Glengarry welcomes Stanley's conqueror

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

A outpouring of pride brought over 150 Glengarrians to Tapis Richard Ranger Carpets to meet Hawkesbury native Bob Hartley on Monday.

The coach of the Stanley Cup champion Colorado Avalanche was on hand from 2:15-4:30 p.m. to sign autographs and meet Glengarrians.

"We all love NHL hockey and it's amazing to see any superstars," said Alexandria resident Jenny Shackleton, 13. "He held the Stanley Cup, it's just mind-blowing that he came to this little town."

Shackleton's uncle played with Hartley when he played for the Glens in the 1970s.

"I feel very proud and happy that someone from around here went so far and led a team to the Stanley Cup," she added.

Among the fans pouring in were a lot of young children.

"I like him because he's from the team I like the most," said Patrick Quesnel, 10.

"It was so cool," said Vankleek Hill's Clark McGillis, 9

Others came to reunite with their former coach or teammate.

"He coached me when I a was a kid and I followed his whole career," said Alexandria resident Michel Burcelle, who attended Hartley's goaltending school in St. Isidore.

"It's the same person I knew when I was young. It's great to see he hasn't changed even though he's a big star."

Among the crowd were some non-hockey fans as well.

"I came just to say thank you," said Erin MacDonell, who received $1,000 as part of the Bob Hartley scholarship two years ago. "He's a really nice guy and it's a really nice think he does to give money to people going to school."

For Hartley, the day was a way to get back to his roots.

"It's always great to be back in my hometown area, no matter what I bring with me. This year there's the extra spice of bringing the Stanley Cup to the area."

He added that bringing the cup to the area will send a positive message to children.

"It's fun because usually with the Stanley Cup come all your friends and many kids. We want our game to keep progressing and I think that we have to make sure that we give those little kids a reason to believe. If I was able to do it with my team, well it's a sign that everybody else can do it."

Proceeds from posters and video tapes bought at Richard Ranger on Monday went to the Bob Hartley scholarship fund. The fund gives $1,000 to graduating high school students in local schools who excel in studies and are active in the community. See photo page 3.

GROWING PENNIES: Heather Lynn McDonell, 6, got a surprise last Tuesday when she discovered a penny inside the ear of a corn which was bought that day by her mother, Brenda McDonell, at a Glengarry vegetable stand. It was a 1986 issue, the same year her parents met.

Local wants Fox Run here

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

Say the name, 'Terry Fox', and for most people it instantly conjures up an image of a determined young man awkwardly but powerfully running on one leg, his tousled wavy brown hair bouncing with each stride.

Boeckh

A Martintown-area resident hopes Fox's incredible story will inspire others like him to organize a Terry Fox Run this September.

"I saw the notice in your paper a few weeks ago, asking for someone to organize the run," Douglas Boeckh, 42, told The News on Monday.

"And last year you wrote something about it then. I thought about but decided to stay on the sidelines."

Boeckh admitted he is something of a neophyte at organizing this kind of a fundraiser, so he hopes other Glengarrians, with this experience come forward.

As almost anyone older than about 25, Fox's amazing journey and its heart-wrenching end is burned into his memory.

"I was planting trees in BC (when he died). I know exactly the time and place when someone told me that," said Boeckh, who is now veterinarian working in Ottawa.

Boeckh figures he needs an organizing committee of about six members: each to look after specific areas such as registration, merchandising, the course, publicity, corporate sponsorships and the run itself.

"After that we will need about 15 to 20 volunteers just for the day of the run."

To help publicize the event, he also wants needs sponsors to buy a 30-foot long banner to hang overhead of Alexandria's Main Street.

"This could be used every year for the run," he said.

But first, a committee needs to be struck. Anyone interested in helping Boeckh can reach him by calling 931-3264, 613-722-0251 or emailing drcat@cnwl.igs.net.

Ruins supporters need more money

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

The Friends of St. Raphael's Ruins is in urgent need of money and time is a crucial factor to prevent the deterioration the heritage site.

"The east wall is particularly bad. There are stones out of it now and the mortar is really deteriorating. There are cracks in the wall and the exposure to the terrible winters plays havoc with it," said Joan MacDonald, secretary/treasurer of the group.

The friends need $450,000 to complete the restoration of all the outside walls.

"(The east wall) is not going to fall down tomorrow, that's for sure, but if you don't repair it now it's just going to cost more Continued on page 18

Highland Games ready to ceilidh

BY DONA CRUICKSHANK
Highland Games Diary

The grass is cut, the paint is fresh and the last number has been added to the new seats in the renovated grandstands. The grounds are ready, waiting expectantly to see what this year's Games will bring.

Friday Night Tattoo

On Friday after a full day of Highland dancing competitions, Piobaireachd piping, and Amateur and Masters heavyweights, the grandstands will fill to capacity with people seeking good vantage points for one of the best summer shows to be found anywhere.

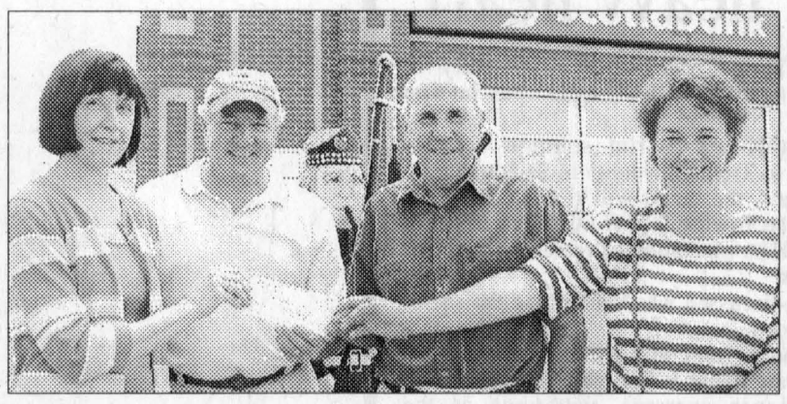
At 6:30 pm, the Massed Fiddlers, Irish Dancers, and Pat Kelly and Pat Maher, come on stage to warm up the crowd for the Tattoo and Concert that follow at 7:30 pm. Seventy-five massed fiddlers will play three jigs.

Again this year, the evening concert gets off to an impressive start with the Massed Pipe Bands and the Massed Highland Fling along with parachutists descending with flags as the national anthems are sung. Following "The Flowers of Scotland", two crowd favourites, the Brigadoons and 200 MacCulloch dancers, take to the field to get the evening's entertainment off on a lively note. This year to honour our Games and its 54 years, Rae MacCulloch has dressed 54 Highland dancers in shawls created from our own Games tartan.

Another new treat for this year's show is the combined Ottawa Police Services Pipe Band and the recently formed RCMP Pipe Band who will perform with a colour party and their own dancers.

Kelli Trottier headlines concert

Everyone in Glengarry will be thrilled to see Kelli Trottier perform centre-stage at the Games. Kelli grew up in Dunvegan and has gone on to earn international honours in fiddling.



BAND CHIPS IN: The Scotia Bank of Maxville donated $5,000 as part of the Glengarry Highland Games patrons program. From left, Angele Scott, from manager of customer service gave the cheque to Bill Campbell, chair of building and fundraising, Kent MacSweyn, chair of the patrons program, and patrons committee member Anne Stewart.

The tempo then changes to a more military air as the Band of the Ceremonial Guard enters the field. Midway through their performance they will be joined by the Ottawa Police Services Pipe Band and the RCMP Pipe Band.

Dance the night away

Those who still have the energy can join the hundreds of others as they make their way to the Friday night dances. In the Arena, Brandy 'n' Port and McMartin Fiddle will perform, while in the Angus Grey, the Brigadoons will keep the fans dancing. Over in the tents, Hadrian's Wall and the Glengarry Bhoys will entertain the more energetic crowd. For Friday night, those who wish to attend the dances and have not paid admission to the Games, will have to pay a $10 fee. On Saturday, the price of admission to the Games includes the dances.

There are still some grandstand tickets available for Friday evening's show. Saturday grandstand seats are sold out.

New blood donor clinic emblematic of crisis

BY SUE HARRINGTON
News Correspondent

The co-ordinator of donor services for the Canadian Blood Services says a new generation of donors is desperately needed.

Claude Laperriere told The News on Monday at a blood clinic held at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre in Williamstown that young people have to be encouraged to become donors in order to replace the generation of veterans who are now too old.

"That whole generation that went through World War II, we didn't even have to ask them," said Laperriere. "Now we are really striving to get high school students to start giving blood, because we are losing a whole generation."

Laperriere said on Monday that she was gratified that 15 per cent of the donors at the clinic were first-timers.

"We had one whole family come in and they had been encouraged to do so by their 17 year-old."

The clinic in Williamstown was a first, at least within the last 30 years or so. Laperriere, a township resident, said she got the idea to hold it in South Glengarry after learning about the tragic accident in June involving Char-Lan students.

"Looking for new sites to develop can be a challenge," said Laperriere, who added she had had wonderful support from South Glengarry officials in setting up the clinic which was held on the floor of the arena.

The clinic was also supported by the Ontario Provincial Police which acted as sponsors for the event.

Many of those who donated blood on Monday did so because of family or friends who had benefitted from the Canadian Blood Services.

"Ever since my cousin had a double lung and liver transplant, I've wanted to give," said first-time donor, Megan Sloan, of Williamstown.

Farley partnership breeds optimism

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

A new era has dawned at Farley Windows, and the light it will cast on Glengarry should be brighter than ever.

"Our strategic plan, really, is to bring to double the sales in five years," said Farley Windows director of finances Doug Underwood, one of the new co-owners.

The Farley family sold the firm last week to NB Capital Partners, Cornerstone Partners and Farley management.

More sales naturally translate into job creation, which has been a sort of by-word at the Macdonald Boulevard plant, especially since the mid-1990s.

"We just passed 330 and we're heading into our peak season of September and October," Underwood said.

Boasting these kind of numbers and optimism, Farley's performance has only been equalled by Alexandria Moulding the past several years.

And the local people who have worked at Farley since it opened in 1982 can claim much of the credit.

"We have a very good labour force," Underwood said. "The people have been here for years – they're not moving. It's not a transient territory, so there's always a large workforce available and a good workforce and that's part of the company's success. And I don't think that's going to dry up."

But these workers owe, nonetheless, gratitude to a family of Pennsylvania extract, the Farleys.

It was in 1952 that Frank Farley started Windoors, a maker of aluminum windows in Montreal. It achieved some success and survived Frank's death about 30 years ago.

Continued by his widow, Grace, and their daughter, Patricia, Windoors eventually expanded to take advantage of a new material – PVC or polyvinylchloride.

"It's now taken over the market," Underwood said.

So a 6,000-square-foot building was built and the off-shoot was called Farley Windows.

Eventually, the new arrival out-lasted the parent company. Windoors amalgamated with Farley and was dissolved in the mid-1990s.

"They moved Windoors here and then closed down the aluminum (manufacturing). It has remained Farley because the most popular window is the PVC," Underwood said.

By the mid-90s the company employed about 100 and was about to embark on its current growth spree.

Two major factors – one of the company's own making and another outside its control – provided the impetus for unprecedented growth.

Farley realized the Massena plant was not meeting expectations.

"We figured it would be cheaper to produce (in Massena) than here," Underwood said. "And that wasn't the case at all. Especially when you have to handle everything and all our sales are in Canada at that time.

"You got duties, handling problems and trucking problems. We realized it was costing a lot of money."

This predicament would mean great promise for Alexandria.

"We closed down the manufacturing and put it all under (Alexandria's) roof and expanded our sales into the US," Underwood said.

"And once we established ourselves in the US the company just took off.

"The strategy was then to sell into the US and then start producing when we can't handle it over here."

Farley's sales projection for this year is about $60 million.

Massena still has a Farley operation, called Farley Windows USA Inc. It has 16 employees who process US orders, provide customer service and technical support

"They're very, very good, but everything else is done here."

The other influencing factor was the booming US economy of the late 90s.

"We have a very good product at a very good price, with a very good delivery and we were able to develop our sales quite quickly in the US," Underwood said.

State-side consumption now accounts for 65 per cent of Farley's sales.

Domestic sales have also been strong, especially with Farley landing the Home Depot contract in Ontario and expanding into Quebec and the Maritimes.

The effect on Glengarry and the surrounding area has been noticed.

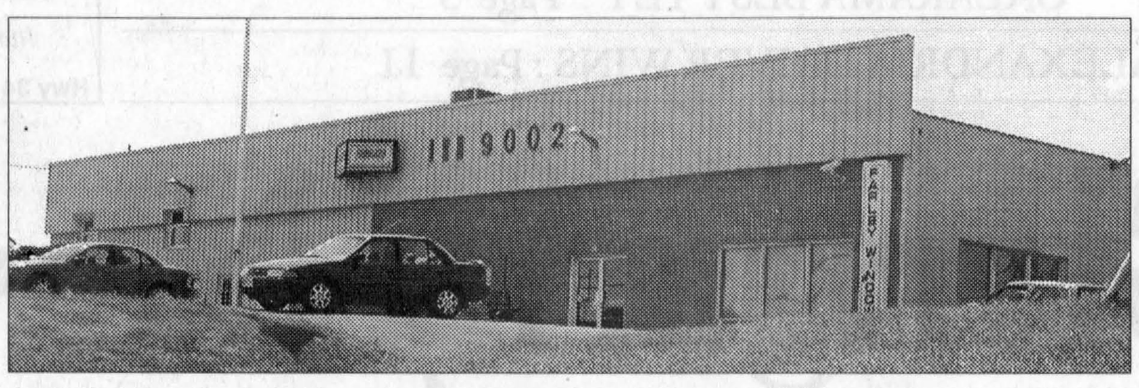
Underwood estimates Farley's annual payroll is about $11.44 million or an average salary of $34,666 per employee.

Now Underwood expects the ownership consortium to lead Farley to greater success.

"We're looking for bigger and bigger things. By getting together with these type of people it gives us the opportunity to get there quicker.

"It gives us a broader base to work from. The other partners are interested in developing this company into a bigger company right here (in Alexandria)."

He said NB Capital Partners will give financial support and Cornerstone, an owner of other window makers, will transfer market expertise from these other manufacturers.



NEW ERA: The Farley Windows plant on Macdonald Boulevard will likely undergo more expansions to meet expected growth.

New blood donor clinic emblematic of crisis

For Bryan Ward, also of Williamstown, the explanation was simple. "My mother made me," he said.

Ward's mother, Amy, who has used the blood services frequently, was present at the clinic drumming up support.

Unfortunately, not all who showed up on Monday ready to donate, were accepted. One lady was told there was "something wrong" with her blood; another was refused on the grounds that she had the remnants of an undiagnosed rash on her arms, and still another could not donate because she had spent more than six months living in England.

Laperriere admitted it was frustrating turning away would-be donors when the need for blood was so great, but said that stringent screening was necessary.

"The blood collected today will be used by the end of the weekend," she said, as the drivers made runs to Ottawa every two hours on Monday.

"If everyone who could donate blood, did so every 56 days, we would have no problems."

The organization of a clinic takes some doing. In addition to the approximately 20 employees of the Canadian Blood Services who made the trek to Williamstown, there was a team of volunteers led by volunteer convenor Bev Graham. The volunteers serve refreshments to the donors and make sure they are in a fit condition to drive home afterwards. They also keep track of which donors are eligible to receive awards.

Although the turn-out in Williamstown was light on Monday, Laperriere vowed to return, perhaps at another time of the year, and with more advance notice.

"It's a first experience here, but we'll be back," she said.

Arena manager leaves with heavy heart

"I'll miss the relationships I developed with the people that I worked with," Hart said. "I'll definitely miss the volunteers."

Hart said the Sports Palace is lucky to have tremendous volunteers who rarely get the recognition they deserve.

Prior to becoming manager, Hart was a coach, manager and planner of sporting events. However, he will not return as a volunteer in the near future.

"Not right now, I have a really full agenda at home too. But it's something I will consider in the future for sure because I believe in sports and the youth."

He remains the director of planning for the township.

Anna McGillis, who was hired four months ago as secretary, resigned to take another job.

At a special meeting held Monday night, board members appointed Tammy MacSweyn – currently in charge of the Glengarry Soccer League – as interim secretary.

But this is merely an interim solution because MacSweyn returns to Trent University in September.

As for future plans, the board will request the same arrangement with the Township of North Glengarry as it had in the case of Hart - a combined recreation director and sports manager.

Another solution discussed was to combine the secretary and manager jobs.

"It would be good if you could get one person to do both jobs," said board member George Currier.

The sports manager oversees operations at the Glengarry Sports Palace as well as the Maxville Sports Complex and the Island Park.

GLENGARRY SCENE

Summer favourite sets new standard

BY ANNA-MARGARET MACDONALD
News Correspondent

The biggest crowd ever turned out to enjoy the St. Raphael's Galarama on Sunday afternoon. Ideal sunny weather with a light breeze made it an exceptionally pleasant day to enjoy a delightful program.

Denis Carr, as emcee and vocalist with the Brigadoons, opened the program. Accordionist Bob Taylor is currently holidaying with relatives in Newfoundland but members of the band present included Jackie Smith, Luanne Doyle and Benita Leblanc. Great old favourites!

The Peelers band, whose name I'm told originated with an Irish police historical group, made their debut at the Galarama and were well accepted. Playing were Steve McIntosh of St. Andrews on bass, Nelson McPherson of Kirk Hill on accordion, Chris Stewart on drums and Dave Barton, vocalist, both of Ste. Anne de Prescott, and Laggan's Kenton McBean as guest violinist. Eric Diamond of Victoriaville, Que. played the whistle.

Piano and vocal soloist Muriel Leduc was well accepted with her presentation of variety numbers.

Young violinists Kelsey and Cassie McDonell demonstrated how they win trophies in competitions all around Ontario.

The star of North American dance competition, Kelly Vander Burg, once again demonstrated the reason she wins so many championships.

Granddaughters of Cuthbert and Teresa McDonald, Alison and Emily of Sudbury put on a "River Dance" number which provided a contrast to its usual highland dancing.

And then there were several demonstrations by the wonderful MacCulloch dancers who never compete but not because they also wouldn't win medals. They dance to entertain and are experts at that.

The evening dance in the Ruins geared to the teens was outstanding to watch. (I'm beyond that age group.) I couldn't get over the participation - no wallflowers sitting on the side; just everyone got in there and participated with every inch of energy they had.

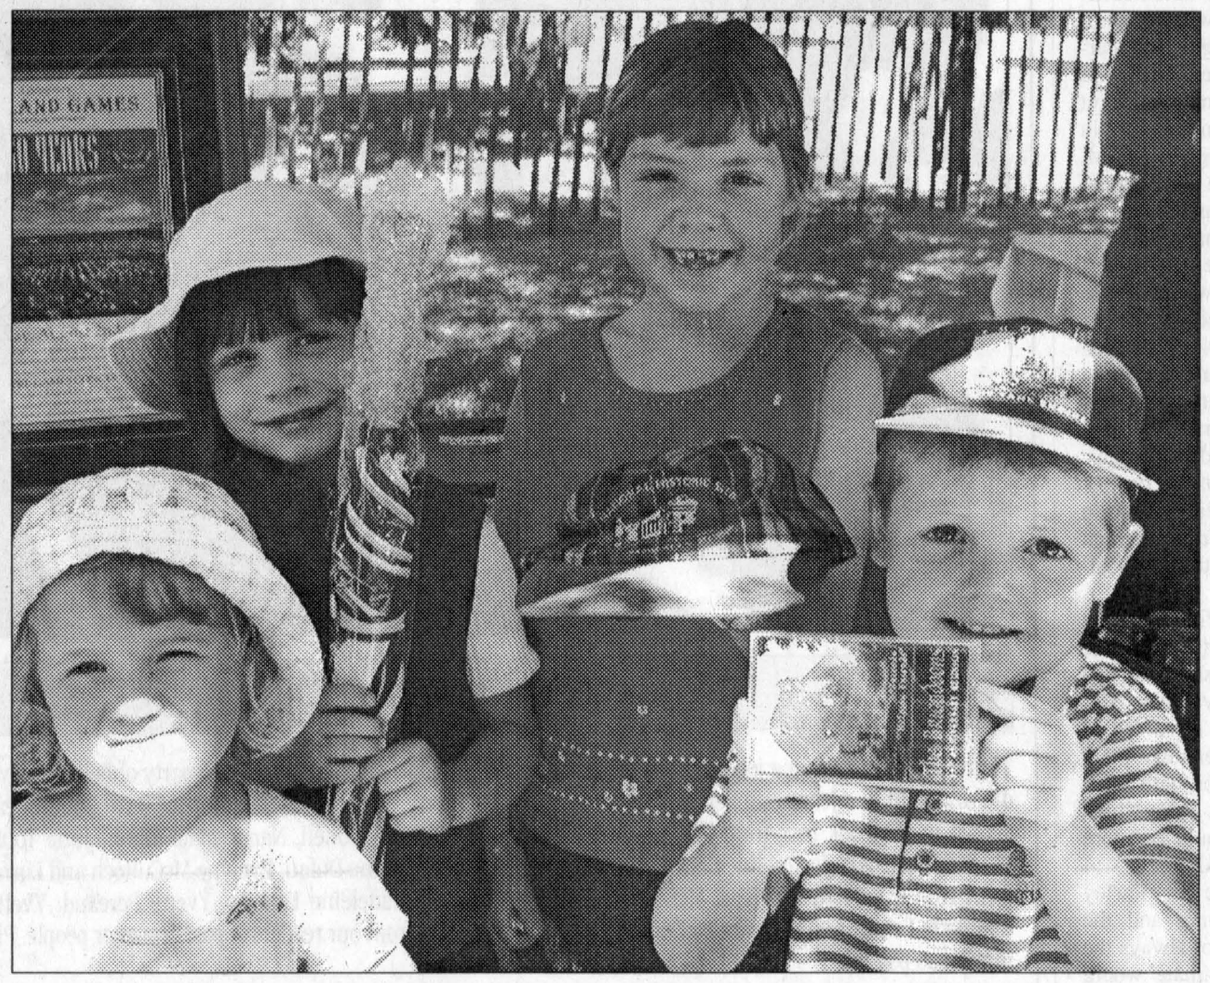
Gilles Levac of the Haggis group who played commented: "We have our own style of music in this area so we know what the kids want." Yep, just the same old Scottish, Irish and French tradition, only for the young they play faster and louder. Had there been a roof on the place it would have blown off! Such enthusiasm was great to watch.

Haggis, in addition to pianist Gilles, included Jason Mitchell on drums, Nick Seguin, vocalist and guitar, Glen Forrestor on bass, Jeff Barker on fiddle and Brent Santin on flute and whistle.

Winners of the draw were: Barry MacDonald, Glen Norman, $1,000; $100 each: Jacob Macdonell, Green Valley, Shirley McIntosh, Monkland, Norma Levac, Brown House, Kim Villeneuve, Cornwall, and Maureen Renaud, Williamstown.

Elizabeth Renaud won the quilt and Miss Goulet won the basket of goodies.

Winners at the hockey booth were Brodie MacDonald and Ross Franklin, hockey sticks, and Jean Patrice Pagér who won a hockey stick and also a pair of hockey pads.



GALARAMA GIFTS: The St. Raphael's Galarama hosted many booths including this one where memorabilia of St. Raphael's Ruins were available. IN BRIEF

PUC money kept for a rainy day

There is a change of plans for $900,000 of the $2.7 million North Glengarry Public Utilities Commission sale.

The money will be placed in a special reserve fund, which will be accessed whenever there are repairs or upgrades are needed for the Alexandria water and sewage system.

Originally, the $900,000 was to pay off the water and sewage system debt, which would eliminate annual interest charges. But Council won't do that because any change in operating expenses would make user fees fluctuate from one year to the next, said Mayor Bill Franklin.

Lalonde office has new employee

MPP Jean-Marc Lalonde announced in July that Martine Nadeau has been newly appointed as constituency assistant.

Her responsibilities include answering questions about governmental and provincial programs and directing the calls to the proper location.

She is also acting as liaison between the people and the government.

If people have questions or concerns, they are invited to call the office at 525-4605 during office hours which have been extended. Hours are now Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a..m. until 12 p.m.

Tera McGotcheez recording first CD

BY LAURA PATRICK
News Reporter

Traditional Celtic music is a large part of Glengarry. Local band Tera McGotcheez is just one of the groups in the area that continues to keep the tradition alive.

The band is currently putting together their first CD, entitled Cross Down Tour. Lead guitar player, Al Fraser, expects the CD will be completed for release by either late summer or early fall.

"We've got half of it done. We should be back in the studio soon to finish the rest after we play our next few concerts."

One of those concerts was the Williamstown Fire Hall fundraiser last Saturday. Their work will also be on display at the Glengarry Highland Games. The band is a late addition to play one of the beer tents on Saturday evening.

Tera McGotcheez formed four years ago when five friends decided that it would be fun to play together. Since then, the band has increased to six, adding an extra pipe player and continues to play for local events.

Fraser said that the band formed because they all enjoy the music.

"We enjoy what we play. We play traditional and Celtic music and have added some newer selections like that of Great Big Sea. We try to stay away from music with a rock sound."

The group plays locally as well as in festivals in Ottawa and Kingston.

"We just finished opening a beach volleyball tournament in Ottawa," said Fraser. "We were the only Celtic band among five rock bands there."

The instrumentation of the band compiles a mixture of Celtic sounds. The band has two pipers, one drummer, a bass player and two guitar players, of which one also plays the banjo.

However, the band is not a full-time career for the group.

"It's something that we do besides our everyday jobs," said Fraser.

The band likes to pick and choose where they are going to play.

"That way it doesn't seem like a job," Fraser said. "Instead it's something that we all enjoy."

The band is made up of six friends from Glengarry and the surrounding area; Al Fraser, John Vipond, Steven McIntosh, Pierre Baril, Joel Braunstein and Michael Fraser.

McIntosh plugs away with 'pop' music

BY LAURA PATRICK
News Reporter

It takes heart, it takes courage, and it takes the ability to keep going even when times are tough. To make it in the music world, one has to go where the music is hot and the deals are available.

John McIntosh

For John McIntosh, formerly of Apple Hill, and now living in Toronto, finding his place in the music world is a challenge which been immersed in for more than a decade.

McIntosh left Glengarry for Toronto in 1988 to start his career. After only being in the city for a few weeks, he was already playing with local bands.

McIntosh's music style has changed three times since he first started.

"I played with a band called Wasteland for a while, which was heavy rock, before changing that to country. Now, I'm more of a pop singer," said McIntosh.

McIntosh got a development deal with Warner Bros. Records in the States and left for Nashville in 1999. There he worked with producer Doug Grau, along with Travis Tritt and Little Texas.

After playing and singing country for a year, McIntosh decided to return to Toronto.

"They wanted me to record Nashville songs rather than letting me write my own stuff," McIntosh said.

After returning to Toronto, McIntosh decided to change to pop.

"It was a huge change, but at the same time, it also didn't seem like that huge a change," he said. "My country singing was similar to pop music, so while it does look like a huge change from country to pop, it also isn't."

McIntosh took a few months off after returning to Toronto, before he started to write music again.

"When I started again, I wrote music with Mike Kay from Nellie Furtado's band, and Mladin Barozik of Triumph," he said.

After he started writing again, he went through a few producers before ending up working with Pete Lesperance (Harem Scarem and Warner Bros.).

With the aid of Kay, Barozik and a few others, McIntosh co-wrote and put together a four-song CD sampler of pop music.

"Now all I have to do is shop around for a deal," he said.

Where will he go shopping for this deal?

"I'm probably going to head back to the States to shop the record."

It's not that he has anything against Canadian companies, he said, it's just that it is a little easier to make a musical living with a record label in the States.

"Hopefully, I will have a deal in place within the next couple of months," he said.

McIntosh has also had videos on Much Music and CMT.

Promoting region at La Francophonie

BY LAURA PATRICK
News Reporter

Local residents are taking part in the Francophonie Games in Ottawa. However, they are not there as participants. They are there to help promote tourism in eastern Ontario.

Debbie Baker

Debbie Baker, head of five Ontario Travel centres in Ontario, who works out of Cornwall, is part of the team that is representing and promoting tourism in Ontario.

"We are on site in the Ontario pavilion with a kiosk," said Baker.

Baker and her team are working together with local businesses and attractions from around eastern Ontario to help promote the tourism in this section of the province.

"We are working together with DMOs and have put together a booklet to help provide ideas of what there is to see and do in the area," Baker said.

The idea of having a kiosk at the Francophonie Games came about in February. The organizers wanted to promote tourism in the area, so they enlisted the aid of Ontario Travel to put together a brochure.

"The brochure is bilingual and gives people lots of ideas for activities, dinner and accommodations," said Baker.

She also mentioned that everyone who is working there is having a great time.

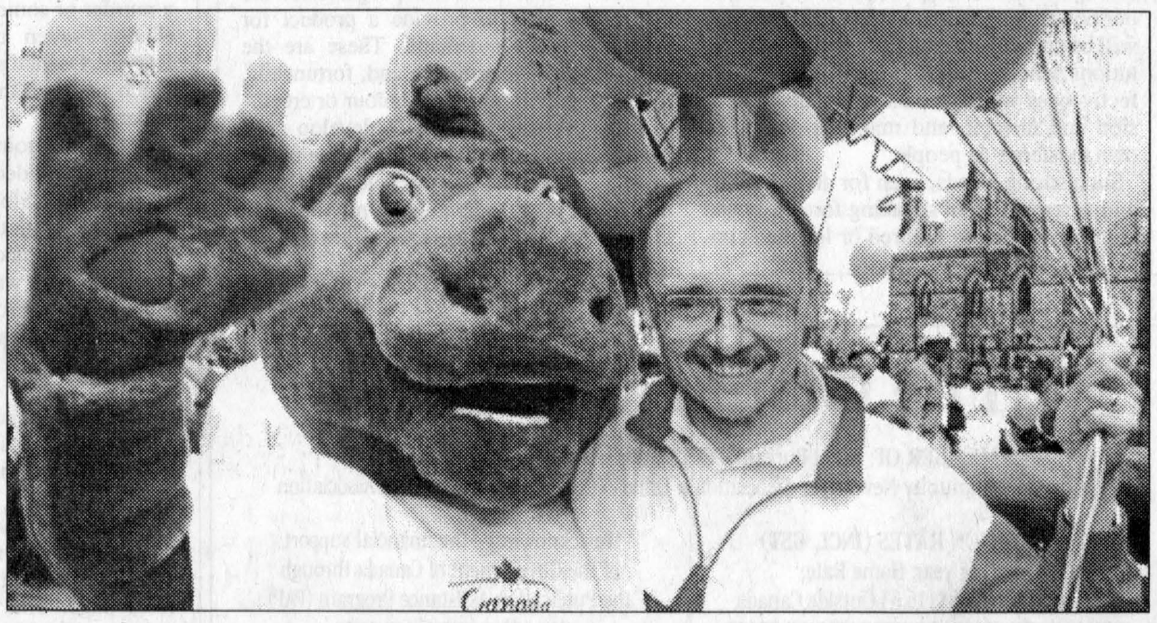
"I think I can honestly say that everyone is having a blast."

The team tending to the booth is made up of travel counselors from the local tourism centres.

Of course, Baker still has her other duties as manager of five centres to take care of.

"However, I can say that about 80 per cent of my time is still spent at the booth."

The kiosk is located in the Ontario pavilion in Major's Hill Park. The booth opened on July 12 and continued to promote tourism until July 24, when the Games held its closing ceremonies.



WHAT A TEAM!: Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria, Minister of State, was also the chair of the steering committee of the IV Games of La Francophonie 2001. Here is received a hug from "Panaché", Team Canada's mascot for the IV Games of La Francophonie.

Past, present demonstrate evolution of local industry

Whenever a company changes hands these days, it gives the community it's located in pause for reflection. This is due largely to the new dynamic at play in today's global economy where companies often seem to pick up leave at the drop of the hat, and not just from their current location but sometimes the country or even a continent. Fortunately, that doesn't appear to be the case at Farley Windows Ltd., one of this area's well-established industries, which announced last week that its ownership has changed hands.

With better than 330 employees – ranking second only to Alexandria Moulding Inc., which boasts some 400 employees plus an additional 300 on the U.S. west coast – Farley makes a substantial contribution in the community with a payroll exceeding $11.44 million annually. That's an important chunk of change, of which a good portion is spent here in the community.

But there's more to the role that industry plays in the community than simply providing jobs. As much as it has been fashionable at times to focus on some of the possible side effects associated with industry such as odour or excessive noise, it's important to remember that not only do these companies contribute economically through their payroll and purchases of local supplies and material, but they and their employees often play a critical role in developing the fabric of the community through their participation in various organizations, events and fund-raisers.

Alexandria, and Glengarry in general, has been fortunate in recent times to have three significant family owned companies such as Alexandria Moulding, Farley Windows and Betty Bread/Lanthier Bakeries as well as several other non-family operations such as Consoltex and Alltech, whose predecessors include such brand-name giants as Carnation and Nestle. Combined with agriculture, they have helped to provide a solid economic base that is unusual for a community of this size.

Glengarry, and Alexandria in particular, has a long history of industrial development. Back at the turn of the century, the Munro and McIntosh Company Limited was one of the major players in the sleigh and wheeled-vehicles business, which was the principal source of personal transportation despite the advent of the automobile. By 1908, M&M, as it was known, was shipping better than 10,000 sleighs and carriages annually. One year later it was the central player in the kind of major market merger, which has become commonplace in recent times. The deal, fashioned by M&M, involved the Tudhope Carriage Company of Orillia, Heaney Carriage and Harness Company of Montreal and Canada Carriage Company of Brockville. But even the best of deals can't save a company which fails to keep pace with the times. As recently as the end of the Second World War, M&M continued to believe that there would always be a need for its products, given that many locals stored their vehicles during the winter season here and still relied on sleighs. Today, the fact that no trace of the firm or its plant and offices, which were located in the north end of town across from the high school, serves as a reminder that no business is immune from change.

In that regard, Farley Windows has already demonstrated an ability to change and adapt to the times. As our story on page 2 notes, the company has outlived its predecessor, Windoors, which was dissolved in the mid-90s. As well, the Glengarry plant has also survived in competition with a sister facility in nearby Massena, N.Y., which company officials thought would be more competitive than the operation here.

Success stories like those of Farley Windows, Alexandria Moulding and the other major players here are not always the norm today in a business climate where you're only as good as your last quarterly report. For the moment, however, local industry has stood the test of time. Hopefully, they will continue to evolve, grow, and be a major part of the Glengarry community for many years to come.

Raising rhetoric distorts reality

Several weeks ago, Matthew Coon Come, the elected leader of the Assembly of First Nations, raised the level of rhetoric regarding native rights to an unacceptable pitch by suggesting in a speech to a native conference in Halifax that Canada is trying to "extinguish" natives through its insidious policies.

As has been his wont in previous speeches that on occasion attacked other native leaders, Coon Come did not mince his words. "What is happening is the continuing implementation of policies of assimilation and extinguishment through infliction of conditions of social despair," he told the conference. "One by one our people will be forced to give up the struggle for our cultural survival. They are forced to disappear into the Canadian "mainsteam." This is a social catastrophe and a violation of our fundamental human rights."

Some have attributed this increased combativeness by Coon Come to his need to stave off a leadership challenge that has been brewing since his election last year, given those earlier criticisms of native leaders including the charge that they have failed to set a good example for native peoples. But it would be a grave miscalculation to write it off simply as politics.

As a partial reading of his text demonstrates, clearly Coon Come harbours considerable antipathy regarding Canada and its institutions in general. "There are forces that would like to see us eliminated from the face of the earth," he charged. "If they can no longer do it through actual physical destruction, then it will be attempted through laws that strip us, point by point, of our powers to govern ourselves as people. It will be attempted through systems and institutions whose inappropriateness and ineffectiveness will leave us in a state of division and turmoil, and make us doubt our own existence as people."

Such strong words, even for an individual with a reputation of speaking forcefully and bluntly, can not be ignored or labelled simply as politics. One newspaper, The Ottawa Citizen, found them sufficiently offensive to suggest in an editorial that he owes all Canadians an apology. Whether one is forthcoming is a moot point. Nonetheless, Coon Come does little good for his cause by engaging in such inflammatory rhetoric.

According to Coon Come, native peoples "are forced to endure poverty" because they have been denied their rights to their lands, their resources and to govern themselves. He would have us believe that there are simple solutions to the plight of native people if only the federal government would give them more money and representaiton. This, despite the fact that Canada presently provides some $7 billion annually to natives living on reserves, about $20,000 per head and that there is one chief or councillor for every 105 reserve members.

Clearly, the real issue is not about resources or representation. Nor is it merely a question of providing our native people with sanctuary from the modern world. Canada does not exist in isolation, nor can its people, regardless of their heritage. To suggest that one group can do so, no matter how compelling the logic of their sense of entitlement, is to ignore reality. Coon Come does neither himself nor our native people any favour by perpetuating the notion that all they need, to change their often-lamentable existence, is obtainable simply through increased entitlements.

As history has shown, time and again, self-determination is the only consistent path to success. Sustainable employment, which is critical to the process, is only available when there are people with the desire and skill to provide a product for which there is a demand. These are the basic tenets of commerce and, fortunately, they are oblivious to race, colour or creed.

Our government needs to develop policies and processes which will enable native people to become self-sufficient and less dependent upon federal aid. Only then will they be able to survive in today's world.

Highland Games initiative a step in right direction

LETTERS TO EDITOR

I want to congratulate Bill Shields and the Highland Games Committee for deciding to deny access to minors trying to enter the beer tents at this year's Games (The Glengarry News, July 25).

I have attended this event the past four years and have always been astounded to see and hear about children as young as thirteen having easy access to alcohol - even to the point where they were very obviously drunk.

Last year Youth UNLTD had volunteers checking IDs in the beer tent and we turned away over 100 underage youths.

Sadly, we could only provide this service in the afternoon on Saturday, not during the evenings when the majority of alcohol is consumed.

I have always thought it was scandalous that so much underage drinking was going on and that the community was turning a blind eye to it.

Therefore I was extremely pleased to read about the new rules being implemented this year and I hope that they will be strictly enforced.

Moreover, I hope that the entertainment in the 'no-alcohol' tent will be good and draw a decent-size crowd, but even if it doesn't there should be no reason to ever allow minors back into the beer tents.

Phil Benjamin / Director
Youth UNLTD (Maxville & Area)

Poor judgment

It was with great dismay to see the picture of the local youth on the front page of your latest edition.

I always assumed that this kind of editing only occurred in such trashy publications such as The National Enquirer. Upon seeing the picture I quickly assumed that this youth was involved in a murder or some other gruesome crime. (I don't even remember seeing Lee Harvey Oswald's picture taking up so much space on the front page of a newspaper.)

What was going through your mind when you decided to run this article with such fanfare? Slow news week perhaps?

Personal vendetta against the youth or his family? Whatever reasons you had, in my opinion it was morally wrong. You have managed to embarrass the youth, his parents and family.

Yes, it was a tragedy for all those involved in the accident, I don't deny that, thankfully no one was was seriously hurt, but to sensationalize it in such a fashion is just poor judgment on your part.

I'm sure that the other parties involved would have been aghast at seeing their pictures taking up so much space on the front page. The media feeds upon the vulnerability of people at their weakest times, we see it every day on television and newspapers.

I see that your paper has chosen to be among this group.

Donna Baguss / Spencerville, Ontario

Improved newspaper

This is a note of appreciation for those who toil at The Glengarry News. For the first time in a long time I eagerly anticipate the arrival of the Glengarry News in my mailbox.

Of course this has something to do with the fact that we are a long way from home and we are missing our friends and family, but it also has a lot to do with the content and quality of the News.

Recent editorials on subjects as diverse as municipal budgets, the Senate, and the need for a LACAC in North Glengarry were first class. They were well written, and they had a point to make.

Also your coverage of local news and community events seems much improved to me– more constructive and encouraging than it has been in the past.

All of this is good news for Glengarry because nothing is more imporatant to the progress and development of a local community than an excellent community newspaper.

Blair Williams / Nishinasuno, Japan

Others deserve credit too

Further to your recent generous coverage and editorial about the Glengarry Golf and Country Club.

Please add the name of Robin Flockton to those who played a critical role in the success of the Glengarry Golf and Country Club during the transition from nine to 18 holes.

It was the implementation of his "Marketing Plan" that was the prime mover in increasing the membership, green fees and tournament play that brought in the essential new revenues to make the club financially viable and, I understand, the essential elements of this plan are still in place today.

And please be advised I cannot accept all the credit for guiding the club through this transition period. In the three years of my presidency it was the teamwork of the directors, each providing unstintingly their individual skills, that found the winning combinations for success. At the same time, club manager Jim MacDonald implemented these changes and competently provided the continuity to carry them forward in future years.

And one last most important credit - it was the trust, confidence and support of Jean Marc Viau, manager, Caisse Populaire, that enabled the club to borrow the additional funds to complete construction of the golf course during this transition period.

A joyous event

Last week we welcomed the World Youth Day Cross in Alexandria. It visited Sacré-Coeur and St. Finnan's parishes from July 18 to 20. This cross was given to all young people in 1984 by Pope John Paul II. He wrote "My dear young people, At the conclusion of the Holy Year, I entrust to you the sign of this Jubilee Year: the cross of Christ! Carry it throughout the world as a symbol of Christ's love for humanity and announce to everyone that only in the death and resurrection of Christ can we find salvation and redemption."

People walked behind this beautiful cross, knelt beside it, prayed, touched and kissed it. It was an unforgettable event. There was joy and pride on the faces as the cross passed by.

I walked from Green Valley's Church of the Assumption to Sacré-Coeur. It was a 6 km walk. We prayed, we sang. Two young men played a marching beat. Six carried the cross. This was an extraordinary way of thanking Jesus for giving his life on the cross for us so that we could have life everlasting.

In Alexandria, rose petals lined the way to Sacré-Coeur. People lined Main Street. The Knights of Columbus formed a guard of honour.

People applauded as the cross entered the church. Then words of joy were spoken, music of hope and love was played. Bishop Eugene Larocque thanked the assembly for their devotion and pride at the receiving of the cross. The church was packed with 1,000 faithful men and women.

The cross was simple and thus majestic in beauty. It stood 13 feet high. For the Jewish people, even today, the cross is a symbol of the worst fate to come to man. If you die on a cross, you were rejected of man and God. For us, the cross is a symbol of hope, love and joy. Jesus, this outstanding teacher, gave his life for us so that we could have life.

The reenactment of Jesus' death on the cross was brilliantly portrayed by Frederick Pépin (Jesus), Melanie Claude (Mary) and Jacques Levert (Apostle John). It was realistic and beautiful. Watching it brought tears to my eyes and I am sure to many.

Then it was taken to St. Finnan's where it would stay until Friday. People carried candles for this procession.

Special thanks to Father Marcel Latouche for encouraging our young people and for teaching them to love Jesus. "Let the little children come to me."

Jesus would have been proud of all the young people singing their love for him.

Dual career is still pulling the strings

ARTS

LORNA FOREMAN,
347-1338

It took many, many months before I was able to set up my interview with Audrey MacDonald of Alexandria. Audrey is a very busy lady but we finally managed to sneak in some time before she is inundated with guests at her Maple Lane Bed & Breakfast. After all, the Maxville Games are coming and with that, plenty of opportunity for herself and her husband Ed, to be gracious hosts.

Born in Glen Robertson, Audrey has had a diversified career – well actually two careers. Right out of high school, she went to work in Montreal for a top legal firm; a great training ground for a secretary to hone her skills. Audrey used these skills to perform some fascinating jobs in business mostly in personnel departments.

"I got married in 1965 and my husband was immediately transferred to Toronto," Audrey told me. "One of the most interesting jobs I had there was with the American Guild of Variety Artists.

"It was in the 60s and not only did we deal with the big stars like Ella Fitzgerald, but the Guild also worked with the Go-Go Dancers. One was actually a school principal but requested work out of the city. Apparently she made more as a dancer than as a principal.

"I loved that job. But then my husband was transferred back to Montreal. Since then I have worked in real estate and taught French."

But what has all this to do with art? Well Audrey's parallel career was as a performer. She found her real love early in life quite by fluke.

"I spoke French fairly well," Audrey told me. "After thinking I had fooled my French teacher in high school into believing I couldn't speak French, I was found out and put into a Special French course.

"What nerve I had then," Audrey said with a laugh. "I actually negotiated that if I went to the Special French class, I wanted to be allowed to take shop. Why shop? Well I had my eye on a young man in that course and thought it was a good idea. When asked what I wanted to make I announced I wanted to make a puppet. And I did."

So, in fact, Audrey did find the love of her life, but it was puppets not that young man she followed to class.

"It was in me right from the beginning," Audrey said. "I have actually never improved my ability, I was able to do it from the start. I build the personality and character into the marionettes that I make. They are an extension of me."

While in school, Audrey did a little performing; discovered that she could make money doing something she loved, and figured it was worth pursuing as a possible career.

"I perform for both adults and children." Audrey explained. "I joined the Blue Sky Review who hired talent to send to the various air force bases.

"My friend, Magic Tom, invited me on his show. Actually all my bookings were under the name Lynn Dale. Eventually I started doing my own bookings.

" From mid-November to Christmas I sometimes did three shows on a Saturday and Sunday for large corporation's Christmas parties.

Recently Audrey has cut back on her performing somewhat.

"I have always wanted to give something back to Glen Robertson," Audrey explained. "So every year I organized a craft day and a performance.

"Whatever profits went to organizations such as CNIB, Heart and Stroke and now it is the Cancer Society since I am a cancer survivor myself."

I have always been fascinated by marionettes. Not only is the construction intriguing but the ability to manipulate them has always been a wonder to me. I only saw one of Audrey's marionettes but she and Misty Mouse - or should it be just Misty Mouse, performed a short tap dance routine for me.

"Through my marionettes, I am putting my feelings, my actions and my mind and movement into them," Audrey said. "I use different voices and use what is called an open theatre so the children can see what I am doing. I make them as well as dress them."

I was thoroughly entertained during this interview, not only by Misty Mouse, who is a second cousin to Mickey Mouse by the way, but by Audrey herself.

compete in the Scottish and Canadian Heavyweight Championships. Anyone interested in the track and field events should be at the North End of the Grandstand at 1:45 pm or go to the Information Booth for more directions. The Junior Heavyweights is proving to be one of the most popular parts of the Games for the three- to 12-year-old set. These events run from 9:30-10:30 a.m. at the ballfield with registration starting at 9 a.m.

Fiddling experiences for all

This year, the Games are honored to have Buddy MacMaster instruct at the Fiddlers' Workshop at the Angus Gray Hall at 10 a.m. MacMaster recently received the Order of Canada for his contributions to Scottish Music.

Pipe bands always steal the show

Many people come only for the pipe bands. The impact of the Massed Bands at dusk on Saturday evening is one of those experiences in life that words fail to describe adequately. At last count there were 55 competing bands with another dozen or more who come just to be part of the Massed Band performances. At the Grade 1 level (the most difficult) four bands will compete, 13 bands will compete in Grade 2, 15 bands in Grade 3, and 23 Grade 4 bands round out the field.

Also attending is the Glendaloch Pipe Band from Kenwood, Michigan whose Pipe Major is Bruce Blaney from Maxville formerly with the Glengarry Pipe Band. He is also son of former Games' presidents Connie and Walter Blaney.

Individual piping competitions take place Saturday morning in the infield and at various locations throughout the grounds. The band competitions take place Saturday afternoon. There are four piping "circles" for the different band competitions.

The Tenor and Bass Drum competitions as well as the Drum Major's competition take place on the infield when the Band competitions are finished usually between 5 and 5:30 pm.

One piping event that no one wants to miss is the Massed Pipe Bands that bring a close to the traditional Games' events.

Find your heritage at the Clans' gathering

0ver 25 clans will be located in the Clan Barns this year. At 12:15 p.m. just before the Official Opening, the Clans will gather to parade around the infield. Later on in the afternoon, noted author and historian, David Ross will speak in the Clan Barns. Don't miss his animated presentation of the real lives of Scottish heroes.

Games officially open at 12:45 Saturday

Although the Games have been fully under way for over a day, the Official Opening of the Games takes place on Saturday. This year, the Games are pleased that Jim Watson, former mayor of Ottawa, and currently the president and CEO of the Canadian Tourism Commission (CTC) will officially welcome everyone to our 54th Games.

New tent offers relaxed venue

A new tent located behind the North Mound will provide a quieter spot for those who want to enjoy entertainment but carry on a conversation or find a shady spot to linger. Groups to be found in this tent include the MacCulloch Dancers and the Sue Fay Healy Irish Dancers, Aiden, the Sirens, Barry Williams and Hughie McDonell.

Live radio broadcasts

As with previous years, Cornwall radio stations, 104.5 FM and 1220 AM, will be broadcasting on location from the Games. Tune in Friday from 1-3 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. to be part of the Games from afar.

ID bracelets new addition to RV camping

A new procedure will be put in place at the RV campsites this year. Each trailer or RV that enters will be issued identification bracelets based on the sleeping capacity of the unit. These bracelets will be used for admission to the RV area after 11 p.m. From that time until 6 a.m., anyone without a bracelet will not be able to have access to this area.

John Allen Cameron leads Saturday night entertainment

Even though some people see the Massed Pipe Bands as the end of this version of the Games, hundreds more will continue the party late into the night. Siobhan and the Peelers will entertain in the Arena, while John Allen Cameron and Paddy Kelly and Paddy Maher takes turns keeping the dance floor filled in the Angus Grey. John Allen Cameron has returned to the Games after a few year's away and will be welcomed by many veteran Games goers. This "godfather of Celtic music in Canada" has been entertaining audiences for three decades with his voice and guitar. His unique blend of music and storytelling combined with his quick sense of humour is guaranteed to make his show an event not soon forgotten.

Glengarry Scouts return from PEI jamboree

By Laura Patrick
News Reporter

Two local boy scouts and four venturers headed to PEI earlier this month for the 10th Scouts Canada Jamboree held at Cabot Beach Provincial Park in Prince Edward Island.

Matthew Stones and Matthew McDougall were the two scouts who participated, along with Matthew Thomas, Eric Leach, Brandon MacGillivray, and Martin Sancartier from the venturer group. The leaders who attended were Sandy Thomas and Brent Boychuck.

The jamboree, which is held every four years, was held from July 7-14. Stones said that everyone had a really fun time.

"There were lots of activities like mud mazing and bike tours. Some of the sub-camps would have a party with a theme, like a western night."

The jamboree hosted 14,000 scouts, venturers and leaders from across the country, along with groups from Hong Kong, England, New Zealand and the United States.

During the seven days of the jamboree, the participants had the chance to participate in various activities such as fishing, rafting, canoeing, pioneering and wilderness survival.

The camp also hosted a mini hospital for the inevitable minor injuries, a trading post, a post office and a mess tent.

"In a way, the camp kind of resembled a M.A.S.H. campsite," said Stones' mother, Diane, who is part of the scout committee.

There was even a sign post in the heart of the camp site to help remind the scouts where their homes were and to show how far some of the participants had to travel in order to be there.

Because of the number of different groups attending the jamboree, the participants took the opportunity to do a little badge trading.

"I have two badges from Hong Kong now, as well as one from England, New Zealand, and some from all across Canada," said Stones.

Besides the badges and other mementos, every scout and venturer received a daily newspaper supplement, containing stories of the previous day's activities and of activities to come in subsequent days during the jamboree.

Before heading to the jamboree, the boys had to do fundraising in order to go.

"We had little barbecues, bird seed sales, Christmas ornament sales and pop can collections," said Stones. "The Bonnie Glen helped us a lot with the pop cans and Pronto and Giant Tiger helped support us as well."

Support for firefighters goes a long way

NORTH LANCASTER

INEZ FRANKLIN
347-7666

The firefighters of the North Lancaster Department are grateful to the community for their support in making their car wash, garage sale and barbecue a great success last Saturday. The money raised will be used to purchase equipment.

On Sunday the fire department went on a fishing trip and proceeded from there to the home of Karen and Ron Lefebvre, 2nd Concession, for a fish fry. Many thanks to the Lefebvres for their hospitality!

Summer reunion

The lazy, hazy days of summer are a childhood dream these days with the hectic pace that life takes on in the new millennium. However those days can be revisited if you're lucky enough to have grown up knowing Agnes and Sonny Petrie.

The Petrie cottage near Curry Hill is the site of any number of parties as their hospitality is a byword among the many clubs and societies to which they belong.

Their daughter, Dawn Reynolds, and her children, Taylor and Nathan are home for their annual summer visit. Dawn's school chums were invited to the cottage for their yearly reunion last week. While the new generation disappeared for swimming and paddleboating, their mothers spent a few hours reliving old times and catching up on news.

Many thanks to Agnes and Sonny for their fine hospitality.

Social times!

St. Raphael's Galarama was a huge success, blessed with good weather, fine entertainment,and an appreciative audience. Congratulations to the parishioners for their hard work.

A number of visitors left there with a haunted look no doubt contemplating their lists of duties for their own Glen Nevis social coming up on Aug. 19.

Those who belong to St. Margaret of Scotland Parish, be advised that you will be contacted in the next few weeks with a request for help!

Tickets on the quilt raffle and money draw are available at many locations and from any parishioner. Thanks in advance for your generous response to Glen Nevis' major fundraiser of the year!

Sympathy notes

John Arsenault of North Lancaster passed away last weekend after a protracted illness. The condolences of the community is extended to his family. Also, Rosaire Campeau lost his mother early this week; our sympathy to the Campeau family at this time.

Historical plaques make for a great tour

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

If you have a spare two or three hours sometime or if you have guests who would like to tour the former Township of Kenyon this weekend and to view the ten plaques that the Bicentennial Committee has installed, I have planned the tour for you.

When you read the plaques which have one of our official languages on each side, you will understand the heritage of the Township as well as having the opportunity to view the countryside. You will see some of the best farms in the province with crops that are excellent as well as some poor, uncultivated land that is supporting trees and, of course, wild life.

I started my tour at the Chamber of Commerce's tourist booth and headed north for 1.8 kilometres. Just at the curve in the road at what used to be known as Frog Pond, the plaque features Agriculture in Kenyon. The farms on each side were settled in 1821, the one on the west by my great-great-grandfather, John McEwen and the one on the east by his brother-in-law, Alexander Robertson.

The next plaque is 9.7 km north and east on the western outskirts of Dunvegan. However you should stop at St. Elmo and read the two plaques installed by the Ontario Archeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario. The one in front of the Gordon Presbyterian Church recognizes the Rev. Charles W. Gordon, remembered better as the well-known early author, Ralph Connor. Around the corner in front of the oldest remaining chapel in Ontario, you will read that this building, now owned by the Gordon Church, was opened in 1837 as the Glengarry Congregational Church.

The plaque at Dunvegan is in front of a large, log home and recognizes Log Buildings in the Township.

Continue east to the corner, turn south, stop at the Pioneer Museum if you wish, and turn west at the 6th Con. Road. The drive of 10.3 km will take you to the railroad crossing where the plaque recognizes the Coming of the Railroad in 1881. The old gravel pit to the south provided gravel for the railroad and this section of the concession is known as Christie's Pitt, spelled with two t's for some reason.

You have to back-track now to the Dunvegan road, jog a bit south, and continue on the 6th Concession for 5.9 km. The plaque here is in front of a one-roomed school house, now converted to a residence, and displays the importance of these One-roomed School Houses.

Keep on travelling east to the Dornie Road and travel south for a total of 5.1 km. to the corner of this road and the 4th Con. The plaque here points out The Changing Patterns of Settlement.

Drive west to the Greenfield Road, turn right and after 6.8 km. you will reach the fine stone building, now owned by the Glengarry Historical Society but which served as the municipal office for the township for many years. The plaque recognizes the Establishment of the Township of Kenyon.

Sorry, you must back-track again, to County Road 43, turn right and then left on the Loch Garry Road. It will be 6.2 km. until you reach the plaque for Loch Garry and it stands just past the road to the cottages and homes to the east. At the plaque you will have a fine view of the water.

Stay on this road until it meets the 2nd Con. and turn left and then a curve takes you south. At the 1st Con. turn right and 6.1 km. is the distance to the plaque at the entrance to the Domtar Forestry Centre. It acknowledges Logging in Kenyon.

Continue west to the Apple Hill Road, turn right and visit Apple Hill after a distance of 3.3 km. Here the plaque was installed in front of the Olivier Hamelin Blacksmith Shop which has now been moved to the Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan.

Continue north to County Rd. 43, turn left and then right at Highland Road. Just around the corner after a drive of 4.0 km. you can read about the Indian Lands, the strip of land along the western side of Kenyon.

This is the last plaque to visit, so drive back into Maxville. It will be 7.9 km. back to the Tourist Booth.

I trust that you will not get lost and that you will feel enriched, historically, after this tour of 67.1 km.

Western trip

Carolee and Robert MacIntosh have enjoyed a trip to the western provinces, travelling one way via the USA. They attended the Calgary Stampede and saw lots of countryside. Dunvegan in Alberta was found to be, in their estimation, the finest spot of the trip.

90th birthday

We wish the very best to Peggy Cline who celebrated her 90th birthday, quietly, recently. Mrs. Cline has lived in the village for many years and is the last to carry the name of the Cline family, one that was well known years ago.

CWL honour

We congratulate Mary Ellen Villeneuve on her election, at the recent Catholic Women's League convention in Cornwall, to the office of provincial Communications Director.

From Edmonton

David Campbell, Edmonton, spent a few days with his mother, Agnes, and brother, Glenn, while on his way to business meetings in the USA.

From Kamloops

Home with Christena and Donald Cumming for two weeks were their daughter, Norma McKinley and son, Cameron, along with the children of Norma's late sister, Glenda Piggin, Matthew and Laurie. They all live in Kamloops, BC.

Sympathy

We extend sympathy to Luanna Besner and her two daughters, Catherine St. on the death of her father, and their grandfather, Leo Massia, of Alexandria.

Musical talent

Stewart MacIntosh has been a lifelong resident of Strathmore and I believe that he and Christena would want it known that their son, John in Toronto, hails from that district. John is becoming a well recognized singer and is seeking a major record deal with a Canadian or American company.

Welcome

We welcome to the village, Terralynne Chapman, and her children, Kassandra, six, and Joshua, four. Terralynne is the daughter of Grace and Roger Chapman, she grew up in the village and has now returned to a home on Main Street South.

Son a student-minister

Sheila and Elgin Montgomery and their family were long-time residents and the couple now resides in Manotick. Their many friends will be interested to know that their son, Rylan, is now a student minister at Knox College in Toronto and will be conducting 11 o'clock services in the Gravel Hill Presbyterian Church on Aug. 5th and 12th. All who wish to attend one or both of these services will be warmly welcomed.

Back for Highland Games

This item has just been handed to me: My daughter, Beverly and her husband, Russ Fisher with their children, Keitha and William, came on Sunday and will be here for the Highland Games. Also expected are Bill and Colleen Blair with Ian, Eric and Kerry, and Betty and Stewart McKibbin.

Change in plans

There has been a change in the plans for the Retired Teachers' trip to Montreal on Aug. 27. Since it was advised that a two hour tour of the gardens would be sufficient time, it has been planned to visit the Montreal Casino as well. The bus will leave the Casino at 3 p.m., the cost remains at $28 and Jean MacCuaig may be contacted for reservations at 527-2064.

At the monthly euchre party at the Manor on July 25th, Helen Jackson, Rita Seguin and Elizabeth Briere topped the ladies while Ed Ukrainetz, Hormidas St. John and Homer MacLeod earned the same honours for the men.

In the 50-50 draw, the lucky ones were Mary Grady, Fred Barkley, twice, and Mrs. Briere. Betty McElheran won the door prize.

At the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor, high scores were earned by Mr. Ukrainetz, Barbara Surtees and Perry Downs.

SOS outing

The next S.O.S. outing from the Manor will be a bus trip to the Upper Canada Playhouse to see Wild Guys , on Aug. 23, leaving the Manor at 4:30 p.m. On the way, a country supper will be enjoyed at the Williamsburg Christian Reformed Church. The cost for the package is $36 and reservations must be made with Laurie by Aug. 12 at 527-2170, ext. 237.

Unusual birds

There have been two calls about rather unusual birds. Unfortunately, both birds were found dead. One was a female ruby crowned kinglet that lacks the ruby colouration and the other a scarlet tanager.

There have been frequent sightings of yellow shafted flickers. These woodpecker-like birds have a loud call and may be found on lawns, feasting on their favourite insects, ants.

We have a sunflower feeder up for the chickadees, nuthatches, downy woodpeckers and gold finches that seem to be looking for hand-outs. We are doing our best to keep the red squirrels from it.

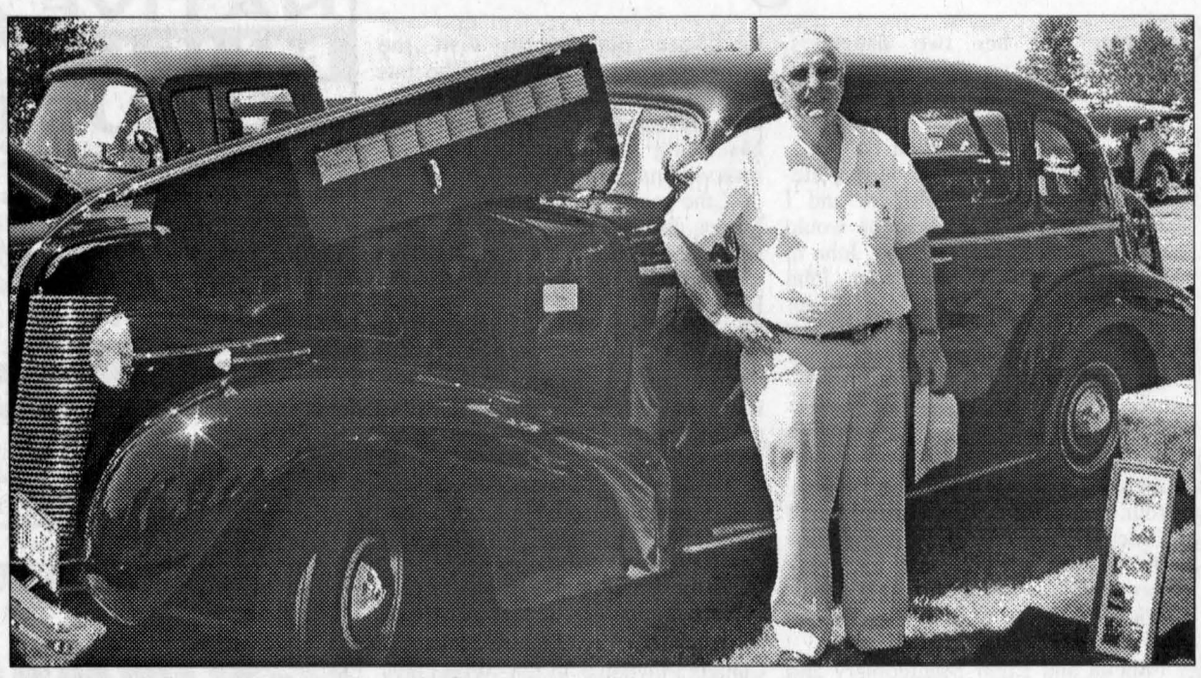
Antique cars invade Smithfield Park

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207, Fax 347-1297



SHOW ROOM CONDITION: Even though they are considered antiques today, the automobiles present at the 7th Annual Lancaster Auto Show last Sunday still looked like they had just exited the show room, such as this 1937 4-door Buick, owned by Wally Hope of Alexandria, one of his four entries in the show. PHOTO LAURA PATRICK

It was a perfect day for the Lancaster Antique Car Show on Sunday. Member Brian McCuaig told me that over 200 cars were on display and well over 1,500 people passed through the gates. A total success!

This is very welcome news since the Lancaster club contributes so much to our community. It is also the first time in a while that we have missed the car show. Barry is in Israel and my daughter-in-law, Chris, and I had a baby shower for daughter Charmaine that afternoon.

Member Linda Roy said that the show is a huge amount of work beforehand and throughout the day. With experience from past shows everything is fine-tuned and everyone knows exactly what to do.

Linda also mentioned that the support of the business community was appreciated. Linda passes on the following message: The Lancaster Antique Car club would like to thank all of the local merchants who supported the car show by their donations of door prizes and through their great advertisement in last week's edition of The Glengarry News. Thank you!

St. Lawrence River Institute

They can kill. Those innocent looking lead weights that fishermen have been using for years have a sinister little secret. Some of the hundreds of tons that are lost in Canada each year end up in the bellies of water birds. The toxic effects of the lead can eventually kill many of them.

"TAKE A LITTLE LEAD OUT!" is an innovative program undertaken by the St. Lawrence River Institute of Environmental Sciences, in Cornwall. In co-operation with sport fishermen all over the region, the program provides an opportunity for them to exchange toxic lead jigs and sinkers for environmentally friendly ones made of tin, bismuth or steel.

"Almost every Canadian has heard the beautifully haunting cry of the loon," says the River Institute's Environmental Stewardship Liaison, Heather Moore. "Not knowing any better, they may ingest these weights. The results can be fatal to the bird and that would be everyone's loss."

This summer, the River Institute's TAKE A LITTLE LEAD OUT! Team will be on hand at three fishing tournaments including the Renegade Bass Tournament at Iroquois Landing and Pro Bass Tournament at Long Sault Marina. The team will be on hand to exchange jigs and sinkers with tournament participants.

"It's a great program and we find that anglers appreciate what we're doing," continued Moore. "They are as concerned about the environment as we are and they're happy to make the exchange."

Local tackle shops are also getting involved: some have already started selling non-lead sinkers and jigs. Moore is pleased with this result because "trading away the toxic sinkers is great, but when retailers carry non-toxic jigs and sinkers in their stores, we can be sure that anglers will continue to have the opportunity to be wildlife-friendly."

For more information about the TAKE A LITTLE LEAD OUT! PHASE II, or to exchange lead jigs and sinkers for non-toxic ones you may contact the St. Lawrence River Institute of Environmental Sciences at (613) 936-6620, extension 224.

Activities at our library

Summer Sleuths are very busy at the Lancaster Library. There are two activity programs yet to come for readers of all ages. Actually, one will take place on Tuesday of this week and the final on will be on Aug.14 from 1 to 2 p.m. It's not too late to join in.

Once again Lise will be having a Preschoolers Story Time, en francais. This will be another opportunity to have your little readers to listen to stories in French and to enjoy related activities. Come on Wednesday, Aug. 8 from 10:30 a.m.

Sarah MacDonald who used to be in our Library with the old CAP program is now helping Internet users and would-be Internet users to hone their skills in the latest technologies. Librarian, Donna Parker says that many local people have been using this service and really appreciated Sarah's help. Sarah may be coming back to the Lancaster Branch in August. If you are interested call 347-2311 for an appointment. Training is free.

Just a reminder: www.sdglibrary.ca is another way to connect with your library. Easy to use!

Need for rain

It's a gray day, this Monday. The rain is gentle and probably will not be enough for our dry earth to get a good drink. We hate to see our brown grass and wilted plants but this drought is a great concern for those whose livelihood depends on moisture needs of crops and animals. So please excuse me if I say that I hope your day is soaking wet!

Summer's wearing away

It's August already! Coming up are the Highland Games in Maxville. And so the summer goes on. There are lots of interesting stories out there. Please let me know if you have one. Call, put it in my lovely mail box at the Lancaster Freshmart, fax, or even e-mail millett@glennet.ca.

Have a super week everybody!

Successful fund-raising for jaws of life

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

Well, we did it Williamstown! Raised enough money for a new jaws of life, thanks to the volunteer firemen and all of you who helped in any way. Final tally of the amount raised will be revealed once all the accounting is completed, but thought you might be interested in this little item: Participants at the dance at the fairgrounds on Saturday night drank the place dry! How's that for a greater-than-expected response?

A great big thanks to all who attended, donated, and yes...drank. A special thanks to the firemen for spearheading this community effort.

Guilty feeling, not giving

Another community effort was held at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre on Monday when a bit of blood-letting took place. In the hour or so that I was present (getting news, not giving blood), I saw the scions, scionesses, and, I guess that would be, "scubs", of several Williamstown families attending the clinic. The thought occurred to me that if you all knew how many of your friends and neighbours were present, you would be guilted into giving. I know I was!

There will be another chance, some day, in Williamstown, says Claude Laperriere of the Canadian Blood Services. And if you're between the ages of 17 and 71, haven't been to the dentist in the past three days, aren't suffering from a cold or the flu, or haven't been pierced or tattooed in the past year, Aunt Claude wants you!

Think about it for next time, won't you?

Garden stand open

It's a beautiful Saturday morning and you need a fresh carrot for the rabbit you're luring away from your garden lettuce. Where to turn?

The Williamstown Market Garden has opened its stand and is selling fresh produce each Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Greer Road. (Greer Road is the gravel road between Char-Lan High School and Jane and Robert McDonells' farm.)

Proprietors of the market garden are Tina and Kelly Chretien.

Spiller elected

Ernie Spiller has recently been elected vice-chair of the board of directors of Community Care Access Centre in Cornwall, after having been elected last year as Glengarry's representative to the board.

"I think it is a very well managed organization, trying to make the best use of the money available," says Ernie.

Welcome Cloutiers

Williamstown extends a welcome to Pat and Roger Cloutier of Montreal who are moving to the village on the weekend.

The Cloutiers, a retired couple, have bought the home of the late Eileen McDonell, on John Street.

Sympathy to Lagroix family

When we first moved to John Street some 28 years ago, we had a special neighbour who lived across the street. Buster Lagroix used to sit out front of his parents' house and wow us with his insight — he could tell who was coming around Rozons' corner just by the sound of their vehicles!

On Sunday Buster passed away in Smiths Falls where he had been living in recent years. He was 50 years old.

Our sympathy is extended to his sisters, Julie Chafee and June McPhail, and families.

Legault-Fisher

Congratulations to Joanne Legault and Todd Fisher who were married recently. I'm ashamed to say my source for this news was a photo in a local daily, but that doesn't lessen the wishes for a happy life together.

Joanne is the daughter of Betty and Jean Legault of Williamstown.

Advanced flower show notice

I love the annual Williamstown Flower Show, and am giving you some advance notice that this year's edition is taking place on Saturday, August 18 at the Williamstown Fairgrounds.

More information, times, etc. will be in this column as the day approaches, but in the meantime, if you would like to know more, please call this year's convenor, Janet Bratberg at 347-3181.

Bridge results

Winners at Audrey's Friday night bridge club at Irvine Hall were as follows: N/S — 1. Jim and Jean Campbell; 2. Bert Mosher and Joan Owen.

E/W — Ellin and Garry O'Connell; 2. Rhea Collette and Therese Giroux.

Plenty for youth to do

Who says there's nothing for young people to do in a small community?

Anne Ward, recreational programmer for South Glengarry has some events of interest coming up locally.

A bus trip to La Ronde will take place on August 21, for teens 13 years and over. The bus will leave the Char-Lan Recreation Centre parking lot at 2:30 p.m. on the 21st and will return around midnight.

Cost is $32 each (includes bus and entrance fee to La Ronde) and those interested are asked to call Anne at 347-2411 or 347-2465 asap to register.

New program registration

Anne is also accepting registrations at the township (347-2411) for a new activity program taking place the last three weeks of August at the Glen Walter playground.

This program, which is free of charge to township children aged five to 12, will take place in the mornings from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Kim Lauzon and Lisa Migneault have been hired as playground leaders, and will work under Anne. Any young people 13 years or older who would like to volunteer their help may do so and will earn volunteer credit hours while doing so.

Fair approaches quickly

So, all set for the fair? As usual, our premiere local event is bearing down on us with the speed that only it can muster in the days following the Galarama and the Highland Games.

Here are, in random order, some notes of interest this year.

Volleyball tournament details

The volleyball tournament on the fairgrounds has been modified a little. There will be a new division, just for teens (13 to 17 years), on the Friday night of the fair (August 10).

Adults (18 years and over) will have their tournament on the Saturday of the fair.

Convening the tournaments again this year will be Bryan and Anne Ward, and anyone interested in participating is asked to register by calling 347-2465 or 347-2411 (Anne) before August 4.

There will be eight teams for the teenagers and Anne says she already has five lined up. Please call as soon as possible to add your names to the list.

Youth poster competition

Young people (of elementary school age), looking for something to do during the next week or so, may be interested in entering the Youth Poster competition at the fair.

The poster must be hand-made (minimum 11"x17"; maximum 12"x18") and should be mounted on black art card, leaving a 2" border. It should promote the Williamstown Fair.

The winning poster at our fair will go on to compete at the district level, and if successful there, will be eligible for the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies convention in February.

Get exhibits ready

The poster, along with all other fair entries, should be brought to the exhibit hall at the fairgrounds on Thursday evening, August 9, from 6 to 9 p.m. Entry forms and tags will be available at that time.

Fairbooks outlining categories to enter may be picked up at MacDonald's Groceries in Williamstown, at the Williamstown Library, or at various other spots in the hamlets roundabouts.

Las Vegas style blackjack

Gamblers, closet or otherwise, are invited to come out and play some Las Vegas style blackjack at the Meeting Place on the Friday and Saturday night at the fair.

Things get under way at 8 p.m. each night.

Williamstown Fair special

Next week — a Williamstown Fair special. If you have items to contribute, please call.

Ladies' ball hockey results

The Alexandria ladies' ball hockey league started their playoffs last week as Tapis took on Seaway and Atlantic challenged Pic's in the semi-finals.

The first game in the Tapis-Seaway series turned out to be a real heart-stopper as Tapis scored a 1-0 overtime decision. Nicole Daoust scored the game-winner.

In the other semi-final Pic's earned a 2-1 win over Atlantic.

Beth Depratto scored the game-winner as Sylvie Ménard scored the other Pic's goal. Sophie Séguin scored in a losing cause.

The teams return to action Aug. 5.

Flames beat Hearts

The Fassifern Flames earned just their second win of the season last week in Glengarry Soccer League Tier II action when they beat the undefeated Hearts 3-2.

Steve Booth, Eddie Swerdfeger and Pat Picard scored for the Flames. Robbie Startkauskus and Bob Sonnel replied for the Hearts.

In other action the Glen Nevis had another upset win beating L'Orignal 4-1.

Matt Mader with two, John Hobbins and Pat Jurt scored in the win.

M.A Lavigne replied for L'Orignal.

Blazers suffer first blemish

The SDG Shepherd's Motors U14 girls Blazers got their first blemish on a so far perfect season but remained undefeated following a 1-1 tie in Nepean against the host Nepean Hotspurs.

The Hotspurs were also undefeated going into the game with an 8-0-1 record while the Blazers were 9-0-0.

The Blazers controlled the first half and Jayme Baldre got the Blazers on the board first to lead 1-0 at the half.

The Hotspurs tied the game on a free kick awarded just outside the 18 yard box to finish the game tied 1-1.

With the tie the Blazers remain in first place in the Ottawa-Carleton League Division 1.

On the weekend of July 14 and 15 the Blazers took home the gold medal from the Ambassador Cup tournament in Kingston.

The Blazers defeated the Ottawa-Carleton premier division team South Nepean Iron Eagles 1-0 in the final.

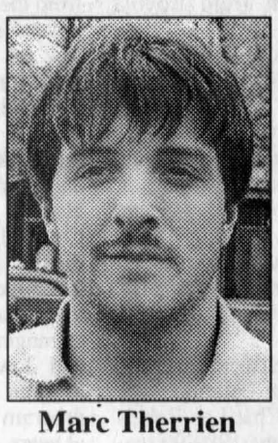
Alana Brady had the shutout and Christina Julien scored the lone goal.

Alexandria late model driver wins first race of 2001

By this time last season Alexandria's Marc Therrien had already claimed 3 checkered flags in the ultra competitive Late model class.

This season Therrien has been held off the win column during the first 11 weeks of racing in Cornwall, that is until now.

Therrien took a wild 20 lap Late Model feature pulling away from 7 time winner this season Randy Earl after the final restart. Therrien had his share of incidents including running over a tire from another car in turn 2 but the car withstood going airborne to go the distance. Earl was headed for win number 8 until the midway point of the race. That's when he got involved when two lapped cars came together on the back straight. He made it back out and passed everyone but Therrien. Denis Gauvreau, Dean Ranger and Joe Woods rounded out the top 5.



Marc Therrien

Brian MacDonald took his second Modified feature win of the year. MacDonald who was clicking off laps just a shade over 14 seconds found himself hanging on at the end from a hard charging Dave Heaslip. The margin was less than a car length at the checkered flag. The race was red flagged after a five car crash in turn 3 that had the car of Graham Gorman on top of two others. Gorman after a quick pit stop was actually able to continue. Stephane LaFrance was third followed by Laurent Ladouceur and Peter Mantha.

Stephane Lemire remains the car to beat in the Duke Stock.

The defending champ took the 15 lap event finishing almost half a lap ahead of Greg Snyder who was impressive in his first appearance of the season. Gaetan Amesse was third. The race finished under a combination yellow and checkered after Ken Sproule hit the wall on the last lap.

Roch Aubin did a roof dance in victory lane after leading from start to finish in the 12 lap Rookie Stock event.

Aubin was challenged in the final laps by Rosco Garreau who joined his fellow Alexandria driver in the celebration. Glen Dorie finished in third spot. A six lap Powder Puff event featuring 4 cylinder cars closed out the evening. Rose Archambault passed Ann Pecore on the last lap to take the victory.

Next week at Cornwall Motor Speedway will include the traditional August holiday weekend spectacular including a 50 lap Syracuse qualifier for the Modifieds plus regular events for the Late Models, Duke Stocks and Rookies.

There will also be a kids tire race at the intermission. The green flag drops at 7pm on Sunday, Aug. 5th.

Women's playoff picture still wide open

GSL Senior Leagues

SENIOR WOMEN

The women's division of the Glengarry Soccer League has yet to decide their playoff matchups.

Laggan has clinched a spot and Alexandria A, Char-Lan and Dunvegan all look destined for the post-season but Glen Sandfield may have something to say about it.

Last week Glen Sandfield kept their playoff hopes alive with a big win.

A big victory came July 24 over Alexandria A. Kyla Burwash and Jasmine Leduc offset a Melissa MacDonald tally to win 2-1.

Alexandria A lost another game last week, 5-1 to Laggan. Bonnie MacLeod with two, Shonna Atchison, Abbey MacGillivray and Bobbi-Jo MacLeod scored in the win.

Beth Depratto scored in the loss.

Alexandria A bounced back with a 8-1 thrashing of Greenfield.

MacDonald with three, Depratto with two, Fiona Wilson, Kristi Hlusko and Marie-France Lajoie scored for the winners. Mel Chartrand replied for Greenfield.

Char-Lan and Dunvegan faced off July 26 in what could be a future playoff preview. Vanessa VanSleeuwen with three, Calla Humphries, Christine Sandilands and Megan Jarvo scored in a 6-2 Char-Lan win.

Tracy McNichol and Amanda Portinari scored for Dunvegan.

Char-Lan also beat Vankleek Hill 2-0 last week. VanSleeuwen and Sandilands scored.

Dunvegan had two goals from Raylene Sauvé July 24 in a 2-1 win over Alexandria B. Cheryl Proctor scored in the loss.

In other action Glen Nevis earned their third win of the year 4-0 over Greenfield. Colleen St. Onge with two, Kathy Kennedy and Lisa MacDonald scored.

No results were available for the Glen Sandfield-Vankleek Hill game from July 28.

SENIOR MEN

In the men's division the only battle is for first place.

The Stars and Drillers are currently tied with 30 points each but the Drillers have two games in hand.

So the playoff match-ups will likely see the Drillers face fourth-place Greenfield and the Stars face third-place McCrimmon in the first round.

Last week the Stars earned a 5-1 win over Glen Sandfield.

Cameron Lajoie, with two, Chad Beareguard, Mark Taylor and Ryan Cunning scored. Travis Giroux potted his fifth of the season in the loss.

The Drillers game July 25 against Glen Nevis was postponed.

McCrimmon scored a 6-1 win over Greenfield July 27.

Allan Campbell with three, Murray MacLeod with two and Andrew MacDonald scored for McCrimmon.

Colin Sanders scored for Greenfield.

Greenfield was coming off a 3-1 win over Glen Sandfield.

Sanders had two and Robert Wensink scored three for Greenfield.

Chace Albright scored in the loss.

McCrimmon was playing after tieing Glen Nevis 0-0 July 23.

Kenneth "Jr." MacDonald: A great player and coach

GLENGARRY SPORTS HALL OF FAME INDUCTEE

The Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame will be inducting the 2001 inductees into the hall this year on Aug. 29 in Williamstown.

The following is the third in a series of five features on this year's inductees.

Kenneth Jr. MacDonald

Kenneth Jr. MacDonald was born on June 14, 1948, as the only son of Kenneth and Stella MacDonald. His father had a love of sports but was too busy making a living to spend time in their pursuit. His grandfather, however, made time and the family is very proud that he is a member of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

Ken grew up and received his early education in Williamstown. His group was a hodge-podge of boys of varying ages who shared a love of all games and sports. The games were forever and changed with the season. Summer: baseball, fall: football, winter: hockey and spring: fishing. It was a wonderful, leisurely, slow-paced atmosphere and the boys grew up with very little organization or interference from the adult world. Despite the lack of formal rules, referees, or coaches, the games were extremeley enjoyable and intensely competitive. Disputes and arguments were usually settled in a friendly manner by a knowledgeable older boy but other times fisticuffs were necessary to restore order.

Equipment was scarce and hard to come by and every boy's Christmas wish list and birthday request was for sporting equipment which could be used by the group. Ken remembered receiving, from his older sister, Duane, a leather football for his 10th birthday. This was a prize and he was the envy of the town boys. The ball carried them through the years and countless games but always looked a bit odd and was difficult to throw. Years later a gentleman from overseas pointed out that it was a "Rugby Ball".

A powerful positive force in these formative years was a young priest by the name of Donald Bernard McDougald. Williamstown was Father McDougald's first parish and his love of games was as infectious as his hearty laugh and singing voice. He joined the boys in cleaning off rinks on the river and in the following endless games. He drove them, at breakneck speeds, after Sunday afternoon prayers, to Border league games being played in Alexandria. His was the first set of golf clubs ever seen and they could be borrowed for the asking. He coached and joined in the games and built a tennis court and was the hero.

During high school, Ken played for school teams in basketball, soccer, football and track and field. In the evenings and on week-ends he played hockey. The hockey highlights included playing with the Maxville Highlander Jr. B Hockey team that won the Eastern Ontario Jr. B Championship, which culminated in a seven game series against the Hawkesbury Juniors. During these years he also played with Cornwall and Hawkesbury in the Central Junior A Hockey Loop.

After high school, Ken attended Ottawa Teachers College and acquired an Ontario Teaching Diploma. The next move was to Loyola University in Montreal. During this time he played for the Loyola Warriors Varsity Hockey Team. The Warriors were, in those days, a hockey power house and were constantly ranked in the top five in Canada. In 1971 the team won the overall Quebec loop as well as the prestigious Christmas Hockey Canada Tournament. The event culminated at the Gardens in Toronto with the Warriors defeating the Univeristy of Toronto for overall honours. The team also went to the finals in March for the Canadian playdowns (CIAU) which was played at Laurentian University in Sudbury. Graduation from Loyola College was in 1972.

Coaching became a love when Ken was asked to coach the Jr. B Glens for the 1973-74 season. This was a very memorable year that was capped by a league championship to the delight of a large, hugely enthusiastic group of fans. What was especially pleasing was the fact that every boy on the team was a Glengarrian who had learned and played his hockey in Glengarry. This is, as far as is known, unique to this team.

Ken returned to coach the Glens from 1978-80 and later piloted the Williamstown-based Char-Lan Rebels from 1984-86 and in the 1989-90 season. The 1985-86 version was an expecially powerful unit which dominated the league and went on to defeat South Ottawa Junior Canadian's to be crowned Eastern Ontario Jr. B Champions. The 1989-90 Char-Lan Juniors were a spirited group of homebrews who captured league championship honours.

His coaching career was very satisfying in terms of success on the ice but perhaps more importantly in the satisfaction derived from molding and directing young men towards a common goal. Perhaps his greatest contributions lay in instilling a "Pride of Team" and a work ethic that when harnessed to talent would pay off down the road. His association with many of these young men continues to this day and it is a constant source of satisfaction to see them develop careers, raise families and contribute to life in Glengarry.

Being a teacher, summers were relatively free and were filled with fastball, touch football and golf. Fastball was played in the Border League, Alexandria men's fastball league and for Dalhousie in a Quebec Senior Loop. Fond memories are easily recalled of these years. After evening fastball games at the Williamstown Ball Park the usual cast of characters would retire to Coach Bill Cattanach's picnic table under an old maple tree.

Golf was a game that Ken learned in his early 20s at the Glengarry Golf Club. This sport, along with hockey, were games that he loved most passionately. Over the years he has derived hundreds of hours of leisurely enjoyment and intense competition from the game. His handicap presently hovers around seven but has been as low as three. The most notable achievements would include three Alexandria Open Championships and three A class Club Championships at three different courses, Glengarry Golf and Country Club in the 70s, Summer Heights Golf Club in the 80s and Cornwall Golf and Country Club in the 90s. In addition, over the years, he has represented these clubs in various leagues and competitions at golf courses ranging from Kingston to Montreal and down into New York State. He also ran and instructed the junior golf program at Summer Heights for several years.

For the past 28 years Ken has been teaching at the elementary level. He completed courses at Queen's University and Ottawa University towards a supervisor's certificate in Health and Physical Education. He naturally took a keen interest in school athletics and has organized and coached the school sports teams at St. Andrews for the past quarter century

In 1969, Ken married the former Norma MacCuaig. Norma is a graduate of Glengarry District High School and also enjoys sports and excelled in track and field. Norma has been very supportive and patient (as you can well imagine) of his passion for the games over their 30 years of marriage. Ken and Norma have raised two children, Walter (Wally) and Julie, both of whom have been active and successfull in the Glengarry sporting scene.

Lucienne is predeceased by her parents the late Benoit Leroux and the late Irene Lacelle. She will be sadly missed by her numerous nieces, nephews, and friends, as well as all the clients she cared for in her time at the Canadian Red Cross. Friends and family called at Munro and Morris Funeral Homes 114 Main Street South, Alexandria on July 25. A mass of Christian burial was said by Father Kelvin Maloney at St. Finnan's Roman Catholic Cathedral on Thursday, July 26. A private family burial was held following the service in the parish cemetery. Donations to the Canadian Cancer Society in memory of Lucienne would be greatly appreciated by the family. 31-1c

Master gardener speaks at horticultural meeting

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379

The Martintown and District Horticultural Society is holding a meeting tonight, Aug. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Martintown Community Centre.

The guest speaker will be Mary Milne of the wonderful gardens east of the village on the north side of the King's Road! All members are encouraged to attend and as enticements there will be refreshments served and a draw for a hand-made door prize. New members are always welcome.

The society has organized a bus tour to Montreal for Tuesday. The itinerary includes The Botanical Gardens and the Magical Garden Show at the Old Port of Montreal. Anyone wishing to join may contact Jolly Tours in Cornwall.

Members are reminded of the Annual Flower Show to be held on Aug. 16, with entries to be submitted between 9 a.m. and noon. The show will be open for viewing between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Aug. 19 is the date for the District One Garden Party to be hosted this year by the Martintown Society, and which will be held at The Cottage, the Blackwood residence in Martintown from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Described as a "Gardeners-get-together", this event is open to Horticultural Society members from Maxville, Williamstown, Vankleek Hill, Russell, Cornwall, Alfred, and of course, Martintown clubs. An executive member from each society is asked to R.S.V.P. Martintown's president, Linda Poirier, as soon as possible (today!) to get a handle on numbers expected to attend. Linda's e-mail address is lindapoirier42@hotmail.com

Large family reunited

'Tis the season for reunions! Marion and Charlie Thompson of the Chapel Road have for the first time in ten years all their family reunited with them this week. Brad and family from Juneau, Alaska, were the first to arrive, followed by Scott and family from Williams Lake, BC. Anne and Mike Reardon came from Winnipeg and Jane and Michael Havard and girls are from Hudson, Que. The last time all the family was together was in Penticton in 1991 in order to welcome the Havard family back to Canada following their twelve-month trip around the world.

Erin, the 13-year-old granddaughter from Alaska just returned from an International Soccer tournament in Minnesota, where she scored the winning shoot-out goals in two semi-final games. Her team lost the final game to a team from Saskatoon by just one point. Winning silver in a tournament of over 50 teams was truly exciting. Sounds like she would do well in Glengarry!

Marion and Charlie were in Saskatoon last month to attend a reunion of Charlie's graduation class from the University of Saskatchewan 50 years ago. It has been a very busy but happy summer for the Thompsons.

Auction sale Monday

This holiday Monday there will be an auction beginning at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Irene West on the King's Road at McCuaig's Corners east of Martintown. Mrs. West is now a resident of Maxville Manor and her home has been sold to Sam and Adele McLeod who have been living west of Martintown. Mrs. West's daughter, Marion Duguid, was here from British Columbia and she and her brother, Doug, have been preparing for the auction. The Martintown Women's Institute will be providing a delicious lunch that day of beef on a bun, hot dogs or sandwiches, topped off with butter tarts, brownies or date squares and drinks. No one need feel faint from hunger even if the sale goes on late!

Martintown Mill auction

Donations of items to be sold at the Sept. 12 auction in aid of the restoration of the Martintown Mill are coming in, but the community is asked to keep up the search for hidden treasures. Suggested items are books, china, pottery, glass, silver, pictures, small items of furniture or kitchen appliances. And if there is nothing about the house with which you can part, perhaps you have a surplus of lilies or phlox or irises which can be uprooted, potted and donated! Think about your talents–can you offer a cooked meal, baking, or some outdoor labour, or a drive to Ottawa or Montreal for shopping or visiting? If you can help in any way, please call Joan Johnston at 528-4292.

Flora Grant Dumouchel will be the auctioneer for the evening which will begin with a wine and cheese, coffee and squares affair at 5 p.m. and the auction scheduled for 7 p.m.

Maxville Games

There will be lots of activity around the Maxville Games this week, with families expecting full houses even here in Martintown. Lots of the entertainment and some competitors are from Martintown, and the latter are wished all the best. The MacCulloch Dancers have been practising for the Friday evening, and also for a performance on Saturday. Let's just hope for great weather!

Summer theatre

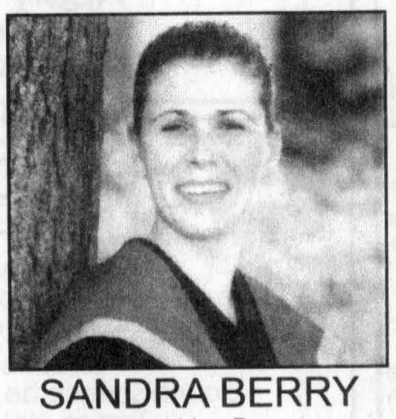
The Weave Shed in Cornwall is trying out a first season of summer theatre, and the next play, "Come by the Hills", should be of interest to lots of Glengarrians who are Scots by association if not by extraction. Could be an antidote to culture slump following the Games!

This play tells the story of a young man in 19th century in Scotland through song and is a combination of highland heart and soul. The run is from Aug. 8-12, and 15-18. The Weave Shed is at the foot of McConnell Ave. near the waterfront on Cotton Mill Street, and more information is available by calling 936-ARTS.

Party Bridge

A loyal, or perhaps committed group of bridge players gathered at the Martintown Community Centre on Monday, July 30, and Larry Downs was the winner, followed by Bernice Barlow and Andre Bergevin.

My e-mail address was one of the omissions from last week's column. Please call me with your news or contact me electronically at uwinn@cnwl.igs.net. Let me know who all the visitors were!



SANDRA BERRY

Eddy and Lise Berry are pleased to announce the graduation of their daughter Sandra from Guelph University with a Bachelor of Science. The Convocation Ceremony was on June 7, 2001. She will be attending Teacher's College at the University of Ottawa 31-n/c money," MacDonald said.

"For every winter that goes by we add about $40,000 to the bill," she said. "It's a shame to have it half done. If we can just get it done, it would be wonderful."

A news article in the National Post Tuesday said the group has been "repeatedly turned down for funds by the federal and provincial governments."

"I don't know why they wrote that," MacDonald said.

The group received a total of $384,000 from the Millennium Bureau and from Parks Canada in 1999. The Ontario Trillium foundation gave $23,000. The Township of South Glengarry gives $5,000 annually dating back to 1994.

The friends themselves have raised over $250,000 from donations and fundraising and have applied to Superbuild Corp. for $400,000.

"We've done remarkably well with the help of government donations to this point," MacDonald said.

The parish was the cradle of Catholicism in Ontario in 1800s and was the first Roman Catholic Church in Upper Canada.

AGRICULTURE

Cattlemen come to Glengarry

By Laura Patrick
News Reporter

The Ontario Cattlemen's Association met last Thursday and Friday for their annual summer meeting.

The meeting was held at the Ramada Inn in Cornwall, with two trips out to visit the farm of Lochiel's own Dick Vander Byl, president of the association, and his brother Rudie's feedlot.

About 125 delegates were on the tour, representing each county in the province. The delegates were taken to view the farm and feedlot to see how the operations work in Glengarry county.

"The meetings are held to discuss the issues that have come up since the last one," said Vander Byl.

The board members meet four times a year while the executives meet once a month in Guelph.

"The summer meeting is usually held in the president's home county," said Vander Byl.

The summer meeting opened up on Thursday with meetings in the morning, before the board members headed out to visit the farm and feedlot in the afternoon.

"There are very few feedlots in eastern Ontario," said Vander Byl, "so it's nice to show the board members a large working one in Glengarry."

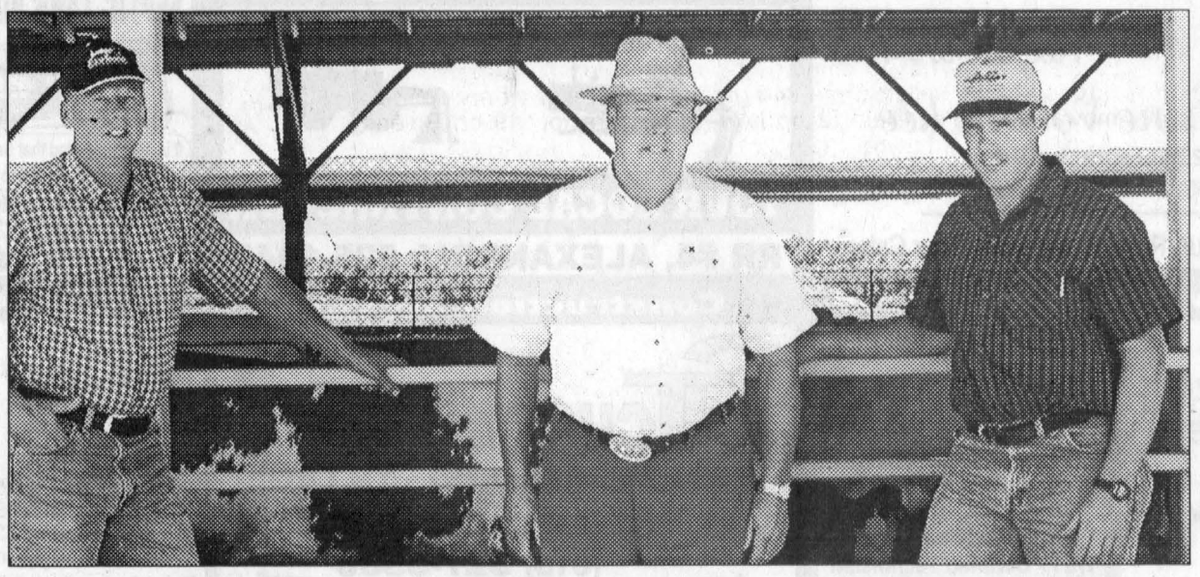
Rudie Vander Byl's feedlot is the largest in eastern Ontario, with 1,350 beef cattle.

After the tours, the board members headed to the Bonnie Glen for dinner. MP John Cleary was one of the guest speakers at the dinner.

The board members were also treated to entertainment provided by the MacCulloch Dancers.

The meetings were wrapped up on Friday.

The executive will meet again next month in Guelph, however, the entire board will not meet again until the winter meeting, to be held in the Kitchener/Waterloo area.



CATTLEMEN VISIT: The feedlot co-owned by Rudie Vander Byl, centre, his son Joey, right, and brother Jack was visited by the Ontario Cattlemen's Association last Thursday. The feedlot is the largest one in Eastern Ontario, which made it point of interest on the tour.

Fraser returns from Gaelic college as violinist

DALKEITH

JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

Joseph Fraser just recently returned from St. Annes Gaelic College of Arts and Crafts, Cape Breton, where he studied violin as his major subject of interest with pipes and drums as a minor subject. Wearing the kilt was "de rigueur" there so Joseph was honoured to wear a MacLennan tartan.

Each day they sang O'Canada in Gaelic and repeated the Lord's Prayer in Gaelic. Wouldn't his Scottish ancestors be proud of him?

At the end of each week of classes a ceilidh, put on by the students, was held for family and other visitors.

These weeks Joseph, like a lot of other violinists, is getting ready to take part at the Glengarry Highland Games.

Kingston history

Frances Fraser, Louis Loczy and Joseph Fraser spent a few days at a fishing lodge on Wolfe Island - across from Kingston.

The ferry, which runs regularly in the summer, is still free and a fun thing to do. Thee ferry on the far side of the Island goes to Cape Vincent, NY.

The family spent an afternoon there and discovered that Cape Vincent inhabitants had built a house for Napoleon so that he would have a place to live should he escape from St. Helena Island. Cape Vincent still celebrates "Bastille Day" on July 14.

Back home

Rosemarie Ferjuc, who has been attending Concordia University, Montreal, is home for the summer with the Fraser and Loczy family.

Kirkin' time

Sunday is the 23rd annual Kirkin' o' the Tartan church service at St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Kirk Hill at 2 p.m.

The Rev. Robert Martin, Vankleek Hill, will be guest speaker, Paul MacIntyre, Cardinal, will be guest soloist, as well as the usual features, with refreshments served on the church lawn following the service.

Library news

On Aug. 8 at 11 a.m., the last day for Detective Activity, for all children registered in the Reading Program, takes place. There will be crafts, games and some stories.

Holstein social

The Glengarry Holstein Association had the annual Twilight Social Evening at Glendalk Farm with the Dougal MacLeod family welcoming a crowd of over 300.

Many neighbours and friends joined the Holstein members and were well fed and entertained by Eleanor Wood, Troy, Ont., with her humourous reflections of farm life as well as musical numbers by Paddy Maher and Paddy Kelly.

After the extremely hot weather, for a couple of days it was a nice respite to have cooler, clean air and enjoy the fellowship.

***

News must be submitted by Thursday evening, Aug. 2, for next week's paper and then please let me know who the visitors were for the holiday weekend.

Have a safe and happy weekend.

Restoration projects financed

BY LAURA PATRICK
News Reporter

On July 19, MP Bob Kilger announced on behalf of Environment Minister David Anderson that $70,000 was being given for two projects to help restore part of the St. Lawrence River in the area of the Great Lakes basin.

The riding of Charlottenburgh in South Glengarry is part of the region undergoing the restoration projects.

The Raisin River Conservation Authority will receive $55,000 to be used to help habitat rehabilitation.

"Installations of rock shoals will be part of this" said legislative assistant Denis Sabourin. "The fish lay eggs and forage for food in these protective areas. The shoals don't erode the area, so the offspring can grow before leaving the area."

The money will also help monitor fish and wildlife activity and develop plans for future habitat enhancement projects.

Cornwall will also receive $15,000 to help determine the feasibility of separating stormwater from the sewers within the Fly Creek drainage area.

"When there is heavy rainfall, the stormwater brings the sewage out faster," said Sabourin. "The money is to help the city find a way to control the drainage.

"The government is committed to restoring and protecting the Great Lakes basin ecosystem. Restoring these areas of concern is vital to the goal of a healthy and sustainable environment,"said Kilger.

The two projects involve many local partners such as the Raisin River Conservation Authority, the City of Cornwall, the Mohawk Council of Akwasasne and the St. Lawrence River Institute of Environmental Science.

The funding is from the government of Canada's Great Lakes Sustainability Fund, first announced by Anderson in July 2000.

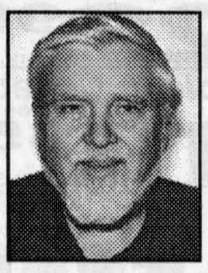
PONTIAC BUICK GMC

A letter from Angus Kelly

HIGHLAND PATHS



KEN MCKENNA

During the last five months of my convalescence after three hip surgeries, I've received a large number of cards and letters, for which I am most grateful. Anne has kept a list of all the people who phoned with their good wishes. I can't thank everyone personally but I take this opportunity to acknowledge all the many kindnesses shown to me by friends and readers of this column. The nurses, doctors and medical staff at both the Hotel Dieu and Glengarry Memorial were all credits to their professions. To name them all would fill the whole column and to leave one out would be unfair.

In June I received a phone call from Angus Kelly of Cornwall. He was interested in the story of Ranald McDonald, the son of retired fur trader Angus McDonald of Glencoe Cottage on the Ottawa. Ranald had sailed to Japan a century and a half ago in an attempt to extend the fur trade there but at that time Japan was closed to foreigners. He was imprisoned and would have probably died if it had not been for the surprise arrival of American Admiral Perry in Tokyo Bay. Ranald, who had learned Japanese in prison, was released to act as interpreter between the Japanese and the Americans. Perry is credited with convincing the Japanese to open their country to the world, but Ranald McDonald's contribution has largely been forgotten.

Sometime after his phone call, Angus Kelly wrote me a letter in which he talked of some of his memories of Greater Glengarry (which he admits may be faulty). He mentions two McRaes who were priests, Fr. Albert in St Andrew's and his brother in Glen Robertson. When I phoned Msgr. McDougald in St Raphael's to get the name of the second brother he told me that it was Charles and that there had been a third brother, Msgr. John E. McRae of the Scarborough Foreign Missionary Society.

Angus Kelly's letter goes on: "I went to High School for a short period in the mid-fifties with a Donald James McDonald who maintained his father, who was named Finnan, was a direct descendant of 'Finnan the Buffalo'. He also had a younger brother named Finnan. His mother was named Peggy and I believe she also was a MacDonald prior to her marriage. When Finnan McDonald died (her first husband) she married a Rousseau and they lived on Seventh St. E. in Cornwall until her death. The following are addresses she gave me many years ago and probably are no longer valid but I will provide them anyway.

Note: The ancestral farm/relatives were located in Williamstown.

Donald James MacDonald, Box 224, Clinton, B.C.

At the time she provided me the address above she told me Donald Jimmy was rounding up wild horses and selling them for rodeo stock or some such.

Chris MacDonald, 222 Dominion Road, Fort Erie, On.

I believe she told me he was an industrial diver.

Quinn MacDonald, Box 83, Arrowood, Alta.

Angus Finnan MacDonald, Box 52, Tungsten, NWT.

I've never been in contact with any of the above after they left Cornwall, nor were we very close as kids growing up although I did know Donald Jimmy as I stated.

"Did I mention 'Angies Creek' where as kids we used to fish? This was located not far from Glen Sandfield. I may be wrong but I believe it's now called Jamieson's drainage or some such. At any rate I recall there was a railway trestle bridge over it at one point.

"I believe I mentioned a Mrs. McLean who immigrated to Canada at the behest of a Rev. McDonnell in the early part of the century and settled in Glen Roberston. Two of her sons served in the merchant marine and were killed in the 2 WW. I remember years ago reading (I think I do anyway - memory's not the best) an article or account by one of the McLean boys in The Glengarry News describing their escape from Antwerp and strafing by German dive bombers and being picked up by Belgian harbour police boats. This account was by the uncle of Roderick Smith and of three children of Mrs. McLean's daughter who also lived in Glen Roberston."

If any reader can add to the information in Angus Kelly's letter, please write me at RR #3, Dalkeith, K0B 1E0 or phone me at 874-2861.

Sympathy

Paul Jones, formerly from the Glen passed away on July 16 at the age of 70. To his wife, Shirley and all his family, our most sincere sympathy. While in the Glen, Mr. Jones was very involved with Outreach as a van driver, delivered meals and was a dedicated volunteer in cancer and heart and stroke fund raising campaigns.

Wedding anniversary

Happy 40th wedding anniversary to John and Moira VanNooten who celebrated last Sunday. We wish you many, many more. From the community.

Visiting

Ursula and Gregor Lasutschinkow of Arizona spent a week visiting with Ed and Carol Zachau. I'm sure that a lot of sightseeing was enjoyed by Ed's sister and brother-in-law!

Welcome Mélissa

Church bells were ringing last Sunday afternoon to welcome another parishioner in the Glen. Mélissa Anne was born on June 3 and baptized by Father Eric Robichaud on July 29.
