Separation fears spark money run

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Scores of Quebecers worried about bank accounts in a separate Quebec are flooding over the border to invest in Ontario.

Banks in Alexandria, Lancaster and Hawkesbury have been seen a drastic increase in the number of Quebecers taking money out of the province with recent news the separatists have taken the lead in the polls.

"People are running," Alexandria Bank of Montreal manager Lila Poirier said.

"We have about three new customers a day coming from Quebec. They just want to get everything out of Quebec."

Clients coming from Quebec are worried their money will be frozen if the referendum turns out a yes vote.

"The fear for them is that they won't be able to get their money out of the province next Monday," Poirier said.

Pat Leclair, a manager at the Bank of Nova Scotia in Alexandria, and Poirier said they're telling their clients there's no reason to move their money since the chartered banks are international companies and there is no law that allows a government to freeze accounts.

"It's unsolicited and there's really no reason to fear," Leclair said.

The run on the banks has not only touched personal banking and investments, but Quebec businesses have started moving their accounts to Ontario. And with automated banking machines, they have easy access to their Ontario accounts.

Leclair said Quebecers moving their money across the border in a crisis is historic.

He said the same thing happened following the Charlottetown agreement's defeat in 1992.

"Most of (the money) goes back." he said. 'We don't even look at it on our bottom line."

Poirier said some of her clients have also been calling her to find out whether they should fix their loan rates in case interest rates skyrocket after the election.

But with the number of factors involved, it's impossible to tell which way the money markets will go.

"A lot really really rides on Monday. It can have the biggest impact on what happens," Poirier said.

No campaign to stage rally in Montreal

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Anyone wanting to support the "no" vote in Quebec will be given a chance to be heard at a nationwide rally in Montreal on Friday.

People from all over Glengarry, Prescott and Russell can join the unity march on Oct. 27.

The event will gather thousands of people from across the country to show Quebecers they want the province to stay with Canada.

Some will fly from as far as Vancouver and Newfoundland to take part in the march organized by the federal "No" campaign in Ottawa.

The giant rally is scheduled for noon at the Place du Canada off Peel Street in downtown Montreal.

Local bus companies have agreed to support the cause by providing free transportation to and from the event, but are welcoming donations to help with the cost.

Glengarry buses will leave the Glengarry Sports Palace in Alexandria a 10 a.m. and will make stops at the church in Green Valley at 10:15 and at the Esso gas station in Lancaster at 10:30.

In the meantime, local MP Don Boudria has been taking part in campaign initiatives for the "no" side in the referendum, to be held on Oct. 30 throughout the province of Quebec.

The member of Parliament for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell was part of the team assembled for the prime minister's recent rally in Shawinigan. Boudria has also been delivering speeches on the referendum in the province of Quebec as well as in his own riding.

Referring to the referendum, Mr. Boudria said "This is about separation and nothing else. Quebecers are not fooled by the tricked question or the scare tactics of Messrs. Bouchard and Parizeau." He also added: "Why would Quebecers want to separate from the best country in the world?"

Friends are redoubling efforts to see the historic site stablized

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

A building can be made of more than just the stones and mortar that keep it standing.

It can capture the hearts and memories of centuries.

The Catholic Church in St. Raphaels holds the tales of almost 200 years within its walls.

Though a fire in 1970 and years of wear have eaten away at the church, built in 1821, its outer walls still stand as a tribute to Upper Canada's first settlers who built it.

And the pioneer ingenuity that created the church didn't end with the turn of the century.

Within the last 12 years, the same persistent spirit has worked to preserve the towering monument to God against voices who told them its was impossible.

For years after the fire, passersby were always welcome to marvel at the church's craftsmanship and local charities held benefit concerts there.

But when a single stone fell from the ruins in 1992, the historic site was deemed a safety hazard. Concerts and tours were brought to a halt and the ruins were condemned by Charlottenburgh township.

Since then, people who care about the ruins have been fighting an uphill battle to save the building once so important in Ontario.

"There's something personal that goes beyond saving a building. It goes to the roots of their history," historian David Anderson said in an interview Friday.

The church, which originated with a congregation of 6,000 serviced the area from Quebec to the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers and has touched many throughout North America.

People from as far away as California, Calgary and New Jersey have sent their support along with a donation to save the ruins.

But you only have to look as far as the next hill crest to find a life long St. Raphaels resident who holds the church close to her heart.

"Growing up I can remember when that church was absolutely filled," Rita Tourangeau reminisced, gazing at the oil painting of the church in her living room.

Separate school board opposes amalgamation

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

The Roman Catholic Separate School board of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry went public with its feelings about amalgamation last Thursday.

The board held a press conference to give its view on key points in the interim report of the Ontario School Board reduction task force.

The board gave thumbs up to equal funding and thumbs down to super boards.

The report, dubbed the Sweeney report, set out a plan to join school boards together to save government money. According to the report, the RCSS board's boundaries would extend all the way from the Quebec border to Pembroke and Belleville.

Also included in the report was a recommendation to equalize funding for each student although Sweeney was not given the mandate to look at finances.

The separate board said the most important recommendation is equal funding for students and it should come before any school board restructuring.

Right now, there's a large discrepancy between rural and city schools because of the tax base, and between Catholic and public schools because the public boards have access to industry and commercial taxes.

In 1993, there would have been $4.3 million annual difference between a pupils in the SD&G separate and public boards if they had the same number of students.

If you take that same statistic to Toronto, there would be a $23 million difference.

While the RCSS board does support equal funding, it is campaigning strongly against amalgamation.

The board said it wants 15 French language school boards across the province to satisfy constitutional minority language rights.

In SD&G, the board believes the RCSS should be split into two boards, one English and one French. The boards should keep their existing boundaries and work together like they do now with the two language sections.

In a recommendation to the Royal Commission, the board points to an "absence of supporting evidence" that amalgamation will save money and keep up the quality of education.

The RCSS is also concerned that the report does not mention school councils and how they will work under the new system.

Alfonse Lafrance, chair of the board is skeptical that a super school board would save anything.

"Amalgamation won't save money, it's going to cost more money," he said.

The report recommended dropping the number of trustees from six to five and getting rid of the director of education.

But Lafrance said that with the distance between the outer edges of the board, trustees' traveling expenses will eat up any savings.

"That's a big territory to cover," he said.

"I don't know how to serve a big area with a reduction in trustees."

School board trustees make up only .018 per cent of the annual budget with each one earning $7,500. The director of education earns somewhere around $100,000, totalling a $150,000 savings.

"Do you think that's going to save millions and millions of dollars?" he said.

"It doesn't seem realistic."

Alexandria dump may have five years of life left: Levert

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria's dump may have only five years of life left, according to the town's head of public works.

Jean Guy Levert told council members at a meeting Monday night, that overfilling at the north side of the dump has shortened the landfill's remaining lifespan to five years.

Levert said a section of the dump, stretching 105 by 40 metres has

Animal hospital zoning change, procedures cost Alexandria $82,000

By Lynn McCuaig
and Greg Kielec

It cost the town of Alexandria $82,000 in almost a year of legal wrangling before it could change zoning that would allow an animal hospital to open on Main Street.

The Ontario Municipal board was called in last November to settle a dispute between the town and veterinarian Donald MacLeod who wanted to build a companion animal hospital and Janet Lalonde and Gaetan and Marie-Paule Ravary who were concerned about noise, sewage and the town's procedures.

Melling gave the hospital the go ahead last week on the condition that the town amend its site plan and that MacLeod connect storm drains to the storm sewers and build a sound barrier fence.

After eight and a half days of hearings, Richer said the OMB recommendation wasn't really different than the original by-law.

"A waste of money, definitely," Reeve Francine Richer said in an interview Tuesday.

"I never saw from day one the point of having this thing going to the OMB."

MacLeod also said the settlement was similar and was concerned about the cost to the public and himself.

"I think everyone in town should know (about the cost)," MacLeod said last week. "It's just terrible that money couldn't have been spent on the park."

MacLeod didn't compile his own legal costs but said that the money "could have been spent on an ultrasound machine for small animals."

"It's just terrible that money couldn't have been spent on the park."

--Veterinarian Donald MacLeod, owner of hospital

Both sides of the dispute said that neither party was willing to settle before an OMB decision which may have reduced the cost.

"The town wasn't willing to sit down and talk. In the end, it cost them and it cost the ratepayer," Lalonde said.

Lalonde and the Ravarys also had to bear their own legal costs.

Lalonde mentioned a proposal she had sent to the town in December made by experts to deal with sewage, noise and the site plan but said it was ignored by the town.

"We did not even get the courtesy of a response."

Richer said she did not remember receiving the letter.

Richer also said Lalonde and the Ravarys did not want to compromise.

"We tried to handle it in a friendly way," she said.

"There's a way to mediate, we can do it...With tact and professionalism, there is a way."

Town planning official Terry Hart said in hindsight, the town should have taken more time to review the proposal before giving approval.

He also believes the whole OMB hearing process could have been avoided had both sides cooperated.

"It could have been handled through mediation."

He said the process has been an "eye opener" for everyone. And he thinks it already is affecting the way council makes its decisions.

Lalonde said she's happy with the outcome since it recognizes flaws in the towns site plan procedures which may cause council to look at zoning changes more closely.

"I think it's woken them up," Lalonde said. "They know they're going to be held accountable."

Lalonde also said she thought the hearing played a role in the town's move to fix the sewer problem.

But Richer said the hearing really had no effect on the sewer question.

"The town means well. We care and we know we have a sewer problem."

The only thing Richer said might change is that council "might be more careful" in passing bylaws.

She said that because a site plan was not shown at a public meeting does not make the process flawed.

"I think people should trust the planning committee."

Because the committee is made up of professionals with special expertise, there's no need to have a site plan available to the public and added that it might "just confuse people."

"It's up the people to inquire and ask" if they want to see a site plan.

Counties not interested in no-smoking bylaw Alexandria reeve told

By Greg Kielec
News editor

The United Counties is not interested in passing a bylaw to regulate smoking in restaurants across Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Alexandria Reeve Francine Richer said she was told by Raymond Lapointe, counties co-ordinator, that the counties council would not want to dictate smoking policy to member municipalities.

Richer made the statement at a meeting of Alexandria council held Monday night.

Lapointe was away and could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Mayor Grant Crack questioned how the counties clerk can answer for all of counties council without bringing the proposal before the members.

But Councillor Archie McDougall said he is not surprised. He said the body only acts when the purpose serves its interest.

Council members had suggested a counties-wide policy be enacted to regulate smoking in restaurants to place all restaurants in SD&G on an equal footing.

The idea was in response to concerns from town restaurant owners. The owners have protested that if Alexandria passes a bylaw restricting smoking in their restaurants, they will lose business to operations outside the town.

Council did not indicate what its next move will be on the controversial smoking issue.

Members delayed action on the restaurant smoking issue at a council meeting Oct. 10, at the request of Medical Officer of Health Dr. Robert Bourdeau, until the results of a mail-in survey on the issue are complete.

Council did pass a bylaw banning smoking in municipal buildings such as the town office, arena, police station and public works garage on Oct. 10. Anyone who contravenes the bylaw faces a fine of up to $5,000.

been filled to 1.5 metres above the limit set by the Ontario Ministry of Environment and Energy.

"If we cut that down, we will be out of a site in five years," Levert said.

Fern Seguin, chair of council's environment committee, said an emergency meeting was held with the MOEE on Friday to discuss the situation at the landfill site.

"It seems to me, Mr. Mayor, people at the ministry are going to put the pressure on again."

He said the town should, in turn, pressure the ministry, but he did not say how or why.

The MOEE also wants the town to meet one more time with the Viau family concerning their complaints about the dump. The Viaus claim the dump is contaminating water on their property.

"The ministry officials are saying 'give it one more shot'," said Clerk Leo Poirier.

But council members are reluctant to engage in a prolonged debate with the family over the dump. "I know I'm not," Seguin told council.

Councillor Roger Lemieux said the scope of the discussion with the Viaus should be limited. "I'm worried this will go off in a hundred directions," he said.

Mayor Grant Crack said the Viaus must make a written request to meet with council, stating in the letter the purpose of the meeting.

Clerk Leo Poirier suggested council hold the discussions in a closed session because the Viaus may want to talk about selling the land the town wants for a dump buffer.

But Crack said he did not know if it would be legal or ethical to hold the session behind closed doors.

Councillor Fern Seguin said he believes the Viaus want to talk about tests the town wishes to do on the ground water at the Viau property. The family has so far refused to let anyone on their property to test the water, said Councillor Gary Shepherd.

The town had begun expropriation proceedings against the Viaus after failing to negotiate a deal to purchase a 200-metre strip of land from the family as a buffer for the landfill site. But the town dropped the proceedings July 17, without explanation.

Rallying for St. Raphael's Ruins: Glengarry residents uniting to help save historic church

"It was really the focus of the parish and the community."

The community, small by today's standards was once a booming county village with three stores, a cheese factory, a post office, a blacksmith and an internationally known boarding school.

But now, most of St. Raphaels businesses have left, leaving only the church to boast of its grandeur.

Like others in the area, many in Tourangeau's family were baptized, married and buried in St. Raphaels.

When fire hit, it was a difficult reality for her to accept even though she had moved to Ottawa years earlier.

"It was a sad morning. My friend called me at 7:30 that morning to tell me the church had burned. I couldn't believe it. I think I cried half the day."

But as she watched one tragedy sweep through St. Raphaels, Rita and her husband E.H. were not about to watch it happen again.

E.H. Tourangeau was the main push behind Charlottenburgh council when it repaired the top 10 feet in 1986 and fought against council's suggestions to tear the ruins down in 1993.

"There was an awful lot of pounding on the table," he said.

For 12 years Tourangeau fought the township and helped the Friends of the Ruins take over ownership of the building last year.

"You couldn't let a historic site like that go to ruins," he said.

"That was a settlement that was here in 1876. All this would be forgotten."

Since the fund raising campaign began in June, the Friends of the Ruins has made it almost one-third of the way to its goal of $100,000 needed to start phase one that would stabilize the building.

"There are donations coming in every day," Duncan Macdonell, fund raising chair said.

"There's an awful lot of support."

To date, the Friends of the Ruins has spent $3,500 on gates, $300 to repair floodlights, $900 on liability insurance and another $3,500 on pamphlets and stamps for their fundraising campaign.

The group sent out 685 letters to newspapers around the country and have mailed 2,500 letters to people with ties to the church.

This summer alone, the ruins had 349 visitors sign their guest book, some from France, England, Scotland, New Zealand and Thailand and eight Canadian provinces and one territory.

"There are a lot of people who have ties (to St. Raphaels) and whose ancestors are buried there," Rita Tourangeau said.

The committee is counting on people from across the world to give donations to preserve the church.

"Every $5, $10, $20 helps bring it up. That's mostly what people can afford to give," she said.

"It's a slow process but it's on the right track," her husband added.

The initial goal is to stabilize the church walls and to slow deterioration.

So far, engineers from the federal heritage ministry and even world renowned building inspector John Ashurst have looked at the ruins.

Ashurst, a professor from Bournemouth University in London England, visited St. Raphaels in 1993 and deemed it "one of the finest examples of architecture today."

Pictured is the St. Raphael's church before it was destroyed by fire on Aug. 10, 1970.

In his report dated Jan. 17 1994 Ashurst outlined ways to repair the ruins instead of tearing it down.

"Both he and the engineer from the heritage foundation said there was no need to even think of tearing it down," Macdonell said.

The church, built without pillars or nails, has its stones placed in such a way that they would be self supporting to give the mortar the two years it needed to dry.

Because of the craftsmanship, the church has been able to stand on its own since it was built.

Now, the mortar between each stone needs to be scraped to free loose lime and then replaced by the same mixture that was used in 1815.

Using cement for pointing would only bust the stones apart creating more damage.

The Friends of the Ruins hope to have a clear idea of what has to be done to the building before the end of the year.

Consulting company Hanz Keller and Associates have been hired at a cost of $13,375 to draw up a plan.

No matter the cost of the repairs, the Friends of the Ruins will keep working to maintain it.

"It's not just a church up there, its one of the cradles of upper Canadian history there," Anderson said.

"The historic and spiritual dimension is invisible to some with a discouraged past."

For Anderson the church not only marks the faith of a people, but their first victories for civil rights under the crown.

The Glengarry Fencibles, the army regiment from Scotland who originally settled St. Raphaels, were the first groups of Catholics to be given the right to join an army and to have a chaplain at their helm.

Before that time, Catholics could not hold positions under the British government.

The Fencibles regiment brought 600 settlers to Canada in 1804 and fought five campaigns between 1812 and 1814.

"It marked a substantial expression of the loyalty that came out of the Highlands," Anderson said.

"That's the real importance of St. Raphaels."

"It's not the oldest Catholic church, it's not the biggest or the best. All these little boasts I don't recommend because they miss the point."

With new optimism after the end of the Napolionic wars in 1814, the settlers began building the church.

"It's one of the most ambitious structures of its type for this community," Anderson said.

St. Raphaels has etched a community out of the bush that has produced such citizens as John Sandfield MacDonald, the first premier of Ontario and Fr. Alexander Macdonell, the first Bishop of Upper Canada.

The village was also home to the first seminary in Upper Canada in 1827.

"It's a big story for a little place," said Anderson.

For most, the story seems so far away even if they pass the church every day.

"It's amazing. I was born right beside it. We didn't appreciate what it was," Macdonell said.

"You never visit the spots near home."

Couple wants three-way stop

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

An Alexandria man wants a three-way stop on Macdonald Boulevard.

Mike Seguin made the request in a letter, with a 34-name petition, submitted to Alexandria council at a meeting Oct. 10.

"As the neighborhood has developed, there are now more families in the area," Seguin wrote.

"We have, in the past two years, seen many things happening since we've been here...careless stopping and turning at the corner, speeding, etc."

"With the amount of people taking walks and children playing around the area now, it concerns us as parents and neighbors. Their safety is in jeopardy."

Seguin said many times he has motioned to cars to slow down but was ignored as they sped by.

"Just today, my wife had an accident in front of our home. I knew it was just a matter of time before something would happen."

"I feel that, as taxpayers, we and others in our neighborhood have the right to ask for a three-way stop sign to be implanted at this corner."

"By doing this, we feel that speeds would be reduced along these streets as drivers will have to make a complete stop."

Seguin also wants council to place signs at three different sites along the two streets warning drivers there are children in the area at play.

"We're sure that after reading this letter, it would be in the town's best interest to move quickly on these requests, especially with winter coming."

Alexandria council forwarded Seguin's request to the United Counties Council. The road in question is a counties road.

Dump mining idea explored

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Mining could be a less-costly alternative to closing the town dump once it reaches its capacity, according to a member of Alexandria council.

Councillor Fern Seguin said last Tuesday that mining the town dump of its garbage could be cheaper than closing that site, which would cost $2 million initially, plus as much as $200,000 a year in monitoring.

"If you take these costs into consideration...for much cheaper than that, you can remove the darn thing altogether," he told members of Alexandria council.

Seguin recently attended a conference in Albany, New York, on dump mining, and had an opportunity to view dump mining in progress on his trip back home.

The practice is much more common in the United States, likely because they ran out of room to bury their waste much sooner than Canada. "A lot of towns are doing it," Seguin said.

Sixty to 65 per cent of the material removed from the sites is ground which was used to cover the waste, Seguin said. About 15 to 20 per cent of the material is recyclable and the remainder is garbage.

Seguin said the town dump could be mined, the recyclable material retained and the remaining garbage sent elsewhere.

"Certainly we will have to look at many things, especially the cost," he told council members.

The mining could be done throughout communities in Eastern Ontario and a co-operative could be formed to share the operation cost, he said.

He said the town previously believed the town was at the mercy of the consultants and government regulations, forcing them to pay huge costs to close the landfill.

"Now we have another option."

Council Briefs

The following are among the items discussed at an Alexandria council meeting on Oct. 10 at the town hall.

Siren complaint

Councillor Roger Lemieux said he has received a number of complaints about the wailing siren used to mark Fire Prevention Week by the Alexandria Fire Department.

The siren went off at noon hour each day to remind town residents that it was fire prevention week.

Lemieux said many people have complained the shrill siren is disturbing. One woman who had lived in Europe during the war said it made tears come to her eyes, reminding her of the air raid sirens of WWII.

"I know it was a tradition in the past, but maybe it is time to look at it," said Mayor Grant Crack.

Advocating education

Dr. Robert Bourdeau says more education is needed, in light of the reaction he received from bar and restaurant owners last week, during a meeting to discuss restricting smoking in restaurants.

"Following a meeting with a few vocal bar and restaurant operators on Friday, Oct. 6, I was further convinced that we need to do a lot of education and risk awareness, a least with a certain sector of the population," Bourdeau says in a letter to council.

Bourdeau, medical officer of health with the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, also urged council to delay deciding on a smoking bylaw until after the results of a mail-in survey on restaurant smoking are calculated.

"If possible, I would appreciate if you delayed your decision for a few weeks so we can share with you the results of a crude survey we are presently carrying out."

He also praised council for its role in the debate.

"I congratulate council for its open-mindedness in dealing with this very sensitive issue and will keep you informed of the health unit's actions."

Tobacco free

Alexandria council has been praised by The Council for a Tobacco-Free SD&G for its attempt to regulate smoking in town restaurants and bars.

"Your concerns for the health and safety of the residents of Alexandria are well appreciated. However, we would like to express our concern regarding the restaurant issue," wrote Chairperson Francine Menard.

"As you are well aware, approximately 75 per cent of the population are non-smokers. Therefore, there is a great need to reduce the risk of exposure to environmental tobacco smoke or second-hand smoke."

"Non-smoking and smoking patrons would both benefit from a tobacco bylaw regulating smoking in restaurants and municipal buildings."

She said the tobacco council is available to offer support to council if needed.

That's the ticket

People who have not paid their Alexandria parking tickets may get a surprise when they try to renew their licences.

According to a report from Mark D'Cruz, provincial offenses officer, people who have unpaid tickets will not be able to renew their licence.

There are still $760 in tickets that remain unpaid, D'Cruz said, likely because they haven't had the opportunity to pay them yet.

But they won't be able to renew their licence until they pay up.

The requirement has led to $143 being received by the town office from people forced to pay the tickets in order to have their licence renewed, D'Cruz says in his report.

D'Cruz, who enforces the town's parking and other bylaws, has issued $1,823 in tickets since beginning on Sept. 12, according to his report.

D'Cruz also suggested in his report that municipal parking lot users be charged for the service. He has suggested a $15 initial fee, plus an additional $5 per month, per vehicle for parking in the municipal lot.

Committed to bypass

Alexandria council passed a resolution stating it is committed to the United Counties proposed bypass of Alexandria.

Kenyon Dam Road is to be upgraded to counties standards to be used as a bypass for trucks and other vehicles, but the project has been delayed to next year and the funding diverted to another project.

The project had to be delayed until next year because of complaints from residents and an environmental assessment which kept the counties from proceeding with the project.

Deputy Reeve John Hope said it is "a real dog's breakfast" the way the counties plan to cut across the corner of one farm to create a looping curve joining the Kenyon Second Concession and Kenyon Dam Road.

Action on name

A group working for better access for physically challenged residents in town wants Alexandria council's permission to use Alexandria in the group's name.

Action for Access wants to be allowed to use the name Alexandria in front of its group's name. It said the government has no problem with the group using Alexandria's name, provided the town has no problem.

New fashion store has 'a little bit of everything'

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Lancaster added another business to its Main Street with the official opening of Romm fashions Oct. 14.

The store sells women's and children's clothing and accessories along with gift items including natural soaps and towels.

"We have a little bit of everything now and then we'll judge from that," Moshe Mizrahi part owner of the new store said.

Mizrahi, along with his partner Ruth Hitterman will be asking customers for their opinions before they settle on specific product lines.

But the Montreal pair are not strangers to the clothing business.

Romm Fashions originally started out as a vendor's stand at local flea markets.

The pair had a spot in the Cornwall flea market and travelled to other markets in the Montreal area.

When the Cornwall market closed, they decided to look for a more permanent place to sell their merchandise.

The store in Lancaster came up for rent and Mizrahi and Hitterman jumped at the opportunity.

A permanent building is a big change from flea market life, but Mizrahi is enjoying every minute of it.

"It's not boring. There's always someone coming in." he said.

Mizrahi was only too happy to get away from the "gypsy" days at the flea markets.

"It's more steady."

The couple is still living in Montreal but are planning to move to the area soon.

"We're hoping to get away from the hustle and bustle of Montreal," Hitterman said.

Hitterman plans to keep her regular job in a doctor's office during the week until things fall into place in Lancaster. But even though Mizrahi is assuming full-time store duties for now, the store is very much a joint venture, right down to its name.

The name Romm Fashions is drawn from their initials. R and O from Ruth whose maiden name is Ostroff and the double M from Moshe Mizrahi.

Together, they refurbished the inside of the store with a few coats of paint and a lattice work that does double time as a decoration and a place to hang clothes.

Rose-Marie Fickler (centre), a CICQ radio personality and friend of Ruth Hitterman and (left) Moshe Mizrahi (right) cuts the ribbon to officially open ROMM Fashions.

"We did everything ourselves," Mizrahi said.

Mizrahi is hoping to complete the final touches and hang his new sign on the store front soon.

Until then, those driving through Lancaster will have to keep an eye open for the Main Street business.

Crown dealt setback in Cuerrier murder case

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The Crown's case against a youth charged in the death of an Alexandria man was dealt a setback in Ottawa court Oct. 11.

An Ottawa judge ruled a key crown witness cannot testify in the trial of a youth charged in the March, 1994 murder of Gerald Cuerrier.

Assistant Crown Attorney Dave Algie said he was disappointed with the ruling. Speaking to the News Monday, Algie said the testimony "would have been significant."

The trial is set to resume on Oct. 31 in Alexandria, with the Crown all-but-finished its case. All the Crown has left to do is enter statements into evidence that the judge had earlier found admissible.

"There's not much more of the Crown's case.We're almost at the end," Algie said.

It is not certain whether the defence will present a case. But if it opts not to, the trial could immediately launch into closing arguments, he said.

The teen is one of three people who were charged in the March, 1994 shooting death of Cuerrier.

He cannot be named because he was under the age of 18 at the time of the shooting. The Young Offenders Act prohibits the publication of the names of youths charged with criminal offenses.

One other youth, and one adult, Jason Horvath, were charged in connection with the murder.

The youth pleaded guilty Sept. 22 to a charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to 14 months closed custody plus time served. A youth, he cannot be named under the Young Offenders Act.

Horvath is still awaiting trial on the charge of first degree murder.

The court has so far heard conflicting testimony about the culpability of the accused. The defence has suggested that Cuerrier may have been alive after the date on which the teens are accused of committing the murder.

The 19-year-old already serving time after pleading guilty in the case, broke down on the stand last month, when, during his testimony as a witness, it was suggested he may have pleaded guilty to something he didn't do.

The youth broke down after being told by defence lawyer Michael Edelson that several people had already testified they saw Cuerrier alive on March 24 or 25, a day or more after he was supposedly killed.

The youth, who was the get-away driver for Horvath and the youth currently on trial, said they had gone to Cuerrier's to rob the man to get money for drugs.

He testified that when the two teens got back into the car, Horvath told him that he had just killed Cuerrier, while the accused youth sat in shock.

Time is now to show our pride

Thankfully, the campaign of deception and denial that has marked the tirades of the Yes side in Quebec will draw to an end this Monday. The words and promises of Lucien Bouchard and Jacques Parizeau have worn thin our patience and desire to understand and empathize with Quebec's search for "distinct" status.

And our perspective comes from a vantage point 10 minutes to the west of the Quebec border. We can only guess at the vitriolic views our fellow citizens to the west, east and north of us are prepared to let loose following a yes-side win.

Nevertheless, we have a good fight that is yet to be concluded. And Glengarrians are the front-line troops.

None of the simmering anger in the rest of Canada has to do with hatred toward French or francophones, or a lack of understanding of Quebec's search for distinct status. It has to do with people attempting to live in an increasingly tough world. It has to do with security, with jobs, with a more certain future for children than the one we see today.

Political agreements can always be found if two sides are willing to talk. Surely Parizeau or Bouchard would say the same thing to the Cree of Northern Quebec. But the ability to earn income to live is, as we see, becoming compromised by not only the decline of the job market, but shifts by government to provide its citizens with less support, not more.

In short, like their fellow Canadians, Quebecers will increasingly have only themselves to rely on in the future, not a fire-spewing set of deceitful separatist politicians who, financially secure themselves, want to etch their initials on the history books at the expense of the people they mislead.

It's easy to understand then, that Monday's vote doesn't just concern Quebec's destiny. The entire country is on the line here, a fact overwhelmingly lost on those who would support the yes forces. Or ignored.

It is OUR dollar that is being affected, OUR interest rates, OUR standard of living, OUR debt. It is OUR land. There is no holy grail or magic formula that will extract Quebecers or any other Canadian from this reality. Our fates are linked not only by a shared economic and social federation but by two centuries of forged promises, however imperfect, that has led to Canada's status as the best country on earth in which to live.

Unfortunately too many Quebecers appear ready to follow Bouchard's empty promises of a painless exit. And as of today, a very real risk exists that they will say yes to the darker of two options, one that sets the province on a course that — as this week's events have shown — promises nothing more than disaster.

It is with this in mind, with the implications involving Quebecers and non-Quebecers, that we encourage Glengarry residents of all ages to drop their daily routines this Friday, and attend a giant rally planned at Place Canada in Montreal. Organized by the riding's championing MP Don Boudria, the bus excursion to the east is this county's best and last opportunity to contribute meaningfully to this watershed vote. Details are noted on the front page.

With our proximity to that city, with our historic linguistic and economic ties to both Montreal and southwestern Quebec, the people of this county have a special role to play at this event. And it is not to simply make noise and wave flags.

It will be to express and witness a love of country that is often not expressed until Canada Day arrives, in a province that celebrates its national pride even less. It will be to show Quebecers that there is a deep desire for goodwill among their fellow citizens. It will be to demonstrate in a peaceful setting that Oct. 30 need not be an end, but a beginning.

It takes other countries civil wars to arrive at the same conclusion. That fact alone makes Canada worth the effort.

Youth centre needs young enthusiasm

Does Alexandria need a youth centre? Anyone worried about a lack of activities for local teenagers may believe that's an obvious question with an obvious answer. But it's not that simple.

Interest in a youth centre in Alexandria has been stimulated with recent joint meetings of volunteers representing various groups with youth interests. But there has been limited reaction among the teens themselves outside of the group, as shown in a rough survey done at the high school (where only half of the respondents said they'd work to support a youth centre), and judging from attendance at the meetings.

Now it may well be that a 50 per cent involvement rate is positive news, as the mayor has said.

And there is a feeling by the committee that once a centre is up and running, youth will at that point become interested in making it work.

Until that happens, however, the area's young people should know that a youth centre will happen ultimately only if they want it — and work hard to make it a reality.

That means they need to support this new group, and to find out what they can do to help. Once they do that, the above question becomes easily answered.

Dear Quebec: It's better together

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

If separation is the selected option of voters on the other side of the border this Monday, Oct. 30, it will have not been for a lack of trying to promote unity on this side.

From elementary classrooms to oak-panelled board rooms across the country, to farm fields and bar counters, a steady trickle of written and vocal pleas to Quebecers to stay in Confederation have turned into a deluge of respect and affection for the voters of La Belle Province.

A prairie farmer ploughs "it's better together" in French in his Saskatchewan field. Victoria (B.C.) city council votes to send letters to each of the more than 200 municipalities, urging them to do what they can to keep Canada together. A group of Calgary francophones launch a campaign to phone Quebecers randomly to persuade them to choose Canada over separation.

And at a timely conference of community newspaper publishers in the heart of anglophone Canada north of Toronto last weekend, 70 publishers representing 100 Ontario community papers voted to send a message of unity to their counterparts in Quebec.

"Whereas Canada has recently been determined by the United Nations Organization as the best country in which to live; and whereas by settlement and tradition, the province of Quebec is a fundamental part of what we think of as "Canada'; and whereas we recognize that your newspapers are providing leadership in the matter of the Quebec referendum, as in other matters; be it resolved that these publishers of the Ontario Community Newspapers Association unanimously support a united Canada that emphasizes the prosperity and good governance of all its citizens, and urge you to take this message to your readers."

Now given the lofty language of such a resolution, you'd think a roomful of anglophone community newspaper publishers would use the opportunity to trumpet their opinions in front of each other. But they didn't. The reading of the motion was met with absolute silence.

No verbal editorial remarks. No rhetoric. No shrugs, sarcasm, winks, nudges, laughter or raspberries. Just silence.

Then, when the vote was called, every hand in the room went up.

It happened that fast.

There was an unspoken understanding in that room, a level of enlightenment that went beyond politics. It got past professional egos, lifetimes of staunchly English upbringing and the vagaries of community intolerance.

It is an enlightenment we pray will grace the spirits of the majority of Quebecers this Monday.

The resolution was sent to Les Hebdos, the Ontario association's counterpart in Quebec. It was intended to reach out to not only the province's publishers, but their readership as well.

Unfortunately, it languishes on the president's desk there, waiting for permission for distribution to member papers. And, depending on the president's political views, it is a resolution that may never see the light of a single Quebec community's home town paper.

It's a familiar story.

Getting the message out has always been the federalists' biggest problem. But in the end, it will be the message that surely would persuade or dissuade Quebecers from voting with both their hearts and minds.

Skeptics say that maybe it doesn't matter much at this point. Maybe little gestures like this are too little, too late. The Charlottetown Agreement may have been our last, best hope. And now we are paying for it.

In fact, the phrase "distinct society" is now looking like a pretty innocent little piece of compromise that would have nullified the need for Monday's vote.

But these gestures are really all a Canadian living in Moose Jaw, Iqaluit or Moncton can deliver, outside of a strong and united "no" in a national referendum put together by politicians. And because they have surfaced from the grass roots up, they uncover a genuine and dormant passion for the country as it is today.

And they are gestures which speak to who we are, not just what we'd like Quebec to be.

There are many smart people who scoff at that view. They say if big gestures like Charlottetown or Meech didn't get by the country, it's reasonable to argue small ones won't. Maybe they're right.

But trying is what we do in Canada, to find, however imperfectly, that common ground that has been evading us, even in the world's finest country.

And we must keep on trying, whatever happens next Monday.

That is the essence of Confederation. May it survive beyond Oct. 30.

Figuring crazy cats out on a tear

News to me

by Greg Kielec

"Our cat is nuts."

Those were my thoughts as our tiger-striped feline jumped off the window sill in a blur, striking his head with a dull thud on the leg supports of the coffee table as he streaked out of the living room and into the kitchen, spinning sideways in a frantic attempt to regain his traction on the linoleum floor.

He was in an apparent hurry to get somewhere. Probably had forgotten a mid-afternoon appointment on the apartment balcony. Or it may have been one of those close calls where he didn't think he would make it to the litter box.

Or maybe he was just going nowhere fast, which often is the case for an apartment cat that has nowhere in particular to run and even fewer places to hide.

But I can't help but wonder what goes through a cat's mind when all of a sudden he remembers something he had to do, something he should have done five minutes ago.

Is he saying to himself: "Damn, it's 10:05 a.m. and I haven't torn madly out of the living room in a blind rush out to the balcony?"

And just what goes through his mind, other than "ouch!" when he strikes his head on the wooden coffee table supports and only realizes it during a moment of reflection after he passes over the threshold of the living room door?

There are other curious things about this feline, like why the balcony door is fine when he wants to exit our humble abode to view the great outdoors, but only the living room window is suitable for him to re-enter the premises.

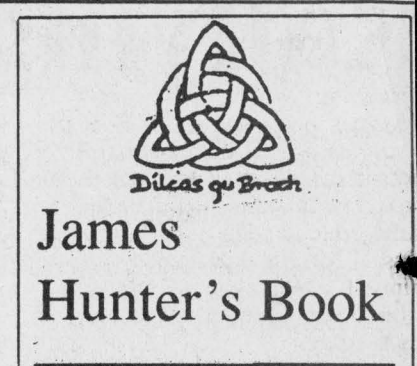
And why does that living room window — just two hops away from the balcony to the adjacent verandah roof and from there to the window sill — have to be open even though the four-legged fur-ball has no intention of coming in right away?

From what I can understand, the significance of the window remaining open has something to do with the inexplicable urge of this feline to race madly through the living room, dining room and kitchen, back out to the balcony again.

If for some reason some unwitting human closed that window, precious moments could be lost by the wily carpet-racer as he meowed urgently for me to remove the see-through impediment to his forward progress.

Anyone who knows anything about cats knows it is imperative the urge to tear madly through a person's living quarters must be gratified immediately — or that urge could be lost forever. Then the feline can only hope to get another urge sometime in the near future, an urge he longs to gratify, if all offending impediments are finally removed from his way.

Hopefully, when that happens, he will remember to duck for those coffee-table leg supports. If not, he will have something to think about again, before tearing off to another urgent appointment, as he pauses momentarily beyond the threshold of the living room door.



James Hunter's Book

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

"The Highlands have been victimised by sloppy writers over the years, but there is one man who can be guaranteed to do justice to his subject ...A memorable book". The Scots Magazine. From the cover of A Dance Called America by James Hunter. Available from the Glengarry Bookstore, Alexandria.

I've been extolling the virtues of this book since it was published last year. This is history made alive and exciting. It illustrates my argument that only modern historians, free of the prejudice and bias of previous ages, are able to tell the truth about the Highland Scots. If we really want to know what Canadian heritage means, we cannot ignore the Gaelic-speaking people who played such an important part in the formation of this country.

It comes as a bit of a shock for us, living in the Glengarry area, or indeed in almost any other part of Canada from the Maritimes to the Pacific, to realise that the Highland element, which gave the world tartans, kilts, and pipe bands, was really a minority in Scotland, at least in the last 400 years. There were never more than about 300,000 Gaelic-speaking people in that vast area, loosely called "the Highlands", and comprising about half the total area of Scotland, while there were several million Lowland Scots, inheriting a different language and culture in the rest of the country. Many more Lowland Scots than Highland Scots have come to this country, but, apart from a first-generation "Scottish accent", they soon became indistinguishable from the English-speaking majority, and were scattered throughout the land. The Highlanders, however, often settled together in distinct areas such as Cape Breton and Glengarry, and spoke their completely different language for many generations. They also had Gaelic names that identified their Highland origins, and made their identity more obvious. The French were, of course, the first Europeans to settle permanently in Canada, but it was the Highland Scots of the North West Company who formed the trading empire that sent out men like Alexander McKenzie, (the first man to travel from sea to sea in North America), Simon Fraser, of Fraser River fame and Big Finnan the Buffalo. Simon Fraser is buried here in St.Andrew's West and Finnan lies with his Plains Indian wife in St.Raphael's churchyard. The Nor'westers often took Indian wives and their descendants are scattered across this continent.

James Hunter in his book tells the story of what happened to the Nez Perce when the U.S. government decided to eradicate them. They tried to flee to freedom in Canada but were caught by the U.S. army a few miles south of the border. Here is how a reporter in a Montana newspaper wrote about the ensuing massacre: "On the night they camped at the battleground, most of the warriors were up until a late hour engaged in their war dance. This caused a deep sleep to fall on them... Some of them slept so soundly they never wakened. The camp, not apprehending danger, was sleeping soundly, when suddenly the rifles of the soldiers belched forth their deadly fire. The camp was awakened to find their enemies plunging through it dealing death and destruction in every direction... Many women and children were killed..." As James Hunter says, " The writer of these words knew the Nez Perce well. In fact, he was one of them. He was related... to Chief Looking Glass, who had died in the Bear Paw Mountains fighting. He was related also to Chief White Bird and to Chief Eagle-from-the-Light... And this writer's own name? It was Duncan MacDonald. He was the eldest son of the ageing fur trader who, years before, had married into the Nez Perce and whose own ancestors can be traced back to people who died around Leacantium in 1792". (The Massacre of Glencoe).

Harris cuts will defeat the human spirit

To the editor:

I am writing on behalf of the "Harris cuts".

Reading article after article it becomes more and more clear that social assistance didn't need such a drastic cut. We will soon see in the next few months many businesses suffer, due to people spending much less. If Mr. Harris wanted to portray himself as Scrooge or the Grinch who Stole Christmas he is surely succeeding.

Jobs need to be created, and should have been, before the cuts came. People need some kind of compensation to make up for these cuts in order to buy clothing for the children and for people looking for work. You cannot go for interviews in jeans and running shoes. Further expenses are going to be for gas and cars for expansion for job search in the outskirts of Cornwall. There is surely not enough work here alone for everyone. Where was the common sense before these cuts were done?

He promised not to cut from the disabled people. Well what does he think people on WCB are? We are people who have been hurt and became disabled in the work force. We still pay taxes, and as for it making an improvement in the budget, it is employers who pay these rates and may I remind everyone that it was employers who opted for WCB to come in effect because it was cheaper than having injured workers sue their companies. Injured workers already live in poverty, and most of them have to be compensated by family benefits disability as rehabilitation and re-employment fails in about 40 per cent of claims. Stronger health and safety rules and enforcement must happen in order to prevent injuries, and this alone will lower WCB rates.

Cut health and safety? No one wants to see their children or grand children work in sweat shops. Our fore fathers have been through this era and fought and negotiated to get where we are today. Mr. Harris, move into the 90's. Would you like to see your children or grandchildren have to work under those conditions? Not everyone can become a premier or minister; you'd need laborers. Only by having employers, employees, and unions working together to make a safer working environment will this lower their rates and assure less injuries.

As a person with a disability, and out of employment, I am angry. Rehabilitation consists of a six-month job search for many and this is a laugh. If able-bodied people can't find work while on unemployment and must fall onto the welfare system where taxpayers now must pay for these people, how are we to find modified duties with a new company or modified hours to suit our disabilities? Every day becomes a struggle for people with disabilities and especially those on WCB benefits as they are very unstable, pressure is continuously being put on the injured worker and their families, our children suffer as they now must adjust to a different style of household, divorce rates are sky rocketing among our people, and many of us feel isolated and that our lives and dignity have been taken away from us.

Some people think that because we become disabled, we are of no more use. Well, I will tell you that there is a lot of talent, and abilities here in our community if only others would open their eyes beyond a picture and look to see what we have to offer. Sure, we may be bent over, on canes, crutches, and God forbid maybe even in a wheelchair, but we are not brain dead and we are not lazy.

It is time for companies to start taking back injured workers and accommodating them so that they can continue to work instead of treating them as useless and outcasts. We were good enough to work for you before eour injury, well, we are still the same person but only now with a disability. Some business people seem to easily forget that if there are no workers then there is no business.

Let's put down the weapons and work together. Prevention is the key and it can work for all of us. Let's give it a try and so we say "no" to Harris and his fantasy world. Stop trying to put us back 50 years and into a depression. Cuts are not the answer. Jobs and health and safety on those jobs is the only way to go.

Use net as forum to fight megadump

To the editor,

Driving along the county road of Glengarry during our spectacular Fall has been a real pleasure. During these drives, we came across a number of "Site of Future Megadump" signs on beautifully maintained farm and rural land. This reminded us of two things. First, rural Glengarry is still threatened by the ongoing issue of Megadumps. Second, that a small group of dedicated people are carrying the load for the rest of us in Glengarry in the battle to say NO, NO, NO to megadumps.

"The News" has demonstrated leadership by using "The Net" as a new form of newspaper communication. Let's use this electronic opportunity to show that the thinking behind Megadumps has no place in a community moving towards the 21st century by using "The Net" to:

- support the front line troops;
- make Counties Council aware that the continued use of our tax money in this activity is not sanctioned by a huge number of Glengarry residents;
- raise awareness that there are alternatives to producing so much garbage.

Congratulations on being the first weekly community newspaper in Ontario to go "on-line".

Efforts to keep hospital open directed to Nov. 2 DHC meeting

To the editor,

As your reporter, Lynn McCuaig recorded in her account of the Oct. 5 board meeting of the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, those concerned about the future of the hospital were advised to direct their efforts towards the District Health Council.

Consequently it becomes important that you inform your readership that the next meeting of the council is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 2 at 6 p.m. in the District Health Council Office, 132, 2nd Street East, Cornwall. Although these meetings are open to the public, those planning to attend are asked to reserve at 613-933-9585.

This meeting date represents a departure from the regular date of the last Thursday of the month.

After I learned of this change, I also learned that the GMH Strategic Planning Committee will hold an open meeting on Monday, Nov. 30.

Since you have expressed your support of the future existence of GMH you may already be planning to publicize these important meetings. In which case this letter will prove superfluous!

Thanks you for your concern.

Nancy Campbell

Congratulations to The News

To the editor,

Congratulations on being the first rural newspaper to go on the Internet! Residents of Glengarry should be proud to have such an avant guard newspaper.

Not only is it an award winning, one, but it faces the future boldly and indeed embraces it. I for one am proud to be represented to the world by a newspaper that is part of the rapid change taking place around us and not a spectator to it!

Police burn over 600 marijuana plants

Police Briefs

A total of 647 marijuana plants found in North Glengarry were burned by OPP, Oct. 20

Four officers burned plants in fields on Stewart Glen Road in Kenyon township and on McCormick Road in Lochiel township.

Police found the plants on Oct. 19 after an anonymous tip.

No one has been charged with growing the plants. Const. Howard of the Maxville detachment said it is most likely the land owners did not know the marijuana plants were there.

ATV stolen

A 1994 Honda four wheel drive ATV was stolen from a Bishop Street residence overnight on Oct. 16 and 17.

The blue Honda, model TE152R, was parked beside the house before it was stolen.

The ATV is valued at $6,300.

Sub-station theft

Some copper wire and fuses were stolen from a Public Utilities Commission sub-station on East Boundary road in Lochiel township around midnight on Oct. 22.

Police have no suspects.

Theft from golf course

Crime Stoppers needs your help in solving a break in at Par 3 Golf on County Road 22.

Overnight on Oct. 18, thieves broke into an equipment shed and stole a 16 horse power YT16 lawn tractor valued at $2,400.

The west side door of the equipment shed was forced open sometime around 1:30 a.m.

If you have any information on this or any other crime, you may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Remember, Crime Stoppers does not want your name, only your information.

Call Crime Stoppers at 937-8477 and for long distance calls 1-800-265-8477.

Theft from dealer

A 1995 1/4 ton black pick up truck was stolen from a local auto dealer overnight on Oct. 22 and 23.

The truck is valued at over $29,000.

Damage to other vehicles was also reported as part of the same incident.

Theft, vandalism

Items were stolen from vehicles parked in the yard of a local concrete company over the weekend.

Some of the vehicles and cement were damaged.

River thefts

A boat and motor and fishing equipment were stolen in two separate incidents in Charlottenburgh township on Oct 22.

A 14 foot grey aluminum boat with a Mercury motor were stolen from a residence on the St. Lawrence River.

On the same night thieves stole fishing reels and a depth finder from another residence.

Auto theft

A 1988 pick up was stolen from the parking lot of an Alexandria business on Bishop Street on Oct. 23.

No details were known.

Curling club B&E

Liquor and currency were stolen from the Lancaster Curling Club overnight on Oct. 22.

No other information was available at press time.

Seatbelt campaign

Local OPP ended their two week seatbelt campaign Saturday with more than a 99 per cent compliance rate.

During the last week, officers from Lancaster and Maxville detachments checked 7,772 vehicles and handed out only 62 tickets.

Throughout the campaign, police saw at least a 99 per cent compliance rate in Glengarry county.

FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO THE ARREST AND CONVICTION

On the weekend of October 21, 1995, vandals entered the yard of Glengarry Aggregates & Concrete. As a result, damage was done to many trucks and equipment. Windows were broken, fire extinguishers along with vehicle registrations and other driver equipment are missing. As well, a building was broken into and subsequently material for the Ready Mix Plant was destroyed. Also, on or around October 1, 1995 approximately $2,000.00 damage was done at our Green Valley Quarry.

I suppose young people from the Green Valley area are probably responsible. They more than likely do this for kicks. I don't think it is retaliation of any kind. We have tried to be a good neighbor and try to help out. However, due to our lenient laws, they know in most cases they can get away with this kind of behavior. I am requesting that parents question their children and urge them to reveal who these vandals are. Usually these "smart-alecks" brag about their deeds. Why should everyone be branded bad because of a few. Some day this kind of behavior will lead to worse trouble. Is this what people want?

This type of vandalism has been going on since we purchased the company in May of 1983. We are very disturbed with how our legal system deals with such actions and would support changes to improve the system.

We ask that anyone with any information concerning these acts of vandalism please contact our office or the Lancaster detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Respectfully,
Gord Robertson, General Manager

Court Report

Alexandria Provincial Court

Smuggler fined

A Cornwall Island resident was fined $7,720 after pleading guilty to a charge under the federal Excise Acts for smuggling cigarettes.Christopher Nolan, 23, was given two years to pay the fine imposed by Provincial Court Judge Bruce MacPhee. If he fails to pay the fine, he will serve a 45-day sentence.

Nolan was arrested after his white Pontiac Sunbird was noted by the anti-smuggling task force and was later stopped in Charlottenburgh Township. An inspection found cigarettes with a value of $5,480.

Time to serve

An Alexandria man was sentenced to five days in jail, with two days concurrent on several charges of failing to appear in court.

Timothy Carter received a year's probation and a suspended sentence for causing a disturbance relating to an incident at the Alexandria Police Station on April 21, 1995.

Defense lawyer Paul Syrduk noted the man was "his own worst enemy" when it came to appearing in court.

"He indicates he has a problem with drugs. When he has to go to court to appear, he gets nervous, tokes up and then fails to appear," Syrduk said.

Syrduk asked the judge to consider a three-month probation sentence with a recommendation for counselling for drug and alcohol problems.

MacPhee agreed that probation might be the "best way to get in the (counselling) door because of scarcity of resources."

As he sentenced Carter to his jail time and probation, MacPhee said, "As you now know, when you are supposed to come to court, you are supposed to come to court."

Peace bond

A 23-year-old Alexandria man was placed on a peace bond for 12 months in connection with a charge of intimidation by following.

Alain Duval was ordered to have no contact with the complainant, with a $500 no-deposit bond.

Man chases car thieves

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Facing criminals on their own turf may not be the best way to handle crime, but it worked for one Maxville man last week.

Richard Scott chased a group of car thieves all the way to Ottawa after they stole his 1995 Toyota 4-Runner Sequoia from his driveway at 2:20 a.m. Oct. 18.

Scott pursued two men driving his truck and another man in a red car on Hwy 417 until they got to Walkley Road where he lost them in an industrial area.

But the chase was worth his while since Ottawa police found the truck only a few blocks away from where Scott had lost them when another truck pulled out in front of him.

The Sequoia is one of only 500 made in Canada and carries a price tag of $41,000. And since Scott could not recover the full cost of his vehicle through his insurance policy, he set off on a chase.

After a neighbor woke him to tell him his truck was leaving the yard, without thinking, Scott raced to his other car, to find the thieves.

"I went with my bareback and without shoes," Scott said.

Taking off at 120 km through Maxville's Main Street, Scott had no idea what he would do if he caught up to them.

"I never thought of it until I got to Walkley Road."

Once in the industrial area in Walkley, Scott began to think about what he was up against.

"I was thinking what am I going to do if they do stop?"

"I didn't have a good feeling," he said.

Scott never had to confront the thieves although all three vehicles had stopped on Hwy 417 near Vars before taking off again.

Police told Scott he was lucky the gang didn't decide to turn on him when he was following them.

"They said I should have just got the plate and not followed," Scott said.

But his pursuit paid off.

Scott's truck was returned to him by the Ottawa police last Friday with only $3,000 damage to the roof, ignition and dash.

"If I would ever have to do it again, I would do it again," he said Tuesday.

Maxville Manor workers get four per cent raise

Provincial arbitration board rules facility capable of paying employees higher wages

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Maxville Manor workers have received an early Christmas bonus. The employees have been awarded a four-per-cent raise by a provincial arbitration board.

The raise is split into two, two-per-cent pay hikes, the first effective January, 1994 and the second effective January, 1995.

The ruling — it strengthened language on contracting out, sexual harassment, seniority, bereavement and sick leave and overtime — will mean a pay hike of 50 cents per hour for workers.

"The people are pretty happy to have a wage increase," said Dave Lipton, union representative.

He said the workers, whose pay lags behind most of their counterparts in Ontario, have made up ground since becoming unionized in 1989.

But he added: "They haven't caught up yet and there still is some distance to go in that direction."

Lipton said the board took note of the Manor's substantial surplus fund and its recent expansion in ruling the facility could afford to pay its workers more.

"The employer's situation is not unlike that of an individual who has paid off must but not all of their mortgage of on home and continues to make mortgage payments from current income," Lipton quoted from the board ruling.

"In our view, the employer's financial situation does not warrant denying an improvement in wages if such an increase is otherwise warranted."

Lipton said he believes the wage increase awarded is rather conservative. But he added: "Overall, It's a decent settlement."

The union and management had been negotiating to come up with the deal since late 1993. But they won't have much of a break, not that they have a settlement.

The agreement reached by the arbitrator expires in January, meaning the union and management will have to launch into a new round of negotiations almost immediately.

Youth centre committee drawing formal plan

A steering committee that intends to establish an Alexandria youth centre is moving to strengthen itself and come up with a formal plan.

A new committee made up of over 20 community volunteers including six teenagers have met twice during the past four weeks in an attempt to establish a plan to set up a centre in town.

The group decided to add to the ranks of an established committee headed by citizen Hellene Laferriere-Deguire. Her group has been trying to raise money and interest in a youth centre in town for over a year.

The cause will get a boost with a meeting to elect a 12-member board for the group on Thursday, Nov. 2 at the high school. It is expected to be made up of teenagers and adults who have been involved in the renewed efforts to establish the centre.

Phil Miller, who helped organize and chair the first organizational steering committee meeting, said Tuesday the group plans to apply to the federal government to access some of the $2.5 million in grants available across the country for youth drop-in centres.

He has also drawn up a "draft plan of action" for the committee's consideration. The centre's goal, Miller says in his brief, would be to "establish a locale for teens to hang out in comfort and security, for social activities chosen by and organized by the participants."

Participants in the centre, he suggests, would be anyone of high school age. Adults would act in an advisory capacity and provide assistance as required and when requested.

Security has been a consistent concern of the committee, and Miller advocates a strict policy of no alcohol, drugs or violence. Offenders would be barred permanently or temporarily depending on the nature of the offence.

Miller advocates moving forward quickly to open a centre, suggesting the centre temporarily locate in a "borrowed" facility such as a church basement, service club hall, empty store front until permanent facilities become available.

He suggests hours of operation would be determined by the participants, first after school hours Friday, from noon to midnight Saturday, noon to 9 p.m. Sunday or as determined initially by the temporary location's owners.

He estimates start-up funds at $5,000 for the purchase of furniture, electronic equipment and games that cannot be found through donations.

Miller and student Jennifer McCrank-Annett will be presenting his proposal at the Nov. 2 meeting for discussion.

Anyone interested in the committee can call Miller at 874-2471 or Laferriere-Deguire at 525-4376.

BFI sees brighter future

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) may have a better chance of managing Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry's waste under the new provincial government.

The Conservative government is looking to revamp the waste management studies which means a BFI landfill site may move up the list of options for SD&G.

A BFI site would have to follow the same environmental standards as municipalities, but they can take garbage from all over Eastern Ontario to make the site cost effective.

The previous government allowed municipalities to ship garbage to privately run landfill sites but did not encourage it, waste management study Chair Charles Sangster said in an interview Oct. 3

But with the new government came new attitudes.

"We're looking at a clearer direction," Martin Zimmer, Ontario project manager for BFI said.

"In the past you didn't get any answers."

Now Zimmer is confident the ministry wants to work with BFI and set up a list of landfill standards instead of the NDP "gamble" where the company was never given any feedback.

Staff from the Ministry of Environment and Energy met with BFI on Oct. 18 in what Zimmer hopes will become a series of consultations.

He described the ministry as having a "growing interest" and being "more co-operative."

"They're becoming quite interested in being kept abreast of where we're at," Zimmer said.

Keith West, an official with the Ministry of Environment said the two groups had "a very positive meeting" last week.

"I was encouraged by it, it was a very good meeting."

Like the municipal waste management studies, BFI has had to look at all alternatives for Eastern Ontario's government and has gone through a site selection process to find the best location.

While the location of BFI's potential site is still a secret, the company plans to release it in November.

The SD&G waste management study has been put on hold until the committee gets more direction from the ministry.

Celebrating 10 years of getting to The News

Williamstown

by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Next week the Williamstown News is celebrating its 10th anniversary. I am telling you this not because the column and I are looking for cake and celebrations, but because I actually thought THIS was week No. 520 and I could do the "Auld Lang Syne" thing and have it easy for a change. No such luck! You'll have to wait another seven days before finding out what you were up to 10 years ago.

Plans foiled have a way of righting themselves, however, and instead of embarrassing you for the second time in a decade, I've decided to trace the history of getting the Williamstown News to The Glengarry News during the past 10 years. It's really quite a story!

In the beginning — in the ballpoint and paper days — my husband used to drive the Williamstown News to Alexandria every Sunday afternoon. This method lasted about as long as the car did, though somewhere in that time, I took the plunge to the TYPEWRITER.

Those of you who know us, are aware that every once in a while we become car-less. Not careless, (except perhaps when it relates to the maintenance of vehicles), but car-less. And being car-less and a column submitter is something else!

It was definitely a black time. Somewhere in that stretch, the typewriter became electric, and so did the legs of everyone who saw me coming down the street on a Tuesday morning. "Going to Alexandria today?" I asked, trying to sound casual, though the fluttering column in my hand (hidden discreetly behind my back), belied my anxiety.

No one was safe. I pounced upon Cathy Stewart several times. Dominic and Tiffany Stones were regulars, as was their mother Alex MacDonald did a run or two (probably to get me out of the store where I would loiter, harassing the customers). Graham Greer (yes, the Barstool Propheter himself), was wonderful at absolutely the very last moment. And so many others of you, that I could fill this whole column with your names!

The family was great, too. Everyone was pressed into action. Even my father, who at the age of 85, got a speeding ticket on his way to Alexandria with my precious cargo! Several times, Zachary biked the column to The Glengarry News, or else to Lancaster, where I had discovered a fresh new source of carriers. Even my girls got into the action, phoning around to snare victims, while I hid out at the library.

By now, my husband had a "Kaypro 2" computer, and the column went from typed to dot-matrixed. The Glengarry News staff came to the fore — Dann Rogers sometimes drove to Williamstown to pick up my offerings; Lesley Cadham moved here and would drop around the house about 6 in the morning (I would get up at 3.30 a.m. to write), and when Tina Giroux returned to the village to live, she would find herself intercepted by a wild woman waving papers as she stepped into her car to go to work. And then there was my all time favorite: The time a taxi was sent down in a blizzard and my column (by now crisply daisy-wheeled) rode in style and safely made it to Alexandria!

There was a stint when my husband worked in Alexandria, and all ran smoothly. By the next car-less session, I was being ink-jetted, and the FAX had come to town. My first introduction was at the Andersons, where Delande graciously, and to me, miraculously, sent my news to the paper. I was so impressed that I was determined. FAX! The perfect cure for car-lessness. I hinted subliminally and it must have worked. Soon there were two faxing methods in this house. And the columns flowed. Laser printed by now and all.

This past year, the techno wizards here and at The News conferred, and my column made the leap from my computer straight into Editor Greg Kielec's. I had difficulty with this at first. I wanted my own hard copy....just in case. But the laser lazed and gathered dust. "Print's out," declared the car-less one.

Last week marked another new milestone. This column was e-mailed over the Internet to the Glengarry News. It seemed to have arrived more or less intact.

In 10 years we've come a long way, babies! Why is it then, that I sort of miss the drama of the old search and rescue days?

Phone me at 347-2279; fax at 347-1325; or E-mail me at sharring@glen-net.ca, if you have the answer!

Gerry Thompson should have some answers when he speaks to the Green Thumb Horticultural Society next Monday, Oct. 30 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, beginning at 8 p.m.

Gerry is a professional horticulturist who works at Upper Canada Village and he will tell you about the types of flowers and vegetables grown in Eastern Ontario gardens in the 1800's, as well as describing the design of such gardens.

Please note the change from St. Mary's Centre to the recreation centre for this meeting.

It would be great if those responsible for the historic landscape conservation study being undertaken at the Sir John Johnson Manor House would attend the above meeting!

Work has now been completed under the Section 25 grant at the house, and you are invited to come along any time and see the progress which has been made. With our trees now leafless, travellers along the other side of the river can get a better view of the house. Maybe it's just my imagination, but it seems the old place is standing a little taller, and a little prouder. The return of its shutters has certainly helped.

Pamphlets describing the house and its architecture are now available for distribution. If you would like copies (available in English or in French), please drop by the Williamstown Library (located in the Manor House) or contact me.

Well this Saturday, (Oct. 28) is harvest time for the crop grown by the volunteers of the Char-Lan Food Grains Bank. Wagons will be bringing the corn to the dryers at Munro Agromart in Lancaster, from 2 to 4 p.m. on that day.

A bit of a celebration has been planned in conjunction with the event — refreshments (popcorn?) will be served and everyone is invited to come out and witness what willing hands and hearts can do.

Everyone is also invited to attend a special ceremony to unveil a plaque dedicated to area women who were in the service during the World Wars.

The event, sponsored by the Char-Lan DHS Heritage Committee takes place in the Char-Lan High School cafetorium on Saturday, Nov. 11 at 2 p.m.

More details will follow in a subsequent column.

The leaves were still on the trees when a group of locals journeyed into the Mohawk Valley in New York state. The trip, sponsored by the United Empire Loyalists Association, and organized by Gerry Rogers, attracted Sheila and Wendell Lafave, Brent and Lynn Lafave, Buddy MacNaughton, Lester McWhinnie, Doris Ferguson, Betty Nixon, Muriel Belanger, and Archibald MacDonell, as well as others from across Canada.

Among the 45 who left on the bus from Montreal were seven descendants of Sir John Johnson, the man who was responsible for leading the Loyalists from the Mohawk Valley to Ontario in 1784. Overnight stops were made at Amsterdam and Herkimer, and the group visited Guy Park, Fort Johnson, Johnstown and Johnson Hall, as well as Fonda and Stone Arabia and various churches.

Dr. Wanda Burch, whose thesis was written on Sir William Johnson, was among the interesting speakers heard by those on the trip.

Friends fill church for anniversary service

Martintown

by Martha Merchuk

Friends of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church filled the sanctuary on the evening of Sunday, Oct. 15 for the anniversary service.

The guest minister was the Rev. Lloyd Smith, Minister of St. Matthews Church, Ingleside.

Rev. Smith encouraged us to celebrate not only the age of the present building (69 years), but the much longer life of the congregation in this community (208 years).

Rev. Smith's message was entitled "For Such a time as this".

Special music was rendered by the Stormont Men's Choir. An evening of worship and fellowship was enjoyed by all.

The next special event at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be on Nov. 12 when our guest speaker will be from the Presbyterian World Service, Mary Lou Johnston, recently returned from Africa.

Bulletin board committee needs you

A volunteer citizens committee trying to help the high school establish a computer electronic bulletin board service (BBS) which would serve the county's non-profit causes is looking for donations.

The bulletin board service would be run and maintained by high school students who also receive partial credits for their efforts. They would take information from the county's groups, and input it into a bulletin board data base which could be accessed by anyone with a computer and modem.

The group, led by Kenyon residents Owen and Christine Walker, advocates establishing terminals in public places around the county so that residents without computers would have equal access to the BBS.

High school teacher Chris Bowen has already started training students on the operation of the software which runs the BBS. The support group has begun a direct mail campaign to groups looking for their vital information and to solicit any donations they may wish to put forward.

The school has paid for a dedicated line to service the BBS.

Copies of a brochure can be picked up at The Glengarry News or by calling Owen or Christine Walker at 527-3441.

We'll keep you posted on this interesting melding of the community and the educational system.

And speaking of the infobahn...

We've had several positive comments about our entry into the world of cyberspace — and good reaction.

Since we went "online" with our home page on Glen-Net Communication's Internet providing service, we've had 440 "hits" over a period of 10 days. A hit is when someone checks out our home page using their computer and modem.

We've received six letters to the editor sent electronically and sold our first subscription through the Internet to a new Cornwall subscriber.

We expect to have our online classifieds service up and running within two weeks. This will enable our current classified customers to repeat their ad on the Internet, or for anyone to send us classifieds by modem.

Province wide project to bring students to work

Following a successful first year in the Greater Toronto Area, the Take Our Kids to Work program has been expanded across the province and Wednesday, Nov. 8, 1995 has been chosen as Take Our Kids To Work day. Approximately 1800 Grade 9 students from the Cornwall area have been invited to spend a day at work with a parent, relative, adult friend or volunteer.

The first of its kind in Canada to involve students province-wide, this second annual Take our Kids to Work project will continue last year's aim of strengthening bonds between parents and children, and fostering community responsibility for the future of young people.

This is not a free day off from school nor is it a one-day event. Take Our Kids To Work is a progressive, shared experience between Grade 9 students and their parents that encourages students to think about the challenges faced in work environments and then relate them directly to their parents' situations.

Over half of Ontario's school boards with Grade 9 students including the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public Board of Education and the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic School Board will be participating in the Take Our Kids To Work Program.

Organizations wanting more information or interested in getting involved can call the SD and G Industry-Education Council at 613-936-6564.

College site new home for T.R. Leger School

The growing education centre at Windmill Point welcomes a new partner this fall, with the addition of the T.R. Leger School to facilities at the Cornwall campus of St.. Lawrence College.

T.R. Leger joins the University of Ottawa in providing programming from the Cornwall campus of St. Lawrence College. The move allows for the expansion of programs offered through the alternative school, in a setting conducive to the unique needs of its learners. T.R. Leger expects to enroll about 200 full-time students in the new facility.

"The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public School Board is pleased to offer services through its T.R. Leger School in facilities shared with St. Lawrence College," said Art Buckland, Chairman of the Board. "It is a means of sharing resources while providing and expanding programs and services."

Renovations to third floor of Moulinette Hall, the west wing of the St. Lawrence campus, were completed over the summer. Students began attending classes on Sept. 5, 1995.

"This partnership will enhance the college's strategic plan to become actively involved in each of our communities," said Deborah Souder, Chair of the St. Lawrence College Board of Governors. "It makes maximum use of public resources."

St. Lawrence provides full-time, post-secondary programming, trades training and academic upgrading on a full-time basis, as well as over 100 courses and seminars on a part-time basis. The college also provides customized training for local business and industrial clients.

PUC considers purchasing $30,000 computer

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria's Public Utilities Commission is considering entering the computer age.

PUC General Manager Luc Poirier wants the utility to purchase a new computer system, which will allow it to do its own billing.

The system would save the PUC $15,000 a year, the amount it now pays to have Ontario Hydro in Belleville do its billing.

"We have to take a long hard look at this," said Commissioner John Cormier.

If the system can be paid off within two to three years, it will be worth the investment, he said.

"We can't be backwards all our life here. Let's get the show on the road. It will be money well spent."

Poirier said of 370 utilities in Ontario, 117 have the system he wants to purchase for the Alexandria PUC.

> "We can't be backwards all our life here. Let's get the show on the road. It will be money well spent."
> PUC commissioner - John Cormier

Both the water billing and the hydro billing could be combined under the same system, which uses special software which runs on PC compatible computers.

The first year of maintenance for the system will be free. After that, it will cost $4,000 a year for maintenance.

The system will also allow the PUC to complete annual rate submissions for Ontario Hydro on its own.

Ontario Hydro no longer supplies the service, which it had previously supplied free of charge.

The utility will have to use a consultant to prepare the submission of finances this year, which balances expenses and anticipated revenue to determine rates for the utility.

But if it obtains the computer system, the PUC will be able to use special computer software provided by Ontario Hydro to complete the rate submission itself.

Cormier warned the utility should consider the amount of people switching over to natural gas heating from electricity when determining anticipated revenues for the coming year.

"The expenses are there and if we don't get the rates, we are going to be in a hell of an unbalanced fix."

The upgrading of powers lines and pole-moving along Main Street is another large expense the PUC must pay for next year.

The utility has $250,000 set aside for the project, but needs to come up with another $200,000 to cover its total cost, Poirier said.

The town and the Business Improvement Area want the poles moved behind businesses or the wires placed underground for a strip of Main Street considered the downtown core.

The strip will run from Gernish Street north to Elgin Street.

Poirier said the groups will have to come up with money to pay the extra cost of such a project.

Non-household waste gets pricey in township

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Lancaster township residents will soon have to pay to dump non-household garbage.

Council is planning to charge a fee at the township dump for construction items, appliances and anything else that doesn't come in a household garbage bag.

They are hoping the new fees will stop people who live outside the township or contractors working in other townships from dumping garbage at the Lancaster site.

Because other townships in the county already charge dumping fees, council believes building contractors from other townships were coming to Lancaster to dodge fees.

Councillor Gerald Carriere said he had seen a contractor from out of the township leaving the dump just last weekend.

Under the new system, anyone wanting to dump non-household items will first have to get a permit issued by the township.

When someone goes into the township office to get a permit, Clerk Mike Samson will then determine where the materials are coming from.

And since the township issues building permits, he'll know of any construction in the area.

"What's not coming from the township is the biggest worry," Samson said at the meeting.

The initiative was brought to the council table after a report from the Lancaster township waste management committee recommended the fees.

Ian McLeod, chair of the waste committee, said the township had a "perceived increase" in the amount of non-household garbage.

The report contained a list of fees charged by other municipalities to give the township an idea of how to set up its own system.

Council didn't fix any prices at its last meeting. Members said they will most likely use the example set by Kenyon township where residents are charged by the size of the load, but the rates will be much lower.

Fees will be kept low because council's aim is to get people into the office before they can dump a truck load of construction waste into the pile, and not to raise money from the dump.

"It's not the money issue, it's where it comes from," councillor Roch Major said.

Council was not certain when it would start charging fees, but said it won't be until the township was given a few months notice.

Once the warning is over, the township is planning to run a tight dumpsite.

"If you don't have a receipt for a load, you won't dump it," Samson said.

OCWA wants to be town's hired gun on sewage system

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The Ontario Clean Water Agency wants to be the town's hired gun for its costly sewage upgrade program.

Representatives from OCWA asked the town to consider hiring them as troubleshooters for the multi-million dollar upgrade to keep consultants in line and ensure all the work necessary gets done and done properly.

"We are certainly very interested in working with you," John Carter of OCWA told Alexandria council members at a meeting Oct. 10.

"There have been some delays and there have been some problems," he told council members, saying he knows of the problems the town had and the change of consultants on the project.

But he is still willing to represent the town to ensure the town's best interests are represented in the sewage system upgrade.

The town recently dumped consultant J.L. Richards and Associates in favor of M.S. Thompson and Associates after learning expense repair work to the sewage system recommended by the firm is unnecessary.

Carter said it often happens that towns, relying solely on the advice of the consultant in charge, overspend on a project. "Historically, that often happens."

OCWA, if hired by the town, would be able to prevent such situations, said Carter, explaining that if not monitored, engineering fees can easily double on a project.

Carter also said the town is not obligated to complete its sewage upgrade by 1997 to receive all of its promised provincial funding.

"The '97 date is certainly not cast in stone. Any project that is under construction will continue," Carter said.

"The commencement date is vital, the finishing date is not."

Carter said as well as policing the work being done, the agency will help the town find whatever funding is available for its project.

In fact, Carter said the agency was able to get $50,000 in funding for unapproved sewage repairs done this year for the town. But it was unable to get approval for another $20,000 in funding for work done on the sewage system last year.

The agency, if hired will draw up an engineering agreement with M.S. Thompson, and then get to work determining how best to repair leaky sewers to stop the infiltration of ground water into the system.

After it is determined how much the repairs have reduced the infiltration of outside water, it can be determined what type of improvements, if any at all, are needed at the town sewage treatment plant, he said.

Council believes the high volume of sewage being treated at the treatment plant is a result of breaks in the system where ground water or even water from the town water system is flowing into the sewers.

If the leaks are repaired, the amount of effluent going to the treatment plant may drop significantly, making the proposed construction of a new sewage treatment station unnecessary and possibly saving the town millions of dollars.

Students to get vaccine

Dr. Robert Bourdeau is reminding parents that Grade 7 students will be offered immunization against hepatitis B in a school-based program this fall.

Hepatitis B can cause permanent liver damage and scarring, and sometimes death. It's the leading cause of liver cancer in the world.

"There's no cure for hepatitis B but it can be prevented with a vaccine. So it's important that young people are protected well before they may be exposed to the virus," said Dr. Bourdeau.

Public health unit nurses will give students three injections over a six-month period – the first early in the school year, the second a month later, and the last five months after that.

The vaccine can also be bought from local pharmacies with a prescription. Parents wanting to have any other children vaccinated should discuss it with their doctor.

Schools are providing additional information about the program, as well as a vaccination request form which must be signed and returned to the school.

Artists, crafters display wares in Williamstown

Glengarry Arts and Crafts Association will hold its 26th annual craft and gift show on Saturday, Oct. 28 and Sunday, Oct. 29 at St. Mary's Community Centre, Williamstown, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

This group, the first of its kind established in Glengarry County, began in 1969 with eight members. Over the years many local well known artisans became members of this juried association, some staying on as part of a tradition until present day.

A few artisans only attend this exceptional show, their work not being available elsewhere.

Hande-made crafts such as fine crochet, smocking, needlework, pottery, stained glass, basketry, dolls, candles, tole and decorative painting, sewing, quilting, pressed flowers, potpourri and lace fancies, wood turning, dried natural creations, wood novelties and unique functional items, Christmas ornaments and gifts as well as so much more. Deidicated artisans creating their special magic.

There is a lucky draw each day – Saturday features a $25 gift certificate and Sunday, the winner will receive an assortment of hand-made Christmas ornaments.

Williamstown village is picturesque and close – why not take a drive, enjoy the fall foliage and visit with us. The location, St. Mary's Centre, is a former public school now devoted to community events. Take County Road #17, just 7 km from Lancaster (exit 814 off Hwy. 401, 2nd exit west of Ontario/Quebec border or, if coming from the north, Hwy. 34 south to Lancaster). Free admission and parking.

Students stuffed at Thanksgiving dinner

Glen Walter
by Ron Holla
931-2658

More than 140 students and 40 adults were treated to turkey and all the trimmings at the annual Precious Blood Elementary School Thanksgiving lunch Oct. 6, Sandy Esdale, PTA president, said.

"The parents did all the cooking and serving," she said.

Esdale said she was pleased with the turnout, especially given the visit that same day of the remnants of Hurricane Opel.

"We didn't know if the power was going to go out or not, but things managed to keep going," she said.

Fundraiser project

The PTA at Precious Blood Elementary School are working on a fundraiser project with a view of trying something different this year, Sandy Esdale said.

"We're still trying to get our details organized," she said. "But we're hoping to have everything off the ground by the end of October."

English committee announced

The new edition of the "Planners", Precious Blood Elementary's English parents' committee, has been determined and the following people are members for the year 1995-96. They are Sandy Esdale, Anne Derochie, Chris Jeffrey, Kim MacNaughton, Heather Lefebvre, Gisele Brasseur, Elaine Burles and Chris Jasmin.

Receipts collected

Precious Blood Elementary School is still saving receipts from Farm Boy and Independent Grocer, with all proceeds going towards the Precious Blood library.

"These receipts are an excellent source of funds," Sandy Esdale said.

Esdale said the PTA wished to thank all parents who have made the effort to save and send in their receipts.

Christmas parade ideas

The "Planners" are working on putting some ideas together for the annual Cornwall Christmas parade planned for Nov. 19, Sandy Esdale, Precious Blood Elementary PTA president, said.

"The theme for the parade is 'Love', Peace and Children's Dreams,'" she said. "Our float has yet to be decided on as far as our theme and design goes, but we expect to be ready before Nov. 19."

Twenty-five people from this area enjoyed a trip to Clarenceville, Que. with Rejeanne Lajoie to celebrate Octoberfest.

Once there songs were sung in French, English and German. Helga, one of the passengers on the bus who is originally from Germany, helped everyone sing a German song. Everyone really enjoyed themselves.

Rejeanne tells me, she will be organizing a trip to Clarenceville for the sugar bush party at a date to later be determined. If interested you may call Rejeanne at 525-3700 as soon as possible.

Japanese guest new to our Halloween

Glen Roy

Junko Ohnogi, living on the Glen Roy Road, was featured two weeks ago in The Glengarry News as one of five students belonging to the Educational Foundation program attending GDHS. She claims that in Japan, there are no Halloween celebrations, but they do grow our sacred vegetable, the Great Pumpkin.

Last week, my column was absent as I was pre-occupied putting the finishing touches on a manual that I have been editing for my husband concerning parenting in the '90's. The News has recently published his mail-order ad entitled The Strategic Parenting Manual, and we are very optimistic for its continued success.

For all the Mac's (Donnells) throughout Glengarry County, I'd like to share with you a bit of your history that hails from, yes, Scotland.

Glen Roy, Lochaber: "Steeped in history, the beautiful Glen Roy runs north-east from Roy Bridge in the heart of Lochaber. In 1645 the glen saw the forced march of Montrose and his troops on the way to the Battle of Inverlochy. Here, in the 17th century one of the Chiefs of Keppoch was slain along with his brother. The last of the clan battles was fought here on the 4th of August 1688 between the MacDonells of Keppoch and the Macintoshes. This battle is said to be the last recorded instance of the use of bows and arrows by Highlanders."

Char-Lan maintains grip on cross-country trophy

Char-Lan District High School made history by winning the overall title at the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry cross-country championships, held Wednesday in Long Sault.

Crusaders coach Don Blackadder believes Char-Lan's victory marks the first time that an "A" division school (under 700 students) has won consecutive SDG titles.

Char-Lan's sweep of team titles in both boys' and girls' competition are also thought to be a first for an "A" school.

Crusaders domination

Char-Lan's repeat performance as the United Counties' high school cross-country champion was no fluke.

Although midget boys' runner Stephen Alguire was the only Crusader to win an individual race, Char-Lan ran way with the team title.

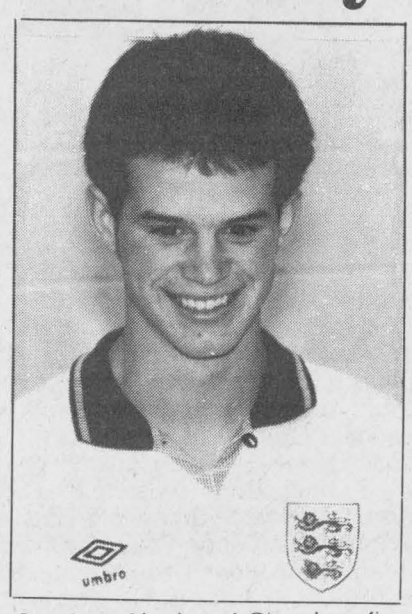
The Crusaders piled up 47 overall points, well ahead of runner-up La Citadelle which had only 22.

St. Joseph's was third with 20 points, followed by North Dundas (15 pts.), Glengarry (14 pts.), General Vanier (8 pts.), St. Lawrence (5 pts.) and Tagwi (2 pts.).

The Crusaders outpointed La Citadelle 27-12 to take the girls' division title and North Dundas 20-15 to win the boys' championship.

Char-Lan won team titles in three divisions - midget girls (Elizabeth Rankin, Lisa Haddow, Angie Allaire, Kelly Rankin), senior boys (Adam Blackadder, Kris Wolochatiuk, Andrew Beaudin, Derek Abrams) and senior girls (Sarah McLean, Nina Craig, Shannon MacLeod, Christina Beaudin).

The Crusaders finished second in the junior girls' and midget boys' divisions.



Stephen Alguire of Char-Lan finished first in the midget boys' division.

Blackadders finish second

Besides Alguire's first-place finish in the midget boys' division, the Crusaders had a pair of second-place results in individual competition.

Rory Blackadder was less than two seconds behind Tagwi's Troy Stelmach in the junior boys' race while Adam Blackadder was runner-up to North Dundas' Murray Link in the senior boys' division.

The other Char-Lan runners to finish in the top 10 were Sarah McLean (3rd in senior girls), Elizabeth Rankin (4th in midget girls), Lee Klazinga (4th in midget boys), Nina Craig (7th in senior girls), Shannon MacLeod (8th in senior girls), Stephanie Bateman (8th in junior girls), Christina Beaudin (9th in senior girls), Kris Wolochatiuk (9th in senior boys), Andrew Beaudin (10th in senior boys) and Melissa Pregent (10th in junior girls).

Glengarry boys finish third

Glengarry's only team points came in the boys' division, where the Gaels finished third behind Char-Lan and North Dundas.

The junior boys' team of Jesse Winkiewicz, Eric Labelle, Mark Williams and Owen MacDonell was second in its division behind St. Joseph's.

The top individual performer for Glengarry was Kelly Winkiewicz, who finished second in the senior girls' race.

The Gaels also got a third from Sabine Hagen in midget girls' competition and fourths from Wanda MacDonell (senior girls), Jesse Winkiewicz (junior boys) and Dan Booth (senior boys).

The other top 10 finishers for Glengarry were Mark Williams (8th in junior boys) and Peter Veltheim (10th in midget boys).

Stelmach leads Tagwi

Troy Stelmach's victory in the junior boys' race was easily the highlight of the day for the Tagwi cross-country team.

The Apple Hill resident finished 1.5 seconds ahead of Char-Lan's Rory Blackadder to win the race.

Tagwi also got strong showings from Cory Winters, who finished seventh in the midget boys' race, and Sue Frei, who was ninth in the junior girls' division.

The top teams and individuals from the SDG competition will take part in the Eastern Ontario championships in Cobden tomorrow.

Lions frustrated by Glens' rally

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

It was a weekend or ironies for the Alexandria Glens.

The Glens played well in Winchester on Friday despite dropping a 6-3 decision to the second-place at Hawks.

On home ice Sunday, the Glens escaped with an 8-7 shootout victory over the Morrisburg Lions despite repeated attempts to give the game away to the winless Lions.

"We lost Friday's game, but as far as I'm concerned we should have won because we played so well," said Alexandria coach and general manager Robert Boisvenue.

"Sunday was the opposite. We shouldn't have won that game after taking all those penalties."

The Glens fought hard to rally from a 7-3 deficit and tie the game at 7-7. Alexandria then took a string of needless penalties that gave the Lions a power play for most of the final 10 minutes of the third period and the five-minute overtime.

Only the Lions' ineffective powerplay and Gerry Goulet's stellar work between the pipes prevented the Glens from losing their sixth game in seven outings this season.

"We're taking too many stupid penalties. There's such a thing as a good penalty, but things like roughing after the whistle, butt-ending and slashing are not good penalties."

Boisvenue says the Glens' lack of discipline on the ice carries over off the ice.

"The players have to control their behavior on the ice and they have to learn to keep their mouths shut on the bench.

"What gives them the right to complain about other players when they're making the same mistakes?"

The other thing that has Boisvenue concerned is the Glens' habit of getting out of the gate slowly in games.

The Hawks took a 3-0 lead in Friday's game while the Lions put the Glens on the ropes by outscoring Alexandria 5-2 in the first period on Sunday.

"We're just not into it in the first period at all," lamented Boisvenue. "They have to learn to play 60 minutes of hockey if they want to be successful."

Goulet continues to impress

Along with the two points from Sunday's game, several other positives emerged on the weekend for the Glens.

For starters, Gerry Goulet has clearly established himself as the team's No. 1 goaltender.

Goulet had a strong game in a losing cause in Winchester and allowed only one goal in 39 minutes of relief work for starter Chris Motard on Sunday.

The rookie netminder was also sharp during the shootout, allowing only two goals on 10 Morrisburg shots.

The Glens also got a strong performance from newly-signed forward Yves Ruest, who collected five points in his first two junior B games.

"I'm really impressed with the way (Ruest) played. He's a kid who never quits, he's got good hands and he's a smart hockey player."

Sophomore winger Darcy MacDonell has also made an impression on the coach.

MacDonell had two goals and two assists to spark Alexandria's comeback against Morrisburg and was one of the scorers during the shootout.

"He's a completely different player than he was last year. He's become a real leader in the dressing room and on the bench. I think that just comes from a veteran player who's taking on more responsibility for himself."

MacDonell's improved scoring touch leaves him tied with Carl Cadieux for the team lead with nine points.

Nielsen scores shootout winner

In addition to MacDonell's two goals, the Glens got singles from Stephane Boisvenue, Carl Cadieux, Yves Ruest, David Bruyere and Jean Theoret on Sunday.

MacDonell, Cadieux and Scott Nielsen - with the winner - scored in the shootout tiebreaker.

The Lions' offence consisted of four goals by Chad Duguay and singles by Geoff Hare, Chad White and Jeremy Gowsell.

In Friday's loss to the Hawks, the Glens got two goals from Carl Cadieux and one from Joey Houle.

Ryan Nichol and Garth Byrne each scored twice for the Hawks with singles going to Pat Collins and Willy Ottereyes.

Glens' notes: Now that Gerry Goulet has locked up one of the goaltending spots, the fight is on between Chris Motard and Pierre Tasse for the other. Tasse was scheduled for a start on the weekend, but a call-up by the Hawkesbury Hawks prevented the Glens from getting a closer look at the 18-year-old Grenville, Que. resident...Forward Stephane Belisle has been released while defenceman Richard D'Aoust has been suspended indefinitely. Both players suffered the wrath of Glens management for skipping games and failing to inform the team...Michel Jeaurond and Stephane Boisvenue made returns to the line-up after sitting out two games with injuries...The Glens host South Grenville on Friday and will make the long trip to Gananoque on Sunday.

Gaels reclaim senior soccer bragging rights from Pats

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

Glengarry has taken a two to one lead over La Citadelle in what has become an annual battle for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry senior boys' high school soccer championship.

The Gaels capitalized on home field advantage and a three-goal performance by forward Alain Decoste to defeat the defending champion Patriotes 4-1 in the league final on Thursday.

The Gaels also beat the Pats in the 1993 championship game but La Citadelle evened the score with a win over Glengarry in the 1994 final.

Last year's result was very much on the minds of the veteran Gaels according to Thursday's scoring hero.

"As soon as we realized we were playing La Citadelle in the final, we were really pumped up," said Decoste, who also scored two goals in Glengarry's 3-0 win over Char-Lan in a semifinal game earlier on Thursday.

"After losing to them last year, we really wanted to beat them this year."

The Gaels got off on the wrong foot against the Pats, falling into an early 1-0 hole as Ali Nour chipped a shot past Glengarry keeper Eric Lavigne.

The Gaels replied with two goals by Decoste to take a 2-1 lead into the halftime break.

The back-breaker for La Citadelle came in the first minute of the second half as midfielder Daniel Steiche fired a hard shot under the Patriotes netminder.

The goal marked the beginning of a half that would be totally dominated by Glengarry.

"The guys really played well today," said Glengarry coach Brian Filion.

"There was some nice build-up in the play and some great passing that created a lot of scoring chances.

"Our fullbacks completed dominated the game, especially in the second half.

"Jesse Hamelin marked their top scorer (Nour) and shut him down. Allan Campbell and Jonathan Hamelin also played well back there and (midfielder) Daniel Steiche just had a great game.

"It must have been very deflating for (the Patriotes) to move the ball upfield only to have one of our defenders kick it right back out again."

At the other end of the field, Filion got a big-time effort from his most talented forward.

"Alain Decoste came through when he had to. He didn't have a great season but he made up for it today."

Thursday's win over La Citadelle marks the sixth consecutive year Filion has coached a Glengarry team to a United Counties soccer championship, but the five titles prior to this year were all at the junior level.

"It's always nice to win your first of anything," said Filion when asked about the difference between winning at the senior and junior levels.

"It's especially nice when you've finished in first place and you're playing at home and you're in a situation in which anything less than a championship would be a disappointment."

Losing the championship this year would have been especially disappointing since the Gaels are hosting the Eastern Ontario championships, which will be held today.

Glengarry will be in Pool B and will play Prescott-Russell league winner Rockland District High School at 9 a.m. in its first game.

The Gaels' second pool game is at 11:30 a.m. against Upper Ottawa Valley representative Jeanne Lajoie of Pontiac.

Pool A includes Brockville Collegiate, Frontenac and the winner of the Lanark league.

The pool winners will meet in the final at 4:30 p.m.

Gaels blank Crusaders in semis

Glengarry advanced to the SDG championship game with a 3-0 win over Char-Lan in a Thursday morning semifinal.

After a scoreless first half, Alain Decoste scored twice to put the Gaels up 2-0 while James Addison added a third goal seconds before the final whistle.

Eric Lavigne recorded the shutout.

Eastern Ontario high school soccer championships
Senior division (all games at high school field)
Pool A: Frontenac, Brockville (BCI), Lanark league winner
Pool B: Glengarry, Rockland, Jeanne Lajoie (Pontiac)

Junior division (all games at arena field)
Pool A: Loyalist, North Grenville, Lanark league winner
Pool B: Tagwi, Hawkesbury, Mackenzie

Tournament format is a round-robin within each pool with the top team in each pool meeting in the championship game. The finals in both divisions will be played at 4:30 p.m.

Warriors snap Gaels' string of junior crowns

For the first time in the 1990's, a school other than Glengarry will have its name inscribed on the junior boys' championship trophy.

The homestanding Tagwi Warriors snapped the Gaels' string of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry titles at five with a shootout win over the Alexandria school last Thursday in the United Counties final.

Tagwi outscored Glengarry 4-3 in the penalty-kick tiebreaker with Doug Ferguson netting the title-winner on the final shot. The teams had played to a 1-1 tie in regulation time with Jean-Francois Lafrance scoring for the Gaels and Alex Middleton for the Warriors.

"It's a hard way to lose a championship, but those are the rules," said veteran Glengarry coach Laurent Rivard, whose teams have been victimized by the penalty-shot tiebreaking format on two previous occasions with a major championship on the line.

Rivard praised his players for their effort and gave Tagwi full credit for its victory.

"It's too bad for our players that we couldn't pull it out, but (the Gaels) played very well and Tagwi played very well. The closeness of the game showed just how good both teams are."

Rivard says the Warriors' championship was well earned.

"Tagwi went through the entire season without a loss, that has to mean something.

"I'm very happy for them. Their coach Paul Frigon has been coaching for a long time and he deserves to win. He's a very good coach and I wish his team all the best at EOSSAA."

In an ironic twist, Glengarry is the site of today's Eastern Ontario championship tournament. The Warriors are in Pool B along with Hawkesbury and Mackenzie of Deep River.

Semifinal results

Although Glengarry fell just short of the ultimate prize, the Gaels did earn a little revenge on Thursday.

The Gaels blanked Cornwall Collegiate 3-0 in the semifinals to avenge one of Glengarry's two losses during regular-season play.

Tim Van Overbeek, Murray MacLeod and Cameron Lajoie scored for the Gaels.

The other semifinal was decided in a shootout as Tagwi defeated Char-Lan 3-2.

Alain Decoste had five goals in the senior Gaels' two wins on Thursday.

Glengarry indoor soccer gets rolling

Richard Willard and Randy Lavigueur recorded hat tricks during the first week of regular-season play in the newly-formed Glengarry Indoor Soccer League.

Willard's three goals helped the Express down the Old-timers 7-2 on Wednesday while Lavigueur's hat trick came in a 5-3 win by the Storm over M and D Sports on Tuesday.

The other scorers for the Express were Benjamin Pye and Scott McDougall with two goals apiece. D.A. MacMillan and Kirk MacMillan had the Old-timer goals.

Alain Decoste and Glen MacLeod added single goals in the Storm's win while M and D replied with solo markers by Ken Sauk, Jason Poll and Mike Lavigueur.

Women's division

On Tuesday, Melissa MacDonald scored twice as Glen Sandfield doubled Rudi Payer Sport 4-2.

Melissa Brodie and Tamany Booth also scored for Glen Sandfield while Shonna Atchison and Tina Lalonde replied for Rudi's.

On Wednesday night, Lynn-Marie Legault scored two goals as the Atlantic defeated the Springers 4-1.

Meghan MacPherson and Sue Giroux rounded out the scoring for the winners while Tina Bond accounted for the lone Springers goal.

Meanwhile, Aidan Burgess recorded the shutout as the Red Barons beat the Classics 2-0.

Becky Howes and Sherrill Norman took care of the Barons' offence.

Berube's four points lead Benton past L.C.

Andree Berube had a goal and three assists to lead Art Benton to a 5-0 Ladies' Sponge Puck League win over L.C. Electric last Wednesday night at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

Barb Benton scored a pair of goals for Benton while Lynda Brunet and Marie Bellemare had single goals.

Nat Theoret picked up her second shutout of the season as the L.C. offence failed to score for a third consecutive game.

Tapis hands M and D first loss

In Wednesday's other game, a pair of goals by the special teams lifted Tapis Richard Ranger Carpet to a 2-1 win over previously undefeated M and D Sports.

M and D took a 1-0 lead in the first period as Sylvie Major scored her third goal of the season, but Tapis rallied with two second-period goals.

Tapis tied the game on a power play when Cathy Depratto drove to the net and neatly deflected a hard pass from Sue Stewart.

Stewart scored the game-winner late in the middle frame while Tapis was playing shorthanded.

Tapis' record improves to 2-0 with the win while M and D drops to 2-1.

Tapis, Benton and M and D share the league lead with four points apiece.

Chiefs meet Generals in minor football semis

The Cornwall Township Bantam Chiefs face the Ottawa East Generals as the Nation's Capital Amateur Football Association playoffs kick off this Sunday.

The winner of Sunday's game at St. Andrew's field will advance to the "B" final.

The Chiefs finished in seventh place in the 10-team bantam division this season. That's a one-spot improvement from the club's eight-place finish in 1994, Cornwall Township's first season in the NCAFA.

Cornwall Township's chances at victory on Sunday depend largely on the performance of quarterback Dean MacGillivray, a resident of Kenyon Township.

MacGillivray - who also serves as the team's place-kicker - accounted for all 18 points in the Chiefs final regular-season game, an 18-16 win over the Nepean Redskins.

There are five other local products on the Chiefs' roster - Allan Campbell, Donald Roy, Alain Poirier, Hugo Cecereu and Andrew Sugden.

The Chiefs also have a Glengarry connection on the coaching staff. Offensive co-ordinator Jeff Bethune is the son of former Gaels quarterback Barry Bethune.

Cross-country champions

Griese nets 13 points as Char-Lan defeats Warriors

Shannon Griese netted 13 points as Char-Lan defeated their host Tagwi Warriors 31-20 in junior girls' basketball action in Avonmore on Thursday, Oct. 19.

After an even first half that ended in a 14-12 advantage for Char-Lan, the Crusaders more than doubled the Warriors' scoring and secured an easy win.

Charity Franklin had 12 points for Tagwi.

A win in the junior match was the only one that Char-Lan would get that afternoon, as Tagwi won both the senior and midget games.

St. Louis leads Tagwi seniors

The senior match, claimed by Tagwi 36-33, turned out to be the closest the winless Crusaders have come to a victory since their season opener, a two-point loss to Rothwell-Osnabruck.

A 16-7 halftime lead by Tagwi negated a strong second half for the Crusaders which featured 10 points by Shonna Atchison and eight by Ariana Winn, her only points of the match.

Atchison, Char-Lan's leading scorer all season long, finished with 14 points.

Jaime St. Louis led Tagwi's scoring with 13 points, while Sommer Miller had seven.

Cathy Toxopeas had eight points for the midget Warriors as they shut down the Crusaders 30-11.

Horizontal Lion

Morrisburg's Chris Proulx gets tripped up by the Glens' Carl Cadieux during an Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League game in Alexandria on Sunday. The Glens rallied from a 7-3 deficit to beat the Lions in a shootout.

Rebels and 73's play it close

The Kemptville 73's and the Char-Lan Rebels played to their third consecutive tie in Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League action on Sunday in Kemptville.

After Char-Lan's Dave Campbell and Kemptville's Shawn Forbes traded goals in the first period, the goaltenders and the defenders controlled the rest of the game.

The result was a junior B rarity, a final score of 1-1 after regulation play and overtime.

The 73's won the shootout to earn the bonus point, with Forbes scoring the winning goal.

The same teams met in Kemptville on Thursday, but this time it was the Rebels who won the shootout and the bonus point. The teams had tied 3-3.

Dave McNally scored the winner during the penalty-shot round while the Char-Lan scorers in regulation play were Marc Bellemare - with two goals - and Terry O'Farrell.

O'Farrell's goal came with 6:11 left in the third period to force overtime. The Kemptville scorers were Derek Hutt, Shawn Forbes and Kelly Winsor.

Rebels ground Hawks

In between visits to Kemptville, the Rebels recorded a 6-4 home-ice win over the Winchester Hawks on Saturday.

Eric Fontaine scored twice for the winners as the Rebels handed the Hawks only their second loss of the season.

Marc Bellemare potted his 18th goal of the season for Char-Lan and added three assists. Dave Campbell, Kevin O'Farrell and Terry O'Farrell also scored.

The Hawks replied with single goals by Matt Kossatz, Miguel Lafleche, Rob Raistrick and Garth Byrne.

Rebs remain undefeated

Last week's busy stretch of action leaves the Rebels undefeated through the first nine games of the season.

The Rebs are 5-0-4 for a total of 16 points, four better than both Winchester and Kemptville.

"We're pretty happy with the way the weekend went," said Char-Lan coach Jeff Carter. "We took three of four points out of Kemptville, which is probably more than we've had in the last two years combined.

"I'm very happy with the way the team played this weekend considering we played three games in four nights.

"We took five of six points from the two closest teams to us in the standings, so I can't complain."

The bad news for the Rebels last week didn't come in the win-loss column, it came in sick bay.

The Rebels will be without two of their regulars for a prolonged period as winger Tim Corput and defenceman Kacey MacDonell went down with serious injuries.

Corput - who had been playing on the Rebels' No. 1 line with Marc Bellemare and Dave Campbell - separated his shoulder on Sunday and is expected to be out at least a month.

Meanwhile, MacDonell broke his ankle while playing rugby at school and will be out of the line-up until December.

Carter says the Rebels are looking to sign a few players to fill the injured duo's spots in the line-up.

"We were planning to make some personnel additions at some point this year anyway," said Carter. "We're just going to have to do it sooner than we thought."

Rebels notes: Veteran goalie Denis Villeneuve played all three games for the Rebels last week and kept his goals against average below 3.00. Villeneuve has allowed only 18 goals in six-plus games of work and his average currently stands at 2.67...Villeneuve was the Chumps Road Warrior on Sunday. Marc Bellemare and Kevin O'Farrell received the St. Hubert players of the game awards for Saturday's win over the Hawks...With Kacey MacDonell injured and Rod Besner out of the line-up, Char-Lan midget defenceman Lee Klazinga saw action wit the Rebels last week...The Rebels host the Athens Aeros tonight and will be in Prescott to take on the South Grenville Rangers on Saturday.

Hadzocos lifts Cain to pair of victories

The Sam Cain bantam-midgets recorded wins over Poirier Bus Lines and Gauthier's Greenhouse in Char-Lan minor hockey house league action last week.

On Oct. 15, Alex Hadzocos scored two goals to lift Cain to a 5-4 win over Poirier.

Willie Larkin, Julien Sarda and Joel Plamondon had single goals for Cain while Poirier replied with two goals by Robert Martin and singles by Alain poirier and Simon Harrington.

On Wednesday, Cain edged Gauthier's 3-2 as Hadzocos, Albert St. Denis and David Vande Ligt each tallied once.

Dominic Poirier and Joel Duval had goals for Gauthier's.

Cain's winning ways came to an end on Friday with a 4-1 loss to Alexandria. Jordan Flaro scored in a losing cause.

Malyon wins pair

Malyon Excavation picked up a couple of wins in peewee division action.

Greg Leroux scored twice as Malyon downed the Alexandria Sharks 3-1 on Thursday.

Andrew Knight also scored while Michael Touchette had two assists.

Gabriel Merangere replied for the Sharks.

On Saturday, Ryan Snider was in goal as Malyon shut out Munro Agromart 6-0.

The goalscorers were Andrew Knox with two and Fred Hadzocos, Michael O'Farrell, Brian Brownlee and Ed Hadzocos with singles.

Meanwhile, Summerstown Meats rebounded from a 3-2 loss to the Alexandria Glens on Thursday to blank Longevity Acrylics 2-0 on Saturday.

Sylvain Pilon and Mathieu Sarda scored in Summerstown's victory while Todd Hamilton recorded the shutout. Sylvain Pilon and Shawn Pilon had goals against the Glens, who replied with single markers by Blair MacMillan, Rory McLeod and Doug Shattler.

Grant tips hat in MacDonald win

The MacDonald Grocery atoms received a three-goal effort from Robert Grant in handing Glengarry Golf Club a 6-2 loss on Saturday.

Neil Thomson, Raymond Martin and Geoffrey Geneau rounded out MacDonald's scoring. Jason Cooper and Pascal Delaquis replied for Glengarry.

On Friday, Cornwall Aviation dumped McCuaig Plumbing 4-1.

Scott Waldrof scored a pair of goals for Aviation with singles being added by Brock Munro and Shawn McDonald.

Philip Hirschman connected for McCuaig.

Hirschman had both of McCuaig's goals in a 2-2 tie against MacDonald Grocery on Tuesday.

Ryan Lalonde and Robert Grant had goals for MacDonald.

Hughes sets up Knights' first SDG broomball win

Peter Hughes set up three of his team's goals as the George King Knights (formerly Allan Crites Excavation) defeated Farley Windows 4-1 in SDG Broomball League action on Sunday in Maxville.

The win is the first in four tries for the Knights this season.

Eddy McDonald was on the scoring end of two of Hughes' assists while Eric Thauvette and Robert Robillard had single goals.

Gerry Seguin accounted for the only Farley goal.

While the Knights were winning their first game of the year, Glengarry Insulation remained undefeated with a 5-1 win over Guy's Radiator.

Sebastien Elie had two goals for the winners while Sylvain Elie, Marc Hurtubise and Michel Decoeur had single markers.

Meo Lacombe replied for Guy's.

In Sunday's other game, Dave's Drywall evened its record at 2-2 by beating Atlas Rentals 4-1.

Four different scorers found the range for Dave's - Jason Norman, Greg Cooper, Steve Norman and Rob Waldroff.

Bill Pynenburg was the only scorer for winless Atlas.

MacPherson puts the boot to Rudi's

Kirk Hill sniper nets five goals in rout

Meghan MacPherson scored five goals as Kirk Hill routed Rudi Payer Sport 11-2 in Cornwall Indoor Soccer League action at St. Lawrence College on Sunday.

Marnie McRae and Kelly Lariviere each scored a pair of goals for the winners while Kathy Kennedy and Lauren MacPherson had singles.

Shonna Atchison and Kelly Lariviere had the goals for Rudi's.

It was the second loss of the week for Rudi's as the second-year club dropped a 2-1 decision to the St. Lawrence Roadrunners on Thursday night.

Shonna Atchison accounted for Rudi's scoring.

The Minimax Hearts won for the second time in as many games by thumping Paddy's 7-0 on Sunday.

Jessica MacLeod paced the Hearts with a three-goal effort while Lynn-Marie Legault, Carol MacLeod, Bonnie MacLeod and Tammy MacSweyn added single goals.

Flyers win again

The Apple Hill Flyers are co-leaders in the men's second division after edging Jiggers 3-2 on Sunday to up their record to 2-0.

Matt Campbell and Jesse Hamelin each scored their third goals of the season for the Flyers while Nelson MacPherson netted his first of the year.

Bob's Hotel lost 7-4 to Mr. Sub despite a three-goal performance by Kieran Kennedy.

Shawn McClements added a single goal for Bob's.

Defending first division champions Rudi Payer Sport played to a 4-4 tie against La Maison.

Pat Burke, Andy McCuaig, Benjamin Pye and Steve Lodge each scored once for Rudi's.

Junior Gaels defeat St. Joseph's Panthers

Patriotes and Devils rough up the Crusaders

The Glengarry junior boys' high school volleyball team upped its Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry league match record to 4-1 with a win over the St. Joseph's Panthers in Cornwall Wednesday.

The Gaels won the first two games 15-6 and 15-11 before dropping the final game of the match 15-12.

Marc Sauve's club has a 9-6 game record in its five matches this season.

The senior Gaels' record fell to .500 as Glengarry dropped three straight games to St. Joe's on Wednesday.

Char-Lan struggles at NDDHS

The Char-Lan senior and junior teams combined to win only one of 12 games against the North Dundas Devils and the La Citadelle Patriotes in Maple Ridge on Friday.

The senior Crusaders lost 15-3, 15-2 and 15-8 to the Pats and 15-3, 15-1 and 15-6 to the Devils.

The Char-Lan juniors also lost both of its matches but managed to squeeze out a victory in one game.

Char-Lan plays its first home matches of the season on Thursday as the Crusaders host the Glengarry Gaels and the Cornwall Collegiate Golden Raiders.

Alexandria peewees are perfect in pre-season play

The Alexandria Peewee Glens extended their minor hockey exhibition winning streak to seven games with a 7-2 win over the North Glengarry-Stormont Braves on Sunday evening at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

Dominic Decoeur led the offence with three goals and one assist while Jeff Lobb, Jean-Francois Menard, Joel Quesnel and Andrew McIntyre had single goals.

Patrick Picard set up three Alexandria goals.

The Glens' previous victory was a 4-2 road win at the expense of the North Dundas Demons.

Jean-Francois Menard netted a pair of goals for Alexandria while Beth Depratto and Joel Quesnel each scored once.

Decoeur sinks Braves

The Alexandria midgets have also sailed through the pre-season.

Marc Sauve's club recorded another exhibition win on Saturday, a 6-0 whitewashing of the NGS Braves.

Francois Lortie, David Leblanc, Daryl Howes and Mark Laferriere added single goals for Alexandria while Eric Lavigne had three assists.

On Thursday, the Glens travelled to Vankleek Hill where they claimed a 7-4 victory over the Cougars.

Jason Poirier and Marc Gauthier each notched a pair of goals to lead the attack.

Eric Lavigne, Daryl Howes and Sylvain Campeau chipped in with single markers.

Schaeffer paces attack for atom Rebs

Robb Schaeffer scored four goals to lead the Char-Lan Atom Rebels to three consecutive wins in minor hockey pre-season play recently.

Schaeffer's offensive outburst came in a 5-1 win over Cornwall and consecutive victories of 3-2 and 3-1 against the North Glengarry-Stormont Braves.

Michael Fraser, Phillip Touchette, Steven Jarvo, Brian Danaher, Justin Lalonde, Leo Dignard and Patrice Brunet have each scored once in the three-game stretch for the Rebels.

On Wednesday in Williamstown, the peewee Rebels edged the South Stormont Selects 2-1.

Denis Guay set up both Char-Lan goals, which were scored by Leigh Thomson and David Carry.

Senior champions

Soccer offences in full gear

The first week of exhibition play in the Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League featured a pair of high-scoring ties Monday evening.

In the first game, Jamie Myers and Peter Mesman had a pair of goals each as the Vanelli's Warriors tied the Stars 4-4.

Daniel Steiche had a pair of goals for the Stars while Alain Decoste and Toni Boos added singles.

The middle game of the evening between the league's newest team, Cornwall City, and the Williamstown Thunder also finished in a tie, 5-5.

Kevin Bard had a hat trick for the Thunder, with singles going to Ben Pye and Bruce Tessier.

Denis St. Germain scored twice for City, which also got goals from Chad Beauregard, Al Duclos and Eric Fontaine.

The night's final game, between Rudi's and the SDG Nomads, was defaulted by both sides.

Next week's exhibition action features the Stars vs. City (7 p.m.), Rudi's vs. the Thunder (8 p.m.) and the Nomads vs. the Warriors (9 p.m.)

Junior Gaels extend victory streak to four

By Danioel Steiche
Sports reporter

The Glengarry junior girls' basketball team has remained undefeated this year by earning its fourth easy victory of the 1995 campaign.

The Gaels fourth consecutive win, a 41-23 dumping of Cornwall Collegiate, came on Tuesday, Oct. 17, as the Gaels travelled to the Raiderdome.

As has been the case all season, Glengarry attained an early lead in the game, going up 25-13 by halftime, and cruised to an unchallenged victory.

A group of dependable players emerging on the junior squad came through once again for Glengarry, as three players accounted for more than two-thirds of the Gaels' scoring.

Tina Bond and Kim MacLachlan co-led Glengarry's attack with 12 points apiece, while Lauren Gray contributed seven.

Raiders win other two games

The Raiders finished the afternoon on top statistically, however, as they defeated the Gaels in both the senior and midget games.

The Glengarry seniors shall continue to reside on the opposite end of the win-loss spectrum of their junior counterparts.

The senior Gaels remain winless in 1995, dropping their fourth straight game of the season to the Raiders, 22-16.

Tammy MacSweyn contributed more than half of Glengarry's offence, scoring nine points in a losing cause.

Tuesday's game against Cornwall Collegiate was Glengarry's lowest-scoring game since its season opener against St. Lawrence, when the Gaels only scored 15 points.

The Gaels also dropped the midget game to the Raiders, being doubled 24-12.

After going down 14-1 at halftime, Glengarry responded by outscoring its opponent 11-10 in the second half.

Tamara Hartrick was once again Glengarry's leading scorer, tallying six points.

Glengarry '95

Annual concert thrills audience

On Saturday, Oct. 14, the curtain ent up at Centrepointe Theatre, epean, on Glengarry '95, the 13th oncert showcasing Glengarry talent nd sponsored by the Glengarry lub of Ottawa.

The underlying theme of the con-rt was the 15th anniversary of the nd of World War II. This was great- enhanced by the singing of The hite Cliffs of Dover by Kristin authier followed by the Claude unney V.C. Branch No. 544 Royal anadian Legion, Lancaster Color arty under the direction of Eric ewman being piped on stage by pe Major John T. MacKenzie. As entioned by emcee Max Keeping, lengarry sent more than one and e-half times the national average men and women to the second orld War therefore many in the dience traced roots back to many llen men and women from Glen-rry.

Next on stage was the combined rade II and IV Glengarry Pipe and playing a set consisting of mazing Grace, Scotland the Brave d The Rowan Tree followed by the rade II Band playing "a competi-n set that helped bring them North merican piping honors.

This year's concert featured some d favorites from past performances d Robin Upton and Gary atthews proved the adage "they get tter with age"!

What can be said about the Mac-lloch Dancers that hasn't been id before! Once again they gave other stellar performance with eir dancing prowess which set dience feet dancing along with the oup.

The Glengarry Old Tyme Fiddlers e a groups of dedicated violinists no play for many social events ound the county Their tunes also t toes a-tapping and hands a-clap-ng by the appreciative audience.

The Morris family singers have rformed at almost every concert nce 1976 where they sang with the her, Howard. This year the family s joined by their own children and eir singing was a real treat to hear. ngratulations on some sweet har-ny!

Gillian Macdonald's Dancers of e Glen are a group of young ncers many of whom have Glen-rry ties. They performed several colorful choreographed numbers entitled The Flying Scotsman, Ceilidh in the Glen and The Gathering to the delight of the audience.

Once again the Brigadoons took time from their busy international schedule to share their musical talent with the concert goers. Their performance, as usual, was top-notch. The band was joined in one selection "The Young Soldier" by Jamie and Denis Carr, sons of vocalist Denis.

Kristin Gauthier has won a special place in the hearts of Glengarrians with her beautiful singing voice and the audience was delighted with her renditions of Scots Blue Bell, The Auld Scotch Sangs and Farewell My Love.

Alana MacPhail Morris was the pianist for Kristin and also Gary and Robin while Catherine Green accompanied the Morris family.

Preceding the finale, Club President Cindy MacMillan expressed sincere thanks to Max Keeping for being such a faithful emcee, to the volunteers and theatre staff at Centrepointe Theatre, to the performers and to the audience for supporting this 13th concert sponsored by the Glengarry Club of Ottawa. Comments heard after the show concluded that this concert was even better than the last one!

Well-deserved credit goes to Margery Stewart and Lorne Lawson who co-produced the show and to Joe Murray of Centrepointe Theatre for his part as stage manager.

"Glengarry, be proud!" was reiterated time after time by emcee Max Keeping on Oct. 14 during the Glengarry 95 concert at the Nepean Centrepointe Theatre.

Max's statement dealt not only with the talent displayed that evening but, in this special tribute and celebration of 50 years of world peace, he noted that, per capita, Glengarry's participation of men and women who served in World War II was one and a half times the national average!

Royal Canadian Legion Branches were started up by veterans across our nation where they continue to serve their communities, disabled comrades and their families.

It was fitting indeed that, after the opening song "White Cliffs of Dover" by soloist Kristin Gauthier, W.W. II veterans presented the Colors of Claude Nunney V.C. Branch 544, Lancaster.

At the direction of Color Party Commander, Eric Newman and to the skirl of the pipes played by Pipe Major J. T. MacKenzie, the Colors were marched on by Donal Conway, Norm Lyons and Lloyd MacDonald, escorted by Ray Daoust, Dalton Kirker and Bill Waters.

Most veterans, when being asked to recount incidents during their tour of duty, will often come up with something really funny – a people thing – nothing to do at all with the tragedies they witnessed. This ability to joke while under pressure was very much in evidence backstage.

A survey of the ages of these seven veterans tallied close to five hundred years! "We aren't worried" quipped one, "we have our doctor with us." Then, as further reassurance, a pocket check produced four vials of nitroglycerine tablets!

A long day and evening – no afternoon naps here – a long drive home in the rain. Our veterans had once again answered the call to duty. Lancaster, be proud!

Ecole St. Joseph

Happy October birthday to students Nathalie Berniquez, Tara Forstne, Tracey Sabourin, Bernard St. Pierre, Danielle St. Pierre and Jean Savoie.

Le Carrousel, with Marie-Josee Larocque and Donald Gravel entertained Grades 3 and 4 by teaching students how to make a mask or a piece of fruit by using Tutti-Fruitti plasticine.

Best efforts for Grade 3 were done by Nicholas McDonell, Patrick Blais and Celine David-Cormier. Grade 4 winners were Crystal Lebrun, Kimberley Lebrun and Jean Savoie. They all now go on to regional level.

Special thanks are sent to Tom Bellazzi and his teacher-students for the October after-school activity course in martial arts.

Grades 1 to 8 enjoyed a video and informal security talk about bus safety given by Paul-Emile Poirier. The students felt Mr. Poirier was very special and that he cared deeply for them.

Congratulations to the 60 "French Stars" whose names are too numerous to be mentioned.

Special thanks must also be sent to the Lancaster Optimist Club committee and members for 1995-96 from all their special St. Joseph students.

They appreciate all the work being done by the group.

Card of Thanks

MORRIS – It gave us great pleasure having a of our family, so many relatives and friends jo us in the celebration of our anniversary. You gifts, flowers and good wishes conveyed in the many lovely cards are much appreciated. Be assured that we shall forever cherish the mem ories of your friendship and many kindnesses Our most sincere thanks,
–Duncan and Mary Catherine 43-1p

McLAUGHLIN – The family of Jack McLaughlin wish to express their sincere thanks to the many who supported us at the time of Jack's death. To the nurses at Glengarry Memorial Hospital and Dr. Nadeau for their excellent care to Father MacDougall, St. Raphael's CWL and choir and all those who sent flowers, masses and prayers, your kindness will long be remembered.
–The McLaughlin and Richer families. 43-1p

MacLEOD – We wish to express our most sincere thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness extended to us during our recent bereavement in the loss of a loving husband, brother and brother-in-law, William K. The messages of sympathy, visits to the funeral home, cards, floral tributes, contributions to the various memorial funds and donations of food were greatly appreciated. Special thanks to the staff at Maxville Manor and Glengarry Memorial Hospital for their compassionate care, the Munro and Morris Funeral Home, Rev. Jim McVeigh, Eileen Campbell, the choir of Kenyon Presbyterian Church and John D. MacLeod. These many kind and generous acts will always be remembered.
– The MacLeod and Hartrick families. 43-1p

MacGILLIS – We would like to express our sincere thanks to everyone who made the event of our 25th anniversary "unforgetable." Thanks to our children and family, who organized the party. A special thanks to those who organized and provided a beautiful lunch – it was great! To everyone who attended the party, sent gifts and cards – we appreciated it so much. We are truly blessed to have such great family and friends.
– Bill and Eileen MacGillis. 43-1p

MacGILLIVRAY
The family of the late Amanda MacGillivray offer their sincere and heartfelt thanks to: The Medical and Nursing Staffs of the Glengarry Memorial Hospital and the ICU of the Cornwall General Hospital. In both hospitals she was treated with the maximum of skill and kindness. - Nursing at its best!
To Rev. Jim McVeigh and Rev. Robert Martin for a beautiful funeral service and to Piper Garry Matthews and Soloist Fiona Fraser for their parts in this service.
To the Ladies Aid of St. Columba Presbyterian Church for organizing the Reception with their usual expertise.
And to the very many kind people who sent floral offerings or made charitable donations, or sent expressions of sympathy.
God Bless You All!. 43-1p
Grant, Myrna, Jean.
And from Grant - Sincere and humble thanks to the Good Lord who allowed me nearly 65 years with this lovely lady.

In Memoriam

MacCASKILL, Rebecca (nee MacSweyn) – In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away Oct. 30, 1985.
– Sadly missed and always remembered by her son, Ian. 43-1p

MacCASKILL, Donald W. – In loving memory of a dear father who passed away Oct. 27, 1986.
– Sadly missed and always remembered by his son, Ian. 43-1p

LEFEBVRE, Pierre – In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away October 25, 1983.
Deep in our hearts lies a picture of a loved one gone to rest,
In memory's frame I shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.
–Sadly missed by Jacques Jr., Diane, Mom and Dad.

LOBB
In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather, Aurèle who passed away Oct. 26, 1984.
Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a heartache no one can heal.
There will always be a heartache and often silent tears
But we shall cherish those precious memories
Of the days when you were here.
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain
Please walk with us throughout our lives
Until we meet again.
You will never be forgotten because you were a one-of-a-kind-Dad.
A piece of you lives on in each and every one of us. We love you Dad
Your children 43-1p

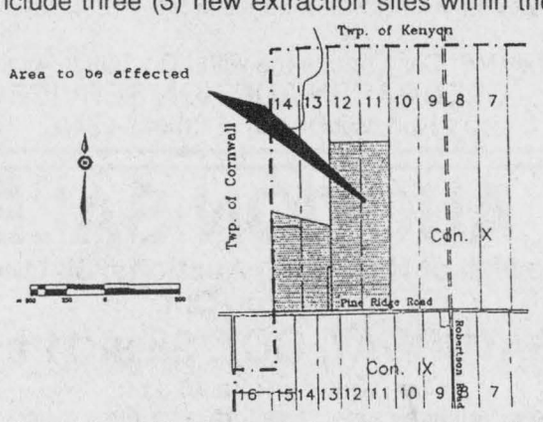
NOTICE OF THE PASSING OF A ZONING BYLAW BY THE TOWNSHIP OF CHARLOTTENBURGH

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Charlottenburgh passed Bylaw No. 40-95 on the 10th day of October, 1995 under section 34 of The Planning Act, 1990.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect of the bylaw filing with the Administrator-Clerk of the Township of Charlottenburgh not later than the 20th day of November, 1995 a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objection.

AN EXPLANATORY NOTE is as follows:

This amendment to Bylaw #12-83 which is the zoning bylaw of the Township of Charlottenburgh was prepared by the Municipality at the request of the applicant, Cornwall Gravel Co. Ltd. This amendment is required in order to permit the expansion of an existing operating quarry. The subject lands are located in part of Lots 11, 12, 13 and 14, Concession 10, Indian Lands, abutting the north side of Pineridge Road. The purpose of this bylaw is to amend the zoning designation on the subject property from rural Agricultural (Marginal) and Special Agricultural to Extractive Industrial (M2). The effect of this amendment is to allow the expansion of a quarry operation to include three (3) new extraction sites within the subject property.



DATED at the Township of Charlottenburgh this 21st day of October, 1995

NOTICE OF THE PASSING OF AN AMENDMENT TO THE OFFICIAL PLAN BY THE TOWNSHIP OF CHARLOTTENBURGH

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Charlottenburgh passed Bylaw No. 39-95 on the 10th day of October, 1995 under section 17 of The Planning Act, 1990.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect of the bylaw filing with the Administrator-Clerk of the Township of Charlottenburgh not later than the 20th day of November, 1995 a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objection.

AN EXPLANATORY NOTE to Official Plan Amendment:

The township has received an application to amend the designation of a parcel of land located in part of Lots 11, 12, 13 and 14, Concession 10, Indian Lands, abutting the north side of Pineridge Road. The subject property contains a quarry which has been in intermittent operation for approximately 30 years. the lands are rich in mineral aggregate resource and constitute poor farmland with little agricultural potential.

The applicant wishes to obtain an extension to the Licence currently in effect for the existing quarry, to eventually include the exploitation of three new extraction sites. The proposed new operation is to be of relatively small volume, responding essentially to local demand for aggregate but not seeking markets outside the Charlottenburgh area.

Glengarry Dewars reunited in Calgary

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Worship services for Sunday, Oct. 29 will be at 10 a.m. in Glen Sandfield United Church and at 11:15 a.m. in East Hawkesbury United Church with Rev. Allister Ross.

Historically the Dewar family came to Canada in 1818 from Galder Glenelg, Scotland, and settled on Lot 11, Concession 4 in Lochiel, one mile west of Glen Sandfield.

Descendants of this family are found throughout the Glengarry area, Alberta, B.C. and the U.S.A.

The weekend of Sept. 16 will be long remembered, for many of the Glengarry connection met relatives for the first time.

The reunion was very well organized and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Family members visited the homestead of John Hugh and his wife Sarah Jane MacMillan in Winton, Alberta, which was settled in 1880 not long after the Riel Rebellion.

Saturday evening they were entertained with a banquet at the Willow Park Golf and Country Club.

On Sunday they enjoyed a brunch at the Southern Alberta Pioneers Memorial Building, of which Sarah and John Hugh were founding members.

The weekend was busy, exciting and somewhat tiring, but very well spent and hopefully a reciprocal visit with materialize.

Many thanks to Cecil R. Dewar of Ottawa for this interesting item.

The 39ers club met at the Church on the Hill hall for their regular monthly luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 18 where President Doris Spencer warmly welcomed the group. She was the only birthday celebrant this month.

Lucky cups were found by the guest speaker, Sharon Villeneuve, Vivian Gregory, Christina MacKenzie and Isobel MacPherson.

After the meal Muriel Moore led the singing of some old favorites, starting with the 39'ers theme song, all of which were ably accompanied by Vivian Gregory on the piano.

Muriel Moore introduced the guest speaker Sharon Villeneuve after the sing-song.

Her topic, Operation Lookout, spoke to the members in a most meaningful way. She spoke about young people drinking and driving and the dangers involved.

Mrs. Villeneuve lost her teenage son in such an accident and she is trying to spare other families the pain of another needless tragedy.

The speaker was very earnest in her desire to eliminate drunk drivers from the road, and her listeners were all in agreement.

The video of two suffering parents, one who had lost a son and the other a daughter, was hard to watch, but it brought home to everyone just how painful the loss of a child can be.

The video also showed how only three beers can drastically alter a person's reflexes and their sense of distance perception.

She hopes that the public will call when they see a seemingly impaired driver, give the licence plate number, make of car, the color, the location where they have seen it and tell the direction in which the car was going. You need NOT give your name.

She quoted some pretty frightening statistics on deaths and injuries caused by impaired drivers. There were several pieces of literature for each of her listeners.

President Doris Spencer thanked the guest speaker most warmly.

The business portion of the meeting began with the singing of the national anthem which was followed by the reading of the minutes by Secretary Lorna Chapman.

The roll call and financial report were given by Dot Burnett in the absence of Treasurer Elisabeth Groot.

There was an address in BC. on the back of the current Voice magazine, where wooden name badges may be obtained. A number of the members sounded interested in obtaining them. This will be brought forward for discussion at the next meeting.

June Cameron, Kathe Persike and Eileen MacGillivray will compile new membership lists after the new year for the telephone committee, the lunch convenor and the members of the executive.

Please remember the Nov. 21 trip to the Senior's Day in Ottawa.

Get your reservations in for the bus as soon as possible, with your fare. In this way Mrs. Groot will know how many outsiders she can accept. Members will be asked to pay $10 and outsiders $15.

On November 2, the Church on the Hill UCW will be serving a soup luncheon in their hall for $5.

The president adjourned the meeting, and the rest of the afternoon was filled with card games and some lively bingo, humorously called by Betty Malpass.

The 39'ers will welcome any new members now and anyone who is interested is invited to come and meet the group.

The meetings are held the third Wednesday of each month at the United Church hall in Alexandria. Come for noon and have lunch.

This is a non-denominational club, where any and all may come and feel at home, make new friends or renew old friendships.

There is no need to be lonely or feel left out, when once a month you can have lunch with friends and enjoy a bit of singing.

Sometimes there are interesting guests on the program, speakers or musicians. Several times a year there are bus trips.

Think about it and come on out for the next meeting on Nov. 15.

The North Lancaster Judo Club was in Arnprior last Sunday to participate in a tournament.

Zeshawn Danjuar got a second place, Eric Pitre and Philippe Legroulx both got first but in different categories while Steven Glaude won a third place. Sebastien Lambert came in second place.

Congratulations to all.

Patrick Campeau flew to New York City last weekend with his group from third year course of Interior Design.

When he returned to Ottawa, he called home to say the trip had been all and more than he expected. It was a short stay but they visited Times Square, the famous Statue of Liberty, Chrysler Building and more. Although the ride was a little rough on the way over there, Pat says everything went very well and he would certainly do it again.

If she hasn't already knocked on your door Cecile Campeau should be calling on you to collect for the Canadian Diabetes Association. She is doing the village up to the Glen Nevis road; all this with a knee injury... Hope you're in top shape real soon.

Family returns to Switzerland

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

Martin and Tracy Tschol and children, St. Elmo west, left this past week to return to Switzerland.

Neighbors gathered for a farewell visit with them on Tuesday and presented them with a gift and good wishes for the future. Martin Tschol's father who has been visiting them for a few weeks remains on the farm.

Optimists seek young, hardworking role model for contest

Glen Robertson

by Colette Sauvé
874-2076

Happy birthday wishes to our nephew, Marc Sauve today, Oct. 25, to Joy MacMillan this coming Saturday and to Patsy Blais and my brother, Jean-Paul Menard this coming Sunday.

Belated and happy wedding anniversary to Henke and Linda Van Den Oetelaar on Oct. 22 and to Fern and Lily Rozon on Oct. 28. Congratulations.

Jackpot winners of the bingo held on Oct. 14 at the social centre were Yvan Leblanc of Alexandria and Doris Crevier of Rigaud. Mystery game winner was Terry Smith of North Lancaster and the bonanza went to Joyce Dashney of Alexandria. Next bingo date is on Nov. 11.

Harvest supper

A cordial welcome to everyone to come and enjoy a delicious supper in a friendly atmosphere in St. Martin of Tours parish hall this coming Sunday, Oct. 29 from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Menu includes turkey, stuffing, meat balls, potatoes, turnips, carrots, salads, hors d'oeuvres, homemade pies, coffee and tea at the very reasonable price of $8 for adults, $5 for students and $2 for those under six. Take outs will also be available.

Citrus fruit drive

From Indian River, Florida, oranges and grapefruits are now available form Rachelle Lacroix to raise funds for the senior band at GDHS and ESRG. Rachelle can be reached at 874-2177 and orders must be in before Nov. 14.

Appréciation de la jeunesse

We're looking for primary or high school students who have a high academic note or who gets involved in charitable and volunteer work in the community or is looked on by peers as a role model to others or has a very pleasant nature and is always ready to help someone.

This is an Optimist contest (Youth Appreciation Week) and if you, readers know anyone with these fine qualities, please phone Claire Rickerd at 874-2392 for more information.

Entries must be sent in before Nov. 10. Most kids work very hard and are looking forward to a bright future.

So, please phone Claire as soon as possible.

Laurier Carrière

President of the school student council, Greg Hagen and VP Luc Lanthier and Anita Hagen will be attending a leadership seminar in Casselman on Oct. 27.

Tune in every Tuesday morning at CHOD 92.1 FM at 9:30 a.m. to hear the latest school news on the program "Son de la cloche".

A soccer exchange took place last Friday involving Grades 6, 7 and 8.

A stamp club meeting is held every first Friday of the month where the kids certainly get a chance to show their latest acquisition of stamps and maybe a few exchanges are made.

Chess club meets every last Monday of the month.

Last Thursday was bus safety day where bus drivers reviewed the do's and don'ts of rules that the kids have to comply with.

Kindergarten kids and up to Grade 3 will certainly enjoy a Halloween trip on Oct. 31 at the Patterson's farm in Metcalfe where different fun activities are scheduled.

Parents should encourage their kids to celebrate Halloween by wearing costumes that are secure, funny, creative and non violent.

Old Tyme Christmas Concert

Audrey (Johnson) MacDonald has advised me that she has been chatting with Santa and they have agreed upon a new location for her Old Tyme Christmas Concert.

This year, they have chosen a spot just "north" of the Glengarry village namely the Laurier Carrière School. The special date is Saturday, Nov. 18 at 8 p.m.

"The concert as well as my craft show and bake sale were previously held at the recreation centre and they were very successful," says Audrey "However, there have been several comments made to me regarding the stage being to low and that people had difficulty seeing the acts."

"There's a lovely stage in the Laurier-Carrière School, so I'm going to try that location this year... hoping, of course, that I'll still get get the same interest and attendance!"

Audrey always appears overwhelmed by the super turn out and co-operation of the willing participants... but she adds with a twinkle in her eyes... "That's Glengarry for you."

She is primarily interested in involving children in her concert and would be very happy to hear from anyone who knows of "young talent" who might join her on stage.

"As I said last year, there are so many interesting families – German, French, Dutch, Greek, etc. living in the area who could add so much to the concert if they too would share their traditional and festive customs with us."

Audrey may be reached at 613-525-3205.

Santa has assured Audrey that he will honor us with a visit from the North Pole and will collect all the children's wish letters again this year!

He was particularly interested to hear that Audrey is planning on giving a certain portion of the proceeds to the Canadian Institute for the Blind.

"I have a great love for animals, so, I plan to give a donation to the Humane Society as well."

"All I need now is good weather, lots of talent and more important than anything else, is a full house!"

It should be mentioned also that Audrey is planning to have her Christmas craft show and bake sale on the same day, Saturday, Nov. 18, commencing at 10 a.m. at the L.C. School.

"The Christmas elves are working away into the wee hours of the morning making craft and all sorts of goodies.

They have purchased the sugar, flour, raisins, etc. to get their baking done and have already finished the jams, jellies and pickles.

You must drop in and pick up your supply to serve or give to your friends and family during the busy holiday season!

The tables were overflowing last year and should be even better this year... providing you're not on a diet.

Set this date aside – Saturday, Nov. 18 at 10 a.m. for the craft show and bake sale and at 8 p.m. for the Old Tyme Christmas Concert at the Laurier-Carrière School. I'm sure you'll have a fun time as one elderly lady summed it up last year.

The crafts and the baked goods displayed were a lot of long hours and hard work and I went away with more than my money's worth in the afternoon.

But money could never buy the joy I got just watching those talented performers.

My weakness, I must admit, were those dear little children and of course, that wonderful violin music! What date are you having your concert next year, Audrey?" Audrey's comments to that was... "need I say more?"

Volunteers meet our every need

Seniors' Prime Time

by Rosemary Cameron

I would like to thank the volunteers of the corporation of Glengarry Outreach Services for their dedication in time, support and kindness. Without you we would not be able to function and ensure that our senior's welfare and needs are met.

The following luncheon meetings will be held in November:

•Monday, Nov. 6 at 1:30 p.m. for the Lancaster and area volunteers at the Lan-Char Senior Support Centre.

•Thursday, Nov. 16 at 12:15 p.m. a luncheon meeting for the Alexandria and area volunteers at the Royal Canadian Legion hall.

I strongly encourage people to please attend these short get-togethers. Outreach needs the input on volunteering from the "hands on people" with the seniors. With their ideas, suggestions, officials can better the outreach programs.

Also it is that time of year where the "snow birds" will be leaving. Volunteers have to be found to replace them.

There was a huge turn out for the monthly Diner's Club held at the Martintown Community Centre on Oct. 18.

Everyone learned from Diane Legault, Program Manager of the Lifeline Emergency Program about the assets of this program.

Door prize and bingo winners were: Theresa Wheeler, Onagh Ross, Mina Carter, Jessie Wheeler, Cam Collins, Stuart Buchan, Connie Shorey, Marie Seguin, Sadie McMillan, Mary McDonell.

Door prize winners of the Lan-Char 21 club on Wednesday, Oct. 18 were: Edna Black, Harriett Colwell, Kay McLaughlin and Edith Casey.

Winners at the Lan-Char senior centre card party on Friday, Oct. 20 were: Ladies and gents 4's: Annette and Maurice Chretien. 50/50 winners: Rene Poirier, Theresa Bourdeau, Oliver Legroulx, Kathee Preston, Laura Leroux, Dorothy Roy, Florence Bennett, Ileeen Latreille, Donald McGregor, Lorne Bennett.

Come and enjoy an Austrian dinner at the 21 Club Diners on Oct. 25 at the Lan-Char Centre.

Don't forget to mark Nov. 9 on your calendars for a special Diner's Club at the Glen Robertson Centre in memory of local war veterans.

For all Diner's Clubs please call our office for reservations at 347-1175.

HOW TO ENSURE GMH REMAINS OPEN
STEP NO. 1
Support Physicians Who Support Our Hospital
Every hospital needs a medical staff that performs necessary duties in order for the hospital to function. Some duties include being available on a rotating basis to attend to the needs of inpatients and outpatients as well as participating on various committees of the medical staff. In exchange for performing some or all of these duties, physicians are granted privileges by the Board of Directors following recommendations from the Medical Advisory Committee (MAC) The MAC reviews all applications from physicians and checks their credentials with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario and any other relevant province. This is to ensure that all physicians wishing to attend to patients and order tests have appropriate qualifications. Privileges granted to the physicians also benefit the patients of the respective physicians. There are several different categories of privileges. Some of the more important categories are explained below.
1. Active
The physician in this category has the privilege to admit his or her patients into the hospital for overnight care and/or send his or her patients to the hospital for laboratory or x-ray tests, as well as perform procedures in the outpatient department. This physician is normally the patient's family physician and provides the best available continuity of care for his or her patients when needed. The physician agrees to be on-call (on a rotating basis unless exempt) to look after other inpatients who need to be in the hospital but unfortunately do not have a family physician with Active privileges at Glengarry Memorial Hospital. This physician also participates on various medical staff committees and has the option to work in the emergency department.
2. Casualty
This physician works 10, 14 or 24-hour shifts in the emergency department. The physician who works the night shift receives an additional stipend from the Glengarry Memorial Hospital over and above what the physician receives from OHIP. On behalf of the patients needing emergency medical services, the hospital pays out approximately $84,000 in stipends annually as an incentive to ensure that physicians are available to provide this valued service.
3. Consultant
This physician is a specialist in one of many specialties (Surgery, Internal Medicine, Psychiatry, etc.) who travels to Alexandria on a weekly or biweekly basis. Again, on behalf of the patients needing specialty medical services, the hospital provides space and staffing at no charge to the physician as an incentive to help ensure that this service is available locally. This helps reduce the number of out-of-town trips for patients living in the Alexandria area.
4. Courtesy
The physician with this privilege can send patients for laboratory and x-ray tests and utilize the outpatient department. The physician agrees to participate on medical staff committees or work 48 hours per month in the emergency department.
Overall, it is important for Active staff physicians to participate in the on-call rotation for inpatients. If the hospital does not have enough Active staff physicians willing to participate, then patients who require overnight care would have to be transferred to another hospital. Subsequently, there would be no inpatients at Glengarry Memorial Hospital because of the lack of willing and/or available medical manpower and then the government could justify closing our hospital.
The Board of Directors of the Glengarry Memorial Hospital strongly recommends that patients support family physicians who have "Active" privileges at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.
If in doubt, please ask your family physician if he or she has "Active" privileges at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Local health status revealed

The 1995 Health Status Report "provides us all with a clearer picture of the people and the health issues they're facing... and how we can best tackle those issues," says Robert Bourdeau, medical officer of health.

The Health Status Report looks at demographics, mortality, morbidity, reproductive health and risk factors in the five counties and the city of Cornwall and town of Hawkesbury. The health unit is required by the provincial health ministry to produce the status report at least every five years.

It's broken down according to county, as well as age, gender and social group, and attempts to "search for possible reasons or causes of any differences" among and within these groups.

Obituaries

William K. MacLeod

The death of William Keith MacLeod of Dunvegan occurred at Glengarry Memorial Hospital, Alexandria on Oct. 3, 1995. He was 91.

William MacLeod was born at Skye in Caledonia Township. He was a son of the late Duncan William MacLeod and the late Catherine Mary Chisholm. He received his education at Skye Public School and Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute. He farmed his entire life on the family homestead and was well known as a champion seed grower.

Mr. MacLeod was a member of Kenyon Presbyterian Church. He took a keen interest in soccer and was the last surviving member of the Dunvegan Soccer team which won the first Glengarry Soccer Championship in 1924.

He is survived by his beloved wife the former Maud Hartrick. One sister, Catherine V. McRae survives. He was predeceased by brothers Duncan, Cameron, Chisholm and Donald MacLeod and sisters Rachel Capron, Gretta Muir and Myrtle MacLeod. Several nieces and nephews survive, also.

The funeral was held from the Munro and Morris Funeral Home, Maxville to Kenyon Presbyterian Church, Dunvegan on Friday, Oct. 6. Rev. Jim McVeigh officiated and interment followed in Kenyon Presbyterian Church cemetery. Bagpipe selections were provided by John D. MacLeod.

Pallbearers were Irvin Capron, Glen McRae, Ian D. MacLeod, Robert Chisholm, Weldon MacIntosh and Angus J. MacLeod..

Jeanne Mance Legault

Jeanne-Mance Legault passed away at her residence in Glen Robertson on Oct. 14, 1995. She was 76.

Jeanne-Mance Legault was predeceased by her husband Gerard Legault and by her parents Xiste Lortie and Eugenie Gauthier.

She leaves one son François (Ginette Goulet) of Apple Hill and two daughters Christiane (Bruno Urro) of Cornwall and Louise Legault of San Pedro, California.

Mrs. Legault also leaves two brothers Eloi of Valleyfield, Que. and Remi of Cornwall and two sisters Hortense Maher of Valleyfield and Cecile (Aza) Chenier of Cornwall. She was predeceased by three brothers, Aurele, Elphege and Benoit Lortie and by one sister, Yvette Major.

She was the loving grandmother of Stefano Urro, Dominique DuShuttle, Marie-Helene Urro and Thalia McCann.

Mrs. Legault was a former postmaster in Glen Robertson.

Funeral services took place on Oct. 16 from Lahaie & Sullivan Funeral Home to St. Felix de Valois Church in Cornwall and was officiated by Rev. Roger Desrosiers, assisted by Rev. Rene Dube and Rev. Raymond Dumoulin.

Exchange youths treated to pot luck

Dalkeith

by Jean MacLennan
874-2385

A first grandchild for Moreen and Donald McKinnon. On Monday, Oct. 16 Ashley Cathcart-McKinnon was born, a daughter for Blair and Julie Cathcart-McKinnon, Casselman. Another great grandchild for Christina McKinnon, Vankleek Hill. Best wishes all around.

Mrs. Juliette Lanthier (now of Vankleek Hill but formerly of Breadalbane) celebrated her 84th birthday on Friday, Oct. 20 at the home of her daughter Mariette Dewar, Breadalbane. With all her children, daughter-in-law Betty Lanthier, granddaughters Jessica Denison, Kingston, Jennifer Dewar and great granddaughter Sarah Anne Dewar-Massie, Alexandria, Francois Ranger, Dalkeith (her godson), she received many good wishes. She had telephone calls from friends and relatives and even one from Taiwan from son-in-law Ralph Dewar. They all had a lovely day and thank God for such a super mom, grandmother and great grandmother. They hope to have this special occasion again next year.

The community was saddened to hear of the death on Sunday, Oct. 22, 1995 of Donnie MacLennan. Sympathy is extended to his wife Florrie, daughters Anne, Bonnie, Heather, Carol and his sister Gretta and the extended family. Funeral will be this afternoon (Oct. 25) at 3:30 p.m. at Kirk Hill United Church.

Kenneth and Rhoda MacDonald entertained the family to dinner on Sunday, while Brian Mennie from Red Deer, Alberta, was visiting for a few days. He was unable to come on Thanksgiving weekend as Union Carbide had a five-day meeting at Houston, Texas, which was attended by countries world-wide interested in the company's exports.

Before the Canada World Youth participants left our area, the host families sponsored a pot luck supper in the Optimist Hall. The young Thais and Canadians along with their leaders expressed their appreciation for the time spent among us. The host families appreciated the help at their day to day chores and were sorry to see them leave. All feel it was a great learning experience.

Tune in to CHOD 92.1 FM every Tuesday morning at 9:30 for all the school's news. The program is called "Son de la Cloche."

Last Thursday, the bus drivers reviewed bus safety rules and regulations with all the students. This included a drill and video. In addition, the two Kindergarten and Grade 1 classes were driven around for physical and visual emphasis.

Friday, Grades 6, 7 and 8 had a soccer exchange with players from Maxville school.

This coming Friday, Oct. 27 students Greg Hagen and Luc Lanthier with parent Anita Hagen will be attending a leadership seminar in Casselman. Speaking of leadership, do you know that our school is one of the very few to have received a health certificate from the Ontario Board of Health. Take a look next time you're there.

The stamp club meets every first Friday of the month and the chess club every last Monday of the month.

Halloween is just around the corner and all our ghosties and ghoulies from Kindergarten to Grade 3 will be whisked off to Patterson's Farm in Metcalfe to enjoy a frightfully good time. Ha, ha, ha!

This week across the country, white ribbons will be worn by many in an attempt to heighten the awareness that pornography does exist. Seen as a serious problem, we still sit back and allow it to flourish.

Pornography is infiltrating the computer internet system, exchanging messages with children and adults addicted to pornographic material. In one way or another pornographic material is depicted in books and magazines; advertisements in newspapers and on TV; and through videos. The results we see are the violent crimes committed as well as the many families affected by the deplorable way of so called entertainment.

We saw how the French and Mahaffy families suffered and will continue to suffer form the loss of their children. Do we have to wait until it comes in abundance to our community? Is it necessary for it to happen directly to us in order for action to be taken?

Many ask, "Are the white ribbons helping?" The answer is yes. In a small way, the changes are happening. In Rockland, Ont., the community has changed its zoning bylaw and raised the licensing fees considerably. The result is that one adult video store has closed and three video stores voluntarily stopped distributing pornographic videos respecting the community's wishes.

What can you do? Write to Allan Rock, Justice Minister (House of Commons, Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0A2) with a copy of your letter to your member of parliament.

Remember: Pornography is designed not to satisfy; pornography is designed to addict; pornography is designed to crave more; pornography is the acting out of lust.

Well known couple celebrating sixtieth wedding anniversary

Maxville

by Gordon Winter
527-2888

A well-known couple, Oliver and Blanche (nee Bedard) St. Louis will be celebrating the 60th anniversary of their marriage this Sunday, October 29 at their home at 22 Robert St. Family members are hosting this joyous event and are inviting all friends and relatives to bring best wishes and congratulations only to the celebrants from 2 to 4 p.m.

Married on Oct. 26, 1935, Mr. and Mrs. St. Louis farmed on the 4th Con. Kenyon most of their working years, although to supplement a farmer's income with a large family, Mr. St. Louis worked for 16 years on the CPR line out of Apple Hill. In 1974, retirement took the couple to Maxville.

Mr. St. Louis has had many hobbies, including oil painting and has exhibited his folk art at the Kintra Art shows. He has demonstrated great patience in assembling three-dimensional jig-saw puzzles and has created many lawn ornaments.

Mrs. St. Louis, the homemaker and mother has been a constant support over the 60 years. We wish Oliver and Blanche St. Louis continued peace and contentment and thank them for the example they have set in the community and for their children who are all playing their parts.

Elsie Bourbonnais and her sister, Theresa, from Ottawa, spent an enjoyable week down in the Pocono Mountains area and also took a side trip to Brockville to tour the Senator T. Fulford Heritage Place, reported to be the house that the "Pink Pills" built.

Recent visitors with Malcolm Grant at the Manor were his daughter Heather Peckett and Kathleen Merkley who also visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Merkley, Jim and Heather MacLeod, Kanata and Marion and Darcy MacLeod from Gananoque.

Greg McIlwain had an unfortunate fall from the roof of his Church Street home 10 days ago. A compressed vertebra necessitated a stay in hospital but he is now home, has to take it easy but a complete recovery is expected eventually. We wish Greg the best and trust this is the only bad luck he will experience after he and his family became village residents this summer.

A letter from Maureen (Mrs. Gary) McEwen of Toronto contained the obituary of her father, Edward O'Brien. Mrs. McEwen, whose husband is the son of the late Nancy and the late Clayton McEwen, wrote "I am enclosing the obituary from the Toronto Star which was subsequently picked up by the press in Europe and Asia. My father's early career focussed on TB control in Ontario through the formation of volunteer associations in all counties. He had many friends in Glengarry, some of whom may remember him these many years later. The Public Health Unit in Alexandria made contact with him earlier this year as part of its review of 50 years of public health activities...many stories of public health initiatives and the lead Glengarry County took in Canada have now gone to rest with him."

Many readers will remember the travelling chest clinics that x-rayed thousands of children around the province when tuberculosis was a major killer 60 years ago. Mr. O'Brien initiated them, spent much of his life fighting lung disease and founded the Ontario Tuberculosis Association in 1945 and served as the first executive director. Mr. O'Brien died at the age of 86.

We extend condolences to Mrs. McEwen and her extended family and thank her for contributing this piece of local history.

The village does not have a Neighborhood Watch but fortunately Richard Scott awoke in time to find out his Toyota Sequoia 4-runner was being stolen. We compliment Mr. Scott on his initiative and bravery in trailing the thieves to Ottawa and are happy for him that his vehicle was soon located and with little damage.

We wish Cathy and Barrie Rolfe and their family, the very best as they move from their rented home in Dominionville to a recently purchased one on the 5th Con. Roxborough.

The craft fair held in the Angus Gray Hall last Saturday and Sunday was a decided success according to its two organizers, Ruby MacGregor and Rosalind Nugent. In spite of the heavy rains on Saturday, the attendance on both days was very good and the 32 crafters who had rented space express satisfaction with the volume of their sales. The number of 32 represented an increase of five since the spring craft sale. The two ladies have already started planning for their spring fair in 1996.

Mrs. MacGregor has had her mother, Mrs. Renwick from Iroquois Falls with her over this busy time.

At the Horticultural Society's meeting last week, Ann Woite gave a most interesting talk and demonstration on the propagation and care of house plants. She also was generous in giving away many of the specimens she used in her demonstrations. The last meeting of 1995 will be held on Nov. 15.

While I am writing this Monday morning, I am watching several robins on the lawn searching for earthworms. At least six blue jays are carrying away sunflower seeds for storage in undetermined nooks and crannies. Nuthatches and chickadees are enjoying the black sunflower seeds and there are small flocks of white crowned sparrows and black-eyed juncos which will probably not remain for the winter. These sparrows are ordinary sparrow colored except for distinct black and white stripes on their heads. The numbers of gold finches and house finches at the niger seed feed are increasing.

I have received the report from the Long Point Bird Observatory with its summary of results of the 1994-95 bird count last winter. The top 10 birds at feeders in Ontario were the blue jay, black-capped chickadee, mourning dove, American goldfinch, dark-eyed junco, house finch, European starling, downy woodpecker, northern cardinal and house sparrow. How does your list compare? If you wish to participate in the bird count, the address of the observatory is Box 160, Port Rowan, Ont. N0E 1M0. There is a charge and you will receive a poster with many birds, along with the statistical material.

In Ontario last winter, the purple finch count was up, the American goldfinch numbers way up but the common redpoll count was down. The pine siskin numbers remained down but an "invasion" of this bird is forecast. The evening grosbeaks were on the top ten lists in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick and the other Maritime provinces.

An eye disease has hit the house finches and the Observatory is interested in receiving reports on cases of the disease when the eyes are stuck shut and the birds are found dead.

This is a reminder that the Diners' Club at the Manor is meeting this Thursday at 5 p.m. for a Halloween party and afterwards at 7 p.m., diners and residents will be favored with the music of Sylvester McDonald.

Under the S.O.S. program, the Diners' Club services are being extended and any day at noon or evening, seniors may purchase meals at the Coffee Shop for a reasonable price and with a choice of menu.

There has been some interest expressed in starting a social bridge club in the afternoon at the Manor. All those interested in joining this group are invited to phone Kim Aube at 527-2170 ext. 228 and leave his or her name. This is Phyllis Burtenshaw's extension. Kim does not have an answering machine so it is better to use Mrs. Burtenshaw's number.

A representative from St. John Ambulance will be presenting a Life Saver Course at the Manor on Nov. 16 from 1-4:30 p.m. If you attend and learn what you should, a certificate will be awarded to you at the completion of this course.

With her first prize placing at the Young At Heart euchre last Monday evening, Gladys Barton acquired sufficient wins to take over the Queen Euchre title from Cecile Currier. Stephanie Dupuis from Martintown had second highest score and Gloria Rolland from the village, the third.

Chester Valley from Moose Creek had the top score for the men while George Jackson and Martin O'Brien, both from Monkland, placed second and third. Mr. Valley also won the door prize.

In the 50-50 draw, the lucky ones were Bill Johnson, Martintown, Ina Sproule, Monkland, Lawrence Thauvette, Moose Creek, Arlene Munro, Apple Hill, Eddie Ukranitz, Fournier and Grace Doth, Catherine (Dan) MacRae and Linden Kippen, Maxville.

The next euchre will be on Oct. 30, at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Church Hall. Let's hope the evening's good time will be enhanced with a favorable vote in the Quebec referendum.

Tom McDougall who was away, 90 years ago, prospecting in the Cobalt district, farmed the present John Wensink farm, before it was purchased by Gordon MacKillican. After retirement, Mr. McDougall and his sister, Miss Annie lived in the house now occupied by Gladys Rolston.

Seventy years ago Alma Umphrey ranked first in the girls' events at the Maxville High School's Field Day. She was then Alma McDonald who became a teacher and taught locally before becoming the wife of the late Howard. Lawrence Franklin graduated from Queen's University and worked for the Department of Natural Defence while Bennett McEwen became a medical doctor. Both gentlemen have died.

Sixty years ago, the Field Day's winners were Allie Pichie from the Dunvegan area and Irwin Hitsman from Vars. He would have been one of the many "train pupils" who arrived here daily by train from as far west as Carlsbad Springs.

While reading this Auld Lang Syne column, you may have noticed an article beside it written by Cornwall teacher John McEwen. While the name is a familiar one on the family trees of many McEwens here, the above Mr. McEwen's ancestors settled in the Howick, Que. area.

My dictionary does not have the word "granolithic." Were cement sidewalks being built in our village in 1905?

Duncan Christie was the oldest of six sons of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peter Christie, Christie's Pitt and was transferred to Sutton West, Que. by the Bank of Nova Scotia here.

Rod "Rory" McCuaig purchased the house on the north side of the Ferguson home on Main Street North, 70 years ago. Mr. McCuaig died that fall but Mrs. McCuaig and daughter Martha, lived there for some time while Martha worked in the telephone office. Mr. and Mrs. McCuaig were Florence MacLennan's grandparents.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM

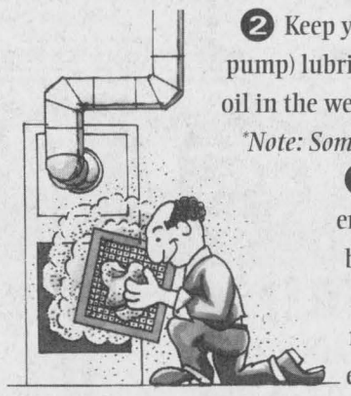
Consumers Gas

It's time to prepare your heating system for cold weather.

For better heating economy and efficiency follow this easy step by step checklist.

Heating System Check-up

❶ On warm air systems, clean furnace filters or replace disposable filters before the winter. A dirty filter can reduce air flow and cause your system to work harder than it has to.



❷ Keep your electric motor and fan bearings (and/or pump) lubricated for greater efficiency. (Two drops* of oil in the well each year should do it.)

Note: Some new motors do not need lubricating.*

❸ If you have a hot water heating system, ensure that it is filled to the proper level by bleeding air from each radiator.

If you observe these basics you will soon find that using gas can be even more economical.

Chimney Check-up

It's difficult to know when you have a chimney problem. First, answer the following questions:

❷ Is your heating system connected to a metal venting system (that is, not a brick or stone chimney)?

If you answer "Yes" to either of these questions, you probably need not worry about your chimney being able to adequately vent your furnace.

Any brick or stone chimney should receive periodic inspection from a chimney expert. However, here are three simple checks you can make yourself:

❶ Check the cleanout pit at the bottom of your chimney: Should you find any debris, remove it. If it contains bits of mortar, brick or stone, erosion could be taking place.

❷ Use a mirror to look up your chimney, through your cleanout door, during daylight hours. You should have an unobstructed view to the outside. There should be no visual evidence of crumbling mortar, brick or stone. Your chimney may be "offset", which will not allow you a visual inspection with a mirror. In such cases, we suggest an inspection by a chimney expert.

If you have a problem

❶ If there is any chimney blockage above the vent connection, turn off your heating system (and your gas water heater) immediately. Call a chimney repair company for an inspection.

❷ If there is more than an inch of broken mortar, brick or stone in the cleanout pit and you cannot see daylight using a mirror, follow the instructions in step 1. If there is no blockage, call a chimney repair company for an inspection. You may operate the furnace and water heater until the chimney is inspected, but you should check the chimney periodically for blockage until you have the chimney contractor's report.

If you see a white chalky staining on exterior brickwork, stone or mortar, but the cleanout pit is clear and there are no obstructions in the chimney or signs of deterioration on the chimney's exterior, ask a chimney repair company for an inspection. In the meantime, you may operate your heating system safely.

Consult your Yellow Pages for Chimney Builders and Repairers.*

Some conservation tips

Follow these simple rules and the result will be a better, more economical heating system.

❶ Make sure you have well fitting doors and windows. A good fit keeps cold air out and warm air in. Proper weatherstripping and caulking also helps.

❻ Make sure your humidifier is working correctly. Proper humidification can contribute to heating economy and your comfort level.

Drop by our office and ask for our folders: "What every householder should know about carbon monoxide" and "Your home needs fresh air".
