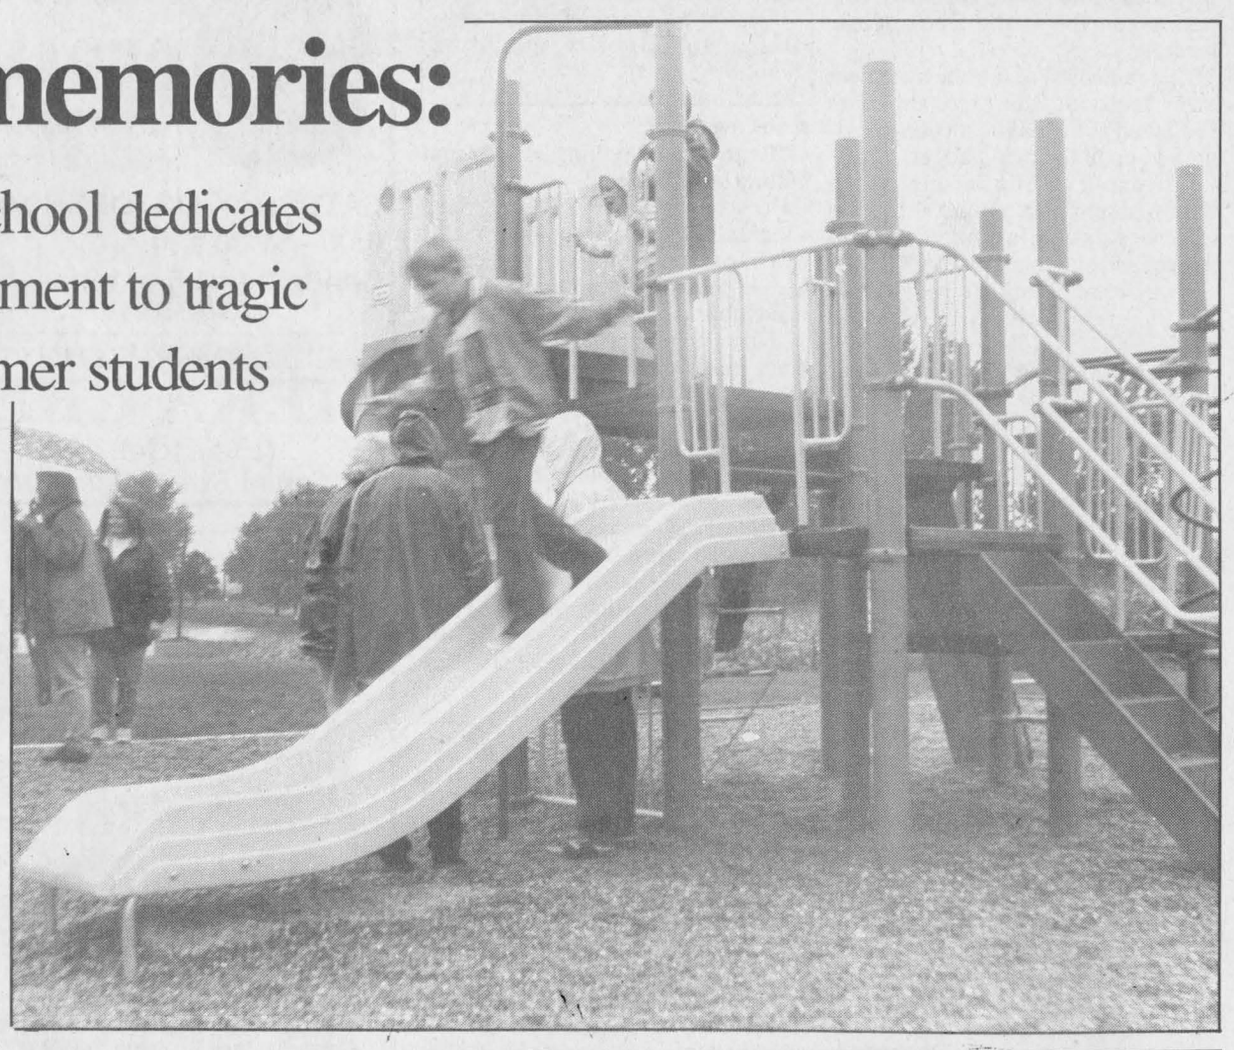
Living memories:

Laggan Public School dedicates playground equipment to tragic deaths of two former students



By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Blessed with a warm fall rain, a playground opened at Laggan Public School in memory of two former students.

The playground, built through school fund raisers and community contributions, was officially opened and dedicated Saturday.

About 40 people stood in the warm drizzle to watch as Principal Maureen Hart commemorated the site in honor of Jamila Williams and Mary Rae McMaster.

Williams was tragically killed when struck by a car after running after a ball on the road last year during her birthday party.

MacMaster, a student at the school in the '70s, was killed when her car collided with another vehicle on Highway 43 due to a whiteout caused by a snowblower.

It was William's father, Dekton, who officially opened the playground.

The beaming Williams received enthusiastic hugs from Hart, and committee chairperson Sandy Thomas after snipping a red ribbon strung from playground equipment.

"We would just like to show our appreciation to the community," Williams said after the ceremony.

The appreciation is not just for honoring Jamila and McMaster, but for building something to be enjoyed by present and future students.

He said area residents have been "very supportive" since Jamila's death.

"For that we are very grateful," he said.

He asserted he does not believe there is another community like this, and there is nowhere else he would rather live.

His wife, Paulette, said school teachers have always been supportive, even before the death of their daughter.

They were always willing to listen to whatever concerns they had, she said.

Thomas and the playground committee launched into action after the existing playground was deemed unsafe by the school board.

Members raised money by selling shares and holding a variety show and craft sale.

Students also contributed through noon-hour bake sales and the sale of bicycle helmets.

Helping make the fund raiser a success were the contributions of the community and the families of the two students, Thomas said.

The brightly appointed playground contains a host of kid attractions, including monkey bars, slides, a 20-person "see-saw snake" and a school bus with letters inside and a slide.

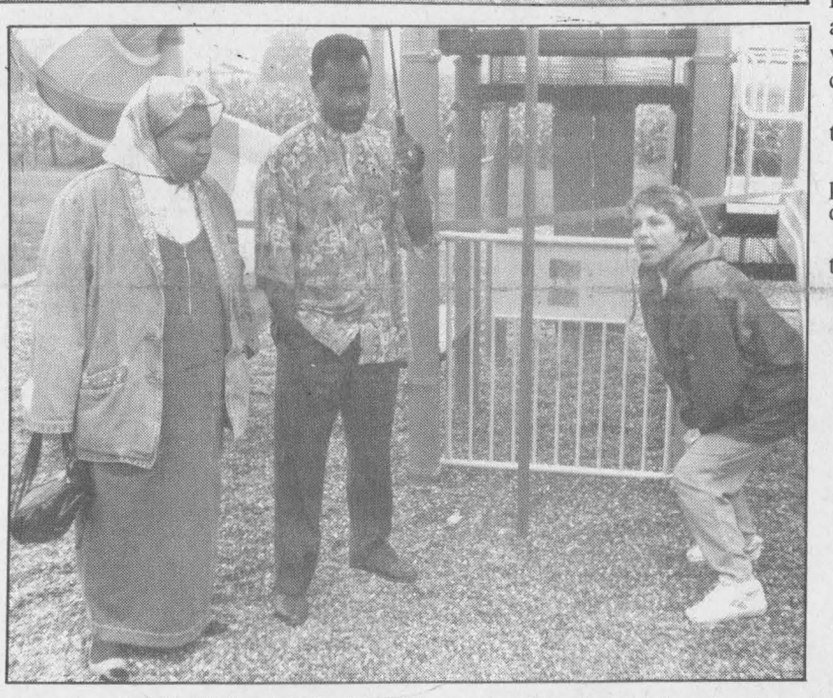
The playground was designed to appeal the the whole range of student ages, said Thomas.

"They seem to really enjoy it," she said.

"They wanted to play on it before it was finished."

Thomas said committee members felt it was fitting to dedicate it in the memory of the two students, whose families contributed to make the project a reality.

"They all agreed it was the best way to go."



Laggan Public School Principal Maureen Hart (immediately above) reads a plaque dedicating a new playground during a ceremony Saturday, in memory of two former students killed in tragic accidents. Looking on are the parents of one of the former students, Dekton and Paulette Williams, whose daughter Jamila was killed last year when struck by a car during her birthday party. The students couldn't wait to try out the new equipment, and a youth (top photo) on the slide after the ceremony was no exception.

RRCA to stay, board agrees

But the conservation authority's mandate won't be decided until its next meeting

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority board decided it will keep the authority, but it couldn't decide how much power to give it at its Sept. 24 meeting.

The board agreed the RRCA would at least manage water control structures, but didn't want to vote on what other duties it would take on.

Instead, board members will go back to their councils when they have more numbers and get direction before they vote at the next RRCA meeting on Oct. 17.

"That's something that's a council decision, not my decision as a member of the board" since it deals with the municipal levy, Charlottenburgh Reeve Leslie O'Shaugnessy said yesterday.

Kenyon township representative David Filion wanted to vote right away on two business plans put forward by the RRCA's executive committee.

But the vote ended in a four to four tie.

Filion said he supported the first plan that saw a bigger role for water quality monitoring.

"Out of all the public meetings, that one (dealing with water quality) was loud and clear," Filion told the News last week.

In the first plan, municipal levies would stay about the same and the RRCA would continue to manage water control structures like Loch Garry, monitor water quality and give input into land management.

The staff would be cut from 11 to five or six and the remaining staff would have to accept salary reductions in the neighborhood of five to 20 per cent.

In the second proposal, municipal levies would drop by 80 per cent and the RRCA would only manage flood control structures, which are still funded by the province.

Staff would be cut down to one or two people who would have to accept salary reductions.

In either scenario, the RRCA would retain ownership of Cooper Marsh, but would stop caring for the grounds and running educational programs in hopes that a community group would take over.

It would keep Gray's Creek Marina but would accept offers from anyone wanting to run or buy the marina.

The Martintown Mill would be transferred to the Martintown Mill Preservation Society.

Two more charged in Seguin beating

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

Alexandria police charged two more men with attempted murder in connection with the May 11 brutal beating of Bruno Seguin.

Christopher Jason McQuinn, 21, of Dollard des Ormeaux, Quebec, was arrested by Alexandria police at Surété de Quebec headquarters in Montreal on Sept. 29.

Shane Maloney, 19, of no fixed address, was arrested when he walked into the Alexandria police station on Sept. 30.

Both men were held in custody in Cornwall and will attend a bail hearing today.

The first man arrested and charged with attempted murder in the beating is George Hadland, 33, of Gallant Boulevard in Dorval.

Hadland was denied bail and is still in custody in Cornwall jail.

The arrests are the result of a five-month continuing investigation that began after police found Seguin beaten and unconscious at his Kenyon Street home.

Seguin, 53, was taken to hospital with serious head wounds which left him in a coma in an Ottawa hospital for 10 days.

His wallet and an amount of cash had been stolen.

Seguin could not tell police who had assaulted him or how many people were there.

The police investigation is still continuing.

Emotional scene described during Tuesday's trial

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

An emotional scene between mother and son in the kitchen the morning Jason Horvath was arrested and charged with first degree murder of Alexandria drug dealer Gerald Cuerrier, was described by police officers, at the Horvath trial in Cornwall Tuesday.

Two OPP officers had slightly different recollections of what Jason said to his mother after they arrested him in his bedroom, at 6 a.m., March 30, 1994.

Sobbing, his mother asked Jason as he was being led, handcuffed by two officers through the kitchen, "tell me you didn't do it Jason?"

OPP Det. Sgt. Jeffrey Graham testified that Jason replied, "Don't worry about it mom, please don't worry about it."

Later OPP Det. Con. Norman Marion testified that he thought he heard Jason say to his mother as he hugged her the morning of his arrest "Don't' worry about it mom if I didn't do it.

Both officers said Jason was in bed when they arrested him, cautioned him, told him of his right to counsel, and read him his supplementary rights.

They described him as upset and uncooperative. But his father Attila talked to him and he dressed and was handcuffed.

Sgt. Graham admitted during cross examination that he told Horvath the penalty for first degree murder was 25 years to life, as they travelled in a police cruiser, to the OPP office at Long Sault.

Graham said, "I did it to scare him (Horvath)".

Graham also asked Horvath during the cruiser ride if he knew the murder victim Gerald Cuerrier, did he know Cuerrier dealt drugs, and where Horvath was the night Cuerrier was murdered.

Const. Marion, who took notes of Horvath's replies, testified that Horvath said he knew "Gerry the queer," and that he had bought drugs from Cuerrier "once or twice" but denied having a "drug problem".

He also said that he had not seen Cuerrier for a "couple of weeks" and that he (Horvath) was at a bar in Dalhousie till after midnight the night of the murder.

Questioned about the whereabouts of Horvath's father's gun collection, both officers said Horvath told them the collection was at his dad's farm in Glen Robertson, not at the family home near Alexandria.

But Horvath also told police that a .357 cal. hand gun was missing and that he didn't know where it was.

Testimony Tuesday revealed that 32 people were interviewed by police March 29, the day before Horvath was arrested.

Horvath's trial, which is going into its third week is continuing.

Cuerrier, 54, was shot twice at his apartment in Alexandria March 23, 1994, but not found until several days later, March 28. Two 17-year-olds, who cannot be identified, were convicted earlier on charges of manslaughter in the case, and are serving sentences.

Three men charged in $160,000 drug bust

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

Area police charged three men and and seized 35 pounds of marijuana worth $160,000 after searching a Lancaster township residence on Sept. 24.

During the search, police also found equipment and supplies to process marijuana, said RCMP Const. Dawn Bradford.

The search was a joint effort of the Cornwall detachment of the RCMP, and Lancaster and Long Sault OPP.

Charged with possession of a narcotic for the purpose of trafficking as a result of the search are William Jacobs, 43, of Green Valley, and Steven Fourney, 39, of Lancaster township.

Ove Jensen, 35, of Apple Hill, was charged later that week with the same offense.

The three men will appear in Cornwall court later this month.

Boudria rewards courageous rescue

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

The heroic rescue effort that saved a Glen Robertson teen from drowning got official recognition Monday.

MP Don Boudria presented certificates to five people 18-year old Brian Brytak can thank for his life.

The award ceremony was held at S.J. McLeod Public School where three of the heros attend classes.

Lindsay Coleman, 10 and her 9-year-old twin brothers, Micheal and Barrington James (B.J.), were all commended in front of their Grade 4 and 5 classmates.

Their mother Bernice Coleman and Brytak's mother Linda were also given awards recognizing their efforts.

Together, the five had saved Brytak from drowning while he was swimming in the Coleman's pool at their Lancaster Heights home in August.

"It would have been a courageous effort, under any circumstances," said Boudria after the presentation, "but even more so because it worked. The victim is still with us," he added.

The rescue was truly a joint effort between the five award winners.

The Coleman twins, who were swimming with Brian at the time, notice he was in trouble and dragged him from the bottom of the pool.

Micheal went for help while B.J. held the drowning teen's head above water.

Bernice responded to Micheal's call, diving in the pool and bringing Brian out onto the deck.

She began giving him CPR and instructed Linda to breathe for her son.

Lindsay then ran of the house on her mother's orders and called the operator who transferred her to the police.

The 10-year old managed to keep her cool on the telephone as the police transferred her to the ambulance driver to give directions.

"It's important we recognize when young people do things like that," Boudria said.

While the Coleman children thought they only did what anyone would have done in the same situation, neighbor Theresa Sullivan thought a little more recognition was due.

Sullivan wrote to Boudria telling him of the amazing rescue hoping the group would get some recognition, and he agreed.

"When young people behave in a way that's not appropriate we're quick to remind them of it," Boudria said.

"But it's equally important that we recognize and pay tribute when they do participate in good deeds."

Bernice Coleman said the children are proud of their award even though they weren't expecting any recognition for their efforts.

"We just did something nice," Bernice said her daughter had told her.

Overhead hurting authority, says Preston

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

Overhead is hurting the Raisin Region Conservation Authority, says Lancaster township Deputy Reeve Steve Preston.

The overhead cost, which is mainly salaries, was pegged in at almost $400,000, about half of its locally funded budget.

"We've got to cut some of that overhead," Preston told The News last week.

The deputy reeve made the comment after he was given a statement of expenditures from the RRCA he had asked for at the final public meeting.

Preston had asked for the statement after realizing the program costs presented at the public meetings didn't add up to the total budget.

In its four public meetings, the RRCA said it cost $164,000 to keep its programs going but the local budget adds up to almost $800,000.

"They were telling the people they could stand alone with that ($167,000)," said Preston.

To run the RRCA's programs costs just under $400,000.

The other half is being paid out to a separate division called corporate services with includes insurance, equipment, some salaries and employee vacation time.

About $255,000 of corporate services is dedicated to salaries but the total wage bill is more than $500,000.

In Preston's opinion, cutting staff is the only way to reduce the enormous overhead.

"I can't see anything else except cutting staff," he said.

Preston said the RRCA board shouldn't have to close down facilities like Cooper Marsh to reduce the budget to deal with massive provincial cutbacks.

"I don't think that's the choice that's really there," he said.

If the RRCA had come up with a proposal that had $100,000 of overhead plus the programs, "the municipality probably wouldn't have said a word."

While Preston now has a copy of the expenditures, he, like many others at the final public meeting, still isn't clear just what the money is being spent on.

"It never came across where they spent it," he said.

RRCA will stay

Filion said that once the authority got out of the marina and education business, it could afford to keep water quality testing and environmental planning.

"Get rid of the two big ticket items," said Filion.

"Run a viable operation doing things an authority should be doing."

Glen Walter finally gets natural gas

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

After at least 10 years in the works, Glen Walter home owners will finally have natural gas.

Consumers Gas has already begun installing the lines that will run along Hwy 2 from Gray's Creek to the eastern limit of Glen Walter.

"It's at no cost us, and in fact, we're going to draw taxes from it", said township Reeve Leslie O'Shaugnessy.

"It's a revenue."

The revenue will come from assessment Consumers Gas will pay on the line.

Clerk Marcel Charbonneau said the township has been working with Consumers very aggressively for the last three years to interest them in coming to the township.

But it wasn't until Sept. 23 that employees of Consumers Gas met with Charlottenburgh council at its meeting and formally advised them of their plans.

O'Shaughnessy is hoping that the move into Glen Walter could mean natural gas hookups will appear in other surrounding towns like Martintown or Williamstown.

The township is hoping to convince the company to expand when it negotiates a new franchise deal with the township.

Consumers' 20-year franchise which gives it the exclusive rights to bring gas into the township expires in December of next year.

O'Shaugnessy said the township will ensure it has a commitment the company will expand before it signs another franchise deal.

"They're not going to get another 20-year franchise unless there's development in the township," he said.

Corrections

A story printed on page 3 in the Sept. 25 issue of The Glengarry News concerning the Alexandria Terry Fox Run said cancer victim Gerry Beauclair's U.S.-based treatments "should be completed by the middle to the end of October."

In fact, that's when the Glen Robertson man will undergo testing to determine how much longer he will have to remain on the treatment.

In a page 7 story, the News erroneously printed that new deacon Claude Brunet can celebrate masses.

In fact, he can only give the homily at a mass.

Council approves sale of former Glengarry Feeds

The former Glengarry Feeds property on Linsley Street in Alexandria, taken over by the town for back taxes earlier this year, has been sold.

Under provisions in the Municipal Tax Sales Act, a municipality can sell property to recover tax arrears on a property.

The company owed the town about $90,000 in back taxes.

Council approved the sale at its Sept. 23 council meeting after agreeing to sell it to the highest bidder, Ernest Bernique, for a price of $70,701.

That means a loss of just under $20,000 on the property, about a third of which the town will have to write off. The other two-thirds will be absorbed by the counties and the school board.

Glengarry Feeds, located across from the town railroad station, went out of business last year. The receivers holding the property have already removed the grain elevators.

The property was advertised by the town. Bernique had the best bid.

South end floats wetland idea

Three municipalities interested in taking over Cooper Marsh

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

The south end municipalities are drawing up a proposal to take over Cooper Marsh from the Raisin Region Conservation Authority.

"We think that Cooper Marsh can be run with no burden to the taxpayer," said Charlottenburgh Reeve Leslie O'Shaughnessy.

The proposal is being drawn up by Charlottenburgh, Lancaster village and Lancaster township to take over ownership of the marsh.

They're hoping to run the conservation area and visitors centre with the help of community organizations that have been springing up since the RRCA announced it no longer had the money to run it.

"We will work in cooperation with various groups to run it," said O'Shaughnessy.

The proposal is still in the preliminary stages, but the reeve said municipalities are expecting to run the administration with its accounting system already in place and will accept donations on behalf of the marsh.

"We have the facilities in house for the administration," he said.

"We want to make this as affordable for them as possible."

O'Shaughnessy said the municipalities will also make a monetary contribution the project.

The marsh is in Charlottenburgh, but with amalgamation talks to join the three municipalities in the works, O'Shaughnessy said his township didn't want to do it on its own.

Teachers bring in negotiation help

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Teachers in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are bringing in some extra muscle to help their negotiations with the school board.

The Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation voted overwhelmingly last week for provincial federation representatives to help move along the process.

The high school French and English teachers have been without a contract for more than a year.

The news was announced by OSSTF vice-president Paul Inksetter, following a vote held by local teachers Sept. 26 at schools throughout the board.

Bob Whittaker, manager of human resources with the school board, did not foresee any change in the negotiations.

"To the school board, it's transparent. It just means we'll be talking to the people of Toronto instead of to the local people," he said Tuesday.

Under the takeover, negotiations will be handled by a six-person team made up of three area teachers and three provincial officers.

"The teachers are committed to achieving an agreement which is in the interests of our students and public education in the area," said local President John McEwen.

"We have a good working relationship with the board."

"We are hopeful that a fair and equitable settlement can be reached in the near future that will allow the board and OSSTF to continue their long tradition of harmonious relations."

The two sides are to meet again next Wednesday and Thursday, the first round involving the provincial negotiators.

"The sooner a deal is reached, the sooner the local situation will return to its normal working relationship with the board," said Inksetter.

If bargaining becomes difficult, it is common for local leadership to request assistance from the provincial federation, according to the local federation.

Boudria feted for 20 years in politics

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

MP Don Boudria was feted for 20 years in politics in Alfred Wednesday night.

He was honored by Prime Minister Jean Chretien at the annual Red Leaf Dinner.

The $100-a-plate dinner raised funds for Boudria's re-election, drawing 425 people.

Boudria, who was lauded by Chretien for returning honor to politics, said he was "overwhelmed" by the celebration.

"Being in public office is a childhood dream. My dreams have come true. I'm very lucky," Boudria said Friday.

The MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, started in municipal politics in Cumberland township in 1976.

After a term as MPP for Prescott-Russell, he was elected federal MP in 1984, and has remained MP since.

"I have less hair than I used to. Otherwise it's the same," joked Boudria.

"I think I'm as enthusiastic as I was 20 years ago."

Boudria, in his message to supporters at the dinner, stressed that the voters deserve the credit for his success.

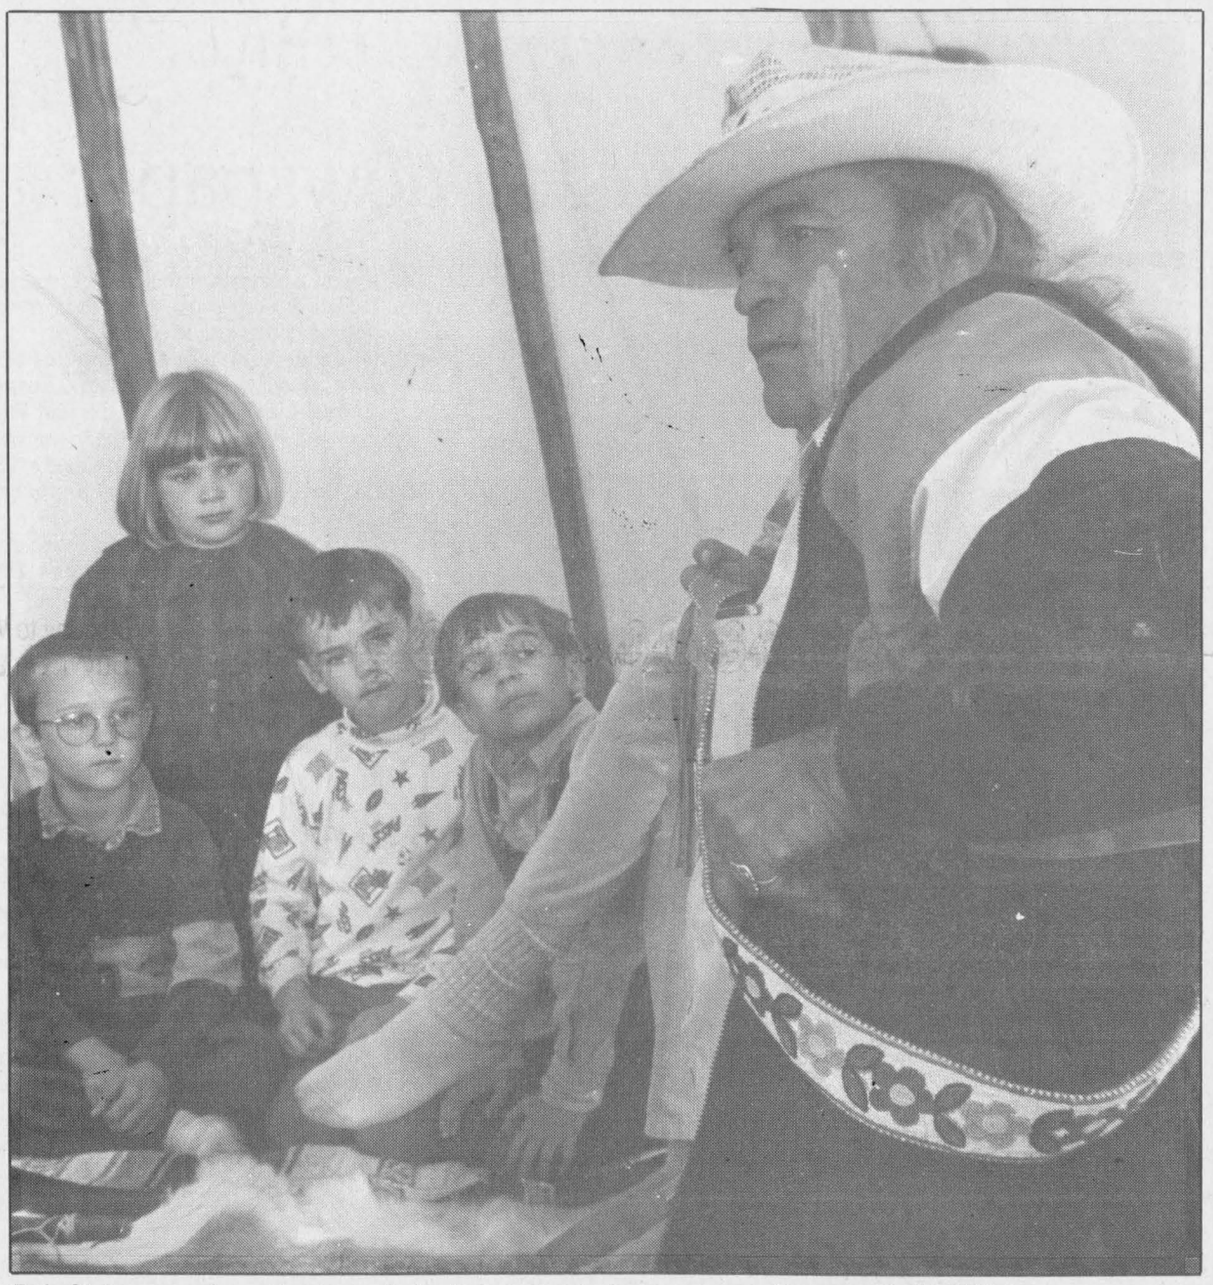
Running for office is not the reason he is MP, it is the fact people voted for him, he said.

Quoting former prime minister John Diefenbaker, Boudria said it is an "honor and a privilege" to serve in the Parliament.

That honor cannot be betrayed, he said.

"You have no right to be there. It's a privilege, not a right."

People who forget that – "usually they are not there very long," Boudria said.



Bob Stevenson shows Laggan students a native belt women used to carry their children.

Teepee teaching at Laggan school

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

Students at Laggan Public School were given a taste of native culture in a full-sized tepee last Thursday.

Each class was given about 15 minutes in the tepee to learn about wilderness survival and native ways from Bob Stevenson, educational coordinator of the environmental division of the Akwesasne Mohawk council.

His program not only teaches children to appreciate the native ways, but also to survive on their own if they're lost in the woods.

"Lately we've been hearing stories about kids that get lost," he said.

"Every year there's at least three or four cases of kids getting lost. We try to teach them basic survival skills."

Stevenson teaches children to combine their own culture with the native appreciation of nature to "live in the best of both worlds."

Stevenson has taught his program called Life Skills on the Land across the province and the northern United States.

"I'm starting to get calls from all over," he said.

Last May, Stevenson set up the tepee at Glengarry District High School and ran the same course for the geography classes.

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The following are among the topics discussed by Kenyon township council at a meeting held the evening of Wednesday, Sept. 25, at the township hall, Greenfield.

Salvage yard bylaw

A bylaw formalizing operations at Kenyon's salvage yards is under consideration.

It would oblige yard operators to name persons contracted to remove batteries, oil, freon and other potential hazards from the yards, among other requirements.

In a related matter, council considered again what to do with the salvage yard operated by Vincent Poirier on Highway 43.

In the past, council has considered the yard excessively messy, and Poirier is under a court order to keep it tidy.

The possibility of taking Poirier to court again was raised.

"I don't think we have a choice," said Councillor Kent MacSweyn. "He is in breach of probation."

Dump discussion

Council was surprised to hear from a representative of the provincial Ministry of the Environment that the township's two dumps are substandard.

Peter Taylor of the MOE said the township had failed to follow a schedule to correct "minor off-property contamination" on nearby ground and surface water.

Council responded that the township has followed carefully recommendations received from its environmental testing firm, Water & Earth Sciences.

It was decided to invite representatives of both the firm and the ministry to a future council meeting.

Laggan pit news

The provincial Ministry of Natural Resources has instructed the proprietor of a wayside gravel pit on Highway 34 near Laggan that "full rehabilitation" of the site is required by Nov. 25.

The Cornwall Gravel Co. pit has been idle for some time, though a pile of gravel and a weigh scale remain on the site.

Council decided to write a letter to Cornwall Gravel requesting that it either move the gravel from the site or level it as part of the rehabilitation program.

School question

The question of municipal financial support for the T.R. Leger Alternative School in Alexandria, brought varying responses from council members.

"How can we cut expenses if every effort is opposed?" wondered Councillor MacSweyn.

"Cut in the right places and I'll support it," said Deputy-Reeve Don Besner.

"Create one school board and combine bus routes, sure. But cut adult education? No."

Bicentennial logo

Look for the logo marking the bicentennial of Kenyon Township to start appearing on township stationery.

Kenyon will be marking its two hundredth anniversary in 1998.

The logo was designed by Dornie Road resident Janet Warne, a member of the Kenyon Bicentennial Committee.

Canadian missionary plants seed of hope in Jamaica

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

Members of the Bainsville United Church were given a chance to see their missionary dollars in action last Wednesday.

Rev. Anthony Bailey, a missionary with the United Church in Kingston, Jamaica, gave the congregation a snap shot of life in the inner city before he returns to the Caribbean next month.

As part of his speaking tour across Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, he visited Maxville United Church, the church of Anthony's father Rev. Frank Bailey.

In his presentation, complete with a slide show, Bailey explained the importance of missionary work in the poverty-stricken capital plagued with violence.

"The church is trying to address abuse, violence and lack of employment," said Bailey.

The country has had a history of violence since it was first conquered by the Spanish, the British and then immersed into the slave trade.

More than 200 years of wars and slavery has created a violent society and extreme poverty has only made things worse.

About 150,000 people live in Kingston in a very small area in the inner city.

With so many people competing for scare resources, violent confrontations are common.

"Very few people are dying of natural causes," said Bailey.

Within a two mile radius of his church, 21 funeral homes are thriving.

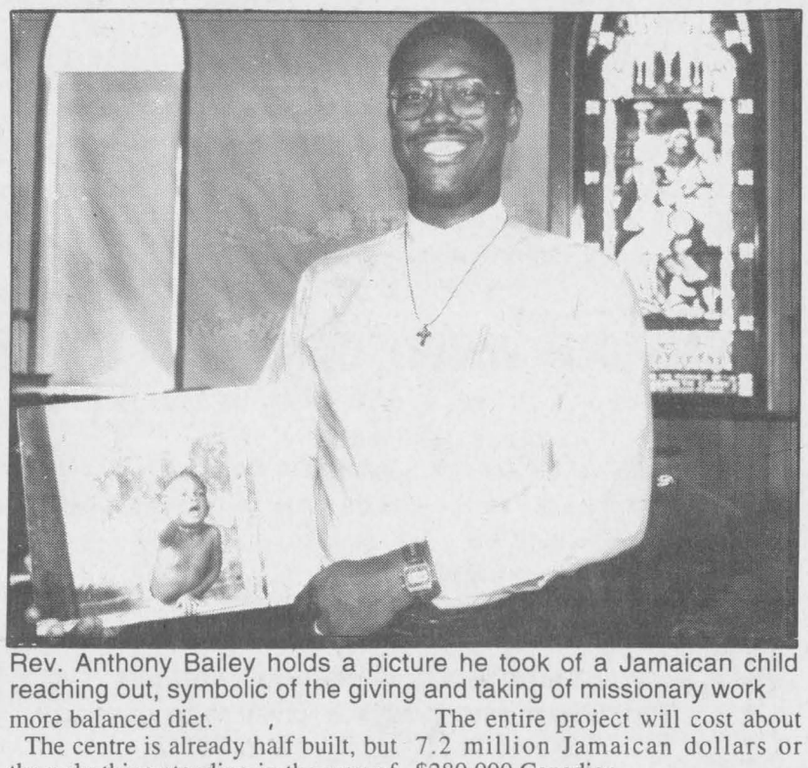
And with a reputation for violence and poverty, people in the inner city are often passed over for jobs.

"They're not given the opportunity to even be given a start," he said.

But instead of waiting for attitudes to change and for job openings to increase, Bailey and his church are opening a training and work centre.

In an abandoned warehouse donated to the church, the group is setting up a day care, bakery and training centre teaching trades.

By opening the day care, the church knows children are being cared for and the bakery promotes a more balanced diet.



Rev. Anthony Bailey holds a picture he took of a Jamaican child reaching out, symbolic of the giving and taking of missionary work

The centre is already half built, but the only thing standing in the way of its completion is money.

The entire project will cost about 7.2 million Jamaican dollars or $280,000 Canadian.

"We've got to do something proactive," said Bailey.

So far, the church has petitioned governments and corporate sponsors and has come up with $210,000.

The Canadian government was the first to give, sending a $35,000 cheque to the project.

"If money is the only option in which to make a difference in this society, we have to do it," said Bailey.

But the last $70,000 may be the hardest to find since most of the people and groups that would have given money already have.

In Jamaica, the spirit hasn't died with the income.

Volunteer labor is still strong and members of the church are doing whatever they can to fund raise for the project they hope will change their lives.

"Everybody is kind of bonding together to make this thing happen," he said.

While the resource centre is an important part of their work, the United Church spreads its energy into all areas of life.

As part of their mission, the church has become a political activist, defending the people against its government.

It is vocal on economic and political issues, meeting with national leaders to promote peace and equality in the country.

"You have to help people to feed themselves and to change the system that prevents them from feeding themselves," Bailey said.

Bailey attributes some of the country's problems to the CIA's efforts to destabilize it and transnational companies exploiting its resources, which has left the rich richer and the poor poorer.

But through all the troubles, Bailey said he's amazed by the hope, especially of the children.

"The encouragement is the small successes we see," he said.

Anyone wanting to send a donation to the missionary project in Jamaica can sent it to:

Is this what our tax cut will give us?

There's a major showdown coming over the fate of Highway 2, and Glengarry ratepayers and motorists who use the road stand to be the biggest losers.

The showdown stems from the expected shortchanging by the province of transfer payments to United Counties for assuming control of 72 kms. of Highway 2 after April 1, 1997. The province, under protest by counties council and despite an agreement to provide the necessary funds, has said it will only turn over $5 million of the $15 million required to bring the road up to minimum standards. Rehabilitation of the road without improvements would cost $8.5 million.

This means counties would take a double hit when it assumes the road because they will be assuming the debt of a substandard road and a future debt due to a lack of rehabilitation funds.

Counties roads engineer Donald McDonald, obviously reaching the end of his tether, has called the situation looming "major highway/road disaster."

But of more significance and interest locally is that the oldest section of the highway in SD&G lies between Cornwall and Lancaster. That portion needs major expensive rehabilitation just to bring it up to acceptable standards.

Delaying the reconstruction isn't an option that makes sense. McDonald has pointed out that if the road isn't fixed now, it's going to cost $10 in the future for every dollar of investment in the next year.

This is a serious blow by the province to an already underfunded roads system. Counties ratepayers are in no position to directly finance the millions more than what the province is willing to pay to bring the road up to minimum standards. Surely the province knows – as must Noble Villeneuve – that the lingering economic picture here is evidence that tax increases to fund Highway 2's reconstruction is out of the question.

And yet, the province knows that counties cannot let it continue to degrade and disintegrate as it has been. The road is an extraordinary vital link for the communities, homes and businesses which line the St. Lawrence from Cornwall to Lancaster. It is responsible for conveying and enhancing most of the tourist traffic along that stretch and for local motorists, there are simply no alternatives.

And this is to say nothing of the historic nature of Highway 2, a road which harkens back to the earliest beginnings of the "King's Highway."

Roads engineer McDonald goes a step further, arguing that county or secondary highways are the "backbone" that moves our rural economy.

"They are now severely underfunded," he said in a recent press release. "They are on the verge of failing. They are not a luxury. They are in trouble."

This is coming from a department head who must manage 745 kms. of rural secondary highway, one of the longest country road systems with one of the smallest relative support bases. And one who knows there is still $35 million in works already waiting to be addressed.

With the massive funding shortfall, the counties will be in the politically no-win situation of having to decide on which section will be done. We would think the oldest section – Lancaster to Cornwall – should have priority, but try explaining that to the folks between Cornwall and Morrisburg who have to endure their own problems on the old highway.

At the same time, the province appears determined to dump this mess into counties' laps exactly when the local communities are absorbed with the notion of amalgamation, a shrewd but cold piece of political calculation.

The dissolution of counties – something favored by some Glengarry councils – is not so easily considered when a $10 million public expense goes along with it.

The province – elected on a wave of rural support – is wrong. Roads are the lifeline for country residents. Surely, this is not what we traded a tax cut for.

MP is a respected and ethical man

We add our words of congratulations – including those of the prime minister – to those who helped honor Don Boudria's 20th anniversary of public life last week up in Alfred.

We have frequently lauded the honesty and hard work with which the chief whip has carried out his duties as the MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell. His presence on the national stage has been so far distinguished, even when he was called upon to mete out punishment to his colleagues – a largely thankless job but one the PM knew needed someone loyal to the Canadian parliamentary system.

He is a work horse for his constituents and causes dear to the national heart. More recently, though, a year after spearheading this community's trek to the Montreal unity rally, he has organized a concert to help pay the legal bills of those federalists charged with breaking Quebec's election laws.

These actions alone – by no means isolated – speak well of this respected and ethical man.

Many hands make a newspaper

After Thoughts

by Joè Banks

I realize it's un-Canadian of us to put ourselves in the spotlight, but what the hey; next week marks the 56th annual National Newspaper Week and all, a time when we all will quietly pause, gently roll up our newspapers and shoo the cat out of the garden.

If I may be serious for a moment, and only a moment I promise (we spend, oh, so much time being serious so often), I want to take advantage of space here and tell you about the team that weekly brings you the all the news of Glengarry that's fit to print.

You should know them. They're really a great bunch of people who combine talents to bring you this product every week without fail. And they do it without the aid of straightjackets.

These folks do it all in an era of high-profile newspaper takeovers and radically altered technology, all for a publication that is proudly independent, and owned solely by the Macdonald family since its creation in 1892.

Chances are, you've met one of them down here at the News, when you've been in placing an ad or had an inquiry for any one of our people in the office, advertising, circulation or editorial. But you mightn't know them by name.

There are 11 full-time employees here at the News, largely unchanged in an era of downsizing and cutbacks.

Leading the advertising representative team is manager Lindsay Cameron, known to most of his clients as the "World Famous Ad Man." Sales representatives Bonnie McDonald, who has served in other departments here, and Tim "The Tool Man" Spence, who owns the most off-the-wall ties you've ever seen, round out the department.

Over in production, Sue Brent keeps our PowerMacs humming along and produces many of the handsome ads you see each week from the advertising representatives' specifications. Helene Quesnel has just about done every job in the office here, and her most recent post is in production working wonders over the PowerMac. She also typesets submitted copy. Brenda Goulet is our part-time proofreader

Our office staff consists of bookkeeper Barbara McCormick, who is now our senior employee, circulation clerk Joan Rigby and part-time office assistant Carol Chisholm.

Over in the editorial department, Greg Kielec is our editor, well assisted by reporter Lynn McCuaig. Jean 'J.L.' Lefebvre informs you of all the weekly goings-on within the very active sports community throughout the county.

Eric Sinden works as our darkroom technician, spending Mondays and Tuesdays here processing film, making prints and shooting our page negatives.

And you probably wouldn't immediately think of our loyal mail-room crew who, through early-morning hours and occasional bad weather, bundle, tag and bag your News for delivery every week. Then there are our drivers who get the papers to the over 100 dealers who sell our publication or the postal stations which process delivery.

But the visible faces are only part of the story. Every week, you'll notice those smiling faces above the columns from our country correspondents.

Our Dalkeith correspondent, Jean MacLennan is one of those. Jean has been detailing life out at that quiet community for 10 years, and we're proud to see her continuing to crank out those words every week.

There are 13 other correspondents who write for us weekly, making The Glengarry News truly reflective of the wide range of rural life in this county.

Ian Cummings' monthly 'Glengarry Farmer' is intended to give you the slant on life from a dairy farmer's perspective, and we get 4-H news and news of interest to seniors in the Outreach column. And of course, Ken McKenna's 'Highland Paths' reaches out to those with Scottish ties to the old country, and seeks to keep alive the old Gaelic culture in a county in which it was the language of choice at one time.

Many of these people submit these columns on a voluntary basis, but they give the News a feel that many of our subscribers, readers and advertisers say they like – the warmth of a rural community.

The point of the above is to remind you that the story of the life of a community takes many hands to assemble, even in this era of desktop publishing, the Internet and fax machines.

There are those who tell us that it is exactly the quickening pace of life that makes reading this publication so comforting, that it's nice to know some things never change in the face of continuous change.

Of course, The Glengarry News is a business, a business which would not exist if it were not for the support of the advertisers you see in these pages every week. And I am gratified to know that the largest advertising medium in the country – the one in which more advertising dollars are spent than any other – is newspapers.

Of course, there would be no ads without readers, and more than 7,000 of you purchase us every week. So you play a role in making The Glengarry News part of the community character.

It doesn't need to take a National Newspaper Week to say it, but we appreciate all those who make this newspaper possible and we thought you (and they) would like to know that.

Canada's great: Who needs affirmation?

News to me

by Greg Kielec

They are just your typical Americans. And like your typical Americans, they don't know a lot about Canada.

But I guess when you live in the greatest country in the world, that can be forgiven.

But wait just one minute. According to the United Nations, Canada is supposed to be the greatest country in world to live in.

Don't tell that to the Americans.

Even our friends in New Jersey are prone to the occasional lapses, and they are probably the most tolerant, worldly Americans we know.

But I have come to the conclusion that it is not so much an individual problem but a thing of collective conscience.

Americans have how great they are pounded into them from an early age. So it is only natural for them to believe what they have been hearing.

But unlike other Americans we have encountered during trips abroad, our New Jersey friends – at the time we met they were actually living in New York City – actually had an interest in Canada.

In fact, they came up to visit us here – their first time ever in Canada – not long after, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

We had met them during a vacation down south a few years ago and immediately took a liking to them.

So it was our turn two weeks ago to see them on their home turf.

Although it was not our first trip ever into the United States, it was our first sojourn through Pennsylvania and into New Jersey.

It most respects, it was surprisingly not that much different from home, but in other respects, it was like we were worlds apart.

But probably the thing I will never get used to is the backwater image that Americans have of Canada.

They are incredulous that we have cable television in Canada and that we benefit from overseas telephone service.

But they forget that it was a Canadian who invented the telephone and it was Canada that was the pioneer in the movie industry.

I must, however, admit they were quite genteel regarding the U.S.'s victory over Canada in the World Cup of Hockey.

But I still am not quite sure if that was because they were being merciful, or that their mind was more on baseball.

I do know one thing. As much as people say we are being Americanized, we are still very much different people.

That is not to say one country is better than the other. We each have our strengths and weaknesses.

Sure most Americans think life does not exist outside our borders. But that shouldn't matter anyway.

We don't need Americans to tell us how great Canada is. We should already know it.

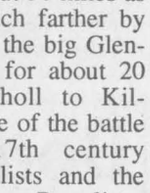
The other Glengarry

Highland Paths



by Ken McKenna

There are two Glengarrys in Scotland. The more famous one, after which our area here in Ontario got its name is in the County of Inverness and extends from Invergarry on Loch Oich in Glen More, ("the Great Glen"), through Loch Garry and Knoydart to the sea opposite Sleat on the Isle of Skye. It encompasses about 400 square miles and most of the first Highland settlers here 200 years ago came from there, with the leading MacDonell and MacDonald families of Leek, Aberchalder, Scottas, Greenfield, Crowlin, Sandfield, and Barrisdale, among others, all represented in our Canadian Glengarry.

The other Glengarry is in Perthshire. It is about 50 miles as the crow flies (much farther by road) south-east of the big Glengarry and extends for about 20 miles through Atholl to Killiecrankie, the scene of the battle fought in the 17th century between the Royalists and the Covenanters. The Royalists, mostly MacDonalds led by Graham of Claverhouse, "Bonnie Dundee", were victorious, and although Dundee was killed, his memory lives on in the famous song and pipe tune named after him. The Garry River rises in little Loch Garry, about a tenth the size of the other Loch Garry, and passes Blair Atholl, the seat of the Duke of Atholl, head of Clan Murray, on its way to join the River Tummel at Pitlochry. The ancestors of Rev. Charles Gordon, "Ralph Connor", came from the area. A few miles further on the Tummel merges with the Tay, passing Dunkeld and Birnam. "MacBeth shall never vanquish'd be until / Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill / Shall come against him." At Perth, once Scotland's capital and Shakespeare's "Dunsinane", the Tay turns east and in a few miles widens into the Firth of Tay and, at the city of Dundee, enters the North Sea.

In olden times Perth was one of the many gateways to the Highlands. To the north and west the language was Gaelic. To the south and east, the people were Lowland. In "The Fair Maid of Perth", Sir Walter Scott had one of his characters, the village blacksmith, calling himself "Smith" on the south side of the town and "Gowan" (the Gaelic for smith) on the north side. But by the end of the 18th century the Gaelic had largely died out and the whole area had become Lowland in speech.

Most of the early settlers in Glengarry came from the Western Highlands, but Marilyn Lawlor of Harrowsmith, a daughter of our Glen Sandfield neighbour Bessie MacLennan and sister of Gail Hartrick and Stewart McLennan, on her second visit to Blairgowrie and Rattray, found her Kennedy ancestry there. Marilyn discovered that her great-great grandfather David Kennedy married Jean Wilkie in Rattray in 1846 and emigrated to Vernon in Osgoode Township in 1856. Two local Scottish newspapers featured Marilyn's visit with articles about her successful search and photos of a reception and presentation in her honour by the Blairgowrie community council of two books on the history of the area. The Blairgowrie Advertiser of July 25, 1996, reported: "The presentation was the highlight of a quest spanning four years when Marilyn interrupted her tour with the Rob Roy Pipe Band to seek the home town of her Kennedy ancestors..... In Osgoode, David Kennedy prospered as a blacksmith... Elizabeth (their daughter) married her schoolmaster, Robert MacGregor, sometime after leaving school. Robert MacGregor, as well as schoolmaster, was an able farmer, administrator, and soldier in the Roxborough area. He was a captain in the 43rd Vernon Battalion.....Elizabeth, her daughter Mrs. N. Stewart and her grandaughter Mrs. Bessie MacLennan... were all schoolteachers and very active in church life... Marilyn herself is a clinical dietician and has three daughters, all one time Highland dancers with the Rob Roy Pipe Band."

Congratulations, Marilyn. It is good to see someone like yourself taking such an interest in family history.

Letters to the editor

Writer responds to historian's criticism

To the editor:

It is very flattering to have someone like Scott McLean of Guelph show such an interest in my writing (letter to The News of Sept. 18, 1996). An exchange of honest opinion is always exhilarating and, although I receive no royalties from my contribution to "The Lochaber Emigrants" I am grateful to Mr. McLean for the free publicity.

I note that after apologizing for his misspelling of "Murlaggan" (twice), he justifies his mistake by stating that I was also guilty of "several misspellings" in the book. Unfortunately, the example he gives, from a review by Prof. A. A. MacKenzie (who McLean omits to identify) in Am Bràighe, Winter, 1995/96, has nothing to do with spelling but with the phrasing of a Gaelic sentence. Obviously Mr. McLean's expertise on the history of the Highland Scots does not extend to their language. But I am pleased that he brought up Prof. MacKenzie's review in which he stated that I, among the other contributors to the book "...have avoided the swash-buckling romanticism which has so often afflicted people who chose to write on the Highlanders", exactly the opposite of Mr. McLean's opinion.

As far as Mr. McLean's inability to understand why Archibald McMillan led his people to Canada, he might find a clue if he had read my chapter 6, p. 62, letter #5, in which Archibald himself says "...I have no hesitation in saying that considering ...the total extinction of tyes between Chief and clan, we are surely better off to be out of the reach of such unnatural tyranny". Could such a letter have been written, Mr. McLean, before Culloden? Do you require a signed affidavit from each settler before you figure out why they left their native land?

I have never met Prof. Ted Cowan, but I am well aware of his fine reputation as an expert on Scottish history. In the past month he has referred two distinguished scholars to me; one for help in searching out material for the new Museum of Scotland in Edinburgh, and the other for my opinion on the manuscript of a proposed book on Highland history. The writer of the book, incidentally, received his M.A. from Guelph.

It's funny how some "critics" can't take a dose of their own medicine. They seem to think that they are above criticism themselves. Think again, Mr. McLean.

Kenneth McKenna,
Kintail Farm, Glengarry

Difficult to be enthusiastic about amalgamation

To the editor:

Referring to The Glengarry News, July 31, 1996, front page, "South-end north-end amalgamation," it is difficult for me to be enthusiastic about amalgamation; the reason is simply lack of knowledge, or information about it.

My concept of amalgamation is, to make the overall operation of our government more cost-efficient, in other words, the end result should be less waste. The intention of amalgamation, strictly theoretically speaking, is the best brainwave created by our politicians. The $64,000 question is and will be for a long time to come, how much will it cost in real money to the taxpayer? As long as we have no idea (estimate) how much it will cost, it is already too expensive.

It will not hurt to remind us that the government has no money of its own, except the money it collects through taxation. Most of the time to keep the money it collects through "status quo" is a more logical, rational and economical strategy, less costly and retaining the "status quo" will definitely not relegate us to the fate of the dinosaur.

The likelihood of successfully completing any plan, in this case, amalgamation, (the change from a known to an unknown method of managing a county's business with another) is very low, unless the proposed undertaking was very well researched and thought out. Any deviation (noncohesion) from it is a sure sign of failure. But the failure of it is not to be construed as the meaning of the word implies. It is nothing but the signal, the conception of another bureaucratic, politically inspired nightmare. It depends who will be the next victor in a four-yearly game called election, when we see in front of our eyes a political metamorphosis, a before/after victory behavior. That would be a remarkable change, usually reminiscent, recollective of the Monarch's prestige and authority proclaiming: "I am the king, I am the law!"

Sincerely,
A. Czichos

Great revolutionary changes ahead for next millennium

To the editor:

The Sept. 18 issue of The News carried the "tree-mendous" and I might say unusual use for waste disposal by turning waste into water.

It sounds incredible but there are many techniques out there which seem also to be unique.

Since July 6, 1996 to Sept. 24, 1996 a total of 34 meetings have been held across the United States to introduce Better World Technologies. The following topics were to be discussed:

•Modify any existing engine to be powered without gasoline, batteries or any exhaust.

•Power all vehicles naturally with no more combustion at all.

•Supply unlimited fresh water anywhere at no operating cost.

•No more nuclear power plants and no more radioactive waste.

•No more garbage pick ups ever.

Maybe those Ottawa engineers have been tapping into some of this information.

No matter what, the next millennium will bring great revolutionary changes.

But what will be the compensation for those people who have been adversely affected already?

Sincerely,
Muriel McCaskill,
Dalkeith

Using trees to treat Alexandria's sewage

To the editor:

It was good to read your article (Sept. 18) about using trees to treat sewage, and how it may assist Alexandria in (a) cleaning up The Delisle River, and (b) lift the development freeze in place at this time.

I just thought I should add one more point that your readers might find helpful when evaluating our proposal. You see, we have already developed four separate tree farming projects in Eastern Ontario.

And so, the message we want to pass on is that we are bringing a lot of experience in tree farming to the table.

Our offer to town council is that we utilize our extensive tree farming knowledge to treating the waste water from the lagoons. The idea being that this "waste water" will be carefully fed to trees as "fertilizer" instead of being dumped into the Delisle River.

Should any of your readers have any questions on inquiries, please feel free to call us. We are happy to discuss our proposal with anyone in Alexandria.

Sincerely,
Arne F. Aiking,
Ottawa

Police doing a 'good job'

To the editor:

I grew up in Glengarry county and I consider Alexandria my home. Although I don't get down too often, a cousin sends me old issues of The News, so I'm more or less informed about Alexandria and area.

I'm just curious about one thing. During the four or five years that I've been getting the paper it's become really obvious that the town council despises the police department. The council has tried to get rid of the department on at least two occasions and they always seem to be sticking their noses in police business.

According to the 'court briefs', the police seem to be doing a pretty good job despite not getting much support. Surely it's tough enough to fight crime without having to fight council as well.

I really hope Alexandria voters elect politicians who support the police when the next elections occur.

Sincerely,
Ginette Beckstead (Lalonde)

Acting exchange

Youths in the Alexandria area since early summer on a Canada World Youth exchange act out the steps in the acceptance process for the exchange during a performance at Glengarry District High School Sunday. Pictured above, a girl reacts with disgust upon learning she would have to live at a chicken farm. Pictured right, Thai students re-enact their landing in Canada. The two-hour cultural show was given as a thank you to area residents for their support. The 14 students and two coordinators will be in the area for two more weeks.

Driver pistol whipped and bound in transport hijacking

Police Briefs

A transport driver was pistol whipped, blindfolded and bound when unknown suspects hijacked his truck at the Shell station on Hwy 401 near Bainsville at 11:30 p.m. on Sept. 22.

The bound driver was crammed into the sleeper compartment of the rig while the culprits took the truck loaded with a high value of copper wire.

The victim was able to free himself and call police 24 hours after being left at at the Cataraqui truck stop in Kingston.

Anyone with any information about this incident, is asked to call the Lancaster detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The police can be reached at 347-2449 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., or at 1-800-267-2677 after hours.

People can also call Crime Stoppers at 937-8477 or 1-800-265-TIPS.

Acting chief making changes

The new acting chief is "tying up loose ends" in his final week with the Alexandria police force, said town Mayor Grant Crack.

Wayne Burke, a retired officer from the Gloucester force, was hired two weeks ago to make changes recommended in a Solicitor General's inspection.

Since he came, he has made improvements to the jail cell, clarified an application for a $3,000 community policing grant and dealt with outstanding public complaints.

Police chief Paul Deveau will return this week.

Stolen car recovered

A car stolen from Main Street, Alexandria during the night of Sept. 24 was recovered in Cornwall on Sept. 25.

The car, which the owner was using as a delivery car, was stolen while was parked, running outside a to restaurant.

The owner of the car had chased thieves, but lost them in Gre Valley.

Random police spot-checks on Saturday

This Saturday, police will be setting up spot-checks across Glengarry county promoting safe driving.

The project, titled operation impact, is a national campaign targeting high risk drivers.

The goal is to reduce the number of of people failing to obey stop signs or signals, driving with a suspended license and driving while impaired.

Lancaster and Maxville OPP detachment will joining more than 230 police services across Canada to conduct the one-day enforcement campaign.

The spot-checks are part of a five year program being launched thi fall targeting drivers considered t be a high risk for collision.

Operation impact was founde five years ago by the OPP, RCM and Sureté de Quebec to promot seatbelts at a time when Transpor Canada reported that only 68 pe cent of Canadians used them.

Thanks to media, awarenes groups and police, in 1995, 91. per cent of people were wearin their seatbelts.

Now, the national safety cam paign is hoping to reduce the num ber of high-risk drivers.

Help needed to renovate Alexandria youth centre

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Oct. 19 has been declared renovation day for a new town youth centre.

The renovation work will be done at a park building which formerly housed a town gym.

The Island Park building became available when the gym moved to another location.

The town's fledgling youth group is hoping to garner the public's help in renovating the former gym.

The youth group has $5,600 to help renovate the centre, according to secretary Linda McCrank.

Members were to look over the building last night to see what work needs to be done.

They are hoping that most of the work will come in the volunteer form, McCrank said.

They already have an electrician willing to work for free, but need a carpenter.

The carpenter will mostly be needed to supervise youths working on the centre, McCrank said.

The group isn't sure how much it will cost to bring the building up to code.

For it to meet with the building code, it will need barrier free access and doors with panic bars, McCrank said.

The building also must be inspected by the fire department to ensure it meets with the fire code, McCrank said.

Kibby Lutz, liaison between the youth group and Lions Club, said much work needs to be done.

"We have to move a lot of stuff out of there and start putting new things there."

It is reassuring to finally have a building to begin working on, he said.

It has been "a long, drawn-out affair", he said. But "things are moving pretty quickly now."

The group, to which the Lions have donated $4,000, must still price the cost of materials and some labor, Lutz said.

It also will be soliciting donations of material from businesses.

"We'll keep slogging away at it," Lutz said.

Lack of funds kills program

The SD and G SPOKES support committee wishes to inform the residents of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry that the SPOKES, program for Developmentally Challenged Adults will not resume operation at this time.

The funding required for the SPOKES support committee to provide quality day programming in this format is currently unavailable.

The SPOKES program, in the past, had been funded through the Ontario Training and Adjustment Board (O.T.A.B.) in partnership with J. S. Macdonald/Kinsmen School, T. R. Leger Alternative School, the SD and G Public School Board as well as commercial, industrial and service group partners in our community.

This financial support is no longer available to maintain the SPOKES program.

Negotiations with the Ministry of Community and Social Services along with other day program providers in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have been unsuccessful in acquiring alternate sources of funding to continue the SPOKES program.

All clients that have been previously enrolled in the SPOKES program have been requested to make application to alternate day program providers within area communities.

During this period of transition the SD and G SPOKES support committee will continue to meet to explore other program models that might be viable in the future.

The committee wishes to express its sincere appreciation to the commercial, industrial, and community partners as well as the service groups and residents of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry for their most generous support.

Lochiel permits top $177,700

Lochiel township issued building permits for $177,700 of construction in August, council members were told at their Sept. 10 meeting.

Agricultural buildings in the amount of $120,000 were approved while the balance relates to residential construction.

Another casino meeting Oct. 16

Business Beat

by Joe Banks, 525-2020

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce and The Glengarry News are jointly sponsoring a public meeting to air the merits and pitfalls of a casino in the town.

The meeting, scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Glengarry Sports Palace Wednesday, Oct. 16, is intended to inform voters in advance of the Nov. 5 referendum asking town voters if they want council to approve the casino.

While details of the meeting have yet to be formulated, the meeting will likely consist of a panel format, with the Sauers making a 10-minute statement at the outset, followed by questions from the floor.

In the meantime, the joint newsletter of the BIA and the chamber will be asking the following question in a fax survey to the 230 businesses in the area: "Are you in favor of a casino in the town of Alexandria?"

The deadline for reply to the survey is Oct. 16.

Respondents will be asked to return the surveys, with the chamber using the results to support its stand for or against the casino.

"Sooner or later, the chamber and the BIA will be asked their positions" on the casino, said president Dean Picher at last week's regular monthly chamber board meeting.

The board agreed that the chamber's official position should reflect the will of the majority of the business community, and a survey was the best way to do that.

Ernie and Chris Sauer met with about 30 members of that business community last Monday night in the hall above the restaurant. It was by invitation only, and was not open to the media.

About 75 or 80 business representatives were invited, said Ernie Sauer.

"The meeting was held only to get some input from the business community to see where they stand," said Ernie Sauer. "It was to see if we will get support or not."

He said everyone who attended the meeting showed "absolutely positive" support for the proposal.

Business, youth, citizen of the year

Alexandria will once again be saluting its top citizens on Saturday, Nov. 16 with a banquet honoring the business, youth and citizens of the year.

Town council has agreed to sponsor the citizen of the year award, while the Alexandria Optimists have agreed to sponsor the town's youth of the year.

The chamber will sponsor the business of the year award.

Nominating criteria will be circulated shortly.

Tourism group sets sights on the future with review of needs and expectations

In response to change and in recognition of the needs of the tourism industry in Eastern Ontario, the Ontario East Tourism Association (formerly the Eastern Ontario Travel Association) has undertaken a strategic review of itself as well as the needs and expectations of the region's tourism industry

Two reports were commissioned. The "Business Development Report" into which tourism operators and organizations in Eastern Ontario provided significant input concluded among other things that in these ever-changing times OETA needed to be managed as a business and be self-supporting, receive its strategic direction from the private sector and focus on market-driven product and product development rather than geography. It is recommended that "Organizationally OETA become a "virtual corporation" which develops products and services which are services which are in demand in the marketplace and which can be sold at a price which will generate a return to the corporation sufficient to maintain the organization."

Changes to the structure and activities of the Association are expected to take place over a two year period.

At the same time as the Association was undergoing a review of its structure, a second report was commissioned to assess the potential for Ontario East to use its significant heritage attractions and community heritage resources to an advantage.

In the "Business Development Report" heritage tourism was identified as the one product offering which was present throughout the region. Heritage tourism as defined by the World Tourism Organization is "an immersion in the natural history, human heritage, arts and philosophy and the institutions of another region or country." The "Heritage Corridors Business Model" report noted that while this region has significant heritage tourism assets, they must be promoted to target markets in a more coordinated, customer focused and effective manner and that while most of the heritage product is in place, it must be marketed as a web of tourism product. Finally, it was concluded that this product has a large market with over 37 per cent of global travellers searching out heritage experiences.

The "Planning Task Force" has been formed and mandated by the OETA Board of Directors to forward the implementation of these reports. Tourism operators and representatives of regional associations sit on the Task Force.

These reports signal tremendous change for OETA and the Association along with its regional partners have already begun to respond in the continuing effort to serve the needs of the tourism industry in Ontario East.

The Ontario East Tourism Association was formed in 1974 by the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation with a mandate to promote Eastern Ontario, a region which extends from Napanee in the west to Quebec in the east, along the Ottawa River in the north and bordering Algonquin Park in the northwest.

East Ontario on the Internet

The Ontario East Economic Development Commission (OEEDC) is on-line promoting Eastern Ontario as "an enviable combination of business advantages and quality of life". Its fully functional site on the Internet's World Wide Web can be accessed at http://www.onteast.on.ca.

The site highlights its members, who and where Ontario East is within Ontario, such key economic activity sectors as manufacturing, tourism, agriculture, lifestyle and much, much more.

One of the key components to the site is the ability of its members to put up a "community mini-profile" page. If a community has not yet developed its own site, this is indeed a key marketing tool. And, for those members who have developed their own web site, it offers yet another key link to their community.

OEEDC markets its web site address in such publications as the Financial Post, MacLean's Magazine, the Canadian German Trade Magazine, the Ottawa Business Journal and direct mail out cards to North America and Europe.

James de Pater, Director of Economic Development for the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry is a member of this organization.

SNRCA looking for South Nation history

Dig out your old scrap books, and dust off the photo albums. The South Nation River Conservation Authority (SNRCA) is looking for historic and contemporary pictures and stories of the watershed to help celebrate its 50th anniversary in 1997.

Don't 'toast ladies' reeve urges

No more "toasts to the ladies" pleaded Mountain township Reeve Estella Rose at United Counties council.

"The recent Wardens banquet was a lovely affair," Rose said, "But please, let's drop that outworn toast to the ladies. "it's demeaning and a lot of people find it offensive."

Rose said "it's great to thank municipal politician's wives for all the phone calls they take, all the angry ratepayers they have to placate, all the coffee they make, all the late nights they wait for husbands to come home."

But, Rose pointed out, let's toast "our spouses or companions from now on. My husband drives me around, takes phone call messages, waits long hours while I'm in meetings and I'd like to toast him."

Cheese making at the Nor'Westers museum

Williamstown

by Sue Harrington
347-2279

The steam was rising and over the large vats in the kitchen, the ladies seemed to be kneading what appeared to be large lumps of cottage cheese. It could have been an updated scene from MacBeth, except the ladies in question weren't witches. They were benign looking and were laughing and talking and taking cues from their leader who flitted from vat to vat, checking and giving advice.

The five ladies were learning to make their own cheese, and they were doing it at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum, under the direction of Margaret Morris. Margie (nee Peters), is the proprietor of Glengarry Cheesemaking and Dairy Supply — a home-based industry which sells the products needed to make cheese. Although she has been in business only about a year, Margie says she has been very busy giving cheese-making courses such as the one on Monday at the museum.

It is not difficult to see why. Like an efficient columnist, I had intended to drop in on the action at the museum for a few minutes, take some notes and leave. Instead, I stayed for three hours! I was captivated by the process, by the desire to know what the stuff in the vats would turn out like, and by the samples of different home-made cheeses displayed on the table. (I now know why mice get caught in traps.)

The course covered everything from the sanitation and cleanliness procedures for equipment and utensils, to cheesemaking lingo, to the recipes for making Colby, Cheddar, Feta, and Cream cheese, to the MAKING of Colby, Cheddar, Feta and Cream cheese, to the brining, waxing and cleaning of cheese, to aging and storing methods, to the way cheese is marbled, and finally, to the eating of fresh curds.

Armed with the tips and practical experience they had learned from the course, participants Terry Vandette, Delande Anderson, Linda McLaren, Mary Caron, and Joan MacDonald went home ready to make cheese for their families and friends.

For more information on home cheese-making courses, Margie may be reached at 613-525-3133.

Because of the rise in popularity of home cheese-making, the Home and Garden Division of the Williamstown Fair will be offering a new class next year. To complement the home-made wine class, a home-made cheese class will be implemented, featuring several different categories for entries.

Linda McLaren, mentioned above, is new to Williamstown, having moved here "full-time" from Montreal about three weeks ago. Linda and her husband have bought the Luce Pilon/Larry Gordon house, which they have been renovating for the past five months. We welcome the McLarens, and also Linda's mother, to Williamstown.

On the look-out already for a Christmas gift with local flavor? A new cookbook just released, called "Rise and Dine Canada: Savory Secrets from Canada's Bed and Breakfast Inns," and written by Marcy Calman, features among its entries, the local Caron House.

Mary Caron, who along with husband, Mike, operates a bed and breakfast in their historic home, was invited by the author to submit some recipes with the understanding that they might not necessarily be chosen. But they were!

Among the half dozen or so of Mary's recipes are "Chicken crepes with avocado," "Whole wheat crepes," and "Cherry breakfast puff pancakes."

In her recipe, "Mary's baked apples," Mary makes mention of the annual Apples and Art tour in the area, and pays tribute to the way it combines culture and heritage.

There is also a description and sketch of Caron House (formerly the late Katie "Gill" McLellan's home).

This is a not a spiral-bound home-produced cookbook. It is a major Canadian book, recently reviewed in newspapers across the country, and available at leading booksellers.

Once again, Williamstown is "on the map!"

Oops! Missed it again. Like the lady who lives two blocks from the National Arts Centre and has never seen a production, despite all my intentions, I failed to take advantage of the Apples and Art Tour on the weekend.

Blame it on Saturday's downpour, which made me decide to go on Sunday, and blame it on a flying visit home by the New York connection. Next year, for sure.

Some of you may have read about the recent tragedy when stuntman, Bill Muller, fell to his death at the Skydome while rehearsing a half-time show for a Toronto Argonauts game the next day.

What you may not know is that Bill was the nephew of George Pasco, the son of his sister, Elsie and her husband, Jack.

The whole Pasco family — George and Audrey, Janis, Tom, Allison Emard and Heather Hughes attended Bill's funeral in Toronto, where Tommy, who is the same age as his late cousin, gave a family tribute.

Bill did stunts as a hobby and was a volunteer member of the "A-team." Sadly, he leaves behind his wife, who is expecting their third child, and two little ones, aged one and a half and two and a half.

Williamstown is well represented on the incoming slate of officers of the Glengarry Chapter of the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation. At its annual general meeting held recently, Ernie Spiller was elected president; Wendy Norman, secretary, and Soni Sandilands, co-chair of the jump-rope for heart, fitness for heart and hoops for heart (English schools).

Ernie Spiller was also presented with a pair of book-ends on his having been elected "volunteer of the year," an honor accorded him by his peers on the board.

Congratulations to Ernie, Wendy and Soni, who are willing to give their time and talents to so worthy a cause.

Heart and Stroke annual general meeting held

Glengarry residents are the most generous people in all Ontario, Ernie Spiller told the annual dinner meeting of Glengarry Chapter, Heart and Stroke Foundation in Alexandria Friday.

"Glengarry gave an average of $5 for every man, women and child living in the area, a huge $112,000 total for Heart and Stroke work this year," Spiller reported, paying tribute to outgoing president Jacqueline Fraser and board volunteers.

Spiller, newly-elected president of Glengarry Chapter, crowed, "Glengarry rate of giving is right up there with the highest per capita giving in the whole province."

Spiller was also presented with the volunteer of the year award by Heart and Stroke Area Coordinator Janie MacDiarmid.

The award, voted by fellow chapter members, honors Spiller, a former Quebec educator retired to Williamstown, for his six years work in fund raising and health promotion activities.

This year the Chapter sold 131 cookbooks full of healthy and tasty low fat recipes; largest yearly sale yet.

Next year Heart and Stroke emphasis will be on surviving the ravages of stroke by whisking the patient off to hospital at the very first sign of a problem.

Fast treatment for stroke patients in the first hour and a half of an attack has been found by recent research to reduce long term stroke affects, Spiller reported.

"One of our main aims next year is to educate Glengarry residents through health promotion activities and events, to recognize symptoms of stroke, so they can take quick action and get loved ones to the hospital fast," Spiller explained.

Heart and Stroke surveys revealed that only 39 per cent of the population can recognize stroke symptoms fast enough to get immediate medical help.

Fund raising target for next year in Glengarry has been lowered at $98,000 Spiller told volunteers at the dinner meeting at an Alexandria restaurant.

"We've lowered the target a little because of continuing economic problems," Spiller said. "But Glengarry people seem to go over the top no matter what."

The new slate of Glengarry chapter board members were introduced.

They are: President Ernie Spiller, Williamstown; Past President Jacqueline Fraser, Alexandria; Secretary Wendy Norman, Williamstown; Treasurer, Bob Cunning, Alexandria; Assistant Treasurer Don Egan, Creg Quay; health promotion, Co-Chair Susan David, North Lancaster and Phil Everson, Lancaster; External Relations, Pauline Ashton, Bainsville; P and P Campaign, North Glengarry, Stanley Fraser, Alexandria; P and P Campaign, South Glengarry, Pierre David, North Lancaster; Campaign, Business and Commercial, Hugh Wilson, Kenyon; Memorial Gifts, Dorothy Draper, Dalhousie Station; Human Resources, Patti Gauley, North Lancaster; Special Events Tina Cairncross, Green Valley; Jump Rope for Heart, co-chair Soni Sandilands, Williamstown and Francine Rouette, Alexandria and Medical Advisor, Dr. Stewart Polson, Creg Quay.

Glens begin season by tying Char-Lan

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

The first face-off of the local 1996-97 junior B hockey season took place at 8:36 p.m. on Friday night at the Billy Gebbie Arena (for the record, Daniel Tremblay of the Alexandria Glens squared off against Eric Fontaine of the Char-Lan Rebels).

The first delay was at 8:37 p.m. when a piece of one of the rinkboard advertising signs broke off and fell on the ice.

The first hit was at 8:42 p.m. when Glens captain Daniel Methot knocked down Rebels forward Owen Swamp.

The first shot and save? Char-Lan's Lee Jenison stops a point shot by Alexandria's Marc Menard at 8:44 p.m.

The first penalty came at 8:47 p.m. when Tim Corput of the Rebels was called for holding.

The crowd of over 300 didn't see the first goal until 9:40 p.m. (and the 5:27 mark of the second period) when Alexandria's Scott Nielsen finally beat Jenison.

The first result of 1996-97 for the two local clubs? A third-period rally by the Rebels resulted in a tie, with Char-Lan grabbing the bonus point by winning the best-of-five shootout 2-1.

Point ends Glens drought

In addition to providing plenty of entertainment for the fans, Friday's tie ends a lengthy drought for the Glens against the Rebels.

It's the first point Alexandria has earned against Char-Lan since Dec. 29, 1994. The Rebels had won 10 straight games against their county rivals heading into Friday's season-opener.

In addition to Nielsen's goal, the Glens got singles by Marc Menard and Stephane Boisvenue.

Defenceman Travis Young had two assists.

The Rebels replied with goals by Nick Brunet, Cory McAllister and Eric Fontaine.

McAllister and Fontaine scored in the final eight minutes of the third period as the Rebels erased a 3-1 deficit.

After a scoreless five-minute overtime period, the two teams battled in a best-of-five shootout for a bonus point.

Yves Ruest scored on Alexandria's first attempts, but Tim McCuaig – who replaced Jenison at the start of the third period – stopped Scott Nielsen, David Dumont, Stephane Loyer and Miguel Delisle on the next four shots.

At the other end of the ice, Kevin O'Farrell and Eric Fontaine scored against Julien Van den Oetelaar.

Glens notes: Sunday's game in Kemptville was postponed because of ice problems at the Kemptville Arena. No make-up date has been scheduled...Forward Patrick Burroughs sat out Friday's season-opener while serving the first game in a three-game suspension incurred during the pre-season. David Bruyere is out with a groin pull. Second-year defenceman Jean Theoret also sat out...Greg Lalonde suited up as an affiliate for the Glens. Lalonde picked up an assist on Alexandria's third goal after some good work in the corner...The Glens play in Morrisburg against the Lions on Friday night. The Winchester Hawks are in Alexandria on Sunday in a 7:30 p.m. start.

Dropping the puck on the '96-97 Jr. B season

The local junior B hockey season got under way on Friday night at the Billy Gebbie Arena with the traditional clash between Glengarry County rivals Char-Lan and Alexandria. The ceremonial opening face-off between Daniel Methot of the Glens (left) and Mario Gibeault of the Rebels was performed by Alexandria Mayor Grant Crack. The contest ended in a 3-3 draw.

Char-Lan defenceman Patrick Cadieux (5) tries to prevent Alexandria's Greg Lalonde from completing a wrap-around play during second-period action from Friday night's Eastern Ontario Junior B hockey League season-opener between the visiting Rebels and the host Glens. Char-Lan rookie netminder Lee Jenison keeps a watchful eye on the proceedings.

McCuaig's big day carries Jr. Crusaders

The Char-Lan Junior Crusaders swept a pair of games in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry boys' high school soccer play last Tuesday in Williamstown.

Tim McCuaig – the Crusaders' hottest scorer this season with seven goals in four games – scored twice in each of the home team's victories.

Char-Lan blanked the Seaway Spartans 3-0 as Doug Long picked up his second shutout of the season.

Chris McIntyre added a single for the Crusaders.

Char-Lan downed the St. Joseph's Panthers 4-1. McCuaig's two-goal effort was accompanied by solo markers by Steven Alguire and Lee Klazinga.

The Char-Lan juniors now have a record of three wins and one loss after four games. The team next sees action on Oct. 4 when the Crusaders will host the Tagwi Warriors, the reigning SDG champs.

Punchless seniors lose pair

It looks like it will be a long season for Char-Lan's senior team.

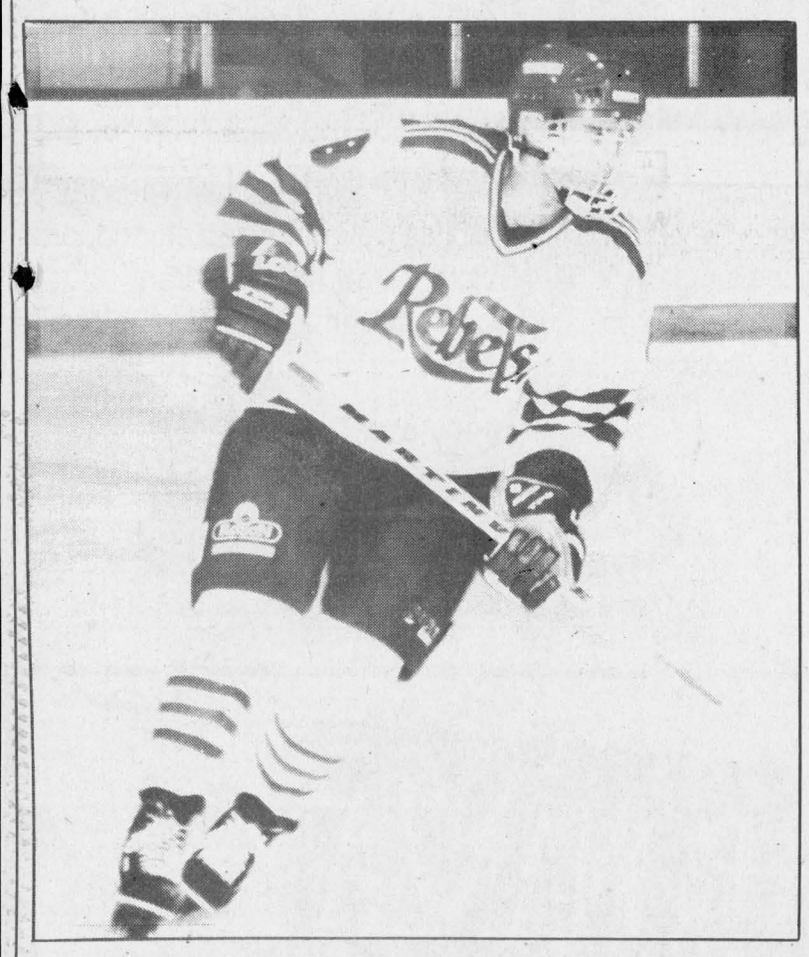
The Crusaders lost twice on home turf last Tuesday and are now 0-4 on the season.

Lack of offence continues to plague the senior squad.

The Crusaders were shut out twice last week and have scored only two goals all season.

Last week's defeats came at the hands of Seaway (by a 2-0 score) and St. Joe's (3-0).

Jesse Hamelin was one of the Glengarry scorers as the Gaels tied La Citadelle 3-3 in SDG senior boys' soccer action Thursday in Alexandria.



Eric Fontaine scored the shootout winner on Friday as the Rebels earned a bonus point after tying the Alexandria Glens 3-3. Fontaine scored twice in a 6-4 Char-Lan victory over Morrisburg on Saturday.

Rebels occupying a familiar position

The Char-Lan Rebels have started the 1996-97 regular season where they left off in 1995-96 – in possession of first place in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League's St. Lawrence Division.

After tying the Alexandria Glens 3-3 and earning the shootout bonus point on Friday (see Glens story), the Rebels opened their home schedule with a 6-4 victory over the Morrisburg Lions on Saturday.

The four points give the Rebels a share of the division lead along with the Winchester Hawks.

Both teams had a win and a tie with a shootout victory on the opening weekend of the season.

The Rebels used their special teams to defeat the Lions on Saturday. Char-Lan scored three power-play goals and one shorthanded marker.

Char-Lan led 4-0 after 28 minutes of play, but the Leos scored three unanswered goals to close the gap to 4-3 heading into the final period.

Nick Brunet and Eric Fontaine each scored their second goals of the game in the third to seal Char-Lan's first victory of the year.

Brunet and Fontaine share the early team lead in scoring with three goals apiece.

Mike Rankin and Dave Campbell also scored for the winners.

J.S. Larocque had a pair of assists.

The Lions got a pair of goals by Jeff Hyndman and singles by Rob Darling and Chris McLeod.

Rebels' notes: Overage defenceman Mario Gibeault has been named team captain. The alternates are D.J. Zaluski, Dave Campbell and Tim Corput...The Rebels play in Winchester on Friday night as the St. Lawrence Division co-leaders go head-to-head. The Rebs host the Kemptville 73's on Saturday.

Glengarry junior spikers begin season with sweeps

The Glengarry junior boys' volleyball team was a perfect 6-0 as the Gaels opened the 1996 Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry high school season on Thursday at North Dundas.

The Gaels beat the host Devils 15-5, 15-5 and 15-8 while also winning three straight sets from the Seaway Spartans – 15-10, 15-11 and 15-10.

Coach Marc Sauvé has six players back from the squad that finished fourth in the SDG standings last year, including Bobby Van Drunen, Koch Bourgon, Roch Lavigne, Guillaume Ouimet, Francois Elie and Ghislain Valade, who has been converted from setter to the power role.

"Ghislain was getting way up there to make some big hits for us," said Sauvé. "The other guys on the team were calling him 'Air' Valade."

The senior Gaels also won both of their matches on Thursday.

Glengarry took two out of three sets from North Dundas (15-6, 2-15 and 15-13) and Seaway (15-7, 15-17 and 15-6) to make Sylvie Leblanc a winner in her coaching debut with the senior squad.

Leblanc, who takes over from Jean-Yves Jeaurond, has previously worked with Glengarry volleyball teams at the midget boys' and girls' levels.

The Gaels make their first home appearance of the season today as the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers and the La Citadelle Patriotes will be the visitors.

Signs of the times

Junior soccer Gaels roll over pair of foes

Glengarry senior tie La Citadelle Patriotes in rematch of 1995 SDG championship

The Glengarry junior boys' soccer team has barely worked up a sweat in amassing a 4-0 record in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry league play.

The junior Gaels posted a pair of lopsided wins over Cornwall schools in Alexandria last Thursday, blanking La Citadelle 4-0 and L'Héritage 9-0.

Glengarry has outscored its four opponents by a combined margin of 25-1 this season.

Brad MacMillan recorded his second shutout of the season in the win over La Citadelle.

Luc Leblanc, Murray MacLeod, Eric Quesnel and Nick Quenneville each scored once against the Patriotes.

Kurt MacSweyn led the offence with two goals in the rout of the L'Héritage Dragons.

Murray MacLeod, Andrew MacDonald, Kirk MacMillan, Nick Quenneville, Ed McCorkell, Ryan Nielsen and Kevin MacDonald.

Brad MacMillan and Kirk MacMillan shared the shutout.

Seniors struggle to win and tie

The senior Gaels are also unbeaten in 1996, but they had a much more difficult time of things on home turf on Thursday.

In a rematch of last year's playoff final, the Gaels and La Citadelle played to a 3-3 draw.

The reaction of both teams after the final whistle will tell you who was happier with the result – while the Gaels walked dejectedly off the field, the Pats celebrated as though they had clinched the title.

The Pats' pleasure with earning a tie had a lot to do with the fact La Citadelle played three-quarters of the game shorthanded after a defender was ejected for an intentional hand-ball in the crease.

The Gaels capitalized on the ensuing penalty shot to knot the score at 1-1, but the teams were even on the scoreboard over the final 48 minutes of the game.

Glengarry had most of the offensive pressure, but a lack of finish around the net cost the Gaels a victory.

Allan Campbell (on the penalty shot), Jason Poirier and Jesse Hamelin did manage to put balls past Pats keeper Daniel Legros.

The Gaels snuck past General Vanier 2-1 in Thursday's other game.

Ian Robertson and Craig Calvank were the scorers.

Gaels make hoops breakthrough

Glengarry seniors post first SDG league victories since 1994 season

The Glengarry girls' basketball teams won two of three games at St. Lawrence on the opening day of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry high school season.

The senior Gaels won their first league game since the 1994 season by dumping the Saints 38-15.

Both offences were woeful early on as Glengarry staggered to a 6-1 lead after one quarter.

A balanced attack – nine of the 10 Gaels scored – consistently added to the Glengarry lead while a strong defensive effort limited the Saints to four baskets in the entire game.

Veteran Glengarry guard Jacinda Rudolph was the only player to reach double figures as she netted 10 points.

Meghan MacPherson added eight while Katie Danaher scored five.

The senior Gaels made it two wins in a row by beating the Char-Lan Crusaders 54-41 in Williamstown on Thursday.

Katie Danaher scored 19 points for the Gaels and Lauren Gray had eight.

Tina Bond and Jacinda Rudolph each chipped in with six points.

Shonna Atchison netted 15 in a losing cause for the Crusaders while Lisa McEvoy had nine. Dawn Aubin scored eight.

Prior to beating the Saints, the senior Gaels had not won in SDG play since Oct. 28, 1994 when Glengarry downed Rothwell-Osnabruck 42-23.

The Gaels lost their final two games in 1994 and all eight games last year for a total of 10 straight losses heading into last week's season-opener.

After going 0-8 in 1995, second-year Glengarry senior coach John Danaher finally has his first wins.

Despite the early-season success, Danaher is still cautious about his team's chances in 1996.

"I'm just looking for us to be competitive," said Danaher. "When we play some of those strong Cornwall schools, I want them to know they've been in a game.

"We've got a good blend on this team. We've got three good veterans in Jacinda (Rudolph), Meghan (MacPherson) and Tammy (MacSweyn) and we've got some real good young players coming up from last year's (SDG champion) junior team."

The senior program has already made great strides, but Danaher thinks the best still lies ahead for this group of players.

"I think we can be very competitive this year, but I think next season could be the big year for us.

"We're a very young team, people forget that. The girls are all great athletes and good learners – there's a lot of potential here."

The Gaels will get a good test from General Vanier tomorrow.

Sauvé, Howes lead midgets

The Glengarry midgets also got the season off on the right sneaker as they thumped the Saints 41-14.

Raylene Sauvé led the Gaels as she poured in 12 points, 10 of which came in the first half as Glengarry jumped out to a 20-8 lead.

Carrie Howes added 11 points, Jennifer Sauer chipped in with six.

St. Lawrence avoided a Glengarry sweep by winning the junior game 37-20.

Tamara Hartrick and Megan Danaher each scored six points in a losing cause.

Softball award winners

Champions Roadhouse captured the 1996 season championship in the Glengarry Women's Friendly twilight golf league. The team members are (front row, left to right) Flora Poulton, Lynda Seguin, Paulette Rozon, Gisele Roy-Miron, (back row) Louise Rozon, Sylvia Fraser, Barbara Rutherford, Sylvie Major, Myrna MacSweyn and Nicole MacMillan.

Shonna Atchison nets 25 as Char-Lan tops Tagwi

The Char-Lan seniors had no trouble with the Tagwi Warriors in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry basketball action last Tuesday in Avonmore.

Shonna Atchison poured in 25 points as the Crusaders rolled to a 26-point victory in their season-opener – 55-29.

Shannon Griese added 14 points to the Char-Lan attack.

Michelle Ractliffe and Joanne Montcalm scored eight points apiece in a losing cause for Tagwi.

The Warriors had better luck the rest of the day as they won both the midget and junior games from Char-Lan.

The Tagwi midgets posted a 27-6 victory while the juniors were 42-28 winners.

Wendy Jacques scored 17 points to lead the junior Warriors. Kristen McDonell and Shawna Doyle each scored six for Char-Lan.

Crusaders slay Dragons

The Char-Lan juniors evened its record with a 44-5 win over the Dragons of L'Héritage in Williamstown on Thursday.

L'Héritage – Cornwall's newest high school – is in its first year of competition in the SDG Athletic Association.

Katie Lariviere scored 12 points for the junior Crusaders while Shawna Doyle netted seven.

Elizabeth Rankin and Jessica Leroux each scored six.

The midget Crusaders fell to 0-2 by dropping a 18-16 decision to L'Héritage.

Vera Cumming scored six points in a losing cause.

Rapids lose two close ones

The Seaway Valley Major Bantam Rapids lost a pair of one-goal decisions in Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association action last week.

On Thursday, the Rapids were unable to coma all the way back from a 4-1 first-period deficit in dropping a 5-4 decision to South Ottawa.

Travis Albers had a hat trick for Seaway while Ian McConnell had a goal and an assist. Shawn Freeland had a pair of assists.

In Maxville on Sunday, the visiting Ottawa Valley Titans scored with five minutes left in the game to beat the Rapids 3-2.

Nigel Newland scored both Seaway goals on assists by Travis Albers.

SUBWAY ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

KATIE DANAHER

It has been a remarkable comeback for Glengarry's Katie Danaher. After missing the entire 1995 high school basketball season with a back injury, the former junior Gaels standout has quickly recaptured her MVP form with the senior team. After scoring five points and collecting nine rebounds in the Gaels' season-opening win over St. Lawrence last Tuesday, the 16-year-old forward had 19 points and eight boards in Glengarry's 54-41 victory over the Char-Lan Crusaders on Thursday in Williamstown. The Bainsville resident is a Grade 11 student at GDHS.

Cancer victim to share experiences

Williamstown resident to address audience at Elda Rouleau Tuesday

A Williamstown cancer victim will be bringing her experiences to a public audience at Ecole Elda Rouleau in Alexandria on Oct. 8.

Diane Currier, a Williamstown resident and a former school teacher, was diagnosed with advanced breast cancer in February 1995 and her prognosis was that it is an incurable cancer which usually spreads to the lungs, to the bones and or to the liver. Hers had spread into the bones. She was placed on permanent disability and strongly advised to enjoy life.

At the announcement of receiving this devastating news by her oncologist, tears of fear rolled down her cheeks as she felt that she had been given a death sentence. Upon her return home from the cancer clinic, she says, she began setting her affairs into order, writing letters to her friends and family and literally getting ready for death.

But luckily, she soon came to realize that she didn't want to waste precious energy by constantly living as a cancer victim but that this was a perfect opportunity for her to evaluate her life, set new goals and priorities, and truly beginning enjoying life.

It became very important to her to be able to take charge of her life and learn to handle whatever came her way. She felt very selfish at first because she decided to live for herself, choosing activities that pleased her, discarding many others which didn't' seem important anymore, making decisions that would lead her into a positive, happier and healthier lifestyle, learning to live day by day and for the first time in her life, she was rid of stress, constant fatigue, anxiety, flue and viruses and has obtained nothing but happiness and inner peace.

Changing was not easy as it took a constant effort but Diane discovered that we all have the power to control many aspects of our lives, that we all have the power to cure our mental, our emotional and spiritual self if we so choose. Our mind and body are connected and our body responds to the messages given to the mind. It has been scientifically proven that people sending positive messages to the mind will improve their immune system, lower their blood pressure, etc. When our mental state improves, you begin to understand how your physical illness can change for the better. Doctors are becoming more aware that there is more to a patient than physical disease and many are beginning to look at a patient as a whole person who may need guidance into self-discovery, self-examination.

Joining the Community Cancer Support Network (led by Lois O'Reilly) and the Breast Support Group (Heather Davies) proved to be extremely beneficial to Diane's well-being. The support groups give her the opportunity to be with people who understand her disease, who can relate to her fears, her anxieties, who give her support during setbacks, offer suggestions and helpful tools that may be applied to everyday living, offer support to family members. You are surrounded by caring people who truly understand what you are living and you feel that you are not alone in your situation.

Wanting to take control of her life, Diane became an avid reader, becoming well informed on her disease, various treatments being offered, clinical studies being conducted on new drugs, and participating in various studies. She plays an active role in decision making concerning her health and has learned to form a true partnership with her oncologist.

In discovering the power that the mind has over the body, Diane practises many applications that provide her with relaxation, pain control, and inner peace. Relaxation techniques, guided imagery, visualization, positive affirmations, a journal, personal growth charts, a pain to power chart, etc., have all helped her in taking responsibility of her life and leading it to where she chooses.

Cancer was not a death sentence but an open door to new beginnings. She feels like an Olympian champion where through her positive attitude, constant effort, persistence, daily applications of various exercises and tools have led her to the podium. Her reward isn't a gold medal but inner peace.

Many people have asked her if she could bottle her courage and sell it and that led her to believe that her attitude couldn't be sold in a bottle but that she could help others in achieving her results by becoming a publish speaker and sharing her experiences.

Diane will be speaking at Ecole Elda-Rouleau on Oct. 8 at 7:30 p.m. Everyone welcome. Free admission.

Hawkesbury native launches novel

Glen Robertson
by Colette Sauvé
874-2076

Pauline Roussin had all her family last weekend on the occasion of the launching of a first novel "Mon père, je m'accuse" and written by Pauline's granddaughter and teacher, Mylaine Lavigne Demers. The event took place at the Canadian Legion hall in Hawkesbury.

The historic and fictional 160-page novel is set in Hawkesbury in the 1940's and 50's. "Mon père, je m'accuse" follows two families as they and their small community come to terms with changing times.

Her research was done mostly with seniors of the region who lived in those years.

The book can be purchased by contacting Les Editions l'Interligne, 282 Dupuis St., Bureau 202, Vanier, Ont. K1L 7H9, or phone (613) 748-0850 and at a few places in Hawkesbury.

This project which took about three years to complete was indeed her dream. Congratulations, Mylaine and good luck with your dream book!

Our deepest sympathy to the family of Gabrielle Leroux of Alexandria who passed away last week.

Gabrielle, wife of the late Jean Noel Leroux, was a resident of the Glen for many years. She had many friends in the Glen, including myself, and she will be missed.

She was a dedicated person who gave lots of time and effort in doing a lot of volunteer work.

No doubt that God in his merciful love for all mankind called her to eternal life and prepared a special mansion for her.

Last chance

Last chance to get your tickets for a fashion show this coming Saturday, Oct. 5 at the Bonnie Glen hall at 8 p.m.

This is a fund raising for ESRG pastoral to go on a pilgrimage to France in August 1997 and meet with the Pope, Jean-Paul II.

Please phone the organizer, Maurice Menard at 874-2255. Tickets are $10 in advance and $12 at the door. No reserved seats, first come, first served.

Pool wizard

Noel Lacombe was a grand winner in the A division pool tournament held at an Alexandria hotel last Saturday. He received a trophy and André Major of Alexandra came in first in the B division.

Noel was a second time winner as he won at the Legion in the A division on June 1. Congratulations, Noel!

Seaway Valley Presbyterian United Church Women

Showers turned to sunshine as over 50 members of Seaway Valley's UCW's met at the Sept. 10 Presbyterial meeting at Williamsburg United Church.

A warm welcome of coffee and coffee cakes enveloped all as the women met for the fall season, hosted this month by Williamsburg and Elma-Colquhoun UCW's.

President Louise Shaw welcomed the group with a reading from the 1997 Heritage Book, and all joined in the purpose.

The Rev. A. MacPherson, in his welcome from the church, mentioned several of their projects, examples of their church's stewardship: collecting metal pop can tabs, sent to the Clifford Bowie School for the Disabled (to be recycled into money for wheelchairs), recycling of pop cans (which finance their Sunday School), and the growing of four acres of corn which will be sold and the money donated to the Food Grains Bank.

Stalks of corn, growing with the flowers at the front of the church proclaim this ministry.

Betty Beckstead welcomed all on behalf of the hosting UCWs.

The history of the church, read by Olive McIntosh, went from tuning fork days, through many changes of the interior of the building, including the joining not only of the congregations, but the physical churches as well, to the present bright and efficient house of worship.

Prescott UCW, Sharon Hinton, Joan Switzer, Marie Montgomery and Marion Peterson at the piano, led a candle lighting worship. Using the gifts we have within us, we must, in our daily living, show our stewardship by letting God light a flame in us, to bring about the best we possibly can in our communities. Hymns, "Open my eyes that I may see" and, "We have this ministry" brought out the theme in song.

Enrichment time in the Stewardship theme was convened by Betty Beckstead and Erna Whitherspoon. Through biblical passages and various readings they focused on the environment. Creation is good. We are to be stewards to care for all of this creation, to use it wisely, so that it will continue for future generations. The poem, "What did I put in the garbage today?" emphasized the "use-once-then-throw-it-away" society that we are becoming. It doesn't take much effort to imagine what out landfill sites and waterways are having to cope with.

They had invited as guest, Bruce Garlough, of the Resource Stewardship SD and G program. He spoke of the promotion of good land use, and "the land belong to a large family of people, some dead, many living, but most not born yet." The program, with Jim Hendry as Co-ordinator is working to promote responsible resource management by private landowners, for the benefit of present and future generations. Mentioned were community gardens, windbreaks, manure run-off containment, the involvement of young people in projects and the bringing of water to cattle instead of allowing them to break down river banks. The council builds partnerships with other agencies, associations and landowners. Meetings are open to the community.

Erna closed the time with a reflection from "Walking" – "In wilderness is the preservation of the world." (Thoreau)

The group broke for lunch, enjoying a piece of Janice Reynolds' gift to the women, a cake decorated as a Campbell's Soup label – "because the women were becoming so proficient in handing in well-cut labels." Of course, it was a Campbell's tomato soup cake under the excellent decorations.

The afternoon session began with a skit showing, that like the seasons, UCW members come in all ages-young Springs to more elderly Winters. "The secret to life and seasons is never to waste a single minute living with God."

Committee and Rally reports followed. Check with your UCW for the Rally information for your region. They all sound fabulous.

Courtesies were extended by Eileen Arthur of Finch.

The next Presbyterial meeting will be Tuesday, Nov. 12, in Long Sault United Church.

'Breathe Easy' in Alexandria

The Lung Association Eastern Counties, in conjunction with Glengarry Outreach Community Services, is pleased to offer the "Breathe Easy" program to residents of Glengarry County.

The six-week program will provide adults suffering from lung disease the knowledge and skills necessary to improve their quality of life.

Sessions will be held in Alexandria at the Legion Hall, Branch 423 starting Tuesday, Oct. 8, continuing on Tuesdays only, through to Nov. 12 from 1 to 3 p.m.

In rural farming areas persons not only suffer from asthma, bronchitis and emphysema but also struggle with farmer's lung.

Through presentations by medical professinals, come learn about lung disease and the things you can do to make daily living a little easier.

The Lung Association has received the highest praise from past participants in this program and encourage anyone who is bothered with breathing problems to inquire about the program.

Family members, and friends are welcome to attend.

For more information and to pre-register, call The Lung Association at 932-4999 or 347-1175.

Local residents enjoy tour of their homeland

Dalkeith

by Jean MacLennan
874-2385

Molly Brodie accompanied by her grandson Joshua Brodie, travelled to Belfast, N. Ireland on Sept. 7. They were met by relatives John and Eleanor MacIlfatrick and taken to their lovely home in nearby historic Carrickfergus.

They visited Carrickfergus Castle, which is built on rock on the shores of Belfast Lough which flows into the Irish Sea. Joshua was encouraged to dress in costume and to explore the castle experiencing history from the inside.

Afterwards they all rode on the "Knight Ride", the only monorail themed ride in Ireland. Mush history of the town was displayed during this ride.

They toured the North Antrim coast road stopping along the way to walk over the famous Giant's Causeway trails. This Coast Road route is one of the most spectacular of nature's displays of unspoiled beauty to be found anywhere.

They were given a guided tour of the beautiful Belfast City Hall. The Titanic had been built in Belfast and a display of the ship was shown in the Hall. Joshua was fascinated by this.

They visited the Folk and Transport Museum at Cultra. This is a beautiful museum spread across several acres, displaying the history of many facets of Ulster life, rural and town.

At Bangor we were pleased to see the Canadian flag flown beside the U.S.A. flag and the British flag. The British flag of course was slightly higher.

They visited many relatives in Magherafelt and surrounding areas. Molly saw the remains of a small farm home she had lived in for one year before coming to Canada at the age of 3-1/2.

She saw some of the details of that home that she had remembered as a child, the old stone fireplace, the stairs she used to sit on. They also saw the old home where Molly's father was born and raised.

They drove to the top of Knockagh Mountain to see the monument in memory of Antrim soldiers who served in both world wars. The view from this mountain was spectacular.

On Sept. 17 they crossed the Irish Sea by ferry from Belfast to Stranrae, Scotland for a three-day visit.

They drove along the scenic route overlooking the Irish Sea and the man mountains and valleys to their destination at a downtown hotel in City Centre, Glasgow. Glasgow was Molly's birthplace.

After touring Glasgow they drove north to Loch Lomond, Killin and Loch Katrine. The beauty of these lovely places cannot be described in words the flowers, the delightful little homes and the lone piper playing on the dock.

They visited the newly built town of Irvine, stopped for a short while in Ayre (home of Robbie Burns). They saw the uninhabited Island of Ailsa Craig in the distance in the Irish Sea.

They returned to Toronto on Sept. 21 and visited with Molly's daughter and son-in-law, Ron and Elaine Smart and family in Oakville, for two days.

Mrs. Lily Robinson spent two weeks with her daughter Sheila and son-in-law Claude Laviolette of Sexsmith, Alta. Lily met her one-year-old, great-granddaughter Seanna Mae Millham and her mom Lynn Laviolette and dad Warren Millham and Lois Laviolette her other granddaughter.

We played mega cards and enjoyed each other's company. My great granddaughter was the highlight of my trip she is a real sweetheart.

During the past week I had a surprise visit from Phyllis (MacLeod) McLaughlin and Jim McMath both of Etobicoke. Phyllis, who lived here as a girl was interested in the change of the public school to a restaurant and the many other changes in the village. In Alexandria they had called on Margaret and Charles Anderson.

That same day, Marianne MacDonald, Vankleek Hill visited me. Then it was my turn! I had a great visit with Dorothy (Fawcett) Derry and Margaret (MacLeod) MacCrimmon at Dorothy's home at Ammandale Bay.

The "Star Therapeutic Academy of Riding" (STAR) had a successful benefit show on the Williamstown fairgrounds on Saturday, Sept. 21. Two of STAR students, John Proston of Dalkeith and Sammy Iannou of Lasalle, Que. took part. Winners were: short stirrup champion, Sarah Denault; reserve, Keith Bennet; novice champ, Andrea Harden; reserve, Dayna Hammond; intermediate champ, Katie-Jo MacFadden; reserve, Genevieve Brunet; advance champ, Melissa Renaud; Reserve, Crystal Vaillancourt.

The competitors were form Ontario and Quebec.

With generous donations form the Hawkesbury Rotary Club, local donors and fund raising activities, STAR has purchased the first pony for the program. Voltige is a 14 year old, 13.2HH mare, who is well schooled and a reliable mount and is kept at STAR's facility at Equitec Farm near Vankleek Hill.

STAR is a non-profit organization. Therapeutic riding lessons are given to children with special needs. Volunteers are needed – to lead the horse, also "side walkers" are in demand. If you can help call Gina MacFadden at 874-2711.

Wednesday, Sept. 25 was a big day for the participants of the Canada World Youth program. Along with the host families they journied to Ottawa where Senator Jacques Hebert hosted a luncheon for the group.

The M.P. for each riding represented by the Canadians and Don Boudria our M.P. met them and gave them a tour of the Parliament Buildings.

They attended the session of Question Period.

Later the Ambassador to Thailand hosted a Thai buffet at his home in Rockliffe.

It was a busy and exciting day and thoroughly enjoyed.

The group was pleased that Grant Crack, mayor of Alexandria joined them for some of the events.

I'm sure many of you were watching the lunar eclipse on Thursday evening. In this area we were real lucky that the sky was so clear. The CJAD, Montreal, announcer on Friday morning remarked that it was like 'watching paint dry'. But did you see the shooting star streak so close to the moon? Perhaps that was the grand slam hit by Henry Rodriguez that very evening in the Expo-Philadelphia game!

Kirk Hill United Church welcomes Rev. Robert Pentinga as their new minister from Cornwall.

Laggan Public School

Although the rain may have dampened the ground on Saturday, it didn't dampen the spirits of those who came out for our Family Fun Day. The official opening of the new playground took place as scheduled. The playground was dedicated to two former students, Jamila LaToya Williams and Mary Rae MacMaster. Parents of both students were on hand to participate in the dedication. Although the equipment was wet, as soon as the ribbon was cut, the students swarmed over the new structure. The games portion of the afternoon did not take place, however, the barbecue was churning out hot dogs and everyone was well fed.

Student council elections took place last week and following is our slate of officers for the 1996-97 school year: President, Rachel MacGillivray; vice president, Heather Maclaren; secretary Leigh-Ann Redmond; treasurer, James MacKinnon. Staff representatives for this year will be Maureen Hart and Trevor Scott. The campaign was very well run and the speeches were excellent. All participants were congratulated on a job well done.

Glengarry Club donation helps Outreach

Seniors' Prime Time

by Rosemary Cameron

I would like to take a few minutes and say a special thank you to the Glengarry Club of Ottawa. On Sept. 10 we received a generous donation to be put towards our senior/disabled Outreach programs. They said, "We hope that this donation is helpful to your organization. We are happy to support such a wonderful and worthwhile service."

On behalf of the board of directors, but utmost the senior/disabled of Glengarry – three cheers to the Glengarry Club of Ottawa. It is nice to see clubs, organizations not only working together but supporting one another.

The deadline for registration for the "55 Alive Drivers Refresher Course" is drawing near – Oct. 9 and 10 the course will be offered at the Royal Canadian Legion in Alexandria – please call our office if you are attending by Oct. 4.

People interested in attending the "Breathe Easy Course" by the Lung Association which will begin on Oct. 8 to Nov. 12 at the royal Canadian Legion in Alexandria, please give us a call to obtain more information on the weekly session. This course is offered free to everyone.

The Williamstown/Martintown Diner's Club held their monthly dinner on Sept. 18. A huge turn out of people enjoyed a barbeque chicken dinner.

Door prize/bingo winners were: Jessie Wheeler, Ola Lalonde, Mae Thompson, Mae Crofts, John Peters, Margaret Seguin, Hazel Driscoll, Marie Seguin, Anna Gowdie, Janet Quail, Maurice Crofts and Rita Poapst.

We welcome you to join us at the Glen Robertson Community Centre on Thursday, Oct. 10 for our Glen Robertson/Dalkeith Thanksgiving celebration. For reservation/transportation please call 347-1175.

Anyone wanting to book our senior/disabled Outreach van to tour the beautiful fall colors, call 347-1175.

Happy Thanksgiving to everyone and thank you for your support and friendship.

Local dancers taking part in Scottish concert

Glen Roy
by Laurie Mayer
525-0645

The Ellen Cameron School of Highland Dancing will be hosting a Scottish concert on Friday, Oct. 4, 7:30 p.m. at the General Vanier Auditorium in Cornwall.

Entertainment will be provided by Antrim, the Glengarry Old time Fiddlers, Fiona Fraser, the Morris Family, and the Cameron Dancers.

It is important to note that funds raised at this concert will go towards financing the dancers who compete outside of the community, province and country, and they will be grateful for your support.

To obtain your tickets for this fine evening of Scottish entertainment, tickets will be available at the door, or you can call Woodstick Wines at 525-5175 on the Glen Roy Road.

Happy birthday wishes to Lorraine Lacoste, who celebrated her 49th on Thursday, Sept. 26. A festive dinner party was arranged at an Alexandria restaurant, and she was surrounded by well wishers from the L'arche Community.

According to Sandra Worden, La Caravane will be relocating house by house to the west end of Ottawa starting as soon as the new year.

County library systems wants to raise $25,000 for 25 years

The SD and G County Library, which has served the United Counties for 25 years is trying to raise $1,000 for each of its 25 years of service.

The county library system which has 21 libraries in 19 municipalities in the United Counties is seeking community support for phase II of its automation project.

The library hopes to link all 21 branches through a computer network via the Internet. This would mean each branch would have up-to-date information regarding library holdings, and availability of items. It would also mean the public could access our catalogue through the Internet, meaning faster, better service.

Citizens can contribute these ways:

- Spare change – Leave 25¢, $2.50 or any loose change in the collection jars located in the library branches;
- Attend the system's 25th Anniversary Reunion Fund raiser on Oct. 19, 1996;
- Participate – Look for other creative events at your local library such as White Elephant Sales and others.

For more information contact your local branch or call 984-0400.

Legion euchre team off to competition

Lancaster
by Marg Millett
347-2207
Fax 347-1297

Early morning walks on the marsh are a good cure for what ails you. The air is fresh, the scenery is quite beautuiful and changes daily. A solitary Heron, statuesque and singularly beautiful, is not the least bit disturbed as we pass. A kingfisher darts and dives along the banks. There are signs that some large animals, probably deer, have rested overnight underneath a grove of Sumac.

This is a good time for reflection upon life's complexities. The papers talk of wars in the Middle East, language wars, political unrest. Unfortunately the good stuff is not newsworthy and a good walk with my dog, Su-Lin, helps to put things in a better perspective.

Now that Legion Week is over thanks go to the many supporters who attended various functions and to the Lancaster Pipe Band for their music. Luella Montroy, Olive McCreary, Doris Beard and Betsy Robinson, the ladies Auxiliary Four, placed second in the euchre tournament at Long Sault, on the 21st. Now it's off to the district competition in Carleton at October's end. Good luck ladies.

Well, summer is over and the Sunshine Gang is back in high gear, enjoying meetings on Tuesday afternoons. It was fun to find out what everyone had been doing for the holidays and a quiz on current events made everyone think back about the past few months.

Birthday celebrations were in order for Reni Kliene, including a corsage, a card signed by all, and a cake.

Peg Fergsuon gave the Sunshine Gang a very interesting presentation about her trip to New Zealand.

Many groups from other countries come to the McKinnon Forestry Interpretive Centre at Apple Hill. So as the Sunshine Gang arrived, a group from Africa was leaving. Michelle and Sandy were guides, explaining the daily work at the centre. Everyone enjoyed visiting the museum, the site of the original McKinnon home.

Two new members were welcomed this month, Frieda Nadlinger and Charles Lambert. The Sunshine Gang hopes that they will enjoy meeting with them each week.

Driving about the countryside last week I notice that the fall colors were abundant in the Moose Creek area. But never fear, the trees are starting to turn here as well just in time for another event provided by Cooper Marsh.

On Saturday, Oct. 5, join the Cooper Marsh staff for a guided walk entitled Autumn Colors.

This walk will be over the wooded trails of Summerstown Forest. Asmission is $3 for anyone over 12 years. Please call 347-1332 for additional information.

Jolly 50's is the name, and euchre is the game! Winners of Sept. 24 game: Ladies: High, Henrica Wetering; low, Eva Collette; men's high, Rene Poirier; low, Oliver Legroulx. Door prize Donald McGregor and the for the famous 50/50 draw, winners are Alma Gibbard, Therese Bourdeau, Joyce Lalonde, Henrica Wetering, Terry Vendette, Dorothy Roy and Kathy Preston. Sunk was Cecile Legroulx.

A lovely cake was made by Terry Vendette to celebrate Eva Colette's 91st birthday along with Rita Lauzon, Doreen Leroux, Loraine Plue and Marguerite McLeod. Happy birthday to all!

Along with Apple and Arts weekend, and the many shops and restaurants that we have in Lancaster, this place is bustling with activity on the weekends.

The parking lot of Auld Kirktown and the Dairy Queen was overflowing as I drove by on Sunday. Customers were emerging for our newest shop, Cobblestone Lane.

Lancaster Freshmart always seems busy and the whole village was thriving. The Cooper March Educatin Centre was absolutely full of visitors.

Let's hope that this is a good sign of things to come.

There are a lot of good, newsworthy stories out there. I am learning just how interesting this area really is by writing hits column. Please feel free to contact me, call, fax or leave a note at Freshmart. Have a super week.

The Community Protestant Church will resume holding services at Smithsfield Hall in Lancaster.

The first service starts at 10 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 6. Everyone welcome.

Cancer society annual meeting being held Oct. 10

Take notice that the 1996 annual meeting of the SDG and Prescott-Russell Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society will take place at the Ramada Inn, 805 Brookdale Avenue, Cornwall, Ont. on Thursday, Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to receive the report of the officers and to elect the officers of the board of directors.

Nominations for election to the board of directors, as members at large must be submitted to Lionel Mercier, president, SDG and Prescott-Russell Unit at 16 Second Street East by Thursday, Oct. 3.

Nominations must be in writing and signed by the nominees indicating their willingness to stand for election and by three nominators who must be members of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Bull calves were very hard to move this week and no change is seen in the near future. Heifer calves increased in price. Good cows increased in price this week. Shell cows were hard to sell, top cows being the top dollar. Stockers were off this week. Make sure to turn those bulls into steer calves. With these big sales make sure to bring those calves in early.

Births

WILLOCK – Mark and Shelley Willock are proud to announce the arrival of their first child, a daughter, Heidi Mikayla, on Sunday, Sept. 8, 1996 at the Ottawa Civic Hospital weighing 6 lbs. 14 oz. Thrilled grandparents are Dan and Cathy Willock of Picton and Alice Weaver of Winchester.

Card of Thanks

MASSIE – The family of the late Marcel Massie, son of the late Elie Massie would like to express a sincere thanks to family and friends, neighbors, for their support, floral arrangement, mass and donations during the loss of a dear husband and father. Brother of Lionel, Jeanine (Mrs. Lionel Leroux), and Claudette (Mrs. Claude Ranger).
– Massie family. 40-1p

MacPHEE – The family of the late Donald Angus MacPhee would like to thank all relatives and friends for their sympathy, donations, flowers and mass offerings, at the time of the death of our father, grandfather and great grandfather. Your kindness has been appreciated and will always be remembered. We would like to especially thank the wonderful staff at the Maxville Manor for the love and care given to him over the time he spent at the manor. A special thank you to Rev. Frank Bailey, Father Marc Piche and Dr. Jaggassar for the special attention and kindness shown him while at the Manor. We would like to thank Father Bernard Cameron and the Munro and Morris Funeral Home for the support and guidance given to us at this time.
– The MacPhee family. 40-1p

The family of the late PATRICIA BURKE would like to express a sincere thank you to all of the friends, family and neighbours for their sympathy, support, donations, mass offerings and countless floral arrangements. Special thanks to St. Finnan's Cathedral and Father Cameron. Our deepest appreciation to the Georgian House Restaurant and to all the wonderful people who sent food and refreshments. Our mother was a very special woman whose memory will be kept in the hearts of many.
Your support will not be forgotten.
THANK YOU.
Julia, Christa, Fred,Scott, Dianne, Judy, Jennie, Paul and family 40-1p

Death

CHARLES FERGUSON

After a full and rewarding life, Charles Norman Duncan Ferguson, of the South Branch Road, passed away in the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall on September 1st, 1996 in his 88th year. Charles was the loving husband of the late Leaffie Clark. They were married for 63 years. He was the son of Alexander (Sandy) Ferguson and Mary Jane MacLeod and brother to George, John, Grace (Eamon), Edith (MacArthur), Mabel (Browne) and Jean (Corlett), all deceased. He leaves three sons and 5 daughters: Gordon (Elizabeth) of Glen Gordon; Ruth (Hugh Balkwill) of Burlington, Colorado; Jack (Phyllis) of Barrie; Sheila (Ron Prince) of Nepean; Marilyn (Ralph Cameron) of Nepean; Kenneth (Beverly) of Cornwall; Mary Jane of Ottawa; and, Linda (Paul Putnam) of Winnipeg. He leaves 18 grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren.
The funeral was held on September 5, 1996, in St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall and burial followed in Woodlawns Cemetery. The service was officiated by Reverend Fred Rennie. A personal eulogy was given by Marilyn Cameron with special thoughts shared by granddaughters Laura Cameron of Burlington, Vermont and Robin Balkwill of Austin, Texas. Everett Rush sang, "In the Garden." Pallbearers were six of the grandchildren: Alex Ferguson, Laura Cameron, Cathy Prince,David Ferguson, Robin Balkwill and Hugh Balkwill Jr.
Charles Ferguson was a direct descendant of John Ferguson, a United Empire Loyalist who was granted 200 acres at Dalkeith in 1794. In 1815, John's son, Duncan, purchased 100 acres on the South Branch Road which is still the family farm. Charles was a great grandson of Duncan and spent his life farming "The Oaks" and tending to the sugar bush. The property is currently farmed by Kenneth who took over from his father,Charles, in 1974. In his retirement, "Charlie' tended a large vegetable garden which he maintained until shortly before his death. Also for twenty years of his retirement, he drove a school bus. From both of these hobbies, he derived great pleasure. His life is an inspiration; he is fondly remembered and sadly missed by those whose lives he touched. 40-1p

NOTICE
TOWNSHIP OF KENYON
KENYON BEAVER MANAGEMENT
The Kenyon Township Council has established a BEAVER MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE to make recommendations concerning the development of a beaver control program.
This Committee is presently seeking the following information:
1. All PROPERTY OWNERS who have a problem with beavers are asked to call the Township Office (527-2090) to register their name and telephone number.
2. All LICENCED TRAPPERS residing in Kenyon are requested to call the Township Office (527-2090) to have their name listed for those property owners who may require their services.
3. Anyone having information regarding METHODS and TECHNIQUES for the control of the beaver population is requested to contact the Township Office.
The Committee would very much appreciate your help in developing a beaver control policy.
Please call before 15 October, 1996 if you can assist in any of the above areas.

Obituaries

Brian Peachey

Mr. Brian Peachey of RR1 St. Andrews West passed away at his residence on Sunday, Sept. 22, 1996.

Beloved husband of Norma Peachey.

Dear son of the late Cedric Peachey and the late Christine Calverley.

Loved father of Julia, Mrs. Chris Allen; Briony, Mrs. Jean Fortin; and Jan Peachy.

Loving grandfather to Emily and Collin Allen; Cloe, Olivia, and Tristan Fortin.

Sadly missed by one brother Garth, one sister Roma; one sister-in-law Joan and their families.

Funeral services were celebrated at Trinity Anglican Church on Thursday, Sept. 26, 1996 under the care of the Wilson Funeral Home, Cornwall.

Donald Angus MacPhee

Donald Angus MacPhee passed away peacefully in his 97th year at the Maxville Manor on Tuesday, Sept. 17, 1996.

He was the beloved husband of the late Mary Isobel MacDonald.

Dear father of Mildred (Clayton Brunton) of Farnham, Que. and Anna Margaret (the late Lewis Buck) of Magog, Que.

Predeceased by James (Agnes Plascott) MacCrimmon, Sheila, Colin (Lucille Therrien) of Skead, Ont. and one sister Tessie Kelly.

He will be sadly missed by nine grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The funeral mass was held at St. Alexander's Church in Lochiel on Friday, Sept. 20, 1996.

The pallbearers were Edwin Hay, Ewen MacPhee, Rudi Van der Byl and three grandsons, Donald MacPhee, John Buck and Patrick Brunton.

Burns Benton

Burns Benton passed away suddenly one year ago at Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital on September 20, 1995.

He was born in Apple Hill, Ontario on January 24, 1948, the son of the late John Donald Benton and the late Janet Violet MacArthur.

Mr. Benton is survived by his wife Joan.

Dear father of John of West Lake.

Survived by his brothers Art and Bill of Martintown, Bryce of Cherry Valley, Dwayne and Allan of Apple Hill and his sisters Violet Shorey of Belleville, Esther of Cornwall, Marg Dickson of Maxville and Lynne MacDonald of Maxville.

He was predeceased by his brother Donald and sister Janice.

Mr. Benton was a graduate of Maxville High School, Ottawa Teachers' College and Queen's University. Mr. Benton was an elementary school teacher in Prince Edward County for 25 years. He taught at Athol, Sophiasburgh and North Marysburgh Public Schools.

He spent countless hours teaching and coaching in the gym, on the soccer and ball fields and in the arena. Mr. Benton coached Prince Edward Ladies' Softball teams for many years.

A former student of Mr. Benton wrote, "Burns was many things to me: a teacher, a coach, a mentor, a friend. Burns touched hundreds of lives in a very positive and constructive way. His passing is felt by an entire generation of students who will long remember his guidance."

He was also an active participant of the Ontario Public School Teachers' Association and was president in September, 1995.

Mr. Benton rested at Whattam's Funeral Home in Picton. Funeral services were held on September 23,1995 at the Picton United Church with Rev. Lloyd Paul, Rev. Peter Walford-Davis and Pastor Danny Smith officiating. Pallbearers were Billy Murray, Henry Cranshaw, Jim Sills, Harold Teal, Chuck Durant and Wayne Smith.

Honorary pallbearers were Chad Camp, Ron Doornbos and Ernie Woolford. The eulogy was given by Mr. Henry Cranshaw.

Interment was at Cherry Valley Cemetery.

Donations were received for the Heart and Stroke Foundation and the Burns Benton Memorial Sports Fund.

Time is not measured by the years that you live, but by the deeds that you do and the joy that you give.

Many dairy farms merge over 52 years

Maxville

by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Without a doubt, our countryside is changing and when oldtimers return, these changes are readily noticed. One obvious one is the fewer number of dairy farmers with their larger herds.

Recently, I came across a project I had done while a student at the Ontario Agricultural College in the summer of 1944. It involved a survey of the quality of the milk shipped by the 55 patrons to the Borden plant here. The project included a list of the farmers shipping milk from both the Maxville and Moose Creek areas. Since I am familiar with these farms, some interesting conclusions have been drawn to illustrate the changing times.

After 52 years, 17 of the farms are still producing milk with eight of them still owned by the same families. Seventeen of the 55 farms have become part of larger dairy operations and 21 of them are now producing crops only.

Crops have changed too. Whereas dairy farmers used to grow one field of corn for ensilage, with several fields of oats and mixed hay, now there are many large, fenceless fields of corn for ensilage and grain corn, soy beans and alfalfa with almost no oats. Perhaps fields of barley and wheat can be seen here and there.

Right now, corn is being cut for silage. It is a good crop but the problem if wet fields could arise. It is interesting to observe the grain corn fields in different stages of maturity. There has been no frost yet but some fields of corn are brown. The soy beans are ripening with some fields real brown. They need frost and dry weather to be in the best condition for combining. The alfalfa fields look good and will continue producing green feed for the cattle until the cold weather sets in.

We had 114 mm of rain in September.

This correspondent has always been a strong proponent of composting and Mark Cullen on the a.m. show last week re-enforced his values in this method of recycling organic waste and in producing an excellent soil additive. The methods are simple and need not be strictly followed. It is obvious that many villagers with gardens and lawns do not compost and dispose of their wastes as garbage. This is not supposed to happen.

There are still plastic composters available at the village's office. Perhaps some neighbors who compost can take some of the leaves at this time of the year from those who do not. It has always ben my hope that a village composting site could be established but this suggestion has always been met with negative reasons why it couldn't work.

Anyway, do try to have your garden and lawn wastes composted. You will cut down on the waste going to the regular sites and you will be very pleased with the results of the compost after it is added to your vegetable and flower gardens.

The Saturday afternoon bridge club at the Manor had the following top three scorers starting on Sept. 14: Joan Owen, William Van der Byl and Gladys Roulston.

On Oct. 10, the Diner's Club under the S.O.S. program participate in a very special outing. It is a Fall Foliage Tour which will feature a steam train ride up the Gatineau. The diners will leave the Manor at 11:30 a.m. to board the train in Hull and enjoy the nostalgic train ride across the Ottawa River and the beautiful sights of that famed countryside. All those interested are asked to sign up with Julie Larin by Oct. 4 by phoning 527-2170, ext. 228.

The second Diner's Club meeting of the month will take the form of a Halloween party on Oct. 24 with the dinner at 5 p.m. and entertainment and dancing at 7 p.m.

On Oct. 28, something new is being offered. It is a Coffee Club for men and the first meeting will be an open house at 10 a.m. when meeting times can be discussed.

Line dancing classes will be held at the Manor on Thursdays starting in November from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Gisele Lemay will be the leader and those interested are asked to register by Oct. 31.

Phyllis Burtenshaw, co-ordinator of volunteers at the Manor needs volunteers willing to assist with sing-songs, piano accompaniment, baking and as manicurists. You will enjoy the work and you are encouraged to phone Mrs. Burtenshaw at 527-2170, ext. 228.

It is a very dull time for all the bird watchers, it seems. The humming birds have departed and the only birds I have at a feeder are the blue jays. I have a feeder out with niger seed and I haven't seen one finch there yet. The chickadees and nuthatchers are around but aren't in need of hand-outs yet.

I receive a publication entitled Bird Watch Canada. It comes as a result of my membership with the Long Point Bird Observatory and the bird survey I conduct at our feeders over the winter.

The last publication listed the top 10 species recorded at feeders by province in 1995-96. For Ontario the percentage of feeders visited by the top 10 species were as follows: black-capped chickadee, 96 per cent; blue jay 91, mourning dove, 84, downy woodpecker 80, dark-eyed junco 75, European starling 72, white-breasted nuthatch 72, northern cardinal 71, house finch 70 and American gold finch 65.

Social centre heating questioned

Deputy Reeve Bill Hagen told Lochiel council members that a decision needs to be made to take out electric heating and put in an oil heating system at the Glen Robertson social centre.

"The duct work is badly done and the cost will be $3,000 to repair it," he said.

Reeve Ron Macdonell suggested a propane heating system could be reviewed as an alternative.

Work on Chisholm drain halted

Work on replacing the culvert at the Chisholm Drain has stopped pending the approval by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, Manson Barton, township drains officer, told members of Lochiel council at its Sept. 10 meeting.

"The MNR will not issue a permit because the bridge-culvert is undersized," he said. "It's not up to us to determine if a bridge is safe or not."

Barton advised members of council to leave the issue alone until the MNR approves changes.

Playgoers treated to Centaur Theatre entertainment

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 24, 28 area people boarded the bus for the first play of the season at the refurbished Centaur Theatre in Montreal.

Quite a few newcomers had joined the group and they, plus the regulars, were looking forward to the entertainment.

There was no mad rush for seats this year because all of the seats have been reserved for the season.

There are however only six plays offered now instead of seven. The Glace Bay Miners' Museum has been featured in some promotional spots on the radio and on the television.

The glowing terms used to describe it may seem a bit excessive but the group found them to be true.

It is a wonderful night's entertainment. The scene is set in a small coal mining town, where the feisty Margaret MacNeil (Mary Colin-Chisholm) becomes enamored of bag pipe playing Neil Currie (Hugh Thompson) who hates coal mining.

Imagine the delight of the Glengarry people when he began singing in Gaelic to the old grandfather, chattering away in the old language and playing Ho Po Mo Near Don Voyuch.

I just had to sing softly along with him, which drew a few interested glances from my seat mates from Montreal.

He played the Flowers in the Forest and several other pieces much to the chagrin of the MacNeil family in the play who classed it all as "what the poor cat does when her tail gets caught in the door."

There is a lot of fun in the way grandpa eggs him on to play and sing, and he kindly obliges at every opportunity. Underneath the joshing and the good natured sparring lies a deep despair of every getting away from the misery that coal mining was at that time.

There is comedy and tragedy included, indeed something for every taste, but the by play of each of the characters, with one another is both sensitive and emotionally satisfying.

The cast was delighted, but seemed somewhat overwhelmed, by the roar of applause and the standing ovation that they received at the end of the performance.

Some of the bus-party have been attending these previews for 16 years or more but they claimed to never having seen a play better than this one. That's praise indeed!

The Glengarry Gaelic Choir practised on Monday evening at the lovely Presbyterian church in Dunvegan, in preparation for their upcoming taping in October.

Dave McCormick and Darrel MacLeod were on hand to see if the acoustics would be acceptable. They will be monitoring the choir's recording for the tape.

This project will be a new, and hopefully a successful, venture for the choir.

Sam and Monique McCracken attended a Sabre Pilots reunion in Calgary at the beginning of September. Sam was in Europe with the RCAF from 1954 to the end of 1956, at the height of the Cold War when the USSR invaded Hungary. There were 800 attendees counting partners, which included some who flew in Korea and a couple of fellows who had also been in WW2.

The organizing committee went all out for the western flavor, including a rodeo at Heritage Park, hosted by the Calgary Stampede parade marshall himself. The PA broke down during the singing of O Canada and 800 voices carried on without missing a note, or a word. The last two events saw the broncos throw all riders and one of the bulls forcefully knocked over the marshall and his horse before being brought under control. The barbeque was hearty enough to satisfy the biggest appetite.

The final night the gala dinner and ball were held at the Westin Hotel, complete with orchestra where old acquaintances were renewed and departures discussed, and generals were treated as fellow pilots, even Jack Fraser the Reform MP. The next one of these reunions is planned for Kingston in June 1998.

Repairs to museum's roof held up by weather

Dunvegan

by Peggi Calder
527-5293

Repairs have begun on the museum's Star Inn roof only to be held up by the rainy weather we have been experiencing. I expect Richard Rigby and his crew will be back at it early next week.

Martin Czarsky of the South Nation River Conservation Authority phoned last week, and work has also begun on our flooded section of the Scotch River.

An energetic group of Canadian and Thai students worked on breaching the old dams at the east end down near Three Bridges. Boy, talk about 'hands-on' visiting a country - working up to your waist in swampy water is just a little different than doing your basic tourist traps.

The old bridge going in to Kippen's gravel pit will be changed this week and the river will be fenced off and a watering device for the pastured heifers will be installed. Grates on the culverts under the bridge will allow removal of any barricades the remaining beavers may try to build.

Then the plan is to install a 'beaver baffle' in the big active dam across McGillis' section of the river. The water is expected to drop about a foot and then in the spring, the dam will be reassessed.

Welcome to Al Myhill who has his new mailbox up opposite his house east of the village. He's worked hard all summer repairing the log home and it sure looks great.

Sunday night, how nice it was to get a phone call from Peter and Stacy Goddard, formerly of Skye. They have returned to Canada from Chicago and are now settled in Carrying Place near Trenton.

Kelli Trottier had yet another great tour of Belguim, Germany, Holland and Switzerland. The scenery in Switzerland was fantastic.

She is back at home in Dunvegan each Saturday to teach fiddle and step dancing and even has a waiting list for lessons.

Traci Trottier's cheerful voice can be heard each weekday morning as she co-hosts the early program on CFLG-FM 104.5 from Cornwall.

Congratulations to Dunvegan ladies senior soccer team who had two members – Lori MacMaster and Sherrill Norman – named to the All Star Team in the Glengarry Soccer League.

The Dunvegan WI met at the hall last Thursday for the Tweedsmuir History meeting convened by Flora Chisholm.

The roll call, 'name a local event your mother or grandmother may have attended in the 30's', was answered by quite a variety - quilting bees, turkey plucking bees, Orange Walks, meetings of the ladies of the Orange Lodge, Women's Aid, fairs, and Blackpool illuminations on the promenade.

No one will be attending the area convention in Perth - this will be the first year in a very long time that Dunvegan will not be represented.

It was decided by ballot that Flora Chisholm would be Dunvegan's candidate for one of the 100 Centennial Awards.

Plans were made for the 15th anniversary of Dunvegan WI taking a hot meal to the workers at ARC in Alexandria. Neilson's will be catering the lunch so that the WI members can celebrate as well.

For her program, Flora had brought the Tweedsmuir history books as well as several newspapers - 1967 Expo, Charles and Diana's wedding, and an early post card that made Loch Garry look quite tropical!

She read an article from the Citizen about teen years during the 1910-20 and Eunice Nixon read an item on 'box lunches' and the anxieties that ensued at the auctions as the young girls tried to ensure that the proper young man bought her lunch. Flora also gave a presentation on Greenfield and St Catherine of Sienna church.

The lunch was an exchange of box lunches decorated with Hallowe'en, Christmas and just pretty motifs and ranged from traditional lunch basket goodies to a submarine sandwich!

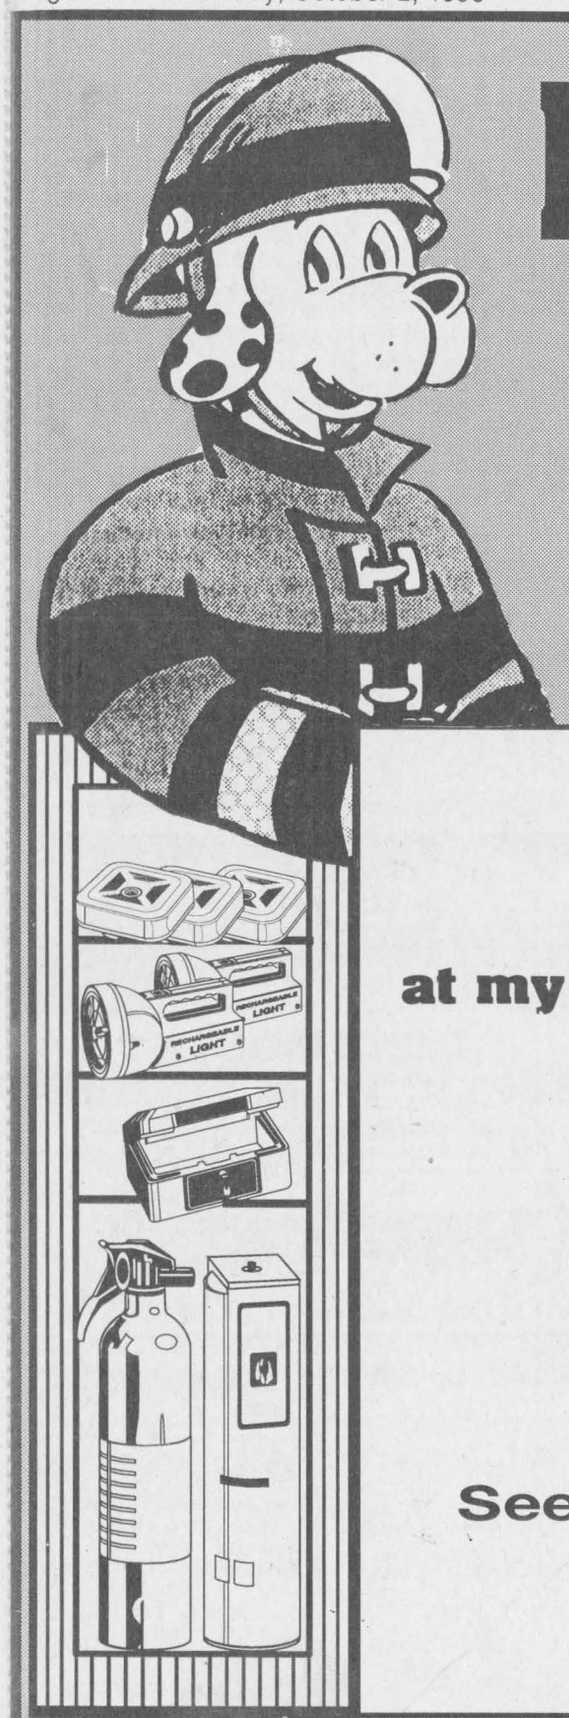
FIREPLACE PRODUCTS



FIRE PREVENTION WEEK
OCTOBER 6-12, 1996

This year's theme
"Let's Hear it for Fire Safety: Test Your Smoke Alarms"

Come Join Me, Sparky, on SUNDAY, OCTOBER 6
at my Fire Hall in Alexandria, Me and my Firefighters are having an OPEN HOUSE

It all begins with a parade through Alexandria with our big fire trucks, Come and Watch!
Then Join us at the Fire Hall from 2 to 4 p.m. for –
Jaws of Life Demonstrations (2 cars)
See our Trucks and Equipment
Meet My Firemen
See the display of Smoke Alarms and Fire Extinguishers
Watch Films in our Lecture Room
Coffee, Juice and Donuts will be served, yum!
See You There!

Throughout Fire Prevention Week the "Fire Prevention Crew" from Alexandria will be visiting local schools to teach the children fire safety. They'll be able to meet our Mascot, Sparky, and we will be holding a Coloring Contest throughout SD and G. The children have fun learning about fire safety and we feel good knowing that we save lives, not only on the job but through prevention.
