Romeo Bellefeuille, 31, of RR 4, Alexandria, was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary when he appeared before Magistrate J. A. Archambeault here last week in connection with a series of robberies in the area.

Bellefeuille was assessed a 10-year term for robbery with violence on May 12 in the assault and theft of $210 from 79-year-old James McCallum of Martintown. He was also assessed two years on each of several charges of breaking, entry and theft of homes and businesses in rural Stormont and Glengarry. But the lesser sentences will be served concurrently with the 10-year term.

The trio appeared in court here recently. Bellefeuille pleaded guilty to seven charges at that time including robbery with violence. Leo St. John pleaded guilty on the robbery with violence charge and four charges of breaking, entry and theft. He appeared in court here Tuesday for sentence but was remanded for one week.

Gaetan St. John chose to be tried by judge and jury. Date for his preliminary hearing has yet to be set.

Two questions will be put to the voters at the same time they vote for council members. One would permit serving of beer or wine to men and women under a dining-room licence. The other would permit serving of beer only to men and women.

Firemen Save Glen Robertson Home Barn Destroyed Near Martintown

A farm home in the Glen Robertson area was saved Sunday, by a quick response of Alexandria Fire Brigade, and a barn in the Martintown area was lost to flames, Saturday, hours after the close of Fire Prevention Week.

Noel Brunet, who resides in the Gore, east of Glen Robertson, suffered damage estimated at $2,000 in the Sunday blaze which struck his home.

Hugh Munro, RR 1 Martintown, lost his barn containing 2,000 bales of hay and a quantity of straw, Saturday afternoon. Fire brigades from Martintown and Apple Hill were able to save a nearby carriage shed and the house, one of the walls of which was blistered by the flames.

No estimate of the loss was available and the origin of the blaze is unknown. The fire was noticed about 2 p.m. and both neighboring brigades were quickly on the scene to prevent spread of the fire.

Sunday's fire in the Gore was beyond the 7-mile limit Alexandria's brigade is supposed to go, but authority for the response was received and the results proved well worthwhile.

The call came shortly before 1 p.m. when fire was discovered in the upper floor of the frame Brunet home, over the kitchen. The 500 gallons of water carried in the fire truck proved sufficient to quell the flames but not before an estimated $2,000 damage had been done.

New Police Chief Now On Duty

A former member of the Ontario Provincial Police, Marius Dubeau, 36, of Rockland, on Tuesday took over the duties of Police Chief of Alexandria. His appointment was made by the Alexandria Police Commission last Thursday.

Acting Chief Bernard King will revert to constable and his temporary assistant, Hubert Major, will continue on strength until October 24th.

Chief Dubeau was born in Rockland and served for three and a half years with the OPP in Haileybury and Kenora. Later he operated a three-car taxi fleet in Ottawa.

Fluently bilingual, Chief Dubeau likes what he has seen of Alexandria, he told a News reporter, and he hopes to have the co-operation of the public.

Asked his policy on traffic control, the new chief declared he would give one warning on "American stops", before fining the violator. An "American stop", we learned, is a momentary slowing down at a stop street before barrelling through.

There will be no warning in the case of speeding, he added.

Chief Dubeau will be joined at the end of the month by his wife and 11-year-old daughter.

Angus Rides The Flying Scotsman As He Heads Into The Highlands

(By Angus H. McDonell)

News readers not interested in railways may be consoled in knowing that this trip on the Flying Scotsman from London to Edinburgh will end our writing about trains in this travelogue.

We saw a Flying Scotsman train in Ottawa while on a Canadian tour about 1933. There is not much change in appearance. No streamlining with dome cars similar to the Canadian Pacific Dominion.

However, this train really flies along the rails. The distance, to be exact, is 392¾ miles. Running time is six hours. Thus, average speed is about 66 mph. We had a few slow orders, track maintenance, plus a brief stop at Newcastle. Add a solid eight minute wait for a green block at Berwick-on-Tweed, England to Scotland crossing, so on the straightway there is no doubt this internationally known train is aptly named the Flying Scotsman by British Railways.

Emerging from the station shadows by taxi to central Edinburgh, glittering in brilliant sunshine, is entirely different to Paris, London, Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Hotels and stores border one side of the main street fittingly christened Princess.

Across from a six traffic lane width is Scott's momument in a tree-lined park with green lawns and numerous flower beds, multicoloured at their September best. From here the terrain dips gully-like, then slopes high especially to the rocky promontory crowned with that historic jewel — Edinburgh Castle.

Whether by accident or design the original planners eliminated congestion from the core of Edinburgh by expanding and increasing the panoramic work of nature with a setting of charm and beauty that gives Scotland's Capital a lofty rating in this respect among world capitals. That is capital in spirit to Scots everywhere; not in the sense of Government.

The Castle side of this reclaimed narrow loch is not unlike Parliament Hill and Wellington Street west of Ottawa's Rideau Canal. In fact you might think Colonel By copied the plan. This area, obviously, was the beginning of Edinburgh, and is the old town. The main streets are known as the Golden Mile extending from the Castle to Holyrood.

Among the many notable stone buildings, all classics of architecture

IT'S OUR OPINION

Much For Which To Give Thanks

Depressing, the weekend weather, was it not? Especially on a holiday weekend such as Thanksgiving when we should have been in a tranquil, relaxed mood, in tune with nature at its autumnal best, properly thankful for all the bounties the summer had brought.

Saturday's hint of snow was more than a little frustrating and that cold drizzle of rain was calculated to spoil plans for a last game of golf or other outdoor sortie. If we had to have rain on the holiday weekend we might better have had a real wetting, an all-day downpour sufficient to replenish farm wells and help restore the water table.

The weatherman was not co-operative but we in Glengarry are perhaps a bit spoiled. We have it so good most of the year mayhap we should be overlooking Saturday's serving of cold drizzle and looking back gratefully on all the fine days and weeks we knew this summer.

In the Thanksgiving spirit we could be thankful for at least the bit of rain that fell on Saturday. Much more is needed in Glengarry before the winter sets in in earnest and we can have faith that it will be provided in good measure. This year's harvest may not have been as bountiful as usual, milk flow may have been down, but we have a happy summer clime free of the excesses suffered in less blessed areas of the earth.

Disappointing the weekend weather may have been, but at this Thanksgiving of 1965 we could find much for which to be truly thankful.

We Should Be Ashamed

Her Majesty the Queen has come and gone and there can be little satisfaction for Canadians in her visit. Rather are we shamed by the lack of hospitality shown her in Quebec City and by the extent of the security measures it was thought necessary to surround her with.

The Canadian family must indeed be in a sad state when it can so forget the elementary rules of good taste and hospitality; when its members are so immersed in bitter wrangling a guest is not safe within our own gates. Whether Queen or commoner the visitor among us should be made welcome, should be shown at least a surface courtesy. When they are invited guests then it becomes mandatory on all members of the family, even the spoiled children, to be on their best behaviour until the visitors leave.

Such was not the case when the Queen came to Quebec City. There the spoiled brats of separatism showed open hostility, jeered and derided our guests. Not only did the kids flout all the rules of hospitality to shame the whole family. The security measures were evidently so stringent in Charlottetown and Ottawa, too, as to remove all warmth and spontaneity from the welcoming. The parents appeared so worried as to how the kids would behave, the guests must have been left with the wish they had not come.

This was not a happy visit the Queen and Prince Philip had among us. They came at the invitation of our government, out of a sense of duty and with the prior knowledge they would not be warmly welcomed by all the members of the family. There was even the threat that violence might be met with and the measures taken to guard against it ruled out any thought of free and easy association with their Canadian hosts.

Prime Minister Pearson has already invited the Queen to return in 1967 to open the World's Fair at Montreal. We wonder if our government should not be slower in issuing such invitations when it has no way of knowing the warmth of the welcome the Queen would receive.

There are no doubt many in our Canadian family who will stridently insist on the parental right to issue such an invitation. But if it is to prove such an embarrassment to the whole family as was this week's show of abyssmal inhospitality there are those who would say it is not doing Her Majesty a favor to ask her to face up to a return visit so soon.

If we have problem children the invited guest may prefer not to darken our door. The Queen is in no position to refuse if government decides in its greater wisdom that her presence would serve a useful purpose. But have we grown so selfish and ungentlemanly that we would again put a lady in the difficult position in which Queen Elizabeth found herself on this visit to Canada?

Let's put our house in order. Let's work toward a warmer feeling of family living before we subject any guest to so inhospitable a treatment.

Never Enough Income

A recent letter to the editor dealt with the financial squeeze being felt by a breadwinner earning as little as $1.30 an hour. These wage-earners are going steadily deeper into debt, our correspondent suggested and he complained that some person or persons unknown is deliberately keeping wage rates down to the minimum.

Town Council or other businessmen may be the culprits, he suggested, in order to hold down their own wage scales and ensure a profit.

Periodically through the years our letters' column has included this same charge and each time council has been quick to give it the lie, just as did Mayor Periard in our last issue. To his knowledge, wrote the mayor, council has never even discussed wage rates except in relation to corporation employees.

We believe him, as we respected such denials by past councils. It would be the height of folly for councillors to hope for re-election if they were found to be using their influence to hold down wage rates. Politicians are usually found on the side of labor which carries greater voting power than do the employers. Periodically the votes of all the people are tabled and the practical politician must keep in the good graces of the greatest number possible if he hopes to remain in office. He would be flirting with political suicide if he were found ranged on the side of big business, striving to hold wages to a bare subsistence level.

It is probably true that contractors and companies moving into any area make it a practice to find out the going rates in that region for any type of labor. The profit motive is still primary in our society and government would not have to legislate minimum wage laws if the employer was not intent on hiring at the lowest possible hourly rates.

We can have sympathy with the viewpoint of our correspondent. The laborer at the bottom of the wage scale must be having it tough in this era of spiralling living costs and increasing automation. Higher taxes to meet the expanding costs of give-away government are also making it rough for pensioners and others on a fixed income.

The cost of so-called security from the cradle to the grave comes high and the pinch will become more pronounced as portable pensions and other such schemes are added to the already onerous tax load.

The laborer trained in no specific trade is finding it increasingly difficult to earn even his sustenance. Education offers a hope at least for those young enough to return to school.

"Where does the rest of the money come from", asks our correspondent after detailing only some of the essential costs of living today? This is a problem that becomes ever more irksome in the free-spending era in which we live.

To The Point

In business, as in government, bigness hath dangers all its own, though not everyone would agree that bureaucracy must be its inevitable hand-maiden.

Yet wise executives of great corporations will not fail to see in the insidious growth of unnecessary paperwork a major threat to corporate efficiency, and be on guard against it.

One such, the president of a giant world-wide concern, in a (brief) message to his fellow-employees, reminds them that the length of a communication is no guide to its importance, neatly illustrating his point with the following imperishable examples:

The Weeklies Say

TRAIN FARMERS

The increasing size of farm units and the use of advanced technology requires more highly specialized managerial skill and less untrained labor. These facts emphasize why young people, should secure further training. —Altona (Man.) Red River Valley Echo.

MAKE SOME NOISE

It seems that someone somewhere has to get angry and make all kinds of threats before action is taken. A placid attitude and quiet pleadings do not seem to be bothered with . . . So let's keep shouting and perhaps we can get things done. —Beauharnois (Que.) Gleaner

CHIVAREE

The wedding night "chivaree" could be a little more lively and demonstrative, especially serenading the bride and groom. Why it used to be that a chivaree wasn't a chivaree at all if there weren't a couple of 12 gauge shot-guns present and two or three circular saws with sufficient hammers to beat out a deafening rumpus. And if one couldn't hear the noise for several miles it wasn't considered much of an affair. In another 10 years, if things keep on the way they're going, chivarees may be reduced to listening to tape recordings. —Hartland (N.B.) Observer

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN FROM THE PRESS

Some of the worst writing on the Royal Visit came as the Britannia was ferrying the Queen and Prince Philip from Charlottetown to Quebec City. The wire services really went to town as they pictured that dauntless little lady, chin up as she was being carried to an unknown fate in Quebec's capital city.

A threat to the Queen's person was clearly inferred by those dispatches from Charlottetown and meantime other reporters were filing from Quebec City their lurid interviews with would-be assasins. Some of these stories were obviously manufactured out of whole cloth but their very volume and the build up over many weeks were calculated to create tension right across the nation.

So many forecasts of the cool welcome awaiting Her Majesty in Quebec must have been calculated too, to force the hand of the separatists. They were put in a position where they had to produce some sort of mob reaction or be found chicken.

And so the royal functions were curtailed with an eye to security, Quebec City was blanketed with police and soldiers to such a degree the people wisely decided it was safer to see Her Majesty on television than to leave their homes for a real life view.

The worst writing on this Royal Visit we saw could be attributed to the wire services. But many of the dailies overplayed it in their own reporting and television and radio often were equally fond of fishing for the sensational rather than the less lurid facts.

The Warren Commission, looking into the assassination of the late President Kennedy, found much to criticize in the manner in which the press, TV and radio are presenting the news. A new code of ethics is needed, that Commission concluded.

The coverage of the Queen's visit by the Canadian news services points up the fact they are just as addicted to making mountains out of molehills as are their American mentors.

FEW PHONIES AMONG FARMERS

There are few phonies among farmers compared to the numbers in the cities, an experienced observer of the human scene, once remarked.

His explanation was simple, states the Windsor Star. Farmers are too close to the realities of life, and too well-known to their neighbors, to be phonies. Any such tendency would make them the laughing stock of their community.

There are, of course, varying degrees of phoniness. Some individuals are very much so; others to a lesser degree. But all have one enemy in common. This is the man, or woman, who knows them too well. The phonies are cut down to size once people get to know them well.

That is why phonies are unfortunate people. They lack true friends. Friendship implies knowledge and understanding of one another. Phonies can't afford to be understood.

Things 'n Stuff

By WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Let me revive two old-time gags for your diversion:

A farmer consulted a doctor complaining about insomnia. He just couldn't sleep nights. The doctor studied his case and gave him several useful hints. Just as his patient was leaving the doctor said:

"And here's another suggestion. Take a warm bath before retiring."

"I'll do that, Doc," said the farmer. "But I don't intend to retire for five years yet!"

A minister, making a pastoral call on a Sunday afternoon, was shocked to find the young lady of the family banging out a loud and fast jazz piece on the piano. He walked up to her and said:

"My child, do you know the Ten Commandments?"

And she replied: "No, but if you whistle a couple of bars I'll soon catch on to it."

Be seein' ya.

STRAIGHT SHOOTING

Most hunters pride themselves on common sense and good sportsmanship. They do not abandon wounded animals, for example, nor do they expose other people to danger from their firearms. Yet every autumn, certain non-thinking individuals violate the code by taking chances that could just as effectively end in tragedy as if a random shot were taken into a family home. This type of person, perhaps disappointed at returning with an empty bag, relieves his frustrations by taking pot shots at vital telephone cable. Eventually rain seeps into the damage, disrupting communications and leaving entire families — often in remote areas — without the protection of telephone service. Since this type of "hunter" never knows that a doctor or police or firemen couldn't be called in time because the telephone was out of order, his conscience never bothers him. Presumably if he took a pot shot through a window and scurried away, his conscience wouldn't bother him either.

CIRCLES WORTH KNOWING ABOUT

Among important safety practices by telephone employees on and off the job is the "Circle of Safety", a habit encouraged in all drivers of telephone vehicles.

Before starting to drive, a telephone man walks completely around his car or truck to make sure no small child or inquisitive animal is under or even near it. He also checks for assorted toys, bicycles and other obstructions, open doors or improperly secured locks.

Senior Footballers Keep Winning With 15-7 Decision At Hawkesbury

Playing on a rain-soaked Hawkesbury field described as a quagmire, Alexandria High's undefeated senior football squad emerged with a 15-7 victory Friday over the Hawkesbury home forces. Bruce Poleet piloted the team smartly in the absence of injured quarterback Don McEwen.

Burns McPherson scored the first major on an off-tackle slant from six yards out. Jim MacGillivray cracked over from one yard out in the final frame to count another Alexandria major. It was converted by Myron McCormick who had earlier kicked two singles.

The Glengarrians 15-point margin was cut in half seconds after the MacGillivray major when a Hawkesbury receiver took the kick-off and ran the left sideline the length of the field. The convert was counted on a pass play but the visitors used good ball control to prevent further scoring.

Char-Lan plays here Friday.

Former Minister At St. Elmo Dies

Many friends throughout the district learned with deep regret of the death of Rev. Gordon L. Hamill of Markham, Ont., who died in the Scarborough General Hospital on Sunday, October 4th.

Mr. Hamill was student minister of Gordon Presbyterian Church, St. Elmo, in 1946. He was widely known as a past president of the Ontario Presbyterian Young People's Society.

Mr. Hamill was a native of Ottawa. Educated there he graduated with the Bachelor of Arts degree. He was also a graduate of Knox College, Toronto. He served in Durham, Ont., before becoming minister of St. Andrew's Church, Markham.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jessie Hamill; his wife, the former Anne Ryrie, and two daughters, Elizabeth and Susan.

The funeral, held under the auspices of the Presbytery of East Toronto, was held in St. Andrew's Church, Markham, with interment following in the church cemetery.

Zion Church Apple Hill Marks 75th Anniversary

An epoch-making event in the history of Zion United Church, Apple Hill, took place when the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Church was observed on Sunday, Sept. 20th. Capacity congregations filled the church morning and evening. Many former friends were present from the neighboring communities and from Ottawa, Kingston and Montreal. The guest speakers were Rev. John Hurst of Kirk Hill, a veteran of 50 years in the ministry, and Rev. H. W. Giffin of Ingleside. Both brought timely and challenging messages for the occasion. Rev. W. A. Glazer of Long Sault, chairman of Glengarry Presbytery, brought greetings.

In the morning, the local choir was assisted in providing special music by Donrey McIntosh and Marilyn Willis of Maxville, who sang a duet, and by Mr. and Mrs. John D. McIntosh of Kingston. Mrs. G. W. Avis of Martintown, officiated at the organ. In the evening, Miss Lena McLaren of Ingleside took charge of the music. A number of old-time favorites were enjoyed with enthusiasm. A ladies' trio from Ingleside gave two beautiful numbers, under the direction of Miss McLaren.

Many congratulatory letters and generous contributions were received from friends from afar. Among them was word from Mrs. (Rev.) E. W. Horton of Kingston, a granddaughter of the late Rev. D. D. McLennan who started the church in 1839. He was followed by eleven ministers of whom only two, Rev. H. B. Johnson and Rev. P. J. Lambert, are living and active in the pastoral work. The present minister is Rev. R. A. McRae.

Sincere tribute was paid to those faithful ones of other days. The church underwent many improvements during the years to make and keep it a beautiful village church. The present addition is a new church hall which is under construction.

A social half hour followed the evening service when many met in the new hall to renew old acquaintances and make new ones. On Tuesday evening the Anniversary Banquet was held. It passed all records in attendance and in the

Couple Wed At Avonmore

BENDER—McELHERAN

St. James United Church, Avonmore, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, Sept. 26th, when Marilyn Kay McElheran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose McElheran, Moose Creek, became the bride of Glenn H. Bender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bender, Monkland. Rev. Donald W. Pipe, BA, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, in a setting of lighted candles, bronze, yellow and white mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a full-length gown of saita peau, fashioned with a sabrina neckline with seed pearls and sequins, a court train falling from self bow at back, and long lily-point sleeves. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid and stephanotis.

The bridal attendants were the bride's two sisters, Miss Sandra McElheran, as maid of honor, and Miss Donna McElheran, as bridesmaid, and the groom's sister, Miss Merle Bender, as the third attendant. They wore identical emerald green peau de soie full length gowns.

Miss Ann Coleman, the flower girl, wore a long peau de soie gown, fashioned similarly to the bride's. Dale Coleman was the ring-bearer.

Maurice Villeneuve, Monkland, was best man. Ushers were Sterling McElheran, Ottawa, and Carmen Bender, Monkland.

Miss Shirley Presley, Newington, the bride's cousin, was soloist.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Moose Creek Community Hall. Guests were present from Ottawa, Maxville, New Jersey, Toronto, Iroquois Falls and Prescott.

Later the happy young couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Northern Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a red and black tweed suit with black and white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Bender will reside at 207 Baldwin Street, Cornwall.

Prior to her marriage the bride-elect was honored at two showers. Mrs. Archie Dore and Mrs. John Dore were hostesses for the shower held in the Community Hall, Moose Creek. Hostesses of the second shower, held at the home of Mrs. Ray Alguire, Strathmore, were Mrs. Alguire, Mrs. David Coleman, Mrs. Wilfred Coleman, Mrs. Milton MacIntosh, and Mrs. George MacGregor.

Angus Rides...

and masonry craftsmanship, you will see the Assembly Hall of the Church of Scotland, Bank of Scotland and St. Giles Cathedral. We were told that a Presbyterian Church cannot properly be called a Cathedral, however, many years ago during a brief period of Episcopal rule, the seat of a bishop, was so named and the name Cathedral has remained. The seating, as in St. Mary's Cathedral, is chair-style unlike our Canadian custom. Near the entrance is a statue of John Knox, minister of St. Giles following the Reformation.

Within the ramparts of the Castle there are several buildings, all steeped in history, from the present day Scottish National War Memorial all the way back to the Castle Royal apartments where Queen Mary Stuart gave birth to a son who was heir to two kingdoms. Here, too, is Edinburgh's oldest building, St. Margaret's Chapel. The chapel was built in Norman design, stone of course, is 25 feet long and 10 wide.

History has recorded that Queen Margaret attended this chapel and a tiny, stained-glass window honors her saintly, civilizing virtue. Queen Margaret died in 1066 and was canonized in 1249.

Now let us go back across to Princess Street, the new town of Edinburgh, and stroll leisurely through the fields of arts, professions, engineering and finance; those fields of endeavour that Scotsmen are renowned in throughout the world.

By way of the North Bridge and Mound you are close to the Royal Scottish Academy and National Gallery of Scotland that places emphasis upon Scottish art. We have already mentioned Scott's monument and among several more including plaques you will note memorable tributes to Robert Louis Stevenson and Robbie Burns.

Alexander Graham Bell is remembered and as you drive by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons you recall the names of Canadian doctors who attended this distinguished medical seat of learning including, if memory serves us correctly Glengarry's late Dr. Howard Munro.

In stately, modern stone buildings you will see the familiar names of Canadian Insurance Companies, these their Head Offices in some cases, and no end to banks. There are two other notable establishments the Zoological Gardens and the Royal Botanical Gardens.

And now we leave Edinburgh via a pleasant driveway bordered by municipal golf courses, six in all, two of the finest Scottish feats in engineering come into full majestic view the famed Firth of Forth Railway bridge and the new four-traffic lane Forth Road bridge recently completed and officially opened by Her Majesty the Queen on September 4th. The railway bridge designed by John Fowler hardly requires a review as a picture and story was a feature of our old public school geography and the Quebec Bridge was built along similar lines.

The lines of the Forth Road bridge are somewhat like Ivy Lee near Brockville. This bridge was designed by Sir Gilbert Giles and took six years to build at an approximate cost of 60 millions. The center span is 3300 feet long with only the San Francisco bridge and four others exceeding this, the fifth longest center span in the world.

Now let us hit the open road and make no mistake by veering from the left side to right through force of habit. From the new bridge north through Kinross to Perth is a profitable - looking agricultural area. We stayed overnight at Kinross in the Prime Minister's riding. During a brief discussion with the hotel manager relative to the current election a reply to our query as to the chances of the government being returned to office had an Ottawa City ring. We were told not to bet against Sir Alec Douglas Home.

Before leaving Ottawa we asked an ex-alderman what were the chances of Mayor Whitton being re-elected. We received the same reply, "Don't bet against Charlotte."

In Perth we called at the Head Office of the General Accident Assurance Company to see Mr. MacDonald, Chief General Manager, whom we had the pleasure of meeting in Ottawa in 1961. Mr. MacDonald was in Glasgow; however, we received a warm welcome from Mr. Browning, the Deputy General Manager.

Mr. Browning was quite interested in Canada, not only from a business point but also political and, of course the welfare of Her Majesty while visiting our country.

Leaving Perth you are officially in the Highlands. We must have been because after driving a few miles we came to a roadside inn named The Highland Hotel. My co-pilot suggested that this was an apt place to stop for lunch and the pause that refreshes.

Here we sought information as to seeing Balmoral Castle. We were told that to insure the Royal Family complete privacy the Castle was so secluded it could only be seen and photographed from a distance. It was suggested that we check with someone close by and be shown the only favorable lookout.

Beyond Braemar we stopped at a roadside inn to be guided to the suggested hill that would permit a view of Balmoral. By a pleasant co-incidence the hotel owner was Alastair Thain an executive member of Braemar Royal Highland Society the sponsors of Braemar Highland Games. Her Majesty the Queen attends the games as the Royal patron. Among the Vice-Patrons is His Grace the Duke of Fife.

When we told Alastair Thain we were honored and privileged to be Chairman of Canada's Glengarry Highland Games the red carpet was rolled out.

It was pleasing to learn that the achievements of the Glengarry Highland Games are known to the men of Braemar. Mr. Thain was amazed that the size of Glengarry County possessed so much Scottish magnetism as to draw crowds of 20,000 and 29 pipe bands.

Here at Braemar 12 bands are invited. This must be done by invitation to avoid pipe band entries from many places seeking the honor of playing before Her Majesty.

The Braemar Games open at 9.30 a.m. The program is similar to ours with some additions. The shot putt, throwing the hammer and tug of war are all featured. Tossing the caber, first local then open is scheduled for 2.30 p.m. The caber is (local) 17 ft. 3 in. weighing 91 pounds. The massed bands play at 10.45 a.m., 12 noon and at 3 p.m. Their record crowd is 35,000 with an average attendance of 30,000.

From the crest of a high hill on a road similar to a little used Glengarry side road; we had an excellent view of Balmoral Castle. The Royal Family holiday here especially in August during the grouse shooting season and the deer stalking (hunting). The Castle is densely surrounded by trees, located across the River Dee from the highway to Aberdeen and to say it is hidden is the understatement of the year.

Beginning at this point we were initiated to driving in the Highlands on a paved road, single lane, with posts painted black and white indicating meeting places.

This ribbon of pavement threaded over the hills into the valleys and in some places literally pinned to the side of a gorge. There were sheep grazing everywhere from the roadside to high on the hillsides. Incidentally sheep have the right of way and the driver is duely warned. Shepherds and sheep were here long before Henry Ford replaced the shafts of a single buggy with a gas engine.

There were picturesque clusters of farm homes and crossroads with the tiny kirk. However, in contrast, there were some abandoned homes that lend a sombre note and even the heather seemed to have faded earlier than in other parts of the hills.

This drive across from Balmoral Castle to Inverness took us through the clan lands of the Gordons, Grants and Brodies to mention a few in passing. The first familiar road sign near the battle ground of Culloden Moor was Brodie and just beyond Inverness we were in Dalkeith.

We will pick you up next week here in the heart of the Highlands injecting the experience of attending a political rally along with driving from Inverness to the Isle of Skye and the possibility of a side trip to Aberdeen to attend part of the Gaelic Mod Musical Festival.

Arnprior Artist To Have Ceramics Display

Farm tile clay from the Dochart deposits near Arnprior, Ontario, has been used to create brilliant ceramics of Canadian subjects which will form the first Exhibition of the Ottawa Valley Council of Art, on October 17th and 18th, at Arnprior.

Jarko Zavi, ceramic artist and chemist, searched for many years in Canada for a clay which would be comparable to European clay for ceramic use. In spite of discouraging reports from experts, Jarko hit upon this Dochart clay and experimented with this and other clays from the Toronto area until he has developed a slip which he has used for outstanding work that has won top honors at International shows, and brought him an international award at Milan, Italy, in 1963. Jarko has used Canadian subjects, Canadian clays, and Canadian glazes of exceptional brilliance and value.

The subjects which Jarko uses are those which are dearly familiar to him — the gulls which he watched wheel and turn and rest in strange loneliness at his river shore home in Cobourg, have been recreated in his skillful hands from Dochart clay. The Canada Goose, rising from the marshes, or descending in flight, have been caught in three rarely beautiful ceramics. One of these Geese centers the mantel in the drawing room of the Prime Ministerial Mansion. Mrs. Pearson graciously accepted this fine ceramic from Mrs. J. S. McKay of Dochart Brick and Tile at the opening of the Exhibits at the Ottawa Winter Fair in 1963. Grouse, bobwhites, bison, bears—all these which mean Canadian wild life — have fascinated Jarko and have provided him with models for Ceramics Canadiana.

These are a few of the fifty Ceramic which the Ottawa Valley Council of Art will exhibit at this Jarko Zavi Day on Saturday, October 17th, and Sunday October 18th in Saint John Chrysostome's Parish Hall in Arnprior. The Council was initiated this year to develop exhibits of Ottawa Valley and artists. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McKay of Arnprior undertook to establish the Council, and to have it well under way by the time of Canada's Centennial, so that Valley Artists in every media might be introduced to their own Valley, and from there to the Province, the nation, and through tourists and visitors, to the world.

The members of the board of Directors for the Ottawa Valley Council of Art is not yet completed. Mr. J. S. McKay is the president; Mrs. J. S. McKay is the vice-president; Mr. E. D. Sonnenburg is the secretary; Mrs. J. J. Greene is the treasurer. Others in the world of art have shown their interest and co-operation.

One sad and lonely year has passed
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that day
No one can ever tell.
God gave us strength to meet it
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it means to lose you,
No one will ever know.
It's lonely here without you,
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to us
Since you were called away.
You bade no one a last farewell,
Nor even said "goodbye",
You were gone before we realized
And only God knows why.
—Ever remembered by father,
