More than 300 attend all-candidates meeting

Bilingualism was only the first of many topics debated Monday night by the three candidates in the Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry byelection campaign.

Before an audience of more than 300 in the Glengarry Sports Palace, Conservative Noble Villeneuve attacked his Liberal opponent's support for entrenchment of francophone rights in the Canadian Constitution.

He suggested Liberal John Whitteker only spoke of bilingualism in Glengarry, hoping to garner the county's francophone votes, but had not made similar remarks in Dundas for fear of offending anglophones there.

Mr. Villeneuve said he opposed entrenchment because it would "cast in stone" decisions for generations to come.

He said the Ontario government's present policy of providing bilingual education and government services where required worked well, particularly in Glengarry.

"I read Mr. Whitteker's statement in The Glengarry News," said Mr. Villeneuve. "But I couldn't find it in The Winchester Press, The Chesterville Record, The Morrisburg Leader or The Iroquois Chieftain. You can rest assured, I'll make sure they do have that statement."

Mr. Whitteker did not have a chance to reply until the end of the evening when he was making his closing statement.

He said he had made his position on bilingualism known when questioned by The News and would make the same statement to any other newspaper that asked.

He emphasized his belief that existing laws pertaining to bilingual services in Ontario should be entrenched in the constitution. Otherwise, he said, "They could be taken away at the whim of the Legislature."

He said he envied Mr. Villeneuve's fluency in both official languages and felt everyone should have the opportunity to acquire the same ability.

Full French immersion should be available from Kindergarten to Grade 5, he said, with partial immersion offered from there to Grade 13.

He said he was opposed to enforced bilingualism and insisted no one should have to lose employment because he lacked one of the two languages.

NDP candidate Rudy Derstroff also expressed support for entrenchment.

TILE DRAINAGE

Tile drainage funding was also debated, with the Liberal and NDP candidates both criticizing the government for discriminating against Eastern Ontario.

Two counties in Southwestern Ontario receive more tile drainage funding than all of Eastern Ontario, said Mr. Whitteker.

Though careful not to criticize the government, Mr. Villeneuve conceded this area could receive more drainage funding and said "he would twist the (agriculture) minister's ear to get more."

He reminded the audience that additional funding had been announced the previous week, along with the government's decision to move the Stormont agricultural office from Cornwall to Avonmore.

But the $78,000 in additional funding announced for SD&G may prove to be of little value, countered Mr. Whitteker, noting it is virtually too late to do any drainage work now and the money must be spent before March 31 or it will be returned to Toronto.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Condemning both Conservatives and Liberals, the NDP's Mr. Derstroff said his party would not accept projections by the federal and provincial governments that unemployment will remain at 10 per cent for the next three years.

The NDP has an employment program that would create 150,000 jobs now and another 200,000 over the next five years, he said. A $7 billion program, he said it would primarily involve small projects.

"We can't afford to do nothing," he said.

SPENDING

Continuing what has become a familiar refrain in the Liberal campaign, Mr. Whitteker devoted most of his opening remarks to a blanket condemnation of the Conservative government's spending practices.

He complained of the Ministry of Government Services spending $718,000 to prepare a telephone book and data system and hiring a $900 a day consultant, for a total of $80,000, without tendering or obtaining approval from the management board of cabinet.

The projects went ahead against the stated wishes of then minister Doug Wiseman, MPP for Lanark. When Mr. Wiseman wanted to complain, said Mr. Whitteker, he was kicked out of the cabinet, removing the only rural Eastern Ontario voice.

Amalgamation of the ministries of municipal affairs and housing under Claude Bennett was to cost $1 million, "already an exorbitant figure," said the Liberal, but in three months the cost had grown to $3 million.

This included $100,000 for renovation of Mr. Bennett's suite of offices, he said.

GRANTS

He complained about a move to change the government's system of unconditional grants and transfer payments, which the Liberals say will cost SD&G $3 million.

There is little room to cut services, said Mr. Whitteker, leaving another increase in local taxes as the only means for small municipalities to pay their bills.

As examples, he said taxes on the average household in the Township of Winchester will jump $50 and in Osnabruck, $55. This will be in addition to any other increases the municipalities would have to put through, said Mr. Whitteker.

In answer to a question from the floor, the NDP and Conservative candidates stated their support for the concept of equalized property assessment for tax purposes.

Mr. Villeneuve said equalized assessment amounted to "living with real life." An appraiser, as well as being a farmer, the Conservative said the system was fair, in that it would represent real value of assessed property.

Though adjustments would be needed at the municipal level, he said it was "the only way to go."

Mr. Whitteker, veteran reeve of Williamsburg Township, had an opposite opinion.

Assessment was taken from the United Counties in 1969, said Mr. Whitteker, a former warden. The government felt the counties were moving too slowly in switching over to market value assessment.

"They were going to do it and maybe give it back to us," he said. "But today they're still doing it both ways. If it was such a good idea, why haven't they passed it in the past 15 years?"

He said his own township council refused to switch over when it found out the new system would place such a tax burden on a local nine-hole golf course that it would be put out of business, while a government-owned 18-hole course six miles away paid no municipal taxes.

ROADS

The NDP and Liberal candidates were in agreement again when asked about the quality of roads in the riding.

Mr. Derstroff complained the government was not giving fair treatment to Eastern Ontario and said he couldn't understand why no allowance was made for farm vehicles when Highway 31 was repaved.

Mr. Whitteker said 41 per cent of the roads in SD&G were in need of reconstruction, compared to a provincial average of 28 per

VOL. 93 No. 48 ALEXANDRIA, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1983 SINGLE COPY 35¢

Panel slams court facilities, expansion or replacement ?

Alexandria's provincial court facilities are totally inadequate and in need of a complete overhaul or a brand new facility, according to a recent report prepared by the Public Institutions Inspection Panel.

It is the fifth straight year that the panel of independent jurors has been critical of Alexandria's court facilities.

The seven-member panel, which submitted its latest report to County Court Judge Jean Adrien Forget on November 14, was appointed to inspect the facilities at seven public institutions, including the Alexandria Court House.

"We found this court house to require washrooms, carpeting, new furniture, a holding cell for prisoners, and a new security and alarm system in cases of emergencies," the report states.

"This facility, in our opinion, is totally inadequate, and we recommend that larger and more modern premises be provided."

Panel Chairman Claude Bissonnette told The News there was unanimous agreement among the members that facilities should be "substantially improved" or a new location found.

He pointed to the lack of available seating and the absence of a holding cell for prisoners. He also said there was inadequate protection afforded to the court's only secretary, who often works alone.

The comments contained in the report were echoed last Thursday at the weekly provincial court sitting. Lawyers and policemen attending the proceedings condemned the facilities as a "security hazard" and a risk to public safety.

Crown attorney Luc D'Iorio was critical of the lack of seating and the fact that often many people were crowded into the narrow hallway which separates the courtroom from the court office, making it difficult for staff to gain access to the office.

He conceded there was no place else for the general public to go during recesses, except outside the building. The hallway also houses the only washroom.

He also cited the lack of a proper holding cell for prisoners as a security risk, pointing out there is only one small room, which doubles as a holding area for those in custody and an interview room for duty counsel and their clients.

"It doesn't make any sense," Mr. D'Iorio said. There were no fewer than six people in police custody last Thursday, in addition to a murder suspect under special police guard. The six spent most of the day seated at the rear of the courtroom in an area reserved for the general public, although presiding Judge Reginald Levesque has in the past objected to having prisoners in the courtroom unless their cases are being heard.

Defense lawyer Hal Sherwood, president of the Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry Law Association, agreed the facilities are woefully inadequate and argued it was sometimes impossible to interview clients when police were using the interview room as a substitute for a proper holding area.

"What bothers me about this place is the fire hazard or the potential for panic if a prisoner goes berserk when there is no holding cell," Mr. Sherwood said.

He said the problem has been ongoing for several years, but conceded there were other courts with worse facilities, adding it was a matter of priority with the provincial government.

Mr. D'Iorio, however, said the problem was "getting worse" because the court lists were getting longer and a greater number of people were coming to court to testify or simply to watch the proceedings.

He said these people had a right to come to court under an open judicial system and shouldn't be prevented from doing so.

"The number of people in court poses a danger because there is not an adequate number of exits in cases of emergency," he said.

The second-storey courtroom has only one main exit, via a narrow staircase, although there is a fire escape exit off the main courtroom.

Other attorneys and provincial police officers in court last Thursday expressed similar concerns about the difficulty of maintaining proper security under present conditions.

County Court Judge Forget said a panel is appointed twice a year to report on provincial facilities. He then forwards a copy of the report to each facility inspected and one to the Attorney General's office.

The judge said an official from the program analysis and implementation branch of the mini-

ON THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL—Conservative candidate Noble Villeneuve shares a humorous moment with Premier William Davis, who was in town Monday to lend support to Mr. Villeneuve's campaign in the SD&G byelection slated for Dec. 15. The premier addressed about 100 party supporters at the Alexandria Curling Club.

Davis tours riding for Conservative's Villeneuve

Premier Bill Davis had some good advice Tuesday for his party's candidate in the Dec. 15 provincial byelection — stay humble and don't indulge in personality clashes.

The premier, accompanied by his aides and Conservative hopeful Noble Villeneuve, greeted about 100 party supporters at the Alexandria Curling Club Tuesday afternoon.

It was the fourth stop in a whirlwind tour which included Morrisburg, Ingleside and Lancaster and was intended to boost the Tory campaign in the riding.

A smiling and jovial Davis chided both Liberals and New Democrats for making "not too flattering" comments about the Tory candidate and warned Mr. Villeneuve not to "get into personalities."

"We have something positive to say and we don't need to indulge in personal criticism," the premier said.

He said the Conservative Party has "meant much to the history of this part of Eastern Ontario" and that Mr. Villeneuve didn't need to apologize for what the party stands for, in an obvious reference to opposition barbs aimed at government programs, such as tile drainage.

Politics is not a question of power, the premier said, but rather a question of responsibility, adding he considers helping people at the constituency level with small problems a key accomplishment of Conservative representatives.

With Ontario coming out of the recession, he told supporters they could "take pride in how well we've handled these rough economic times."

He noted that the unemployment rate in the constituency was still below the national average.

He encouraged party workers to ignore opposition critics and to "make that little extra effort during the next two weeks."

"We want him at Queen's Park," the premier said, with Mr. Villeneuve at his side.

"He has the talent, intelligence and a sensitivity about the people he wishes to represent."

The premier added he was "confident" about the byelection results because of the history of the constituency and what the party has done, referring to the late Osie Villeneuve's 29 years as a Conservative member at Queen's Park.

Asked later by reporters if Osie Villeneuve's personal popularity was what kept the riding a Conservative stronghold, the premier replied that it was impossible to "divorce one from the other."

"Osie was very much a man of the party," the premier added.

The premier also dismissed opposition attacks on the government's funding for tile drainage in Eastern Ontario.

He said one must compare the number of acres under production when making funding comparisons between Eastern and Western Ontario, adding tile drainage would remain "a high priority for this area."

He also told reporters, although more money is spent on agriculture in Quebec, Ontario farmers would find it "not so attractive" when comparing costs of machinery, transportation, pro-

MURDER SUSPECT—Alexander Malitzki, head bowed and handcuffed, is escorted by OPP officers into Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday.

Malitzki arraigned

Alexander Malitzki, 32, appeared in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday to face two charges of first degree murder.

His lawyer, Hal Sherwood, asked for a one-week adjournment to allow his client to undergo a preliminary medical examination, which was scheduled for Tuesday.

Judge Reginald Levesque granted the request and adjourned the case until next Thursday, December 7.

At that time, a date for a preliminary hearing could be set, although the judge may order further psychiatric evaluation based on the findings of the medical report.

Malitzki, who has shoulder-length blond hair and was wearing a long, brown overcoat, spoke only once during his brief appearance. He told the judge he wanted the OPP to return some of his clothes and papers which he said he had repeatedly asked to have returned, adding that he had not signed a release form for the items.

The judge suggested that he discuss the matter with his attorney.

Malitzki was escorted into the courtroom in handcuffs under a two-man police guard. He showed no sign of emotion and kept his head bowed most of the time.

Jailed nine months

An Alexandria man described as "intelligent and articulate" by court officials was sent back to jail for nine months, Thursday, just more than a month after being released.

Mark Desmond Rathan, 26, had pleaded guilty in Alexandria Provincial Court to three charges of false pretenses involving worthless cheques, one charge of obtaining food by fraud, breach of probation and mischief.

He was released October 17 from the Rideau Correctional Institute in Burrett's Rapids where he had been serving a five-month term for a previous conviction.

Court was told that between October 18 and October 29 the accused had made purchases of merchandise and barbershop services with cheques drawn on an account at a local bank which had earlier been closed by the bank. The food charge related to the purchase of a meal at a local restaurant, June 15, for which payment was also made by cheque.

Rathan was arrested November 11 by Alexandria Police investigating a report of an attempted break-in at the Titley car lot on Main Street, where a window had been smashed. He was later charged with mischief causing wilful damage.

Defense counsel Bruce MacPhee told the court his client, whom he described as intelligent and articulate, had been given only a small sum of money upon his release from jail and had purchased only "necessity" items with the cheque.

He argued his client could be rehabilitated if given the proper supervision and direction and recommended he be placed in a halfway home.

Crown Attorney Luc D'Iorio said the accused had not given any indication of wanting to rehabilitate himself and recommended incarceration, although he agreed with defense counsel recommendations that the term given be no longer than five months.

Judge Reginald Levesque disagreed, noting the accused had committed a fraudulent offense only one day after his release. He also noted the accused had been arrested for mischief "on the very same day" that he had made an earlier court appearance involving the cheque-passing charges.

The judge then imposed the nine-month jail term.

NDP leader to visit riding on Friday

Ontario NDP leader Bob Rae will return for a second campaign visit to Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry on Friday.

Mr. Rae's schedule is not yet final, but his plans include a meeting with business leaders in Alexandria and campaign stops in Chesterville and Winchester in the afternoon.

Mr. Rae was previously in the riding for the NDP nomination meeting in Finch on November 13. He will be accompanied on this visit by the New Democratic Party candidate in the December 15 byelection, Rudi Derstroff.

Robbers jailed

Two Montreal men were each given six months in jail for robbery when they appeared in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday.

Claude Bedoret and Bertrand Soucy, both 24, will serve their sentences concurrent to two-year penitentiary terms which the pair are now serving in Quebec.

The charges stem from a robbery attempt October 9 at the 1867 Restaurant near Bainsville in which gas attendant, Paul Laframboise, was assaulted and robbed at gunpoint.

The pair were later arrested in Quebec and charged in the robbery of another gas station there. They were each given two-year penitentiary terms for that offense.

Conway joins staff

The editorial staff of The Glengarry News expanded last week with the appointment of Peter Conway, a Hawkesbury native, as our new sports editor.

A graduate from the journalism and communications program of Loyalist College in Belleville, Mr. Conway served as sports editor for The Vankleek Hill Review for four years until joining the staff of The News.

The News has expanded its coverage of community events in recent months and, with the addition of Mr. Conway in sports, we expect to see still further improvement.

Coupled with the continued efforts of our veteran sports correspondent, Angus H. McDonell, we are confident Mr. Conway will provide the variety and volume of sports reports Glengarry deserves.

He asks that everyone in the community who can help in any way please call him at 525-2020.

Mr. Conway has taken up residence in Alexandria.

Collision injures three

A collision involving two pickup trucks early Sunday morning resulted in three people being taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital with minor injuries.

All three were treated and later released.

Two of the injured, Dale Bissonnette and Roch Richer, were passengers in a vehicle driven by Denis Richer of RR1, Apple Hill. The Richer truck was in collision with a vehicle driven by Wayne MacSweyn, of RR1, Dalkeith, who was also taken to hospital.

The accident occurred on Main Street near St. George at about 2:30 a.m.

Correction

We goofed last week when we attempted to name the people photographed at the official opening of the Progressive Conservative campaign headquarters in Alexandria.

Co-ops have excellent year

"Fellow co-operators, your board feels very strongly that a turn-around is now in sight. Our fourth quarter which is the first that the results of our renewal program have come into effect was the best since 1978, Murray Allen, director for Zone 2 of the United Co-operatives of Ontario told guests at the annual banquet on Friday at the Bonnie Glen.

The R.R. 3, Alfred farmer enumerated different ways in which the organization has changed in the past year in order to reverse past downward trends.

Assets have been sold,—including the poultry business and head office in Mississauga. The entire vehicle fleet has also been sold and equipment will be leased at a financial advantage. Staff at the executive and senior management level has been cut from 48 to 40 and the entire number of personnel has been cut by 500. Some retail outlets which were in serious trouble have been closed.

In addition to this, two major programs, equity and partnership have involved all the members.

Full participation is necessary to help rebuild the co-operative program, Allen urged.

"Talk to your neighbors about the Co-op. Ask them what they like, why they don't buy or why they do not belong to the organization. If there is a problem, we have a better chance of solving it when we know what we are dealing with."

The director presented a plaque to Allan Barton who has been active in the organization since 1960.

The meeting was chaired by Peter Mesman, chairman of the Cornwall branch who also presided at the elections for the appointment of directors.

Chairman of the Vankleek Hill board is Ken Howes and directors are Neil Anderson, Rodney MacLaren, Bruce Mode and Gilles Lalonde.

In addition to chairman Peter Mesman directors of the St. Lawrence branch which includes Cornwall, Chesterville and Finch are: John Vander Bosch, Gerry Grugmans, Alfred Beaudette and Osborne Shaver.

Alexandria branch directors are: Gerrit Sturkenboom, Gerard Hagen, Lionel Quesnel and John Pierre Massie. Peter van Sleevuwen is local chairman.

Liberals' task force meeting here Dec. 7

The Ontario Liberal caucus will be holding a meeting of the Rural Municipalities Task Force in the Alexandria Town Hall on Wednesday, Dec. 7.

The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and continue through until 4 p.m.

All mayors, reeves and other municipal officials, boards of education members, members of chambers of commerce and agricultural groups are invited to participate in a discussion of issues of concern to rural residents.

It will be the sixth meeting of the task force in the province and the second in Eastern Ontario.

The task force consists of eight Liberal MPP's and is chaired by John Eakins, the member for Victoria-Haliburton.

stry had acknowledged receiving a copy of the report.

He added changes must be made through the ministry and he had no authority to order them.

Court administrator Keith Jodoin confirmed the panel's findings regarding the Alexandria Court House had been less than complimentary "for the past five or six years."

He told The News improved facilities for Alexandria had been deemed a "high priority" by Attorney-General Roy McMurchanges would be made.

"I'm hoping something happens extremely soon," he said.

Meanwhile the Town of Alexandria, which leases the court space to the province, on a two-year agreement, is prepared to proceed anytime with expansion of the present facilities.

Mayor J. P. Touchette said the town is aware of existing problems and agrees with the need for changes, but so far the province has been unable to come up with the necessary funding.

"We are prepared to build to their specifications anytime in exchange for a 10-year lease," the mayor said. "But every year they tell us they have no money."

The mayor said the town thought there would be an expansion five or six years ago, so they purchased an adjacent property in order to construct a large parking lot. Although the proposed addition never materialized, the mayor said the town was still prepared to proceed.

Highway 401 between Cornwall and the Quebec border is like "a toboggan ride," he said, and there are many potholes.

"I doubt if that would be allowed east or west of Oshawa."

Mr. Villeneuve said until 10 years ago, before Highway 417, Eastern Ontario roads were not given equal priority, but things have improved substantially.

"With adequate representation on the government side, we can improve them even further," he said.

Marcel Lapierre, clerk-administrator of Charlottenburgh Township, served as chairman of the meeting, which was sponsored by The Glengarry News.

Maxville

by Velma Franklin - 527-5533

Volunteers honored

A full house of volunteers was welcomed at the Maxville Manor on Wednesday evening to a social hour of wine and cheese and other delightful tid-bits arranged with imagination and style by Mrs. Buzek and her staff.

The volunteers then gathered in the auditorium to have the pleasant joy of being heaped with more compliments and assurances of appreciation by Administrator Craig Munro, Corporation Chairman Donald Cumming, and board member Gordon Winter.

Mrs. Monica Patton, executive director, Central Volunteer Service Bureau, Ottawa, gave a brief talk on the role of the volunteer.

The Manor's popular Anne Leroux had some warm and sympathetic words. This is the lady who co-ordinates the local volunteers' activities and coaxes everyone into helping cheerfully in 100 different ways, whether it be in crafts, visits, euchres, or concerts. She emphasized again the "importance of the little things in the residents' lives" and the great enjoyment small friendly visits can bring.

The star of the evening was Hal Anthony, well known lecturer and newscaster with CFRA, Ottawa, who kept his audience highly entertained with a hilarious commentary on the appalling standard of English used by the media today, in great part the result of having to deal with an illiterate population.

He also made a disturbingly plausible case for the imminent arrival of "1984 Now," as a result of the mass of personal information about every individual stored in interconnected computer banks.

A further social hour followed, with a chance for many of the volunteers to discuss points that had come up during the various addresses.

Veterinary clinic opened here

There was a grand opening in Maxville on Saturday afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bradley welcomed a throng of visitors to an open house in their new Maxville Veterinary Clinic, on Mechanic Street West, in the premises of the former Clare Red and White store. The building has been extensively remodelled over the past few months.

Visitors received coffee and doughnuts at the reception desk near the entrance, then went down the ramp to tour the examination room, lab and pharmacy, preparation area, and the well-appointed surgical suite.

The entire set-up is aimed at providing the most up-to-date facilities for small animal care, a service that the Maxville area has never had.

The only thing lacking at present is an X-ray machine, and the Bradleys intend to install this in the spring. Dr. Bradley also goes out on call whenever he is needed for large animals.

Other facilities now available are boarding for cats and dogs and bathing facilities. Carleton, the Bradleys' own cat, was demonstrating the comfort of the holding pens, but when it came to demonstrating bandaging for a claw trimming session, Carleton left.

An enthusiastic visitor was Jessie Christie, well known village resident and animal lover. PC candidate Noble Villeneuve, accompanied by Jean-Marc Lefebvre of Alexandria, dropped in to offer congratulations, and hear Dr. Bradley explain the surgical set-up, which is an almost exact replica, on a smaller scale, of a regular hospital operating room.

Retired veterinarian Dr. D. M. Gamble, who is the neighbor across the street, had provided a display of antique wrought iron tooth pullers for horses, which gave many visitors pause for thought. The hours for the new clinic are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, and 9 a.m. to noon on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Dinner at restaurant

Several of us enjoyed a fine dinner at Mr. Poppins', Monkland, last Friday evening, and it was nice to see Michael and Rachel Villeneuve, with their partners Nick and Mila Vlastaris, so busy in their new venture.

There were some neighbors there, a few couples and small families dining out, and a retirement dinner going on too. Art Thompson at the organ provided musical accompaniment of everybody's favorite tunes. Those celebrating birthdays, Mrs. Michaud of Maxville for one, and myself, were pleasantly surprised with a complimentary piece of chocolate cake topped with a blazing sparkler.

Problems

When the office typewriter jammed in last week's column—what I was going to say was "The Bank of Nova Scotia wreath was laid by Lusia Jasiewicz, and wreaths for Polish Solidarity by Stan Jasiewicz and A. Kowalski.

Bazaar

Remember the tea and bazaar at St. Andrew's this Saturday. Starts at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Florence McNaughton recently spent a few days in Whitby, visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison and family.

Author releases another book

For more than 25 years, a daughter of Glengarry has been studying and writing about historical, unique and functional buildings in Ontario.

Her previous books, "The Ancestral Roof," "MacNab of Dundurn" and "Hallowed Walls" have been read and treasured by those of us interested in the architecture of the past.

Her latest book, "Cornerstones of Order", dedicated to "the people of Ontario", is the result of hours spent researching courthouses and town halls and is now available.

The author, Marion MacRae, finally breathes a sigh of relief. Health problems were complicated by her publisher's financial problems. The book should have been available last fall.

Working as usual with Anthony Adamson, she has written a historical record of our public buildings that is illustrated by detailed sketches and many fine photographs, with the added bonus of quite a number of pages in color.

Marion's subtle sense of humor shows up time and again in the references used to describe the buildings and the people who used them.

Glengarry hasn't been forgotten. The Kenyon Township Hall is pictured and L'Orignal and Cornwall are included, as well as many other buildings we have seen and admired.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.D. MacRae of Apple Hill, Marion attended the local public school and, after graduating from Maxville High School, went on to the Ontario College of Art. She remained on their staff as a lecturer of history and museum design.

It is interesting to note that both Marion and Professor Adamson have received the honor of the Order of Canada in recognition of their services towards the preservation of our architectural history.

Fined $506

A Montreal man was fined a total of $506 when he appeared in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday, on charges stemming from an accident near Lancaster, October 19.

Roger Dufresne, 43, was fined $403 for impaired driving and an additional $103 for refusing to comply with a police demand for a breathalyzer test.

Court was told the accused was eastbound on Highway 401, driving a company vehicle, when the pickup truck left the road and flipped over on its side in a ditch.

He was given six months to pay the fine.

That's Life

When you're looking for ways to protect your family, think of permanent life insurance. It's one of the most unselfish things you'll ever buy. You don't buy it just for yourself. You buy it because there are others who need you as much as you need them. That's life.

So when you're looking for life insurance . . think of me.

When the "Great One" speaks, people listen. And, I'm not talking about E. F. Hutton.

The "Great One" in this case is Edmonton Oilers' superstar Wayne Gretzky. Last week Gretzky lambasted the New Jersey Devils' management—saying it was a "Mickey Mouse operation." Some may not agree with Gretzky's outburst, but he's right.

While Devils' management denies Gretzky's remarks had any bearing, a couple of days later New Jersey coach Billy MacMillan was canned. At the time of the firing, Devils had a dismal 2-18 record—worst in the National Hockey League.

Before being transplanted to New Jersey, the club struggled in Kansas City (Scouts) and in Denver (Colorado Rockies). Nothing has changed at New Jersey. They are still the "patsies" of the league.

When you look at the top clubs in the NHL, Islanders, Bruins, Oilers or the Flyers, most of them have strengthened themselves through the draft or via the trade route.

You need look no further than down the Devils' roster to see why they've struggled. Murray Brumwell, Dave Cameron, Hector Marini or Rich Meagher—certainly not household names in hockey.

There isn't much talent beyond goaler Chico Resch. And, on most nights Resch is the target of a shooting gallery by opposing clubs.

But, while the Devils stumble into mediocrity, was Gretzky out of line in criticizing the Devils? In their early years in the World Hockey Association, Oilers went through growing pains.

Gretzky is well respected by most NHL owners around the league. But his remarks concerning the Devils' and the management may have tarnished his image somewhat.

Gretzky's criticism, on the other hand, may have a positive effect and wake up the Devils.

In the long run, Devils simply don't have the horses to compete, game in and game out.

New York Islanders suffered their first couple of years but then built a contender, and now a powerhouse, through the draft.

New Jersey has a long way to go to turn things around. They have some good, young kids in Pat Verbeek, Jeff Larmer and John MacLean.

Newly-appointed coach Tom McVie has the enormous task of turning the Devils' fortunes around—a challenge to say the least.

ARGO JOKES OVER?

All of the Toronto Argonaut jokes we've heard over the years should be over for a while. Argos finally won a Grey Cup, their first in 31 years Sunday in B.C. Place, an exciting 18-17 decision over British Columbia Lions.

A lot of people expected the game to be a high-scoring affair. Both clubs were known throughout the season for their respective high-powered offences. But while the game was low scoring, it was still exciting and one of the more dramatic Grey Cup contests in recent memory.

After the Lions' defence rattled the Argos in the first half, Toronto's defence took over in the second half and shut down Mervyn Fernandez and Company.

It could be said that the Lions sat on their 17-7 lead at the half. But, the Argo defence dominated the second half and then old reliable Joe Barnes came off the bench to spark the offence.

Toronto sports fans have suffered through the years with the Leafs and Argos. But the city of Toronto finally has a winner and the die-hard fans deserve it.

Through the years, Argos were the brunt of jokes while the Leafs struggled on the ice. However, fans still supported both teams through the lean years.

So, at long last, Toronto sports fans have something to cheer about.

Junior C Glens win two of three

by Sean Sullivan

The Alexandria Junior C Glens won twice and lost once in Eastern Ontario Junior C Hockey League action last week.

On Friday the Glens dropped a 0-3 decision to home team Russell.

Ken Duncan and Bob Goodman set up Richard Corhon for the first of Russell's goals.

Alexandria was held scoreless in the first period.

In the second period Russell's Richard Corhorn increased the lead to two at the 14:31 marker.

Alexandria fought back and tied the game with goals from Daniel Rose and Donald Whitman.

Russell's Neil Houle turned the tie into a 3-2 Russell lead about five minutes later, followed by a fourth goal from Dale Baker.

In the final period Alexandria's Lyndsay MacCulloch shortened the gap to one.

Nearing the conclusion of the last period Norman Dalman completed Russell's scoring, with a goal on an empty net.

Glens Coach Chris McDonell blamed the loss on a "lack of interest by some of our players. This seems to be our main problem."

Many of Alexandria's players failed to show up for Friday's game, and previous games, as well. The C's are losing games they could have won.

FLYERS UPENDED

The Chesterville Flyers were upended Thursday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, when the Alexandria Junior C's edged them 4-3.

From the opening face-off to the final buzzer Alexandria showed potential. Their aggressive style of hockey paid off and gave the C's their first victory over Chesterville this year.

"We play a basic style of hockey. We dump the puck in and play it from there," said Flyer Coach Mike Armstrong.

"With Alexandria, the players think more of the upcoming hit than the puck," he added.

Alexandria opened the scoring at the 6:53 mark of the first period, when Claude Cleroux beat goalminder Kevin Holmes.

With only 22 seconds left in the first period, Chesterville tied the game at one.

In the second period the C's were out-shot 12-4, but both teams scored only once. Claude Cleroux found the net once again, making it 2-1.

Then it was Mike Guy who tied it for Chesterville, 2-2.

In the final period it was Donald Wightman who slapped the puck into the top right corner from 20 feet.

The game winner came from defenceman Marty McDonald, with a low slapshot at 4:10.

Chesterville's third goal was credited to R. Belanger, with 2:10 left.

The final score of the game was 4-3 for the Glens.

CORNWALL TRIPLED

The Alexandria Junior C Glens tripled the Cornwall Township Flyers 6-2 in Long Sault last Tuesday.

Daniel Rose and Mike Campeau led the way for Alexandria with two goals each. Lindsay MacCulloch and Alan Barton completed the Glens' scoring.

The Flyers, held scoreless through two periods, scored twice in the third. Both goals came from Grant Brown.

Alexandria travels to Finch on Thursday and to Maxville on Sunday.

Peewees defeated for first time

by Claudette Francoeur

The Bank of Montreal Peewee Glens travelling team who had a record of 10 consecutive wins was stopped by South Stormont Sunday night. Previously, the locals came up victorious twice in league action over the past week.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23

Alexandria and Char-Lan battled through three periods Wednesday in Williamstown. The Glens narrowly defeated their rivals 2-1. Pierre Cuerrier and Andrew Sauve took care of Alexandria scoring. Gareth Pye responded for the Lancaster Inn.

Pierre Cuerrier was the Glens offensive gun Thursday in Long Sault arena and his performance of three goals and two assists helped his teammates past South Stormont 10-2. Jason Palmer fired a double and one assist, Alain Rochon netted a pair, Roch Levac and Kevin Craig registered a single and one helper each while Andrew Sauve completed the festival. Robbie Latreille, Luc Francoeur and Alain Larocque each had a pair of helpers while Daniel Levert set up one. Flyers marksmen were Stephen Kinnear and Trevor Wheeler.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 27

South Stormont replied Sunday at the Glengarry Sports Palace as they upset the Glens 4-2. It was our locals first loss since the beginning of the campaign. Trevor Wheeler, Dean Eastman, Mark Donnelly and Jamie Witherspoon each scored for the Flyers. Kevin Craig unassisted and Jason Palmer on a set up by Pierre Cuerrier and Luc Francoeur replied for the Bank of Montreal Glens.

NOT THIS TIME!—Alexandria Junior B Glens goaler Pat Brunet makes save off Winchester Hawks player in last Friday's game at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Winchester defeated the Glens 6-3. The loss left Alexandria in fourth place in the Alex English Division of the ODHA Junior B League. Glens play host to rival Charlottenburgh Rebels this Friday night at the Sports Palace.

Hawks defeat undisciplined Glens

by Peter Conway

Discipline. The word certainly wouldn't be used to describe Alexandria Junior B Glens.

Glens continue to get themselves in trouble by playing undisciplined hockey, spending more time in the penalty box rather than on the ice.

The end result is that the Glens keep beating themselves. Friday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Glens dropped a 6-3 decision to Winchester Hawks in an Alex English Division contest.

While only two of Winchester's goals came on the powerplay, Glens spent most of the night in the penalty box.

"The discipline thing is definitely a big problem and it has to be solved. If we keep up this rate of taking penalties, we'll have the best penalty-killing unit in the league. Penalties have been costing us the last few games," said Glens' coach Barry MacDonald.

The loss left the Glens with a 4-7-1 record with nine points and in fourth place.

MacDonald's patience is wearing thin. Glens took 17 penalties in Friday's loss.

"Things we are doing are inexcusable. Seventeen penalties, that's half the game short-handed and most of them are stupid penalties."

One of the inexcusable penalties occurred with just under three minutes left in the game. Glens' Leonard Seguin and Winchester's Bruce Casselman got tangled up deep in the Alexandria end in front of goaler Pat Brunet. While Casselman swung at Seguin, Brunet then came to his teammate's aid. Exit Brunet and Casselman for fighting while Seguin got a minor for roughing.

"What Pat did was stupid. Now he's gone for one game," says MacDonald.

Making matters worse however, is that Marc Titley may not be ready for tonight's game (Wednesday) at Williamstown against Charlottenburgh Rebels. Titley was expected to have tests on his ailing knee this week. Should Titley be unable to play, MacDonald will be forced to bring up a goaler from Junior C affiliate Glens.

Glens have an important stretch coming up—six games in 14 days and if they hope to get back in the race, they'll have to get their act together.

"If I feel a guy is taking a dumb penalty, then he'll sit on the bench. I'm tired of guys putting their egos ahead of the hockey club. I'm not going to put up with guys taking stupid penalties. They'll sit the bench until the message comes across," said MacDonald.

Winchester, who led 2-1 and 5-2 after two periods, got a three-goal performance from Ron Seguin and singles from Terry Barkley, Gary Klein Swormink and Bourk Boyd. Bruce Casselman had three assists.

Stephen Stewart, Pierre Roman and Maurice Bellefeuille were the Glens' marksmen.

While the Glens struggle, MacDonald is pleased with the play of defenceman John Shago.

"He is definitely a guy I'm pleased with. He blocked a lot of shots in Friday's game. He doesn't complain and he goes about doing his job," said MacDonald.

MacDonald hopes the club can get back on the track and move up in the pennant race.

"Discipline is our major problem, but the basics of hockey aren't there. Our passing and shooting isn't good. Another priority is to play a whole game—rather than spending most of the time in the penalty box. Overall, we're struggling and we need a win," emphasized MacDonald. "It's not that we aren't trying, but the guys are frustrated. The guys are working hard but we aren't accomplishing much."

Junior B Rebels split weekend contests

by Stewart Fourney

The Charlottenburgh Rebels played one period of hockey but forgot to play in the second and third periods, as the Metcalfe boys scored five goals in each of the last two periods.

Coach Richard Massia said our Rebels skated stride for stride, and hit for hit in the first period, but thought the game was over then, and losing 11-0 to first place team, the Metcalfe Jets. We looked like a last place team, which the stats show. However Saturday night the south Glengarry team turned things around, as they out-skated, out-shot, and out-scored the second place Winchester Hawks, 10-5. Keith Moore started things for the Hawks only to have Roddy McKenzie take a pass from Kevin Renwick and set up Mike Fox to make the score 1-1. At 10:10 Steve McCormick put the Hawks ahead. Dwayne Spink took a pass from Don Bissonnette, and Murray MacDonald to put the Rebels ahead again then with 5:07 left in the period, Scott MacDonell and Mike Lapensee scored two goals one minute apart to make it 4-2 for Rebels. With 2:08 left in the first Ronnie Seguin closed the game 4-3 ending the first period with the Rebels ahead. In the second Captain Bourk Boyd tied the game, only to have Dwayne Spink take a three-way passing play from MacDonald and Scott MacDonell to put the Rebels ahead to stay. Danny Flaro made it 6-4 with 1:52 left in the second period. In the third the Hawks came back strong, and Marc Bissonnette in Rebels net held off the Hawks outburst, and Shawn Blanchard put the Rebels ahead one more, after taking a goal mouth pass from Pierre Ladouceur and Lapensee also getting an assist. At 15:31 Keith Moore gave the Hawks their last burst. Then Mike Lapensee came back with two quick goals to finish the Hawks. Murray MacDonald cashed in on a breakaway with 1:58 left on the clock on a solo effort ending the scoring. The home boys took 14 penalties to 13 for the Hawks.

Three-way race evident

While it's still early in the campaign, pennant race in the Alex English Division appears to be a three-team race.

Defending champion Metcalfe Jets occupy first place with a 9-4 record for 18 points. Navan, with an 8-3-1 mark is only one point back while Winchester is only two points out of top spot with an 8-5 record for third place.

Sitting in fourth place is Alexandria Glens with a 4-7-1 record for nine points. Clarence Creek and Char-Lan Rebels are next with eight points each. Clarence Creek sports a 4-8 record while Char-Lan has a 4-10 mark.

In Alex English Division games last Friday night, league-leading Metcalfe humiliated Char-Lan 11-0 and Navan outscored Clarence Creek 10-6.

Saturday night, Char-Lan surprised Winchester Hawks 10-5 on home ice.

Sports in the Glens

Angus H. McDonell

Our lead paragraphs this week are relative, in part, to the early founding of Glengarry-Sudbury connections. The motivation of this theme is due to Ourtown's David Filion playing with Sudbury Laurentian University against McGill in the University Dominion soccer championship final. This was a reminder that many, many years ago, Glengarrians played a prominent role in Sudbury's pioneer achievements in mining, mercantile enterprise and hockey. And we can add not only in Sudbury but in mining camps and timber tracts throughout Northern Ontario, right across to "Rat Portage", Kenora.

There is a historic contribution to this brief story played by a pioneer dwelling, hewn from cedar logs, and erected in the early 1800's on the east shore line of Loch Garry Lake. A log house that has a unique structural history. And the author, figuratively speaking, recording some of our legendary hockey and piping heritage. We will close on that note. Now let us go back to the beginning.

As a result of the American Revolution, there was a migration of Scottish clans from Tryon County, Mohawk Valley, later to become New York State. Those hardy Loyalists were forefathers of many of us. They trekked north through the Adirondack Mountains to Tupper Lake, on to St. Regis and settled in what became Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Among our ancestors were one Angus McDonell and a Hughie McDonald. They became neighbors due to the proximity of their land grants. Two hundred acres were awarded to Angus McDonell. The location was the east shore line of Loch Garry. On the north shore line, some 475 acres were assigned to Hughie McDonald. The remainder of the north side, some 600 acres, to the Frasers of Loch Garry.

Research leads to the assumption that by the time the survey was completed, both Angus and Hughie were now in the elderly bracket.

The evidence is that Angus McDonell divided his 200 acres, Lot 16, Second Kenyon, between his sons Duncan and Alexander, known as "Sandy". (The latter "Sandy Angus" was grandfather of Bill, John, Lloyd and the Kennedy family.)

Hughie McDonald divided his land among his sons, Donald, John and Donald R.

In the matter of the farms abutting the north shore line of Loch Garry, the Second Kenyon road was staked out but never opened. It remains that way today. Hence the McDonald brothers kept their line fence gates open, thus providing access to the side road. (Just south of the CP-CN tower, Highway 43). The Frasers did likewise for their outlet to Loch Garry sideroad. (The Masterson Beach road is of recent times.)

There were a number of boys in the "Donald Hughie" (McDonald) family. Word trickled to the Glens that more and easier money could be made in the new nickel mines of Sudbury than farming on the swampy fringe of a lake with no road. So the boys headed for Sudbury.

Willie and "Johnny Donald Hughie" were soon holding responsible positions in the nickel mines. In fact the latter, "Johnny Donald Hughie", became a lifetime fixture of International Nickel.

The success of the neighborly "Donald Hughie" boys influenced Duncan Angus to deal his 100 acres to his brother "Sandy Angus" and move his family to Sudbury.

That is part of Glengarry pioneer connections developing a share of Sudbury enterprise. But that is not all of the contribution. Equally important is hockey. In the Duncan Angus McDonell family there was an attractive, popular Scottish lass named Anne. And like Hollywood fiction, Sudbury had a successful young businessman and mining speculator. He was Phil Green.

In due course Phil Green and Anne "Duncan Angus" did the centre-aisle two-step. And again in due course Anne Green mothered children. Two of her sons she christened Redvers and Wilfred. As we say so often in sport biographies, given names are usually replaced at school by nicknames. In this case, Redvers became "Red" and Wilfred "Shorty". "Shorty" belies Wilfred's stature. As we knew him playing hockey, he was a six-footer, rawhide muscle in the 200 level. A next-of-kin duplicate is our Glengarry noted sportsman, Lloyd Kennedy.

Hockey of that era, as "Red" and "Shorty" Green matured was highly rated in Northern Ontario and C.A.H.A. There were Sudbury Wolves, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and Port Arthur Bear Cats. All preceded by the famed Kenora Thistles.

At that time Hamilton Tigers were building an OHA Allen Cup powerhouse. They had a Frank Nighbor-Frank Boucher type centre in Billy Birch. Tigers lured "Red" and 'Shorty" Green from Sudbury to flank Billy Birch. They signed Toronto's "Jumping Jakie" Forbes as goaltender. They were well on their way.

In 1924 the NHL Quebec Bulldogs led by the great Joe Malone folded. Hamilton took over the franchise. The amateur-turned-pro forward line of Birch and the Green brothers outscored every other line and were Stanley Cup finalists.

An historic confrontation over playoff hockey developed. Hamilton players claimed their contracts did not include Stanley Cup play. (If memory serves me correctly). A strike developed. Like all strikes it was settled, but it ended Hamilton's NHL franchise.

The next year, "Red" and "Shorty" Green were signed by Tommy Gorman, manager of the N.Y. Americans. "Red" played about three seasons and was sold to Boston. He retired. "Shorty" concluded his brilliant career with Americans. Next stop, Hockey Hall of Fame.

So there you are folks. A baby girl born in her grandfather's pioneer log home, east shore line of Loch Garry, grew to motherhood and gave us two Glengarry grandsons, NHL luminaries, via Sudbury. Thus enriching our hockey heritage.

In our introduction we mentioned that we would conclude on a note relative to this historic log dwelling, the birth place of "Anne Duncan Angus".

In the years preceding World War One, Alexandria was blessed with an expanding mercantile boom. The source of full employment was provided especially by Munro-McIntosh Carriage Works and Schell's Saw Mill.

Tradesmen joined senior management personnel in building their own homes. Many were of log or frame with clapboard siding and a shingle roof. Unlike those who could afford frame, brick veneer and a metal roof. Thus the old adage prevailed, "A man's home is his castle."

Among those latter breadwinners was Angus "Katie" McDonald, Kenyon Street. But Angus Katie had a different plan to build his home. He was aware that the Duncan Angus McDonell pioneer home near the lake, though vacant, was still a solid structure. He bought the house.

There is a legend that the logs were hauled to the Alexandria site by horses and sleighs. Most likely there was a traditional "bee" and an ample supply of human anti-freeze. Thus the ancient pioneer dwelling was again restructured.

Time marches on and this became the home of son Angus Duncan "Angus Katie" McDonald. Now another heritage chapter of Glengarry piping was launched.

"Angus Duncie" as he was widely and popularly known, was a dedicated young piper. So much so that this now historic log house became the pipe music headquarters of Glengarry. At a time when it appeared we were at the pipe band end of the road. World War One had devastating results.

Pipe Major Johnny Alex Stewart, the Dunvegan blacksmith, gave way to Alexandria's piping teacher, hence the deserving title of Pipe Major Angus Duncan McDonald. In this role, "Angie Duncie" reorganized the pipe band in the 59th kilt during the lacrosse era of the depressed '30's. The rest is history.

But there is still another happy paragraph relative to this pioneer log dwelling. It became the home of the third generation "Angus Katie" clan—Agnes and Ewen McDonald. Here again is continuity, Agnes being a granddaughter of "A.K." MacIsaac MacDonald, one of Glengarry's all-time-great athletes, and Ewen of the McDonald piping era rightly inherit their obvious keen interest in Glengarry history. This was convincingly demonstrated in their architectural design of the rebuilt Priest's Mill restaurant.

There is further evidence. Recently, they carefully dismantled and marked the logs of their parental home. A basement was excavated and a new home is well under way on the original site. There is a significant element to this unique dwelling. For the third time in possibly 150 years, the logs were replaced in their original niches to form part of the building walls. Thus the pioneer saga is retained, adding so much to Glengarry lore.

Come New Year's Day when you raise your glasses in a wee dram traditional toast with Agnes and Ewen, bear in mind you are within the walls that echo the preservation of Glengarry heritage.

Bantams win three

by Sheila Stewart

The Lions Club Bantam Glens continue to work hard and came out the winners in three of their last four games, one an exhibition.

Thursday, the Bantams travelled to Long Sault and played one of their best games, defeating South Stormont 4-1. Mike Sauve opened the scoring for Alexandria in the first period. Richard Willard had an unassisted goal which turned out to be the game winner while Richard Daniels and Michel Duval rounded out the scoring with one marker each. Assists went to Marc Sauve, Andrew Meth, Glen Campbell and Alex Maclaren. Claude Gallant was exceptional in nets but a bit unlucky as the South Stormont shot that scored slipped from his glove after he had made the initial catch.

The same can be said for Stephane Landriault, goaltending for Alexandria on Friday when the same teams met at the Glengarry Sports Palace. He worked hard and was on his way to a shutout when South Stormont's Barry Brown scored a sizzling shot with only 2:43 to play and the game ended in a 1-1 tie. Glen Campbell tallied for Alexandria, assisted by Mike Sauve.

Sunday's game against North Glen Stor at Finch Arena was a point getter for Lions Club Bantam Glens. Glen Campbell picked up seven points, three goals and four assists in a 9-2 win. Michel Duval and Christian Sauer had double markers with an assist each while Richard Willard had a single and two assists and Richard Daniels had three helpers. Alex Maclaren added a single to complete the scoring. Claude Gallant came up with another good game in nets, allowing only two goals.

NGS tallies were by Greg Mesich and Tim Meldrum.

Wednesday, Nov. 23, Bantams travelled to Vankleek Hill for an exhibition game. Alexandria won 6-3. Glen Campbell had a hat trick and one assist. Richard Daniels, Michel Duval and Mike Sauve had one marker each. Alex Maclaren and Michel Duval had double assists while Andrew Meth and Richard Willard had single helpers.

There is a practice on Thursday, Dec. 1, at 5 p.m., with the next game Friday at the Glengarry Sports Palace at 6:30 p.m.

Shur Gain increases lead

Division-leading Shur Gain opened up a six-point spread on second place Glengarry Aces and Hawkesbury Moose in the Alexandria Sponge Puck Hockey League on the weekend as they humiliated Betty Bread 8-0.

The win gave Shur Gain a 6-1-1 record for 13 points.

In the B Division Yvon Delorme, Jean-Charles Ranger and Michel Beauclair paced the winners with two goals each. Andre Boisvenue and John Dumouchel completed the scoring with singles.

ROY'S 14, LALONDE 1

Luc Menard and Gaetan Quesnel each fired hat tricks as Roy's Garage crushed Lalonde General Store 14-1.

Robert Quesnel chipped in with a pair while singles went to Remi Sauve, Peter Conway, Maurice Leduc, Maurice Bellefeuille, Eugene O'Connell and Gilles Gareau.

Bernie Lalonde was the lone goal-scorer for Lalonde General Store.

OTTAWA HOTEL 1, MOOSE 0

Ottawa Hotel kept a slim one-point lead over Hawkesbury Vikings in the A Division with a 1-0 squeaker over Hawkesbury Moose.

Allan Chabot scored the only goal of the game.

ACES 10, GREENFIELD 1

Gilles Deguire and Stanton MacDonald each fired hat tricks to spark Glengarry Aces to an easy 10-1 win over Greenfield Wings.

Raymond Larose added a pair while Donald MacPhee and Donald O'Connell rounded out the scoring.

Michael Duval tallied for Greenfield Wings.

VIKINGS 7, CONSOLTEX 3

Hawkesbury Vikings posted a 7-3 triumph over Consoltex.

Daniel Berniquez and Daniel St. Jean led the Vikings with two goals each. Scoring singles were Luc Guerin, Luc Woodbury and Roy Paquette.

Serge Lefebvre, with two, and George Lavigne were the marksmen for Consoltex.

Atom Glens down South Stormont 7 - 2

by Francine Sabourin

Sunday night at the Sports Palace the Atoms Caisse-Populaire, undefeated in five league games, added South Stormont to their casualty list with a 7-2 victory.

Patrick Ravary recorded a hat trick, Pascal Joanette tallied twice and added an assist, while Eric Lewis and Ricky Latreille chipped in with singles and one assist each. The other helpers went to Luke Murray, Steve Poirier, Francois Ouellette, Luc Sabourin and Randy Gebbie.

In the loss, Robbie Cooper and Craig Dennison countered for Long Sault.

UPCOMING GAMES

The Caisse Populaire Atoms will visit Char-Lan on Friday, Dec. 2, and on Saturday, Dec. 3, will take part in Vankleek Hill's tournament. On Sunday, Dec. 4, they will host NGS on home ice.

Crevier bonspiel

On the weekend of November 19, the 14th Annual Ladies Crevier Bonspiel was held at Alexandria Curling Club.

Smiths Falls was the winner of the two-game high. Members of this team were Sharon Ikola, Wanda Collyer, Crystal Pope and Pam Blancher. Runner-up was a Cornwall team of Charlotte Magee, Donna Cameron and Gail Livingstone skipped by Marge Chodynicki.

One game high winner was the team from Vankleek Hill skipped by Linda Burwash and consisting of Carole McIntyre, Karen Mode and Joan Burwash. Runner-up was Lancaster's entry skipped by Cheryl Lariviere and including Vi McKay, Cathy Fisher and Cathy McKay.

Trophies were presented by Jeanette Crevier and the bonspiel was organized and run by Norma Watts, Paula Harden and Bernice McDonald. The buffet supper Saturday night was convened by Betty Campbell and Claudette Larocque. Jim Nixon at the organ supplied the music.

Upcoming events include the Christmas party on Saturday, December 10 and the popular turkey bonspiel starting December 12 and continuing until December 21.

Ontario must act to help youth find jobs, says Peterson

Ontario's youth, the province's "most important natural resource," is being ignored by the government of Premier William Davis, Opposition leader David Peterson said last Tuesday.

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce in the Glengarry Sports Palace, the Ontario Liberal leader said 159,000 young people were unemployed in Ontario during the month of September, representing almost one in six youth in the labor force.

A Liberal government would take action to put Ontario's youth back to work, said Mr. Peterson.

He referred to an Ontario Liberal program which would guarantee at least one year's work to thousands of long-term unemployed young people.

The plan would provide jobs for 18 to 24 year olds who have been unemployed for 20 weeks or more and would significantly reduce current levels of joblessness among youth, said Mr. Peterson.

"Being unemployed is a disheartening and dispiriting existence for anyone," he said. "Being young and unemployed is especially debilitating—out on the streets, looking for work, stymied at every turn."

The Peterson plan calls on the Ontario Government to put young people to work through public sector organizations. The young people would provide unskilled and semi-skilled services at provincial parks, hospitals, clinics, nursing homes, libraries, schools, day-care centres and through community-based efforts such as home care and with volunteer organizations and public groups.

The government would provide the basic minimum wage for a 36-hour work week, but participants would be required to take six hours a week of educational upgrading courses and four hours a week of unemployment counselling.

Mr. Peterson said the program could cost up to $110 million a year, but the benefits would exceed this figure on the basis of service provided, savings in unemployment insurance and welfare payments, reduced crime rates, lessened alcohol and drug abuse and increased motivation among young people.

He said the plan would be directed to those "who do not know how or where to begin to look for work, or to those who have difficulty even filling out a job application form.

"This is a generation losing confidence in themselves and lacking hope for the future," the Liberal leader said in background material provided for the press.

"The youth of Ontario need jobs," said Mr. Peterson. "They need the experience and the self-confidence that come from working. They also need to invest in themselves, through increased educational effort and life skills development.

"This is not just a job creation program. Participants would be required to enroll in education courses, at levels commensurate with their needs. In addition, participants would be required to take part in employment counselling services to familiarize them with job performance habits.

"Such counselling would also help them seek further employment opportunities, or as the case may be, further educational or skills training possibilities.

"In sum, our program would offer real benefits to youth and to the province as a whole," Mr. Peterson said. "We guarantee them a positive employment and educational opportunity and for the province, productive social gains.

"Ontario's most important natural resource is our youth," said Mr. Peterson. "We're prepared to give them the right chance."

In continuing his address to Chamber members, Mr. Peterson complained of poor road conditions in eastern Ontario and criticized the Conservative government for not giving adequate support to municipalities and school boards.

Villeneuve defends bilingual policy

Bilingualism remains an issue in the Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry byelection campaign, with Conservative candidate Noble Villeneuve speaking in defense of Davis government's opposition to entrenching francophone rights in the federal constitution.

"The issue of bilingualism has been raised by a number of people, including both of my opponents," Mr. Villeneuve said in a press release, Friday.

"I think I've made my position known right from the start," he said. "Here in SD&G we have a relationship between English and French which should be an example to the rest of Canada. What we have here works. I think we owe a great deal to the policies and beliefs of Bill Davis and our former member, Osie Villeneuve."

The existing policy of providing bilingual services where they are needed works well, he said, and "can adapt to meet the changing needs of the people. It's the best situation we could have here.

"Some people, and I know they mean well, think that there will not be a political backlash (to entrenchment)," said the Conservative candidate. "But, we do have the example of what happened in Manitoba, where this issue split the entire province.

"Ontario already provides a great many services to our francophone communities and population and I know the government is doing its best to provide more services where possible.

"One thing which we should not do is to endanger all this by making unnecessary change to the constitution at this time," he said.

Mr. Villeneuve's opponent, Liberal John Whitteker and NDP candidate Rudie Derstroff, have both stated their support for existing bilingual services being entrenched in the Canadian Constitution, similar to what has been done in New Brunswick.

Daughters had meet

by Rosabel Menard

The Daughters of Isabella members had their monthly meeting Wednesday, November 16 in the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Our regent, Annette Rozon welcomed the 40 members present as well as our out-of-town guests, Marie Rose Quesnel, Adrienne Bourgon, and State Officer Provincial Regent Claire Parisien.

The installation of the new officers for the next term was performed by the Provincial regent, who also congratulated the Daughters of Isabella for their good work in our community.

The new committee for 1983-84 is as follows: Regent Annette Rozon, Vice-Regent Edna Lalonde, Past Regent Fernande Montpetit, Recording Secretary Agathe Binette, Financial Secretary Theresa Quesnel and Treasurer Marcelle Prud'Homme.

Trustees: three years, Doreen Johnson; two years, Germaine Boyer and one year, Annette Desrosiers.

Scribe is Rosabel Menard, chancellor is Rita Filion, custodian is Carmen Rochon and monitor is Claire Roy.

Banner Bearer will be Jeannine Campeau, 1st Guide is Suzanne Vaillancourt, 2nd Guide is Jeannette Vaillancourt. Musician is Lucille Lafontaine and the chaplain is Reverend Roger Desrosiers.

A donation of a hog was made for the annual bingo of the Sacred Heart Church and a donation of $100 was also made to the fire victims of the Ludger and Gaetan Dupuis families. Eight hundred pieces of clothing were also handed out.

The bake sale at the Nursing Home was a huge success.

The door prize was won by Rejeanne Lajoie, the "tire lire" by Annette Theoret. The jackpot was not won.

A presentation was made to the Provincial regent. Father Desrosiers thanked Mrs. Parisien for the installation of the officers and congratulated the committee on their posts. He also commented on how prayer in the home was essential and emphasized for our youngsters.

Next meeting will be held December 14 and the Christmas party is held immediately after. Hope to see everyone there.

The photography club is busy taking pictures of all houses in Williamstown. The project will be used by the history classes who are studying the history of Williamstown in honor of the Williamstown Bicentennial.

GIRLS SENIOR BASKETBALL

Char-Lan girls senior basketball team played against La Citadelle on November 21 in a quarter final game. Through tough defensive playing, Char-Lan won the game 49-26. The scoring was led by Colleen McDonald and Sandra Murray. This win enabled the girls to play against G.V.S.S. in a semi-final game. Unfortunately, they were defeated.

BAND EXCHANGE

On November 22, Glengarry District High School's senior band was ar Char-Lan. The juniors had the privilege of hearing Char-Lan and Glengarry play together at an assembly. The band played "Majestia", "Prelude and Fuge", "You are the Sunshine of My Life" and "Ebony and Ivory". It was a pleasant experience for all.

REACH FOR THE TOP

Reach For The Top try-outs have been held and the players have been chosen. The team will consist of Mark Gibson, Grade 11, Sara Buchan, Grade 11, Paul Mckariak, Grade 12, Paul Richer, Grade 13, and the alternate will be Chris Le Ber, Grade 13. The staff advisor is Miss C. Dubeau.

The first game will be held Monday, November 28 at Vankleek Hill Collegiate. Good Luck to all the players.

TYPICAL MENU

Tuesday's menu in our cafetorium was a delight to anyone's taste buds. How does southern fried chicken, and cole slaw sound to you? How about apple crisp to finish? Sounds good doesn't it?

VISIT UNIVERSITIES

On November 30, Char-Lan is planning an informational tour by bus to the campuses of Carleton and Ottawa Universities. Grade 13's will be given first priority, Grade 12's will be given second and if there is still ample space on the bus, Grade 11's will be permitted also. This informative visit should prove interesting to our senior students.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Our senior girls basketball team won a tournament on the weekend by defeating La Citadelle 47-33, and almost doubling the score against Tagwi, 50-27. High scorers for Char-Lan were Colleen McDonald and Sandra Murray with 24 points each. Kathryn Jarrett had 23 points and Carol Gordon had 16 points. A special thanks to Kelly Cheeseman, Marlene Murray, Nelson Nicholson, Bryan Ward, Susan Edwards and Tammy Rozon who helped at the tournament.

INTRAMURALS

The second phase of intramurals is now in progress. "Twenty-one" basketball is now being played at noon hours.

REPORT CARDS

On Wednesday, November 16, report cards were handed out. Students realized that half the semester had already flown by! Thursday, November 17 was therefore only a half day because of parent/teacher interviews.

Melissa praised

Young Melissa Howes, the Dalkeith girl whose fund-raising efforts have brought in more than $10,000 for the new Ronald McDonald House in Ottawa, has now been recognized by the Prime Minister.

In a letter received last week, but dated Nov. 16, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau praised the 12-year-old for "your courage and strong resolve."

"It is certainly with much affection that your friends and neighbors have chosen to support you and share in your concern about young children who experience, as you once did, the very real fears and anxieties associated with a long stay in hospital," continued the letter.

"I add my praise to their's, Melissa, and send to you my very best wishes for your continued health and happiness."

Melissa has been nominated through The Glengarry News for an Ontario Junior Citizen's Award. The final decision of the judges will not be known until early in the new year.

Hundreds of letters and numerous petitions, containing about 3,000 signatures, have been forwarded to the Ontario Community Newspapers Association (OCNA) in Oakville in support of her nomination. The OCNA sponsors the awards program, with CP Air as patron.

The Prime Minister's letter has now been forwarded to Oakville in support of the same award.

Property taxes forced up by PC's

The Conservatives have this master plan to raise your property taxes. They have a new formula for calculating grants to our municipalities which will result in your taxes being increased by as much as $100.00. We need a man of experience to derail their plan to take more money out of your pocket.

Whitteker fights the plan for us

JOHNNY WHITTEKER is fighting the PC plan to take a total of $767,715.00 from Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry. He will fight against their wasteful spending of our taxdollars — like the $100,000.00 luxury offices for Housing Minister Claude Bennett who came up with this plan to hit you in your pocketbook. Johnny is a strong and experienced voice for you.

Make sure they get the message in Toronto.

Cross dedicated

In a church ceremony in Moose Creek Presbyterian Church recently an illuminated cross was dedicated to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. McIntosh.

Rev. Jake Van der wal, assisted by Rev. Edmund McColl, a cousin, conducted the service. The dedication was made by one daughter, Ann, on behalf of the five daughters—Alberta (Ogilivie) Campbell, North Gower; Jessie (MacLennan) Hudson, Kinburn; Ann (Rutherford) Palmatier, Calgary; Alexina McIntosh, Ottawa; Isabell (Ferguson) MacKenzie, Finch.

Supports Heritage Inn

Noble Villeneuve, Conservative candidate in the Dec. 15 SD&G byelection, has come out in support of the proposed Heritage Inn project on St. Lawrence Parks Commission land near Morrisburg.

The same project is strongly opposed by Liberal candidate John Whitteker, who argues it would be a waste of tax dollars and would represent government competition with private business.

Speaking to a meeting of the Young Progressive Conservatives in Alexandria recently, Mr. Villeneuve argued the new facility would create additional employment, directly and indirectly, especially in the summer months.

"There are two views about the effect it would have," he said in a recent press release. "On one hand, some people are saying it would drive existing operations out of business. On the other hand, it's also being said that because the room rates will be higher, existing operators won't be affected.

"If built, not only will construction jobs be created, but about 100 full-time jobs will be created, as well."

But Mr. Villeneuve attached conditions to his support.

"I do have one major concern about the project," he said. "If it does go ahead, I want to see it done as a private endeavor. What we don't need is a Petro-Canada type of situation where government competes against individual business.

"What I want to see is a privately funded Heritage Inn, which will draw an entirely new type of tourist to the area and create a positive ripple effect throughout the southern part of the riding."

Plan to spend $25,000

Conservatives and Liberals are each planning to spend about $25,000 leading up to the Dec. 15 byelection, according to a report in last week's Winchester Press.

The Conservatives will work to hang onto the riding through an elaborate network of volunteers and organizers working from four committee rooms across the three counties.

"Our budget will be at least $25,000," said Conservative candidate Noble Villeneuve, adding the funds will come from supporters within Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties.

Liberal candidate John Whitteker said his organizers are hoping to reach a funding goal of $25,000 during the campaign, relying totally on donations from residents of the riding.

Liberal supporters are working from committee rooms in Alexandria and Williamsburg.

The NDP would not divulge their campaign budget, other than to note it would be "healthy."

"We're looking forward to a healthy budget for this election," said NDP riding association president Trevor Tolley. He said the provincial association is donating funds and other riding associations are contributing, as well.

Because it is a byelection, rather than a general election, he said, the other associations can donate money they would otherwise be using themselves.

Men net jail terms

Three young Alexandria men were each handed jail terms when they appeared for sentencing in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday.

All three had been charged with one count each of break, enter and theft and another for attempted break and enter.

Robert Pilon, 18, was sentenced to four months in jail. His brother, Guy, 22, received a five-month term while Gaetan Blais, 19, was given eight months.

The charges stemmed from the September 9th break-in at a residence on RR2, Williamstown, in which a $2,500 stereo was stolen. The same evening, a Summerstown resident called police after she spotted three individuals attempting to break into her home.

Lancaster OPP were alerted by a report of a suspicious vehicle parked on the third concession road north of Williamstown. The car was registered to one of the accused.

The three were charged after one of them gave himself up to the police, who recovered the stolen items.

Although attorneys for the accused argued for probationary terms, Judge Reginald Levesque imposed the jail sentences, calling the fact that all of the accused were on probation at the time of the offence an "aggravating factor."

Robert Pilon was also given one day in jail on a separate charge of possession of cannabis resin, or "hashish."

Fined for impaired

A Green Valley resident received a $303 fine when he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday.

Albert Desjardins, 27, was given four months to pay and had his licence suspended for three months.

The accused was charged November 19 by Lancaster OPP along Highway 34.

BICENTENNIAL FARM—Beaverview Farm, home of Archie and Isobel MacDonell, was officially recognized as an Ontario Bicentennial Farm. Agriculture Minister Dennis Timbrell unveiled a plaque honoring the 200-year-old family operation. Bicentennial farms marked

In a preview of Ontario's 200th birthday celebration, three farms in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry and the families who've lived on them since 1784 were honored in ceremonies Monday, at which Agriculture and Food Minister Dennis Timbrell officiated.

"These lands and the people who've lived on them and worked them are the roots of Ontario's history, the solid base on which this province was built over the last two centuries," Timbrell said.

At 9:45 a.m., Beaverview Farm, home of Archibald and Isobel MacDonell, at R.R. 1, Williamstown, was honored by the unveiling of a commemorative plaque.

The MacDonell family traces itself back to the six hundred members of the Scottish Glengarry clans who set sail from Scotland to New York in 1773. Royalist supporters in the American Revolution, they had their American land confiscated in 1783 when the war ended.

The forebears of the MacDonell family were among the discharged Loyalist soldiers who took up the newly-surveyed land allotted to them in Eastern Ontario in 1784.

At 10:30 a.m., a similar unveiling took place at the farm of Douglas and Andrew Cameron at R.R. 1, Lancaster. The Cameron farm also dates back to the surveying of the land by the British and the assembly at Cornwall of loyal troops displaced from the United States. There, they drew lots for parcels of land. One of these soldiers was Alexander Cameron of the second battalion of the King's Royal Regiment of New York.

At noon, a third ceremony took place at the farm of Darcy and Dorothy Kyer, R.R. 1, Long Sault. The Kyers inherited the farm from Darcy's mother whose maiden name was Alguire.

Martin Alguire was a private in the King's regiment, the Royal Yorkers as they were called. Like the MacDonells and the Camerons, his descendants still own and live on the land he received as a reward for his military service.

The Ministry of Agriculture and Food as one of many projects to commemorate the bicentennial is making a 30-minute film of bicentennial farms that will be ready for distribution in the spring of 1984.

Apple Hill News

by Aline Gormley

Faithful members of the Apple Hill Happy Hour Senior Citizens Club turned out to play euchre on Tuesday, November 22.

Placing first for the ladies was Irene Locey. Second went to Myrtle MacMillan, third to Emilia Paquette.

First for the men was Norman MacLeod; second, Stuart Hall; third, Sinclair Feek.

Yvonne MacFarlane won the door prize and 50-50 winners were Romuald Giroux, Rita Quesnel, Lucille St. Pierre, Pierre Ouellette, Anne Michaud, Bill Cooper, Norman MacLeod, Emily Paquette and Ranald MacPherson.

The next euchre is on December 6, following a pot luck supper at 6 p.m. and an exchange of gifts among members.

Mount Carmel House Auxiliary is happy with the general turnout on the occasion of its Snowflake Tea at St. Andrew's Hall on Saturday, November 26. The outcome was a success.

Some came out winners. Lucille Bellefeuille of Cornwall won the two crewel pictures. Aline Gormley won the Nestle's food assortment. Blanche Gauthier won the candy house and Patricia Quail won the door prize.

President Adair Masterson wishes to thank everyone who attended. She is grateful to all convenors and everyone who contributed by way of donations or helping at the tea.

The Township of Kenyon has begun cleaning out the Apple Hill drain. The drain was built 20 years ago and in order to flow properly after such usage it will be cleaned of sediment that has accumulated.

The drain begins at the north-end of the village and runs at the back of the properties between Main and Kennedy. It picks up another branch west of Kennedy Street and flows under the C.P.R. track into the Beaudette river.

We were told an extension will be added to drain part of Kennedy Street.

As far as the weather will allow the work will continue, but may not be completed until spring. Meanwhile, it will relieve flooding and water backing up into the basements.

A euchre party was held at the Legion Hall on November 11, sponsored by the Auxiliary.

Prize winners for the ladies were: first, Margaret Kennedy; second, Edna Berry; third, Wendy Scott. Prize winners for the men were: first, Cameron McLeod; second, Eldred Scott; third, Lorne Hall. Door prizes were won by Evelyn Lapierre, Evelyn McColl, Claire Van Putten and Stennetta Latroix. Fifty-fifty draws were won by Myrtle MacMillan, Fernand Brabant and Edna Berry.

Public invited

The Vaidya Unitarian Fellowship will have a panel discussion on social issues this Saturday evening at 8 p.m. at the Maxville Senior Public School.

Panelists will be Jody Boyer, a health care worker, talking on "What is Happening in Health Care?" and Alan Barlow, a pork producer, on "Agriculture."

The public is invited. For information, please call Fred Cappuccino, 527-2154, or Joe Boyer, 528-4330.

Wiseman vindicated

The timing could not be better for Ontario Liberals. Since the start of the byelection campaign in Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry, Liberal candidate John Whitteker and party leader David Peterson have talked about the "shameful" treatment accorded Lanark MPP Doug Wiseman.

Minister of Government Services until a cabinet shuffle earlier this year, Mr. Wiseman was demoted to the Tory backbenches, reportedly because a cabinet post would do the government more good politically in risky Toronto or southwestern Ontario than in the traditional Tory bastion of eastern Ontario. In short, Mr. Wiseman could be fired without any real worry about losing a safe seat.

Mr. Wiseman refused to leave quietly. He said he had been constantly fighting with his deputy-minister, Alan Gordon, about the ministry's spending. He was upset that the bureaucrat had not been following proper procedures in handing out government contracts. Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent without tendering and without authorization from Mr. Wiseman.

Proposals the minister had specifically vetoed proceeded behind his back.

Whether or not battles with Mr. Gordon led to Mr. Wiseman's demise, a recent report from Provincial Auditor Douglas Archer confirms Mr. Wiseman had good reason to be worried about how money was being spent in his ministry.

The concerns have been shown to be legitimate, yet it is Mr. Wiseman who has been left out in the cold, while Mr. Gordon continues to draw his accustomed large salary as one of Ontario's top civil servants.

An editorial in The Record News of Smiths Falls, summed it up in the following words:

"The premier has sent out a clear message—powerful bureaucrats in Hog Town can clobber gentlemen farmer politicians from the likes of Lanark County.

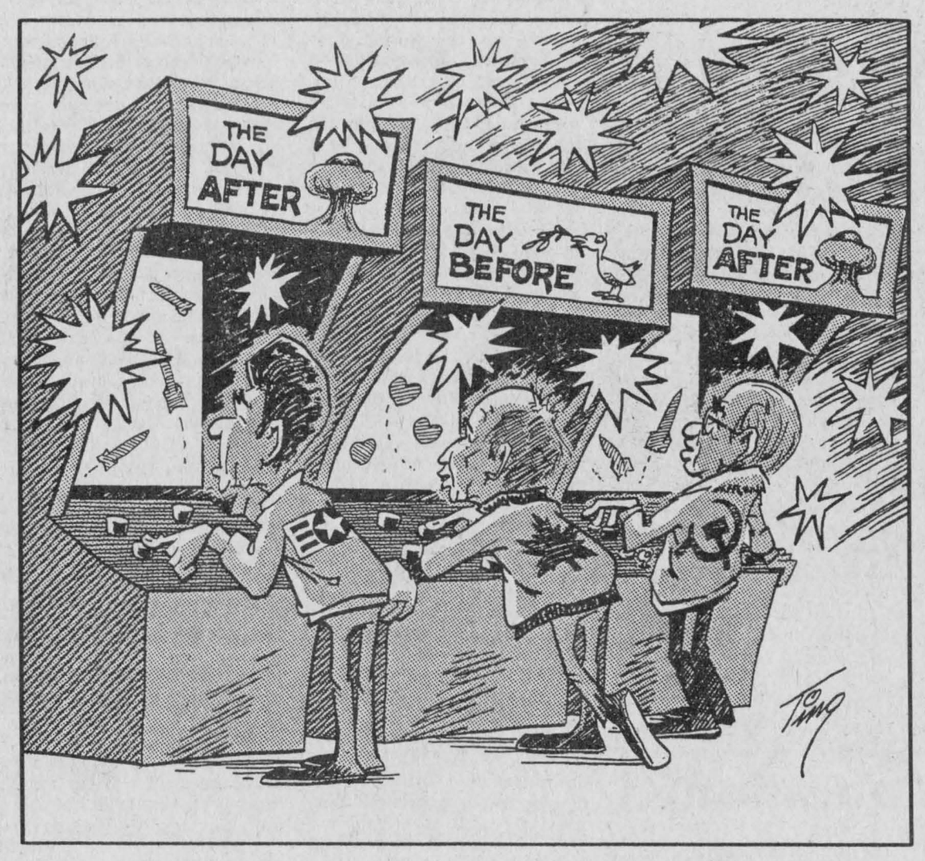
"It's a sad day indeed when an elected politician, given a mandate from the people to guard the public interest, has his administration subverted by slick pencil-pushers, who—the provincial auditor confirms—have less than overwhelming respect for the proper handling of public funds.

"Who's in charge, anyway?"

Questioned by Deputy Liberal leader Sean Conway in a committee hearing last week, Mr. Gordon insisted Mr. Wiseman was kept informed at all times concerning the ministry's spending. Pressured to call Mr. Wiseman as a witness, the Conservative-dominated committee refused.

Contacted by the press later, Mr. Wiseman said he stood by his earlier remarks. He wasn't kept informed, he said.

Premier Davis has now said he will speak to both men in an effort to clear up the confusion. His answer should be interesting.



Doggerel from way back

Our rambling reporter

The age of the computer is upon us and a marvellous machine it is in many ways, even to an aging Rambling Reporter who doesn't understand its workings and is a little leery of the drat thing.

We've got several of the machines in our office and the computer has certainly transformed printing methods and made it possible for us to turn out a bigger and better newspaper.

Now they're promoting the personal computer and it seems they won't be satisfied till we're all storing information in our own home memory bank and learning to bring it to hand at the press of a button.

Won't that be dandy?

But we're left wondering what will happen to the human brain in a day and age when it's no longer needed. If all our figuring is to be done on calculators and everything we have to know is at our fingertips won't our brains begin to calcify from disuse? If one has stored all pertinent knowledge in his personal computer, what exercise is one's memory going to get? Almost any pensioner will tell you how faulty the memory becomes when it gets only limited use.

The more we think of it the less we think of the idea of having a personal computer, complete with memory bank. We've got lots of memories stored in our aging brain that would never be found in a computer, if only because they'd be of no interest to anyone else.

Like, for instance, a couple of bits of doggerel come to mind from way back in our youth. What other memory bank could come up with these?

> On a bright May morn in '63,
> And ready for the action
> On the battlefield for liberty
> Stood the gallant Stonewall Jackson.

That piece of alleged verse was inscribed on the inside cover of a cigar box under a picture of General Jackson. Darned if we can recall for certain the name of the cigars, though we think they were called just that, Stonewall Jacksons.

We're more certain of that other cigar, the White Owl, which also had its memorable verse:

> A wise old owl sat on an oak
> And the more he heard, the less he spoke.
> The less he spoke, the more he heard.
> Why can't we be like that wise old bird?

The Peg Top was another popular smoke in those days of long ago and so was the Panatella. Darned if we can remember though, whether or not they boasted their bits of doggerel.

That's the trouble with one's very own memory bank. It sometimes forgets to remember. However imperfect it may get, though, we prize it more than a personal computer.

Support of friends can be crucial

From the rail fence
by Anna Margaret MacDonald

There are people we know who appear to have more than their share of crosses.

What helps make these sufferings endurable very often is the support of their friends.

This idea was incorporated into a song by a young teenager suffering from Cystic Fibrosis, Kevin Denbrook of Collingwood, Ontario.

It goes in part:

There was a time when I thought the world was really down on me
There was a time when I thought my life was never meant to be.
But it's good to know there's people like you who really care
Oh it's good to know there's people with time and love to share.
You helped me through my heartaches, you gave your time to me,
You helped me to understand the things I could not see.
It's good to know there's people like you who really care
It's good to know there's people with time and love to share.

The theme was quoted by Noreen (O'Farrel) Richer last week at Iona Academy as she thanked the children of the school for their prayers and financial support of the Cystic Fibrosis Society and her children who have the disease.

The students at Iona have become familiar with the disease as they have seen Diane and Bobby Richer battle it, and have witnessed its ravaging effects on Diane this past few months.

Their spell-a-thon to raise money for research to help find a cure netted $4,500. From a school of about 200 families this is extraordinary. But love of friends was there.

Just down the road at Williamstown Public School the staff and children reached out to help a former student, Glen Whitford, who needs money to attend the International Games for victims of Cerebral Palsy.

In a run-a-thon they contributed $780.81 in one swoop, about a quarter of the total needed. From other areas, the fund is growing. Love of friends is there.

Little Melissa Howes, suffering from effects of an accident early in her life is pledging her energy to raise funds for Ronald McDonald House. Donations from all sides continue to pour in until her fund is hovering around the $10,000 mark. Love of friends.

Our plea last Christmas for a sympathetic message to families having to cope with severe forms of illness met with an overwhelming response.

Nineteen-year-old Anita Hennessy of Lancaster, a victim of multiple sclerosis, received letters, cards and gifts from all across Canada and the U.S.—even from a News subscriber in Japan.

"Did I get any cards today Mom?" was her eager question as the mailman came, her mother relates. In days that stretch long with suffering it was an indication someone cared and not only for Anita but for her family, it was a much-needed boost and the family is overwhelmingly grateful.

Anita is now a year older and progressively weaker and facing another agonizing session with chemotherapy treatments. She is hoping the Christmas season will once again bring a little communication to help ease her ordeal. Address: Anita Hennessy, Bishops' Point, RR1, Lancaster.

Some of us are going through times when the support of friends is crucial. The above-mentioned are but a few examples of the goodness of people.

If you know of someone ill or shut-in who could be helped by a little neighborliness, let us help spread the word around at this time. It is the least we can do.

Some Christmas gift

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) insists it will go through with its promise of processing mail for 10 cents during the week of Dec. 11-17. The regular rate is 32 cents.

Union President Jean-Claude Parrot refers to the action as a "Christmas gift to Canadians." Some gift. The full cost of the underpaid mail is likely to come directly from the pockets of the taxpayers, the so-called beneficiaries of the union's illegal move.

We may consider postal rates too high. We can protest, turn to alternative means of delivery and demand improved service for the money. But postal employees have no right to ignore management and cut prices whenever they wish. Such action would not be tolerated in the private market. Similarly, it cannot be allowed at Canada Post.

Postal officials say the "gift" could cost the post office between $15 million and $20 million in lost revenue.

Who does Mr. Parrot expect to pay the bill? If union members were prepared to pay the shot through reduced salaries it could well be considered a gift and appreciated as such. As it stands, CUPW's proposal, if acted upon, would amount to theft.

The post office is justified in warning that employees caught in such an illegal act will be fired.

In any gift-giving, it's supposed to be the thought that counts and in this case it doesn't count for much.

If Mr. Parrot thought he would score positive public relations points in his latest manouvre, he was dead wrong. CUPW is considered the least popular union in the country. Even its comrades in other trade unions are often embarrassed by Mr. Parrot's radical actions.

CUPW's popularity may well sink lower. Under its present leadership, the powerful union is unlikely to ever draw significant public support.

We all want efficient postal service. We're certainly forced to pay for it. While fault may be found with management decisions at the upper levels of Canada Post, it is obvious that CUPW, which must bear at least half of the responsibility, could not care less.

Why a milk shortage?

Since its inception nearly 20 years ago, the Ontario Milk Marketing Board has often been at the centre of controversy regarding its quota policies for dairy farmers and for cheese producers.

Over the same period of time most of Ontario's country cheese factories have disappeared. It would be unfair to blame their loss on the milk board, however. Escalating transportation costs and the more efficient competition provided by larger cheese producers sounded the death knell.

But quotas have remained controversial. Despite the fact that the quota system has obviously stabilized dairy farming and has helped keep smaller producers in business, inequities often appear. Where fault has been found, it has invariably been with administration of the system rather than with the concept of supply management in itself.

While guaranteeing a consistent return for our dairy farmers, the milk board has also raised the standards of milk production, assuring a better, safer product for the consumer and, in the long haul, has probably kept retail prices below what they would have been had the pressures of an unstable market been allowed to wipe out the small, family farm, leaving dairy herds in the hands of only large producers.

Problems remain, however. Recently eastern Ontario has been hit with the closure of Balderson Cheese, in Lanark County, and the partial closure of Ault's cheese plant in Winchester. The two setbacks have cost 48 jobs—18 in Balderson and 30 in Winchester.

A shortage of milk for the production of cheddar cheese has been blamed for both shut-downs.

Though Ault Foods, a subsidiary of John Labatt Ltd. and one of Canada's leading milk processors, insists it has no plans to close the Balderson plant permanently, company officials can offer no guarantee that such a fate will not be in store later. Balderson's milk shipments are now being sent to Winchester.

Temporary, and potentially permanent, shut-downs will continue if cheddar cheese producers continue to face milk shortages and tight milk quotas, according to Stephen Ault, vice-president of Ault Foods. He insists the only solution is for the milk board to change its policy on cheese quotas.

He says Ontario residents eat more cheddar per capita than residents of any other province, yet its producers are given a low priority in the distribution of milk.

Cheddar plants have quotas that entitle them only to milk left over after high-priority dairy products—specialty cheeses, yogurt, ice cream—get their share.

Though there is cheddar in storage, producers are confident of future market demand. They could be producing more, employing more people and allowing area dairy farmers to increase their production, if only the milk board would give them the go-ahead. Until then, much of eastern Ontario's cheese production capacity will go to waste.

Video movies at home

Second look
by Phil Rutherford

Video movies have become a craze over the last year or so, with demand seeming to grow by leaps and bounds on an almost daily basis.

At least three businesses have opened up in the Alexandria area to meet the demand and they all seem to be doing a good business.

We gave video a try about six weeks ago. One of the local rental firms had advertised a weekend special that was simply too good to miss. We found we could "go to" three movies at home for less than it would cost to visit a city theatre.

No line-ups, no gas consumption, no hassle over getting a babysitter, no driving and we could watch our choice of movies when we pleased.

And the selection is great. Some movies still making the theatre rounds can easily be rented, though you may be advised to reserve your choice ahead of time. Then there are the films you intended to see last year, or six months ago, but didn't find time. And there are the classics—Casablanca, High Noon and more.

There is a wide choice of family fair, including Walt Disney features and cartoon productions aimed at the children.

We are in the habit now of getting three films for the weekend—two for the adults in the house and one for our four-year-old. We'll watch our selections once, but he will insist on feeding his habit at least four times.

And promoters aren't exaggerating when they say video is so simple even a child could handle it. Our lad understands the system better than his parents do. He loads and starts the machine, switching to fast-forward, rewind or pause whenever he likes. It's gone a little too far.

There seemed to be an equipment malfunction one weekend. There were white lines that looked like scratches running across the middle of the screen and the picture was continually rolling. I spent at least an hour checking all the connections, unloading and loading again until I was satisfied that I had done nothing wrong.

Frustrated, I came to the conclusion that the video player was faulty and was rehearsing my lines for when I asked for my money back.

Along came the little one, who said, "That's easy, Daddy. You just turn this thing." He demonstrated and was instantly rewarded with a perfect picture for yet another rendition of Blackbeard's Ghost. Thus I was introduced to the miracle of "tracking."

Video movies make for great family entertainment, even when the joke's on Dad. But it can be addictive. I know one mother, who shall remain nameless, who hauls them home five at a time.

If you haven't given it a try yet, take a look this weekend. Check the ads. There's plenty of competition for the business.

The waterways of Ontario —are they worth saving?

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

"Are we going to celebrate the bicentennial of the arrival of our ancestors to these historic counties by wantonly destroying our small rivers?"

One can live a long time without food but one cannot survive without fresh water.

"Love Canals" are being produced at an alarming rate across the whole Ontario landscape with the complete approval of the Ontario government. Sitting beside Mr. Noble Villeneuve last Monday evening at a political meeting in Avonmore was a gentleman whose employer, A. J. Graham Engineering Constultants, will implement the "Payne River Drainage Project" at an estimated cost as of October 1982, of $1,715,098.69, if the project is approved. Mr. Hank Robertson is also reeve of Roxborough Township and vice-president of the Conservative Association of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The first indication of dissension within the watershed of the Payne River which was named for the MacMillans of Glenpean who trudged along its banks from Lochiel to Roxborough and Finch Townships in 1802 seemed to be the sudden sprouting of signs along Highway 43 between the incorporated village of Finch and the community of Avonmore in Roxborough Township, a stretch of about six miles, the signs usually reading: "We want no change on the Payne River just a drain."

The peaceable farmers of Finch Township and Osnabruck Township, along with opponents to the drain in Roxborough, banded together to fight what seemed to be a losing battle agains the Roxborough Township council's decision to force the Payne River Drain Study into actual fact.

In 1978, Roxborough Township initiated a $100,000 study called "The Payne River Municipal Drainage Works Report." The study was to be done by A. J. Graham Engineering Consultants of Ottawa, the employer of the Roxborough Reeve, Mr. Hank Robertson. At a meeting in February Mr. Peter Laub of Finch Township asked if a tender had been put out for an engineer to do the project. The answer was no.

By July 1978, interest had accrued in the amount of $37,-333.12. In October 1982 another study was done at a cost of a further $90,000.

Mr. Hugh Windsor of the South Nation River Conservation Authority told me that "Cost outweighs benefit."

When does the Payne become a "pain"; evidently, when the threat of harming the ecological balance of a natural waterway becomes a reality.

Canada is one of the last strongholds in the world for fresh water resources. Swamps and small rivers are needed as reservoirs for fresh water. Otherwise, natural springs and wells will go dry and the province will become a desert if small rivers are allowed to be turned into mere drains.

Bottled water imported from Europe fills the shelves of the supermarkets in every large centre as the population becomes more sophisticated in its realization of the potential danger of pesticides which are wantonly sprayed on corn as well as on poplar and spruce plantations. Chemicals seep into waterways, and when ditches from fields flow into natural waterways, pollution is inevitable. The water table of the land is affected and wells and springs will go dry.

Many American farmers are unable to use their wells because of pollution in such highly industrialized states as New Jersey.

Swamps have always existed and small rivers have always drained swamps.

Cutting trees along the banks of a river creates an ice buildup during winter because trees prevent erosion. The water table is affected, and rip rap to be used in a drainage system in a natural waterway like the Payne River would be a detriment to wildlife as well as to human life.

Fresh water is our natural legacy. Are we going to allow a candidate to jeopardize this legacy by stating he is in favor of a drainage project which not only is extravagant, has not received any government grants, and grants are tax money, but the majority of farmers concerned do not want this expensive project to progress further.

I, as a Conservative, will have to think twice before voting December 15.

Margaret Cameron,
Avonmore.

Procedure questioned

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

This letter is in regards to the judicial system in the United Counties. When arrested for minor crimes the accused has two alternatives. One is to plead guilty and in most cases be released on his own recognizance.

If not guilty is the plea, the accused is usually remanded into custody at the Cornwall jail, to await a bail hearing. When the bail hearing is given, the Crown attorney can ask for 72 hours, so they can check on the individual's background.

Lawyers have said that they have not won a majority of bail hearings, and that bail in the United Counties is rare.

Court dates for trial are, in most cases, months in the future.

The result of the not guilty verdict is of no consequence, if the individual has spent five months awaiting that verdict.

The Crown attorneys trying to convict individuals for crimes, usually try plea bargaining for pleas of guilty by substantially lowering the charge and the length of imprisonment. Usually the amount of time offered is no more than the individual has to wait for trial.

I submit that these tactics get convictions and improve police and prosecutors images. In other cities individuals are not put into a position of pleading guilty by these means or with other charges being brought against individuals, whether true or false.

Maxville War Veterans' Club ANNOUNCEMENT

In the November 16, 1983 issue of The Glengarry News there is a picture of Mr. Ray Rolland accompanied by a write-up stating amongst other that he "was given a life-long membership as manager of the Maxville War Veterans' Club by its members" and that "he was presented with a plaque".

We feel that these statements must be clarified and corrected. Maxville War Veterans' Club has no record of Mr. Ray Rolland being voted its life-long membership as manager of this club. Neither was any plaque presented to him by Maxille War Veterans' Club. Mr. Ray Rolland offered his resignation from Maxville War Veterans' Club on February 9, 1982, but it was not accepted and he resigned again on July 13, 1982, when the club decided to accept his resignation as president and member, as of July 30, 1982.

Furthermore, on Mr. Ray Rolland's request, he was repaid the funds he invested in the Maxville War Veterans' Club.

On January 11, 1983, a letter was received, addressed to the vice-president of Maxville War Veterans' Club from Mr. Ray Rolland informing that, as far back as February 26, 1982, he has been organizing, in Maxville, other veterans associations, but the activities of these associations were not known to us and are in no way connected with our own club.

Spell-a-thon raises $4,500

by Anna Margaret MacDonald

Last week Diane Richer was able to return to school. It was just for an hour a day, but for the little 13-year-old, it was a day of triumph, just to be reunited with her classmates.

Diane is a victim of cystic fibrosis. For several months now she has had to undergo such intensive therapy both in hospital and at home that she has been unable to attend school or enjoy any of the everyday things other children take for granted.

Her return to Iona at St. Raphael's was a special occasion because her classmates had not only been praying for her recovery but had been taking some positive action as well. Under the guidance of their teachers, the entire school had participated in a Halloween spell-a-thon to raise money for cystic fibrosis research.

Students in every grade participated inthe spell-a-thon. A word list had been assigned for each grade to study. The Grade One group for example were required to spell five words while the Grade 8 classes had 100. Donations were collected according to the words spelled correctly and top collectors in each grade were given prizes donated by the staff.

It was the first time the school had participated in such a venture and the amount raised far exceeded expectations.

Touched by the suffering of their classmate the children went all out in their appeal for sponsors. They netted $4,500 and it was a crowning achievement that Diane was well enough to be present while the cheque was formally presented to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Diane's brother Bobby also has the affliction, although not so seriously. He is a regular at school and participates in sports.

A disease affecting the bronchial tubes of the lungs and digestive enzymes of the pancreas, it is inherited and incurable. Therapy helps control the lung problem, medication assists in digestion. This may mean about 35 pills a day, as not even a snack may be eaten without the accompanying pills.

About 15 children in the United Counties are affected and the local chapter here was formed in 1981, the Year of the Disabled.

The goals are three-fold. First is the parent support program to enable parents to get together and through the sharing of experiences derive moral support from each other.

The second aim is to make the public aware of this serious disease regarded as the second highest killer of Canadian children and adults.

The third function of the group is fund raising.

Diane and Bobby's mother, Noreen Richer is president of the Cornwall and area group, Anne Marie Peeters of Lancaster is vice-president, secretary is Anita Hess of R.R. 1, Lunenburg, Rollande Laundrie of Cornwall is treasurer and Rolland Besner is fund-raising chairman. Kobi Kruders of Ingleside is the public relations chairman.

A record album "Kevin" composed entirely by a CF teenager, Kevin of Collingwood, Ont. is currently on sale in support of the foundation.

UNUSUALLY HIGH RESULTS IN FUND-RAISING—The staff and students at Iona School were delightfully surprised when the results of their Halloween spell-a-thon were totalled and they had $4,500. Presentation of the cheque was made to Rolland Besner, centre, chairman of fund-raising for the Cornwall and Area Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Others in the photo from left, Bobby, Noreen and Diane Richer and Iona principal Sue Larosa.

NDP farm critic speaks

"We need to build a more secure world for Canadian farmers," says Vic Althouse, NDP federal agriculture critic and MP for the Saskatchewan riding of Humboldt-Lake Centre.

Mr. Althouse spoke to a meeting at Berwick Hall Thursday evening in the second stage of the NDP Task Force on Agriculture. The provincial caucus members of the task force held hearings in Finch on November 16.

"Over the last 10 years, farm incomes have hovered around $3.5 billion, but agricultural costs have risen between 100 and 200 per cent. Cash flow and inadequate net incomes are two of the greatest problems faced by Canadian farmers," Mr. Althouse said.

"Even though there's been a lot of talk, there's been precious little action by Eugene Whelan and the provincial agriculture ministers.

"In contrast, NDP governments in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia all put into place programs that provided security in farm incomes, stability in farm prices and protection for the family farm," he said.

A life-long farmer himself, Mr. Althouse said he is keenly aware of the need to preserve the family farm.

"Over the last 10 years Liberal and Conservative governments have almost completely backed out of agricultural funding, leaving it to the private banks and trust companies. As a result, debt and mortgage charges now represent the highest single expense in farming today," he said.

"When you combine this with a capital gains tax on farm sales, few farmers can afford to transfer their land to their children.

"The Land Bank and Agribond programs in Saskatchewan, land use regulations in BC and controls on foreign ownership in Manitoba—all brought in by NDP governments—provide opportunities and options for farmers to stay on their land and keep farming in their family.

"These programs were seen as revolutionary in their day—as revolutionary as the idea of universal pensions and medicare were in their day. But all of them have worked. All of them are reasonable and sensible solutions to serious problems.

"The federal Liberal government and provincial Conservative governments should stop talking and take action to ensure the livelihoods and the future of Canada's food producers," the MP concluded.

Lancaster firemen help

Situated close to Highway 401, the Lancaster Fire Department sometimes gets tasks that are a bit unusual.

Just recently a call came in about 2 a.m. from a truck driver at a service station near the Quebec border. The man was having severe chest pains and while he made it from his truck to an outside phone booth, was too ill to make it any further to get inside the building.

When he did not receive an answer at the local police depot, he dialed the fire department number. The member who answered realized the man was gravely ill from his description of chest and arm pains so responded immediately. Through the Zenith number the police were immediately summoned and an ambulance was also despatched at once.

Meanwhile the Fire Department kept contact with the caller on the phone, assuring him help was coming.

The victim was admitted to Hotel Dieu Cardiac Unit and has recovered sufficiently to be transferred to Montreal. Both police and fire departments have received his overwhelming thanks.

In Memoriam

PIDGEON—In sad but loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Hughie Pidgeon, who passed away November 27, 1976.
At night the silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here.
Where sleeps the one we cannot forget,
The one we loved so dear.
—Forever remembered by wife, Mary Belle, and all the family, Lancaster, Ontario 48-1p

McDONALD—In loving memory of my dear brother, Norman, who passed away November 25, 1979.
A sadness still comes o'er me
Tears in silence often flow
Memory keeps you ever near me
Though you died four years ago.
—Sadly missed and always remember-er by your sister, Winnie. 48-1p

LEPAGE—In loving memory of a dear mother, Alice Lepage, who passed away, November 30, 1963.
20 long years have passed
Since I've seen your happy smile
And heard your laugh.
Then the happiness turned into sadness
You knew you were going
But you never told
You kept your sadness to yourself.
I don't think of the sadness, in my memories
But the happiness of having had such a wonderful mother as you, mom.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by your son, Marcel. 48-1p

Liberals promote new farm program

The Ontario government must move now to help small family farms and preserve agricultural land in order to meet food demands in the future, Ontario Opposition Leader David Peterson said last Tuesday.

Guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce, Liberal leader David Peterson said his party has developed an eight-point program designed to protect and expand the province's agriculture industry.

The program calls for interest rate relief, help for young farmers, expanded tile drainage funding, preservation of farm land, export assistance, development of human resources in agriculture and small town revitalization.

In a prepared statement released to the press later, Mr. Peterson said one in every five jobs in Ontario is directly related to food production.

"The tragedy is that the current government seems to have absolutely no idea of how crucial farming is to the future health and wealth of this province," he said.

Ontario imports in one year $900 million more food than it exports, he said. Just to maintain that level, the province will need the equivalent of 1.1 million acres of new food production over the next 20 years.

Since 1971 the province has lost one million acres of farmland and, by 1981, 12,274 farms had been lost, about 15 per cent of the current total. In four years, from 1979 to 1982, farm bankruptcies had increased 175 per cent.

"And these figures only count those who were pushed over the edge into formal bankruptcy proceedings," said Mr. Peterson. "It does not include the larger number of farmers who got out of the business while they still had some equity remaining. The Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) has calculated that for every bankrupt farmer, there are 10 others who cash in before the banks force them to."

INTEREST RATES

Through the Ontario Farm Adjustment Assistance Program (OFAAP), interest rates should be subsidized down to eight per cent, instead of the current 12, and farmers with less than 10 per cent equity should be allowed to apply, he said.

The government should also be involved in the establishment and funding of a financial advisory body to act as "a sort of ombudsman between the farmer and his creditors, to review a farmer's financial situation and to make recommendations for solutions."

The Liberal program also calls for the immediate establishment of a long-term program that will provide up to $200,000 at a low rate of interest for beginning farmers.

Similar programs already exist in Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Quebec, but there is no long-term financing plan for Ontario, said Mr. Peterson.

He has also called on the government to restore the capital grants program for production facilities, to meet a need to updage buildings, equipment and energy systems.

Up to $10,000 per farmer should be provided for these capital improvement projects under a new capital grants program, he said.

TILE DRAINAGE

The Liberals also want an expanded tile drainage program, said Mr. Peterson.

"I believe that we should move immediately to provide $50 million per year in loans, at eight per cent rather than the present 10 per cent interest, for tile drainage," he said. "The program should cover 75 per cent of the work, rather than the present 60 per cent."

Tile drainage is essential to the improvement of Ontario's foodlands, said the Liberal leader.

"We know that every dollar invested will return up to $18. We know that a good drainage program can increase production yields by up to 50 per cent."

The government must become seriously active in the preservation of prime agricultural land, said Mr. Peterson, who has also called for a "farmer's bill of rights" to protect farmers from intrusion by non-farm interests.

CANAGREX

In order to expand markets for Ontario agriculture, "the first thing we have to do is launch an aggressive program of import substitution."

"An import substitution program in specific agricultural products would be an excellent start. We could create thousands of new jobs in the agriculture industry by displacing unnecessary imports."

Mr. Peterson has also given his party's support to the federal government's Canagrex proposal, which would create an agency to promote and sell Canada's agricultural products internationally.

To develop human resources in agriculture and to allow continued research and development, adequate funding levels should be maintained for such institutions as the University of Guelph and the Ontario Veterinary College, he said.

Obituaries

James D. Hay

Area relatives and friends learned with regret of the passing of James D. Hay at the age of 79. Mr. Hay died suddenly at the home of his sister, Mrs. Florence MacDonald, 12 Kenyon St. W., Alexandria, on Friday, November 18.

He was born on March 1, 1904, in Lochiel, a son of the late Angus Hay and his late wife, the former Nellie Robinson. He was educated in area schools.

At the outbreak of World War II he enlisted in the SD&G Highlanders at Kingston and served throughout the war years in Canada. He held the rank of Sergeant.

Upon his discharge from the army he operated the general store at Fassifern for several years. He later moved to Waterloo where he was stationary engineer with Uniroyal Limited until he retired, and at such time he returned to take up residence at 116 Dominion St. S., where he had since resided.

Left to mourn his passing are the former Georgina MacKay; three daughters—Mrs. David Rush (Jean Ann) of Waterloo, Mrs. Joan Hermiston of Listowel, and Mrs. David Shelley (Gracie) of Waterloo; four sons—James of Victoria, BC, Garry, Ronnie and Wayne, all of Waterloo. Also surviving are five sisters—Mrs. Florence MacDonald of Alexandria, Mrs. Donald MacDonald (Emma) of Montreal, Mrs. Tom McBride (Dorothy) of Toronto, Mrs. Wm. Purdy (Myrtle) of Lachine and Mrs. Hazel Coleman of Cornwall; four brothers—William of Alexandria, Albert of Waterloo, John Allan of Alexandria, and Donnie of Cornwall. He was predeceased by his parents and two sisters, Mrs. Greta Carter of Toronto, and Mrs. Sadie Anderson of Montreal. He also leaves seven grandchildren.

The funeral was held in the chapel of the Morris Funeral Home, Alexandria on Monday at 10 a.m., when the Rev. Gordon Saville of the Church on the Hill read the service and delivered the homily. Angus MacQueen was organist.

Pallbearers were Hubert, Kaye, Edwin, Darrell and Glen Hay and Ron Munro.

Burial was in the family plot in the United Church Cemetery, where Rev. Saville read the final prayers. Relatives attended from Waterloo, Montreal, Cornwall, Toronto, Kitchener and other points.

Angus L. McDermid

A native Glengarrian, Angus Leonard McDermid passed away peacefully on November 16 in Allan Park, Michigan, following a lengthy illness.

He was born at Alexandria, September 7, 1901, son of the late Dan D. McDermid and Catherine McDonald. A brother, Alexander and two sisters, Margaret and Agatha (Mrs. Tim Cosgriff) also predeceased him.

In 1924 he moved to Detroit where he was employed by the Ford Motor Company until his retirement in 1961. He married Catherine McDonell of Bridge End on July 18, 1931 and they made their home in Detroit area. In addition to his wife he leaves to mourn his two sons Duane of West Bloomfield, Mich., and Earl of Buffalo Grove, Ill., and four grandchildren. A daughter, Marilyn predeceased him in 1948.

Mr. McDermid was an active member of the Ushers' Club of St. Cyril's Parish and a member of the Father Saylor Council K of C.

Mass of the Resurrection was concelebrated by a nephew Father Kevin O'Brien and Father Ed Borcyz, pastor at St. Cyril of Jerusalem Church with interment following in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Alanson McDonell, Ian McDonell, Patrick Murree, Bruce McClary, Kevin McDonell and Jerry Doughty.

Wyman MacMillan

Wyman MacMillan died suddenly at his residence, Catherine St., on Monday, November 14, at the age of 54.

He was born in Lochiel on August 26, 1929, a son of Myles MacMillan and the former Anna Mae MacDonald. He was educated in the area schools and was employed for some years at the Square "C" plant, and for the past four years was a taxi driver for the Levert taxi firm.

He was an ardent sportsman, a valued player of both football and soccer in Lochiel and an ardent hunter.

Left to mourn his untimely passing are his parents, his wife, the former Georgette Massia, four sons and four daughters—Curtis, Randy, Dale, Stuart, Melanie, Mae, Joy and Shannon. Two brothers also survive, Orville of Alexandria, and Archibald of Dundas. He was predeceased by his only sister, Mrs. Sheila Leonard, and a brother, Gordon.

The funeral was held in the Morris Funeral Home chapel on Friday at 2 p.m., where Rev. Karen Hincke, minister of St. Columba Church, Kirk Hill, conducted the service and delivered the homily. Angus MacQueen was organist.

Burial was in the family plot at St. Columba Cemetery, Kirk Hill. The pallbearers were Curtis and Dale MacMillan, James MacPhee, Wayne MacMillan, D. J. MacPhee and Hubert Hay.

Relatives attended from Cornwall, Ottawa, Dundas, Vankleek Hill, Hawkesbury and area points.

Andrew Brodie Jamieson

Andrew Brodie Jamieson passed away in the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, October 29, after a short illness. He was 81 years of age.

A lifetime resident of the Brodie area, he was the son of the late John A. Jamieson and his wife Annabelle Brodie. He is survived by one brother William C. Jamieson, one nephew John W. Jamieson and one niece, Mrs. Jennie Weston. Two brothers, James and Robert, and one sister, Jennie, predeceased him.

The remains were taken from Hillcrest Funeral Home on November 1 to the Reformed Presbyterian Church at Brodie, where he had been a faithful member and Sabbath School superintendent for many years.

Rev. Kenneth McBurney, minister of the Reformed Presbyterian Church in Almonte, assisted by Dr. John O. Edgar, Lisbon, New York, conducted the service. Dr. Stuart Johnston from the Canadian Bible Society, Montreal, was also present.

The pallbearers were Lewis Fraser, John D. MacMillan, Thomas MacDougall, James Fraser, Brian Brodie and John Waddell.

Interment was in the Brodie cemetery.

GRADUATE—Judy Poirier, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurier Poirier of RR1 Paragon Rd., has been graduated by St. Lawrence College School of Nursing and has received her nurses registration from the College of Nurses of Ontario. Judy is a graduate of Char-Lan District High School and has accepted a position with St. Joseph's Hospital in Hamilton.

Donated lights at Mount Carmel

by Aline Gormley

Mount Carmel House Auxiliary has held two regular meetings since the newly formed executive began its term. We are happy to announce that a good number have already joined the ranks of membership, some attending the regular meetings. Anyone wishing to do so may contact Theresa Quinn at St. Andrews West.

Money was contributed to Mount Carmel House and used to install new lights at the entrance of the treatment centre.

At the recent Home and Trade Show held Oct. 24, 25 and 26 at the Civic Complex, Cornwall, Mount Carmel House and the Auxiliary were represented. The booth was well decorated and staffed by volunteers who graciously informed the public of the work carried out by this institution. Mount Carmel House Auxiliary were selling tickets on two crewel work framed pictures donated by Mrs. Sally Ceaser which will be drawn at the Snowflake Tea to be held at St. Andrews West parish hall on Saturday, November 26.

Glen Sandfield

Get well wishes to Mrs. Lewis Fraser. She took a nasty fall while walking in the woods and sprained her wrist. Mrs. Angus MacLennan has been playing the organ in her place in East Hawkesbury United Church.

Dan and Eva Massie have recently moved to Green Valley. While we are sorry to see them go we wish them happiness in their new home. Dan Massie had been in hospital recently so his friends from Glen Sandfield send good wishes.

Sympathy to the family and relatives of the late Wyman MacMillan who passed away suddenly at his home in Alexandria. He is a nephew of Mrs. Roy MacMillan.

Lorna Chapman has returned from a six-week stay in Florida and Chesterfield, Missouri. More about this to follow in weeks to come.

Sincere thanks to Margo MacRae for sending in the column while I was gone.

Searching for song

Do you feel imaginative or creative?

The Art and Culture Committee of the Alexandria Centennial Committee is organizing a contest to choose a theme song for the town's centennial celebrations in 1984.

The winning song chosen from contestants should have a minimum of five verses and a maximum of 10. The song should be brief and simple and the lyrics may contain the Centennial slogan, "Let's Celebrate." The song must also pertain to the town of Alexandria.

Deadline for entries is Dec. 30 and these should be addressed to Theme Song, Town Hall, Alexandria, Ont.

The winner will receive a gold-plated Centennial coin. The contest is open to the public.

Meanwhile the main goal of the Alexandria Art and Culture Committee is to promote cultural activities in town during the Centennial year.

Let's run around together. PARTICIPACTION

NEW DEMOCRATS

Are your hard-earned dollars going up in smoke?
Then take a few minutes now and discover how adding electricity to your oil furnace can dramatically cut the cost of heating your home.
If your oil furnace is in good condition, but you'd like it to run more economically, a dual-energy system combining oil and electricity may be just the answer. In fact, depending on how much electric heat you add, and how you operate your system, you could use as little as one tank of oil for an entire heating season!
For example, an electric plenum heater or heat pump, will reduce the amount of oil your furnace uses by up to 75%. In addition, a heat pump provides air conditioning in the summer for economical year-round comfort.
If your furnace does need replacing, an electric furnace or one of the other electric systems can heat your home cleanly, efficiently and economically.
If you'd like to know more about dual-energy and all-electric systems, write to Ontario Hydro, 620 University Ave., 4th Floor, Toronto M5G 1X6, and ask for our free booklet "Electric Heating Options for Your Home."
The few minutes you take now could add up to big savings this winter.

Pins, plaques and plates - the presentations went on and on Friday night at the Glengarry 4-H Club's annual banquet at the Bonnie Glen until 150 awards were distributed in one form or another.

Chairpersons for the event were Anna Akkermans, R.R. 5, Alexandria, a six year member; Kathy Howes of R.R. 1, Dalkeith, a five year member and Paul Villeneuve of Moose Creek, a member for four years.

They presided throughout the evening, all displaying the efficiency learned through the 4-H movement.

A special award was made at the start of the evening to Charles Osborne of Bainsville who has given 20 years of voluntary service to the Lancaster Junior Calf Club.

First year leader pins were given to Ian Vallance of the Tractor Club and Robert Irwin of the Swine Club from the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Each year senior members have the option of becoming a junior leader in a club other than the one in which they elect to take their project. Awards went to John Ferguson, who assisted in the Swine Club, and Suzanne Dorie, who assisted with the Lancaster Junior Calf Club.

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food makes available certificates of achievement which are awarded to 4-H members upon the completion of six, 12 and 18 projects. These went to Kathy Howes, six projects; Colleen Kennedy, seven projects; Kirsty MacLeod, six projects and Tommy Pasco, eight projects.

All 4-H members, who have completed projects, receive an envelope containing a plaque if they are first year members or a year plate for members who have been in the program for more than one year. The envelope also contains their club book, a point system sheet indicating their standing in the club, monies from the Maxville Fair, Judging Day, Achievement Day, the Central Canada Exhibition and the Ottawa Winter Fair as well as an awards night program for each family.

Presentations for Lancaster Township were made by Casey Van Der Burg. Receiving plaques were: Sandra Cameron, Jean Desormeaux, Raymond Desormeaux, Marylaine Leger, Philippe Leger and Sylvie St. Pierre.

Receiving year plates were: Neil Cameron, Claire Carriere, Denise Dorie, Suzanne Dorie, Anne Ferguson, John Ferguson, Sharon MacRae, Glenn McKay, Angela Osborne, Stephanie Osborne, Briony Peachey, Jan Peachey, Sandy Peters, Deborah Preston, Gerry Smits and Peter Van Der Burg.

Eastern Breeders' Incorporated donated an award for the 4-H Club member with at least three years experience and who has shown consistency and outstanding 4-H calf club participation, including attendance and project report completions. Audrey Macdonald, who has been a 4-H member for six years and has completed 10 projects during that time, received a barn desk as her award.

Plaques and year plates for the members from Charlottenburgh Township were presented by Doug Sova to Matthew Eamer, Eric Lang, Laurie Macdonell, Jennifer MacLachlan, Blake McDonell, Heather Pasco, Stewart Robertson and Laura Stielow.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hampson of Dalkeith donated the Hampson Shield and Award to be presented to the champion beef showman at County Achievement Day. Jennifer Gowland received this award for the third consecutive year.

The Gerard Smits Challenge Trophy and Award are presented to the grand champion horse club showman at the Horse Club Achievement Day. This was won by Fiona MacDonell.

The Royal Bank Silver Tray, awarded to the member with the grand champion holstein calf at the County Achievement Day was won by Peter Van Der Burg.

Paul Webb, owner of the Glencairn Polled Hereford Farm, awarded a trophy for the champion 4-H beef heifer to Christopher Eamer.

Gail Kronwald presented the Lochiel Township mementos. Receiving plaques were Norman Brunet, Andre Couture, Derek and Mark Dumouchel, Randall Ewaschuk, Catherine Fraser, Anthony and Diana Hagen, Sharon Hodge, Mitzi Howes, Daniel Imbeault, Jacques Jeaurond, Beth MacLeod, Cindy McNaughton, Russell Piche, Christine Prince, Garry Vanderbyl, Johan Van Nooten and Liane Ward.

Receiving year plates were Richard Couture, Andrew and Stephan Fraser, Kathy and Lorna Howes, Mario Imbeault, Francois Jeaurond, Colleen and Sheila Kennedy, Stacey Kronwald, Audrey and Ewan MacDonald, Kevin MacGillivray, Bonnie and Campbell MacLeod, Kirsty MacLeod, Scott MacPherson, Bobby MacSweyn, Daniel Massie, Kim, Lyndon and Wendy McNaughton, Gary Myers, Kelly Olson and Connie Vanderbyl.

The Bank of Montreal awards a trophy to the winners in each horse club showmanship class at Achievement Day. These went to Philida Flockton, junior, first year member class, and Fiona MacDonell, senior, four and five year member class.

The United Co-operatives of Ontario awards trophies to the winners of each 4-H dairy calf showmanship class at the County Achievement Day. These trophies were awarded to Glenn McKay, Lancaster Seniors; Ewen MacDonald, Kenyon and Lochiel Seniors; Campbell MacLeod, Lochiel Juniors; Gerry Smits, Lancaster Juniors and Allison Pasco, Charlottenburgh - Kenyon Juniors.

This year the Glengarry 4-H program offered a winter club for senior members called the Glengarry Financial Management Club. 4-H agricultural and homemaking members were allowed to join. A regional 4-H financial management competition was held at Alfred College April 9 and Janis Pasco placed second in the competition. Janis received $100 worth of silver wafers for her efforts and the Farm Credit Corporation donated her plaque, presented by Lyle Howes.

The Lancaster Legion, Branch 544, makes available the Claude Nunney Memorial Award to the 4-H member with the champion 4-H Ayrshire calf at County Achievement Day. The member receiving this award was Allistair Cumming. It was presented by Janet MacCrimmon.

The C.N.E. Shield is awarded to the novice with high aggregate score at the County Judging Competition. Kathy Simpson made the presentation to Claire Carriere.

The R.S. Wightman Trophy and Award are presented to the contestant with the highest aggregate score in the senior division of the County Judging Competition. Clifford Wightman presented his father's award to Warren MacIntosh.

Donald Thomson made the presentations of plaques and year plates to the members from Kenyon Township as follows. Plaques: Carl MacIntosh and Shawn MacLeod. Plates: Anna and Willie Akkermans, Thomas Bill, Jennifer Gowland, Dean and Warren MacIntosh, Mary MacMaster, Ian Vallance and Paul Villeneuve.

The Charles Osborne Club Trophy goes to the club which had the most member participation at club and county activities during 1983. The award is based on the club completion rate as well as meeting and judging day attendance by the club as a whole. The first winner was the Charlottenburgh Junior Calf Club. This club had 100 per cent attendance at judging day, 95 per cent meeting attendance and an 88 per cent completion rate.

The Grand Champion Dairy Showman at County Achievement Day receives the Lions' Club of Alexandria Trophy and Award. Dairy Princess Karen Kennedy presented this award to Warren McIntosh.

The Glengarry Leaders' Association Awards are presented to the members who have achieved the highest points in their respective clubs. Members are allotted points on the basis of their performance throughout the 4-H year. Winners were Allison Pasco, Charlottenburgh Junior Calf Club; Suzanne Dorie, Lancaster Junior Calf Club; Kevin MacGillivray, Lochiel Junior Calf Club; Anna Akkermans and Warren MacIntosh, Glengarry Senior Calf Club; Cindy Page, Glengarry Beef Club; Audrey MacDonald, Glengarry Financial Management Club; Allison Pasco, Glengarry Sheep Club; Carl MacIntosh, Glengarry Tractor Club; Dean MacIntosh, Glengarry Maple Syrup Club; Jacques Jeaurond, Glen Robertson Community Club; Stephanie Eamer, Glengarry Horse Club and Kelly Olson, Glengarry Swine Club.

The George Croll Citizenship Trophy and Award is presented annually to the outstanding all-around 4-H member. This is awarded on the basis of at least four years successful 4-H club work, total club participation, citizenship, leadership abilities and proficiency in the club project completions. This award may be won only once by a 4-H agricultural club member. The members considered for this award were Tommy Pasco, Anna Akkermans, Fiona MacDonell and Paul Villeneuve. The winner was Anna Akkermans.

The Ottawa Citizen provides an award of $300 to the 4-H Agricultural Program based on at least five years participation in the program and is to be used to further education beyond the high school level, or towards the purchase of a purebred calf, horse or gilt of the breed of the winner's choice. The winner is selected on the basis of active participation in 4-H activities, project completions and demonstrated ability. The members considered for this award were Anna Akkermans, Warren MacIntosh, Audrey MacDonald, Stephanie Eamer, Tommy Pasco and Ian Vallance. The two winners, Warren and Stephanie, will share the award, each receiving $150.

FIRST NAME ON NEW SHIELD—To cap his 20 year's service as a 4-H leader, Charles Osborne, left rear, donated a new Master Club Shield to be donated each year to the outstanding Club. Winners, the Charlottenburgh Calf Club were: Allison and Heather Pasco, Scott Moffat, Jennifer MacLachlan and Stewart Robertson. Club leaders: Doug Sova and Jos Krol are at rear.

YOU ARE INVITED TO SHARE YOUR THOUGHTS ON RURAL ONTARIO TO THE

TASK FORCE ON RURAL MUNICIPALITIES

Alexandria Council Chamber
Wednesday, December 7, 1983
from 9:00 a.m. on

ALL CITIZENS WELCOME

The Task Force was announced on Feb. 9, 1983, by David Peterson, Opposition Leader, in recognition of the fact that many communities in Rural Ontario are faced with acute problems as a result of the recession, shifting demographics, a weakening agricultural base, and limited municipal grants. Hearings around the province began in June.

Tree planting being considered

by Paul Poirier

Some 31 members responsible for the preparations of next year's centennial celebrations met on November 23 to report on the progress of the various sub-committees.

Carol Baxter, chairman of capital projects, reported on the Centennial Ball on January 21 with all its regalia.

A pine tree planting project is being considered, with the provincial government donating 100 small white pine trees. These trees can reach 40 feet and will require a sizeable piece of property.

The first order of the Centennial coin is expected to be available by December 19 and might well be the best suggestion for last minute Christmas gifts.

Cathy Depratto, chairman of arts and culture, reported on the centennial choir directed by Robert Miron. The next rehearsal will be on December 7 at Ecole Elda Rouleau and the group needs more male voices. A publicity campaign is being launched that will have a contest for a centennial theme song. A member of the committee will be putting together a memorabilia collection with pictures of the past.

Annette Rozon, chairman of interfaith, reported preparations were complete for an ecumenical service at the cathedral on January 22, bringing together the three local churches. The centennial choir, with its 50 male and female voices, is sure to add a touch of togetherness at this service.

From the public relations committee, Paul Poirier reported on the good co-operation received from both The Glengarry News and Le Point for space provided for news releases on the program of centennial year events.

The committee made an open invitation to groups, individuals or businessmen to promote and sell souvenir items, subject to certain conditions.

A motion was carried that will have the queen of the Richelieu Carnival to be also named queen of the Centennial Year. She will preside over all centennial activities.

Michel Depratto, Homecoming Week Co-chairman, reported on the 10 consecutive days of celebrations from June 22 to July 2 that will include everything from banquets to parades, park activities, a giant picnic, sport activities, brunch and even a night shirt parade and dance. Some conservative estimates are that 30,000 to 40,000 people might well drop in on us during those celebrations.

MacCulloch dancers in telethon

The MacCulloch Dancers will travel to Montreal this weekend to participate in the CFCF 7th annual Telethon of Stars. The dancers who perform traditional dances of Scotland and Canadian step-dancing have performed in this telethon since its beginning in 1977 after being selected from auditions held in the CFCF TV studio, under the direction of Vancouver producer Rae Purdy.

This year the dancers will make two appearances on Sunday, December 4, approximate times 9:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. They will be accompanied by Accordianist Rob Taylor of the Brigadoons, his son Bud on bass and two members of the Glengarry Pipe Band, Andy Buchan and John Casselman.

All donations raised by the Telethon of Stars are used for research into children's diseases. There are only two research centres in the Province of Quebec concerned specifically with diseases affecting children; one at the Montreal Children's Hospital and the other at L'Hopital Ste. Justine. Telethon funds now provide one-third of the total research funds used by the two hospitals.

In the first six years of the telethon, viewer contributions have reached over eight million, which makes it one of the largest single market telethons in North America.

CFCF TV 12 will be broadcasting the Telethon of Stars live from the Exhibition Hall of the Palais de Congres, Montreal's impressive new convention centre in the heart of the city with modern facilities large enough to accommodate the thousands who come to watch the show.

Lillian Howes tops Bowlers League

Lillian Howes stole the spotlight in the Happy Bowlers League last week.

Howes was the top woman bowler, rolling the high single, high triple and the high average. Her respective scores were 304, 734 and 214.

John MacLeod had the best scores among the men bowlers. He bowled a 675 for the high triple and had the high average with a 220.

Carmin Howes had the high single with a 286 score.

Both the women and men bowlers are deadlocked with 39 points.

SISTER ANNE McGILLIS

Sister honored

A family birthday party was held at the Notre Dame Convent in Kingston on Wednesday, November 9 when family members and Sisters of Notre Dame assembled to honor Sister Anne McGillis on her 100th birthday.

Sister McGillis was born at Williamstown on November 9, 1883, a daughter of the late John B. McGillis and Sarah McDonell. She was educated at the local schools, completing her high school year at the Notre Dame Convent in Kingston. She then attended Model School and taught in her local school. In 1910 she attended Normal School in Ottawa followed by teaching in the Cornwall area.

In January 1913, Sister entered the order of Sisters of Notre Dame at Montreal and took the name of Sister Agatha of Martyr. She continued to follow the teaching profession at the different Notre Dame Convent schools throughout Ontario. She also continued studying during the summers at Queen's University where she obtained her B.A. degree in 1929. Later she obtained a specialist's certificate in vocal music and art. After retiring from formal teaching, she started a private kindergarten class in Toronto which she taught for nine years. In 1973, she retired to their Senior Sisters Convent, Kingston. Here she became very active in art classes. Many of her friends have received beautiful pictures painted by her.

One this occasion, Sister's only nieces and nephews, Mrs. John D.A. Macdonald, Glen Nevis; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Doherty, Baie d'Urfe; Mr. and Mrs. John C. McDonald, Cornwall; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McDonald, Williamstown, were present. She also has 13 grandnieces and nephews and 18 great grandnieces and nephews.

This milestone in Sister's life was marked with plaques and messages from Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister Trudeau, Brian Mulroney, Flora MacDonald, MP, the manor of Kingston, J.R. Causley, S.T.O., Queen's University, St. Mary's Parish, Williamstown, His Excellency Bishop LaRocque as well as many cards from friends far and near.

To bring the celebrations to a close, the Sisters served tea and birthday cake to the invited guests.

Fined for impaired

A 41-year-old Alexandria resident pleaded guilty in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday to a charge of driving while over the legal limit of 80 milligrams of alcohol.

Daniel Lavigne, of 31 St. James St., was fined $333 and had his driving privileges suspended for three months.

The accused was stopped November 17 by Maxville OPP on Highway 43, west of Alexandria.

Judge Reginald Levesque lectured the accused on the dangers of impaired driving, adding that 40 per cent of traffic accidents in Canada are caused by drunk drivers.

He gave the man six months to pay the fine.

EVEN BEES LIKE SUNNY DAYS—It was a bright sunny day and when Don MacPhee lifted the top of a hive, the bees were not long rising to the top and venturing forth.
Staff photo Anna M. MacDonald

Producing the best of honey

by Anna M. MacDonald

For three years now, Don MacPhee's honey has taken top awards at the Royal Winter Fair.

The apiarist has just won first prize for liquid golden honey at the Royal Winter Fair with a score of 100, first prize for liquid dark with a score of 99.5 and second place for liquid white honey.

He was champion in the liquid category other than white and reserve champion in liquid honey as well as reserve grand champion exhibitor.

The RR2 Alexandria man did not have sufficient honey for competition in 1982 but in 1981 and 1980 he was champion exhibitor.

It is less than 10 years however, since MacPhee entered the honey world.

But for someone who started beekeeping as a hobby less than 10 years ago, he has mastered the art well.

Born and raised on the old family farm on Glen Robertson Road, east of Alexandria at the well-known MacPhee's Bridge, Don was living in Toronto when he started reading about bees and "found them fascinating."

When he returned to the farm in 1974, he decided now was the time to discover if bees were as fascinating as he thought. He has not been disappointed.

Don has about 50 hives which is more of a hobby scale than commercial, although he does produce honey for sale.

How does one get into the business? Well, just buy bees and equipment from a supplier and take it from there.

It helps, of course, if you have an experienced beekeeper up the road a bit who is willing to lend a bit of advice on the topic.

Explains Don: "I went over to see Maxime Lalonde and he's been in the business so long, he is quite an authority. He's the kind of fellow who is always willing to help out a neighbor and I learned a lot from him."

"Another beekeeper who really gave me a lot of pointers is Marcel Levac. He even advised me on my exhibit when I was preparing it for the Toronto Fair and any time we get together, I find he is very generous with his time to check color or instruments for moisture and the like," credits MacPhee.

Is beekeeping an area anyone could get into?

Not everyone, the prizewinner conjectures: "Bees seem to detect apprehension and go after their target. Then a fellow has to be willing to risk a few stings. Some people might be allergic and others just don't want to be around them at all."

The kind of honey produced depends on the area where the apiary is situated. Don has his set-up on the banks of the Delisle River near his home and there is usually an ample supply of clover around, as well as buckwheat and fruit trees.

Sometimes an apple orchard owner will ask for some boxes to be set up in his orchard. It is good for pollination.

Honey at the Royal Winter Fair is judged in liquid, granulated, comb and cut comb, beeswax and chunk.

There are several points considered. Liquid honey is graded on appearance and uniformity of containers, uniform level of fill, color, freedom from crystals, freedom from air bubbles either in suspension or as a froth, uniformity, brightness, flavor, aroma and density.

If even the glass containers have an air bubble it makes a difference so the exhibit has to be very carefully prepared.

For this apiarist, however, effort has paid off. He has the satisfaction of knowing his honey ranks right up there with the best exhibited in Canada.

Dunvegan by Betty Kennedy

This week there seems to be a shortage of comings and goings. It's a good time to share a clipping my daughter-in-law sent me several years ago thinking I would enjoy it. I did. It is from "The Saskatchewan Senior."

A SMALL TOWN IS WHERE

A little town is where you don't have to guess who your enemies are:
Your friends will tell you.
A little town is where everybody knows everybody else's car by sight and also where and when it goes.
A little town is where few people can get away with lying about the year they were born.
Too many other people can remember.
A little town is where people with various ailments can air them
Properly to sympathetic ears.
A little town is where the ratio of good people to bad people is like 100 to 1. That's nice to remember.
A little town is where when you get the wrong number, you can talk for 15 minutes anyhow.
A little town is where it is hard for anybody to walk to work for exercise because it takes too long to stop and explain to people in cars who stop, honk and offer a ride.
A little town is where city folks say there is nothing to do but those who live there don't have enough nights in the week to Make all the meetings and social functions.
A little town is where everyone becomes a neighbor in time of need.
A little town is where business men struggle for survival against city stores and shopping centres.
A little town is where those same business men dig deep many times to help with countless fund-raising projects.
A little town is where it's nice to be when raising a family.
A little town is where you don't have to lock your door every night you leave the house.
A little town is where many teenagers say there's nothing to do—and then are surprised to learn that their big-city peers are saying the same thing.
A little town, when all is said and done, is a nice place to live.
