EARLY SNOW—It's the first time in memory we have had snow on October 2nd and it caught just about everyone without their winter boots. Here Kathleen Grant strolls with her dog Nikki across George Lanthier's back yard. We presume the snowmobilers are joyous in anticipation.

Records set in 27 events at annual field day of GDHS

Twenty-seven new records were set in competition Wednesday of last week in the annual track and field meet of Glengarry District High School.

Another evidence of the success of the event was the large number of students who participated. Grade 9J had the highest percentage of participants at 79% and the champion class was 11F whose members scored 95 points.

Two senior girls tied for top honors in that division as Joan Nixon and Louyse Poirier each scored 15 points. Three boys scored a like number of points to share junior honors—John Charlebois, Bob Caley, and Yvon Desautels.

Other trophy winners were:
Senior boys—John Malkin, 15 pts.
Midget boys—Terry Epp, 15 pts.
Junior girls—Betty Lacombe, 13 pts.
Midget girls—Deanie Bourgeois, 15 pts.

Will co-sponsor blood clinics

During their regular meeting of Monday, September 23, the members of the Richelieu Club voted unanimously to undertake the publicity and promotion of the upcoming Glengarry Red Cross Blood Clinic.

The request was presented by Rene Gauthier on behalf of P. T. Lloyd.

The blood clinic held this year will be co-sponsored by the Richelieu and Lions Clubs of Alexandria.

Yvon Trottier, Rene Gauthier and John F. MacDonald were the three committeemen named to represent the Richelieu Club at organizational meetings with members of the Lions Club.

OVERJOYED WITH GIFT—Ordinarily, people's eyes light up when given a gift, but for 15 year old Carol Hutt of Lancaster, who has been blind since birth, this was not possible. Her whole being lit up instead when she was presented with this braille typewriter from the CNIB and her joy and appreciation was a touching sight indeed. Carol has attended school for the blind in Brantford since she was six, is a grade nine student, and is already a proficient typist. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutt of Lancaster and presentation was made when she was home last weekend. Angus R. MacDonell, Alexandria, president of the Glengarry CNIB, enjoys a rewarding moment from his work.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLachlan, Williamstown, left Sunday for an extended tour that will include a stay in Australia where Mrs. MacLachlan will be a voting delegate, representing Eastern Ontario, at the triennial convention of the Associated Country Women of the World. The convention will be held in Perth, Australia, Oct. 8 to 18.

Other delegates include Mrs. Harvey Noblitt, provincial president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, and Mrs. George McCaffrey of Ottawa.

At a tea at the home of Mrs. Clifford Wightman members of Picnic Grove WI presented a purse of money prior to her departure.

MRS. DONALD McLACHLAN

Mr. and Mrs. MacLachlan are travelling by way of San Francisco and Fiji and will spend a week in New Zealand following their visit to Australia.

Only two reeves of Glengarry municipalities to leave posts

With municipal nominations only some six weeks away, few of the reeves and deputy-reeves of Glengarry municipalities plan at this time to quit their posts according to a survey conducted last week during the session of counties' council.

Warden Harold Brown will retire from the reeveship of Cornwall Township, as will the veteran Mahlon Zeron, reeve of Matilda, and Earl Baker, reeve of Morrisburg.

Reeve Gerard Massie of Lochiel, is leaving the field while Alexandria's reeve Marcel Ranger will contest the mayorality here.

Planning to again seek election are Reeve Alex McNaughton and deputy Paul Legros, in Lancaster Township; Albert Faubert, reeve of Kenyon; Alex McDonald, deputy-reeve of Lochiel, who will seek the reeveship; Reeve Adrian Gadbois and deputy Roger Lefebvre in Charlottenburgh; Reeve W. J. Cumming, Lancaster Village.

In the undecided column are Deputy-Reeves John A. MacLennan in Kenyon and Jacques Joly, Alexandria; Reeve Hubert Quart of Maxville.

Named to OCUA

Rosaire T. Leger of Cornwall, director of education for the SD & G board of education will be a member of the newly-established Ontario Council on University Affairs. He will represent the elementary and secondary aspects of the educational system.

Not badly hurt in collision

Maurice Lauzon, 28 of Alexandria, suffered a concussion in a two-car collision at the corner of Kincardine and Main at noon Wednesday of last week. He was treated at Glengarry Memorial and released.

Police report Lauzon was travelling north on Main when his car was struck by another driven by Albert Cadieux, 63, also of Alexandria. Cadieux was proceeding east on Kincardine and will be charged with failing to yield.

The cars suffered damage estimated at $1,000 each.

Council studies plans new arena

Members of town council heard details of an arena-community centre complex that might be built for less than $600,000 at Tuesday's meeting. Plans were outlined by a representative of the firm now building the centre at Vankleek Hill and he was at the meeting as a result of a Sunday inspection by council members of a new arena the firm is completing at Petawawa.

Council was assured the same facilities could be provided here and they include a 254 x 120 ft. building with community centre facilities, 54 x 120 ft., over the front entrance, the ice plant, cement bleachers and all the services. The building would be of cement block to a height of 7 ft. 4" with steel sheeting above. A room on the ground floor could also house a public library or day care centre.

Started a year ago, the Petawawa facility cost $530,000 and the builder felt increased costs would not put it over the $600,000 mark.

Council will meet to further discuss the project and a special meeting will be held next Tuesday night when the contractors will outline a firm proposal. The contract, if let, would be subject to approval by the Ontario Municipal Board.

In Petawawa Sunday to view the arena there were Deputy-Reeve Jacques Joly, Councillors Jean Larocque and Mrs. Florence Villeneuve, Recreation Director Mike Depratto, Clerk D. O. Collin and Town Engineer Ghislaine Seguin.

President of the Alexandria Snowmobile Club, Marc Lalonde asked permission for the club to undertake a building in the park for its use in winter. Council is asked to provide a cement slab, 30 x 40 ft., water, sewer and electrical services. The request will be considered.

Killed ducks on local lake

The duck hunting season is on this week but two local juveniles jumped the season Thursday of last week when they shot four domestic ducks on the Alexandria lake. The ducks belonged to Arcade Trottier.

The two swans that have summered on the lake escaped unscathed. Charges are being laid, police report.

Died at Oshawa

Formerly of Laggan, Mrs. Kate Anderson died at Oshawa on Tuesday.

The funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Morris Funeral Home here, with burial in St. Columba Cemetery, Kirk Hill.

Two sons survive: Rev. John Anderson of Oshawa, and Lloyd Anderson of Montreal.

First winners at bridge club

Prospects for the success of the new Bridge Club were promising as 7½ tables were filled for the first gathering on Sunday, Sept. 29th, at the Legion Hall.

Winners: North and South, (1) Angus R. MacDonell and Maurice Lemieux; (2) Alain Lebrun and Archie Lebrun; (3) Pat Cunningham and Dorothy Donihee.

East and West: (1) Alex McHugh and Mary Chisholm. Two couples tied for 2nd and 3rd, Florida Thauvette and Rose McDonald; Mildred Dever and Ella Macdonald.

The club is open to all. The membership fee of $1.00 a year will be a great help in getting the new organization going. However the occasional player is very welcome at any time.

Coffee is served, courtesy of the Legion.

False alarms at high school

Glengarry District High School was evacuated twice last week when the fire alarm system was activated. Investigation by police and Principal P. T. Lloyd implicated a 14-year-old girl who reportedly set off the alarms Thursday and Friday "because she was bored".

French judge for dressage trials

M. Cochouner of France, will be one of the senior judges at the Ontario dressage championships being held Saturday at Centennial Farm, 3rd Kenyon. He is France's 3-day-event Olympic coach.

A large entry list of some 100 competitors is expected Saturday and there will also be some jumping competitions.

The public is invited to witness the trials.

Needs of the community discussed at all-day seminar of Inter-Agency groups here Friday

Many problems facing the people of the community were discussed on Friday at the Church on the Hill when the County Inter Agency groups met to compare notes and plan improvements.

Mrs. Gwen Swift, P.H.N. was organizer of the event and the meeting took the form of panel discussions with different speakers and a question period following each report.

Transportation was the first item on the agenda with Mrs. Bessie Clingen, Mrs. Zoe Grant, and Laurent Crevier as panellists. The lack of buses and trains in the area makes it very difficult for many people to attend clinics or keep medical appointments in Cornwall or Hawkesbury where most area people need to go, it was brought out. Some organizations help pay transportation to cancer clinics for example, where it might cause a man to lose a day's pay to drive his wife to the clinic; for the elderly who have no cars, etc. It was felt a survey of the community was necessary to see if appointments could be made to have people attend clinics the same day and determine other needs.

Mrs. Bob Eadie, Mrs. Zoe Grant, Angus R. MacDonell and Chief Cleroux explained the Adult Workshop which will be opening next week. Trainees will be transported on the existing school buses and about ten adults will be accepted to begin with.

Meals on Wheels is ready to start on its initial rounds and while only a few people will be provided with this service now, organizers feel more will be willing to participate in the program once it gets underway. The Hot-Lock machine can supply 18 people and the hospital team who supply the meals is an important part of the unit reported Mrs. Florence Davies. Mrs. Jean Scott, Mrs. Amy

DELIVERIES STARTED—The Meals on Wheels project became a reality on Tuesday and here we see the first delivery being made to Mrs. Aurea Levert by Miss Mary Chisholm, left, and Mrs. Raymond Rochon, who are in charge of deliveries. The meals delivered included one diabetic diet, two low fat and one no salt as well as regular. Food is placed in aluminum utensils then kept in the Hot Lock unit donated by the Lions Club. It contains a hot charcoal unit to keep food warm. Food is transferred to the customers' plates for 75 cents payable on delivery. There is still room for applicants who wish to take advantage of the service.

Total ban advertising alcoholic beverages advocated by panel

Two United Counties experts on alcoholism urged a total ban on advertisements for alcoholic beverages on television and a third said at least a partial ban is needed.

Dr. Michael Cox, chief of staff at Cornwall General Hospital, and William Burns, social worker, agreed the ads have little redeeming value and should be removed from the screen.

Margaret Conliffe, executive director of Cornwall Family Service, called instead for a change in the attitude and direction of advertising.

"I feel the industry has a responsibility to show that you can have fun without alcohol."

The three were members of a panel discussing alcoholism at St. Andrews Church Hall in Williamstown last Wednesday. Also on the panel were three Grade 12 students from Char-Lan High School.

They were commenting on a recent speech by Health Minister Marc Lalonde in which he told the heads of Canadian breweries that if they did not tone down their advertising the government would step in to force changes.

About 40 persons attended the meeting organized by the Williamstown United Church Women.

In a brief address Miss Conliffe described the classic image of the alcoholic as a down and out on skid row as a misconception. Most alcoholics are employed persons who function well most of the time, she said.

In a question period following talks from the panel, Dr. Cox said it is vital that society change its attitude towards the alcoholic.

Mr. Burns said society's "moral overtones" make "objective assessment of the alcoholic difficult."

If the alcoholic is to be helped he must not be condemned, he said. He added the lack of easily understood definitions of what alcoholism is has added to the problem of acceptance.

Counties executive committee cleared for meeting on regional government

Some members protested but the United Counties Council executive committee was allowed to proceed with a recommendation that a representative of the Ontario ministry of economic and intergovernment affairs be invited to meet the committee and their counterparts from the city of Cornwall.

Protests were heard from Councillors Adrian Gadbois, Albert Faubert, Mahlon Zeron and Cecil McNabb that the Ontario government should not be permitted even this opportunity to introduce the topic of regional government to infect the area with discontent.

However, J. C. Whitteker, chairman of finance, and several other members suggested that all the information possible should be obtained, especially on the latest provincial thinking on the matter. The counties should at least know what they are missing in the field of grants, if anything. Mr. Faubert and Mr. McNabb, especially, criticized the large increases in costs connected with regionalization.

It was also mentioned in passing that regionalization is no longer the favored word to describe the changes proposed for local municipal administrations. Restructuring is now in favor.

Among the several plans discussed locally, a combination of the city of Cornwall and the United Counties as one administration has at least been considered but no actual moves have been made.

Cornwall Township retains the questionable privilege it has had for the past several years; that of paying the largest single share of county rates.

Apportionment took place at last week's meeting of the United County council. As approved the Cornwall rate will be 11.4 of the whole. Clerk-treasurer Raymond Lapointe said the rate is worked out according to a formula which considers each municipality's assessment and grants.

Next to Cornwall and the only other one with over 10 per cent

On Friday evening the Kirk Hill United Church will hold a preparatory service at 8 p.m. with a joint meeting session afterwards.

On Sunday morning at 11 a.m., the joint Holy Communion service will be held at St. Columba. Sunday evening a service of praise will be held at Kirk Hill United at 8 p.m.

Martintown rumor mill

(by Art Buckland)

Last week's public meeting of your recreation association was very poorly attended. Certainly, it was a discouraging response to a community invitation to suggest future programs and activities for your association. Perhaps the lack of attendance (three community people showed up) is an indication to the committee on the direction they should take. A meeting of the committee will be held in the near future to consider the alternatives. The important question is whether to continue at all. Events such as the Family Fun Fair and the Winter Carnival take a lot of time, energy, and hard work in the planning of the event the carrying out of the actual event and then the windup with the actual cleanup, the balancing of accounts and so on. So far, the events have been fun and I think enjoyed by a great many people. However, a few people have been doing a lot of work to make the events possible. This state of affairs will not continue.

How does a community view its recreation group? A town may see such a group as a closed group, one which is tightly controlled in respect to membership and influence. That is certainly not so in the case of your Martintown Recreation Group. The members were originally elected at a public meeting almost two years ago. Since then some members have resigned, an election has been held, and at the moment five members are new members, that is, not part of the charter membership.

Perhaps the town sees the group as just a money raising organization. That is also not true of your local group. Money has been raised, but only with the intention of spending it on some local facility or service. The new swings are a tangible example. Money was raised and donated for this purpose. To purchase the swings commercially would have cost over $600. Through donations and scrounging, the committee was able to erect the swings for about one third of that cost.

The committee was established to provide recreational facilities and services for all age groups in our area. That's still the aim of the committee. The next meeting of the group should answer the question of whether they will continue or not.

Thanks to J. P. Kenny who loaned a chain to a resident from Dundas County, (Kent Burton), to help him out. You surprised him by not charging. Another example of Glengarry friendship.

Next week I'll announce the book winners in the contest. The source of the stone for our United Church has been questioned. Did it come from McDermid's quarry, Kinloch's quarry or?

Rhodes Grant's second printing of "Martintown—The Story of a Pioneer Village" is off the presses. If you missed the first printing, now is your chance. The cover of the second thousand books is a lighter blue. Onagh Ross reminds you to keep Nov. 1st open for the Horticultural dance at McDonell's Inn with Sylvester. Which member of Sylvester MacDonald's band is going to retire because of the pressure of his regular work?

Ken McDermid notes that there are no young McMartins in Martintown Sunday schools. Now eligible ladies,—there is a challenge.

The United Church will meet Monday, Oct. 7, to discuss winter union with the Presbyterians.

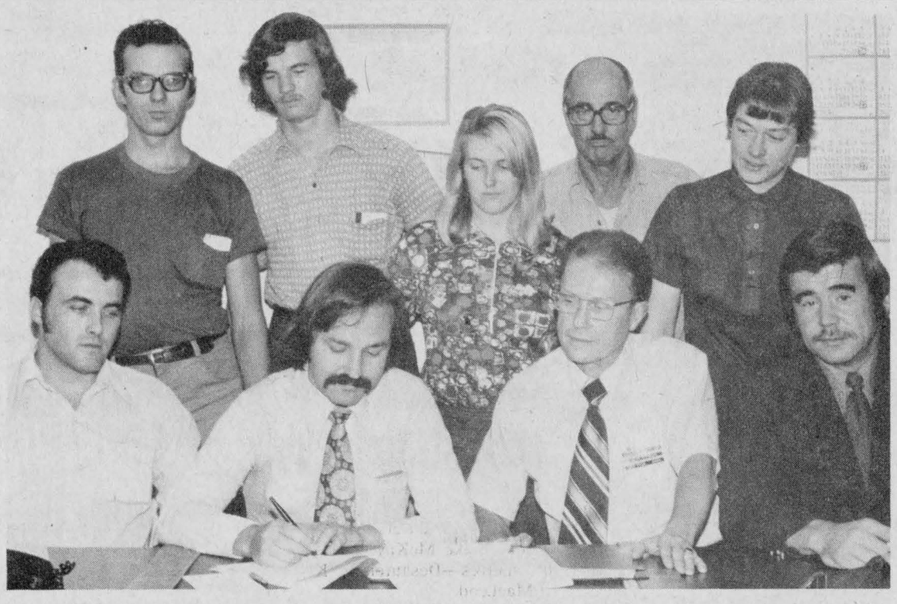
Miss Lucy McPhee is teaching in the largest classroom in Glengarry, Dundas and Stormont. Her class takes place in the public school gymnasium, while awaiting the new portable classroom. Children's dancing takes place in the gym on Friday afternoons, and on Monday nights the adults cavort around the desks, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Last Sunday was a day of visitors. Cousin Kent Burton arrived, and left with an old engine and rear vision mirror off our Ford station wagon. He couldn't understand why a Ford would have a mirror to see traffic behind, because soon enough it would be in front. My brother Douglas and his good looking friend Chris arrived from Ottawa. He is on one year language training and reported many interesting stories on government spending, none of which can be repeated even here in so liberal a newspaper, without danger of heart attack, fits of anger or hysteria amongst Scottish readers. Ralph and Sharon Westley visited also and Ralph reports a bumper crop of Warwick ensilage corn on his property east of Lancaster.

Allison Blatchly young daughter of John and Pat Blatchly in Glen Falloch (the old Pat Blackadder farm) is in hospital after a fall from her horse. She has cracked ribs and other injuries.

The Glengarry Ploughing match approacheth Oct. 9th on the Johnston farm just west of Bill River Road Johnston's farm.

Martintown Mac says in spite of rotten eggs, bad apples and frozen corn, keep up the existential struggle.



ALL IN AGREEMENT AT LAST—The summer strike at Consolidated Textiles a few weeks ago and the contract between union and management was formally signed last Wednesday at the plant. Left to right, front row: Marcel Dupelle, Union President Local 1664; Marcel Thibeault, Plant Manager of Square C; Peter Benn, Montreal, Vice-President of Manufacturing, Consolidated Textiles; Roy Collins, Business Agent, Greater Cornwall Textile Board. Counties . . .

contribution is Charlottenburgh, which pay 10.647 of the whole, a slight reduction from the 1973 levy of 10,842.

The township paying least is Finch, with 3.513 per cent of the entire amount of the levy, but the smallest contribution is that of the smaller villages. Finch with .530 per cent and Lancaster with .784 per cent.

The only town in the United Counties, Alexandria, will pay 7.316 of the levy. Morrisburg has 5.675; Winchester 3.898, Chesterville 3.055. Maxville pays 1.188 per cent.

Adrian Gadbois, reeve of Charlottenburgh, has suggested that a program like SWEEP, hiring young students to cut weeds along the roads and highways, would be a constructive move.

Ontario ministry of communications noted in a letter to United Counties council that it was bringing its weed cutting operation eastward and weeds along Highways 401 and 2 would soon be cut.

Complaints of weeds along these roads, especially Canada thistle, have been numerous. J. C. Whitteker, chairman of finance, commented that the current cutting program, still going on, is too late to prevent wide reseeding of these weeds.

A large land assembly program in Edwardsburg Township just west of the United Counties, came in for questions and criticism at United Counties Council.

A land company has taken options on 10,000 to 12,000 acres there at $10 an acre for a six-month option to buy at $500 an acre, including some described as swamp.

Since the area is outside the United Counties and apparently a private enterprise, no action was taken, but that did not prevent speculation and objection.

Objection was based on the idea that such a large land assembly would lead to concentration of industrial development in that area, between Iroquois and Prescott, for the foreseeable future, and Adrian Gadbois, reeve of Charlottenburgh, described this as "undesirable" and other councillors agreed with him.

Gaels top league with close 7-6 victory over St. Lawrence High

by Angus H. McDonell

"The Saints Came Marching In", that is literally speaking, of course, as Saints is the label of the St. Lawrence high school football team of Cornwall. Last Friday in Ourtown, Gaels clipped the Saints' wings by a single point, 7—6, but this was enough to win the ball game, the second victory in a row, and take over first place in the S.D. & G. football league.

From a Cornwall viewpoint this was likely an upset win, however, it wasn't of a major status like the Vanier Vikings blanking the highly touted C.C.V.S. 14—0. The Warriors of Tagwi got three tds and plus to win over La Citadelle Patriots 23—18, while North Dundas headed Char-Lan, 17—12.

The Gaels-Saints game opened rather cautiously until the midway minutes, then the visitors were forced into a punting situation on their 40. Gaels front four and line backers roared through the defense kicking formation and blocked the kick. George Corput pounced on the ball giving Gaels good field position that they promptly took advantage of.

Normand Laliberte moved GDHS deeper with short passes and running plays to the Saints' 10. Then qb Laliberte sent Michel Rozon from his fullback slot through an opening created by his offensive line into the Saints end zone for a td. John Morris was true with the convert boot. Gaels carried this 7—0 lead right through until the first minute of the final quarter. Saints had worked their way well downfield and Myles Amelotte carried the mail the rest of the way for a Cornwall major. Instead of a convert try to even the score, Saints' coaches, Rick Plamondon and Bill Studniecki, called for the college play for two points, that is if you successfully pass or run the ball into the end zone. This would have given the visitors an 8—7 lead, however, Gaels' stout defense stopped the Saints on the one-yard line. This had to be the big play of the game as GDHS held on till the final flag, winning the squeaker 7—6 and first place in the standing.

An unfortunate accident occurred in this game just before half-time when Steve McPherson was carried off and taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital with a fractured collar-bone. Gaels fine young defensive halfback, playing his first year, leaped high to knock down a Saints' pass from the finger tips of their receiver. Both players fell to the turf, McPherson first, breaking his collarbone for the second time as he met with a similar accident when in grade eight. Steve is a brother of former Gaels and St. F.X. University great, Burns McPherson, and a grandson of a one-time Glengarry noted athlete, Steve "Sam the Widow" MacDonald.

Another unfortunate accident took place in Cornwall when C.C.V.S. fullback star Dave Anderson fractured a leg in the game against Vanier Vikings. Add Floyd Emberg of Moose Creek, with Tagwi, and three players have been sidelined for the season. The trio will be missed by their respective teams.

Tagwi Warriors broke through the Citadelle lines to scalp the Patriots in Cornwall 23—18. That placed the Bond-Julien crew, along with Vanier, right behind Gaels in the standing.

At half-time Tagwi had 15 points on the board via two td's, a conversion (two points) and a convert while they held the Patriots to a major six. Only for an illegal substitution, at the end of the half, the Cornwall students could have been nudging Tagwi as the Patriots scored their second td. But it was called back due to the infraction.

St. Andrew's big Doug Smith scored his second touchdown of the young season for Tagwi while Howard McCourt and Adrian Lariviere also posted majors for the Warriors. Monkland's Brian Kinnear fired conversion points while McCourt was good on the convert try to round out Tagwi's total of 23. Denis Martel, Denis Couriveau and Peter Diguer all went over for Patriot majors, 18.

Char-Lan, held scoreless in their opener with Gaels, came up with an improved offense to score two uncoverted touchdowns in their game with North Dundas. But the home team counted five more points than Williamstown to edge Rick Forrester's students 17—12.

There will be a double bill in Cornwall today, Thursday, as North Dundas move into the CCVS gridiron on Fourth Street while the Saints and the Patriots do battle in the other half. On Friday, tomorrow, the highlight of this early schedule will be played at Tagwi as the Warriors host Gaels. Tagwi is an enlarged and reinforced version of the old Maxville Indians thus ensuring even greater interest and rivalry that was always predominant. In Williamstown, Char-Lan will be gunning for their first win as they take on the Vanier Vikings.

Must register

Officials of Alexandria District Minor Hockey Association inform us they cannot make plans until all the registrations are in and at least another hundred are expected to register.

Gaels on the Warpath

The 74-75 season at G.D.H.S. is unfolding into a winner. So far, none of our teams has suffered a loss, and hopes are understandably high for all. We have good reason to be proud this year, as we are but newcomers in the Cornwall league.

School spirit was at its peak on the afternoon of Friday, the 27th, when the Cheerleaders put on a dazzling performance onstage during the Pep Rally, which was viewed in advance of the first home football game of the season. It was a clear, sunny day as the crowd cheered the Gaels on to a tight 7—6 win over SLHS. The touchdown was scored by Michel Rozon. John Morris kicking the single.

The boys' soccer team also defeated their opponents, although by a wider margin. Tuesday of last week they overpowered CCVS for a 4—0 win. John MacPherson played a solid game, scoring two of the goals.

The girls' soccer team has not played a game as yet, but they are preparing for a tournament on Saturday, Oct. 5th, at GDHS, with four schools participating. We wish our girls luck.

The Senior and Junior Girls' basketball teams are also showing their power by winning their respective games against the visiting La Citadelle teams on Thursday. The Seniors put on a super display of talent as they won their game with a score of 77—19. Diane Brown was the star of the game, being the top offensive scorer. For the Juniors, the game was close as they rallied to a tough 32—30 win. Colleen Cameron was the team's high scorer.

Our field day, held on Wednesday last, was blessed with good weather for most of the day, although a few events could not be completed due to rain, and had to continue the next day. We had our share of champions, however, with 29 new records being set. The individuals who collected the greatest amount of points were: Midget Girls: Deanie Bourgeois and Boys, Terry Epp; Junior Girls, Betty Lacombe and Boys, John Charlebois, Yvan Desautels and Bob Caley; Senior Girls, Joan Nixon and Louyse Poirier, and Boys, John Malkin. These students deserve a great deal of credit for their efforts.

The Students' Council is moving along smoothly, events falling into place as planned. Spirit Week, plus the first dance, were undeniable successes. The Chololate Bar drive will officially begin this week, and the students are counting on everyone's support.

This year at GDHS the noon hours are a full 50 minutes. Therefore there has been an Intramural Sports System set up by various teachers and students. There have been four students elected as co-ordinators for these activities, these being: Mary MacPherson, Linda McLeod, Stewart Dewar and Norman Laliberte. Currently flag football is being organized at the noon hour.

Driver caught second time

A young area driver who already spent six months in jail for driving while his licence was suspended faces another similar charge.

Constable Levert was patrolling at 2:30 Friday morning when he observed a car driven by a person he knew to be under suspension. The car took off at high speed, reports the constable, and went through two stop signs before heading east toward Glen Robertson.

The youth will be charged with dangerous driving and driving while under suspension.

Sister Laurin addresses the F.F.C.F.

Woman has a very definite role to play in the world today, Sister Marcella Laurin told members of the Federation des Femmes Canadiennes Francaises, at their Regional Congress held on Sunday. "To do this, women must develop their feminine qualities and apply them to their particular use in the home, in the church and in society."

"To accomplish this mission, she must be guided by the spirit of the gospel, to work on an equal footing with man in society, not as his competitor but as his complement", she advised.

Sister Marcella was the guest speaker at the banquet which was held in Green Valley Pavilion following the afternoon session in Sacred Heart Parish Hall.

Present were delegates from Sacred Heart Parish, and from Nativity, St. Francis de Sales, St. Felix and Holy Cross in Cornwall.

The National President, Mrs. Alfred Martin and Regional President, Mrs. Dora Ranger, now of Cornwall, as well as the delegates were welcomed by the local president, Mrs. Lucille Desjardins. Workshops were held throughout the afternoon on the development of women's role in the home, in church and in society.

Mrs. Ranger was presented with a sheaf of long stemmed roses in recognition of her 20 years of service to the FFCF. She had been previously honored at the National Congress of the FFCF for her contribution over the years.

The same slate of officers were returned to Regional Office: Mrs. Dora Ranger, pres.; Mrs. Pauline Fournier, vice-pres.; Mrs. Archie Champagne, Treas. and Mrs. Lucienne Pregent, secretary.

Bishop LaRocque concelebrated mass with Father Raoul Poirier and Father Raymond Dumoulin.

Needs of...

Tomita and Mrs. Judy Anderson told of the success of the project in Cornwall.

The Children's Aid Society is available for advice to parents who may feel inadequate to cope, reported Tom O'Brien from CAS and David Devlin, the Chief Protection Officer. Glengarry provides most of the foster homes for this area, they reported, but there is still a shortage of foster homes for teenagers. The greatest need at this time is preventive education to parents.

Jean Paul Touchette and Eugene Bergeron were asked by the Inter Agency group last spring to look into the possibilities of getting a Canada Manpower and Unemployment Insurance office in Alexandria a couple of days a week. All the research has been done in this area, they reported and they have requested Denis Ethier, M.P., to present a formal request for this facility here.

Parents are letting their children down by not taking a stand on major issues and not screening out stimuli acting heavily upon them, such as beer advertising etc., felt P. T. Lloyd, principal of GDHS. There is a great difference in attitude between the children entering high school today and those of a few years ago, he observed, today's student is not so willing to accept discipline.

There is a need in the county for a centre which would provide physical therapy and speech therapy for children up to age 19, reported Miss Joy Edwards of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The Lions provide transportation and braces, crutches, etc., and the Society provides drugs and equipment for children suffering from cystic fibrosis.

Miss Evelyn McColl of the local public health nursing corps told of the unit's work in schools and in the community where they handle a great many referrals from doctors and organizations.

Social Worker at the Alexandria and Cornwall hospitals, Richard Bough discussed the role of social worker in this capacity. So many situations come up that are not medical, a patient must be discharged and a nursing home must be found; a patient is sent home in a wheel chair and there are no ramps at his house or apartment, mothers must take over as breadwinners when the father dies; the list is endless.

Mark Charron, District Director of the Community and Social Services Department spoke on vocation rehabilitation and the provision for training, counselling and financial assistance to the over 18 group who are physically or mentally handicapped and must be replaced in the labor market.

Special assistance may be available to some people who are not on welfare but need help through a crisis, reported Ed Thompson, Director of the United Counties Social Services. This may be for eye-glasses, drugs, funerals, moving, or a continuing need that budgets just won't cover, he advised. This department may recommend the VON, Homemakers, Bureau Services, etc. The provision of acceptable housing in the area is the greatest immediate need, he reported.

Pierre Groulx, field worker supervisor discussed family benefits, pensions to the disabled, blind and aged.

Lunch was provided by the ladies of the Church on the Hill and the session lasted throughout the day.

levels of drinking and that not all excessive drinkers are alcoholics, he said "alcoholism is a very broad term that is meaningless unless it is broken down."

Although all three speakers agreed alcohol becomes a problem when it begins to control the person, destroying his physical, emotional and social life, Miss Conliffe said family breakup in some situations is good.

"Sometimes it may be the jolt the alcoholic needs to bring him to his senses."

But she was also critical of employers who, upon discovering an employee is alcoholic after 25 years service, simply dismiss the person without giving them a chance to change.

During a lively question period the attitude of Canadians towards drinking came under fire.

Mr. Burns said Canadians have a tendency to drink for the sake of drinking instead of as only one part of a social outing.

Mrs. Lydia Glover, Williamstown, and an Austrian by birth, said there is less emphasis put on drinking in Austria and therefore it is less of a problem.

She also said the system of buying alcohol is all wrong in Canada, pointing to the now defunct system of giving name and address, making the buyer "feel like a criminal."

She said in other countries alcohol can be bought in many places other than liquor stores and that children are often sent out to purchase alcohol for parents. She suggested this fosters a healthier attitude towards alcohol.

Miss Conliffe insisted the entertainment value and social values put on alcohol must be de-emphasized. She said it must become socially acceptable for a hostess to offer tea instead of alcohol.

Parents attitudes towards drinking have the greatest influence on whether or not their children drink, according to Joy Pecore, 16, of Summerstown.

She was one of three Grade 12 students from Char-Lan High School who were members of a panel.

"I believe that a parent's views on alcohol influence 99.9 per cent of a child's decision about whether or not to drink."

She said it is better that a child learn to respect a drink in the home rather than go out to a bar. If parents prohibit drinking then "kids go hog wild," she said.

Angela Major, 17, Williamstown, said peer pressure exerted in the schools plays as great a role in whether a teenager drinks or not. She also criticizes television commercials as contributing to drinking among teenagers.

"They make it really look good, but they don't ever show what it really does."

Karen McDougall, 17, Williamstown, told the crowd of about 40 persons the drinking age is unimportant and there will always be a few who will drink underage.

She approved a control situation for drinking under 18 in which the parents set the example.

Social worker William Burns said he is opposed to the decision to lower the drinking age, saying giving teenagers a drink is "a bad thing."

He said while teenagers today may be better educated and intelligent, he felt they are not mature enough to handle drink.

Dr. Michael Cox, said sheltered homes are the worst for causing what he termed "tear-aways."

He said in a home where there is no alcohol the parents have an increased responsibility to see that the child is exposed to the dangers and pleasures of alcohol and are not left to cope with peer pressure unprepared.

He said the best home environment is one in which alcohol is used in moderation adding the children of alcoholics are more likely to become alcoholics.

Dr. Cox said peer pressure on teenagers to act in groups worries him adding it is hard for a teetotaller to mix with a group and bear any influence on it.

Margaret Conliffe, executive director of Cornwall Family Service Bureau, said often it is the inablility of the young to live up to parental expectations that drives them to drink.

She said it will be the same until something is done to change society and the education system..

"We must let people achieve within their potential."

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

There was a time when Glengarry's summer sport schedule closed with the final soccer championship game and the Alexandria Lacrosse Club staging an Armouries' dance, two bucks a couple, to pay off the season's lacrosse debts. A noted orchestra was always brought in for this social highlight. Remember Hawiai's Ben Hokea and his famed band and of course Green Valley's grandson the violin maestro of a fine Cornwall band, Larry Adair. Among those giving Larry's troupe a top class rating was Ourtown's Gerry Dextras' dad at the piano and Maurice Gauthier fingering the sax.

How times have changed. In contrast this year there were all summer sports from croquet to golf, except lacrosse. And then came the climax, first Loch Garry's regatta and this Sunday the second staging of the Ontario Dressage championship at Centennial Farm, "Little Third" of Kenyon, the home of our neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. David Whitham.

In other columns you have been briefed on much detail of this entertaining event that deserves patronage from sport fans in the Glens that will convince you that horses still play an important part in our time although they no longer draw a plow, a milk or bread wagon.

To motor to the site, the Whitham home, from Alexandria travel west on 43 to Tommy Taylor's stone house corner, The MacMillan road, then north to the first intersection and west to Whithams. Should you be driving east on 43 then turn north at the Dornie Road to the first intersection and then east. Easy to locate.

Lloyd Kennedy tells us he has been assisting the Whithams ready the three rings and getting the entire grounds in tip top shape for the large entries in each event. Horses and their grooms are expected to start arriving on Friday. Let us hope for fine weather to prevail and we hope to see you there.

Hither and Yon:

On our way to visit relatives and the Grape Festival entertainments in St. Catharines last weekend we called at the International Plowing match in Georgetown . . . . A Highland Games crowd . . . saw three old steamer tractors, one engine with the brass polished like an old locomotive . . those eight-furrow plows are really something but the most applause was given the eight-horse hitch drawing the Carlsberg Brewery wagon . . got quite a chuckle leaving the grounds . . . stopped and asked a traffic guide, obviously a local, how to get to the Queen E . . . turn here and go back then left and you are away, he instructed . . . we started right to get enough room to turn. . . "Whoa, haw", he boomed . . . Wife Bea was startled as I made a left turn and she asked, "What did he mean?" "Well, he thought I was crowding the horse in the furrow and was telling me to pull left in horse language.

Driving through Brampton a flashback lacrosse thought struck us . . . Alexandria was to play here for the Ontario Championship some years ago and had to bow out due to lack of money . . . Albert Laporte can likely tell you more of this than I can . . . Met up with Ernie (Beamsville) Brunet and his gracious wife Shirley . . . ditto Burns and Pam McPherson and their cute little chick Jennifer . . . Looked for Don Fosberg near Grimsby but learned old friend Don is with OPP in the Kenora area.

Nephew Archie MacDonell busy at the grape harvest when not doing chores for Ma Bell . . . Quite a race, growing that is, between the MacDonell Joann and the McPherson Jennifer. Grape festival parade interesting and attractive . . . sorry we didn't see and hear St. Catharines MacFarlane champion pipe band . . . missed the John A. O'Connors who were in Toronto attending the last rite of two fatal accident victims of the Carleton Show Band . . . personal friends . . . got a glimpse of Punch Imlach driving away from St. Kitt's arena . . . his car was slightly shorter than a Turbo train coach . . . they will never hold a tag day for Imlach . . . Saw where John Wensink scored for NHL St. Louis in a Blues exhibition game . . . CFL owners getting little sympathy for requiring a leg and an arm of London for a franchise . . . on the basis of last week's western swing of Als and Ticats, Bob Simpson can get the Grey Cup crate ready for western shipment . . we thought we noted the first crack in the Alouette team togetherness when, says the Montreal Star, the ordinary superstar, Johnny R., apologized for playing a poor game in the Peg . . . Mike Widger, defensive captain, reminded JR that football is a team game and no individual could be blamed for the loss, "WE got beat collectively, not individually", said Mike . . . how right you are Mike.

OMEA objects recommendations of Ontario Energy Board

A $28 million deficit built up by industrial and rural retail customers of Ontario Hydro could be transferred unfairly to customers of municipal electric utilities, if the provincial government accepts recommendations by the Ontario Energy Board. Those responsible for incurring the debt should also be responsible for paying it off, says the Ontario Municipal Electric Association (OMEA) in a statement of position regarding the Board's recent report.

The Board has recommended that consideration of recovery of the deficit in Power District Accounts be postponed until 1976. The OMEA says this recommendation should be ignored by Energy Minister Darcy McKeough because it suggests permanent postponement of consideration of the debt, and is tantamount to writing it off completely.

Recovery of the deficit should be undertaken immediately, because any deferral and subsequent write-off would be simply transferring the obligations of the Power District to the municipal utilities, says the OMEA.

"If this is not done, future deficits in these accounts will be treated in the same way, since precedent will have been established and the principle of power at cost will have been breached," notes the Association.

The OMEA represents about 350 municipal electric commissions which purchase electrical power at cost from Ontario Hydro and distribute it without profit to more than two million consumers. The municipal utilities pay their entire wholesale cost to Ontario Hydro annually, thus avoiding deficits such as those incurred since 1967 by the Power District.

(The Power District is a group of electrical customers, industrial and rural retail, served directly by Ontario Hydro.)

Another aspect of the Energy Board's report of concern to the OMEA is the Board's recommended reduction of Ontario Hydro's generation reserve margin by five per cent to bring it into line with the North American average.

"The suggested reduction is particularly inappropriate at a time when many, if not most, of the large U.S. electrical utilities are in straitened financial and capacity conditions," says the Association.

It would be folly to ignore Ontario Hydro's recommendations that the current generation reserve margin of about 30 per cent should be maintained, warns the OMEA.

The Association statement observes that "reserve margins should not be determined as some arbitrary percentage". It adds that "the percentage figure should be the result of calculations based on system characteristics, type of generation, outage rates and probability estimates of required system reliability, as Ontario Hydro has been doing since 1968."

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

A rink in a swamp?

We are taken to task in a letter to the editor for not being in favor of a new arena. Mr. Leroux would have been closer to the truth if he had suggested we do not like the approach that has been taken by the rink committee and town council.

There has been no responsible attempt to inform Alexandria citizens as to the type of facility being planned or the amount of the cost that would have to be financed by taxes. Members of council don't seem to know and that amount of $600,000 they approved for an arena could be a ceiling on total costs or the taxpayers' share of the arena cost, so vaguely is its motion worded.

Estimates of available grants and donations were much too optimistic in the first presentation by the arena committee and there has been no evidence since that those working for a new arena have done any further homework. Instead they have been pressuring at the council level for blanket acceptance of the project and the intent appears to be to push it through before an election could conceivably change the complexion of council.

Building costs are escalating overnight and Cornwall finds costs of its proposed community centre complex have doubled to more than nine million dollars. Hawkesbury has postponed plans for a new recreation centre because of the prohibitive costs. This is not the time to rush into capital expenditures without a responsible study of costs and other factors.

We might not distrust the arena project if a more suitable site had been picked than the park and playground. The only park we possess should not be disfigured by a barn of a building, our park should not degenerate to a parking area. It seems utter folly to put a $600,000 arena in an area that is under water every spring, just at the time hockey play-offs would be demanding ice.

Let's have a new, responsible approach to this project for a new arena.

Activity at the grass roots

A walkathon is being held at Glen Sandfield next weekend to raise money for improving the new recreation field. It follows a like event at Dunvegan for the same purpose and there have been other fund-raising activities in small Glengarry centres to finance similar facilities.

Provincial and municipal grants are now available for recreation purposes and the federal government, appalled at the lack of physical fitness among Canadians, is encouraging wider participation in all forms of athletics through its promotion of "participaction".

These playing fields in the smaller centres suggest the message has filtered right down to the grass roots and these facilities for recreation should be a health-giving asset, particularly for the young folk.

They could prove good medicine, too, for adult residents of these areas who have been witnessing with dismay the steady attrition of people from the smaller centres of rural Canada. Working together to promote a walkathon or other fund-raising event to improve local facilities they may rekindle feelings of community togetherness that have long been dormant. A new recreation field may be but the forerunner for other facilities the provision of which could generate a healthy community spirit.

Glengarry centres that have been slipping since the horse and buggy days may never again know the physical growth of that era. They could experience a new lease on life, though, by working together to improve local facilities.

Participaction may be a healthy activity in more than the physical sense.

Those beer commercials stink

Participaction is one of the programs being promoted by Federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde but the minister apparently has a lot more arrows in his quiver to train on unhealthy conditions in this country.

Mr. Lalonde took aim last week on the kind of commercial the beer barons have been pushing on television and it did our heart good to have them told off. Those beer commercials appear most often during football telecasts and that's about the only television we find time to watch.

Annoying, cloying, mind-destroying; you pick the word that most aptly describes that group of aging adolescents and their specious delight at the mere appearance of a bottle of beer. They're enjoying a yacht cruise, sunning themselves around a swimming pool, or the case of beer is the highlight of a fishing trip or house-building bee. The camp fire gleams on a beer bottle having its cap removed by an adult who seems to know his brands of beer and all those lean young things go into their happy song and dance.

We think it unhealthy because such spurious idolizing of a mere bottle of beer is enough to turn the stomach of anyone who has a proper appreciation of beer. It's a grand quencher of thirst, even though it can have a tendency to leave one even more thirsty. But when a young guy or doll makes like a bottle of brew is "sending" him you have to put it down to adolescent thinking on the part of the people who dreamed up or paid for that commercial.

It nauseates the adult viewer but it obviously is aimed at youngsters who go for sports telecasts and who have yet to experience the good things of life—like a bottle of beer. That is the aspect of these beer commercials that Mr. Lalonde is finding fault with. "It's the type of excessive pushing of beer drinking that is going on at the present time," he avers: "It suggests that the only way to have an enjoyable time is to drink, and to drink beer in particular."

Those hyped-up beer commercials certainly are not beamed at the guy who knows his brew so they must be meant for the kid who doesn't know the difference between suds and a soap opera. As such they are not an influence for good and we commend Health Minister Lalonde for telling the brewers to have their ads show "real people in real-life situations."

Now if we could clean up the political promises, we might be in a position to enjoy a beer after the next election.

It wouldn't work

A by-election is being held in Stormont provincial riding October 17th to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fern Guindon. And many of the voters may find themselves in difficulties when they reach the polls.

The voters' lists are all screwed up, it seems, with the names of many voters missing entirely and others listed in polls miles from their home ward. Returning Officer Michael Salhany of Cornwall, acknowledged last weekend that the lists were "in such a mess" and he explained how this situation came about.

As an experiment in enumeration in order to eventually come up with a permanent voters' list, it was decided that enumerators would use information supplied by the provincial assessment office in Ottawa. The computers goofed, though. "Somebody pressed the wrong button," the returning officer explained.

Computers can be only as accurate as the information fed into them and we have considerable distrust of these mechanical brains as a result of minor foul-ups we have encountered in our business dealings. Computerized accounts can be wrong and it does take patience and perseverence to win an argument with a computer.

We don't fancy the thought of anything as important as information an assessments being dependant on the accuracy of some computer programmer and we are even more doubtful that a permanent voters' list will be an improvement on the present constituency lists.

We have first hand knowledge that the present method of compiling voters' lists is far from perfect, but turning the job over to government flunkeys on a permanent basis would, we believe, make for real chaos at the polls come election time.

Canadians are much too mobile to be kept track of in bulk. Our mailing list numbers fewer than five thousand and we seem to be perpetually catching up with changes of address and correcting errors that have crept in. It would be impossible for any department of government to keep up to date on perhaps fifteen millions of voters.

But what a glorious means of empire-building for a Chief Elections Officer in Ottawa who is only called on to do a spot of work every four years or so. It would take umpteen computers and thousands more uncivil servants to try to keep a permanent voters' list up to date.

It wouldn't work; but then neither do most public servants.

Personal responsibility

(Canadian Champion, Bowmanville)

It is a tragedy that a long distance swimmer was lost in Lake Ontario after his following boat broke down and he, with his pacer, swam on. The protests that follow suggest there is legislation and regulation required to prevent such disasters. Why, we ask?

Surely we must soon learn that it is impossible to legislate common sense. It is impossible to legislate folly out of existence. It is impossible to impose regulations on man's every action and activity.

By trying, we set up one group that will seek to circumvent, and another that will declare the regulations or legislation inadequate.

Surely it is not old fashioned to suggest the need for personal responsibility. Even our own sometimes flimsy water safety rules are adequate enough for us to know that you never leave the boat and on a long distance swim that would seem doubly important. We had understood you should never swim alone, yet the two swimmers obviously became separated.

The outcry for legislation to govern lake swims is perhaps from frustration. An excited population roundly cheered the first conqueror of the lake this year, the next almost complete attempt took the edge off the excitement and the latest tragedy sees the once excited population now turning inward on its own emotions and emerging with a cry to stop by legislation.

NEW ARENA A MUST!

Alexandria

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

I refer to your editorial opinion with regards to the new proposed Arena for which the members of Town Council have voted $600,000.00 towards the construction of this building.

It is very obvious that you are not in favor of a new arena. It is also obvious that you were not present at the Town Council meeting because your statements are quite inaccurate. The town has voted an amount of $600,000 in order to construct a building worth that same amount and not one cent more; that is, it will be built as estimated.

As far as grants are concerned, the Town has already received a written letter from the Ministry of Treasury Economics and Governmental Affairs of the Province of Ontario confirming a $200,000 grant towards this project. Furthermore, The New Arena Fund Committee has pledges close to $70,000 from various industries and local business merchants and the Committee is hopeful in reaching $100,000 if the project is accepted by the Province. I would like to point out that it is very difficult to raise money whenever such a project has not been entirely approved. It is even more difficult to raise money whenever people in your position are capable of helping but, instead, do the contrary.

The New Arena Fund Committee has made several investigations into the matter. A new arena can be built at a cost of $600,000 and grants can be provided for more than $200,000. With help from the campaign drive and hopefully from the neighboring townships, we will be successful. Should any of the townships refuse to participate, I suggest they receive the same treatment for ice time.

Not that long ago when our golf course was first started, you,

WITH OUR RAMBLING REPORTER

MUSIC TO OUR EARS

It was music to our ears. Bells were ringing, birds were singing, we were practically dancing on the ceiling.

We were experiencing a warm feeling of well-being; and just because of a few kindly words dropped by an Ottawa reader as she renewed her subscription last week.

"I keep looking and looking," she gave it to us with a smile, "and I can't find a mistake in your paper".

Just a dozen or so words, they were; but so welcome they had us on Cloud Nine.

That's the goal publications keep striving for, but too seldom attain. The typographical error is harder to contain than a bull seeing red and it's been estimated there's room for something like a million mistakes in the production of a couple of pages of newsprint.

It takes good type-setting equipment, topnotch operators of those machines, capable proof reading and conscientious correction, to attain a degree of error-free printing that is acceptable.

We are far from totally free of errors but our staff seems to be measuring up. If so, at least part of the credit perhaps should go to that grinning moron and his message that have had a prominent place on our office wall for years.

The card bears the pointed reminder:

"We never make misteaks."

How come the Women's Libbers haven't yet got around to correcting that MIStake?

TWO UGLY WORDS

Just a couple of weeks ago we were mentioning a word that had caught our fancy—serendipity. We've since come across a couple that we're anything but enamored of—stagflation and, would you go for it, fiscalamity?

Pretty sad, aren't they? Two unhappy joinings of word parts that not only look and sound ugly, but carry intonations of evil.

Stagflation, it seems to us, was coined by USA economists in the Washington government who dare not use the word depression in describing economic conditions. It's supposed to describe a period of stagnant economic growth accompanied by high inflation.

In the past there have been times of stagnant growth without inflation and periods of inflation with rapid growth. But the bureaucrats seem to think "stagflation" fits the particular dilemma we're in now.

To us the word sounds like a German prisoner of war camp and we'd much prefer that government economists face up to the threat of recession, or even depression, and do something about it.

Fiscalamity is the name of a book written by one Donald Johnston, a professional adviser on taxation. Its full name, we gather, is "Fiscalamity: How to Survive Canada's Tax Jungle."

The word is sad, but so is the tax jungle Mr. Johnston writes about. We may just get around to reading his book in spite of the title.

"Stagflation" could be a "flag station" on the road to ruin.

WE'RE NOT AVERAGE

Figures can lie, and liars can figure. That's an old saying that's probably based on the fact statistics can be made to prove almost anything.

We don't put any stock in statistics, even when they bring the assurance that yours truly is, not average. Who'd want to be just average, anyway?

Seems Statistics Canada has put out a book called Perspective Canada that's designed to give Canadians a glimpse of the way they live. Its 321 pages contain a mass of charts and tables and we have our doubts any considerable number of Canadians will bother to even glimpse the book's cover.

It presents a picture of the statistically typical Canadian that has little in common with your Rambling Reporter except that he (or she) is overweight, and an urbanized Ontarion. Mr. Average being a member in good faith, were probably among those looking for donors and shareholders in order to make that project a reality. Today you can enjoy playing your 18 holes during the summer followed by a social time in the clubhouse. I realize the golf course was not built from tax money but it is still a recreational site in this area. Can you not in turn give the same assistance to our youth so they too can enjoy a good time?

A new arena in this town is a MUST!

OLD ARENA IS OBLOLETE

Alexandria

The editor
The Glengarry News

It was with a great deal of disappointment that I read your editorial in the last issue of the News regarding the proposed new Arena for Alexandria.

I feel I must speak out on behalf of the hundreds of young people who are very close to being deprived of a place to skate and play hockey.

I am sure you must realize the great influence the "News" has on the people of Glengarry and because of this, I feel you should have used more facts and less conjecture in your editorial. Admittedly the Committee that is working so hard for this Arena does not have all the answers yet but certainly neither do you.

The adults of this area have assured themselves of the finest recreation facilities to be found anywhere. Why then should we deny those people, who do not curl or golf or play tennis, decent facilities for their type of sport.

I know you will say that these places were financed by the people that use them and not by tax dollars. This is fine but do not forget that 80% of the people who use an arena are the young people of our area who have no way of raising money and who must depend on the community.

The old arena is obsolete. I am sure that after all the facts are known, the "Glengarry News" will be a leader in our campaign for a new one.

If our generation is going to abandon the needs and the welfare of our youth, then God help us.

MORE ON ARENA

The editor
The Glengarry News,

Read with amazement and surprise your editorial entitled "How much will it cost us?", amazement at inaccuracies in the article and surprise that our local editor would have such a detrimental viewpoint. You remark that the motion is "vague" but yet the editorial ends with "cost us a million", it would seem that before remarks like this would be printed, and also not having been at the meeting, you would have at least checked the motion which stipulates that the cost of the arena must not go higher than $600.000. I will agree with you that if the arena is not built now it could very likely cost us a million if put off much longer.

As to the wide public approval aspect it seem strange that there was not one dissenter at the meeting, possibly because the Canada—Russia series was of greater importance but yet there was a large contingent on hand who are in favor of a new arena.

It would certainly be wonderful to see us all pull and work together to make this new arena a reality which would benefit this community for years to come.

R. Epp.

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

I have read your article entitled "How much will it cost us?" and I was shocked and very surprised with the facts and figures which it contained.

I would strongly suggest that you personally investigate these facts and figures as your informer has certainly not given you the correct information.

It would then be interesting for your readers to find out the exact information as you will discover it.

PLEA FOR FARMERS

Glen Sandfield

The editor,
The Glengarry News

Your belief in sharing our country's agricultural products is held by too few of our nation's citizens who think in terms of self only. Yes indeed, our country is bountifully blessed with food potential. Oh that Canada would grasp the grand opportunity in world events of ending this century with a showing of man's humanity to man which has thus far been recorded as a display of man's inhumanity to man! However, the problem of producing and distributing food is a complex one. Our government could very easily become the grocery cart of the world at the prices it is allowing the farmer producing the stuff. It can afford to give away food when it is getting it at next to nothing prices. It readily bargains food products in the world market without any concern for the producer. Let our foreign affairs people start giving away trains of newsprint, bedding, tires, or wire and count the cost. Enough foodstuffs could be purchased by our government to keep several refugee camps and famine stricken villages alive for years at the same cost as one of our diplomatic tours (government paid holidays for smooth talking civil servants), or the campaign propaganda and booze parties of one of our elections.

No one gets upset by these wastes. Our news correspondents in foreign lands testify that Canadians get their food at bargain prices and that the high quality foods with which our people gorge themselves cannot even be found in most markets of Asia and Africa. Charity begins at home! But thanks to our city bred educators the majority of urbanites still consider a farmer to be someone you hold your nose for as he passes, someone to pity because of his social status, or a person qualified only for a slave shift of 12 to 16 hours per day because of his animal level I.Q.

Besides, if the government would give away foodstuffs who would you entrust with their distribution? Would you give the responsibility to the religious and political schemers of the day? They would only keep alive people who accepted their particular brand of beliefs. Economy and justice are poorly played games in our spoiled society.

Don't be too eager to heap condemnation on the newly formed marketing boards. They are dealing with perishable goods which cannot be stored or used to create shortages as the mighty corporate wholesalers —THE GODFATHERS in politics—of petroleum, steel, rubber, building supplies, etc. For some peculiar reason the public becomes distraught because the farmers would ever think of organizing themselves into associations and have meetings in order to demand a just price for their goods and labor. To some people it seems incredible that farmers would hire a few experienced businessmen to bargain for them, —farmers just don't deserve such rights. (Recall how the Farmer's March of '67 was spurned by the press and government representatives.) Of course it's perfectly alright for members of parliament, trade unions, business corporates, and school boards to pocket every cent of the government and even put it into debt.

Farmers are fed up, fed up, fed up, with the crumbs from the cabinets' tables. They want the same platters of consideration being served only to professionals, parliamentary reps, skilled tradesmen, and line-ups of slothful able bodied men at Manpower Centers. The marketing boards have just begun to exact justice for agricultural producers.

Ignorance also condemns the farmer producer for the turmoil of our country's economy. Are people envious of the two previous years of near complete loss experienced by farmers? Meanwhile, each week takes its toll of farms forced out of production because of soaring prices of equipment and scarcity of laborers at wages farmers can afford. In spite of the desperate pleas of farmers struggling to exist, and regardless of the expensive consumer education programs the public wishes to remain ignorant and indifferent to the true value of things.

Individuals readily throw dollars away on unnecessary, ornate, harmful products—JUNK—and pinch pennies for and complain about the prices of health foods necessary for survival. To be more explicit, a week's purchases of a typical Canadian family of four persons may be placed into two lists as given below.

List A. Non-essentials, (except for commercial, hypnotized non-thinkers). Coffee, tea, cocoa, (or a 26 oz of alcohol), $6.00; a case of beer, (or 8 packs of cigarets, or Aspirin, Enos, and Ex-Lax), $6.00; 3 cartons of Coke, (or toiletries and cleansers), $4.00; candy, chips, pastries, $5.00; long distance calls, (or L.P. album), $4.00; family outing to football game, banquet, or concert, (or sports equipment), $25.00. Total, $50.00.

List B. Essential health foods. 10 quarts of milk, $4.00; 3 doz. eggs, $2.50; 9 loaves of bread, flour and whole wheat cereal, $6.50; 2.5 lbs of butter, $2.00; sugar and honey or syrup, $5.00; vegetables, fruit, $6.00; meat (roasts, fish, chicken, steak), $24.00. Total, $50.00.

"Man shall not live by bread alone" —How true— but by faith, hope, charity, etc, which means consumer wisdom and government fairness towards producers. Farmers have long cried out for these and are just beginning to be heard.

Their eldest child, a daughter, died in infancy.

Increase in minimum wage is announced

A minimum wage of $2.25 an hour for employees in general industry has become effective throughout Ontario, October 1. The rate of $2.00 became effective January 1, 1974.

The minumum rate applies to all employees except students under the age of 18. The student rate will be $1.90 an hour.

The minimum rate for construction employees increases from $2.25 to $2.50. Guards on construction sites will receive the same rate.

The purpose of the minimum wage is to give workers whose bargaining power is limited a measure of protection against exploitation. This is the second increase in the minimum wage this year and the minimum wage will be continually under review. Other changes effective October 1.

Domestics and homemakers employed by agencies will now be entitled to coverage under all provisions of the Employment Standards Act. Domestics employed by a householder to work in the householder's home will still be exempt from provisions of the Act.

As well, the minimum wage and vacation pay provisions of the Act will apply to embalmers and funeral directors. Changes effective January 1, 1975.

Overtime pay of 1½ times the regular rate will apply after 44 hours of work. Up to January 1, 1975, the rate applies after 48 hours.

Three additional paid holidays will be added, New Year's Day, Thanksgiving Day and Victoria Day, bringing the total to seven statutory holidays with pay. The other four holidays are: Good Friday, Labor Day, Dominion Day and Christmas Day.

THE EFFECT OF SEPT. 22nd FROST ON CORN DEVELOPMENT

Contrary to common opinion in North America, the recent frosts are unlikely to have stopped the development of immature corn plants. Any temperature below 32 will kill the leaves of corn, but significantly lower temperatures are required to kill the rest of the plant. Progressively lower temperatures (and lengths of exposure to these temperatures) are required to kill the upper stalk, lower stalk, and finally the ear of the plant. If only the leaves of the plant are frozen, the plants will continue to move sugars out of the stalk and into the grain for another 2 to 3 weeks. A similar phenomenon will occur if only the upper stalk is frozen as most sugars are stored in the lower stalk. Ear development can only be stopped completely if both the lower stalk and the ear are frozen.

A check of several fields in the Guelph area this week has shown that the frosts of this week were severe enough to freeze leaves and upper stalk, but not the rest of the plant. Temperatures reached 25—26 F on both September 23 and 24 at Guelph and we would expect the following to happen to immature grain and silage corn over the next 2 to 3 weeks.

GRAIN

Kernels will continue to develop for much of this period using stored stalk sugars. I would expect many fields to put on another 10 to 20 bushels per acre during this period. The fields will not yield as much as without the frost, but no one should panic and harvest them before all kernels show black layers sometime in early-to-mid-October.

Lodging may be severe. Resistance to stalk rot can be related to sugar levels in the lower stalk and, because of reduced sugar concentrations, stalk rot damage will be higher than normal. As a result, harvesting should not be delayed unnecessarily.

In general, we would expect a pattern similar to 1965 when the first frost came on August 30. Our plots put on an additional 20—40 bu/acre after the frost, but by mid-October we had over 95% lodging.

SILAGE

Because of respiration losses, total plant dry matter yield will drop steadily with time. A lot of water was lost from frozen leaves and upper stalks during the day immediately after the frost and, because of husk-death, the rest of the plant will dry more rapidly than normal. With unfrozen plants, 65% whole-plant moisture corresponds approximately to 45% grain moisture; with frozen plants, I would expect the corresponding grain moisture content to be closer to 50%. This corresponds to a stage when the kernels are dented and not juicy in the upper (outer) part of the kernel, but are still quite juicy below. Silage should be harvested as early as possible to avoid excessive respiration losses, but not so early as to cause seepage. The corn will dry down more quickly after the frost, but not instantly.

On a dry matter basis, corn silage from immature frozen corn should be just as digestible and valuable for feeding as "normal" silage from more mature corn; provided the immature corn is ensiled at a moisture content below 70%, animal dry matter intake will be satisfactory. As a result, we would suggest that farmers with well-advanced corn, who had planned to ensile their crop, might consider filling their silos with immature corn from a neighbor and keeping their own crop for grain. Both parties, and the province, could gain financially.

Ontario civil servants set stage for first strike action

More than 400 delegates at a wage demand setting meeting set the stage for the first strike action in the Ontario civil service if bargaining between the provincial government and 20,000 workers in the Civil Service Association of Ontario is not completed by December 31st.

The delegates, representing the province's operational workers, voted their endorsement when Charles Darrow, President of the 60,000 member government employee's union, told them:

"We're here to talk a bargain, but if there is no bargain by December 31st, if there is no acceptable contract settlement, then we don't work. This is the decision facing our membership."

The operational services category employees decided to ask for a 61.5 per cent wage increase over a one-year contract.

This is based in part on a 36.7 per cent adjustment that would put public employees on the same current wage level as employees in the private sector of the economy.

The employees are further asking for 16.75 per cent after 4.3 per cent compensation for real income lost over the last 18 months and 3.75 per cent increase as an inflation protection clause for the first three months of 1975.

For the remaining nine months of 1975, the union is asking that at the end of each three-month quarter there will be a percentage increase calculated on the Consumer Price Index. This percentage will be applied to every employee's total earnings in that quarter and a lump sum payment will be made.

The employees are also demanding that there will be only one rate of pay for the same job and that there will be a reduction in the number of steps to the maximum job rate.

The operational services category is the biggest bargaining unit in the civil service. Its members include traffic patrolmen, construction safety officers, snow plow operators, food inspectors, correctional officers, elevator inspectors, hospital attendants, psychiatric nursing assistants, skilled tradesmen, and people in many other occupations.

"We will meet with our employer, compare research data, argue our case, push and parry in the give and take of ordinary bargaining", Mr. Darrow said. "But when we get down to the end of the road, if there is no acceptable settlement, we won't work."

Mr. Darrow reminded the delegates at the meeting at the Four Seasons Sheraton Hotel that there has never been a major strike of Ontario government employees and that such a strike would be illegal under CECBA (the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act).

"But we have a hard bargain to drive over these next few months and if it takes a strike to drive it, we will be ready," he said.

He accused the government of holding nearly all the cards in a stacked deck. "And if you don't like the deal he offers you, then he plays the joker, compulsory arbitration."

Mr. Darrow said the union has resolved never again to take its case before an arbitration board that is made up of three people, one chosen by the union, the other two by the government.

". . . you don't need to use your imagination, you need only use your memory. We've been there before. We know what kind of deal we can expect from this stacked deck. We've had it."

Mr. Darrow told the delegates that the union and all its resources stand ready to back the members all the way.

"This is the last year ever for compulsory arbitration," he said. "This is the end of CECBA. This is the beginning of free collective bargaining for all Ontario government employees."
