A rink on the park won't need artificial ice. That cold wind from the west should be freezing enough.

Council Makes $2500 Grant To Minor Hockey Will Spend $6000 On Rink At Park

A grant of $2,500 was made to the Minor Hockey Association by town council at its Tuesday meeting and council also authorized the town engineer to proceed with plans for a lighted open-air rink in the park area.

Estimated cost of rink and permanent lighting is $6,000.

Andrew McNulty, president, and Ed Ruttenberg, treasurer, of the Minor Hockey Association appeared before council to ask for a $3,000 grant to help defray costs of travel, ice rental at Maxville arena and other costs. Council voted $2,500, an increase of $1,000 over last year's grant. It will be set aside for Minor Hockey and will be paid through the Park & Recreation Committee on presentation of duly authorized accounts.

Town Engineer Ghislain Seguin presented an estimate of $6,000 on plans for installation of a proper lighting system and construction of a combined box lacrosse and skating area which would be set up near the road leading into the park. It will be part of the centennial project and Mr. Seguin was authorized to make all necessary arrangements so that the rink will be ready for use this winter.

A letter of resignation from the Public Utilities Commission was received from Adolphe Lauzon, now a resident of Chesterville. Mr. Lauzon will be asked to finish his term in view of the pending elections.

Gerard Roy, municipal assessor, was present on invitation of council and he was presented with the certificate of the Institute of Municipal Assessors of Ontario. He is now entitled to use the letters MIMA after his name.

Mr. Roy was commended on his completion of the three-year course in conjunction with Queen's University, which represented a most praiseworthy achievement. He was also thanked for his services to the municipality over the past eight years.

In reply Mr. Roy informed council this would be his last year as municipal assessor because of the new counties assessment system being inaugurated. Under this system Mr. Roy and other qualified assessors will be allocated to the districts where each will work.

Norman Laperle appeared before council to ask a grant to meet unpaid commitments of the lacrosse club. He was requested to submit statements for further consideration.

Council authorized the Welfare Officer, Elie Chenier, to attend a seminar sponsored by OMSIP in Cornwall, November 18th.

Alexandria-Born Jim McCaffrey, Died On Train Saturday Night

En route to Montreal, Saturday night with the Ottawa Rough Riders' football team, of which he was a veteran officer, James P. McCaffrey succumbed to a heart attack aboard the CNR night train.

He died as the train was nearing Maxville and Mr. McCaffrey's body was removed from the train at its first stop, Alexandria, where he was born.

A doctor on the train had pronounced him dead and Dr. D. J. Dolan, was called in his capacity as coroner. Later that night the body was conveyed back to Ottawa.

During a long career in Ottawa sports circles Mr. McCaffrey had served for 36 years as manager of the Rough Riders' team. He had also filled other positions on the team directorate, including the presidency, and had been president of the Canadian Rugby Union for a term.

Born in Alexandria, 71 years ago, James P. McCaffrey lost his parents in youth and resided with an aunt, Mrs. Paul Dapratto and Mr. Dapratto. The family later moved to Ottawa where Mr. McCaffrey took most of his schooling.

He was the last of professional football's part-time managers and in 1959 was offered the post of full time Rough Riders' manager when he retired from his post as registrar of trade marks in the federal government. Mr. McCaffrey turned down the managerial post but remained a team director.

Through the years Mr. McCaffrey had retained his connection with his native Glengarry and his last visit here was in May when he attended the Lions Club Sportsmen's dinner and reminisced of his early days in Alexandria.

Mrs. McCaffrey predeceased him in 1960 and he is survived by a daughter, Patricia, a teacher in Vancouver.

The funeral was held Wednesday in Ottawa.

Association For Mentally Retarded Received Charter At Saturday Dinner

The charter night banquet of the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded was attended by some 200 in Glengarry District High School, Saturday evening. President Michael Barbara received the charter for the 101st active group in Ontario from George Stokes, Cornwall, a member of the Board of Directors for the Ontario Association.

Thirty children will attend the school according to a survey of the county made by Miss Jean McIntosh, PHN. Angus R. MacDonell reviewed organization from the first meeting in the spring to the June 13 meeting when a provincial representative was present and directors were chosen.

Lt.-Col. W. A. H. Law, executive director of the Ottawa and district association, was guest speaker and in his opening remarks noted that the World Health Organization claims everyone is entitled to an education at the level at which he can absorb it.

"The mentally retarded are not mentally ill, but have a limited mental ability," he continued. "They come from the rich and the poor, the learned and the untutored all over the world."

"The main objective of the association is to keep the general public informed, because schools can only come from an informed public."

"It was just a decade ago that the problem was recognized. The school boards for the mentally retarded used to operate under a charitable arrangement; now 100% of the cost is born by the government. Eighty per cent is made available by the province and the balance by the municipality. Half of the cost of building is born by the government, but the remainder must come from charitable groups or elsewhere," he said. "In the matter of finance, the field of education is open to us."

"The teachers of retarded children belong to the Teachers' Federation, so now the best can be selected. They must be specially trained."

"The purpose of training centres and sheltered workshops are for people 18 and over. They are designed to provide gainful employment for adults in a community. It costs $2,000 to $2,500 a year to keep someone in an institution. This would mean $100,000 for a normal lifetime. Thus, these centres can turn a great many into taxpayers. But not only this, they can maintain and build up some sense of human dignity which is worth

No Hallowe'en Vandalism Here

Hallowe'en was free of vandalism in Alexandria and area and Police Chief Cleroux is pleasantly aware that the younger people here are better behaved than those in larger centres.

"It was very quiet here," he reports. "There was a bit of egg throwing early in the evening but we nipped it in the bud."

The warm weather Monday night brought out a host of goblins, clowns and other costumed youngsters. They were making their rounds early and from the weight of the bags they carried the treats appeared more the objective than tricks.

By 10 p.m. the streets were practically deserted and another All 'Hallows Eve had given way to sleep.

Two Fire Calls For Cars Aflame

The fire brigade was called out twice Monday and in both instances the fire was confined to a car motor.

A Montreal salesman travelling on Highway 43, some two miles west of town, needed help at 3 p.m. Monday. His motor was heavily damaged before firemen reached the scene and doused the flames.

Shortly after midnight the siren blew again. This time it was the car of Police Chief Cleroux, being used on Hallowe'en patrol by Constable Bernard King. Fire started under the hood and the brigade was called to the scene just south of the CNR crossing.

Uncover Site Of Fort Needless On Riverfront At Lancaster

Fort Needless, raised at South Lancaster during the 1837-38 Rebellion and so named by the soldiers who erected it, was located yesterday on the property of Hugh Fitzpatrick, at the southeast junction of the Aux Raisin River and Lake St. Francis.

Ken MacPherson of the Historic Section of the Department of Tourism, Toronto, and an associate in that department, Hugh P. MacMillan, were in charge of the digging on a high mound of land on the Fitzpatrick property. They tunnelled into the mound and came upon the stone walls of the fort which apparently was about 10x8 feet.

A clay pipe, some nails and a few other artifacts were uncovered in the area.

The two were to complete their preliminary examination of the site today and it is possible there will be more extensive exploration next summer.

Fort Needless was so named by the British soldiers who erected it because it was obvious to them there was no need for it. As in the case of the Glengarry Cairn, erected about the same time on Squaw Island offshore, it was supposedly built to give the restless soldiers a vent for their energies through the long weeks of winter.

Mr. MacMillan had uncovered several references to the fort in his work and this led to yesterday's digging on the Fitzpatrick property.

Plan 5 Farm Course To Be Similar To Last

A course entitled "Business of Farming" will be given this winter at the Adult Training Centre, formerly Shepherd's Motors, Alexandria.

This course will be similar to the one conducted last winter with the exception of a few changes in administration. Information about the course and a questionnaire has been mailed to district farmers. Judging by the success of this course last winter, a large number of applicants is anticipated.

The selection of candidates for the course will be done by a Special Committee composed of officials from the Department of Agriculture (ARDA Branch) and others. Further information may be obtained from the Agricultural Office, Alexandria.

Instructors will be Lloyd McRae, Bainsville, Sam McLeod and Campbell Murray, both of Martintown. The Glengarry-District High School Board will administer the course and John D. Grant of the school staff is again local co-ordinator.

Former Reeve Of Maxville, Counties Warden, James N. Fitzgerald Died At 76

Maxville and the surrounding district mourns the passing of one of its highly esteemed citizens, James Norman Fitzgerald (Jerry) late Friday afternoon, Oct. 28th, at his home, east Mechanic Street where the family have resided for nearly a quarter of a century.

Mr. Fitzgerald was born at Plantagenet in March, 1896; a son of the late Mr. John Fitzgerald and Melissa Erratt. After completing his education there he went to work with the E. B. Eddy Lumber Company at Parent, Que., and served as wood superintendent for more than 20 years. He then moved to Maxville with his family and for three years was sales manager for the Cockshutt Farm Machinery.

Later he purchased the general store owned and operated by Walter Smillie. Here he and Mrs. Fitzgerald served the general public in a kindly manner until ill health forced his retirement in 1965.

Mr. Fitzgerald was a worthy citizen of Maxville with a deep abiding interest in the well-being of all people in the surrounding district. Interested in civic affairs, he was a councillor, village reeve for six years, and warden of the United Counties in 1961. He served on various Boards of Counties Council, was a director of the Tuberculosis Association of the United Counties, a member of the Board of Directors of Glengarry Memorial Hospital in Alexandria, since its inception and a member of the Maxville Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, the former Stella Graham of Pembroke, a son Barry of Kingston; two daughters, Mrs. Keith Franklin, (Velma) of Maxville, and Mrs. Harvey Leroy (Sheila) of St. Eugene; two brothers, Albert in Riceville and Percy in St. Catharines; and seven grandchildren. Two brothers and a sister predeceased him.

His remains rested at the Munro Funeral Home from where his funeral took place to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, conducted by his pastor Rev. I. D. MacIver. Mr. MacIver spoke a brief but fitting tribute to the quiet Christian qualities which formed Mr. Fitzgerald's way of life, and gave for his funeral oration John's Vision of Heaven" from the Book of Revelations.

Pallbearers were Gordon Fitzgerald, Lloyd Fitzgerald, Ray Fitzgerald, Wayne Fitzgerald, Lyal Campbell and Alfred James.

Burial was in the Fitzgerald family plot in Franklin's Corners cemetery.

Friends were present from St. Catharines, Montreal, Quebec City, Three Rivers, Carleton Place, Ottawa, Cornwall, Alexandria and the surrounding district.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

History Repeating ?

For the umpteenth time we were being told on the weekend that the Auld Lang Syne column is the most avidly read feature of this paper. We have to agree, even though there is the inference that as a writer ye editor does better at copying from his files than in chronicling current events.

We find it fascinating, looking back on the local scene and at times relating happenings of long ago to the picture today.

History has a habit of repeating itself, sometimes in not too satisfactory a juxtaposition, as witness this week's 70 years ago column:

"There is every prospect of a first-class skating rink being in existence in this town during the coming winter . . ."

If we delete the "first-class" from that three score and ten prospective the situation today becomes dismally similar. Surely Alexandria will have some type of open-air rink to make do while our covered rink has its artificial ice-making potential turned into a storage room for Carnation products. Or will we?

Auld Lang Syne also touches on ice prospects at Williamstown which "expects to have a strong hockey team to the fore this coming winter. The item becomes touchy with its reference to "a first-class ice rink in the agricultural building", only a matter of days after township voters turned down centennial spending that would have provided an ice rink in an agricultural complex at Williamstown.

If we were totally oblivious to all that has been happening since the turn of the century; if we had never seen a car, much less a plane; never talked on the telephone nor wasted hours watching television, we might wake from a long sleep as did Rip Van Winkle, read that 70-year column in this week's paper and feel that we were living in the horse and buggy days.

Progress, as others know it, must be wonderful.

There is one ray of light, though. Seventy years later we still have a curling rink and the roarin' game has done so well the ice is artificial; and it's covered in.

How Conservative Can One Get ?

Perched right up beside this writer on the political fence rail is Don McCuaig of the Renfrew Advance, if we are to judge by an editorial in his last issue. He stresses his lack of partisanship before getting his teeth into a subject that should be required reading for all Tories. He writes:

We have sat so long on the political fence that we now are somewhat proud of independence of party. We say this so that we won't be taken as Grit or Tory for the following opinion.

Conservatives who are concerned about the future of their party in federal politics should be ready to support National President Dalton Camp in his call for a reassessment of the leadership of the party. Some Conservative politicians and association executives have come out on Mr. Camp's side; some for Mr. Diefenbaker, who completely rejects the fact that his party is in trouble and that there should be any question of his ability.

A good many more Conservatives are still waiting and watching. If they wait and watch long enough, they will find the Rt. Hon. Gentleman from Prince Albert still at the helm, taking great satisfaction in having, once again, out-witted his enemies. In that case, Conservatives can march glumly again to defeat. What's more, the defeat would come at the hands of a Liberal party none too secure and not as united as it would seem. Given a new leader, Conservatives might form the next government.

The Conservative situation is not a happy one. A party man can take no particular joy in replacing a fighter such as Mr. Diefenbaker; neither can he relish the widespread opposition to the leader in the party. Last week, for instance, North Renfrew Progressive-Conservatives listened to Gordon Aiken, MP, call for support for Dalton Camp. His appeal sounded reasonable but the delegates passed resolutions affirming support for Mr. Diefenbaker.

Did Mr. Aiken's words fall on deaf ears? Are the riding's PCs all for The Leader? Or were the delegates prepared to wait and see what happens at the annual meeting?

Dalton Camp has no easy task. It is hard to persuade people to rebel. But as we see it, the price of not questioning the present leadership is another victory for the Liberals. If we were Conservative, the price would be too steep.

We'll All Pay More

At Ottawa last week federal government leaders and provincial premiers were hassling again over how the tax pie should be split. And they got nowhere after four days of bargaining.

The four-day conference on education and tax-sharing brought demands ranging from Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin's of more than a billion a year in tax transfers to the provinces, to Quebec Premier Johnson's of $150,000,000 a year, increasing to a billion a year by 1971-72 for his province alone.

Although the federal government argues it has been generous, it is confronted by a confidential study by the federal-provincial tax structure committee which says the provinces will face more difficult money problems than the federal government during the next five years.

The conference ended Friday as expected, with no solutions to the problem of tax sharing and with the federal treasury upping its aid to the provinces by a half-billion dollars. Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp declared this would entail another increase in income tax rates.

The provincial premiers went home unsatisfied with the increased payments for education over a two-year period and the federal authorities were unhappy over the lack of a long-term agreement that might rid them of the constant demands from the provinces for a larger split of the income and corporation tax fields.

Mr. Sharp intends to increase income taxes to meet this new agreement with the provinces and he told the premiers to go home and raise their own taxes.

The provincial premiers deny that any demands of theirs should cause Mr. Sharp to raise federal taxes. They argue that the federal bureaucracy should be trimmed as Ottawa passes tax fields over to the provinces.

But federal officialdom is having none of that. It is zealously guarding its sources of supply.

Ontario's Premier Robarts complained after the conference that the federal government had not given any real benefit to this province in the new tax transfers. The possibility that Ontario will have to raise taxes is certainly there, he added. But with an election expected within a year it is unlikely Queen's Park will increase now.

Ontario may not benefit from the new tax transfers for education and yet the Ontario department of education goes its merry way expanding school plant with a munificence that leaves one wondering where it is all going to end. Plans for a half-million dollar addition to our High School have been scrapped on the advice of Toronto officialdom. Space will be provided for additional technical subjects and planning is to be on a scale to handle 1100 students, at a cost of more than a million dollars.

Perhaps education's brass knows what is required and is limiting school plant and equipment to the essential. One is left wondering when one reads of a 10,000 volume library complete with cubicles for student research. The vast majority of students travel by bus and one finds it difficult to visualize a need for these sanctuaries when today's school time is so restricted by bus schedules.

Every department of each of Canada's eleven senior governments seems bent on steady expansion, with no dread of duplication or worry as to spiralling costs. The federal treasury is rolling in money but can still manage a deficit by dint of more give-away schemes and a growing, better-paid civil service.

The provinces are finding it ever more difficult to finance their booming expenditures on education, roads and welfare. These fields of spending were minuscule a century ago when the Fathers of Confederation were apportioning federal and provincial responsibilities, but they loom large now.

Sadly overgoverned are we Canadians and it is going to get worse while we wait for governments at Ottawa and in each of the ten provinces to find a way to wisely divide our tax dollars.

At Ottawa last week they could not agree. The only alternative was that each should tax more. You and we are bound to pay for such muddling.

There is every prospect of a first-class skating rink being in existence in this town during the coming winter. It is also proposed to run in connection with the ice rink, a curling club. Before winter season closes, many of our citizens may have proved themselves adepts at the roarin' game. — A large number of lights have been placed in several buildings in town and it is estimated that by Christmas upwards of 800 lights will be in use. — We understand that the Village of Williamstown expects to have a strong hockey team to the fore this coming winter. The agricultural building is to be turned into a first class ice rink and the boys should make it interesting for outside clubs.

JOBS BUILD CHARACTER

Doing a good job of babysitting builds character and a sense of responsibility in young people. A bad job contributes to deterioration in the sitter's attitude, endangers the sitter's young charges and creates well-founded anxiety in the parent-employers.

WHAT A NAME BANDS

Simon and The Disciples were playing Iona Academy, Saturday night, and it must be a measure of the ecumenical spirit of the reverend sisters that they permitted music makers with a name like that to take over their gym. Mind you, we're not faulting Holy Cross for allowing the kids an occasional dance; and we can't criticize the music. We've never heard Simon and his gang make with the go, go sounds.

We're left thinking, though, that Sister Superior must have had a bit of the shudders when she heard the name of the band the kids came up with. If they'd added a Peter to that Simon they'd have been making like the apostleship of music.

We've been wondering what makes with these young music makers in thinking up a name for their combos and this was our first intimation that Simon and The Disciples were even on the scene.

The Staccatos are well-named, our ears have shouted. We trust those local boys who call themselves the Felons are still law-abiding. Most of us recognize a felon as being criminal, but when this group chose its name we wonder if it checked the dictionary. A felon can be a painful, pus-producing infection at the end of a toe or finger. We've had them at our fingertip and they can be sore enough to make one dance with pain. Maybe that's why the Felons hit on the name.

But enough of the Felons, the Staccatos and the GeeVees, who at least show civic pride in Green Valley. It's these biblical connotations we can't fathom.

Simon and The Disciples may have had their christening from The Prophets, or vice-versa. We're much too out of touch to recall all those other catchy names now denoting music that is Beatle-esque and straight from biblical days. We're left wondering if all the early christians have been resurrected.

Is there a combo called Moses and his Tablets of Stone? Have they come up with Nero and his Fiery Fiddlers? Peter and his Crowing Cocks? Judas and his Pieces of Silver? Daniel and his Roaring Lions? Some twosome wanting to be really original might call their combo Adam and Steve — the "S" sound is for snakes.

We've heard some of the horrible music produced by some of these horribly-named combos and we're left in no doubt as to why ballroom dancing has so degenerated. This must be "instant music" and we really shouldn't be canning it. Surely it won't last.

Some day Simon and his ilk may be converted to making the kind of dance music we knew in our youth — Paul Whiteman, Wayne King, Ben Bernie and all the lads, Guy Lombardo and the sweetest music this side of heaven, as played by the Royal Canadians. Then our youngsters will really resurrect the delights of dancing cheek to cheek.

Must remind Sister Superior there's a dance band called The Raphaels. Oughta fit in well at Iona.

THAT SMUG LOOK

That smug look you see on the faces of derring-do drivers who cut in and out in a line of traffic raises the hackles of Jim O'Neill, columnist on the Smiths Falls Record News. We are all agile and strong enough to push an accelerator to the floor, Jim reminds. Any dunce can do that. So why the smug look?

He continues:

I have been trying to figure it out. Spending a weekend in a country town recently, I watched the mid-night tag-game that went on, with cars splattering gravel at every corner. It was such a display of ignorance I was appalled. I asked a psychiatrist friend of mine if he could explain it. "It's like electricity," he said, "in that we don't know exactly what it is, but we can understand how it works. It is a sign of a complete lack of security —the boy or man who indulges in it is trying to bolster an ego. He is conscious of some lack of manhood in his makeup, and is attempting to prove that he is a bold fellow. The young fellow who drives carefully is usually the real man—he

MOOSE CREEK

MRS. E. BRUNET HOSTESS TO WI

The October meeting of the Moose Creek Branch of the Women's Institute was held in the home of Mrs. Emery Brunet on Tuesday evening, October 25th with an attendance of 12.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Currie Blair, the 1st vice-president Mrs. Chris. Walton conducted the business portion of the meeting.

The treasurer's report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Scott, who noted the substantial sum realized from the sale of tickets on a hand embroidered tablecloth.

The report of the Area Convention for Women's Institutes held in Ottawa on October 19-20 was prepared by Mrs. Currie Blair, delegate.

Mrs. Stanley McKay and Mrs. Emery Brunet, conveners for the citizenship and education dept., presented the following enjoyable program: The roll call was answered by each member telling "An educational program I like on TV". It was interesting to hear short essays prepared by a number of pupils in the Separate School on the topic of "Education". Those who prepared the essays were Jo-Anne Emburg, Suzanne Sabourin, Michael Montcalm, Monique Dupuis, Carole Besner, Jo-Anna Rolland and Marshall Richer. Their teacher is Mrs. Jeannette Sabourin.

A musical contest "Guessing the name of the song as it was played on the piano" was conducted by Mrs. Brunet and was won by Mrs. Chris. Walton. An address on the motto "Children need models, not critics" was ably given by Mrs. Walton, she stressed the importance of discipline in the home and school to make better citizens of our children; they follow the example of their parents and teachers. She based her remarks on citizenship. Mrs. S. McKay gave an interesting and educational reading on "education". She also conducted a contest "naming the correct sponsor of a product as shown in the picture in a magazine", the winner was Mrs. Earl MacNeil.

The winning ticket of the tablecloth on which tickets were sold was drawn by Mrs. William Urquhart and the winner was Miss Ruth Marjerrison of Avonmore, "Stormont's Dairy Princess". We wish to congratulate Miss Marjerrison in her work. Lunch was served and a vote of thanks tendered to Mrs. Brunet for the use of her home.

RCMP Constable Robert Laporte Wed In West

LAPORTE—BAKKER

A pretty wedding took place in Trinity United Church Edam, Sask., August 20 when Rev. Gordon G. Hyde officiated at the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Trudie Klasiena Bakker of Saskatoon and Constable Robert Arthur Laporte of Colonsay.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Klaas Bakker and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laporte of Alexandria.

The bride entered the church escorted by her father. She was attired in a beautiful empire styled gown of white crepe with spanish lace bodice trimmed in velvet ribbon. Her full length veil of nylon tulle fell softly from a pearl tiara and flowed gently over the train of the wedding gown. She carried a bouquet of white orchids.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Banting and bridesmaids Miss June Kahovac and Miss Ann Bandringa were identically dressed in floor length gowns of deep teal blue satin crepe with fabric rose headpieces.

The groomsman was Constable Al Aleksich of Watrous. Ushers were Constables Jim Bell and Rini Van Herk.

A reception in the United Church hall was followed by an open house at the home of the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and U.S. points the bride chose a three-piece suit of teal and black wool knit with black accessories.

Constable and Mrs. Laporte are making their home at Colonsay, Sask.

So next time you see cars whipping around small-town streets or busy highways, don't think you are seeing daredevils at large. What you are seeing, instead, are cowards or very little men who are trying to prove to themselves that they are brave and bold. Pity them—and turn in their license numbers. You will be doing them a favor, Jim concludes.

Co-Op Medical Services Annual

Stor-Dun-Glen Co-operative Medical Services elected two Cornwall men to its board of directors at the annual meeting, a step taken in view of expanding membership in the co-op among city people.

Sam Smolkin and Hubert Cameron will be new city members of the board. They were elected along with John McBain of Lancaster, Henry Houle of Plantagenet, Herbert Hill of Monkland and Eric Casselman of Chesterville, at the meeting in MacDonell's Inn, Eamer's Corners.

Secretary-manager of the co-operative William Legault outlined results of a successful year of business to members, explaining that a number of new members have joined in the city and this branch of the co-operative service enterprise seems likely to increase in importance.

President William Maginnis of Ingleside, presided for the annual meeting, announcing that the Co-op has had a good year.

William Franklin of Brockville, provincial director of Co-operative Medical Services Federation addressed the meeting and described progress of the medical insurance plan under co-operative ownership in the province. Earned premiums have now topped five million, he said.

ALL MUST LEARN

We have to emphasize the need for education today, for, as a dean of one of the largest universities in the United States . . . said: "The colonial period may have brought times which tried men's souls, but the space age, while it has not overlooked his soul, tries man's education. It marks a time which makes a potential student out of everybody, when everybody has educational challenge in common." —Port Union (Nfld.) Fisherman's Advocate.

Junior Footballers Lost One-Point Thriller In Game At Cornwall

By Angus H. McDonell

There is an ominous football cloud moving in from the North and heading over the local gridiron at GDHS.

Hawkesbury High School, showing plenty of power, can hold on to second place in the Glengarry-Prescott school league standing with a win tomorrow (Friday) in Vankleek Hill. Should they accomplish this feat then the sudden death play-off championship game will be played in Alexandria following the close of the schedule next week. If VCI win over the Hawks, then Char-Lan must defeat Maxville in the final league game to move back into second place and play-off rights.

Last Friday in Hawkesbury, the CI Paper town, students displayed a surge of scoring power by their 40-0 win over Char-Lan. This is further evidence that the Hawks recent 21-21 tie game with GDHS was no flash in the pan and right now there would be logic in a warning to GDHS that a fired up Hawkesbury squad might terminate for this year at least the locals skein of championships.

GDHS at home last Friday also displayed plenty of scoring punch by a 32-6 win over VCI. Hurricane Paul Rochon swirled over the Hill students goal line for two first-quarter TDs. Jack Denovan was true on the initial convert try but missed the second.

After a change of ends Glen MacSweyn was galloping for pay dirt but a glancing block jarred the ball loose near the VCI goal line. Campbell MacGillivray alertly picked up the leather lemon and counted a third major for GDHS. The convert was nil and at half time Alexandria led 19-0.

In the third quarter lanky Hubert Morris, who is still a junior age-wise, latched on to a fine pass by Barry Bethune and went all the way for another TD. Quarterback Bethune again found the pass target, this time Campbell MacGillivray, to tally the locals final TD. Coach Stan Fraser, noting that three convert tries in succession had failed, sent Hubert Morris in to hold the ball but the play turned out to be a Bernie Faloney pattern as Hubert tossed a neat pass to Campbell MacGillivray in the end zone and one more point.

In the last quarter, VCI not only held the locals but on a third-down punt quarterback Cromber raced through to pick up his own kick at the GDHS 25 stripe, and much to the locals surprise, rambled over for the Hill's only major. Final score GDHS 32, VCI 6.

The feature game of the weekend was a close 22-21 win by Cornwall CCVS jrs. over GDHS jrs. in Cornwall on Saturday.

Larry Filion scored the locals first TD and Ivan MacMillan added the convert point. Peter Filion then romped 75 yards for the GDHS second major after hauling in a pass from halfback Garry MacDonald. Ivan MacMillan split the uprights again on the convert try.

The final points were posted as the result of a pass strike from quarterback Brian Libbos to Paul Masson. Ivan MacMillan again came through with a marksman convert, evidence that he is following in the footsteps of his brother Stanley.

CCVS matched Alexandria point for point to tie the score 21-21. With the final play coming up Cornwall jrs. were within field goal range. The kick was wide and Glen Alan MacPherson's return punt hit the goal post, the ball bounding back in the GDHS end zone giving CCVS the winning point.

Curling Ice Ready

The curling season will get underway this weekend at Alexandria Curling Club. Paul Roy and his ice committee are putting the finishing touches to the ice lanes and they expect the rocks will be rolling Friday or Saturday night.

The club is holding Open House for prospective curlers and others interested next Wednesday to Friday nights.

Hallowe'en Party Opens Curling Season

The new season at the Curling Club began with a Hallowe'en Party Saturday night, in the Clubrooms which had been gaily decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Lyall Costello and Mrs. D. A. Macdonell. A large number of curlers and their friends attended, most of them in costume. D. J. Baxter, president, was master of ceremonies and the costumes were judged by Mr. and Mrs. Grant Whitehead and Mr. and Mrs. James Hubbard.

Selecting the best from such a variety of the beautiful, the comic and the grotesque proved difficult, but the following were finally chosen: Mrs. D. J. Baxter-Cat; Miss Edith McLeister-Flapper; Denis Bellefeuille-Dutchman; Jack Caley-Tramp, and Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Leblanc-Turkish couple.

Lunch was served at midnight, after which dancing to the music of the organ and drums was enjoyed. All are now looking forward to Open House which will be next week.

Trophy Night For Golfers

Glengarry Golf & Country Club members wind up a successful season next Saturday night with a trophy night dinner and dance in Alexander Hall.

Members are requested to turn in tickets on the car draw before Saturday to President Louis Shepherd or Herman Parsons.

Minor Hockey Association To Use Maxville Arena Ice Wednesday Nights

Alexandria and District Minor Hockey Association will hold registration for PeeWees, Bantams. Midgets and Juveniles in the Alexander Hall, Saturday, November 5th and Saturday, November 12th from 10 a.m. to 12 noon both days. The boys are asked to bring their birth certificates. The Sprites will be registered at a later date. Registration is $2.00, half of which is for insurance.

Ice time has been rented at the Maxville arena for Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 and home games will be played there.

Next Wednesday's ice time will be devoted to public skating for boys and girls, it was decided at a meeting of the Minor Hockey Association last night. Bus transportation will leave the Mill Square for Maxville at 6.15 p.m.

Gerald Simpson was named vice-president of the Association, replacing Melvyn Aubrey who has resigned.

The town has given a grant of $2,500 to the Association. This has been increased from the former $1,500 grant to cover expenses of transportation, ice rental etc.

K of C Active

Members of Glengarry Council K of C were in Cornwall Saturday evening attending the Beef Bar-B-Q of Council 755. Some also attended the Hallowe'en dance sponsored by Council 5068 at Glen Walter.

On Sunday morning members and their wives attended the 8 o'clock mass in St. Paul's Church, Dalkeith and enjoyed a communion breakfast hosted by wives of the Dalkeith members.

District Deputy C. Lafave of Cornwall was guest speaker. In attendance were District Warden C. Mallette and Grand Knight P. Nadon and their wives from Glen Walter.

CWL To Furnish Religious Articles For Lodge Chapel As Project

For their Centennial project, the diocesan council of the CWL will devote time and money to the purchase of religious articles for the new chapel at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge.

These plans were decided at the diocesan meeting held at Long Sault. Members were welcomed by the parish council president, Mrs. C. Ray and Mrs. John Fox presided. Reports were read by Mrs. D. MacDonald, recording secretary; Mrs. Bernard Daly, secretary, and Mrs. Delia Roy, treasurer.

A report was given by Miss Mildred Cleary, who was delegate to the Social Life conference held in Ottawa. The keynote address had been given by Baroness Catherine de Hueck who pointed out that a Christian community is formed with the mortar of love, social action conveners and their committees. She pointed out that all persons interested in building up a Christian society need to exercise the virtue of love — love of God and love of neighbor. Miss Cleary said that the delegates were urged to study the documents emanating from Vatican II, and to become involved in community activity, so that with their knowledge and love of God, they could help create personalities which are strong, forceful, rich in ideals and activity and Christian in all respects. The speaker outlined some of the subjects discussed in the workshops.

Mrs. Fox outlined the highlights of the provincial convention. Mrs. E. Keon stated in her talk that the business activities are not the most important. It is what is done with the money. She said good works in education, social welfare and social action should be publicized. The guest speaker Mrs. M. Lynnburner chose, women of the world, as her topic.

Bishop J. R. Windle spoke on the spiritual aspect of the league. Mrs. Fox announced that the Alexandria council was the only one to complete their peldge to the Vanier Institute.

The president recommended that each parish council attack the poverty program. The Canadian bishops have appealed to all to enter the field. She said, we are all equally responsible for the undernourished, under-privileged, etc. Prayer for peace should be recited at each meeting. It was recommended to the national council that the league be asked to undertake a nationwide prayer for peace which would request that each member attend mass one week day of each month for peace in the world.

A three-man committee has been established to study a province-wide spiritual program with particular emphasis on Vatican II documents.

Mrs. Gerald McDonald, representative to the National Convention, reported on education convenership and social action.

Seventeen of the 19 resolutions were adopted.

Members were congratulated on the excellent attendance at the days of recollection and another will be held Nov. 23. Mrs. Dorothy Donihee was congratulated on election to the national presidency. She, too, addressed the meeting and expressed her thanks. She gave words of encouragement to the new council in Martintown. She said each council should put on a membership drive to double their numbers.

Perth Man To Be New United Counties' Assessment Commissioner

The appointment of Barry G. Eastwood of Perth, as United Counties' assessment commissioner was a highlight of business concluded at a special session of Counties Council.

Mr. Eastwood is presently an employee of the Ontario department of municipal affairs and has had broad experience in assessment procedures. He will take up his new duties within a few weeks. His salary is to be $10,000 per year, with annual increments of $500 up to $12,500.

Council noted with regret the impending retirement of D. A. Condie, Counties assessor, and the finance committee report recommended that he be retained in an advisory capacity for a year.

Council expressed confidence in the Board of Health and ruled to leave the question of resignation of public health nurses in the counties in its hands.

Council also authorized the conclusion of an agreement with the Ontario minister of highways to permit the commencement of a more extensive development road program.

In his concluding remarks at the brief session, Warden Donald Kyle of Williamsburg, mentioned that council had taken two steps at the brief session which are likely to be of permanent importance to all the people of the United Counties. The adoption of the new plan of assessment and further expansion of development roads should both have far reaching effects.

It is expected that the next regular session of Counties council will be during the week of Nov. 14.

Origin And Development Of Hydro In Maxville Part Of Centennial Story

(Donald John Kippen of Maxville, has researched and written the following story of Hydro's coming to Maxville at the request of Ontario Hydro. It will be placed in Hydro's Hall of Memory, the cooperative centennial project of tse Ontario Municipal Electric Association, the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities and Ontario Hydro. The Hall of Memory will be located in the Sir Adam Beck—Niagara No. 1 generating station).

Maxville is a village of about 850 persons and is situated in Ontario's eastermost county, Glengarry, with the Province of Quebec to the east and the St. Lawrence River to the south. The municipality covers an area of approximately one square mile on the summit of land between the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers. Some small streams have their origin on this ridge but none is of sufficient size to be utilized for a system of waterworks or for generating power. Each property has a tiled or drilled well; semage disposal is taken care of by individual septic tanks.

In the early days of the settlement, a courier on horseback carried mail to a post office known as Notfield, about two miles to the south. His route also took him through the present village area to another post office at Athol to the north. When a general store business was opened between the two existing post offices, it became an unofficial sorting centre for mail addressed to the residents. This led to a formal petition for recognition as an official post office. As the land surrounding the community was owned by farmers of Scottish ancestry bearing the prefix of Mac to their surnames, it was suggested the post office be named Macsville. From this suggestion came the decision to name it Maxville, and the office was opened in 1871.

Construction of the Montreal-Ottawa line of the Canada Atlantic Railway sounded the death-knell for the thriving communities of Notfield, which later became Dominionville and Athol. This right-of-way followed the height of land and a depot was opened near Maxville post office. The first express train went through on a regular schedule in September 1882. The hamlet grew with such rapidity that by 1891 the population was in excess of 800 and incorporation as a village was consumated.

The primitive tallow candle was followed by the kerosene lamp as means of providing light. In 1904, some of the progressive citizens formed a company to provide a system of gas lights for the streets and individual customers. The gas was manufactured from carbide and fed to about a dozen steel street lamps. The life of the gas system was of short duration. An extensive woodworking plant had electric lights in the buildings. The steam-driven power that was used to operate the machinery also generated the electricity. The plant was destroyed by fire in 1911.

Before and during the years of World War I, the principal street intersections were lighted by gasoline lanterns. Each light had two inverted mantles of fragile material. The gasoline was forced to the top of the mantle receptacle by pumping air in the base of the lantern. They were pulled up each evening on a pulley and rope arrangement that placed them in the middle of the crossing, and they were taken down each morning, moved to the municipal warehouse, filled with gasoline, pumped with air, and most of the lot fitted with new mantles. The mantles cost sixty cents each, the gasoline was in steel drums brought in by rail, and the attendant was hired on the basis of the lowest bidder being hired regardless of his age or ability, with the result that the monthly meetings of Municipal Council spent more time on discussion of street-lighting than on any other subject.

In November 1915, Ontario Hydro was asked to provide the municipality with plans and estimated cost of an adequate power system. Hydro engineers completed a survey of the municipality and submitted plans and construction costs for a diesel generating station. No further action was taken during the years of World War I. In January 1919 there was discussion in Council of purchasing a second-hand plant to generate electricity. By June of the same year it became evident that Ontario Hydro was spreading to the eastern parts of the province and a request was forwarded to Ontario Hydro to extend the lines to Maxville. At the December meeting of Council, two by-laws were passed. The first by-law was to obtain consent of the electors to contract with Ontario Hydro for a supply of power. The second by-law was to obtain consent to issue municipal debentures in the amount of $16,000 to pay the estimated cost of line construction within the vilage. The ratepayers gave assent to the two by-laws with 144 voting in favor and one against. The reeve was the late Alex H. Robertson. Members of council were John W. Smillie, Norman L. Stewart and G. Herbert McDougall, all deceased, the fourth member was J. Domina Villeneuve, the present deputy-sheriff of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. The late J. W. Weegar was clerk in 1919-1920. The agreement wherein Ontario Hydro was to supply power to Maxville was signed on January 26, 1920. Construction of lines within the municipality was left to the decision of the council. The Ontario Hydro would complete the construction, or, the village council could do their own purchasing of material and pay the workmen's wages. On April 9, 1920, the council decided to construct the lines and John S. Livingston was hired as foreman of construction at the rate of $175.00 per month to commence from May 11, 1920.

In May 1920, council passed a motion to form a separate commission of three members to administer the local electrical operations. This motion was withdrawn and in its place there was a committee of the reeve and two members of council placed in charge of Maxville Hydro-Electric Commission, with separate books and secretary-treasurer. Later it was ruled that the reeve is automatically a member of the commission and the other two members are elected by the ratepayers. The 1921 council members were the same as 1920, being returned by acclamation. The clerk was W. Stirling MacLean, and the treasurer of the village and commission accounts was the late John A. Cameron.

Power from Ontario Hydro came to Maxville on February 23, 1921. The street-lighting system of about 50 lights had been completed, most of the business places were wired, but only a few homes were ready to receive electricity.

On the evening of Sunday, May 8, 1921, a disastrous fire destroyed all the buildings on both sides of the principal business blocks of Main Street. The time-clock controlling the street lights was in the centre of the conflagration, the office records of the local commission fell prey to the flames, contractors and their workmen engaged in house-wiring lost their tools and personal belongings in their hotel rooms. Within a week, construction of new buildings was under way.

Maxville is surrounded by a prosperous farming area in which the production of milk is the principal source of income. The herds of cattle are of high pedigree and are in demand by purchasers of good breeding stock. Within the village, there is not much industrial employment available. Electric power is used in two grain-chopping mills, a sawmill and in various repair shops. But it is to the homes that Ontario Hydro has brought the conveniences and comforts of city life. Since Ontario Hydro came to Maxville in 1921, seven large buildings have been converted to provide 19 apartment dwellings, and 44 homes, mostly modern bungalow types, have been constructed, but there has been no increase in population. The house that formerly had parents with five or six children is now occupied by a retired couple, a widow, widower or bachelor.

It is quite evident that the ratepayers of the village are satisfied with the members of the commission and the services provided by the utility. Reeve Hugh Smith has served several terms as head of council and a commissioner. Chairman Hamilton J. Morrow and commissioner Merton Casey have been returned to office by acclamation for some years. The secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Verna MacGregor. Leslie Kippen, line superintendent, has a long record of service with Maxville Hydro. He drew his first cheque from the commission when he was employed as a casual workman for 25 cents per hour in 1924.

double your money with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series

Centennial Series Canada Savings Bonds offer you their highest interest yield ever—5.48% a year when held to maturity.

The new Bonds pay annual interest at the rate of 5% for each of the first four years; 5½% for each of the next three years; 5¾% for the following year and 6% for each of the last five years—a total of $72.25 in interest on every $100 Bond.

And for the first time, there is a special compound interest option. To take full advantage of it, leave all the annual interest uncollected until Nov. 1, 1979, and you will get interest on your interest, amounting to $27.75 extra on every $100 Bond.

It all adds up to total interest of $100 on every $100 Bond. It's a safe, sure way to save. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

This Series retains all the traditional features which make Canada Savings Bonds Canada's most favoured investment.

They are still easy to buy for cash or on instalments where you work, bank or invest. You may buy as little as $50 or as much as $10,000. Every Canadian resident may buy up to this limit. So can estates.

They are still simple to cash, anytime, at any bank in Canada for their full face value plus earned interest. Just fill out the redemption form on the Bond, present it to your bank and you'll get your money right away.

And now they're better than ever to keep with the highest interest yield ever and interest on interest. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY with Canada Savings Bonds Centennial Series.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

James P. McCaffrey is no more. Those were the somber words that ticked along the wires with an Alexandria date line last Saturday night. Words that stunned sport editors at their desks in every radio station and newspaper office from coast to coast.

The follow-up was one of the most unique coincidences in the realm of sport to be flashed to the news media.

The guiding rays from one of the brightest beacon lights in Canadian football, James P. McCaffrey, dimmed and then went out as the Ottawa-Montreal train neared Glengarry; bringing to an end the life that began in Alexandria some 72 years ago. Not only did death strike James P. McCaffrey on a Canadian National train where he worked in one of his first jobs as a "Newsy", but also while he was surrounded by his beloved Ottawa Rough Riders.

As the train carrying a shocked troop of players continued on to Montreal, one of McCaffrey's great football proteges, John G. "Jake" Dunlap, noted Ottawa lawyer, remained behind like a faithful son standing beside a departed father.

"Jimmy" McCaffrey, as he was affectionately known, in his lengthy climb from the bottom rung of the sport ladder all the way to the top, that was packed with major achievements, never forgot that Alexandria was his birth place and he carried Glengarry's traditions in an unforgettable manner.

This was first evidenced in 1913 when Jimmy starred in the nets as Alexandria won the Lower Ottawa Valley Lacrosse championship.

Among the many traits, that were parts of Jimmy McCaffrey was his interest in and desire to bring along a young athlete showing potential. This motive was really responsible for the beginning of an illustrious sports career.

About 1923 St. Brigids had a few better than average football players in Joe Miller, Harold Starr and the two Charlies, Connell and Lynch. Rough Riders required new blood so the Irishman from Sandy Hill and Lower Town, Jimmy McCaffrey, led his fellow Harps to Lansdowne Park—the rest is history.

There are countless sidelights that have been lost in the reams of print about "J.P.", as he was often referred to. Jimmy believed, and rightfully so, that sport recreation was the high schools' and City of Ottawa's obligation. However, when a youngster showing promise was brought to McCaffrey's attention, then he was invited into the All Star fold to help maintain Ottawa high among the teams of other cities and give this boy a chance to step up to even higher company and a better position in life.

Race, religion or social standing made no difference to J. P. We recall early in the Hungry Thirties, a youngster who could really punt a football. He was signed and while Rough Riders were preparing to leave for Hamilton a phone call advised Manager Jimmy that he would be without a kicker as the youngster didn't have a suit of clothes. That tip off was all McCaffrey needed and a few hours later the best dressed young man complete with travelling luggage at Union Station was the rookie Rough Rider. Later he became a member of the Fire Department.

On Monday evening accompanied by Alex "Little Archie" McMillan, one of the few remaining Alexandria sportsmen of J.P.'s youth, there we stood among the Ottawa "Old Guard" at the bier of Jimmy McCaffrey. The first to greet us was Frank Dunlap, then Tommy Lowrey, Cecil Duncan, Terry Kielty, Ray Boucher, Jimmy O'Regan, Charlie Connell, "Frock" and Gerry Lowrey to mention a few. The press and radio had paid their tributes so this was, as Tommy Lowrey said, "The way Jim would want it."

Each in turn vied in recalling anecdotes and always Jimmy was the central figure with his supporting cast very often "King" Clancy, Charlie and the late Alex Connell.

There were a few classics of the McCaffrey managerial shrewdness. One in particular was Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick meeting Jimmy in the Toronto station. The latter was carrying two baskets of apples to the Ottawa night train. In reply to Westwick's query about the apples Jimmy grinned, "Feed them those apples and they won't be eating those expensive sandwiches on the train."

Another yarn was about the young player dickering with Jimmy and a football deal. The youngster had improved considerably and thought he was worth more money or an extra ton of coal. One of the older players in an aside during practise asked how he made out. The young player shook his head, "Oh, OK but I never met anyone with such deep pockets and such short arms."

Jack (Ottawa Citizen) Kinsella summed up Jimmy McCaffrey's sport biography in excellent capsule form when he wrote: "To the world at large, Jim McCaffrey liked to present an image of the hard-hearted Irish sports entrepreneur, a man who squeezed nickels until the royal visage cried, a man who drove a hard bargain with poor athletes, and a man who was the epitome of craftiness."

"It was the farthest thing from the truth. For all his image, he was the softest touch of them all and there are literally hundreds, both athletes and merely acquaintances, who could attest today that his generosity and kindness, in secret and without acclaim, were synonymous with the true nature of this man."

Jimmy McCaffrey was the first invited guest to acknowledge and accept our Lions Club invitation to attend our Sportsman's Banquet in late spring. Jimmy spoke briefly and sincerely of his birthplace and his memories of Alexandria.

We of Alexandria and throughout the Glens will share with Ottawa and the Sport Realm the loss of this Statesman of Canadian Football. We will always remember Jimmy McCaffrey as the type of sportsman who motivated Kipling to write:

For when the great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He writes not what you won or lost
But how you played the game.

Entertained Prior To Marriage

The staff of the Medical Branch of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, Ottawa, entertained Miss Beverley Kippen at a miscellaneous shower on Friday, October 14, previous to her marriage.

Mrs. John Denovan, Aylmer Road, Hull, was hostess on October 13, at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Kippen, whose marriage to Mr. Malcolm Dewar takes place on October 29th.

A group of friends from Maxville and Dunvegan motored to Hull to join with their ex-Glengarrians for this happy event.

The bride-to-be entered the room to the strains of "Here Comes The Bride", played by Mrs. H. P. Goodfellow, of Ottawa, at the piano, and was led to a chair over which was a tastefully decorated umbrella. Mrs. Denovan then pinned a beautiful corsage of pink sweetheart roses on Beverley.

Mrs. Denovan and her daughter, Lilian, wheeled in a decorated cart loaded with many beautiful and useful gifts. After opening the gifts, Beverley expressed her appreciation for the kindness of her friends.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by members of the WA of Aylmer Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Radbourne, Ottawa, entertained at their home on October 14, in honor of Miss Kippen and Malcolm Dewar, prior to their marriage.

The guests of honor entered to the music of eight fiddlers from the Glengarry Old Time Fiddlers Association, of which Malcolm is a valued member.

The evening was spent in lively Scottish music and dancing. During the evening, Mrs. Radbourne presented the guests of honor with a purse, on behalf of all friends present. Mr. Roy Muir of Glasgow, Scotland, on his first visit to Canada, was present and thoroughly enjoyed the Scottish hospitality.

Mrs. Radbourne, assisted by her daughter, Nancy, and her sisters, Mrs. E. Cameron and Miss Jean McLean, and Mrs. Thomas Turpin, served a delicious lunch after which all joined hands and sang, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

HELP OIL SEEKERS

Southwestern Manitoba is interested in a different form of exploration, especially as it pertains to oil with accompanying prospects for gas formations. There is prevailing opinion that the Manitoba government should offer some concessions to oil companies to investigate basement possibilities. Saskatchewan took a step in this direction several months ago and results were on the affirmative side. It's an objective worth encouraging.

Man-u-phos reinforces manure with Phosphorus and acts as a stable disinfectant. Apply at the rate of 2 to 2½ pounds per cow per day, sprinkled in the gutter; or if desired, add 50 pounds of Man-u-phos per ton of manure before the manure is spread on fields.

Co-op Man-u-phos added to manure not only adds phosphate, thereby saving an extra application but it holds the nitrogen in manure from being lost to the air.

Remember, manure itself is low in phosphate and consequently is not a balanced fertilizer. Therefore, for "goodness sake" use Co-op Man-u-phos with manure.
