Attendance returning to normal after colds keep kids home

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Glengarry students are returning to school after hundreds of them fell sick over the past few weeks with flu-like symptoms.

''We're almost back to normal — not quite — but our absentee numbers are down,'' said Stephen Blasko, the principal of Glengarry District High School.

Normally there are about 25 absentees a day at GDHS. But in the first week of December, about 100 GDHS students and another 128 from ESRG, fell sick displaying symptoms resembling that of the flu: sore throat, cough, fever, sore muscles and malaise.

The number of sick students comprised about 20 per cent of the school's entire student body.

Char-Lan High District High School Principal Brian Gilmour said 36 students were absent during that time, about three times the normal number.

He added that sales of throat lozenges tripled at the school's cafeteria.

Elementary schools were hit too.

Last week there were 45 to 50 out of 200 students at St. Jospeh School in Alexandria absent.

Medical rooms at some schools had up to six students at a time.

Even some teachers and staff members had to take a few days off.

But recovery seemed to have come quickly for many. The absentee figure at GDHS dropped to 44 on Monday, Dec. 9. St. Jospeh's had less than 14 absent students last week.

The fact that many people have recovered quickly has some medical officials at the Eastern Ontario Health Unit doubting that there was a flu epidemic.

Mel McGuire, who looks after vaccines for preventable diseases at EOHU, said people suffering from the flu often need more than a week to recover.

But she said most of those who fell sick last week have recovered in less than a week, meaning that the epidemic may have been a bad cold.

She said three Cornwall area students passed a blood test to determine which virus was responsible for last week's out-break of flu-like symptoms.

EOHU Communication Officer Deborah Sanborn said people should not jump to conclusions when suffering from flu-like symptoms.

''When we say flu, we mean influenza. And influenza is a specific virus,'' she said.

She said institutions in the United Counties, Precott and Russell are surveyed from November to April to trace and identify viruses that cause such illnesses.

Sanborn said such waves of sick students occur every year around this time.

She said the recent outbreak affected about 25 per cent of all students in the five counties.

McGuire said the unstable weather of late fall and early winter help cause cold epidemics.

''When the temperature fluctuates like this, people overdress or underdress,'' McGuire said.

She added that people in schools are especially prone to viruses and germs that cause colds because school corridors are often crowded and closed in.

Meanwhile, the apparent epidemic is still forcing some students to stay home.

''The flu still persists,'' Gilmour said. ''We're a little better, but I don't think it's over,'' he said adding that 34 students were absent on Monday, Dec. 9.

''I see that we got a girl in the medical room right now.''

Finch lawyer elected to chair public board

Cindy Martin-Hrycak wants to 'show the flag'

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

Newly-elected SD&G County Public School Board Chairwoman Cindy Martin-Hrycak is a ''90s'' woman.

Only the second woman elected to head the board in 22 years, the 36-year-old Finch area lawyer represents the new baby-boomer take-charge generation.

A veteran trustee since 1988, Martin-Hrycak's work both on school board committees and as a lawyer for Brockville Children's Aid, has bred a deep concern for the welfare of the young.

After practising law for eight years in Finch out of the old Presbyterian Manse she shares with her husband John, and their children Luke 9, Jacob 7, and Kateryna 5 — Martin-Hrycak got her real baptism of fire as a Children's Aid lawyer.

''I worked on those cases of child sexual abuse discovered in the Prescott area,'' she revealed in an interview. ''It was sad and harrowing.''

Growing out of this experience and service on the school board Family Violence Committee, Martin-Hrycak (pronounced Ree-Kak) sits on the board of Baldwin House, a haven for abused women and children in Cornwall.

She is also on the board of a treatment program being set up to provide therapy for victims of sexual abuse — a program born after provincial funding for a similar treatment was cancelled.

She was elected to school board in 1988 after an abortive attempt by her parents committee to save the local elementary school from being moved three miles down the road to Berwick.

''I discovered if you are going to bitch and complain about something you feel is wrong in the community — you'd better be prepared to put your body on the line,'' she laughed. ''That's how I landed on the board.''

She also learned her first year on the board that trustees ''must be much more open to explaining what is going on at the board level to parents and the community.''

Martin-Hrycak plans to be a one-woman-band to improve public relations during her term.

''I'm going to spend three or four days a week on this job,'' she explained. ''I want to attend as many school functions as I can. In these days of cut-backs we have to show the flag to parents and do a great deal more explaining about the realities, the hows and whys, of our educational system.''

She pointed out that ''60 per cent of our tax dollars go into education — our budget for 1990-91 in the United Counties is $86 million.''

She also feels ''it is just impossible to try squeezing more money for education out of local taxpayers — but the province is cutting off funding on one hand and ordering up new programs for us to fund on the other hand.''

Solutions must be found, she says,

through searching with other school boards for more ways to share services — and by careful reviews of all board spending.

Martin-Hrycak who will earn $17,000 salary during her term, has a unique background for her job. Daughter of a Mennonite family, she grew up in the Simcoe area. Through her mother's family she is a cousin (several times removed) of Edgerton Ryerson, founder of the public school system in Ontario, in the late 19th Century.

She got her BA from the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton,

Boudria's poll indicates split here on 'distinct' clause

Local voters are split on the Quebec distinct society clause while they overwhelmingly support free trade within Canada, according to a poll conducted in the federal riding Glengarry-Prescott-Russell by MP Don Boudria.

The poll, which was released on Monday, Dec. 16, shows that 42 per cent of respondents are in favor of having Canada's constitution recognize Quebec as a distinct society while 41 per cent are against.

Despite the split, Boudria said in an interview that more and more Canadians are warming up to the distinct society clause.

The vast majority of respondents, from 80 to 90 per cent, support having two official languages, free circulation of goods and capital within Canada, and an elected Senate.

More than 65 per cent support the elimination of inter-provincial barriers.

Boudria said it's no surprise that people want to do away with 'crazy rules that you can't buy a case of beer in Quebec and bring it into Ontario. It's a terrible irritant.''

He said his voters are in favor of having a strong, centralized Canada.

He said this poll, which contained more than 15 questions, was taken seriously by his electorate.

About 4,000 people were given the questionaire in August, and 485 submitted answered in September.

He said that normally, about 500 out of 40,000 people answer his polls.

Boudria said he will submit the results of his poll to the Constitutional Affairs Committee of Parliament.

Ex-Quebecers causing county school enrolments to swell

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Quebecers moving into Glengarry are causing increases in enrolment at many area schools, says a recent report of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public School Board.

''Families moving into Ontario from Quebec but still working in the Montreal area is generally the trend,'' said Gerald Samson, the board's superintendant of education.

According to the report, published on Dec. 10, enrolment at Laggan elementary school jumped from a low of 167 students in 1985 to 209 this year; Maxville Public School has 321 students, compared to 198 a decade ago.

Glengarry's two high schools show similar increases. Char-Lan District High School's present enrolment of 332 students is an increase of 35 since 1987; in the same period, the Glengarry District High School went from 424 students to 435.

Lancaster couple gets charge out of brightening Christmas

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

For most people, putting up Chistmas decorations is a one-day job. But not for Michel and Lucette Bourdeau.

For the Lancaster area couple, the amount of time to decorate their home is not measured in hours, it is not even measured in days. For the Bourdeaus, Christmas decorating is looked at in a matter of weeks -- about two, to be exact.

It has not always been that way over the 24 years the couple has lived at its home east of Lancaster. But as time went by and decorations welled up — with a matching dose of Christmas spirit — each year's display became more extensive.

The Bourdeaus are at the point now where every year their home is a veritable Christmas wonderland. One only has to drive by their home at night to see.

Strings of lights adorn the home, with an illuminated Santa and his sleigh, pulled by his team of trusty reindeer, out front. An illuminated manger scene sits on the lawn across the driveway in full view of passers by.

But the full fruits of their work are lost if you are just driving by, looking out your car window, because some of the most intense work is inside the home.

One can see just how serious the couple takes Christmas by the number of trees in their living room. Most people settle for just one tree as the focal point for their yuletide festivities — the Bourdeaus have three.

The couple has decorated three trees for the past three years. But this year, the number has special significance. It represents the number of grandchildren they now have.

And not only are the number of trees special. How they are decorated is also unusual.

Each tree is decorated to bring out a soft Christmas hue — red lights and balls on one, blue lights and balls on one, and the third decorated to bring out a warm gold color.

One cannot help but be overwhelmed by numbers. A total of 735 lights ring the Christmas trees. The bulbs outside number in the hundreds if not in the thousands.

Underneath the trees, on a soft, white snowy covering, are countless ceramic figures. There are four lit ceramic churches to represent the four churches in Lancaster, there are numerous little ceramic homes, illuminated from the inside.

There also is a nativity scene made of ceramics, complete with shepherds and camels and three kings.

''It takes a weekend just to do the trees,'' Lucette said. The ceramic Christmas scene takes another day, the most time consuming task, putting all the bulbs in the tiny buildings to light them up.

And at the foot of one tree lies a Christmas railroad with yuletide train which chugs around the track softly playing Christmas tunes, disappearing at one side of the snowy tree base only to come out the other side.

Michel said the annual display is simple a labor of love. ''I love Christmas decorations.''

And it is his love for Christmas decorations which has caused the couple's collection to grow to the size it is at today. If a decoration is new or unusual,it is just too hard to turn down.

''It's always adding up,'' Michel said.

In fact, the decorations are adding up so much that the couple may eventually run out of room to continue expanding their hobby.

''We'll need a house pretty soon to put the decorations away,'' Lucette joked.

The pair try to make their display different each year, constantly adding new twists and doing variations of previous displays. A lot of it simply depends on the mood they are in when they kick off the process.

''It depends on whatever I feel like doing,'' Michel said. ''You have to be in the spirit to do that too.'' said many of the new students he gets every year have moved from Quebec.

"Two familes moved in today," he said Friday adding that those families have one child each who will begin studies at GDHS in February.

This new trend is a reversal. Total enrolment at the S.D.&G. Public School was dropping in the 1980s.

There are 6,885 students enrolled in elementary schools this year, a sharp improvement from a low of 5,804 in 1984.

At high schools, total enrolment dropped from 8,001 in 1981 to 4,884 last year, before climbing back up to 5,194 students this year.

The report also shows a rise in enrolment at the T.R. Leger School For Alternative Studies from a low of 4,902 students in 1989 to 5,194 this year.

"New recent Unemployment Insurance Commission regulations are accounting for a sudden growth in enrolment (at the Alternative School)," the report says.

Decreases in enrolment at schools for the developmentally challenged continues, the report shows.

In 1981, there were a total of 166 students enrolled. This year only 94 enrolled.

The report states that much of the enrolment decrease occurred in 1989 when many students were transferred "en bloc" to the S.D.&G. County Roman Catholic Separate School Board.

and her law degree from the University of Windsor Law School in 1979, when she married and moved to Finch.

"I articled with a Cornwall law firm, then practised law on my own out of our old manse in Finch for eight years — it is close to Ottawa where my husband works for Bell Telephone," she explained.

Last May, after an illness she gave up her law practice "to be a full-time mommy for a while." But when the chance to run for board chairman turned up, Martin-Hrycak confessed "I secretly wanted it very badly and I was just elated to win."

Her challenge will be presiding over a newly-elected board of 18 trustees, seven of them newcomers.

The county board administers 30 elementary schools, 10 secondary schools and one alternative school serving 11,000 students with 740 staff.

Sandra Enns, a Cornwall trustee was the only other woman to chair the board in 1980-81.

Sunday business on the upturn: Merchants

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Glengarry merchants were busier than normal last Sunday and many expect more business next Sunday as procrastinating Christmas shoppers begin to panic.

Stedmans department store in Alexandria had about 30 per cent more customers on Sunday, said store owner Ray Levebvre.

"The (Santa Claus) parade had an effect on that. It got people out," he said.

He expects more people to shop at his store next Sunday, being the last Sunday before Christmas.

Fran Robbers, who owns Kathy's Custom Framing and Gallery in Lancaster village, agrees.

"I think it'll be better because people will be panicking — last pay cheque," she said. "They'll just buy off the wall."

The second Sunday was considerably more quiet.

"It wasn't as brisk as the first Sunday," Lefebvre said.

He said the weather and poor road conditions resulting from last week's snowstorms may have turned many shoppers away.

Similar explanations were given from other merchants all over the county.

But some merchants, especially in Maxvillé, can't explain why their shops were quiet even when the weather was nice.

Cash registers were dead silent at Fjarlie's gift shop in Maxville for the past three Sundays.

"I haven't sold anything," said store owner Merydie Fjarlie, who owns Fjarlie's Gift Shop in Maxville.

She said she has no idea why Sundays have been bad for her.

Danskin's, a clothing shop in Maxville, was also quiet, said store owner Julia Danskin.

Then there are some merchants who don't want to be bothered by Sunday shopping.

Roger Constant, who owns Lucky Dollar in Green Valley, said it's not worthwhile for him to keep his grocery store open on Sunday.

"I have no intention to open. I have enough work to do on weekdays," he said.

"I'm not a Sunday shopper anyway."

He said he used to open on Sundays a few years ago, but hated to see everyone else relaxing while he worked.

Some stores need gimmicks to draw in crowds.

Diane Mercier, an accountant for the Canadian Tire store in Alexandria, said consumers get turned on by anti-GST sales.

She said when the store offered to give twice as much Canadian Tire coupons two Sundays ago, reaction was weak.

Normally, Canadian Tire gives shopper coupons equivalent to four percent of the price.

But more people went shopping last Sunday when they were offered coupons equivalent to the amount spent on GST. That is, if five dollars was spent on GST, shoppers got five dollars in coupons, plus the normal four percent.

"As soon as you say GST, people will react," Mercier said.

Area residents supporting supply management system

A total of 1,900 constituents in the riding of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell have signed petitions showing support for supply management for farming.

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria has tabled petitions supporting supply management signed by 1,200 constituents in the past three weeks.

On Thursday, he presented petitions signed by 700 constituents to Parliament supporting supply management for farming, bringing the total number to 1,900.

Farmers across the country are concerned that recent negotiations involving the General Agreement on Tarriffs and Trade could spell the end of supply- managed farming in Canada, putting many farmers out of business.

Boudria said, while presenting the latest petitions in Parliament, that his constituents are showing the same concern.

"These constituents are very worried about the GATT negotiations. They humbly pray and call upon Parliament to urge the government to protect our supply management systems during these negotiations."

Critics of supply management say the system artificially drives up food prices for consumers. Farm groups maintain that food prices would rise and many farmers would go out of business if supply management is abolished.

Court report

The following are among the cases heard by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria Provincial Court on Thursday, Dec. 12.

Man found guilty of impaired driving

A 30-year-old Cornwall man has been sentenced to 14 days in jail after being found guilty of impaired driving, his second such conviction.

George Rocheleau was found guilty of drunk driving despite a challenge by defence attorney H. H. Sherwood that his client's arrest represented an abuse of the police's powers to halt traffic on roads.

Rocheleau was stopped as part of a Lancaster OPP R.I.D.E. program.

Judge Rommel Masse rejected that claim, saying the checkstop program was legitimately within the scope of the duties of police to make the roads safe from dangers such as impaired driving.

Masse also prohibited Rocheleau from driving for the next 18 months.

Hefty smuggling fine

A St-Regis, Que. man has been fined $5,725 after being arrested near Lancaster for transporting 500 cartons of contraband cigarettes.

David J. Terrance, 36, was first spotted by border authorities who suspected he was carrying smuggled cigarettes in the vehicle he was driving.

Due to the size of the fine and the fact that Terrance is currently unemployed, the court allowed a two-year time period for payment.

Community service for youth

A 17-year-old Glengarry youth has been ordered to perform 100 hours of community service and been fined $150 after a drinking and driving accident.

The youth was returning from a party where he had consumed alcohol when he became involved in an accident. The car was severely damaged and several persons, including the youth, were injured.

Judge Rommel Masse also ordered the youth to abstain from alcohol for a one-year period. He added that he hoped the youth had learned a lesson about alcohol and would moderate his drinking in the future.

Private licence issuers assured of jobs

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A task force aimed at creating a new provincial road safety agency is not planning to eliminate the jobs of private vehicle licence issuers, according to the body's project manager.

Blake Forrest of the recently created road safety task force Thursday, dismissed rumors that the task force wants to eliminate the jobs of private issuers by having insurance companies issue vehicle licences.

Quoting Ontario Transporation Minister Gilles Pouliot, Forrest said it is "business as usual" for the province's private vehicle licence issuers. But Forrest did not dismiss the possibility of changes in the future.

Creating a system in which drivers can acquire everything they need at one place to get a vehicle on the road is something the government still considers attractive.

"I think the issue of one-stop shopping (for motorists) is an issue that will continue to be discussed by the government."

The Ontario Motor Vehicle Licence Issuers Association says that since the advent of the province's decision to reorganize auto insurance, the role of licence has been placed in jeopardy."

"We have information which proves that our network could be put out of business. We want to know what our future role will be and whether we will continue to be part of their plan," the association says in a Nov. 20 release.

If the government were to pass the job of vehicle licencing over to insurance companies, it would mean 290 private issuers including one in Alexandria operated by Monique Seguin, with a staff of 1,500 across the province, would be out of jobs.

Seguin declined to comment on the issue when reached by The News last week.

And unlike government workers, private issuers receive no pension to rely on if they are out of a job. They also have no equity in their business to sell.

"We have nothing to walk away with," said Marilyn Wilson, president of the Ontario Motor Vehicle Licence Issuers Association.

The association says that the government has requested the Insurance Bureau of Canada submit a proposal outlining how it could take over vehicle licencing transactions, which would see the entire vehicle data base turned over to insurance companies.

The association argues that turning over vehicle licencing to insurance companies will decrease the level of service and increase costs considerably.

It says private issuers are the most cost-effective way to provide the service because they are paid on a commission basis and pay all their own overhead except for computer maintenance.

But MTC officials have no quick system to ensure drivers are still insured. If drivers have their insurance cancelled after purchasing their licence sticker, the MTC has no way of knowing, Forrest said.

Forrest said that through the task force, the government hopes to create better links between MTC offices and insurance so that information can be easily accessed by both parties.

It is something which the task force would like to see come to fruition.

"We think the concept is good," Forrest said.

Wilson said while she originally was concerned about the task force's plans, she now believes the government is sincere in its promise to keep private issuers in business.

"I think we've fought a good battle and I think they are going to keep us in business."

But she added, the promises do not mean private issuers' jobs are 100 per cent secure.

"There's no guarantees and governments can change their minds," she said.

In the meantime, she is urging private issuers across the province to "hang tight".

Police offer holiday tips

Police are asking the public to take simple precautionary steps to avoid turning this festive season into a horrifying memory.

People leaving home for a trip to warmer climes or to be with family should notify neighbors and leave a house key with them.

A vacant house should look "lived-in" by having a neighbor empty the mail box, clear snow from the driveway, and have a neighbor's car parked there.

Avoid leaving any valuables, such as gifts, inside a car. Thieves work overtime during Christmas looking for cars to burglarize.

Also, unlocked cars drastically increase the chance of thefts.

And remember, the Ontario Provincial Police's RIDE program of setting up road checks to stop impaired drivers will continue until the first week of January, 1992.

Card holders have influence

There is a great deal of noise being made in consumer and opposition quarters about the high interest rates credit card holders are paying on their personal debts. All blame the banks and the government, but none of them seem to be willing to accept the role of one very big factor: the card holders themselves.

Personal indebtedness in Canada has risen an average of 46 per cent, even with inflation taken into consideration, in the last 10 years. This has contributed to the country's economic weakness, as people struggle to pay off the debts they built up when ownership of possessions took priority over savings.

At the same time, particularly while interest rates on consumer and other loans have fallen, major banks and trust companies are charging nearly 20 per cent interest compared to a prime lending rate of only 8.5 per cent. Department stores that offer their own credit cards charge up to 30 per cent interest.

So it is no secret that the banks are taking advantage of Canadians' thirst for credit. The facts are there for anyone who wants to see them.

Yet, there is a paradox of sorts here, one in which critics of this credit controversy do not seem willing to acknowledge. The high credit card rates theoretically should be causing more people to reduce their card balances and resist continuing to use them. Some economists have speculated that this is one more reason why retailers are living through an abysmal Christmas, apart from the taxes, cross-border shopping and of course consumer insecurity brought on by the recession.

Yet at some point, personal indebtedness has to be arrested. High interest on credit cards, while obviously benefitting the banks, may have to be one of the bitter pills Canadian card holders have to swallow to incite a shift in habits that are harmful in the long run to themselves and the economy in general. And spenders do have alternatives: they can cut up their cards or take out consumer loans at much lower interest rates to pay off their card balances.

Critics, though, are reluctant to acknowledge these options, or even that Canadians themselves have to take responsibility for their own actions. The other factor is that in a free market economy — one that emerging democracies in the new Soviet commonwealth are struggling to emulate — business profits from revenue the market will bear. The banks will lower card rates when they are targetted by a public outcry, or when card use drops. But if there is a buck to be made while public opposition is restricted to advocacy groups and politicians, action is likely slow to come.

The government is right in allowing the market to drive credit card rates. It is the people — the card holders — who must make the next move to influence the banks who are supposed to serve them.

Spirit of giving is alive and well

It is too easy in bleak times like these to overlook all of the positive things going on around us, especially as they relate to Christmas. And it is just as easy to take them for granted.

Continuing economic bad news in this immediate area has cast a pall over the holidays for many people. Their hopes and wishes have either been put on hold, or have been dashed beyond the point of return. This is no longer only a fact of life for the chronic unemployable. It is true of everybody's friends and neighbors.

This is why the personal selflessness shown by those initiating, promoting and carrying out acts of kindness is even more remarkable than usual. They are responding to a call for help, one that's silent, yet understood, one that is louder than during any previous time of economic hardship.

For instance, the result of the Alexandria Lions Club call for a doubled demand for Christmas food and gift relief has been answered by virtually all sectors of the Glengarry community. Donors are adding extra food to their donation bags, yes, but the volunteers, from the school children bringing bags of non-perishable food to church congregations and "white gift" Sundays, to private donations of money, used toys, and clothing, are proof that more people are willing to give more time, when that commodity seems increasingly under pressure, too. As well, retail businesses, themselves victims of hard economic times, pledged goods to spur food collecting from high school students.

While this effort is stealing most of the "giving" limelight, credit must also go to those who have livened up the spirit of the season: the hundreds of volunteers in clubs and groups who have organized the four Santa Claus parades in the county, the Christmas parties and the countless other activities held.

The spirit of giving is much more alive and well in the county these days, and that's something every donor can be proud of. Perhaps it is the hardship of others which induced it, perhaps it is a realization by the privileged that the gift of relative wealth they have is one that needs to be shared.

Whatever the reason, it's a spirit that shines through during a harsh time that badly needs it.

Food for thought — and diets

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

Food. Can't live without it, and these days, nobody wants to live with it.

Healthy lifestyles and guilty consciences dictate that we can no longer overeat. Magazine articles scare us off items that were at one time considered staples. Vegetarianism has even replaced the standard fare on the rubber chicken circuit.

But at this time of year, with visions of sugarplums (too much glucose) dancing in our heads, it's an easy time to revert to the simpler rules of dieting, and that is, to eat whatever is on any coffee or dining table, in any roasting pan or sitting in any refrigerator.

In our house, the Christmas candies are already sitting out in dishes. We have some of those fudgie candies, you know the yellow and pink ones that are so sweet, they seem to be nothing more than painted sugar cubes. And there are those foil-wrapped chocolate sponge toffee balls. All are kept out of reach (for now) of little hands more than willing to make the sweet trays far more than ornaments.

The refrigerator hasn't taken on the holiday look yet. There's still some shelf space left in the back, back where the Realemon and the half-eaten can of peaches live. Undoubtedly, as we approach the Big Day, however, it will be crammed (for at least a day or two) with the stuff of which Christmas dinners are made, namely two or three cans of cranberry sauce, about 20 different kinds of pickles, a can or two of tomato juice, jellied somethings with white cream on top of them and, eventually, the turkey. The breadbox will groan with snack foods from chips to cheesies to some things that look like miniature plastic frisbees (maybe that's breakfast cereal).

As unhealthy as a lot of it is, it all is part of it, the celebration I mean, more I suppose because it seemed pretty much what we had in our house when I was a kid. Christmas doesn't mean having food, of course. But it is staggering, when one thinks about it, what a big part it does play in marking the season.

Groups trying to make us eat better for our own good, however, have an uphill battle in making "lighter" holiday fares more appetizing. Try offering dad a carrot stick in lieu of a pretzel; see what happens when sis is tempted with a stem of broccoli instead of an almond swirl out of the Black Magic box.

But the good folks at the Heart and Stroke Foundation have managed to do it, and by golly, I'm impressed. The "Holiday Media Kit" dropped off by Hector Levert of Martintown, I've got to admit, provides food for thought from continuing the no-cholesterol barred holiday binging to, yes, apple Streusel pie, skewered tortellini and by golly, 'My Mother's Scalloped Potatoes," which, coincidentally, are just the way my mother makes them.

The kit doesn't just offer up food ideas, though. It answers questions like: "How can I enjoy parties and dinners with friends and family without appearing to be the 'Nutrition Grinch'" or "How can I encourage my children to eat healthy foods during the holidays and stay away from junk food (a feat, I may add, rivals bungie jumping from a jet in terms of ease) and, "How can I eat healthy at a restaurant when I eat out during the holidays?"

There's even a recipe for a roast turkey, fat-reduced, of course.

It's all very inspiring information, but I don't know if it or other kits are going to spur an overnight storm to fat-free consumption over the Christmas holidays. There's a lot of tradition connected with overeating, like falling asleep on the couch after Christmas dinner or accepting yet another Nanaimo bar from grandma who insists this "is the holidays and you have to eat."

Besides, what would there be left to resolve come New Year's Day?

Putting polls in perspective

News to me

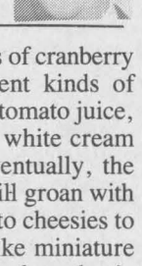
Greg Kielec



It seems every day we're being inundated with polls on issues ranging from the mundane to the downright serious.

There are polls on how much we eat out, polls on how often we have sex, polls on what we like, polls on what we don't like. There are polls on who is popular and polls on who is unpopular.

But just how seriously can we take all these supposable tallies on issues important to mankind as we know it today? And what, if anything, do they accomplish?

It seems that with the present federal government, the only polls they are really concerning with are the polls that show the dismal approval rating it holds with the electorate across Canada.

Poll results are hotly contested by leaders of the parties found at the bottom of the popularity pile. They are hailed as the greatest thing since sliced bread by those at the top of the heap.

Polls are secretly commissioned by governments who want documentation to support an approach they favor. If the results do not support the government views, they are unceremoniously shelved and those involved sworn to secrecy.

Probably the scariest things for politicians is that extensive use of polls to decide contentious issues could make their jobs almost redundant.

Polls, provided their results were acted upon, would take the decision-making process out of the hands of politicians and place it in the hands of the electorate.

It is something which likely gives many politicians nightmares. But it has not scared Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria.

Forging his way into uncharted territory, at least where the recent Canadian political scene is concerned, Boudria has been taking polls to determine the viewpoint of his electorate on a variety of issues.

It is a novel idea, at least where the federal Tories are concerned. But hopefully, maybe some of Boudria's zest for listening to voters concern will rub off on the Mulroney hierarchy.

But don't hold your breath while waiting.

Boudria's most recent poll addresses a number of federal issues, including whether Quebec should be recognized as a distinct society and whether interprovincial trade barriers should be removed.

The poll came up with a number of interesting results, including figures indicating the riding is split on the question of whether Quebec should be granted distinct society status.

It also indicates that 80 to 90 per cent of respondents support having two official languages, favor the free circulation of goods and capital in Canada and would like an elected Senate.

Boudria will be presenting to the Parliament's Constutional Affairs Committee the results, which are available for everyone to see.

But noting the government's almost egregious aversion to polls when it comes to the political decision-making process, it is unlikely any of the results will be acted upon unless they are already part of the government's planned agenda.

Maybe the next poll Boudria plans should match issues voters want addressed with the potential popularity increase — broken down in percentages — for the government for each issue if it is dealt with.

It may not be the most ethical way of getting things accomplished in this country. But from our ruling party's record, it appears it may be one of the few ways — if not the only way — the voters' will be done.

Reader attacked for criticizing supply management

Letters

To the editor,

This is in response to Mr. Stan Body's attack on the dairy supply management system (Nov. 4, 1991, Glengarry News.)

Before attacking a system he obviously knows little about, a little research on his part would have revealed some interesting facts.

First of all, Mr. Body completely overlooks the margins taken by processors, distributors and retailers. For example, according to Statistics Canada, between 1980-1990 the price the farmer received from a litre of 2 per cent milk increased 19¢, whereas, the retail price jumped 73¢. In 1980, the difference in price between the farmgate and the store shelf was only 37¢. By 1990, the middleman's margin escalated to 91¢.

Secondly, the accusation that supply management supports inefficiency is false. The real inefficiency lies within the dairy processing industry. An independent study, conducted by Price Waterhouse, which compared the Canadian and United States dairy processing industries points this out. The study reveals that compared to the U.S., Canadian processors are slow to react to consumer demand; the plants are under-utilized and employee productivity is low.

Thirdly, supply management does not burden the taxpayer with the costs

Churches restored

In the Glens

Angus McDonell

In our introduction here last issue relative to the St. Catherine of Sienna Church, Greenfield, restoration program to coincide with the parish, 1944 Centennial, we conclude with a brief resumé of what has been accomplished and the balance of the project, adding Greenfield's parish contribution to the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

Sportsmen and athletes have played a major role in the social life of the parish from day one. And that specific date is Sept. 4, 1885 when pastor "Father Ranald" MacDonald held a monster fundraising picnic in the grove beside the church. Among the many features of the program was a lacrosse match.

At the turn of the century a noted parishioner, "A. K." MacDonald was among Glengarry's stalwart track and field athletes following in the wake of his next-of-kin, the older "MacIsaacs" and the "Baldies" (MacDonalds) and "Big Rory" McLennan.

Johnny McIntosh (Dr. Dunc's brother) carried lacrosse honors with Alexandria, 1913, champions. World War One halted lacrosse and hockey play but there was a revival following Armistice, 1919, when Greenfield's Parish fielded the only organized baseball team in the Glen's sport history. Their ball diamond was the present Kenyon Township garage site.

Father C. F. Gauthier became the parish priest in 1922. He was the spark in 1924 that ignited the football game; lacrosse was no more. Ably assisted by Allan (Archie John) McDonald, Frank Lavogue and Rob McMillan; Greenfield became an expansion club in the Glengarry Football League.

The aging athletes of that post war era demonstrated the true fraternity of sportsmanship by erecting an honor roll of relatives and friends who paid the supreme sacrifice in the 1914-18 battles. Veteran Ernie (Archie John) McDonald fittingly dressed in uniform and medals conducted the church ceremony, June 1919.

That was all of 70 years ago, and the succeeding generations have carried on that noble heritage with pride guided with leadership by pastors Father M. J. O'Brien in the earlyy 40s and Father Bernard Cameron during his tenure in the early 60s with the installation of floodlights and field bleachers.

Their efforts have been recognized and recorded for posterity with the following enshrinement in the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame of Father C. F. Gauthier, A. K. MacDonald, Alex (Angus John) Macdonell, Gerald McDonald and "Little Alex" MacDonald.

This lengthy restoration project is well advanced, however, much more is scheduled to meet the objective of pastor Msgr. Lebrun and his parish committee.

The sanctuary floor has been recarpeted; the entire interior, including the chapel, has been repainted with colors blending giving a restful sight. One of the three altars, an original donation by founding parishioner Dan J. McPherson, has been restored and replaced in the sanctuary. In addition the statues of the Blessed Virgin Mary and of Saint Catherine of Siena have been restored — the former a donation by the Religious Hospitallers of St. Joseph, Cornwall.

The Way of the Cross stations have been refurbished by the skilled brush of parishioner Kowalski as well as the Baptismal font. Included are several gifts a new sanctuary lamp and marble stand by the co-cathedral Nativity of Cornwall and a new tabernacle has been installed a gift from the Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

Among the major items to be completed are: varnishing the wooden panelling of the sanctuary, the wooden pews, new church doors and repainting the roof with metallic paint.

Also required is a new processional cross, new sacred vessels — especially a new chalice, carpeting the sacristy (winter chapel), a crucifix for the sacristy wall, a new presidential chair for the mass celebrant and also recommended is the purchase of a larger organ with

Let's make some common sense changes

To the editor:

This letter is in regards to a letter printed in your letters column in the Dec. 4 issue titled: "Open letter to Canadian consumers."

As consumers we do eat, buy many products, use many services but unfortunately we waste an incredible amount of time convincing each other that somehow Canadian industry has it all wrong. Our country is one tenth the size both in population and economy of the United States. Yet we expect to live the same standard of living. Not only do we expect to pay the same prices for consumer goods as in the U.S., but also expect all the social programs at the same time. As different levels of government wrestle with the budgets of the programs, they find it next to impossible to reduce the cost without having organized protest in the streets.

The idea that free trade with the U.S. should mean that Canadian society must lower itself to the level of per capita poverty, crime and access to quality health care based on income levels can only be expected from a dog-eat-dog social attitude. The fact of the matter is that Canada enjoys over 90 per cent of the per capita standard of living as that of the U.S. We may be behind on our standard of living but keep in mind that we are comparing ourselves to the single largest, richest country in the world. And personally I would rather remain as a Canadian thank you.

If there is a need to change our systems of government expenditures or re-structure our economy, I believe we can do it based on common sense and not American Corporate philosophy. We have seen changes in Canada and we will see more on these subjects, but the last thing we need at this time is a red-necked style of government that will put our industries on a more un-even playing field that has already been created by the free trade agreement.

In regards to cross border shopping and dairy products, U.S. citizens have been sold down the river themselves since the true cost of milk and butter does not end at the store shelf. With the U.S. treasury purchasing all surplus stocks of butter, cheese and skim milk powder only to be sold at a loss on the export market or incorporated in domestic food aid programs, you actually pay twice as an American shopper for these products: once when you make the purchase and secondly when the U.S. government uses tax money to pay for the surpluses. Therefore Canadian shoppers who travel to the U.S. to purchase butter and milk are actually purchasing subsidized products. This type of subsidization is only an example of what MP Don Boudria was trying to explain and for some reason some people find such information difficult to acknowledge.

Being closed minded about the real reasons for the differences in retail prices between Canada and the U.S. does nothing to solve any problems here in Canada. The Canadian public has already felt the effects of free trade with the U.S. with the high associated job losses as well as U.S. trade distorting practices — lumber as an example, as well as a still unproven unfettered access to the U.S. market the free trade agreement was meant to provide; i.e. pork countervailing duties.

If you want a system that encourages rewards and efficiency without government regulation, then you are in good company with Robert Campeau who left Canada, where he made his money, and went to the U.S. because of what he felt was over-regulation in Canada only to require U.S. government protection under chapter 11 for his company a short time after. Seems kind of ironic does it not?

Sincerely,

Rights of child overlaps, interferes

To the editor:

Maybe you will recall that 1979 was known as the Year of the Child. In November of 1989 after ten years of debate the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted the Convention on the Rights of the Child. On May 28, 1990 Prime Minister Mulroney signed this convention. Thus, in principle, Canada has now been committed to this convention but it requires ratification by the 10 provinces.

Ten premiers and the Prime Minister sign on behalf of 25,000,000 and most of you are uanware of the articles in the agreement and, or, how it will affect you in your homes!

However, and I quote: The parental position under Article 5 is only to "guide and direct" children in the exercise of their (the children's rights). These are not rights given to parents to exercise parental authority. There is no mention of children's responsibilities.

Article 16 reads "No child shall be subject to arbitrary or unlawful interference with his or her privacy, family, home or correspondence, nor to unlawful attacks on his or her honor and reputation."

Truly, the Rights of the Child are overlapping or interfering with the traditional Rights of the Parents.

Write to your Premier, Bob Rae to stop this nonsense in our province.

Write to other premiers in other provinces. In my personal opinion the aforesaid Rights of Children would be more acceptable in communistic countries. Canada is not communist yet!

It certainly makes the parents of Ontario wonder when the premier of Ontario appoints an avowed Marxist, George Martell, as his special advisor on public education.

more sound.

Obviously to accomplish the foregoing restoration program is a herculean undertaking. However, that is Glengarry's heritage history for over 200 years regardless of any congregation faith in Divine Providence.

Donations may be made to "Honor our Precessors" or a "Deceased Loved One; and they may be made by a one-time donation or pledges between now and June 1992. Official tax receipts will be issued.

Supply management farming

of buying, and carrying surplus dairy products. The Canadian farmer is responsible for all costs associated with surplus production, if any, whereas the U.S. taxpayers pay the shot. If this fact were taken into consideration when comparing prices, it would greatly narrow the gap. Anyway, Mr. Body's generalization that all U.S. dairy products are less than half the Canadian price is another distortion — just read the newspaper ads and compare, and don't forget exchange rates, tolls and transportation expenses, etc.

Finally, the following paragraph taken from an article, which recently appeared in the Financial Post, will hopefully provide Mr. Body with a little food for thought: "The cost of food would not be reduced significantly by shutting down the supply-management boards — unless Canadian food, only $2.50-$5 goes to the farmer. About $15 is for input and financing costs, $50 goes into often inefficient distribution and commercial practices, and about $25 in added value."

Black ice causes mishaps on area roads

Icy roads are being blamed for a number of highway accidents that have occurred in the past few weeks.

Khoreibi Nassouh, 46, of Don Mills, Ont., was driving a 1991 Honda east on Hwy. 401 at around 7 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 12, when he lost control of the car on a slippery road surface near the Curry Hill interchange.

The car rolled over in the median and was extensively damaged.

An ambulance brought Nassough to the Cornwall General Hospital for minor injuries.

The next day, a woman lost control of her vehicle on a patch of ice.

Rachel Neild, 20, of Apple Hill was driving a 1989 GMC east on County Road 19 near Grants Corner at around 9 p.m Wednesday, Dec. 11, when the vehicle began to skid on an ice patch.

The vehicle struck a mail box before crashing into the south ditch.

No one was injured. The GMC was lightly damaged.

About a half hour later, a similar incident occured to Ivor Howells, 62, of Williamstown.

He was driving a 1986 Chevrolet east on County Road 19 near the Cornwall city limits at around 10:30 p.m. when the car skidded on an ice patch, rolled over in the north ditch and crashed into a farm's fence.

No one was injured, but the car was severely damaged.

Storm accidents

Several highway accidents resulted from last week's two snowstorms and the following cold snap.

Tanagiopis Papaspyros, 18, of Laval, Que., was driving a 1987 Accura east on Hwy. 417 near Skye Road at 7:05 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 3, when he tried to pass another vehicle, but lost control on a patch of ice.

The car skidded, rolled over twice and crashed into the south ditch.

A passenger, Paul Kipopulos, 18, also of Laval, was taken to the Hawkesbury Hospital by ambulance for injuries, the extent of which police did not know.

The car was severely damaged.

One hour later, at the same place, another car rolled into a ditch.

Jean Gavreau, 48, of Aylmer, Que., was driving a 1992 Ford Van east on Hwy. 417 at around 8 p.m. when he lost control on the slippery road. The van skidded, rolled over and crashed into a ditch.

Gavreau was taken to Hawkesbury Hospital for minor injuries.

The van was slightly damaged.

About 10 minutes later, another vehicle ended up in a ditch near Laggan.

Danielle Duplantie, 39, of Hawkesbury was driving a 1990 Mercury south on Hwy. 34 near Laggan Road at 8:10 p.m. when she tried to pass another vehicle but slid on an ice patch.

The car spun around and ended up in the west ditch.

Police briefs

Duplantie was taken to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital in Alexandria for minor injuries.

The car was moderately damaged.

Smuggling charges

The RCMP charged a man for smuggling tobacco on Wednesday, Dec. 11.

The Ontario Provincial Police of Lancaster was asked by the RCMP anti-smuggling unit to help stop a pick-up truck westbound on Hwy. 401.

The truck was stopped near Hwy. 34 and 960 tins of tobacco valued at $9,600 were seized.

John Charles, 69, of Kahnawake, Que., was charged under the Customs Act for possession of smuggled goods and under the Excise Act for possession of non-duty paid tobacco.

His court appearance is set for Jan. 9 at the Provincial Court in Alexandria.

Recovered truck

A stolen truck was found abandoned in Cornwall on Wednesday, Dec. 4.

There were no reports made when the 1991 GMC demonstrator was stolen from Roy's Pontiac Buick Cadillac.

Ontario Provincial Police Const. Gilles Ruest of the Lancaster detachment said it's likely no one noticed it gone, since the truck was frequently off the lot as sales staff demonstrated the vehicle to customers.

The Cornwall City Police discovered the truck with damages to the rear window and steering column.

Recovered car

A stolen car was recovered on Hwy. 401 Thursday, Dec. 12.

Ontario Provincial Police officers of the Lancaster detachment found the 1980 Buick abandoned at a truck-weighing station on Hwy. 401 east of Lancaster at around 11 p.m., 22 hours after it was stolen from the Long Sault OPP detachment area.

The car is owned by Marie Charlebois of St. Andews West.

Police have no suspects.

Man charged

A man was charged in connection with a two-car accident in Alexandria more than a week ago.

Roger Sauve, 26, of Cornwall was driving a 1981 Pontiac west on Elgin Street at around 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8, when he tried to enter Main Street but struck the side of a northbound 1981 Oldsmoble, driven by Lisa Deguire, 29, of Industrial Boulevard.

No one was injured.

Sauve was charged with failing to yield to traffic.

Damages were light to the Pontiac and moderate to the Oldsmobile.

Blinded driver

A driver crashed into a parked car Monday night, Dec. 9, when he was blinded by an oncoming vehicle's high beams.

Larry Quesnel, 22, of Ottawa Street in Alexandria was driving a 1976 Ford van east on Kenyon Street at around 8:15 p.m. when he was blinded by brilliant high beam headlights and struck the left-rear corner of a parked car on the south side of Kenyon Street.

Damages to the parked car, a 1986 Plymouth owned by Ian McCuaig of Dalhousie Station, Que., and the Ford were moderate.

No one was injured.

Accident at GDHS

Two cars collided at the Glengarry District High School parking lot Friday afternoon, Dec. 6.

Anik Theoret, 17, of RR1 Alexandria was driving a 1991 Ford west on the south side of the school's parking lot while Jamie Nelson, 16, of Kenyon Street in Alexandria was driving a 1988 Pontiac south on the west side.

They hit each other at the southwest corner of the school's driveway.

No one was injured, but both cars were moderately damaged.

Cylinder stolen

A hydraulic cylinder used to carry a snow plow was reported stolen to the Alexandria Police Department on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Art Duggan, of Bishop Street, reported that the cylinder was attached to a bumper that was removed from a truck and left on the ground in front of Duggan Fuels, in Alexandria's north end.

No value was given.

Police have no suspects.

Lights broken

Damages were done to railroad-crossing lights two weeks ago.

Sometime overnight between Dec. 3 and Dec. 4, two single-crossing lights and three smaller lights were broken from the CPR level crossing at Angel Road, south of Hwy. 43.

Sgt. Gerry Brunet of the Ontario Provincial Police in Maxville estimated damages to be about $420.

There are no suspects.

Kitchen fire

An electric heater ignited a fire at an Alexandria house over the weekend causing $60,000 in damages.

Georgette Bourgon was shovelling snow outside her residence on 436 Main St. N. at around 2:30 p.m. Sunday Dec. 15 when a neighbor spotted smoke coming out of her house.

The Alexandria Fire Department took about 30 minutes to extinguish the blaze.

No one was injured.

Fire Marshall Marcel Lalonde said a 1,500 watt fan-heater in the kitchen overheated and caused cupboards to burn.

He said that since there was no one in the house, the fire spread undetected until much of the house was engulfed in flames.

Bourgon's home was insured.

Impaired driver

A man was charged for impaired driving in connection with an accident in Alexandria over the weekend.

Francois Theoret, 33, of Glen Robertson was driving his 1978 Cadillac at around 10:15 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 15, when he smashed into a salt truck on the corner of Main and Derby Streets.

The Alexandria Police Department charged Theoret with impaired driving.

His car was extensively damaged.

Urgent plea for winter gear

Robert Smith and Marg Millet (left) of the Lancaster Optimist Club donated a pair of snowsuits for children to Richard Able and Geraldine Fitzpatrick of the Children's Aid Society Wednesday afternoon. This ongoing project of giving snowsuits and boots to children without them is reaching a crisis point. Smith said the demand for snowsuits and boots for children has gone up 75 per cent from last year, but donations to help pay for them has gone down by 50 per cent. Boots are particularly needed. Donations can be sent to the Lancaster Optimist Club, P.O. Box 183 Williamstown.

Maxville is tuned up for Christmas

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

The village was really bustling during the weekend of Dec. 6. On the Friday evening, the centennial Christmas tree was officially set ablaze when the lights were turned on at 7:30. A large crowd of villagers of all ages pretty well covered the lot at the corner of Main and Mechanic St. W. and showed its appreciation when the lovely spruce tree became a mass of color.

Jim Graham then led in the singing of Christmas carols and afterwards hot chocolate was served from the former Honda garage.

The high pile of snow off to one side will probably be remembered most by the young children. They had a great time climbing it and then sliding down in any position which happened to be most convenient.

Saturday dawned stormy and later in the day the snow turned to sleet. It wasn't the best day by far for the Christmas parade sponsored by our local firemen and organized by Mona Brabant. Santa Claus could not arrive by plane here so he made his appearance and joined the parade at the Manor.

The float entered by the St. James Parish was judged best. The Maxville Brownies came next, followed by the Maxville and District Horticultural Society, the Maxville Centennial Committee and finally the St. Louis family. There were about 15 floats in the parade and the organizers appreciate the wonderful support they received for this annual event.

The parade terminated at the Sports Complex where the children were able to visit with Santa Claus and receive their treats.

After the excitement of the parade subsided, interest was focussed on Richard's corner where the official opening of the laundromat and car wash was to take place. Cornwall Radio Station CJSS was broadcasting from there and there were eight players from the Cornwall Royals Hockey Team there to serve gas and add to the glamor and excitement. Several guests had the opportunity to cut the ribbon and then this new business was off to a busy start. With the large water storage tank well buried and covered over, the water supply problem has been solved and operator Richard Scott is beaming with the volume of business he is receiving. We wish him well and thank MacEwen Petroleum Inc. for bringing this business to the village.

On Sunday, the members of the St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church served their Christmas brunch at the Sports Complex to round off the activities for a busy weekend.

We wish to extend 90th birthday greetings to Lillian McEwen Weedmark who is celebrating this birthday on Dec. 24. Mrs. Weedmark has lived in Ottawa for quite a few years now but this correspondent believes her heart is still here and he knows her friends and relatives here remember her with much affection. A native of the 5th Con. of Roxborough and of the McEwen settlement there, Mrs. Weedmark is one of the younger members of her generation and is probably the last surviving representative of it.

Ethel McKinnon has returned from a trip to Vancouver and to the western side of the U.S.A. where she visited her uncle Jim McKercher. This visit is especially noteworthy since Mrs. McKinnon is a spry 91-year-old and Mr. McKercher will be 103 years old next March.

* * *

Jean Ivens from Pigeon Hill, to use the old name for this location on Highway 43, was over in England for 10 days visiting her brother Ewen Munro and family.

Eleanor Jack Keeping made a quick trip home from St. John's, Newfoundland, to surprise her mother, Margaret Jack, at Mrs. Jack's 75th birthday party held at the home of her son, Peter, on Dec. 7. I've been told that it was a lovelyy party. Eleanor had a good visit and Mrs. Jack received many good wishes for happy years ahead. We, too, send our best wishes to this retired teacher who has served her community very well for about 45 years.

Death came to Gerard "Sig" Guindon after years of poor health and hospitalization. His troubles started after an accident nearly 40 years ago. He was the son of the late Elie Guindon and the former Eva Villeneuve and is survived by his brothers Roger "Bud," Francis "Fanny" and sister Yvette and their families. His brother Aurele predeceased him. To all we extend sympathy.

Also, to the Doth family, condolences are extended in the death of Lionel Doth, a brother of the late Wilfred and the late Ovila. The deceased lived in Ottawa.

Historic Maxville

Do you remember when

— the high school dance was the social event of the year?

— there would be a line-up, almost down to Mechanic St., of farmers waiting to unload their cans of milk at the Borden factory?

— we envied the Catholic kids who had school holidays on Holy Days?

— the fairgrounds were at the east end of Peter and Catherine streets?

— the village had three medical doctors and house calls and office visits without appointments were the norm?

— troop trains stopped at the CNR stations and those getting off asked for George and Millie Eppstadt's restaurant?

— homes had a wood shed and most had a hen house and stable in the back yard?

— kids played croquet on Edith and Howard MacDougall's lawn and Howard pastured his horse, Birdie, and black cow in the lot that now contains the old community hall apartments?

— the Department of Agriculture offered agricultural and cooking classes in the Institute Hall?

— Maxville celebrated Canada's 60th birthday with a grand parade in 1927?

— by spring, the pitch holes on all the roads leading to the village made the hauling of large sleigh loads very difficult?

— children were afraid to meet a lady by the name of Marguerite on the street?

— Mr. Hamilton held prayer meetings during the winter in the school house for the residents of the 5th Con. Roxborough?

— country high school students had to board in town or drive considerable distances to school under difficult conditions in winter?

St. Andrew's Church was almost filled to capacity on the evening of Dec. 11 for a very delightful program presented by the Centennial Choir. The church was tastefully decorated with lighted candles and a mass of poinsettias in front of the choir loft.

Richard Forrester from Cornwall directed the choir, served as emcee and brought a short Christmas message. Don Bond read scripture passages and the Rev. Gary Van Bruchem and the Rev. Frank Bailey also participated.

Dora Bill and Katarina Schmid sang one verse of Silent Night in German and then were joined by the congregation. Soloists were Duncan Phillips, Avonmore and Dorothy Forrester. Marie Campbell served as pianist and Doug Munroe as organist.

The performances of the choir have been highlights during Centennial year and this performance was probably the climax. We have appreciated the work that has gone into the training and practising. Some of the members have driven distances and they have been doubly appreciated.

After reading the account of the gentleman who was revived in Williamstown by CPR after suffering a heart attack, there are a few in Maxville who are particularly satisfied that they have taken a short course in this work recently. If there are others who would like to take it, I can supply them with details. The short course would be given in Martintown and on a Wednesday afternoon.

The big news in the Newsletter from the Public School was that the Grade 3 class is learning keyboarding in order for them to be well prepared for the computer age. The SD&G County Board of Education has purchased 200 small electronic keyboards and they will be used in the various schools on a rotational basis.

The students raised $5,800 during the fundraising drive. Both the library and the computer program are benefitting from this sum.

The Christmas concerts at the school were last evening and tomorrow (Thursday) evening.

Area ladies learn about the Far East

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Get well wishes are offered to Doris Spencer who fell Sunday morning and broke her arm. Both large bones fractured at the wrist, one a straight and one a T break.

She badly injured her left knee as well. Many thanks to good neighbors Claude and Ethel MacNeil who took her first to Glengarry Memorial and then to Cornwall for treatment. (They were gone about seven hours all told.)

CWE enjoy Christmas carols

A dozen area ladies were among the 100 plus women who met for the December meeting on Dec. 9 at the Villa Mont Joie in Lachute. The lovely Christmas decorations in the hall lent a festive air to the occasion. Birch log candle holders, red candles and greenery made pretty centrepieces for each table. Beautiful hand crocheted snowflake tree ornaments were the prayer partner place favors. Even the colorful red, green and yellow of the dessert served to brighten up the tables. Mary Miller, chairperson, welcomed the group warmly. Later, Hazel Swail introduced the guest singer Lorna Chapman. Her selections were I Heard the Bells on Christmas day (with a French verse composed by herself) and Do You Hear What I Hear. She led a carol-sing, and everyone sang out loud and clear. The musical piano accompanist was Bessie MacLennan.

A fascinating special feature was presented by Shirley Viau of Ribbons and Lace from Vankleek Hill. Her deft fingers quickly fashioned bows and trimmings of paper-paper and floral printed cotton ribbon. She made it seem so easy, but she said with practice, anyone can do it. The guest speaker Leola Meagher from St. Lazare, Que., said she was a story teller, and she was. She has three children, is a beef farmer, teaches and writes. The unique way she shared her life story attested to that fact. She held everyone's interest as she took her listeners back to her childhood on a homestead, 40 miles north of Mont Tremblant, to a 12x12 log cabin in the woods. They used an ox to haul logs (couldn't afford a horse), they had no water inside and no creature comforts. Everything was either handmade or home grown. The three children learned to weed, hoe, make kindling and help with household chores. Their mother taught them at home until they went to boarding school in Namur, where they felt very lost and alone. Over the years her strong faith has stood her in good stead through many trials and sorrows, and she has found that God will provide, if we just stand back and let Him take over.

Doreen Hayes shared some highlights of her trip to Hong Kong, China, Bankok and Singapore. There were 17 take-offs and landings. It took 19 hours to Hong Kong. While in China, they had to fly on military planes due to a shortage of aircraft. They had to help unload the baggage and load the next plane. Take-off was quick and often cupboard doors weren't all closed tightly. That made for some interesting situations. At Bankok and Singapore land is precious and there were golf courses between the runways.

Entering China was like going back 100 years in time. The trains had lace doilies on the seat arms and curtains on the windows. Periodicallyy a large kettle of water was carried through to the next car for the making of tea. A trolley carrying fruit and chicken wings passed down the aisles; snacks for sale. At the post office, one had a little pot of glue and a brush to affix stamps to the letters. The preserved body of Mao Tse Tung is on display and long lines of people pass by constantly. One must leave everything larger than a wallet with the guard before joining the lines to enter.

Everywhere were bicycles. Old grannies rode on front or back as passengers. One two-year-old rode in a little wooden house on the back of one bike, sheltered from wind, sun and rain. Long copper pipes required one bike in front and another at the back end, for transportation. Almost every corner had a bike repair shop. She bought 12 handmade pallet brushes for $2. Outsiders cannot bring in literature, and students learning English in university can't find any to read anywhere. The people were very warm and friendly, and the country is beautiful. The only thing they had a hard time with was the amount of people everywhere.

Way off in the country, there were hordes of people passing all the time. It was a wonderful trip, one they will never forget.

The meeting broke up with seasons greetings to all.

Chris Petry-fies Gaels as Char-Lan wins two

The Char-Lan senior basketball team evened its SDG league record to 1-1 on Friday afternoon with a 39-30 win over the Glengarry Gaels. The game was played in Alexandria.

Chris Petry led the Crusaders to the victory as he netted 16 points. Innes Fraser added 11. For Glengarry, the top scorers were Chris McPherson with six and Robert Meth with five.

The second quarter was the key to victory for Char-Lan. After the Gaels had nailed a controversial three-pointer at the end of the first quarter to narrow Char-Lan's lead to 9-7 (Glengarry got the opportunity to hit the trey because the clock wasn't started in time) Char-Lan answered with an 18-point second quarter to take a 27-14 lead.

After that it was just a question of hanging on and staying out of foul trouble as the Char-Lan bench was only two-deep because of an injury to Tom Schuler.

Thge loss drops Glengarry's record to 1-2.

On Saturday in Williamstown, the Crusaders did it again to the Gaels, this time with a 37-22 tournament triumph. Again, Chris Petry and Innes Fraser were top scorers with nine points apiece.

For Glengarry it was Dave MacDonald and Robert Meth with seven each.

Both teams lost their other two games in the tournament, to La Citadelle and Tagwi (see related story).

The Gaels lost 54-52 in double overtime to La Citadelle. Mat Williams had 14 for Glengarry while Harry Wilson added 12.

The Crusaders lost 54-46 to the Patriotes as Chris Petry was once again the top scorer for Char-Lan with 16.

Char-Lan will host Rothwell-Osnabruck tomorrow (Wednesday).

Junior Gaels beat Char-Lan

In the junior match-up on Friday, Scott McPherson scored 13 points and Malcolm MacPherson another 12 as the junior Gaels defeated Char-Lan 43-17.

The Gaels are now 2-1 while the Crusaders drop to 0-2.

Char-Lan top scorer was Matt Grey who had seven points.

Tagwi wins C-L tourney

After losing their first three SDG league games, the Tagwi senior boys basketball team finally hit the win column on Saturday with three victories in an exhibition tournament played at Char-Lan.

The Warriors started the tournament with a 45-22 win over the host Crusaders as Kevin Poirier hit for 19 points. Andrew Brown added 14 while Dean Canham had seven.

For Char-Lan Innes Fraser led the way with seven followed by Kurtis Latreille with six.

The Warriors then got a measure of revenge against La Citadelle, who had beaten Tagwi in league play the night before, with a 48-40 win over the Patriotes.

Dean Canham had 21 points to lead the Warriors while Rod McKillican had 14.

The third win by the Warriors came at the expense of Glengarry as Tagwi came out on top 46-28.

Andrew Brown was the top Tagwi scorer with 14 points. Next in line were Dean Canham with 12 and Kevin Poirier with seven.

Robert Meth led the Gaels with 10 points. Dave MacDonald added eight.

In the loss to La Citadelle on Friday, the Patriotes' Derek Clement hit for 18 points in helping down Tagwi 52-41. Dean Canham and Rod McKillican had 10 each to lead the Warriors.

On Tuesday, Tagwi played a close game against ''AA'' power Cornwall Collegiate but still came out on the short end of a 71-62 score despite 29 points by Rod McKillican.

Dean Canham and Kevin Poirier had 15 points each.

The junior Warriors also lost twice last week and like the seniors are 0-3 in SDG play.

Tagwi lost 64-47 to La Citadelle on Friday as Rudy Nelson had 15 points for the Patriotes. Brian Johns led Tagwi scorers with 12 followed by Todd Stelmach and John Poapst with 11 each.

On Tuesday against CCVS, the junior Warriors lost 67-53. Todd Stelmach led all scorers with 21 points for Tagwi.

Special issue next week

Next week's paper is the last of 1991, so that means that there will be a special edition of Glengarry Sportsweek.

For the first time ever we'll be announcing our Sports Personality of the Year, an extension of our weekly feature which spotlights a local athlete.

We'll also have our Year in Review where we'll look back on the highlights, and the lowlights, of the last 12 months in sports in the county.

And since this is the season for giving, we'll also let you know what some local sports figures would most like to get from Santa this Christmas.

Also, please note that because of the shifting deadlines there will be some minor disruptions to the sports section this week. One casualty of the earlier deadline is the Scoreboard as well as a handful of league results.

Rapids win two, lose one

The Seaway Valley Minor Bantam Rapids went 2-1 last week, recording victories over Nepean and South Ottawa and losing to Cumberland.

On Saturday the Rapids beat South Ottawa 7-2 as Troy Brownell scored twice. Singles went to Scott Leslie, Joel Menard, Chad Beauregard, Adam Simpson and Chad Duguay.

On Friday, Julien Oetelaar picked up the shutout as Seaway blanked Nepean 9-0.

Andre Carriere and Chad Duguay each had a pair while singles went to Evan Thompson, Peter Dittburner, Scott Leslie, Kelsey Lemire and Adam Simpson.

Duguay scored twice and Joel Menard and Joel Trottier once each in a 6-4 loss to Cumberland last Wednesday.

Vajcovec pots four to beat Rebels

The Char-Lan Rebels' winless streak reached seven games on Sunday as the Rebs lost a big game against the Kemptville 73's big time 7-1.

Dan Vajcovec was the scoring hero for Kemptville as he scored his team's last four goals. Shawn Forbes had a pair four the 73's while Dave Figliomeni rounded out the scoring.

John Gallinger had the only Char-Lan goal.

It was a big game for Char-Lan because they went in trailing Kemptville by six points for fourth in the St.Lawrence with a game in hand. The 73's were also very vulnerable as they came to Williamstown with only nine skaters and two true defencemen (more on that later).

However the 73's were able to keep the pace slow and to capitalize on a string of Char-Lan to keep the Rebels back on their heels.

''That was our plan. We just wanted to sit back and let them come to us and keep the score down,'' said 73's coach Lindsay Selleck.

The game was Kemptville's first since losing to Alexandria last Friday and a lot has happened in that time.

For one thing two games were cancelled (last Sunday because of a broken compressor at the Kemptville Arena and Friday when Gananoque couldn't ice a team). For another, three of the team's best players, catain Kirk Tallman, top scorer Jason Quesnel and defenceman Sean Audet quit the team after a dispute with Selleck.

The absence of those three, plus several others because of schooling commitments left the 73's considerably short-handed.

Char-Lan's Randy Gebbie puts the hook on a Kemptville player during EOJBHL action in Williamstown on Sunday. 73's won 7-1.

''I give them credit,'' said Rebels coach Randy Larocque. ''They did what they had to do and we didn't. They just sat back and waited for us to make mistakes and take stupid penalties and we did.

''It's very disappointing for the team to have played like this in such a big game.''

Despite the lopsided score, Larocque isn't convinced that the 73's are a whole lot better than the Rebels.

''We had some good flow in the third (When the Rebels poured 14 shots at the Kemptville net) and that's because we stayed out of the penalty box. I know we can skate with them.''

Does the game change Larocque's mind about the Rebels playoff hopes?

''No. I can't open (the Rebel players') minds and look inside but I'm not going to give up on this team.''

The team can expect a hard practice with a lot of skating this week.

''They're not going to be seeing a puck on Wednesday night.''

Rebs' halftime report

Char-Lan hit the midway point with Friday's game against Alexandria and turned in a 5-11-1 record in the first 17 games.

At the midway point the team has scored 81 goals (4.76 per game) and allowed 110 (6.47).

Home record is a respectable 4-4-1 but on the road the Rebs are a dismal 1- 7. Against divisional foes Char-Lan is 3-7-1 while against Rideau teams the Rebs have posted a 2-4 record.

Coach Larocque's personal assessment is that the youth of the Rebels has cost his team some games along the way.

''I think that the inexperience has really showed in certain situations this year. Like when we take a lead we can't hold it or we can't finish it (by scoring insurance goals). I hope it's experience because otherwise it's the coaching,'' he commented.

''We're pretty happy. The attitude in the dressing room is great and we're getting a lot of leadership from our older players.''

Among the first-year Rebels, Larocque highlighted the play of Dan Desjardins (''He's been like a veteran for us.''), John Gallinger and 20-year- old netminder Jim Kenney.

Individual effort is one thing but Larocque is expecting better things from his club in the second half in the area where it really counts, the wins and losses column.

Rebel Yells: Winger John Edgerton has rejoined the team for the next few games. Edgerton, a 36-goal scorer with the Rebels last season, attends school in Thunder Bay but is back in the area for the next few weeks . . . St.Hubert players of the game Sunday were Randy Gebbie (offensive) and Kevin Duchesne (defensive) . . . This week the Rebels are in action with a home-and-home series against the Winchester Hawks. The teams will be in Winchester on Friday night and in Williamstown Sunday afternoon.

Glens sneak closer to first with wins

With two more wins the Alexandria Glens have moved to within two points of first place in the St.Lawrence Division, and could find themselves in a tie for top spot as soon as this Friday when the Glens will host the Morrisburg Lions.

Alexandria closed the gap to a pair of points with a 6-2 win on Sunday in Morrisburg.

The victory was Alexandria's sixth in their last seven games.

The Glens scored twice in the first two minutes of the game as Andrew Sauve and Patrick Ravary scored to give Alexandria a 2-0 lead.

The Glens' Marc Hammond scored his fourth goal in three games with Alexandria to make it 3-0 before Morrisburg's Randy Mullin closed the scoring in the first with a goal at 17:12.

Derek Holmes made it a one-goal when he scored midway through the second for the Lions, but the Glens answered back with goals by Serge Bellefeuille and Benoit Frappier to make the score 5-2 after two.

Travis Duhaime had the only third-period goal. Duhaime also had a pair of assists while Pascal Joanette had three helpers.

A good indication as to how far the Glens have come as a team is the fact that top scorer Marc Sauve was held off the score sheet and yet Alexandria was still able to beat the top team in the division in their own building.

Glens win at home on Friday

Alexandria's home win streak reached six games on Friday as the Glens defeated the Char-Lan Rebels 5-3.

It was a game that was very appropriately played on Friday the 13th. It was that scary.

For example, who has ever seen a 13-minute power play?

That's what the Rebels received when Alan Fitzgerald started swinging at Char-Lan captain Greg Wylie, who wisely chose to cover up.

Earlier in the game the Glens had received a nine-minute man-advantage situation when Randy Gebbie had the book thrown at him by referee Chris Emard for attacking Alexandria's Marc Hammond.

Appropriately, neither team scored during the man advantage situations.

Then there was Alexandria's controversial fourth goal. A Glens pass which definitely went over two lines was not called and within a matter of seconds Travis Duhaime had beaten Char-Lan goalie Jim Kenney to make it 4-1 Alexandria.

A host of Glens and Rebels including Colin Cameron, Travis Duhaime (partially hidden), Serge Bellefeuille (10) and Bobby Bowles (5) gather near the net of Char-Lan goalie Jim Kenney. Alexandria won the contest 5-3.
Staff photo — J.L. Lefebvre

The officials explained that the offside had been negated by the fact that a Char-Lan player had touched the puck.

''It behooves me to say that you are sadly mistaken,'' said the Char-Lan bench. Or words to that effect.

In the end, the Glens got the goal as well as a power play as the Rebels were assessed a bench minor for throwing a water bottle.

If it's any consolation for the Rebels, the throw measured well up on the scale in terms of distance and style.

In addition to Duhaime's tally, Marc Sauve had a pair of goals for Alexandria. Marc Hammond and Alan Fitzgerald had singles.

For Char-Lan it was John Gallinger, Greg Wylie and Gianluca Schivo.

Earlier this season, after a loss to the Rebels, Alexandria captain Marc Sauve wondered aloud whether the Glens were going anywhere.

One of the areas to be improved that he pointed to at that time was the team's defensive play. He says now that the team's defensive problems have been rectified.

''We're playing a lot better defensively right now. We've added Jason (Boyer) on defence and Yves (Leger) in nets and that's made a big difference,'' said Sauve who goes as far as to say that the current team's solid defensive play makes it even better than last year's St.Lawrence Division winning edition of the Glens.

The numbers bear out Sauve's words. The Glens have allowed three goals or fewer in six of their last eight games. All but one of the eight (a 7-3 loss to Brockville) resulted in Alexandria wins.

''The other thing about this team is that now we have two lines who can score and that means the other team can't concentrate too much on one line,'' continued Sauve.

While offence and defence are very tangible ways to evaluate a club, a third indicator is a little more intangible; attitude. Sauve says the team scores well in this regard as well.

''The attitude on this team is great. We have a very good dressing room this year and all the guys get along really well.

''Last year we played well and won but there was something missing. This year it's not like that. It's a lot of fun to be part of a team that's this close.''

Glenformation: Patrice Lamarche has pulled into a tie with Yves Leger in the goalie's scoring race as he picked up an assist on Marc Sauve's second goal on Friday . . . Question: Which opposition player has gotten the biggest cheer at the Billy Gebbie Arena this year? That would have to be Char-Lan's Randy Gebbie who had many friends from GDHS give him a big hand after he was tossed for having punched out Marc Hammond. Imagine if he'd scored a goal . . . Glens will host Morrisburg in a first-place showdown on Friday and will be in Spencerville to play South Grenville on Saturday.

In the atom division, Cornwall Aviation won a pair of games, 4-2 over McCuaig Plumbing and 3-1 over Glengarry Kinsmen.

Charles Leclair had three goals in the two contests. Other Aviation scorers were Shawn O'Brien, Pascal Lefebvre, Matthew Tyo and Jason Pilon.

In the McCuaig game, Charles Major had two goals in a losing cause while Jordan Flaro had the only Kinsmen tally.

McCuaig bounced back to shutout Munro Fertilizer 4-0 as Adele St-Denis and Gary Peters shared the shutout. Scorers were Darryl Major, Jean-Norman Giroux, Chris Malyon and Steve Lefebvre.

In the other atom game last week Munro defeated the Kinsmen 3-1. Sylvain Matte, Jason Varrin and Stephen Alguire scored for Munro while Scott MacKenzie replied for the Kinsmen.

In peewee action Rachel Denner had three goals and two assists as the RCAFA girls team defeated MacDonald Groceries 5-3. Other RCAFA scorers were Deanna Tarbell and Lois Cooper.

For MacDonald it was Andre Hebert, Alain Poirier and Kevin Lucas.

RCAFA also defeated Kalrim Sports by a score of 3-1. Lois Cooper, Heather Cook and Tracy Zettler scored for RCAFA while Kalrim's offence was provided by Geoffrey MacLean.

In the other pee wee contest, Ian Main scored twice as Kalrim defeated Longevity 4-2. Chris Wereley and Alex Pattingale also scored for the winners while Chad McIntosh and Trevor Atchison had the Longevity goals.

In bantam-midget action, Mac's Marina defeated Malyon Excavation 3-1. Michael O'Brien, Jean-Pierre Bleile and John Racine scored for Mac's while Ben Pregent scored for Malyon.

Gauthier's Greenhouse got two goals from Scott Sicard in a 2-2 tie against Dan's Place. Kirk McDonell and Travis Guest scored for Dan's.

Earlier in the week Dan's lost to Mac's Marina 4-1 as Brian Deschamps (two), Sam Cain and John Racine scored. John McLeister replied for Dan's.

In the other game, Gauthier's defeated Malyon 3-2. Marc Belanger, Derek Menard and Jason Menard had the offence for the winners while Stephane Viau had both Malyon tallies.

Benton running away

Art Benton padded its lead in the Alexandria Ladies Sponge Puck League standings last week with a 4-3 win over second-place Tapis Richard.

Benton, who have now only lost one of their 12 games so far this season, is now five points ahead of Tapis, last season's league champions.

Benton's Ginette Lalonde paced the offence with a goal and two assists. Other scorers were Helene Brossoit, Sue Delage and Donna MacGregor.

Replying for Tapis Richard was Dawn McDuff with two and Cathy Depratto.

In the meantime, MacMillan Insurance pulled to within a point of second place with a 5-2 over cellar-dwellers LC Electric.

Annie St-Denis had a four-point night for the winners with two goals and two assists. Bridget Cameron also scored twice while Kathy Van Loon had a single marker.

For LC Electric, scorers were Geraldine St-Denis and Sandra Wensink.

In the third Wednesday match-up, SunLife got an early second period goal from Lise Durocher, her league-leading 13th of the year, and made it stick as Manon Carriere shutout M and D Sports.

Glengarry's Anna Siwik connects with a winner in last Thursday's senior match-up with St. Joe's. The Panthers won two of the three sets played between the two clubs. Other Gaels in the picture are Isabel Seguin (2, foreground) and Kelly Lavigueur (11).

Juniors tame Panthers, seniors settle for a set

The Glengarry junior girls volleyball team continues to perform well against SDG competition, as the Gaels swept three sets at home for the second week in a row.

This time around Glengarry was hosting the St.Joseph's Panthers, and the home team won in straight sets 15-4, 15-0 and 15-7.

Last week it was St.Lawrence that was victimized three straight by Colette Lavigne's junior squad.

The juniors were consistently strong throughout the match, especially in shutting out the Panthers in the middle set, which only took a few minutes to complete.

Seniors edged by Panthers

If the winner of a volleyball match was determined by overall points, then Glengarry would have been declared the victor in last Thursday's encounter with St.Joe's by a score of 37-32.

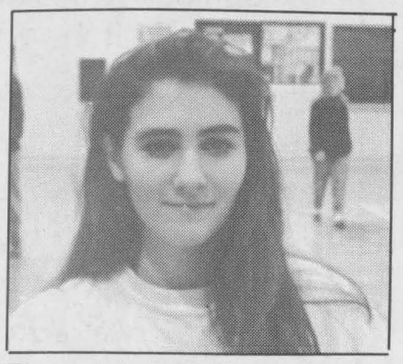
Unfortunately for the Gaels, the bottom line is the number of sets won, and in that regard the Panthers won 2-1.

After dropping the first set 15-13, Glengarry stormed back in set number two to win 15-2. Lisa MacDonald's serving was the key to the Gaels' taking of the middle set as Glengarry won 12 points on MacDonald's serve, including an incredible stretch of ten in a row.

Glengarry rallied after falling behind in the third and final set, but the Panthers won the last five points in a row to make the final 15-9.

The Gaels are now 3-3 after winning two of three sets from the St.Lawrence Saints last week.

Both Glengarry teams are off until 1992 when they'll take on the Cornwall Collegiate Raiders in Cornwall on Jan. 7.



The real Jody MacDonald stands out.

Leblanc leads novices

Alexandria novice goaltender Lee Leblanc led the Glens to the "A" title at a minor hockey tournament in Ogdensburg, New York as he allowed only one goal in the tournament's three games.

Leblanc let one get by him in the game against West Carleton but the Glens took the game and the championship by getting goals by Andrew McIntyre, Joel Quesnel and Eric Nielsen.

Earlier, the Glens topped Stittsville 6-0. Six different scorers, Joel Quesnel, Jocelyn Lamarche, Beth Depratto, Eric Nielsen, Jeffrey Lobb and Jason Vickers, put the puck in the net for Alexandria.

Alexandria also shut out Canton 4-0 as Dominic Decoeur, Jocelyn Lamarche, Joel Quesnel and Eric Nielsen tallied.

Peewees lose in final

The peewee Glens also played in a tournament this weekend, their own, and played well but lost 6-5 to Potsdam in the final.

Eric Lavigne scored twice for the Glens with singles being added by Chancey Lajoie and Pascal Decoeur.

In the preliminary round, Alexandria beat NGS 3-1 as Chancey Lajoie scored twice and Pascal Decoeur once.

The Glens also took a 5-3 decision from North Dundas as Eric Lavigne, Pascal Decoeur, Mark Leferriere, Chancey Lajoie and Jason Poirier netted goals.

Atoms win three

The atom Glens got a little revenge on the Kingston team that beat them to advance to the Silver Stick tournament in the regional qualifier last month in Pembroke by beating them 3-1 in Long Sault on Saturday.

Cameron Lajoie had two goals while Ghislain Valade had one Jamie Ladouceur had two assists.

Alexandria also edged South Stormont 3-2 as Jamie Ladouceur, Kurt MacSweyn amd Timothy Van Overbeek scored for the Glens. Alexandria's other win in Long Sault came over Brockville by a score of 4-1.

Nigel Newland and Timothy Van Overbeek had two goals each for Alexandria.

On Sunday, Alexandria defeated Hawkesbury I 3-1 as Cameron Lajoie, Nigel Newland and Ghislain Valade scored.

Bantam split

The bantam Glens got three goals from Martin Boisvenue on Sunday as Alexandria defeated Hawkesbury by a score of 5-1. Christian Leblanc and Eric Hagen also scored for Alexandria.

On Saturday Alexandria was edged 5-4 by Cumberland despite two goals by Eric Hagen. The other two tallies were shared by Martin Boisvenue and Jean-Pierre Lefebvre.

The bantams will host an eight team tournament on Jan. 2.

Ernie's in second

Ernie's Cement Works pulled into a second-place tie in the Alexandria and District Industrial Hockey League by defeating Brown House 7-5 on Saturday in Maxville. Both teams now have 16 points.

Marc Just scored three times for Ernie's to lead the way to victory while Garrett McGillis had two. Other scorers were Brent Farrell and Glenn MacMillan.

For Brown House it was Richard Lebrun with two and Andre Seguin, Marty Gareau and Gerry Blanchette with one each.

Meanwhile, Andrew McRae scored five times to lead Glengarry Windows and Doors to a 9-5 win over Legion. Marc Sauve added two goals for W and D with singles going to Mario Dumont and Mario Chevrier.

Frank St-Pierre scored twice for Legion with the rest of the scoring being shared by Warren McKinnon, Kevin Massia and Carey Cameron.

The other Saturday game saw Dick's Paving Stone hammer Decoste Welding 11- 1.

Wendell Lafave had four goals for Dick's followed by Mark Titley, John MacSweyn and Claude Bourck with two each. Rob McDougald also scored.

Guy Boyer had the only Decoste marker.

Kirk Hill ups record

Kirk Hill improved its record to 7-1 in the Ladies' Division of the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League with a 1-0 win over the Blazers U-18 team.

Carolyn Cameron had the only goal of the contest to increase its division lead to three points over Jovana's.

Jovana's were 2-1 losers to MacMillan and Howes Hearts as Melissa MacPhee and Bonnie MacLeod scored.

In men's division action, Rudi's Sport blanked Filion Trophies 7-0 as Taffy Pye and Greg Deschamps scored twice each. Other Rudi goals went to Chris Armstrong, Ben Pye and Roy MacDonell.

The Lancaster Rovers beat Courtaulds 4-1 as Allan Brown and Kieran Kennedy had two goals each.

Priest's Mill and City II played to a 2-2 tie as Matthew Steiche had both Priest's Mill goals.

Finally, Robin Basara had the only goal as Glengarry Power was trounced 11- 1 by the Roadrunners.

Junior Crusaders open year with two victories

The Char-Lan Crusaders junior girls volleyball team, the two-time defending SDG "A" champions, showed that very little has changed since last season as they blitzed their opponents at a tournament at Tagwi last Thursday.

The Crusaders breezed by their first opponent, Seaway, by winning consecutive sets 15-2 and 15-8.

In their second match Char-Lan defeated the General Vanier Vikings 15-5 in the first set, but then fell behind 10-0 in the second. The Crusaders' Cathy Pilon then proceeded to take control of the game by serving 12 of her team's points en route to a 15-13 comeback Char-Lan win.

There's a very good reason why the Crusaders were very reminiscent of last year's championship club; the team roster remains virtually unchanged.

Coach Brian Gilmour has seven players returning from last year's group, with only Glenda Lauzon moving up to the senior team. Another player, Louise Gagnon, has transferred to CCVS.

Returning veterans are Pilon, Kris Struthers, Angela Smith, Vicky Peacey, Tania McClements, Kelly Lariviere and Jillaine Jurchuk.

Two players, Karen Montgomery and Erika Tyrell, graduate from Char-Lan's midget program and only one player, Shannon MacLeod, is a Grade 9 rookie.

Gilmour says that there were several other freshmen with the ability to play junior volleyball at his disposal, but with the talent and depth of the returning players it was questionable whether they would get much of a chance to play.

As a result they'll get that valuable playing time with the midget club.

With the personnel virtually the same as last year, the only difference figures to be the roles filled by team members.

With former setter Lauzon gone, attackers Smith and Pilon may be called on to do more play preparation. Good setting is a valuable tool at all levels of volleyball but particularly in junior competition where very few teams do it well.

It's still early but the Crusaders have to be rated the favorite to win a third consecutive title.

The picture isn't quite as clear with the senior team.

Last year's team lost in the SDG finals and there are several changes from the 90-91 edition of the team.

For one thing Karen Emard takes over as coach from Domingo Binaday.

The former captain of the General Vanier Vikings has previous coaching experience with a high school in Kingston and also piloted the Char-Lan boys team in the fall.

Emard has been taking a long look at her charges and as of late last week still had two more cuts to make. Nonetheless she has been able to make an assessment of her club.

"They're a fairly experienced team and they're a very good bunch of athletes," she said.

"One thing that really helps is that some of these played basketball together so they know each other pretty well."

Team members Glenda Lauzon, Karen Arnott and Cheryl Proctor were all part of the Crusaders' EOSSAA championship basketball team.

Other key team members include Linda Evrall, Jody Humphreys, Tanya Ross and Laura Geneau. As of last Thursday Emard planned to carry eight players on the team.

Almost as big a story as who is on the team is who isn't.

Cynthia Laframboise and Julie MacDonald have opted to concentrate on their studies. Emard said Catherine Hodgins would also have been a good addition to the team had she chosen to try out.

The Crusaders split their matches on the first day of the season last Thursday at Tagwi.

Char-Lan defeated Seaway 15-5, 8-15 and 15-8 but lost in straight sets to General Vanier 15-9 and 15-4.

Char-Lan will host Rothwell-Osnabruck and North Dundas in a tournament on Jan. 10.

Tagwi's juniors and seniors each won a pair of matches in action on Thursday. The juniors swept General Vanier 15-13 and 15-11 and took two straight from Seaway 15-6 and 15-4.

The senior team played a strange match against the Vikings, wiining the first set 15-0, losing the second 15-1 and then taking the third 15-8.

The senior Warriors took Seaway in back-to-back sets 15-3 and 15-11.

Skye Auxiliary holds final meeting

Dunvegan

The Skye Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society held its final meeting at the home of Mrs. Beverley MacQueen on Dec. 7. The afternoon began with a delicious catered turkey dinner, served to members and friends, followed by the regular December meeting.

President Flora Chisholm had charge of the meeting and the Christmas service from the Glad Tidings was followed. Special Christmas readings were given by the members in answer to the roll call.

Annual reports were given by the officers, and the yearly financial statement was gratifying. Highlights of the year included the church service held jointly with Kenyon W.M.S. in July, with Rev. Glynnis Williams as guest speaker, and the August meeting held at Maxville Manor, where an hon. life membership certificate was presented to Flora Ann MacGillivray, and a life membership certificate to Mary MacDonald.

A minute's silence was observed in memory of members who had passed away.

A brief history of the organization was given by the historian, Mrs. Isabel MacLeod. She stated that the society had been organized in March 1923, and over the years had taken part in every phase of W.M.S. work.

Through the years 16 hon. life memberships, 48 life memberships, and four In Memoriam certificates had been presented. During the war years, the society donated 43 quilts to the Red Cross.

As time passed the Skye W.M.S. lost many of its members through illness and death, and it was with deep regret that the members decided to disband at the November meeting.

It is hoped that many of the remaining members will decide to join the Kenyon Women's Missionary Society and carry on the missionary work of Kenyon Church.

It was interesting to note that the Skye Auxiliary of the W.M.S. raised approximately $30,000 for missionary purposes during the years of its existence.

In closing, Mrs. MacLeod remarked that the first meeting of Skye W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth MacQueen and it seemed fitting that the last meeting was also being held at a MacQueen home.

Thanks were given to God for all the blessings He had bestowed on the society, and a prayer was offered for all missionaries who are serving the Master in this fast-changing and troubled world.

Green Valley
Helene Quesnel

The Christmas parade was held Sunday in Alexandria and the Green Valley Optimist Club represented our little hamlet with a beautiful float adorned with a sleigh and hay bales and many little Green Vallians dressed in such attire as Ninja Turtles and clown costumes. They travelled through town singing Christmas carols and giving out candy.

* * *

The Optimists will be serving up hot dogs to the students at Ste. Marie's this Friday (not Thursday) to get them in the holiday mood on their last day of school before Christmas.

On Sunday at the Sports Palace, Santa will arrive to greet all the Optimists and their families as they amuse themselves on the ice surface.

We wish a speedy get-well to Father Dumoulin who was so ill last Sunday that he couldn't say mass. We missed you and hope you'll be well soon.

* * *

Our sympathy is extended to the Lajoie family upon the recent death of Edgar Lajoie of Alexandria. Edgar was brother to George Lajoie of Green Valley and has many relatives in the area.

* * *

Expectant women or new mothers interested in breast-feeding are welcome to attend the monthly La Lèche League meeting on Thursday, Dec. 19, 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Ste. Marie's church hall in Green Valley. For more information please contact Mary Ellen at 525-4082 or Paulette at 525-2870.

"R-2000 construction includes air-tight vapour seals around windows and electrical outlets."
Oliver Drerup, R-2000 Spokesperson.
What to look for when buying a new home.
For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home—the R-2000 home—is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.
Superior Construction
• greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
• continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.
More Comfort
• reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.
Lower Heating Costs
• the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.
Individually Inspected
• every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

Band and choir concert a hit

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

What do Karie Andre, Ryan Fielding, Bridget Grice, Denis Nacreto and Caroline Blackner have in common? Stumped? Throw in Terry O'Farrell, Andrea Johann, Vicky Peacy, and Kitty Kiar. Still don't know? One last clue, then: Kelly Ann Daigle, Shonna Atchison, Daile Svendsen, and Dave Irwin.

Ah ha! Finally hear a bell ring? That's right! All of the owners of the names mentioned above were makers of music at Sunday evening's Char-Lan Band and Choir Concert. Once again St. Mary's Church was filled, not only with sweet sounds, but with families, friends, and members of the community.

Instrumental director Irwin had only to wave his magic baton, it seemed, to bring forth music from a wide variety of sources: Grades 7 and 8 from Williamstown Public School, the Grade 9 Char-Lan music class, the Adult Class, the Wednesday night group, the Jazz Band, and the Char-Lan Concert Band. But those readers who have students (or parents, or grandparents) involved, know that the magic doesn't lie in the stick, but rather in a four letter word, often preceded by the adjectives: good, hard...! And the hardest worker of all is Mr. Irwin himself.

Sunday evening's repertoire was as varied as its performers. Christmas medleys, ''grab bags,'' and carols were spiced with Scottish salutes, Britannia marches, and cool, cool blues. Though there was truly ''something for everyone,'' the audience picked its favorites: ''Wipe Out'' and ''Blues in the Night.'' The latter featured Ralph (Papa) Svendsen in a trumpet solo that was a delight to hear.

Ken Johns, who, as director of the Char-Lan Choir, must share the spoils of the evening's success, led his group to a performance unparalleled in recent years. From the sweetness of ''In the Bleak Mid-Winter,'' to the catchy ''Little Mermaid,'' members of the choir appeared to not only please their audience, but please themselves as well. In fact some of the ''Little Mermaid'' number featured odd little parts which were not written in the music, but were certainly appreciated by the crowd!

Tracy Runions and Johanna Harrington acted as emcees for the evening which closed with words from the clergy. Dave Irwin's father, Archdeacon P.S. Irwin, retired from the Ottawa Diocese of the Anglican Church, reminded those gathered, ''Sometimes we tend to lose the event in the celebration.'' Father Villeneuve of St. Mary's concluded with the blessing.

Congratulations to all involved in this super community event!

Prior to the concert, a pot-luck supper was held at the high school for the entertainers and members of their families. And while those who ate early gave the meal rave-reviews, late-comers found out the reason for the word ''luck'' in a supper of this sort. Especially the petulant, pouting pig whose own chicken divan even vanished before she had time to get her coat off!

The blame here lies not with organizers, but with those who didn't show up with the food they had been asked to bring. For shame! Such a thing is just NOT done!

There was plenty of food at the Glengarry Community Club's Christmas Dinner held last Wednesday at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, and the pig mentioned above feasted blissfully.

Feeling full and contended, club members and guests sat back and were entertained by the cast of the public school's upcoming concert, ''The Nutcracker.'' Bucky Ross, Richard Malo, Ryan Fielding, and Jackie Leduc, gave sneak preview excerpts, while the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Rosemary Sookman, performed several numbers.

Following their performance, the children were treated to the homemade goodies they have come to think of as being part of preChristmas festivities.

Thanks to Reta Heath and her helpers for their fine job in organizing the afternoon. All your work was certainly appreciated!

* * *

Doug Wereley was present at the event to watch the school children perform. Mr. Wereley will be the principal of Williamstown Public in the New Year, when he will trade his present job as vice-principal of St. Lawrence High School with Brian Loucks.

* * *

Missed, but not forgotten at the Glengarry Club's Dinner was Charlie Heath. Charlie has returned home from hospital in Ottawa, but is still very ill. Our thoughts are with you in this difficult time.

Members of the community are invited to see the public school's ''Nutcracker'' and there are two performances to choose from. Both the matinee, at 1:30 p.m., and the 6:30 evening performance are this Wednesday, Dec. 18.

Readers are reminded that the Williamstown Library will be closed for the holiday season, beginning Dec. 23, and will re-open on Jan. 3. In other words, this Saturday morning will be your last opportunity to stock up on books for the long cold evenings ahead!

We're not sure if he'll make it on Dec. 24, but Santa definitely came to the Firehall on Sunday to visit with all the Williamstown and area kinders. Handing out coloring books, crayons, candy, chips, and drinks. Santa delighted all the young and young-at-hearts who attended.

Sheila Wilcock would like to thank all the members of Picnic Grove W.I. who helped to make their recent 75th anniversary celebrations such a success. Special thanks goes out to Jane and Ann McCuaig, Heather Smith, and Kim MacLachlan for their piping and dancing, and to Wendy Woollven for her stalwart work in the kitchen.

More information on the dinner itself will appear in a subsequent column.

Readers are asked to submit any information for the next issue of this paper before Thursday of this week. Otherwise, due to holiday deadlines, you won't be seeing your news until 1992!

Just last week I was telling you about the booklet, ''Memories of Education in Williamstown.'' This week I must tell you that one of the teachers mentioned frequently in the book as having had a lasting impression on her students, has died. Mae (Mary) MacDonell, teacher of math at Williamstown High School and Char-Lan up until her retirement in 1957, passed away in Victoria, B.C. on the weekend.

Miss MacDonell, a native of Lancaster had reached the mathematically impressive age of 101 at the time of her death. Tributes to her ability as a teacher were numerous. Rose Gourlay Gosse, in her book, ''I remember Glengarry,'' claims that Miss MacDonell got her over her fear of a triangle, while Pearl Rozon says, ''She could teach anyone math.''

I would like to hear other reminiscences about this fine lady from our readers. Give me a call, please.

Sympathy is extended to the many family members of Leonard Lauzon who died last week in hospital in Cornwall.

I don't often re-read my columns, but on a procrastination binge last week that made me read every bit of matter I could get my paws on, I chanced upon my latest bit of writing. Imagine my horror when I discovered that I had spelled the word ''draught'', DR-A-F-T.

But that was not the worst shock. According to Webster's Dictionary, ''draft'' is a perfectly respectable spelling for the thing which comes in under the door. But then, I suppose I shouldn't be too surprised: in Webster's even ''alright'' is considered to be all right. Yuk!

Glenmay Farms first at the gate in sign contest

Martintown
Jean Butler

Congratulations go out to John and Stephen McIntosh and family who own and operate the Glenmay Farm, for winning the overall prize for the best gate sign in a competition organized by the Glengarry Holstein Club.

Robert McDonell, president of the Glengarry Holstein Club, explained each contestant had to submit a coloured photograph of the gate sign leading to the farm.

The contest was open to all dairy farmers in Glengarry County.

The McIntoshs received $100 for the win. Bernie and Joanne St. Denis of Alexandria (Derburn Farm - $75) won second prize, third prize winner was Garret and Diana Sturkenboom of Williamstown (Sturkenboom Farm - $50), fourth prize Lyle and Barbara Howes of Alexandria (Glenlock Farm - $30), and fifth prize went out to Adrien and Annie St. Denis (Denvan Farm - $25).

The prize money was provided by the Glengarry Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and there were 17 entries in the competition.

The object of the contest is to create a little interest in the farming community and provide the Holstein Club with some promotional material which will be used later, to help promote the dairy industry in Glengarry.

The entries were received and judged by the office of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food in Alexandria.

I made a mistake in last week's article when I said that Alison Murray would be on the UCW nominating committee with Onagh Ross: It was Jean McIntosh who graciously accepted that position. Sorry about that error Jean.

Christmas present ideas locally can be purchased from Onagh Ross at 528-4488, in the stories of Martintown written by Rhodes Grant ''The Story of Martintown'' a pioneer village, ''Horse and Buggy Days in Martintown'' and ''Fair Folk (Children's)'' and she also has ''Lancaster Township and Village'' by Winter has really arrived with vengeance. Boy she sure is cold this morning. And wasn't that some storm we had?

* * *

The Alexandria bowling alley was the scene of Friday night's bowling escapade, when 11 ladies of the Dalhousie Friendship Group decided to try their hand at the game. Some were near pros, while others had never bowled before. It was a lot of fun and much merriment.

The evening was topped off by a lovely lunch of Christmas goodies served at the MacDonald residence.

Since it was Friday the 13th, nobody ventured to yell "break a leg." Everyone returned home safe and sound.

Lodge News

Last Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 10, the Dalhousie United Church Women's group met at the Davidson Moore Lodge to sing Christmas carols for the residents. The singing, along with the poinsettias and Christmas decorations given to the residents, was much appreciated. A lovely lunch was enjoyed by all.

Martintown 4-H held its achievement award program at the Glengarry District High School in Alexandria, Nov. 28, along with eight other clubs. The clubs were under the names of: milk makes it better, financial fitness, explore 4-H, and protecting planet earth.

Each club put on an entertainment show for their parents and friends.

The Martintown club entertained the audience with a rap number, and its club exhibit had many attractive t-shirts and posters relating to "protecting the earth."

Delicious snacks and milk were served to all, and it was an enjoyable evening.

The Christmas Parade was a great success with pretty good weather for it as well. First prize trophy went to the Martintown Public School, second prize trophy went to the Blue Chargers of Cornwall, and third prize trophy was won by the Martintown Optimist Club.

Two people won the trophy for clowns: one was Elizabeth Rankin who was a black and white clown and the other winner was a Christmas tree. This trophy will be shared throughout the year, each keeping it six months each.

Martintown Good-Timers had a good turn out for their turkey luncheon, Wed., Dec. 11 at the community centre. This annual event was enjoyed by about 50 seniors, many of whom stayed for card and board games, after a most delicious meal.

Congratulations to the executive for all the work that went into this special day, and best wishes on your future endeavours.

I am sorry to hear Leanard Lauzon passed away Dec. 10 at the Hotel Dieu Hospital at age 75.

Deepest sympathy to his daughter Elaine Flaro and her family.

The Glengarry News had its Christmas dinner and dance, at the Alexandria Curling Club and my what a merry gathering. My husband Rene and I had a very delightful evening. It's a real pleasure working with such a fine crew; it is no wonder we have such an outstanding paper. I understand that next year we will be celebrating the "Centennial Year" for the paper.

What a beautiful drive we had up through Green Valley, with all the Christmas lights making it a sight to behold and remember.

* * *

Santa came to visit the children at St. Andrews United Church Sunday Dec. 15 after they celebrated the Sunday School pageant and White Gift Sunday. I'm sure everyone heard the church bells ringing to commemorate the event. Congratulations to all, it was a very festive occasion.

TOWN OF ALEXANDRIA
CONCERNING A PROPOSED OFFICIAL PLAN AMENDMENT

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Alexandria will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, January 7th, 1992 at 7:30 p.m. at the municipal office to consider a proposed zoning bylaw amendment, under Section 17 of the Planning Act.

The proposed Official Plan Amendment would change the designation of approximately 14,000 (plus/minus) sq. ft. of land, lying immediately north of Part 1 Plan 14R2683 and directly south of Part 2 Plan 14R1125, having a frontage of approximately one hundred & twenty (120.00') feet more or less along Main Street and a depth of one hundred and twenty five (125.00') feet more or less along Jacques Street, from 'Resdiential Special Policy' to 'Commercial'. The Official Plan Amendment is required in order that the current vacant land which is situated on an arterial road would serve better as a Commercial (limited use) use, with intensified commercial use to the north, Institutional to the east, Residential Second Density to the west and Residential First Density to the south. An Open House will be held prior to the Public Meeting (from 4:00 - 6:30 p.m.) in the Council chambers. Municipal staff will be available to meet the public and answer questions.

Any person may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of or in opposition to the proposed amendment. Additional information relating to the proposed amendment is available for inspection at the Town Office during regular office hours.
