Stormont 4-H Calf Clubs hold judging competition

With 112 members of 11 Stormont 4-H Calf Clubs, the Swine Club and Forage Club taking part, the annual judging competition made a full day of activity at the fair grounds at Newington last week.

The program, arranged by assistant agricultural representative William Parkinson, included judging of classes of livestock, a class of pork carcasses brought from the Hull, Quebec, plant of Canada Packers for the purpose, and judging of samples of grain, seeds and plants by those interested in forage crops.

The event is part of the year's program for 4-H members, and scoring is worked out on a system of points. Leading the field in the senior class was Bart Marjerrison, of Avonmore. Second was Wayne Pollock, Ingleside, and third, Barry Grant, of Grant's Corners.

In the intermediate class Linda McRae, of Avonmore, headed the list, with Gwenyth Murray, Martintown, and Kenneth MacLennan, of South Branch, close behind. In junior classes, Linda Duval, Newington, was followed by Linda Ferguson, also of Newington, and Annette Brownell made it one, two, three for the Newington area.

Winners in each category in 10th place or better will receive cash prizes at the 4-H Awards Night held in late fall.

There were two trophy winners, one for the highest novice participant, won by Frances Cleary of Harrison's Corners, and the Kraft Foods Ltd. award, which includes a trip to the Royal Winter Fair, for the highest points winner. This prize was won by Bart Marjerrison.

Kenneth Best, Stormont agricultural representative, worked with Mr Parkinson in making arrangements. A group of 4-H Club leaders from Dundas assisted during the day, as part of a new mutual assistance plan among the United Counties.

Ron Heath, summer assistant ag. rep. in Glengarry, and Douglas Burke, of the Canadian Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, gave special help, along with local club leaders and interested volunteers.

Classes of cattle for judging were provided from the herds of Gerald Duval, Elwood Thompson and R. R. Simmons, all of the Newington area. The competitors had to judge the cattle or other exhibits provided, mark score sheets and give reasons for choices.

Sunday sports vote set for Morrisburg

Morrisburg voters will go to the polls September 14 to decide the question of Sunday sports. A by-law authorizing the referendum was passed by council Monday night.

Last December a similar plebiscite was defeated by 72 votes.

William Dillabough, manager of the Morrisburg Combines hockey team who presented the petition, said "all teams in the St. Lawrence - Ottawa Senior Hockey League, except Morrisburg and Ottawa have Sunday sports."

"Ottawa," he continued "will be voting on this issue this autumn."

Hockey schedules are drawn up in November and the question must be settled before that time, Mr Dillabough stated.

Win. Twp. council passes by-law for extra spending

By-law No. 13-64 was passed authorizing aditional road expenditures of $26,800 in 1964 and forwarded to the Department of Highways for approval.

A petition to improve the Curley Municipal Drain, and a requisition for maintenance of the Morewood Municipal Drain were received and accepted.

A notice of the formation of the Winchester Township School Area was received from the Department of Education stating that the school area shall be established on the 1st day of January, 1965, in accordance with the provisions of Section 40 of the Public School Act. The school area will consist of former school sections No. 4, 7, 10, 12, 15, 18, U.S.S. 21/12 (Russell) and of present school sections No. U.S.S. 2/19 (Mountain), 5, 6, 8, 9, 11, 14, 16, 20. The school board will consist of five trustees elected by ballot at the municipal elections.

In accordance with regulations of the D.H.O., in future the hourly rate to ratepayers for rental of the township grader will be $8.00 per hour.

The following accounts were passed: Road voucher No. 8, $4,046.18. Morewood Police Village $2,254.80, relief $178.50, salaries $281.92, 1963 audit $1500.00, liability insurance 326.33.

Dunbar residents were in a turmoil last week. Earth movers and bulldozers tore the old place apart, getting ready for the new roadway. The former road was ripped out and the roadbed cleared down about three to four feet. The big trench left the village residents clambering up and down when they stepped out the front door. Looking across to Cecil McMillan's store in our photo, one gets some idea of the clean-up program. 25 fight grass fire

A fiercely-burning grass fire near here threatened a bush on one side and buildings on the other before 25 men brought it under control Friday afternoon.

Williamsburg Volunteer Fire Department was called out to assist area residents after the blaze broke out on George Hanna's farm about eight miles east of Chesterville.

Hanna was burning weeds when the blaze went out of control. It spread through three acres, destroying grass and log fences.

Williamsburg Reeve Donald Kyle called in firefighters when the blaze threatened to spread to a bush on his nearby farm.

The 25 firefighters brought the fire under control after three hours. It had just moved into a field of oats on the Hanna farm.

Mr and Mrs Florian Patenaude announce the engagement of their younger daughter, Leona Marie, to Wayne Stanley, son of Mr and Mrs Stanley Shay. Marriage to take place on Saturday, September 12, at 10.30 a.m., in St. Mary's Church, Chesterville.

Girl of eleven dead two in Ottawa hospital following St. Onge fire

An 11-year-old girl is dead and two other members of her family are in hospital with burns after fire destroyed their two-storey, brick-sided farm home outside St. Onge early Monday morning.

Firemen found the body of Dora Labelle in the ruins of the basement. Her mother, Mrs Leo Labelle, 48, and a sister Rejeane, 17, are being treated for burns at St. Louis Marie de Montfort Hospital. Their conditions are not serious.

They escaped along with Mr Labelle, a farmer, and five other children, Desneiges, 18; Claire, 16; Paul, 13; Susan, 8 and Lucie, 7. All were asleep when the fire broke out.

Cause of the fire is not yet known.

It broke out, apparently, in a shed at the rear of the Labelle home, a mile outside St. Onge on St. Mary Road shortly before 4.30 a.m.

Mr Labelle discovered the blaze when he smelled smoke and heard the crackling of flames. He roused his wife and family, all of whom escaped through a window except Dora. In the confusion she was first thought to have escaped and was not missed for some time.

Neighbours, aided by firemen from Embrun, succeeded in keeping the fire confined to the house but it was completely destroyed. The family saved only their night clothing.

St. Onge is only 11 miles north of Chesterville.

Whitteker - Barkley

A wedding of interest on August 1, took place at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Dunbar, when Lois Mildred Barkley became the bride of Garry Raymond Whitteker. The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Ralph Barkley of Dunbar and the groom is the son of Mr and Mrs Paul Whitteker, Williamsburg. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. L. Howald, Morrisburg. A reception followed the wedding in Legion Hall, Chesterville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in floor-length organza over lace with lily pointed sleevs, scooped neckline trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Her elbow-length veil was held in place by a crown of crystals and seed pearls. She carried a bride's bouquet of sweetheart roses and pom poms.

The maid of honour was Miss Isla Whitteker, sister of the groom. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret McIntosh, Miss Pat McLaughlin and Miss Marie McIntosh. Flower girl was Miss Cheri Brodeur. The maid of honour and bridemaids were gowned alike in street-length dresses of crystal peau with bell shaped skirts and matching flowers and veils. Colours were emerald green for the maid of honour and dresses of deep yellow for the bridesmaids. The flower girl was dressed in white and yellow organza over satin with white accessories.

Raymond Larsen, Williamsburg, supported the groom and ushers were Jimmy Barkley, Larry Barkley and Jimmy Whitteker. Ring bearer was Gordie Paul.

The bride's mother chose a gown of blue lace with white accessories and a corsage of rose carnations. The groom's mother was gowned in a brown and white pleated Arnel dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip to Western Ontario points. The bride was wearing a travelling costume of ice blue matching sheath and duster of crystal peau with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Upon their return Mr and Mrs Whitteker will reside in Williamsburg.

Signatures ordinarily were not used to authenticate documents until the 15th century in England.

The wedding took place last Friday, August 7, in Aurora, Ont., of Mrs Jean Casselman, M.P. for Grenville-Dundas, and Mr R. Wadds of Toronto. Mrs Casselman is the daughter of Lt.-Governor Earl Rowe and Mrs Rowe. Mr Wadds is a vice president of an investment house of Toronto.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

Took a small trip out to Dunbar this week. My, the old place is changed. What with road builders tearing the living lights out of the main street and leaving a big fat trench where the road used to be, it makes one wonder what will be the final outcome. Right now the village is teetering on the edge, ready to fall into the new sunken highway.

For a while, it looked as if the earth movers had uncovered a junkyard. Every pass down the torn street unearthed another hunk of old iron boiler, a length of rusty culvert or a nugget of snarly cable. It appears the holes have been filled for years with whatever came handiest; then the blacktop covered everything up and out of the way. Seems a shame to bare the oddments that were never meant to be bared, even in the name of progress. But at least a nice fresh layer of sand will soon arrive to bring the road back to the level at least of Cecil McMillan's gas pumps. Right now, they need a long extension to reach the thirsty end of a car.

We used to paddle around in the lovely soft dust in front of the house in our bare feet. The hens always joined us in a dust-up there, and the world was full of everything fine and dandy. But the Finch Road became too well travelled to allow that state of affairs to exist for long. Progress took over and the machinery moved in to remodel the thoroughfare. Everybody that had a stone pile along a fence contributed a few loads to the cause, ditches were scooped out at the soft spots, and the hard spots were just ignored. As a result some of the finest frog ponds in Eastern Ontario were made in the early Twenties along the Finch Road. The stones were crushed and coarse crushed stone became the base for a black top road.

We still feel the tongue-tingling sesnsation of chewing a lump of black tar. When the tar was to go on the road top, the machinery consisted of a big fat iron pot, a fire of cedar rails and wooden barrels of hard tar. When the pot of tar was deemed hot enough, a converted water tank was backed in, it was filled with the boiling stuff and hurriedly squirted down the road. The kids were always there to sneak away a few small lumps of the stuff. It took a brave lad to develop a taste for it. But after the taste was developed, one could eat anything. It didn't matter, because the tar removed one's sense of taste for days. If the road crews were able, they would sling some sand into the fresh mess soon after spraying. If they were late for supper, the tar would eventually settle, the road gravel and stone would work up and if the weather was cool enough, a reasonable surface resulted. But the tar could never replace that lovely soft dust, fluffing up through a kid's bare toes on a hot June afternoon.

County Road No. 7 is a different type of construction. Things have changed. Now the big earth movers remove most of the old road in great gouging passes. They widen out the fence lines until it takes a man an hour to walk from ditch to ditch. Not a single crooked curve is left and the knolls and ridges become slopes and grades with a view equal to a poop deck on a destroyer. Trucks then tear out a few mountains of sand and dump it on the right of way. Water tankers remove the river in large loads to tamp the mess down, and suddenly the new speedway takes shape. No trees, no corners, and a hard surface. There are only soft shoulders and full curves, and very expensive. Makes one think of a Hollywood blonde, what?

Still and all, it will soon be a pleasure to whip out to Dunbar to see the sights, or ease out to Elma to watch the sun rise. The road will be quite a change from the surveyor's nightmare that has served so well so long. And with the corner gone at the north limit of Dunbar village, we can foresee considerable increase in speeding through the hamlet. It might be well to persuade the concontractor to reinstall some of the old boilers as tank traps. They might just prove useful.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Laura Secord meets challenge

In an age when debunking is commonplace and long revered heroes of the past are pictured as having been really lacking in virtue and accomplishments, it's comforting to find the descendants of Laura Secord affirming their belief in the story of Mrs Secord's celebrated 20-mile trek from Queenston to De Cew's Falls to warn Lieut. Fitzgibbon of an intended American attack on the British.

Aware that some doubts are held over the authenticity of the story, Laura Secord's great-granddaughter, Mrs Clayton L. Jackson of Edmonton has asserted that the family not only believes the story, but also accepts the legend that Laura drove a cow through the "woods, swamps and miry roads" to throw off suspicion as she sought to alert the British outpost in June, 1813.

Now just think of the disquiet that would have been caused in Canada, and in the Niagara district in particular, says the Welland Tribune, if Laura's descendants had admitted to some share in the reservations over the story. No informed person in the Niagara district needs to be reminded that next to General Sir Isaac Brock, the fame of Laura Secord is most celebrated.

It's fitting to recall that rather substantial acceptance has been granted the legend of Laura Secord. The memorial at Queenston at the edge of the escarpment was erected through a grant from the Dominion Government. A bronze bust at her grave in Drummond Hill Cemetery, Niagara Falls, was installed by the Ontario Historical Society and a memorial tablet at the grave on which her heroic trek is recounted was provided by the Lundy's Lane Historical Society.

With or without the cow, the story of Laura Secord's trek seems quite impervious to any niggling challenges by detractors.

Quiet for mother

A U.S. firm has produced a set of records designed to keep the modern baby quietly contented, if not permanently asleep, from birth until the age of 18 months, at which point, of course, the TV set can take over.

The modern mother, states the Calgary Albertan, is thus left free from the cradle to Grade 1 to cope with her electric polisher, automatic washer and dryer and automatic dishwasher—and even, if she can find the time, to open a few cans on her electric can-opener or beat up some cake mixes in her electric mixer.

Armyworm marches on its stomach

A widespread outbreak of the armyworm has developed in grain fields over a wide area of Eastern Canada.

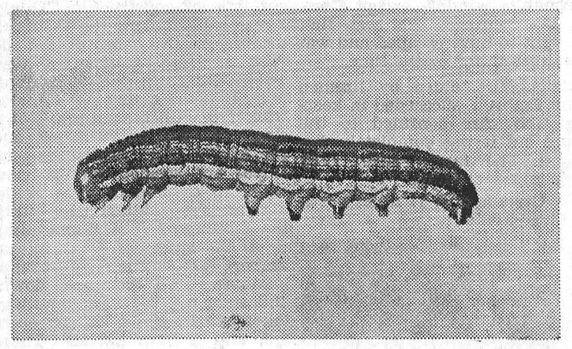
According to J. C. Guppy, of CDA's Entomology Research Institute, severe infestations have been found in fields throughout Southern and Eastern Ontario and parts of Quebec. There have also been reports of outbreaks in New Brunswick. In Ontario the first heavy infestations were discovered on July 9 and three weeks later the peak of damage had been reached. By July 28 most of the Ontario larvae had reached maturity and had begun to pupate.

bers of the grass family only. Serious damage occurs largely in small grains such as oats, and in corn and grass crops such as timothy.

The armyworm is a climbing cutworm about an inch and a half long when fully grown, dark greyish brown to greenish blac in colour, with longitudinal light coloured stripes.

The worms seem to appear suddenly and destroy the grain crops but in reality they have been developing in fields for several weeks. Unfortunately the early stages are not easily detected.

Armyworm moths lay eggs in



Marching through Ontario

Growers were advised to examine their grain crops carefully. The larvae feed at night and move to the base of the plants during the day. If the worms average more than five or six per square foot throughout the fields, then treatment with an insecticide is necessary to avoid severe damage.

The extent of the outbreak in Canada has not yet been assessed. About eight rather severe outbreaks of armyworm have occurred in North America in the past 100 years. The first known severe outbreak in Canada occurred in 1896. The last outbreak and one of the greatest was in 1954.

The armyworm attacks members of the grass family only. Serious damage occurs largely in small grains such as oats, and in corn and grass crops such as timothy.

the fields during late May and June. The eggs hatch in about one week and the young larvae begin to feed on the plants. Damage becomes apparent about two to four weeks after the eggs have hatched and by this time the larvae are about an inch long; during the next several days they feed ravenously at night and damage a crop severely if there are enough of them.

The larval stage from hatching to maturity lasts about 29 days. When the larvae are fully developed they transform into the pupal stage which lasts two to three weeks and then adult moths emerge. Offspring of these late summer moths have never been known to cause damage.

PAMPERED PIGS

Rancher Bill Silveira, Tipton, Calif., produces pampered pigs for luau feasts in Hawaii for island tourists.

In their spic and span pens, the pigs grew neurotic to the point of becoming stomach ulcer victims until he figured out a way to ease their frustrations, Silveira explained recently.

"Nature designed the pig to root for his own living," Silveira told the Council of California Growers.

"When you keep him on washed down concrete, where he cannot root for food, he can become frustrated into an ulcer case."

The therapy Silveira devised was hanging chunks of wood on chains from the over-head beams of his pens.

The pigs bite and chew on the wood. They jostle and fight each other for the chance, and they happily work off their tensions.

Silveira markets up to 1,000 lean-fleshed 90-pound luau pigs in Hawaii each year.

SMOKE LESS

The story comes from Toronto that would-be cigarette manufacturer Sam Markle has a popular slogan—smoke less.

In fact, he plans to put out Less brand cigarettes.

Markle, 31, says his cigarettes will be of the regular size and possibly only 19 in a pack—and taste like any other cigarette—"rotten."

They will cost 10 per cent more than other cigarettes to justify his advertising claim Pay More and Get Less.

Markle, the president of Creative Signs Limited, says he has applied for patents for the brand and is dickering with several small firms which have shown interest in maufacturing it.

He smoked a pack a day for 15 years and then gave them up six months ago.

SAHARA DESERT SAID ONCE JUNGLE

Evidence that the Sahara Desert was once a dense jungle and later a lush grassland capable of supporting huge droves of cattle is seen in prehistoric pictures found in many parts of south and east Morocco.

Rock carvings recently discovered at Foum El Hassan in the desert include 114 drawings of wild beasts like elephants, giraffes and rhinoceros, together with warriors and hunters, and eight curious pictures representing two-wheeled chariots.

Archaeologists have found a total of 142 rock carvings of these chariots along a route stretching for more than 2,000 miles, from Figuig, in northeastern Morocco down to Tondia, near Goundam, in Mali.

Dating the drawings raises big problems, but it is estimated that the most ancient were cut from 5,000 to 2,000 years before Christ.

A second group is believed to have been carved in the second and first millenium before our era, and a third was drawn in more recent times up to the eighth century A.D.

Experts in the first group indicate the desert was then a thick jungle with all the wild beasts which now are found only in central Africa.

In the second period, the drawings show huge herds of cattle and animals like antelopes, indicating that the Sahara was then grassland.

Finally, in the third period, horses and camels make their appearance, showing that the area had become a desert.

One easy way to paint a chair is to set it on an old-fashioned piano stool that turns. Finish all the bottom surfaces first and then stand the chair upright and complete the top surfaces.

Your Federal Report

Mrs Jean Wadds, M.P.

As can be seen by the daily press there is continuous criticism of the Minister of Agriculture for his absence from the House of Commons. It has become an Opposition technique to ask as many questions as possible of his Department when he is not present, such questions point up the fact, and when he is present, his lack of Parliamentary experience has been showing up badly. The Hon. Harry Hayes is an auctioneer and made it quite plain from the beginning that he did not intend to discontinue auctioneering merely because he had been elected to Parliament and made a Cabinet Minister. However, Mr Hayes is also a shrewd businessman and tackles the problems of agriculture from a businessman's angle. Although he will probably never like Parliamentary debate and the Question Period in Parliament, he is now enduring it with better grace. Certainly he has some excellent people in his Department and literature helpful to farmers continues to be produced.

The latest pamphlet entitled "Farm Letter" on Farm Credit is interesting and useful. Anyone wishing copies should feel free to write to me direct at the House of Commons or to the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Our two counties of Grenville and Dundas have been running close to the national average in their use of Farm Credit facilities. This means that a considerable amount of borrowing for farm improvement and extensions has taken place, usually with excellent results. Most farmers have a general idea of how Farm Credit operates since its beginning as the old Farm Loan Board. After 1958 the reorganization as the "Farm Credit Corporation" saw a tremendous increase in credit to farmers. This being a useful assistance to one of Canada's main industries, it has been closely watched and studied. Weaknesses have been pointed out and changes and improvements made.

This pamphlet from Ottawa, July, 1964, shows such changes as the doubling of the maximum standard loan to $40,000, the doubling of the maximum package loan to $55,000. It lists how loans may be used:

"You may use loans to (1) buy land and build or modernize buildings; (2) buy basic herd livestock and essential equipment; (3) buy lime, fertilizer and seed to establish permanent plantings; (4) develop secondary nonfarm enterprise on your farm, provided this is the most profitable use of your land; (5) pay operating and living costs until the farm will support you; (6) settle debts, or for any other purpose considered essential for successful organization and operation of the farm."

It also points out how to avoid misuse of credit and states:

"Don't use credit to pay too much for land, building, equipment or livestock, buy unproductive land or livestock, or finance equipment or impractical buildings . . ."

This misuse of credit is not likely to occur due to the excellent co-operation given by the local agents of the Farm Credit Corporation. It has been reported to me that conversations with these well-qualified advisors have been helpful and useful, even when a loan was not finalized.

As in the financing of any large business enterprise, credit is an important, in fact, sometimes essential, factor.

Now is the time to give the lawn a second application of fertilizer say horticulturists with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Special turf fertilizers should be used since they contain materials which release nitrogen over an extended period.

The ratios for commercial fertilizers vary, but the first figure represents the percentage of nitrogen available. Lawns should have 1 pound of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet. This will be supplied by 10 pounds of a 10-6-4 ratio, 14 pounds of a 7-7-7 ratio or 5 pouns of a 20-5-5 ratio. Apply when the grass is dry and water in thoroughly.

Observe one hundred years of Ontario cheese-making

One hundred years of cheese-making in Canada was observed on Saturday, August 8, when the Hon. William Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, opened a replica of a 19th century cheese factory at Upper Canada Village, near Morrisburg.

The re-construction of the cheese factory was arranged jointly by the Cheese Centennial Committee and the St. Lawrence Parks Commission. This latest addition to Upper Canada Village, a colony of pioneer buildings on Lake St. Lawrence, commemorates the first cheese factory built in Upper Canada at Norwich, Oxford County, in 1864.

The two-room structure is patterned after a factory located in Glengarry County in 1867. It will be operative and cheddar cheese produced here will be on sale at the Village store. Although the cheese only takes six hours to make, the curing process requires a minimum of 60 days.

In Canada's early days, cheese was made by hand on dairy farms. Later, production methods were substituted and the making of cheese became an important and separate part of the dairy industry. The first factories were privately owned; later, co-operative ones developed.

The opening of the cheese factory marks another important phase in the Village plan to show the working life of 19th century settlers. Already, the woollen mill produces blankets; the sawmill saws wood into planks; the domestic arts of quilting, weaving and rug-making are illustrated in craft houses. There are also daily demonstrations of bread and cookie baking.

Upper Canada Village is part of the vast complex of historic and recreational sites administered by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, which also includes Old Fort Henry at Kingston and a chain of 14 parks along Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River.

Economics and Development Minister Stanley J. Randall gets a helping hand from Queen's Park parliamentary guide Dorothy Comer to crate a painting of London, Ontario, for delivery to London, England. The painting by Clare Bice is from the famous Seagram collection and is on loan to the Province, where it will hang in the newly rebuilt and renovated Ontario government building, Ontario, House, London.

Lilac bushes will benefit from some attention at this time of year, say horticulturists with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Old flower heads should be cut off. If they are allowed to form seed heads they become unsightly and plant food used in forming them would not be utilized to improve growth. Care should be taken to avoid removing terminal bud growths when cutting off the seed heads.

Lilacs require little pruning during the summer, just thin out old wood where it has become too dense. Severe pruning should be avoided since this promotes

Old Age Is Golden

How do I know my youth is all spent?
Well my get up and go has got up and went!
But in spite of it all I am able to gain,
When I think where my get up has really been.

But sometimes I wonder as I get into bed,
With my ears in a drawer, my teeth in a cup,
My eyes on the table until I get up,
Till sleep dims my eyes, I say to my self,
Is there anything else I should have laid on the shelf.

When I was young my slippers were red,
I could kick my heels right over my head.
When I grew older my slippers were blue,
Still I could dance nearly the whole night through.
Now I am old my slipers are black,
And I walk to the store but I puff my way back.

The reason I know my youth is all spent,
My get up and go has really all went!
But I really don't mind when I think with a grin,
Of all the grand places my get up has been.

Since I have retired from life's competition,
I busy myself with complete repetition.
I get up in the morning and dust off my wits,
I pick up the paper and read the obits.

If my name is missing. I know I'm not dead,
So I put on my nightie and crawl back into bed.

HALF MILLION CAN. WIVES TAKE BIRTH CONTROL PILL

Half a million Canadian women are using oral contraceptive pills even though doctors still cannot agree on whether or not the pills are safe, Eric Hutton reports in the current Maclean's.

"One in five married women under the age of forty-five is swallowing a daily dose of synthetc hormones to ward of pregnancy," Hutton says.

The pill, taken on twenty days of every month, appears to be totally effective in preventing conception, Hutton continues, but as to whether it can harm its users — and how much it might — here is still a wide difference of opinion among medical authorities.

Former S-D-G warden Stanley Fraser dies

Stanley Fraser, Warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry in 1959 and veteran of many years on Counties Council, died suddenly last week at his Moose Creek farm home.

He was in his 68th year.

His death came as a shock to those who had served beside him as a member of counties council and to his many friends throughout the United Counties.

Mr Fraser was a native of Moose Creek, a north Stormont farming community, and farmed and lived in the area throughout his life. He was the son of the late Alex Fraser and the former Jeannette MacDermid, also deceased.

L. Cameron Kennedy, United Counties clerk treasurer, said Mr Fraser joined counties council during the fifties as deputy-reeve of Roxborough Township. He was later elected township reeve and in 1959 was named warden of the three counties

Mr Fraser retired from the municipal political scene shortly after his term as warden.

He was married to the former Vera Kennedy who predeceased him in 1959.

He is survived by three daughters Florence, Prince George, B.C.; Donna, Avonmore; and Wilma of Ottawa and one son Linton Fraser, living in Moose Creek.

CHECK YOUR SHOE-BUYING HABITS

Sore feet are the bane of many women and it could be they have no one to blame but themselves.

Sometimes, of course, a woman reaches adulthood with feet that pose a problem in shoe comfort because her parents paid little attention to proper fitting during her childhood and teen years. She may have been made to wear hand-me-downs in the interests of economy. Or she may be in that group of middle-agers and over who carry a legacy of bunions, hammer toes and ingrown toenails because shoe lasts of forty or fifty years ago did not encompass such a wide range of widths, lengths and shapes as they do today.

Today, shoe manufacturers go to great lengths to provide a myriad of sizes, widths and shapes to meet the demands for comfort and fashion in footwear. So there's really no excuse for a woman with normal feet to wreck a good understanding by buying and wearing improper shoes.

Nine times out of ten, foot miseries can be avoided by wearing properly fitting shoes that provide firm support for the foot. Choosing footwear for the occasion is also important. Some shoes are made for show — others for "go".

There are a number of important points to watch for when having a new pair of shoes fitted.

You aren't a freak of nature if you have one foot longer than the other. Most people have. So be sure to have both feet measured and the shoes fitted to the longer foot.

It isn't a good salesman who asks you what size you wear. Measurement is always necessary, because your feet change from time to time and one style of shoe may fit differently from another style. So insist on that ruler.

You'll need a fairly snug fit around the heels to keep the shoes from rubbing up and down and you'll need toe room. If the shoe touches the tip of your big toe, send it back. Watch too where your joint falls. If it hits the side of the shoe at the widest point, all is well. Check for seams that can cause trouble for joints or toes. This goes for lining wrinkles too.

Don't buy shoes that feel as though your feet were squeezed into them and don't go home with a pair which catch your fancy but must be "broken in" before they can be worn. If they don't feel comfortable in the shop, they never will. So walk in them before final judgement.

For working hours at least, in home or office, wear shoes that provide support. Medium height heels tend to disaribute your weight, relieving full pressure on the ball of your foot. So leave those needle toes with stiletto heels in the closet for special occasions, or you'll rue the day. When asked what he thought about such shoe styles for street wear, a podiatrist is said to have remarked: "I think they're wonderful, they're going to keep us in business for the next thirty years."

Don't for goodness' sake wear run-down slippers or old misshapen shoes even while doing housework. They may feel wonderful, but your spreading your feet and denying them the support they deserve.

Make a point of not wearing the same shoes every day. Manipulate your budget so that you can alternate between at least two pairs. And if your feet are inclined to perspire, dust on some absorbent foot powder before putting on your stockings. Through the day, foot spray or cologne right through your hose will provide relief.

Finally, wear stockings that fit properly. A short stocking can cause almost as much foot misery as a short shoe.

So have a thought for your aching feet, for you know the old saying: "If your feet hurt, you hurt all over."

DOCTOR TELLS HEAVY SMOKERS TO STOP WORRYING

There are still huge flaws in the evidence that links smoking and lung cancer and confirmed heavy smokers should quit worrying about their habit, a Canadian doctor says in the current Maclean's.

W. Gifford-Jones says that the antismoking campaign has not really inspired many people to quit cigarettes for good but it has probably turned many thousands of happy smokers into "fearful hypochondriac smokers."

"Cancerphobia," he continues, "is probably doing many old smokers more harm than the smoke itself."

Gifford-Jones defines a confirmed heavy smoker as someone who's been smoking a pack or more every day for fifteen or twenty years. He does not recommend that nonsmokers become smokers and he says young people are wiser to steer clear of the habit.

PUT YOUR MUNICIPALITY ON THE MAP

Invitations have gone out to Canadian cities asking them to help create a miniature city in Saint John that would include scale models of Canada's most famous buildings. This comes from The Financial Post which says the "city" would be modelled after Madurodam in the Netherlands which has become one of that nation's biggest single tourist attractions. It is expected the Saint John miniature community would have a road through it at least a mile long, with waterfront, ship and railway yards. The new city hall for Toronto, the Parliament buildings for Ottawa and the towering legislature building for Newfoundland.

"We're looking for anything representative of Canadian life," said a committee spokesman. "We would like to get buildings that typified Canada before 1867 and afterward. With any kind of co-operation from the rest of Canada, we'll be able to present one of the most appropriate tributes to confederation of any Canadian city," Communities interested in joining in the project can provide two buildings if they wish, one of pre-confederation vintage and the other modern. The miniature city would be built in two parts, one depicting Canada as it was before 1867 and the other as it is today.

TWO-TONED TABLES

Two-toned tables of walnut are being made available by one manufacturer to meet demand for unusual decorative effects.

The tables are banded in dark stained wood with the major surface in natural or lighter than natural tones. They are of various sizes for use next to chairs and sofas or for party use.

Two-toned woods recently shown in an office furniture collection were so well received that their use has extended to the home. Light walnut banded by dark can unify a room in which both dark and bleached woods are used.

The Bureau of International Exhibitions was founded in 1928 by 31 nations to improve and regulate world fairs.

SPANISH CORK FOR WALLS

Cork, obtained from the outer bark of an oak tree which is found only on the western shores of the Mediterranean, has found a new place in the home. Familiar to many as floor coverings, it now appears on the wall.

Because of its neutral colour and interesting texture, cork creates an effective background, harmonious with both contemporary and traditional interiors.

One type is made from virgin cork—that is, the crude woody cork taken in the first cut from the cork oak trees when they are only 15 years old. Although the cork itself is always the natural colour, it is applied over coloured backing sheets which show through.

"Cork stripe" is a narrow stripe made up of two different types of cork.

"Shaded cork"—a contemporary approach in cork designs—is a composition of random rectangles. Both employ the maturer, finer grained cork.

Four patterns, manufactured in Spain, are now available through interior designers, the decorating departments of stores and wallpaper dealers.

Try this self-check to see if you folow other cars too closely in traffic, the Ontario Safety League suggests. Think back and count the times someone cut in ahead of you from another lane, last time you drove through the city, or in a crowded expressway. If you drive sensibly, several other cars will move in ahead of you every hour. If none ever squeezes in ahead, it probably means that you consistently drive dangerously close to the car you are following.

HANDLING THE CATCH

Fish are delicious but an extremely perishable food product. Here are a few tips on how to protect the good quality of the catch.

1. Kill your fish immediately. Don't let them struggle.
2. Keep them out of the sun in a cool, sheltered place.
3. As soon as possible, clean them, cut away the gills and wash tme in clean, cold, running water.
4. Pack the body cavities with finely crushed ice, then cover the fish with more crushed ice. Keep them well iced until they reach their destination.
5. If no ice is available, pack the fish loosely in damp moss, ferns or sacking, and keep them in a cool shaded place. This will protect their good quality for a limted number of hours. As the moisture evaporates, the fish are chilled.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

Garefi is a poor village in Greece. Garefi is poor because war has torn the country, because the fields are mud and stone, because people have fear. Garefi is poor also because the Bible has been missing in their lives, and in their homes, reports the Canadian Mennonite.

During a recent meeting of village elders with a Christian worker living in the village, it was ponted out that no one had Bibles in Garefi. During the winter, money was collected and Bibles were purchased. The town crier announced the news when the village was ready for a Bible ditsribution.

It was a sunny day in an otherwise rainy month. The people were all gathered at the foot of the schoolhouse steps as the priest, Papa Gorgiou, spoke to them. After telling them that the missionaries were Christians from another land, he came to the core of his message.

"This book is to help you . . . Don't put it on a shelf; read it; read it at least twice a week with the entire family, and don't use the leaves for cigarette paper!"

One hundred and seventy Bibles were handed out.

JUST A FREAK?

The legendary "lost city of the Kalahari" is a geological freak, not a man-made city, the leader of a Northern Rhodesia scout expedition reported in a radio message.

J. Leech, whose 15-member expedition of scouts and scout leaders, reported it had found the "city" described in 1885 by American explorer G. A. Farini.

Leech, organizing commissioner of the Northern Rhodesia Boy Scouts Association, said his group found a great crescent-shaped wall of rock, apparently the one described by Ftrini as "like the great Wall of China after ran earthquake."

"Within the enclosure was a gentle, sloping plain of flat stone that could, with imagination, be called paved," Leech added.

The Hon. James Auld, Ontario Minister of Tourism and Information, was piped to the first tee where he used a 19th century club to drive the first ball, marking the opening of Upper Canada Golf Course at Crysler Farm Battlefield Park, seven miles east of Morrisburg. The new championship golf course is presently a 9-hole, par 36, 3,400 yard course and is designed for the full 18-hole layout.

SHELLAC POPULAR AS A FINISH

Easy to apply and fast drying, larity over the years as a final shellac has maintained its popufinishing material and as a sealer.

Because shellac is a clear finish, the result obtained with it depends to some degree on the smoothness of the surface to which it is applied.

Unlike some of the pigmented coatings, clear finishes tend to magnify rather than hide defects.

The first rule in the use of shellac is to sand the surface until it is smooth to the touch.

Shellac should be thinned with denatured alcohol before it is used. There are various recommended combinations for different purposes, but experts have found that 50-50 mixture does the job in most cases.

The important thing is not to make the mistake of applying the shellac as it comes from the container.

It usually is applied with a brush and is put on with a flowing motion, but sometimes—especially with the initial coats—can be spread on with a clean, lintless cloth.

There is no special knack to its application and even a beginner can do the job.

Like all clear finishes, shellac is best applied in several thin coats rather than one or two thick coats. There are two types of shellac, orange and white.

The white actually is what we generally know as clear and might be described as less orange than the orange type.

Don't forget that—again like all clear finishes—shellac tends to darken wood slightly, so try it out on a piece of scrap wood first.

Shellac is a natural, fast drying finish, but will nt fit into that category if it is applied during humid weather.

SPACE AGE METAL

British Columbia may soon become Canada's major source of the space age metal molybdenum, the legislature was told recently.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said a large molybdenite deposit at Boss Mountain, 50 miles east of William Lake ,is under development and should be in production late next year.

The mine would be the first in Canada—"and I believe in North America—to produce molybdenium exclusively.

The metal's value in rocketry is found in its resistance to extremes in temperature.

SAVE TIME WITH ONE-DISH DINNERS

THE BRIGHT SUNNY DAYS of summer are all too few in number, so make the most of your time by serving labour saving one-dish dinners.

Stuffed Pork Chops

2 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. poultry seasoning
¼ tsp. pepper
2 cups soft bread crumbs
3 tbsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ cup water
1 green pepper, chopped
6 carrots, diced
3 potatoes, diced
1 cup water

Cut pockets in chops. Make dressing of next seven ingredients. Trim excess fat from chops. Fill pockets with dressing and fasten shut with toothpicks or sew shut. Brown chops well on both sides in pork fat. Add ½ cup water, cover tightly and cook slowly one hour until meat is tender. Add more water (or tomato juice) if necessary. Add remaining ingredients and cook till tender, about 25 minutes.

1 cup sliced carrots
Salt and pepper to taste
1 medium onion, chopped

Heat oven to 350°. Brown ham slightly in dripping in heavy pan. Blend in flour. Add soup and milk gradually, stirring constantly. Heat to boiling. Alternate layers of carrots, potatoes and onions in a greased casserole. Add seasonings. Top with ham mixture. Bake covered 30 minutes and uncovered 30 minutes.

1 cup water

Brown chicken in butter in frying pan. Place in greased casserole. Add rice to butter left in pan after chicken has been removed. Cook till golden, stirring constantly. Add onions, pepper, and garlic to rice. Add remaining ingredients. Pour over chicken. Cover tightly and bake 45 minutes in 400° oven. Remove cover. Stir. Cook until chicken is tender and most of rice absorbed.

RECIPE OF THE MONTH

By the Ontario Tender Fruit Institute
"Buy Canada Choice Canned Fruit"

PICKLED PEACHES

16 to 18 medium peaches (about 4 lbs.)
1 cup white vinegar
1 cup water
4½ cups sugar
2 four-inch sticks cinnamon
1 teaspoon whole cloves

Choose fine - flavoured, tree-ripened Ontario fresh peaches that are firm and free from blemishes. Put vinegar, water and sugar into a 3-quart saucepan, simmer 5 minutes. Skin one half of the peaches by dropping them in boiling water just long enough so that the skins will slip off easily. (Be careful not to leave peaches in boiling water long enough for flesh to soften or they will not skin smoothly.) Drop peaches at once into the syrup, simmer until tender (about 12 minutes). Lift peaches into a bowl and set aside until you have peeled and cooked the remainder. Remove saucepan from heat; add peaches in bowl, cover and let stand overnight. Next morning, pack peaches into sterile hot jars. Add the spices to the syrup and reheat to boiling. Pour syrup over pickles to cover fruit to within ¼ inch of jar top. Seal, cool and store in a cool, dark place.
