Cornwall Electric Launches New MAN Service

"Pareto's Principle", a time-motion study, established the theory that we accomplish 80% of our productivity in 20% of our working time.

The average person spends 150 hours a year looking for information in their offices and every hour spent looking for missing information could be an hour used to increase productivity.

Cornwall Electric, in the form of a true "paradigm", continues its corporate involvement in bringing innovative technology and global awareness to the Cornwall community and businesses, by offering solutions to productive use of office and time management.

In partnership with Glen-Net Communications, Cornwall Electric officially launched a new MAN service, (which stands for Metropolitan Area Network), from the offices of Cornwall District Communications, on December 1. The MAN service offers a state-of-the-art fibre optic communications base for local businesses to tap into.

Mayor Brian Sylvester, with the assistance of members of Council and the Department of Economic Development, has been at the forefront of bringing Cornwall closer to its goals of being a "Smart City" and wholly endorses this new endeavour to increase global productivity, through the new integrated Cornwall District Communications facility situated at 1001 Sydney Street.

Business partners, interested in furthering their productivity and efficiency, can obtain information on the new fibre optic technology and support, at www.cdcfibre.com, or by calling 933-7115. Put the power of fibre in your hands!!!

Life can be as simple or as complicated as we want to make it.

"Don't use utilize when you can utilize use," an editor used to nag when I would fall into the journalists' trap of using words designed more to impress readers than inform them. So it was my turn to invoke the KISS (Keep-It-Simple-Stupid) principle recently when a reporter called asking me to help her make sense of the Supreme Court's Marshall decision.

Maurice SWITZER

She was working on a tight deadline to produce a story explaining how giving Donald Marshall the right to sell eels could lead to fist-fights and arson on the shores of Miramichi Bay, and create a hot-air mass from the mouths of the nation's lawyers large enough to spawn a tornado.

"Don't get bogged down by all the technical lingo," I advised. "You can easily get lost in all the debate about aboriginal rights, aboriginal title, treaty rights, pre-confederation treaties, existing rights, inherent rights, fiduciary obligations, status, non-status, sovereignty, nation-to-nation, Section 35, and on, and on..."

"A promise is a promise. That's all you have to remember."

That's all my grandfather remembered about discussions that took place at a gathering of Mississauga leaders in Alderville on the south shore of Rice Lake on November 19, 1923. After government agents promised the assembled chiefs and headmen that they would not lose their traditional hunting and fishing rights by consenting to what would become known as the Williams Treaty, "...not one of the Indians glanced at the document before he signed his name to it," Moses Marsden recalled nearly 40 years later.

Like every group of Indians who affixed their signatures or marks to treaties, the Mississauga and their Chippewa cousins of central Ontario would learn that governments had a different definition of "promise" than they did.

Williams Treaty commissioners wrote in their reports that the 10,000 square miles of traditional northern hunting grounds were of "incalculable value", and that "a moderate estimate" of the value of unsurrendered land south of Lake Simcoe claimed by the Mississauga would be $30 million - in 1923 dollars! The seven signatory bands received $500,000 in federal payments for signing away their rights to 16,000 square kilometres of some of Canada's finest real estate, and have been waiting 76 years for the province of Ontario to cough up its $230,000 share - with interest.

In keeping with government policy, the Williams Treaty Commission did not permit the Indians to have legal counsel to help them decipher the treaty's complex terminology. Documented research also indicates that commissioners lied to the Indians by telling them that the Lake Simcoe lands had been previously surrendered, by not explaining that the treaty's clear intent was to undermine their hunting and fishing rights, and by denying that the commission had any authority to deal with requests from the seven bands for a set-aside of additional reserve lands.

By delegating authority to negotiate Williams Treaty terms to a commission, two of whose members were appointees of the Ontario department of lands and forests, the federal government broke a promise intact since the Royal Proclamation of 1763 when the Crown accepted primary responsibility for defending the land rights of Indians. The three commissioners even broke their commitment to the federal government about how much money they were prepared to accept for their services, demanding an additional $12,000 - in 1923 dollars - over and above the $5,000 that had originally been agreed upon for one year's work.

Euro-centric people are fond of pointing to the written word as a cornerstone of what they call civilized societies. But they weaken their case and their credibility by being inconsistent about the supremacy of the letter of the law. A 1760 treaty between the British Crown and the Mi'kmaq is "ancient" and should not be binding, they say, while clinging to the sanctity of the 1763 Treaty of Paris by which France ceded to Britain most of the eastern mainland of North America after the Seven Years' War.

They denounce Indian oral tradition and history as ludicrous fiction, but base their values, ethics, and system of justice on the legends of Christianity that are supported by very little in the way of documented historical evidence.

"So you see why Indians are becoming a little more cautious when dealing with the white man," Grandpa Marsden wrote 40 years after he heard the promises made by the Williams Treaty commissioners.

Grandpa was right, but it's a shame.

Maurice Switzer is a member of the Mississaugas of Rice Lake at Alderville, Ont. and director of communications with the Assembly of First Nations in Ottawa.

Hospitals' Restructuring Status Report

Since the Health Services Restructuring Commission (the Commission) issued its final directives in August 1998, the following has been achieved at the two Cornwall sites:

- programming and architectural consultants hired;
- functional programs (the written plans which tell an architect what to build) prepared;
- master building plans prepared;
- fund-raising feasibility study completed;
- project cost estimates prepared, and;
- meetings held with the Ministry of Health, Cornwall City and County Councils.

Both projects are now in a position to proceed to their next stages, subject to Ministry approval and the confirmation that the funds are available to finance the projects. The project at the Hotel Dieu site could break ground this Spring. This project for additional chronic care beds, the relocation of Rehabilitation beds from the General and the relocation of the Villa to the McConnell Avenue site is ready to go.

The General's acute care project is before the Ministry of Health. Several options have been prepared for their consideration. As is the case in most other communities in Ontario, the projected costs are significantly higher than what the Commission estimated. Based on what has happened elsewhere, we are confident these higher than expected costs can be accommodated with the application of a broad-based financial plan.

In March of 1999, the Commission released the Rural & Northern Hospital Network Report. Subsequently, the Cornwall & Alexandria Hospital Network was formed. Representatives from Glengarry Memorial Hospital now participate on the Joint Executive committee.

Another matter of utmost importance is the development of union and non-union human resource plans. For a variety of reasons, more time is required before this complex process can be settled.

An interrelated development is a Joint Review between the Ministry of Health and the three hospitals. This review's aim is to prepare a recovery plan in response to the operating deficits forecasted, particularly for the two Cornwall hospitals, this year and next. One of the goals of this review is to amalgamate the management and clinical teams of the three hospitals, i.e. continue with three Boards supported by one management/clinical team. The results of this review are expected around June.

We shall keep you posted as both projects unfold. If you have any questions regarding the above, please contact any of the hospital CEO's.

Another matter of interest is the unanimous election of Mr. Robert Leroux as the new Chairman of the Joint Executive Committee. Mr. Leroux succeeds Mr. David Coulson, who has acted as interim Chairman in his role as a restructuring facilitator. This role has come to an end.

Dollar Days for United Way

We are pleased to inform our community of a major special fundraising project to help close our 1999 Campaign. This activity is scheduled for December 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th.

The checkout cashier at the participating merchants will be asking their customers if they may add one dollar($1.00) to their cash register total to help the United Way close their fundraising campaign successfully.

It is anticipated that we will require about $30,000 from this promotion if we are to close our campaign successfully. We are quite confident that with the excellent support that we have received from the participating merchants this financial goal will be achieved over this four (4) day period.

When shopping during these Dollar Days for the United Way please be generous when asked to support the local United Way.

The following merchants, in alphabetical order, are supporting this "close the campaign" promotion.

A&P Super Fresh (Second St. E. and Brookdale Mall)
Canadian Tire
Farm Boy
Maynard's Your Independent Grocer
McDonald's Restaurants. (all locations)
Super C
Wal-Mart

Receive a free Movie Rental voucher from Jumbo Video for each $10.00 donation on these special days.

The United Way needs your financial support and this is an easy and painless way to help them close their campaign and then be financially able to support their sixteen (16) member agencies.

Your support is anticipated and appreciated.

Building For Tomorrow

Habitat For Humanity volunteers have all adopted an attitude about life which emphasizes the dignity and worth of the individual and family structure. A basic premise of their moral beliefs is that people are rational beings who possess within themselves the capacity for truth and goodness. The Kinsmen Club are also members who subscribe to the same premises and values. At a recent function, the Kinsmen Club of Cornwall, an extremely high profile Service Club, had the honour of presenting a cheque to Habitat For Humanity to be used towards the building of Habitat's first home in the Cornwall area. The donation, in the amount of $2,000, will be used to purchase roof trusses.

Humanizing the Internet

Canpage Communications Ltd., a local call centre pioneer since 1983, introduced its most innovative customer service features to date. The two new shopping aids-Web Callback-Push and Web Chat-humanize the Internet by addressing customers' desires for more human contact online.

Now online retailers who subscribe to Canpage's service can introduce the most innovative customer service features seen in the catalogue and retailing industries since offering a 1-800 number to your clients. "Web Callback-Web Push services will provide shoppers at our client's company Web site with real-time access to our Canpage agents for personal assistance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, providing customers with the most personal and responsive shopping experience available anywhere online," says Manager Geoff Laurin. "These new shopping tools will bring an unprecedented level of human interaction to the Web and clearly strengthen our client's position as an online customer service leader".

Online Human Assistance Everyday

Web Callback and Web Push is a direct response to requests from Internet shoppers for more human interaction. According to a recent survey by Jupiter Communications, 90 percent of online customers prefer some form of human interaction during an e-commerce transaction. And, a Market Facts survey commissioned last month by a leading online retailer found 43 percent of Internet users would shop online more frequently if they received immediate responses to online questions. Web Callback and Web Push addresses those needs and provides two options for online customers to receive real-time, interactive customer service. The first option allows shoppers with a phone line or cell phone in addition to their Internet connection to request a call back from a Client TEL Plus agent. The request automatically connects the agent and the customer simultaneously by phone and Internet browser so the two can talk while viewing the same Web pages together. The second option, for shoppers using their only phone line for Internet connection, allows the two parties to use text-based chat to communicate while simultaneously viewing the same Web pages. With both options, assistance can range from the Web Callback and Web Push agent answering a specific question on how to complete a purchase to leading shoppers to the products and areas of the site they are most interested in seeing. "Web Callback and Web Push eliminates the cold and impersonal elements of Internet shopping. DANCES WITH WORDS

Call Them What You Will, But Slow Down!

Nick
WOLOCHATIUK

They just used to be called 'flag men', but in today's politically-correct society, some might insist on 'flag person', just as the term 'chairman' was replaced by 'chairperson'(but then superceded by 'chair'!). At one time we were able to distinguish between those who fished ('fishermen') and the furry little animal known as a 'fisher'. Now they're one and the same!

To get some first-hand input into the life and preferred title of today's 'traffic control people', we interviewed Carole Trepanier and Vanessa Deneault, both of Cornwall, but who can be seen on the job on any SD&G area county road construction site.

When asked, "What do you call yourself?", Trepanier responded "I'm a 'flag girl', but some still call me a 'flag man', and in the books we're down as 'traffic control persons'. Whatever I'm called, it doesn't change what I am."

When asked the same question, Deneault also said she calls herself a 'flag girl', so our survey result was unanimous: 100 per cent in favor of 'flag girl'.

'FOOT FIXERS'- Carole Trepanier finds that periodically standing on a layer of stones gives soothing stimulation to her aching feet.

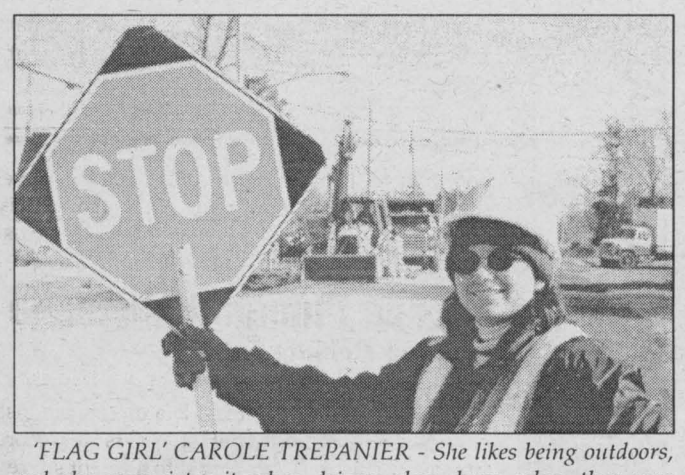
"What's the job like?" was the next question. Trepanier said that she enjoys being outside in just about any kind of weather, because her other two jobs keep her indoors. "Standing is good for your legs", she explained, "But bees can be a nuisance, and you have to watch out for wide loads on passing trucks. When we're working out here in Finch, we have to clear the way for the local ambulance service that operates out of here. As the days get shorter, our hours of work shrink with the number of daylight hours Soon road construction will be over for the year."

Deneault confessed, "It's good to work with the guys. They're a lot of fun. You meet a lot of nice people on the job: little kids have offered me ju-jubes and drinks of cold water when it's hot, but the hot days are now gone."

"You can do a lot of tanning on a job out in the open like this, but you get some very bad tan lines. It's either too hot, or too cold; there's no shade from the sun, no shelter from the wind."

The next time you see a flag man, flag girl, flag person, flag, flagger - or whatever you wish to call them, be sure to slow down. Speeding fines in work zones are doubled, because speeding in work zones is doubly dangerous for all.



'FLAG GIRL' CAROLE TREPANIER - She likes being outdoors, and she appreciates it when drivers slow down when they pass through the construction zone.

'FLAGGER' VANESSA DENEAULT - When there's no shade, you get a lot of sun, "And some bad tan lines, but you meet a lot of nice people."

Biotechnology Company Chooses Eastern Ontario For Its Canadian Headquarters

Nestlé Canada Inc. and the Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Community Development Corp. (SD&G CDC) announced today the sale of the Nestlé Alexandria factory to Alltech Inc. Present in 68 countries worldwide, Alltech is a dynamic biotechnology company developing natural ingredients for the animal nutrition industry as well as fermentation ingredients such as yeast and enzymes for the fuel alcohol and beverage industry.

"We chose Alexandria for our Canadian headquarters as we were delighted with the condition of the facility as well as the close ties Nestlé has with the community," said Dr. Lyons, President, Alltech Inc. "We hope to offer some 30 jobs once we get the plant up and running and should attract another 30 to the BioScience Centre where graduates may study for MSc's and PhD's."

After deciding to consolidate its beverage manufacturing into its other facility in nearby Chesterville, ON, Nestlé Canada partnered with the SD&G CDC to find a buyer that would bring jobs to the region. Nestlé Canada has also offered 32 Alexandria employees positions at its Chesterville factory where it has invested $6 million in necessary upgrades resulting from the transfer.

"We are thrilled to attract such a buyer that will bring a world class business and new jobs to the Alexandria community," said Kathryn Rowan, Vice President, Nestlé Canada Inc. "Thanks to the support of local government, especially the SD&G Community Development Corp. for enabling us to share this good news today."

Executive Director of the SD&G CDC, James dePater, described Alltech as, "a first class organization producing highly innovative products, with the best and brightest people. Alltech is positioned to be one of the premier agricultural biotechnology companies in Ontario."

All Systems Go For Carnival 2000

Powdery snow, staccato fireworks and the snarl of a chain saw. It's blast off for Cornwall's first Carnival of the 21st Century.

On Wednesday December 8th, beginning at 4:30p.m., the Atrium of the Lionel Chevier building, overlooking beautiful Lamoureux Park will be turned into a winter fairyland with sparkling lights and large puffs of make believe snow. Dozens of invited guests and VIP dignitaries will be on hand for the official launch of the Carnival which begins in earnest February 1, 2000.

The week long event will once again feature beautifully glittering ice sculptures scattered throughout the downtown and Le Village as merchants throughout these areas join in the celebrations. Lamoureux Park will be transformed into a winter playground with snow castles and an 80 foot long train for the kiddies.

A stroll through the Park will find activities for young and old with games and skating, bands, food kiosks, fireworks and more. The snowmobile races promise to be a wildly popular event as will the spectacular Winter Wonderland Carnival Ice Show which will be held at the Ed Lumley Arena.

Activities can be found in other parts of the City as well. The Best Western Parkway Inn and Conference Centre will be the scene of a lavish fashion show. A spectacular highlight of the week long event will be the crowning of the Carnival 2000 Queen. Held during the Ice Show, she will be chosen from the Carnival princesses who represent some of Cornwall's best and brightest young women.

Carnival 2000 organizers and dedicated volunteers have spent countless hours planning the week long spectacle which culminates in the Park on Sunday, February 6th. Once again, huge crowds are expected to don parkas and toques, mittens, gloves and perhaps even skates to take in the many events.

For detailed information on the various Carnival events, contact the Carnival 2000 Organizing Committee at the Chamber of Commerce, 933-4004.

Christmas Forest Seminar Rings In The Season

All those concerned about the state of the forest in general and in Eastern Ontario in particular are invited to kick off the Holiday Season with a special information session in Kemptville.

The Eastern Ontario Model Forest Group will present its annual Christmas Forest Seminar on December 14th, 1999 at Purvis Hall on the campus of Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

With a fee of $25 payable at the door, the seminar gets under way at 9:00 a.m. and is expected to wind up at about 3:45 p.m., said EOMF general manager Brian Barkley. Those interested are asked to contact Mary Humphries at (613) 258-8241.

As it has in previous years, the session will offer a wide range of valuable information on sustainable forestry from experts in the field.

Moderator for the day will be Steve Pitt, Stewardship Coordinator in the counties of Lennox and Addington. Keynote speakers will include Richard Moore, President of Lake Abitibi Model Forest; Nigel Roulet, Director of the Centre for Climate and Global Change Research at McGill University; and Certified Arborist Marc Burleton.

The speakers will tackle everything from the implications of climate change on forests, to old world arboriculture in the United Kingdom. An afternoon panel discussion moderated by Jean Poirier of Boisee Est will cover the topic "Roles in the Southern Ontario Forest Landscape". It will feature panelists David Lynch of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, Erik Turk of the Ontario Forestry Association, Harry Barr, President of the Ontario Woodlot Association, and Sandy Hay, Planner with United Counties of Leeds and Grenville. "Part of the EOMF mandate is to provide the latest sustainable forestry information to landowners, forest industry participants and other interested citizens within our territory," Barkley said. "The Christmas Seminar is one of the ways we fulfill that mandate."

Here Are Helpful Hints To "Real" Tree Buyers

New variety to the Cornwall area – Fraser Fir – aromatic, smell sweet and evergreen! Also has superior needle retention and perfect appearance. Other varieties available. All time favourite - Balsam Fir, similar in nature to the Fraser Fir. Scotch Pine, a traditional favourite, and of course the old fashioned Spruce Christmas tree being the least expensive, with short needles and evergreen smell.

To preserve and ensure a fresh and lasting tree you may buy your tree early and store it in a cool place, either in the garage or backyard. When you are ready to put it in the house, give it a fresh cut off the trunk, removing 1/4 to 1/2 an inch. Put water in your tree stand and water it as you would your house plants, depending on how dry your house is, probably once a day or maybe every couple of days.

EDITORIAL OPINION

PERSPECTIVE

Too Much "Christ" In The "Christmas" Parade, eh?

Bob ROTH

So now we have a debate over whether we saw too much of Christ in the Cornwall Christmas parade!

The letters to the editor have been flowing ever since Youth Net entered a float that included a crucifixion scene.

The float did have the traditional manger scene, plus a scene of Christ teaching and blessing children, but it concluded with a crucifixion scene to make a direct link between Jesus's birth and the purpose of his birth.

Critics argue the scene was inappropriate at best, offensive at worst, for a Christmas parade. Some went so far as to suggest it frightened children watching the event. The latter argument, I find totally ridiculous. The Mutant Ninja Turtle set are exposed to far more scenes of violence and carnage on cartoon shows. Also, most children have seen our loincloth-wrapped savior hanging around in similar repose in our church buildings and Sunday School books. And, if they escaped all of that exposure, there is always the annual Easter celebration where crucifixion scenes abound in school plays, church gatherings and media re-enactments.

The crucifixion scene is hardly an innovative "terror."

I suspect people were really offended because they were shocked into "de-compartmentalizing" their Christianity — that is their ability to break Christ's life up into bite-sized "events" rather than understand and adopt his value system.

After all, how do you marry Christ's theology (spiritualism and self-sacrifice) with the dominant — and contradictory — values of our economic system (materialism and self-indulgence)?

One way is to transform spiritual events into consumer events.

Think about it. God sends his only begotten son to earth and that, in itself, is not cause enough for celebration — we have to invent a red-suited man who slides down chimneys with a bag of toys. More to the point, we actually make this jolly fellow the centre of attention and convert this "holy" day into the year's most extravagant exercise in material consumption.

Easter is just as bad. The Light of the World gives up his own mortal body to purge our sins and give us everlasting life — but that's not good enough. We need the Easter bunny. Only he can transform such a solemn event into an orgy of chocolate-coated consumer self-indulgence.

The sacrilege that Youth Net committed was not so much putting "Christ" back into Christmas as it was putting the "meaning" of Christ back into Christmas.

(Let's face it, looking at a guy nailed to a piece of lumber does not bring out the festive buying spirit we want at Christmas.

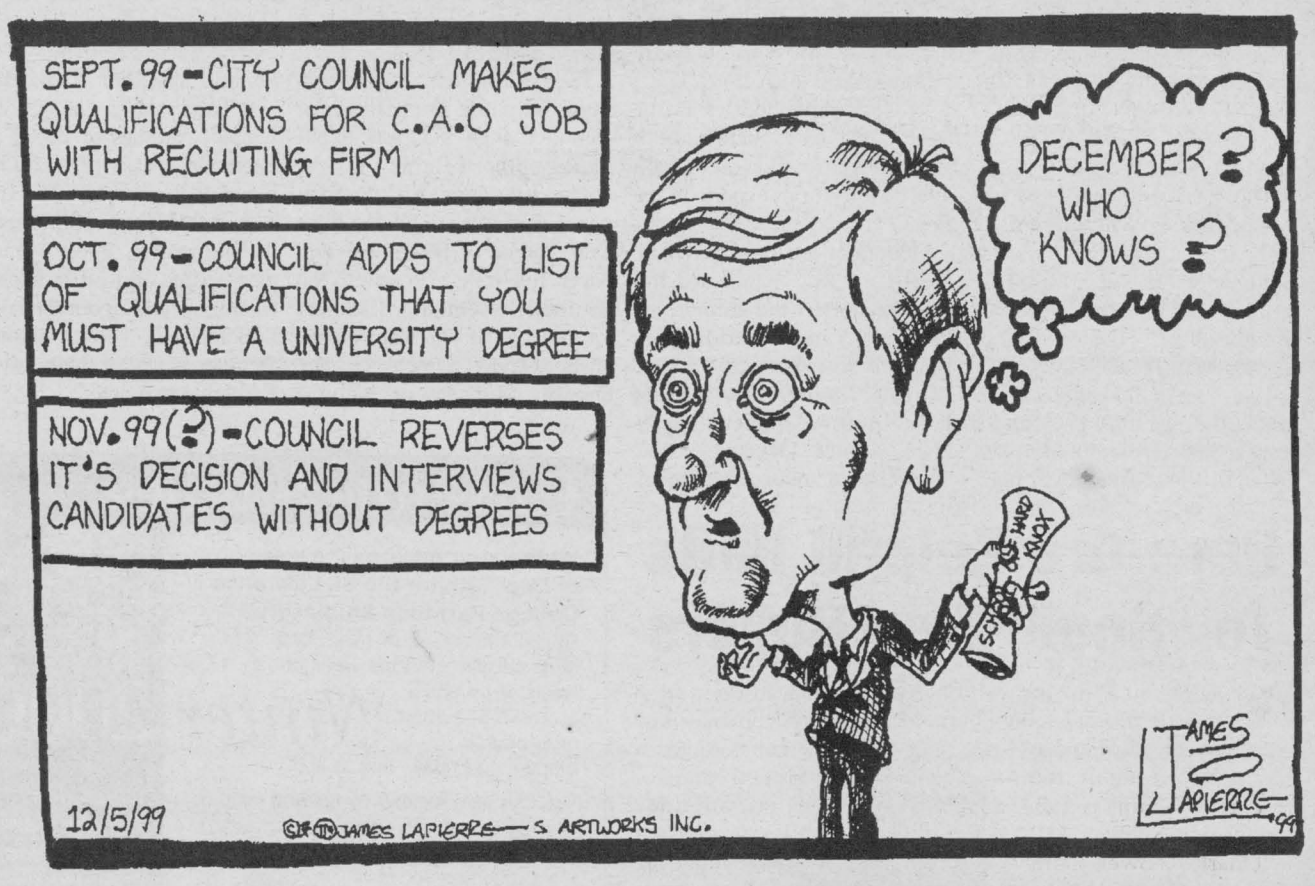
Perhaps Youth Net can placate its critics next year by nailing a Pokemon creature to the cross.)

It's often been said that the role of a Christian is to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable.

I'd say Youth Net has fulfilled that role admirably.

If Youth Net has shaken some people out of their compartmentalized Christian complacency, I say good for them. Keep it up.

How about a float next year depicting the child (slave) labor used to produce many of the goods we are urged to buy at Christmas?



BASIC BLACK

Canada: Made In The USA

Those who don't learn from history are compelled to repeat it.

Anon

How much history can you have in a hundred years?

Bruce Cockburn

Arthur BLACK

Somebody once said that a country defines itself through its shared history. True enough. Every American kid knows about Davey Crockett and Buffalo Bill; Benjamin Franklin and Johnny Appleseed.

Ask an English schoolkid to name heroes of England's past - he's going to know about Horatio Nelson and Boadicea; Sir Francis Drake and Lady Godiva.

And then there's Canada.

A couple of years ago a firm called the Dominion Institute conducted a survey of Canadian youths, aged 18 to 24. Purpose: to find out how much Canadian kids of University age know about their own country's past.

Conclusion: not a helluva lot. They had no idea who D'Arcy McGee was. Most didn't know whether Sir Wilfred Laurier was alive or dead. Only 14 percent of them were aware that Lester B. Pearson had received the Nobel Peace Prize.

Almost half of them - 46 percent - couldn't name Canada's first Prime Minister.

How come such a dismal performance? Some social observers blame the deadening effect of television; others say it's the fact that history lessons are disappearing from the Canadian high school curriculum, having been supplanted by computer-literacy or driver-training courses.

Me? I think the problem is something else. I think our history has been hijacked. I'll tell you why - but first I want to tell you a little tale out of Canadian history.

True story. 'Way back in 1904 there was this gang of guys up in Dawson City in the Yukon who got together once a week to play hockey. They called themselves the Dawson City Nuggets and they were pretty good. As a matter of fact, they were darned good. There wasn't a team in any of the nearby towns that could beat them.

Part of the reason for that is that there WERE no nearby towns, but never mind. These guys were mighty full of themselves and decided they ought to take on the Stanley Cup champions down in Ottawa.

Getting from the middle of the Yukon to Ottawa is tough enough today. In 1904 it was like going to the moon. The Nuggets set out on dog sleds. They grabbed a ride on a ferry. They took a train all the way across the country. After 23 days, they finally made it to Ottawa, strapped on their skates and took on the Stanley Cup champion Silver Seven.

I'd love to tell you that the boys from the boonies deked the pros out of their jockstraps, but in fact the Dawson team got clobbered.

Still, a wonderful story, is it not? And talk about Canadian - you've got the Stanley Cup; the Yukon; a showdown in Ottawa -how much more Canadian can you get? Man, if there was ever a movie about Canadian history crying out to be made, this would be it.

And you know what folks? That movie has been made. A couple of years ago, Hollywood moguls, recognizing the box office potential of the Dawson City Nuggets saga, dispatched a team of researchers north to the Yukon. There, they interviewed old timers, checked the archives. They even shot a whole bunch of movie footage not too far away - in northern Alberta. That film is making the rounds of North American movie theatres even as I speak. It's called Mystery, Alaska.

That's right - the Yanks took a true chunk of Canadian history, glitzed it up and transferred it to a mythical town in Alaska. Pierre Trudeau once said that living next to America is like sleeping next to an elephant.

Sometimes it's more like living next to a Central Vac.

MEANWHILE

Lawyers Are Pocketing A Lot of Money

Fred SAGEL

What on earth is wrong with the Canadian legal profession that causes it to charge so much money to people?

Everywhere you go, people make lawyer jokes. And for good reason. Lawyers are people who are noted for creating chaos in the lives of many who end up with strife and bitterness that takes a long time to resolve. In the process, lawyers are the ones who pocket a lot of money.

There are too many lawyers and too many laws, created mostly by the lawyers who end up being politicians, designed to accommodate and reward the profession.

Lawyers usually charge obscene fees without must justification and cause their clients nothing but distress in the process. I can say that from first-hand knowledge only because I've seen it from my 23-odd years at the bar. Luckily, because I now teach the subject, I'm not in that category anymore.

Who better to make the case for these ridiculously high fees than Supreme Court of Canada justice Ian Binnie? Just recently, he took a good swipe at the legal profession by saying legal costs are so excessive in some cases that the courts should curb them.

You can't disagree with that.

While the practice of law is both physically and mentally demanding, it cannot justify the fees that most lawyers charge. Nurses, who are highly trained, earn far less. Yet can it be said that their services are worth so much less? Not at all. Nor, for that matter, can you say that for a whole group of other professions and skilled jobs.

To get rid of these excessive fees, you have to take on some of the country's most powerful trade labour unions--the bar associations who routinely stick up for their members and their vast privileges. In the same way that the teachers' unions have succeeded in picking up huge benefits for their members--gold-plated pensions and three months' annual vacation--the lawyers have managed to get away with charging high fees.

Teaching, mind you, is easier than practicing law and it does give vacation and pension benefits lawyers could only dream of. But it pays less.

But like the teaching unions; the bar associations need to be attacked for their ability to grab too great a slice of the economic pie.

Just witness the average lawsuit: while a small David can beat a giant Goliath in the courts (the individual versus the corporation) it always takes money, money and more money. Few individuals have the resources to weather the battle.

In cases where money is no object (the current case of newspaper proprietor Conrad Black against Prime Minister Chretien for failure to grant a knighthood is a good example) then lawyers use very expensive stalling and delaying methods that simply prolong a legal dispute. Result? The lawyers get even richer.

So? What to do? Get rid of the expensive litigation system created by and for lawyers by the legislators, who are part of the same crowd: replace it with arbitration which is much cheaper and far more effective.

Why should anybody have to go through the complex maze of civil litigation which is intended to benefit clients who have high-priced lawyers who know their way around the system and can defeat claims on procedural issues rather than have them decided on their merits?

It's outrageous and it happens all the time. Just as outrageous as the monopoly that those selfish teachers' unions have succeeded in obtaining for themselves. And, like the teachers, the lawyers love to justify their craft by way of explanations that would curdle your skin if you really examined what they were saying.

If the legislators of this province had real guts, they would abolish civil proceedings in the courts and substitute them with fast, efficient and shorter arbitrations from which you could only appeal if the arbitrator made a mistake in law.

But don't fret. Just as the teachers' unions have managed to pressure government for their selfish demands, lawyers would do exactly the same.

But it's really time for us to get rid of this atrocious monopoly by introducing some reform into the system that would allow people to get justice at a much cheaper price tag and faster cost.

Ask your provincial representative and see. There's merit to my point--I've been there and I've seen it. That's all I did for a long time before retreating to the easier task of teaching all those future lawyers.

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

That sinking feeling

Fisheries Minister Herb Dahliwal looked like bait when questioned in the House about the good ship "J.E. Bernier." Tory MP Charles Power managed to get his hooks on documents showing the coast guard ship was turned into a floating dancehall at a party for Corrections Canada officials and senior bureaucrats off St. John's, Nfld. The vessel was stripped of its helicopter so that guests could dance the night away. That is, whenever they weren't partaking of the almost $2,000-worth of lobster tails flown in from Nova Scotia. Dahliwal said "no lives were at risk," assuming perhaps that no couple would waltz off the deck. Nevertheless he assured the House it wouldn't happen again. The tab for the dream cruise was about $6,600 in Canadian taxpayers' currency but that didn't include extra staff, overtime and fuel. Nor does it pay for the wear and tear on the dance floor - uh, the chopper deck. As for those responsible for the fiasco, the word is out: "Get down."

Flabbergasting filibuster

The Reform Party's filibuster in the House of Commons over the Nisga'a agreement cost taxpayers $26,000 for each hour of overtime, Government House leader Don Boudria told Hill reporters. It was a rare display of the government's concern for taxpayers and certainly cuts into any plans it might have to increase the $145 million millennium budget. We can never have too many hillside carvings of St. John the Baptist, you know. The 471 amendments introduced by Reformers left Hansard staff running several hours late in publishing the transcripts of the daily proceedings. It was all so stressful that even the Senate's online Hansard was showing Monday Dec. 6, as a Tuesday.

Whose turn to feed the lion today?

The toughest job for a Reform MP may be to look like you're winning while sparring with Finance Minister Paul Martin in the House. It's rumored he eats Reformers for breakfast. But Monte Solberg, the party's finance critic, took at least some of the bite out of an arm-waving Martin boastfest on tax rates when he observed, "Mr. Speaker, it sounds like someone's chestnuts are roasting on the open fire these days."

How to be a minionnaire

The use of the word "minions" to describe staff at Rideau Hall doesn't sit well with Senator Eymard Corbin even if it's taken from a direct quote. "Our parliamentary practice always prohibited slanderous remarks on the person of the Queen and the Governor General," he said. Senator Anne Cools had used the word in quoting from a letter by Rean Meyer, president of the Heraldly Society of Canada in B.C., describing staff of former Governor General Jeanne Sauve as minions. Even though she made it clear the words weren't hers, Corbin said, "Nevertheless, we must choose our words carefully." That prompted a few well-chosen words by Cools in concluding "I have not been able to glean, in anything that Senator Corbin has said, what his question to me is, but as an act of graciousness on my part I will decline to respond to what he has said." Ouch! Senate Speaker Gil Molgat ruled later that the term "minion" is not an offensive term in its general use. He had consulted several dictionaries before making the ruling. Why not have his minions do it?

'Tis the season filled with folly

Due to the politically correct atmosphere on Parliament Hill, the lyrics in the following traditional Christmas carols have been changed so as not to offend any faith group, people without any faith at all, or just aliens from outer space.

Reformers roasting on an open fire
Jack Ramsay nipping at their nose
Yuletide heckling from the backbench choir of Liberals dressed up like Eskimos - er, Inuit - er, Nisga'a

Said Dick Proctor to the little lamb
do you hear what I hear?
Flying through the sky, little lamb
do you hear what I hear?
A voice, a voice, Andy Scott above the trees
with a tale as big as a kite,
with a tale as big as a kite.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

C.A.O. Position

Dear Editor,

Ex-Mayor Phil Poirier is a legitimate candidate for the position of C.A.O. (City of Cornwall).

His performance as an administrator at City Hall plus his business experience demonstrated his skills.

Management is an art, not a discipline. Give him a chance to compete!

Apology Necessary

Dear Sir/Madam:

Dr. Tombler's letter of December 7, 1999 fully expresses my feelings with respect to the December 6, 1999 Standard-Freeholder article regarding the death of Dr. Peachey. While "appalled" as used by Dr. Tombler is an appropriate descriptive, I would also add shocked and dismayed.

While I fully support the fundamental of journalistic freedom, its responsible exercise brings with it the duty to report fairly and equitably, and, if the circumstances dictate, with a degree of sensitivity and compassion. These were, in my view, sadly lacking in the article in question.

In a headlong dash to connect two apparently unrelated events, the article's author has, in my opinion, sunk to previously uncharted depths of base journalism.

The Standard-Freeholder management should now do the right thing and apologize to the Peachey family.

Yours truly,
John D. McKeown

The True Meaning of Christmas

Dear Editor,

I have a few words in response to Maria Pruton's article in the Standard Freeholder, "Crucifixion scene didn't belong in the Christmas parade."

She describes the lovely floats, lights, dancers, funny clowns, cars, horses, and Santa Claus. She was very disturbed by the float depicting the crucifixion of Jesus.

Maria, to get the "true meaning of Christmas," we do not have Jesus as a holy babe in a manger. We see His life, crucifixion, resurrection, ascension, and promise to return again.

That's God's plan to redeem mankind.

Is Councillor Hollingsworth Suffering From a Sports Concussion?

Dear Editor,

Let's begin with some confirmed facts!

- Council approves a 1.8 million dollar upgrade to the Justice building and give the police more room.
- Council offers to pay for the lap top computers for cruisers at a cost of $100,000 to enhance an already efficient city police.
- The police Chief's budget for the past four years is on budget, or under budget - praised by Council repeatedly.
- The police governing authority orders O.P.P. to increase manpower by 10 more officers in SD&G after the Counties' Council accepted their 1998 bid. The net result will be an increase of 1 million dollars to their already accepted bid. This increase will no doubt have to be incurred by the taxpayers.

On Monday, November 22nd, 1999, Councillor Hollingsworth stands up and states "Let's explore an O.P.P. costing to reduce our year 2000 budget." Has Councillor Hollingsworth not been present at recent Council meetings, or is he suffering from a sports concussion?

I am sure the Councillor is aware that local Councils have fought for years to control their local police Boards. In just the past five years, they have accomplished this by changes to the legislation. City representatives now outnumber provincial representatives on the local Board. Councillor Hollingsworth simply wants to forget all this history to possibly save a few dollars and give control back.

I hope Council, on behalf of our citizens do not wish to relinquish our newly found control of policing and the pride we have in our Police Service. Otherwise, these will undoubtedly be the newspaper headlines in our future:

1) Premier Harris in other budget slashing frenzy cuts funding to Provincial Force. City Council's answer when asked: "They never told us this could happen."

2) O.P.P. advise local taxpayers that significant increases are required to cover the cost of last year's crime spree. City Council's response may be: "How do we regain control of our own policing costs." Reality is forget it. You sold out the local police and they're gone forever - so is our control.

To Councillor Hollingsworth, I'm sure you're aware that in the sports world, too many concussions lead to forced retirements.

Bruno and Alice
On Bended Knees

EPISODE ELEVEN

A love story in twelve parts about seniors and safety

Pictures may be the best remembrance someone has of a wonderful period in one's life. Where those same pictures hang, however, can be the cause of irritation.

When I started spending more time over at Bruno's, he had pictures of his first wife all over his house. I'm certain she was a wonderful woman, but things between Bruno and I were getting pretty romantic, and I couldn't turn around without seeing his wife watching me from a wall somewhere. It felt weird. I confronted him about it and he agreed to store the pictures away. Or so I thought.

Two days later, I caught sight of him through the window of his backyard art studio. He was working away furiously, hammering picture hooks into the walls. It was an awkward moment. Privacy is privacy, but I wondered whether my new gentleman friend was creating some sort of shrine to his former spouse.

Two days later (the day before my 81st birthday), I came over and found that Bruno wasn't there. Yet the door to his workshop was wide open, banging in the wind. I headed across the yard and up the three steps to the studio to shut it for him. After all, he keeps valuable tools in there. Then, just as I was about to swing the door closed, I heard Bruno's voice in the house calling my name.

Perfectly innocent but feeling guilty, I closed the door quickly, spun on my heel and dashed down the stairs. At my age, I have learned how to manage stairs safely—hand on the rail, moving sideways one stair at a time—but there was no time for such caution now. I went into a headlong rush and, nothing to steady me, I plunged knees-first into the grass, which is precisely how Bruno found me.

Rushing up to me, he wrapped his arms around me as I sat there shaking and asked if I was all right. I said "Everything is okay. Everything is fine." And indeed it was for, in my brief glimpse through the open studio door, I had seen exactly what Bruno was up to—a clay sculpture, a perfect image of an older couple reading on a bench.

I had uncovered his secret—a beautiful birthday present for me. The only problem now was how to act suprised on my birthday!

CORNER POST

Elbert van DONKERSGOED

Last winter in a series of 16 workshops on "Market Clout" members of the Christian Farmers Federation explored globalization. Participants expressed frustration, concern and bafflement about a globalization that appears inevitable.

With the start of the Millennium Round of the world trade talks, we are bombarded with the rhetoric of a more international economy being by definition a richer economy. If we want to be richer, globalization is inevitable, right?

The family farmers at last winter's workshops were not so sure. They had a number of cautions about globalization.

Caution one. Globalization's much touted economic benefits are often-camouflage. There's a lot of pizzazz in making that international deal. Trade missions to Tokyo, Japan are media events; economic development conferences in Detroit or Buffalo are, well, ho-hum. Being international, making the multinational deal is its own kind of high. Family farmers think globalization might be driven as much by human nature's need for excitement as by long-term economic fundamentals.

Caution two. Globalization changes the structure of farming. When transnational food merchants come into big city hinterland seeking partners in their multinational schemes, they are not looking for family farm entrepreneurs. They look for someone to hold a mortgage-on land or buildings, and for cheap labour. In global firms, management decisions are made at head office. In family farm Ontario, management decisions are made on the farmstead. Globalization doesn't need the family farm entrepreneurs that have built rural Ontario.

Caution three. Mortgage holders with cheap labour exist elsewhere in the world. Global firms can find their supply of bulk food commodities as easily in Brazil or the Philippines. When they do, they erode the vitality that farm businesses bring to the economy, environment and community of Southwestern Ontario.

Caution four. Canadian farm policy, based on the mountains of grain we export from the prairies, leans towards globalization-at the expense of Ontario agriculture. Eighty-five percent of Ontario farm and food exports-in fact over 75% of all Ontario exports go to the U.S. 50 million people with good incomes live within a day's drive from Southwestern Ontario.

Right-on-time delivery to these folks is what we do well. Our most sustainable farm profits are in selling food to folks in Chicago, Detroit, Toronto and New York. Ontario agriculture's marketplace is just a truck-drive from the Great Lakes-not global.

The rhetoric of globalization is all around us. Let's not be fooled into thinking that it will sustain the vibrant agricultural economy of rural Ontario, as we know it.

Y2K Status Report - Cornwall General Hospital

For some time the Cornwall General Hospital has been preparing for the Y2K computer problem. We compiled an exhaustive inventory of all equipment which may be date sensitive. The equipment was grouped into three broad categories – clinical, physical plant and information technology. I am pleased to report that as we enter the month of December, we have confirmed that all of our clinical equipment is Y2K compliant and likewise so is the physical plant, with the exception of a few minor non-critical items and virtually all of the information technology equipment is compliant.

In addition to confirming that our equipment is ready, extensive contingency plans have been developed. We have assurances from our outside suppliers including electricity, gas and water but we are taking nothing for granted. The hospital has a back-up generator and heating plant and a well was recently added to assure a supply of water.

As other hospitals have done, we have restricted staff vacations and we have made provisions for additional staff to be on duty and on-call on December 31st/January 1st. As we found during the Ice Storm, one of the biggest problems can be external communications if the phone lines are disrupted. We have taken steps to prepare for that.

Overall, the Cornwall General Hospital is prepared for the clock clicking over to the year 2000. Through the Ontario Hospital Association, we will be monitoring how the world is handling the transition starting in Australia and moving westward. Based on the information we have received to date, we do not expect any problems, but the community can be assured we are prepared.

DANCES WITH WORDS

Our World's Going to the Dogs

Nick WOLOCHATIUK

No, this is not another one of those gloom and doom forecasts about the Y2K Bug, global warming, decline of academic standards or the commercialization of Christmas. I'm simply saying that our world's going to the dogs!

Taco Bell has hired a tiny Mexican one to be their spokesman. A wide variety of them are urging us to join the masses who now consider cellular phones to be as de rigeur as ear rings at a gala. The now defunct Greyhound Airlines had their namesake breed urinating on the tire of a competitor's aircraft. One is a major character in "Due South". One of our former prime ministers, Mackenzie King, confided in one on a regular basis. The only companion of the sad Maytag repair man is an equally sad one. Elizabeth II's most well-behaved family members are short four-legged ones. It seems that Bill Clinton's brown one is his most faithful companion these days. "The Dead Dog Cafe" is a popular CBC Radio comedy skit.

Dogs are virtually everywhere, but banned from almost every park in Cornwall. However, one major retail store in the west end of The Seaway City has rolled out its welcome mat to a certain little white dog that is a regular customer of its one-hour-photo-finishing service.

Our language is liberally punctuated with canine sayings and doggerel. The text books in our schools are "dog-eared". There are aerial "dog fights" when F-15s and MiG-27s of hostile nations meet. In the wake of battles, the "dog tags" of soldiers who have given their all are dutifully collected. The protestors at the recent W.T.O. conference in Seattle, Washington exhibited "dogged determination".

My editor reminds me that if I don't meet my weekly deadline, I'll be in the "dog house". That sometimes means I tend to wake up "dog-tired" on Wednesday mornings. My wife says I should change my ways and stop procrastinating, but I quip, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks". That piece of "dogma" usually stops her in her tracks. I must admit that it's been a "dog's age" since I last got a job finished well in advance.

No matter how late I stay up at night, pounding away at the computer keys, "man's best friend" is always patiently waiting at my feet. When I'm busy at my work, there's a "dog's breakfast" of papers, photographs and books surrounding my desk. It's during those wee small hours that I sometimes catch sight of Sirius, the "Dog Star", in the clear night sky. When my final copy is proof read, it becomes my time to "howl".

There a many working dogs in our society. Some help track game for hunters. Others, especially the border collies, specialize in herding sheep, cattle, goats, chickens, and even little children that would prefer to play scattered about the back yard. Most rural homes have a canine greeter that will meet you at the end of the farm lane, then challenge you as you attempt to open the door of your vehicle. Various police forces use dogs to sniff out drugs, explosives and fugitives. Similarly, some try to find children or seniors who have gone. A.W.O.L.

If you've been a long-time reader of my published works, you know that two different little white dogs have been part of my life for the last 15-years. "Wimpy", alias "HTD#1", was the poodle that served as my "Where's Waldo" for four years. Unfortunately, he passed away in October, 1997. "Keesha", a very spunky American Eskimo miniature, now makes cameo appearances in many of my Seaway News photographs.

Why do I have a dog? Let me count the ways. Their need for exercise and play helps keep me fit and in good humur. Their friendliness with strangers act as my letter of introduction to those I meet in my travels, whether they be shy children, pretty women or grizzled seniors. Their courisity for adventure leads me to things and places I would have otherwise missed.

Their trustworthiness spawned the saying, "A dog is a man's best friend". I've never been betrayed by my dogs, never been unforgiven by them, never been mistrusted by them.

Their instinctive ability to judge character alerts me to the presence of people who don't like dogs. There's usually something wrong with people who don't like dogs. They have alerted me to the subtly disguised evil nature of two people who have since been exposed as being less than community assets.

The main reason I have a dog is the way they make people smile. Who could resist the friendly overture of a little white creature that greets a complete stranger as if they were a long lost friend? That's why dogs are used as vehicles of therapy in senior's homes, convalescent hospitals and social adjustment classes.

If all of the above makes you want to go out and get a dog to put under your Christmas tree, think again! Each year, the staff of the OSPCA shelter at 550 Boundary Road places an embargo on late December adoptions. They remind us that "A dog is not for Christmas, it's for a lifetime".

Christmas Gift Guide

Only 15 Shopping Days 'til Christmas

Celebrate The Timeless Spirit of the Season

Christmas is not a time or a season, but a state of mind. To cherish peace and goodwill, to be plenteous in mercy, is to have the real spirit of Christmas.

Calvin Coolidge

As we celebrate the arrival of the holiday season — the last of the millennium — Coolidge's words are a particularly apt reminder of the importance of cultivating and maintaining the true Christmas spirit.

When friends and family members join together, it is the genuine warmth of loving relationships, not elaborate gifts or multi-course meals, that gives life to the season's festivities and enriches the lives of the participants in the years to come.

The joy of the season can be captured in even the simplest activities: teaching a child to make a gingerbread house; going caroling with friends; stringing popcorn and cranberry garlands for the tree; sending Christmas cards to far-away family members; setting out a tray of milk and cookies for Santa to enjoy.

Whether holiday traditions are simple or elaborate, they serve to bind loved ones together, creating a sense of continuity and permanence that transcends the worries of everyday life.

So, even if your Christmas gift budget is not as big as you would like it to be, celebrate the goodwill of the season and find ways to share that joy with those you love. Whether you put a festive CD on the stereo, throw a holiday video in the VCR, light some candles, bake holiday cookies, have a tree-trimming party or arrange for a more formal event, the smiles on the faces of those you love will prove your efforts to be both rewarding and appreciated.

Stop by and say hello to Santa and Mr. Bear...and take a true horse drawn wagon ride any Friday, Saturday, or Sunday until Dec. 19th at the St. Lawerence Centre in Massena. Call 315-764-1001 for times

How To Be A Responsible Host This Christmas

The key to every holiday celebration. Whether it's a Christmas millennium gala, the holiday party or a New Year's Eve season brings many reasons to celebrate. For many, the holidays are a chance to spend time with family members, for others, it's a time to relax with friends and take part in fun traditions.

A national Angus Reid/CTV/Globe and Mail poll stated 23 per cent of Ontarians between the ages of 18 and 34 are planning to attend or host their own party to ring in the next century.

Since celebrating special occasions with friends and family at home is increasingly popular, it's necessary to remember that the key to every successful party is a responsible host.

Over the next few months there are going to be many festive occasions for friends and families to celebrate together. As part of our ongoing commitment to the responsible use of alcohol, we want to remind hosts to help their guests arrive home safely this holiday season, says Michelle Noble, Labatt Breweries Ontario.

Responsible hosting tips:

-Be responsible and serve drinks yourself instead of having an open bar

-Plan ahead and encourage guests to leave cars at home

-Provide plenty of non-alcoholic beverages

-Serve plenty of food during the party and stop serving alcohol one hour before the party is over

-Reward designated drivers with fun party prizes

-Have local transit fares and information, such as schedules and phone numbers, on hand

-Be responsible and designate a non-drinking driver to take guests home

-Be prepared for overnight guests by having extra blankets ready

-Know When to Draw the Line-don't let your friends drink and drive.

Since 1981, Labatt has developed many responsible use initiatives under its Know When to Draw the Line banner and over the past decade, programs by governments, police, interest groups and the brewing industry have resulted in a 47 per cent decline in the rate of impaired driving charges.

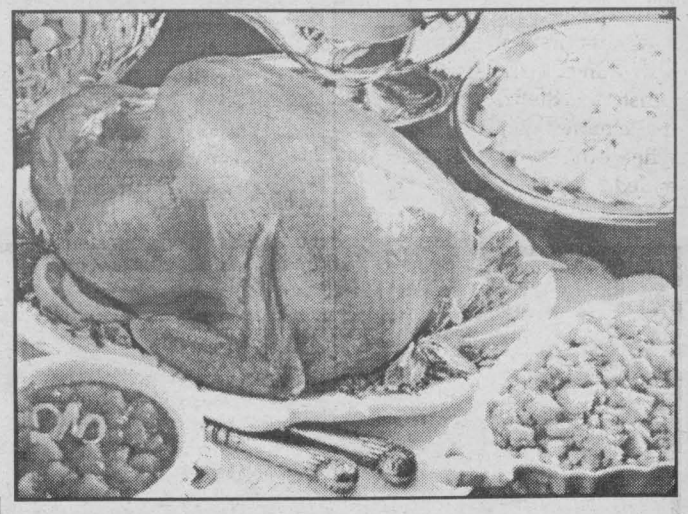
What's The Proper Way To Stuff A Turkey?



Butterball Homestyle Stuffing is an ideal side dish, but it can also be cooked in the bird. Whether you choose to stuff your turkey or cook stuffing in a casserole dish is a matter of personal preference. As with any preparation involving raw food ingredients, it's important to carefully follow proper food safety and handling procedures to ensure a safe turkey every time. Butterball Homestyle Stuffing must be defrosted for 24 hours in the refrigerator before adding to the turkey – once stuffed, the turkey should immediately be put into the oven to roast. For cooks who choose to stuff their turkey, Butterball recommends the following three guidelines:

1. Remove Butterball Homestyle Stuffing from package just before placing in turkey. Add only cooked ingredients to the stuffing – for example: cooked meats and seafood (oysters) and sautéed vegetables. Place prepared stuffing in turkey just before roasting. Do not stuff the turkey the night before roasting.

2. Always use a meat thermometer. The turkey is done when the thigh temperature reaches 180°F/82°C on a meat thermometer inserted into the thickest part of the thigh next to body, not touching bone. Move the meat thermometer to the centre of stuffing; temperature should be 160°F to 165°F/71°C to 74°C. When the stuffed turkey is done, remove turkey from oven and let turkey with stuffing stand 15 to 20 minutes. This standing time provides an added measure of safety for stuffing temperature to reach 165°F/74°C.

3. Remove all stuffing from the turkey. Serve immediately. Refrigerate stuffing and turkey in separate containers.

Christmas 1999 Gift Guide

Choose Simple Toys That Delivery Lasting Play Value

(MS) — Fourteen-month old Ariel sits in front of a plastic, white box with 10 flashing buttons of different shapes, colors and sizes. On the buttons are images of jungle animals. Ariel looks at the buttons, pushes a red one and hears the sound of a growling bear. Just then, a high-pitched, synthesized voice tells her, "One Bear. One. Bear." She watches for a few seconds, puts her mouth up to the plastic box and, satisfied that she has explored the toy, goes back to her toy shelf in search of something new.

Why the short attention span with this seemingly stimulating toy? BRIO Corp. — a toy company recognized by early-childhood specialists for its commitment to play value, quality and fun — asked CIVITAS Initiative, a national organization dedicated to improving the lives of children, to comment on choosing toys.

"The answer is simple," says Leslie Mitchel Bond, CIVITAS child-development specialist and graduate of the Erikson Institute. "With toys, a good rule of thumb is, the simpler, the better," she says.

According to Bond, "It is the work of children to explore. They are scientists by nature, in constant pursuit of figuring out how things work. As with scientists, this discovery process is made more interesting to them when the toys are open-ended."

"The most important thing about play is allowing children to initiate their own activity," says Dr. Bruce Perry, a child psychiatrist and developmental neurobiologist at Baylor College of Medicine.

The more opportunities children have to build on their innate curiosity and desire to explore through play, the more they are encouraged to become active learners. A toy whose design allows children to "learn by doing" helps them to feel more in control of their environment; it literally makes children feel good about themselves. And, when children feel happy and engaged, they will play with the same toy for longer periods of time.

A wooden railway set from BRIO is one example of an open-ended, "learn by doing" toy. According to Peter Reynolds, president of BRIO Corp., "all of BRIO's toys are designed to grow with the child, offering simple pleasures when the child is the youngest, and more complex interactions as he or she matures."

While not all toys can or should remain interesting for a child over a period of several years, CIVITAS child-development experts suggest you ask yourself the following questions when looking for a toy.

- Does this toy encourage my child to use his or her imagination?
- Can more than one child at a time play with this toy?
- Will my child interact with the toy, or will the toy interact with my child?

Given our technologically advanced society, we are inclined to seek out things that do more. However, when looking for toys, that is exactly the opposite of what children need. To put it simply, the more a toy does, the less children do, and therefore, the less they learn.

First Things First

H.B. KANTERS

We live in a society that values being busy. Actually it's gone much further than that, being busy is seen as a measure of importance. The busier you appear to be, the more important you become in the eyes of others. This is a fairly new social phenomenon, for it used to be your actual accomplishments that counted. All this changed back in the fifties when power-tools and wonderful electric kitchen gadgets became available. Being able to buy things became tangible proof that you had made it, it really showed others how important you had become. But in today's society you don't even have to show real stuff, you can prove your importance just by talking about how busy you are, especially if you whip out an electronic device that keeps track of your appointments or you walk down the street talking on your cell-phone. The idea of being committed to raising children in a neat and tidy house and to enjoy cooking a real meal with all those wonderful new electric gadgets is not seen as important. Being a homemaker does not count in the GNP, so how could it possibly be important?

Years ago, when WOMEN IN LEADERSHIP seminars were a very new thing, I once attended a conference on this important topic. I learned a lot in those three days and decided to stay for the Saturday evening dinner and speaker presentation. The Westbury Hotel in Toronto really lived up to its reputation, right down to the flambé dessert. We all sat there filled up with both delicious food and great self-importance, ready to listen politely, as one does on those occasions.

The speaker was a woman whose name I forgot long ago, but her thirty minute interaction with all of us female, would-be overachievers left a lasting impression to this day. After she had been introduced, a waiter pushed in a small cart on which stood a large glass jar and three very ordinary looking large brown paper bags. The speaker thanked him and while she made simple comments about the past three days her left hand reached into the closest of those paper bags and she took out a fist-sized stone. She transferred this stone to her right hand and then placed it into the bottom of the glass jar. She kept on doing this while talking about nothing important, always keeping her eyes on the audience. Eventually the bag was empty and while slowly folding it up, she turned to the person sitting close by, and said: "Take a look at this jar. Do you think it's full?" "Of course," replied the amused woman, as all of us would have done. The speaker smiled and said "Oh, really?" Then she reached for the second brown paper bag, tipped it sideways, and very carefully poured out some gravel. We all sat up a little straighter and watched as some of that gravel made its way into the crevices between the rocks. Then she turned to all of us and asked: "Is the jar full now?" Someone in the back yelled out "Probably not" and the speaker smiled and said: "How clever of you." Then she reached for the last brown paper bag, tipped it sideways, and ever so carefully she poured sand out of the bag into the glass jar. Some of the sand made its way in between the gravel and rocks, and eventually reached the very top of the jar. "Would you say the jar is now full?" she then asked the first woman again. "It looks like it's really full," came the slowly spoken answer. Our speaker then motioned to her left and from behind the curtain came the waiter and handed her a pitcher of water. We all began to applaud, as the speaker carefully poured some water into the jar filled with rocks and gravel and sand. Then she motioned us to quiet down and asked: "Tell me what is the point of the illustration you have just seen?" After several minutes of whispered conversations among the more than two-hundred women in the audience, one brave soul finally stood up and said: "We think it means that no matter how busy you are in your life, you can always do a little bit more, if you really try." Applause, applause, applause, we all clapped like crazy, we all really believed we had understood the lesson well.

After we had once again settled down, the speaker quietly said: "No, that's not it at all. The truth you have just seen is that if you don't put the big rocks in first, you'll never get everything else to fit."

Canadian society has changed a great deal since that day in 1975, but the story of the glass jar is still valid and true. You have to take time to identify the rocks, so you can put them first into your daily measure of life. Everything else will then adjust and fit just right.

O.P.P. REPORT

During the past week police officers in Dundas County responded to 79 calls for service.

Matilda ward – 9
Mountain ward - 10
Williamsburg ward – 10
Winchester ward - 8
Village of Iroquois – 3
Village of Chesterville - 9
Village of Morrisburg – 12
Village of Winchester – 12
Provincial Highways – 6

THEFTS

On 29NOV99 police began an investigation in relation to a theft, which had occurred in North Dundas Township.

Over the weekend a portion of a two way radio was taken from construction equipment, left in the area of the new street construction in the Village of Winchester. A homemade ladder was also taken from the site.

Const. B. Anderson is investigating.

On 29NOV99 police received a report of damage and theft, which had occurred to a school bus while parked in South Dundas Township.

Over the weekend a school bus parked at a private residence along Church Street in the Williamsburg area, had been entered and damage, estimated at $100.00, was sustained to a seat on the bus. The fire axe, fire extinguisher and first aid kit had also been taken from the bus.

Const. D. Holmes is investigating this incident.

On 30NOV99 police began an investigation into the theft of an all terrain vehicle from South Dundas Township.

During the day on 30NOV99, a 1999 Honda "Foreman", 450 c.c., 4 wheeled, all terrain vehicle, was taken from the garage at a private residence located on South Branch Road in South Dundas.

The vehicle has not yet been recovered.

Const. J. Morier is investigating.

R.I.D.E. UPDATE

During the past week, police conducted a number of R.I.D.E. spot checks throughout Dundas County and we are pleased to report that no incidents of impaired driving were discovered.

Number of vehicles checked – 305

12 hour suspensions issued – 1

Impaired driving / Drive of .08 charges – 0

Highway Traffic Act warnings – 13

During the spot checks one driver in possession of a "G2" licence was charged for having consumed alcohol. Under the current graduated licence systems, drivers in possession of "G1" or "G2" driver's licences must maintain a zero Blood Alcohol Concentration when driving or face a fine of $105.00.

In addition, the person accompanying a G1 driver must have a Blood Alcohol Concentration lower than .05 or the driver may still be subject to a similar fine.

Thanks for your co-operation in reducing the incidents of impaired driving this holiday season.

TRAFFIC UPDATE

In the past week police officers in Dundas County investigated 10 motor vehicle collisions. No incidents of impaired driving, or suspended driving were reported.

The occurrence of car-deer collisions are still holding steady in Dundas county. When driving at night, especially during the early evening hours use extra caution on our roadways. Reducing your driving speed, so as not to "over drive" the illumination of your headlights, as well as scanning the shoulders and ditch areas will help you to increase your ability to avoid a collision with these animals. They can appear anywhere, and be very unpredictable when on the roadway.

TELEPHONE SCAMS

Over the past weeks the telephone scams have resurfaced in SD&G. As always, be cautious of any telephone calls you do not originate. The callers involved in this type of crime are very good at what they do, and can be very convincing on the phone. Offers of large returns for the use of bank accounts, large prizes that require fees be paid to collect the prize are two of the methods being used at present. If you have any concerns about questionable telephone soliciting, call your local police detachment or phonebusters at 1-888-495-8501.

"IF YOU HAVE WON A PRIZE – IT DOESN'T COST YOU A DIME"

Information was received this week about another possible telephone scam that could hit our area.

The scam involves organizations who utilize telephone switching equipment know as Private Branch Exchanges, receiving a call from a person claiming to be conducting a test of their telephone line, and then requesting they dial certain numbers to allow the test to be completed. If you dial these numbers, and hang up, this gives the requesting individual full access to your telephone line, which enables them to place long distance calls which will be billed to the organization's number.

This scam does not effect residential phone systems, it's target is businesses.

Please be cautious and do not hesitate to contact your telephone company to verify any work or tests being done on your line.

HOMEOPATHY
Natural Therapy for Health Problems

Homeopathy is a medical therapy that has been serving humanity for nearly two centuries. It may be used to treat both acute and chronic disorders. However, its greatest utility lies in its successful treatment of many difficult chronic illnesses. All diseases have a prodromal stage in which they manifest themselves with functional disturbances. It is particularly at this stage that homeopathy can reverse the progress of the disorder. These are examples of health problems treatable with homeopathic remedies: arthritis, rheumatism, allergies, neuralgia, emotional disorders, premenstrual syndrome, menopause, and chronic fatigue, etc.

Dr. Daniel Faierstein Godin,
Doctor in Homeopathic Medicine, is now consulting at The Natural Health and Nutrition Center located at 407 Pitt St., Cornwall Ontario.

Story & photo by Aubrey Johnson

Philanthropy, which is a spirit of goodwill toward humanity, is usually expressed in activities that promote human welfare. The term came into use in the 18th century, when the functions of religious-oriented charity were being assumed by the state and by private individuals. In modern times, philanthropy is associated with the disbursement of wealth by individuals and especially by the fund-raising activities of nonprofit organizations such as The United Way. One of the best-known philanthropists was the American industrialist Andrew Carnegie, who devoted the latter part of his life to giving away most of the huge fortune he had amassed in the steel industry. Following the principles laid down in his essay "Gospel of Wealth" (1889), Carnegie returned over $300 million to society, primarily through foundations and trusts. No strangers to the work being done currently by the Cornwall United Way are the employees of the Kraft plants in Ingleside and Williamstown, who have become the second largest contributors to the United Way's yearly goals of fund raising for its 16 member agencies. This year's impressive donation of $29,700 by the Kraft employees exemplifies the spirit of giving which the United Way appreciates.

Gourmet Touches With Butterball Homestyle Stuffing

Although Butterball Homestyle Stuffing is an easy-to-prepare dish – ready to serve from the freezer to the table in less than 20 minutes – it is also an ideal starter dish that can be dressed up with favourite flavours. This delicious stuffing includes croutons, margarine, onions, celery, salt, spices and parsley but you can experiment with other ingredients to create your own taste sensation. Butterball offers the following recipe suggestions:

For a traditional taste with turkey or chicken – add nuts or fruit:

- 125 ml (1/2 cup) chopped cooked chestnuts, or
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) chopped roasted almonds, or
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) chopped walnuts, or
- 250 ml (1 cup) chopped unpeeled cooking apple, 50 ml (1/4 cup) raisins and 10 ml (2 tsp) sugar, or
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) grated orange rind

On the savory side for spareribs or pork:

- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) chopped celery and 250 ml (1 cup) chopped onion sautéed in 50 ml (3 tablespoons) butter or margarine

Add a subtle smokey taste for roast veal:

- 6 slices side bacon, fried, cooled and chopped

Looking for superb stuffing for fish – add a shellfish:

- 250 ml (1 cup) cut-up oysters and 250 ml (1 cup) chopped celery

Adding mushrooms always makes excellent stuffing for chicken:

- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) chopped mushrooms and 250 ml (1 cup) chopped celery, sautéed in 50 ml (1/4 cup) butter or margarine.

Smoking Allowed ... Outdoors

Ah the great outdoors: the ideal place to commune with nature, burn off energy, ponder the wonders of life...and smoke? If you have to light up, that's the best place for it, say local health officials.

"Whether it's in the home or in the car, smoking in an enclosed area harms the health of everyone, especially children (see sidebar)," said Julie Dyke of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU), which is spearheading ongoing, local non-smoking promotions. The current campaign's slogan is : "Smoking allowed...outdoors!"

Dyke admits that establishing a smoke-free home and car isn't always easy. That's why EOHU has produced and is distributing, free of charge, static-cling stickers proclaiming "Smoking Allowed... Outdoors!" for your front door or car window, plus a helpful pamphlet on how to establish a smoke-free home and car. They're available by calling Health Line/Appel santé, 1 800 267-0852, as is any information about tobacco issues.

DIY SMOKE-FREE HOME AND CAR

*Discuss with passengers, visitors how they can help make your place smoke-free.

*Provide a comfortable accessible smoking area outside your home.

*Schedule frequent stops for smoking passengers.

* Be polite, but firm...and thank everyone for respecting your wishes.

*Remember it's never too late to become smoke-free!

4 REASONS TO ONLY ALLOW SMOKING... OUTDOORS!

In children, second-hand smoke increases the risk of:

*bronchitis or pneumonia (often severe enough to require hospitalization)

*ear infections

*asthma and allergies

*Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS)

I have decided to start doing team profiles, beginning with the BLUE Peewee/ Bantam/ Midget house league team. The team consists of sixteen players and two coaches. The players are Courtney MacDonell, Christine Turcotte, Melanie Sanders, Stephanie Loiselle, Jessica Moran, Jenna Lynn Sanders, Megan Lefave, Katie Mattiuz, Tessa Beaudette, Brittnee St-Germain, Chanelle Lalonde, Jennifer Leduc, Jennifer Tessier, Rachel Gray, Felicia St-Louis and the goalie, Kaitlyn St-Germain. The girls are enjoying the season so far. They are especially pleased with their coaches, Shawna Spowart and Ray St-Germain. The girls like having a woman coach for a change. Shawna is a hockey player herself and is quite knowledgeable in the sport. She has been making an effort to teach the girls new strategies like "the box" when the other team has the power play. Shawna is also encouraging skills development by organizing extra practises. Her team is pleased with her coaching strategies and thank her for the wonderful job she's done so far.

Competitive team up-date:

The Bantam A and the Midget AA teams both participated in the Peterborough tournament last weekend. Unfortunately, neither team made it to the finals. The Peewee A team however, made it to the finals but came out silver medalists. The lost 4-1 against Peterborough, a team they lost only 1-0 against in the round robin. The Atom A team, coached by Dave Higgins, found a great deal of success in the tournament. They beat the Peterborough team 4-3 in the final game. Congratulations Atom A Typhoons!

Cornwall Mini Storage Atom Selects

The Selects got a wake up call this week. After playing so well last week they only were able to accumulate 1 point after playing 3 games.

Tuesday they played North Dundas Demons in Chesterville in which the Demons defeated the Selects 4-1 with the Selects scoring their only goal with a few minutes left in the game. Scott Hickman #11 scored the goal for the Selects.

Thursday the Selects were back on the road, this time heading for Maxville to face off against the Braves. During this game the Selects were shut out. The Braves scored the first goal in the first 11 seconds on the clock and after that no other goals were scored. Ending the game 1-0 for the Braves.

Friday was a home game for the Atom Selects hosting the Morrisburg Lions. The game started with Corey Fleury a Selects forward scoring early in the first period. He was assisted by Scott Hickman. In the second period the Braves tied it up with a power play goal. Then half way into the third period they scored again making it 2-1 for them. The Selects didn't let up and we're able to tie the game in the last two minutes with a nice face off goal. Scott Hickman #11 took a shot after winning the face off and the puck ricochet off one of the Lions skates and went into the net.

South Stormont Peewee Selects

The South Stormont Peewee Selects played two league games on the weekend, winning one and losing one.

At home against Potsdam, the Selects seemed to take the night off, as they were whitewashed 10-0. Potsdam dominated every aspect of the game, outshooting the home squad 39-13.

The Selects recovered in time for a visit to Alexandria, where they handed the Glens a 4-2 setback. Liam Tyrell led the attack with two power-play goals, with Brad Crepeau and Marc Geneau adding singles. Mike Carbino played a strong game, as well, chipping in with three assists.

The Selects' record in league play is now 6-5-2.

BDO Dunwoody Seaway Valley Minor Atom AA Rapids

The Rapids played at home against the Cumberland Barons. The play was end to end until the last minute but the Rapids weren't able to earn a point. The game ended 3-2. Devin Brunet scored both goals with Lucas Cryderman earning an assist. Phillip Perkins was solid in nets.

On Thursday the Rapids experienced another nail biter against the Ottawa Sting at the Jim Peplinski Arena. Nicolas Spagnolo and Lucas Cryderman scored for the Rapids. Devin Brunet assisted on the first goal. The Sting came back to win the game 3-2. Goalie Olivier Surprenant was spectacular stopping 33 shots and gave the Rapids a chance to win the game.

Seaway Valley Shalteck Pee Wee Rapids

The Seaway Valley Shalteck Minor Pee Wee Rapids recently made their first trip of the season to Kingston. Seaway gave Kingston all they could handle, and after two periods the score was tied 2-2. In the third, however, they ran into penalty problems which Kingston quickly capitalized on. The final Score was Kingston 7, Seaway 2. Scoring for Seaway were Corey Tinkess assisted by Cory Gove and Matt Walsh assisted by Mathieu Lafleche.

The following week the Eastern Ontario Cobras slithered into town, but managed to leave with only a point. The final score was 3-3. Cornwall Tire Midget "A" Royals

The Cornwall Tire Midget "A" Royals had a tough time last weekend suffering back to back losses to the North Leeds Stars. The injury plagued Royals put up a valiant effort in their 3-2 loss in Maxville. Ryan Redmond and Dave Carry had the goals, with Jesse Winchester, Shawn Chartrand, Mario Bissonnette, and Eric Lavictoire getting the assists, Shawn Chartrand normally a forward, played a great game on defence.

Sunday had the Tire boys playing the Stars again and unfortunately they came out on the losing end of the 4-2 score. Their ranks were further reduced when Winchester had to leave the game due to illness. Ryan Redmond led the attack with a goal and an assist in the losing cause. Jamie Leger had the other marker. Matty McNally and Mario Bissonnette had the assists. Goaltender Marc Lapointe had a great game, stopping 36 of the 40 shots he faced.

December 3rd-5th had the Cornwall Tire squad competing in their first tournament of the year in Pembroke. Although the boys had a record of one win and two losses, they had a great time getting to know each other. Parents had a more difficult time with accommodations, but were able to salvage the weekend due to the efforts of the card playing duo of Leger and Bissonnette. They have to be the most formidable duo since Batman and Robin.

The Royals lost a heartbreaker opener to Kingston City Cougars 2-1. Scoring for the Royals was Jamie Leger, with assists going to McNally and Redmond. The Royals dominated the contest from start to finish, but squandered many great scoring opportunities. Tim St. Jean played a strong game.

In their second game, the Tire squad faced off against the Canterbury Crusaders, arguably the best team they will play this year, and lost 5-1. The reduced team, (10 skaters), put up a good effort but is wasn't enough. Scoring for the Royals was Ryan Redmond, with the lone assist going to Jesse Winchester.

The final game of the Silver Stick tourney had our boys playing the Goulbourn Rams. The team had only nine skaters left to fight this battle, yet the lads dug deep and came up with a hard fought 3-2 victory. Dan Desnoyers made some key saves in the game to preserve the victory, and the defensive efforts of Nelson Tessier, Troy "Mr. Goalposts" Darnell, and Eric Lavictoire, helped secure the win. Scoring for the Royals were Jesse Winchester, Shawn Chartrand, and Ryan Redmond, with assists going to Darnell, Mario Bissonnette, and Winchester. Nelson Tessier, Bissonnette, and Winchester made some nifty passes in the offensive zone and controlled the play before Winchester threaded the needle to Redmond, who banged home the winner late in the game. Congratulations on your great effort guys.

The Computer Sense Selects outshot and controlled most of the game, but couldn't beat a strong Massena goalie. Travis Coughlin & Matt O'Neil shared the shut-out.

On November 16th, they traveled to Maxville to play NGS. Ty Perry led the team scoring two goals, & assisting on two. In a 4-0 win, Daniel Viau & Scott Simpson had singles. Travis Coughlin had the shut-out.

The Selects are preparing for the Silver Stick Tournament in Pembrooke on December 3rd, 4th & 5th.

Good Luck Computer Sense Selects!

Nesbitt Burns Novice "B" Royals

The Nesbitt Burns Cornwall Novice "B" Royals travelled to Orleans to participate in the Orleans Novive Tournament. In this very competitive division the Royals would have to play their best hockey to be amongst the top 4 of 16 to advance. In their first contest they played the Cumberland Barons and skated away with a hard fought 2-1 victory. Their next opponents were the Goulborn Rams, a team that beat the Royals 2 weeks ago in the Silver Stick Novice "A" division. The Royals came out flying and won all the battles, including the game by a 5-3 margin.

Their last opponents were the only thing standing between the Royals and a trip to the final 4. The Nepean Raiders came out flying and took an early 2 goal lead. However the Royals came back to tie the game 2-2 before the first period was over. The Royals played a tough team and lost 6-3. They came out of this tournament with 2 wins and 1 loss.

Scoring for the Royals this week were Brett Michaud 4-0, Mackenzie Mitchell 0-4, Trenholm Mac Donnell 2-1, Brett Conwal 1-1, Trent Thomas 0-2, Matthew Jacobs, Brendon Trasuk, Jeremie Spagnolo and Ryan Wong each had a goal, while Zachary Mac Innis, Justin Ingram and Brock Bissonnette each had an assist. Jeffrey Hebert played very aggresive hockey on defense. Goaltenders Joshua Lefebvre and Josh Loney each earned a win in the tournament and each played in the final game. Next week the Royals play in a tournament in South Grenville.

Playing three games on the 4th of December, 1999, tying one, winning one and losing one edged them into the finals.

In the final game, they were matched up with the Peterborough team. Going into the last period the Typhoons gave up three unanswered goals to lose the match 4-1. Anne-Marie Wheeler got the single.

Coaches Art Sinfield and Rick Carter were leased with the team play and the results.

INSIDE THE CORNWALL COLTS

David MURPHY

Can you believe this high rolling ride that is the Cornwall Colts' 1999-2000 season is only half done? The Colts owned a record of 22-4-1 heading into their games against Ottawa and Pembroke this week, had won 9 of 10 were riding a 7 game winning streak (could be 9 by the time you read this) and a 9 point cushion over Brockville for first overall in the C-J-H-L. We can talk about the highlight only because there are not too many, if any low-lights to this season. But of course, there has to be at least one wrench in what is other wise a smooth running machine. That wrench would be the 2nd place Brockville Braves. In two meetings so far this year, the Colts are 0 for two. But worry not Colts fans, I'm sure Al Wagar is working on a game plan for when the two teams meet again (December 21st) in Brockville. Other than that, let's go Colts.

COLTS NOTES:

Nick Brunet continues to lead the C-J-H-L in scoring (entering the week with 18 goals, 32 assists for 50 points)...Jean Desrochers leads all rookies with 34 points in 27 games. Cornwall Lions Minor Bantam Girls Basketball

The Cornwall Lions Minor Bantam Girls (ages 10-11) basketball team played two league games on Saturday. In the first game against Brockville they won by a score of 35-16. The top scorers for the Lions were Melissa Piché with 8, followed by Katye Chase and Maegan Thomas each adding 6, while Cassie Roy and Emilie Séguin each netted 4. In the second game the Lions again came out on top with a 33-20 win over the Gloucester Wolverines 2 team. In this game, Emilie Séguin was the top gun with 10 points, Katye Chase and Cassie Roy both counted for 5 points while Brianne Vervoorn scored 4.

This year the team got off to a slow start but has been playing much better as of late by winning their last three league games. Their record now stands at 4 wins and 3 losses. The team's biggest improvement has been in their defensive play where they have been able to get many turnovers and convert them into good scoring opportunities.

This year the team has 5 returning players from last year's provincial champion squad, and they are: Cassie Roy, Emilie Séguin, Hannah Emard, Maegan Thomas and Brianne Vervoorn. The new members to the team are Manon Guitard, Ashley Phillips, Kelsey Conway, Katye Chase, Megan MacNaughton, Melissa Piché and Stephanie Greig. The coaches are Alain Roy and Alan Greig. Norm Séguin is the manager.

Grant Dodge Bantam "B" Royals

The Cornwall Grant Dodge Royals played three games and were able to get two wins and a loss.

The Alexandria Glens handed Cornwall a 6-1 setback at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Steph Quenneville scored the lone goal.

The Royals blitzed the Morrisburg Lions 6-1, getting a hat trick effort from Luc Langlois. Kyle Pierce, Brandon Mason and Marc André Cuillerier scored singles. Assists went out to Billy Cooper, Jason Leger, André Lalande, Pat Sauvé and Kevin Castor.

The Royals continued to roll, defeating North Franklin 3-1. Jason Leger opened the scoring, with Marc André Cuillerier adding a pair, assisted by Pat Sauvé.

Cornwall stands at 6-4-1 in regular season play.

OPTIMIST BEARS ON DUTY

The Cornwall Police Service would like to thank the Optimist Club of Cornwall for their ongoing support to an effective program that has Optimist Bears on duty and helping to put a smile on the face of a child when they need it most.

The Optimist Club of Cornwall has been supplying the Cornwall Police Service with "Optimist Bears" for the last 10 years. "Many a smile has replaced a frown on the face of a child" says Staff Sergeant Lucien Brunet. The cuddly little brown bears are outfitted with a white T-shirt bearing the logo of the Optimist Club of Cornwall.

From time to time the police must deal with volatile or tragic situations that unfortunately involve children. This may occur at a domestic dispute, a motor vehicle accident or a lost child. When the situation is traumatic to the child, they are reminded by the officer that everyone needs someone to be their partner, even the police attend such situations with a partner. This is when the Optimist Bear is placed on active duty and becomes the child's partner.

Over the last two years, 35 Optimist Bears have been placed on active duty.

Today we are receiving another 18 Optimist Bears that will be placed on stand-by until the day that they are needed to help ease a child's pain.

We again take this opportunity to thank the Optimist Club of Cornwall for being a loyal "Friend of Youth."

Benjamin Franklin may have discovered electricity, but it was the man who invented the electric meter who made the money.

Some of the media (a minority) seem to have gotten it right. Most everyone else is confused. January 1st, 2000 is not the start of a new millennium. It is simply New Year's day, 2000 and this the first day in the last year of the old millennium. It's also the first day in the last year of the 20th century. The new millennium will in fact begin on January 1st, 2001. Somehow Y2K got everyone in this exercise confused. If the math in all this confuses somewhat, look at it this way. How many years in the first century A.D. ... 100, right? ... thus 100 years completed at end of year 100 ... 200 years completed at end of year 200 ... 300 at the end of 300 and so on, until 2000 years are completed at the end of 2000. Some balloons need to be pricked.

Hands-Up Experience ... my friend had been promoted and transferred to another branch of the Calgary bank where she worked. Hoping her new staff would appreciate it, Sue decided to organize a Christmas party and arranged a meeting after the branch closed. She explained her plans and asked those who would come alone to raise one hand and those who would be accompanied to raise two ... the police arrived within minutes. A pedestrian walking by had seen the bank staff with their hands above their heads. Thinking a robbery was in progress, he had raced to a phone booth and dialed 9-1-1.

Tish is Gone: He spent his life going around in circles but still achieved international fame. Tish, the world's oldest known captive goldfish, has died at the age of (at least) 43. First won by 7 year old Peter Hand at a fairground in 1956, Tish the fish outlived all of Peter's other pets. When Peter grew up, Tish moved in with his parents, Hilda and Gordon Hand, in their retirement home in Yorkshire, England.

Tish grew to four and one-half inches and acquired a distinguished silver colour. Last year he was recognized by The Guinness Book of World Records as the world's oldest captive goldfish.

Hilda Hand found him dead at the bottom of his fish tank.

"I am very sad," Hilda said. "Over the years we have become very close and I could sense if he was happy or not."

Stop those holiday snoops!! To keep nosy family members from finding their holiday presents, wrap items as soon as you buy them, then colour code them with a sticker so you know whom the gift belongs to.

Don't forget the Animal Shelter this Holiday Season! The shelter has pet food, clay cat litter, kleenex, paper towels, shredded paper on their wish list, along with many other items they can use. If you can donate, it would certainly be appreciated. Let's help them help the animals!

If you want to create Heavenly frosted designs for your windows, use a razor or knife to cut out stars, moons and snowflakes from frosted window film (used on bathroom windows for privacy; available at hardware stores). Then peel and stick motifs to the inside of any glass door or window.

Now McIntosh, you have to stop encouraging him!! You're making mischief.

The hospital had called to inform me that my nine year old son, Trevor, had been hurt in a soccer match. I hurried over and saw that although his head and face were badly cut, he'd be okay. The doctor said he'd have to call in a plastic surgeon. On hearing this, Trev wailed: "I don't want a plastic surgeon! I want a real one!"

To all the people who help themselves to other people's outside Christmas decorations ... GET A LIFE! Do like the rest of us ... get a job and buy your own!!

That's Life ... the tastiest thing on the menu is usually the one your doctor told you not to have!!

Our minister uses a battery-operated microphone during services. About midway through one sermon, the sound system became erratic. She paused, looked at the transmitter pack and announced, "The low-battery light is on." A member of the congregation immediately replied, "Better hurry up, then."

So we hear Becky Brownell has the investigative mind of a junior Miss Marple. After months of rumours, it's finally official ... John Farrington is leaving the Standard Freeholder and the Southam Chain of newspapers. John had a high profile in the City and was involved in many civic activities. We wish him well.

Congratulations to Adrian Quesnel who won the Carhartt utility coat from The Works.

In my police uniform and cruiser, I pulled in behind a doughnut shop. I spotted a shabbily dressed elderly man at the dumpster filling a plastic bag with discarded dougnuts. My heart went out to him. I got out of the car, went inside and bought the poor soul a couple of doughnuts, went outside and handed them to him. "Here are some fresh ones for you."

"Oh, they're not for me, he said. "I get them here every day to feed the birds."

Here is a successful tradition that your family might like to try this year ... ask people to bring Chanukiyahs (holiday menorahs) to a Chanukah party for a joint lighting of the candles. Have all the party guests read a poem they've written for the occasion, and keep in mind that kids love dreidel games (the special spinning top that is a traditional holiday toy).

Quotable Quotes: "Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it everyday and at last we cannot break it."

Here is a successful family tradition you might like to try with your family this year:

• Instead of hanging elaborate store-bought stockings on the mantel, ask each family member for some personal footwear to hang - a ski sock, a slipper, tights. Notes one mom who has tried this one: "Our mantel looked like a laundry line!!"

Seaway News would like to thank Gord MacPherson of the Lancaster Freshmart Pee Wee "A" Royals team for dropping by the office this week with coffee and donuts. Much appreciated and dee-licious!!

For less of a Christmas tree mess, lay an outdoor trash bag under the tree skirt of your Christmas tree. When it's time to take the tree down, all you have to do is lift the bag up over the tree and toss it out.

No more bag clutter ... during the nation's busiest shopping season, bring along your own shopping bags or consolidate your purchase into one large bag. This will keep clutter at home to a minimum while reducing waste for the environment.

A smart gift: Instead of giving teens something that's likely to go out of style within a few months, opt for stocks and bonds or open a savings account as a gift for a young adult. This way, he'll be able to watch his money grow and gain some financial know-how at the same time.

I work at a retail store in town and can't get over how many people leave their child unattended in a shopping cart while they go off into the other aisles. Don't you realize that you're just asking for trouble ... pay attention. Don't you think the children deserve that from you??

Hey people who never took driving lessons (or you would think so) ... don't you realize that when a school bus is stopped and the red lights are flashing and little children are getting off, that means you stop. Get it!! STOP!! Even on the larger streets, like Second Street, Ninth Street or Brookdale Avenue. I don't know how much simpler I can put it!! Hopefully you can read!!

Save on gift wrap ... why spend money on wrapping paper that ultimately ends up as garbage? Save your dollars and reduce waste by purchasing gifts that don't need to the be wrapped such as gift certificates, houseplants or tickets to a concert, play or sporting event. For kids, hide presents, unwrapped and give clues where to find them.

Bah Humbug to those who steal other people's outside Christmas decorations. You might have a nice Christmas, but you spoil it for the ones you steal from. Get a life and a job!! NOTE TO PARENTS: Be responsible, if your child or adult children come home with new items that you know they cannot afford, ask questions and make them return the stolen items.

It happened this month ... The Nutcracker premiered in Russia this month in 1892. The critics roasted it, but audiences loved Tchaikovsky's score and the magical story about a little girl and the nutcracker she dreams into a dashing prince. Now there are more than 300 different Nutcracker productions.

We would like to say welcome back to Milton Ellis, the new Publisher of the Standard Freeholder. Mr. Ellis held the post for a couple of years prior to Mr. Farrington assuming the role three years ago. Plus ça change ...!

Save energy ... a house full of people creates a lot of excess heat. To prevent this, lower the thermostat before guests arrive. You'll save money - and conserve energy - while the body heat from your guests keeps the house comfortable.

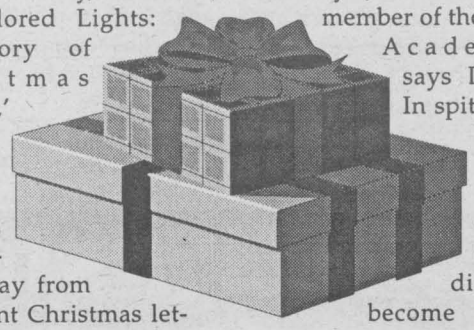
The History of Christmas Gift and Card Exchanges

From candy canes to brightly decorated gingerbread houses to Santa Claus on every street corner, the holiday season brings some wonderful things. However, it also ushers in many time-consuming tasks — cooking the holiday meal, picking out the Christmas tree, and especially, buying the perfect gifts for loved ones and writing out holiday cards to faraway friends and family members.

Have you ever wondered about the origin of exchanging gifts and cards? According to Donald E. Dossey, Ph.D, author of "Holiday Folklore, Phobias and Fun" (Outcomes Unlimited Press Inc.), by the 12th century, the practice of giving gifts had become common on Christmas, as well as on New Year's Day.

"It was believed to have come from the scriptural account, in Matthew 2:11, of the Three Magi who offered gold, frankincense, and myrrh to the Christ Child," says Dossey.

The origin of sending Christmas cards, he says, began in England. "Edna Barth in 'Holly, Reindeer, and Colored Lights: The Story of Christmas Symbols,' says that in England, schoolboys away from home sent Christmas letters to their parents." The letters were printed on paper that had Bible scenes on it, written in their best penmanship. In the hopes of receiving money and gifts, they would tell their parents of their progress at school.



It was in 1839, after the introduction of the penny post in England, that the true Christmas card tradition of sending cards to loved ones developed. "One thousand copies of the card designed for Sir Henry Cole were sold. Usually regarded as the first of its kind, it was made by J.C. Horsley, a member of the Royal Academy," says Dossey. In spite of its success, the custom did not become widespread in America until after the English royal family began sending cards.

Superstitions and folklore have a way of patterning our lives — from avoiding black cats to walking around ladders.

Christmas is a time for cheer, but it also is filled with lots of folklore. The following "Christmas Magic" is courtesy of "Holiday Folklore, Phobias and Fun" (Outcomes Unlimited Press Inc.), by Donald E. Dossey, Ph.D.

- Roasting chestnuts in a open fire, named for the available persons you know is a great divination ploy. The first one that pops will be the one you marry.
- If there is a full moon on Christmas, expect a poor harvest.
- If you do any household repairs on Christmas Day, the trouble will not be cured and even may get worse.
- Hang a sprig of mistletoe over the door. It will chase away the evil spirits and bring good luck.
- If you were born on Christmas Day, your life will be a happy and healthy one.
- Keep your Yule log burning all night. If it goes out, expect bad luck.
- Eat plenty of pies on Christmas. It is believed to bring good luck.

An elderly lady was concerned about her husband's hearing. It seemed that every time she would call him, he wouldn't respond. The lady went to the doctor to ask his advice. The doctor said to her, "when you go home, tell your husband to stand at the end of the hallway, and you should stand at the other end. Ask him what he wants for dinner. Continue to move him closer towards you until he responds to your question so you know exactly how far away he is from you when he finally hears you."

She thought this was a great idea. When she got home, she placed her husband at the end of the hallway and yelled, "Herbert, what do you want for dinner?" There was no response. She moved 10 feet closer. Again she yelled, "Herbert, what do you want for dinner?" No response. She moved another 15 feet closer to where she was now practically face to face with her husband. She yelled even louder this time, "HERBERT, what do you want for dinner?!!"

Herbert yells back at her, "For the THIRD time, I want chicken!!"

Homepathy and Emphysema

Paulette Poirier
Homeopath

Emphysema is a terrible ailment. when Mr. D., a 59 year old came to see me, his goal was to build up his immune system to keep his emphysema under control. Mr. D. responded very well to the homeopathic remedy Antimonium Tartaricum, since his symptoms "great rattling of mucus, but very little is expectorated" corresponded to the remedy. Other corresponding symptoms are: coughing with pain in chest often with drowsiness and even occasional nausea. The results were gradual but very encouraging. Mr. D. feels the results improved his chances of staying out of hospitals this winter.

Keep in mind that Homeopathy treats the person and not the disease, so two people with the same problem may require different remedies.

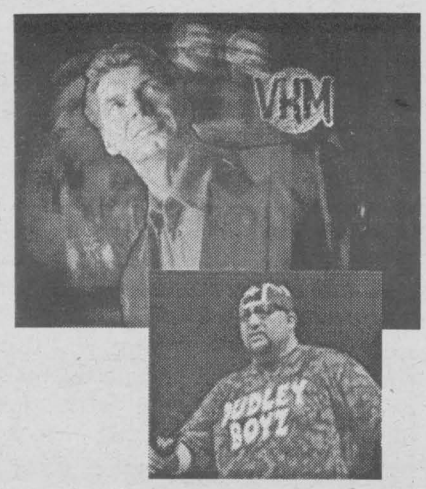
Stone Cold Steve Austin was in Cleveland on Wednesday consulting with Dr. Henry Bohlman, orthopedic surgeon and director of the Spine Institute at University Hospitals of Cleveland. Dr. Bohlman feels the surgery will most likely relieve Austin's symptoms and enable him to return to normal life activities. Dr. Bohlman recently performed successful back surgery on Baltimore Orioles legend Cal Ripken, Jr. Austin will soon undergo a surgical procedure the world renowned orthopedic surgeon pioneered more than 27 years ago, and has performed hundreds of times at University Hospitals of Cleveland. Rehab after the surgery is about two months and then a conclusive determination can be made regarding Stone Cold's in-ring status. WWF officials are very optimistic about Austin's future, especially after Wednesday's consultation with Dr. Bohlman.

Toronto's Trish Stratus has finalized her long term contract with the WWF and should be starting soon on WWF TV. Trish reportedly turned down a lucrative offer from the WCW to sign with the WWF.

WORLD WRESTLING FEDERATION



D'Lo Brown, once again for the record, has 18 months remaining on his existing contract and is expected to remain in the WWF for years to come. Contrary to what others are saying, D'Lo has no plans or desire to leave the WWF. Quite frankly, why would he want to go elsewhere at this point in his career?

Ken Shamrock has been cleared to return to in-ring work after Dec. 17. Ken looks great and seems to be anxious to get back in the ring.

The WWF's May PPV in the UK sold out in 6 hours this week in London.

A second UK PPV in 2000 has tentatively been set for early December in Sheffield. Details are still being finalized.

Madison Square Garden will host its 7th consecutive WWF sell-out Saturday night. Boston will have its 5th consecutive WWF sell-out Tuesday for Smackdown.

Smackdown overnights from the metered markets were a 5.8 rating. The national number will be coming in later on Friday.

MTV's "Timeout" program will feature Chyna in the near future.

Look for Moolah and Mae Young to be a unique part of the upcoming Billboard Music Awards TV Show.

MTV will be doing a major promotion in support of the 2000 Royal Rumble to be held in MSG on Sunday, Jan. 23.

NASCAR Winston Cup

Stewart Named Rookie of the Year

After breaking through for his first career NASCAR Winston Cup Series victory earlier this season, Tony Stewart, driver of the No. 20 Home Depot Pontiac, was named the NASCAR Winston Cup Series Raybestos Rookie-of-the-Year for 1999.

At last Friday night's annual NASCAR Winston Cup Series Awards banquet, Stewart accepted his hardware in front of 1,400 attendees and a live television audience on ESPN.

"I just want to thank Raybestos for their continued support of the Rookie of the Year program," Stewart said. "It's just a great honor for me to be in the same category as former rookies such as Dale Earnhardt and Davey Allison and Jeff Gordon. It's been a great rookie season for us. I also want to thank Elliott Sadler for all those Friday morning rookie meetings, that even though they were early in the morning and we didn't want to get out of bed that early, he always made them fun for us."

Along the way to the Raybestos Rookie of the Year title, Stewart put up some incredible numbers.

Stewart not only recorded impressive figures for wins, Bud Poles, top-5s and top-10s, amazingly Stewart only had one DNF all season. In addition, Stewart completed 98 percent of all laps run in 1999 -- failing to complete only 244.76 miles out of a possible 13,244.45 miles run -- and he was the highest finishing rookie in 32 of the 34 races this year.

"This has been a dream come true season," Stewart said. "Never would I have believed we couldhave won one race, much less three."

Stewart, who broke the all-time record for wins by a rookie formally held by the late Allison, was usually seen among the leaders and put himself in contention to win on a weekly basis leading an amazing 1,227 laps in 17different races this season.

The Raybestos Rookie-of-the-Year award point system takes into account each rookies best 15 finishes, with one point awarded for qualifying for the race. The highest finishing rookie earns 10 points with 9 points for the next highest finishing rookie. Bonus points are awarded after the 11th, 22nd, 33rd and final race of the season, along with discretionary points decided by a NASCAR rookie-of-the-year panel.

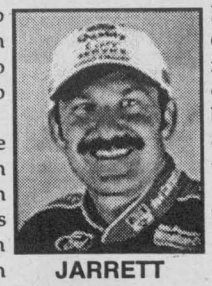
Jarrett Accepts Award

Even as NASCAR's popularity continues to attract thousands of new fans each year, the sport's top drivers have not lost focus on each and every individual who makes it possible for the sport to be where it is today.

That was the underlying theme as the top-10 NASCAR Winston Cup Series drivers and morethan 1,000 of their biggest supporters gathered at the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria in Midtown Manhattan Friday night for the annual banquet to celebrate the sport.

"A critical and vital part of this explosion of NASCAR Winston Cup Series racing is due in part to our loyal fans," said Dale Jarrett, the 1999 champion who took center stage in New York all week.



JARRETT

"Whether you are a fan of Dale Earnhardt, Jeff Gordon, or Bobby Labonte, or for that matter any of our talented drivers, I know I can speak on behalf of all the drivers, that our jobs wouldn't be complete without your intense support.

"Thank you for your contribution in making our sport the No. 1 spectator sport in America.

Gordon, Labonte and Earnhardt -- along with the other top-10 drivers -- echoed the champion's sentiments.

"First and foremost, NASCAR is about the fans," said Labonte, who drove his No. 18 Interstate Batteries Pontiac to second place and $1,039,773 in winnings. "We have without any question the most loyal fans in any sport. Period."

For one night, that sport turned its entire attention to Jarrett. Sitting at the head table for the first time, with his wife Kelley and members of Robert Yates Racing, Jarrett soaked in the moment as NASCAR officials, series sponsors and his contemporaries offered their praise.

"I would personally like to thank you for making tonight and the experiences Kelley and I, along with our entire Robert Yates Racing organization, have had this past week possible," said Jarrett, driver of the No. 88 Quality Care/Ford Credit Taurus. "It has been a great year and week in New York City that we will never forget. Thanks, in advance, for your continued support."

How Car Parts Can Affect Gas Mileage

Automobiles are a major part of your life. Many customers have asked Service Advisors for tips on how to get more kilometers out the their car and of a litre of gasoline.

Do your customers warm-up their cars every morning before they drive off? Caution them not to indulge in lengthy warm-ups that waste fuel, pollute the air and increase the wear of their vehicles.

When they start the car the choke automatically closes. It does this to cut down on the amount of air that is going into the carburetor. This is effect increases the vacuum in the venturi and draws more fuel into the engine. This enriched mixture helps the car heat up quickly. More fuel is necessary because some of the fuel will condense on the cold metal walls of the engine and not make it to the combustion chambers at all.

After a minute or two everything is back to normal and by letting their cars sit idling, your customers are just wasting fuel. While the car is at a standstill they are getting 0 kilometers to the litre.

Vehicles should never be warmed in a closed garage because the exhaust fumes can be deadly. Remind your customers that small items can add up and make a big difference in their fuel economy. Take a look at their air filter. remind them that if the air filter is dirty, they can lose up to half a kilometer per litre when they are travelling at eighty kilometers an hour. If they can improve their gas mileage by 10 percent they can save about 50 litres a year! This is also a great opportunity to suggest some GM parts to go.

Misfiring spark plugs can cost your customers up to 25 percent in gasoline economy. It is always helpful to remind them to have their ignition system tuned approximately every 15,000 kilometers.

It seems that fan belts and other drive belts are continuously being mentions. A belt that is too loose or too tight will result in a loss of efficiency. It should have about half an inch of give. Frayed or badly worn belts should be immediately replaced. Another sales opportunity.

Before your customers drive away, remind them that they will have an automobile that performs better if they look after the small items. By keeping the smaller systems in check, they could avoid larger troubles.

HOROSCOPES

December 12-18

Aries – March 21/April 20
Get straight to the point when talking with a close friend about a problem. He or she is more than willing to help you and won't tell anyone what you have to say. So, don't be nervous. Just open up. A loved one offers you some romantic advice. Take it!

Taurus – April 21/May 21
While you just want to stay home this week, Taurus, you're going to be on the go. Holiday festivities are starting a little bit early, and your presence is required. Don't get upset; the events are going to be much more fun than you expect. Scorpio plays an important role late in the week.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Be sympathetic to a business associate who is having some personal trouble. While you shouldn't get too involved with this person's problems, give him or her some extra time to deal with them during the workday. This kindness will be appreciated. Cancer plays a key role on Thursday.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Try not to fly off the handle when a loved one tells you about the trouble that he or she is in. This person needs your help, not your anger. Be supportive, and give him or her suggestions on how to deal with the situation. You're the only one who can really help. Be there for this person.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Your arrogance could get you into a sticky situation this week, Leo. So, don't be too cocky when it comes to a business situation. Take credit for your accomplishments, but try to be modest too. Remember, you haven't done everything on your own; you did have some help. Don't forget to acknowledge others.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
You're on your own this week, Virgo, and that's just how you like it. You have plenty of time to finish those last-minute holiday preparations. So, get to it. You'll be amazed at how much you accomplish in a few days. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Show him or her your appreciation.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
While you don't like to take orders from others, you're going to have to do just that early in the week. A business associate takes charge of a problem. Do what this person asks you to do, because you know that he or she is best-suited to handle this situation. Leo plays a key role.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't make any definite plans for later in the week, Scorpio. That special someone has a romantic evening planned and wants it to be a surprise for you. You're sure to have a good time. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21
Don't let an argument with an acquaintance put you in a bad mood early in the week, Sagittarius. He or she doesn't mean to upset you; this person is just speaking his or her mind. That special someone wants to intensify your relationship. Think about what you really want before saying yes. Pisces plays a key role.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't be shy when you meet an interesting person while out with friends this week, Capricorn. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. This could be the one for you! A loved one offers you some constructive criticism. Take it!

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
You have a lot that you want to do this week, Aquarius. However, be realistic when making your "to do" list, because it can't all get done in a few days. Set your priorities, and get organized. That's the only way you'll get anything accomplished this week. Taurus plays an important role on Tuesday.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
A loved one turns to you for romantic advice. Be honest — and gentle — with him or her. While this person needs to hear what you have to say, he or she doesn't necessarily want to hear it. The person whom you've been seeing stops calling. Don't be upset; there are other fish in the sea.

MacLean Named Honourary Chairperson

Cornwall Police Chief Tony Repa, chairperson of the 2000 Big Brothers and Big Sisters Bowl for Millions, has announced that the 2000 Honourary Chairperson is Cornwall lawyer, Walter MacLean.

MacLean, a long-time supporter of the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters agency and its annual Bowl for Millions, served on the Board of Directors of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Cornwall and District from 1989 to 1995, including a term as President in 1993-94. MacLean has also been active on the board of directors of Big Brothers of Ontario since 1994 and is now serving his second term as President of Big Brothers of Ontario.

The 2000 Bowl for Millions will take place on Saturday, February 12th, 2000, in Cornwall at Olympia Bowl, Nativity Lanes, and the Bowling Palace of Cornwall, on Sunday February 13th at the Alexandria Lanes in Alexandria and on Sunday, February 20th, 2000, at the Chesterville Lanes in Chesterville.

Chief Repa says that a variety of prizes has been lined up for the 2000 Bowl for Millions with the grand prize being $500 donated by the Rotary Club of Cornwall. There will also be a draw for $200 for bowlers having pledges totalling $100 or more.

MacLean is challenging residents of Cornwall and the Three United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry to take part in Bowl for Millions on a team of five or six co-workers, friends, fellow students, club or family members. He said, "Bowl for Millions is the major fund-raising activity of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Cornwall and District. And the need for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Program is greater than ever."

Team entry forms and sponsor sheets can be obtained by contacting the agency office at 933-8035 or by dropping by the office at 101 Third St. West, Cornwall.

Team entry forms and sponsor sheets are also available at the Chesterville Bowling Lanes, Main St. Chesterville and the Alexandria Lanes, 296 Main St., Alexandria.

When Lady Luck Runs Out

As people gradually acquire knowledge of the nature of their environment and interpret it in terms of cause and effect, their attitude towards gambling changes. Games of chance became pastimes for some, but for others, it becomes a love affair with disaster. A decade ago, there was virtually only one source of expertise on problem and compulsive gambling in Ontario. The most effective way to help gamblers and their families is through prevention awareness programs and with that in mind, the Addiction Services of Eastern Ontario launched its provincially funded "Compulsive Gambling" program on December 2, from the newly renovated facilities at the Weave Shed Arts Centre. Representatives from various federal, provincial, municipal and county levels of government,as well as the Akwesasne Mohawk Council, were on hand to listen to speakers who informed the audience as to their concerns about gambling addictions. The Addiction Services of Eastern Ontario (ASEO/STEO) sponsor a number of innovative programs to help counsel individuals and families who recognize their inabilities to cope with gambling related problems. From their offices at 106 Second Street West, Suite 2, the AESO/STEO will help find your solutions in this high risk area of human behaviour.

AMAZING GRACE

"And she will bring forth a Son, and you shall call His name Jesus, for He will save His People from their sin."

Matthew 1:21

Pastor Bob
BURGESS
Pastor New Life Covenant Church

An angel appeared to Joseph in a dream and told him to take Mary as his wife and that she would give birth to a son named Jesus, and He will save His people from their sins!

This is a very familiar passage of scripture used on Christmas cards and sung in Christmas Carols and everyone is quite familiar with the verse. But, what does it mean?

The verse conjures up a scene that is cute and cuddly and as we picture the manger and the creche with the animals, but "sins" what does that have to do with the whole thing? You see its quite easy to get caught up with all the stable scene of Christmas and forget what it's really all about. It's about a Holy God who sees the world in spiritual sickness (sin). It's about your need for a relationship with God. It's about God sending His son to pay for the sin of man so that man can be restored back to Himself. It's about you and I needing a Saviour.

Sin, the sickness and disease of man can only be healed by a loving God. Your sin, my sin is a wicked power in our lives and only the loving power of God can heal and set us free. Notice I haven't used the word sins plural but sin singular in that it's the heart of man, his character that needs to be healed. A heart of sin produces sins. God wants to heal your heart, your nature, your character and He alone can do it.

Do you recognize that you are a person in need of God's love and forgiveness? If you do, pray something simple such as "God, forgive me for my sinful ways! Thank you for your Son Jesus, who died on a cross for my ways and for my sin. Cleanse me and come into my life and save me. Thank you God for your unconditional love for me. Amen."

By the way, we will be having a Christmas Eve service on December 24th & you're invited!

As always, remember that Jesus loves you! He really, really does!

Blue Christmas

Christmas can be a painful time for some. It may be the first Christmas without loved family members who have recently died; it may be a time that has always been difficult.

The constant refrain on radio and television, in shopping malls and churches, about the happiness of the season, about getting together with family and friends, reminds many people of what they have lost or have never had. The anguish of broken relationships, the insecurity of unemployment, the weariness of ill health, the pain of isolation, all these can make us feel very alone in the midst of the celebrating and spending.

We need the space and time to acknowledge our sadness and concern. We need to know that we are not alone. Our spirits sink, as the days grow shorter. We feel the darkness growing deeper around us. We need encouragement to live the days ahead of us.

For those reasons, Knox-St. Paul's United Church, 108 Second St. East, offers a special "Blue Christmas" service on Wednesday, December 15th, 1999 at 7:00 p.m.

Come out and join with us in sharing and hearing prayers, scripture and music that acknowledge that God's presence is for those who mourn, for those who struggle – and that God's Word comes to shine light into our darkness.

Everyone regardless of church background (or lack of it) is welcome. The short service will be followed by a brief time for light refreshments and fellowship.

Building Home Renovations ...

(NC)—Before you break-out the hammer or call-in the contractor to begin a major home renovation, assess the potential value it will bring to your home. Not all renovations contribute to a higher resale value _ an important consideration, especially if you're borrowing money to finance the work.

To start, call in a few real estate brokers for a free market analysis of your home. Compare this with similar homes that have recently sold in the area _ and how prices relate to the number of bathrooms and bedrooms, or if there's a new kitchen or finished basement.

If you're renovating specifically to build equity in your home, go a step further and hire an independent appraiser for an unbiased opinion. Check the Yellow Pages or ask your bank for a reference _ they regularly get appraisals done to approve mortgage applications.

Check with your municipality or local home builders association to find out if your renovations qualify for government programs or subsidies which may help offset costs. There may be funding for specific projects, such as adding insulation or upgrading heating systems. Many people decide to go ahead with a renovation whether it makes financial sense or not, thinking the satisfaction and comfort from improving a home is reason enough. You may choose to follow this route. But, keep in mind, most professionals will advise you not to invest in your home if you can't recover at least some of the cost.

If you can't make a case for the added value, it may make more financial sense to shop around for a new house that has features you wanted to add, or set in a neighborhood where it makes more financial sense to invest in a renovation.

PLANNING YOUR FUTURE

Systematic Redemption Plans

Systematic redemption is one of the great advantages of investing in a mutual fund. It is a process by which you can create a steady stream of income while still allowing your invested capital to grow.

If your investments are inside an RRSP, you must begin to cash in your plan when you reach age 69. There are basically three choices: (1) cash in your entire RRSP and claim it all as taxable income; (2) buy an annuity; (3) transfer your RRSP to a Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF).

Mark McDERMID

For your mutual fund investments outside an RRSP, systematic redemption is often a good retirement alternative to putting all your money into fixed-income investments and living off the interest.

Most mutual fund companies allow you to set up a schedule for redemption based on your income needs. On a regular basis, you redeem only the number of fund units required to meet your income target. When the price of the fund units are up, you will redeem fewer; when the price is down, you will redeem more.

It is dollar-cost averaging in reverse. Instead of investing a fixed amount every month, you are withdrawing a fixed amount every month.

This process allows your fund investment to continue earning returns, because you only have to sell what you need to meet your income target. Conversely, if your investments were in large-denomination bonds, you might have to sell a $20,000 bond when you only need an income of $5,000. this month. You are left with an additional $15,000. to either reinvest or hold in cash.

With a mutual fund systematic redemption plan, you only withdraw what you need and bulk of your investment keeps working for you within the fund.

Other advantages may come from the asset class in which you invest. Because dividends and capital gains are taxed at lower rates than interest, stock mutual fund redemptions (a combination of dividends, capital gains, and your initial investment) will attract less tax than interest received from fixed-income investments.

As well, equities have outperformed fixed-income investments over the long term. "Canadian Stocks, Bonds, Bills and Inflation: 1950-1987", a study written by Dr. James Hatch and Dr. Robert White, compared various investments over time. For one-year periods within their time frame, stocks did not provide significantly greater returns than bonds of T-Bills. However, for ten-year periods, which included the 1987 tumble, stocks outperformed bonds and T-Bills in 29 of the 32 periods from 1950 to 1991.

The compound annual return on stocks from 1950 to 1991 was 10.8 per cent, well ahead of the 6.6 per cent for bonds and the 6.4 per cent for T-Bills. The study suggested that an investor's potential returns on stocks will exceed the potential returns on bonds and T-Bills as long as the investor holds the stocks for at least five years.

At C.I., you may arrange for a monthly, quarterly, or annual cash payment from the automatic redemption of some of the units you own, as long as your investment in units of a Fund has a value of $5,000. or more.

You can establish such a plan by completing the application form from your investment adviser.

Remember, though, redemptions may be subject to deferred sales charges. Check with your investment adviser or the simplified prospectus of your fund to find out for sure.

Also, redemption in excess of distributions and net capital appreciation of a Fund will result in encroachment on or possible exhaustion of your original capital. Although you can adjust the amount of your systematic redemption from time to time, it pays to plan carefully with your investment adviser.

Systematic redemption - a worry-free way to create a steady income stream.

CO-OPERATIVE EDUCATION
What's in it for employers?

Co-operative Education is a secondary school program based on a partnership between students, teachers and employers. The program gives students valuable work experience related to one or more of their in-school courses. When the time comes, students can make important career decisions more easily, fill in that first job application or choose a university or college program with all the confidence of experience. But what's in it for employers?

When you become a partner in local education, you have a chance to instill positive attitudes towards work and to develop employment skills in young people. You are also able to participate directly in the education of students and have the opportunity to identify potential employees.

The long term impact on businesses, industry and education benefits the entire community. Training and supervision are expected from participating employers, but what you give, you get back.

Co-Operative Education involved the participation of students, teachers and employers and enables students to explore a variety of careers.

Are Your Finances In Hot Water?

The deregulation of the telephone, hydro and natural gas industries has given Canadians more choices, better service and better prices. And while people believe they're taking advantage of the increased competition, most Canadians have just begun to tap into the potential savings.

People assume the only advantage of deregulation is the possibility of lower electricity, long distance and natural gas bills. If we don't get a discount we switch over to the competition – providing they offer a better price. However, some Canadians not only seek out the best bargain for these services, they're analyzing the monthly bill to find out where else they can save – and they're finding they can save a lot.

For instance, take the hot water heater. The natural gas and electricity companies charge an average rental fee of $8 a month for the hot water tank in your basement. The average life cycle of these appliances is 12 years – so at $8 a month, over 12 years, a household can spend as much as $1,152, a cost that is buried in the monthly bill. However, with deregulation, Canadians have another choice – you can buy an energy efficient hot water heater, from a store like The Home Depot, for as low as $406 fully installed – a savings of $746 dollars.

"People are amazed that you can purchase one and have it installed by a certified professional – they just assume rental is the only way," said Steve Hall of the Home Depot Canada. "A customer can come into our store, place an order for a water heater by noon, and we guarantee we'll have it installed that very same day. I think it is this type of service that is making our water heater business so successful."

Buying the wrong hot water heater can also cause you financial headaches. Do a little research before making your purchase. Here's some tips of what to look for:

• Professional installation. Get your installation done by a certified professional, your warranty will thank you.

• Energy efficiency. Look for a water heater that'll save you more money.

• Ask an expert for help in choosing the right size for your household. Heating too much water will cost you money and heating too little water will give you a cold shower. Look for a high efficiency unit which will always provide enough hot water for the whole family and your home.

• Compare warranties. A good one shows the manufacturer has confidence in the product.

In Need – Indeed

Said the beggar to the very rich man –
"Kind Sir, please give me All that you can",
"I'm in such great need,
That I've nothing on which to feed"!
Answered the rich man to the beggar –
"I'll Not encourage your laziness, Sir"!
"I flatly refuse you a handout,
"And, at me, I warn you Not to shout"!
"T'would be a serious mistake
For me to open up my bleeding heart"!
"'Tis clear to me you're on the take,
"T'would only show you I'm Not that smart"!
"Plus it's against my policy to hand out a freebee,
"It's Not to happen between you and me!
"Workfare is what you should Now expect,
"And I in turn will gladly show you respect"!
"But I'll grant you a wish,
"I'll show you How to fish"!
"And, so that you'll lift high your head,
"I'll teach you how to bake bread"!

Sunday you can take aim at the Turkey Shoot or try their All-You-Can-Eat Spaghetti feed on Wed, Wings on Thursday and the Friday night Pizza. Rosie's remind you also that their kitchen is open daily for specials.

On Tuesday, Dec.14th at AULTSVILLE THEATRE at St.Lawrence College the full 2-hour classical rendition of The Nutcracker will be performed starting at 7:00pm. For reserved seating and information you can call 938-9400 between 9am-4pm Mon.to Fri.

There's Junior Hockey action this coming Thursday at the Si Miller Arena.The Cornwall Colts are back on the ice to host Hawkesbury. Game time is 7:30pm and again on Sunday for an afternoon encounter at the "Miller" against Coaticook starting at 2:00pm.

If you are planning on attending the GLEN PRODUCTION of Jesus Christ Superstar coming in March, you are reminded about the one-day advance ticket sale this Saturday, Dec.11th at the Glen Building. The dates for the production are March 3, 4, 5, 9, 10 & 11. A neat idea for a Christmas gift perhaps!

There is a unique event scheduled for the afternooin on New Year's Eve at the RCAF, Wing 424. Members and guests'will be able to look back at many of the events and achievements of the passing century. Pictorially you will be able to view some of the world's great moments when we landed a man on the moon, tore down the Berlin Wall, or the day we brought our own Canadian Constitution back home. Then there are the major disasters like the Hindenberg, WW 1 and 2, the Kennedy assassination, and others.You will also be able to listen to many of the actual "voices" of some of the people who helped to shape our history, like US President's Eisenhower or Roosevelt, that nut they called Adolf, or a different kind of nut like Fibber McGee and Molly.Then there's Babe Ruth, the live description of the bombing of Pearl Harbor and many, many others. Also included will be some of the songs that were written and performed during the century.The millennium is a time for reflection of our past and this display should help to put us in the mood as we get ready to close-out our turbulent past and welcome the New Year 2000. Members and guests' can drop by the Wing in the afternoon of Dec.31st starting at 1:00pm .

Those FLYING FATHERS have scheduled another Cornwall visit. They will be here on January 19th of the year 2000 to face a team from Dave's Reliable Signs at the Civic Complex.You can pick up tickets in advance at the Civic Complex Box Office, from local Knights of Columbus members, the Agape Centre, Guindon Esso at 13th & Pitt or on Marleau Ave., Jazz Magnolia's Restaurant on Vincent Massey Dr. or at Dave's Reliable Signs on Boundary Road. Proceeds to benefit the catholic Youth Ministries and the Agape Food Bank.

Songstress Crystal Gayle will be appearing on Wednesday, December 15th at Akwesasne Casino on Rt.37, Hogansburg. The Christmas concert starts at 8:00pm and you can call for information at 1-877-992-2746.

If you're looking for movie entertainment this weekend there are some top-flight Cinema attractions available at the Port Theatre and at the Brookdale Cinemas. Agent 007 is back in action on the screen with The World Is Not Enough, or you can enjoy Grey Owl or Sleepy Hollow, while the younsters can watch Pokemon and Toy Story.

Perhaps is the abundance of the new Christmas lights and other flickering do-dads that are on the shelves these days, or it could be the end of the Millennium craze that so many folks have taken to house decorating this season. One thing is for sure and that is the great color and excitement it's causing. Everyone will benefit from this year's efforts at almost every home on every block. Surely Cornwall Electric won't complain, unless there is an overload of course, anyone visiting our city over the holidays will have something to talk about when they return home, and all of us can take the time to pack the family in the auto, take a bus, or simply just walk around and enjoy the scenery. Perhaps someone will be clever enough to take some aerial shots of our city to capture what appears to be the largest concentration of lighting and decorations ever seen in Cornwall.Way to go folks...that's what I call all-out celebration and a great way of answering those prophets of doom that have been espousing their "end of the world" theories."HUM BUG TO THEM !!And until next week, G'Day and G'Night.

Smarties Wreaths

This simple edible craft can be done with the kids even on a hectic day. Package the wreaths in greeting card boxes for gift-giving (if you manage not to eat them first)!

1 pkg (510 g) chilled chocolate chip cookie dough
1 tube (120 g) cake decorating icing
Smarties® candies
Ribbon

To make one 8-inch (20 cm) wreath:

Line baking sheet with parchment paper; trace 6-inch (15 cm) circle on paper. Set aside.

Roll teaspoonfuls (5 mL) of dough into small balls. Arrange balls in circle on pattern, with each ball just touching the other. Bake according to cookie dough package instructions or until golden brown. Let cool on baking sheet for 10 minutes. Carefully transfer to rack to let cool completely.

Use icing as "glue" to stick Smarties decoratively onto wreath. For gift giving, decorate wreath with ribbon tied into a bow. Repeat with remaining ingredients, forming different sized or shaped wreaths if desired.

Makes four 8-inch (20 cm) wreaths.

Your Gift List Could Include Chocolate Beer!

(NC)-No kidding. This is a serious beer.

Young's Double Chocolate Stout won the bronze medal at the 1998 Brewing Industry International Awards, and is recognized as a beer brewed from the finest ingredients, including chocolate malt. Young's Double Chocolate Stout is now on the shelves at the LCBO.

In fact, while chocolate beer makes a fascinating gift, here are a few more of this season's popular sellers to consider, from beer to wine to spirits. Chances are, at least one, maybe more, will fit someone you know perfectly. Then, once you've decided, turn them into festive presents if you like with a perfectly-sized, decorative gift box:

Ontario Red Wines

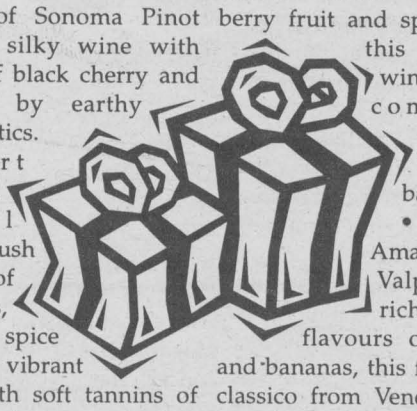
•Pelee Island Cabernet Merlot - a wine with smooth wild cherry and spice flavours.

•Henry of Pelham Cabernet - aromas of wild raspberries deliver a soft, round structure.

Best of California Wines

•Beringer Napa Ridge Chardonnay - a full flavoured and complex wine with subtle oak, tart peach, pear and apple flavours.

•Gallo of Sonoma Pinot Noir - a silky wine with flavours of black cherry and enhanced by earthy characteristics.



• Robert Mondavi Coastal Merlot - lush flavours of ripe berries, plums and spice develop a vibrant flavour with soft tannins of the Merlot grapes.

Classic Italian Wines

•Ruffino Chianti Classico Riserva Ducale - aromas of berry fruit and spice makes this Tuscany wine a perfect companion with tomato-based foods.

• Masi Amarone Della Valpolicella - rich in flavours of cherries and bananas, this full-bodied classico from Veneto is best with cheese and cheese pastas.

Vodka:

•Belvedere Vodka - made from 100% Polish rye and distilled four times for ultimate purity and velvety smoothness. Taste the difference on its own or mixed in your favourite cocktail.

Scotch:

•Dalwhinnie Highland Single Malt - this 15-year-old brand is a Speyside malt, light and aromatic, and with a soft heather and honey finish.

Ales & Stouts:

•Black Sheep Ale - the Yorkshire Square fermentation system produces a distinctive robust ale.

•Riggwelter Yorkshire Ale - is a deep chestnut coloured ale with aromas of roasted malt, and hops, plus a distinctive banana fruit character.

•Young's Oatmeal Stout - this is a strong stout with a roasted bitter flavour, well balanced with a fruity aroma and an exceptionally smooth palate from the oatmeal.

•Young's Double Chocolate Stout - a delightful beer brewed from the finest ingredients including chocolate malt.
