Initiatives To Improve Cornwall's Image

The City's Image Enhancement Committee is monitoring and coordinating the implementation of the action play to improve the City's internal and external image.

Committee Chairperson, Alderman Brian Lynch has indicated that the action plan and its 75 recommendations approved by City Council on January 22nd has been sent to all City Departments and community organizations identified as having a role in the implementation of the plan.

Lynch stated: "The response to the action plan has been very positive. A number of initiatives are taking place to improve the attitude of local residents, build community pride and enhance the City's image."

Cornwall and Seaway Valley Tourism has produced a video highlighting the unique qualities of Cornwall and area and is in the process of producing two brochures on tourism attractions, festivals and special community events.

The Environmentally Friendly and Energy Efficient sub-committee will be unveiling the student murals on the City garbage trucks on Earth Day, April 23rd and has submitted the student murals for a future stamp issue.

The Ecology Park project sponsored by the Enviro-Health Committee has been approved by City Council.

The City will be sponsoring a Spring Clean-Up campaign.

The City's Arts and Culture coordinator is working on an Arts and Entertainment calendar and is making plans for the Arts in the Park program this summer.

Glen Stor Dun Lodge has produced its own Image Enhancement action plan.

The 1996 Cornwall Business Magazine published by the City's Economic Development Department celebrates some of our local success stories.

Lynch indicated that the Image Enhancement Committee will be meeting on April 24th to further review the implementation of the action plan.

Lynch said: "The members of our committee and sub-committees will continue to act as boosters of the City and promote Cornwall as a great place to live, do business and to visit. We see Cornwall as a city where business, environmental initiatives, recreation and friendly living come together."

Mutual Funds The Investment Choice of the '90s

By Scott Burton CMA

Mutual funds have become a very popular way to invest. Every working day of the year, millions of dollars are directed into Canadian mutual funds by novice and sophisticated investors alike. Part of the reason for the overwhelming popularity of mutual funds is that these investments are easy to understand. Quite simply, a mutual fund is a pool of money to which large groups of people contribute. This pool is managed by professional money managers, who invest in everything from treasury bills, bonds, shares in Canadian and international corporations to more esoteric investments like currencies, futures and commodities, depending upon the nature of the mutual fund.

These money managers have one fundamental objective: long-term, consistent performance for all of your investments. For all but the largest investors, full-time professional discretionary investment management is hard to find. It takes experience, research and a great deal of time and money. Therefore, for many investors, the most convenient and economical way to combine these attributes in one easy investment is in the form of a mutual fund. The costs of professional management are low, because they are underwritten by many investors.

Professional money managers must keep a vigilant eye out for market opportunities and changes, while at the same time balancing investment growth and risk. While a mutual fund still allows you to control your money as an individual, it gives you the decided advantage of top-notch professional management, an advantage not otherwise available to smaller investors.

Mutual funds can play a part in almost every investor's portfolio, whether it is small or large, but the type of fund you buy will ultimately depend upon your individual objectives. You should contact your Financial Advisor today to discuss the suitability of mutual funds in your investment portfolios.

College students say they won't be able to afford to take the city bus after the next 42% increase in bus fares. The rates for students and seniors is expected to rise from $1.05 to $1.50. The students have presented a petition to council and many say they have begun walking or riding bikes to school.

Cleary Upset Over Stalling on Courthouse

JOHN CLEARY MPP

MPP John Cleary has expressed his frustration over the government's continued stalling concerning the Cornwall Courthouse. Six months ago, Dave Johnson, Management Board of Cabinet Chair, stated that the review on five courthouses (including Cornwall's) would be complete within a month. Cleary states that the review is finally complete, but the Minister will not release any details, stating it was an internal review and no formal report was produced. Cleary stated that this was "... an evaluation to detemine which courthouses will continue to operate, be forced to close or, hopefully in our case, receive funding for construction." The level of overcrowding and confusion in the courtrooms "is outrageous", states Cleary.

Exploring The "World of Work"

A Job Shadowing program will make it possible for over 100 grade eight students to spend time at a workplace this spring. The students will be exploring various career options and as a result of their Job Shadowing, will be better able to set attainable career goals. The program began March 25th and runs until June 7th, 1996. Students from the public school board and both sections of the catholic school board will take part. Further information can be obtained by contacting the project co-ordinator Dianne Gauthier at 937-0120.

Special Olympics Near

The 1996 Ontario Special Olympics Spring Games are coming May 2 - 5, 1996. The organizing committee is hoping the games go smoothly and are expecting to break even in the fundraising area. They are currently $50,000 short of the $400,000 needed to stage the Olympic Games. The volunteers are the mainstay of the Games with over 300 people already volunteering their time and services.

YOUR INVESTMENTS

By Luke Bedard

Setting Your Financial Goals

With the hustle and bustle of daily life, most of us have little time to consider long-term goals, such as how we can save the money for the down payment on a house, or whether there will be enough left over for our children's education.

That's why it's important to take the time to think about your future, to think about your long-term goals and what you'll have to do to achieve them.

To set financial goals, your first step is to establish your net worth, the difference between your assets and your liabilities. Your assets should include cash savings, Canada Savings Bonds, the cashable portions of life-insurance policies, jewellery, cars, boats, RRSPs and, if applicable, the equity in any property or business.

Once you have determined your assets, add up your short-term liabilities, such as charge accounts, credit card balances, loans and taxes due this year. Then, calculate your long-term liabilities, such as mortgages and business loans.

Always remember to factor in cash reserves - equal to about four months worth of your salary - to cover emergencies, including loss of employment. Also, do you have enough to pay for short-term necessities, like vacations or appliances?

When you have calculated all of your expenses, how much cash is left to invest?

If there isn't very much, then you should seek a way to make both your fixed and liquid assets more productive. This is when you should examine your long-term goals, such as buying a home, a cottage or taking an exotic holiday.

Other things you will want to consider are whether you will want to buy a larger home in the future, or perhaps move to a different neighbourhood. And do you want your children to attend a community college or university, or send them to an out-of-town institution?

Possibly the most important question you will want to ask yourself is: what kind of lifestyle do you expect to lead when you retire and will you have the means to support it?

It's very difficult to pin a precise dollar value to these questions, which is why you may need to consult a financial planner or investment advisor. A professional investment expert can advise you as to how much you'll need to earn to support your long-term goals and will be able to suggest ways in which you might better realize them.

These experts will likely suggest such investments as mutual funds, real estate, or a carefully selected common stock portfolio. Mutual funds, in fact, might be the most attractive option because they are liquid, diversified and managed professionally.

Consider all investment options carefully with the help of a professional financial planner or investment advisor.

Examining these options is an important first step in meeting your long term goals. However, once you have established a plan, have the patience to make it work. You won't become a millionaire overnight, but by reducing your expenses and debts, planning your taxes carefully, and saving and investing, you can make a great deal of headway in realizing your personal financial goals.

On the Money

with Gordon Pape

PAPE'S TIP: "It's worth asking yourself some tough questions about your money."

Spring financial tune-up

While you're spring cleaning your house and planning your garden, you should also take some time to review your financial picture.

THE BIG QUESTIONS

Am I taking advantage of the tax breaks on certain types of investment income? You can minimize your tax exposure by focusing on dividends and capital gains. Keep your interest-bearing securities in your RRSP.

Do I have any international investments? Over the years, international mutual funds have outperformed purely Canadian funds. Keep some money in a good international equity fund. There are plenty to choose from.

Are my assets properly diversified? Never put all your eggs in one basket, whether it's the stock market or GICs. Diversification reduces risk and increases potential returns.

How much is my money earning, including RRSPs? Most people don't know. A 1% difference over 30 years of annual $1,000 RRSP contributions means $20,000 more at the end.

How much money will I need to retire? Over half of Canadians aged 25 will need social assistance to live after retirement. Only 2% of them will be wealthy.

Check the following

- Make sure your financial records are up to date.
- Check all brokerage and RRSP statements carefully for errors.
- Ensure that your RRSP has a beneficiary (your spouse is best).
- Make sure you have all necessary tax documents (filing time is fast approaching).

MUTUAL FUND PORTFOLIO REVIEW

Do you own the right mutual funds?
When was the last time you did a mutual fund tune-up?

Consider these questions:

- Are you holding the right funds in your account?
- Do they suit your investment objectives and risk tolerance?
- How are your funds performing?
- Are you properly diversified?
- Do you have access to up-to-date, ongoing research?

Everyday, you are probably bombarded with ideas, statistics and articles about your RRSP and the investments in it. In the midst of this confusion, it may be difficult to know who to turn to.

TD Bank Joins Special Olympics

Spring Games 1996

Tom Burnside, Manager Toronto Dominion Bank and Trust recently presented the Ontario Special Olympics Spring Games 1996 with a cheque for $1000 as a corporate sponsor of the games.

From May 2-5, 1996, Cornwall is hosting the 1996 Ontario Special Olympics Provincial Spring Games and will welcome 725 athletes and 200 coaches, as well as a large number of family members and friends from across Ontario.

Ontario Special Olympics provides sport skill training and competitive opportunities to approximately 300,000 children and adults who are mentally challenged. It promotes a more active and better quality of life, improves self-discipline, increases confidence and motivation and enhances self-esteem. Simply stated, it provides the opportunity for individuals with a mental handicap to prepare for independent living within their local communities.

Glen Cabaret Presents ...

No Sex Please - We're British. Peter and Frances Hunter, just married, young, attractive, the former with a good job in a bank, a nice flat above it, could reasonably expect to look forward to a calm, peaceful, happy start to their life together. Owing to an unfortunate mistake by Frances, however, they find themselves inundated with pornographic material from the "Scandinavian Import Company" - first dirty postcards, then films, the enormous illustrated volumes. Senior bank officials, Peter's elegant and snobbish mother, and above all the prim, respectable cashier of Peter's bank, all become inextricably entangled in the violent events that follow - brought to a head by the arrival of two devastatingly pretty girls from the same Company, to provide their special, decidedly eccentric services.

It's never too late to insulate!

The warmer weather is finally on its way. But that doesn't mean that you can't take steps to lower your energy bills and crank up your home comfort levels right now. There's no time like the present to upgrade the insulation in your house. You'll find that it not only saves you money, it also makes your home easier to live in, quieter, and cleaner. It's also good for the environment because it reduces emissions of harmful pollutants associated with energy use.

To start with you'll probably want to look at draft proofing, caulking and weatherstripping. Draft proofing keeps cold, dry air from entering the house, and warm, moist air from escaping. It maximizes your insulation's effectiveness, and is the first step in protecting your home from moisture damage. Open cracks and holes, although minuscule, can account for up to 30 per cent of heat loss in the average Canadian home. Warm air leaving the home means energy loss, and energy loss means money loss. Also remember that cold air enters the house through these tiny openings, creating drafts and uncomfortable cold spots.

Caulking is used inside the home on fixed joints - not on moving parts - to keep warm interior air from escaping into cavities in the walls and roof and then outdoors. Weatherstripping is used on moving surfaces such as window sashes, doors and attic hatches. Properly applied, weatherstripping should produce an airtight fit when the unit is closed, while still allowing the window, door or hatch to open or close unimpeded. Caulking and weatherstripping alone can decrease your heating bills by 5 to 15 per cent, and you'll notice an immediate difference in comfort.

Running an energy-efficient home computer system

(NC)—How you operate computer equipment can have a big impact on energy consumption. Here are some tips on running a lean, mean energy-efficient home computer system:

- If you have fallen into the habit of leaving equipment running when it's not in use, now is a good time to change the way you work. Computers, monitors, printers and copiers all burn up energy and your hard-earned money. If you must leave your computer on, to receive e-mail, for example, turn your monitor off.
- Set yourself up to communicate electronically, using your PC and a modem. This will reduce paper consumption and save you money
- Take advantage of power management devices that automatically turn equipment on and off as required: They'll save energy, and reduce the wear and tear on your machine. They'll also help keep your computer area cooler.
- Try storing information electronically. If you must add a hard or CD ROM drive, choose the internal option. External drives require their own power supply, which increases energy usage.
- Recycle as much of your supplies as possible: Buy recycled paper and printer cartridges, and when the time comes to replace your PC, consider donating it to a school, or find out if the manufacturer accepts their used products back.

For more information about how to purchase and operate an energy-efficient home computer system, write to Energy Publications, c/o Canada Communication Group, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0S9, or check the Internet at http://Hypernet.on.ca/nrcan

THE HEATING Edge

Hydronic heating system meets family's needs

When Marilyn and Henry Van Heesch built their new home, they investigated their options: forced air or hot water? They chose the latter, and decided to install a hydronic combination underfloor and baseboard heating system.

In place of a traditional furnace, they purchased a boiler that stands less than three feet high. The compact system meets all of the heating needs of the family of four in their 2,200 square foot country home located near Lucknow, Ontario. The system also provides more hot water for kitchen and baths than the household can use.

The oil-fired system is estimated to cost the family less than $500 for heat and hot water this year.

Each area of the house has its own zone control, to maximize flexibility and energy savings. Warm air is circulated using a small pump from the heat source to a distribution manifold, and then to each zone. Heat is radiated from floors or small floor-level baseboard radiators, providing a draft-free, clean and quiet system, say the Van Heeschs, with no hot and cold spots and minimal heat loss through the roof.

Hydronic systems are designed to function most efficiently with weather-responsive controls which carefully meter and proportion the distribution of heat in each room, according to the Hydronics Marketing Group, a national association of hydronic equipment manufacturers. This results in no excessive bursts of overheated air, and no clicking or banging noises sometimes heard when furnaces start and stop.

In addition to comfort, the straight-forward installation and risk-free operation made an underfloor system an easy choice for the family. The chance of tubing failure is minimal, since the piping is continuous and there are no joints which could break open. Shifting or cracking of concrete will not affect tubing, and the closed loop radiant floor system contains limited amounts of water.

CORNETT SATELLITE AND ANTENNA SET SATELLITES STRAIGHT

MIKE CORNETT

Big Dish vs Mini Dish

"Big Dish" satellite started as a 12 foot diameter dish (Parabolic Satellite Antenna) back in the '80s and is now down to a 6 foot diameter dish which can be reposition to acquire any of the approx. 20 different satellites, resulting in up to 480 possible channels.

The "mini dish" is a relatively new system which utilizes either an 18 inch or 24 inch dish and features digital technology. There is a monthly (or annual) fee for accessing all channels (similar to Cable TV).

Expressview 24" Mini Dish

This is a Canadian, direct-to-home system, which is not yet up-and-running. Expressview are owned by Cancom(19%), WIC-Western (14.3%) with the remaining 66.6% split equally between Tee-Comm and Bell Canada's parent, BCE inc. Tee-Comm officials have admitted having problems with developing new technology, but have confidence in their product. As if this is not enough, ANIK E1, the satellite of choice for Expressview lost some solar panels and as there is no space available on ANIK E2, Expressview currently have nowhere to transmit their programming, even if they did get up-and-running. A former Expressview representative has suggested that it will be at least 2 years before we see any direct-to-home product from Expressview, if at all.

Power Direct 24" Mini Dish

Power Direct is the only other company licensed in Canada for direct-to-home service (along with Expressview), although neither are on the market. They are owned by Power Corp along with their US partner, Direct TV, but have pulled out of the business because of the various regulations being imposed by the Canadian Government, for instance a "black out" of any sports or special events also being carried by any of the major networks (CBC, CTV, CBS, NBC, ABC, FOX, PBS) - same channels as applies to cable TV plus the government is insisting that the direct-to-home service be priced at the same level as cable.

Direct TV 18" Mini Dish (RCA)

Direct TV are the only successful direct-to-home product currently operating in North America. They are a US company, owned by Hughes Corp and General Motors, with RCA, Sony, Panasonic, Hughs and Toshiba involved in the manufacturing end. They started operations in 1994 and now have over 1.1 million subscribers, with approximately 100,000 of these in Canada and capable of offering up to 250 channels.

The basic package at under $11 US per month offers 8 network channels including FOX, 7 movie channels and a gazzillion audio channels. Other packages and channels are available, at various price levels, which would provide things like ALL of the Sunday NFL games, or every NHL game on each night. This is what is commonly known as the "grey market", which is not considered to be illegal in Canada (nor is it considered to be totally legal - thus the phrase "grey"), as long as you do not get the pay per view channels. The dishes are sold quite legally in Canada, but to get the programming you must have a US mailing address (provided for a fee), a system which has worked for almost a year now with no problems and with a restriction of no pay-per-view.

Cornett Satellite and Antenna have the RCA dish available for approximately $1,100 CDN (fully installed), but don't be misled by dealers who tell you that you can get the pay-per-view channels in Canada. You need a phone line hook up to get it, and as soon as you try to order, you may be cut off from all transmissions, including your basic package.

Big Dish (C Band Dish)

The Big Dish started in the '80s, with 12 foot diameter dishes and virtually free programming provided through decodres. There is now a "new" descrambling board available, called VCII Plus, which does not require constant updating. Cornett Satellite and Antenna have been suggesting that our clients upgrade to the VCII Plus board since 1992. Please note that the old VCII board needed updating almost every month, and in some cases, daily.

There are around 2.4 million big dishes in North America that upgraded and are gladly paying for the programming. The size is now down to a 6 foot diameter dish, so you can see that the technology continues to advance. There are more than 100 free channels and another 40 to 50 "occasional" channels which are available without additional fees. You can susbscribe to almost 100 more specialty channels (sports, movies, music, adult, etc). For less than half of the price of cable, you can receive 5 times more movie channels plus get over 100 free channels.

With all this background, which one is for you, big or mini? A lot comes down to personal choice and preference.

The big dish offers more "free channels (approx. 150), more total channels (approx. 250) and is capable of up to 480 channels. It has been around since the early '80s, so is a "proven" product. The "newer" VCII Plus chip (descrambler board) should last well into the next century, with some exceptions for niche programming. The big dish requires 1 to 3 days for proper installation (eg. pole or roof mounted; distance from house; wiring in house - hidden or exposed) and the initial cash outlay is more than the mini dish, but monthly fees are less.

The mini dish has digital laser disk quality picture and CD quality audio. It offers 109 TV channels, 29 audio and 50 PPV (pay-per-view not currently available in Canada), with potential for 250 channels. The basic monthly fee is less than cable TV and it requires 2 to 3 hours for proper installtion. The initial cost is less than big dish, but monthly fees are higher.

What's cheaper, pizza (mini dish) or big satellite? Over the long term, C-band (big dish) is cheapest, then pizza, then cable. If you already have a C-band system, the best return is to get a VCII Plus decoder. If you are starting from nothing, pizza is cheaper over the short term.

Our professional advice and best installs are just one of the ways we can serve you at Cornett Satellite and Antenna, which is always available to answer your questions. Call 613-933-4566.

Attack On Akwesasne: Martelle Not All Wrong

PERSPECTIVE

By Bob Roth
SEAWAY NEWS

I call 'em as I see 'em. That's why, despite some of my past columns, I wish to come to the partial defence of Cornwall Mayor Ron Martelle. During his latest bout of hoof and mouth disease, Martelle suggested the army be sent to Akwesasne to clean up the smuggling issue.

Once again, his language is extreme to the point of ridiculous. If he would keep the lid on his lip and turn down the heat of hysteria, the kernels of truth often resident in his arguments might not be popped out of the pot of propriety and onto the floor of obscurity with such regularity.

Martelle suggested bringing in the army after a major RCMP smuggling bust in which a number of Akwesasne residents were arrested.

The mayor told the Ottawa Sun in an interview that officials should concentrate on activity on the Mohawk reserve.

"The laws apply to every person regardless of race, creed or where they live," the mayor said. "(The feds) just don't want another Oka or Gustafsen Lake. And that's not right."

In a broadcast interview, the mayor continued his thought-line by suggesting the army be used to "clean up" Akwesasne.

Needless to say, the suggestion brought howls of protest from Akwesasne Grand Chief Russell Roundpoint - not surprisingly since the chief has had to endure several other rantings from the mayor in the past, most notably Martelle's comparing himself to Custer being "ambushed" at the Little Big Horn.

Setting aside the rhetoric, however, Martelle does raise a legitimate concern about the political pussy-footing that has gone on around the smuggling issue centred on Akwesasne. While it is true that natives are not the only people involved in this criminal activity, there is no disputing the fact that the reserve is a staging area for much of the international "trade" in contraband.

Look what Cornwallites have had to endure over the past several years - nightly gunfire on the St. Lawrence River, police officers standing on the shore and literally watching battles taking place on the water and refusing to act out of fear for their own lives, warnings by officials that legitimate recreational boaters should not venture onto the river after dusk.

Martelle is quite correct that this situation would never have been allowed to continue had we been dealing with a non-native community.

Can you imagine people in Ottawa being told not to use the Ottawa River or Torontonians being told to stay off Lake Ontario? I don't think so.

While it would be unfair to tar all natives with the same brush, there is simply no escaping the fact that Akwesasne is not a typical community. Show me any other community in Canada where the police station is shot up, where the OPP are afraid to patrol, or where the mayor (chief) and scores of his supporters had to evacuate their homes because they were on a death list? That is the kind of criminal behaviour that has been allowed to run rampant on the reserve.

One editorial writer in pooh-poohing Martelle's call for armed intervention, also sarcastically posed the question: "And what about smuggler's alley which can be accessed from the U.S. shoreline? Does the mayor propose that the Canadian Navy be called in to patrol the river?"

Frankly, that's not a bad idea. Why shouldn't honest, hard working people feel safe on their own river?

In short, Mayor Martelle has a point. But as usual, his verbosity has vitiated his veracity.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bob Roth Insensitive and Lacking Knowledge

Dear Editor:

We are writing in response to a recent (March 3) article in the paper by Bob Roth. We are appalled and outraged at his insensitivity, lack of knowledge, defensiveness, sexism and racism.

There are so many things in his article which are absurd it is hard to know where to begin. We will however start by saying that it has been a while since we have seen such blatant misogyny written in a newspaper.

There are a few other points that we would like to mention in response to his article:

• There is no such thing as "reverse sexism". "Sexism" is the systematic discrimination perpetuated through violence, exclusion and economic exploitation (to name but a few).

• It is a well founded fact that over 90% of sexual assaults are committed by men on women, female children and male children.

• To compare the impact that a headline in a newspaper article had regarding brain cells, to that of the impact of a racist or sexist headline, completely negates the years of oppression that many of us have survived.

• His comment about the hypothetical situation where " ... women and minority groups trampled each other in their combined rush to file a complaint" entirely trivializes the hard work that so many of us have had to work for to have our rights recognized and protected.

• His problem with the names of rape victims being kept out of the public sphere during a court case illustrates his obvious lack of awareness, knowledge and sensitivity about the effect of surviving sexual assault, of reporting it to the police and going to court, of having your name in the paper and your classmates/ coworkers/ neighbours, etc. knowing about what has happened to you.

• Only 6% of sexual assaults are ever reported to the police and only 1% result in a conviction. There are less false reports made of sexual assault than there are false reports of robbery.

• His misinformed attempt at attacking the realities of wife battering is just that - misinformed. I wonder why he is so quick to graciously accept the research by an American sociologist than he is the decades of research by government agencies, Canadian academics, service providers, etc.

• The statistic "one in ten" was "used" in information about wife battering - not sexual assault as he so "boldly" pronounces.

• Does Bob Roth really believe that sexually harassing women at work is not violence? What is violence but a violation of your person, a violation of your right to be in any setting without being attacked - whether verbally or physically. Many women and men who have experienced sexual harassment talk about it as a form of violence. The Human Rights Commissions across Canada recognize this - as does many other agencies, private corporations, etc.

• Bob Roth may be correct on one point - there are not enough services for men. Men who are sexually abused, for instance, do need service. But to talk about this by putting down the services for women, is petty and trite. It also ignores the decades of hard work that women have had to do in order to have services for women and children who are abused. It is of no doubt that if men do half as much work to get such services they will succeed.

• If Bob Roth had looked more clearly at the flyer, the "cartoon" he refers to was not a cartoon. It was a drawing by a boy who had been beaten by his father. How dare he criticize this and negate it by calling it a cartoon. Maybe the boy would have drawn a women beating him is he had been beaten by a woman.

This will undoubtedly be the last time we read anything by this "reporter". We sincerely hope the opinions expressed by him do not reflect the opinions of Seaway News.

Sincerely,
Kim Crosbie

Canadians Need To Be Made Aware of Situation

Dear Editor:

If I was the Prime Minister of Canada I would not pat myself on the back on the recent by-elections.

The Liberals made sure they were on safe ground. Can you see Labrador voting Reform in a Liberal province and it being so far from the west where Reform roots are? The two new ministers in sure ridings in Quebec, not much of a race. However, these two will be in a corner when Quebec makes demands on Ottawa. It's the calm before the storm. Where I was really disappointed was in Ontario. It should have been a Reform victory, to tell the government to shape up or you will get the boot.

I have said in the past, Canada is in a mess and let us not be mislead by the remark we are in better shape than anyone else.

That's debatable. I would like to point out what went wrong. Deficit financing started in the Trudeau years: the giveaways, the free loading, the bilingual mess and its costs, the FLQ and its charade, the Petro Canada fiasco, the U.N. which costs Canada billions which is not doing its job and should pull out, and the most recent is the selling of controlling interest of one of our national transportations systems to Laidlaw-Corp. which is rumoured to be controlled by an international organization. It's time Canadians were made aware of the terrible situation they are in.

Right here in Cornwall the local Armouries are slated to be closed which the taxpayers are paying a huge rent yearly for, plus other charges for a building on Water Street to private owners, for people to line up looking for a job. This could be done in a much cheaper building. But these sort of deals were the norm for the two old parties. Thus the huge debt and deficit.

However, Canadians are nice-easy going people who pay huge pensions to the people who mismanaged all of our laws. Unless Canadians wake up and elect a government who will change all this, laying off people is not the answer. I always said there are too many, hundred thousand dollar a year people and not enough twenties. Since Canadians are going to pay a hell of a price and it won't be the rich it will be the middle income and poor, I say to elected people, take a stand - this is what you were elected for or have you no conscience?

The Root Cause of Today's Social Evils

MEANWHILE...

Fred Sagel

This is a tale that illustrates a good point.

She is a lawyer in her mid-30's, a litigator enjoying a good income. He has a less remunerative job in the communications field. They were high school sweethearts who married young (23 and 22) and so have been together for about 15 years. The marriage has produced four children in age from 8 to 2.

During the last few years, the couple has experienced marital difficulties. Their communications had all but broken down and neither felt particularly happy. It was sometime during this period that the husband found himself a 24 year old girlfriend. It wasn't long before his presence at home became erratic. Sometimes, he would just leave without giving any notification at all and return just as unexpectedly.

Then came the money. Paying her bills one month, the wife came across a monumental credit card bill for a weekend at a luxurious nearby resort. Fancy dinners, elegant hotels and expensive gifts had been showered on the husband's girlfriend. Then, to her great amazement, the wife learned that the children's college funds had been raided to permit the husband to wine and dine his lady friend.

Even though all of this took place, the wife begged the husband to go with her to marital counselling. He said no. He said he wanted a trial separation. She really had no alternative but to agree. That lasted for about two or three months when, one day, the husband told the wife he had taken his girlfriend, along with the children, to a family reunion. He said that his family loved his girlfriend and he tried to argue that the children liked her too.

But despite what the husband says, the children have been traumatized by the distress of the parents. The 8 year old is receiving professional counselling for depression. The rest are acting out their anger. The wife has become almost anorexic.

What is the point of all this? Well, until the early 1960s, most Canadians had told pollsters that it was best for unhappy couples to stay together for the sake of the children. But that was before the culture of narcissism had firmly taken hold. Today, majorities say the opposite.

Marriage - once seen as a sacrament - is now viewed as a path to personal fulfillment and happiness. Almost the second it fails to produce sufficient benefits, divorce becomes the ready answer.

I know the two people involved in this scenario. But, like anyone else, I do not know anything about the relationship that existed inside the marriage. I can say, however, that the husband is choosing the selfish option. Unless he was being physically assaulted (which almost seems incredulous to me) his duty is to his family. By refusing to enter into marriage counselling, he affirms his indifference to virtues like fidelity, self-sacrifice, honour and responsibility.

Walking out on his children should exact such a terrible price in social stigma. He should be told so by his employer. Friends should act accordingly and tell him so. In short, he should be treated as if he had been discovered to harbour Mark Fuhrmanesque qualities.

But it is exactly because modern society makes no such judgements - even our law enshrines "no fault" divorce - that many married people feel free to betray the most fundamental trust that will ever be lodged in them - that of their children.

The breakdown of the family is the root cause of many of today's social evils. It is the very reason why some children cannot do well in school. It is what causes them so much upheaval that they have feelings of inadequacy. It is what causes them to become lost on the road of life. Society suffers terribly for it.

Easy divorce may actually increase the sum of adult unhappiness. If marriage is seen to be impermanent, husbands and wives are less likely to make the kind of emotional investment, sacrifice and time commitment that are the true guarantors of satisfying relationships.

Stigma is the most powerful weapon available to control untrammeled selfishness among adults with children. But changes in the law would help too. Return the concept of fault. And require couples with children to wait a minimum of two years before a divorce is actually granted. Help people to understand that true happiness comes from doing what is right, not just what is pleasurable.

SEAWAY NEWS

Well, it took it's sweet time coming, but spring is finally here. That means it's time to get off the couch I've been bivouacked on all winter and get down to some serious exercise.

I thought I might take up hiking. Nothing serious. No assaults on Everest or treks up the flanks of Kilimanjaro. Just some languid four or five mile saunters through the bush to listen to the birds and catch the scenery.

That's what I thought - until I mentioned it to a Yuppie friend of mine. He looked dubious. "You've got the proper boots of course," he murmured.

Boots? Well, I thought maybe I'd just throw on my old running shoes and ... He shook his head in disapproval. "You'll need proper boots. Now, will you be day hiking or going off-trail?"

I wasn't sure.

"Going up the talus slopes? Crossing snowfields?" I ... hadn't thought about it, really. I just wanted to go for a walk...

"You can get away with nylon-leather boots for short hikes," he persisted. "But I recommend all leather-uppers with reinforced soles fitted with grooves for attaching crampons for all-round hiking. Plus you really should think about Gore-Tex liners to improve your waterproofing."

He had lots more advice. He told me I should always wear two pairs of socks inside my boots: a thin, synthetic liner of some miracle fabric like polypropylene under a medium/heavy-weight hiking sock made of a combination of nylon and wool. He said I should carry a half dozen extra pairs of dry socks. I should carry "moleskins" for blisters. I ought to re-waterproof my hiking boots every week or so.

He made it so complicated that I said to hell with it and went back to the couch and watched another episode of "Seinfeld".

It's not just hiking of course ... it's everything. Look at bicycles. When I was a kid everybody rode CCM one-speeds. There were no gears, no brake cables, no spaghetti noodle tires that twisted into pretzels at the first pothole they hit. Those old clunkers weren't fast, but they were virtually indestructible. We left them out in the rain and the snow, barreled along on them down bumpy paths and railroad tracks. We rode them off ramps, over culverts, along dry creek beds - even off the dock and into the swimming hole. You couldn't hurt them.

Then the fancy foreign bikes came along. First the three speed, then five and ten and fifteen-speed beauties. They were lightning fast, light as a tuft of dog hair - and about as solid as a politician's promise. That didn't matter. They were sexier than our clumsy old one-speeds, and like suckers we fell for them.

Now of course there are mountain bikes, which combine the features of the racing bike with some of the sturdiness of the old one-speeds.

The difference is, the new mountain bikes cost twenty times more than the old one-speeds did.

Which means they are attractive to thieves. Which means you have to take off the front wheel and lock it to the bike and tuck the entire seat under your arm every time you leave them.

Nowadays, a decent bike lock costs more than I ever paid for a CCM one-speed.

I think there's a big buck to be made by bringing back the old, utilitarian one-speed bike. Call it the Volkswagen bug of bicycledom. Cheap, simple and reliable. Sure, you can't ride them up a mountainside - or even a very steep hill. So what? Get off and walk the bike up. It beats courting a coronary and going crazy trying to find your seventeenth-lowest gear.

As for those hiking boots, I don't think I'll be buying them any time soon. I'm more interested in opening a local chapter of a club that's very popular in California.

It's called the East Bay Barefoot Hikers Club. Club members do all their hiking sans polypropylene, nylon/woolen weave or any other kind of sock. Without shoes, in fact. They claim that actually having the bare bottoms of your feet in touch with the trail constitutes a much deeper, more satisfying hiking experience.

Come to think of it, going barefoot is another thing we used to do a lot as kids.

One speed bikes. No boots.

Maybe we were a lot smarter than we knew.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Helping The Less Fortunate

Dear Editor:

In January I went to Haiti; not as a tourist, I don't think anyone goes to Haiti as a tourist anymore, even though it is a beautiful country. After 150 years of dictatorship and mis-management, it is a violent, unhappy, poverty stricken land where 50% of babies die before then are ten years old, and if you live to be 55 you are lucky. The slums of Port-au-Prince, the capital, inhabited by half a million people, are comparable in misery to those I have seen in Bombay and Calcutta. The countryside, denuded of trees, is bare and barren.

As Canadians we have a proud tradition of caring for the less fortunate people of the world. This is true of Haiti. Our peacemakers and the R.C.M.P. who are training the Haitian police force, are helping hundreds of homeless children. They provide food, water trucks for showering, bedding and medical help. They build schools and pave yards. Workers from various Canadian Churches set up projects. Two people I know from Cornwall went to help build a church. Non-governmental agencies like Save the Children - Canada, work in the countryside teaching farming methods, re-forestation and health care. We can be proud to be Canadian. I was, when I saw a Canadian flag flying in front of an orphanage packed with nearly a hundred children rescued from the streets of the city.

We can't all go to the Third World and work with Mother Teresa, but we can do something. Come to the Save The Children Annual Fundraising Luncheon at St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall on Friday, April 26th from 11:30 am to 1:30 pm. You can lunch on soup and homemade pies, chat with your friends and generally have a good time. Every penny raised will go to Haiti. A homeless street kid will go to one of the shelters and have rice and beans because you care.

Yours Sincerely,
Sylvia Whitaker

Operation Deadbolt

The Cornwall Police Service recently concluded a successful three week Joint Forces project with local O.P.P. detachments, called Operation Deadbolt, which targeted the rash of break and enters into residences and motor vehicle thefts in the area.

The team consisted of six (6) officers from the Cornwall Police Service and three (3) from the local O.P.P. detachments.

As a result of the project, six (6) adults and seven (7) young offenders were charged with a total of twenty (20) criminal offences ranging from possession of stolen property to breach of probation charges.

Three stolen vehicles were recovered, with a value totalling $65,000. Approximately $5,000 in property stolen from local residences was also recovered, which included the recovery of a .38 calibre handgun from a prior break and enter.

The co-operation received from our community during this operation, was instrumental to its success. We extend our appreciation to the citizens for their assistance.

The success of this operation has identified the need for more projects, which will hopefully be initiated by our service in the future.

Q: I would like to join taekwondo, but I heard that the classes are very competitive and I am more into social stuff. Will it be hard to make friends?

A: This is a good question! Training is not competitive among our own students. However, that doesn't mean there is no competition. Some students choose to compete with their friends but it is healthy competition. Most of our students train for their own personal gains. Our school is a very close knit organization. All our students get along well and we promote friendship in the club. We have social events for the members of our school throughout the year. Our training is geared for family and friends. Q: I would like to use a dark paint on my walls, but am afraid it will make the room look dim and small. What should I do?

CARMELA GRIFFIN

A: Deep, dark saturated colour can take your breath away, but it takes guts, too. Most people opt for light coloured walls with dark accents in their furniture or fabrics. But there's no reason why you can't take the usual combination of light and dark and reverse it. Dark walls will give you a much more dramatic effect as well as make your room look warm and cosy.

First of all, start with a room that had adequate natural light. Create a balance for the walls through liberal use of light-toned fabric or furnishings. Paint woodwork white or cream. For even more drama, add crown mouldings - also painted white or cream. You can even frame your artwork with large white or cream mats.

Any of these ideas will provide a natural contrast to the room's dark, dramatic colour

Q: What are the most common reasons that people have for pre-arranging their funerals?*

A: Most people pre-arrange their funeral services because

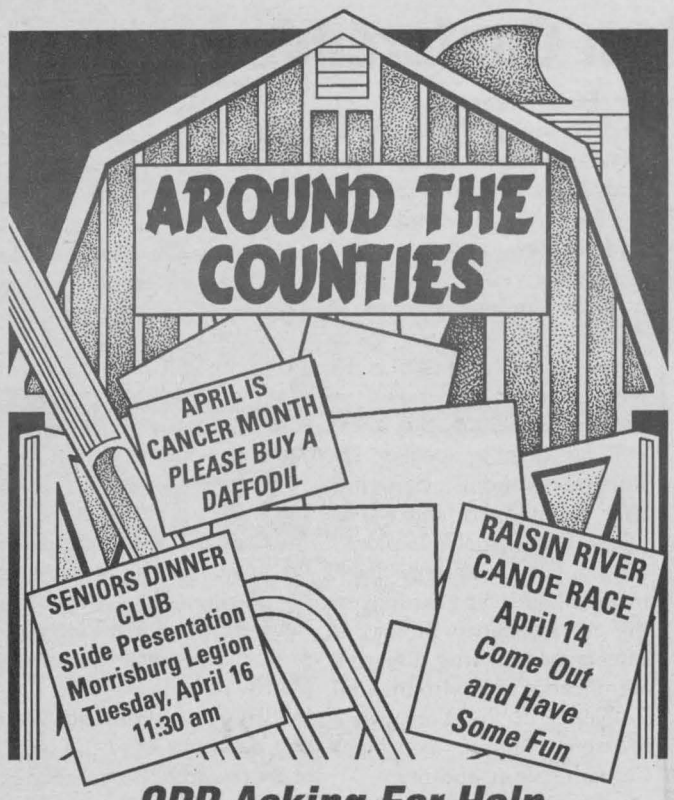
1) they like to have their affairs in order

2) they have definite preferences about their funeral services

3) they want their families to be informed

4)they like the peace of mind knowing there are adequate funds to cover funeral expenses.

Pre-paying the funeral is an important part of pre-arrangements - allowing you to pay for the services at current prices. This provides protection from inflation and assures adequate funds for future payment of the service.



OPP Asking For Help

Recently the OPP Long Sault, Winchester and Morrisburg detachments have been combined. A name for the new administrative detachment is needed and the OPP will award a plaque to the person who submits the winning detachment name. The contest is open to all residents of Stormont and Dundas Counties and the only requirement is that the name accurately reflects the history of the two counties. Entries must be received by June 30th, 1996 and may be dropped off at Winchester, Morrisburg or Long Sault detachments to the attention of Prov. Const. J.W. Doiron.

The twenty third annual Raisin River Canoe Race takes place this Sunday, April 14th. The race begins in St. Andrews and winds its way through to Martintown and then on to Williamstown where there will be an awards ceremony and dinner for the participants. Approximately 300 canoeists are expected for the race this year, which begins at 12 noon with the last canoe leaving the starting line at approximately 1 pm. Even though there are many canoeists from outside the area that compete, it seems that the local residents come out on top more often. The event is truly an international one. The St. Lawrence, one of the world's great river systems is shared by Canada, the United States of America and the Mohawk Community at Akwesasne. The Conference is co-hosted by St. Lawrence Aquarium and Ecological Center Inc. of Massena, New York, the University of Ottawa Institute for Research on Environment and Economy, and the City of Cornwall.

The Conference theme is "C'est l'environ qui nous meme" which means "it is the environment that takes us there". Launching the event will be keynote speaker Dr. Roberta Bondar, Canada's first woman in space. The many topics to be explored during the Conference itself include Landscape Ecology of the St. Lawrence, Biological Effects Monitoring, Relative Significance of Environmental Problems in the Cornwall - Massena region, Sediment Contamination, and more.

Speakers of note include Gail McDonald, Administrator , St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation and former Chair of the Interstate Commerce Commission. HOROSCOPES

April 14 - 20

Aries – March 21/April 20
Avoid discussing money with loved ones, especially if it has been a touchy topic lately. Resist the temptation to break plans with a friend. Even if socializing seems inconvenient now, you'll have more to gain if you stick to the original plan. An unforeseen obstacle may delay travel plans.

Taurus – April 21/May 21
Try to make the best of an unpleasant situation early this week. You'll see that a positive attitude can work wonders. Don't let financial woes get you down. A sound plan will get you where you want to be. A new hobby provides a pleasant diversion. Shocking news comes on Friday.

Gemini – May 22/June 21
Look before you leap when it comes to large purchases. The overzealous Gemini could wind up in a sea of regret. Overloading your social calendar may be a mistake. Leave time for domestic chores and quiet moments at home. Offer a kind ear to a friend who's down in the dumps.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
Stop worrying and have some fun! Get out of your protective shell and live a little. Really, it's not so bad! A friend who has disappointed you in the past will do something to redeem him/herself. Even if you decide to forgive, don't forget. A look ahead gives you something to be happy about.

Leo – July 23/August 23
An event you have had your heart set on could suddenly be cancelled. You may want to make a back-up weekend plan. A new love interest may promise more than (s)he delivers. Instead of wearing your heart on your sleeve, play it cool for a while. An out-of-town visitor brings good news.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22
Escape daily doldrums by delving into a novel or indulging in a favorite hobby. Pamper yourself when you can, especially if you have a busy schedule ahead. Someone you meet this week will give you good financial advice. Don't just shrug it off. A family member has good news.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23
You may have to read between the lines to understand what a loved one is trying to tell you. This is especially true if you're dealing with a Scorpio. A challenging work project will get your creative juices flowing. You'll have the opportunity to show off your talents. Give it your all! Another Libra plays a role on Wednesday.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22
If you're a typical stubborn Scorpio, you probably don't like change. But this week, you may find it inevitable. Instead of fighting it, try to make it more positive. A heart-to-heart conversation will make you see a friend's motives more clearly. Good news comes in three's this week.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec21
Worries regarding a family member will be alleviated by Wednesday. Keep a close watch on valued possessions this week or something you need could be misplaced. If you're looking for a new job, Thursday will be a lucky day. Be sure to dress your best when meeting potential employers.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20
Diplomacy will be needed at work this week, especially if you are in a management-type position. A mid-week change of routine will provide a nice diversion. You'll realize that you need more variety in life. Patience will be a virtue in a family discussion. Keep an open mind.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18
Trust your instincts when it comes to an important decision. Don't let anyone sway your opinions. An unexpected invitation will give you something to look forward to this coming weekend. A fellow Aquarian may be the cause of aggravation later in the week. Avoid explosive confrontations.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
Just when you think you got a lucky break, something changes to turn things around. Take heart. A few pleasant surprises await. In matters of love, you may find that you're giving far more than your getting. It may be time to voice your concerns. Children add diversity to the weekend.

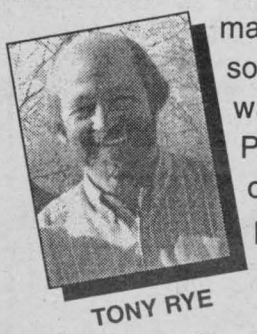
Ryber Promotions 1st ANNIVERSARY

This new "Ad" venture began one year ago when Tony Rye and Eugene Bergeron decided to team up and combine their talents, provide great service, make a little money and have some fun along the way. This was the start of Ryber Promotions, a company not only in the business of selling products but also of selling ideas.

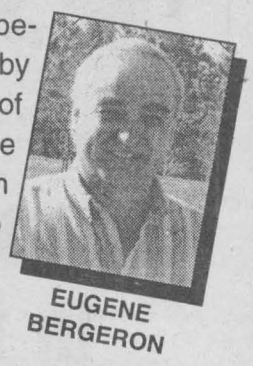


TONY RYE

Because "Name Awareness" is the name of the game, being able to provide personalized, imprinted items from literally thousands of possibilities means that Ryber Promotions will keep your company's name in your customer's mind.

Ryber Promotions will supply advertising and promotional product needs of companies and clients both big and small. With in-house computer graphics offered at not extra charge, the company is well-rounded and competitive.

Eugene brings with him eight years of expertise in speciality advertising, preceded by over fifteen years in the field of sporting goods. He is the consummate people-person with the gift of being able to talk his way into (or out of) anything! Call Eugene anytime at 938-2454.



EUGENE BERGERON

Tony has eons of computer behind him and is the graphics specialist who also takes care of the day to day business functions, thanks to St. Lawrence College's Business Accounting program from which he graduated with distinction in 1993.

MELANIE DE ROCHIE
TIM THOMPSON

Rounding out the team are Tim "Dooley" Thompson, a newcomer to the advertising business with a strong desire to find new and innovative items for his customers, and Melanie De Rochie, recently returned to the job she had the "most fun with" after a ten-year absence, and whose belief is that every customer is a "big" customer.

Initially, Ryber Promotions provided its services to Cornwall and the surrounding counties but has since spread its wings into other areas of Ontario, Quebec and the Mohawk Territory of Akwesasne (Tim's domain). Further expansion is currently being considered.

Whenever you need a product to promote your business or company, celebrate an event, reward or honour your employees or perhaps even commemorate a family reunion, Ryber Promotions has an extensive range of custom designed products to suit your every need; from toothpicks to timepieces, with T-shirts, sweats, caps, mugs, etc. as very popular items in between. Anything is possible, with the only limits being your (or their) imagination, and the size of your budget.

With their obvious enthusiasm and the unlimited resource materials available to them, Ryber Promotions is here to stay and the "Ad" venture will continue.

The Final Countdown

by Ken McLaughlin
Director of Public Relations

To date, it's been incredible playoff hockey. One goal victories, at times close checking, other times wide open, bone crunching hits, spectacular goaltending. The 1995/96 CJHL final series between the Gloucester Rangers and your Cornwall Colts, high emotion hockey.

The Cornwall Colts need your support as we battle a very good team, who has more than proved they deserve the CJHL title and a trip to Halifax. When you attend a Colts game this week you're encouraging a great mix of local and out of town players as they strive to represent Cornwall and area on a national scale. We ask for your support, whether you enjoy hockey on a professional, junior or minor level. When it comes down to the bottom line, your Cornwall Colts represent you. All we ask is that you come to the Civic Complex this week and see what your ambassadors are doing for you. From the high calibre of play, to the prize winning and fun atmosphere, don't rely on what someone tells you, judge for yourself.

Game #5 of the CJHL final series will be played this Tuesday, April 16 at the Civic Complex. The puck drops at 7:30 pm. Get your tickets on Monday at the ticket office, located in the Si Miller Arena, from 10:00 am to 5:00 pm. Tuesday, you can pick up your tickets either at the Si Miller Arena or the Civic Complex. Let's pack the 'Plexw for this important game.

The sixth game of the CJHL final series will take place this Wednesday, April 17 at the Earl Armstrong Arena in Gloucester, at 7:30 pm. For the fans who follow us on the road, thank you. Your support carries the boys.

If a seventh and final game is necessary, it will be played at the Civic Complex, this Friday, April 19 at 7:30 pm.

We'll see you at the game.

The Cornwall Colts would like to take this opportunity to wish coach Bob Hartley and the Cornwall Aces players best of luck in their upcoming playoffs.

Colts playoff hockey, it's edge of your seat time.

OUT of BOUNDS

AVCO Bantams in Nepean

AVCO Bantams travelled to Nepean to take part in the Bantam "A" House League Tournament held at the beautiful Walter Baker Centre in Nepean.

Parents who took in this tournament were treated to the two most exciting games played all year long by the Cornwall AVCO house league team.

In the first game Cornwall AVCO defeated Manotick 3-2. The game ended in a 1-1 tie after regulation time. Claude Leroux provided the goal to send his team into overtime.

Both teams were unable to score in the overtime period, setting the stage for a shoot out. Three players were picked from each team. Cornwall's Dan Martin and Bernard Grenier scored for AVCO while Jeff Lacroix stopped two of the three Manotick shooters.

The second game was almost a replay of the first. The game ended in a 3-3 tie. Dan Martin scored two while Dan Brisebois had one for AVCO. Lynwood scored with 0.34 seconds left in overtime to eliminate the Cornwall team.

The competition in this tournament was excellent. The Cornwall AVCO team played very well and should be very proud of their performance. Job well done guys.

Johnson's Antiques Win Award

Johnson Antique Bantam "B" Aces won the sportsmanship award of the LSMHA Bantam division.

This award shows that playing hard and physical can still be employed with a lot of discipline.

A lot of frustration and turning the other cheek went into this, but most of all this shows that it's a team effort that gets the job done.

Penalties are invididual efforts. A job well done boys. Congratulations from the coaching staff.

Guardian Drug Atom "B" Aces

The bags are stored away, the sticks rest in a corner and we give thanks that the car has made it through the trials of another hockey winter. This report will be the final installment of a season-filled with memories. The play offs will not be among the most cherished of these however, with the Aces winning only once in the 4 game round robin. Fortunately, Coach Alain Savard got the squeaks out of the Blue Machine before going on to a very successful exhibition and tournament schedule.

The last play-off game was in Maxville, on March 7th where the Aces let their guard down to the NGS Braves for a 3-2 loss. Matt Bergeron scored first from Chris Roy's lead and Tony Fourkiotis cashed in a Marc Bernier pass for the other marker. Sylvain Savard was outstanding in nets.

The Aces brought a new intensity to the Maxville rink on March 9th, beginning their post season campaign with a 2-2 tie against the Maxville Atom "A" Minors. Matt Bergeron and Tony Fourkiotis scored again with Ryan Roy picking up an assist. Canterbury hosted the Aces on March 10 in Ottawa. The home team surrendered 3-1 after goals by Marc Bernier, Tony Fourkiotis and by the fiery Oliver McTaggart who was a welcome addition after several games away. Ryan Roy, Tony Fourkiotis, Stuart Cruickshank and Steve Viezel picked up assists. The VanKleek Hill Cougars broke the winning streak, handing the Aces a 3-1 loss at the Civic Complex. Jason Jeeves tucked one of his prettiest goals into the top corner for the lone Cornwall goal. Goalie Sylvain Savard was tough to beat again. The Aces peeked at The Smith Falls Atom Tournament, bringing home the silver medal after a close brush with the gold.

The Orleans Blue Light was the first team to step aside after a convincing 5-1 decision for the Aces. Ryan Roy scored three times, assisted by Terry Maloney and Oliver McTaggart. Jason Jeeves scored on a rebound from Steve Viezel and Tony Fourkiotis put Matt Bergeron's face-off pass into the net. Ryan Roy was MVP.

The Kingston Cougars werethe next challenge and goalie Ryan Prevost stopped them cold. The 2-1 win also featured outstanding defensive play from Terry Maloney, Chris Roy, Steve Viezel and Jason Lepine. Chris Roy scored from the point and Stuart Cruickshank netted the other, set up by Ryan Roy. Tony Fourkiotis was MVP. The Aces lost 5-3 to the South Grenville Rangers in the final. The Aces dominated the first two periods of play with Ryan Roy starting off the scoring with his trademark dipsy-doodles. Tony Fourkiotis found a hole from an impossible angle in the second period and combined with Matt Bergeron for another goal in the second period. The Rangers had a string of third period luck, netting 4 goals in a nail-biting, open net finish. Thanks to managers Paul and Roma Leger and staff for adding that special touch to team activities. Congratulations to coaches Alain Savard, Horace Gravel, Brian McTaggart and trainer Rick Bergeron for a successful season and thank you for your care and patience. No doubt, some of these names will appear together in years to come, but the magic that was the 1995-96 Atom "B" Aces will never be duplicated. We all look forward to the next season when it may appear in a different form.

Natural HEALTH TIPS

The rich foods of the holiday season can stress even the most hale and hearty eater's digestion. A good remedy to have on hand for minor, temporary digestive upset is a bottle of Swedish bitters. Bitters are made of herbs traditionally used to support liver, gall bladder and overall digestive functioning.

Volunteers Our Greatest Natural Resource

Volunteers are the most important resource, community organizations have. The ability of people to work willingly together for the betterment of their community and themselves is a valuable resource.

Volunteers are very special people, whose donation of time and effort, warrant special consideration. National Volunteer Week is April 21 - 27 this year. It is a week to celebrate volunteerism, and encourage people to become involved in their communities.

The image of the volunteer, has changed over time. Gone is the stereotype of the middle-aged housewife, with time on her hands. At the Lung Association, volunteers give of their time, energy and talents, which enables us to successfully run educational programs, and fundraising events.

Most volunteers, quickly discover that in giving of themselves, they make new friends, learn job skills, enhance their self-esteem, increase their knowledge of community organizations and enjoy a sense of personal satisfaction.

Volunteering for The Lung Association has given many the opportunity to become an active part of our community ... people helping people ; but for us, to have had the priveledge of working with these people, has given us the strength and commitment to survive these difficult times, and for this ... we will be forever grateful.

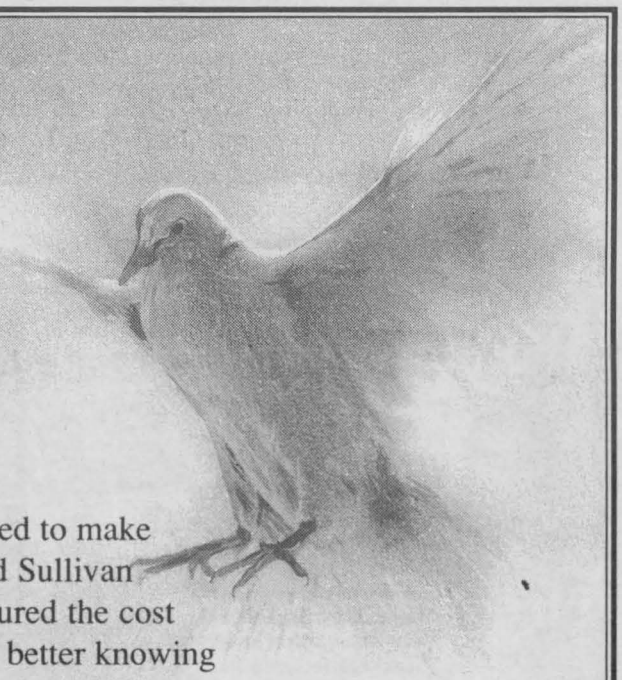
Life After Death



"Sam was only 62 when his heart gave out. His children lived away, and his wife was, of course, terribly upset. As close friends, my wife and I helped Mildred until the children could get here. I remember feeling as much despair for Sam's family as I felt for his passing. Mildred and the kids were overwhelmed with sadness, and things became even more difficult when no one knew what Sam wanted at his funeral.

After helping his family get through what seemed like endless details, my wife and I resolved to make advance funeral arrangements, and spare our children this heartache and frustration. Lahaie and Sullivan showed us how to plan every detail, even the music we each wanted. Our pre-arrangements secured the cost and provided us with a tax-sheltered investment (all interest earned is income tax free). We feel better knowing everything is taken care of so, no one will have to face the difficult decisions that Sam's family endured."

Pre-arrangements make life after death easier to bear for your loved ones. Don't hesitate, call Lahaie & Sullivan Cornwall Funeral Homes today to learn about freezing the costs to avoid inflation and easy installment plans.

Cornwall Welcomes Nickels

Mayor Ron Martelle and John Markell joined owners Marco Derbas and Steve Kamburis to celebrate the opening of Nickels. The friendly, family restaurant atmosphere of Nickels will be a welcome addition to the restaurant scene.

Caller says, "Since welfare recipients in Ontario still receive higher welfare benefits than other provinces, perhaps Social Services should INVESTIGATE THE SPENDING HABITS of the parents who want to give their kids up for adoption because they say they can't make it on the lower welfare benefits."

Lady called to say thanks to WAYNE FROATS, alias "The Phantom Pothole Painter", for making motorists lives better and safer. Many people appreciated your thoughtfulness.

Special thanks to the Freeholder for printing the wrong time (Saturday's edition) for the Rebels game on Sunday, April 7th. I wonder how many other people missed the game!!

What's the best way to cool your tongue after eating a hot pepper?

Drink a cup of milk. The main protein in milk acts a like a detergent, washing away the capsaicin, the substance in hot peppers that is responsible for the "fire".

What better way to instill peace on the playground than to have one of your peers act as a peacemaker. Eamer's Corners Public Schools initiated the "Peacemakers" program at their school a few years ago, and recently named Grade 2 student, DEREK HAWN as the first recipient of the "Peacemaker's Choice Award." He was chosen by fellow peacemakers at his school for his ability to get along with everyone in the playground.

Reader would like to know why one of the doors on the east side of the Si Miller Arena wouldn't open last Thursday night after the Rebels game! It could have been a big problem had there been a fire!!

Re. front page of the Seaway News, Sunday, April 7th edition ... Daffodils are for Welsh origin people only on St. David's Day, March 1st. I know daffodils don't grow in this part of Canada on March 1st, but it is as silly for a non-Welsh person to wear a daffodil any time as it is for a non-Scott to wear a thistle or a non-Irish person to wear a shamrock, a Yorkshireman to wear a red rose or a Southerner a white one. I suppose a Canadian might properly wear a Maple Leaf on Dominion Day, July 1st ... Question for you ... What would an American wear on July 4th? What would a man wear on the 5th of July?

Your Age!
Michael Smelt.

Good luck to GERRY OWEN, former Canada Trust manager, on your new move and career in London.

The "Killer Bee" is here Saturday, April 13th at Archie's from 12 to 2 pm. Hungary bound JONATHAN SCHAEPPER is going to give demonstrations of those special clubs.

On Thursday, April 4th, 7:50 a.m., a lady driving a Ford, lic. #181 YBD parked in the Hotel Dieu handicap parking area in front of the emergency entrance. She then WALKED ACROSS TO THE MEDICAL CENTRE and returned at 8:30 a.m. Thanks to you, you tied up a much needed space for the handicapped. Hope you are proud of yourself ... all to save a $1.00.

When we mess up ... we mess up good, half of the right name with the wrong picture ... apologies to BLAKE HAMBLETON and SCOTT BURTON at Midland Walwyn.

Night 'N Day

Entertainment - Special Events & Restaurant Review - By Bill Gallant

Good weather + good entertainment = another great weekend. Plenty going on in Cornwall and area including the Spring CRAFT SHOW & SALE in Morrisburg. It's presented by the Morrisburg and District Arts and Crafts Association. Open hours for Sunday are between 12 noon and 4:00 pm. Admission is free and there will be door prizes with proceeds to Winchester District Hospital.

They'll soon be here! THE ONTARIO SPECIAL OLYMPICS, Provincial Spring Games that is. The dates are May 2nd - 5th with many pre-events like THE PLATTERS on Friday, April 26, at the Best Western and a SPRING FASHION SHOW on April 30th at Transport Canada Training Institute. For more information or possible sponsorship contact 932-1996.

Also on this Sunday is the breakfast at the R.C.A.F.A. WING 424 on Water Street West. Enjoy a great breakfast between 9:00 am - 12 noon. Sunday, April, 14th is also the date for the 1996, 23rd ANNUAL RAISIN RIVER CANOE RACE. More than 300 canoeists will be taking part in the 35 kilometre course flowing from St. Andrews West to Martintown and then to the finish line at Williamstown. The pre-race breakfast is scheduled for St. Andrews West Parish Hall at 8:00 pm. The Awards Banquet will be at St. Mary's Hall in Williamstown.

Long time musician GARY WATSON invites all his friends and followers to his new location at the CENTRAL HOTEL on Pitt Street. After close to 4 years entertaining at PG's, Gary features a fun Karaoke night starting at 9 pm every Friday and Saturday with some hot new country. The Central is now under new management.

THE SINGLES DANCES at the Navy Club on Sixth Street East are slated for Saturday April 13, 20 and 27th. Also planned for this year is a Beach Party, Sunglasses Night and other fun times.

Because several people have inquired about the new page location for Night 'n Day, I can only refer you to the Seaway News editor. I'm sure the move was made for good reason, but a call to 933-0014 will give you the reason. We simply submit the items for their weekly perusal and printing.

Some first run movies on the big screens this week at the BROOKDALE CINEMAS at the Brookdale Mall. The new Disney animated film James & The Giant Peach will be on in Cinema-1. Richard Gere's latest, Primal Fear is in Cinema 2, and Sgt. Bilko with Steve Martin is in Cinema-3. The weekend matinees will be The Giant Peach, Bilko and The Muppets Treasure Island.

You may want to get your supply of popcorn, refreshments and all those other goodies ready too for the start of the NHL's second season called the Stanley Cup Playoffs. This could be one of the most exciting finales in a long while with a strong Detroit Red Wings squad, the usually potent Pittsburgh Penguins and a couple of other teams that should keep things competitive. Locally you can also enjoy some exciting playoff hockey with the Colts and the Aces. Good luck to all.

Many eager fishermen are getting ready for several tournaments in our area and farther astream. Interested anglers can check out the walleye, bass or pike tourneys through the area marina's or any of the local and area fishing clubs. Great to see some boats already out on the St. Lawrence River for some early tries. If the weather continues to hold true this could also be a great weekend for a leisure trip along the river or through the scenic countryside. Main thing is to just get outdoors and breathe-in some fresh spring air. Happy travels and until next week, G'Day and G'Night.
