Apple Hill-Born Pierre Guindon's Kicking Has Him Near Scoring Top

Winnipeg Blue Bombers are something of a weak sister in the Western Conference of the Canadian Football League but their games are followed with special interest this year in Glengarry.

Their field goal kicker happens to be Apple Hill-born Pierre Guindon, a son of Hon. Fern Guindon and Mrs. Guindon, now of Cornwall. And Pierre is doing his bit in a team effort that falls short in other respects.

Last week's scoring statistics for the Western Conference had him tied for sixth place, at 24 points, with Calgary's pass-catching Terry Evanshen and Herman Harrison. Guindon had converted 8 touchdowns and kicked five field goals and a single to outscore his teammates and consolidate his place on the Bomber team.

At 21, Pierre is the youngest player on the Winnipeg squad. But the six-foot 228-pounder acts as confident as a 10-year veteran. Though on the team's taxi squad, he has proven his competence as a field goal kicker and they have him at defensive tackle behind Ted Collins.

Pierre was Winnipeg's number one college draft choice after playing with Cornwall Classical College and for two years with Ottawa University. He is attending law school in Winnipeg while playing professional football with the Bombers.

Glengarry football fans in preschedule games had the prospect of seeing two natives of this county in place-kicking roles in the Canadian Football League.

Stanley MacMillan, a son of Mrs. Doreen MacMillan of Alexandria, who learned his booting with Lochiel in the Glengarry Soccer League, was a promising rookie with Montreal Alouettes. At 155 pounds, Stan wasn't heavy enough to do double duty with the Als but they found his kicking satisfactory. He is now getting some seasoning with the St. Mary's team at Halifax where he is attending college.

A younger brother, Ivan MacMillan, a student at GDHS is doing the place-kicking with a Montreal intermediate team.

Meet To Discuss Plans For Clinic

Area veterinarians have made little progress in plans to erect a large animals clinic here, reports Dr. H. K. Abbey of Lancaster. Plans are still in the fluid state, he informs and a meeting of veterinarians from Glengarry, Prescott and Stormont is to be held in the Curling Club here. next Wednesday night at 8.30 p.m. Area agricultural representatives and interested farmers from each county will be present to discuss ways and means of locating a clinic in this area.

Dr. Ralph Fish of Perth and Dr. Gordon Bennett of Avonmore will present a brief to the convention of the Central Canada Veterinary Association meeting in Cornwall this weekend. It will suggest financial help be extended in erecting the area clinic as a pilot project.

Curlers Insulating Playing Area

Alexandria Curling Club members should be less subject to the cold and playing the roarin' game in more cosy quarters as the result of extensive improvements to the play area now underway.

The inside walls of the rink have been insulated and a new insulated ceiling at a height of 12 feet above the ice surface is being installed to cut off sight of the untidy interior roof supports.

A complete new system of fluorescent lighting will run from end to end and the entire interior will get a new coat of paint.

Donat Boisvenue has the contract.

Club President Keith MacMillan reports the ice machine will be turned on Oct. 12th. An "Open House" will be held the first week of November culminating Nov. 9th in a big bean supper to be catered to by the men.

Not Seriously Hurt

Louise Lanthier, 6, escaped with minor injuries, yesterday, when struck by a car on Ottawa Street. The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lanthier is reported to have darted into the street from behind a parked truck. Amedee Gareau, 24, of Green Valley, was driving at moderate speed reports Chief Cleroux.

The child was treated at Glengarry Memorial Hospital and released.

Antique Show And Sale Attracted Dealers And Collectors To Area

The antique show and sale sponsored by the Glengarry Historical Society drew many visitors to the county on Wednesday and Thursday and promoted a greater appreciation of antiques among local residents as they attended the event at the Bonnie Glen. Many of the items on display can be seen in almost any of the old homes in Glengarry with the owners unaware of their value.

Antique dealers from Pointe au Chene, Montreal, Pointe Claire and Kingston had rented concession booths and had a great variety of items on display, dishes and glassware being the most popular items.

Three artists now resident in Glengarry and one artist from Montreal had several of their paintings on display, featuring mostly scenes of Glengarry. William H. Wright of the Moose Head Inn, Lancaster, Douglas Fales of Montreal, who has a home at Dornie, and Mrs. Alojzy Kowalski of Greenfield, captured the appreciation of many spectators as also did Mrs. Dora Lee of Montreal, who had a wide selection of knife paintings.

Dr. MacKay, president of the Historical Society of Ottawa, and several members of that association were here on Wednesday. Other registrations were from Montreal, Vermont, Brownsburg, Cornwall, Hudson Heights, Brockville, Buckingham and Kingston.

The show continues until 6 o'clock tonight.

Interim Committee Named To Effect Change To Counties Separate School Board

A 12-member county board to administer all separate schools in the United Counties and Cornwall will be elected in December and will take over, Jan. 1st, the administration now in the hands of 35 separate school boards throughout the area.

The 12-member board will have eight from Cornwall and four from the three counties, the basis being the assessed value of property on which separate school taxes are paid.

Alexandria, Maxville, Kenyon Township and Osnabruck will elect one trustee to the new board. Lochiel, Lancaster Township and Village will have one representative; Charlottenburgh and Cornwall Townships will elect a third and the fourth will represent all the other municipalities outside Cornwall.

Col. J. P. Donihee of Cornwall, chairman of the Cornwall Separate School Board, was elected chairman of the interim committee of six which will oversee the election of trustees and prepare an inventory of all board policies, personnel, programs, services and facilities in the various schools of the area.

Raymond Rochon, secretary-treasurer of Alexandria Separate School Board, will serve as vice-chairman of the interim committee which was named at a meeting last week in the high school here. C. J. Lamarche, superintendent of Cornwall Separate School Board, will be secretary of the committee.

Other members are:

John A. McLeod, Glen Nevis; Pat Beavers, Morrisburg; Alban Legault, Crysler and Remi Lortie, Glen Robertson.

The 12-member board to administer separate schools in the counties and Cornwall will be entirely independent of the separate school representatives to be elected to the new counties public school board. The latter will be concerned with secondary school administration.

Dr. Roman To Have New Office

Dr. Laszlo Roman is erecting a new office building in rear of his St. George St. home. The 23x25 foot building will be finished in brick and will be electrically heated.

It will provide office space, waiting, examination and treatment rooms and will be occupied about Jan. 1, 1969. Bernard Charlebois is in charge of construction.

Youth Killed Under Wood Load

A 17-year-old construction worker was killed Thursday of last week when he was pinned beneath a truck by a one-ton load of wood.

Jean-Paul Chatelain, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Eleodore Chatelain of Curran, was working in the yard of J. R. Menard Construction Ltd. in St. Isidore when the accident occurred at 2.55 p.m.

The youth had crawled beneath a lifter truck to retrieve some fallen pieces of wood from the load. A chain on the lifter snapped, releasing the wood on top of him.

St. Lawrence Sanatorium Still Needed, Dr Gorecki Maintains

It is neither economically feasible nor healthy to consider closing the St. Lawrence Sanatorium now or in the near future.

This was the statement made by the hospital's superintendent, Dr. Z. Gorecki. He said the area still has a comparatively high rate of tuberculosis when matched against other areas. He also stressed the low cost of treatment here compared with other centres.

He said it costs a patient $14.80 per day locally whereas the charge at the Royal Ottawa Sanatorium is $28.80. Ottawa is the site expected to be chosen for transfer of the patients from Cornwall. The cost per day at Kingston is $25.10 and $30.40 at Hamilton.

Dr. Gorecki said TB is not a disease of the past. He added that 151 new cases of bacillary infectious TB were found in the Cornwall region since 1961 in addition to a number of non-bacillary TB cases.

Figures for 1968 revealed that the number of recent admissions to the local sanatorium compared favorably with past years. The projected number of admissions up to December is 60. The number admitted in 1958 was 67 with 75 in 1938.

The doctor explained that the Cornwall sanatorium had only 25 per cent of its beds empty during July which was a better record than four major centres including Ottawa. Ottawa had 47 per cent empty, Kitchener 40 per cent and St. Catharines 50 per cent. The projected occupancy locally for 1968 is 92 per cent. This is higher than last year with 87 per cent.

Dr. Gorecki explained that families will find a further hardship in visiting patients at Ottawa or Kingston. He said the fare by bus to Kingston is $8.10 and $5.40 to Ottawa. He also mentioned the fact that there is no direct train service to Ottawa.

"It has been mentioned that a main reason for moving the local patients to Ottawa is that they would be closer to a university for the benefit of student research," commented the superintendent. "It is not right that the patients should be considered as products of experiment. They should be treated for the sake of treatment not for the sake of obtaining knowledge for medical students," he said.

The doctor admitted that children are not treated locally because of the lack of proper facilities. But he said they should base the hospital's need on what it has and not what it has not got.

The sanatorium was built in 1937 by the people of the area because as Dr. Gorecki said "our area at that time had the highest rate of TB in the province. We still have a very high rate. The people of the counties, dollar by dollar, collected one-third of the cost of the buildings and bought the land. They then appealed to the federal and provincial governments for the remainder of the money collected through taxation."

The doctor said that to close the hospital now would be a big mistake based on the obvious need for such facilities in the Cornwall area. He added that he could not see how a government could close a hospital for economic reasons when it costs less to run than any other in the immediate area.

Meanwhile president of the Cornwall and District Labour Council George Harrop announced that his organization and its member unions are 100 per cent behind the move to keep the sanatorium open.

He said the council is having a complete study made of the situation and already various locals have sent telegrams of protest to all federal and provincial members of parliament in the area as well as to Premier John Robarts.

Let Contract For Highway To Monkland

Grading, paving, straightening and widening of the eight miles of Highway 138 between St. Andrews and Monkland is scheduled to begin within the next two or three weeks.

The department of highways announced that Dibblee Construction Co. Ltd., has been issued the contract for the job at $850,000.

This is part of the proposed Cornwall-Ottawa highway. Long range plans call for the building of a new road north from Casselman to link up with the Ottawa-Montreal freeway.

A spokesman for the department said that the Casselman extension was merely part of a long-range plan but no projected date had been set for this work being started.

Played Part In Hijacking Try

Detective-Captain John McDougall of the Dorval Police Department played a part, with other members of the Dorval constabulary, in last week's attempted hijacking of an Air Canada Viscount turboprop by a 22-year-old Negro from Dallas, who wanted to be flown to Cuba.

A front-page story in the Gazette had a picture of Captain McDougall, decked out in Air Canada service garb and holding an automatic rifle. He had contemplated sniping at the hi-jacker who was holding a gun on the plane's pilot, but was unable to do so because of the tinted glass on the aircraft.

The hijacker finally surrendered after two hours of tense drama at the edge of the tarmac at Montreal International Airport.

Det.-Capt. McDougall is a son of Donald Archie McDougall, Apple Hill, and a brother of Mrs. D. E. MacCulloch, RR1 Apple Hill.

Trial Dates Not Set

IT'S OUR OPINION

Farm Vacations

So handy is Glengarry to the city dwellers of both Montreal and Ottawa it would seem there is promise for suitable farm set-ups in Farm Vacations, a type of holiday steadily growing in popularity.

A feature story in Saturday's Ottawa Journal told of the satisfaction and delight one young Ottawa family found on a one-week stay on a century-old farm on the Upper Ottawa. Rest and relaxation, a change of scene and a well-stocked table were the chief attractions for the parents of four youngsters. They added to the parental acceptance of this holiday plan by falling in love with life on a farm.

The story tells of their wary introduction to, and quick acceptance of bunny rabbits, chickens, calves and their moo-ing mammas. This farm had horses to ride at a staid walk, much more venturesome than the midway provides; wagons and tractors and machinery of all kinds to draw young urban eyes. There were farm children to act as guides and companions and no doubt it was as much a holiday for them to be initiating these products of city life.

Most Glengarry farms boast the fresh air, the larder, the animals and equipment this Ottawa family so enjoyed on their farm holiday. Not all have the housing and domestic help to cope with an influx of strangers. Conveniences the city type has come to count on are a lesser problem but providing service approximating the city hotel is something not all Glengarry farmsteads may be able to handle.

Perhaps some area farms are already meeting the demand of city dwellers with a yen for a holiday on the farm. The urge to get away from the concrete canyons is growing, and not too many can afford to buy a Glengarry farm at present prices.

Farm vacations may be the answer for many city dwellers. For Glengarry farmers with the proper set-up this could prove a cash crop that has room for lots of competition.

We'd Never Know

Should law enforcement officers have the right to listen in on private telephone conversations, even when their bugging has first been authorized by court order? Police say this weapon is needed in their war against the crime syndicates but many see it as an unwarranted invasion of our right to privacy.

The police are not likely to be opposed to the right to listen in on people's private telephone conversations and the like suggests the Printed Word. Reason is that a policeman, by the nature of things, wants all the help he can get in catching malefactors of great wealth or no wealth at all, and denial of the right to use modern devices will hinder him in his job.

The late B. K. Sandwell once remarked that perhaps the police didn't need the help, but they certainly were enjoying it.

The honest person should not fear wiretapping but, on the other hand, is he or she not entitled to privacy? There are harmless conversations, say, between a young man and his girlfriend that he would like to keep quiet, and so would she. There are conversations not so innocent that a private detective would like to listen in on.

It is not enough to say that people who want these conveniences must first have a search warrant. In the ordinary sense, a search warrant means that the person who is being searched knows what's going on; a person who is being searched by telephone doesn't even know that his conversation is the subject of inquiry.

A New Problem For Government

Big governments have big problems to contend with but would you believe as free-spending an administration as Washington boasts could be phased by the thought of how to get rid of money?

The Treasury Department at Washington has such a problem, notes the Washington (Missouri) Missourian. It has three million silver dollars stashed away in its basement vault, and, believe it or not, it doesn't know what to do with them!

It has been working on the problem for the past four years, but has not been able to find a solution. Most of us could find one in less than four seconds!

The problem, of course, isn't quite as simple as it appears on the surface. The silver dollars have become collectors' items. They are worth much more than a mere dollar. One treasury official estimates that the three million silver dollars are worth seventy-five million dollars on today's market!

Most of these silver dollars were minted in Carson City, Nev., in the late 1880s. No more have been minted since 1935, and there are no plans to make any more of them.

The assistant secretary of the Treasury has suggested that the silver dollars be offered to the public at the collector-market value. This suggestion has met with some favor, and makes sense.

A couple of years ago Congress considered a bill to have the Treasury sell the coins for a dollar to the heart and cancer societies, which could sell them to dealers and collectors at their present value and use the profits for further research. The Treasury didn't go for the plan because that would have discriminated against other groups doing similar work in other fields.

And so it appears that even getting rid of money can become a problem for governments grown too big and complicated.

The mint at Ottawa may face similar problems but at this time it seems the biggest headache consists of trying to keep up with the demand for coins. The drain on silver, taken out of circulation by collectors or melted down for bullion by the silver-conscious underworld, is only starting to be met by the trickle of new nickel coins now being issued.

Our government at Ottawa has never had such a problem as how to get rid of money. Most of our economic problems result from the fact it has never learned to control the public purse strings. A new budget is in the offing and we can only hope there is some hint of proper budgetting in the Finance Minister's plans for the immediate future.

We Suffer A Brain Drain

That list of some fifty graduates of our high school who this month are off to college or university points up today's emphasis on higher learning and the degree in which young Glengarry is responding. Canadian universities are probably registering well over one hundred youngsters from this county when second and third-year students are included.

This is in sharp contrast to the number seeking higher learning even two decades ago. Then, not more than a handful might have had any idea of attaining a degree and most high school students were ready to drop out by grade 10.

Young Glengarry is responding to today's need for higher education and it is probably superfluous to note that most of the credit for this mass exodus to college must go to the parents. They supply the initiative and they sacrifice to make it financially possible, even in this day of student loans and scholarships.

Parents of every generation have possessed this compelling urge for a better life for their children, of course. But never has the need for a university degree loomed so important as in this day when automation and the computer are demanding new skills and threatening the old, established ways.

Not every student is of college calibre and it would be a lopsided society that consisted only of university graduates. There will always be a place for artisans and others whose formal education has been limited, we trust. One of the dismaying aspects of this exodus from rural Canada to academia is that most have been lost to an urban way of life. The brain drain to the cities is becoming a flood.

We can hope our city-oriented planners in government permit some to stay close to the soil to propagate college kids for the universities of the future. And we trust these youngsters now entering the halls of higher learning have a proper sense of proportion. May they manage to attain their degree without feeling the need to take over the university and run it to suit themselves.

There is a militant minority of university students critizing the present system and urging measures which could only result in its complete breakdown. An editorial in the Wiarton Echo quotes one Peter Warrian, president of the Canadian Union of Students, at a recent meeting in Guelph. "This is the year to burn down their buildings. This is the year to sock it to them if they don't meet our demands," this student leader tells his audience of collegians. At age 25, the Wiarton editor suggests, a man should have gathered some wisdom.

"They" and "them" no doubt represent all university boards and professors to the demanding Mr. Warrian who seems to have learned little but negative thinking in a college career that must have been checkered.

All youngsters of college age have known a spirit of rebellion. It is a part of growing up and the vast majority survive to a more settled maturity. A little learning can be a dangerous thing and it is our hope this class of '68 now college-bound will acquire the higher education they seek.

May they prefer to burn the midnight oil rather than the university buildings which are part of our cost of their education.

NO BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT

Balderson, Ont.
Sept. 2, 1968

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

With the opening of a new session of parliament, it is hoped that the present Liberal Govt. under Prime Minister Trudeau will better the record of the Pearson administration.

In 1963 Lester Pearson promised to "put the House in order" after John Diefenbaker's government became bogged in financial difficulties. Lester Pearson promised "100 days" in which, if elected, the Liberal Government would implant vigorous schemes to cure the country's ills. After the Liberal victory, the 100 days passed quickly and quietly. In the following years of unbalanced budgets, taxes mounted but failed to keep pace with runaway government expenditure.

On June 2, 1967, Mitchell Sharp warned of the perils of inflation as he brought forth his budget. The budget did nothing to reduce those perils. There was a deficit of $740,000,000, the second highest since World War 11. Sharp blamed the unions and corporations for inflation but his budget did not set the example of restraint that he preached.

Last fall, Mr. Sharp puffed on the same pipe, only the smoke was thicker! "The country must practice restraint!" The budget was again unveiled and the deficit increased to $785,000,000 and an increase of 4½% in government expenditure. Slowing the increasing rate of spending is not restraint! 4½% seems small but add it on a 12% increase last year and a 14% increase the year before that.

The Liberals insisted on commencing the Medicare plan on July 1, 1968, which will eventually mean further 25% increase in personal income tax. At first, the plan was to cost $28 per capita. Last winter, the estimate rose to $50 per capita, a total outlay of $1,000,000,000.

In the past, besides being financial blunderers, the Liberals were autocratic, indeed communistic.

On May 18, 1967, Senator Wallace McCutcheon stated that "he was frightened by the implication of the government's legislative plans — that the May 1967 throne

Saving Millions

(The Prescott Journal)

Postmaster General Eric Kierans has announced postal rate increases that will balance the department's budget and make the department self-supporting. Two questions arise from this decision (although it is a good decision). First: will Canadians be awarded the savings the government is making up in its over-all budget by raising postal revenues about $90 million? Second: If subsidies are taken away from private publishers of newspapers, will they be lifted from governmental publishers?

The first question is one that should concern Canadians. The postal service in Canada has had to take a $95 million slice out of the federal budget in recent years to pay its way. Tax payers will make up this deficit with increased rates within the next year. Therefore, the federal budget should be reduced by at least this much money next fiscal year.

We are obviously concerned about the increase in second class mail which will include our newspaper. It could mean that mail subscribers would pay up to $3.00 more a year for their local newspaper. Many of our out-of-town subscribers are retired people living in other communities with members of their family and on fixed incomes. It would mean a hardship to them and it could mean a loss of revenue for The Journal and for hundreds of other newspapers, both large and small, across the nation.

If newspapers are going to get smacked with increased postal charges, then the free mailing privileges of federal government departments should also be terminated or curtailed. We receive an average of ten first-class mail pieces from government departments every day. This represents (including large dossiers of bumph) about one dollar a day. Multiply this by the thousand newspapers, periodicals and publications across Canada and it soon adds up to millions of dollars.

We can honestly say that we don't use a dollar's worth of this worthless information a year, but the government insists on spending at least $500 a year on us to tell us nothing. We understand Prime Minister Trudeau has authorized an investigation into government information services and can only add that this is certainly needed. We feel too many of these PR hacks in government service pour out press releases not so much to inform, but to justify their existence.

RAMBLING REPORTER

WORDS WITHIN WORDS

The English language got its start way back before Webster and the more we see of some of its words the more intrigued we are as to their origin. Somebody, in some day and age, scrambled the letters of the alphabet about and came up with a word that even today indicates imaginative thinking.

Take "drought". Drop the first and last letters and it must be "rough" to be in the centre of a rain-starved area.

And "grain". Wouldn't it be short if it didn't have "rain"?

Tune in on almost any TV comedy and doesn't that taped in "laugh" leave you with that fed-up feeling the three last letters spell? Ugh!

Whoever dreamed up that word "waiter" must have had to "wait" for service.

The linguist who put "man" in "command" may have given women the "itch" for "kitchen".

Anyone facing the weather ahead can find a kinship in "winter" and "inter". For months we'll be buried in "snow", "now".

Who put a "son" in "prison"? How does only "man" figure in "romance"?

Finding words within words can be fun, but when one hears "hell" in "hello" it's time to quit. Keep on "rambling" like this and someone's going to be "scrambling" for the net.

Digging words out of words can be less harmful fun than finding meanings in remarks that aren't intended.

P.T. WAS TORTURE

That vast education factory that's our expanded high school is out of this world compared with the nine-room school we rambled through in our time.

We were reminded of the difference in accommodations when the columnist in the Chesterville Record recalled that the Physical Education in the high school of his era was done on the ladder or rings in the basement next to the furnace room.

That period was always the last one on Friday and he claims that was because the teacher in charge wanted to escape the farm boys and their "BO" problem as soon after as possible.

Things were only slightly different at old Alexandria High, as we recall.

Physical Education was known at PT, "Physical Torture" and it might consist of push-ups, arm bends and other conditioning exercises in the school yard, as well as racing around the perimeter to what seemed marathon mileage.

There was that cellar room similar to the one the Chesterville columnist recalls, but it was chin-ups on the water-pipes that divided the men from the boys. Even way back then your Rambling Reporter possessed an antipathy to hard work that left him in the ranks of the boys.

What a difference a few decades have wrought. Up on the hill now they have two Jimmynasiums, a million-dollar track and football field and more teachers dedicated to Physical Torture than the entire staff of five our school boasted.

Today's kids should be in good shape — the way they show it.

If some birth announcements sound outlandish, some of the names kids are stuck with are out of this world.

ARRESTING ARRIVALS

Expecting parents have months and months in which to settle on a name for the new arrival and some of the outlandish birth notices one reads in the dailies leave one with the idea daddy has been spending much of that time dreaming up an announcement that will really be different.

In her column in the Renfrew Advance Winnie Nute quotes these announcements she found both unusual and amusing:

"Here's an out-of-the-ordinary one from the Ottawa Journal. LIPSON—Mac and Elaine introduce Edward Charles Pavel, born Aug. 27, 1968, Toronto General, 12 months after his sister Natalie, and ruined the second long weekend fishing trip for the old man in a year.

"There was another a few days earlier which I didn't clip but it started off: TRUDEAU—Hold your hats, folks. Here comes another Trudeau . . . .

"Here's a recent one: SOLOMON—Adam, first born son of Hyman and Starr, thunderously announces that his imperious entry to the new world occurred September 3, 1968. Following a week's vacation in Ottawa Civic Hospital, he will assume absolute command of his household in Old Chelsea. He plans benevolent dictatorship.

"The birth announcement column is rapidly becoming more

EWEN ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL

Friends and relatives in Maxville and community were shocked and saddened to learn of the death of Ewen Archibald Campbell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Archie Campbell of Athol, at Port Arthur.

Ewen was born March 18, 1949. He attended Athol Public School and Maxville Public and High Schools where he excelled as a student. He was an engineering student at Waterloo University and had completed his first-year exams successfully. Prior to his death he was employed at Geraldton, Ont., for the summer months.

His quiet unassuming manner and delightful sense of humor endeared him to both family and friends.

He leaves to mourn, his sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Archie Campbell, one sister Mary, a first-year student at Carleton University, and two brothers, Glen and David at home.

His remains rested at the Munro Funeral Home, Maxville.

The pallbearers were Brian MacNeil, Robert MacEwen, Gerald Castonguay, Ted Hunter, Hugh Proudfoot, and Kenneth Campbell.

Interment was in Maxville cemetery where the graveside service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Henderson.

The many floral tributes and acts of kindness shown the family testify to the high esteem in which Ewen was held in his community.

Mrs. MacIver gave a lucid and informative account of the religions in Japan and India which was illustrated by a graph. Christianity has increased by 25 per cent. Communists were strong in 1950, but have since declined. Prayer by Miss Bella MacLeod closed this part of the meeting.

Mrs. MacLean took the offering and reminded members that subscriptions to Glad Tidings should be renewed no later than Oct. 15. Mrs. MacLean gave the treasurer's report.

An afternoon meeting will be held at the manse on Oct. 1st and St. Elmo WMS and Evening Auxiliary will meet the same evening in the Maxville Church schoolroom.

Mrs. R. F. MacRae closed the meeting by giving a concise account of the life and accomplishments of Fannie Crosby who wrote hymn 791—viz, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus".

The hostesses assisted by several of the ladies served lunch and a social period was enjoyed.

speech showed that the government planned to intrude as far as possible into almost every area of human endeavor". This statement clearly indicates the dictatorial approach of the past Liberal regime.

Two schemes are excellent examples:

In 1966 the Canada Pension Plan was implemented in which 36% of one's income would be, automatically by law, siphoned into this fund. The individual has no say, no choice, no decision. It was pay up or go to prison. Whether or not this plan was inspired by Karl Marx, this CPP is "communism" in its rawest form. The same can be said of Medicare, the other prime example of govrenment dictatorial policy. The individual has no choice.

Mr. Joe Greene wrote an article stressing the importance and dignity of the individual and respect by government for him. Yet this man is an inner member of a government that trampled individual rights into the ground.

Today the individual has no idea what he will end up paying for these plans next week or next year. After a year's operation, the CPP "ceiling" payment was raised.

These schemes are not a legitimate function of government, especially on a federal level. If they are to exist, they should be for the people who want them and need them. Better still, all these welfare schemes should be operated under one overall plan for those in need.

In conclusion, the Prime Minister and his cabinet should consider these aspects of part administration, and promise that in the future those policies would be viewed in a new prespective.

Yours truly,
Jim McCann.

Lest some of our local wits decide to make a comic section of this paper's Blessed Events column we should note that birth notices are inserted free in the News. The editor insists though that they be edited free of too much extraneous matter so they will not take up unnecessary space. A bit of variety in verbiage is permitted but proud parents whose imagination has run riot get toned down.

He leaves his wife Hazel of RR1 Renfrew, five sisters: Mrs. Charles Grant (Anna) of London, Ont.; Mrs. Pat McIntee (Bella) and Miss Margaret Richardson, both of Glen Robertson; Mrs. Charles Senna (Janet) in Ohio; Mrs. Sid Beaver of Montreal (Mamie). Hale And Hearty

When the Morrisburg Mets lacrosse team was in Winnipeg recently for the Canadian playdowns, their manager, Art (Beaver) Laurin visited his great-uncle, Archie McMillan, formerly of Alexandria. He found 86-year-old Archie and his wife in relatively good health and still dispensing uncomparable Western hospitality.

Ottawa Teams Dominated Minor Lacrosse Play-Offs On Weekend

(by Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald)

The Ontario Minor Lacrosse play-offs held here last weekend for the Eastern Ontario Division were a big success, although Alexandria didn't win any of the laurels.

Ottawa, which has a minor lacrosse registration of 1800 to choose from, took the honors in the Midget, Bantam and Peewee divisions. Cornwall took the Mite championship.

The most exciting game of the series was the Peewee game on Saturday forenoon between Ottawa and Cornwall, when each team returned goal for goal winding up in a 15-14 victory for Ottawa.

Lunch was served to not only the participants but many of the out-of-town and local spectators by ladies of the Church on the Hill, St. Finnan's CWL and the Daughters of Isabella. Their hospitality merited an abundance of compliments.

President Gabriel Poirier and his committee deserve a big hand for their organization of this series. It took a lot of work on their part to keep everything running so smoothly.

Ballet Coming To Cornwall

The sex life of the bee will be revealed to a Cornwall audience Sept. 28 by the National Ballet Chamber Company of Canada.

The new ballet is part of a seven-part program which will be presented at General Vanier Secondary School Auditorium at 8 p.m., sponsored by Cornwall's Glen Productions.

A cast of 30—18 dancers and 12 musicians, representing the cream of the present National Ballet's performers—will present the performance.

The Chamber Company grew out of a 17-year dream of the National Ballet's founder and artistic director, Miss Celia Franca. Because of the expense involved, the National Ballet had to confine its tours to the major cities.

The Chamber Company was formed for Centennial Year, so that smaller communities, too, could enjoy the best in Canadian ballet. Its success was instaneous.

New Corn Processing Plant At Winchester To Have Open House September 28

Well known Eastern Ontario feed dealers D. L. Berry and Sons Ltd. announced this week that they would hold an "open house" for the entire area at their new corn processing plant in Winchester on Saturday, September 28.

Rated as the largest and most modern plant of its kind in Ontario, the Berry corn processing plant at Winchester will swing into full operation to accommodate this year's crop of corn in Eastern Ontario.

Although corn will be the principal commodity the plant, more properly called a "country" or "gathering" elevator, will be used for other grains such as oats, barley, wheat, buckwheat and even soybeans as they become available.

Built at an approximate cost of a quarter of a million dollars, the new plant will have storage capacity of 90,000 bushels, to be increased in the future. It has a rating of handling 3,000 bushels per hour, and the presence of two automatic scales and a separate shipping "leg" or elevator permits both shipping and receiving processes to take place at the same time. Five of the silos are equipped with aeration equipment to increase drying capacity. Included in the fully automated equipment is a large truck hoist of 30 tons capacity enabling the plant to receive corn in trucks and trailers up to 45 feet in length not equipped with hoists.

A sheller installed in the receiving line allows the plant to receive corn "on the cob" as well as shelled. Producers will arrange their own transportation, if they do not have adequate trucks, through commercial trucking outlets. No appointments will be necessary. Trucks will be unloaded in the order in which they arrive. While the corn is being unloaded samples will be taken to determine the moisture content. Immediately on receipt of the corn it is first shelled, if necessary, then cleaned, graded and weighed. Weight, moisture content and grades are recorded by the operator on a multi-copy receipt form along with the producer's and trucker's names. As soon as this information is available the value of shipment is determined and payment will be made if desired. Corn dried in farm type dryers, or in cribs will be facilitated. And the Berry firm is also interested in storage of corn for a farmer's own use.

At the day-long "open house" a complete explanation of the automatic operation will be given. Refreshments will be served.

Fraser MacRae Avonmore, Died

Relatives and friends throughout the district were saddened to learn of the death of Fraser MacRae, a lifelong resident of the Avonmore community, who passed away Wednesday, August 28th, in the Cornwall General Hospital. Mr. MacRae, who was in his 73rd year, had suffered a massive stroke two days previously.

The announcement of Mr. MacRae's passing was received with many expressions of regret.

Born at Avonmore on May 5, 1896, he was a son of the late Alexander MacRae and his wife, Sarah Agnes Hough.

Educated locally Mr. MacRae, with the exception of a few months spent in Western Canada, farmed in the Third Concession of Roxborough, one-half mile west of the village of Avonmore.

Two years ago last March he sold the farm but he and Mrs. MacRae continued to live in the home until a week before his death when they moved into their home in the village.

Mr. MacRae attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. For a number of years he was a school trustee.

Left to mourn his passing are his wife, the former Hannah MacMillan; one son, Clifford MacRae; three granddaughters, Mavis, Muriel, and Heather two sisters; Mrs. Annie Vincent, Massena, NY; Mrs. Jack Saunders (Bernice), Calgary; and three brothers, Allie MacRae, Bonnyville, Alberta; Murdie and Stewart MacRae of Avonmore.

The body rested at his late residence, Main Street, Avonmore, where many friends called to pay their respects. Many beautiful floral tributes were placed about the casket as silent tributes to the memory of the deceased.

The funeral service was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon. Rev. Willis E. Sayers, MA, conducted the service and brought a comforting message.

Pallbearers were neighbors; Leonard McIntosh, Norman Sinclair, Thorold Rutley, John R. MacGregor, Clifford McElheran and W. M. Campbell.

Relatives and friends attended from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Bramalea Woods, Huntsville, Smiths Falls, Kemptville, Massena, Cornwall, Winchester, Chesterville, Lancaster and surrounding communities.

Interment was made in the family plot in Paul's Hill cemetery.

Members of the family have received many messages of sympathy from relatives and friends unable to be present.

Mrs. Vaillancourt Died At 80

An esteemed resident of North Lancaster for many years, Mrs. Adrien Vaillancourt of Dalhousie Station, died in Hotel Dieu, Valleyfield, Que., Sept. 11th. Her death at 80 followed but a brief illness.

Mrs. Vaillancourt was born at St. Polycarpe, Que., a daughter of Telesphore Bissonnette and Evelina Meloche. She married Adrien Vaillancourt, a former cheesemaker at North Lancaster, who predeceased her some 23 years ago. A son, D'Assise, also predeceased her and her death is mourned by six sons and four daughters.

They are: Jean-Marie and Anatole of Verdun; Romeo of North Lancaster; Romuald, Cornwall; Raymond and Hartel, Dalhousie Station; Mrs. Dale Page (Aline) of London, Ont.; Mrs. Arthur Legault (Ilina) RR2 Alexandria; Mrs. George Reneault (Zella) Ville St. Michel; Mrs. Joseph Rozon (Pauline) Dalhousie Station.

One sister, Mrs. Edmond Sauve of Lancaster, also survives as do 24 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

The largely attended funeral was held Sept. 14th, at 4 p.m. to St. Telesphore Church. Rev. Marcel Lussier chanted the solemn mass, assisted by Rev. Leo MacDonell of Glen Nevis.

Interment was in the parish cemetery at St. Telesphore.

CWL Discuss Church Changes

"If we are really listening, the changing Church does not threaten us. The Christian is, before all else, a listener — he or she, because he or she is a Christian, is aware that Christ came as the Word; so the Christian is professionally a listener: that's the Christian's vocation in life," Rev. Patrick L. Bishop, SJ, of Toronto said at the monthly meeting of St. Raphael's Catholic Women's League. The ladies conducted a workshop on Change in the Community and the Church. They discussed questions like what changes are taking place in your community, township, county? Has your own life-style changed? Has your community new needs? Is controversy a good thing in the Church? Should your parish get involved in the needs of the community? There was a divergence within each group, and within the meeting at large, but they all were of the opinion that we have to accept change if we wish to be a living, vital people of God. We have to listen, even to a Hippie, to learn that there are various modes of life, not necessarily bad but all interlocked in some way to make us sensitive to the patterns of living around us.

The meeting began with a Mass by Rev. M. J. O'Brien, at which the ladies actively participated. In the homily Father O'Brien reminded the members how important it is to have good conveners, and how seriously each convener should accept her duty.

Slow-Moving Signs Now Mandatory

Most Ontario motorists are already familiar with the bright-colored triangular warning sign that the vehicle ahead is a slow-moving vehicle. Motorists who are not already familiar with the slow-moving vehicle sign soon will be. Up to now, the sign has been affixed voluntarily to many farm tractors and other implements by farmers concerned about their own safety and the safety of other users of the roads.

Effective September 1, Ontario law now requires all farm tractors and self-propelled farm implements, or any vehicle drawn by them, to carry the slow moving vehicle sign when operating on a highway.

A regulation specifying the official sign and its position on the vehicle has now been approved, the Ontario Department of Transport reports. The sign is in the shape of a base-down, equilateral triangle, with a 12¼-inch base and a 14-inch height. Dimensions may be larger as long as ratios of the various sides are in the same proportion as the sign with the 12¼-inch base. The sign is fluorescent yellow-orange in color with a dark red retro-reflective border of a specified brightness. It must be bonded to a durable rigid weather-proof base surface.

It must be mounted base down in a plane perpendicular to the direction of travel of the vehicle, and where practicable, on the rear of the vehicle or combination of vehicles, at the centre of most of the vehicle or vehicles. It must be no less than three feet or more than five feet above the roadway, and it must be clearly visible for a distance of not less than 500 feet from the rear of the vehicle or combination of vehicles.

Sr. St. Thomas who is a member of St. Joseph's Community in Peterborough. Sister was born in Summerstown and is home on furlough from their Mission Hospital in Brazil. She will be returning to her post at the end of September.

BELL LINES

by L. M. Holtby

your telephone manager

If talk is becoming more of a convenience and a bargain all the time blame it on the telephone companies. Once again long distance rates have been reduced. This time, Bell Canada, along with the other members of the Trans-Canada Telephone System, has lowered rates on nationwide calling. Now, after midnight until 6 a.m., a coast-to-coast, three-minute call that you dial yourself costs $1 or less. Where Direct Distance Dialing is not yet available, the Operator will place your call for you at the same low rates. Midnight at the calling point governs the new rate. Over the years as improvements in equipment, increased Direct Distance facilities and the growing use of long distance services have made it possible, we have continued to voluntarily reduce long distance rates. In fact, long distance telephone service is one of the very few costs that have been decreasing rather than increasing over the years. Staple foods, services, luxuries and even housing have all shown fairly large increases in the past 20 years. In 1931, it cost $6.25 for a three-minute coast-to-coast call. By 1936 we were able to bring that cost down to $5.25 and in 1946 to $3.90. By 1961 the price for the nationwide call was $2.80. Our last reduction, in 1966, brought the cost of a coast-to-coast three-minute call to $1.95. The new reduction makes long distance calling a bigger bargain than ever, especially for any of you who have family or friends living in Western Canada.

A story we heard recently concerned a couple from Ohio on vacation in Canada. They were trying to locate some relatives who had recently moved to a small town in Quebec. He noticed a telephone truck just around the corner and stopped, but before he could say a word, one of the men came over to the car and asked if he was looking for the Robinson's. "How did you know?" the traveller asked. "I didn't realize the telephone company knew I was coming!" But two telephone men did. Seems the young Robinson boy had spent some time on the corner waiting for them and watching the men at work. When he left, he asked the men to look out for a car with Ohio license plates. The travellers were quickly directed to a happy family reunion.

This is the year, girls. 1968. One of the years which comes under an Act of Scottish Parliament passed in 1288. For 700 years law and tradition are on your side in Leap Year. Here's the ancient law: "It is statut and ordaint that during the rein of hir maist blissit Mageste, for ilke year known as lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she like, albeit he refuses to taik hir to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum of ane pundis or less, as his estait may be."
