GLENGARRY IN BRIEF

News office closed for holiday Monday

The offices of The Glengarry News will be closed on Thanksgiving Monday, Oct. 12.

Please note that the classified advertising deadline has been moved up to Friday, Oct. 9 at 1 p.m. The deadline for display ads is 3 p.m.

Correspondent's copy deadline is noon on Friday.

Council meetings moved to Tuesday

The council meetings for South Glengarry and North Glengarry townships will be moved forward a day, so as not to interfere with the Thanksgiving holiday.

The South meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. at the township hall in Lancaster.

The North council will meet at the same time on the same day in the new chambers on the second floor of the township hall.

Wet month puts us past yearly average

The following is the September weather report from George Hambleton of Atmosphere Environment Services in Dalhousie Mills.

September was milder than normal, as were all months this year except for July and August, which were normal.

Precipitation was 972 mm (38 inches) for the first nine months of 1998, which is the normal fall for a full year. In September alone, 126 mm (five inches) of rain fell.

The first frost was on Sept. 24 and the last frost had been on May 27, exactly the same dates as in 1997.

The high temperature was 26C (79F) and low was minus-1.5C (29F).

Fall supplement featured this week

The special Fall '98 Home Improvement and Car Care section is included in this week's paper.

This 20-page supplement is full of ideas about preparing your car, home and gardens for the cold months ahead.

There are also several excellent feature articles on special homes and some special people.

Open house at fire hall for fire prevention week

The Alexandria Fire Hall will hold a open house on Oct. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Firefighters will be on hand to answer questions on fire safety and demonstrate fire safety procedure such as the proper use of fire extinguishers.

Sparky will be there with refreshments and door prizes.

Teachers ready to walk out again

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

Secondary teachers within the Upper Canada District School Board walked out last Monday to put pressure on the board to negotiate an end to the labour dispute and hammer out a new contract.

Since then, only one meeting has been held and the union isn't happy about it..

"The teachers are angry, the schools are in turmoil and this board has gone fishing," says Pam Constable, Teachers Negociating Team Chair.

But the board states that it is committed to solving the dispute.

Commenting on the delay for the meetings, negotiator for the board Joseph McKeown says it was simply a matter of scheduling.

"We have commitments to other employee groups besides the secondary teachers."

The union has indicated to its members and to the board that, in the absence of progress in negotiationss, further one-day, escalating strikes should be expected.

"Several strikes and even a full walkout are likely in the coming weeks if this is still where we are. Something has to break the logjam and bring this to a point," said Greg McGillis, President of the District 26 OSSTF.

The next negotiations are scheduled for Oct. 15 and 16.

Alexandria property owners might get police tax rebate

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The dissolvement of the North Glengarry Police Services could mean a tax rebate for Alexandria residents.

SDG Police Services Board chair Charlie Sangster said the ward of Alexandria would no longer have to pay for the entire police services bill.

Alexandria ratepayers dished out $383 each for policing.

Rural areas were charged $90 per household.

"Alexandria would be able to lessen its costs," Sangster said.

As soon as Alexandria is brought under the OPP wing, it will receive the same benefits as the rest of SDG.

A disbandment hearing for the North Glengarry police could be as early as next month.

However, counties co-ordinator Raymond Lapointe said a rebate hasn't been confirmed by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs.

Ratepayers outside Alexandria were allowed a smaller fee because the provincial government installed a transition phase for municipalities which have to pay policing costs for the first time.

It isn't known whether this transition phase will be extended into 1999.

One development that could derail a rebate is the possibility that North Glengarry police officers and a civilian employee are eligible for severances.

Already, some officers have spurned the offer to join the OPP and the North Glengarry Police Association intends to seek severance packages.

Cadet retires with pilot's license

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The skies are beckoning for Curry Hill's Glen Ferlotte.

Ferlotte, 19, is regretfully leaving the 253 Claude Nunney V.C. Air Cadets, but not without achieving his goals.

Ferlotte completed a private pilot's course in Kitchener, Ont. recently, six and half years after joining the Claude Nunney air cadets, based out of Lancaster.

"Ever since I could remember I was amazed with flying. It was really something that fascinated me," Ferlotte said.

If not for the air cadets' program, Ferlotte would not have achieved his objectives so quickly.

Over the years, Ferlotte surmounted every training level until he was ready to accept a glider scholarship in 1996.

With his gliding license, Ferlotte, now a flight sergeant, began instructing during his fifth year, leading up to a memorable last year in 1998.

Ferlotte passed a difficult entrance exam for the power license scholarship. Also during the past year, he was promoted to Warrant Officer Class 2 and finally Class 1, which installed him as squadron commander.

Ferlotte is no longer an air cadet after turning 19 on Sept. 17.

"But I will still be teaching."

Glen Ferlotte of Curry Hill shows his private pilot's licence.

Ferlotte is finishing his last year at Ecole Secondaire Le Relais to obtain an OAC diploma.

From there he will attend community college to enter a commercial pilot's program and possibly a maintenance technician or engineering program.

"I would like to be able to fly and also repair my plane if I have to.

"It would be nice if I decide to become a bush pilot."

Warm, sunny days bring smiles to tourism operators

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Campground and outfitter operators enjoyed a better season than some years past.

"Weather was the factor; business was up a bit," said Mac's Marina owner Richard Bonneville.

He said the pleasant conditions increased his large Montreal clientele to rent a variety of water craft, including fishing boats, pontoons and paddle boats.

"Montrealers account for about 75 per cent of my business," Bonneville said.

Other sectors of his marina attracted about an average amount of business.

"Sales and repairs were up moderately. Boat storage and dockage were about the same."

Another factor that could have been a detriment but actually produced more repair work was the closed season for yellow perch during April and early May.

The new conservation measure did not hurt rentals, but gave more time for anglers to repair their boats, Bonneville said.

Lancaster Park owner Theresa Rock reported a very good year.

"We had more campers this year (than last)," Rock said.

While the weather was a definite factor, she said her guests appreciate the quiet atmosphere.

"We don't put up with noisy people."

As in past years, most of her campers come from outside the immediate area, usually Montreal or Ottawa.

About 10 minutes down the highway, Curry Hill Park experienced an average year, despite a slow start.

"We had lots of rain in June and part of July, there wasn't as many. In August, things picked up, and a little (in September)," said owner Gilles Desrochers.

He said Curry Hill Park depends on overnight stays to stage a successful year. Less than half of his 80 sites are seasonal and are usually occupied by regulars.

Oddly enough, the number of U.S. visitors dropped from last year, instead of increasing because of the favourable rate for American greenback.

"I expected to have more from the States," Desrochers said.

Conversely, the poor rate for the Canadian dollar probably prompted increased cross-country travel.

"I had quite a few from Alberta and B.C., going both (east and west)."

Locals harvest illegal cash crop

By News Staff

Sitting at the coffee table rolling a joint of home-grown pot, Jim doesn't feel he's doing anything wrong.

The first frost has hit Glengarry county. Jim and many other marijuana growers have returned from the fields and riverbanks after harvesting a summer's growth of cannabis.

The extent of Eastern Ontario's marijuana industry is, no doubt, extensive.

On Sept. 24, Hawkesbury OPP, the Eastern Regional Drug Unit and the Pembroke Renfrew Police Service seized more than 9,000 marijuana plants at two undisclosed locations in eastern Prescott County.

Last year between August and October, Glengarry OPP seized more than 1,000 plants. Each plant has a street value of about $500, sometimes more, depending on its maturity.

While no doubt much of the domestic pot industry is bound for the mass market, there are many who grow it to make some fast money and for their personal use.

"I'm not a bad person," says Jim (not his real name). "I happen to enjoy toking after a day's work like many enjoy a cold beer.

"It's (cannabis) part of nature. It's part of human culture."

But not everybody agrees with Jim. In his late 20s, Jim lives with his parents and recently gave up his full-time job.

"I don't want to work for some capitalist who doesn't treat his employees as human beings," he reasons.

Jim could pass for an anarchist -- he acts according to his moral standards and doesn't give much regard for the law.

"They should leave us (marijuana growers) alone and put child abusers in jail."

Without full-time employment and a costly habit to keep up, Jim decided to grow marijuana this year.

Supplied through "a friend", the plants will provide him with some pot

Economic group pushes ahead

The work doesn't stop for the North Glengarry Community Economic Development Group.

The group has several projects pending as members meet Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the former Lochiel Township Hall.

In November the group will circulate a survey to about 600 North Glengarry households.

"We want to see what residents want to happen here in terms of economic development, beautification, etc."

With the survey results, the group will organize its activities to reflect residents' influence.

The group is pushing ahead with plans for an Ice Storm '98 museum.

"We're seeing some real momentum," Gilsdorf said.

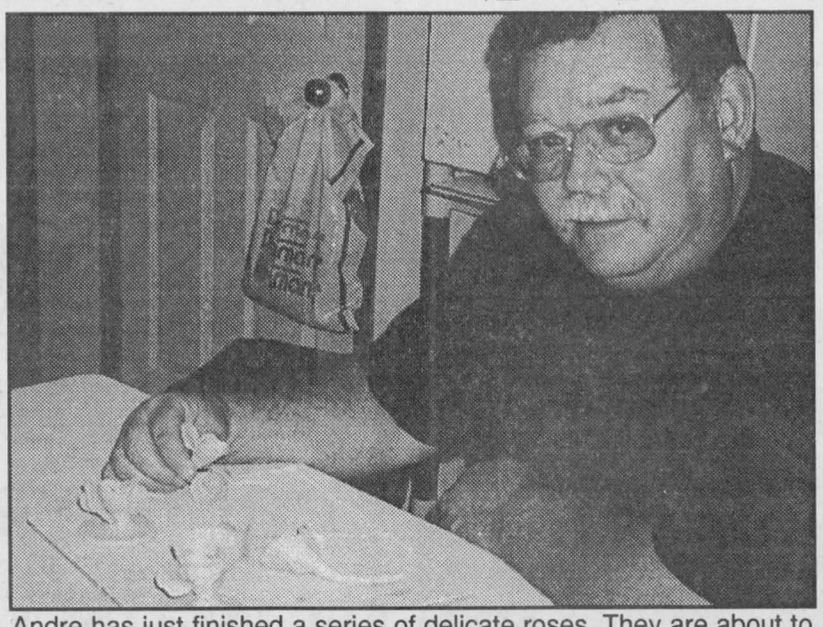
Guild's newest member preparing for show

ARTS SCENE

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338



Andre has just finished a series of delicate roses. They are about to be glazed and fired in time for the Thanksgiving show.

Andre Desnoyers is the newest member of the Seaway Potters Guild.

When I interviewed him, he was busy in his studio preparing for the Guild's upcoming show and sale. This Thanksgiving weekend show has become an annual event at Marlin Orchards on Highway 2.

It is Andre's first. Not only is Andre the newest member, he has only been a potter for about two years.

"I retired a few years ago," Andre told me. "My wife and I went on the Apples and Art Studio tour that year and I watched Barb Porter working on the potters wheel. I knew then that I wanted to try it. It looked easy and fun and I needed something different to do."

Andre claims to have never done anything artistic in his life, and for the short time he has been potting, his work reflects his dedication.

"I keep taking classes," Andre said. "I find that if I worked strictly on my own, I would keep making the same mistakes. It is much easier when the instructor can point out what I am doing wrong. Also, classes provide the opportunity to talk to other potters."

Now don't get me wrong. True, Andre is a beginner, but he produces appealing, clean shapes. His latest – intricate rose he uses to embellish his vases are a delightful contrast to the simpler shape of the vase.

I am guilty of stereotyping at times because I was pleasantly surprised to see that a man who had never done this before could produce such delicate, sensitive roses. After all, clay isn't that easy to manipulate when it is so thin.

"I used to be afraid of showing my work," Andre confessed. "For a while I used to just give them away to family. I was surprised when several pieces of my work sold at the exhibition at the Nor'Wester Museum, so I am looking forward to the Thanksgiving weekend show.

"I don't like hand building," Andre said. "I prefer the wheel. I really am glad I'm a potter. It's relaxing."

Pottery is more than just a hobby for Andre. Most of the basement in his Martintown area home has been turned over to pottery. He has his own electric wheel, electric kiln, lots of shelves for his finished product and rows of glazes.

"I got the whole works from someone going out of business," Andre explained. "As a result, I got a lot of glazes that I might not have otherwise tried. I enjoy experimenting with them. I tend to make my own tools though. That's half the fun."

Andre glazes his work so that it can be used with food. He produces a lot of beautiful bowls that are perfect to hold fruit. One bowl was glazed with a spectacular red, a colour that I haven't seen too often on pottery.

"I might be taking a Raku course soon with Janet Keefe," Andre said. "It requires different clay and a different firing technique."

The Thanksgiving weekend show and sale is the Guild's 13th. Marlin Orchards is a perfect spot.

The show is usually my starting off point for Christmas shopping. Mind, you, some of the things I buy never leave my house. It is exciting to see the many different shapes, colours and approaches to using clay, all in one place. Bravo Andre. I look forward to watching your progress.

The show is open Oct. 10 to 13, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Optimists say thanks

The Alexandria Optimist Club found a tangible way to thank the Alexandria Fire Department for its assistance in the annual rubber duck race fundraiser for the Heart and Stroke Foundation – the Optimists donated $400 to the fire brigade for the purchase of new equipment. Making the presentation are Optimist vice-president Rejean Boulanger and president Diane Viau. On the receiving end are Maurice Lauzon, president of the Alexandria Firefighters Association, and Bernard Lalonde, fire prevention officer.

South Glengarry's October agenda unveiled

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News correspondent

October "activities" in the township of South Glengarry were outlined in memoranda to council by the municipality's department heads at the Sept. 28 meeting.

In the South Glengarry roads department, superintendent Ewen MacDonald reports the following projects will be undertaken this month:

Topping up winter stone dust materials at various county garage facilities; the Fallowfield Road reconstruction project (ditching and widening); the Street Road (also ditching and widening); the Frog Hollow Bridge approach (re-establishing the grade from the approach going north, and re-instating the guard rail); improvements to the site lines at the South Service Road and 3rd Line Road; completion of maintenance and safety certificate on the municipal fleet in preparation for winter, and construction of a sidewalk in Glen Walter from the Rae Road to the fire station.

Brent Daigle, Director of Parks and Recreation, reports his staff, in addition to operating the usual winter programs at the South Glengarry Recreation Centre in Williamstown, will assist with the construction of a storage facility for the Green Valley Community Centre; construct and install rink boards for Green Valley and assist with the relocation of the lighting system; assist with the installation of a new sound system at the arena; install an irrigation system for the main soccer field at Char-Lan High School in Williamstown and work on acquiring a lighting system for the same soccer field.

Students leave for Chile

BY SANDRA BERRY
News Reporter

Students of Ecole Secondaire Le Relais in Alexandria headed to South America on Saturday to meet up with over 250,000 other youths in Chile where they will share both hard work and spiritual gratification for one week.

The group of students and adults are hosted by Chilean families in central Santiago.

Leaving from Glengarry were Stephane Aubin, Daniel Brunet, Sebastien Lambert, Luc Larocque, Rachelle Leblanc, Alain Legault, Martine Poirier, Marie-Claude Seguin, Brenda Van Sleeuwen with accompanying adults Marie-Anne and Maurice Gauthier, Father Stephane Bouchet and Father Marcel Larouche.

Also participating on the journey are Pierre-Luc Bazinet, Lise Belanger, Annie Gagne, Genevieve Grandmont, Daniel Leger, Andre Robert, Marie-Claude Robert, Joel St-Marseille, Yves Thauvette from Ecole Secondaire La Citadelle and Alain Gauthier of Kanata accompanied by Daniel and Denise Thauvette of Cornwall.

Keeping Health In Mind

"Keeping Health in Mind" is a monthly newspaper column made possible with the help of Rozon Insurance Brokers, The Glengarry News and the clinical staff of Tri-County Mental Health Services, a community program of the Cornwall General Hospital.

UNDERSTANDING AGING - COPING WITH CARING

In today's society, we see an ever changing commitment to long-term care of the elderly. We have seen a shift from institutional care to a less formal arrangement of community care. Spouses and adult children now have an increased role in the care of their loved ones. If you care for your ailing partner or parent, the following information may be of interest to you.

In the spring of 1993, Tri-County Mental Health Services identified a need for support and education for informal caregivers and approached the Eastern Ontario Health Unit. Health Unit staff researched and developed the program to include a series of 6 weekly educational sessions. These sessions are designed to be flexible and meet the needs of the caregivers in the group. Some of the topics include communication, family dynamics, healthy aging mental health and community resources.

The program was piloted in the fall of 1993 in Alexandria. Today, groups are offered in five of the Health Unit Offices: Cornwall, Alexandria, Hawkesbury, Casselman and Winchester. It is estimated that over 250 caregivers have been reached through this valuable program. Other senior support services, including Tri-County Mental Health Services and Community Care Access Centre have been instrumental in providing referrals for families in need of support and education to take on the caregiver role.

With the autumn season upon us, we are again offering the Coping With Caring Program in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties. If you require information on this program or other Health Unit programs, call Health Line at 1-800-267-0852.

WONDERWORD

HOW TO PLAY: First read the list of words, then look at the puzzle. The words are in all directions — vertically, horizontally, diagonally, backward. Circle each letter of a word found and strike it off the list. The letters are often used more than once, so do not cross them out. It is best to find the big words first. When you find all the words listed in the clues, you'll have a number of letters left over that spell the Wonderword.

GLENGARRY SCENE

Big bike, big money, good cause

The team from Glengarry Memorial Hospital gets pumped up for a ride on the 30-seat big bike in Alexandria on Saturday afternoon. Team GMH was one of four groups of pedal-pushers who took a turn on the oversized bike, all while raising funds for the Heart and Stroke Foundation. Also taking part in the event in Alexandria were the BIA and Chamber of Commerce and the Royal Bank and Friends. In Lancaster, the Wee Ceilidh restaurant and Lancaster OPP combined forces to make the big bike go. Event organizer John Hope says early indications are that last year's fundraising total of $6,000 will be matched again this year.

Growing marijuana on own property is a risky business

Before setting out to plant them in the bush, he purchased some fertilizer.

"Everything you need to grow pot is at the local garden centre."

He planted them in a bush next to a riverbed and has been out almost every week to check them out.

"It's a lot of fun, but very time consuming."

Caring for the illegal plants takes a little more work because Jim has to walk out to the secluded area, which takes him about an hour for one round trip.

"I can't use an (all-terrain vehicle) because I would risk losing the plants to thieves or cops."

Jim is thankful to mother nature this year for providing a beneficial supply of precipitation. Nonetheless, he had to make trips to clip his plants.

"This way, the buds have more sunlight, growing bigger and more potent. "

After all, it's those buds that matter to a pot smoker, not the leaves nor the height of the plant.

"It's the chemical (tetrahydrocannabinol) in the buds that make you high."

Jim has harvested about 15 plants and handed them back to "a friend" for drying and cleaning.

"I can't do this at home because of my parents."

Because this is his first year at growing the weed, he doesn't know exactly how much marijuana he will get in return.

"We just handed them back so I won't know for a little while."

In the meantime, Jim is "fronting" or receiving some pot until his crop has dried.

Trying to make a fast buck

Although he is not a pot smoker, Al (not his real name) says he's willing to take the risk to make tax-free money.

"I will occasionally take a toke, but I never developed a liking for smoking up," Al says.

Al treats it as a business deal. He gets the plants from "a friend" which he plants in a field full of foot-high corn.

"I simply have to plant them somewhere, let them grow, pick them out of the ground and hand them back to get my money."

But he was fooled by the early corn harvest this year.

"When I got to the field, everything was bare."

It was an error of timing, but sometimes it's scavengers who reap the profits.

On previous occasions, some of his magical crop were stolen.

"One year, I came to pick up this beautiful plant and it was gone. All that was left were shoe prints."

"I certainly can't report the theft to the cops."

Although Al had an idea of the thief's identity, he did not approach the person.

"I don't have proof. I can't knock on his door asking to see his sneakers."

It's a risky business. Not all of the marijuana that he plants makes it back to the friend's hand after harvest.

Nonetheless, Al maintains the routine. Even though he might not make money one year because the crop has "disappeared", he doesn't lose much.

"It only cost me a walk through the field."

Although marijuana cultivating could cost him a criminal record, he doesn't think it's a possibility for him.

"Who's going to call the cops on a guy taking a nature hike?"

Since he doesn't plant the weed on his property he doesn't worry about a seizure.

"If the cops find it, they simply do what they have to do it with it and I'm not even in the picture."

Glengarry OPP officers take a laissez-faire strategy toward marijuana cultivation.

"We appeal to the public for assistance," said Const. Hugh McClements.

He said the detachment does not actively search for cultivations, and investigates on an as-needed basis.

More active are two other specialized police groups: the Regional Task Force, which is a consortium of police services, including the RCMP, and the Eastern Regional Drug Unit, a partnership of the OPP and the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Police Service.

"We run an eradication program," said Detective Staff Sergeant Rick Burgess.

The drug unit utilizes helicoptors to scan the countryside below, looking for the tell-tale pockmarks in a sea of corn.

"We also develop leads on the ground from local detachments," Burgess said.

With last week's giant Hawkesbury bust, he said the total amount seized by the drug unit is more than $15 million worth. There are no suspects.

Unlike Al, there are others who risk planting the stuff on their property and storing it there as well. These are the people we read about when "the OPP drug unit" makes busts.

Such was the case with Bainsville residents Gerald Robert Stevens, 52, and Bruce Knox, 43.

The two were arrested last fall for growing 108 pot plants, which would have yielded 15,650 grams, a street value of about $150,000, Const. McClements said.

Both were convicted of cultivating under the Drug Substance Act on Sept. 24. Stevens was sentenced to three months in jail. Knox, 43, was fined $750 and placed on four months probation.

A cultivating conviction usually leads to a prison term for repeat offences. Stevens is a repeat offender.

Cultivators can also be charged with possession and depending on the circumstances, trafficking.

Local police are aided by the services of Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers, who actively seek tips of plantation locations.

"And sometimes we get calls right at our (detachment) office," Const. McClements said.

Larger cultivations, logically, are more easily found.

Crime Stoppers' national office has initiated a program that relies on aerial observation -- Operation 'Pot Spot'.

Crime Stoppers encourages aviation enthusiasts and agriculturalists to inform them of any suspicious activity or observations.

Marijuana plants can be readily spotted from low- to medium-flying planes.

Flyers should note the location by using the Global Positioning System or its grid reference from a topographical map, street address or lot and concession number.

Farmers are urged to report marijuana growing alongside crops.

Federal government and businesses provide Internet to two sites in Alexandria

Literacy centre and library get connected

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Internet on-line access improved by two more sites Monday in Alexandria.

A La P.A.G.E. and the Alexandria library both received Internet capability, thanks to the federal government and two Alexandria businesses: Glen-Net Communications and Info Avenue.

The Internet will further adult francophone literacy education for A La P.A.G.E. (programmation alpha pour gens exceptionnels) students, said co-ordinator Suzanne Labelle.

Students will become familiar with the Internet's advantages in research and life skill applications, such as job searching.

Labelle said a partnership has been formed with Ecole Secondaire Le Relais to tutor her clients.

"We're going to have Grade 11 and 12 students give assistance," she said.

The Internet instruction won't begin for a couple of weeks because Labelle hasn't finished advertising its availability. The centre is located at 90 Main St. South next to Sears.

Local MP Don Boudria was on hand, with Glen-Net Communications owner Eric Covington, to hand over a $15,000 cheque from National Literacy Secretariat program.

Glen-Net Communications will contribute server time at no charge for A La P.A.G.E. and the Alexandria library, which officially went on-line Monday.

A minimal cost will be charged for A La P.A.G.E. users during the evening.

Although the federal government did not provide a grant for the library, Boudria did present a plaque of commendation to SDG Library Board chair John Hope.

"It is the federal government's intention to have Internet access at every school and library in Canada," Boudria said.

He also noted that Canada is arguably the country with the most computer connections.

Librarian Darlene McRae said many patrons have asked to use the Internet, only to be told it wasn't available.

Info Avenue owner Louis O'Byrne donated a computer system, which otherwise would have cost the library about $1,500.

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria presents a $15,000 cheque to A La P.A.G.E. co-ordinator Suzanne Labelle and board chair Claude Brunet to set up Internet access, provided freely by Glen-Net Communications owner Eric Covington. About half an hour later, the Alexandria library went on-line. Library board chair John Hope plugged into Boudria's website and saw the A La P.A.G.E. announcement had already been posted. Also shown is Info Avenue owner Louis O'Byrne, who donated the computer, and librarian Darlene McRae.

OPP officers honoured with citations

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Members of the Glengarry OPP detachment will be among those honoured Wednesday at the 1998 OPP Awards ceremony.

Detective Constable Chris McDonell, Senior Constable George Johann and Staff Sergeant Gord Luloff will receive medals and citations.

Det. Const. McDonell will be recognized for achieving 30 years of service.

He will be awarded the police exemplary service medal with a first bar.

Const. Johann will accept the service medal for 20 years service.

Staff Sgt. Luloff will receive a commissioner's citation for his community service during the ice storm.

Other area residents receiving honours will be Vankleek Hill area residents, retired Const. Verne Gilkes (30 years service) and Champlain Township Mayor John Wilson (community service).

Tough choices facing councils

Now that the true costs of provincial government downloading of costs and services onto the municipalities are beginning to be known, it is obvious that municipal governments face serious challenges in keeping tax rates down.

This year property owners have been hit doubly hard because of the impact of Market Value Assessment (MVA), a system which has sent shock waves through the community.

Substantial tax increases have been imposed on many residential and commercial property owners despite the fact that many municipal councils have not increased their budgets.

Municipal governments are being forced into making hard decisions on what services can be provided with the tax money currently available.

Yet, it is the councils at the local levels who must face the wrath of irate residents who blame them for the hike in tax bills. While this might not be fair, it is to be expected.

In North Glengarry last week, a tempest in a teapot erupted over rumours that the library in Dalkeith was on a hit list for closure. It turned out this was not the case, but does point to a future where citizens will have to decide what services they can or are willing to pay for.

Gone are the tax-and-spend days that led us down a long road of heavy debt and taxation that nearly bankrupted the country by the start of this decade.

Sadly, it is too late to lay blame and we cannot turn back the clock. What we should have learned is we cannot live on an unending line of credit without having to pay the bills.

And while we have reached the saturation point for credit, we have at the same time reached our limit of taxation, even if some politicians and special interest groups think otherwise.

Debt and taxation are the two culprits that must be tamed if this country is going to maintain any kind of decent living standard. The reality is that we simply cannot afford any further tax loads regardless of where they come from or for what noble cause they are intended.

Already hard choices have been made in some instances. The Ontario government made good on promises to cut welfare costs along with a reduction of 30 per cent to personal income taxes.

The problem with the first measure is that it attacked a very small part of the problem. The province should be looking at other areas for savings rather than simply picking on those who can least defend themselves.

Real tax cuts should have come in the form of sales tax relief which further erodes the value of money that has already been taxed.

Now we have been forced into the position of paying still more while getting less for our money. It will take some very determined people at the local level to guide their communities through what will invariably be seen as tough times.

We must face the fact that we might have to sacrifice some services in order to preserve others. The question is what are we prepared to give up and not what we are determined to keep.

Drugs grown in county with near impunity

If the war on drugs, boldly launched and re-launched in both Canada and the United States during the past two decades, is really a war then the battle has been lost.

And if it is lost, it has not suffered defeat in one or two major battles. Instead it appears to dying an ignominious death, due in large measure to public apathy, government intransigence and a sense that the foot soldiers on the front lines have also clued in to the fact they might be the only ones who care.

A story in this edition of The Glengarry News appears to substantiate the premise that the battle, if there ever really was one, is over.

The war on drugs is a myth that should be put to rest once and for all. Resources wasted on a lost battle could be used elsewhere.

Sure we patrol the land with helicopters and we have special drug units and task forces and what have you, but it all appears to be a half-hearted, lame attempt at containment at best.

It is somewhat reminiscent of how the Americans were reacting on the ground during the dying weeks and months leading up to their defeat in Vietnam.

The more it became evident that they were losing war, the more they took up defensive positions and slowly abandoned the battlefield.

What is interesting about the Canadian version of the war on drugs is that it has been the courts that have decided selling marijuana, for example, really isn't all that serious. The courts have not backed up the laws of the land and have been meting out sentences, if and when someone is charged, that make a joke of the entire process.

That being the case, why should the police care? Why should they even try?

In our rush to be forward thinking, liberal and cognizant of the rights of everyone, we need only look to neighbourhoods and communities overrun by drug dealers and users.

What makes much more sense is to end this phony war and channel the resources to other uses that have some chance of success.

Let's not confuse young with smart

THAT'S LIFE

BILL MCINTYRE

To be educated and to be smart are not synonymous. One does not necessarily follow the other.

The Merriam-Webster dictionary defines educate or educated as "to develop and cultivate mentally; to train, discipline, instruct."

Smart, meanwhile, is defined as: "mentally quick, clever, knowing, intelligent." See the difference?

What these definitions reveal is that people can be trained to perform tasks, such as putting computers together, driving a machine, solving mathematical puzzles, playing a musical instrument. Any number of things. That's education. Most of us have some of it to a greater or lesser degree.

But smart? Well, that's another thing entirely. Smart is being able to size up a situation and know what to do. Smart is seeing an opportunity that others cannot see and seizing it.

Smart is also being able to look ahead and ponder how any given activity might impact on us and others around us. It is similar to discernment

Discernment is defined as "revealing insight and understanding." It is not taught from a textbook. You cannot take Smart 101. It is something only time and living and mistakes, consequences and years can bestow upon us.

Even then, not all older people are smart and not all younger people are dumb. Smart is like that. Fickle.

Generally speaking, however, older people are smarter than younger people. Why? Because they have experience. Get the connection?

Today, young people are better educated than young people were in the past. Generally, they have better language skills and even know how to demand their rights. They learned that on television. Do better language skills and life experiences based on television cartoons, sitcoms and and computer skills make them smarter? No.

Which brings us to the subject of hunting and the placing of guns in the hands of 12-year-old children.

Can children of 12 be trained to handle guns safely? Sure. Can they be taught to identify a target before shooting? Presumably. How about hunting laws? Sure.

In times not long past fathers tended to hand down these skills to their children. Fathers learned from their fathers. And it seemed to work.

If the children's fathers respected the land, the lives of others and appreciated the responsibility they had in using weapons that kill, their children tended to adopt similar traits.

But do we think a 12-year-old can really be trained to discern the dangers of taking a pot shot at a noise in the bush? Do we really believe that when a group of boys get together their training will kick in and prevent them from doing something foolish?

I must admit that I am always pleasantly surprised to hear how many young people can express themselves, argue a point and make reasoned statements.

Do these things show them to be educated or discerning? I would suggest the former. Children of that age are simply not ready to make the sound or correct choices.

Will arming them at age 12 make them better and safer hunters? Perhaps. But to burden them with that responsibility might not be fair.

How many times have you seen groups of young boys carrying BB or pellet guns shooting at songbirds in your neighborhood? I have also seen the carnage left behind.

Where are the parents of these children in teaching them the difference between killing song birds and game birds? Will they do any better if armed with a .22 calibre rifle?

We live in an area where many, many parents have abrogated their responsibility to discipline and teach their children. That is common knowledge.

Arming 12-year-olds is not a good idea. Give them a chance to mature just a little more. It won't hurt them one bit.

GREG PEERENBOOM

Last week's news that Domino's Pizza head domino Tom Monaghan was renouncing his worldly possessions -- a rather otherworldly $1 billion -- reflects the flawed system of distributing wealth in a capitalist society.

It inspires praise, possibly indifference and even condemnation.

My first reaction was to applaud. What an admirable thing to do!

The cynical, of course, will shrug their shoulders -- What's another billion bucks these days? It's only a drop in the bucket toward making the world a better place.

Secretly, I believe many of the super rich who no doubt laid anchor beside Mr. Domino's yacht will condemn this act of super philanthropy.

Some of them will feel a guilty twinge (I hope) as charitable organizations look their way for more offerings. Media might start asking, "What about you?"

At least Ted Turner is safe. He promised to annually give millions to the United Nations.

Mr. Domino, a devout Catholic, plans to build dozens, possibly hundreds of schools under that faith.

Not that's any thing wrong that, but talk about tripping over the potatoes to get at the carrots. In other words, he could have spread the wealth around a little better than that.

What about all the people without adequate health care? Or those so disadvantaged that they can't afford post-secondary education, no matter what their faith?

Of course, if Mr. Domino had not read the works of Mr. Narnia, aka C.S. Lewis, he'd probably be still raking in the big dough while his pizza drivers continue to rip down neighbourhood streets to deliver pizza within a half-hour, as advertised.

Still, the whole notion of philanthropy could only exist to such an extent because of our capitalist economy.

The relative handful of entrepreneurs who make it really big, like Mr. Domino, receive, in my opinion, a ridiculous cut of the profit.

How many times have you asked yourself, what could you possibly do with $1 billion?

When the Lotto 6-49 reaches more than $10 million, people who otherwise rarely buy, start invading ticket outlets. As if $12 million would make any more difference to your life than $4 or $5 million.

Of course, I'm basing my assumption from a lower middle class perspective.

Those who enter the world of high finance and big stakes are of a different ilk. Making money is the driving force in their lives.

That's all well and fine, but does that mean those with the most control should receive an obscene share of the pie?

It certainly doesn't benefit society.

Not long ago, it was determined the combined wealth of all the billionaires in the U.S. equalled the total income of the bottom half of the population.

Big-time executives who hold large stock options certainly like rising stocks. Dropping share values are often halted and then reversed by an executive decision to trim expenses by laying off workers.

For the sake of profits, the sawmill in Dalkeith was -- here comes that infamous word -- 'downsized' to increase profitability.

It seems rather ironic that government employs various sets of regulations to monitor business, and yet is powerless to stop huge corporations from disrupting lives.

The very fabric that binds every community -- the family unit -- is always at risk by those intent on padding their wallet by another few billion.

Rather than depend on the sporadic charity attempts of billionaires, one wonders if government could not implement a better profit sharing that would benefit all.

Canadians discontented by changing times

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

BLAIR WILLIAMS

There is an air of barely suppressed outrage in the pages of many community newspapers these days. In recent weeks there has been clear evidence of this discontent in the letters to the editor in The Glengarry News

Two weeks ago Peter Zuuring wrote a passionate letter taking The Glengarry News and local politicians to task on the issue of property taxes. Gwen Morris has weighed in criticizing the provincial government for the turmoil in schools and defending our teacher.s There has been a running battle between the Catholic hierarchy and other over whether Catholic run hospitals should be closed as part of hospital restructuring. And Phil Vitone, in a long letter to the News, is annoyed at what he sees as the "chainsaw art" of the "political thugs" who currently run the provincial government.

The reason for the evident discontent is not that hard to figure out. It's change. It's political, economic and social change that is now hitting home at the grass roots level. What people are really trying to determine is whether the current changes are justified and, if they are, whether they are being managed well or badly.

Governments everywhere are trying to deal with debts, deficits and public finances in a way that is now having a direct impact on ordinary people. Clearly the Ontario government believes that in past years there has been too much spending, too much reliance on government and, as a result, taxes are too high. This is a belief that is widely shared throughout the world where governments have moved in directions that are more reliant on free market forces and less inclined to depend on government intervention.

It is this will to change on the part of the Ontario government that is the source of current public dissatisfaction. And the impact of the changes aren't everywhere to be seen. Schools are being closed, staff is being laid off and there is deep hostility between unionized teachers and the Ontario government.

Hospitals are being consolidated and transformed into a system with less beds and more reliance on home care. The widespread amalgamation of local governments has been accompanied by dramatic changes in property assessments and taxes paid. Even local libraries that are administered by the United Counties are being consolidated in order to reduce the pressure on municipal budgets.

A lot of these changes are hard to take and even harder to explain. Are they really necessary or are they the result of a government running amok? Are we being "restructured" because it suits the agenda of free market zealots clustered around Mike Harris or are these essential changes that have been put off too long?

It's hard to know where to start when analyzing the roots of our current problems and the reasons specific changes may or may not be needed. However, it does seem that there is more here than a misguided provincial government that has

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Some Alexandria officers will join the OPP force

To the editor,

As per your article in The Glengarry News dated Sept. 30, entitled "Town Police Reject OPP" employment.

I am quite concerned and distraught that this article made it to The Glengarry News without any input from most of our Association members. I for one and others from our police service will be joining the OPP.

I feel that this article put in your paper was not truthful. Anyone not wanting to join the OPP is throwing away a good job opportunity.

This letter is not to offend anyone on the North Glengarry Police Association but to inform them that there are other people on the association who were not consulted before this statement was released.

I believe that all parties involved should be informed as to what is being done. It is quite unsettling to have to read about it in the newspaper.

Sincerely,
Roger Levert,
Alexandria

Reader enjoys columnists

To the editor,

Thank you for another year of good reading.

I have many reasons for subscribing to The Glengarry News.

First, I turn to Ken McKenna's column which I enjoy immensely. I am very pleased his column will be available in a book and have already ordered one.

I also enjoy Lorna Chapman's column and like her style and intelligent phrasing. I also like to read about the Glengarry Gaelic choir and Lorna usually tells where they are singing or have sung.

Sue Harrington's column is always interesting reading and well written. I'm happy that Gordon Winter is back and look for his comments on bird sightings.

When all is read I settle in to the crossword puzzle.

One thing that I have not seen and have been looking for in Auld Lang Syne is something about "The Haymakers," a band my father (Ivan MacDonald) played the fiddle for during the late 1930's.

Thanks again, much enjoyed.

Sincerely,
Marion MacDonald Whitton

We can't afford to let VON go

To the editor,

I would like to voice my support for the VON's, a group of dedicated people who give far more than they receive.

Several years ago, my father-in-law underwent surgery and was sent home with VON care.

For the first few days, they were there twice daily. We all thought he was cared for better than in hospital.

I had major surgery a year ago and when I came home I was fortunate to receive the same care from a wonderful nurse and human being.

We cannot afford to let these people down. I appeal to the public to write letters, make phone calls, let us do whatever needs to be done for our VON nurses. We need them!

run off the rails. it is certainly true that the Harris government is sometimes painfully inept and ham-handed in the way it does things, but we can't explain the current disquiet by simply saying that the Ontario electorate made a huge mistake when it elected the ruthless and radical Tories to power more than two years ago.

Rather, it seems to me that we, the citizens of Ontario, are paying a price for our unwillingness to accommodate change in normal times. And a large part of this problem has been our inability to generate and sustain strong, principled leadership in normal times.

As a rule, Canadians are not inclined to want to change things or even think about the need for change. When it comes to the way things are done in our society, we have a very conservative approach, preferring to simply let things take their course rather than disturb the status quo. There are numerous examples – all the way from the property tax system to reform of our national institutions of government – where we have failed to take seriously the need for change.

Moreover, as a rule Canadians have been content to tolerate too many politicians who are only interested in the political game and perpetuating themselves in power. To a large extent, our history has reflected a willingness to support political representatives who are inclined to put off tough decisions while bribing citizens with their own money at election time.

So, I would argue that to understand the tensions we are experiencing today we should start by looking in our own backyard. We have to examine our own attitudes, what we expect from our leaders and our willingness to embrace new approaches in normal times.

Solution sought in school battle

To the editor,

The following letter was also sent to: Marc Schaefer, Head of the Upper Canada District School Board Negotiating Team and Tom Nephin, Head of the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Teachers' negotiating Team.

The School Council of Glengarry District High School encourages you to keep talking to solve the disagreements that exist between both parties.

It is our hope that with sincere, honest and committed effort from both parties, a solution to the problems, which is acceptable to all factions, can be found.

We are concerned, greatly, about the stress placed on all persons, the teachers, the board members and, most importantly, the students, whose chances of enjoyment and satisfaction at school have been curtailed drastically by these divisive actions.

We would hope that, if this disagreement continues, the students are no loner used as pawns, that all negotiators keep uppermost in their minds that the major reason their jobs exist is to oversee the educational welfare of the young people of our community.

The most disillusioning message the students could receive is to hear that both sides remain intransient and that they, the students, remain the pawns in the middle.

The most positive message that can be given to our young people is to be told that all the problems have finally been worked out through consistent hard work and determination to succeed by both organizations. This result would be a lesson in itself. It would show them that by pulling together, even the most overwhelming problems can be solved.

Impaired driver imprisoned for 1994 accident

Police Briefs

Finally, more than four years later, charges stemming from an accident which resulted injuries, was resolved.

Robert Seguin, 50, of Glen Walter was sentenced in Cornwall court to eight months in prison after pleading guilty to impaired driving and driving while disqualified.

On June 29, 1994, Seguin's car struck another car while travelling on County Road 2, just east of Cornwall.

Two women in the other motor vehicle, ages 18 and 19, were taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital with minor injuries.

Seguin faced two counts of impaired driving causing bodily harm, but they were dropped.

Seguin had to make arrangements to care for his elderly mother.

Impaired driving

An 23-year-old Alexandria man faces impaired driving charges following a suspicious vehicle report.

OPP stopped a blue Pontiac heading southbound on County Road 23 near Glen Robertson, Const. McClements said.

The man will appear in Alexandria court on Nov. 5.

Air bags theft video

A Crime Stoppers video crew was on hand Sept. 29 at Titley Chevrolet-Olds and Alexandria Honda to stage a reenactment.

Last month, thieves broke into several cars at both dealerships to steal air bags.

The video will be shown Oct. 26 on CJOH Ottawa news.

Funding pays for secretary

North Glengarry Police Services received one of the last portions of a an $11,000 grant that will help pay for its full-time secretary.

The secretary position used to be 12 hours before the grant was available from the Partners in Community Safety program of the Ministry of Solicitor-General and Correctional Services.

Chief Paul Deveau said the increased secretarial hours allow officers to perform more patrol duties.

The ministry doled out $1.7 million across the province for the program. The North Glengarry police portion was $791.

Domestic disputes

OPP arrested two men in their 30s over the weekend following domestic disputes.

At a Lancaster residence on Sunday, a 51-year-old woman was cut by a knife.

A 39-year-old male was charged with aggravated assault, assault with a weapon, uttering threats and possession of cocaine.

On Saturday in Glen Robertson, four OPP officers subdued a 35-year-old man after his 26-year-old common-law spouse and two others were assaulted.

The man was charged with three counts of assault and assault on three police officers.

After further investigation, he was also charged with breach of probation. He was placed in Cornwall jail and awaited a bail hearing on Monday.

Electronics targetted

Electronic merchandise was a hot commodity during a break and enter on Sept. 30.

Thieves entered a 4th Concession residence in North Glengarry on Sept. 30 and stole $5,000 worth of items.

Taken were a Toshiba TV and VCR, video palm recorder and bag, a 35mm camera, two rings, loose change, two metal boxes, an underwater video camera and watertight box.

Selective thieves

Thieves broke into seven units at Alexandria Mini Storage on Sept. 28 after 5 p.m.

Nothing was stolen from six units, but a Honda EM1800 generator was taken from one.

Lacombe goes to jail

A Glen Robertson man was sentenced to 30 days incarceration after pleading guilty to possession of stolen property under $5,000.

Denis Lacombe, 41, was charged in November 1995 by Det. Const. Chris McDonell.

Info needed to solve B&E

This week Crime Stoppers is asking for your help in solving a break and enter that occurred between 8:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Oct. 2. Thieves entered and Williamstown house and stole $6,000 worth of property.

Taken were a 21-inch Hitachi TV and VCR, a stereo system, three gold pocket watches, four wrist watches, a Minolta 35mm camera, a Kodak instamatic camera, men's Hed downhill skiis and skiing goggles and mitts.

If you have any information on this or any other crime, you may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Remember: We do not have call display, we do not record conversations and you are always anonymous.

Reward payments are set up to protect anonymity. Call Crime Stoppers, 937-8477 and for long distance calls, 1-800-265-8477.

Correction

There was an inaccuracy in a article published in the Sept. 23, 1998 edition of the News. North Glengarry Police Services Sergeant Jamie MacMaster will not seek employment with the Cornwall or Ottawa-Carleton police departments.

Retired teachers celebrate

The retired teachers of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry celebrated their 25th anniversary with a dinner at the Iroquois Legion hall on Sept. 15. A large number of new retirees attended the gathering and 12 of the organization's past presidents were on hand, including (from left to right) Clifford C. Hart, Lionel Chartrand, Doreen Marcellus, Raynaud Bourdeau, Sister Angeline Moreau, Reta Raymond, Marjorie Thompson, Francine Richer, Veronique Sauvé, Laura Sabourin, Annabel McNaughton and Roland Major.

Pipe to speak in Cornwall Oct. 20

He's well-respected, knowledgeable – and his calendar is splitting at the seams. Getting Dr. Andrew Pipe to speak at the Clear The Air Forum in Cornwall on Oct. 20 was no small feat for the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU), which is coordinating the event.

Pipe, a founding member of the Physicians for a Smoke-free Canada, is director of the University of Ottawa Heart Institute's Smoking Cessation Clinic and the Cardiac Surgery Artificial Valve Clinic.

His interests in physical activity and tobacco addiction show up throughout his bio: Chief Medical Officer to Canada's 1992 Summer Olympic Team, former president of the Canadian Academy of Sport Medicine, Honourary Chair of the Quality Daily Physical Education Committee of the Ontario Physical and Health association.

One of the reasons it may have been so important to Pipe, is this area's smoking statistics. The daily smoking rates in the five counties served by the EOHU are higher than the provincial average.

"He really juggled his commitments to make it here," says Sandra Labelle of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit.

"Dr. Pipe knows what we're up against in this region. And he's prepared to do whatever he can to help improve those statistics by encouraging healthy choices," said Labelle.

Fall from moped causes fatality

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

A Glendale subdivision senior died Oct. 2 four days after he fell off a moped and struck his head.

Willis Masson, 70, was taken to Cornwall General Hospital on Sept. 28. He was then transferred to Ottawa Civic Hospital, said OPP Const. Hugh McClements.

He said Masson was going to pick up his mail on Poirier Street, when his 1985 Honda moped lost control on loose gravel.

Masson fell backward on his head. Unfortunately, he was not wearing a helmet.

"He died as a result of closed head injuries," Const. McClements said.

Cuerrier joins Boudria's staff

Annie Cuerrier, formerly of Alexandria, has joined Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria's staff as a special assistant.

Cuerrier is the daughter of Dr. André and Carmen Cuerrier.

She attended Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry and received an Honours Degree in political science from the University of Ottawa.

Cuerrier will work at Minister Boudria's parliamentary office.

1400 Boundary Rd
Cornwall
YOUR ONE STOP HOME COMFORT SHOP
With the fall season bringing the cooler weather, it's time to start thinking about heating our homes, businesses and cottages. There is a growing consumer interest in oil heat, with conversions to oil from other heat sources increasing dramatically. Oil heat offers homeowners many advantages and J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. is going all out to prove it pays to heat with oil.
Oil heat is safe, it's clean burning, modern, efficient and economical to upgrade. Increasing the efficiency of your present system is often the answer to lower energy costs. An older oil furnace can be upgraded to as much as 25% by replacing the burner. Or perhaps its time for a new modern oil furnace which have efficiency ratings over 80% that can save you up to 50% compared to electric. Add to this an oil fired hot water heater and you'll have hot water 5 times faster than electric and 2 times faster than gas with savings of up to 50% in heating costs compared to electric and 38% savings compared to gas.
J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD., established for 23 years, owned & operated by JACK WARDEN, provide one stop shopping for all your heating & fuel needs. They do it all from installation, to service to maintenance to fuel delivery. Because of the complexity of several operating features on your furnace, a visual inspection will not determine proper operation. J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD.'S trained technicians will give your furnace a thorough check up and make adjustments to ensure peak performance all winter long.
J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. are well known distributors of quality Texaco home heating fuels, gasoline & diesel fuel, motor oils, a complete line of bulk lubricants and greases. They offer high efficiency furnaces, air conditioning, insurance and maintenance plans, equal billing plans, burners, hot water heater rentals and 24 hour emergency service.
Quality product, reasonable prices, fast dependable service, friendly reliable staff. It all adds up to the success of J & G WARDEN PETROLEUM LTD. – yesterday, today & tomorrow.

Ideas for Thanksgiving leftovers and decorating your table

Country Cooking Corner

CAROL KLOOS

Your plans for preparing your Thanksgiving dinner, I'm sure, have already begun.

Besides Christmas, this was our family's favourite time of year. The traditional "turkey" is, as my sister Dona states it, "gathering food."

The meal consisting always of roasted turkey, scrumptious stuffing, gravy, yams, turnips, creamy mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, hot buns and pumpkin pie was never altered by whomever was hosting the holiday feast that particular year and still continues to this day.

I have here for you this week turkey tips and ideas for leftover and an excellent pumpkin pie recipe (with a twist!)

Turkey-Rice Casserole

2 cups cut up, cooked turkey
1-1/2 to 2 cups Uncle Ben's converted rice
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 can, 10-1/2 oz., cream mushroom soup
1/2 soup can of milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 350°F. In a greased 1-1/2 quart casserole, mix all the ingredients together. Cover, bake for 30 minutes until all is heated through and the rice is cooked and tender. Serves 4 to 6.

* * *

Other ideas for turkey leftovers are:

1. Turkey sandwich – with chopped apple, celery, onions, low-fat mayonnaise mixed with a bit of Dijon mustard, sprinkled with lemon juice, add lettuce, all onto a fresh kaiser bun. Enjoy!
2. Add cooked turkey to homemade soup, with some egg noodles.
3. Into a stir-fry with fresh veggies.
4. Add turkey, bite size pieces, into your next batch of spaghetti sauce.
5. A crisp salad with turkey added
6. Or make a "turkey pot pie."

Turkey tips:

•To determine how much to buy (how many pounds) figure 1 to 1-1/2 pounds per person. This amount should be enough for generous portions, plus seconds and leftovers.

•The stuffing can be prepared a day ahead, but don't stuff the bird until just before roasting! Never stuff with warm stuffing, then hold bird overnight before roasting! The turkey cavity can be lined with cheesecloth for easy removal of stuffing. Don't store turkey with stuffing still in! I prefer to serve stuffing separately in a casserole (greased) and covered with foil. Remove stuffing from bird immediately and refrigerate.

•To thaw in fridge, (in original package) place on tray, allow five hours per pound (10 hours per kilo.) To thaw in cold water (in original package) cover with cold water, change water often! Allow one hour per pound, two hours per kilo.

•It is perfectly safe to freeze cooked poultry dishes made with poultry that was originally frozen. But, use immediately when thawed.

* * *

Please note: The last third of the list, concerning which herbs, etc. to use, will be in next week's column.

Here is sumptuous pumpkin pie for your family feast, a little out of the ordinary.

Rum Pecan Pumpkin Pie

1 unbaked 9" pie shell
1/2 cup pecan halves
1-1/2 cups cooked or canned pumpkin (if using homemade, add 1 tbsp cornstarch)
2/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1-1/4 tsp ground cinnamon
1/2 tsp ground ginger
Pinch grated nutmeg
1/4 tsp salt
1 cup milk
1/4 cup dark rum
3 eggs, lightly beaten

Sprinkle pecan halves into unbaked pie shell. Mix pumpkin and sugar until sugar dissolves. Add remaining ingredients, stirring well to blend. Pour into pie shell. Bake in preheated 425°F oven for 10 min. Reduce heat to 350°F and bake 35 to 45 minutes longer, until knife (in center) comes out clean. Serve warm or room temperature, with whipped cream or ice cream. Makes six servings.

* * *

Decorate your table with colourful gourds of different shapes and sizes from your garden or you local supermarket.

I spray my gourds with acrylic and they last most of the winter! Wash and dry them thoroughly first.

Maybe you could hang some eye-catching "Indian corn" on your front door to greet your guests. Add some different shaped and sized candles and tapers in different rooms in your house, or entrance way, being sure they are safely set up and attending to them regularly. This all gives a homey, cozy atmosphere that is quite welcoming.

* * *

Tips and Hints of the Week:

•Whenever you make pumpkin pies or muffins and do not use up whole can, the balance can be easily frozen in air-tight containers for up to one year.

•Add a bit of sugar, to taste, to mashed turnips (this was my mother's idea.) This takes away any bitterness some people don't like. Add a dash of nutmeg, pepper and margarine.

•After a chicken or turkey meal, I don my (throw away) plastic gloves and separate and store any leftover meat. I then place bones, meat scraps, skin, etc. in a large pot, add onion chunks, carrots, oregano, sage, pepper and chopped celery, water to cover. Bring to a boil, then simmer about 2 to 2-1/2 hours.

Strain, retain liquid, throw away bones and veggies. Place pot in fridge overnight. Next day, just skim off fat from surface. Then, your no-fat, homemade broth is ready to use or freeze!

Happy Thanksgiving and happy cooking!

Ste. Therese school bustling with activity

The SD&G Public Library at S. J. McLeod Public School had a successful summer programme this year.

Congratulations to Sarah Ferguson and Shannon Gallagher who won books in a draw held at the library. Congratulations as well to Duncan Ferguson for reaching his reading goal.

A reminder that the library offers internet access, for more information, contact Margaret during library hours at 347-1748.

St. Therese School news

My neighbour, Louise, just dropped off the little school newspaper that Ecole Ste. Therese puts out, and although I would like to report on every event at the school, there simply is not enough room in this column to do so!

Here are some of the highlights:

Thank you goes out to Fathers Eric Roy, Eric Robichaud and Daniel Gauthier for hearing the students' confessions in September; to Paul Poirier, Louise Decoeur and Celine Renaud for taking the time to review school bus safety with all the students; to Louise Secours, Anne-Marie Glaude and Denise Dubeau for preparing a hot dog lunch at the Optimist hall to welcome the students, parents and community members back for the new school year. After lunch, the afternoon was spent playing games and enjoying an assortment of activities, meant to bring everyone together to celebrate the start of the new year.

The week of Oct. 4, will be Fire Prevention Week at the school, a good time for families to review evacuation plans and general fire safety. The students will be encouraged to participate in a Fire Prevention Contest, in which the grand prize is a trip for four to Walt Disney World.

Teacher Appreciation Day is Oct. 5, so best wishes for a wonderful day go out to all the teaching staff.

The week of Oct. 18 will be devoted to making students aware of the dangers that surround us, and how to prevent them (if man-made) or how to deal with them (natural disasters, like the ice storm) when they occur. I hope Madame Lise will forgive me for the direct translation, but the week-long awareness programme is called "Victims of Disaster Week."

Students and staff are thrilled with the newly paved skating rink near the school. The kids will be able to make use of it for "street hockey" or roller blading... in addition to winter sports.

The school is looking for someone to donate a microwave, in order to continue being able to offer students hot lunches.

The following lunch hour clubs will be starting soon – sports club, arts and crafts club, knitting club and the dance club. Thank you to the parent and community volunteers who make this possible.

Winners of the certificate for "A Well Spoken French" for the month of September are: Pre-Kindergarten, Chloe Babin; Kindergarten, Kaitlin Mackay; Grade 1, Zachari Bourdeau, France Campeau, Jenna Desautels, Marie Chamberland and Steve Glaude; Grade 2, Melissa and Vanessa Quesnel; Grade 3, Ghislain Gagnon and Chloe Hurtubise; Grade 4, Samantha Romon; Grade 5, Sophie Quesnel; Grade 6, Rachelle Decoeur; Grade 7, Catherine Vigneault and Grade 8, Marilyn Oliveira.

Congratulations to the following students, the elected members of the Student Council for 1998-99 – President Jocelyn Major; Vice-President Josianne Secours; Secretary Gina Lavigne; Treasurer Lucie Major and Representative Cindy Cholette.

The following 14 members make up the School Council for the 1998-99 school year – elected parents, Diane Glaude, president; Lynne Hurtubise, vice-president; Sylvie-Anne Godbout, secretary; Scott Curran, Luc Decoeur, Denise Dubeau, Pauline Hartwick and Christine Michael. Community reps, Joanne Brabant and Pierre Bourbonnais; teaching staff, Josee Lafontaine; non-teaching staff, Ursulina Oliveira; principal, Lise Prieur; priest, Father Eric Roy.

Counicl members would like all parents to feel free to contact them at any time with any concerns, ideas, suggestions or to simply ask questions. They are there to represent you. In addition to school council, there are 16 sub-committees, run by parents volunteers too numerous to mention individually.

Thank you to all!

Sticker makes smoking point

You can now add a healthy tip to your restaurant bill – one that could make more than your server happy. The entire clientele may thank you too.

The "tip" is a sticker asking the owners to make their restaurant smoke free.

"Most people prefer a pleasant, clean-air dining experience," says Sandra Labelle of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, which is heading the smoke-free sticker effort.

"These stickers allow diners to gently remind restaurant owners of their preference for a smoke-free environment."

The small, label-sized stickers are available free from the health unit, the Lung Association, the Heart and Stroke Association and the Canadian Cancer Society.

For more information about these stickers or other tobacco issues, please call the Health Line at 1-800-267-0852.

Glengarry Visitor Centre needs help

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

There comes a time in one's life when roles become reversed: after years of the parent being responsible for the child, the child begins to look after the parent. (Canadian children's author Robert Munsch say it beautifully in "I'll love you forever.")

Shouldn't it be the same way with countries? When the Scots of Glengarry first came to Canada, there was support given from family members still at home. This continued until the next generation or so, when contact gradually dribbled off.

Last summer, you may remember, Joane Grey Whitmore spent some time here in Glengarry making tentative plans for the Glengarry Visitor Centre in Invergarry, Inverness-shire, Scotland. This centre would house materials relating to the emigration of Glengarry clansmen, as well as stories of the Macdonells of Glengarry and Invergarry Castle, and the history of the Ellice family as landlords in the Glen.

Joane has spent the last five months up in the parent Glengarry, digging into information at the Inverness Library archives and at the West Highland museum in Fort William, to prepare for the pilot project of the centre, slated to run from May to September of 1999.

Now she is looking for help. Donations (another $13,000) towards the project, (which eventually will see an 18th century stable byre next to the Invergarry Hotel turned into a permanent visitor centre) are needed.

A brochure about the centre says, "If you would like to know more about the project or make a contribution, no matter how small, please contact: Mrs. Joane Whitmore, Secretary, Glengarry Visitor Centre Association, c/o Greenfield, Invergarry, Inverness-shire, PH35 4HR."

Joane would also like to hear fro anyone with Glengarry connections, who has information, articles or photographs to donate or lend to the centre.

Williamstowners won't have to worry about a lack of good deeds in the area this year. The 1st Williamstown Brownies are full of little girls all determined to help out at home and in the community. Just so you'll recognize them when they're not in uniform, let's have a few introductions.

Sprites: Amy Carriere, Leah MacGregor, Katie Ball, Hannah Arseneau Danielis, Suzie Leroux and Meghan Sangster.

Elves: Chelsea Danaher, Amanda Lavalee, Jaclyn Cecereu, Shelby Munro, Tara Pelley and Kaitlin Phillips.

Gnomes: Jessica Gibeau, Cally Robidoux, Samantha Below, Maggie Lang, Lindsay Rouleau and Elizabeth Wilson.

Fairies: Kayce Dixon, Amanda Girling, Emily Millar, Cayleigh Bellazzi, Ashley Ross, Krystie Small.

Vicki Hamilton, a Grade 8 student at Williamstown Public is this year's junior leader and is a great help to the Owls – Snowy (Johanne Below) and Brown (Nancy Wilson).

The girls have already had a great initial get-together hike at Cooper Marsh and are planning official enrolment ceremonies on Oct. 28, to which family ad friends are invited.

Upcoming fundraisers include the fall sale of chocolate mint Brownie cookies and the Highland District garage sale taking place Nov. 7 from 10 am. to 3 p.m. at the Alexandria Bowling Lanes. The 1st Williamstown Brownie unit will be having its own table at the sale and all proceeds will go directly to the unit.

Apparently the local Brownies are planning a really special event with the funds that are raised, so you are asked to come out and support the girls.

Is that who I think it is? Those of you who have been thinking a certain solicitor at the APEC hearings looks mighty familiar on television newscasts, are right. It is who you think it is.

Cameron Ward, son of Amy Ward and brother of Bryan Ward, has been interviewed on TV and on radio in conjunction with his work at the hearings currently being held in Vancouver.

Pretty serious stuff it is, too.

The "season" has started: The whiff of fall suppers is in the air. St. Mary's will be holding its annual roast beef supper the week after Thanksgiving on Sunday, Oct. 18, from 4 to 7:30 p.m.

All are invited to attend. "Take out" is also available.

* * *

Can't mention one without the other, it seems. The St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society's annual meeting and dinner is being held on a different weekend than St. Mary's supper this year. (No excuses now!)

The fair board's dinner is for members, (i.e. all of you who bought memberships in order to enter at the fair, or to support the fair) and their guests. If you don't fit into either category, but would still like to attend, please call Bev Runions at 931-3110, before Oct. 16 to make reservations. (if you do fit into the other categories, you still have to phone before the 16th!)

And oh yes, the dinner is being held Friday, Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre.

I can tell it's a long-way-round kind of day today.

Members of the community may be interested to learn that the Manor House is able to seat about 35 people comfortably for lunch at the house.

Manor House committee members in conjunction with local WI ladies hosted a lunch a while back, for a group of "guinea pig" WI'ers from Huntingdon, Que. who were in the area on a shopping tour to Rob mcIntosh China in Lancaster.

It is good to know the numbers that the house can accommodate, and also that such a facility exists for those wanting to book a lunch while on an historic (or otherwise) tour of the area.

* * *

Picnic Grove WI will meet at the Manor House on Tuesday night (Oct. 13) at 7:30 p.m.

Those in attendance are asked to bring an item which auctioneer Flora Dumouchel will appraise.

All area ladies are invited to attend.

* * *

Those of you thinking that bare trees and book sales go together and wondering when the Manor House is holding its annual Book and Bake Sale, take note. This year's sale is slated for Saturday, Nov. 14.

As in years past, donations of books and baking will be greatly appreciated. The goal is to raise $1,000 this year for the house, so please surf those attics and see what tomes you can come up with. (Damp basement books or other mildew mommas gratefully declined!)

To make arrangements for getting your books to the house, please call 347-2279.

The heart-felt sympathy of the community goes out to Susan Edwards and Bruce McRae on the loss of their newborn daughter, Katherine Jane Edwards McRae.

A service for the little one will be held at St. Andrew's United Church in Williamstown this afternoon (Wednesday) at 2 p.m.

Students hit soccer fields today

MARTINTOWN

DIANE VON BORNHOFT
528-4305, Fax 528-4948

Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 4 to 10.

The Martintown Fire Department recommends holding a fire drill with the whole family at least twice a year. Begin the drill by sounding the smoke detector, so that children will recognize the sound it makes and associate it with the idea of an immediate evacuation of the premises.

Your plan must include an outdoor meeting point. Choose a stationary object such as a lamp post, a tree or a neighbour's house. Hold your first one today, Oct. 7, at 6 p.m.

* * *

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be holding its annual Harvest Supper this evening, Oct. 7, from 4 until 7:30 p.m. Prices are the same as last year, $8 for adults, $4 for children 6 to 12 and no charge for children under six. Everyone is welcome.

I know from personal experience that this is an event that shouldn't be missed!

Once you have finished this delicious dinner, you can head over to Martintown Public School where they will be hosting a Thanksgiving bingo, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Prizes will include turkeys and chickens!

* * *

Also in the news from the school, students will be taking part in soccer tournaments today, the juniors in Lancaster and the seniors in Williamstown.

School photos have been rescheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 21.

Orders are being taken for Martintown Grist Mill sweaters. The cost is $20 for sweatshirts and $10 for T-shirts. These will be shipped in time for Christmas. You may call the school, 528-4423, for further details.

Please don't forget to save Campbell soup labels, grocery tapes, Canadian Tire money as well as M and M point for the school. This year, they will also be collecting UPC symbols from the bottom flap of any kellogg products as part of the "Education is Tops" program which will provide computer resources and nutritional education materials for the school.

Back in August, I wrote about Kristi Runions, who was leaving to join the Katimavik group of Heritage Canada, n organization which does volunteer work in communities across Canada.

For the past six weeks, Kristi has been in Abbotsford, B. C. The first two weeks of orientation included a little sightseeing, visiting Cascade Falls, Hillcrest Lake and an Abbey in Mission, B.C.

Her volunteer work has included planting a garden of fast-growing plants, painting rooms at the Arts Council, putting up a fence at the Salvation Army, painting the office at the Salvation Army and winterizing the garden at the museum.

They are also planning a haunted house for Halloween at the museum. Kristi is currently assisting the Grade 1 and 2 teachers at a local school. In their group, they take turns with the shopping, cleaning and cooking. With no television, their spare time is taken up with language courses, going for walks and spending time together. Soon they will be spending a couple of weeks with host families in Abbotsford.

This is proving to be an invaluable experience for these young people. In November, Kristi's group will move on to Kapuskasing, Ont. I'll bring you further news on her adventures in the near future.

The members of the Martintown Women's Institute met on Sept. 17 at the Community Centre.

The roll call "A cure for the blues" brought forward many interesting cures.

A short business meeting was followed by a very informative and interesting talk by Sandy McGillis on organ donation. She pointed out how important it is to discuss this with your family and let them know your wishes.

Members were then treated to refreshments provided by Hazel Driscoll, Muriel Elms and Irene West. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 15 at 1:30 p.m. at the community centre. If anyone has any bazaar articles to donate for the area convention, please bring them with you at that time.

The Martintown Goodtimers are once again extending an invitation to all area residents 50 and over to join them for a coffee morning.

Come and bring a friend!

This will take place on Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 10 a.. at the Community Centre. For information or if you require transportation, please call Mary Milne at 528-4632.

AGRICULTURE

Beaverview has seen many changes

By Sandra Berry
News reporter

Archibald C. MacDonell of Summerstown has been farming for 50 years on the family's bicentennial Beaverview Farm.

The family business has evolved throughout the centuries but has remained a mixed dairy and cash crop operation.

Beaverview farm is now operated in partnership between the sixth and seventh generations of MacDonells. Archibald took over the operation in 1949 and is now managing the farm in partnership with his son Jerome.

"He does the work and I do the talking," says Archibald.

Beaverview is not only historic in the sense of family history but is a statement of farming evolution in itself.

The century house stands in its originality except for a few alterations. To the south is the 1886 barn which is a testimony of the camaraderie of neighboring farmers' raising bee. Located west of the barn is the old ice-house, which was used until 1942 and later converted into a welding shop.

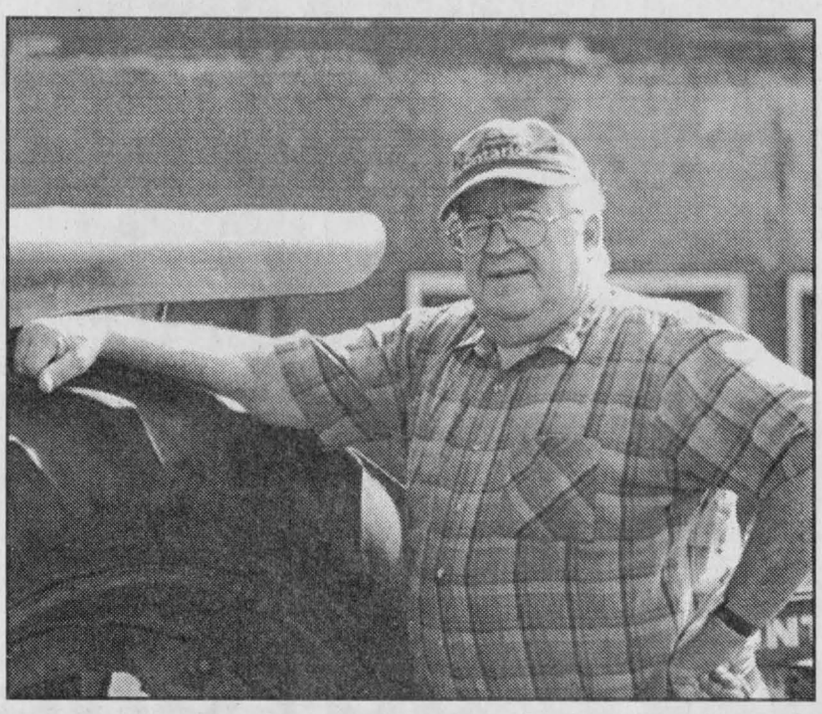
The slaughter house with the adjacent henhouse and pigsty situated to the north of the barn are a symbol of the mixed farming that was practiced until the middle of the century.

A century of purebred Holsteins

Beaverview Farm was home to one of the earliest registered Holstein cow in Glengarry county.

Donald R. McDonald bought Lord Nelson in 1890. The herd proliferated when Archibald's grandfather, Allan P. McDonald, inherited the farm. Unfortunately the herd contracted tuberculosis in 1925 and was completely disposed of except for six heifers.

Archibalds' grandfather purchased a dozen registered cattle that carried the bloodline of Rag Apple and Korndyke, which was a very high-producing herd at the time, and are the basis of the 30 Holstein cows that the MacDonells milk today.



This tractor is one of the many changes Archibald MacDonell has witnessed in his 50 years of farming the bicentennial family farm.

The farm originally consisted of 100 acres that was granted to (Iain Mòr) Big John McDonald, a United Empire Loyalist, for his services for the King during the American Revolution.

Eventually, Beaverview Farm acquired the neighboring 100 acres to the west which originally belonged to Big John's brother.

By 1979, Beaverview had reached its present acreage of 381 when Archibald bought a 187-acre farm.

Keeping up with technology

Archibald's farming days included some of the most pertinent technological and management changes in agriculture.

He had to trade his horses for tractors, his milk cans for a bulk tank, hand-picking weeds for herbicides, soil observation for soil testing. Instead of viewing his fields as a whole, he learned how to break them down in various components.

To Archibald, these changes are part of agriculture's perpetual levolution.

"It's simply a case of trying to integrate a bit of technology every year."

Archichald learned not to fear technology in part from his grandfather.

For years the MacDonells were going down to the Raisin River in the spring to cut blocks of ice for the ice house to keep the milk cool during the summer.

"We would bring back 200 blocks each spring."

The MacDonells bought a milk cooler that manufactured ice in 1941.

"The milk inspector was skeptical the first year but became more accepting the following year."

The farm was willed down to Archibald and his mother Florence McDonald Macdonell in 1949. By 1960, Archibald had started tiling his fields.

"We started with a 20-acre field and have continued tile draining our land ever since."

Out of the 235 acres of arable land, they have managed to tile-drain 160 acres.

An old timer's perspective

Because Archibald has kept up with the new agricultural technology, he is more acceptable and less skeptical of new systems of agriculture.

The main difference he sees between agriculture today and working the land 40 years ago is the required manpower and the decreased number of farmers..

Archibald remembers the fresh bread and pies his mother used to bake when neighbours gathered for harvest time at the MacDonell's.

"She would prepare three meals a day for 24 men."

As for the horsepower, it has been completely removed from the farm by tractors.

"When I started farming, I worked the land with a team of six horses for all except ploughing and discing, which was done with the 1020 International tractor."

By 1956, rubber-tire tractors had replaced the team of horses at Beaverview.

It's not only mechanical engineering that lessened the manpower required on farms.

"Once we started to spray in 1955, we did not have to pick out the mustard plants by hand."

While neighbours do not gather at each other's farm for harvest, the MacDonells still appreciate a little help.

"We get help from neighbouring farmers on new technologies we don't understand completely."

But MacDonell says farming neighbours are getting scarce.

"We're the only dairy farm left on this road."

MacDonell says that he does not foresee dairy farms increasing in number again.

"It's too difficult for young people to get started on a farm unless it's handed down from generation to generation."

GLENGARRY GARDENING

MAUREEN STEPHENS

This poem was brought to my attention by a fellow gardener, Bob Schofield. Thank you, Bob.

Found in The Rural Delivery, September, 1998.

Farmer Poets by Anne Crooker

To the toad in my garden
Binding down to rip a bud,
I saw a movement in the mud.
Its started – I jump about
Then saw the eyes peeping out.
There you were – quietly wary,
To you I must have seemed scary.
In awe I watched as you dug in
Your hole in the ground, your haven.
I spoke, did you understand?
I said, "You're welcome on my land."
You do no harm in my garden plot.
You eat bugs and flies,
"Thanks a lot."
And that's the truth,
I beg your pardon
I was talking to the toad
In my garden.

Get $1,500 to reduce risk on farm

Each Ontario farm is eligible for a $1,500 rebate towards approved actions the farmer identifies to reduce the risk of environmental degradation on the farm.

Funding continues until March of 2000 and rebates are available on a first-come basis.

Environmental Farm Plan workshops will be held in Winchester on Act 3 and Oct.13.

For more information, call Arlene Ross at 837-1036.

Subsidies available for rural jobs

For the fourth year, subsidies are available for rural partnerships and alliances wanting to increase jobs.

Approved projects will be cost-shared on a 50-50 basis between the applicants and the government.

For more information, call 1-888-588-4111 or visit the web site at www.gov.on.ca/omafra.

Stay safe and warm this winter.

Recent advances in wood-burning technologies have made heating with wood safer, cleaner, more reliable and more efficient than ever before.

Today's high-efficiency wood-burning systems, installed and operated correctly, use less fuel to get the same amount of heat. Wood is a renewable energy source and its use can help address the climate change challenge. To help you select, install and operate your wood-burning system, Natural Resources Canada (NRCan) has developed The Guide to Residential Wood Heating.

Glengarry well represented at 4-H fair

4-H NEWS

MARGO PATRICK
347-7298

Last weekend was the Regional 4-H Fair in Metcalfe, and Glengarry was proud to have many entries to represent us.

The following is a listing of the prizewinners.

In the dairy category, we had 11 members showing and this year we did really well. First let us look at the showmanship results.

Lori St Denis was reserve champion senior dairy showperson as well as honourable mention showperson overall.

Laura MacMillan took the rosette as reserve champion junior dairy showperson. Melanie Poirier showed her Holstein calf to fifth place in the senior showmanship class, while Sadie St. Denis took sixth in the intermediate showmanship section.

Glengarry was also no slouch in the livestock categories.

Shannon MacEwen placed eighth in the intermediate Holstein calf category with Julie St Denis following in 10th place.

Lori St Denis walked her heifer to ninth place in the senior Holstein calf class. Melanie Poirier brought home a fifth placing in the junior yearling Holstein section.

This was show number three for Mac Cumming and his Ayrshire heifer. Just as in Avonmore and Williamstown, he placed first in the summer and yearling Aryshire calf category. He also has the rosette for reserve champion Aryshire heifer to add to this year's collection.

To complete this excellent competition in Metcalfe, our members are pleased to announce that they won first place in the tie-up competition for the second year in a row.

* * *

Although, she didn't place high in the standings, she had good experience with her project.

There were lots of entries in the exhibit hall, thanks in part to our local members.

The sewing category was well represented with winners as follows. In senior sewing, Angela Van der Byl won first prize and the grand champion lifeskills rosette, Mary Goudreau Kingdon placed second, and Rose and Heather Huxted took third and fourth respectively.

Junior sewing had eight entries, as follows: Jennifer Hamilton - first, Melanie Hamilton - second, Annette Lacasse - third, Stephanie Van der Byl - fourth, Cyndi Van der Byl - fifth, Katherine Van der Byl - sixth, Kaitlyn MacPherson - seventh, Jenny Nixon - eighth.

There will be a lot of really nice vests sported in the county!

As well as sew, our members can also bake, and what is nicer than a loaf of fresh bread?

Jennifer Hamilton won first place in this category while Melanie Hamilton took second place. Well done!

* * *

Achievement projects for several of our clubs meant making either a three-sided display or creating a poster about a subject related to the club.

These were judged at Williamstown Fair and the top two from each category were sent on to compete in Metcalfe.

Laura Patrick took first place overall with her three-sided display about feeding orphan foals that she made for the Horse Club.

Martin Dorie placed sixth with a display about horses that was made for the Vet Club and Jodie Poirier was seventh with her Vet Club exhibit describing laminitus in horses.

In the club display category, we had two entries. Heritage Club placed third with their display about living in earlier times and Working with Wool was sixth with their descriptions of wool and stitches. Well done!

* * *

Glengarry County also entered a lot of posters, but we failed to place amongst over 30 entries.

That would be a hard class to judge!

One of the revivals this year was a class for project books. These books are created by each member for the particular club, to be used as a reference or manual as needed.

They should include information about the member, the rest of the members in the club and notes and hand-outs on the subject.

The books are then put together and decorated by the member. It is good to see that many clubs make this a prerequisite for finishing their achievements.

Glengarry was pleased to send a lot of books. The judge commented that he was really happy to see that the books were being done and he was impressed with the quality he saw.

The placings were: Sarah Nugent - first with her calf book, Elizabeth MacLennan - second (horse), Kaitlyn MacPherson - third (horse), Julie St. Denis - fourth (horse), Stephanie Yates - fifth (horse), Rose Huxted - sixth (horse) and Amy Crooks - seventh (calf).

These and all other books will be on display on awards night, so be sure to stop and look at these works of art.

The other regional event that was held was the horse competition at the Perth Fair held a few weeks ago.

There were three members who participated in the showmanship classes. Heather Huxted placed fifth in the senior class, Rose Huxted took third in the intermediate class and Kaitlyn MacPherson was second in junior showmanship.

Kaitlyn also brought home the reserve grand champion rosette. Well done, Kaitlyn!

There were three other events that the girls entered. The rules are that you can either enter the walk-jog or equitation.

Rose placed second and Kaitlyn was fifth in the walk-jog while Heather took fourth in equitation.

There are lots of calls coming in from kids who would like to join 4-H. We are really in need of leaders or people who would like to help with the program.

Right now there is a club running about marketing and these members are helping to put together lots of activities and "stuff" to help people to learn about the program.

We would like to encourage anyone who is interested in joining 4-H or helping as a mentor or as a leader, to come to our awards night on Oct. 23 - a Friday night - at the high school in Alexandria.

Join us at 7:30 p.m. and see what we do, as well as share in our enthusiasm.

Glengarry Ayrshire is one of the best

A former Glengarry Ayrshire, Strathburn Destiny's Sarah, bred and sold by Andrew Sangster from Williamstown was Intermediate Champion and Reserve Grand Champion at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis. on Thursday.

Sangster had shown her as a calf and as a two-year-old but sold her to a renowned breeder in the spring of 1997.

Forest Fest '98

McKinnon Forestry Centre hosted its 5th and final Forest Fest on October 4th. Over 150 people joined us in this fun family oriented forestry festival. Guests participated in various games and activities, enjoyed the talents of local craftspeople and spent the day outdoors. Special thanks to all the friends of McKinnon and Domtar staff for helping put on such a wonderful day!

Goodbye Melissa!

Melissa Earle, McKinnon Forestry Centre's Co-ordinator has left her position to continue her education and pursue new career ventures.

Melissa was with Domtar for over 1 year . In the interim, Tammy Dunbar, McKinnons interpreter will replace Melissa as the co-ordinator.

All the best in future endeavours Melissa!

McKinnon Forestry Centre is a heritage forest outdoor education facility situated south of Apple Hill, Ontario, 2km east on Kenyon Road. Our mandate is to educate the public on industry's role in a working forest environment. We're open Sundays and Mondays between 9am and 3pm - balance by appointment.

Life expectancy of libary appears to becoming very short

The life expectancy of our library appears to becoming very short. With budgetary restrictions imposed on the SD and G Library Board, undoubtedly there has to be cuts and the local press is reporting that our library in St. Bernard School annex may no longer be there in the new year.

It would be a loss to the village to no longer have a library. This branch was opened about 30 years ago and part of the space now used by Muir's Bakery housed it. It moved three times – across the street, then to the Masonic building and finally to the school.

The Women's Institute sponsored a library in its hall on Peter Street. Many, many, years ago, Miss Mata McKercher was the librarian and she would move books to her home for service during the winter months when the hall would not be heated.

I am not a regular user of the library but those who do should be challenged to organize a campaign to fight the library's closure or to reach, at least, a favourable compromise. Who is ready and willing to organize this protest?

A well-known village couple recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage. Jeannie and Ivan Coleman spent a week in the Bahamas and on their return a surprise party was held in the Glengarry Curling club with many relatives and other friends in attendance. Special guests were Ivan's sister, Shelly Hone and her daughters, Jessica and Hanna from California.

We have a couple from Glasgow, Scotland visiting in the village, too. John and Ann Welsh are visiting his brother Wally, Anita and family.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Joanne and Tim Spence on the birth of their daughter. At the same time we offer much happiness to the family on their move to their new home at the west end of the Glen Roy Road. Previously, they had resided in a Florence O'Donohue apartment on Mechanic Street West.

Farmers in this area have been blessed with excellent crops this year, partly due to the satisfactory rainfall.

In fact, the spout could be shut off for awhile to allow the fields to dry and make harvesting easier. We had 97 mm of rain in September.

The soya bean harvest is almost completed, ensilage corn is filling remaining spaces in the silos and long white plastic tubes and the grain corn harvest is just starting. The only cloud in the picture is the low prices being offered. Apparently the harvest in the States has also been good and that affects prices here. Some farmers sell now and others pay storage costs and gamble on higher prices later.

Nellie Wensink has a good harvest too but of a different kind. Hers is raspberries. Mrs. Wensink has a patch that is producing much more fruit right now that it did in the early summer. And she has a problem with picking the berries. In the morning, the dew is heavy so the canes are wet. When things warm up, the wasps are out and they make her nervous. So just at dusk, Mrs. Wensink can be seen out in her garden picking her big, juicy, red berries.

January's sleet storm has been blamed for much. Now, I am receiving comments that the trees are not as colourful this fall and that the leaves seem to be withering and falling earlier. I really can't come up with a cause unless the trees are being spiteful after the abuse they suffered as a result of the storm.

Over the last while, I have had people seeking information for their family trees. First there was three ladies from the States asking about the Saucier family. As soon as one mentioned "Aunt Maggie was married to Frank Boisvenue" I was able to direct them to Noemi Boisvenue Morrissette in Cornwall.

Then there was a caller here from California asking about a family Laframboise. I directed him to Cornwall's Genealogical Centre at Nativity Church.

The first fall meeting of the Maxville Rainbow women's Institute was held at the Georgian House on Wednesday, Sept. 30. The theme of the meeting was holiday entertaining. We were graciously welcomed by Heinz and Debbie into their kitchen where we learned how to prepare Pepper-cheese rounds, artichoke heart strudel, escargots in mushroom caps and mushroom and herb sauce. After sampling the appetizers, we then moved into the dining room where we enjoyed the wonderful flavours and beautiful presentation of the food.

Christmas crafts is the theme of our November meeting. For more information, please contact Doreen Crites at 527-5685.

The Young-At-Heart euchre was held on Sept. 28 and the players would have been sad at heart with the absence of the late Jean Chisholm.

Rita Seguin had the top score for the ladies, followed by Elizabeth Briere, and Judy Johnsen. John MacMaster topped the men with Bill Johnston and Howard Eamon earning second and third prize money.

Jessie Renwick took the door prize home to Vankleek Hill.

In the 50-50 draw, the lucky ones were Nancy Colbran, Rita McCarthy, Violet MacDermid, Bertha Lalonde, Oliver Gates, Florence Harkin, Gloria Rolland, Jack McDonell and Ed Ukrainetz.

The next euchre will be on Oct. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Church Hall.

No matter where I am, whenever I hear a flock of Canada Geese flying over, I try to see them. There have been many recently and I was particularly interested in hearing two or three one evening after dark. The moon was bright and the flocks were flying very high.

The birds fly in the V-formation for good reason. As each bird flaps its wings, it creates an uplift for the bird directly behind it. The whole flock, therefore, has at least a 71 per cent greater flying range than if the bird flew on its own.

When the leader gets tired, it falls back and another takes over. The harder a bird flies, the harder it will breathe because its keel pushes up against its lungs on the down beat of its wings, thus expelling air. On the upbeat, fresh air with more oxygen is drawn into the lungs.

The members of the Maxville and District Lions Club are holding their monthly breakfast on Sunday, Oct. 11 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Campaign underway

The travel mug's in the holder, the baby's in the car seat, the kids have claimed or crawled into their own spots, the key's in the ignition: you're ready to roll. Or are you?

Forget your original destination: you could be on your way to tragedy – all because you didn't check or double check seat belts and child restraints.

"Infants and children can't make their own decisions about road safety. It's up to adults to ensure they're protected," says Chantal Lacelle, of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, which is helping promote road safety.

This year's provincial seat belt campaign runs from Oct. 3 to 17 and focuses on ensuring the child is restrained, infant child safety seats are rear-facing and tether straps are properly installed.

The need for this type of reminder stems from Transport Canada's 1997 Child Restraint Survey. Only 84 per cent of children under 16 in Ontario are using appropriate types of restraints.

"Parents and caregivers have the children's best interests at heart. But good intentions aren't enough. We have to do everything we can to ensure their safety on the road," says Lacelle. Information will be available at car seat and seat belt clinics and events throughout the five counties.

In Alexandria, the OPP will have the seat-belt "Convincer" on hand at the Le Relais and Glengarry District high school parking lot on Oct. 9 at noon. They'll be at the Pioneer Gas Bar from 2 to 5 p.m. that afternoon, as well.

For more information about road safety, please call the Health Line at 1-800-267-0852.

Rebels rally to tie Wolves

Zaluski scores winner as Char-Lan earns bonus point

BY J.L. LEFEBVRE
News editor

If you're a sucker for happy endings, then you'll probably like what transpired at the South Glengarry Recreation Centre on Saturday night.

It was homecoming night for former Char-Lan head coach Jeff Carter as he came back to Williamstown as the top dog on the Akwesasne Wolves, the new kids on the junior B hockey block.

The Rebels earned two points by winning the shootout tie-breaker but because the game was tied through regulation and overtime, the result goes into the books as a tie and the Wolves come away with their first ever point in junior B play.

The result could have been much better for Akwesasne – the visitors led 4-1 after 40 minutes – but Carter said he will gladly take the point back to Cornwall Island.

Carter says he's excited about his team's ability to give established teams a run for the money so early in the franchise's existence.

"I'd say we're ahead of the game right now," replied Carter when asked if he expected the Wolves to be competitive so soon. "I think we have a legitimate shot at third or fourth place."

One of Carter's former player says the same thing.

"They're a good team," said Rebels captain Eric Fontaine. "Carter's doing a good job with them. They're no pushovers, that's for sure. I wouldn't be surprised if they challenged for third or fourth."

Quick start

Carter's troops were ready to play from the first drop of the puck on Saturday as the Wolves took the play to the Rebels.

Akwesasne led 2-1 after one period on goals by Ryan Ratelle and Casey Swamp and 4-1 after two frames as Matic Kralz and Evan Cree added goals.

The home team stormed back in the third, scoring twice in the first 3:40 of the stanza to cut the Wolves lead to one and twice more seven seconds apart in the ninth minute to take the lead for the first time of the evening.

Akwesasne wasn't ready to roll over quite yet. Noah McDonald scored with a little over seven minutes to play in regulation time to tie the score at 5-5.

Neither team scored during the remainder of the period or the five-minute overtime session, which forced a tie-breaker for the bonus point.

That's when things really got interesting.

While Rebels netminder Chris Davidson was stopping all four Akwesasne penalty shots, a couple of Carter's former soldiers beat Wolves goalie Matt Jones.

First, Fontaine outsmarted his former coach by abandoning his usual penalty shot strategy.

"Penalty shots can be hard," said Fontaine. "You have a pretty good idea of what you want to do at first but as you skate in, about 20 different ideas go through your head.

"You know how I always like to shoot low in the corner? Well, as I was skating in I could hear Carter yelling to his goalie 'Watch the blocker side, watch the blocker side,' so I thought I'd better do something else."

Plan B for the Rebels captain turned out to be a nifty deke move which forced Jones out of position and gave Fontaine a huge opening to tuck the puck in.

Carter admits he was fooled by Fontaine.

"Yep," he nodded sheepishly, before retorting. "He's been in the league five years, it's about time he tried something different."

The real coup de grace in the shootout for the Rebels came on the game-winner, which came courtesy of noted sniper D.J. Zaluski.

"D.J. is a valuable player on this team," said Rebels coach Claude Dupuis when asked about his secret weapon.

"We want to play his physical game but to stay out of the penalty box."

Dupuis suggests regular ice time will improve Zaluski's confidence and, as a result, his offensive contribution will also increase.

"He's a physical player, but he can put the puck in the net too."

Zaluski was just one of the offensive heroes on the night.

The line of Fontaine (one goal, three assists), Jean Greggain (two goals, two assists) and Chris Corput (one goal, one helper) was flying all night.

"They're our veterans," said Dupuis of the trio. "They know what it takes to win and they got the job done tonight."

The coach said he was counting on the older players to lead the Rebels back after being in the doldrums in the first two periods.

"We were playing lackadaisical. We had to pick up the intensity.

"We got (a goal) early and we got the momentum from that."

Rod Wilson was Char-Lan's other goalscorer on Saturday; he got the goal that tied the score at 4-4.

Hawks down Rebels

The two points against the Wolves come one night after the Rebels lost their first game of the season, a 5-2 setback against the Hawks in Winchester.

Sylvain Favreau did most of the offensive damage for the Hawks as he scored three times and added an assist.

Serge Bellavance and Ryan Nichol also scored for the home side.

Char-Lan replied with goals by D.J. Zaluski and Stephen Alguire.

The Hawks scored the only three goals in the first two periods, including two in the opening frame.

It wasn't until the 4:39 mark of the third stanza that the Rebels were able to sneak the puck past Hawks goalie Jeff Pugh.

The Hawks restored the three goal advantage 77 seconds later and killed any chance of a Char-Lan comeback with a goal near the midway point of the final period.

Rebels notes: Call it a case of mistaken identity. The Glens pointed an accusing finger at goalie Tim McCuaig after Alexandria Eric Leroux was speared in an away-from-the-play incident on opening night. McCuaig says he's innocent. The leading suspect is now defenceman Kevin O'Farrell... Forward Joey Sullivan is out of action after sustaining a series of injuries in a collision with a Winchester player on Friday night. Sullivan has a cracked shoulder blade, a bruised spleen and bruised ribs... Also missing on the weekend were the Rebels' away-at-school vets, O'Farrell, Kacey MacDonell and Mike Rankin. Nick Dubé missed Saturday's game due to illness and Graham Charbonneau is playing through a groin injury... The Rebels host the Glens on Saturday night at the Rec Centre. Both Alexandria and Char-Lan will play Kemptville on the weekend the Glens host the 73's on Friday while the Rebels will be in Kemptville on Sunday.

Call them the Alexandria Bruins

After years of being known as Dalhousie, the Bruins of the Ligue de Hockey Soulanges have adopted Alexandria as their home base.

The Bruins have always had a strong representation of players from Glengarry County, a fact which has sparked intense rivalries with the other teams in the league, all of which are named after communities in the Soulanges-Vaudreuil area in Quebec.

St-Polycarpe, St-Clet, St-Zotique and Ste-Marthe are the Bruins' opponents for the 1998-99 season, which got under way last weekend.

The Bruins dropped their season-opener 5-1 to St-Clet in front of over 250 fans at the St-Polycarpe arena.

Joey Palladini, Dalhousie's top scorer last season, accounted for the only Alexandria goal.

The Alexandria team roster for this season includes goaltenders Claude Gallant, Jérome Sauvé and Yves Léger, defencemen Danny Desjardins, Daniel Méthot, Marc Ménard, Martin Savard, Luc Decoeur, Dave Murree and Dean Seguin and forwards Joey Palladini, Marco McNulty, Serge Bellefeuille, Stéphane Pilon, Kevin Rooney, Danny Elliott, Mike Durocher, Pascal Joanette, Jean-Yves Goudreau, Karl Hehn, Ron Lefebvre and Jean Desrochers.

The team is coached by Jean-Luc Ménard, who was the Bruins' captain the last two years.

Alexandria's next games will be on Oct. 9 against St-Polycarpe and Oct. 11 against St-Zotique.

(Game) Seven proves to be D and D's lucky number

Gauthier has big night as softball final wraps up

If Sunday night's deciding game of the Alexandria Men's Softball League final proves to be the last softball contest ever played at the Alexandria Island Park, then the old diamond will have gotten a bizarre farewell.

The situation for Sunday's finale was dramatic enough – the best-of-seven series was even at three games apiece and the series became more and more unpredictable as it unfolded – but the game itself was anything but a classic.

Pretty Paws got the jump on D and D Distribution in the top of the first inning, slugging four homers – two-run blasts by Stephan Nadeau and Jonathan Wylie and solo shots by Sylvain Lobb and Marc Sauvé – to take a 7-0 lead.

Paul Vincent led off the bottom of the first inning for D and D and scored two batters later on a Michel Gauthier single but Pretty Paws still held a 7-1 lead with two outs when an amazing series of events unfolded.

Starting with a Marc Hurtubise single and ending with a three-run homer by Bugs Sauvé, the next 11 D and D batters all reached base – six with hits and five on walks.

By the time the attack was over, D and D had completely erased the seven-run deficit and taken a six-run lead, 13-7. The team would never look back on the way to a 25-10 victory and the 1998 playoff championship.

After driving in the first run of the inning, Gauthier slammed a two-run double in the first-inning uprising. He later hit a grand slam and a two-run single to finish the night with nine runs batted in.

Gauthier and Marc Hurtubise each drove in 17 runs in the series to lead all players.

Bugs Sauvé homered again in the third inning and he connected for seven longballs in the final. He drove in four runs in Sunday's clincher, as did Richard Leblanc.

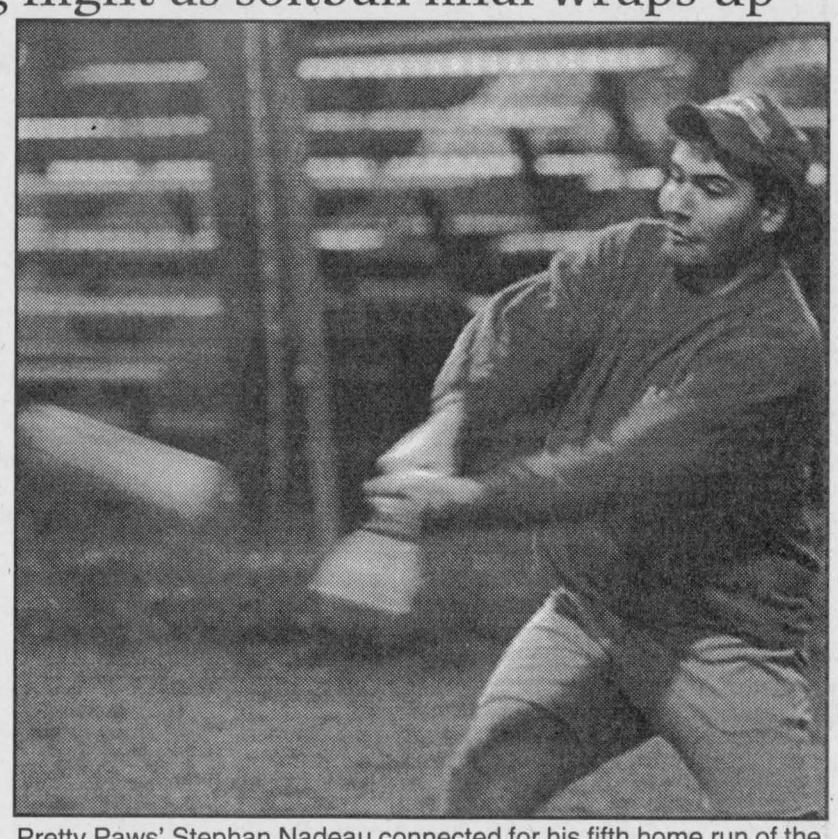
Gauthier and Vincent each scored four runs.

After the power surge in the opening frame, Pretty Paws' offence was limited to two runs, both of which came on André Larocque's bases-loaded single in the second inning.

D and D pitcher Daniel Brunet shut out Pretty Paws on six hits over the last five innings.

The game might be the last ever played at Island Park because the diamond may give way to a soccer field next summer, with a softball field being built on the current soccer pitch at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

The fate of the fields could be decided this week.



Pretty Paws' Stephan Nadeau connected for his fifth home run of the series in the first inning of Game Seven of the men's softball final on Sunday but then saw D and D score 13 runs in the bottom of the frame on the way to a 25-10 win and the league title.

Game Six

Game Seven might have been a bit of a disappointment for the handful of spectators who braved the October evening chill to take in the action, but last Thursday's Game Six was a thriller.

An infield grounder by Bernard Quesnel with one out and the bases loaded brought home the winning run in the eighth inning as Pretty Paws stayed alive with a 10-9 win.

Pretty Paws looked like an easy winner as the team led 8-1 after five innings, but D and D clawed back into the contest with six runs in the top of the sixth inning.

In the bottom of the sixth, a home run by Marc Sauvé – his second of the game and his fifth RBI of the night – gave Pretty Paws an insurance they would desperately need because Bugs Sauvé slammed his second homer of the night, a two-run shot, to knot things up at 9-9 in the top of the seventh frame.

Stephane Pilon scored three runs for the winners while André Larocque drove in a pair.

Michel Gauthier homered in a losing cause while Yves Thibault knocked in two runs.

Game Five

Michel Gauthier went deep and drove in three runs to pace D and D to a 10-5 victory in the fifth game of the series last Tuesday night.

Yves Thibault and Richard Leblanc each drove in a couple of runs for D and D.

Sylvain Lobb led Pretty Paws with a homer and three runs batted in. Stephan Nadeau and Martin Levert also homered.

Nadeau named MVP

The league announced its 1998 award winners last week and two members of the league runners-up were among the honourees.

Pretty Paws pitcher and slugger Stephan Nadeau was named the league's most valuable player while teammate Jonathan Wylie shared the rookie of the year trophy with Jean-François Menard of Countrywide Landscaping.

Mike Starkauskas of Boucane's CD Sounds was named the league's most improved player.

Alexandria goalies have a bad day

Sunday's meeting with the undefeated Winchester Hawks was supposed to be an opportunity for the Alexandria Glens to measure themselves against one of the top clubs in the St. Lawrence Division of the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League.

Instead, the afternoon contest proved to be an exercise in futility for the Glens. A sputtering power play and shaky goaltending sabotaged any Alexandria hopes for a victory and the Hawks returned to Winchester with a 7-3 win in the bag.

"Our goaltenders had a bad game," acknowledged Glens coach Marc Sauvé, who nonetheless saw a positive side to the weak net play.

"We gave up four easy goals but we were still in the ball game," said Sauvé. "I'm convinced that if we do play for 60 minutes we'll be competitive with the top clubs in the league."

The Glens' nightmarish day between the pipes started when Ryan Nichol against Glens starter Samuel Sirois scored on a seemingly innocent long shot just over two minutes into the game.

Alexandria erased that lead and took a one-goal advantage of its own on a nifty individual effort by Tomi Hafner and a power-play marker by Ryan Nielsen.

The Hawks roared back with goals by Serge Bellavance and Adam Beehler as both Winchester players beat Sirois up high after the Alexandria goaltender had dropped to his knees too quickly.

The Glens managed to tie the game at 7:33 of the second period as Tim Van Overbeek banged in a loose puck with Alexandria on a two-man advantage, but the Hawks took the lead for good when Ryan Nichol scored on a hard, but very stoppable shot from long range as Winchester was killing a penalty.

That spelled the end of Sirois' day as he was replaced by Trevor Cunning. The Vankleek Hill native fared better for a while, but then he also was victimized by the soft goal curse early in third frame as Shane Stroughair scored at the 34 second mark.

Former Glen Olivier DeMeester added another insurance goal and Nichol sealed the win and his hat trick with an empty-net marker.

The empty-net goal was a short-handed tally, the Hawks' second of the game to counteract two Alexandria power play goals in an amazing 12 opportunities.

"We didn't capitalize on our power plays," said Sauvé. "When you get those key (offensive) chances, they have to go in the net."

In the other dressing room, the Hawks brass was happy with the team's performance despite the fact the team has been bitten by the flu bug and key performers such as Jeff Leonard and Chris Bailey were missing from the line-up.

"It took us a little while to get going but after a while we managed to get on track," said rookie Winchester coach Dave Scharff.

"With the number of penalties we had, I thought (our penalty-killers) did a fine job."

Glens win shootout in Morrisburg

Alexandria still managed to get two points out of their weekend of work as a result of a tie and shootout victory over the Morrisburg Lions on the road Friday.

Jean Desrochers scored the winning goal in the shootout to give Alexandria a bonus point in the standings.

In regulation time for Alexandria, Eric Leroux, Tomi Hafner and Ghislain Valade each had a goal and an assist.

Cameron Lajoie also scored for the visitors.

Jason Cholette, Carson Runions, Greg Millard and Chris Proulx scored for Morrisburg.

Van den Oetelaar back for now

Steven Van den Oetelaar's first – and possibly final – appearance with the Alexandria Glens this season was a short one.

Fresh off a long stint at the training camp of the Ontario Hockey League's Brampton Battalion, the Alexandria resident was in the Alexandria line-up on Sunday afternoon as the Glens hosted the Winchester Hawks.

By the 17th minute of the game, Van den Oetelaar was gone for fighting after dropping the gloves with Winchester's Sean Williams.

The Alexandria coach doesn't know how long the tough and speedy winger will be with the team.

"Steven wants to play in the Central League," said Marc Sauvé. "He'll be practicing with the (Cornwall) Colts this week."

In the meantime, the Glens will keep him on a junior B card should he decide to return for another season in Alexandria.

Kent McDonell, Guelph Storm
Williamstown

•The move to centre obviously suits the three-year OHL veteran. The former winger has three goals and seven points in Guelph's first four games, three of which have ended in Storm victories. McDonell scored twice, including the game-winner in a 6-3 win over North Bay on Friday. He had a shorthanded marker on Saturday as the Storm lost for the first time, 7-3 to the Erie Otters.

Cornwall Colts still seeking first win of 1998-99 season

The abbreviated September portion of the Central Junior Hockey League schedule wasn't very kind to the Cornwall Colts and things aren't looking much better through the first few days of October.

The Colts are winless in the first five games of the 1998-99 campaign after dropping a 5-4 decision at home to the Ottawa Jr. Senators Thursday night at the Ed Lumley Arena and losing 8-5 in Pembroke to the Lumber Kings on Sunday.

As has been the case on several occasions in the young season, the Colts show the ability to play well in spurts – Cornwall held leads in both of last week's games – but so far, the opposition always ends up on the right side of the final score.

"That's what happens when you have a young team," said Colts head coach Allan Wagar of Cornwall's in-game inconsistency.

The Colts led the Sens 2-0 after 40 minutes on Thursday but Ottawa tied the score with two goals in the first 61 seconds of the third period.

The Colts responded with two goals by Nick Brunet and single tallies by Williamstown's Lindsay Campbell – on an assist by Alexandria's Greg Lalonde – and Stephen MacPherson.

Lalonde scored his first junior A goal in Sunday's loss to the Lumber Kings.

Nigel Newland, Brent Lauzon, Alain Quenneville and Dave McNally also scored.

Swiss import Andreas Haenni, a recent addition to the club, set up a pair of goals.

Another newcomer, former Cumberland goaltender Ian Lauder, made his Colts debut on Sunday. He was pulled after allowing seven goals on 30 shots in the first two periods.

Former Colts goalie Jason Pilon, now playing for Pembroke, picked up his second win of the season against his former team.

Colts notes: Lauder's signing signalled the departure of Tommy Payment. The former Char-Lan Rebels puck-stopper still belongs to the junior B club but his future status is uncertain... Wagar has made another move in an attempt to shore up his goaltending by acquiring Maxime Gauvin. The 19-year-old is from Rouyn-Noranda, Que. but comes to the Colts via a junior A team in Weyburn, Sask... Defenceman Derek Wagar is still hobbled by a knee ligament injury and still hasn't resumed skating. His return to action is another three or four weeks away... The Colts host the Cumberland Grads on Thursday night at the Lumley Arena in a 7:30 p.m. start. The Grads humiliated the Colts 10-5 on Sept. 27. "We have something to prove to them," said Allan Wagar.

Hearts win gold in OCSL

The Glengarry Hearts took home the gold form Ottawa's Terry Fox Field on Sept. 27 after defeating the Ottawa International 3-1 to win the Ottawa-Carleton Soccer League championship.

The Hearts entered the playoffs at the top of their 13-team division, sustaining only two losses in the 14-game season.

On the few occasions when Ottawa managed to crack Glengarry's tough defensive line, Josianne Laferriere's superb goaltending foiled their scoring opportunities.

Earlier in the month, Carleton Place succumbed twice to the Heart Attack in a two-game quarterfinal round and Glengarry then eliminated Gloucester 2-1 in a single-game semifinal on Sept. 22.

At a tournament on Labour Day weekend in Belleville, the Hearts played three Toronto area first division teams to draws but the championship was won in shootout by an Oshawa team.

Consoltex breaks into win column

Team Consoltex won its first Glengarry Flag Football League game in four tries this Sunday in Alexandria, downing McCrimmon by a score of 29-20.

John Merelic hauled in a pair of touchdown passes for the winners.

In Sunday's other contest, Glen Nevis remained undefeated by pounding the Atlantic 52-13.

Glen Nevis (4-0) scored 33 of its 52 points in the first half.

Bantam Rapids claim pair of exhibition games

The Seaway Valley Best Western Rapids minor bantams won twice to open pre-season play in recent "AA" minor hockey action.

The Rapids rallied from a 1-0 deficit to defeat the District III Cobras 2-1.

Patrick Turcotte and Steve Owens were the Seaway Valley goalscorers.

The Rapids then defeated the Outaouais Intrepid in a home game played in Long Sault.

The Rapids took a 3-0 lead against Outaouais and hung on for a 4-3 victory.

Peter Barnett scored twice with single markers going to Steven Stewart and Luc Langlois.

DO SOMETHING NICE FOR YOURSELF
What did you do for yourself lately? All work and no play can be harmful to yourself...and your loved ones. Sometimes we feel that we don't even have enough time to read the newspaper. We feel guilty because we believe that things must get done. Work is expected, but little diversions from life's stressful situations will make us healthier and happier. Our bodies are Temples of God and we should take care of ourselves. There is nothing wrong with doing something nice for yourself. It pleases God when we are good to ourselves and to our neighbours.

Lancaster dressage rider aims for the 2004 Olympic Games

By Sandra Berry
News reporter

Brigitte Rumke, a high school student from Lancaster, will be busy for the next six years training for the Olympics with her dressage horse Perkunos.

Her first riding lesson was eight years ago and she has not stopped progressing since.

She finished second in the Canadian National Dressage Championship this year.

The Char-Lan student has planned out her training schedule until she reaches 24 years of age. She is training for her next competition with the Young Riders of Canada in the spring. If she qualifies, she will represent Canada in the finals held in Chicago.

After the Young Riders of Canada, she will move on to compete in the North American Championship of Young Riders in Winnipeg.

She is making plans to leave Lancaster for Germany early in the millennium to prepare for the 2004 Olympic Games.

Brigitte is confident that training in a country that has dominated international competitions for decades will benefit her accomplishments.

"I will be training with the best and will compete in the Grand Prix which is the level shown at the Olympics."

In pursuit of perfection

Dressage is a training method that was initially used in the cavalry and later developed into a sport.

It was a passionate pastime of the knights in shining armor of the Middle Ages. During peaceful times, they would train, since the schooling level of their mount made the difference between life and death during battles.

The 18-year-old student says that dressage is basically a replica of the techniques used by the cavalry.

"The passage, which is a trot on a spot, was used during wartime to trample the enemy to death," explains Brigitte.

"The pirouette on the other hand was used to knock down surrounding people by having the horse canter," she says.

While today's riders do not aim for a career in the cavalry, much of the training system used originates from the great riders of the Renaissance.

It has evolved into a sport that demands power, gymnastics, grace and mental concentration.

"Dressage is figure skating on a horse," explains Brigitte.

She trains with her gelding Perkunos five times a week in Hudson while completing her Grade 13 at Char-Lan high school.

Brigitte does not consider dressage as a hobby but rather as a lifetime devotion.

Telepathy between rider and horse

The primary goal of dressage as a training method is to develop the horse's physique and improve its natural gait, making it a pleasure to ride.

It starts out with a series of movements that, when done systematically, cause the horse to become supple. Gradually more complex exercises are introduced.

"The horse must be worked with to get used to the movements and develop the appropriate strength," says Brigitte.

Although it seems that Perkunos is doing all the work, Rumke is working to develop greater trust and harmony with her gelding.

Like figure skating, dressage is a performance which is judged according to criteria such as pace, impulsion,submission and the riders position.

Each movement is judged against a standard of absolute perfection. The greatest dressage riders in the world today can only hope to achieve a final score in the 70 per cent range.

Sponsors needed to reach the top

Although only a very small percentage of horses have the physical conformation, strength and temperament to succeed international competition, Rumke feels that Perkunos is a top quality dressage horse.

It's not her devotion to the sport or her gelding's conditions that Brigitte is worried about, it's the financing.

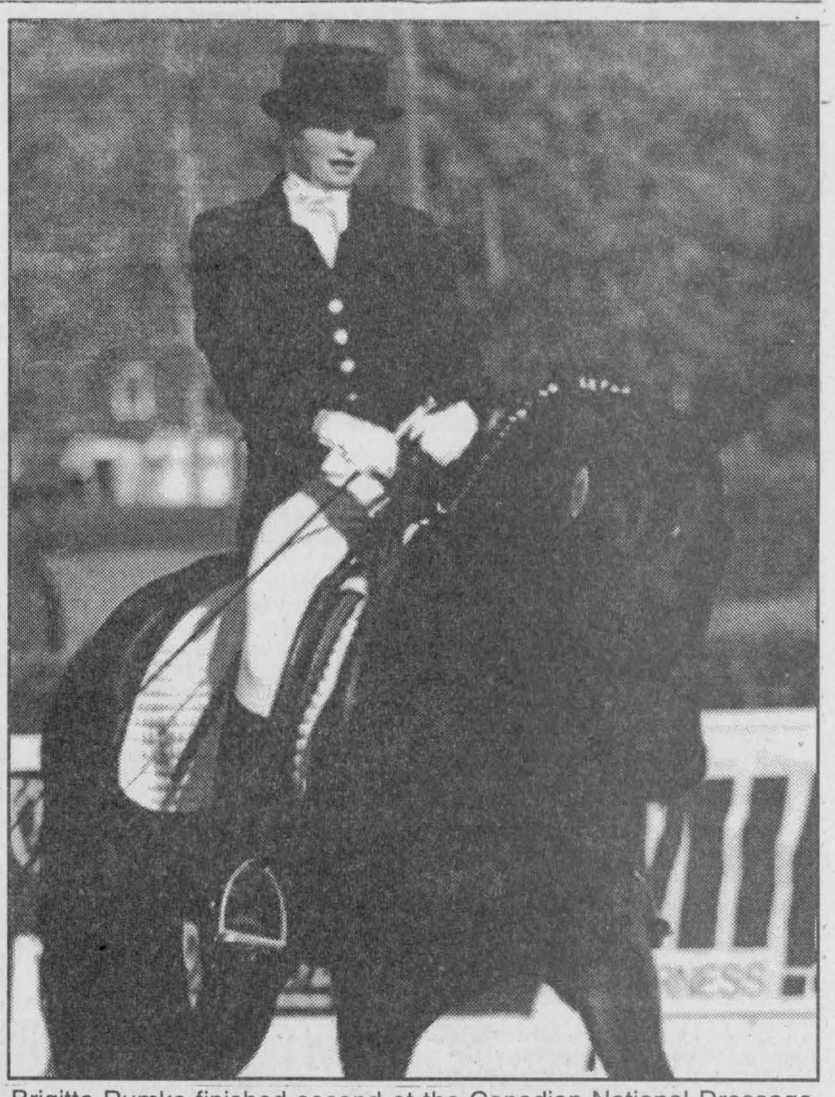
For the moment it's Brigitte's parents that are financially supporting her career goal.They are keen on supporting their daughter's pursuits but are beginning to feel the financial burden.

"Boarding and riding lessons already cost $12,000 a year," says Brigitte's father Olaf Rumke.

The Rumkes have tried getting local sponsors but without success.

"People around here don't like horses and don't even know what dressage is," says Brigitte.

But the Rumkes will continue to look for sponsorship while their daughter prepares for competitions.



Brigitte Rumke finished second at the Canadian National Dressage Championship.

D and D Distribution outlasted Pretty Paws to win the 1998 Alexandria Men's Softball League championship four games to three. The members of the team are (front row, left to right) Richard Leblanc, Patrick Dupuis, Michel Gauthier, Nico Prieur, (back row) Bugs Sauvé, Doug Delage, Daniel Brunet, Kevin Craig, Yves Thibault, Marc Hurtubise and Paul Vincent.

Rebels and Glens split pre-season games

It was one win for the North and one win for the South as the Char-Lan Rebels and Alexandria Glens split a pair of minor hockey pre-season games last week.

In each case, it was the visitor claiming victory in the home-and-home series.

On Monday in Williamstown, a third-period marker by Kevin Libbos as the Glens edged the Rebels 3-2.

It was Libbos' second point of the game as he had already assisted on a second-period goal by Kris Hehn.

Blair MacMillan also scored for Alexandria.

The Rebels, who let a 2-0 lead get away, got goals from Mike O'Farrell and Justin Lalonde.

Nicholas Buckle had a goal and an assist for the Rebs.

Phil Touchette, Justin Lalonde and Robb Schaefer also scored.

The Glens replied with goals by Kevin Libbos and Marc Bigras.

Vipers lose Jr. opener to Stars

The Long Sault Vipers dropped a 7-5 decision in Casselman to the host Stars in the junior C club's season-opening game on Sunday afternoon.

The Long Sault scorers were Myles McPhail and Greg Rombough, each with a pair, and Pascal Decoeur.

Mike Scott registered a couple of assists.

The Vipers include several players from the Alexandria and Char-Lan minor hockey districts including both goaltenders – Julien Van den Oetelaar and Kevin Quesnel.

Other local products include Pascal Decoeur, Mark Laferriere, David Leblanc and David Booyink.

The Vipers will get a chance for revenge on Saturday when they host the Stars. Game time is 8:15 p.m.

MacLeod connects for hole-in-one

John MacLeod achieved many a golfer's dream last Tuesday when he made a hole-in-one on the sixth hole at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club.

Playing partners and fellow Tuesday Senators league members Bob Zuban, Serge Marceau and Don Crawford witnessed the event.

The bad news for MacLeod is that 43 members of the Senators were playing last Tuesday and, as per tradition, each was entitled to a drink at his expense.

MacLeod's wallet may have been a little lighter, but he did get to bring home a trophy for his ace.

Card of Thanks

BESNER – The family of the late Yvette Gareau, would like to thank relatives, friends and neighbours for their kind expressions of condolences, mass offerings, flowers and sympathy cards at the time of the death of a dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother. These acts of kindness and thoughtfulness are deeply appreciated. They have helped us in our loss and have comforted us by showing how much Yvette was loved and she will always be remembered.
– The family. 40-1p

S.T.A.R. would like to thank everyone who supported our benefit evening. It was very much appreciated. Raffle winner was John de Souza from Montreal. 40-1p

McDONALD, Lillian – Thanks to Sherrlyn, Terry and Karen for all your hard work toward my 80th birthday party on Sept. 5, 1998. Thanks to St. Raphael's Parish Committee, the cake makers, Keith Hallett and Carol MacDonald, The Clansmen and Joan MacDonald for being emcees. Thanks to Anna Margaret MacDonald who composed a song to the tune of we will take "Good Old Ways" and to which everyone joined in the chorus, my nieces and nephews and their spouses who sang "Road to Dalhousie", to Monsignor D. B. McDougald who sang my favourite "Oh Dannie Boy," and Sylvester MacDonald and the Clansmen for the wonderful music we danced and sang to. Thanks to my relatives and friends who sent cards and flowers and donations, the total of $2,542 towards "Friends of the Ruins" is greatly appreciated (receipts to follow.) God bless all of you.
– Lillian McDonald. 40-1p

FRASER – Chris and Joanne Fraser are grateful for the arrival of their third child. A special thank you to the nursing staff at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, and Dr. McCoubrey for the safe delivery of Baby Isaac. Thank you to family members for prayers, gifts and treats. A special thank you to grandparents Leo and Leila Thauvette and Jim and Sharon Fraser. 40-1p

McRAE – We would like to send sincere thanks to family, friends and neighbours for cards, visits, phone calls, flowers and gifts at the time of our 60th anniversary. Also to the different levels of government for their good wishes. All was much appreciated.
– Lloyd and Tibi McRae 40-1p

QUENNEVILLE
The family of the late Laurier (Buck) Quenneville would like to thank everyone for their acts of kindness during a sad and difficult time. To all who sent flowers, donations and food, also visitations we sincerely appreciated your efforts. We would like to thank the GMH and Maxville Manor Management and staff for the care my husband and father received during the past two years of his residency. Also a special thanks to Dr. Jaggasar, Ron Munro and Father Maloney. Your many kindnesses will never be forgotten.
Mrs. Francis Quenneville and Family 40-1p

Alexandria, Ontario

Ask Questions, Make Suggestions, and Register Your Views.
In accordance with the approved procedures contained in the Class Environmental Assessment for Municipal Water and Sewage Projects, notice is hereby given that a Study is underway and a Phase 3 Report is being prepared for the above noted project.
The Phase 3 Report will recommend an alternative for upgrading the sewage treatment facility in Alexandria. A preliminary evaluation of alternatives and their respective costs was completed which confirmed that the preferred alternative is a Schedule C project under the Class EA process.
The existing treatment facility consists of aerated and faculatative lagoons that continuously discharge to the Delisle River. Hydraulic overloading and effluent quality not meeting Provincial Water Quality Objectives are problems associated with the existing facility. The Township is considering providing a new sewage treatment facility which will incorporate some of the existing facilities at an estimated cost of $8.9 million.
This Public Information Centre will serve to inform the residents, businesses, property owners and review agencies of the study objectives and findings to date. For further information, please contact William Knight, P.Eng., Senior Project Manager, M.S. Thompson & Associates Ltd., (613) 933-5602. In the meantime, you are invited to attend the Information Centre and register your input.

Apple Hill Water Project

PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETING
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1998

7:00 p.m.
Community Centre, Apple Hill, Ontario

Ask Questions, Make Suggestions, and Register Your Views.
In accordance with the approved procedures contained in the Class Environmental Assessment for Municipal Water and Sewage Projects, notice is hereby given that a Study is underway and a Phase 3 Report is being prepared for the above noted project.
The Phase 3 Report will recommend an alternative for a communal water supply facility in Apple Hill. A preliminary evaluation of alternatives and their respective costs was completed which confirmed that the preferred alternative is a Schedule C project under the Class EA process.
Studies completed in consultation with Apple Hill residents have shown that private well correction on a lot-by-lot basis is not a sustainable method to achieve a safe and adequate water supply for every village resident. The Township is considering providing a new water treatment and distribution system at an estimated cost of $1.5 million.
This Public Information Meeting will serve to inform the residents, businesses, property owners and review agencies of the study objectives and findings to date. For further information, please contact John St. Marseille, P.Eng., Senior Project Manager, M.S. Thompson & Associates Ltd., (613) 933-5602. Doll collector visits Women's Institute meeting

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

The members of the McCrimmon Women's Institute Branch met at the Lochiel Hall on Sept. 17 with president Helen MacLeod in the chair.

She opened with a poem called Autumn, the Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect. Bessie MacLennan accompanied the singing.

The motto on how to keep our forests safe from fires elicited some good preventative measures. When making a camp fire in the woods, always be sure to pour a bucket of water on the embers and stir them around before leaving the campsite. Never smoke cigarettes in the bush.

Be very careful when lighting a fire, making sure the ground is scraped clean of twigs and grass, surround the fire place with stones to contain the fire and never leave it unattended. Alert the authorities immediately if you see smoke, especially after a storm where there was lightning.

Sometimes a fire can start from the sun overheating a tin can which can produce smouldering in the undergrowth. This in turn can become a full blown conflagration. Pick up all garbage and leave the site clean.

One member mentioned that a little flame had started one time when the sun was shining through a Coke bottle but it was noticed in time to prevent a fire. One of the surest ideas was to never smoke or light a fire in the bush.

Secretary Enid MacDougall gave an encouraging financial report and included details of the August Family Night Concert receipts. She will be attending the October Conference in Cornwall accompanied by Lorna Chapman, the alternate delegate, and Doris Spencer. President Helen MacLeod plans to attend as well.

Inez Dixon of Bourget won the quilt draw at the concert.

Marguerite McGillis commented on the motto in which she stated that the forest faces both danger and challenge. In olden days, the settlers wanted to get rid of the pesky trees to clear land for their farms. Potash was one of the first forest crops.

The ice storm was a real challenge to the sugar bush owners. The destruction and breakage of many of their healthy, productive trees was a challenge to their maple syrup industry.

Many new trees have been planted but it will take years before they go into production. The next generation will be the one to benefit from these plantings.

One lightning strike can become a major disaster, challenging firefighters to try to save lives, homes and trees.

Let's do our best to recycle our paper products as much as possible, thus saving trees being harvested for wood pulp.

Plant trees were feasible and let's all face the challenge of protecting and conserving our forests. They are a renewable resource only up to a point and we do need them to help keep our atmosphere breathable.

She then introduced her guest speaker, Jennifer Pearson Vanier of Alexandria. She had her three sons Jacob, Jason and Joshua to help her bring in some of her extensive doll collection for display. There were large and small ones, wooden and cloth ones.

Some were made of celluloid from the twenties and thirties.

The group remembered those Kewpie dolls made of celluloid that came in all sizes, each with the little bow shaped mouth.

There were several Victorian dolls. Another was an articulated wooden doll from Holland dated back to about 1800.

One composition headed doll with a straw stuffed body came from Germany in about 1885. A tin-headed doll wore a remade dress but was otherwise untouched from the turn of the century. One little Dutch Boy cloth doll from the 1930's was stuffed with catnip and it still had some of its pungent odour.

The little quintuplet doll was actually made in the USA.

There was an interesting story about the 1919 Raggedy Ann doll. She was created by the father of a dying child who first told, then wrote, the Raggedy Ann tales for his little daughter. The illustrations he drew for them came to life in the Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls.

There was a Bubbles baby doll with head, arms and legs of composition and with a cloth body. I had a doll just like this as a child.

One hit of the display was little Ferdenand the Bull, with a grin on his face, a flower in his mouth and his front legs nonchalantly crossed.

The speaker spoke about two doll houses that she had as a child, complete with furniture and people.

At the conclusion of her talk, the group had the opportunity to examine all of the 18 dolls on display during the tea break. She was only too pleased to continue to answer all of the members' questions about the individual dolls.

She brought along several books on doll-making, which were fascinating to peruse.

When the meeting resumed, the ladies who went on the Dundas Women's Institute July bus trip to Niagara Falls gave an interesting report.

Betty McDonald, Margaret MacPherson and Doris Spencer enjoyed seeing the Earland Lee House, the Adelaide Hoodless home, the Light Show at the falls and all of the other interesting places they visited while away.

They were especially delighted with the one night of dinner theatre in Niagara Falls where they saw a comedy called O Canada Eh? which was hilarious.

The meeting ended with the singing of God Save the Queen.

Friends and relatives gathered in Alexandria at the Rendez Vous Outreach Cente on Sunday, Sept. 27 for a bridal show in honour of Claudette MacNeil, who is to be wed in October.

Dawn Borris read a warm tribute to her sister, the bride-to-be, which she had composed. Among the over 55 guests present were people from Cornwall, Lancaster, Glen Sandfield, Alexandria and area.

The party was hosted by her sister Dawn Borris of Cornwall and her mother Ethel MacNeil of Glen Sandfield. Tammy Benson of Alexandria assisted with the refreshments.

An unusual event occurred here in the hamlet this past week when one of our neighbours received an unexpected evening visitor.

She looked out of her door and was confronted by a little lonesome little piglet. Afraid tha it might be rabid, she promptly called the police.

They came and hunted the animal through the brush, without success, for a couple of hours before finally giving up.

The next morning, Carolyn Bock encountered the same little pig and coaxed it to her by making gentle pig like noises. She caught it and telephoned Beckers, who had indeed lost the animal.

The good Samaritan transported the frighteened little piglet to its home farm, down on the next concession road, where everything concluded satisfactorily for all concerned.

The community is invited to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 14 at 2 p.m. at GDHS. Detective Sargeant Barry Elliot of Phone Busters will be holding a seminar on Telemarketing Fraud.

I have recently learned of a lady in Vankleek Hill who was offered a million dollars but first she had to send $46,000 for some reasons before she could collect.

She borrowed and so did others to help her and she sent the money away and received nothing in return.

Con artists who pray on trusting people are despicable. They snatch life savings away with nary a qualm of sympathy for their victims.

Not only seniors are targeted however. Widows, whose husbandshave recently passed away and who are not used to handling financial matters, are often wooed and won over into fraudulent schemes by smooth talking tricksters who are all sympathy for her (or his) recent loss.

They are devious, knowledgeable about the human condition and they are ruthless. This seminar is for everyone, all members of the community. Even the wary can become victims if they let their guard down for an instant.

Do come and learn how you can protect yourself against these thieves and uncommon crooks. They are out to defraud the innocent; come and learn how to recognize and stop a con game before you lose your savings. Remember, forewarned is forearmed.

Bedard anniversary a grand occasion

GREEN VALLEY

MARGO PEPIN
525-3581

Joe and Irene Bedard would like to thank their children, family and friends for making their 55th wedding anniversary such a memorable event.

Irene told me they were treated to a pig roast, fireworks, a petting zoo for the children and tents and campers everywhere.

They are the proud parents of 11 children, 30 grandchildren, and 17 great grandchildren.

What a heritage.

They would also like to thank Roger Leblanc for the horse drawn wagon ride. Congratulations again.

On Saturday, Sept. 19 the Green Valley Optimist Club celebrated with its new executive committee for the coming year. Members, their spouses and guests were served a meal by Nuance Catering in the new community hall.

President for the coming year is Lise Prieur and her committee consists of Julie Theriault, Ginette Aubin, Richard Robinson, Henri Jeaurond, Michelle Robinson, Noella Leger, Jackie Prieur, Joanne Joanette, Ron Aubin and past-president Gisele Jeaurond.

The evening also featured a roast for Gisele in appreciation of her dedication to the club during the past year and also for her work during the ice storm.

Richard Leger has been named Lieutenant Governor of Zone 6 for 1998-99. Gisele Jeaurond has also been named Lieutenant Governor, but of Zone 10 for the 1998-99 and Henri Jeaurond was named Governor of District East Ontario for 1999-2000.

Congratulations and best wishes for the coming year.

The Optimists held their first meeting on Oct. 1 with the new committee. Plans for the new year were organized and they will be involved in the ice rink behind the school.

They will be celebrating 10 years of existence this December. We wish them well. Continue the good work.

On Oct. 14 at 2 p.m., Phone Busters, a national task force against telephone fraud, will be making a presentation at the GDHS cafeteria.

This is a great chance to get the lowdown on some of the really incredible phone scams that are happening with more and more frequency and that are often directed at seniors.

Admission is free, but you are asked to call the North Glengarry police department in Alexandria or OPP Lancaster for tickets.

Cynthia M. Coulthard of Tewkesbury, England touched the four corners of Glengarry and Vankleek Hill during a recent stay with Flora and Wesley Chisholm and family.

Mrs. Coulthard wrote to the Glengarry Pioneer Museum, which she found in an Eastern Ontario brochure in a London tourist information bureau.

The names of her grandparents, Roderick and Mary Chisholm, were sufficient to identify her as Wesley's third cousin.

Mrs. Coulthard had fond memories of a summer spent in Vankleek Hill 70 years ago and wished to once again visit the places where her ancestors had lived.

It was very moving for her to see both the Dunvegan and Greenwood cemeteries where many of her relatives are buried. She also spent time with old school friends and other distant relatives including Evans MacGillivray and Bill and Janet MacGillivray of Dalkeith.

Before her departure, Mrs. Coulthard made a generous donation to the museum towards the preservation of the wartime scrapbook.

Congratulations to Heinz Dietl, who graduated recently from the computer systems technology course at Herzing College in Ottawa.

He then wrote and passed his certification exam, which is a requirement for anyone going into that field.

Sunday morning, I spent about 10 minutes up the road photographing moonseed - a noxious vine that grows in amongst the wild grapes that have been so prolific this year.

In that short time, I heard a ruffed grouse fly up out of the brush and saw a group of cedar waxwings, several myrtle warblers, a pair of cardinals, a huge flock of migrating robins, a Cooper's hawk, innumerable LBJ's (little brown jobs), a deer and a cat.

What a time to decide I wouldn't be there long enough to need binoculars!

Plan No. U-1052
DRAMATIC "ENGLISH MANOR" STYLE EXTERIOR CREATES STATELY FACADE

A hip roof with a steel 10/12 pitch, bay windows and a combination stucco and brick exterior work together to create a look reminiscient of manor homes in the English countryside. In this case, however, the home is sized down to suit the more compact lots available in our local subdivisions.

An open plan for the living and dining room offers a more spacious area for formal entertaining. The open plan concept extends to the less formal kitchen and family room combination which provides a warm country kitchen style atmosphere for friends and family. A den, separated from the main traffic areas, is a quiet haven for study.

Upstairs, each bedroom boasts an added feature. The front bedroom has a bayed out window seat. The right rear bedroom has corner windows. The master bedroom and the middle rear bedroom each have boxed out window seats. The master also features a four piece ensuite.

An unfinished basement awaits your own creative touch.

Plans for U-1052 may be obtained for $465.00 for a package of five complete sets of working prints and $40.00 for each additional set of the same plan. Allow $15.00 extra to cover the cost of postage and handling. (All Canadian residents add 7% GST to plan total plus postage and handling).

This is one of our new designs. Many innovative plans are now available in our NEW catalogue: Two Storey Homes 2000 to 2500 sq. ft., which is available for $8.51 including postage and handling and GST.

Leroux's celebrate 70th anniversary

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207, FAX 347-1297

Another remarkable wedding anniversary was brought to my attention.

On Sept. 28 in Bainsville, Adrien and Doreen Leroux celebrated their 70th!

Doreen had just turned 18 on Sept 20, 1928. She was married in Lancaster to Adrien on Sept. 28, by Father McRae.

Although his work took him other places, in 1965 Adrien came home from Huntingdon, Que. to live in the family home in Bainsville.

Doreen recounted some marvelous memories of days gone by. I hope that she has made a record but it was certainly great to hear them.

As Father Rudy has been promising for two years, a wonderful celebration was held for their 70th. Mass was celebrated at the St. Lawrence Parish Church in Curry Hill on Sept. 20.

The Lerouxs give special thanks to Achilles Laroque for the pleasure of hearing him play the violin at this service.

Later in the afternoon at the Leroux home, three children, husbands, wives, relatives, friends and four generations of the Leroux family held a tribute and a party for the couple.

Adrien and Doreen have four children, Ernest, Ada, Jeannine and Alfred, now deceased.

Doreen tells me that they have 26 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren, "the youngest one ever so cute and just learning to walk."

A very respectful congratulations to Adrien and Doreen.

Lots of news from Ecole St. Joseph.

Mr. Pierre Seguin welcomes his students to his Grade 7 and 8 class. He thanks his students for making the first three weeks an excellent start to the new school year.

Children in Junior Kindgarten and Kindergarten will bring fruit to make into a salad to share with their classmates.

This is their way to recognize the end of summer. They will also go for a walk to collect leaves and make a paper hanging.

We are very happy that everyone is finding a special friend in this group and thanks go to Emma Dennison in showing our new students the class routine.

Marissa Cumming has been very friendly, helping everyone tie up their shoelaces.

To help the younger ones learn their colours, they will dress in specific colours. The colour of this week is yellow.

A treat surprise goes to those who participate. (Bribery works!)

Blaise and Robin Flores have a new baby sister, born on Sept. 25. Congratulations!

The students of St. Joseph are really enjoying their new computer room.

They now have eight new Apple Pentiums along with their 11 Icons. In keeping with the idea of introducing computer skills to younger children, a new program is being used for the Grade 1 and 2 classes. These lucky students will have four Apple pentiums, five laptops, a scanner, printer and camera.

A pat on the back to Deric Constant, Megan Gareau, Danielle St. Pierre, Michel Viau, Jason Trottier and Jessica Dupuis for their excellent results in the mathematics quiz.

Samantha St. Pierre scored highest on the math test. Congratulations to her and to Nicholas McDonell, who had the fastest times in the 13-meter sprint.

Grades 5 and 6 have already learned two songs on the recorder.

Keep up the good work!

Finally, many thanks to the parents who came to the parent-teacher meeting.

September has seen a bee hive of activity for the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

On Sept. 6, Cody Troy Alexander, infant son of Troy and Elizabeth Thompson, was welcomed into the church family through the sacrament of baptism.

Many family members and friends were present for this happy occasion.

On Sept. 13, Sunday School began with a "Kick-off Party," enjoyed by 30 children. The King's Kids Puppet Ministry made a guest appearance, leading the children in upbeat songs and bible stories.

Ice cream and cake was served following this presentation.

St. Andrew's Sunday School welcomes and invites any children from the area to participate in this year's program.

A new class for three-year-olds has been added to accommodate the large number of children in this age group.

The popular teen class will continue under the leadership of John Ferguson.

Clark McCuaig made a presentation on Sunday, Sept. 20 to Doug Ferguson, who retired as church treasurer. Doug held this position for eight years and was thanked for his years of faithfulness.

Finally, over 400 people gathered on Sept. 27 to enjoy a sumptuous turkey dinner with all of the trimmings.

The hall was decorated with fall leaves, flowers and vegetables, making a perfect setting for the annual fundraiser.

We are glad to hear that Reverend Ian is recovering from a recent eye injury.

Another school year has started at S.J. McLeod P.S.

Enrollment has grown to 227 students and two new teachers have joined us. Mrs. Craig teaches Grade 6 during afternoons and Miss Fraser Grade 5 during afternoons.

We welcome two new student teachers, Diane Cousineau, who helps Grade 2, and Allison Gibbs who helps Grade 3.

Our senior students will take part in an intramural soccer tournament at Williamstown P.S. At the same time, the junior teams will compete in a tournament at S.J. McLeod. The students have been working hard to prepare for these games.

This information comes to us thanks to school reporter, Christi Bauck.

The Sunshine Gang has resumed regular meetings after summer break.

Welcome to three new members, Flo Ellis and Dot and John Allan Mitchell.

Current events, exercises, sing songs, along with a visit to the McKinnon Forestry Centre were enjoyed.

Members made candles in fall colours for Thanksgiving and celebrated the birthdays of Dorothy Keen and Dot Mitchell.

A foundation in Father Rudy's name was established last year to aid students in SDG to further their education.

Indeed, 12 bursaries of $500 were presented to students this past June.

On Friday, Oct. 16, the second annual dinner of the Msgr. Rudy Villeneuve Foundation will take place at Creg Quay.

Cocktails at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and the Brigadoons will be entertaining!

Tickets are $ 50. For more information, call Pat Bougie at 347-2781.

The latest from Mackie in Sierra Leone:

"Hi Marg.

"At a time when the Canadian Armed Forces are under constant scrutiny as to the conduct of a few, here's a positive impression. Just met two Canadian soldiers who are here on a fact finding mission to see if Canada should commit a small team of peace keepers.

"They came for supper and met several people who were most impressed by their competence, their professional attitude and, most importantly, by their gentlemanly behaviour. The last thing that this country needs is a Rambo attitude in its peace keepers.

"All who have met them in their two week stay have been very impressed with Major General Ouellett and Capt. Steve Hewitt. Made me very proud to tell people that they were my army!

"My time here is getting shorter and it seems that there is lots that I should have done, but at the very least there are a lot of people whom I have spoken to in the churches and in streets and in the provinces who are now aware of Canada's part in food and development relief programs.(Thank heaven for public speaking programs!) All the best, Mackie

New executive

The new executive committee for the Lancaster Optimist Club was sworn in last Wednesday night at the former Legion Hall in Lancaster. The members are (front row, left to right) secretary Sharon MacGregor, vice-president Ursula Flipsen, president Jocelyne Nysten, vice-president Kevin MacLeod, treasurer Brenda Sturkenboom, past president Fiona Fraser, (back row) directors Janet Sturrock, Chantal Chaddock, Claudette Arsenault and Bonnie Cumming, director and sergeant-at-arms Rudy Nijssen and Norm St. Pierre, lieutenant-governor of Zone 10. St. Pierre presided over Wednesday's swearing-in ceremony.

Seminars set for seniors

ST. RAPHAEL'S AND THEREABOUTS

ANNA-MARGARET MacDONALD, 525-1174

Telemarketing scams to part seniors from their savings are rampant these days, advises Constable Hugh McClements of the OPP. To counteract this a free seminar to educate seniors about these perils will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 14 at Glengarry District High School at 2 p.m. Det.-Sgt. Barry Elliott from the North Bay Phonebusters will be here to present the program. All are welcome.

Weddings

Two of Huetta Allinott's granddaughters from Ottawa were married in September. Lianne Allinotte married John Wayne Heidinga in St. Raphael's Church on Sept. 5 and her sister Kerry Allinotte became the bride of Sean Dore in St. Bridget's Church in Ottawa on Sept. 19. They are the daughters of Allan Allinotte ad his wife Barbara Russell, both formerly of Glen Roy.

Birthday party

Another Glen Roy native Stenetta (MacCulloch) Lagroilx was feted in Cornwall on Saturday on the occasion of her 85th birthday. Helping her celebrate were brothers and sisters – Donald Edward and Margaret and Clifford MacCulloch, Kay Sloan and Huetta Allinott.

Parish mission

St. Raphael's Church was full to capacity morning and evenings from Monday to Thursday last week for a parish mission under the direction of Father Michael Bennett of the Gospel of Life Apostolate in Gloucester. A joyful and charismatic personality, he gave us an extensive review of the important tenets of our faith and used modern comparisons to illustrate and update. He will be giving other retreats in neighbouring parishes and I would advise those lucky people to reserve your seats!

Shalom House

A Cornwall craft group named the "Fellowship Weekenders" met at Shalom House on the weekend to receive evangelization guidance.

* * *

Confirmation groups here this week are the students from Notre Dame de Rosaire in Crysler and from Holy Cross School in Cornwall. Next week the diocesan priests will spend a day of reflection and a group from the Montreal area known as "Couples in Harmony" will spend next weekend here.

Hospital beds

Eight hospital beds have become available if anyone needs one or more please call Shalom House at 347-2391 or 347-7567.

Saturday evening, Ian and Karen MacLeod hosted a farewell party for Marion and Allister MacGillivray who earlier moved to Alexandria.

Neighbours from the Creek Road and other friends gathered to wish them well in their new home.

Laggan Public School

The Alexandria Fire Department visited the school on Monday and watched students respond to a practice fire drill.

The school was emptied in record time and students were complimented on their efficiency. Students will be getting reinforced messages in their classrooms this week on fire safety in conjunction with Fire Safety Week.

A magazine fundraising campaign began last week. Any community members interested in picking up a magazine subscription at an excellent rate should feel free to approach any Laggan School student and fill out an order form.

Soccer tournaments will be taking place this week throughout school in North Glengarry. Laggan School will be hosting the junior co-ed tournament while our senior players will travel to Roxmore Public School to compete against other schools.

The first of three Hepatitis B shots will be administered to grade 7 students this Thursday. This service is offered to families through the Eastern Ontario Health Unit.

The Menard's held their annual pre-Christmas family party on Sept. 26 at the social centre.

Being part of a big family, I am privileged to have eight sisters and one brother who were all present with their spouses, many nephews and nieces as well as Marie-Laure and Bud Noseworthy of Green Valley.

We had lots to talk about in too short a time and everyone enjoyed themselves.

* * *

Surrounded by all his family, Wilfrid Lefebvre celebrated his 80th birthday on Sept. 27 at the centre. We wish him well!

* * *

Congratulations to Wilfrid and Rita Brunet who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Saturday at the centre.

A beautiful wedding took place last Saturday at St. Martin of Tours church presided by Father Eric Robichaud.

Guy Pilon, son of Marie-Claire and Henri Pilon of the Glen exchanged wedding vows with France Larose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Larose of Val D'Or.

Even though the weather was unusually cool for this time of year it was perfect.

Guests included many RCMP officers dressed in their bright colours, police from la sureté du Québec and also from Rouyn, Noranda.

Soloist, Josee Menard, accompanied by Micheline Cuerrier on the piano produced heavenly music.

When leaving the church, a guard of honour outside was indeed a very picturesque sight.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Creg Quay Marina.

Congratulations and we wish you much happiness and love always in your married life!

Optimist news

The transfer of power for the Glen Optimist Club was held last Saturday night at the pizza.

The new team will be headed by Richard Theoret as president; secretary, Dianne Larocque; treasurer, Daniel Lefebvre; intern vice-president, Sylvie Decoeur; extern vice-president, Sue Poirier; directors for two years, Aurel Decoeur and Sylvain Theoret; directors for one year, Pierrette Desjardins, Pierre Larocque and myself.

Many members from the Green Valley, Dalkeith, Alexandria and cornwall Optimist Clubs were present.

Special guests were ex-lieutenant-governor for 1997-98, Richard and Denise Legault of Cornwall as well as the elected lieutenant-governor for 1998-99 Richard and Noella Leger of Green Valley.

Attending also this special evening were Maurice and Elyse Lamadeleine of Curran, elected governor for 1998-99.

A vote was taken by the Glen Robertson Optimist Club and Pierre Larocque was voted member of the year. Congratulations Pierre!

To all the Optimist crew, have a great year. Special thanks to ex-president Rose-Anne Theoret and all her team who did a super job.

Have a great week!

Bursary recipient

Sheri Lee Lefebvre (left) is the recipient of a $300 bursary from the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. The money is offered annually to a student working as a volunteer at GMH. Making the presentation to the Algonquin College nursing student is Linda Varga, student volunteer co-ordinator.

Auxiliary thanks community

Glengarry Memorial Hospital

With Thanksgiving just around the corner, the GMH Auxiliary would like to take the opportunity to say thank you to our community.

Whenever a fundraiser for the hospital comes along, we can always count on the commercial establishments, individual citizens and our volunteers for their support. As a result of these efforts, the auxiliary purchased 12 new beds for the hospital.

Two events that took place recently were the Giant Tiger barbecue and the Royal Bank barbecue and garage sale. Proceeds from these functions were generously donated to the auxiliary. Many thanks.

We are looking forward to and preparing for the annual Jingle Bell Sale, which will be held this year at the Alexandria Bowling Lanes Hall, 296 Main Street South.

The date is Saturday, Nov. 14 from 1 to 4 p.m. There will be crafts, baked goods, games and the ever popular Tea Room.

Also in the planning is a GMH float in the Santa Claus Parade, Nov. 29.

The calendar for October is as follows:

Oct. 9 – Eucharist service at 1 p.m.

Oct. 15 – Pastoral Team meeting at 1:30 followed by an ecumenical service at 3 p.m.

Oct. 19 – Community Nursing Home birthday party at 7 p.m. Please come and help celebrate.

Oct. 21 – Region 9 Fall Conference hosted by CHEO at the Tudor Hall, Ottawa.

Oct. 24 – 28-HAAO Convention in Toronto (students 24th and 25th.)

Oct. 28 – General meeting at 1:30 p.m. in the conference room.

Watch for the fall newsletter coming soon.

Happy volunteering!

More about a Celtic centre

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

Last week in this column we established the fact that Glengarry was, for many generations, a Gaelic-speaking community. In fact, as far as Highland background and numbers of Gaelic speakers are concerned, Greater Glengarry was very much like Cape Breton. The fact that the Gaelic language has survived to a greater extent in Cape Breton than in Glengarry is true, but not to the extent that is sometimes believed.

When Prof. Norman MacDonald of The University College of Cape Breton visited us in Glengarry some years ago, I told him that very few people here still spoke Gaelic, although there has been a revival of interest in the language and there were many enthusiastic learners here. He surprised me when he said that the situation in Cape Breton was much the same, most of the fluent speakers there belonging to earlier generations, but with many more people than ever now learning the language.

I asked his opinion on the oft-quoted statement that Cape Breton has or once had more Gaelic-speakers than Scotland. He stated that that was never true, although there was certainly a strong Gaelic community there which had survived longer than in Glengarry.

As anyone who visits Cape Breton during the tourist season soon realizes, days and nights there are filled with activities and entertainments. The basic glue that holds it all together is the Canadian Highland tradition (Celtic, in Cape Breton), that wonderful fiddling, step-dancing and singing that has become world famous. But the Acadian and Native cultures are also celebrated and there are hundreds of places of interest, from the restored fortress of Louisbourg to Rita MacNeil's Tearoom. You would have to spend weeks there just to sample a fraction of the attractions offered.

In the Baddeck area of Victoria County is the Alexander Graham Bell Museum and his summer home, Beinn Bhrèagh, "Beautiful Mountain" a short distance away the Highland Village at Iona and a few miles up the Cabot Trail, the Gaelic College at St Ann's. Every few miles reveals something of interest. Inverness County is the musical centre of the island, from Ashley MacIsaac's home at Creignish, through Judique, made famous by Buddy MacMaster and his niece Natalie and Mabou, the home of The Rankins, John Allan Cameron, Mary and Rita Rankin and memories of the great Dan R. MacDonald. Just about everybody in the whole area seems to play the violin, piano or pipes and sing Gaelic songs.

Glengarry could never compete with all that Cape Breton offers, but in a modest way the same Canadian Highland traditions that have made Cape Breton famous are here as well. If Glengarry can produce the greatest Highland Games in the world, a Highland Village which would serve as a Celtic Centre should not be difficult. We have all the basic ingredients already in place: The School of Piping and Drumming, the various Highland dance groups, musicians and ceilidh bands, the Gaelic classes and Gaelic singers. The Dunvegan Museum might be the ideal spot, with a stone cottage, a "black house," to show the type of home the early settlers left in the Highlands, with a log cabin showing the type of house they built here when they first arrived.

There could be activities at the Village throughout the season, many of which are already demonstrated from time to time; cheese-making, spinning, weaving, fulling the cloth, Gaelic song and language lessons, story-telling, music and dance.

There is no end to the possibilities. Now that Irish dancing is being taught in Alexandria, there could be special days devoted to the Irish and other Celtic cultures, the Welsh, Cornish, Breton and Manx. Perhaps a group from Galicia, the Celtic area of Spain, might come to play their distinctive pipes and demonstrate their traditional dances. Back in the 1960s there was a thriving group of Breton pipers and dancers in Montreal. If they still exist, I am sure that they would organize a Breton day as part of the programme at the Celtic Centre.

The various classes in piping, dancing, fiddling and Gaelic which now take place in Glengarry need not give up their present locations, but could be scheduled to hold some of their activities at the Highland Village from time to time.

All that is needed is the will to succeed. Such a centre could eventually be self-supporting. The population within an hour or so of Glengarry, from Montreal to Ottawa, is over two million, and to those farther west, Glengarry is still at least a thousand miles closer than Cape Breton.

If You're A Student, This Can Help You Make The Grade

"Our immediate challenge is to make sure that young people who want to continue to learn have access to education"

Today's students are tomorrow's leaders. But to guarantee a bright future, they need greater access to education. They also need the job search skills that will help them reach their goals. To make sure that young people have what they need to succeed, the following programs and services are available.

More Affordable Financing for Post-Secondary Education

Helping Students Cope With Rising Costs:

- new Canada Study Grant for students with dependants
- for part-time students, a new deduction for child care expenses and the ability to claim the education tax credit
- Canada Millennium Scholarships to more than 100,000 students a year, over 10 years, beginning in 2000

Helping Individuals Repay Student Loans:

- new tax credit for interest paid on student loans
- improvements to the interest relief plan to help students repay their loans, and extension of interest relief over a longer period of time
- possible reduction in Canada Student Loan principal for those in serious financial difficulty

The Youth Information Initiative

This service provides young people with job market information so they can make decisions about their education and careers. Information is available through a Web site, a toll-free information line, local information exhibits, Youth Link, a directory of Government of Canada programs for youths, and seminars and conferences held in communities throughout Canada.

SchoolNet

Canada's SchoolNet helps connect the country's 16,500 schools, 3,400 public libraries, and 460 First Nations schools to the information highway. It links over 1,000 national and international educational services and resources. This enables educators and learners to develop the skills needed in the global economy.

For more information on these programs and services, or information on youth employment, please call
