Decision on Consoltex plant's future expected soon

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

Four years ago, Consoltex's Alexandria plant dodged a bullet when the textile corporation considered shutting it down. This time around there may not be a happy ending.

In an effort to stay competitive, the company has been paring staff from its operations on a regular basis. It has reduced its workforce by close to a third, from 1,100 to 750, in this four year period.

Having closed a plant in Sherbrooke in 2002, the company recently announced plans to cut another one of its four existing plants this week.

With lots of pressure coming from within the garment industry, Consoltex's Director of Government Relations, Lucy Brassard, told The News last week that the company needs wage concessions to stay competitive.

"We are closing one plant regardless of what decision is made (by the union), but we also need the support of all the remaining workers," Ms. Brassard said. "We need more than just a plant closing to reorganize, to restructure the company in order to survive."

The company is presently undergoing labour negotiations with the unions of its four plants.

But as the company decision approaches, Alexandria plant manager Claude Robillard wonders whether the union executive made a dangerous decision. Instead of going over information from the company with its members, the executive chose to cancel last week's scheduled meeting.

"When a plant wants to survive, they have to give a positive message," Mr. Robillard said. "Right now we don't know how we stand with the proposal that was put on the table, because there was no feedback as such.

"It doesn't give us much (to bargain with) to say this is the best place to stay open."

Still the plant manager said that there are many factors to be considered before Consoltex makes its closure decision, adding, "we are still working on our side, trying to find positive aspects."

Union reps in Alexandria have refused to discuss the situation when contacted by The News.

The restructuring is coming about due to declining orders, which have left the company over capacity.

Consoltex has three plants in Quebec to go along with the one plant in Alexandria.

The two plants in Cowansville (an hour east of Montreal) are for dyeing and finishing, and weaving. The plant in Montmagny

Council stands firm in SG

South Glengarry council turned down an application that would have allowed a Summerstown manufacturer to sidestep an environmental impact study.

Council made this decision at its Oct. 6 meeting. By doing so, it was agreeing with the advice of its Planning Advisory Committee (PAC.)

An application had been made by Shaver-Kudell to separate a parcel of land that would be used for light manufacturing purposes.

Council's consent was needed to enable the applicant to continue development on its industrial park and to keep the design flows for sanitary sewage within the Ontario Building Code regulations, according to a staff report on the subject.

"By separating the lot and creating the second lot, they can ensure that the design flows for the existing building and proposed new building would be less than 10,000 litres per day," says the report by Development Officer Dwane Crawford.

The township's PAC chose not to support the application after review.

"By permitting the creation of the lot, the developer would circumvent the requirement of an Environmental Impact Study required by the Ministry of the Environment for sewage disposal systems over 10,000 litres per day," said Mr. Crawford

If the parcel of land were separated and owned by two different parties, the study would not be required.

PAC member Gary Robertson, who was present at the council meeting, said that the applicants had applied for the severance to get around the the environmental study requirements.

"They were quite up front about it," said Mr. Robertson. "If you approve this application, it sends a very poor message to the public at large."

Mayor Dave MacDonald asked if council's refusal to approve the consent would prevent the owner from expanding.

"It won't stop it," said Mr. Crawford, "It will just be more expensive for him to expand."

Weather in September

The mean temperature was above average by 3.1 degrees celsius. (6 degrees F). Daytime temperatures reached 20 degrees celsius (68 degrees F) or higher on twenty-four days with a high of 31.5 degrees celsius (89 degrees F) on September 14 and fell to a cool 2 degrees celsius (36 degrees F) on September 10.

September 2002 precipitation and average mean temperatures were close to this past month with one exception when a daytime high of 36.5 degrees celsius (78 degrees F) occurred in September, 2002, the highest ever recorded for any month since this station started in 1968.

House levelled for school expansion

By Steven Warburton

One of Alexandria's older buildings was levelled last Friday to make way for an expansion of École terre des jeunes at 38 Lochiel.

The house, which was located at 195 Main, was directly west of the French public school. It was knocked down, on behalf of the school board, by Kingston based Cruickshank Construction.

Although the school's principal, Paul Hurtubise, says that the school's expansion is necessary to accommodate an exploding student population, other groups claim that this should not come at the expense of the community's historical buildings.

"I think it's a scandal," says Dane Lanken, a past president of the Glengarry Historical Society and a current member of the North Glengarry Local Architectural Conservancy Advisory Committee (LACAC.) "North Glengarry council did not advise LACAC that this (house destruction) was taking place.

"If council told us, I'm sure our recommendation would have been not to tear it down," he says.

For his part, Ron MacDonell, Lochiel Ward councillor for North Glengarry, agrees that it's unfortunate that LACAC wasn't notified.

Councillor Gary Shepherd, who sits on the municipality's zoning committee, says there was a push to get the house down fairly quickly once the school board had made its application to demolish.

Soy farmers enjoy bountiful harvest this year

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

Glengarry's soybean farmers should have an excellent yield this year but other crop farmers may not fare so well, says a crop specialist with Ontario's Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Wet spring conditions not only closed down the window of opportunity for farmers' planting, it also produced crops with weak roots, says specialist Gilles Quesnel.

These conditions have left many area farmers with a disappointing cereal crop, and a need to remain vigilant with their corn harvest, says Mr. Quesnel.

"After a period of rain, this stretch here is perfect," he said in an interview on Friday. "The combines are running and the quality of the soybeans is great."

But he added Glengarry was one of the toughest counties to work in this year. "Crops are generally decent, but growers had a tough time."

Excessive rain in the early part of May played havoc with farmers' schedules. Rushed for time, many crops went in damp fields under less than favourable conditions.

"The root system never developed as well as it usually would in a normal year," Mr. Quesnel said. "This left the crop more susceptible to (difficulties) later in the season. The most disappointing crops were the spring cereals."

The number of acres planted in cereals is down in Glengarry, due to the inclement weather. If growers didn't get their wheat, oats, or barley in by May 10 or 15, they moved on to another crop.

Cereal growers were faced with two challenges. The late planting date lowered yields, and then this year's humid conditions, when the wheat came to head in late July and early August, produced higher levels of the mould toxin fusarium. This hurt many farmers' payouts because higher mould levels dipped their grain below milling quality.

"Planted late was one knock. And then the wet period in July really deteriorated (wheat) samples," Mr. Quesnel said. "Lots of oats came in looking weathered and with light bushel weight. The cereal yields were barely average, with variable quality."

While the cereals were a low spot, most growers are pleasantly surprised by how the corn crop matured. Growers are encouraged, the crop specialist said, because it didn't look good when the crop went in.

"Corn looks good, but most growers don't expect a bumper crop... a lot of the fields had a bit of a wave. That means low spots were lagging behind a little, and that always affects yield."

High temperatures and long hours of sunshine in August and September brought lagging crops forward by about 10 days. It may have shaved a few bushels off of

Phenix notices Moulure Alexandria

By Steven Warburton

Word of the success of Moulure Alexandria Moulding is spreading beyond local boundaries.

Glengarry's largest private employer was one of three finalists recently in the large business category for this year's Prix Phenix Award.

The awards, sponsored by the Chambre économique de L'Ontario, celebrate the exceptional achievements of business people in French Ontario.

The Moulding was nominated for the award in the Eastern Region.

Unfortunately, it lost out to a Cochrane firm.

John MacDonald, company secretary/treasurer says he does not know what criteria the finalists were judged on. Nevertheless, he says that his staff should be proud of the nomination.

"We all know that Alexandria Moulding and its employees are winners," he said.

"We are number one. We are the best. We just didn't get the award – this time."

The plant is located at 95 Lochiel.

the yield too.

"Again, we had a corn crop that had a weak root system," Mr. Quesnel said. "In August and September when we had those ideal grain filling conditions, at one point the plant had to start using some of its own energy. It had to cannibalize itself to finish filling the ears.

"Which is of no concern, the yield and quality are good, but the stalk is left weaker, and that will be especially apparent if there were any other diseases or insects that bore through the stalks."

Local farmers need to be vigilant, the crop specialist noted, when it comes to harvesting their corn. Weakened stalks have already had to deal with high winds produced by Hurricanes Isabelle and Juan. He suggested an earlier harvest for farmers who see signs of weakened stalks in their fields. While growers like to leave corn out in the fields as long as possible to save on drying costs, this may not be the year to do this.

"What they save on drying can be offset by field losses," Mr. Quesnel said. "If the stalks are showing signs of weakness, they should be harvesting between 25 and 28 per cent moisture (as opposed to 22 per cent, which is eventually brought down to 14 per cent so it keeps as dry grain). It will vary from hybrid to hybrid, but they should go into the fields and examine their conditions."

The forages turned out reasonably well, according to Mr. Quesnel. Farmers had difficulty early in the season with the first cut, but subsequent cuts were better. Growers were able to make a sufficient quantity of good quality hay, with perhaps some extra to sell.

What has farmers smiling is their soybean crop.

"We have excellent yields being reported across Eastern Ontario, Mr. Quesnel said. Lots of growers are talking about 40-55 bushels per acre (40 bushels equals about one tonne, 55 bushels equal about 1.4 tonnes).

"That is good, because the crop was planted in less than ideal conditions. The root system was not that great, never developed properly, and yet we had the rains at by and large the right times."

Terry Hart, North Glengarry's planning director, says that earlier last summer, the Conseil des écoles publiques de l'Est de l'Ontario had successfully petitioned for the land at 195 Main to be redesignated from commercial to institutional.

Gerry Murphy, North Glengarry's Chief Building Official, says he issued the demolition permit on Oct. 6.

Mr. Murphy added that the house at 195 Main was not a designated historical building.

"It's a big deal if you want to demolish a historical building," he said.

"You pretty much have to get permission from the province to do that."

Consoltex

(outside of Quebec City, 2.5 hours from Montreal) is a weaving plant. The plant in Alexandria is for dyeing and finishing. All are of similar size.

Most of the production done in Montmagny goes to Alexandria for dyeing and finishing, whereas the two plants in Cowansville work in tandem.

The union situation is a little different in Montmagny compared to the three other plants, says company president Marcel Thibault.

Consoltex negotiated a five year deal with the plant east of Quebec City, three years ago. "After three years, we were to talk about remuneration," Mr. Thibault said. "That three years is up."

While the Alexandria and Cowansville plants are represented by the same unions, they are different units with different collective agreements.

Mr. Thibault said that a rising Canadian dollar is just one of the factors that is hurting Consoltex

"The slowdown in the economy, and the economic situation in the U.S. over the last 12-18 months has hurt us," Mr. Thibault said. "The Caribbean Based Initiative has also hurt us in no uncertain terms."

He said that the US government put the initiative in place in 2000 to help and protect its textile and apparel industry. Under the move, the U.S. companies were granted the privilege of sending cotton yarns and fabrics to the Caribbean for cutting and sewing. The fabrics then are returned to the US duty-free.

No program of similar benefit is in place for Canadian companies.

Additional Angus Gray charges laid

Police Briefs

As a result of an ongoing investigation into the fire at the Angus Gray Hall on the Maxville Fairgrounds, the OPP received additional information involving a separate break-in at the hall on September 9.

A quantity of alcohol was removed from the building.

The 16 year-old Maxville youth charged in the fire incident, as well as another 16 year-old male from Maxville, each face a charge of Break, Enter and Theft.

A portion of the stolen property has been recovered. Detective Constables M. MacDonald and S. Hardy continue the investigation.

Stolen ATV

Thieves took an all-terrain vehicle valued at $9,000 from Murray Motor Sports in Alexandria, on Saturday night.

OPP officers responded to an alarm at the business, and at the scene noticed a break-in had occured via a forced door.

Removed from the premises was a blue 2004 Polaris Sportsman 400, with red front and rear bumpers. The vehicle also had a 5' snowplow and a Warren 2500lbs winch.

Constable J. Brown is investigating.

Drug Charges

When police responded to a disturbance on Harrison Street in Alexandria Oct. 10, they found an 18 year-old man in possession of a quantity of marijuana.

The man faces a charge of Possession of a Controlled Substance.

Constable M. Eamer is investigating.

■ ■ ■

The OPP found a quantity of marijauna.

Constable S. MacWhirter is investigating.

OPP Awards

Local officers are going to be recognized as the OPP brings its awards ceremony to the Bonnie Glen tomorrow night.

Among those receiving service awards are Seargeant Paul Sabourin, who was born and raised in Alexandria, Senior Constable Jim Brown from Maxville, and long-time Alexandria resident Senior Constable Robert Latreille.

Survey supplies 'ammo' for police intervention team

By Pete Bock
News Reporter

SDG respondents to a recent survey gave the OPP plenty of ammunition to proceed with a youth intervention team in the area.

A lack of programs for youth, and drugs in schools topped a list of concerns voiced by tri-county residents in a Policing For Results Survey (PFR) survey completed for the SDG OPP.

In the survey, which sought perceptions of violent crime and youth issues, 60.7 per cent believe a lack of youth activities is a concern, followed closely by 53 per cent who believe that drugs in school are a problem; the highest-rated trouble spot in violent crime is domestic violence with a score of 19.3 per cent.

Conducted between Dec. 2002 and Jan. 2003, the Policing For Results (PFR), is supposed to serve as an evaluation tool for the OPP, according to community service officer Joel Doiron.

A survey like this allows the OPP to do what Const. Dorion describes as pro-active policing, which can "elminate the problem before it starts."

"As part of our business plan," he said, "we've trained different trained personnel units to better serve the residents of SDG.

"For example, the Crime Unit investigates serious crimes like murder, sexual assault, and theft of high value.

"They are trained in specific areas like sexual assault and scenes of crime investigator."

With the complaints the OPP has received about youth concerns, he said there has been serious talk about creating a youth intervention team.

Of three counties in the SDG area, Dundas appears to have the greatest youth concerns. It topped all youth categories in the survey.

Youth gathering in the street was a problem for 25.2 per cent of those surveyed in SDG, with the number reaching 39.5 per cent in Dundas; skateboarding on the sidewalks and streets scored 22.9 across SDG with a figure of 32 per cent in Dundas.

As mentioned above, 53 per cent believe that drugs in school are a problem (60.8 per cent in Dundas); 18.3 per cent rate youth gangs as a problem (27 per cent in Dundas); 39.1 per cent see violence in schools as problem for the SDG; while, as also mentioned above, 60.7 per cent believe that a lack of youth activities is a problem (Dundas, 71.4 per cent).

The survey, done by volunteers who live in the community, obtained data from 383 people; 143 from Glengarry, 128 from Dundas, and 112 from Stormont.

In the area of violent crime, as mentioned above, 19.3 per cent of SDG respondents believe domestic violence is a problem. Across the three counties, 12.9 per cent believe that child abuse is a problem in the community. People in Glengarry and Dundas (16.7 per cent) reporting this as a bigger problem than those from Stormont. Sexual assault at 11.1 per cent, and elder abuse at 8.6 per cent are also concerns.

The OPP first introduced the survey in 1999, according to OPP officer Joel Doiron. He said the force solicits feedback from the community, because, "we want to provide them with the best service possible."

People in the three counties appear to be happy with the police service they receive. Survey respondents said they were satisfied with the local OPP's enforcement of laws and investigation of crime, and ranked its service as good.

WOOD WORKER: Alex Robertson has known trouble in his life but the near Martintown resident isn't letting that stop him. He's still enjoying life and the sawmill that he runs on his property.

SUE HARRINGTON PHOTO

Never-give-up attitude keeps Martintown man going strong

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

Alex Robertson has faced a few challenges in his day, but he doesn't quit no matter what. He has battled health problems and business problems that would have felled a lesser man, but he is still ready to face what life throws his way.

"I never give up," he says, looking over his sawmill property located near Martintown. The property is currently without a building, as a result of a fire that ripped through the sawmill in March of this year.

Most people, faced with such circumstances, would call it quits. But Mr. Robertson plans to construct another building before winter and is looking at auctions for some replacement equipment.

"There's an auction sale coming up in New Brunswick," he says. "Sawmills are going out of business – some of them big ones – because of the U.S."

The American tariffs on Canadian softwood lumber have caused problems for the Canadian lumber industry, but Mr. Robertson says small operations such as his are not really affected.

"I sell locally; I do specialty orders for different customers."

Some of his work involves supplying the lumber for post and beam construction companies, which have seen a surge in business recently.

"I like it," he says of the post and beam work, pointing to a couple of huge beams waiting to be picked up by a customer.

He supplies lumber to New World Timberframes, and his wood went into the showcase Meeting Place structure at the Williamstown Fairgrounds.

These days Mr. Robertson also supplies lumber for Alexandria Moulding and customers in other population centres, mostly Montreal and Ottawa. Some of his business comes from supplying cedar for decks.

The Robertson Sawmill was started by Mr. Robertson's father, the late Archie Robertson, on the family farm. The farm has been in the family since 1800.

They used to milk cows, and Alex still does some cash-cropping, but with farmer's lung and allergies to dust and mould, his health, compounded by a heart attack some years ago, has caused some limitations.

Mr. Robertson says that the lumber business is changing rapidly these days. He reminisces back to the time a few years ago when the pipeline went through and he was able to sell skids and mats.

Although he gets some of his lumber out of his own woodlots, he also buys logs.

"When you're buying it, you have to take the good and the bad," he says.

Mr. Robertson tells the tale of an adventure he had in Thunder Bay a few years ago. A relative had received some land from the government as a result of having fought in the Boer War. So he went up to the land to do some cutting in the northern woodlot.

"That was a challenge," he says.

The logs were brought by rail home to Martintown to be cut in the sawmill.It took four railcars to carry them.

Government regulations have meant changes in the industry as well, but Mr. Robertson says that's not all bad.

"The regulations protect me too, especially the operation of chainsaws."

He says he prefers to hire older workers, rather than young people who are more careless. When operating, he usually has half a dozen older men working for him.

"You don't worry so much about them getting hurt," he says. But he admits there is a scarcity now of trained workers. "It's a different world – everything is changing so fast."

One thing that doesn't seem to change is his attitude.

"It gets harder to operate all the time. But I don't seem to give up," he says, looking out over his property. "I've been doing this all my life, and I will probably just keep on going."

Glengarry's 'Mr. Highway' recognized for life's work

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

Donaldson MacLeod has dedicated most of his professional life to building roadways. Whether it's a highway system in northern Saskatchewan or an access road to a hydro dam, Mr. MacLeod makes it easier for Canadians to get from Point A to Point B.

The McCrimmon's Corners resident is so good at his job that he was honoured by the Transportation Association of Canada at the organization's annual general meeting in St. John's, NFLD, on Sept. 22. The award, which recognizes contributions to the betterment of transportation in Canada, is presented to five people every year.

"To qualify, all you have to do is work your butt off," says Dr. MacLeod, who holds a Ph. D. in Transportation Engineering from Berkeley University.

While it's obvious that Dr. MacLeod means for his comments to be taken lightly, it's also clear that he has put a lot of hard work into his career over the years. He worked as a geotechnical engineer on Saskatchewan highways for five years but perhaps his best-known accomplishment is serving as project manager for the James Bay Access Road in the early and mid '70s.

"We built that road in Matagami, PQ," he says. "The road leads to LG2, the main hydro-Quebec dam on the Grande River."

Dr. MacLeod's road made it possible for workers to get to and from the dam's construction site.

"The road was in heavy use when workers were building the dam," he says. "That ended in about 1982. Now the road is mostly used by aboriginal people."

Still, he says working on that road was one of the biggest challenges of his life.

"We built, on average, one mile of road per day," he says. "We built 450 miles of road over 450 days."

Some of those days were in the winter when temperatures plummeted to minus 36 degrees Celsius. But Dr. MacLeod says his biggest challenge on that job wasn't the cold, it was the muskegs.

"Muskegs are patches of extremely soft ground," he says. "We had to keep filling over those patches and build them up so we could build a road on them that would take more weight."

Today, Dr. MacLeod works for Public Works and Government Services Canada, where he is the manager of highways and bridges for the federal government. These days he's spending a lot of his time in BC and the Yukon, where he's supervising work on the Alaska Highway.

At 59 years of age, Dr. MacLeod says he's not ready to retire yet.

"Engineers get to do some very interesting things and travel all over the place," he says. "But very few of us get rich."

Outside of his work interests, Dr. MacLeod is an active member of Clan MacLeod. As director of the Scottish violin for the Glengarry Highland Games, he also purports to be one of the best known fiddlers in Glengarry.

"I may not be the best," he says. "But I'm certainly one of the best-known."

ON THE ROAD: Donaldson MacLeod, of McCrimmon's Corners, was recently honoured by the Transportation Association of Canada for his work building and improving the nation's highway infrastructure.

Straight Talk

Halloween is a time for ghosts and goblins and things that go bump in the night. Tell me, what is your biggest fear?

Gerdie Huizinga, Martintown
My biggest fear is snakes and worms. I can't stand anything creepy or crawly. I don't even like movies with snakes in them. I had a garter snake in my garden once and I was petrified of it.

Cassie Depratto, Glen Nevis
I'm scared of mid-term and final exams. I'm studying human kinetics at the University of Ottawa and I have an exam just about every week. It's never-ending torment.

Nick Gang, Green Valley
My biggest fear is not having enough money for the rest of my life.

Flora Poulton, Martintown
My biggest fear is ill health. It's just that you can be healthy one day and the next day you find out that you're seriously ill.

Jonathan Delorme, Alexandria
My biggest fear is that the world will end soon. With all the wars and stuff that's going on, it makes me wonder what's going to happen next.

Elaine Lalonde, Lancaster
I fear the destruction that young people do. I don't like it when they destroy people's lawns and their decorations. The disrespect that they show for private property really bothers me.

A special birthday, journalist worthy of homage

PEN IN HAND

STEVEN WARBURTON

Did Glengarry's French schools ever have a party last month!

If you happened to be at Alexandria's Island Park on Sept. 26, you would have surely seen the crowd of close to 1,000 kids singing, dancing, cheering, and just having the grandest celebration of their lives.

The celebrant? The Franco-Ontarien flag, which, if it had lungs, would have blown out 29 candles on its birthday cake.

I had the chance to talk to a few of those kids. All of them told me that they were proud to be francophones.

The kicker: They told me in English. My French skills are still not up to snuff.

But hey, this is a bilingual country and it's good to see so many of our local kids fluent in both languages.

So I say Vive le francais. As well, all stop signs should say stop and arrêt, including the ones in Alberta and Quebec, n'est ce pas.

■ ■ ■

This is hardly an original thing to say but, given the circumstances, it's certainly appropriate. The loss of the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville was a devastating blow to all of Glengarry. But if there is a silver lining to this very black cloud, it is that our volunteer firefighters rose to the occasion and extinguished the fire before it could spread to the grandstands.

It's not at all surprising to hear that year after year, firefighters are listed as the most trusted profession. Did you know that people are far more likely to trust a firefighter than a politician, a lawyer, a minister of religion or even –gasp – a journalist?

I fell into conversation with a volunteer firefighter at Shenannigan's in Martintown last week. I asked him why he was a firefighter.

His response: "Someday my house could be on fire."

It's good to see that people still practice the Golden Rule.

■ ■ ■

I was honoured by the Canadian Community Newspaper Association recently when the CCNA asked if it could use one of my shots as its photo of the month.

The picture in question appeared on the front page of the Sept. 17 edition of The News. It depicts young Morgan McQueen of Maxville emptying a sponge into a bucket as part of Maxville's Wacky Olympics.

I was surprised by the request. As a journalist, I've always felt comfortable with my abilities to write prose, but when it comes to photography, I'm hardly a seasoned pro.

Young Morgan graces the CCNA's website even as I write this.

■ ■ ■

Here's a joke for you: How many Glengarrians does it take to change a light bulb?

Answer: Two. One to change the bulb and one to pipe in the changer of the bulb.

■ ■ ■

Recently, I learned that Lorne Cooper, the man who gave me my start in the newspaper business, passed away this summer.

Lorne hired me as sports editor of the North Battleford News-Optimist in April of 1999. Aside from a letter to the editor published in the Redvers Optimist and a few sports articles published in the now-defunct Regina Free Press, I had zero journalism experience. He hired me because I showed promise as a writer and I was the only one dumb enough to apply for the job.

Lorne sure wasn't going to cut me any slack, though. He loved sports and had been inducted, as a builder, in the North Battleford Sports Hall of Fame.

He constantly criticized my sports photographs. Once, he told me: "If you take a picture at a hockey game, I'd better be able to see the puck. No puckless pictures in this paper."

It's somewhat clichéd to say that career newspapermen "bleed ink instead of blood." But that cliché definitely applied to Lorne Cooper – crusty, gruff, no-nonsense, ethical, and a diehard defender of freedom of the press.

Lorne, thanks for letting me into this magical world of newspapers. I'm honoured to be a part of this tradition and I am grateful for the brief amount of time I spent working for you. If Heaven has a newspaper, I know that you're editing it right now.

Peace.

Thorns & Thistles

THORN – Consoltex plant in danger.

It may seem somewhat prescient for T&T to have been worrying last week about how every dollar counts in the textile industry, only to learn, just as we're going to press, that Consoltex will be closing one of its four Canadian plants.

Whether the Alexandria plant will survive this latest round of downsizing is not known at this writing.

We do know that it faced the same prospect a few years ago and, fortunately, a review of its operations showed that the Alexandria plant performance level was higher than had been anticipated.

Still, in this case, the plant and staff's capabilities may not be sufficient to save the operation.

It could come down simply to being the best short-term cost-saving option for a company desperately seeking to survive.

It should be noted that, at one time, eastern Ontario, Quebec and the New England States were substantial players in the textile industry but those days are long gone, due largely to low-wage offshore plants.

But the last nail in the coffin for this area may be the recent strong performance of the Canadian loonie, whose value has jumped by about 10 cents in barely a couple of months.

Although a stronger loonie is good news for snowbirds who travel south in the winter, it's bad news for those of us remaining behind whose jobs depend upon being able to export products to the U.S., at a competitive price.

Every one cent hike in the Canadian dollar can cost us millions in lost sales to the U.S. Hopefully it won't also cost us hundreds of jobs here in Glengarry.

THORN – Treasured past lost in fire.

As anyone who has had the misfortune of suffering a fire well knows, often it's the loss of the little irreplaceable items that hurts the most.

Certainly, that's the case with the Angus Gray Hall fire. The Glengarry Highland Games, the Kenyon Agricultural Society and the Agricultural Wall of Fame all lost priceless memorabilia which, in too many cases, may never be replaced.

Although the current hall had only been in place since 1960, the history surrounding it and the treasures for which it provided a home gave the structure distinction well beyond its years.

THISTLE – Deal signals end for contractors.

Glengarry won't be losing the 35-odd rural route contractors who often bring that personal touch to mail delivery for their country clientele.

Nonetheless, mail delivery won't be quite the same again once they become employees.

On the plus side, though, rural delivery people will now be able to concentrate on just making sure the mail gets through come rain, sleet or snow without having to concern themselves with filling out tax forms or worrying about whether they can afford paid vacation or sick days.

THISTLE – Project wins rave reviews.

The increased emphasis in Ontario schools in recent years on core subjects like reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic has been a welcome development on the whole. Still, it's good to see that there's also an increased emphasis in the new curriculum on students learning more about civic responsibilities such as voting.

Some of Glengarry's young people got a taste of it during the recent election campaign culminating on Oct. 2 with mock elections.

Like much of adult Ontario, the young people were in the mood for change and that was reflected in the results.

More importantly, however, is the long-term goal of ensuring that future generations are more atuned to the process and turn out to vote in higher numbers.

Two petitions

There are two petitions circulating in our community. Both petitions will be presented to the provincial parliament in the next session.

Both petitions include North and South Glengarry.

The first petition asks the parliament to restrict the use of assessments to a very percentage as many Glengarrians have had tremendous changes in property assessments, which are a factor in raising taxes.

The second petition asks the parliament to reduce and stabilize the car and home insurances.

Only homeowners can sign the first petition but anyone over eighteen can sign the insurance petition. It is the aim of the petitions to make the provincial government realize the distress that many people in Glengarry are suffering due to increased tax and insurance costs.

As there is a municipal election shortly, we also hope that the municipal candidates will reduce the mill rates (second factor in tax calculation.)

We shall present our MPP with copies of the assessment petition. Some Glengarry residents have had increases in taxes from 20% to 100%.

This is far too much in a one year period for any family to absorb. Unfortunately future increases will occur if we don't make our concerns known now.

If you would like to sign one or both petitions and cannot locate any, please call me at 528-4717. I'll help you.

Living dangerously

The risks of hormone replacement therapy have been made public. Recently, the adverse effects of cholesterol-lowering drugs were discussed in the media. How long will it be before we learn about the dangers of formaldehyde, mercury and polyethylene glycol in the flu shot?

For the time being, we need to ask those who insist that we get an annual flu shot just what the accumulation of these toxins will mean. The childhood vaccines, which do not provide life-long immunity, also have toxic ingredients we should investigate.

Judging by the findings regarding the risks of hormone replacement therapy and cholesterol-lowering drugs (National Post, Sept. 16, 2003), it becomes more and more important that we educate ourselves before accepting the drugs and shots peddled by the phamaceutical industry --- and sadly, by the health-care professionals.

Take the time to learn about the shots, flu or childhood, and alternatives to them.

Two-tier healthcare arguments a moot point

The recent provincial election has brought two-tier healthcare to the forefront of issues addressed by the government of Ontario.

The basic issue is whether wealth should buy you superior health care.

As Ontarians, we are accustomed to the notion that this is not so, hence the vociferous debate it sparks whenever it is brought up.

I would argue that it is a moot point, however, since two-tier healthcare already exists in the province.

I took my two children to the doctor a couple of days ago and he recommended amongst other things that they should be vaccinated for chicken pox and meningitis, saying that both of these diseases had negative effects on young children should they contract them.

Naturally, as a caring parent, I agreed with the notion that they should be vaccinated for these diseases if their physician thought it a good idea.

What I did not agree with was the fact that these vaccinations, so important to the health of the children, were not covered by OHIP. In fact, they cost very nearly $300.

Now, I work for a great company in a position of some responsibility, and make a reasonable wage as a result of this.

As a parent, I would give everything I have to ensure the health and safety of my children, so, despite my personal misgivings, I wrote the doctor a cheque for the amount required and carried on.

This is great for me and my children, but it means that we live in a province, which despite all of our high-minded talk has a two-tier healthcare system.

The question is, what if the $300 is simply not available, do those children then have to suffer because their parents cannot afford the required treatment?

The notion goes against everything that we believe universal medicare stands for.

The vaccinations in question are either a good idea, in which case they should be covered by OHIP or they are not, in which case the provincial government (via the local health unit) should not advise physicians and parents to administer the vaccine.

If they are as important as I am led to believe, then every child in the province should have access to these vaccines regardless of the family's level of income.

Failing all of that, we should admit that we have a two-tier healthcare system and allow for profit corporations into the marketplace.

We cannot have it both ways and we need to decide which way we are going to go with this.

Andrew Nielsen / North Lancaster

Photo placement

The irony of your perceptive placement of the news photo from the recent presentation of a petition to Eastern Ontario's Medical Officer (The Glengarry News, Oct.1, 2003) did not pass unnoticed.

How appropriate that you fitted it in at the end of the paper, neatly sandwiched between announcements of farm equipment sales and obituaries.

This perfectly parallels the prognostications for rural North Glengarry's destiny, now that the precedent for intensive hog farming has been established.

Pamela Leonard / Alexandria

Another heritage loss

Once again, Alexandria and Glengarry have suffered the loss of a handsome and valuable heritage building. This time it's the red-brick Second Empire-style house that stood on the corner of Main St. and Lochiel, demolished in record time on the eve of Thanksgiving long weekend to make way for the expansion of the adjacent Terre des jeunes school.

It was a beautiful house. It was probably built in the 1870s or 1880s, a time when Second Empire style (with its characteristic bell-cast Mansard roof) was the height of architectural fashion. It was in good condition and set on its generous-sized corner lot, presented just the sort of face that a small town should present, established, good-looking and well-to do. It was an asset to the community.

The destruction was done with as much secrecy and dispatch as possible.

North Glengarry's mayor and council did not inform their own heritage committee of the application to demolish. And the Conseil des écoles publiques de l'est de l'Ontario, headquartered in far-off Vanier, with (clearly) no interest in what's best for Alexandria and Glengarry, commanded that the house be destroyed and removed within 48 hours.

This is the fifth good house in Alexandria wantonly wrecked in as many years, and this on the heels of the destruction of the Precious Blood Monastery and St. Finnan's slate roof. A community has only so many assets. It's time to stop squandering them.

Election trail heats up in SG

South Glengarry's two mayoral hopefuls launched their re-election campaigns last week. Here's a brief synopsis on the two candidates.

Dave MacDonald

South Glengarry Mayor Dave MacDonald says he is pleased and honoured that supporters have asked him to run for another term.

Mr. MacDonald, who kicked off his re-election campaign at the Lancaster Legion last Thursday afternoon, says he has followed through on his election promises from the previous campaign.

According to a press release issued by Mr. MacDonald, he has:

- Advocated for the creation of an Economic Development Committee – which was established in January 2001.

- Introduced a bylaw prohibiting the spraying of pesticides along municipal rights-of-way adopted April 2001.

Mr. MacDonald also mentioned some of the highlights of his term, such as bringing an ambulance bay to the Village of Lancaster and reviewing the newly installed water and sewer system in South Lancaster, which he says lowered the average cost by $1,450 per resident.

Jim McDonell

Last Sunday, the "Jim McDonell for Mayor Team" announced the opening of Mr. McDonell's campaign office at the corner of Oak and Main Streets, in Lancaster. The office will be open from 10-6 p.m., Monday through Saturday throughout the campaign.

Mr. McDonell said "It became obvious that an office was needed to answer questions from concerned residents in a timely fashion."

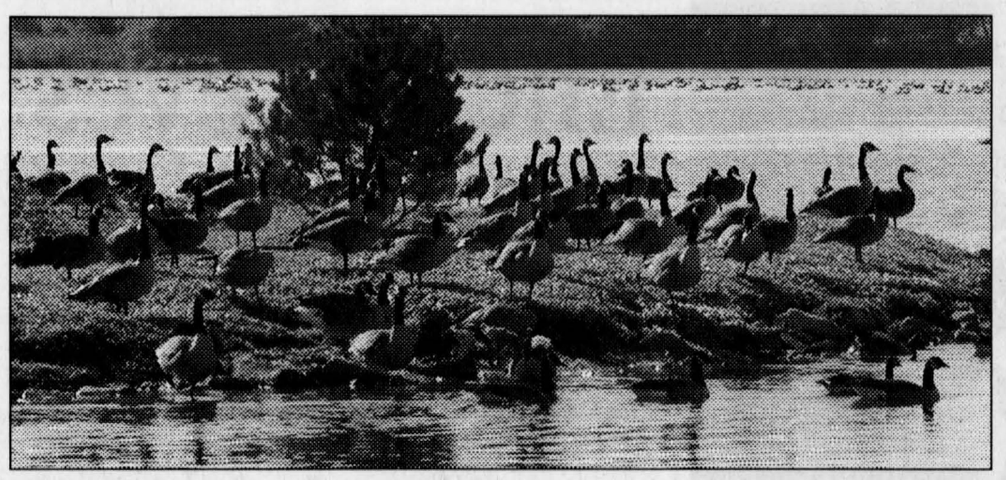
Mr. McDonell says he will draw from the knowledge gained from his nine years on council to ensure South Glengarry residents get full value for every tax dollar.

A lifelong resident of South Glengarry, Mr. McDonell has spent many years as a volunteer for Minor Hockey, Minor Soccer, the Williamstown Fair, Kinsmen Club, St. Lawrence Agricultural Society, St. Mary's Parish Council.

"This campaign has been very gratifying to my family and myself," Mr. McDonell said. "The number of people that have expressed support, and offered to help me in my bid for Mayor has been tremendous."

The "Jim McDonell for Mayor Team" welcomes all the other candidates to leave campaign literature in the office. Jim feels that an informed voter is important to the election process and would like to help inform them in any way possible.

There will be an opportunity to meet Jim McDonell at the new office on Saturday Oct. 18, 11- 1 p.m. Refreshments will be served.



TO THE DOGS: October is a time for Thanksgiving, Halloween, and, in the case of Glengarry, lots and lots of Canadian geese. The geese are known to congregate around Glengarry, especially when they're preparing for migration. Here they mill around Mill Pond in Alexandria.

Clearer mandate sought by South Glengarry's PAC

By Sue Harrington
News Correspondent

South Glengarry's Planning Advisory Committee's request for a review and enhancement of its mandate will have to wait until the new council is elected in November.

As a result of PAC's request, the new council will be asked to review all township committees with a view to quashing any "malaise" which might be brewing.

PAC members had recommended that council take a look at its mandate to see if it could be broadened in any way.

"The thinking was to get started and to bring forth some of the experiences of the committee," said Councillor Ian McLeod who sits as a township representative on PAC.

Mr. McLeod had first brought the matter before council at its Sept. 22 meeting, saying the committee felt it wasn't looking at some of the broader planning issues in the township. Following that meeting, the administration was asked to look into what PAC's mandate might be and to bring the matter back before council.

Bill Madden, a PAC member who was present at the council meeting on Oct. 6, said the idea of a committee review had come up several times.

Mr. Madden explained the frustrations of committee members in using planning documents from the "old townships," because the new Official Plan is not yet finished.

"We're left wondering what we didn't look at; what we didn't see; what are the things you're seeing that we're not seeing," he said.

South Glengarry Mayor Dave MacDonald remarked that the current council just had one meeting left before the election.

"I can't see what the big rush is for this," said the mayor.

Administrator/co-ordinator Marcel Lapierre pointed out that reviewing all the township committees in early 2004 would not only ensure that the new council concurs with their mandates, but would also give the new council "input into the directives given."

The new council could then fashion the committees' mandates, structure and procedural operations as it saw fit, and could also let the resource staff members know what is expected of them.

South Glengarry Township Council Notebook

Sgt. Mike Mulhearn spoke to council about the results of a public survey undertaken by the OPP. The top three concerns from the public have been determined to be community issues such as domestic violence; youth issues, including drug use, bullying and gathering in the streets, and property crime, primarily break and enters.

The telephone survey, which took approximately 20 minutes to complete, interviewed 400 residents of SDG, including 143 from Glengarry.

It was conducted by students in the Police Foundations Course at St. Lawrence College, on behalf of the OPP.

As a result of their findings, the police will try to initiate programs which are tailor-made to address the concerns.

Only one meeting

Because its normally scheduled meeting of council falls on Nov. 10 – the same day as the municipal election – South Glengarry has decided to hold a special meeting on Nov. 17. There will be no meeting on Nov. 24.

The final meeting of council is generally a wrap-up session-to deal with remaining business before the newly elected body takes over in December.

Tyotown intersection

Sgt. Brian Eadie told council that over 25 charges have been laid against motorists who fail to stop at the intersection of Tyotown and Purcell Roads.

"It's just one of those intersections that people just subconsciously don't want to stop at," he said, adding that the OPP are still watching it.

Many of the offenders repeatedly failed to stop, particularly in the east and west directions.

The problem intersection was first brought to the attention of the police in August by Deputy-mayor Frank Prevost.

Glengarry Gatherings

Malcolm Dewar and Dawn Dewar of Kanata/Ottawa, formerly of Dunvegan Ontario and members of the Dunvegan Ceilidh Club will be appearing at the next Fiddle party at the Dunvegan Recreational Hall, on Oct. 17 which will raise funds for the Truro Nova Scotia Salvation Army Hurricane Relief Fund.

The evening begins with a Beef Buffet from 5-7pm at a cost of $10.

■ ■ ■

The 39ers club is meeting today at noon today at the Church on the Hill in Alexandria. It's a potluck lunch so come on up for some good food and some good conversation.

Did you know that one of the biggest fears in society today is the fear of public speaking?

If you're afflicted with that fear, then you may want to join the Toastmasters' Club of Glengarry.

This club will give you more confidence when it comes to speaking in public.

The next meeting is Oct. 22 at Priest's Mill in Alexandria at 6 p.m.

Development phase begins at hospital

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

Hôpital Glengarry Memorial Hospital has obtained the services of Cornwall's Thompson Rosemount Group to begin the next phase of its Emergency and Ambulatory Care Project update.

According to CEO Kurt Pristanski, the engineering firm will produce detailed sight development drawings along with the hospital's architectural firm, Agnew Peckham and Dunlop.

The drawings will outline the necessary electrical, plumbing, and mechanical needs.

The design will then be reviewed internally to ensure that the rendering meets all of the Ministry of Health's infection control standards.

Mr. Pristanski says that one of the primary purposes of the 4,000-square-foot addition is to allow for improved infection control.

"It will have two rooms with negative air pressure," he says. "That means that instead of air moving from those rooms out into the hallway, it will be pushed back outside. It doesn't get recirculated in the building."

He added that the addition will also include special plumbing so that patients can be decontaminated right at the hospital.

After this stage of the hospital project is concluded, Mr. Pristanski says that tendering contracts will be prepared. Ultimately, he hopes for construction to begin in the spring of 2004.

The Myth of Tim's Myth – featuring Tim Smith

By Jennifer Cox
Special to the News

Glengarry native Tim Smith was at the Old Champions' Pub in Alexandria last Saturday evening to do a concert with his band, Tim's Myth.

The 24-year old singer, guitar player, and songwriter, along with the rest of his band, is preparing for the release of their debut CD, Year of the Goat, next January.

Music is hardly a new endeavour to Mr. Smith, a former Dalkeith resident. In high school, he formed his first group, Chemical Wizard, where he and the band packed places like Bob's Saloon with up to 300 people.

"I played my first gig there," he said. "We had a great show and a lot of fun."

After eight years in Dalkeith , he went solo and moved to Montreal, where he joined the popular music scene.

In July 2001, Mr. Smith came out with his first independent album "Flater, Flax, Fodder, Friggs," which sold hundreds of copies. He continues to generate big crowds, both by himself and with his band, at some of Montreal's trendiest venues.

Tim's Myth is comprised of Mr. Smith, Stuart Rutherford on electric guitar, Brent Hamilton playing bass guitar, and Mike Clarke on drums. The ensemble is teaming up with a prestigious group that includes Mark S. Berry, producer for bands like I Mother Earth and the Headstones, as well as engineer Jim Zolis, who has worked with singers like Celine Dion, to create a three-song "radio ready" recording of original tracks.

One track, "Electrico," is currently receiving airtime on 106.9 The Bear FM and XFM 101.1. Tim's Myth performed at "Breakfast @ the New RO" in June, appeared at the Russell fair last month, and will be headlining the Metcalfe Fair Thursday, October 2nd from 9 pm-1 am on the main stage.

"I just love the sound outside," said Mr. Smith. "You get such a different vibe on stage."

Tim's Myth will also play at G'days in Pembroke on Oct. 24. For more information on the band, show dates, or to sign up for their e-newsletter, visit www.tims-myth.com.

Encore eyes Alexandria

By Steven Warburton
News Editor

The Encore program could be on its way to North Glengarry. After almost ten years of offering courses out of St. Lawrence College in Cornwall, the popular seniors' education program will attempt an expansion into Alexandria.

Lee Cassidy, Encore Seniors' Education Centre's new Field Coordinator, says that Glengarrians have always had a lot of interest in the program.

"If we establish a service in Alexandria, we'll be able to accomodate people from Alexandria, Glen Robertson, and Dalkeith," she says. "It will make the program more accessible to more people, (especially) those who have wanted to join our classes but have been hindered by distance or mobility."

By all accounts, the Encore program is doing anything but slowing down. Last year there were over 3,500 volunteer hours donated to the program. Mrs. Cassidy says that the Cornwall program has registered 351 people in a variety of courses including calligraphy, Tai Chi, ancient mythology, screen painting, and creative writing.

Mrs. Cassidy says the program appeals to early retirees, late retirees, even people well into their golden years.

"One of our instructors is 93 years old," she says. "He drives from Cornwall to Windsor so he can teach sketching at Encore."

Those interested in learning more about an Encore program in Alexandria are invited to attend a special meeting at Island Park's Community Building on Oct. 16 at 2 p.m.

ALL FOR THE DANCERS: Mike Depratto, President of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, presents a cheque for $1,000 to Marc Lanthier, President of the SDG Highland Dancing Association. The donation was made in order to keep the highland dancing competitions in Alexandria this year and, hopefully, stimulate the local economy. STEVEN WARBURTON PHOTO

The Green Valley Optimist Club bicycle rodeo on Saturday had a good turnout with Sonia Quesnel winning the bicycle that was the first prize.

Not to forget – the Optimist car wash and barbecue on June 28 at the M & M parking lot beginning around 9 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

They also tell me that they will have a booth on June 28 at the Glen Robertson festivities. It will be called "La Poule aux Oeufs d'Or" and they will also sell popcorn. So come out and try your luck.

The Optimist president Richard Robinson would like to wish all members and their families a great summer. See you all back in the fall.

School's out!

This week all schools will be over, so please take care as a lot of our young people will be out and about.

Boat cruise instructions

For those who leave Sunday for the boat cruise from Montreal to Quebec City with Rejeanne, she asks that everyone be there early as the bus leaves the Fraternite Hall parking lot at 6:30 a.m. If you don't want to miss the bus, be extra early. She has another trip to La Petite Rouge from August 11 to 15. Please reserve now at 525-3700 or you'll miss out.

Sympathies

Deepest sympathies going out to the family of Paula Lalonde, aged 92, wife of Albert Lalonde, who passed away recently. Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Yvon (Rejeanne) of Cumberland in Ottawa and Jean Paul (Nicole) of North Lancaster, eight grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

She passed away on June 18 at home and the family would like to thank the ambulance attendants and the firemen for their thoughtfulness during their sorrow. Rejeanne told me that in December, Mr. and Mrs. Lalonde would have celebrated 70 years of marriage.

50/50 winner

The lucky winner of the Daughters of Isabella 50/50 draw held on June 14 was Elaine Pollack of Maxville, who walked away with the sum of $1,000.

God bless and have a safe week.

Dalkeith continues to be a haven for visitors

DALKEITH
JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

Visiting with Sadie MacMillan, Brodie Road, were Janet and Donnie McGillivray, Neepewa, Man. They enjoyed some local events as well as lots of visiting with relatives and friends.

Suzanne (Levac) Polsky, Farmington, Conn., U.S.A., spent a night with Helen and Rolland Levac when she had come for the Memorial Mass for Elaine (Decaire) DeLong.

Word was received of the death of Irenee Lasalle on Oct. 5, 2003 at St. Michel des Saints, Quebec at age 60 years. He is survived by his wife, Nicole Plouffe, and sons Ghislain, his wife and two children, and Michel.

The Lasalles lived in Dalkeith for some years when Irenee worked at Ken MacLennan Sawmill. Ginette and Hubert Duschene attended the wake and funeral at St. Michel des Saints.

Former residents of Dalkeith and Glen Robertson along with cousins had a family reunion on Oct. 4 at the home of Florrie MacLennan who now lives at Vankleek Hill.

The family of Auley and Annie Robinson organized the day and in attendance were Grace (Robinson) and husband Bill Jones, Pointe Claire, Que., and daughter Barbara Jones, Ottawa, Pat (Robinson) and Roger Harvey, Belleville, Florrie (Robinson) MacLennan, Ann and Alex MacDonell, Lori and Kortney Barton, Bonnie MacKinnon and Heather, Carol (MacLennan) Seguin, Douglas and Barbara Robinson, Ottawa, Rae and Doris MacLennan, Glen Robertson, Roddie and Janet MacLennan, Williamstown, Bette Patterson and son Bruce, Oxford Mills, Robbie and Vera Hanley, Winchester and daughter Kathleen, Avonmore, Winnie MacLennan, Vankleek Hill.

Library News

While you browse through the library on Tuesday and Thursday evenings you can enjoy a drink of coffee.

Four new families have joined the Storytime this month. Oct. 22 will be the last one for October.

Laggan school council

Laggan School Council met on Wednesday, Oct. 1 to elect a new council for 2003-2004. Co-chairs are Deborah Perlin Adams and Diane Edwards, secretary Darlene Burningham-Benn and treasurer Trish Dorn. Community representative Gwen Morris remains and two other community representatives are still needed. If anyone from the community is willing to be a representative, please contact Gary Palmer at 525-3112. Parent representatives are: Donna Chabot, Wendy MacPherson, Kathleen Hay, Evelyn Newton and Carol Nixon. Alternate parent representatives are: Diane MacLeod, Deborah Kerr and Diana Hay.

Also on council are Sue Burleton, Suzanne Portugaise and Gary Palmer representing Laggan Public School Staff.

Student Council will be represented by Sam Burleton. A very special thank you goes out to all of those people who had served on the council so faithfully.

Very successful Student Conferencing was held last week.

The educational staff appreciates the tremendous interest that parents show in their children's learning.

Student council elected at Laurier-Carrière for 2003-2004

GLEN ROBERTSON
COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

Here is the new student council for 2003-04.

President Samuel Rozon, vice-president Miguel Simoneau, treasurer David Latulippe, councillor Michelle Lavigne, class representatives for Grade 8 Caroline Brunet, Grade 7 Andrew Vink, Grade 6 Stéphanie Tessier, Grade 5 Sarah-Anne Dewar-Massie. Congratulations to all!

The school council for 2003-04 includes Diane Guindon as president, vice-president Josée Sauvé, secretary Gisèle Sauvé, treasurer Sylvie Latulippe, parents Christian Roy, Chantal Vachon, Lise Roy, Sindy Léger, Anick Pouliot and Normand Séguin, spiritual director Father Eric Robichaud, teaching staff Nathalie Gauthier, non teaching staff Diane Léveillée, community representative Gilles Joanette, under the leadership of Gisèle Décoeur-Lafrance.

Even if you are not part of the school council, you are always welcome to bring your ideas and your help. At Laurier-Carrière, the team spirit is super.

During October, some of the students' works will be on display at the school board head office in L'Orignal.

October 5, National Teachers' Day, was dedicated to all the teachers who bring a special touch to the school and principal Gisèle is very proud of her dynamic team.

October 5 was also Faith week. Doors were decorated with the Lord's word from the Bible.

Special thank you to Father Eric who is very present at the school and brings moral support which everyone could not do without.

From October 6 to 10, the firemen verified the grounds and ran a fire drill.

There will be six during the year and three have already been done.

Free dump day

A free dump day will be held at the Glen Robertson landfill for Lochiel residents on October 18 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Euchre results

Euchre winners on October 7 were: Muriel Bellefeuille, Annette Lyman, Aimé Théoret, Béatrice Lalonde, Berthe Larocque, Helena Campeau and Jean-Noel Campeau.

Benoit Lafrance inherited the skunk prize while the door prize went to Léonide Rozon. The 50/50 winners were Muriel Bellefeuille, Marie-Thérèse Théoret, Irène Quenneville, Perle Poirier and Isobel MacLennan.

Next euchre date is October 21.

Diners'

More than 50 people enjoyed a delicious roast turkey lunch last Thursday.

50/50 winners were Mireille Dauphinais, Thérèse Lafrance, Dorothy Rae and Sadie MacMillan.

Door prizes went to Margery McCaskill, Phyllis Terry, René Fliegans, Pauline Roussin, Lorna Chapman, Frank Brooker, Mary Lambert, Jean MacLennan, Janet Kirton and Don McGillivray.

Don and Janet McGillivray, who live in Manitoba, enjoyed the Diners' with friends.

Happy birthday wishes to Doris Spencer, Phyllis Terry and Sue Casselman who are the October birthday girls.

Next Diners' will be on November 13 and Chinese food is on the menu. Please phone 525-4443 to reserve your seat.

Have a very nice week.

Hope everyone enjoyed a Happy Thanksgiving. We are so lucky and have so much to be thankful for.

Illustrating road signs from across the world

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN
347-1338

I spend a lot of time driving around the countryside in all kinds of weather. Obeying road signs is sometimes purely automatic. They seem to register on my subconscious as I STOP, YIELD, MERGE. Driving through Mexico and Central America was the first time I had to really try to interpret signs.

When my friend and fellow writer Betty Healey, told me she was writing a book and that it was to be called roadSIGNS, I nodded and wondered just what it was going to be about.

"My husband and I have traveled many roads," Betty told me while we drank coffee. "The introduction to the book explains how in search of our Canadian roots, we have driven every kilometer of the Trans-Canada Highway from Cape Spear, Newfoundland, to Long Beach, British Columbia. On these journeys we have encountered signs to direct, predict or warn of hazards. That began the call to write this book."

Born in Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, Betty Healey of North Lancaster was nine years old when her family moved to Cornwall. She attended St. Lawrence High School before embarking on a career in the health field as a physiotherapist.

"During my years as a physiotherapist, I felt my real calling was as a teacher," Betty explained. "When it was too loud to ignore, I decided to shift careers and I returned to school to McGill University studying Education, specifically Adult Learning.

"It was a gentle transition," Betty told me. "I was Director of Education at St. Mary's Hospital in Montreal but in 1997 I officially retired from the health care field after twenty-five years. Conrod Jacques Consultants Inc. was formed which provides services to individuals and corporations as a coach and facilitator. The company tag line is: 'Cultivate Spirit and Values in the Workplace'.

It is exciting having a book published. True there are many anxious moments leading up to when it becomes a tangible thing. roadSIGNS finally got published. As I mentioned, we often don't see signs in our lives, driving or living on automatic pilot. How many spiritual signs do we ignore, or overlook in our haste to get on with it....whatever 'it' is. roadSIGNS is a book, or journey really, of taking responsibility for ourselves and allowing ourselves to be open to the messages the universe sends us every day.

The title is appropriate. Betty has been publishing her own newsletter "ROAD SIGNS - Travel Tips For Authentic Living" for about three years. It seemed a perfect name for a more in-depth book.

"This is my first book," Betty told me. "I am nervous, excited and hopeful. It is the first time my words are out there publicly and the joy that comes from sharing my message. Of course I don't know how others are going to receive it."

I've almost finished reading my copy of roadSIGNS. It is definitely a worthwhile read - one that I hope will stop me in my tracks and enable me to read those signs along my path. It is a book that can be read and reread as there is always something new to learn from it.

"We live in a very disturbing time," Betty said. "With September 11th behind us, the threat of terrorism, wars; people are looking for more peace in their lives and the only way begins within. If one can find peace within us we can live better in the world."

There is a growing population of people entering their 50s, preparing for a life transition called retirement. This relatively young, healthy, dynamic group wants new ways to be of service to the world.

"I think roadSIGNS addresses this new attitude," Betty explained. "It enables us to get reacquainted with who we are and how we can serve the world. Many of us grew up in the 1960s - a time of great idealism. The 1970s started to leave that behind and it is time to reconnect."

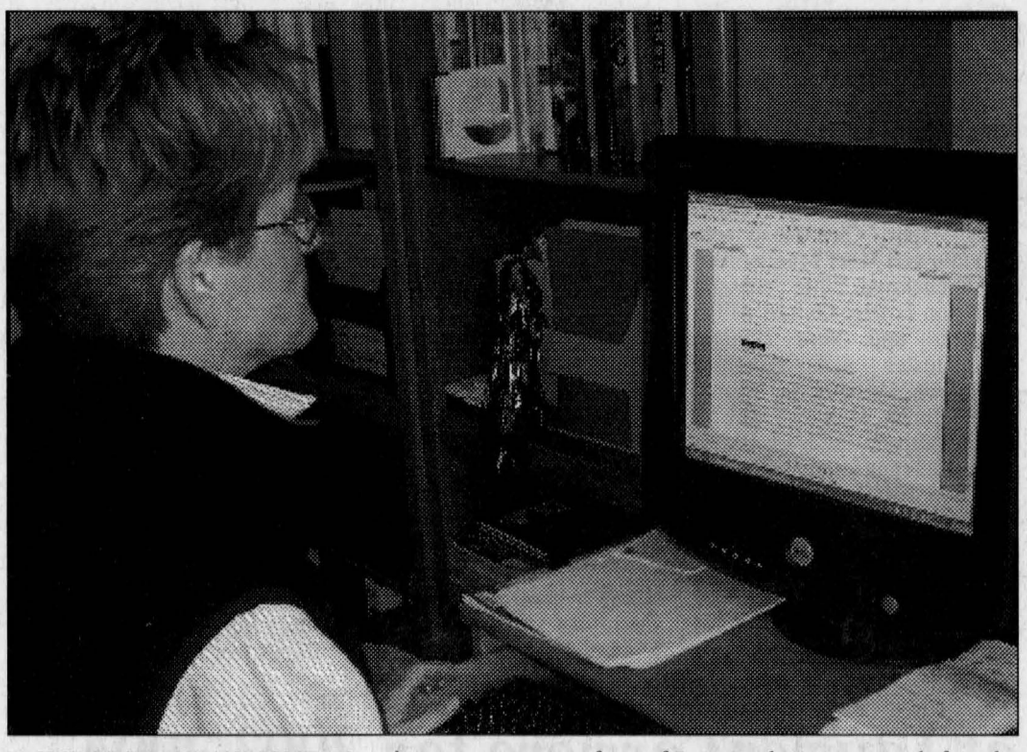
Published by Creative Bound, two local artists contributed their skills. Tracy-Lynn Chisholm created the cover design and inside chapter drawings. Jacqueline Milner did the official author photograph. These friends, and their cooperative work, are an excellent example of a new approach to what one does.

Betty's book will be officially launched at Wanderlust Book Store, Pitt Street, Cornwall. The date is October 22 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Please join her in this big moment of her life.

The book will also be available at Second Time Around, Alexandria; Glengarry Book Store, Alexandria; Mitchell's Gift Shop, Lancaster and Angel's Pantry in Cornwall.

Another date to note is October 29. The public is invited to share the evening with the Glengarry Toastmasters Club in a storytelling night focusing on the book. Time is 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the Priest's Mill.

Hope to see you there.



A SIGN OF THINGS TO COME: Many hours were spent in front of Betty Healey's computer before she finished her first book roadSIGNS. Come join her at her official book launch.

St. Finnan, apostle of Moidart

HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

The following excerpts are from an article by Hugh Cheape of The National Museums of Scotland.

"Christianity came to Scotland...in the closing years of the Roman occupation of Britain in the fourth century A.D. The earliest name in Scottish Christianity is that of Ninian.... He is said to have belonged to the British or Romano-British peoples south of the Forth-Clyde line. Later a vigorous and sustained effort to establish Christianity began in the sixth century with the missions of Calum Cille or St Columba and his fellow churchmen from Ireland, settling in Iona in the year 563 and recorded in contemporary annals as well as in his own biography; it can be said that this is when Scottish history begins.

"Tradition also takes us back more than 1300 years to this period when Christianity came to the west of Scotland. St Finnan or Finan (whose name probably means literally 'little fair one') was one of many churchmen who came from Ireland when the people of Dalriada were colonising a new Dalriada in Scotland. There has been scholarly and popular disagreement over the name Finan. Etymology suggests that it contains the element fionn, Old Irish find, 'fair or white-haired,' and perhaps by extension 'holy.' Names such as Finan, 'Little Fair One' and Calum Cille, 'Dove of the Church' are typical of the familiarity of address customary in the Celtic church. They are also typical of Gaelic, which favoured a simple and unpretentious form of naming in an...intimate style with abbreviated or diminutive form such as (in this instance) finn with a suffix -an....

"Generally speaking, Christianity was established permanently in Scotland in the course of the sixth, seventh and eighth centuries, a period often described as the 'Age of the Saints' and Moidart and Lochaber's evangelisation belongs to this period....

"St Finnan is said...to have landed at Kilchoan in Ardnamurchan, an obvious landfall on a sea route from the south west and Antrim or Donegal." [Ardnamurchan lies to the west of the district known as Moidart and Ardnamurchan Point is the westernmost spot on the mainland of Britain. The place-names in the article are left in to enable those who may be interested in visiting sites associated with St Finnan].

"After landing from his boat, St Finnan proceeded inland towards the north side of the peninsula, probably following a natural route to the west of Ben Hiant (Beinn Shianta, the 'Sacred Mountain'), over to the Achateny Water and Kilmory and turning along the coast.... He stopped to rest on the shoulder of a hill between [what are now] the townships of Ockle and Gortenfern and from this point, known as Suidhe Fhianan or St Finnan's Seat, he saw inland more than ten miles to the east the island in Loch Shiel which now commemorates his name. At the moment we can only guess that Finnan created a cill, a cell or chapel on his isle. The ruined building on the summit of the island is a church of the late-fifteenth or early-sixteenth century. Besides this, on the island there are one or two recent structures which may include earlier oratory chapels, a remarkable series of headstones and tomb slabs of different periods up to the present day and the bronze handbell - Cladh Fhianain - of ninth or tenth century date. Another symbol of the Celtic church has been discovered in recent years near St Finnan's Isle; this was the 'drop' or front section of a crozier in cast bronze of Scoto-Irish type and twelfth-century date, decorated with the figure of a king and symbolising in the pastoral staff or bachall the peripatetic character of the Celtic church mission."

From the preceding description of Finnan's arrival in Scotland, we can imagine him walking through the hills in his long monk's robe, carrying his crozier, the staff with the curved top like a shepherd's crook and, by ringing a small hand-held bell, calling the people together to hear the word of Christ. In the summer of 1968 Anne and I and the children stayed in Glenfinnan and I was able to get a local man with a motorboat to take us out to visit St Finnan's Isle. There, on a roofless altar, was a bronze bell. There was a local tradition, I discovered, that although the bell had been taken away several times, it always ended up back in the chapel. Hugh Cheape's article goes on :

"The assumption in oral history has been that the first sight of the island persuaded the Saint to found his church there and to make the sanctuary on Loch Shiel the centre of his missionary work. The island shows up conspicuously in a dun-coloured landscape as a natural gem of green, acknowledged in the alternative and familiar name of St Finnan's Isle as An t-Eilean Uaine, the Green Isle."

More of St Finnan, the Apostle of Moidart, by Hugh Cheape in future columns.

CAP system at library, a capital idea

BUILDING THE FUTURE: Lisa Poulin, branch manager of the Lancaster Bank of Montreal, and customer service representative, Chrystal Fenton, show off a grocery cart that's jam packed with food donations from the bank's customers. The donations went to the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Also pictured is Howie Give, the scarecrow.

It's a capital idea but that's not why this library service is called CAP.

Community Access Program is a useful and totally free service provided by our County Library system. Through this program anyone who wishes to learn computer skills and Internet techniques need just register, in our case, to the Lancaster library. There, a CAP student will be on hand to guide you through a training that is customized for your individual needs. Please don't be shy.

There are many of us out there who would like to sharpen our skills or even just get started with our computers that sit under dust covers. Take those covers off! Enter the modern world of communication in a very low key, comfortable way.

Jennifer Atkinson is working in Lancaster for CAP. In 2003 Jennifer was a CAP student in Maxville.

She has a diploma in Business Technology/Information Systems and is skilled in Microsoft Project, Word Perfect, as well as more specialized software such as Adobe Page Maker and Quick Books Jennifer also has experience in developing web pages and establishing networks.

If you wish to take advantage of any half hour training sessions in the Lancaster Library just call 347-2311 during business hours.

New gallery in town

I haven't had a chance to go back but when I do, I picture myself and a friend immersed in the comfort of the lovely black leather couch, drinking coffee and enjoying the ambiance of the artwork surrounding us.

Exclusive Art Forms Inc, a new gallery carrying fine art, antiques and collectibles, has finally opened on the main in Lancaster.

John Hillenbrand and his wife, Joyce, of South Lancaster, own the building and the business. Renovations are complete and this Gallery is a wonderful complement to those businesses that bring in customers from all areas to Lancaster. Christy Lux, manager, and also of South Lancaster, is John's sister. So it's really a family affair. Welcome and good luck! .

St. Andrew's celebrates 216 years

On October 19, at 11 a.m., the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster will celebrate its 216th anniversary of Christian witness and faithfulness in this community.

The guest preacher for this special Service of Thanksgiving will be the Rev. Dr. John Vissers, Principal of Presbyterian College in Montreal.

During the service twenty-two new choir gowns will be dedicated to the glory of God.

Following worship an anniversary luncheon will be served in the church hall. The community is welcome to attend!

Alpha Video Bible Study

There will be a ten-week Alpha Video Bible Study series featuring Rev. Nicky Gumble on Wednesdays, starting October 15.

Men and women from our community are invited to come to St. Andrew's Church in South Lancaster, from noon until 2 p.m. Lunch will be provided and there is no fee.

However, organizer, Maureen Teskey, would appreciate your registration to allow for preparations. To register, or for more information, please call Maureen at 347-3323.

Vote with ease

Have you received your Municipal Elections 2003 'Information for Voters' letter? Imagine! Voting can be done in the comfort of your own home. Soon another letter will come, with specific information and your own private VIN number.

For those of you who are shy to use telephone or Internet, and do not have family help, don't fret. Marilyn Lebrun, the assistant RO, assures me that any one who needs help can come to the municipal office.

The Lancaster and Williamstown Libraries will also be able to help you cast your vote with privacy. So there will be plenty of help available. In the six days that are open for voting it should be a cinch.

On a similar topic: two All Candidates Meetings for our upcoming municipal elections will be held next week. You can come to St. Joseph's Hall in Lancaster at 7 p.m. on October 20 or wait and attend the meeting at the Martintown Community Centre on Nine Mile Road. This meeting is on October 23 at the same hour, 7 p.m.

A Postcard Christmas

There will be a planning meeting for the Santa Claus Parade on October 22 at the Lancaster Fire Department. Come at 7 p.m. Anyone who is interested in giving some time for this event is welcome. Those who attend are asked to NOT park in front of the Fire Hall.

The 45th Annual Lancaster Santa Claus Parade will be held on December 6 at 2 p.m. This year's theme is "A POSTCARD CHRISTMAS." Float and Walking Entries should contact Janice at 347-2420.

Community breakfast

The Lancaster Knights of Columbus will be serving breakfast again.

Come on October 19 to St. Joseph's Parish Hall. From 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. a hearty breakfast with many choices can be yours for only $4, children $3.50.

Lancaster Antique Car Club

The next general meeting will be on October 21 at 7:30 p.m. All members are encouraged to attend this meeting at the Lancaster Legion. New members are always welcome. Tickets for the year-end banquet will be available at this meeting.

Preschool Storytime

October 16 is the next story time for your young readers of ages 3 to 5 years. Come to the Lancaster Library at 10:30 a.m. for a time of songs, stories, and rhymes. Call 347-2311 to register.

Fall Fair at Salem

Don't forget. This Saturday, October 18, is the date for the Salem Fall Fair. Come to Salem United Church in Summerstown and find good products for sale. Enjoy a lunch and just soak up the friendly atmosphere. It's good for the soul! Open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. You are all invited.

***

The weather has been gratefully enjoyed on this fine Thanksgiving weekend. We spent a lovely Sunday with our family at our son Bill's home in Barhaven. Our journey home was graced with the beauty of the blazing fall colors of trees and shrubs. The rosy sunset cast a pinkish hue on the marshy grasses. It was a lovely end to our day and, in itself, a reason to be thankful.

Have a super week everyone!

Milestone birthday coming up for Martha McRae

So many of life's events are crammed into the two days of the weekend that a Friday deadlines prior to a holiday leaves one with not much to say. Oh well, it's a small price to pay for those long weekend breaks in the routine.

There is one important event to note for this weekend, however: Martha (Schwebius) McRae of the 6th Concession celebrates a milestone birthday on Thursday, October 16 when she turns 85. Her family and friends join in wishing her much happiness on this occasion. Martha is one of those souls who exudes calm contentment in life, and it is always a pleasure to drive by and see her about her home place. Best wishes Martha for a great day! We wish you continued good health and happiness.

All candidates meeting set for Oct. 28

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279
sharring@
glen-net.ca

Williamstowners will have the chance to look over the various candidates running for the municipal election at an all-candidates meeting on Oct. 28. The meeting is being held at St. Mary's Centre at 7 p.m.

By the time of the meeting in Williamstown, candidates will already have had at least one (and maybe more) such meetings under their belts and issues will have jelled and gauntlets will have been thrown.

Plan to attend, and listen to what the candidates have to say. It's difficult to judge a person's suitability for a role on council from a name and a slogan on a sign alone!

Thanksgiving guests

Someone exciting came to Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Esther and Gary Bryan, and it wasn't Tom Turkey.

Four-day old Elijah Kenneth Bryan put in an appearance at the family feast, making it a wonderful occasion for giving thanks.

Eli, as he is going to be known, was born last Thursday to Luke and Rachel Bryan, at the Hawkesbury General Hospital, weighing 6lbs. 15 oz.

The new baby is a first grandchild for Esther and Gary, and for Ken and Julia Coulter of Inneskillen. He is also a much welcomed nephew for Lydia Bryan of Williamstown, and Sylvia Bryan, who is currently teaching English in Taiwan.

Congratulations to you all!

Home for the holiday

Lots of students were home for the fall holiday. I saw Vicky Hamilton and her mother, Pat, shopping in Cornwall on Saturday. Vicky is studying at Laurentian University in Sudbury.

Home from Carleton in Ottawa was Brock Munro, son of John Hugh and Jill Munro. Rob Schaefer was here from Bishop's University in Lennoxville, Quebec, and Juliana and Mark Richard came down from Guelph.

Debbie Elsey, from Peterborough, and Patrick Elsey from Ottawa, spent Thanksgiving weekend with their mother, Sandra, while Josee Giroux, who attends Carleton, was home to visit with her parents, Mimi and Normand Giroux.

Looking for the Corner

All right, you smarties – I have a couple of questions for you. The first is one that I was asked last week, and could not answer.

Where is the Cosy Corner Café? (Perhaps it is the Kosy Korner Kafe – although I sure hope not. Wouldn't do to have the KKK hereabouts. Anywhereabouts, for that matter!)

Someone said such an establishment is supposed to be in Williamstown, but where?

Let me know, if you know, please.

Ringing bells

The other question I have for you concerns the Bells of St. Mary's. It is so nice to hear these real bells ringing other than just for funerals. I know they are real because I can see the bell moving in the belfry from my kitchen window as the various hours chime.

What I would like to know is this: whose arm is pulling the rope, and what occasioned the extended use of the bells?

Bells and village life seem to go together so well. Keep it up, bell-puller!

Good dancer

Our Highland dancer with Williamstown roots, Michelle Farley, of Avonmore, competed on Saturday, Oct. 4 at the Metcalfe Fair. There were 12 contestants in the 9-10 age group and Michelle placed second with a ribbon and a cash prize.

Also Michelle has been asked to entertain at the Cannamore Orchards on Oct. 18 in the evening. She is also dancing at the Maxville Manor on Oct. 22, and has been asked to dance in Winchester on Oct. 25.

Michelle, the grand-daughter of Simone and Alex King, is taught by Lori MacMaster of Laggan, who deserves a special thank you, says Joanne Farley, Michelle's mum.

Santa parade

Although the decorating colours at the moment are still orange and black, it isn't too early to think of green and red. Especially not if you are planning to enter a float, or to walk in the Santa Claus parade in Lancaster this year.

The parade is taking place on Sat. Dec. 6 at 2 p.m., and this year's theme is "A Postcard Christmas."

The next planning meeting for the Santa Claus parade will be held on Wed., Oct. 22 at 7 p.m. at the Lancaster Firehall. Willing volunteer helpers are always needed.

For more information, to volunteer to help, or to participate in the parade, please phone Janice Montreuil, at 347-2420.

Bridge scores

The results from the Williamstown Bridge Club for Wednesday, Oct. 8, are:

N/S – 1. Jim and Jean Campbell; 2. Bob and Francoise Govan; 3. Chantal Larocque and Homer Grant.

E/W – 1. Audrey Pasco and Lydia Johnson; 2. Gerrie Tibbals and Ron Allison; 3. Rudi and Marjorie Mertl.

St. Mary's Supper

Among events pending for Williamstowners is St. Mary's Roast Beef Supper which is being held Sunday at St. Mary's Centre.

This supper is especially appreciated by those who have eaten Thanksgiving turkey in all its various guises for several days on end prior to the big event.

Time of the supper, and the prices for it, will no doubt be found in the ad elsewhere in this paper. Pre-Thanksgiving surface cleaning has whisked away my information sheet to places unknown!

But one thing remains in my mind: Everyone is welcome to this community event.

Museum fundraiser

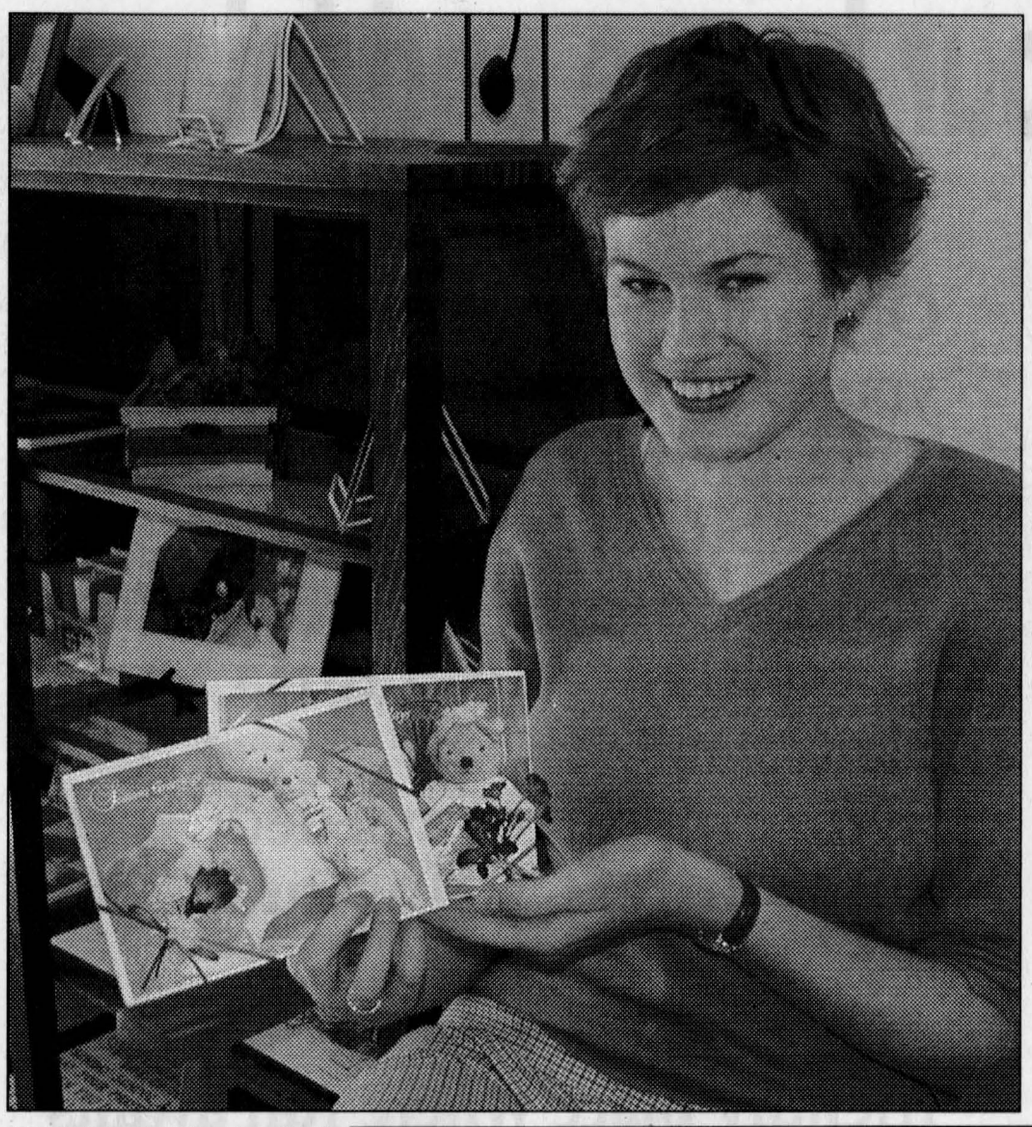
Don't forget to call Garry O'Connell (347-3478) to book your table for the museum's dessert and bridge fundraiser being held on Monday, (Oct. 20) at 1 p.m.

Make up a table of four; enjoy some delicious homemade desserts, prizes and some good bridge.

At our home

No exciting Thanksgiving stories out of this household, this year, unfortunately. Chef Dave earned his third Michelin star with his wonderful meals, however. Readers will be happy to learn he has progressed from under-the-table cooking to counter-top concocting.

Here to enjoy the feast were Sarah Harrington of Toronto, Zachary Harrington of Peterborough, and Na Yang of Nanjing, China. Na has been a student at Trent University since January.



TEDDY EXHIBIT: The final weekend at Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum has passed. Curator Kylie Cumming of Williamstown shows off some of the exhibits from the Teddy Bear workshop.

Lauzon gets another chance

BY STEVEN WARBURTON
News Editor

Guy Lauzon will get another chance to run as Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh's Member of Parliament in the next federal election.

The St. Andrew's businessman won the Canadian Alliance nomination for the riding last Tuesday, beating out fellow hopeful, and neighbour, Ranald McDonell.

In the 2000 federal election, Mr. Lauzon came close to defeating SDC's present MP, Liberal Bob Kilger. Mr. Lauzon garnered 16,136 votes to Mr. Kilger's 19,117.

Mr. Lauzon says he was fairly inexperienced in that earlier campaign and is looking forward to another opportunity.

"I'm running for the Canadian Alliance because I subscribe to the party's values," he says. "I believe in smaller government, set election dates every four years, and I believe that people should be held responsible for their actions, which means being tougher on crime."

He added that maintaining a low tax base is also an important factor in a healthy economy.

Mr. Lauzon, 59, serves as general manager of Tri-County Protein, a company that processes soy beans.

Midget Typhoons boast Glengarry flavour

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Although the midget AA Typhoons are based out of Cornwall, they'll have strong representation from Glengarry this year.

Four native Glengarrians have cracked the lineup, a year in which the Typhoons have moved up to the AA level.

Last year the Typhoons claimed the provincial title at the A level thus receiving the opportunity to join the AA ranks.

Mary Jane O'Shea, Shawna Cameron, Christina Julien and Kelsey Thomson have made this year's club and the Glengarry girls have impressed their coach Art Sinfield.

"Shawna's the rookie but she has adapted well. She'a good fit for our team. The others have played for me before and they're a great asset. Christina and Mary Jane are great puck handlers and their skills are very good. Shawna and Kelsey are power forwards and their physical play is an asset."

There's one thing common among the four that has really caught the eye of the coach.

"The biggest thing I see with those four is they're very committed. They never miss practices which are mostly in Cornwall."

Now that the team has moved up to the AA level the girls can expect to play some games in front of college and university scouts from Canada and the United States, said Sinfield.

The centre said she's happy to see girls' hockey becoming so popular.

"In high school Char-Lan and Glengarry were two new teams last year. This year we're having EOSSAA and I'm excited about that."

The left-winger has had plenty of experience playing with all-boys' teams and all-girls' teams. She likes girls' hockey better.

"It's not as rough and there's more passing. It's a lot more fun playing with girls than boys."

Thomson was used as an affiliate last year by Sinfield.

15-year-old Julien was a teammate of O'Shea's last year and is returning with the Typhoons.

15-year-old Cameron is entering her first season with the Typhoons. She skated last year with the bantam C Alexandria Glens team.

The right-winger has already grown accustomed to some of the changes in girls' hockey.

"It's different because there's no body contact and no red line. The game goes a lot faster with no red line."

TYPHOON WATCH: The Cornwall AA Typhoons have four Glengarry players on their roster this season. They are from left: Shawna Cameron, Mary Jane O'Shea, Christina Julien and Kelsey Thomson.

The Typhoons will play in a 10-team league this season against teams from Kingston, Lanark, Perth and Ottawa.

The team is also looking forward to a tournament in November in Potsdam. It's expected to attract several scouts.

Sports Briefs

Ice fishing tourney

Last year in a sight that startled passersby, 798 fishermen crowded Alexandria's Mill Pond to compete in an ice-fishing tournament.

Organizer Stephane Lavigne hopes to top last year's excitement and has increased the total prize money to $30,000.

The tournament takes place Feb.21, 2004. For information call Stephane at 525-2939 or 551-3939.

Bowlers needed

Alexandria Lanes is looking to attract more participants for their five and 10 pin bowling leagues on Sunday night.

For more information call 525-2801.

Rebs win opener

The Char-Lan Rebels bantam B team won their first league game at home against the Kemptville Panthers 6-3 two weeks ago.

Alex Glasgow and Mike Robertson led the attack with two goals apiece while Grant MacDougall and Shawn Fontaine added singles.

Picking up assists were Dylan Munro, Fontaine, Will Lang, Steve Russell, Glasgow and Jymie Jasper.

Andre Gaucher picked up the win in goal.

Bantam Glens split

The Alexandria Optimist Club Glens bantam house team came away with a win and a loss in two games played last week.

The Glens opened the week with a 4-1 setback against Rockland # 2.

Patrick Menard had the lone goal in the loss.

Menard potted two goals in the win and singles went to Justin Lavictoire, Bradley Lefebvre and Keisha MacDonald.

Jason Leroux recorded the shutout.

The Alexandria # 1 bantam house Glens were in action at home on Oct. 11 and defeated Clarance Creek # 2 5-2.

Clay Chadsey had the fifth.

The Glens put the game away after the two teams headed into the third period tied 2-2.

Looking for coach

The Alexandria District Minor Hockey League is looking for someone interested in coaching the juvenile hockey team this season.

The home games for juvenile will be played on Sunday nights and the league will play most if not all of its games on the weekend.

Glens drop from first after weekend split

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Alexandria Glens couldn't keep their positive momentum alive for two consecutive games last weekend.

After playing in what head coach Raymond Lavergne thought was his team's best game of the year Friday night, the Glens trailed Kemptville 4-0 after just 20 minutes on Sunday.

The weekend split leaves Alexandria in a tie for third in the division now with Char-Lan at 11 points.

Kemptville and Akwesasne have moved into a tie for first place, one point ahead of the Glengarry-based teams.

"We had our team set after training camp. We knew we would be one of the top four teams and we are there now," said Lavergne.

"It's so tight right now that if you take a night off you're going to get beat. It's fun though. I like it that way."

The Glens didn't take a night off on Friday at home as Morrisburg keeper Jeff McIntyre was kept busy all night with a high intensity attack from Glens' shooters.

Glens 5 Lions 2

The Glens' win would have been much more one-sided if not for the play of McIntyre.

The game was scoreless after 20 minutes despite pure domination from the Glens which resulted in several scoring opportunities.

It was only a matter of time before the Glens would find the back of the net though.

Morrisburg actually opened the scoring with Sebastien Thibeault notching his first of two on the night just under two minutes into the middle frame.

The Glens came back midway through the period scoring three goals in a matter of three and a half minutes.

Dominic Lamarche got things started with 10:07 remaining in the period and Simon Langevin scored just three minutes later. Just over 30 seconds after the Langevin goal Derek Ryan made it 3-1 Alexandria.

After Thibeault's second goal made it 3-2 Mathieu Desnoyers fired a rocket, which overpowered McIntyre's glove hand, and gave the Glens a 4-2 lead heading into the third period.

"In the first period we were not able to beat McIntyre even though we were all over them," said Lavergne.

"I think that was our best game of the year."

Glens' defenceman Christian Piquette scored his fourth goal of the season in the third to make it a 5-2 final.

Lavergne likes what he sees in Piquette.

"I didn't know him at all before this season because he just started to play last year," said Lavergne.

"He broke his neck in bantam and had been off for three years. He's really fast and he can read the play very well in the offensive zone."

Justin Martel earned the victory Friday night.

Despite playing so well at home Friday night, the Glens were a different team in Kemptville Sunday night.

73s 5 Glens 0

73s' keeper Jason Rafuse turned away every shot he faced in a 5-0 shutout victory over the Glens.

Kemptville took advantage of some impressive play from their keeper in the beginning of the game and came back with four goals for a 4-0 lead after 20 minutes.

"We just didn't show up," said Lavergne.

"We had no breaks. We were all over them the first five minutes and their goalie made some key saves to keep them in it."

Martel was in goal for the loss.

Glens notes:

This weekend the Glens host the Akwesasne Wolves Friday night with an 8:30 p.m. start time.

"Akwesasne just beat Char-Lan 5-1 so you know if you don't show up, you're going to get beat," said Lavergne.

"That's a team that plays a full 60 minutes."

Rebels fly past Hawks, get bitten by Wolves

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

For the second weekend in a row the Char-Lan Rebels looked great on home ice Saturday but couldn't follow through with the same effort on Sunday.

Two weekends ago the Rebels put in a solid effort on Saturday and defeated the Alexandria Glens on home ice. The team then stunk it up in an 8-1 loss in Kemptville a day later.

This weekend the Rebels picked up a 7-5 decision over Winchester Saturday night before falling victim to a talented Wolves team in Akwesasne Sunday night by a 4-1 score.

"Everybody is gunning for us this year," said Rebels' general manager John Chafee.

"I think the guys now realize that they have to play with more consistency."

The weekend did start off brightly as the Rebels jumped out to an early lead against the Hawks.

Rebels 7 Hawks 5

Rebels' rookie forward Julian Moffat started off the scoring with his first junior goal midway through the first period.

"He's been playing really well and he's a strong skater," said Chafee.

"He realizes he'll be in and out of the lineup but we're glad he stayed with us."

Josh Legue and Pat Johnson added singles before the first period whistle sounded for a 3-0 Rebels' lead.

The two teams traded a pair of goals each in the middle frame with Pat Lemay scoring his first of the season and Danny Lafave potting his second goal of the year for Char-Lan. Both of Lafave's goals this season have come while short-handed.

Nick Sylvestri and Nicolas Hughbox replied for Winchester in the second period.

In the third the teams combined for four goals in the first five minutes and the Hawks had three of them.

Stefan Gravelle, Shawn Smail and Robyn Sadlet scored for Winchester bringing them back into the game.

"We seemed to get too comfortable with the lead," said Chafee.

"No one played badly I think we just relaxed too much. They have some good fast skaters but we were able to weather the storm."

Steve Jarvo scored in amongst those goals and Derek Crawford scored with six minutes to salvage the 7-5 win for Char-Lan.

Mustangs pick up point with OT loss

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Maxville Mustangs picked up just one point last weekend but head coach Kevin Lalonde is happy all things considered.

On Saturday night the Mustangs chipped out a point against the Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League's first place team.

The 6-0 St. Isidore Eagles did manage to win in overtime but the Mustangs were awarded a point for their efforts.

On Sunday the Mustangs had the dubious task of travelling to Rockland, a team that embarrassed them on home ice by a 12-3 score only a week earlier.

To make matters worse, the Mustangs headed into the game without the services of five regulars.

The Mustangs lost the game 5-1 but Lalonde was optimistic about his team's turnaround against the Nats from the week before.

Nats 5 Mustangs 1

It didn't take long for Rockland to take charge in this game as they led 4-0 after the first period.

Lalonde was pleased with his short-manned roster's ability to fight back and make a game of it though.

"We had a better effort than (two weeks ago) and we played a lot smarter. Even though there were more penalties Sunday than Saturday, I don't think we took stupid penalties. I was pleased because we had a skeleton crew out there."

Rockland led 4-0 after 20 minutes thanks to goals from Simon Moore with two, Mike Devine and Marc Fleurant.

Newcomer Stephane Denault scored to cut the Mustangs' deficit to 4-1 but Moore capped off his hat trick with two minutes left in the second period which ended the scoring of the game.

"(Denault) has looked very good and the signing gives us another centre and he can play the wing too," said Lalonde.

"He's played well with Jordan Johnston."

Joshua Ingram lost in goal for Maxville.

Eagles 5 Mustangs 4 OT

The Mustangs entered the extra session after Steve Stewart scored with just over three minutes remaining to knot the score at 4-4.

Pierre Theoret, J.F. Dion, J.F. Ducharme and Yannick Lalande scored the other St. Isidore goals.

Dan Desnoyers lost to Christian Levac despite playing very well according to Lalonde.

"It was a good game and everybody played well. Desnoyers played one of his best games in a long time. It was like the Dan of two years ago. It took a nice play and a nice shot to beat us."

Mustangs notes:

This Friday night the Mustangs play in Embrun starting at 8 p.m. against the Panthers.

"We still have yet to play with a full team and I think Friday will be the game we do," said Lalonde.

"We had a bad first period against them (in the home opener) and that was it. It's our only game of the weekend so I expect the boys to give 100 per cent effort."

Denault is returning to Maxville this year after beginning the season with the East Ottawa Thunder. He asked to be released after a lack of playing time.

A Cumberland resident, Denault was used as an affiliate in Maxville last season.

Denault attended both teams' training camps and opted to start the season with the Thunder who are situated much closer to his home.

The Mustangs played both games without the services of captain Pierre Lacombe who was out with prior commitments.

Jordan Johnston (suspension) and Brody Coleman (other commitments) also didn't play Saturday.

Glens

On Saturday the Glens travel to Winchester for an 8:15 p.m. start against the Hawks.

Despite having his junior A playing rights traded from Hawkesbury to Kanata, Justin Martel remains with the Glens.

He's played as an affiliate with Kanata but is still committed to Alexandria.

"He's staying with us so far," said Lavergne.

"I would never stop a kid from going to a higher level and if he does I will be happy for him and we'll find someone else."

Forward Nick Adam missed both of last weekend's games due to an ankle injury.

With Luc Lanthier wearing the "C" this season, veterans Louis Brisson, Jeff Lobb and Mathieu Desnoyers will be his assistants.

"Louis is working hard night after night and is really good in the room," said Lavergne.

"Mathieu was an assistant three years ago in Clarence and he has the respect of the kids in the room. Jeff is quiet but he's smart. He's been here for five years and he works very hard."

Lavergne added he feels Simon Langevin has the ability to be a great assistant too but it came down to a numbers game on choosing the other three.

And on the subject of Langevin, Lavergne feels he isn't getting fair treatment from referees because of his reputation with undisciplined play.

"With Simon the referees are on his back with every small thing he does. They remember what he's done the past two years. He's paying for it big time. He's getting slashed and they're not calling it. It's starting to frustrate him."

The Glens have signed Luc Beauclair and Kevin McDonell as affiliates.

Rebels

A day later the Rebels held an early 1-0 lead but couldn't hold on against Akwesasne.

Wolves 5 Rebels 1

In a game pitting the St. Lawrence division's top two scorers against each other, Jeremy Synott and the Akwesasne Wolves won by a 5-1 score over Pat Johnson's Rebels.

With the victory the Wolves moved one point ahead of Char-Lan and Alexandria for a first place tie with Kemptville at 12 points.

Synott scored a goal and had one assist in the win for Char-Lan.

The Wolves scored three times in the second period (Kyle Flannagan, Ahronhiaes Herne and Tyler Maxwell) and twice in the third period (Synott and Kyle Flannagan) for the win.

"Akwesasne has some good forwards and they just added two defencemen who will help them on the back end," said Chafee.

"Wolves' keeper Seth Robinson had another good game for them and it looks like they'll fight for a top spot this year."

Rebels' captain Derek Duval had given his team a 1-0 lead by scoring his first goal of the season four minutes into the game.

Anthony Fricchione lost to Robinson.

Rebels notes:

On Friday the Rebels travel to Morrisburg for an 8:15 p.m. start against the Lions.

On Saturday the Rebels host the Kemptville 73s for a 7:45 p.m. start in Williamstown.

"We're looking for four points this weekend," said Chafee.

"We want to play better on the road and we want to stay near the top of the standings. We owe Kemptville some favours and I expect that will be a good game Saturday night."

Crawford's three-game goal-scoring streak was snapped Sunday night.

Chafee said he's hoping that a change in the Rebels' routine will add to more consistency.

The Rebels will play away games on Friday nights for the next couple of weeks as opposed to Sundays.

The Rebels haven't signed any affiliates to cards yet this season.

Patrick Lemay will miss this Friday's game after he was assessed a fighting major in the final 10 minutes of Sunday's loss to Akwesasne.

Lemay and Pat Johnson make up for their lack of size by playing with lots of hearts, says Chafee.

"They're not big but they play very big. They're our two smallest players and I think they have more hits than the big guys. They're so skilled that you don't want them to run over everybody but you can't change the way they play."

The Rebels held a wine and cheese before last Saturday nights' home game and according to Chafee it was a big success.

In Memoriam

SPENCE, Donovan–October 10, 2000.
You're not forgotten grandfather dear,
Nor ever shall you be,
As long as life and memory last
I shall remember thee.
–Tim and Joanne Spence and family. 42-1p

ST. LOUIS, Travis–October 13, 1992.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Our loss is great, we'll not complain,
But hope in Heaven to meet again.
–Joanne and Tim Spence and family. 42-1p

CRAWFORD–In loving memory of Steward who passed away October 18, 2000.
'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again
Where troubles are no more,
And that the one we loved so much
Has just gone on before.
–Dorothy and family. 42-1p

BARTON, Brenda Jean–In loving memory of our dear Mom who passed away October 10, 2002.
Though her smile is gone forever
And her hand we cannot touch
Still we have so many memories
Of the Mom we loved so much.
Her memory is our keepsake
With which we'll never part
God has her in his keeping
We have her in our hearts.
–We love and miss you Mom.
Steve, Jen and Adam. 42-1p

Weather helps bring mature crops to harvest

BY PETE BOCK
News Reporter

After a challenging cold wet spring, farmers praised a warm summer and a frost-free September for bringing mature crops to harvest.

"We had lots of heat this summer, and some rain at the right time," said Williamstown crop farmer Martin Lang.

"Last year we had lots of heat, but we missed the rain at the right time, so some fields were good, some weren't.

"I hate to predict, but I think the corn is going to be good."

Lancaster farmer John Ferguson, Glen Gordon Farm also believes there will be good corn yields.

"We came through September without a frost which was a tremendous help for us," Mr. Ferguson said. "We were very late getting the corn in and we needed the full month of September in order to mature the crop.

"We got that, and everything indicates the yields will be good."

But the Lancaster farmer, who works over 1,000 acres of land, said weather has been a challenge this season.

"We really struggled in the spring to get our crops in," Mr. Ferguson said. "We had a lot of rain and delay. We were very concerned with the timeliness with which the crops went in the ground."

Cereal crops, which need to be planted early to ensure a healthy yield, seemed to be an area of disappointment for some farmers, including Adrian St. Denis of Greenfiel,d who planted 25 acres of oats on untiled land.

"It went in late and came off late," Mr. St. Denis said. "It was of nice quality, but light. We got maybe a half a ton an acre."

Damp, humid conditions in late July also spelled trouble for some wheat farmers, according to John Ferguson who planted 163 acres to fulfill a seed contract.

"A lot of people had higher levels of fusarium – a mould that forms on the wheat in damp conditions," Mr. Ferguson said. "One part per million is allowed, if the level is too high, it can be downgraded from human consumption to animal feed."

His Glen Gordon Farm's wheat yield was 1.7 tonnes/per acre, or what he called average. While Mr. Ferguson's samples haven't returned from testing, he anticipates a lower level of quality than last year.

PETE BOCK PHOTO

Mr. Lang planted 75 acres of wheat, and said, "I was one of the lucky ones. They allow you (a fusarium milling standard) of 0.1 and I had a couple of loads that were right on 0.1.

"They let it go through, I guess I just snuck in under the line. I was very happy with the wheat. It was at least an average year, maybe a little better, and everything made milling quality (good for human consumption).

Speaking from his combine on Thursday evening, the Langmuir Farms' cropper said he has started harvesting his 475 acres of soybeans.

"The soybeans look good," Mr. Lang said. "We tested a few fields yesterday (Wednesday) at 1.4 tonnes/per acre, I wouldn't be surprised if I average over a tonne and a quarter.

"And the price for soybeans is nice right now, it has been coming up the last few weeks. We can get a good price this fall. I haven't checked the price the last few days, but I expect to be able to get $325 a tonne."

Dairy farmers Adrian St. Denis and Millan MacPherson are also pleased with their soybean crops.

"We are looking at a good crop," Mr. MacPherson said from his Triple Pine Farm near Dalkeith. "It is weighing in from a tonne, to a tonne and a half/per acre."

Their barns and silos are full of feed. "It was a good year for hay," Mr. St. Denis said. "We took off three good crops, and could have taken off a fourth."

The Denvan Farms owner said he decided against the fourth cut, because his barn was full and by leaving it in place he has more protection from winter frost damage.

Mr. St.Denis stored 20 acres of corn silage earlier in the season and plans to take an additional 45 acres of high moisture corn for feed.

Operating on heavy clay, Mr. MacPherson said, "we are about ten days later than everybody else."

Just the same, the late start in spring didn't affect him too much. The Dalkeith farmer's forages include a timothy and alfalfa mix, and clover grass mixes. "The two silos are full and we baled about 500 large square bales," he said.

His barley did well too. While not so tall, it weighed heavy. Some was chopped for green feed, and the rest went into silo. He plans to silo 70 acres of high moisture corn, and then dry and sell an additional 160 acres of the grain staple.

Like Mr. Lang, Mr MacPherson said, "the corn looks good, but you hate to predict until it is in the bin."

Cooking safety: stand by your pan

MARTINTOWN
VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379 uwinn@cnwl.igs.net

The safety tips promoted during Fire Prevention Week, which officially ended on Thanksgiving weekend, are worthy of attention long after.

I'm sure many hours were spent in kitchens this past weekend, and the title of the public service announcement is Cooking safety: Stand by your pan!

Did you know that cooking is the number one cause of home fires in Ontario? Many of these fires start because pots and pans are left unattended on the stove, which is why our Martintown Fire Chief asks us all to Stand by your pan.

If you must leave the kitchen when you're cooking, turn off the stove and remove the pot from the burner – especially if you are using oil or high temperatures.

A cooking fire can start in a flash, so keep an eye on your fries.

The most important message of all is When fire strikes:

Get out! Stay out!

Most fatal fires occur where people feel safest – in their homes, usually during the night when everyone is sleeping.

In a fire, every second can mean the difference between life and death.

Develop and practice a home escape plan with your entire family so everyone knows what to do. Install smoke alarms on every level of your home, including outside all sleeping areas, and test them regularly.

If a fire strikes, get out right away and call the Fire Department from a neighbour's telephone or a cell phone.

Never go back inside to retrieve possessions. Get out and stay out!

Community centre

Here are a few more of the organizations that use the Martintown Community Centre for their activities. Sparks and Brownies, under the leadership of Donna Orr and Linda Leishman respectively, meet on Monday evenings at 6:30. On Wednesday evenings, also at 6:30, Girl Guides and Pathfinders keep leaders Donna Orr and Patti Carson busy.

The Octagon club, led by Ashley Kenny, meets on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. and this club is open to high school age students.

The Optimist Club, the parent organization for the Octagon Club, headed by Cathy Levac and Luane Doyle, meets usually on the fourth Thursday of the month at 7:30 p.m.

The Women's Institute meets on the third Thursday of the month at 1:30 p.m., and the Martintown Mill Preservation Society most often meets on the second Tuesday of the month.

Missing from last week's listing of fitness activities was the fact that there is line dancing on Tuesday evenings from 7-9 p.m. led by Kevin Ceasor. And if your feet are giving you grief, there is a Foot Clinic at the Community Centre every other month on the third Thursday. To make an appointment call 347-1175, which is the same number to call and reserve for Diners' Club.

The library in the Community Centre, headed by Marion Thompson, is open on Saturday afternoons from 2-4, and also when scheduled activities such as Bridge, exercise classes, Diners' Club and Goodtimers get-togethers, are in progress.

There is a book club which usually meets on the fourth Thursday of the month at 1:30 p.m. and Marjorie Mertl is in charge.

The phone number of the Martintown Community Centre is 528-4364, and the manager of the building is Rick Paquette who can be reached at 528-4235.

25th Anniversary

Congratulations to Luane and Michael Doyle who celebrated 25 years of marriage this past Saturday at the Martintown Community Centre, serenaded by The Brigadoons.

They were married on Oct. 7, 1978.

Martintown Public School

Martintown Public School students are participating in a few field trips this month. The Junior/Senior Kindergarten and Grade One students visited the Avonmore Berry Farm on Oct. 1.

On Oct. 16 the Grade Four students will be travelling to Ottawa to visit the Museum of Nature.

The next School Council Meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 21 from 7:30-9 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Duplicate Bridge

The results of the Martintown Goodtimers Duplicate Bridge held on Tuesday, Oct, 7, were as follows:

North/South, 1. Grace Leroux and Evelyn McPhail, 2. Allan McLeod and Finlay McDonald, 3. Helen MacLeod and Elsie MacLeod, 4. Bernice Barlow and Del Roulston.

East/West, 1. Audrey Pasco and Margaret Kennedy, 2. Jane Troop and Kathy Eveleigh, 3. Audrey Blair and John Roulston, 4. Ruth Edgerton and Margaret MacLeod.

There was a big turnout for the apple pie and ice cream Duplicate Bridge and several special occasions were marked. Bridge friends were able to congratulate Norah Ruth who recently celebrated her 95th birthday, Barb and Russ Surtees on their 53rd wedding anniversary, and Isobel Quail whose health has permitted her to return to play bridge.

Tuesday was also appreciation day for Audrey Blair, whose dedication to the Martintown Duplicate Bridge Club as Director over the past five years was recognized with thanks.

Oh, yes, and Audrey Pasco is now in sole first place in the Masterpoint Race. Congratulations go to Norah Ruth, the Surtees, and the two Audreys.

Audrey's Bridge

The winners of Audrey's Friday Night Bridge held on Oct. 10 were: 1. Lorna and Homer Grant, 2. Francoise and Bob Govan, and 3. Jean and Jim Campbell.

Party Bridge

The winners of the Party Bridge held on Thanksgiving Monday, Oct. 13 were Marjorie Mertl, Rudi Mertl and Marion Schofield.

Any Visitors?

What a beautiful Thanksgiving weekend it was in our area.

Were there visitors, friends, relatives, prodigal students home for turkey and trimmings?

Please call or e-mail me with details of your travels or house guests.

I will truly give thanks!

Soccer tournaments across Glengarry

GREEN VALLEY
MARGO PEPIN
525-3581

Several area schools this past week participated in a soccer tournament. The girls played at the Alexandria Park while the boys played at Elda Rouleau. The children really enjoyed themselves and the weather was beautiful.

The Daughters of Isabella will be holding their monthly meeting this Wednesday evening.

The Optimist Club would like to thank all who encouraged them for their car wash and President Julie Theriault would like to thank all the members who helped in any way.

Deepest sympathies going out to the family of Emile Menard who passed away this past week. He would have been 49 on Oct. 10. He leaves his brother Adrien, Conrad, Marcel, Robert and sister Rita, Marie Rose, irene, Colette, Gertrude and Diane. He was predeceased by his parents Aldema and Anna Menard.

On Oct. 15 there is a zone meeting at the Community Centre at 8 p.m. All members are asked to attend. The Club would like to wish Andre and Fernande Menard a happy 25th wedding anniversary which they celebrated on Oct. 7.

On Nov. 1 the Club has organized a trip to the Casino. For more info call Henri Jeaurond at 525-5070. They are also holding a dance for the Canadian Foundation on Nov. 15; entry fee is $5. For more info contact Ginette Aubin at 525-3938.

God bless and have a safe week.

AULD LANG SYNE

Gleaned from the fyles of The Glengarry News

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO Friday, October 23, 1903

•Glengarry sent three representatives to the athletic tournament under auspices of the Ottawa Valley Journal at Ottawa, Saturday. Alcide aurin of Alexandria and .K. McDonald of Loch Garry, each won two first places and J.K. McDonald of Williamstown, took two seconds.

•D.R. McDonald, ex-MP was the unanimous choice of the Glengarry Conservative Association, which convened here Saturday to select a candidate in the approaching federal election.

•R.F. Dempster is engaged at present building an up-to-date residence for Neil McLean, Baltic's Corners.

•Miss Janet McKillican of the American Presbyterian Mission in Peking, China, who was there during the siege, is now visiting her father, William McKillican, Vankleek Hill.

NINETY YEARS AGO Friday, October 24, 1913

•The House of Industry and Refuge erected by the United Counties at Cornwall, was formally opened last Thursday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering. The very substantial building was erected by Alexander Cameron of this place.

•Farquhar D. McCrimmon sold his valuable riverfront farm, east of Lancaster, this week to Donald Ross of Montreal for the handsome sum of $10,000. Mr. McCrimmon leaves shortly for Red Deer, Alta.

•Donald A. Macdonald, Alexandria lawyer, has rented the office James Burton at Maxville and he will go there each Monday.

•On Monday night, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. McEwen, Maxville, entertained the members of the Maxville Hunt Club and their wives at dinner.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO Friday, October 26, 1923

•Rev. Dr. Guinevan, returned to Alexandria, Saturday, after a pleasant visit to England. He leaves here Sunday to take up duties in the diocese of Edmonton, Alta.

•At a meeting of the Queen's Alumni Association of Toronto, Colonel D.M. Robertson of Williamstown, was elected president of the executive committee.

•A pretty autumn wedding at Finch, Tuesday, October 23 was that of Ethel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James MacMahon, to John C. Gauthier, son of John N. Gauthier, Alexandria.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO Friday, October 27, 1933

•The Storm King held sway in Glengarry on Tuesday and Wednesday when a recorded snowfall almost entirely tied up traffic. Eight inches of snow fell, the most severe in many years.

A regular Sunday morning worship service is held at 10 a.m. in Glen Sandfield United Church each week. Visitors are always welcome.

A service of Holy Communion will be celebrated in East Hawkesbury United Church at 11:15 a.m. on Oct. 19. There will be no worship service in Glen Sandfield United Church that morning.

UCW Members Meet

The women of the Glen Sandfield United Church women met on Oct. 7, in the church, for their regular monthly meeting. Christena MacLachlan and Eleanor Bickerstaff. A prayer from the green service book served as the call to worship. Christena MacLachlan read a brief meditation called Prayer and Working which was taken from a Daily Bread Booklet. The Scripture, taken from Ephesians, was read by Chick McCaskill.

Both of the hymns followed the theme of thanksgiving; Come Ye Thankful People Come and Harvest Home. They were accompanied by Lorna Chapman on the organ. In the absence of Treasurer Margo MacRae no financial report was given. Lorna Chapman read an original new poem called Tenants which will appear in book #3 of her poems of the 'Light' series, which hopefully will be produced early in 2004. The next meeting will be held at the home of Chick McCaskill in Alexandria on Tuesday, Nov. 4, at which time the hostess will invite a war veteran, who has received the DSO, to be the guest speaker.

Family gathering

Nancy Chapman and Michel Sabourin of Glen Roy and I drove down to St Lambert QC for Thanksgiving dinner at the home of Richard, Charlotte, Stephanie, Vincent and Allison Hillier. Among the guests were Vincent's friend Mellanie, Lorna (Honey) Chapman and Jean Victor Giomi from Havelock, my grand-daughter Christianne Bolduc with her daughter (also my great-grand-daughter) Cassandra both from St. Jean de Richelieu and Bonnie Chapman from Brossard.
