More severances advisable—board

More rural severances should be permitted in the Glengarry Planning Area, according to a proposed amendment to the official plan.

The Glengarry Planning Board is holding a public meeting at the town hall Monday at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the proposed change which would allow the Land Division Committee to approve a limited number of non-farm related rural severances.

"The Glengarry Official Plan as it now stands allows rural non-farm severances only in areas designated low density residential or in an infilling situation," the proposed amendment notes.

"In practice, this has meant that councils have had to recommend against nearly all of the rural non-farm severance applications which they have reviewed on the basis that such applications do not conform to the official plan.

"In many of these instances, the actual severance would not have been undesirable. This matter was brought to the attention of the planning board and it was planning board's opinion that an amendment to the official plan should be prepared to allow a limited number of rural non-farm severances based on certain conditions."

Under the proposed new rules, non-farm related consents "should generally be discouraged but a limited number of such severances may be allowed . . "

Conditions for such development include the following:

—"Such severances are only located on Class 5-7 land or on a parcel of land which because of its location or size is not suitable for farming purposes.

—"The new residential use will be located at least as far away from existing farm operations as is prescribed in the Agricultural Code of Practice.

—"The residential use should be located a reasonable distance from railways, hazard lands, special rural uses and any other features or uses with which it may not be compatible.

—"If any conflict between a residential non-farm related use and an adjacent rural use is anticipated, the rural use should take precedence.

—"No unreasonable extra public expenditure will be required to provide the normal services to the new residential use.

—"The Council of the Muni-

Lanthier's operating

Lanthier's Bakery in Alexandria is back in operation this week although office workers are still on strike.

Production workers returned to their jobs Friday after the Ontario Labor Relations Board ruled their sympathy strike illegal.

The production workers had been honoring a picket line set up by six striking office workers who are seeking a first contract.

Both groups are members of Teamsters local 647.

Eight production workers at the Dalkeith Bakery are still on strike for a new contract.

Mobile homes get a boost

The Glengarry Planning Board will seek public input at the Alexandria Town Hall Monday at 7:30 p.m. to a change in the official plan which would permit the creation of mobile home parks on wells and septic tanks.

At present, the Glengarry Official Plan—which covers Alexandria, Maxville, Lancaster Village and the Townships of Kenyon, Lochiel and Lancaster—permits mobile home parks only on piped municipal services.

The rising cost of municipal services has become a major obstacle to mobile home development, the proposed amendment says.

"The principal reason for this change (in the official plan) has been the cost of providing or expanding such services. Also as the standards for private water and waste disposal systems have increased, it has become feasible to look at private services as a permanent servicing alternative.

"There has also been greater acceptance of the mobile home as an alternate form of housing."

Under the amendment, development will still be encouraged near municipal services, but "some limited development will also be allowed on private sewer and water systems in accordance with the requirements of the Ministry of the Environment and the relevant policies of this plan.

"It is recognized that full municipal piped sewer and water services are not necessary in all cases to maintain a safe, convenient and healthy environment."

The amendment was drafted after a meeting with representatives of the Ministries of Housing and Environment and the local Health Unit "at which time encouragement was given to changing the provisions regarding mobile homes."

Registrations still wanted

Municipal course proceeding

A course on municipal government will definitely be offered to residents of the area, following a healthy response to last week's announcement.

Over 20 people, including members of local councils, have indicated an interest in the course which would cover all major aspects of municipal government and school board operations.

The course is open to all residents. You do not have to be a candidate for the upcoming election to participate.

The course would provide background information for any person wishing to participate more fully in their local government and would run about six weeks, with one class per week.

The precise day and time will be announced next week.

The course will be co-sponsored by the Glengarry News and St. Lawrence College and will be held in a central location depending on where the most interest is shown.

So far, registrations have come from every part of Glengarry. Newcomers and veteran politicians alike have expressed interest. Lochiel Reeve Alex McDonald, a seasoned political leader in the area, commented, "You're never too old to learn."

Alexandria's Deputy Reeve Florence Villeneuve has also decided to add to her knowledge.

It is hoped the course will help people in their dealings with local government by "showing them the ropes". The course would examine such items as when a municipal body can hold closed meetings, what rights ratepayers have to municipal council and school board documents, etc.

Topics would include municipal procedure, planning and finances and would touch on the different roles played in the political process by councillors, school board trustees, ratepayer groups and the press.

The course will begin very shortly and interested people are urged to register now by contacting the editorial department of The News at 525-2020. Staff members will also receive calls at their homes.

Major running again

Councillor Morgan Major announced this week he will seek a third term to Charlottenburgh Township Council in the November 13 municipal election.

In a press release, the 38-year-old salesman said he has witnessed "tremendous growth, progress and prosperity" in the township during his two terms in office and "the township has become the envy of many similar-sized neighboring municipalities."

Major said major strides have been made in several directions, particularly in residential and industrial growth and he would like to see this progress continue at the same rate or a much faster rate. The township's population, he said, has been steadily increasing.

"I would like to bring an enthusiastic and positive attitude to council meetings," the councillor said. "Without positive attitudes, there can be little progress."

An ardent supporter of the clean-up of the waterfront campaign, Major said he will further continue this drive.

"I pledge that I would devote the maximum time possible to represent the people of the township. I also pledge full support for further industrial and commercial development of the area as well as development of recreational facilities."

During the past few years, Major "has attended almost all council meetings and spoken on issues he felt were for the

Gas station fire does $5,000 damage as three vehicles consumed by flames

Did you hear about the Newfie who came to Lancaster and set the gas station on fire?

No, it's not a joke.

Lancaster Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report that over $5,000 damage resulted when the fire broke out at Marcoux's Texaco station Monday.

The fire began when Samuel English of St. John's, Newfoundland, pulled into the Highway 401 station to refuel his motorcycle. He spilled some of the fuel on his pant leg.

When he attempted to start the motorcycle, it backfired, and ignited the fuel line. The fire spread to his pant leg, causing him to drop the motorcycle on the ground.

The gas tank popped open on hitting the ground and the fuel spilled out, ignited and spread to two cars which also caught fire.

A car owned by Cheryl Lariviere, wife of Lancaster village OPP Constable Jim Lariviere, suffered $2,100 damage.

A car owned by Raymond Desroches of South Lancaster suffered $2,000 damage and about $1,000 damage resulted to the motorcycle.

No one was injured.

New industry is on its way

Alexandria should have a new industry by next Jan[illegible], according to Alexandria Industrial Committee Chairman Lionel Leroux.

The new company, Glengarry Glass Limited, will be sold two lots, numbers three and four, in the Industrial Park for $3,500 each.

The operation, owned by a group of out-of-town entrepreneurs whose names have not been disclosed are reported to have been in business for 20 years and will manufacture both commercial and domestic windows.

Slated to begin production in January, Glengarry Glass will employ 15 local people to start.

Construction of a building with 10,000 square feet of floor space will start in November.

The two lots have already been cleared and levelled, and the topsoil is available at no cost for anyone who wants it.

Limousin cattle building big name

Glengarry has a new industry in the form of purebred Limousin cattle. Today the first of what could be a long line of breeding cattle was sent to Guatemala. The bull is two-year-old "Nordic Hobo," a purebred Limousin from the herd owned by Longshot Farm, in the Fourth of Lancaster.

Iain and Helen Mackenzie, owners of Longshot Farm, now have 11 purebred Limousins, the only ones in Glengarry county. The Mackenzies picked Limousin for their lack of calfing problems, and for their excellent dressed weight. They have been crossing them with Hereford, Holstein and Charolais-Holstein crosses and have been getting some very good beef, sold mostly in Toronto.

Excellent for cross-breeding because of their almost non-existent calfing problems, Limousin also have one of the highest dressed weight percentages at 60 per cent. They are also very quick from womb to freezer, with an average elapsed time of 15 months.

To be cross-bred with the native Brahma cattle, "Nordic Hobo" is expected to raise the percentage for dressed weight.

Although he was raised in our cold climate, "Hobo" should do well in the tropical weather, the Mackenzie's say. Bred in France as dual purpose cattle, Limousin already exist easily in almost every climate in the world, usually as beef cattle.

Massie scraps police probe

Alexandria Mayor and Police Commission Chairman Bruno Massie stated at the last meeting of the town council that there would be no meeting between council and the commission regarding the workings of the Alexandria Police Department.

The request was made by approximately 30 town citizens in relation to an accident that cost the life of a local boy July 12, on the corner of Lochiel and Main streets.

There was some question surrounding the thoroughness of the investigation into the accident and some complaints were lodged

Man continues severance fight

Wilfred Geneau, who found himself $13,000 out of pocket when his land severance fell through in July, isn't giving up.

Geneau told Charlottenburgh Township Council last week he is applying for a second time to have the same lot on County Road 17 severed by the township's Committee of Adjustment.

The committee approved Geneau's original application but its decision was successfully appealed by United Counties roads engineer Donald McDonald.

McDonald is appealing several severances in Charlottenburgh because he feels the township is not paying enough sttention to the Lower St. Lawrence Official Plan which governs the area.

McDonald is primarily concerned about severances on county roads. The official plan says such severances should be avoided.

During the appeal period, however, Charlottenburgh incorrectly issued Geneau a building permit and he spent $13,000 on a new home before receiving word that the Ontario Municipal Board had overturned his severance.

Geneau says several people around him are building on county roads and wants to know why the engineer is picking on him.

"If the law is not to build on county roads, that's okay, but right where I am they let seven people build," he said.

Council had agreed to appeal the OMB decision but did not file the appeal within the prescribed time.

Reeve Adrian Gadbois pledged continued support, however, and said he would keep an eye on the second severance application.

He said McDonald, who lives in Williamstown, is unfairly singling Charlottenburgh out and promised to raise the matter at counties council.

"We're at the mercy of one man. It depends on how he feels each morning," the reeve said.

"It's going to come to a head at counties council. I'll see to that."

Geneau says he is paying about $125 a month in interest on money he borrowed to purchase building materials he now cannot use.

NURSING ASSISTANT — Penelope MacDonald, daughter of Mrs. Mary Jane and the late Cormick MacDonald of Alexandria, recently passed her exams at Ottawa Civic. She is presently employed in the cardiac unit at the Civic.

More meetings to be held on Charlottenburgh plan

Unexpected citizen interest in Charlottenburgh Township's proposed new official plan has resulted in the scheduling of two more public meeting to discuss the land use document.

Meetings will be held at the township hall in Williamstown on Thursday, October 12, and Wednesday, November 15, at 8 p.m.

Between 30 to 40 people turned out at two public meetings held earlier this month and members of the audience requested more time to study the document.

The township planning board agreed to receive comments to the plan until December 31.

The text and maps of the proposed plan can be viewed at the township hall from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The official plan designates future land use for the township. It outlines where residential growth should occur, what areas should be left undeveloped, etc.

Under the proposed plan, rural severances would be severely restricted and future residential growth would be directed to the existing hamlets or to estate residential subdivisions.

Homes in estate subdivisions would have to be at least 1,400 square feet in size.

More severances . .

cipality is satisfied that such residential use is appropriate in the proposed location.

—"The minimum lot size is at least one-half acre and may be larger depending on the requirements of the Ministry of the Environment.

—"No more than 20 rural non-farm related severances shall be granted per year in each township."

The changes would affect the Townships of Kenyon, Lancaster and Lochiel, which are included in the Glengarry Official Plan.

The amendment may be viewed at the town hall weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mobile homes get boost . . .

Under the new rules:

"In the Town of Alexandria, mobile homes shall only be permitted within mobile home parks in areas designated residential or residential mobile home park on full municipal sewer and water services.

"In the Village of Lancaster, mobile homes shall only be permitted on full municipal services on individual lots in the northeast quadrant of the village or within mobile home parks in areas designated residential mobile home park on full services in the remainder of the community.

"In all other municipalities, mobile homes shall only be permitted in mobile home parks in areas designated residential mobile home park on private or communal services except that mobile homes on separate lots may be permitted in rural areas in accordance with section 6.8.4 of this plan.

Under section 6.8.4, the erection of a mobile home in a rural area "shall be by amendment to the zoning by-law except where the proposed residence is accessory to agriculture or where the residence is for the use of a retiring farmer."

Litter story told

Alexandria will be getting litter containers identical to those seen on Cornwall streets, at no cost binding to the town. Former Cornwall Mayor Archie Lavigne made the proposal, on behalf of the Litterking International Limited, to the Alexandria Town Council at their last meeting.

The cans will pay for themselves through the sale of advertising on the side panels. The only responsibility the town will have will be to empty the containers.

The town will also be billed for any necessary repairs, but Lavigne assured the council that a side panel would be only three or four dollars.

betterment of the township," the release says.

"I am particularly proud of the fact that I led the fight to clean up our waterfront and start the wheels in motion to remove dilapidated boathouses that marred the landscape," he said.

"This campaign has proved extremely successful in the past."

He said the municipality's waterfront is much cleaner and more scenic now than it ever was.

Major has been chairman of the fire committee for 1977-78 and a member of the Nor'Westers' Museum in Williamstown. He has "100 per cent attendance at council meetings," according to the release.

The councillor noted that the new fire hall in Williamstown was completed during his term. He said he was instrumental in getting the fire hall completed.

"I have always taken a solid stand on all important issues and decisions for the betterment of the ratepayers," he said.

He said if he is re-elected he will press for more industrial growth in the township and work to improve and consolidate industrial relations with the city of Cornwall.

Major is married with two girls, Joanne, 17, who attends Char-Lan High School and Tammy, 12, who attends high school in Cornwall.

Massie scrapping police probe . . .

against one member of the police department concerning the use of bad language.

Police Commissioner Judge George A. Stiles, in a letter to the mayor, said the officer in question made no breach of etiquette and that "it (the accident) was fully investigated by the force and there appears to be no question that the cause of the trouble lay with the driver of the motorcycle."

The question of inadequate police patrols was raised by some of the 30 citizens and council members. In response to this, Mayor Massie cited the difficulties in modern-day police protection. He also said that even if there had been a policeman on every corner, the accident still could not have been prevented.

Councillor Lionel Leroux raised the question of other matters concerning police operations that could be discussed in a meeting between council and the commission.

He felt there were several other areas besides surveillance that could be improved.

He was supported by Councillor Archie McDougall who called for "some sort of rethinking process with respect to the operation of the police department."

Massie rebutted, saying the police commission was doing the job it was formed to do and reiterated his objection to a meeting between the police commission and the council.

Flexible hours are set for board office staff

The office personnel of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education, upon the completion of their move to the new Second Street location, will be under a new working hours system, at least until January. At that time a decision will be made to either implement or discontinue the new system.

FLEX, CORE HOURS

Under the new system, a series of "core" (10-12 a.m., 1:30-3:30 p.m.) and "flex" (8-10 a.m., 12-1:30 p.m., 3:30-6 p.m.) hours divide the work day. During the "core" hours all office personnel will be expected to be at work.

The system promotes employee responsibility, and employee-supervisor communication. Since the Board does not want to spend money on modern time-keeping equipment, all employees will be required to record their hours on a time sheet. In order to maintain the normal business hours of the Board, all employees must work in conjunction with each other, and their supervisors, to ensure that all essential services are provided between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ELIMINATES LATENESS

Since the first "core" period does not begin until 10 a.m., lateness will be almost non-existent, according to Board Trustee Eugene Legault. However, at the board meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 12, Mr. Legault also voiced two possible problems. He said that the office union should be told about the "flex time" system before its introduction in order to forestall any criticism. He also mentioned that the office supervisor's workload will be increased, since it will be his duty to make sure that work is available for all employees at the right times.

In a report to the board, Robert Whittaker, personnel co-ordinator, said that there are many employers that have already successfully introduced the "flex" system.

From September 18 (Monday) to September 22 (Friday) inclusive, traffic on the Perley Bridge connecting Hawkesbury, Ont. and Grenville, Que. will be restricted to one lane.

One lane only, in alternating directions controlled by traffic lights, will accommodate weekday traffic, on a 24-hour basis, for this period. This temporary additional restriction is necessary to reduce the bridge load during repairs to the bridge bearings—part of the over-all structural repairs now underway.

On weekends, normal two-way traffic will resume. On weekdays, beginning Monday, September 25, traffic will be restricted to one lane in alternating directions between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. daily. This pattern will continue until the end of December, 1978.

Cornwall's CCVS Golden Raiders still have the "Indian" sign on the Tagwi Warriors. The reigning champions of the SD&G High School Football League maintained their winning ways over their arch-rivals by defeating Tagwi on their Highway 43 campus, 9-7, Monday afternoon. The game was the first of the 1978 season.

This was a typical early schedule student football tussle. Really resembling an inter-squad practice game. Not time enough yet to be honed to the edge of executing varied plays according to the book. Tagwi coaches had a training camp start with more than enough candidates for two teams. That takes time to trim down and jell. And CCVS practised until last week without a head coach. Leslie Wert has now taken over from last year's mentor, Don Kannon. Brian McCartney will be assistant.

Tagwi kicked off and their downfield tackling promptly prevented any worthwhile run back. In the first CCVS series, it was third down and four to go. They amazed everyone with a pass gamble that was knocked down. The Warriors were held to little gain by CCVS defence but their offence could make no headway either. In the final minute of the first quarter and from the CCVS 10, Tagwi's quarterback, Peter Wensink, smartly duped Raiders' defence with a bootleg pivot and run to his left, skirting the visitors' flank and into the end zone for the first td of the game and the season. He came right back with the convert boot that gave Warriors a 7-0 lead as the teams changed ends.

Early in the second quarter, Raiders fleet-footed back, Greg Fyfe, blasted his way on an exciting gallop to Tagwi's 20. As in the first quarter, CCVS were held in check by a combination of fumbles, penalties and Warriors defence, especially the punting of Gordie McDonell.

Just before half-time, the only real scoring chance was a field goal try by CCVS that was short. Warriors' defence dominated the play during the entire first half.

Early in the second half, CCVS gained good field position. They were further aided by two successive Warrior penalties yielding ground that caused a Tagwi retreat to their 18. From here, Raiders' Robb Robson booted an easy field goal to make the score, Tagwi 7, CCVS 3.

Warriors were gradually losing their first half defence play. This became painfully obvious to coach Don Bond and his assistants when CCVS' Greg Fyfe again was allowed to bolt from the Warrior 40 like Seattle Slew in last Saturday's race of the Triple Crown winners. Fyfe, when in the clear, blazed down the east side field edge into Tagwi's end zone scoring a major that was not converted.

Going into the final 15 and behind 9-7, Tagwi had to score at least a field goal to go ahead by one point, while at the same time hold CCVS scoreless. The Warriors accomplished half this assignment. They did prevent CCVS from scoring but hardly at any time moved out of their own end, to salvage at least a field goal and the game.

Like the Hamilton jinx over Ottawa in the early 60's, CCVS are again one up on Tagwi by virtue of their Monday victory, 9-7.

PUNT RETURNS

This is truly a rebuilding year for Cornwall's pioneer high school, CCVS. Their "rookie" quarterback, Jimmy McDonald, has a thoroughbred Glengarry pedigree.

Young Jimmy is a son of Jimmy McDonald, Fifth Street East, Cornwall. Jimmy Jr.'s dad is a son of Johnny Donald Ranald McDonald, Fourth Concession, Lancaster in the Bridge End area. Jimmy Jr.'s grandmother is Mrs. Alice Bellefeuille, the former Alice Hurtubise, our one-time next-door Third-Kenyon neighbor. She attended the old log school, SS#8, just an acre across the field from where I am typing.

Jimmy Sr. and his brothers were notable members of the SD&G Highlanders in World War Two. This writer first knew Jimmy when he was a young lad along with Leo Dupuis, now a separate school educational official in Toronto, when they were assistants of that great Cornwall athletic director of OCOT, the late Joe St. Denis.

From the McDonalds to the MacDonells. Young Wayne MacDonell, a very capable yards gainer for Tagwi on the "counter play" hails from St. Andrew's and is a brother of last year's Warrior, fleet-footed pass-catcher Allan MacDonell.

Another brother act was those quick five-yarder shots fired over the line by Tagwi quarterback Peter Wensink to his brother Bruce. They are brothers of Boston's John Wensink. Their cousin Brian Wensink, we hear, is seeking a goal tending job in the Ontario Major Junior "A" loop.

This writer doesn't pose as any authority of officiating. However, we would like to see the return of former CFL high school football officials like "Chuck" Paul and "Gib" Seguin.

School coaches must be exemplary in discipline especially in the presence of student players, when it applies to referees. We know some were unhappy last year.

In Monday's game there appeared to be more huddles in two hours explaining rules to both teams by the referee than Jimmy Carter held with Sadat and Begin in 18 hours at Camp David. And some results as vague as the press secretary, Jody Powell, briefing reporters.

At one point a flag was thrown on a second down thrust by Tagwi. Warriors were walked back and the series started all over again at first down. Too thick for our thick skull. We asked that veteran and affable sport scribe from the Standard Freeholder, Alf Lafave, what was the call all about. Alf quipped, I'll be . . . . (Censored) if I know." Later we asked the Warrior chief Don Bond. Reply, "You find out and then tell me."

See you Friday at GDHS to greet "J.T." when the St. Lawrence Saints play Gaels. Tagwi will be at Vanier.

Junior A hockey in Alexandria Monday night

Rugged rivals in the Central Junior A League last season, the Brockville Braves and Hawkesbury Hawks will meet at the Glengarry Sports Palace next Monday evening to take each other's measure for the coming year cycle.

Both teams are currently without a home, so to speak; the Hawks are conducting their training camp here for want of quarters in Hawkesbury and the Braves are completely minus a home-town rink since the roof fell in on the Brockville Memorial Centre last winter.

The Hawks will open in the old rink in Hawkesbury before the newly-built arena is ready in mid-October. The Braves have obtained ice time in Cardinal for the time being and will be playing their home games in that town for the next few months at least, as no decision has been made regarding the Brockville facility.

Their misfortune however, provides some Junior A hockey for local fans right on their doorstep.

General Manager of the Braves is Green Valley native Tony MacDonald who feels his club is going to be a worthy contender in the coming season. Coach Bob Foster has been around—he is a former member of the Toronto Toros, the Canadian National Team under Father Bauer, a member of the Eastern Pro Hockey League and has played and coached in Holland.

Hawk's Coach Mac MacLean, rated one of the top Junior A mentors, claims to have a line-up of good contenders. "No stars, as yet, but have three good lines and we will see who comes to the front during the exhibition schedule." A local boy, Frank St. Pierre is back with the team this year and will be in the line-up on Monday.

Program set for skating club

On Thursday, September 14, the 11 members of the executive of the Alexandria Figure Skating Club met at the Glengarry Sports Palace to get the new season underway. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Cecile Gauthier and a detailed financial report was rendered by the new treasurer, Mrs. Diane Martin.

Saturday, September 30 has been set aside for our annual registration day. The hours will be from 10-12 p.m. for last year's students and 1-3:00 p.m. for new students.

These new students should be accompanied by a parent as a signature is required on the registration form. To be eligible, children must be four years old by December 31, 1978.

The fee for the season will be $25, and for tiny tots, under 6 years old, $20. For Kenyon and Charlottenburgh children, regular fees are $50; tiny tots $45.

The first 30 tiny tots will be accepted and their lessons will be one-half hour with a group of 15. Registratiofn fees are divided as follows: $15 to the skating club, the remainder goes to the arena. The hours of 4-7:50 p.m. on Mondays are for group lessons and 3:30-7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays are for private lessons.

Teachers will be Mrs. Micheline Berard of Vaudreuil and assistant coach, Miss Manon Brunet of Green Valley for Monday afternoon lessons. For the private lessons on Tuesdays, Mrs. Noella Aquin and Miss Manon Cote of Valleyfield have been hired.

It also has been voted that the children wear gym suits or skating skirts as jeans are dangerous and prevent the teachers from seeing the progress of the pupil.

The last Monday of each month has been set aside for badge testing and also for the monthly meetings of the executive.

New Hawkesbury complex by Nov.

The Hawkesbury Memorial centre had thousands of visitors last week when they were drawn to participate in a full day of activities to end the summer months.

After a Mass at St. Dominique Church in Hawkesbury, the visitors were able to view a parade, before participating in a celebration sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus.

Construction of the new complex is not completed, but it is expected to be ready by November.

After a disco dance, skateboard demonstration, and tours of the construction, 1,000 plates of food were served to the crowd.

The "Elvis Brothers" entertained those assembled at the arena in the evening, preceding a dance and a Super-loto draw.

J. T. Hay coming for local football opener

by Angus H. McDonell

While digging up potatoes the other day, we seem to have planted more than this year's yield, we received a phone call from Rough Riders' general manager Frank Clair. The call was in response to an inquiry memo we had mailed Frank a few days earlier.

The memo was relative to a discussion we had with Stan Fraser regarding high school football and Gaels' first game. Glen Sandfield's native son was wondering if it was possible to obtain Rough Riders' permission allowing J. T. Hay to kickoff the ball in Friday's game here against St. Lawrence thus officially opening the gridiron season. So this writer dropped a line to Frank (Clair) and George (Brancato) seeking their consent to have "J.T." with us. Providing this would not interfere with a Friday Riders' practice in preparation for Sunday's game in Ottawa with the other Roughriders from Saskatchewan.

In his Ohio accent, Frank Clair told us on the line that he thought the idea of having J.T. back home was a splendid gesture. After all, Frank said, he was fully aware that Alexandria was Jim McCaffrey's birthplace and he remembered our noted sportsman's dinners, ample evidence of Ottawa fan support. Then he asked, "What time does the game get underway?"

"Two o'clock," we replied.

"Just great," continued Frank, "J.T. can fraternize with his former teachers, students and players, get the game started and be back here to practise by 3:30. George (Brancato) and I are delighted to co-operate."

So there you are folks, the current CFL East scoring leader and the football pride of Glengarry, Rough Riders' No. 5, John Thomas Hay from the 14th of "Lochail" will be back home to boot the ball come this Friday on the turf that started him on his career with Rough Riders.

Your Worships, Bruno and Alex "Lauchie," how about showing some civic pride in a farm boy's gridiron achievements? The sports representatives of the press shouldn't be expected to do it all.

Loyalist Regiment arriving

On Sunday, Oct. 1, the Royal Highland Regiment will pay a visit to the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum in Williamstown.

The regiment will march into the village at 10 a.m., set up camp in the museum grounds and put on a display of 18th Century military life until departing at 4 p.m.

The 84th Regiment (as the Royal Highland Emigrants were more commonly known) was one of the Loyalist Regiments raised by the British government from the Colonists loyal to the Crown during the American Revolution.

Many of these men were Scottish Highlanders and when the war ended, they settled in the Williamstown area, in Charlottenburgh and Cornwall Townships.

Several years ago, a few enthusiasts decided to recreate the 84th Regiment. Though it is a volunteer group, the uniforms and equipment are authentic reproductions of what was used 200 years ago.

The drill and military activities that the group performs are historically accurate, as they are based on letters and diaries written by members of the regiment.

The program to be presented at the museum is intended to be both instructive and amusing. It will begin at 10 a.m. with eight members of the regiment marching into the village, accompanied by camp followers and typical equipment.

They will set up camp behind the museum, pitching their tents, putting up a cooking shelter and posting sentries. The women in the party will cook their mid-day meal over the fire, and both men and women will eat the 18th Century fare.

At 10:45 the regiment will parade to St. Andrew's Church where they will attend the 11 a.m. service and afterwards fire a salute over the grave of John Bethune, first chaplain of the regiment.

The afternoon will be spent performing those duties necessary during a day in camp. Anything might happen! A soldier may become unruly and have to be disciplined. As in any army, there will be marching and drill, including the firing of muskets.

If the sentry raises the alarm, the camp will be defended against any attackers. A recruiting drive through the village may be made, to increase the company's numbers.

At 3:30 p.m. the regiment will break camp and march out of Williamstown.

In conjunction with this visit by the 84th Regiment, the museum will present a special display for the entire weekend. This will include historical material relating to the regiment as well as a collection of antique weapons. Uniforms and pictures illustrating Glengarry's more recent military history will also be shown.

Organizers say Oct. 1 promises to be a most enjoyable day in Williamstown and urge the public to bring a picnic and spend the day at the museum, living in the past.

The museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The museum is open every weekend until Thanksgiving, Saturday and Sunday 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. and also Thanksgiving Day.

Churches plan fall program

After a summer recess the various church organizations of the Presbyterian Church are embarking on their new programs and activities for the year ahead.

The Glengarry Presbyterial will be holding its fall meeting at St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall, on Thursday, September, 28 at 10 a.m. The theme of the day's study will be "The Future is Yours. What are you doing about it"? While it is expected that all presbyterial officers, group presidents and secretary-treasurers will attend, the president, Mrs. William Ewing, hopes that as many women from the various congregations as possible may also be present. Lunch will be at the Jade Gardens.

The fall session of the Synodical of Quebec and Eastern Ontario will be held in Sherbrooke on October 11 and 12. Those from the immediate area who will be attending are Mrs. William Ewing of Dalkeith, Mrs. William McEwen of Maxville, Mrs. Mora MacGregor of Williamstown, and Miss Annabell McNaughton of Bainsville.

Then, of course, there are the fund raising activities—suppers, bazaars, and sales of various descriptions—which will be advertised from week to week. These are representative of many hours of labor on the part of the promoters, as well as eager anticipation on the part of those availing themselves of all the good things offered.

HOW MUCH IS POOR DIGESTION COSTING YOU?
How much is poor digestion costing you? Poor digestion will cause you to eat more food than necessary, will cause you to be overweight or underweight, and is usually considered to be more or less permanent. BUT the nerves run the body. And how well or how poorly the nerves run the stomach and intestines will determine how well or how poorly your digestion system works.
So first correct the cause of the trouble [examination and adjustment] and follow our recommendations for restoration and repair.

In July, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Campbell and Brenda had a pleasant holiday when they went out to the stampede at Williams Lake, B.C. There they were met by their daughter Lillian, who is living at Victoria, B.C., and they all went to Dawson Creek and up the Alaska Highway to the Yukon. On their way back home they visited friends on the prairie. Since then Betty has started nursing at the hospital in Dawson Creek. Good luck, Betty!

The farmers have been blessed with good weather for silo filling, and the busy housewife is taking out her garden, and pickling and preserving, and freezing the produce to help to beat the cost-of-living this coming winter. After such a long hot summer, it feels as if we should be in the month of October. Let's hope the weatherman doesn't feel the same way and send the snow too soon.

CHURCH SERVICE

Dr. D. N. MacMillan will conduct the Rally Day services in Kenyon Church next Sunday, Sept. 24. The Sunday School Choir will lead in the Service of Praise, and the lessons will be read by pupils of the Church School. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Society hears prominent speaker

The Sept. 8 meeting of the Glengarry Historical Society in the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum at Williamstown proved to be a highlight in the life of the society. The guest speaker, Dr. Robert H. Hubbard, chief curator of the National Gallery, addressed the gathering on the subject of Rideau Hall, the home of Canada's governor-generals. Dr. Hubbard has done exhaustive research on this matter in recent months culminating in the publication of a book.

He traced the history of the building through the years and described its distinctive involvement with each governor-general, not omitting the important contributions made by many of their wives, such as Lady Aberdeen. The audience was taken on a descriptive tour of the mansion and were shown slides of many of the rooms before and after renovation and of many of the events which took place there. The entire address was sprinkled generously with humorous anecdotes. One of the local members, Lord Chatfield of Williamstown, added timely contributions of stories of his own experiences as an aide-de-camp to Lord Athlone and HRH the Princess Alice in the '40's.

Dr. Hubbard was introduced by Dr. Russell Harper, a former associate at the National Gallery and thanked by Lady Chatfield.

The next meeting of the Society will be held in Alexandria on October 5, the speaker being Max Singleton, on "Glengarry Architecture."

Teacher talks are stalled

A provincial factfinder is expected to be appointed this week to look into stalled contract talks between SD&G County Board of Education and its elementary and secondary school teachers.

Both teacher groups are without a contract.

The Education Relations Commission will appoint a factfinder to investigate and assist with both sets of talks.

The factfinder has 30 days to submit his report to the ERC.

The board and teachers have 20 days from his submission to negotiate a settlement. Then the factfinder's report becomes public.

Teachers can legally strike 15 days after the report's release.

John Milnes, chief negotiator for the 379 elementary teachers says teachers will only strike as a last resort and they would prefer compulsory arbitration to settle the dispute.

Milnes said the teachers would like to see an arbitration panel composed of one board representative, one teacher representative and a third person appointed by both parties.

HONESTY

"Sir, I need to pass this course and I am very worried about it. Please sir, if I gave you some money could you give me a pass in this course?"

That statement caused me to spend the worst afternoon in my teaching life. Nothing like this had ever faced me before. Bribery; the very bottom of the barrel; Nixonian politics in the classroom; a student trying to buy my soul.

I was told later by colleagues that my screams of "Get out!" resounded through the halls.

What a sad outlook for this modern youth; and from Glengarry too.

The episode has made me dwell on honesty ever since that recent event. I began to think of other examples.

Did you know that there is someone out there holding over $1,000 of our farmer neighbor's hard-earned money? How could this have happened? Bad luck? Finders-keepers, losers-weepers? God will get him in the end? Stolen money reaps no good? Is there a person out there with a bad conscience?

Where are the examples of virtuous honest behaviour in our society? We are constantly exposed to the grand parade of unethical, tasteless, criminal, immoral actors on society's stage whereas the quiet honest soul lives on unplublicized. Harold Ballard gets out of jail just in time to be elected to hockey's hall of fame. Kerr and Munro make 'innocent' phone calls, Fox commits forgery 'just once', Davis in B.C. claims "I've done no wrong," Trudeau can't remember who gave him the Sussex Drive swimming pool.

Nixon asks the world, "Have I ever told you a lie?" On and on.

An incident in my earlier life (much earlier) as a student stands out. Somehow, one of the six of us graduating scholars in our particular specialty obtained a copy of the four-hour final examination.

We debated whether our ethical standards were as important as this opportunity to look at the paper and get a good mark by knowing the questions and memorizing perfect answers. I am proud to say that as young adults, we decided to burn that examination without looking at it.

Our student newspaper editor was pointing out several unethical practices of last year's student regime and his intense desire to improve the situation this year.

Shout out, honest people.

What stays up is God's and composes the minister's salary and what comes down is used in the every day running of the church."

Moderator to be guest of UCW

by Helen MacMillan

"Gratitude" was the theme of the September meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Martintown. The meeting was held in the church and Mrs. Ian Kennedy presided.

The Scripture, Luke 17, was read by Mrs. Duncan Christie and Mrs. John Stringer led in prayer. Organist was Mrs. Lloyd Clingen.

The meditation, based on the healing of the ten lepers, when only one returned to express gratitude, was presented by Mrs. Stuart Blackadder and Miss Mae Munro. A solo, "The Lepers," was sung by Mrs. D. R. MacDonald. Nineteen members answered the roll call with a verse containing the word "healing." Forty-five visits and 26 cards to sick and shut-ins were reported.

NEW CHOIR GOWNS DEDICATED

The dedication of new choir gowns took place at Glen Sandfield United Church at the Sunday Service of Worship, with Mrs. Angus MacLennan at the organ.

Rev. Jim Thompson led the dedication Service and Mrs. Lorna Chapman accepted the gowns on behalf of the choir, expressing thanks to the Glen Sandfield United Church Women. "We will use them in our musical worship with joy to the glory of God.

The choir sang "Come let us Adore Him" and Rev. Thompson closed with prayer of dedication and thankfulness.

The meditation was "Failure and Success". Rev. Thompson spoke of Paul's failure after failure when he wanted to go to Rome. He said: "We must accept failure as a fact of life. There are failures over which we have no con trol. We must be satisfied we have not been singled out by God to suffer alone. I know very few people who have not run into closed doors. This is life. In this world the spirit of God is at work. When one door closes, another is opened.

"When Paul realized that the road to Rome was blocked he wrote a letter which made the Book of Romans one of the greatest Books of the Bible. Our success in life depends on how we react to failure. When we have a failure, we must find a detour, and we will find a door to inspiration in life."

The service closed with "Lord dismiss us with thy blessing."

Local pipe band wins again

The Glengarry Pipe Band returned from Massena on Saturday with the "Canam Trophy" given to the best pipe band in the competition for bands participating in the Canadian American Festivities.

The trophy is the H. Harvey Memorial Trophy donated by Legion Branch 16, Ottawa.

Flags with the names of Legion Branches from both sides of the border, Kemptville, Nepean, Eastview, Fort Covington, N.Y., Ogdensburg, N.Y., Gouverneur, N.Y. and Massena, N.Y., were among those in the parade.

Crowned Queens, representing their respective Legion Branches, rode on individual limousines and braved the chill wind in their formal attire. A float carrying former queens, a group of square dancers named "St. Joseph's Square Angels" and a wee cart of tiny tots placarded as "Future Square Angels" and many Legion members on foot, many of whom carried banners and flags of Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

The music was provided by five pipebands, all Canadian, interspersed throughout the parade, namely, City of Brockville Pipe Band, Royal Canadian Legion Band, Kemptville; Camp Argyle, Ottawa; Canadian Legion Cornwall Band and The Glengarry Pipe Band.

The Glengarry Pipe Band's name was inadvertently omitted on the list of bands on parade competition but the Canadian Legion Branch 297 Cornwall Pipe Band in their smart outfits of yellow kilts and tartans, white spats and a yellow hackle in their Glengarrys were worthy of this award.

The Earl J. Santimaw Post 1143, Veterans of Foreign Wars was the centre of the scene where both indoor and out, there was a warm and friendly atmosphere amongst "old buddies" and "new found friends."

Friday evening, September 15, in the Finch Arena, the Glengarry Pipe Band together with singer Gary Mathews, organist Sharon Metcalfe and a group of MacCulloch dancers provided the entertainment at the dance and barbecue sponsored by the Finch Lions Club. Sylvester MacDonald and his band provided the dance music.

Hunting season opens quietly

Opening day of the small game hunting season got off to a quiet bang according to the Cornwall Department of the Fish and Wildlife Services.

There seemed to be no shortage of waterfowl although the more popular species of duck haven't arrived in our area in their usual numbers yet.

While no incidents were reported, the hunting pressure was not as great as in past season openings. Whether this was due to the unsettled nature of the sovreignty of Indian lands or the Quebec-Ontario dispute over certain islands in the St. Lawrence River has not been determined.

Further east in the Lake St. Francis area, it seemed that hunters had to work much harder to fill their limits although Quebec laws governing the type of blinds and ancillary equipment are not as stringent as here in Ontario.

Upland bird hunters fared well also, although the dense foliage this early in the season cut back considerably on the bag. Even those hunters with well trained dogs had trouble locating birds.

It has been a favorable year for nesting birds and a good harvest of adult game birds is expected later in the season.

New services policy for non-residents

There will be a new policy concerning water and sewage facilities for non-residents as soon as the Public Works Committee submits its recommendation to Alexandria Town Council.

This policy would apply to all homes adjacent to town boundaries.

In a resolution passed at the last council meeting, the Public Works Committee was asked to "study the current situation of providing services to homeowners adjacent to the town, consult with a complementary committee from the Township of Lochiel, and bring back to the Alexandria Town Council whatever recommendations that may be provided."

At that time the Council will establish a policy to deal with requests for services from non-residents.

In the past, services have been given to some, but not to others. Once non-residents got permission to use town services, they had to pay for their own pipe, installation and hook-up to town pipes.

The cost for water hook-up is $200, and for sewer hook-up, $300. The required three-quarter-inch copper pipe for water is approximately $8.40 per 12 feet and four-inch sewer pipe is more than $11 per 10 feet. In addition to these costs, the non-residents will have to pay 10-15 per cent more for water.

VALUE SAVES!

In these days of inflation, the word "save" is on everyone's lips, especially when it relates to food.

It is true that we may not be as conscious of spending money when we select clothing, or furniture, but in the food store we are certainly keen on stretching that food dollar.

Food shopping by considering the nutritional needs of your family is one way to do this. Food value simply means the amount of nutritional goodness in a food. For example, some foods are packaged with goodness at a relatively low price (cheeses, fruit, and vegetables), while others contain "empty calories" at a higher price.

Supermarkets supply all types of foods. They have to sell what customers want to buy. So it's up to you to make sure you receive nutritional value. Then, come the "comfort" and "fun" foods.

Mrs. Green is available to talk shopping to groups. Please write:

1978 PRIZE WINNER CANADIAN COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION BETTER NEWSPAPERS COMPETITIONS CNA

The Glengarry News

ALEXANDRIA, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1978

Time to get control back

Complacency is one of the greatest enemies of democracy, and no level of government is more vulnerable to such complacency than the municipal.

Because the national media—and particularly the electronic media such as television—devote most of their time to federal and provincial matters, local government has been relegated to a lowly third spot on the list of priorities.

The situation is particularly acute in rural areas where municipal government almost totally escapes the eye of the media. Even at The News, we must confess, we cannot do as much as we would like to do because of staff limitations.

In the absence of thorough press scrutiny, it is important for ratepayers to take it upon themselves to keep watch over their government. Citizens' associations have proven effective in many other parts of the province. Perhaps this strategy should be applied here.

Recent events would suggest that there has not been enough policing to date. At both the local council and school board levels, there has been too much of the cloak and dagger. Closed meetings have become the rule, rather than the exception.

How do we begin to rebuild the foundations of responsible government?

The first tool needed is knowledge.

If people are interested, The Glengarry News in conjunction with St. Lawrence College will hold a pre-election course on municipal government, to begin in the next couple of weeks.

Many of us are reluctant to question government officials simply because we do not know where we legally stand. What rights does a citizen have? What powers does a councillor have? When a municipal council decrees that something is right or wrong, how do we find out if the councillors have the power to make that given ruling? How do we know when they're just bluffing?

The course would touch on some of these topics and give people the information needed to deal effectively with local government.

While one need have no intention of running for council, the course will also give potential candidates a chance to evaluate whether they wish to take the plunge into the upcoming campaign.

We all tend to do a lot of complaining about government, but we seldom bother to find out what we can personally do to rectify the problem. Apathy dominates.

In Lancaster Village last year, for example, interest was so low that the election was literally cancelled. The entire council went in by acclamation.

Get involved. It's your government and it's your tax dollar. Give us a call right away and let us know if you're interested in the course. If we don't get enough names, we can't proceed.

Branch plant economy hurting

Canadians might well wonder why our inflation rate is running at close to 10 per cent.

One of the problems is our resource-based branch plant economy.

Most industrialized nations produce a significant number of highly manufactured goods. Canada, on the other hand, exports many of her raw materials and with them, the industrial processing jobs.

In a similar vein, a federal government committee recently brought to our attention the fact that we are now "exporting" data processing jobs. By 1984, 23,500 jobs that could be in Canada, will be created in the United States.

This year alone, Canada will buy more than $300 million worth of data processing services from the U.S. That translates into 7,500 high-skilled jobs, according to the federal communications department.

If we had our own Canadian industry and developed our own data processing business, the jobs would be here.

The advertising industry in Canada suffers the same way. Many branch plants can simply rely on the advertising printed by their parent company in the States—just run off a few million more pamphlets.

That means loss of jobs here for artists, typesetters and printers.

The problem was pointed out a decade ago by the Royal Commission on Foreign Ownership in the Canadian Economy. Like so many other expensive studies, it gathers dust on some Ottawa shelf.

Only this month, the Science Council of Canada raised the point again.

"Put simply, Canada is economically out of joint with the times," the council eloquently put it.

It noted that other countries are trying to ensure domestic control of scientific, technological and industrial sectors, because these are critical to national economic strength.

Canada, however, is dominated by foreign-owned branch plants, the council says, and lacks a strong or flexible technological base and is divided in terms of industrial strategies.

Canada cannot rely on resources and primary industry if she wishes to compete in the highly competitive technological world.

It's the same old song, played for the same old tired ears in Ottawa.

A new economic strategy would require vision. Above all, it would require the submersion of short-term political goals for long term achievement. It's difficult to sell such strategies to politicians because the goals are not realized for several years and politicians much prefer to have concrete accomplishments to point towards before the next election rolls around.

'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret

"We treat you royally" has been the slogan promoted by the Eastern Ontario Tourist Association this past summer. We would like to know how many of the tourists who visited our area felt they were treated royally.

It is too bad we have to launch a campaign to remind ourselves to be hospitable. Here in this blessed land where we have so much to be thankful for we should be bubbling over with kindness to our fellow man at all times.

So much depends on the personal touch. The filet mignon in the posh restaurant might as well be hamburger if the waitress doesn't know if the vegetable on the menu is spinach or peas. The luxury of a grand hotel means naught if the voice on the other end of the phone doesn't know or care what entertainment is on in the lounge. If the store clerk just points vaguely in another direction when you ask what department the sweaters are in, you immediately want to find another store.

People who meet the public directly are supposed to care.

On the other hand, many folk find when travelling that the managers of establishments are often inaccessible and leave their young workers up front to take the blame for poor conditions when there is nothing they can do about the situations. This tends to develop a "to-hell-with-it" attitude which is passed along to the customer.

So much depends on the summer student, the young people, because they are the ones who, in the main, deal with the tourist. And present the impression of our people as a whole.

We ran into a really memorable soul this summer and in the most unexpected of places! We were driving from Edinburgh to London and stopped at a big roadside service centre. In the washroom area, an unusually spacious and mirrored portion of the building, we were struck by the personality of the attendant. Here was a living bundle of cheer, bustling about polishing the mirrors, the sinks and the floors, asking tourists if they were enjoying their trip, if there was anything they needed, handing towels to the children and just being a truly lovely woman.

There are a lot of us who would consider working as a washroom attendant much below our dignity. And if, in this position, would probably feel we did not have very much to smile about.

How wonderful to meet a person who is able to see beyond the externals, who can see in her role a chance to bring a voice of cheer into the lives of the thousands who cross her path in a week. People tired from driving and with problems on their minds, people who least expect to meet this kind of therapist. For this woman, her job was not cleaning a washroom, it was extending a gesture of tenderness into the lives of those she met, although she might never see them again. The kind of thing Christ asked us all to do.

Unless we can search within ourselves to see in our daily lives a motive beyond the pay cheque, how empty, how futile our days! But once discovered, how wonderful for ourselves and how natural it follows to "treat people royally."

Gadbois and conflict of interest

Last week, Charlottenburgh Township Reeve Adrian Gadbois conceded that he had ventured onto thin legal ice by promoting a subdivision in which he has an interest.

The reeve gave some convincing answers as to why he had not observed the technicalities of the Municipal Conflict of Interest Act. He noted quite correctly that he has always promoted developments in the township and, therefore, his latest promotion was nothing out of the ordinary.

However, he did admit that he was familiar with the conflict legislation and recognized that according to the letter of the law he should have abstained from discussing the subdivision at council or planning board meetings.

The Municipal Conflict of Interest Act was passed by the Province of Ontario in 1972 to deal with widespread concern over politicians voting on matters which personally benefitted them.

The legislation actually protects both the public and the politician. It protects the public from unscrupulous officials who would use their office of trust to fill their own pockets and it protects honest politicians from unfair criticism by setting the ground rules for conflict of interest. In the past, many politicians found themselves charged with conflict of interest although they did not realize they had a conflict.

The difficulty in any conflict of interest case is judging a person's motives. In Gadbois' case, he says he is promoting the subdivision purely because he believes this development in the Glen Walter area will be beneficial to the township.

The reeve's past behavior lends some credence to his assertion. On many occasions he has spoken just as enthusiastically about developments in which he has had no personal interest.

But it is not Gadbois' honesty that is in question here. It is the law.

As the reeve himself acknowledges, he does have a personal interest in this particular subdivision because a roadway will be built along the edge of his abutting property. Currently, the reeve's approximately 90 acres is landlocked and served only by a right-of-way. The new road would, therefore, open up the west edge of his property to potential development.

Because of this interest, the reeve should have followed the legal regulations and steered clear of promoting the subdivision in any way. Gadbois claims personal gain has nothing to do with his actions. His friends would readily agree. His enemies would undoubtedly suggest the opposite. This is the problem with a conflict situation. The only person who can really be sure of the reeve's motives is the reeve.

Gadbois may very well have the best of intentions in promoting the subdivision for the good of the township, but the law is the law, and he would be wise to seek the safety of that law and remove himself from further discussion concerning the development.

He has indicated this is the course he will follow from now on. In so doing, he would be displaying sound judgment. By refraining from involvement, he will ensure that even his critics cannot challenge his sincerity.

Government Spending "HORROR STORIES"

by Bob Roth

TALE NO. 40
THE PAPER TIGERS

Memos are the mainstay of government. Without them, the day to day routine would grind to a halt. But the paper can pile up. As a result, the federal government has, over the years, accumulated 850 paper shredders at a cost of over $750,000.

The most expensive shredder cost $17,696 and is located in a Montreal post office. The cheapest unit, $90, is owned by the revenue department.

TALE NO. 41
PRACTISE WHAT I PREACH . . .

While the government of Canada was urging taxpayers to lower their expectations and exercise restraint in spending, here is how spending increased in nine government departments and agencies in one year. The increases are for 1976-77 over 1975-76.

Unemployment Insurance Commission, $1,701,957,000, 91 per cent.

Statistics Canada, $158,153, 873, 50½ per cent.

Industry, Trade and Commerce, $496,960,000, 40 per cent.

Public Service Staff Relations Board, $4,958,000, 40 per cent.

Auditor-General, $11,811,000, 27½ per cent.

Post Office, $1,122,706,000, 25 per cent.

Public Service Commission, $79,000,000, 25 per cent.

National Research Council, $229,315,000, 22 per cent.

National Film Board, $25,598,000, 19 per cent.

The money spent to upgrade the auditor-general's department came back to haunt the regime. In his report, former Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson made some stunning observations.

—"Out of 95 departmental spending estimates set forth in the Blue Book (on federal spending), only 20 departments showed decreases. The other 75 all demanded more money."

—"Federal spending at such a fantastic rate holds very serious implications for a country of only 23 million, for it fuels our domestic inflation still further."

—"Instead of wrestling inflation to the ground and restraining government spending as Prime Minister Trudeau promised, he persists on his reckless course of trying to buy his government's way out of inflation with our hard-earned tax dollars."

—"Small wonder that Parliament has lost control of government spending. The MPs scarcely have a fighting chance to get adequate information on the spending they have to approve."

—"As the spending becomes larger and larger every year, less and less disclosure exists."

—"The government has lost control of the public purse. We are paying the highest taxes ever, to support the worst inflation and unemployment the country has ever seen."

—"We should cut government spending by 10 per cent each year until it's cut in half to $22 billion. It's feasible."

The Editor,
The Glengarry News:

Re: "Perspective" Aug. 23/78.

We would like to congratulate Mr. Bob Roth of the Glengarry News, and the people of the Holy Cross Parish, whose words he quotes, for their beautiful expression of their desire for Christian unity.

Living and working, as we do, in an area where the effects of division and lack of Christian concern are evident daily in the misery and oppression of many, we are very aware of the too frequent gap between theory and practice.

It was heartening indeed for us to read of our fellow Canadians who value Christian brotherhood enough to work to achieve it, and who are willing to begin the struggle where we must all begin, in our own family, community and country.

Sincerely in Christ,
Sisters Mary Gauthier

Early identification program for kindergarten children

by Mary Fraser
RR1, Martintown
Tel: 525-2740

Throughout Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry many children who are being registered for Kindergarten for the first time are being looked at under the Early Identification Program. The Board hopes to identify children who seem likely to need special help in the school program. Hopefully some provision will be made to assist these children through problem areas.

When a child enters school, certain abilities and certain degrees of skill in various activities are assumed. In order to teach a child, or present him with situations from which he can learn, the school (and the teacher in particular) must have a base from which to start. This base is what most children can do.

Most children between the ages of five and six can sit upright at a table or desk, move fingers, wrist and arm in a co-ordinated manner, holding a pencil or crayon, and make a circle. If the child is unable to do this, he will have a problem in school primarily because he is unable to do what the majority of children can do. So, when the teacher asks the children to circle the picture that is different from the other pictures, he will not be able to make the circle, although he may be able to see and indicate which picture is different.

Most children between the ages of five and six can walk, run, skip, turn and stop, indicate right and left hand, copy simple shapes, tie shoelaces, button coat, name colors, recite alphabet, count objects to 10, listen attentively to a story for about 10 minutes and retell it in sequence, follow two directions, distinguish reality and fantasy, complete an activity before leaving it, act in a socially acceptable manner most of the time, point to parts of the body asked about (e.g. arm, heel, chin, elbow), tell name, age, where he lives, how many brothers and sisters he has, tell if it morning or afternoon, name the days, and tell what day it is.

Often the child who is not sufficiently skilled in one or more of these areas will avoid that area or areas because he feels uncomfortable and/or incompetent when he compares himself to other children around him, thereby denying himself the extra practice needed to become competent. The aim of the EIP is to provide the needed opportunities for the child to master a necessary ability and/or skill.

New library will be officially opened

The new library premises in St. Andrews West will be officially opened on Saturday, September 30. The building is located just east of the firehall and south of the swimming pool. The director of the Provincial Library Service, W. Roedde, will attend the opening.

The change to the new location marks a great improvement for the St. Andrews branch. An old portable classroom was donated to the county library board by the council of Cornwall Township; the board has had it completed refurbished, inside and out. The result is a modern small library building of about 25 by 45 feet.

The trailer, from which library business was conducted previously, will be moved to Dalkeith, to take the place of the old bookmobile which now serves as temporary quarters. This old bookmobile will go to the newly established Cumberland Township Library Board.

The bookstock of St. Andrew's branch already has been enlarged, but more books are to be added gradually. Effective in October, the opening hours will be extended. The new schedule is: Monday 6:30 to 9:00—Tuesday 2:00 to 4:00—Wednesday 12:00 to 2:00—Thursday 6:30 to 9:00 Saturday 2:00 to 4:00

The official opening will be at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, September 30, followed by refreshments and open house.

Thank You

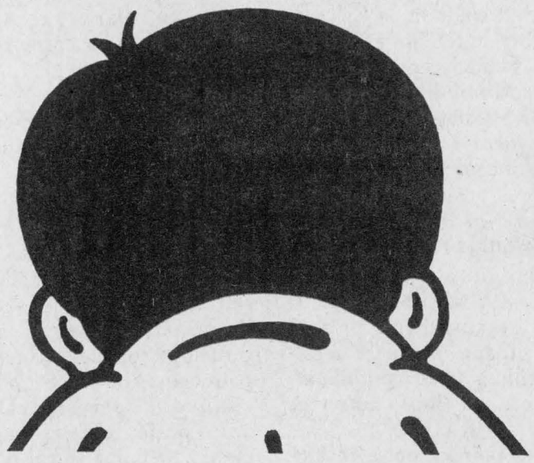
What you don't know can turn people off.



Attitudes change.

Like the way people feel about electricity.

Once, many people used all they could. Until it was discovered that electricity isn't a bottomless well.

Now, more and more of us use electricity carefully.

Because waste of electricity, like anything everybody really needs, can turn people off.

Today, it's better to turn off a light bulb than turn off a friend.

Wasting electricity turns people off.

1978 PRIZE WINNER CANADIAN COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION CNA BETTER NEWSPAPERS COMPETITIONS

The Glengarry News

ALEXANDRIA, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1978

Time to get control back

Complacency is one of the greatest enemies of democracy, and no level of government is more vulnerable to such complacency than the municipal.

Because the national media—and particularly the electronic media such as television—devote most of their time to federal and provincial matters, local government has been relegated to a lowly third spot on the list of priorities.

The situation is particularly acute in rural areas where municipal government almost totally escapes the eye of the media. Even at The News, we must confess, we cannot do as much as we would like to do because of staff limitations.

In the absence of thorough press scrutiny, it is important for ratepayers to take it upon themselves to keep watch over their government. Citizens' associations have proven effective in many other parts of the province. Perhaps this strategy should be applied here.

Recent events would suggest that there has not been enough policing to date. At both the local council and school board levels, there has been too much of the cloak and dagger. Closed meetings have become the rule, rather than the exception.

How do we begin to rebuild the foundations of responsible government?

The first tool needed is knowledge.

If people are interested, The Glengarry News in conjunction with St. Lawrence College will hold a pre-election course on municipal government, to begin in the next couple of weeks.

Many of us are reluctant to question government officials simply because we do not know where we legally stand. What rights does a citizen have? What powers does a councillor have? When a municipal council decrees that something is right or wrong, how do we find out if the councillors have the power to make that given ruling? How do we know when they're just bluffing?

The course would touch on some of these topics and give people the information needed to deal effectively with local government.

While one need have no intention of running for council, the course will also give potential candidates a chance to evaluate whether they wish to take the plunge into the upcoming campaign.

We all tend to do a lot of complaining about government, but we seldom bother to find out what we can personally do to rectify the problem. Apathy dominates.

In Lancaster Village last year, for example, interest was so low that the election was literally cancelled. The entire council went in by acclamation.

Get involved. It's your government and it's your tax dollar. Give us a call right away and let us know if you're interested in the course. If we don't get enough names, we can't proceed.

Branch plant economy hurting

Canadians might well wonder why our inflation rate is running at close to 10 per cent.

One of the problems is our resource-based branch plant economy.

Most industrialized nations produce a significant number of highly manufactured goods. Canada, on the other hand, exports many of her raw materials and with them, the industrial processing jobs.

In a similar vein, a federal government committee recently brought to our attention the fact that we are now "exporting" data processing jobs. By 1984, 23,500 jobs that could be in Canada, will be created in the United States.

This year alone, Canada will buy more than $300 million worth of data processing services from the U.S. That translates into 7,500 high-skilled jobs, according to the federal communications department.

If we had our own Canadian industry and developed our own data processing business, the jobs would be here.

The advertising industry in Canada suffers the same way. Many branch plants can simply rely on the advertising printed by their parent company in the States—just run off a few million more pamphlets.

That means loss of jobs here for artists, typesetters and printers.

The problem was pointed out a decade ago by the Royal Commission on Foreign Ownership in the Canadian Economy. Like so many other expensive studies, it gathers dust on some Ottawa shelf.

Only this month, the Science Council of Canada raised the point again.

"Put simply, Canada is economically out of joint with the times," the council eloquently put it.

It noted that other countries are trying to ensure domestic control of scientific, technological and industrial sectors, because these are critical to national economic strength.

Canada, however, is dominated by foreign-owned branch plants, the council says, and lacks a strong or flexible technological base and is divided in terms of industrial strategies.

Canada cannot rely on resources and primary industry if she wishes to compete in the highly competitive technological world.

It's the same old song, played for the same old tired ears in Ottawa.

A new economic strategy would require vision. Above all, it would require the submersion of short-term political goals for long term achievement. It's difficult to sell such strategies to politicians because the goals are not realized for several years and politicians much prefer to have concrete accomplishments to point towards before the next election rolls around.

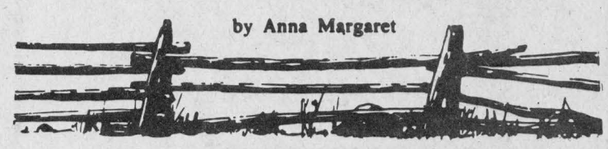
'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret



"We treat you royally" has been the slogan promoted by the Eastern Ontario Tourist Association this past summer. We would like to know how many of the tourists who visited our area felt they were treated royally.

It is too bad we have to launch a campaign to remind ourselves to be hospitable. Here in this blessed land where we have so much to be thankful for we should be bubbling over with kindness to our fellow man at all times.

So much depends on the personal touch. The filet mignon in the posh restaurant might as well be hamburger if the waitress doesn't know if the vegetable on the menu is spinach or peas. The luxury of a grand hotel means naught if the voice on the other end of the phone doesn't know or care what entertainment is on in the lounge. If the store clerk just points vaguely in another direction when you ask what department the sweaters are in, you immediately want to find another store.

People who meet the public directly are supposed to care.

On the other hand, many folk find when travelling that the managers of establishments are often inaccessible and leave their young workers up front to take the blame for poor conditions when there is nothing they can do about the situations. This tends to develop a "to-hell-with-it" attitude which is passed along to the customer.

So much depends on the summer student, the young people, because they are the ones who, in the main, deal with the tourist. And present the impression of our people as a whole.

We ran into a really memorable soul this summer and in the most unexpected of places! We were driving from Edinburgh to London and stopped at a big roadside service centre. In the washroom area, an unusually spacious and mirrored portion of the building, we were struck by the personality of the attendant. Here was a living bundle of cheer, bustling about polishing the mirrors, the sinks and the floors, asking tourists if they were enjoying their trip, if there was anything they needed, handing towels to the children and just being a truly lovely woman.

There are a lot of us who would consider working as a washroom attendant much below our dignity. And if, in this position, would probably feel we did not have very much to smile about.

How wonderful to meet a person who is able to see beyond the externals, who can see in her role a chance to bring a voice of cheer into the lives of the thousands who cross her path in a week. People tired from driving and with problems on their minds, people who least expect to meet this kind of therapist. For this woman, her job was not cleaning a washroom, it was extending a gesture of tenderness into the lives of those she met, although she might never see them again. The kind of thing Christ asked us all to do.

Unless we can search within ourselves to see in our daily lives a motive beyond the pay cheque, how empty, how futile our days! But once discovered, how wonderful for ourselves and how natural it follows to "treat people royally."

Gadbois and conflict of interest

Last week, Charlottenburgh Township Reeve Adrian Gadbois conceded that he had ventured onto thin legal ice by promoting a subdivision in which he has an interest.

The reeve gave some convincing answers as to why he had not observed the technicalities of the Municipal Conflict of Interest Act. He noted quite correctly that he has always promoted developments in the township and, therefore, his latest promotion was nothing out of the ordinary.

However, he did admit that he was familiar with the conflict legislation and recognized that according to the letter of the law he should have abstained from discussing the subdivision at council or planning board meetings.

The Municipal Conflict of Interest Act was passed by the Province of Ontario in 1972 to deal with widespread concern over politicians voting on matters which personally benefitted them.

The legislation actually protects both the public and the politician. It protects the public from unscrupulous officials who would use their office of trust to fill their own pockets and it protects honest politicians from unfair criticism by setting the ground rules for conflict of interest. In the past, many politicians found themselves charged with conflict of interest although they did not realize they had a conflict.

The difficulty in any conflict of interest case is judging a person's motives. In Gadbois' case, he says he is promoting the subdivision purely because he believes this development in the Glen Walter area will be beneficial to the township.

The reeve's past behavior lends some credence to his assertion. On many occasions he has spoken just as enthusiastically about developments in which he has had no personal interest.

But it is not Gadbois' honesty that is in question here. It is the law.

As the reeve himself acknowledges, he does have a personal interest in this particular subdivision because a roadway will be built along the edge of his abutting property. Currently, the reeve's approximately 90 acres is landlocked and served only by a right-of-way. The new road would, therefore, open up the west edge of his property to potential development.

Because of this interest, the reeve should have followed the legal regulations and steered clear of promoting the subdivision in any way. Gadbois claims personal gain has nothing to do with his actions. His friends would readily agree. His enemies would undoubtedly suggest the opposite. This is the problem with a conflict situation. The only person who can really be sure of the reeve's motives is the reeve.

Gadbois may very well have the best of intentions in promoting the subdivision for the good of the township, but the law is the law, and he would be wise to seek the safety of that law and remove himself from further discussion concerning the development.

He has indicated this is the course he will follow from now on. In so doing, he would be displaying sound judgment. By refraining from involvement, he will ensure that even his critics cannot challenge his sincerity.

PRACTISE WHAT I PREACH . . .

While the government of Canada was urging taxpayers to lower their expectations and exercise restraint in spending, here is how spending increased in nine government departments and agencies in one year. The increases are for 1976-77 over 1975-76.

Unemployment Insurance Commission, $1,701,957,000, 91 per cent.

Statistics Canada, $158,153, 873, 50½ per cent.

Industry, Trade and Commerce, $496,960,000, 40 per cent.

Public Service Staff Relations Board, $4,958,000, 40 per cent.

Auditor-General, $11,811,000, 27½ per cent.

Post Office, $1,122,706,000, 25 per cent.

Public Service Commission, $79,000,000, 25 per cent.

National Research Council, $229,315,000, 22 per cent.

National Film Board, $25,598,000, 19 per cent.

The money spent to upgrade the auditor-general's department came back to haunt the regime. In his report, former Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson made some stunning observations.

—"Out of 95 departmental spending estimates set forth in the Blue Book (on federal spending), only 20 departments showed decreases. The other 75 all demanded more money."

—"Federal spending at such a fantastic rate holds very serious implications for a country of only 23 million, for it fuels our domestic inflation still further."

—"Instead of wrestling inflation to the ground and restraining government spending as Prime Minister Trudeau promised, he persists on his reckless course of trying to buy his government's way out of inflation with our hard-earned tax dollars."

—"Small wonder that Parliament has lost control of government spending. The MPs scarcely have a fighting chance to get adequate information on the spending they have to approve."

—"As the spending becomes larger and larger every year, less and less disclosure exists."

—"The government has lost control of the public purse. We are paying the highest taxes ever, to support the worst inflation and unemployment the country has ever seen."

—"We should cut government spending by 10 per cent each year until it's cut in half to $22 billion. It's feasible."

The Editor,
The Glengarry News:

Re: "Perspective" Aug. 23/78.

We would like to congratulate Mr. Bob Roth of the Glengarry News, and the people of the Holy Cross Parish, whose words he quotes, for their beautiful expression of their desire for Christian unity.

Living and working, as we do, in an area where the effects of division and lack of Christian concern are evident daily in the misery and oppression of many, we are very aware of the too frequent gap between theory and practice.

It was heartening indeed for us to read of our fellow Canadians who value Christian brotherhood enough to work to achieve it, and who are willing to begin the struggle where we must all begin, in our own family, community and country.

Sincerely in Christ,

Early identification program for kindergarten children

by Mary Fraser
RR1, Martintown
Tel: 525-2740

Throughout Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry many children who are being registered for Kindergarten for the first time are being looked at under the Early Identification Program. The Board hopes to identify children who seem likely to need special help in the school program. Hopefully some provision will be made to assist these children through problem areas.

When a child enters school, certain abilities and certain degrees of skill in various activities are assumed. In order to teach a child, or present him with situations from which he can learn, the school (and the teacher in particular) must have a base from which to start. This base is what most children can do.

Most children between the ages of five and six can sit upright at a table or desk, move fingers, wrist and arm in a co-ordinated manner, holding a pencil or crayon, and make a circle. If the child is unable to do this, he will have a problem in school primarily because he is unable to do what the majority of children can do. So, when the teacher asks the children to circle the picture that is different from the other pictures, he will not be able to make the circle, although he may be able to see and indicate which picture is different.

Most children between the ages of five and six can walk, run, skip, turn and stop, indicate right and left hand, copy simple shapes, tie shoelaces, button coat, name colors, recite alphabet, count objects to 10, listen attentively to a story for about 10 minutes and retell it in sequence, follow two directions, distinguish reality and fantasy, complete an activity before leaving it, act in a socially acceptable manner most of the time, point to parts of the body asked about (e.g. arm, heel, chin, elbow), tell name, age, where he lives, how many brothers and sisters he has, tell if it morning or afternoon, name the days, and tell what day it is.

Often the child who is not sufficiently skilled in one or more of these areas will avoid that area or areas because he feels uncomfortable and/or incompetent when he compares himself to other children around him, thereby denying himself the extra practice needed to become competent. The aim of the EIP is to provide the needed opportunities for the child to master a necessary ability and/or skill.

New library will be officially opened

The new library premises in St. Andrews West will be officially opened on Saturday, September 30. The building is located just east of the firehall and south of the swimming pool. The director of the Provincial Library Service, W. Roedde, will attend the opening.

The change to the new location marks a great improvement for the St. Andrews branch. An old portable classroom was donated to the county library board by the council of Cornwall Township; the board has had it completed refurbished, inside and out. The result is a modern small library building of about 25 by 45 feet.

The trailer, from which library business was conducted previously, will be moved to Dalkeith, to take the place of the old bookmobile which now serves as temporary quarters. This old bookmobile will go to the newly established Cumberland Township Library Board.

The bookstock of St. Andrew's branch already has been enlarged, but more books are to be added gradually. Effective in October, the opening hours will be extended. The new schedule is: Monday 6:30 to 9:00—Tuesday 2:00 to 4:00—Wednesday 12:00 to 2:00—Thursday 6:30 to 9:00 Saturday 2:00 to 4:00

The official opening will be at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, September 30, followed by refreshments and open house.

Thank You

The organizers and members of the Alexandria Snowmobile Club wish to thank all the participants and spectators who attended the Tractor Pull held on Sunday, Sept. 17th

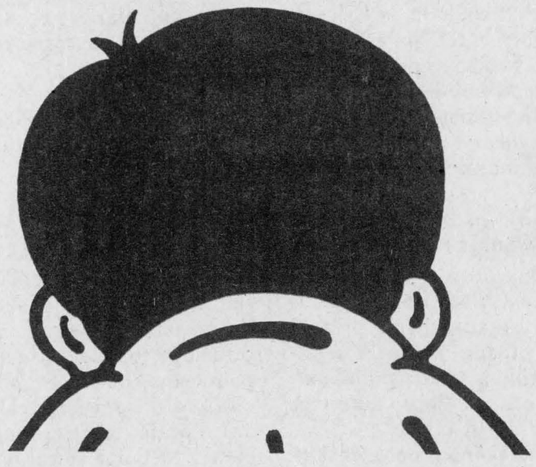
What you don't know can turn people off.



Attitudes change.

Like the way people feel about electricity.

Once, many people used all they could. Until it was discovered that electricity isn't a bottomless well.

Now, more and more of us use electricity carefully.

Because waste of electricity, like anything everybody really needs, can turn people off.

Today, it's better to turn off a light bulb than turn off a friend.

Wasting electricity turns people off.

Bought for $44,000, it can pump 850 gallons a minute, and also has a full complement of extinguishers for chemical fires; a necessity for the Lancaster Fire Department, since it also covers a stretch on the 401. The new truck and fire station were officially viewed on a tour of Lancaster facilities on Saturday.

George Duperron died

A highly respected resident of the St. Raphael's area for most of his lifetime, George Duperron died suddenly in Alexandria on Saturday, September 9.

He was born in Glen Nevis 65 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duperron. At the age of nine, he took up residence with the late John Ranald and Flora MacDonald on their farm in the Fifth of Lancaster and he had lived there until his retirement a couple of years ago.

A graduate of Iona Academy, he had attended the Scarboro Foreign Mission Seminary until illness forced him to withdraw from his chosen vocation. He had farmed when he had recovered his health.

He was a good neighbor and devout parishioner of this church, always taking an active part in the liturgy and church organizations.

He is survived by two sisters, Sister Anne Duperron of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Alice Levert of Alexandria and by one half-brother, Roland of Cornwall.

Rev. Gary Ostler offered the funeral mass assisted by Rev. Raoul Poirier and Rev. Gerald Poirier. Burial was in the parish cemetery.

Williamstown Public School

by Susan MacDonell

Over 230 students have registered at Williamstown Public School this year. There are now four portables instead of three, and the school is still crowded.

John Irvine, our new principal, has a staff of fourteen to assist him. Because the French program has been extended slightly, Alphonse Gaudet has joined the staff on a half-time basis, teaching in Grades 6, 7, and 8. The children are transported to Williamstown from areas such as Green Valley, Lancaster, Glen Walter, Martintown and Summerstown.

A viable sports program is being organized at the school: Flag Football and Soccer for Grades three to six and later in the year, at Charlottenburgh Arena another sports program will start.

Some events taking place at the school this month are: Parents have a chance to meet the staff on Monday, September 18; a play-day will be held on Thursday, September 21.

All students are asked to co-operate and enter a contest to design a new school crest.

One of the duties of the Grade 8 students will be to submit a weekly report for publication. We hope that everyone will report newsworthy items to the Grade 8 students so that our report will be about activities throughout the school.

It's your tax dollar

Government is much like the weather. Everybody complains about it, but nobody does anything about it. The main difference, of course, is that you can have an influence on government.

The Glengarry News in conjunction with St. Lawrence College is holding a crash course in municipal government in preparation for the upcoming election. The course is open to anyone interested in learning how local councils and school boards tick.

What control does the taxpayer have over how his dollars are spent? What rights do we have to council and school board documents? What about closed meetings?

If you want to find out how to cope with "city hall" this course will give you some of the answers. It's time all of us stopped complaining and did something. Self education is the first step. Remember, knowledge is power. Register now by calling The Glengarry News at 525-2020.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by Angus H. McDonell

Unique sport saga

One more of the thinning old guard, Alex DaPrato, was laid to his eternal rest in St. Finnan's cemetery on Saturday of last week. A large crowd of friends from all walks of life joined the next-of-kin in attendance. A fitting farewell to a successful career in business, farming and one that was unique in the realm of sport.

We use the term unique because Alex DaPrato carried to his grave a heart scar that no expert medical skill could ever erase. Because it wasn't created by coronary attack. It was the result of his greatest ambition in sport crashing down before him. Now that Alex has left us, a tribute would not be complete without relating the story, and its effect, in full.

To begin with, about a century ago when the hamlet of Priests Mills was growing to the status of a bustling village, Alexandria, the predominantly founding Scottish and early French were joined by two immigrant families of Italian ancestry. They were the DaPratos and Laportes.

As we all know, the DaPratos, Laportes and their descendants were industrious citizens. Always willing to shoulder their share of church, school, civic and sport duties.

Two brothers in particular, Felix and Paul DaPrato, were outstanding leaders and managerial pillars in Alexandria Lacrosse and hockey. Felix DaPrato, in last week's News' lacrosse photo, was Alex's father. Paul DaPrato was an uncle of Alex and Canada's renowned sportsman, Jimmy McCaffrey. Little wonder that Jimmy McCaffrey and Alex were also successful in their own respective sport levels.

Following the decay of Alexandria's economy life blood, Munro and McIntosh Carriage Works, Felix DaPrato, the firm's energetic sales manager, moved his family to Malone. He continued in his specialized work. While in Malone both Felix, as a director, and Alex, a fine hockey player, became leaders with the Malone North Stars of the Northern New York hockey league.

Later Felix DaPrato and Alex were lured to Ottawa and the grocery business by a member of the Third Kenyon-Apple Hill Kippen family. From a humble corner store, the business, by astute leadership, snowballed to the top bracket in Ottawa's mercantile era before the dawn of the chain store and shopping centre pattern.

Alex DaPrato had the foresight to realize that the day of the independent grocer was community history. Alex disposed of his thriving business and real estate. He was retiring as an exceptionally young businessman.

Possessing a beaver-like disposition, Alex DaPrato just had to continue life in an active way. He had two choices. One, real estate in the near-by Alta Vista area of his Ottawa residence. The alternative, his Fourth Kenyon farm, the former Duncan "Bhan" Kennedy home.

Had he chosen real estate he likely would have died a millionaire. However, uppermost in his ambitions was to return to his grass roots birthplace, his beloved Alexandria.

Neighboring villages, Maxville, Finch and Chesterville all had covered arenas. Alexandria, with a population exceeding the combined villages, had no leadership to provide anything more than the ancient open-air snow-bank rink.

It is true that Alex DaPrato hoped for a breakeven financial return on his arena investment. However, there was another significant factor that, regrettably, was never recognized. It was sentiment.

This writer knows because I worked with Alex DaPrato when he founded Glengarry Gardens. The name he so cherished because it was the baptismal thought of his late wife. Alex gave me, I'll wager, the only blank cheque he ever signed in his life. I was to suit up Maroons in the best available equipment at Joe Miller's Bank Street Sport Shop. That was only the beginning.

Alex DaPrato and his dream come true, Glengarry Gardens, brought Alexandria back to CAHA organized hockey for the first time since 1913. We all thought that the demolition of Chisholm Park was the obituary of lacrosse in Ourtown. Not so. Alex DaPrato not only revived box lacrosse, he also, at his own expense, brought from Ottawa one of Canada's top lacrosse players, Matt Anthony, to coach a winner. Again at his own expense, Alex had to officiate playoffs, one of Canada's best hockey, football and lacrosse referees—"Red" Storey.

Alex did his utmost to operate successfully. At times he was referred to as Jimmy McCaffrey's counterpart. Possessing deep pockets with very short arms. And he would chuckle, knowing full well that promoting hockey and lacrosse by private enterprise had to be done on a business basis.

For the second time he had the foresight to realize that the era of operating an arena was similar to the old style grocery business. The handwriting was on the wall.

Neighboring Water Street Arena in Cornwall and the Ottawa Auditorium could no longer survive. There was only one salvation. Municipal ownership and government recreational grants.

Alex DaPrato faced this obvious end filled with self pride and satisfaction. He had conquered two objectives. He built an arena in his hometown and, to him, this edifice was also a memorial to his family especially his father, his uncle Paul, his beloved wife and her name gift, of Glengarry Gardens.

But this exemplary achievement was not to be. It was alleged that a legal barrier prevented the further use of the name Glengarry Gardens. What hogwash! Prime Minister Trudeau with the cooperation of Provincial Premiers can amend the BNA act. There isn't anything that goodwill can't amend.

Without a moment of deliberation probing for sentimental feelings. Without a moment of thought and consideration that Glengarry Gardens, in essence, really represented families of Italian, Scottish, French and Irish ancestry, an ideal example of Glengarry's founding unity, a guideline to any linguistic problem in Canada, there was total disregard.

And that wasn't all. Literally speaking, almost before the ink was dry on the legal transfer documents, the name "Glengarry Gardens" was ripped off and thrown in the garbage. The most dispicable, unforgiveable act of ingratitude ever accorded a native son by citizens' representatives of his birthplace—Alexandria.

Alex DaPrato's only comment to this writer was, "I am glad Flo didn't live to see this happen."

Alex DaPrato will grieve silently no more. For he is up there in the Valhalla of real sportsmen.

May the sod rest lightly on his earthly remains.

CORRECTION

In identifying members of Alexandria's champion lacrosse team in last News' issue, in one instance, we were in the right church but the wrong pew.

We wrote that Alex Grant was standing between Dave Courville and Dr. Hope. This should have been Alex's brother, Donald Archie Grant, also a fine lacrosse player. His daughters are Mrs. Alex (Rae) MacCulloch and Mrs. Sybil Cameron, Glen Roy. Mrs. Colbourne MacDonell, Brown House, is a daughter of Alex Grant.

Manufacturers' association now being organized

Roy Gibson, manager administration of Domtar Fine Papers, and acting chairman of the Steering Committee of the SD&G Manufacturers Association has announced plans to formalize a manufacturers association for the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The steering committee was charged with the task of preparing a draft Constitution and By-Laws which will be presented to area manufacturers for decision, sometime in September or early October.

Gibson stated: "the prime reason for forming an association is the need for area manufacturers to be united under common goals and objectives to better meet the needs of today's manufacturers. The objectives would entail the development among area manufacturers of a spirit of co-operation for advancement and protection of common interest in the business, economic, and social field." The association will aid and assist members in the organization, operation and development of their undertakings, by means it deems expedient, especially to organize technical services, collect information, statistics, documents on all technical, economic, and social questions, and communicate same to members by various means.

Although timing of the inaugural meeting, held on June 27 last, coincided with summer holidays, 34 per cent of area manufacturers indicated interest in forming an association. Gibson anticipates this percentage will increase significantly once the association becomes formal.

Any manufacturer wishing information, is requested to contact a member of the Steering Committee:

Ed Lang, Manufacturing Manager, Combustion Engineering-Superheater Ltd., P.O. Box 1029, Cornwall, Ontario (1-613-933-7030).

John MacDonald, Controller, Moulure Alexandria Moulding, P. O. Box 280, Alexandria, Ontario (1-613-525-2784).

Interim Secretary, Mr. Lucien Lalonde, Director, City of Cornwall, Department of Economic Development, P.O. Box 37, Cornwall, Ontario (1-613-933-0074).

Seminar to be held

A proposed two day seminar, to provide historical and genealogical information for seminar participants, is being co-organized by Glengarry's Historical Society and Genealogical Society.

Historical society secretary Harriet MacKinnon reports that the seminar would most likely take place next July or September, as long as active interest is shown in the proposal.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

Area reforestation recommended

Eastern Ontario would be the site of five new power plants if recent recommendations to the Ontario government are carried out. Wood, from fast-growing hybrid poplars grown on a million acres of plantations, would fire steam turbines to generate 1600 megawatts of electricity.

Ontario business would benefit to the tune of $170 million a year, money which is now spent importing coal and oil for power plants.

The construction of the plantations and power stations will take 15 years and would employ 10,000 people. 3,200 to 3,600 people would be employed after construction is completed if the Ontario government approves the project.

While not in competition with nuclear energy, woodfired electricity will give Ontario the opportunity to use another domestic fuel source. Thus, in addition to water, uranium and fossil fuel, the province will be able to use a renewable resource, wood, to meet its electricity requirements.

Although burning wood for electricity seems like an old-fashioned idea, "Wood-Fired Electricity Generation in Eastern Ontario", a study done by Morris Wayman Ltd. of Toronto for the Ontario Royal Commission of Electric Power Planning shows that the cost of electricity from wood will be the same as that from fossil fuel-based power plants.

The total capital cost of the project would be about $1.4 billion, or $100,000 per job. The money would pay for the lease or outright purchase of land, the planting and cultivating of the fast-growing poplars, and the construction of the five power plants.

The key to low-cost electricity from wood is the recent development of fast-growing poplars. In seven years, a hybrid poplar grows to 10 metres (34 feet) in height and has the same thickness as a normal poplar that is 77 years old. The steam turbines are not a technological challenge since they have already been developed by several firms located in Ontario.

The new power plants would also attract other industries with a large need for steam. These would include the pulp and paper, textile and plastics industries. The cattle industry will also be built up, since poplar leaves are rich in protein and make excellent cattle feed.

Land availability for the poplar plantations is not considered a problem since there are presently 1.7 million acres of un productive rural land in Eastern Ontario. Rather than compete for land with established farms, wood-fired electricity generation will rehabilitate an extensive depressed rural area, and replenish the earth of Eastern Ontario.

Cattle need eye care

More cattle are affected by eye problems in the summer and early fall, than at any other time of year.

Dust from dry fields, and flies, are partially responsible for the increase in eye infections and injuries at this time of year, says Dennis McKnight, lecturer at the Kempville College of Agricultural Technology.

Eye problems can cause temporary or permanent blindness, and severe weight loss if animals can't see to eat. All cattle may be affected, but young cattle are most susceptible.

Pinkeye is the most common eye ailment in pastured cattle, says Mr. McKnight. The first symptoms are swelling and redness of one or both eyes, and a flow of tears. As the cornea becomes cloudy, untreated animals begin to lose their sight.

This infection usually lasts from two weeks to a month. Animals recover, but they may be partially or totally blind. Infected animals can spread the bacterial infection to cattle the next season.

"Animals with pinkeye should be kept in a dark stall, free of flies and dust. If this isn't possible, smear the eye with an antibiotic and cover with a patch of heavy cloth. Usually when the patch falls off, the animal has recovered from the disease."

Mr. McKnight prefers sulfa or antibiotic powders to ointments or solutions.

An inflamed red eye may also indicate cancer eye. In advanced stages of cancer eye, the malignant growth may involve the lid and the eye itself. This condition occurs more frequently in white-faced cattle such as Herefords, than in Holsteins. Often, it appears at the same time as pineye.

Foreign particles, such as sand or pieces of leaves, can lodge beneath the eyeball, and cause eye inflammation. This type of inflammation usually occurs in only one eye, says Mr. McKnight.

"If one of your animals has an infected eye, find out what the problem is as soon as possible. An eye that is completely closed should be examined for a foreign object."

Gentle flushing with a dilute salt solution (3 to 4 level teaspoons per 10 ounces of water) may remove foreign particles. Mild infections can be treated with a suitable liquid, powder or ointment containing an antiseptic and anesthetic.

If infections do not respond to prompt treatment, or the eye is badly inflamed, call your veterinarian. Injections of antibiotics or corticosteroid may be necessary. If the lesion is cancerous, cobalt treatment or removal of the eye is usually necessary.

July sees fewer forest fires

The total number of forest fires burning across Canada during July was 1,442, affecting 89,000 hectares of forest land, according to the Canadian Forestry Service's monthly report. The corresponding figures for last year were 1,503 fires and 346,000 hectares, while July averages for the decade 1966-1977 were 1,949 fires and 360,000 acres.

For the season to July 31at this year, 4,723 fires have been reported, affecting 160,000 hectares of forest; last year's comparable figures were 7,164 fires and 644,000 hectares, while seasonal averages for the decade are 6,070 and 873,000 hectares.

These statistics are complied monthly from April to October inclusive by the Forest Fire Research Institute of Environment Canada in Ottawa.

Scouts and Cubs need leaders

The Scouts and Cubs are starting their season off with their first meetings. Cubs will meet at the Alexander School at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 21st, and the Scouts will meet at the Legion Hall also an Thursday, Sept. 21 at 7 p.m. The search is still on for new leaders, group committee members and other helpers.

Red clover seed is profitable crop

Red clover seed gives that extra bit of cash. In Eastern Ontario a last minute decision to harvest a good seed crop can yield 150-300 pounds per acre. Currently farm return for primary cleaned seed is running 45-50 cents per pound. Early indications for this year's crop suggest acreage is down but yields are holding.

Most double cut varieties are direct combined. Wait until the crop has dried either by maturity or by a heavy frost. Swathing may be done when 90 per cent the heads have turned brown.

Top seed yields are obtained by rough combining with little effort made to get clean seed. The rough seed is dried and then rethreshed. If the combine has a scour cleaner seed may be taken off here. Rough unthreshed material ending up in the grain tank is later rethreshed recovering considerable seed.

Combine settings generally call for relatively fast cylinder speeds and close concave settings. Specific recommendations vary considerably between makes so follow your combine manual.

Seed yield of double cut varieties is increased by taking the first hay cut early. Cut not later than the very first flower or before June 21 in Eastern Ontario. Seed yields will be cut in half be delaying the first cut of hay by just 10 days past the first flower. This allows the second crop of flowers to come on early when pollinating insects are high in numbers. Bumble bees are effective. Honeybees may be attracted away from red clover by sweet clover, white clover and alsike.

Double cut varieties do not produce as good a seed crop after the first production year. Stands become too thin from diseases.

Single cut varieties are seldom considered for seed production in Ontario.

Businessman dies at 76

Prominent in business affairs of the area for many years, Alexander DaPrato died at Glengarry Memorial Hospital on Thursday, September 14, following several months of failing health.

He was born in Alexandria 76 years ago, the son of the late Felix DaPrato and his wife, Johanna Kerr. On September 16, 1931, he married Florence Ann MacKinnon in St. Finnan's Cathedral. (His funeral was held on the anniversary date, 47 years later, in the same church.)

Following his marriage he left to reside in Ottawa where he operated grocery stores until 1946. He had purchased a farm in the Fourth of Kenyon in 1938 and following the sale of his grocery business he returned here to live.

An avid promoter of sports, in 1947 he built the original Glengarry Gardens which was later destroyed by fire; then he became co-owner of the re-built Glengarry Gardens. He was a director of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, a member of the Eastern Ontario Minor Hockey Association. He had been involved in the Alexandria Golf and Country Club and Alexandria Curling Club.

Active in the Progressive Conservative Party in Glengarry, in the last few years, he had been an active member of the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation until his death.

He leaves to mourn, one son Alan and one daughter, Carol, Mrs. Ken Oma, both of the Fourth of Kenyon. There are seven grandchildren.

He also leaves three brothers and four sisters: Frank of Alexandria, Jack, Ewen, Mary, Mrs. Ralph Hughes and Mabel, Mrs. Al Lemoine all of Ottawa; Mrs. Theresa Townsend of Montreal and Mrs. Rosabelle St. Germain of Chapleau. He was predeceased by sisters, Helen Hayes and May Ison and a brother, Albert.

A first cousin, Monsignor Donald Kerr, officiated at the funeral mass in St. Finnan's Cathedral, assisted by Fathers John McPhail and Raoul Poirier.

Pallbearers were nephews: Ian and Alan MacKinnon, Ronnie Lajoie, Peter Hughes, Lorne Lemoine, Ray Wigle.

TRAPPED BY THE GUARD RAIL CABLE—When it jumped over her car and held the door shut, a Dornie Road resident had to wait to be freed. Her car went out of control last Thursday on Highway 43, a half-mile east of the Bonnie Glen. Maxville OPP Constable A. Vanderwoude estimated the damage at $1,500.

Partridge count high in area

No one seems to have explained the seven-to-nine-year cycle for Hungarian Partridges to the current generation of the birds in Eastern Ontario.

While the numbers of Hungarian Partridges in Ottawa-Carleton and some areas to the east are supposed to be dropping, the population appears to be remaining at the peak of its "cycle" for the fifth year in a row.

Harry McLeod, biologist for the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, who has just analysed the annual census taken by the Ottawa and Cornwall Districts' staff, does not have an explanation for the steady population levels.

The seven-to-nine-year cycle was established in the 1950's and 60's when Ontario government wildlife management staff kept a close count of the birds during the opening days of the hunting seasons. In those years, in areas where 1,000 birds had been counted in a peak year, the count would drop to around 25 two years later.

More recently, the statistics have been able to be gathered by interviewing farmers on whose property the birds are known to nest.

That the Hungarian Partridge population is remaining large will be good news to hunters when the season opens from September 23 to November 11 in Eastern Ontario.

Although the birds are found in smaller numbers in other parts of Southern Ontario, the largest population in the province is in the farmlands between Ottawa and the St. Lawrence River where there is a good mixture of dairy pasture, open fields, corn and fields of grain.

Not a nuisance, the Hungarian Partridge is often fed by farmers in the winter months because it is a favorite game bird.

The birds were first introduced to North America 200 years ago, but population did not stabilize in Eastern Ontario until the 1930's.

Good eating, the birds make a good meal for one person. Since the birds are found primarily on private property, hunters should have the owner's permission before going onto his property with dogs and guns.

Traffic injuries decline

Ontario's motor-vehicle accident statistics for the first half of 1978 showed an encouraging 18 per cent drop in driver-passenger fatalities over the same period last year—339 against 415.

Compared with the initial six months of 1975—the last year prior to seat belt legislation the new figures represent a drop of 34 per cent.

"And that's despite a sizeable increase in the number of cars and trucks on our roads," said Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow.

Snow said the total number of fatalities—motorists, cyclists, pedestrians, etc.—also dropped to the lowest figure in 16 years.

"In all, 538 people died through the first six months of 1978 compared to 590 between January 1 and June 30 of '77," said Snow.

"Tragically, pedestrian deaths rose from 104 to 126 during the same period."

Snow added: "I strongly urge both motorists and pedestrians to be careful and attentive in an effort to prevent this sheer waste of lives."

Motorcycle driver injuries fell over 16.1 per cent from last year's 1,608 to 1,349, while the number of motorcycle passenger injuries also declined drastically 24.2 per cent—355 to 269.

Motorcycle fatalities remained constant; 38 drivers and passengers were killed during the first six months of both years.

Traffic related injuries dropped four per cent—41,588 compared to 43,325.

"While these figures are, in the main, very encouraging, I hope everyone who drives on Ontario highways and streets will continue to buckle up and practice the three C's—care, caution and courtesy."

GLEN SANDFIELD

Mrs. Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Several ladies of the Glen Sandfield United Church Women's Group attended the Fall Rally of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial, area one, at Cassburn United Church on September 13. There was a really good turnout. The church was just lovely in its rural setting, sitting so serenely in the bright Fall sunshine.

The area ladies welcomed us warmly and we were invited to sign in, and take different colored tags, in order to have friends known to us, in the later discussion groups.

Much fine literature was on display, and a lot of free reading for us to take back to the home groups. The theme this year was "Have Faith."

Hymn 194, "Author of Faith," and hymn 205 "Thank you Lord, for the Time that is Now," were sung. Both were new to me, personally, but the words are so beautiful we felt we would use them as choral selections in the future.

Mrs. Phyllis Noble welcomed the group, in her official capacity as regional vice-president and Mrs. Lillian Allison, our Seaway Valley president, also had greetings for us.

Mrs. Ken Alexander gave a fine report of her time at the "Summer Event." Mrs. Evelyn Quat was the guest speaker, and was a delight. Her informal delivery was easy to listen to, and she salted it liberally with humor. "Faith is like a shock absorber," she said, "God didn't promise to smooth out life's road, but He will put springs on the wagon."

Many church groups have tried cutting out a devotional portion of their meetings and, "when devotions go, so does the church organization." Our speaker told us of the doctor at the train crash who couldn't help those suffering victims because he had no instruments. When told to 'Do something,' makes us think of ourselves, of when we pray, "Do something Lord." God looks into the empty churches and says "But I have no instruments." We are his instruments, and we aren't there when He needs us. Mrs. Quat pointed out the fact that faith is an awareness of God within us. Faith will back you up sometimes, so you can go ahead, faith comes from God; we have faith in him, and He will reach out to others, through us, his instruments . . . There was much more, but space will not permit me to write it all. However the time passed very quickly, and we all felt refreshed by her inspiring address. We then divided company into four discussion groups with different topics, but all concerning faith in one way or another. Mrs. Margo MacRae, Glen Sandfield, Mrs. Ethel MacKay of Dalhousie Mills, Mrs. Lorna Chapman, Glen Sandfield, and Mrs. Mary Stafford of St. David's Church, St. Eugene, gave reports of their enlightening and pertinent ideas afterwards.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Ethel MacKay kindly extended an invitation to the UCW groups to attend next year's rally, in the "Round Church" in Dalhousie Mills.

Refreshments were served downstairs in the hall and were much enjoyed by everyone.

Several people from this area attended the banquet and concert held in the Vankleek Hill Baptist Church on Friday evening. A group of young people called "the Internationals" who are touring Eastern Canada put on a program of music, song and Christian testimony which was enjoyed by all.

James Jamieson, Wm. Brodie, Miss Elsie MacMillan and Mrs. Hazel Jamieson spent an enjoyable evening at Mrs. Ethel Greers on Thursday night. Miss MacMillan is collecting data for her forthcoming book which will be a history of pioneer families on the Brodie road.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jamieson spent an enjoyable day at Upper Canada Village on Tuesday of last week.

ATTENDED WORKSHOP

Mrs. Ruth Page, Mrs. Lillian MacPherson, Mrs. Phyllis Noble and Mrs. Hazel Jamieson from this area were among the several ladies who attended the UCW workshop held in the United Church in Roebuck on Tuesday, Sept. 12.

The speaker for the workshop was Marjorie Levan from Alcohol and Drug Concerns. Some of the startling facts she presented are "that Canadians are drinking in excess of people in the U.S., Sweden, Great Britain and the USSR; that Canada is losing one million dollars a day in industry due to time and work loss through excessive drinking; that Ontario alone spends 134 million dollars a year for treatment of alcohol related illnesses in addition of two and a half million dollars in alcohol-related welfare costs.

She also said about 60 per cent of 11 to 14-year-olds are consuming alcohol and most started drinking in their homes.

She said "No family is exempt from alcoholism if alcohol is consumed. She urged parents to press for a junior education program called P.L.U.S. (short for Positive Life Using Skills) in the schools. This program is approved by the government.

Char-Lan Crusades

Char-Lan High School is starting the school term with about 60 students less than the registration last Fall.

Five new teachers are on staff. These are: Mrs. Carol Greene who will teach Home Economics; Collin Geoffrion, co-ordinator of Francais; Dirk DeMos in Auto Mechanics; Judy Meyers who has English and Developmental Reading and Peter Physk who has English and Technical Subjects.

Soccer is replacing football as a competitive sport this season and will be coached by History Instructor Robert MacLachlan. The school felt that the cost of outfitting players, ($250 each) was prohibitive and that the objective of a sport which should be physical fitness could better be achieved by a sport that emphasized running rather than strength.

The commencement exercises will be held on Thanksgiving weekend October 7. Dorothy Gordon will be valedictorian and a guest speaker has yet to be determined.

The first school committee meeting will be held on Monday, September 25. Gary O'Connell is chairman of the committee.
