Area PLC Has Another Winner

A Napanee area woman went home environmentally-friendly from the Avonmore Fair July 30.

Ursula Barbier of Newburgh was the winner of the 'Cadillac of home composters' in a draw sponsored by the Public Liason Committee of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan.

Composting is the process of letting leaves, grass clippings and kitchen waste turn naturally into a valuable, free source of fertilizer. The composter for the draw was purchased with the assistance of Loblaws.

"Mrs. Barbier was very enthusiastic about her win," says committee co-chair Pat Gregory of Ingleside, one of several volunteer committee members who manned the booth where the draw was held. "She'd been wanting to get a composter for some time and was delighted to win ours."

The Public Liason Committee has been taking its mobile display to area trade shows, craft fairs and agricultural fairs since May. Information on composting, recycling, hazardous household waste and alternatives to hazardous products is available at the booth.

Members also ask visitors to the booth to fill out a brief questionnaire and can answer questions about the current Waste Management Master Plan study underway in Stormont and Glengarry.

"We thoroughly enjoyed our stay at the Avonmore Fair," says Mrs. Gregory. "The visitors to our booth were very interested in what we had to offer and we enjoyed visiting the other booths and seeing all the events. We thank the Avonmore Fair committee for its co-operation."

The Public Liason Committee's mobile display will make its next appearance at the Williamstown Fair August 12 and 13. Another composter will be raffled. Entry in the draw is free and everyone is encouraged to drop by the booth for a visit.

The Community Waterfront Program

The Ministry of Tourism and Recreation recently announced a program which our area should take advantage of. Over the next five years, thirty million dollars will be available to Ontario municipalities with populations under 50,000. These funds will be to redevelop and reclaim their waterfronts for tourism and recreation.

The economic imperatives of another era, placed manufacturing and transportation facilities at the water's edge in much of Ontario, but more and more, towns and cities are awakening to the potential of their previously neglected urban shorelines.

The community waterfront program will stimulate residential and commercial development, leading to major improvements in local economies and significant job creation.

Under this new program, up to five hundred thousand dollars is available to waterside municipalities for the construction or rehabilitation of facilities intended to expand or improve tourism and recreation. Up to fifty thousand dollars is available to a community for planning and feasibility studies.

I believe this program will strengthen the economies of smaller communities, foster healthier lifestyles, and assist the expansion of tourism and recreation potential of the province, particularly, Eastern Ontario.

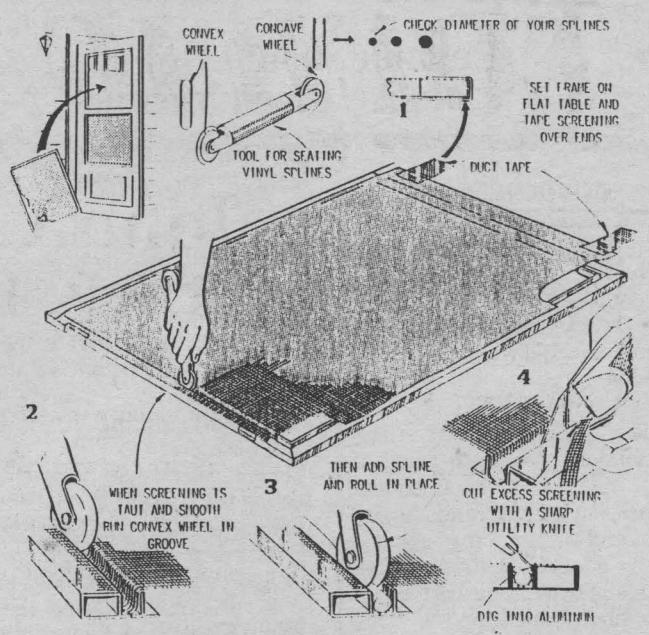
Replacing Screening in Aluminum Doors

One of the many advantages of an aluminum screen door (which is usually a combination screen and storm door) is you need not remove the entire door to replace the screening; just remove the individual section and rest it on a flat surface, preferably at table height for convenient working. You have a choice of two types of screening — aluminum or fiberglass, the latter of which costs about 20 percent less than aluminum.

Many specialty shops rescreen door inserts and the cost is about $25 for a regular 3-foot by 6-foot, 8-inch door. However, you can do the job just as effectively for less than half, which includes the cost of a special screening tool that is used to seat the vinyl spline that holds the screening in place! First, remove the old screening by prying out the vinyl spline material. Plan to use a new spline but make certain it is of the same diameter as the original material because different manufacturers use different size splines and aluminum frames.

Once you have the screening, cut it so it is slightly larger than the aluminum frame, as illustrated, then wrap the ends around the frame. When taut, tape it to the door frame. Start at the top and run the convex wheel of the screening tool to seat the screening in the frame as shown in Figure 2; then set a length of spline material in the groove over the screening and drive it in place with the concave wheel. Repeat this procedure on the opposite end and, after the top and bottom are in place and the screening appears flat and taut, work on the sides. Hold the screening with one hand while rolling the convex end of the tool in the groove to seat the screening; then add the spline material and seat it with the concave wheel. Repeat with the other side. Your excess screening will extend around the perimeter, and to trim it close to the spline, use a sharp utility knife. Draw it along the side, digging with the point of the blade into the aluminum frame rather than the spline, as shown in Fig. 4.



As a reader service, Larry Eisinger has published two HARD-COVER books (No. 101) CARPENTRY AND WOODWORKING and (No.102) PLUMBING AND HEATING. With hundreds of photos and drawings, they will help you with everyday techniques. If you are not completely satisfied, your money will be refunded. The cost of either book is $3.95, plus 70 cents shipping. Send a cheque or money order for $4.75, payable to Eisinger Communications, Inc., to HOME WORKSHOP, Box 158, Staten Island, N.Y. 10314. Also available at a cost of $3.00 is an 8-page illustrated brochure on HOME TELEPHONE INSTALLATION TIPS.

Your Support Needed

Will we let Upper Canada Playhouse die? Poor attendance this year has caused the debt to rise from $20,000 at the season's start to $50,000 now.

Attendance is way down. At the end of the 1988 season the average audience was 160. The three plays this year have averaged 69, 166, and 114. The 166 average was for a short run of "Big Girls Cry".

The theatre management attributes the low attendance to the new location this year ... at Aultsville Hall. "People don't know where it is," and others who "simply enjoyed the drive to the country" especially those from Ottawa.

Lois Rosenquist, the theatre's general manager says they've gone the limit with their backers and are hoping for some sort of emergency funding from arts groups.

It would be a shame in our view if Upper Canada Playhouse folds.

One of the main objects of Upper Canada Playhouse is tourism. People involved in the tourism industry had for years been looking for some attraction that would complement Upper Canada Village and give tourists a reason to stay an extra day. The logic went something like this "Upper Canada Village is a destination point and pulls in a lot of visitors, however after a day's visit the tourist is off to Ottawa, Montreal etc. There has to be a reason for him to stay over."

Upper Canada Playhouse does that for a segment of the market. A lot of work by many people has gone into the Playhouse. It's too good a thing to just let it go. Local municipal governments put a lot of money into tourism, surely the Playhouse qualifies for support.

LETTERS

Secretary General United Nations

Dear Mr. de Cuellar,

I have the honour to address your Excellency under the Optional Protocol of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, to which my country, Canada, is a party. I, as an individual Canadian citizen, have had my individual right of the freedom of expression violated by the provincial government of Quebec, which is an integral part of Canada, by its legislation entitled the "Charter of the French Language" and its action in forbidding me the right to use any language other than French on my commercial sign.

The Quebec Superior Court, The Quebec Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada have all ruled that the actions of the provincial government of Quebec, in denying the use of any other language than French on commercial signs in Quebec, is a violation of an individual's freedom of expression and is contrary to the Canadian Charter of Rights and the Quebec Charter of Human Rights and Freedoms. Premier Robert Bourassa of the Province of Quebec has publicly declared that the legislation enacted by his government is a violation of individual rights and freedoms.

The government of Canada has not used its constitutional authority to rid itself of this legislation violating the individual rights and freedoms of its citizens.

Therefore, I am unable to use any domestic remedies as they all have been exhausted, I respectfully request, sir, that you, as the Secretary General of the United Nations, bring this violation by Canada of Articles 19 and 27 or the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights to the attention of the appropriate bodies of the United Nations including the Human Rights Committee.

I remain yours respectfully,
Gordon McIntyre
Huntingdon, Quebec

PERSPECTIVE By Bob Roth

Canada Should Reject Chinese Blood Money

Most civilized, honourable people were suitably outraged earlier this month when the federal government, through the Export Development Corporation, agreed to give the dictators in China a $100 million loan.

The loan, in turn, will allow the Chinese government to buy telephone equipment from a Canadian company, Northern Telecom.

What makes this announcement so crass, so craven and so contemptuous is that only about a week or so earlier, Canada had voted along with other western nations to have loans from the World Bank cut off to China to protest the brutal repression of the prodemocracy movement in that country.

After the Red Army gunned down student demonstrators in Beijing's Tiananmen Square, External Affairs Minister Joe Clark said it would not be business as usual with China.

There were noble words from Clark and Prime Minister Brian Mulroney about the need to fight for democracy and speak out against the tyranny of the Beijing leaders.

Then — with this eloquent rhetoric still ringing in our ears — Canada makes a loan of its very own to China.

It seems we found something even more important to protect than democracy — money. More specifically, the profits of Canadian business.

Given a choice between protesting the murder of students and making a buck, the Conservative government has opted for the buck. Perhaps that should not be so surprising. It seems there is hardly a week goes by that some Conservative Party member isn't being charged or convicted for fraud, breech of trust, conflict of interest or some other crime related to stealing from the Canadian people.

Why should we think for a moment that the brutal murder of a few Chinese students could possibly dent such well insulated consciences.

It was left to Trade Minister John Crosbie to come up with the most reprehensible comment of all, however.

Crosbie, who treats logic the way a jackhammer treats pavement, totally pulverized Canadian integrity when he stated that Canada might as well lend the money and get the telephone equipment sales because if Canada didn't sell the stuff to the Chinese, somebody else would.

Now doesnt' that reach a new standard in moral fibre?

History is full of such excuses.

Heinrich the plumber: "Well, I might just as well earn money fixing these pipes in the gas chamber or they'll just hire someone else to do it." Etc., etc.

Indeed, if you aren't prepared to do something immoral, there may be someone around who is less principled than yourself and who may be quite prepared to commit the immoral act. But is that a justification for committing the immoral act yourself?

The loan issue is a matter of principle and of conscience — commodities which are obviously out of fashion on Parliament Hill.

The issue is simple. Canada made a moral commitment — through the World Bank — to cut off loans to China. Our leaders made many grand speeches about the need to stand up for democratic principles and denounce tyranny.

Then it came time to put our money where our mouth was.

A Special Event

Parkway Photo and Miss Cornwall have teamed up to raise money for M.D.A.C. All you have to do is bring in your rolls of film for developing any Saturday between now and Labour Day weekend. Mike Williams of Parkway will donate 50 cents for each roll. He is excited and is looking forward to having Laura Barclay, Miss Cornwall present a sizeable cheque to M.D. on Mon. Sept. 5 about 3:15 pm.

Pictured here with Miss Cornwall is the telethon co-ordinator Barry Scarlett. Scarlett likes special events, they get people and companies involved and increases awareness. For information on how to organize a special event call 933-0667.

This is the 20th year of the telethon and 35th year of the M.D. Association in Canada.

How To Store Tires Properly

You've put out the last campfire of the summer. The camping gear is stowed, the tent is neatly folded, and the pictures that captured those special vacation moments are carefully tucked away in the family album. You know it's time to prepare for those cold temperatures and that winter driving.

It is true that many vehicles manufactured today are equipped with all-season tires. And, an all-season tire performs acceptably in most climates and driving conditions by offering quiet, long-wearing performance on dry roads along with wet and snow traction capabilities in winter weather.

However, in areas of excessive snowfall, many consumers still choose to use a snow tire. Snow tires are designed for those specific climates where winter driving commands optimum wet and snow traction capabilities.

If you're a consumer who continues to prefer the performance of a snow tire, it is possible to head off problems by properly storing the regular tires that came off your vehicle. By following these simple rules, you can add to tire life and performance.

- Always store your regular tires in a cool, dry place.
- Make certain that they are stored away from all sources of heat including direct sunlight and electric motors.
- To avoid the possibility of flat-topping, never store tires in an upright position; lay them on their sides.
- When laying tires flat, stack white sidewalls facing each other to ensure that white areas remain clean.
- If you rotate your tires, remember to indicate the wheel positions by using chalk to mark the sidewalls.
- Finally, it's a good idea to remove stones or other objects from tread grooves and to have the tires inspected by an expert for any damage before remounting.

It's Your Business!

If The Proposed Amendments To The Trespass To Property Act Become Law, It Will Be Very Difficult For Business People To Control Their Property In The Future . . .

On February 14, 1989, the Government of Ontario gave second reading of proposed legislation which limits the occupier's discretion to exclude persons from premises such as shopping centres, retail stores, and parks.

Present Law

Under our present law, the owner has the right to control access to his/her premises in return for accepting the responsibility of ensuring public safety.

An owner cannot ask someone to leave simply on the basis of their race, age or ethnicity, as this would be contrary to the Ontario Human Rights Code, which prohibits such discriminatory actions. An owner can, however, request anyone to leave his premises if that person is acting contrary to the owner's interest and endangering the public safety.

Proposed Law

Under Bill 149, this discretionary power is greatly reduced.

While the intention of the legislation is to prohibit discrimination against youth and ethnocultural groups, it in fact goes well beyond this. It will make it very difficult for a property owner or occupier to deal with trespassers. Any effort to do so will tangle all parties up in bureaucratic red tape.

The Trespass To Property Amendment Act 1988

1. An owner must communicate specific "reasonable" rules of conduct for the premises.

2. Should the proprietor wish to remove a person from the premises for thirty days, the following is required:

a) Writting notice stating the reason for removing the person.

b) The trespasser must be informed of the legal rights of defence under this bill.

3. The trespasser can immediately re-enter the premises by simply responding in writing that the rules have not been broken or that the rules are unreasonable. The person must be allowed to remain on the property until the matter is resolved in court.

More, Not Fewer, Confrontations . . .

Unfortunately, instead of lessening tensions and confrontations, Bill 149 will have the opposite effect in the difficult process of removing persons who disturb public premises.

This is what the Trespass to Property Amendment Act 1988 (Bill 149) could mean to you:

— A group of youths enter an establishment and cause considerable unrest.

— The owner or manager feels there is a danger to the public safety.

— The individuals are told to leave and are given written notice that they have broken one of the posted rules (which must be "reasonable and are advised of how they can return").

— The youths return 20 minutes later with a written notice saying that the rule was not reasonable. Under the new law, they can stay.

The Progressive Conservative Party of Ontario stood alone in opposing this law and wants to enlist you help in having the government withdraw this well intentioned but poorly drafted piece of legislation before it receives third and final reading.

How Can I Make My Opinions Known?

1. You or your organization can plan to make a presentation before the committee, or submit a brief in writing.

2. You can contact you local MPP regarding your objections to Bill 149.

3. Please forward your objections to:

FLASH... FLASH... FLASH.. as of today, Cameron's Furniture will no be longer renting movies.

A couple of local "rising stars"...Steve Gardiner & Buddy Taylor ("In & Out") will be the opening-feature for "Glass Tiger" (Capital Records) appearing in Smith Falls on Aug. 13th. "In & Out" also has their own album in the works. Looks like "great things" in store for our local talents!!

Anyone?? For the longest time there has been a bicycle "in repose" at the Steinberg 6th St. exit. Guess it isn't "enticing" if it isn't chained/locked/bolted down, huh?

Not so funny in the funnies... now it's "sexist" comics... males outnumber female characters... women portrayed as fat, ugly & stupid, excessively interested in their appearance while doing all the housework.. & apparently, only the male is portrayed as the "voter" or "the taxpayer"!

Most wanted... reward... the sentencing of Rosemary Rutley (retirement celebrations). See Comm. Events for more info!

Environmentalist, David Suzuki, fired by Toronto Globe & Mail (a Thomson paper) but very quickly picked up by Southam Inc. (publishers of the Gazette & Citizen)

Wonder if Julie Viau is getting nervous yet...the big day coming soon... Aug. 19... What a pretty bride she'll be as she walks towards her future husband, Gilles Theriault. A fairy tale wedding... proud mom, Colette of Viau's Ladies' Wear (Green Valley) contributed her knowledge & flair in the preparations. Best wishes on a perfect day.

40 roses or 40 candles?? Can anyone guess who... & how old... a certain lady Florist will be on Friday, August 18th???

"Hay"! Denis, you better watch out for those hay wagons. They'll put you in a ditch sooner than look at you.

Barry Scarlett... better known as "Mr. Sears"... is busy organizing this year's telethon and encouraging people and companies to organize special events in and around Cornwall.

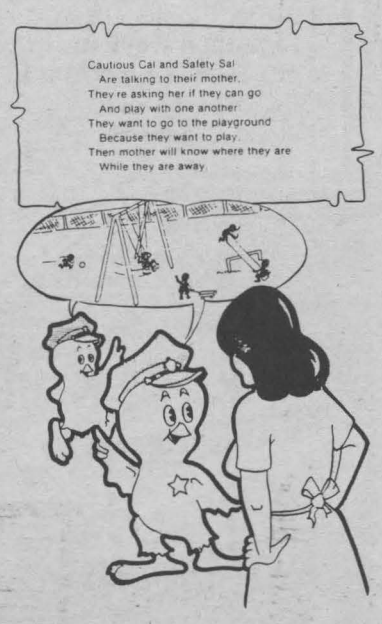
The boys from Lafave Construction weren't smiling after Wednesday night's slow pitch game. The Mitchell's team are on a roll, beating Lafave 11-10 and then beating G.L. Photo last Thursday. Way to go, guys!!

Under the auspices of the MITT Eastern Ontario Economic Development Fund the City of Cornwall and the United Countries have each appointed an Ottawa consulting company, Prospectus, to conduct economic development studies.

Contrary to popular belief...couples who live together before marriage are more likely to divorce than couples who don't cohabitate.

Hooray for director, Bill Emory of the Chamber... who suggested the "novel" approach of looking at the GST white paper before condeming the proposal!

How deep is the sand at Upper Canada Golf Course. Just ask Pat Larin. We can't answer it but it took 10 min. to get out of the trap.



Aug. 14th F.H. - "City police jump the gun on race relations training". It has been suggested that, possibly, city police should be working on relations at a local-level before taking on anything bigger...this from lady caller who questioned "what does one's birth-date have to do with anything" when making a legitimate noise complaint??... as well as being subjected to "rudeness" ???

Six brands of U.S. beer selling at cut rat ($4.70 vs $6.45 rate Cndn. domestic 6-pack)... sale runs to Sept. 11. Managers at local LCBO outlets have been "gagged"... while the press has been referred to "regional" offices for any information. This on the on-going fluctuations (ups & downs... it isn't only beer bubbles) of beer prices... another "taxing" move now, Mr. Nixon??

Congrat's to Jim & Kay Barlow on their 50th Anniversary.

Chico Ouellette and Brian Snyder are two local police officers who are participating in a 7 day run from Petawawa to North York, Toronto with proceeds going to the Special Olympics. Members of the Gloucester and Ottawa Police Forces are also participating in the event.

Impressive Ways To Brighten up the Bath

One of the most overlooked, yet least expensive rooms to redecorate is the bathroom. Drastic measures such as changing fixtures or adding a new window are not necessary in order to achieve a fresh new look. With a little time and imagination, any room can be given a facelift.

According to Singer Sewing Company, sewing offers the perfect solution to many costly decorating dilemmas. Sewing allows the flexibility to coordinate colors and patterns in ways that can tie together even the most problematic rooms.

Perhaps you've got a blue bathtub, beige fixtures and yellow walls. Tie your colors together with a new shower curtain, window treatment, and toilet seat cover. Almost any style shower and bathroom curtain can be made at home. Purchase a ready-made shower liner and your hard work will be protected.

Even popular pouf curtains can be made for both the window and tub valance. Purchase fabric in one of the endless colors and patterns available. A pattern of cabbage roses in soothing shades of yellow, blue and cream would dress up even the dreariest bath.

To inexpensively finish off the bathroom, sew a toilet seat cover, tissue box cover or create "designer-look" towels. Start with a good quality yellow or blue towel found on sale. Add lace or ribbons as inserts or edging. Another idea that only looks expensive is to monogram your towels.

The monogramming cartridge on the Ultra Unlimited sewing machine from Singer can help you create masterpieces in minutes. To prevent snagging the towels when monogramming, stitch over a disposable plastic film protector found in all sewing departments. Complete your monogram, tear and launder away the film, and voila, a designer-look towel.

THE HAUNTING OF HILL HOUSE

The second production of Glen Summer Theatre '89 will be presented August 17, 18, 19, 24, 25, 26. "The Haunting of Hill House", a suspense-drama by author F. Andrew Leslie will be presented "cabaret style" at The Glen building.

Director, Dave Barnes, is enthusiastic that our Cornwall audience will enjoy The Glen's challenge of producing a play a "little out of our norm". He says that the action takes place in Hill House, a brooding, isolated and inately forbidding mansion. The set is a windowless parlour and a small bedroom.

"Hill House" is cast by seven characteristic individuals ably portrayed by veteran actors Shirley Paquette, Marion Barnes and Dave King. Newcomers to The Glen stage are Maggie Dorey, Donna Marleau, Burl Miller and David Drane.

To explain the plot any further would take away from the production — you must see it for yourself. Please visit the mansion with us. Tickets are now available by calling 937-0043 and 933-1342 (between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

DISC NEWS

By Chris Wilson

J & B Disc Break in Cornwall is fast expanding its jazz section and is now carrying a number of specialist import CD labels of significant musical and audiophile interest.

The Hat Hut label from Switzerland features progressive jazz-fusion styles (if one can even tie this tag to identify bizarre instrumental combinations and equally bizarre CD titles).

Latest to arrive is a shipment of titles on the Three Blind Mice label from Japan. One must respect Japanese jazz just as much as Japanese technology judging from the results. The objective of the recording style is to put the musicians in your own living room but not to the extent that you feel crowded out or have to go down the road for a drink. The acoustic is such that there is a real live presence. This intimacy also extends to the way the musicians relate to each other and their playing styles.

Booklet notes to the discs are written in the Anglo-Japanese found in Christmas toy assembly instructions but there is nothing to fault in the German pressings and the microphoning of the CD's. Some of the discs are transfers from analogue masters used for the original vinyl versions. As the producer Takeshi "Tee" Fujii claims, "the often quoted coolness of the Compact Disc is completely lacking". Two inexpensive samplers are available covering most of the Three Blind Mice repertoire. Much of this is jazz staples such as Gershwin, Stella by Starlight, Fancy Lady. One particularly arresting disc is based on themes from the film classic Black Orpheus.

While on the subject of CD sound, some correspondence has appeared in the American Fanfare Magazine between David A. Pickett of Indiana University Recording Arts Department and Gunter Hermanns of Deutsche Grammophon. Consumers have complained that CD re-issues of Karajan recordings were not the same as the original vinyl versions. It is admitted that the originals had artificially contrived dynamic extremes. CG's digitalized, re-mastered recordings are all taken from the original masters and not from edited versions, so listeners are hearing new sounds for the first time — some good, some bad and some ugly. Proper use of tone and filter controls can gloss over the difference, but for many the new clarity is most welcome.

HIGHLAND GAMES

Former Broadcaster and Broadway Actress to Star in The Gin Game

Bill Luxton and Lorraine Bate Orr at Upper Canada Playhouse

UPPER CANADA PLAYHOUSE

Some of Ottawa's most talented theatre professionals will be in Cornwall in August to present Upper Canada Playhouse's final production of the 1989 season, "The Gin Game", a dramatic comedy by D.L. Coburn at Aultsville Hall in Cornwall, August 16 to September 3.

"The Gin Game", a Broadway hit from the late 70's, stars Bill Luxton as 'Weller' and Lorraine Bate Orr as 'Fonsia' and is directed by Janet Irwin. The play is set in a senior citizen's home and reveals the lives of Weller and Fonsia whose experiences and frustrations are exposed during a series of highly unlikely card games.

Audiences will remember Luxton from his talk show, 'Morning Magazine', on Ottawa's CJOH-TV. Luxton is also a talented actor, who has performed at the Ottawa Little Theatre and was last seen in the Class Action Theatre/Arts Court production of "Handy Dandy" in Ottawa.

Orr is making her Playhouse debut in "The Gin Game", but she has a very long list of credits, including the Broadway stage, Hollywood films, U.S.O. tours, summer stock, and even her own radio talk show in New York.

Orr has worked with Katherine Hepburn, Lillian Gish, Jo Cotton and many others. On her talk show, "anyone who was doing anything" was a guest in her living room, where the show was taped. Orr has recently returned to her native Ottawa.

Orr and Luxton appeared together last year in "Harvey" at the Ottawa Little Theatre. Luxton and Irwin recently worked together on "Handy Dandy".

Irwin is one of the area's busiest directors. A Cornwall native, she has worked in theatre as a director, dramaturge, writer, actor and teacher since 1976. Some of her credits include director of "Handy Dandy", dramaturge for "Sadly As I Tie My Shoes" at the National Arts Centre Atelier, and director of "This Is For You Anna" for the Manitoba Popular Theatre Alliance. Irwin returns to the Playhouse this summer, having directed past hits "Saltwater Moon" and "Hands of Healing".

Windows play vital role in interior, exterior design

In the past, windows were practically an afterthought in home construction and renovation. They were designed to be purely functional, separate the home's occupants from the outdoors and allow light to enter a room. Basically, windows kept the outdoors out.

Today, architects, builders and home owners are realizing the vital role windows can play in the functional and aesthetic beauty of a home.

Imagine planning a home around the windows and you'll begin to think of them in a different manner. When you start with the windows, they become one of the most important functional and decorative assets a home can have. Windows provide light, a relationship with the environment and an energy-efficient barrier. Windows not only let home owners look outside, they bring the outside into their home.

Pella® windows and doors refers to their complete array of window design services as the Windowscaping℠ plan. Pella Windowscaping design services show home owners how they can maximize the aesthetic beauty and functionality of the home.

With the great number of window styles and technologies available today, people can choose the most appropriate windows for their needs and create their own unique Windowscaping plan with the help of Pella professionals.

The window's expanding role

Architects, such as Frank Lloyd Wright and Ludwig Mies Van der Rohe, centered their design on windows. Windows unified a structure with its surroundings. By taking advantage of sunlight or an outside view, Wright in particular, used windows to bring "the outside in."

Today, windows are both functional and decorative. Windows are designed to provide maximum light, greater visibility and make important design statements.

A home's overall architectural style can be enhanced by varying the style, size and shape of the windows. Choosing from many styles and shapes allows consumers to play a major role in their home's interior and exterior design.

Advances in window glazing, in particular, have had a profound effect on the window market in recent years. Low-emissivity (or low-e) glass has improved the energy-efficiency of homes and businesses across the United States.

Consumers today—whether they're building a new home or renovating their current one—can choose from a wide variety of shapes and sizes to make a design statement about themselves and their homes.

USING WINDOWS AS THE PRIMARY DESIGN element and focal point of any home is referred to as Windowscaping℠ by Pella®. This process translates to designing with windows and "bringing the outside in."

Kryptongrams

Rosie Shuster says she wishes her father had kept all the post cards her cousin Joe Shuster sent to him. She said, "Joe (who created Superman with Jerry Siegel) once wrote, 'We're calling him Superman. We don't know whether to make the cape red and the legs blue, or his legs red and the cape blue.' Joe was my folk hero. He inspired me to have as wild an imagination as I could dare."
