miracle.

If my sister had not sent me off to the living room where an imaginary school day was taking place, our house may have been leveled.

While the rest of the family remained in the den, I wended my way through an imaginary neighborhood, past the bathroom, past the dining room and was passing the kitchen when I noticed an orange reflection on the glossy white wall. Curious, I peered around the corner.

My panic was so severe that back in the playroom I could only whimper. I couldn't tell anyone that the stove was ablaze or that the flames were licking the overhead cabinets. The memory of what I'd seen had tied my tongue in a knot and later, caused years of nightmares and more con-

Tartan—myth and reality

Highland Paths
by Ken McKenna

Let's clear up a few misconceptions about Highland dress. These mistakes would never be made in Glengarry, of course, where 90 per cent of the original settlers were from the Highlands of Scotland, but are commonly-held errors in some other places.

First, a man wears a kilt, not kilts.

Thirdly, tartan, the multi-colored cloth used for kilts, is not a Gaelic or even Scottish word. The Gaelic word is "breacan" (breckahn), which means multi-colored. That having been said, it seems that we are stuck with the word plaid, pronounced, for no apparent reason, as "plad," when tartan is really meant. Sometimes the meaning of "plad" is given as "checked material resembling tartan, but not true clan tartan." Arguing about it is as futile as arguing about the spelling of clan names. And that brings us to the theme of this article. What is the truth about clan tartans? How old are they? Have they always represented particular clans?

Tartan, as devised by the Scottish Highlander, goes back beyond recorded history, according to the experts, but it is not until about 300 years ago that any distinctive tartan came to represent a particular clan, and then most probably the people of a particular area rather than a definite clan. This distinction was more a question of the weaver's choice in whatever area he practiced his trade. The Celts loved color and ornamentation, and their choice of tartan would have been more a question of taste than clan identity. Certain chiefs may have adopted particular designs and their clansmen may have followed suit, but proof is lacking before the end of the 1700's. There are paintings of chiefs before that time in Highland dress, but most of the tartans that they are wearing are not of any recognized clan sett, or design. The "government tartan" as worn by the Black Watch and the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders is indeed old, and seems to be a variation of a Campbell and a Mackay tartan which was chosen more for the fact that it did not show dirt and stains as much as a more colorful design and went well with the red tunics of the day. Two hundred years ago there were not more than a dozen or so tartans that could be connected with particular clans. After Culloden, tartan was outlawed except in the army, and many designs were lost or forgotten for two generations. Then, with the repeal of the law against Highland dress, things began to change.

The revival of tartans and Highland dress was almost entirely due to one man, Sir Walter Scott, "The Wizard of the North." In his novels, he portrayed the Highlander as a romantic figure out of the past. Almost overnight, those who had feared and even despised the Highlander now embraced everything about the Gaelic way of life. Much of what they believed was not necessarily true from an historic point of view, but, with the exploits of Highland regiments fresh in their minds, tartan became fashionable even for Lowland Scots, who had often been the greatest enemies of everything Highland. For whatever reasons, the Gael was vindicated.

Then began the craze for "clan tartans." Every Scot seemed to want his or her own tartan. Hundreds of tartans came rolling off the mills, each one purporting to be a "genuine clan tartan." The Lord Lyon King of Arms, Scotland's supreme authority on heraldry, got into the act and all clan tartans now have to be authenticated by his office. All kinds of rules and regulations were invented: only someone with the surname of a clan or of a sept of that clan is "entitled" to wear that particular clan tartan, and having a grandparent of the name doesn't count. But apart from "entitlement," anyone can in reality wear any tartan. All that matters now is that Highland dress be worn in good taste and correctly, for is not imitation the sincerest form of flattery?

Letters to the editor

Registered nurse's role should continue

To the editor:

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter.

As community-based Registered Nurses of Ontario, we are feeling great concern over the gradual elimination of registered nurses from the community health care system. Our concerns are further elevated by the consequences of the new Long Term Care Reform. It appears that under the reform the registered nurses' position in the community will be next to be eliminated to provide for more cost-effective and diversified care provision to the elderly population.

We realize that the mandate of the governments both provincially and federally is to lower medical cost and bring in a multidisciplinary approach to community care, but does this have to be at the cost of thousands of jobs lost by registered nurses who have been providing excellent services in the communities of Ontario for decades.

People who are educated, counselled and cared for by registered nurses with a high level of medical knowledge make less visits to the doctor and are hospitalized less due to the use of preventive medicine and early diagnosis of potential problems thus saving the medical system millions of dollars per year.

The registered nurses of Ontario have laid the foundation and set the standards for community care at all levels for decades. They recognized the benefits of community care and education of the public long before it became the trend.

We feel that the registered nurse should continue to play a major role in community health. Without our leadership, dedication, knowledge and standards of practice the ultimate goal of a healthier community will be much less attainable if at all.

Sincerely,
Evelyne Newton, for Community Nurses
of ONA Local 42

Cheers to Alexandria Optimists

To the editor:

As part of the "Appreciation of Youth Week," the Optimist Club of Alexandria treated a bus load of young people to a Sunday afternoon trip recently. (Imax Theatre in Hull)

The choice of their honored youth arrived from (2) volunteer services: Candy Stripers and altar boys.

In these days, when the News is full of stories of crimes by young offenders, it is reassuring to know that many of our young people busy themselves with valuable activities; not only serving their own desires, but putting out themselves for the service of others.

The Optimist Club giving recognition to these groups was an excellent idea, and their way of carrying out the plan was outstanding. The invitations were hand-delivered! Again, what a contrast of today's rush, when people are asked to send resumés instead of meeting for a job interview. Here is a service club, showing a good example how to make time, walk the extra mile.

Thank you and congratulations for the job well done. You certainly live up to your name: building optimism in the community.

Sincerely,
Maria McDougald,
R.R. 5, Alexandria

Chainsaw owners deserve a break

To the editor:

Sixteen years ago I bought my first chainsaw, a Partner Farmer, and I've been cutting wood ever since, without a license. I have a license to drive a car, a transport truck, a license for air brakes, I got a license to get married, a license for my dog, I have a license to produce milk, I have a license to spray my corn, I have a farm license for my pickup, I have a license for my horse trailer, I have a license for a wood trailer. All these licenses were purchased and accepted as part of life, but now they want me to license my chainsaw. Safety is essential at any workplace, where tools are involved but showing you a video and dressing you up like a member of the bomb squad, to obtain a $100 license is carrying everything a little far. Why stop at gas chainsaws? What about electric chainsaws? What about woodsplitters? What about lawnmowers and circular saws? Will every large tool need a license?

The government needs money, but give the poor woodcutter a break.

An irate, unlicensed chainsaw operator, Norman F. Bankley.

Reader thankful for medal

To the editor:

I read with interest the article in the last issue of The Glengarry News concerning "Glengarrians to receive medals to commemorate Canada's 125th" on the bottom of page 3, and to find out that I was to be one of the recipients of this medal.

This honor was a surprise and pleases me. I now wish to publicly thank Mr. Boudria for his thoughtfulness in placing my name and work on this list and honoring me in this way. It is appreciated.

To all the other recipients of this medal, I wish to also, offer my sincere congratulations on this honor being presented to each of you.

Yours truly,
Alex W. Fraser,
The Glengarry Genealogical Society

Taking business elsewhere

To the editor:

Re: Parking problems in Alexandria.

I would like to say thank you to the businessman who called the police because my car was parked in front of his store, and I would also like to thank the police officer who gave me a ticket.

Thank you again. I will take my business some place else from now on.

Adding peace to Christmas

structively, a healthy respect for fire.

At my house, the damage was minimal, but every year, and tragically even around the Christmas season, we hear about people who haven't been fortunate.

Friends of mine lost their home not long after Christmas when something flammable became wedged in the dryer's lint trap. The dryer continued to run and no one was home to notice that the machine had caught fire. But the experience was sufficiently devastating that from then on, all other experiences were dated by the phrases, "before the fire," or "after the fire."

Leaving the dryer running while we run to the store for a litre of milk is something all of us have done and probably will do again.

Fires aren't always caused by carelessness. Sometimes they're a result of a malfunctioning electrical appliance, spilled food in the oven, or something that catches fire in the chimney.

Maybe this holiday season, we should all think twice before we decide that the tree lights should be left on while we go out because they look wonderful burning in the window. Maybe we should buy ourselves smoke detectors and fire extinguishers as special pre-Christmas gifts this year.

Maybe then, we all will be able to sleep in heavenly peace.

Police arrest two after cigarette bust near Lancaster

Police Briefs

Two Quebecers were arrested in Charlottenburgh Township last week after police seized approximately $360,000 worth of contraband cigarettes and tobacco, and $40,000 in cash.

Police arrested Ralph Ford, 39, and William Ford, 30, both of Verdun, Que., near Lancaster village on Dec. 2 and charged them with not being a licenced manufacturer of tobacco products according to the excise act.

The arrest followed a tip to the Ontario Provincial Police in Lancaster about suspicious vehicles parked at Tree Haven Road.

Police searched the area and arrested two males, and seized the cash and about 160 cases of contraband cigarettes and tobacco products.

The suspects and evidence were turned over to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police anti-smuggling unit in Cornwall, where the charges were laid.

The two males were released on bail on Dec. 3, but are to appear in court in Alexandria on Jan. 7.

Crime Stoppers targets Martintown burglary

Crime Stoppers is asking for the public's help in solving a break, enter and theft which occurred in the Martintown area in early November.

More than $1,000 in goods was stolen when an RR1 Martintown home on Kings Road was broken into on the evening of Nov. 8.

Stolen were: a 1959 Gibson base guitar, model MB350 (serial number: 249- 967-399), a black leather guitar case with a yellow interior, an Areo acoustic six-string guitar, downhill ski equipment, a Sony cassette deck, and a two-channel Fender amplifier.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Burglary string

Police believe five burglaries in which electronic goods were stolen from residences in Lancaster and Charlottenburgh Townships on Dec. 4 are connected.

Witnesses saw a vehicle with two male occupants at the scene of several of the crimes.

Police are not releasing any information as to whether or not specific individuals are suspected.

The Ontario Provincial Police in Lancaster are investigating the burglaries, which took place between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m. and were committed at homes from the Summerstown area to North Lancaster.

Electronic goods such as televisions, stereos and VCRs were stolen in most of the instances, which took place in Lancaster and Charlottenburgh townships.

Police have not yet compiled a complete list of all of the goods stolen.

In most instances, thieves gained entry by breaking locks and forcing doors or windows open.

Local woman says volunteers can boost our economy

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A Maxville area woman is proposing volunteer labor as a possible cure for the current economics woes faced by businesses.

Christine Murray feels a little bit of charity could go a long way right now. And having people do volunteer work to help out businesses may be the answer.

It could be the moral boost for many out-of-work people and a boost for businesses as well, according to Murray.

"I think it's based on a real need," she said in an interview Thursday.

Murray has called a number of Alexandria businesses asking if they are interested in having volunteer workers, and the interest is predictably high.

What she needs to make the package complete are people willing to do volunteer work for businesses to gain experience and possibly gain a fulltime job when the economy improves.

But it just doesn't apply to people seeking jobs, it can be people who don't want a full time job but would like to do something other than sit around home.

Some critics have told her the idea will take away paids jobs, but Murray says the paying jobs are not there anyway so volunteer help cannot worsen the situation.

She does not know if there are a lot of people that would be interested, but she does know the area has its fair share of unemployed people.

Murray said she would act as coordinator if there are interested individuals, matching them up with needy businesses.

As for whether such a scenario would work, Murray said the only thing she can do is try.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating."

Christine Murray looks over some papers on volunteerism at her home near Maxville.

Storm accidents

Monday morning's snowstorm wreaked havoc on Alexandria's streets.

Two accidents occurred, resulting in one injured child and five damaged vehicles.

Kayla Cholette, 6, of Alexandria received minor injuries in an accident that occurred at the corner of Main and Lochiel Streets at 7:18 a.m.

She was taken to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

She was riding in a 1986 Chevrolet, being driven by Barbara Cholette, 32, of Alexandria, who was eastbound on Lochiel Street and skidded while trying to turn on Main Street.

The car collided with a 1981 Pontiac Firebird, being driven by Nathalie Berniquer, 20, of Alexandria, who was westbound on Lochiel Street.

Both cars sustained moderate damages.

A few minutes later, three cars were moderately damaged in an accident at the corner of Gernish and Dominion Streets.

Maurice Bellefueille, 50, of Alexandria was driving a 1987 Chevrolet pickup truck north on Dominion Street at 7:22 a.m. when the vehicle slipped on the snow and ice covered road.

He collided with a 1985 Plymouth, being driven by Edwin MacDonald, 32, of Glen Robertson, who was driving east on Gernish Street.

The collision propelled the Plymouth onto a parked 1991 Chevrolet Geo.

Public speaking group to form club

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

A new organization will help Glengarrians overcome their worst fear — public speaking.

The Toastmasters Club, a California-based international non-profit organization which people join to enhance their public speaking skills, will expand into Alexandria in 1993.

Several Glengarrians who participated in an eight-week public speaking course held by Toastmasters at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital since early October have shown an interest in setting up a branch in Glengarry.

The new Glengarry club will have an open house sometime in January, Toastmasters member David Bradley said Thursday night at the Candlestick Restaurant, where a graduation ceremony and dinner was held for the six students who completed the public speaking course.

The date and place of the open house has not yet been determined.

Bradley and the more than 20 other Cornwall club members at the dinner all seemed keen about a future Glengarry club.

A typical Toastmasters club operates much like a service club.

Meetings are usually once a week and last about two hours.

Toastmasters members then practice impromptu speeches through an exercise called Table Topics, where a member is picked to be Table Topics Master, and asks members to make a two minute speech about a subject or object.

Then several members give prepared speeches to an attentive, yet critical, audience.

Every speech is followed by an evaluation when the speaker is given advice on how to improve their public speaking skills.

During a speech at the dinner, Bradley said improving public speaking skills will help a person succeed in all walks of life.

Therefore, people from all occupations should consider joining Toastmasters.

The Cornwall branch of Toastmasters International honored six local people who graduated from an eight-week public speaking course held in Alexandria. The six were given a certificate for completing the course after a dinner at the Candlestick Restaurant Dec. 3. The public speaking club's newest orators are John Kitchen (left), Henry Hamelin, Lise Ferland, Pat Alexander, Susan Brent, and Glenn Runions.

"Wherever you go, you talk in public," he said.

"Anytime you go for a promotion or a job interview, you're public speaking."

The international organization, which was first established in California in 1924, has more than 7,000 clubs branches worldwide, 60 of them in Eastern Ontario and Quebec.

I would like to take the opportunity to give thanks to Paulette Rozon and Mary-Lynne Sauvé and all those people who signed a card on behalf of Development and Peace as a sign of commitment to justice, development and liberation to the people of Guatemala which is a land of inequality and extreme tyranny. In this world which is filled with all kinds of violence, let's promote peace instead of war and hatred.

Take time for 10 things

Catching up on my reading last weekend I came across this article which I would like to share with you.

1. Take time to work — it is the price of success.
2. Take time to think — it is the source of power.
3. Take time to play — it is the secret of youth.
4. Take time to read — it is the foundation of knowledge.
5. Take time to worship — it is the highway of reverence and washes the dust of earth from our eyes.
6. Take time to help and enjoy friends — it is the source of happiness.
7. Take time to love — it is the one sacrament of life.
8. Take time to dream — it hitches the soul to the stars.
9. Take time to laugh — it is the singing that helps with life's loads.
10. Take time to plan — it is the secret of being able to have time to take time for the first nine things.

Have a good week!

Lancaster Township

Council Briefs

The following items were discussed by Lancaster Township council members during a public meeting Dec. 2 at the municipality's hall in North Lancaster.

Sewer budget increased

The township budget to operate the Green Valley sewer system will rise by $3,000 for the 1993-94 fiscal year.

The province increased the cost to operate the system from the current 1992-93 level of $43,753 to $47,407.

Most of the increase is due to approximately $3,000 that the province has estimated it will cost the province to treat waste at the sewage lagoon.

Township Clerk Mike Samson said the budget increase is well within the township's means of paying.

One time grant

The province will increase the amount of unconditional grants given to the township by two per cent.

The government has agreed that for 1993 only, the amount of funds for unconditional grants given to Lancaster will rise from the current level of $273,000 to about $278,500.

The increase is part of a government program to reduce transfer payments to municipalities, schools and hospitals.

Non-existant road

The township will close a township road that might never have existed.

Ross Street in South Lancaster exists on maps, but in fact is a yard on someone's property.

Clerk Mike Samson said that as far as he knows, the road was never built.

Council members agreed to begin procedures to officially close the road, and sell it to the property owner for $1,500, the cost it would take the township to carry out all of the tedius procedures involved in officially closing a road.

One of the regulations requires the township to publicize for four weeks its intentions of closing the road, in case anyone has any objections.

The township will take at least two months to execute all of the procedures.

Facelift for township hall

The township will spend about $11,000 renovating the municipal hall in North Lancaster.

Clerk Mike Samson said council members felt since the township's finances are in good enough shape, some money should be spent fixing the township hall's crumbling front steps, building a veranda, and building a wheelchair ramp.

Construction work should begin in about a month.

Re-birth in Williamstown

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

There was a re-birth in Williamstown on Friday evening. From the depths of the dark ages there was a sudden flowering of youth, a renaissance of drama, music, and art. It was a time for rejoicing and making merry, and students at Char-Lan High School were doing just that, though in very non-traditional ways.

It was billed a ''Renaissance Fair'' and involved Grade 9 students who this semester were taking English, music, or art. The idea behind the event was evidently hatched last summer when teachers Edwina Billyk, Dave Irwin, and Mary Jane Ferguson got together to do some curriculum work. This year Char-Lan has introduced the soon-to-be compulsory ''destreaming'' into its Grade 9 classes, and it was felt that the concept of co-operative learning (students working together in groups, regardless of ability) would be more interesting if the students were working toward some end result, i.e., the Fair. The renaissance was chosen as a time period, because all Grade 9 students must still study Shakespeare.

Parents who attended the evening, met in the library and soon found themselves in the middle of a throng of yeomen, lords and ladyes, court jesters, tradesmen, as well as a few anachronistic-looking time travellers. Carried along by the throng, the ''moderns'' soon realized they were in the middle of a parade and were on their way to the fair.

''This is a fair, so everyone have fun,'' beseeched Nina the Weaver, as she introduced the evening. On the stage and in the periphery of the fairgrounds (the cafetorium), troupes of travelling players performed playlets they had written. Numerous booths surrounded the fairgrounds and these displayed the accomplishments of members of the various guilds. Coats of Arms, some expertly decorated with gold leaf, showed visitors the distinguished lineage of the fair folk with whom they were mingling.

And then there was the music. The simple sounds of instruments not usually associated with the teenage years were soothing to hear. A dance was performed, prefaced by the remarks. ''This was an age when closeness in dancing was a disease that you stayed away from.''

Throughout the evening there was one common thread linking young people of renaissance times with those of today. Can you imagine? Girls of those days seemed to dissolve into giggles with the same frequency as they do now!

Afterwards came refreshments, and just so that parents didn't leave the fair wondering where they had tethered their horses, the eats were 20th century.

It was a fun evening for all concerned.

The Renaissance Fair and its levity was in sharp contrast to the tone of discussions held earlier in the week at the high school. On Dec. 2, a good turnout of parents and a sprinkling of students listened to advice from the experts as the school committee hosted, ''Healthy Life Styles — Part III.''

Organized by Vice-President, Pat Lumley, the evening featured guest speakers, Marie Noelle Lanthier from the Mayor's Task Force on Healthy Life Styles, Serge Perreault from the Eastern Ontario Health, and Carolyn Pentinga-Taylor who is the Director of Place Valois.

The speakers gave insight into some of the problems facing youths of today and how families can help to ward off undesirable social behavior before it starts.

Following the speeches, and after a little sustenance, those attending were divided into smaller disussion groups led by Ellin O'Connell, Theresa Whitford, Margaret MacDonald, and Gilles Ruest. Topics discussed ranged from the legal implications of drinking to the topical ''date rape'' controversy.

A summation from group discussion leaders and a question and answer period concluded the evening.

Lorraine Lapointe, who was present at ''Healthy Life Styles III,'' has issued a unique challenge to the high school. Apparently October has been named ''Women's History Month'' and Lorraine would like to see our school celebrate in some way the life of one of Canada's great women each October, beginning in 1993.

''There are so many great women in history that we never hear about,'' says Lorraine. ''This would be a good way for our students to learn about them.''

Ladies at the Christmas Dinner of St. Mary's Guild learned all about Christmas in Holland, Thursday night and in the most dramatic of ways!

First, just as a background, a video of celebrations in Holland was shown and then, almost before the ladies had time to resume their chatter, mysterious things began to happen. Strange whisking noises were heard at the doorways and small round objects began to appear from out of nowhere.

It was St. Nicholas and his helpers, two ferocious looking Black Peters! The latter combed the crowd, dragging first Isobel Larocque, then Francine McDonald, then Kay McDonald and finally, Father Villeneuve up before St. Nicholas who looked in ''the book'' and told each one the bad and the good things written there.

Dutch songs were sung and delicious gingerbreads were given out to all the ladies.

Responsible for the entertainment was Mary Cornelissen who, with a little help from family members was able to persuade St. Nicholas to come the long way, via Williamstown.

The community was saddened to learn of the passing at the age of 46, of Malcolm Leitch. Our sympathy is extended to the family at this time.

Condolences, too, to Lorraine and Gerald Lauzon and family on the death of Lorraine's mother, Jennet Quenneville which occurred on Dec. 3.

The Char-Lan Music concert will be held this Sunday, Dec. 13 win the Char-Lan cafetorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Cost for the concert is $3 for adults and $1 for students and you are all invited to attend.

Everyone is also invited to the New Year's Dance at St. Mary's Centre on Dec. 31. The music will be by Leisure Sound; there will be a hot and cold buffet, party favors and door prizes. Tickets at $12.50 are available at Alex MacDonald's or Ernie Larocque's.

Councillor wants procedures implemented

Alexandria Councillor Jacques Lajoie is urging council come up with a procedural bylaw dealing with how committees should be composed.

Lajoie made the suggestion after a list detailing the composition of different committees for the next year was brought up for approval at last Tuesday's council meeting.

The composition of Alexandria council committees is generally determined by the mayor, reeve and deputy reeve, who draw up a list of committees and members which is then approved by council.

How council committees are selected was a hot topic just after last year's municipal election, when the mayor, reeve and deputy reeve were accused of using their power to shut new council members out of the more prestigious council committees.

Lajoie said he feels ''left out'' of the process and that procedures should be set up to give everyone equal opportunity to sit on the committees they would like to serve on.

Councillor Francine Richer also backed the idea of having the committee selection process set in a procedural bylaw.

But Mayor Jean Paul Touchette, who said the way appointments are now made is based on ''tradition'', argued that council members do have a say in committee appointments because they give the final approval.

''We're doing it that way anyway. We're doing it indirectly in the same way,'' Touchette told Lajoie.

He added, it would be difficult to give every council member the choice of which committee to sit on.

''I don't know how you can put that in writing. You can't please everyone.''

Clown Ministry Troupe to perform at St. Andrew's church

Martintown
Jean Butler
528-4319

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Holy communion and welcoming of new members into the fellowship was celebrated Dec. 6. The new members welcomed were Scott and Heather Johnston at the 9:30 a.m. service. Later in the day from 1 to 5 p.m. the congregation was invited to John and Sarah Besner's farm for horseback riding, fellowship and refreshments. Also at this gathering there was a birthday celebration for Rev. Ian MacMillan, who tells me he is 31 and holding for now and evermore. This correspondent sends along her belated best wishes.

Sunday, Dec. 13 there will be a special Advent service at 9:30 a.m.

The service is about ''Fool of Hope,'' which is a Clown Ministry Troupe, that has been ministering and worshipping in and around Montreal since 1991. The troupe carry the gospel message of Jesus Christ in a playful yet thought-provoking way. The players are not circus clowns but fools for Christ, working for His kingdom and His glory. They offer inter-generational worship services, which bridge age groups, uniting all as children of God.

Plan to attend this Advent service, a must for all young people.

Sunday, Dec. 20 will be a joint candlelight and carol service at 8 p.m. when the Martintown United Church combine in this annual service (a most enjoyable event) followed with fellowship and refreshments.

St. Andrew's United Church

Nov. 22, after the church service, Secretary-Treasurer Bev Runions, on behalf of the congregation and board of managers, presented Jim MacMillan with many thanks and a framed print of the church (as a memento of our appreciation) for his 15 years of devoted caretaking of the church, from which he was retiring.

It was so nice that Rev. Clifford Evans and a large congregation were on hand to hear the many thanks Rev. Evans wanted to express, for all the great help Jim extended to him when he was new to the church and area.

There were coffee and refreshments before service Dec. 6 and there will be a get-together every first Sunday of each month at 10:30.

Dec. 13 will be the Sunday School pageant and white gift Sunday. The white gifts are non-perishable items for Agape. Following the service, everyone is invited to join in the fun with the children and there will be pot luck sandwiches and squares awaiting the arrival of that special chap in a red suit.

The mitten tree at the back of the church is asking to be decorated with mitts or gloves for needy children. This tree is sponsored by the Sunday School and donations are given to the Children's Aid Society.

Session meeting will be held Wednesday, Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. in the choir room and will be chaired by Rev. Arty van Bruchem.

Martintown Public School

There was a good response to the successful cheese drive, and school sweater campaign. These sweaters can be seen at Nell's General Store, the Bank of Nova Scotia, and Don Ross' Service Station. Alan Bain, a well-known local artist, and principal of the school, sketched the picture of ''The Old Grist Mill'' that has been put on these T-shirts and sweatshirts. The copyright has been donated to the school.

Mr. Bain sent home a note of farewell and best wishes for a joyful Christmas holiday with the last newsletter. He thoroughly enjoyed these last few months and hoped in his own way that he managed to contribute to the health and prosperity of the school.

The turkey dinner is Thursday, Dec. 10 at 12 noon.

The Christmas concert is Monday, Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m., presenting the operetta ''The Mall and the Night Visitor.''

The school will once again conduct a food drive. Non-perishables will be

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The regular meeting of Kenyon Township council was held at the township hall in Greenfield on Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m. The following are among items dealt with by council.

May appropriate more land

Kenyon Township may again face the process of expropriation for land needed to continue the ongoing reconstruction of the Conc. 1 boundary road.

Expropriation of a small strip of land needed to widen the Kenyon and Charlottenburgh townships boundary road remains in litigation even though the land has already been used for road-widening, and at the Nov. 24 council meeting, Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig announced that the same landowner was refusing to convey more roadside land at another area of his property.

This time the township has offered to buy strips of property on each side of the road, both about 13 feet deep by 630 ft. wide, but the owner refuses to sell.

McCuaig said that expropriation should be a last resort, and encouraged council to try other means before looking to expropriation. She said the last expropriation cost the township $5,000 to obtain property valued at $400.

Work finished on budget

An anonymous letter from a Kenyon Township resident regarding the Conc. 6 road paving was held up for all to see during the council meeting.

The letter-writer kept his, or her, message simple: "Thank you, thank you, thank you," was all it said.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance reported the status of several roads projects which received attention over the past year.

Conc. 8 was also the focus of some upgrading. One kilometer of the road most frequently travelled by gravel trucks was widened and shouldered at the budgeted cost of $20,000, he said.

Also, reconstruction of the Conc. 1 boundary road is expected to be complete next year. Kenyon and Charlottenburgh townships, both involved in this joint project, carried out reconstruction from Lot 10 easterly to Lot 5 this year. Kenyon contributed $50,000 in supplementary funding.

Another project scheduled to be wrapped up next year is the Kenyon and Caledonia townships boundary road. Another kilometer of upgrading was done this year, bringing the completed work just short of the Hwy. 417 overpass. Reeve Wilfred Vallance said the township was within the budgeted amount of $20,000, which included $10,000 in supplementary funding.

Stewart's Glen Road, where the 417 Flea Market is located, was paved from the bridge to Cty. Rd. 20 at no cost to Kenyon Township ratepayers, said Vallance. About $60,000 was received in supplementary funding to cover the cost.

Bucks MOE plan

Kenyon Township has endorsed a plea by a neighboring municipality to avert plans by the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) to shift financial responsibility for maintenance of water and sewer facilities to municipalities.

Though there are no municipal water and sewer systems to be affected in Kenyon, the township supported North Plantagenet's resolution to have the ministry reconsider shifting financial responsibility.

"The rules and regulations will continue to be MOE's . . . but the costs will be the municipalities' responsibilities. We should vigorously oppose this. If one level of government is going to pass rules and regulations, they should pay," said Councillor Blair Williams.

Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig later said MOE's plan could have serious financial repercussions for municipalities.

Pecuniary interest shown

Kenyon Township has approved SD&G United Counties choice of signs to be used in the property-numbering project, despite a claim from Councillor Gwen Morris that a conflict of interest exists.

The United Counties office notified Kenyon that Dave's Reliable Signs had been chosen to provide signs that will, for municipalities which agree, be erected to identify each property with a number. The system will help emergency vehicles to find locations more quickly.

But Morris, pointing out that the owner of Dave's Reliable Signs is the reeve of Charlottenburgh Township and therefore a member of counties council, said she believed a "pecuniary interest" exists.

The signs will cost about $32.60 including tax, and are expected to be erected early in the new year. Council discussed whether the township roads department or property owners will be asked to install the signs, but council deferred the decision.

Morris raised the point that some property owners won't be in a position to dig three-foot deep holes, herself included.

Freeze school taxes

A request for support to freeze school taxes at 1992 levels won endorsement from Kenyon Township council.

Though Deputy Reeve Donald Besner suggested resolving to keep taxes at the rate of inflation, Councillor Blair Williams argued that council concur with the request for support from Osnabruck Township.

"We're representing people in this area and I don't think they're very happy with school taxation. Anything we can do to stiffen the spine," said Williams, reminding council, "we end up carrying the can for school taxes."

A reminder of the Christmas pot luck lunch at the community centre, Wednesday, Dec. 9 at 12 noon. Members and those who would like to be members are most welcome.

Members are also reminded that they can enter their overall view of your Christmas decorations and/or your door decorations for first, second or third prizes. I will let you know later the dates for entry.

Centennial Choir

The Christmas concert will lift your spirits when choir members perform at the Aultsville Hall Friday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m.

Dave Irwin, also musical director at Char-Lan High School will lead his 70-member choir through many thrilling numbers.

This choir consists of persons from Williamstown, Martintown, Green Valley, Alexandria, Moose Creek, Monkland, Finch, Long Sault, Ingleside as well as Cornwall.

Tickets available from choir members and at the door.

Martintown Optimist Club

Club members are invited to a Christmas get-together Saturday, Dec. 19.

Next meeting will be Jan. 7 in 1993 at 7:30 p.m.

A few cheques of late have gone out to a few children's projects including: $100 to the 4-H program, $100 to the Children's Wish Foundation and $50 to the OSAID program at Char-Lan to help with expenses of sending two delegates to a conference on Ontario Students Against Impaired Driving.

The Martintown Optimists hope to have the community library open in about two weeks. Approximately 1,200 books have been received, most of which have already been catalogued and indexed.

The days and hours of operation of the library will be determined by the number of citizens who volunteer to act as librarians and their wishes. No experience or expertise is needed. A meeting of potential volunteers will be held Wednesday, Dec. 16 at 7 p.m. in the Library Community Centre. If anyone is interested but cannot attend the meeting, please call Rene Butler at 528-4319.

Something Beautiful

Norm Laflamme won't have time for an official opening until spring but he has opened his "Slanted Floor Art Gallery" in Nell's General Store, featuring local artist's work. It is sure worth a visit.

Martintown Firemen dance and parade

The community centre was quite the hopping place on Sat., Nov. 21 with music from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. A great time was had by many, and what a lot of birthdays occur in Martintown in November.

The Christmas parade had about 12 entries but the weather turned quite chilly, which sent the viewers on down to the fire hall to await Santa's arrival, with some protection from the winds. Santa received many, many special requests for his return visit Dec. 25, as he bent his ear to listen. He also received quite a few letters as he gave out his bags of candy.

First prize trophy went out to the Martintown Optimists, second to Glenbrook Sports (Sports Club from Summerstown Station), and third to Elaine Flaro's float of "Christmas at Nanny's and Poppa's." The horse trophy entry went to Clifford Hope's granddaughter.

Some equipment such as a portable water pump, gas chainsaw, piercing nozzle and machines used for their training were on display at the fire hall. These articles were purchased through the sale of the Nevada tickets. The tickets can be purchased at Don Ross' Service Station.

The firemen are grateful for all the public support of the dance, parade and the buying of the Nevada tickets, as all are much appreciated.

Things have been busy, busy around Les and Irene West's this past couple of weeks with son Douglas and family in for a spell and the excitement of the christening.

Then Irene's sister Dora Hollomby, Dora's daughter Doreen Pearce and husband Tony and children Carolyn, Christopher and Jennifer dropped in from Ottawa and along came Dora's son Kenneth and wife, Ruby Hollomby from Arundel, Quebec and all gave a hand at getting up the outside Christmas lights. Sounds like a merry time was had by all.

Health unit urge innoculation of children

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit is recommending parents vaccinate children against an often fatal type of influenza with a new vaccine designed for children under 18 months of age.

"It's very safe, very effective and we strongly urge all parents with young children to contact their doctors as soon as possible," said Dr. Robert Bourdeau, medical officer of health for the health unit.

The new vaccine protects children against Haemophilus influenze type b, or "Hib", and can be used on children as young as two months.

Hib disease mainly affects children under the age of five and often can be fatal. It also can lead to severe croup, bone and joint infection, blood infection and a type of bacterial meningitis that is only common to children.

The common practice has been to immunize children against Hib disease at 18 months because the existing vaccine is not effective in early infancy, leaving children under 18 months vulnerable to the disease.

PLC wants reuse ideas from residents

If you know how to reuse "stuff," you're being asked to share your smarts.

If you belong to a business, an organization or a volunteer group that accepts items for reuse the Public Liaison Committee (PLC) of the SD&G Waste Management Master Plan wants to hear from you! And if you know of a source that accepts items for reuse that's valuable information too.

Susan Shaw, PLC Chair, explains that the SD&G Waste Management Master Plan is a co-operative attempt among the 20 municipalities in SD&G to find an economical, environmentally sound way of managing SD&G Waste in the long-term.

"The PLC is the volunteer committee of the Master Plan," says Shaw. "As interested residents we work with the Steering Committee and the public. One of the things that we talked about at our last meeting was a Reuse Directory since lots of us get calls from SD&G residents asking where they can take something instead of sending it to landfill. Our Dundas Environmental Resources Centre in Morrisburg has produced a draft reuse directory for Dundas, and it explains how you can reuse things instead of throwing them out. We found out so far that there are places that take clothes, books, eyeglasses, furniture, garden supplies, sports equipment, toys and more.

"The PLC would like to work together to produce a directory for all of SD&G. Reuse is the simplest and most economical way of reducing waste — it just makes sense. So, we'd like to hear from everyone who either knows where to take something that often gets thrown away or who accepts items for reuse. For instance, lots of charitable organizations may take certain items for reuse. If we just share our information with each other we can make a big difference."

"This is a volunteer information-sharing effort," notes Shaw. "We'd really like to spread the word about how to reuse."

Those with information can contact Susan Shaw, PLC Chair, Box 947, Morrisburg, Ont. K0C 1X0, tel. 543-4524 or Patricia Ager, PLC Vice-Chair, Box 880, Bainsville, Ont. K0C 1E0, tel. 347-3303.

Highland club wins Kingston lifting event

Maxville's Highland Athletic Club snatched the team trophy at the Limestone City Powerlifting Championship held at Kingston's Ambassador Hotel over the weekend.

Highland Athletic had eight lifters at the competition, including Maxville's Heather Johns who set an Ontario junior women's record with a dead lift of 324.25 lbs., a full five-and-a-half pounds better than the previous standard.

The other championship team members were Patricia Loranger, Eddie Lacroix, Joel Pilon, Joel Seguin, Maurice Besner, Rodger Chapman and Greg Lascelle.

Alexandria's Power Plus club had two representatives at the event — Lee MacKinnon and Vincent Collard who had a personal best in the dead lift competition with a 600 lb. hoist.

Highland Athletic and Power Plus co-sponsored the event.

Alexandria goalie Paul Seguin is left alone to fight off two Char-Lan attackers, including Dan Desjardins (20), last Friday at the Billy Gebbie Arena. Seguin made 45 stops in the game but Char-Lan still won 6-4.

Alexandria curlers take historic prize

Hub women win Stanley Plaque

A pair of curling rinks from Alexandria travelled to Valleyfield on Saturday and brought back what is believed to be the oldest continuously competed for trophy in North American sports.

Curling clubs in Quebec and Eastern Ontario (which are part of the Royal Caledonia Curling Association) have been competing for the Quebec Challenge Trophy since 1874.

The club which holds the trophy must accept a challenge from another curling house within 15 days of winning or maintaining the prize, with each of the association's clubs getting its turn for a challenge opportunity.

Alexandria first won the Quebec Challenge Trophy in 1938 and has won it four other times since then, most recently in 1986.

This year's victory in the two-rink total-point event was by the narrowest of margins — 12-11.

Alexandria was represented by rinks skipped by Dougal MacLeod and Gerry Deguire.

The other MacLeod rink members were Paul Sauve (third), Bill MacLeod (second) and Ian MacKay (lead) while Brian Clinton (third), Jim Poulton (second) and Jean-Marc Viau (lead) completed the Deguire quartet.

The Ottawa Navy Club is next in line to challenge for the trophy and a defence has tentatively been scheduled for this Sunday at the Alexandria Curling Club.

Alexandria women winnners too

Alexandria successful week for local curlers started last Wednesday when Janice MacDonald skipped an Alexandria rink to a championship in a competition for women with five or fewer years of curling experience.

The Alexandria team defeated a rink from Cornwall in the final last Wednesday to win the Stanley Plaque.

Alexandria now moves on to the regional playdowns at the Richmond Curling Club in January.

Other Alexandria team members were Nicole Viau, Sharon Gibbs and Barb Stackhouse.

Jr. B Glens work overtime to end lengthy winless stretch

The Alexandria Glens, who had gone 14 games without outscoring their opponent, won for only the second time in seven weeks on Saturday as Martin Boisvenue's goal with 1:09 left in overtime lifted the Glens to a 7-6 overtime win over the South Grenville Rangers.

Alexandria's only other victory in that time was a game forfeited by the Athens Aeros.

The win is also Alexandria's first since the tandem of Luc Sabourin and Robert Boisvenue took over behind the bench for Lee Taillefer on Nov. 9.

Ironically, Boisvenue missed Saturday's win because he is currently under suspension for a water bottle-throwing incident in peewee, where Boisvenue coaches the Alexandria team.

The Glens almost let Saturday's precious victory get away when the Rangers, who have only two wins so far this year, scored with just 1:04 left in the game to knot the affair up at 6-6.

But Boisvenue's OT winner, his 10th goal of the season, made the ride back from Spencerville an enjoyable one.

Norm Decoste netted a pair of goals for Alexandria while Stephan Nadeau, Randy Gebbie, Serge Bellefeuille and Steve Poirier had singles.

Bellefeuille added three assists.

Rebs fell Glens again

Saturday's win came one night after the Glengarry had lost at home to the Char-Lan Rebels by a score of 6-4.

Despite being outshot by almost a three to one margin, Alexandria held a 4- 3 lead late in the second period, but John Edgerton scored with only 18 seconds left in the middle frame to tie the game at four.

Marc Bellemare and Greg Wylie, with his second of the game, scored for Char-Lan in the third to give the Rebels their third win in a row over Alexandria this season. Terry O'Farrell also scored twice for Char-Lan.

Norm Decoste, Randy Gebbie, Michel Marleau and Martin Boisvenue scored for Alexandria, who were outshot 51-13.

In many ways, it was a typical Alexandria game; few shots for, plenty of shots against but still in the game until the end.

"That's been the big thing for us this year," said Luc Sabourin after the game. "Our goaltenders (Paul Seguin and J.F. Boyer) have kept us in games that we're getting badly outplayed in."

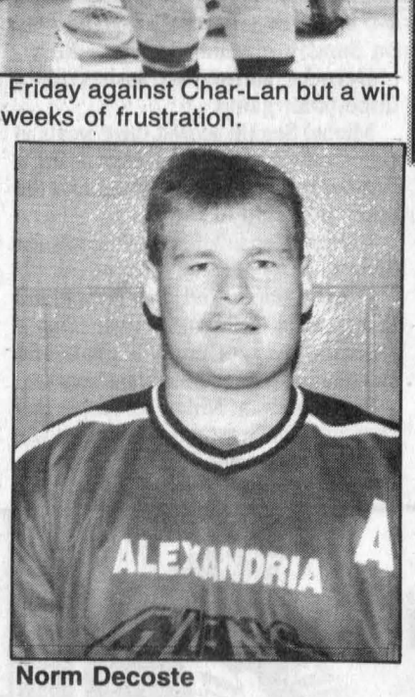
Alexandria's joy was shortlived on Friday against Char-Lan but a win on Saturday finally ended seven weeks of frustration.



Norm Decoste

SunLife pierces through vaunted Tapis defence

After allowing only three goals in the first seven games of the season, Tapis Richard Ranger yielded three in one game last Wednesday as Tapis dropped a Ladies Sponge Puck League game 3-0 to SunLife.

Wendi Lawson scored two goals for SunLife, her 11th and 12th markers of the season, while Cathy Grant had the other score.

SunLife moves to within a point of Tapis for second place with the victory.

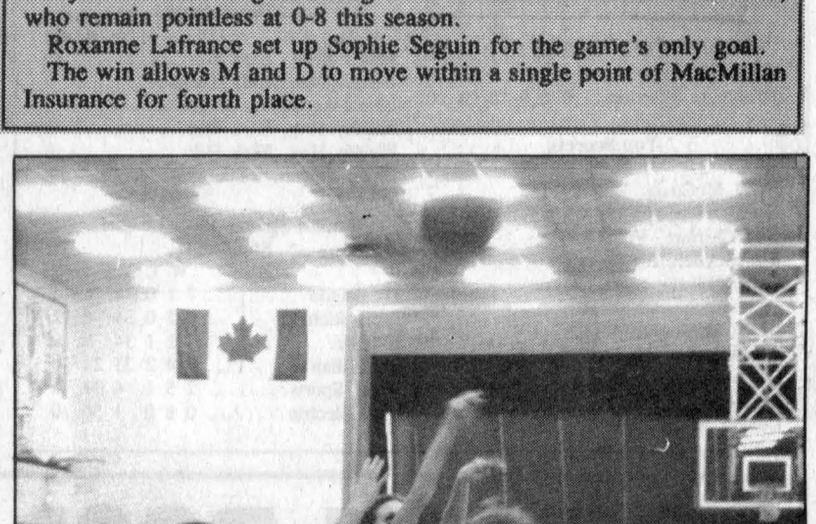
Art Benton remains in first place after winning their seventh game in a row on Wednesday, 3-0 over MacMillan Insurance.

Debbie Nadon reached double figures in goals as she netted her 10th of the season. Nadon also assisted on goals by Joan Filion and Andrea Cuthill for a three-point evening.

Meanwhile, M and D Sports scored only their sixth goal in eight games this year but that was good enough for a 1-0 decision over L.C. Electric, who remain pointless at 0-8 this season.

Roxanne Lafrance set up Sophie Seguin for the game's only goal.

The win allows M and D to move within a single point of MacMillan Insurance for fourth place.



Glengarry's Tricia Steele puts up a shot during EOSSAA action in South Grenville last Wednesday.

McCuaig hat trick sinks U2's

The Char-Lan U2's had an opportunity to move in front of Rudi Payer Sport in the Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League standings with a win on Monday, but Rudi's quickly erased any such thoughts by getting out to an early 2-0 lead and coasting to a 7-0 win.

Rudi's were in total command of the game, particularly on offence where precision passing led to a season-high in goals being scored, including three by Andy McCuaig, who now has a total of seven.

Bruce Tessier, Greg Deschamps, Benjamin Pye and Chris Armstrong, in his first game of the season, also scored for Rudi's.

Mike Laframboise was in goal for Rudi's and gets the shutout.

The Glengarry Stars maintained their one-point lead at the top of the league by shutting out the SDG Nomads 2-0.

Matthew Steiche scored the game-winner towards the end of the first half and Darrell Hay added a second half insurance marker with a blast from a sharp angle.

Jeff Lowe recorded his league-leading third shutout of the season.

In the other game in Week Six, Cornwall F.I.S.T. downed the Avonmore Warriors 5-2.

Dennis Acheson and Jamey Myers each scored a pair of goals for Cornwall and Chico Teodoro added a single.

Rod MacKillican had both Warriors goals.

Slumbering offence wakes to down Hawks

Char-Lan scored four goals in the second period and five in the third as the Rebels posted a 9-6 Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League victory over the Winchester Hawks on Sunday in Williamstown.

The win, coupled with Kemptville's overtime win against Morrisburg, creates a three-way tie for second in the St.Lawrence Division.

The Hawks, 73's and Rebels all have 22 points, six behind the division- leading Morrisburg Lions. Char-Lan has a game in hand on the other three clubs.

With the Rebels short-staffed on defence, the Char-Lan offence answered the call on Sunday as Marc Bellemare scored three goals and John Edgerton a pair to lead the Rebels to victory.

Dave McDonald netted his first of the year with other solo tallies going to Cory Maxam, Greg Wylie and Terry O'Farrell.

Char-Lan was playing without the services of blue-liners Chris Petry, who was serving the second game of his three-game suspension for picking up a match penalty in Alexandria on Friday, and Derek Ryan who was sick.

That left the Rebels only three regular defenceman - Bobby Bowles, Craig Gabri and Tom Post - for most of the game and then only two when Post was thrown out of the game for fighting with 7:24 remaining in the second period.

Left winger Denis St.Jean played the entire game on defence while John Edgerton played a few shifts on the blueline after Post got the heave-ho.

Winchester's Scott Barkley (10) and Char-Lan's John Edgerton (11) look on as Greg Wylie's shot crosses the goal line behind Hawks goalie Chad Smith. The shorthanded marker by the Rebel captain helped Char-Lan claim a 9-6 win.

Char-Lan coach Philip Brown says the emergency measures worked well.

"Any time you have to put a forward on defence, you look for a guy who can skate forwards and backwards and can move the puck and Denis did a good job of that."

Despite the blueline shortage, Brown had no problems with Post coming to the aid of teammate Dan Desjardins, who fought with Jesse Pulfer after the Winchester player had speared the Char-Lan centreman.

Gael midgets stopped at EOSSAA tourney

The Glengarry Gaels midget girls basketball team tasted defeat for the first time this season at the Eastern Ontario championships in South Grenville last week, dropping consecutive games.

The Gaels won by large margins all season long but the tables were turned on them at EOSSAA as Glengarry lost 49-15 to eventual champion Ernesttown in one game and 48-33 to the host South Grenville Giants in the other.

The Gaels were obviously outclassed against Ernesttown but were even with South Grenville for most of the game and trailed by only one point at the half.

Jacinda Rudolph and Rachel Denner were the top individual Glengarry scorers in each of the losses.

Kirk Hill extends win streak to six

Lisa Poirier, the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League's top scorer, netted her 12th and 13th goals of the season on Sunday as Kirk Hill recorded a 5-3 victory over the Raiderettes.

Carolyn Cameron, Shirley Hay and Brenda MacMaster each had a single for Kirk Hill, who continue their recent roll with their sixth consecutive win.

The MiniMax Hearts remain three points behind Kirk Hill for first place in the women's division as the Hearts downed Jovana's 3-1 on Sunday.

Ann Ferguson, Bonnie MacLeod and Wendi Lawson each contributed a goal to the Hearts attack while Jennifer Bookhout had the lone Jovana's marker.

All the scoring in the game came in the first half.

The other women's division game saw the Bergeron Chargers shut out Chumps 3-0.

Flyers torch La Maison

Matthew Steiche and Albert Bott each scored three goals as the Apple Hill Flyers whipped La Maison 9-2 in men's division play on Sunday.

Scott McPherson, Nelson MacPherson and Gordon MacPherson each chipped in with a single for the Flyers, who are now 5-4.

The Dalhousie Bombers held the powerful Filion Jewellers offensive machine (averaging almost eight goals per game) to three goals in a 4-3 win.

Four different Bombers - Randy Piche, Steve Cameron, Brian Cameron and Marc Seguin - accounted for the Dalhousie offence.

Rudi Payer Sport also had a diversified attack in shutting out the Town Hall Rovers 4-0.

Andy McCuaig, Pat Burke, Greg Deschamps and Bruce Tessier were the Rudi's marksmen.

Glengarry's other Cornwall entry, Frenchie's, won for only the second time this season, but came by the back door to do it as Moviola Cafe failed to show up and defaulted.

In other men's division games it was Courtaulds over Mr.Subs 5-1 and the Roadrunners and Filion Trophies tying at 2-2.

Lavigne stones Crites

Stephane Lavigne was unbeaten in nets and Jean-Paul Claude, Michel Decoeur and Richard Hamelin scored one goal apiece as Glengarry Insulation defeated Allan Crites Excavation 3-0 in SDG Broomball League play on Sunday morning in Maxville.

Decoeur added two assists for a three-point game.

Michel Seguin scored three goals in Bar Cottage's 4-2 win over King's Whitewashing. Gilbert Pilon had the other B.C. tally.

Robert Wensink had both goals for King's.

Greg Cooper led the Monkland Kings to a 5-0 romp over Guy's Radiator by scoring two goals and assisting on a third Monkland marker.

Bruce Massia, Mike Derouchie and Duncan McPherson had single goals for the Kings while Keith Presley gets credit for the shutout.

Zoppas Construction won by the same 5-0 score over Menard Lumber as Ray Filion scored three goals.

Danny Zoppas and Roger Marsolais had solo tallies; Doug Delage had the shutout.

In the final game of the day, Apple Hilton coasted by Ingleside Lanes 4-1.

Four different players — John Reddick, Chris Bilmer, Al Poirier and Rob Leroux — hit the scoresheet for the Hilton while Roy Steele had the lone Ingleside marker.

The league's annual all-star game will be held this Sunday at the Maxville and District Sports Complex starting at 1:30 p.m. The Lions Club will put on a fundraising in the morning leading up to the clash of the best of the West and East Divisions.

McDonell, Pilon star in Rebels' tourney win

The Char-Lan Rebels peewee squad won a minor hockey tournament in Vankleek Hill this past weekend by easily defeating the host club 5-0 in the championship game.

Bruce McDonell's team had advanced to the final with wins over Casselman and Hawkesbury the previous weekend.

Kent McDonell was the big gun for the peewees on the weekend as he scored three goals against the Cougars.

Defensively, goaltender Jason Pilon held down the fort and registered the shutout.

Derek Wereley and Stephane Loyer chipped in with single goals.

Char-Lan was even more convincing in winning a league game last week as the Rebels whipped the North Dundas Demons 7-0.

Jamie Lemire potted four goals to spearhead the Char-Lan attack. Adding single goals were Lindsay Campbell, Luc Lapierre and Kacey McDonell.

Char-Lan also defeated Alexandria 4-1 as Kent McDonell, Stephane Loyer, Mike Rankin and Jamie Lemire scored goals.

Midgets come close

The Char-Lan midgets were in Chesterville over the weekend and the Rebels came close to winning their second competition title of the season.

Char-Lan, boosted by strong play in nets by Jim Hill, reached the final with wins over Blackburn and Nepean but lost 2-1 in overtime to North Dundas in the championship game.

Marty McDonell had the only Char-Lan marker in the tournament finale.

The Rebels started by beating Blackburn 3-1' on goals by Ian McDonell, Jason Flaro and Scott Giroux. Giroux's goal came on a penalty shot with 12 seconds remaining in the game.

Char-Lan then edged the Nepean Raiders 5-4 as Vincent Rines notched a pair of goals.

Kirk McDonell, Ian MacDonell and Scott Giroux scored once each.

The Char-Lan midgets were able to beat North Dundas in league competition last week as the Rebels edged the Demons 4-3.

Marty McDonell, Marc Menard, Jason Flaro and Ian MacDonell each contributed a goal for the winners.

Verdone leads novices

Matthew Verdone of the Char-Lan novices scored two goals in each of his team's two games last week, in which the Rebels picked up a win and a tie.

Verdone's deuce on Thursday allowed Char-Lan to earn a 3-3 result with North Glen-Stor as Matthew Gordon scored the other Rebel goal.

Verdone scored twice again in Saturday's 4-0 Char-Lan win over Morrisburg. Chris Houle and Evan Koronewski also scored

Win some, lose some

The Char-Lan atoms got the chance to be on both ends of a shutout game last week.

The Rebels blanked Kemptville 4-0 on Saturday as Char-Lan got goals from four different players.

Stephen Lefebvre, Jordan Flaro, Graham Charbonneau and Nicolas Dube each shared in the scoring.

The Rebels didn't get any offence the following day as Char-Lan was whitewashed by Smiths Falls 1-0.

Atoms zing the Blues

Jason Vickers scored three times to lead the Alexandria Caisse Pop Glens to a 6-3 win over the Orleans Blues in the championship game of an atom minor hockey tournament in Vankleek Hill on Saturday.

Alexandria had advanced to the final of the two-weekend tourney with wins over St.Isidore and Vankleek Hill 10 days ago.

Besides Vickers' three goals, Eric Nielsen, Nicholas Quenneville and Joel Quesnel scored for Alexandria in the championship game.

The atom Glens also split a pair of regular season contests last week.

On Sunday, Alexandria lost 5-1 to South Grenville as Jean-Francois Menard scored the only Glens goal.

On Friday, Alexandria blitzed the Cornwall Royals 7-1 as Eric Nielsen and Nicholas Quenneville scored two goals each.

J.F. Menard, Marc-Andre Leroux and Joel Quesnel had Alexandria's other goals.

Busy week for peewees

The Pronto Peewee Glens had four games on tap last week — three regular season contests and a tournament game.

Alexandria lost the consolation championship game of the Vankleek Hill tournament to Casselman by a score of 4-3 in overtime on Saturday.

Sylvain Campeau, Stephane Boisvenue and Jamie Ladouceur scored the Alexandria goals in the contest.

In league action, Alexandria defeated Brockville 5-2 at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Sunday.

Stephane Boisvenue had two goals for the Glens with singles going to Sylvain Campeau, Nicholas Prieur and Jamie Ladouceur. Eric Leroux had two assists.

On Thursday, Alexandria lost 4-1 to Char-Lan as Stephane Boisvenue had the lone score for the Glens.

Alexandria started their busy week of action on Wednesday by shutting out Kemptville 3-0 thanks to the work of netminder Jason Leroux.

Nicholas Prieur, Timothy Van Overbeek and Guillaume Ouimet took care of the offence.

Cory Maxam continues to lead Char-Lan offensively.

Char-Lan Rebels...

"We tried to stay disciplined but at the same time you can't let them push you around. I was glad to see (post) stick up for his teammate like that."

Brown was also glad to see his team regroup after subpar performances on Friday (despite a 6-4 win in Alexandria) and Saturday (a 6-1 loss to Westport).

"We didn't play well on Friday or Saturday - we just weren't moving our feet. I'm disappointed in the way we played Saturday - we have to start beating some of those teams like Westport and Morrisburg if we're going to get anywhere."

Brown does see improvement in his streaky club.

"We're starting to do the little things right. Hopefully we'll continue to improve and peak in the later part of the year."

Rideaus sweep Rebels

In the second and final regular season meeting between Char-Lan and Westport on Saturday, the Rideaus completed a season sweep, downing Char-Lan 6-1.

Todd Mallette and Mark Skeggs each had a goal and three assists for the Rideaus while Chris Chisamore shone in nets by making 37 of 38 stops.

Cory Maxam's power play marker in the third was the only time that the Rebels were able to beat the Westport netminder.

Rebel Yells: The last position in the Boxing Day Tournament will be determined on Sunday afternoon when the Rebels play in Morrisburg. Char-Lan needs a win while Morrisburg would advance should the two clubs tie...Since no St.Hubert game star awards were handed out on Saturday, there were double winners on Sunday. Greg Wylie and John Edgerton each picked up offensive honors while Denis St.Jean and Craig Gabri were defensive stars...Winchester's Andrew Holmes, a midget-aged rookie in the Hawks lineup, suffered a broken leg after colliding with Terry O'Farrell on Sunday. Holmes, who had to be carried out on a stretcher, is expected to miss the rest of the season...Char-Lan hosts Alexandria on Saturday.

Alexandria Glens...

Offensively, he said, the Glens are still spending too much time trying to make fancy plays instead of just shooting the puck.

"We don't have that kind of team," Sabourin said. "We just have to dump it in and shoot every chance we get."

There have been very few opportunities for an Alexandria coach to praise individual players after games this season, but Sabourin did just that on Friday night.

"Steve Poirier should be one of our offensive leaders and he's starting to play that way," he said of the second-year centreman who had his four-game goalscoring streak snapped on Friday.

Then, as defenceman Patrick Campeau walked by, Sabourin continued.

"Pat is another guy who played a lot better tonight. He didn't take any penalties and he did the job of staying back in his position."

Wild Wednesday shootout

On Wednesday in Morrisburg, Alexandria picked the wrong team to get into an offensive slugfest with as the Lions outscored Alexandria 12-9.

Actually, there must be something about the Morrisburg uniform that lends itself to high octane offence because the Glens had to use the Lions' road jerseys because they had left their own jerseys back in Alexandria.

The result made the Wednesday's contest look like a Morrisburg intrasquad game.

Unfortunately for Alexandria, the real Lions had Mike McAllister in their lineup as the veteran centreman popped in five goals.

Yvon Besner had two goals while Craig Villenueve, Andrew McEwen, Rob Domanko, Rob Casselman and Mark Donnelly had singles.

Norm Decoste had a hat trick for the Glens and Martin Boisvenue added a deuce. Stephan Nadeau, Patrick Sauve, Steve Poirier and Serge Bellefeuille chipped in with single goals.

Poirier, Patrick Campeau and Michel Marleau had three assists apiece while Bellefeuille had four helpers.

Glenformation: Maxville's Patrick Cadieux, property of the Hawkesbury Hawks, was in Alexandria's lineup on Saturday...Pat Carriere continues to be hampered by the foot injury he suffered in only his second game as a Glen. Carriere suited up for Friday's game against the Rebels but had to leave after only one shift...Jeff MacLean was also out of commission last week. Patrick Campeau was the assistant captain in his absence...Former Glens coach Kirk Anderson has resurfaced in the junior hockey ranks. The good captain has taken over the helm of the troubled North Stormont Jr. C Express, who have gotten off to an 0-16 start this season...Alexandria's large contingent of rookies will formally be initiated to the club this weekend. The hazing will include a singing performance at Champions — assistant coach Frank St.Pierre's new joint...Alexandria hosts Kemptville on Friday and plays in Williamstown on Saturday.

Glengarrians on the move

Glengarry County's strong motor sports reputation has been built in the past on the accomplishments of modified car racers such as Ovide Doiron, Laurent Ladouceur and Ron Valade.

That reputation continues in a different facet of the sport — motorcycle and four-wheeler racing.

Seven Glengarrians competed in the Eastern Ontario Motocross Association (EOMA) tour last summer and all plan to return to the circuit in 1993.

Hugh MacLeod of Dalkeith, Ivan McDonell of Greenfield, Adam MacGregor of Bainsville, Mark Schroeder of Lancaster, Mike McKinnon of Greenfield, Tom Van Loon of Greenfield and Carl MacIntosh of Dunvegan all carried the colors of the county during the circuit's May to September racing season.

The group often travels together to tour events, and as could be expected, have developed a fast friendship.

"We all stick together and try to give one another a hand," said MacGregor.

While most of the others were in their first or second year of racing this season, MacIntosh is a relative veteran of three seasons and distinguished himself in 1992 by capturing the expert class in ATV racing.

"I had a big advantage over the others because we had our own race track at home," siad MacIntosh. "Even though I hadn't done any competitive racing, I had done a lot of riding."

MacIntosh has gradually climbed up the ladder in his three seasons of competition on the expert circuit, finishing sixth two years ago and second last.

The Dunvegan resident refuses to wait until spring before resuming racing, staying active in the winter by racing snowmobiles.

As for next year, the 1993 EOMA season begins in May.

Dick's loses

Dick's Paving Stone's eight-game unbeaten streak came to an end last Saturday as the club lost 5-2 to nemesis Ernie's Cement.

Ernie's has also held Dick's to a pair of ties this season and is the only team that the league's first place team has failed to beat.

Mike Lapensee, Marc Just, Ernest Bernique, Luc Seguin and Ralph Humphries, into an empty net, scored for Ernie's while Junior MacDonald and Steve Lalonde replied for Dick's.

The Legionnaires remain tied for second spot after clubbing Glengarry Windows and Doors 11-1.

Alain Giroux netted four goals for Legion, Leo Seguin scored a hat trick while other goals went to Chris Kirady (two), Mike Kelly and Kevin Massia.

C-L house results

McCuaig Plumbing scored a late third period goal to earn a 3-3 tie with the Glengarry Kinsmen in Char-Lan Minor Hockey house league action last Friday in Williamstown.

Marc Pilon, Andrew Tremblay and Willie Larkin each had single goals for McCuaig while the Kinsmen also had three different goalscorers — Jason Gales, Drew Thomson and Matthew Tyo.

Laroche leads Hurricanes

Dominique Laroche scored twice to lead the Cornwall RCAFA Hurricanes girls team to a 3-2 win over Malyon Excavation in the peewee division on Saturday.

Cindy Laferriere also scored for the 'Canes.

Charles Leclair and Chris Malyon accounted for the Malyon offence.

Fontaine continues to roll

Fontaine Renovations continues to be the hot team in the novice division as the club won two more games last week.

On Wednesday, Fontaine defeated Rozon Insurance 5-2 as two players — Robb Schaeffer and Justin Lalonde — scored twice each.

Phillippe Glaude had the other Fontaine marker.

Addison MacDonald scored one of Rozon's goals and assisted on the other, which was put in the net by Scott Watson.

Poirier, Mac's saw off

In a bantam-midget contest played last Monday, Poirier Bus Lines and Mac's Marina played to a 2-2 draw.

Brennan Cameron and Daniel Olson scored for Mac's while Andre Hebert and Alain Lapierre replied for Poirier.

Because of mistakes in the game report, goals scored for the atom division's Cornwall Aviation team were wrongly credited in recent issues.

Philip Hadzocos has netted six goals in the previous two weeks.

Following the service a birthday cake for Jesus will be served along with lunch and other refreshments. Everyone is welcome to attend.

A picture perfect day and moderately cold weather helped to make the recent 34th annual Lancaster Santa Claus Parade just great. As usual, everyone in the community pulled together to make the day one that will not be forgotten for a while.

The grand prize float winner of $100 was Berrigan's Hotel complete with chicken coop and our own local ''rooster.''

Other winners are as follows: Second best float — Knights of Columbus No. 8715 Lancaster; third best float — South Lancaster Fish and Game Club; most original float — Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce; best out-of-town float — Glenbrook Sportsmans Club; best youth achievement float — Glen Walter Beavers and Cubs; best school group float — Lancaster Township Public School; best business float — Lancaster Freshmart; best horse and rider — Heather Irwin; best animal — Cecile Ritchie's guide dog trainees; best walking costume — Malcolm Cumming and his Christmas Tree; second — the Carriere family and their goat cart and third — the Lancaster Benevolent Society clowns.

This year's judges — Agnes Cooper, Ian Fraser and Dave Bristol — certainly had a difficult job as there were over 20 floats and many walking the route. Santa Claus was also a busy person both before and after the parade but did his job with good humor and patience.

Also involved was the Lancaster Service Council which is made up of members from Knights of Columbus, Fire Department, Recreation Department, Legion, Optimists and Chamber of Commerce.

Besides decorating and entering floats from their respective groups, the volunteers divided up all the many tasks required to make a large event successful and then worked together to make sure all who participated and attended were treated with respect and friendliness. As has been said before on many occasions, we have the best community of them all.

Everyone is reminded of the Lucky Bucks contest now on in the village with up to $1,600 in merchandise to be won. When you shop at a local participating merchant and fill in a coupon, you are eligible for the draw which takes place on Friday, Dec. 18.

A reminder is also sent to the community of the best decorated home and best decorated storefront contest. Judging will be done on Dec. 18 and the winners will be announced at the annual Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce banquet to be held in early February 1993. Let's prove to everyone once again what a great community we live in.

Fun, food and friendship were evident at the home of Sue Robertson on Dec. 2 as Bainsville Women's Institute members held their annual Christmas meeting.

Roll call was answered by each one telling how they found out about Santa. Of those who could remember, most were told by older siblings or friends. It seems to have been a traumatic experience for all.

A brief business meeting followed, during which Sue Robertson was presented with a certificate for all her work on the Canada 125 projects.

A three course, sit-down, preplanned pot luck supper put everyone in the proper mood to enjoy the evening's entertainment. It was in the form of a Christmas concert performed at the North Pole.

''Lou's Lovelies'' read, sang, danced, told fortunes, joked and clowned around much to the enthusiastic delight of the audience.

Christmas gifts were then exchanged and showed the great ingenuity of members in selecting or making inexpensive presents.

Everyone left with the spirit of Christmas aglow in their minds which will carry them through the long and busy weeks ahead.

Due to a heavy schedule of choir practices and carol-singing coming up at Sandfield Place, Chateau Gardens and Glen Cairn Lodge, the ladies of the Community Protestant Church held their December meeting in late November at the home of Mary Taylor.

During the business portion of the meeting, the eight members present again reiterated their pleasure and satisfaction of the outcome of the October bazaar and, as a result, a cheque will be sent out to assist in the work of the Lancaster Benevolent Fund. The reading abilities of some of the members was evident as they ''talked'' their way through a skit entitled ''Gift Wrappings.''

Everyone could relate to the scene set in a living room where two college-aged daughters were busy wrapping presents while chatting with a visiting aunt.

With the singing of ''O Little Town of Bethlehem'' and then to work cutting and gluing bits and pieces to create placemats for some very special friends, all agreed, while chatting over a cup of tea that it had been a great meeting and hostess Mary got left with the mess to clean up.

Congratulations to new grandparents Bryn and Diana Wakely of Brown House Corners. It seems daughter Angela and her husband, Ed presented them with a granddaughter recently.

The 4-H Club of Bainsville — ''Home for the Holidays'' section — held its lat meeting on Nov. 23. Club executive included President — Shirley Bergeron, Vice-President — Amanda Hicks, Secretary — Lauren Robbers and Press Reporter — Angie Parker. The club was led by Allison Main and Sue Robertson and had 19 members. They made many Christmas foods including Latkes, shortbread cookies and other holiday goodies plus Christmas crafts. The club ended with an achievement night enjoyed by many parents and friends.

Ecole St. Joseph students were bundled up warm on their float in Lancaster's Christmas parade Saturday. More than 20 floats entered the annual event.

Crime stoppers program explained to counties council

Civilian Richard Leger of Lancaster, and OPP officer Dave MacDonald, outlined the aim of Crime Stoppers and explained their fundraising campaign to United Counties council recently.

Leger said Crime Stoppers pays from $50 to $1000 for tips which lead to the arrest and conviction of a criminal.

Crime Stoppers is citizen-based with the support of the OPP and the media. Local Crime Stoppers for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry was set up last year with headquarters at Long Sault OPP office.

Sgt. MacDonald said there are 26 Crime Stopper prevention programs in Ontario. So far 70,000 crimes have been solved, 41,000 arrests made, and $220 million in stolen property recovered through Stopper tips.

MacDonald called the payment for tips, made without ever revealing the tippers identity, ''a cheap way of solving crimes — mostly it's a matter of criminals turning in other criminals.''

Crime Stoppers funds are raised through raffles sponsoring local events, and the sale of Nevada tickets.

MacDonald reported a recent tip led to $3,000 of stolen articles recovered from a Winchester break-in, with nine charges laid.

Caring for Life
By Dr. George McKiel
No Longer Gage

Our immensely complex brain is the single organ of our bodies that has placed humankind at the peak of the earth's biologic evolution. Plato referred to the brain as ''the divinest part of us.'' Our thought processes have devised the technology for launching space shuttles, curing diseases and even replacing highly sophisticated other organs such as kidneys, liver and heart. We have mastered the splitting of atoms and, more recently, restructured and augmented our society with poor imitation ''brains'' that we call computers. Yet for all our civilization and refinements mankind has created far more, seemingly, insolvable problems. So we need to remind ourselves of our fragility and, at the same time, of our extraordinary adaptability. Take, for instance, the dramatic role of the higher brain areas in personality and emotion as exemplified in the famous crowbar accident which occurred in 1848. A 25 year old railway foreman, Phineas P. Gage, was tamping gunpowder into a hole in a rock. Suddenly the gunpowder exploded into Gage's face. The crowbar he'd been tapping the gunpowder with, was an iron rod, three and a half feet long and one and a quarter inches thick. The blast drove the crowbar into Gage's left eye, passed through his brain and emerged out the back of his skull. Gage was alone at the time. After a few minutes of convulsions, Gage got up, found his horse, mounted and rode 3/4 mile into a nearby town, then walked up a long flight of stairs to find a doctor. He was able to grope his way with his blood splattered but still good right eye and held the crowbar so it did not bump into walls and doors.

Gage recovered well after the crowbar was extricated and he seemed to have no noticeable sensory or motor problems. Gage's associates, however, noted striking personality changes. Prior to the accident Gage was a responsible, capable, and financially prudent man. Afterwards he appeared to lose social inhibitions, became grossly profane swearing at friends and incidents (which he did not do before the accident), and seemed to be tossed about by chance whims. Eventually Gage was fired from his railway job, and his friends remarked that he was ''no longer Gage.''

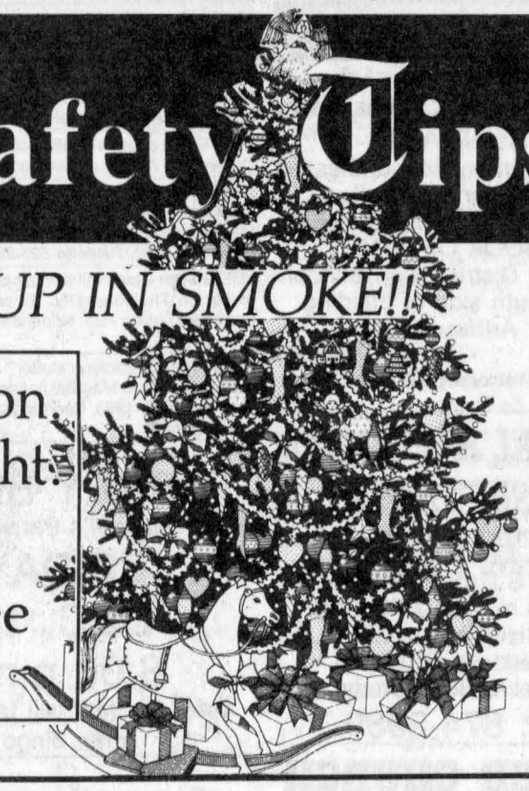
Santa's Christmas Safety Tips



DON'T LET YOUR CHRISTMAS GO UP IN SMOKE!!

Have a safe and happy holiday season.
Decorate your home with all that's bright!

Please take the following safety precautions to ensure a safe fire-free HOLIDAY SEASON!

To the citizens of Alexandria

As Fire Chief of the Town of Alexandria, I urgently appeal to each and every citizen to do his utmost and take every precaution against fire during the holiday season.

In setting forth the following safety suggestions, it is my earnest wish that they be strictly adhered to and thereby help to eliminate disaster and destruction by fire at a time when peace and joy should reign:

—Choose a 'fresh cut' tree with a high moisture content.
—Store the tree outdoors.
—Make a new diagonal cut at least 2'' from the butt before setting the tree up indoors.
—Stand the tree in a container that holds plenty of water. Refill the container each day.
—Anchor the tree securely. Place it away from sources of heat to reduce drying.
—Use only electric lighting sets that bear the mark of approval and inspect for damage and frayed cords.
—Use only 15-amp. fuse on circuit serving your tree.
—Use glass wool or asbestos 'snow' or other non-combustible material in decorating the tree or your home.
—Dismantle and remove the tree as soon as it has served its purpose.

How to Choose a Fresh Cut Christmas Tree

—Bend needle gently. If needle bends instead of breaking, the tree can be termed 'fresh cut'. Should the needle snap, it indicates a dry and brittle state and is not suitable.

Gerald Charlebois

In Memoriam

ROBERTSON — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Bill, who passed away Dec. 3/91.

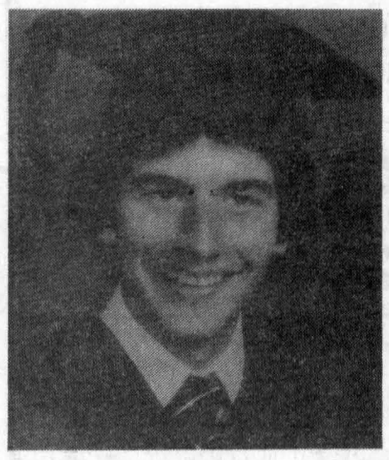
We still hurt inside, the emptiness will always be there. To all of us you were very special, you left the sweetest memory. What more is there to say! Except to wish with all our hearts, that you were here today.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by your wife Juliette and children. 50-1p

GAUCHER — In memory of a dear son William Francis Ian, who passed away December 29, 1989.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green
And never fade away.
—Still missed and always remembered by mom, dad, Michael and Roger. 50-1p

CADIEUX — In loving memory of a dear son and brother Michael who passed away Dec. 10, 1982.
What would we give to clasp his hand
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to us.
—Always remembered by mom, dad, Sandra, Suzanne and Amanda. 50-1p

McINTEE — In loving memory of a dear mother Isabella, who passed away suddenly Dec. 15, 1983.
We will always remember the way you looked,
The way you spoke and smiled,
The little things you said and did,
Are with us all the while;
You never said goodbye to us,
Perhaps it's just as well,
For we could never have said goodbye,
To the one we loved so well.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughters Ann, Terry and Rita, and sons John and Robert. Predeceased by one son Pat Jr. 50-1p

MacRAE (nee Gagnier) — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Lucille, who passed away Nov. 15, 1989.
Loving thoughts of times together,
Hold memories that last forever.
—The Gagnier family. 50-1p



LEO ST. DENIS—In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away Dec. 11, 1981.
Like falling leaves the years go by,
But memories of you will never die.
To some you may be forgotten,
To others part of the past,
But to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will always last.
Always remembered and sadly missed by Mom and Dad, Carolin, Roger, Dennis and Donna. 50-1p

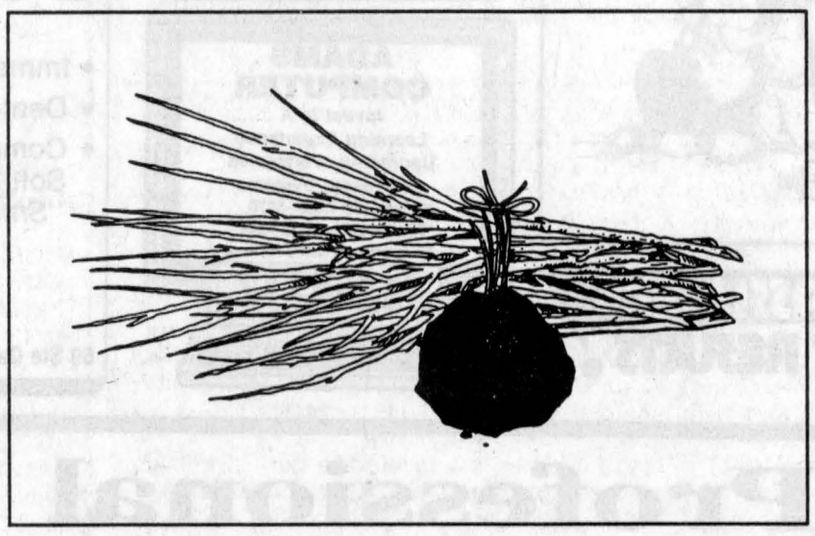
A lump of coal and a bundle of switches.

That's what you might end up with if you don't shop in Canada this Christmas.



Shopping in Canada this Christmas makes more sense than ever. Our merchants are more competitive than at any other time. Christmas promotions in border communities make shopping at home more attractive than it has ever been. Gift exchanges are more easily made. And speaking of exchanges: our dollar is suffering on international markets making U.S. prices not the bargains they were at this time last year. In fact, bank rates are hovering around the 25% mark and when the Canadian dollar is discounted in the U.S. the rate can get even higher. Canada Customs officers have new equipment and procedures that have allowed them to step up enforcement of the payment of Customs and duties, as well as GST, on goods purchased outside the country.

So shop in Canada this year and we'll all have more Christmas presence.

Alexandrian presents 4,770 name petition

As the world braced for war in the Persian Gulf, they moved silently through the night, faces lit softly by candlelight, some singing, some talking amongst themselves — but mostly reflecting quietly on what lay ahead.

One young man, wearing little more than a light jacket and earmuffs, carried a bundled-up child on his arm, a candle flickering in his other hand. He sang John Lennon's "All we are sayin', is give peace a chance . . ." Opposite him, on the far side of the circle, a woman and her husband somberly sang "We Shall Overcome."

There were children, most too young to know what was happening. Others, barely old enough to understand the horrors of war, joined their parents in this Mill Square in the centre of Alexandria last Sunday night.

There were about 50 of them, men and women, boys and girls, francophones and anglophones, united in a quiet candlelight vigil being staged simultaneously with others across the country. Ten more staged a second vigil Monday night.

In Williamstown, at the same time, about 80 equally-mixed people gathered at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, much like their counterparts north of them, and quietly marked their own peace vigil.

Preparations for annual Christmas concert underway

ESRG News
by José Trottier

This week was very quiet on the activity side at school; it seems the teachers have been assigning a lot of homework before the holidays. Students shouldn't give up, though, there are only seven more days of school left before the Christmas holidays.

The "animation culturelle' group has begun preparations for the annual Christmas concert which will take place on Dec. 18 in the school cafetorium. Several groups are getting their acts together. Actually organizers would like to see everyone on the stage at some point or other.

While the midget girls' basketball team has gone on to glory, last week the midget girls' volleyball team began its journey along the same route with their first two tryouts. Good luck to all the future stars who came out.

The members of the ESRG/GDHS Junior and Senior Bands have been practicng the last few months for their Christmas ensemble pieces which they will present to their parents and friends on the 16th of December. Also they will be playing for the ESRG students on the 18th, the last day before the holidays. It is hoped everyone will be there to sing along and encourage them.

Congratulations to Doris Lauzon of Alexandria for winning the first prize of $200 in the Students' Council/Alexandria Lions Club annual fundraising raffle. Congratulations also to Marie Peters of Dunvegan, and Arthur Palmer of Bainsville for winning the $50 second and third prizes.

A couple of interesting field trips to Montreal took place last week. Mr. Lessard's Grade 10 géographie class travelled there last Wednesday to watch a film on the environment at the Imax theatre and to tour L'Usine Charles J. Des Baillets, the third most important water filtration plant in the world. On Thursday, more than 50 students with the "animation pastorale" group went to the Biodome, the Vieu Port and Place des Arts with Père Marcel Larouche and Mme Diane Leroux. I'm sure everyone had fun and benefited from these trips.

This year a new program has been developed by local businesses for more than 20 students of ESRG and GDHS. A Junior Achievers Company has been operating for the last two months.

This is a wonderful learning experience in which participants see firsthand how a company is organized.

Students, as the corporation officers and employees, have six to seven months to start a new business, market a new product, and learn about the business transactions that go on in the real world.

The business this year, called Four Corner Frames, sells 4-inch by 6-inch picture frames. If anyone is interested in learning more, or is interested in buying a frame, I am ready to answer any questions. You see, I'm taking part in this learning experience myself.

That's all for this week, talk to you soon.

Goose caller wings his way up ranks

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Dale Crites has been a busy young fellow this fall in more ways than one. The son of Doreen and Allan, Dale has become very involved in a hobby that is relatively unknown to our readers but one in which he has acquired much expertise.

On the competition circuit, Dale entered the goose calling classes at three locations. In Toronto, he upped his standing from last year by one to be awarded the fourth prize. At the Upper Canada Bird Sanctuary another fourth prize was earned by Dale. Then at the first Midland Wye Marsh Festival, it was a first prize for Dale.

And with the Crites family still in mind, we offer the three above mentioned members along with daughter Julie much happiness as they move into their lovely new home west of the village on the former Dan McMaster farm.

Heather McCaskill has moved into her recently purchased home and we wish her well. She acquired the home of the late Ben F. and Madeline Villeneuve and has moved there from her apartment on Main St.

A retired school teacher and a resident of the Manor for quite a few years, Harriet Campbell died on the weekend. Originally from the Dunvegan area, Miss Campbell had taught in local rural schools before moving to Cornwall to teach at Central Public School. We extend sympathy to her relatives and friends.

Donald MacLean has a pair of cardinals at his feeder these days. Apparently there was a resident pair of these scarlet birds living in the wooded area of the MacEwen subdivision this summer and hopefully they raised young which will appear at the feeders.

The snow cover on Monday increased the activity at the feeders. We must have about three dozen house finches which indicates a large increase in numbers over the summer.

It has been reported that the white snowy owls from the Arctic are moving in early this year. They are lovely large birds who move south in search of prey.

It may be of interest to some to know more about those who enjoyed the Young-at-Heart euchre parties while the weather was favorable. Many were local players, including two or three from the Manor but they also came from Monkland, Finch, Vankleek Hill, Apple Hill, Alexandria, Martintown, Moose Creek, Morrisburg, Avonmore, Dunvegan and St. Andrews.

Thirty women and 24 men received prizes for their top scores.

Gladys Barton from Vankleek Hill held the queen euchre title for the season but Gloria Rolland was almost ready to displace her by the end of the season.

The king euchre designation was held by three over the season. First, Norman MacLeod, Dunvegan, was out in front, then George Jackson, Monkland, took over for a while and then finally, Chester Valley, Moose Creek, held it for the latter part of the season.

The parties will resume in the spring when danger of snowstorms has passed.

Phyllis Burtenshaw, Seniors' Outreach Services co-ordinator at the Manor has had a request for swimming once a week in Cornwall. If there are others who would be interested in forming such a group, Mrs. Burtenshaw can schedule a weekly trip to Cornwall using the brand new van that was recently put into service at the Manor. All those interested are invited to phone Mrs. Burtenshaw at 527-2170.

Village councillors Ruth MacQueen and Ronald MacDonald are in charge of the recreational activities for the village. They have a winter carnival in mind and would like to receive offers of help for it as well as suggestions for activities at carnival time.

Also, they would like to hear from seniors concerning the activities they would like to have planned for them.

All suggestions may be written down and placed in the box at the post office or the staff at the village office will take them.

Seldom does this correspondent respond to a village activity in a negative way but the Santa Claus parade last Saturday was not well supported by village organizations. This is one event that should be supported by many for promotional purposes and this year it was obvious that only a few took an interest in supporting the project.

The afternoon was a bit windy which made the day appear colder. The parade started right on time and followed the route that had been described. Santa Claus looked sharp and ready for a busy season, on his high seat on a fire truck.

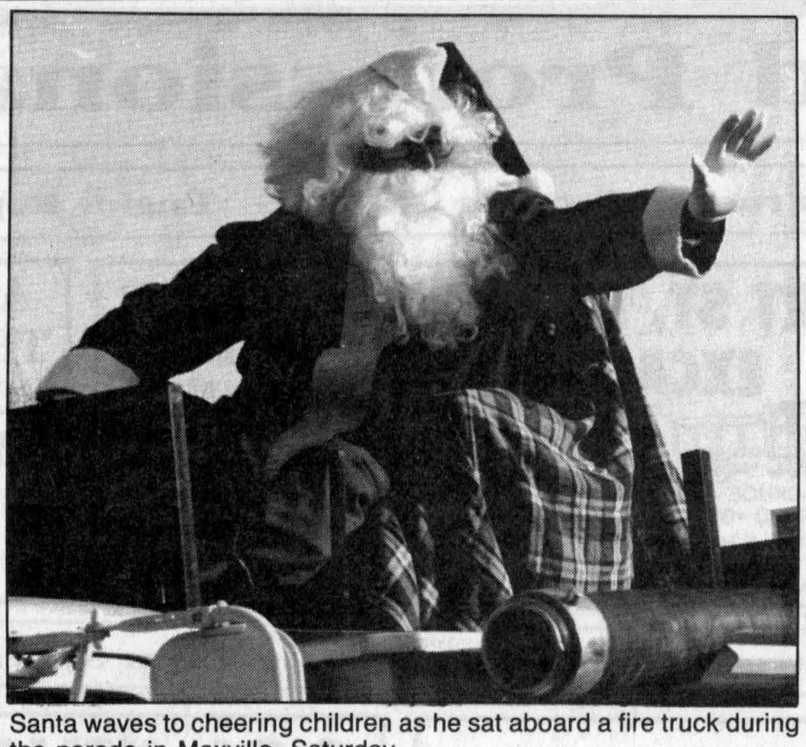
Certain members of the Horticultural Society went to considerable work in preparing the float which earned first prize. The first Maxville Brownies and Guides received second prize and the St. James Church Sunday School was awarded third.

Other groups who participated were the Beavers, Cubs and Scouts, Ruby's, Rei-Jan's and Cheryl's, Highland Toyota and the Maxville Firemen.

The organizers are grateful to, as well, all those who assisted and they include some firemen, members of the OPP, members of the Lions Club and Santa Claus who had Maxville on his visiting list.

At the reception in the Sports Complex after the parade, the children enjoyed refreshments and a visit with Santa.

Thanks to the MacEwen family, there were two door prizes for the children. Matthew St. Louis received a toboggan and Daniel MacGregor a sleigh.



Santa waves to cheering children as he sat aboard a fire truck during the parade in Maxville, Saturday.

Seventy years ago, Johnson Hoople and his son Clark, purchased the property on Main Street that had been owned by Hugh McLean, father of the late W. S. McLean, long-time postmaster. The store part, which is now Ruby's Country Store, sold furniture and housed Mr. McLean's undertaking establishment. The house is now occupied by Eileen and George Colbourne. The buildings would have been about one year old since the fire of 1921 had cleared both sides of Main St. from the track south to this corner.

Master Linton McLeod who injured himself at the High School was a brother of Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve.

Forty years ago, there was a very active Glengarry Club in Toronto. At that time, Donald John Kippen, late of this village, became its new president, taking over from the late John MacRae, a native of Dunvegan West.

Counties may cut road crew

United Counties may cut its road foremen crew down from four to three with the retirement in May of Hugh MacDougall as supervising foreman of Finch patrol.

Williamsburg Township Reeve Johnny Whitteker suggested last week a six-month try-out period with three foremen, as a cost-cutting measure.

He asked County Engineer Donald McDonald if sub-foremen could fill in for foremen on some road patrols.

McDonald said on some road crews substitution would be impossible because "one of our sub foremen can't read."

Mountain Township Reeve Ewart Simms suggested air conditioning be added to four diesel tractors the county roads department ordered for $111,296 from Eagle Farm Equipment in Winchester.

"Air conditioning costs $600 extra per tractor," Simms pointed out "We should include air, these tractors are used in high summer for grass cutting."

The roads department also ordered two three-quarter-ton diesel crew cab trucks from Edwards Ford, Kingston for a total tender price of $47,334.
