Charles Gracey named Sales Manager of Eastern Breeders Incorporated

Charles Gracey

Eastern Breeders has announced the appointment of Charles Gracey as sales manager. Previous to accepting this position, Mr Gracey was, for the past four years, a member of the staff of Kemptville Agricultural School.

He is a graduate of Ontario Agricultural College, where he obtained his Bachelor's degree in 1958. Following graduation, he undertook graduate studies in animal breeding and obtained his Master's degree in 1959.

As sales manager, Mr Gracey's duties will involve not only advertising and promotional work, but in addition he will be expected to meet with individual breeders or groups of breeders to discuss any problems related to artificial insemination.

Mr Gracey looks forward to continuing the many happy associations he has enjoyed with Eastern Ontario farmers and hopes that in his new position he can continue to be of service to farmers in their livestock enterprises.

Married, with one daughter, Mr Gracey is 29 years old and a member of the Kemptville Rotary Club.

Delmar Wilson dead in auto accident at Avonmore

Delmar Wilson of Northfield Station is dead following a car accident at Avonmore. The smash-up occurred about 5 o'clock Tuesday evening on Highway 43 near Avonmore.

Critically injured are two other persons. They are William Ellis, R.R. 1, Northfield Station, and Mrs Francoise Gulewicz, Monkland.

The accident happened when the car driven by Ellis tried to evade another car, swerved and went out of control. Wilson was a passenger in the Ellis car at the time. He was rushed to Cornwall Hospital but was dead on arrival. A truck driven by Mrs Gulewicz, travelling east, was also entangled in the pile-up, and resulted in critical injuries to the driver.

Eastern Breeders sire recognized

Confort Farms Traveller (Ex) has been awarded a Gold Star Sire Award by the Canadian Guernsey Breeders Association.

In order to qualify for this award a sire must have a minimum of ten tested daughters and ten classified daughters. These daughters must have an average type score of 82.5 and an average production on all records of 115% B.C.A. for either milk or butterfat.

Confort Farms Traveller now has 14 tested daughters with 21 lactations with an average B.C.A. of 12% for milk and 118% for fat.

Traveller is now nine years old and is located at Belleville. From January to June 7, 1964, 796 cows were bred to him. His recent recognition as a Gold Star sire indicates that breeders of Guernseys would be wise to consider using this sire more frequently.

Tame Canada geese slain in St. Lawrence parks

When Nairne Island Park supervisor, Charlie Robertson walked into the goose pens to feed the geese at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary last Monday morning, he was shocked by what he saw.

In the pond, floating motionlessly were two dead geese, their heads hung down below the surface of the water. A third lay sprawled out on the bank.

In the adjacent pen a fourth dead goose was found near a cedar wind break. The soil had been kicked out several feet behind it in its attempt to hobble away from its pursuer.

A khaki hunter's cap was found at the edge of the pond, the type which can be made red by turning half of the exterior inside out. That this was the work of some maniac hunter and not small predators was later confirmed by the writed when shotgun pellets were found in the birds.

To make the crime even more vicious, another goose was left to stumble around with both eyes shot out, its head swollen to twice normal size. Having spent some time frantically bumping into the sides of the pond, it eventually made its way up the bank and ran into a fence where it was quickly dispatched ro end its suffering.

Only one of the five geese was able to fly — all the rest had been pinioned (tip of one wing removed) at one day old and were a part of the decoy flock

Ross McConnell and Kenneth Morrow of North Dundas District High School know a lot more about driving a car than they did a while ago. They have graduated from a stiff course in driver and traffic education that qualified them to conduct driver instruction courses in high school. Messrs McConnell (left) and Morrow (right) in white shirts are watching George F. Laing and Jack R Irwin checking the result of a parking manoeuvre.

The Queen has come and gone. A couple of things have been proven. Her Majesty and Prince Philip can hold their own in any kind of company, even the hostile atmosphere of Quebec. Any time she visits Canada, we are refreshed and gladdened. It is a pleasure to have such pleasant people to entertain. All well ordered houses must have a head and Canada and the Commonwealth can be very proud of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

All this did not sweeten the dismal story in Quebec. The Quebecois had every right, one would think, to stay at home and think their own thoughts about the Queen of Canada. Even a few dopes can boo and sound off, if it makes them feel any better. But there was no excuse for a bunch of slobs in uniforms of the police forces to act like Hitler's bullies. This business of cracking skulls without definite provocation is sickening.

About a year ago, we had the distinct displeasure of watching the same police forces at work in Quebec City. Then they were a gutless bunch of leaderless joes, afraid to look crossly at a few striking but quite muscular longshoremen. The same brave police that dumped noisy students to the pavement on Friday with oaken billies, stood meekly back when the longshoremen told them to. On Friday if a scared and innocent bystander decided to get out fast from the crowd, he usually took a solid thwack on the head, the shoulders or the stern. It was a stupid exhibition of misdirected management; after last year's episodes with the longshoremen, one would think the government would learn.

From now on, when the Queen visits Quebec, it would be well to revise the tactics. Arm the public with clubs and flashlights and let them protect themselves against the police. A taste of some of their own medicine often purges bullies of their nasty humours.

While we are still in a temper, we will mention another type of joker we detest. We have been having trouble with a shady character selling the "Record" without authority and collecting the cash. We called in the forces of the law for help. Imagine our disgust when a young man of the district came up with a cock and bull story that sent the local police chief on a fruitless chase. All for a laugh! The laugh may turn to sorrow, unless we gauge the Irish temper of the Shanes in the wrong light.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Pollution can be controlled

Water pollution is a problem which society has created for itself. It is something we as people will have to control. Fortunately the means to do so are at hand. It is the will to control dirty water that has been lacking.

There are no fundamental disagreements about the seriousness of the problem, observes the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder. But there are differences of opinion on the degree of pollution already present, and thus about the urgency of the problem.

For instance, everyone knows there is a substantial amount of pollution in Lake Erie. The United States Interior Department, in calling for reform, calls the present pollution an alarming increase in harmful deposits, including huge amounts of solid chemicals which have been flushed into the lake.

On the other hand the United States Public Health Service, which one would expect to be even more concerned, says the lake is polluted mainly around the shores, and most of the water in Lake Erie remains "almost" drinkable. Residents along the lake shores in both Canada and the United States apparently are finding it hard to share the Health Department's calm approach.

The entire task of controlling sewage and industrial pollution along the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River system must be tackled by degrees. It is being done, a little at a time. But the problem grows rapidly with a growing population, and thus there cannot be indefinite delay. Some areas are already so bad there is danger the people will have to move out of certain riverside locations.

The Conservation Council of Ontario says that Ontario would be almost a desert by 1980 without pollution control. We shall have pollution control before that happens, but it won't be easy. The people will have pollution control, however, as soon as enough people want it. There are no insoluble technical problems to prevent progress in this highly desirable direction.

The U.S. can have him

The Pearson government, says the Glengarry News, had another going over from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, this time concerning the case of Hal C. Banks. Former head of the Seafarer's International Union in this country, and presently a fugitive from Canadian justice, Mr Banks was found by a Toronto newspaper reporter comfortably installed on a yacht in New York harbor.

He was supposedly being sought by the RCMP, with help from the FBI; but in reality, charged Mr Diefenbaker, the Canadian government was quite content to wash its hands of him. He had only been charged with offences on which he could not be extradited from the U.S., the Opposition leader declared.

So what! There may be a germ of truth in Mr Diefenbaker's declaration. Banks had been found guilty of conspiracy to commit assault, had been freed on bail of some $26,000 and had forfeited that bail by fleeing to the United States while his conviction was under appeal.

He has escaped a five-year term in penitentiary and in the sense that Mr Banks will not pay the penalty of his crime that is not good. But in the broader sense that Canada is now rid of Hal C. Banks for ever and a day, that his evil influence on trade unionism in this country is permanently removed, this is a fairly satisfactory solution to a rather messy situation.

Mr Banks is now a fugitive from Canadian justice. If he ever sets foot in Canada again he can be summarily marched off to the pen to serve his sentence.

We read last week that as f August 20th Mr Banks had resigned his post as executive vice-president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America. This is the parent body of the SIU of Canada.

So now Mr Banks is apparently out of his job. He is free to roam the U.S. but he cannot return to Canada to stir up more trouble among seamen's unions. He has been deposed from his seat of power and he is not confined to prison where he might have posed as a martyr to the cause of unionism. He probably is well fixed financially, but he has lost face.

We see this as an effective solution to the problem of dealing with all such labour leaders who have become so powerful they disdain Canadian law. We are well rid of them, whether they flee as fugitives from our courts, are deported, or are put in their places by their own union memberships.

The case of Hal C. Banks, fugitive from Canadian justice, we see as a triumph for law and order in this country. If there are other unions so dominated by U.S. gangsters, we trust the Justice Department is planning to move in on those leaders as well.

Canadian labour will be heathier without them.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

Beginning with the playing of recordings of gospel stories in 1953, missionary interest by 1956 had produced a grammar and a tentative dictionary of the Choco language which, in turn, resulted in the writing down of selections from the New Testament.

The movement initiated by Scripture translation and reading, did not stop at individual conversion. Following the literacy drive, which inevitably accompanies such translation work, a Choco went to America for studies. He experienced the fellowship of Christians in worship. On his return he set up what has become a vital church of 33 members, whose first act was to send a "missionary" of their own people to a neighbouring tribe.

In general there was a remarkable desire on the part of these tribal Indians to obey the teaching of the Bible. The son of their chief stated: "Now I know what God said. We must really pay attention to His Words."

Your Federal Report

Mrs Jean Wadds, M.P.

Victoria, Victoria was England's pride and joy. So goes the old nursery rhyme. It must still hold, for indeed nothing could be more cause for pride and joy than our altogether charming Queen. England has an Ambassadress par excellence in the person of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. Perfectly trained for her job, she seemed younger and gayer than ever, but with a definite overtone of maturity and authority not noticeable before.

On Thanksgiving Day my husband and I travelled to Ottawa to pay our respects, not only our personal respects, which we were happy to give, but those of the old counties of Grenville and Dundas.

Most Members of Parliament, Senators and Deputy Ministers were there. Everyone felt impressed and somewhat awed when finally face to face with Her Majesty. Having to meet so many, the greeting was brief, but surprisingly warm and direct. In lovely rich, raspberry silk. and matching off the face turban style hat, her colouring was exquisite. Her deep blue eyes and her flashing smile matched the twinkling diamond pins on one shoulder. As usual, Prince Philip was at ease and full of fun, watching for an opportunity to chat and be friendly. This trait put him several yards behind the Queen as they strolled through the Chateau Laurier ballroom after the receiving line broke up.

The Ottawa visit was short and informal. Parliament Hill routine went on without interruption.

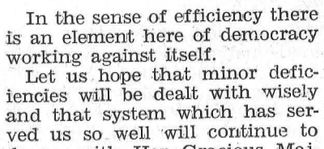
Parliamentary reform was before the House again this week, as it has been every week for many a moon. This time it was in the form of the eleventh, twelth, and thirteenth reports of the all party special committee on procedure and reform. The recommendations of this committee were as far reaching and more specific than those presented in the premature NDP press release of two weeks ago, and made it quite clear where most of the NDP ideas had come from. Some of the proposals were excellent, and will no doubt be implemented soon.

A few highlights were: that the life of Parliamentary Committees, those busy organizations that work assiduously behind the scenes of Parliament, might be extended to the lifetime of a Parliament (of a Government), instead of the current practice whereby committees are appointed for one session at the end of which they cease to exist whether or not they have completed their business by the time of adjournment: the establishing of a research service for MP's aiming at a staff of one research assistant per 10 MP's.

The real problem in Parliament today and the reason why certain proposed changes in the rules are not wholly practicable at the moment is the fact that the rules (the Procedure) and traditions of Parliament were designed for a two-party system. At the present time there are five parties in the House and a fantastic amount of time is taken up with the accepted practice that each party will speak on every subject that comes onto the floor of the House. If the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition speak on some incident or issue, the Leaders of the other three are allowed their turn, and they certainly take it.

In the sense of efficiency there is an element here of democracy working against itself.

Let us hope that minor deficiencies will be dealt with wisely and that system which has served us so well will continue to do so, with Her Gracious Majesty as a symbol of all that is good, responsible and just.



His nephew, Bryce Swerdfeger, his nephew's wife Zena and their son Garth were killed this summer in a tragic traffic accident.

Mr Swerdfeger was a member and Hon. Elder of Colquhoun United Church.

The funeral service was held at Colquhoun Church, with the Rev W. Adam conducting the service. Burial followed in the Colquhoun Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Charles McNair, Geo. O'Shaughnessy, Mert O'Shaughnessy, Graham Wells, Robert Weagant and Earl Colquhoun.

Duncan W. Meyer

The funeral of Duncan Watson Meyer, of Morrisburg, was held from Fairbairn Funeral Home to Lakeshore Drive United Church, with Rev W. J. March officiating. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Fred Graham, Clfford Larmour, Denzil Serviss, Al Reynolds, Robert Burns and Fred Casselman.

Mr Meyer who had been in ill health for more than a year, died Tuesday, September 22, at Kingston General Hospital. He was in his 49th year.

Born at Brookdale, Que., he was a son of Mrs Myers and the late H. Arnold Meyer of Morrisburg. For 27 years until the home farm was expropriated at the time of the Seaway, Mr Meyer had farmed with his father and later had been employed by St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

He is survived by his mother at Morrisburg; two brothers, Wallace K. Meyer, of Toronto, and Hunter A. Meyer, Kingston; six sisters: Mrs Robert Walker (Gladys), of Nairobi, Kenya, Africa; Mrs Gerald Styles (Georgina), Chesterville; Mrs Gerald Smith (Sonia), and Mrs Duane Locke (Isobel), both of Prescott; Mrs Ernest McIntosh (Ellen) of Morrisburg, and Mrs John Vincent (Barbara), Osgoode, and several nieces and nephews.

The many floral tributes donations to the Cancer Society and messages of sympathy testified to the esteem in which Mr Meyer was held.

Relatives and friends attended the funeral from Peterborough, Vernon, Winchester, Chesterville, Iroquois, Cornwall, Prescott, Osgoode, Kingston, Toronto and Riverside Heights.

CHEESE SANDWICHES GOOD IN LUNCH BOXES

Ontario cheese makes excellent filling because it contains all of the valuable nutrients found in mlik. And cheese is satisfying too. Give your family cheese sandwiches for lunch and they will not feel hungry in the middle of the afternoon.

Cheese and tuna club sandwiches make appetizing lunch box meals. Top a slice of whole wheat bread with Ontario Cheddar, Colby, or Swiss cheese. Cover with white bread buttered on both sides. Spread with your favourite tuna salad filling and top with another piece of whole wheat breah. Different varieties of cheese and oatmeal bread also make tasty lunch box sandwiches.

For warm from-the-oven sandwiches, try these recipes from the Foods Department of Macdonald Institute, Guelph:

Combine grated cheese and chili sauce to taste. Spread on hamburg or hot dog buns. Top with bacon slices and broil until bacon is crisp.

Ontario cheddar cheese, celery and pickle relish are combined for these devilled cheese sandwiches. Miv 1½ cups grated cheddar cheese, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 3 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, ¼ teaspoon onion salt, ¼ cup mayonnaise and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Toast one side of six slices of bread in broiler. Spread untoasted side with cheese mixture and broil until cheese begins to melt, about one minute.

When choosing your Thanksgiving turkey, count on ½ to ¾ pound per serving.

Bender - McElheran

FAULTY WINDOWS, DOORS CAUSE HEAT TO ESCAPE

One of the biggest mistakes made by homeowners is that of expecting a heating system to perform miracles when faulty construction and lack of insulation are allowing outside temperatures to get inside.

Here are a few pointers to keep in mind:

Weather strip your windows and doors. One of the most effective and least expensive methods of keeping cold air out is a good job of weather stripping. Infiltration of air can be reduced considerably by weather stripping.

Caulk air leaks. Fill all cracks around windows and doors with a special caulking compound available for the purpose. Crevces in the siding and settling cracks should also be sealed to prevent air leakage and reduce heat loss.

Install storm windows and doors. Heat loss through windows and outside doors is very great. Double windows and double doors will save fuel and make your home more comfortable as well.

Insulation retards the flow of heat; keeps heat in during the Winter, out during the Summer. The well insulated home is more comfortable and more economical to heat.

CAULKING CAN SAVE HOUSE COSTS

Crevices and cracks show up in every house regardless of how new or well built. They usually appear at construction joints, and each one left unmended can be trouble. A crack will allow moisture in, and rot will result. Cracks and gaps are the source of drafts that boost heating bills, insects seeking warmth and just plain dirt.

A caulking compound is the answer. It can be squeezed from a special gun or from a convenient, king-size metal collapsible tube.

For average use, where there are not a great many large cracks to fill, the tube is handier and less wasteful. It can be recapped to save the caulking compound for future use.

Preventive caulking is good medicine. Wherever a crack appears to be forming, caulk to prevent future trouble. If the opening is large, pack it with oakum and then caulk.

One large whale can provide as much edible meat as 100 steers. Japanese consume it in quantities.

SOIL TESTING GOES MODERN

The biggest obstacle in analyzing soil samples at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph has been the great volume of paper work involved. It took time transferring the mass of data to individual forms, interpreting this data and the information sheets accompanying the samples, and typing. They are now using computing machines which drastically reduce paper work and in turn will provide a more efficient soil testing service for Ontario farmers. During the year April 1st, 1963 to March 31, 1964, 43,726 soil samples were analyzed in the Department of Soil Science. This was for 13,926 farmers. In addition, 2,349 garden samples were processed, making a total of 51,075 for the year. Compared with five years ago this is a five-fold increase in samples and four times as many farmers.

To assist in reporting on so many soil samples, and to give a more personalized service where needed, all agricultural Representatives, Fruit and Vegetable Fieldmen, Tobacco Specialists and Soils and Crops Fieldmen have been trained to make soil test recommendations. All laboratory data, plus pertinent management practices submitted on information sheets accompanying soil samples, will be punched on computer cards. Management practices which affect a soil test recommendation are: manures applied, straw or stalks plowed down, the kind of crop plowed down and the crop to be grown. Another card will be punched with the farmer's name and address, County, and Township. Each day all punched cards are fed into the computer, resulting in prepared reports, ready for mailing.

This report will give a sample numbers, soil test values, and ratings for crops to be grown, along with the net requirements of Nitrogen, Phosphate, Potash and Lime.

On the new report form there is one situation with which the computer cannot cope. This is a sample number system over simple digits of 1, 2, 3, etc. The computer cannot use samples, A, B, C, or a-1, a-2, b-2, or front field, or back field, etc.

Also careful attention must be given by farmers in filling out the information sheet submitted with the sample. This is particularly important to enable the computer to make necessary deductions or additions to give the net fertilizer requirement per acre.

TATTLE-TALE GREY CONFOUNDS CHEMISTS

Some laundering advice for housewives:

That tattle-tale grey is harder to avoid in washing many chemically-treated cotton clothes and fabrics than untreated cotton materials. The reason is they attract more dirt in the rinse water.

The same thing may happen with other natural fibres, two chemists told the American Chemical Society.

Protective coatings to make clothes and fabrics resist water, oil and food stains, or to give them a softer "feel" and other desirable qualities, are being used widely.

In actual use, such fabrics don't attract as much dirt as untreated cotton, they said. The coatings repel dirt and stains because they have a lower "surface tension."

But once in hot water, even with detergents, they don't get as clean as untreated cotton fabrics, said Henry Peper Jr. and Julian Berch, of the Harris Research Laboratories, Washington, D.C. Their surface tension rises, to grab onto dirt particles and oily stains in rinse water. The dirt that has gotten in is harder to get out.

Peper described tests made for the U.S. Department of Agriculture with cotton fabrics coated with silicones, fluorocarbons and acrylic materials.

He said the findings do not apply to wash-and-wear clothes.

TRAFFIC TIE-UP

The story comes from Cambridge that a Church of England court considered an appeal by a village vicar to remove four pews from his church because "there is difficulty in manoeuvring coffins around, and I think there may be difficulty about brides if they are fat enough."

STRAIGHT SHOOTING

Most hunters pride themselves on common sense and good sportsmanship. They do not abandon wounded animals, for example, nor do they expose other people to danger from their firearms. Yet every autumn, certain non-thinking individuals violate the code by taking chances that could just as effectively end in tragedy as if a random shot were taken into a family home. This type of person, perhaps disappointed at returning with an empty bag, relieves his frustrations by taking pot shots at vital telephone cable. Eventually rain seeps into the damage, disrupting communications and leaving entire families—often in remote areas—without the protection of telephone service. Since this type of "hunter" never knows that a doctor or police or firemen couldn't be called in time because the telephone was out of order, his conscience never bothers him. Presumably if he took a pot shot through a window and scurried away, his conscience wouldn't bother him either.

CIRCLES WORTH KNOWING ABOUT

Among important safety practices by telephone employees on and off the job is the "Circle of Safety," a habit encouraged in all drivers of telephone vehicles.

Before starting to drive, a telephone man walks completely around his car or truck to make sure no small child or inquisitive animal is under or even near it. He also checks for assorted toys, bicycles and other obstructions, open doors or improperly secured locks.

Another "circle of safety" is the dial on a bedside extension phone. It puts fire and police protection at your fingertips all through the night. And whether your bedroom is upstairs or down, a bedside extension saves steps day and night.

DARK LIGHTNER

A four-year-old girl was visiting her grandparents. When put to bed she sobbed, said she was afraid of the dark, and wanted to go home.

"But you don't have a light at home, do you?" asked her grandmother.

"No," she said, "but there it's my own dark."

TIPS ON IRIS PLANTS

The foliage of iris plants should be removed in late fall suggest horticulturists with the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Cut back the leaves to within a few inches of the ground and remove all dead leaves. The beds or border should be thoroughly cleaned of weeds, leaves and other debris.

Since most iris varieties are hardy no winter mulch is recommended. It is best to keep the plants free of any material which may tend to hold moisture around rhizomes and induce rotting.

Wash grease-stained walls thoroughly and apply liquid wax when the wall is dry to prevent grease from showing through.

Four thousand years of locks

Utilitarian though they may be, there are thousands of years of exciting discovery, evolution and invention behind the locks in your home.

The urge to steal seems to have been an ingrown vice of humanity since the early days, and the search for a really foolproof lock is as old as civilized man.

The oldest lock known was found where the palace of Sargon once stood, twenty miles north of Nineveh, ancient capital of the Assyrian empire. It was made of wood. The pin tumbler cylinder lock so widely used today is based on the same principle as this 4,000-year-old lock. Invented by Linus Yale, Jr., a century ago, the pin tumbler cylinder lock, as it has since been developed, is the most secure key-operated lock system ever devised.

The Greeks developed the lock with the biggest key. About the same size and shape as a reaper's sickle, it had to be carried over the shoulder. There have also been locks that shot blank cartridges at any tamperer to scare him away, locks with hidden keyholes, and locks that rang bells when opened—all in the name of security.

Early in history, most living quarters had to be locked from the inside simply because there was no such thing as an outside lock. So when the family went out, someone had to "money sit" at home.

From the fourteenth to the eighteenth centuries a veritable treasure was spent on locking devices of varied types. Rich men who wanted to stay rich commissioned locksmiths to make them "burglar-proof" locks, and all kinds of weird designs were produced. But historians say very few of them were effective against burglars.

There were all sorts of devices among the early locks designed to thwart burglars. One ingenious lock drove a punch marked with a brand on the thief's hand which marked him for easy identification by the authorities.

Probably the cruelest invention was the chest lock which could be forced open. After the lid was lifted, the thief would come upon an empty tray which fitted snugly into the top of the chest. This tray was equipped with several grasp holes. When the burglar put his fingers into the holes to lift the tray, a spring closed the cruel jaws of a trap tightly about his fingers. His creams of pain brought the owner in short order.

There are lock and key collectors all over the globe today, but few, if any, collections surpass the famous Losk Colleltion. This amazing exhibition of locks, keys and door ornamentation covers 4,000 years of mankind's development of lock protection. It ranges from a bulky wooden lock dating back to 1099 A.D. to a contemporary desibn section featuring work by such acclaimed artists as Jacques Lipchitz and Fernand Leger. At the moment it's attracting crowds of visitors to the New York World's Fair Better Living Centre.

Oddly enough, in all the great collections there are only a few locks of Roman origin. Although the ancient Romans apparently used many types of locks, including many of their own invention, they were all fashioned of iron and, sadly, only a handful have resisted the ravages of time. Those remaining are mostly only bronze keys, lock-bolts and the keysole plates that fitted them.

The big search for a "safe lock" went on in America during the 1850's just as it did in England. It almost began to be a game as inventors tried to pick each other's locks. The lock champion of the time was named Hobos, and he really made Britain sit up when he announced that he could open the best they had.

Most honest "cracksmen" utilized the arithmetical method—trying out all possible combinations in hopes of discovering the correct one, or by making false or skeleton keys.

Hobbs was a lock professional of the 1850's who frowned on these methods. He used to keep pressure on the bolt and work one lever at a time delicately until he felt a slight "giae" which showed that the lever was in the unlocked position. Then he'd get them all in position to release the bolt.

Hobbs was probably responsible more than any other person for the safety inventions that followed his fantastic exhibitions.

He proved how vulnerable locks really were, and after a while the tricky ones began to lose popularity, and more practical models were utilized in places where people really needed protection. For the very first time in history, true lock security began to be a possibility, just as it is a fact today.

The finest artisans fashioned locks for the powerful emperors of antiquity. Massive and beautifully wrought by hand, these locks were heavily impressive. But today, the average homeowner carries a small key that provides more security than those worthy ancients ever believed possible.

Large turkeys provide more meat at a lower price than small turkeys. If your family cannot eat a whole turkey at one time, have the butcher cut a large turkey in two. Freeze one half for a later treat.

Next time you visit your local fish market or food store, look for fall specials in fish. Then, try a new recipe. Open for some good ideas? The Consumer Branch of the Department of Fisheries of Canada offers a collection of kitchen tested recipes which are a little different and which rate high in taste appeal.

Cod-Parsnip Cakes

1 lb. cod fillets or boneless salt cod, cooked and flaked
1 cup cooked, mashed parsnips
1 cup cooked, mashed potatoes
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup water
Salt to taste
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs

Combine flaked fish, parsnips, and potatoes. Cook onion in water until tender, using a covered saucepan. Add undrained onion to fish mixture. Season to taste with salt. If using fresh cod, ½ teaspoon of salt is about the right amount. Add pepper and beaten egg. Mix well. Shape into flat, round cakes, each hontaining 1/3 cup of the mixture. Coat with bread crumbs. Pan fry in hot fat, turning to brown both sides. Makes 6 servings. Note: if you use salt cod don't forget to freshen it.

Sea Scallops Supreme

1 lb. scallops
Salt and pepper
4 tbsps. heavy cream
4 tsps. fine dry bread crumbs
4 tsps. melted butter

Thaw frozen scallops. Separate, rinse well in cold water, and drain. Place scallops in 4 large, greased baking shells or individual baking dishes. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Add 1 tablespoon of cream to each container. Top each with 1 teaspoon of bread crumbs and 1 teaspoon of melted butter. Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Oyster Noodle Casserole

1 pint oysters
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
3 tbsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1½ cups milk
1½ cups cooked noodles
2 tbsps. minced green pepper
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsps. melted butter

Drain oysters. Melt butter and blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Place half of the noodles in the bottom of a greased 1½-quart casserole. Cover with half of the oysters. Sprinkle with half of the green pepper. Repeat layers. Pour sauce over all. Top with combined bread crumbs and melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes, or until contents of casserole are bubbly and crumbs are brown. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Baked Sole Bonne Femme

2 lbs. sole fillets, fresh or frozen
1 can (10 oz.) cream of mushroom soup
2 tbsps. sherry
2 tbsps. finely chopped parsley
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion

Cut large fillets, or frozen fillet blocks, into serving-size portions. Place portions, single layer deep, in a shallow, greased baking dish. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over fillets. Bake, uncovered, in a hot oven (450° F.) until fish flakes easily on testing with a fork. This will take about 15 minutes if fillets are fresh or thawed and about 25 minutes if frozen. Makes 6 servings.

RECIPE OF THE MONTH

By the Ontario Tender Fruit Institute
"Buy Canada Choice Canned Fruit"

PEACH JELLY ROLL

1 can Canada Choice Peaches
1 pkg. lemon-flavoured gelatin dessert

Make gelatin dessert using only one half the water called for in package directions.

Drain juice from peaches and store away in refrigerator for use in fruit drinks, salad dressings, frappes. Pour lemon gelatin mixture into can to replace juice. Stir very gently to distribute peaches evenly to top of can. Place in refrigerator to set.

To serve, unmould onto crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with maraschino cherries and mayonnaise for a shimmering party-style salad.

Or, for dessert, simply spoon out of can into individual dessert glasses and top with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

IN MEMORIAM

IRVING—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Herbie Anderson Irving, who was accidentally killed October 6, 1945.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who lies beneath
Will never fade away.
When evening shades are falling,
And I sit in quiet alone,
To my heart there comes a longing,
If he only could come home.
Friends may think I have forgotten,
When at times they see me smile,
But they little know the heartache
My smiles hide all the while.
Ever remembered by Wife, Daughters, son Arnold.

Newington U.C.W. hear speaker from Martintown

The regular meeting of Newington U.C.W. was held in the church hall on Thursday, Oct. 8 and was opened by the president Mrs Chas. Smith, by repeating the Purpose.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs Lynch, assisted by Mrs Marion Russell and Mrs Kay Flegg.

The guest speaker, Mrs Barton of Martintown, Presbyterial president, was then introduced by Mrs Melvin Waldroff. Mrs Barton chose as her topic "Thanksgiving" as this was the Thankoffering meeting. She stressed the point of being Thankful for the many blessings, priviliges and Freedom of speech and to worship with a special emphasis on "Giving of Time, Talent etc." She was thanked for her talk by Mrs Lynch.

The roll call was answered by a Thanksgiving prayer. The minutes were read and approved. The treasurers report was given showa goodly balance. Mrs Pettit moved that a gift of appreciation be given Mrs Barton. After a brief letter of thanksxkwith1i theeign discussion it was decided to decline the offer of catering to the Ayrshire Banquet but that a letter of thanks be sent.

It was moved that the requested articles for the bale be purchased. The final arrangements for presenting the worship service at the Presbyterial at Avonmore were made. The roll call for November is a verse containing the words "Peace or Remembrance."

The meeting was closed and lunch was served by Mrs R. E. Rombough, Mrs Melvin Waldroff, Mrs J. E. Thompson and Mrs H. Weegar.

CANADA GEESE—

which is used to attract migrants into the area. The flock is also a form of insurance in that if any calamity should happen to geese outside the pens, there would be a large enough breeding flock left to start over again. In addition, thousands of people take a great pleasure in seeing these birds throughout the year.

We are again shocked and dismayed at these acts of violence against wildlife in this Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary. Area residenas can well remember the case last fall involving tame deer clubed to death in the goose pens. Fortunately in this case the offenders were later apprehended. Too often they are not owing largely to the difficulty of constantly patrolling an isolated spot day and night throughout the year.

Police officials have been notified of this crime and an investigation will ensue. Anyone having any knowledge, which may help in apprehending person(s) responsible for this crime, are asked to contact the Parks Police at Upper Canada Village.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to my many friends, neighbours and relatives for their cards, visits, flowers and treats while I was a patient in District Memorial Hospital. Thanks to Dr H. W. Justus, Kenneth Merkley, Rev D. L. Gordon, and all the hospital staff.

IN MEMORIAM

IRVING—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Gwendolyn Margaret Irving, who was accidentally killed October 6, 1945.
Our family circle has been broken,
A link gone from our chain;
But though we're parted for a while,
We know we'll meet again.
Some day we hope to meet you,
Some day, we know not when,
We shall meet in a better land,
Never to part again.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Ever remembered by Mother, Sisters, brother Arnold.
